"with all deceivableness of unrighteousness." 2 Thessalonians 2:9, 10. [This is a quotation from 2 Thes 2—which is the same evil power that wars against the saints and sets itself up in God's temple proclaiming itself to be God. How? By replacing God's design law with imperial law. This is the deceivableness of unrighteousness and the message we have for this time sets minds free, the eternal gospel about our Creator God!] His working is plainly revealed by the rapidly increasing darkness, the multitudinous errors, heresies, and delusions of these last days. Not only is Satan leading the world captive, but his deceptions are leavening the professed churches of our Lord Jesus Christ. The great apostasy will develop into darkness deep as midnight. To God's people it will be a night of trial, a night of weeping, a night of persecution for the truth's sake. But out of that night of darkness God's light will shine. {PK 717.1} [Light about what—about God Himself, His character and methods, which are magnified when we reject the imperial human law construct with its false penal substitutionary theology!]

He causes "the light to shine out of darkness." 2 Corinthians 4:6. When "the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep," "the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. And God said, Let there be light: and there was light." Genesis 1:2, 3. So in the night of spiritual darkness, God's word goes forth, "Let there be light." To His people He says, "Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee." Isaiah 60:1. {PK 717.2}

"Behold," says the Scripture, "the darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the people: but the Lord shall arise upon thee, and His glory shall be seen upon thee." Verse 2. Christ, the outshining of the Father's glory, came to the world as its light. He came to represent God to men... [And what did we learn about God in the life of Jesus? How many imperial rules did Jesus lay down? How many people did Jesus seek to punish, stone, imprison, persecute for breaking God's laws? Do we really learn about God in the life of Jesus, or have we rejected the truth Jesus revealed and replaced it with the Roman lie and teach Jesus came to be punished by His Father?] In the synagogue at Nazareth He said, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon Me, because He hath anointed Me to preach the gospel to the poor; He hath sent Me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord." Luke 4:18, 19. This was the work He commissioned His disciples to do. "Ye are the light of the world," He said. "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Matthew 5:14, 16... {PK 718.1} [Do we shed the light about God when we teach the penal legal views of God or are we spreading the darkness?]

Thus in the night of spiritual darkness God's glory is to shine forth through His church in lifting up the bowed down and comforting those that mourn. {PK 718.3}

All around us are heard the wails of a world's sorrow. On every hand are the needy and distressed. It is ours to aid in relieving and softening life's hardships and misery. The wants of the soul only the love of Christ can satisfy... {PK 719.1} [People are living in fear, guilt, shame, fear of rejection, fear of not being good enough, fear of failure and only the truth and love of God can heal and set them free. We must embrace the truth and love of God and let people know this truth and love and hearts will be transformed!]

There are many from whom hope has departed. Bring back the sunshine to them... {PK 719.2}

Light is a blessing, a universal blessing, pouring forth its treasures on a world unthankful, unholy, demoralized. So it is with the light of the Sun of Righteousness. The whole earth, wrapped as it is in the darkness of sin and sorrow and pain, is to be lighted with the knowledge of God's love. [What is the knowledge the world needs? It is the proper lists of rules, rituals, foods, dress, days of worship or is it the knowledge of God's love?] From no sect, rank, or class of people is the light shining from heaven's throne to be excluded... {PK 719.3}

Christ has made every provision that His church shall be a transformed body, illumined with the Light of the world, possessing the glory of Immanuel. It is His purpose that every Christian shall be surrounded with a spiritual atmosphere of light and peace. He desires that we shall reveal His own joy in our lives. {PK 720.1} [If Christ has made every provision that His church shall be transformed to reveal His character of love—why has this not happened? Has something gotten in the way? What? The imperial law lie, which corrupts every teaching and sews distrust and fear into hearts thereby obstructing the provisions of Christ from actually reaching the heart—because people don't actually trust God!]

"Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee." Isaiah 60:1. Christ is coming with power and great glory. He is coming with His own glory and with the glory of the Father. And the holy angels will attend Him on His way. While all the world is plunged in darkness, there will be light in every dwelling of the saints. They will catch the first light of His second appearing. The unsullied light will shine from His splendor, and Christ the Redeemer will be admired by all who have served Him. While the wicked flee, Christ's followers will rejoice in His presence. {PK 720.2} [Do you see the first light of His second coming—the light of the truth of God's character which must dawn upon us, upon our minds and hearts BEFORE we are prepared to see Him? This is the light that precedes His coming—do you see it?!?]

SABBATH

The Choices We Make—do we make the choice to embrace the truth about God as our Creator and His laws as design law, or to reject that view and cling to Satan's view that God runs His universe like sinful humans run our governments, on imperial law requiring judicial oversight and infliction of pain and suffering?

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, “We all know very well...” How can we know what the right choices are?

Here are some guidelines that improve healthy decision-making:

- Reason and evidence-based decisions over feeling-based decisions
 - Does that mean we ignore our feelings—no we seek to understand in light of evidence why we are having feelings. However, if we are uncomfortable with a decision, it is best to take time and reflect prayerfully before acting if there is not a clear unquestionable right course to take.
- Understanding design law, the protocols upon which life is constructed to operate
- Living in a state of communion with God in which the mind is constantly seeking God’s direction and guidance
- Differentiate between moral decisions and decisions that are not moral in nature
 - moral decisions are decisions that are actually right or wrong, in harmony with God’s design law or not, which if wrong are evil or sinfulness—acts of selfishness, breaking God’s law of love
 - non-moral decisions would be many of the decisions in life such as:
 - which toothpaste to use
 - which umbrella to buy
 - which neighborhood to live in
 - which car to drive
 - decisions that could be either moral or non-moral depending on the motive and reasons, include:
 - which job—if specifically called by God and says no (Jonah)
 - clothing—if promotes ungodly ideas or motives or is bought in order to primarily make self the center of attention
- Realize there is a difference between making mistakes and choosing evil
 - We want to avoid choosing evil—but it is not possible to grow, advance without making mistakes
 - If learning a musical instrument, math, or any subject, will mistakes be made? Are mistakes evil?
 - Is there a difference between making a math error in your check registry and accidentally over-drafting a check and purposely writing fraudulent checks?
 - Many people live in fear of making mistakes, feeling guilty for them as if they chose evil. But life is about choices and learning from choices. We need to give ourselves permission to reason, problem solve, make the best choice we can with the information we have and then evaluate the outcome and update the decision-making process.
- Grow in spiritual maturity (our method of determining what is right and wrong) so moral decision are made at level five and above
 - 1. Reward and Punishment

- 2. Market Place Exchange
- 3. Social Conformity
- 4. Law and Order
- 5. Love for others
- 6. Principle based living
- 7. Understanding friend of God
- Get more information about the decision
- Weigh pros and cons
- Get insight or guidance from people with experience
- Make a choice and reassess—the worst option in MOST but not all decisions is to make no decision, because then one never advances, but is stuck in life

Read second paragraph, “In every important decision we make...” Does our level of moral development impact how we understand God’s law and what it would mean to violate God’s law?

What about those who wanted to stone Jesus for healing on the Sabbath—didn’t they want to stone Him for breaking God’s law? Why did they think this?

Do we have any such problems today?

- Health care professionals who want to run a free clinic for the indigent on Sabbath are told by the businessmen sponsors that the funding will be pulled if they do this on the Sabbath—the health care professionals are operating at least at level five, perhaps at level 7, but the businessmen are at level four and believe it is wrong to break a rule as they understand it.

The last sentence says, “if we in faith and humility surrender our lives to Him, we can move ahead in faith on the choices we make.”

What do you think about this?

- Do you think that those people who burned to death in Waco with the Branch Davidians would have agreed with this? Would they have thought of themselves as having surrendered their lives to Jesus in faith? What about the decisions they made?
- What about those who sincerely unite with the state to pass laws to enforce their religious beliefs on others?
- If we don’t understand how God’s law functions, design law, and instead believe the lie of Satan that God’s law functions like human law, then we could easily move forward in faith to harm others. Consider Saul of Tarsus before Damascus road.

Consider this EGW quote:

Faith in a lie will not have a sanctifying influence upon the life or character. No error is truth, or can be made truth by repetition, or by faith in it. Sincerity will never save a soul from the consequences of believing an error. Without sincerity there is no true religion, but sincerity in a false religion will never save a man. [Why not? Isn't about the sincerity of the heart?] I may be perfectly sincere in following a wrong road, but that will not make it the right road, or bring me to the place I wished to reach. The Lord does not want us to have a blind credulity, and call that the faith that sanctifies. The truth is the principle that sanctifies, and therefore it becomes us to know what is truth. We must compare spiritual things with spiritual. We must prove all things, but hold fast only that which is good, that which bears the divine credentials, which lays before us the true motives and principles which should prompt us to action.--Letter 12, 1890. {2SM 56.1}

What is the point here?

We all have the freedom to believe as we choose, but not all beliefs are equally healthy—some beliefs are actually harmful—like God as the source of inflicted pain and suffering.

But, there are some beliefs that are inconsequential—i.e. may be wrong but don't really matter in the end, such as:

- Who the king of the north or the king of the south is
- Whether one does communion every weekend or once a quarter, or in church or in a home

The beliefs that matter are those that impact our view of God, His character, methods, principles, the nature of sin, the actual conditions necessary for our salvation, in other words—how reality works.

WEDNESDAY

Choosing a Life Partner

What would you recommend to young people?

Evaluate the trustworthiness of the person:

- Love you more than self
- Are mature (have self-governance)
- Have wisdom (understand God's methods—design law)

Here are 10 other actions you can take to obtain a healthy relationship:

1) First Be Healthy:

Healthy relationships require healthy people! Therefore, the number one action you can take to ensure a healthy marriage is to do all in your power, through God's grace, to be emotionally and spiritually healthy. Being emotionally and spiritually healthy changes the filters that are used when evaluating others. What you find attractive changes as you get healthier and more mature. Becoming healthy not only allows you to interact in healthy ways, but changes who you find attractive enough to date. In other words, a healthier person generally dates healthier people.

2) Be Honest:

Far too many people are so afraid of hurting someone's feelings that they fail to be honest. If your partner asks whether you like their new hairstyle, don't lie. If you don't like the hairstyle graciously, but honestly, let them know your preferences. If a certain meal is cooked and you don't particularly enjoy it, affirm them for the cooking, but be honest about your taste preferences. Why is this important? Because if you are graciously honest about the things you don't like, when you do tell your partner their hair looks great, or they looking amazing in that suit, or that meal was wonderful they will know you really mean it. But, if you always say you like everything, even when you don't, your affirmations will become meaningless and your partner will lose confidence in your ability to be truthful. It will also send a message that you think so poorly of your partner that you either don't trust them enough to handle the truth, or don't respect them enough to be truthful with them. Learning to be honest may have moments of disappointment, but over the long haul will result in a much healthier marriage with enhanced respect and more meaningful affirmations.

3) Be Yourself:

The only way you will know if the person you are dating genuinely likes you for who you are, and therefore meets that qualification, is to be yourself. Never pretend to be someone or something you're not. Don't try and figure out what the other person wants and act in ways to please them, simply be yourself and evaluate whether the person you are dating likes you, or instead tries to change you. If they try and change you simply say, "Thanks for letting me know you are not qualified to be with me," and move on!

4) Create a List of Non-Negotiable Qualifications for Your Life Partner:

Before dating, first identify the non-negotiable qualifications a person must possess in order to be qualified to be your life partner. These are qualities that if the person doesn't possess, would cause you to be dissatisfied and result in you trying to invest them with those qualities. For instance, if you are a Christian dating a non-Christian would you try to "convert" them? If so, being a Christian is a non-negotiable quality that you require in a life partner in order for you to be satisfied with them. If they don't possess this quality you will begin trying to change your spouse to "fit" your parameters. This generally never works. People are who they are. It is wiser to understand what qualities you demand of a life partner and then, when dating, evaluate whether the person possesses those qualities or not, than to marry someone without those qualities and spend your energy trying to change them to fit your expected mold.

One non-negotiable qualification for everyone is - your life partner must genuinely like you for who you are. If they don't like you for who you are then they are not qualified to be your life partner.

5) Agreement on Children and Child Rearing Principles:

I have had a number of couples come to see me who have experienced stress in their marriage because one spouse wanted children, while the other did not. Generally, if a person feels strongly one way or the other in regard to having children that attitude doesn't change after marriage. If disagreement exists, then one partner will necessarily be dissatisfied. This can lead to a great sense of loss at not having children, or irritation, or loss of love of the spouse. Either way, such a relationship is set up for resentment and conflict. Additionally, children in such homes often suffer in atmospheres where the parents are at odds with each other, and the children may be blamed for the marital discord. Also, unity in parenting practices reduces points of conflict and contributes to greater team work within the marriage.

6) Common Vision and Life Goals:

What is your vision for your life and family? Where do you want to live? Is your goal to become wealthy, raise a family, have pets, live on a farm, enjoy city living, be a missionary, own your own business, or be a church worker? If your life goals conflict with the life goals of your potential partner, then conflict could develop over whose life goals take priority. If both goals cannot be realized, then one partner will have to surrender their dreams/goals, which may generate disappointment, dissatisfaction, or resentment. A shared vision and goal allows spouses to work together as a team through life rather than, what can seem like, opposition to each other.

7) Shared Lifestyle:

Relationships grow as we share life experiences together. If we choose a life partner with whom we share little in common, and thus during the course of the marriage each partner does activities either alone or with someone other than their spouse, the marriage risks fracturing as the two slowly grow apart. Conversely, as life experiences are shared, these shared experiences continue to bond the partners together and grow the relationship into deeper levels of connectedness. Additionally, choose a partner who shares your style in diet, exercise, dress and health habits. If you enjoy a glass of wine with dinner but your potential spouse is a teetotaler, or you don't smoke but your future partner does, or you are vegetarian but your love interest enjoys meat, the future home life is at increased risk for long-term tension and conflict. This can be avoided by choosing a partner who shares your lifestyle.

8) Compatibility IQ:

Choose a life partner who has a compatible intelligence level, a person who can appreciate and comprehend what you think and the way you think. When a drastic disparity exists in intelligence, one risks becoming disinterested and slowly disengaging conversation, sharing ideas, and exploring insights because the other one "just doesn't understand." This often results in not feeling valued, appreciated or loved, which generates feelings of hurt and anger. Because we naturally seek to share our thoughts, insights, and ideas with others, when our spouse is incapable of understanding then another may be found with whom to talk, confide or share ideas, which can undermine the strength of the marriage and forge bonds with another.

9) Same Religion, Belief System or Philosophy of Life:

Our beliefs influence our habits, choices, and daily home routines. A committed Christian may want to go to church and raise their children with Bible stories and Christian education. Whereas, an agnostic, or non-committed Christian, may prefer to go to ball games, work around the house and not attend church on weekends, not have Bible stories in the home and not spend money on Christian education or donate to church charities. Such differences can be a source of conflict and strife in a marriage. Choosing someone who shares the same philosophy increases the likelihood of harmony in the home.

10) Have your prospective spouse meet your family and friends and get feedback from them:

During the dating process emotions generally are intense, deep and passionate. Oxytocin and dopamine are surging, which give us that giddy sense of pleasure, happiness and joy. However, these same changes in brain chemistry can interfere with objective thinking and ability to accurately assess a prospective life partner. One way to guard against overly emotional decision-making is to include the perspectives of people you know, love and trust, people who you know love you and have your best interest at heart. Hear their feedback, insights, concerns, or affirmations and then carefully evaluate their feedback in light of the evidence and act on the evidence.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “Some Christians believe...” Why do some prefer to believe this?

Because of fear—fear of making a mistake, fear of being guilty, fear of doing wrong, fear of being responsible. So, this view that God has predetermined exonerates people from any personal responsibility and places it all on God’s shoulders. They don’t have to engage any effort to overcome any selfishness in their lives, it is up to God, so why try.

What evidence do we have that this view is wrong?

- Quantum physics demonstrates what is called the observer effect, that a particle remains in a state of uncertainty until acted upon by the observer and it is the choice of the observer measuring it that determines what the particle does. This provides a physics evidence base for freedom to choose, our choices actually do make changes in the outcomes
- The law of liberty—love can only exist in an atmosphere of freedom, without genuine freedom of choice there can be no love. Computers cannot love and love cannot be forced by threats of punishment for not loving.

Read second paragraph, “Fortunately, as Seventh-day Adventists....” Does this mean that if God has chosen for all to be saved then all will be saved? Why or why not? Does this mean we can overrule God’s choices?

Read fourth paragraph, “The Lord does not force...” Well said!!!! And because this is true then all the doctrines of God using power to inflict pain, suffering and death for sin must be rejected. Does that mean there is no punishment for sin? No, it means that the punishment for sin doesn’t come out from God, but from unremedied sin. This is the big difference.

Satan wants beings to believe God is the source of pain and death, thus we become afraid of God and don’t trust Him. The truth is that pain and death come out from sin, from breaking God’s law, and God is the source of healing and life.

This is why the Bible says that the power of sin is the law—what does this mean? 1Cor 15:56 How do you explain it?

TUESDAY

Why does it matter who we choose as friends?

Do not be misled: “Bad company corrupts good character.” 1Cor 15:33 NIV84

Does this mean we should not interact with people who are not Christians?

No, but it requires a certain maturity of character to effectively share God’s kingdom with those who don’t know it. If we are insecure, fear rejection, need to be accepted by others, cannot tolerate it when people think we are weird or out of touch, then we are not mature enough to interact with those who don’t know God because we will be too easily influenced by their values in order to avoid conflict, argument, disagreement, being disliked, rejection.

What is required in order for someone to be an actual friend? That they love you and are interested in your welfare.

So many people who come to see me approach relationships from a fear, not love, their motive:

- fear of not being liked
- fear of rejection
- fear of being laughed at or making themselves look stupid
- fear of not being loved
- fear of not being good enough

And thus they seek to get approval, acceptance, validation, love from others in order to make them feel good about themselves. This, make them vulnerable to people who are also needy, insecure, and who seek to control others to make themselves feel powerful. Thus, they are easily manipulated with validations and threats of rejection.

A real friend will not pressure you to do things you don’t want to do, but will respect your boundaries.

THURSDAY

Choosing a course—what direction to go with life.

They have done evaluations of workers and found there are generally three types of workers:

Those whose jobs are:

- jobs—they work for the paycheck and weekends and are generally unhappy workers
- careers—they work for the promotion, corner office, advancement and are generally unhappy workers
- calling—these are fulfilling what they believed is the purpose of their lives and are generally happy workers

FRIDAY

Why do we have freewill today? Because of God's grace intervening in our hearts to negate the power of selfishness to give us freedom to choose.

Can we become enslaved to sin?

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Thank you to all of our supporters!!! We appreciate your prayers and financial support.

To let you know what is IN THE WORKS in addition to our weekly class:

- A weekly 15-minute radio show/podcast will start in April
- Audio version of the Remedy is in production, three quarters through and hope to have it by the end of April.
- MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

April 3-6, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Sophia Bulgaria.

May 10,11, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Barrie SDA Church, 140 Mapleton Ave Barrie, ON L4N 9N7 Canada

May 18, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be a speaker at the Love and Transformation Institute: The Epidemic Rise of Anxiety, Depression and Suicide at the Phoenix Seminary, in Scottsdale, AZ.

June 8, 2019: Dr. Jennings will present The Aging Brain Seminar at Mid Columbia Medical Center, in The Dalles, OR.

July 10, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the 3rd Global Health Conference, sponsored by the General Conference of SDA and held at Loma Linda University.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

January 17-19, 2020: Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. Dallas TX.

Family Seasons Lesson 3 2Q 2019

Preparing for Change

By Dr. Wendell Moses

Memory Text: “Righteousness will go before Him, and shall make His footsteps our pathway.”

Underlying premise of lesson: You can and should prepare for changes within the realm of family life.

Marriage, Parenting, Old Age, and Death

What do you think about when you hear the word preparing?

- Prepared?
- How can you prepare for change?
- When do you know that you are prepared for change?
 - After it happens and your position/attitude/status after the change happens.

Classification of Change:

- Expected
- Unexpected
- Inevitable
- Planned
- Unplanned
- Miraculous
- Real events, situations, etc
- Imagined, feared, suspected, etc
 - Y2K preparations for end of time

Which types of change do you do the best with? Which types of change do you do the worst with?

Is there a way of converting one type of change to another without engendering fear / apprehension?

Look up on Google for the word “preparedness books”

- 10 Must Have Survival & Preparedness Books
- Titles: Most of these are based on fear.

47 y.o. father with heart attack

Parents of child with rare genetic defect (1/30000)

The Bible as a case-book rather than a code-book

- Stories of how others who lived in different cultures and times than ours - coped with life, changes and expectations.

- How did Jesus & Disciples prepare for change:
 - Lack of scriptural references in “Heretical” podcast
 - Cultural, occupational, presence, Gentiles
 - Conflict sermon by Randy Roberts

Matthew 20:17 - 19 On the way to Jerusalem for the last time, Jesus in a private conversation, talks to the disciples as they walk along the road about His upcoming trial, persecution and death and subsequent resurrection.

- The very next story: vv 20 - 22 tells of the mother of James and John coming to Jesus asking Him for special position for her two sons.
- Matthew 20:20-22 (GNT with Deuterocanon) Then the wife of Zebedee came to Jesus with her two sons, bowed before him, and asked him for a favor. "What do you want?" Jesus asked her. She answered, "Promise me that these two sons of mine will sit at your right and your left when you are King." "You don't know what you are asking for," Jesus answered the sons. "Can you drink the cup of suffering that I am about to drink?" "We can," they answered.
 1. Six days later, both fled when the mob came to arrest Jesus.
 2. Why were they unprepared?
 - (1) wrong event happened
 - (2) sudden changes
 - (3) Sudden, unplanned, fear.
 - (4) self assessment was wrong.
- Smudged mirror may provide an inaccurate image.
 1. Hair messed up and couldn't be fixed.
- The Law through which you see the world, needs to have the correct orientation.
 1. Law of Love
 2. Law of selfishness
 3. Same event is seen by two groups at the end of time:
 - (1) one is fearful
 - (2) one group is ecstatic and joyful

Cultural Preparedness:

- Story of woman of Tyre and Sidon: Matthew 15:21 - 28
- “And they all learned their lesson and made friends with all the non-Jewish people and welcomed them into their homes.” ---- NO!
- Peter got into trouble with his fellow church members when he welcomed Cornelius messengers into a Jewish home and later ate with them.

Luke 14:25-33 (GNT) Once when large crowds of people were going along with Jesus, he turned and said to them, "Those who come to me cannot be my disciples unless they love me more than they love father and mother, wife and children, brothers and sisters, and themselves as well. Those who do not carry their own cross and come after me cannot be my disciples. If one of you is planning to build a tower, you sit down first and figure out what it will cost, to see if you have enough money to finish the job. If you don't, you will not be able to finish the tower after laying the foundation; and all who see what happened will make fun of you. 'You began to build but can't finish the job!' they will say. If a king goes out with ten thousand men to fight another king who comes against him with twenty thousand men, he will sit down first and decide if he is strong enough to face that other king. If he isn't, he will send messengers to meet the other king to ask for terms of peace while he is still a long way off. In the same way," concluded Jesus, "none of you can be my disciple unless you give up everything you have."

2 Corinthians 1:4 (NLT) He comforts us in all our troubles so that we can comfort others. When they are troubled, we will be able to give them the same comfort God has given us.

Preparedness for worship, communion, atonement:

- Matthew 5:23-24 (GNT) "So if you are about to offer your gift to God at the altar and there you remember that your brother has something against you, leave your gift there in front of the altar, go at once and make peace with your brother, and then come back and offer your gift to God."
- Why does this work?
- Does this also work in the family?
 - Why
- Preparation for the second coming:
 - 1 Thessalonians 5:1-7 (GNT with Deuterocanon) There is no need to write you, friends, about the times and occasions when these things will happen. For you yourselves know very well that the Day of the Lord will come as a thief comes at night. When people say, "Everything is quiet and safe," then suddenly destruction will hit them! It will come as suddenly as the pains that come upon a woman in labor, and people will not escape."
 - "But you, friends, are not in the darkness, and the Day should not take you by surprise like a thief. All of you are people who belong to the light, who belong to the day. We do not belong to the night or to the darkness. So then, we should not be sleeping like the others; we should be awake and sober. It is at night when people sleep; it is at night when they get drunk."
 - What is the reaction of your gut to the reading of these texts?
 - For many years this topic raised anxiety, fear, and dread in my mind.
 - 1. Why?
 - My wife has been in North Carolina taking care of some of life's details regarding her mother.
 - 1. I didn't know when she would be coming back

2. She said she would be coming back shortly
 3. The timetable was somewhat indicating her return was near.
 4. I was looking forward to it.
 5. I was not fearful
 6. I did little things that I thought she would appreciate upon her return.
 7. If truly I knew God as my friend (talked to him that way), looked at the signs of His coming as something pointing to something good, I need not be afraid.
 8. I tend to concentrate on the negative.
 9. I always need to remember that it is the Devil and not God that is the accuser of the brethren.
10. The Pharisees and the religious teachers so misrepresented the character of God that it was necessary for Christ to come to the world to represent the Father. Through the subtlety of Satan, men and women were led to charge upon God satanic attributes; but the Savior swept back the thick darkness which Satan had rolled before the throne of God in order that he might intercept the bright rays of mercy and love which came from God to us.... {FH 32.5}
11. In plain language the Savior taught the world that the tenderness, the compassion, the love that He manifested toward humanity, were the very attributes of His Father in heaven. Whatever doctrine of grace He presented, whatever promise of joy, whatever deed of love, whatever divine attraction He exhibited, had its source in the Father of all. In the person of Christ we behold the eternal God engaged in an enterprise of boundless mercy toward the fallen race.—Signs of the Times, August 20, 1894. {FH 32.7}

Unfortunately, I think the gist of the lesson is stated in a way of inducing uneasiness and bordering on fear.

- Fear of failure
- Fear of inadequate preparation
- Fear of the future.

Sabbath:

Read the last paragraph: “This week, let’s look at some of the changes that sooner or later, in one way or another, most of us face and how these changes can impact family life.”

SUNDAY

Unprepared

1 Corinthians 10: 1 - 13 ends with a promise

- God is faithful
- God protects us
- God is with us

EGW quote: “The greatest want of the world, is the want of men . . .”

Three failures: I wish it had ended with three successes

2 Timothy 1:12 (GNT) “But I am still full of confidence, because I know whom I have trusted, and I am sure that he is able to keep safe until that Day what he has entrusted to me.”

MONDAY:

Preparing for Marriage

- Texts given as criteria for a life partner candidate:
 - 1 Corinthians 13
 - Galatians 5:22, 23 (fruits of the Holy Spirit)
- Read the next paragraph: “Preparation for marriage must begin . . .”
- Last week Tim gave a good overview of criteria for a healthy relationship.
 - Go back to the PDF file for last week’s lesson for an overview.
- The process of selection:
 - Where do you look?
 1. I like to dumpster dive for “treasures”
 2. beginning to collect wood for wood turning from discards
 3. be careful for where you look
 - (1) the qualities of fine woodworking supplies and potential marriage partners are generally found in certain locations and not in others.
 - We need to prepare ourselves prior to looking for others.

TUESDAY:

Preparing for Parenting

How many are parents?

How were you prepared for the role / task?

Maturity of self is probably more important than other qualities.

Who do you take as an authority for your parenting plans and values.

- Patients parents amaze me with their goals, beliefs, values, expectations.

Read the last paragraph of the day’s lesson:

- “If before the birth of her child she is . . .”
- Autism
 - Epidemiology: Age of the father
 - Animal studies: Stress of the mother during pregnancy
 - Environmental exposures
 - Geography
 - Genetics

- Phthalates

WEDNESDAY:

Preparing for Old Age

Can you prepare for it? Or is it something that just happens?

Live the life that God gives you.

“If a man is called to be a street sweeper, he should sweep streets even as a Michaelangelo painted, or Beethoven composed music or Shakespeare wrote poetry. He should sweep streets so well that all the hosts of heaven and earth will pause to say, 'Here lived a great street sweeper who did his job well.'”

Here is where the model of 1 Corinthians 13 and Galatians 5:22,23 come into play.

- By beholding we become changed
 1. 2 Corinthians 3:18 (GNT) “All of us, then, reflect the glory of the Lord with uncovered faces; and that same glory, coming from the Lord, who is the Spirit, transforms us into his likeness in an ever greater degree of glory.”
- Romans 6:1-6 (GNT) “What shall we say, then? Should we continue to live in sin so that God's grace will increase? Certainly not! We have died to sin—how then can we go on living in it? For surely you know that when we were baptized into union with Christ Jesus, we were baptized into union with his death. By our baptism, then, we were buried with him and shared his death, in order that, just as Christ was raised from death by the glorious power of the Father, so also we might live a new life. For since we have become one with him in dying as he did, in the same way we shall be one with him by being raised to life as he was. And we know that our old being has been put to death with Christ on his cross, in order that the power of the sinful self might be destroyed, so that we should no longer be the slaves of sin.”
- If we make God our trust, we have it in our power to control the mind in these things. Through continued exercise, it will become strong to battle with internal foes, and to subdue self, until there is a complete transformation, and the passions, appetite, and will are brought into perfect subjection. Then there will be daily piety at home and abroad, and when we engage in labor for souls, a power will attend our efforts. The humble Christian will have seasons of devotion which are not spasmodic, fitful, or superstitious; but calm and tranquil, deep, constant, and earnest. The love of God, the practice of holiness, will be pleasant when there is a perfect surrender to God. {RH May 19, 1885, par. 3}
- But forgiveness has a broader meaning than many suppose. When God gives the promise that He “will abundantly pardon,” He adds, as if the meaning of that promise exceeded all that we could comprehend: “My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways My ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts.” Isaiah 55:7-9. God’s forgiveness is not merely a judicial act by which He sets us free from condemnation. It is not only forgiveness for sin, but reclaiming from sin. It is the outflow of redeeming love that transforms the heart. David had the true conception of forgiveness when he prayed, "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." Psalm 51:10. And again he says, "As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us." Psalm 103:12. {MB 114.1}

THURSDAY:

Preparing for Death

This page is infected with fear.

- Read the second paragraph: "Many times, of course, death comes. . ."

Hunter S. Thompson quotes Showing 1-30 of 688 "Life should not be a journey to the grave with the intention of arriving safely in a pretty and well preserved body, but rather to skid in broadside in a cloud of smoke, thoroughly used up, totally worn out, and loudly proclaiming "Wow! What a Ride!" — Hunter S. Thompson, The Proud Highway: Saga of a Desperate Southern Gentleman, 1955-1967

- He committed suicide at age 67
 - Many times (while in the emergency room) I have seen the effects of such choices
 - Hey Bubba, Hold my beer and watch this!
 - truly the 8 last words
 - We are witnesses of people who have tried to flaunt the laws of gravity, Newtons laws of motion, and the laws of good health.
- And yet. . . the Fear of Death is almost universal
 - Hebrews 2:14-15 (GNT) "Since the children, as he calls them, are people of flesh and blood, Jesus himself became like them and shared their human nature. He did this so that through his death he might destroy the Devil, who has the power over death, and in this way set free those who were slaves all their lives because of their fear of death."

1 Corinthians 15:24-26 (GNT) "Then the end will come; Christ will overcome all spiritual rulers, authorities, and powers, and will hand over the Kingdom to God the Father. For Christ must rule until God defeats all enemies and puts them under his feet. The last enemy to be defeated will be death."

Thanatopsis by William Cullen Bryant Last paragraph:

"So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan, which moves
To that mysterious realm, where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not, like the quarry-slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave,
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

“So Live . . .”

Read this paragraph at both my parents funerals.

Echos Pauls statement quoted earlier in our discussion:

- 2 Timothy 1:12 (GNT) “But I am still full of confidence, because I know whom I have trusted, and I am sure that he is able to keep safe until that Day what he has entrusted to me.”
- There are few of us who arrive like Moses whose eyes were not dim and his stamina not waned.

2Q 2019 Family Seasons Lesson 4 When Alone

by Lori Atkins

Before we start our study, we received this sad but incredibly moving email this week and I wanted to share it with you:

“My son, Reagan (24 y/o), died in a car accident on my wife's birthday, 3/22/2019. He was a 1st yr med student at the Washington State University School of Medicine and had just been accepted into the Air Force. He was on top of the world, and his trajectory was so exciting for all of us. The loss is horrifying and tragic, the pain is so heavy and unrelenting. But we have the peace that passes all understanding knowing that his knowledge of an unwavering God of love was sure and steadfast. He often talked of this God to his friends, he engaged me frequently on this topic as he knew how excited I was about this new freedom that I had been experiencing over the past few years. I have been on the journey through Dr. Jennings books, lectures, and lessons...and Reagan had caught the excitement. In his gym bag were both Could It Be This Simple and the God Shaped Heart, he was reading them both and talking about them to his friends. We thank God for this miracle of the soul that liberates and causes us to seek and love Him more. We are giving these books to those who will be attending the multiple memorial services over the next few weeks. We know that God will continue to touch lives and change hearts. Reagan's friend said of him at a recent memorial service at the medical school, ‘Reagan could love everyone because he knew how much he was loved by his God’. A true testimony of a life touched by a God of Love.

“I firmly believe that God had led me into the Truth of the Everlasting Gospel as presented by Dr. Jennings for this very moment in my life, the sudden loss of my son Reagan. My wife and I have celebrated in the glorious spirit of love and truth. Had this tragedy occurred 5 years ago, I shudder to think how I would have reacted. God is good all the time. He has prepared me, my wife, my marriage, my family (3 remaining siblings) for this! Hallelujah! Come quickly Lord Jesus. I will once again hold close my beautiful boy, presented to me by the God of Love who makes beauty of loss and grief.

Thank you so much,”
M. Lyndon Dieter, MD
(used with permission)

INTRODUCTION

So what comes to mind and how do you feel/react/respond when you think about “being alone”?

Discomfort? Bliss? Fear or panic? Freedom? Sadness? Maybe a combination of those?

You know a bunch of folks have never actually experienced being alone. How many of you have ever truly been alone? I was almost 40 years old before I ever really spent any time alone. Now I had these big, grandiose dreams of moving out on my own, so after my sophomore year in college I moved out of my parents’ home and to Orlando, where I rented my own apartment... got a big job at Florida Hospital. Impressive, right?

Well, hold your applause, because my mom came with me on the start of this little adventure - you know, just to make sure I got all situated and settled. I spent a total of 4 days in my own apartment...with my mom, until the night we came home to motels full of roaches so large that they stuck out both ends of the trap, and the roaches (or palmetto bugs, as they are affectionately referred to) that managed to avoid the hotels were flying around the room! That was a Friday night. The next day we went to Sabbath lunch at the home of my mom’s oldest and dearest friend. She was working at the hospital in North Carolina where I was born and brought me from the nursery so my mom could hold me for the first time, so I had known her for my entire life. She said, “oh, go get your stuff and you can stay with us until you find somewhere else to stay.” Well, needless to say, 3 years later I still lived there when I graduated from college, and did not move out until I got married soon after. It wasn’t until I got divorced in 2003 that I knew and experienced what it is like to truly spend time alone. I didn’t really like it - it was uncomfortable, it was too quiet, there were too few distractions. I experienced all the emotions I just asked you about - discomfort, peace and quiet, fear and panic, relief, sadness.

Saturday’s lesson starts with a rather horrific story about a young woman found dead in her apartment, which is a tragic enough story in itself, but the fact that she had been dead for over 10 years made it so much worse! How does that even happen in this age of constant contact and communication...it seems unimaginable, right?

What about the difference between being alone and being or feeling lonely...is there a difference? Are they mutually exclusive or can they even be juxtaposed? Can you actually feel lonelier when you are less alone (around more people)? How does that work?

And what about all this technology? We are supposed to be so much more connected, with innumerable ways to be contacted - so many that it is nearly impossible to go unplugged or off the grid. But, are we really more connected, are we really in closer communion with each other?

Is it possible for me to know everything about what's going on in your house, in your life, in your travels - at least what you decide to post and share on social media - to the point that I really feel like I know you - but not really know you or connect with you at all?

Have we traded in real, substantive companionship and connection and instead settle for this substitute of likes and emoji'd comments in our faux communities (now called "groups" or "pages")?

And are there consequences for that new norm?

Recent studies, conducted in 2018, show that there clearly are some consequences, and we are reaping them. Social science researchers define loneliness as the emotional state created when people have fewer social contacts and meaningful relationships than they would like — relationships that make them feel known and understood. Essentially, if you feel lonely, you are lonely by definition. One out of two Americans now falls into this category! How has social media and camera phones contributed to this epidemic?

In a recent study by Cigna of 20,000 people, about 47 percent of respondents reported often feeling alone or left out. Thirteen percent said there were zero people who knew them well.

The U.S. is not unique in this respect: Loneliness is reaching epidemic levels throughout the developed world.

Forty-one percent of Britons say the TV or a pet is their main source of company, and the U.K. has created a cabinet-level minister to deal with the problem of rampant loneliness.

A government study in Japan found that more than half a million people spent at least six months at home with no outside contact.

It is no accident that the US research study was performed by health insurance company, Cigna!

Former U.S. Surgeon General Vivek Murthy said, 'During my years caring for patients, the most common pathology I saw was not heart disease or diabetes, it was loneliness.'

And what health impacts does loneliness have? It makes people sick.

A 2010 study by Brigham Young University found that loneliness shortens a person's life by 15 years, about the same impact as being obese or smoking 15 cigarettes a day. Other studies have found connections between loneliness and a wide range of health problems, including increased risk for heart attacks, stroke, and cancer. Lonely people are more likely to suffer from insomnia, depression, and drug abuse. They are also more likely to suffer from more rapid cognitive decline in old age.” (<https://theweek.com/articles/815518/epidemic-loneliness>)

Any idea why loneliness is so destructive? Remember, this has nothing to do with physically being alone - I know many people who have partners and spouses and families around, but feel terribly alone.

We were designed to be in relationship - in true connection and communion with God and with others - the memory text from Genesis 2 says the “Lord saw it was not good that man should be alone...” But this week’s lesson looks at this issue of companionship, and relationship, and alone-ness during various phases of life that most of us have likely faced at one time or another...and many times not by choice.

Upon coming up out of the water, Jesus bowed in prayer on the river bank. A new and important era was opening before Him. He was now, upon a wider stage, entering on the conflict of His life. Though He was the Prince of Peace, His coming must be as the unsheathing of a sword. The kingdom He had come to establish was the opposite of that which the Jews desired. He who was the foundation of the ritual and economy of Israel would be looked upon as its enemy and destroyer. He who had proclaimed the law upon Sinai would be condemned as a transgressor. He who had come to break the power of Satan would be denounced as Beelzebub. No one upon earth had understood Him, and during His ministry He must still walk alone. Throughout His life His mother and His brothers did not comprehend His mission. Even His disciples did not understand Him. He had dwelt in eternal light, as one with God, but His life on earth must be spent in solitude. Alone He must tread the path; alone He must bear the burden. Upon Him who had laid off His glory and accepted the weakness of humanity the redemption of the world must rest. He saw and felt it all, but His purpose remained steadfast. Upon His arm depended the salvation of the fallen race, and He reached out His hand to grasp the hand of Omnipotent Love. – {DA 111.5}

SUNDAY

Companionship

We are asked what are the basic ideas or principles of life being discussed in Ecclesiastes 4:9-12?

“Two are better than one, because they have a good return for their labor: If either of them falls down, one can help the other up. But pity anyone who falls and has no one to help them up. Also, if two lie down together, they will keep warm. But how can one keep warm alone? Though one may be overpowered, two can defend themselves. A cord of three strands is not quickly broken.”

How many of us here can testify to this concept? Even introverts, who don't mind being alone—maybe even crave it at times—we still want and need companionship and connection and community.

My precious family - both by DNA and adoption - and my dear friends - who might as well be family - have literally saved my life...more than once!

Indeed we were made for companionship, designed for fellowship with other humans. We know this by looking at the example of Adam - he walked and talked with God, and was able to draw comfort from that close relationship. But the closeness of God to Adam in Eden didn't stop the Lord from saying, “It is not good that man should be alone.” He knew that even with intimate fellowship with God in a world undamaged by sin, Adam still needed human companionship...so how much more must we?

Sadly, there are people in our church, in this class, where we work, where we live, who may have no one to turn to, no one to help them up when they fall down, and who may be longing for that companionship and connection.

You have heard of the acronym TGIF, right? (not the restaurant) But have you heard of TGIM? The quarterly quotes an unmarried man who says, “The hardest day for me is Sunday. During the week, I am surrounded by people at work, on Sabbath I see people at church. But on Sunday, I am all alone.”

TGIM - thank goodness it's Monday - is a well-known phrase among the singles crowd. Again, we cannot assume that just because there are a lot of people around, that a person cannot be lonely. Some of the loneliest peeps live in big cities and have multiple interactions with others, but still feel alone, isolated, and in need of true connection.

Keep cheerful. Do not forget that you have a Comforter, the Holy Spirit, which Christ has appointed. You are never alone. If you will listen to the voice that now speaks to you, if you will respond without delay to the knocking at the door of your heart, “Come in, Lord Jesus, that I may sup with Thee, and Thee with me,” the heavenly Guest will enter. When this element, which is all divine, abides with you, there is peace and rest. – {AH 350.3}

MONDAY

The Unmarried Life

More precisely, The Never Married Life, and the second paragraph says, “Most people think that being married is God’s will for them” - primarily because of our memory text from Genesis 2. Do you think that most people believe that? And is it God’s will that people be married?

I believe it is God’s will that His people be healed and restored and transformed back into Christlikeness...and there may be situations - in the bounds of a healthy marriage relationship - where that can happen more effectively and efficiently, and be beneficial to both individuals and their children and their families, etc.

But there are other situations where healing and restoration can be obstructed and sabotaged by an unhealthy relationship or a dysfunctional marriage. Is it necessarily God’s will for that person to be married? Now don’t get me wrong, God can certainly save, heal, and restore marriages and relationships - it’s what He does - but if he has to choose between saving you (and your spouse), and saving your marriage, I believe He will choose you.

The quarterly refers to 1 Cor 7:25-34 and asks us to discuss the good reasons Paul gives for remaining unmarried (from The Remedy):

“Regarding those who are single, I have not been given any direction from the Lord, but will share my personal opinion as one who—by the Lord’s mercy—has your best interest at heart and is therefore trustworthy: Because of the present crisis the church is facing, it is my opinion that it would be best for you to remain as you are. If you are married, do not seek a divorce; and if you are single—don’t look for a spouse. If you do marry, you have not sinned, but marriage brings many new stressors and responsibilities (such as children); [those of you who are or have been married...does marriage bring many new stressors and responsibilities?] and given the current crisis the church is facing, I want to spare you as many problems as possible. What I want you to understand is that we have a mission, and the time to complete it is limited, so don’t let your spouse distract you from fulfilling God’s purpose for your life—don’t get stuck in grief, but realize that when we have fulfilled our mission, Christ will return and grief will turn to joy. If you are happy in this world, then open your eyes to God’s reality and become unhappy with the world; use your resources to fulfill God’s mission—not indulge self—and don't get engrossed or preoccupied with the world's entertainment, politics or agendas, because the world as we know it will soon be gone. I want you to be free from the worries, stresses and anxieties of this world, so that you can be most effective in God's cause. A single man can focus all his energies on fulfilling the Lord's work, but a married man has responsibilities to his wife and family, and his energies are divided. An unmarried woman can focus all her energies on fulfilling the Lord's work and devote her entire self to God's cause, but a married woman has responsibilities to her husband and family. I am not placing any restrictions upon you, but sharing this wisdom for your good, so that you may decide how to live your lives completely devoted to the Lord.”

All too often the story of Adam and Eve is reduced to a commentary on marriage.

The aspect of being alone contained in that story is relegated exclusively to the singleness of unmarried life...but, and get your mind around this, Eve's creation did not solve a singleness problem...it solved a human aloneness problem.

Eve was not only a wife; she was a friend, coworker, spiritual companion, and the locus of Adam's social life - as he was to hers.

These facts should be encouraging for those who are not married. Many single folks have been burdened by the divine proclamation in our memory text that “it is not good for man to be alone,” and have seen it as a virtual condemnation of single life...but this is simply not true. We can be single and yet not alone, because of the human presence of family, friends, and the people we live with, work with, and go to church with.

At all times and in all places, in all sorrows and in all afflictions, when the outlook seems dark and the future perplexing, and we feel helpless and alone, the Comforter will be sent in answer to the prayer of faith. Circumstances may separate us from every earthly friend; but no circumstance, no distance, can separate us from the heavenly Comforter. Wherever we are, wherever we may go, He is always at our right hand to support, sustain, uphold, and cheer.—
DA, 669-670

What about the urge, the impulse, the drive for self-sufficiency that comes from being single/unmarried. Is needing help from others a sign of weakness?

Is there a prize at the end of this life contest for those who asked for help the least?

How to guard against the inherent selfishness and self-focus that comes from being alone or by yourself?

TUESDAY

When A Marriage Ends

The lesson suggests that the phrase “dysfunctional family” is basically redundant since every family is, to some degree, dysfunctional...and isn't that the truth? It also mentions the degree to which the family has been attacked, and has in many ways borne the brunt of the devastating consequences of this earthly infection of fear and selfishness.

Besides death, one of the toughest things a family can experience is divorce...I'm guessing that any of you who have experienced it, like I have, can certainly confirm that to be true. In fact, in many ways it is a sort of death and produces that wide range - the entire gamut of emotions - from shock to sadness and grief, to anger, to guilt and shame, to relief, to fear and anxiety.

So many things to fear - the unknown/unfamiliar, financial worries, the potential harm/damage to children, impact on salvation...and many do also experience periods of depression and, of course, loneliness.

The verses listed in the middle of Tuesday's lesson are the main references to divorce in all of scripture (there are a couple more in Exodus and Deuteronomy...and there are parallels of the Matthew texts in Mark as well), and the lesson asks “what broad principles concerning divorce can we gather from the following verses”?

I help to facilitate a Life After Divorce study group, where we delve deeply into these 5 texts. But for this class, what is the most common response we hear when asked “how does God feel about divorce?”

Of course, God hates divorce...and why does he hate divorce? Because He hates all deviations from His perfect design.

Why did divorce get singled out so specifically? We have to remember, this whole Great Controversy is not about us...but we have a critical role to play - we are key evidence, we were designed to be Exhibit A, Exhibit B. God created humans in His image so that they could reveal truth about Himself. He designed marriage to demonstrate God-like love. Divorce is the outworking of selfishness, and it occurs when love breaks down and hearts harden. Because divorce results in pain and injury to His children, God hates divorce.

However, what God detests even more than divorce is the destruction and eternal loss of His children. Marriages that perpetually violate love and liberty are gross counterfeits of the benevolent principles of God's character. Such marriages masquerade as bastions of love, while misrepresenting Him and destroying both husband and wife.

The 3rd and 4th paragraph in Tuesday's lesson are quotes from The Seventh-Day Adventist Church Manual, and the last sentence in paragraph 3 states,

“When a couple's marriage is in danger of breaking down, every effort should be made by the partners and those in the church or family who minister to them to bring about their reconciliation in harmony with divine principles for restoring wounded relationships.”

What divine principles might those be? The Law of Love? The Law of Liberty?

In chapter 6 of Dr. Jennings' book, Could It Be This Simple, regarding Shadow People, there is a section called Marriage and the Law of Liberty.

“Unfortunately, many good people suffer ignorantly within marriages that cruelly violate the laws of love and liberty, believing they are required to stay in such destructive situations. But God has never required this. His purpose for us has only and always been our healing and restoration. Therefore, He desires our separation from everything that interferes with His working in our lives...Marriage relationships that cause or allow freedom, individuality, and autonomy to erode will result in the destruction of the image of God within. And if freedom is not restored, one's fitness for heaven will be ruined. It is one of Satan's most subtle traps. When love and freedom cannot be restored within the marriage; when staying in the marriage results in individuals being so dominated and controlled that it erases their individuality and autonomy, then they have a God-given responsibility to extricate themselves from such destructive relationships.”

I have been telling you that God understands you...he gets you...but he is unable to identify or relate to your broken marriage, right? Wrong. He does!

Jeremiah 3:6-10 tells the story of God's divorce from the Israelites. He loved Israel, He proposed to Israel, He made vows and entered into a covenanted relationship with them. But, repeatedly in the Old Testament, God talks about the Israelites' adultery against Him...and because of her waywardness and unfaithfulness to Him, God declares in Jeremiah 3:8 that He gave Israel a “certificate of divorce.”...and He hated it, and it broke His heart. I’m telling you, He gets it.

WEDNESDAY

Death and Loneliness

For now, this side of heaven, death is a reality for all of us - and all our relationships, including marriage, will eventually end in death. And as we know, death was never part of God’s design for life - we were created to live forever. We have become used to death, we just take it for granted - it’s inevitable. But, we still struggle to make sense of it.

I guarantee you the Dieter family is trying desperately to make sense of Reagan’s death, and many times we just can’t. Sooner or later, we all get to face the reality of our own mortality, as well as the loss of loved ones, and maybe even our closest companion or spouse.

These seasons of hurt or alone-ness are identified with and empathized with and felt by our lord and savior - surely He has borne our griefs, He feels our pain, and He understands loss and loneliness.

How do we help people in our orbits who may be suffering with the devastating pain and aloneness of losing a spouse or loved one?

With the consecrated worker for God, in whatever place he may be, the Holy Spirit abides. The words spoken to the disciples are spoken also to us. The Comforter is ours as well as theirs. The Spirit furnishes the strength that sustains striving, wrestling souls in every emergency, amidst the hatred of the world, and the realization of their own failures and mistakes. In sorrow and affliction, when the outlook seems dark and the future perplexing, and we feel helpless and alone,—these are the times when, in answer to the prayer of faith, the Holy Spirit brings comfort to the heart. (AA 51.1)

The children of God are not left alone and defenseless. Prayer moves the arm of Omnipotence. Prayer has “subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the violence of fire”...If we surrender our lives to His service, we can never be placed in a position for which God has not made provision. Whatever may be our situation, we have a Guide to direct our way; whatever our perplexities, we have a sure Counselor; whatever our sorrow, bereavement, or loneliness, we have a sympathizing Friend. If in our ignorance we make missteps, Christ does not leave us. His voice, clear and distinct, is heard saying, “I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life.” Not one sincere prayer is lost. Amid the anthems of the celestial choir, God hears the cries of the weakest human being. We pour out our heart's desire in our closets, we breathe a prayer as we walk by the way, and our words reach the throne of the Monarch of the universe. They may be inaudible to any human ear, but they cannot die away into silence, nor can they be lost through the activities of business that are going on. Nothing can drown the soul's desire. It rises above the din of the street, above the confusion of the multitude, to the heavenly courts. It is God to whom we are speaking, and our prayer is heard. – {COL 174.1}

THURSDAY

Spiritually Single

This was a new term for me. It's used to describe folks who are married, but their spouses have different beliefs/practices, so they end up coming to church alone or with just the kids, attending potluck alone, going to social activities alone, because the spouse can't or won't participate. They feel alone and maybe left out of "family" ministries, maybe they can't contribute financially as they'd like to, and they may feel spiritually like a widow or widower. How can we reach out to these folks?

Conclusion

When the Lord approached Adam and Eve after their sin, they did one of the most disappointing yet profound actions in Scripture: they "hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God."

Sin created a self-damaging condition: a desire to live alone without God. But He is not easily deterred, and the prophetic pleas of the Hebrew prophets testify to that fact. God culminated His pursuit of lost humanity with the Incarnation of His Son Immanuel, God with us. The Incarnation echos the Eden account.

As sin is ravaging the world, God sees that it is "not good" for man to "be alone" or apart from Him; so He sends a "helper", one "corresponding to" Him. The word for "helper" in the Genesis Septuagint is the same word used in Hebrews 13:6: "The Lord is my helper."

But instead of succumbing to the temptation and drive to save self, Jesus loved completely to the point of death, so that one day we could all hear a "great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God, never to be alone again.

The Saviour would have passed through the agony of Calvary that one might be saved in His kingdom. He will never abandon one for whom He has died. Unless His followers choose to leave Him, He will hold them fast.

Through all our trials we have a never-failing Helper. He does not leave us alone to struggle with temptation, to battle with evil, and be finally crushed with burdens and sorrow. Though now He is hidden from mortal sight, the ear of faith can hear His voice saying, Fear not; I am with you. “I am He that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive forevermore.” Revelation 1:18.

I have endured your sorrows, experienced your struggles, encountered your temptations. I know your tears; I also have wept. The griefs that lie too deep to be breathed into any human ear, I know. Think not that you are desolate and forsaken. Though your pain touch no responsive chord in any heart on earth, look unto Me, and live.

Family Seasons Lesson 5 2Q 2019

Wise Words for Families

by Tim Jennings (announcements at end)

What a joy and privilege for Christie and I to share this message and see so many hearts moved, the tears in people's eyes, the freedom from fear so many people told us they now experience and how incredible this truth about God is.

One lady came up, with the Bulgarian version of CIBTS in her hand and pointing to the word "Biblical" said, "Whenever I see the word Bible on something I never read it. But after your lecture I am going to read this."

One of the translators who translated my talk, The Science of Belief and then translated about an hour of Q&A afterward said, "I am an agnostic, but I really like the God you presented here."

One little girl brought me this handmade card. Another lady brought me this picture of Jesus she had drawn. Others brought flowers, which we could not bring back, but very much appreciated. The love of God was poured out and hearts were being healed.

Thank you for all of you who support this ministry, you make this possible!

The New Paradigm pamphlets are being shipped out and if you have read it and like it and would like more to share in your local community, please email us and we will ship them anywhere in the US for free. Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand should be available soon.

Has anyone had any feedback from those who have read this pamphlet that they would like to share with the class?

David Siebert an online listener from South Africa, sent in this insight from EGW found in 15 MR 58.2:

There are those who suppose that they are set to guard the actions of their brethren and sisters, and if these souls step out of the line that they have marked out, they think that they must put on the restricting line. Oh, what a farce this is! Such a course is not after God's order. He invites, "In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths." Let no human agency seek to outline the duty of his fellows, or to force his opinions upon another, lest he get in the way of the Lord's counsel. - 15MR 58.2

SABBATH

Read second paragraph, “Whatever our situation...” They quote Proverbs 1:8, “My son, hear the instruction of your father, And do not forsake the law of your mother” —this sounds like guidance to a child who has reached the age in which they can think for themselves. If so, is this a Bible Proverb that is supposed to be applied to all people, or is it specific for this one son?

Does it matter who the parents are as to whether a child should follow the instructions of the parents?

If a parent teaches their child lies or destructive principles should the child follow those principles?

So, at some point, are people to think for themselves or merely follow what their parents have taught them?

What are the keys to a godly life?

- John 17:3 knowing God
- John 8:32 the truth—what truth, would it be the truth about God and His kingdom of love?
- Ps 119:165 “Great peace have they who love your law, and nothing can make them stumble.”
 - Would knowing and loving God’s law be a key?
 - What if we substitute God’s law for man’s law?
 - And what type of law is God’s law?
 - What type of law is man’s law?
 - So what happens if we teach that God’s law functions like man’s law, a system of rules that requires legal accountability and imposed punishments? Is there any wonder that Christianity has failed thus far to prepare the world for Christ’s return?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “The godly person...” What is the problem with committing adultery? The lesson suggests the problem is that we must answer to God—is that the problem?

What does the idea that the problem is that we must answer to God reveal? In other words, why would the lesson say that we must answer to God for committing adultery—what is the underlying belief that would cause them to say this?

Would it be the idea that God’s law functions like human law and God is the ultimate law-enforcer of the universe?

And if this were how things worked, that sin is breaking rules and gets us in trouble with God and one day we must answer to Him, then what is the solution for sin? To get some legal adjustment by some method—to get the enforcer to pardon or forgive.

This leads to questions like the one I got from a Christian high school student:

If God will forgive you then why can't you have sex before marriage?

Where does this question place the problem with sin? The problem is not in the sin, the problem in this false view is what God will do to you.

It is like asking, "If your father will forgive you for smoking two packs a day what is wrong with smoking cigarettes?"

It is all based on Satan's lie about God's law and it exactly what we get with the way Christianity has been taught for over 1000 years. This is what Paul prophesied to Timothy about, that at the end of time there would be all this terrible behavior but with a form of godliness without any power to change lives.

What is the truth? God's law is design law and what happens to the person who commits adultery? Do they have more peace, more happiness, more contentment, more love, or do they have more fear, more worry, more distrust of others, do they sear their own conscience and harden their hearts—unless they repent and are healed by God?

Does God have to do anything to them to injure them for their adultery?

But is adultery or sexual sin the worst of sins?

I read this in a book Steps to Christ:

God does not regard all sins as of equal magnitude; there are degrees of guilt in His estimation, as well as in that of man; but however trifling this or that wrong act may seem in the eyes of men, no sin is small in the sight of God. Man's judgment is partial, imperfect; but God estimates all things as they really are. The drunkard is despised and is told that his sin will exclude him from heaven; while pride, selfishness, and covetousness too often go unrebuked. But these are sins that are especially offensive to God; for they are contrary to the benevolence of His character, to that unselfish love which is the very atmosphere of the unfallen universe. He who falls into some of the grosser sins may feel a sense of his shame and poverty and his need of the grace of Christ; but pride feels no need, and so it closes the heart against Christ and the infinite blessings He came to give. {SC 30.1}

What does this mean?

Does this mean there are sins that are unimportant? No! why? Because all sin damages the sinner. If all sins are damaging, why are some more serious than others? Because of the impact the sin has on the person—the sins which more quickly damage the ability to respond to the Holy Spirit—which impair the ability to be aware of how one is out of harmony with God and His law of life are the most serious. The sins of the physical pleasures often cause guilt, shame, and problems in this life which alert the person that something is wrong and increases the opportunity to repent and seek help. But the sin of pride often leads to self-sufficiency and success in this world and interfere with the ability to realize how the heart is infected with selfishness.

This is why leprosy was a metaphor for sin because leprosy damages the ability to feel pain so one doesn't even realize they are being injured.

What is it about sexual sin and adultery that is so damaging and why does Satan attack us in this way?

This aspect of our being is designed by God for the greatest level of bonding and unity possible. Adultery is a breach of trust and causes terrible internal guilt, shame, self-recrimination that if not repented of results in hardening the heart and destruction of godliness and love.

Sexual promiscuity damages the ability of persons to enter into the deepest levels of intimacy, bonding, and unity and thus causes emotional isolation, increases fear, insecurity and divisions.

Satan is a divider and does not want unity of love and thus attacks humanity in all areas where unity is a godly experience in order to introduce discord and selfishness.

So why is adultery and sexual wrong? Is it because we will have to answer to God and God will use His power to punish or that it breaks God's design and causes pain, suffering and the destruction of one's soul if not healed by God?

Proverbs says:

For a man's ways are in full view of the Lord, and he examines all his paths. The evil deeds of a wicked man ensnare him; the cords of his sin hold him fast. He will die for lack of discipline, led astray by his own great folly. Prov 5:21-23

What do you hear? Do you hear God causing pain and suffering and death for punishment of sin? Why do the wicked die? Because the wicked are ensnared by their own choices and die as a result of their own actions. Galatians 6:8 the one who sows to the carnal nature from that nature reaps destruction.

Read last paragraph, "In the human fallen condition..." Is sexual sin an unpardonable sin?

- Judah visited prostitutes
- David and Bathsheba
- Solomon with 700 wives 300 concubines
- Many of the Patriarchs practiced polygamy
- Simon the Pharisee and Mary Magdalene

Simon had led into sin the woman he now despised. She had been deeply wronged by him. By the two debtors of the parable, Simon and the woman were represented. Jesus did not design to teach that different degrees of obligation should be felt by the two persons, for each owed a debt of gratitude that never could be repaid. But Simon felt himself more righteous than Mary, and Jesus desired him to see how great his guilt really was. He would show him that his sin was greater than hers, as much greater as a debt of five hundred pence exceeds a debt of fifty pence. {DA 566.5}

Is the sexual instinct, desire or longing, sin? No, it is a God designed desire. So, it is not wrong to feel sexual desire.

What has Satan done to exploit this desire? He has changed our understanding of reality. He has obscured people's view or understanding of sin, by replacing the truth about God's law, so people think it is merely rule breaking and not violations of how life and health work.

Also, it is not merely sexual desire that leads many into sexual sin, but often emotional emptiness, loneliness and fear of rejection—a longing to find love and substituting sex for genuine love. I think this is one of the greatest deceptions that leads to sexual sin of all—that sex is substituted for a genuine trusting love relationship before sex.

It is like many people who seek happiness, which is a by-product of healthiness, but instead of seeking healthiness people substitute pleasure seeking.

Additionally, 1 out of 3 women are sexually assaulted or exploited in some way before the age of 20. Such assaults can alter a person's developing sense of self and if not healed properly result in acting out behaviors based on internalized lies from the abuse. Such lies as:

- I am ugly
- I am dirty
- I am worthless
- I am ruined

Such ideas create greater sense of insecurity and fear of rejection and longing to be validated by others, which leads to greater fear of saying no when people try to take advantage. This can lead to many sexual encounters merely trying to make themselves feel loved. But it is all driven by unhealed wounds of the past.

On my trip this past week I read a fictional book entitled Dawn of Wonder by Jonathan Renshaw, which had a very interesting scene I want to share with the class about past trauma. The book is set in a fantasy world similar to our own but with different names of places. The main character, Aedan, was raised by an abusive father who beat his mother and when Aedan tried to intervene was himself severely beaten, and from that point on was repeatedly abused verbally and physically by his father, until at age 12 he left home to enroll into an academy to train marshals. Aedan's past abuse caused him shame, terrible fear and insecurity that, at times of confrontation, caused him to freeze and be unable to act to help his friends, compounding his self-loathing. Near the end of the book he finds himself in a situation in which he and a teen female friend are about to be attacked by a brutal murderer. Aedan wants to act but is paralyzed by fear and then he suddenly has a life changing experience. As I pick up the story see if you can see in this story any elements of God's plan to cleanse us from sin and heal our wounds? Do you see obstacles in this description to our healing and do you see anything that could apply to the cleansing of the sanctuary and the investigative judgment?

This was it then. All his life had been for nothing, for waste. Like arrows raining down in a thick and deadly hail, sharp thoughts began to run him through with such speed that everything else turned to a nightmarish stillness. He had failed. Failed Kalry. Failed Liru. Failed Peashot, Hadley, Osric. He had shamed himself and disgusted all who had supported him. Perhaps it was right that it should end here. He had caused enough ruin. Shaft after shaft pierced his mind—shafts that quivered and rang and screamed of pitiful failure and utter worthlessness. What was the point of living when he would continue to fail those who leaned on him?

Then, from within, another thought rose into the chaos of his hammering, shaking mind, a thought that stood out with icy clarity. He knew where the blame lay. His father. His father had planted the weakness in his bones that had caused him to wilt before Dresbourn, before Iver, before the Fenn, and now before Rork. It had meant injury not only to him, but to those he cared about.

Aedan's long-brewed, potent swill of violent resentment bubbled up inside him, turning his vision black. He would hate his father forever. Even in the grave. This hate was the one thing that couldn't be taken from him, the only thing left to him.

A faint, choking sob tugged at his ear, did not hear it, because everything suddenly disappeared. It was like being struck through by solid light. Heat built up in his chest until it seemed it would burn him to cinders, but instead it worked on him like the warmth of the morning sun. Power was crackling and sparking around.

Then he heard a voice that was the roar of thunder and the gurgle of a stream, a voice as old as the sky but filled with the lightness of a child's laughter. "Aedan," it said. And in that one word there was enough to make his heart burst. He was already on his knees, and he was glad of it. He could not understand what was happening, but he wanted to kneel before the one who spoke with this voice.

A warm, singing wind rose up and as it blew, the statue, Kultûhm, DinEilan, Vallendal—they misted and dwindled away until they were gone. Around him was starlight. His feet touched the ground, but it was like standing on clear ice, for stars glittered far beneath him too. The singing began to build, a growing, thrilling exultation that all but seared him with its beauty. Then it was as if a shroud made of stars was dropped. At first he could see nothing but the brilliance of pure, solid light pouring down around him.

When his vision cleared a little, he found himself before a great throne. It was not just a chair—it was more like a mountain before which even the heights of DinEilan would have been dwarfed. The upper reaches rose among the stars, lost to his eyes. Then, like an eruption of all the lightning ever to burn the skies, the throne was filled, and Aedan immediately dropped his eyes before one who was simply beyond the limits of sight or comprehension. The radiance was overwhelming. And in that untainted light, there was no hiding.

Of all the times he had found himself where he did not belong, none came anywhere close to this. Never had he fallen so far short of the requirements for entry, yet here he stood, and there was no bluff, no excuse, no argument he could make for himself that would hold up in this place.

Until now, he had always thought of himself as good and noble of heart. Yes, there had been some wrong choices, but it was an unasked-for history that had forced him into those paths. Those choices were his father's doing, his father's fault. He was damaged, not guilty.

He had loathed himself at times when seeing the warped changes taking place, but how could he blame himself? Measured against his father or any of the other tyrants he had known, it was obvious that he was on the better side of the line. Reasoning this way, he had always felt justified. Aside from a few smudges, his soul was clean.

But now, instead of being compared against dirt, he was searched by the radiance of utter purity. He gasped at what was revealed. He stood as a hog dripping filth, a hog that had somehow slipped into the royal throne room, blinking and stinking, and realising for the first time that there was a measure as high above the ways of the sty as life is above death. What answer could he make?

As he lowered his gaze, he saw that he was holding a deep cauldron. When he looked inside he almost vomited. He did not need to be told what it contained. It was the vile mixture of all the hatred stored and brewed for his father, the debt he had kept, that he intended to settle. It was his treasure.

"Kneel," the voice said, shaking the ground. He tried, but the cauldron was as big as a storage vat. It prevented him from reaching his knees. Afraid to look up, he cringed, fearing that he would be told to release it, knowing he could not—would not—and dreading the wrath that would follow.

"I'm sorry," he whispered, thinking not only of his unbending knees, but of all the filth of the sty he had brought with him, and his inability to rid himself of it. He would be thrown out. He should be thrown out. That would be justice. He began to turn away.

The next words were quiet, but they caused every muscle to lock and hold him in place. "If you choose, you may walk away from me, Aedan. But I will not walk away from you."

“But ... I don’t understand,” Aedan stammered. “Am I here to be punished?”

“You are here to be freed.” The words rumbled like an avalanche, and the shudder in Aedan’s chest was beyond any emotion he had ever known. That word, kneel, echoed again in his mind. In it rang not the groans of enslavement, but the song of freedom. He knew why. It was about belonging, the right kind of belonging.

It was isolation that led to enslavement. He had discovered that. Though there was more to fear before this throne than in ten thousand of Kultúhm’s giant beasts, it was not wrath that he sensed or dread that welled in him. An invisible torrent surged from the throne, washed through him, wrapped around him.

He felt as if he were a fish that had hatched and managed to survive in the muddy pool of a dry riverbed, and was now being swept up into soft, clear waters. It was unlike anything he could define. This was defining him. And then he looked into the cauldron. The fumes were poison, and the container stood between him and the throne. It blocked part of the life-giving flow, leaving a shielded place where bitterness still coursed through his veins and gathered in dark clots. Did he really want this?

The decision was more intimidating than any bridge-or cliff-jump, but he drew a breath, and in his mind, leapt free of the old, dark refuge. He tried to pull the cauldron away from him, but he could not. It was as if it had grown into his skin.

“Help me!” he cried. There was no surge of power, just the faintest tingling in his arms. He looked down and pulled again, and this time, it tore partly away from his skin. The pain was intense, and as the raw skin was exposed, he felt a sudden vulnerability, for the cauldron had been a kind of shield.

But from the river that was rushing around him, he drew courage and wrenched again. The cauldron ripped free, and once he had torn it loose, he flung it down on the ground where the noxious liquid poured out and was washed away. Finally, he was able to fall to his knees, and as he did so, the stains that covered him began to fade.

Then, from a distance, he saw his father. His fist clenched automatically and he felt something in his grip. It was a dagger. He understood at once what he needed to do, what he had never been able to do before. Looking not at his father, but towards the foot of the throne, he opened his hand and dropped the blade, releasing judgement to one higher.

As the dagger melted away, light flooded that part of him that he had kept hidden by the cauldron, kept in bitterness and shadow, and he yelled with fright at what was revealed. Crouching in that inner bastion of hate, that long-guarded place where he had so often fled and braced himself with fantasies of revenge, he saw it. It was not strength that had kept him company in that place, but a coiled, venomous thing of fear. His numbing, paralyzing fear. A lying, twisted demon that now looked up at him with more hatred than he had ever known.

But the light that illuminated suddenly became solid, a pure rushing torrent. It struck the twisted shape with power both infinite and effortless, tearing it loose and flinging it out, its screams fading to nothing. The bitterness and poison slowly washed away.

It was peace, deeper and broader than the starfields around him. It was belonging. It was freedom.

Kneeling before the one who could only be the Ancient had not been the cost of freedom, but the means.

For a long time he laughed and wept and laughed again, released. p 606-611.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, “The characters...” What are the qualities that make healthy fathers?

- Love for God and others
- Understanding God’s methods and principles
- Ability to listen and understand
- Having self-governance, so doesn’t fly into rages, doesn’t have addiction problems, doesn’t have spending problems
- Willingness to tolerate emotional discomfort to do what is good for their family
- Setting and enforcing healthy boundaries
- Has good time management
- Ability to teach his children God’s methods and principles

If a parent has all these attributes and lives them consistently, does that guarantee their children will grow up to be godly adults?

Read second paragraph, “In the end...” What does it look like to love the mother?

- To adore her, cherish her, sacrifice for her, value her including her ideas and opinions
- What about speak honestly to her, in kind ways—even if it is saying he doesn’t like a meal she prepared?
- Does it mean giving the wife what she wants all the time?

Is it best for children for parents to remain married in all circumstances? Why or why not?

What if a parent stays with a spouse who persistently abuses the other spouse either physically, verbally or emotionally? Is that good for children? Is it good for either spouse? What is the action that love takes toward a spouse that is abusive? Why?

TUESDAY

What is the difference between discipline and punishment?

Discipline means to disciple or teach and its focus is on the benefit, health, growth, good of the one being disciplined.

Punishment is about punitive consequences and is focused on the law and ensuring the law is enforced.

The lesson gets this right when it says in the second paragraph, “Through Christ discipline is seen not as punishment, not as an expression of authority, but as redemptive correction.”

But we only get this right when we reject imperial law views of God’s law and understand design law. If we believe God’s law is imperial/imposed, then we ultimately teach God as the inflictor of punishment—this undermines love and trust.

So, I love this sentence, “not as an expression of authority” punishment as an expression of authority is exactly how imperial law works, how sinful beings work, how Satan has alleged God works, that God in order to be just must punish sin. But this is a lie. God disciplines to bring us back to the ways of life, but if we refuse He doesn’t have to punish because the results of refusing Him is death.

What do you understand these Proverbs to mean?

- Folly is bound up in the heart of a child, but the rod of discipline will drive it far from him. Prov 22:15 NIV84
- The rod of correction imparts wisdom, but a child left to himself disgraces his mother. Prov 29:15

What is the rod of discipline? Does this mean a switch, a beating, a caning? Or does it mean a shepherd’s rod which is to protect and guide?

If it is a shepherd’s rod, does it mean it never spansks?

One of the keys to healthy discipline is consistency. Even when the discipline is severe, if it is consistent, so the child knows where the boundaries are and how to avoid the discipline and sees it applied evenly to all violations, then life becomes predictable and the child can internalize a sense of safety and security. But the inconsistent application of discipline, no matter how severe, even if just a verbal correction, causes significant problems for several reasons:

- it increases uncertainty, fear, anxiety, and upregulates amygdala increasing anxiety problems and self-doubt, this leads to insecurity, timidity and dependency on others—seeking to get others to tell them what to do for fear of being wrong.

- Example of walking on tile floor with some of the tiles being on concrete and able to hold your weight and other tiles being spun sugar that you fall through to spikes below.
- it undermines the child's ability to trust you and thus develop the ability to trust others in life. If you are inconsistent in your word with your child your child cannot trust you. Many parents allow inconsistency thinking they are being kind or merciful, but in reality, they are inciting terrible fear, doubt, uncertainty and planting seeds of relationship conflict with their child for years to come.

Another key to discipline, in addition to consistency, is to apply it in love, that you have dealt with your own feelings of frustration, irritation, anger and instead of disciplining with those feelings prominent, you focus on your love for the child and you discipline because you want what is best for them. When you have this motive in your heart during the discipline it changes the overall dynamic. The child will feel less like you are mad at them or don't like them, and more like you care about them.

WEDNESDAY

The Bible says that a merry heart does good like a medicine, what are the benefits of humor or merry heart?

- Researchers have described laughter as a “powerful form of exercise that gives you more of a cardiovascular workout than many 'regular' aerobic activities.”¹
- two stages of laughter have been described, the arousal phase, elevating the heart rate, and the resolution phase, resting of the heart.²
- Cardiologists at the University of Maryland found those patients who were suffering from myocardial infarction (MI) were 40% less likely to laugh. However, laughter was shown to be prophylactic against MI.
- Furthermore, an article by Miller M, et al. at the University of Maryland found beneficial effects of laughter on the blood vessel. Mental stress was shown to degrade nitric oxide, and therefore, laughter minimized the negative effects of stress by reducing the break down of nitric oxide and thus, leading to vasodilatation.³ On average, laughter increased blood flow by twenty-two percent, and stress decreased blood flow by thirty-five percent.⁴
- Laughter had shown to affect the release of various immune mediators.^{5 6 7 8 9}

¹ Laughter Yoga International. Kataria M, Kataria M; <http://www.laughteryoga.org/>

² Diggs, T. S. Laughter: Is it Healthy? Magic Stream. <http://home.hiwaay.net/~garson/laughter.htm>.

³ Wikipedia, The Free Encyclopedia. Nitric oxide; [Revised December 24, 2008]. http://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Nitric_oxide&oldid=259865728.

⁴ Vascular Medicine; Watching funny movies boosts blood flow to the heart. Health & Medicine Week, 1660. Research Library database. (Document ID: 980266611); 2006.

⁵ Berk LS, Tan SA, Fry WF. Eustress of humor associated laughter modulates specific immune system components. Annals of Behavioral Medicine. 1993;15:11.

⁶ Berk LS, Tan SA, Fry WF. et al. Neuroendocrine and stress hormone changes during mirthful laughter. American Journal of the Medical Sciences. 1989;298:390–6. [PubMed]

- Psychoneuroimmunological studies demonstrated connections between the brain and the immune system, such as the hypothalamic-pituitary-adrenal (HPA) axis and neural supply of lymphoid tissues.¹⁰
- In a study performed by Berk LS, et al., they found increased blood levels of interferon-gamma in ten healthy fasting males after being shown a comedy video ($p=0.02$).¹⁰ As a result, interferons have become a line of pharmacotherapy in viral infections, systemic carcinomas, hepatitis B and C, in addition to the development of antiretroviral drugs.
- There are two types of stress: distress (the negative type), and eustress (the positive type also known as mirthful laughter). Distress increases stress hormones such as beta-endorphins, corticotrophins and catecholamines, but laughter (a form eustress) decreased these hormones, fortified activity of natural killer (NK) cells, activated T cells and B cells and increased Ig levels. Thus, laughter is capable of combating the negative aspects of distress and fortifying the individual's immune system to help fight against various immune mediated illnesses.^{5 6 7 8}

Does this give any insight into why the Bible says we must call the Sabbath a delight? What happens if we observe the Sabbath but it is a rule, a restriction, a time of all the things we can't do which only causes us distress? Is the Sabbath a blessing to us then? Are we actually keeping the Sabbath if it is not a delight?

This is a key to all God's laws—they are design laws, but the real benefit is the impact on the heart/character. Love cannot be commanded; therefore, we cannot enforce God's laws with threats. The only way to truly keep God's law is from a free heart. To promote God's kingdom with any other method than love, truth and freedom is to advance Satan's kingdom.

Thus, one of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

The earth was dark through misapprehension of God. That the gloomy shadows might be lightened, that the world might be brought back to God, Satan's deceptive power was to be broken. This could not be done by force. The exercise of force is contrary to the principles of God's government; He desires only the service of love; and love cannot be commanded; it cannot be won by force or authority. Only by love is love awakened. To know God is to love Him; His character must be manifested in contrast to the character of Satan. This work only one Being in all the universe could do. Only He who knew the height and depth of

⁷ Berk LS, Tan SA, Napier BJ. et al. Eustress of mirthful laughter modifies natural killer cell activity. Clinical Research. 1989;37:115A.

⁸ Berk LS, Tan SA, Nehlsen-Cannarella SL. et al. Humor associated laughter decreases cortisol and increases spontaneous lymphocyte blastogenesis. Clinical Research. 1988;36:435A.

⁹ Martin RA. Is Laughter the Best Medicine? Humor, Laughter, and Physical Health. Current Directions In Psychological Science. 2002;11(6):216–8.

¹⁰ The Laughter - Immune Connection. Berk LS, Tan SA; [Revised November, 1996]
<http://www.hospitalclown.com/Past%20Issues/Final%20PDFs/Vol%202-2Berk.pdf>.

the love of God could make it known. Upon the world's dark night the Sun of Righteousness must rise, "with healing in His wings." Mal. 4:2. {DA 22.1}

The man who attempts to keep the commandments of God from a sense of obligation merely--because he is required to do so—[what kind of law is this describing? This is imperial imposed law, human law, the type of law that penal substitution theology operates upon. It is a fraud that cheats people from God's true healing plan] will never enter into the joy of obedience. He does not obey. When the requirements of God are accounted a burden because they cut across human inclination, we may know that the life is not a Christian life. True obedience is the outworking of a principle within. [Where is the focus of true obedience? Healing the heart, not legal accounting, this is design law] It springs from the love of righteousness, the love of the law of God. The essence of all righteousness is loyalty to our Redeemer. This will lead us to do right because it is right--because right doing is pleasing to God. {COL 97.3}

A sullen submission to the will of the Father will develop the character of a rebel. [why? Because this is a violation of the Law of Liberty and always results in rebellion or the destruction of individuality. This is what happens when we replace God's design law with the imposed law lie...people either reject the belief in God or become unreasonable believers in God who teach things that are non-sense like God is love and loves you but will torture you if you don't love Him.] By such a one service is looked upon as drudgery. It is not rendered cheerfully, and in the love of God. It is a mere mechanical performance. If he dared, such a one would disobey. His rebellion is smothered, ready to break out at any time in bitter murmurings and complaints. Such service brings no peace or quietude to the soul. {ST, July 22, 1897}

THURSDAY

What are the qualities of a truly wealthy wife according to Proverbs 31?

Read third paragraph, "These extensive talents..." The lesson gets this right, it is not about the talents or abilities, but about the traits of character. While we may not all have the same talents or abilities, through Christ we can all have mature character and it is this maturity of character that is most valuable of all: trustworthiness, compassion, reliability, faithfulness, kindness, industry—others?

FRIDAY

read and discuss questions

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Thank you to all of our supporters!!! We appreciate your prayers and financial support.

To let you know what is IN THE WORKS in addition to our weekly class:

- Audio version of the Remedy is in production, we have finished recording and are in final editing
- A weekly 15-minute radio show/podcast is now available
- MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

May 10,11, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Barrie SDA Church, 140 Mapleton Ave Barrie, ON L4N 9N7 Canada

May 18, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be a speaker at the Love and Transformation Institute: The Epidemic Rise of Anxiety, Depression and Suicide at the Phoenix Seminary, in Scottsdale, AZ.

June 8, 2019: Dr. Jennings will present The Aging Brain Seminar at Mid Columbia Medical Center, in The Dalles, OR.

July 10, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the 3rd Global Health Conference, sponsored by the General Conference of SDA and held at Loma Linda University.

July 19,20, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at The Living Truth SDA Church, 970 Oxford St. West London ON, Canada.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

I want to thank Ventsi Bosev and all our new friends in Bulgaria for inviting me to Sofia and what an incredible experience. We spoke in public halls and the first three nights standing room only, with 70 people standing outside the entire two-hour lectures. We moved to the University of Sofia on Friday and then to a hotel convention center for Sabbath. The past conference president said it was the most successful and well attended church event in Bulgaria since 1993. Huge positive responses from attendees. Three out of four attendees were not church members.

Family Seasons Lesson 6 2Q 2019

The Royal Love Song

by Tim Jennings (announcements at end)

Warning this lesson explores God's design for marital intimacy and human sexuality and may contain themes not appropriate for younger audiences.

Before we get to the lesson I want to share an email:

Dear Dr. Jennings and Team

I have written this letter 100's of times in my head. I can add no more to any of the stories you have already received about how this ministry has brought Light to the darkened hearts and minds; smashed distortions with beautiful truths melting the hardened heart, stimulating the intellect and giving a burning desire to share the beautiful truths of God's character and His design law with anyone who shows the least bit interest!!

A little about me. I was brought up SDA all my life. My father was a Minister and there was a lot of pressure to conform and be "good". I was good at being "good". I thought my life was going along well until it all started falling apart and I could not figure out why!! I had kept the rules, did the rituals, at least most of the time, surely God had enough mercy to forgive a few slip ups!!!!

In my search for: "God, why is this happening to me", I came across your book, Could it be this Simple? As I write, my heart goes out in gratitude to our FAITHFUL GOD who is ever true to His word, If you seek you will find, If any man lacks wisdom come unto me, and so on..... And I did find, God started revealing to me the many distortions I held. Not only about His character but His principles and how He has designed His universe to operate. Oh how my heart thrills!!! When I listen to your SS lessons I can hear a similar thrill and excitement in your voice about the overwhelming awesomeness of it all!!!!!!!!!! It always make me smile! Don't hear many people these days getting excited about God and His plans for us!! Even though it is clear He has nothing but the best for us in mind. Oh, the lies we believe..

If I were to recount how God, through this ministry, has brought to life the beauty of truth to me, dismantling one distortion after another, it would be a book!!! So I will mention only one.

In the book, Could it be this Simple?, the Myths of forgiveness gripped me. There was only one myth I did not hold!!! I remember thinking, Wow, I have this all backwards. At that point in time, I was in a drained emotional and spiritual state and didn't know how to take action on the information. I didn't even go to your web site.

But God knew my heart and He was not finished. He brought the myths around again a couple of years later through the Healing the Mind Seminar webcast. (I ached and longed for healing of mind and heart) As I listened to the presentation the Spirit was convicting me of the truth of what I was hearing. I was happy and angry all at the same time. Happy to have the light of truth break through the darkness revealing a wonderful, beautiful way, of understanding God and His plan for His children. Angry because I felt deceived and cheated by the church, my family and myself!! That is when I decided to cooperate with God in removing the distortions about His character of love and His design law. My hardwiring was so entrenched, I needed to listen to that section 7 times before I understood God's principles and how to apply them in my everyday life. God is still revealing areas this distortion affects. Praise Him for His loving mercy in healing and restoring me back to His original design!!

Literally I have gone from death to life. It is a journey I look forward to every day. God showed me I had been living out Is. 50:11 – Walk in the spark of your own fire and I will have nothing but torment. (I'm paraphrasing) That was my life, torment- emotionally, relationally, spiritually and physical health! The insidiousness of holding a distorted view of God is it distorts views on every aspect of life.

My yoke is easy and my burden is light. Matt. 11:30 I use to think, "If You call this light, I would like to know what heavy is"!!! Now I am daily, getting a better perspective. Praise GOD!!

"If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed". Jh. 8:36 KJV

"So if the Son sets your hearts and minds free from selfishness, you will be free to love indeed". The Remedy

I pray for you, your family and your whole team daily. I will ever be grateful to God for this ministry and your cooperation with the Spirit.

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "Among the seasons..." How did God design marriage to function? In God's design was there to be a hierarchy in marriage with one spouse ruling over another?

From the book Patriarchs and Prophets:

God Himself gave Adam a companion. He provided "an help meet for him"--a helper corresponding to him--one who was fitted to be his companion, and who could be one with him in love and sympathy. Eve was created from a rib taken from the side of Adam, signifying that she was not to control him as the head, nor to be trampled under his feet as an inferior, but to stand by his side as an equal, to be loved and protected by him. A part of man, bone of his bone, and flesh of his flesh, she was his second self, showing the close union and the affectionate attachment that should exist in this relation. "For no man ever yet hated his own flesh; but nourisheth and cherisheth it." Ephesians 5:29. "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be one." {PP 46.2}

God celebrated the first marriage. Thus the institution has for its originator the Creator of the universe. "Marriage is honorable" (Hebrews 13:4); it was one of the first gifts of God to man, and it is one of the two institutions that, after the Fall, Adam brought with him beyond the gates of Paradise. When the divine principles are recognized and obeyed in this relation, marriage is a blessing; it guards the purity and happiness of the race, it provides for man's social needs, it elevates the physical, the intellectual, and the moral nature. {PP 46.3}

How did God design marriage to function? With equality of the two partners in other-centered love, neither ruling over the other.

What happened? Sin, they infected their hearts with selfishness and love was displaced as the primary motivator to action.

When God said to Eve that her desire would be for her husband and he would rule over her, was God making a new design for marriage? Did God say, "Well, my original design in Eden isn't quite right. I need to have men rule over their wives"? No!

Was God saying, "Eve you sinned and deceived your husband so you need a minder, a handler, a supervisor, someone to think for you and tell you what to do. So I am instituting a new rule that you must submit to your husband and let him tell you what to do?" No!

God, was merely diagnosing the reality of what they did to themselves. He said, "Eve, you have infected yourself with fear and selfishness and love and trust are no longer the primary motivators in your heart. Therefore, the natural results of the selfish are that the strong will dominate the weak and the weak seek the protection of the strong. So, Eve, you will desire your husband, but he will rule over you."

Does God want people in this sinful world to continue to live dominated by fear and selfishness?

What does God want for each human heart?

- To be reborn
- recreated in the inner man
- to have the law written on the heart and mind—what law?

Would having the law of God written on the heart and mind mean that trust and love displace fear and selfishness and we get transformed back to God's original design?

Then what would marriage look like? Would it be equality between the two partners?

And would this translate into how we treat each other? Would it also translate into leadership roles in the church?

Do we see that the so-called headship theology in which people are put into a hierarchy based on gender is part of sin infecting God's creation? It is not part of God's design—God's design is equality of human beings submitting to the one true Head Jesus Christ.

In Jewish tradition the Song of Songs is considered an allegory of God's relationship with His people. The first and second century Rabbi Akiva, when asked if they should reject this book said, "God forbid! [...] For all of eternity in its entirety is not as worthy as the day on which Song of Songs was given to Israel, for all the Writings are holy, but Song of Songs is the Holy of Holies." (Schiffman, Lawrence H., ed. (1998), Texts and Traditions, Ktav, Hoboken, pp 119-120).

What do you think of when you think of the "Holy of Holies"? The sanctuary? And what transpires in the Holy of Holies in the sanctuary? Atonement—is there anything about the Song of Solomon that fulfills this function? What is happening in marital intimacy? Are two becoming one? Is that atonement?

When you think of the Day of Atonement or Investigative Judgment are you thinking of a wedding—a honeymoon, of the intimacy of love?

Why not? What is happening during this time in history? Jesus is cleansing His bride. Jesus is bringing the hearts and minds of His people into complete unity, intimacy, oneness with Him. For those who trust Jesus, He enters into the most holy place of our beings to remove all defects and impurities and to instill His perfection, His love, His goodness, His life into our hearts and minds—this is a union of minds/hearts/beings.

Can you see how sexual intimacy in which, in love and trust, life is deposited from one to another to form a new life, is a beautiful metaphor for God's plan to save us? In love and trust we open ourselves up to Christ who deposits His life into us and we are reborn—a new life begins. This is becoming one—in marriage with the spouses, in Christianity with God. This is openness, this is being known, this is healing and restoration. It is beautiful! It is lovely! It is wonderful! It is a mystery!

Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her ²⁶ to make her holy, cleansing her by the washing with water through the word, ²⁷ and to present her to himself as a radiant church, without stain or wrinkle or any other blemish, but holy and blameless. ²⁸ In this same way, husbands ought to love their wives as their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself. ²⁹ After all, no one ever hated his own body, but he feeds and cares for it, just as Christ does the church—³⁰ for we are members of his body.³¹

“For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and be united to his wife, and the two will become one flesh.”³² This is a profound mystery—but I am talking about Christ and the church. Eph 5:25-32

What obstructs God’s plan to accomplish this in people’s hearts?

The false legal lens of imposed law that teaches the Day of Atonement and Investigative Judgment is a judicial process a legal accounting. Such teachings close hearts, create barriers and instead of people disrobing, opening themselves up to the presence of Jesus, people instead put up barriers, beg for a covering to hide them from their Groom.

God cannot complete His mission of reuniting humanity to Himself in perfect unity until we reject the imperial law lie and stop teaching penal substitution theology in our institutions.

The lesson points out that Song of Solomon is an inspired book to teach God’s beautiful plan for marriage.

But, have you ever wondered, why God chose Solomon to write this inspired book on God’s plan for marriage?

Solomon had 700 wives and 300 concubines—how is it God chose him to write a book that is considered to be the epitome of divine plan for marriage? In other words, if God’s plan for marriage is monogamy why would God have the greatest polygamist of all time write the book on marriage?

Why was God angry at Solomon and took the kingdom, except one tribe from him? Was it because of marrying many women? No, it was because of allowing his many wives to lead him into worshipping other gods. If he had not worshipped other gods, God would not have disciplined him so. Which means, that God’s chastisement of Solomon was not for having many wives, but for worshipping false gods.

So, why did God choose Solomon to write this book on marriage?

To understand this we must understand a couple of other points. First, Israel is not only historical, but metaphorical.

What I mean is that there were millions of descendants of Abraham who lived during Bible times, yet we have recorded in Scripture only a very small number of individuals. God selected from these real historical events the events He wanted recorded in Scripture to tell, not only historical facts, but reveal a larger reality—God’s plan of salvation.

These things happened to them [Israel] as examples and were written down as warnings for us, on whom the fulfillment of the ages has come. 1Cor 10:11

For instance, there were seven miracle births in the Bible—all historical facts, but also all teaching a larger reality—the coming Messiah:

1. Sarah-Isaac: The promised one who will be sacrificed
2. Rebecca-Jacob: Overcomes fear and renamed Israel the father of the nation built upon twelve sons; Jesus overcame temptation to be the cornerstone of the church built upon twelve apostles
3. Rachel-Joseph: Sold into slavery, became ruler to save people; Jesus became a servant but is exalted to be ruler
4. Monoah's wife-Samson: Blessed with strength to deliver Israel and rule over them; Jesus has the strength to deliver us from sin and rule the universe
5. Hannah-Samuel: Became High Priest; Jesus is our High Priest
6. Shunammite woman-Child died and was resurrected; Jesus died and rose again
7. Elizabeth-John the Baptist: Greatest of prophets; Jesus was the greatest of all prophets

Before we understand why Solomon, with 700 wives, was chosen to write this book on marriage and intimacy, we need to understand Solomon's origins.

David committed a terrible sin in seducing Bathsheba and murdering Uriah. When did sexual relations between David and Bathsheba stop being sin for David and why?

The only way this can be answered is to reject the human law lie of imposed rules and return to God's design law for life.

Under imposed rules the answers that given are:

- When David repented—but isn't repentance turning away from sin—did David turn away from Bathsheba or did he embrace her and have more intimate physical relations with her?
- When he married her—is God's law superseded by human custom? If I moved to a country today where polygamy is legal would the church say it is okay for me to take a second wife and marry her legally? Why not?

The imposed law view never gets the answer right. But design law is about restoration to Godliness. So, when David experienced a new heart and right spirit and had selfishness removed and Godly love restored within David then had the motive to heal, as far as possible, the damage his sin had caused Bathsheba. So, in that culture he, if David was going to be like Jesus, now that his heart was renewed, he had to restore to Bathsheba what he had taken. What had he taken?

- Her good name and reputation
- Her home
- Her income and security
- Her livelihood
- Her hope of being a mother
- Her husband who loved her

So, in that culture, the only way David could act in Godly love and restore what he took was to marry her and love her—which he did. Thus, David is no longer living in selfishness, but in harmony with God’s design for life.

Notice, in the object lesson of Israel, David, when acting in selfishness had a child with Bathsheba—and what happened to that child? It died—which teaches a lesson that sin/selfishness breaks God’s design for life and results in death.

But, David, after being healed in heart and acting in Godly love had another child with Bathsheba—and who was that child? Solomon—the child of wisdom, revealing that only in harmony with God’s design is there life and this is true wisdom.

So, now we turn to Solomon, why does God choose Solomon to write this book?

In the song:

- Solomon is a shepherd and Jesus is depicted as the Shepherd
- Solomon is the wisest in history—who is the true person of wisdom?
- Solomon means “peace” who is the Prince of peace?
- Solomon is the son of King David, who is the descendant of David who is to reign as the King of kings?
- Solomon is the groom and Jesus is the groom and the church the bride

In other words, Solomon, in addition to being a real historical figure, is a representative of Christ. With this in mind, is there any reason you can think of that Solomon (representing Christ) would have 700 wives, and be the one to write about a single intimate relationship epitomizing God’s design for marriage?

Does Jesus have intimacy with more than one person? Does Jesus have intimacy with more than one species? But does Jesus interact with each person as if they were the only one, i.e. their relationship is personal and specific and loving?

Is it possible God had these events recorded in Scripture because they are not only historical, but they teach a larger reality in metaphor of Christ’s union with His people? If so, we can see how this lesson is quite corrupted by Solomon when he worshipped false gods and why God had to take action to demonstrate the worshipping of false gods was not only wrong for Solomon, the nation at that time, Solomon’s wives at that time, but also misrepresented Christ’s victory over all temptations.

SUNDAY

What is the Biblical view of the human body?

Human beings are integrated, our individualities are embodied. We cannot experience, grow, share, learn and love without a body. The body is not evil and the spirit somehow holy, the body is part of our total being and required for actual functioning.

However, because of sin, our bodies are decayed, filled with disease and defects, and can become a source of temptation to us, either powerful desires or powerful discomfort can tempt us. Some are tempted to act in ways to cause positive feelings of pleasure, others are tempted to be angry and frustrated and discouraged because of feelings of pain.

Read last paragraph, “Powerful sexual taboos...” Are we comfortable talking about this topic?

If God created us as sexual beings, if this unity in marriage is part of God’s design, if it is the culmination of true intimacy and love which also acts our God’s plan for unity with us, then why are we uncomfortable talking about it?

In Eden, how were Adam and Eve dressed? In light—which would mean what? Would it mean that they had barriers to being known, that they were hiding part of themselves, or that they were totally open and known by the other?

What happened after Adam and Eve sinned? They ran and HIDE because they were afraid, they made coverings to HIDE themselves. Why?

They felt guilt and shame; they didn’t want to be known; they wanted a covering to hide them from God and they hid themselves from each other.

In the union of marriage, even in this sinful world, there is disrobing, taking off of the coverings, revealing oneself, becoming naked and exposed to the other.

What is required to be able to do this without fear, without guilt, without shame?

Love and trust—love which is bidirectional—you love the other person but you also KNOW that you are loved, cherished, valued, for WHO you are, not for your body. This requires uncovering your true self BEFORE sexual intimacy, becoming known in heart by your partner so that genuine trust is experienced.

Love and trust cast out fear. When we have come to KNOW the other and find they love us and that they are trustworthy, then we can disrobe both emotionally and physically and enter into that physical unity with our marriage partner. We can talk openly about our most secret selves, because we know we are united with one who loves us and wants our best.

