Therefore it is believed that in order to avoid God killing us that God needs to be appeased or our legal penalty needs to be paid. The natural conclusion of this misdiagnosis is to believe that Christ must have died the second death lest our penalty remain unpaid. But when we return to design law we realize that Christ didn't die the second death, He destroyed death, He destroyed the infection of selfishness, He destroyed the deviation from God's law, He destroyed the lies about God and established a new humanity in perfect harmony with God's law.

Ephesians 2:14-18 from the NIV and then from The Remedy:

NIV:

For he himself is our peace, who has made the two one and has destroyed the barrier, the dividing wall of hostility,¹⁵ by abolishing in his flesh the law with its commandments and regulations. His purpose was to create in himself one new man out of the two, thus making peace,¹⁶ and in this one body to reconcile both of them to God through the cross, by which he put to death their hostility.¹⁷ He came and preached peace to you who were far away and peace to those who were near.¹⁸ For through him we both have access to the Father by one Spirit.

The Remedy:

For Christ himself is the Remedy that heals the species and brings peace. He has removed fear and selfishness that cause division, mistrust, prejudice, and hostility.¹⁵ He did this by partaking of our human condition, and—via the exercise of his human brain—he loved perfectly, thereby destroying in his flesh (in the humanity he partook) the selfish survival-of-the-fittest drive along with the lies of Satan. In this way, he destroyed the need for the law (with all its regulations) to expose Satan’s lies and methods. His purpose was to be the template of a new humanity born out of the unification of the two—our selfish, infected condition merged with his sinless state—thereby purging selfishness from the human heart, and transforming, healing, renewing, regenerating and recreating humanity back to God’s original ideal;¹⁶ and in this new being, to reconcile the human race—regardless of ethnic background—into loving unity with God and each other through the revelation of truth at the cross, by which he destroyed the lies of Satan, reestablished trust, and removed fear, selfishness, and hostility.¹⁷ He came and demonstrated the truth of God’s character and the offer of peace available to all humanity—to those far away in darkness and those blessed with the truth of God’s word.¹⁸ For Jesus reveals the truth about God to all, and—through what Jesus has done—all have access to the Father by one Spirit.

What about the Father’s activity or actions toward Jesus on the Cross and the wicked in the end? Does the Father act differently to either? Or does God the Father surrender both to reap what they choose? The wicked choose to be eternally separated from the Father, Christ chose to go through the Cross to complete His mission of eliminating the infection of fear and selfishness and restoring God’s law of love into the species human. In both places, God sets free, God stops intervening, stops interceding, and surrenders them to reap what they have chosen. But Christ chose something completely different than the wicked. Christ chose to trust His Father, Christ chose to love perfectly, the wicked choose to reject the Father and cling to selfishness!

MONDAY

This is when Christ cried, “my God, my God, why have you forsaken me.” read first paragraph, “Matthew records what...”

What is God’s wrath according to Scripture? It is when God lets go, and at the Cross God let go of Jesus and allowed Jesus to reap what Jesus chose, which was to be our Remedy!

This is like a parent who lets go of their healthy child who is donating a kidney to save their child in renal failure—they know the healthy child is going to suffer through a painful ordeal, but they are pleased to allow it because it will result in saving the other child. This is why God was pleased that Christ be bruised as it says in Isaiah, because it was through this process that Christ could provide the cure to sinfulness and save us.

Jesus Christ “destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light” 2 Timothy 1:9,10.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph:

“It was Barabbas the murderer who was supposed to be crucified on the middle cross. The criminals on either side were possibly his associates. Barabbas was not a first name but a last one. Bar means ‘son of,’ just as Simon bar Jonah meant ‘son of Jonah’ or Bartholomew meant ‘son of Tolomeo.’ Barabbas means ‘son of abbas’—meaning ‘son of the father.’ Many early manuscripts record Barabbas’s first name as Yeshua (Jesus). Yeshua was a common name at the time, meaning ‘Yahweh saves.’ So, Barabbas’s name was along the lines of ‘Yahweh saves, son of the father.’

Is it surprising Satan had a counterfeit for Jesus?

Do you see in history that Satan frequently counterfeits what God is doing?

- Sacrifices to teach God’s selfless love and how sin severs the circle of love—counterfeited into an appeasement myth
- Elijah the true prophet of God—counterfeited by false prophets (and many more in the OT times)
- Galatians Paul speaks of a counterfeit gospel focused on legalities and rituals and behavior
- Jesus said many false Messiah’s would come
- In the 19th century during the Great Awakening, there was a counterfeit awakening of spiritualism
- And the greatest counterfeit of all? Why Christ had to die—the purpose of the Cross! The penal legal appeasement of God which teaches God is the source of inflicted death and puts God in the role of killing Jesus.

Last paragraph states, “Unless under the conviction of the Holy Spirit, people will inevitably make the wrong spiritual choice, as did the mob here.” thoughts?

Can people be under the conviction of the Holy Spirit and still make the wrong spiritual choice?

I think it could be more accurately stated, “unless following the conviction of the Holy Spirit...” thoughts?

There are many quotations of people who have also seen it this way, here is one from the book, The Desire of Ages

At this council Christ's enemies had been deeply convicted. The Holy Spirit had impressed their minds. But Satan strove to gain control of them. He urged upon their notice the grievances they had suffered on account of Christ. How little He had honored their righteousness. He presented a righteousness far greater, which all who would be children of God must possess. Taking no notice of their forms and ceremonies, He had encouraged sinners to go directly to God as a merciful Father, and make known their wants. Thus, in their opinion, He had set aside the priesthood. He had refused to acknowledge the theology of the rabbinical schools. He had exposed the evil practices of the priests, and had irreparably hurt their influence. He had injured the effect of their maxims and traditions, declaring that though they strictly enforced the ritual law, they made void the law of God. All this Satan now brought to their minds. {DA 540.3}

Satan told them that in order to maintain their authority, they must put Jesus to death. This counsel they followed. The fact that they might lose the power they then exercised, was, they thought, sufficient reason for coming to some decision. With the exception of a few who dared not speak their minds, the Sanhedrin received the words of Caiaphas as the words of God. Relief came to the council; the discord ceased. They resolved to put Christ to death at the first favorable opportunity. In rejecting the proof of the divinity of Jesus, these priests and rulers had locked themselves in impenetrable darkness. They had come wholly under the sway of Satan, to be hurried by him over the brink of eternal ruin. Yet such was their deception that they were well pleased with themselves. They regarded themselves as patriots, who were seeking the nation's salvation. {DA 541.1}

TUESDAY

The Torn Veil—what is being represented here? What does it mean? What did the veil in the temple functionally do, and symbolically what did that represent?

What law lens do you view the symbols through? What do you believe is happening in the little theater drama?

Is this a system of appeasement and legal payment, or is this a model of healing and restoration?

If a model of healing and restoration, what would need to be eliminated to heal and restore? In other words, what is the barrier that prevents us from being reconciled to God? What would God need to destroy in order to open a way back into unity with Himself?

Would God need to destroy Jesus? Is Jesus the barrier that keeps us from being reconciled to God? Absolutely not! But that is what it means if we say the curtain represents Jesus or Jesus' body and that is what most Christians teach—that Jesus was struck down by His Father to pay the legal price and that the obstruction to coming to the Father was the law.

Maybe it would help to decode the surrounding symbols:

Who was able to see the veil between the Holy and Most Holy place? The High Priest and the priests in white robes—who do the priests in white robes represent? The saved—then who do the rest of the tribes of Israel represent? The people of the world who need to hear the gospel. They don't see the veil, they don't understand the issues in the plan of salvation.

What does the Holy Place represent? The church—with the lamp—the living and written Word of God which is a lamp unto our feet, the showbread and wine, which represents the truth about God revealed by Jesus and the perfect character of Christ that believers internalize and are strengthened and nurtured spiritually.

Each Sabbath the priests would enter the Holy Place and eat the bread with the High Priest, symbolically the believers in God join together on Sabbath with Jesus their High Priest to worship God, partake of the truth and assimilate the character of Christ.

The golden altar represents the hearts of the believers, where Christ works via the Holy Spirit to transform and from which true praise and prayers ascend before God like sweet incense.

The daily priests long to see God more fully, and they look toward the Most Holy Place, but something obstructs their view. A veil and what is sewn on the veil? Angels—now, in this controversy between good and evil has there ever been any angels working to obstruct our view of God? Is this really that hard to understand?

This veil must be destroyed so no barrier obstructs our reconciliation with God. And this veil was destroyed. The veil was the only element of that symbolic system that God destroyed when Christ died upon the Cross.

What does the Bible say was destroyed by Christ's death?

- “by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death that is the devil.” (Heb 2:14)
- Christ Jesus, who has destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel 1Tim 1:10

What does this mean? What was destroyed by Christ's death?

- The lies of Satan which separate us from God
- Our own carnal nature which separate us from God, which is the infection of fear and selfishness which is the cause of death—which Jesus took upon Himself at His incarnation and overcame with love

By destroying the lies of Satan, and the carnal nature we inherit from Adam's fall, Christ opens a new and living way through the veil.

“We have, then, my brothers and sisters, complete freedom to go into the Most Holy Place by means of the death of Jesus. He opened for us a new way, a living way, through the curtain—that is, through his own body.” (Heb 10,19,20)

“And even if our gospel is veiled, it is veiled to those who are perishing. The god of this age has blinded the minds of unbelievers, so that they cannot see the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God.” (2 Cor 2:3,4)

Christ’s death destroys that veil and now the light of the glory of God again shines into our hearts!

WEDNESDAY

The Risen Christ—why is this so important? Read fourth paragraph, “Yet, without this belief...” His resurrection is the evidence, the proof that His Remedy works; His cure works; He has conquered death. He has restored God’s law of love, the design for life back into humanity!

Is it reasonable to believe in the resurrection of the dead?

Do we understand the tripartite nature of humanity?

- Body—soma—hardware
- Soul—psyche—software
- Spirit-pneuma—energy source

With a computer, if it runs out of power what state does it go into? It sleeps—what language does the Bible use to describe those who die? They sleep.

If your computer is in sleep mode, is it dead?

What happens if you back your computer up on a cloud and someone destroys your computer? Is it gone forever, or can it be restored to you? How?

Do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. Rather, be afraid of the One who can destroy both soul and body in hell. Mt 10:28

Don’t be afraid of one who can destroy your hardware, be afraid of the one who can destroy both hardware and software, your backup on the cloud.

But if someone destroys your hardware, and you get new hardware and download the backup from the cloud what have you just done? You have just resurrected your computer!

Notice the Bible description:

¹³ Brothers, we do not want you to be ignorant about those who fall asleep, or to grieve like the rest of men, who have no hope. ¹⁴ We believe that Jesus died and rose again and so we believe that God will bring with Jesus those who have fallen asleep in him. ¹⁵ According to the Lord's own word, we tell you that we who are still alive, who are left till the coming of the Lord, will certainly not precede those who have fallen asleep. ¹⁶ For the Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. ¹⁷ After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever. ¹⁸ Therefore encourage each other with these words. 1Thes 4:13-18

THURSDAY

The Great Commission—what is the Great Commission? What is the message that is to be taken to the world? How would you state it?

Has that message gone to the world?

What can we do to present it more effectively?

Do we have a purpose in God's plan? What is it?

The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 1 Q3 2016

The Restoration of All Things

I received this email from Malawi:

Hi, your quarterly commentary has done quite a lot to my life and how I look at the bible and all the stories that are written in there. I have to download the mp3's plus the PDFs because it is quite an interesting class you have going on up there and hearing views from different people from there and how these lessons are treated I have learned a lot of things that always went over my head and every week am looking forward to listening knowing there is always something about God that I get to know and I have been an Adventist since childhood but I have used this website for a year and it feels like I have learned more in a year than what I did the past 22 years without the commentary. My heart is more calm now and I sleep very well knowing God is not an angry God like I learned all the past years. I hope a lot of people get to read these and see this beautiful perspective of God.....sending this from Malawi ...have a good day .

I received this email from Dianna LaMarr, an online listener:

I received The Remedy this week and have started reading it! I am so happy to have this New Testament paraphrased bible THANK YOU!!! (I also got one for a friend) I wrote a poem back in 09 and wanted to share it with you! Hope you are blessed! Thank you for all you do Tim in sharing the "truth" about our heavenly Father! This message changed my understanding of God's character years ago when I first started listening to tapes by Maxwell and going to his SS class!

The Remedy
By Dianna LaMarr

*In earthly hearts there resides
A disease that God alone must heal.
Infection took place in the Garden of Eden
By a foe with cunning and skill.*

*A Plan was conceived in heavenly realms
To restore the hearts of man.
With no thought to punish God revealed, to all, His purpose and plan.*

*With great sacrifice a Healer was sent
To treat the disease that devours.*

*Only He held the cure at His command,
His mission, "truth" spoken with power.*

*So the Healer came with servant hands
And dispensed the Remedy,
He Restored to health infected hearts,
He imposed no penalty.*

*Sin punishes and devours the sin-sick soul,
But the Remedy is available to all,
As we look to Jesus who laid down His life
Without fear, on Him we may call.*

Read third paragraph of the lesson introduction, "What is the whole gospel?..."

Read Luke 4:16-21, from The Remedy:

He went to his home town of Nazareth, and as he always did on the Sabbath day, he went to the worship service. He stood up and read¹⁷ from the book of God's spokesman Isaiah, which was handed to him. He unrolled the scroll and read from the place where it is written:

¹⁸"God's Spirit is on me because I am his anointed One to bring the Remedy to the afflicted. He has sent me to bring freedom to those held in the bondage of fear and selfishness, and a clear understanding to those blinded by Satan's lies, to exterminate oppression, to remove human brokenness,¹⁹ and to make God's pleasure known this year."

²⁰He then rolled up the scroll, handed it back to the minister, and sat down. Everyone in the sanctuary watched him closely,²¹ and he told them plainly, "Today, right here, within the sound of my voice, this Scripture is fulfilled."

What is the gospel? Is it more than concepts? Is it functional? Is it operational? How does it function? What is its method of operation?

It is love, giving, beneficence, outward regard, caring for others—what kind of law is this? Is it a rule? Or is it a design protocol?

What then would biblical justice be? Can someone describe it?

Doing what is right or just, which is what? Delivering the oppressed, not punishing the oppressor. It is healing, restoring, recreating, renewing, rebuilding, it is not destroying, tearing down, inflicting harm.

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, “All one has to do...” What is wrong? If our diagnosis is wrong, then our treatment is wrong, so yes, something is wrong—but what?

The lesson states, “It’s called the Fall. It’s called sin. It’s called rebellion, and it’s called the great controversy.”

Does that tell us what is wrong, or does that give labels to what is wrong?

What is actually wrong? The lesson hints to a certain worldview when it states “It’s called rebellion.” What worldview does this lead toward?

Does it lead to an imperial, imposed law, worldview? Is that the actual problem?

Were Adam and Eve rebels, or were they victims of a deceiver? And once they were deceived what was the problem?

Eve believed the words of Satan, and the belief of that falsehood in regard to God's character, changed the condition and character of both herself and husband. They were changed from good and obedient children into transgressors, and it was only by repentance toward God and faith in the promised Messiah that they could hope ever to regain the lost image of God. {RH, January 5, 1886 par. 8}

Can a change in one’s beliefs really change a person?

Yes! What we think, believe, changes which brain circuits we fire, causes a cascade of chemical and other events eventually even changing how our DNA is expressed.

Remember the example of believing a lie that your spouse is having an affair...would such a belief change you? Absolutely, and we can measure many of those changes, changes in heart rate, blood pressure, stress hormones, brain circuitry activation, and of course behavior. If the truth doesn’t remove the lie, then many more false beliefs follow, and those false beliefs will further damage you and transform your character to a more fear based, selfish individual.

So, what happened to Adam and Eve? What is the problem that sin caused that the plan of salvation is designed to fix?

- Did Adam and Eve’s sin change God?
- Did Adam and Eve’s sin change God’s law—
 - how do you understand God’s law?

- Is God's law rules that the Divine Governor must enforce, or protocols upon which life is construct?
 - If protocols, what happens to the individual who violates them?
- So, if God and His law did not get changed when Adam and Eve sinned (deviated from God's law—design), what did get changed? —Adam and Eve—how? What changed in them?
- They were infected with fear and selfishness, love was displaced, they began operating upon Satan's principle of survival of the fittest, which kills others to protect self—Immediately, Adam blames/sacrifices Eve to protect self.

Read the first paragraph in TUESDAY's lesson—"The word enmity..." What is happening when God puts enmity between humankind and Satan?

Consider this description from EGW:

The Lord says, "I will put enmity between thee and the woman." The enmity does not exist as a natural fact. As soon as Adam sinned, he was in harmony with the first great apostate, and at war with God; and if God had not interfered in man's behalf, Satan and man would have formed a confederacy against heaven, and carried on united opposition against the God of hosts. There is no natural enmity between evil angels and evil men; both are evil through transgression of the law of God, and evil will always league against good. Fallen men and fallen angels enter into a desperate companionship. {ST, July 11, 1895 par. 5}

What is another way to describe "interfered in man's behalf"? Intercession, God intercedes, intervenes to disrupt the inevitable union with Satan and destruction of humanity. God intercedes, interferes, intervenes in three places:

- The hearts of human beings by convicting of sin, drawing, giving a desire for something better, enlightening with truth etc.
- With the powers of darkness and evil (Army's around Elisha, holding back four winds of strife)
- And, through Jesus, in the course of what sin would do to the human species, in Jesus the terminal trajectory toward death was altered, when Jesus destroyed death and restored life into humanity!

What is it called when God stops all intercession? God's wrath—God's wrath is not the infliction of something from God, it is the surrendering of sinners to the ultimate results of what unrestrained and uninterfered with sin causes!

So, if the condition of humankind was changed at the fall, what would be necessary to save humanity?

Wouldn't it be something that actually fixes what is wrong in us?

So, if you were Satan, and your goal to stop people from being saved what would you do? Would you make counterfeit treatments?

Such as?

How about:

- a legal solution in which people believe the problem is not their actual condition, but the problem is a God who is offended and who needs to be satisfied or appeased
- Or, God's law must be enforced and God's law demands proper punishment and someone has to pay for the crime?

Do you see how such approaches will give people a sense of dealing with their sin problem, by claiming legal payment, but without actually treating the real problem, so people remain terminal!

So, what is the true solution to the sin problem? Actual healing of the heart and character of humankind—could any human after Adam sinned do that? Could an angel do that? This is why no angel could be our Savior. No, thus Christ came to achieve what we could not achieve, removing the infection of fear, selfishness and false ideas about God, and restoring truth and love into the species. Jesus did what we could not.

Consider this quote:

All sin is selfishness. Satan's first sin was a manifestation of selfishness. He sought to grasp power, to exalt self. A species of insanity led him to seek to supersede God. And the temptation that led Adam to sin was Satan's declaration that it was possible for man to attain to something more than he already enjoyed, possible for him to be as God Himself. The sowing of seeds of selfishness in the human heart was the first result of the entrance of sin into the world. God desires every one to understand the evil of selfishness, and to co operate with Him in guarding the human family against its terrible, deceptive powers. The design of the gospel is to confront this evil by means of remedial missionary work, and to destroy its destructive power by establishing enterprises of benevolence. {WB, September 9, 1902 par. 3} (The Worker's Bulletin)

As a remedy for the terrible consequences into which selfishness led the human race, God gave His only begotten Son to die for mankind. [what was the reason God gave Jesus? not as a legal payment, as a remedy to the consequences, the situation, the condition] How could He have given more? In this gift He gave Himself. "I and My Father are one," said Christ. By the gift of His Son, God has made it possible for man to be redeemed and restored to oneness with Him. "God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Love is the great principle that actuates unfallen beings. With amazement the angels behold the indifference that those who have light and knowledge manifest toward a world unsaved. The heavenly host are filled with an intense desire to work through human agencies to restore in man the image of God. They are ready and waiting to do this work. The combined power of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost is pledged to uplift man from his fallen state. Every attribute, every power of divinity has been placed at the command of those who unite with the Saviour in winning men to God. [wow—how much power is that? What kind of power? What is the power that does this? It is the power of truth and love, coercive power is found only under Satan's government! But the power of truth and love is the power of life itself, it is the power that heals, that restores, that cleanses, that creates, that upholds worlds, that sustains stars, than all reality is built upon! Notice her next words.] O, that all would appreciate the truth as it is in Jesus. O, that all would love God in return for the love wherewith He has loved them. [truth and love is the power] {WB, September 9, 1902 par. 4}

Sin has extinguished the love that God placed in man's heart. The work of the church is to rekindle this love. The church is to co-operate with God by uprooting selfishness from the human heart, placing in its stead the benevolence that was in man's heart in his original state of perfection. [The lesson is The Role of the Church in the Community—what is the church to do? Restore love into the hearts of people by leading them to love others in action and deed—this is the power!] {WB, September 9, 1902 par. 5}

What is the mission of the church? To cooperate with God for the actual healing and transformation of people to be like Jesus in character. But instead the church has been infected with a false gospel that teaches them to seek legal solutions and protection from God, rather than reconciliation to God.

If you think this is not the case, read the last two paragraphs in TUESDAY lesson, “Theologians sometimes use...” What questions come to your mind?

Does God's government have laws? Yes, absolutely—what kind of laws? How do they function? Are God's laws, functionally, like human laws, rules imposed and enforced by imposed punishments? What does it say about God if He functions no different than sinful human beings?

The same power that upholds nature, is working also in man. The same great laws that guide alike the star and the atom control human life. The laws that govern the heart's action, regulating the flow of the current of life to the body, are the laws of the mighty Intelligence that has the jurisdiction of the soul. From Him all life proceeds. Only in harmony with Him can be found its true sphere of action. For all the objects of His creation the condition is the same--a life sustained by receiving the life of God, a life exercised in harmony with the Creator's will. To transgress His law, physical, mental, or moral, is to place one's self out of harmony with the universe, to introduce discord, anarchy, ruin. {Ed 99.2}

Tell me what you hear being described in this quotation:

One of the divine plans for growth is impartation. The Christian is to gain strength by strengthening others. “He that watereth shall be watered also himself.” This is not merely a promise; it is a divine law, a law by which God designs that the streams of benevolence, like the waters of the great deep, shall be kept in constant circulation, continually flowing back to their source. In the fulfilling of this law is the secret of spiritual growth. {ST June 12, 1901, par. 4}

What kind of law is described here? Is it an imposed rule or a design protocol? And how would you describe it? This particular description has several laws beautifully harmonized, like Ezekiel's vision of chapter 10, rotating wheel inside a rotating wheel, the operations of God's laws work together—all things work together for good, for life, for healing—this is God's law—design. The laws in this quote:

- The law of love—giving
- The law of exertion—strength comes by exercise
- The law of worship—by beholding we are changed, the spiritual growth of beholding and participating in the action of loving service
- The law of truth—the truth heals and sets free, the truth of God's design law frees from imposed rules

Here is another quote:

It is a divine law that blessings come at some cost to the receiver. Those who would become wise in the sciences must study, and those who would become wise in regard to Bible truth, that they may impart that knowledge to others, must be diligent students of God's Holy Word. There is no other way; they must search the Scriptures diligently, interestedly, prayerfully. . . . And after all their research, there is beyond an infinity of wisdom, love, and power. {TMK 194.4}

What law is being described here?

- The law of exertion
- The law of liberty—one must freely choose to participate
- Can a person become a great musician by listening to the stereo 8 hours per day?
- Can a person become a great thinker by listening to sermons 8 hours per day?—Heb 5:14, “the mature are those who have developed by practice the ability to discern the right from the wrong.” This is why every person must be fully persuaded in their own mind—why people must think for themselves, because it is only in harmony with God's laws/designs, the law of love, freed, truth, exertion that we can be healed.
- This is also why false religions always lead people to indoctrination, to believe without thinking because it violates God's law and enfeebles the mind obstructing the healing God wants for His children.

What about this quote?

- God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power. {DA 759.1}

What is being described? Why is rebellion not to be overcome by force? Can it be overcome by force? What kind of law requires compelling, coercive enforcement? Why does God not need to act in such ways? What are principles? If God's principles are not compelling, no coercive, what does this mean for how God deals with the wicked in the end?

How do you understand God's law? God is Creator, His laws are the protocols reality function upon, including the laws of love and liberty. Violate God's laws and only pain, suffering and death occur. But Satan has deceived the world into thinking God functions like we do and the evil one paints God as the source of inflicted suffering and death. Thus, the atonement is perverted to teach Jesus paying legal penalties, rather than Jesus healing and restoring and uniting humanity back with God!

Atonement—its original meaning meant to unite, to take two people at odds and bring them back to at-one-ment. It was pronounced atone, rather than at-one because of the old English pronunciation, like when we are all by ourselves we are alone, not all-one.

But, this word changed meanings over the centuries, and has come to connote legal appeasement that was never in its original use. Just like the word gay has come to mean something it never originally meant. Unfortunately, many people have read in the false meaning, why? Because it fits with their false law concept, the idea that God's law works like our law does.

This is level four and below thinking, this is the immaturity that the writer of Hebrews describes, focusing on repentance from acts that lead to death and such a focus is not acquainted with righteousness. Why not? Because righteousness is about the actual transformation of heart/character, i.e. writing the law on the heart and mind. But legal solutions focus on adjustment of legal standing in books of heaven—thus they don't even know what righteousness really is.

Did you notice that the legal language of the imposed law, human law in our lesson states, "justice demands a penalty to pay for that wrong."

However, this is exactly the opposite of Scripture and what Biblical justice demands—what does the law of God demand or require?

Here are a few historic quotes from one of the founders of the SDA church:

- "The condemning power of Satan would lead him to institute a theory of justice inconsistent with mercy. He claims to be officiating as the voice and power of God, claims that his decisions are justice, are pure and without fault. Thus he takes his position on the judgment seat and declares that his counsels are infallible. Here his merciless justice comes in, a counterfeit of justice, abhorrent to God." Christ Triumphant (CTr) p. 11 and - Letter 16a, 1892

What do you think Satan's counterfeit system of justice looks like, the system that is abhorrent to God?

- "Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan;" (DA 761)

Satan's system is an imposed law system, a system like human governments a system in which justice is the judgment seat, infliction of punishment. This is abhorrent to God. It is counterfeit justice.

What does God's law actually require? Consider these quotes:

- But the law requires that the soul itself be pure and the mind holy, that the thoughts and feelings may be in accordance with the standard of love and righteousness.--RH, Apr 5, 1898. (2SM 211.) {2MCP 564.1}
- The divine law requires us to love God supremely and our neighbor as ourselves. Without the exercise of this love, the highest profession of faith is mere hypocrisy. . . . {A New Life NL 32.1}
- That which God required of Adam before his fall was perfect obedience to His law. God requires now what He required of Adam, perfect obedience, righteousness without a flaw, without shortcoming in His sight. God help us to render to Him all His law requires. We cannot do this without that faith that brings Christ's righteousness into daily practice. {2SM 380.4}
- God offered them, in His Son, the perfect righteousness of the law. If they would open their hearts fully to receive Christ, then the very life of God, His love, would dwell in them, transforming them into His own likeness; and thus through God's free gift they would possess the righteousness which the law requires. But the Pharisees rejected Christ; "being ignorant of God's righteousness, and going about to establish their own righteousness" (Romans 10:3), they would not submit themselves unto the righteousness of God. {MB 54.2}
- His law requires your heart's supreme affection for your Maker. It requires you to do unto others as you would have them do to you. {BEcho, February 15, 1889 par. 8}
- This is the voice of God to you, my brethren and sisters who profess to keep the law of God. That law requires that you love your neighbor as yourself. Are you doing it? {RH, March 11, 1884 par. 10}

- The law requires us to present to God a holy character. It demands of men today just what it demanded of Adam in Eden,—perfect obedience, perfect harmony with all its precepts in all relations of life, under all circumstances and conditions. {ST, May 30, 1895 par. 2}
- The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Rom. 3:26. {DA 762.2}

Why does God's law require all of this? For the same reason the law of respiration require we breathe—it is how life is constructed, it is how the universe works, it is how God Himself is, God IS love!

SUNDAY

Humankind was created in God's image—what do you understand that to mean?

Read fourth paragraph, "The nature of God's..." What is the differences between these natures?

This is not a comprehensive list, but merely to get the mind thinking down these lines, and what would you add to it?

Physical—bodies, ability to interact with the physical world, to move, to touch, to smell, to see, to be beings of real substance—Is God a being of real substance that can interact with the physical universe? We are like Him in this way!

Mental—the ability to think, reason, comprehend, imagine, consider, contemplate, appreciate, investigate, create, understand and much more, can God do all of this? We are like Him in this way!

Relational and Creational—the ability to connect with people, and lower life forms. The ability to pro-create beings in our image. The ability to form networks, families, communities, can God do all of this? We are like Him in this way!

Spiritual—the ability to love, to sacrifice self for the good of others, to give to bless others, to appreciate and value genuine goodness, righteousness, purposes and principles that are more valuable than self—Does God do all of this? We are like Him in way!

Rulership—the ability to govern, to have dominion, to use power to protect, to build up, to organize, to facilitate development etc. Can God do this? We are like Him in this way!

We are like God in all of these ways—but can each of these be perverted and subverted?

Physical—disease, substance abuse, physical torture and injury to others

Mental—believing lies, deceiving, mental illnesses, cults, indoctrination to close minds to truth

Relational and Creational—using relationships to manipulate people for one's ends, sex for perverse (pornography, sex trafficking, prostitution etc.)

Spiritual—false religions and beliefs that transform people into the very opposite of Jesus, yet claiming the name of God

Rulership—coercive and repressive regimes throughout human history, corrupt governments all based on coercive power

And what is the result of the perversion of these attributes that make us in God's image? The damage to the image of God in man, effacing and erasing that image and placing Satan's image where God's should be.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Bible does not say..." I have my own theory—and there is NO inspired evidence that my theory is right, so until we get to heaven and ask, I am sticking with this—that they sinned in less than a few months—why?

God told them to be fruitful and multiply—they were perfect—healthy normal sexuality and attraction and they had no infertility problems, and no child was born sinless, which would have been the case had they had children before they sinned. Thus, I hypothesize that they sinned very quickly, before Eve could become pregnant.

Also, this fits with other statements from EGW about how Adam and Eve were in a different position than Lucifer in heaven:

But even as a sinner, man was in a different position from that of Satan. Lucifer in heaven had sinned in the light of God's glory. To him as to no other created being was given a revelation of God's love. Understanding the character of God, knowing His goodness, Satan chose to follow his own selfish, independent will. This choice was final. There was no more that God could do to save him. But man was deceived; his mind was darkened by Satan's sophistry. The height and depth of the love of God he did not know. For him there was hope in a knowledge of God's love. By beholding His character he might be drawn back to God. {DA 761.5}

This indicates to me that they were still fairly new in their existence and experience with God that they hadn't had a lot of time to really get to know the truth about God.

WEDNESDAY

read second paragraph, "In the beginning..." What do you hear being described as the problem and the solution?

Do you recognize an actual change in the condition of the human species occurred and the plan of salvation was to fix that change? Do you see this is based on design law not imposed law?

Read Galatians 4:19, "My little children, for whom I labor in birth again until Christ is formed in you."

What is Paul saying? What is his focus? Is this a legal issue for Paul or is Paul concerned with the actual transformation and healing of the minds and hearts of people?

THURSDAY

The lesson is about the role the church has to play in God's plan—what is that role? How would you describe it?

We read a statement earlier that the role of the church is to lead people back to God's love and purge selfishness from their hearts. What interferes with that role?

Oswald Chambers wrote the following:

Reconciliation means the restoring of the relationship between the entire human race and God, putting it back to what God designed it to be. This is what Jesus Christ did in redemption. The church ceases to be spiritual when it becomes self-seeking, only interested in the development of its own organization. The reconciliation of the human race according to His plan means realizing Him not only in our lives individually, but also in our lives collectively. Jesus Christ sent apostles and teachers for this very purpose—that the corporate Person of Christ and His church, made up of many members, might be brought into being and made known. We are not here to develop a spiritual life of our own, or to enjoy a quiet spiritual retreat. We are here to have the full realization of Jesus Christ, for the purpose of building His body.¹

What interferes with the church completing its mission? When the church focuses on protecting the institution and institutional assets OVER saving and healing people—examples:

- cover-up of child molestation and protecting of the clergy involved to avoid embarrassment for the organization
- firing people from church employment who “sin” rather than seeking healing and restoration
- disfellowshipping people who violate ordinances and church rules, but who do not violate the principles of love for fellow humans
- Pursuing governmental policies to enforce church beliefs and imposing one’s beliefs upon others

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

The God-Shaped Brain is now available in Korean and is available at this website:
http://book.naver.com/bookdb/book_detail.nhn?bid=9519886

The Remedy* – Dr. Jennings’ New Testament Paraphrase—FREE for ios and android systems.

The Remedy—Is Now Available in Print Version in the US. We have printed 10,000 to give away and will reassess demand for them after those are gone. We are shipping a small number to Canada and Australia. How to get copies: Go to our website’s e-Store and select The Remedy NT (book) from this listings and click the appropriate red order button. If you are giving them away, please give them only to people who want them. In other words, don’t put one at every seat in the church, or place setting at a potluck, or car in a parking lot. Such distribution methods result in vast numbers being thrown away. Letting people know they are free and allowing them to take one if they want too works best.

The Journal of the Watcher is now available as a HARD COVER book at Amazon as well as a movie in itunes for everyone without ios or android in itunes. It is also available as an APP for Apple and Android devices.

Thursday, June 9 at 1:30 PM Eastern Time Dr. Jennings will appear on the Lifestyle Magazine show, “Healing The Mind” that he recorded previously. It is scheduled to air on the Trinity Broadcasting Network (TBN). Keep in mind that TBN can preempt the show at their discretion.

October 14-16: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Drakensville, South Africa Campmeeting.

October 19, 20: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Ladismith South Africa (venue to be determined)

October 21, 22: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Cape Town, South Africa

The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 2 3Q 2016 Restoring Dominion

I received this email this week:

I would like one case of The Remedy NT. I took more than half of the first box to church and they disappeared. I'm traveling to WA on the 29th and would like to take a bunch to family and friends there. Thank you so much for all you do to share the truth about who God is. I see this message changing people from the inside out that I thought would never change. Wow! Praise God from whom all blessings flow! This message is so transforming. Yet I see others who are so indifferent. So sad. We just keep sharing and praying for open hearts. Thank you. I'm also ordering your other books but see I can't do it all at once. Will be sending a donation to help with costs. May God's rich love be more real to you each and every day

And also this email came in:

A friend gave me a copy of "Healing the Mind". I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker and an Elder in our assembly (Yahweh's Assembly in Yahshua" ... in the King James' English: "The LORD's Church in Jesus"). Much of what Dr. Jennings teaches parallels what I learned from the Director, M. K. Downing ("Doc") of the Family Communication Center in Fresno (now not in existence). He taught "the Event - Meaning - Feelings - Behavior Continuum", "the Love Process" and other teachings. I love the concept that it is reason and conscience that form the judgments we make (I recognize judgment on a scale with one end, "discernment, and the other, condemnation, the first, healthy, and the other, unhealthy). I agree that it requires both of these, working in harmony and in the truth found in Scripture to find True judgment and discernment. I would love to share some information and ask some questions of Dr. Jennings, if he is so inclined.

This email came in this morning:

My Brother's and Sister's at Come and Reason Ministry,

When I stumbled upon your ministry, I was in such turmoil. The seventh day Adventist church that I am a member of presents our God as a punishing revengeful dictator. I raised my son in this church teaching him and presenting this GOD to him. At age 21, my son left the church stating its no different than the world. You saved my life by introducing me to the true God. Your ministry is the remedy to all the false teaching in the world. it is my responsibility to ensure that I help with introducing the God of love and design law.

Can you please send me a case of the Remedy:

SABBATH

What is dominion? Does it mean to dominate? Would it be that Adam was to be predominant? Or Adam was to be the dominant figure on earth? If Adam were to be predominant or dominate—prior to sin what would that have looked like? What actions might Adam have done? How would he have behaved? What methods would he have utilized?

Would he have acted like Jesus—Adam would have been predominant in service, in love, in protection, in wisdom, guidance, mercy, grace, freedom, always leading in SERVICE... giving of himself for the health of the rest of the planet?

Is that what you typically think of when you think of dominion and dominant?

What was Adam's dominion? Did Adam have dominion over nature? Did he have dominion over angels? Did he have dominion over Eve? What do you think Adam had the authority, ability to do prior to the fall?

While they remained true to God, Adam and his companion were to bear rule over the earth. Unlimited control was given them over every living thing. [What would that look like? Does it make a difference if one controls with a heart of love or a heart of selfishness? Do you think if they had control over every living thing, they also had control over non-living things like minerals and water and dirt?] The lion and the lamb sported peacefully around them or lay down together at their feet. The happy birds flitted about them without fear; and as their glad songs ascended to the praise of their Creator, Adam and Eve united with them in thanksgiving to the Father and the Son... {PP 50.2}

The laws and operations of nature, which have engaged men's study for six thousand years, were opened to their minds by the infinite Framer and Upholder of all. [What laws of nature are you aware of? Which have you found fascinating? Classic Newtonian physics, gravity, motion, friction, but also laws of magnetism, electricity, nuclear properties. All of these laws are fixed and don't change.

But what science has discovered is quantum physics. Now quantum physics is the law that basically encodes freedom of choice into the structure of the universe's fixed laws. It is the choice of the observer, the freewill agent that ultimately makes the reality occur. Computers work upon Newtonian physics, zeros and ones, our brains physiologically are working on Newtonian physics (blood flow, electrical signals etc), but our thinking, our minds—our souls are operating on quantum interactions.

Quantum entanglement is that two particles are in relationship regardless of distance in space and time and requires no physical link. This is a Biblical principle, we are all one body in Christ; we are being built together in a temple for the Lord. This is very consistent with quantum mechanics. An interesting study to demonstrate the quantum connection that can exist between people was done. They took two individuals who meditated together and placed them in a faraday cage (which blocks all electromagnetic energy). This allowed them to form a bond, a connection. Then they separated the two into separate faraday cages in separate rooms, there was no connection physically or environmentally, and all electromagnetic emissions were blocked by the faraday cages. Then they shone a light into the eye of one of the meditators. The part of the brain that light up in that person's brain also lit up in the other meditator's brain, even though no sensory stimulation was provided to the second meditator.¹

Quantum mechanics can give some insight into why persons have been able to "know" when something bad has happened to a loved one miles away, or how people can be benefited by prayer. Our thoughts actually do change reality. We were created to, as free moral agents exercise our individuality to impact and direct the world around us. This has all been infected and perverted, but the basic design laws and protocols upon which God constructed it all remain. It is coming back into unity with God that we experiencing healing of our minds and become more capable of exercising our abilities in harmony with Him and His design. continuing on with the quote.

...They [Adam and Eve] held converse with leaf and flower and tree, gathering from each the secrets of its life. [what does this mean? Did they merely observe and learn by observation, or was there interaction, conversation? Could Adam and Eve instruct the plants, grow in this direction, put a flower on the third stalk on the left, reabsorb the second branch and grow it three inches further down?] With every living creature, from the mighty leviathan that playeth among the waters to the insect mote that floats in the sunbeam, Adam was familiar. He had given to each its name, and he was acquainted with the nature and habits of all. God's glory in the heavens, the innumerable worlds in their orderly revolutions, "the balancings of the clouds," the mysteries of light and sound, of day and night--all were open to the study of our first parents. On every leaf of the forest or stone of the mountains, in every shining star, in earth and air and sky, God's name was written. [what does it mean God's name was written? Is this similar to Romans 1:20 that God's divine nature is seen in what he has made? What is name? Character and so is God's character of love seen throughout all creation? How and why? What is God's core central character? Love, and how does love operate? Giving, and in nature is all of it constructed to operate in love, in giving?] The order and harmony of creation spoke to them of infinite wisdom and power. They were ever discovering some attraction that filled their hearts with deeper love and called forth fresh expressions of gratitude. {PP 50.3}

So long as they remained loyal to the divine law, their capacity to know, to enjoy, and to love would continually increase. [Why? Is it, that as long as they stayed loyal they kept their golden security cards with access passwords that gave them access to the heavenly data base to continue to learn? But if they were disloyal God would cut them off from access to the celestial library? No, what happens to our ability to learn when we believe lies? Think about it. Imaging going back to the Dark Ages/Middle Ages and try to teach a person the truth about bacteria during the Black Death. What might have happened? Would the people have been open to truth? Would the clergy have been open to truth? What happens today when people believe so strongly that God must punish and kill the wicked? Do they lose the ability to assimilate new truth? Yes, so once they believed Satan's lie their minds became infected with fear and selfishness, and their knowledge base became corrupted with distortions] They would be constantly gaining new treasures of knowledge, discovering fresh springs of happiness, and obtaining clearer and yet clearer conceptions of the immeasurable, unfailing love of God. {PP 51.1}

So, with all of this in mind, before they sinned what might they have been able to do with their dominion on earth?

- Could they walk on water?
- Could they command the sun to stand still?
- Could they move objects with his mind – an axe head to float?
- Could they command the trees and flowers and vines to grow in any direction they wanted?
- Could they redirect rivers and streams?
- Could they communicate with the animals?
- Could they fly or teleport from place to place – like Satan taking Jesus to the pinnacle of the temple?

Did Adam prior to his fall have dominion over the forces of nature?

Read second paragraph, “Not only man...” What do you hear in this passage? What does it mean, “paying the penalty of sin”? Is this different than paying a legal penalty? Does the author here say “legal penalty”?

- So, what is the penalty of sin? Death,
- Why is death the penalty of sin?
- Why is death the penalty of taking a cyanide tablet, or cutting an artery and letting your blood bleed out, or tying a plastic bag over your head, or destroying your kidneys with poison?
- Why is death the penalty of such events?
 - Because each of these events violate God's design for life, and another word for design—is law. God's law is the protocol upon which life is built, and violations result in death, unless something is done to restore one back to harmony with design.

So, why did Christ have to pay this penalty?

- Level four and below thinking:
 - because justice requires punishment
 - because the law must be enforced
- Level five and above thinking:
 - It was the only way to eliminate the infection of fear and selfishness which now was the predominant principle, driver, motivator in every single human being, and simultaneously restore God's law of love back into the species human.

In dying Christ—destroyed death, destroyed him who holds the power of death and destroyed the devil's work (2Tim 1:10, Heb 2:14, 1Jn 3:8). In other words, the penalty was paid not as a legal payment, but as the price required to fix what was broken in humankind.

It would be like saying to someone who was dying of renal failure, that the person who donated a kidney paid the price to save them. Yes, the person who gave a kidney they did pay the price to save them, but it wasn't a legal price, it was the price their condition required.

Once Adam sinned, what was required for human beings to be saved?

- The restoration of trust—which required what? Truth to destroy lies, did Jesus pay the price to reveal the truth about God, Satan, the nature and character of sin? Absolutely, but what else was required?
- A new nature, a human nature free from fear and selfishness, a human nature not contaminated by sin—Jesus became part of this humanity, took upon Himself this terminal condition (He became sin though He knew no sin) and in Jesus the law of sin and death was destroyed and replaced by the law of life. When? In Gethsemane and the Cross, when Jesus exercised His human brain to love and say no to selfishness, dying on the cross eliminated the infection, and prior to the Cross Jesus experienced the temptation of what our fallen nature does. Jesus in Gethsemane experienced the temptation to save self—but after His death at the cross, when Love won, Jesus arose in a humanity that can never be tempted again. Jesus is the Remedy! Jesus fixed what Adam broke!
- Yes, Jesus paid a price, but it was the price reality, the condition itself required, not some legal imposition of punishment.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Someone recently..." How would you answer this person's questions?

First, what happened in history that contributed to thinking people giving up a belief in God?

It was when Christianity presented God through the lens of imposed law, with legal requirements and coercive enforcement. This resulted in all kinds of teachings that were nonsense, contradictory to reality, contradictory to common human decency and presented a god not worthy of worship. And since the truth about God was at that time in history not presented clearly, thinking people rejected the idea of God and came up with evolution as something much more reasonable than the Dark Ages dictator god.

Yet, moving away from worshipping a false god construct to no god, still doesn't bring peace to the soul, doesn't provide answers to these big questions. How would you answer the questions in the paragraph?

What was God's purpose/s in creating human beings? Here is an historic quotation from the book Education p. 15:

In order to understand what is comprehended in the work of education, we need to consider both the nature of man and the purpose of God in creating him. We need to consider also the change in man's condition through the coming in of a knowledge of evil, and God's plan for still fulfilling His glorious purpose in the education of the human race. {Ed 14.4}

When Adam came from the Creator's hand, he bore, in his physical, mental, and spiritual nature, a likeness to his Maker. "God created man in His own image" (Genesis 1:27), and it was His purpose that the longer man lived the more fully he should reveal this image--the more fully reflect the glory of the Creator. [what is the glory of the creator? It is His character of love; what then would it mean to more fully reflect his glory? how would this happen on earth if Adam and Eve had not sinned?] All his faculties were capable of development; their capacity and vigor were continually to increase. Vast was the scope offered for their exercise, glorious the field opened to their research. The mysteries of the visible universe--the "wondrous works of Him which is perfect in knowledge" (Job 37:16)--invited man's study. Face-to-face, heart-to-heart communion with his Maker was his high privilege. Had he remained loyal to God, all this would have been his forever. Throughout eternal ages he would have continued to gain new treasures of knowledge, to discover fresh springs of happiness, and to obtain clearer and yet clearer conceptions of the wisdom, the power, and the love of God. More and more fully would he have fulfilled the object of his creation, more and more fully have reflected the Creator's glory. {Ed 15.1}

But by disobedience this was forfeited. Through sin the divine likeness was marred, and well-nigh obliterated. Man's physical powers were weakened, his mental capacity was lessened, his spiritual vision dimmed. He had become subject to death. Yet the race was not left without hope. By infinite love and mercy the plan of salvation had been devised, and a life of probation was granted. To restore in man the image of his Maker, to bring him back to the perfection in which he was created, to promote the development of body, mind, and soul, that the divine purpose in his creation might be realized--this was to be the work of redemption. [Does this sound like a legal solution, or an actual healing solution?] This is the object of education, the great object of life. [Is this what Christianity has been teaching or instead a legal system devoid of God's healing grace?] {Ed 15.2}

Love, the basis of creation and of redemption, is the basis of true education. [What does this mean? Love the basis of creation—does this mean something more than emotion, is love functional, operational—how does love operate or function?] This is made plain in the law that God has given as the guide of life. [What law do you think is being referred to here? What do you think this author will cite next as the law God gave as a guide to life?] The first and great commandment is, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind." Luke 10:27. To love Him, the infinite, the omniscient One, with the whole strength, and mind, and heart, means the highest development of every power. It means that in the whole being--the body, the mind, as well as the soul--the image of God is to be restored. {Ed 16.1}

How many preachers have diverted minds away from the law of love to the 10 Commandments and a system of fear and behavioral conformity?

Again does that sound like a legal payment solution or a healing of our actual being back into harmony with God's original design for humankind?

So what was our purpose? To be godlike—literally, to be like Him in our being, our thoughts, actions, understanding, functioning, in all that we do to be like Him!

How does this purpose get derailed? By sin—and how does God's redemptive plan get derailed? By legal theologies that obstruct His healing plan!

MONDAY

Read first two paragraphs, "The biblical word..." So Adam and Eve were given authority, dominion and were to exercise power over the earth—what kind of power? How were they to wield power?

Would Adam and Eve, in a world before sin, use power to force others into compliance with their will? Would they have used compelling power?

Would there be lessons that would be learned about God in how Adam wielded power—in a world without sin? What lessons might be learned?

What about when Adam and Eve discussed a project—would they consult with their dog or cat or rhino or elephant in the planning? Why not?

Which is the bigger intelligence and knowledge gap, the gap between you and your dog, or the gap between you and God?

So, do we gain insight into why God didn't consult with His creation when He went about His creative plans? Is it because God is selfish and exclusionary or is it because created beings cannot communicate on the level of the Godhead, we cannot even comprehend it?

Does the earth's eco systems teach us anything about God? how what?

TUESDAY

What do you understand boundaries to mean? What are the purposes of boundaries?

In God's design are boundaries intended to restrict, enslave, trap, or imprison?

What are the purpose of boundaries? To protect—always to protect! And to liberate—how?

- Would a river, even in Eden, have boundaries—why, what happens when a river floods over its boundaries?
- Does the Bible describe God's law as the law of liberty—how?

Let's read Galatians 3:19-25 from The Remedy:

¹⁹ If God promised to heal us, then what was the purpose of the law? It was added because of our sin-sick state—our darkened minds and the rapid rate at which we were destroying ourselves—in order to diagnose our condition and teach us a healthier way to live until the only true cure, Jesus (the promised One) had come. God communicated this law through angels, and then through Moses as an intermediary to the people...

²¹ Is the written law, then, somehow in opposition to the promises of God? Of course not! The written law was simply a tool to diagnose our sickness and lead us to God for healing. If the written law could somehow cure the infection of selfishness and promote life, then healing would certainly have followed the giving of the law.²² But Scripture is clear: All humanity is infected with selfishness and is imprisoned by this terminal condition. It is by trust that we experience the only cure, the One promised—Jesus Christ—who was given to humankind as the Remedy to this terminal condition.

²³ Before Christ came, we were quarantined by the written law—restrained from continual self-destruction—until Christ procured the only true cure.²⁴ The written law was provided as a safeguard to protect us and lead us to Christ—the Great Physician—so that we might be restored to unity with God by trust in, and partaking of, Christ.²⁵ Now that trust in God has been restored—and we are set right in heart, mind, and character, and again practice God's methods—we no longer need the law to diagnose our condition or lead us back to God.

What is the purpose of the written law? To protect and lead us back to Christ for true healing. Then if this is its purpose, for whom was it written? 1Tim 1:8-11:

⁸ We know that the written law is a diagnostic instrument for the soul, and it is good if used properly.⁹ We also know that this diagnostic tool was not made for the spiritually healthy, but for those who are selfish in character, those who are spiritually diseased, who don't know God, who don't love others but kill their fathers and mothers, the ill at heart, murderers,¹⁰ sexual perverts and adulterers, human traffickers, liars, deceivers, and for everyone and everything else that is out of harmony with God's design for life or¹¹ doesn't harmonize with the incredible truth about God's character of love that he has entrusted me to share. (The Remedy)

It is just like MRI machines, they were not made for people with perfect health. the MRIs were made for people with sickness, to expose the disease—but the MRI has no power to heal. Likewise, the 10 Commandments were given as a protective hedge and diagnostic tool, but they have no power to heal.

So, then, how does the law provide freedom? Because if we live in harmony with the law (God's design protocols) we are healthier, in every way, and health is liberty and freedom, just ask anyone who has lost their health:

- If a person has smoked heavily and has bad lung disease, have they lost liberty?
- If a person has lived a sedentary lifestyle and eaten fatty foods and has heart failure, have they lost liberty?
- If a person has murdered someone, and even if not caught have they lost liberty? Do they live in fear, maybe on the lam?
- If a person has an addiction, have they lost liberty?
- If a person rejects love and lives selfishly have they lost liberty? Why? Because they are imprisoned with their fears, doubts, insecurity, perceived threats, and ultimate their fear of death.
- Fear paralyzes, love sets free!

Only returning to God, our Creator and His principles (i.e. law) of love do we find our highest fulfillment and true freedom. Everything deviant from God's design enslaves!

Bottom section—what are some specific boundaries we need to respect in regard to others—while we won't dig into personal lives, what about in the church?

What about Romans 14:5 is there a boundary in this verse we need to respect?

One man considers one day more sacred than another; another man considers every day alike. Each one should be fully convinced in his own mind.

What is the boundary? We present truth in love and leave others free—we don't set ourselves up as judges of another person's conscience or their service to God.

Remember man looks on the outward appearance, but God looks on the heart.

Jesus told the story of the good Samaritan, why did Jesus pick a Samaritan to tell this story? What was the Jewish attitude toward the Samaritans?

So, what about this parable, in answer to who is my neighbor, perhaps we could say, who is a Christian—

A ship was sailing from US to England and hit an iceberg. The ship is sinking and people are frantic for seats on the lifeboats. The last lifeboat is about to be lowered over the side, completely full, when a child is discovered still on the sinking ship. A priest refuses to give up his seat, a pastor and theology professor also refuse, but a homosexual man, who lived an active homosexual life, gets off the lifeboat and gives his seat to the boy. Who, in the parable is the Christian—the one who is like Christ?

- By this all men will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another.” Jn 13:35
- Greater love has no one than this, that he lay down his life for his friends. Jn 15:13
- This is how we know what love is: Jesus Christ laid down his life for us. And we ought to lay down our lives for our brothers. 1Jn 3:16

WEDNESDAY

What is the responsibility of human beings to care for the earth? Do we have a responsibility to care for the lower life forms? Do we have a responsibility to not pollute?

What has contributed to the massive pollution in the world today? When did pollution start?

Historians suggest pollution began with the industrial revolution, when items we use became increasingly disposable and prepackaged. Commercialization, with branding and packaging to enhance marketing, with disposable packages has contributed to huge garbage and waste in our societies today.

Studies found that in America, the average American throws away between 4.4 and 7 pounds of trash per day. That is basically one ton of trash per person per year we throw away—this is non-recyclable waste.

THURSDAY

The Restoring Role of the Church—what do you understand the role of the church to be?

- Would it be to convert people to a particular denomination?
- Would it be to get people to behave in certain ways?
- Would it be to get people to participate in certain rituals?
- Would it be to get people to attest to certain creeds?
- Would it be to help restore the image of God in humanity?

Is the church to be involved in helping restore the image of God in humankind?

How? What actions specifically can the church take to help restore the image of God in man?

- Present the truth about God's character of love, His methods of love, His law of love in the setting of the Great Controversy over His character
- Schools to educate people, so they learn in the right context
- Present reality, design reality, not imperialism
- To minister God's love in helping others—missions, health care, community services etc. etc.
- To create places of community where we can worship and fellowship and live lives in harmony with God's design

Dark section 2/3 of the way down the page, "How did the apostle John describe the reason Christ appeared on this earth?"

- The thief comes only to steal and kill and destroy; I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full. Jn 10:10

How do we have life to the full? Only restored back to harmony with God's design!

- The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work. 1Jn 3:8

What is the devil's work?

The life of Christ is to be revealed in humanity. Man was the crowning act of the creation of God, made in the image of God, and designed to be a counterpart of God; but Satan has labored to obliterate the image of God in man, and to imprint upon him his own image. Man is very dear to God, because he was formed in His own image. . . {LHU 48.2}

Jesus destroyed the devil's work, how? By restoring God's image in humankind!

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

The God-Shaped Brain is now available in Korean and is available at this website:
http://book.naver.com/bookdb/book_detail.nhn?bid=9519886

The Remedy* – Dr. Jennings’ New Testament Paraphrase—FREE for ios and android systems.

The Remedy—Is Now Available in Print Version in the US. We have printed 10,000 to give away and will reassess demand for them after those are gone. We are shipping a small number to Canada and Australia. How to get copies: In the US email orders@comeandreason.com with a valid US postal address; In Canada email canada@comeandreason.com and in Australia/New Zealand email Australia@comeandreason.com and request the number you want and we will ship them to you. If you are giving them away please give them only to people who want them. In other words, don’t put one at every seat in the church, or place setting at a potluck, or car in a parking lot. Such distribution methods result in vast numbers being thrown away. Let people know they are free and allow them to take one if they want too works best.

The Journal of the Watcher is now available as a HARD COVER book at Amazon as well as a movie in itunes for everyone without ios or android in itunes. It is also available as an APP for Apple and Android devices.

Thursday, June 9 at 1:30 PM Eastern Time Dr. Jennings will appear on the Lifestyle Magazine show, “Healing The Mind” that he recorded previously. It is scheduled to air on the Trinity Broadcasting Network (TBN). Keep in mind that TBN can preempt the show at their discretion.

October 14-16: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Drakensville, South Africa Campmeeting.

October 19, 20: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Ladismith South Africa (venue to be determined)

October 21, 22: Dr. Jennings will be speaking in Cape Town, South Africa

The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 3 3Q 2016 Justice and Mercy in the Old Testament: Part I

I received this email this week:

I recently ordered 3 of The Remedy for my family. I had been using it on line since AACC (Nashville) last year. I tell people that I finally have a New Testament in my own language. For example, the frequent use of the word "selfishness" instead of "sin" really gets my attention. As a Mennonite Christian, I also agree that various things went wrong in connection with Constantine. I will give and use the 24 copies at church for the men's bible study, my Sunday School class, and church leaders. I will also send a donation to help with the free things that you do. Thank you. Iowa

Following up from last week's lesson -- we discussed Quantum Mechanics and how we are connected in ways that defy Newtonian physics. Beyond Quantum theory is string theory, which postulates that everything in the universe is made up of tiny vibrating strings. These strings are identical, but why then does one string manifest as a heavy particle like a proton and another as a particle without mass like a photon (light)? It has to do with the vibration frequency. The more energy in the string the more mass it has. Strings are so small that if a silver dollar was magnified to be the size of our solar system, a string would be the size of a tree.

Do you find this a little too bizarre to think it could be real? Consider this quote from EGW:

The striking feature of divine operations is the accomplishment of the greatest work that can be done in our world by very simple means. It is God's plan that every part of His government shall depend on every other part, the whole as a wheel within a wheel, working with entire harmony. He moves upon human forces, causing His Spirit to touch invisible chords, and the vibration rings to the extremity of the universe.--Manuscript 22, 1897. {Ev 93.1}

What about healing from prayer, could it be that we are mobilizing these chords, the strings, with intention based on love that can actually result in altering DNA in the recipient of prayer and result in healing?

An interesting study was done by Dr. Rollin McCraty and colleagues. They had individuals trained to focus their intention with love and goodwill. They took human DNA from placentas and had the trained individuals focus with love and good will on vials containing the human DNA with the intention to either have the DNA wind itself tighter or to unwind looser. This can be measured by how much UV light the vials absorb. The more tightly wound the more light is absorbed. They were able to measure a 25% change in DNA conformation from these mental intention.

Now it gets more interesting—when the individuals would generate the same feelings of love and good will, but not focus attention on changing the DNA configuration, no change in the DNA occurred. And even more profound—when they focused intention but without love and goodwill, no DNA change occurred. It required both a focused intention AND the mobilization of love and goodwill emotions. How could they tell if the participants were generating love and goodwill emotions? By measuring heart rate variability, love emotions produce coherence, whereas hate, anger, negative emotions produce large fluctuations.

In a follow on study, to determine if this was perhaps a general electromagnetic field effect, or something that was more focused. Researchers had three vials with the DNA placed side by side and had the participants focus on changing the DNA conformation in two of the vials, but not the third—and—only the two the participants focused on showed the DNA change. Finally, researches had five different experiments in which the DNA vials were a half mile from the participants, and the same DNA changes occurred when the participants focused with intent and love. All of these studies reached statistical significant levels of change. (McCraty, 2003 Modulation of DNA conformation by heart-focused intention p. 6, Boulder Creek, CA: Institute of HeartMath)

Elizabeth Targ, MD, PhD conducted a study to measure the impact of remote (long distance, never having met the patient) prayer on terminally ill AIDS patients. She had the faith healers presented with a patient's photo, name and T-helper cell count. They took great pains to ensure that the no patient in the study new who were being prayed for and who was not being prayed for by these specific spiritual healers.

Six months later those who received remote healing prayer showed improved mood, significantly less doctor visits, fewer hospitalizations, fewer days in the hospital, higher T-helper cell counts, fewer AIDS defining illnesses, and significantly lower HIV viral levels. (Western Journal of Medicine 1998, 168(6), 356.)

This would mean that DNA changes were occurring in a myriad of various genes producing a host of proteins throughout the body—from the focused intention of prayers of goodwill.

In another study researchers placed cancer patients in Faraday cages, electro-magnetically shielded rooms, and even used fiber optic monitors so no metal wires were inside the room. Then they had either spouse or close friends focus healing intention to the cancer patient in the Faraday cage in 10 second bursts, randomly chosen by computer. During those 10 second bursts of healing intention they could measure changes in skin conductivity in the cancer patients, which corresponded with activation of the autonomic nervous system. (Explore: Journal of Science and Healing 2008, 4(4), 235.)

The point is that we are all connected, we are beings composed of more than just matter, we are living beings with real energy, but also with free will. We can choose, and our choices do impact the world around us. Our thoughts, our beliefs, our heart felt intentions actual cause quantum changes in the world around us.

Now, what do you think of that EGW quote?

What about in James, “the prayer of a righteous person avails much”—what does it mean to be a righteous man? It is a person who is right in heart with God, which means a person who loves—not persons who do right rituals, but have no love. It is the love in the heart with intention that connects the universe. We can only be connected with God when we come back to the truth about His character of love and open our heart to His love!

SABBATH

What does the title of the lesson bring to your mind?

Is there a difference between justice and mercy? What is the difference?

What law lens do you view justice and mercy through?

What is justice through the human imposed law lens—law that has no inherent consequence for breaking, but requires external punishment? What is justice in this view? It is punishing law breakers.

And in the human imposed law lens, what is mercy? Finding some way not to punish them—one dictionary definition of mercy is:

“the discretionary power of a judge to pardon someone or to mitigate punishment, especially to send to prison rather than invoke the death penalty.”

So, level four and below thinking, justice is the infliction of just punishments whereas mercy is the pardoning of the just punishment. This level of thinking, with this view of law leads to the theory of penal substitution, the idea that God is just in punishing sin, but merciful to sinners because God punished Jesus instead of us so that both justice and mercy can be achieve. This is all based on a failure to understand God’s law and how God’s universe actually works.

More pointedly, this penal substitution view is based on Satan’s view of God’s law, that God’s law is no different functionally than the laws created beings make, rules requiring coercive enforcement. Thus, penal views of God supports Satan’s attack on God that God is no better than created beings. Something Satan has alleged all along.

But, God is the Creator, the Builder of space, time, matter, energy, life. His laws are the protocols upon which all reality is constructed to operate upon. Thus deviations from God’s laws are terminal to the deviant.

With this level of thinking in mind, what is justice?

- The sustaining of all the laws upon which life is built, which includes the law of love and liberty, which results in God granting people genuine freedom.

But, what then is the just course to take for those deviant from God's law?

- To grant them the freedom to reap what they have sown.

But, that would be death, so where does mercy come in?

- Mercy is God intervening to provide a free Remedy, which will restore all who choose to partake, back to God's original design, back to harmony with His law, while leaving all who reject the Remedy free to reap what they have chosen, which is death.

With this in mind, are justice and mercy different? Or are they, in reality, expressions of the same process—love—and love always does what is right and love always does what is merciful!

How?

If you saw your child dying from liver failure from years of alcohol abuse, yet you had the ability to provide a remedy that would save their life and restore them to perfect health, including victory over their alcoholism, would you do it? Would it be just, or right, if you had the ability to provide such a remedy to your child, for you to do so? Would it also be merciful?

But what if your child, even though you have provided this remedy, refuses to take it? What then?

What then is the just or right action to take? Would you need to inflict torture, beat them, or execute them? Or, in a universe of love, would justice require one to harmonize with the law of liberty, and thus leave them free to die of their disease?

And, if you did allow them to die, when you had a cure, but they refused the cure, would allowing them to die also be the merciful thing to do? Or would it be more merciful to use artificial means to keep them alive in a state of pain and suffering?

When we come back to design law we can see how God is love and how God is always just and always merciful to both the righteous and the wicked.

Here is a description of what happens to the wicked at the end of time from a book called The Great Controversy. Notice what is being described, go past declaratives to what is actually happening and see if you see justice and mercy, and if so what is justice and mercy?

God has given to men a declaration of His character and of His method of dealing with sin.
[what do you think that declaration is?] "The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty." [What do you hear? What is His method? Why will God not clear the guilty? What law lens do you see it through, imposed or design?] Exodus 34:6, 7. "All the wicked will He destroy." "The transgressors shall be destroyed together: the end of the wicked shall be cut off." Psalm 145:20; 37:38. The power and authority of the divine government will be employed to put down rebellion; yet all the manifestations of retributive justice will be perfectly consistent with the character of God as a merciful, long-suffering, benevolent being. {GC 541.2}

What does this mean? Do you hear retributive justice and think using power to inflict harm, pain, punishment? This would be level four and below thinking. The power and authority of the divine government will be employed—used—to put down rebellion. What is God's means, methods, power? Yes God's power, but the power of love, truth and freedom. Notice what is described in the following paragraphs...

God does not force the will or judgment of any. He takes no pleasure in a slavish obedience. He desires that the creatures of His hands shall love Him because He is worthy of love. [If this is true, can God then be the source of inflicted suffering, punishment and death? Is it possible to get free decisions, uncoerced choices, and love by threatening to kill those who don't choose what you want them to choose? Level 4 and below cannot harmonize these two paragraphs, level 6 and 7 can] He would have them obey Him because they have an intelligent appreciation of His wisdom, justice, and benevolence. [What reason would God have us obey? Not fear of punishment, but appreciation of His character of love, which cannot exist if God is the source of inflicted punishment. It is Satan's view that God must punish sin because it undermines love.] And all who have a just conception of these qualities will love Him because they are drawn toward Him in admiration of His attributes. {GC 541.3}

The principles of kindness, mercy, and love, taught and exemplified by our Saviour, are a transcript of the will and character of God. [What are the principles of God's character? Do these principles coerce, compel, or torture?] Christ declared that He taught nothing except that which He had received from His Father. The principles of the divine government are in perfect harmony with the Saviour's precept, "Love your enemies." [Does love seek to inflict pain and suffering to punish? But notice what is describe next as love for our enemies] God executes justice upon the wicked, for the good of the universe, and even for the good of those upon whom His judgments are visited. [What is justice? Doing what is right, under what law? Design law, which is the law of love, which means God wants to minimize pain, minimize suffer, heal all who will let him, but ultimately to stop the torment of those who wont allow Him to heal them. Thus, God's justice is like the parent whose child is in liver failure and refuses to be healed, the parent does seek to prolong and protract the suffering, but to allow the suffering to end. Notice what is described next.] He would make them happy if He could do so in accordance with the laws of His government and the justice of His character. [Why can't God make them happy? Because they refuse to participate in His methods, they refuse to allow Him to heal them.] He surrounds them with the tokens of His love, He grants them a knowledge of His law, and follows them with the offers of His mercy; but they despise His love, make void His law, and reject His mercy. [How do they make void His law? By replacing it with a false law—imposed law. Think how sad it will be for those legal Sabbath keepers who wouldn't enter Pilates house while they sought to kill Jesus. Law keepers, but the wrong law, how many today are in the same situation?] While constantly receiving His gifts, they dishonor the Giver; they hate God because they know that He abhors their sins. The Lord bears long with their perversity; but the decisive hour will come at last, when their destiny is to be decided. [what determines their destiny? Is it a judicial finding in a heavenly court, or the choice of the sinner to permanently harden their heart to the work of the Holy Spirit?] Will He then chain these rebels to His side? Will He force them to do His will? [These are rhetorical questions, meaning that God will not do this, which means He cannot be the source of inflicted punishment and death] {GC 541.4}

Those who have chosen Satan as their leader and have been controlled by his power are not prepared to enter the presence of God. [Why? What does this mean?] Pride, deception, licentiousness, cruelty, have become fixed in their characters. [How did it become fixed? Who fixed it there? If God “judges” their characters fixed, does He make it fixed or is God's judgment the accurate diagnosis of what they have chosen to do to themselves?] Can they enter heaven to dwell forever with those whom they despised and hated on earth? Truth will never be agreeable to a liar; meekness will not satisfy self-esteem and pride; purity is not acceptable to the corrupt; disinterested love does not appear attractive to the selfish. What source of enjoyment could heaven offer to those who are wholly absorbed in earthly and selfish interests? {GC 542.1}

Could those whose lives have been spent in rebellion against God be suddenly transported to heaven and witness the high, the holy state of perfection that ever exists there,— every soul filled with love, every countenance beaming with joy, enrapturing music in melodious strains rising in honor of God and the Lamb, and ceaseless streams of light flowing upon the redeemed from the face of Him who sitteth upon the throne,—could those whose hearts are filled with hatred of God, of truth and holiness, mingle with the heavenly throng and join their songs of praise? Could they endure the glory of God and the Lamb? No, no; [Why not? Because God uses divine power to prevent them, to torture them, to inflict harm upon them, or is their condition is incompatible with God's design for life?] years of probation were granted them, that they might form characters for heaven; but they have never trained the mind to love purity; they have never learned the language of heaven, and now it is too late. A life of rebellion against God has unfitted them for heaven. [Why are they unfit? Is it that they don't have the right legal payment in record books, or is it something actually within them? Notice why they are not fit] Its purity, holiness, and peace would be torture to them; the glory of God would be a consuming fire. [This is huge, what do they experience as torture? Purity, holiness and peace! Is this God using His power to cause pain, to inflict suffering, is there something coming out from God other than goodness, mercy, love and truth? It is their condition which experiences goodness as pain, purity as torment, holiness and suffering. The torture happens because of sin in them, not as an infliction from God!] They would long to flee from that holy place. They would welcome destruction, that they might be hidden from the face of Him who died to redeem them. [What do the wicked actually want? Separation from God! Why do they want it? To be at peace, to stop their suffering; So, in this situation what is the just action for God to take, what is the merciful action for God to take? Is there a difference between justice and mercy? Notice the next sentences] The destiny of the wicked is fixed by their own choice. Their exclusion from heaven is voluntary with themselves, and just and merciful on the part of God. {GC 542.2}

Like the waters of the Flood the fires of the great day declare God's verdict that the wicked are incurable. [This is design law, this is justice and mercy, and justice and mercy rightly understood is always an expression of God's character of love and does the same thing] {GC 543.1}

Read memory text, "He upholds..." Do you see justice here is healing, restoring, delivering those oppressed not punishing the oppressors?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Even in early Israel..." How do we understand justice? God's justice only works when we love others more than self. When we are selfish, then we immediately think about our rights, what is important to us and ours.