When we get to heaven how do you think we will dress? Will we be known? Will we be open? Will we be afraid or ashamed? Will we have intimacy with others? With whom will we have intimacy in heaven?

So, why do you think there is so much fear and shame around sex? Because there is so much fear and shame in our hearts, and sex is a place of great vulnerability, of great openness of placing oneself in a place of undress and we fear being hurt, not being enough, being rejected.

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, “Solomon invites her...” Why can there be no force or manipulation in this intimate setting?

Does this apply to God’s relationship with His people?

Does this mean God does not use force or manipulation on human beings?

Does this mean that theologies that teach God is the source of inflicted punishment and death for sin are lies? What theologies do this? The penal legal ones.

Do you see that Christianity is deeply infected with lies about God that undermine love and trust, that obstruct God’s plan to heal us, to bring us to at-one-ment with Him?

The message for this time is the message of love, the truth about God, that He is a being of perfect love whose laws are the protocols upon which life is created. Only in union with Him is their life.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “God had a special...” Will we have gender opposites in heaven? Do angels have gender? What did Jesus mean when He said there will be neither marriage or giving in marriage but we will be like the angels?

Is gender the primary point we should focus on as Christians—or is it something else?

Read second paragraph, “Scripture disapproves...” Do you agree?

Did you notice the paragraph focuses on sexual practices, but Jesus focused on the desires of the heart? What happens if a person has a heart desire they never practice?

What happens if persons practice male/female sex within a legal marriage, but their hearts are actually desiring someone of the same sex?

If you are a heterosexual, imagine for a moment living in a culture where 97% of the society is homosexual and heterosexuality is considered evil and you, in order to avoid being stoned, marry someone of the same sex. What would you experience if you had intimacy with them—would it be positive and uplifting or destructive?

What if a person is homosexual and because of social pressure enter into a heterosexual marriage what would that be like for them? Would it be positive and uplifting or destructive?

In Romans 1 starting in verse 18 Paul describes that the wrath of God comes because the people rejected the truth about God, exchanged the knowledge of God for images made with their own hands. In other words, they were involved in Roman cult worship and Paul describes that God's wrath is giving them up to reap the results of their choices and he lists what happens with a long list of destructive consequences on of which is the following:

Therefore God gave them over in the sinful desires of their hearts to sexual impurity for the degrading of their bodies with one another. ²⁵ They exchanged the truth of God for a lie, and worshiped and served created things rather than the Creator—who is forever praised. Amen.

²⁶ Because of this, God gave them over to shameful lusts. Even their women exchanged natural relations for unnatural ones. ²⁷ In the same way the men also abandoned natural relations with women and were inflamed with lust for one another. Men committed indecent acts with other men, and received in themselves the due penalty for their perversion. Verses 24-27

Did you notice that at first it is sexual impurity with each other, i.e. heterosexual sexual promiscuity—fertility cult worship. Then, what happened—they “exchanged natural relations for unnatural ones.”

Can you exchange a blue shirt for a red shirt if you don't first possess a blue shirt?

The Bible is not describing people born with various genetic and biological differences because of sin altering our human genome. The Bible is talking about those who are clearly heterosexual degrading themselves with activities that change their healthy normal desires for desires they did not previously have.

What is the image of God? Is God a being with perfect vision? So would a person with blindness represent the image of God? Should we oppose activities which cause blindness? Should we oppose people who are blind?

In OT times Levites with bad vision could not function as priests—should we set this up as a rule in our churches that any pastor who needs glasses must be fired? Why not? Why did Israel have this rule? Because Israel was not just historical people but acting out a larger reality. Because Levites with vision problems could not be priests, does that mean people with vision could not be saved?

But what about the prohibitions in the Old Testament? We must remember the recording of the OT is not just historical—but metaphorical, Israel are actors on a stage to act out a larger reality. Thus, many things that were prohibited for them were prohibited because of what they represented in the larger reality, not because that activity was itself wrong. For instance:

- They must not marry women defiled by prostitution or divorced from their husbands, because priests are holy to their God. Lev 21:7
 - Why? Does this mean a believer today is not to marry a woman who was a prostitute but has found Christ and been renewed? Or a woman who divorced her husband because he was unfaithful?
 - Then why were the priests forbidden to do this? Because of the metaphorical application—we are to be married to Christ and Christ is not a prostitute and He will not divorce us.
- The daily priest could not serve if they had any physical deformity (crippled foot or hand)
- The daily priest could not serve if they had skin lesions, were hunchbacked or dwarfs
 - Does this mean that today we should not allow any to serve in ministry who have any physical deformities, or skin lesions?
 - How do we understand these prohibitions? In the theater these actors could not play the roles accurately with these disorders for they symbolize spiritual leaders who are blind, or leaders who are not partaking of the remedy that would heal them.
 - “Say to Aaron: ‘For the generations to come none of your descendants who has a defect may come near to offer the food of his God. ¹⁸ No man who has any defect may come near: no man who is blind or lame, disfigured or deformed; ¹⁹ no man with a crippled foot or hand, ²⁰ or who is hunchbacked or dwarfed, or who has any eye defect, or who has festering or running sores or damaged testicles. ²¹ No descendant of Aaron the priest who has any defect is to come near to present the offerings made to the Lord by fire. He has a defect; he must not come near to offer the food of his God. Lev 21:17-21
- ‘The high priest...must not let his hair become unkempt or tear his clothes Lev 21:10
 - Does this mean that our conference presidents can’t serve if they let their hair become windblown or get a tear in their clothing?
- He must not enter a place where there is a dead body. He must not make himself unclean, even for his father or mother... Lev 21:11
 - Does this mean that our church leaders cannot go to the funeral of their own parents?
 - No, in the theater the High Priest represents Christ and Christ is the source of life and would banish death so the High Priest needed to stay away lest the lesson be drawn that death wins in Jesus presence.
- ‘The woman he [High Priest] marries must be a virgin. ¹⁴ He must not marry a widow, a divorced woman, or a woman defiled by prostitution, but only a virgin from his own people, Lev 21:13,14
 - Should we require this for our church leaders?
 - Why was this required for the High Priest?
 - The bride of Christ must be pure in heart and loyal to Him

Do we understand the prohibitions on homosexuality in the same way? That we should oppose activities which damage or alter what is healthy on any level, but we don't condemn people who have various differences that they did not choose?

The lesson asks what the church's attitude should be toward homosexuals?

They should be introduced to Jesus and loved as children of God!

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Song of Solomon..." What is a friend?

What is required for genuine friendship?

Can you have a friend who is not a spouse?

Can you have a spouse who is not a friend?

Why is it the best when your spouse is your best friend?

The Bible says:

A friend loves at all times... Proverbs 17:17

Does Jesus want to be friends with us?

I no longer call you servants, because a servant does not know his master's business. Instead, I have called you friends, for everything that I learned from my Father I have made known to you. John 15:15 NIV84

What does it mean to be a friend of Jesus? Is more required in friendship than just to love? Do friends in addition to love also understand? God is clearly our friend, but are we God's friends? What is required to be a friend of God?

Would it be that we come to love God? And would it be that we come to understand who God is, how He functions, His methods and designs? Would it be that we agree with and support God and God's cause?

Who in the Old Testament is described as God's friends?

- Moses
- Abraham

And both did what? Argued with God, why? What was their concern? Both were concerned with God's reputation, with how God would be perceived by others.

Are we?

WEDNESDAY

Why is sexual intimacy designed by God for marriage relationships and not all other relationships?

Because only in a healthy marriage is sexual intimacy healthy—in other relationships sexual intimacy becomes destructive. It is that simple.

And sex in marriage is only healthy if there is love in the marriage. Sex in a legal but loveless marriage is also not health, but destructive.

Thus, sex as God designed requires love and trust to be established prior to the physical union. Then, the physical union causes changes in the brain's reward and bonding circuits such that we come to experience our partner with greater joy, love, reward than others.

But, when sex happens outside of a loving marriage relationship, it can cause changes in reward pathways leading to sexual addiction or unhealthy attachments (dependency cycles).

Thus, the healthiest attachments and relationships are those in which people have remained chaste until a loving trusting marriage relationship.

FRIDAY

Discuss questions

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

To let you know what is IN THE WORKS in addition to our weekly class:

- Audio version of the Remedy is in production, we have them recorded and now doing final editing
- MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

May 10,11, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Barrie SDA Church, 140 Mapleton Ave Barrie, ON L4N 9N7 Canada

May 18, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be a speaker at the Love and Transformation Institute: The Epidemic Rise of Anxiety, Depression and Suicide at the Phoenix Seminary, in Scottsdale, AZ.

June 8, 2019: Dr. Jennings will present The Aging Brain Seminar at Mid Columbia Medical Center, in The Dalles, OR.

June 28, 29, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Windsor SDA church in Windsor, Ontario Canada

July 10, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the 3rd Global Health Conference, sponsored by the General Conference of SDA and held at Loma Linda University.

July 19,20, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Living Truth SDA Church in London, Ontario Canada.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

Family Seasons Lesson 7 2Q 2019

Keys to Family Unity

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

Marissa Johnson, an online listener, sent in this:

I did quite enjoy your comments about functioning in a healthy family and its impact on both the person and community. I wanted to share one description of what taking personal responsibility for the impact of damaging parental behavior on the person that I heard one time and that I have in turn shared with my kids and my nieces and nephews. For me it has been helpful and I suspect could offer some help to others.

Imagine one's life is characterized by a car. On vacation, you visit San Francisco. And while parked on one of the hilly streets of San Francisco, while you are out sightseeing, a car parked uphill from yours suffers a loss of control (parking brake failure). What is the impact on your car? How much damage could occur? And then, the owner of the car whose brake system failed comes along, finds the two cars collided with each other. Instead of being responsible, they take away their car without leaving any kind of notification to the owner (you) of your own car. This is done out of fear of reprisal, loss of insurance, loss of money, fear of the hassle, etc. So then they leave the site. It is a hit and run type event. Later in the day you return and find your car smashed and not able to be driven. At that point: whose responsibility is it to get the car moved and returned to drivable condition? The other guy? Or yours? Since you own it, it is yours. NO you did not cause the damage, but repair of it, in the face of hit and run damage, is your responsibility. Both for your own benefit to be able to drive and for that of your family and community so that you can still report for duty in your job, get the kids to school, etc.

This simple illustration, though not perfect, has been helpful in dealing with others (parents, teachers, friends or other family members.) who cause hurt and damage.

Thank you for your good work and for showing us all another way to consider and apply grace.

What lessons are there in this metaphor?

We are not responsible for the choices of others, for things done to us, either good or bad—but we are responsible—when we grow to the age of comprehension and ability to discern and decide—for the choices we make.

- Do we reject healthy avenues and options when they are available or do we participate in them?
- Do we have a mindset of personal responsibility that we have the responsibility to be the healthiest, most mature individuals we are capable of becoming regardless of our histories—or do we have the mindset that others owe us something—that we either cannot or will not grow, mature, develop until some other person or group or government apologizes, shows us love, pays reparations or some other action?

I have many patients who have been abused by their own families while children, or have been bullied in school, or have been treated unfairly or cruelly by society—yet they all don't end up with the same outcomes. Some of these persons have taken the approach of healing and developing themselves, others have taken the approach of trying to get the offender to change to show them love, remorse, sorrow, to in some way acknowledge their wrong and try to make amends OR the person tries to make the wrongdoer pay them some recompense. Which approach do you think results in the best outcome for the person who was abused? Why?

If a person takes the approach of focusing on healing their wounds, becoming the healthiest most Christlike person in governance of themselves they are capable of becoming through God's grace—does that mean:

- the wrong done to them was a good thing?
- the wrong wasn't wrong?
- the person who did the wrong to them gets away with it?
- Why not? Because of design law—the person who does wrong damages themselves, sears their conscience, warps their character, hardens their heart.

SABBATH

Read memory text: “that they all may be one, as You, Father, are in Me, and I in You; that they also may be one in Us, that the world may believe that You sent Me” (John 17:21 NKJV)

What is Jesus talking about? Is there a theological term for this? Atonement!

If Jesus is describing atonement—what must happen in order to achieve what Jesus is describing?

Where is the action happening in order for us to be one with God and each other?

Where then is the work of Christ and God occurring?

Then, on the Day of Atonement, what is Christ doing? He is healing His people, restoring in them His character of love—there is nothing legal going on, there is healing and restoration.

We must reject the imperial law lie and rise up as a people to give the final message of mercy to the world—the truth of God's character of love, that His government operates on design law of love—which means we must be healed to live in His presence.

Read second paragraph, “Yet, whether as parents...” If we all struggle with the same sinful fallen nature—what then is the solution that brings salvation? A new nature—can we create that new nature?

Does a legal blood payment of a sinless sacrifice to an offended God to pay a legal penalty create a new nature?

So, if we need a new nature, and we can’t create it and a payment to God doesn’t create it—how do we get a new nature?

Jesus became human and as a human being, using His human abilities, He was tempted in every way just as we are yet without sin (Heb 4:15). And in His humanity, He loved perfectly and refused to use His abilities to save self. Thus, when He died on the Cross, He, in His humanity, destroyed the infection of selfishness and developed a perfect, sinless human character. As Hebrews says, “once made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him” (Heb 5:9 NIV84).

Bible perfection is not mere sinlessness it is maturity of character. Character cannot be created it must be developed; Jesus had to develop a perfect sinless human character in order to be our Savior. He had to actually fix the damage Adam did to the species.

Thus, in Jesus, the species human was saved and Jesus simultaneously developed a perfect human character that becomes the template for all who trust Him.

Jesus did what we could not do and now He offers to give us a new heart and right spirit to transform us by the application of His perfection if we trust Him.

EGW puts it this way:

The law requires righteousness,--a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. [why does the law require righteousness? for the same reason the law of respiration require we breathe—it is the law upon which life is built. This is no arbitrary rule, it is simple how life works] He cannot meet the claims of God’s holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. [Didn’t Christ have a perfect character before coming to earth? Why would He need to develop one? Christ had a perfect divine character, but what He did on earth was to develop a perfect HUMAN character. Did Christ develop a perfect HUMAN character by exercising divine abilities or human abilities? Human—He was tempted in every way JUST AS WE ARE, yet without sin.] These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. [where to we receive this gift in a ledger or in our hearts and minds?] His life stands for the life of men. [Where does his life stand for ours? As the new head of a renewed humanity. He represents the human race in God’s heavenly counsel taking the place Adam would have had] Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. [Our past sins are not counted against us in some legal ledger, what matters is the condition of our hearts and minds. It would be like a patient who had Ebola and had bloody diarrhea that ruined clothing and furniture, there is no concern over past symptoms the only concern is are they infected and dying today or are they healed] More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26. {DA 762.2} [So, for those who trust God, the Holy Spirit takes the perfection of Christ and imbues it into our hearts. We get new desires, motives, attitudes, insights—all the goodness we experience is a gift of God but we must simultaneously choose to TRUST God and identify with these new motives and principles by putting them into practice in how we live.]

What is justice and justification? The healing, fixing, restoring, regenerating, recreating sinners back to sinlessness by the infusing of Christ's character into the hearts of all who trust Him. This is atonement! It is NOT legal; It is actual.

So, in families: can there be healthy families if each person is looking to get for self? Is there a difference in taking responsibility for oneself and looking to get for self?

Can we have healthy families if family members refuse to take responsibility for themselves?

Healthy relationships REQUIRE healthy people AND healthy people are in governance of themselves—thus healthy people take ownership of their own issues, problems, and responsibilities and choose to cooperate with God for their healing, maturing, and decision-making.

Healthy families REQUIRE health parents and healthy parents are in governance of themselves.

What are the core principles that result in healthy families?

- Love—love for others such that one is willing to sacrifice self for others. The mindset of looking out for the eternal best-interest of the other, of making decisions and using one's ability to bless the other. This often requires the practice of the next principle...
- Willingness to tolerate the pain that a loved one will experience as they make choices on their own—i.e. not being overly protective or overly rescuing when mistakes are made, or apply appropriate discipline to educate and teach, or healing interventions when necessary that might be painful.
 - Love will risk being misunderstood, even hated, to do what is right.
 - Health parents are willing to allow their children to be mad at them in order to do what is best for the children.
- Freedom—balancing our actions with the principle of liberty not destroying the individuality of children and not dominating or controlling an adult. Within this principle of freedom love sets boundaries and limits freedom of those who do not have the ability to understand or make decisions for themselves until they are old enough or competent enough to make their own decisions
 - So, in love, parents will limit the freedoms of children to protect them, but parenting them to the point that one day they are set completely free to govern themselves

- Doctors will limit the freedom of psychotic patients treating them in such a way as to restore them to sanity so they can be set free
- Families limit the freedom of persons with dementia but would love to heal them and restore their freedom
- Such limitations on freedom are not violations of love, but the actions of love to protect those who cannot protect themselves
- EGW wrote:
 - The training of children must be conducted on a different principle from that which governs the training of irrational animals. The brute has only to be accustomed to submit to its master, but the child must be taught to control himself. The will must be trained to obey the dictates of reason and conscience. A child may be so disciplined as to have, like the beast, no will of its own, his individuality being lost in that of his teacher. Such training is unwise, and its effect disastrous. Children thus educated will be deficient in firmness and decision. They are not taught to act from principle; the reasoning powers are not strengthened by exercise. So far as possible, every child should be trained to self-reliance. By calling into exercise the various faculties, he will learn where he is strongest, and in what he is deficient. A wise instructor will give special attention to the development of the weaker traits, that the child may form a well-balanced, harmonious character. {CG 39.2}
- Trust—which requires trustworthiness and what is required to be trustworthy?
 - love the other more than self
 - maturity of self-governance
 - wisdom on how reality works
 - ability to trust
- Truthfulness—honesty in communication is key, because dishonesty undermines trust and without trust relationship breakdown. But truthfulness doesn't mean one discloses everything. Jesus said He had much to tell His disciples but they couldn't bear it. Jesus is being honest, truthful in saying this, but He is holding back information. We can hold back information in all truthfulness. But we shouldn't purposely lie or deceive people—it undermines trust.
- Setting and maintaining healthy boundaries
 - Never set a boundary you don't enforce—why? It undermines trust because you are not keeping your word.

In the last paragraph, “Yes, in the body of Jesus Christ on the cross all humanity has been reconciled to God and to one another.”

What does this mean? Colossians says that “For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross.” (1:19,10 NIV84)

Does this text say all humanity has been reconciled to God? No, all things have been reconciled to God, humanity, in the person of Jesus Christ has been reconciled to God, angels who had questions had them answered and the angels in heaven are settled now in loyalty to God, any beings on any other planets are solidified into loyalty to God, the earth is reclaimed by Christ and will be fully perfected at the second coming. So all things are reconciled to God...

But does that mean all humanity been reconciled to God?

If so, then why are we still in a world of sin? Why are there wars, racism, sexism, and all the hostilities we see every day?

I think it would have been more accurate to say that the species human was reconciled to God in the person of Jesus Christ—but the rest of humanity remains in a state of conflict with some individuals being reconciled through what Christ has achieved, but many others refusing to be reconciled and thus the war for hearts and minds goes on. thoughts?

SUNDAY

The lesson points us to Ephesians 2:11-22:

Therefore, remember that formerly you who are Gentiles by birth and called “uncircumcised” by those who call themselves “the circumcision” (that done in the body by the hands of men)—
12 remember that at that time you were separate from Christ, excluded from citizenship in Israel and foreigners to the covenants of the promise, without hope and without God in the world. 13 But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far away have been brought near through the blood of Christ.

14 For he himself is our peace, who has made the two one and has destroyed the barrier, the dividing wall of hostility, 15 by abolishing in his flesh the law with its commandments and regulations. His purpose was to create in himself one new man out of the two, thus making peace, 16 and in this one body to reconcile both of them to God through the cross, by which he put to death their hostility. 17 He came and preached peace to you who were far away and peace to those who were near. 18 For through him we both have access to the Father by one Spirit.

19 Consequently, you are no longer foreigners and aliens, but fellow citizens with God’s people and members of God’s household, 20 built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the chief cornerstone. 21 In him the whole building is joined together and rises to become a holy temple in the Lord. 22 And in him you too are being built together to become a dwelling in which God lives by his Spirit. (NIV 84)

What do you hear? What did Christ accomplish? What did Christ do with the law? What are the two that He made one?

What law lens do you understand this through?

See if this helps, the same passage from The Remedy:

Therefore remember that you, who were born into the dark superstitions of the world, were considered "uncircumcised" by those who call themselves "the circumcised" (as they experienced bodily circumcision by human hands).¹² That was before your minds were enlightened about Christ—and therefore you were separate from him—and you were not members of Israel (who was God's spiritual health-care team), and therefore were unacquainted with God's plan to heal and restore. Your condition was terminal, because you were without God—and therefore without hope—and in the darkness of the world.¹³ But now, you—whose minds were once far away, and who were practicing the principles of selfishness and survival-of-the-fittest—have been enlightened and brought near to God, and are in unity with Christ through the truth revealed when he died.

¹⁴ For Christ himself is the Remedy that heals the species and brings peace. He has removed fear and selfishness that cause division, mistrust, prejudice, and hostility.¹⁵ He did this by partaking of our human condition, and—via the exercise of his human brain—he loved perfectly, thereby destroying in his flesh (in the humanity he partook) the selfish survival-of-the-fittest drive along with the lies of Satan. In this way, he destroyed the need for the law (with all its regulations) to expose Satan's lies and methods. His purpose was to be the template of a new humanity born out of the unification of the two—our selfish, infected condition merged with his sinless state—thereby purging selfishness from the human heart, and transforming, healing, renewing, regenerating and recreating humanity back to God's original ideal;¹⁶ and in this new being, to reconcile the human race—regardless of ethnic background—into loving unity with God and each other through the revelation of truth at the cross, by which he destroyed the lies of Satan, reestablished trust, and removed fear, selfishness, and hostility.¹⁷ He came and demonstrated the truth of God's character and the offer of peace available to all humanity—to those far away in darkness and those blessed with the truth of God's word.¹⁸ For Jesus reveals the truth about God to all, and—through what Jesus has done—all have access to the Father by one Spirit.

¹⁹ Therefore your minds are no longer confused, and you are no longer in darkness and are no longer foreigners, aliens or outcasts, but members of God's house and citizens with God's people—living components of God's heavenly sanctuary²⁰ built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the chief cornerstone—the source of all truth.²¹ In Christ, the entire structure is unified and grows to become a holy temple filled with God's Spirit, revealing God's character.²² And with your minds in harmony with Christ, you too are being healed and transformed—rebuilt to become a dwelling in whom God lives by his Spirit.

Do you see that the plan of salvation is the plan to heal, restore, recreate humanity back to God's original ideal that He intended for Adam and Eve? Thus, God is working through Christ to reveal truth that destroys the lies of Satan and provide us a new sinless character that operates in harmony with Him—this requires we come to genuinely trust God and open our hearts to Him.

Read second and third paragraph, “Picture a large circle...” Do you see the key in finding unity? It is not by focusing on our differences; it is not by focusing on our similarities; it is not by focusing on doctrinal conformity or a list of right rules; it is not by focusing on proper government or legislation; it is not by focusing on human rights; it is by focusing on Jesus—this is the key!

Satan knows that if we focus on Jesus, make Him the center of our hearts, lives, desires, longings, and intentions then we will be transformed and we will come into unity of heart with others. This is a function of the Law of Worship—a design law—the Bible describes as by beholding we become changed. So, Satan wants to take our minds off Jesus—how?

- By substituting a false Jesus for the true Jesus—getting us to conceive of Jesus and God as beings who impose laws and then inflict penalties—this is modern Baal worship, of which the Bible warns. Thus, many will come to Jesus in the end and claim to be His followers but Jesus said He never knew them.
- Business of life’s responsibilities (paying bills, schoolwork, jobs, kids, chores)
- Entertainment (games, internet, TV, books)
- Drugs and alcohol
- Unhealthy relationships
- Focusing on sin, the fear of committing it and the obsession with avoiding it, so one formulates long lists of right rules and lives in fear of breaking them. In other words, we are not focusing on Jesus but ourselves.
- Focusing on doctrinal correctness i.e. a form of Gnosticism of studying to get all the facts, doctrines or rules right but not focusing on Jesus
- Religiosity focusing on performing all the right rituals or being very religious in our lifestyle
- Traumas, diseases, losses, suffering, pain, illness, cruelty, unfairness which can cause doubt and rejection of God
- False philosophies that replace God with either false gods or no God
- others?

Read last paragraph, “Between father and son...” Do you agree?

Would we say that when genuine healthy, loving and trusting relationships occur, that it is only possible because of the work of Jesus through the agency of the Holy Spirit working in those people’s hearts?

What about if we see healthy love in people who claim that they either don’t believe in God or reject Jesus as Savior?

What law lens do you answer this question through?

- Imperial/imposed human law lens: to fail to accept Jesus means one has failed to accept His legal payment, which means that they remain outside God's grace legally and therefore cannot have the benefits of God in their life—they remain lost
- Design law: one realizes that the problem is not legal but a state of being and that God works via the Holy Spirit to bring His principles (character of Christ) into the heart of everyone who values His principles and chooses them wherever they cognitively know about God or not. Thus, people who haven't understood the reality of Jesus and what He has accomplished, but value the principles of God the Holy Spirit still works in them to heal and restore them. (Romans 2:12)

Another way to say this is that wherever we see the principles of God being lived out it is evidence of the Spirit of God at work because humans unaided by God's Spirit are not able to live out God's methods or principles.

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses on selfishness and how it destroys families—how would you describe selfishness? What motivates or increases or drives selfishness?

Fear increases selfishness—fear of not being loved, liked, good enough, getting enough, having enough, getting hurt, being rejected, betrayed etc.

What reduces or combats selfishness? Love and trust—being loved first and then loving others—actually loving the other more than self so one is willing to sacrifice self for the good of another, and experience trust in a trustworthy other.

Most of us recognize the obvious manifestations of selfishness—cruel words, ugly attitudes, stealing from another, etc. but what are some of the more hidden ways selfishness occurs in families—ways we may not recognize as selfish?

- How about a child disobeys and a parent, and the parent, rather than disciplining and enforcing a boundary, tells them not to do it again but lets them off—is this love or could this be a parent who doesn't like the distress it causes them when they discipline so to avoid their own emotional discomfort they don't discipline the child but allow themselves to think they are showing mercy?
- A parent is shopping with their young child and the child sees some candy and wants it, but the parent doesn't want the child to have it. The child makes a scene so the parent buys the candy and the child quiets down. Is this love or selfishness on the parent's part?
- A husband is frustrated because his wife discloses to friends that he recently had a demotion at work. He wasn't yet ready to disclosed this information, and his wife has a long pattern of sharing such information before he is ready. But, rather than confront his wife with his frustration and hurt, he keeps silent to avoid an argument that he knows will ensue.
 - Was the action of the wife an act of love?

- Is the action of the husband to not discuss the issue an act of love or selfishness?
- A husband loves his wife so much and finds her so beautiful that he is certain he isn't good enough for her and it is only a matter of time until she finds another man better than him; so he constantly monitors her, questions her fidelity, accuses her of looking at other men, checks up on her, interrogates her on where she has been, who she has talked to, whether she really loves him and wants to be with him. He claims he only does this because he loves her so much—is this love?
- A wife had an affair with a coworker 10 years ago. She repented of it and has reconciled to her husband and has been loyal since. The husband states he has forgiven her, but frequently reminds her that he has been faithful to her and she cheated, or she was unfaithful, or she disobeyed and sinned and he did not. He is the good and faithful husband, while she is the sinful harlot wife. Is he being loving to his wife or selfish?

Do we recognize selfishness when it isn't taking an action to directly hurt another, but is primarily about protecting ourselves from feeling something uncomfortable?

If we love others are we willing to take actions that are objectively right, healthy, reasonable and good, even if others will be mad at us? Do we love others enough to let them be mad at us to do what is best for them? Remember the slogan "Friends don't let friends drive drunk." This is an example of the principle of love overruling feelings.

WEDNESDAY

Read Ephesians 5:21:

Submit to one another out of reverence for Christ. (NIV84)

Who is to submit to whom?

Read first paragraph, "The word submit..." What is submission? To whom are we to submit? Are we to submit our thinking and individuality to others?

Are wives to submit to their husbands in some way different than the husband is to submit to the wife?

What do you think of these insights from EGW:

A woman that will submit to be ever dictated to in the smallest matters of domestic life, who will yield up her identity, will never be of much use or blessing in the world, and will not answer the purpose of God in her existence. She is a mere machine to be guided by another's will and another's mind. God has given each one, men and women, an identity, an individuality, that they must act in the fear of God for themselves.--TSB 25 (1885). {DG 183.2}

Your course since your marriage, in taking possession of and controlling the means of her [whom] you had made your wife, shows your motives to be wrong. All these things are against you and show on your part very deep selfishness and a dictatorial spirit which God would not have her submit to. Her marriage does not make null and void her stewardship. It does not destroy her identity. Her individuality should be preserved if she would glorify God with her body and spirit, which are His. Her individuality cannot be submerged in you. She has duties she owes to God which you have no right to interfere with. God has claims upon her which you cannot meet. In the providence of God she has become His steward, and this she should refuse to yield to you or any other one. {TSB 29.1}

I beseech you by the mercies of God that you take your position for the right without reference to the will or judgment of your wife. You have allowed her mind to be a controlling power in your life. Yet you do not see this or many other things you ought to see because you are not prepared to see them in the light of the Spirit of God. For years your wife has refused to submit herself to the influence of the Holy Spirit. She has never been transformed in character. She has a strong mind and a powerful influence over you which confuses your judgment, making you in some respects a weak man. While you allow her to lead you on, while you consent to merge your individuality in hers, anything I may say to you or write to you will be as idle tales. {18MR 263.1}

So, what is a healthy submission?

What do you think of the principle the lesson highlights of “mutuality in self-giving” as a unique Christian principle?

Would relationships of dominance, control, forced submission be in harmony with God’s design? Might the Bible condemn such relationships?

Some believe this type of relationship is exactly what the Bible condemns when it condemns homosexuality. Homosexuality in the Roman world was not loving, mutual self-giving in a committed other-centered relationship.

From an article in the Huffington post, reposted on Yahoo, Evangelical Rev. Canon Steve Chalke, examining archeological artwork from Pompei, which was preserved in volcanic ash in AD 79, about the time Paul was writing his New Testament letters, concludes:

Chalke explains that the Apostle Paul was writing during a time when it was perfectly acceptable for people on the lower rungs of society — slaves, prostitutes, gladiators, refugees — to be sexually exploited and abused by rich and powerful Roman citizens.

The minister claims it was normal and even expected for Roman men to have sexual playthings apart from their wives. This meant having sex with concubines and young boys. Some Roman women also used people of lower status for their own sexual pleasure, Chalke said. But one thing Romans couldn't do was abuse another Roman citizen.

"Roman boys were protected in a way that slave boys weren't. For a Roman man, sex was a legitimate part of life, but you had to have sex with an inferior and you had to penetrate them, you weren't allowed to be penetrated," Chalke said in his talk...

It was this kind of exploitation of fellow human beings that Chalke believes Paul and other New Testament writers were speaking out against when they wrote these ancient scriptures. When 1 Timothy and 1 Corinthians make references to men who have sex with other men, it's part of a much longer list of people who are exploitative — murderers, slave traders, liars, perjurers, thieves, the greedy, slanderers, swindlers. Chalke believes Paul is warning the early Christian church against engaging in human relationships that are based on exploitation, abuse, and corruption.

On the other hand, he claims, the New Testament has nothing to say about genuine, compassionate love between people of the same gender, as it is understood in today's world. <https://www.yahoo.com/news/could-ancient-porn-change-way-192620480.html>

What do you think about these conclusions?

Here is what the prophet Ezekiel said about the sins of Sodom, see if it fits with what Chalke proposes:

Now this was the sin of your sister Sodom: She and her daughters were arrogant, overfed and unconcerned; they did not help the poor and needy. ⁵⁰ They were haughty and did detestable things before me... 16:49.50 NIV84

THURSDAY

What is the Bible plan for marriage?

The lesson points out the plan of committed and loyal love to the other. No doubt this is God's plan for people.

They cite the example of Hosea who married Gomer the prostitute, who was unfaithful on many occasions and how Hosea sought her out to bring her back over and over again.

Is this an example for us in how we should handle the unfaithful spouse?

Or, is this another example of how Israel and the stories in the Bible are not only historic but metaphoric? Was Hosea demonstrating how God wants every person to handle every case of adultery or was Hosea demonstrating how God handles our unfaithfulness to Him?

Why is it wrong to tell Christians that in all cases of adultery the loyal spouse must seek to reconcile the marriage and take the cheating spouse back, even if the spouse has not repented and remains untrustworthy?

Because the goal of true Christianity and love is the ultimate healing of the person in sin. Thus, if a husband or wife loves a cheating spouse they want to see them have the selfishness in their heart eliminated and for them to become like Jesus in character. If the cheating spouse refuses to repent, and the healthy spouse loves the cheating spouse, the healthy spouse must say this is unacceptable and that they will not cooperate with the destruction of the soul of their partner. A divorce, in some situations, may be the only means to effectively communicate this to the cheating spouse. In some circumstance, staying with a cheating spouse can send the message that the cheating is okay and collude with the self-destruction of their character.

This principle is true in all relationships, love seeks to heal and restore, not collude with destruction.

FRIDAY

Read third paragraph, “The secret of family unity...” But what happens in the family if you move closer to Christ but other family members do not?

Here is Matthew 10:34-38 from The Remedy:

Jesus said:

"Don't think that I have come to make peace with a selfish world. I have not come to bring peace with selfishness, but a sword to cut selfishness out of the hearts of people.³⁵ I have come to cut dysfunctional family ties: to free a son from selfish loyalty to his father's ambitions and feuds, to sever a daughter from the control of an oppressive and manipulative mother, to cut through the fear and hostility a daughter-in-law has toward her mother-in-law.³⁶ A person's worst enemies are often members of their own family.

³⁷ "Those who love parental approval more than they love me are untrustworthy of me and the Remedy I bring; and those who love the approval of their children more than me are untrustworthy of me and the Remedy I bring.³⁸ Anyone who refuses to die to selfishness and follow me—loving others more than self—cannot be trusted by me to distribute the Remedy I bring.

MONDAY

The lesson focuses again on becoming one through love—what do you understand love to be?

Do you love your house or car? This is not the love that heals, this is the value and appreciation and desire or liking you have for things.

Do people have erotic love? Again, this is not the love that heals and is arousal and physical pleasure.

Do you love your families? This can be Godly love as it is other-centered and really focused on the family member's eternal good. But this can also be ungodly as we can love our family members in a selfish way—for what they do for us, for making us look good, or feel safe, or riding their coattails of achievement etc. which isn't Godly love but love for self and what we get.

The love that heals is Agape—it is the principle of beneficence, of goodwill toward others, of valuing others for who they are, not for what they do, of longing to see the other experience the best, develop themselves to the highest pinnacles of Godliness possible.

Thus, the lesson points us to 1Cor 13:4-8:

Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. ⁵ It is not rude, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. ⁶ Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. ⁷ It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres. ⁸ Love never fails. But where there are prophecies, they will cease; where there are tongues, they will be stilled; where there is knowledge, it will pass away. (NIV84)

What do you hear in this? Do you see God revealed in this description?

Do you see anything in this description that doesn't fit with most Christian theologies?

How about love keeps no record of wrongs? How many Christian theologies teaches that God does keep a very detailed list of all the wrongs every person has committed and will use that on judgment day to inflict proper punishment for each and every wrong?

How to we reconcile this passage of love keeps no record of wrongs with the passages in Scripture that talk about record books and judgment?

What law lens do you look through? What is actually kept or recorded in the record books?

If we use the human law lie—then what is recorded is deeds, acts, behaviors, which contradicts 1Cor 13—because love doesn't keep such records.

If we use design law we realize that individualities are stored, recorded in the record books thus if people retain in their hearts evil, selfishness, deceitfulness, etc. the record of sin is not a wrong done to God or others that God retains in some legal book, but an actual attribute, state of being retained in the heart/mind/character of the one who refuses God's healing.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Thank you to all of our supporters!!! We appreciate your prayers and financial support.

To let you know what is IN THE WORKS in addition to our weekly class:

- Audio version of the Remedy is in production, we have them recorded and now doing final editing
- A weekly 15-minute radio show/podcast started in April

MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course.

Go to events.comeandreason.com for more

The event is structured to have short 15-30 minute presentations followed by 15 minute round table discussions. Some of the talks include:

- In the Beginning—An Accurate Diagnosis: God’s Design and What Went Wrong
- The Impact of Sin—Fear, Shame, and Isolation
- God’s Law & Government vs. Human Law & Government
- Explaining the Old Testament Through Design Law
- What Jesus Accomplished at the Cross
- Atonement—The Reality and Satan’s Mass Fraud
- Handling the Critic
- The Truth About Hell
- The Judgment
- The Final Message—Preparing People to Meet Jesus
- Effective Public-Speaking Techniques

Some of the goals include:

- Understand, apply, and be equipped to effectively communicate the core differences between God’s kingdom (“design law”) and the kingdoms of the world (“imposed law”)
- Apply design law, the 7 levels of moral development and the great controversy lens to interpreting the Bible and God’s actions through human history
- Effectively explain difficult Bible passages that are used by some to make God appear to be the source of punishment and inflicted pain for sin
- Increase your understanding of the laws upon which God constructed reality to operate and equip you with the ability to expose distortions and misunderstandings that have crept into Christianity
- Improve your ability to effectively communicate truth and draw discussions to decision points

May 10,11, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Barrie SDA Church, 140 Mapleton Ave Barrie, ON L4N 9N7 Canada

May 18, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be a speaker at the Love and Transformation Institute: The Epidemic Rise of Anxiety, Depression and Suicide at the Phoenix Seminary, in Scottsdale, AZ.

June 8, 2019: Dr. Jennings will present The Aging Brain Seminar at Mid Columbia Medical Center, in The Dalles, OR.

June 28, 29, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Windsor SDA church in Windsor, Ontario Canada

July 10, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the 3rd Global Health Conference, sponsored by the General Conference of SDA and held at Loma Linda University.

July 19,20, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Living Truth SDA Church in London, Ontario Canada.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

November 15, 16, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the SDA Health Worker's Association meeting in Oslo Norway.

2019 Q2 Family Seasons - Lesson 8

Season of Parenting

Lori Atkins

SABBATH

How many parents do we have here in class this morning? Well, I know there is nothing you parents love more than getting advice and guidance from folks who are NOT parents...right? Please just know that I am super sensitive to that fact, and will be deferring frequently today to all you parents out there for the real, real deal.

In Bible times, and historically...babies and children have been kind of a big thing...and were associated with wealth and power and royalty, and even being blessed by God. Many of these women pled..poured out their hearts to God begging for a child - remember Hannah weeping before the tabernacle or Rachel thinking of death as a preferred alternative to barrenness. We talked a little about these miracle birth stories last week, and about how the stories chosen to be recorded in the Bible serve as a historical record for sure, but can also serve to reveal a larger realities or as object lessons. There are 7 examples of barren women who were healed and gave birth and each one of those children are all types of Christ. So...real people, real history, but their stories also serve as object lessons of Christ:

1. Sarah – Isaac – Mount Moriah symbolic of Jesus to be sacrificed
2. Rebekah – Jacob – who became Israel the father of the nation built upon twelve sons, Jesus the cornerstone of the church built upon twelve apostles
3. Rachel – Joseph – who sold into slavery, became ruler to free the people; Jesus went into the slavery of sin in order to free us from it\
4. Monoah's wife – Samson – blessed with strength to deliver Israel from bondage of oppressors and rule over them, Jesus has the strength to deliver us from sin and rule the universe
5. Hannah – Samuel – who became High Priest, Jesus is our High Priest
6. Shunammite woman – child died and resurrected, of course Jesus died and rose again
7. Elizabeth – John the Baptist – who was greatest of the prophets, and Jesus was the greatest of all prophets

Did God miraculously get these barren women pregnant? No, the miracle performed was one of physical healing, like healing blindness, or deafness, but in these cases God healed or restored their ability to reproduce. The women still had natural relations with their husbands that got them pregnant - God did not get them pregnant. Mary was different. In her case no miracle was performed to heal a physical defect or malady that prevented her from conceiving. In her case, God did instill a pregnancy in her, a true miracle birth.

Do you find it odd – that God chose Abraham to be the family through which the Messiah would come, and the first three generations – Sarah, Rebekah and Rachel are all barren, and all require a miracle healing to conceive?

What are the odds...random chance? Or is there a great controversy going on?

Was Satan afoot trying to obstruct God's plan by causing health problems?

We don't have any inspired word that this is what happened, but does it make you wonder?

So Biblically and historically - babies and children super important...what about now, say in this country...what do you think?

Seems like not nearly as much. A 2018 study from the CDC, the birth rate fell for nearly every group of women of reproductive age in the U.S. in 2017, reflecting a sharp drop that saw the fewest newborns since 1987. The general fertility rate sank to a record low of 60.2 births per 1,000 women between the ages of 15 and 44 — a 3 percent drop from 2016. The results put the U.S. further away from a viable replacement rate, which is the standard for a generation being able to replicate its numbers. Women between the ages of 40 and 44 were the only age group to see a higher birth rate in 2017...up 2% from 2016. Indeed, more and more women are choosing to delay marriage and children. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the average age for a woman's first marriage is now over 27—the highest it's been since the agency began keeping track. A 2018 poll from Morning Consult and the New York Times found that most Americans planned to have fewer children than their parents. Almost a quarter of the respondents without kids said they didn't want any, and another 34 percent still weren't sure.

What are some factors that might be contributing to these changing stats and trends?

- Economic concerns - recession, stagnant wages, student loan debt, credit card debt, childcare expenses, loss of second income
- Even though a lot of the economic indicators have improved, people are still not feeling super optimistic about the future.
- Increasing rates of infertility - both male and female...we will talk a bit more about this in Sunday's lesson

So why do you think children were part of God's plan?

Was there a purpose for the establishment of the human family?

What was happening in the universe - what was the cosmic context of creation?

Did children serve a purpose other than increasing the population?

What is the minimum number of participants required for perfect, other-centered love?

The minimum number for genuine other-centered love to exist and function is three—not two. In a relationship of two there can be narcissistic reinforcement—I have seen this in marriages where things were fine until the first child was born and the husband becomes jealous and hostile he no longer commands the supreme attention and affection of the wife.

So was the human family designed as an object lesson...was it designed to illustrate a greater truth? A larger reality?

Perhaps provide us with some insight into the unity and intimacy of the trinity...some understanding of the Godhead and how He governs the universe?

Is this why he created us IN HIS IMAGE and gave us the very God-like trait of coming together in love and giving of ourselves to create new beings in our image?

EGW saw it this way:

“There are three living persons of the heavenly trio; in the name of these three great powers--the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit--those who receive Christ by living faith are baptized, and these powers will cooperate with the obedient subjects of heaven in their efforts to live the new life in Christ. Evangelism, p. 615.

Here's another quote that gives us some inspired insight, talking about A Child's Influence on Enoch—

“After the birth of his first son, Enoch reached a higher experience; he was drawn into a closer relationship with God. He realized more fully his own obligations and responsibility as a son of God. And as he saw the child's love for its father, its simple trust in his protection; as he felt the deep, yearning tenderness of his own heart for that first-born son, he learned a precious lesson of the wonderful love of God to men in the gift of His Son, and the confidence which the children of God may repose in their heavenly Father. – Adventist Home, 160

Can the parents in the room confirm this? Did having children change your perspective or give you some insights into larger realities or cosmic concepts?

Some of you know Stephanie Land, Dr. Jennings' daughter-in-law and the mother of his grandchildren Lennox and Dexter... She was kind enough to share with me some of the material she had prepared, and had this profound insight.

“Parenting is a huge lesson in self-sacrifice and I think that's one of the reasons it's such a gift from God. We see love in a whole new light when it comes to our children, right? Especially when it comes to understanding God in the Old Testament.

Story after story, we see the CHILDREN of Israel rebelling against their Heavenly parent, God. And like any loving parent, God simply wants the BEST for His children. After all, doesn't He know best?

Last summer, my daughter, Lennox, had a very tiny tick imbedded on the side of her neck. An important side note, a few months prior, we found a large, grown tick on her scalp, hidden by her hair. By the time we noticed it, it had dug deep into her scalp and the removal of the tick caused her pain, as a small chunk of her skin came up with the tick. So, to be fair, Lennox had a reason to fear the pain that removing a tick can sometimes cause. However, Michael and I tried and tried to explain to her that this tick was much smaller, and it wouldn't be painful like before. She didn't believe us. And she wouldn't let us get anywhere near her neck. Several times, Lennox would say ok, that she would let us get the tick, but as soon as our fingers got close to her neck, she'd wince away. She would not stay still enough for us to successfully remove the tick. No matter how much we tried to reason with Lennox, her fear took over. Her fear kept her from trusting us. Her six-year-old mind didn't understand that a tick NEEDED to be removed. She didn't understand that the longer the tick stayed in her skin, the greater the risk of catching a tick-borne disease. She didn't understand, that if she wasn't perfectly still, allowing us to carefully remove the entire tick, the head could get stuck inside and cause a possible infection. She didn't understand the laws governing her health and that her parents were simply trying to bring her back into harmony with those laws of health.

Are you starting to see the correlation between this story and the children of Israel? We spent hours trying to reason with Lennox...trying to get her to cooperate and obey. The fight was exhausting and draining. Lennox's inability to TRUST us was heartbreaking.

When reason didn't work, we threatened. We told her that if we didn't get the tick off, we would have to leave the fun activity we were doing. We tried bribery. We tried a stern tone. None of it worked. We tried to hold her down with force. But her constant flailing around proved to be a challenge also. She cried. I cried. It was an all-around challenging experience. But at the same time, all I could think about was "Is this how God feels when we don't trust Him?" Do we believe that God knows best? Do we understand that God wants us to obey because His laws are the basis for life and He wants to free us from the dangerous, unhealthy oppression of the law of sin and death.

Michael and I knew better than our 6 year old. God knew better than the children of Israel. Michael and I wanted to protect Lennox from possible disease or infection. God wanted to protect the children of Israel from destructive practices that took them farther away from harmony with His design for life. God knows better.

The question is, do we trust Him...or will we allow fear to take over? Fear inhibits our ability to trust. Even though Lennox usually trusts us, her fear of pain completely dominated her ability to trust us in this situation."

Remember last week, we talked about some core principles that result in healthy families...and this one was key: Willingness to tolerate the pain that a loved one will experience as they make choices on their own—i.e. not being overly protective or overly rescuing when mistakes are made, or applying appropriate discipline to educate and teach, or offering healing interventions when necessary that might also be painful.

Love will risk being misunderstood, even hated, in order to do what is right.

Healthy parents are willing to allow their children to be mad at them in order to do what is best for the children...and doesn't this basically describe the entire Old Testament? How about it parents...how difficult is it to allow some natural consequences of poor decisions...or to know when and when not to rescue or intervene?

SUNDAY

Childless Parenting

Infertility is more common than most people think, and I'm guessing most of us here knows someone who is or has struggled with infertility.

Today, as many as one in seven couples trying to have a baby will experience infertility. In fact, recent studies show that after a year of trying, 15 percent of couples are unable to conceive a child. And, after two years, 10 percent of couples had still not achieved a successful pregnancy. That's dramatically different than it was 20 or 30 years ago. What's more, infertility is expected to increase in the future. By 2025, almost 10 million couples will encounter problems in having a baby.

What are some possible reasons for this? Well women are waiting later in life to get married and have children, which will inherently result in higher infertility - for couples who are under 30 and generally healthy, 20 to 37 percent are able to conceive in the first three months of trying. After age 30, a woman's chances of getting pregnant start dropping quickly with each year. We have also learned in this class about entropy, and about epigenetics...these are the instructions that sit on top of genes and tell them how they should be expressed...and about the ~1000 or so genetic and epigenetic mutations experienced by each successive generation. Plus, many of our lifestyle choices - growing rates of obesity and environmental pollution are also likely contributing to the growing infertility problems. Some of these effects are particularly concerning because they can accumulate over generations. Normally, acquired traits—like, say, a sperm count lowered by obesity—aren't passed down from father to son...but some chemicals, including phthalates and BPA, can change the way genes are expressed without altering the underlying genetic code, and that change is inheritable. Your father passes along his low sperm count to you, and your sperm count goes even lower after you're exposed to endocrine disruptors. That's part of the reason there's been no leveling off even after 40 years of declining sperm counts—the baseline keeps dropping.

So, over 50% of folks want fewer children than their parents had...25% of those with no children don't want any...34% more weren't sure...increasing infertility rates...all of which has a whole bunch of societal and political and financial ramifications for the future - and all of which is thankfully beyond the scope of this class. But there are a bunch of precious people out there who want nothing more than to be parents and are struggling with infertility, and miscarriages, and shots, and surgeries, and all sorts of heartbreaks and disappointments and emotional roller coasters and my heart goes out to them. The lesson also mentions those amazing folks who choose to adopt children as a way of becoming parents. How many think you have to give birth in order to be a parent?

MONDAY

Single Parenting

I have nothing but mad respect for the single parents out there - it has to be one of these most challenging roles to be in, on almost every level - logistically, physically, emotionally, financially, and spiritually.

Current single-parent stats: The share of U.S. children living with an unmarried parent has more than doubled since 1968, jumping from 13% to 32% in 2017. That trend has been accompanied by a drop in the share of children living with two married parents, down from 85% in 1968 to 65%. All told, 24 million U.S. children younger than 18 are living with an unmarried parent. Most (15 million) are living with a solo mother. In comparison, 5 million live with cohabiting parents and 3 million live with a solo father.

About one-in-five children are living with a solo mom

% of children younger than 18 living with ...

Note: Children who are not living with any parents are not shown. Data regarding cohabitation available since 1997 only.

Source: Pew Research Center analysis of Current Population Survey March Supplement (IPUMS).

PEW RESEARCH CENTER

I love the last paragraph in Monday's lesson: "We as a church have the responsibility to help single parents. James wrote, "Pure and undefiled religion before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their trouble" (James 1:27, NKJV).

One could add, in principle, "and single parents in their trouble, too." The help we can offer does not have to be just financial. We could allow them to have some respite by taking their children for a little while so they can do other chores, rest, pray, and study God's Word. We can serve as mentors to their children or help repair things around the house. We can be God's hands in numerous ways to help support single parents.

Without passing judgment as to how they came to their situation, what specific things can you do to encourage and help single parents?" (I wonder why they included that first phrase?)

I consider this a similar situation to those among us struggling with loneliness and alone-ness - we certainly need to be more aware and sensitive to those needs, but we are also not mind-readers. I find most folks are generous and more than willing to help if they know there is a need, so if you are struggling please reach out and let someone know that you need help cus lots of us would love the opportunity of giving and helping.

TUESDAY

The Joy and Responsibility of Parenting

The lesson describes the process of making your favorite dish - you follow a recipe, you add all the required ingredients, you follow all the instructions, and most of the time you get the desired results.

Then it says, “parenting is not like cooking”...why?

What are parents and educators responsible for? For their conduct in parenting and educating! Are parents and educators responsible for outcomes?

What is probably the most well-known, popular, commonly used (and perhaps mis-used) Bible text about parenting/child-rearing? Yes...of course, it's Proverbs 22:6 - in traditional translations, it reads: train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.

Now we have discussed other possible translations and interpretations in this class, but what really surprised me is that the teachers quarterly delved into some of these other options in depth. It says:

“Proverbs 22:6 is a rare verse possessing just the right amount of translational ambiguity and theological consequence to produce either existential hope or psychological trauma—or both. It is an exegetically juicy bit of Old Testament wisdom literature whose potential English translations can be virtual opposites of each other. Studying this verse can serve as a microcosm for the challenge, thrill, and surprise that make deeper Bible study all worth it. No matter how one translates this text, it does not mean that every wayward child is the direct result of bad parenting. So, this verse should be taken as a general principle about how experiences in earlier years can have long-term consequences.”

The Hebrew in this text reads only “according to his way”, but it has traditionally been interpreted as “in the way he should go”. There is also some disagreement on the Hebrew word “na’ar”, which has traditionally been translated as “child”...but may instead refer to an unmarried young adult, which means the text would involve adolescents/teenagers rather than toddlers...and would read “Train an adolescent in his own way, and when he is old he will not depart from it.”

The text is now understood as a promise, not that good parenting guarantees good results, but that lax parenting that caters to the teenagers’ undisciplined “way” will have long-term deleterious results.

Which seems like the more accurate in regard to actual outcome promises? The second!

When God raised Lucifer and Adam, there were no mistakes – He did everything perfectly – then if the first translation were true, then God would be responsible for failing to parent Lucifer and Adam correctly, but this is not the case. It is a proverb, telling us that if we fail to do any job, let the child be in charge of it's rearing, it will grow up self-centered, self-indulged, narcissistic and will not depart from it. However, the traditional interpretation can be used to teach a general principle, that good outcomes are enhanced by good investments, but such good investments do not guarantee good outcomes.

WEDNESDAY

Parenting as Disciple-Making

What does disciple-making mean? What is the definition of disciple?

A disciple is a student, a pupil, a learner...so discipling or disciple-making means to teach, instruct, train, and...from the root word, discipline.

Remember another one of last week's keys to family unity? Freedom—balancing our actions with the principle or law of liberty...not destroying the individuality of children and not dominating or controlling an adult.

Within this principle of freedom, love sets boundaries and limits freedom of those who do not have the ability to understand or the maturity to make decisions for themselves until they are old enough or competent enough or mature enough to be trusted to make their own decisions.

- So, in love, parents will limit the freedoms of children to protect them, but parenting them to the point that one day they are set completely free to govern themselves.
- Such limitations on freedom are not violations of love, but the actions of love to protect those who cannot protect themselves

And this profound quote from last week: “The training of children must be conducted on a different principle from that which governs the training of irrational animals. The brute has only to be accustomed to submit to its master, but the child must be taught to control himself. The will must be trained to obey the dictates of reason and conscience. A child may be so disciplined as to have, like the beast, no will of its own, his individuality being lost in that of his teacher. Such training is unwise, and its effect disastrous. Children thus educated will be deficient in firmness and decision. They are not taught to act from principle; the reasoning powers are not strengthened by exercise. So far as possible, every child should be trained to self-reliance. By calling into exercise the various faculties, he will learn where he is strongest, and in what he is deficient. A wise instructor will give special attention to the development of the weaker traits, that the child may form a well-balanced, harmonious character.” {CG 39.2}

Where else in the bible do we read about self control? It is the final fruit of the spirit!

Do we have a very good chance of discipling or teaching our children the fruits of the spirit...without being imbued with them ourselves?

These qualities cannot flow out from us if the Holy Spirit has not filled us with them to begin with! Such a weighty, sobering (and at times terrifying) responsibility for parents...and really nothing should get us on our knees quicker. Based on what we know about the design law of worship - the fact that we become like the God we admire, esteem, worship...and if we are going to be teachers, instructors, disciple-makers...does it matter the kind of God we are worshipping and the kind of God we are becoming like? And if we are making students, learners, and followers of our children...does it matter the kind of God they are being taught to follow?

THURSDAY

Fighting for Your Prodigal Child

My only experience on this topic is from the child's perspective, but I am getting a glimpse of what that fight must have looked like by watching my close friends pray over, and labor for, and burden for their own children.

We meet regularly and pray circles around our children and now grandchildren...but as we've discussed here today, sometimes we don't even know what to pray for. We know God will not violate the law of liberty or their free will...and honestly, we wouldn't want Him to...so we pray for the Holy Spirit to do His work in their lives - convict them of any wrongdoing and destructive behavior...soften their hearts, even if they are questioning and searching and rebelling, keep revealing truth to them, in love...remove the lies and distortions so they can see clearly and make accurate and informed decisions. We pray for their protection - physical, mental, and spiritual - while they are searching and questioning and making those decisions. We pray that substances and destructive behaviors would lose their appeal and become miserable and distasteful.

My other recommendation is to learn how God's law(s) work and how they function in reality. Worship Him who made the heavens and the earth - Whose laws are the protocols upon which life and reality operate.

By worshipping a God like this...and thereby becoming like Him - this God is attractive, this God is magnetic, when we lift Him up, He draws all to Himself.

Do. Not. Stop. Praying. And trust God with the outcomes.

2019 Q2 Family Seasons - Lesson 9

Times of Loss

Linda Ojala

SABBATH

Memory Text - "Yet indeed I also count all things loss for the excellence of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord, for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and count them as rubbish, that I may gain Christ." Philippians 3:8

Listen to what Jesus said to his disciples, "In this world you will have trouble, but take heart! I have overcome the world." John 16:23

Loss was never God's plan.

- The "circle of life", as we call it, was never the plan.
- Survival of the fittest was never the plan.
- Eve wanted the knowledge of Good and Evil, to be like God.
- She felt like God was holding out on her, keeping something from her, not sharing.
- Now we all have the knowledge of good and evil, much to our dismay, and the dismay of the watching universe.
- Paul said, "For it seems to me that God has put us apostles on display at the end of the procession, like those condemned to die in the arena. We have been made a spectacle to the whole universe, to angels as well as to human beings." 1 Corinthians 4:9

God has lost a great deal, and throughout eternity knew it would happen.

"The Lord saw how great man's wickedness on the earth had become, and that every inclination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil all the time. The Lord was grieved that he had made man on the earth, and HIS HEART WAS FILLED WITH PAIN." Genesis 6:5-13

"The Lord said, 'I have indeed seen the misery of my people in Egypt. I have heard them crying out because of their slave drivers, and I am concerned about their suffering. So, I have come down to rescue them from the hand of the Egyptians and to bring them up out of that land into a good and spacious land, a land flowing with milk and honey....And now the cry of the Israelites has reached me, and I have seen the way the Egyptians are oppressing them.'" Exodus 3:7-9

Adam and Eve's many losses: loss of innocence, the tree of life, their perfect garden home, the animals that provided the animal skins they wore, unselfishness (replaced by selfishness, conflict, blame, and a desire for control and supremacy over each other), death of Abel, and finally one of them lost their spouse, then the surviving partner lost his or her own life. So many losses as a result of one decision.

And of course, Jesus coming to earth and offering the ultimate sacrifice of His life.

Based on my reading and study, my view is:

- Eve took the attitude of God as being harsh, running them out of the garden and away from the tree of life just because of this one little error.
- Then Cain took her attitude and felt like it was such a little thing to do something a little different than what God asked for.
- After all, he was bringing an offering, and the offering was to the correct God.
- But it was an offering of the fruit of his own work.
- He was not going to humble himself to ask his younger brother Abel for a lamb from the herd that his brother tended.
- He missed the whole point of the offering – pointing to salvation through the sacrificial Lamb of God.
- Sadly, though Ellen White talks about seeing Adam in heaven (The Great Controversy, Pages 647, 648) she does not mention seeing Eve.
- Adam was not deceived by Satan or his wife.
- He put his love for his wife above his love for God, thinking he couldn't live without her.
- He didn't think that if God gave him Eve, he could certainly give him another companion.
- So, after all is said and done, he might spend eternity without her anyway.

Some believe that one of the changes that occurred after Adam and Eve's fall was that instead of having open honesty, it was the birth of what we call the subconscious.

- We not only hid from God, we hid from ourselves.
- Peter thought he knew himself when he said he would never betray Jesus, but he didn't know.

Can you imagine what eternal life will be like without loss?

- It's all we've ever known – fear of loss or actual loss.
- On this earth, I'm more surprised when things go well, rather than when things go badly.
- But in the new world, consider a world where everyone you meet would care more about your well-being than their own.
- No need to fear anything or anyone.
- Now think about the greatest loss of all – loss of eternal life in that environment.

The challenge to faith in God is often due to loss, and Satan loves to push this button!

- IF God is in control, what kind of God would allow this kind of world?
- God could have practiced “selective breeding” like the Nazi's were attempting. He could just have not created any being that he knew would make bad choices. What's wrong with that? No one else would know.
- But God would know...His character is based on love and freedom. Creating a free universe means his creations would have to be free to choose...even wrongly. Even if it hurt him deeply and cost Him dearly.
- Satan had made serious accusations about the character of God, and God allowed him to demonstrate the results of Satan's leadership.

- If God had destroyed Satan, a being who stood next to God, the universe of intelligent beings would have misunderstood God's character, and developed fear of Him.
- Habakkuk asked this question: "Why do you tolerate wrong?" Destruction and violence are before me; there is strife, and conflict abounds. Therefore then law is paralyzed, and justice never prevails. The wicked hem in the righteous, so that justice is perverted." Habakkuk 1:3,4
- "You came out to deliver your people, to save you anointed one. You crushed the leader of the land of wickedness, you stripped him from head to foot. With his own spear you pierced his head when his warriors stormed out to scatter us, gloating as though about to devour the wretched who were in hiding.... Though the fig tree does not bud and there are no grapes on the vines, though the olive crop fails and the fields produce no food, though there are no sheep in the pen and no cattle in the stalls, yet I will rejoice in the Lord, I will be joyful in God my Savior. The sovereign Lord is my strength; he makes my feet like the feet of a deer, he enables me to go on the heights." Habakkuk 3:13-19.

We say, "God is in control", but this is what the Bible says:

1 John 5:19 – "We know that we are children of God, and that the whole world is under the control of the evil one. We know also that the Son of God has come and has given us understanding, so that we may know him who is true. And we are in him who is true – even in his Son Jesus Christ. He is the true God and eternal life."

We should be asking "what is God in control of?"

- He is in control of himself and how he deals with our dying planet and the beings he created
- He gives us freedom to use the gifts/attributes he gave us.
- He doesn't decide for us how we are going to use those gifts.
- We see Jesus as the parent, choosing to die instead of us.

Nicole Nordeman has written and performed a beautiful song about this called, "Gratitude", which you can find and listen to online. I highly recommend listening and thinking about the lyrics.

- It made me look at things differently; it helped me to see why we should be grateful in all things
- That even if we don't get things we ask for immediately, we can be grateful that God uses the tough times to teach us extremely important lessons in how to trust in God.
- Learning to trust God supremely is one of the most important lessons to learn, and it can only be done by experience with Him.

SUNDAY

Loss of health

We are thousands of years from the tree of life; and we all feel it, too, especially when it comes to our physical health, unless we are killed by trauma first.

- We may be born with illness or genetic issues, or gradually develop them over time as we age.
- We feel the helplessness of loss.

How many parents have, especially as they have dealt with an ill child, wished they were sick instead of the child? What do each of these cases have in common?

Matthew 15:22-28 – Canaanite Woman begging for Jesus to cast out the demon in her daughter that was causing her to suffer terribly. Jesus said, “It is not right to take the children's bread and toss it to their dogs.” She said, “Yes, Lord, but even the dogs eat the crumbs that fall from their masters' table. Jesus said, “Woman, you have great faith! Your request is granted.” And her daughter was healed from that very hour.

Mark 5:22-24, 35-43 – Synagog ruler, Jairus, fell at his feet pleading earnestly for the healing of his dying daughter. Jesus said, “The child is not dead but asleep.” and raised her back to life

Luke 4:38,39 – Simon(Peter)'s mother-in-law had a high fever, and they asked Jesus to help her. So he bent over her and rebuked the fever, and it left her.

John 4:46-54 – Royal officer came to Jesus and begged him to come and heal his son, who was close to death. Jesus told those listening, “Unless you see miraculous signs and wonders, you will never believe.” The officer again asked him to “come down before my child dies,” Jesus replied, “you may go. Your son will live. The man took Jesus at his word, and found that his son got better at the very time Jesus spoke those words, so he and all his family believed.

In each case it was a family member asking for Jesus' intervention to prevent sickness, dying or raising from death.

How do we react when we or our loved ones are sick or dying? Shock, anger, despair, shouting or acting out?

We may feeling like saying, as David did, “My God, my God, why have you deserted me? Why are you so far away? Won't you listen to my groans and come to my rescue? Psalm 22:1

- David took his questions, anger and pain directly to God; he sang and wrote about it.
- While Job endured unspeakable pain, he experienced a deeper intimacy with God. He said, “I heard about you from other; now I have seen you with my own eyes.” Job 42:5
- Paul had some type of chronic illness, and how he dealt with it tells us that suffering can equip us to comfort others, it can give us compassion for others who are hurting, and it can enable to minister more effectively, if we don't allow it to break us. 2 Corinthians 1:3-5

Job complained to God about his loss of everything and terrible case of head to toe boils.

- Interestingly, when he finally got to talk with God, notice that God never told him why this had happened to him.
- He didn't accuse Satan or gives Job a reason, like "you were being tested".
- He told Job about His amazing creation.
- If God could do all that, Job could trust Him to have Job's best interest at heart.
- My experience in explaining to my young children that I was going to get a divorce: I didn't want their relationship with their father to be harmed, so I just told them, "You know me. You know how hard I work, how I try to fix things and solve problems, and finish what I start. Just trust me that if there was any other way to solve this, I would do it."

We can't see God and perhaps don't hear Him either, but Christ's representatives can be seen, heard, hugged and cried with.

God would like our help with this, rather than living life selfishly, doing what pleases us and is fun and entertaining.

MONDAY

Loss of trust

Who hasn't been the victim of someone's betrayal of trust? Betrayal by a family member is even worse.

- "Faithful are the wounds of a friend. Profuse are the kisses of an enemy." Proverbs 27:6
- Put another way, An enemy stabs you in the back; a friend stabs you in the front.
- Forgiveness is the oil of friendship.

"If an enemy were insulting me, I could endure it; if a foe were raising himself against me, I could hide from him. But it is you, a man like myself, my companion, my close friend, with whom I once enjoyed sweet fellowship as we walked with the throng at the house of God....But I call to God and the Lord saves me. Evening, morning and noon I cry out in distress, and he hears my voice. He ransoms me unharmed from the battle waged against me, even though many oppose me. God who is enthroned forever, will hear them and afflict them – men who never change their ways and have no fear of God. My companion attacks his friends, he violates his covenant. His speech is smooth as butter, yet war is in his heart; his swords are more soothing than oil, yet they are drawn swords. Cast your cares on the Lord and he will sustain you; he will never let the righteous fall." Psalm 55:12-14, 16-22.

We have to decide if we should leave the relationship or attempt to repair and rebuild the relationship. It is a very individual thing, and this idea should prevent us from judging others.

How can both trust and the relationship be healed and saved?

Matthew 6:14,15 – after teaching his disciples 'The Lord's Prayer', Jesus said, “For if you forgive men when they sin against you, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. But if you do not forgive men their sins, your Father will not forgive your sins.”

James 5:16 – Jesus' brother James said, “Therefore confess your sins to each other and pray for each other so that you may be healed. The prayer of a righteous man is powerful and effective.

1 Peter 5:6,7 – Jesus' disciple Peter said, “Humble yourselves, therefore, under God's mighty hand, that he may lift you up in due time. Cast all your anxiety of him because he cares for you.”

1 John 4:18 - Jesus' disciple John said, “There is no fear in love. But perfect love drives out fear, because fear has to do with punishment. The one who fears is not made perfect in love.”

My Grami's story of rearing nine children through the depression, having less than an eight grade education, with a husband who only came back home long enough to sire another child, then off to the gold mines he would go.

- He did not provide for his family, but left my grandmother with tremendous debt. But she paid off every penny.
- She learned to trust completely in God, and guess what? God fulfilled His promises to be “your true husband” and “a father to the fatherless.”
- God performed many outright miracles that enabled her to keep the children fed, clothed, educated, healthy and together throughout their entire childhood and into adulthood.
- Ultimately, my grandfather was gone for ten years, after which he came back to Grami, was rebaptized and Grami forgave him. They remained married until the day he died.
- My mother felt she couldn't forgive him, though, because of how he had treated her mother.
- Ultimately, Grami taught my mother to forgive him, and pointed to preparation for the unselfish life of love in heaven as the thing we should be pursuing now on earth.

Rebuilding broken trust is a journey that begins with a sincere acknowledgment of the hurt and confession of the truth, whatever the offense and whoever the offender.

- When adultery has been the cause of the breach, healing begins when the betrayer confesses, with complete openness. There can remain nothing hidden, or else, when it is found out (and it will be found out), it will destroy the trust that was reestablished.
- The second time trust is breached, it becomes even harder to heal.
- Healing may feel like it comes in a one step forward – two steps back process, but many have been able to rebuild their broken relationship and developed a deeper, more intimate, more satisfying, and happier marriage.

That said, we can't always heal a relationship or trust, as much as we might wish it.

- I was unable to repair my first marriage, which ended in divorce after eighteen years.
- It took a very long time to recover from that.

TUESDAY

Loss of trust, continued

Research reveals that the home is the single most violent place in society, including Christian homes.

- Violence is an assault of any kind – verbal, physical, emotional, sexual, or active or passive neglect that is committed by one or more persons against another in the family.
- Abusive behavior is the conscious choice of a person to exercise power and control over another. Victims are not responsible for causing the abuser to abuse.
- Abusers distort and pervert love, for “love does no harm.” Romans 13:10
- Genesis 37:17-28 – Joseph's brothers plotting to kill him, but sold him into slavery instead.
- 2 Samuel 13:1-22 – Absalom's gorgeous sister Tamar raped by her half brother Amnon
- 2 Kings 16:3; 17:17; 21:6 – Kings of Judah Ahaz and Manasseh sacrificed their children in the fire to the gods.
- We watch it in the news and are horrified, but we only see the tip of the iceberg.
- “For Children who are broken...,” a small Berkley Books, New York published book. It consists of a poem written by Elia Wise during her therapy as part of her recovery from childhood abuse.

Many times the abused turn into the abuser, if not healed. They are like a raging fire inside, and anyone who gets close to that person for any reason will get “burned.”

- I believe I was shown a very healing way of praying, while in prayer after being raped, but would also be helpful for any type of sexual abuse:
- That since he made you one with him against your consent, that gives you the ability to pray for him as if he were you. Things he would not pray for himself.
- In prayer, I envision myself walking through his mind, opening doors, turning on the lights, and inviting the Holy Spirit to enter the rooms, to clean out the mess, to show the person who he really is and to give him the insight and courage to turn to God for help and recovery.
- I leave the results to God, but it gave me a sense of power. Power for good, and it was a big part of my recovery.

Would you choose to be the abused or the abuser?

- If you really think about it, most people would choose to be abused, rather than switch places with and become the abuser.
- We inately feel that something is very wrong with the abuser; but the victim of abuse is being preyed upon, they are not harming someone.
- Professional treatment can facilitate change in an abuser's behavior but only if the person takes responsibility for the behavior and seeks such help.

- To those who will open themselves to His presence, God is able to do exceedingly abundantly to help abusers stop abusing, to repent of their attitudes and behavior, to make restitution in every way possible, and to embrace the quality of agape love to heal their own hearts and to love others.

Question from the lesson: Why is it important to provide safety and caring acceptance rather than offering advice about how to live better with the abuser?

WEDNESDAY

Loss of freedom

Addictions – Drugs, alcohol, tobacco, gambling, pornography, sex, food, workaholism, extensive online use and gaming or reading unhealthy material.

- Addicted is when you are unable to stop even when you know that it is harming you.
- “They promise freedom to everyone. But they are merely slaves of filthy living, because people are slaves of whatever controls them.” 2 Peter 2:19
- You become a slave to whatever you are addicted to, and by so doing, you lose your freedom and often harm your family.
- Many people claim that Christianity is merely a crutch, but I have experienced that it is the strength to take the bullets of life and heal from them, so you don't pass them on to others.

Psalm 107 – Shows 4 ways we go wrong, and the 4 unique answers God immediately provides when we ask. Every one of these solutions is illustrated in the New Testament by Jesus:

Type one: ignorant

- Some wondered in desert wastelands, finding no way to a city where they could settle. They were hungry and thirsty....Then they cried out to the Lord in their trouble and he delivered them from their distress.
- He led them by a straight way to a city where they could settle....he satisfies the thirsty and fills the hungry with good things.

Type two: addicted/obsessed

- Some sat in darkness and the deepest gloom, prisoners suffering in iron chains, for they had rebelled against the words of God...so he subjected them to bitter labor [consequences]; they stumbled, and there was no one to help. Then they cried to the Lord in their trouble, and he saved them from their distress.
- He brought them out of darkness and the deepest gloom and broke away their chains...he breaks down gates of bronze and cuts through bars of iron.

Type three: rebels

- Some became fools through their rebellious ways, and suffered affliction because of their iniquities...they drew near the gates of death. Then they cried to the Lord in their trouble, and he saved them from their distress.
- He sent forth his word and healed them; he rescued them from the grave.

Type four: busy, busy, busy, imbalanced

- Others went out on the sea in ships; they were merchants on the mighty waters. They saw the works of the Lord. His wonderful deeds in the deep,. For he spoke and stirred up a tempest that lifted high the waves. They mounted up to the heavens and went down to the depths...they were at their wits end. Then they cried out to the Lord in their trouble, and he brought them out of their distress.
- He stilled the storm to a whisper; the waves of the sea were hushed. They were glad when it grew calm, and he guided them to their desire haven.
- (NOTE: this is the only group that acknowledges God, and have a “desired” haven).

My experience with needing to get out of an unhealthy dating relationship. At one point, I was dating a man who wasn't a Christian, and I could feel the relationship pulling me away from God. I prayed that God would not pay attention to the decisions I was making, that my deepest wish was that He never let me go, no matter what. Within 2 weeks of that prayer, I felt strong enough to end that relationship, which opened the way for God to bring a wonderful Christian man into my life. In many ways, we are all like the demoniac on the beach, who could only “show up” in front of Jesus, and hope that Jesus could read the desires of his heart. And Jesus freed him.

If you let demons in, they will trap you:

- Demon possessed man on the beach – so trapped all he could do was get in front of Jesus and hope Jesus could read the desire of what was left of his heart. When he begged to go with Jesus, Jesus told him to return home and tell how much God has done for you. Luke 8:26-39
- Let the Lord Jesus Christ be as near to you as the clothes you wear. Then you won't try to satisfy your selfish desires.” Romans 13:14
- Nature hates a void. You can't leave bad without reaching toward the good.
- Once demons are cast out, they will return with others if your heart is not filled with God's goodness and protection, and you will be worse off than you were. Luke 11:24-26
- Mary Magdalene had 7 demons cast out. There is a reason we need to do an about face on the direction we are going, and keep our hearts always connected to God. Luke 8:2

Elizabeth Ann Smart – Kidnapped and kept by a man and his wife for 9 months, all the while sexually abusing her.

- When she was rescued, her mother gave her advice that she said has helped her in her recovery.
- She said that the best revenge is a life well lived.
- They may have taken 9 months from her, but holding onto that would only allow him to control more of her life.
- He and his wife were convicted and sent to prison.

- Elizabeth went on to marry and have children, and now gives talks to others about how she survived and now thrives following this unthinkable experience.

Things that people can do that have helped us in our tough times:

- Keep our confidence
- Weep with those who weep
- Understand when we don't have energy to do "friend things"
- Hug and listen
- Be a true friend – example of one of my true friends. I told her I was too busy to get with her to do an activity because I had a bunch of work to catch up on, I had company coming and the house needed cleaning and food needed preparing. I was at my wits' end. Without me asking, she came over, cleaned my whole house and brought food for my company.
- Give no advice, unless sincerely asked – my grandmother said she had given up giving advice, because the wise don't need it and fools won't heed it.

THURSDAY

Loss of life

My story – within the last 1 ½ years, my only sibling who was younger than me, my father, his brother, who was one of my favorite uncles, and a dear friend all died.

I thought I could be strong through this process, but it has thrown me for a loop. You have the medical issues prior to death, then the death, then the financial issues to deal with after death.

Isaiah 57:1,2 has brought a lot of comfort to me during this time,

“The righteous perish, and no one ponders it in his heart; devout men are taken away, and no one understands that the righteous are taken away to be spared from evil. Those who walk uprightly enter into peace; they find rest as they lie in death.”

Daniel, a person extremely close to God, was told by a heavenly being what would happen to him at death,

“As for you, go your way till the end. You will rest, and then at the end of the days you will rise to receive your allotted inheritance.” Daniel 12:13

As a nurse, I have experienced that there are things far worse than death.

- Long, drawn out painful periods of disease and disability, loss of the mind, rejection by friends and family, and loss of support.
- I have been asked to help patients die sooner, because they are so miserable with nothing but seemingly endless days of pain with no hope for recovery.

- Sometimes I think we have gotten too big for our medical britches. Just because we CAN do something, does that mean we should?
- I have felt that we are often kinder to our pets then we are to our loved ones and patients.
- Hospice did a survey that showed it was a faster, easier death for someone terminal if when they couldn't eat, they weren't forced fed or given water. Very quickly, the minerals in our bodies would go haywire and cause the person to become sleepy and confused.
- However, if we step in and give them food and IV fluids, etc. they often remain wide awake and conscious throughout most of the now drawn out process of dying.

I have a cousin who, because of heart birth defects, has died and been resuscitated multiple times. She assures me that dying is easy. It is living that is hard.

The prospect of dying being easy seems to give those living in pain the idea that committing suicide is the answer to living a pain-filled life.

I have at times been in so much psychological pain that those thoughts came to me. The only things that stopped me was the knowledge that it would break my family's hearts, and my intense curiosity about what might happen the next day after I killed myself.

I thought that with my luck, the best thing ever would have happened on the next day. So I pushed on, got help, and am so very glad I did.

When we are in such despair, we often have such a narrow view. A careful choice of a friend, pastor or counselor to share with can give you insights you wouldn't have thought of yourself. They might even have been through something very similar to what you are going through. They can be the light at the end of your tunnel, then in the future, you have insight as to how to be the light at the end of someone else's tunnel.

A woman came onto Dr. Phil's show. Her plan was to talk about the death of her teenaged daughter and how it so greatly affected her, how she couldn't move on. Then she planned to go home and kill herself, and be done with it. She later came on to Dr. Phil's follow up show, revealed what her plan had been and how Dr. Phil's counsel had affected a complete change in her outlook. He had asked her to answer some questions: Did she have a good relationship with her daughter? Yes. Did she have good memories of the seventeen years of her daughter's life? Yes. Would her daughter want her to focus on the one day of her death, or on the entire life of great memories? Her life of good memories. Will you do what your daughter would have wanted you to do? Yes.

Paradigm change saved this mother's life!

Normal responses to grief include: shock, denial, despair, depression, anger, guilt, regret, sadness, and anxiety. The goal of grieving is not to eliminate all your pain or the memories of your loss. It is to process the loss, to put things into perspective. In the final stage of recovery, you begin to have a renewed interest in daily activities and to function normally from day to day.

My whole life has changed for the better. And best of all, God keeps finding ways of making my life useful, so that no matter what age I am when I die, I will have spent it bringing God's goodness into this dark world.

After you die, it will be a blink of time.

- Like when you go to sleep at night, and wake up each morning. You have no idea how long you were asleep until you look at your clock and calendar.
- It could be 5 minutes or a thousand years.
- The last thing my sister said on the day she died was, “when I open my eyes, I will see Jesus.”
- For her, the spiritual war and the battle is over. She can rest.

It is we who remain behind that are left with that hole in our lives.

- Romans 8:31-39 – If God is for us, who can be against us.
- 1 Corinthians 15:52-57 – We shall not all sleep, but we will all be changed.
- Revelation 21:4 – He will wipe away all tears, there will be no more death, mourning, crying or pain. The old order of things has passed away.
- “The last enemy to be destroyed is death.” 1 Corinthians 15:26.

FRIDAY

Further thought

When I have advocated to my patients, friends and family to seek professional counseling, I am often met with the response, “I am not crazy!” My response is:

- Everything we know we learned from others.
- We developed “cards to play” in the the game of life – actions we saw others use, we read about or tried out.
- We might have been using those same cards fairly successfully throughout our whole lives until something dire happens.... our cards don't work! We use the cards even more fervently...still no help!
- Professional counselors have gone to school many years to learn other cards to play in dealing with the tough things of life, both inside ourselves and outside.
- Going to a counselor can give you some additional cards in your hand, cards that really work, that solve difficult problems, etc.
- Most people will then say to me, “Well, that would probably help, I could do that.
- And they often allow me to assist them to find help to add to their hand of cards.

The well known Psalm 23:

“The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not be in want. He makes me lie down in green pastures, he leads me beside quiet waters, he restores my soul. He guides me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for you are with me; your rod and your staff, they comfort me. You prepare a table before me in the presence of my enemies. You anoint my head with oil; my cup overflows. Surely goodness and love will follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.”

One day I noticed that the “person” of this psalm changed from the third person “he” to first person “You.” I asked, where had things gotten personal and intimate with God? The answer, “Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for YOU are with me....”

“Two men looked from prison bars; one saw the mud, the other saw stars.” Dale Carnegie.

My lifelong pen pal and now Face book friend does not believe in going to the doctor. She believes that if God wants you to be healed, He will heal you. That didn't stop her from calling and asking my opinions and recommendations when she was faced with various medical problems through the years. When we finally met face to face years later, I told her that I believe that God often uses people to help him heal others. Why? Because just like being God's disciples and part of spiritual healing of others, it is good for us to be part of the physical healing of others. He gives us intelligence and insight into how the body works, what makes it sick, what remedies the sickness.

Why would He not want us to join Him in healing others?

Forgiveness – It releases you from the control of the one who wronged you, sets you free. It doesn't excuse, doesn't forget, doesn't prevent consequences or punishment. It set YOU FREE!

- Eva Moses Kor's story – an identical twin experimented on by Dr. Mengela in the concentration camp, first trying to locate and take vengeance on those who tortured her and the other children, then finally her progression to forgiveness.
- What a relief it has been to her – so healing!
- But many of her fellow holocaust survivors belittled and harrassed her for forgiving.
- Her own husband was one of those who felt that to forgive was to allow those wicked people to get a “free pass”.

There comes a point in your life, when you realize that turning the page is the best feeling in the world, because there is so much more to the book than the page you were stuck on.

There are many who regret their bad behavior and examples to friends, family and children, whose hearts are cut to the quick when they see their children following their example, rather than learning from it, but they can take heart that they can also become an example of recovery.

What a relief it is to find out that you are only one tool in God's toolbox. He is infinitely creative in his solutions. It is not all up to you! “All we have accomplished, you have done for us.” Isaiah 26:12

“Praise our God, O peoples, let the sound of his praise be heard; he has preserved our lives and kept our feet from slipping. For you, O God, tested us; you refined us like silver. You brought us into prison and laid burdens on our backs. You let men ride over our heads; we went through fire and water, but you brought us to a place of abundance....Come and listen, all you who fear God; let me tell you what he has done for me. Psalm 66:9-12, 16.

My daughter sent this as a text to me not long ago:

“There was once a group of women studying the book of Malachi in the Old Testament. As they were studying chapter three, they came across verse three, which says: 'He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver.' This verse puzzled the women, and they wondered what this statement meant about the character and nature of God. One of the women offered to find out about the process of refining silver and get back to the group at their next Bible study.

That week this woman called up a silversmith and made an appointment to watch him at work. She didn't mention anything about the reason for her interest beyond her curiosity about the process of refining silver. As she watched the silversmith, he held a piece of silver over the fire and let it heat up. He explained that in refining silver, one needed to hold the silver in the middle of the fire where the flames were hottest as to burn away all the impurities.

The woman thought about God holding us in such a hot spot – then she thought again about the verse, that 'he sits as a refiner and purifier of silver'. She asked the silversmith if it was true that he had to sit there in front of the fire the whole time the silver was being refined.

The man answered, 'Yes', and explained that he not only had to sit there holding the silver, but he had to keep his eyes on the silver the entire time it was in the fire. If the silver was left even a moment too long in the flames, it would be damaged.

The woman was silent for a moment. Then she asked the silversmith, 'How do you know when the silver is fully refined?'

He smiled at her and answered, 'Oh, that's easy. When I see my image in it.'

If today you are feeling the heat of this world's fire, just remember that God the Father has His eyes on you.”

Philippians 4:4-8 - “Rejoice in the Lord always, I will say it again: Rejoice? Let your gentleness be evident to all. The Lord is near. Do not be anxious about anything, but in every situation, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus.

Finally, brothers and sisters, whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable – if anything is excellent or praiseworthy – think about such things.”

Psalm 91:14-16 - “Because he loves me,” says the Lord, “I will rescue him; I will protect him, for he acknowledges my name.

- He will call upon me, and I will answer him; I will be with him in trouble.
- I will deliver him and honor him.
- With long life will I satisfy him, and show him my salvation.

“Strengthen the feeble hands, steady the knees that give way; say to those with fearful hearts, 'Be strong, do not fear; your God will come, he will come with vengeance; with divine retribution HE WILL COME TO SAVE YOU.'” Isaiah 35:3,4

2019 2Q Family Seasons - Lesson 10

Little Times of Trouble

by Tim Jennings

I received the following email after my trip to Barrie Ontario:

Hello,

I just finished attending Dr. Jennings presentations at the Barrie church this weekend. I wanted to thank him for coming and am very appreciative that his schedule is posted on the website! I'm not local to Barrie and just stumbled across the info that he would be visiting. I've been following the podcast for years and it was great to hear the concepts all together and in person.

Thank you also to the Come and Reason class for sharing your teacher, having great alternates that teach when Dr. Jennings is away, and for someone always asking the questions I'm thinking :)

May God continue to bless this ministry.

*Thanks again,
Kelleigh*

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "The writer of Proverbs..." Do we agree with the goal of trying to stop an argument or disagreement before it escalates? The old Barney Fife rule—"Nip it in the bud, nip it, nip it, nip it..."

The lesson points us to Romans 14:19 as giving us the tools to do this, which reads:

Let us therefore make every effort to do what leads to peace and to mutual edification. (NIV84)

What does this mean and how does it help prevent conflict?

Can a person take an action that they believe will lead to peace but it actually causes more division?

When Peter initially agreed with the circumcision group from Jerusalem—do you think Peter was trying to create more conflict or avoid it? But, if Paul didn't correct Peter would Peter's action have led to more peace or greater division? Why?

What is the reason that an action, taken with the best intentions, could cause more division?

If it is out of harmony with reality—i.e. breaks design law, such as perpetuating a falsehood.

Could this issue be involved in the divisions in the church over women's ordination—could people be motivated to bring peace, to avoid conflict, but take positions that actually cause more division?

What principles incite greater division?

Why was it wrong for Peter to side with the circumcision group—was it only because they clung to a symbolic ritual as having some actual value, or was there another reason? Did the circumcision group, in addition to the error on the importance of circumcision, have a deeper error in the way they operated—namely the method they wanted to employ to advance their view?

What method did the circumcision group want to employ? Ostracization and coercion. What is the method of God? Truth, presented in love, leaving others free.

What happens when we try and coerce others? It is a violation of the Law of Liberty and always damages love and incites rebellion.

In the current debate over women's ordination, what methods are being used by the two sides?

Is one group advocating for liberty, for freedom, for allowing the various conferences and unions to have the freedom to decide what works best in their churches but never force anyone to ordain women? Is the other side using the methods of freedom or are they working to coerce, enforce, and dictate to others on this subject?

So, when we consider doing what leads to peace, can we expect peace while violating God's design law, such as the law of liberty?

This is why the SDA church was set up with local control, to protect against central authority dictating rules, to protect the principle of freedom.

Romans 14:19 from The Remedy:

Let us therefore consider the wellbeing of others, and do whatever we can to assist in their healing and to promote peace with each other.

Does this make it any clearer? When you consider the wellbeing of others, one needs to understand design law, what actually brings health and healing to the entire person, mind, body, spirit.

MONDAY

Back in Lesson 7 on Sunday, they quoted a section from The Adventist Home page 179, I am expanding the quote just a little more to what they referenced:

The cause of division and discord in families and in the church is separation from Christ. To come near to Christ is to come near to one another. The secret of true unity in the church and in the family is not diplomacy, not management, not a superhuman effort to overcome difficulties--though there will be much of this to do--but union with Christ. {AH 179.1}

Picture a large circle, from the edge of which are many lines all running to the center. The nearer these lines approach the center, the nearer they are to one another... {AH 179.2}

The closer we come to Christ, the nearer we shall be to one another.{AH 179.3}

Do you see the key in finding unity? It is not by focusing on our differences; it is not by focusing on our similarities; it is not by focusing on doctrinal conformity or a list of right rules; it is not by focusing on proper government or legislation; it is not by focusing on human rights; it is by focusing on Jesus—this is the key!

Satan knows that if we focus on Jesus, make Him the center of our hearts, lives, desires, longings, and intentions then we will be transformed and we will come into unity of heart with others. This is a function of the Law of Worship—a design law—the Bible describes as “by beholding we become changed.” So, Satan wants to take our minds off Jesus—how?

- By substituting a false Jesus for the true Jesus—getting us to conceive of Jesus and God as beings who impose laws and then inflict penalties—this is modern Baal worship, of which the Bible warns. Thus, many will come to Jesus in the end and claim to be His followers but Jesus said He never knew them.
- Business of life’s responsibilities (paying bills, schoolwork, jobs, kids, chores)

- Business in good activities, ministries, serving others to the point that we don't have time for God, rest, or our own health
- Entertainment (games, internet, TV, books)
- Drugs and alcohol
- Unhealthy relationships
- Focusing on sin, the fear of committing it and the obsession with avoiding it, so one formulates long lists of right rules and lives in fear of breaking them. In other words, we are not focusing on Jesus but ourselves.
- Focusing on doctrinal correctness i.e. a form of Gnosticism of studying to get all the facts, doctrines or rules right but not focusing on Jesus
- Religiosity focusing on performing all the right rituals or being very religious in our lifestyle
- Traumas, diseases, losses, suffering, pain, illness, cruelty, unfairness which can cause doubt and rejection of God
- False philosophies that replace God with either false gods or no God
- others?

We must learn how to keep our minds and hearts fixed on Christ.

The lesson points out that we must learn to forgive—what prevents people from forgiving others?

Seven Myths of forgiveness:

- Forgiveness means restored trust
- Forgiveness comes after the offender says they are sorry
- Forgiveness equals salvation—this is the false legal idea that the problem of sin is a legal problem and we need legal forgiveness or pardon.
 - Recently, I had someone say to me, forgiveness costs something to the one who forgives. A price must be paid to forgive. If I stole a million dollars from God and I couldn't repay Him, and God forgave me, that would cost God a million dollars. What is the problem with this idea and analogy?
 - It is based on imposed law—a million dollars is an arbitrary construct—it has no real value and is nothing to God. So this analogy traps us in an imposed law worldview.
 - Let's use a design law analogy to get at the truth:
 - If your child disobeyed your instructions not to mess with the various chemicals in the garage, but drank antifreeze and was dying from renal failure, would something need to be done in order to get you to forgive your child? Or would you instantly forgive them?
 - Would your forgiveness save them?
 - What else is needed in order to save them? A remedy.

- If you donated a kidney to save them, would that cost you something? Is the cost or price necessary in order to forgive or to save?
 - It did not cost God something to forgive us; it cost Him something to heal and save us.
 - And if you didn't give a kidney to save your child, would it cost you?
 - Would it have cost God to not send Jesus? "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."
 - The reality is that once Adam sinned it was going to cost God something—but the cost was not to forgive, it was to save.
 - Now, this is the way we use and understand the concept of forgiveness today. However, some in the past have used the concept of forgiveness to mean the entire process of reconciliation—the offended forgiving, the offender repenting and being changed and the relationship being healed. In that context, we could not be forgiven (reconciled to God) without the death of Christ. But that is not how the term forgiveness is used by people today.
- Forgiving someone means what they did was okay
 - Forgiveness leads to greater vulnerability
 - Forgiveness means forgetting
 - Forgiveness means the offender gets away with it

Read last paragraph, "You must accept..." Hmmm... what do you think of this idea of accepting your spouse's faults?

Doesn't it depend on what we mean?

Is there a difference between making mistakes and choosing evil?

Yes, there is a difference from make a math error in your check registry and accidentally over drafting a check and purposely writing fraudulent checks.

We should accept the human foibles, oversights, forgetfulness, shortcomings, and slips that occur with all people. But we should accept any action or activity that purposely embraces and promotes evil. Why? Because such actions destroy the heart, mind and character of the one we love.

- So we should not accept addictions in our spouse—we should love our spouses with addictions. But if the spouse refuses to address, acknowledge, deal with or in any way seek to overcome i.e. get into recovery, we should not sit quietly by and accept. To do so enables the addict.

- We should not accept infidelity
- We should not accept abuse, mental, physical, emotional, spiritual or sexual
- We should not accept betrayal of trust

What underlying attitude or motive allows one to accept the imperfections of their spouse?

Knowing that each spouse loves the other so much they both want to be perfect for the other and are grieved anytime they come up short.

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses us on our memory verse for the week which is Ephesians 4:26: "Be angry and do not sin: do not let the sun go down on your wrath." NKJV

Is it sin to be angry?

The Bible is filled with references to God being angry: "The Lord's anger burns against his people" (Isaiah 5:25 NIV84).

God certainly does not sin and, in fact, is slow to anger: "But you, O Lord, are a compassionate and gracious God, slow to anger, abounding in love and faithfulness" (Psalm 86:15 NIV84).

So, there must be some aspect of anger that is not sin. Yet, the Bible also describes anger as cruel and foolish and something to be avoided:

- "Anger is cruel and fury overwhelming, but who can stand before jealousy?" (Psalm 27:4 NIV84).
- "Mockers stir up a city, but wise men turn away anger" (Proverbs 29:8 NIV84).
- "Do not be quickly provoked in your spirit, for anger resides in the lap of fools" (Ecclesiastes 7:9 NIV84).

Moreover, the New Testament gives strong injunction that those who are becoming like Jesus are to get rid of all anger:

- "Get rid of all bitterness, rage and anger, brawling and slander, along with every form of malice. Be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgave you" (Ephesians 4:31, 32 NIV84).
- "Now you must rid yourselves of all such things as these: anger, rage, malice, slander, and filthy language from your lips" (Colossians 3:8 NIV84).

So, how do we make sense of anger? How can we be instructed to get rid of all anger—and that anger is unwise and for the fools—yet God is described as getting angry?

The issue is the motive and the focus of the anger:

- Righteous anger is always motivated by love for people and focuses on destroying the disease of sin in order to heal and save people
- Sinful anger is motivated by selfishness and focuses on punishing, hurting, or destroying people, while perpetuating sin and selfishness

Here is a simple example: Doctors have righteous anger toward pathogens (measles, polio, Ebola) and diseases (cancer, Alzheimer's, multiple sclerosis, etc.). They seek to destroy all disease and pathology to heal and save people. But doctors do not have anger toward sick and dying patients.

Of course, doctors do get angry at activities that spread disease, especially when it is purposely spread—HIV-infected individuals who spread the disease with dirty needles or unprotected sex. But doctors still love the addict or prostitute who is spreading the disease. It's just that, while seeking to cure those currently infected, doctors also want to prevent the spread of the disease to protect all who are not yet infected.

Doctors also offer remedies for HIV and methods to stop its spread, but when a person refuses to take the remedy and to use methods that prevent infecting others, doctors get angry not only at the disease, but they also get angry at the refusal of the person who rejects the treatment. And how much greater the anger when the person who refuses lifesaving treatment is the doctor's own son or daughter?

Why are the doctors angry? Because they love the dying person and know they can save them, if the terminal individual would only let them.

This is righteous anger—never seeking to harm the person, but always motivated by love to heal and save, even when a person refuses healing and chooses paths that destroy themselves and others. This is the anger that God expresses:

As the Holy Spirit says: "Today, if you hear his voice offering healing and restoration, do not reject the true Remedy and darken your minds as you did in the rebellion in the desert, during the opportunity to partake of God's cure, where your fathers broke my heart by trying their own remedies and rejecting the truth which I brought and for forty years patiently tried to heal them. That is why I was so angry with what happened to that generation, and said, 'Their minds continually reject the healing truth, and they refuse to practice my ways of health and live.' So I granted them their persistent choice and said, 'Since they refuse the truth—the Remedy I freely offer—they will never be able to enter my rest and get well'" (Hebrews 3:7–11 The Remedy).

Jesus also expressed anger at the hardness of heart that obstructed His healing love, but He still loved those whose hearts were hard:

He looked around at them in anger and, deeply distressed at their stubborn hearts, said to the man, "Stretch out your hand." He stretched it out, and his hand was completely restored (Mark 3:5, 6 NIV84).

And what does righteous anger, which is a manifestation of love, do to those who persistently refuse healing? It acts to restrain and to protect until the point that the person is healed or no further intervention will be helpful—and then love let's go, with sadness, and allows the person to reap what they have chosen: pain, suffering, and death. But it never retaliates. Love is angry, because it didn't have to be this way! Righteous anger doesn't act to torture, inflict harm, or cause suffering and torment.

When Israel persistently rejected God and insisted on damaging their hearts, minds, and characters by engaging in idol worship, God—like a loving doctor whose patient refuses rehab and insists on injecting themselves with harmful substances—set them free to reap what they chose. Without God's protecting presence, enemies of all sorts came in and attacked them; they reaped what they had chosen, a life separated from God.

And God was angry, because it didn't have to be that way!

Selfish anger, however, is not motivated by love for others, nor is it angry at the suffering that sin is causing others. Rather, selfish anger is an anger about the wrongs we experience—done to us or to what we value—not for love for others. Examples of this include:

- Anger at not getting our way
- Anger at having our ideas challenged or refuted
- Anger at having our projects and pursuits interfered with
- Anger at having our self-promotion thwarted or name maligned
- Anger at being assaulted, injured, robbed
- Anger at having been embarrassed
- Anger of envy—someone else getting what we have wanted
- Anger of perceived unfairness—someone else having more than we do
- Anger when someone questions our authority, disobeys, or disrespects us
- Anger at having not lived up to the family standard

This type of anger leads to selfish acting out—seeking to take from another, hurt another, make another person pay for the wrong they have done to us, even killing another in order to protect self, advance self, or promote self. It wants to ensure the wrong is punished, not remedied. This is the anger of sin and selfishness.

So, are we to have peace with everyone? Why or why not?

When are we to CAUSE divisions?

Are we to cause division, separation, segregation from disease, illness, evil, and those who willfully and knowingly spread it or obstinately refuse any interventions to heal and restore?

"Don't think that I have come to make peace with a selfish world. I have not come to bring peace with selfishness, but a sword to cut selfishness out of the hearts of people.³⁵ I have come to cut dysfunctional family ties: to free a son from selfish loyalty to his father's ambitions and feuds, to sever a daughter from the control of an oppressive and manipulative mother, to cut through the fear and hostility a daughter-in-law has toward her mother-in-law.³⁶ A person's worst enemies are often members of their own family. (Matthew 10:34-36 The Remedy)

What sword is wielded to cut out selfishness—the sword of truth and love!

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “Sometimes unresolved conflict...” Do we agree that all forms of abuse are contrary to God’s kingdom of unselfish love?

Then why is it that abuse rates are no different in Christian homes than non-Christian homes? All of the following are the same:

- Domestic violence rates
 - physical abuse
 - emotional abuse
 - spiritual abuse
 - sexual abuse
- Child abuse rates both physical and sexual

Should people who claim Jesus as their Savior abuse their families less than people who do not?

Why is it then that this is not the case?

Because the true gospel of Jesus Christ has been, to a great degree, replaced with a fraud, a pagan construct that has a form of godliness but no power to transform.

All legal religions, including penal substitution theology, are based on the lie that God's law functions like human law. In this worldview, sin is legal, it is breaking rules, and thus it requires punishment. God, in order to be just must inflict punishment. The solution, in this false worldview, is to get someone to pay the penalty.

It is taught that Jesus came to earth, had all sins placed on Him and punished by the Father and this paid the legal penalty. Now what we need is to accept the legal penalty to get the record of our misdeeds erased from or properly legally accounted for in the heavenly courts. Then we are legally declared to be righteous, even though we are not.

There are other versions of the same basic falsehood: We must confess to a priest, take Eucharist, do penance, and have the priest intercede for us, and pray to Mary and the Saints to get the application of the sacrifice of Jesus to our legal account in heaven so we can get the legal penalty properly punished and our sins legally resolved.

But all of these teachings give people a false solution (false remedy) to a false diagnosis, and thus there is no healing, transformation, or recreation into Christlikeness. People stay selfish in heart and abuse their families.

But worse, studies show that the more religious one is the more likely they are to abuse their families—why? Because of design law—How things actually work in reality. The law of worship—by beholding we become changed. We actually become like the God we admire and worship. So, if we worship an imperial dictator, whose law works like human law, a system of rules that require infliction of punishment. Then the more ardent a follower of such a god the more we become intolerant of rule breakers and seek to impose what we believe to be right upon others—first our families, then our societies.

Conversely, studies show that people who pursue spiritual development, which is the development of internal maturity of character, abuse their families less. Meaning, the more spiritual i.e. mature in character, the less we abuse our families.

We only develop spiritually when we reject the lies about God and return to the truth of His character of love as revealed in Jesus and worship God as Creator, understanding His laws are design laws and that the punishment for sin comes from breaking the law, not from God. We must reject the legal lie which has corrupted so much of Christianity.

Bottom pink section reads, "How unfortunate that some cultures all but condone abuse of women. Why should no Christian ever fall into that kind of behavior, regardless of what their culture allows?"

Are their cultures in the world today that treat women as inferior to men—that don't allow women to be educated, own property, drive or be independent? They subjugate women to little more than property?

What is the cause of this? Do they have some false belief about men and women?

What about a religion that teaches that leaders must not marry and thus must remain celibate and only males can serve as priests?

What about churches that teach only males can be ordained? Do such teachings send messages that women are inferior to men?

Who would you rather have as your pastor, ordained and fully credentialed—Ellen G. White or David Koresh? Too obvious—what about EGW or Ted Wilson? Who do you think is more qualified to lead the church?

If you say EGW, how can it be—she is a female?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “The writer of Hebrews...” Any concerns about the ideas described?

What about this, “Even when we take all the steps necessary, some people who have hurt us will still not listen and change.”

What is wrong with this statement?

They didn't say, “some people who have sinned against us” they said “some people who have hurt us.”

What is wrong with determining whether you have been wronged by whether you were hurt by someone? In other words, taking the position “If you hurt me then you did something wrong” what is wrong with this position?

It could be we experience hurt because we are wrong and the other person was correct! If we merely focus on our hurt feelings we can be deceived. We must instead, when hurt, focus on the truth—why am I hurt, not “hey you hurt me.”

How many times did the religious leaders in Christ's day get upset, offended, or their feelings hurt at something Jesus was saying or doing?

The disciples even tried taking the position of the lesson—to get Jesus to stop and perhaps make amends to the Pharisees:

“Then the disciples came to him and asked, “Do you know that the Pharisees were offended when they heard this?” Matthew 15:12 NIV84

One of the problems in society today is the idea that if I get my feelings hurt it is your fault.

The healthy approach is to step back and ask, “What is the truth? Why is this hurtful to me? Is it hurting my pride because I have gone on record with a wrong position? Have I been caught in the act of wrongdoing? Or, is the truth, no, I have done no wrong, the other person is actually sinning against me that is why it hurts?”

So, first assess the underlying reason—if the hurt is because of your own error then address it. If it is because of someone sinning against you, then decide whether there is a redemptive action you can take or not. Jesus remained silent when He was being mistreated abused and crucified, there was no action He could take that was going to stop them.

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, “Too often...”

What is the problem? It is inconsistency—the uncertainty of never knowing where the lines are causes terrible anxiety, and further instills distrust in the child, creates the attitude “it doesn’t matter what I do because it is all random, so do whatever I want.”

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

- Audio version of the Remedy is Now available for Streaming: Download SoundCloud's free mobile app. You do NOT have to purchase a subscription! Just search for "Remedy NT" or use this link https://soundcloud.com/the_remedy_nt/albums and you will find and stream it at no cost. Just click "follow" on the album and you will go to it easily in the future. We are working to try and determine the best way to deliver the audio files in a free, secure, non-distributable, and non-editable way and would like to hear back from anyone who knows of such a service/method. We want it to be in a format that is what you want. We think CDs are not what people use any more, not sure memory sticks are the way to go, the platforms like SoundCloud or Audible in order to download require you to purchase an account with them. We are not inclined to set things up to require you to pay ongoing subscriptions to these platforms when we are giving away the product for free. So, any input from you on how best to deliver these files for free, OFF-LINE listening is greatly appreciated.
- Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.
- MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

References Requested:

I would like to compile a reference source for God's design laws, a list of Bible verses and other writers' quotations that describe God's various design laws.

Therefore, I am asking our listeners, whenever you come across a quotation from anyone, or a Bible verse, that describes or demonstrates a design law in action, please send it to us at: topics@comeandreason.com and put "DL Reference" in the subject line. Once we compile a sufficient list we will post it online for everyone to have.

June 8, 2019: Dr. Jennings will present The Aging Brain Seminar at Mid Columbia Medical Center, in The Dalles, OR.

June 28, 29, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Windsor SDA church in Windsor, Ontario Canada

July 10, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the 3rd Global Health Conference, sponsored by the General Conference of SDA and held at Loma Linda University.

July 19,20, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Living Truth SDA Church in London, Ontario Canada.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

Family Seasons Lesson 11 2Q 2019

Families of Faith

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

Davie Siebert an online listener sent in this EGW quote that I had not seen before:

There needs to be far more lessons in the ministry of the Word of true conversion than of the arguments of the doctrines, for it is far easier and more natural for the heart that is not under the control of the Spirit of Christ to choose doctrinal subjects rather than the practical. - 17MR 143.2

This is one of the goals of Come and Reason Ministries to make God's Word practical—to demonstrate God's methods and principles and how they apply to our lives for healing and transformation, not merely to argue a point of doctrine.

SABBATH

Read memory text: "Therefore we also, since we are surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which so easily ensnares us, and let us run with endurance the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy that was set before Him endured the cross, despising the shame, and has sat down at the right hand of the throne of God. Hebrews 12:1,2 NKJV

What does "author and finisher of our faith" mean? Does it have anything to do with righteousness by faith? Is it a way of referring to the plan of salvation?

Could we say "He is the author and finisher of the plan of salvation?"

Is this the same or a different message from what is taught in the sanctuary symbolism?

Then could we say this is the same as righteousness by faith and the same as cleansing the sanctuary?

How are all of this these the same thing? Can someone explain how?

What is the problem sin that caused that the plan of salvation is designed to fix?

When Adam and Eve sinned did God or God's law get changed? Did the condition of the humanity get changed?

Did they get changed in some aspect of their being? In other words, when they sinned were they exactly the same in heart, mind, character, motive and the only change was their legal standing, or did they actually become changed in their being?

What kind of law is God's law? Design law, so what happened when Adam and Eve broke it? They changed themselves inciting a terminal condition.

What then is necessary for human beings to be saved?

A remedy to cure the condition AND restored trust in the one who has the remedy.

What is the remedy? A perfect, sinless, mature, human character.

Could any natural descendant of Adam and Eve develop a perfect sinless human character?

So, how is Christ the author of our faith, or salvation? He came as a human and by using His human capacities He overcame every temptation to sin and developed a perfect, sinless, mature human character. (Heb 5:8,9)

He also exposed Satan as a liar and revealed the truth about God's character and methods thus providing the evidence to restore trust.

So, Jesus is the author of our salvation by taking up humanity damaged by Adam and healing it in His person providing a remedy for our salvation while also providing the truth to restore us to trust in God.

How is He the finisher? Because He directs all the agencies of heaven to apply in us what He has achieved. He said that the Spirit would come and not speak on His own, but only what He hears. The Holy Spirit is listening to Jesus and applying to us the perfection of Christ as we trust Him.

So, the human species was saved in the person of Jesus Christ and each individual human who is saved, is saved by trusting in Jesus Christ and experiencing from the work of the Holy Spirit the renewal of heart and mind and reproducing within the character of Christ—by our willful and active agreement and consent. In other words, our choice to say Yes to God and Yes to every element of His righteousness and No to every aspect of sin as we are confronted with it.

So, justification is, first the human species being set right or put right with God in the person of Jesus Christ. And then, as individuals it is being set right in heart with God, from fear and distrust, to love and trust. We trust Him and open our hearts. The heart is set right.

And sanctification is the daily healing of heart, mind, character that occurs as we grow in our knowledge, relationship and appreciation for God, continually choosing to trust and follow Him.

Bible perfection is perfect love and trust, such that fear and selfishness has been replaced with love and trust to the point that we become like those described in Revelation 12:11 "These are they who do not love their life so much as to shrink from death"

So, righteousness by faith is trusting God and being transformed into Christlikeness of character.

Cleansing of the Sanctuary is Christ working in our hearts and minds to restore us to righteousness and remove all lies about Him and defects from our characters.

Here are some EGW quotes that describe this:

The law requires righteousness,--a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26. {DA 762.2}

No human invention can find a remedy for the sinning soul...The fountain of the heart must be purified before the streams can become pure. He who is trying to reach heaven by his own works in keeping the law is attempting an impossibility. There is no safety for one who has merely a legal religion, a form of godliness. The Christian's life is not a modification or improvement of the old, but a transformation of nature. There is a death to self and sin, and a new life altogether. This change can be brought about only by the effectual working of the Holy Spirit. {DA 172.1}

The Spirit was to be given as a regenerating agent, and without this the sacrifice of Christ would have been of no avail. The power of evil had been strengthening for centuries, and the submission of men to this satanic captivity was amazing. Sin could be resisted and overcome only through the mighty agency of the Third Person of the Godhead, who would come with no modified energy, but in the fullness of divine power. It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer. It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature... {DA 671.2}

The Holy Spirit ever abides with him who is seeking for perfection of Christian character. The Holy Spirit furnishes the pure motive, the living, active principle, that sustains striving, wrestling, believing souls in every emergency and under every temptation. The Holy Spirit sustains the believer amid the world's hatred, amid the unfriendliness of relatives, amid disappointment, amid the realization of imperfection, and amid the mistakes of life. Depending upon the matchless purity and perfection of Christ, the victory is sure to him who looks unto the Author and Finisher of our faith. . . . {OFC 211.1}

Read first paragraph, “No matter what stage...” Are we impacted by culture? Of course.

The lesson points out that culture was a powerful factor that influenced the change of Sabbath to Sunday.

What is evidenced by this changed? What does this change reveal about how people think about God and God's law?

So, what is the problem—the day people go to church upon, or how they view God and God's law?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “As the gospel...” What is the gospel—good news—about what?

Do you think the true gospel has been preached around the world or an infected view, the idea of God and Jesus, but distorted in a way that makes God out to be like Satan alleges, the source of inflicted pain and suffering?

So, does the gospel, the true good news, need to go to the world? How would you describe it?

So, what do we say to a person in the Middle East about the gospel? How do you tell them about it?

So, let's say you teach a person about the problem of sin, caused by Adam and Eve, and God's solution for it through Jesus and they accept Jesus and want to be baptized and join the church. But the person has four wives—what would you say about that?

- Would you require him to keep only his first wife?
- What if she was arranged by his parents when he was 4 years old and he never loved nor chose her?
- What if the second wife is the one who he gave his heart to?
- What if the wives he let go would be homeless?

- Would you let this person have membership in your church if he kept all four wives? How about hold church office? What does the New Testament say about church leaders? They must have only one spouse. But does it say church membership requires only one spouse?

What about a gay couple who are married, have lived together monogamously for years and have adopted children and then convert to Christ and want to be baptized and join the church—what would you tell them?

What does this mean:

“Man looks at the outward appearance, but the Lord looks at the heart.” 1Sam 16:7

Does it only mean physical attributes like skin color, height, weight, grooming, clothing, jewelry or does it mean behavior—how we act, speak, and live?

Is it about the behaviors or about the heart motive, the character? Can certain behaviors be sin in one situation and righteous in another—depending on the motive of heart?

- Can a person refusing to help someone be either selfishness or love, depending on the situation?
- Can we tell by the behavior alone?

So, if we bring the gospel to people is it about getting them to adhere to a certain list of rules or behaviors, or is it about getting people to know and love Christ, such that selfishness and fear are replaced with love, trust and Christlike character?

When we lead people to Christ are we primarily concerned with the eternal salvation, the heart of the sinner being restored to godliness, or are we primarily concerned that the convert behaves in a way that makes us comfortable?

Is it our job to tell people what sin in their lives needs to be resolved, or is it the job of the Holy Spirit to convict the heart?

Where do we draw the line? Do we then accept without confrontation active child molesters, rapists, murderers, thieves, adultery, addicts who refuse to get help? What about active gossips and slanderers?

Why would we confront such activity? Because it DESTROYS the sinner and we love them and don't want them to destroy themselves, and we don't want them to lead others into destruction with them.

So, do we draw the line?

Read second paragraph, “Christ’s death was for the sins of...” What does this mean? What did His death do to, for, or about our sins?

Is it about our acts, deeds, that He did something or about our sinful condition that He did something?

When we sin does sin do something to us? What does sin do to us? Then what does Christ need to do about our sins?

Why does God show no partiality? Because of His character which is the foundation of His law. His laws are design laws, they never change, and they show no partiality. Pick any division you like—black, white, Hispanic; Christian, Jew, Muslim—it doesn’t matter, pick any division and have them jump off a tall building—will gravity treat them differently? Have them all tie a plastic bag over their head, will the law of respiration treat them differently? Have them commit sin, will God’s law of love treat them differently?

No, God treats everyone the same.

Some miss this because of what appears to be differences in outcome.

If a Norwegian and Nigerian both stand in the summer sun for many hours in Miami, will the sun treat them differently? No, the sun treats them exactly the same, the difference in their response is the difference in them, not the sun. God treats everyone the same—in that He loves all infinitely and provides all truth and love to heal them, but we all respond differently and need different truths and interventions from God depending on our situation.

Read last paragraph, “At the same time...” what is God’s truth?

What is pseudo-Christianity? How would you describe it?

How is pseudo-Christianity still active today? Are there any elements of it alive in your church? What elements?

What is the primary idea that makes Christianity a blend with paganism?

How about an imperial law—rules imposed, requiring externally inflicted punishment for rule breaking, requiring the god be propitiated by the blood of a human sacrifice? Does this idea exist in any of our churches today? Is it Christian or pseudo-Christian? Doesn’t this make God appear to be like any other human government?

What is the real-world impact of believing this view? What happens to us, to our hearts, minds characters? Does it affect how we treat each other and our families?

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to evaluate how culture can impact family life and what lessons we can learn from the Bible examples below:

- Genesis 16:1-3—Abraham takes Hagar to have a child
 - This wasn't merely about culture, for Abraham could have had other wives prior to this if he wanted. This was about Abraham seeking to fulfill God's promise of a child and using his ability to achieve it. Thus, within that culture he used Hagar. How would Abraham do it today in our culture?
 - Either obtain a surrogate to be impregnated by him, or divorce Sarah and marry another wife to give him children
 - So what is the lesson we learn from this?
 - Can't fulfill God's plan by doing it our way
 - Doing it our way can make it worse
- Genesis 35:1-4—Jacob instructs all in his family to give up their idols of foreign gods—what lesson do we learn?
 - A time come in our lives when we have to make a choice; a time comes where wavering between two views is harmful and obstructive to healing and we must choose.
 - Elijah—if God is like Baal worship him, if Yahweh worship Him
 - This is what we are doing in this class and in the New Paradigm pamphlet, calling the question, saying to people: Stop wavering between two opinions that God is love but also the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death. Choose to reject the Baal view of God and worship the Creator whose laws are design laws
- Ezra 10 they sent away all their foreign wives AND their children—what lesson is taught?
 - Rid from our lives the ties to selfishness and this world—cutting away our loyalties to anything that is opposed to God's kingdom
 - Would this mean ridding from our lives our loyalties to human governments?
 - Would it mean ridding from our lives working to accomplish God's purposes through passing human laws and electing certain leaders?
- 1Kings 11—Solomon marries many wives from other nations—what lesson do we learn?
 - Bringing worldly influences into our lives corrupts good character

The bottom pink sections asks, “What things in your particular culture are helpful to family and in harmony with the Bible?”

- freedom of religion
- education

- moral equality of people regardless of race, gender, religion, ethnic background
- principles of autonomy
- programs that help the poor, infirmed and elderly
- health care, firemen, police, and governmental order
- caring for the earth—promoting a clean and healthy environment
- national parks
- food inspection and safety standards, clean water and sanitation
- Regulations against child labor and exploitation of children

“What things are not?”

- competitiveness
- getting rich as the primary goal for life
- the false idea that because people are equal in moral worth that they are equal in abilities
- the false idea that because we have freedom of conscience that all beliefs are equally valid or healthy
- the intolerance of any opinion or view not your own
- star-worship
- instant gratification
- fast food/junkfood
- GMO foods
- TV/Gaming
- evolutionism and godless philosophies
- God presented as the source of inflicted punishment—sends disasters to punish people etc.
- That we are owed something from others or our governments

TUESDAY

The last paragraph states, “With change comes the experience of loss and the anxiety of uncertainty as to one’s immediate future.”

What helps you cope with change?

- God—how does God help you cope?
- mindset about change—view it as opportunity or as loss of opportunity, view it as protective and helpful or as destructive and harmful?
 - Lost a job when I was 22....
 - Do we trust God with the changes in our lives?
- Family and friends

What helps you cope with loss?

- If we trust God does that mean we don't have pain with loss?
- How does trusting God help us deal with loss?
- What else helps?
- Family and friends—knowing you are not alone
- Purpose—if we know our loss serves a purpose we value does that help?

What helps you cope with uncertainty?

- What can you be certain about in the face of uncertainty? This is what helps me cope, to step back to the absolutes, the things I can be certain of:
 - God loves me
 - God wants my best interest
 - God's design laws, how reality works
 - What is the truth
 - This too will pass

“God never leads His children otherwise than they would choose to be led, if they could see the end from the beginning and discern the glory of the purpose which they are fulfilling as co-workers with Him.” {MH 479.2}

WEDNESDAY

Read bottom paragraph, “A common approach...” How do we help our children come to know Christ?

What is the difference between believing in Christ and believing in the church?

Can one belong to the church and not know Christ?

Can one know Christ and not belong to an organized church?

Why does Christ want us to belong to a church group of some kind?

THURSDAY

The lesson states that the Spirit longs to fill believers with excitement about the gospel—why do you think there is such little excitement?

Will the Spirit empower us to take a false gospel to the world?

What is the message that God would have us take to the world?

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, “The religion of Christ uplifts...”

Why does the religion of Christ uplift the receiver to a higher plane of thought and action?

Because the religion of Christ is harmony with life itself, it is living in harmony with the principles upon which life is built to operate.

What does “being purchased by the sacrifice of His Son” and “blood-bought” mean?

Purchased from whom?

How did Christ purchase us?

Is the blood referring to red-corpuscles or is it a metaphor for the life of Christ?

What holds us in bondage? Lies about God we believe and our own carnal, selfish nature.

Then what is the price to set us free? Truth and a new nature.

What was necessary for Jesus to provide these to us?

God had to become human and reveal, by action, the truth of His character and methods, and develop for us a new human nature, a human character in perfect harmony with God’s design law for life.

Who receives the truth and the new nature? Then to whom is the price paid?

Why is this price necessary?

If Christ didn’t pay it would God be unwilling to forgive? Would we be saved if Christ didn’t pay this price? Why not?

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Thus far we have received much positive feedback regarding the New Paradigm pamphlet and have not received any negative feedback about the substance of the pamphlet. But we have received some feedback regarding the style of presenting it, and a reaction some have had that I thought I would share and address:

First again let me re-emphasize the goal and purpose of the document—it is to help people experience God’s healing in their lives—to remove fear, misunderstanding and open hearts to God’s transforming presence. To that end it directly confronts the imperial/imposed law lie by focusing on a specific doctrine within the SDA church demonstrating that it is always about healing and never about legal accounting.

The feedback:

- Concern that the opening with the statement that there has been a delay in the second coming and that there is an infection of thought in Christianity and the SDA church is too controversial and would be off-putting to some. This point was not disputed, it was only the concern starting out with this statement.
 - This concern is not without merit—and it is neither right nor wrong, just is. But I wanted to be very direct and get to the issue up front, so I stated it up front.
- Concern with the Call to Action Section—that it was too aggressive or could sound attacking, or contribute to conflict.
 - I think this was the most threatening to some people and thus would most likely cause a reaction—and that was the reason it was put there—to cause people to react, to stop and think, to trigger people to not merely say “this is another interesting theory” and then ignore it, but to realize it is actionable and applicable to our decision making.
 - To call the question—to cause people to stop and really consider the way we understand God’s law and thus God. In order to call people to worship the true God and experience transformation. I believe the HS is waiting for a people to tell the truth about God so the final message can go forward. This is the motive.
 - Regarding leadership and fitness for leadership, consider this example: Hospitals have policies and procedures (rules) requiring surgeons to scrub their hands before surgery. Now, we understand why this is so (bacterial pathogens etc.) but what if a surgeon didn’t understand why. They just obeyed the rules. So, they scrubbed comprehensively and thoroughly and as a result had low rates of infections. But whenever they are asked why they scrub, the surgeon says, “Because it is hospital policy.” If a resident asks, but what happens if we don’t scrub, the surgeon answers “The hospital will revoke your privileges,” While his statements are both true, would you want this surgeon to be the head of your surgery department or the head of residency training? Why not, he has low infection rates and always washes his hands? Now, he certainly deserves to keep his

- surgical privileges, but I don't think anyone would seriously consider him for leadership of the department. We want leaders who not only follow the rules, but understand why, which requires we understand God's design law.
- The Bible teaches that if we don't understand the truth about God's design law then we are not acquainted with the teaching about righteousness (Heb 5:11-6:1) and the final message of mercy is the message about God's character which wins us to trust to experience righteousness, i.e. righteousness by faith message.
 - In our example of the surgeon above—the rules approach would teach that righteousness comes from keeping the rules, but design law, reality, knows righteousness comes from cleansing from pathogens. Likewise, rule keeping in Christianity is not acquainted with righteousness, because righteousness is about cleansing hearts from fear and selfishness—sin.
 - So we love our church and want our church to be the most beautiful and Christlike with a message that reveals God in all His glory because the people look like Christ in character. This is why we call for people to move beyond rules-thinking to God's design and methods.
 - But because of this section and the phrase “an increasingly authoritarian church leadership” the GC has cancelled my invitation to speak at the World Health Conference at LLU in July. I was scheduled to do one lecture, which has now been cancelled. I am bringing this up because our calendar has had it on our schedule for several months and I wouldn't want people to go thinking they were going to attend one of my lectures and me not be there without informing them of this fact.
 - Let us treat the GC decision with kindness, understanding, and respect. They have every right to cancel my speaking and I am not hurt and respect their choice to do so. So please let no one launch any type of complaint or campaign of protest against this decision. Yet, we also have the responsibility to evaluate what that cancelation reveals. If someone wanted to reveal they were not authoritarian, when the suggestion that authoritarianism was on the rise, how might a person respond? Perhaps by restraining one's use of power? This is the beauty of the Sabbath—when Satan alleged God was authoritarian, made up rules, enforced those rules, God responded not by force or authoritarianism, but by giving evidence during creation week, and then creating a time for freedom—a time when He stopped using His power and rested leaving all free to think for themselves.
 - Then some have reacted to the article by making allegations in various places (Australia, here in the US) that Come and Reason Ministries is an “offshoot” movement, or I have been disfellowshipped or I have started my own church.
 - All of these allegations and rumors are false. We are a 501(c)3 not for profit organization, not a church, just like many other not for profit organizations like Light Bearer's Ministry for example. Allegations like this occurs when people don't want to accept truth and because it is true they can't refute it so they try to divert attention away from the actual message to another issue by attacking the messenger or in this case alleging we are an offshoot, which if accepted then cause people to devalue and not consider the message being presented. So if someone makes such an allegation, simply say those allegations are false and are designed to prevent people from considering what is being presented, how about evaluating the substance of the article and speaking to it.

Thank you to all of our supporters!!! We appreciate your prayers and financial support, which allows us to do and provide all that this ministry does... audio, video, print, conventions, events, etc.

New Paradigm about the Investigative Judgment and Sanctuary is now available in print form in Canada, South Africa and Australia. If you would like print copies please contact our hub in your country.

Audio version of the Remedy is Now available for Streaming: Download the free app SoundCloud and you do NOT have to purchase a subscription to SoundCloud. Just search for Remedy Bible or use this link https://soundcloud.com/the_remedy_nt/albums and you should find it and you can stream it at no cost. Just click "follow" on the album and you will go to it easily in the future.

- Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.
- MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

Check our website for new chapters of The Remedy the Psalms will be going up slowly as they are completed and edited. When an entire book of the Old Testament is complete then it will be added to the app and when you update the app you will get the new book. Thank you for your prayers and support as I work on this project.

References Requested:

I would like to compile a reference source for God's design laws, a list of Bible verses and other writers' quotations that describe God's various design laws.

Therefore, I am asking our listeners, whenever you come across a quotation from anyone, or a Bible verse, that describes or demonstrates a design law in action, please send it to us at: topics@comeandreason.com and put "DL Reference" in the subject line. Once we compile a sufficient list we will post it online for everyone to have.

June 8, 2019: Dr. Jennings will present The Aging Brain Seminar at Mid Columbia Medical Center, in The Dalles, OR.

June 28, 29, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Windsor SDA church in Windsor, Ontario Canada

July 19,20, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Living Truth SDA Church in London, Ontario Canada.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

October 25,26, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Family Life Ministry Bronte SDA Church, Oakville, Ontario.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

2019 Q2 Family Seasons - Lesson 12

What Have They Seen in Your House?

by Linda Ojala

SABBATH

Memory Text – “But you are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, His own special people, that you may proclaim the praises of Him who called you out of darkness into His marvelous light.” 1 Peter 2:9

Paragraph 2 and 3: What have people seen in your house?

- What have heavenly angels seen? What kind of spirit permeates our residences? Can one “smell” the scent of prayer? Is there kindness, generosity, love, or tension, anger, resentfulness, bitterness, and discord? Will someone who's there walk away thinking Jesus is in this home?
- These are important questions for all of us to ask ourselves regarding the kind of home that we have created. This week we will look at some of the issues that can make for a wonderful home life, despite the inevitable tensions and struggles that homes today face.

We should ask ourselves, why we are often kinder to strangers and save our worst behaviours for those we “love” in our own home?

- We let down our guard at home – is that where we let out the “real” us?
- I am well acquainted with people who have left the church, at least partially because they were children of church leaders, friends of children of church leaders, or neighbors of church leaders, who could readily see or hear what was being said and done in the homes of some of our highly respected leaders.

So, if we have time, I would also like to delve a bit into some other houses that pertain to us....ourselves - our internal, personal temple of the Holy Spirit, and our Church house.

SUNDAY

Learning From a King's Mistake

To paraphrase 2 Chronicles 32; Isaiah 38, 39, After serving God faithfully,

- King Hezekiah had very great riches and honor, and he made treasuries and buildings to store all of this. He became proud and he did not respond to the kindness shown him.
- He was told by God that he would die, but Hezekiah begged and prayed for more time, and when God granted his request (15 more years of life and delivery from the hand of the king of Assyria), Hezekiah asked for a sign, so God caused the sun going backward 1 step, as Hezekiah requested.

What did Hezekiah do with that extra time?

- The son of the king of Babylon brought a letter from the king as he had heard about Hezekiah's illness and recovery, and some gifts.
- Instead of giving God the credit/glory and teaching him about God, or apparently asking God for guidance in this matter, Hezekiah showed him ALL of his treasure
- God sent Isaiah to Hezekiah with the message that because Hezekiah showed them all his treasure, Babylon would come back and take it all, including his descendants, and make some of the eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.
- He sired Manasseh, the worst king Israel had ever had
- The Babylonians ultimately invaded, destroyed the temple and removed the Israelites from their nation, just as God had said.

In what ways are you able to use your home to witness to others?

- Every visit to the homes of Christians is an opportunity for people to meet followers of Christ.
- Christians may find ways that are sensitive and appropriate to the occasion to share the good news.
- Christians are not called to show off their material prosperity or accomplishments, though they may recognize these as blessings from God.
- Cleanliness, order, simplicity, hospitality, courtesy, respect, happiness, joy, love, all of these provide examples of how God works in the hearts of the family and home..

MONDAY

Family First

Sharing faith at home –

- Andrew was a disciple of John the Baptist and heard what John said about Jesus. The first thing he did was to enthusiastically tell his brother, Simon (we know him as Peter), “We have found the Messiah,” and brought him to Christ, and that simple act started the wonderful, saving relationship between Peter and Jesus.
- Naomi – Her Moabite daughter-in-law Ruth was converted, even though Naomi was discouraged and tried to send her back to her family of origin. Because Ruth refused to leave Naomi and embraced Naomi's God, she was grafted into the Israelite nation and became a fore bearer of Jesus. This story shows that even imperfect parents can introduce a child to God and foster the child's relationship with God.
- The greatest of all miracles, and something I believe we ought to pray for is insight like Jesus had into other people, their needs and the best way to minister to them.
- In our homes, regular spiritual habits of personal and family worship are to be encouraged. But make these short for children, understandable at their level, and very interesting. Don't make it something the child or youth dreads.

TUESDAY

Peace That Wins

Marriages divided by religion – stay if you can.

- 1 Corinthians 7:12-15 “To the rest I say this (I, not the Lord); If any brother has a wife who is not a believer and she is willing to live with him, he must not divorce her. And if a woman has a husband who is not a believer and he is willing to live with her, she must not divorce him. For the unbelieving husband has been sanctified through his wife, and the unbelieving wife has been sanctified through her believing husband. Otherwise your children would be unclean, but as it is, they are holy. But if the unbeliever leaves, let him do so. A believing man or woman is not bound in such circumstances. God has called us to live in peace. How do you know, wife, whether you will save your husband? Or, how do you know, husband, whether you will save your wife?”
- 1 Peter 3:1,2 “Wives, in the same way be submissive to your husbands so that, if any of them do not believe the word, they may be won over without words by the behavior of their wives, when they see the purity and reverence of your lives.”

What might be the limitations of a spouse's responsibility toward an unbelieving partner?

- You are not responsible for their salvation, but may be the guide toward it, with warm friendliness, loving-kindness, unwavering fidelity, and humble service toward them. Love them as you love yourself. You are one in God's sight.
- When a spouse relates with Christian submission to an unbelieving partner, the first allegiance is always to Christ.
- Faithfulness to the claims of God on one's life does not require a spouse to suffer abuse at the hands of a violent partner.

Question at the bottom of the page:

- If someone in your church is struggling with an unbelieving spouse, what practical ways could you possibly help?

WEDNESDAY

Family Life Is for Sharing

Relationship between modeling and witnessing?

- Modeling is what you show and do. How you act and how you live.
- Witnessing is more related to what you believe and say. The explanation of the meaning behind how you act and how you live.
- But obviously, modeling and witnessing have some cross-over.
- We witness from our homes when we provide opportunities for others to observe us and to share in our home experience in some way. In our homes, others may see how the spirit of Jesus makes a difference.

- The display of mutuality, affirmation, communication, conflict resolution, and accommodation of differences testifies of family life in Christ.
- But all human examples are flawed; however, the witness of the Christian home is not about modeling absolute perfection. The idea is that individuals will grasp Christian faith as they see it demonstrated in the lives of others who are as human and fallible as they are.
- I've found that people hate perfect people, and feel awkward or jealous around them.

People tend to become like whom or what they watch.

- Chose close friends carefully. It is tempting to think you can be a good influence on those who are making terrible choices, but it is far more likely they will be a bad influence on you.
- Girl visited her pastor and said she wanted to marry her non-christian boyfriend. She thought she would be a good influence on her. He responded by having her get up on his desk and try to elevate him onto the desk. When she couldn't do that, he said it was his turn. He showed her how easy it was for him to pull her down to the floor from his desk.
- Since you usually can't choose your family, you often find that you have a choice between following the bad or destructive behavior you see, or learning from it and deciding to make healthy choices instead.
- Some of my friends growing up said that they wished my parents were their parents. My parents had some detrimental habits, behaviors and baggage like we all have, but they expressed love, and fun, and rarely lost their tempers. They encouraged creativity and teamwork. They believed in us and in our God-given abilities. They forgave us when we made mistakes.

THURSDAY

Centers of Contagious Friendliness

Hospitality – meets another person's basic needs for rest, food, and fellowship. It is a tangible expression of self-giving love. True hospitality springs from the hearts of those who have been touched by God's love and want to express their love in words and actions.

Many contemporary families confuse hospitality and entertaining. Some Biblical examples of hospitality:

- Genesis 18:1-8 Abraham and Sarah
- Genesis 24:15-20, 31-33 Rebekah and her family
- Luke 19:1-9 Zacchaeus
- Matthew 25:34-40 Jesus attached theological significance to hospitality when He taught that feeding the hungry and giving drink to the thirsty were acts of service done to Him.

I once heard a well known speaker and writer say that people are afraid to invite her to dine with them in their home, for fear she will judge them for anything not done perfectly. She said she'd be happy to be invited to be the recipient of hospitality that only included peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. She just wanted the friendship.

FRIDAY

Further Thought

The power of the home in evangelism.

“Far more powerful than any sermon that can be preached is the influence of a true home upon human hearts and lives..... Our sphere of influence may seem narrow, our ability small, our opportunities few, our acquirements limited; yet wonderful possibilities are our through faithful use of the opportunities of our own homes.” Ellen G. White, The Ministry of Healing, pp 352, 355

- My grandmother raised 9 children by herself through the Great Depression. And somehow, she managed to hold a “Branch Sabbath School” in her home, which resulted in hearts converted to God. She never had much money, but she managed to get her children educated, made quilts for all of her huge family and gave them freely to others. She was a great vegetarian cook, and made sure no one left the table hungry. God was her “True Husband” and a “Father to the fatherless”. She had an unshakable faith in a God that was as real to her as you are to me sitting right here, and she passed that legacy on to her family. What excuse do I have, do we have?

You can be an example of recovery.

- If you have lived your life in such a way that when you see your children copying from you, rather than learning from your mistakes, it can feel like a knife stabbing into your heart.
- But, you can also be an example of recovery. God uses the most wounded, the least, the poorest, the most humble of people to do some of his very best work. Allowing Him inside your mind to mend your broken parts is the way you give glory to Him, and the changes that follow WILL be noticed by those in your life and home.

What will they see in your church's house?

- Have you ever cringed at the idea of bringing someone new to faith in God to your church? Or recommending that they go to your church in their area?
- Maybe their habits aren't right up there to par with the “believers.”
- It can feel almost like sending your child off to school where you hope they will find friends and mentors, not be ignored or disdained or bullied, etc.
- You can't imagine how many people I have talked with that left the church because of how they were treated at church.
- Many people will go to a church with beliefs that they don't agree with simply because the people there are so warm, caring and friendly.
- Do we expect people to become perfect before they come to church or to God?
- How does that attitude fit with our imperfect, unwelcoming behaviors?
- I read of a man that came to the church of he was to become the new minister that day, but came incognito as a homeless, disheveled guy. When sermon time came and he got up out of the audience to speak, you can believe that his first sermon there was both pointed and poignant.

Jesus said, “When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the angels with him, he will sit on his throne in heavenly glory. All the nations will be gathered before him, and he will separate the people one from another as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats. He will put the sheep on his right and the goats on his left. The the King will say to those on his right, 'Come, you who are blessed by my Father, take your inheritance, the kingdom prepared for you since the creation of the world. For I was hungry and you gave me something to eat. I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink, I was a stranger and you invited me in, I needed clothes and you clothed me, I was sick and you looked after me, I was in prison and you came to visit me.' Then the righteous will answer him, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you something to drink? When did we see you a stranger and invite you in, or needing clothes and clothe you? When did we see you sick or in prison and go to visit you?' The King will reply, “I tell you the truth, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers of mine, you did for me.” Matthew 25:31-40

- And of course he said the opposite to the wicked on his left, who do not enter into eternal life, who's final death in the fire is their eternal end.
- John 15:17 Jesus gave this instruction to his disciples during one of his last conversations with them, “This is my command: Love each other.”
- John 17:1-3 Jesus was praying for his disciples the night he was betrayed, “...Father, the time has come. Glorify your Son, that your Son may glorify you. For you granted him authority over all people that he might give eternal life to all those you have given him. Now this is eternal life: that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent.”
- Consider....this is how we are judged.

What did Jesus see in His Father's House?

Well worth reading, Desire of Ages, the whole Chapter 16, “In His Temple,” and Chapter 65, “The Temple Cleansed Again.”

Excerpts from Chapter 16:

The dealers demanded exorbitant prices for the animals sold, and they shared their profits with the priests and rulers, who thus enriched themselves at the expense of the people.

A great number of sacrifices were offered at the time of the Passover, and the sales at the temple were very large. The consequent confusion indicated a noisy cattle market rather than the sacred temple of God....so great was the confusion that the worshipers were disturbed, and the words addressed to the Most High were drowned in the uproar that invaded the temple. The Jews.....were scarcely aware how far they had wandered from the original purpose of the service instituted by God Himself....The priests and rulers were called to be the representatives of God to the nation; they should have corrected the abuses of the temple court. They should have given to the people an example of integrity and compassion. Instead of studying their own profit, they should have considered the situation and needs of the worshipers, and should have been ready to assist those who were not able to buy the required sacrifices. But this they did not do.

As Jesus came into the temple, He took in the whole scene. He saw the unfair transactions. He saw the distress of the poor, who thought that without shedding of blood there would be no forgiveness for their sins. He saw the out court of His temple converted into a place of unholy traffic. The sacred enclosure had become one vast exchange.

Christ saw that something must be done. Numerous ceremonies were enjoined upon the people without the proper instruction as to their import. The worshipers offered their sacrifices without understanding that they were typical of the only perfect Sacrifice....with prophetic eye He looks into futurity, and sees not only years, but centuries and ages. He see how priests and rulers will turn the needy from their right, and forbid that the gospel shall be preached to the poor. He sees how the love of God will be concealed from sinners, and men will make merchandise of His grace. As He beholds the scene, indignation, authority, and power are expressed in His countenance.....They feel that this Man reads their inmost thoughts, and discovers their hidden motives.....it is as if they were arraigned before the tribunal of God to answer for their deeds. Looking upon Christ, they behold divinity flash through the garb of humanity. The majesty of heaven stands as the Judge will stand at the last day...with the same power to read the soul...with a zeal and severity He has never before manifested, He overthrows the tables of the money-changers...Jesus does not smite them with the whip of cords, but in His hand that simple scourge seems terrible as a flaming sword...even the disciples trembled. They are awestruck by the words and manner of Jesus, so unlike His usual demeanor....in the cleansing of the temple, Jesus was announcing His mission as the Messiah, and entering upon His work....from eternal ages it was God's purpose that every created being, from the bright and holy seraph to man, should be a temple for the indwelling of the Creator....by the incarnation of the Son of God, the purpose of Heaven is fulfilled. God dwells in humanity, and through saving grace the heart of man becomes again His temple.

The courts of the temple at Jerusalem, filled with the tumult of unholy traffic, represented all too truly the temple of the heart, defiled by the presence of sensual passion and unholy thoughts. In cleansing the temple from the world's buyers and sellers, Jesus announced His mission to cleanse the heart from the defilement of sin – from the earthly desires, the selfish lusts, the evil habits, that corrupt the soul.

Malachi 3:1-3 “The Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to His temple, even the Messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold, He shall come, saith the Lord of hosts. But who may abide the day of His coming? And who shall stand when He appeareth? For He is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' soap: and He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver: and He shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver.”

Note: I came across an item on Face book that was about refining silver, that the silversmith must hold the silver in the middle of the fire where the flames were hottest as to burn away all the impurities. He has to sit there in the presence of the silver being refined the whole time, to make sure that it did not go a moment too long, because that would damage the silver. He knows when the refining process is completed when he sees his image in it.

“Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple you are.” 1 Corinthians 3:16,17

No man can of himself cast out the evil throng that have taken possession of the heart. Only Christ can cleanse the soul temple. But He will not force an entrance.....”Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear My voice, and open the door, I will come in to him.” Revelation 3:20. He will come, not for one day merely; for He says, “I will dwell in them, and walk in them; ...and they shall be My people.” “He will subdue our iniquities; and Thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea.” Corinthians 6:16. His presence will cleanse and sanctify the soul, so that it may be a holy temple unto the Lord, and 'an habitation of God through the Spirit.” Ephesians 2:21,22

In putting Christ to death, they Jews virtually destroyed their temple. When Christ was crucified, the inner veil of the temple was rent in twain from top to bottom, signifying that the great final sacrifice had been made, and that the system of sacrificial offerings was forever at an end.

“Wherefore He is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them.” Hebrews 7:25....While He delegates His power to inferior ministers, His energizing presence is still with His church.

Excerpts from Chapter 65:

At the close of His mission, He came again to the temple, and found it still desecrated as before. The condition of things was even worse than before. The outer court of the temple was like a vast cattle yard.....The dignitaries of the temple were themselves engaged in buying and selling and the exchange of money. So completely were they controlled by their greed of gain that in the sight of God they were no better than thieves.

Jesus looked upon the innocent victims of sacrifice, and saw how the Jews had made these great convocations scenes of bloodshed and cruelty. In the place of humble repentance of sin, they had multiplied the sacrifice of beasts, as if God could be honored by a heartless service...He knew that His blood so soon to be shed for the sins of the world, would be as little appreciated by the priests and elders, as was the blood of beasts which they kept incessantly flowing.

In fulfillment of prophecy the people had proclaimed Jesus king of Israel. He had received their homage, and accepted the office of king. In this character, He must act. He knew that His efforts to reform a corrupt priesthood would be in vain; nevertheless His work must be done; to an unbelieving people the evidence of His divine mission must be given. Again the piercing look of Jesus swept over the desecrated court of the temple. All eyes were turned toward Him. Priest and ruler, Pharisee and Gentile, looked with astonishment and awe upon Him who stood before them with the majesty of heaven's King. Divinity flashed through humanity, investing Christ with a dignity and glory He had never manifested before. Those standing nearest Him drew as far away as the crowd would permit. Except for a few of His disciples, the Saviour stood alone. Every sound was hushed. The deep silence seemed unbearable. Christ spoke with a power that swayed the people like a mighty tempest: "It is written, My house shall be called the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves." His voice sounded like a trumpet throughout the temple. The displeasure of His countenance seemed like consuming fire. With authority He commanded, "Take these things hence." John 2:16

Three years before, the rulers of the temple had been ashamed of their flight before the command of Jesus. They had since wondered at their own fears, and their unquestioning obedience to a single humble Man. They had felt that it was impossible for their undignified surrender to be repeated. Yet they were now more terrified than before, and in greater haste to obey His command. There were none who dared question His authority. Priests and traders fled from His presence, driving their cattle before them.

On the way from the temple they were met by a throng who came with their sick inquiring for the Great Healer. The report given by the fleeing people caused some to these to turn back. They feared to meet One so powerful, whose very look had driven the priests and rulers from His presence. But a large number pressed through the hurrying crowd, eager to reach Him who was their only hope. When the multitude fled from the temple, many had remained behind. These were now joined by the newcomers. Again the temple court was filled by the sick and they dying, and once more Jesus ministered to them.

After a season the priests and rulers ventured back to the temple. When the panic had abated, they were seized with anxiety to know what would be the next movement of Jesus. They expected Him to take the throne of David. Quietly returning to the temple, they heard the voices of men, women, and children praising God. Upon entering, they stood transfixed before the wonderful scene. They saw the sick healed, the blind restored to sight, the deaf receive their hearing, and the crippled leap for joy. The children for foremost in the rejoicing....some of them had fallen asleep upon His breast as He was teaching the people.... The sound of these happy, unrestrained voices was an offense to the rulers of the temple. They set about putting a stop to such demonstrations.

The contrast between Jesus and the high priest as they talked together was marked. The proud dignitary of the temple was clothed in rich and costly garments. Upon his head was a glittering tiara. His bearing was majestic, his hair and his long flowing beard were silvered by age. His appearance awed the beholders. Before this august personage stood the Majesty of heaven, without adornment or display. His garments were travel stained; His face was pale, and expressed a patient sadness; yet written there were dignity and benevolence that contrasted strangely with the proud, self-confident, and angry air of the high priest. Many of those who witnessed the words and deeds of Jesus in the temple from that time enshrined Him in their hearts as a prophet of God.

In asking the questions, “When the lord therefore of the vineyard cometh, what will he do unto those husbandmen?” Christ designed that the Pharisees should answer as they did. He designed that they should condemn themselves. His warnings, failing to arouse them to repentance, would seal their doom, and He wished them to see that they had brought ruin on themselves. He designed to show them the justice of God in the withdrawal of their national privileges, which had already begun, and which would end, not only in the destruction of their temple and their city, but in the dispersion of the nations. The hearers recognized the warning. But notwithstanding the sentence they themselves had pronounced, the priests and rulers were ready to fill out the picture by saying, “This is the heir; come, let us kill him.”

To fall upon the Rock and be broken is to give up our self-righteousness and to go to Christ with the humility of a child, repenting of our transgressions, and believing in His forgiving love. And so also it is by faith and obedience that we build on Christ as our foundation.....Many persons are by their own endeavors hewn, polished, and beautified; but they cannot become “living stones,” because they are not connected with Christ. WITHOUT THIS CONNECTION, NO MAN CAN BE SAVED. WITHOUT THE LIFE OF CHRIST IN US, WE CANNOT WITHSTAND THE STORMS OF TEMPATIONS.....The glory of His countenance, which to the righteous is life, will be to the wicked a consuming fire. Because of love rejected, grace despised, the sinner will be destroyed.....The desecrated temple, the disobedient son, the false husbandmen, the contemptuous builders, have their counterpart in the experience of every sinner. Unless he repent, the doom which they foreshadowed will be his.

What does He see in YOUR house – inside you?

“You do not have, because you do not ask God. When you ask, you do not receive, because you ask with wrong motives, that you may spend what you get on your pleasures.” James 4:2, 3

“Submit yourselves, then, to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Come near to God and he will come near to you. Wash your hands, you sinners, and purify your hearts, you double-minded. Grieve, mourn and wail. Change your laughter to mourning and your joy to gloom. Humble yourselves before the Lord, and he will lift you up.” James 4:7-10

“Create in me a pure heart, O God, and renew a steadfast spirit within me. Do not cast me from your presence or take your Holy Spirit from me. Restore to me the joy of your salvation and grant me a willing spirit, to sustain me. THEN I will teach transgressors your ways, and sinners will turn back to you.” Psalms 51:10-13

Final Prayer, joining Paul with his prayer/letter from prison, probably in Rome:

“When I think of the wisdom and scope of God's plan, I fall to my knees and pray to the Father, the Creator of everything in heaven and on earth. I pray that from His glorious, unlimited resources He will give you mighty inner strength through His Holy Spirit. And I pray that Christ will be more and more at home in your hearts as you trust in Him. May your roots go down deep into the soil of God's marvelous love. And may you have the power to understand, as all God's people should, how wide, how long, how high, and how deep His love really is. May you experience the love of Christ, though it is so great you will never fully understand it. Then you will be filled with the fullness of life and power that comes from God. Now glory be to God! By His mighty power at work within us, He is able to accomplish infinitely more than we would ever dare to ask or hope.”

Ephesians 3:14-20 NLT

2019 Q2 Family Seasons - Lesson 13

Turning Hearts in the End Time

by Dr. Wendell Moses

SABBATH

Memory Text: “Behold I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord. And he will turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers; lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.” Malachi 4:5,6 NKJV

What do you hear when you read the Bible?

- What is the primary purpose of the Bible?
- What is included?
- What is excluded?
- For many:
- A code book of commands from God
- Indeed, it seems God does state he is commanding His people do so certain things.
- Stories of God’s people in failure and redemption
- God’s promises
- Earth’s history

Do you see the Bible as Declarative or Descriptive?

Many of the “commands of the Bible” are not described by the Bible as commands.

The Ten Commandments

The Ten Suggestions? - No!, but . . .

Do you realize they are not called commandments until the story of the Rich Young Ruler in the New Testament? (Matthew 19, Luke 18)

Even here, the word that is used could be translated commandment or precept or tradition or requirements.

The Golden Rule

The Study Guide divides up the week into lessons regarding our memory verse, but does not say anything about the last portion.

“I, the Lord, promise to send the prophet Elijah before that great and terrible day comes. He will lead children and parents to love each other more, so that when I come, I won’t bring doom to the land.” Malachi 4:5-6 (CEV)

“Elijah will help parents love their children and children love their parents. Otherwise, I will come and put a curse on the land.” Malachi 4:6 (NCV)

Can you think of other places the Bible talks about God cursing something?

Eden:

- Curse the serpent
- Cursed the ground
- Women would have pain in childbirth
- Women would be subjugated by men
- Cursed Cain

“The LORD will curse the evil person's house, but he will bless the home of those who do right.” Proverbs 3:33 (NCV)

How does that work?

Going back to the Memory Verse of this week. How or why would the coming of God bring doom to the land?

There are commands of God in His word. Although I am suspect of anything Elihu said, he may have been right in Job 36:10

“He makes them listen to his warning and orders them to turn away from wrong.” Job 36:10 (GW)

God commands when we are immature like children to keep up from suffering the consequences of our immature and poor choices.

Most of the Bible is descriptive - not declarative

Emphasis on promises of God: They are described as our only hope (2nd paragraph)

When are promises any good?

- Promises are only as good as the person giving them
- Promises are only good if conditions / people / circumstances do not change
- They are only good if you believe / trust the entity that is making the promise.

Teachers Comments: Overview

“God’s restoration of this sin-fallen planet is an irrevocable promise. We can’t apply that promise in a way that undermines free will. But if anyone can persuade a heart, the Spirit of God can. In this hope we place our confidence.”

Workers With Christ - Jesus, who has redeemed us from Satan's power, has exalted us to the high privilege of being co-laborers with himself. All who choose Christ as their leader, solemnly pledge themselves to his service. If they are true to this covenant, their feelings, their sympathies, their labors, are with Christ. Eternal things will be their highest consideration. They will search the Scriptures with earnest interest and with prayer that they may know the will of God and do it from the heart; that they may work for the best interests of all with whom they associate. {RH December 2, 1890, par. 1}

SUNDAY

The Prophecy of Turned Hearts

Re-Read the memory text: Malachi 4:5,6 What does this sound like?

If the hearts of the fathers are toward the children and the children are to the fathers, what would we call this?

- Reconciliation
- Atonement
- Unity

Makes you think of Jesus' prayer in Gethsemane. "I would that they be as one. . ." John 17:21

Question and then 3rd paragraph: What do you think the phrase "turn the hearts" means?

"Several applications are possible for this phrase: It refers to the reconciliation of the people of Israel with the Lord. God as Father has turned from His wrath toward His children and calls them to return to Him."

Has God's wrath ever been against His children?

God's wrath is against sin. God does not like sin because it results in the destruction of His children. He is never angry at His children

Farther in the paragraph: "Parent-Child relationships are a practical expression of covenant faithfulness with God."

I should never describe God by my failings. We are God's children. God does not have the defects in insight, character or attitudes that we as fallen human beings possess against our children.

Read the memory text again: the final part: How is this different from the 5th commandment?
Exodus 20:12

"Honor your father and your mother, as the Lord your God has commanded you, that your days may be prolonged and that it may go well with you on the land which the Lord your God gives you." Deuteronomy 5:16 (NASB)

MONDAY

Family Reunion

The story of the widow and her son, the meal and oil, the son's death and resurrection.

Second question: What effect did the reunion with her son have upon the Phoenician widow's spiritual experience? 1 Kings 17:24. What can we learn from her comments?

She answered, "Now I know that you are a man of God and that the Lord really speaks through you!" 1 Kings 17:24 (GNT with Deuterocanon)

She believed more after the miracle than before.

Miracles are most commonly seen in the Bible for those who have little faith (trust), not much.

Miracles are given to help us encourage to have more trust / belief, not because we already do so.

TUESDAY

Turning Hearts at the Altar

The story of Mt Carmel, Elijah, and the Fiery Altar

Read 1st Paragraph: How does "turning back to faith of their fathers" "bring healing to their lives, their homes, and their land"?

Does that work for you?

What does bring healing to our lives, homes and land?

Read the second paragraph

Read the 3rd paragraph

Family worship: Reading together God's word

Evening worship should be short, interesting, God centered.

The father, who is the priest of his household, should conduct the morning and evening worship. There is no reason why this should not be the most interesting and enjoyable exercise of the home life, and God is dishonored when it is made dry and irksome. Let the seasons of family worship be short and spirited. Do not let your children or any member of your family dread them because of their tediousness or lack of interest. When a long chapter is read and explained and a long prayer offered, this precious service becomes wearisome, and it is a relief when it is over. {CG 521.3}

Read 4th paragraph: Did God “take them back to himself”? Is that what the text says? Who is reconciled to whom?

Where in the Bible do we have God being reconciled to sinners?

Is it not the other way around?

Answer me, O Lord, answer me, that this people may know that You, O Lord, are God, and that You have turned their heart back again.” 1 Kings 18:37 (NASB Strong's)

God is always our advocate, always our friend, always with us (“He says He will never leave us.”). Always our healer.

“In the same way the Spirit also comes to help us, weak as we are. For we do not know how we ought to pray; the Spirit himself pleads with God for us in groans that words cannot express.” Romans 8:26 (GNT)

What shall we say about such wonderful things as these? If God is for us, who can ever be against us? Since he did not spare even his own Son but gave him up for us all, won't he also give us everything else? Who dares accuse us whom God has chosen for his own? No one—for God himself has given us right standing with himself. Who then will condemn us? No one—for Christ Jesus died for us and was raised to life for us, and he is sitting in the place of honor at God's right hand, pleading for us.

Can anything ever separate us from Christ's love? Does it mean he no longer loves us if we have trouble or calamity, or are persecuted, or hungry, or destitute, or in danger, or threatened with death? (As the Scriptures say, “For your sake we are killed every day; we are being slaughtered like sheep.”) No, despite all these things, overwhelming victory is ours through Christ, who loved us.

And I am convinced that nothing can ever separate us from God's love. Neither death nor life, neither angels nor demons, neither our fears for today nor our worries about tomorrow—not even the powers of hell can separate us from God's love. No power in the sky above or in the earth below—indeed, nothing in all creation will ever be able to separate us from the love of God that is revealed in Christ Jesus our Lord. Romans 8:31-39 (NLT)

The Spirit of God not only maintains this hope within us, but helps us in our present limitations. For example, we do not know how to pray worthily as sons of God, but his Spirit within us is actually praying for us in those agonizing longings which never find words. And God who knows the heart's secrets understands, of course, the Spirit's intention as he prays for those who love God.

Moreover we know that to those who love God, who are called according to his plan, everything that happens fits into a pattern for good. God, in his foreknowledge, chose them to bear the family likeness of his Son, that he might be the eldest of a family of many brothers. He chose them long ago; when the time came he called them, he made them righteous in his sight, and then lifted them to the splendour of life as his own sons.

We hold, in Christ, an impregnable position In face of all this, what is there left to say? If God is for us, who can be against us? He that did not hesitate to spare his own Son but gave him up for us all—can we not trust such a God to give us, with him, everything else that we can need? Who would dare to accuse us, whom God has chosen? The judge himself has declared us free from sin. Who is in a position to condemn? Only Christ, and Christ died for us, Christ rose for us, Christ reigns in power for us, Christ prays for us!

Can anything separate us from the love of Christ? Can trouble, pain or persecution? Can lack of clothes and food, danger to life and limb, the threat of force of arms? Indeed some of us know the truth of the ancient text: 'For your sake we are killed all day long; we are accounted as sheep for the slaughter'.

No, in all these things we win an overwhelming victory through him who has proved his love for us.

I have become absolutely convinced that neither death nor life, neither messenger of Heaven nor monarch of earth, neither what happens today nor what may happen tomorrow, neither a power from on high nor a power from below, nor anything else in God's whole world has any power to separate us from the love of God in Jesus Christ our Lord! Romans 8:26-38 (PHILLIPS)

Elijah

"Answer me, Lord, answer me, so that this people will know that you, the Lord, are God and that you are bringing them back to yourself." 1 Kings 18:37 (GNT)

5th Paragraph: "The all consuming fire fell . . ." When does God's fire ever fall on the wicked and destroy them?

When they cannot be separated from their sin.

"The people of Israel are as stubborn as mules. How can I feed them like lambs in a meadow? The people of Israel are under the spell of idols. Let them go their own way." Hosea 4:16-17 (GNT)

Since Israel is stubborn Like a stubborn heifer, Can the Lord now pasture them Like a lamb in a large field? Ephraim is joined to idols; Let him alone." Hosea 4:16-17 (NASB Strong's)

WEDNESDAY

Turning Hearts at the Jordan

John the Baptist's Ministry

What was John's message? Matthew 3:1 – 12

“Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.” Matthew 3:2 (NASB Strong's)

What was Jesus' message?

From that time Jesus began to preach and say, “Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.” Matthew 4:17 (NASB Strong's)

And as you go, preach, saying, ‘The kingdom of heaven is at hand.’ Matthew 10:7 (NASB Strong's)

Read the second (middle page) paragraph on Wednesday's lesson.

John: Prepared the people for repentance and reformation; Directed his disciples specifically to Jesus

THURSDAY

Turning Hearts in the Last Days

Read 1st paragraph

What is the “Gospel” that we as SDA's / modern Christians give as the message?
Is it different from what John & Jesus gave?

Why / Why not?

Read 3rd paragraph

How is the Elijah message different from the Jonah message?

- Jonah was a very successful evangelist
- Jonah changed history
- Who had more converts?
- Who was the greatest?
- Why?

Read the second paragraph on Thursday's lesson

“In The Spirit and Power of Elias

The closing words of Malachi are a prophecy regarding the work that should be done preparatory to the first and the second advent of Christ. This prophecy is introduced with the admonition, “Remember ye the law of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him in Horeb for all Israel, with the statutes and judgments.” {SW March 21, 1905, par. 1}

“Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord; and he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.” {SW March 21, 1905, par. 2}

This prophecy was fulfilled by John the Baptist; for the Saviour himself declared to his disciples, “Elias is come already.” Upon hearing this, the disciples “understood that he spake unto them of John the Baptist.” {SW March 21, 1905, par. 3}

In every stage of this earth’s history God has had his agencies to carry forward his work, which must be done in his appointed way. John the Baptist had a special work, for which he was born and to which he was appointed,—the work of preparing the way of the Lord. {SW March 21, 1905, par. 4}

The mission and the work of John the Baptist were specified by the angel of the Lord, as recorded by Luke: “And he shall go before him in the spirit and power of Elias, to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just; to make ready a people prepared for the Lord.” The Holy Ghost was to be upon him. {SW March 21, 1905, par. 5}

The wilderness-ministry of John the Baptist was a most striking, literal fulfilment of prophecy. Isaiah had foretold his work as “the voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God.” {SW March 21, 1905, par. 6}

John, as a prophet, stood forth as God’s representative, to show the connection between the law and the prophets and the Christian dispensation. Like Malachi, he pleaded with the Jews: “Remember ye the law of Moses, ... with all the statutes and judgments.” His work and ministry pointed back to the law and the prophets, while he, at the same time, pointed the people forward to Christ as the Saviour of the world. He called upon them to “behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world.” {SW March 21, 1905, par. 7}

The forerunner of Christ lifted up his voice in the wilderness of Judea, crying, “Repent ye; for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. For this is he which was spoken of by the prophet Esaias, saying, The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord.” “Make straight in the desert a highway for our God. Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low; and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain. And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together; for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.... O Zion, that bringest good tidings, get thee up into the high mountain; O Jerusalem, that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God! behold, the Lord will come with strong hand, and his arm shall rule for him; behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him. He shall feed his flock like a shepherd; he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom.” {SW March 21, 1905, par. 8}

In the spirit, and with the power, of Elijah, John the Baptist denounced the corruptions of the Jews, and reprov'd their prevailing sins. His discourses were plain, pointed, and convincing. Many were brought to repentance, and, as evidence of their repentance, were baptized by him in Jordan. This was the work necessary in order to prepare the way for the earthly ministry of Christ. {SW March 21, 1905, par. 9}

The work of John the Baptist, and the work of those who in the last days go forth in the spirit and power of Elijah to arouse the people from their apathy, are in many respects the same. His work is a type of the work that must be done in this age. Christ is to come the second time to judge the world in righteousness. The messengers of God who bear the last message of warning to be given to the world, are to prepare the way for Christ's second advent, as John prepared the way for his first advent. In this preparatory work, “every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain shall be made low; and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain;” for history is to be repeated, and once again “the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together; for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.” {SW March 21, 1905, par. 10}

In this age, just prior to the second coming of Christ in the clouds of heaven, God calls for men who will prepare a people to stand in the great day of the Lord. Just such a work as that which John did, is to be carried on in these last days. The Lord is giving messages to his people, through the instruments he has chosen, and he would have all heed the admonitions and warnings he sends. The message preceding the public ministry of Christ was, Repent, publicans and sinners; repent, Pharisees and Sadducees; “for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.” Our message is not to be one of peace and safety. As a people who believe in Christ's soon appearing, we have a definite message to bear,—“Prepare to meet thy God.” {SW March 21, 1905, par. 11}

Our message must be as direct as was that of John. He rebuked kings for their iniquity. Notwithstanding the peril his life was in, he never allowed truth to languish on his lips. Our work in this age must be as faithfully done. {SW March 21, 1905, par. 12}

Look at the picture that the world presents today. Dishonesty and fraud, violence and bloodshed, are seen on every hand. The widows and the fatherless are often robbed of their all. The theater, the race-track, and questionable amusements of every kind engage the attention of multitudes. In many churches sins have become fashionable. They are glossed over and excused. The right hand of fellowship is given to the very men who bring in false theories and sentiments. Right principles are no longer cherished. The conscience has become insensible to the counsel and reproofs that have been given. Messages calling for repentance are unheeded. {SW March 21, 1905, par. 13}

In this time of well-nigh universal apostasy, God calls upon his messengers to proclaim his law in the spirit and power of Elias. As John the Baptist, in preparing a people for Christ's first advent, called their attention to the ten commandments, so we are to give, with no uncertain sound, the message: "Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come." With the earnestness that characterized Elijah the prophet and John the Baptist, we are to strive to prepare the way for Christ's second advent. Resolution, self-denial, and consecrated effort are required of every laborer. Alertness and consecrated zeal must take the place of listless indifference. The prayerful, earnest appeals that come from a heart imbued with the spirit that actuated Elijah, will bring conviction to the honest in heart. {SW March 21, 1905, par. 14}

"Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world." {SW March 21, 1905, par. 15}

"Behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be. He which testifieth these things saith, Surely I come quickly. Amen, Even so, come, Lord Jesus." {Southern Watchman, March 21, 1905, par. 16} Mrs. E. G. White

The Least of These Lesson 1 3Q 2019

God Created

by Tim Jennings

Read first paragraph, “Seventh-day Adventists...”

- Aren’t all Christians called to proclaim the everlasting gospel?
 - Is the message we are teaching today the same message that Jesus taught?
 - Is there a difference between the gospels presented by different Christian groups?
 - Paul warned that some would come with a different gospel, what is the true gospel?
- What did Jesus teach? What is the message that Jesus would have us take to the world?
- Why are we to minister to the hurting and downtrodden?
 - How is ministering to the hurting, poor, hungry connected with the gospel?
- What law does ministering to people who are downtrodden require one to operate within? Is this connected to the gospel?
 - In other words, if you go to a starving person and say: “Your sins are legally forgiven because of Jesus payment for your debt” does that minister to the starving person? Does it present the gospel to them? What would? What law?
 - If you went to a person left beaten and robbed in an alley and said. “Jesus is in heaven erasing your sins out of the record books” but did nothing more, does that minister to the injured person? Does it present the gospel to them? What would? What law?

What was Jesus trying to communicate when He read these verses from Isaiah:

“The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has chosen me to bring good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim liberty to the captives and recovery of sight to the blind; to set free the oppressed and announce that the time has come when the Lord will save his people.” Luke 4:18-19, GNT

Is there something in this which is the gospel? What?

In the next paragraph of the introduction the lesson cites the parable of the Good Samaritan:

- Who are the actors in the parable?
- Who is the one right with God?
- How many Sabbaths did he keep; how many sacrifices did he make at temple; how many feast days did he observe; was he circumcised?
- How could he be right without keeping the written code?
- What does this tell us about what God wants for us?
- Do you see why they hated Jesus?

- What about churches today—do they present a gospel that focuses on changing the heart to love and truth like God is love and truth, or on rituals, rules, conformity and some legal aspects that fail to heal the heart?

In the third paragraph it states, “In other words, along with proclaiming the great truths about salvation, the sanctuary, the state of the dead, and the perpetuity of the law, we are to minister to the needs of others.”

Is there some separation between the great truths of salvation and, the sanctuary, the state of the dead, the law of God and ministering to others?

It sounds like these are different things, are they? Or, are they all connected in some way? Are they all part of the same fabric of reality in which God is working to save His children?

- Is the sanctuary message anything other than God’s plan of salvation?
- Is the current state of the dead a therapeutic and merciful intervention by God to limit the pain and suffering of sin while the plan of salvation is being carried out to restore us to unity with God and eternal life?
- Is the perpetuity of the law simply the fact that the protocols upon which life is built and God cannot change and God is working to restore us to harmony with it—which is the plan of salvation?
- Is ministering to others the outworking of the gospel, the way the law of love actually functions—in other words we can’t help but minister to others when God’s love is operating in our hearts?

Why are such things so often separated? Because people view reality through imperial law and create standalone doctrines disconnected from the fabric of reality. They think salvation is about a mental construct, knowing the right facts, saying the right prayer, checking the right box on the fundamental beliefs, doing the right behavior, rather than knowing God and receiving a new heart.

Read second to last paragraph, “No question...” What is justice? Doing what is right or just.

What determines what is right or just? The law—so what is God’s law, how do we define it?

When we define God’s law to function like human law, how is justice then defined? The infliction, by God, of just punishments. In such a world view, from whom do we need to be protected or delivered? Do you see how the penal/legal view obstructs reconciliation with God?

But when we define God's law as design law, then how is justice defined? By doing what is right—healing and restoring all who will allow Him. In this world, from what do we need delivery? Do you see how the Design healing view leads people to run to God?

The last sentence of the introduction quotes Matthew 10:8 NKJV, “Freely you have received, freely give”

What law is being described? The law of love, the principle of giving, upon which life is created to operate.

SABBATH

Read third paragraph, “Remarkably, our world...” Why is it remarkable that God loves this sinful world?

Because we think like selfish humans and think love is something we must earn or be worthy of. But, when we focus instead on God and His character, recognizing how awesome His love is; that His character of love is beautiful, it is amazing, it is beyond our ability to achieve on our own, but isn't His character of love also exactly the way we should expect Him to be, if we know Him, if we believe Scripture, if we view God as Jesus revealed?

If a child was dying of cancer and was sick, deformed, vomiting, and we saw a parent willing to die to save their child, would we say, “Remarkably, that child continues to be something that parent loves?” And we are sinful beings who realize it is right to love your child like this. Do you see how distorted our view of God is that we would think it is remarkable that He still loves us?

Jesus said, “For God so loved the world...”

E. G. White, one of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

The atonement of Christ was not made in order to induce God to love those whom He otherwise hated; and it was not made to produce a love that was not in existence; but it was made as a manifestation of the love that was already in God's heart, an exponent of the divine favor in the sight of heavenly intelligences, in the sight of worlds unfallen, and in the sight of a fallen race. . . . We are not to entertain the idea that God loves us because Christ has died for us, but that He so loved us that He gave His only-begotten Son to die for us.--
The Signs of the Times, May 30, 1895. {7ABC 472.3}

How does God view us—as criminals who deserve just punishment, or as people with a terminal sin condition in need of healing?

Do you see how these two views (we are criminals or we are terminal) are directly connected to the type of law one believes God's law to be?

What is our role in fulfilling God's larger plan?

Why do we have a role to play in the plan of salvation at all?

Why do you give your children chores to do when you could do it faster and better?

SUNDAY

Read second paragraph, "Here's where the Bible's story begins..." Well in one sense yes, but in another sense, not quite, is there another beginning to the Bible story?

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was with God in the beginning. Through him all things were made; without him nothing was made that has been made. John 1:1-3 NIV84

Is this a different beginning than Genesis 1:1? Yes, it takes us back before Genesis 1:1 to a time before earth was created, to a time before anything was created, to a point in the past when only God existed.

Why is this beginning important? What is the central issue in the war between Christ and Satan? 2Cor 10:3-5—the knowledge of God.

Satan wants to obstruct, pervert, distort the truth about God into a lie—to get us to believe that God is something other than love. Many lies are told to do this. We have focused extensively on the false imperial law lie that makes God look like a dictator.

But, there is another lie that attacks God's character to distort it into something other than love. Over the past few years there has been a movement to advance the idea that there is no Trinity—there are not three individualities, persons in the Godhead.

Why is this idea destructive to the plan of salvation and the message for this time in history—in other words the everlasting gospel?

Who is the everlasting gospel about? It is the good news about God—that God is not the kind of being Satan alleges, that God is love and is completely trustworthy.

Now, love is functional—how does it function? It is other-centered, outward moving, giving, beneficent.

If God is love then God is other-centered—what does this mean in real world application—how reality works? Love does not exist in a singularity. If there was a time in the past when God was alone, then at that point God was not love. This is Satan's goal to get us to conceive of God as a self-focused, self-centered being.

The minimum number to be truly be other-centered love is three, two can be narcissistically reinforcing, but three requires putting self aside for the benefit of the others.

And look at how Jesus functioned; He never sought attention for self but pointed to the Father and the Holy Spirit points to Christ and the Father sends the Spirit. Perfect other-centered love in action.

Further, the allegations Satan made were about God's trustworthiness, if Jesus is anything less than fully God, then the lesson of the Cross supports Satan—that God is willing to sacrifice others in order to protect Himself. Thus, the attacks on the Trinity are attacks on God's character of love.

So, in the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God and the Word was God!

When God, who is love, created, how did God create reality to operate, in harmony with Himself or out of harmony? So, what kind of law would God create reality to operate upon?

God's laws are the protocols of life and were created by God for the health and welfare of His creatures. We only have freedom in harmony with God's law.

Have you ever found it hard to think how law gives freedom? When I thought of God's law as rules this never made sense, because I always thought of how I was under threat of punishment, how I couldn't do this or couldn't do that, how restrictive the law was. But that is all a lie based on human law.

When we understand design law we realize harmony with it frees us—harmony with the laws of health frees us from sickness.

A person who smokes, or eats fast food every day will lose freedom, lose the ability to climb stairs, run, play with their children.

A person who lies and cheats loses freedom and are chained by their fear, selfishness and guilt.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "It is easy..." What about Eden do you long for?

If you could visit Eden, besides eating from the Tree of Life, what would you like most to do?

What did Adam do in Eden?

Why did Adam have work to do in Eden in a perfect world?

The Creator knew that Adam could not be happy without employment. The beauty of the Garden delighted him, but this was not enough. He must have labor to call into exercise the wonderful organs of the body. Had happiness consisted in doing nothing, man, in his state of holy innocence, would have been left unemployed. But He who created man knew what would be for his happiness; and no sooner had He created him, than He gave him his appointed work. The promise of future glory, and the decree that man must toil for his daily bread, came from the same throne. . . . {OHC 223.2}

If Adam needed work in a sinless world, is work important for us today (not focused on making money, but constructive activity)?

What does it do to a human being to not have any industry, any productivity, nothing in which to invest their abilities?

Does it uplift or degrade a person to have nothing constructive to do?

Industry is a blessing to youth. A life of idleness is to be shunned by a young man as a vice. However humble the occupation may be, if only honorable, if the humble duties are done faithfully, he will not lose his reward. Industry is essential to health. If habits of industry were encouraged, a door would be closed against a thousand temptations. Those who lounge away their days, having no aim or object in life, are troubled with dejection and tempted to seek amusement in forbidden indulgences which enervate the system and tax the physical powers tenfold more than the most taxing labor. Indolence destroys more than hard labor. Many die because they have not the ability or inclination to set themselves to work. "Nothing to do" has killed its thousands. {OHC 222.2}

If youth will preserve habits of virtue and strict purity, and observe the laws God has established in the being, [what laws? what kind of laws?] they may preserve their lives although required to perform severe labor during their lifetime. Long life is the heritage of diligence. {OHC 222.3}

Some young men think if they could spend a life in doing nothing they would be supremely happy. They cultivate a hatred for useful labor. They envy the sons of pleasure who devote their lives to amusement and gaiety. . . . Unhappiness and heartaches are the result of such thoughts and conduct. Nothing to do has sunk many a young man in perdition. Well-regulated labor is essential for the success of every youth. God could not have inflicted a greater curse upon men and women than to doom them to live a life of inaction. Idleness will destroy soul and body. The heart, the moral character, and physical energies are enfeebled. The intellect suffers, and the heart is open to temptation as an open avenue to sink into every vice. The indolent man tempts the devil to tempt him. . . . {OHC 222.4}

Do you agree or disagree?

So, if you wanted to demoralize a person, destroy their dignity, and undermine their God-given individuality what might you do?

Might you seek policies that seek to take useful labor away from capable people? Perhaps telling society that every person deserves the government to provide their sustenance, to give them money, phones, houses, food but require no work, no investment from them (we are talking about people capable of useful labor)?

And what if this was framed as an act of righteousness, an act of selflessness, and it was suggested that to not give people, who are capable of useful work, free things you are cruel, selfish, unloving or racist?

When the Bible speaks of taking care of the less fortunate, the widow, the orphan, is it speaking of making them helpless dependents of the state, or of giving them opportunity for growth, for development of character, for the growth of their individuality and dignity as a child of God?

When the widows Naomi and Ruth needed food, how did they get their food needs met? They gleaned for it—it was free food, yet they had to go out and work the field in order to get it. Does that have a different impact on their state of mind than mere handouts?

Do you see the love in Paul's injunction, "If a man will not work, he shall not eat"? (2Thes 3:10 NIV84)

TUESDAY

What does it mean to be a steward of the earth?

Why does it seem those who reject God are more interested in a clean environment and not exploiting animals, than those who believe in God?

Do we believe that we can save this planet by wise stewardship of its resources?

Does the fact we believe we can't save the planet no matter what we do, contribute to a cavalier attitude toward the earth?

Do those who believe that this current sinful earth is the only future for humanity have more fear for the future and thus take more seriously the need to protect the earth?

Over what do we have stewardship today?

The lesson points out that when dominion of the earth was given to Adam and Eve so was reproductive ability—are we to have stewardship over our reproductive ability?

Who should have stewardship over your reproductive ability?

What if a religious group came along and told people that women are required by God to bear their husbands as many children as they can—they don't have a choice, it is the husband's choice?

What if a religious institution came along and told people they had no stewardship over their reproductive ability, that it is a divine prerogative and that the individual should not interfere with it by using any birth control?

What if a state institution came along and told people what they could do with their reproductive ability?

Has Satan worked to corrupt the reproductive gift God has given us?

Should we as Christians identify destructive uses of this gift and teach people the beauty and health benefits of living in harmony with God's design? Should we pass laws to force everyone to use their reproductive abilities the way we determine is correct?

Would it be a Godlike act or an ungodlike act to eliminate disease, deformity, and sickness?

How about doing so by genetically engineering our offspring to eliminate genes known to cause cancer or muscular dystrophy or Tay Sachs disease etc.? Would using our ability to eliminate such diseases genetically from embryos before they are born be a Godlike act or an ungodlike act?

What about not merely removing diseases genetically from our children, how about genetically engineering in advantages, increasing IQ, physical strength, longevity, resistance to infections, rapid wound healing, choosing eye color, height, hair color? Would doing such things, if we had the ability, be a Godlike act or an ungodlike act?

Do you think God made purposeful choices in all of these things and more when He made Adam and Eve?

Did God give us stewardship over our reproductive abilities and if we have the ability to have children with less sickness and disease, with greater intelligence and health should we exercise that ability or not?

Do you think if Adam and Eve would have had children before they fall they would have had such governance over their own being that they could have, through a thought, epigenetically determined how they wanted their genes expressed in each offspring?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “One thing...” How do we tell what is morally right or wrong?

Does everyone in the world agree on what is morally right or wrong?

Would you like a devoted, conscientious and conservative Muslim to institute Sharia Law in your city? Why not?

What about a devoted, conscientious and conservative Christian to institute laws based on their interpretation of Scripture? Why or why not?

Where do we draw the line on respecting the moral freedom of others?

Read third paragraph, “In that choice...” What do you think of the phrase, “These two human beings suddenly realized they were naked and ashamed...”

I just don’t like the word choice here. I would state it differently, which to me has a slightly different meaning, I would state it as, “These two human beings suddenly became naked and ashamed...”

Read fourth paragraph, “Because of the reality...” This is well said—why did life get harder for Adam? What kind of law is this?

THURSDAY

Read third paragraph, “Throughout the Bible...” What is the prime difference between the true God and false gods? Creatorship! And what kind of law does a Creator utilize for reality (His kingdom) to operate upon and what kind of laws do non-creators make for their kingdom to operate upon?

So, when it comes to worshipping the Creator, the Sabbath is a sign, a flag, a marker, an evidence, a pendant, a pennant, of design law, how God built reality to work, truth presented in love, leaving His creatures free. But the Sabbath is not the government of God, it is merely an evidence of that government. The moment you suggest the Sabbath is a rule, like human laws, that God monitor and enforces with infliction of punishment for disobeying, you have just made the Sabbath into a vehicle to teach Satan’s lies about God.

It would be like having a US Flag and getting paint and painting over the US flag a swastika. If you did that you have taken the US Flag and just used it to represent something else entirely.

Read last paragraph, “God as our Creator...”

What does this mean? If we see an adult smoking should we go up and yank the cigarette out of their mouth and say, “God has made me your keeper. I cannot stand by and watch you kill yourself with tobacco!”?

Or does it mean that we don’t act in ways to cause injury, harm, evil to another?

What was Cain held responsible for? Was Cain held responsible for Abel’s health, Abel’s choices, Abel’s conduct, or was Cain held responsible for his own conduct toward Abel for not acting in ways to protect Abel and promote the best for Abel?

We are not responsible for keeping other people from their own injurious decisions, but for the decisions we make in how we treat other people.

FRIDAY

Read third paragraph, “If men would do...” Does this refer only to the rich, or could this refer to people in dire straits having made choices that caused them to be in those difficult circumstances?

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Audio version of the Remedy is Now Available for Streaming: Download the free SoundCloud app Do NOT purchase a subscription to SoundCloud. Just search for Remedy Bible or use this link https://soundcloud.com/the_remedy_nt/albums to find it and stream it at no cost. Just click “follow” on the album and you will go to it easily in the future.

PODCAST: Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.

MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

Check our website for new chapters of The Remedy the Psalms will be going up slowly as they are completed and edited. When an entire book of the Old Testament is complete then it will be added to the app and when you update the app you will get the new book. Thank you for your prayers and support as I work on this project.

June 28, 29, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Windsor SDA church in Windsor, Ontario Canada

July 19,20, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Living Truth SDA Church in London, Ontario Canada.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker’s Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

2019 Q3 The Least of These - Lesson 2: Blueprint for a Better World

by Lori Atkins

INTRODUCTION

This quarter's theme is obviously based on Christ's words recorded in Matt 25:31-45.

Memory Text: "You shall not take vengeance, nor bear any grudge against anyone among your people, but you shall love your neighbor as yourself. I am the Lord" {Leviticus 19:18, NKJV}.

Just fair warning...we're going to park here for a bit and really unpack this "love your neighbor as yourself" concept further.

Does our memory text passage remind you of or make you think of any other texts?

- Instructions to the rich young ruler in Matt 19:17-19 If you want to enter life, keep the commandments." "Which ones?" he inquired. Jesus replied, "'You shall not murder, you shall not commit adultery, you shall not steal, you shall not give false testimony, honor your father and mother,' and 'love your neighbor as yourself.'" "All these I have kept," the young man said. "What do I still lack?"
- Matt 22: 37-39 One of the Pharisees, an expert in the law, tested him with this question: "Teacher, which is the greatest commandment in the Law?" Jesus replied: "'Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind.' This is the first and greatest commandment. And the second is like it: 'Love your neighbor as yourself.' All the Law and the Prophets hang on these two commandments." This story is repeated in Mark and Luke
- Mark 12:33 "To love him with all your heart, with all your understanding and with all your strength, and to love your neighbor as yourself is more important than all burnt offerings and sacrifices."
- Romans 13:9 "The commandments, "You shall not commit adultery," "You shall not murder," "You shall not steal," "You shall not covet," and whatever other command there may be, are summed up in this one command: "Love your neighbor as yourself."
- Galatians 5:14 For the entire law is fulfilled in keeping this one command: "Love your neighbor as yourself."
- James 2:8 If you really keep the royal law found in Scripture, "Love your neighbor as yourself," you are doing right."

Wow... Why would this same concept be so consistently repeated throughout the whole of scripture? Do you get the feeling this message is somehow important and deserves our attention?

Mrs. White says in several places, “The divine law requires that you love your neighbor as yourself...Without the exercise of this love, the highest profession of faith is mere hypocrisy...That is, we are to deal with our neighbors in everything just as we would wish them to deal with us. If we wish them to act fairly and justly toward us, then we should act fairly and justly toward them. We are simply to do as we would be done by.” {RH, March 11, 1884 par. 10}/{A New Life NL 32.1} Why does the divine law require this?

What is the “divine law”? The Law of Love requires that we love our neighbor for the same reason that the Law of Respiration requires that we breathe...but also the Law of Worship—by beholding we become changed. Love your neighbor, means don’t steal, murder, betray, bear false witness or covet – why? What happens to the one who breaks that law? They are damaged, they sear their consciences, warp their characters, harden their hearts, and thus are deviant from design protocol for life - life is absolutely created to operate upon this principal.

And who are we talking about here...the people who live next door? Just the folks who live on my street or in my neighborhood? Who is my neighbor?

I have some quotes from one of the founders of our church that might help us figure it out.

"God's law requires that justice and right be exercised between man and his fellow man; it requires that we shall not injure our neighbor in his property, his feelings, his health, or his good name. It requires compassion for the afflicted, even if he be our enemy, that in all our associations with our fellow beings we shall show the same love and care that we would wish to have exercised toward ourselves." {ST, January 7, 1897 par. 3}

"Jesus related the parable of the Good Samaritan, and clearly showed that he is our neighbor who most needs our charity and help. We are to practice the commandments of God, and stand true to the relation which God has designed shall exist between man and his fellow man. It was never God's purpose that society should be separated into classes, that there should be an alienation between the rich and the poor, the high and the low, the learned and the unlearned. But the practice of separating society into distinct circles is becoming more and more decided. God designed that those to whom He entrusted talents of means, ability, and gifts of grace, should be good stewards of His beneficence, and not seek to reap all the advantages for themselves. God does not estimate man by the amount of wealth, talent, or education that he may have. He values man in proportion as he becomes a good steward of His mercy and love." {SW 37.1}

"In His teaching He ever presented the law as a divine unity, showing that it is impossible to keep one precept and break another; for the same principle runs through all. Man's destiny will be determined by his obedience to the whole law. It is not possible for the heart in which Christ abides to be destitute of love. If we love God because He first loved us, we shall love all for whom Christ died. We cannot come in touch with divinity without coming in touch with humanity; for in Him who sits upon the throne of the universe, divinity and humanity are combined. Connected with Christ, we are connected with our fellow men by the golden links of the chain of love. Then the pity and compassion of Christ will be manifest in our life. We shall not wait to have the needy and unfortunate brought to us. We shall not need to be entreated to feel for the woes of others. It will be as natural for us to minister to the needy and suffering as it was for Christ to go about doing good...Wherever there is an impulse of love and sympathy, wherever the heart reaches out to bless and uplift others, there is revealed the working of God's Holy Spirit. In the depths of heathenism, men who have had no knowledge of the written law of God, who have never even heard the name of Christ, have been kind to His servants, protecting them at the risk of their own lives. Their acts show the working of a divine power. The Holy Spirit has implanted the grace of Christ in the heart of the savage, quickening his sympathies contrary to his nature, contrary to his education. The "Light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world" (John 1:9), is shining in his soul; and this light, if heeded, will guide his feet to the kingdom of God." – {COL 385.1}

So in this parable of the Good Samaritan, in answer to the question who is my neighbor, perhaps we could say, who is a Christian?

Imagine that a ship was sailing from the US to England and hit an iceberg. The ship is sinking and people are frantic for seats on the lifeboats. The last lifeboat is about to be lowered over the side, completely full, when a child is discovered still on the sinking ship. A priest refuses to give up his seat, a pastor and a theology professor also refuse, but a homosexual man, who lived an active homosexual life, gets off the lifeboat and gives his seat to the boy. Who, in the parable is the Christian—who is like Christ?

- By this all men will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another." Jn 13:35
- Greater love has no one than this, that he lay down his life for his friends. Jn 15:13
- This is how we know what love is: Jesus Christ laid down his life for us. And we ought to lay down our lives for our brothers. 1Jn 3:16

Do you feel like you have a better idea and a clearer picture of who your neighbor is now? OK, so what does it look like to “love your neighbor as yourself”? And doesn’t that smack of selfishness?

I thought we were supposed to be transformed to selflessness! Well, can people who don’t love themselves actually love others—why or why not?

If a person doesn’t have a healthy self-love, valuing themselves for who they are as a child of God - at peace with themselves and God, then they are not whole on the inside; they are insecure, fearful of rejection, and don’t possess healthy love to give to others. Instead, such people generally seek to get from others to fill what is missing in them.

They seek to get: love, reassurance, acceptance, validation, praise, security...those who don’t have healthy love seek to get from others rather than seek to give to others, thus we are unable to love others well until we are first healed in heart and mind by the indwelling Holy Spirit—we must come to peace with ourselves and love ourselves as children of God - does that make sense?

So what does it mean to “love your neighbor as yourself”?

Is love only an emotion or a feeling or does love cause action?

And what type of action? Beneficent, other-centered, outward-moving, unselfish actions.

Can you love others in this way if you are incapacitated? No!

In order to love others well, you have to maintain self-care, your own wellness and health...and thus, before one can love others you must first possess something worth sharing or giving to others. For example,:

- You cannot teach people to read if you yourself cannot read
- You cannot teach people the truth about God if you don’t know God
- You cannot genuinely love others if you don’t have love in your heart
- So, we must first be converted in our hearts to a genuine love/trust relationship with Jesus Christ - and really know him before we can be most effective in God’s cause (notice I said most effective - God in His infinite wisdom can use many things to advance His cause, including speaking through a donkey)...and we must be in a state of health in order to be capable of providing to others.

So let’s get more specific and more practical...in this class, we have learned that love always does what’s in the best interest of the other person - but what does this look like in reality, and what are the obstacles to loving others in this way?

Do you ever wrestle with how to love others like this?

Remember what we just read in the quote from COL, “It will be as natural for us to minister to the needy and suffering as it was for Christ to go about doing good” Have mercy, I’m not there yet...sometimes loving others like this is a real struggle for me! Why? Well, there are several types of obstacles in the way that prevent or impede us from fully loving our neighbors:

- Obstacles in our OWN hearts and minds:
 - Fear
 - Selfishness
 - Distrust
 - Prejudice
 - Fatigue
 - Apathy
 - Ignorance (being unaware of the need)
 - Lies - Beliefs that the other person deserves something other than love
 - Lies - Beliefs/suspicion that you are being duped or swindled
- Obstacles in other person’s heart and mind:
 - Fear
 - Selfishness
 - Distrust - Sees acts of love as manipulation
 - Prejudice
 - Lies - Love looks like being abused / love is having sex / love is being liked or popular
 - False Beliefs - I don’t deserve your love / I’m too sinful to ever be loved / I’m too dirty, too ugly, too worthless
- Situational Obstacles:
 - Proximity - separated by time and space
 - Inability to help...whether it be lack of knowledge - helping a child with their calculus homework or repairing a car...or physical ability - unable to help move furniture because of a bad back or unable to provide financial help because you have no money.
 - Being obstructed by some other force - whether physically restrained, or by illness, or by other obligations.
 - But keep in mind that we can still provide our understanding, encouragement, and love for them despite these challenging situations.

Can you see how between our own obstacles, the other person’s obstacles, and maybe some tough situations (and we didn’t even mention social media comments and political differences)...why connecting with and really loving our neighbors as ourselves can be so difficult?! Lord help us!

OK, we want to truly love our neighbors - we want to help and always do what's in their best interest...so what does it mean to help someone - does that mean giving them what they want? What are some reasons not to help someone in need?

Were there people in need who Jesus did not help? But they were in need, why didn't Jesus help them? (Mark 6:1-6, Jesus said to them, "Only in his hometown, among his relatives and in his own house is a prophet without honor." He could not do any miracles there, except lay his hands on a few sick people and heal them. And he was amazed at their lack of faith.)

Are there people in need that we are unable to help?

Should we force our help onto such people?

So whom should we seek to help...simply those in need, or those in need, who recognize their need and who will permit us to help them?

Let's go through a few "should I help" scenarios and see what you think:

- If you were here last week or have listened to last week's lesson (and if you weren't or haven't...trust me, you really should), but you will remember we talked about the apparent homeless person on the exit ramp with the "will work for food sign", and wondering should I help? Do you remember what we came up with?
 - That our "help" may actually do more harm than good
 - That since we may not really know if the need is genuine, it may make more sense to focus on helping folks who we know are really in need - our own family/friends, church members, Samaritan Center, etc. Ask the Holy Spirit to send people who are in need across your path and He will arrange those divine appointments.
 - That we can't make a cookie-cutter rule that I will always help or I will never help, or what that help looks like...we have to use our wisdom, judgment, and be open to the influence of the Holy Spirit.
- If you are in a restaurant and see a couple arguing, should you offer to help - but they clearly need help, should you offer?
- If you see a parent in the grocery store having problems with their child who wants candy and is throwing a fit in the candy aisle...should you step up and offer to help?
- What about a family member with sickness or injury who needs help - what then? How do you define "help" and where do you draw the line in helping? When dealing with someone recovering from injury, what is more helpful: to do as much as you can for them, or as little? Why? In this situation, the goal is to help the person recover as much of their autonomy and independence and strength as possible. Therefore, you give as little help as possible...or to put it another way, you require the person to do as much for themselves as they are reasonably able to do, lest you delay their recovery and even worse, foster their decline! This scenario brings to mind the Helen Keller story - how many have seen the movie or read the book The Miracle Worker? Do you remember what state Helen Keller was in when Annie Sullivan showed up? How did Ms. Sullivan treat Helen? Was she helping? Also remember that Ms. Sullivan insisted on Helen being removed from her family in order to prevent them from “helping” her.

- Helping does not mean doing what the other wants, but what is actually helpful, within the boundaries or lines of authority and our mutual responsibility to each other. [Optional/Related: last week’s discussion on the importance of having constructive work/industry/purpose, and how damaging/destructive/demoralizing it is to take that away from people who are capable.]