Keith Johnson is an online friend, who has worked for years in prison ministry teaching inmates about God's design law, helping them to move past imposed law constructs of right, wrong and justice. He developed four questions to help them understand more clearly what justice is from God's viewpoint.

1. What if I told you that your youngest child was murdered? Would you want mercy or justice for the perpetrator?
2. What if I told you that the murderer was your oldest child? Would you want mercy or justice for the perpetrator?
3. What if I told you that you are guilty of the murder of the only begotten Son of God? Would you want mercy or justice as the perpetrator?
4. What if I told you that you had a daughter, your only daughter, the apple of your eye, who has never given you a moment's grief, but tonight, as her father, you happen to have your tux hanging in the closet, because tomorrow you are scheduled to walk your daughter down the aisle and give her away to someone whom you approve? If you're the mother, you have your new dress hanging next to her wedding gown that you have been planning and preparing for since the first time she held her in her arms. But tonight, your daughter is at a bachelorette party with her peers and they talk her into having “one-for-the-road,” the first ever in her life. Two, three, four, five, six, seven (drinks) later, while on her way home, she wipes out a school bus full of little children on their way to camp. Everybody aboard the bus dies in a fiery inferno, but you daughter survives. Do you want mercy or justice for your daughter (?) and...what do those who are related to the victims who were on the bus want?

Human justice is based on human law—imposed rules, and is motivated by selfishness and seeks vengeance under the name justice. The selfish heart has an ingrained sense of justice, but which in reality is nothing more than vengeance, and which is easily exposed because such ‘justice’ is sought only so long as it doesn’t apply to them or theirs.

Justice in God’s universe is entirely different. God’s justice always seeks to deliver, heal, restore, set right, fix, and save everyone who will allow God to do so. It is the justice of love—the law of God upon which God’s government runs.

MONDAY

The lesson points us to consider the Sabbath and justice—how does the Sabbath connect with justice?

The lesson points out three types of Sabbath:

- Weekly Sabbath
- Sabbath years when the land was not plowed or sown with seed
- Year of Jubilee when property returned to families and slaves set free

What do we learn about justice from these Sabbaths? What principles are being taught?

The weekly Sabbath—what is being taught here? Is this imposed law or design law?

Is the primary element of the Sabbath avoiding physical labor, or in remembering, focusing the mind, thinking, attending to God, strengthening our relationship with Him. Are the injunctions about not working, not primarily about the expenditure of energy, but about distractions for the mind, about minimizing those things which would occupy our minds and interfere with our remembering God and connecting with Him?

If the primary purpose of the Sabbath is to help us remember something, what is it to help us remember? The lesson suggests God as Creator and Redeemer, okay, upon what type of law is creation built? Thus to remember our Creator, means to remember design law, to worship the Builder, to reject dictator views of God, and what about redemption? How is our redemption achieved? Is it not by Christ actually fixing what Adam did, by Christ not only revealing truth to destroy lies and win to trust, but developing a perfect human character that He offers freely to all who will accept? This is also design law!

Thus the weekly Sabbath is design law, a signpost to remind us God is not arbitrary, and His laws are not rules that He must enforce with punishments.

What about the yearly Sabbath—design law or imposed law? Design law, the nitrogen cycle, allowing the land to lay fallow to restore nitrogen to the soil so that the land will continue to produce a bountiful crop.

What about the year of Jubilee, design law of imposed law?

Some might say imposed as the issues of slavery, land ownership are all imposed contracts and laws. And, it certainly entailed application of a code for imposed type rules, but what is the basis of all of it? The law of love! Which is about restoring people, not arbitrary rules, thus it is also the working out of God's design for life. The Jubilee was an object lesson of how God is working to set us free from the slavery of sin and restore us to our Eden home!

TUESDAY

Read memory verse at top of lesson, "Speak up for..." Do we see again justice is delivering the oppressed, not punishing the oppressor?

Read last paragraph, "Though, of course..." What does it look like to worship God while neglecting those in need?

- Any form of coercive religion—Dark Ages, inquisition, crusades, or Taliban and ISIS today?
- What about cruelty to any group?

If we want to help people in need do we first need to understand their need?

How do we balance helping people in need with Paul's admonishment to the Thessalonians:

For even when we were with you, we gave you this rule: "If a man will not work, he shall not eat." 2Thes 3:10

If we see someone hungry, does that mean we should automatically give them food? Or do the circumstances matter?

Would a job be more valuable to them than a mere handout of a meal? Why? What would a job, for those who are capable of work, provide that a meal would not?

Could handouts to those who are capable actually harm? How?

How do we find the balance?

What do you do if you realize someone needs a job, but they refuse to work and they prefer the life of living off other people's charity—when they are capable of working?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson asks us to read Isaiah 58:3-14:

³ 'Why have we fasted,' they say,
'and you have not seen it?'

Why have we humbled ourselves, and you have not noticed?'

"Yet on the day of your fasting, you do as you please and exploit all your workers.

⁴ Your fasting ends in quarreling and strife, and in striking each other with wicked fists.
You cannot fast as you do today and expect your voice to be heard on high.

⁵ Is this the kind of fast I have chosen, only a day for a man to humble himself?
Is it only for bowing one's head like a reed and for lying on sackcloth and ashes?
Is that what you call a fast,
a day acceptable to the LORD?

⁶ "Is not this the kind of fasting I have chosen: to loose the chains of injustice and untie the cords of the yoke, to set the oppressed free and break every yoke?

⁷ Is it not to share your food with the hungry and to provide the poor wanderer with shelter—

when you see the naked, to clothe him, and not to turn away from your own flesh and blood?

⁸ Then your light will break forth like the dawn, and your healing will quickly appear;
then your righteousness will go before you,
and the glory of the LORD will be your rear guard...

¹³ "If you keep your feet from breaking the Sabbath and from doing as you please on my holy day, if you call the Sabbath a delight and the LORD's holy day honorable, and if you honor it by not going your own way and not doing as you please or speaking idle words,

¹⁴ then you will find your joy in the LORD, and I will cause you to ride on the heights of the land and to feast on the inheritance of your father Jacob."

The mouth of the LORD has spoken.

What do you hear? Is this level two—make a deal with God, if we do this then God does that? Or is this level 6/7 design law, how things actually work, the more you give the more you receive. As you exercise you get stronger?

Can you actually experience the blessings God has by doing the work, but not enjoying it? Why or why not?

What is it God wants for us? Transformation of heart/character, and this only happens when our hearts have the right motivation for the action, it is not in the actions itself.

THURSDAY

The lesson is about the church being a force of good in the community. About helping those who don't have a voice to help themselves. How can the church do this?

The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 4 3Q 2016 Justice and Mercy in the Old Testament: Part 2

SABBATH

Can anyone recap for us what we discussed last week about Justice and Mercy?

What is Justice? What is Mercy? Are they different? What law lens do you view it through?

What is the typical, common, view of justice? Punishment—why is this the common view? Because it is through the law lens of sinful beings—the imposed law lens which requires coercive enforcement. So, this idea leads us to think justice requires broken law to have punishment inflicted.

But, what is justice in God's kingdom of love—through design law lens? Doing what is right—which is what? Healing all who will allow it, and setting free those who reject healing to their own choice, which is what?

What is mercy under imposed law? Setting aside punishment—which is transmuted in Christian thought for those still operating upon the infection of imposed law to God actually punishing an innocent in the place of the guilty so God can let the guilty off.

But what is mercy in design law? God through Christ mercifully sacrificing Himself to provide the cure, the remedy, the needed treatment to heal and restore those who will allow Him!

SUNDAY

Alive in Christ—what does this mean? What does it mean to be “in” Christ?

I was doing some research on this concept and came across this in the book Evangelism:

It is not orthodox theories, not membership in the church, not the diligent performance of a certain round of duties, that gives evidence of life. In an ancient tower in Switzerland I saw the image of a man that moved as if it possessed life. It looked like a living man, and I whispered when I came near, as if it could hear me. But though the image looked like life, it had no real life. It was moved by machinery. {Ev 116.6}

Motion is not necessarily life. We may go through all the forms and ceremonies of religion; but unless we are alive in Christ, our work is worthless. The Lord calls for living, working, believing Christians.-- Review and Herald, April 21, 1903. {Ev 117.1}

What do you hear? Do you agree? What is being suggested that is required to be alive in Christ?

What about this quotation from one of the founders of the SDA church?

The fourth chapter of Ephesians contains instruction which we should all heed. After speaking of the need of unity, the apostle says, "That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive; but speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Christ." To speak the truth in love means to walk in the truth, to practice the truth in the transactions of life, to walk worthy of the vocation wherewith we are called, doing works which correspond to the elevating influence of the truth. It means to have a faith which works by love and purifies the soul, making us alive in Christ. It means to have in the soul the living water, which Christ gives and which springs up unto everlasting life. {3MR 59.2}

What do you hear? Did you hear from Ephesian we are “grow up”—would being alive involve growth? If one doesn’t grow up, which means develop, mature then would that be a sign of going through the mechanical motions of life but not being alive?

What does it mean to grow up? Does it mean to think for oneself, to reason, to weigh evidences? Remember Hebrews 5:14, “the mature are those who have developed by practice the ability to discern the right from the wrong”?

What is the living water? The living water is the principle upon which life is built, which is what? It is love! Unless we have love in our hearts we are not alive. In order to be alive we must speak the truth in love, truth and love are the prevailing powers in God’s government and to be alive in Christ means we have hearts that love the truth.

This sounds good, but it is not natural. The natural position of the human heart is to lie—lie to self, to deceive oneself, to distort the truth, to deny. What does Scripture say?

The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it? Jer 17:9 NKJV

What does this mean? Why is the heart deceitful? In what way?

The heart deceives about our own condition, the selfish heart doesn’t want to look in the mirror, the sinful heart doesn’t want to see its defects—why?

- Fear—fear of failure—don’t want the responsibility to make the decision, what if it is the wrong one?
- Fear of rejection—what if I offend someone?

- Fear of inadequacy, guilt, shame—fear of our own defects in character, mistakes—people couldn't love us if they knew how defective we are. So we deny, distort project, because we don't want to look into the mirror of truth and see ourselves as we are.

The false law construct inflames this fear and causes more deception, and obstructs the truth. Those who believe in the false law construct, the idea that sin must be punished, are afraid—they fear there might be some sin that will keep them out of heaven, something they have forgotten to confess. They fear if people really knew their secret sins they would not be loved, would be rejected, would be punished because the just thing to do is to punish defects and sin—in that false model. Thus their theologies deny truth and obstruct God's healing:

- Sins confessed erased from history and no one will know
- God can't see me if I am covered by the robe of righteousness

This is why those in this view reject the integrative evidence based approach, which requires the harmony of Scripture, Science and Experience. Because science and experience—how life actually works—when harmonized with Scripture make it much harder to deny truth. But when Scripture is used detached from science and experience the Scripture itself can be twisted and used to perpetuate deceit.

Consider this quote sent by Mark Cox this week:

"A true experience will be in perfect harmony with natural and divine law. False experience will array itself against science and the principles of Jehovah." { 3T 72.2 }

Wow—did you hear that? Those whose theologies array against science, design law, the integrative evidence based approach, according to this author, have a false experience, they are living in a distorted understanding of how reality works!

And if they are denying reality, they are not growing in truth, and if a person is not growing then would that mean they are not alive in Christ?

Being alive in Christ doesn't mean one knows all truth, for we will never know all truth, it means we have hearts that love God, other and also love truth, that we have minds that are hungry and eager to grow in truth and we have not set up mental blockades that obstruct the truth so that we advance, develop and mature in Christlikeness.

Read last three paragraphs, "Our acceptance with God is sure..." What does it mean that our acceptance with God is sure only through Jesus?

Traditional answers are that Jesus paid the price and that only the innocent blood of the Son could satisfy God's justice and assuage His wrath. Or, that only the blood of Jesus is the proper offering, gift, legal payment, necessary to present to God to get God to accept us. And that to be accepted with God a person has to make a specific legal declaration of acceptance of Jesus' payment for their sins—and if someone doesn't do this they cannot be saved.

What about Romans 2:12-14:

All who sin apart from the law [the knowledge of Scripture] will also perish apart from the law, and all who sin under the law will be judged by the law. ¹³ For it is not those who hear the law who are righteous in God's sight, but it is those who obey the law who will be declared righteous. ¹⁴ (Indeed, when Gentiles, who do not have the law, do by nature things required by the law, they are a law for themselves, even though they do not have the law, ¹⁵ since they show that the requirements of the law are written on their hearts, their consciences also bearing witness, and their thoughts now accusing, now even defending them.)

What is the new covenant?

This is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel after that time, declares the Lord.

I will put my laws in their minds and write them on their hearts.

I will be their God, and they will be my people. Heb 8:10

So, those who have never heard Scripture have the law written on the heart, would be part of the new covenant experience, yet they haven't heard about the new covenant—how is that possible?

Impose law constructs, which are false, get stuck on this because in their view the legal process requires the intelligent acceptance of the legal payment. Someone has to come to Jesus, say the sinners prayer, legally get accounted in the ledgers of heaven etc. etc. They see it through the false law of a human court system.

However, when we view it through Design Law, and remember God as Creator, then we realize sin is deviation from God's design, lawlessness, outside His construction protocols. And we are all suffering from the same defective condition. We realize that God loved us too much to allow us to die in this condition without providing a Remedy that cures, heals, saves. Thus, Jesus came to be sin for us so that we can be restored to righteousness, or set right, or healed.

Therefore, Jesus procures the Remedy, which is a perfect character, which the Holy Spirit applies to the hearts and minds of all who allow it.

So, as an example, if we have people dying from anthrax infection, and an antibiotic called ciprofloxacin (cipro for short) is the cure and all who take it will live: Do people have to call it cipro to benefit from taking it? What happens if they call it rose water, or jungle juice, or Buddhas delight, or Muhammad's magic—will calling it some other name change the effectiveness of the antibiotic?

On the other hand, what happens if they take something they are told is cipro, but is actually a counterfeit, either nothing but plant fiber, or even something toxic like more anthrax—what happens if they call anthrax cipro?

Likewise, if people cherish and embrace truth and Godly love, and follow truth and Godly love the Holy Spirit takes what Christ achieves and transforms those people, writing God's law back on their hearts/characters. They are being healed by what Christ achieved, even if they don't know about Christ.

But whenever people choose to deny truth, say no to truth, they obstruct the working of the Holy Spirit, they stop the healing process, regardless of their religion. So people who use the name Jesus, but promote selfishness, elitism, bigotry, including denominational prejudice, denying truth, clinging to ritual without enlightenment, living in fear of judgment and punishment—they are not partaking of Jesus, but promoting the counterfeit.

Consider this quotation from the book The Desire of Ages. In my opinion this author has it right:

Those whom Christ commends in the judgment may have known little of theology, but they have cherished His principles. [Where would they have discovered God's principles to cherished if they had no theological instruction? From nature and real life experience via the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit!] Through the influence of the divine Spirit they have been a blessing to those about them. Even among the heathen are those who have cherished the spirit of kindness; before the words of life had fallen upon their ears, they have befriended the missionaries, even ministering to them at the peril of their own lives. [selfless love manifest in their hearts before Scripture presented—how? Only because of Jesus' work being applied by the Holy Spirit, even though they don't know its source they value its rightness] Among the heathen are those who worship God ignorantly, those to whom the light is never brought by human instrumentality, yet they will not perish. Though ignorant of the written law of God, they have heard His voice speaking to them in nature, and have done the things that the law required. Their works are evidence that the Holy Spirit has touched their hearts, and they are recognized as the children of God. {DA 638.2}

Now, is it possible for such heathen to be transformed to love others without Jesus? No! Jesus is the means whereby God introduces His law, methods, presence back into the human species. Jesus developed the Remedy to our condition, which the Holy Spirit applies.

Here is another quote from the same book:

The Holy Spirit was the highest of all gifts that He [Jesus] could solicit from His Father for the exaltation of His people. The Spirit was to be given as a regenerating agent, and without this the sacrifice of Christ would have been of no avail. The power of evil had been strengthening for centuries, and the submission of men to this satanic captivity was amazing. Sin could be resisted and overcome only through the mighty agency of the Third Person of the Godhead, who would come with no modified energy, but in the fullness of divine power. It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer. It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature. Christ has given His Spirit as a divine power to overcome all hereditary and cultivated tendencies to evil, and to impress His own character upon His church. {DA 671.2}

Jesus developed a perfect character—the Holy Spirit reproduces that divine nature/character in all who trust Him and let Him do His work in us!

What does it mean that we are accepted through the merits of Christ alone? What do you understand merits to be? Is it legal payment or is it meritorious achievement?

Would it make more sense if it said, “We are restored to harmony with God through the achievements of Christ alone?” or “We are healed through the Remedy achieved by Christ alone?”

But what about James, faith without works is dead? If it is by grace through faith we are saved, and only through what Jesus accomplished and our works play no role in our salvation, then what about faith without works is dead?

What is faith?

Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. Heb 11:1 NKJV

The Greek for substance is: hypostasis

- Hypo = under or below
 - Hypoglycemic (low blood sugar)
 - Hypotension (low blood pressure)
 - Hypodermic (injection under the skin)
- Stasis = Standing

Translated to Latin as Substance

- Sub = under or below
 - Subway
 - Subterranean
 - Submarine

- Stance = Standing

Translated to English Faith is our under-standing

Understanding has two meanings first, comprehension, we do have to comprehend before we can have faith, but in the Bible sense this alone is not faith. Bible faith includes the next part.

Imagine you had fractured your leg, and in the ER, the orthopedic surgeon meets you and says, “I can set the bone in your leg, but I need your permission. And after the surgery you will need to take antibiotics for five days and then go to physical therapy—do we have an understanding?”

What happens if you say yes to the surgeon, but you don’t take your antibiotics or do physical therapy? Your understanding, your faith, is dead, it doesn’t result in the healing outcome. Why? Because your healing requires your active participation. But does your participation heal set the bone, produce the antibiotic, or even provide the life energy which causes the cells to knit themselves back together? But will your refusal to participate obstruct all the healing energy, resources, and remedies coming from the doctor?

Now, if you take your antibiotics are you healing yourself? Or does the antibiotics do something you can’t do for yourself? But do you still have to take them, apply them to your life?

Understanding, also means an agreement—and what is the agreement with have with God?

We agree or trust God with our hearts/minds/characters to heal and transform us, but we must be active participants to apply His methods to our lives as we comprehend them. We do not procure the Remedy, we do not make the transforming changes in our own character, but we must choose to grant God permission and choose to align ourselves with God’s plan and this results in healing.

We must do this because only by our active choosing do we embrace and internalize the healing power of God. God cannot, by force, by divine power, inflict, inject, insert, impose His healing power into our minds/hearts/characters because do to so would destroy our individuality and we would no longer be us. The only way, in God’s universe of genuine love and freedom is for us sinful beings to choose to partake of what Jesus has procured for us!

Here is another quote from the same book:

In the work of redemption there is no compulsion. No external force is employed. Under the influence of the Spirit of God, man is left free to choose whom he will serve. In the change that takes place when the soul surrenders to Christ, there is the highest sense of freedom. The expulsion of sin is the act of the soul itself. True, we have no power to free ourselves from Satan's control; but when we desire to be set free from sin, and in our great need cry out for a power out of and above ourselves, the powers of the soul are imbued with the divine energy of the Holy Spirit, and they obey the dictates of the will in fulfilling the will of God.

{DA 466.4}

The lesson asks us to read Ezekiel 47:1-8:

The man brought me back to the entrance of the temple, and I saw water coming out from under the threshold of the temple toward the east (for the temple faced east). The water was coming down from under the south side of the temple, south of the altar. ² He then brought me out through the north gate and led me around the outside to the outer gate facing east, and the water was flowing from the south side.

³ As the man went eastward with a measuring line in his hand, he measured off a thousand cubits and then led me through water that was ankle-deep. ⁴ He measured off another thousand cubits and led me through water that was knee-deep. He measured off another thousand and led me through water that was up to the waist. ⁵ He measured off another thousand, but now it was a river that I could not cross, because the water had risen and was deep enough to swim in—a river that no one could cross. ⁶ He asked me, “Son of man, do you see this?”

Then he led me back to the bank of the river. ⁷ When I arrived there, I saw a great number of trees on each side of the river. ⁸ He said to me, “This water flows toward the eastern region and goes down into the Arabah, where it enters the Sea. When it empties into the Sea, the water there becomes fresh.

What do you think this means? Is it literal or symbolic?

What is the temple symbolic of? We are temples to God, individually and corporately—but, while we were created to be temples where God dwells, sin corrupted our beings so that we were no longer temples of God—something had to happen to cleanse the human temple, the temple had to be rebuilt.

Tell him this is what the Lord Almighty says: ‘Here is the man whose name is the Branch, and he will branch out from his place and build the temple of the Lord. ¹³ It is he who will build the temple of the Lord, and he will be clothed with majesty and will sit and rule on his throne. And he will be a priest on his throne. And there will be harmony between the two.’

The temple first and foremost represents Jesus, who when speaking of His body said, “destroy this temple and I will raise it in three days” and who cleansed humanity by His perfect life and selfless death. Secondly, it represents us individually and corporately.

What does the water represent? Remember Jesus’ discussion with the woman at the well? Is this symbolic of the water of life, which is what? Love—and from where does the water flow? From the Temple, which symbolically represents Jesus the source love and truth, the source of water of life. He is the source!

The water comes from the south side of the temple—Jesus came up from Egypt “So he [Joseph] got up, took the child and his mother during the night and left for Egypt, where he stayed until the death of Herod. And so was fulfilled what the Lord had said through the prophet: “Out of Egypt I called my son.” Mt 2:14,15 Where is Egypt in relationship to the temple? South!

To where is the water flowing? Into the desert which would represent what? The world without the truth and love of God, a world dying for lack of truth and love. The sea becomes fresh, what does this represent? What sea is east of the temple? This is the Dead Sea, the sea in which there is no life, the sea of selfishness, which symbolically represents the sea of selfish humanity inhabiting the world—dead in trespass and sin—terminal in our condition deviant from God’s design! But love and truth from God flows out from Christ and transforms the dead sea of humanity into living stones, built together into the house for the Lord!

TUESDAY

What do you think of the title, “The Church: A Source of Life.” I would feel more comfortable if it would have said, “The Church: A Conduit of Life” what do you think?

Jesus said to the woman at the well:

Jesus answered, “Everyone who drinks this water will be thirsty again, but whoever drinks the water I give him will never thirst. Indeed, the water I give him will become in him a spring of water welling up to eternal life.” Jn 3:13,14 emphasis mine

Jesus is the source of living water that we can partake of and that living water will transform us and flow out from us to others, but we are not the source are we?

Regarding the Church as a Conduit of life—what would the church communicate, deliver, and provide that would bring life? Would it not be the truth and love of God?

And what church is the conduit of life? Is it a specific denomination that is being referred to or is it the church invisible—the church made up of all those who are united with God in heart, mind, and spirit and are cooperating with God to provide God’s true healing Remedy?

Would the heathen referred to above, who is not a member of a denominational church, but doing what the law requires be part of the church that is the conduit of life?

Could this understanding give hope to people who have family members who don't belong to a denominational church? Is the question one of denominational affiliation, or being united with Jesus and on mission for Him?

Does that mean organized denominational churches are bad and we should avoid them? Of course not! Organization allows cooperation and support and growth and ability to achieve goals and reach people we could never do on our own. So organized denominational churches can do great good for God's cause—I just wanted to be clear that when it comes to salvation it is about unity with God in heart, mind, character not membership in a specific denominational system.

One evidence that a person is united with Christ in heart is that they are seeking to connect to people, to use their energy and resources to uplift, enlighten, enrich, heal, restore other human beings back to God's original design and intent for us. So, while membership in a specific denominational institution doesn't qualify for salvation, those who are growing with God will be increasingly engaged with others for the saving of souls.

WEDNESDAY

Read second paragraph, "Isaiah 61 begins with..." What does it mean to preach good news to the poor?

What is the good news and who are the poor?

- Would the good news be the good news about God and His methods of truth and love?
- Would it be the good news of a remedy for our condition?
- Would the poor be the same as the poor in spirit, the poor in the gold described in Revelation—the gold tried in the fire, the gold of a righteous character?
- And would the good news be that God is not only good, but He has provided richness, the gold of a perfect character freely for all who will accept it?

What does it mean to bind up the brokenhearted?

- Would it mean to create new hearts in people broken by sin and selfishness?
- Would it mean to circumcise the heart by the Spirit?
- Would it mean to write the law on the heart—which would mean to recreate the inner being to love others more than self?

Who are the captives and from what are they freed?

- Would they be people captive to fear, selfishness and sin?
- Would it be people captive in addictions?
- Would it be people in the bondage of destructive habits?
- Would freedom be free to love, free to live in harmony with God's design, to experience the last fruit of the Spirit—self-control?

Who are being released from darkness and despair?

- Would it be the darkness of misunderstanding about God, darkness about sin, about one's own condition, about what is necessary to be free?
- Would it be the darkness of the penal/legal system of appeasement and punishment?
- Would it be from all lies, distortions and misunderstandings, but primarily about God?

Well how? How is all of this accomplished and by whom?

THURSDAY

The lesson is focusing on Micah 6, so let's read versus 6-8:

With what shall I come before the Lord and bow down before the exalted God?
Shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves a year old?
⁷ Will the Lord be pleased with thousands of rams, with ten thousand rivers of oil?
Shall I offer my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?
⁸ He has showed you, O man, what is good.
And what does the Lord require of you?
To act justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with your God.

What do you hear? What is the message?

What did God want in OT times? Was it sacrifice? No, it was transformation of heart, renewal of character, which is always what God has wanted. It has never a legal problem with a legal solution, it was always a condition of being that needed curing/healing/transforming/renewing.

Read third paragraph, "Today God continues to reject..." What does it mean "God continues to reject"? Is it implying that God is deciding, determining, making a ruling on what constitutes true religion i.e. what is acceptable? Is that how it works?

Or is it that true religion is religion that is in harmony with God's design and methods for life whereas false religion violates God's design?

For instance, the practice of Corban in which during Christ's time people could mark their property to be given to the Temple at their death and thus this property was only used for themselves and they were not using their resources for others, including caring for their own family i.e. parents. Thus their religion caused them to violate the design protocols of love and institutionalized selfishness as something a virtue. Other ways selfishness becomes institutional religion?

- Fasting for effect—Christ called them on this one too
- Praying in public
- Giving offerings to be recognized
- Paying tithe so God will give you more

The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 5 3Q 2016 Jesus on Community Outreach

SABBATH

Read first two paragraphs, “Robert Louis Stevenson...” Nice image about poking holes in the darkness. The lesson is using the metaphor of darkness and light, in spiritual terms what is darkness and what is light?

Read John 1:1-9:

¹ In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. ² He was with God in the beginning.

³ Through him all things were made; without him nothing was made that has been made. ⁴ In him was life, and that life was the light of men. ⁵ The light shines in the darkness, but the darkness has not understood it.

⁶ There came a man who was sent from God; his name was John. ⁷ He came as a witness to testify concerning that light, so that through him all men might believe. ⁸ He himself was not the light; he came only as a witness to the light. ⁹ The true light that gives light to every man was coming into the world. John 1:1-9

What is the light? What is the darkness? Why don't people come into the light?

This is the verdict: Light has come into the world, but men loved darkness instead of light because their deeds were evil. ²⁰ Everyone who does evil hates the light, and will not come into the light for fear that his deeds will be exposed. ²¹ But whoever lives by the truth comes into the light, so that it may be seen plainly that what he has done has been done through God.” John 3:19-21

What does the light do to darkness? So, if the light is the light of truth and love and darkness is the darkness of lies and selfishness, what happens when the light shines into darkness?

What did Jesus mean when He said, “This is the verdict”? Is Jesus describing a judicial proceeding and a judicial finding by the judge? What is the “verdict”?

The verdict is a description of reality, what actually is the true condition of hearts and minds and how such hearts and mind react to the truth. This is not an infliction by God or a punishment by a judge. This is a great example of how God's judgment does work!

What is one of the great sources of physical light in the world? Sun, fire, flame, and how is the presence of God, who is the source of all truth and love, depicted or how does it appear? As pillar of fire, streams of fire, rivers of fire, tongues of fire—but it's not combustion? Is there some lesson in that?

What about this text, what do we learn?

“Surely the day is coming; it will burn like a furnace. All the arrogant and every evildoer will be stubble, and that day that is coming will set them on fire,” says the Lord Almighty. “Not a root or a branch will be left to them.”² But for you who revere my name, the sun of righteousness will rise with healing in its wings. And you will go out and leap like calves released from the stall. Malachi 4:1,2

Let's focus on the sun of righteousness, this is “sun” but to whom is it referring? What is it that extends out from the “sun”? Beams, it is not wings, but beams, the beams of light which extend out from the sun, and what are those beams extending out from the sun of righteousness? The beams of truth and love—and what do those beams do? They heal, those who cherish and assimilate truth and love.

Jesus said, “You will know the truth and the truth will set you free.” Jn 8:32 but only those who appreciate, accept and assimilate the truth, but what of those who reject the truth who call the truth a lie, does it heal them?

Also, notice how the sun of righteousness appears, the sun rises... what is the implication?

If you are in a dark cave with no light at all and you are brought out at noon on a bright sunny day what is your experience? It is overwhelming, painful and you want to cover your eyes and be protected from the sun, maybe run back into darkness.

But what happens if you are brought out of the cave at 4 a.m. and sit there while the sun rises, what then? What is the lesson?

Today, right now in this time in human history, Jesus is slowly rising, like the sun with healing in his beams of truth and love. The truth of God is becoming ever more clearly revealed. The message of mercy, the truth about God's character of love has been steadily increasing over the last 200 years. As we assimilate, appreciate, and internalize the truth we are able to appreciate and understand more and we grow more and more into God's character of love and truth, so that when Jesus appears we celebrate and rejoice and live in His fiery presence.

But for those who reject the truth and continue to live in the darkness of lies and selfishness when He appears in His glory the beams of truth and love will be overwhelming and they will run from His presence and beg the mountains to hide them from Him. They prefer the darkness to the light.

This happens at the beginning of the 1000 years and at the end of the 1000 years.

At the beginning of the 1000 years the Bible says:

And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord Jesus will overthrow with the breath of his mouth and destroy by the splendor of his coming. ⁹ The coming of the lawless one will be in accordance with the work of Satan displayed in all kinds of counterfeit miracles, signs and wonders, ¹⁰ and in every sort of evil that deceives those who are perishing. They perish because they refused to love the truth and so be saved. 2Thes 2:8-10

Notice they are destroyed by the breath of His mouth and the brightness of His coming, what is being presented here? What comes from the mouth? Words of truth and what does the splendor represent? His life giving glory, the fires of truth and love. This is the beginning of the 1000 years.

Here is a description of the end of 1000 years, when the New Jerusalem is on earth, the wicked dead are raised and the mob marches to attack the city. From the book The Great Controversy 664.

With military precision, the serried ranks advance over the earth's broken and uneven surface to the city of God. By command of Jesus, the gates of the New Jerusalem are closed, and the armies of Satan surround the city, and make ready for the onset... Now Christ again appears to the view of his enemies. Far above the city, upon a foundation of burnished gold, is a throne, high and lifted up. Upon this throne sits the Son of God, and around him are the subjects of his kingdom. The power and majesty of Christ no language can describe, no pen portray. The glory of the Eternal Father is enshrouding his Son. The brightness of his presence fills the city of God, and flows out beyond the gates, flooding the whole earth with its radiance."

Do you notice a couple of important depictions in this account:

1. the gates of the New Jerusalem were open up until the point the wicked marched in mass to attack it—what do we learn from that fact? That the wicked outside the city are not kept out by God. The gates were open the entire time, but none came in. They were kept out by their own condition, their own free will choice. Some get uncomfortable with this and say, “Are you saying the unrepentant wicked get a second chance?”
 - a. How would you answer that question?
 - b. What law lens—if we look only on external factors, and the actions of the ruling authority, then it could appear that the ruling authority is giving the wicked another chance—this is how level four and below see this, those with penal theologies. They don’t like it, to them “it isn’t fair.
 - c. But, when you see reality as it is, and understand God’s design law, then you understand there is no second chance here, there is only demonstration, revelation—God is allowing the wicked to reveal what He already knows, that they are hardened and no evidence or opportunity will change that. They are fixed in their rebellion and this action on God’s part to leave the gates open reveal that fact.

2. Second point, the fire, where does it flow first? Into the city, and who lives there? The righteous, so what does this reveal about the fire? Why then do the wicked suffer and die in it?
3. If this is the fire that the righteous in the city are living in, then is it the source of inflicted death?
4. But, what does love and truth do to those solidified in selfishness and lies? Is it pleasant, or as we read earlier they prefer the darkness because the light exposes their wickedness. So, what will the wicked experience in God's unveiled love and truth?
 - a. weeping and gnashing of teeth
 - b. torture and torment of mind
 - c. agony of soul, regret, shame, guilt,
 - d. how long will this continue? Until they voluntarily surrender their lives and choose no to live any more.

Here is another quote from the same book:

A life of rebellion against God has unfitted them for heaven. Its purity, holiness, and peace would be torture to them; the glory of God would be a consuming fire. They would long to flee from that holy place... They would welcome destruction, that they might be hidden from the face of Him who died to redeem them. The destiny of the wicked is fixed by their own choice. Their exclusion from heaven is voluntary with themselves, and just and merciful on the part of God. Like the waters of the Flood the fires of the great day declare God's verdict that the wicked are incurable. GC 541,542

Why would it happen like this? Is God inflicting this, or is this the natural result of choosing to change oneself to be out of harmony with how life is constructed to operate?

If it does work this way, wicked beings confronted with truth and love and the reality of their own life history, their own sins being exposed causing them torment of mind, agony of soul to the point they voluntarily choose to die rather than live in a universe of perfect love—what might that imply for how long some suffer in the fire?

- Would we expect every being to come to that conclusion at the exact same moment?
- Would it be likely some might accept the reality of their condition sooner than others?
- Would it be likely some might resist the truth and deny the love longer and thus suffer longer?
- So, could this mean some might be in the fires many days until they day? If so would it be an infliction by God?

So here is a description from the book Early Writings which some have really struggled with. Tell me what you hear it saying now and if any parts are difficult to understand:

Satan rushes into the midst of his followers and tries to stir up the multitude to action. But fire from God out of heaven is rained upon them, and the great men, and mighty men, the noble, the poor and miserable, are all consumed together. I saw that some were quickly destroyed, while others suffered longer. They were punished according to the deeds done in the body. Some were many days consuming, and just as long as there was a portion of them unconsumed, all the sense of suffering remained. Said the angel, "The worm of life shall not die; their fire shall not be quenched as long as there is the least particle for it to prey upon." {EW 294.1}

Satan and his angels suffered long. Satan bore not only the weight and punishment of his own sins, but also of the sins of the redeemed host, which had been placed upon him; and he must also suffer for the ruin of souls which he had caused. Then I saw that Satan and all the wicked host were consumed, and the justice of God was satisfied; and all the angelic host, and all the redeemed saints, with a loud voice said, "Amen!" {EW 294.2}

What do you hear being described, in light of all we have read before, harmonizing all the previous Bible texts and statements?

Right now, here on earth today, we are being presented with truth—light, and each of us are deciding are we growing in truth or rejecting truth and darkening our own minds. God provides the truth, the light, the love, the transforming presence of His Spirit, who takes the character of Christ and reproduces it in all who trust Him—it is our choice, what choice are you making each day?

Read the last paragraph, "We've seen a bit..." We are to reflect Jesus—but are we to reflect others? Did Jesus say we are to be reflectors in the world or to be lights in the world? Are reflectors and lights the same thing? Is there a difference? What is the difference? Now to be sure, we are reflectors of Jesus in the sense that light/truth/wisdom doesn't originate with us, all truth and wisdom has its source in God. However, I think there is a difference in the thoughtless reciting of truths, like a mindless recording device, and an intelligent appreciation and comprehension of the truth in which we eagerly agree and promote. The truth becomes ours at it is assimilated into our character and becomes part of our way of thinking and functioning, thus we become lights, not mere reflectors. Thoughts?

Every human being, created in the image of God, is endowed with a power akin to that of the Creator-- individuality, power to think and to do. [Does God want us to use this individuality to shine the light of truth, or wait from some instruction "say it like this, paint it like this, play it like this." and we are to remain frozen waiting for an outside agency to move our actions for us?] The men in whom this power is developed [what power? the power to think and act, remember the last fruit of the Spirit is self-control] are the men who bear responsibilities, who are leaders in enterprise, and who influence character. It is the work of true education to develop this power, to train the youth to be thinkers, and not mere reflectors of other men's thought. Instead of confining their study to that which men have said or written, let students be directed to the sources of truth, [what are the sources? notice--] to the vast fields opened for research in nature and revelation. [science, experience and Scripture] Let them contemplate the great facts of duty and destiny, and the mind will expand and strengthen. Instead of educated weaklings, institutions of learning may send forth men strong to think and to act, men who are masters and not slaves of circumstances, men who possess breadth of mind, clearness of thought, and the courage of their convictions. [How can institutions of learning send for such persons of strong mind? By indoctrinating them? By sheltering them to memorize Scripture, or by teaching them the integrative evidenced based approach and demonstrating how Scripture, science and experience perfectly harmonize and leading them to understand how reality actually works!] {Ed 17.2}

Does God want more than reflectors from His intelligent creatures?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “Jesus, the young...” the lesson asks half way down, “Why would Jesus stop short of completing the sentence in Isaiah 61:2?”

Read last paragraph, “Perhaps Jesus stopped...” What about today? Do we have misunderstanding as to what God’s vengeance is?

Therefore the Lord, the Lord Almighty, the Mighty One of Israel, declares:
“Ah, I will get relief from my foes and avenge myself on my enemies.
²⁵ I will turn my hand against you;
I will thoroughly purge away your dross and remove all your impurities. Isaiah 1:24,25

What is the Lord’s vengeance? It is the vengeance a doctor takes upon disease, to destroy polio, HIV, Zika, Malaria—but never to hurt, abuse or injure the patient. God seeks to destroy sin, to destroy all deviations from His design, while saving all who will let Him, yet always in harmony with His character of love, which means leaving others free, just as we read above.

What do you think it means when the Bible describes the people’s reaction to Jesus’ teaching as one who taught with authority? What does that mean?

- Does it mean He was teaching authoritatively—I have authority listen to me or else?
- Was He using the authority of position—You recognize John was a prophet of God, John has endorsed me, therefore, I have authority as a messenger of God. Or, I am the Son of God and as God’s Son I have authority, you need to listen to my authority? Did Jesus make use of His position as the source of His authority?
- Was Jesus promoting an authoritarian God?
- What authority?
- The authority of truth and how reality actually works in real lives—Jesus was integrating Scripture with science and real world experiences and the truth is authoritative

Here is a quotation from one of the founders of the SDA church:

Christ spoke with authority. Every truth essential for the people to know He proclaimed with the unfaltering assurance of certain knowledge. [So first, His speaking with authority was the confidence and authority of one who actually knows and understands reality, what is happening, and what will happen when choices to violate God's design law are made. A doctor today can speak with this type of authority when they say, it is damaging to your health to smoke cigarettes. 150 years ago, doctors didn't have that authority—because they didn't know that reality.] He uttered nothing fanciful or sentimental. He presented no sophistries, no human opinions. No idle tales, no false theories clothed in beautiful language, came from His lips. [Again, Jesus spoke authoritatively because He spoke reality, truth, how things truly work, not speculation, not hypothesis, not guesses, not myth, not traditions, no religious theories—but simple reality of God's kingdom.] The statements that He made were truths established by personal knowledge. He foresaw the delusive doctrines that would fill the world, but He did not unfold them. In His teachings He dwelt upon the unchangeable principles of God's word. [What did He focus upon? the unchangeable principles of God's word—which is God's design law!] He magnified the simple, practical truths that the common people could understand and bring into the daily experience...[He taught how God's design law was real and impacted their daily life experiences, he was harmonizing Scripture, science and experience.] {8T 201.2}

In all His teaching, Christ brought the minds of men in contact with the Infinite Mind.[How? Notice how Jesus brought human minds into contact with God's mind.] He did not direct the people to study men's theories about God, His word, or His works. He taught them to behold God as manifested in His works,[science/nature] in His word,[Scripture] and by His providences.[experience] {8T 201.3}

What made Jesus' teaching authoritative? They were truth—the truth of Scripture, harmonized with science/nature and experience in such a way they were actually applicable to people's lives. Jesus made sense and His teachings were sensible, not mystical, not magical, not incoherent and contradictory.

MONDAY

Read memory text, "Thou shalt love the Lord..." What does it mean to love your neighbor as yourself?

Can people who don't love themselves actually love others—why or why not?

If a person doesn't have a healthy self love, valuing themselves for who they are as a child of God, at peace with themselves and God, then they are not whole on the inside; they are insecure, fearful of rejection and don't possess healthy love to give to others. Instead, such people generally seek to get from others to fill what is missing in them. They seek to get:

- love
- reassurance
- acceptance
- validation
- praise
- security

Those who don't have healthy love seek to get from others rather than seek to give to others, thus we are unable love others well until we are first healed in heart and mind by the indwelling Holy Spirit—we must come to peace with ourselves and love ourselves as children of God.

The lesson also explores when we do seek to love our neighbor who our neighbor is and the lesson states—anyone in need.

What does it mean to help someone—giving what they want? What are some reasons not to help someone in need?

Read Mark 6:1-6:

Jesus left there and went to his hometown, accompanied by his disciples. ² When the Sabbath came, he began to teach in the synagogue, and many who heard him were amazed.

“Where did this man get these things?” they asked. “What’s this wisdom that has been given him, that he even does miracles! ³ Isn’t this the carpenter? Isn’t this Mary’s son and the brother of James, Joseph, Judas and Simon? Aren’t his sisters here with us?” And they took offense at him.

⁴ Jesus said to them, “Only in his hometown, among his relatives and in his own house is a prophet without honor.” ⁵ He could not do any miracles there, except lay his hands on a few sick people and heal them. ⁶ And he was amazed at their lack of faith.

Were there people who Jesus did not help, in need? But they were in need, why didn't Jesus help them?

Are there people in need we are unable to help? Should we force our help onto such people?

Whom should we seek to help? Those in need, or those in need, who recognize their need and who will permit us to help them?

TUESDAY

What does it mean to be the salt of the earth? What does salt do? How are we to be like salt?

Matthew 5:13 from The Remedy

"You are like salt to humanity: preserving the knowledge of God, providing the flavor of heaven, and increasing the thirst for God. But if salt loses its saltiness, unless it becomes salty again, it is useless and will be thrown out and trampled upon.

What does it mean for the salt to lose its savor?

- To lose the knowledge of God, in other words to present God in a false light, like a dictator who imposes law and is the source of inflicted punishment
- Which doesn't cause people to have increased thirst for God, but instead causes people to want to be away from Him or hidden from Him
- And causes people to become more like such a dictator God and become dominating, controlling and abusive of power to coerce others, thus the flavor provided is not one of heaven, but the flavor of hell

What is to be done with such a picture of God? It should be thrown out—we need to throw out from our Creeds, Fundamental Beliefs, Doctrines, Books, Commentaries, Seminaries all these distorted and false ideas about God!

WEDNESDAY

Read third paragraph, "Workers have done..." What does this mean?

What does it mean to prepare the soil? What do they mean that the soil is prepared before the evangelist comes—is the evangelist not to be involved in preparing the soil? Is the evangelist the harvester?

Read last paragraph, "Reaping the harvest is..." While all of the actions listed can be very useful in their place, if we go into a community to assess the demographics, community assessment surveys etc. all as part of a strategy to get people to join our organization, is such a process legitimate Bible evangelism? Why or why not?

Should the focus of evangelism be on getting people to join our group, or seeking to provide to people the healing Remedy of Jesus Christ and His truths, love, methods and principles so they experience regeneration of character to be like Christ—regardless of what organization they join?

What would it mean to win someone to Jesus Christ?

THURSDAY

Church planting—what does this term mean?

Read first paragraph, "It seems..." Would this be a good method to use here in America today? Why or why not?

Does culture play a role in what method we use?

If we went to a community—basically as a homeless person—with only the clothes on our back and knocked on doors telling people we are here to tell them about Jesus but need a place to stay and food to eat etc. would we represent the gospel or misrepresent the gospel?

The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 6 3Q 2016

Jesus Mingled with People

SABBATH

Read memory text, “Now the tax collectors...” What do you think of the allegation of the Pharisees and lawyers?

Why were the religious leaders upset that Jesus was mingling with tax collectors and sinners?

Why did they consider this to be wrong?

What was the basis of their value system, or another way to say it, what was the measuring device they used to determine what was right and wrong? Was it not an imposed law construct?

And where does an imposed law construct focus one’s attention? In other words, when one operates in a legal system, who does one remain primarily concerned with? Self! They were more concerned with their own legal standing before God and so-called righteousness than they were with helping others. In fact, they would sacrifice others, neglect others, in order to do what they thought was “right” for themselves.

What about today, do we find within Christianity that this same dynamic is at work—people so focused on not sinning they would neglect someone in need?

What did they focus upon to determine a wrong? Was it not behavior?

But where does God look? Upon the heart! So, is behavior what is most important—the specific act one does, or is it the motive of the heart?

And, can we always tell the condition of the heart by the behavior? The Bible says by their fruits we can know them—but does that mean by the behaviors?

What would you say of a man who organizes his own militia to attack a wealthy caravan of a sovereign nation and in the process kills many people?

Didn’t Abraham do this? Abraham went to war and killed many people, his behavior was one of killing others, a violation of the commandment—yet what was his heart?

- Was Abraham a person who liked to kill—bloodthirsty?
- Was Abraham a person who valued life? How do we know?
- Remember Abraham pled for the lives of the wicked in Sodom? What does this reveal about Abraham’s heart?

- How many Christians today are pleading for the lives of people they view as living in sin?
- Yet, Abraham led his men to kill many people—but what was the motive of his heart? Was it to kill or was it to save? Wasn't it to save Lot and the others who were being taken as slaves?

Was Abraham condemned by God for going to war to rescue Lot and the others?

Even though Abraham's motives may have been to rescue, to save life and not take it, what was the likely impact upon Abraham?

Was there a price Abraham paid, was there a toll on Abraham's mind, heart, psyche?

Notice, Abraham's actions after the battle, he refused any reward; he would not take any increase in wealth or payment—why?

What is the world's response to winning a battle? To celebrate, to feel good, to feel empowered, to feel rewarded, to feel blessed by God—but do you think Abraham had a different take?

Was it possible Abraham was sad? Was it possible Abraham saw this entire series of events, not as something to celebrate, but as something to grieve? Yes, it was necessary to save Lot and others, but it was a sad thing to do—like severing a gangrene limb—who wants to do that? We may have to do it to save a life, but should we really rejoice—"Yeah—we just cut off an arm!!!" No! this would be a very corrupt way of seeing the world.

How many today see war, conflict, fighting, killing as something to celebrate rather than something to grieve?

Is it the specific behavior that matters or the condition of the heart?

So, back to the religious leaders in Christ's day and how they criticized Christ, what did they value? Why did they do it?

- Did the leaders value selflessness, and focus upon the motive of the heart
- Or did the religious leaders value externals, rituals, legal forms and ceremonies?

What did Christ value? How did Jesus see people?

How did the Jewish leadership, and all of society for that matter, see lepers? As sinners who should be condemned and shunned!

How did Jesus see lepers? As children who needed healing! How do we see sinners today?

The lesson talks about being Jesus to people, can we be Jesus to people if we see sin as a legal problem that requires punishment?

How must we understand sin and sinners in order to be Jesus to people? Isn't it a necessity to see sin as a spiritual sickness in need of healing?

Is there Scripture to support this?

Ah, sinful nation,
a people loaded with guilt,
a brood of evildoers, children given to corruption!
They have forsaken the Lord;
they have spurned the Holy One of Israel and turned their backs on him.
⁵ Why should you be beaten anymore?
Why do you persist in rebellion?
Your whole head is injured, your whole heart afflicted.
⁶ From the sole of your foot to the top of your head there is no soundness—only wounds and welts and open sores, not cleansed or bandaged or soothed with oil. Isaiah 1:4-6

Save means to heal, salvation means to make whole, to restore. All of Scripture, rightly understood is about restoring, healing, fixing our brokenness.

But, when we see sin as breaking rules, we want to inflict punishment rather than to heal and restore.

If we approach people this way we misrepresent Christ, we obstruct people from knowing God, we may convert them to a religion, but we don't bring them to Jesus.

SUNDAY

The lesson takes a paragraph from The Ministry of Healing about how Jesus approached people and makes a list of how to approach people, let's read the second paragraph, "Christ's method..." thoughts?

What do you think about this list? Why did Jesus mingle with people?

- He loved people and that alone was a reason
- But He also wanted to connect in order to heal and save

- Thus, it was a requirement to mingle in order to bring the people into contact with truth and love

Jesus did care about people; He was compassionate; He did sympathize and He did seek to meet the needs of people—what impact upon people did this have?

What happens in you when you experience someone who actually cares about you, sympathizes with your struggles and you can tell they really want to help meet your needs?

Do you experience yourself drawn to them? Does it increase your trust in them?

Read bottom green section, “Dwell on this amazing...” Would anyone like to share what they have experienced, considered, realized as you have contemplated that our Creator became human and dwelt among us?

Do you think it would have been hard for you to believe that Jesus was God if you had been there 2000 years ago?

I watched a movie recently called Risen and it is about a Roman centurion investigating the reports of Jesus rising from the dead. And it is very well done, but it really brought home how hard it would have been to see Jesus and recognize Him as fully God. He was so humble, so human, that I think I would have really struggled with it had I lived back then.

Has anyone else ever considered this?

So, when Jesus asked them who people said He was Peter answered:

“You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.”

¹⁷ Jesus replied, “Blessed are you, Simon son of Jonah, for this was not revealed to you by man, but by my Father in heaven. MT 16:16,17

So, I don’t think it would have been possible to recognize Jesus except for the enlightenment of the Holy.

MONDAY

The lesson is about the parables of the lost sheep, lost coin and lost son.

What is the difference between the sheep, coin and son? What lessons do we learn from each?

Did the coin know it was lost?

- Are there people who are lost that don’t even know it?

- Did the one who lost the coin go searching for it?
- Are we to be God's agents to search for the lost who don't know they are lost?
- How? What method to reach the lost who don't know they are lost?
- Would this be the classic missionary taking the truth about God to people who have never heard it?

Did the sheep know it was lost?

- Probably, but did the sheep know its way back?
- Are there people who know they are lost but don't know how to find their way back?
- Are there people who know their lives are messed up but don't know how to fix their lives?
- Are there people who don't even know there is a healing remedy for their lives, even though they know they are sick in heart?
- Are there people who are lost, know they are lost, and have been taken advantage by those who claim they are there to help them? How, what kind of exploitation happens to the lost?
 - Certainly the gross exploitation that is criminal even in this sinful world
 - But what about exploitation and entrapment by those seeking to deliver them? Does this happen?
 - Do people who are lost ever end up in cults?
 - Do they ever end up trapped in religions that burden with guilt?
 - Did Jesus tell the religious leaders in His day that they were doing this to people, burdening them, not delivering them?
 - Does this happen today?
- Do we have a message for the lost who know they are lost that will actually heal, deliver, and lead the lost to being found?
- What is that message? How would you share it? What would you say?

Did the son know he was lost—initially? No! Did he eventually realize he was lost? Yes! And did the son know the way home?

- Are there people who have gotten lost who don't know they are lost because circumstances are so good for them they don't realize it?
- And are there people who, having wandered away from God's design for life—left God's estate—have eventually found themselves at rock bottom, in the proverbial pigsty?
- And are there people in the pigsty, who do know the way back, who must make the choice to return before any help can be given? Why?
 - Because if help were given before they make the choice to return it would only keep them from coming home, it would obstruct them from turning their life around.

What is our role in dealing with these different types of lost people?

We must have wisdom to discern the different types of the lost—who are the ones that need us to reach out to help lead them home, versus those who must choose to come home before they can be helped.

We are to be—lights in the world, to be beacons, to be bastions of hope, to reveal a better way, to offer a real remedy—how? What message offers hope?

Read bottom Green Section, “Have you ever...” Does this happen, do we ever avoid witnessing, offering hope to people because we don’t want them in our communities?

Why would we do this?

Do we avoid offering medicine to someone who is sick because we don’t want them well?

Is it possible we don’t witness to certain people because much of what Christianity has shared in the past has been a false gospel with no power to heal, so on some level we realize that the people we witness to will not be changed, and therefore will come into our fellowship with the same baggage, issues, problems, and we don’t want them?

Would we have a different attitude if we believed the gospel of Jesus Christ would truly transform people to be the most lovely, kind, trustworthy, patient, understanding of all?

- Imagine we find a sick individual, and we begin providing a treatment that will heal and cure, is wellness achieved instantly?
- Are there often symptoms in the healing process?
- While the medicine and treatments are working, are there still fevers, coughing up phlegm, diarrhea, vomiting?
- Can people who are actually getting well, who are participating in the healing process still have symptoms that we might find offensive, symptoms that might be gross, might smell bad, might turn our stomachs?

When people who have lived in the world, who have been battered by the world, who have suffered in the world, who have participated in the vileness of the world and are sick in heart, full of fear, insecurity, selfishness, come to Christ and genuinely begin the healing of their hearts, do they often still struggle with symptoms? And what might these symptoms look like?

Could a person in the healing process say things in hurtful ways? Could they act insensitive to others? Could they be so wounded still that they react with criticism, defensiveness, and even accusations toward others?

Does this mean they are not getting well or could it be there is a lot of healing still to do?

Mary Magdalene came to Jesus and some suggest she gave her heart to Him, but then there was a period of struggle where she relapsed back into old behavior before she was finally free.

Mary had been looked upon as a great sinner, but Christ knew the circumstances that had shaped her life. He might have extinguished every spark of hope in her soul, but He did not. It was He who had lifted her from despair and ruin. Seven times she had heard His rebuke of the demons that controlled her heart and mind. She had heard His strong cries to the Father in her behalf. She knew how offensive is sin to His unsullied purity, and in His strength she had overcome. {DA 568.1}

Are we able to see past the immediate behavior to understand that people are often wounded, and in the process of healing and not take personal offense? Can we mingle with people who are struggling and be gracious?

But are there others, who we must set boundaries with and restrict from fellowship, whether at the hospital or at church? Who would they be? Those who persistently refuse treatment and are actively sabotaging the health of others.

TUESDAY

Read Mt 9:10-13:

While Jesus was having dinner at Matthew's house, many tax collectors and "sinners" came and ate with him and his disciples. ¹¹ When the Pharisees saw this, they asked his disciples, "Why does your teacher eat with tax collectors and 'sinners'?"

¹² On hearing this, Jesus said, "It is not the healthy who need a doctor, but the sick. ¹³ But go and learn what this means: 'I desire mercy, not sacrifice.' For I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners." NIV

What is the message Jesus is giving them? What did He want them to learn?

What does it mean "I desire mercy not sacrifice"?

Where does mercy necessarily focus the attention? On others! Mercy focuses our minds our hearts upon delivering, restoring, helping someone else. Can you be merciful without someone to be merciful to?

Where does sacrifice focus the attention? On self, on paying for one's sins, on fulfilling one's duty, on influencing one's god with one's sacrifice, on earning some credit, on being recognized etc.

So, what was the point Christ was making? That salvation is about restoring love into the heart, about recreating the inner being to be in harmony with God and His design of love. But their religion, rather than restoring love, was actually working to solidify them in selfishness, to make selfishness a virtue.

- They thought it was a virtue to deny one's parents care and donate the money to the temple, perhaps have a building named after themselves,
- to give large offerings in public so everyone would notice,
- to say long prayers so people would realize their piety,
- to fast and make sure everyone saw they were fasting.

But, they wouldn't help the wounded man on the street, they drove the sick out of their presence, they criticized the poor as condemned by God.

Read third paragraph, "Here again, we are seeing..." Does this happen today? Do people focus more on ceremony, than the condition of the heart? For instance, is the form of baptism what is essential, or the condition of the heart?

Can people be baptized by immersion and have hearts that remain filled with selfishness and still be enemies of God?

Can people be baptized by sprinkling and have renewed hearts and be God's children?

Do Christians every get caught up in fighting and arguing over ceremonies and miss what is really important—the condition of the heart?

Could the same be said for which day one worships upon?

Read fourth paragraph, "Thousands are making the same mistake..." What do some make their idol? An idea or opinion!

What is an abomination? Fasting and prayer actuated by a self-justifying spirit—why?

Because it leads to false security, it leads people to think they are well while they are dying.

Did you hear a few years ago of a pharmacist who had taken people's expensive anti-cancer medications and replaced them with placebo and gave the cancer patients nothing but a fake medicine, while telling them they were getting the cancer treatment, billing the insurance company for the expensive medicine and then selling the real medicine on the black market?

What is your reaction to such deception? Isn't it an abomination? Why? Because a healer is a fraud, he is tricking people into taking a false remedy that not only will fail to heal them, but will prevent them from seeking a true remedy because they think they are getting one.

This is what fasting, prayer, communion, Sabbath observance, or any other religious ritual does when it comes from hearts that seek to justify self—which happens under the penal legal model.

There is another form of this abomination—those in which people don't seek to justify themselves with works or ritual, but in which they claim legal justification accounted in books in heaven WHILE there is no actual change of heart or character, no rebirth, no renewal, no regeneration. In other words, a false legal remedy that brings a false sense of security so people don't participate in God's true remedy.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson is about how to we mingle in the world without being corrupted by the world.

The lesson notes errors on two extremes:

- Those who don't want to be corrupted so they cloister themselves away from the world—either in monasteries, or in religious ghettos and only interact with people from one's own religious community.
- And on the other extreme are those who become so connected to their friends in the world they leave God behind and become part of the world.

What wisdom would you share to help people find that right balance?

Are there any elements that would be requirements before one can successfully find such a balance?
What makes one vulnerable to corruption by friends in the world?

I would suggest several elements are necessary, actual requirements:

- One cannot share what one doesn't possess—so before a person can successfully witness in the world that person has to come into a knowledge and experience with God and His kingdom
- One must have some level of health before one can be a healer to others. Those who are so wounded, broken, in pain, in crisis, in need, empty, lonely, etc. that they can't see past their own hurt are not yet in a position to handle the stress of interacting with those who are not mature in Christ—why not?
 - Persons who are still wounded, empty, and needy seek relationships to get—to get approval, love, validation, acceptance, or perhaps fame, wealth, security. They live in fear of not getting, fear of rejection, fear of failure and thus are vulnerable to compromise if the prize they are seeking is threatened.
- To be able to successfully interact with the world we must be healthy enough to walk away, to tolerate rejection, to handle criticism, to be able to be okay when not included, to set others free to have their own opinions
- The mature are those who focus on doing in governance of self that which is right, healthy, reasonable, while leaving others free to love us or hate us and realizing that such actions are evidences of where the other people are in their journey.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “No question...” What have we been given in Christ? How would you describe it? What is it that you have received from Christ that is worth sharing with others?

Is it future eternal life insurance that we are promoting, or do we have something that we receive from Christ that has real value in our lives right now? What?

Read last four paragraphs, “Robert Linthicum...” What do you think of these three descriptions of churches?

Do you find these distinctions valuable? Or are they artificial?

What does it mean to be in the world but not of the world?

Is there a difference between institutional religion and organized ministry? What is the difference?

The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 7 3Q 2016

Jesus Desired Their Good

SABBATH

Read Sabbath's lesson, "On Sabbath morning..." Isn't this a beautiful thing, to love others and connect with people like this? Can you envision your church doing this?

Now, the real question—would you be willing to do this? And, if you were willing to do this would you be willing for your children to bring their skateboards and skateboard with the children from the community around your church on Sabbath?

Why or why not?

Is it okay to skateboard on Sabbath before joining the church but not okay to skateboard after joining the church?

Should the message to those youth skateboarding around the church be that if they accept Jesus they must stop skateboarding on Sabbath? Or, do they only have to stop skateboarding on Sabbath if they join the SDA church—if they join any other Christian church they can be united with Jesus and still skateboard on Sabbath?

Do we show more compassion and grace to people we view as being outside the church than to those inside the church? Are we more critical and restrictive to those we view as being in the church?

Is joining Christ, becoming a member of His Church Universal, supposed to result in greater restrictions or greater liberty?

Do we as church members communicate a message that is freeing or a message that is enslaving?

What makes the difference?

What did Jesus mean when He said: "And you experts in the law, woe to you, because you load people down with burdens they can hardly carry, and you yourselves will not lift one finger to help them." Lk 11:46

Do you think it is an accident, a coincidences, that Jesus states that those who are burdening people are the experts in the law? How do the legal theologians burden people?

They focus on behavior and arbitrary, artificial rules, not on design law.

Sabbath—the legal religionists 2000 years ago wanted to restrict healing on Sabbath, Christ wanted to heal, which would set people at liberty, set them free, give them more autonomy and independence—by healing on the Sabbath!

Did Jesus heal only emergency cases on the Sabbath?

The legal religionists wanted to restrict how far someone could walk on Sabbath—Christ never gave any such restrictions—should we be able to walk freely on Sabbath?

The legal religionists wanted to restrict how much someone could carry on Sabbath—Christ never gave any such restrictions—should we be free to carry whatever we judge to be necessary on Sabbath? Even today some Jewish people observe such laws. I read this on a Jewish website describing some of these carry restrictions:

On Shabbat one may not carry or transfer objects between a "reshut ha-yachid" (private, enclosed domain, such as the house); and a "reshut ha-rabim" (public domain, such as the street). Examples of this prohibition include: carrying in one's pocket; carrying anything in the hand; wheeling a baby carriage or shopping cart, going outside with gum or food in the mouth.

Under such restrictions I could not carry the Bibles, study guides, DVDs and other materials we give away here each Sabbath. Should Sabbath be a day of such legal restrictions?

The legal religionists in Christ's day wanted to restrict pulling heads of grain on Sabbath and eating—Christ defended the disciples, giving them freedom to provide nutrition to their bodies on Sabbath.

What about today? Do we get caught in arbitrary rules that restrict liberty, or do we live free in Christ—harmonizing with His design law thus experiencing greater liberty?

Jesus said, ““Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest. ²⁹ Take my yoke upon you and learn from me, for I am gentle and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. ³⁰ For my yoke is easy and my burden is light.” MT 11:28-30

What was Jesus providing that the legal theologians were not?

Jesus was providing restoration to how life is constructed to operate! Real healing for not just body, but for mind and soul!

Legal religions occur because of people, who often intend to do good, but who fail to understand reality and instead operate upon level four and below thinking.

This is one of the dangers when people try to jump levels, remember level seven is not only loving others and understanding God's design but fulfilling God's purposes for your life. What is the danger when a person is operating at level four and below and they get inspired to live a purpose filled life, to go out and do what they believe is God's purpose? They may misconstrue God's purpose through a false legal lens and do exactly what Jesus said the teachers of the law were doing, burdening people, or worse.

SUNDAY

The lesson contrasts Jonah's message to Nineveh with Jesus' message to Jerusalem—what lessons to we learn from these two messages?

First, identify the characters and the roles they play and see where the differences occurs:

- God—who sent both Jonah and Jesus
- Jonah the messenger to Nineveh
- Jesus the messenger to Jerusalem and the world
- The people of Nineveh
- The people of Jerusalem and the world

Did God have a different agenda for the two cities?

Was the specific presentation, appeal, message presented differently?

Why were the messages presented differently if God had the same goal for both cities?

How would you characterize the message from Jonah to Nineveh? Threat, imminent destruction, punishment—was it a message of love and mercy or a message of intimidation and fear?

How would you characterize the message from Jesus to Jerusalem? Grace, love, forgiveness, the goodness of God?

Which message more accurately reflected God's true character, ideal, and government?

What was the response of the two cities? Which message appears to be more effective in bringing to repentance? What lesson do we learn? Why would the lesser light be more easily accepted than the greater light?

What caused the different response?

What is God's heart, goal, for both cities?

So, while Jonah's presentation of the message was different that Jesus' presentation, what did God, by His actions, reveal to Nineveh? Didn't God reveal the same character of love, patience, mercy to Nineveh in sparing that city that Jesus presented in His ministry to Jerusalem?

What was Jonah's response to God's mercy? If Jesus would have been there physically in Nineveh when they repented, what do you think would have been His response to their repentance?

If Jonah was in Jerusalem when Jesus appeared, whose side do you think Jonah would have chosen—Jesus or the church authority? Might Jonah have been at risk to side with those who hated the Samaritans?

What was God's attitude toward Jonah and Jonah's anger and selfishness?