Maybe the most important thing to remember from this discussion of loving our neighbors as ourselves...is that this “command” or the even the parable of the Good Samaritan do not say anything about what we can do works or efforts-wise to be saved...the emphasis is rather on how a converted person on the path to healing (or a “saved” person) ought to live. There is an inextricable link between these two most important commandments – “Love the Lord your God and your neighbor as yourself.” We cannot love God and treat other people (our neighbors) poorly.

So that does it for the introduction...now let’s take a look at Saturday’s Lesson. The lesson’s intro lists some Old Testament folks who maintained very close, special relationships with God - specifically Enoch, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob - and in these relationships, we see God’s yearning to heal our brokenness and put us back in harmony with his design...but not just for the benefit of these few individuals and their families. Of course, this is and always has been part of his larger plan to heal mankind - but knowing that if each of these individuals trusted Him, were “at-oned” with Him, and were thereby transformed to be like Him...they would share that blessing and spread the message to others. God said to Abraham, “I will make you into a great nation, and I will bless you; I will make your name great, and you will be a blessing...and all peoples on earth will be blessed through you” {Gen 12:2-3} Have you ever been a blessing...have other peoples on the earth ever been blessed through you? How was that...how did that feel?

So Abraham’s descendants - the nation of Israel - were to be the avenue through which all the peoples of the earth would be blessed...ultimately, obviously, by being the avenue through which the Messiah would come, but in many other maybe not-so-obvious ways. They were called and instructed to be unique in their society - in the world, even - in almost every way possible. We have discussed extensively in this class - we even have a whole DVD seminar on the subject - that these folks were an acting troupe, they were on a giant world-stage, acting out a script (that we call scripture), with some awesome costumes, and a whole bunch of cool props...but for what purpose?

Acting out the plan of salvation using the object lessons and symbols of the sanctuary services, rituals, and sacrifices - showing the destructive and deadly effects of sin as well as God’s plan to heal, transform, and restore us back to “at-one-ness” with Him - with every single detail and symbol and metaphor always, always pointing forward to the reality of the coming Savior...this was their ultimate purpose - to fully understand, assimilate, and internalize these truths into their hearts and minds, and then share this picture of a loving God with the surrounding nations - in direct contrast to their pagan, angry, appeasement-hungry Ba'al gods and idols.

What other purposes or assignments were the Israelites tasked with?

- They were living examples of God's many names and qualities - deliverer, provider, protector, shelter (pillar of cloud by day), defender, light of the world (pillar of fire by night), bread of heaven (manna), living water (from the rock), etc.
- They were to be unique...in almost every way - the way they dress, the way they grow food/treat the soil, the way they prepare food, what they eat, their hygiene practices, how they treat each other, how they treat their slaves / animals / enemies / baby boys, how they governed and resolved differences, the way they worship, and most importantly the kind of God they worship. And all these unique elements, all these differentiating characteristics were for their good and for their growth - all designed to move them forward out of their darkened minds and slave mentality - always maturing them toward restoration back to His original design, and enabling them to be a powerful example and witness and blessing to the surrounding nations.

Ellen White, in Chapter 21 of Christ Object Lessons, describes the rich man in the parable of Lazarus and the rich man this way:

“There are today close beside us many who are hungry, naked, and homeless. A neglect to impart of our means to these needy, suffering ones places upon us a burden of guilt which we shall one day fear to meet. All covetousness is condemned as idolatry. All selfish indulgence is an offense in God's sight. God had made the rich man a steward of His means, and it was his duty to attend to just such cases as that of the beggar. The command had been given, “Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might” (Deuteronomy 6:5); and “thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself” (Leviticus 19:18). The rich man was a Jew, and he was acquainted with the command of God. But he forgot that he was accountable for the use of his entrusted means and capabilities. The Lord's blessings rested upon him abundantly, but he employed them selfishly, to honor himself, not his Maker. In proportion to his abundance was his obligation to use his gifts for the uplifting of humanity. This was the Lord's command, but the rich man had no thought of his obligation to God. He lent money, and took interest for what he loaned; but he returned no interest for what God had lent him. He had knowledge and talents, but did not improve them. Forgetful of his accountability to God, he devoted all his powers to pleasure. Everything with which he was surrounded, his round of amusements, the praise and flattery of his friends, ministered to his selfish enjoyment. So engrossed was he in the society of his friends that he lost all sense of his responsibility to co-operate with God in His ministry of mercy. He had opportunity to understand the word of God, and to practice its teachings; but the pleasure-loving society he chose so occupied his time that he forgot the God of eternity...”

The rich man was favored with every temporal and spiritual blessing, but he refused to cooperate with God in the use of these blessings. Thus it was with the Jewish nation. The Lord had made the Jews the depositaries of sacred truth. He had appointed them stewards of His grace. He had given them every spiritual and temporal advantage, and He called upon them to impart these blessings.

Special instruction had been given them in regard to their treatment of their brethren who had fallen into decay, of the stranger within their gates, and of the poor among them. They were not to seek to gain everything for their own advantage, but were to remember those in need and share with them. And God promised to bless them in accordance with their deeds of love and mercy. But like the rich man, they put forth no helping hand to relieve the temporal or spiritual necessities of suffering humanity. Filled with pride, they regarded themselves as the chosen and favored people of God; yet they did not serve or worship God. If he had appreciated his exalted privileges and had allowed God’s Spirit to mold his mind and heart, he would have had an altogether different position.

So with the nation he represented. If they had responded to the divine call, their future would have been wholly different. They would have shown true spiritual discernment. They had means which God would have increased, making it sufficient to bless and enlighten the whole world. But they had so far separated from the Lord’s arrangement that their whole life was perverted. They failed to use their gifts as God’s stewards in accordance with truth and righteousness. Eternity was not brought into their reckoning, and the result of their unfaithfulness was ruin to the whole nation...

SUNDAY

The God Who Hears

400+ years of slavery - that's a really long time to wait for deliverance or pray for a promise to be fulfilled. Through multiple generations they waited...and waited. Finally, God shows up - at the burning bush - and commissions a reluctant Moses to deliver His people out of Egypt and out of the bondage of slavery. Is there any symbolism or a perhaps a greater object lesson from God allowing His people to suffer and languish in slavery, only to be delivered and set free and led into the promised land?

- Romans 6:6 "For we know that our old self was crucified with him so that the body ruled by sin might be done away with, that we should no longer be slaves to sin"
- Luke 4:18 "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to proclaim good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim liberty to the captives and recovery of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor."

Not only that, he promised not to lead them out of Egypt empty-handed - that they would get a hearty send-off from the Egyptians and basically clean them out.

End of lesson notes

The Least of These Lesson 3 3Q 2019

Sabbath: A Day of Freedom

by Tim Jennings (announcements on last page)

SABBATH

What do you think of the title of the lesson? Throughout your life have you always thought—“Sabbath: A Day of Freedom!”

Why or why not?

If the Sabbath is a rule imposed by God that we are required to keep on threat of punishment—how is it a day of freedom?

Can you get more freedom by imposing more rules?

Was the Sabbath in existence before the earth was made?

If not, then did the angels have freedom without this day of freedom?

If it was not needed for the angels in heaven prior to the creation of earth, why is the Sabbath needed now and for eternity future?

The memory verse is Jesus words, “The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.” Mark 2:27

What does this mean?

If I said, the YMCA was made for people, people were not made for the YMCA—what would you understand that to mean?

- What happens if people utilize the YMCA?
- What happens if people do not use the YMCA?

Is this what Jesus meant about the Sabbath?

Is the Sabbath for us to use in some way—some type of resource that is built by God for impact us for good in some way if we utilize it?

What is the purpose of the Sabbath? Why was it given? It was made for man for what reason?

The Commandment says, “Remember the Sabbath day by keeping it holy.” (Ex 20:8)

If we were to build a golden calf and have an orgy of pagan worship during the Sabbath hours, have we made the Sabbath less holy? If we spent the Sabbath hours in total righteous living, would we make the Sabbath more holy? We cannot keep the Sabbath holy, for we didn’t make it holy and we can’t make it unholy—we can only keep ourselves holy. And can a person keep themselves holy only one day in seven?

The Sabbath was made for man—for what reason?

To aide humankind in holiness—in keeping ourselves holy! And what is holiness? Holiness is the state of being holy, which is being in harmony with God in all aspects of our being. Thus, being holy is living in harmony with God’s character, protocols, methods—His design-laws! And how is the Sabbath related to this?

Consider this quotation from EG White, founder of the SDA church:

The Sabbath was given to all humankind to commemorate the work of creation. . . God sanctified and blessed the day in which He had rested from all His wondrous work. And this Sabbath, sanctified of God, was to be kept for a perpetual covenant. It was a memorial that was to stand from age to age, till the close of earth’s history. . . . {CTr 355.2}

Every person has been placed on trial, as were Adam and Eve in Eden. As the tree of knowledge was placed in the midst of the Garden of Eden, so the Sabbath command is placed in the midst of the Decalogue. In regard to the fruit of the tree of knowledge, the restriction was made, Ye shall not eat of it . . . lest ye die. Of the Sabbath, God said, Ye shall not defile it, but keep it holy. . . . As the tree of knowledge was the test of Adam’s obedience, so the fourth command is the test that God has given to prove the loyalty of all His people...—Review and Herald, Aug. 30, 1898. {CTr 355.5}

What do you hear? What law lens to you understand these words through?

First—do you see Sabbath had a beginning—there was a time when it did not exist—but God’s eternal law of love did existed before the Sabbath. The Sabbath was created, made for man as the memory verse says—made, why? What was its purpose?

To aide us in holiness, in keeping ourselves holy—how? Do you hear this idea of aiding us in holiness in the quote above about the Sabbath being like the Tree of Knowledge both being a test? Or do you hear rules, legal requirements, fear?

Consider this quote

God might have created man without the power to transgress His law; He might have withheld the hand of Adam from touching the forbidden fruit; but in that case man would have been, not a free moral agent, but a mere automaton. Without freedom of choice, his obedience would not have been voluntary, but forced. There could have been no development of character... It would have been unworthy of man as an intelligent being, and would have sustained Satan's charge of God's arbitrary rule. E.G. White, Conflict and Courage 33

Is this describing a test, a trial, what kind of test, what kind of trial? Is it a legal issue, or is it an issue of exercise, the law of exertion, the actual development of one's abilities? God giving Adam and Eve something to choose, to make a choice, to exercise their individuality over—which would develop them.

Did Adam and Eve have the ability—in their own God given strength, to resist Satan's temptation and develop a perfect sinless and loyal character? Yes!

Do we? No—so what are we being tested on if we can't make a choice to develop perfect character?

We are being tested to exercise our choice to TRUST Jesus, to “come unto me all you who labor and are heavy laden and I will give your rest!” We are to rest from trying to save ourselves, from living in fear, including fear of eternal loss because we trust Jesus and the Sabbath is a day where we can each week, rest—not just from employment but from the fears of life. We can exercise our ability to think, reflect, celebrate and spend time with God—realizing the true meaning—the evidence of what the Sabbath reveals.

We are changed by our choices—not just behavioral choices but what we choose to believe—believe a lie and it changes you, neurobiologically and characterologically. But the truth sets free, when we choose to believe and live the truth we are changed. God cannot choose the truth for us, we must choose it and in this choice we participate with God—the Spirit of truth for our healing and restoration. Thus, the Sabbath is a resource, a bastion of heavenly truth we can ingest and experience God's healing power to make us holy. So what is the special evidence or truth contained in the Sabbath?

What does it say about God? This is the key!

The Sabbath was given in a time of war—what kind of war?

And there was war in heaven. Michael and his angels fought against the dragon, and the dragon and his angels fought back. But he was not strong enough, and they lost their place in heaven. The great dragon was hurled down—that ancient serpent called the devil, or Satan, who leads the whole world astray. He was hurled to the earth, and his angels with him. (Rev 12:7-9, emphasis supplied)

The Greek word translated war is πόλεμος [polemos/pol·em·os], from which we get polemic—it is a war of words, a war of ideas. And Satan is the father of lies (see Jn 8:44). What has been the focus or target of Satan's lies and where is this war fought?

“For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ.”(2Cor 10:3-5, emphasis supplied)

The war is over the truth about God—whether we can trust God and whether He is worthy of our love, devotion, loyalty. God wants our love, trust, loyalty and devotion, but can any being get this from another by threat, coercion, or infliction of punishment?

In fact, what happens to love, trust, loyalty and devotion when one threatens and coerces another? Love and trust are broken and rebellion ensues.

So, if Satan could get intelligent beings to believe that God is coercive, threatening, the source of inflicted pain, suffering, torture and death, then love and trust would break down and rebellion against God ensue.

How could Satan get intelligent beings to conclude this about God?

By alleging that God's laws are not the design-protocols the Creator built life to operate upon, but instead function no differently than the rules enacted by human beings—imperial-laws that require the ruling authority to inflict punishment for disobedience. Then how does the Sabbath fit in?

What does it say about God, that in the context of an assault on His right to rule, rather than using His power to force all beings to bow to Him, He creates a day of freedom to think?

On days one-through-six of creation week we learn that God has incredible power, but God doesn't want His intelligent creatures to be intimidated, to be afraid, to follow Him because of power. God wants His creatures to love Him, trust Him, and be devoted to Him in loyal admiration.

Thus, after six days of creation, God created a day of freedom, a day where God stopped using power and stepped back, giving His creatures space and time to consider and think. Day seven reveals the character of the One who wields the power: God presented evidence (truth) in love, while leaving His creatures free to decide for themselves. No coercion, no intimidation, no pressure—freedom!

Then what is the purpose of the Sabbath commandment? It is a reminder of the gift (the Sabbath) God has given us to aide humanity in keeping ourselves holy—how one lives their life—in harmony with God and His design for life. Do we present truth in love and leave others free, or do we use imperial rules and coerce others with threats of punishment? Do we live in trust to God, trusting Him with our lives so much that we do not shrink from death (Rev 12:11)?

All week long we are to Remember the Sabbath to keep ourselves holy. We are to be beings who present truth in love while leaving others free. Only those who practice these principles of God in their lives are true Sabbath-keepers. Those who crucified Christ had the right day of the week but did not have God's principles written into their characters. They were not Sabbath-keepers. And Christians who would use the government to coerce others consciences are also not Sabbath-keepers regardless of the religious morals they are legislating.

With this in mind, we realize that God is Creator and His laws are the protocols upon which all life is built to operate. As the Creator of time, God built into time a day for human health, holiness, growth, development; a day of evidence to reveal truth about how God governs. Every seven days, every human being passes through this day—this reminder, this piece of evidence, this opportunity for healing, growth, renewal, transformation, contemplation, and freedom from the lies about God.

We can only experience these blessings if we throw off the lies about God and His law and accept His design protocols for life. But if we insist on viewing the Sabbath as an “arbitrary test of obedience”—a rule enacted by a powerful potentate who is watching to see if we break his rule—then the Sabbath becomes, not a sign of godliness, but a mark of beastliness.

The historic two days of worship within Christianity—Sabbath and Sunday—stand as two banners, signs, flags, marks, pennants that represent two divergent systems of governing.

Just as the US flag—the grand old Stars and Stripes—is a symbol or sign of the United States of America, so these two days of worship are signs of two different systems of governing. However, the flag is not the reality for which it stands. The US flag is only a symbol of the USA. And a person can wave the flag of America while being an enemy of the US. During WWII, German soldiers donned American uniforms with the US flag and infiltrated American lines to sow discord and disrupt the US war effort. And there were people in Germany wearing the Nazi uniform who were working for the allies to undermine the German war effort.

Just because someone waves the flag doesn't mean that they support what the flag actually stands for.

Likewise, Sabbath and Sunday are signs of two different systems of governing. The Sabbath is a day of rest by its creation: it was made by God for this purpose at the end of creation week. The Sabbath is an evidence of design-law—truth, presented in love while leaving others free—and is a sign of God's method of governing. Sunday, however, became a day of rest by legislative action, by human authorities making rules. Therefore, Sunday is a mark of imperialism—of law and government that functions like sinful humans who impose rules that require infliction of punishment for disobedience.

These two days of worship, whose significance was established by their origins, are just like the US flag—symbols, signs, marks—but they are not the governments they represent. So, a person could be a Sabbath-keeper but practice the imposed-law model and teach that Sabbath-breaking requires God to inflict punishment on the violator of the law. That person would be like the German soldiers wearing the US flag, infiltrating God's church to sow discord and confusion. They would not be on God's team, and would actually be promoting the methods of the beast. These religious traitors to God's kingdom would be most powerfully exemplified by the Sabbath-keepers who crucified the Lord of the Sabbath. Conversely, a person who worships on Sunday but promotes truth in love while leaving others free is promoting the principles of the Sabbath and is on God's team.

The real question is, Who do we understand God to be:

- Creator/Designer whose laws are the protocols upon which life is built and who created the Sabbath for our spiritual health, or
- an imperial dictator who makes up rules and then enforces those rules with threats of punishment—just like the church of the Dark Ages did for those who violated her Sunday?

SUNDAY

The lesson takes us to Exodus 16 in which the children of Israel having come out of Egypt are given manna, which had to be collected every day, but on Friday a double portion came and they collected the amount for Sabbath also.

The lesson wants us to know that by doing this God was demonstrating the importance of Sabbath and establishing which day of the 7 days is the Sabbath and the Jewish people have been observing that same weekly Sabbath generation after generation since that time.

This is an important point for anyone who questions whether we can know which day of the week is the Bible Sabbath—some will argue, we don't know because of changes in calendar etc. However, the fact the Jewish people have been keeping it perpetually since God had them rest from collecting manna every Sabbath for forty years, lets us know which day of the week it is. Further, Jesus kept this day, and all Christians understand it when asked, upon which day of the week did Jesus rise from the dead? All know it was a Sunday, the first day of the week, and the Bible says He rested in the tomb over the Sabbath. So what day of the week is the Bible Sabbath is not in question—the question is about whether it matters or not and what is the significance of changing it.

What is the significance of changing the day Christians believe to be God's holy day?

And the fact it was changed is also not up for debate, Adventists and non-Adventists alike all acknowledge the New Testament and early church observed the Bible Sabbath from Friday sunset to Saturday sunset and it wasn't changed to Sunday until several hundred years after Christ. So the fact it was changed is not up for debate, the question is what does it signify, what is it evidence of?

Why do church committees not vote that on bad smog days their members are not required to breathe? Because they cannot change design laws and they know it—so what is evidenced by changing the Sabbath? That Christians do not view God's law as design law, but merely as a system of imposed rules like we humans make that are subject to change.

So, the real change in the law was first the idea that God governs like humans govern, with imposed law, and then the evidence of that change in thinking was the change in the day of worship. Christians shifted from worshipping the Creator to worshipping the dictator—and looked what happened in history.

- How did the New Testament Christians live and treat others?
- How did the first and second century Christians treat others and live?
- After Constantine and the change in the way Christians viewed law, from design law which leads them to a God who heals and transforms their hearts, to imperial law which leads them to a punishing god from whom they need to propitiate with a sacrifice in order to be legally pardoned—how did Christians live and treat others?
 - The Dark Ages
 - Crusades
 - Inquisitions
 - Coercion—burning people at the stake, torture
 - Enforced religious observance
 - Indulgences—payment to expiate sin
 - Various works—penances and pilgrimages to earn merit with their god

So, the Jews in Christ's day who kept the Sabbath as a legal requirement, and would not help sick people upon it, were not Sabbath keepers, they were Sabbath breakers because they represented the day to be an imposed rule, and thus God to be an imperial dictator. They had the right day, but they accepted the wrong law and thus the wrong god and crucified the Creator to keep their holy day.

Adventists who present the Sabbath as an arbitrary test of obedience, a day in which God has set up a rule and we must keep it or He will be required to punish us, are like the Jews 2000 years ago—they have the right day, but have the wrong law and the wrong god—and are not spreading the 3 Angels Message, but perpetuating the system of the beast.

The message of the 3 Angels of Revelation 14 is to call people to worship “him who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water...” meaning Creator worship, which requires we return to seeing and understanding reality through design law.

But, I want to ask what is the deeper meaning of the symbolism of the manna?

What does the manna represent?

Jesus said that He was the bread that came down out of heaven—referring specifically to the manna.

So they asked him, “What miraculous sign then will you give that we may see it and believe you? What will you do? Our forefathers ate the manna in the desert; as it is written: ‘He gave them bread from heaven to eat.’”

Jesus said to them, “I tell you the truth, it is not Moses who has given you the bread from heaven, but it is my Father who gives you the true bread from heaven. For the bread of God is he who comes down from heaven and gives life to the world.”

“Sir,” they said, “from now on give us this bread.”

Then Jesus declared, “I am the bread of life. He who comes to me will never go hungry, and he who believes in me will never be thirsty. John 6:30-35 NIV84

God created six days and rested, God gave manna six days and rested—why? What is God wanting people to experience and understand?

What does God want from us? Love, trust, loyalty, devotion—how is this achieved?

Not by might nor by power but by the Spirit says the Lord, Zech 4:6, and how does the Spirit work? Truth and Love while leaving each person free—so how does this apply to Sabbath?

God works to give evidence, blessings, which are manifestations of power—creation and manna—but does God want us to worship Him simply because He is powerful? So, what does God do—He gives us freedom to think, to reflect, to comprehend, to reason.

Jesus came and lived a sinless life, and then during crucifixion week gave perfect evidence of His character of love, and then rested on the Sabbath giving all beings who watched time to reflect and think for themselves over the Sabbath. Truth, presented in love, leaving people free to think.

This is the beauty of the Sabbath, God stepping back and restraining His use of power, ceasing His use of power to give us the space and freedom to think for ourselves without intimidation, pressure etc. but to appreciate the blessings God has given.

MONDAY

The lesson points out that the 10 Commandments were given twice and that the Sabbath Commandment was slightly different with two reasons for it:

- The first set because God is Creator
- The second because God delivered them from slavery.

The lesson points out that God did it this way to emphasize that God is our Creator and Redeemer.

No, doubt that God is our Creator and Redeemer, but why do you think God didn't have both reasons written into the first set if that was His purpose?

Couldn't God have written the first set to say, "for in six days the Lord created the heaven...and brought you out of Egypt..."

If the primary intention was to have the Sabbath associated with both Creation and Redemption, why not put both reasons in the first set and just duplicate it like the other 9 in the second set? Was God depending on Israel to worship a golden calf and Moses to destroy the first set in order for God to be enabled to give His two reasons for the Sabbath? In other words, if Israel would not have worshipped the golden calf would God have said, "Oh my, I wanted them to know another reason and I missed my chance?"

Could the fact that there is a difference indicate something else, could the two be different for a different reason—not because God was primarily trying to teach them He was Creator and Redeemer?

Could it be something about the state of the people to comprehend what God was trying to teach them and God having to step down to a more childlike level to teach them?

What law is creation built to operate upon? Design law and reminding them that God is the Creator reminds them of God's original purpose for humankind—thus the original set of 10 Commandments were to be understood through level 7 lenses—God's law as design law with this creation was to serve a larger purpose in the context of the GC—to be living repositories of God's living design law for life, as Adam and Eve had children and governed this planet in perfect harmony with God's design laws.

However, the people couldn't understand, they preferred a golden calf—so God met them at level one, which is reward and punishment and establishes Himself as powerful—I am powerful and can punish the gods you prefer—remember I brought you out of Egypt and punished their gods, so don't look to those false gods.

I think the second set, was written because the people refused to be enlightened and preferred earthly gods.

The same thing has happened since Sinai and since Christ—people prefer the gods of this world which operate upon imperial imposed law and teach in Christianity that God functions like we do, imposing rules and inflicting punishments. This lie is an obstruction to the 3 angel's messages, it is an obstruction to the final message to lighten the world, and it is to be opposed by those who worship the Creator God.

TUESDAY

The lesson points out that the Sabbath is a day when all were equal, in that no person in power could mandate that a subordinate work, not even the animals.

Hmmm.... does that mean the animals are equal to humans? So, animal sacrifices, really were human sacrifices?

If the Sabbath was a day teaching equality—why did they have slaves?

If we believe all people are equal will we “own” other people as property?

The lesson points out that the Sabbath law would prohibit an employer from forcing an employee to work on Sabbath—what about an employee who wants to work on Sabbath is that okay?

What about fireman, EMTs, ER Docs and nurses, the people who keep the electricity operating?

If you were in charge of society would you pass laws that on Sabbath everyone is required to stay at home and no employment is practiced by anyone?

Friday's lesson quotes The Desire of Ages p 206,207:

And man also has a work to perform on this day. The necessities of life must be attended to, the sick must be cared for, the wants of the needy must be supplied. He will not be held guiltless who neglects to relieve suffering on the Sabbath. God's holy rest day was made for man, and acts of mercy are in perfect harmony with its intent. God does not desire His creatures to suffer an hour's pain that may be relieved upon the Sabbath or any other day. {DA 207.1}

What kind of law is in operation here? The law of love—design law, not rules!

What about the other injunction of the Sabbath commandment—not the negative of what you shall not do, but what you shall do:

“Six days you shall labor and do all your work...” (Ex 20:8 NIV84)

If it is sin to labor on the Sabbath, is it sin to NOT to labor six other days of the week?

Is idleness a sin—failure to engage in meaningful, useful, industrious activity?

Did God design us for activity, for work, to use our energies to build, organize, plant, harvest, create, help, to do meaningful work? It doesn't mean make money, but invest oneself in something of value—it might be writing music, drawing, painting, sculpting, gardening, researching, homemaking, cooking, but something that requires the investment of one's energy and ability.

What happens to people who don't do anything meaningful? Will they grow, mature, develop, or will they lose abilities and maturity and become less capable?

Why? What law is it at work?

Is it a sin to live a life of lethargy, idleness, laziness, and slothfulness?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “While the original...” Do we ever fall into this? Why do you love the God who gave us the Sabbath? How is the Sabbath a blessing to you?

The Blue Zones book noted that one of the five places in the world that has the highest concentration of people living to be over 100 years old is Loma Linda CA, and one of the reasons they cited was the weekly Sabbath practiced by SDAs.

A weekly day of mental rest, to decompress, to get off the rat wheel of life and to unwind with God and family is healthy to brain, body and relationships—IF done out of freedom and love. However, if done out of fear of punishment, resentment, and anger it is not a blessing.

That is why the Bible says we must call the Sabbath and delight.

The lesson points out that Jesus chose the Sabbath to perform many miracles, of chronic health problems rather than the other days of the week—why?

What law does healing operate upon? What Jesus trying to enlighten to how God's law function on the day they that was the most filled with arbitrary rules? Have we learned the lesson?

THURSDAY

What is the significance of the Sabbath rest for the land? Is it related to the weekly Sabbath?

Did the land before sin need a rest every 7 years? Will the land in the new earth need a rest?

Is this God instituting within their culture a principle of conservation necessary given the nutrient cycle in the soil?

FRIDAY

read and discuss questions

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Check our website for new chapters of The Remedy the Psalms will be going up slowly as they are completed and edited. When an entire book of the Old Testament is complete then it will be added to the app and when you update the app you will get the new book. Thank you for your prayers and support as I work on this project.

July 19,20, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Living Truth SDA Church in London, Ontario Canada.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

The Least of These Lesson 4 3Q 2019

Mercy and Justice in Psalms and Proverbs

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

What is mercy and justice in God's kingdom?

Justice is doing what is right or just—which is defined by what? The law, and how do you understand God's law? Imposed or design law?

When law is imposed what does justice require of the ruling authority?

- Infliction of punishment

When law is design law what does justice require of the ruling authority?

- Healing of the problem, fixing what is wrong, restoring to the harmony with the law

And what is mercy under imposed/imperial law?

- waiving the punishment

What is mercy under design law?

- ending the suffering their condition causes by healing those who allow and
- no longer preventing those who refuse healing from dying

Read Memory Verse: "Defend the poor and fatherless; Do justice to the afflicted and needy. Deliver the poor and needy; Free them from the hand of the wicked." (Ps 82:3–4 NKJV).

How is justice described here? Yes, this is Biblical justice, delivering the oppressed NOT punishing the oppressor—why? Because you don't have to inflict punishment upon:

- a person who jabs a pencil in their eye
- ties a plastic bag over their head
- smokes, drinks, does drugs
- lies, cheats, or worships a false god
- What about murder or theft? Does justice in God's kingdom require that we inflict punishment upon murderers, rapists, thieves, terrorists etc.? Why or why not?
- What happens to the heart/mind/character of the murderer/rapist/thief if they don't give their hearts to God? Is this an inflicted punishment by God or a natural result of embracing and choosing sin? And what is the eternal result for them? So, do we have to inflict punishment upon them?

Does this mean it is unjust to have criminal courts and put rapists, molesters, murderers and others in prison—why or why not?

What would be God's purpose in having human governments inflict punishment upon law breakers?

- to arrest (bring to a stop) the destructive behaviors and cause negative experience for the criminal to give them an opportunity to reevaluate their life and hopefully repent
- to protect innocent people from harm
- to create a stable society where the gospel can go forward
- to prevent feuds and recurring cycles of violence in society

So, is there a difference between human justice and God's justice?

Why does any person, commit a crime—what is the reason at its ultimate root? Because of sin in their hearts/minds/characters—and how did each of us become sinful?

So, from God's perspective, what is it God would want for each murderer or rapist or pedophile? Isn't it to heal them from sin so that they would rather die than ever harm someone again?

I read another sci-fi series called Star Force which takes humanity into the future and interacts with many alien species. What is interesting in the book is that they encounter many other species that are immoral, corrupt, evil in which they kill others, exploit other cultures, enslave less advanced species etc. Interestingly, Star Force sees all living creatures as individuals and that those with the greatest ability have the greatest responsibility to protect all other living creatures. So, they are all vegetarians and oppose all cultures that eat animals. Further, when they war on a corrupt species they seek to destroy the culture—not the people, so they stun them and then put them in prisons that requires the individuals to grow and develop into trustworthy citizens—for all who do they become part of Star Force and Star Force just keeps getting stronger. For those who refuse to become trustworthy they eventually die of old age.

What is interesting is that some of the worst enemies of Star Force, after being conquered like this, become their strongest friends and members of Star Force.

Do you think it is just or right for Star Force to refuse to kill those who are killing them and instead to seek to make them friends? What about in God's government? Isn't this what God wants to do, to destroy our culture of fear and selfishness, to destroy sinfulness in us and turn us from enemies into His friends?

Anyone who is joined to Christ is a new being; the old is gone, the new has come. All this is done by God, who through Christ changed us from enemies into his friends and gave us the task of making others his friends also. Our message is that God was making the whole human race his friends through Christ. God did not keep an account of their sins, and he has given us the message which tells how he makes them his friends. Here we are, then, speaking for Christ, as though God himself were making his appeal through us. We plead on Christ's behalf: let God change you from enemies into his friends! 2Cor 5:17-20 GNT

Does this describe justice?

Do you see how the penal substitutionary lie, built on human imposed law lie instead teaches justice is God using His power to torture and kill those who refuse His love? Do you see how this false gospel has corrupted Christianity and that we will never complete our mission of preparing the world to meet Jesus until we eliminate this lie about God's law and justice from our teachings, schools, fundamental beliefs, doctrines and messages?

The first paragraph says, "It is easy to see that our faith should make a difference in every aspect and experience of our lives, because God cares about every aspect of our lives."

What do you think of this statement?

Which is more accurate, "our faith should make a difference in every aspect of our lives" or "our faith does make a difference in every aspect of our lives"?

I guess it depends on what do we mean by faith, which is connected to what law lens you are thinking through?

- If we mean faith is a creed or list of fundamental beliefs to which we claim to believe (which is the imposed law view)—then should is the right word—for people can claim to believe many things which they truly don't value or internalize
- But, if by faith, we mean that to which we truly hold, internalize, value, and build our characters upon, upon which we stake our existence, (which is design law view) then our faith does impact every aspect of our lives

The point, is that many believe faith is a list of stuff you conclude is true, a legal proclamation when one joins a church, rather than that which becomes part of one's identity, heart, values, and character.

- "For as he thinks in his heart, so is he." Prov 23:7 NKJV

What kind of law is this Bible verse based upon? Design law, the law of worship and exertion.

But those who accept imposed law think it is about the legal declaration that one makes—if I declare a belief in the right doctrine, become a member of the right church, participate in the right rituals, then I have the right faith—and my faith should impact my life. This is the lie, the distortion of legalism and penal substitution theology.

The truth is that by beholding we are changed, when we participate in the truth about God that wins us to trust and open the heart to God we cannot help but be changed and from the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks, so we do bring our faith into every aspect of our lives.

Read second paragraph, “Meanwhile, any reflection...” Again, how do we human beings measure justice?

Do you remember the parable of the landowner who hires worker in the morning, midday and an hour before the end of the workday and promised to pay them all a fair wage—and then gives them all the same wage.

Why did those who worked all day believe the landowner was being unjust?

Because they viewed reality through imposed law. They thought the payment was an arbitrary amount set by the landowner. Thus, when the landowner paid each the same monetary amount they thought it was unfair.

How does design law reveal the truth of God’s kingdom in this parable?

- Who was able to exercise their muscles more and thus experience greater physical development and strength? –those who worked longer!
- Who was able to exercise their skills more and thus become more efficient and skillful? –those who worked longer!
- Who was able to achieve more by their own effort and thereby experience greater sense of confidence, achievement, well-being? –those who worked longer!
- Who had greater time helping the Master fulfill His purposes and thereby share in the mission and joy of the Master? –those who worked longer!
- Who was able to spend more time with the Master working with Him and thus getting to know Him better? –those who worked longer!
- Who had greater opportunity to reflect on the Master’s fields, business, methods, purposes and thus grown in their knowledge of the Master and how He does things? –those who worked longer!
- And, in the parable, what does the coin/the payment/reward given to each represent in reality? Healing from sin and eternal life—so do we see why all get the same reward at the end of the day?

- But do all get the same experience? Who got the better deal?
- Why didn't those who worked all day realize they got the better deal?
 - Because they were under the influence of a lie—that God's law works like human law and the rewards are arbitrarily handed out by the Master.
 - This is Satan's lie from the beginning when he alleged God arbitrarily gave Jesus privileges He refused to share with Lucifer—which was a manifestation of imperialism or imposed law. This is the root to the entire controversy and it will be settled upon this issue—how do we understand God's law and therefore, how do we understand God's character and methods.

Read last paragraph, "Though we can only touch..."

- How do we determine what the poor and downtrodden actually need?
- Do we determine the needs of the poor by what they say they need?
- What about a hungry person who is otherwise healthy—what do they need?
 - Remember the old Indian proverb—give a man a fish feed him for a day; teach a man to fish feed him for a lifetime
 - Which action above meets the true need of the hungry man?
 - What does a hungry man need who is otherwise healthy and refuses to work? "If a man will not work, he shall not eat." (2Thes 3:10 NIV84)
 - Does our understanding of law make a difference?
 - How does imperial law interpret what people need?
 - How does design law interpret what people need?

When we love others like our own children, how do we treat them?

- What is the primary goal of a loving parent for their children?
- If we love our children do we give them everything they want? Why or why not?
- If we love our children do we always give each child the exact same treatment?
- What is the problem in giving every child the exact same treatment?
- What if one child has leukemia and the others don't do you give each child the exact same treatment?
- What if one child has a temper problem but the others don't, do you treat them differently?
- What if one child is gifted in art or music but another child is gifted in athletics or math—do you send them all to the same coaches or schools?

In government is there a danger in making too many rules that are rigid and applied without consideration of situation?

How can the desire for fairness in our human justice system actually cause harm? How about when it is applied through a rigid code that focuses on enforcing the rules rather than the situation of the people involved?

What is the role of government in society and how do we apply God's principles? Do we focus primarily on promoting the health and welfare of all people in our society, or on punishing people who break our rules?

- In the Founding Documents of the USA there are principles laid out: All human beings have the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. If we understand these through rules what happens and how is it different than understanding these ideals through design law?
 - Design law: Fairness or justice is implemented in forming a government that has the responsibility to create equal opportunity for all people to realize their dreams, develop their abilities, and maximize their level of function and happiness. So the government would seek to eliminate exploitation, discrimination, and create a healthy environment where individuals are free to exercise their abilities without systemic or institutionalized arbitrary obstructions. Such a government could also implement agencies to assist those with genuine disability and protect the weak and vulnerable—again creating opportunity for individual growth—such as free education for people. The government making education available creates the opportunity to learn, but the opportunity to learn doesn't mean individuals actually apply themselves and learn.
 - Imposed law (rules): Fairness and justice in the rules model means the government has the responsibility to ensure all people experience equal outcomes. So the government seeks to impose rules, policies, regulations and taxes to ensure everyone has the same outcome, regardless of ability or effort.

Could we do harm while trying to help if we don't understand the actual need?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "As we have already..." What do you say to people who feel like God doesn't hear them? What would you tell such a person?

Do we believe God hears our prayers? I found a couple of quotes from EGW I wanted to share with you:

Heavenly beings are appointed to answer the prayers of those who are working unselfishly for the interests of the cause of God. The very highest angels in the heavenly courts are appointed to work out the prayers which ascend to God for the advancement of the cause of God. Each angel has his particular post of duty, which he is not permitted to leave for any other place. If he should leave, the powers of darkness would gain an advantage. . . . {Pr 254.2}

Day by day the conflict between good and evil is going on. Why is it that those who have had many opportunities and advantages do not realize the intensity of this work? They should be intelligent in regard to this. God is the Ruler. By His supreme power He holds in check and controls earthly potentates. [How does He rule? By what law does He hold things in check?] Through His agencies He does the work which was ordained before the foundation of the world. [What work?] {Pr 254.3}

As a people we do not understand as we should the great conflict going on between invisible agencies, the controversy between loyal and disloyal angels. [What don't we understand? Could it be the battle for hearts and minds?] Evil angels are constantly at work, planning their line of attack, controlling as commanders, kings, and rulers, the disloyal human forces. . . . I call upon the ministers of Christ to press home upon the understanding of all who come within the reach of their voice, the truth of the ministration of angels. Do not indulge in fanciful speculations. The written Word is our only safety. We must pray as did Daniel, that we may be guarded by heavenly intelligences. As ministering spirits angels are sent forth to minister to those who shall be heirs of salvation. Pray, my brethren, pray as you have never prayed before. We are not prepared for the Lord's coming. We need to make thorough work for eternity.—(SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 4, 1173.) {Pr 254.4}

I would ask for your prayers for this ministry and that God will open avenues to spread this message and hold back the forces that would keep people in darkness.

And, when you think of the heavenly sanctuary and what Jesus is doing there, what comes to mind? I have the vision of a great Commander at the helm of the universal government directing the agencies of God for the saving of souls and then I found this quote:

Oh, that all could behold our precious Saviour as He is, a Saviour. Let His hand draw aside the veil which conceals His glory from our eyes. It shows Him in His high and holy place. What do we see? Our Saviour, not in a position of silence and inactivity. He is surrounded with heavenly intelligences, cherubim, and seraphim, ten thousand times ten thousand of angels. All these heavenly beings have one object above all others, in which they are intensely interested—His church in a world of corruption. . . . They are working for Christ under His commission, to save to the uttermost all who look to Him and believe in Him. {Pr 255.4}

The lesson asks us to read Psalms 9:7-9, 13-20 lets read verses 7-20 from the NIV84 and the Remedy and notice the difference between imposed law view and design law:

From the NIV84:

⁷ The Lord reigns forever;
he has established his throne for judgment.
⁸ He will judge the world in righteousness;
he will govern the peoples with justice.
⁹ The Lord is a refuge for the oppressed, a stronghold in times of trouble.
¹⁰ Those who know your name will trust in you,
for you, Lord, have never forsaken those who seek you.
¹¹ Sing praises to the Lord, enthroned in Zion;
proclaim among the nations what he has done.
¹² For he who avenges blood remembers;
he does not ignore the cry of the afflicted.
¹³ O Lord, see how my enemies persecute me!
Have mercy and lift me up from the gates of death, ¹⁴ that I may declare your praises in the gates of the Daughter of Zion and there rejoice in your salvation.
¹⁵ The nations have fallen into the pit they have dug;
their feet are caught in the net they have hidden.
¹⁶ The Lord is known by his justice;
the wicked are ensnared by the work of their hands.
¹⁷ The wicked return to the grave,
all the nations that forget God.
¹⁸ But the needy will not always be forgotten, nor the hope of the afflicted ever perish.
¹⁹ Arise, O Lord, let not man triumph;
let the nations be judged in your presence.
²⁰ Strike them with terror, O Lord;
let the nations know they are but men.

From The Remedy:

⁷ Understand this: The Creator reigns forever; from his throne he governs the universe, sustaining the laws upon which life is built.
⁸ He rules the universe in harmony with his character and design of love;
he will govern with honor and integrity—in harmony with his principles of love.
⁹ The Lord is a sanctuary of healing and safety for the battered and abused, a fortress of freedom when trapped by life's problems.

- ¹⁰ Those who have personal experience with your character of love will trust you, for you, O Lord, never abandon those who seek friendship with you.
- ¹¹ Let your life be a song of love to the Lord who governs in Perfection; tell the entire world the truth about him and his methods of love.
- ¹² When he carefully procures the remedy, he thinks of the sin-sick;¹
he does not ignore their cry for help.
- ¹³ O Lord, intervene in my behalf!
See the pain and suffering that selfishness causes me.
Heal me—save me from my terminal condition—
- ¹⁴ that my life might reveal that your methods work;
before the entire world
I will celebrate your healing power.
- ¹⁵ The selfish dig themselves into pits of despair;
their minds are trapped in their own web of deceit.
- ¹⁶ The Lord has revealed that he governs in love and always does what is right;
the selfish reap what they sow—doomed by their own choices.
- ¹⁷ The selfish disintegrate into the soil of the earth—
all those who reject God and his healing remedy.
- ¹⁸ But those who acknowledge their need of healing will not be abandoned; the long-expected restoration of the humble will not fail.
- ¹⁹ Act now, O Lord, don't let selfishness win;
establish your government of truth and love upon the earth.
- ²⁰ Humble their hearts, O Lord;
let the selfish world realize they are just mortal beings.

Do you hear a difference in the NIV and the Remedy—what is the difference?

The NIV and all other translations have been done by sincere people who have grown up in a world where it is assumed and accepted that God's law functions like human law. Thus, they translate through imperialism and weave in legal sounding ideas. The Remedy views reality through design law and sees the larger reality of what God is working to accomplish.

¹ The KJV renders this: "When he maketh inquisition for blood, he remembereth them" The Hebrew for maketh inquisition is דָּרַשׁ, דְּרִישׁ [darash/daw·rash], means to carefully investigate or seek. The Hebrew for blood is דָּם [dam/dawm] and has been debated by scholars as to whether this refers to the "life" which is in the blood, or the "shed blood" resulting in death. Both interpretations are permissible. Taking the perspective that the blood refers to the life—and in this case, the life of Jesus, which is the remedy to our sin condition—I have rendered the phrase as God carefully seeking the remedy while thinking about the sin-sick, those he loves and whom he seeks to save.

Read the third paragraph, “Throughout the Psalms...” What do you hear? What law lens do you hear being described?

If we return to design law does that mean there is no punishment for sin? What is the punishment for sin under design law? From where does that punishment come? Is the punishment for sin because God holds a tribunal and pronounces a judgment that determines the punishment—why or why not?

What would it mean about God if that is the way it happens?

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read Psalms 82, from let’s compare the two versions again, first from the NIV84:

- ¹ God presides in the great assembly;
he gives judgment among the “gods”:
- ² “How long will you defend the unjust and show partiality to the wicked? Selah
- ³ Defend the cause of the weak and fatherless; maintain the rights of the poor and oppressed.
- ⁴ Rescue the weak and needy;
deliver them from the hand of the wicked.
- ⁵ “They know nothing, they understand nothing.
They walk about in darkness;
all the foundations of the earth are shaken.
- ⁶ “I said, ‘You are “gods”;
you are all sons of the Most High.’
- ⁷ But you will die like mere men;
you will fall like every other ruler.”
- ⁸ Rise up, O God, judge the earth, for all the nations are your inheritance.

From The Remedy:

- ¹ God takes a stand against the assembly of false gods;
he presents his diagnosis regarding all pagan gods.
- ² He says, “When will you stop using a list of rules to govern?
When will you stop protecting selfishness with your legal system?”
- ³ Do what is actually right, healthy, and loving for all people; protect the poor and the fatherless;
do what is right to the poor and oppressed—what heals and restores.

- ⁴ Rescue the weak and needy;
deliver them from the power of selfishness.
- ⁵ These false gods don't understand reality;
they don't understand my design-laws—how I built life to function;
they operate in the darkness of a rule-enforcement system and the world is crumbling all around them.
- ⁶ I say to you, fallen angels pretending to be gods, “Even though you are all children of the Most High,
- ⁷ you will die like mortals;
your life will end like that of any ordinary ruler.”
- ⁸ Rise up, O God, and diagnose the earth, for the entire world belongs to you.

Do you hear a difference in the two versions? What difference? Which do you think is more consistent with our Creator God?

Second paragraph states, “In the psalmist’s view, the justice of God is a model for how earthly justice should function, and it also provides the measure against which such justice or injustice—and those who dispense it—will be judged.”

What does this mean? If you were a ruler of a society, how would you implement justice?

TUESDAY

The lesson asks us to read Psalms 101, again, let's compare the two versions, first from NIV84:

- ¹ I will sing of your love and justice;
to you, O Lord, I will sing praise.
- ² I will be careful to lead a blameless life—
when will you come to me?
I will walk in my house with blameless heart.
- ³ I will set before my eyes
no vile thing.
The deeds of faithless men I hate;
they will not cling to me.
- ⁴ Men of perverse heart shall be far from me;
I will have nothing to do with evil.
- ⁵ Whoever slanders his neighbor in secret,

him will I put to silence;
whoever has haughty eyes and a proud heart,
him will I not endure.
⁶ My eyes will be on the faithful in the land, that they may dwell with me;
he whose walk is blameless will minister to me.
⁷ No one who practices deceit will dwell in my house;
no one who speaks falsely will stand in my presence.
⁸ Every morning I will put to silence all the wicked in the land;
I will cut off every evildoer
from the city of the Lord.

From The Remedy:

¹ I will sing of your kingdom of love;
my life will be a song praising your character of love, O Lord.
² Understanding your design-laws, I will live in harmony with them—how long until you restore me to perfect unity with you?
In my house, I will live out your law of love with a pure heart.
³ I will not cherish selfishness—
anything vile or wicked;
I hate all actions which deviate from your design, and such corruption will not be part of my character.
⁴ Selfish temptations shall be purged completely from my heart;
no evil will be permitted to attach to me.
⁵ I will terminate my relationship with anyone who slanders others;
I will cut out of my life
those who cling to pride and arrogance.
⁶ I will seek out those in the world who love you and are loyal to you, and I will make them my friends;
those who are pure in heart will carry out my purposes.
⁷ Deceivers will not live in my house;
the dishonest will not remain in my presence.

⁸ Every day I work to eliminate wickedness, to purify and cleanse the world, that I may cut out all deviations from God's design and restore the city of the Lord to perfection.

What difference do you hear from these two versions—which do you believe is more consistent with our Creator God?

Did you hear Messianic themes in The Remedy?

Read third paragraph, “As we have...” How would these principles be practiced by leaders? How should church leaders apply these principles?

What would it look like when disputes arise over different theological interpretations? (Romans 14:5)

Do we apply different principles when running human governments?

What happens in the church when we bring in the governments of the earth—i.e. when church and state unite?

Can we have the same problem by using the methods of the state without uniting with the state? And what would that look like?

The fourth paragraph states, David sought to learn and practice God's characteristics in his life and work.

Would it matter how David understood God's character and methods to be? Why would this matter? Because of design law, law of worship, we become like the God we worship.

WEDNESDAY

Read Psalms 146:7-9 from the NIV84:

⁷ He upholds the cause of the oppressed and gives food to the hungry.
The Lord sets prisoners free,
⁸ the Lord gives sight to the blind,
the Lord lifts up those who are bowed down,
the Lord loves the righteous.
⁹ The Lord watches over the alien and sustains the fatherless and the widow, but he frustrates the ways of the wicked.

What do you hear when you read these verses?

Read fourth paragraph, “But there also are...” Do you agree? Certainly, Christ alleviated the immediate suffering of people and performed many miracles of healing—but what happened to all of those people?

Did they avoid aging? Do you think the people who were healed, the paralytic, the lepers, or the blind man, didn’t age, they didn’t get arthritis, didn’t get weak, didn’t have any more suffering and didn’t die?

Is that God’s goal, to relieve immediate suffering but allow people to continue to suffer with aging for years and then die?

What is God’s goal for people? He wants all to come to salvation—what does this mean?

Do you hear anything about salvation in Psalms 146:7-9?

Does it have a dual application with relieving immediate needs, but the more important application is the eternal realities?

THURSDAY

Read second paragraph, “Proverbs emphasizes...” Do we agree we are not to oppress or take advantage of people?

Does this mean we should seek to deliver every person who is in poverty or homeless?

What would you say about the story of the prodigal son? Did the father in that story sin because he didn’t follow his son and provide for his homeless and penniless son?

Why not?

Why did his father not send aid to his son?

Where is the balance between providing for people and letting people suffer in their situation?

What does love do? What does love seek for others? Can we create a rule that love will use in all situations, or will love have to evaluate the situation and act accordingly, which may be quite different depending on the situation?

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, "The psalms of David pass..." What is the justice of God? What do we see of God's justice in the life of David? What did God's law require of David? What did David seek after his great sin?

Did God do justice by forgiving and transforming David?

Did Jesus have to die in order for God to forgive David?

Did Jesus have to die in order for God to heal and transform David? Why or why not?

What did David need in order be healed and transformed? Could David provide this for himself—then where could David receive it?

Is healing and transforming David a just thing for God to do?

Consider this EGW quote:

The law requires righteousness,--a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26. {DA 762.2}

What is justice in this quotation? Healing and restoring God's character into human beings. This is only possible because of Christ developing a perfect sinless human character, which becomes the template of our new character that we receive by trust.

Read and discuss questions

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Multi-Languages: We are creating resources in diverse languages. We currently have Could It Be This Simple? available in Polish and Bulgarian as well as some blogs translated into Bulgarian. The New Paradigm is now available on our website in Spanish and Portuguese. We are working on getting other material in various languages.

New Paradigm about the Investigative Judgment and Sanctuary is now available in print form in Canada, South Africa and Australia. If you would like print copies please contact our hub in your country. A Portuguese and Spanish version are currently available on the website and other languages will be available soon.

Audio version of the Remedy is available for Streaming: Download the free SoundCloud app. No subscription required. Search for “Remedy Bible” or use this link https://soundcloud.com/the_remedy_nt/albums to find it and stream it at no cost. Click “follow” on the album and you will go to it easily in the future.

PODCAST: Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.

MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

Check our website for new chapters of The Remedy the Psalms will be going up slowly as they are completed and edited. When an entire book of the Old Testament is complete then it will be added to the app and when you update the app you will get the new book. Thank you for your prayers and support as I work on this project.

July 19,20, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Living Truth SDA Church in London, Ontario Canada.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker’s Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

2017 Q3 The The Least of These - Lesson 5

The Cry of the Prophets

by Russel Atkins

SABBATH

“He has shown you, O man, what is good; and what does the Lord require of you but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with your God?” Micah 6:8 [NKJV]

- What is a prophet?
- Is there any difference between OT prophets and any in the present day?
- What did they “cry”? Is a contemporary prophet “crying” anything different?
- What is justice??
- What does it mean to “love mercy”?
- How does one walk “humbly” with God?
- Why does the Lord “require” these things of mankind?
- What is the solid thread running throughout all of the OT prophets’ books, and all of Scripture, for that matter??

From the lesson:

“As we will see, too, that among the sins and evils that they warned the leaders and people against, one of the biggest was the oppression of the poor, the needy, the helpless among them. Yes, worshiping idols was bad; yes, following false religious practices was bad; but, yes, taking advantage of the weak and poor was worthy of condemnation, as well.”

Was oppression of the poor the disease or a symptom of a disease?

What was the real problem??

Was it “worthy of condemnation”? Did God condemn the children of Israel for this, or did He go to great lengths to heal them?

SUNDAY

The Recurring Call to Justice.

The lesson references Israel’s demand for a king in 1 Samuel 8. Consider the broader context first.

Samuel had appointed his sons to function as priests [read – church leadership] in his stead but they “did not follow his ways” and they accepted bribes [read – used tithe dollars for personal gain] and perverted justice [read – compliance committees]. The citizens of Israel then demanded a king.

Is it too much of a stretch to wonder that if Samuel's sons had been true to their father's [literal and figurative] character, then Israel would have been less likely to demand a king "such as the other nations have"??

God correctly diagnoses their condition and makes it clear that Israel is rejecting Him and not Samuel.

MONDAY

Amos

From the lesson:

"He [Amos] begins on a popular note, listing off the surrounding nations— Syria, Philistia, Phoenicia, Edom, Ammon, and Moab—and detailing their crimes, outrages, and atrocities for which God will punish them [Ed: Really??] (see Amos 1:3–2:3). It is easy to imagine the Israelites applauding these indictments of their enemies, particularly as many of the crimes of these nations had been directed against the Israelites themselves."

And again:

"Then Amos moves a little closer to home, declaring God's judgment against the people of Judah, Israel's southern neighbors in the now-separated kingdoms. Speaking on behalf of God, Amos cites their rejection of God, their disobedience to His commands, and the punishments that would come to them [Ed: Really??] (see Amos 2:4, 5)."

Anyone see a pattern here??

TUESDAY

Micah

The lesson recommends we read Micah 2 & 3 to gain some context for the state of Israel and Judah. Here are some tidbits.

Woe to those who plan iniquity, to those who plot evil on their beds! At morning's light they carry it out because it is in their power to do it.

They covet fields and seize them, and houses, and take them. They defraud people of their homes, they rob them of their inheritance. Micah 2: 2.

Then I said, "Listen, you LEADERS of Jacob, you RULERS of Israel. Should you not embrace justice, you who hate good and love evil . . . Micah 3: 1. [emphasis mine]

Hear this, you LEADERS of Jacob, you RULERS of Israel, who despise justice and distort all that is right; who build Zion with bloodshed, and Jerusalem with wickedness . . . Micah 3: 9. [emphasis mine]

Consider the verses preceding our memory text:

“With what shall I come before the Lord, and bow myself before the High God??
Shall I come before Him with burnt offerings, with calves a year old? Will the Lord be pleased with thousands of rams, ten thousand rivers of oil?

Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?”
Micah 6: 6, 7 NKJV.

God is calling out LEADERSHIP. NATIONAL and CHURCH leadership. They are the ones misrepresenting His character to their populace. The rank and file citizens take their cues from leadership. This is why our leaders need to adhere, and be held to a higher standard.

In the bottom section the lesson asks a great question.

“What is the link between doing justice, loving mercy, and walking humbly before God?”

Any thoughts??

WEDNESDAY

Ezekiel

Check out Ezekiel 4 and wonder at the lengths God and Ezekiel went to in order to capture the attention and arrest the course of the children of Israel.

- Build a copy of the city of Jerusalem and lay siege to it.
- Lie on left side for 390 days. Let that breathe.
- Lie on right side for 40 days.
- Cook food with human dung. Animal dung when Ezekiel protested.

Marvel at the patience and commitment.

From the lesson:

“Interestingly enough, though, the answer is more complicated than just that. Consider Ezekiel’s description: “ ‘ “Now this was the sin of your sister Sodom: She and her daughters were arrogant, overfed and unconcerned; they did not help the poor and needy” ’ ” (Ezek. 16:49, NIV). Though clearly the Lord was not going to overlook the other forms of depravity found in the city, Ezekiel’s focus here was on economic injustice and a lack of care for those in need. Could it be that, in the eyes of God, these economic sins were just as bad as the sexual ones?”

Could it be that the economic and sexual depravity are related? Linked? Connected? Symptomatic?
Could it be that they hold hands and skip across meadows together?

Why do you think the lesson chose to focus on Ezekiel's lack of focus on Sodom's "sexual" sins??
We may need a compliance committee to look in to this . . .

See where this idiocy [the focus on behaviors, i.e. symptoms, instead of the heart condition, i.e. the disease] leads??

THURSDAY

Isaiah

"Come now, and let us reason together", says the Lord, "though your sins are like scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they are red like crimson, they shall be as wool." Isa. 1:18.

Is this, and texts like it, what you think of when you remember the prophet Isaiah?

Do you think of the countless messianic passages, or do you think of God's "anger" and the impending doom on Israel and Judah? What about the preceding texts?

"To what purpose is the multitude of your sacrifices to Me?" Says the Lord. "I have had enough of burnt offerings of rams And the fat of fed cattle. I do not delight in the blood of bulls, Or of lambs or goats.

"When you come to appear before Me, Who has required this from your hand, To trample My courts?

Bring no more futile sacrifices Incense is an abomination to Me. The New Moons, the Sabbaths, and the calling of assemblies—I cannot endure iniquity and the sacred meeting. Your New Moons and your appointed feasts My soul hates; They are a trouble to Me, I am weary of bearing them.

When you spread out your hands, I will hide My eyes from you; Even though you make many prayers, I will not hear. Your hands are full of blood.

"Wash yourselves, make yourselves clean; Put away the evil of your doings from before My eyes. Cease to do evil,

Learn to do good; Seek justice, Rebuke the oppressor; Defend the fatherless, Plead for the widow. Isa. 1: 11-17 NKJV.

2019 Q3 The Least of These: Lesson 6 Worship the Creator

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

What does the title of the lesson bring to mind?

What does it mean to worship the Creator?

What would you say is the core, absolute, definable difference between the Creator and all false gods?

Is it the Sabbath? Did the Jews who crucified Christ worship the true God? Did they have the Sabbath? So, Sabbath observance doesn't differentiate those who worship the Creator from those who worship a false god—what does?

What can the Creator do that no other being can do? Create reality—space, time, matter, energy, life—and what does creation operate upon? Design laws, the laws of physics, health, the moral laws.

Created beings cannot do this, thus they always impose rules and call them laws and use coercion to inflict punishment for disobedience.

So, if you want to see the difference between Creator worship and false-god worship look to the laws of God versus the laws of the false gods and what methods are employed in how they govern.

When one breaks a design law what does justice require God to do? Provide remedy to heal and save, lest if God does nothing the law-breaker dies from breaking the law upon which life is constructed.

When one breaks an imposed law what does justice require the false god to do? To inflict punishment—so we can determine whether someone is worshipping the Creator or has a false god concept infecting their view of God by whether they teach that God, in order to be just, must inflict punishment.

While God has desired to teach men that from His own love comes the Gift which reconciles them to Himself, the archenemy of mankind has endeavored to represent God as one who delights in their destruction. Thus the sacrifices and the ordinances designed of Heaven to reveal divine love have been perverted to serve as means whereby sinners have vainly hoped to propitiate, with gifts and good works, the wrath of an offended God. {PK 685.2}

How many religions of the world teach that their god requires some offering or sacrifice be brought to the god?

In Christianity is it ever taught that God requires an offering of a sinless human sacrifice to propitiate His wrath? Yes, but the big distinction that the legal theologians make is they claim that what makes this blood payment of Jesus “Christian” and not pagan is that God Himself provides the sacrifice to propitiate Himself, whereas the pagan gods require the worshipper to bring the sacrifice.

This is a distinction without merit as both gods are gods that function on imposed law and inflict pain, suffering and death upon the sinner if not acted upon by an intermediary to offer something to the god to assuage wrath and anger.

So, the SDA church began as a group of Christians from a variety of different denominational backgrounds which came together to move people away from worshipping pagan gods and imperial/imposed god-concepts to worship the Creator—Him who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water.

EGW wrote:

Thousands have a false conception of God and His attributes. They are as verily serving a false god as were the servants of Baal. Are we worshipping the true God as He is revealed in His Word, in Christ, in nature, or are we adoring some philosophical idol enshrined in His place? God is a God of truth. Justice and mercy are the attributes of His throne. He is a God of love, of pity and tender compassion. Thus He is represented in His Son, our Saviour. He is a God of patience and long-suffering. If such is the being whom we adore and to whose character we are seeking to assimilate, we are worshipping the true God. {FLB 59.8}

And what did Baal require? Appeasement, offering brought to assuage wrath, because offense to the god required the god inflict punishment. This is Satan’s lie from the beginning.

Let’s examine a long quote and as we go through we will think about each section and ask what it means and whether you agree or disagree:

In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. [What kind of law is Satan describing? A law which created beings can make, a system of rules that require oversight and coercive enforcement. This is Satan’s lie about God’s law and as we look through history we see this repeats itself over and over again.] ...God could not be just, he urged, and yet show mercy to the sinner. [What is the basis of this allegation? What kind of justice is this? What level of thinking? What law is this based upon? Again this is imposed law, and thus the allegation is that to not impose punishment is to not uphold the law. However, when we understand Design law, we realize that justice is not about punishment, but restoring or healing people back to harmony with the design-law.] {DA 761.4}

But even as a sinner, man was in a different position from that of Satan. [Different position how? Different legal position? Or different position in objective reality? Note how] Lucifer in heaven had sinned in the light of God's glory. To him as to no other created being was given a revelation of God's love. Understanding the character of God, knowing His goodness, Satan chose to follow his own selfish, independent will. This choice was final. There was no more that God could do to save him. [Why? Was Jesus unwilling to give His life for Lucifer? Was Jesus unwilling to pay a "legal penalty"? Did God love Lucifer less than humans? Was God playing favorites? No! No! It was because Lucifer had destroyed in himself the capacity to respond to truth and love. He had seen, understood, and participated in God's love and rejected it. Thus he changed himself, hardened his own heart and corrupted his character. This again, is design law. Just the same way Pharaoh hardened his heart—when truth is presented a person must decide to accept or reject it, when we reject truth we harden, when more truth comes we have an opportunity to repent and be healed, but it requires humbling oneself and acknowledging where the lie was believed. If we refuse and instead reject the additional truth than we harden ourselves more until at some point we destroy the ability to respond to love and truth. This is what Lucifer did. Adam and Eve, while deceived, while infected with fear and selfishness, had not rejected truth that would win them to repentance and had not destroyed within them the faculties capable of responding to truth.] But man was deceived; his mind was darkened by Satan's sophistry. The height and depth of the love of God he did not know. For him there was hope in a knowledge of God's love. By beholding His character he might be drawn back to God. [What is it man needs? Is it a legal penalty paid? No, that is what is needed if one is operating under Satan's false view of God's law. But when we understand the truth we need to be set right in heart and mind with God, meaning we need the lies removed and truth to win us to trust and love restored within the heart by the indwelling Spirit of God!] {DA 761.5}

Through Jesus, God's mercy was manifested to men; but mercy does not set aside justice. [What does this mean? Do we view justice through imposed law or design law? What difference does it make?] The law reveals the attributes of God's character, [which is what?] and not a jot or tittle of it could be changed to meet man in his fallen condition. [Why? For the same reason the law of respiration cannot be changed to meet a person drowning. God's law is the protocol upon which life is actually constructed to operate.] God did not change His law, but He sacrificed Himself, in Christ, for man's redemption. "God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself." 2 Corinthians 5:19. {DA 762.1} [Which means that Christ was carrying out God's purpose to fix what sin did to humanity, set humanity back into harmony with God's law—design! Notice the next description about justice.]

The law requires righteousness,--a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. [Notice this is Christ, as a human, using human abilities, developing a perfect human character and then healing humans back to this perfect state. This is literal not metaphorical.] Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26. {DA 762.2} [If you see someone drowning, is it right and just to pull them from the water and administer CPR to revive them? What law are you operating under? Why, if you want them to live, must you do this? This is God's justice and what He accomplished for us through Christ.]

God's love has been expressed in His justice no less than in His mercy. Justice is the foundation of His throne, and the fruit of His love. It had been Satan's purpose to divorce mercy from truth and justice. He sought to prove that the righteousness of God's law is an enemy to peace. But Christ shows that in God's plan they are indissolubly joined together; the one cannot exist without the other. "Mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other." Psalm 85:10. {DA 762.3} [How does Satan attempt to divorce mercy from justice? By an imposed law construct, which results in a split Godhead in which Christ in mercy dies to pay a legal penalty for our sins to a wrathful father who is the administrator of just punishments. Thus, justice is separated from mercy in the way we perceive and describe God—leading to theologies in which Jesus must protect us from the Father. 1. Jesus pleads His blood to the Father. 2. Jesus covers us with His blood so the Father can't see us. 3. Jesus applies His blood to our record books so the Father can't punish us for our bad deeds. 4. Jesus is our heavenly attorney to argue our case before the Father to protect us from His judgment and punishment. 5 Jesus took our place and was executed by His Father on the cross to pay for our sins. All of this is the divorcing of mercy from truth and justice by created a false caricature of the Godhead.]

By His life and His death, Christ proved that God's justice did not destroy His mercy, but that sin could be forgiven, and that the law is righteous, and can be perfectly obeyed. Satan's charges were refuted. [How? What was the just or right thing for God to do? Fix the problem, which was accomplished through Christ developing a perfect character. What charges of Satan were refuted? That every sin must meet its punishment, that God's transgressing God's law requires punishment. No, these lies were refuted at the Cross. But Satan still gets legal theologians to teach the lie when they teach that all sins, past, present, future were put on Christ and punished by God at the Cross.] God had given man unmistakable evidence of His love. {DA 762.4}

Another deception was now to be brought forward. [History now repeats itself] Satan declared that mercy destroyed justice, that the death of Christ abrogated the Father's law. [What kind of law can be rescinded, changed, or abrogated? Imposed law, the kind of laws created beings make. Design law cannot be changed or abrogated. Thus Satan's allegations that began in heaven that God's law requires punishment, i.e. imposed law, now repeats itself and is accepted by the vast majority of humans, including Christians.] Had it been possible for the law to be changed or abrogated, then Christ need not have died... It was because the law was changeless, because man could be saved only through obedience to its precepts, that Jesus was lifted up on the cross. [Why? Because the law is the protocol of life, and only in harmony with it is there salvation, or healing!] Yet the very means by which Christ established the law Satan represented as destroying it.[How? Twofold, one by declaring the law is no longer binding, which is only possible if the law were imposed rules. But, also, amongst those who claim the law is still binding, by tricking them into accepting the imposed construct, thus they claim loyalty to God's law and all the commandments, while they present it as imposed rules requiring God to inflict punishment. They, thereby misrepresent God, the Cross and God's law and ultimately practice Satan's methods of coercion as they will one day force other to worship as they do.] Here will come the last conflict of the great controversy between Christ and Satan... [This is where we are today in Christianity, fighting a battle over God's law, not which day of worship, but which law—imposed or Design law. We are to call people back to worship Him who made the heavens... to Designer worship.] {DA 762.5}

By substituting human law for God's law, Satan will seek to control the world... [How? Not simply by a change in rules, but a change in the entire idea of law from the law the Creator builds life upon, to imposed rules so that Christians will seek to take control of governments and enforce their beliefs upon others. Notice the next paragraph...] {DA 763.1}

Men will surely set up their laws to counterwork the laws of God. They will seek to compel the consciences of others, and in their zeal to enforce these laws they will oppress their fellow men. [Here we have it—the use of compelling power, which is always used in imposed law systems. This is how Christianity presents God today. That God, in order to be just, must punish sin, just as Satan declared in heaven, thus history repeats itself.] {DA 763.2}

The warfare against God's law, which was begun in heaven, will be continued until the end of time. Every man will be tested. Obedience or disobedience is the question to be decided by the whole world. All will be called to choose between the law of God and the laws of men. Here the dividing line will be drawn. There will be but two classes. Every character will be fully developed; and all will show whether they have chosen the side of loyalty or that of rebellion. {DA 763.3} [Notice the paragraph, it is about developing character, character of love like Jesus, in which we sacrifice ourselves for others, present truth in love and leave others free. Or, character like the beast, where we use compelling power to coerce conformity! This is the test we all must face.]

Then the end will come. God will vindicate His law and deliver His people. Satan and all who have joined him in rebellion will be cut off. Sin and sinners will perish, root and branch... [Why? Mercy—God would not use His power to keep people in a place of torment, but grant them their choice to be separate from Him, the only source of life.] {DA 763.4}

This is not an act of arbitrary power on the part of God. The rejecters of His mercy reap that which they have sown. God is the fountain of life; and when one chooses the service of sin, he separates from God, and thus cuts himself off from life. [This is design law, not imposed penalties!] He is "alienated from the life of God." Christ says, "All they that hate Me love death." Ephesians 4:18; Proverbs 8:36. God gives them existence for a time that they may develop their character and reveal their principles. This accomplished, they receive the results of their own choice. By a life of rebellion, Satan and all who unite with him place themselves so out of harmony with God that His very presence is to them a consuming fire. The glory of Him who is love will destroy them. {DA 764.1}

At the beginning of the great controversy, the angels did not understand this. [What did angels not understand? God's law as design law, as an outworking of His character of love. They were confused by Satan's lies that God's law functions like human law. Thus history repeats itself as humans suffer the same confusion.] Had Satan and his host then been left to reap the full result of their sin, they would have perished; but it would not have been apparent to heavenly beings that this was the inevitable result of sin. A doubt of God's goodness would have remained in their minds as evil seed, to produce its deadly fruit of sin and woe. [This is how many Christians today, including in our own church, view things; they fail to understand the truth of God's law and instead teach the same distortion that God must kill the wicked, rather than the truth that unremedied sin itself results in death!] {DA 764.2}

But not so when the great controversy shall be ended. Then, the plan of redemption having been completed, the character of God is revealed to all created intelligences. The precepts of His law are seen to be perfect and immutable. Then sin has made manifest its nature, Satan his character. Then the extermination of sin will vindicate God's love and establish His honor before a universe of beings who delight to do His will, and in whose heart is His law. {DA 764.3}

And how will organizations, including churches, function if they embrace the imperial/imposed law method? They will use compelling power to coerce others. We can see these principles in the governments of the world, we see them in the church of the Dark Ages, and we must be on guard to prevent them from taking root in our church today. Consider this quote:

I was shown God's people waiting for some change to take place,--a compelling power to take hold of them. But they will be disappointed, for they are wrong. They must act; they must take hold of the work themselves, and earnestly cry to God for a true knowledge of themselves. The scenes which are passing before us are of sufficient magnitude to cause us to arouse, and urge the truth home to the hearts of all who will listen. The harvest of the earth is nearly ripe.--Testimonies, vol. 1, p. 261. {ChS 43.3}

Men are educated to look to men, and to depend on men. One man, by virtue of his position, exercises authority over others as if they were to be led by lines, this way and that, as dumb animals. God has not directed in this way. God is our chief, God is our instructor, and to him we must look. We must ask the Holy Spirit's guidance, and expect to be led and controlled by it. The church organization is to be respected, but it is not to be made in any way a galling yoke. Men are not to assume the prerogative of God, and think to rule and coerce and oppress the souls of God's purchased possessions. All heaven is indignant at what men, with complacency, will do to their fellow men, claiming at the same time to be representatives of Jesus Christ. They too often represent the spirit and character of Satan. {The Paulson Collection 399.4}

Do we have clarity on what it means to worship the Creator verses all false gods?

This battle between the two views of God's law has been going on since Satan started his war in heaven, all through human history. And in the SDA church in 1888 when the Holy Spirit brought the righteousness by faith message—the message that when we trust God we become the righteousness of God, just as Scripture says in 2Cor 5:21. This message was the advancing of design law, the worship of the Creator God, but it was rejected by the legal/penal theologians who have since that day taught that we do not become the righteousness of God, but are declared to be righteous even though we are not.

But, there are many voices throughout Christianity and within the SDA church who are carrying forward the truth about God. Pastor Alex Goloventko sent me this quote out of the SDA Elder's Handbook, published in 2013:

“The good news of the Gospel is that God is love. This news was in stark contrast to the pagan appeasement religions of Jesus’ time, as well as to legalistic misrepresentations of God. Even today, while many know the good news of Christ’s abundant grace, there remains a distorted image of God as a demanding tyrant and judge. The message of Jesus is—and was—that God is love, His law is love, and His grace is love. In recognition of this attribute of God’s character, the church experiences a revival of godliness. We do what we do not to earn God’s favor by merit, but because He has bestowed it upon us already.”¹

SUNDAY

The first paragraph references the Commandment, “Thou shalt have no other gods before me.” Why? Why did God give them this law? Because of a design law, the law of worship—we become like what we admire and worship—by beholding we are changed.

We are the highest created beings on planet earth and there is nothing on earth we can worship that will advance or develop us, anything we worship on earth degrades us. So God says to worship Him because He wants us to grow to the highest pinnacles of development possible.

Romans 1 Paul describes this when he writes that they exchanged the truth of God for a lie and preferred images made with their own hands and their minds became darkened depraved and futile.

We see the same thing in the OT:

But their idols are silver and gold,
made by the hands of men.

⁵ They have mouths, but cannot speak, eyes, but they cannot see;

¹ Elders Handbook. (2013) p.117.

⁶ they have ears, but cannot hear, noses, but they cannot smell;
⁷ they have hands, but cannot feel,
feet, but they cannot walk;
nor can they utter a sound with their throats.
⁸ Those who make them will be like them, and so will all who trust in them. Ps 115:4-8 NIV84

The lesson talks about how Israel fell into idolatry over and over again—what about when Jesus came upon the earth? Have you ever wondered why Jesus waited so long into human history to come the first time? What was finally achieved by the time Jesus came? That the people given the script, the blueprint, were finally appearing to keep it. From an external behavioral perspective they were following the blueprint from God, no longer worshipping idols.

And how did they treat Jesus? And what would the angels and onlooking universe and us learn by seeing this? It isn't about following a script of religious rules, but about healing the heart.

Man looks on the outward appearance but the Lord looks on the heart! 1Sam 16:7

How is this truth another evidence of the tension between imposed law versus design law?

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Throughout the Bible..." Why? Why does God give us reasons to worship Him?

What does God want from us? Our love, trust, loyalty, devotion—how can these be obtained? Can you get this with threats of punishment?

So what are the reasons we have to worship God?

Read fourth paragraph, "God's justice is..." How do you describe God's justice? How do we define it? What is the measure of it? How is God's justice different than human justice?

What law lens do you see justice through?

What questions come to mind that seem to make God's justice hard to understand?

Read last paragraph, "Second, God's justice..." Is being just or dispensing justice or acting justly different in any measurable way from doing right, dispensing righteousness or acting rightly?

What do you think the lesson is trying to say by separating justice and righteousness?

Hebrews 5 says that infant milk is repentance from acts that lead to death, in other words focusing on the dos and don'ts and those at such a state are not acquainted with the teaching about righteousness—why not?

What is the teaching about righteousness that the penal legal camp is not acquainted with? Righteousness by faith, 2Cor 5:21, we become the righteousness of God. But the penal legal camp teaches we don't become righteous, we are declared to be righteous even though we are not!

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "During the better times..." Is there a relationship with working hard to be religious and not actually being on God's team?

What of this quote:

The effort to earn salvation by one's own works inevitably leads men to pile up human exactions as a barrier against sin. For, seeing that they fail to keep the law, they will devise rules and regulations of their own to force themselves to obey. All this turns the mind away from God to self. His love dies out of the heart, and with it perishes love for his fellow men. A system of human invention, with its multitudinous exactions, will lead its advocates to judge all who come short of the prescribed human standard. The atmosphere of selfish and narrow criticism stifles the noble and generous emotions, and causes men to become self-centered judges and petty spies. {MB 123.1}

The Pharisees were of this class. They came forth from their religious services, not humbled with a sense of their own weakness, not grateful for the great privileges that God had given them. They came forth filled with spiritual pride, and their theme was, "Myself, my feelings, my knowledge, my ways." Their own attainments became the standard by which they judged others. Putting on the robes of self-dignity, they mounted the judgment seat to criticize and condemn. {MB 123.2}

What is the underlying problem here? It is substituting design law with imperial law which leads to rule oriented thinking—let's examine this further in Wednesday lesson.

WEDNESDAY

The titled for the day's lesson is The Way to Worship.

What is the result of worship? We become like the God we worship and thus the result of true worship is we become like the true God in how we live, how we relate toward others, which results in the methods we practice in society.

So, we do justice to the poor and the needy—which is what? It seeks to restore them to autonomy, to people of self-sufficiency, to give them opportunity for growth, development, advancement as human beings and in particular into godliness of character.

What do we not do? We do not add burdens or obstacles to people's lives that make it harder for them, Jesus said:

“And you experts in the law, woe to you, because you load people down with burdens they can hardly carry, and you yourselves will not lift one finger to help them. Luke 11:46 NIV84

What is Jesus criticizing? He is NOT criticizing living in harmony with design law. He is criticizing covering over design law with imperialism and lists of rules, even if intended to help live in harmony with design law, because once this focus occurs it obscures the truth about God and obstructs trust in God.

From the book Halakhah: The Rabbinical Idea of Law:

Throughout Deuteronomy the people are implored “to follow the mitzvah which God has commanded”—that is, the whole of God's instructions. In the hands of the rabbis, however, the term gains a more concrete meaning: mitzvah is a particular instance of halakhic-legal obligation. The rabbis held that the Torah is comprised of 613 individual mitzvah, each a foundational source of the law. p. 18

We can see the rabbis' halakhic consciousness at work in their analysis of the Torah's first mitzvah. The opening chapter in Genesis records, “God blessed [Adam and Eve] and said to them ‘Be fruitful and multiply, fill the earth and subdue it.’” (1:28) ON its face, this instruction does not explain what (if any) specific action is called for. Indeed, it has been reasonably interpreted as a poetic description of things to come, or a charge or blessing to humankind generally. The rabbis, however, understand it as a specific mitzvah that generates a legal duty incumbent [upon] ever individual (male) Jew. To satisfy the legal requirement, the Mishnah rules that each male must sire at least two children. The Mishnah then presents a debate: in one view (held by students of the first-century mishnaic sage, Shammai), two male children are required; in the other (held by students of Shammai's frequent interlocutor, Hillel), the requirement is for one male and one female (m.Yevamot 6:6)... p. 19

Having assumed a legal framework, the Talmud—an elaborate commentary on the Mishnah compiled in the centuries following the Mishnah's dissemination—investigates numerous derivative questions. What happens if the children themselves cannot reproduce—do they “count” toward fulfilling the halakhic obligation? What if the children die—must the father have more? If the deceased children lived long enough to have children of their own, do these grandchildren count in lieu of the deceased parents (b.Yevamot 63a)? p. 19

What if the child is the product of an illicit relationship (e.g., incest or adultery)? What in if the children develop reproductive deficiencies? p. 20

Another example: though the biblical text prohibits melakhah—typically translated as “work” or “labor”—on Shabbat, it provides limited guidance as to what exactly this phrase means. The Mishnah, for its part, presents thirty-nine base categories of prohibited activities, one of which is writing (m.Shabbat 12:1-6). Here we learn that while a person who writes only one letter is exempt, one who writes two letters is liable for violating Shabbat. Use of ink, dye, or permanent liquids generates liability; while colored water or etching in the dirt do not. Writing with the hand is a problem; writing with the foot, mouth, or elbow is not. Cases even more unusual than these are also taken under consideration, for example writing one letter on the ceiling and another on the floor, or two single letters on separate pieces of paper that are later put together. In the modern era, halakhists discussed whether it is permitted to piece together a puzzle on Shabbat (potentially problematic since it creates an intelligible picture) or to play Scrabble (generally okay, but in the Deluxe Edition the board’s grooves hold the letters in place more permanently and may thereby produce a “writing”).

Do you see, regardless of the sincerity of the people involved, such a focus on legalism, on the right rules, on imperial law, results in obstructing God’s plan, it turns the mind to self and away from God and His design law for life?

How do church leaders do this?

Do we do this with behaviorally focused religion rather than heart transforming truth?

What about Sabbath keeping rules, do we add burdens to people’s lives increasing guilt and making it harder for people to experience God’s healing in their lives?

Why is the Sabbath to be called a delight? Can you force people to enjoy things? So what kind of law is being described?

It is all about heart attitude and heart change, which is design law, healing!

THURSDAY

Read second paragraph, “As we will see...” Was it only Jesus that faced criticism from religious leaders, or has that been true throughout human history?

- Who opposed Moses? Aaron and Miriam
- Who opposed Elijah?
- Who opposed the Apostles?
- Who opposed the Reformers?
- What about today?

Why do religious leaders so often find themselves working against God and God’s people?

Is the type of law they operate upon involved?

When you believe God's law is imposed/imperial then what must one do with law-breakers? Inflict punishment, set rules, enforce compliance...but when God's law is design law, we educate and set healthy boundaries, but we leave people free and reap the results.

The lesson points us to Matthew 23, let's read it from The Remedy:

This is the chapter in which Jesus gives a long list of woes—how is this often heard? Have you ever heard it as a long list of threats from God—woe to you because one day God will make you pay for the wrongs you have done? That way of hearing the passage comes from the imperial law lens. The Remedy is through design law, see if you notice the difference:

Then Jesus said to the people and to his disciples: ² "The theology professors, church lawyers and pastors sit in the instructor's seat, like Moses, and know the history,³ so listen carefully to all they teach. But think for yourselves and don't follow their example, for they don't understand the true meaning of what they teach, as evidenced by their failure to live in harmony with it.⁴ They create man-made rules that discourage, exhaust and weigh people down with religious ritual, fear, and guilt. They control people this way and refuse to relieve these false burdens.

⁵ "All their actions are designed for effect—to be seen—and they yearn to create a sense of admiration and respect for themselves: They make prayer beads and carry them for display, and wear special clothing meant to mark them as distinct;⁶ they love to be recognized and honored wherever they go, and especially they seek the highest exaltation in church.⁷ They also love any attention they can get when people stop them in the shops or restaurants and call them Professor, Doctor, or Pastor.

⁸ "But don't let people idolize you, for you are all equals—learning the truth from the same Teacher.⁹ And be sure you don't surrender your thinking to religious leaders—like young children do to their fathers—for you have one Father in heaven and you must surrender yourselves only to him.¹⁰ Nor are you to claim to be the final authority on truth—determining what is right and wrong—like teachers are to their students, for you have the One true Teacher, the Messiah.¹¹ So those who are truly the greatest will give the most of themselves in helping others.¹² For whoever promotes self will destroy self, but whoever humbles self will experience healing and exaltation.

¹³ "Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! Your false teachings obstruct people from being healed and entering God's kingdom of love. You certainly are not healed and do not enter into salvation, but worse still, you actively work to prevent others, who want to be saved, from being healed.¹⁴ Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You con widows from their homes, yet you make public displays of praying long prayers. Unhealed you choose to remain! Your suffering will be most severe.

¹⁵ "Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You go around the world trying to convert one person, and when you do, you indoctrinate them so deeply into your false penal system that they become twice as much the child of lies and selfishness as you are.

¹⁶ "Misery is yours, you irrational and unthinking teachers! Unbelievably, you say: 'If anyone swears by the temple, it doesn't count; but if anyone swears by the gold of the temple, then they are bound by the oath.'¹⁷ You make no sense at all! Think about it: Which is truly most important—the gold, or the temple that makes the gold holy?¹⁸ Another of your sayings is: 'If anyone swears by the altar, it doesn't count; but if anyone swears by the gift on the altar then they are bound by the oath.'¹⁹ You don't understand the simplest truths! Think about it: Which is truly most important—the gift, or the altar that makes the gift holy?²⁰ Don't you get it? The one who swears by the altar swears by it and everything on it.²¹ And whoever swears by the temple, swears by it and by the One whose dwelling place it is.²² And oaths sworn before heaven are promises made before God's throne; and the One who sits on it knows the true intent of the heart.

²³ "Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You keep rules, such as proudly paying a pre-tax tithe and even giving a tenth of the herbs in your garden, but you fail to do what actually matters—to live in harmony with God's Law, which is his design for life. You fail to 'do what is right because it is right.' You are not merciful but judgmental and critical, and you cannot be trusted to protect those struggling with sin. You should have lived lives of love for others, without neglecting the simple instructions of God.²⁴ You are truly irrational and unthinking teachers! You are so focused on keeping the rules—such as dietary laws—that you fail to understand that their purpose is to promote health. You're so confused that you actually think it would be a virtue to die of starvation rather than eat something not on the 'approved' list.

²⁵ "Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You work so hard to make yourselves look good on the outside, but the inside—the heart—is full of selfishness, arrogance, and greed.²⁶ You truly don't understand anything about God's kingdom! The mind, the character, the heart—they all must be cleansed first, and then the outside will also be clean.

²⁷ "Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You are like highly polished burial vaults: they look beautiful on the outside, but inside are nothing but the bones of the dead, and everything that defiles.²⁸ You are just like that. On the outside you appear to people as good and righteous, but on the inside you are full of lies, selfishness, and evil. You are great counterfeits!

²⁹ "Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You go to great lengths to give praise and honor to God's spokespersons and church leaders of the past.³⁰ You say, 'If we would have lived back then, we would never have rejected God's spokespersons or joined those who killed them.'³¹ By such claims you condemn yourselves, because you acknowledge such actions are wrong, yet by your actions today you reveal you are the true descendants of those who murdered God's spokespersons. You're just like them³² and your sins pile on top of the sins of your forefathers!

³³ "You slippery serpents! You brood of venomous vipers! You think you can cure yourselves with your own snake oil?³⁴ It's because of your false remedy—your penal legal trickery—that I am sending my spokespersons, instructors and Bible scholars, some of whom you will attack, kill, and crucify; others you will beat—some physically, some verbally—right in church, running them out of town with beatings and the most vicious gossip.³⁵ The pure and holy lives that have been sacrificed through history—from Abel, all the way through to Zechariah the son of Berekiah, who was murdered right in church, at the altar—testify the truth to you.³⁶ But the sad truth is that this generation will reject all this evidence.

³⁷ "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you sick and hard-hearted people who have rejected the Remedy, killed God's spokespersons, and stoned those sent to you with the cure! How my heart has longed to pull you to safety, like a hen gathers her chicks under her wings, but you would not let me.³⁸ Look around: I leave your house to you abandoned without Remedy, and infected without cure.³⁹ For I tell you plainly, when you see me next, you will say: 'He is the One sent by God to reveal God's true character and provide the Remedy.'"

FRIDAY

Discuss questions 1 and 3

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

Check our website for new chapters of The Remedy the Psalms will be going up slowly as they are completed and edited. When an entire book of the Old Testament is complete then it will be added to the app and when you update the app you will get the new book. Thank you for your prayers and support as I work on this project.

August 9, 10, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Akron, OH, SDA Church.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

2019 Q3 The Least of These: Lesson 7

Jesus and Those in Need

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

This week I received a couple of emails, both expressing concerns about the same comment I made a few weeks ago about the sad case of a parent and child drowning at the border. Here is one of those emails:

In your 7/27/19 sabbath school lesson, you said parents who brought their children to the US border were ultimately responsible for putting them in such dangerous situations, situations so bad that some even drowned trying to cross the river with their little ones. Do you think they loved their children less than parents in the US do?

My reply:

Your question is not relevant to the point. The point is that all parents have the primary responsibility for the welfare of their children. It may very well be that this person loved their child very much and did what he did hoping to give his child a better life—but that parent still took the risk to put his child in danger, no human government did that, not the US government, not the Mexican government, it was the parent. There are legal ways to enter this country—my sister in law is from the Philippines and had to go through a lengthy process to enter this country. She made a choice to come in to the country through the methods established to allow for it. This parent chose another method—who is responsible for the choice of this parent? The problem in society today is that a corrosive idea is being promoted that if some other party does wrong (notice I am assuming the worst-case scenario that the other party is in the wrong), then we are no longer responsible for our decision-making, it is the other party's fault. This is the point of my comment.

SABBATH

“The Spirit of the LORD is upon Me, because He has anointed Me to preach the gospel to the poor; He has sent Me to heal the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives and recovery of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed; to proclaim the acceptable year of the LORD.” (Luke 4:18,19 NKJV)

What do you understand this passage to reveal?

- What is the gospel?
 - The good news, about what?
 - About God, which has what purpose—what is the point of preaching the gospel?
 - To save—which means what?
 - To heal hearts and minds back to unity with God.
 - How is preaching the gospel related to saving people?
 - What is the problem that the preaching of the gospel addresses?

- Who are the poor?
 - Is this referring primarily to financial poverty or something else?
 - Why in the beatitudes did Jesus say “blessed are the poor in spirit” in Matthew 5:3 but Luke records Jesus’ words as “blessed are the poor” in Luke 6:20?
 - Why or how are the poor blessed?
- Who are the brokenhearted?
 - broken or injured or afflicted by what primarily?
 - It is primarily about physical injury or it is the damage from sin?
- Who are the captives and what liberty is Jesus bringing?
 - The Jews believed it the Messiah would deliver them from captivity to Rome—is that the gospel?
 - From what was Jesus bringing freedom?
 - How does Jesus bring us freedom?
- Who are the blind and what does it mean to give them sight?
 - Is it primarily referring to healing physical blindness?
 - What causes spiritual blindness, what heals it?
 - Is this related to the message to Laodicea that we need the eye salve so we can see (Rev 3:18)?
- Who did Jesus set free, who are the oppressed, and free from what?
 - Is Jesus teaching a penal legal theology which claims we are set free from the punishment from sin while we remain in sin?
 - Or is it that Jesus came to set us free from sin? What does this mean?
 - If Jesus sets us free from sin where is the activity of Jesus taking place? Is Jesus in heaven working upon the Father to propitiate His wrath or is Jesus, via the Holy Spirit, working in our hearts to restore in us His law and character?

From the Remedy:

"God's Spirit is on me because I am his anointed One to bring the Remedy to the afflicted. He has sent me to bring freedom to those held in the bondage of fear and selfishness, and a clear understanding to those blinded by Satan's lies, to exterminate oppression, to remove human brokenness,¹⁹ and to make God's pleasure known this year."

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, “God has given in His word...” How do you hear this, through what law lens, design or imposed?

If we hear this through imposed law lens, then we conclude God inflicts punishment and is the source of pain, suffering and death.

But if we hear it through design law then we realize God doesn’t alter His design or change His laws to prevent sinners from reaping what they have sown.

Just as the quote says—look to the Cross of Calvary—and what did God do to Jesus there? Nothing! God didn't use any power to hurt Jesus or punish Jesus. God withdrew Himself and let Jesus experience what Jesus chose—to die in order to fix the sin problem.

So there is a punishment for sin, the question is whether it comes from sin or comes from God.

Executive justice—what does this mean? It means executing, or carrying out what the law requires—well, what law? So it is saying God will act in harmony with His law and not change His law to protect the unrepentant.

If you have human imposed law that means the ruling authority has to use its power to inflict the punishment. But if you have design law it means the ruling authority leaves the person free to reap what they have chosen.

One of the problems we all struggle with is the ability to assimilate and integrate multiple pieces of evidence rather than forming ideas and beliefs off of a few data points.

The quote above will be used by some as the final word to support an authoritarian and punishing god—however, the wise person will seek to harmonize that quote with others by the same author to come to a view consistent with reality.

Here is the first of two quotes to integrate into our understanding. We just read “God has given in His word decisive evidence that He will punish the transgressors of His law.” Now the same author writes:

We are not to regard God as waiting to punish the sinner for his sin. The sinner brings the punishment upon himself. His own actions start a train of circumstances that bring the sure result. Every act of transgression reacts upon the sinner, works in him a change of character, and makes it more easy for him to transgress again. By choosing to sin, men separate themselves from God, cut themselves off from the channel of blessing, and the sure result is ruin and death. {1SM 235.2}

What law is being described? Design law, the sin changes sinners and in the end, when God sets them free they reap eternal death. Is there a punishment for sin? From where does it come? The punishment is not because God kills those who would otherwise live, but God doesn't use His power to prevent what sin does to them.

In other words, He executes justice, i.e. does what is right and applies the design laws of His government, leaving them free to reap what they have chosen.

Consider this quote which puts it all together from the same book just one page later, The Great Controversy:

God has given to men a declaration of His character and of His method of dealing with sin. [which is what? In harmony with His character of love and methods as Creator, which means design law] "The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty." Exodus 34:6, 7. "All the wicked will He destroy." "The transgressors shall be destroyed together: the end of the wicked shall be cut off." Psalm 145:20; 37:38. The power and authority of the divine government will be employed to put down rebellion; yet all the manifestations of retributive justice will be perfectly consistent with the character of God as a merciful, long-suffering, benevolent being. {GC 541.2} [What do you hear? Is this an infliction of external punishment, or the application of design law? What power, it says the power and authority of the divine government—what power do you think power like human governments or like the Creator God of love? Does you keep in mind while reading things like this other quotes like this one from The Desire of Ages: "God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power." {DA 759.1} So what power? The power of love and truth! But how can love and truth punish? Keep reading...]

God does not force the will or judgment of any. He takes no pleasure in a slavish obedience. He desires that the creatures of His hands shall love Him because He is worthy of love. [Can God get this by threatening and then inflicting external punishment on people who would otherwise not reap it? No! Imperial/imposed law violates the law of liberty and coerces and forces and thus destroys love. He can only get this by leaving people free!] He would have them obey Him because they have an intelligent appreciation of His wisdom, justice, and benevolence. And all who have a just conception of these qualities will love Him because they are drawn toward Him in admiration of His attributes. [What does God want? Our love and trust—and how is that achieved? So, you see Satan's power of lies to get us to conceive of God as a being other than love, a dictator who inflicts pain and suffering, which undermines our ability to love and trust God. This is what penal substitution theology does.] {GC 541.3}

The principles of kindness, mercy, and love, taught and exemplified by our Saviour, are a transcript of the will and character of God. Christ declared that He taught nothing except that which He had received from His Father. The principles of the divine government are in perfect harmony with the Saviour's precept, "Love your enemies." [Wait, love your enemies is the principles upon which God executes justice and punishes sin? How does that work? Only by design law!] God executes justice upon the wicked, for the good of the universe, and even for the good of those upon whom His judgments are visited. [What does this mean? Executes justice—what is justice, doing what is right, and what is right? Is it right to give people the freedom to choose? Is it right to let people reap what they have chosen after repeated attempts to win them to love and trust? And when does God let them go to reap what they have chosen, when they are still healable/savable or when they have destroyed within themselves the faculties that respond to truth and love? And how is it good for the wicked for God to do this? Because, if God did not let the wicked go, did not let the wicked who are hardened in sin die, then God would create, by His power, a place of torment and God would never do this. Thus, for mercy, for love, for the best for the wicked, He executes justice, the right thing for them and sets them free from Him the only source of life.] He would make them happy if He could do so in accordance with the laws of His government and the justice of His character. [What are the laws of His government? Design laws and you can't force people to love you, or enjoy goodness and purity] He surrounds them with the tokens of His love, He grants them a knowledge of His law, and follows them with the offers of His mercy; but they despise His love, make void His law, and reject His mercy. While constantly receiving His gifts, they dishonor the Giver; they hate God because they know that He abhors their sins. The Lord bears long with their perversity; but the decisive hour will come at last, when their destiny is to be decided.[decided by who? a judge in heaven or each person decides their own destiny?] Will He then chain these rebels to His side? Will He force them to do His will? {GC 541.4}

Those who have chosen Satan as their leader and have been controlled by his power are not prepared to enter the presence of God. [Why can't they enter God's presence? Is it because God doesn't want them there, God is angry and wrathful and hasn't had the price paid to Him for that unrepentant sinner? No, it is because of their condition!] Pride, deception, licentiousness, cruelty, have become fixed in their characters. [Fixed by who? How did it become fixed? What law caused it to become fixed?] Can they enter heaven to dwell forever with those whom they despised and hated on earth? Truth will never be agreeable to a liar; meekness will not satisfy self-esteem and pride; purity is not acceptable to the corrupt; disinterested love does not appear attractive to the selfish. What source of enjoyment could heaven offer to those who are wholly absorbed in earthly and selfish interests? {GC 542.1}

Could those whose lives have been spent in rebellion against God be suddenly transported to heaven and witness the high, the holy state of perfection that ever exists there,-- every soul filled with love, every countenance beaming with joy, enrapturing music in melodious strains rising in honor of God and the Lamb, and ceaseless streams of light flowing upon the redeemed from the face of Him who sitteth upon the throne,--[what does that light look like? From where does it come? Do you integrate texts like these: "the Ancient of Days took his seat. His clothing was as white as snow; the hair of his head was white like wool. His throne was flaming with fire, and its wheels were all ablaze. A river of fire was flowing, coming out from before him. Thousands upon thousands attended him; ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him." (Dan 7:9-10 NIV84) "for our 'God is a consuming fire.'" (Heb 12:29 NIV84)? Is this fire harmful? Do the righteous get injured by it? Why not? What about the wicked, why do they experience pain in this fire? From where does the pain come, from the fire or from unremedied sin?] could those whose hearts are filled with hatred of God, of truth and holiness, mingle with the heavenly throng and join their songs of praise? Could they endure the glory of God and the Lamb? No, no; years of probation were granted them, that they might form characters for heaven; but they have never trained the mind to love purity;

they have never learned the language of heaven, and now it is too late. A life of rebellion against God has unfitted them for heaven. Its purity, holiness, and peace would be torture to them; the glory of God would be a consuming fire. They would long to flee from that holy place. They would welcome destruction, that they might be hidden from the face of Him who died to redeem them. [What is being described? Do you integrate texts like “They called to the mountains and the rocks, “Fall on us and hide us from the face of him who sits on the throne and from the wrath of the Lamb!” (Rev 6:16 NIV84)? What kind of law? What is the reason? Is God acting justly? He is executing justice?] The destiny of the wicked is fixed by their own choice. Their exclusion from heaven is voluntary with themselves, and just and merciful on the part of God. [Who decides the fate of the wicked? What does it mean voluntary with themselves? It is what they want, is it right and just on God’s part to grant them exclusion from heaven? What kind of law?] {GC 542.2}

Like the waters of the Flood the fires of the great day declare God's verdict that the wicked are incurable. [Why are they lost? Who made them incurable? Is this just on God’s part? Is it an infliction that their condition does not bring upon them?]{GC 543.1}

Can you make sense of the quote in Friday’s lesson now?

SUNDAY

Read third paragraph, “But in Mary’s understanding...” Why? What is God’s goal for human beings? Salvation, delivery from sin, eternal life in sinless perfection in close relationship with God.

Is this God’s goal only for the humble, downtrodden and poor or is it God’s goal for all human beings?

Then, why does God seem to have a particular regard for the humble, downtrodden and poor?

What law lens do you see it through? If you see it through human law, which is Satan’s worldview—then the rich and powerful exploit the poor and their actions are abusive to the poor, so God is in the business paying people back, pain for pain, eye for eye, tooth for tooth. So people teach God is coming to inflict punishment on people. He is more concerned with righting the wrongs perpetrated upon the poor and downtrodden and therefore God spends more energy and time on the poor than on the rich, because the rich are not as deserving.

But, if you understand design law, how reality actually works, you realize God cannot heal any person’s heart/mind without the freewill consent and active participation of that person. Why? Because to do so would destroy the individuality of anyone who doesn’t choose to embrace truth for themselves.

Thus, the humble, downtrodden and poor are often more willing to reach out to God, to acknowledge their own helplessness, to open their hearts, to surrender self, to accept God’s methods and principles, whereas the rich and powerful are often deceived into thinking they are fine the way they are.

So God has particular regard for the downtrodden because they are open to being saved by Him, whereas many of the rich and powerful are not.

Read last paragraph, “Right at the beginning...” What makes Jesus’ kingdom different than the kingdoms of the world?

How would you describe the differences?

Jesus said to Pilate that His kingdom was not of this world, what kinds of kingdoms operate in this world?

Here is a comment from the book Acts of the Apostles what do you think?

"Whereunto," asked Christ, "shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?" Mark 4:30. He could not employ the kingdoms of the world as a similitude. In society He found nothing with which to compare it. Earthly kingdoms rule by the ascendancy of physical power; but from Christ's kingdom every carnal weapon, every instrument of coercion, is banished. This kingdom is to uplift and ennoble humanity. {AA 12.2}

How do human governments function? What methods do they use? Why? What law are all human governments built upon?

But Jesus said His kingdom doesn’t operate upon the principles of this sinful world, what kind of law is Jesus’ kingdom built upon? Design law, the big ones are love, truth, freedom.

Jesus said to Pilate:

I was born, and for this I came into the world, to testify to the truth. Everyone on the side of truth listens to me.” (John 18:37 NIV84)

What kind of kingdom operates upon truth? Do any kingdoms of the world operate upon pure truth, never deceiving, never using falsehood?

So, what is upside down in God’s kingdom?

- It is not power over—it is power under—Jesus in John 13 states that all power was given to Him and He immediately gets up and serves others. In God’s kingdom those with the most abilities, power, resources are to serve those with the least.
- There is not dictatorial approach—rules imposed and enforced with threat of punishment, there is truth, presented in love, leaving others free—how should the church practice this method?
- The more you give, the more you receive, in the world it is thought the more you take the more you receive
- First will be last, but last will be first—what does this mean? How does this work in the church?

- other examples?

MONDAY

Read third paragraph, “Jesus adopted these verses...” So glad the lesson pointed out that it is both spiritual and practical—absolutely true—why? Why are spiritual truths always practical truths? Because of design law—how reality is built. But if you reject design law the so-called spiritual truths become impractical and often come to contradict reality and cause harm.

Examples of both:

- Indulgences—based on imposed law, sins are legal breaking of God’s rules, broken rules require some penalty be paid, so the idea of indulgences came forth to allow people to pay the church a monetary sum in order to cancel their legal sin-debt. This led to much abuse of people.
- Is the practice of indulgences the only problem with the imposed law view of sin or does it manifest in other ways? What about people seeking legal pardon, erasure of sins from record books, rather than transformation of character?
- Design law, sin is deviation from the laws God built reality to operate upon and thus damages the sinner. No salvation can occur for those who refuse to be restored to harmony with God’s law. But, surrendering to Christ and following Him leads one to live their life in harmony with God’s law and this is always practical:
 - The cruel becomes kind—and what happens? They have less conflict in their relationships. They have less fear, less anxiety, less stress, and thereby better physical and mental health.
 - The wronged forgive and see others truthfully—meaning accurately, and assess the trustworthiness of others so set healthy boundaries. Thus, they don’t harbor grudges, remain bitter or angry but also don’t continually expose themselves to mistreatment. This results in better physical, mental and relational health.
 - Those without self-control, when they come to trust God, develop self-control and they get sober, they stop cheating on their spouses, they stop stealing to support their gambling, they stop over-eating and they experience better physical, mental, and relational health.

The point is that pursuing spiritual development through design law understanding always leads to practical applications, not just eternal-life benefits by claiming some legal payment in a book in heaven, but immediate benefits in this temporal life.

But the imposed law lie, leads people to live lives of frustration, of religious rituals, works and various prayerful claims, without either eternal-life or practical benefits. They have a form of godliness but without the power. This is the problem with much of Christianity and why there is no difference in Christian homes and non-Christian homes in child abuse, spouse abuse or addictions.

Read last paragraph, “When Jesus sent out...” Why is healing so closely tied to the sharing of the gospel?

What kind of law does healing people operate upon? This is why, doctors can only get patients well in harmony with the laws of health—compassion, good intentions, love for them, will not heal them if they insist on violating the laws of health. Only in harmony with the laws of health is there health.

Likewise, only in harmony with God’s design laws for life is there eternal life. This is reality, all the arbitrary rules of human governments don’t make a difference. Governments can pass laws to make marijuana legal they cannot pass laws to make it healthy.

Thus, the healing arts demonstrates most powerfully the plan of salvation, which is God’s plan to heal the species back to perfection and this only occurs in harmony with God’s design laws for life.

It is in harmonizing the medical with the theological we get the most effective gospel message. The two chief contributors to New Testament was a physician and a theologian: Luke wrote 27% of the New Testament and Paul wrote 23% and John wrote 20%.

So, what method do we use to find truth? The integrative evidence based approach which requires the harmonization of three threads: Scripture, Science, and Real Life Experiences: So, the three big contributors where Paul—theologian—expert in Scripture; Luke—physician—expert in Science; and John—regular unspecialized person—expert in real life experiences.

Think about how much irrational ideas you can eliminate if you use the laws of health as a template and integrate Scripture with Science and Experience:

- A you have been infected with Ebola and are dying; you are taken to the hospital because all recognize something is wrong. And you are told you need to eat a piece of communion bread and drink a sip of communion wine in order to be well; or you need to go through a ritual of baptism; or you need to sacrifice an animal and present its blood before an altar; or you need to claim another human being died of Ebola, but was resurrected in perfect health and you want their health records put in your record at the hospital.
- Do you see how none of these ideas actually benefits the person dying of Ebola—likewise none of these ideas actually heals sinners.
- What we need is a real remedy—so when you go to the hospital with Ebola, you are told they have a remedy procured by a person who suffered with Ebola, but his immune system destroyed the infection and developed antibodies and they would like to give you a transfusion of his antibodies that will cure you.
- Jesus came and partook of our sin condition “he was made to be sin though he knew no sin” and “was tempted in every way just as we are without sin” so that “by his death he might destroy death and bring life and immortality to light” and thus we become “partakers of the divine nature” through him and “become the righteousness of God.”
- So the symbols are to teach reality:

- Bread symbol for Word made flesh—truth, which we ingest and it destroys lies and wins to trust and we open the heart to receive the blood (life is in the blood) of Jesus via the Holy Spirit and we become partakers of the divine nature.
- Baptism is symbolic of immersing heart and mind into the cleansing waters of the Holy Spirit to wash away fear and selfishness and rise in newness of life with new heart and right spirit.
- Sacrificial animal was to teach of a Savior who would die to create a remedy to cure our condition—the animal itself had no healing benefit. One needs the real remedy the symbol pointed to.

In the book Evangelism I read the following:

As the right arm is to the body, so is the medical missionary work to the third angel's message. But the right arm is not to become the whole body. The work of seeking the outcasts is important, but it is not to become the great burden of our mission.--Medical Ministry, pp. 311, 312. (1899) {Ev 549.3}

Why the right arm? Why not the whole body?

Because while physical healing operates upon design law and is powerful in demonstrating the plan of salvation—the plan of salvation is not ultimately about healing the body. It is about healing the heart/mind/soul/character and this healing also operates upon design law. Thus our primary concern is to heal the hearts and minds of people, which is only achieved in a trust relationship with our Creator God. Thus the third angels' message is to call people back to worship Him who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water—Designer worship and reject the imposed, dictator views of God!

If it was merely about ridding people of poverty, why didn't Jesus, instead of multiplying the fishes and loaves, multiply the coins Peter found in the fishes mouth and give every person a million gold coins? Why didn't Jesus do this?

Consider what would happen if every person in the world woke up today and had unlimited money available to them. Would all evil, crime, neglect, abuse, homelessness, exploitation be eliminated?

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, "We might expect..." What happened, as far as we know, to all the people Jesus healed, the blind, lame, deaf, dumb, blind, lepers? They all died...

Why didn't Jesus translate the people directly to heaven, like Enoch or Elijah? Because they were not ready! He could heal their bodies, but their hearts and minds were not prepared to enter heaven. They still had to choose to reject fear and selfishness and trust God and be renewed in heart and mind to love God and others. This transformation of the heart and mind is required before we are prepared to live in God's unveiled, life-giving glory.

So, what was the primary purpose of Jesus doing miracles? To reveal truth about who He was, to reveal truth about the plan to heal and restore humans, to win people to trust, in order to heal hearts and minds.

Do we see why there were some places He could do very few miracles? If their hearts were closed to Him then miracles would not be helpful, example: putting Malchus' ear back on—and what did the people who saw this do? Arrest and crucify Christ anyway. Miracles have no benefit on the hard-hearted.

Do we see why there were times He stopped doing miracles? Because the hearts of people were selfish and saw Jesus as a commodity to be exploited for selfish gain, like the goose that laid the golden egg.

The last paragraph says, “Jesus’ healing miracles were acts of compassion and justice.” thoughts?

By what standard are they acts of justice? In the preceding paragraph it is mentioned that the Pharisees saw Jesus’ healing miracles as violating justice, because they viewed sickness and disease as punishment for God and thus removing the punishment was an injustice.

What is at the root of these two divergent views of understanding Jesus’ healing miracles as either just or unjust? Does the law one views things through matter?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson is about Jesus cleansing the Temple, what are the keys to understanding what is happening in this story?

First, after Jesus ran out the money changers and cattle, the children stayed by and were not afraid. Try running the elders out of your church in such a way that they are terrified and flee, but the children are not afraid and stay by—what does that look like?

Second, the whip Jesus made was not to whip people, it was to crack as a signal to the animals to drive them out of the sanctuary.

What was Jesus putting a stop to? The exploitation and cheating of people.

And what are we and people through history supposed to learn from Jesus’ actions? What is the lesson Jesus is revealing?

What was the purpose of the OT sanctuary/temple? It was theater—to teach what? To teach God’s plan to heal and save. So, what is Jesus revealing? His plan to drive out of our Spirit Temples all worldliness and defilement of sin.

From the book The Desire of Ages:

In the cleansing of the temple, Jesus was announcing His mission as the Messiah, and entering upon His work. That temple, erected for the abode of the divine Presence, was designed to be an object lesson [object lesson means what? theater, lesson book, teaching tool] for Israel and for the world. From eternal ages it was God's purpose that every created being, from the bright and holy seraph to man, should be a temple for the indwelling of the Creator. [so what is the real temple to which the one built by Moses points?] Because of sin, humanity ceased to be a temple for God. Darkened and defiled by evil, the heart of man no longer revealed the glory of the Divine One. But by the incarnation of the Son of God, the purpose of Heaven is fulfilled. God dwells in humanity, and through saving grace the heart of man becomes again His temple. [How does God come to dwell in the species human again? In the person of Jesus.] God designed that the temple at Jerusalem should be a continual witness to the high destiny open to every soul. [What is God's design for the temple in Jerusalem—to teach people God's plan for them! Is that how you have always understood it?] But the Jews had not understood the significance of the building they regarded with so much pride. They did not yield themselves as holy temples for the Divine Spirit. The courts of the temple at Jerusalem, filled with the tumult of unholy traffic, represented all too truly the temple of the heart, defiled by the presence of sensual passion and unholy thoughts. In cleansing the temple from the world's buyers and sellers, Jesus announced His mission to cleanse the heart from the defilement of sin,—from the earthly desires, the selfish lusts, the evil habits, that corrupt the soul. [What is Jesus revealing by cleansing the Temple? His plan to cleanse human hearts from sin! But what has happened, religious teachers through history have rejected this truth, based on design law, and replaced it with a legal lie that obstructs Jesus' mission to cleanse us from sin!] "The Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to His temple, even the Messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold, He shall come, saith the Lord of hosts. But who may abide the day of His coming? and who shall stand when He appeareth? for He is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' soap: and He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver: and He shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver." Malachi 3:1-3. {DA 161.1}

Notice the prophecy of Malachi teaches that Jesus comes to His temple to cleanse the Levites, the priesthood of believers, the people, not granite, marble, silver, gold, or written records—but hearts and minds!

Read bottom green section, “As church members, how can we do our part to make sure that our local churches never become places that need what the temple needed in Christ’s day?”

How would you answer this question?

By dealing with reality—which is design law—how God built reality to function and our actual condition and God’s real solution for it, and reject the imposed law lie with its fantasy of a legal problem needing a legal solution.

Also, by requiring all the metaphor and symbolism we use to be tied directly to reality and then understanding that reality. So when we partake of the communion symbols we recognize them for what they actually represent and then partake of the reality and not just the symbols. And what do the communion symbols represent?

- Bread represents the bread of life, i.e. Jesus the Word made flesh, which is the truth “I am the way, the truth the life.” The truth, destroys lies and sets us free—free from fear and free to trust God. So partaking of the truth Jesus revealed wins us to trust in Jesus, so that we surrender ourselves to Him and open the heart. Then...
- Wine represent the blood, or the life—and Jesus developed a perfect human character. Thus in trust we receive the indwelling Spirit who takes the perfect character of Christ and reproduces it is us, writing the living law of love upon our hearts, and we become partakers of the divine nature.

But we must move past ritualistic application of magical thinking in which we take the symbols and think something magical happens by the ceremony.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “That God is a God...” What do you say to people who say, “Jesus wasn’t molested as a child; He wasn’t physically beaten almost every day by His own father; He was trafficked as a child sex-slave; He wasn’t given whisky in his infant formula to keep Him from crying; He wasn’t taken as a young boy and forced into a death squad etc.” What do you say to people who argue Jesus didn’t experience the worst of our world’s inhumanity?

The argument made by the quarterly is a false argument that sets up this counter argument, that if not addressed can undermine trust in God.

Jesus’ mission was not to experience every possible experience of every person throughout history. For instance, Jesus didn’t personally experience premenstrual mood problems, or childbirth, or postpartum depression; Jesus never was tempted with video games, or LSD; Jesus didn’t drive cars and thus wasn’t tempted with speeding.

So, we create false ideas when we suggest Jesus personally experienced every human experience—He did not. And why is it not necessary that He did?

Because it wasn’t His mission to experience every possible human experience; It was His mission to overcome sin and cure the sin condition. And thus He was tempted “in every way just as we are but without sin.” In every way, doesn’t mean every specific temptation, but every motive and method of temptation. And what are they:

- Fear and selfishness (Survival of fittest and self-gratification)
 - Jesus experienced this in Gethsemane and the Cross
- Sensualism
 - temptations of the human body, hunger, thirst, fatigue, cravings
- Materialism
 - The wealth of the world was offered Him

- Egotism
 - The power of the world was offered Him
- External and internal
 - tempted by Satan, by His brothers, by the church leaders, by the crowd at the cross, by the soldiers, by the hurt and rejection of His disciples, and by His own human emotions (Gethsemane)

Jesus experienced all of these, in order to destroy the infection of fear and selfishness and develop a sinless human character while revealing the truth to refute the lies of Satan.

The lesson asks us to read Isaiah 53:3-6:

He was despised and rejected by men,
a man of sorrows, and familiar with suffering.
Like one from whom men hide their faces
he was despised, and we esteemed him not.
4 Surely he took up our infirmities
and carried our sorrows,
yet we considered him stricken by God,
smitten by him, and afflicted.
5 But he was pierced for our transgressions, he was crushed for our iniquities;
the punishment that brought us peace was upon him,
and by his wounds we are healed.
6 We all, like sheep, have gone astray, each of us has turned to his own way;
and the LORD has laid on him
the iniquity of us all. (NIV84)

Do you hear design law and the plan to fix what sin did to humanity but that we would misunderstand all this through imposed law?

Surely he took up our infirmities
and carried our sorrows,
yet we considered him stricken by God,
smitten by him, and afflicted.

He took up our sin condition, so that by His wounds we could be healed, but we misunderstood and considered it was God who was punishing Him.

Read bottom green section, “In all that we do for the Lord, especially in reaching out to the needy, why must we always keep the death of Jesus, as our Substitute—not just for ourselves but for those whom we help—at the center of our mission and purpose?”

We believe in the substitutionary death of Jesus—but for what purpose? For our healing and restoration, just as Scripture says:

God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God. (2Cor 5:21 NIV84)

So that we might become righteous, not so that we might be declared righteous even though we are not. The penal legal view is a fraud, a lie, a deception based on Satan's original lie that God's law functions like the laws made by created beings, imposed rules requiring the infliction of punishment. This is Satan's goal to make God and himself no different, thus Satan has to attack God's law because to acknowledge design law means that God is supreme and Satan is not.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

August 9, 10, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Akron, OH, SDA Church.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

2019 Q3 The Least of These: Lesson 8

The Least of These

by Lori Atkins

SABBATH

our memory verse is obviously this quarterly's namesake text from Matthew 25:40 –

“And the King will answer and say to them, ‘Assuredly, I say to you, inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these My brethren, you did it to me.’ ”

Jesus had a lot to say about how to treat and care for others - particularly those who were hurting and lost. In case you haven't noticed, there has been some overlap in some of this quarter's lessons...and this week is no exception. So even though we've already talked a bit about Christ's focus on the poor and the oppressed/marginalized, and the sermon on the mount...we'll dig into both a little more this week.

What is God's goal for human beings? salvation, complete healing from our sinsick condition, and eternal life in close intimate relationship with God.

Is this is God's goal for ALL humans? Or is this His goal only for the humble, downtrodden and poor?

Then, why does God seem to have a particular regard for the humble, downtrodden and poor?

What law lens do you see it through? If you see it through human law, which is Satan's worldview—then the rich and powerful exploit the poor and their actions are abusive to the poor, so God is in the business paying people back with retributive justice. So people teach God is coming to inflict punishment on people. He is more concerned with righting the wrongs perpetrated upon the poor and downtrodden and therefore God spends more energy and time on the poor than on the rich, because the rich are not as deserving.

But, if you understand design law, how reality actually works, you realize God cannot heal any person's heart/mind without the freewill consent and active participation of that person. Why? Because to do so would destroy the individuality of anyone who doesn't choose to embrace truth for themselves. Thus, the humble, poor, and marginalized are often more willing to reach out to God, to acknowledge their own helplessness, to open their hearts, to surrender self, to accept God's methods and principles, whereas the rich and powerful are often deceived into thinking they are fine the way they are. So perhaps God has particular regard for the downtrodden because they are more open to being saved by Him, while the rich and powerful may not be as aware of their need of Him.

And how do you think this plays into His instructions to us - to take care of the poor, the needy, the widows, and the orphans?

Could it be because they are likely the most receptive?

Could it also be about the change and growth that happens in us when we care for others...that needs to happen in us?

Many times when we minister to “one of the least of these”, we are likely the ones who are the more “rich and in need of nothing” – particularly in material terms - not always, but many times. How many of you have experienced this...maybe on a mission trip, feeding the homeless, or visiting a nursing home, or whatever situation...but it never fails to break this heart of stone and softens it up, humbles me, makes me much more aware of and more grateful for how truly blessed I am, teaches me to hold on loosely and to give freely - all these things grow us and move us back closer to God’s original design. These are the heart attitudes He wants to instill in us, so that it will be as easy and reflexive and involuntary for us to love others as it is for us to breathe.

SUNDAY

Introducing the Sermon on the Mount

Jesus also talked a lot about the Kingdom of Heaven - specifically during His sermon on the mount and in the Beatitudes...this is the subject of Sunday’s Lesson.

Again, we talked a bit about this last week so let’s review and see how much we learned...and retained.

Christ goes down a whole list of qualities, attributes, and attitudes...and how do those sound?

Are they typically things we would strive for?

They sound not so appealing - unpleasant, even - but then He elevates these folks and describes them as “blessed” and “inheriting the kingdom”.

These are people who are poor in spirit, who are meek and lowly, or hungry and thirsty, or in mourning - how could any of those things be considered a blessing, and how could anyone with those traits be considered blessed?

Do you have any inkling of how revolutionary and exactly counter to that culture these teachings must have been?

Even more so than today, the health/wellness gospel was in full swing - folks believed that health, and wealth, and status, and position were outward signs or proof that one was blessed by or in favor with God - particularly those with the wealth, status, and position. The characteristics described by Christ were just the opposite, and were taken to mean that someone was out of favor or cursed by God for some hidden unconfessed sin. But as it's often described, the Kingdom of Heaven is an upside down kingdom or a backwards kingdom - do you remember some of the upside down elements of Christ's kingdom that we discussed previously? What makes it different...polar opposite, in fact, from other earthly kingdoms?

How do human governments function?

What methods do they use? Why?

What law construct are all human governments built upon?

But Jesus said His kingdom is not of this world...it doesn't operate upon the principles (or laws) of this sinful world, so what kind of law is Jesus' kingdom built upon? Design law - and the big ones are love, truth, and freedom.

What kind of kingdom operates upon truth?

Do any kingdoms of the world operate upon pure truth, never deceiving, never using falsehood?

Thus, there are no dictatorial methods in Christ's kingdom - compelling power is found only under Satan's government - there are no rules imposed and enforced with threat of punishment, rather there is truth, presented in love, and leaving others free. [How should the church practice this method - both within the institution and when dealing with those outside the denomination?]

God's kingdom is based on a “power under” rather than a “power over” approach - those with the most abilities, power, and resources are to serve those with the least...just as in John 13, when all power in heaven and on earth had been given to Christ, what did he do with it? He served His disciples by humbly kneeling down and washing their feet.

The more you give, the more you receive...worldly kingdoms operate on the premise of the more you make/take/accumulate, the more you receive. I mean, is this common core? This kingdom math doesn't compute.

The first will be last, and the last will be first/whoever wants to save their life will lose it, but whoever loses their life will find it —what does this mean? [How does this work in the church?]

We talked about this last week, and I love that the lesson emphasizes again this week that along with the deep spiritual truths of Christ's teachings come practical applications deeply relevant for our daily lives, right now, today - why is that?

Why are spiritual truths always practical truths? Because those truths are based on design laws—how reality is built and how reality actually operates!

Trusting God and cooperating in His healing transformation leads one to live their life in harmony with God's laws, and this is always practical and beneficial. Pursuing spiritual development through design law understanding always leads to practical applications, not just eternal-life benefits by claiming some legal payment in a book in heaven, but immediate benefits in this temporal life.

Do you think this might be why Jesus continually described the kingdom of heaven as a tangible reality that we can be part of, here and now?

Love to man is the earthward manifestation of the love of God. It was to implant this love, to make us children of one family, that the King of glory became one with us. And when His parting words are fulfilled, "Love one another, as I have loved you" (John 15:12); when we love the world as He has loved it, then for us His mission is accomplished. We are fitted for heaven; for we have heaven in our hearts. — {DA 641.3}

MONDAY

Overcoming Evil With Good

Don't we need some of this right now here in our world and in our country?

Monday's lesson tries to really enlighten us to some of the context surrounding Christ's teachings, and the circumstances and conditions most of His followers found themselves in. He had begun to attract large crowds of people, made up mostly of common folk – there were a few Jewish rulers and religious leaders, but mostly lower to middle class. They lived under the imperial rule of the Roman empire, and they lived a rather difficult existence. Their life choices and options were very few, they were burdened by heavy taxation, and weighed down by endless religious rules and traditions. In teaching these people, Jesus was obviously concerned with offering them a way to live well, to live with dignity and courage, regardless of their circumstances.

The instructions He gave in Matthew 5:38-48 - things like “turn the other cheek,” “give them the shirt off your back,” and “go the extra mile”—are so well-known to us that they are just common clichés. But our familiarity with the terms belies the radical actions and attitudes that Jesus is teaching here.

The scenarios Jesus described were not hypothetical clichés, they were literal common experiences for many of His listeners. They were often violently assaulted by their “superiors” or masters. They were often indebted and lost their property to the landlords and lenders. They were often pressed into labor by the occupying Roman soldiers.

Jesus taught the people to respond with integrity, to treat the oppressors better than they deserved, and, by so doing, to resist the loss of their humanity. While these oppressors tried to exert their power, the people always had the freedom to choose how they would respond, and by resisting nonviolently and responding generously, they exposed the evil of the oppression and injustice that was being done. You want to talk about some spiritual truths with practical application?

And notice that Jesus’ focus was NOT on behavior, His focus was on heart attitude. We are not blessed for doing the right thing; we are blessed for having the right heart! And such a heart we cannot create, we can only receive it in relationship with Jesus Christ!

We are also blessed when we endure the abuse of the world with a heart like Christ, when we love our enemies, when we turn the other cheek, when we pray for those who spitefully use us. Again, we are blessed when our hearts are divergent from the world, when our hearts are in harmony with the King of love from the kingdom of love.

Romans 12:17-21

Don't repay evil with evil, for in so doing you only allow the infection of selfishness to be strengthened and thus damage your mind and character. Be sure to 'do what is right because it is right'—openly for all to see. Do all in your power to live at peace with others, but be aware that others may still perpetrate evil against you. And when this happens, my friends, do not take revenge—there is no need for it!—for every act of sin reacts upon the sinner, damaging and slowly destroying their God-given faculties. Be patient and permit God's wrath to work—God's wise method of letting one go to reap the consequences of one's choice—and hopefully it will bring your enemy to repentance; as it is written: "It is mine to discipline; I will settle any debts," says the Lord. Rather than taking revenge, "If your enemy is hungry, feed them; if they are thirsty, give them something to drink. In doing good to your enemy, you will bring guilt and mental anguish like burning coals down on their head." So don't let evil and selfishness consume you, but rather expel evil and selfishness from your heart by doing good and loving others.

TUESDAY

The Good Samaritan

Tuesday recounts the familiar parable about the Good Samaritan that we have studied several times in this class, so we don't have to spend a ton of time here...but I want to bring out just a couple of points.

In Desire of Ages, Ms. White says that in this story, Christ illustrated the nature of true religion. "He shows that it consists not in systems, creeds, or rites, but in the performance of loving deeds, in bringing the greatest good to others, in genuine goodness." Just as it was in Christ's day, this is not good news for leaders and officials of religious institutions who are responsible for developing those systems, creeds, rites, and such.

Question...did stopping and helping the man in need change the Good Samaritan's heart...or did he stop and help the man in need because his heart had already been changed?

This is such an important concept to grasp, because we are NOT saved by our works! Our works, and the change/transformation in our works is evidence of the heart change and the healing process taking place in our lives.

This is another place where the legal metaphor really breaks down and just causes confusion. Imagine someone is sick with a terminal disease, cancer is spread throughout their body, in its late stages – will any "work" on the part of the sick person heal them?

If for instance, people who are healthy eat well, can the cancer patient make the cancer go away by eating a full meal everyday?

If healthy people participate in physical activities, could the cancer patient make the cancer go away by playing basketball, baseball, running, biking, etc.?

What happens to a person's ability to eat well and participate in physical activities when the cancer progresses?

What happens to their ability to FUNCTION normally? It is impaired. Now, if a person with cancer receives a cure, a remedy which puts the cancer into remission, what changes might we see in their function?

How might we recognize that the person is now well, or on the road back to health?

Might they start eating regularly again, might they start engaging in more physical activity again?

Do such behaviors heal them...or do such behaviors occur WHEN they are healed?

How was mankind originally designed to function? In selfless love to others, and what did sin do to our functioning? Turned us fearful and selfish, is there any work we can do to change ourselves? No, but when Christ heals us will our functioning change? Absolutely!

But it is a healing process, in many ways the work of a lifetime as Paul points to in Romans 7 - "What a wretched man I am...I've tried everything and nothing helps. I'm at the end of my rope. Is there no one who can do anything for me? The answer, thank God, is that Jesus Christ can and does. He acted to set things right in this life of contradictions where I want to serve God with all my heart and mind, but am pulled by the influence of sin to do something totally different."

WEDNESDAY

The Rich Man and Lazarus

The first paragraph in the lesson summarizes this parable and then says about the two men,

"In life, their respective circumstances remained unchanged; but in death, as judged by God, their positions were dramatically reversed."

Any thoughts about that?

Was the dramatic reversal of positions caused by or a result of God's judgment?

Then what?

I want to contrast the view we just read from our quarterly with one of the founders of our church. In the book, Christ Object Lessons, there is an entire chapter - Chapter 21 - devoted to the meaning and interpretation of this parable...listen to just the first two paragraphs and see if you can detect any differences.

“In the parable of the rich man and Lazarus, Christ shows that in this life men decide their eternal destiny. During probationary time the grace of God is offered to every soul. But if men waste their opportunities in self-pleasing, they cut themselves off from everlasting life. No afterprobation will be granted them. By their own choice they have fixed an impassable gulf between them and their God. This parable draws a contrast between the rich who have not made God their dependence, and the poor who have made God their dependence. Christ shows that the time is coming when the position of the two classes will be reversed. Those who are poor in this world’s goods, yet who trust in God and are patient in suffering, will one day be exalted above those who now hold the highest positions the world can give but who have not surrendered their lives to God.” {COL 260.2}

In the great Judgment day, those who have not worked for Christ, who have drifted along thinking of themselves, caring for themselves, will be placed by the Judge of the whole earth with those who did evil. They receive the same condemnation. – {DA 641.4}

What condemnation? Why are they condemned?

This same author describes it in these ways...at the end of COL Chapter 21, the last two sentences are:

“By their own neglect they have formed a chasm which nothing can bridge. Between them and the righteous there is a great gulf fixed.”

And in the book, The Great Controversy, another familiar quote in this class:

“The destiny of the wicked is fixed by their own choice. Their exclusion from heaven is voluntary with themselves, and just and merciful on the part of God. Like the waters of the Flood the fires of the great day declare God’s verdict that the wicked are incurable.” {GC 542}

Again, this is not about works or behaviors...this is about a change in heart motive, to love others more than self. Could I start a charitable organization, under the guise of helping people, but with ulterior motives...financial gain, tax advantages, getting my child into a good college? And might that organization actually end up helping and blessing people in need? But is my heart converted and healed? Same with giving or volunteering.

Remember the folks at the end who will have prophesied, preached, performed miracles...in who’s name? They really thought they were doing the right things, they had the behaviors down pat...but their hearts were still stone, and they never really knew God.

THURSDAY

The Least of These

The only infinite resource we finite humans have on this earth is our capacity to love...even Christ as a human was subject to his limited, finite humanity. Jesus took time away from the masses to meditate and rejuvenate—and Jesus' humanity was like ours. His humanity didn't have infinite resources—it required him to rest and recover.

With that in mind, can we “help” too much?

Our finite resources must be spent in a controlled manner - and are subject to the “Law of Restoration”.

In the healthcare arena, whose health, well-being, and safety are the most important? Why? Because if the caregiver goes down, then no one is getting any care...not only that, and even worse, the caregiver then becomes a patient and taxes the system even more.

Same reason why in an airplane emergency they tell you to put your own mask on first before trying to assist others.

Think about this analogy...there has been a big, traumatic event downtown and main trauma hospital is desperately in need of blood donations in order to treat the injured. You know that your blood type is in high demand and you want to help, so you go down, you donate a pint of blood, and you're able to save a couple of people's lives. But you figure if you donate another pint, you could save even more lives...and 3 pints could save even more!

Is that a good idea? But why not? There are so many people injured and they really need more blood! Love the Lord your God with all your heart, mind, and strength...and your neighbor as yourself.

Should the church/Christians, use their energy to reform governments, get the right politicians elected, the right judges in office and seek to use the power of the state to enforce its beliefs on society?

In Christ's day, what was society like?

Were there human rights abuses of all kinds?

Was there hedonism and perversions?

Did Christ or His disciples use their energies or that of the church to try and get the right senators or governors into office or change the laws of Rome?

What did Jesus and the disciples focus their energy on? Converting the hearts! To take the message of eternal salvation to people and change hearts and minds.

And when they converted the hearts, what happened to the empire of Rome? It transformed the world!

That is our mission - our mission is to change hearts - to convert people away from the worldly system to the Godly way of doing things - to convert them from self-centered, survival of the fittest methods to other-centered love. And when we do that, then we don't really have to worry about passing laws.

Do you understand why heaven is going to be heaven? Because every person there would rather die than ever hurt you...and you would rather die than hurt anybody there - everybody else loves you that much.

In a place like that, do we need arbitrarily imposed laws? On this Earth, we have to pass such laws, because people don't have love in their hearts.

Don't be fooled into investing in agendas that have laudable goals on the surface but use ungodly methods to achieve those goals, i.e. the position of protecting innocent life by the use of coercion, intimidation, force and imposition.

God's methods are the methods of truth, presented in love while leaving others free. We want to promote life and health in the context of freedom because love can only exist in an atmosphere of freedom.

Many feel that it would be a great privilege to visit the scenes of Christ's life on earth, to walk where He trod, to look upon the lake beside which He loved to teach, and the hills and valleys on which His eyes so often rested. But we need not go to Nazareth, to Capernaum, or to Bethany, in order to walk in the steps of Jesus. We shall find His footprints beside the sickbed, in the hovels of poverty, in the crowded alleys of the great city, and in every place where there are human hearts in need of consolation. In doing as Jesus did when on earth, we shall walk in His steps. – {DA 640.2}

What is truly helpful?

Read Dr. Jennings' blog on comeandreason.com, "Work or Handouts...how to help those in need."

2019 Q3 The Least of These: Lesson 9 Ministry in the New Testament Church

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

One of our online friends and listeners, Allen Weber, wrote:

Based on your excellent discussion of the EGW quote from GC539-40 in the Friday section of Lesson 7, I attempted a paraphrase of the paragraph. I have attached it to this email. One of my recurring questions is why it has taken so long to restore God's reputation. E.g., if the Great Controversy had been written with the concept of design law instead of making it so easy to "support" penal substitutionary theology or if the interpretation of the sanctuary symbols had been more explicitly explained so the Jews didn't think salvation came from ritual, would things have moved along faster? I pray for you and your ministry often. Have a great evening. Allen.

Before we get to Allen's paraphrase of the quote from the GC, I want to discuss his questions. What are your answers to his questions?

Do you hear any assumptions in his questions? First assumption is that it wasn't explained in the design law way originally.

Consider this quote:

If man had kept the law of God, as given to Adam after his fall, preserved by Noah, and observed by Abraham, there would have been no necessity for the ordinance of circumcision. And if the descendants of Abraham had kept the covenant, of which circumcision was a sign, they would never have been seduced into idolatry, nor would it have been necessary for them to suffer a life of bondage in Egypt; they would have kept God's law in mind, and there would have been no necessity for it to be proclaimed from Sinai or engraved upon the tables of stone. And had the people practiced the principles of the Ten Commandments, there would have been no need of the additional directions given to Moses. {PP 364.2}

There are many more quotes, but what is expressed in this passage, is that human beings became more and more distant from God, more corrupted by sin, more darkened by misunderstanding and God continued to step down and dumb down the truth to reach human beings where they were. Thus, when we read Scripture we read God working through His agencies to reach people throughout human history at all stages of moral development. We read God communicating to slaves operating at level one and also at friends operating at level seven. This makes God out to be beautiful, like a parent who speaks differently to a 2-year-old than a 10-year-old and different to an adult.

Finally, why don't math texts books just give the answers to all the questions? It is by working through the problems one actually develops understanding and ability. God does NOT want us to memorize a list of right answers, He wants us to actually understand Him, the issues in the Great Controversy and develop the ability to discern the true from the false.

But solid food is for the mature, who by constant use have trained themselves to distinguish good from evil. Heb 5:14 NIV84

Original Quote

“God has given in His word decisive evidence that He will punish the transgressors of His law. Those who flatter themselves that He is too merciful to execute justice upon the sinner, have only to look to the cross of Calvary. The death of the spotless Son of God testifies that “the wages of sin is death,” that every violation of God’s law must receive its just retribution. Christ the sinless became sin for man. He bore the guilt of transgression, and the hiding of His Father’s face, until His heart was broken and His life crushed out. All this sacrifice was made that sinners might be redeemed. In no other way could man be freed from the penalty of sin. And every soul that refuses to become a partaker of the atonement provided at such a cost must bear in his own person the guilt and punishment of transgression.” {GC 539.3}

Paraphrase

The Bible is an inspired history of how God deals with His children. It is conclusive, crucial, convincing proof of what God’s punishment is. What does He do to those who refuse to accept the way He’s designed reality? Some excuse the damage they inflict on themselves and others, thinking God’s leniency and pity will let Him exempt them from the reality of consequence. They have ignored the evidence of Jesus’ death on the cross. He died even though He was perfect. Separated from His Father by His own choice to save humanity, He demonstrated that “sin pays its wage.” His death was testimony that life is impossible outside God’s design – no exceptions. God need not impose an external punishment because the effect of violating a principle of design is intrinsic to that principle and there is no way to outwit the principle, elude the consequences, or undo the damage. Christ lived in perfect harmony with God’s design for Him. But by willingly choosing the fate of humanity, which has mostly rejected God’s design for us, He experienced the result of our choice—the separation from [God] that accompanies that choice. But for [Christ] that separation was heart-breaking... [crushing out his life]. This sacrifice made by Jesus and His Father was so those too fearful to trust God could trust again. God’s power to heal is unlimited but will do no good in a universe designed as a circle of love unless we trust the Remedy. If a heart is untouched by God’s offer to heal, if an individual is not reconciled to trust our God when it cost so much to disprove Satan’s accusations, God will not intervene to force that person’s will. But the responsibility and the consequences of rejecting His design for us will inevitably lead to extinction because life is only possible by voluntary connection to our Creator.

I want to commend Allen for wrestling with this passage and working to understand the true meaning. This is the type of work we each need to do. Such exercise helps us grow in our understanding of God and His methods of truth, love and liberty.

SABBATH

Read memory text: “Pure and undefiled religion before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their trouble, and to keep oneself unspotted from the world.” James 1:27 NKJV

What is being advocated here?

Is it talking about financial support?

Or, is it talking about building relationships with people who are more likely to find themselves lonely, isolated, and disconnected from society?

Why is James advocating building relationships with the orphans and widows?

What has the biggest impact on changing people, mere theory, or real experiences with people?

What would be the purpose of visiting them?

And who is to do the visiting? How much visiting is enough? Should a pastor (or any person) visit the orphan and widow while neglecting his own family? How do we achieve balance?

In countries like the US, Canada, European Union—do widows stand in a different place in these societies than in ancient Israel? What would be different?

Is it often the case today, that widows are left with life insurance, homes, social security or other sustenance? But what about in ancient Israel?

But would the widow and orphan, regardless of financial position, struggle with isolation, loneliness and need to be reassured that they are valued and connected with people who love and care about them?

What does it mean to keep oneself unspotted from the world?

Other versions say uncorrupted or unpolluted by the world—what would this mean?

What are the principles and methods of the world?

- lies
- coercion
- selfishness

Some of the biggest lies are sown with truth—taking a truth to make a false point.

The mature are those who have developed the ability to discern the difference between true and false.

So, if we seek control of government to force others to live according to our religious beliefs, even if our religious beliefs are Biblically correct, would that be Godly or the methods of the world?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “After Jesus’ ascension...” What made this new Christian community different from the Jewish community in the first century, and later different from Muslim communities?

What differences can you cite between the Christianity taught by Jesus, practiced by the first century Christians, and Judaism and Islam?

- Do all three believe in God?
- Do all three believe that God is the Creator?
- Do all three believe that the Scripture is inspired by God?
- Do all three believe God sent His prophets to give the messages of Scripture?
- Do all three believe human beings are fallen into sin and need saving by God?
- Do all three believe God has a law?
- Do all three believe sin is breaking God’s law?

So, what are the difference?

- Do all understand the law in the same way?
- How did the Jews understand the law at the time of Christ?
- What did Jesus teach about the law?

What does Islam teach about the law? What methods does Islam use if they control society?

What methods did the New Testament Christians teach regarding law?

- Let every person be fully persuaded in their own mind. Rom 14:5
- Let no debt remain outstanding, except the continuing debt to love one another, for he who loves his fellowman has fulfilled the law. ⁹ The commandments, “Do not commit adultery,” “Do not murder,” “Do not steal,” “Do not covet,” and whatever other commandment there may be, are summed up in this one rule: “Love your neighbor as yourself.” ¹⁰ Love does no harm to its neighbor. Therefore love is the fulfillment of the law. Rom 13:8-10
- For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this; Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. Gal 5:14 KJV

What about the ruling of the Jerusalem Counsel in Acts 15, did they promote rules or design law?

James said at that counsel:

It is my judgment, therefore, that we should not make it difficult for the Gentiles who are turning to God. Instead we should write to them, telling them to abstain from food polluted by idols, from sexual immorality, from the meat of strangled animals and from blood. Acts 15;19,20

Is this a list of rules or the promotion of design law?

From my book, The God-Shaped Heart:

These instructions are not imposed rules but are the wisdom of design law.

Food polluted by idols:

- An idol cannot change the nutritional quality of the food. Therefore, eating foods offered to idols does not pollute the body. Paul makes this clear in Romans chapter fourteen.
- The issue they were addressing is the design law of worship—by beholding we become changed... this is called modeling. What we believe has power over us, truth heals and sets free, while lies damage and enslave. Don't allow your minds to become contaminated by giving any credence to idols. Thus, don't eat foods that are polluted by the idea it is a bounty given you by a false god.

Sexual immorality:

- God designed relationships to operate upon love and trust. When sexual intimacy occurs between husband and wife, as God designed, healthy bonding occurs—the brain actually rewires and reward circuits are heightened for one's spouse. This is design law—how our biology is actually built to work. But deviating from this design is damaging to mind, body and relationships.
- It is violation of design law, altering brain circuitry, inflaming selfish and fear circuits, thus obstructing healing of mind and character.

Meat from strangled animals or blood:

- It also violates design law—the laws of health.
- Humans were not designed to eat meat, and the blood carries waste products, stress hormones, and various inflammatory factors. Eating raw meat and drinking blood increases disease risk, and when the body is unhealthy the mind is compromised.

The New Testament church rejected the imposed law rules and focused instead on living in harmony with God's design law for life!

So, what was different about the New Testament community to Judaism—they moved away from a rule-based lifestyle, to a principle-based lifestyle seeking to live in harmony with God's design laws of love, truth and freedom.

They focused on character, which comes from a relationship with God, (circumcision of the heart) rather than tribal affiliation, or adherence to dogma, or codes of conduct, or ritualistic worship.

Thus, anyone, who accepted Jesus and was transformed in character became part of the Christian family—but Judaism required tribal affiliation and adherence to rules; Islam requires ritualistic adherence to rules and is intolerance of divergent views seeking to suppress opposing theological views by the enforcement of human laws, including seeking to kill those who teach other views.

Some get confused by this as there are individuals within all these groups that are exceptions to what the group teaches and practices:

- There are Muslims and Jews who are not caught up in rules and who love others and live to serve
- There are Christians who practice imperialism and seek to control others by law

But what would happen in any predominately Christian country if someone publicly burned a Bible, or mocked Jesus like the artist who put a crucified Jesus in a jar of his own urine? Verbal condemnation by the Christian community.

What would happen in a predominantly Muslim country if someone publicly burned a Koran or put an image of Muhammad in urine? Riots and attempts to kill the person who did it. Author Salman Rushdie, who wrote The Satanic Verses still lives in hiding because a death warrant is still out on him by Muslim zealots.

But something happened to Christianity after the New Testament church; it began practicing the same authoritarian methods of coercion, imprisonment, crusades, inquisitions. What happened?

Christianity became infected with imperialism exchanging design law for imposed law construct and sunk into the Dark Ages and the most gross abuses to humanity—all in the name of Jesus.

The second paragraph talks about the importance of ministering to the poor—why is it that there has been poor in every society in human history?

Has any human government in history been able to eliminated poverty in their society?

Do some forms of government claim they will do just that? Socialism, Communism—why haven't societies in which these methods have been employed resulted in utopian countries where there is no poverty? Because selfishness governs the human heart and power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely—so all human governments eventually become selfish and corrupt with people in power exploiting those without power. That is why the founders of the US constitution broke up the powers to limit the amount of abuse that could be concentrated in any person or group.

To me it is much more vile to abuse people while claiming to be protecting them, than to just state your agenda. Like:

- Nurses who, by their occupation present as a helper, someone there to assist in returning the sick to health but who have murdered their patients
- Childcare workers or priests who present to protect children and teach them and help them grow up health instead molest children
- Politicians who promote socialism or communism, promising equal economic and social success to all people only to exploit and abuse their societies for their own advancement

So, capitalism, which is not God's government and open to all kinds of abuses, is less vile to me because it is open about its stated agenda. Capitalism doesn't say it is here to help everyone. It states it is a system to reward hard work and give opportunity for people to get ahead on their own merits, but the goal is to advance oneself.

This principle of advancing oneself—capitalism—is clearly not God's government—but the honesty and openness about what one is doing is. The other systems (socialism and communism) also are not God's government, but they are duplicitous about their goals and what they actually accomplish. If they were honest these forms of government would never be implemented. They require deceiving the populous with promises that will never be realized.

But, back to the question of caring for the poor: If all Christians gave the maximum amount of money they possible could to help the poor, would that eliminate all the poor in the world?

Why not?

Does this mean we should ignore the poor and not minister to help them?

So, what is the right action to take toward the poor and needy?

I found a couple of quotes that I thought were quite interesting from a book Counsels to the Church:

There are two classes of poor whom we have always within our borders—those who ruin themselves by their own independent course of action and continue in their transgression, and those who for the truth's sake have been brought into straitened circumstances. We are to love our neighbor as ourselves, and then toward both these classes we shall do the right thing under the guidance and counsel of sound wisdom. {CCh 284.2} [Is this suggesting that perhaps we are to think about what a person needs in various circumstances? That the help provided may vary depending on how and why a person is in need?]

There is no question in regard to the Lord's poor. They are to be helped in every case where it will be for their benefit. {CCh 284.3} [Does this imply that there are times when helping someone might not be for their benefit? Can you think of any examples?]

God wants His people to reveal to a sinful world that He has not left them to perish. Special pains should be taken to help those who for the truth's sake are cast out from their homes and are obliged to suffer... The poor among God's people must not be left without provision for their wants. Some way must be found whereby they may obtain a livelihood. [What is the help advocated here? Is it a handout or is it something else? What is the difference to the person in need to receive a handout versus receiving employment? What is it God wants for all humans? The restoration of godliness in them—which would mean not only a pure heart and right spirit, but integrity, intelligence, wisdom, ability to think and to act, industry, meaningful usefulness. Should we seek to help people develop these abilities, or should we infantilize capable people by merely giving handouts?]

Some will need to be taught to work. Others who work hard and are taxed to the utmost of their ability to support their families will need special assistance.[What is special assistance? Do you notice a single cookie cutter intervention won't work?] We should take an interest in these cases and help them to secure employment. There should be a fund to aid such worthy poor families who love God and keep His commandments. {CCh 284.4}

Methods of helping the needy should be carefully and prayerfully considered. We are to seek God for wisdom, for He knows better than shortsighted mortals how to care for the creatures He has made. There are some who give indiscriminately to everyone who solicits their aid. In this they err. In trying to help the needy, we should be careful to give them the right kind of help. There are those who when helped will continue to make themselves special objects of need. They will be dependent as long as they see anything on which to depend. By giving undue time and attention to these, we may encourage idleness, helplessness, extravagance, and intemperance. {CCh 285.1}

When we give to the poor we should consider: "Am I encouraging prodigality [wastefulness like prodigal son]? Am I helping or injuring them?" No man who can earn his own livelihood has a right to depend on others. {CCh 285.2}

How do we help those in need? What is the goal of our help?

MONDAY

Very interesting story of Dorcas—she was a godly woman who worked to provide clothing for those without clothes. She became sick and died, and the community grieved and reached out to Peter who prayed for Dorcas and God resurrected her to life.

Very powerful story—for whose benefit was this miracle performed?

For the New Testament Church—was this miracle primarily performed as a benefit for Dorcas?

Did she arise with an immortal body free of aches, pains, aging, and disease? Did she arise free of the pain and suffering this world brings?

Hadn't she fought the good fight, run the race, crossed the finish line, and then is called back to run again? Was this miracle primarily for Dorcas, or was her soul already safe and secure with God for eternity?

Then, she must have been a real friend of God that God could call her back to life knowing she would be a trusted friend and continue on fighting the fight of faith.

The bottom green section asks "If you were to pass away, would your contributions be mourned and missed like the ministry of Dorcas was remembered and mourned?"

I would like to ask, if you were to pass away, would you want to be resurrected back into this world of pain, suffering and sin, or would you prefer to be resurrected as the second coming?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “Paul’s letter to the Romans...” How would you explain the doctrine of salvation by faith through the death of Christ?

Is the practical guidance given by Paul starting in Romans 11 something different than what Paul was writing about in the first 10 chapters of Romans?

What is the message of the first 10 chapters?

Humankind is in a terminal condition of fear and selfishness that we inherited from Adam. Jesus came as the second Adam, took upon Himself this condition and cured it and offers a free remedy (new heart/right spirit) to all who trust Him. When we trust God we receive Christ within and that results in a change in how we live, the fruits of the Spirit, which is the practical application of God’s methods of truth, love and freedom described in the later chapters of Romans.

Let’s read Romans 3:19-26 from The Remedy:

¹⁹Now, we know that the Ten Commandments are like a medical diagnostic instrument identifying infection and exposing disease. It diagnoses accurately everyone who is infected with distrust of God — who is filled with selfishness and dying of sin — so that everyone who claims to be sin-free or free of selfishness will be silenced, and the entire world will recognize their need of God's healing solution.²⁰Therefore no one will be recognized as having a healthy relationship with God and being like Christ in character by adhering to a set of rules; rather, it is through the Ten Commandments that we become aware of our sickly state of mind.

²¹But now God has revealed a healthy state of being — a character that is right and perfect in every way — that did not come from the written code, but is exactly what the Scriptures and the Ten Commandments were pointing your minds toward.²²This perfect state of being comes from Christ and is created within us by God when we place our trust in him. Our trust in him is established by the evidence given through Jesus Christ of his supreme trustworthiness. There is no difference among any ethnic groups,²³ for all humanity is infected with the same disease — of distrust, fear and selfishness — and is deformed in character and falls far short of God's glorious ideal for humanity.²⁴Yet all who are willing are healed freely by God's gracious Remedy which has been provided by Jesus Christ.²⁵God presented Jesus as the way and the means of restoration. Now, through the trust established by the evidence of God’s character revealed when Christ died, we may partake of the Remedy procured by Christ. God did this to demonstrate that he is right and good — because in his forbearance he suspended, for a time, the ultimate consequence of us being out of harmony with his design for life — yet he has been falsely accused of being unfair.²⁶ He did it to demonstrate at the present time how right and good he is, so that he would also be seen as being right when he heals those who trust in Jesus.

Read third paragraph, “Paul describes in practical terms...” What is the Jesus-like response to the injustice in society today? What is the Godlike response to mass shootings?

What is the danger in the social-justice gospel? Trying to promote God’s kingdom, not by heart change, not by truth presented in love leaving people free, not by converting hearts to love our neighbor as ourselves, but by legislation and policy to force an agenda upon people not persuaded in their own minds.

When it comes to love, it cannot be commanded, it cannot be coerced, it cannot be compelled, and any attempts to do so always results in rebellion.

We must differentiate the difference between Goals and Methods

Goal: Social justice — equality for all people — good goal

Method: Imperial legislative enforcement — bad method

This is the problem with social justice movement, it seeks to fix social injustice with laws forcing people to comply with their standard of social justice, rather than seeking to convert hearts. The method of compelling actually incites greater divisions in society because it always disadvantages someone.

Social justice legislations or policies always chooses to advance one group at the expense of another group, thus creating social injustice. It might be done under the guise of repairing damage from prior social injustice, but it results in more division, more resentment, more contentions, more conflicts.

For instance, Martin Luther King Jr., said he had a dream that his daughters would grow up in a country where they were judged by the quality of their character not the color of their skin. This was a godly principle, this was moving past racism or sexism to what really matters—character.

However, social justice doesn’t care about the quality of character—it cares about advancing one group that it has identified has having been disadvantaged. So, they pass laws based on skin color or gender, not character, that give advantage to businesses seeking government contracts that are owned by minorities or women—not advantages to business that have demonstrated honesty, coming in under the bid, coming in earlier than projected, having history of treating their employees with equality etc. Character doesn’t matter, race or group status does. One group advanced over another.

True Godly social justice only occurs when we love all people equally and value Godly character and advance Godly principles of “every person is fully persuaded in their own minds” have new hearts and actually love others as their own family and friends. This transformation is obstructed by the social justice movement and many good people will divert their energies into policy and legislative actions seeking a good cause but by methods that will fail to work. And then this causes a sense of injustice to those not in the favored group, which instills greater resentment and further societal divisions.

Seeking a good cause, social justice—equality of all people—with imperial methods like this is like the doctors who sought to cure George Washington’s pneumonia by bleeding half his blood supply—they sought a good cause, but their methods made it worse.

This is why Jesus and the Apostles did NOT seek social justice changes of the Roman government, despite slavery, despite rampant child abuse, trafficking, killing people in the arenas etc. They sought to change the hearts of people and in so doing, society did change. Their refusal to seek governmental changes to social injustice was NOT an endorsement or support for the abuse, but a statement of the METHODS to be employed in addressing the problem—and the problem is SIN—selfishness in the heart and this CANNOT be addressed legislatively.

Does this mean we don’t seek to pass laws that are in harmony with Godly principles, if our society allows our input into such laws? Of course not, we do, but we recognize the boundary difference between laws to protect and laws to impose.

Thus the Bible teaches not to conform to the pattern of the world but to be renewed by the renewing of your mind Romans 12:2

THURSDAY

Why is the religion that matters one that helps others? Because of God’s design for life—the law of love.

The more you give the more you will receive—what does this mean?

Read third paragraph, “The author of James...” Why do you think Martin Luther said he couldn’t find Jesus in the book of James and put James, Hebrews, Jude and Revelation?

Martin Luther felt these books went against salvation by grace alone, why?

Because James speaks clearly about faith without works is dead—why is this a problem for Luther?

Because Luther created the legal fiction known as penal substitution theology. In this fiction—and fiction is something feigned or imaginary or invented but not real—in this fiction:

- God’s law functions like human law—imperial/imposed rules
- Sin is breaking an imposed rule putting sinners in legal jeopardy
- God’s justice requires that sin be punished and the law upheld
- God must therefore inflict punishment on sinners
- Jesus came as man’s substitute and all sins of all people from all time were placed on Jesus and God punished Jesus killing Jesus on the cross

- Legally the punishment for all sins was accomplished in Jesus at the cross so no unpunished sins remain so no need for purgatory
- The saved merely have to accept Jesus, claim His blood payment and in the court of heaven they are declared legally righteous, even though they are not righteous

Why is this fiction? Because it is all based on a lie—that God's law functions like human law. But the truth is that God is Creator of all reality and His laws are the laws upon which reality functions—sin is breaking design law which takes one out of harmony with life and results in ruin and death unless God heals the damage and restores us back to unity with Him.

He did this for the species in the person of Jesus and offers the Remedy procured by Jesus to all who will accept it. But, the healing is the healing of our characters, our individualities, and God cannot do this without our cooperation and purposeful effort. God cannot save us without our choosing because to do so against our will would destroy our individuality. But we cannot be saved by our own effort because we cannot procure a perfect sinless character—we must partake of the divine nature as a gift from God procured by Christ.

Here are some quotes from historic Adventism—what the SDA was founded upon, but which many have forgotten and slipped back into Luther's theology which is 500 years out of date.

We are laborers together with God. This is the Lord's own wise arrangement. The cooperation of the human will and endeavor with divine energy is the link that binds men up with one another and with God. The apostle says, "We are laborers together with God: ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building" (1 Corinthians 3:9). Man is to work with the facilities God has given him. "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling," He says. "For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure" (Philippians 2:12, 13).--MS 113, 1898. {2MCP 694.3}

There are two grand forces at work in the salvation of the human soul. It requires the cooperation of man with the divine agencies-- divine influences, and a strong, living, working faith. It is in this way only that the human agent can become a laborer together with God. The Lord does not sanction in any one of us a blind, stupid credulity. He does not dishonor the human understanding, but, far from this, He calls for the human will to be brought into connection with the divine will. He calls for the ingenuity of the human mind, the tact, the skill, to be strenuously exercised in searching out the truth as it is in Jesus. . . . Ye are labourers together with God. {OHC 310.5}

And he who seeks to give light to others will himself be blessed. "There shall be showers of blessing." "He that watereth shall be watered also himself." Proverbs 11:25. [the law of exertion and law of love] God could have reached His object in saving sinners without our aid; but in order for us to develop a character like Christ's, we must share in His work. In order to enter into His joy,--the joy of seeing souls redeemed by His sacrifice,--we must participate in His labors for their redemption. {DA 142.2}

Why must we work with God? Because of how reality works, the only way for our salvation is for us to actively participate in God's grace through faith.

But, what was meant by God being able to reach His object in saving sinners without our aid, if we must participate in our character development?

I believe it is talking about taking the gospel message—God could have taken the message to people by His Spirit and by His angels, He had other than human means of communicating the gospel to sinners, but I don't believe it is saying God could have saved sinners without the sinners choice or participation in their own salvation—that would be contrary to the law of love and liberty and make people into robots.

So, practical application of the gospel is what James is speaking about—is there another very powerful practical application that the SDA church was advised was to be an integral part of the gospel message?

What about the healing arts—medical work?

I read the following from the book Testimonies to the Church Vol 6. What do you think, what lessons are being taught and why?

Again and again I have been instructed that the medical missionary work is to bear the same relation to the work of the third angel's message that the arm and hand bear to the body. [Who was instructing? Did the author believe it was important that she was instructed again and again? What is the message of the three angels? When you hear it do you hear a message that immediately connects to medical work? What kind of law does medical practice work upon? Design law—laws of health. Who are we called back to worship in the 3 angels messages? The designer/creator, which means design law. What is the plan of salvation except the plan of healing, so we cannot effectively take the 3 angels message to the world divorced from the medical work] Under the direction of the divine Head they are to work unitedly in preparing the way for the coming of Christ. The right arm of the body of truth is to be constantly active, constantly at work, and God will strengthen it. But it is not to be made the body. [What does this mean? It simply means the message of salvation is not primarily a message about healing our mortal bodies from physical illness. While the healing arts operate on design law, and vividly portrays the plan of salvation is to heal us, the plan of salvation is about healing our characters not our bodies. So if we make it merely about physical health we miss the entire point.] At the same time the body is not to say to the arm: "I have no need of thee." The body has need of the arm in order to do active, aggressive work. [But when we divorce the gospel message from the medical work we make the spreading of the gospel ineffectual] Both have their appointed work, and each will suffer great loss if worked independently of the other... {6T 288.1}

The medical missionary work should be a part of the work of every church in our land. Disconnected from the church it would soon become a strange medley of disorganized atoms. It would consume, but not produce. Instead of acting as God's helping hand to forward His truth, it would sap the life and force from the church and weaken the message. Conducted independently, it would not only consume talent and means needed in other lines, but in the very work of helping the helpless apart from the ministry of the word, it would place men where they would scoff at Bible truth. [have we seen this happening in our world as healthcare has become an end unto itself and the costs have skyrocketed and many in the healthcare field scoff at the Bible?] {6T 289.1}

The gospel ministry is needed to give permanence and stability to the medical missionary work; and the ministry needs the medical missionary work to demonstrate the practical working of the gospel. [The gospel—good news about God give permanence because it brings people into a saving relationship with God so they will experience everlasting life—eternal healing. Without the gospel then life is temporary. And the ministry needs the medical work to make it practical, in other words to show the plan of salvation transforms and heals, it is not theoretical] Neither part of the work is complete without the other. {6T 289.2}

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Multi-Languages: We are beginning to create resources in diverse languages. We currently have Could It Be This Simple? available in Polish and Bulgarian as well as some blogs translated into Bulgarian. The New Paradigm is now available on our website in Spanish and Portuguese. We are working on getting other material in various languages.

PODCAST: Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.

MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

Check our website for new chapters of The Remedy the Psalms will be going up slowly as they are completed and edited. When an entire book of the Old Testament is complete then it will be added to the app and when you update the app you will get the new book. Thank you for your prayers and support as I work on this project.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

2019 Q3 The Least of These: Lesson 10

Living the Gospel

by Russell Atkins

SABBATH

“For by grace you have been saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God, not of works, lest anyone should boast. For we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand that we should walk in them” (Ephesians 2:8–10, NKJV).

Which “Gospel” are we to live? How many different “gospels” are there? What are some of the fundamental differences between “gospels”?

From the lesson:

“As soon as we talk about God’s commands, requirements, or instructions, we run the risk—or even face the temptation—of thinking that somehow what we do can earn or contribute to our salvation or otherwise gain favor with God. But the Bible tells us repeatedly that we are sinners saved by God’s grace through Jesus and His substitutionary death for us on the cross.”

From SDA 28 fundamental beliefs:

“The great principles of God’s law are embodied in the Ten Commandments and exemplified in the life of Christ. They express God’s love, will, and purposes concerning human conduct and relationships and are binding upon all people in every age. These precepts are the basis of God’s covenant with His people and the standard in God’s judgment. Through the agency of the Holy Spirit they point out sin and awaken a sense of need for a Saviour. Salvation is all of grace and not of works, and its fruit is obedience to the Commandments. This obedience develops Christian character and results in a sense of well-being. It is evidence of our love for the Lord and our concern for our fellow human beings. The obedience of faith demonstrates the power of Christ to transform lives, and therefore strengthens Christian witness. (Exod. 20:1-17; Deut. 28:1-14; Ps. 19:7-14; 40:7, 8; Matt. 5:17-20; 22:36-40; John 14:15; 15:7-10; Rom. 8:3, 4; Eph. 2:8-10; Heb. 8:8-10; 1 John 2:3; 5:3; Rev. 12:17; 14:12.)”

SUNDAY

For God so Loved

The lesson points out that the Greek word “kosmos” is used for “the world” in John 3: 16. “Kosmos”? Cosmos? Universe?

Does the text read any differently if it says, “For God so loved the Cosmos, that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believes should not perish, but have eternal life.” ?

Any other texts coming to mind to support this hypothesis?

For I think that God has exhibited us apostles as last of all, like men sentenced to death, because we have become a spectacle to the world, to angels, and to men. 1 Cor 4: 9. ESV.

And I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all people to myself.” John 12: 32. ESV. [ed: We understand the word “people” to have been added by the original transcribers of Scripture].

The lesson asks us to consider John 3: 17 along with its more famous predecessor.

“For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but in order that the world might be saved through him.”

How have Christians historically lived out this text? Have we presented Jesus as one who tries his best to heal and save or as one who condemns? How have we presented His Father?

MONDAY

Compassion and Repentance.

From the lesson:

“Our world is not what it was created to be, and though we still bear the image of the God who created us, we are part of the world’s brokenness. The sin in our lives is of the same nature as the evil that causes so much pain, oppression, and exploitation all over the world.”

Well said.

Have you ever passed a homeless person or, perhaps, someone with a physical or mental deformity and thought “there, but for the grace of God, go I”?

Have you ever thought that about a murderer, rapist, embezzler, slave trader, or child molester?

Guess what? Without God’s restraining grace we could all be capable of these evils and many more.

Again from the lesson:

“Thus, it is right for us to feel the hurt, discomfort, sorrow, and tragedy of the world and of the lives around us. We would have to be robots not to feel the pain of life here. The laments in the book of Psalms, the sorrows of Jeremiah and the other prophets, and the tears and compassion of Jesus demonstrate the appropriateness of this kind of response to the world and its evil, and particularly to those who are so often hurt by that evil.”

I want to suggest that as our characters are molded and shaped to that like Christ's, this will be our new natural reaction to pain and suffering. We will become more empathetic to the pains and needs of others.

“Selfishness, greed, meanness, prejudice, ignorance, and carelessness are at the root of all the world's evil, injustice, poverty, and oppression. And confessing our sinfulness is a first step in addressing this evil, as well as a first step toward allowing the love of God to take its rightful place in our hearts: “If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness” (1 John 1:9, NIV).” Emphasis mine.

I would submit that knowing a God of Love is the first step in addressing this evil . . .

What good does it do to confess sin to a God who wants to kill you for it? This is where we develop doctrines having one member of the Godhead protecting us from another one.

TUESDAY

Grace and Good Works

I used to think that works came before grace. Grace had to be earned, and the better and more numerous the works the more the grace. Now I understand that the works result from the Grace.

“Those who receive are to impart to others. From every direction are coming calls for help. God calls upon men to minister gladly to their fellow men.”—Ellen G. White, The Ministry of Healing, p. 103.

Which law is being described here?

WEDNESDAY

Our Common Humanity.

Man / woman / black / white / rich / poor / Christian / atheist / young / old / genius / imbecile / father / mother / slave / free / brother / sister all came from common parents and share nearly the same DNA.

We are all bound up together in that we all have sinned and “come short of the glory of God” and ALL need a savior and healing. We can experience loss and forgiveness and pain and joy and are connected by quantum bonds and common experiences and the umbrella of God's infinite love.

THURSDAY

The Everlasting Gospel

“Everlasting” e.g. Eternal. Past, Present, Future Eternal. From the lesson:

“The transforming invitation and appeal of the gospel “to every nation, tribe, language and people” (Rev. 14:6, NIV) has continued throughout Christian history. However, Revelation describes a renewed proclamation of this message—the good news about Jesus and all that entails—at the end of time.”

Has the “Everlasting Gospel” gone to every nation, tribe, language, and people throughout Christian history? I don’t think so. I believe Christ would have come long ago had this been the case.

Revelation speaks of a need to “come out” of Babylon [symbolic of religious confusion]

Then I heard another voice from heaven saying, “Come out of her, my people, lest you take part in her sins, lest you share in her plagues; for her sins are heaped high as heaven, and God has remembered her iniquities. Revelation 18: 4 ESV.

Malachi also speaks of an “Elijah” message before the end of time.

“Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the great and awesome day of the LORD comes. ⁶ And he will turn the hearts of fathers to their children and the hearts of children to their fathers, lest I come and strike the land with a decree of utter destruction.” [Malachi 4: 5, 6 ESV].

The lesson focuses on Judgment, Worship, and Creation themes from Revelation 14. Are these linked? How?

What do you hear when you hear the word “Judgment”? Do you hear a legal proclamation? A verdict with sentencing? Or do you hear discernment? Diagnosis and treatment recommendations?

	Imposed Law [Levels 1-4]	Design Law [Levels 5-7]
Judgment	God’s coming with fire and brimstone to execute judgment on the wicked because He’s angry they broke his holy Law. Punishment is nigh. His anger must be appeased.	God’s coming to correctly diagnose human characters and He will diagnose some as healed and some as terminally ill. His diagnosis will be in harmony with human choices.
Worship	We need to worship God because He said so, and He will be angry if we worship idols or, worse, if we become atheists. And we have to worship Him in my way, not yours. His ego must be appeased.	One of God’s design laws is the Law of Worship. Our characters are transformed in to the likeness of our object of worship. Worship a God of Love because it’s how life is designed to operate.
Creation	God is powerful enough to speak the universe in to existence. He brought us in to the world and He will take us out if we don’t comply with His mandates. His power must be appeased.	God designed life to operate around a set of protocols. Any deviation from these protocols bring sickness and eventually death. Learn and follow these protocols and live – forever.

2019 Q3 The Least of These: Lesson 11

Living the Advent Hope

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

What does the title of the lesson bring to mind?

Do we really have hope of the Advent? Is your hope in our lifetime, or do you think of your children or grandchildren's lifetime?

What do you think of this quote?

The days in which we live are solemn and important. The Spirit of God is gradually but surely being withdrawn from the earth. Plagues and judgments are already falling upon the despisers of the grace of God. The calamities by land and sea, the unsettled state of society, the alarms of war, are portentous. They forecast approaching events of the greatest magnitude. The agencies of evil are combining their forces, and consolidating. They are strengthening for the last great crisis. Great changes are soon to take place in our world, and the final movements will be rapid ones.--Testimonies, vol. 9, p. 11.

Do we read that the final events could be accomplished quickly so the Lord could come in our lifetime?

Does it give you hope or fear?

- Why do calamities come?
- Is it because God uses His power to send it, or that God is slowly withdrawing His protective presence?
- Why is God withdrawing His protective presence?
- Where is the dwelling place of the Spirit? Hearts and minds of people, but this quote says God's Spirit is gradually being withdrawn—what would that indicate?
- What would be the reason the Spirit is withdrawn? Hearts and minds are gradually hardening and closing to the Spirit of God.
- Who then gets more freedom to influence the forces of nature and the people hardened against God? Satan and evil angels.
- So where do the calamities come from? From Satanic agencies!
- What are the judgments of God? That people have rejected Him hardened their hearts and beyond healing—so God withdraws and sets more and more people free and more and more earth free to their ruler Satan.

Are you comfortable believing God's end-time judgments upon the earth are not the dispensing of divine power to cause pain, suffering, plagues, or disasters but the withdraw of His power because people insist on rejecting God and being free of His presence and influence?

Consider these two quotes:

"How great is the long - suffering of God toward the wicked! The idolatrous Philistines and backsliding Israel had alike enjoyed the gifts of His providence. Ten thousand unnoticed mercies were silently falling in the pathway of ungrateful, rebellious men. Every blessing spoke to them of the Giver, but they were indifferent to His love. The forbearance of God was very great toward the children of men; but when they stubbornly persisted in their impenitence, He removed from them His protecting hand. They refused to listen to the voice of God in His created works, and in the warnings, counsels, and reproofs of His word, and thus He was forced to speak to them through judgments." - PP 587.4

"I was shown that the judgments of God would not come directly out from the Lord upon them, but in this way;

They place themselves beyond His protection. He warns, corrects, reproves, and points out the only path of safety; then if those who have been the objects of His special care will follow their own course, independent of the Spirit of God, after repeated warnings, if they choose their own way, then He does not commission His angels to prevent Satan's decided attacks upon them.

It is Satan's power that is at work at sea and on land, bringing calamity and distress, and sweeping off multitudes to make sure of his prey, and storm and tempest both by sea and land will be, for Satan has come down in great wrath. He is at work. He knows his time is short and, he is not restrained; we shall see more terrible manifestations of his great power than we have ever dreamed of." Manuscript Release vol. 14, p. 3

Read second paragraph, "But Jesus also..." While there are no time prophecies left unfilled that would point to times or dates, is there anything that the Bible predicts does need to happen before the Lord comes?

And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached in the whole world as a testimony to all nations, and then the end will come. Mt 24:14 NIV84

The gospel of what kingdom? Consider this quote, sent as a message to the SDA church at the 1888 General Conference from EGW:

Said my Guide, "There is much light yet to shine forth from the law of God and the gospel of righteousness. This message, understood in its true character, and proclaimed in the Spirit, will lighten the earth with its glory. The great decisive question is to be brought before all nations, tongues, and peoples. The closing work of the third angel's message will be attended with a power that will send the rays of the Sun of Righteousness into all the highways and byways of life, and decisions will be made for God." --Ms 15, 1888, p. 5. (To "Dear Brethren Assembled at General Conference," Nov. 1, 1888.) Released July, 1958. {2MR 58.2}

What is the light that was yet to shine about God's law and the gospel of righteousness? Could it be the truth about God as Creator and His law is design law and the rejection of Rome's imperial law model?

The truth about God's law being design law leads then to the truth about the gospel of righteousness—the good news that Jesus came and achieved the remedy to sin so we might become righteousness—sinless—restored back to God's design for life with His law restored in us. As Scripture says, "he who knew no sin became sin for us so that we might become the righteousness of God." 2Cor 5:21.

This is quite different from the Roman legal view of imposed law that we get legally declared righteous even though we are not. The message of actual righteousness by faith, coming from the truth about God and His design law was brought in 1888 but the church leadership rejected it and went with imposed Roman law with a legal view instead.

Today there is still much light to shine forth about God's law and the gospel of righteousness and this message will lighten the world.

Consider this quote:

It is the darkness of misapprehension of God that is enshrouding the world. Men are losing their knowledge of His character. It has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. At this time a message from God is to be proclaimed, a message illuminating in its influence and saving in its power. His character is to be made known. Into the darkness of the world is to be shed the light of His glory, the light of His goodness, mercy, and truth... {COL 415.3}

The last rays of merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is a revelation of His character of love. The children of God are to manifest His glory. In their own life and character they are to reveal what the grace of God has done for them. {COL 415.5}

The light of the Sun of Righteousness is to shine forth in good works--in words of truth and deeds of holiness. {COL 416.1}

Do you hear the first angel's message—the hour of his judgment has come—the hour in human history when people are to make a right judgment about God. We are to stop viewing God as a dictator, the source of pain and suffering and death and start seeing Him as our loving Creator who only wants to heal us from this terminal sin condition?

Our duty to obey this law is to be the burden of this last message of mercy to the world. God's law is not a new thing. It is not holiness created, but holiness made known. It is a code of principles expressing mercy, goodness, and love. It presents to fallen humanity the character of God, and states plainly the whole duty of man (MS 88, 1897). {1BC 1104.9}

What law lens do you hear this quote through? Imposed/imperial human law—we must keep a bunch of rules, or do you hear design law—we must be healed to live in harmony with God's design for life?

Do you hear the first angel again—be in awe of God and give Him glory, by revealing His character and methods in your life—because you have had the law of God written in your heart and mind?

What of Revelation 18:

After this I saw another angel coming down from heaven. He had great authority, and the earth was illuminated by his splendor. With a mighty voice he shouted:

“Fallen! Fallen is Babylon the Great!
She has become a home for demons and a haunt for every evil spirit, a haunt for every unclean and detestable bird.
For all the nations have drunk
the maddening wine of her adulteries.
The kings of the earth committed adultery with her, and the merchants of the earth grew rich from her excessive luxuries.”

Then I heard another voice from heaven say:

“Come out of her, my people, so that you will not share in her sins, so that you will not receive any of her plagues; (vs 1-4 NIV84)

What do you hear?

Do you hear, that after the initial presentation of the 3 angel's messages of Revelation 14, which we believe began in the 19th century, that the message of the second angel—the fall of Babylon, the truth revealing its corruption and a call to leave that system will go forth again?

And what is the root corruption of Babylon? That God's law functions like human law, imposed rules and the gods of Babylon require payment to render blessings—i.e. paganism.

So, Revelation 18:1-4 from The Remedy:

After this, I saw another messenger coming down from heaven — symbolizing the Godly origin of his message. He had the great authority and power of truth, and the earth was illuminated by his splendor.²With a voice reverberating throughout the earth, he shouted: "Babylon the Great is a fallen system of religious tradition, fable, and falsehood distorting the truth about God! Every demonic distortion about God, every evil attitude toward God, and all filthy and destructive heart-motives find their home with her,³for she intoxicates the world with her pagan views of God, maddening them with her adulterous idea that God coerces and must inflict punishment if not properly appeased. Earth's leaders corrupt themselves with her by practicing her methods, and people not anchored in God's kingdom of love, and those who wander from philosophy to philosophy, fill their minds with her smorgasbord of lies."⁴Then I heard another voice calling from heaven, saying: "Come out of her, my people! Leave that confusing mess of evil thinking so that you will not share in her spiritual sickness and rebellion, and so that you will not receive the suffering she has chosen;

What is the gospel of the kingdom?

"The kingdom of God does not come with your careful observation,²¹ nor will people say, 'Here it is,' or 'There it is,' because the kingdom of God is within you." (Luke 17:20,21 NIV84)

Jesus said the kingdom of God is within you—what does that mean? It means the law, methods, protocols of God are the foundation of our character, motives, heart and mind.

I ask you, Is this kingdom of God within you? God's people are to be minutemen, always ready, always composed in Jesus Christ. The time is come now when one moment we may be on solid earth, the next the earth may be heaving beneath our feet. Earthquakes will take place when least expected. {20MR 114.1}

Christianity has a much broader meaning than many have hitherto given it. It is not a creed. It is the word of Him who liveth and abideth forever. It is a living, animating principle that takes possession of mind, heart, motives, and the entire man. Christianity-- Oh, that all might experience its operations! It is a vital, personal experience that elevates, purifies, ennobles the whole man. Every man is responsible to God, who has made provision for all to receive this blessings. {20MR 114.2}

What is the final message? It is simply the truth about God which has always been true, the eternal good news that God is love and His law is the design law of love built into reality, the protocols that life and health are based upon. And that Jesus is God's agency to restore God's law back into the species human—the systems of the world are fallen, fallen into the imperial law model with its legal penal systems that distort the truth about God. We are to give God glory by revealing His character in our lives, His living law written on our hearts so that we reflect Him and the light of His glory will go throughout the world.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Throughout the Bible's story..." What do you hear?

In the world people segregate into different groups, sects, creeds, religions, nationalities, divisions along racial lines, social, economic, and many other, and people then abuse their fellow human beings. This is the history of the human race filled with sin—with selfishness.

Selfishness always divides—it never unites; love heals and brings unity.

If we view things from a heavenly view—what are the only two divisions in the world that actually matter? –The righteous and unrighteous—those who have been renewed in heart to be like Jesus and those who have not. Perhaps we could divide the category of the unrighteous into those who haven't yet had opportunity to know the truth and be renewed in Jesus and those who have but then rejected it and hardened themselves in selfishness, but it is still a division of righteous and unrighteous.

What causes division in our world?

What do you think of this quote?

Then as the children of God are one in Christ, how does Jesus look upon caste, upon society distinctions, upon the division of man from his fellow man, because of color, race, position, wealth, birth, or attainments? The secret of unity is found in the equality of believers in Christ. The reason for all division, discord, and difference is found in separation from Christ. Christ is the center to which all should be attracted; for the nearer we approach the center, the closer we shall come together in feeling, in sympathy, in love, growing into the character and image of Jesus. With God there is no respect of persons. {1SM 259.2}

From God's perspective does He see multiple races or one human race? Does He offer salvation to some but not others, or is salvation offered to all human beings?

What happens to a person if they refuse the healing of heart and mind (salvation) Jesus offers?

Does God have to take an action to cause the rejecters of His mercy to be damaged, to suffer and ultimately to die?

Do we see evil in the world, abuse, exploitation, and injustice—wrongdoing?

Yes, why? What is the cause?

Is the cause of abuse and injustice in society due to lack of education? If we just had better schools then injustice would cease?

- Poor medical care?
- Poverty?
- Racism?
- Sexism?

What is the cause of injustice in the world? Fear and selfishness dominating the human heart—the lack of love and truth.

Can any human government fix the problem of injustice in the world?

Why or why not?

Does this mean human governments should not exist or that governments should not work to impose laws and policies designed to oppose abuse and exploitation—i.e. to promote justice?

What happens when the church and Christians believe that their mission is to fix the abuses in society by legislation?

Read second paragraph, “But these rescues were usually short-lived...”

Can God rescue people from sin and injustice by using might and power—by punishing people who do wrong?

When God rescued people with might and power in history: Flood, slaves from Egypt, Jericho, Mt. Carmel, 185,000 Assyrians...what was the result? Did the use of such power result in righteousness in those He rescued?

No, God cannot get the victory from sin by use of might and power, thus the Scripture says, “Not by might nor by power but by my Spirit says the Lord.” Zech 4:6

God cannot get love, trust, devotion, loyalty and a heart restored to righteousness by might and power, only by truth, love and freedom.

God has a plan to bring sin and hardened sinners to an end—how can God bring this about? If might and power cannot eliminate rebellion, eliminate distrust, instill love and loyalty into the heart—how can God eliminate sin and sinners without inciting more fear and rebellion?

What law lens do you understand the problem and solution through? If human law, imposed rules, then there is no answer—only perpetual warfare—which is Satan’s goal.

But if we worship the Creator and understand His laws as the laws upon which reality are built, then we realize that God setting people free to reap what they choose is how He accomplishes His goal. God brings events to a point that everyone sees for themselves that the wicked hate love, hate truth and don’t want to live in God’s presence and they voluntarily surrender their lives begging the mountains to fall on them—they reap the suffering of unremedied sin; then all realize God did everything for each person and only those who refused God die in the end, which is what they freely choose.

Read third paragraph, “The Psalms...” I have found that the Psalms have many distortions written in by the translators who have gone to the Hebrew with the assumption that God’s law works like human law and God’s justice is punishing sin. With this assumption they translate in many ideas that are legitimate possible translations, but not the only possible translation. When one understands God’s law as design law then often times another view is realized.

Let’s read Psalms 94 from The Remedy

- 1 O Lord, the God who exterminates evil!
O God, eradicate fear and selfishness—let your love and truth shine forth.
- 2 Rise up, O Creator who governs the earth;
let the proud reap what they have sown.
- 3 How long, O Lord, will your mercy shield the wicked?
How long will they celebrate in their terminal state?
- 4 They are constant torrent of self-importance;
the selfish overflow with boasting.
- 5 They walk all over your people, O Lord;
they oppress those who have your character of love.
- 6 They kill the powerless, widows and immigrants and murder the orphans—those without family.
- 7 They tell themselves, “The Lord does not see;
the God whom Jacob worshipped doesn’t even know.”
- 8 But know this, you who deny reality and live in ignorance;
you foolish people, when will you wise up?
- 9 God created our ears—don’t you realize he hears everything?
God created our eyes—don’t you realize he sees everything?
- 10 The Lord disciplines the nations, so get this straight:
he will reveal the truth to correct the people and teach them how reality works!
- 11 The Lord knows how the worldly-wise think; he knows that their selfish ideas are misleading, destructive and futile.
- 12 Happy and healthy is the person whom you disciple, O Lord—the person you teach to live in harmony with your design law for life;
- 13 you provide them healing and deliverance from the day of trouble, but the wicked dig the pit of their own eternal destruction.
- 14 The Lord will not abandon his people—those who partake of the remedy;
he will never forsake his inheritance—those who possess his character of love.
- 15 Justice returns to design law—the law upon which life is built to operate; and all the healed—those who are pure in heart—live in harmony with it.
- 16 Who will help me fight against selfishness?
Who will stand with me against those who promote evil?
- 17 If the Lord had not given me his remedy,
I would have quickly succumbed to the silence of death.
- 18 When I said, “I am slipping into selfishness,” your perfect love, O Lord, healed me.

- 19 When doubts and fears trouble my mind, abiding in your truth and love brings peace to my soul.
20 Selfish leaders who practice evil are not allied with you;
they pass imposed laws to cause suffering and injustice.
21 They plot together against the pure of heart and condemn the innocent to death.
22 But the Lord protects me;
in union with my God is where I find safety.
23 The Lord will allow the wicked to reap what they have sown; their rejection of the remedy and persistent wickedness destroys them, and the Lord will sadly let them go.

The last paragraph states, “In a sense, injustice is more difficult to endure among those who believe in a just God who desire justice for all His people.”

What law lens do you hear this through? Do you hear justice like human law, inflicting punishment or justice like design law, healing and delivering those dying in sin?

The following is an excerpt from my book The God-Shaped Heart:

Keith Johnson is an online friend, who has worked for years in prison ministry teaching inmates about God’s design law, helping them to move past imposed law constructs of right, wrong and justice. He developed four questions to help them understand more clearly what justice is from God’s viewpoint. Take a moment and answer each question for yourself.

1. What if I told you that your youngest child was murdered? Would you want mercy or justice for the perpetrator?
2. What if I told you that the murderer was your oldest child? Would you want mercy or justice for the perpetrator?
3. What if I told you that you are guilty of the murder of the only begotten Son of God? Would you want mercy or justice as the perpetrator?
4. What if I told you that you had a daughter, your only daughter, the apple of your eye, who has never given you a moment’s grief, but tonight, as her father, you happen to have your tux hanging in the closet, because tomorrow you are scheduled to walk your daughter down the aisle and give her away to someone whom you approve? If you’re the mother, you have your new dress hanging next to her wedding gown that you have been planning and preparing for since the first time she held her in her arms. But tonight, your daughter is at a bachelorette party with her peers and they talk her into having “one-for-the-road,” the first ever in her life. Two, three, four, five, six, seven (drinks) later, while on her way home, she wipes out a school bus full of little children on their way to camp. Everybody aboard the bus dies in a fiery inferno, but you daughter survives. Do you want mercy or justice for your daughter (?) and...what do those who are related to the victims who were on the bus want? ¹

Human justice is based on human law—imposed rules, and is motivated by selfishness and seeks vengeance under the name justice. The selfish heart has an ingrained sense of justice, but which in reality is nothing more than vengeance, and which is easily exposed because such ‘justice’ is sought only so long as it doesn’t apply to them or theirs.

MONDAY

Read first two paragraphs, “Religion has often...” First, is our hope in the second coming, a world without sin, a world without disease and death a misplaced hope? Is it escapism from living in this world?

What are your thoughts about the second point—that some telling the poor and oppressed to accept their sad lot because it will all be made right when Jesus comes?

This second idea is a distortion of truth—it is true that Jesus will restore the world and all who trust Him—but this truth is used to create a false narrative that one should just accept pain, suffering, abuse, exploitation, poverty etc. Not so.

Christians—those who are like Christ—are to be agents of love, truth, and compassion in the world—to reach out in their communities to be a benefit to those around them, all while practicing God’s principles in their lives—which means we at times restrain ourselves from intervening, when in our judgment, the intervention would cause more harm—prodigal son for example was left to come to his senses.

But, the idea that Christ suffered for our salvation is also perverted by some to teach that because Christ suffered, we should rejoice in abuse, mistreatment and in fact we need to be abused in order to be like Jesus. This distorted idea gets used to abuse people.

It is true, that in the process of conversion there is a suffering of heart, mind, soul as selfishness is confronted and we die to self. This is the type of suffering the Bible says we are to rejoice in, the suffering that comes from overcoming sin in our own lives.

But this does not necessarily require physical suffering, or poverty, and certainly doesn’t require being abused by others. It is true, the righteous may find themselves abused and mistreated because of their faith in God—but the abuse is not God’s doing nor needed for their spiritual growth, but because Satan and evil people want to discourage and destroy them.

¹ Keith Johnson has a Master’s in Correctional & Alternative Education and has worked for 34 years in federal, state, private, county prisons and juvenile detention centers.

This distortion of the Cross is rooted in the lie about God's law and the need for God to punish Jesus, and thus the idea gets perpetuated that being mistreated, abused, punished, even when innocent, is virtuous and, therefore, for the innocent to protest mistreatment is unChristlike.

This is all fraudulent, but it has led to some very distorted theologies in opposition to this falsehood: feminist theologies or womanist theologies in which people teach that the Christ's death was not necessary for our salvation—that only His good example of sinless life was necessary. So, they reject the crucifixion of Christ as having any benefit in our salvation.

Understand—that they are rejecting a lie—they are rejecting the lie that legal infliction of pain by God was virtuous, righteous, holy, good, or beneficial. They are right to reject this lie because God did not lay a hand on Jesus. God did not use power to torture or punish Jesus.

But, these people who reject the penal lie have substituted their own false narrative that the death of Christ wasn't necessary for salvation.

This is a common strategy of Satan to pit false ideas against each other and have groups argue the false ideas—so many of the Protestant Catholic arguments are like this—both groups promoting a false idea—because they both are in some way rooted in imposed law.

Just because it wasn't necessary to appease God or pay a legal penalty, doesn't mean Jesus' death wasn't necessary for our salvation—it was. The key is design law—what was actually wrong that needed fixing.

Adam and Even changed their very nature from love to selfishness. Life is built to operate upon the law of love. No human after Adam sinned could develop a perfect sinless character of love. Christ came to do that for us and as a human did exactly that. Satan opposed Jesus, first by flattery and trickery, then by inducements and finally by torture—both emotional and physical—to get Jesus to choose to act selfishly and thus corrupt His sinless human character.

Jesus, was tempted in every way like us, but instead of succumbing to the temptations, Jesus chose to love perfectly thus at the cross He destroyed death (the infection of fear and selfishness) and brought life and immortality to light. He developed a perfect sinless humanity.

It was not possible for this perfect sinless human character to be developed and procured without the death of Christ. To take away the cross we take away the remedy to sin.

TUESDAY

This takes us right into Tuesday's lesson about the resurrection—why did Jesus rise again?

What is the basis of life? The law of the Lord is perfect, reviving the soul. Ps 19:7 NIV84

The law of love is the law of life—the law upon which life is built, thus when Jesus perfectly restored it into His humanity the inevitable outcome was He would rise again.

Did you ever notice that Jesus predicted over and over again to His disciples that He would die and rise on the third day?

Yet in the book The Desire of Ages EGW wrote:

Satan with his fierce temptations wrung the heart of Jesus. The Saviour could not see through the portals of the tomb. p. 753

How could He predict He would rise again if He couldn't see through the portals of the tomb?

Can you predict what will happen if I drop this pen? How, do you have prophetic vision of the future? Or do you know the law—the law of gravity? Jesus knew His mission, what He was to accomplish, the law upon which life was based and knew what would happen when He succeeded, but He did not have the veil of time pulled aside and had need seen a vision of the future.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “While suffering..” What do you hear? What do you think they are describing? Are they describing a judicial process? Why is this unjust?

What is Biblical justice? What defines justice—the law, and what is God's law?

What justice would you prefer if your child was murdered—a trial to punish the murderer or resurrecting and restoring your child to you?

From my book The God-Shaped Heart

Kent Whitaker and the Power of Love

Fortunately, I have never had to face such a terrible situation, but on December 10, 2003 Kent Whitaker did. I had the privilege of meeting Kent and I heard firsthand about his unimaginable ordeal.

On that fateful day in December, Kent, his wife and two sons, Kevin and Bart went out to dinner to celebrate Bart's upcoming graduation from college. After a wonderful family dinner they returned home. As the family approached the house, Bart ran back to the car to get his cell phone. When the rest of the family entered the house a masked gunman jumped out and shot and killed Kevin and Kent's wife. He also shot Kent in the chest, but fortunately he survived. As devastating as the murders of his wife and son were, the worse part for Kent was yet to come—the police, upon investigation, discovered that Kent's surviving son, Bart, had been the one who arranged to have his family murdered so he could inherit the family money. I cannot imagine the depth of pain, heartache and despair with which Kent was faced. Bart was arrested and tried for murder with the prosecutor seeking the death penalty.

If you were Kent what justice would you want for Bart? What law lens do you view this tragedy through? Do you see only through imposed human law and seek punishment for Bart, or do you see through God's design law and realize Bart is sick of heart and mind and in need of healing and restoration? If, you realize your son is sick of heart and mind, what do you want for your son—to be executed for his crimes, or to be transformed in his character?

Kent understood his son was sin-sick and needed healing and therefore he forgave his son and publicly asked the prosecutor not to seek the death penalty. But the prosecutor, an agent of the human imposed law system, did what he thought was just and sought to punish—he sought the death penalty. Bart was found guilty and sentenced to death.

Kent stood by his convicted son, pouring his forgiveness and love upon him, visiting him in prison and seeking his eternal healing. Bart eventually said, "If you can still love me and forgive me for all I have done, then I believe God can also." And, though still on death row, Bart gave his life to Christ.

In 40-minute interview in 2012 with a KPRC Local 2 reporter, Bart confessed:
"I've made some really bad mistakes in my life. I was a very messed up young man. There are some people who are never going to get past that."

"I think about what I could have done every day. But those types of thoughts are really torture back here. I have to limit myself to the good I can do in the here and now, or otherwise I will break."

"If there's any way my mother and brother are watching me, I want them to be proud of the way I'm living now," said Whitaker. "That is foremost in my mind every minute of every day."²

Kent said that while he has lost his wife and younger son on this earth and will also lose Bart, he has peace knowing that through all of this Bart will now be with them in heaven and their family will be together for eternity. Such grace, such forgiveness, such love is only possible when we realize the truth about God and experience his love in our lives—when we come back to focus on design law and reject the fallen human imposed law construct. This is the goal. This is the God-shaped heart. This is the new covenant—having God's law of love written on the heart.

What is justice in this story? Is it just for God to heal Bart and give him eternal life? How was it just? Could God give Bart eternal life through a legal declaration, an adjustment of a record in heaven, or did it require that God actually do something in the heart, mind, character of Bart? And what did God do in Bart's heart? He healed him, purging selfishness and restoring His methods of truth, love, freedom—His law in Bart's heart and mind. Was it just for God to do this?

² http://www.click2houston.com/news/bart-whitaker-talks-about-killing-family-death-row-complaints_20151124160736126

Satan says it is not just, that every sin must meet its punishment. Satan is the author, the originator of the imposed law lie about God and continues to present His lie that God's law functions like human law.