Here is a brief description from one of the founders of the SDA church:

Jonah revealed that he did not value the souls in that wretched city. He valued his reputation, lest they should say he was a false prophet. . . . Now when he sees the Lord exercise His compassionate attributes and spare the city that had corrupted its ways before Him, Jonah does not co-operate with God in His merciful design. He has not the people's interests in view. It does not grieve him that so large a number must perish who have not been educated to do right. Listen to his complaint:

“Therefore now, O Lord, take, I beseech thee, my life from me; for it is better for me to die than to live. Then said the Lord, Doest thou well to be angry? So Jonah went out of the city, and sat on the east side of the city, and there made him a booth, and sat under it in the shadow, till he might see what would become of the city. And the Lord prepared a gourd, and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shadow over his head, to deliver him from his grief. So Jonah was exceeding glad of the gourd.”

Then the Lord gave Jonah an object lesson. He “prepared a worm when the morning rose the next day, and it smote the gourd that it withered. And it came to pass, when the sun did arise, that God prepared a vehement east wind; and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted, and wished in himself to die, and said, It is better for me to die than to live.”. . . “Then said the Lord, Thou hast had pity on the gourd, for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow; which came up in a night, and perished in a night: And should I not spare Nineveh, that great city, wherein are more than sixscore thousand persons that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand; and also much cattle?”

In the history of Nineveh there is a lesson that you should study carefully. . . . You must know your duty to your fellow beings who are ignorant and defiled, and who need your help.—Manuscript 164, 1897. {CTr 172}

What is our duty to our fellow human beings?

What message will most likely reach people today—the message of impending doom and destruction that Jonah preached, and some people eagerly preach today, OR the message of love presented by Jesus? From the book Christ's Object Lessons:

“It is the darkness of misapprehension of God that is enshrouding the world. Men are losing their knowledge of His character. It has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. At this time a message from God is to be proclaimed, a message illuminating in its influence and saving in its power. His character is to be made known. Into the darkness of the world is to be shed the light of His glory, the light of His goodness, mercy and truth...The last rays of merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is the revelation of His character of love.” Christ's Object Lessons, p.415

Why is the message of love to be the final message to the world?

What happens when we present a message of fear?

What is the result when we present God as full of anger and wrath as the one who inflicts punishment and pain? It undermines trust! Such a message may convert people to a religion, but it hardens their hearts and obstructs their healing and maturing of character.

Only the message of love has the power to actually transform lives.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, “A leper approaches...” What do you think of the idea of “the anyway principle?”

What is being presented by this idea? Is it that what matters to us is NOT what matters to God. What is it that seems to matter to us?

- Ethnicity—Jews were very prejudiced, do we struggle with this today?
- Status—social class, wealth, position
- In earthly politics—which the Bible describes as beastly, the systems of the beast—do they pursue unity or division? Right now, whether from the political left or right do you hear messages that result in unity or stirring up division? Why? Power, it is about mobilizing people to serve one’s own agenda, creating an enemy to unite followers against.
- Health—do we shy away from people with health problems? What about mental health problems, do we discriminate against people with mental health diagnoses?
- Religion, do we discriminate against others based on religion?
 - How about beliefs within a religion, were there divisions amongst the Pharisees and Sadducees?
 - Do we have divisions that matter to us within Christianity, within our own denominations, but do those divisions really matter to God?

- History of sin, do we discriminate because of someone's past failings?
 - Polygamy—Abraham
 - Deceit and fraud—Jacob
 - Murder—Moses?
 - Adultery and Murder—David
 - Making idols—Aaron, Gideon
 - Would any of these people be permitted into leadership in our churches today? Why not?

What matters to God? Why did God allow the people cited above to remain in His service?

What is the only issue that has ever mattered?

- The condition of the heart/character—do we genuinely trust God, enough to open our hearts to him so that we are healed and restored to God's design? Are we willing to allow Christ into our hearts! That is the only issue—partaking of Jesus!
- Will there be people in heaven who have not been renewed in heart and character to be like Jesus? No!
- Will there be people in heaven who - belonged to different religious groups while on earth?
 - were baptized in different ways, or who never even had ritual baptism?
 - who partook of communion ceremony and those who never partook communion?
 - who worshipped on Sabbath and who never worshipped on Sabbath?

Read last paragraph, "Jesus is calling..." Read bottom green section—"How do we understand..."

Do we believe God is actually kind to the wicked? Or do we believe He is only kind up to a point and He keeps score and if the kindness of God fails to lead a person to repentance then God stops being kind and turns to His scorecard and begins inflicting proper amounts of punishment to make the unrepentant pay?

What is wrong with such a picture? What is the basis for such a picture?

TUESDAY

Love Never Fails—what does this mean? How does love never fail? When does love never fail?

If love never fails what happened to Lucifer and Judas—did Jesus not love Lucifer and Judas? So what happened?

Are there limits to what love can achieve? What determines those limits? What obstructs love?

Why will love never fail? Do we understand love is more than emotion, more than concern, more than goodwill, that love is life itself—how is love life itself?

Does understanding love as the basis of life give insight into how it never fails? What fails is sin—selfishness fails, because sin/selfishness breaks love which fail—that is what fails, love doesn't fail.

Why do selfishness and breaches in love fail? Because those breaches result in pain, destruction and death, but this understanding only works when we return to seeing God as love and His law as love and the universe constructed to operate upon love!

Middle section of the lesson asks, “What are some examples you can find in history, or even today, of how ‘Christians,’ or at least people bearing the name ‘Christians,’ have done some terrible deeds, sometimes even in the name of Jesus?”

- Crusades
- Inquisition
- Burning dissenters at the stake
- Salem witch trials
- Slavery
- Domination of women
- Any use of state power to coerce conscience
- Catholic and Protestant violence
- Rwanda
- Blowing up abortion clinics or shooting abortion doctors
- Domestic violence

Others?

Why would Christians act in such ways? What would cause a person who identifies themselves as Christian to believe it is right to carry out the Crusades, or Inquisition, or torturing unbelievers, or slavery etc.?

What is necessary for such things to occur under the name Jesus Christ?

For the law of God—the law of love, the design protocols of life, to be replaced with the human imposed law concept and to accept the idea that God operates His government no different than humans operate theirs. Once people believe that sin is breaking rules and that broken rules require inflicted punishment then it inevitably leads to the practice of punishing those who don't believe and live the way we do.

Further the false legal definition of sin allows for selfishness to remain in the heart—how? Because under the legal view the problem is the deeds, not the selfishness in the heart, and the legal problem of behaviorally breaking the law is addressed through—

- legal payments
- substitutionary propitiation
- blood sacrifices
- penance
- rituals
- works

All of these concepts allow people to remain self in heart while falsely believing they are right with God. This leads to intolerance in those who are not behaving as we feel pressured to behave. So, what do people do? They seek to control government to force people to obey the rules they want obeyed.

But if one practices such methods what happens to love? Why?

The lesson asks us to examine 1Cor 13 and consider what love does and doesn't do—what does love not do?

Love keeps no record of wrongs—is God love? Then does He keep records of wrongs? Why do so many teach that God has recording angels following you around to keep track of every wrong to make you face and punish you for? But love doesn't do this—something is wrong, what?

If love keeps no record of wrongs does that mean there are no records? Or does the Bible teach there are records? And does the Bible teach people are judged by what is in the records? Then what is the proper understanding, where is the harmony?

Do doctors keep medical records? And do the medical records document the pathology, the disease, the symptoms, the problems? For what purpose? To find wrongs in the patient in order to punish the patient, or to find problems in order to heal? And if a patient refuses treatment and dies of a curable disease whose remedy was provided by the doctor and the family sues, what comes into evidence. The records, for what purpose? To vilify the deceased person or document the proper diagnosis and to demonstrate the death was a result of the choices to refuse what the doctor provided thus the records also vindicate that the doctor did everything right and the only reason the person died was their refusal to accept their diagnosis or what the doctor was providing? This is the purpose of the records in the end!

Read Mark 8:22-25:

They came to Bethsaida, where some people brought a blind man to Jesus and begged him to touch him. ²³Jesus took the blind man by the hand and led him out of the village. After spitting on the man's eyes, Jesus placed his hands on him and asked him, "Can you see anything?"
²⁴The man looked up and said, "Yes, I can see people, but they look like trees walking about."
²⁵Jesus again placed his hands on the man's eyes. This time the man looked intently, his eyesight returned, and he saw everything clearly. ²⁶Jesus then sent him home with the order, "Don't go back into the village." GNT

The top of the lesson asks, "What spiritual lesson can we learn from the fact that Jesus' first healing touch didn't fully heal the blind man?"

Did you notice the lesson interpreted what was stated in Scripture. Did the Scripture state the man was not fully healed on the first touch? No, only that the man didn't see clearly—could there be another explanation—that the man was fully healed the first time, but something else was causing his inability to see clearly?

Here is from The Remedy

²²When they came to Bethsaida, some people brought a blind man to Jesus and begged Jesus to touch him. ²³He led the blind man by the hand outside the village. Then, to avoid introducing doubt, Jesus met the man's expectations for how healing was done and put saliva on the man's eyes and then placed his hands on him. Then Jesus asked, "What do you see?"
²⁴The man looked up and said, "I see people; but its kind of blurry; they look like trees moving about."
²⁵So Jesus touched the man's eyes once more, wiping them clean. Then the man could see everything clearly. ²⁶Jesus sent him home, instructing him, "Don't go back to the village."

To me it sounds like Jesus first healing touch was effective, but the man still had saliva in his eyes that needed to be cleared away. Or, is it more likely that the first touch wasn't enough and Jesus the Creator had to give it a second go?

The lesson asks what spiritual lesson from this description?

Could it mean that when God does something in our lives to enable, equip, empower us for His service that we instead are blinded by the miracle, the equipping, the empowering that we lose sight of where we are to put our ability to use?

Other applications?

THURSDAY

Read top memory text, Philippians 2:3-5: "Do nothing out of selfish ambition or vain conceit, but in humility consider others better than yourselves. ⁴ Each of you should look not only to your own interests, but also to the interests of others. ⁵ Your attitude should be the same as that of Christ Jesus:"

Does this mean all of us are to be doing the same thing? Or, has God gifted people with different abilities in order for the entire body of believers to be benefited?

Have you ever found yourself pressured by a church member to do something for others outside your calling? For instance, some people are not gifted as teachers or speakers, and have no calling by God to teach or speak, but someone might say, "You claim to be a Christian but you won't speak or teach?"

What about saying to someone, "you claim to be a Christian but you don't visit those in prison?" Are all Christians called to visit people in prison? If 100% of Christians visited those in prison as their ministry, who would preach, who would write, who would heal, who would teach the children, who would feed the hungry?

Are we able to recognize that it is okay for a Christian to follow the path God has called for them and not to be derailed onto worthwhile missions that God has called others to fulfill?

When Christ ascended to heaven, He left the work on earth in the hands of His servants, the undershepherds. "And He gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ: till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ." {5T 237.3}

In sending forth His ministers our Saviour gave gifts unto men, for through them He communicates to the world the words of eternal life. This is the means which God has ordained for the perfecting of the saints in knowledge and true holiness...

All who have been benefited by the labors of God's servant should, according to their ability, unite with him in working for the salvation of souls. This is the work of all true believers, ministers and people. They should keep the grand object ever in view, each seeking to fill his proper position in the church, and all working together in order, harmony, and love. {5T 238.1}

Every branch of the work of God is to have recognition. "He gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ." Ephesians 4:11, 12. This Scripture shows that there are to be different workers, different instrumentalities. Each has a different work. No one is required to lay hold of another's work, and, though untrained, try to do it. God has given to each according to his ability. One man may think that his position gives him authority to dictate to other workers, but this is not so. Ignorant of their work, he would enlarge where he should retrench, and retrench where he should enlarge, because he can see only the part of the vineyard where he is working. {8T 170.2}

Jesus Showed Sympathy

I received this email this week:

We are using this book (Could It Be This Simple?) in Folsom Prison Woman's Facility. We just got word we will begin in the men's facility at the end of this month and will need to order more then. I know you have heard this before but this message/book is changing lives. The lives of actual murderers! BTW we finally got the approval to take in The Remedy and it has gone like hot cakes!! We need to send some testimonies in. "Shadow People" seems to be one of the most eye opening chapters next to the first couple of chapters regarding the mind. It's amazing to have the women come in so excited after ready it! It is the highlight of our week--we participate in the most freeing work in the world! It has changed our lives too--the cycle of beneficence in action! Last week we talked about the givers and the takers. How we are changed by what we think and do. May God continue to bless you all!

Susan Kollenberg, California

Before we start the new lesson, there was a point from last week's lesson I wanted to cover, so from Lesson 7: WEDNESDAY

Read Mark 8:22-25:

They came to Bethsaida, where some people brought a blind man to Jesus and begged him to touch him. ²³Jesus took the blind man by the hand and led him out of the village. After spitting on the man's eyes, Jesus placed his hands on him and asked him, "Can you see anything?"

²⁴ The man looked up and said, "Yes, I can see people, but they look like trees walking about."

²⁵ Jesus again placed his hands on the man's eyes. This time the man looked intently, his eyesight returned, and he saw everything clearly. ²⁶ Jesus then sent him home with the order, "Don't go back into the village." GNT

The top of the lesson asks, "What spiritual lesson can we learn from the fact that Jesus' first healing touch didn't fully heal the blind man?"

Did you notice the lesson interpreted what was stated in Scripture? Did the Scripture state the man was not fully healed on the first touch? No, only that the man didn't see clearly—could there be another explanation—that the man was fully healed the first time, but something else was causing his inability to see clearly?

²²When they came to Bethsaida, some people brought a blind man to Jesus and begged Jesus to touch him. ²³He led the blind man by the hand outside the village. Then, to avoid introducing doubt, Jesus met the man's expectations for how healing was done and put saliva on the man's eyes and then placed his hands on him. Then Jesus asked, "What do you see?"

²⁴The man looked up and said, "I see people; but its kind of blurry; they look like trees moving about."

²⁵So Jesus touched the man's eyes once more, wiping them clean. Then the man could see everything clearly. ²⁶Jesus sent him home, instructing him, "Don't go back to the village."

To me it sounds like Jesus first healing touch was effective, but the man still had saliva in his eyes that needed to be cleared away.

Or, is it more likely that the first touch wasn't enough and Jesus the Creator had to give it a second go?

The lesson asks what spiritual lesson from this description?

Could it mean that when God does something in our lives to enable, equip, empower us for His service that we sometimes are instead blinded by the miracle, the equipping, the empowering and lose sight of where we are to put our ability to use?

Other applications?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "The universe..." It is true that such a future—a belief that we live a few years, pass from existence and there is nothing more than the few years we live now, can contribute to a sense of meaninglessness, purposelessness and hopelessness?

Yes, I think such a belief system can lead to a sense of why does it matter anyway. But, what was a contributing factor to the rise of Darwinism and a godless worldview?

Satan has ascribed to God all the evils to which flesh is heir. He has represented him as a God who delights in the sufferings of his creatures, who is revengeful and implacable. It was Satan who originated the doctrine of eternal torment as a punishment for sin, because in this way he could lead men into infidelity and rebellion, distract souls, and dethrone the human reason. {CE 73.2}

What has Satan done? Misrepresented God to be like sinful human beings, and what would be the result of this? Leading people to reject God and become unreasonable in their thinking.

Here is a quote from famed atheist Richard Dawkins:

“The God of the Old Testament is arguably the most unpleasant character in all fiction: jealous and proud of it; a petty, unjust, unforgiving control-freak; a vindictive, bloodthirsty ethnic cleanser; a misogynistic, homophobic, racist, infanticidal, genocidal, filicidal, pestilential, megalomaniacal, sadomasochistic, capriciously malevolent bully.” -- Richard Dawkins, The God Delusion

Which causes a more hopeless future, to believe there is no God or to believe in the god Richard Dawkins describes?

So, when someone rejects a god like Richard Dawkins describes, are they moving away from God or toward Him?

Do we allow for that, or do we thoughtlessly become antagonistic toward atheists who take the position there is no God?

Is there a place to realize the worst view put forth is not the view of the atheist but the view of the religionist who promotes a view of God similar to what Dawkins described above?

The lesson asks us to read the following verses:

Judges 2:16-18:

Then the Lord raised up judges, who saved them out of the hands of these raiders. ¹⁷ Yet they would not listen to their judges but prostituted themselves to other gods and worshiped them. Unlike their fathers, they quickly turned from the way in which their fathers had walked, the way of obedience to the Lord's commands. ¹⁸ Whenever the Lord raised up a judge for them, he was with the judge and saved them out of the hands of their enemies as long as the judge lived; for the Lord had compassion on them as they groaned under those who oppressed and afflicted them.

2Kings 13:22,23:

²² Hazael king of Aram oppressed Israel throughout the reign of Jehoahaz. ²³ But the Lord was gracious to them and had compassion and showed concern for them because of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. To this day he has been unwilling to destroy them or banish them from his presence.

Isaiah 54:7-10:

“For a brief moment I abandoned you,
but with deep compassion I will bring you back.

⁸ In a surge of anger
I hid my face from you for a moment, but with everlasting kindness
I will have compassion on you,” says the Lord your Redeemer.

⁹ “To me this is like the days of Noah, when I swore that the waters of Noah would never again cover the earth.
So now I have sworn not to be angry with you, never to rebuke you again.

¹⁰ Though the mountains be shaken and the hills be removed, yet my unfailing love for you will not be shaken nor my covenant of peace be removed,” says the Lord, who has compassion on you.

Read second paragraph, “Contrary to the popular...” Do you find these texts the most helpful texts in the OT to show God is compassionate to all humanity?

What texts might be more effective in showing God’s compassion to all humans?

Isaiah 19:18-25:

¹⁸ In that day five cities in Egypt will speak the language of Canaan and swear allegiance to the Lord Almighty. One of them will be called the City of Destruction.

¹⁹ In that day there will be an altar to the Lord in the heart of Egypt, and a monument to the Lord at its border. ²⁰ It will be a sign and witness to the Lord Almighty in the land of Egypt. When they cry out to the Lord because of their oppressors, he will send them a savior and defender, and he will rescue them. ²¹ So the Lord will make himself known to the Egyptians, and in that day they will acknowledge the Lord. They will worship with sacrifices and grain offerings; they will make vows to the Lord and keep them. ²² The Lord will strike Egypt with a plague; he will strike them and heal them. They will turn to the Lord, and he will respond to their pleas and heal them.

²³ In that day there will be a highway from Egypt to Assyria. The Assyrians will go to Egypt and the Egyptians to Assyria. The Egyptians and Assyrians will worship together. ²⁴ In that day Israel will be the third, along with Egypt and Assyria, a blessing on the earth. ²⁵ The Lord Almighty will bless them, saying, “Blessed be Egypt my people, Assyria my handiwork, and Israel my inheritance.”

Or, what about the entire book of Jonah—does it show God to be compassionate to more than just the descendants of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob?

Isaiah 56:7: “for my house will be called a house of prayer for all nations.”

What about:

- The mixed multitude saved at the Exodus
- Rahab
- Ruth
- Naaman
- Nebuchadnezzar
- The widow and her son who housed Elijah

Do we have many places in the OT that demonstrate God’s compassion and mercy to all humanity more effectively than those the lesson emphasizes?

So how do we understand the texts the lesson chose? Do they show compassion to the entire human race? How?

It is all about context, what is the context of what is happening on planet earth and specifically to the human race?

Humanity is infected with a terminal condition. ALL human beings will die without Jesus’ incarnation and successful mission. Thus, God is working to save the entire human race, but God is being opposed by forces who want to obstruct Jesus the Remedy. This is what we see transpiring in the OT.

Hollywood uses the great themes of the conflict between good and evil and recasts them in myth, fantasy and metaphor. Metaphorically this problem in the OT is presented in novels and movies—any examples? One of the classic would be in zombie movies. The typical scenario goes like this:

- A greedy corporation develops a virulent virus that gets loose and infects humanity. It spreads across the world in a matter of weeks. (Metaphor for Satan and his thought virus of lies and selfishness which infects the entire human race)
- Those infected become thoughtless, mindless, zombies who are vicious wild animals seeking to destroy and kill anything they can and who are contagious to any they contact. (Metaphor for those hardened in sin beyond healing)
- A remnant of humanity has not yet been infected and one child has a natural immunity to the virus. That child is the key to saving humanity. (Metaphor for sinners who have not rejected the remedy and been hardened beyond healing, and of Jesus the remedy to our sinful condition)
- The child must be taken to a secure research facility with equipment to create an antidote from his blood. (Metaphor for Jesus must become incarnate and live a perfect sinless life in human flesh and destroy the infection of selfishness through His selfless death)

- The few uninfected humans battle the infected humans as they struggle to get the boy to the laboratory. (Metaphor for God's patriarchs, prophets, Abraham and God's faithful through history)

In this movie scenario, do the healthy humans rejoice in their hearts when they kill the infected zombie humans? Or are they trying to save them all by getting a remedy? In the movie scenario, a person on the healthy side is always confronted by a friend or family member who gets infected and has become a zombie and is trying to kill them—what do they do? Why do they do it?

Now, does this metaphor give any insight into what was happening in the Old Testament? Was Satan using human agencies in OT times to try and destroy Israel, the avenue for the Messiah? Was God working to keep that avenue open?

We can add one other piece, that first death is not eternal death and all those who died the first death are not eternally destroyed. So, if we make our movie metaphor more accurate, rather than the healthy people killing the zombies, they would have freeze guns which would put the zombies in cryogenic storage—freeze them—suspend them in time, rather than kill them, and wake them up at a later date.

Now, where do the popular notions of the severe God of the OT come from? From Satan, from accepting Satan's lie about God's character, law and methods.

MONDAY

Read paragraphs 2-4, "The word sympathy also..." The lesson states, "True compassion will lead you toward comforting and actively helping friends as well as strangers in practical ways."

What interferes with our ability to do this?

- Selfishness and an uncaring attitude of course—but anything else?
- Is it only lack of sympathy and empathy—or could it be:
 - fatigue?
 - business?
 - limited time/resources?
 - Did Jesus ever take time away from people in order to rest?
 - What about thinking someone else is already helping?
 - What about fear of being presumptuous? Not being intrusive? Could a person who is empathetic and sympathetic stay away because they perceive the person wants time alone?
- How do we know when to intervene and when not to?
- What helps? Really caring about the other person! When we really care about the other person, then much can be done and much can be accomplished.

- But, what if we act based on obligation, to get credits in our ledger in heaven so we can get a bigger mansion, so we can get others to like us, need us, value us, appreciate us, so we can get converts to our cause?

Can people have equal amounts of love and compassion in their hearts yet take different actions?

Does love and compassion ever discipline, say no, or refuse to relieve a burden? Why? When Paul said those who don't work should not eat, was he being hard-hearted or was he being loving and compassionate? How and why?

So, do we think the best of others who don't show compassion the way we would? Do we allow the Holy Spirit to guide each person to use their abilities, talents, gifts, resources as God directs them?

Have you ever been pressured by someone calling on your Christianity, "You claim to be a Christian but...."?

How do you handle this?

What about someone to you, "you claim to be a Christian but you don't visit those in prison?" Is visiting people in prison one of the ministries Jesus specifically mentions? Yes! Yet, are all Christians called to visit people in prison? If 100% of Christians visited those in prison as their ministry, who would preach, who would write, who would heal, who would teach the children, who would feed the hungry?

Are we able to recognize that it is okay for a Christian to follow the path God has called for them and not to be derailed onto worthwhile missions that God has called others to fulfill?

Here is an interesting quote from one of the founders of the SDA church:

Every branch of the work of God is to have recognition. "He gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ." Ephesians 4:11, 12. This Scripture shows that there are to be different workers, different instrumentalities. Each has a different work. No one is required to lay hold of another's work, and, though untrained, try to do it. God has given to each according to his ability. One man may think that his position gives him authority to dictate to other workers, but this is not so. Ignorant of their work, he would enlarge where he should retrench, and retrench where he should enlarge, because he can see only the part of the vineyard where he is working. {8T 170.2}

Read bottom green section, "While eating..." They use the word "guilty"—do you perceive any wrong done here? If so, what?

Can you personally respond to every disaster, every need, every want in the world?

Does today's modern communications, with TV, internet etc. which broadcasts desperate situations from around the world cause a different experience than people living at the time of Christ when they would have primarily heard only about problems in their local community?

Do you think our modern technology, with telecommunications, causes emotional and empathy burnout in which our finite human ability is paralyzed by the scale of the perceived need? Do we fail to set boundaries and focus only on what we can do, and instead get overwhelmed by focusing on the constant need?

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Compassion comes from the Latin..." The first rule of a psych ward is staff safety, not patient safety, because if the staff are not safe, then no one is safe and no care can be provided.

Likewise, we must love others as we love ourselves. If we do not care for ourselves, provide ourselves good rest, nutrition, time with God, healthy recreation etc. we deplete our energy, vitality, and even the love in our hearts and find ourselves incapable of serving others. We end up sick or dead—remember the life history of James White?

Is such a balanced approach, setting boundaries, taking time away to rest an act of selfishness?

One of Satan's tricks to undermine God's agents is to dupe compassionate people into never saying no, to get them to say yes to all requests, to think that any act for self is selfish and thus burning themselves out.

Second paragraph focuses on the story of the Good Samaritan and notes how the Samaritan had compassion and pity and used his resources to help the injured victim.

What do you see as the most significant difference between the Samaritan and the man in the bottom of Monday's lesson who changed the subject being discussed?

Is it not that the Samaritan was actually in proximity to the injured victim and had a real opportunity to intervene and help, while the man in Monday's lesson had no real opportunity to help and only opportunity for personal mental anguish that would benefit no one?

The lesson states, "sometimes being Christian involves risks and can be, potentially, very costly."

How do you know when it is appropriate to put oneself at risk? What criteria do you use? How do you balance the risk, with Jesus' warning not to cast your pearls before swine lest they turn and rend you asunder, in other words in some circumstances we are not to put ourselves at risk—when?

WEDNESDAY

John 11:35, the funeral of Lazarus, “Jesus wept.” The lesson asks, “What does this verse tell us, not just about the humanity of Jesus, but how in that humanity He related to the suffering of others?”

So, one interpretation here is that Jesus was moved by the sadness and grief He felt in others and empathized and sympathized with their sadness and wept along with them.

Is there any other possibility as to why Jesus wept?

Think about it, if you were going to a funeral of a close relative, everyone is crying, but you know with 100% certainty that you are there to raise the dead back to life—what would you do? Would you extend the pain, the suffering, the sadness, and sit down and wallow in the despair by grieving?

If you came upon someone with a broken leg and they were suffering and you knew with 100% certainty you were there to miraculously, instantaneously heal their leg, would you sit down and cry with them and allow them to suffer longer?

Yes, it is possible Jesus was merely shedding tears of empathy—but I think something else entirely was going on. Is it possible that Jesus was crying for their lack of faith, for their failure to understand who stood amongst them, for their overall darkened minds and hardened hearts that left them so hopeless and discouraged, not merely because Lazarus was asleep?

Read third paragraph, “The weight of the grief of the ages...” Was something more going on with Christ than mere empathy to the family of Lazarus?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “The word comfort comes from...” What do you understand comfort to mean? Does comfort include something that makes us stronger? What?

What brings the most comfort, empathy while we die, or deliverance from what is killing us?

Is there pain, suffering, difficult in the healing process?

Once there is brokenness there are no pain free options—but there are options that, while painful, heal, restore and eventually lead to resolution of pain. This is true in our hearts and minds as well.

Thus, 2Cor 1:3-7, from The Remedy:

³All thanks, acclaim and recognition be to God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ—for he is the Father of mercy, compassion and healing—⁴who provides Remedy for everything that troubles our minds and warps our characters, so that we can share this Remedy, which has brought peace to our minds, with everyone in any distress.⁵As we emulate Christ—suffering as he did—we, through Christ, experience healing and restoration of godly character.⁶If we suffer, it is to comfort you by our example and to encourage you with evidence that in God’s plan, suffering results in healing. It is our comfort to then comfort you with the assurance that endurance in God’s treatment plan, though at times uncomfortable, results in healing and wellness.⁷Our hope for you is strong because we know that if you participate in God’s treatment plan and suffer as we have, you will, like us, experience the comfort of a transformed character and peace with God.

The lesson gives some suggestions on how to empathize and show sympathy:

- be authentic, listen more than speaking
- show sympathy out of your own unique personality
- be present
- allow people space to grieve in their own way
- be educated on the stages of grief
- be careful about saying, “I know how you feel”
- remember there is a place for professional counseling
- Don’t say “I’ll pray for you” unless you will
- organize support groups

The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 9 3Q 2016

Jesus Ministered to Their Needs

I received this email this week:

Dear Team,

My mother and I are working in China sharing with all who will listen the God Who is Love. Those who hear love this. It answers the deep longings of the human heart. We are currently home for the summer holiday but will be returning there August 22. I would like to have this set of videos before we go.

In China you are my Sabbath School that I join every week. I am a teacher in a university and my job is to get my students to talk. I teach them the integrative evidence-based approach to truth and the 7 levels of moral development. They love my classes. This is the grace of God for which I am deeply grateful. Thank you for making these materials free as I also share the website with them.

I was so sorry that The Remedy was not available in hard cover... Those I have shared this with have loved it and it quickly becomes their favorite version. We did a whirlwind tour during Spring Festival of Daniel and Revelation and it helped them so see Jesus as the center of all prophecy and time.

I want to thank all those who make it possible for those of us with limited or no incomes to have these materials. I, too, believe this is the final message to go to the world. I need constant reminders that God is not what His enemies have made Him out to be, arbitrary, unforgiving and severe which my natural, fearful, selfish heart gravitates toward, but that He is a Good Father who loves and wants me above all. And this is what I want to share in word and life to hasten the day.

So, thank you, thank you, thank you!!! And God bless the work you are doing.

SABBATH

Read memory text, “Jesus went through all the towns and villages, teaching in their synagogues, proclaiming the good news of the kingdom and healing every disease and sickness.”

The lesson title is Jesus Ministered to Their Needs, what needs do you hear from this text that Jesus was meeting?

- teaching
- proclaiming the good news of the kingdom—what kingdom?

- healing

What is the greatest need of humanity today?

- Health care?
- Tax relief?
- Food, shelter, clothing?
- Political freedom?
- Social justice and equality?

From the book Education:

Christ is the "Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world." John 1:9. As through Christ every human being has life, so also through Him every soul receives some ray of divine light. Not only intellectual but spiritual power, a perception of right, a desire for goodness, exists in every heart. But against these principles there is struggling an antagonistic power. The result of the eating of the tree of knowledge of good and evil is manifest in every man's experience. There is in his nature a bent to evil, a force which, unaided, he cannot resist. To withstand this force, to attain that ideal which in his inmost soul he accepts as alone worthy, he can find help in but one power. That power is Christ. Co-operation with that power is man's greatest need. In all educational effort should not this co-operation be the highest aim? {Ed 29.1}

Does anyone disagree that the greatest need of every human being is cooperation and unity with Christ? Why is this the greatest of all needs?

But, how do we help people realize this need and connect with Christ? From the book Christ's Object Lessons:

Sin is the greatest of all evils, and it is ours to pity and help the sinner. But not all can be reached in the same way. There are many who hide their soul hunger. These would be greatly helped by a tender word or a kind remembrance. There are others who are in the greatest need, yet they know it not. They do not realize the terrible destitution of the soul. Multitudes are so sunken in sin that they have lost the sense of eternal realities, lost the similitude of God, and they hardly know whether they have souls to be saved or not. They have neither faith in God nor confidence in man. Many of these can be reached only through acts of disinterested kindness. Their physical wants must first be cared for. They must be fed, cleansed, and decently clothed. As they see the evidence of your unselfish love, it will be easier for them to believe in the love of Christ. {COL 387.1}

Did you hear two different groups described?

- One who know their need but hide it, these are people who live behind masks, walking around fearful of someone discovering their true selves, not believing anyone could really like them if they new them. The woman caught in adultery and dragged before Christ would be such a person. The woman at the well would be another. And how did Christ reach them? Just as was said above, by speaking tender words to them.
- But there is another class, those who don't even realize they have souls needing saving, so burdened with life and ignorant of God and distrusting human beings. They are reached by acts of disinterested kindness, meeting their physical needs.

For an example of this class of people Read Sabbath's lesson, "A retired..." What was happening in this story? What is drawing the people? Was it a way of living that put them in harmony with nature and resulted in real improvement in their wellbeing?

Why did it result in real improvement in their wellbeing? Because they were working with the laws of nature, teaching how to live in harmony with those laws, and who created those laws? This is God's law, His design for life.

The last sentence said a "powerful and practical example." Is there any form of truth that is not practical, that doesn't actually apply, and work in our lives for our healing and restoration?

How many things done in religion are impractical, or become impractical? Why, what causes something to be impractical?

What does practical mean? Useful, something that actually works.

And impractical means not useful, not helpful. So, what things done in religion are impractical and why?

And this brings us to a third class of people not spoken of in the quote above, can anyone think of that class?

- The Laodiceans? Those who believe they are righteous, they realize they have souls to save, but think they are already saved—already spiritual healthy and well when they are not.

Do such religious people do things that are impractical? Examples?

- All superstitions
- How about vegans who become so strict that they die of malnutrition?
- How about persons who refuse antibiotics for their children and their children die of curable diseases?
- How about people with mental health problems who refuse treatment because they believe if they had more faith they wouldn't need treatment?

This type of impractical belief system is perhaps the saddest of all because these are typically good-hearted people, who truly want to do what is right, but who have been deceived into believing something that is actually harmful.

And, does anyone have an insight what one of the common underlying beliefs are that contributes to most of these impractical beliefs? Misconstruing God's law as imposed, which results in viewing God as a cosmic judge who must punish sin, and sin is doing bad things which deserve to be punished. This leads to a fear based religion, so people focus on self, they don't want to eat the wrong things, they don't want to be accountable before God for giving their children medicine and not having enough faith, etc. This is all fear based religion, which results when we accept the lie about God's law.

What is the solution? Jesus—who is God's law made visible and accessible to us. What do we see in Jesus? Did He ever punish anyone? What did He do to Judas? How did He treat His enemies trying to kill Him? Jesus is God made visible to us—yet we constantly deny the testimony of Jesus.

Remember Revelation says the Remnant who are saved at the end of time, hold to the testimony of Jesus—are we? Are we holding to the testimony Jesus gave about His Father?

SUNDAY

The lesson references the story of Jesus on his way to heal Jairus' daughter when the woman with the history of bleeding touched his garment and was healed. The lesson describes this as Jesus being interrupted and then asks some questions, read second through fourth paragraph, "Let's face it..."

The lesson is making some good points about the struggles we often have with interruptions, no doubt. Yet, I am not certain the example chosen is the best for depicting someone interrupting Jesus.

Did the woman interrupt what Jesus was doing, or did she act unobtrusively such that no one noticed her, except Jesus perceived healing energy leave Him? And who stopped what Jesus was doing? Jesus did, why? Why did Jesus stop, because this was an interruption and He needed to make it clear people should not interrupt Him? Was this an interruption?

I don't think so. What was Jesus mission? Jesus was on earth to reveal and restore God's true character into all people and strengthen their confidence in God by living and revealing God's true methods. Did stopping to expose this healing to all the people and to commend the woman's faith, interrupt His mission, or did it provide an opportunity to magnify and emphasize His mission?

Even when He was teaching and the paralytic was lowered down from the roof above in the middle of His discourse, Jesus didn't take this as an interruption, but as a grand opportunity. Consider the high drama that must have occurred at that moment. If anyone in the crowd was dozing off don't you think they came alert at this point? And Jesus used this to magnify and emphasize His mission of revealing God's character! So, even this was not an interruption to His mission!

But there were interruptions, any examples? All the traps and tricks set for Him by the religious leaders, these were designed to derail Him, divert His attention, distract Him, trick Him, trap Him... How did Jesus handle such interruptions?

What about the interruption when Peter pulled out his sword or when Peter said no way Lord, you aren't going to go and die—was Peter seeking to interrupt the Jesus' mission? And how did Jesus respond to these interruptions?

Peter in those two places, and the religious leaders however, were interruptions. And notice how Jesus handled those?

What is the lesson for us in dealing with interruptions? To first know what our mission is, what our goals are. Are we on task for God, is our primary goal to reveal God in all we do, or do we get distracted on the things of the world and miss our true mission and purpose—which is how we handle things, not the things themselves?

This gives us a good example of how the Bible can be interpreted to mean different things to different people, depending on their viewpoint, how they are understanding what they are reading. To me the lesson misses the true mission of Jesus and thus interprets the woman touching Jesus' hem as an interruption that Jesus doesn't consider an interruption but an opportunity and part of His mission. Such misinterpretations can lead people to draw the wrong lesson from Jesus' actions.

If you find yourself being irritated by interruptions, perhaps rather than getting down on yourself for being irritated, it might be time to step back and ask, What is my mission and is this really interfering with my mission, or an opportunity to magnify God and His kingdom of love?

MONDAY

The lesson points us to blind Bartimaeus and the paralytic of 38 years and points out that Jesus asked them both questions, and the lesson asks "Why would He do that?"

Why would Jesus ask them questions, like "What do you want" or "Do you want to get well?"

As a doctor, I always ask my patients, during their initial evaluation, what their goal is in coming to see me, what they want—why? Because not every person actually wants to get well. Some, in fact, do not want to get well, some have habituated their lives in the sick role and use their symptoms as tools to control the people in their lives. If these individuals didn't have their symptoms they would have to get a job, do chores, care for themselves, lose their disability check and some people have become secure, comfortable in their sickness and it frightens them to get well. They are afraid if they were not sick their spouse might leave them, or they fear they would fail, so it is easier to stay sick and be cared for by others.

Jesus is asking what they want because God doesn't violate freewill. God does not force people to be well who don't want it. In fact, doctors really can't heal people against their will. I have patients that I know a certain treatment is extremely likely to benefit them, but if they have been biased against the treatment, and have a strong enough belief that it will cause them terrible side effects, I don't even try it, why? Because their strong belief will almost certainly cause those side effects, which would negate the benefit of the treatment, but further undermine their confidence in me and damage our therapeutic relationship as they would feel like I don't listen to them.

Does God ever take actions with us that He knows is not the most likely to help, but He is limited in what He can do for us by our biases and strongly held beliefs, doubts, fears, preconceived ideas? Remember when Jesus was on earth there were entire villages where He could do very little because their minds were so closed to Him.

Further, Jesus wanted to engage them in relationship with Him. He wanted them to realize they were seeking something from Him and open their hearts and minds to something more than just the physical healing.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Jesus, as the Lord, knew more..." The lesson rightly points out that Jesus did know things about people, what was in their hearts, what they were planning, like the fact that Judas was going to betray Him, and in other situations before they disclosed their intentions. So this is a fact of history. Do we all agree Jesus did have these insights into people?

But the question is how the lesson used the phrase, "as the Lord" and what they mean by it? Are they suggesting that Jesus, because He was fully God, was using His own divine abilities and power to access knowledge that other humans could not access?

Would it be an issue if Jesus did do this? Why or why not?

Are there evidences in Scripture that Jesus did NOT perform any miracle, which would include the miracle of knowledge, by using His own divine power?

- Mark 1:35 "Very early in the morning, while it was still dark, Jesus got up, left the house and went off to a solitary place, where he prayed."
- Luke 5:16 "But Jesus often withdrew to lonely places and prayed."
- Luke 6:12 "One of those days Jesus went out to a mountainside to pray, and spent the night praying to God."
- Gethsemane—Jesus praying for strength

Why does Jesus pray if He has access to His own divine abilities?

John 5:30, Jesus says by Himself he can do nothing, what does this mean? Isn't He fully God? Then why can He do nothing by Himself? Because, at that time He had divested Himself from accessing His divine abilities, and everything He did, He did by trust in His Father. In other words:

- Jesus raised the dead like Elijah raised the dead
- Jesus walked on water like Elisha raised an axe head
- Jesus healed the sick like the Apostles healed the sick
- Jesus had foreknowledge like Daniel had foreknowledge
- Jesus face radiate like the sun like Elijah's and Moses' face next to him

Why is it important to realize this? What is implied if we suggest Jesus was using His own powers? - That Jesus didn't have to trust His Father—and what would be the problem if Jesus didn't have to trust His Father? That Jesus didn't overcome as a human, which would mean Jesus didn't exercise His human brain to develop a perfect human character. The remedy for sin would not have been achieved. Also, it would not have been demonstrated that there was no manufacturer's defect in the creation of man. Jesus, living a perfect sinless life—as a human—accessing only the powers available to all humans who trust God as Jesus did, not only developed a perfect human character, but demonstrated that there was no defect in humankind as God created him.

Thus Jesus not only reveals the Father perfectly, reveals His own character perfectly, while simultaneously exposing Satan as a liar and fraud, but also develops a perfect human character in the damaged machinery of weakened humanity, thus demonstrating God's creation was not flawed, another evidence vindicating God and His design for life!

The next two paragraphs are about the paralytic man lowered through the roof in front of Jesus, and before Jesus healed him Jesus said, "your sins are forgiven you."

Several questions to consider:

- In that culture would it have been hard for people to realize the man's sins had been forgiven prior to the events of this day? Why? What made that hard to realize?
- Was the man truly forgiven of his sin?
- When was the man forgiven? When did God forgive the man?
- What caused God to forgive the man?
 - For God so loved the world...
 - While we were yet sinners Christ died for us...
- Was God the problem that needed a solution? In other words, was God unforgiving and something needed to be done to God to get God to forgive?
- So, when was this man forgiven?
- What did the man believe about his standing before God?
- Why did the paralytic believe he was in a condemned state before God?
- Did the man's belief about God's attitude toward him, that God had not forgiven him, accurately reflect God's attitude?
- So, was God forgiving toward this man BEFORE the man knew it?

- What prevented the man from experiencing God's forgiveness?
- His false beliefs about God and sin, and where did those false beliefs originate—did the man make those ideas up? No! Those false beliefs came from his church—thus he was made twice the son of hell, because he was indoctrinated into a false system about God that kept him trapped in despair, guilt and hopelessness.
- So, what did Jesus do? He overturned their theories about God. He demonstrated God forgives freely, without payment, without legal adjustment, without being pled with, without sacrifices being offered. And to prove it, Jesus healed the man, taking away that culture's evidence of condemnation and providing evidence of good standing before God.
- How did the religious leaders react?
- Why?
- Because they had their legal system of appeasement and payments based on a false law construct, and refused the truth.

This is exactly what happens in many places today when we take the truth about God's character and methods of love. Those stuck in penal substitution theology reject the truth and cling to the false law construct.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson is about Dorcas, who ministered to those in need in her community.

Read second paragraph, "The 'believers'..." This would be excellent, to have people say such things. Would it be less excellent if they instead said, "See how those Christians love and care for others?"

Are we trying to get people to see the SDA church or Jesus Christ? Is there a difference?

What are we promoting when we promote the kingdom of God? How does one enter God's kingdom? How does one become a member of God's kingdom?

Is membership in God's kingdom the same as joining a denomination?

Can we sometimes miss the mark, miss the mission Christ has sent us on by focusing on the institution?

THURSDAY

Read memory text, "Commit to the Lord whatever you do, and he will establish your plans." (Prov. 16:3)

What does this mean? How do you understand it?

Does it mean:

- Commit to the Lord the plans you make and He will establish and ensure your plans work out?
- Commit to the Lord your activities and He will make the plans that will ensure the venture works out?
- Commit yourself to the Lord and plan to follow Him and then having experienced a renewed heart, and following in your mind, heart, methods the leading of the Holy Spirit your plans will be His plans and He will ensure they succeed?
- Or, something else?

Here is this verse from several versions. The lesson states they quoted the NIV, they actually quoted Today's NIV which is an updated version of the NIV, but this is the original NIV:

- Commit to the LORD whatever you do, and your plans will succeed. NIV
- Ask the LORD to bless your plans, and you will be successful in carrying them out. GNT
- Put GOD in charge of your work, then what you've planned will take place. The Message
- Commit your work to the LORD, and your plans will be established. NRSV
- Commit your works to the LORD, And your thoughts will be established. NKJV

What does it mean? If you commit your work to God, then God will make it happen?

The last paragraph references Luke 14:34,35: ““Salt is good, but if it loses its saltiness, how can it be made salty again? ³⁵ It is fit neither for the soil nor for the manure pile; it is thrown out.”

Then the lesson states, “The flavor of the salt in Luke 14:34 represents devotion. Without this, our service, our discipleship, is useless and meaningless.”

Do you agree that the flavor of the salt represents devotion? Or does it represent the actual savor of heaven, which is truth, love and freedom?

Can you be devoted to things without the savor of heaven? So, can people be zealously devoted to religions that violate God's character of love, truth and freedom? And if so, do they have the heavenly salt because they are devoted? No! The salt, in my view doesn't represent devotion, but the proper savor of heaven, which is a character like Jesus!

The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 10 3Q 2016

Jesus Won Their Confidence

I received this update from Gary Jones and Come and Reason Canada:

We have been reaching out to our brothers and sisters of all faiths this month and we have two more C&R branches one in Ontario and one in Halifax and that now makes 4 C&R branches in Canada thus far. We are working on having one in Western Canada soon.

David Clarke from Ontario stopped here in Nova Scotia on his way to Newfoundland and picked up one case of each DVD series to give out there and take the remainder back to Ontario. We are praying someone in Newfoundland will ask to become a C&R branch.

Yes there is one more thing. I was just chatting via Skype with a friend that is with Paradigm Missions in Uganda. Her name is Linelle, I told her about C&R some time ago and she check it out and is now using C&R to teach the God of Love message to close to 13 villages. From what she was saying it's a new message to the people of Uganda and most of them are from a religious background and Christian backgrounds. C&R is opening hearts and eyes in place with no light and I mean no electricity or water but they are now getting the light of God and the Water of the Spirit. I will update you with more on this, I asked Linelle to send me a email with a update on this.

*God Bless,
Gary*

Here is the email from Linelle in Uganda:

Hi Gary

I just wanted to share a little bit about what I have been doing here in Uganda and the work of Paradigm Missions and how Come and Reason has become a part of that program.

Now that we are in full swing evangelism mode it has become vital to ensure that the people who are reaching out into the community not only understand the gospel commission in its holistic context but also that they have a true and accurate picture of God to portray to the people. Sadly the culture here is one of fear. Beating is the modus operandus of homes and business and people really feel that taking advantage of others and getting something for nothing is the way to go. Children are not instructed in the way to behave, they are left to roam until an adult is annoyed with them and then they are beaten and then given instructions later. I have witnessed in horror as Christians have chosen this kind of management strategy. Women even say they wouldn't feel that their husband loved them if he didn't beat them to correct them. It's incredibly sad to walk around the block during the evening and hear the screaming of women and children inside houses while the people on the street and in the yards pay no mind because it is standard practice.

I have been working through the Come and Reason material with my volunteers during the week and preaching the message of a God of Love in Sabbath School and church and putting it into practice in Sabbath afternoon outreach here in Kotido. They are really drinking it in and asking lots of questions and shifting their understanding. The brand new converts who have only ever heard the message of the God of Love just smile as I preach and cannot seem to get enough of this great news - which of course it is.

As you described your strategy to give Come and Reason DVDs with every Christian book purchase at your local bookshop I instantly thought of the high volume of spiritual books available in bookstores in Kampala and how popular they are. We could totally replicate that process here and have a positive impact on people's understanding of God in this way. I really believe this is the only way this country can move forward from its current attitudes and functioning. Indeed it is the only way forward for all of us.

I loved Tim's statement in the Question and Answer time of the God and Your Church series where it was spelt out clearly that God will only pour out his Holy Spirit on those who are accurately representing his character. This is exactly what we are here to do. This is evident in the leaps and bounds we are making "... in drawing all men unto Him." It really isn't our work, it is His and it is just fantastic to see the truth flourishing.

Currently we desperately need a church building to accommodate the incredible growth of the membership here. Each week new souls are added to the congregation and even those who have only attended a few times are bringing their friends and they are bringing their friends as they see the value in what they are receiving. We desperately want to construct two churches here in northern Karamoja before the end of the year and we have the land, the building plans and a builder. Now we are just praying for the $50,000 to make that happen as we 'shake every tree'. I know you will join with us in bringing this before the Lord and putting your mind to the task as well.

God bless you as you continue to serve him in whatever way you can. You have certainly been a blessing to me and Paradigm Missions.

Kindly Linelle

SABBATH

What do you think of the title? How did Jesus win their confidence? What did He do? What qualities did Jesus possess and display that won their confidence?

The Jews in Christ day had this same question, should we have confidence, trust, faith in Jesus or not, notice this discussion they had with Jesus in John 6:28-30:

Then they asked him, “What must we do to do the works God requires?”

Jesus answered, “The work of God is this: to believe in the one he has sent.”

So they asked him, “What miraculous sign then will you give that we may see it and believe you? What will you do?”

What were they looking for in order to have confidence in Jesus? Was it important for Jesus to perform miracles? Why?

Yes, it was important because one of the evidences Jesus needed to demonstrate was that He does have power over nature, sickness and death itself. Why was this an important evidence to demonstrate?

What if Jesus had only demonstrated great wisdom, love, truth, but had no power over nature, sickness and death?

In delaying to come to Lazarus, Christ had a purpose of mercy toward those who had not received Him. He tarried, that by raising Lazarus from the dead He might give to His stubborn, unbelieving people another evidence that He was indeed "the resurrection, and the life." He was loath to give up all hope of the people, the poor, wandering sheep of the house of Israel. His heart was breaking because of their impenitence. In His mercy He purposed to give them one more evidence that He was the Restorer, the One who alone could bring life and immortality to light. This was to be an evidence that the priests could not misinterpret. This was the reason of His delay in going to Bethany. This crowning miracle, the raising of Lazarus, was to set the seal of God on His work and on His claim to divinity. {DA 529.1}

So, for Jesus it was very important, that in addition to demonstrating the truth of God’s character, that He was a conduit of God’s creative energies and demonstrated miracle working power.

But, are miracles alone a good barometer for having confidence in someone? Another way to say it, are miracles alone a good basis to put our faith or trust in someone? Why or why not?

Can miracles be counterfeited? Can great magicians perform what appear to be miracles?

- Jannes and Jambres counterfeited the miracle of the staff turning to a serpent (Exodus 7:11, 2Tim 3:8)

Can true miracles be performed by agents of evil?

- Serpent spoke in Eden
- Satan showed Jesus a great panorama and transported Jesus to the top of the temple
- Satan brought fire and storm in the book of Job

- Revelation says the image to the beast will bring fire down from heaven

Here is a quote from one of the founders of the SDA church:

The way in which Christ worked was to preach the Word, and to relieve suffering by miraculous works of healing. But I am instructed that we cannot now work in this way, for Satan will exercise his power by working miracles. God's servants today could not work by means of miracles, because spurious works of healing, claiming to be divine, will be wrought.--2SM 54 (1904). {LDE 169.2}

God's people will not find their safety in working miracles, for Satan will counterfeit the miracles that will be wrought.--9T 16 (1909). {LDE 169.3}

What does this mean? Does this mean that the true movement of God will not be accompanied by miracles, but the false movement will be, and we merely need to watch for miracles and go the other way?

Joel prophesied that before the Lord comes there will be a latter rain of the Holy Spirit—will the latter rain come with less miracle working power than Pentecost?

“And afterward, I will pour out my Spirit on all people. Your sons and daughters will prophesy, your old men will dream dreams, your young men will see visions. ²⁹ Even on my servants, both men and women, I will pour out my Spirit in those days. ³⁰ I will show wonders in the heavens and on the earth Joel 2:28-30

Would this include miracles? What about this quote from the same SDA founder:

It is with an earnest longing that I look forward to the time [It hadn't yet happened in 1886 when she wrote this] when the events of the Day of Pentecost shall be repeated with even greater power than on that occasion. John says, "I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory" [Revelation 18:1]. Then, as at the Pentecostal season, the people will hear the truth spoken to them, every man in his own tongue.--6BC 1055 (1886). {LDE 202.3}

In visions of the night, representations passed before me of a great reformatory movement among God's people. Many were praising God. The sick were healed, and other miracles were wrought. A spirit of intercession was seen, even as was manifested before the great Day of Pentecost.--9T 126 (1909). {LDE 202.4}

The great work of the gospel is not to close with less manifestation of the power of God than marked its opening. The prophecies which were fulfilled in the outpouring of the former rain at the opening of the gospel, are again to be fulfilled in the latter rain at its close. . . . {LDE 203.1}

Servants of God, with their faces lighted up and shining with holy consecration, will hasten from place to place to proclaim the message from heaven. By thousands of voices, all over the earth, the warning will be given. Miracles will be wrought, the sick will be healed, and signs and wonders will follow the believers.--GC 611, 612 (1911). {LDE 203.2}

What does this mean? How do you understand the two statements? Is there a contradiction?

Did she say that miracles would not accompany the true work of God, or that miracles would not be the proof of God's endorsement and safety in whom we trust could not be found in miracles? In other words, was she saying that miracles are no longer valid evidence of God's true movement because both sides will be performing miracles? So, God's people can absolutely look for miracles to accompany the work, but the presence or absence of miracles has ZERO bearing on whether the work is approved of God or not.

So, how did Jesus win their confidence? In addition to miracles, what else did Jesus provide that won their confidence?

- Kindness
- Trustworthiness
- Loyalty
- Reliability
- Genuine love—for all people—breaking down prejudices
- Gentleness
- Mercy
- Knowledge of how reality actually works and able to explain the true meaning of Scripture
- Value of truth over tradition and authority of office
- Courage—standing for truth in face of institutional opposition
- True to duty, continuing His mission in spite of opposition
- Wisdom
- other qualities?

What is the message and method we are to use to win people to God's kingdom today? We have read most of the following quote before, but notice the last part, in the context of what is to be the message to win people:

It is the darkness of misapprehension of God that is enshrouding the world. Men are losing their knowledge of His character. It has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. At this time a message from God is to be proclaimed, a message illuminating in its influence and saving in its power. His character is to be made known. Into the darkness of the world is to be shed the light of His glory, the light of His goodness, mercy, and truth... {COL 415.3}

Those who wait for the Bridegroom's coming are to say to the people, "Behold your God." The last rays of merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is a revelation of His character of love. The children of God are to manifest His glory. In their own life and character they are to reveal what the grace of God has done for them. {COL 415.5}

What does it mean to reveal God's character in our own?

- The proud become humble
- The mean become kind
- The cruel become compassionate
- The selfish become loving
- The critical become merciful
- The gossips become confidants who hold their tongues
- The insecure become sure and strong
- The fearful become courageous
- The hoarders become givers
- The weak become strong
- The ignorant become knowledgeable
- The foolish become wise
- The coercive become liberators
- The discouraged become hopeful
- The doubters become certain
- The deceitful become honest
- The addicted become free
- Those in darkness become enlightened

Other qualities?

And what happens when people are changed like this? What is the impact upon them, their families, their communities?

And what does it mean when such transformation happens? How is it possible?

Is not the transformation of hearts and minds the most magnificent evidence of God's power, the miracle working power of God?

Which is the greater evidence of God's miracle working power, for the Creator to speak something into existence that is perfect, or to take corruption and return it to perfection?

This is what the church at the end of time is to accomplish—we are to proclaim a message, “Be in awe God, and reveal His character within you (bring Him glory) for the time in human history has come for people to make a right judgment about God, for people to throw off the lies about God and return to Him and worship Him who made the heavens, earth, and fountains of water—to worship the Designer and reject the dictator views of God!”

We do this by becoming the righteousness of God—“God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God.” 2Cor 5:21

This is the final message!

And when we experience this life transforming power, renewing us to be like Jesus, should we expect other miracles to accompany our work? Do we see few miracles today because we ask for few and we expect few? Should we ask for more?

When can we have confidence that miracles will happen?

I tell you the truth, anyone who has faith in me will do what I have been doing. He will do even greater things than these, because I am going to the Father.¹³ And I will do whatever you ask in my name, so that the Son may bring glory to the Father.¹⁴ You may ask me for anything in my name, and I will do it. Jn 14:12-14

What is the condition to expect miracles?

But to pray in Christ's name means much. It means that we are to accept His character, manifest His spirit, and work His works {DA 668.2}

Remember name means character, so when Jesus says to ask for anything in His name, it means with the same character, attitude, motive, desire, purpose, reason, i.e. because you love God and others and want to advance God's kingdom.

Here is John 14:12-14 from The Remedy

I tell you the truth: Anyone who genuinely trusts me will also be in unity with the Father and will reveal his character—just as I have been doing. His life will be a further revelation of the life-giving power of God and the healing power of his methods. My life reveals the truth of God's character and methods; but those who trust in me will reveal that God's methods, when applied in trust via the Spirit of God, actually heal and transform those who are deformed by sin. I am going to the Father.¹³ And I will do whatever you ask—that is in harmony with my character, methods, and principles—so that the Son may bring honor and glory to the Father by revealing the healing and life-giving power of his methods.¹⁴ You may ask me for anything in harmony with my character and methods, and I will do it.

SUNDAY

Read first two paragraphs, “After desiring...” What do you understand is being described here regarding faith or confidence?

The basic concept is one of persuading a person in their own mind and heart into agreement, thus amen really means, “I agree” or “That’s right” or “Well said” or “Absolutely true.” The idea is that you as an individual have comprehended the concept, thought it through, come to understand, value and choose with your own unique identity and individuality to align yourself with that truth, to make it a part of yourself.

This is what Paul is referring to in Romans 14:5 when he says, regarding which day people esteem Sabbath or another day, that every person should be fully persuaded in their own mind. Paul is not commenting on which day is Sabbath, or the sanctity of Sabbath, but the fact that regardless of truth it has no transforming power in an individual’s heart and mind until they are persuaded and actively choose it for themselves.

The last sentence says, “Yet, when those we serve show confidence in us, we must point them to Jesus and what He has done for them.”

How do you do this? What do you tell people that Jesus has done for them? Does the explanation you provide increase or decrease people’s confidence in Jesus and the Father?

A few weeks back I brought to class an evangelistic tool some people use. It was designed to look like a one million dollar bill and on the back it read:

Here Is The Million Dollar Question: Will you go to Heaven when you die? Here’s a quick test: have you ever lied, stolen, or used God’s name in vain? Jesus said, “Whoever looks at a woman to lust for her has already committed adultery with her in his heart.” If you have done these things, God sees you as a lying, thieving, blasphemous, adulterer at heart, and the Bible warns that one day God will punish you in a terrible place called Hell. But God is not willing that any should perish. Sinners broke God’s Law and Jesus paid their fine. This means that God can legally dismiss their case: “For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life.” Then Jesus rose from the dead, defeating death. Today, repent and trust Jesus, and God will give you eternal life as a free gift. Then read the Bible daily and obey it. God will never fail you.

Does such a presentation increase or decrease trust in God? What kind of a god is presented in this view? This is a pagan god, this is not the God Jesus revealed. This comes from accepting the lie about God’s law and seeing God functioning no different than human dictators—and who would trust a human dictator? So, what view of God do you present?

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, “At the same time...” This is a very good point, all God’s representatives (other than Jesus) are sinners, which means they have faults, weaknesses, make mistakes, are in need of the same remedy as we are. Do we allow for this, or if we see someone working for God’s cause, and find some fault in them do we get offended, do we reject the message they are presenting because of it?

- Jonah had prejudice problems, was he a false prophet?
- David had anger issues, was he God’s enemy?

Do we see God’s messengers, prophets, Apostles as real people, or do we tend to put them on some idealistic pedestals? Have you ever considered what it might have been like to be around the New Testament Apostles?

- Paul is described by the Corinthians as small, weak and a dry boring speaker
- Peter was impulsive, blurting out answers, not waiting his turn, jumping out of boats, cutting off ears, acting frequently without thinking first.
- James and John were called sons of thunder and were constantly vying for first place, seeking advantages for themselves, and judgmental of others, asking if they should call fire down from heaven on the Samaritans (Lk 9:54)
- What of Matthew? Was he perhaps quiet, unassuming, introvert—more of the classic accountant type? Or, the proud, intrusive, extortionist?

Understanding the Apostles were all human beings, does it give insight into why many people didn’t listen to them? And does it make clear why we are to point people to Jesus and not ourselves.

The same is true today, for each of us, we are not perfect, each of us has human frailties, weakness, issues we are struggling to overcome. One of Satan’s strategies when the true gospel message is presented is to get people to focus on the messenger rather than the message.

This is a classic attack on EGW and the allegations some bring about plagiarism. To me such allegations are irrelevant, the question is whether what she wrote was true or not, that is what matters, not the primary sources for each point.

Read last paragraph, “Of course, we...” What is required to be the kind of people that can be relied upon and trusted?

Does these passage help?

Then we will no longer be infants, tossed back and forth by the waves, and blown here and there by every wind of teaching and by the cunning and craftiness of men in their deceitful scheming.

¹⁵ Instead, speaking the truth in love, we will in all things grow up into him who is the Head, that is, Christ. Eph 4:14,15

We have much to say about this, but it is hard to explain because you are slow to learn.¹² In fact, though by this time you ought to be teachers, you need someone to teach you the elementary truths of God's word all over again. You need milk, not solid food!¹³ Anyone who lives on milk, being still an infant, is not acquainted with the teaching about righteousness.¹⁴ But solid food is for the mature, who by constant use have trained themselves to distinguish good from evil. Heb 5:11-14

What quality is described here? Maturity! What does it mean to be mature?

- To be able think for oneself and discern truth from error
- To be able to stand firm for what is true and not be overly influenced by the opinion of others

Consider the types of Untrustworthiness:

- The untrustworthiness of the evil in heart, the terrorist, the antisocial sociopath, the person with intent to harm—such people we cannot trust
 - But most people are not in this category, most people that betray our trust are not intentionally seeking to do so
- The untrustworthiness of the immature
 - If you were treasurer of your church and collected $5000 in cash and your 5 y/o child said, "I will take that to the bank for you mommy/daddy." Would you trust them to do? Because they have evil intent? No! Because they are not mature enough to handle the responsibility
 - This is what the Bible is describing above, people with good intent but they have not
 - Mastered themselves
 - Matured
 - Learned to think for themselves
 - Developed the ability to tolerate rejection if necessary
 - Developed discernment and wisdom
 - Come to love others more than self (Peter upper room)

TUESDAY

The Proverb at the top states, "A good name is more desirable than great riches; to be esteemed is better than silver or gold." (22:1)

What is the point of this proverb? That retaining one's integrity is better than compromising one's self for money.

The point of the proverb is that we are to value mature Christlike character above wealth or earthly attainments.

Absolutely true—but what is the potential misunderstanding that might occur from this proverb that would be harmful?

Valuing the estimation (esteem) of others, letting the opinion and feedback of others be the measure of your character, such that one becomes focused, not on being the healthiest most Christlike person they can be through God's grace, but instead focusing on what others think of them. Why is this a problem?

This is what Peter did when Paul confronted him publicly. Peter was concerned about being esteemed by the Jewish leaders and this concern caused him to compromise his character and misrepresent the gospel. Instead of standing for truth, instead of witnessing God's love for all people, and thus being the most Christlike person, he compromised for the approval of others and damaged himself as well as his witness and misrepresented the gospel, for which Paul needed to correct him.

I love this quote:

The greatest want of the world is the want of men--men who will not be bought or sold, men who in their inmost souls are true and honest, men who do not fear to call sin by its right name, men whose conscience is as true to duty as the needle to the pole, men who will stand for the right though the heavens fall. {Ed 57.3}

But such a character is not the result of accident; it is not due to special favors or endowments of Providence. A noble character is the result of self-discipline, of the subjection of the lower to the higher nature--the surrender of self for the service of love to God and man. {Ed 57.4}

Read last two paragraphs, "The means that..." What do you think of the idea of God using people who are not converted to Him to help promote the gospel and His cause?

The lesson states the support of those not on the team shouldn't automatically be accepted or automatically be rejected. What criteria should one use? What makes the difference?

- If it is given with or without strings? How about designated donation—give specifically for a building project, or food for the hungry, or missions? Does such designation mean strings attached?
- If given without quid pro quo—meaning no favors are expected in return. What if someone wants a church plant in a certain part of town so they make a donation? What if a member of the church wants a position on the church board for a large donation to the building fund? Or a position on the school board for a large donation to the worthy student fund?
- What if the money comes from sources contrary to the mission of the church? See Friday question 3
 - What determines if it is "tainted money"?
 - Where did the wealth come from to build the sanctuary of the Lord at Sinai?
 - Should the church investigate the sources of a person's money?
 - What if the money is donated by a prostitute? Did Jesus reject the donation of a gift costing a year's salary? Yet, she was converted. Would he have rejected a donation from anyone?

- What of the donation of the church board member who makes a large donation in order to have their name on a building?
- What if a drug dealer recognized the good a Christian clinic was doing in their neighborhood, because his mother benefited from the clinic and made a large donation?
- What about money gained from industrial farms or slaughter houses? Or companies that have been caught illegally dumping toxic waste?
- In the August 2016 NAD issue of the Adventist Review on page 11 there is an article entitled, “Oakwood University Church Honors NBA Legend Magic Johnson” The article reports that Magic Johnson donated $500,000 to the Oakwood University church’s family life center and created a $50,000 scholarship. Any thoughts on accepting this money?

Should we be in the business of investigating donations or using what is donated for God’s cause and not allowing our mission to be diverted by the donors?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “There is no question...” Any examples of the light from the Lord with which we have been blessed?

- Health message
- Day of rest
- The Great Controversy of God’s character
- The truth of God’s character
- God’s design law

The lesson listed several theological issues for which we have light, “such as understanding the Cross, the sanctuary, the state of the dead, the Sabbath, the great controversy.”

Do we have clear understanding on all these issues? Is the explanation of the sanctuary clear, or still trapped in metaphor, symbol and dark speech?

Are all presentations of the Cross within our own church enlightening, or do some presentations actually darken the mind about God?

The last paragraph asks, “Would our community miss us if somehow our congregation disappeared overnight?” Would Come and Reason Ministries be missed if we suddenly were no longer here?

The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 11 3Q 2016 Jesus Bade Them “Follow Me”

I received this email yesterday:

Dear Dr. Tim,

My brother and I were brought up SDA, legalistic, beat over the head with EGW, frightened of God and living in fear. After leaving home, and getting married, I left the church not seeing any way I could work enough to earn my way to heaven, so why beat myself up trying? 25 years later (1997) I was diagnosed with MS (multiple sclerosis) and 2 years later started attending church again, remembering that they had the health message and for the first time in my life started reading EGW and seeing an entirely different God picture that didn't align with my upbringing. I started searching for God with a new heart.

Since 2009 my husband and I have been eating a whole food plant based diet, my MS has been completely reversed, my last MRI showed no new or recent activity, (my Dr. couldn't believe it). I have been off all the MS meds since October 2011.

A few years ago my brother shared your audio book “God Shaped Brain” what an eye opener! Also shared your Sabbath School lessons and other information with me and it is completely changing my view of God. For the first time in my life I am experiencing a God of Love, and for the first time can discuss Him with non-Adventists, and co-workers, and even other struggling church members. After attending church for the past 15 years, I was finally re-baptized last year. I have shared your materials with many friends, and recently one of my friends and I started a Monday night Bible study group using your materials as the base.

I just can't get enough of Him and its all because you are sharing your teachings of the Creator, Designer, God is love, view of the law.

Lately I've also been transcribing most of your SS class presentations and sharing them with my friends, because there is so much more information in the classes than in the notes you so kindly provide. My mind doesn't absorb things well, so I need the entire transcription to refer back to when I want to review some of the issues that come up in my discussions with others who struggle with their image of God.