But we live at the time in human history in which greater light, greater truth about God's law and the gospel of righteousness is to lighten the world. We are to call people out of Babylon—that fallen system of penal/legal religion and back to worship Him who made the heavens earth and fountains of water—back to Creator worship—and this requires we return to design law understanding of God's government.

Read last paragraph, "The hope of judgment..."

Yes, what is the core nature of God—is God like Caesar and imperial dictator who is the source of inflicted pain and suffering, or is God our Creator of love who constantly gives for the health and welfare of His universe?

What about the Judgment? The reason this has been misunderstood so terribly is because, first God's law has been misunderstood to be like human law, but second: there are actually three judgments, not one so people merge all the evidences into one morphed event. But clarity comes when we see through God's design law and also separate the different judgments:

First Judgment:

- Then I saw another angel flying in midair, and he had the eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live on the earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people. He said in a loud voice, "Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water." Revelation 14:6,7 NIV84
- God must be true, even though every human being is a liar. As the scripture says, "You must be shown to be right when you speak; you must win your case when you are being tried." Romans 3:4 GNB

Second Judgment:

- Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come," says the Lord Almighty. But who can endure the day of his coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver. Then the Lord will have men who will bring offerings in righteousness, and the offerings of Judah and Jerusalem will be acceptable to the Lord, as in days gone by, as in former years. "So I will come near to you for judgment..." Malachi 3:1-5
- And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred days; then shall the sanctuary be cleansed. Dan 8:14

- The coming of Christ as our high priest to the most holy place, for the cleansing of the sanctuary, brought to view in Daniel 8:14; the coming of the Son of man to the Ancient of days, as presented in Daniel 7:13; and the coming of the Lord to His temple, foretold by Malachi, are descriptions of the same event; and this is also represented by the coming of the bridegroom to the marriage, described by Christ in the parable of the ten virgins, of Matthew 25. {FLB 207.4}
- Jesus's work in the Heavenly Sanctuary to determine (judge):
 - Who has trusted Him and given Him access to their hearts
 - What residual elements of sin remain to be removed in order to perfect them for the resurrection and second coming

Third Judgment:

Then I saw a great white throne and him who was seated on it...And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Another book was opened, which is the book of life. The dead were judged according to what they had done as recorded in the books. Revelation 20:11,12

THURSDAY

No More Tears or Pain

Are you looking forward to no more tears and pain? How is this achieved? Is it achieved by memory erasure?

Do you see justice in this restoration?

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, "When the voice of God..." What happens in the character of those people?

Read second paragraph, "The great controversy is ended..." what happens if we sever this tie?

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

PODCAST: Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.

MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

The Remedy Psalms is complete and online and will soon be updated to the free app.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

November 24, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Aachen Germany.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

2019 Q3 The Least of These: Lesson 12 To Love Mercy

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, “As we have seen...” No doubt God is concerned for the poor and oppressed, and we also should be concerned for them.

But I have some questions—do we separate people into the poor and oppressed versus the rich and oppressor?

Does God not have concern for the abuser, the exploiter, the powerful person who takes advantage of the weak? What about King David in the case of Bathsheba and Uriah—did God have concern for Uriah and Bathsheba? Did God also have concern for David?

From God’s perspective, in that situation who was the one in the greatest need? Who was the one that needed God’s grace the most—the one in most jeopardy of losing salvation?

When we see evil and sin being perpetrated in the world today—do we not only have concern for the victims, but do we recognize the great need the perpetrators have of God’s saving grace? Do we see the perpetrators as people to hate, as enemies we should seek to punish, to harm, to war against, or do we see them as people sick in heart that need God’s remedy of love, truth, grace? Do we see them as people that need our love?

Jesus said:

“You have heard that it was said, ‘Love your neighbor and hate your enemy.’ 44 But I tell you: Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, 45 that you may be sons of your Father in heaven. He causes his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous. 46 If you love those who love you, what reward will you get? Are not even the tax collectors doing that? 47 And if you greet only your brothers, what are you doing more than others? Do not even pagans do that? 48 Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect. (Matthew 5:43-48 NIV84)

What do you hear in Jesus’ words?

Do you hear any law being described here? What kind of law is being described in the sun and rain? Design law, it isn’t about imposed rules, but about how God built reality to operate.

If you want to be part of God’s family, i.e. a child of your Father in heaven, then you have to operate in harmony with Him. You have to live in harmony with the design laws upon which God built reality to operate. Which means we have to love others; and when we trust God with the outcomes, with our lives, and we love even our enemies, then we are perfect.

Notice, Bible perfection isn't about a behavioral list of rules, it is about maturity of character, about living in harmony with God's methods of love.

thoughts?

How can we experience this? Think design laws—

- law of worship—by beholding we are changed—we cannot avoid becoming like the God we admire, worship, spend time with.
- law of truth—truth will set you free, displace lies, restore to trust and shape character
- law of love—the more you give the more you receive
- law of exertion—if you want something to get stronger you must exercise it, including exercising your trust in God

If we spend time in daily prayer, meditation of God's character, methods, principles as revealed in Scripture and nature, embracing and applying the truths as God reveals them to us we grow in Godliness, we are transformed.

Is this a salvation by works method? Absolutely not! Salvation is totally of God's origination in Christ. But we are partaking of Christ, which is our work, thus we work out our salvation with awe and trembling. In other words, Christ procured the remedy to sin, but we must actively participate by our own choices to partake and apply what Christ achieved to our own lives—i.e. the work of faith or trust.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "As was made clear in the teachings of Jesus..." thoughts?

How would you describe God's kingdom?

What would you say are the defining differences between the kingdom of God and the kingdoms of the world?

- Law of love, truth and freedom (design law) versus law of sin and death—the fear driven survival of the fittest motive which leads to selfishness, deceit and coercion—thus leading to imposed laws.

Which kingdom does would these statements fall into:

- The end justifies the means

- Might is right
- The strong survive
- Do unto others before they do unto you
- Fake it til you make it
- The law requires punishment—therefore sin must be punished
- Justice requires God inflict punishment upon sinners
- The Sabbath is an arbitrary test of obedience

If you wanted to get people who are living for God's kingdom to leave God's kingdom and start living for Satan's kingdom what might you do? How might you get people to do that?

- Straight temptations of drugs, alcohol, sex, gambling etc.(David), financial pressures leading to stealing, embezzling etc.
- Disillusionment—pain, suffering, loss, discouragement—consider Elijah was tempted
- What about promoting a Godly goal by practicing Satan's methods? Consider the goal of bringing people to accept Jesus as Savior—a Godly goal—but what about torturing, imprisoning or killing those who don't?

Do you think the majority of people who have abused others in the name of their god, thought they were doing wrong?

Why would they think it is right to punish people who break some religious rule or dogma? Because of the lie that people believe that God's law functions like human law, or God's kingdom functions like human kingdoms and justice requires punishment.

Where is the line drawn in societies between establishing laws to protect the innocent and not violating the freedoms of people?

Read last paragraph, "Those who have power..." What do you hear? Did EGW advocate killing slave-owners in order to free slaves? Or did she advocate not obeying laws that discriminate and violated God's law? Do you see how Satan could take this principle of love—which would oppose slavery and would refuse to obey laws to return slaves that have escaped, and try to get good people to seek to kill others in order to obtain one's goals?

This is all about boundaries, methods, principles—one can have the right motive, but use the wrong methods and the result will not be health, but destruction.

For instance, the doctors who treated George Washington's pneumonia had the right motives, they wanted to save his life. But they had the wrong method, bleeding and leaching, and even though they were trying to save, they actually caused more harm. Because one cannot promote health or healing by violating God's design laws.

So Paul writes:

By the grace God has given me, I laid a foundation as an expert builder, and someone else is building on it. But each one should be careful how he builds. 11 For no one can lay any foundation other than the one already laid, which is Jesus Christ. 12 If any man builds on this foundation using gold, silver, costly stones, wood, hay or straw, 13 his work will be shown for what it is, because the Day will bring it to light. It will be revealed with fire, and the fire will test the quality of each man's work. 14 If what he has built survives, he will receive his reward. 15 If it is burned up, he will suffer loss; he himself will be saved, but only as one escaping through the flames. (1Corinthians 3:10-15)

What do you understand this means?

Do you hear design law being described—reality—how things actually work?

Do you hear the difference between right motive, the builder who with good intentions and heart to help builds, but if they build with the wrong materials then what they are doing, even with good intention, doesn't last because it isn't built in harmony with how reality works?

This is a warning to pastors, teachers, parents, in how we teach and influence others, how we help to assist people in building their characters. We may have good motives, seek to help, but if we use wrong methods then we may very well suffer great loss as we see those who we influenced lost because they never internalized the truth, never grew in harmony with God's design for life.

For instance, raising children in strict indoctrination to memorize certain rules, doctrines and live by a code of behavioral conduct, all motivated by love for God and your children, longing for their salvation, but which results in the child becoming a person who lives in fear, doesn't know how to think for themselves, cannot discern truth from lies, and thus lives a zealous religious life but never experiences a renewed heart.

Or parents who in love become enablers to their children's addictions—always bailing them out, rescuing them from consequences—because they love their children, but the children never learn from their bad choices.

From The Remedy:

¹⁰By using the wisdom, insight and understanding that God has given me regarding his plan for rebuilding the human heart and mind, I laid a foundation in harmony with his original design, and others are now building on it. ¹¹For Jesus Christ is the only true foundation—the real source of God's character, methods and principles—and no one can replace him. ¹²One can build on this foundation using pure, holy and costly materials, or using ordinary, common and cheap materials, ¹³but ultimately, the work will reveal itself for what it is, because the day on which Christ returns will bring everything into the light of truth. On that day, the quality of a person's character-building will be revealed by the fiery glory of God's presence—for only those whose characters are in harmony with God's character will be able to stand in the fiery presence of his life-giving glory.¹⁴ And if those whom the builders have worked to build up in Christ survive, the builders will be rewarded with happiness and joy.¹⁵ If, however, the builder's work is burned up, the builder will suffer great sorrow and loss: the builder will be saved, but only as one whose misunderstandings, errors, misconceptions and mistakes are consumed in the fire of God's truth and love.

MONDAY

What do you think of the title—Compassion Fatigue?

This is another of Satan's strategies. If he can't get Godly people to choose sin. If he can't get them disillusioned. If he can't get them to use the methods of this world. Then, he will try to overwhelm them with good missions, responsibilities, endeavors, projects that burns them out and removes them from the playing field.

This occurs because Satan tricks them into violating one of God's design laws—the law of restoration. Once a finite being expends a resource, we must rest and recover before we have more to expend. If we don't we burn out and eventually die:

- After using energy we must eat, drink, rest
- We must sleep
- We must get a weekly Sabbath rest
- Jesus took time away from the needy masses to rest and recover

Another trick of Satan is to get people to take upon themselves burdens that are not theirs—to seek to relieve burdens from another person that should be left with that person, whether literally or in imagination.

Many parents worry themselves by taking upon themselves the stress of their adult children's marriage problems, or financial problems, or work problems, or drug problems etc. Not focusing on creating opportunities for the adult to engage in healing and growth, but actually feeling the weight of the stress and being burdened with the problem as if it was theirs to fix.

This not only injures the person taking upon themselves unnecessary burdens, but to the degree they do alleviate the burden from the other person they rob that other person of opportunity for growth and advancement. Strength comes from exertion and if we take on others burdens, solve their problems etc. then they never exercise their abilities and they are stunted in their growth. So, this is not love—love will educate, teach, encourage, cheer, inspire, but ultimately leave burdens and responsibilities with the person whose they actually are.

Another trick is people who fail to differentiate pain from harm or injury and seek to relieve pain, or allow themselves to be mentally or emotionally distressed by someone else's pain, when in fact that pain is therapeutic.

The law of brokenness or healing: Once there is brokenness—there are no pain free options. Many fail to realize this and thus when they see someone in pain, they don't ask, is this harmful, or is this merely painful but actually good for them. A person who is doing physical therapy, weight bearing for the first time in 8 weeks after a fracture leg, will feel discomfort and pain—if you failed to understand the situation and simply heard the cry of pain, and with all compassion, you intervene, ask them to sit and you do the exercises for them—so they won't hurt—do you help them or hurt them?

While this is easy to see with physical wounds, it is not as easy to see with emotional wounds. Many people seek to relieve emotional pain, when the most healthy action is not to relieve it, but to encourage the person to wrestle through it and resolve the injury or wounds causing it. But this requires we tolerate the pain we see our loved one in.

This is why it is well known that doctors don't treat their own families the best, because they are too vulnerable to over empathize and thus not be able to give the best care, because they cannot tolerate the pain the person will necessarily experience.

The lesson points this out in the third paragraph, "There have been many examples in which well-intentioned people have caused damage to other people's lives by trying to help."

What is required beyond compassion in order to actually help?

A knowledge of reality—an understanding of design law, how God designed life to operate, and then an accurate diagnosis, what is wrong in that person's life that is causing their problems. Compassion without understanding, merely seeking to relieve pain, is like numbing a person's hand while it is touching a hot stove—relieving pain, but causing much more damage.

Read last paragraph, "Expectations:..." What is the difference between creating opportunity and demanding equal outcomes for all people?

Do you see the problem of promoting policies with the goal of demanding equal outcome?

While all people are of equal moral worth, as human beings, as children of God—not all people have equal abilities, equal desires, equal vision, equal motivation, equal aspiration, equal tenacity, equal drive, equal willingness to work, train, push oneself.

Some people will be better artists, musicians, athletes, mathematicians, carpenters etc. than others. One of the corruptions in society is the idea that we should have equal outcomes. In some school systems this desire for equal outcomes has led to teachers being instructed to refrain from praising the exceptional paper, performance, presentation for fear of hurting the feelings of the child who didn't do an exceptional performance; or giving participation awards so every child gets an award.

While the value of a person is not measured by their success in any endeavor, and we should make clear to children that they are loved for who they are and not what they do—we must also make clear that being loved for who they are doesn't develop their abilities—if they want to succeed in life they must apply themselves and develop their abilities. The law of exertion is how reality works, hard work does reap benefits.

TUESDAY

The first paragraph states, “God loves a cheerful giver” quoting 2Corinthians 9:7.

What does this mean?

What is the difference between God loves a cheerful giver and God loves a giver?

Is there a difference in giving cheerfully and giving under obligation? What is the difference?

Does God love some people more than others? If I give cheerfully does God have more love in His heart for me than for the person who gives begrudgingly?

Or is this describing a design law, how things actually work or function? God ability to send His love, share His love, imbue His love, dispense His love requires hearts open to receive and share it. Thus God is able to have His love flow into and through the cheerful giver because that person's heart is open to receive and share or give away more and more of what God has given them, but the person who gives under obligation is not practicing love—their hearts are not in tune with God and thus God cannot pour His love into their hearts.

Thus God loves a cheerful giver.

Consider the garden hose on your home and the fire hydrant in front of your house. If both are opened up full, which gives away more? Which receives more to it? The more you give the more you receive. If we understand the water as a metaphor for love, God loves the cheerful giver, God's love flows more fully into and through the cheerful giver. The resentful giver doesn't love and even though they may give under obligation their hearts are closed restricting God's love, thus God can't “love” them functionally.

This is how our ministry is designed to function. Many of you may know, that while we are a 501 C 3 not for profit ministry with the IRS, we do not do fund raisers. We have been practicing the principle of giving away the materials that God has blessed us with and people respond in love to give to support us in doing this. We give away:

- multiple DVD sets (4 different sets)
- Could It Be This Simple? here each week and at various conventions
- The Remedy as a free app and free audio

- Bible study guides
- Free access to all our online resources
- We give away my various books to pastors, church leaders, schools, libraries.
- Our training and equipping course is subsidized by our ministry, meaning while there is a sign-up cost to attendees, that cost does not cover our expenses for putting this on.
- At the General Conference in 2015 we gave away approximately (and I don't recall the exact number) 40,000 DVDs, 30,000 Bible Study Guides, 30,000 books, and other resources. There were three football field size rooms for the exhibits and we were the only one giving everything away. We had leaders of various other ministries coming up to us and asking us how are we able to afford to do this. And we explained God's economy, we give away and people who receive this material are moved to give back.
- We are currently scheduled to be at the GC in Indianapolis in 2020, please keep this in your prayers that God will keep this opportunity open for us. And we are working and planning for the materials we will be giving away. Last time we didn't do any fund raising, but we did let our supporters know of this opportunity and we heard back that many were glad we told them because they would have been disappointed if we didn't give them a chance to support us with their donations. So, I am letting you know again, we have a booth at the 2020 GC and are currently building our stock of materials to take and give away in case any of you want to support us in this. Our goal is to give more away than we did last time!

The bottom green section asks, "Besides giving money, even generously, what are other ways that we should manifest a generous spirit?"

WEDNESDAY

Blessed are the peacemakers—what does this mean?

How can we promote peace?

What is the only way for real peace to be experienced?

Can we ever have real peace without love and trust?

Can we get love and trust by treaties, laws, rules, force, threats of punishment?

Can God get love and trust, and thus eternal peace in His universe by punishing the wrong doers?

- Does that mean there is no punishment for sin? If I say: Parents don't inflict lung cancer on their children who smoke. Is that the same as saying smoking doesn't lead to lung cancer?
- Saying God doesn't inflict pain, suffering, death—i.e. punishment for sin, is not the same as saying there is no punishment for sin. Gal 6:8 those who sow to the carnal nature from that nature reap destruction.
- This only happens because God maintains and sustains His laws—He will not change His laws, thus "The sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law." (1 Co 15:56 NIV84).

How does God get love and trust and thus eternal peace?

How do we apply God's principles in a wicked world?

Do peacemakers ever use force? What kind of force? Restraining force—absolutely, what is the goal of restraining force?

What do you think of gunmaker Colt coming out with a pistol in 1873 called the Peacemaker?

Then there is this quote, unknown source, “God made some men big and others small, but Sam Colt made all men the same size.”

What is implied? That bullies exist in the world and dominate and abuse the weak and the Peacemaker would diminish the disparity between the strong and the weak and thus decreased the abuse of others.

Did this work—did the development of the revolver and its wide distribution result in greater peace? No, it just changed who the bullies are. It has always been and always will about character!

We can never get peace with greater might and power, better weapons, only by dying to fear and selfishness in the heart and restoring God's love and character within!

Do you agree—we can't get peace with weapons? Then what did Jesus mean when He said:

Do not suppose that I have come to bring peace to the earth. I did not come to bring peace, but a sword. For I have come to turn “ ‘a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law—a man's enemies will be the members of his own household.’ Mt 10:34-36 NIV84

What is going on? What is being described? With what law lens to you understand this through?

- What is the problem that causes division, conflict? Selfishness in the heart
- Then what is Jesus saying He didn't come to bring peace but a sword?
- Peace with what and what kind of sword?
- He didn't come to bring peace with selfishness but the sword of truth to cut it out of our hearts and minds

From The Remedy:

"Don't think that I have come to make peace with a selfish world. I have not come to bring peace with selfishness, but a sword to cut selfishness out of the hearts of people.³⁵ I have come to cut dysfunctional family ties: to free a son from selfish loyalty to his father's ambitions and feuds, to sever a daughter from the control of an oppressive and manipulative mother, to cut through the fear and hostility a daughter-in-law has toward her mother-in-law.³⁶ A person's worst enemies are often members of their own family.

The last paragraph points out that Jesus said we should not be angry or hold grudges—why not?

Is there a design law involved—a law on how reality functions, something that is predictable and reproducible?

What happens, every time, in the heart of a person who refuses to forgive, who holds grudges?

What happens, every time, in the heart of the person who forgives?

This is the law of forgiveness—healing only comes through forgiveness. If we hold resentment and bitterness we cannot avoid the damaging consequences to our own characters and bodies—such attitudes activate stress pathways and cause increased inflammation and lead to more disease and earlier death.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “Solomon wrote...” What is the way we go about achieving the goal of speaking for the oppressed?

Who determines who is being oppressed? What is the standard?

In some cultures, women are not allowed to be educated, are traded or sold to men, have no say in whom they are to marry, are used as baby making machines—is this oppression?

Would the leadership of those cultures agree that they are oppressing their women? Who is right, what standard is used?

What about cultures who say women are forbidden from being in leadership roles, is that a form of oppression? What would the leaders who teach women are forbidden from ordination say? Would they agree that they are oppressing women? What is right, what standard is used?

What is the standard? What about the golden rule, “Do unto others as you would have them do unto you”? Is this a good standard? Or would even this golden rule require us to understand the principles of life, the protocols upon which life is built in order not to oppress or injure others?

For instance, what would the doctors who treated George Washington want done to them had they had pneumonia? They were applying the golden rule, but they were injuring because they didn't understand reality—God's design for life.

How many in religious circles do what they think is good, believing they are following God's will, but because they don't understand God's character or His design laws actually harm?

FRIDAY

Read first two paragraphs, “Search heaven and earth...” What is this truth that none other is more powerful than? The law of love!

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

The Remedy Psalms is complete and online and will soon be updated to the free app.

September 13,14, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Gentlebrook Intermediary Care Facility, Hartville, OH.

September 21, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Crossroads Community Church in Georgetown Delaware.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

November 24, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Aachen Germany.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

2019 Q3 The Least of These: Lesson 13

A Community of Servants

by Dr. Wendell Moses

Laws of the Mind

1. Law of Love: We are happiest / most complete when we are serving others.
 - We are designed for service not self-service.
2. Law of Worship: by beholding we become changed
 - (we become like what we focus our attention and thoughts)
3. What we believe we speak
 - (We can't help from expressing what we think / believe.)
4. Thoughts are strengthened / encouraged as we speak them.
5. The mind adapts to what it dwells upon: bigger ideas vs smaller
 - (The effect of thinking about God vs thinking about ourselves.)
6. Law of Giving: We get more when we give more.
 - (Our capacity increases as we utilize our abilities to give away what we have.
 - ♦ Law of exertion
 - ♦ Law of Love
7. Law of Rest (Sabbath Rest): An expenditure of energy requires a period of rest and recuperation.
8. First Impressions are more lasting than later ones.

Design Laws are liberating / Imposed Laws are restrictive.

Memory Text: "Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering, for He who promised is faithful. And let us consider one another in order to stir up love and good works." Hebrews 10:23, 24 NKJV

Read memory verse in various versions. What does the last sentence mean? The church as a community of servants.

Read the second paragraph. What is the purpose of us individually?

- As a church?
- Is it any different?

SABBATH

Read second paragraph "The temptation is that when we . . ." What is our purpose as individual humans? As a church, is it any different?

What prevents me from being the person that I should be and functioning as I should?

- Disease of sin
- Fear
- Selfishness
- Distraction

What prevents my church congregation from being what it should be?

“A healthy tree bears good fruit, but a poor tree bears bad fruit. A healthy tree cannot bear bad fruit, and a poor tree cannot bear good fruit. And any tree that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown in the fire. So then, you will know the false prophets by what they do.” Matthew 7:17-20 (GNT)

There are 3 statements here:

1. How much of the time is spent on the 1st vs the 2nd vs the 3rd?
2. the second often engenders fear
3. the 3rd often diverts our attention to others away from diagnosing ourselves.

Typically the force of a paragraph is the first statement or sentence.

- We remember ideas via 1,2,3,4
- #1 & #4
- #2
- #3 is least remembered

The devil works for us to remember and concentrate on #3 & #4 and not get the idea of the statement!

The Law was given for myself, My function/abilities are given for others. Often too much of my time is spent in applying the wrong instrument to myself vs others.

SUNDAY

Agents of Change

The purpose of the church

This is not evolution; This is restoration! Our culture is so inundated with the principles of self and evolution that we see (our paradigm of vision) in an evolutionary manner.

Read the first paragraph. The church was different in what way from what came before?

Metaphors for God's people

- sacrifice
- Christ's body
- ambassadors
- perfume

Each of the entities has an inherent function because of what or who they are.

Read the 3rd paragraph: “Each of these images has action. . .” Most of our angst, challenges, problems as a church body revolve around how we, personally, do not approve of how someone else is acting / functioning / interacting with us.

- “Not my circus; Not my monkeys”

Read the 4th paragraph: “But they also can be considered . . .” An embassy under international law:

- What is it’s purpose?
- What would happen if ?
- Terrorist activities
- subterfuge
- spying

An embassy under international law:

- What is it’s purpose?
- What would happen if ?
 - Terrorist activities
 - subterfuge
 - spying

In this world that is built on force and imposed functional law, those activities give the perpetrators an advantage.

It destroys relationships, purpose and function in a design law construct. “From that sin they reap death. . .”

“God uses us to make the knowledge about Christ spread everywhere like a sweet fragrance. For we are like a sweet-smelling incense offered by Christ to God, which spreads among those who are being saved and those who are being lost. For those who are being lost, it is a deadly stench that kills; but for those who are being saved, it is a fragrance that brings life.” 2 Corinthians 2:14-16 (GNT)

Talks about stench vs fragrance of life... What is the source?

“For we are like a sweet-smelling incense offered by Christ to God, which spreads among those who are being saved and those who are being lost. For those who are being lost, it is a deadly stench that kills; but for those who are being saved, it is a fragrance that brings life. Who, then, is capable for such a task? We are not like so many others, who handle God's message as if it were cheap merchandise; but because God has sent us, we speak with sincerity in his presence, as servants of Christ.” 2 Corinthians 2:15-17 (GNT)

It is by conversion that we become God’s messengers of His grace and peace.

- John 3:5 We cannot see the Kingdom of God without being born again.
- John 3:8 We must be influenced by the Spirit.

MONDAY

A Servant Remnant

Read Exodus 32:7 – 10 And they closed the Bible and said, “God said it, I believe it, and that is all there is to it.”

“So the Lord changed his mind and did not bring on his people the disaster he had threatened.” Exodus 32:14

How do you understand what we have just written?

Does God know the end from the beginning?

Israel's majestic God does not lie or change his mind. He is not a human being—he does not change his mind." 1 Samuel 15:29 (GNT)

"Remember what happened long ago; acknowledge that I alone am God and that there is no one else like me. From the beginning I predicted the outcome; long ago I foretold what would happen. I said that my plans would never fail, that I would do everything I intended to do." Isaiah 46:9, 10 (GNT)

"Remember the first events, because I am God, and there is no other. I am God, and there's no one like me. From the beginning I revealed the end. From long ago I told you things that had not yet happened, saying, "My plan will stand, and I'll do everything I intended to do." Isaiah 46:9-10 (GW)

"My word, which comes from my mouth, is like the rain and snow. It will not come back to me without results. It will accomplish whatever I want and achieve whatever I send it to do." Isaiah 55:11 (GW)

Who wrote this account of the story?

- Moses
- This is what it felt like, seemed like, occurred from Moses' perspective while living through the story first hand.

This is a "funny story" about Moses arguing with God. It is my understanding that this is a test of Moses.

What is the purpose of a test?

- Verify knowledge / ability
- Diagnose a condition
- Motivate a student to study
- Teach a student something about the material to be learned.
- Prepare student for future milestones or tests

Is a test ever for the examiner's benefit? Who benefitted from this test of Moses?

- Moses
- COI
- Universe
- God (Did God's kingdom add some more evidence regarding God's ability to save and to heal a broken human being?)

We could also discuss similarly with regard to the test of Job.

Read the last paragraph: "As Moses interceded for . . ." and Ezekiel 20:21,22

Why did God not follow through with His threat?

- Reputation
- That is not like God!

TUESDAY

Reaching Souls

Are our actions tools to be used to influence people for the kingdom?

Read second and third paragraph: “Christ’s method alone will give. . .” Why did Christ “use this method”? Was it to evangelize his listeners?

The last sentence of the fourth paragraph says: “In short, one of the best ways to reach others with our message is to minister to their needs.”

Is a caring church using a method when we care for others? Is this not what we are?

Look at the metaphors that Christ used for descriptions of his followers:

- does salt use saltiness to reach others
- does a candle use light to influence its area of illumination?
- Does a tree bear fruit to influence those who eat to come closer to the tree?
- Does a shepherd do good things for the sheep to influence them to follow him?
- Do you wear a wedding garment (dress up in appropriate clothing for the occasion or location) to reach others about you or your message? Is it not to honor the wedding party? To make their day complete?
- Do you become someone you aren’t when you wear these clothes?

Read the two texts in the middle of the page (1 Peter 2:12 and Philippians 2:15).

Read the fifth paragraph: “With a broader understanding of God’s good news, . . .)

Read Isaiah 58:6, 7 “The kind of fasting I want is this: “

Read Luke 4:14, 15 “Then Jesus returned to Galilee, and the power of the Holy Spirit was with him.”

WEDNESDAY

Grace Within the Church

Read the first paragraph on the page: “At the beginning of the book. . .”

Texts: “What nation? . . .”

“What great nation ever had their gods as near to them as the Lord our God is near to us whenever we pray to him? Or what other great nation has such fair laws and rules as all these teachings I am giving you today?” Deuteronomy 4:7-8 (GW)

“That is why you are great, Lord God. There is no one like you, and there is no other god except you, as we have heard with our own ears. Who is like your people Israel? It is the one nation on earth that God came to free in order to make its people his own, to make his name known, and to do great and wonderful things for them. You forced nations and their gods out of the way of your people, whom you freed from Egypt to be your own. You created the people of Israel to be your people forever. And you, Lord, became their God.” 2 Samuel 7:22-24 (GW)

“Who is like your people Israel? It is the one nation on earth that God came to free in order to make its people his own, to make your name known, and to do great and wonderful things for them.” 1 Chronicles 17:21 (GW)

Without the influence of divine grace, education will prove no real advantage; the learner becomes proud, vain, and bigoted. But that education which is received under the ennobling, refining influence of the great Teacher, will elevate man in the scale of moral value with God. It will enable him to subdue pride and passion, and to walk humbly before God, as dependent upon him for every capability, every opportunity, and every privilege. {CE 42.2}

“If we would follow Jesus, we cannot restrict our interest and affection to ourselves and our own families; we cannot give our time and attention to temporal matters, and forget the eternal interests of those around us. I have been shown that it is the result of our selfishness that there are not one hundred young men, where now there is one, engaged in earnest labor for the salvation of their fellow-men.” CE. 43.2

“Women can be the instruments of righteousness, rendering holy service. It was Mary that first preached a risen Jesus.... If there were twenty women where now there is one, who would make this holy mission their cherished work, we should see many more converted to the truth. The refining, softening influence of Christian women is needed in the great work of preaching the truth.”—The Review and Herald, January 2, 1879. {Ev 471.5}

“Christ is saying to us, “O ye of little faith.” Our hearts must be worked by the Holy Spirit. We must believe that the Lord wants us to come to Him just as we are, without any delay, and in faith call upon Him to work for us. The Lord desires to manifest His power among His people. Where there is now one at work there should be more than a thousand, not ordained ministers, but men and women of faith and prayer, who can work for God....” {5MR 336.2}

THURSDAY

Encourage Each Other to Good Works

How do you get courage?

There are seven major factors that contribute to rate of teen car accidents.

- Driver inexperience. ...
- Distracted driving. ...
- Not wearing seat belts. ...
- Drinking and driving. ...
- Reckless driving. ...
- Driving with teen passengers. ...
- Texting and driving.

Tefft, B.C., Williams, A.F. & Grabowski, J.G. (2012). Teen Driver Risk in Relation to Age and Number of Passengers. AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety. Compared to driving with no passengers, a 16- or 17-year-old driver's risk of death per mile driven:

- Increases 44% when carrying one passenger younger than 21 (and no older passengers)
- Doubles when carrying two passengers younger than 21 (and no older passengers)
- Quadruples when carrying three or more passengers younger than 21 (and no older passengers)
- Decreases 62% when a passenger aged 35 or older is in the vehicle

How do you know you are doing God's will? Results?

And thine ears shall hear a word behind thee, saying, "This is the way, walk ye in it, when ye turn to the right hand, and when ye turn to the left." Isaiah 30:21 (KJV)

Don't be stupid like a horse or a mule, which must be controlled with a bit and bridle to make it submit. Psalms 32:9 (GNT)

You people who live in Jerusalem will not weep any more. The Lord is compassionate, and when you cry to him for help, he will answer you. The Lord will make you go through hard times, but he himself will be there to teach you, and you will not have to search for him any more. If you wander off the road to the right or the left, you will hear his voice behind you saying, "Here is the road. Follow it. Isaiah 30:19-21 (GNT)

You have to be quiet enough to hear his whisper.

God voice is seldom in the fire, storms, or earthquakes.

Discussions in this class have often touted the Integrative Approach

- Bible
- Science
- Reason/Experience

FRIDAY

Further Thoughts

Read comments and highlighted section.

Read various highlighted areas of the Teachers Comments

New Lesson for this coming three months: Ezra & Nehemiah

A Sermon to Myself

Thanatopsis

by William Cullen Bryant

To him who in the love of Nature holds
Communion with her visible forms, she speaks
A various language; for his gayer hours
She has a voice of gladness, and a smile
And eloquence of beauty, and she glides
Into his darker musings, with a mild
And healing sympathy, that steals away
Their sharpness, ere he is aware. When thoughts
Of the last bitter hour come like a blight
Over thy spirit, and sad images
Of the stern agony, and shroud, and pall,
And breathless darkness, and the narrow house,
Make thee to shudder, and grow sick at heart;—
Go forth, under the open sky, and list
To Nature's teachings, while from all around—
Earth and her waters, and the depths of air—
Comes a still voice—Yet a few days, and thee
The all-beholding sun shall see no more
In all his course; nor yet in the cold ground,
Where thy pale form was laid, with many tears,
Nor in the embrace of ocean, shall exist
Thy image. Earth, that nourished thee, shall claim
Thy growth, to be resolved to earth again,
And, lost each human trace, surrendering up
Thine individual being, shalt thou go
To mix for ever with the elements,
To be a brother to the insensible rock
And to the sluggish clod, which the rude swain
Turns with his share, and treads upon. The oak
Shall send his roots abroad, and pierce thy mould.
Yet not to thine eternal resting-place
Shalt thou retire alone, nor couldst thou wish
Couch more magnificent. Thou shalt lie down
With patriarchs of the infant world—with kings,
The powerful of the earth—the wise, the good,
Fair forms, and hoary seers of ages past,
All in one mighty sepulchre. The hills
Rock-ribbed and ancient as the sun,—the vales
Stretching in pensive quietness between;
The venerable woods—rivers that move
In majesty, and the complaining brooks

That make the meadows green; and, poured round all,
Old Ocean's gray and melancholy waste,—
Are but the solemn decorations all
Of the great tomb of man. The golden sun,
The planets, all the infinite host of heaven,
Are shining on the sad abodes of death,
Through the still lapse of ages. All that tread
The globe are but a handful to the tribes
That slumber in its bosom.—Take the wings
Of morning, pierce the Barcan wilderness,
Or lose thyself in the continuous woods
Where rolls the Oregon, and hears no sound,
Save his own dashings—yet the dead are there:
And millions in those solitudes, since first
The flight of years began, have laid them down
In their last sleep—the dead reign there alone.
So shalt thou rest, and what if thou withdraw
In silence from the living, and no friend
Take note of thy departure? All that breathe
Will share thy destiny. The gay will laugh
When thou art gone, the solemn brood of care
Plod on, and each one as before will chase
His favorite phantom; yet all these shall leave
Their mirth and their employments, and shall come
And make their bed with thee. As the long train
Of ages glide away, the sons of men,
The youth in life's green spring, and he who goes
In the full strength of years, matron and maid,
The speechless babe, and the gray-headed man—
Shall one by one be gathered to thy side,
By those, who in their turn shall follow them.
So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan, which moves
To that mysterious realm, where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not, like the quarry-slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave,
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.

The Sabbath

So live each day of the week, that on Sabbath we “can be about our Father’s business.” So rushed from our week we are unable to commune with our maker, help our fellow human beings, be restored with being a servant.

What would a Sabbath look like if we truly were being God-like in our actions, communication, and thoughts?

Jesus “worked on the Sabbath”

"The kind of fasting I want is this: Remove the chains of oppression and the yoke of injustice, and let the oppressed go free. Share your food with the hungry and open your homes to the homeless poor. Give clothes to those who have nothing to wear, and do not refuse to help your own relatives." Isaiah 58:6-7 (GNT)

The Lord says, "If you treat the Sabbath as sacred and do not pursue your own interests on that day; if you value my holy day and honor it by not traveling, working, or talking idly on that day, then you will find the joy that comes from serving me. I will make you honored all over the world, and you will enjoy the land I gave to your ancestor, Jacob. I, the Lord, have spoken." Isaiah 58:13-14 (GNT with Deuterocanon)

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 1

Making Sense of History: Zerubbabel & Ezra

by Lori Atkins

SABBATH

Full disclosure...I did have to brush up on my minor prophet knowledge this week, and still have a long way to go, so hopefully we have some Old Testament scholars and experts here in class with us today to help us dig into Zerubbabel and Ezra and the Isrealite's return from Babylonian captivity and the process of rebuilding the temple in Jerusalem. We are also going to spend a bunch of time today in the book Prophets and Kings, which discusses all these events in detail and offers what I found to be some remarkable and noteworthy insights...starting in chapter 45-ish and continuing on through about chapter 50. If we have any folks watching who have to teach this lesson in 2 weeks, I highly recommend studying those chapters. I also a bunch of quotes at the end of my notes, so if I end up without enough material to fill the hour I will probably just end up reading those to you because they are so profound.

The quarterly's introduction says this about the 2 subjects of this study:

"Ezra and Nehemiah were exceptional, God-centered, Word-oriented, and Spirit-led leaders who deeply desired that God's people prosper and that His name be uplifted and proclaimed worldwide. Their lives modeled what God can do through dedicated, faithful servant leaders."

Wow...what incredible legacies and don't we all hope and pray that the same can be said about each of us them?!

"Life's discouragements are opportunities for change. Disappointments may help us focus on essentials and accelerate our spiritual growth, as we obtain victory in each crisis through God's empowerment."

"Ezra correctly understood that the only power to change comes through diligently searching, comprehending, and internalizing the Scriptures."

Why is that the only way we get the power to change?

"The key theological themes of these two books are God's providence, faithfulness, and covenant. God fulfilled His promises, even though His people were narrow-minded, disoriented, distracted, and stubborn. Through His servants, He called them from their state of lethargy to revival and reformation. The work of restoration and reform carried on by the returned exiles, under the leadership of Zerubbabel, Ezra, and Nehemiah, presents a picture of a work of spiritual restoration that is to be wrought in the closing days of this earth's history. The remnant of Israel were a feeble people, exposed to the ravages of their enemies; but through them God purposed to preserve in the earth a knowledge of Himself and of His law. They were the guardians of the true worship, the keepers of the holy oracles."—Ellen G. White, Prophets and Kings, p. 677.

The introduction also rightly points out that several parts of these 2 Old Testament books are written thematically rather than chronologically, which can sometimes be confusing...so we are going to start out by just laying out the event highlights and chronology of both books to hopefully provide a good foundation for moving forward in our study.

Simplified Literary Structure of Ezra:

1. Cyrus' decree leads to Return #1 from Babylon to Jerusalem.
 - a. In 537/536 BC, Zerubbabel and Joshua, at God's leading, bring back to Judah the 1st group of Israelites (Ezra 1:1 - 4:5).
 - b. God's temple in Jerusalem is rebuilt under the reign of several different foreign kings (Ezra 4:6 - 6:22).
2. 2nd Return from Babylon to Jerusalem following the decree of Artaxerxes.
 - a. In 457 BC, Ezra, at God's leading, brings back to Judah the 2nd group of Israelites (Ezra 7:1 - 8:36).
 - b. Ezra's Reforms (Ezra 9:1 - 10:44).

Simplified Literary Structure of Nehemiah:

1. Letters of endorsement from King Artaxerxes lead to 3rd Return
 - a. 444 BC, at God's leading, Nehemiah brings the 3rd group of Israelites back from Babylon (Neh 1:1 - 2:10).
 - b. The wall of Jerusalem is rebuilt (Neh 2:11 - 7:3)
2. Study of God's Word, as well as revival and reformation in Israel.
 - a. Returnees are enumerated. They dedicate themselves to God, the study of His Scriptures, and doing His will. Returnees celebrate the dedication of Jerusalem's new wall and regain national autonomy (Neh 7:4 - 12:47).
 - b. Nehemiah's final reforms (Neh 13:1 - 13:31).

Hopefully that brief outline of the basic historical highlights and timelines can help give us a bit of a framework and avoid some confusion we study these two Old Testament prophets this quarter. As the lesson title suggests, how do we “make sense of this history”...this story of the Israelites falling into Babylonian captivity and their subsequent return and revival?

Have you heard the familiar quote, “Those who cannot remember the past...or learn from history...are destined (some say condemned) to repeat it”?

What does that mean...that we should have paid more attention and done better in our high school history classes?

What about for these Israelites...what was their “history”...how did they get here...and what should they be learning from it?

- Idol worship
- Heathen/pagan practices/human sacrifice
- Intermarrying/fertility cults
- Adultery/covenant betrayal

Apostasy (def: the abandonment or renunciation of a religious or political belief) - many times associated with more relaxed/liberal/less “conservative” or a move away from rigid religious practices/beliefs...but is this actually true?

Were the Jews in the OT given a rigid set of guidelines to abide by?

What happened to them? Did they suffer with apostasy?

What about in the days of Christ? Did the Jews have a rigid set of guidelines to abide by?

What happened, did it result in apostasy?

What about the Apostolic church - did they have a rigid set of rules and doctrines, or was there great love and acceptance of a wide variety of theologies and practices?

What about during the Dark Ages, rigid rules?

Was there apostasy? Are you seeing any correlations?

So how did apostasy enter the apostolic church...how did they go from “the Way” to the church we see in the Dark Ages?

The greatest divergence of the church occurred in the 4th century when Constantine converted and called for the counsel of Nicaea. This counsel did not occur at a religious organization - why? Because up to this point in church history there were no church buildings. This counsel occurred at Constantine’s Palace and Constantine seduced church leaders and a huge list of problems began:

- Distorted ideas of God as God came to be viewed through the lens of paganism
- The church began to model itself structurally after Rome with an authoritarian head, thus misrepresenting God's character as authoritarian in nature
- Creeds were developed as tests of fellowship, orthodoxy of thought began and thought police were established, thus misrepresenting God as dictatorial, petty, and arbitrary
- Church buildings began to be built to model after Rome, designed to undermine thinking and reasoning and instead overwhelm with a sense of awe and the mystical
- A division between royalty and commoners, which was part of the Roman culture, entered the church with clergy and laity, undermining the priesthood of believers
- The church building elevated the clergy, modeled after the emperor of Rome, on an elevated platform, an elevated seat and pulpit – all designed to communicate a separation of rank, and instill a top down, authoritarian idea regarding church and God
- The church authority became more rigid, establishing rules, requirements for behavior and tests of fellowship
- Membership in the church became the new political party and only those in right standing with the church could wield political power or even be crowned king

Then, once these practices became entrenched over hundreds of years, they became accepted as holy and orthodox. (“And he said to them: ‘You have a fine way of setting aside the commands of God in order to observe your own traditions!’” MK 7:9)

Do we still struggle with such problems today?

Has the reformation really freed us from all the infection and these distorted ideas about God and the way He runs His universe?

Which direction do we see our own church denomination moving in?

Don't forget what we are talking about here...learning from history or being doomed to repeat it...

So while the Israelites were moving further and further into paganism and away from God...what was God doing?

How did they end up being conquered and exiled to Babylon?

Wooing, warning, reproving, disciplining, thundering, threatening

- Isaiah, Jeremiah, etc.
- Divorce, removing his hand of protection

SUNDAY

The First Return of the Exiles

We are following the daily breakdown very loosely today, but this section is more of a combination of Sunday and Monday's lessons that discuss the first and largest group of exiles who Cyrus allows to return to Jerusalem following their 70 years of captivity. Not only does he allow and encourage them to go, he makes sure that they return with gifts and offerings and the original treasured vessels from the temple that Nebuchadnezzar had stolen. But he didn't stop there - Cyrus also appointed Zerubbabel (as governor) and Joshua (as high priest) to lead them home, and he instructed them to rebuild the temple of the Lord.

Well of course this first group was super excited about finally being back home and almost at once set themselves to the task of rebuilding the temple. Some close neighbors, made up of mixed race Samaritans, claimed to worship the true God and offered to "help - let us build with you, for we seek your God as ye do"...but in their hearts and practices were idolaters, prone to reverence graven images. But the Israelite leaders refused them the privilege.

Zerubbabel and his associates were familiar with God and Moses' instruction, "thou shalt make no covenant with them, nor show mercy unto them: neither shalt thou make marriages with them...". And now, having repented of the evils that had brought on them and their fathers the judgments foretold so plainly through Moses; having turned with all their hearts to God, and renewed their covenant relationship with Him, they had been permitted to return to Judea, that they might restore that which had been destroyed.

Should they, at the very beginning of their undertaking, enter into a covenant with idolaters? Those who had recently rededicated themselves to the Lord realized that the line of demarcation between His people and the world is ever to be kept unmistakably distinct. They refused to enter into alliance with those who, though familiar with the requirements of God's law, would not yield to its claims (which law? what are its claims?).

The same principles set forth in Deuteronomy for the instruction of Israel are to be followed by God's people to the end of time. (again, it sounds like we should be learning from history?)

This is also from Prophets and Kings, talking about the duplicitous deceitful behavior of the Samaritans who were trying to "help".

"It is not the open and avowed enemies of the cause of God that are most to be feared. Those who, like the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin, come with smooth words and fair speeches, apparently seeking for friendly alliance with God's children, have greater power to deceive. Against such every soul should be on the alert, lest some carefully concealed and masterly snare take him unaware. And especially today, while earth's history is closing, the Lord requires of His children a vigilance that knows no relaxation. But though the conflict is a ceaseless one, none are left to struggle alone. Angels help and protect those who walk humbly before God. Never will our Lord betray one who trusts in Him. As His children draw near to Him for protection from evil, in pity and love He lifts up for them a standard against the enemy. Touch them not, He says; for they are Mine. I have graven them upon the palms of My hands." – {PK 570.4}

Well, after this gung-ho start on the temple rebuilding project, much opposition arose and over several years the work started and stopped a number of times. Ultimately, God sent the prophets Haggai and Zechariah to encourage the settlers to complete the work on the temple. Any ideas on why they had so much trouble maintaining enthusiasm for this rebuilding project?

- Life - they were rebuilding their homes, gardens, neighborhoods, schools, etc. along with the temple. However, all their attempts at success in everyday life came to naught as long as they were ignoring and not prioritizing God's will and obedience to His commands
- Opposition and interference from those who profess to want to "help", but hinder instead
- Discouragement, comparisons, and misunderstanding the temple's true significance

I want to talk a bit more about each of these to see if we can glean some practical application and object lessons from what the Israelites experienced...and hopefully learn enough from their history to avoid some repetition, right?

How many of you knew that the Israelites were opposed and hindered and obstructed in their efforts to rebuild the temple?

"Untiring in their opposition, the Samaritans 'weakened the hands of the people of Judah, and troubled them in building, and hired counselors against them, to frustrate their purpose, all the days of Cyrus king of Persia, even until the reign of Darius.' By false reports they aroused suspicion in minds easily led to suspect. But for many years the powers of evil were held in check, and the people in Judea had liberty to continue their work."

Are you starting to get the idea that this is about much more than just a construction project or erecting a building?

Ms. White continues,

“While Satan was striving to influence the highest powers in the Medo-Persian kingdom to show disfavor to God’s people, angels worked in behalf of the exiles. The controversy was one in which all heaven was interested. We are given a glimpse of this mighty struggle between the forces of good and evil through the prophet of Daniel. For three weeks Gabriel wrestled with the powers of darkness, seeking to counteract the influences at work on the mind of Cyrus; and before the contest closed, Christ Himself came to Gabriel’s aid. All that heaven could do on behalf of the people of God was done.”

What an amazing insight into the lengths the God of the universe goes to on our behalf! Well this was a time of wonderful opportunity for the Jews - the highest agencies of heaven were working on the hearts of kings, and they should have spared no effort to restore the temple and its services, and to reestablish themselves in their Judean homes, but even in the day of God’s power many proved unwilling...the opposition of their enemies was strong and determined, and gradually the builders lost heart.

Many of the workmen, discouraged and disheartened, returned to their homes to take up the ordinary pursuits of life. For over a year the temple rebuild was neglected and well-nigh forsaken...but work as they might they did not prosper. The very elements of nature seemed to conspire against them. (has anyone ever felt like that?) Because they had let the temple lie waste, the Lord sent upon their substance a wasting drought...because they had used His bountiful gifts and favor so selfishly, the blessings were removed. God reveals this to His people in Haggai 1:5-12...but what does it mean?

Does it mean that if you don’t do what God wants, He will ruin your plans and prevent you from prospering? Or is this an object lesson?

What does the Temple symbolize? It represents you and me...so then what would the lesson be?

What happens when we spend our energies trying to gain riches, power, have a good time, or whatever, while we neglect the care of our spirit temple?

Can we grow healthier, can we experience God’s blessings in our lives if the spirit temple is neglected? Why?

Is it because God refuses to bless or is it because we, by abusing the spirit temple, close the channel to receive His blessing?

Can we have healing of our spirit temple outside the law of love?

Thus when we focus on selfish advancement we simply cannot prosper!

What about the discouragement caused by comparisons with the previous temple...and were there still some deep misunderstandings about the what the temple really symbolized?

“The house that was about to be rebuilt had been the subject of many prophecies concerning the favor that God desired to show Zion, and all who were present at the laying of the cornerstone should have entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion. Yet mingled with the music and the shouts of praise that were heard on that glad day, was a discordant note. ‘Many of the priests and Levites and chief of the fathers, who were ancient men, that had seen the first house, when the foundation of this house was laid before their eyes, wept with a loud voice.’” (Ezra 3:12)

Some of that sadness was natural and appropriate for all the unheeded warnings and missed opportunities to fulfill God’s purpose...but sadness because of past mistakes should have given way to feelings of great joy. However, some failed to discern God’s opening providences, and instead of rejoicing they cherished thoughts of discontent and discouragement. They had seen the glory of Solomon’s temple, and they lamented because of the inferiority of the building now to be erected. The murmuring and complaining, and the unfavorable comparisons had a depressing influence on the minds of many (doesn’t it always?!) and weakened the hands of the builders.

But here’s the real problem...

the magnificence of the first temple, and the imposing rites of its religious services, had been a source of pride to Israel before their captivity (why was it a source of pride and is that good or bad?); but their worship had oftentimes been lacking in those qualities which God regards as most essential. The glory of the first temple, the splendor of its service, could not recommend them to God; for that which is alone of value in His sight, they did not offer. They did not bring Him the sacrifice of a humble and contrite spirit. – {PK 565.2}

Really listen to this...

It is when the vital principles of the kingdom of God are lost sight of, that ceremonies become multitudinous and extravagant. It is when the character building is neglected, when the adornment of the soul is lacking (is that what we are typically concerned about adorning when we go to church?), when the simplicity of godliness is despised, that pride and love of display demand magnificent church edifices, splendid adornings, and imposing ceremonials. But in all this God is not honored. He values His church, not for its external advantages, but for the sincere piety which distinguishes it from the world. He estimates it according to the growth of its members in the knowledge of Christ, according to their progress in spiritual experience. He looks for the principles of love and goodness. Not all the beauty of art can bear comparison with the beauty of temper and character to be revealed in those who are Christ's representatives. – {PK 565.3}

A congregation may be the poorest in the land. It may be without the attractions of any outward show; but if the members possess the principles of the character of Christ, angels will unite with them in their worship. The praise and thanksgiving from grateful hearts will ascend to God as a sweet oblation. As soon as Israel decided to obey, the words of reproof in Haggai 1 were followed by a message of encouragement. "Then spake Haggai ... unto the people, saying, I am with you, saith the Lord. And the Lord stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel" and of Joshua, and "of all the remnant of the people; and they came and did work in the house of the Lord of hosts, their God." Verses 13, 14. – {PK 575.3}

In less than a month after the work on the temple was resumed, the builders received another comforting message. "Be strong, O Zerubbabel," the Lord Himself urged through His prophet; "be strong, O Joshua; ... and be strong, all ye people of the land, saith the Lord, and work: for I am with you, saith the Lord of hosts."

"But the steady advancement made by the builders of the temple greatly discomfited and alarmed the hosts of evil. Satan determined to put forth still further effort to weaken and discourage God's people by holding before them their imperfections of character."

Now...does that ever sound familiar? And do you think even if the Israelites didn't, that Satan fully understood the significance and symbolism of the temple as the God's dwelling place, and why this temple would be even more glorious than the first?

"Because Israel had been chosen to preserve the knowledge of God in the earth, they had ever been the special objects of Satan's enmity; he was determined to cause their destruction."

Why?

In another book, Desire of Ages, Ms. White says this,

"What does the Temple at Jerusalem symbolize? In the cleansing of the temple, Jesus was announcing His mission as the Messiah, and entering upon His work. That temple, erected for the abode of the divine Presence, was designed to be an object lesson for Israel and for the world. From eternal ages it was God's purpose that every created being, from the bright and holy seraph to man, should be a temple for the indwelling of the Creator. Because of sin, humanity ceased to be a temple for God...God designed that the temple at Jerusalem should be a continual witness to the high destiny open to every soul.” DA 161

So back to Satan being determined to destroy Israel...and boy didn't he come awfully close a few times?

“While they were obedient, he could do them no harm; therefore he had bent all his power and cunning to entice them into sin.” Chapter 47 of Prophets and Kings goes into glorious detail about Joshua's vision of him standing before the Angel of the Lord, entreating God's mercy on behalf of His afflicted people.” Ms. White says, “Through an impressive illustration of the work of Satan and the work of Christ, He showed the power of their Mediator to vanquish the accuser of His people.” PK 583.1

The details of that story are also in the notes, but going along with our theme of making sense and learning from history, she concludes the chapter this way:

“As Satan accused Joshua and his people, so in all ages he accuses those who seek the mercy and favor of God. He is “the accuser of our brethren, ... which accused them before our God day and night.” Revelation 12:10. Over every soul that is rescued from the power of evil, and whose name is registered in the Lamb's book of life, the controversy is repeated. Never is one received into the family of God without exciting the determined resistance of the enemy. But He who was the hope of Israel then, their defense, their justification and redemption, is the hope of the church today. Satan's accusations against those who seek the Lord are not prompted by displeasure at their sins. He exults in their defective characters; for he knows that only through their transgression of God's law can he obtain power over them. His accusations arise solely from his enmity to Christ. Through the plan of salvation, Jesus is breaking Satan's hold upon the human family and rescuing souls from his power. All the hatred and malignity of the archrebel is stirred as he beholds the evidences of Christ's supremacy; and with fiendish power and cunning he works to wrest from Him the children of men who have accepted salvation. He leads men into skepticism, causing them to lose confidence in God and to separate from His love; he tempts them to break the law and then claims them as his captives, contesting Christ's right to take them from him. Satan knows that those who ask God for pardon and grace will obtain it; therefore he presents their sins before them to discourage them. Against those who are trying to obey God, he is constantly seeking occasion for complaint. Even their best and most acceptable service he seeks to make appear corrupt. By countless devices, the most subtle and the most cruel, he endeavors to secure their condemnation. In his own strength, man cannot meet the charges of the enemy. In sin-stained garments, confessing his guilt, he stands before God. But Jesus, our Advocate, presents an effectual plea in behalf of all who by repentance and faith have committed the keeping of their souls to Him. He pleads their cause (who is He pleading to?), and by the mighty arguments of Calvary, vanquishes their accuser (what are the mighty arguments of Calvary, and how do they vanquish Satan?). His perfect obedience to God's law has given Him all power in heaven and in earth, and He claims from His Father mercy and reconciliation for guilty man. To the accuser of His people He declares: "The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan. These are the purchase of My blood, brands plucked from the burning." And to those who rely on Him in faith, He gives the assurance, "Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment." Zechariah 3:4. All who have put on the robe of Christ's righteousness will stand before Him as chosen and faithful and true (what does it mean to put on the robe of Christ's righteousness?). Satan has no power to pluck them out of the hand of the Saviour. Not one soul who in penitence and faith has claimed His protection will Christ permit to pass under the enemy's power. The promise given to Joshua is given to all: Angels of God will walk on either side of them, even in this world, and they will stand at last among the angels that surround the throne of God. today.

In vision the prophet beholds "Joshua the high priest," "clothed with filthy garments" (Zechariah 3:1, 3), standing before the Angel of the Lord, entreating God's mercy in behalf of His afflicted people. As he pleads for the fulfillment of God's promises, Satan stands up boldly to resist him. He points to the transgressions of Israel as a reason why they should not be restored to the favor of God. He claims them as his prey, and demands that they be given into his hands. – {PK 583.2}

The high priest cannot defend himself or his people from Satan's accusations. He does not claim that Israel is free from fault. In filthy garments, symbolizing the sins of the people, which he bears as their representative, he stands before the Angel, confessing their guilt, yet pointing to their repentance and humiliation, and relying upon the mercy of a sin-pardoning Redeemer. In faith he claims the promises of God. – {PK 583.3}

Then the Angel, who is Christ Himself, the Saviour of sinners, puts to silence the accuser of His people, declaring, "The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan; even the Lord that hath chosen Jerusalem rebuke thee: is not this a brand plucked out of the fire?" Verse 2. Long had Israel remained in the furnace of affliction. Because of their sins they had been well-nigh consumed in the flame kindled by Satan and his agents for their destruction, but God had now set His hand to bring them forth. – {PK 584.1}

As the intercession of Joshua is accepted, the command is given, "Take away the filthy garments from him;" and to Joshua the Angel says, "Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment.” “So they set a fair miter upon his head, and clothed him with garments.” Verses 4, 5. His own sins and those of his people were pardoned. Israel was clothed with “change of raiment”—the righteousness of Christ imputed to them. The miter placed upon Joshua’s head was such as was worn by the priests, and bore the inscription, “Holiness to the Lord” (Exodus 28:36), signifying that notwithstanding his former transgressions, he was now qualified to minister before God in His sanctuary. – {PK 584.2}

The Angel now declared to Joshua: “Thus saith the Lord of hosts; If thou wilt walk in My ways, and if thou wilt keep My charge, then thou shalt also judge My house, and shalt also keep My courts, and I will give thee places to walk among these that stand by.” Zechariah 3:7. If obedient, he should be honored as the judge, or ruler, over the temple and all its services; he should walk among attending angels, even in this life; and at last he should join the glorified throng around the throne of God. – {PK 584.3} “Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, thou, and thy fellows that sit before thee: for they are men wondered at: for, behold, I will bring forth My Servant the Branch.” Verse 8. In the Branch, the Deliverer to come, lay the hope of Israel. It was by faith in the coming Saviour that Joshua and his people had received pardon. Through faith in Christ they had been restored to God’s favor. By virtue of His merits, if they walked in His ways and kept His statutes, they would be “men wondered at,” honored as the chosen of Heaven among the nations of the earth. – {PK 585.1}

As Satan accused Joshua and his people, so in all ages he accuses those who seek the mercy and favor of God. He is “the accuser of our brethren, ... which accused them before our God day and night.” Revelation 12:10. Over every soul that is rescued from the power of evil, and whose name is registered in the Lamb’s book of life, the controversy is repeated. Never is one received into the family of God without exciting the determined resistance of the enemy. But He who was the hope of Israel then, their defense, their justification and redemption, is the hope of the church today. – {PK 585.2}

Satan’s accusations against those who seek the Lord are not prompted by displeasure at their sins. He exults in their defective characters; for he knows that only through their transgression of God’s law can he obtain power over them. His accusations arise solely from his enmity to Christ. Through the plan of salvation, Jesus is breaking Satan’s hold upon the human family and rescuing souls from his power. All the hatred and malignity of the archrebel is stirred as he beholds the evidences of Christ’s supremacy; and with fiendish power and cunning he works to wrest from Him the children of men who have accepted salvation. He leads men into skepticism, causing them to lose confidence in God and to separate from His love; he tempts them to break the law and then claims them as his captives, contesting Christ's right to take them from him. – {PK 585.3}

Satan knows that those who ask God for pardon and grace will obtain it; therefore he presents their sins before them to discourage them. Against those who are trying to obey God, he is constantly seeking occasion for complaint. Even their best and most acceptable service he seeks to make appear corrupt. By countless devices, the most subtle and the most cruel, he endeavors to secure their condemnation. – {PK 586.1}

In his own strength, man cannot meet the charges of the enemy. In sin-stained garments, confessing his guilt, he stands before God. But Jesus, our Advocate, presents an effectual plea in behalf of all who by repentance and faith have committed the keeping of their souls to Him. He pleads their cause, and by the mighty arguments of Calvary, vanquishes their accuser. His perfect obedience to God's law has given Him all power in heaven and in earth, and He claims from His Father mercy and reconciliation for guilty man. To the accuser of His people He declares: "The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan. These are the purchase of My blood, brands plucked from the burning." And to those who rely on Him in faith, He gives the assurance, "Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment." Zechariah 3:4. – {PK 586.2}

All who have put on the robe of Christ's righteousness will stand before Him as chosen and faithful and true. Satan has no power to pluck them out of the hand of the Saviour. Not one soul who in penitence and faith has claimed His protection will Christ permit to pass under the enemy's power. His word is pledged: "Let him take hold of My strength, that he may make peace with Me; and he shall make peace with Me." Isaiah 27:5. The promise given to Joshua is given to all: "If thou wilt keep My charge, ... I will give thee places to walk among these that stand by." Zechariah 3:7. Angels of God will walk on either side of them, even in this world, and they will stand at last among the angels that surround the throne of God. – {PK 587.1}

Zechariah's vision of Joshua and the Angel applies with peculiar force to the experience of God's people in the closing scenes of the great day of atonement. The remnant church will then be brought into great trial and distress. Those who keep the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus will feel the ire of the dragon and his hosts. Satan numbers the world as his subjects; he has gained control even of many professing Christians. But here is a little company who are resisting his supremacy. If he could blot them from the earth, his triumph would be complete. As he influenced the heathen nations to destroy Israel, so in the near future he will stir up the wicked powers of earth to destroy the people of God. Men will be required to render obedience to human edicts in violation of the divine law. – {PK 587.2}

Those who are true to God will be menaced, denounced, proscribed. They will be “betrayed both by parents, and brethren, and kinsfolks, and friends,” even unto death. Luke 21:16. Their only hope is in the mercy of God; their only defense will be prayer. As Joshua pleaded before the Angel, so the remnant church, with brokenness of heart and unfaltering faith, will plead for pardon and deliverance through Jesus, their Advocate. They are fully conscious of the sinfulness of their lives, they see their weakness and unworthiness; and they are ready to despair. – {PK 588.1}

The tempter stands by to accuse them, as he stood by to resist Joshua. He points to their filthy garments, their defective characters. He presents their weakness and folly, their sins of ingratitude, their unlikeness to Christ, which has dishonored their Redeemer. He endeavors to affright them with the thought that their case is hopeless, that the stain of their defilement will never be washed away. He hopes so to destroy their faith that they will yield to his temptations, and turn from their allegiance to God. – {PK 588.2}

Satan has an accurate knowledge of the sins that he has tempted God’s people to commit, and he urges his accusations against them, declaring, that by their sins they have forfeited divine protection, and claiming that he has the right to destroy them. He pronounces them just as deserving as himself of exclusion from the favor of God. “Are these,” he says, “the people who are to take my place in heaven, and the place of the angels who united with me? They profess to obey the law of God; but have they kept its precepts? Have they not been lovers of self more than lovers of God? Have they not placed their own interests above His service? Have they not loved the things of the world? Look at the sins that have marked their lives. Behold their selfishness, their malice, their hatred of one another. Will God banish me and my angels from His presence, and yet reward those who have been guilty of the same sins? Thou canst not do this, O Lord, in justice. Justice demands that sentence be pronounced against them.” – {PK 588.3}

But while the followers of Christ have sinned, they have not given themselves up to be controlled by the satanic agencies. They have repented of their sins and have sought the Lord in humility and contrition, and the divine Advocate pleads in their behalf. He who has been most abused by their ingratitude, who knows their sin and also their penitence, declares: “The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan. I gave My life for these souls. They are graven upon the palms of My hands. They may have imperfections of character; they may have failed in their endeavors; but they have repented, and I have forgiven and accepted them.” – {PK 589.1}

The assaults of Satan are strong, his delusions are subtle; but the Lord's eye is upon His people. Their affliction is great, the flames of the furnace seem about to consume them; but Jesus will bring them forth as gold tried in the fire. Their earthliness will be removed, that through them the image of Christ may be perfectly revealed. – {PK 589.2}

At times the Lord may seem to have forgotten the perils of His church and the injury done her by her enemies. But God has not forgotten. Nothing in this world is so dear to the heart of God as His church. It is not His will that worldly policy shall corrupt her record. He does not leave His people to be overcome by Satan's temptations. He will punish those who misrepresent Him, but He will be gracious to all who sincerely repent. To those who call upon Him for strength for the development of Christian character, He will give all needed help. – {PK 590.1}

In the time of the end the people of God will sigh and cry for the abominations done in the land. With tears they will warn the wicked of their danger in trampling upon the divine law, and with unutterable sorrow they will humble themselves before the Lord in penitence. The wicked will mock their sorrow and ridicule their solemn appeals. But the anguish and humiliation of God's people is unmistakable evidence that they are regaining the strength and nobility of character lost in consequence of sin. It is because they are drawing nearer to Christ, because their eyes are fixed on His perfect purity, that they discern so clearly the exceeding sinfulness of sin. Meekness and lowliness are the conditions of success and victory. A crown of glory awaits those who bow at the foot of the cross. – {PK 590.2}

God's faithful, praying ones are, as it were, shut in with Him. They themselves know not how securely they are shielded. Urged on by Satan, the rulers of this world are seeking to destroy them; but could the eyes of God's children be opened as were the eyes of Elisha's servant at Dothan, they would see angels of God encamped about them, holding in check the hosts of darkness. – {PK 590.3}

As the people of God afflict their souls before Him, pleading for purity of heart, the command is given, "Take away the filthy garments," and the encouraging words are spoken, "Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment." Zechariah 3:4. The spotless robe of Christ's righteousness is placed upon the tried, tempted, faithful children of God. The despised remnant are clothed in glorious apparel, nevermore to be defiled by the corruptions of the world. Their names are retained in the Lamb's book of life, enrolled among the faithful of all ages. They have resisted the wiles of the deceiver; they have not been turned from their loyalty by the dragon's roar. Now they are eternally secure from the tempter's devices. Their sins are transferred to the originator of sin. A "fair miter" is set upon their heads. – {PK 591.1}

While Satan has been urging his accusations, holy angels, unseen, have been passing to and fro, placing upon the faithful ones the seal of the living God. These are they that stand upon Mount Zion with the Lamb, having the Father's name written in their foreheads. They sing the new song before the throne, that song which no man can learn save the hundred and forty and four thousand which were redeemed from the earth. "These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever He goeth. These were redeemed from among men, being the first fruits unto God and to the Lamb. And in their mouth was found no guile: for they are without fault before the throne of God." Revelation 14:4, 5. – {PK 591.2}

Now is reached the complete fulfillment of the words of the Angel: "Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, thou, and thy fellows that sit before thee: for they are men wondered at: for, behold, I will bring forth My Servant the Branch." Zechariah 3:8. Christ is revealed as the Redeemer and Deliverer of His people. Now indeed are the remnant "men wondered at," as the tears and humiliation of their pilgrimage give place to joy and honor in the presence of God and the Lamb. "In that day shall the branch of the Lord be beautiful and glorious, and the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and comely for them that are escaped of Israel. And it shall come to pass, that he that is left in Zion, and he that remaineth in Jerusalem, shall be called holy, even everyone that is written among the living in Jerusalem."

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 2

Nehemiah

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

The memory verse describes how Nehemiah fasted and prayed asking for God to intervene.

Do we fast and pray asking for God to intervene in human history?

- Do we really want the final events that usher in the second coming of Christ to occur?
- Do we ever pray “come quickly Lord Jesus” but then turn around and pray to hold back all the strife?
- Do we realize that before the Jesus returns difficult events transpire on earth?
- What would you do if an angel knocked on your door tonight and said, “Grab a backpack and come with me, you must flee your home and hide in the mountains.” This is what Lot faced—what would you do?
- We speak about believing in the second coming of Christ—but are we prepared to act, to move, to leave, to suffer, to speak, to stand up, to face trials for God’s cause?

What is the purpose of fasting and praying? Is it to get God to do something He would not otherwise do?

Or, is fasting a praying a means of focusing us and connecting us with God so we can become more attuned to God’s purposes? Could it be God is waiting to act because He needs His people to be ready to fulfill His purposes?

Did God need someone like Nehemiah? What kind of people does God need today?

Read first two paragraphs, “To date, two groups of captives...” What lessons are there in this history?

Do we recognize only the historical events or do we realize that what God had recorded in Scripture is also revealing truths about the larger controversy and the plan of salvation? In other words, are there, in addition to historical events, object lessons in them?

For instance, Israel was taken captive by Babylon—why? Because of unfaithfulness to the Lord. Is there an object lesson in this? If we are unfaithful to the Lord will our hearts and minds become captive to evil and selfishness?

Does Babylon represent something beyond an ancient kingdom in the Bible?

A system of confusion—a system that we are called to come out of, to be set free of.

As Israel went into captivity to ancient Babylon because of unfaithfulness, Christianity because of rejecting the truth about God's law, because of accepting Satan's lie that God's law functions like human law—imposed rules requiring God to inflict imposed punishments, is in the captivity of religious superstition and myths. The minds of people are held captive.

We are called out—just as Israel was called out—but interestingly for ancient Israel there were three groups that came out, or three times people came out, before Jerusalem was actually rebuilt—before the walls were repaired.

Are we called to be repairers of the breach of God's law? Are there three callings out that occur for us before the breach is repaired? I would suggest the possibility that we, this generation with this message about God's design law, are the third and last group to be called out, the ones who will finish the repairing of the breach in God's law.

The first calling out, the Loud Cry, began in the early 19th Century with William Miller and the Great Disappointment of 1844.

The second calling was 1888 with the Righteousness by Faith message, but it also didn't result in the repair to the breach in God's law

What is the breach in God's law? That God's law functions like human law, with all the imperial distortion to God's character and the plan of salvation. We are calling people back to worship Him who made the heavens, earth, and fountains of water. This is Creator worship—and the repair to the breach is to reject the human law construct and return to design law and all that it entails.

This is the message of Revelation 18, the message that is to be repeated to lighten the world for Christ's return.

There are lessons we can learn from Israel, Nehemiah met opposition, we have and will continue to meet opposition. But Nehemiah was a man of prayer and a man of faith—we need to pray and move forward in faith, in trust of God taking this message forward—to free minds from the imperial lies about God, repairing the breach in God's law.

Consider this quote from The Great Controversy:

The prophet thus points out the ordinance which has been forsaken: "Thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations; and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in. If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on My holy day; and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable; and shalt honor Him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words: then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord." Verses 12-14. This prophecy also applies in our time. The breach was made in the law of God when the Sabbath was changed by the Roman power. But the time has come for that divine institution to be restored.

The breach is to be repaired and the foundation of many generations to be raised up. {GC 452.4}

Do you hear this through imposed law lenses, as an arbitrary day to go to church upon—or do you hear a battle between design law and imposed law?

How was it possible for the church to change the day of worship from Sabbath to Sunday? Why isn't there one church, given the state of our world, that has voted that their members are immune from environmental toxins, or air pollution etc.? Because human beings have no power to change design laws!

So, what does it mean that the church did change the day of worship? That Christians no longer see God's law as design law, but merely as imposed rules. This is the breach, this is the change.

Note the quote said, "The breach was made in the law of God when the Sabbath was changed by the Roman power." It didn't say the breach IS the change in the Sabbath!

The Sabbath change was the evidence of the breach, but in and of itself was not the breach—the true breach, which changes our fundamental understanding of God—in other words changes the God we worship—is when we believe God's law functions like human law. This idea corrupts everything and makes us view God like a dictator and the source of inflicted pain and death. This is paganism and this is what we are called out of.

The SDA church has come into existence and reclaimed the right day of worship—but it has not yet fully repaired the breach because it hasn't rejected imperial/imposed law with its penal legal lie about the plan of salvation.

Notice the Isaiah quote we repair the breach when we call the Sabbath a delight—can delight in something be legislated? No!

The only way for the Sabbath to be a delight is for a change to occur in the heart—and what makes the Sabbath a delight? The truth about its purpose and what it reveals!

The Sabbath reveals the character of God—truth, presented in love, leaving us free! It is a gift of God to us revealing His love, kindness, mercy, truth, and methods! Is it a delight to be free, to have true liberty? This is what the Sabbath guarantees—why and how?

Because God, in the context of a war by Satan against His right to rule, after giving evidence of His Creatorship on days 1-6, gives evidence of His character on day 7. Day 1-6 we learn God is powerful—day 7, we see God step back and stop using power, establishing a day in which intelligent beings are left free to think for themselves.

If God were an imperial dictator like Satan alleges, there would be no Sabbath; the Sabbath proves Satan lied.

When we realize this, that the Sabbath was created for humanity; it is a gift to us a blessing to us, but also an evidence to the entire universe of God's methods and character. Like an engagement ring is a gift to the woman, but is also evidence to the entire world of her engagement. The Sabbath was made human beings, but is evidence for the entire universe.

It is not a rule we are obliged to keep, but a space in time we are invited to embrace and enjoy, then we delight in the Sabbath.

So, how do we repair the breach—by rejecting the imposed law lie and worshipping our Creator by embracing Him and His design laws for life.

From Prophets and Kings:

The spiritual restoration of which the work carried forward in Nehemiah's day was a symbol, is outlined in the words of Isaiah: "They shall build the old wastes, they shall raise up the former desolations, and they shall repair the waste cities." "They that shall be of thee shall build the old waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations; and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in." Isaiah 61:4; 58:12. {PK 677.2}

The prophet here describes a people who, in a time of general departure from truth and righteousness, are seeking to restore the principles that are the foundation of the kingdom of God. They are repairers of a breach that has been made in God's law--the wall that He has placed around His chosen ones for their protection, and obedience to whose precepts of justice, truth, and purity is to be their perpetual safeguard. {PK 677.3}

In words of unmistakable meaning the prophet points out the specific work of this remnant people who build the wall. "If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on My holy day; and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable; and shalt honor Him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words: then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord; and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it." Isaiah 58:13, 14. {PK 678.1}

In the time of the end every divine institution is to be restored. The breach made in the law at the time the Sabbath was changed by man, is to be repaired. God's remnant people, standing before the world as reformers, are to show that the law of God is the foundation of all enduring reform [why? Because it is the law of life, the principles upon which life is established and operates. One cannot have health in violations of the laws of health] and that the Sabbath of the fourth commandment is to stand as a memorial of creation, a constant reminder of the power of God. In clear, distinct lines they are to present the necessity of obedience to all the precepts of the Decalogue. Constrained by the love of Christ, they are to co-operate with Him in building up the waste places. They are to be repairers of the breach, restorers of paths to dwell in. See verse 12. {PK 678.2}

What was the breach made in the law when the Sabbath was changed? It was not the mere change of the day of worship—the breach was the idea that God’s law is imposed law—this is the breach we are to repair.

SUNDAY

Nehemiah receives bad news that the walls of Jerusalem have not been repaired. What is the application, the object lesson for us in this story?

Well the walls represent the law, which is a hedge of protection to the righteous. But the law, wall has been breached by believing a lie about the law, that it functions like human rules and thus all types of destructive beliefs and practices have entered Christianity through this lie.

Examples of the lies that entered because of the imposed law view:

- Salvation is achieved through legal means, not healing of hearts
- The church has legal authority over souls
- Sins must be punished
- If sins are not fully accounted for on earth they must be punished in purgatory before going to heaven
- Sins can be removed by payment of gold or works to the church (indulgences)
- If someone dies and isn’t given last rights by the church they don’t go to heaven
- If someone isn’t baptized by the church they can’t go to heaven
- Relics hold power
- Jesus died to pay our legal debt and to keep God from killing us
- God is required by justice to use His power to inflict punishment upon sinners
- Jesus is in heaven pleading His blood to the Father to pay our sin debt and to get the Father to legally pardon us and remove the Father’s wrath

Do you see how the breach in the law, accepting the lie that God’s law functions like human law, opened the church, the minds of people up to all kinds of lies about God which leads to a form of godliness with no power?

Do you see why reformation is needed, why the message of Revelation 18 is needed, why we need to repair the breach to God’s law, to call people out of this confused system of legal appeasement theology and back to Creator worship?

And in repairing the breach to the law—leading people to reject the imposed law view and understand and embrace design law what happen?

Consider what Isaiah has to say about the walls and see if you see a connection to removing the imperial law lie and restoring design law truth?

No longer will violence be heard in your land, nor ruin or destruction within your borders, but you will call your walls Salvation
and your gates Praise.
¹⁹ The sun will no more be your light by day, nor will the brightness of the moon shine on you, for the LORD will be your everlasting light, and your God will be your glory.
Your sun will never set again, and your moon will wane no more;
the LORD will be your everlasting light, and your days of sorrow will end.
²¹ Then will all your people be righteous and they will possess the land forever.
They are the shoot I have planted,
the work of my hands,
for the display of my splendor. Isa 60:18-21

What is being described? The earth made new and the walls are called salvation and the people will be righteous—is there a relationship to the walls of salvation and repairing the breach in the wall—the lie about God’s law?

Here is another quote from Isaiah:

In that day this song will be sung in the land of Judah:

We have a strong city;
God makes salvation its walls and ramparts.
²Open the gates
that the righteous nation may enter, the nation that keeps faith.
³You will keep in perfect peace him whose mind is steadfast, because he trusts in you. Isa 26:1-3

Is there a connection between repairing the breach in God’s law and salvation and becoming righteous and our earth made new?

The righteous are the ones who trust God—they trust the Creator; they understand His design laws, which all reveal His trustworthy character of love.

But the imposed legal lie leads to theologies that don't trust God instead people trust in:

- the blood payment made by Jesus to assuage the Father's wrath
- the robe of righteousness to hide them from the Father
- the blood erasing the historical record of their sins so the Father won't know about it in the judgment
- Jesus to stand as their advocate to plead the Father in their behalf

Notice how the imposed law legal view leads to doctrine after doctrine which is designed to hide us or protect us from God, because those who hold those views don't actually trust God.

We are to be repairers of the breach! Repairers of the truth, of God's plan of salvation, which is repairers in God's law and thereby reveal God's true character restoring people to trust in God!

There is a false gospel—a form of godliness with no power, but we are called to repair the breach, to restore the walls, which are the walls of salvation, which means we must present the truth about God's law and character of love, the nature and character of sin and God's solution—which is Christ in you the hope of glory.

In other words, we must present the healing gospel and expose the penal/legal gospel as the fraud and call people out of that confused legal system of Babylon.

Have you experienced in your life, as you have come to know and embrace God's character of love AND His design laws, that knowing and embracing His design laws have become a wall of protection for you?

MONDAY

The lesson examines Nehemiah's prayer and identifies a structure, read first section: "1. God, You are..."

The lesson points out this prayer has a special structure—what do you think of this?

Is this a Bible guide to prayer? Is this a special code, a form of a proper incantation, a spell we can use to get God to act the way we want Him to?

In other words, is this special structure a formula that works in getting our prayers heard and processed by God? Or, is this merely the prayer of a very sincere person whose heart loved God and wanted to see God's plan move forward and he reached out and asked God to use him in His plan?

"The prayer of a righteous man is powerful and effective." James 5:16 NIV84

Is it about the right formula or the right heart, motive?

Jesus said:

And I will do whatever you ask in my name, so that the Son may bring glory to the Father. You may ask me for anything in my name, and I will do it. John 14:13,14, NIV84

What does this mean? Is this a different formula, a different incantation? Do we need to add the words “in the name of Jesus” at the end of our prayers?

Or will that not work because Jesus is Greek and not His true name we need to say “in the name of Joshua”? Is that the secret to effective prayer?

Or, does “name” in the Bible mean character and Jesus is saying, when you pray with my character reproduced within you, then you will pray with the right motive, asking for the right actions, and seeking the right goals and purposes in harmony with me and my Father and of course I will be eager to do it?

So, from The Remedy:

And I will do whatever you ask—that is in harmony with my character, methods, and principles—so that the Son may bring honor and glory to the Father by revealing the healing and life-giving power of his methods You may ask me for anything in harmony with my character and methods, and I will do it. John 14:13,14 The Remedy

Which makes more sense—pray for anything and add the tag line at the end “in the name of Jesus” and then Jesus in heaven is obliged to dispense His power to make your prayer happen, OR, pray for things in harmony with God’s character, methods, principles and purposes and God will eagerly work to bring about His will, of which your prayer was in harmony?

So, for what was Nehemiah praying—for the fulfillment of God’s plan, God’s purposes, in harmony with God’s methods and principles and goals.

This is the secret to effective prayer!

The lesson points out that while Nehemiah reminds God of what God has already promised to do, that God actually doesn’t need reminding, as the lesson states, “it is not that God doesn’t know or remember His promises. Instead, God takes pleasure in our willingness to claim His promises.”

Is that it, or is there another element? I agree that God does take pleasure when we seek Him, when we trust Him, when we claim His promises, absolutely so—but is that what God is waiting for—for Him to be pleased, for His pleasure? Could it be that God is waiting for people who actually trust Him and are willing to cooperate with Him, to go and do what God would have done, to be His vessels, His agents, the conduits through whom God can act in humanity? Does God delight in people who do not merely claim a promise, but are willing to invest themselves on God's team to cooperate with God in fulfilling His purposes?

So, when you claim a promise, do you also say to God, "And if I can be of any use to your cause, please use me!"

Here is a quote I love from the book Christ's Object Lessons:

As the will of man co-operates with the will of God, it becomes omnipotent. Whatever is to be done at His command may be accomplished in His strength. All His biddings are enablings.
COL 333.1

TUESDAY

Do we see the quote from COL above fulfilled in the life of Nehemiah? Was Nehemiah empowered to speak out, to be successful in his mission to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem?

What about us today? Do we cooperate with God to speak out for the rebuilding of the walls—the rebuilding of the truth about God's law and His salvation found in Jesus?

What do you think of the following historical facts:

- Captives—essentially defeated slaves—Daniel, Hananiah, Mishaël and Azariah—become advisors to Nebuchadnezzar and Babylon and also to Darius and Persia
- Captive—Nehemiah becomes advisor to Artaxerxes I
- Slave—Joseph becomes advisor to Pharaoh and ruler in Egypt

What are the lessons from this?

Certainly, God can bring good out of difficult circumstances—no doubt about that—but what is the human side of this equation?

Did these human beings have a role—did God need human beings that despite adversity, hardship, betrayal, enslavement who maintained their trust in Him?

Consider the implications, do you think any of the people above were tempted with feelings of anger, hurt, resentment, bitterness toward their captors? Do you think they were tempted with feelings to rebel?

Do we see in any of these individuals that the temptations took root and they began to practice methods of violence, deceit, hostility, or warfare against their captors?

While they were being abused and having their rights violated, to whom did these people seek deliverance?

Will we as a church fulfill God's end-time mission by using human governments to pass laws to mandate our moral principles?

One of our online class members, Gwynnith Roberts-Baxter sent me an email last week with the following quote:

"Law reflects but in no sense determines the moral worth of a society. The values of a reasonably just society will reflect themselves in a reasonable law. the better the society the the less law there will be. In Heaven there will be no law, and the lion will lie down with the lamb. The values of an unjust society will reflect themselves in an unjust law. the worse the society the more laws there will be. In Hell there will be nothing but law and due process will be meticulously observed" Prof Grant Gilmore, Yale University, retired 1978

When we experience mistreatment do we turn to God for deliverance trusting Him and His purposes beyond our ability to immediately see? Do we consider we may be being placed in a situation to do a great work for God's kingdom—IF we trust Him and don't resort to worldly methods!

WEDNESDAY/THURSDAY

Nehemiah is sent to rebuild Jerusalem with a royal authorization and letters, a decree from the king—did that mean there was no opposition?

When we get permission or authorization from whatever government or ruler to proceed with an endeavor for God's kingdom (perhaps a building permit for a new hospital or school or church) does that mean there will be no obstacles, no opposition, to problems seeking to derail or frustrate the endeavor?

What are wise ways to proceed in moving a project forward when opposition is likely to try and obstruct the project?

In Thursday's lesson it lists several leadership lessons:

1. Don't publicize your plans—keep your activities private until the must go public.
Is keeping things private, is not disclosing information the same as lying?

Why do you think that Nehemiah didn't publicize his plans to the Jewish leaders as well as the enemies? An old WWII saying, "loose lips sink ships" meaning that information can get to enemies innocently once it is out there.

2. Make plans before starting to build—organize, have a vision, determine the steps necessary to succeed, anticipate obstacles and have plans to eliminate or avoid them.

3. Present the task with a vision for its success and its divine authority and local permission. In other words, remove from people potential objections—like it isn't what God would have us do. Or, we don't want to get in trouble with the king etc.

Any other steps you would take?

FRIDAY

Read question 1—what about Jonah, did Jonah face outside opposition or only from himself?

Read and discuss question 3—how and when should we cooperate with pagan or human authorities for the fulfillment of God's cause?

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

PODCAST: Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.

The Remedy Psalms is complete and online and will soon be updated to the free app.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

November 24, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Aachen Germany.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 3

God's Call

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read memory verse, "Blessed be the Lord God of our fathers, who has put such a thing as this in the king's heart, to beautify the house of the Lord which is in Jerusalem" (Ezra 7:27 NKJV).

Do we take this literally—God put this in his heart, or do we take this as the Bible writer attributing to God whatever happens good or bad?

If we believe God put it in the king's heart, do we believe it in a general sense, in other words, God influencing people to do good in general and providing good motives of love in general, or do we believe God put this specific desire in the king's heart?

And I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your offspring and hers; Gen 3:15 NIV84

What does this mean enmity between the woman and the serpent?

Here is one Bible commentator's view, do you agree?

The Lord says, "I will put enmity between thee and the woman." The enmity does not exist as a natural fact. As soon as Adam sinned, he was in harmony with the first great apostate, and at war with God; and if God had not interfered in man's behalf, Satan and man would have formed a confederacy against heaven, and carried on united opposition against the God of hosts. There is no natural enmity between evil angels and evil men; both are evil through transgression of the law of God, and evil will always league against good. Fallen men and fallen angels enter into a desperate companionship. {ST, July 11, 1895 par. 5}

So, do we see God putting this good thing in the king's heart as a general interference on behalf of all humanity—or do we see God doing more than that, going beyond the desire for good in all hearts and specifically inspiring the king to bless Israel?

What evidence do we turn have that would support that God put this in the king's heart?

In Daniel chapter 10 Daniel prays and 21 days later Gabriel comes to him with a message, starting in verse 12 Gabriel says:

Since the first day that you set your mind to gain understanding and to humble yourself before your God, your words were heard, and I have come in response to them. ¹³ But the prince of the Persian kingdom resisted me twenty-one days. Then Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, because I was detained there with the king of Persia.

Then later Gabriel tells him the prince of Greece was coming to fight against them.

What is going on?

It is coming to the end of the 70-year captivity prophesied for Israel's. Daniel has been praying for the fulfillment of the promise and the release of Israel. Gabriel comes to influence the king with truth and love from the heavenly courts—but the prince of Persia and Greece oppose him.

Who are these princes? Jesus refers to Satan as the prince of this world John 12:31—so if Satan is the prince of this world, who would the regional princes be? Some of the fallen angel leaders in Satan's host.

In verse 21 Gabriel tells Daniel that there is none to help him fight against these princes of Satan except Michael.

Now the Bible says only 1/3 of the angels fell out of heaven. How is it that if the good angels have twice as many angels as the evil host do, that there are no other angels available to help Gabriel except Michael?

It all goes to your understanding of what is transpiring—what kind of warfare is going on here?

Satan is the father of lies—we war against lies and selfishness with truth and love.

Gabriel is now the angel who stands closest to the throne of God. No other angel in heaven has more knowledge of God, God's methods, character, the truths of heaven than Gabriel. Thus, there is no other angel that can bring greater amount of love and truth to bear than Gabriel.

One mightier than Gabriel is needed. One who is able to enter into infinity, one who is equal with God and in fact, is God and has life original, unborrowed, underived. Jesus is needed, and Jesus in His pre-incarnate form was Michael—Jesus was NOT an angel. Jesus did manifest in the form of an angel when Jesus left infinity to interact with His created beings prior to His incarnation. Now He has taken humanity upon Himself and lives in a human body. See Exodus 3, the angel of the Lord speaks to Moses from the bush—but it is God. Jesus said His voice raises the dead (John 5:25), Paul says it is the voice of the archangel (1Thes 4:16), and it was Michael who raised Moses according to Jude (vs 9).

So, this is why Michael was the only one available to help Gabriel because no created being could bring more truth and love to bear than Gabriel.

Did God force the king to do what He wanted Him to do? Or did God foreknow that with the influence of truth and love that the king would freely choose to restore Israel?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “We could say...” Then read Ezra 7:10:

For Ezra had devoted himself to the study and observance of the Law of the LORD, and to teaching its decrees and laws in Israel. (NIV84)

Was Ezra chosen of God? For what was Ezra chosen? Why was Ezra chosen?

Did Ezra need to possess certain qualities, abilities, attitudes, dispositions, skills, in order to be suitable for the calling the Lord chose him for?

Was Ezra free to refuse the calling?

What about Jonah—was Jonah called for the same reasons (not purpose, reasons, i.e. his qualities, abilities, attitudes, disposition, skills that were best suited for the mission that Jonah was called)?

Was Jonah free to refuse the calling?

Does God have foreknowledge? Yes, so was it a surprise to God that Jonah ran like he did?

Then, could God have called Jonah to go to Nineveh because of Jonah’s attitude and knowing Jonah would initially resist, but would ultimately choose to go? And in the resistance Jonah would allow God to enhance the impact of Jonah’s message—how? The Ninevites worshipped Dagon, the fish god, so might Jonah, having arrived delivered by a fish, to those who worship the fish-god, be taken more seriously?

So, when God calls a person for a task, a duty, a mission—that means they have the qualities that God desires for His agent to have and if they don’t possess the specific skills necessary the God will gift skills needed to complete the task.

Is there a difference between qualities of character and gifts or skills?

Is there a difference between fruits of the Spirit and gifts of the Spirit?

Can God give people new character without their participation, their choosing? Can God give people abilities or skills without their choosing?

Examples of God gifting skills for tasks:

- Bezalel, Oholiab—skilled with ability to build sanctuary
- Gift of languages to NT church
- Gifts of the Spirit

- Solomon's wisdom
- Samson's strength

When God provides gifts, does God control the use of those gifts?

Can a person use a gift from God for purposes that are not in harmony with God's purposes, plans, or designs?

What does this mean? What does it reveal?

That we are not robots, that even when God give supernatural gifts, skills, abilities, we retain our freedom—why? Because God is love and God operates upon design law and God will not violate His design for life—for His design is perfect and there is no improving upon perfection.

Love only exists in an atmosphere of freedom and God wants our love, trust, loyalty and devotion. This can only be achieved if we are free.

Thus God controls what God controls and God controls Himself and the laws upon which reality operates—one of those laws being the law of liberty. This is why the problem of evil is taking so long to resolve—because God cannot win this war with Satan by might and power—"not by might nor by power but by the Spirit says the Lord."

God in eliminating sin is doing it while sustaining His government, His design laws, His methods. Satan wants to make things so bad that God will eventually step in and use Satan's methods, so that Satan can then claim he was right about God all along.

Sadly, many Christians teach that God does use Satan's methods—and many of those will be deceived when Satan impersonates Christ.

It says Ezra was one who devoted himself to studying and applying God's law. What do you think this means?

Do you think it means he was serious about wanting to understand God, God's methods, designs, purposes and principles? Or, do you think it means he only wanted to memorize a rulebook—to be the best umpire for the Israel's societal "baseball league"—to know a list of rules to follow?

I am frequently asked when I describe design law versus imposed law: Did the people in Old Testament times know about design law?

When God spoke to Adam and Eve and said, "you must not eat from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, for when you eat of it you will surely die." (Gen 2:17 NIV84) what law is being described?

Does God say He will kill them, or that they will die—what kind of law would cause someone to die as a result of the act?

When David wrote the Psalms about meditating upon God's law what was David writing about?

The law of the LORD is perfect, reviving the soul. The statutes of the LORD are trustworthy, making wise the simple. The precepts of the LORD are right, giving joy to the heart. The commands of the LORD are radiant, giving light to the eyes. (Ps 19:7–8 NIV84).

What do you hear in this Psalm? Is David describing rules or a law upon which life is built? A law which has inherent consequence?

What about what Jeremiah wrote—what kind of law is referred to here:

“The time is coming,” declares the LORD, “when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah. It will not be like the covenant I made with their forefathers when I took them by the hand to lead them out of Egypt, because they broke my covenant, though I was a husband to them,” declares the LORD. “This is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel after that time,” declares the LORD. “I will put my law in their minds and write it on their hearts. I will be their God, and they will be my people. No longer will a man teach his neighbor, or a man his brother, saying, ‘Know the LORD,’ because they will all know me, from the least of them to the greatest,” declares the LORD. (Je 31:31–34 NIV84).

- What kind of law can be written into the heart?
- What is the heart? The character, the deep identity and wellsprings of motive, value, methods and affections.
- Is the heart part of a living being?
- Is God's law living principles or dead rules?
- Does the law of love operate on stone, on parchment, or is the law of love a living principle upon which life is based?
- Does lifeless rock love? It doesn't give or receive
- This is the law given at Sinai and this is the old covenant a list of rules, a diagnostic code, a tool to expose the actual sick condition of hearts to lead people to the New Covenant—which is restoring the living law of love into the living being.

Was the knowledge of design law in the Old Testament—yes!

MONDAY/TUESDAY

70 weeks and the 2300 Day Prophecies

Why does the prophecy of Daniel come up when studying the book of Ezra?

Because Daniel 9:24,25 reads:

“Seventy weeks are decreed for your people and your holy city: to finish the transgression, to put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and to anoint a most holy place. Know therefore and understand: from the time that the word went out to restore and rebuild Jerusalem until the time of an anointed prince, there shall be seven weeks; and for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with streets and moat, but in a troubled time. (NRSV

So, Daniel tells us this time prophecy begins with the decree to restore and rebuild Jerusalem and we have that decree recorded in Ezra.

But Ezra records three decrees:

- the first in the first year of Cyrus, about 537 b.c. (Ezra 1:1–4)
- the second in the reign of Darius I, soon after 520 b.c. (Ezra 6:1–12)
- the third in the 7th year of Artaxerxes, 458/457 b.c. (Ezra 7:1–26)

Which one would we pick of these three to start our time prophecy and why?

The angel said to Daniel to start the time with the decree to restore and rebuild Jerusalem—the first two decrees gave authority to rebuild, but the third also restored the civil government of Israel from Jerusalem—the first two did not. So it would be Artaxerxes decree that fulfills the prophecy of Daniel.

And in Bible prophecy a day symbolizes a year:

- “After the number of the days in which ye searched the land, [even] forty days, each day for a year, shall ye bear your iniquities, [even] forty years” Numbers 14:34
- “I have appointed thee each day for a year.” Ezekiel 4:6.

So we start our calculations at 457 b.c. and the first segment is 69 weeks, or 483 years which takes us to 27 AD, and the 70 weeks ends in 34 AD.

In the middle of the last week, or 7-year period, between 27 AD and 34 AD, an end to the sacrificial system occurs.