When I discovered your Let's Talk article on Difficult Questions and Biblical Answers I felt almost like it was a gift just for me. Answers to lots of problematic Bible stories I was never able to reconcile with a God of love.

May God continue to bless and keep you, your family and your class (including the virtual one) as you continue to share to truth about His character, and all those being released from the bondage we're in from looking through the wrong lens view.

With a very grateful heart I thank you. Rita Hartman

SABBATH

What do you think of Jesus' calling to "Follow Him?" Have you considered how difficult that would have actually been?

Consider, you are at work one day this week and a visitor comes to your organization and as he is walking past your workstation he says, "Follow me." Perhaps it is a person you have heard about, but don't personally know, would it be easy to just walk away from your job? What if you have a wife and kids that need your income?

Is this close to what Jesus called His disciples to do?

Now Jesus calling of His disciples wasn't without some preparation—what kind of preparation preceded Jesus calling of His disciples?

- Jesus Himself had been preparing His entire life to be our Messiah
- The Holy Spirit had been preparing receptive hearts for the arrival of Jesus
- John the Baptist had been preparing the hearts and minds of the nation to receive Jesus and John made an announcement to some of the ones who became Jesus disciples.

³⁵ The next day John was there again with two of his disciples. ³⁶ When he saw Jesus passing by, he said, "Look, the Lamb of God!"

³⁷ When the two disciples heard him say this, they followed Jesus. ³⁸ Turning around, Jesus saw them following and asked, "What do you want?"

They said, "Rabbi" (which means Teacher), "where are you staying?"

³⁹ "Come," he replied, "and you will see."

So they went and saw where he was staying, and spent that day with him. It was about the tenth hour.

⁴⁰ Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, was one of the two who heard what John had said and who had followed Jesus. ⁴¹ The first thing Andrew did was to find his brother

Simon and tell him, “We have found the Messiah” (that is, the Christ).⁴² And he brought him to Jesus. Jn 1:35-42

- Individuals had been preparing themselves by their worship, life choices, study of God’s Word, practicing of God’s methods

So, when Jesus called them, there had been preparation happening before that moment.

What about in our lives, if we are to be ready for some calling Jesus has for us, do we have preparation to do BEFORE the calling occurs?

Read memory text, “But they [the sheep] will never follow a stranger; in fact, they will run away from him because they do not recognize a stranger’s voice.” John 10:5

What does this mean?

- Does it mean that we hear the voice of Jesus like you hear my voice right now?
- Is it supposed to mean this?
- Could it mean this, sometimes?
- Will it one day mean this?
- How do we get to know the voice of Jesus so well we recognize it and also recognize any voice that is not His?

Consider this description from the book Christ’s Object Lessons:

Our life is to be bound up with the life of Christ; we are to draw constantly from Him, partaking of Him, the living Bread that came down from heaven, drawing from a fountain ever fresh, ever giving forth its abundant treasures. If we keep the Lord ever before us, [law of worship, by beholding we are changed] allowing our hearts to go out in thanksgiving and praise to Him, [law of exertion, the more we exercise something it gets stronger] we shall have a continual freshness in our religious life. Our prayers will take the form of a conversation with God as we would talk with a friend. He will speak His mysteries to us personally. Often there will come to us a sweet joyful sense of the presence of Jesus. Often our hearts will burn within us as He draws nigh to commune with us as He did with Enoch. When this is in truth the experience of the Christian, there is seen in his life a simplicity, a humility, meekness, and lowliness of heart, that show to all with whom he associates that he has been with Jesus and learned of Him. {COL 129.3}

How is it we get to know the voice of Jesus and that we hear Him speak His mysteries to us?

Can we hear the voice of Jesus if we:

- Stay high on drugs or alcohol? Why not? Is God unwilling to speak to us in such a state, or are we in such a mental fog we can't hear?
- Are so proud and arrogant that we cannot be taught?
- Have beliefs about God that make us afraid to let Him talk to us lest He kill us? (Job's friends)
- Have beliefs that we need someone to protect us from God?
- If we think we already have the answers and there are no mysteries to reveal?
- Fill our minds with entertainment, TV, video games, worldly reading material?
- Are so busy with life we never stop to listen—remember Martha
- If we conclude there is no God and thus don't ever consider He is there to listen to?
- If we worship a false god and have trained the mind to listen to a false voice?

So how do we know the voice of Jesus and hear Him speak to us?

- We must recognize our need of Him
- We must spend time with Him
- We must clear the mind of anything that obstructs His voice, stop the noise, take time to listen
- Read and study His Word, harmonized with science and real life experience (The integrative evidence-based approach)
- Meditate on His Creation
- Contemplate His methods (identify, understand, appreciate His design laws)
- Choose His principles (apply His design laws)
- Remove the distortions about Him that we may have in our minds
- Open the heart and invite Him in and actually reach the mind out in conversation and discussion with Him over the issues and problems of life

Other actions?

SUNDAY

Read second paragraph, "It is, of course, important..." What is "divinely given discernment"? The ability to tell the difference between things, in this case between truth and error, right and wrong, healthy and unhealthy.

But how do we get this? Is this just a gift that God uses His divine power to impart to some but not others?

Heb 5:14:

- But solid food is for the mature, who by constant use have trained themselves to distinguish good from evil. NIV
- But solid food belongs to those who are of full age, that is, those who by reason of use have their senses exercised to discern both good and evil. NKJV

Discernment is something that we develop by practice. If you want to be a great musician you must practice. You cannot become a great musician by listening to the stereo 10 hours per day; you must practice. Now, listening to other great musicians is appropriate to inspire and learn etc. but at some point you will have to practice. Likewise, to be a great thinker at some point, after listening to others, you will have to think for yourself.

What helps a person to discern?

What do you think of this quote?

All whom God has endowed with reasoning powers may become intellectual Christians. God has given abundant evidence of the truth of his word, and he requires that those who would be counted as the followers of Christ should study the Scriptures, that they may be able to give to every man a reason of the hope that is in them, with meekness and fear. He has not required any one to believe without evidence. Let the inquirer after truth put to the stretch his mental powers in diligent study of the word of God. {Medical Missionary, May 1, 1892 par. 5}

What, according to this quote is required to be discerning?

- Possessing reasoning powers
- Application of one's reasoning powers in study of Scripture
- And harmonizing Scripture with evidence, the integrative approach

One example, some of the people who criticize what we teach in this class do so because of passages in Scripture like:

The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and knowledge of the Holy One is understanding. Prov 9:10

The critics argue that we teach a message that removes fear of God and that passages like this teach we must be afraid of God.

So, this is opportunity to discern, to practice, to think—how do you know which view is right?

- First fear can also mean be in awe, not be afraid, but even so
- What about perfect love casts out all fear 1Jn 4:18, if we come back into perfect love with a perfect God do we have more fear or less?
- What about the law of liberty? What does fear, terror do to love? If God is saying love me or I will kill you, what happens?
- If God were to use power and might to put down sin by infliction of pain, suffering and death i.e. kill His enemies, then why not just do it from the beginning?

The paragraph in Sunday's lesson also pointed out that there is an enemy who works by great stealth to keep people from coming to a saving relationship with Jesus.

Is Satan's most successful and stealthy methods of keeping people from a saving relationship with Jesus achieved through non-religious means? Or, is the stealthiest attack of Satan done through religious channels?

Any examples?

Read next paragraph, "Nevertheless, we can be..." Blind leading the blind—was Jesus referring to non-religious people when He used this description? No! Jesus was referring to the church leaders of His day. What made them blind? How were they blind? To what were they blind?

Let's check the Scripture, Matthew 15:1-14:

Then some Pharisees and teachers of the law came to Jesus from Jerusalem and asked, ² "Why do your disciples break the tradition of the elders? They don't wash their hands before they eat!"

³ Jesus replied, "And why do you break the command of God for the sake of your tradition? ⁴ For God said, 'Honor your father and mother' and 'Anyone who curses his father or mother must be put to death.' ⁵ But you say that if a man says to his father or mother, 'Whatever help you might otherwise have received from me is a gift devoted to God,' ⁶ he is not to 'honor his father' with it. Thus you nullify the word of God for the sake of your tradition. ⁷ You hypocrites! Isaiah was right when he prophesied about you:

⁸ " 'These people honor me with their lips, but their hearts are far from me.

⁹ They worship me in vain;
their teachings are but rules taught by men.' "

¹⁰ Jesus called the crowd to him and said, "Listen and understand. ¹¹ What goes into a man's mouth does not make him 'unclean,' but what comes out of his mouth, that is what makes him 'unclean.' "

¹² Then the disciples came to him and asked, "Do you know that the Pharisees were offended when they heard this?"

¹³ He replied, "Every plant that my heavenly Father has not planted will be pulled up by the roots. ¹⁴ Leave them; they are blind guides. If a blind man leads a blind man, both will fall into a pit."

To what were the religious leaders blind? They were blind to God's character of love and God's design law! They were worshipping through the imposed law lens and more interested in rule keeping, than living in harmony with God and His design of love!

Do we have any problems in religion today? Is there an accepted orthodoxy, that is rarely questioned, that God's law requires God to punish? Is this a stealthy attack on God's character?

MONDAY

The lesson is about seeking the lost—what does it mean to seek the lost?

read second paragraph, “If you merely focus on praying...” Is there something we are to pray, to ask, that is to come to us?

We are to pray to the Lord of the harvest for more workers in the field! But, the workers are to go out into the field to reach those ripe for harvest!

Can you think of ways we can be more effective in outreach, in taking this healing message to those who need it? Any idea?

If you think of any possible ways Come and Reason Ministries could do more than we are to share this message and reach people, send us an email with your idea. We are constantly looking for ways to wake people up and help them see the reality of God's character of love and God's methods for their lives!

One of the methods of Come and Reason has been to teach people the truth about God, His character and methods, and call people to a saving relationship to Jesus Christ. Our ministry has not sought to call people to a specific worship facility, or to join a specific denomination, but has operated under the belief that God needs His true followers in every highway, byway, institution, and denomination and thus we leave it to the Holy Spirit to direct people where they should specifically worship, affiliate, attend, and work for God's kingdom.

Do you think this is the right approach or is there some element we are missing?

In TUESDAY's lesson, second paragraph, we read this quote:

“The Lord does not now work to bring many souls into the truth, because of the church members who have never been converted and those who were once converted but who have backslidden. What influence would these unconsecrated members have on new converts? Would they not make of no effect the God-given message which His people are to bear?” {6T 370.3}

What is this saying? Is this saying that some churches are not healthy places for new converts to attend and that God doesn't convict everyone of His followers into the same organization?

Read first paragraph, “Sometimes a church...” Do you see yourself as a bridge, an ambassador, an envoy from God to people?

Anyone who is joined to Christ is a new being; the old is gone, the new has come. ¹⁸All this is done by God, who through Christ changed us from enemies into his friends and gave us the task of making others his friends also. ¹⁹Our message is that God was making the whole human race his friends through Christ. God did not keep an account of their sins, and he has given us the message which tells how he makes them his friends. Here we are, then, speaking for Christ, as though God himself were making his appeal through us. We plead on Christ’s behalf: let God change you from enemies into his friends! 2Cor 5:17-20

Do we see ourselves as God’s ambassadors, with a message from God that God wants every human being to be His friend?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “Jesus and His disciples...” What do you understand medical missionary work to be?

Here is a quote from EGW, one of the founders of the SDA church:

Again and again I have been instructed [by whom do you think?] that the medical missionary work is to bear the same relation to the work of the third angel's message [what is the third angel's message] that the arm and hand bear to the body. Under the direction of the divine Head they are to work unitedly in preparing the way for the coming of Christ. The right arm of the body of truth is to be constantly active, constantly at work, and God will strengthen it. But it is not to be made the body. At the same time the body is not to say to the arm, "I have no need of thee." The body has need of the arm in order to do active, aggressive work. Both have their appointed work, and each will suffer great loss if worked independently of the other.--Testimonies, vol. 6, p. 288. {ChS 134.4}

What do you hear in this admonition?

- Who is EGW stating this message is from? God!
- What message is the medical missionary work to be part of that is to be taken to the world? – the message of the three angels, which is what? How do you understand it?
 - The three angels message is the end-time message that God is to prepare the world for Christ’s return. What is that message?
 - That God is Creator, Designer, Builder of reality and His laws are the laws upon which reality is built. We are to give glory to Him, by being healed in our characters to be like Him and live out His law of love, because the time in human history has come for human beings to make a right judgment about God! (first angel)

- The other churches and religions of the world are fallen into a system of imposed law, arbitrary rules and legal theology with a punishing God, just like Babylon; it is a system that doesn't make sense and is confusing. We are to come out of her. (second angel)
- And those who reject God who is love and His law of love, and prefer the beastly methods of human imposed law constructs, and mark themselves in their minds by believing and promoting the methods of coercion, or mark themselves by their works of practicing the methods of coercion, will ultimately die of their terminal and unhealed selfish condition. (third angel)
- Why is it the right arm of the message and not the message?
 - Because the laws of health are design laws, nothing reveals design law better than the laws of health and how violations of the laws of health result in pain, suffering and death to the unhealthy, and that doctors don't have to have tribunals and inflict punishments upon their patients for breaking the laws of health. But healing the body is not the same as saving the soul and thus the health message is the right arm, not the gospel itself. God wants to heal the mind, cleanse the heart, purify the character and that is what happens when the true gospel message—that God is not like Satan says, that God is not the source of pain, suffering and death, that God is love and that through Christ God is reconciling, restoring, and healing the world back into unity with Himself.

THURSDAY

What is the balance between:

- “Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. ⁸ For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened.” MT 7:7,8 and passages like this:

- Here I am! I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with him, and he with me. Rev 3:20
- Parable of the lost sheep and lost coin

Are we to seek to be saved, or is God seeking to save us? What is the balance? What is meant? Who seeks first?

- But God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us. Rom 5:8
- Or do you show contempt for the riches of his kindness, tolerance and patience, not realizing that God's kindness leads you toward repentance? Rom 2:4
- John 3:16

Salvation is a cooperative effort between God and sinful humans. Sinful humanity could do nothing to heal, fix, save or cure ourselves. Thus, God sought to save us.

- Immediately, in Eden God went after Adam and Eve.
- God began interceding with the powers of darkness, holding Satan in check,
- God intercedes in the hearts and minds of sinners to convict, draw, woo,
- And He sent Jesus to intercede in the natural course of sin, fixing what Adam broke and creating a Remedy to heal and restore us.

But, we each must choose to accept God's call, to cooperate, to seek after God and God's methods.

We are laborers together with God. This is the Lord's own wise arrangement. The cooperation of the human will and endeavor with divine energy is the link that binds men up with one another and with God. The apostle says, "We are laborers together with God: ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building" (1 Corinthians 3:9). Man is to work with the facilities God has given him. "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling," He says. "For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure" (Philippians 2:12, 13).--MS 113, 1898. {2MCP 694.3}

There are two grand forces at work in the salvation of the human soul. It requires the cooperation of man with the divine agencies-- divine influences, and a strong, living, working faith. It is in this way only that the human agent can become a laborer together with God. The Lord does not sanction in any one of us a blind, stupid credulity. He does not dishonor the human understanding, but, far from this, He calls for the human will to be brought into connection with the divine will. He calls for the ingenuity of the human mind, the tact, the skill, to be strenuously exercised in searching out the truth as it is in Jesus. . . . Ye are labourers together with God. {OHC 310.5}

And he who seeks to give light to others will himself be blessed. "There shall be showers of blessing." "He that watereth shall be watered also himself." Proverbs 11:25. God could have reached His object in saving sinners without our aid; but in order for us to develop a character like Christ's, we must share in His work. In order to enter into His joy,--the joy of seeing souls redeemed by His sacrifice,--we must participate in His labors for their redemption. {DA 142.2}

This is design law; by beholding we are change, and the law of exertion, and the law of liberty and the law of love all together here. God cannot change a person without the freewill participation of that person, but a sinner has no ability on their own to change and heal themselves. It is a partnership with God, through Jesus. Thus Jesus said we are to take His yoke upon us. A yoke binds to together to share the work!

Jesus would have them lay aside this yoke of bondage, and take upon them his yoke of love, that they may learn to be meek and lowly in heart. The weakest soul, wearing Christ's yoke, bearing his burden, may become strong in his grace, and he will find the yoke easy, the burden light. {ST, January 19, 1891 par. 5}

The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 12 3Q 2016 Urban Ministry in the End Time

Lisa Wright, an online listener, emailed me this week with a Bible quote regarding the discussion we had on the fear of the Lord in class last week:

"Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding." Proverbs 4:7. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." Psalm 111:10. "The fear of the Lord is to hate evil: pride, and arrogancy, and the evil way, and the froward mouth, do I hate." Proverbs 8:13. {PK 34.2}

This is an excellent method of discernment, in addition to all the evidence we gave in class last week that to fear the Lord does not mean to be afraid, here is a Bible reference with an excellent definition. To fear the Lord is to be in awe of Him such that you hate everything that is opposed to Him and His character of love!

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "The three angels'..." Can someone tell me what the three angels messages are? What they mean?

Here is a description from EGW, one of the founders of the SDA church:

The proclamation of the first, second, and third angels' messages has been located by the Word of Inspiration... {CTr 338.2}

The first and second messages [Revelation 14:6-8] were given in 1843 and 1844, and we are now under the proclamation of the third; but all three of the messages are still to be proclaimed. It is just as essential now as ever before that they shall be repeated to those who are seeking for the truth. By pen and voice we are to sound the proclamation, showing their order and the application of the prophecies that bring us to the third angel's message. There cannot be a third without the first and second. . . . {CTr 338.3}

"Then I saw another angel flying in midair, and he had the eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live on the earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people.⁷ He said in a loud voice, 'Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water.'" This message, if heeded, will call the attention of every nation and kindred and tongue and people to a close examination of the Word, and to the true light in regard to the power that has changed the seventh-day Sabbath to a spurious sabbath. . . . The Sabbath memorial, declaring who the living God is, the Creator of the heavens and the earth, has been torn down, and a spurious sabbath has been given to the world in its place. Thus a breach has been made in the law of God... {CTr 338.5}

In the first angel's message people are called upon to worship God, our Creator, who made the world and all things that are therein. . . The message proclaimed by the angel flying in the midst of heaven is the everlasting gospel, the same gospel that was declared in Eden when God said to the serpent, "I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed." Manuscript 32, 1896 (Manuscript Releases, vol. 17, pp. 6, 7). {CTr 338.6}

What did you hear?

First question are we now in the time of the three angels? Or are we in the time of the fourth angel? What is the fourth angel?

Revelation 18:1-3:

And after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory. ² And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying,

Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen,
And is become the habitation of devils,
And the hold of every foul spirit,
And a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.

³ For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication,
And the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her,
And the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies.

And from EGW:

The three angels' messages are to be combined, giving their threefold light to the world. In the Revelation, John says, "I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory."... This represents the giving of the last and threefold message of warning to the world. {Mar 173.5}

Revelation 18 points to the time when, as the result of rejecting the threefold warning of Revelation 14:6-12, the church will have fully reached the condition foretold by the second angel, and the people of God still in Babylon will be called upon to separate from her communion. This message is the last that will ever be given to the world; and it will accomplish its work. When those that "believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness" (2 Thessalonians 2:12), shall be left to receive strong delusion and to believe a lie, then the light of truth will shine upon all whose hearts are open to receive it, and all the children of the Lord that remain in Babylon will heed the call: "Come out of her, my people" (Revelation 18:4). {Mar 173.6}

The light that we have upon the third angel's message is the true light. The mark of the beast is exactly what it has been proclaimed to be. All in regard to this matter is not yet understood, and will not be understood until the unrolling of the scroll, but a most solemn work is to be accomplished in our world. {CTr 350}

So, while we are to give the message of the 3 angels, that message was originally given over a century ago, and Revelation describes its original presentation in Revelation 14. But, in Revelation 18, that message is to be given again—a combined message in which all the pieces fit together in a way not previously given, and which result in a coming out of the systems that misrepresent God.

So, what is the message for today? What are the matters regarding the three angels that were not yet understood in EGW's day?

What is the message to call people out, what message are people to recognize and see?

- That God is Creator, Designer, Builder of reality and His laws are the laws upon which reality is built. We are to give glory to Him, by being healed in our characters to be like Him and live out His law of love, because the time in human history has come for human beings to make a right judgment about God! (first angel)
- The other churches and religions of the world are fallen into a system of imposed law, arbitrary rules and legal theology with a punishing God, just like Babylon; it is a system that doesn't make sense and is confusing. And it is this POWER (the power of imposed law) that changed the Sabbath. This is the issue—what God do we serve, the God who creates and whose law is design protocol, or the god who is a dictator and whose laws are no different than human laws, imposed rules coercively enforced. This is the issue of which the Sabbath is only a sign, not the specific problem. We are to come out of her. (second angel)
- And those who reject the God who is love and His law of love, and prefer the beastly methods of human imposed law constructs, and mark themselves in their minds by believing and promoting the methods of coercion, or mark themselves by their works of practicing the methods of coercion, will ultimately die of their terminal and unhealed selfish condition—regardless of which day they worship upon. (third angel)

Read first paragraph, "Cities bring together..." Does it depend on the city? Do you think there is greater tolerance for new ideas in Mecca or Tehran?

What is the message the SDA church is to take to the world?

Does the corporate SDA church today take a message to the world that is different than the message found in any other evangelical church? If so how?

Was the SDA church founded to take a picture of God to the world and His law to the world that is different than what is found in other religions, including other Christian religions? How?

But has the SDA church become infected with the same false law construct, and therefore has ended up presenting the same distorted view of God as the rest of the world? To the degree we present penal substitution, with God's law as imposed and God as the source of imposed punishment, requiring legal payment not to kill us, we present the same infection as every other false religion.

But is there a remnant group of people who have remained loyal to the testimony of Jesus, the testimony Jesus gave about His Father, "if you have seen me you have seen the Father" and who have come back to worship Him who made the heaven, earth and sea? They worship the Creator, Designer and Builder by not only recognizing His memorial to Creation, but actually living in harmony with His design for life and thus they give Him glory by revealing His character of love in their lives? They present the truth in love and leave others free—they never use coercion. They never seek to get governments to enforce their religious views on others!

In the second paragraph, talking about Paul, the lesson states, "He taught in the synagogue until he was kicked out, and then he started a house church in the home of a believer."

Why was he kicked out? What was Paul doing that caused them to kick him out? Was he denying the existence of God? Was he denying Moses or anything Moses taught? What was the reason they kicked him out? Was he upsetting their traditions and traditional interpretations of Scripture?

Is this unusual today? Or is it common that when people bring truth to church that is contrary to long held tradition, that most of the time people reject the truth and kick out those bringing it?

Second paragraph states, "In the city, there is more of everything—more people more buildings, more traffic, and more problems."

Perhaps I show my conditioning as a psychiatrist and am being too picky. But I am very sensitive to absolutists thinking and all or nothing statements, and I know the lessons author's meant nothing untoward by it, but when I read the statement about more of everything in the city, I thought, more fields? more farmers? more cattle and sheep? more trees? more wildlife? more nature walks? more fresh air? more quiet places?

The lesson rightly points out that our world is a hurting place, groaning under the weight of sin.

Do we get numb to the pain, suffering, hurt? How must God feel every day? When I watch something on TV that portrays some of the evil that has been perpetrated throughout history I often think how hard it must be for God to see it, whether it is:

- The Old Testament slavery, captivity, brutality
- The Crucifixion of Christ
- The martyrs throughout history
- The Crusades
- The Witch Trials
- The Holocaust
- Or wars, gang violence, sexual predators and trafficking of people

I just get sick and think, how God's heart must ache. How God must long to bring an end. But God waits; waiting for a people to get ready, waiting for a group who actually knows Him so they can effectively take the Remedy to sin to the world.

Revelation 7 describes the angel from the East telling the four angels to hold until an event happens—until God's spokespersons are sealed in their foreheads. This represents a group of people coming to the truth about God, His methods and His design law for life, and becoming so settled into this truth both cognitively—in their understanding—but also in their character, in what they love and practice, that nothing can shake them from it. And when this happens, then the four winds are loosed, which cause the most horrible upheaval in nature and governments, which shake the sleeping world out of its slumber and God's spokespersons present the truth to them and from their witness a great multitude beyond counting responds and is saved.

So, what is God waiting for? For YOU! and for ME! For US, to become ready, settled, so that we can be His witnesses, to effectively tell the truth about Him to the world. Then the end will come!

This is also the message of the cleansing of the sanctuary.

- What is the sanctuary? You and me
- What contaminated it? Lies about God (remember Paul's description in Thessalonians that a man of sin would arise and set himself up in God's temple proclaiming himself to be God.)
- And how is it cleansed, by what? By the truth about God, revealed in Christ, which restores to trust, and in trust we open the heart and the Spirit comes in and takes all Christ achieved and reproduces in us a character like His—one that loves others more than self!

WEDNESDAY

The lesson points out that we are relational beings and that to be effective we must make it personal, we must relate and connect to others.

We have spoken a lot over the years of the law of love, the principle of giving, of other-centeredness which transcends relationships and is found in all aspects of creation, from the air we breathe, water we drink and food we eat.

But I have been thinking more about this and have come to realize that there is more yet to the power of love, the giving of ourselves, the purposeful choice to care for another, the focused, willful good intention toward another. This love of the will, the love coming from the self, the actual real conscious concern for another is not only part of God's healing plan, but vital to it. It is the avenue, the conduit through which God's healing love flows from God to us and out from us to others.

Remember what Jesus said to the woman at the well?

Jesus answered, "Everyone who drinks this water will be thirsty again, ¹⁴ but whoever drinks the water I give him will never thirst. Indeed, the water I give him will become in him a spring of water welling up to eternal life." Jn 4:13,14

The water of life is a metaphor for love—when we experience God's love, being loved it changes us and overflows and fills us and we love others.

The power of love was in all Christ's healing, and only by partaking of that love, through faith, can we be instruments for His work. If we neglect to link ourselves in divine connection with Christ, the current of life-giving energy cannot flow in rich streams from us to the people. There were places where the Saviour Himself could not do many mighty works because of their unbelief. So now unbelief separates the church from her divine Helper. Her hold upon eternal realities is weak. By her lack of faith, God is disappointed and robbed of His glory. {Counsels on Health 31.3}

What do you hear? What is the power of love? Is the power of love and the current of life-giving energy the same?

Consider this quotation:

Love is power. Intellectual and moral strength are involved in this principle, and cannot be separated from it. The power of wealth has a tendency to corrupt and destroy; the power of force is strong to do hurt; but the excellence and value of pure love consist in its efficiency to do good, and to do nothing else than good. {Letters to Young Lovers 31.3}

Whatsoever is done out of pure love, be it ever so little or contemptible in the sight of men, is wholly fruitful; for God regards more with how much love one works than the amount he does. {LYL 32.1}

Love is of God. The unconverted heart cannot originate nor produce this plant of heavenly growth, which lives and flourishes only where Christ reigns.... {LYL 32.2}

Love works not for profit nor reward; yet God has ordained that great gain shall be the certain result of every labor of love. It is diffusive in its nature and quiet in its operation, yet strong and mighty in its purpose to overcome great evils. It is melting and transforming in its influence, and will take hold of the lives of the sinful and affect their hearts when every other means has proved unsuccessful. {LYL 32.3}

Wherever the power of intellect, of authority, or of force is employed, and love is not manifestly present, the affections and will of those whom we seek to reach assume a defensive, repelling position, and their strength of resistance is increased. {LYL 33.1}

Pure love is simple in its operations, and is distinct from any other principle of action. The love of influence and the desire for the esteem of others may produce a well-ordered life and frequently a blameless conversation. Self-respect may lead us to avoid the appearance of evil. A selfish heart may perform generous actions, acknowledge the present truth, and express humility and affection in an outward manner, yet the motives may be deceptive and impure; the actions that flow from such a heart may be destitute of the savor of life and the fruits of true holiness, being destitute of the principles of pure love. {LYL 33.2}

Love should be cherished and cultivated, for its influence is divine. {LYL 33.3}

What do you hear? What is being described? Is love more than sentiment?

We discussed quantum entanglement, and that all things in the universe are connected by invisible strings, and thus we can affect others at any distance, through the quantum connections. But, it seems this influence requires love and other-centered intention to be actionable.

Now is there science to support this? Remember the DNA experiments we discussed a few weeks back?

An interesting study was done by Dr. Rollin McCraty and colleagues. They had individuals trained to focus their intention with love and goodwill. They took human DNA from placentas and had the trained individuals focus with love and good will on vials containing the human DNA with the intention to either have the DNA wind itself tighter or to unwind looser. This can be measured by how much UV light the vials absorb. The more tightly wound the more light is absorbed. They were able to measure a 25% change in DNA conformation from these mental intention.

Now it gets more interesting—when the individuals would generate the same feelings of love and good will, but not focus attention on changing the DNA configuration, no change in the DNA occurred. And even more profound—when they focused intention but without love and goodwill, no DNA change occurred. It required both a focused intention AND the mobilization of love and goodwill emotions. How could they tell if the participants were generating love and goodwill emotions? By measuring heart rate variability, love emotions produce coherence, whereas hate, anger, negative emotions produce large fluctuations.

In a follow on study, to determine if this was perhaps a general electromagnetic field effect, or something that was more focused. Researchers had three vials with the DNA placed side by side and had the participants focus on changing the DNA conformation in two of the vials, but not the third—and—only the two the participants focused on showed the DNA change. Finally, researches had five different experiments in which the DNA vials were a half mile from the participants, and the same DNA changes occurred when the participants focused with intent and love. All of these studies reached statistical significant levels of change. (McCraty, 2003 Modulation of DNA conformation by heart-focused intention p. 6, Boulder Creek, CA: Institute of HeartMath)

Do you find this a little too bizarre to think it could be real? Consider this quote from EGW:

The striking feature of divine operations is the accomplishment of the greatest work that can be done in our world by very simple means. It is God's plan that every part of His government shall depend on every other part, the whole as a wheel within a wheel, working with entire harmony. He moves upon human forces, causing His Spirit to touch invisible chords, and the vibration rings to the extremity of the universe.--Manuscript 22, 1897. {Ev 93.1}

When we think about how love works, does it require the active, willful participation of intelligent beings? And what is the result on the person who is the agent of love?

Notice this quote:

And he who seeks to give light to others will himself be blessed. "There shall be showers of blessing." "He that watereth shall be watered also himself." Proverbs 11:25. God could have reached His object in saving sinners without our aid; but in order for us to develop a character like Christ's, we must share in His work. In order to enter into His joy,--the joy of seeing souls redeemed by His sacrifice,--we must participate in His labors for their redemption. {DA 142}

This is how we are changed—by beholding Christ we are won to trust, in trust we open the heart and partake of His love, His presence, and then this love flows out from us to others. And then we become agents for good in the world.

However, we only are effective as we are connected to Christ and the love flows outward. If we disconnect from Christ, and instead of approaching relationships with love to give, we approach relationships with fear, insecurity, in need, then we often end up taking instead of giving...

Multiple studies show that people who give of themselves—volunteer—to help others, live longer, have less disability, less depression, less dementia and stay out of nursing homes longer than those who do not volunteer. Love is the life blood, the energy upon which life is built in God’s universe. Harmony with it is healing, breaking love is destructive.

TUESDAY

Sewing and Reaping—the lesson talks about methods to effectively reach people and uses the metaphor of farming. It points out that not all “soil” is the same. Some soil needs to have trees removed, other rocks, other soil is depleted of various nutrients and needs fertilizing etc.

How do we apply this metaphor to evangelism?

In my residency I was taught the same principle with a different metaphor, the metaphor of golf. In golf there is a rule: you play the ball where it lies. What this means for the non-golfers, is that you can’t move the ball out of the rough, or the sand or from behind a tree to a better position to give yourself an easier shot. Likewise, we start with people where they are. And it is important to use the proper approach.

In golf, if the ball is in the rough or sand it is not a good idea to use a driver or putter, it is better to use the club appropriate for the situation. Likewise, when dealing with people, we must use the intervention that is best for where they are, not the intervention we are the most practiced at using.

And in golf our goal is to move the ball in a positive direction, so too with people we do have a goal to move people to bring about a change so they don’t remain in the same position as where we found them. But the most effective way to do that is to accurately assess them, their situation, their mindset, their biases, their way of thinking, the obstacles in their mind that obstructs the truth from reaching them and then approaching them with the most effective intervention available to you.

Any examples of different types of soil?

- What about a person who has never heard of God, versus a professor of theology teaching a false view of God?
- What about a person who has rejected God because of some trauma or bad experience in their life?
- What about a person who was raised in a legal religion, practices all the rules, but only found fear, insecurity and problems in life that the rules didn’t answer?
- What about those with sickness that has not gotten better despite praying for relief?
- What about those so busy with life they don’t have time for religion?
- What about those who believe in science and have concluded God doesn’t exist?

THURSDAY

Read third paragraph, “According to the Word, Christ’s death was universal: it encompassed all humanity, from Adam and Eve down and all who followed.”

What does this mean?

While they use the term universal, they seem to confine it to humanity. But, Col 1:19,20 states:

God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross.

So the entire universe was involved in Christ’s victory at the cross. But what does it mean that Christ’s death encompassed all humanity?

Will all be saved?

Here is Romans 5:12-19 from The Remedy:

¹²Therefore, the infection of distrust of God—which deformed humanity's heart and mind with selfishness and fear, and which results only in death—infected the human race when Adam accepted Satan's lies about God and broke trust with him. This infection of fear and selfishness is inherited by all human beings, so all are born infected. ¹³This is revealed by the fact that before the written law was given, the infection of distrust, fear and selfishness was already present in the world. But this infection of distrust, fear and selfishness is not diagnosable without the law. ¹⁴Nevertheless, even without being diagnosed as infected with this terminal condition, humans still died, all the way from the time of Adam to Moses—even those who did not break a specific command, like Adam did—revealing that the problem is the infected state of our minds and not a legal issue with God. Adam, the first man, being the conduit through which the infection entered humanity, also represents the one man who is the conduit of the antidote that cures all those who accept it.

¹⁵But the gift of the antidote is not like the infection. For if everyone is born infected with a terminal condition because of the choice of Adam, how incredibly effective must the antidote supplied by Christ be, since it cures all who take it! ¹⁶Again, the gift of the antidote is not like the result of the breach of trust. Adam's breach of trust infected all humanity, therefore all humanity is diagnosed as sick and dying. This occurred without each individual choosing to be infected; but the antidote, which came after humanity had been severely damaged and deformed by selfishness and sin, brought cleansing, purification, health, and complete restoration. ¹⁷If—by the choice of one man's distrust—selfishness and death permeated all humanity, how much more will those who accept the Remedy that Christ has achieved experience restored trust and complete healing to live forever with God!

¹⁸Therefore, just as Adam's distrust infected humanity with the fatal condition of fear and selfishness, so too Christ's choice to sacrifice self achieved the life-giving Remedy for all humanity.¹⁹Just as Adam's choice infected the human race with a terminal condition, so too Christ's perfect life has brought the Remedy to heal all who accept it.

2016 Q3 The Role of the Church in the Community Lesson 13 How Shall We Wait?

SABBATH

The bottom of the lesson states, “Our Lord is coming back, that we know. The crucial issue for us is: What are we doing while we wait? On that answer hangs the destiny of our souls.”

Are they suggesting that our salvation is dependent on what we are doing?

Or are they suggesting that our salvation depends on our attitude/relationship toward God and our attitude/relationship toward God determines the destiny of our souls and also directs what we do with our lives?

What do they mean by the “wait”? Do we often think of the Lord’s return in such terms: “Waiting for the Lord to return” “The long delay” etc.?

I know I have thought this way—but this lesson has caused me to rethink. Can you think of another way to think about this issue?

Where is the focus when we think about waiting? Does that put the focus on us, and does it suggest a certain inconvenience to us, perhaps suggest an idea of God not being considerate, or God not caring?

I think this idea of the Lord delaying His return—of the Lord waiting, subtly introduces a multiplicity of ideas that are not healthy to our minds and our relationship with God.

- Is it possible the idea of God waiting imbeds the idea that He could have come sooner if He wanted to but HE has chosen to delay His return?
- Such an idea suggests an arbitrary quality to God. He just hasn’t “chosen” to return yet, and whenever He gets around to choosing to, then He will come. This type of thinking is part of the entire imposed law view of God—a God who makes up rules and does what He wants because He is powerful.
- This idea is imbedded in much of the theologies who promote the sovereignty of God. Now, let’s be clear—God is absolutely sovereign—no question about that at all. However, when one promotes sovereignty through imposed law, one gets an arbitrary dictator.
- God’s sovereignty is always manifested in harmony with His own character and is worked out through His laws, design protocols for which He constructed all reality to operate.

So, if we think through design law view, then what?

If a doctor treats a person with a broken bone and puts them in a cast, does the doctor wait to take the cast off? For what is the doctor waiting? Is the wait on the doctor’s part a delay, an arbitrary decision, or is there a reason the doctor waits? What reason? For the bone to heal...is there a lesson in this for why God waits to return today?

Remember what Peter wrote:

The Lord is not slow in keeping his promise, as some understand slowness. He is patient with you, not wanting anyone to perish, but everyone to come to repentance. 2Pet 3:9

What does this sound like? Is God determining the timeline, or are we?

God is right on schedule and will come exactly when He has always planned and known He would return.

But, then, is there some role we have in impacting the timeline of Christ's return?

Can a patient by cooperating with their doctor and following the doctor's instructions hasten the healing process? Does the patient who follows the doctor's instructions heal themselves? Can a patient who resists the doctor, is non-compliant, who doesn't follow the instructions delay the healing process?

Is there a role we have to play in hastening the day?

What is that role? What can we do specifically?

- First and foremost cooperate with God for our own healing of mind and heart—stay connected with God daily, increase your knowledge, understanding and experience with God, practice His methods
- Second, share what you know about God with others

SUNDAY

The lesson is about Matthew 24:4-31, so let's read these passages and discuss them—from The Remedy:

⁴ Jesus answered: "Be careful to think for yourselves so that no one fools you,⁵ for over the years, there will be many people who arise claiming they come from me, or represent me, or even claiming they are 'the Messiah, Christ returned.' And many who don't think for themselves will be taken in by their charisma.

[Remember David Koresh, Jim Jones, will there be others?]

⁶ Before the end, there will be wars and murmurings of war, but don't be afraid: such things will happen; but the end comes later.⁷ Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom will war against kingdom.

[To what is this referring? The downfall of Rome, the Crusades, the Napoleonic wars, WWI, WWII?]

Nature will suffer as famines, earthquakes, and other natural disasters occur around the world;

[Has this occurred? Do we see natural disasters increasing? What is the reason for this? Is God using His power to inflict this? Or, are the hearts of humans turning away from God and thus closing out God's Spirit? And thus God who sustains all things is slowly letting go and Satanic forces are gaining more access to the world and nature is falling apart? Could human activity also be influencing the changes in nature? Could the exploitation of nature, the use of fossil fuels, the impact of manmade chemicals, toxins, genetic manipulations, species extinctions contribute to these events?]

⁸but just as a woman in labor experiences birth pains that increase in intensity and frequency right up until delivery, so too these events are just the beginning of the labor pains.

[What does this mean? When a woman goes into labor does she typically say, "Oh no! Can't we wait another nine months before we deliver this baby?" Does the woman know the labor will be painful? But does she still want to go through it? Why? Because she knows labor results in DELIVERY! Do we have such an attitude when we see the events corresponding to the labor pains occurring in the world? Do we get excited that delivery is approaching, or do we pray for a delay? And if we are praying for a delay, why are we distraught that God is delaying?]

⁹ "You will be abused, rejected, tortured and executed, and you will be hated throughout the world because of me.

[Has this occurred, when in history? Ever since Christ was here. The Apostles and early church experienced this—many were martyred. Those true to God in the Dark Ages and Middle Ages experienced persecution like this. In the Renaissance those who brought truth to bear were persecuted, and today around the world people are still being persecuted when the truth about God is presented.]

¹⁰During the time of persecution, many will lose heart and reject me and my methods, and even betray and hate each other and their family and friends.¹¹ Many false teachers and fraudulent spokespersons of God will appear and deceive vast numbers of people.

[When has this occurred? Also throughout history, but Paul in his letter to the Thessalonians, specifically warned of "the man of sin" who would arise and would set himself up in "God's temple proclaiming himself to be God." So I think here Jesus is most specifically referring to when the Christian church accepted Imperial Rome's view of God's law, began teaching imposed law views of God and began practicing the beastly methods of coercion—the Inquisition and burning people at the stake. Families did turn against families and inform to the Inquisitor.]

¹² Because selfishness and wickedness will increase, the love of most people will grow cold, [And the result of an imposed law construct results in various legal theories of atonement and views of God that crush love out of the heart. People, under the imposed law construct, will carry out the most horrible acts of cruelty in the name of their god. And look at the history of Christianity—Catholic and Protestant alike—both burned the others followers at the stake. In Europe wars between Protestants and Catholics raged for hundreds of years. In America the Salem witch trials etc. Christians owned slaves, how could they? Because they were operating under imposed law and their love for other human beings was cold.]

¹³ but all those who stay faithful, practicing my methods of truth and love until the end, will be saved.

[Which means what? Will be healed—will be restored in character to be like Jesus. One cannot be restored to be like Jesus, which is being saved, unless one comes back to the truth about God, trusts Him, opens the heart, and then practices God's methods of love in their life.]

¹⁴ And the good news of the kingdom of love will be preached throughout the entire world—to all peoples—to provide evidence of God's true character and methods; and then the end will come.

[What is the message to lighten the world? The truth of God's character, methods and design law of love—the good news is about God! Has Christianity embraced and promoted this view of God, or instead even today do the vast majority of Christians embrace and teach a dictator view of God? Then there is a role for us to play in hastening the day of Christ's return—and that is? Actively working to take the truth about God and His design of love to the world!]

¹⁵ "So when you see 'the abomination that causes desolation,'-spoken of by Daniel-occupying the holy place, understand this:

[What is the abomination that causes desolation? It is the abomination of lies that desolate the hearts, minds, characters of God's Spirit Temple. First embodied in pagan Rome—the system of imposed law, coercively enforcing its way upon the world. Thus Jesus is first speaking of the time with Pagan Rome's soldiers stood around Jerusalem in AD 70 and destroyed the little theater—the Temple. And this Imperial Roman system eventually infected Christianity and Christianity itself became beastly practicing the same methods of force, coercion and destruction as Pagan Rome, thereby infecting the minds of human beings—the Spirit Temple—with the false law construct, causing terrible desolation throughout the entire world. What is more abominable—the destruction of a city—buildings and even killing people—destroying their bodies, or the destruction of the image of God in the human being—destroying souls? Remember MT 10:28?]

¹⁶ Those who are in Judea should flee to the mountains.¹⁷ Don't waste time trying to gather your things, but leave immediately.¹⁸ If you're outside, flee; don't even go inside for a coat.¹⁹ It will be a horrible time, especially for pregnant women and nursing mothers!²⁰ Pray that you will not have to flee in the winter or on the Sabbath,

[To when is this referring? To AD 70 primarily, warning the Christians in Jerusalem to be ready to flee when the Roman soldiers came, which they did. But also having an application to those who recognize that Israel was a lesson book, an object lesson for eternal realities. And as the Temple in Jerusalem was a symbol of the Spirit Temple, Israel was representative of God's true people—His agents on earth. And as Israel accepted the false view of God and rejected Christ and thus were abandoned to their fate and Rome came and destroyed Jerusalem, there is the warning to Christians that the church would become infected with the same false view of God and end up practicing the same methods and would destroy the minds of humans. Thus be watchful and be ready to flee Jerusalem when the soldiers arrive, and be ready to flee from the institutional church when pagan Rome's imperial law ideas and teachings infect and control it.]

²¹ for that time of trouble will be the worst the world has ever seen, or will ever see.²² If God didn't intervene to stop it, no one would live through it; but for the sake of those who have partaken of the Remedy, God will shorten those troubled times.

[To when is this referring? Again to both times—inside Jerusalem during the siege of AD 70 it was horrible and stands again as an object lesson to the greater application. The greater fulfillment was the 1260 years from AD 538-1798 when the Christianity was not only infected with the imposed law concept of fallen sinful human beings, but was also empowered to practice those methods of coercion. Thus just as in Jerusalem people starved for lack of physical food, in the church people starved for lack of spiritual food, just as people were slaughtered in Jerusalem, people were slaughtered in the church. Just as the Temple in Jerusalem was torn down by the assault of a pagan army, so too the Spirit Temple was torn down by the assault of pagan ideas about God, just as both Jesus and Paul foretold.]

²³ At that time in history, if anyone proclaims, 'Look, the Messiah or Savior is here!' or 'There is the Savior!'—don't believe it,²⁴ for false messiahs and false apostles will appear around the world—some even performing miraculous signs in order to deceive those who don't think for themselves. Their counterfeit will be so close to the true that it will almost dupe those who have partaken of the Remedy.²⁵ So remember that I have warned you before it happens: Be prepared!²⁶ If anyone tells you, 'The Messiah is in wilderness near Palestine,' don't go there; or 'The Savior can be found in secret meetings,' or 'His coming is a secret event'—don't believe it.

[To what is this referring? Not only in the false individuals, but what about the teachings of finding Christ in secret meetings, or that His second coming will be a secret event?]

²⁷ For the coming of the Son of Man will be visible to the entire world, just like sunlight dawns in the east and shines to the west, covering the entire planet.²⁸ You can be certain that you will not find the Son of Man where people seek to speak with the dead. Think of vultures eating corpses, for that is what's happening there.

[To what and when is this referring? To the time after 1798, Christ's return happens after the 1260 years, and there will be a rise in spiritualism and secret meetings where people seek to speak to the dead. Has this happened?]

²⁹ "As soon as those days of trouble are over,

[What days of trouble? The 1260 years which ended in 1798]

'light from the sun and moon will no longer be seen as evidence of God's creatorship, but their light will be darkened by evolutionism. The stars in heaven will be disregarded as evidence of the Creator, and the power of heaven will be shaken out of the land and out of the hearts of people.'

²This rendering is clearly interpretive, intended to cause the reader to think. Which sign would be more helpful to God's people on earth: a single day on which in one small section of the globe the sun and moon darken and some years later there is a meteor shower (as some Christian groups suggest), or a global change in the minds of people, in which God's celestial beacons marking His Creatorship are cast aside? But for those preferring a more traditional reading, this is an alternative rendering: "As soon as those events are over, 'the sun and moon will not give their normal light, stars will fall from the sky, and the power of heaven will be shaken.'"

³⁰ "At that time,

[what time? The time after the above events have occurred; and are we living in that time?]

the Son of Man will appear in the sky: Everyone will see him, and all the nations of this selfish world will be grief-stricken. They will see the Son of Man arriving amongst the clouds of the sky, with the unveiled power and splendor of infinite love and truth.³¹ And with the loud blast of a trumpet, he will direct his angels to gather all those who have partaken of the Remedy, from the entire world—from one end of the globe to the other.

Can you see how Christ wove together events for Jerusalem but also for the history of the entire planet? How was this possible? Because Israel was designed by God to be an object lesson to the entire world and the events in their history have lessons for a larger application.

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read 2 Peter 3, from The Remedy:

¹My dear friends, this is the second letter I have written to you. These letters are to motivate you to take control of your minds and engage in healthy thinking.

[Do we have a role to play in the healing of our minds and characters? What? We must choose—what must we choose? First to evaluate the evidence about God and choose whether we will trust Him or not—i.e. choose to open the heart in trust and invite God in. Then, in trust, we must choose to say no to temptation; or another way to say it: we must choose to do that which is right, healthy, reasonable, that which is in harmony with God's methods. It is our choice, and when we make the choice, THEN we receive divine power to succeed and carry out the choice. And this love relationship with God results in our transformation and we become conduits of His love as we give to others.]

²I want you to remember the truths recorded in the past by God's spokespersons and the instructions given you by our Lord and Savior through his ambassadors.

³First of all, understand and don't be surprised that in the last days, scoffers and doubters will arise: they will prefer the sickness of selfishness while ridiculing the cure, labeling the infection of selfishness as 'normal.' ⁴They will say, "Survival-of-the-fittest is the way the universe runs: this is why we are here—not because of divine creation. Where is this so-called God? Where is the coming he promised? Ever since human history has been recorded, the principles of evolution have governed life, and all things continue just as they always have."

⁵But these scoffers deliberately deny the truth and ignore the fact that long ago, by God's Word, the world was created out of water and with water.⁶They reject the fact that it was by these same waters that a flood destroyed the world,⁷ and they refuse to believe that the same Word has testified that the present world, which is kept for the day of final diagnosis and the elimination of everyone and everything deviant from God's design, will be destroyed by fire.

[Have we seen this transpiring? Are we living in an age when scoffers have arisen, when people doubt the existence of God, when people doubt the Biblical account of a flood, when people teach naturalistic explanations for life and when people reject the idea that there is anything wrong with the condition of humankind? Can we have confidence that a day is coming when all deviations from God's design will be eliminated? Do you prefer final diagnosis, or judgment? Why did I choose diagnosis rather than judgment? Is a diagnosis a judgment? Yes, but upon which law system does diagnosis work? Design law, thus it leads the mind to realize God's judgment is merely His accurate diagnosis of the true condition of each person's heart/character. What do you understand the fire to be?]

⁸But don't forget the true nature of God's kingdom of love. Understand that the Lord lives outside the constraints of time, and with him a day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years is like a day.⁹There is no delay on his part in keeping his promise to return: he is simply waiting for what he has always been waiting for—the Remedy to be taken to the entire world so that none who remain curable will be lost.

[If there is no delay, why do we speak of a delay and teach God has delayed? Do we undermine confidence in God by teaching He has delayed His return? And what about Satan? If God is waiting for this, what would Satan work to do? To stop it, but how? By getting people to reject God and turn to evolutionary thinking, and for those who remain motivated to take a message from God to the world to get them to take a false message—a message that actually misrepresents God as a dictator and the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death—the imperial dictator view of God.]

¹⁰But the Lord's return—coming suddenly like a thief—will surprise many people: There will be a loud roar and the sky will disappear; the very elements will melt in the intense heat, and the entire planet will be laid bare.

¹¹Since everything the world values will end in this way, what kind of people are you to be? Each person must partake of the Remedy and be healed, live a life that loves others and honors God¹² as you anticipate our Lord's return, and work to speed his coming.

[Does this mean we have a role to play? Can we speed His coming? How? By partaking of Christ and being transformed in our own beings, and then taking the true picture of God to the world!]

On that day, the atmosphere of selfishness will be consumed by fire, and the very elements contaminated by sin will melt in the intense heat.¹³But just as promised, Jesus will make a new atmosphere and an entirely new earth—free from disease and defect, free from the infection of selfishness—the eternal home of the healed.

¹⁴So please, my dear friends: Since you long for the day our Lord returns, cooperate in every way with God's healing plan so that you will be found without any defect—totally cured and restored to complete unity with him.¹⁵ Remember that our Lord's patience gives time for the Remedy to spread and healing to occur, just as our dear brother Paul explained in his letters—as God revealed it to him.¹⁶ Paul writes about God's Remedy and healing plan in all his letters, but his letters contain some technical details and intricate illustrations and thus can be difficult to understand. And those who don't understand God's healing plan distort Paul's writings—as they do the other Scriptures—to misrepresent God.

[How has this happened? By using Paul to promote an imposed law construct with penal legal theologies.]

Sadly, without the Remedy, it results in their own destruction.

¹⁷Therefore, my dear friends, since you know all of this, stay sharp and think for yourselves so that you won't be seduced into false theologies by people who deviate from God's law of love and have your minds re-infected with distortions about God.¹⁸ Instead, grow stronger every day in the grace and truth of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Let him be glorified now and forever! Amen.

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, “The mission of the Seventh-day Adventist Church...” What is this in practical terms?

- What is the gospel—good news? It is the good news about God, that God is not an imperial dictator, but the Creator who constructed reality to operate in harmony with His character of love. That God is not the source of inflicted pain and death, but that death comes from breaking away from God and His design, and that God has been working throughout all human history to heal and restore human beings and prevent death.
- What are the three angels? Are these actual angelic beings, or symbolic of a movement with a message from heaven that is to go to the entire world?
- Can you state the message of the three angels?
 - That God is Creator, Designer, Builder of reality and His laws are the laws upon which reality is built. We are to give glory to Him, by being healed in our characters to be like Him and live out His law of love, because the time in human history has come for human beings to make a right judgment about God! (first angel)
 - The other churches and religions of the world are fallen into a system of imposed law, arbitrary rules and legal theology with a punishing God, just like Babylon; it is a system that doesn't make sense and is confusing. And it is this POWER (the power of imposed law) that changed the Sabbath. This is the issue—what God do we serve, the God who creates and whose law is design protocol, or the god who is a dictator and whose laws are no different than human laws, imposed rules coercively enforced. This is the issue of which the Sabbath is only a sign, not the specific problem. We are to come out of her. (second angel)
 - And those who reject the God who is love and His law of love, and prefer the beastly methods of human imposed law constructs, and mark themselves in their minds by believing and promoting the methods of coercion, or mark themselves by their works of practicing the methods of coercion, will ultimately die of their terminal and unhealed selfish condition—regardless of which day they worship upon. (third angel)

- Who are the remnant? Those that keep the commandments of God and hold to the testimony of Jesus? What does this mean?
 - What are the commandments of God? To love the Lord with all one's being and neighbor as self
 - What is the testimony of Jesus? The same as that which inspired the prophets, which is the truth about God—that God is exactly as Jesus revealed Him to be.
 - So the remnant will be a group of people who arise in the world who love God and others more than self, and who present the same picture of God as Jesus did, teaching the same methods of design law as Jesus did.

The lesson states, “This quarter began with the concept that Jesus wants to restore His image in humanity and empower us as His followers to be instruments of wholistic [sic] restoration in our communities.”

How? How does Jesus restore His image in humanity?

- First and foremost by His incarnation, taking humanity upon Himself, confronting Satan and the devil's temptation and choosing with His human mind/brain/will to say no to temptation and to love perfectly. Thus, in the person of Jesus God's image was restored into a human being.
- Secondly, by the Holy Spirit taking what Christ achieved and reproducing this character of love in all who trust God and allow Him into their hearts.

The bottom green section states, “ ‘Faith without works is dead.’ How have you discovered the reality of how closely linked faith and works are? In what ways do works increase your faith?”

Which law lens do you look through? Through imposed law lens this causes tension, penal/legal theologians go to great lengths to emphasize that our salvation has no work from us at all, it is all 100% done by Christ. They teach that all our personal sins were placed upon Christ and punished in Christ on the cross 2000 years ago. That in taking that legal punishment atonement was full and complete. But then state that if we don't work then we haven't been saved by the work of Christ. That our works are evidences of the being saved, but do nothing to contribute or merit God saving us, because all our works are contaminated with sin and God could not accept such polluted works.

Their point is that Christ needed to be legally punished by God and be sinless so that God would accept the legal payment to pay for our sins. And since our good works are contaminated by sin they can not be offered to God to pay or sin debt. Yet, after we accept the legal payment of Jesus to the Father so the Father will declare us to be righteous, even though we are not, we then must work because if we don't then we are not saved, even though we were already declared to be righteous by the substitutionary application of Christ's legal payment to our account.

When we come back to design law all this confusion and contradiction evaporates and the truth about faith and works harmonizes beautifully. Anyone want to explain it through design law?

Hebrews tells us that faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. The word substance comes from the Greek hypostasis which has two halves:

- hypo—which means under as in hypoglycemic, or hypotension
- stasis which means standing

This was translated into a Latin based word substance which has two halves:

- sub—which means under as in subway, submarine, subterranean
- stance—which means standing

And we can translate that to modern English as “faith is our understanding”

And understanding as two definitions, which both apply:

- our cognitive comprehension of God, His methods, trustworthiness
- our agreement with God—we have an understanding with Him

Example, a person gets infected with Anthrax and is sick in the ER. A doctor examines them and diagnoses them accurately and communicates the diagnosis to them. Then tells them, “I can heal you. I have a Remedy developed that will cure you and I will provide it to you at no cost. Do you trust me? If I provide you this Remedy will you take it and follow my instructions? Do we have an understanding?”

Faith is our understanding with God—our intelligent appreciation of who He is and our agreement with Him and His methods and to cooperate with Him in following His instructions—thus we work, we follow His instructions.

Does the patient who takes the medicine create their own cure? Do they save themselves? No! But will they be saved if they don’t enter into agreement with the doctor and work in harmony with him?

This is design law—this is how God works. This is how we work out our salvation with fear and trembling. Through Jesus Christ alone the Remedy to sin has been achieved and offered free of charge to everyone, but we much choose to trust God, and we must choose to partake of what Jesus provides, and we must choose to follow His instructions for our lives. Thus Jesus says:

Then they asked him, “What must we do to do the works God requires?”

²⁹ Jesus answered, “The work of God is this: to believe in the one he has sent.” Jn 6:28,29

Here are some quotes from one of the founders of the SDA church describing this process:

- We are laborers together with God. This is the Lord's own wise arrangement. The cooperation of the human will and endeavor with divine energy is the link that binds men up with one another and with God. The apostle says, "We are laborers together with God: ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building" (1 Corinthians 3:9). Man is to work with the facilities God has given him. "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling," He says. "For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure" (Philippians 2:12, 13).--MS 113, 1898. {2MCP 694.3}

- There are two grand forces at work in the salvation of the human soul. It requires the cooperation of man with the divine agencies-- divine influences, and a strong, living, working faith. It is in this way only that the human agent can become a laborer together with God. The Lord does not sanction in any one of us a blind, stupid credulity. He does not dishonor the human understanding, but, far from this, He calls for the human will to be brought into connection with the divine will. He calls for the ingenuity of the human mind, the tact, the skill, to be strenuously exercised in searching out the truth as it is in Jesus. . . . Ye are labourers together with God. {OHC 310.5}
- And he who seeks to give light to others will himself be blessed. "There shall be showers of blessing." "He that watereth shall be watered also himself." Proverbs 11:25. God could have reached His object in saving sinners without our aid; but in order for us to develop a character like Christ's, we must share in His work. In order to enter into His joy,--the joy of seeing souls redeemed by His sacrifice,--we must participate in His labors for their redemption. {DA 142.2}

The first paragraph speaks of the metaphor of farming and states it is a patient process—what law does farming operate upon?

What lessons about salvation do we gain from farming? Farming works upon design law, one reaps what one sows. Further when we look at a field we don't know what is planted there until it grows up. Likewise we don't know what is in another person's heart.

Further, a field that is wild, uncultivated, can be cultivated and good seed can be planted in. So too, hearts that have not had the truth of God planted in can be sewn with God's truth and love.

The lesson in the second paragraph states, "The fact is, we don't know people's hearts. We don't know how the Holy Spirit has been working in their lives."

What does it mean in day to day application? Could it mean that there are people who have rejected God and church who are actually following the leading of the Holy Spirit? How?

Could it be that there are people who have only ever heard of an arbitrary dictator-like god that induces fear and contradicts the reality of God's true character as revealed in nature and thus they reject that god? Would doing so move them away from God or closing to Him?

The last sentence states, "And thought we are to be used by God in various capacities, in the end it is God alone who can bring about the conversion of a soul."

Any concerns about how this is stated? Could wrong ideas be inadvertently drawn from this?

For instance, if it is God alone who brings about the conversion of a soul, then why isn't everyone converted? If it is truly God alone, and everyone is not saved, then that would mean that God doesn't want everyone saved. So, is it God alone that brings about conversion? Or is it, as we read above, that God saves in cooperation with the one being converted?

THURSDAY

Read the third paragraph, "The second city..." What does it mean? Two cities, Jerusalem and Babylon, represent two groups of people. What is the demarcating differences in the two groups?

- Love versus selfishness
- Truth versus lies
- Freedom versus coercion

What about the commandments and faith in Jesus? Will many who find themselves part of Babylon claim they are commandment keepers and have faith in Jesus?

Remember Jesus said,

Many will say to me on that day, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and in your name drive out demons and perform many miracles?' ²³ Then I will tell them plainly, 'I never knew you. Away from me, you evildoers!' MT 7:22,23

Could this include people who worship on the seventh day Sabbath? What makes the difference? Coming into a true knowledge of God and His character, which is understanding His character of love, His design law and how He operates such that we actually know Him.

The next paragraph states, "By the blood of the Lamb, the church's role in compassionate restoration has changed to jubilant celebration." What does this mean?

Is this referring to a legal payment of the blood of Christ to His Father who was offended by our sin? Or, is the blood referring to the perfect life of Christ, of which we must partake? Thus Jesus said:

“I tell you the truth, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. Jn 6:53

2016 Q4 The Book of Job Lesson 1 (Lori Atkins)

The End

We are starting a new quarterly today and will be studying the book of Job over the next 13 weeks. The story of Job is very well-known – even to those not necessarily familiar with the Bible or Christianity. We kind of use Job as a benchmark when evaluating what other folks are going through...if someone experiences 1 hardship or trial after another, we equate them to Job, or if we see someone who is particularly long-suffering we say they have the patience of Job.

What comes to mind when you think of Job – the man? His story?

This has always been a very tough Bible book and story for me...am I the only one? Some actually think that the book is fiction or a parable like the Good Samaritan. Even the chronology of when the book was written and took place versus where it is placed sequentially in the Old Testament seems odd – however, there is significant evidence that Job actually lived from 1710-1500, and archaeology has shown that all the geographical and historical details in the Book of Job are accurate and reliable.

The Book of Job is the only one written in Old Hebrew among all the biblical scrolls found at Qumran, beside the books of Moses, and Moses is believed to be the author.

http://www.academia.edu/5613976/The_Book_of_Job_Chronological_Historical_and_Archaeological_Evidence

But without the Great Controversy perspective that I have now, I completely understand how easy it might be to misunderstand or misconstrue some of the concepts portrayed in this book. In fact, I found one very interesting commentary entitled, “Is the Book of Job a Parody?” Well that title intrigued me, so listen to what this author says:

“Sometimes I really do not like certain chapters of the Bible. Two of the worst chapters for me have always been Job 1-2. They tell the story of a good and righteous man who becomes the pawn in a little game of Russian Roulette between God and Satan. Job is the unwitting butt of a cosmic wager. While I do not believe that good and righteous people who love God will always have life turn out peachy keen, I nevertheless have a big problem with a God who uses humans the way that God uses Job in these two chapters. This is divine entrapment! What would you think of a parent who conspired with a drug dealer to sell drugs to the child and threaten them with killing their parents and siblings to see if the child will stay true the parent’s instruction to “Say no to drugs”? What kind of a sick parent would do that? What would you think of a husband who conspired with a friend to try to seduce his wife just to see if she really loved him? What kind of a husband would do this? Yet this is what God and Satan conspire to do with Job. I'm sorry. I really do not like these chapters of the Bible." He concludes that "If one reads the Prologue of Job without awareness of the author's intent to [argue] against a perennial (recurrent/persistent/lasting) but perverse notion of God, the picture that emerges is precisely the one the author attempted to confute (disprove)!" In other words, Job 1-2 is a parody of the recurrent, persistent false view of God. It shows a forgetful God. A power-hungry God. A God who is so desirous of proving Himself right, that He plays around with humans lives, which mean nothing to Him, just to make a point. The author of the Book of Job is making fun of this popular and pervasive (but perverted) view of God in order to show us that our God, the God of the Bible, is not like this at all."

So what insight does our Great Controversy perspective give us when evaluating Job's backstory?

A quote from the book Education gives us this insight:

"Unselfishness, the principle of God's kingdom, is the principle that Satan hates; its very existence he denies. From the beginning of the great controversy he has endeavored to prove God's principles of action to be selfish, and he deals in the same way with all who serve God. To disprove Satan's claim is the work of Christ and of all who bear His name. It was to give in His own life an illustration of unselfishness that Jesus came in the form of humanity. And all who accept this principle are to be workers together with Him in demonstrating it in practical life. To choose the right because it is right; to stand for truth at the cost of suffering and sacrifice—"this is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness is of Me, saith the Lord." Isaiah 54:17.

Very early in the history of the world is given the life record of one over whom this controversy of Satan's was waged. Of Job, the patriarch of Uz, the testimony of the Searcher of hearts was, "There is none like him in the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and escheweth evil." Against this man, Satan brought scornful charge: "Doth Job fear God for nought? Hast Thou not made a hedge about him, and about his house, and about all that he hath on every side? ... Put forth Thine hand now, and touch all that he hath;" "touch his bone and his flesh, and he will curse Thee to Thy face." The Lord said unto Satan, "All that he hath is in thy power." "Behold, he is in thine hand; but save his life."

Thus permitted, Satan swept away all that Job possessed—flocks and herds, menservants and maidens, sons and daughters; and he "smote Job with sore boils from the sole of his foot unto his crown." Job 1:8-12; 2:5-7. Still another element of bitterness was added to his cup. His friends, seeing in adversity but the retribution of sin, pressed on his bruised and burdened spirit their accusations of wrongdoing.

Seemingly forsaken of heaven and earth, yet holding fast his faith in God and his consciousness of integrity, in anguish and perplexity he cried: “My soul is weary of my life...” According to his faith, so was it unto Job. “When He hath tried me,” he said, “I shall come forth as gold.” Job 23:10. So it came to pass.

By his patient endurance he vindicated his own character, and thus the character of Him whose representative he was. And “the Lord turned the captivity of Job: ... also the Lord gave Job twice as much as he had before.... So the Lord blessed the latter end of Job more than his beginning.” For those who love God, those who are “the called according to His purpose” (Romans 8:28), Bible biography has a yet higher lesson of the ministry of sorrow. “Ye are My witnesses, saith the Lord, that I am God” (Isaiah 43:12)—witnesses that He is good, and that goodness is supreme. “We are made a theater unto the world, both to angels, and to men.” (1 Cor 4:9)

Who is accused/on trial? Satan’s accusation was against God much more than it was against Job. In Romans 3:4, Paul tells us that God is the One on trial, God is the One accused, and God is the One who will be proved innocent. Paul says:

- “That You may be justified in Your words, And prevail when You are judged.” NASB
- “You must be shown to be right when you speak; you must win your case when you are being tried.” GNT
- God, may you be proved right and true in the hearts and minds of your intelligent creatures when you present yourself openly for their judgment. The Remedy

Why are we here? What is playing at the theater?

By his patient endurance he vindicated his own character, and thus the character of Him whose representative he was.

So this lesson is entitled “The End”, and although it is the first lesson in the quarterly, the focus is on the end of Job’s story...and the importance and even significance of a “happy ending”. We are taught the importance of a good ending in writing classes – whether in fiction or non-fiction, TV shows, movie scripts, the writer needs to have satisfactory closure, tie up any loose ends with characters and story lines. Even in speeches and presentations, a good, clear conclusion is critical.

But what about in real life? What about in our own stories that are hardly ever as neat and tidy?

The quarterly asks, “How could our stories end well, when they always end in death? In that sense, we never really have happy endings, do we, because when is death happy?” Ouch. I found this to be a bit of a recurring dark theme in this week’s lesson, but we are going to try to stay on the bright side since we happen to believe that this 1st death of sleep is not, in fact, the end of our stories.

SUNDAY

Happily Ever After?

What is the standard fairy tale ending? We just talked about the literary importance of happy endings, so most children’s stories and practically every fairy tale ends with, “...and they lived happily ever after”.

The quarterly says, “it’s almost a cliché”...almost??

It’s a full-blown clichéd ending where the handsome prince rescues the damsel in distress, the hero triumphs over the villain, and our lesson suggests that this is how the book of Job ends – at least at first glance – the hero and his (new) wife triumph in the end, or at least end up on a relatively positive note. But is that only part of the story? Let’s look at the final verses of the book to see how Job’s story ends:

“After Job had interceded for his friends, God restored his fortune – and then doubled it! All his brothers and sisters and friends came to his house and celebrated. They told him how sorry they were, and consoled him for all the trouble God had brought him. Each of them brought generous housewarming gifts. God blessed Job’s later life even more than his earlier life. He ended up with fourteen thousand sheep, six thousand camels, one thousand teams of oxen, and one thousand donkeys. He also had seven sons and three daughters...there was not a woman in that country as beautiful as Job’s daughters. Their father treated them as equals with their brothers, providing the same inheritance (which was unheard of). Job lived on another 140 years, living to see his children and grandchildren – four generations of them! Then he died – an old man, a full life.” (Job 42:10-17)

So on paper, the numbers looked really good – twice as much material wealth, 7 new sons and 3 new (apparently super attractive) daughters to replace those he lost. Job’s was apparently healed and restored to health such that he lived another 140 years, so it sounds like he was in a relatively good and happy place by the end of his life. But what about the scars – I’m guessing literal and figurative scars – that lingered on throughout his life? Tuesday’s lesson takes a look into the rest of the story, so let’s skip right over to Tuesday.

TUESDAY

The (Partial) Restoration

So we know that on paper Job ends up better off than before Satan targeted him – God restored “all that the locusts had eaten” (reference to God’s promise made in Joel), but does full healing and restoration mean there is no memory? No pain? No scars?

Have any of you ever had surgery? Even if you are completely healed, maybe you’re even better or healthier than you were before, but won’t you still carry the physical evidence of that procedure for the rest of your life?

Based on the fact that he was near death and covered head to toe with sores and such, it seems reasonable to think that he may have experienced ongoing health issues and carried the physical scars for the rest of those 140 years.

I cannot begin to imagine the pain of losing a child – some of you in this room or some of those listening may have experienced this unfathomable loss...but can you imagine what it is like to lose 10 children?! At once?! I am sure that while Job was overjoyed to be blessed with 10 new children, but kids are not interchangeable or replaceable! I’m quite sure that he still mourned and missed his lost children throughout the rest of his life.

So even in God’s complete comfort, healing, and restoration there can still be painful memories, mourning of loss, and physical and emotional scars. I also imagine that Job became extremely sensitive and empathetic to others who were suffering pain or loss. I saw a quote this week that said, “God does not comfort us to make us comfortable, God comforts us to make us comfort-able – able to comfort others”! Has anyone found that to be true in their own experience?

The quarterly points out another reason Job’s restoration was partial is because for the most part the reasons beheld all the tragedies that befell him remained a mystery – as it does for pretty much all of us in our own lives!

We live on a planet that is literally groaning under the weight of sin, so we will all likely have a stack of questions that remain unanswered this side of eternity – or sometimes that IS the answer. In this world, we are promised to have trouble. To me, this is all related to that deeply ingrained idea – and I mean at the DNA level – that there has to be a reason for the tragedy, for the illness, for the defects we encounter here.

The disciples asked, “Who sinned that this man was born blind?” Job’s friends were absolutely convinced that Job had done something awful or had some hidden, unconfessed sin that caused him to be punished and admonished by God.

I have always been so impressed that Job NEVER thought that was the reason...he KNEW it wasn’t. He understood God’s character and His methods and the way he governs His universe well enough that he could not be convinced of it by either his friends or his wife.

We really have to be “transformed by the renewing of our minds” in order to drop this notion that God’s goodness or His character of love is defined or described by our earthly circumstances – perceived blessings or lack of blessings. God is love...God is good...period. God is always focused on changing us...and sometimes He changes our circumstances as well.

Based on how God described Job to Satan, what does this tell us about God’s ability to “judge” or diagnose one’s character?

I want to read you the short story of Job from The Journal of the Watcher, Tim’s book that covers the entire Great Controversy from the perspective of the “heavenly watchers”. Spoiler alert: it’s not about us...and it’s not even really about Job.

“Following the flood, while God continued to protect His faithful few and prevent Satan from eradicating them from the earth, Satan saw an opportunity to misrepresent God before the intelligences in heaven and gain access to those still loyal to God. The representative heads of all creation were gathering together in heaven, and Satan thought, If I can twist God’s actions and misrepresent His motives, then maybe I can win more sinless beings over to my cause. Satan reasoned that if he were subtle enough, maybe some of God’s loyal sons would fail to realize that God put many of His earthly children to rest in order to keep an avenue open to heal and redeem. Maybe he could deceive them into believing God was abusive and coercive and could not be trusted. And maybe he could simultaneously corner God into giving him access to destroy those few remaining [humans] loyal to Him on earth.

So Satan went to this meeting in heaven, claiming to be the rightful representative of the earth. But God was not fooled by Satan’s trickery and immediately turned the tables on the Evil One. Even though the devil claimed that the earth was his, God announced to the heavenly gathering that there was a man from Uz who rejected Satan’s methods of selfishness and who was loyal to God, loving others more than self. (remember the quote we read earlier – Unselfishness, the very principle of God’s kingdom, is the principle that Satan hates most, even denies its very existence)

Therefore all the earth was not Satan's, all its inhabitants did not recognize Satan as their leader. But Satan countered God's claim by asserting that God was now lying and that this man only pretended to be loyal because God bribed him with riches and power.

The sons of God were confused; they couldn't read the secret motives of the heart. If they could, none of the angels would have ever been deceived by Satan in the first place. Satan thought, 'If I can get Job to curse God, I can look to all the intelligent beings in the universe and say, 'See, God was wrong about Job. He is wrong about me, too. You can't trust what God Says!'

However, God did know Job, so before this great gathering of heavenly beings He said to Satan, 'Job is in your hands. Do whatever you like, but you must not kill him.' While Satan was free to bless Job with more wealth, he did what he always does – he began destroying and killing, revealing that he, not God, is the true source of disease, pain, suffering, and death. Job, though assaulted by Satan's fiercest attack, revealed the truth about God, demonstrating that God was right and Satan was wrong. God can be trusted. Satan is the destroyer, not God! Satan was bitter that his plot was foiled."

This Great Controversy, this war going on...it is Not. About. Us!

Obviously, Job started out with a very strong character – God picked him out of everyone alive on the planet. But his character continued to be refined and he continued to grow and mature through his suffering and his questioning of God. He actually experienced God and got to know him more intimately during his time of trial and sorrow.

Isn't this so true? In your lives, when were the times that you got to know God most intimately or felt the most dependent on him or felt his presence the closest?

He says in Chapter 42,

"I admit it. I was the one. I babbled on about things far beyond me, made small talk about wonders way over my head... I admit I once lived by rumors of you; now I have it all firsthand—from my own eyes and ears! I'm sorry—forgive me. I'll never do that again, I promise! I'll never again live on crusts of hearsay, crumbs of rumor."

Oh, don't you want to that kind of growth? To have such a mature character and to be so settled into the truth that God would call you out to be "watched"? That He would enter you into evidence as Exhibit A in His trial.

So, when God says, consider my servant Russell, or Linda, or Wendell, or Theresa – and then regardless of what this world throws at us, we glorify God by revealing His character, His methods, and His principles of unselfish love... THAT is how our stories can have the ultimate happy ending.

It is not about the money, or the livestock, or the property, or the children...the only restoration that matters here on this earth is the restoration of our hearts and our characters back to their original design. Job's story has a happy ending because He accurately revealed God's character and His "Law of Love".

Even if nothing we have lost in this life gets restored while we're here, can still "live happily ever after."

This quote is from Wednesday's lesson, but it fits better here...from Patriarchs and Prophets,

"The great plan of redemption results in fully bringing back the world into God's favor. All that was lost by sin is restored. Not only man but the earth is redeemed, to be the eternal abode of the obedient. For six thousand years Satan has struggled to maintain possession of the earth. Now God's original purpose in its creation is accomplished. 'The saints of the Most High shall take the kingdom, and possess the kingdom forever, even forever and ever.'"

That's the real happily ever after.

WEDNESDAY

The Final Kingdom

Wednesday's lesson points out that the Bible is not only a book about history and historical events, it also points us to the future, even to the end of time. It teaches that at the end of time God's eternal kingdom will be established, it will exist forever, and it will be the eternal home of the redeemed. And unlike worldly kingdoms that have come and gone, this one is everlasting.

Is this really what it teaches? Do we have to wait until the end of time for God's eternal kingdom to be established? And is it only eternal going forward...or if the His kingdom is truly "eternal" has it always been?

The Lord's prayer instructs us to pray for His kingdom to come to us here. (Matthew 6:10), Jesus repeatedly preached and taught, "Repent, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand or has come near." (Matthew 4:17)

He said the kingdom of heaven belongs to those who are like the little children (Matthew 19:14)

According to Mark, he told a crowd

“Truly I tell you, some who are standing here will not taste death before they see that the kingdom of God has come with power.” Mark 9:1

Jesus told the Pharisees,

“I drive off demons by the power of God, and this is evidence that god’s kingdom of love has arrived.” (Luke 11:20)

When asked by the Pharisees when the kingdom of god would come, Jesus replied,

“The coming of the kingdom of God is not something that can be observed. Nor will people say, ‘Here it is,’ or ‘There it is,’ because the kingdom of God is in your midst or within you.” (Luke 17:20-21).

We may not get the New Jerusalem until the end of time, but I happen to believe that we need not wait until that time to participate in and experience His kingdom of love here and now.

Further Thought - The concluding chapters in the book of Job draw on images of creation and nature. Without answering Job’s question as to the “Why?” of his suffering, God is portrayed as lovingly yet majestically ruling over His creation. Thus, eventually, Job must acknowledge God as His Creator. This recognition catalyzes the big change, or renewal, that takes place in Job’s heart. In the beginning verses of this final chapter (Job 42:2, 3), Job refers to understanding, knowledge, and counsel five times, indicating that he has come to a deeper understanding of who God is and how He relates to His creation.

Could it be that in coming to know God as the creator and designer, Job was able to determine that his design laws work differently than man’s laws and this knowledge led to a deeper understanding of who God is and a big change in his heart and mind?

THURSDAY

The Resurrection and the Life

Job says in Chapter 14,

“If we humans die, will we live again? That’s my question. All through these difficult days I keep hoping, waiting for the final change—for resurrection! Homesick with longing for the creature you made, you’ll call—and I’ll answer!”

Is anyone else here homesick with longing for the creature He made, instead of this one here?

Job asks if the dead will live again, and then he says that he waits for his change to come. The Hebrew word for “wait” here also implies the idea of hope. It’s not just waiting for something, it is hoping for it. And the Hebrew word here for “change” comes from a term that gives the idea of “renewal” or “replacement” – the change from death to life. I have always waited for this event, but to be honest, I haven’t always hoped for it.

When I was younger I was skeptical, I had a lot of plans and things I wanted to accomplish so I kind of hoped the timeframe predictions were off, there were certainly some theologies at play that made me afraid of it...but I can say now that I not only hope for this promised change and renewal, but there is genuine longing for it to happen – the sooner the better!

The box at the bottom of Thursday’s lesson asks what Jesus’ question to Martha in John 11:25 tells us about “the end”...this was when Jesus came to the family after Lazarus died and he told Martha, “I am the resurrection and the life.”

But I believe the Message translation really captures that He was NOT just talking about the end, but just like His kingdom being here and now – in us, this statement also references the present.

“You don’t have to wait for the End. I am, right now, Resurrection and Life. The one who believes in me, even though he or she dies, will live. And everyone who lives believing in me does not ultimately die at all.” John 11:25

Similar to when He says in Luke 12:4-5

“Oh my friends, I tell you plainly, don’t let fear of those who can kill the body stop you from sharing the Remedy. That’s all they can do, for they can’t damage your psyche – your soul or your individuality. But I will tell you what you should fear: Fear unremedied sin, which not only damages your body, but sears your conscience, warps your character, and has the power to throw you into a miserable hell. Yes, this you should fear.”

Further Thought - The lesson states,

“The unfolding of truth is progressive, and despite the great light we have been given now, there’s still so much more to learn. In fact, we’ve been told that “the redeemed throng will range from world to world, and much of their time will be employed in searching out the mysteries of redemption. And throughout the whole stretch of eternity, this subject will be continually opening to their minds.” ARH 03/09/1886.

So why does this not seem to be happening in most theological circles?

The Book of Job Lesson 2 4Q 2016

The Great Controversy

SABBATH

What do you think of with this title? What advantages does thinking through this lens offer to us as we read Scripture?

Is the idea of a Great Controversy taught in Scripture, or something created by the founders of the SDA church, which some people have alleged?

One of our class members received this email from a person that questions the legitimacy of the Great Controversy:

"My main issue of doubt has been EGW's TOXIC Great Controversy dogma. Her whole book is an anthology of atrocities, emphasizing Satan's EVIL, hopefully to persuade the "universe" that God is good.

She portrays a God, so obsessed and consumed with His eventual "vindication" that He uses mankind as his "Guinea pigs" in His grand "experiment" to overcome Satan.

Six thousand years (and counting) of abysmal accumulated atrocities, and an avalanche of anguish, do not seem to have persuaded God's entourage of extra-terrestrials... to vote for God nor to indict Satan.

This, despite EGW enlisting them as the jurors/deciders/arbitrators in this dispute. These extra-terrestrials must have the mental capacity of primitive primates, as depicted in the movie PLANET OF THE APES, not to have reached a definite denouncement nor an adequate arbitration, eons ago.

That we are held hostage to incompetent, inept, space aliens is terrifying. What is even more nightmarish, is if these aliens have the "street smarts" to perceive mankind's misery, but despite this, they remain in total equanimity, uncaring, uncompassionate, totally lacking in concern or commiseration. Surely then, they are complicit with Satan, if they do not clamor for God to end the carnage?

Our fate is in the hands of extra-terrestrials either incompetent, or uncaring, or both-- not a happy prospect! EGW's scenario is as BIZARRE as a STAR WARS movie with space aliens playing the major role. It invites derisive ridicule and does not "hold water"...

What would you say to such a person? What Biblical evidence could you bring to bear? Did EGW and the SDA church make up the controversy between good and evil that transcends humanity and earth, and extends into the cosmos and in which God and God's methods are at the center, or is that idea THE central issue in Scripture?

What evidence in Scripture is there for a Great Controversy over God's character and method of governing?

- There was "war" in heaven. Michael (Jesus) and his angels fought against the dragon and his angels (Revelation 12:7)
 - Who are the combatants in this war described in Revelation? Are they human?
- What kind of war was this?
 - Would the opponents of the GC idea suggest the war between good and evil is over who is most powerful? Or would they agree God is all powerful—and if God is all powerful, then what kind of war could be waged against Him?
 - It is a war of ideas and false allegations against God. The Greek word in Revelation 12:7 translated "war" is polemo from which we get "polemic" or verbal argument. It was a war of words.
- What is the central issue in this war of ideas, according to Scripture?
 - For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. ⁴ The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. ⁵ We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. 2Cor 10:3-5
- Where did the false ideas and lies originate?
 - Satan is the "father of lies" (John 8:44). So in the war of words Satan used lies—the primary lies always about God.
- What is the central focus of Satan's lies?
 - God's character and trustworthiness. Do we see evidence of this in Scripture?
 - "Did GOD really say...?" (Genesis 3:1).
 - What was the impact of believing the lies?
 - Lies believed break the circle of love and trust
 - Broken love and trust results in fear and selfishness
 - Fear and selfishness result in destructive actions
 - This is a terminal condition—dead in trespass and sin
 - In whom was fear and selfishness incited?
 - Adam and Eve
 - And what is the problem that believing the lies about God caused Adam and Eve?
 - Their characters were changed to be out of harmony with how God designed life
 - And, what impact on the rest of humanity and why?
 - We are born in sin conceived in iniquity because God created Adam and Eve with the ability to produce beings in their image, thus when they changed themselves, they could only pass along to their children what they possessed, which was fear and selfishness as the primary drive
- What was Satan's agenda in this "war" of words and these ideas misrepresenting God?

- To dethrone God from the hearts and minds of intelligent beings as the one most love and trusted, and enthrone Satan in their hearts
 - Which in turn would destroy the image of God in intelligent beings and put Satan's image where God's should be
- Does Scripture support we war against such non-human enemies?
 - "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." Eph 6:12 KJV
 - The stories of:
 - the demoniacs (legion)
 - Jesus' temptations by Satan, etc. we see a controversy raging beyond human beings
 - "For it seems to me that God has put us apostles on display at the end of the procession, like men condemned to die in the arena. We have been made a spectacle to the whole universe, to angels as well as to men." 1Cor 4:9
- And does the Bible actually say God is the one on trial?
 - "God must be true, even though every human being is a liar. As the scripture says, 'You must be shown to be right when you speak; you must win your case when you are being tried.'" Rom 3:4
- How does God win His case?
 - Can God win by use of might and power?
 - Not by might nor by power but by the way the Spirit works says the Lord, Zech 4:6
 - Which is truth and love—only truth and love can win hearts and minds, force and might cannot do this
 - So God wins His case by revealing the truth in love to win us to trust and through Christ providing us a new character, thus we can become partakers of the divine nature!
- Does Scripture include angelic beings in this war and the victories of Christ?
 - "For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, ²⁰ and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross." Col 1:19,20
- And in the book of Job we see the behind the scenes conflict being waged. What are the issues at stake in the book of Job?
 - Pastor Tim Mesendiek, Chairman of the Sozo Initiative sent me a paper Thursday on his thoughts on the book of Job and he has some excellent insights, which we will be revisiting throughout the quarter.
 - There are several simultaneous things happening in the book of Job: some things are happening in the hearts and minds of the non-fallen beings as they watch—which is what we have frequently emphasized and will again. But while God is winning His case before the universe, Pastor Mesendiek points out what is happening to Job. He notes that God is NOT using Job as a pawn or guinea pig, but God allowed events to transpire that would simultaneously heal and mature Job.

- Specifically, the book of Job is the Great Controversy in miniature. It is about human beings infected with fear and selfishness being restored to love and trust.
- Chapter one Job is afraid of God and how God relates to others (for his children), this is due to Job, even though trusting God, has misconceptions about God.
- Chapter two Job is afraid of God and how God relates to him, again because even though Job trusts God, he still has misconceptions about God.
- Chapter 3 through 37 Job's friends are afraid of God and have many misconceptions about God and are of no help to Job
- Chapter 38-41 God finally gets His day in court and immediately takes Job to the evidence of God's Creatorship, which is design law, and that God is not arbitrary or dictator-like. Job is finally freed from his misconceptions about God, which removes his fear, and notice that at that point, when Job's fear is removed, that Job comes boldly before the throne of grace, just as we are instructed to do.
- Job 42:1-4: Then Job answered the LORD, and said, I know that thou canst do every thing, and that no thought can be withholden from thee. (like fearful thoughts about God?) Who is he that hideth counsel without knowledge? therefore have I uttered that I understood not; things too wonderful for me, which I knew not. Hear, I beseech thee, and I will speak: I (JOB) will demand of thee (GOD), and declare thou unto me. (What is this BOLDNESS???)
 - Heb 4:16 Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need.
- In verse 5 Job sees and experiences God for himself, rather than just hearing about God from others.
- And in verse 6, having come boldly before God, experiences the truth of God and is brought to repentance, and genuine transformation of character—not only trusts God but is no longer afraid of God
- And having been delivered from fear to friendship, to love then the channels for restoration are opened and God restores to Job more than what was taken
- When was Satan cast out of heaven and what cast him out?
 - Now is the time for judgment on this world; now the prince of this world will be driven out. ³² But I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all to myself.” John 12:31,32
 - From The Remedy: Now is the time for the infection of selfishness and sin in this world to be fully diagnosed and revealed as destructive; now, Satan—the prince of this selfish world—will be driven out into the open, out of the shadows, out from behind his lies and distortions about God and God's methods, out where all can see him as the murderer he truly is, and thus out of the hearts of all who love me. ³² When I am lifted up from the earth, I will draw all intelligences throughout the universe to me.”
 - What does this mean? When did Satan get bound to earth? At the time of Christ's crucifixion—before, during the time of Job, Satan is still going into heaven. So, what bound him to the earth? Did God erect a force field that keeps Satan here? No, what kept Satan bound here is that the truth about God was fully revealed by Christ such that Satan's lies had no power over any intelligences anywhere in the universe except here on earth. Thus, no intelligent creature will listen to Satan any more!

- Are the angels slow to understand?
 - What has taken so long?
 - The more subtle the lie and the better the liar, the longer it takes to expose them
 - It wasn't until the Cross that Satan's full malignity and the full truth about God's character was revealed

So, is there Biblical evidence for a Great Controversy? Absolutely! All of this evidence is just a small sample of the evidence found in Scripture, not from other writers or sources. The Bible is filled with the truth about a war over God's trustworthiness that began before this earth was created. To deny this is to fail to see the real issue in the war and to misunderstand God, the problem of sin, and God's solution for it.

And if we misunderstand the problem, we misunderstand the solution, and often end up promoting ideas (gospels) that do not work to heal and transform people!

We have demonstrated from Scripture that the central issue in the war focuses on the knowledge of God. What is the central idea that Satan uses to undermine people's trust and confidence in God? God's law, Satan distorts God's law in the minds of beings alleging God's law is no different in quality than the laws made by sinful beings, imposed rules requiring external policing and enforcement. This view of God's law puts God in the position of being the source of inflicted, pain, suffering and death, and thus theologies focus on protecting us from God rather than healing us from sin—deviations from God's design.

Those who see through the level four and below lenses struggle with the question of the Great Controversy, because God is strong and sovereign so how can anyone call Him to question. This is imperialism and human thinking. But design law understands how love actually operates, elevates our understanding to see that God can only win the hearts of His children by truth presented in love and leaving us free!

SUNDAY

Read second paragraph, "Job certainly seems..." What is happening in the opening of this book?

- Is God making a judgment about Job?
 - This is a microcosm of the final judgment.
- What determined God's judgment of Job?
- Was a being interceding with God to beg God to give a good ruling?
- Was evidence presented?

- Was there an accuser?
- Who defended Job to the accuser?
- What caused God to give the verdict about Job that He gave?
 - It was the actual condition of Job's character, heart, mind! Thus, this was a diagnosis, a right revealing of the actual condition of the man himself.
- This is what the final judgment is! The final judgment is nothing more than the final diagnosis of the condition of each person's character/ heart/mind/soul. Have we been won to trust Jesus, such that we open the heart and let in the Spirit which heals and transforms us back into God's image OR have we closed out the Spirit and hardened ourselves in selfishness? This is the question and Job reveals this process.

When God said Job was perfect, what was meant?

- Did it mean Job was sinless?
- Did it mean Job understood all things accurately?
- Did it mean Job had no fear?
- What does it mean Job was perfect?
 - I believe it means, even though Job didn't understand everything, even though he still had growing to do, Job had been converted from distrust to trust—he completely trusted God and had love for others, even though he still had some misunderstandings about God.
 - Do you know a person you trust, but sometimes misunderstand things about them? Are you able to still trust that person?
 - So, just like Abraham, who trusted God, yet still had misunderstandings and maturing to do, Job trusted God and would not be shaken from his trust.
 - When we genuinely trust God we are recognized as being right with God, or being set right, or righteous, which is also called justified. Being justified is not a legal action, it is an actual change in the state of being, from distrust to genuine trust in God. This is what God said about Job.

Of course, after God pronounces the judgment of Job, what does Satan do? He accuses, he makes allegations, which are not primarily about Job, but are about God, that God is lying, that Job really isn't righteous, but acts that way because God is bribing Job to act that way.

This scenario is evidence of the type of war being waged for the minds of heavenly beings. What can we learn from this scenario?

- Angels can't read the secrets of hearts and minds, if they could then Satan could not lie to any of them and Job's condition would be obvious for all the heavenly beings to see and comprehend
- That God's judgments are merely the accurate diagnoses of what is the real condition of each heart
- That Satan doesn't care about reality, but will lie and distort to try and undermine God and trust in God, no matter who is hurt in the process

Read fourth paragraph, “Amid the festivities...” thoughts? How do you read it? Is this a description of what God required and what God is like, or is this a description of Job, what he thought of his children and what he thought about God and what he thought God required?

This is important, when Job later said, “The Lord gives and the Lord takes away,” was Job understanding accurately who was taking away from him? No! Job did not understand accurately all that was happening. Then what did God mean when He said earlier that Job was blameless?

God meant, what EGW meant, that Job’s heart was motivated by love for others, and that Job would sacrifice for the benefit of others, not that God required Job to sacrifice for others. Thus, Job, sacrificed his wealth for concern for His children, this is the right heart, a heart that loves others more than self.

God did not say that Job had all knowledge, understood all mysteries, had all answers, only that he was righteous and blameless, i.e. had a heart no longer controlled by selfishness and that he loved others more than self. This proved to be true.

HUGE distinction to realize, and one many in the penal legal camp miss, because they are often more concerned with right definitions and right rules, than having a heart right with God!

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read Job 1:6-12, this is from the GNT:

When the day came for the heavenly beings to appear before the Lord, Satan was there among them. ⁷The Lord asked him, “What have you been doing?”

Satan answered, “I have been walking here and there, roaming round the earth.”

⁸ “Did you notice my servant Job?” the Lord asked. “There is no one on earth as faithful and good as he is. He worships me and is careful not to do anything evil.”

⁹ Satan replied, “Would Job worship you if he got nothing out of it? You have always protected him and his family and everything he owns. You bless everything he does, and you have given him enough cattle to fill the whole country. But now suppose you take away everything he has—he will curse you to your face!”

¹² “All right,” the Lord said to Satan, “everything he has is in your power, but you must not hurt Job himself.” So Satan left.

This version uses the phrase “heavenly beings,” NIV states “angels,” KJV states “sons of God.” Do you know what the Hebrew is? It is ben Elohim.

Do you remember the movie Ben Hur? Ben means son of so the movie is Son of Hur? So ben Elohim means more literally sons of God. Why do you think the translators have changed this to angels or heavenly beings? Do some translators have difficulty with the possibility that there are worlds out in the universe that have intelligent beings, not angels, but some other intelligent life, that are still loyal to God?

What might we lose with that translation? What could be implied by the sons of God translation?

In the genealogy of Christ it says son of, son of, son of, going all the way back to “son of Seth, son of Adam, son of God.” In the genealogy of Christ, who is the only one listed as a son of God? Adam...what could be implied by the reference in Job the sons of God came before him and Satan came from the earth?

That God has many worlds where He has created life, and the first intelligent being created by God on each of those worlds are the representative heads of those worlds in God’s great heavenly counsel. From earth Adam was supposed to be the one in that heavenly counsel, but Adam forfeited his place and Satan comes claiming Adam’s place, but God says, not so fast. You don’t represent earth. Consider Job, he doesn’t recognize you. And of course, Jesus later comes to earth as the second Adam and becomes the true Head of the race and occupies the place Adam was to have occupied in God’s great counsel, and more than that, Jesus sits on the throne ruling the entire universe.

What does Satan say to the judgment by God of Job’s character? Satan says God is lying. What does God do in response? God allows evidence to demonstrate what is true.

Why does God simply not declare Satan a liar? Why does God give Satan access to Job?

What is revealed by this? Did God restrict the kinds of behaviors Satan could do to Job? Did God limit Satan to do only harm to Job? Was Satan free to bring more praise, wealth, power upon Job? Why didn’t he? What kind of character does Satan reveal in this?

What do we learn about how God wins? God wins by evidence, not by declaration and claims!

Read last part of third paragraph and fourth paragraph, “It’s hard to imagine someone...” Then jump to THURSDAY’s lesson:

The lesson points out that we find answers at the cross and that the cross is central to defeating Satan, evil, and sin. How? Why is the cross necessary? What was the purpose of the cross? What did Christ achieve for us and the rest of the universe at the cross? How would you describe what Jesus accomplished for us at the cross?

1. Revealed the truth about the nature of the Father and Himself (Jn 12:32, 17:1-5, Col 1:20)
2. Exposed Satan as a liar and fraud (Heb 2:14)
3. Revealed what humanity is designed by God to be (1Cor 15:47)
4. Christ’s victory in humanity proved that there was no “manufacturer’s defect” in Adam, i.e. Adam’s fall was not because God created Adam defectively

5. Revealed what happens to a being when severed from God (Rom 1:18, 24,26,28, 4:25)
6. Revealed what obedience to the “rules” results in when the heart is not renewed in love (Jews wanted Christ down by sunset to keep the Sabbath rules)
7. Revealed that power does not corrupt God and thus God is safe with all power
8. Revealed that God and Christ are truly selfless (Jn 3:16, 1Jn 3:16)
9. Revealed that God does not execute and kill the sinner, but sin severs from God (the source of life) and results in death. (Mt 27:46)
10. By the exercise of his human brain Christ overcame the temptation to “save self” and restored God’s “law of love” into the human species. In Christ, humanity became what God originally designed it, in Adam, to be. (Mt 26:39, 2Tim 1:9,10, Heb 5:8,9)
11. Christ developed a perfect human nature/character and offers this perfection to all who will accept it. “once he was made perfect he became the source of salvation for all who obey him. (Heb 5:8,9) Christ thus becomes the remedy for us. As we see the truth, we surrender in trust and the Holy Spirit takes what Christ achieved and reproduces it in us. (Jn 16:14) Thus we become partakers of the divine nature and it is no longer “I” but Christ lives in us. (2Pet 1:4, Gal 2:20) He actually writes his law of love, his character of love, upon our hearts and minds. (Heb 8:10, 10:16) This is how we are reconciled to God. All through the achievements of Christ!
12. Heb 2:14 By revealing the truth He destroyed the lies of Satan, thus destroying Satan’s power and overthrowing Satan in the minds of all who love truth
13. 2Tim 1:10, By destroying the infection of selfishness and restoring love into humanity He destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light
14. 1John 3:8 by voluntarily surrendering to death and giving His life in love He destroyed Satan’s work (which was trying to implant Satan’s image where God’s should be and effacing the image of God in man), and restored God’s image in humanity
15. Col 1:20 through all of this He reconciles to Himself all things at the cross

The last paragraphs quotes Romans 3 and states “Because of His death on our behalf, Christ could be ‘just and the justifier of the one who has faith in Jesus.’ That is, at the cross He refuted the devil’s charges that God could not uphold His law (be just) and still, at the same time, save those who have broken the law (justifier).” thoughts?

TUESDAY

The lesson asks us to read a series of texts to demonstrate a conflict between God and Satan:

- Gen 3:1-4 Satan tempting Eve
- Zech 3:1-3: “In another vision the Lord showed me the High Priest Joshua standing before the angel of the Lord. And there beside Joshua stood Satan, ready to bring an accusation against him. The angel of the Lord said to Satan, “May the Lord condemn you, Satan! May the Lord, who loves Jerusalem, condemn you. This man is like a stick snatched from the fire.”
- Matthew 4: the temptations of Christ
- 1Pet 5:8: “Be alert, be on the watch! Your enemy, the Devil, roams round like a roaring lion, looking for someone to devour.”

- 1John 3:8: “He who does what is sinful is of the devil, because the devil has been sinning from the beginning. The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil’s work.”
- Rev 12:9: War in heaven

From these texts what type of war is being waged? What type of weapons does Satan use? What is Satan’s number one weapon and where is the battle fought?

Satan is the father of lies, and his primary weapon is lies, and the battle is fought in the mind to get us to distrust God and believe any lies. This is how Satan gets power over us, this is how he distorts the character, and this is how he works to destroy the image of God in man and put his image in the mind of man—by getting us to believe his methods and ways.

What does this mean in how we fight the devil?

WEDNESDAY

Read last two paragraphs “Ellen G. White...” The lesson says, when one understands “how closely tied God’s law is to the foundation of His government” that we can make sense of the mystery of lawlessness.

How would you explain that close tie? Why is it tied so closely? What would it mean to change the law of God?

It would mean the destruction of the universe and life as we know it, why? Because God’s law is the protocol upon which the universe is built.

This understanding completely rules out major ideas and theologies taught in Christianity, and even in the SDA church, primarily the idea of a penal legal religion and atonement models.

Lesson 3 Q4 2016

Does Job Fear God for Naught?

SABBATH

“But he said to her, ‘You speak as one of the foolish women speaks. Shall we indeed accept good from God, and shall we not accept adversity?’ In all this Job did not sin with his lips” (Job 2:10, NKJV).

From the Teacher’s Lesson:

“Key Concept for Spiritual Growth: The dialogue between Satan and God in the heavenly court showcases the big issue at stake in the great controversy, namely, the character of God. Is God a tyrant who manipulates human beings, either by fear or bribery, into submission and obedience—as Satan wants to make Him out to be—or is He a loving Father who sends His own Son to die on the cross in order to pay the price for our sins? Your image of God will determine your stand in this cosmic battle and your reaction toward pain and suffering.” (emphasis added).

Yes, indeed our image of God will determine our stand in the cosmic battle for hearts & minds.

SUNDAY

God’s Servant, Job.

From the lesson:

“ ‘Have You not made a hedge around him, around his household, and around all that he has on every side? You have blessed the work of his hands, and his possessions have increased in the land’ ” (Job 1:10, NKJV). The book of Job opens by referencing not only Job’s righteousness and good character but also his material blessings and fruitful household. These were the specific things that helped make Job revered as “the greatest of all the men of the east” (Job 1:3, NASB). And these, too, are the specific things that Satan hurls in God’s face, saying basically, “Only because You have done this for him does he serve You.”

What, then, is implied in Satan’s charge that if God were to take these things away from Job, Job would “ ‘surely curse You to Your face’ ” (Job 1:11, NKJV)?

The attack, really, is an attack against God Himself. (This is what the whole great controversy is about anyway.) If God were so wonderful, so good, then Job would obey and fear and worship Him out of love and appreciation alone. After all, who wouldn’t love a God who had done so much for him?

In a sense, Satan was saying that God had all but bribed Job into being faithful to Him. Thus, he claimed, Job served God not out of love for God but out of his own selfish motives.

This is a great summation of Satan's allegations.

Unselfishness, the principle of God's kingdom, is the principle that Satan hates; its very existence he denies. From the beginning of the great controversy he has endeavored to prove God's principles of action to be selfish, and he deals in the same way with all who serve God. To disprove Satan's claim is the work of Christ and of all who bear His name. Ed 154.3.

MONDAY

Skin for Skin

Round II. Back to the Heavenly meeting of the "Sons of God." Satan has, thus far been proved wrong about Job. He now states that if Job's own person were threatened/injured, he would curse his Creator.

3 Then the Lord said to Satan, "Have you considered My servant Job, that there is none like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man, one who fears God and shuns evil? And still he holds fast to his integrity, although you incited Me against him, to destroy him without cause."

4 So Satan answered the Lord and said, "Skin for skin! Yes, all that a man has he will give for his life. 5 But stretch out Your hand now, and touch his bone and his flesh, and he will surely curse You to Your face!"

6 And the Lord said to Satan, "Behold, he is in your hand, but spare his life."

7 So Satan went out from the presence of the Lord, and struck Job with painful boils from the sole of his foot to the crown of his head. Job 2: 3-7.

Note that in verse 4, Satan states "... all that a man has he will give for his life." And verse 5, "But stretch out Your hand, now..." In the midst of all of the Sons of God, Satan tries to make it appear that God is the source of destruction/pain.

Who's hand was stretched out? Verses 6, 7.

TUESDAY

Blessed be the Name of The Lord

20 Then Job arose, tore his robe, and shaved his head; and he fell to the ground and worshiped.

21 And he said: "Naked I came from my mother's womb, And naked shall I return there. The Lord gave, and the Lord has taken away; Blessed be the name of the Lord." Job 1: 20, 21.

The lesson asks us to consider Job's response to the initial onset of calamities.

Also from the lesson:

"Central to God's government, a government based on love, is freedom of choice. God wants us to serve Him because we love Him, not because we are forced to serve Him. “Satan insinuated that Job served God from selfish motives. . . . He attempted to deny that true religion springs from love and an intelligent appreciation of God’s character, that true worshipers love religion for its own sake—not for reward; that they serve God because such service is right in itself, and not merely because heaven is full of glory; and that they love God because He is worthy of their affection and confidence, and not merely because He blesses them.”—The SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 3, p. 500.” Emphasis added.

I believe that the Law of Liberty is the most misunderstood and misapplied of all of God’s Natural Laws.

We are, also, encouraged to compare/contrast Job’s dealings with temptation with that of Adam & Eve and the relationship to “free will.”

What about Lucifer’s fall?

WEDNESDAY

Job’s Wife

What, if any, significance is given to the phrase “hold fast to your integrity”? Do God and Job’s wife use the phrase with the same intent?

Our memory text is Job’s response to his wife’s question “Do you still hold fast to your integrity? Curse God and die.” Job 2: 9 NKJV

This is one of the very few recorded instances in Scripture, where a man said “NO” to his wife/Mother/daughter. Consider what would have happened if Abraham, Lot, Jacob, Samson, Herod, and Adam had followed in Job’s footsteps ...

“No, Sara. I will NOT take your handmaid, Hagar as a wife.” No Islam as we know it.

“No, girls. I don’t want any wine.” No Moabites. No Ammonites.

“No, mother. I will not participate in your deception of my father, Isaac.” No dueling sister wives for Jacob. No estrangement from Esau. Rebecca would have seen her son again.

“No, Delilah. I will not tell you the secret of my strength. Stop asking.” Who knows?

“No, Herodius. I will NOT give you the head of John the Baptist on a plate.” Who knows?

“No, Eve. I will NOT take that fruit. I’m sorry you did. Good Luck.” No sinful world as we know it.

Learn to say “NO”. And let your NO mean NO. Anything else is from the devil, according to our Savior.

From the memory text, we can conclude that Job wasn’t used to hearing foolish advice from his wife, and I credit him for recognizing foolish advice even in the position of pain/impaired health.

THURSDAY

Obedience Unto Death.

What does the phrase “obedience unto death” mean?

Is this moving any gears in your brains? Revelation 12: 11, or all of the Gospel’s accounts of the Crucifixion, perhaps? Any others?

How was Job “obedient unto death”?

Did he have such a deep relationship with God that he trusted God to do what is right, even if it meant Job needed to die?

The teacher’s lesson describes a vague parallel between Job’s experience and that of Christ. What similarities/differences can we note?

Also ponder Satan’s access to Heaven during the time of the Old Testament. Did anything limit his access after Christ’s death/resurrection? What was it?

The Book of Job Lesson 4 4Q 2016

God and Human Suffering

SABBATH

Thoughts about the title? Have you ever had questions about this? Have you ever had to answer someone else's questions about this?

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Despite the hype..." Let's examine some cases:

- A drunk driver runs across the line hits an 18 y/o and the teen dies, the drunk is not harmed. Why?
 - Did God kill the teen?
 - What does it mean that God didn't use divine power to save the teen?
- Two people have cancer, one survives the other doesn't, what does it mean?
 - Did God love one more than the other?
 - Did one have more faith than the other?

Have you ever had the critic, the skeptic of God, bring this up as evidence that there is no God?

Perhaps the classic argument was presented by Epicurus (341-270 BCE):

- Is God willing to prevent evil but unable to do so? In that case God is not omnipotent.
- Is God able to prevent evil but unwilling to do so? If so, God must be malevolent
- Is God both willing and able to prevent evil? Then why is there evil in the world?

Epicurus goes on to say:

God is either willing to remove evil and cannot, or he can and is unwilling; or he is neither willing nor able to do so; or else he is both willing and able. If he is willing and not able, he must be weak, which cannot be affirmed of God. If he is able and not willing, he must be envious, which is also contrary to the nature of God. If he is neither willing nor able, he must be both envious and weak, and consequently not be God. If he is both willing and able—the only possibility that agrees with the nature of God—then where does evil come from? Or why does he not eliminate it?

How do you answer these questions? How would Martin Luther answer such a question?

This is the highest degree of faith, to believe him [God] merciful when he saves so few and damns so many, and to believe him righteous when by his own will he makes us necessarily damnable, so that he seems, according to Erasmus, to delight in the torments of the wretched and to be worthy of hatred rather than love. If, then, I could by any means comprehend how this God can be merciful and just who displays so much wrath and iniquity, there would be no need of faith. (Luther, Bondage of the Will p. 62)

Do you hear Luther's position? God is not understandable, in fact we shouldn't even try. Faith is believing God is good when all the evidence says He is not good. Sadly, this distorted view of God and this distorted view of faith continues to infect Christianity to this day and many people live with their minds darkened with such beliefs.

What are the elements that Epicurus and Luther are missing?

First and foremost—they don't have a clue about God's law—God's design parameters upon which reality is constructed to operate.

They are viewing the entire question through the lens of human law, imposed law, imperialism. Thus, for both of them it is merely a question of power—for Epicurus if God is good then He uses power to impose His will to eradicate evil. And for Luther, God is assumed to be good and to be powerful and we are to accept that on faith and not ask questions—God is sovereign who are we to question it.

So, how do you answer the critics, what key truths are foundational to understanding the question of suffering and evil in the world?

First we must understand God's design, His laws, His original intent for life and humanity; then we must understand the nature and character of sin, what it actually is, and finally the solution for it.

All of those who struggle with this do so because on some level they don't see and understand what is actually happening, and are most often trying to understand through the false imposed law lens.

What are God's design laws? (Here are a few)

- Law of love—principle of giving (Air, water, food etc.)
- Law of liberty—love can only exist in atmosphere of freedom
- Law of worship—by beholding we become changed
- Law of exertion—strength requires exertion

With these in mind what was God's original design for humankind?

- Was it not an existence of love and perfection?
- Can computers love? No, what is required to love?
- Free sentient beings
- Can love grow and exist without freedom?
- Did God create humankind in His image? Would that include the ability to love? Would that mean genuine freedom? Would genuine freedom mean freedom to disobey—to deviate from God's design?

- Now—the big question—what law lens to you look at disobedience through?
- What happened when humankind deviated from God’s design? Did humankind get into legal trouble with an imperial dictator, or did humankind alter their state and now suffer with a condition of being that is terminal and without divine intervention would suffer and die?

Do we believe God is love?

- Does love inflict harm (not discipline but actually seek to injure and harm)?
- Is love the source of harm, the source of pain, suffering, death?
- No, but when we take this position, people immediately point to suffering in the world around them and then to Old Testament stories such as the first born of Egypt, Korah et al, the platoons that came to arrest Elijah and link the two and conclude God is the source of evil and pain and suffering.
- This linkage causes some to reject God and others to operate like Luther and become thoughtless, mindless, believers. Both are operating on flawed premises.

So, how would you answer the critics or the unthinking believers?

We need to add another piece—What do we understand death to be?

When Jesus said at the funeral of the little girl, “she is not dead” was Jesus lying? Was Jesus trying to deceive? What was Jesus doing by saying this?

When Jesus told His disciples “Lazarus is asleep I need to go wake him.” What was Jesus trying to communicate? Why did the disciples say if he is sleeping it is good he will recover?

When Jesus said that those who believe in Him will never die, what did He mean? What happened to James, John and Peter?

Does the term “death” have more than one meaning? Do we mean one thing by that term and God mean something else?

How do we understand it?

- Body—soma—hardware
- Soul—psyche—software
- Spirit—pneuma—energy source

We are tripartite, just like a computer. To be operational must have all three components—if a computer runs out of power what state does it go into? But is your computer dead? No! It sleeps, just like the Bible describes those who “die,” they sleep, but they are not dead. We often say, about our computer, “my battery died” but we know it is not dead, it can be recharged, and the computer itself is not dead, it is merely asleep waiting for more energy. And if you have your computer backed up on the cloud and someone destroys your machine, what do you do?

Jesus said in MT 10:28, don't be afraid of the one who can destroy the body (soma, hardware) but can't destroy the soul (psyche, software).

Note Paul's Description to the Thessalonians:

Brothers, we do not want you to be ignorant about those who fall asleep, or to grieve like the rest of men, who have no hope. We believe that Jesus died and rose again and so we believe that God will bring with Jesus those who have fallen asleep in him. The Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever. 1Thessalonians 4:13-18

Do you see in one verse we have the dead in Christ coming down from heaven and also arising out of the grave? How? Because when we die:

- the body/hardware (soma) disintegrates to dust
- the spirit/energy (pneuma) returns to God
- the soul/software (psyche) is safe and secure with Christ in heaven stored on the heavenly servers—the Lamb's book of life

Here is an updated version:

Brothers, we do not want you to be ignorant about those whose hardware have shut down, or to grieve like the rest of men, who have no hope. We believe that Jesus had a hardware shut down and then rebooted and rose again and so we believe that God will bring with Jesus the software/individualities of those who trusted in him when their hardware shut down. The Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and those whose hardware have disintegrated will arise with upgraded perfect bodies. After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever. 1Thessalonians 4:13-18

What we call death then, is not the death from sin, but an artificial state of suspended animation occurring because God is battling sin in this world.

So, with all of this in mind, how do we understand why bad things happen, why suffering occurs?

All suffering has its roots in the fact that this planet is out of harmony with God's design and His life giving presence. The specific reasons why suffering and death occur are as follows:

- Entropy, the slow gradual decay of order that occurs because we are disconnected from God's constant full presence and care. "in the day you eat of the Tree of Knowledge, dying you will die." (Gen 2:17) Aging and the sleep death occur because of slow decay
- Genetic defects and disease because of entropy and the slow decay of our original design
- Toxins and poisons because of mutations and alterations to God's design—the changes in nature and the manufacture of chemicals and products not original to God's creation
- Evil/selfish actions originating in people who are selfish—Cain killing Abel
- Evil/selfish actions inspired by Satan upon people to hurt others—Judas betraying Christ
- Satan and his agencies affecting nature and causing problems—first chapter of Job
- Good people acting to defend and protect—Abraham rescuing Lot
- Good people acting selfishly and doing bad things—David murdering Uriah—which occurs because of sin in the heart not yet removed
- People, whether good or evil, making mistakes with no intent to help or harm, slipping and falling, auto accident because of ice etc.
- Humans acting on God's orders—kill all the people, women, children, cattle, etc. Why would God give such orders?
 - Remember it was God's original plan to have the hornet and pestilence go before Israel and as the inhabitants abandoned the land the Israelites would have slowly occupied it with no killing. But the people chose to do it their way and so God gave the instructions, if you are going to kill then in order to minimize suffering, death, and traumatize the least number of people and bring peace in a world, wipe them all out and get it over with. Instead, we have had 4000 years of continual fighting, violence and war scaring every generation living in that part of the world.
- God acting to protect, lance, cauterize, keep open the avenue for Messiah—putting people in the grave/asleep, but they will arise again: Flood, first born of Egypt, Platoons that came to arrest Elijah Etc.

SUNDAY

The lessons cites Romans 1:18-20:

The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness,¹⁹ since what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them.²⁰ For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse.

Then read first paragraph, "What a powerful..." Do you notice the imposed law slant put on this? Sad, very sad...

Paul is not saying that they can be justly condemned in a cosmic judicial proceeding, but that they have no excuse for their terminal condition—that God's divine nature of love and how He built reality

Then why do so many thinking people continue to choose accident and chance? Because accident and chance are BETTER and more appealing than a god who uses imposed law and runs his universe like a dictator runs Rome!

Teaching God is the source of inflicted pain and suffering, a judicial magistrate that says love me or I will torture and kill you, is actually a violation of God's design law, and on some level many people realize this and reject this distorted view of God and thus prefer accident and chance to a life of cosmic slavery.

It is the false law of imperial Rome that infected Christianity and led to horrible abuses to our fellow human beings in the name of Christ and the gross misrepresentation of God in our theologies creating non-sense that has caused thinking people to prefer accident and chance!

We have a message, prophesied in Scripture, to take to the world about the Creator God, whose laws are the very protocols upon which reality is built and which will free people from such distortions!

Sadly, those who oppose our message, do so because they prefer a god who is the source of inflicted pain and suffering. This week one of our friends emailed me a conversation with a conference president who doesn't want our materials distributed in the churches in his conference. He said it is because he believes I teach Moral Influence Theory and to dispute that he referenced an article by the Biblical Research Institute which included the following:

One of the fundamental problems of the moral influence view is that it rejects the substitutionary nature of Christ's death. The idea that God had to kill the innocent instead of the guilty in order to save us is considered a violation of justice. (emphasis mine)

This is level four thinking, all based on accepting the lie that God's law functions no different than those sinful human beings make and therefore justice requires the ruling authority to inflict the death penalty. Thus, incredible as it seems, our own church teaches God killed Jesus—could anything be more offensive than this?

God is not the source of death! God is the source of life. Satan and sin, deviations from God's design cause death. Jesus said, Satan was a murderer from the beginning—but now many Christians teach that God is the originator of death—it is a lie! God, was in Christ healing the world from sin and restoring us back to unity with Himself!

The last paragraph states, "Though, especially in its fallen state, nature doesn't reveal the full character of God, it certainly reveals His creative power, and aspects of His goodness, as well."

Is power the question? Is power what Paul was referring to? No, Paul is referring to design, how God built reality to function and the results of rejecting that design for another design.

From Hard Sayings of the Bible:

The human condition, which Paul describes in Romans 1:18-32, is not something caused by God. The phrase “revealed from heaven” (where “heaven” is a typical Jewish substitute word for “God”) does not depict some kind of divine intervention, but rather the inevitability of human debasement which results when God’s will, built into the created order, is violated. Since the created order has its origin in God, Paul can say that the wrath of God is now (constantly) being revealed “from heaven.” It is revealed in the fact that the rejection of God’s truth (Rom 1:18-20), that is, the truth about God’s nature and will, leads to futile thinking (Rom 1:21-22), idolatry (Rom 1:23), perversion of God-intended sexuality (Rom 1:24-27) and relational-moral brokenness (Rom 1:28-32). P 543

The expression “God gave them over” (or “handed them over”), which appears three times in this passage (Rom 1:24,26,28), supports the idea that the sinful perversion of human existence, though resulting from human decisions, is to be understood ultimately as God’s punishment which we, in freedom, bring upon ourselves. P 543

In light of these reflections, the common notion that God punishes or blesses in direct proportion to our sinful or good deeds cannot be maintained... God loves us with an everlasting love. But the rejection of that love separates us from its life-giving power. The result is disintegration and death. P 543

Kaiser, W., et al., Hard Saying of the Bible, Intervarsity Press, 1996,

This is where we started the lesson, human suffering occurs because we are deviant from God’s design, God is not the author of suffering or death!

MONDAY

The title for the day: Nothing Came From Itself. What do you think of the title?

The idea that everything that exists came from nothing is the core to the big bang theory—which in itself doesn’t make sense.

From Nancy Pearcey’s book, page 62:

Secular people often accuse Christians of having “faith,” while claiming that they themselves base their convictions purely on facts and reason. Not so. If you press any set of ideas back far enough, eventually you reach an ultimate starting point—something that is taken as the self-existent reality on which everything depends. This starting assumption cannot be based on prior reasoning, because if it were, you could ask where that reasoning starts—and so on, in an infinite regress. At some point, every system of thought has to say, This is my starting point. There is no reason for it to exist. It just “is.”

If starting premises do not rest on reasons, how can they be tested? Although you cannot argue backward to their prior reason, you can argue forward by spelling out their implications, then testing those implications using both logic and experience...

We can do this with godless theories and consistently demonstrate that those theories are not as reasonable, not as evidence based, as believing in a God of love. For instance:

While we cannot test the moment of creation nor can we test the big bang in a lab, the premises each view rests upon are testable:

BIG BANG	CREATION
Something came from something	Something came from nothing
Complexity came from chaos without intelligent input	Complexity came from chaos with intelligent input
Life came from living matter	Life came from non-living matter

Notice, in the world in which we live, the premises that support creation are all supported by science, experiment and experience, while science, experiment and experience disprove the Big Bang theory.

WEDNESDAY

Read Job 6:4-9:

The arrows of the Almighty are in me,
my spirit drinks in their poison;
God's terrors are marshaled against me.
⁵ Does a wild donkey bray when it has grass, or an ox bellow when it has fodder?
⁶ Is tasteless food eaten without salt, or is there flavor in the white of an egg?
⁷ I refuse to touch it;
such food makes me ill.
⁸ “Oh, that I might have my request, that God would grant what I hope for,
⁹ that God would be willing to crush me, to let loose his hand and cut me off!

What do you hear? What is Job saying? What is the core problem?

Job doesn't truly understand God, nor the Great Controversy, nor the problem with sin, nor the true cause of pain and suffering.

- Is God the one inflicting pain on Job? No
- Does God terrorize Job? No
- Does God cause Job's experiences to be bland, tasteless, without pleasure? No
- What is Job's state of mind? Job is depressed, grief stricken, and lost joy in life. He wants someone to be responsible and he lays this at God's feet. He has become despondent and hopeless and longs to die to relieve himself from his pain.

Would realizing God did not do this to him mean the pain of losing his children, estate, employees, etc. would be less? No—but what might it do? It might open Job's heart and mind to a source of comfort and hope which his current mindset prevents.

Remember the song It Is Well With My Soul?

This hymn was written after traumatic events in Horatio Spafford's life. The first was the death of his son at the age of 2 and the Great Chicago Fire of 1871, which ruined him financially (he had been a successful lawyer and had invested significantly in property in the area of Chicago that was extensively damaged by the great fire). His business interests were further hit by the economic downturn of 1873, at which time he had planned to travel to Europe with his family on the SS Ville du Havre. In a late change of plan, he sent the family ahead while he was delayed on business concerning zoning problems following the Great Chicago Fire. While crossing the Atlantic, the ship sank rapidly after a collision with a sea vessel, the Loch Earn, and all four of Spafford's daughters died. His wife Anna survived and sent him the now famous telegram, "Saved alone ...". Shortly afterwards, as Spafford traveled to meet his grieving wife, he was inspired to write these words as his ship passed near where his daughters had died.^[3] Bliss called his tune Ville du Havre, from the name of the stricken vessel.^[4]

The Spaffords later had three more children. On February 11, 1880, their son, Horatio Goertner Spafford, died at the age of four, of scarlet fever. Their daughters were Bertha Hedges Spafford (born March 24, 1878) and Grace Spafford (born January 18, 1881). Their Presbyterian church regarded their tragedy as divine punishment. In response, the Spaffords formed their own Messianic sect, dubbed "the Overcomers" by American press. In 1881, the Spaffords, including baby Bertha and newborn Grace, set sail for Ottoman-Turkish Palestine. The Spaffords settled in Jerusalem and helped found a group called the American Colony. Colony members, later joined by Swedish Christians, engaged in philanthropic work among the people of Jerusalem regardless of their religious affiliation and without proselytizing motives—thereby gaining the trust of the local Muslim, Jewish, and Christian communities. During and immediately after World War I, the American Colony played a critical role in supporting these communities through the great suffering and deprivations by running soup kitchens, hospitals, orphanages and other charitable ventures. The colony later became the subject of Jerusalem by the Nobel prize-winning author, Swedish novelist Selma Lagerlöf.^[3]

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “Quoting Psalms 51:4...” Is this what Paul was referring to—understanding the goodness of God in the face of evil? Was there evil occurring throughout the universe when Lucifer rebelled? When Lucifer raised questions about God was there evil happening in the lives of the angels in heaven?

Paul is speaking of something more than this, but it includes this. Paul is speaking of God being judged to be true over the lies Satan has told about Him, all the lies, even before any beings were suffering.

The Book of Job Lesson 5 4Q 2016

Curse the Day

A Preface: Depression

- a. Dr. Wendell Moses is an orthopaedic surgeon, not a member of the mental health community – He is a poor spokesman for mental health treatment indications, recommendations or results
- b. Mental health should be treated like any other illness
 - Like any other organ system, there are structural, chemical and functional impairments that occur
- c. Historically many Christians avoid mental health care
 - Especially true of my heritage in the Seventh-day Adventist church
- d. There are organizations that can refer you to a Christian mental health professional should you need care

Texts for the Week:

- Job 3:1 - 10 Curse the day I was born, it isn't for rejoicing
- John 11:11 - 14 Lazarus is asleep (dead)
- Job 6:1 - 3 My life is miserable, I wish I could die (I need compassion)
- Job 7:1 - 11 My life drags slowly on without benefit, it is misery
- James 4:14 Your life is like a puff of smoke, here & then disappears
- Job 7:17 - 21 Why does God pay attention to me
- Psalms 8:4 - 6 What is man that God thinks of him? Pays him a lot of attention.

SABBATH

Memory Text: Revelation 4:11

"Our Lord and God! You are worthy to receive glory, honor, and power. For you created all things, and by your will they were given existence and life." GNT

- Glory
 - 1. high renown or honor won by notable achievements.
 - "to fight and die for the glory of one's nation"
 - synonyms: renown, fame, prestige, honor, distinction, kudos, eminence, acclaim, praise
 - magnificence; great beauty.
 - "the train has been restored to all its former glory"
 - synonyms: magnificence, splendor, resplendence, grandeur, majesty, greatness, nobility
- Honor
 - High respect

- Power
 - That is the scariest attribute in the wrong hands
- We have two advantages that Job did not have:
 - Knowing how it ends
 - Knowing the background, the cosmic conflict operating behind the scenes.

Did Adam know of the conflict? Did he share it with anyone?

Bottom of the page:

“who among us, born of human flesh in a fallen world, doesn’t know something of the perplexity that tragedy and suffering brings, especially when we seek to serve the Lord faithfully and do what is right in His sight?”

Is it better in this life to be a Christian or not?

What are the advantages? What are the disadvantages?

Cosmically we know how it ends; the real question is personal... Will it end well for me?

- Jacob’s time of trouble?
- “Be careful lest ye fall”
- Luke 11:34 “Therefore be careful lest the light in you be darkness.”
- 2 Peter 3:17 “Ye therefore, beloved, seeing ye know these things before, beware lest ye also, being led away with the error of the wicked, fall from your own steadfastness.”
- Philippians 4:6 KJV “Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God.”
- Philippians 4:7 KJV “And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.”
- GNT : Philippians 4:6, 7 “Don’t worry about anything, but in all your prayers ask God for what you need, always asking him with a thankful heart. And God’s peace, which is far beyond human understanding, will keep your hearts and minds safe in union with Christ Jesus.”
- 2 Peter 3:17, 18 “But you, my friends, already know this. Be on your guard, then, so that you will not be led away by the errors of lawless people and fall from your safe position. But continue to grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. To him be the glory, now and forever! Amen.”

We have forgotten, don’t believe, or misread Romans 8: All three members of the Godhead are working on our behalf

- The word with
 - Opposition, against (fight with his brother)
 - Participant (works with his father)

Romans 8:23 (GNT) “But it is not just creation alone which groans; we who have the Spirit as the first of God's gifts also groan within ourselves as we wait for God to make us his children and set our whole being free.

Romans 8:31 - 35 “If God is for us, who can be against us? Certainly not God, who did not even keep back his own Son, but offered him for us all! He gave us his Son—will he not also freely give us all things? Who will accuse God's chosen people? God himself declares them not guilty! Who, then, will condemn them? Not Christ Jesus, who died, or rather, who was raised to life and is at the right side of God, pleading with him for us! Who, then, can separate us from the love of Christ? Can trouble do it, or hardship or persecution or hunger or poverty or danger or death?”

SUNDAY

Let the Day Perish

John Denver's song: I'm Sorry

It's cold here in the city
It always seems that way
And I've been thinking about you almost everyday
Thinking about the good times
Thinking about the rain
Thinking about how bad it feels alone again
I'm sorry for the way things are in China
I'm sorry things ain't what they used to be
But more than anything else
I'm sorry for myself
'Cause you're not here with me
Our friends all ask about you
I say you're doing fine
And I expect to hear from you almost anytime
But they all know I'm crying
And I can't sleep at night
They all know I'm dying down deep inside
I'm sorry for all the lies I told you
I'm sorry...

Job 3:1 -10

Third paragraph:

“The world has no meaning. As we have seen, though, this answer doesn't work for the believer in God. And for Job, a faithful follower of the lord, this answer didn't work either.

But what was the answer, what was the explanation? Job didn't have one. All he had was his extreme grief and all the questions that inevitably accompanied it."

Can anyone know unless the "curtain" is pulled away?

4th Paragraph (right after the Read the Text section)

- Life, of course, is a gift from God. We exist only because God has created us (Acts 17:28; Rev 4:11)."
- God created life and gave this as a give of creatorship to man.
 - You were created by –
 - Act of love
 - Selfish indulgence
 - Rape / incest
 - Your genetic makeup was determined by inheritance

Bottom pink section:

"Have you ever felt the way Job felt here, that is, wishing you had never been born? Eventually, though, what happened? Of course, you felt better. How important it is for us to remember that, even in our worst moments, we have the hope, the prospect, of things improving."

Often, not in this lifetime. Many of my patients and families will not have it any better until their bodies are made new in Heaven.

Many of the people living in devastatingly poor countries such as Haiti have little hope of things improving. Especially this is true after the recent hurricane.

I see little of "things improving" listed in Christ's sermon on the mount with His description of the beatitudes.

Christ said the life of the genetically blind was for the praise of God

- John 9:3 (GNT) "Jesus answered, "His blindness has nothing to do with his sins or his parents sins. He is blind so that God's power might be seen at work in him."
- 2 Corinthians 12:9 "But his answer was: "My grace is all you need, for my power is greatest when you are weak." I am most happy, then, to be proud of my weaknesses, in order to feel the protection of Christ's power over me."

MONDAY

Rest in the Grave

1st paragraph

“Job lost all his children. All of them. It’s hard enough to imagine the pain of losing one child. Job lost them all. And he had ten! No wonder he wished that he were dead. And again, Job had no idea of the background behind it all, not that it would have made him feel better had he know, would it.”

Did Job know any idea behind it all? Does knowing the background help us?

“Our Friends, we want you to know the truth about those who have died, so that you will not be sad, as are those who have no hope.” 1 Thessalonians 4:13

Does knowing the future always help us? In what way? Why do we have prophecy? To know what is going to happen?

No, to know that God is the kind of person HE truly is when things are fulfilled as HE has said.

- John 8:28
- Ezekiel 32:15
- Ezekiel 6:13
- Luke 21:28 (encouragement)
- Luke 21:31 (encouragement)
- John 13:19 (that Jesus is the Messiah)
- John 14:29 (that we may believe in Him)

Ecclesiastes 9:5, 6 and John 11:11 - 14 The state of the dead

We usually don’t quote the clinically depressed with the maxims of life. Job’s descriptions of his demise is a poor basis for deep spiritual insights. The tired old king Solomon (author of Ecclesiastes) was discouraged after a life that was largely wasted with poor choices. He, also, is an unlikely leader of thought for all things spiritual.

It is not just one proof text which is the basis for my understanding on what happens with human “death”

- The beginning of creation of man
- The way the kings of Judah are described as sleeping in death
- The statements of Job and Solomon
- In the book of Isaiah, the dead do not praise God. Isaiah 26, 38, 41, 57
- The benediction by the angel to Daniel at the close of his book is for a reward for faithful service at the resurrection and a meeting of Daniel with God then, no before.

- The description throughout the book of Psalms talks about the difference between praising God while alive, and absence of praise in death.
- All but one of Christ's statements on death describe the reward at the resurrection, not upon death.
- Christ's promise of eternal life in John 3:16 tells us that without this gift, we will not live forever.
- Peter describes David as still present in his tomb with the people of his day in Acts 2:29 & 34
- When Stephen was stoned he "fell asleep"
- Paul's reference to the church members dying as falling asleep.
- Paul's discussion regarding death and resurrection in 1 Corinthians 15 and 1 Thessalonians 4 do not make any sense if there is immediate transport to heaven at death.
- In Philippians 3 Paul is looking forward to the resurrection from the dead, not meeting Christ before then.
- In Colossians 3:4 it is when Christ appears that we will appear with Him in glory. It is after the resurrection.
- In 1 Timothy 6 Paul states that only God is immortal.
- 2 Timothy 1:9, 10 It is through the gospel that immortality is revealed. We do not have the ability to live forever without it.
- In Hebrews 11, it is the resurrection that was the reward for the martyrs, not the immediate presence of God. "None of them received their reward." It will be given to them at the same time as the rest of us. Heb 11:39, 40
- Jude 6, 14, 15 There is a judgment and reward at the end of earth's history.
- Revelation 20:12, 13 Everyone is judged after the resurrection

Negro Spiritual: Soon-a Will Be Done

"No more weeping and a wailing
I am going to live with God"

TUESDAY

Other People's Pain

Third paragraph:

"We don't suffer in groups. We don't suffer anyone's pain but our own. We know only our own pain, only our own suffering."

And then the last sentence of the next paragraph: "every fallen being who has ever lived can know only his or her own pain and no more."

Bottom Highlighted area:

“Dwell more on this idea that human suffering is limited to each individual. How does this help you (if it does) to look at the troubling issue of human suffering in a somewhat different light?”

The string theory of human interaction is a bit bizarre to me, but to be human is to share in other people’s grief and troubles.

- “Bear one another’s burdens”

In the teachers comments on page 65:

“How can I maintain empathy in the face of nonstop news images that document human suffering around the world?”

- Desensitization
 - One of the ways we survive emotionally in the medical field is to make varying degrees of separation between ourselves and our patients
- We have to guard against a complete loss of human connection and sympathy
 - 2 Corinthians 3:18 “All of us, then, reflect the glory of the Lord with uncovered faces; and that same glory, coming from the Lord, who is the Spirit, transforms us into his likeness in an ever greater degree of glory.”
 - This works in both good ways and bad
 - This is how we are made
 - It is a natural law that we become like to what we pay attention.

WEDNESDAY

The Weaver’s Shuttle

Job 7:1 - 11

“I give up; I am tired of living. Leave me alone. My life makes no sense.” Job 7:16:

“How short you have made my life! In your sight my lifetime seems nothing. Indeed every living being is no more than a puff of wind” Psalms 39:5 (GNT)

“You don’t even know what our life tomorrow will be! You are like a puff of smoke, which appears for a moment and then disappears.” James 4:14 (GNT)

The lesson emphasizes the brevity of life from these texts. Read paragraph 5 “A Seventh-day Adventist woman wrote an article about. . .”

“Sometimes, amid our pain, reason and rationality go by the wayside, and all we know is our hurt and fear, and we see no hope.”

Highlighted area:

“How should your understanding of the Fall, of death, and of the promise of the resurrection help you to put into perspective the whole question of how fast life goes by?”

I do not think this is about understanding. This is about experiential living. Since we do not have an awareness of the future, all we have to see relatively clearly is the past. It is difficult to drive if all we look at is the rear view mirror.

THURSDAY

“Mah Enosh?” (What is Man?)

Read the first paragraph. Job didn’t know what was happening. We don’t either

“Why are people so important to you? Why pay attention to what they do? You inspect them every morning and test them every minute.” Job 7:17 - 21 (GNT)

- Mah Enosh - What is man?
- Who are we?
- Why are we here?

- Job’s perspective:
- Why are bad things happening to him?
- What purpose to his life?