So, the prophecy tells Daniel that in 483 years from Artaxerxes decree the Messiah will be anointed to bring an end to transgression, and in the middle of that last 7-year period of the 70 weeks, He will bring an end to the sacrificial system by fulfilling what it was pointing toward. He will become the Remedy to our sinful condition.

But this 70-week period is cut off from a larger time prophecy, which is the 2300-year prophecy already mentioned in Daniel 8:14. Thus, the 457 year is also the starting point for the 2300-year prophecy, which ends in 1844.

Daniel 8:14 prophesies that it will be 2300 years until the sanctuary is cleansed.

What is this referring to? What is happening? What is God telling Daniel about?

William Miller, a Baptist preacher, believed the sanctuary here referred to the earth and the cleansing would result in the second coming of Christ. He began to preach this and a huge revival occurred, resulting in the Great Disappointment of October 22, 1844.

In the aftermath of the disappointment sincere followers of Christ reexamined Scripture and found that the Bible does not refer to the earth as the sanctuary and found that the Bible refers to a heavenly sanctuary and this led to the doctrine of the Investigative Judgment.

But, as with every Christian doctrine, it can be taught through the lens of human imposed law or God's design law.

Through the lens of human law this is what is taught:

- sin is a legal problem—breaking God's law
- breaking God's law requires God to inflict just punishments
- God sent Jesus to be our substitute, placed all sins of all time on Him and God punished and executed Jesus in our place
- Jesus in heaven now acts as our High Priest, or legal defense attorney in the heavenly courts pleading our case by presenting His merits (blood) to the heavenly judge.
- We must confess our sins and claim the legal payment of Jesus to our account and in heaven Jesus goes through the legal records and erases from the records the historical deeds
- We are legally accounted to be righteous, even though we are not righteous
- If we forget a sin, or don't ask it to be forgiven or removed, God is required by justice to exclude us from heaven, inflict suffering and kill us which God will do for all those who don't get Jesus' legal payment made to their heavenly account and their sins erased from the books

Does any of this sound wrong to you? Because it is wrong—it is all twisted to represent God through Satan's lies about God that God's law functions like human law and God is the source of inflicted pain and death, and God needs something done to Him in order to not kill us.

When Adam and Eve sinned—did God get changed? Did God's law get changed? Did the condition of humanity get changed? Then where must the work of God take place if human beings are going to be saved? Does God need changing, does God's law need changing, does the condition of human beings need changing?

What kind of war is being waged between Christ and Satan?

- Rev 12 war in heaven—the word war is polemo from which we get polemic, which is a war of word, ideas, beliefs.
- Satan is the father of lies—lies believed break the circle of love and trust.
- Satan lies about God, undermining trust in God and inciting rebellion and infecting hearts with fear and selfishness
- Jesus said the truth will set you free—truth destroys lies and wins to trust

So what kind of war? Thus Paul says:

For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. (2Cor 10:3-5 NIV84)

What kind of war? Where is it being fought?

Consider Daniel 7:21,22:

As I watched, this horn was waging war against the saints and defeating them, until the Ancient of Days came and pronounced judgment in favor of the saints of the Most High, and the time came when they possessed the kingdom. (NIV84)

Do you hear the imperial law view in the translation? The phrase “pronounced judgment makes it sound like a judicial magistrate hears testimony and then pronounces a ruling.

But, what is described in the text, the little horn power waging war against the saints and defeating them—what kind of war? A war of ideas, a war of lies and false beliefs about God. What is it the saints need in order for their minds to be freed—a ruling by a judge or the ability to discern and make a judgment to see through the lies and comprehend the truth?

So, notice the same passage from the KJV:

Until the Ancient of days came, and judgment was given to the saints of the most High; and the time came that the saints possessed the kingdom. Daniel 7:22

The Hebrew word translated “pronounced” actually means “to give” or “to impart” and therefore the KJV is more accurate in this context. Why do the saints of God need judgment (another word for discernment) imparted to them? The Daniel text tells us the horn warred against the saints and was defeating them.

What kind of warfare was going on?

A war of ideas—and where is the battleground? Our hearts and minds—and what is another Bible description of our hearts and minds? The Spirit Temple—or the sanctuary. So, could this be suggesting that after Christ’s successful mission to earth that Satan counter-attacks and defiles the Spirit Temple and that the Spirit Temple needs to be cleansed?

Consider Paul’s words and the connection to the cleansing of the Temple; do you see the connection to our minds:

Concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered to him, we ask you, brothers, not to become easily unsettled or alarmed by some prophecy, report or letter supposed to have come from us, saying that the day of the Lord has already come. Don't let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God. 2Thes 2:1-4

What temple is Paul referring to here?

Paul is describing the exact same events as Daniel 7 in which evil powers war against the saints and oppose God. In the aftermath of Christ's death, resurrection, and ascension into heaven, did this man of lawlessness ride into heaven overthrow God, set himself up in God's temple in heaven, and proclaim himself to be God? No, where did this happen? In the Spirit Temple! In our minds!

And how did Satan get himself set up as God in the minds, beliefs, of people around the world?

By getting them to reject design law and accept the lie that God's law is imposed rules, which is the type of laws that created beings make. Thus, God is worshipped as a dictator rather than the Creator.

The cleansing of the sanctuary, which was to begin in 1844, includes freeing the minds of people from lies about God, particularly God as dictator thus:

Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water." Rev 14:7 NIV84

The time has come in human history for people to be giving judgment, discernment, to make a right judgment about God and to reject the imperial Satanic view of God and worship Him who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water!

Therefore, the cleansing of the temple, as described in the Bible, is the cleansing of our minds from the lies about God, which wins us back to trust and results in our cleansing from sin.

All of this is confirmed for us by the other text describing the same event as Daniel 8:14, Malachi 3:1-3:

Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come," says the Lord Almighty. But who can endure the day of his coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver.

The coming of Christ as our high priest to the most holy place, for the cleansing of the sanctuary, brought to view in Daniel 8:14; the coming of the Son of man to the Ancient of Days, as presented in Daniel 7:13; and the coming of the Lord to His temple, foretold by Malachi, are descriptions of the same event; and this is also represented by the coming of the bridegroom to the marriage, described by Christ in the parable of the ten virgins, of Matthew 25. {GC 426.1}

What is getting cleansed? The Levites. And who are the Levites? The Priesthood of believers (1Pet 2:5,9).

God is cleansing His people from what? 1) the lies about Him which keep us from trusting Him and 2) when we are won back to trust, He cleanses us from sin. God writes His law of love into our hearts. He restores His character of righteousness in us. This is one part of what is happening during the Investigative Judgment.

But what about the records in heaven? Well, what do we believe is recorded in the records that are being cleansed?

Remember, your character is being daguerreotyped [photographed] by the great Master Artist in the record books of heaven, as minutely as the face is reproduced upon the polished plate of the artist. What do the books of heaven say in your case? Are you conforming your character to the Pattern, Jesus Christ? Are you washing your robes of character and making them white in the blood of the Lamb? "Behold, I come quickly; and My reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work shall be" [Revelation 22:12]. . . . {TSB 62.1}

What is recorded in the heavenly records? Our characters—individualities, the Bible says “names” well in the Bible the name is symbolic for what? Character—so our unique personhoods, our characters are being recorded there.

So, what would it mean to cleanse the records in heaven? What needs cleansing—history or hearts and minds of people?

So, what would need cleansing?

In 1844, Christ began the final cleansing of the data sets of all who died trusting Him and removing from them any residual defects that they had not yet fully overcome prior to death, so that when they arise at the resurrection of the righteous they arise with perfect, sinless, purified hearts. The thief on the cross does not arise with a heart of a thief. Martin Luther doesn't arise with hatred of the Jews. These defects are removed from the “records”—their individualities—which are written or stored in the Lamb's book of life.

WEDNESDAY

God's election—the lesson does a very good job of describing the difference of God electing or choosing all humanity for salvation and choosing specific individuals for tasks or missions.

Read last paragraph, “In Romans 9...” Many people get confused on this point when they read about God's predetermination or election of people and they confuse mission/tasks with salvation.

God chose to provide salvation to the species human, it is available to all human beings; however God does select some individuals for specific missions that He doesn't choose others for.

How do we understand passages like God hardened Pharaoh's heart? Does it mean God was the causal agent, it was God's decision or choice for Pharaoh's heart to harden?

No—God controls what God controls and God controls Himself and His laws. One of those the law of liberty another the law of truth—God presented truth to Pharaoh and Pharaoh had to decide his own response to the truth—if Pharaoh accepts it and applies it Pharaoh is transformed, but if Pharaoh rejects it he is hardened. Thus the Bible is right that God hardened Pharaoh's heart by presented the truth AND sustaining His laws of truth and liberty—but Pharaoh hardened his own heart by refusing the truth.

God will not change His laws to meet sinners in sin, thus He sent Jesus to transform humanity from sinfulness back to righteousness—harmony with His law!

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “If we are called by God...” Has God called every human being in history to be saved? Will every person be saved? Why not?

Because of God's design laws—love requires freedom—God's power cannot force trust, loyalty, devotion, love—it can only be won and must be freely given. And some will actually prefer death to living in God's presence.

Can God force, with greater displays of might and power, love and trust?

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Multi-Languages: Check out our multi-language section, it is growing every month.

PODCAST: Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.

MARK YOUR CALENDARS!!! January 17-19, 2020, in Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport) we will have a Come and Reason Ministries: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly.

The Remedy Psalms is complete and online and will soon be updated to the free app.

October 9-12, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the American Association of Christian Counselors World Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel in Nashville. Come and Reason Ministries will have a booth in the exhibit hall sharing our material with the attendees.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

November 24, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Aachen Germany.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

2019 4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 4

Facing Opposition

by Wendell Moses

Preamble: A text without the context is a pretext.

Feb 27, 2017 - Ben Witherington III, one of my favourite New Testament scholars, states “A text without a context is just a pretext for what we want it to mean...”

The full quote, which Dr. Carson ascribes to his father, a Canadian minister, was "A text without a context is a pretext for a proof text." A "proof text" was originally a neutral term for the scriptural text that proved (or was seen to prove) a particular doctrine.

Martyn Lloyd-Jones wrote:

“The heretics were never dishonest men; they were mistaken men. They should not be thought of as men who were deliberately setting out to go wrong and to teach something that is wrong; they have been some of the most sincere men that the Church has ever known. What was the matter with them? Their trouble was this: they evolved a theory and they were rather pleased with it; then they went back with this theory to the Bible, and they seemed to find it everywhere.”

Famous Quotes about Opposition:

“I do not know what to think of my friends, they think opposition is so negative.”

“Opposition: Are you for it or against it.”

“Great spirits have always encountered violent opposition from mediocre minds.” — Albert Einstein

“When people try to bury you, remind yourself you are a seed.” — Matshona Dhliwayo

“It is true that we live in the world, but we do not fight from worldly motives. The weapons we use in our fight are not the world's weapons but God's powerful weapons, which we use to destroy strongholds. We destroy false arguments; we pull down every proud obstacle that is raised against the knowledge of God; we take every thought captive and make it obey Christ.”
2 Corinthians 10:3-5 (GNT)

Memory Text:

“But the eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jews, so that they could not make them cease till a report could go to Darius. Then a written answer was returned concerning this matter.” Ezra 5:5 (NKJV)

Opposition

Real

Open

Passive - Aggressive

Imagined

Infighting

Directional Incongruence

Someone or something is taking an organization / entity in a different direction than desired or designed.

Inactivity of team members

Ever try to haul something heavier than yourself?

“Walking in mud”

Opposition in the Bible

Christ

Moses & Pharaoh

Joseph

at home in Egypt

Potiphar's wife

In Jail

Paul opposed Peter Galatians 2:11 -14

SABBATH

Read first paragraph

Read third paragraph: “Resistance to the work of God is . . .” This describes opposition to building of the second Jewish temple.

Was building of the temple necessary?

Could Christ's mission have been possible without a physical temple for worship to occur?

Was the first temple (tent sanctuary) necessary for worship of the Children of Israel to occur?

Humans crave a physical entity to worship and focus their attentions to God. Throughout history, mankind has had a predilection to revere certain places, things, relics, unusual objects and unusual people.

Mayan temple artifacts:

- created clubfoot deformities.
- All aspects of the temple said something about God and the reality of the universe.
 - Most aspects of the sanctuary service pointed directly to Christ.

What was the purpose of building the temple and the restoring the wall of Jerusalem?

- It provided a focus for worship
- It helped to purify the worship of the true God
- It prepared the hearts of the builders.

In 2019 - Do we have a temple at the present time?

Do people believe that the current temple can be purified?

Is there current opposition to purification / restoration of the current temple?

Jesus Studied Natural Train of Thought—The beneficent operations of nature are not accomplished by abrupt and startling interpositions; men are not permitted to take her work into their own hands. God works through the calm, regular operation of His appointed laws. So it is in spiritual things. Satan is constantly seeking to produce effects by rude and violent thrusts; but Jesus found access to minds by the pathway of their most familiar associations. He disturbed as little as possible their accustomed train of thought, by abrupt actions or prescribed rules. He honored man with His confidence, and thus placed him on his honor. He introduced old truths in a new and precious light. Thus, when only twelve years old, He astonished the doctors of the law by His questions in the temple. {Ev 139.5}

What would have happened if Christ fed the disciples veggieburgers and fruit salad on the beach instead of fish)? What would the take home message have been?

What is the take home message people have when they come to an Adventist potluck?

SUNDAY

Opposition Begins

Ezra 4:1 - 5 - refusal to let the neighbors help build the temple

- Who were these people?
 - 2 Kings 17:24 - 41
- Who / what did they worship?
- What was their status in times of Christ?
 - Why?
 - Who told them (the Jews) to do what they were doing?
 - Do we (as Seventh-day Adventists Christians) have anything equivalent today?
 - A people group that we blame for many ills.
 - A movement or organization that is characterized by negative descriptives.
 - A group or organization that is described as apostatizing, that has combined worship of God with pagan practices, different worship practices from our own?

“Do not try to work together as equals with unbelievers, for it cannot be done. How can right and wrong be partners? How can light and darkness live together? How can Christ and the Devil agree? What does a believer have in common with an unbeliever? How can God's temple come to terms with pagan idols? For we are the temple of the living God!” 2 Corinthians 6:14-16 (GNT)

How did Christ treat the Samaritan people?

Traveling and came to a Samaritan village that wouldn't accept him due to his destination.

- Went to another village
- Sent his disciples to preach two by two, but not to the Samaritan villages.
- The Good Samaritan
- The ten lepers
- Woman at the Samaritan village well

Jesus assumed humanity, that He might meet humanity. He brings men under the transforming power of truth by meeting them where they are. He gains access to the heart by securing sympathy and confidence, making all feel that His identification with their nature and interest is complete. The truth came from His lips beautiful in its simplicity, yet clothed with dignity and power. What a teacher was our Lord Jesus Christ! How tenderly did He treat every honest enquirer after truth, that He might gain admission to the sympathies, and find a home in the heart.—Manuscript 44, 1894. {Ev 140.1}

MONDAY

Prophets Encourage

Read the first paragraph...Why did the Jews who had returned to Palestine stop working on the temple

How do you know that you are doing what you are supposed to be doing?

- Loma Linda University Merger
 - 1967 - voted to merge two campuses
 - 1990 - voted to separate La Sierra & Loma Linda campuses programs.
- White Memorial move

“At that time two prophets, Haggai and Zechariah son of Iddo, began to speak in the name of the God of Israel to the Jews who lived in Judah and Jerusalem. When Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Joshua son of Jehozadak heard their messages, they began to rebuild the Temple in Jerusalem, and the two prophets helped them.” Ezra 4:24 - 5:2 (GNT)

Read the 3rd paragraph: “The Jews had stopped building . . .” I am intrigued by the statement: “Human opposition doesn't stop God”

If nothing stops God, why should I be worried or stressed by fulfilling God's word / instructions to me?

Is it possible to slow the “work of God”?

Is it possible to cause a delay in His coming?

“Since all these things will be destroyed in this way, what kind of people should you be? Your lives should be holy and dedicated to God, as you wait for the Day of God and do your best to make it come soon—the Day when the heavens will burn up and be destroyed, and the heavenly bodies will be melted by the heat. But we wait for what God has promised: new heavens and a new earth, where righteousness will be at home.” 2 Peter 3:11-13 (GNT)

Who loses if I stop cooperating with God? What was Haggai’s message?

Haggai 1 (GNT with Deuterocanon):

During the second year that Darius was emperor of Persia, on the first day of the sixth month, the Lord spoke through the prophet Haggai. The message was for the governor of Judah, Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and for the High Priest, Joshua son of Jehozadak.

The Lord Almighty said to Haggai, "These people say that this is not the right time to rebuild the Temple." The Lord then gave this message to the people through the prophet Haggai: "My people, why should you be living in well-built houses while my Temple lies in ruins? Don't you see what is happening to you? You have planted much grain, but have harvested very little. You have food to eat, but not enough to make you full. You have wine to drink, but not enough to get drunk on! You have clothing, but not enough to keep you warm. And workers cannot earn enough to live on. Can't you see why this has happened? Now go up into the hills, get lumber, and rebuild the Temple; then I will be pleased and will be worshiped as I should be.

"You hoped for large harvests, but they turned out to be small. And when you brought the harvest home, I blew it away. Why did I do that? Because my Temple lies in ruins while every one of you is busy working on your own house. That is why there is no rain and nothing can grow. I have brought drought on the land—on its hills, grainfields, vineyards, and olive orchards—on every crop the ground produces, on people and animals, on everything you try to grow."

The People Obey the Lord's Command

Then Zerubbabel and Joshua and all the people who had returned from the exile in Babylonia, did what the Lord their God told them to do. They were afraid and obeyed the prophet Haggai, the Lord's messenger. Then Haggai gave the Lord's message to the people: "I will be with you—that is my promise." The Lord inspired everyone to work on the Temple: Zerubbabel, the governor of Judah; Joshua, the High Priest, and all the people who had returned from the exile.

They began working on the Temple of the Lord Almighty, their God, on the twenty-fourth day of the sixth month of the second year that Darius was emperor.

TUESDAY

Work Stoppage

Read 3rd paragraph: “It is apparent that . . .” Were they supposed to keep working when the federal government showed up with an army to stop them?

Are we to question our understandings when issues arise that make it difficult to accomplish something we think we are to be doing?

The enemies of the Jews wrote letters

Read the letter to Emperor Artaxerxes: Ezra 4:11 – 16. Read the 2nd paragraph and the 3rd paragraph

Was what was in the letters correct?

Was this reason to stop work on the temple?

When Satan presents your faults and failings to you, is he telling the truth?

- Only part of the truth
 - He is telling the truth about your failings and faults
 - He is not telling the truth that you are actually a victor in Christ Jesus and that it is useful to try to follow Christ.
 - What words do you have in your head?
 - What do you hear over and over?

Bible Word Study: Read Biblical Passages on Victory

- John 16:31 - 33
- Romans 8:31 - 39
- 1 Corinthians 15:56 - 58
- 2 Corinthians 2:14
- Philippians 1:27 - 30
- 2 Timothy 4:6 - 8
- 1 John 5:1 - 5
- Revelation 2:25 - 28
- Revelation 3:5
- Revelation 15:2 - 4
- Revelation 21:6, 7

WEDNESDAY

Nehemiah Takes Action (444 B.C.)

Read Nehemiah 4:16, 17, 18, 21, 23 Why was Nehemiah having to work so hard? Wasn't he doing God's work?

It looks like he was having to strategize and plan an awful lot.

"Trust the Lord with all your heart, and do not rely on your own understanding. In all your ways acknowledge him, and he will make your paths smooth." Proverbs 3:5-6 (GW)

The angel told me to give Zerubbabel this message from the Lord: "You will succeed, not by military might or by your own strength, but by my spirit. Obstacles as great as mountains will disappear before you. You will rebuild the Temple, and as you put the last stone in place, the people will shout, 'Beautiful, beautiful!'" Zechariah 4:6-7 (GNT with Deuterocanon) "

"To conclude: you must all have the same attitude and the same feelings; love one another, and be kind and humble with one another. Do not pay back evil with evil or cursing with cursing; instead, pay back with a blessing, because a blessing is what God promised to give you when he called you. As the scripture says, "If you want to enjoy life and wish to see good times, you must keep from speaking evil and stop telling lies. You must turn away from evil and do good; you must strive for peace with all your heart. For the Lord watches over the righteous and listens to their prayers; but he opposes those who do evil." Who will harm you if you are eager to do what is good? But even if you should suffer for doing what is right, how happy you are! Do not be afraid of anyone, and do not worry. But have reverence for Christ in your hearts, and honor him as Lord. Be ready at all times to answer anyone who asks you to explain the hope you have in you, but do it with gentleness and respect. Keep your conscience clear, so that when you are insulted, those who speak evil of your good conduct as followers of Christ will become ashamed of what they say. 1 Peter 3:8 - 16 (GNT)

Read the question section at the bottom of the page.

"The Lord says, "I will instruct you. I will teach you the way that you should go. I will advise you as my eyes watch over you." Psalms 32:8 (GW)

"Don't be stubborn like a horse or mule. They need a bit and bridle in their mouth to restrain them, or they will not come near you." Psalms 32:9 (GW)

Integrative, Evidence-based approach

- Scripture
- Science
- Experience

It wasn't until the priests carrying the ark got their feet wet that the River Jordan stopped and allowed the Children of Israel to pass over in flood stage.

Lets play “Pretend”:

- How would you have felt if you were one of the priests.
- You probably couldn’t swim
- The river was flowing over its banks.

THURSDAY

Doing a “Great Work” (Nehemiah 6)

How Missionary Service May Be Restricted—In sending missionaries to distant countries, those men should be selected who know how to economize, who have not large families, and who, realizing the shortness of time and the great work to be accomplished, will not fill their hands and houses with children, but will keep themselves as free as possible from everything that will divert their minds from their one great work. The wife, if devoted and left free to do so, can, by standing by the side of her husband, accomplish as much as he. God has blessed woman with talents to be used to His glory in bringing many sons and daughters to God; but many who might be efficient laborers are kept at home to care for their little ones. {AH 165.3}

“Train,” Not “Tell”—To parents is committed the great work of educating and training their children for the future, immortal life. Many fathers and mothers seem to think that if they feed and clothe their little ones, and educate them according to the standard of the world, they have done their duty. They are too much occupied with business or pleasure to make the education of their children the study of their lives. They do not seek to train them so that they will employ their talents for the honor of their Redeemer. Solomon did not say, “Tell a child the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it.” But, “Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it.”²⁴ {CG 38.2}

“The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and the knowledge of the holy is understanding” [Proverbs 9:10.] The great work of life is character-building; and a knowledge of God is the foundation of all true education. To impart this knowledge, and to mould the character in harmony with it, should be the object of the teacher’s work. The law of God is a reflection of his character. Hence the psalmist says, “All thy commandments are righteousness;” [Psalm 119:172.] and “through thy precepts I get understanding.” [Psalm 119:104.] God has revealed himself to us in his word and in the works of creation. Through the volume of inspiration and the book of nature, we are to obtain a knowledge of God. {CE 64.3}

It is not the Lord’s purpose that ministers should be left to do the greatest part of the work of sowing the seeds of truth. Men who are not called to the ministry are to be encouraged to labor for the Master according to their several ability. Hundreds of men and women now idle could do acceptable service. By carrying the truth into the homes of their friends and neighbors, they could do a great work for the Master.—Testimonies for the Church 7:21. {ChS 67.2}

The Samaritan woman who talked with Jesus at Jacob's well had no sooner found the Saviour than she brought others to Him. She proved herself a more effective missionary than His own disciples. The disciples saw nothing in Samaria to indicate that it was an encouraging field. Their thoughts were fixed upon a great work to be done in the future. They did not see that right around them was a harvest to be gathered. But through the woman whom they despised a whole city full were brought to hear Jesus. She carried the light at once to her countrymen. This woman represents the working of a practical faith in Christ.—The Ministry of Healing, 102. {ChS 97.2}

There is a great work to be done, and every effort possible must be made to reveal Christ as the sin-pardoning Saviour, Christ as the Sin Bearer, Christ as the bright and morning Star; and the Lord will give us favor before the world until our work is done.—Testimonies for the Church 6:20, 21 (1900). {CM 11.3}

“The striking feature of divine operations is the accomplishment of the greatest work that can be done in our world by very simple means. It is God's plan that every part of His government shall depend on every other part, the whole as a wheel within a wheel, working with entire harmony. He moves upon human forces, causing His Spirit to touch invisible cords, and the vibration rings to the extremity of the universe.” {Ms22-1897.18}

As Christ presented these truths to minds, He broke up their accustomed train of thought as little as possible. Nevertheless a new and transforming economy of truth must be woven into their experience. He, therefore, aroused their minds by presenting truth through the agency of their most familiar associations. He used illustrations in His teaching which called into activity their most hallowed recollections and sympathies, that He might reach the inner temple of the soul. Identifying Himself with their interests, He drew His illustrations from the great book of nature, using objects with which they were familiar. The lily of the field, the seed sown by the sower, the springing up of the seed, and the harvesting of the grain, the birds of the air,—all these figures He used from which to present divine truth; for those would remind them of His lessons whenever they should afterward look upon them.—Manuscript 25, 1890, 4-6. (Untitled Ms, n. d.) {1MR 22.2}

FRIDAY

The Builders on the Wall, A Rebuke Against Extortion, Heathen Plots

Read Biblical Passages on Victory

Then his disciples said to him, "Now you are speaking plainly, without using figures of speech. We know now that you know everything; you do not need to have someone ask you questions. This makes us believe that you came from God." Jesus answered them, "Do you believe now? The time is coming, and is already here, when all of you will be scattered, each of you to your own home, and I will be left all alone. But I am not really alone, because the Father is with me. I have told you this so that you will have peace by being united to me. The world will make you suffer. But be brave! I have defeated the world!" John 16:29-33 (GNT with Deuterocanon)

“In view of all this, what can we say? If God is for us, who can be against us? Certainly not God, who did not even keep back his own Son, but offered him for us all! He gave us his Son—will he not also freely give us all things? Who will accuse God's chosen people? God himself declares them not guilty! Who, then, will condemn them? Not Christ Jesus, who died, or rather, who was raised to life and is at the right side of God, pleading with him for us! Who, then, can separate us from the love of Christ? Can trouble do it, or hardship or persecution or hunger or poverty or danger or death? As the scripture says, "For your sake we are in danger of death at all times; we are treated like sheep that are going to be slaughtered." No, in all these things we have complete victory through him who loved us! For I am certain that nothing can separate us from his love: neither death nor life, neither angels nor other heavenly rulers or powers, neither the present nor the future, neither the world above nor the world below—there is nothing in all creation that will ever be able to separate us from the love of God which is ours through Christ Jesus our Lord.” Romans 8:31-39 (GNT)

Death gets its power to hurt from sin, and sin gets its power from the Law. But thanks be to God who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ! So then, my dear friends, stand firm and steady. Keep busy always in your work for the Lord, since you know that nothing you do in the Lord's service is ever useless. 1 Corinthians 15:56-58 (GNT with Deuterocanon)

“But thanks be to God! For in union with Christ we are always led by God as prisoners in Christ's victory procession. God uses us to make the knowledge about Christ spread everywhere like a sweet fragrance. For we are like a sweet-smelling incense offered by Christ to God, which spreads among those who are being saved and those who are being lost. For those who are being lost, it is a deadly stench that kills; but for those who are being saved, it is a fragrance that brings life. Who, then, is capable for such a task? We are not like so many others, who handle God's message as if it were cheap merchandise; but because God has sent us, we speak with sincerity in his presence, as servants of Christ.” 2 Corinthians 2:14-17 (GNT)

“Now, the important thing is that your way of life should be as the gospel of Christ requires, so that, whether or not I am able to go and see you, I will hear that you are standing firm with one common purpose and that with only one desire you are fighting together for the faith of the gospel. Don't be afraid of your enemies; always be courageous, and this will prove to them that they will lose and that you will win, because it is God who gives you the victory. For you have been given the privilege of serving Christ, not only by believing in him, but also by suffering for him. Now you can take part with me in the battle. It is the same battle you saw me fighting in the past, and as you hear, the one I am fighting still.” Philippians 1:27-30 (GNT)

“As for me, the hour has come for me to be sacrificed; the time is here for me to leave this life. I have done my best in the race, I have run the full distance, and I have kept the faith. And now there is waiting for me the victory prize of being put right with God, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will give me on that Day—and not only to me, but to all those who wait with love for him to appear.” 2 Timothy 4:6 - 8 2 Timothy 4:6-8 (GNT)

“Whoever believes that Jesus is the Messiah is a child of God; and whoever loves a father loves his child also. This is how we know that we love God’s children: it is by loving God and obeying his commands. For our love for God means that we obey his commands. And his commands are not too hard for us, because every child of God is able to defeat the world. And we win the victory over the world by means of our faith. Who can defeat the world? Only the person who believes that Jesus is the Son of God.” 1 John 5:1 - 5 1 John 5:1-5 (GNT)

“But until I come, you must hold firmly to what you have. To those who win the victory, who continue to the end to do what I want, I will give the same authority that I received from my Father: I will give them authority over the nations, to rule them with an iron rod and to break them to pieces like clay pots. I will also give them the morning star.” Revelation 2:25-28 (GNT)

“Those who win the victory will be clothed like this in white, and I will not remove their names from the book of the living. In the presence of my Father and of his angels I will declare openly that they belong to me.” Revelation 3:5 Revelation 3:5 (GNT)

“Then I saw what looked like a sea of glass mixed with fire. I also saw those who had won the victory over the beast and its image and over the one whose name is represented by a number. They were standing by the sea of glass, holding harps that God had given them and singing the song of Moses, the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb:

"Lord God Almighty,
how great and wonderful are your deeds!
King of the nations,
how right and true are your ways!
Who will not stand in awe of you, Lord?
Who will refuse to declare your greatness?
You alone are holy.
All the nations will come and worship you, because your just actions are seen by all."

Revelation 15:2-4 (GNT with Deuterocanon)

“Then the one who sits on the throne said, "And now I make all things new!" He also said to me, "Write this, because these words are true and can be trusted." And he said, "It is done! I am the first and the last, the beginning and the end. To anyone who is thirsty I will give the right to drink from the spring of the water of life without paying for it. Those who win the victory will receive this from me: I will be their God, and they will be my children.” Revelation 21:5-7 (GNT)

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 5

Violating the Spirit of the Law

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

What does the title of the lesson bring to mind? Any examples jump out at you from either Scripture or from your own life experience?

I think of the example of the church-school teacher I write about in chapter seven of The God-Shaped Heart whose husband physically abused her, and after years of suffering, after going to the pastor for help, she finally moved out and filed for divorce. The husband went to the conference officials and complained that she was divorcing him without Biblical grounds as he had not had sex with another person and therefore she was unfit to teach in a Christian school—and the conference fired her from her job.

Why do violations of the spirit of the law occur?

- Because of rule-keeping—it has to do with immaturity and not actually understanding God's law. It is because people believe the lie that God's law functions like human law—rules imposed and have not yet come to understand and practice design law.
- Rule keeping—level four and below—doesn't lead to change of heart, thus selfishness reigns in the heart. The legal system of religion allows a person to maintain selfishness while appearing righteous by keeping their rules. Look at the Pharisees and how they kept rules but hurt people.
 - Corban—rather than caring for parents
 - Refusal to associate with non-Jews
 - Willingness to stone woman caught in adultery rather than try and save her
 - Rejection of Jesus and wanting Him off the cross to keep the Sabbath

The seven levels of moral development:

1. Reward and Punishment
2. Marketplace Exchange
3. Social Conformity
4. Law and Order
5. Love for Others
6. Principled-based Living
7. Understanding Friend of God

Violations of the spirit of the law occur by those operating at level four and below because the motive remains selfish. Only those at level five and above, those who have been reborn to love God and others more than self will live in harmony with the spirit of the law.

And those who live in harmony with the spirit of the law will often find themselves violating rules of their religious organization—examples:

- Jesus healing on Sabbath
- Jesus touching lepers
- Jesus talking to women
- Jesus talking to and socializing with non-Jews, tax collectors, prostitutes
- Disciples not ritually washing hands before eating
- Disciples plucking grain on Sabbath

And don't forget the story of the Good Samaritan...

Any examples in our world today?

Read first paragraph, "To this day..." Do we all agree that as Christians, as people who love God and Jesus and who want to represent God's kingdom of love, we are to love other people and seek to help those who need help? So we agree we all want to help the poor?

Okay—we all agree on the goal—does that mean we all agree on the method, on the best way, the specific action to take in helping the poor?

There is generally no disagreement on helping people who are incapacitated or disabled, or in providing assistance to people without disability but have suffered in catastrophic circumstances: natural disaster (Katrina), house fire, healthcare issue with medical bills beyond ability to pay, downsizing of company and loss of job etc.

But, what about people who are able to care for themselves, but instead of doing so refuse to work?

There are two philosophies: Paternalism versus Autonomy

Both philosophies will have as their goal the good of others, but their methods diverge.

Paternalism takes the position that the person in authority—doctor in medical setting, politician in governmental setting—knows better than the individual (patient or citizen) and that the person in authority functions like a parent and will make decisions for the individual which the individual must follow—irrespective of that person's ability to make their own decisions. The idea is that the person in authority knows better than the individual.

Autonomy takes the position that those in authority utilize their abilities to promote the autonomy of others and respect their decision-making, even if it is detrimental to their own health or wellbeing—assuming they have the ability to understand their choices—an adult who chooses to smoke for example.

In our society we have a mixture of both approaches going on simultaneously.

- Marijuana—illegality is a form of paternalism, recreational legality is a form of autonomy
- In communist and socialist countries paternalism is predominant
- In our country autonomy is predominant—but is under assault by social progressives who believe in a paternalistic approach of state-run programs for all people

What method is most Christlike?

- Every person should be fully convinced in his own mind. Rom 14:5
- Not by might nor by power but by the Spirit says the Lord Zech 4:6
- “Instead, speaking the truth in love, we will in all things grow up into him who is the Head, that is, Christ.” Eph 4:15

Presenting truth in love with various options while leaving people free is God’s method—thus autonomy—why is this God’s method?

Because of the design law of liberty—love only exists in atmosphere of freedom. God wants our love, trust, loyalty, devotion—and that we become understanding friends (John 15:15). As the Ephesians text above says, He wants us to grow up into mature people, which requires we think for ourselves and make choices for ourselves. Why?

Because of the design law of exertion—strength comes by exercise, not just physical strength but strength of character. People must exercise their own individuality to make decisions for themselves in order to grow and develop. The mature are those who have developed by practice the ability to discern the right from the wrong (Heb 5:14).

If we take the paternalistic approach and provide everything for everyone, then we:

- obstruct freedom, which damages love and incites rebellion
- infantilize and undermine development.
 - Some people in the political sphere want this because when people become infantilized they are dependent on the source of their sustenance, thus they become a predictable voting bloc. But such an approach is not in harmony with God’s design.

In Bible times the widows and poor had mechanisms to get food for free, what was the mechanism? Gleaning in the fields.

What is the difference upon the poor who are getting the help between gleaning and staying at home and having someone else bring you groceries or giving you money to buy groceries? Again, we are talking about people who are capable, not the paralytic, the demented, the psychotic.

The goal of the Christian is to assist every person to develop their God-given abilities to the fullest. Thus, we do not deny people opportunity, we create opportunity and there are multiple ways to do this. But there are also multiple ways to deny opportunity. The obvious evil ways are:

- discrimination based on sex, race, religion etc.
- slavery
- refusing education (which occurs to women in some Muslim countries today)

But there are other ways to deny opportunity:

- giving handouts to those capable of work but provide no avenue for employment or autonomy
- providing a motorized wheelchair in the home of a person capable of walking
- doing for someone what they are able to do for themselves

SUNDAY

Read Nehemiah 5:1-5:

Now the men and their wives raised a great outcry against their Jewish brothers. ² Some were saying, “We and our sons and daughters are numerous; in order for us to eat and stay alive, we must get grain.”

³ Others were saying, “We are mortgaging our fields, our vineyards and our homes to get grain during the famine.”

⁴ Still others were saying, “We have had to borrow money to pay the king’s tax on our fields and vineyards. ⁵ Although we are of the same flesh and blood as our countrymen and though our sons are as good as theirs, yet we have to subject our sons and daughters to slavery. Some of our daughters have already been enslaved, but we are powerless, because our fields and our vineyards belong to others.”

The lesson points out that the rich and empowered were using the poor for their own gain.

Do we agree that exploiting people is wrong—that we should not exploit others for our own gain?

In every culture of the world, evil is defined, at its root, as exploiting another person, or even animals, for our own selfish gain.

M. Scott Peck wrote a book called People of the Lie in it he described human evil, not the evil all can see like the child molester, rapist, murderer, that evil is easy to see. He described the evil that masquerades as righteousness.

If we look at this definition—people in power exploiting those without power for their own gain, do we see that in societies today?

- In the Soviet Union, China, and Cuba, did/do people in power exploit those without it? (Communism)
- In Nazi Germany did people in power exploit those without it? (Socialism)
- In England and US did people in power exploit people without it—railroad barons, mining corporations etc.? (Capitalism)

Is there any human government that is immune from exploitation of others?

What about today in America? Are there ways people are exploited under the guise of doing them good?

What about programs that are framed as providing for the poor, but prevent the poor from becoming autonomous?

What about programs that send food to third world countries to help prevent malnutrition?

According to the Foundation for Economic Education:

Economists Nathan Nunn and Nancy Qian published research in the American Economic Review examining the causal effect of US food aid on conflict within poor countries. On average, “An increase in US food aid increases the incidence and duration of civil conflicts.”

Nunn and Qian suggest this is due to the fact that food aid can be easily stolen by armed groups or corrupt governments and used to prolong their struggles against each other.¹

If we love others, do we need to evaluate the impact our actions have on them?

Do we need to ask if our actions are causing harm, enabling dysfunction and dependency under the guise of compassion or are we helping people grow to the fullest stature of children of God possible?

From the same article as the quote above on the Foundation for Economic Education website:

Too often, policies are judged on their own terms — “X tons of food aid were delivered, therefore mission accomplished!” — and how they make us feel, rather than on a sober analysis of their overall effect. But Milton Friedman’s observation is as valid today as when he first said it: the results of a given policy do not depend on the intentions of its creators. Friedman’s insight should lead us to embrace a more skeptical view of the state and its ability to solve every social problem.

Is having a good intention enough, or do we need to consider the impact and reevaluate the specific action?

The lesson in the second paragraph states, “They had already lost their land, and now they had to send someone from the family, usually children, to be in the service of the creditor in order to work off the debt.”

¹ <https://fee.org/articles/3-policies-with-good-intentions-and-tragic-results/>

What do you think about this? Is such an arrangement evil—always?

Could such an arrangement—becoming indebted and then working for the creditor to pay off the debt—actually be good?

I was the recipient of a Health Professions Scholarship Program scholarship from the US Army. The US government paid my way through medical school and I became indebted to the government for this. Afterward, I was required to serve in the US Army a number of years to pay back my debt. Was this evil?

What would make working to pay off debt wrong or evil? Would it be forcing a person to work against their will, rather than a willful arrangement like I had?

Would it be the terms of the arrangement?

Would it be when children are involved?

MONDAY

In the second paragraph it points out that for Israel lending money was permitted but charging interest was not allowed.

What do you think of this rule?

Do you think if this was the law in our society—banks and lending institutions could lend money, but they could not charge interest—that the poor would be better off? Why or why not?

What would likely happen in our society if interest was outlawed?

Would there be more “loan sharks” making illegal loans at exorbitant rates and threats of violence if one didn’t pay?

The lesson points out that Nehemiah took a stand for the spirit of the law even though the law was not technically broken.

Are there any lessons for us today?

Is it good to loan a person money, even without interest, if that person is unlikely to be able to pay it back? What would be better than a loan and why?

TUESDAY

Read third paragraph, “Nehemiah’s initial argument centers...” So it was wrong to buy and sell their own people—does that mean it was right to buy and sell other people?

In Bible times some people chose to be slaves—they would have their ears pierced and a ring put in them to mark them as voluntary slaves to a particular house for life.

“If a fellow-Israelite sells himself or herself to you as a slave, you are to release them after they have served you for six years. When the seventh year comes, you must let them go free. When you set them free, do not send them away empty-handed. Give to them generously from what the LORD has blessed you with—sheep, corn, and wine. Remember that you were slaves in Egypt and the LORD your God set you free; that is why I am now giving you this command.

16 “But your slave may not want to leave; he may love you and your family and be content to stay. Then take him to the door of your house and there pierce his ear; he will then be your slave for life. Treat your female slave in the same way. Do not be resentful when you set a slave free; after all, the slave has served you for six years at half the cost of a hired servant. Do this, and the LORD your God will bless you in all that you do. DT 15:12-18 GNB

Why would people choose this?

In the last paragraph it states that Nehemiah loaned money but didn’t charge interest.

- Did people still go into debt?
- What do you think Nehemiah did for those who didn’t repay the debt?
- Do you think he continued to loan to those who didn’t repay?
- What happens in the heart/mind of the person who borrows but makes no attempt to repay? Would it “help” such a person to continue to loan them money?
- Do you think Nehemiah would loan to those who could work but refused?

In other words, even if one doesn’t charge interest are there still other standards or criteria one uses to determine to whom one loans, or does one loan to whomever asks?

What would be the criteria if we use God’s principles?

- What happens to a person who borrows money but does not pay it back?
- What would happen if we continued to loan to such a person—to them?
- Does increasing debt bring greater peace and wellbeing?
- Does failure to repay a debt increase one’s sense of integrity?

So is it helpful to loan to a person with a history of failure to repay? What would be helpful?

WEDNESDAY

Read first two paragraphs, “Even though...” What do you think about these interventions?

Why did Jesus say make no oaths, let your yes be yes and no be no?

What about the curse—why pronounce a curse?

Does this entire event reveal something about the maturity of those with whom Nehemiah was dealing?

Public oaths are more likely to be needed on selfish people, who will be held accountable by the peer and social pressures and their own selfish need to maintain their reputation.

Mature people who are like Christ don't need that extra pressure, if they say they will do it, they will.

The curse also is a therapeutic intervention for the immature, like a parent who threatens a spanking for playing in the street. The mature adult doesn't need a threat from their parent, they know the dangers and won't play in the street. But the child needs the additional threat.

In this case, the threat was further evidence of how immature the people were that it was necessary to give them the added help for them to follow through on their promises.

Now, what happens to a child who plays in the street, what is the danger, what is the worst outcome?

What happens to the person who makes a promise and doesn't keep it?

What happens to a person who does evil—exploits others?

This is design law, so there is a curse, but it is the natural result of violating God's design life.

THURSDAY

Read Nehemiah 5:14-18,

14 During all the twelve years that I was governor of the land of Judah, from the twentieth year that Artaxerxes was emperor until his 32nd year, neither my relatives nor I ate the food I was entitled to have as governor. ¹⁵Every governor who had been in office before me had been a burden to the people and had demanded 40 silver coins a day for food and wine. Even their servants had oppressed the people. But I acted differently, because I honoured God. ¹⁶I put all my energy into rebuilding the wall and did not acquire any property. Everyone who worked for me joined in the rebuilding. ¹⁷I regularly fed at my table 150 of the Jewish people and their leaders, besides all the people who came to me from the surrounding nations. ¹⁸Every day I served one ox, six of the best sheep, and many chickens, and every ten days I provided a fresh supply of wine. But I knew what heavy burdens the people had to bear, so I did not claim the allowance that the governor is entitled to.

What is demonstrated? Did Nehemiah have a vision for the success of the country, the people, and not for himself?

Do you know of any modern leaders who refused their entitled pay and focuses on making their country better?

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

November 24, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Aachen Germany.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 6

The Reading of the Word

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, “The Jerusalem wall...” We believe the Bible records real people who did real things—in other words real historical events. But we also believe that Israel was not only real people doing real things, but what is recorded in Scripture serves as lessons for us teaching us a larger reality.

- The OT Sacrificial system—they really built it, they really sacrificed animals in it, but it was all theater, an object lesson to teach a larger reality
- The seven miracles births, real historical events, but all pointed to Jesus
- Joseph sold as slave by his brothers to rise and become ruler—real historical event, but object lesson of Jesus our Savior
- The children of Israel historically crossed the Red Sea and Paul teaches it was an object lesson for baptism going from the land of sinfulness, captivity, to the land of promise the land of freedom through the water.
- Jerusalem a historic real city—but an object lesson for the New Jerusalem

What is the object lesson that is taught through the real historic events of the captivity of Israel, their being set free and the rebuilding of the walls—and then the reading of the Word?

- Why did they go into captivity?
 - Because of rejection of God and choosing false gods. This resulted in God withdrawing His protective hand and enemies taking them into captivity.
 - What happens to us, our hearts and minds, when we reject the truth about God and prefer the methods and ways of the sinful world? Does God give us the freedom to do this? And do we go into the captivity of sinfulness, fear, selfishness, addictions?
- When Israel was taken captive was the temple defiled and destroyed?
 - When we go into captivity of sin is the Spirit temple defiled and if not cleansed eventually destroyed?
 - Jesus came to earth as a human and told them “destroy this temple and in three days I will rebuild it.” Did Jesus rebuild the Spirit temple eliminate sin and restore God’s perfection and God’s design law into the species human?
 - But, after the Christ’s victory did Satan counterattack the truth Jesus revealed and set himself up in God’s temple proclaiming himself to be god? How? By getting people to reject the truth of God’s design law and God’s character of love and instead embrace imposed law and see God as a dictator—the source of inflicted pain and suffering. Thus the Spirit temple became defiled—the hearts and minds of men—and humanity was again held captive by lies about God.
- Did God’s Spirit move upon the king to set Israel free?
 - Does God’s Spirit move upon our hearts seeking to get us to repent, to surrender to Him, in order to set us free?

- Is Holy Spirit moving upon people today with an end time message designed to teach people the truth about God's design law in order to free people from the captivity of believing lies about God and His law?
- Did the people of Israel once set free begin rebuilding the temple and the walls around the city?
 - Since 1844 has a message about God as Creator and His law as design law, that when accepted cleanses the mind from the imposed law lies and thus restores us to trust for the Spirit to cleanse our hearts—the spirit temple—been going forward? And has this message been repairing the breach in the law?

Consider this quote from a book called Prophets and Kings:

The spiritual restoration of which the work carried forward in Nehemiah's day was a symbol, is outlined in the words of Isaiah: "They shall build the old wastes, they shall raise up the former desolations, and they shall repair the waste cities." "They that shall be of thee shall build the old waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations; and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in." Isaiah 61:4; 58:12. {PK 677.2}

The prophet here describes a people who, in a time of general departure from truth and righteousness, are seeking to restore the principles that are the foundation of the kingdom of God. They are repairers of a breach that has been made in God's law--the wall that He has placed around His chosen ones for their protection, and obedience to whose precepts of justice, truth, and purity is to be their perpetual safeguard. {PK 677.3}

In words of unmistakable meaning the prophet points out the specific work of this remnant people who build the wall. "If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on My holy day; and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable; and shalt honor Him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words: then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord; and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it." Isaiah 58:13, 14. {PK 678.1}

In the time of the end every divine institution is to be restored. The breach made in the law at the time the Sabbath was changed by man, is to be repaired. God's remnant people, standing before the world as reformers, are to show that the law of God is the foundation of all enduring reform [why? Because it is the law of life, the principles upon which life is established and operates. One cannot have health in violations of the laws of health] and that the Sabbath of the fourth commandment is to stand as a memorial of creation, a constant reminder of the power of God. [What do you hear when you hear this? Do you think might and power? If so, why does Zechariah say not by might nor by power but by the Spirit says the Lord? What power did God display on the 7th day of creation week? Is the Sabbath a memorial to physical power of to another power—the power of truth and love, the power of God's character, the power of design law. What did Paul say, "I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God for the salvation of everyone who believes: first for the Jew, then for the Gentile.” Romans 1:16 NIV84. What kind of power is the gospel? What kind of war has Satan waged? A war of ideas, words, not a war of power. Then what kind of power is necessary to defeat Satan? The power of truth and love. Do we see the Sabbath as a memorial of truth, love and freedom? Or do we misrepresent it by promoting the idea of imperialism and force?] In clear, distinct lines they are to present the necessity of obedience to all the precepts of the Decalogue. Constrained by the love of Christ, they are to co-operate with Him in building up the waste places. They are to be repairers of the breach, restorers of paths to dwell in. See verse 12. {PK 678.2}

What was the breach made in the law when the Sabbath was changed? It was not the mere change of the day of worship—the breach was the idea that God’s law is imposed law—this is the breach we are to repair.

Isaiah not only prophesies that God’s people will be repairers of the breach but also raise up the foundations of many generations. What does this mean, the foundations of many generations?

What are the foundations of God’s government that Satan has torn down in the minds and hearts of people that we are to raise up?

What is the foundation of any government? It is the law upon which it is built. So, would the foundation of God’s government be God’s law? And what type of law would that be, design law or imposed law? And how has Satan torn down the foundation and how do we raise it up?

Consider these historic quotes from one of the founders of the SDA church:

The law of love is the foundation of God's government, and the service of love the only service acceptable to heaven. ST December 15, 1914, par. 1

Love must be the principle of action. Love is the underlying principle of God's government in heaven and earth, and it must be the foundation of the Christian's character. This alone can make and keep him steadfast. This alone can enable him to withstand trial and temptation. COL 49.1

The law of love being the foundation of the government of God, the happiness of all created beings depended upon their perfect accord with its great principles of righteousness. [why? Because happiness is a by-product of healthiness in all domains, and healthiness is only possible in harmony with the laws of health—the laws upon which life is constructed to operate. So again, this statement reveals that God’s law is design law, not imposed rules like humans make.] God desires from all His creatures the service of love—homage that springs from an intelligent appreciation of His character. He takes no pleasure in a forced allegiance, and to all He grants freedom of will, that they may render Him voluntary service. [What kind of law forces and compels? Imposed law!] GC 493.2

What is the foundation that we are to raise up? It is the same as the repairing of the breach, which is restoring the truth about God's design laws, which are all expressions of God's character of love.

Do you see the issue in the war has always been over God's character and Satan has always attacked God's character by attacking how we conceive of law, either design law or imposed law.

So the object lesson truth is that we are to repair the breach, to raise up the foundations, which means we are to restore the truth that God's laws are design laws and are always expressions of love.

We will not repair the breach by getting every person in the world to go to church on Saturday while teaching that God's law is imposed and God in order to be just must inflict punishment upon sinners.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "When the Jews finally..." What is the object lesson for us in this?

The annual feast days teach what? They teach the plan of salvation from the fall of Adam to the earth restored:

- Passover – as soon as man fell into sin God passed over their sins "he left the sins committed beforehand unpunished." Rom 3:25
 - Christ was the lamb of God slain from the foundation of the world. Rev 13:8
 - Time covered by the Passover—From Adam's sin until Jesus victory at the cross
- Unleavened bread – immediately God began dispensing truth unmixed with error to nurture and save, but it was internalized by those in sin, represented by the bitter herbs.
 - This also represents the time from Adam's fall until Christ's victory
 - Eating the unleavened bread symbolizes the internalization of Jesus
- Feast of First Fruits—The first fruits of the victory over death
 - The Wave Sheaf represents Jesus who is the ultimate first fruit, who was buried and rose again in sinless perfection
 - Those who arose with him on resurrection morning to everlasting life
- Feast of Weeks (Pentecost) The pouring out of the Holy Spirit to apply what Christ achieved and bring forth a harvest of healed souls
 - This occurred after Christ's death on the Cross as the benefits of His achievement were dispensed into trusting humans
 - This feast symbolically spans the time from Pentecost AD 33 until the Loud Cry
- Trumpets – a special message for the end time
 - The Loud Cry—awake, prepare, get ready it is time to be reconciled and brought back into unity, at-one-ment with God again!
 - Late 18th and early 19th Century – the Great Awakening in Christianity

- Atonement – reunification with God, oneness with God
 - The healing and restoration of Christlike character within; settling into the truth that one cannot be moved
 - From mid 19th Century until the second coming of Christ
- Tabernacles—After we have been restored to at-one-ment in heart, mind, character Christ returns and we Tabernacle with Him again in the earth made new—our Eden Garden home for eternity!

So, the Jews finished building the walls at the time of the Feast of Trumpets, Atonement and Tabernacles—do you see the object lesson application?

Satan's lies about God's law took Christianity captive and defiled the Spirit temple and the world went into an age of darkness. But, the Great Awakening trumpeted the message of Christ's soon return and brought a message about God's law of love, His design for life calling people back to Creator worship, to become at-one with God and experience cleansing the Spirit temple to prepare to meet the Creator and to prepare us to live in His presence in an earth made new.

So, where are we in this process today?

- Did ancient Israel, when set free, when given authority to rebuild Jerusalem and the temple meet opposition?
- Have we met opposition in presenting this message?
- Did the opposition come only from those outside Israel?
- Does our opposition come only from non-Christians?

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Ezra 'brought the Law'..." What did Ezra read to them? Was it just the 10 Commandments or the five books of Moses?

How does this apply to us today?

Do we read the OT and take the instructions as literal instructions for our application today, or do we read them through both the design law lens and the theatrical understanding—they were acting out a larger reality. In other words, do we interpret the metaphor to its reality-based truth, or stay stuck on the metaphor?

There are four types of laws in the OT:

- Ceremonial
 - Sacrificial system, laws regulating which animals to sacrifice, clothing for priest, practices of ceremony etc.

- Civil
 - Laws regulating disputes between people of various kinds both civil and criminal
- Health
 - Laws regulating food choices, eating blood, washing, touching dead bodies, keeping things clean—these were given as rules, but were all based on the laws of health
- Moral
 - Love the Lord your God with all your heart, mind and soul and neighbor as yourself and all its various applications

All were applicable to Israel, which of these OT laws are applicable to us today?

When we read in Scripture things like:

The law of the LORD is perfect, reviving the soul.

The statutes of the LORD are trustworthy, making wise the simple.

The precepts of the LORD are right, giving joy to the heart.

The commands of the LORD are radiant, giving light to the eyes. Ps 19:7,8

What do you hear? What is being described?

Is the Psalmist saying that the Bible is a rulebook with a perfect list of rules that we are to identify and keep? Are we to look to the OT rules for Israel in order to find the list of rules for our lives today?

Many people use the OT in this way, find a proclamation, rule, directive given to Israel and then apply it directly to us today—this is a terrible way to use the Bible. And anyone who does this only does so on the rules that they like.

I read this week an article by a very reputable Bible scholar on current politics in America and he used texts from the OT for Israel's treatment of aliens in their land to condemn border control or immigration enforcement in this country.

Now, I am not here to promote or defend any policy of the US government or any earthly government. I am speaking of using the Bible in this way. This well-known scholar cherry picked texts to support an ideology making it appear that we should follow God's instruction to Israel in how we treat non-citizens today.

But interestingly, this same author didn't quote from the very same set of instructions how they were to kill all the non-Jews, men, women and children, from multiple other ethnic groups, how they were given instructions on slaves and how to treat their slaves etc.

No, the Bible is not a code book and David was not speaking of a list of rules we are to memorize and follow. David was speaking about God's design law.

Here is how I rendered it in The Remedy:

The design law of God is perfect, restoring one's life.
The principles of the Lord are constant, imparting wisdom to those without it.
The prescriptions of the Lord are right, bringing happiness to the life.
The protocols of God are brilliant, enlightening the mind.

This is design law, how reality works and David understood this.

Sometimes I get questions of whether the OT writers understood design law. Consider this from the Proverbs:

For these commands are a lamp, this teaching is a light, and the corrections of discipline are the way to life, keeping you from the immoral woman, from the smooth tongue of the wayward wife. Do not lust in your heart after her beauty or let her captivate you with her eyes, for the prostitute reduces you to a loaf of bread, and the adulteress preys upon your very life. Can a man scoop fire into his lap without his clothes being burned? Can a man walk on hot coals without his feet being scorched? So is he who sleeps with another man's wife; no one who touches her will go unpunished. Proverbs 6:23-29 NIV84

Do you hear design law? Is there a punishment for walking on hot coals or scooping fire into your lap? From where does it come? Is there a punishment for committing adultery? From where does it come?

Did OT writers understand design law? Yes!

The lesson asks how do we relate to the Word of God?

How do you understand Scripture?

- A code book of deeds to be done and sins to be shunned?
- A revelation from God that is to be taken exactly as it reads without reasoning through it: "God said it, I believe it, that settles it"?
- A revelation of God in which God tells us we are to reason through it?
- Or one of three revelations of truth that God has given to us and, in fact, Scripture is the last of the three revelations given to humanity—what are the first two?
 - Science and nature (Romans 1:20)
 - "But ask the animals, and they will teach you, or the birds of the air, and they will tell you; or speak to the earth, and it will teach you, or let the fish of the sea inform you. Which of all these does not know that the hand of the Lord has done this? (Job 12:7-9 NIV84)
 - The heavens declare the glory of God; the skies proclaim the work of his hands. (Psalms 19:1 NIV84)
 - Experience—they walked in the cool of the day and had personal experience with God
 - Taste and see that the LORD is good; (Psalms 34:8 NIV84)

- Then he said to Thomas, “Put your finger here; see my hands. Reach out your hand and put it into my side. Stop doubting and believe.” (John 20:27 NIV84)
- How did the Patriarchs, such as Noah, know the truth? Through his personal experience with God, not through Scripture.
- Scripture came much later

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

The great storehouse of truth is the word of God—the written word, the book of nature, and the book of experience in God’s dealing with human life.— {COL 125.2}

Jesus followed the divine plan of education. The schools of His time, with their magnifying of things small and their belittling of things great, He did not seek. His education was gained directly from the Heaven-appointed sources; from useful work, from the study of the Scriptures and of nature, and from the experiences of life--God's lesson books, full of instruction to all who bring to them the willing hand, the seeing eye, and the understanding heart. {Ed 77.2}

The only trustworthy way to study Scripture is humbly asking for the Holy Spirit to enlighten, but then to reason through it harmonizing it with science and experience, how reality actually works—requiring Scripture to harmonize with itself, but also with science and experience. This is called the Integrative Evidence-based Approach.

What do you say to those who say we shouldn’t reason through Scripture, or that to actually reason things out we elevate human reason above Scripture?

- Let each be fully convinced in his own mind. (Romans 14:5 NKJV)
- But solid food is for the mature, for those whose faculties have been trained by practice to distinguish good from evil. (Hebrews 5:15 NRSV)
- Come now, let us reason together,” says the Lord. “Though your sins are like scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they are red as crimson, they shall be like wool. (Isaiah 1:18 NIV84)
- I no longer call you servants, because a servant does not know his master’s business. Instead, I have called you friends, for everything that I learned from my Father I have made known to you. (John 15:15 NIV84)
- Always be prepared to give an answer to everyone who asks you to give the reason for the hope that you have. (1Peter 3:15 NIV84)

- “Merely to hear or to read the word is not enough. He who desires to be profited by the Scriptures must meditate upon the truth that has been presented to him. By earnest attention and prayerful thought he must learn the meaning of the words of truth, and drink deep of the spirit of the holy oracles.” {COL 59.5}
- God never asks us to believe, without giving sufficient evidence upon which to base our faith. His existence, His character, the truthfulness of His word, are all established by testimony that appeals to our reason; and this testimony is abundant. Yet God has never removed the possibility of doubt. Our faith must rest upon evidence, not demonstration. Those who wish to doubt will have opportunity; while those who really desire to know the truth will find plenty of evidence on which to rest their faith. {SC 105.2}

TUESDAY

The lesson points out that Nehemiah describes 13 people standing with Ezra when the Scripture was read?

Any significance to the number? Many Bible students believe 13 represents rebellion against God:

- The dragon is mentioned 13 times in the book of Revelation
- Nimrod was the 13th generation of Ham
- The Valley of Hinnon, which always references some evil practice, is mentioned 13 times in Scripture
- Solomon spent only 7 years building God’s temple (1 Kings 6:38) but he spent 13 years building a palace for himself (1 King 7:1).

So, what do you think about this? This is one of those places where misunderstanding can be accidentally introduced:

There were 13 men standing with Ezra—thus it was 14, not 13, and 14 in the Bible signifies salvation, perfection, healing as it is a multiple of seven.

Read last paragraph, “As Protestants...” Have you ever met people who won’t enter into discussion because someone in church authority warned them not to?

Or, if they do enter into discussion they say something like, “Well my church teaches,” or “my pastor says,” or “my mother always taught...”?

What do such comments reveal?

Why must people think for themselves—as Romans 14:5 says?

Is knowing the “right answer” the same thing as know why it is the right answer?

Is knowing the answer to a math question the same as knowing how to do math?

Consider this quote from a pioneer of the SDA church, do you agree or disagree? Do you see design law involved, the law of exertion?

If we mistake the wisdom of man for the wisdom of God we are led astray by the foolishness of man's wisdom. Here is the great danger of many in ----- . They have not an experience for themselves. They have not been in the habit of prayerfully considering for themselves, with unprejudiced, unbiased judgment, questions and subjects that are new and that are ever liable to arise. They wait to see what others will think. If these dissent, that is all that is needed to convince them that the subject under consideration is of no account whatever. Although this class is large, it does not change the fact that they are inexperienced and weak-minded through long yielding to the enemy, and will always be as sickly as babes, walking by others' light, living on others' experience, feeling as others feel, and acting as others act. They act as though they had not an individuality. Their identity is submerged in others; they are merely shadows of those whom they think about right. Unless these become sensible of their wavering character and correct it, they will all fail of everlasting life; they will be unable to cope with the perils of the last days. They will possess no stamina to resist the devil, for they do not know that it is he. Someone must be at their side to inform them whether a foe or a friend is approaching. They are not spiritual, therefore spiritual things are not discerned. They are not wise in those things which relate to the kingdom of God. Neither young nor old are excusable in trusting to another to have an experience for them. Said the angel: "Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm." A noble self-reliance is needed in the Christian experience and warfare. 2T 129.2

Do we see this problem of allowing others to think for us as a problem only in religion, or do we see it in society in general?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "When Ezra..." What do you think about them lifting their hands toward heaven?

May my prayer be set before you like incense; may the lifting up of my hands be like the evening sacrifice. Ps 141:2

What would this signify? Could it signify surrender to God? Present yourself as a living sacrifice holy and pleasing to God...Romans 12:2

I remember an evangelist once addressing a congregation that was quite uncomfortable with lifting of hands and he asked them, what do you do if someone points a gun at you—you hold up your hands—why? You surrender, you are not fighting or opposing—and he asked, will you lift your hands and surrender to God?

But the response of the people to hearing the law is what? One of surrender and desire to return to God and live in harmony with His will.

What does that mean for us today?

THURSDAY

Read last paragraph, “Notice that in Nehemiah...” The study guide says they learned their lesson about disobedience—did they?

Well, they never went back into image worship, which is what they had repeatedly done prior to the captivity—but did they learn the lesson about disobedience?

When Jesus came, were they worshipping idols or foreign gods? No, were they, from all outward appearance, keeping the rule-book, following the script?

And how did they treat Jesus?

So what is the lesson? That people can keep all the rules but not experience a change of heart and still be God’s enemies.

What does this tell us about God’s law, the problem of sin, the plan of salvation?

That God’s law is design law, sin is a condition of being, a heart defect in which fear and selfishness have displaced love and trust, thus sin is not a legal problem but a state of being out of harmony with God’s design for life. Therefore, the plan of salvation is not legal but remedial, actually fixing the damage sin has done to humanity and restoring us back to God’s design.

In fact, when we misunderstand God’s law to be imposed law like humans, we misdiagnose the problem as legal, we create legal rules-based solutions and then become God’s enemies, like those who crucified Jesus.

- But He was pierced through for our transgressions, He was crushed for our iniquities; the chastening for our well-being {fell} upon Him, and by His scourging we are healed. (Isaiah 53:5 NAS)
- He Himself bore our sins in His body on the cross, that we might die to sin and live to righteousness; for by His wounds you were healed. (1 Peter 2:24-25 NAS)

- Do not conform any longer to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. (Romans 12:2 NIV84)
- Circumcise yourselves to the Lord, circumcise your hearts, you men of Judah and people of Jerusalem... (Jeremiah 4:4 NIV84)
- No, a man is a Jew if he is one inwardly; and circumcision is circumcision of the heart, by the Spirit, not by the written code. Such a man's praise is not from men, but from God. (Romans 2:29 NIV84)
- This is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel after that time, declares the Lord. I will put my laws in their minds and write them on their hearts. (Hebrews 8:10 NIV84)
- I will give them an undivided heart and put a new spirit in them; I will remove from them their heart of stone and give them a heart of flesh. (Ezekiel 11:19 NIV84)
- Create in me a pure heart, O God, and renew a steadfast spirit within me. (Psalms 51:10 NIV84)
- God's healing power runs all through nature. If a tree is cut, if a human being is wounded or breaks a bone, nature begins at once to repair the injury. Even before the need exists, the healing agencies are in readiness; and as soon as a part is wounded, every energy is bent to the work of restoration. So it is in the spiritual realm. Before sin created the need, God had provided the remedy. Every soul that yields to temptation is wounded, bruised, by the adversary; but whenever there is sin, there is the Saviour. It is Christ's work "to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, ... to set at liberty them that are bruised." Luke 4:18. Ed 113.1

In this work we are to co - operate. "If a man be overtaken in a fault, ... restore such an one." Galatians 6:1. The word here translated "restore" means to put in joint, as a dislocated bone. How suggestive the figure! He who falls into error or sin is thrown out of relation to everything about him. He may realize his error, and be filled with remorse; but he cannot recover himself. He is in confusion and perplexity, worsted and helpless. He is to be reclaimed, healed, re - established. "Ye which are spiritual, restore such an one." Only the love that flows from the heart of Christ can heal. Only he in whom that love flows, even as the sap in the tree or the blood in the body, can restore the wounded soul. Ed 113.2

Love's agencies have wonderful power, for they are divine. The soft answer that "turneth away wrath," the love that "suffereth long, and is kind," the charity that "covereth a multitude of sins" (Proverbs 15:1; 1 Corinthians 13:4, R.V.; 1 Peter 4:8, R.V.) - would we learn the lesson, with what power for healing would our lives be gifted! How life would be transformed, and the earth become a very likeness and foretaste of heaven!" Ed 114.1

- The atonement of Christ is not a mere skillful way to have our sins pardoned; it is a divine remedy for the cure of transgression and the restoration of spiritual health. It is the Heaven-ordained means by which the righteousness of Christ may be not only upon us but in our hearts and characters (Letter 406, 1906). {6BC 1074.2}

FRIDAY

read and discuss questions

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Questions: If you have questions please email them either at requests@comeandreason.com or topics@comeandreason.com. If you post on Facebook it is likely they will not be answered as I often miss questions posted on Facebook.

The New Paradigm about the Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment Has been Changed: Thanks to your feedback, I have rewritten portions of this document making it friendlier and less likely to cause offense. The new title is Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment for the Modern World. It has a new cover, new introduction, the call to action section has been removed and other edits to clarify potential misunderstandings have been made throughout. It is already up on our website and print versions will be available November 14. Please throw away any of the first edition you may still have in your possession and use this version going forward.

PODCAST: Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.

The Remedy Psalms is complete and online and will soon be updated to the free app.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

November 24, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Aachen Germany.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 7

Our Forgiving God

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

The title of the lesson is: Our Forgiving God...

What is forgiveness—how would you define it?

Is God ever unforgiving?

Are we saved by forgiveness?

Can anyone be saved without forgiveness?

Did God forgive before or after Jesus died for us?

Was Jesus' death necessary for God to forgive us?

Is there a difference between God forgiving and our being forgiven?

What is the difference?

Consider those who crucified Christ—did Jesus forgive them? Were they forgiven or did they remain unforgiven despite being forgiven by Jesus?

What law lens are you thinking through?

If the law lens is like human law, then if a judge pardons the accused is no longer under the legal condemnation of the law, the state has no authority to punish they are forgiven and free.

But, if the law is design law is something required beyond being forgiven by the Creator of the universe?

If your child disobeys your rules and plays in the street and gets hit by a car, or drinks some toxin you said not to touch—and they are on the ground injured and dying—will you forgive them? Will your forgiveness save them? Is something more needed?

Does the sinner, in addition to being forgiven by God, also need to be healed, transformed, renewed, recreated, reborn, set-right (which means justified) in heart?

So would this mean the sinner not only needs to be forgiven by God but they need to open their hearts and experience that forgiveness which leads them to repentance and surrender to God for healing and regeneration in righteousness?

If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness. (1John 1:9 NIV84)

Consider this historic quote

But forgiveness has a broader meaning than many suppose. When God gives the promise that He “will abundantly pardon,” He adds, as if the meaning of that promise exceeded all that we could comprehend: “My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways My ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts.” Isaiah 55:7-9. [What might this be referring to? What are our ways? What methods or laws do we use? But God is Creator, His laws are not imposed rules require legal enforcement like ours. So what might follow in this quote?] God's forgiveness is not merely a judicial act by which He sets us free from condemnation. It is not only forgiveness for sin, but reclaiming from sin. It is the outflow of redeeming love that transforms the heart. David had the true conception of forgiveness when he prayed, “Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me.” Psalm 51:10. And again he says, “As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us.” Psalm 103:12. EG White Prayer 298.1

Bible forgiveness must be understood through the lens of design law—fixing what is actually broken. God’s personal heart-attitude is always forgiving—the sacrifice of Christ was NOT designed to induce forgiveness in God, or to make a legal loophole for God to be able to forgive, but to be the method whereby God’s love and forgiveness could enter back into the heart of human beings to heal and restore.

Consider this next quote and see if you can unpack the theological language for those who would like to use it to say it is not only God’s love and forgiveness but a legal payment was also necessary and legal accounting is required:

The atonement of Christ was not made in order to induce God to love those whom he otherwise hated; it was not made to produce a love that was not in existence; but it was made as a manifestation of the love that was already in God's heart, an exponent of the divine favor in the sight of heavenly intelligences, in the sight of worlds unfallen, and in the sight of a fallen race. “For God so loved the world, that he gave his only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.” We are not to entertain the idea that God loves us because Christ has died for us, but that he so loved us that he gave his only-begotten Son to die for us. The death of Christ was expedient in order that mercy might reach us with its full pardoning power, and at the same time that justice might be satisfied in the righteous substitute. The glory of God was revealed in the rich mercy that he poured out upon a race of rebels, who through repentance and faith might be pardoned through the merits of Christ, for God will by no means clear the guilty who refuse to acknowledge the merit of a crucified and risen Saviour. It is only through faith in Christ that sinners may have the righteousness of Christ imputed unto them, and that they may be “made the righteousness of God in him.” Our sins were laid on Christ, punished in Christ, put away by Christ, in order that his righteousness might be imputed to us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. Although sin was charged to his account on our behalf, yet he remained perfectly sinless. ST May 30, 1895, par. 6

What do you hear? Do you think through human law or design law?

Quote like this one are constantly used by those who are still struggling under Satan’s lie that God’s law functions like human law, just a system of rules that require infliction of punishment by the ruling authority. But, let’s think through design law for a minute and see the truth of what is actually happening.

- Is there a punishment for sin? –yes
- What is that punishment? –pain, guilt, shame, heartache, separation from God and ultimately death
- From where does that punishment come?
 - The wages of sin is death (Romans 6:23)
 - Sin when full grown brings forth death (James 1:5)
 - Those who sow to the carnal nature from that nature reap destruction (Gal 6:8)
- What is the power to inflict that punishment?
 - the power of sin is the law (1Corinthians 15:56, NIV84)
 - What does this mean? Where does the power to kill someone that jumps off the empire state building come from?
 - Where does the power to ruin health and ultimately kill someone who smokes come from?
 - Where does the power to kill someone who jumps in the ocean with weights tied to their feet come from?
 - How is God reconciled to man?—By the work and merit of Jesus Christ, who ... put aside everything that would interpose between man and God's pardoning love. The law that man has transgressed is not changed to meet the sinner in his fallen condition, [Why? Because it is the law of life, the protocols life is constructed to operate upon. The law of respiration cannot be changed to meet the drowning person, the person must be put back in harmony with the law] but is made manifest as the transcript of Jehovah's character,—the exponent of His holy will,[Which is what? Love—the laws of God are for our health, happiness, good this is God's will] —and is exalted and magnified in the life and character of Jesus Christ. Yet a way of salvation is provided; for the spotless Lamb of God is revealed as the One who taketh away the sin of the world. [Not the punishment, but the sin is taken away] Jesus stands in the sinner's place, and takes the guilt of the transgressor upon Himself. Looking upon the sinner's Substitute and Surety, the Lord Jehovah can be just, and yet be the justifier of him that believeth in Jesus. [If your child disobeyed and drank poison and was dying, what is the just or right action for you as their parent to take? Inflict punishment for their disobedience, or provide remedy to heal and save?] SD 239.2

- How were our sins punished in Christ?
 - Those who sow to the carnal nature from that nature reap destruction (Gal 6:8)
 - Did Jesus take our nature upon Himself? “God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God.” (2Cor 5:21 niv84)
 - Did Jesus suffer in His humanity? From where did the suffering come—from God or from the human nature He assumed and from evil people and angels?
 - Why did God separate from Jesus? (Why did Jesus stay away from Lazarus until after Lazarus died?)
 - Could Jesus die still connected to His Father?
 - Could Jesus fix the sin problem, purge the infection of fear and selfishness, fully restore God’s design of love into the humanity He assumed without dying? So, was God’s withdrawal, God’s hiding of Himself, God’s “forsaking” of Jesus, an expression of God being upset with Jesus, God being mad with Jesus, or was it God cooperating with Jesus as they worked together to accomplish their joint mission of saving humanity?
 - Jesus took upon Himself our terminal condition—was tempted in every way just like we are (Heb 2:14) but without sin. Thus, He “destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light (2Tim 1:10) by developing a perfect sinless human character and destroying the infection of fear and selfishness.
 - Thus, once made perfect he became the source of salvation for all who obey him (Heb 5:8)
 - Wasn’t He always perfect—no, he was always sinless
 - Bible perfection is perfect mature character
 - Character cannot be created it must be developed
 - Christ came as the second Adam and as a human developed a perfect sinless human character—the cure and remedy freely given to all who trust God
- So there is a punishment—and it is separation from God resulting in ruin and death—did Christ experience this? Yes, but because Christ, as a human lived a sinless life Christ’s separation from the Father was the means of curing the condition. Whereas, the wicked in the end who reject Christ when they are separated completely from God die of their terminal sin-condition.
- What are the merits of Christ? The perfect human character He developed as a human being on earth.
- Why will God not clear the guilty? It would be like saying “The doctor will by no means say the sick are healthy...They either accept the remedy and are actually cured back to health, or they reject the remedy and remain terminal. But the physician will not clear the terminal, the infected, the sick declaring them to be healthy when they are not.

What about the “imputed” righteousness of Christ? Many still struggling under the false human legal model view imputed as something legally assigned but not actually experience. In other words, imputed righteousness is said to be what we are legally accounted with in the books of heaven, but imparted righteousness is what we experience within us that transforms and heals us.

What do you say to that?

Consider these quotes from the same author above:

He [the Father] would have us comprehend something of His love in giving His Son to die that He might counteract evil, remove the defiling stains of sin from the workmanship of God, and reinstate the lost, elevating and ennobling the soul to its original purity through Christ's imputed righteousness. TMK 206

"But we all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory even as by the Spirit of the Lord" (2 Cor. 3:18). Beholding Christ means studying His life as given in His Word. We are to dig for truth as for hidden treasure. We are to fix our eyes upon Christ. When we take Him as our personal Saviour, this gives us boldness to approach the throne of grace. By beholding we become changed, morally assimilated to the One who is perfect in character. By receiving His imputed righteousness, through the transforming power of the Holy Spirit, we become like Him. The image of Christ is cherished, and it captivates the whole being. {AG 96.4}

Abundant grace has been provided that the believing soul may be kept free from sin; for all heaven, with its limitless resources, has been placed at our command. We are to draw from the well of salvation. . . . In ourselves we are sinners; but in Christ we are righteous. Having made us righteous through the imputed righteousness of Christ, God pronounces us just, and treats us as just. He looks upon us as His dear children. Christ works against the power of sin, and where sin abounded, grace much more abounds. {AG 181.4}

We aim too low. The mark is much higher. Our minds need expansion, that we may comprehend the significance of the provision of God. We are to reflect the highest attributes of the character of God. . . . The law of God is the exalted standard to which we are to attain through the imputed righteousness of Christ. {OHC 364.2}

Do you notice if we understand design law and we read widely—that reality becomes clear and Satan's legal lie is exposed and we see that God was in the Son reconciling the world to Himself and that Christ achieved the cure, the remedy, and provides it freely to us—as something we actually experience when we trust Him and open our hearts to Him. This is not legal accounting in a book declaring something to be one way when it is actually another way; No! It is the actual healing, restoring, regenerating, recreating us back to God's perfect sinless ideal—writing His law in our hearts and minds!

Do we have a forgiving God—Absolutely!!! But we have a God who does so much more than have a forgiving attitude—He provides the remedy to heal and restore us to righteousness.

But have you heard the idea, popular in some circles, that forgiveness costs the person who forgives? That God had to pay a price to forgive us? That while His forgiveness is free to us, it was not free to God?

This idea is also a distortion of reality based on accepting the imposed law lie. If God's law functions like human law, then sin requires a punishment be inflicted in order for justice to occur and God could not be just without inflicting the punishment; therefore, God in order to forgive had to provide an innocent and punish Him and thus God's forgiveness cost Him the life of His Son.

No—this is not true. God's forgiveness was free—but His personal forgiveness, did not provide the remedy to our condition. It wasn't God's forgiveness that cost God—it was because "God so loved the world" and God forgave the world and chose to save the world that His chose to fix the damage, solve the problem, heal the condition that sin caused and providing the remedy to sin cost God a price we can never fully comprehend.

In order to resolve the sin problem God had to not only be forgiving—which He was—but also had to provide the solution, the cure and the cure has two elements: truth and a perfect character of love.

Jesus came as a human to reveal the truth in order to destroy lies and win us to trust and also to develop a perfect human character built upon God's design law of love. This cost Jesus because there was no way to do this other than be tempted in all ways like we are yet choose to love perfectly—thereby revealing the truth of God's character, exposing Satan as a murderer and fraud, and curing the condition.

SUNDAY

Nehemiah 9:1-3 describes how the Israelites humbled themselves and repented with sackcloth and ashes and separated themselves from all foreigners...why? What is going on? What is the purpose? What is the object lesson that applies to us?

We are to humble ourselves and confess our sinfulness for healing and to separate ourselves from all attachments to sin, selfishness and people who are foreign to God's kingdom.

Does this mean we don't minister to people to try and bring them into God's kingdom? No, it means we don't bond with them and make them part of the "tribe" the "family" the trusted ones. We don't allow those who are not reborn to be on God's team—but we continue to recruit them seeking to bring them into a trust relationship with God to be renewed in heart and thereby join God's team.

Why did God have them build a wall?

Was it cruel and uncaring for them to build a wall? Weren't there people outside the wall who could have benefited from being within the city gates? Was it a lack of human compassion, a violation of human rights to build a wall?

What was the purpose of the wall? Was it to allow God's agents to organize, reconstitute as an effective team, gather resources, produce disciples, grow in godliness, become a bastion of godly success—in order to minister to those not of Israel God's blessings and thus help people?

Would as many people be helped by Israel if they didn't build a wall? Why not? Is there a lesson for us in this today?

First rule of care-giving is the health of the care-giver.

- If a farmer refuses to eat any food so he can donate all the food from his farm to the hungry—how many does he feed?
- If the doctors at Pearl Harbor donated their blood to save some of the dying soldiers, each doctor giving 3-4 pints of their blood to save a hemorrhaging soldier—what would have happened? Would more or less be saved? Were the doctors selfish for refusing to donate their own blood on that day?
- What of a nation that establishes border walls today—could this be done out of selfishness, because the people or leadership of that nation don't care about suffering people who are not of their nation? But could it also be done by caring people who realize they have a responsibility to help the less fortunate in the world and want to establish a sustainable health of the nation in order to help as many people as possible?
- When God had Israel build a wall was God doing this so Israel could hide behind the wall and ignore all the other people in the world, or in order to rebuild His team to go out into the world and evangelize and thus bless the world?

And, during Nehemiah's time could people who were not of genetic descent of Abraham become part of Israel or were they forbidden?

What was required to become part of Israel? They had to assimilate.

So, was God saying they should keep out all foreigners or keep out only those who refused to become part of Israel? Why?

Was Israel called into existence by God to be a model for how earthly governments should be run? Or was Israel called into existence to be an avenue for Messiah and conduits of God's saving truth, principles and methods taught and acted out in illustration?

Do we err by taking the lessons God intends for our spiritual renewal and try to apply them to human governments?

In other words, can the Christian achieve God's goals by trying to merge the church and state in order to reform the state to apply God's methods?

What do you think of this commentator's thoughts on the subject, from the book Thoughts from the Mount of Blessings:

When men indulge this accusing spirit, they are not satisfied with pointing out what they suppose to be a defect in their brother. If milder means fail of making him do what they think ought to be done, they will resort to compulsion. Just as far as lies in their power they will force men to comply with their ideas of what is right. This is what the Jews did in the days of Christ and what the church has done ever since whenever she has lost the grace of Christ. Finding herself destitute of the power of love, she has reached out for the strong arm of the state to enforce her dogmas and execute her decrees. Here is the secret of all religious laws that have ever been enacted, and the secret of all persecution from the days of Abel to our own time. MB 126.2

Christ does not drive but draws men unto Him. The only compulsion which He employs is the constraint of love. When the church begins to seek for the support of secular power, it is evident that she is devoid of the power of Christ—the constraint of divine love. MB 127.1

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, “In the first part...” What do we mean when we refer to the “name” of God?

Do we mean certain syllables, or do we mean attributes—character?

What if we take the name Christian but don’t reveal Christ in how we treat others?

What if we take the name Christian but want to take control of governments in order to pass our laws to compel others to live by our religious beliefs?

Did Christ give us freedom to reject Him? Should we leave people free in society to reject our religious views?

Does that mean we don’t have any laws in our society—we just leave everyone free to do whatever they want? No! God has ordained that earthly governments establish order over the selfish, to provide structure, to prevent rampant chaos and anarchy, and to allow the gospel message to go forward to change hearts. But, we must remember all human governments run on imposed law and do NOT represent heaven or function the way God’s kingdom does. God’s kingdom “is within you” in other words human governments use compulsion to control behavior with external force. God’s kingdom is truth and love and works to transform you from within so you live in harmony with God and His design laws for life. When this happens, no external monitoring or force is needed.

Why is it so important to know the truth about God’s character? What law is involved—the law of worship—by beholding we are changed.

Read bottom pink section—“Why is the doctrine...” Why is it important to remember God as Creator? What kind of law does a Creator use to build reality?

First—because we remember God’s laws are design laws, not imposed rules and are the protocols our life and health are built upon. Only harmony with them brings health and happiness, breaking them is damaging.

Second—the Sabbath—what is its purpose? It is a gift to humanity; the Sabbath was made for man not man for the Sabbath—to assist us in holiness—how?

By helping us to remember the truth about God’s character of love and His design laws—so that we choose to honor God by remembering all week what the Sabbath represents and then practicing our trust in Him and His methods by not seeking to advance ourselves every seventh day. In other words, we choose to resist the selfish drive and practice love for God and others, trusting God with our lives.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, “The prayer transitions...” Why is it good to remember history?

We have nothing to fear for the future, except as we shall forget the way the Lord has led us, and His teaching in our past history. Life Sketches of Ellen G. White, 196

Is recounting the failings of the past the same as being responsible for the failings of previous generations?

Are we responsible for the sins of past generations? Are we to make amends for past generations, bear the guilt, and required to repent for previous generations?

The son will not share the guilt of the father, nor will the father share the guilt of the son. The righteousness of the righteous man will be credited to him, and the wickedness of the wicked will be charged against him. (Ezekiel 18:20 NIV84)

What about movements that try to make people pay for the crimes of their ancestors—is this Godly or not?

Read third paragraph, “Of course, here is where the gospel...” How do you understand this—through what law lens?

What is the punishment for sin—from where does it come? How is it possible to remit the punishment? By healing the disease, how is this done? By trust we receive the indwelling Spirit and Christ’s perfection is reproduced in us.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “The next section...” What is the object lesson for us?

They entered Canaan and possessed a land ready to be possessed...

“Do not let your hearts be troubled. Trust in God; trust also in me. In my Father’s house are many rooms; if it were not so, I would have told you. I am going there to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come back and take you to be with me that you also may be where I am.” (John 14:1-3 NIV84)

When we enter heaven, Jesus has already prepared a place for us!

Fat is a metaphor or symbol of selfishness—this is why in the sacrificial system the fat from the internal organs was removed and burned. It symbolized the victory of Christ destroying the internal carnal drive of fear and selfishness and why in the Bible the burning of the fat is described as sweet aroma to the Lord. Why? Because of the reality to which it points; it is sweet to the Lord to destroy fear and selfishness and restore trust and love, and this was symbolized by the burning of the fat—the fat of fear and selfishness is burned out by the fire of the Spirit of truth and love.

Read second paragraph, “The people might...” Review from last week:

- From where does happiness come? From healthiness in all domains
- And from where does healthiness come? From living in harmony with God’s design laws
- And from where does the ability to live in harmony with God’s design laws come? From Jesus’ victory and the work of the Holy Spirit
- And what is the Bible term for being restored to perfect godly healthiness, for living in harmony with God’s design laws? Holiness!

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “Once again...” What is the covenant?

Is the covenant with Israel different from the covenant with all of humanity or is it the fulfillment of the covenant to all humanity?

The bottom of the lesson asks us to read Romans 5:6-8 and asks “How do these texts reflect what the Israelites were asking of God?”

You see, at just the right time, when we were still powerless, Christ died for the ungodly. Very rarely will anyone die for a righteous man, though for a good man someone might possibly dare to die. But God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us. (NIV84)

FRIDAY

read and discuss questions

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Questions: If you have questions please email them either at requests@comeandreason.com or topics@comeandreason.com. If you post on Facebook it is likely they will not be answered as I often miss questions posted on Facebook.

The New Paradigm about the Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment Has been Changed: Thanks to your feedback I have rewritten portions of this document making it friendlier and less likely to cause offense. The new title is The Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment for the Modern World. It has a new cover, new introduction, the call to action section has been removed and other edits to clarify potential misunderstandings have been made throughout. It is already up on our website and print versions will be available November 14. Please throw away any of the first edition you may still have in your possession and use this version going forward.

The Remedy Psalms is complete and online and will soon be updated to the free app.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

November 24, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Aachen Germany.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

March 27,28, 2020: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at an AACC River Conference at Plano, TX. More info at <http://theriverconference.com/>

April 17,18, 2020: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Lakewood SDA church in Lakewood OH.

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 8

God and the Covenant

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

Before we get to the lesson I received an email this week from an online listener in Australia, Stephen Gurban. He writes:

Hello Come and Reason ministries

I have a question regarding the [Bible] study of Nehemiah and Ezra for this quarter.

Did the leaders (Zerubbabel, Ezra and Nehemiah) needlessly invite conflict?

In Ezra 4:2 the Israelites who never went into exile claim to worship the same God yet their help is refused by Zerubbabel.

Ezra exhorts the exiles to follow the Torah and then tells the Israelite men in inter-racial marriages to separate from their families (but in Malachi 2:13-16 God says marriage is a covenant that should not be broken).

Nehemiah tells the people who aren't Israelite that they have no part in the rebuilding of the wall.

It seems from reading these two books that while the leaders were dedicated to God they were being exclusive on the basis of race. This has mixed results with some greater commitment but also greater opposition. By the end of Nehemiah people are still ignoring the Sabbath so he threatens them.

Do these two books teach indirectly that being partial and coercive will not lead to a change of heart? Their approach seems to be the opposite Jesus' methods and God's call for Israel to be a light to other nations. Wouldn't it have been more effective to accept these folk and teach them the truth of God's love through words and actions? Truth, love and freedom to choose.

I would be very grateful to hear your perspective on the lessons we can take from these situations.

Thank you for your ministry. It throws new light on God's love and mercy.

What are your thoughts? How would you answer his questions?

What law lens do you answer through? And how does the law lens help with these questions?

The law lens sets the context of what is happening. Is the problem God is dealing with in the OT times a judicial legal one or the condition of humanity being sinful and in need of healing?

Could the human race be saved without Jesus becoming human and fulfilling His mission? No!

So, do we understand, that much of what is recorded in the OT is a record of God's work to provide our Savior while Satan is working to obstruct God's plan?

If we understand that framework then we get insight into things like the flood, God keeping open the avenue for the Messiah.

Then after the flood Satan doesn't have to destroy the entire human race to stop Messiah because he knows Messiah is coming through Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, so if he can just destroy this branch of the human family he can obstruct God's plan.

With that in mind, is there insight into why Satan would want to infiltrate Israel with non-believers, not just as neighbors, but to marry into their families?

Was it effective—was marrying non-believers into Israel families effective in undermining their mission and calling?

- Did Samson have a problem with this?
- Did Solomon have a problem with this?
- Could marrying non-believers undermine the ability to fulfill God's cause?

Yes! So, do we see one aspect of the instruction to divorce the non-believing spouses was God working to keep open avenue for Messiah and not trying to exclude the non-believers. In fact, the actions in this case were because God was working to save the entire species and Satan was working to undermine God's team.

Further, God directed this not just for the purpose of the Messiah—which is mission essential—but also to be a blessing to the nations around—meaning other races.

The first rule of care-giving is the health of the caregiver, because if the caregiver goes down, then no care is given.

Israel, was to not only be the avenue for Messiah, they were to be welfare agents for God teaching the world principles of healthy living physically as well as spiritually. But Israel could not do this if they rejected God and embraced false gods.

So, were God's instructions to get rid of their foreign wives about race or about heart devotion to God?

Evidence it was not about race—who did Moses marry? An Ethiopian. Who were Rahab and Ruth?

So, why were these non-Jewish women allowed into Israel, and two of them became progenitors of Jesus, and yet in Ezra's day they are making Jewish men divorce their non-Jewish wives?

Because Zipporah, Rahab and Ruth all assimilated meaning they all converted and became part of the tribe giving their hearts to Yahweh and living in accordance with Jewish law and custom.

The wives Ezra was having them put away were not on God's team, they were not part of Israel in heart, they were not working for God's kingdom, and in fact were undermining God's plan.

So, is God being racist? No! Are Ezra and Nehemiah being divisive? No!

The last paragraph in SUNDAY's lesson reads:

"Unfortunately, the world embraced evil more than it did God, and the lineage of the faithful became very small, creating a real possibility of eliminating any family through whom God could fulfill His Word by sending the promised Seed to save humans. At that point, God intervened with the Flood."

Wow—I am so happy to see this idea expressed in the quarterly. This is exactly correct, seeing the larger reality of what was transpiring in OT is a key to understanding the meaning. And this is based on design law.

Second point to understand the questions is to understand that the Bible records real people who did real things and is historically accurate, yet those real lives not only record their history, but are object lessons to a larger reality.

And this gives insight into some of the other questions. Why would Nehemiah not allow non-Israelites to participate in building the wall?

- Could those who were not of Israel be trusted? So in its most immediate sense those not of Israel would be more likely to sabotage and undermine the mission.
- But, in object lesson, what does the wall represent? It represents the law of God—and we are to be repairers of the breach. Can we have people join our team to repair the breach who don't agree with us on God's law being design law, who continue to teach that God's law is imperial/imposed and God is the source of inflicted pain and suffering for law breaking? Why not? Because they are perpetuating the breach—the lie that God's law functions like human law. So, in the object lesson aspect it makes sense that only those who are on God's team are actually capable of doing God's work.

What about the threatenings to keep the Sabbath and other laws? It is an evidence of the level of maturity of the people. A loving parent or God will intervene with artificial threats to protect children from injuring themselves (parent threatening punishment for playing in the street), longing for them to grow up and no longer need the threat.

There is also revelation of how reality works as well—that threats, the use of might and power, don't actually achieve what God wants.

- Flood didn't result in holiness of humanity but building tower of Babel
- 10 Plagues of Egypt and Red Sea didn't result in holiness but worshipping a golden calf
- Miracles of taking Canaan (Jericho, sun standing still) didn't result in holiness but more idolatry
- Fire at Carmel didn't result in holiness but more rebellion

Such interventions did work to keep open the avenue for the Messiah, which was required in order to save humankind. And, these interventions also revealed that God cannot win the war with might and power, but only by the way the Spirit works.

Thus, once Jesus arrives as a human being, God doesn't need to use might and power to keep open the avenue for Messiah any more. Might and power was used by Jesus to heal, feed, deliver, and restore but not to overthrow the Romans—as the Jews wanted.

How many Christians today want to use might and power or teach that when Christ returns He returns to use might and power and force His way?

Do you see how design law view puts everything into perspective?

SABBATH

Memory text:

And because of all this, we make a sure covenant and write it; our leaders, our Levites, and our priests seal it. We will not neglect the house of our God. (Nehemiah 9:38 and 10:39 NKJV)

What is the covenant?

The lesson in the first paragraph says it is a “legal establishment of a relationship between God and His people.”

What are your thoughts on this?

If it is a legal establishment then:

- In what court do we find legal redress?
- What are the legal consequences for breaking the covenant? Is it an infliction of punishment from the court?
- What binds one to the covenant—is it external threat of being sued, of being punished? If so, what happens to love when one is threatened?
- How is the covenant enforced?
- If it is a legal contract with the judge, then wouldn't the judge have to recuse Himself from any disputes over the contract?

I see the idea that the covenant is a legal establishment as evidence of the imperial/imposed law paradigm. My view is that the covenant is the covenant of grace and is an expression of God's character and methods of love and has nothing to do with legalities.

People who want it to be legal do so because in our fallen world the law makes them feel safe:

- No one is above the law
- The law is a neutral standard
- The law gives protections and rights
- So, if the covenant is a legal establishment then it makes the immature feel safe

This is also why many get upset when we suggest salvation is not legal, because they feel we are throwing out the rules. To many it would be like saying we are playing baseball but with no rules, no fair or foul lines, no direction established in which to run bases, no balls or strikes just do what you want. Some people try and hit bats with gloves and catch gloves with balls. It is total chaos.

This is how those who don't understand design law hear what we are saying. They fail to realize that baseball is a made-up construct, thus rules are necessary.

But, not so in God's kingdom. God builds reality and His laws are the constants upon which reality operates.

So, there is only one covenant and it is God's love to us, God's promise to be true to Himself and never waiver; it is what God covenanted to do—it is the covenant of grace, yet God has manifested this covenant various ways at various times for various circumstances.

For instance—a parent has a child, if the parent is a godly parent, will the parent love the child? Does the parent have a covenant with that child? How would you describe it? Could you say the loving parent has a covenant of grace to do what is best for the child? How might that be manifested? Could the actions of such a loving parent be manifested by:

- discipline if the child is unruly?
- hugs to a hurting or frightened child?
- promises to reassure a doubting child?
- sacrifice to provide remedy for a dying child?

Is the parent giving different covenants through the child's life or merely communicating and demonstrating the same covenant—love and welfare for the child but in different ways as the situation dictates?