Full Definition of love (From Miriam-Webster Dictionary)

1. strong affection for another arising out of kinship or personal ties <maternal love for a child>
2. attraction based on sexual desire : affection and tenderness felt by lovers
3. affection based on admiration, benevolence, or common interests <love for his old schoolmates> an assurance of affection <give her my love> warm attachment, enthusiasm, or devotion <love of the sea> the object of attachment, devotion, or admiration <baseball was his first love> a beloved person : darling —often used as a term of endearment (2) British —used as an informal term of address unselfish loyal and benevolent concern for the good of another: as (1) : the fatherly concern of God for humankind (2) : brotherly concern for others

- a person's adoration of God
- a god or personification of love
- an amorous episode : love affair
- the sexual embrace : copulation
- a score of zero (as in tennis)
- capitalized Christian Science : god

John 3:16 & 1 John 3:1

Read last paragraph

Beholding God's love

- That is the best thing ever.
- That is endless
- That is the basis for God's government

Additional Notes:

Life and Death or the State of Man

The Biblical definition of death is different than what we typically understand death to be. Both in the old and new testament the concept of death is not portrayed as it is in our current culture and media.

John 8:51; 11:25, 26 - Christ's followers will never die

John 11:11 - 14 Lazarus was asleep

Mark 5:22 - 43 Dead child was 'asleep'

Obviously, Christ's understandings of what constituted death is not the physical "death" of the human body.

Genesis 2:7 - body+breath of life = living being

Genesis 3:1-10 (serpent/devil said you will not die) The lie by the serpent/devil in Gen 3:4 of "you will not die" has been believed by many. It is not the truth.

Deut 18:10 - 12 You are not to 'practice black magic, be a fortuneteller, witch, or sorcerer,' "cast spells, ask ghosts or spirits for help, or consult the dead."

Ecclesiastes 9:5, 6, 10 The living know what is going on in the world but not the dead

Isaiah 26:14

"They are now dead, they live no more;

those departed spirits do not rise.

You punished them and brought them to ruin;

you wiped out all memory of them." What happens to the wicked in the end (at the end of this world/age). They are no more. Their spirits do not rise a second time. They are completely forgotten.

Isaiah 26:19-21

"But your dead will live;

their bodies will rise.

You who dwell in the dust, wake up and shout for joy.

Your dew is like the dew of the morning;

the earth will give birth to her dead.

Go, my people, enter your rooms and shut the doors behind you; hide yourselves for a little while until his wrath has passed by.

See, the Lord is coming out of his dwelling to punish the people of the earth for their sins.

The earth will disclose the blood shed upon her;
she will conceal her slain no longer." The righteous dead are asleep and will live again in the future, at the close of time of Christ's coming.

Isaiah 38:10-20 describes living vs dead, dead do not praise God. They are not in His presence singing Hallelujah or any other praise.

Isaiah 41:11, 12 the wicked. dead disappear from the earth and cannot be found, the wicked will no longer exist

Isaiah 57:1, 2 The righteous person lies in rest in his deathbed asleep in peace (spared of evil - NIV)

Job 7:7-10 The dead do not come back again to the land of the living or to be recognized. They don't interact with the living. (verses 4 - 8 talk about his impending death) (think about this the next time you hear a ghost story; who or what are we seeing?)

Job 14:10 - 14, 12, 20, 21 Until the end of time, the dead will not know about earth's happenings. (I'll discuss verses 22 in section 3)

Job 19:25, 26, 27a - after my body is destroyed by worms I shall see God in the flesh, at the last day when my Savior shall stand on the earth. When does Job expect to see God? His expectation is for seeing God in the flesh at the last day, not as a spirit being upon his death.

Jobs hope and confidence was for the resurrection. He, like Paul in 1 Thessalonians 4, placed his trust in God and was encouraged by the hope of the resurrection. If he believed he would be instantly with God at death, the resurrection would not have been his focus.

Job 34:14, 15 - When God takes back the breath of life we die (perish)

Psalms 6:5 - in the world of the dead, no one remembers God or praises Him. We do not go to heaven immediately!

Psalms 9:5, 6 - when the wicked are destroyed they will not be remembered and even their names will be forgotten. (They are not writhing in pain forever somewhere.)

Psalms 30:9 - in death we neither give God thanks or praise Him (The implied answer to the question is no.)

Psalms 37:10, 20 - soon the wicked will disappear & can't be found. They will disappear like smoke.(They are not in hell.)

Psalms 88:10 - 13 - while alive I will praise the Lord since I can't do that after I'm dead

Psalms 104 - Describes Gods support of all creatures. In v. 29 it describes death as when God removes their breath and (in v. 30) life as when He gives of his Spirit (breath). (At the end of the chapter the wicked are "consumed" and "are no more." They aren't in Hell.)

Psalms 115:17 - "The dead do not praise the Lord, Nor do any who go down into silence;" - those who are dead do not praise the Lord, the grave is silent. Those who die do not go the heaven and then praise God.

Psalms 146:1 - 4 - "When they breathe their last breath, they return to the ground. On that day their plans come to an end."

Ecclesiastes 9:5, 6, 10 - Whatever presents itself for you to do, do it with all your might, because there is no work, planning, knowledge, or skill in the grave where you are going."

Ecclesiastes 12:6, 7 - "Then the dust of mortals goes back to the ground as it was before, and the breath of life goes back to God"

Daniel 12:1 - 3 - at some day in the future those in the dust (ground) will wake up and arise" They are not awake and doing anything now. That will happen in the future.

Daniel 12:13 - Daniel was told that he would "rest" until the end of time, and then he would rise for his reward (he is not getting his reward in heaven now)

Malachi 4:1 - 3 - "It won't leave a single root or branch." Hell is all-consuming. Nothing will be left after the flames have burned up everything that will burn. "The wicked will be ashes beneath your feet." (They are not going to be burning after the fire is finished with its work.)

Matthew 25:21, 31, 41 - 46 - After a future judgment those will receive according to the judgment rendered. (The wicked do not receive their reward/judgment at the point of death.)

Matthew 27:51-53 - "At that moment the curtain of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom. The earth shook and the rocks split. The tombs broke open and the bodies of many holy people who had died were raised to life. They came out of the tombs, and after Jesus' resurrection they went into the holy city and appeared to many people." Have there been anyone resurrected? Yes. Are there a few righteous people in heaven? Yes. Enoch, Elijah, and these that were 'first fruits' of the saved who witnessed to the truth of the resurrection after the resurrection of Christ. (It doesn't say this, but they were undoubtedly taken back to heaven when he ascended and their testimony of Christ was no longer needed on earth.) See Hebrews 11:35 regarding a "better" resurrection with eternal life rather than the resurrection to this mortal life as demonstrated by Elijah/Elisha and the little boy. (1 Kings 17 & 2 Kings 4)

Luke 14:14 (14:12-14) Luke 14:14 "God will repay you on the day the good people rise from death." Jesus says you will receive your reward when the dead come back to life (resurrection of the righteous). Not at death. Here and elsewhere, the rewards of the righteous are given at the end of time following the resurrection, but not upon death.

John 3:16 Christ was given to mankind to give us eternal life (this implies that our souls / spirits do not already have eternal life)

John 5:25-29 - Those in the tombs/graves will hear His voice and come back to life (a time in the future, up to that time they have not heard His voice) That means that those who were dying then, were not going to heaven or hell. They are not hearing Christ's voice in heaven after they die. Heaven and hell were in the future.

John 6:39, 40, 44, 54 - When the righteous will come back to life will be on the last day (not immediately when they die; they are asleep like Lazarus & Jairus' daughter were)

The righteous will be given eternal life. They do not already possess it.

John 6:53, 63 - God (not humans) possess eternal life. It is by partaking of Him on a daily basis that we have eternal life.

- He will bring them back to life on the last day, not when we die. We do not continue on living, but are restored on the last day.

John 8:51 - Christ's followers will never see death. Christ must be talking about something else. A different kind of 'death.' It seems his disciples will experience 'sleep' but not 'death.'

John 14:1-3 - The assurance that Christ gave his disciples. He will bring the righteous into his presence when He comes back to earth again, not at their death.

Acts 2:29, 34 - David died but did not go to heaven ----- In discussing the scriptural supports for Jesus as the Messiah, Peter states that since David was not in heaven at the time, the prophecy had to be about Christ. Why was David not in heaven? He was 'asleep' in his tomb awaiting for the resurrection.

Acts 7:60 - when Stephen was stoned he 'koimao' (fell asleep)

Acts 17:31 - (judgment) there is a time in the future in which God will judge the world. It doesn't make sense for heaven or hell to be administered until after the judgment.

Romans 2:6, 7 - "For God will reward every person according to what he has done. Some people keep on doing good, and seek glory, honor, and immortal life; to them God will give eternal life." A person does not have eternal life unless given by God. We will not live forever unless we are saved by God. The wicked will not burn in hell forever. God 'rewards righteous' with eternal life, they do not have eternal life already.

The reward of the righteous. Is The. resurrections in a new body (Romans 8::8-11)

1 Corinthians 11:30 - "That is why many among you are weak and sick, and a number of you have fallen asleep." Paul referred to death as sleep even when talking to the New Testament church. Many modern translations go ahead and change the word to 'died' since sleep is understood to be death in this situation.

1 Corinthians 15:16 - 18 "For if the dead do not rise, then Christ is not risen. 17 And if Christ is not risen, your faith is futile; you are still in your sins! 18 Then also those who have fallen asleep in Christ have perished." If there is immediate transport to heaven, this discussion would make no sense.

1 Corinthians 15:52-54 "52 in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. 53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. 54 So when this corruptible has put on incorruption, and this mortal has put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written: "Death is swallowed up in victory." At 'the last trumpet' death will be vanquished for the righteous, not before. We currently do not possess immortality. That is going to happen in the future.

At the resurrection of those that sleep in Christ will be raised with new bodies. Note that in both of these passages from 1 Corinthians 15, it is not until the second coming of Christ that the saints will be CHANGED INTO something that will not die. They do not have the immortality until this change.

Philippians 3:8-11 - "What is more, I consider everything a loss compared to the surpassing greatness of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord, for whose sake I have lost all things. I consider them rubbish, that I may gain Christ and be found in him, not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law, but that which is through faith in Christ—the righteousness that comes from God and is by faith. I want to know Christ and the power of his resurrection and the fellowship of sharing in his sufferings, becoming like him in his death, and so, somehow, to attain to the resurrection from the dead." Paul's goal was to achieve the resurrection, not completion of his life. Paul did not expect to see God until his resurrection.

Colossians 2:4-5 - "I tell you this so that no one may deceive you by fine- sounding arguments. For though I am absent from you in body, I am present with you in spirit and delight to see how orderly you are and how firm your faith in Christ is." Paul was absent in body but present in spirit with the Colossians. Here he uses the very same terminology he uses elsewhere to discuss his desires. He has not gone somewhere else yet.

Colossians 3:4 - "When Christ, who is your life, appears, then you also will appear with him in glory." 'When' Christ is revealed, 'then' we will be with Christ. It is after the resurrection.

1 Thessalonians 4:13 - 18 - "13 But I do not want you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning those who have fallen asleep, lest you sorrow as others who have no hope. [Hope in what or whom?] 14 For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so God will bring with Him those who sleep in Jesus. 15 For this we say to you by the word of The Lord, that we who are alive and remain until the coming of the Lord will by no means precede those who are asleep. 16 For the Lord himself will descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of an archangel, and with the trumpet of God. And the dead in Christ will rise first. 17 Then we who are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet The Lord in the air. And thus we shall always be with the Lord. 18 Therefore comfort one another with these words." It is the resurrection to which Paul & 1st century Christians looked forward. Not immediate transport to heaven @ death. This comforting passage would make no sense if the righteous were already in heaven with their Lord and Saviour. It is the corpses that will be made live again. If Paul was talking about a spirit he would not have needed to reassure believers in this way. (compare this passage with Isaiah 26:14, 19)

1 Thessalonians 5:10-11 - "He died for us so that, whether we are awake or asleep, we may live together with him. Therefore encourage one another and build each other up, just as in fact you are doing." Here Paul speaks of death as a sleep (just as Christ did). If he believed in believers going immediately to heaven, he would not have expressed his encouragement in this way.

1 Timothy 6:15-16 - "God, the blessed and only Ruler, the King of kings and Lord of lords, who alone is immortal and who lives in unapproachable light, whom no one has seen or can see. To him be honor and might forever. Amen." Only God has immortality, not humans. Compare this with Satan's lie in Genesis 3:4.

2 Timothy 1:9-10 - "This grace was given us in Christ Jesus before the beginning of time, but it has now been revealed through the appearing of our Savior, Christ Jesus, who has destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel." Immortality is revealed by the gospel, we do not have it inherently.

2 Timothy 2:15-18 Two believers are here described as disruptive and lost their way due to the belief that those that had died have come back to life. Life after death does not occur until the resurrection at the end of the world.

Hebrews 11:35 "Women received back their dead by resurrection; and others were tortured, not accepting their release, so that they might obtain a better resurrection;" When the children of God looked forward to their reward, they did not look forward to their death, but to their resurrection. If they were to be united with Christ / God / their fellow family and saints at their death, they would not be described as looking forward to their resurrection. It is at the resurrection that the righteous are brought to their Lord and Saviour and reunited with family and friends.

Hebrews 11:39-40 - "These were all commended for their faith, yet none of them received what had been promised. God had planned something better for us so that only together with us would they be made perfect." The righteous will not receive their reward until we do at Christ's second coming. All these men and women of faith listed in Hebrews 11, have not gone to heaven and received what God has promised. They are awaiting their reward until the second coming.

Jude 6, 14, 15 There is a judgment and subsequent administration of judgment at the last day of this earth. People do not receive their reward (by going to heaven or hell) now, but only after the judgment which will be at the end of the earth's history.

Revelation 16:14,16 - "They are spirits of demons performing miraculous signs, and they go out to the kings of the whole world, to gather them for the battle on the great day of God Almighty. . . .

Then they gathered the kings together to the place that in Hebrew is called Armageddon." Who are these spirits that we see doing real things in the 'land of the living.' They are spirits of the devil (fallen angels) who are trying to misguide the whole earth.

Revelation 20:12, 13 Revelation 20:12-13 (NASB Strong's) "And I saw the dead, the great and the small, standing before the throne, and books were opened; and another book was opened, which is the book of life; and the dead were judged from the things which were written in the books, according to their deeds.

And the sea gave up the dead which were in it, and death and Hades gave up the dead which were in them; and they were judged, every one of them according to their deeds. Everyone is judged at the end of time according to their deeds. The land and the sea give up the dead to be judged." This appears to happen before the rewarding the righteous eternal life and the wicked eternal obliteration.

In the Bible death is often characterized as sleep: Job 14:12; Psalms 13:3; Jeremiah 51:39, 57;

This misunderstanding all began with the serpent's lie in Genesis 3:4 "you will not surely die." What will happen to the wicked? Are they burning somewhere now in hell?

Obadiah 1:16

"Because just as you drank on My holy mountain,
All the nations will drink continually.
They will drink and swallow
And become as if they had never existed."

1 Samuel 28 vs Hebrews 11:39, 40 (1 Chron 10:1,13) This is the story of Saul consulting with a medium trying to talk to Samuel regarding plans for battle. Yet we are told that the dead do not talk to us. Bible heroes will receive their reward when we do (they are not in Heaven now). So how did this happen? If we apply what we read in Revelation 16, then this was probably a fallen angel/demon that was impersonating the prophet for the purpose of deception.

John 11 -- The story. Of Lazarus death and resurrection

-- Jesus said "Come out", not down, not up

- no mention is made of what wonderful things Lazarus saw when he was dead - there was nothing to tell

- resurrection was something good, not bad (if you truly loved someone, would you want them to leave God and heaven)

What will happen to the unrighteous?

Matthew 8:29 - there is a time in the future when the wicked, demons & Satan will be punished.

Hebrews 9:27 everyone dies once, and then they are judged.

John 5:25-29 reward of life or death is when we come from the graves in response to Christ's voice (see 1 Thess 4:13-18)

2 Peter 3:7, 10-12 ungodly to be destroyed at the end of the world. (Destroyed, not dangled in a non-consuming fire. The fire will completely destroy the wicked.) See also Matthew 8:29 & Mark 5:7)

Revelation 5:13 "And every created thing which is in heaven and on the earth and under the earth and on the sea, and all things in them, I heard saying, "To Him who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb, be blessing and honor and glory and dominion forever and ever." (there is no one in hell crying and no discordant voices)

Isaiah 26:14 The dead will not live again, all remembrance of them will be gone. (these chapters from Isaiah 26 through 27 are about the end of time with the reward of the righteous and the wicked)

Isaiah 34:2 "For the Lord's indignation is against all the nations, And His wrath against all their armies; He has utterly destroyed them, He has given them over to slaughter" The Lord will destroy the wicked. (destroy completely)

Ezekiel 18:4, 20 - "the sinner, he shall die" (he/she won't live forever in agony - he will die.)

Ezekiel 33:11 "As I live, declares the Almighty Lord, I don't want wicked people to die. Rather, I want them to turn from their ways and live. Change the way you think and act! turn from your wicked ways!"

Malachi 4:1 they shall be stubble. "It won't leave a single root or branch."

2 Peter 3:10 the earth will melt

Psalms 11:6 fire and brimstone from God will consume them.

What about other passages that seem to say there are spirits or that there is 'life after death' other than at the resurrection?

Job 14:22 (NIV1984)

He feels but the pain of his own body and mourns only for himself." The whole chapter up to this point is of how the person ceases to exist in this life once death occurs, but then ends with this verse. This appears to be poetic language similar to Judges 9:8 - 15 where inanimate objects (trees and bushes) speak lessons or ideas. We see this in other areas of scripture as well.

2 Corinthians 5:6-8 (NASBStr)

"Therefore, being always of good courage, and knowing that while we are at home in the body we are absent from the Lord — for we walk by faith, not by sight — we are of good courage, I say, and prefer rather to be absent from the body and to be at home with the Lord." A quick reading of this passage sounds like a spirit like life after death as is often taught. However, a reasoned approach to this passage would lead one otherwise. In 2 Corinthians 5:1 Paul talks about the earthly body as a tent (temporary dwelling) and a heavenly body (permanent dwelling). In verse 2, he goes on to say he (we) would rather be in our permanent/eternal heavenly body, and in verse 3, not in a state of nakedness (without our earthly or heavenly bodies). In verse 4 he expresses a desire not to be naked (dead) and to be clothed with our heavenly bodies. If he was going to be with God in this body-less state, he would not object and wish so strongly to be clothed with his heavenly body. In verse 6, he acknowledges that for as long as we are in our earthly body, we are away from our heavenly body. In verse 8, he expresses the wish to be away from this earthly body and present with The Lord in his heavenly body. In verse 9, Paul goes on to say that whether we are at home with God (in our heavenly body) or absent from Him (in our earthly body) we are to be pleasing to God. Paul is expressing his desire to be translated without seeing death (being naked). He yearned to be with God, which from this passage (verses 2 - 4) was not possible until he was clothed with his heavenly body. This is echoed in Paul's statements in Romans 8:22, 23 in which he states our redemption is when we have redemption of our bodies. This is also stated in similar language in Philippians 1:20-24 with Paul's need to remain in his mortal body/flesh for the benefit of the infant Christian church, but his desire to be in heaven in his heavenly body.

In another passage, 1 Corinthians 5:3, Paul talks about being absent in body, but present with the believers in Corinth. He clearly does not imply that he is out of his earthly body, but rather his heart and mind are thinking of his Christian children and yearning to be with them to assist them in their administrative needs.

If Paul really believed that a believer was transported to heaven at death, he would not have answered the Thessalonians concerns as he did in 1 Thessalonians 4:13 - 18. There he gives as encouragement the hope of Christ's return and the joyful resurrection. He terms those who have passed away as "asleep in Jesus" (v 14). He does not teach as the many current preachers that we are instantly in heaven, but await the return of our Lord to awaken his children.

1 Thessalonians 3:13 (NASBStr)

"so that He may establish your hearts without blame in holiness before our God and Father at the coming of our Lord Jesus with all His saints." Some have portrayed that this shows Christ's second coming is portrayed as accompanied by disembodied spirits. Rather, Paul is wishing for the Thessalonian Christians to be holy at the time of Christ's coming, just like all the other of Christ's followers will be at His coming. This is a time of reckoning and judgment and Paul's fervent wish is for his spiritual children to be ready.

Philippians 1:21-26 (NASBStr) "For to me, to live is Christ and to die is gain. But if I am to live on in the flesh, this will mean fruitful labor for me; and I do not know which to choose. But I am hard-pressed from both directions, having the desire to depart and be with Christ, for that is very much better; yet to remain on in the flesh is more necessary for your sake. Convinced of this, I know that I will remain and continue with you all for your progress and joy in the faith, so that your proud confidence in me may abound in Christ Jesus through my coming to you again." As we have seen in the discussion of 2 Corinthians 5, this is another expression of Paul's desire to glorify God. If God would be glorified by his life and work, so be it. But if his martyrdom would be to God's glory then that would be OK, too. He is hemmed in with the two possibilities, to live for Christ or die for Him. In his other statements he has clearly described death as sleep for the saints (1 Corinthians 15:51, 1 Thess 4:13 - 15, and Christ's statements in Mark 5:39 & John 11:11). The tired apostle is torn between the desire to serve and the desire for rest.

Luke 23:43 (NASBStr)

And He said to him, "Truly I say to you, today you shall be with Me in Paradise." This was stated by Christ to the thief on the cross. Christ promised the thief that he would be with him in heaven. In John 20:17, Christ says that he has not been to heaven yet, so if this statement is as transcribed, there was something wrong with one of these two statements. In the original scripts, there is no punctuation. Punctuation was not inserted until the 13th - 15th centuries. It is placed to assist the reader and is dependent on the understanding of the transcriptionist.

Here are two examples of how comma placement makes an extreme difference in meaning.

Example #1:

Dear John:

I want a man who knows what love is all about. You are generous, kind, thoughtful. People who are not like you admit to being useless and inferior. You have ruined me for other men. I yearn for you. I have no feelings whatsoever when we're apart. I can be forever happy--will you let me be yours?

Dear John:

Yours,

The second common illustration is:

An English professor wrote the words, "Woman without her man is nothing" on the blackboard and directed his students to punctuate it correctly. The men wrote: "Woman, without her man, is nothing." The women wrote: "Woman: Without her, man is nothing."

Getting back to the original text from Luke 23:43 And He said to him, "Truly I say to you, today you shall be with Me in Paradise." could also legitimately be written And He said to him, "Truly I say to you today, you shall be with Me in Paradise." This would provide no conflict between this text in which Christ promises the thief eternal life, and John 20:17 where He states he has not been to the Father yet. He was laid in the tomb, and like other humans rested until his Father called Him.

Matthew 25:46 (NASBStr)

These will go away into eternal punishment, but the righteous into eternal life." Here the extent of the punishment is eternal. The results last for eternity. Just like the extent of the life for the redeemed is eternal. There is not a time of retribution after which the person will inherit eternal life. There is no second chance or signs of a purification process whereby the lost can then be saved. It is eternal death.

Luke 16:19 - 31 The story of the rich man and his beggar Lazarus.

"All these things Jesus spoke to the crowds in parables, and He did not speak to them without a parable." Christ used parables to teach us and reveal to us things of the kingdom of God. Only to the disciples did he speak directly without the use of parables. (John 16:29, Mark 4:33,34) In parables, the object lessons were to be made from the familiar to the reveal that which was unknown. The central lesson was truth with the details of the parable used to illustrate something that was understood by those that were listening. In this parable, Christ is warning His listeners that "If they do not listen to Moses and the Prophets, they will not be persuaded even if someone rises from the dead." Luke 16:31 To believe every detail of this story as Biblical truth would have us to believe that when we die we are not transported to heaven as many believe, but we will be 'transported by angels to Abraham's bosom,' and that Abraham will talk to those in torment despite a 'great chasm fixed' between the two entities. Christ had just emphasized the importance and permanence of the Old Testament (Luke 16:16 - 17). He here continues the importance of heeding it's instruction. If we were to take everything in Biblical parables at face value, we would promote dishonest bookkeeping (Luke 16:1-9), that slavery was valued in heaven (Mark 12:4), or that trees talk to each other (Judges 9:7-15). The whole of scripture speaks to the state of the dead and to the resurrection of the righteous being the goal of the redeemed of God, and the eternity of life with the Saviour. Clearly, we are to listen to the Word of God and have 'Ears that hear what the Spirit is saying to the Churches.'

The confusion over the true nature of man, the state of the dead, and the misunderstanding of about the end of sin and sinners has many people under a great delusion. It has led many to doubt in a loving God and a misunderstanding of the ultimate reality: that God is Love. He wants the best for His children. And he is returning to bring back to Him those who trust in Him and are His friends.

2016 Q4 The Book of Job - Lesson 6

The Curse Causeless?

- Memory Text: “Can a mortal be more righteous than God? Can a man be more pure than his maker?” Job 4:17
- This week’s lesson stresses the importance of putting ourselves both in Job’s position, and in the position of his friends who came to mourn and grieve with Job. Who here hasn’t sought to comfort and console a friend or loved one in their pain and loss? Who here has not needed the comfort and consolation of others in their own time of pain and loss? Who here doesn’t know what it’s like to try and find the right words to speak to those whose grief cuts at our own hearts as well?
- It’s difficult isn’t it? To know what to say when there really isn’t anything you can say to make it better. It’s tough to know what to do that will really help someone who is hurting. I think most of us tend to go with a casserole – it seems like food tends to be our default position when dealing with grief and loss. What would you have said to Job if you were his friend? What do you say to a friend who had lost 10 children, all his property, all his livestock, all his financial assets, and finally his good health?
- The last paragraph in Saturday’s lesson reads, “In fact, so much of the book of Job is taken up with the dialogue between Job and these men, as they all try to make sense of what so often seems to make no sense: the endless parade of human suffering and tragedy in a world created by a loving, powerful, and caring God...I’m not sure exactly what point they are trying to make here, but it appears referencing some of the questions answered back in Lesson 4 a couple of weeks ago when we studied about “God and Human Suffering”. ..and whether a loving God is unwilling or unable or either or both... to remove our pain and suffering, and if he did what would that mean for us and what would that say about God. This was such an amazing and powerful class taught by Dr. Jennings 2 weeks ago...if you have not seen it I highly recommend that you view the archive and we will review some points from that lesson later today.
- A quote from the book Education gives us this insight: “Unselfishness, the principle of God's kingdom, is the principle that Satan hates; its very existence he denies. From the beginning of the great controversy he has endeavored to prove God's principles of action to be selfish, and he deals in the same way with all who serve God. To disprove Satan's claim is the work of Christ and of all who bear His name. It was to give in His own life an illustration of unselfishness that Jesus came in the form of humanity. And all who accept this principle are to be workers together with Him in demonstrating it in practical life. To choose the right because it is right; to stand for truth at the cost of suffering and sacrifice—“this is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness is of Me, saith the Lord.” Isaiah 54:17... by his patient endurance he vindicated his own character, and thus the character of Him whose representative he was. For those who love God, those who are “called according to His purpose” (Romans 8:28), Bible biography has a yet higher lesson of the ministry of sorrow. “Ye are My witnesses, saith the Lord, that I am God” (Isaiah 43:12)—witnesses that He is good, and that goodness is supreme.

SUNDAY

The Big Questions

- Sunday’s lesson again emphasizes the incredibly important great controversy perspective revealed in the book of Job – giving us some incredible insight into this aspect of our reality and pulling back the veil to remind us just how closely connected our earthly world is with the supernatural world and the war going on all around us.
- So after the first 2 chapters of Job, we have a bunch of “talking heads” or dialogue going on between Job, his three friends, and his wife. And they are discussing the big questions...the heavy issues of life and death, pain and suffering, why do bad things happen to good people, theology, philosophy, the character of God, etc. The lesson says, “There is nothing like a calamity, either our own or that of others, to shake us out of our spiritual lethargy and get us to start asking the important questions.” Any thoughts on this? Have you found this to be true in your own lives?
- Several Bible authors seemed to grasp this concept and provided some advice about how to view tragedy and trials.
 - 1 Peter 1:6-7 – In all this you greatly rejoice, though now for a little while you may have had to suffer grief in all kinds of trials. Pure gold put in the fire comes out of it proved pure; genuine faith put through this suffering comes out proved genuine (MSG). Rejoice greatly in this reality, even though now, for a little while, you may suffer pain, grief, and trials of all kinds.⁷ These transient difficulties are allowed to come so that your confidence and trust in God— which is infinitely more valuable than gold, for even gold purified by fire will be destroyed—may be permanently established in your character, and result in praise, glory and honor to God when Jesus Christ comes again (REM).
 - James 1:2-4 – Consider it a pure gift or count it all joy, friends, when tests and challenges come at you from all sides. You know that under pressure, your faith-life is forced into the open and shows its true colors. So don’t try to get out of anything prematurely. Let it do its work so you become mature and well-developed, not deficient in any way (MSG). My brothers and sisters in God’s family, I want you to rejoice and keep a positive attitude whenever you face troubles of various kinds,³ because every trial exercises your trust in God—which overcomes fear and selfishness—and builds a confident, steadfast application of the Remedy.⁴ And this steadfast engagement in God’s treatment must be completed so that you may be fully healed, mature, and like Christ in character—not lacking anything (REM).
 - James 1:12 – Anyone who meets a testing challenge head-on and manages to stick it out is mighty fortunate. For such persons loyally in love with God, the reward is life and more life (MSG). But the person who steadfastly continues in God’s treatment despite trials, difficulties or discomfort, will be healed and receive eternal life—as promised by God to those who love and trust him. (Remedy)

- Psalm 119:72-73 My troubles turned out all for the best – they forced me to learn from your textbook. Your teaching has taught me what is true and right (MSG).
- Thoughts about these texts...does the instruction to rejoice in trials take some getting used to...seem counterproductive? Who here has experienced that refining fire, and had their faith strengthened, their capacity for love/compassion/empathy grown, their characters matured in ways that would not have happened...could not have happened if not for the trial? These events...the ones that shake us out of our spiritual lethargy and hone in our focus on the things that really matter...there's more of them coming. Isn't this what we believe is going to happen at the beginning of the time of trouble? Events so significant and so catastrophic that even the most inattentive are suddenly paying attention and asking questions. I believe these trials will provide critical opportunities for every person alive to make a judgment about God – is He trustworthy, and about themselves – do they love others more than self (they do not love their lives so much as to shrink from death, Rev. 12:11)
- One of the founders of our church refers to this as a “shaking”. Remember, how many groups will there be at the end of time? Only 2. “The Lord has faithful servants who in the shaking, testing time will be disclosed to view. There are precious ones now hidden who have not bowed the knee to Baal. They have not had the light which has been shining in a concentrated blaze upon you. But it may be under a rough and uninviting exterior the pure brightness of a genuine Christian character will be revealed. In the daytime we look toward heaven but do not see the stars. They are there, fixed in the firmament, but the eye cannot distinguish them. In the night we behold their genuine luster.—Testimonies for the Church 5:80, 81 (1882). {LDE 181.1} On every occasion that persecution takes place, the witnesses make decisions, either for Christ or against Him. Those who show sympathy for the men wrongly condemned, who are not bitter against them, show their attachment for Christ.—The Signs of the Times, February 20, 1901. {LDE 181.2} So she says: “Let opposition arise, let bigotry and intolerance again bear sway (hello election season), let persecution be kindled, and the half-hearted and hypocritical will waver and yield the faith; but the true Christian will stand firm as a rock, his faith stronger, his hope brighter than in days of prosperity.—The Great Controversy, 602 (1911).
- The broken ranks will be filled up by those represented by Christ as coming in at the eleventh hour. There are many with whom the Spirit of God is striving. The time of God's destructive judgments (dark language – what does it mean?) is the time of mercy for those who [now] have no opportunity to learn what is truth. Tenderly will the Lord look upon them. His heart of mercy is touched, His hand is still stretched out to save...large numbers will be admitted who in these last days hear the truth for the first time.—Letter 103, 1903

- Soon the last test is to come to all inhabitants of the earth. At that time prompt decisions will be made. Those who have been convicted under the presentation of the Word will range themselves under the bloodstained banner of Prince Emmanuel.—Testimonies for the Church 9:149
- [Optional] The time is not far distant when the test will come to every soul. The mark of the beast will be urged upon us. Those who have step by step yielded to worldly demands and conformed to worldly customs will not find it a hard matter to yield to the powers that be, rather than subject themselves to derision, insult, threatened imprisonment, and death. The contest is between the commandments of God and the commandments of men. In this time the gold will be separated from the dross in the church.
- The pink box at the bottom of Sunday's lesson says, "Have you been able to look back at former trials and seen the good that has come out of them? How do you deal with those trials that have brought nothing good?" Thoughts? My Bible says "And we know that ALL things work together for good to those who love God, to those who are the called according to His purpose." Romans 8:28 NKJV or in the Remedy "And we know that in ALL things, at ALL times, in ALL circumstances, God works for the good of his creation and for the good of all who love him. Those who have accepted God's call—to work with him according to his purpose—experience the good things that God has for them." So are there some tragedies and trials that appear to have brought nothing good? Are there things we can do to turn that scenario around?

- MONDAY

- When Have the Innocent Perished?

- Job 2:11-13 describes how Job's friends viewed his situation: Now when Job's three friends heard of all this adversity that had come upon him, each one came from his own place—Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite. For they had made an appointment together to come and mourn with him, and to comfort him.¹² And when they raised their eyes from afar, and did not recognize him, they lifted their voices and wept; and each one tore his robe and sprinkled dust on his head toward heaven. ¹³ So they sat down with him on the ground seven days and seven nights, and no one spoke a word to him, for they saw that his grief was very great.
- They made an appointment, they planned to come together to comfort their friend. And they were obviously stunned by what they saw as Job was unrecognizable. Then they sat silently with him, for seven days, never saying a word. This practice likely originated with the Jewish mourning ritual called "sitting shiva (seven)", – seven days of empathy and compassion marked by mourners sitting on low stools or on the ground. The first instance mentioned in the Bible is in Genesis 7:10, where it says "And it came to pass after seven days that the waters of the flood were on the earth." This is after Noah, his family, and all the animals were already in the ark...and the Rabbis of the Talmud say that these seven days were a period of mourning for Methuselah, the oldest man who ever lived. (Thanks google)

- So they sat silently, comforting Job and mourning with him for seven days, but once Job began to speak and utter his complaints, we find out these three friends had plenty to say. Eliphaz's initial response is found in Job 4:1-11: Then Eliphaz from Teman spoke up: "Would you mind if I said something to you? Under the circumstances it's hard to keep quiet. You yourself have done this plenty of times, spoken words that clarify, encouraged those who were about to quit. Your words have put stumbling people on their feet, put fresh hope in people about to collapse. But now you're the one in trouble—you're hurting! You've been hit hard and you're reeling from the blow. But shouldn't your devout life give you confidence now? Shouldn't your exemplary life give you hope?"⁷⁻¹¹ "Think! Has a truly innocent person ever ended up on the scrap heap? Do genuinely upright people ever lose out in the end? It's my observation that those who plow evil and sow trouble reap evil and trouble. One breath from God and they fall apart, one blast of his anger and there's nothing left of them. The mighty lion, king of the beasts, roars mightily, but when he's toothless he's useless—No teeth, no prey—and the cubs wander off to fend for themselves. (MSG)
- As the quarterly states, if you were writing a book on grief counseling you could use the friends' initial actions in the chapter "How to Help a Grieving Soul", and then you could feature Eliphaz in the chapter titled "What NOT to Say to a Grieving Soul." The lessons says, "It's hard to imagine someone coming up to a person going through all that Job was going through and saying, basically, 'Well, you must have deserved it, because God is just, and only the wicked suffer like this.'" Sadly, is this actually so hard to imagine?
- Eliphaz is spouting straight retribution theology here. Lots of folks still believe that if bad stuff happens to you, then you must have done something wrong...and if a bunch of bad stuff happens to you, then you must have done something really wrong! But don't forget that many of these same folks also believe that if you do everything right and check all the behavioral boxes, then prosperity will follow. The other side of the retributive justice coin is the prosperity gospel. In my experience, both of these ideas are completely flawed.
- The pink box at the bottom of Monday's lesson says "Think about a time people comforted you amid loss and pain. What did they say? How did they say it? What did you learn from that experience that could help you when you are in the position of having to comfort someone else?"

TUESDAY

A Man and His Maker

- So while Eliphaz is likely not in the running for the "Best Sympathy and Tact" award, did you notice that he did use a common personnel management technique when responding to Job's complaints. When managers have to reprimand or provide constructive criticism to employees, they often camouflage the criticism by sandwiching it between compliments. So Eliphaz gives Job props for his past ability to be an encouragement, a light, and a counselor to others...at least when things were going well for Job. But his tone changes pretty quickly in verse 5 and it goes down from there. He also seems to read into and respond to a lot of things Job never even said.

- Eliphaz said that God is just, and so the evil that comes upon us is deserved. This belief is still shared by many – Christians and non-Christians alike. Isn't this the underlying thread of karma...and even the natural law of sowing and reaping? How is it different from those?
- One difference is found in our study of Lesson 4 from two weeks ago. In that lesson, and again I encourage you to watch the recording and read the notes, we talked about some of the many reasons why suffering, pain, and death occur on this earth...and many have no connection at all between what is sown and what is reaped.
- Entropy, the slow gradual decay of order that occurs because we are disconnected from God's constant full presence and care. "in the day you eat of the Tree of Knowledge, dying you will die." (Gen 2:17) Aging and the sleep death occur because of slow decay
- Genetic defects and disease because of entropy and the slow decay of our original design
- Toxins and poisons because of mutations and alterations to God's design—the changes in nature and the manufacture of chemicals and products not original to God's creation
- Evil/selfish actions originating in people who are selfish—Cain killing Abel
- Evil/selfish actions inspired by Satan upon people to hurt others—Judas betraying Christ
- Satan and his agencies affecting nature and causing problems—first chapter of Job
- Good people acting to defend and protect—Abraham rescuing Lot
- Good people acting selfishly and doing bad things—David murdering Uriah—which occurs because of sin in the heart not yet removed
- People, whether good or evil, making mistakes with no intent to help or harm, slipping and falling, auto accident because of ice etc.
- Humans acting on God's orders—kill all the people, women, children, cattle, etc. Why would God give such orders? Remember it was God's original plan to have the hornet and pestilence go before Israel and as the inhabitants abandoned the land the Israelites would have slowly occupied it with no killing. But the people chose to do it their way and so God gave the instructions, if you are going to kill then in order to minimize suffering, death, and traumatize the least number of people and bring peace in a world, wipe them all out and get it over with. Instead, we have had 4000 years of continual fighting, violence and war scarring every generation living in that part of the world.
- God acting to protect, lance, cauterize, keep open the avenue for Messiah—putting people in the grave/asleep, but they will arise again: Flood, first born of Egypt, Platoons that came to arrest Elijah
- It is fascinating how these men – Job and his friends – understood the nature and character of the true God, even before the rise of the nation of Israel. These folks were obviously meticulous writers, historians, documenters – even if no one had compiled it all into books like Moses did, they clearly were very good at passing along stories and information from one generation to the next, and there were definitely others besides the patriarchs who knew something of the Lord, and here we see Eliphaz seeking to defend his view of the character of God, distorted though it was.

WEDNESDAY

The Foolish Taking Root

- As far as I can tell, Wednesday's lesson is saying that Eliphaz is not entirely wrong in his theology and in what he is saying that evil happens only to evil people...and then offers several Bible text examples that supposedly echo those same thoughts. So let's look at these texts and see if they reflect Eliphaz's sentiments from Job 5:
- Psalm 37:10-11: A little while, and the wicked will be no more; though you look for them, they will not be found. But the meek will inherit the land and enjoy peace and prosperity. (NIV)
- Proverbs 26:2: Like a fluttering sparrow or a darting swallow, an undeserved curse does not come to rest.
- Luke 1:52: He has brought down rulers from their thrones but has lifted up the humble. He has filled the hungry with good things but has sent the rich away empty.
- 1 Cor 3:19-21: For the wisdom of this world is foolishness in God's sight. As it is written: "He catches the wise in their craftiness" and again, "The Lord knows that the thoughts of the wise are futile." So then, no more boasting about human leaders!
- Psalm 34:6: This poor man called, and the Lord heard him; he saved him out of all his troubles.
- Hebrews 12:5: My son, do not make light of the Lord's discipline, and do not lose heart when he rebukes you, because the Lord disciplines the one he loves, and he chastens everyone he accepts as his son.
- Hosea 6:1: Come, let us return to the Lord. He has torn us to pieces but he will heal us; he has injured us but he will bind up our wounds.
- Psalm 33:18-19: But the eyes of the Lord are on those who fear him, on those whose hope is in his unfailing love, to deliver them from death and keep them alive in famine.

THURSDAY

Rush to Judgment

- The lesson states, "Much of what Eliphaz said to Job was correct...the problem wasn't so much with what he said; the problem was more the context in which he said it...the truths he was uttering just didn't apply to the specific situation."
- Quote from Education p. 146: "No truth does the Bible more clearly teach than that what we do is the result of what we are. To a great degree the experiences of life are the fruition of our own thoughts and deeds."
- MH p. 163: "Many think that they are representing the justice of God while they wholly fail of representing His tenderness and His great love. Often the ones whom they meet with sternness and severity are under the stress of temptation. Satan is wrestling with these souls, and harsh, unsympathetic words discourage them and cause them to fall a prey to the tempter's power."

- Even if Eliphaz had been right, and Job brought this suffering upon himself, his words were imprudent and ill-timed. Job stands as a symbol for all humanity, for we all have been caught up in the great controversy, and we all suffer in it. And we all, at some point, need compassion and sympathy, not sermonizing. Sure, there's a time and place for getting lectured. But when a man is sitting on a pile of ashes, his life ruined, his children dead, and his body full of sores—that is not the time.

The Book of Job Lesson 7 4Q 2016

Retributive Punishment

Normally I don't do a preamble before the lesson, however this lesson will be very difficult for some to hear, so I felt it necessary to give this preamble.

If you had a child who was suffering with a severe illness, feverish, festering lesions, in real misery—you would not hate your child, you would have great compassion for your child, yet you will also feel sadness. And you would want to accurately identify the source of the illness so that a remedy could be applied.

This is how I felt this week as I read lesson 7. This lesson, is filled with evidence, symptoms, of a deep infection within the church that causes the church to be sick, to suffer, that keeps many Christians trapped in fear and a false system of beliefs that obstructs their access to God and His true remedy to heal and restore them to His original ideal. Further, it is this very infection of thought that has obstructed the church from doing its last day mission to lighten the world for Christ's return.

By identifying the infection that is ravaging your child you are seeking to heal not attacking your child, so too by exposing this infection of thought in the church, I am not attacking the church but seeking to bring healing.

What do you think of the title, "Retributive Punishment?"

What does retributive mean?

1. Characterized or involving retribution.

What does retribution mean?

1. requital (return or reward) according to merits or deserts, especially for evil.
2. something given or inflicted in such requital.
3. Theology. the distribution of rewards and punishments in a future life.

When you think of retribution what comes to mind? How do you understand this, through which law lens—imposed or design law?

How would retribution work through imposed human-type law lens?

Human laws work by the infliction of externally imposed penalties, which would not otherwise occur, unless they were inflicted to cause pain, suffering, death.

This is also known as coercion, or compelling power.

Is this how God's government works?

What is the difference between God's laws and the laws sinful humans make?

God creates space, time, matter, energy, life—His laws are the protocols upon which reality works. Humans cannot create, so we make up rules that require coercive enforcement.

Satan attacks God and His law by proclaiming that God functions no different than created beings, making up rules and coercing with inflicted punishment, ultimately taking retribution upon sinners. This is a lie—an infection of thought—that has infected all of Christianity, including the SDA church, and actually incites fear and rebellion and prevents reconciliation with God.

We see evidence of this infection in lesson 7 for this week. To be truthful about this is not an attack against any denomination or church group, but to recognize that while God has His institutions, His church, Satan works to corrupt God's institutions by getting those institutions to accept and practice Satan's ideas and methods. Satan succeeded 2000 years ago in getting God's institution on earth to accept such a distorted view of His law that they accused Jesus of law-breaking and crucified Him. The primary lie of Satan is the lie regarding God's law, that it functions like human law.

God's law of love—the principle of giving, upon which life is constructed, if you break this law what happens?

The law of liberty, that love only exists in an atmosphere of freedom, what happens if you violate liberty?

So, with this in mind, here are some historic quotes from one of the founders of the SDA church, what the SDA church was supposed to teach on this subject:

Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. [notice this doesn't say "compelling power is usually found under Satan's government." or that "God's principles are not often of this order." These are absolute statements with no exceptions.] His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power. E.G. White Desire of Ages 759 [what is the prevailing power? Truth and Love—remember that because it is vital to understanding how sinners die in the end, by what power? Truth and Love!]

God could have destroyed Satan and all his sympathizers as easily as one can pick up a pebble and cast it to the earth. But by so doing he would have given a precedent for the exercise of force. All the compelling power is found only under Satan's government. [Does it say "most" compelling power, or the majority of compelling power? No! All compelling power is found ONLY, not usually, under Satan's government. What would it mean then if we present God as using these methods? That we are presenting God with the character of Satan! Notice the next words in the quote:] The Lord's principles are not of this order. He would not work on this line... This principle is wholly of Satan's creation. [The lesson for today argues the same argument that Satan does, that God's principles are the principles of force, coercion, compelling power, the infliction of pain, suffering and death] E.G. White Review & Herald, September 7, 1897

"Whereunto," asked Christ, "shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?" Mark 4:30. He could not employ the kingdoms of the world as a similitude. In society He found nothing with which to compare it. Earthly kingdoms rule by the ascendancy of physical power; but from Christ's kingdom every carnal weapon, every instrument of coercion, is banished. E.G. White Acts of the Apostles 12 [Again, is there room for exceptions, "every carnal weapon of coercion is banished, except for the final end, when God in justice uses carnal weapons to punish and kill?" NO! God is not the source of inflicted death!]

In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. {DA 761.4} [What do you think when you hear preachers preaching that God, in order to be just, must punish sin? This is Satan's argument; this is the voice of God's adversary! This is what Satan said in heaven that seemed so reasonable to 1/3 of the angels! It is a lie! It is based on believing a lie about God's law that God's law functions like human law and therefore requires inflicted punishment. But God's law is the basis of life and breaking it destroys the sinner, unless God intervenes to heal and restore!]

We are not to regard God as waiting to punish the sinner for his sin. The sinner brings the punishment upon himself. His own actions start a train of circumstances that bring the sure result. Every act of transgression reacts upon the sinner, works in him a change of character, and makes it more easy for him to transgress again. By choosing to sin, men separate themselves from God, cut themselves off from the channel of blessing, and the sure result is ruin and death. -- 1Selected Messages 235

Does this mean there is no punishment for sin? Does this mean there is no retribution for sin?

Of course not, the retribution however, comes out from sin itself notice what the Bible says:

- For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord. Rom 6:23
- sin, when it is full-grown, gives birth to death. James 1:15

- The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction; Gal 6:8

EGW never uses the term “Retributive Punishment” She does use the term retributive judgment, is there a difference?

How does love work?

- Does love seek to harm or save, to punish or deliver?
- So how does God work?
- What does love do when the one who is loved uses their freedom to insist on rebellion and rejection of all endeavors to save?
- Does love make a judgment that there is nothing more that can be done?
- Does love, at some point, let go its interventions to protect?
- And what happens when love stops interceding with sickness, with deviations from violations from the protocols life is built upon?
- Is there a terrible suffering and death that occurs? Why?

Notice this description from EGW:

We are near the close of time. I have been shown that the retributive judgments of God are already in the land. The Lord has given us warning of the events about to take place. Light is shining from His word; yet darkness covers the earth, and gross darkness the people. "When they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them; . . . and they shall not escape." 599 {Councils for the Church 336.3} [What does the Lord actually do? What action does God take that is the action of retributive judgment? Notice the very next words:]

The Lord is removing His restrictions from the earth, and soon there will be death and destruction, increasing crime, and cruel, evil working against the rich who have exalted themselves against the poor. Those who are without God's protection will find no safety in any place or position. Human agents are being trained and are using their inventive power to put in operation the most powerful machinery to wound and to kill. 600 {CCh 336.4} [What is God's action, what is He doing? Letting go, removing restrictions, setting free those in rebellion. Who is training the human agents? From where is the destruction and death originating?]

The judgments of God are in the land. The wars and rumors of wars, the destruction by fire and flood, say clearly that the time of trouble, which is to increase until the end, is very near at hand. {CCh 336.5} [What are God's judgments that are in the land? They are His accurate diagnosis of the hearts of people and His judgment that there is nothing more that love and mercy can do so He sets them free and who is causing all the trouble—God's angels? God's righteous saints? Are God's people the one's who do all the violence? No! It is from Satan and his followers!]

What was God's retributive judgment in that passage? That people were beyond healing and He accurately judges or diagnosis it to be so and rightly determines or judges that there is nothing more He can do for them, thus in harmony with His methods and character of love, He sets them free and all hell breaks loose—from the wicked—not as infliction from God!

God has given to men a declaration of His character and of His method of dealing with sin. "The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty." Exodus 34:6, 7. "All the wicked will He destroy." "The transgressors shall be destroyed together: the end of the wicked shall be cut off." Psalm 145:20; 37:38. The power and authority of the divine government will be employed to put down rebellion; [what does this mean? Those who think through imposed human-law immediately hear passages like this and think God would act the way we sinful humans would act. They think He would use power to inflict punishment—but this passage must be harmonized with the authors previous statements about God's kingdom and methods and that it is only under Satan's government that compelling power and coercion are used. So note the continuation of the sentence:] yet all the manifestations of retributive justice will be perfectly consistent with the character of God as a merciful, long-suffering, benevolent being. {GC 541.2} [what does this mean? That we must understand terms like retributive justice through design-law lenses and STOP thinking through imposed law, stop making God out to look and act like sinful human beings. Notice the very next words in this quote:]

God does not force the will or judgment of any. He takes no pleasure in a slavish obedience. He desires that the creatures of His hands shall love Him because He is worthy of love. [Does threats to kill those who don't love generate love? No! It is a violation of the law of liberty and God NEVER does this.] He would have them obey Him because they have an intelligent appreciation of His wisdom, justice, and benevolence. And all who have a just conception of these qualities will love Him because they are drawn toward Him in admiration of His attributes. {GC 541.3} [Can this happen if God is the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death for those who disobey? NO! Those who teach God must use His power to inflict punishment are demonstrating they are duped into believing Satan's view of God and God's government and they are obstructing God's end time message and plan.]

The principles of kindness, mercy, and love, taught and exemplified by our Saviour, are a transcript of the will and character of God. Christ declared that He taught nothing except that which He had received from His Father. The principles of the divine government are in perfect harmony with the Saviour's precept, "Love your enemies." God executes justice upon the wicked, for the good of the universe, and even for the good of those upon whom His judgments are visited. [What does this mean? Do we immediately forget all that we just read, or do we understand this language in harmony with all the other descriptions we read previously describing how God's government actually functions? How then does God execute justice? What is justice, doing what is right, and what is the right thing to do to those who insist on separating themselves from God?] He would make them happy if He could do so in accordance with the laws of His government and the justice of His character. He surrounds them with the tokens of His love, He grants them a knowledge of His law, and follows them with the offers of His mercy; but they despise His love, make void His law, and reject His mercy. While constantly receiving His gifts, they dishonor the Giver; they hate God because they know that He abhors their sins. The Lord bears long with their perversity; but the decisive hour will come at last, when their destiny is to be decided. [By whom? Who decides their destiny? Is the destiny of the wicked decided by God in a judicial proceeding, or by the wicked in rejecting all the truth and love provided by God and thus permanently hardening themselves against God?] Will He then chain these rebels to His side? Will He force them to do His will? {GC 541.4}

Those who have chosen Satan as their leader and have been controlled by his power are not prepared to enter the presence of God. [why not? What has prevented them from being prepared? Note the next words:] Pride, deception, licentiousness, cruelty, have become fixed in their characters. [How did it become fixed in their characters? Did God fix it there? Did God determine this for them? Did God decide they would be this way?] Can they enter heaven to dwell forever with those whom they despised and hated on earth? Truth will never be agreeable to a liar; meekness will not satisfy self-esteem and pride; purity is not acceptable to the corrupt; disinterested love does not appear attractive to the selfish. What source of enjoyment could heaven offer to those who are wholly absorbed in earthly and selfish interests? {GC 542.1}

Could those whose lives have been spent in rebellion against God be suddenly transported to heaven and witness the high, the holy state of perfection that ever exists there,-- every soul filled with love, every countenance beaming with joy, enrapturing music in melodious strains rising in honor of God and the Lamb, and ceaseless streams of light flowing upon the redeemed from the face of Him who sitteth upon the throne,--could those whose hearts are filled with hatred of God, of truth and holiness, mingle with the heavenly throng and join their songs of praise? Could they endure the glory of God and the Lamb? No, no; [why not? Because God is unwilling? Because God is using His power to cause some type of unpleasantness for them? Because God is taking some type of retribution against them? Listen why not:] years of probation were granted them, that they might form characters for heaven; but they have never trained the mind to love purity; they have never learned the language of heaven, and now it is too late. A life of rebellion against God has unfitted them for heaven. [What has happened to them? Why has it happened to them? Who did it to them?] Its purity, holiness, and peace would be torture to them; [what is the cause of their torture? Are the righteous tortured there? Why not, what is the difference?] the glory of God would be a consuming fire. [What kind of fire? Are the righteous in this fire? Why is it not harmful to them? Is this the fire of combustion? Does all matter, trees, plants etc, burn up in this fire?] They would long to flee from that holy place. They would welcome destruction, that they might be hidden from the face of Him who died to redeem them. The destiny of the wicked is fixed by their own choice. [Who fixed the destiny of the wicked? Who decided it? So what is God's judgment then? The accurate diagnosis of their condition, which they have chosen.] Their exclusion from heaven is voluntary with themselves, and just and merciful on the part of God. [If their exclusion from heaven is voluntary, then is it an infliction upon them by God? If it is voluntary then is it compelled upon them? Is coercion used?] {GC 542.2}

Like the waters of the Flood the fires of the great day declare God's verdict that the wicked are incurable. [What is God's judgment? That they are incurable, it is design law, the actual condition of each sinner who rejects the remedy Jesus procured] They have no disposition to submit to divine authority. Their will has been exercised in revolt; and when life is ended, it is too late to turn the current of their thoughts in the opposite direction, too late to turn from transgression to obedience, from hatred to love. {GC 543.1}

Remember this entire quote started with EGW talking about God's retributive justice—do we now have an understanding of what that is? It is always manifested through His design laws, which themselves are manifestations of His character of love.

This quote is another that demonstrates the same regarding the judgments of God.

"I was shown that the judgments of God would not come directly out from the Lord upon them, but in this way;

"They place themselves beyond His protection. [Whose choice determines this?] He warns, corrects, reproves, and points out the only path of safety; then if those who have been the objects of His special care will follow their own course, independent of the Spirit of God, after repeated warnings, if they choose their own way, then He does not commission His angels to prevent Satan's decided attacks upon them. [Whose agents are the source of attacks?]

"It is Satan's power that is at work at sea and on land, bringing calamity and distress, and sweeping off multitudes to make sure of his prey, and storm and tempest both by sea and land will be, for Satan has come down in great wrath. He is at work. He knows his time is short and, he is not restrained; we shall see more terrible manifestations of his great power than we have ever dreamed of."

Manuscript Release vol. 14, p. 3

Any view which has God as the source of artificially inflicted punishment for sin is not consistent with God and, in fact, is evidence of the infection of Satan's lies about God corrupting Christianity.

Those who like to quote EGW to support the idea that God is the source of inflicted pain and suffering distort her writings because they fail to harmonize her more declarative statements with where she has described what she means by such language.

Now, let's look at the lesson for this week—we will note that the infection of lies has deeply infected this week's lesson.

SABBATH

The memory text asks, “Can you search the deep things of God?” Job 11:7

Then the first paragraph states, “The problem of human suffering continues to daunt humanity. We see ‘good’ people suffer immense tragedy, while evil ones go unpunished in this life.”

First, does your mind become suspicious when the lesson quotes Zophar, one of Job's friends, who God later says was wrong as a source of wisdom?

Can we search the deep things of God? The suggestion of Zophar and the lesson is that we cannot. But what does the Bible say?

But if from there you seek the Lord your God, you will find him if you look for him with all your heart and with all your soul. DT 4:29

What did Jesus say?

“Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. ⁸ For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened. Mt 7:7,8

Can we find God by searching for Him? In fact, it is a requirement that we must have a desire for God, an interest, make a choice to want to know God, to seek Him.

Who would have us think that it is pointless to try and search to understand and know God?

Zophar's statement, cited by the lesson, is a subtle lie of Satan to discourage people and get them to give up and not seek to find God and the deep truths of God's character which He has revealed to us through Christ—including, not only the life history of Jesus, but also in what He has made so that men are without excuse! (Rom 1:20)

What about the idea that evil people go unpunished in this life?

This is evidence that those who wrote this lesson are operating under the lie that God's law functions like sinful human beings—imposed rules. The reason they say they go unpunished is because they don't see some authority arresting them and inflicting punishment upon them. This is how human law works.

It would be like the child who says, "All those other kids who are smoking and shooting up IV drugs haven't been arrested therefore they are going unpunished." Are people who smoke cigarettes, which are legal, going unpunished? When marijuana becomes legal and people smoke it legally will they go unpunished? Or will they still experience the punishment that deviations from the laws of health bring?

Mature people, those who understand God and His law, realize that people who abuse their bodies are being punished, with poor health, damaged brains, seared consciences and warped characters.

This is how it is with sin as well. A person can NEVER commit sin without damaging themselves! This is what the imposed law adherents don't understand, they think the problem with sin is a legal problem, rather than realizing it is an actual problem with our state of being.

SUNDAY

Read the first two paragraphs, "As if getting..." Is it true that God casts away sinners if they sin? No, this is a lie. The Bible is clear, "But God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us." Rom 5:8

The lesson then suggests this is ironic because Job offered animal sacrifices for the sins of his children.

What were animal sacrifices supposed to do had his children sinned?

Think about it? Okay your children are out sinning, say doing drugs, viewing porn, and you run out buy a goat and slaughter it and offer the dead animal to God—what is that supposed to do for your children? Will the slaughtered animal cause their health to improve, prevent their brains from being damage, avoid the searing of their consciences or warping of their characters? No! The animal sacrifice in that situation is based on a false understanding of reality that God is the problem your children need to be protected from, or the one who doesn't care enough to help without an animal being slaughtered to buy His help.

This is evidence that Job himself didn't have great understanding about God, His law, the nature of sin and God's plan of salvation.

Remember Hebrews makes it clear that the animal sacrifices were never able to cleanse the consciences of the worshippers. (Heb 9:14, 10:22)

And what does it suggest if one person could offer a sacrifice to God on behalf of another person who isn't even interested in turning away from their sin? Wouldn't such a God be arbitrary and untrustworthy—open to bribes if paid the right price?

How much of Christianity has Jesus in the role of Job offering His blood to the Father to persuade the Father to relent from anger, wrath and vengeance?

Further this description suggests that God actually needed sacrifices offered to Him. But what message did God send through His prophets?

Hosea 6:6

I want your constant love, not your animal sacrifices. I would rather have my people know me than burn offerings to me.

Third paragraph quotes Job 8:9, which says, “For we were born yesterday, and know nothing, because our days on earth are a shadow.”

How many times have you simply believed because someone quoted a Bible text, well it's the Bible it must be true?

Is it true that because we live a short time that we know nothing? Who wants us to believe that it is pointless for us to think we can know anything? Satan wants us to believe such lies, again this quote is Bildad, a person who God says is wrong!

What did Jesus say?

Now this is eternal life: that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent. Jn 17:3

The Bible teaches that we can know the truth about God and His methods, which results in eternal life. But the lesson authors are quoting Bildad to teach the idea that we live too short a life to know anything, so why bother.

TUESDAY

Read first two paragraphs, “Job’s three friends...”

Wow, the three fellows that God said were wrong about Him, the lesson is citing as sources of truth about God—there is something terribly wrong here. And what is it? The lesson authors have the same distorted view of God and His law that the friends of Job had and for which God had to chastise those friends.

Notice, they put God in the role of being the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death. This is a lie. God is the source of life, and sin breaks God's parameters for life and results in pain, suffering and death.

The lesson goes on to say in paragraph three, "Clearly the story of the Flood is an example of divine retribution for sin. In it, God brings punishment directly upon those who specifically deserved it."

This is so sad, people who are supposed to be leaders and teachers in the church, people who are supposed to be on meat, are still on milk and as such are not acquainted with the teaching about righteousness (Heb 5:13).

They take the story of the Flood and they view it through imposed law lenses and think God is punishing sin. Rather than realizing that the human race was infected with a terminal condition and would be eternally lost unless Jesus becomes incarnate to fix what Adam did to this creation. At that time in human history there was only one righteous man left on the earth through whom God could work and bring our Savior. The avenue for the Messiah was almost closed. God's actions were acts of mercy, not punishment, to keep open the avenue for the Messiah.

The lesson tries hard to make God out to be the kind of person the enemy suggests, in the last paragraph it states, "God wasn't simply abandoning sinners to their sin and letting that sin itself destroy them. As with the Flood, God was the direct agent of their punishment. He functioned here as the judge and destroyer of wickedness and evil."

What is wrong with this statement? Where are the lesson authors in error?

- They don't understand how God's law actually functions
- They put God in the role of using coercive power, which is found only under Satan's government
- They put God in the role of violating His own law, the law of love and liberty, which actually destroys love and incites rebellion
- They do not harmonize the Flood with historical facts of the Great Controversy and God working to keep open the avenue for the Messiah
- Within their own false legal view they now have God punishing sin before the judgment, which would be unjust to do
- They fail to recognize that first death is not the Biblical punishment for sin and therefore they draw a false conclusion that God is punishing sin
- They fail to understand how God actually does destroy wickedness and evil, which itself is a revelation that they don't truly understand what wickedness and evil are. Their suggested method would actually perpetuate wickedness and evil.

- The only way to eradicate lies is with truth; and the only way to eradicate selfishness is with love, thus the prevailing power in God's government is truth and love, but they have God using methods of force, which can never work.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Many instances of..."

This is an interpretation of events, based on viewing through imposed law, another understanding is that God is always acting therapeutically to keep open the avenue for the Messiah and that no punishment for sin has been inflicted by God.

That does not mean God has not acted to put some people to sleep in the first death—He did do that. But first death is not punishment for sin and those who make that argument create a lie, one they themselves acknowledge when they instantly admit that Daniel and other righteous people who have fallen asleep in the first death did not receive the punishment of sin. So on the one hand they state Daniel did not die as a punishment for sin, and his death is the same death as the wicked, the death of sleep, but then they claim the sleep death is the punishment for sin.

The lesson states, "The Old Testament is filled with promise after promise of the blessings and prosperity that God would directly bring to His people were they to obey Him."

What do you think of this? How does it make God's blessings sound? How does it make God's law and character sound? This is the other side of the arbitrary coin that God functions like a mafia boss, rewarding those who do what he says but punishing those who don't. They present God as the God-Father rather than Father-God.

It is all distorted from accepted Satan's lies about God's law.

Remember what Jesus said:

"You have heard that it was said, 'Love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' ⁴⁴ But I tell you: Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, ⁴⁵ that you may be sons of your Father in heaven. He causes his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous. ⁴⁶ If you love those who love you, what reward will you get? Are not even the tax collectors doing that? ⁴⁷ And if you greet only your brothers, what are you doing more than others? Do not even pagans do that? ⁴⁸ Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect. Mt 5:43-48

The lesson authors are doing exactly what the religious leaders in Christ's day did, they make God out to be functioning on the same level as sinful human beings, rewarding those who do what He says and punishing those who do not. Jesus refuted this, and they crucified Him for it. So too today, religious leaders who hold to this distorted view end up attacking those who present the God that Jesus revealed.

The third paragraph states, “Of course, the Old Testament also is filled with warning after warning about direct divine punishment that would come for disobedience.”

This is true, there are such warnings, the question is why? And how do we understand such warnings?

Sadly, many people have never learned how to examine evidence and instead base their beliefs on declarative statements, rather than evidence of what actually happened.

When we hear a husband say, as his is violently beating his wife, “I only do this because I love you.” Should we believe his words that he loves his wife because he said so? Or, do we recognize what is happening and realize we cannot go by what is said?

To believe the husband who beats his wife loves her because he uses the words “I love you” would be an example of believing a declarative statement while ignoring the evidence.

Likewise, if we hear a parent screaming threats to a child who is riding their tricycle toward oncoming traffic, should we conclude that the parent will inflict retribution if the child rides into the oncoming cars?

So how do we understand God speaking so threateningly in the Old Testament? First, look at what the people were doing, then look at what God actually did.

The last paragraph references Korah, Dathan and Abiram those following them, and then states:

“Given the nature of how the rebels were destroyed, this incident cannot be chalked up to the idea of ‘sin bringing its own punishment.’”

Do you see what the authors are trying to do? They are trying to make the case that God is the source of inflicted punishment for sin. This is their argument, if you think through what they are actually describing they are saying:

There is nothing wrong with sin itself, there is only something wrong with God who will punish you for sin. If God would only get some anger control and not use His power to inflict punishment, we could live eternally in sin because sin doesn’t actually harm and there isn’t anything wrong with sin, other than God will punish you for it.

This is Satan’s view of God and God’s government. It is false.

Further, they create a lie to make their argument. They are saying that the punishment for sin is the first sleep death, which we all know is false, but they use it to try and make their case. If they would acknowledge the truth that the first death is NOT the punishment for sin, then they would have to step back and say, wait, then what God did here was not punish sin. Then what was God doing? God was working to keep open the avenue for the Messiah!

God was teaching those still capable of learning, while simultaneously suspending in time those who were beyond healing.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “Certainly the greatest...”

From what we have read so far in this lesson can you assess and diagnose accurately the problems in this paragraph?

What type of law is this paragraph based upon? Imposed law—why? Because they teach that punishment must be inflicted, in other words that if God doesn’t inflict it then it doesn’t happen, which means they are teaching God’s law functions no different than the laws sinners make.

This is a lie. The message of the 3 angels is to worship Him who made the heavens... to worship the Creator whose laws are those upon which reality is actually constructed.

Sadly, we find that the authors are teaching that God is the source of death, not sin.

This idea, that God is the source of death, means that the authors are teaching Eastern Mysticism, dualism, that we live in a universe with eternal good and evil, eternal life and death, all found in the character of God. It is a lie.

Read the second paragraph of the lesson, from the book The Great Controversy: “Fire comes down from God...”

This is an interesting quote as they cut this from a chapter which describes something quite different than this passage in isolation suggests. Here are some further quotations from the same chapter, I suggest reading it in its entirety:

At last the order to advance is given, and the countless host moves on--an army such as was never summoned by earthly conquerors, such as the combined forces of all ages since war began on earth could never equal. Satan, the mightiest of warriors, leads the van, and his angels unite their forces for this final struggle. Kings and warriors are in his train, and the multitudes follow in vast companies, each under its appointed leader. With military precision the serried ranks advance over the earth's broken and uneven surface to the City of God. By command of Jesus, the gates of the New Jerusalem are closed, and the armies of Satan surround the city and make ready for the onset. {GC 664.3}

Now Christ again appears to the view of His enemies. Far above the city, upon a foundation of burnished gold, is a throne, high and lifted up. Upon this throne sits the Son of God, and around Him are the subjects of His kingdom. The power and majesty of Christ no language can describe, no pen portray. The glory of the Eternal Father is enshrouding His Son. The brightness of His presence fills the City of God, and flows out beyond the gates, flooding the whole earth with its radiance. {GC 665.1}

As soon as the books of record are opened, and the eye of Jesus looks upon the wicked, they are conscious of every sin which they have ever committed. They see just where their feet diverged from the path of purity and holiness, just how far pride and rebellion have carried them in the violation of the law of God. The seductive temptations which they encouraged by indulgence in sin, the blessings perverted, the messengers of God despised, the warnings rejected, the waves of mercy beaten back by the stubborn, unrepentant heart--all appear as if written in letters of fire. {GC 666.2}

It is now evident to all that the wages of sin is not noble independence and eternal life, but slavery, ruin, and death. The wicked see what they have forfeited by their life of rebellion... All see that their exclusion from heaven is just. By their lives they have declared: "We will not have this Man [Jesus] to reign over us." {GC 668.3}

The aim of the great rebel has ever been to justify himself and to prove the divine government responsible for the rebellion. To this end he has bent all the power of his giant intellect. He has worked deliberately and systematically, and with marvelous success, leading vast multitudes to accept his version of the great controversy which has been so long in progress. For thousands of years this chief of conspiracy has palmed off falsehood for truth. But the time has now come when the rebellion is to be finally defeated and the history and character of Satan disclosed. [How? In the minds of all loyal by persuading them of truth] In his last great effort to dethrone Christ, destroy His people, and take possession of the City of God, the archdeceiver has been fully unmasked. Those who have united with him see the total failure of his cause. Christ's followers and the loyal angels behold the full extent of his machinations against the government of God. He is the object of universal abhorrence. {GC 670.1}

Satan sees that his voluntary rebellion has unfitted him for heaven. He has trained his powers to war against God; the purity, peace, and harmony of heaven would be to him supreme torture... {GC 670.2}

Fire comes down from God out of heaven. The earth is broken up. The weapons concealed in its depths are drawn forth. Devouring flames burst from every yawning chasm. The very rocks are on fire. The day has come that shall burn as an oven. The elements melt with fervent heat, the earth also, and the works that are therein are burned up. Malachi 4:1; 2 Peter 3:10. The earth's surface seems one molten mass--a vast, seething lake of fire. It is the time of the judgment and perdition of ungodly men--"the day of the Lord's vengeance, and the year of recompenses for the controversy of Zion." Isaiah 34:8. {GC 672.2}

While the earth was wrapped in the fire of destruction, the righteous abode safely in the Holy City. Upon those that had part in the first resurrection, the second death has no power. While God is to the wicked a consuming fire, He is to His people both a sun and a shield. Revelation 20:6; Psalm 84:11. {GC 673.3}

"I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away." Revelation 21:1. The fire that consumes the wicked purifies the earth. Every trace of the curse is swept away. No eternally burning hell will keep before the ransomed the fearful consequences of sin. {GC 674.1}

What do you hear? Do you remember how the law of love and liberty work? Do you harmonize the earlier quotes where no coercion will be used by God, that no compelling power employed?

So, we have two fires, one that destroys sin, which is the fire of God's presence, and from which the wicked cannot hide and in which some suffer longer as truth burns through the lies they have used to avoid the reality of their own wicked condition. Satan with the most lies suffers the longest, but in the end, the death of all are voluntary with themselves. Then AFTER they are all dead, another fire, the fire of combustion, which melts matter, but can never remove or cleanse from sin, burns away the physical defects sinners perpetrated upon God's creation and God recreates the earth anew.

FRIDAY

Read and discuss the questions.

The Book of Job Lesson 8 4Q 2016

Innocent Blood

SABBATH

What comes to mind from the title? In Scripture, whose blood is the innocent blood?

When Scripture refers to the blood of the lamb, or the blood of the sacrificial offering, is this to be taken literally? Is it talking about literal red corpuscles?

To what is the blood referring? The life of the creature is in the blood Lev 17:11—so the blood is a metaphor, a symbol of the life.

In this case, then, the life of Jesus, and was Jesus life a sinful or sinless life? A sinless life! So the blood of Jesus is symbolic of the sinless life of Jesus.

Why is this important? How was the blood of the sacrificial animal to be utilized? It was to be applied to various points in the sanctuary. Consider what the implications of that are—the sinless life being taken throughout.

Did the blood of the sacrificial animal have any impact on saving sinners? Why or why not?

I was listening to Christian radio the week before Easter 2016 when someone called in and asked the two guest theologians to discuss the purpose of animal sacrifices in the Old Testament Jewish system. Sadly there answer is revealed how deeply the infection of imposed law has penetrated Christianity:

First theologian: The reason in Leviticus 17 is that there has to be punishment with death for sin, and so in Leviticus 17 when the animal sacrificial system is being established it says this, Leviticus 17:10 “Any Israelite or any alien living among them who eats any blood—I will set my face against that person who eats blood and will cut him off from his people. For the life of a creature is in the blood, and I have given it to you to make atonement for yourselves on the altar; it is the blood that makes atonement for one’s life.” See blood represents life and there has to be the punishment of death for sin, so therefore an animal had to take the punishment and give its life—it’s blood—so that the offerer could live. That was the substitution. What my former professor here at Moody used to call, the exchange of life. Louis Goldberg called it that, the exchange of life. The animal dies, the person lives. And so that’s the reason for the Old Testament sacrifice for atonement.”

Second theologian: “A couple of things in the New Testament. In Luke’s gospel it talks about how on the night that he was betrayed and Jesus was having the Passover meal “And in the same way He took the cup after they had eaten, saying, “This cup which is poured out for you is the new covenant in My blood.” That is it's the death of Jesus that comes about because of his blood loss among other things, his blood loss as well is the thing whereby he was our atoning sacrifice. His death is required for us as well in order to save us. Paul talks about in Romans 5:9 “Much more then, having now been justified by His blood, we shall be saved from the wrath of God through Him.” And so it's very much the same principle. In the Old Testament, the death of an animal was required to take care of the human sin problem and now we have not the death of an animal but of the very Son of God who dies for us. And so his loss of blood is the thing whereby he succumbed on our behalf.¹

Are these theologians correct? Was the blood of the animal necessary for sinners to be saved?

The writer of Hebrews tried to help the New Testament church break out of such thinking by reminding them that “the gifts and sacrifices being offered were not able to clear the conscience of the worshiper. They are only a matter of food and drink and various ceremonial washings—external regulations applying until the time of the new order... But those sacrifices are an annual reminder of sins, because it is impossible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins.” (Heb 9:9,10; 10:3,4 emphasis mine)

Animal sacrifices could never—at any time in human history—take care of the sin problem, because they could not cleanse the conscience, transform the heart, or renew the character, which is required to save sinners. God has had his spokespersons telling humans this throughout our entire history:

- “The multitude of your sacrifices— what are they to me?” says the LORD. “I have more than enough of burnt offerings, of rams and the fat of fattened animals; I have no pleasure in the blood of bulls and lambs and goats... wash and make yourselves clean. Take your evil deeds out of my sight! Stop doing wrong, learn to do right! Seek justice, encourage the oppressed. Defend the cause of the fatherless, plead the case of the widow.” (Isa 1:11,16,17)
- With what shall I come before the LORD and bow down before the exalted God? Shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves a year old?
Will the LORD be pleased with thousands of rams, with ten thousand rivers of oil? Shall I offer my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul? He has showed you, O man, what is good. And what does the LORD require of you? To act justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with your God. (Mic 6:6-8)

But perhaps Hosea puts what God wants, what he has always wanted and been working to achieve, most succinctly: “I want your constant love, not your animal sacrifices. I would rather have my people know me than burn offerings to me.” (Hos 6:6 GNT)¹

<http://www.moodyradio.org/Chris-Fabry-Live/2016/03-2016/2016-03-23---The-Centurion---Bible-Q---A/> The second hour beginning at minute 12:25, guests quoted Michael Vanlaningham and Michael Rydelnik.

What is God saying through His prophets He wants? He wants transformation of the hearts, minds, and characters of His children. He wants love restored in them as the way of living. He wants them to be reunited in heart with Him. This is seeing blood as life, and the blood circles in the animal which is object lesson for the circle of love, the principle of giving.

But there is a problem in what the theologians on the radio described and what many Christians think about the innocent blood. What is the problem, and why do good people think this way?

- The problem is they don't see the blood as representative of sinless life, they see the blood as representative of death, the death of the sinless life. Why?
- They are operating through the wrong law lens, thinking that God's law functions like human law and wrongly believe sin must be punished, and thus a life has to be taken.

What did Jesus say regarding His blood?

Jesus said to them, "I tell you the truth, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. ⁵⁴ Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day. ⁵⁵ For my flesh is real food and my blood is real drink. ⁵⁶ Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood remains in me, and I in him. ⁵⁷ Just as the living Father sent me and I live because of the Father, so the one who feeds on me will live because of me. John 6:53-57

Was Jesus talking cannibalism? Then what was Jesus talking about? Did Jesus here have in mind any connection to the blood of the sacrificial system? When John the Baptist referred to Jesus as the Lamb of God that takes away the sin of the world, was he connecting Jesus to the symbolic system?

Was Jesus suggesting in His metaphorical use of ingesting His blood that we should be ingesting death? Or that we should be partakers of the divine nature?

- Are we the temple of God?
- Does this connect to the OT sanctuary?
- Was the OT system designed to teach us about how the life of Christ gets restored back into God's Spirit Temple?
- Is it a problem if we instead teach the blood represents death?

If a person views the sin problem as a legal problem, then they wrongly conclude that justice requires the infliction of the death penalty by the ruling authority upon the guilty. But, God instead inflicts the death penalty upon His innocent Son whose death is legally accepted as the proper payment either to God or the law for our just punishment. The blood then becomes symbolic of death, the death of the innocent Son of God, that pays the death penalty.

All of this is wrong and is based on the wrong law concept.

Under design law, we realize that sin is a condition of being, which is out of harmony with God and His design for life. This condition is terminal unless remedied. No human being, born of a sinful mother and father, could cure the condition and develop a perfect sinless character and restore God's design back into humanity. So Jesus came, and took upon Himself the terminal condition, through being incarnate—the humanity that He received from His mother—but Jesus also, because His Father was the Holy Spirit had a sinless mind which He could exercise overcome the infection of fear and selfishness and develop a perfect character thus restoring God's design back into the species human.

Thus the blood is really symbolic of the sinless life of Jesus, the perfect character He developed as a human being living in a sinful world!

What does it mean to ingest His flesh and blood? As meat is made of molecules which are nutritional building blocks to the body, so Jesus is the truth, the living Word of God and it is the truth, the ideas, the reality of Jesus which becomes the building blocks of our thoughts, ideas and ultimately our beliefs which restore us to trust in God. In trust we open the heart to God and via the Holy Spirit God pours His perfect character of love into our hearts and this is what the blood symbolizes, the life of God, the nature and character of God is love and thus we become partakers of the divine nature when we die to self and live to love! This is partaking of the flesh and blood of Jesus. This is design law, how things are created to function and has nothing to do with any legal penalties being paid.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Eliphaz, Bildad..." What do you think when the lesson authors use people that God specifically chastises for saying the wrong thing about Him, as having good points? What is the specific, so called, good point the lesson authors use these people to try and make? That God is the source of inflicted punishment.

What does this reveal?

It sadly reveals that the authors are operating upon the wrong law construct, viewing reality through the lens that God's laws function like the laws that sinful human beings make, therefore they wrongly conclude God must punish.

If sin is punished by God, and Christ became sin who knew no sin, then who killed Christ? There are those in Christianity who teach, because they have the wrong concept of the law, that God, not Satan, is the one who killed Jesus at the cross.

But does any inspired source teach that? No! All the inspired sources teach that God didn't lay a hand on Jesus, but that Jesus died from the combination of physical abuse and His Father letting go and not intervening to prevent what was happening to Jesus.

Read second paragraph, “At times of great...” Any concerns with the assumptions in the questions?

What is the assumption in this question, “Why, Lord, did You bother to create me at all?”

- That individual human beings are created directly by God, by God’s direct creative power and action—is this true?
- Did God create the human species? Yes, where? In Eden.
- What was the condition of Adam and Eve when God created them? Perfect and sinless.
- Does inspiration teach that God had a direct hand in the creation of any other individual human? Yes, who? Jesus, and what was the condition of Jesus—sinless!
- Does the Bible teach that God gave Adam and Eve an ability, in perfection before sin, the ability to pro-create, to create beings in their image?
- Did God take that ability away from them when they sinned?
- The Bible teaches we are born in sin, conceived in iniquity. (Ps 51:5) Does God create sin and iniquity? No, then why are we born this way? Because Adam and Eve corrupted themselves and human beings possess the ability to create beings in their image.
- When a man rapes a woman and she becomes pregnant—is that an act of God? No, it is an abuse of an ability God gave mankind.
- So, who decided, that each of us as individuals would be here? Our parents—if my parents would have chosen to skip intimate relations the month I was conceived, I would not exist. My mother had one ovum and my father had one sperm that could combine to make me. Any other combination would be one of my siblings—I have two siblings and they are not me!

Does this idea make anyone uncomfortable? Or does it free us from some terrible ideas being taught about God—like God creates sinners, or God creates diseased and defective beings—persons born with various congenital defects? And if God is the one creating then a person born with congenital defects means that God wants that person born with the various defects to be that way? Such an idea is distorted, wrong, and makes God out to be a being unworthy of our trust. This is based on the lie, the distortion that God creates each individual personally, directly from heaven, like He created Adam and Eve. Such a view demonstrates ignorance of how reality works.

What is the assumption in this question, “Why are You doing this to me?”

- That God is the source of inflicted pain, suffering, tribulations, trials
- That God, as Sovereign, directly causes all things to happen as they do
- That it is God’s will for things to be this way

What is the problem with this type of thinking? What kind of God would such a being be?

Job 10:7 states, “Although You know that I am not wicked, and there is not one who can deliver from Your hand.”

What falsehood is Job struggling with in this passage? That God is the One we must be delivered from—is that true? Who wants us to think we must seek to be delivered or saved from God?

What theologies are currently being taught in Christianity that teach this same idea?

- Jesus died to pay the Father so the Father won't kill us
- Covered by the robe of righteousness so the Father won't see us
- Covered by the blood so the Father will see the blood and realize payment has been made and relent His angry wrath
- The blood applied to record books to erase the record of sins so the Father won't find the record and have to punish us
- Having Jesus, by Himself or along with Mary and the saints, plead to the Father to turn Him away from hurting us

Notice, many theologies are designed to protect us from God rather than reconcile us to God—who wants us to believe we need to be protected from God? Satan wants us to think this, thus he has infected humanity and Christianity with the false imposed law construct and we end up teaching that God is the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death, and ultimately create theologies that separate us from God.

Read the fourth paragraph, “There’s a difficult irony...” Why didn’t Job know?

- Didn’t God reveal to Adam and Eve a conflict over His character with an enemy who is the source of sin and death?
- What prevented Job from knowing this?
- Was God hiding the information?
- Was God restrictive with the truth?
- Or is Job’s very struggle to understand the truth evidence of the depths of Satan’s lies and distortions about God?
- Does this give us insight into New Testament passages like:
 - Now to him who is able to establish you by my gospel and the proclamation of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery hidden for long ages past,²⁶ but now revealed and made known through the prophetic writings by the command of the eternal God... Rom 16:25,26 what is the mystery? When is it being made known? Now, Paul’s day, through what? The prophetic writings, when were they available? Then why was the mystery being made know in Paul’s day if the writings were available for centuries before? Because Jesus had come to make clear God’s true nature and character and refute the falsehoods of Satan and thus the Scriptures can be understood in their true meaning. So what caused the mystery, the obscuring of truth, difficulty in seeing God’s true character? Satan’s lies about God!
 - No, we speak of God’s secret wisdom, a wisdom that has been hidden [hidden by whom?] and that God destined for our glory before time began. [If God intended this wisdom for our glory, was He the one hiding it? No! What wisdom would this be? The truth of God’s character of love!] ⁸ None of the rulers of this age understood it, for if they had, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory. [Why didn’t they understand it? Because they accepted the lie that God's laws function like human laws and therefore God is a god who inflicts punishment, i.e. rules like the worldly rulers rule. And adopting such a view of God prevents people from being glorified, or transformed in character to be like God. Why? By beholding we become changed—the law of worship, we become like the God we worship—design law.] 2Cor 2:7,8

- Although I am less than the least of all God's people, this grace was given me: to preach to the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ,⁹ and to make plain to everyone the administration of this mystery, which for ages past was kept hidden in God, who created all things. [What was the mystery hidden that is to be administered now? The truth about God as revealed in Christ. What kept this hidden? Did God hide it? No Satan's lies about God obscured the truth until Christ came and revealed it.]¹⁰ His intent was that now, through the church, the manifold wisdom of God should be made known to the rulers and authorities in the heavenly realms,¹¹ according to his eternal purpose which he accomplished in Christ Jesus our Lord. Eph 3:8-11 [What wisdom is the church to make known? The truth of God's character and nature of love—which will enlighten the rulers and authorities in the universe! This is God's ETERNAL purpose, does this connect with another passage of Scripture? Revelation 14—I saw another angel flying through heaven with the ETERNAL GOSPEL, what is the eternal good news? The truth of God's character of love which has been hidden by the lies of Satan! And the end-time church is to reveal that character—sadly the church instead is infected with Satan's view of God's law and has taken a dictator view of God to the world.]

What was the mystery that was hidden? Who hid it? Who obscured this truth? And what reveals it?

Do you think that had Job understood the Great Controversy elements going on he would have been more bitter and felt worse?

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, "On the other hand..." thoughts? What do you hear?

What level of moral development is being presented? This is at best level four legal thinking of the human law construct paradigm.

If an HIV infected man and woman got together and had an HIV infected baby, what did the baby do wrong? Is the baby innocent of any wrong doing? Yes, but does the baby still have a condition that the baby did not personally choose, that if not remedy will result in death?

This is the condition of sin. Adam and Eve chose to change their very nature, their condition, and we are born with this condition that we did not choose. Thus we are born dead in trespass and sin—i.e. terminal—but Jesus came to remedy the condition. Thus we as individuals are innocent of having the condition, i.e. it is not our individual fault, but we are not innocent of rejecting the remedy—if we refuse to partake of Christ and what He provides!

The last paragraph states “Job knew that what was happening to him was not something that he deserved.”

What level of moral development is this? This is level 1-4:

- level 1—reward and punishment—get punished for doing something wrong, so bad outcomes are not fair unless one does something wrong. Level one—Job didn’t deserve this because he didn’t do wrong.
- level 2—market place exchange—punishment here is only appropriate if one didn’t keep their part of the bargain. Job did his part, even offered extra sacrifices, so what happened wasn’t deserved.
- level 3—social conformity—punishment is appropriate when one deviates from group rules, but Job didn’t so he didn’t deserve what was happening.
- Level 4—law and order—punishment is proper when one breaks the law and the punishment inflicted is appropriate to the crime. Job didn’t break the law so he didn’t deserve to be punished.

This idea that Job didn’t deserve what happened is based on level 1-4 thinking, which is based on misunderstanding God’s law and how reality functions.

- level 5—love for others—love only exists in an atmosphere of freedom, and therefore one who loves grants others genuine freedom—even it is freedom to not love in return. In a world where love is not supreme pain and suffering happens to innocent people who do love others because they are willing to sacrifice self for the good of others—even their enemies. A movie Hacksaw Ridge came out this weekend, it is about the true story of Desmond Doss. Did Desmond Doss deserve the right to love others more than self? And what transpired by his love for God and others in this world where love does not reign supreme in all hearts? Did Desmond Doss lose out because he loved? Or did his faithfulness to God’s methods ultimately not only win for him personally, in his development of character, but won many others over from selfishness to love, and continues to do so?
- level 6—principle based living—understanding the design protocols for life—suffering happens when deviations from design happen, whether one chooses to deviate themselves or not. So, if a tree falls on your house and crushes your leg, the broken leg and pain are what is deserved when a tree falls on you. Or, if one drinks water contaminated with toxins and later develops cancer, cancer is what is deserved when such toxins are ingested.
 - Does the worm deserve to be eaten by the bird?
 - Does the bird deserve to be eaten by the cat?
 - Why does it happen? Because the law of sin and death has infected God’s design.

- Does the truth deserve to be revealed so sentient beings can make intelligent choices of which method they prefer?
- level 7—Understanding Friend of God—not only love for others and understanding design, but understanding and participating in God’s purposes.
 - God is working to resolve the problem of sin, to eradicate deviations from His design and restore the universe to perfection—but always in harmony with His character and methods—which means via the principles of truth, love and liberty.
 - Did Joseph get what he deserved? Did Joseph stay loyal to God and did God allow events to happen for a larger purpose? Yes, the saving of Joseph’s family and the protection of the avenue through which Messiah would come, and thus saving of the human species. Further, through this story the object lesson and teaching which has inspired millions through time, thus working to save untold numbers. And in Joseph’s life personally, did Joseph benefit from the way things unfolded both here and eternally? So, Joseph trusted God and experienced what? Healing of mind and character, which is what is deserved i.e. what happens when one trusts God, not deserved in the imposed law sense of what one earns and has arbitrarily bestowed, but deserved in the design law sense as in what happens when one is reconciled to God!
 - Thus in the life of Job, God had a greater purpose in mind than just Job’s personal health and welfare, God is concerned with the millions of people through history who have needed the lessons that Job’s life brings to help them not be duped into a false system of thinking
 - Further—let’s look at Tuesday’s lesson which brings in another point about death

TUESDAY

What do you think of the last paragraph “We face similar...” How do we understand it?

What of the assumption that the earthquake was a punishment for sin? Was it? Why would the authors assume that death in an earthquake was a punishment for sin? And if it wasn’t a punishment for sin, why was there death not fair?

This is based on such a severe warped understanding of reality.

God’s reality is that He created humans to live eternally, to never die, but sin infected His creation causing pain, suffering and eternal death, and without the remedy achieved by Christ all humans would die eternally.

If someone experiences the first death, what Jesus and the Bible authors called the sleep death—is that the punishment for sin? No! Why does it exist? Because of God’s grace, this first—sleep—death is an artificial state of being that is not the natural result of sin, but permitted to reduce the pain and suffering caused by sin while the plan of salvation is being carried out.

Further, from God's perspective, everyone who dies the first (sleep) death dies young, whether at 969 or at age 1—all die young.

Consider a rope from here to our sun, which is 93 million miles long. This is still finite, a true analogy would be an infinite rope with no end, but we cannot comprehend that. So, a rope 93 million miles long, and every inch on that rope represents one year of life. Is there a significant difference between 1 inch and 969 inches on a rope 93 million miles long? No, all humans die young. God is not primarily interested in how long one lives this life on earth; His primary interest is in healing the hearts and minds of people so they live eternally!

Thus this idea of it not being fair to die in an earthquake is quite distorted. This is a passage from EGW, one of the founders of the SDA church. Here she describes a vision she had:

I was shown the saints' reward, the immortal inheritance. Then I was shown how much God's people had endured for the truth's sake, and that they would count heaven cheap enough. They reckoned that the sufferings of this present time were not worthy to be compared with the glory which should be revealed in them. The people of God in these last days will be tried. But soon their last trial will come, and then they will receive the gift of eternal life. {1T 432.2}

Or if you prefer the same idea from Scripture:

Therefore we do not lose heart. Though outwardly we are wasting away, yet inwardly we are being renewed day by day. ¹⁷ For our light and momentary troubles are achieving for us an eternal glory that far outweighs them all. 2Cor 4:16,17

Read the third paragraph, "In the Sermon on the Mount..." They quoted the KJV of MT 6:34, here it is from the NIV:

Therefore do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own.

What does it mean?

The title of the day's lesson is "Sufficient for the Day" what do you think of with this title?

"And as thy days, so shall thy strength be." Dt 33:25

Or Jesus prayed: "Give us each day our daily bread." Luke 11:3

This is a principle of how God works—we get the strength for today, today. We don't get the strength for tomorrow today. Many people worry about future events and burden themselves with tomorrow's problems today and thus feel overwhelmed and exhausted, why? Because they are not given the strength for tomorrow, or next week, or next month today, they are only given the strength for today!

THURSDAY

Read last paragraph, "Still, it's hard..." What is the point the lesson is trying to get us to accept? Are they trying to suggest that when things don't make sense we should simply believe and not think?

But, shouldn't trials and difficulties causes us to step back and reevaluate our current understanding and seek greater wisdom and insight?

Consider it pure joy, my brothers, whenever you face trials of many kinds, 3 because you know that the testing of your faith develops perseverance. 4 Perseverance must finish its work so that you may be mature and complete, not lacking anything. 5 If any of you lacks wisdom, he should ask God, who gives generously to all without finding fault, and it will be given to him. James 1:2-5

It has been said that pain is fertilizer for the soul—it is during times of difficulty that people are open to the most growth and change. It is during trials and hardships that people are open to reevaluate and mature.

What of the person who pays a faithful tithe, attends church regularly, eats the right foods, doesn't look at objectionable material, yet has their wife divorce them—is it opportunity to evaluate why? What if they discover they governed their home with an authoritarian hand: rules, intimidation, restriction of liberty, and they discovered that such methods destroy love and incite rebellion and they come to a new way of living? Was the pain, the suffering, the heart break of divorce a punishment by God?

Why, in that circumstance, did the trial come?

What would happen if the man simply said, "I have faith in God. I didn't cheat on my wife. She is the sinner not me." and doesn't seek to learn from the problem?

The lesson states we need to learn to trust in the goodness of God—but what if the God construct one has isn't good?

I have many patients who are told they need to trust God, and they say, "I know it's bad that I don't trust Him." I challenge that, and ask them to describe the God they believe in and they invariably describe a God who:

- threatens to kill them if they don't love him
- threatens to burn them in hell
- who must punish wrong-doing
- who they seek to be protected from
- who doesn't make any sense to them

Thus, their inability to trust God is directly related to the multitude of distorted ideas they have been taught about God, yet they are told they should simply trust in His goodness, when in their heart they don't believe God is good.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

January 20, 21, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at The Haven in St. Helena, California

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Book of Job Lesson 9 4Q 2016

Intimations of Hope

SABBATH

Read memory text, “He also shall be my salvation, for a hypocrite could not come before Him.” Job 13:16

What does the memory text mean? Is it to be taken literally? Do we read this and say, “Well the Bible said it, so I believe it!” Or do we think about it?

Is this verse a statement of cosmic reality—eternal truth, or is it a statement that merely reveals Job’s understanding and Job’s perspective, i.e. the way Job was thinking?

Have intelligent beings who were hypocrites come before God?

- How many hypocrites came before Jesus and Jesus Himself identified them as hypocrites? Is Jesus God? So at least in that setting we know hypocrites can come before God.
- What about in heaven, the eternal glory of God? Can hypocrites come before God in heaven?
- Did Lucifer in heaven, at some point become a hypocrite, claiming he wanted the good of others but in reality was sewing rebellion?
- Did Satan come before God in heaven after walking around on the earth? Did Satan continue to make claims that he wanted a better way than God?

Is every passage of Scripture a revelation of eternal truth, or are there many passages of Scripture that are merely the record of what a person was thinking, their ideas, their struggles, their beliefs?

If this is so, what does it mean for how we understand Scripture? Should we take the approach that Scripture should be followed blindly; or that Scripture should be read, understood for what it was intended, and inquire if any principle applies to us today, but NOT simply quote a text and follow it blindly?

Example:

Now about virgins: I have no command from the Lord, but I give a judgment as one who by the Lord’s mercy is trustworthy. ²⁶ Because of the present crisis, I think that it is good for you to remain as you are. ²⁷ Are you married? Do not seek a divorce. Are you unmarried? Do not look for a wife. ²⁸ But if you do marry, you have not sinned; and if a virgin marries, she has not sinned. But those who marry will face many troubles in this life, and I want to spare you this. ²⁹ What I mean, brothers, is that the time is short. From now on those who have wives should live as if they had none; ³⁰ those who mourn, as if they did not; those who are happy, as if they were not; those who buy something, as if it were not theirs to keep; ³¹ those who use the things of the world, as if not engrossed in them. For this world in its present form is passing away.

1Cor 7:25-31

Is this passage a directive from God?

Paul himself says that it is not, that it is merely Paul's perspective or judgment on the issue. Was Paul correct? Was time short? Was the world about to end? Was it wise counsel for all Christians who were single to stay single and not have Christian families? What would have happened? Is this passage then, merely reflecting what Paul thought was happening?

If Paul was incorrect on this topic, does that mean Paul was not inspired by God? No, it does not mean that! It means that Paul was a finite human being, who received inspired insights into some issues, but did not receive inspired insight into others. Thus, he could be wrong on certain topics—just as Peter was wrong about who he associated with and Paul had to confront and correct him—but this didn't mean Peter was not inspired by God.

What about others who have been gifted with the gift of prophecy, could they also be wrong on certain topics or perspectives? Could they write things with good motives and good intentions, but actually not be accurate in their own understanding of what is happening?

Does this make anyone uncomfortable? Why? When we are young we experience a sense of security and safety when we trust someone else to take care of the problems, to tell us the answers. Children feel safe when a parent, grandparent, teacher, some authority figure gives them the answers they seek.

Sadly, however, some people never grow up and learn to think for themselves, instead they continue to look for some authority to tell them the answer without thinking. They often defer to church authority, pastor, priest, committee, Biblical Research Institute, Catechism, Fundamental Beliefs or Creeds. These are the ones who use Scripture and other writings as proof texts and often as spiritual clubs, thoughtlessly taking passages and using them as blunt instruments to smash others into submission to their way of thinking. Sadly this approach is not consistent with how God functions or what Scripture teaches and ends up causing damage in their own lives and the lives of others.

What is the primary purpose of Scripture? Scripture is a revelation of God to man, it is a recorded history of the battle between God and His methods of truth, love and freedom against Satan and his methods of lies, selfishness and coercion. It is a history documenting how deviations from God's design destroy and God through Christ heals.

Scripture is intended, not as a rule book of deeds to be done and sins to be shunned, but a window into history to help us look and see how the two methods work and the outcomes that occur when the two methods are applied so we can determine who to trust and which methods to apply to our lives!

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “Whatever one wants to say...” What is the “truth” and the “error” to which the lesson refers? The lesson last week said that the error from Job’s friends was their alleging he was being punished by God, the truth, according the lesson, is that God does inflict punishment for sin. Is this the truth? Or has the lesson authors been caught up in a lie?

In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. {DA 761.4}

Whose argument is it that God must punish sin? Why is this argument made? What is the underlying rationale for such an idea? It is an attack on God’s law—the idea that God’s law functions like the laws that created beings make, rules without inherent consequence; thus God is required to use His power to inflict pain, suffering and punishment. This argument causes the natural fear of disobeying God’s law (design protocols) to shift away from the destructive action—the sin itself—to instead lead one to be afraid of a god who is described as being the source of inflicted punishment. This undermines trust in God. Further, it casts God as a being not worthy of our trust, a being who functions no differently that we do.

Understanding this EGW wrote explicitly that God is not to be regarded as waiting to punish sinners, but sin brings its own punishment, just as Scripture teaches—the wages of sin is death, sin when full grown brings forth death...

We are not to regard God as waiting to punish the sinner for his sin. The sinner brings the punishment upon himself. His own actions start a train of circumstances that bring the sure result. Every act of transgression reacts upon the sinner, works in him a change of character, and makes it more easy for him to transgress again. By choosing to sin, men separate themselves from God, cut themselves off from the channel of blessing, and the sure result is ruin and death. {1SM 235.2}

This is design law, God doesn’t have to act to inflict punishment, God has to act to stop the destruction that unremedied sin brings and to heal and restore His creatures, lest if He doesn’t sin will destroy that which God loves—you and me!

Thus God acted, “For God so loved the world He sent His only Son...” Yes, God didn’t sit by idly when man sinned—God took action, but His actions have always been the actions of love judged best to slow the spread of sin and ultimately heal and restore.

Here is a historic view that I think says it beautifully:

For centuries God looked with patience and forbearance upon the cruel treatment given to his ambassadors, at his holy law prostrate, despised, trampled underfoot. He swept away the inhabitants of the Noachian world with a flood. But when the earth was again peopled, men drew away from God, and renewed their hostility to him, manifesting bold defiance. Those whom God rescued from Egyptian bondage followed in the footsteps of those who had preceded them. Cause was followed by effect; the earth was being corrupted.

A crisis had arrived in the government of God. The earth was filled with transgression. The voices of those who had been sacrificed to human envy and hatred were crying beneath the altar for retribution. All heaven was prepared at the word of God to move to the help of his elect. One word from him, and the bolts of heaven would have fallen upon the earth, filling it with fire and flame. God had but to speak, and there would have been thunderings and lightnings and earthquakes and destruction.

The heavenly intelligences were prepared for a fearful manifestation of Almighty power. Every move was watched with intense anxiety. The exercise of justice was expected. [what was the angelic view of justice at that time? what is described? where did that idea originate? Earlier with Lucifer who declared God must punish.] The angels looked for God to punish the inhabitants of the earth. But "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." "I will send my beloved Son," he said... Amazing grace! Christ came not to condemn the world, but to save the world. "Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins."

The heavenly universe was amazed at God's patience and love. [Why was the heavenly universe amazed? Because they misunderstood God's law due to Satan's lies and therefore misunderstood what true justice is.] To save fallen humanity the Son of God took humanity upon himself... [Save fallen humanity from what? At whose direction did the Son of God become incarnate? At Gods! Jesus was carrying out God's will to save the fallen race—from what? From what happens when a being deviates from God's design for life!] {RH, July 17, 1900 par. 6}

Sadly, the lesson authors, as many in Christian leadership, are so deceived as to the nature of God's law that they argue that God is the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death. It is time in human history for Christians all over the world to stand up and say NO! It is not so. God is not like Satan has made Him out to be. God is trustworthy and is not the enemy we need to be protected from.

Read last paragraph, "Notice also:..." Yes, it is ironic that men could think they are defending God when in fact they are misrepresenting Him. It still happens today!

What about the idea that it would be better not to speak than to say things that are wrong?

Doesn't it depend on the attitude? If one has the attitude that they are teachable, that they are willing to be persuaded by the evidence, that they are willing to listen and understand, then is it okay to share one's understandings even if they are wrong? Didn't Nicodemus do this?

Who would want us to think it is better to stay silent in error than to seek to discuss our ideas in order to remove error and come to the truth?

Don't buy into the lie that it is better to stay silent than speak an error, if one has a willingness to learn and follow truth. Yes, if one is closed minded, has no desire to learn, believes they are right and won't examine evidence or consider ideas different from their own, then it is better for them not to speak.

I love this quote:

Those who cannot impartially examine the evidences of a position that differs from theirs, are not fit to teach in any department of God's cause. {ISM 411.2}

MONDAY

What do you think of the title? How can this idea, "Though he slay me, yet will I hope in him;" Job 13:15, be understood?

It can be understood in the sense of God is the source of inflicted punishment and death, but who am I but a worm and He is all powerful, so I choose to be on His side anyway because there is only one chance for me and that is being on the side of the One most powerful.

I don't find such an approach to be very mature or helpful, and in fact it suggests a very immature understanding of God.

However, there is another way to understand it—like a soldier in combat with a wise and trusted commander. One could say, "Even though my commander sends me on a mission that will result in my death, I will trust him, because I know my commander would never do that unless it were for some cause that I would gladly sacrifice myself for. I don't need to know the entire battle strategy, I only need to know my commander and know he is wise and absolutely trustworthy. Lord, send me, if my life serves you, send me into the breach."

Which way do you think Job meant it?

The lesson says in the second paragraph, "Job didn't have the advantage of knowing how things would turn out."

In what ways is this true, and in what ways is this not true?

It is most likely true that Job didn't have knowledge of what would happen in his temporal life, that his health and wealth would be restored and he would have more children. But, could he have known how it would turn out eternally? Was there information given by God that a redeemer would come and ultimately defeat sin and death? Could he have had an eternal hope?

Read the fourth and fifth paragraphs, "Even if He will kill me..." What is the basis of trust?

Is this different than the trust the Branch Davidians had in David Koresh, or the People's Temple followers had in Jim Jones? These people were willing to die for their faith in their leaders—is their trust different than the trust we are to have in Jesus?

Actually, no, trust is trust, and these cult leaders exploited the capacity to trust and lead people to trust the untrustworthy and this demonstrates that persons can die for causes that are not worthy of trust.

This is why it is so important we learn to discern, we learn to think, we learn to examine evidence and be able to tell the difference between God's true methods and those of the liar.

One of the keys to discernment is understanding God's law—God's law is design law, Satan's fraud is imposed law, imperial rule, coercive power. Thus, when we read in Christian literature descriptions of God using Satan's methods we know lies have entered. We must reject these lies and come back to the truth, lest we end up trusting what we should not—including putting trust in the church institution, i.e. the general conference, rather than trust in Jesus Christ and our Heavenly Father.

Consider the methods the beast of Revelation uses? It uses the methods of coercion, no one can buy or sell and the beast seeks to kill all who won't submit. How many Christians teach God does the same? It is beastly!

How many Christians today are willing to use the methods of coercion to achieve their goals? We cannot win God's cause by using Satan's methods—why not?

What does God want? He wants love and trust which results in actual renewal and transformation of the character of the person. Can love and trust be achieved by force, by threat, by coercion? What do such methods achieve? Conformity but hidden rebellion. This is what Satan achieve through religious groups that use coercive methods.

As Martin Luther King Jr. said:

Darkness cannot drive out darkness; only light can do that. Hate cannot drive out hate; only love can do that.

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, “What an interesting line...” Any questions? Any thought disconnects in this paragraph?

Is salvation liberation from death? To be sure those who experience salvation will not die eternally, and Christ died to free those who live enslaved by their fear of death (Heb 2:14) but is the primary meaning of salvation the same as avoiding death?

Did Jesus said, “This is life eternal that you will not die?” No, He said life eternal was knowing God. Is there a difference? What is the difference? There is a definite connection between not knowing God and dying, and knowing God and living—what is that connection?

What is the plan of salvation saving us from? Is it primarily from death, or something that results in death? What is it that results in death? Sin, which is what? Deviations from God’s design, i.e. transgressing His law—and what is it that causes breaking of God’s law? Believing lies about God!

“Eve believed the words of Satan, and the belief of that falsehood in regard to God's character, changed the condition and character of both herself and husband. They were changed from good and obedient children into transgressors...” E.G. White, Review & Herald 1/9/1886

Lies believed break the circle of love and trust...

Thus, life eternal is knowing God, restoring us to a right knowledge and experience with God, which results in trust in God, which results in removal of fear and experiencing love and the restoration of Christlikeness within. Thus we are saved from a state of being that is out of harmony with God and that results in death.

But to state salvation is liberation from death it moves the focus to avoiding punishment, and this is the way the false legal view sees it.

Would it be good news if we got to live eternally with God if God runs His universe like Satan alleges, rules imposed and threats to kill those who disobey?

Next concern from the paragraph, “After all, what is salvation other than liberation from death? And what is death, at least for the saved, other than a quick moment of rest, and instant of sleep, followed by the resurrection to eternal life?”

Is salvation liberation from a quick sleep-like death, or from eternal non-existence? In fact, isn’t the quick sleep-like death a mercy until the full restoration?

WEDNESDAY

Read third paragraph, “The world has been...”

Last Sabbath afternoon, I had an opportunity for Bible discussion with some friends at Cirsten’s home. It was very enlightening. I was reminded how our assumptions set us up to form concepts, beliefs and constructs that lead us to conclusions about God. If our assumptions about God’s design and law are incorrect we view God as more like Satan alleges than He truly is.

One of the ideas put forth by a very intelligent and passionate gentleman was the idea that Satan was the ruler of earth and that Christ had to overcome Satan’s legal status and rights. The argument was that God had to be fair to Satan as the ruler of earth and had to respond to Satan’s claims etc. etc.

It was suggested that Satan is the ruler of the earth and has a legal claim because of passages like this one:

As for you, you were dead in your transgressions and sins, ² in which you used to live when you followed the ways of this world and of the ruler of the kingdom of the air, the spirit who is now at work in those who are disobedient. Eph 2:1-2

It was argued that Jesus calls Satan the “ruler of this world” therefore Satan is the ruler, and that it was claimed that Satan offering Jesus the kingdoms of the world was proof of Satan’s legal status.

All of this legal perspective is based on multiple false assumptions.

If we check what Jesus actually said:

Now is the time for judgment on this world; now the prince of this world will be driven out.
³² But I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself.” Jn 12:31,32

Satan is the prince of this world, which means what? That he has some legal right to rule here, or was Jesus referencing that Satan is the prince of selfishness, this world of sin, death, decay? When Jesus used the term world was He referring to territory or to a method of operating? When Jesus said He has overcome the world, to what was He referring, physical territory, or the deceptive and selfish methods of the world?

Also, when Satan offered Jesus the kingdoms of the world was that evidence that Satan had a legal right to make such an offer and therefore was the owner of the kingdoms? No, it was evidence of Satan’s delusional egomaniacal beliefs, not reality.

This is from the book The Desire of Ages:

When Satan declared to Christ, The kingdom and glory of the world are delivered unto me, and to whomsoever I will I give it, he stated what was true only in part, and he declared it to serve his own purpose of deception. Satan's dominion was that wrested from Adam, but Adam was the vicegerent of the Creator. His was not an independent rule. The earth is God's, and He has committed all things to His Son. Adam was to reign subject to Christ. When Adam betrayed his sovereignty into Satan's hands, Christ still remained the rightful King. Thus the Lord had said to King Nebuchadnezzar, "The Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever He will." Daniel 4:17. Satan can exercise his usurped authority only as God permits. {DA 129.4}

When the tempter offered to Christ the kingdom and glory of the world, he was proposing that Christ should yield up the real kingship of the world, and hold dominion subject to Satan. This was the same dominion upon which the hopes of the Jews were set. They desired the kingdom of this world. If Christ had consented to offer them such a kingdom, they would gladly have received Him. But the curse of sin, with all its woe, rested upon it. Christ declared to the tempter, "Get thee behind Me, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve." {DA 130.1}

This idea that Satan has some legal right to earth and that God had to operate upon Satan's view of things is wrong. Satan never had a legal right. He had tricked Adam into giving up Adam's rule, but that did not remove Christ from His rulership over Adam. Christ had no need to legally remove Satan from any position because Satan didn't occupy any legally held position. Christ had to remove Satan from the perceived position he held in the minds of intelligent beings. We are still working to remove Satan from his false position in the minds of men.

In fact, the entire argument of Satan having some legal status, ownership, rights is an argument that rests entirely upon Satan's false view of God's law. If we merely return to design law, we understand instantly that Satan cannot have any legal status because Satan cannot hold reality together. Satan cannot control gravity, nuclear forces, laws of physics, create life, etc. etc. Only the Creator can and this is why Adam's rule was vicegerent to Christ because Christ was still holding all things together!

Thus Scripture says:

He is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn over all creation. ¹⁶ For by him all things were created: things in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or powers or rulers or authorities; all things were created by him and for him. ¹⁷ He is before all things, and in him all things hold together. Col 1:15-17

It is very difficult to teach people who have formed a system of beliefs on multiple false assumptions!

THURSDAY

The lesson lists a number of texts and asks us to review the hope found there.

- Gen 3:15: And I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your offspring and hers; he will crush your head, and you will strike his heel.”
 - What is the hope? In Jesus who would come to overcome what we could not.
 - Is there anything that sounds legal here or does it sound as if the serpent enemy will be literally destroyed?
 - Does Scripture support this? Heb 2:14
- Gen 22:8: Abraham answered, “God himself will provide the lamb for the burnt offering, my son.” And the two of them went on together.
 - What is the hope and what does it mean?
 - God so loved the world... As John the Baptist said, Jesus is the Lamb of God that does what? Takes away the sin of the world, in other words, the one who cleanses, removes deviations from God’s design, restores to God’s original ideal!
- Lev 17:11: For the life of a creature is in the blood, and I have given it to you to make atonement for yourselves on the altar; it is the blood that makes atonement for one’s life.
 - What is the hope? What law lens do you hear this through?
 - Atonement means—at-one-ment or reconciliation—what was causing the unity God designed for Him to experience with His creatures to be fractured? Was it something in God? No, it was a change in the nature and character of humanity—distrust, fear and selfishness, which all are founded on believing lies about God.
 - So, what does the blood represent? The life of Jesus which is a life which not only revealed the truth to destroy lies and win to trust, but was a life lived out in human flesh that developed a perfect sinless character restoring humanity back to at-one-ment with God!
- John 1:29: “Look, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!”
 - What is the hope?
 - Again, what did Jesus take away? Not the punishment for sin, but sinfulness itself!
- Gal 2:16: know that a man is not justified by observing the law, but by faith in Jesus Christ. So we, too, have put our faith in Christ Jesus that we may be justified by faith in Christ and not by observing the law, because by observing the law no one will be justified.
 - What is the hope?
 - What does it mean to be justified? To be set right—what is wrong, that sin caused, that needs to be set right?
 - Is it a legal status or an actual state of being that is out of harmony with God?
 - Thus Abraham’s natural heart, which is enmity to God, was set right and Abraham trusted God, and then God recognized him as righteous—why? Because he was actually, genuinely, truly, set right or justified with God in his heart!
 - There is nothing legal about justification—all the legal constructs are predicted on first accepting Satan’s lies about God’s law, thus the entire penal/legal view of salvation is a lie that traps good people into a form of godliness but with no power to overcome!
- Phil 1:6 being confident of this, that he who began a good work in you will carry it on to completion until the day of Christ Jesus.
 - What is the hope?
 - Who is the one who began and completes the healing and restoration to righteousness in you?

- 1 Cor 10:13: No temptation has seized you except what is common to man. And God is faithful; he will not let you be tempted beyond what you can bear. But when you are tempted, he will also provide a way out so that you can stand up under it.
 - What is the hope?
 - You will never be placed in a situation that is beyond your ability to overcome as long as you trust God.
- Dan 7:22:
 - From the NIV: until the Ancient of Days came and pronounced judgment in favor of the saints of the Most High, and the time came when they possessed the kingdom.
 - From the King James: Until the Ancient of days came, and judgment was given to the saints of the most High; and the time came that the saints possessed the kingdom.
 - What is the hope?
 - Is it that you get a legal declaration in a heavenly court, or that you get the ability to discern truth from error?
 - The good news is that we get judgment, discernment, the ability to determine the right from the wrong and our minds are cleansed of the lies of Satan about God and God's laws and methods.
- Dan 12:1-2: "At that time Michael, the great prince who protects your people, will arise. There will be a time of distress such as has not happened from the beginning of nations until then. But at that time your people—everyone whose name is found written in the book—will be delivered. ² Multitudes who sleep in the dust of the earth will awake: some to everlasting life, others to shame and everlasting contempt.
 - What is the hope?
 - A future life eternal without pain, suffering or death!
- Mt 24:27
 - For as lightning that comes from the east is visible even in the west, so will be the coming of the Son of Man. NIV
 - For the coming of the Son of Man will be visible to the entire world, just like sunlight dawns in the east and shines to the west, covering the entire planet. The Remedy
 - What is the hope?
 - That Christ is coming back again, literally for real!
- Dan 2:44: "In the time of those kings, the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that will never be destroyed, nor will it be left to another people. It will crush all those kingdoms and bring them to an end, but it will itself endure forever."
 - What is the hope?
 - A kingdom of love that will never end!

FRIDAY

What doctrines give you hope?

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

January 20, 21, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at The Haven in St. Helena, California

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Book of Job Lesson 10 4Q 2016

The Wrath of Elihu

SABBATH

Before we get into this week's lesson, we found a post online Wednesday that voiced concerns about one of our previous lessons. The post stated:

"Very good Timothy - you found a text the NT theologians missed [Innocent Blood]. However there is another reasonable possibility. You have missed the clear meaning of that text because your predetermined focus doesn't allow you to see another point of view. You really cannot 'come and reason' with others with that attitude you know."

Francesca replied to this post with:

"Hi, if you have a question or topic you'd like to discuss, we'd be happy to evaluate it. What text are you referring to and what is the clear meaning?"

The person responded with:

"The Hebrew text is quoted along with the OT texts. It is reasonable to assume these points - Were the sacrifices necessary? As required by the Levitical Law yes! Why? As an outward sign of an inward conviction, not unlike baptism. Would the inward conviction be obvious? Yes; in the actions of justice and humility and mercy etc., The texts simply express God's disappointment in the lack of comprehension, not that the sacrificial system was wrong, but the human heart lacked the sacrificial spirit. Just another point of view maybe."

This was in response to the question about the purpose of the animal sacrifices in the OT and the answers given by the two theologians.

The person who posted their concerns makes the point that the sacrifices were necessary according the Levitical Law; and he suggests as an outward sign of conviction like baptism.

What was our point?

That the sacrifices of animals were NOT necessary for salvation—even though required by Levitical Law, it sounds like he may agree as he says it was merely for an outward sign. In other words, it was the inward transformation of character, the renewal of heart that was necessary, not the outward sign. Yet, it was what the Levitical law required. So, that leads to the question: was observance of Levitical law necessary for salvation?

A simple way to answer that question is to observe—can people be eternally saved without observing the Levitical law?

Enoch did not observe Levitical law, because it had not been given, and he was clearly saved.

Not only to we have the evidence of Enoch and the Patriarchs, but the following, after the Levitical law was given at Sinai:

- Naaman
- Shunnamite woman
- Nebuchadnezzar
- Daniel and his three friends after captivity
- Esther and Mordicai and all the Jews who stayed

Concerns like the one raised by this gentleman arise because of failure to understand the larger reality and the purpose of some of God's instructions in the past.

The larger reality is God is love. He built His universe to operate upon the design law of love, the principles of giving. All God's laws are design laws, protocols upon which reality operate. And all deviations are damaging to those who break the design protocols.

Satan alleged God's laws are not design laws, but arbitrary rules requiring enforcement by the infliction of punishment.

Trust in God was broken, fear and selfishness replaced love in the hearts of angels and then in Adam and Eve.

God, began intervening, interceding immediately upon Adam's infection with lies and fear and selfishness. God intervenes/intercedes where?

- In the hearts and minds of human beings "I will put enmity..."
- With the powers of darkness holding back evil
- With the natural result of what sin does—it results in death, Christ though he knew no sin became sin for us so that we might become the righteousness of God! 2Cor 5:21.

Understanding the problem is a change in the state of being, then we understand that God had to restore, heal, fix in humankind what Adam's sin did to the nature of humankind. This is the purpose of all God has been doing through Christ.

Thus what is the purpose of the Levitical law? Was the observance of Levitical law necessary to fix what sin did to the species human? No! Then why? To teach the people of their condition and of their need for healing and restoration, also known as—salvation.

The Levitical law was nothing more than theater, a grand play, an enactment designed to teach the spiritually immature the plan to heal and restore. Unfortunately, the people kept going off script and God at one point allowed the stage to be torn down, and then when it was rebuilt they went so far off script that when the One to which all the symbols pointed came—they killed Him. So, God again allowed the stage to be torn down.

One of the founders of the SDA church understood this and wrote in Patriarchs and Prophets:

If man had kept the law of God, as given to Adam after his fall, preserved by Noah, and observed by Abraham, there would have been no necessity for the ordinance of circumcision. And if the descendants of Abraham had kept the covenant, of which circumcision was a sign, they would never have been seduced into idolatry, nor would it have been necessary for them to suffer a life of bondage in Egypt; they would have kept God's law in mind, and there would have been no necessity for it to be proclaimed from Sinai or engraved upon the tables of stone. And had the people practiced the principles of the Ten Commandments, there would have been no need of the additional directions given to Moses. {PP 364.2} [What are the additional directions given to Moses? The Levitical law!]

All of these additional directions, from the sacrifices given to Adam after his fall, to circumcision, to the 10 Commandments, to the Levitical law—ALL of them were ADDED, i.e. were not previously in existence, but were given because of the need of human beings who were sick, out of harmony with God's design; and all of it was designed to lead them back to God and His original design for humankind—a life of love in harmony with God's design law for life.

Another online listener emailed with this quote from EGW:

The sacrificial offerings were ordained by God to be to man a perpetual reminder and a penitential acknowledgment of his sin and a confession of his faith in the promised Redeemer. They were intended to impress upon the fallen race the solemn truth that it was sin that caused death. PP 68

What was there purpose? A teaching tool, no ability to heal and restore and not necessary for salvation, but pointed toward what was necessary for salvation—Jesus and partaking of Him!

Read memory text, Isaiah 55:9:

“As the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways and my thoughts than your thoughts.”

What does this mean? How are God's ways higher than our ways?

What are our ways? What methods do sinful human beings and earthly governments use for governing? What type of law do we use? What type of justice do we implement?

Is God saying that He does NOT operate His government like we operate earthly governments? Is God saying in this passage that He does not inflict punishment for sin?

Some might be concerned that such an idea from our memory text would be abusing the text; some might be concerned that we are reading such an idea into this verse which is not actually there. So let's back up a couple of verses in the same chapter and see what God was saying through Isaiah. Reading in Isa 55:7-9:

Let the wicked forsake his way and the evil man his thoughts. Let him turn to the LORD, and he will have mercy on him, and to our God, for he will freely pardon. "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways," declares the LORD. "As the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways and my thoughts than your thoughts.

What is the context of God's ways not being like our ways? Is it not the subject of how God deals with those who have sinned and done evil, i.e. salvation and justice? And notice what God says—If we turn away from sin, wickedness, evil—God will FREELY pardon, no payment, no legal debt, no judicial process why? Because all this legal, judicial, payment concept is the way human law works, but God's ways are higher, God's ways, His methods, His law, are NOT like ours. We impose rules and inflict punishment, but God is Creator and deviations from His law is inherently destructive. So what needs to happen for our salvation is that we turn away from evil and back to God and God freely pardons and also heals and restores us to be like Him in character!

This is mature thinking, something the infants are not acquainted with, those still on milk as described in Hebrews 5, they are not acquainted with righteousness—why? Because they focus on acts that lead to death, they focus on the behaviors, the dos and don'ts etc.

SUNDAY

The lesson asks us to examine some texts and determine the truths contained there:

Job 15:14-16: "What is man, that he could be pure, or one born of woman, that he could be righteous? ¹⁵ If God places no trust in his holy ones, if even the heavens are not pure in his eyes, ¹⁶ how much less man, who is vile and corrupt, who drinks up evil like water!

Is there truth in this text? What is the truth?

- What about the first question: What is man that he could be pure, or one born of woman, that he could be righteous? NIV

What is the implication of the question? That no human can be pure and none can be right with God—is that not the implied question? Is it true?

What about Jesus? Was Jesus fully human? Was Jesus born of a woman? Was Jesus right with God? And through Jesus can we all also be set right with God?

So, is the question designed to bring hope or discouragement? Then is the question a question God's Spirit would lead one to ask?

- What about the second statement: If God places no trust in his holy ones, if even the heavens are not pure in his eyes, ¹⁶ how much less man, who is vile and corrupt, who drinks up evil like water! NIV

Is it true that God does not trust his angels? Whose voice do you hear in this argument? Who is complaining, "Even in heaven, God didn't trust me!"

Who did God send to watch over Jesus? Who did God send to provide the law to Moses? Who held back armies at God's direction, and are ministers to God's people? Does God trust his angels? Yes!

So, is this passage a revelation of cosmic reality, or Elihu's understanding?

Who is it that God does not trust? Those who are untrustworthy! God can read all hearts and minds, do you think He really doesn't know who He can trust? Do you really think He doesn't trust His loyal angels?

Read Job 19:25-27:

I know that my Redeemer (Defender) lives, and that in the end he will stand upon the earth. ²⁶ And after my skin has been destroyed, yet in my flesh I will see God; ²⁷ I myself will see him with my own eyes—I, and not another. How my heart yearns within me! NIV

What truth do you hear in this verse? Who is our Redeemer/Defender?

This is a critical issue to think through. What law lens do you use? What is the problem that sin caused that the plan of salvation is designed to fix?

How many automatically, without real thought, immediately have images of Jesus standing as their Defender in a heavenly court to defend them against the legal judgment against them. Satan is the accuser, Jesus the defender and God is the judge to make a judgment. And Jesus is defending against the allegations of Satan AND the judgment of God particularly the required legal punishment. This is often depicted as Jesus pleading to the Judge (Father), "My blood, my blood..."

But some protest our assertion that Jesus does not have to defend us like an attorney in a heavenly courtroom. Some insist that we do have Jesus in heaven acting as an advocate to the Father in our behalf and they quote 1John 2:1,2, from the KJV:

My little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous: ² And he is the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world.

What does this text mean? What law lens do you look through? If we fall into the trap of thinking God's ways are no higher than our ways, that God's law functions like ours, then we automatically hear this as a legal advocate in a court. However, if we understand God's design law, we realize that God doesn't need convincing or appeasing, but that we are the ones who need convincing that God can be trusted.

What did Jesus say about pleading to His Father for us? John 16:25-29:

Notice Jesus says this is plain talk, no symbols, no metaphor, but how cosmic reality works, to which the disciples also say this is the way it really is, not symbolic:

“Though I have been speaking figuratively, a time is coming when I will no longer use this kind of language but will tell you plainly about my Father. ²⁶ In that day you will ask in my name. I am not saying that I will ask the Father on your behalf. ²⁷ No, the Father himself loves you because you have loved me and have believed that I came from God. ²⁸ I came from the Father and entered the world; now I am leaving the world and going back to the Father.” ²⁹ Then Jesus' disciples said, “Now you are speaking clearly and without figures of speech.”

What is the true cosmic reality?

What, then, shall we say in response to this? If God is for us, who can be against us? ³² He who did not spare his own Son, but gave him up for us all—how will he not also, along with him, graciously give us all things? ³³ Who will bring any charge against those whom God has chosen? It is God who justifies. ³⁴ Who is he that condemns? Christ Jesus, who died—more than that, who was raised to life—is at the right hand of God and is also interceding for us. Rom 8:31-34

So, how do we harmonize all these texts? Jesus is at the right hand of God, and acting as God's agent to fulfill God's purpose in advocating for us—but to whom is Jesus advocating? Well, who needs persuading? Who has believed lies that has broken the trust relationship? Who has adopted methods that are destructive? Who has been wallowing in darkness?

Does God need truth brought to Him? Does God need intercession to improve, change, influence, Him? No! Who does? We do, thus Jesus is at God's right hand and is acting as our intercessor, our advocate, but He is advocating with us, interceding with us, working to convince us that God is trustworthy, and that the ways of Satan and the selfish world are destructive and pleading with us to let Him into our hearts so He can heal and restore us!

Jesus said: "But when he, the Spirit of truth, comes, he will guide you into all truth. He will not speak on his own; he will speak only what he hears, and he will tell you what is yet to come." Jn 16:14

To whom is the Holy Spirit listening? And to whom is the Holy Spirit speaking?

So note what one of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

While Jesus, our Intercessor, pleads for us in heaven, the Holy Spirit works in us, to will and to do of His good pleasure. All heaven is interested in the salvation of the soul. Then what reason have we to doubt that the Lord will not and does not help us? We who teach the people must ourselves have a vital connection with God. In spirit and work we should be to the people a wellspring; because Christ in us is a well of water springing up unto everlasting life. Sickness and pain may test and try our patience and our faith, but the brightness of the Presence of the universe is with us and we must hide self behind Jesus. . . . {2MR 37.1}

Jesus is in heaven pleading for us—but all heaven is interested in our salvation, so do heavenly beings need to be persuaded to help? No! Who needs to be persuaded? Who is in darkness and misunderstanding about God? Who is infected with fear and selfishness and needs to be healed? Who is the Spirit listening to in order to speak to us? Thus Jesus is in heaven pleading, but He is pleading to you and me "Let me in, please let me heal you, why will you die when I can save you!" and the Spirit takes these pleas and communicates them to us!

Read Job 28:28: And he said to man, 'The fear of the Lord—that is wisdom, and to shun evil is understanding.' "

What does this mean? Fear—does this mean terror, dread, stress, anxiety? Or does this mean awe, reverence, admiration?

Well, what does "Perfect love casts out all fear" mean? When we come to truly know God do we love Him more? And does that love drive out fear or increase fear? So, if fear of the Lord is wisdom, it must be the type that grows with the knowledge of the Lord, which is awe, admiration, and respect, not terror!

To shun evil is understanding—thoughts? This is quite true, but this would mean understanding design law, how things actually work! It is not shunning rule breaking—in some cases rules were broken in order to keep the law—examples?

- David given the showbread to his men: David broke the Levitical law, the rules, the stage play drama, but David kept the law of love, care and concern for his men. He also kept the law of health providing nutrition for their wellbeing.
- Picking heads of grain on Sabbath—man made rules were broken, but living in harmony with God’s design law was not
- Healing on Sabbath—Jesus specifically chose to heal chronic medical problems on Sabbath—purposely breaking their rules, yet living out the law of love, the law of giving which restores life and health.

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, “Again, Job represents much...” Why do some people suffer from no volitional choice of their own? Is there one reason or multiple reasons?

What are some of the reasons?

- Rom 8—all nature groans under the weight of sin—the entire planet is suffering—why? Because there is an antagonistic element, an infection, a principle at war with God’s design which causes pain and suffering, even to nature itself.
- Evil people perpetrate harm upon others—what does this reveal and mean?
- Evil angels perpetrate harm—see first chapter of Job, what does this mean?
- Accidents happen, why?
- What does it mean about God that He permits such things to happen? Why doesn’t God use His power to stop and prevent evil?
- What action would God have to take in order to stop a person from choosing evil?
 - He would have to override that person’s choice
 - That doesn’t mean God doesn’t warn, try to alert, send messages of alternate options—how does God do this?
 - Evidence in science and nature (Romans 1:20) of how God’s law really works
 - Messaged from people—written in form of Scripture, or letters from friends, or other non-Scripture sources of wisdom, or people directly bringing counsel or insight
 - Holy Spirit convicting the conscience—John 16:8
 - Miraculous signs
 - Consider Pharaoh—he had evidence in nature, messages from Moses, conviction of the Holy Spirit and miraculous signs—did this result in Pharaoh choosing to turn away from evil? What else could God have done?
 - Consider those who arrested Christ—they evidence in science and nature, the OT Scriptures, John the Baptist, the opportunity to hear Jesus speak, miracles performed by Jesus, including divinity flashing through knocking them to the ground and then Jesus restoring an ear—and what did they do? What else could God have done?

- What do these examples and others like them tell us? Does it give us some insight into God's methods? What God will not do? Why? God wants our love and trust, can love and trust be obtained by force, coercion, control, or programming?
- What are the protocols upon which God built life to operate?
- Is the planet currently operating in harmony with God's original design?
- If God did nothing after Adam's fall, if God took no action and made no intervention what is the outcome for all life on planet earth? Would that include all babies born? Why?
- How can God fix it, to prevent all life from extermination? What is necessary?
- What methods are required by God to achieve this goal?

So what do we say to a person who has been mugged, or raped, or whose house burns down in a wildfire?

Do we say it was God's will? Never! God's will was for humankind to live eternally in love, in sinless perfection, never to experience pain, suffering and death!

After Adam and Eve's sinned, could they have children that were free of sin and born in perfect harmony with God's design? No—so what was their only choice? To have children infected with sin, or to not have children at all. What is the better choice?

If humans, infected with sin, choose to have children, what will result from that choice?

Will some children partake of God's Remedy provided through Christ and experience healing and maturity of character? Will other children reject the Remedy and their selfish condition get worse?

Would it be a better result, from God's perspective, for Adam and Eve, after sin to have no children? Why or why not? If they had no children, then all the pain, suffering, exploitation, murder, rape, etc. which has transpired on earth would not have happened. Would that have been better, why or why not?

TUESDAY

What is the basic argument of Elihu? That God is doing this and that God only does what is right, so Job must deserve it.

What is the problem with the argument?

Has the Bible in other places actually said God does things that God didn't actually do?

Now the Spirit of the LORD had departed from Saul, and an evil spirit from the LORD tormented him. ¹⁵ Saul's attendants said to him, "See, an evil spirit from God is tormenting

you. ¹⁶ Let our lord command his servants here to search for someone who can play the harp. He will play when the evil spirit from God comes upon you, and you will feel better.” 1Sam 16:14-16

But an evil spirit from the Lord came upon Saul as he was sitting in his house with his spear in his hand. While David was playing the harp, ¹⁰ Saul tried to pin him to the wall with his spear, but David eluded him as Saul drove the spear into the wall. That night David made good his escape. 1Sam 19:9,10

Did God send an evil spirit upon Saul? Did God inspire Saul to throw a spear at David?

What does the SDA Bible commentary say about this description of an evil spirit from God?

The Scriptures sometimes represent God as doing that which He does not specifically prevent. In giving Satan an opportunity to demonstrate his principles, God, in effect, would limit His own power. Of course, there were limits beyond which Satan could not go (see Job 1:12; 2:6), but within his limited sphere he did have divine permission to act. Thus, although his acts are contrary to the divine will, he can do nothing except what God permits him to do, and whatever he and his evil spirits may do, is done with God’s permission. Therefore when God withdrew His own Spirit from Saul (see on 1 Sam. 16:13, 14), Satan was free to have his way.¹

This is quite correct—God is often described as causing that which He permits. Is that the same thing? Why or why not?

So, in the case of Job, God permitted Satan to have access to Job, but is that the same as God causing Satan to torment Job?

WEDNESDAY

Read paragraphs 2-5: Ellen G. White offers...” Do you accept the reasoning of the lesson, that “there is a good reason that Job and his friends can’t make sense of it: evil itself doesn’t make sense. If we could understand it, if it made sense, if it fit into some logical and rational plan, then it wouldn’t be that evil...”?

Did EGW say that, or did she say that “to explain the ORIGIN of sin” is not possible because there is no reason for the ORIGIN of sin? Why not? Because sin originated in a perfect universe, thus there is no explanation that makes sense for evil occurring in a universe of perfection. However, do we live in a perfect sinless world? No! Therefore, in a world which is deviant from God's design there are many reasonable and understandable explanations for why evil and sin happen in this world. Such as:

- Selfishness dominating someone's motives
- Lies someone believes about another
- Being born into a culture which promotes evil as good
- Consequences of sin passing down 3-4 generations
- Being in a spiritual war zone with evil intelligences seeking to cause harm

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "Certainly the primary..." What contributes to obscuring reality and seeing through a dark glass? What helps us see more clearly? Does the way we understand God's design, law, methods affect how clearly we can understand and comprehend?

Read second paragraph, "With the opening chapters..." What does the term "guinea pig" suggest? Experimentation, that God was experimenting to see what would transpire—was God experimenting on Job?

Or did God know exactly what Job would do before Job did it? Then what was transpiring if not experimentation? Demonstration—for whom? Did God need demonstration for Himself? What was demonstrated?

- Satan's nature and character as the destroyer
- That God can read hearts and minds
- That God does know the future and what Job would do
- That Job was trustworthy and God could count on Job to say what was right about God
- That God is not the cause of pain and suffering
- That the health/wellness gospel is wrong
- Others?

The question, "how fair was this to Job and his family" is a question with what at the center? Selfishness, it puts self at the center. But what if we move the question to love and Job's love for God and Job's willingness to serve God? Do we have reason to believe that Job had, at some point given his life to God? And would that typically mean that Job would most likely have said to God, "God let me be useful in your cause"? If this is likely, then is it unfair to Job that God allowed Job to be useful in His cause?