Go to MONDAY's lesson and at the top the lesson states: "The Bible identifies seven major covenants that God has made with people:

- First Covenant—Adam (Genesis 1-3)
- Second Covenant—Noah (Genesis 6-9)
- Third Covenant—Abraham (Genesis 12:1-3)
- Fourth Covenant—Moses and the Israelite nation (known as the Sinaitic or Mosaic Covenant; Exodus 19-24)
- Fifth Covenant—Phinehas (Numbers 25:10-13)
- Sixth Covenant—David (2Samuel 7:5-16)
- Seventh Covenant—New Covenant (Jeremiah 31:31-34)

Are these seven different covenants or one covenant communicated to different people, at different times and in different ways?

Are they not all manifestations of the same covenant of love and grace?

God promised to Adam the covenant of grace, that the seed of the woman will crush the serpent's head. That a Savior, from God is promised. That Adam, though now out of harmony with God's design for life and thus suffering with a terminal sin-condition, can be saved by trusting God to provide the remedy. This is the covenant of grace.

This same covenant was given to Noah—a worldwide flood is coming and all who trust me can be saved. The purpose of the flood was for the fulfilling of the covenant of grace, of keeping open the avenue for the Messiah. God's promise that He would not again destroy the world with water was also an expression of the covenant of grace. It wouldn't be needed and He will provide remedy.

The same covenant is expressed to Abraham that the Seed, meaning Jesus, will provide the remedy to our terminal sin-condition and we can be healed/saved if we trust God, which Abraham did.

The fourth covenant—from God's side was the same—delivered His people from slavery (metaphor from delivering from bondage of sin), reveals His glory, provides His law, gives the instruction for the temple and sacrifices all designed to teach them of the plan of salvation—the grace of God, that God is providing remedy and deliverance and we merely need to trust and choose to live in harmony with God and follow His instructions.

But the fourth covenant was perverted by the people—so instead of accepting in on faith and trusting God to heal and restore, the people took upon themselves the responsibility to fix the problem by their obedience or law-keeping. Thus, this covenant was not a trust faith covenant as God intended, but a legal transaction or contract in which the people said, “We’ve got a deal God. We will keep your rules and you will bless us with health and wealth.”

This is often referred to as the old covenant or the first covenant and was powerless to heal because it was not entered into by trusting God to provide remedy, but by trusting themselves to keep the rules and then holding God legally accountable to fulfill the agreement.

This is the problem with penal/legal theologies today. They also claim to be based on faith, but in fact are legal constructs in which the adherents hold God legally accountable and this is the source of their security. In other words, they trust the binding requirements of the law upon God because they don't trust God.

The fifth covenant was when Phinehas stood up for God and God chose the Levites to be His priests and thus the object lesson that God will work through those who trust Him and follow His instructions. God will provide the remedy and the priests will share that remedy to bring healing to others—and we, of course, are the priesthood of believers to share God's remedy to heal hearts and minds.

The sixth covenant, again the covenant of grace, expressing to David that the Messiah will come through David's family tree to bring remedy and cure and eliminate all sin and rule for all eternity.

The seventh or new covenant is the fulfillment of the covenant of grace promised to Adam and communicated throughout history. Jesus coming and curing the condition and providing a free remedy to all who trust Him.

So how many covenants do we have? Two—one true the covenant of grace and one false covenant of legality. The true covenant is an agreement with God that we enter into by faith or trust and thus Hebrews reads:

“Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.” Heb 11:1
NKJV

The Greek for substance is hypostasis, the first half hypo, as in hypoglycemic or hypotensive means low or under and the last half stasis means standing, was translated into the Latin as substance the first half, sub, as in subway, submarine, subterranean means under and the last half stance means standing.

Translated into modern English faith is our understanding and this has two meanings, both of which apply. Our faith is our comprehension of reality, the reality of God's character, methods, design laws, what sin is, our terminal condition, our inability to save our selves etc. and with that understanding we enter into an understanding with God an agreement, which is the covenant of grace. We understand God is love, that God so loved the world that He gave His only Son to provide the remedy to cure our condition, we understand that we cannot save or heal ourselves, so, we enter into an understanding with God that says, “God I trust you and surrender myself to you and you will heal me and I will honor you by cooperating and following your instructions.”

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote the following:

The spirit of bondage is engendered by seeking to live in accordance with legal religion, through striving to fulfill the claims of the law in our own strength. There is hope for us only as we come under the Abrahamic covenant, which is the covenant of grace by faith in Christ Jesus. The gospel preached to Abraham, through which he had hope, was the same gospel that is preached to us today, through which we have hope. Abraham looked unto Jesus, who is also the Author and the Finisher of our faith (The Youth's Instructor, September 22, 1892). 6BC 1077.7

As the Bible presents two laws, one changeless and eternal, the other provisional and temporary, [what law is temporary? What law was added because of sin?] so there are two covenants. The covenant of grace was first made with man in Eden, when after the Fall, there was given a divine promise that the seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head. To all men this covenant offered pardon, and the assisting grace of God for future obedience through faith in Christ. It also promised them eternal life on condition of fidelity to God's law. [why? Because the law is the protocol life is built upon] Thus the patriarchs received the hope of salvation. {FLB 77.2}

This same covenant was renewed to Abraham in the promise, "In thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed." Gen. 22:18. This promise pointed to Christ. So Abraham understood it, and he trusted in Christ for the forgiveness of sins. It was this faith that was accounted unto him for righteousness. The covenant with Abraham also maintained the authority of God's law. [meaning that the Messiah would fix broken humanity by restoring God's design law into the human species] The Lord appeared unto Abraham, and said, "I am the Almighty God; walk before me, and be thou perfect." The testimony of God concerning His faithful servant was, "Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes, and my laws." Gen. 17:1; 26:5. . . . {FLB 77.3}

The Abrahamic covenant was ratified by the blood of Christ, [meaning it was accomplished. Before Christ died it was a promise of what Christ would achieve, but at the Cross Christ actually achieved the remedy to sin and thus the promise was fulfilled or God ratified His covenant] and it is called the "second," or "new," covenant, because the blood by which it was sealed was shed after the blood of the first covenant. {FLB 77.4}

The covenant of grace is not a new truth, for it existed in the mind of God from all eternity. This is why it is called the everlasting covenant. {FLB 77.5}

There is hope for us only as we come under the Abrahamic covenant, which is the covenant of grace by faith in Christ Jesus. The gospel preached to Abraham, through which he had hope, was the same gospel that is preached to us today. . . . Abraham looked unto Jesus, who is also the author and the finisher of our faith. FLB77

This is important today because Satan is the author of imposed law, legal/penal and works oriented religious schemes.

It is commonly believed in Christianity that the genetic descendants of Abraham operated under a different covenant than we do—that is a lie. God so loved the WORLD that He gave His only begotten son. Abraham is the father of “many” nations.

In other words, there is this idea that the covenant of grace is for everyone but the Jews and they were saved by the works of animal sacrifices and one day in the future Christians will leave the earth and the Jews will again return to the OT covenant of sacrifices in order to find salvation. This is all fraudulent.

God is Creator, His laws are the laws upon which life is built. Adam deviated from God's design and corrupted his being and became terminal (dead in trespass and sin) and all humanity is descended from Adam—one human species, terminal. We all have the same condition and need the same cure and that cure comes through what Jesus accomplished for us. There is no other way than being restored to harmony with God and His design laws for life.

SUNDAY

At the end of the third paragraph the lesson states, “Sin is the antithesis of creation, bringing de-creation (death) instead.”

This is well said—and why is this true?

What kind of law is the basis for this truth?

What does God have to do?

If this is true then how has God been using His power through history?

God has been holding back death and destruction—God left the sins committed before unpunished (Romans 3:25)

But, how has God's use of power been portrayed? As holding back death and destruction or as the cause of death and destruction?

This is the distortion we get when we replace God's design law with human imposed law.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, “Bible scholars...” What do you think of the idea that God communicated with people in ways they could understand, according to their culture and expectations etc.?

Would this include the use of law—including the 10 Commandments?

In other words, were the 10 Commandments in existence in their written form and with the specific language recorded in the Bible prior to God writing them at Sinai?

- It [the law] was added because of transgressions until the Seed to whom the promise referred had come. The law was put into effect through angels by a mediator. (Galatians 3:19 NIV84)

Here are a few historic quotes from one of the founders of the SDA church—see whether you agree or disagree and why?

- The law of God existed before the creation of man or else Adam could not have sinned. After the transgression of Adam the principles of the law were not changed, but were definitely arranged and expressed to meet man in his fallen condition. EG White Selected Messages vol. 1 p. 230.1
- The law of God existed before man was created. The angels were governed by it. Satan fell because he transgressed the principles of God's government. After Adam and Eve were created, God made known to them His law. It was not then written, but was rehearsed to them by Jehovah. EG White The Story of Redemption 145.1
- The law of Jehovah, dating back to creation, was comprised in the two great principles, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength. This is the first commandment. And the second is like, namely this: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these." These two great principles embrace the first four commandments, showing the duty of man to God, and the last six, showing the duty of man to his fellow-man. The principles were more explicitly stated to man after the fall, and worded to meet the case of fallen intelligences. This was necessary in consequence of the minds of men being blinded by transgression. EG White Review and Herald, May 6, 1875 par. 13

Why was it necessary to give the written law? Does the written law establish it or codify and communicate it? What type of law is God's law?

When Isaac Newton wrote down the law of gravity—did that establish it?

WEDNESDAY

The people made the following pledges:

- 1.No mixed marriages (no marriages to an individual who could lead one to idolatry.
- 2.True Sabbath observance (no business transactions)
- 3.Debt cancelation
- 4.Financially supporting the temple

Why? What was the purpose of these pledges?

What is God trying to achieve? Salvation of humanity which requires the Messiah to come.

Are any of these four actions connected to God's purpose in providing Messiah to save humanity?

Any object lesson applications to us today?

1. No mixed marriages (no marriages to an individual who could lead one to idolatry).
 - Marriage to unbelievers undermine usefulness
 - Marriage to believer enhances usefulness
 - Consider any team with players not united toward the same goal
2. True Sabbath observance (no business transactions)
 - What is the purpose of the Sabbath?
 - It was made for man as a gift from God to assist in God's treatment in restoring us to holiness
 - Thus the Sabbath was part of God's healing plan and the holier people are the more effective in God's cause
3. Debt cancelation
 - Does being in debt obstruct ability to engage in any mission?
 - So would debt cancellation enhance people's ability to work for God? Both have more time to volunteer for God's cause and have more free resources to give to God's cause.
4. Financially supporting the temple
 - The Temple is the object lesson, the stage, the lesson book, as well as a wonder of the world. It would draw people from around the world to it and be a source of truth enlightening the world to God's plan to save and heal.

Do we see that these actions were in fact, all directly connected to God's plan to save the world and have Israel be His helpers in reaching the entire human family with the truth of salvation through the coming Messiah?

THURSDAY

The lesson asks why the Temple was so important for the faith as a whole?

Was the Temple and its services necessary for salvation?

Were the people during this time in history saved by observing the Temple service?

What was its purpose? It was theater, object lesson, teaching tool—to teach what?

Let's unpack some of the symbolism—I am not going to repeat all the lessons in our DVD on the sanctuary but try to bring out some other elements not in that presentation.

The Laver:

- The washing of the HS and Truth
 - Only the Priests and High Priest washed in the laver
 - The laver was made out of solid bronze with no wood and filled with water. The water is symbolic of God the Holy Spirit, which fills the laver. The laver represents the Word of God. The laver was constructed out of the mirrors the women brought out of Egypt (Ex 38:8). This aptly represents the purpose of God's Word to expose our defects and diagnose our condition. (James 1:22-25)
 - Titus 3:4-7 "But when the kindness and love of God our Savior appeared, he saved us, not because of righteous things we had done, but because of his mercy. He saved us through the washing of rebirth and renewal by the Holy Spirit, whom he poured out on us generously through Jesus Christ our Savior, so that, having been justified by his grace, we might become heirs having the hope of eternal life." Individual sacrifice
 - Eph 5:25-27 "Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her to make her holy, cleansing her by the washing with water through the word, and to present her to himself as a radiant church, without stain or wrinkle or any other blemish, but holy and blameless." Corporate sacrifice

We find this theme of washing with the word of God to cleanse our characters carried over by Jesus in the foot washing service.

- Our feet symbolize our journey through life
- Naked feet symbolize revealing truthfully our life journey to our brothers and sisters in Christ
- Washing by another symbolizes others, directed by the Holy Spirit, using God's Word, methods and principles to help us clean up our journey, removing the impure practices from our lives and to experience cleansing of character
- Washing other's feet reveals our willingness to help others who reveal their life journey and share how they have gotten themselves dirty with sin, clean up their lives and characters by the application of Gods' Word, methods and principles

The Covering of the Sanctuary

- Goats hair curtain
 - Symbolic of human sinfulness, fallen human nature
 - Goats were often symbols of deception (Rebekah used a goat to deceive Isaac. David's wife Michal used goat's hair pillows to deceive Saul's messengers. In the judgment metaphor the wicked are describes as goats. Christ who became sin though He knew no sin was represented on the Day of Atonement as a goat, but the other days as a lamb)
 - It was made of eleven curtains sewed together into two groupings, one of six and one of five (eleven in Bible numerology represents chaos of sin)
 - The one of six (six is the number of fallen man) was doubled and hung over the opening to be seen from the court – symbolic of our sinful nature in constant and daily need of Christ's healing presence. It is to remind us that on this earth we are still in our fallen "tent" and in daily need of the renewing of God's grace.

- The one of five (five is the number of grace) is symbolic of Christ who took our fallen condition upon Himself in order to cure and overcome. In eleven instances goats were used as sin offerings, thus symbolizing Christ taking our sinful condition upon Himself to cure it.
- The combination of the five curtains (grace) and the six curtains (man), make eleven which is symbolic of the chaos of sin overcome by the grace of God through Christ
- Rams skin dyed red
 - Rams were the animals offered to consecrate the priesthood
 - Jesus is, of course, our High Priest who brings the healing solution.
 - The Rams skins were died red, symbolic of the perfect life of Christ, which He surrendered in order to become our remedy to sin. This red rams skin covered the goats hair curtain, symbolic of Christ's righteousness which will become our character and overwrite our sinfulness, when He writes His law on our hearts and minds—the New Covenant!
- Badger skin
 - A tough, durable, impenetrable covering which withstood all that nature could throw against it, heat of the sun, rain, storms. Thus representative of Christ our righteousness and our shield of faith which withstands the attacks of the enemy. No matter what the prince of this world throws at Christ He withstood it, and no matter what Satan throws at us, when we are surrendered to Christ His victory will sustain us.

The Boards in the sanctuary:

- Consider the symbolism and lesson: to make boards for the sanctuary, trees had to be cut down, severed from their roots in the earth and stripped of all their branches, i.e. earthly fruits. The board represent the saved who become part of God's sanctuary, the building blocks of it (analogous to the stones in the temple, the living stones). They must be cut away from their roots in the sinfulness of this world, and stop producing fruits of sin.
- The boards, representing the believers who compose the sanctuary, are wood, earthly, but covered in gold symbolizing being purified by Christ. We must be purified by Christ, have our roots in this world severed, and cut away our self-righteousness then be renewed in Christ's perfect character, in order to dwell in the house of the Lord forever.
- There were 10 boards on each side of the sanctuary, symbolic of completion. On one end were six boards, with two corner boards. Six symbolic of man, two symbolic of unity with Christ, equals eight, the number 8 is symbolic of New Beginning. Thus, man (6) is united in Christ (2) has a new beginning (8). The other end had two corner boards, representative of unity with Christ.
- The boards were to stand upright, which is symbolic of those renewed in Christ to stand upright for God's kingdom.

- Each soldier when registered had to give a half shekel of silver to the temple (regardless of whether the soldier was rich or poor). Silver is symbolic of at-one-ment. Being united back with God.
- It took 3000 shekels to make one talent, which was the weight of the sockets into which the board stood. Each board stood upon two sockets, which was the atonement money of 12,000 soldiers. Symbolically, that atonement, bringing us together again and unites us to God cost God greatly. And we are only able to stand upright as we are anchored in what Christ has done for us.
- The boards were then held together with five bars made of shittim wood covered in gold. Symbolic of Christ's dual nature, human/divine. The five bars symbolized grace.
- The middle bar actually shot through the boards from one end to the other, a fitting representation of "Christ in you the hope of glory."

FRIDAY

read first paragraph and explain through design law

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Questions: If you have questions please email them either at requests@comeandreason.com or topics@comeandreason.com. If you post on Facebook it is likely they will not be answered as I often miss questions posted on Facebook.

The New Paradigm about the Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment Has been Changed: Thanks to your feedback I have rewritten portions of this document making it friendlier and less likely to cause offense. The new title is The Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment for the Modern World. It has a new cover, new introduction, the call to action section has been removed and other edits to clarify potential misunderstandings have been made throughout. It is already up on our website and print versions will be available November 14. Please throw away any of the first edition you may still have in your possession and use this version going forward.

PODCAST: Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.

November 15-17, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Norwegian SDA Health Worker's Retreat in Oslo, Norway.

November 24, 2019: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Aachen Germany.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

March 27,28, 2020: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at an AACC River Conference at Plano, TX. More info at <http://theriverconference.com/>

April 17,18, 2020: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Lakewood SDA church in Lakewood OH.

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 9

Trials, Tribulations, and Lists

by Lori Atkins

SABBATH

Just like the last time I taught this subject matter, the book Prophets and Kings is an amazing resource - chapters 45 to 50-ish.

So any thoughts about this week's lesson?

Did anyone read the recommended chapters in Ezra and Nehemiah? If you did, you went through some lists and lineages of the Babylonian exiles who returned to rebuild Jerusalem.

What do you think about these and other lists of genealogies and ancestries we have in the Bible? We have talked at length about the Bible being not only an accurate account of actual, historical events - real people's lives and stories and experiences, but it also serves much larger purposes and provides many profound object lessons.

So why are these particular lineages singled out?

From my count, there are 7 of these lists in scripture

1. Genesis 4-5 - The written account of Adam's family line from Adam to Noah;
2. Genesis 10 - "The Table of Nations" or the account of Noah's sons Shem, Ham, and Japheth and their sons;
3. Numbers 26 - "The 2nd Census/Descendents of the 12 tribes of Israel";
4. Ruth 4 - The Geneology of David;
5. 1 Chronicles 1-14 - Historical Records from Adam to David (including the genealogy of Saul) and including the royal line after the exile.
6. Also repeated in Nehemiah; and
7. Matthew 1 - the Geneology of Jesus the Messiah.

When you are reading/studying the Word, do you typically skip these passages or dig in?

The quarterly suggests the reason they are included is to show that God notices the details, the particulars - He knows all about our families and He cares about them all. Of course that's true, but do you think there might be a more significant reason why these specific lists of ancestry are recorded in scripture - particularly in the Old Testament?

What was transpiring on this planet at that time?
Was there a conflict going on involving more than just human beings?

There was no mystery...right there in the Garden of Eden, God promised a redeemer...a savior was coming...and Satan knew that mankind could not be saved without Jesus coming as a human being. After hearing about the crushed head and the bruised heel, did Satan just sit back as an observer...a spectator, and just wait and watch that happen? Or did he set about trying to thwart any such efforts...in fact, he marshalled all his evil resources and poured all his evil energies into opposing Christ at every point - and ultimately tried to prevent God from fulfilling His plan to save this creation? So how would he do that?

Well, God needed cooperative participants to carry out His plan, right - folks who were willing and had hearts open to the Spirit? Satan knew that Christ would not be born to a woman like Jezebel, so he set about hardening and closing hearts...turning them away from God...and at one point in history came this close to succeeding when there was only one righteous man left, a single human being remained on the entire planet who was willing to work with God. Of course, after God mercifully intervened with the flood, the Messiah was promised to Abraham's descendents...so Satan could narrow his focus to the Israelites and the Jews, and again he almost succeeded. Are you seeing any parallels between this back and forth struggle in the great controversy...and the lineage lists we just looked at?

Why do you think there are no more of these lists recorded after the genealogy of Jesus Christ?
What about the trials and tribulations experienced by this group of refugees and their ancestors?

They had been taken captive ~70 years prior, their homes - their promised land had been destroyed and decimated, now they faced a dangerous journey back to Jerusalem...and the monumental tasks of rebuilding the temple, rebuilding the wall, rebuilding their city/government/society. There was joy in the homecoming, but these were some trying times. How many of you here have ever packed up and moved to a new neighborhood? A new city? A new state...even a new country...where maybe you were starting over...everything was unfamiliar. Maybe you moved to a place where you didn't know anyone.

This was a part of the captive's journey that I could totally relate to, because I have done it - a lot...more than 15 times in ~15 years...and it can be an ordeal.

Was there purpose in these trials? Is there a purpose in our trials?
One of the founders of our church wrote,

“This present life is our time of test and trial. God placed Adam and Eve in the beautiful garden of Eden, saying to them, “Of every tree in the garden thou mayest freely eat.” But there was one prohibition. “Of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it; for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die” (Gen. 2:16,17). God wished to test and try the beings He had made, to see if they would be loyal and true to Him. {1SAT 318.4}

Did God not know what they were going to do so He put this tree there to find out?

Was God setting them up to fail?

Why put trials and temptations in our way?

Why not create a home without a tree which would be used to tempt?

Was God giving them an exam to test them and if they pass they live and if they fail – too bad death sentence?

“Our first parents, though created innocent and holy, were not placed beyond the possibility of wrongdoing. . . . They were to enjoy communion with God and with holy angels; but before they could be rendered eternally secure, their loyalty must be tested. At the very beginning of man’s existence a check was placed upon the desire for self-indulgence, the fatal passion that lay at the foundation of Satan’s fall. The tree of knowledge, which stood near the tree of life in the midst of the garden, was to be a test of the obedience, faith, and love of our first parents. While permitted to eat freely of every other tree, they were forbidden to taste of this, on pain of death. They were also to be exposed to the temptations of Satan; but if they endured the trial, they would finally be placed beyond his power, to enjoy perpetual favor with God...” {CC 13.2}

Is there purpose to be gained by our enduring trials?

“Blessed is the man who perseveres under trial, because when he has stood the test, he will receive the crown of life that God has promised to those who love him. (James 1:12)

Testing has two primary purposes: When a person is sick and goes to the doctor, what does the doctor typically do? Run a bunch of “tests”. Why? To expose the problem, to uncover the defect. Does the doctor do this in order to humiliate, embarrass, ridicule, punish, harass or criticize the patient? Or does the doctor do this in order to help uncover the problem and ultimately heal the patient? The first reason tests come is in order to help us know how sick we are and expose the areas in our lives in which the infection of sin is raging!

When a person “tests their mettle” what does that mean?

When a person has practiced, and studied, and prepared for anything – piano, Olympic competition, biology class, drivers education, auto mechanics, pilots instruction – does there ever come a time when they are to put their training, education, practice to the test? Why? In order for them to fail or in order for them to achieve? To solidify into their character, into their personhood what they have been working toward?

Tests come as a means of helping us overcome defects of character. When a person, who has struggled with addictions, gets into rehab, detoxed, goes to 12 step meetings, avoids places where their substance is used, eventually, in order to be truly free they will one day be faced again with the opportunity to use and will be tested – will they choose to say no, turn away, exercise their power of choice to reach out for help, or will they surrender to the temptation?

God allows tests to come as a means of freeing us from defects of character!

“A refining, purifying process is going on among the people of God, and the Lord of hosts has set His hand to this work. This process is most trying to the soul, but it is necessary in order that defilement may be removed. Trials are essential in order that we may be brought close to our heavenly Father, in submission to His will, that we may offer unto the Lord an offering in righteousness. . . The Lord brings His children over the same ground again and again (how many here in this room have been over the same ground again and again and again?), increasing the pressure until perfect humility fills the mind, and the character is transformed; then they are victorious over self, and in harmony with Christ and the Spirit of heaven.”

Are your brains firing? Do any specific texts come to mind that describe this very process?

Consider these verses from Psalm 23, amplified by Dr. Jennings:

“The Lord is my shepherd I shall not want - God is watching out for me and I don’t need to worry about where my support will come from. He will provide all my soul needs. He makes me lie down in green pastures, he leads me beside the still waters - He will first provide soul nurturance, support, sustenance to strengthen me and prepare me. He restores my soul - He will heal my inner man, cleanse my conscience, and restore my individuality. He leads me in the path of righteousness for his name sake - He will lead me in the path which restores me to righteousness, the path that makes me right inside, like He originally intended, so that He and His ways will be glorified in my life. When I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil for you are with me - He, then, after providing for me, strengthening me, cleansing my conscience, removing my guilt, restoring my individuality, leads me in the path to ultimate righteousness, the path which is through the valley that feels like I am going to die.

The valley in which self surrenders and is crucified, the valley which frees me from the domination of fear and selfishness. Your rod and staff comfort me - He comforts me with his shepherd's rod and staff, which is used by the shepherd to beat back my attackers, and lift me out of the ditch when I fall."

Isn't this such a beautiful and accurate description of conversion? And is this typically a one-time event...one and done? Or is it an iterative process of growing and maturing?

This is the Lord bringing his children over the same ground again and again! Back to the quote:

"The purification of God's people cannot be accomplished without suffering. . . . He passes us from one fire to another, testing our true worth. True grace is willing to be tried. If we are loath to be searched by the Lord, our condition is one of peril." {My Life Today 92.2}

"It is in mercy that the Lord reveals to men their hidden defects. He would have them critically examine the complicated emotions and motives of their own hearts, and detect that which is wrong, and modify their dispositions and refine their manners. God would have His servants become acquainted with their own hearts. In order to bring to them a true knowledge of their condition, He permits the fire of affliction to assail them, so that they may be purified. The trials of life are God's workmen to remove the impurities, infirmities, and roughness from our characters, and fit them for the society of pure, heavenly angels in glory. . . . The fire will not consume us, but only remove the dross, and we shall come forth seven times purified, bearing the impress of the Divine. {ML 92.3}

Do you think God was trying to accomplish some of this character development and refining and maturing through these trials the Israelites experienced?

And how many of the trials they (and we) experienced...were of their own making?

It is in this way that trials can lead to growth and overcoming defects of character, as we experience the results of our own choices and learn from them – and that therapy process can be very painful! Remember, once there is brokenness there are no pain-free options...but while it is impossible to avoid pain in this sinful world, being miserable is optional. ☺

SUNDAY

The God of History

Sunday's lesson references Daniel 1:1-2 for the big picture description of Nebuchadnezzar's theft of the temple artifacts, and Ezra 1:9-11 for the detailed inventory of items the captives brought back with them...and then says that "together, these texts show that the Lord is in control."

Any thoughts about that? What is God in control of?

Himself! His design laws.

This quote from Prophets and Kings is also in Sunday's lesson...who does this author say is in control?

"The history of nations speaks to us today. To every nation and to every individual God has assigned a place in His great plan. Today men and nations are being tested by the plummet in the hand of Him who makes no mistake. All are by their own choice deciding their destiny, and God is overruling all for the accomplishment of His purposes." (536)

What about Daniel 5 that tells the story of Belshazzar's feast and the writing on the wall...is everyone familiar with that story?

The lesson asks what these texts teach us about the judgment upon Belshazzar...and in the teacher's quarterly it says,

"The listing of the vessels from the temple [the ones being brought back from Babylon] brings us back to the banquet of Belshazzar, who personally offends God by using these sacred items for his feast."?

Who was deciding Belshazzar's destiny that night?

How?

What law lens are you looking through?

What did we just discuss about Satan opposing God's purpose and plan at every juncture throughout the Old Testament?

TUESDAY

Where Are the Priests?

The lesson states, "And one of the big problems was that, despite all the wonderful promises of restoration after exile, many of the Jews did not want to return to the land of their ancestors. That is, they preferred to stay in Babylon. Why would that be?" Thoughts?

What instructions were they given at the time they were taken captive?

Multiple times in Jeremiah, they were told: “It will be a long time. Therefore build houses and settle down; plant gardens and eat what they produce.” Many likely took that instruction to heart and settled in and put down roots, which made it very difficult to leave.” Is it good that some of the Jews stayed in Babylon? (Esther, Mordecai)

Ezra's main concern is for the priestly lineage because he was a priest and they were critical to the proper function of the temple services. After Ezra gathers the people at the river Ahava to travel to Jerusalem, he is saddened because the Levites didn't come. Those who were to teach the people about God and had the greatest role in restoring the people to “walking with God” did not make the decision to return to the land of Israel. So, Ezra acts. He calls nine leaders and a couple men who are described as “men of understanding” (Ezra 8:16) and gives them the task of going to a man named “Iddo” in Casiphia and requesting that he send them Levites, as well as some Nethinims. Not much is known about Iddo or the place of Casiphia, except that it must have been a densely populated site by the Jews.

Ezra then praises God because Iddo sent 38 Levites and 220 Nethinims, who were appointed to serve the Levites and help in the temple. The priestly group responded to the Holy Spirit's prompting and decided to join the assembly at the Ahava River.

“By now, the Jews who remained in the land of exile had been there for almost a century and a half. Excavations of Nippur have brought to light numerous documents that show that many wealthy Jews lived in that region of Mesopotamia during the reign of Artaxerxes I. Hence, it may have been a difficult task for Ezra and his fellow leaders to convince as many to return as did accompany him. These returning colonists could expect only a hard pioneering life in the old homeland, with far fewer comforts than in Babylonia. In view of these considerations it is surprising to find that Ezra succeeded in persuading almost 2,000 families to cast in their lot with their brethren in the old homeland.” [SDA BC vol 3, p 376]

Interestingly, animals were also counted in the list of exiles who returned from Babylonian exile, specifically 736 horses, 245 mules, 435 camels, and 6,720 donkeys.

WEDNESDAY

Humbled Before God

Wednesday's lesson contrasts the different approaches by Ezra and Nehemiah when each of them led a group of captives back to Jerusalem. Both knew how dangerous the journey was...Ezra fasted and humbled himself before God, and felt like asking the king for help and protection would have brought dishonor to the Lord and perhaps shown a lack of trust. Nehemiah did have an escort to protect him, and had no problem asking for that help. The pink box says, “Of course, we are to trust in God for everything. At the same time, too, what are times we do call upon even those not of our faith for help? In many cases, why is that not wrong - but perhaps even appropriate?" Thoughts?

THURSDAY

In the Holy City

What is going on in Nehemiah 11:1-2: "Now the leaders of the people settled in Jerusalem. The rest of the people cast lots to bring one out of every ten of them to live in Jerusalem, the holy city, while the remaining nine were to stay in their own towns. The people commended all who volunteered to live in Jerusalem." Why would they have to cast lots to see who would have to live in Jerusalem as opposed to the other cities?

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 10

Worshipping the Lord

by Karin Covi

My evolution of understanding of this message started in 1981, as I started med school at LLUSM, then through residency and beyond. I attended Graham Maxwell's SS classes weekly for 10 years, hungry for more understanding of this "larger view" of salvation, WDJHTD [that is, "Why Did Jesus Have To Die?"], etc. Often, Graham spent 5 minutes on the sketch at the top of each SS Lesson in the quarterly. What/Why the author might have been thinking. And here I was, chomping at the bit for meat, and we're chatting about a sketch?

We are so blessed to have Dr. Jennings' energies and abilities as a resource (sometimes an open fire hydrant!) of his material which, I believe, is inspired by the Holy Spirit. And If we have time, I'd like to share with you and to hear from you how we're utilizing the resources from C&R: the SS notes, in particular. Lori last week described the website update, along with all the archived material, regularly updated blogs, stuff you can print (aptly named!). Please take advantage of all the brain power from Tim and Dean and James available there!

SABBATH

Paragraph 3 "This week we will look at how they worshiped the Lord during this time and see things that we, who worship the same Lord, can apply to ourselves"

Perennial problem of studying historical material in the Bible: The historical material is Descriptive - it describes what happened from centuries ago. What Nehemiah, Ezra did. But as inspired Scripture, we ascribe some prescriptive aspects to it.

Which are which: Descriptive vs. prescriptive?
Which do we apply to our own lives?

Just because something happened then doesn't mean that it's something you're supposed to replicate in your life.

In my archived material, I find in Q4L8 and L6:

"Remember: The Bible records real people who did real things and is historically accurate, yet those real lives not only record their history, but are object lessons to a larger reality."
"We believe the Bible records real people who did real things—in other words real historical events. But we also believe that Israel was not only real people doing real things, but what is recorded in Scripture serves as lessons for us, teaching us a larger reality."

Sound familiar?

Overview:

- 605BC - Neb takes Israelites into Babylonian captivity for 70 years
- 535 BC - 1st group leaves Babylon for Jerusalem (Zerubabel)
- 515BC - sanctuary rebuilt ?start services? Not able, because not secure, I would think... defending from surrounding enemy tribes
- 70 years later, after Ezra, then 13 years later Nehemiah come with 2nd and 3rd groups from Babylon:
- 445BC, the wall is rebuilt (in 52 DAYS?!?!?! Say whaat? Wall 9 feet wide... everyone got involved in the building of the wall.)
- Only THEN did worship services begin!

This overview shows that for more than 150 years of no services, no formal worship, no corporate praising of God.

Why not? They thought: How can we? God isn't "here".

Ps 137: 1-4 describes the sentiment of the Babylonian captives:

- 1 By the rivers of Babylon^p we sat and wept^q when we remembered Zion.^r (Zion = Jerusalem)
2 There on the poplars^s we hung our harps,^t
3 for there our captors^u asked us for songs, our tormentors demanded^v songs of joy;
they said, "Sing us one of the songs of Zion!"^w 4 How can we sing the songs of the Lord^x while in a foreign land?

How do we sing when we're in Babylon? We are slaves of foreign kin in foreign land... in their economy, this means their gods are stronger!

Jeremiah (the prophet left behind, living in Judea) sends a letter to those already in Babylon (captured). I can imagine them gathering in town square and read from scroll; we find it in Jeremiah 29:4:

4This is what the Lord All-Powerful, the God of Israel [He has NOT lost His power, is NOT a weaker god], says to all those people [Why are they there?] I sent away from Jerusalem as captives to Babylon*: 5"Build houses and settle in the land. Plant gardens and eat the food they grow. 6Get married and have sons and daughters. Find wives for your sons, and let your daughters be married so they also may have sons and daughters. Have many children in Babylon; don't become fewer in number. 7Also do good things for the city where I sent you as captives. Pray to the Lord for the city where you are living, because if good things happen in the city, good things will happen to you also." 8The Lord All-Powerful, the God of Israel, says: "Don't let the prophets among you and the people who do magic fool you. Don't listen to their dreams. 9They are prophesying lies to you, saying that their message is from me. But I did not send them," says the Lord.

10 This is what the Lord says: “Babylon will be powerful for seventy years. After that time I will come to you, and I will keep my promise to bring you back to Jerusalem. 11 I say this because I know what I am planning for you,” says the Lord. “I have good plans for you, not plans to hurt you. I will give you hope and a good future. 12 Then you will call my name. You will come to me and pray to me, and I will listen to you. 13 You will search for me. And when you search for me with all your heart, you will find me! 14 I will let you find me,” says the Lord. “And I will bring you back from your captivity. I forced you to leave this place, but I will gather you from all the nations, from the places I have sent you as captives,” says the Lord. “And I will bring you back to this place.”

*Why are they in Babylon? Everyone knows why, because Nebuchadnezzar took them there.... No? Jeremiah says, No, the God of the Covenant sent you there.

Why? They did not live up to the covenant!

See Deut. 28 blessing and curses - if you do not obey, you'll go into captivity, lose the promised land. God had redeemed them from slavery in Egypt, so they are an alternative community. But they forgot it, turned religion into exclusive club, forgetting about what it's all about; they oppressed widows and orphans, forgot God. They were not faithful to covenant! [keep reading v. 5ff - 11]

Why are they in Babylon? v. 11: Because I have a plan. Not to be evil, but to give you a future and a hope... AND, I want the Babylonians to be INCLUDED in my kingdom! Because they are my people, as well. (They just don't know it yet!) And you are going to be the tools in bringing them.

Back to this week's lesson: Under Ezra and Nehemiah, the Lord is good, and the people are singing - why now? What has changed? Restored back to Holy City!

They had obeyed Jeremiah's instructions to "build/plant/get married" - in Babylon! For 70 years, meaning they're gonna live and some of you are gonna die in Babylon.

Ah, the people thought, but with no temple? No sacrifices? Then, no worship, no singing. No, Jeremiah says, you can worship in Babylon, as well as in Jerusalem!

God is trying to broaden their horizons. God is not local, only residing in Jerusalem. God is the God of the Babylonians as much as Israelites; He is not restricted to one locale

Ultimately, Christ says in Matt 12: "Where 2 or 3 are gathered in My name, I AM in their midst". The Most Holy Place is now everywhere where the community gets together around Jesus, following Jesus' steps (Matt 25):

- feeding those who are hungry, giving drink, visiting those in shackles,
- in ministry of helping people wherever they are!

SUNDAY

Singing the Songs of the Lord

The singers and musicians were a special class of Levites, professionals - paid for their services

Last half of last paragraph:

What was the purpose of such a professional organization? It served to develop talent and the vision of excellence in worship. Excellence must always be a goal in worship. Praises must come from the heart and be expressed in the best way so that people will be spiritually uplifted. One can assume that those musicians and singers who served in the temple were carefully selected to lead the worship service.

Hamilton Community Church: 1991. Charter member of this new-fangled concept to target "seekers" and "burnt out SDAs" and not simply other Christians in other denominations.

I was "Worship Leader" for 5 years: developed Themes, created programming, coordination of pastor's sermon with drama, music, Scripture reading; all orchestrated and choreographed; then reviewed with team/pastor for effectiveness between/after services to continuously improve effectiveness of message. Goal was excellence. (Unpaid, to be sure.)

OT model: people were groomed (and paid!) to become the quality through which others might be blessed.

Today's challenge: people wanting to participate in worship service who are not "up to par", and thus a distraction to the listeners/worshippers.

Which one of your favorite songs were they singing?
Amazing Grace? How Great Thou Art? Side by Side?

Longest book of the Bible: filled with hymns! Psalms

Music is 100% culture! Each generation needs to supply their own music

Skipping to Tuesday's Lesson to keep with the topic of music and singing: Two Large Thanksgiving Choirs

Next is a description of responsive singing: praising and giving thanks.

Neh 12:24 - 43 (Class reading) I promise I edited out the funky names, but kept the sentiment of the text!

Nehemiah Dedicates the City Wall

²⁷ When the city wall of Jerusalem was dedicated, the Levites were brought in from wherever they were living, so that they could join in celebrating the dedication with songs of thanksgiving and with the music of cymbals and harps. ²⁸ The Levite families of singers gathered from the area where they had settled around Jerusalem... ³⁰ The priests and the Levites performed ritual purification for themselves, the people, the gates, and the city wall.

³¹ I assembled the leaders of Judah on top of the wall and put them in charge of two large groups to march around the city, giving thanks to God.

The first group went to the right on top of the wall... The following priests, blowing trumpets, marched next...—all of whom carried musical instruments of the kind played by King David, the man of God. Ezra the scholar led this group in the procession. ³⁷ At the Fountain Gate they went up the steps that led to David's City, past David's palace, and back to the wall at the Water Gate, on the east side of the city.

³⁸ The other group of those who gave thanks went to the left along the top of the wall, and I followed with half of the people... We ended our march near the gate to the Temple.

⁴⁰ So both the groups that were giving thanks to God reached the Temple area.

In addition to the leaders who were with me, ⁴¹ my group included the following priests, blowing trumpets...; The singers... sang at the top of their voices.

⁴³ That day many sacrifices were offered, and the people were full of joy because God had made them very happy. The women and the children joined in the celebration, and the noise they all made could be heard for miles.

- a. Nehemiah 12:31 The two groups started somewhere on the southwestern part of the city wall and went in opposite directions until they met in front of the Temple in the northeastern part of the city.
- b. Nehemiah 12:39 Ephraim Gate, Jeshanah Gate; or Ephraim Gate (also called the Old Gate). (GNT)

What are we supposed to learn from this historic account? The temple is rebuilt, worship (sacrifices, prayer, singing, etc) has begun. Joy abounds.

Remember: it is through these gates, the Messiah is going to come! One day, the glory of THIS temple is going to be greater than the glory of Solomon's temple!

The people caught the vision...

MONDAY

Purification

Neh 12:20 The priests and the Levites performed ritual purification for themselves, the people, the gates, and the city wall.

How do you purify a wall? Why feel a need to purify the wall and gates, above and beyond the people/themselves?

After 160 years, the people had to relearn laws, history; they realized how far they had gone astray. Babylonian excursion was a result of their forefathers straying from truth. They do NOT want to repeat history, causing God to have to exile us. So they consecrate everything to God... demonstrating that they were serious.

What purification rites do we have now? Baptism; footwashing, the wine in the communion service

Sacrifice of killing a lamb (OT) vs. crushing a grape (wine), footwashing (NT)

Why do we need "purification" (we might use "dedication"?) rites? To commemorate a new chapter? Think Design Law! In this case, the 2nd law of thermodynamics: Entropy; all things tend towards DISorder. Unless you invest in a relationship, it's not going to survive.

God needs to be in the center, constantly pumping the energy into the system in order to defeat entropy.

How do you have a sense of dedication which outwardly expresses an inner reality? Attitude of gratitude, mindfulness, intentionally being aware; given a different perspective, what might seem a negative experience, is not bad -- actually has brought season of growth, of maturity.

God is not the "primary consumer" of our worship; He doesn't need us to tell Him how wonderful He is!

Worship is the intentional turning of the mind to God and seeing and ascribing to God all of the greatness and goodness and glory that belongs to Him. Worship is giving God the place that rightfully belongs to Him. Worship is an atmosphere in which you can learn to live. "I have set the Lord always before me." (Psalm 16:8)

Design law: The law of worship: We are changed neurobiologically and characterologically to become like which we admire, worship, and spend time watching and assimilating.

In contradistinction, a legalist/imposed law perspective: we are changed by trying harder or by divine fiat/decreed

And we, whose minds are not veiled by confusion, and who reveal the truth about the Lord's glorious character, are being transformed into his likeness with ever-increasing glory which comes from the Lord and is applied in us by the Spirit. 2Cor 3:18 (Rem)

One way of describing worship is to say that it is "orientation" or "reorientation," because so many things in life demand our attention, many of which can be quite trivial. If there is nothing to "reorient" us, we may waste a lot of energy and enthusiasm on them, though their significance and impact on our lives and the community is minimal. (Reminds me of what we're learning in this class about Sabbath:

"Remember the Sabbath day keeping yourself holy" or,
"Remember the Sabbath day in order to stay holy."

"The first duty of all created beings is worship. All else flows from our worship, from who God is. The way you worship depends on your picture of God. Worship is transformation through adoration." (Graham Kendrick) "Worship is responding to all that God is with all that we are."

Bottom of Monday's lesson:

"...what greater revelation of God's character can we have than seeing Jesus on the cross, bearing the punishment for our sins so we don't have to bear that punishment ourselves?"

Does anyone else bristle when they read this?

Of course, I agree that the cross is the greatest revelation of God character! But honestly, when I read this, I felt myself getting stuck: HOW does someone bear a punishment for someone else? How would heavenly society work if its inhabitants simply had had someone else (even Christ!) simply "bear the punishment" for their sins?

I feel mired back in this legal/penal view. Can you help me make sense of this?

(This is why I'm planning on going to Texas to develop my ability to put on a new pair of glasses, a new perspective on a very old subject.)

In my archived excerpts, I find this – from a document from C&R ministry giving a position on various theological issues:

Punishment for Sin: Punishment is the natural consequence that unremedied sin brings upon the sinner in this life and in the Final Judgment, where each person suffers in the end according to his deeds. Christ, in our place, experienced this mental agony (punishment) for sin during the fractured unity with His Father ("... why have you forsaken Me?"), prior to His actual death, when He "became sin who knew no sin."

My response: Christ experienced separation from the Father as one with unremedied sin (selfishness!). Not because the law demanded, but because it showed that even facing certain extinction, Christ did not use His power to save Himself -- He demonstrated perfect Love, emanating from His character which was developed in his humanity.

And from another archived excerpt: What does it mean he bore the guilt and shame? Christ bore our guilt and shame—i.e. He was not guilty and He was not ashamed:

Let us fix our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy set before him endured the cross, scorning its shame, and sat down at the right hand of the throne of God.
Heb 12:2

Christ scorned or despised the shame of the Cross because He knew who He was and that the shame of the experience was actually upon those who rejected and crucified Him, and not on Him. He said, “Father forgive them they don’t know what they are doing...” they think they are shaming me – but it is actually shame on them.

Christ, when he was lifted up — drew all unto Himself, thus He knew His act was an act of supreme glory and not an act of shame.

THURSDAY

The Priests and Levites as Part of the Worship

First paragraph: “The intercession of Christ in man’s behalf in the sanctuary above is as essential to the plan of salvation as was His death upon the cross. By His death He began that work which after His resurrection He ascended to complete in heaven. We must by faith enter within the veil, ‘whither the forerunner is for us entered.’ Hebrews 6:20.”—Ellen G. White, The Great Controversy, p. 489

As someone who has been asking the question, "Why did Jesus have to die" since she was 8 years old, this is BIG! If Christ's intercession in the heavenly sanctuary is "as essential" as the cross, I oughta get brushed up on what is going on up there!

How? Review Heavenly Sanctuary document?

In Summary:

The specifications for worship in the Old Testament are quite unlike the way we worship today. This shows that the specifics are not the most important aspect, but rather it is the intentions and the desire to praise God that should be uppermost when we worship. Many arguments have centered on music, form of service, the right posture for prayer etc.

Looking at what happened in the Old Testament, such as here in Ezra and Nehemiah, should help us not to be dogmatic about worship style. As God repeatedly makes clear, he is looking for the attitude of mind and sincerity, for conviction and dedication, far more than the details.

That said there were rituals to be observed that God himself had instituted, as teaching mechanisms for a people very different to us in their background and experience. In fact God went into great detail as to what needed to be done, so that the worshipers could learn lessons. Tragically it all degenerated into formalism and hypocrisy, much to God’s grief and that of the later prophets.

So what do we learn about how to worship today? Much of the answers will relate to our picture of God, and what we think he “wants” from us. All too often worship is really seen in a similar way as those pagan rituals that sought to appease their deity, to make sure he/she was not offended in any way, and that the requirements of the divine-human contract has been properly observed. So when you look at such practices it’s all about serving a capricious, often malevolent god who takes delight in causing suffering.

We need to take any trace of these ideas out of our worship. We do indeed come to church to worship, but going through the service without thought is not worship.

Additionally, worship is not just a church service. We can worship in our homes when we talk, read the Bible, and sing—and when we're doing the washing-up if our minds are tuned towards God. Yes, even this SS discussion we're having right now can be identified as worship as our minds engage with God, as we think of spiritual things and how we relate to our loving Lord.

Most of all our whole lives can be worship, as we put God first and foremost in our daily experience, thinking of all he does and the kind of being he is. By looking at Jesus we see the truth of God, and the way he wins us back to love and trust, to be healed from the damage sin has caused. This too is worship, because we are recognizing the value of God, "worth-ship," which is the basis for the word worship.

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 11

Backslidden People

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read memory text: “And I commanded the Levites that they should cleanse themselves, and that they should go and guard the gates, to sanctify the Sabbath day. Remember me, O my God, concerning this also, and spare me according to the greatness of Your mercy!” Neh 13:22 NKJV

In Bible symbolism, who do the Levites represent? The priesthood of believers.

What would cleansing themselves represent? The transformation of character and healing of heart when we are washed by the Holy Spirit.

But when the kindness and love of God our Savior appeared, ⁵ he saved us, not because of righteous things we had done, but because of his mercy. He saved us through the washing of rebirth and renewal by the Holy Spirit, ⁶ whom he poured out on us generously through Jesus Christ our Savior, ⁷ so that, having been justified by his grace, we might become heirs having the hope of eternal life. Titus 3:4-7 NIV84

What do you hear in this passage? What is the washing of rebirth by the Holy Spirit?

From The Remedy:

But when our God and Savior appeared with the kindness and love of God,⁵ he healed us — he procured the Remedy. We could not do it ourselves, neither have we contributed anything to the cure. He did it because of his compassion. He heals us through the work of the Holy Spirit who cleanses our hearts and minds⁶ by taking what Christ achieved and generously reproducing it into us,⁷ so that — having been regenerated to be right in heart by the Remedy Christ achieved — we actually receive eternal life.

Consider this description of what the Holy Spirit does, from the book The Desire of Ages:

The Holy Spirit was the highest of all gifts that He could solicit from His Father for the exaltation of His people. The Spirit was to be given as a regenerating agent, and without this the sacrifice of Christ would have been of no avail. The power of evil had been strengthening for centuries, and the submission of men to this satanic captivity was amazing. Sin could be resisted and overcome only through the mighty agency of the Third Person of the Godhead, who would come with no modified energy, but in the fullness of divine power. It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer. It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature. Christ has given His Spirit as a divine power to overcome all hereditary and cultivated tendencies to evil, and to impress His own character upon His church.

DA 671.2

Do you see why Satan attacks the idea of the Trinity and puts forth arguments that there is no Holy Spirit?

- Satan opposed the Father in heaven, trying to make it appear the Father was untrustworthy by attacking the position of Jesus. But He failed in His attack against the Father and was cast out of heaven.
- Satan deceived humankind and then tried to obstruct Jesus from coming as our Messiah, and when that didn't work and Jesus was born to Mary Satan worked to try and prevent Jesus from developing a perfect sinless humanity—but that failed.
- Now Satan works to oppose the third member of the Godhead, the Holy Spirit to get people to deny His existence and to prevent the Holy Spirit from applying the victory of Christ into the hearts of humans.

I believe this is one of the great purposes of Islam—its core teaching is to deny the Trinity and thus to misrepresent the character of God as authoritarian and legal, a rules-oriented, work-demanding god that uses his power to inflict punishment on the wicked.

Love is outward moving, other-centered and giving. This is how love functions. The minimum number for truly other-centered love is three. In a two-party relationship one can have self-centered worship and reinforcement of narcissism. But, with three, truly other-centered self-sacrificial love is required.

And we see this in how the Godhead functions. The Father gives His power and authority to Jesus who uses it to reveal love and give all the glory back to the Father and the Spirit works to glorify the work of the Son bringing greater glory to the Father.

The God that Jesus reveals is love. And true Christians are those who love like God loves, we love all people from all cultures and all races. But loving all people means we DON'T collude with their destruction. We speak the truth in love and we make it clear love doesn't change reality.

- Love for a smoker doesn't make smoking healthy—the laws of health are being violated and loving that person doesn't change the damaging results
- Love for a person who has multiple sexual partners doesn't make them mature, their characters develop, or them to avoid the destructive results—the law of love as well as health are being violated and loving them doesn't change the damaging results
- Love for people who worship false gods doesn't make their minds and hearts grow into godliness—the law of worship is being violated and loving them doesn't change the damaging results

So, first point is that the Levites are to cleanse themselves by surrendering to God for the washing of their hearts and minds by the Holy Spirit, which means the truth washing away lies and love washing away selfishness and we partake of the divine nature and character of Christ.

What is it to guard the gates? Gates represent entry points—Jesus is the gate into the sheep pen, the way of life. Guarding the gates represents guarding the truth about God as revealed throughout all history, in Scripture, in science and nature, and in experiences of life. We are to guard the truth, the gates to keep open the way into the city for all who want to enter via Christ.

What does sanctify the Sabbath represent? It is stated in other versions as keeping the Sabbath holy. What does this mean?

Who made the Sabbath holy? Can we change that? Can we do anything to make it more holy? Can we do anything to make it less holy? So does our conduct in relation to the Sabbath do anything to the Sabbath? Does it have any impact on us?

What is the purpose of the Sabbath? It was made for man—for what purpose? Is it related to our holiness, to God making us holy?

“You must observe my Sabbaths. This will be a sign between me and you for the generations to come, so you may know that I am the Lord, who makes you holy.” Exodus 31:13 NIV84

And what does it mean to be holy?

Would holiness be purity or unity with God? And would such purity or unity with God mean we are living in harmony with all His laws?

And what kind of laws are God’s laws? Design laws and thus, what is the result of having God’s laws written on our heart and living in harmony with them? Healthiness, mentally, physically, relationally, spiritually.

Is this possible without trust in God? And is trust something we must exercise? Would the Sabbath be a gift from God not only for our rest, our time to decompress, rejuvenate from the stresses of the world, but a time to exercise trust in God—trusting Him with our lives, our work, or businesses etc. while we rest? Would it be a time to celebrate, to give thanks, to rejoice in the Lord?

Is the Sabbath also evidence of God’s character of love, how He is Creator who built all things to operate upon design law—He presents truth, in love and leaves us free? And if we are true Sabbath keepers do we live God’s principles only one day in seven or all week long?

So, those who are the priesthood of believers are to be cleansed in heart and mind by the Holy Spirit, guard the avenues or gates of truth leading people back to the knowledge of God as revealed by Jesus, and keep themselves holy by trusting God with their entire lives, resting in Him on Sabbath and living out the principles which the Sabbath embodies (truth, love and freedom) all week long.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “Nehemiah 13 begins with concern...” This is an excellent point and needs to be emphasized—God is not a racist nor does he give preference to people based on race, color of skin, or genetics—it is all about character. It is all about reality—separating lies from truth, destructive elements from healing elements, disease from health. Therefore, any person from any genetic background who would embrace the truth about God and is willing to be converted in heart to live God’s principles is welcomed into God’s kingdom and was welcomed into ancient Israel.

But those who refused God and instead chose to keep their own systems and rules and methods and gods were not welcomed into Israel and are not welcomed into God’s kingdom—why not. Because God’s kingdom is built on design law and those who refuse it cannot live there.

The lesson describes corruption in leadership and how the High Priest allowed one of the enemies of Israel to have a room in the Temple as permanent residence.

What is the object lesson for us today?

What is the core difference between God’s government and the governments of the world? God’s law and what type of law is God’s law? Design law but the laws of human governments are imposed rules.

What might it look like to let the leaders of the world into the church? Might it look like accepting the view that God’s laws work like human laws and the church begins to present God as the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death?

The lesson just pointed out that the Israelites were to separate from idolaters—what makes one an idolater?

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

Thousands have a false conception of God and His attributes. They are as verily serving a false god as were the servants of Baal. Are we worshipping the true God as He is revealed in His Word, in Christ, in nature, or are we adoring some philosophical idol enshrined in His place? God is a God of truth. Justice and mercy are the attributes of His throne. He is a God of love, of pity and tender compassion. Thus He is represented in His Son, our Saviour. He is a God of patience and long-suffering. If such is the being whom we adore and to whose character we are seeking to assimilate, we are worshipping the true God. {FLB 59.8}

Could Christianity be suffering because many of its leaders have accepted false attributes of God and are leading people to worship a concept of God that is no different than Baal?

And we are to be the Levites of God today, who are cleansed in heart and mind from the lies about God and the fear-driven self-centered motives, build the walls of protection by reestablishing the truth about God's design laws, guard the gates of truth of God's character as revealed by Jesus, and promote the truth about the Sabbath as a gift from God to assist in His restoring us to holiness.

Read bottom pink section, "Why do God's people..." Why do so many allow themselves to be led into false belief systems?

- Could we have a problem with people not thinking for themselves?
- Could we have a problem with people being indoctrinated into systems of belief, but without knowing why they are to believe it?
- Could we have a problem with people trusting others to do their thinking for them?
- Could we have a problem with fear motivating beliefs?
- Could we have a problem with authoritarianism—believing people in positions of authority have the right to tell us what to believe?
- Could we have a problem with group-think, going along with the crowd?

What is the solution? Romans 14:5 "let every person be fully persuaded in their own mind." Heb 5:14 the mature are those who have developed by practice the ability to discern right from wrong.

MONDAY

The lesson points out that people stopped giving tithes and offerings to support the Temple. Why?

Read second paragraph, "Not only had the temple..." What is the reason cited here that the people stopped giving tithes and offerings?

Was it because the people didn't want to support God's cause?

Was it because those who received the money were misusing it and not applying it to God's cause?

Were the people wrong for not giving their money to those who would misuse it?

What about today? Should people blindly give their tithes and offerings or should they consider to whom they are giving it and how it is being used?

Read the third paragraph, "It is fascinating..." What is the object lesson application? Could it suggest that Christians might find themselves in churches in which leadership has joined with the teachings of the world, accepting the lie that God's law is like human law, and thereby teaching lies about God and obstructing God's plan to cleanse the true Temple, the Spirit temple from sinfulness?

And could it mean that from the membership people will need to arise and follow God and not wait for their church leaders to embrace the truth because many of them have rejected the truth?

TUESDAY

Read the third paragraph, "When God calls..." Is it wrong to return the tithe to the Lord? Absolutely not!

But could the reason we return the tithe to the Lord have a different impact upon us?

If we return tithe to the Lord because He has commanded it and if we don't He will punish us—what level of development is this and what impact does it have upon us?

Does God want us to function like mindless slaves, God commanded it we do it without thinking or out of fear of punishment?

Is the tithe a heavenly tax, no different than how human governments work?

No! God does not need our money. He is Creator, Jesus had Peter get money out of a fish's mouth.

Then, why does God claim a tenth of our increase? What is going on?

It is for our relationship with God, our trust in Him, an opportunity not to give thanks—that is a thank offering—it is an opportunity for each of us to exercise our integrity, loyalty, honesty, trustworthiness in returning to God what is God's and not keeping it for ourselves.

What happens within us when we are honest, loyal, faithful? Conversely, what happens within us when we lie, cheat, steal or defraud?

If you are in a business with someone who you agreed receives 10% of the profits, what happens within you when you don't give them their 10%?

Is giving them their 10% the same as giving them a gift?

Something different happens when giving tithe, which is returning to God that which is His than when we give offerings.

Thus, God has provided a means for our active participation not only in supporting the work of spreading the gospel, but simultaneously in cooperating with Him for healing our hearts and maturing our characters.

When we give thank offerings our sense of our dependence upon God, our gratitude, our appreciation, admiration and love for God all grow as we exercise our thanks in giving freely to Him

But when we return the tithe we exercise our loyalty, our integrity, our honesty and we grow more faithful in character and more honest in heart.

For what is the tithe to be used? For the work of God—some would say in spreading the gospel.

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

“There are ministers' wives--Sisters Starr, Haskell, Wilson, and Robinson--who have been devoted, earnest, whole-souled workers, giving Bible readings and praying with families, helping along by personal efforts just as successfully as their husbands. These women give their whole time, and are told that they receive nothing for their labors because their husbands receive wages. I tell them to go forward and all such decisions will be revised. The Word says, "The labourer is worthy of his hire." Luke 10:7. When any such decision as this is made, I will, in the name of the Lord, protest. I will feel it my duty to create a fund from my tithe money to pay these women who are accomplishing just as essential work as the ministers are doing, and this tithe I will reserve for work in the same line as that of the ministers, hunting for souls, fishing for souls.{DG 106.1}

Read last paragraph, “Moreover, we give tithe...” Are we to trust God? Absolutely!

Does God want us to trust without evidence? No, but what is the evidence about that establishes our trust? It is about God, His existence, His goodness, His trustworthiness. God has provided abundant evidence that He is trustworthy, so our trust in God is not without evidence, but upon it.

However, could there be specific times or circumstances where we don't fully understand a situation, yet we trust God in applying His methods and living out His purposes? Yes!

Does this mean God doesn't want us to understand and we should inquire for reasons? No! We should constantly be seeking to understand all of God's instructions and directions. God wants us to understand. He does not want us to live like unthinking slaves or children who have no comprehension of reality.

But while we are growing up into the full stature of children of God, there will be times we are to trust God without fully understanding why.

But, I believe there is enough truth revealed for us to understand at least some of the reasons why God established tithing so that we don't merely do this because of a rule or merely because God said so.

What about the idea that God is in control?

What do you say to a victim of a crime, or a person molested as a child, when someone tells them “God is in control”?

Of what is God in control?

The key to understanding the saying “God is in control,” as well as essentially all theological questions, is how one understands God's law. If one views God's law functioning like the laws that humans make up — imposed rules requiring the ruling authority to impose punishments — then people view God as making everything happen, which inevitably leads them to form wrong theology. A variety of different errors are formed, such as the teaching that when tragedies occur, it is God who is bringing the pain — such as God controlling the molester who abuses people, or God directing the hurricanes, earthquakes, or God hardening the hearts of certain people.

The truth is realized when we accept that God is Creator and His laws are the protocols upon which reality is built to operate, such as the laws of physics, law of love, truth, worship, liberty, exertion, laws of health, the moral laws, and so many more. It is how reality works.

Thus, God is in control of what God controls — and God controls Himself and all His laws. He sustains reality; He keeps the universe running upon the protocols and laws He established. And one of those laws is the law of liberty, which grants real freedom to sentient beings. Why? Because love only exists in an atmosphere of freedom.

This is how God hardened Pharaoh's heart (Exodus 4:21; 7:3) yet Pharaoh hardened his own heart (Exodus 8:15, 32). How did God harden Pharaoh's heart? By presenting the truth and leaving Pharaoh free to accept or reject it. The accepting or rejecting causes the end result — healing or hardening. The act of choosing to accept or reject truth; to embrace love or embrace selfishness; to steal, lie, cheat, or be honest, truthful and loyal, changes the person who makes the choice. Without the truth presented and the freedom to reject it, Pharaoh's heart would not have become as hardened. Thus, God hardened Pharaoh's heart through the laws of truth and freedom; He presented truth and left the ruler free. God controlled His laws, but Pharaoh exercised his own will and controlled his own choice, and in choosing to reject the truth, he hardened his own heart. This is how reality works and how God is in control.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "It is not easy..." Do you agree or disagree?

First I agree it is often difficult to stand up for truth when one is in the minority. But what about the idea that "no one was to do any work" on the Sabbath?

What about what Jesus said in Matthew 12:5:

Or haven't you read in the Law that on the Sabbath the priests in the temple desecrate the day and yet are innocent? NIV84

Is it true all work is forbidden on Sabbath?

Or is it work for self, work for gain, rather than merely work? For instance, work for benefit of others without advancing self is that okay on Sabbath?

How is the Sabbath understood as design law? First, it was made or constructed as a day of rest, not legislated as a day of rest, so it represents God's design laws, methods, principles.

Second, Sabbath rest is healthy for people, it is time for the mind to decompress, to unwind, to let go of the cares of the world. It is opportunity to exercise trust in God, which strengthens our trust in God. It is opportunity to change the focus from the cares and problems of the world to the larger realities, which keeps a person in balance, guards against:

- burnout
- discouragement
- deception
- self-centeredness and pride
- confusion
- doubt

but only if Sabbath is not practiced from a human law perspective, i.e. not done from threat of punishment. The Sabbath must be a delight, which means a day of freedom.

If it is kept as a mere obligation, a day of restriction, a day of fear of punishment, then it incites rebellion in the heart and destroys individuality. Such an approach is infecting the Sabbath with Satan's lie about God's law.

So, is it primarily about the activity on Sabbath or the reason for doing the activity?

What about hiring others on Sabbath?

EGW one of the founders of the SDA church, wrote:

Yesterday (Sabbath) morning, Willie spoke to the church in Ashfield. At 3 p.m. we hired a horse and carriage to take me to Newtown, four miles from Ashfield. We met in a small hall upstairs where a goodly number were assembled. I spoke to them on the prayer of Daniel, his contrition of soul, and his deep sorrow as he witnessed the desolation of Jerusalem. {18MR 14.2}

THURSDAY

The lesson points out that Nehemiah reminded them that their forefathers broke trust with God and it quotes "Did not our God bring all this evil upon us?"

What does this mean? Does God bring evil?

There is a debate amongst Christians as to whether God uses His power to bring the first death upon some, the sleep death, or whether all such accounts are merely the Bible writers attributing to God what Satan or evil people do.

This is a false argument because it is not an either or, it is both. This is where one must move away from claims, statements, proclamations to actual historical evidence.

- Sometimes in Scripture Satan acts to cause harm or first death and it is attributed to God: “The fire of God fell from the sky and burned up the sheep and the servants, and I am the only one who has escaped to tell you!” Job 1:16 NIV84
- Sometimes evil people do the act and it is attributed to God: “Saul died because he was unfaithful to the LORD; he did not keep the word of the LORD and even consulted a medium for guidance, and did not inquire of the LORD. So the LORD put him to death and turned the kingdom over to David son of Jesse.” 1Chron 10:13,14 NIV84
- Sometimes God acted and it was rightly attributed to God: Platoons that came to arrest Elijah:

Elijah answered the captain, “If I am a man of God, may fire come down from heaven and consume you and your fifty men!” Then fire fell from heaven and consumed the captain and his men.

¹¹ At this the king sent to Elijah another captain with his fifty men. The captain said to him, “Man of God, this is what the king says, ‘Come down at once!’ ”

¹² “If I am a man of God,” Elijah replied, “may fire come down from heaven and consume you and your fifty men!” Then the fire of God fell from heaven and consumed him and his fifty men.

¹³ So the king sent a third captain with his fifty men. This third captain went up and fell on his knees before Elijah. “Man of God,” he begged, “please have respect for my life and the lives of these fifty men, your servants! ¹⁴ See, fire has fallen from heaven and consumed the first two captains and all their men. But now have respect for my life!”

¹⁵ The angel of the LORD said to Elijah, “Go down with him; do not be afraid of him.” So Elijah got up and went down with him to the king. (2Kings 1:10-15)

- And then other times it was God removing His protection and allowing nature or natural results of others to take their course, such as the scorpions and snakes in the desert, or when the Babylonians took them captive.

Which situation would apply to Nehemiah’s reference to their sins caused God to bring the evil upon them?

In the story of Ezra and Nehemiah, what is the overriding theme or background?

It is the plan of salvation—humanity is in sin, God promised the Messiah, Satan is working to obstruct the plan of God, God is working to keep open avenue for Messiah.

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Questions: If you have questions please email them either at requests@comeandreason.com or topics@comeandreason.com. If you post on Facebook it is likely they will not be answered as I often miss questions posted on Facebook.

The New Paradigm about the Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment Has been Changed: Thanks to your feedback I have rewritten portions of this document making it friendlier and less likely to cause offense. The new title is The Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment for the Modern World. It has a new cover, new introduction, the call to action section has been removed and other edits to clarify potential misunderstandings have been made throughout. It is already up on our website and print versions will be available November 14. Please throw away any of the first edition you may still have in your possession and use this version going forward.

PODCAST: Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.

The Remedy Psalms is complete and online and will soon be updated to the free app.

REASONETTES: Recently I began drawing cartoons and have started a new section on our website entitled Reasonettes. They are illustrations designed to make a point inviting you to think and reason about an idea or issue. Be sure to visit our website or Facebook page each Tuesday for a new cartoon. I hope you enjoy them.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

March 27,28, 2020: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at an AACC River Conference at Plano, TX. More info at <http://theriverconference.com/>

April 17,18, 2020: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Lakewood SDA church in Lakewood OH.

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 12

Dealing with Bad Decisions

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

Before we get into this week's lesson, I want to follow up from last week's lesson and address an issue in Thursday's lesson because recently I have received several emails concerned with my position on God's action in the OT to keep open avenue for the Messiah.

There is the view that God never uses His power to put people to sleep in the grave, i.e. first death. That all occasions in the Bible are always God withdrawing when we insist and the devil or evil people doing the harm. Let's examine this in light of Nehemiah's statement.

THURSDAY From lesson 11

The lesson points out that Nehemiah reminded them that their forefathers broke trust with God and states, "Did not our God bring all this evil upon us?"

Does God bring evil? Absolutely Not! God never brings evil.

So what can this statement mean?

- People attributing to God what God permits but doesn't actively prevent
- People misunderstanding a therapeutic action, like discipline of a parent, as evil when it is redemptive or protective

Let's examine some cases:

The point of biggest controversy amongst Christians is when the action result in the death of people.

The argument goes that God will never use His power to cause death—that death only and always comes from breaking God's law, from beings who are sinful—i.e. Satan and evil people.

And, the confusion comes because the Bible has a human and a divine definition for death.

The human definition for death is what all of us call death and what we have grieved when our loved ones have died. This, however, is not what God calls death. God, including Jesus when on earth, did not refer to this as death, but called this sleep.

In fact, Jesus said that those who believe in Him will never die—millions sleep in the grave but they don't die. This sleep death, what we called death, is also known as the first death, the death from which there is a resurrection.

What God calls death is the second death, the eternal death, the death from which there is no resurrection.

How many people in history have died the second death—the death from which there is no resurrection? None—if none have died, then how can we say God kills? We say it because we use the human definition for death and thus we misrepresent God as killing, when God does not kill. God is the source of life and death does not come out from Him.

There is an error on both sides of this question. On the one side, failing to understanding the difference between first and second death, people look at the OT and teach God kills and thus God is the inflictor of pain, suffering and death as punishment for sin on those who disobey.

Those who have come to know God's character of love have rightly rejected the idea that God is the source of death, but having not made the distinction between first death of sleep and second death, which is what God calls death, they fall into the opposite error teaching that God never in history used His power to put people into sleep mode, the first death.

This is where one must move away from claims, statements, proclamations to actual historical evidence. When it comes to the first death, sleep death, there are many causes. Natural causes—disease and old age with no specific person inflicting this, the body just wears out. There are accidents, falls, injuries, again without a specific infliction of death, just the result of our bodies being subject to damage and first-death.

But there are many examples in Scripture of the first death being brought not by natural causes but by other means. Let's examine those:

- Sometimes in Scripture Satan acts to cause harm or first death and it is attributed to God: "The fire of God fell from the sky and burned up the sheep and the servants, and I am the only one who has escaped to tell you!" Job 1:16 NIV84
- Sometimes evil people do the act and it is attributed to God: "Saul died because he was unfaithful to the LORD; he did not keep the word of the LORD and even consulted a medium for guidance, and did not inquire of the LORD. So the LORD put him to death and turned the kingdom over to David son of Jesse." 1Chron 10:13,14 NIV84
- Sometimes God acted and it was rightly attributed to God: Platoons that came to arrest Elijah: Elijah answered the captain, "If I am a man of God, may fire come down from heaven and consume you and your fifty men!" Then fire fell from heaven and consumed the captain and his men.

¹¹ At this the king sent to Elijah another captain with his fifty men. The captain said to him, "Man of God, this is what the king says, 'Come down at once!'"

¹² "If I am a man of God," Elijah replied, "may fire come down from heaven and consume you and your fifty men!" Then the fire of God fell from heaven and consumed him and his fifty men.

¹³ So the king sent a third captain with his fifty men. This third captain went up and fell on his knees before Elijah. "Man of God," he begged, "please have respect for my life and the lives of these fifty men, your servants! ¹⁴ See, fire has fallen from heaven and consumed the first two captains and all their men. But now have respect for my life!”

¹⁵ The angel of the LORD said to Elijah, “Go down with him; do not be afraid of him.” So Elijah got up and went down with him to the king. (2Kings 1:10-15)

- And then other times it was God removing His protection and allowing nature or natural results of others to take their course, such as the scorpions and snakes in the desert, or when the Babylonians took them captive.

So, we find in Scripture that some of the things attributed to God are not done by God. But sometimes, God did act to put people to sleep in the first death.

It is not reasonable to believe that Satan—after years of trying to silence Elijah in order to have Baal worship totally eradicate the truth about God—would destroy the platoons sent by Ahab to arrest Elijah. It is also unreasonable to suggest that God would rely upon Satan to endorse Elijah as a man of God by sending fire from heaven when Elijah called upon it as proof that he spoke for God.

I also reject the view that God was punishing people for sin, as punishment for sin is eternal death; and since these were all sleep deaths they cannot be the punishment for sin.

Therefore, we must have another explanation—and that explanation is found in understanding the larger context: the great controversy, God’s design law, and what God was actually working to accomplish. In other words, how reality works. In this context, we discover that God has always been working to heal and to save.

Once Adam sinned, the human race could not be saved without Jesus coming. The Messiah was promised in Genesis chapter 3 when the serpent was told that Eve’s seed would crush his head. Thus, the Old Testament points directly to the larger battle between good and evil, with God working to bring the Messiah, while Satan would be working to obstruct it.

If Satan could have gotten every person on earth to harden their heart against God, there would have been no one through whom Jesus could be born in order to save the human race. God would not have Jesus born to a woman like Jezebel or force any woman against her will to be the mother of Jesus. Thus, God needed a righteous woman who would be willing to be the mother of Jesus. At the time of the flood, there was only one righteous man and his family left on the earth. All the others living on earth at that time had hardened their hearts. Wouldn’t love act to keep open an avenue for Messiah in order to save the species? Remember, not kill—rather, put people to sleep and wake them up later to finish out their lives. This is exactly what love did.

Some still don’t like this and argue:

Thus to rely on the argument that God was compelled to “put to sleep,” often through violence, millions of evil people at the flood or at other times in order to prevent Satan from snuffing out possibility of the Messiah landing on earth, is to agree with Satan that love is not really enough to overcome evil so there must be times when force has to be used.

But there is one major piece of data missing from their assessment—the condition of humankind after Adam sinned. After Adam sinned, love could not win without Jesus. Once Adam sinned, love could NOT overcome evil in human beings WITHOUT Jesus. In fact, Jesus was the means for God to restore His character of love into the human species.

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

The Lord says, "I will put enmity between thee and the woman." The enmity does not exist as a natural fact. As soon as Adam sinned, he was in harmony with the first great apostate, and at war with God; and if God had not interfered in man's behalf, Satan and man would have formed a confederacy against heaven, and carried on united opposition against the God of hosts. There is no natural enmity between evil angels and evil men; both are evil through transgression of the law of God, and evil will always league against good. Fallen men and fallen angels enter into a desperate companionship. {ST, July 11, 1895 par. 5}

The entire focus of Scripture is the battle between Christ and Satan. In Old Testament times, this conflict was focused around Satan's attempt to prevent Jesus from being born as a human while God worked to keep that avenue open for the Messiah.

Which of the possibilities above would apply to Nehemiah's reference to their sins caused God to bring the evil upon them?

In the story of Ezra and Nehemiah, what is the overriding theme or background?

It is the plan of salvation—humanity is in sin, God promised the Messiah, Satan is working to obstruct the plan of God, God is working to keep open avenue for Messiah.

SABBATH Lesson 12

Dealing with bad decisions—before we get into the examples from the lesson, I thought it beneficial for us to do a basic outline of a healthy way to deal with bad decisions.

We have all made bad decisions—the difference between mature Godly people and immature people or worldly evil people, is not that the mature never make bad decisions and the immature or evil never make a good decision.

The difference is that the mature will take responsibility for their decisions, will evaluate their choices, will identify what are bad decisions, will learn from their decisions and update their decision-making so they reduce and stop making the same bad decisions over and over again.

The immature and evil people don't do this. When they make bad decisions they deny their responsibility; they avoid looking at their role; they make excuses; they move on to something new, but they don't learn so they repeat the same bad decisions over and over again.

The reasons for this is often an inability to tolerate emotional discomfort, embarrassment, hurt, rejection, or guilt. When we make a bad choice it can be emotional, financially, relationally, occupationally painful. Some people rather than immediately dealing with their choices instead run from the pain, the discomfort and deny, distort, blame, make excuses, or distract themselves from the truth with entertainment or mood-altering substances.

And the underlying root is fear—fear of rejection, punishment, loss of status, position, wealth, esteem—so the immature and evil rather than humbling themselves and being transformed, instead either don't learn or worse justify the bad decision-making as good decision-making repeat it.

But one can never avoid the truth we can only delay the day we deal with it.

The mature have learned this, have become lovers of the truth and have learned to stand their ground, and do not run from the reality, and instead face their choices and learn from them.

Further, the mature have accepted the truth about themselves that they are not infallible and they are subject to mistakes. They have NOT accepted a falsehood that perfection is about performance, but know it is about maturity. So, they have formed characters with a view of self that accepts they don't know everything, that even at their best they can make a decision that isn't the best, but they know they are able to learn, to assimilate new insights, to grow, to develop, to advance and thus their individuality is not built upon perfect performance but a willingness to grow and mature as soon as one is able.

This is a person who is a lover of truth, who realizes truth is unfolding and they love to grow and don't fear to discover new ways to do things or understand things, in fact they are excited about it.

What hinders people from doing this? Does our view of God have an impact?

So, an approach to healthy decision-making:

- Use reason with a clear conscience
- Always be prayerful, surrendering your life to God and asking the Spirit of truth to enlighten you, giving you wisdom and discernment in your decision-making. Ask God for evidences as to what course you should take. Be patient, study, reflect, and reason things out.
- Ask for input from wise and mature counselors—but do NOT surrender your decisions to them. You must filter that input through your own judgment—every person must be fully persuaded in their own mind.
 - This is one of the problems for many in bad decision-making—they fear making a mistake and thus they seek some other mind, some authority, pastor, doctor, parent, friend to tell them the answer to tell them what to do. This relieves them of the burden of decision-making and allows them to blame the other party when it doesn't work out. But such people never mature and live in fear and doubt.

- Understand God's design laws—failure to understand the basic laws upon which reality works leads to bad decisions even with good motives. The doctors who bled and leached George Washington when he had pneumonia—they didn't understand basic laws of health and made bad decisions even though their motives were to heal and save.
- Ask, what is right (morally first, legally second), healthy, and reasonable
- Allow feelings to be information you evaluate, but don't make decisions based solely on feelings
- Feelings of discomfort about a decision should be given more weight than positive feelings about a decision. In other words, allow feelings of discomfort to cause you to pause, reflect, consider, evaluate so that you avoid an impulsive decision. But use your wisdom to temper feelings of eagerness.
- In the aftermath of a choice, be open to new information and reassessment and making new choices, even reversing course, if the new information supports that course of action
- When one realizes a bad choice has been made, own it, learn from it, examine where the decision-making process needs to be improved and bring to bear new methods.

Read first paragraph, "Ezra and Nehemiah..." We will get to the marriage question later in the lesson—the key point I want to focus on from this paragraph is the children. It is well known that the way to change a society is to get access to the children and begin to indoctrinate and teach them.

Throughout history this has proven to be true—not just parental teaching, but when we send out children to schools the teachers who teach our children will have a huge impact on them individually, but also over time on society.

Do we see any impacts on the USA from changes in the US educational system over time? Has the change from a God-centered educational system to an evolutionary/Godless educational system had an impact on society as a whole?

What about the teaching about sexuality, marriage, gender—is it having an impact?

What about the teaching about moral relativism—that everyone's "truth" is their "truth" and equally valid?

So, to all parents and grandparents I want to affirm your responsibility to educate your children in the Lord, teaching His methods, principles, truths and teaching them how to think and reason for themselves and how reality works.

Sadly, many Christian parents have fallen into the trap of indoctrination, teaching the "right" answers, i.e. doctrines, but not how to actually reason and think and many of these children grow up to fall away or become intolerant of others.

A recent study published September 2019 in Pediatrics found that if children were restricted to less than 2 hours of recreational screen time per day, slept 9-11 hours per night and had 1 hour of vigorous physical activity per day, had less impulsivity and reduced risk of ADHD. <https://www.aap.org/en-us/about-the-aap/aap-press-room/Pages/Adequate-Sleep-Limited-Screen-Time-Can-Decrease-Impulsivity.aspx>

This makes perfect sense if one understands normal brain development. The law of exertion, if you want something to be stronger you must exercise it, but if you don't use it you lose it.

SUNDAY

The lesson points out that the loss of the ability to read Scripture threatened them with loss of their special identity as God's chosen people. In other words, if they lost the message of Scripture they wouldn't know what God had called them to fulfill; they wouldn't know the truth about God; they wouldn't understand what they were to teach others; and they would simply fall into the same lies as the rest of the world.

What about us today? Most of us cannot read Hebrew, Aramaic or Greek, so we read translations—what if the translators translated the Bible through legal lenses? What if the translators sincerely believed God's law functions like human law, could this result in misunderstandings being translated into the Scripture?

And this is exactly what has happened, the biases of the translators do come through. People who believe in eternal souls that remain conscious and active after death translate the story of the thief with a comma that puts the thief in heaven that day. Those who believe the soul sleeps, put the comma so the promise was made that day, but not the fulfillment.

If you have read The Remedy you have noted the difference it makes when one reads through the design law lens. I suggest to you, the greatest infection in Christianity is the lie that God's law functions like human law and sadly this idea has been translated into the common language Bibles.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Solomon was led deeper..." Why was it wrong to have many wives and pagan wives? Was it wrong because it broke God's specific command, or did God give this specific command because it was wrong? In other words, if God hadn't taken the initiative to give this specific command would it have been right to do? Was it wrong before God gave the specific command? Why or why not?

Has God given a specific command not to smoke cigarettes? Is it wrong to do it? Why is it wrong? What makes it wrong?

What kind of law is involved?

What is the problem when right and wrong is determined by commands?

Read second paragraph, “The command not to intermarry...” What is the lesson for us today? Are we to marry people who are complementary to us? Does this mean same beliefs about God? What about same denomination? Can people be of the same denomination but worship different gods?

Read last paragraph, “The Bible gives formulas...” What are formulas based upon? What are math formulas or chemistry formulas based upon? Are they not based upon reality, which are fundamental laws of how the universe runs?

So, would God’s “formulas” for our relationships also be based upon His design laws?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “Together, the whole...” What do you think of sending away mothers and children? Some argue a God of love would never do this. That this was Nehemiah’s own plan, but not one he got from God because love would never do this.

Such thoughts are predicated on emotionalism rather than understanding reality and how love functions.

Love always heals, always saves, never destroys—but in order to know what action is necessary one has to understand reality, what is transpiring.

A person wrote to me objecting to the idea that God would have marriages dissolve like this. He argued it presents God as cruel and mean to have wives and children sent away.

Are doctors mean and cruel for amputating limbs from people? Does the condition of the limb matter? If the limb is gangrenous is amputating it cruel? What if the limb is healthy?

Can we decide merely upon the fact that a limb was amputated or must we know more?

God hates divorce because divorce only happens when love breaks down. But God gave the writ of divorcement because of the “hardness of their hearts.” In other words, love had been obstructed and when relationships become destructive either from hard hearted husbands who abuse their wives, or from idolatrous wives who corrupt their husbands, either way the marriages rather than being blessings are like gangrenous limbs and need to be severed in order to save the people in them.

Further, in the context of ancient Israel, they were the conduit for Messiah these marriages to pagan wives were part of Satan’s plan to destroy this branch of the human family and thus prevent Jesus from coming as our Savior—if that happens then 100% of all humans are lost. So, again God’s actions were redemptive to save and heal not destroy. The narrow view misses these larger realities and thus attempts to teach God would not do such things.

From the book Patriarchs and Prophets:

"By leading Israel to this daring insult and blasphemy to Jehovah, Satan had planned to cause their ruin. Since they had proved themselves to be so utterly degraded, so lost to all sense of the privileges and blessings that God had offered them, and to their own solemn and repeated pledges of loyalty, the Lord would, he believed, divorce them from Himself and devote them to destruction. Thus would be secured the extinction of the seed of Abraham, that seed of promise that was to preserve the knowledge of the living God, and through whom He was to come—the true Seed, that was to conquer Satan. The great rebel had planned to destroy Israel, and thus thwart the purposes of God. But again he was defeated. Sinful as they were, the people of Israel were not destroyed. While those who stubbornly ranged themselves on the side of Satan were cut off, the people, humbled and repentant, were mercifully pardoned. The history of this sin was to stand as a perpetual testimony to the guilt and punishment of idolatry, and the justice and long-suffering mercy of God" PP 335.

Read second paragraph, "The specific..." What if people were sewing onto their bodies limbs from animals? A person has eagles wings sewn onto their back, or another person has a tiger's paw sewn onto their chest—and after doing so they developed infections and immune reactions and were getting sick and dying.

If a doctor came along and amputated those appendages, would such a doctor be cruel, mean, hard-hearted, or unkind? Would it be in harmony with God's design, will and purposes to remove such appendages?

This is a metaphor to how Ezra and Nehemiah saw things—these women, because they were not converted, were not part of God's kingdom, not part of God's family, but were agents of Satan to infect and destroy not only the individual husband's they married, but the nation and the avenue for the Messiah.

So, I do believe a God of love would act to sever such attachments because to do so is to bring healing. But those who live upon rules, without understanding the actual reality of what is transpiring, would argue that to divorce would be sin and would promote a policy that would have destroyed the avenue for Messiah.

What are the implications for us today? Does this mean that marriages that are legal in terms of civil government don't necessarily constitute marriages as God understands them?

Jesus said what God has joined together let no one separate. Can two people get a legal marriage, but not have their hearts and minds joined together in unity by God? Are they actually married in God's eyes?

It appears Ezra didn't believe they were because these marriages were not unity of heart nor were they in harmony with God's prescription for Israel.

Do you think Christianity has been better served by requiring people to stay in loveless marriages in which the two people were never joined in heart and mind?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “From what we have...” Healthy relationships require healthy people. It doesn’t matter how healthy you are if you marry an unhealthy person the marriage will not be healthy, unless that person becomes healthy. Consider Jesus and Judas, their relationship—though not a marriage relationship—was not healthy, why?

Why did Paul tell Christians to stay with agreeable spouses who didn’t believe, but Ezra told them to divorce such spouses?

Could it have to do with Jesus having already come and fulfilled His mission as Messiah and there was no longer any need to keep open the avenue for Him to come as our Savior?

The last paragraph states, “God doesn’t abandon us even when we make choices contrary to His will, and if we ask Him for help, He will provide it.”

This is well said.

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Questions: If you have questions please email them either at requests@comeandreason.com or topics@comeandreason.com. If you post on Facebook it is likely they will not be answered as I often miss questions posted on Facebook.

Audio version of the Remedy is Now available for Streaming: Download the free app SoundCloud and you do NOT have to purchase a subscription to SoundCloud. Just search for Remedy Bible or use this link https://soundcloud.com/the_remedy_nt/albums and you should find it and you can stream it at no cost. Just click “follow” on the album and you will go to it easily in the future.

The New Paradigm about the Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment Has been Changed: Thanks to your feedback I have rewritten portions of this document making it friendlier and less likely to cause offense. The new title is The Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment for the Modern World. It has a new cover, new introduction, the call to action section has been removed and other edits to clarify potential misunderstandings have been made throughout. It is already up on our website and print versions will be available November 14. Please throw away any of the first edition you may still have in your possession and use this version going forward.

PODCAST: Come and Reason with Dr. Tim Jennings weekly Podcast is now broadcasting, please follow us.

The Remedy Psalms is complete and online but the update to the app has been delayed. The developer has retired from this project and is no longer working to update the app and we now must find a new developer.

REASONETTES: Recently I began drawing cartoons and have started a new section on our website entitled Reasonettes. They are illustrations designed to make a point inviting you to think and reason about an idea or issue. Be sure to visit our website or Facebook page each Tuesday for a new cartoon. I hope you enjoy them.

January 17-19, 2020: The Power of Love Training and Equipping Course. If you would like to be prepared to more effectively share this message then come to this course. More details will be forthcoming shortly. Allen Texas (30 miles north of DFW airport). See events.comeandreason.com for more details and to sign up.

March 27,28, 2020: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at an AACC River Conference at Plano, TX. More info at <http://theriverconference.com/>

April 17,18, 2020: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Lakewood SDA church in Lakewood OH.

2019 Q4 Ezra and Nehemiah: Lesson 13

Leaders in Israel

by Russell Atkins

SABBATH

What qualities make a great “Leader”? Here’s a list [by no means comprehensive]. Did I miss any?

1. Honesty and Integrity.
2. Accountability.
3. Confidence.
4. Ability to Inspire Others.
5. Commitment and Passion.
6. Good Communication.
7. Decision Making Capabilities.
8. Delegation and Empowerment.
9. Creativity and Innovation.
10. Empathy.
11. Resilience.
12. Perseverance.
13. Transparency.
14. Vision and Purpose.

Have these qualities changed over time or are they timeless?

What applications can we make today for the current state in the SDA church?

From the Lesson: “Central to the story of these leaders is the Word of God. The Word transformed their thinking and life and resulted in the whole program for revival and reformation. They were totally indebted to God’s Word and His instruction that they found in it. In the same way, no matter who we are, and whatever our role is, we must keep the Word of God central to how we live as Seventh-day Adventist Christians.”

How much of “The Word of God” did these leaders have? Did they have the Torah [what we know as the first 5 books of the Bible], or did they have more “scripture”?

Why do we automatically consider “Scripture” as God’s ONLY Word?
His creation was his first WORD, “. . . so that men are without excuse.” Rom. 1: 20.

How was God’s Word communicated to them? Is it different today?

Were they expected to advance in greater “Light” or were they to marry themselves to 150 year old [or 500 year old] teachings and not budge from that position?

SUNDAY

The Influence of Leaders

Examples of leadership:

Rehoboam [1 Kings 12: 1-16]: He rejected the advice of his elders, and listened to advice from contemporaries. What could go wrong from listening to those with little to no life experience? In the US, certain groups would have us develop policy [contrary to our Constitution] because high school students want it that way.

<https://marchforourlives.com/>

<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2019/feb/14/parkland-school-shooting-anniversary-gun-control-victories>

<https://www.cnn.com/2018/03/14/us/national-school-walkout-gun-violence-protests/index.html>

<https://www.nytimes.com/2019/02/13/us/parkland-shooting.html>

Time Magazine just named a 16 y/o girl as “Person of the Year” for her role in contributing to the ~~coming ice age, global warming, abrupt climate change~~, just plain-ol’ climate change.

<https://time.com/person-of-the-year-2019-greta-thunberg/>

What happens to a family/school/community/government/culture that abandons reason, devalues the wisdom of its elders and makes decisions based on the emotional whims of children? Rhetorical.

Peter [Acts 15: 7-11]: In this example Peter was the voice of reason and a peacekeeper when the Jews were angry at Paul and Barnabas for taking the Gospel to the gentiles. Not long after, however, he misled the group by his example of not eating with the gentiles and had to be called out by Paul.

Josiah [2 Kings 23:1-10]: Josiah led by example in an effort to stem the tide of depravity caused by King Manasseh. Scripture says of him, “Now before him there was no king like him, who turned to the Lord with all his heart, with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the Law of Moses; nor after him did any arise like him.” 2 Kings 23: 25. NKJV. It, however, was not enough – Judah was still taken in to captivity because they did not allow the Holy Spirit to heal them.

Deborah [Judges 4: 1-16]: Why was a woman called to judge Israel? Why was a woman called to shepherd the SDA church in its infancy? Read verse 8. This tells you everything you need to know. The men of Israel were mincing, capri-wearing, latte drinking, low-T, soy boys. God will not force anyone [man or woman] in to His service. He wants a service given from free choice. Scripture is silent, however, I will bet that several men were approached to judge Israel at that time, but none were willing. Two were asked to lead the SDA church, before EGW answered “here I am Lord, use me.”

This loss of masculinity in Israel eventually led to God diagnosing their problem in Isaiah Ch. 3 verse 12.

“As for my people, children are their oppressors, and women rule over them. O my people, those who lead you cause you to err, and destroy the way of your paths.”

God is speaking to Israel, more specifically, the MEN of Israel. He’s telling them to grow a pair. Women HATE, HATE, HATE weak men

Are there any practical contemporary applications?

Ahab [1 Kings 21: 1-16]: Speaking of low-T, soy boys . . . This clown let his wife murder a good man by proxy, so he could have a vineyard. And that was just the icing on the cake of his abuses.

MONDAY

Evil in the Sight of the Lord.

The three passages included in the lesson outline what happens when we “follow the sins of his father[s]”.

I was reminded of Exodus 20: 4-6.

“You shall not make for yourself a carved image—any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; 5 you shall not bow down to them nor serve them. For I, the Lord your God, am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me, 6 but showing mercy to thousands, to those who love Me and keep My commandments.”

Why do you think these admonitions are in the 2nd commandment? The one outlining idolatry and the grander Law of Worship?

We now understand the connection between choices and gene expression [epigenetics], so there’s BOTH a hereditary and cultural cause for the degeneration of the kings of Israel throughout the generations.

From the Lesson:

“It is a sobering thought to many of us who hold positions of leadership in any capacity that our leadership has the potential to bring people down or up spiritually. And, in all the cases here, the effect was devastatingly negative. [Yes it is. I stress about this every time I teach this class.]

More specifically, our character and dedication to Christ make a difference to those with whom we interact. Spiritual leaders influence others, either toward God if they themselves seek God, or toward evil if they do not. [Everyone influences others for or against God, whether we like it or admit it.]

In contrast to what we have seen today, the fact that Ezra and Nehemiah had a strong relationship with God is undeniable. The amount of fasting and praying that is recorded in these books about Ezra and Nehemiah exceeds what the Bible reports for other great leaders.” [Are fasting and praying evidence of great leadership? Are they evidence of transformation of character? Of being on God’s side?]

my comments are bold & bracketed

TUESDAY

Courage and Empowerment.

Personally, I hate these two words – courage and empowerment – they have become “buzz words” for culturally Marxist policies and policy makers that are antithetical to Design Law. Men who want to use women’s rest rooms are described as “courageous” and women who want to engage in sex acts on film are described as “empowered”. We need to revisit the meanings of these words and take them back.

But the lesson chose them, so . . .

The lesson details the process whereby Nehemiah supervised the rebuilding of the last sections of the wall, and his leading by example, along with the builders arming themselves [figuratively and literally]. Given that the rebuilding of the wall was both literal and metaphorical [see below] are there any lessons to be gleaned from the “arming”?

The prophet here [ref. Isa 61:4] describes a people who, in a time of general departure from truth and righteousness, are seeking to restore the principles that are the foundation of the kingdom of God. They are repairers of a breach that has been made in God’s law—the wall that He has placed around His chosen ones for their protection, and obedience to whose precepts of justice, truth, and purity is to be their perpetual safeguard. PK 677.

Should Christians carry weapons? Should they arm themselves?

WEDNESDAY

Purpose and Passion.

Again, two words that I’m not fond of. Does it matter what our purpose is? What our passion is?

Do Islamist suicide bombers have purpose and passion? Did the Jews, who killed God Himself, have purpose and passion? Did the Crusaders, who burned Jews and Muslims at the stake, have purpose and passion?

I understand where the lesson is going with this and hope I'm not a distraction, however, we need to rise above the buzz words and discern deeper than pretty speech. Those who opposed Nehemiah were driven by purpose and passion as well. What matters more is the source of our purpose and passion.

From the Lesson: "In all that they did, Ezra and Nehemiah were seeking to see God's will done in the lives of His people. Yes, the people had messed up; yes, they were punished for it."

Were the tribes of Judah/Benjamin being punished? Disciplined? Did God take them into captivity Himself? Or did He remove a hedge of protection, and allow a heathen nation to take them captive?

THURSDAY

Humility and Perseverance.

Ezra turned down an offer from the Persian king for an armed escort to Jerusalem, and relied on God's hedge of protection. It seems to me that the lesson would have us focus on the prayer and fasting ahead of the trip as the source of God's protection.

From the Lesson: "However, Ezra didn't act with presumption. He called the people together, and they fasted and prayed over the situation. They didn't engage in their journey until they had spent serious time with God. They came before God humbly, requesting that His protection become a sign of His power, and God answered." [emphasis mine.]

What level[s] of moral development are displayed here? Did they ask for the protection because their faith was weak? Did God's protection demonstrate their faith was strong?

Was Nehemiah's faith weak for having the half of the people carry weapons and function as armed guards? The work could have been done in ½ the time if he had everyone working on the wall.

Was Ezra humble for not taking the king up on his offer? Was he humble for calling for a fast?

Was Nehemiah humble for working on the wall himself? Was he humble for refusing Shemaiah's invitation to sleep in the protected temple for safety?

Again from the Lesson: "True leaders must be willing to humble themselves and be servants. Competent leaders do not require or need a "title" to gain honor."

Well said.