Regarding Job's children—if the events in the book of Job did not occur, what would have happened to Job's children within 50-100 years? They would have all died anyway, just from different causes. Does their deaths, whether in a storm, earthquake, or old age, have any bearing on their eternal destiny?

Read the last paragraph, "And yet..." What does it mean to live by faith and not by sight?

What about the last sentence, “We live by faith when, like Job, we trust and obey God, even when we cannot make sense of what is happening around us.”

Were people who burned others at the stake taking the position, “Well it doesn’t make sense to me why God would want us to burn these people, I trust and obey”? If this seems a stretch, what about Saul of Tarsus before the Damascus road? Was he seeking to do what he was doing because of trust and obedience in God or distrust and seeking to disobey God?

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

The Book of Job Lesson 11 4Q 2016

Out of the Whirlwind

SABBATH

Read memory text: “Where were you when I laid the foundations of the earth? Tell Me, if you have understanding.” Job 38:4

What is the point of the question? What is God trying to get Job to acknowledge?

Is God trying to intimidate Job with power, “I AM CREATOR WHO ARE YOU TO QUESTION ME!!!!”? Or is God trying to enlighten Job with a legitimate question which would lead Job to acknowledge that there is a lot Job doesn’t understand about reality?

And, if it is the second position, then what might God have been trying to enlighten Job about in regard to God’s creation of earth?

Perhaps God was remembering some of Job’s arguments previously given, which our lesson helpfully quotes for us in the first paragraph, “Whatever their differences....”

This quotation from Job 12 is not one of the friends speaking, but Job himself speaking. And what is Job saying? What is Job perhaps arguing to his friends who are alleging Job deserves his misfortune and his misfortune is evidence of his sins?

Could Job be saying, look at the beasts and birds they will teach you how reality works—that the innocent harmless creatures are killed and destroyed by the predators just because they are innocent and harmless, not because they are sinful? Could Job be saying, look around, the world doesn’t work as you say, with only the sinful and guilty getting attacked and destroyed; No! the innocent creatures are harmed and killed all the time by the powerful, the strong, the ferocious?

But then Job goes on to say, “Who among all these does not know that the hand of the Lord has done this...”

What is Job saying now? Job is stating that this survival of the fittest, death inflicting predator/prey fear based system is God’s design. Job is saying, “This is how God built nature and this is how God governs. So don’t look at me and suggest I am sinning, it is God who created reality to work this way.”

Could this be why God says immediately in Job 38 says, “Job, were you there when I created earth? Did you see how my creation functioned when I built it? You don’t know what you are talking about. Creation as you see it is NOT how I built it. There were intelligent beings there who did see how I created it, and they know how things functioned on earth then and the death, pain and destruction seen on earth today is NOT how I designed life to operate—an enemy has infected my design and it is this infection which causes the pain and suffering—and it is the same enemy that has brought pain and suffering to your life!”

The lesson also quotes Job 8:3, which is Bildad speaking, and he asks, “Does God subvert judgment? Or does the Almighty pervert justice?”

What is the implication of Bildad’s question? Bildad asked these questions not as legitimate inquiry, but as a way of saying, “Job you deserve what is happening to you because God doesn’t punish people unjustly and doesn’t make mistakes in the judgment.”

Was Bildad right or wrong? How was Bildad right and how was he wrong?

Is it true that God makes no mistakes in any judgment, and is it true that God is never unjust? Yes! Then if those are true statement, how could Bildad be wrong—and he was wrong because God Himself said he was.

So, how was he wrong? By misunderstanding what was happening—what did Bildad misunderstand?

He certainly didn’t understand the players involved, and didn’t realize an evil enemy was active in bringing suffering to Job.

But, even if he did understand that Satan was involved, what might he have said? And I am suggesting this now because I have had Christians who oppose what we teach use this line of reasoning, so while Bildad didn’t himself say it, it is a line of reasoning argued by some Christians today:

Well, God still made the judgment to remove His protection and even though God didn’t actively bring the punishment to Job, God used Satan to punish Job, therefore God was still responsible because God knew what would happen and God chose to let it happen—so God did punish Job, and Job did deserve it because Job was born in sin and conceived in iniquity and as all humans has no righteousness or goodness so as a sinner he deserves only pain, suffering and death. Therefore, if God chose to act in this way and use Satan to punish Job then it was right and just on God’s part.

Is this line of reasoning right or wrong? What is the error in this line of reasoning? What is the underlying lie that causes people to think like this?

The root is again a misunderstanding of God’s law, thinking God works like human beings through imposed laws and imposed punishments, rather than realizing God is Creator and His laws are design laws. Thus, with the error of God’s law being imposed accepted as a fact, they apply the Sovereignty of God through that law and make God responsible for all actions. We must come back to understand God's law as it really is, the protocols upon which reality functions, and an expression of His character of love. God will not act contrary to His own character!

SUNDAY

Read Job 38:1,2 and answer—what happened here?

Then the Lord answered Job out of the storm. He said: ² “Who is this that darkens my counsel with words without knowledge?

Who is speaking from the whirlwind? What is the question God is asking and what is implied?

Read the third paragraph, “The word whirlwind..” It is the Hebrew word ca'ar, câ'arah /sah-ar, and does mean as the lesson said, whirlwind or storm—what might it mean that God was found in the storm, the whirlwind?

The lesson points out that this is the same whirlwind which took Elijah to heaven; and my mind thought of 1Kings 19:11,12:

The Lord said, “Go out and stand on the mountain in the presence of the Lord, for the Lord is about to pass by.”

Then a great and powerful wind tore the mountains apart and shattered the rocks before the Lord, but the Lord was not in the wind. After the wind there was an earthquake, but the Lord was not in the earthquake. ¹² After the earthquake came a fire, but the Lord was not in the fire. And after the fire came a gentle whisper.

And I wondered, why was God in the whirlwind, but not the powerful wind? So I looked up the Hebrew and this I found quite interesting, guess what the Hebrew is for wind in 1Kings 19? It is not ca'ar, câ'arah /sah-ar as it is Job, but it is ruwach /roo-akh, which means spirit, Spirit of the Lord, wind, breath, and is the same word used in Genesis 6:17, regarding the flood, every creature on the earth which has in it the breath of life will die.

What do you think it means that the Bible writers chose in Job's experience to use the word for storm as the place where we find God, and in Elijah's experience the word used for breath and spirit as well as wind for the place we do not find God?

What was the issue with which Job was struggling? Job was struggling with issues of God's character in relationship to Creation—how God built reality to work and Job was falsely believing that God built reality to work with survival of the fittest principle, in which the strong kill the weak and innocent as God's design. Therefore, God approaches Job from the storm, as the one who does control nature, as the one who is in the Builder, and after establishing Himself as the Builder of nature, challenges Job's assumptions about God's design. "Who talks about what they don't know? Were you there when I built earth? Did you see how it was originally, before it became infected with selfishness?"

What was Elijah's mindset, his concern, his struggle? He had just had the confrontation with the prophets of Baal at Mt. Carmel—and what was demonstrated there? Mt. Carmel was a demonstration of God as powerful, because it was a demonstration to all Israel who had fallen into Baal worship, primitive, level-one thinkers. So, for level-one thinkers a ruler establishes his right to rule by demonstrations of power over his rivals. So God demonstrates He is more powerful than Baal. But God wants to lead Elijah to a different insight, that while God can control nature—the earthquake, fire and the wind—even the breath of life—life energy itself. God—His true self—His person is not found in those energies, we find God not by seeking might, power, miracles, signs, wonders, even the breath of life, the raising of the dead—we find God in the quiet moments, in the gentle discussion, which leads to understanding friendship.

The Hebrew for the still small voice is three words:

- dāmamah /dem·aw·maw: which occurs only three times in Scripture and is translated as: "still" once, "silence" once, and "calm" once
- daq /dak: which occurs 14 times and is translated as: "thin" five times, "small" five times, "leanfleshed" twice, "dwarf" once, and "little thing" once.
- qowl, qol /kole: which has 506 occurrences; translates as "voice" 383 times, "noise" 49 times, "sound" 39 times, "thunder" 10 times, "proclamation" four times, "send out" twice

The lesson explores when God asks questions and points out in the second paragraph, "The questions, then, that God asks are not to teach the Lord something that He didn't already understand."

Do we agree with this? Absolutely! Why? Because God is all knowing—what does this mean that God is all knowing? Is there anything then that God does not know and He needs, in His divine self, to learn or be educated upon?

Then what do you think Hebrews 4:15 means?

For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but we have one who has been tempted in every way, just as we are—yet was without sin. Heb 4:15,16

How is this often explained?

Have you ever heard this explained as Jesus can sympathize with our struggles, temptations, pains, heartaches and the power of sinful temptation because He went through it. And as our High Priest He is in heaven and pleads in our behalf to the Father and is able to do so effectively because He truly knows our struggles?

Is it true that God needed Jesus to experience temptation so that God could then sympathize with our struggles, so that God could gain knowledge He didn't possess?

Or, do we have this backward, like so much of our theology? It wasn't God who needed to learn something. It wasn't God who needed to learn how difficult our struggles are so He could sympathize—but WE needed to learn that God really does know our struggles and can truly sympathize with us and is truly capable of understanding and helping us! Thus we read in the very next verse:

Let us then approach the throne of grace with confidence, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help us in our time of need. Heb 4:16

It was to increase our confidence in God not inform God of our difficult struggles—God already knew that is why He sent Christ!

And in Heb 2:18:

Because he himself suffered when he was tempted, he is able to help those who are being tempted.

Again, Christ's mission was to win us to trust and confidence in God and procure the Remedy we need to heal and restore us to righteousness!

What about the investigative judgment? Does God need to investigate records to discover information and inform Himself in order to figure out who is saved and lost? No, the investigative judgment has never been about God investigating records, all such presentations misrepresent God and demonstrate a real lack of understanding of the sin problem and God's solution for it.

So, the lesson is 100% correct, God doesn't need information presented to Him on any topic or subject. So, then the lesson asks us to examine places where God asks questions and answer, what was the purpose of God in asking the question?

- Genesis 3:11: "Who told you that you were naked? Have you eaten from the tree that I commanded you not to eat from?"
 - What is implied in the first question?
 - If God is asking the question, is the implication that Adam did not get that information from God? So is God trying to help Adam realize—"Adam I didn't point out your nakedness. I am not the one condemning you—Adam that is your own mind, your own conscience. Something in you has actually changed. Adam did you eat the fruit I warned you not to eat?"
 - What was the purpose of the second question?

- To help Adam realize that this is design law, this is the natural result of deviating from God's design. Cause and effect—Adam you did this to yourself, I didn't do this to you!
- Genesis 4:9: Then the Lord said to Cain, "Where is your brother Abel?"
 - What is the purpose of the question?
 - Did God not know where Abel was?
 - Is it to bring up Cain's wrong doing so God can be justified when God punishes Cain, to point out Cain deserves what he is about to get? What level of thinking would see it this way?
 - Is it to give Cain the opportunity to confess and repent? For whose benefit?
- 1Kings 19:9: There he went into a cave and spent the night. And the word of the LORD came to him: "What are you doing here, Elijah?"
 - What is the purpose of this question?
 - Did God not know where Elijah was?
 - Was it to cause Elijah to feel bad?
 - Was it to get Elijah to think—where am I and why am I here? What is my purpose? What am I trying to achieve? What caused me to be here? Have I forgotten to trust God?
- Acts 9:4: He fell to the ground and heard a voice say to him, "Saul, Saul, why do you persecute me?"
 - What is the purpose of this question?
 - To enlighten Saul that his actions were not doing God's will but opposing God and to open a dialogue with God for enlightenment.
- Matthew 16:13: When Jesus came to the region of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, "Who do people say the Son of Man is?"
 - What was the purpose of this question?
 - To get the disciples to think and make a decision on who they believe Jesus to be!

TUESDAY

The lesson asks us to read Job 38:4-41, which is God speaking to Job. Rather than reading the entire section here, let's read three verses which give the tenor of the entire section verses 31-33:

"Can you bind the beautiful Pleiades? Can you loose the cords of Orion? ³² Can you bring forth the constellations in their seasons or lead out the Bear with its cubs? ³³ Do you know the laws of the heavens? Can you set up God's dominion over the earth?

What is God saying? What is the purpose of His questions? What is He trying to get Job to realize and comprehend?

Is God trying to say, "Hey I am powerful and you are weak who are you to question me?" No!

What is God saying? “Job, I built all reality. I sustain it. I hold it together. You don’t comprehend how any of it was built, much less how it is designed to operate. So, all your conclusions are wrong. You need to think through a new set of ideas, premises, facts—realize that my laws are the laws the universe is constructed to operate upon—there is nothing arbitrary about my laws. Pain and suffering come from deviations from my design. Earth was built as a paradise, perfect and as I designed it would never experience any pain, any suffering and certainly no death. But earth is not operating as I designed. An antagonistic principle has infected my creation and this antagonistic principle is the cause of all the pain, suffering and death. Yet, I have undertaken the responsibility to heal and restore my creation back to my original design, which means I must win you Job along with my other intelligent creatures back to genuine love and trust in me!”

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “From our perspective...” How much better do we understand God and His law today than Job did?

A couple of years ago Andrews University online magazine published an article critiquing The God-Shaped Brain. In the comment section below the article I was able to engage the author and the Senior Editor in a discussion. In one section I brought up the truth about God’s law being design law. This is a response from the Senior Editor, who has degrees in history and theology, posted online:

Violation of some laws (natural sciences) are immediate in their consequences. Don't eat to restore energy, you die. But the Sabbath and other moral laws (not eating from the Tree of knowledge) are "arbitrary." Thus, some laws are "natural" and obvious, others are not. Not all of God's universe of laws is of equal or plain explanatory equivalency. We still don't know how "laws" work at the quantum realm, e.g. So some of God's laws do indeed require external enforcement, by design. Others do not, nature will be its own enforcer. If God hadn't cast out Adam and Eve, they would have kept eating from the tree of life, eg. But God 'chose' to cast them out, and then curse nature as well, to aid us in learning certain lessons.
<https://thecompassmagazine.com/blog/how-are-we-saved-the-character-of-god-and-the-atonement-in-the-adventist-church-part-1>

What do you think?

This view of God has mixed truth and error—the most destructive type of distortion:

- It has God being both designer and dictator
- It has God ultimately as the source of inflicted pain and death
- It puts God in the role of functioning like sinful human beings.
- Thus he interprets God casting Adam and Eve out of Eden as punishment for sin inflicted upon them and the cursing of the ground as punishment inflicted arbitrarily for sin.

What is the truth?

- Why did God expel Adam and Eve from Eden? Was it to punish sin or was it part of the plan to cure sin and save Adam and Eve from eternal torment and suffering?
- What would have happened if Adam and Eve as sinners continued to have access to the Tree of Life? They would not age—I suspect Cain could have still killed Abel by crushing his head, but natural aging and death from slow decay would not have occurred.
 - What then would have happened on earth had the sinful human race had access to the Tree of Life?
 - Who would have controlled it the meek, the humble, the persons who would not harm another, or the most selfish and cruel?
 - And then who would have been eliminated from the earth? The righteous, which would have meant God's plan to heal and restore would not have been realized.
 - Further, it would have meant those who did access the Tree of Life would have lived eons in a state of sinfulness which is a state of pain, suffering, torment of mind, heart, character to themselves and others. God would not permit this.
 - Thus, the expulsion from Eden was NOT punishment for sin, and not an arbitrary infliction, but an act of mercy, a therapeutic intervention in order to save and heal.
- What about cursing the ground?
 - This was not an infliction from God, but in harmony with other Scripture (Rom 8:20) the entire earth was now infected with an antagonistic principle and groans under the weight of sin. Jesus said an enemy has sewed seeds of decay into the earth. EGW says that all thorns, thistles, noxious and poisonous plants are due to Satan's messing with nature and corrupting it.
 - Thus, God was pronouncing, or diagnosing, or announcing that earth was now cursed, God was not inflicting it.

So, I would submit, that based on my experience with many theologians including this Senior Editor, that humanity still doesn't understand God's law and is still suffering with multitudes of misunderstanding about God because of it!

THURSDAY

Read Job 40:1-5:

The Lord said to Job: ² “Will the one who contends with the Almighty correct him? Let him who accuses God answer him!” ³ Then Job answered the Lord: ⁴ “I am unworthy—how can I reply to you? I put my hand over my mouth. ⁵ I spoke once, but I have no answer— twice, but I will say no more.”

Read Job 42:1-6:

Then Job replied to the Lord: ² “I know that you can do all things; no plan of yours can be thwarted. ³ You asked, ‘Who is this that obscures my counsel without knowledge?’ Surely I spoke of things I did not understand, things too wonderful for me to know. ⁴ “You said, ‘Listen now, and I will speak; I will question you, and you shall answer me.’ ⁵ My ears had heard of you but now my eyes have seen you. ⁶ Therefore I despise myself and repent in dust and ashes.”

What is Job’s response to God’s questioning and the evidence to which God pointed in regard to God’s laws, methods and creation?

What was the next thing that happened?

God then says, AFTER Job acknowledges that Job didn’t know what he was talking about and that God’s ways are not the ways Job had suggested earlier, that NOW Job is saying of me what is right and Job’s friends still have not!

Job was initially also wrong about God, but he came to a clearer insight about God and humbled himself and admitted it. It was this clearer insight to which God was referring when He said that Job has said of God what is right?

Read last paragraph, “And yet...” How do you understand the idea of being fallen, sin-damaged person whose very nature itself brings us into conflict with God?

If this is true, then what would be needed to save us?

Would a legal pardon change the sin-damaged nature of human beings? No! This is why penal substitution theology fails because it focuses on a legal solution occurring in heavenly record books and court documents, and fails to bring sinner to genuine transformation of their nature.

The truth is that sin is not a legal problem but a defect in our very nature, a condition of being out of harmony with God’s original design in Eden. And this condition we did not personally choose, and we cannot personally fix. But God through Christ did fix this condition and we can experience this renewal of heart, mind, character, motive to love God and others more than self such that we are changed back into godliness and reconciled to God. This is at-one-ment!

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, “God has permitted...” Is the researching of science alone the reason many scientists have given up a belief in God? Or, is there one other factor that when coupled with the advances in scientific knowledge leads many to reject a belief in God?

I submit it is the combination of advancing understanding of science with the historic arbitrary, imposed law, dictator views of God promulgated by religions who have accepted Satan's lies about God that results in people rejecting God. In other words, the God most of the scientists have rejected is a god of Satan's imagination—not the true God of heaven. Evidence for this assertion?

Here are two quotes from one of the founders of the SDA church describing Satan's attack on God's character:

- From the beginning it has been Satan's studied plan to cause men to forget God, that he might secure them to himself. Hence he has sought to misrepresent the character of God, to lead men to cherish a false conception of Him. The Creator has been presented to their minds as clothed with the attributes of the prince of evil himself,—as arbitrary, severe, and unforgiving,—that He might be feared, shunned, and even hated by men. [remember the quote from the senior editor of Andrews University's online magazine—he claims that some of God's laws are arbitrary. This is one of Satan's allegations about God and how Satan describes God's laws. A thinking scientist, who has a Christian present God as arbitrary should reject such a view of God.] Satan hoped to so confuse the minds of those whom he had deceived that they would put God out of their knowledge. Then he would obliterate the divine image in man and impress his own likeness upon the soul; he would imbue men with his own spirit and make them captives according to his will. {5T 738.1}
- Satan has ascribed to God all the evils to which the flesh is heir. He has represented him as a God who delights in the sufferings of his creatures, who is revengeful and implacable. {RH, November 17, 1891 par. 5}

And as an example of what many scientists have concluded, Richard Dawkins famous quote about the God of the Old Testament:

The God of the Old Testament is arguably the most unpleasant character in all fiction: jealous and proud of it; a petty, unjust, unforgiving control-freak; a vindictive, bloodthirsty ethnic cleanser; a misogynistic, homophobic, racist, infanticidal, genocidal, filicidal, pestilential, megalomaniacal, sadomasochistic, capriciously malevolent bully.

Is rejecting such a god rejecting the true God?

How many Christians today continue to worship a god like the one Dawkins describes? Have we seen that in our own quarterly this quarter, remember the lesson on Retributive Punishment?

Discuss questions 2 and 3

The Book of Job Lesson 12 4Q 2016

Job's Redeemer

SABBATH

Read memory text, Isaiah 53:4 "Surely He has borne our griefs and carried our sorrows; yet we esteemed Him stricken, smitten by God, and afflicted" NKJV.

What is the message in this text?

Here is the NIV version: "Surely he took up our infirmities and carried our sorrows, yet we considered him stricken by God, smitten by him, and afflicted.

Any additional thoughts? What does it sound like to take up our infirmities?

What does the SDA Bible commentary say about this verse?

The enemy made it appear that the sufferings of Jesus were punishment inflicted upon Him by a vengeful God because He was a sinner (see DA 471). If that were true, He could not be the world's Redeemer.¹

They reference The Desire of Ages page 471, which reads:

It was generally believed by the Jews that sin is punished in this life. Every affliction was regarded as the penalty of some wrongdoing, either of the sufferer himself or of his parents. It is true that all suffering results from the transgression of God's law, but this truth had become perverted. Satan, the author of sin and all its results, had led men to look upon disease and death as proceeding from God,—as punishment arbitrarily inflicted on account of sin. [Arbitrary, is an infliction of punishment that is not inherent, in other words, imposed law not design law. If someone commits murder why does one person get 10 years in prison, another 20, another life, another the death penalty? Because all these penalties are arbitrary and inflicted, the legal penalty to murder is not inherent, thus she is saying the legal penalty theory is from Satan!] Hence one upon whom some great affliction or calamity had fallen had the additional burden of being regarded as a great sinner. {DA 471.1}

Thus the way was prepared for the Jews to reject Jesus. He who "hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows" was looked upon by the Jews as "stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted;" and they hid their faces from Him. Isa. 53:4, 3. {DA 471.2}

God had given a lesson designed to prevent this. The history of Job had shown that suffering is inflicted by Satan, and is overruled by God for purposes of mercy. But Israel did not understand the lesson. The same error for which God had reproved the friends of Job was repeated by the Jews in their rejection of Christ. {DA 471.3}

Do you remember where EGW also said:

In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; DA 761

and,

Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power. E.G. White Desire of Ages 759 [what is the prevailing power? Truth and Love—remember that because it is vital to understanding how sinners die in the end, by what power? Truth and Love!]

God could have destroyed Satan and all his sympathizers as easily as one can pick up a pebble and cast it to the earth. But by so doing he would have given a precedent for the exercise of force. All the compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. He would not work on this line... This principle is wholly of Satan's creation. E.G. White Review & Herald, September 7, 1897

"Whereunto," asked Christ, "shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?" Mark 4:30. He could not employ the kingdoms of the world as a similitude. In society He found nothing with which to compare it. Earthly kingdoms rule by the ascendancy of physical power; but from Christ's kingdom every carnal weapon, every instrument of coercion, is banished. E.G. White Acts of the Apostles 12

So what does the text for today prophecy will happen? Jesus will come and take up our sinful condition in order to heal and save, but believers in God will instead come to believe that God punished Jesus at the Cross. The Jews believed it and thus rejected Christ—Christian's believe it and while accepting Christ REJECT the truth about God that Christ revealed and instead promote a false God concept!

From 27 Fundamental Beliefs of the SDA church page 111:

For a loving God to maintain His justice and righteousness, the atoning death of Jesus Christ became 'a moral and legal necessity.' God's 'justice requires that sin be carried to judgment.

God must therefore execute judgment on sin and thus on the sinner. In this execution the Son of God took our place, the sinner's place, according to God's will.

From The Adventist World Review:

One of the fundamental problems of the Moral Influence Theory is that it rejects the substitutionary nature of Christ's death. The idea that God had to kill the innocent instead of the guilty in order to save us is considered a violation of justice. (emphasis mine) Rodriguez, A., Adventist World Review, December 2007; p. 40.

From Ministry Magazine:

Why did God the Father choose a cross to be the instrument of death? Why did He not choose to have Christ instantly beheaded or quickly run through with a spear or sword? Was God unjust in executing judgment on Christ with a cross when He could have done it by beheading, a noose, a sword, a gas chamber, a bolt of lightning, or a lethal injection? Whidden, W., Ministry Magazine, February 2007.

<http://www.ministrymagazine.org/archive/2007/February/sinners-in-the-hands-of-god.html>

Who is being taught killed Jesus? Is this not an exact fulfillment of what Isaiah warned would happen?

Why does this happen? Because those who teach this have accepted the false law construct and believe God's law is arbitrary, just as we read last week, and arbitrary laws require the infliction of punishment.

SUNDAY

Read Job 19:25-27:

I know that my Redeemer lives, and that in the end he will stand upon the earth.²⁶ And after my skin has been destroyed, yet in my flesh I will see God;²⁷ I myself will see him with my own eyes—I, and not another. How my heart yearns within me!

“Does this suggest Job did have some knowledge of something beyond his life here and now? That a Redeemer was coming? The Hebrew for Redeemer is sometimes translated Defender, and most footnotes include Defender as an option in this text.

- So, if we use the word Redeemer, from what is Job being redeemed?

The divine mind and hand have preserved through the ages the record of creation in its purity. It is the word of God alone that gives to us an authentic account of the creation of our world. This word is to be the chief study in our schools. In it we may learn what our redemption has cost Him who from the beginning was equal with the Father, and who sacrificed His life that a people might stand before Him redeemed from everything earthly, renewed in the image of God. {CT 13.2}

Jesus died for mankind, and in giving His life He exalted humanity in the scale of moral value with God. The Son of the infinite God clothed His divinity with humanity, and submitted to the death of the cross, that He might become a steppingstone by which humanity might meet with divinity. He made it possible for man to become a partaker of the divine nature, and escape the corruptions that are in the world through lust. Christ is continually working to uplift and ennoble man, and He requires that every soul whom He has redeemed from hopeless misery, shall co-operate with Him in the great work of saving the lost. We are not to lay snares and make secret plans to draw souls into temptation. {FE 291.1}

The world that Satan has claimed and has ruled over with cruel tyranny, the Son of God has, by one vast achievement, encircled in His love and connected again with the throne of Jehovah. Cherubim and seraphim, and the unnumbered hosts of all the unfallen worlds, sang anthems of praise to God and the Lamb when this triumph was assured. They rejoiced that the way of salvation had been opened to the fallen race and that the earth would be redeemed from the curse of sin. [note NOT redeemed from the curse, wrath, or punishment of God!] How much more should those rejoice who are the objects of such amazing love! {AG 72.4}

- If we use the word Defender, from who is Jesus defending us?

What is often taught? How many Christian's have a view of Jesus in heaven defending us in a trial before the heavenly judge?

Zechariah's description of Joshua, the high priest, is a striking representation of the sinner for whom Christ is mediating that he may be brought to repentance. Satan is standing at the right hand of the Advocate, resisting the work of Christ, and pleading against him that man is his property since he has chosen him as his ruler. But the defender of man, the restorer, mightier than the mightiest, hears the demands and claims of Satan, and answers him: "The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan; even the Lord that hath chosen Jerusalem rebuke thee: is not this a brand plucked out of the fire? Now Joshua was clothed with filthy garments and stood before the angel. And he answered and spake unto those that stood before him, saying, Take away the filthy garments from him. And unto him he said, Behold I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment. And I said, Let them set a fair mitre upon his head. So they set a fair mitre upon his head, and clothed him with garments. And the angel of the Lord stood by." [Zechariah 3:2-5.] {CE 159.2}

What do you hear happening? To whom is Jesus defending? Who is Satan standing beside and arguing that they are unworthy of salvation? Who is Jesus working to convince it is not so and to heal and save?

Where is the battle between Christ and Satan fought? Satan is the father of what? Lies, What is it that sets us free? Truth, Who is the source of truth? Who is pleading truth to defend our minds against the lies that we are beyond saving, beyond healing?

So, here is another place where EGW writes about the same scenario of Joshua the high priest, but with slightly different insights, listen closely:

"And he shewed me Joshua the high priest"--a representative of the people who keep the commandments of God--"standing before the angel of the Lord, and Satan standing at his right hand to resist him" [So where are the angel of the Lord and Satan standing? Does this indicate where they are making their arguments?] (Zechariah 3:1). {TMK 108.2}

Christ is our High Priest. Satan stands before Him night and day as an accuser of the brethren. With his masterly power he presents every objectionable feature of character as sufficient reason for the withdrawal of Christ's protecting power, thus allowing Satan to discourage and destroy those whom he has caused to sin. [Who is being impacted by Satan's accusation? Is Christ being discouraged? No, so who? Then where is Christ working to defend us against Satan's accusations? In our minds...] But Christ has made atonement for every sinner. Can we by faith hear our Advocate saying, "The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan; . . . is not this a brand plucked out of the fire?" (verse 2). {TMK 108.3} [who needs to hear this—God? No! We do!]

"Now Joshua was clothed with filthy garments" (verse 3). Thus sinners appear before the enemy who by his masterly, deceptive power has led them away from allegiance to God. With garments of sin and shame the enemy clothes those who have been overpowered by his temptations, and then he declares that it is unfair for Christ to be their Light, their Defender. . . . Hear the words of Jesus: . . . I will blot out his transgressions. I will cover his sins... [who is to hear the words of Jesus? Is it God hearing the words and saying, "Okay Son, you paid the price, I guess I can legally pardon? Or is it the sinner who hears the words and trust/believes Jesus to do what He says?] {TMK 108.4}

Read third and fourth paragraphs, "Job's complaint..." Read Heb 4:15, 16:

For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but we have one who has been tempted in every way, just as we are—yet was without sin.¹⁶ Let us then approach the throne of grace with confidence, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help us in our time of need.

And what does this mean? Does it mean that God in His divine self learned something He didn't already know? Or, that God revealed that He truly does know, and this convinces us, also that Jesus in His human self did truly go through this and understand AS A HUMAN the sufferings we struggle with, because in His human sojourn He had denied Himself access to His divine prerogatives.

And why was it important for Christ to be made in the likeness of sinful flesh? So that He could pick up humanity, in the broken condition in which Adam placed it, and fix, heal, correct, restore, rebuild it. And Christ did this in His own personal human life experience!

Notice Heb 5:8-10

Although he was a son, he learned obedience from what he suffered ⁹ and, once made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him ¹⁰ and was designated by God to be high priest in the order of Melchizedek.

What does this mean? That as a human he grew, confronted, chose, overcome, developed and perfected His human nature into perfect harmony with God's character and design:

The law requires righteousness,--a righteous life, [why? for the same reason the law of respiration requires we breathe] a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26. {DA 762.2}

Read the second paragraph, "Still, Jesus didn't..." What is true in this paragraph and what is false?

- T-Jesus had to do more than only give an example
- T-It is absolutely true that humankind could not save itself—that only through Jesus could the human species be saved.
- T-It is also true that Jesus is our substitute, in that Jesus took upon Himself our infirmities, our iniquities, our sinful condition, our sinful flesh, in order to develop a perfect human character, destroy the infection of selfishness and cure the human sin condition.
- T-It cost God the Father and Jesus to do this—just as we might say to a parent that donated a kidney to save their child in renal failure, "You paid a high price to save your child." But the cost was not a legal cost, it was the cost of what reality required to fix what was broken.
- T-He died so that we could live
- T-We would have died eternally if Christ had not come and completed His mission

- F-He died to pay a legal penalty—this is based on the infection of human law constructs into Christianity—i.e. sin must be punished thoughts and that God’s laws function no different than ours
- F-Someone had to pay the penalty for our sins—no penalty was required to be paid, but the condition required a remedy and Jesus and the Father paid a terrible price to procure and provide that remedy
- True and False—He died the death we deserve. It is true that without His death on the Cross we would have died eternally. It is false that Jesus died eternally—in fact, Paul specifically states that if Jesus didn’t rise again that we are without hope. This is a nail in the coffin of the legal penal substitution model, which claims that Jesus died the same death the wicked die in the end. It is the height of denial, because in one moment they say the death penalty of sin is eternal death without a resurrection, in the next they say Jesus died that penalty but rose again, which immediately denies the very meaning of the second death. It also denies reality and the Scripture itself for Scripture states:
 - “Christ Jesus, who has destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel.” 2Tim 1:10
- What is the second death according to Scripture?
 - “Then death and Hades were thrown into the lake of fire. The lake of fire is the second death.” Rev 20:14
 - What is the second death? The lake of fire and what is thrown into the second death? Death—wait? What does this mean? The Bible is saying that the second death is the death that kills death, that eliminates death from the universe? How does one kill death? With life! Is there any Bible texts to support this?
- “Listen, I tell you a mystery: We will not all sleep, but we will all be changed—⁵² in a flash, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, the dead will be raised imperishable, and we will be changed. ⁵³ For the perishable must clothe itself with the imperishable, and the mortal with immortality. ⁵⁴ When the perishable has been clothed with the imperishable, and the mortal with immortality, then the saying that is written will come true: “Death has been swallowed up in victory.” Where, O death, is your victory? Where, O death, is your sting?” 1Cor 15:51-55
- What is the text saying? What destroys death? When is it eliminated? When life destroys death, and where does life originate? God, and what is God’s presence described as?
 - for our “God is a consuming fire.” Heb 12:29
 - As I looked, “thrones were set in place, and the Ancient of Days took his seat. His clothing was as white as snow; the hair of his head was white like wool. His throne was flaming with fire, and its wheels were all ablaze. ¹⁰ A river of fire was flowing, coming out from before him. Thousands upon thousands attended him; ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him. Daniel 7:9,10

So, what is the second death? It is the death in which all defects from God’s design are eliminated, and selfishness is destroyed, and thus those who are solidified in selfishness are gone from all existence for all eternity. Did Jesus die deviant from God's design, or did His death perfectly RESTORE God's design?

So, did Christ die that same death the wicked die in the end? If you have the wrong law concept, the human imposed law concept, then you must believe that He did because if you say no, then, in that model, your penalty isn't paid and fear consumes you as you live afraid that you will have to be punished. So you cling to a lie to avoid the fear God will have to kill you for your sin.

But when we come back to worship Him who made the heavens, earth and sea, the Creator and realize God's laws are design laws, then we realize Christ didn't have to die eternally, He had to destroy the infection which causes people to die eternally. And when we compare the way the wicked die in the end, and how Christ died at the cross these differences become evident:

- Christ died trusting the Father – Luke 23:46
The wicked die distrusting the Father – Revelation 6:16
- Christ died longing to see the Father – Mark 15:34
The wicked die hiding from the Father – Revelation 6:16
- Christ died when the Father's presence was hidden – Mark 15:34
The wicked die when the Father is fully revealed – 2 Thes 2:8
- Christ died less than 72 hours – Luke 24:1-8
The wicked die eternally – Malachi 4:1-3, Romans 6:23, James 1:15, 2Pet 3:10-12
- Christ died when love overcame selfishness – John 3:16, 10:17,18, 1John 3:16
- The wicked die overcome by selfishness – Revelation 21:8

However, the Father takes the exact same action and treats both Christ and the wicked the same—the Bible uses the word wrath to describe this act, or God's strange act. And what action did the Father take with Christ at the cross? He let Him go; He surrendered Him; He abandoned Him; He set Him free to reap the consequences of what CHRIST had chosen—and Christ chose to lay down His life in order to save, heal, fix, redeem, humanity, and God surrendered Him to His choice.

The wicked in the end also receive the same action from God—the Father lets them go, surrenders, abandons, forsakes them and God stops holding at bay the results of what sin does to a sinner. God stops shielding them from His unveiled glory and thus they also reap what they have chosen, which is eternal non-existence!

WEDNESDAY

The first paragraph states, "It was for the sin of all humans who ever lived that Jesus died on the cross."

I thought it quite significant that the quarterly correctly used the word sin, rather than the word sometimes used sins. What is the difference?

Jesus took upon himself the sin of the world, the sinfulness, the sinful condition and overcame and cured it. There is no evidence that Jesus took upon Himself the individual acts of sin committed by every individual human person and experienced the punishment for those acts of sin—that is part of the lie of the false law construct.

The fourth paragraph points out another important accomplishment of Christ's life, death, and resurrection by quoting Heb 2:14, that by his death he destroyed him who holds the power of death that is the devil. How do you understand this? What is the power of death, how does Satan hold it, and how did Christ destroy him and his power?

Life eternal is knowing God—John 17:3, so if life eternal is knowing God, then death is not knowing God, then the power of death is the lies Satan tells about God that we believe that keep us from knowing Him, so Christ destroys Satan's power by the revelation of the truth about God which destroys the lies and wins us back to trust.

But, this can only truly be done if Jesus is fully God. If Jesus is some lesser being, then Jesus didn't provide evidence of what the Father would do, only what the Son would do and thus no truth is revealed to refute Satan's lies about God. This is the subtle danger in the theologies that try to undermine the Trinity or teach Jesus was something less than fully God. Jesus Himself said, "If you've seen me you've seen the Father."

THURSDAY

The last paragraph states, "At the cross, Jesus paid the legal penalty for sin, thus reconciling the fallen world to God. Though we are sinners condemned to death, by faith we can have the promise of eternal life."

Now, I would like you to practice analyzing these two sentences and unpacking what they mean and what is wrong with them. What is the problem here?

- First, was there a legal penalty? If so, to whom is the legal penalty paid? And if it is paid to God or God's law, then what is the barrier to our salvation in such a model?
- What law construct teaches there is a legal penalty? This is how human law models work, but Design law teaches God is working to heal and restore.
- Where did this idea that God's law functions like human law—imposed rules—come from?
- Who taught in the opening of the controversy in heaven that sin had to be punished?
- What is implied by the idea that paying the penalty reconciles the fallen world to God? What, in this construct, is keeping the world from being reconciled to God? Note—it is an unpaid penalty that is the barrier that needs removal, and that penalty, in this construct, is something the government of God requires—thus this model is teaching that Christ died to do something to God to enable God to allow us back. This is teaching that it is not sin in us that keeps us from God, but the unpaid penalty to God that keeps us from Him. This is Satan's lie full and clear, and we must reject it and get it out of our churches, doctrines, theologies and minds!

- What is implied by the language that sinners are condemned to death? That it is a legal pronouncement that needs enforcement, rather than a condition of being that needs curing.
- What is implied by the language we have the promise of eternal life? That we don't yet have eternal life—but what does the Bible say?
 - Does the Bible say “This is the promise of eternal life that they might know you...” No, eternal life is knowing God John 17:3
 - Jesus said to her, “I am the resurrection and the life. He who believes in me will live, even though he dies; ²⁶ and whoever lives and believes in me will never die. Do you believe this?” Jn 11:25,26

What is Jesus saying? Do we get the promise of eternal life, or do we get eternal life?

FRIDAY

Read and discuss the first two paragraphs, “Now is the judgment...”

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

January 20, 21, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at The Haven in St. Helena, California

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Book of Job Lesson 13 4Q 2016

The Character of Job

SABBATH

Last week I received a question about Isaiah 53:10, let's read 53:10 and verse 11:

Yet it was the Lord's will to crush him and cause him to suffer, and though the Lord makes his life a guilt offering, he will see his offspring and prolong his days, and the will of the Lord will prosper in his hand. ¹¹ After the suffering of his soul, he will see the light of life and be satisfied; by his knowledge my righteous servant will justify many, and he will bear their iniquities. NIV This is the NIV and you can see the translators have a certain lens through which they interpret. It has to do with preconceived ideas of God's law and sovereignty—God is causal and inflicting. But this is not in the Hebrew, it is artifact of the translators.

The Lord says, "It was my will that he should suffer; his death was a sacrifice to bring forgiveness. And so he will see his descendants; he will live a long life, and through him my purpose will succeed. ¹¹ After a life of suffering, he will again have joy; he will know that he did not suffer in vain. My devoted servant, with whom I am pleased, will bear the punishment of many and for his sake I will forgive them. GNT This is the GNT and it shifts the focus slightly that it was God's will he should suffer, but it is not God causing the suffering. This is much closer to the truth as it was God's will for Jesus to rescue humankind!

Yet it pleased the Lord to bruise Him; He has put Him to grief. When You make His soul an offering for sin, He shall see His seed, He shall prolong His days, And the pleasure of the Lord shall prosper in His hand. ¹¹ He shall see the labor of His soul, and be satisfied. By His knowledge My righteous Servant shall justify many, For He shall bear their iniquities. NKJV This is the NKJV and again the translators bring in a certain view of God's law and God acting as the causal agent.

The SDA Bible commentary on this passage states:

The Lord was not delighted that His Servant (see on ch. 52:13), Messiah, should suffer, but rather, in view of the eternal welfare of men and the security of the universe, it was best for Him to suffer. "It pleased the Lord" in the sense that "it was the will of the Lord." Only thus could the plan of salvation succeed. The sufferings of Christ were part of the eternal plan¹

¹ Nichol, F. D. (Ed.). (1977). The Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary (Vol. 4, p. 291). Review and Herald Publishing Association.

The Bible commentary is correct—it pleased God that Jesus in perfect accord with Himself and perfectly revealed the Father and perfectly fulfilled His mission to heal humankind.

How one understands this passage depends entirely upon the law lens one uses.

If we use the false law lens, the lie that God’s law works like human law, rules made up and enforced with punishment then what conclusion do we draw from these texts? That God was pleased to inflict punishment on Jesus in order for Jesus to pay the penalty so God could resolve His anger and wrath and save mankind.

If we use the true view of God’s law as design law, then we realize humankind was in a terminal state, “dead in trespass and sin” and would die eternally unless God intervened through Christ to fix the situation. Thus, while God did not enjoy His Son’s suffering, He was pleased for His Son to carry out His purpose to save humankind and the only way to do this was to partake of our human nature, confront the carnal nature and destroy it restoring the species human back to God’s original ideal.

It would be like a parent whose child was dying of leukemia having another child who was a bone marrow match, they would be pleased the healthy child donated bone marrow to save their sibling, and doing so would cause suffering to the donor and while the parents wouldn’t enjoy the healthy child suffering, they would be pleased with it because of what it accomplished.

Read Memory Text: “Do you see that faith was working together with his works, and by works faith was made perfect?” James 2:22 NKJV

What is the long-standing debate between faith and works in Christianity?

The traditional penal substitutionary view is that we are saved totally by faith, i.e. accepting the legal payment of Jesus without any work from us, and that works are only an evidence of the fact we are saved, but have no role whatsoever in our salvation, i.e. there is no work we can do that isn’t contaminated with sin, thus it would be useless to offer our works to God as having any merit for our salvation. Only by accepting the perfect sinless blood of Jesus can we have our sin-debt paid for, if we try to offer God our works we offer Him a contaminated offering and He will not accept it.

Jump to Friday’s lesson and read the first paragraph, “The Protestant Reformation...” What was the works that the Reformation was protesting? That we had to behave in a certain way or do certain rituals or pay certain payments in order to be good enough to be saved—such as:

- indulgences
- go to confessional
- partake of communion
- receive last rights or be buried in sacred ground
- do penance

- make pilgrimages
- give money to the church
- fight in a crusade
- build a cathedral

The idea was that you had to do something which would put yourself in a position where you were now worthy of salvation.

The Reformation was protesting all the works that held salvation hostage to the actions of the sinner and exploited the sinner for benefit of the institution, or suggested we needed to improve ourselves in anyway before we could be saved. In our understanding today it would be like saying to a person with a terminal illness they must get well before the doctor will treat them.

Daniel 7:25 prophesied that a power would arise and seek to change God's law—what power and how?

The power was Rome and Rome changed God's law by replacing the design law truth with the human imposed law lie—the idea that God's laws function no differently than the laws human beings make, rules which require external punishment or some payment to pay the legal authority for breaking the law. This is the root to all paganism, god's who will punish unless paid in some way:

Through heathenism, Satan had for ages turned men away from God; but he won his great triumph in perverting the faith of Israel. By contemplating and worshiping their own conceptions, the heathen had lost a knowledge of God, and had become more and more corrupt. So it was with Israel. The principle that man can save himself by his own works lay at the foundation of every heathen religion; it had now become the principle of the Jewish religion. Satan had implanted this principle. Wherever it is held, men have no barrier against sin. {DA 35.2}

In heathenism, what are the works supposed to do? They are always intended to do something to influence the god not to punish or to bring a blessing.

This corruption of the false law led to all the works abuses described above—the Reformation protested the specific distortions but didn't get to the root of it and thus within Protestantism the infection of imposed law remains and infects much of Protestant theology—the most critical is the way we understand the plan of salvation. Protestant theology merely substituted the works of man trying to influence a punishing god, with the works of Jesus to pay off the angry and punishing god.

But is there an error still in the Protestant balance between faith and works, justification and sanctification? Yes, it is in the idea that justification is a legal declaration of someone being righteous, when they are not righteous, but God declares them righteous based on the legal substitution of Jesus into their legal account in heaven. This is all false based on the false law construct.

True Biblical justification is very simple, it is setting a person right with God. The natural sinful heart is enmity to God, it doesn't trust God, thus when a person's heart changes from distrust to trust, they are set right with God again, they are justified. This is what the Bible teaches about Abraham, that after he trusted God then God recognized him as being set right or righteous. And in trust we open the heart and the Spirit comes in and we experience transformation of character, commonly called sanctification. There is nothing legal about it, it is all healing.

So what is the balance between faith and works?

- ²⁰ You foolish man, do you want evidence that faith without deeds is useless? ²¹ Was not our ancestor Abraham considered righteous for what he did when he offered his son Isaac on the altar? ²² You see that his faith and his actions were working together, and his faith was made complete by what he did. James 2:20-22
- Therefore, my dear friends, as you have always obeyed—not only in my presence, but now much more in my absence—continue to work out your salvation with fear and trembling, ¹³ for it is God who works in you to will and to act according to his good purpose. Phil 2:12,13
- For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith—and this not from yourselves, it is the gift of God—⁹ not by works, so that no one can boast. ¹⁰ For we are God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do. Eph 2:8-10
- Do not be deceived: God cannot be mocked. A man reaps what he sows. ⁸ The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction; the one who sows to please the Spirit, from the Spirit will reap eternal life. Gal 6:7,8
 - Who is doing the sowing?
- Since, then, you have been raised with Christ, set your hearts on things above, where Christ is seated at the right hand of God. ² Set your minds on things above, not on earthly things. ³ For you died, and your life is now hidden with Christ in God. ⁴ When Christ, who is your life, appears, then you also will appear with him in glory. ⁵ Put to death, therefore, whatever belongs to your earthly nature: sexual immorality, impurity, lust, evil desires and greed, which is idolatry. ⁶ Because of these, the wrath of God is coming. You used to walk in these ways, in the life you once lived. ⁸ But now you must rid yourselves of all such things as these: anger, rage, malice, slander, and filthy language from your lips. ⁹ Do not lie to each other, since you have taken off your old self with its practices ¹⁰ and have put on the new self, which is being renewed in knowledge in the image of its Creator...¹² Therefore, as God's chosen people, holy and dearly loved, clothe yourselves with compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience. Col 3:1-13

Who is doing the work? Is this work of life transformation only of God? Does it matter? Is our salvation dependent upon this ongoing work?

These Bible passages have been a source of great tension within Christianity resulting in two primary camps – the work your way to heaven camp in which our works commend us to God or somehow save us from sin – legalism, opposed by the camp which says our salvation is of God's grace without our work and our works only reveal what He has done within us.

This tension only exists because of the false law construct, get rid of that lie and you get rid of the tension.

Here are some thoughts from one of the founders of our church, what do you think?

- While God was working in Daniel and his companions "to will and to do of His good pleasure" (Phil. 2:13), they were working out their own salvation. Herein is revealed the outworking of the divine principle of cooperation, without which no true success can be attained. Human effort avails nothing without divine power; and without human endeavor, divine effort is with many of no avail. To make God's grace our own, we must act our part. His grace is given to work in us to will and to do, but never as a substitute for our effort. {LHU 193.4}
- We are laborers together with God. This is the Lord's own wise arrangement. The cooperation of the human will and endeavor with divine energy is the link that binds men up with one another and with God. The apostle says, "We are laborers together with God: ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building" (1 Corinthians 3:9). Man is to work with the facilities God has given him. "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling," He says. "For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure" (Philippians 2:12, 13).--MS 113, 1898. {2MCP 694.3}
- There are two grand forces at work in the salvation of the human soul. It requires the cooperation of man with the divine agencies-- divine influences, and a strong, living, working faith. It is in this way only that the human agent can become a laborer together with God. The Lord does not sanction in any one of us a blind, stupid credulity. He does not dishonor the human understanding, but, far from this, He calls for the human will to be brought into connection with the divine will. He calls for the ingenuity of the human mind, the tact, the skill, to be strenuously exercised in searching out the truth as it is in Jesus. . . . Ye are labourers together with God. {OHC 310.5}
- In the work of redemption there is no compulsion. No external force is employed. Under the influence of the Spirit of God, man is left free to choose whom he will serve. In the change that takes place when the soul surrenders to Christ, there is the highest sense of freedom. The expulsion of sin is the act of the soul itself. True, we have no power to free ourselves from Satan's control; but when we desire to be set free from sin, and in our great need cry out for a power out of and above ourselves, the powers of the soul are imbued with the divine energy of the Holy Spirit, and they obey the dictates of the will in fulfilling the will of God. {DA 466.4}

What is the truth? We must accurately diagnose the problem before we can understand the solution

What is the problem that sin caused that the plan of salvation was designed to fix?

When Adam sinned in Eden did God get changed? Did God's law get changed? Did the condition of humanity get changed? Then does Christ need to do something to change or fix God or God's law? No! They are perfect, then what needs to be changed or fixed? The condition of humankind—this is what Christ came to achieve.

Thus, when we move back to the truth about God's law as design law, how He built reality to work and realize that sin changed humankind to be out of harmony with this design and thereby dead in trespass and sin, then we realize the true balance between faith and works:

Christ singly and alone, with no help from any human source, defeated Satan, revealed the truth about God, exposed Satan as a liar, destroyed the infection of selfishness and developed a perfect human character—the remedy to sin! Thus, no work we can do can create our own remedy or add to the healing power or perfection of the remedy Christ achieved. In the humanity of Jesus Christ the species human was saved—and what He achieved can be applied to individual believers, if they will trust Him, i.e. have faith in Him.

So, we have faith that Christ alone won the victory, revealed the truth to win us to trust and procured the remedy. But, we must then partake of the remedy and follow the prescription of our Heavenly Physician. This is our work to do, and without this work on our part, we simply fail to partake of what Christ has achieved. The work we do does not change or influence God or have any merit in some legal sense, but is the work to connect with, and experience in our own minds and hearts the unity and oneness with Christ that heals us.

It would be like having an infection and there is an antibiotic that will cure you; you didn't develop the antibiotic; you didn't pay for the antibiotic; it is offered to you freely, but you still must take the antibiotic; it won't be forced down your throat. And when you take it the antibiotic does something in you that you cannot do for yourself.

This is what James is saying, that faith without works is dead—to believe in an antibiotic, and believe in its power to heal and save, but refuse to take it is dead, has no ability to heal you and you will still die from the infection. So, too, those Christians who believe Jesus Christ died for them, but refuse to participate with Jesus, partake of the truth He provided and choose to follow that truth will still die of their terminal condition.

How do we put all the texts together? After Adam's sin humanity was changed from beings who operated in perfect accord with the law of love, the template of life. Mankind believed lies about God and didn't trust Him. Christ came to reverse all of this. First He came to reveal the truth to destroy lies and win us to trust, but more than this Christ, as our substitute, took our infirmities, our sick condition upon Himself in order to cure, reverse, recreate, rewrite God's perfect character into the human species. He did this in His own person! He procured the remedy to sin and now offers this to us through the application of His Spirit!

The atonement of Christ is not a mere skillful way to have our sins pardoned; it is a divine remedy for the cure of transgression and the restoration of spiritual health. It is the Heaven-ordained means by which the righteousness of Christ may be not only upon us but in our hearts and characters (Letter 406, 1906). {6BC 1074.2}

Thus, when we are won to trust we open the heart, surrender our will to Him and the Spirit infuses us. We partake of the divine nature. We are inspired, enlightened, empowered, encouraged and we then choose daily to eliminate from our lives everything we know is harmful and embrace all that is good. As the apostle says, via the indwelling Holy Spirit – a cooperative arrangement, we choose to rid ourselves of the old life and live a life of love!

The lesson also said this however, and as we prepare for our next quarter on the Holy Spirit I couldn't let this pass: "Yet the truth of salvation by faith alone always included the work of the Holy Spirit in the life of the believer, not as a means of salvation but as an expression of it."

Are they saying that we are saved first and then we get the Holy Spirit as an evidence of our already being saved? Again, this distinction is false, based on the false law construct of salvation being a legal declaration. There is no salvation, which means healing, restoration, recreation, without the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit is the delivery agent of the remedy that Christ achieved, so while the remedy was achieved by Christ, we cannot partake of the remedy without the Holy Spirit—thus the Holy Spirit is part of the means of salvation, the means of delivering and making real in us what Christ achieved. Are we comfortable with this idea or uncomfortable?

The Spirit is given as a regenerating agency, to make effectual the salvation wrought by the death of our Redeemer. {AA 52.4}

Of what avail would it have been to us that the only begotten Son of God had humbled Himself, endured the temptations of the wily foe, and wrestled with him during His entire life on earth, and died the Just for the unjust that humanity might not perish, if the Spirit had not been given as a constant, working, regenerating agent to make effectual in our cases what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer? {3SM 137.1}

In describing to His disciples the office work of the Holy Spirit, Jesus sought to inspire them with the joy and hope that inspired His own heart... The Spirit was to be given as a regenerating agent, and without this the sacrifice of Christ would have been of no avail. The power of evil had been strengthening for centuries, and the submission of men to this satanic captivity was amazing. Sin could be resisted and overcome only through the mighty agency of the Third Person of the Godhead, who would come with no modified energy, but in the fullness of divine power. It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer. It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature. Christ has given His Spirit as a divine power to overcome all hereditary and cultivated tendencies to evil, and to impress His own character upon His church. {DA 671.2}

In the battle between Christ and Satan, the evil one has worked to oppose Christ at every point through history. He worked to deceive Adam and Eve, he worked to destroy the avenue through which Messiah would come. He tried to have baby Jesus killed. He tried to get Jesus to sin. He tried to keep Jesus in the tomb. He tried to obscure the truth about what Jesus accomplished making it into a legal act. He tries to get us to deny the importance or even existence of the Holy Spirit, because even though he failed at every other point and the remedy for sin has been procured by Jesus, if we deny the Holy Spirit we close ourselves off to the agent which make Christ's victory effectual in us, i.e. applies the remedy to us!

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Though Job had..." thoughts? Any lesson for us today when we experience trials and difficulties? Is it sometimes true that we experience difficulties because we are right with God and the evil one wants to discourage us?

Does this explain all the reasons why trials and difficulties occur? No, but it is one possible reason. Could this be an encouragement?

How can this be misapplied and misused? Some believe if they are not being persecuted by the world it is because they are not yet holy enough and they use persecution as the evidence of their holiness, so they make a point of acting in ways that enhance their divergence from societal norms until they incite conflict and then point to the conflict as evidence of their holiness. David Koresh and the Branch Davidians did this—have you ever known Christians doing this same thing on a smaller scale within their Christian community—perhaps acting with extremes within their congregation to the point of inciting critique and then pointing to the criticism as evidence of their holiness?

Read second paragraph, "How good and how faithful..." Yes, Biblical perfection is about maturity of character, not perfect performance of all tasks—i.e. a person who spills soup, or trips and falls on a tree root, or gets a math problem wrong, makes an error in their check registry and thus bounces a check, or many other mistakes in life, can still be perfect i.e. mature of character.

Apply this insight to this Bible passage:

Although he [Jesus] was a son, he learned obedience from what he suffered ⁹ and, once made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him... Heb 5:8,9

Wasn't Jesus always perfect? What is Bible perfection? Maturity—while Jesus was always sinless, as a human he was not always fully mature, but had to grow and develop a perfect and mature human character—it was only AFTER He accomplished this, which was fully done at the Cross, that He was then able to be our Savior and High Priest. Thoughts? Concerns? Why is this true?

What was needed for our salvation? If the legal penal view is correct, that what was needed was sinless blood sacrifice of a human life, then God could have provided that when Jesus was a baby—Remember Satan inspired Herod to try and kill baby Jesus. If Herod succeeded the sinless blood of Jesus would have been shed—with what result? The plan of salvation would have failed—why? Because Jesus would NOT have grown as a man and developed a perfect character—this is why Satan tried to have Jesus killed as a baby.

Read third paragraph, “Second, the text says...” What does it mean to be upright? How can we be upright today? What is the balance between obeying God's law and human law?

Read fourth paragraph, “Third, the text says...” What does it mean to fear God? Does it mean to be terrified and scared, or to be in awe, to revere, to be inspired by, to look up to, to humble oneself before?

Why is this an important distinction?

When we are inspired and in awe, but without terror and not afraid, frightened, or scared, what will that lead to? Will it lead to Isaiah 1:18, “Come let us reason together...” Will we be more interesting in talking with God, in asking honest questions, in seeking to understand? Do we see the two people in OT times who God called His friends doing this? Moses and Abraham?

But what if we instead hold to fear, terror, dread? Does this lead us to question, or simply do what the master says, “God said it, I believe it, that settles it?”

Read fifth paragraph, “Finally, Job...” thoughts? What is evil? How can we tell the difference between good and evil?

If we are in the imposed law construct we often miss it and we end up doing evil in the name of good—examples:

- Those who crucified Christ because He broke their law
- Those who burned other's at the stake throughout history
- A mother is home with her 5 and 7 y/o daughters decorating for Christmas and Christmas music is playing and the kids and mother are laughing and frolicking/dancing around to the music when the father walks in—he sees them dancing and scowls angrily and comments about how dancing is sinful and stomps out.

- A preacher tells his church that Christ cannot return until the women stop wearing make-up, jewelry, and pants, and until Christians stop watching TV, and stop eating meat.
- Others?

What is true evil? Here is a short three paragraphs from EGW:

All sin is selfishness... The sowing of seeds of selfishness in the human heart was the first result of the entrance of sin into the world. God desires every one to understand the evil of selfishness, and to co operate with Him in guarding the human family against its terrible, deceptive powers. The design of the gospel is to confront this evil by means of remedial missionary work, and to destroy its destructive power by establishing enterprises of benevolence. {WB, September 9, 1902 par. 3}

As a remedy for the terrible consequences into which selfishness led the human race, God gave His only begotten Son to die for mankind. [what was the reason? as a remedy to cure the human condition from selfishness] How could He have given more? In this gift He gave Himself. "I and My Father are one," said Christ. By the gift of His Son, God has made it possible for man to be redeemed and restored to oneness with Him. "God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Love is the great principle that actuates unfallen beings. With amazement the angels behold the indifference that those who have light and knowledge manifest toward a world unsaved. The heavenly host are filled with an intense desire to work through human agencies to restore in man the image of God. They are ready and waiting to do this work. The combined power of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost is pledged to uplift man from his fallen state. Every attribute, every power of divinity has been placed at the command of those who unite with the Saviour in winning men to God. O, that all would appreciate the truth as it is in Jesus. O, that all would love God in return for the love wherewith He has loved them. {WB, September 9, 1902 par. 4}

Sin has extinguished the love that God placed in man's heart. The work of the church is to rekindle this love. The church is to co-operate with God by uprooting selfishness from the human heart, placing in its stead the benevolence that was in man's heart in his original state of perfection. {WB, September 9, 1902 par. 5}

Do you hear anything legal or penal? No it is all design law, restoring God's law of love, His design back into human beings.

Thus the greatest evil is the evil of religions and religious teachings that present God to be like Satan in character!

Go around the world and ask people to define evil. You will always find that no matter what society, that evil has at its core the exploitation of other human beings. This means evil, by definition, recognizes the value of other human beings. And where does this value, this worth of humanity originate—in all societies, including those who reject God?

MONDAY

The title of the lesson is from Job 29:6 where Job said “my steps were bathed with cream.” What is he saying?

Read fourth paragraph, “But we can see...” thoughts? How must Job have treated people for them to think of him this way?

Do we see all human beings as equal? Do all human beings have equal worth? Absolutely! How has this truth been perverted to cause division?

The truth that all humans are of equal worth has been distorted into the idea that it is immoral, wrong, even sinful, to make distinctions between people based on ability. Historically, discrimination occurred based on arbitrary reasons such as the color of one’s skin or their gender. But, this doesn’t mean we are not to discriminate, i.e. make discerning decisions between people and Martin Luther King Jr. stated it quite accurately:

I look to a day when people will not be judged by the color of their skin, but by the content of their character.

It is right to discriminate by character, to refuse to hire someone who is untrustworthy etc.

Is it also wise to discriminate based on ability—a good coach doesn’t put the quarterback in the defensive line, or put the offensive lineman at quarterback, or the kicker as running back. A good coach recognizes that the team functions best when each person’s abilities are taken into account and they are allowed to function in the role they are best suited for.

In the church we are advised in the New Testament that some have various gifts, abilities, endowments, and that persons should fill roles in the church according to their gifts. In other words, we should discriminate and avoid putting people in positions where they are not well suited.

Society could learn from this principle.

TUESDAY

The last paragraph states, “Here, though, Job shows just how much he understands about human rights and that these rights originate in the God who made us.”

What are human rights? What does it mean?

They are commonly understood as inalienable fundamental rights "to which a person is inherently entitled simply because she or he is a human being," and which are "inherent in all human beings" regardless of their nation, location, language, religion, ethnic origin or any other status. They are applicable everywhere and at every time in the sense of being universal, and they are egalitarian in the sense of being the same for everyone. They require empathy and the rule of law and impose an obligation on persons to respect the human rights of others. They should not be taken away except as a result of due process based on specific circumstances; https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Human_rights

Can we name any?

- Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness?
- Freedom of thought and religion and conscience
- Freedom from torture
- Freedom from imprisonment
- Freedom from slavery
- Freedom of speech
- Freedom of movement
- Right to a fair trial
- Right to bear arms

Why are these rights? Where do they come from? What makes them rights?

If the evolutionary worldview is correct—then how can any of these be inherent rights? In the evolutionary worldview isn't it a law that the strong prey on the weak in order to advance and succeed and a species is benefited by killing off its weakest members?

We have pointed out in here many times the contradiction in Christianity by those who teach a God of love and that God will kill you or torture you in hell if you don't love Him in return.

But, notice, the liberal humanist has similar contradictions—teaching that there is no God, no higher moral authority, that we just evolved by random chance through the process of the weak and defective being killed off and the strong surviving, yet arguing for the equal rights of all human beings. What is the moral basis for them if there is no God?

Here is an interesting quote from EGW:

When Christ came to the earth, humanity seemed to be fast reaching its lowest point. The very foundations of society were undermined. Life had become false and artificial. The Jews, destitute of the power of God's word, gave to the world mind-benumbing, soul-deadening traditions and speculations. The worship of God "in Spirit and in truth" had been supplanted by the glorification of men in an endless round of man-made ceremonies. Throughout the world all systems of religion were losing their hold on mind and soul. Disgusted with fable and falsehood, seeking to drown thought, men turned to infidelity and materialism. Leaving eternity out of their reckoning, they lived for the present. {Ed 74.4} [Does this sound familiar?]

As they ceased to recognize the Divine, they ceased to regard the human. Truth, honor, integrity, confidence, compassion, were departing from the earth. Relentless greed and absorbing ambition gave birth to universal distrust. The idea of duty, of the obligation of strength to weakness, of human dignity and human rights, was cast aside as a dream or a fable. The common people were regarded as beasts of burden or as the tools and the steppingstones for ambition. Wealth and power, ease and self-indulgence, were sought as the highest good. Physical degeneracy, mental stupor, spiritual death, characterized the age. {Ed 75.1}

WEDNESDAY

Read second paragraph, "But there's a deeper..." I think this is a good point, Job didn't curse God because he had enough experience, personal knowledge of God, that even though Job didn't understand what was happening and why, He knew that God would not do evil or wrong. It is similar today when you know someone very well and you hear a rumor about them that puts them in a bad light, and you say—no, there must be some other explanation, and you give time for them to reveal the truth to you.

THURSDAY

Read last paragraph, "What we see..." How do we understand this in the setting of the Great Controversy?

What was the original purpose in the creation of humankind?

They were to be the repository of God's living law of love and govern this planet as God governs His universe!

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

A couple of weeks back I made reference to an online dialogue I had with writers of the Compass Magazine website. I stated that Compass Magazine was in some way affiliated with Andrews University—however, I received an email this week from a listener that suggests this may not be an official relationship, i.e. owned and operated by Andrews, but instead appears to be a not-for-profit organization in an informal relationship, as it is edited by students of Andrews. If anyone else can clarify the specific relationship that would be helpful.

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

January 20, 21, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at The Haven in St. Helena, California

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhcs Summit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Book of Job Lesson 14 4Q 2016

Some Lessons From Job

SABBATH

When you consider the book of Job, what are the main lessons you take from it?

- God is not the source of evil
- There is a reality beyond which we can see, a dimension with which we are currently out of phase
- That there is a real intelligent being who is evil, consumed completely with selfishness
- That bad things can happen to good people through no choice or wrong of their own
- That people with good intentions can be the voice of the evil one
- That sometimes the circumstances we are in don't make sense to our current level of understanding—yet God is still good and is worthy of our trust!
- That we have genuine freedom and God doesn't use His power to control His intelligent creatures like puppets.
- The way the world currently operates is out of harmony with God's design—in other words, we cannot look at nature and say, the strong prey on the weak, innocents are slaughtered all the time, therefore God is the one doing this, or it is God's will for it to be this way, or it is God's design. No! God challenged Job's assumption on this and pointed out that Job was not there when God created earth and life on it, and Job's current view is misinformed. Much of our modern world, both Christian and scientific need to learn this lesson!
- others?

Read second paragraph, “We have no reason...” What do you hear this saying? That just because we cannot currently understand something doesn't mean God is not good or that God cannot be trusted. That the problem is in our limited awareness of all the facts and variables involved, but, is this saying that because we are limited in our understanding that we should NOT try to comprehend and understand? No! God invites us to reason, to think, to intelligently understand as far as we are able and to never rest satisfied in our current understanding but to keep moving forward in the truth! thoughts?

SUNDAY

The lesson points us to 2Cor 5:7: “We live by faith, not by sight.” and 2 Cor 4:18: “So we fix our eyes not on what is seen, but on what is unseen. For what is seen is temporary, but what is unseen is eternal.”

Thoughts about these passages?

What does it mean to live by faith and not be sight? Does it mean believing without evidence?

Remember this quote from a quarterly a few years ago:

“There is always a need for faith, which is belief in something we don’t totally see or understand. If we could totally see it or understand it, then there would be no room for faith. We don’t need faith to believe that the sky is over our heads. We can look up and see it. Faith is needed, instead, to believe in the God who lives beyond that sky, because we can’t see Him.”¹

Is this correct, or is there an error in this line of thinking? What is the error? If this is the correct way to understand faith, then when Jesus comes and we see Him face to face do we say, “Jesus I used to have faith in you, but now that I meet you, see you, come to know you and understand you I don’t have faith in you any more?” Or will our faith be so much stronger on that day?

So how do understand the passages?

This lesson did a good job of describing it correctly, read first paragraph, “The immediate...” How is this correct and the paragraph about the sky incorrect?

Because this paragraph is about faith in a promise for something not yet experienced, and we have no evidence of what has been promised, thus we live by trusting or having faith in the One who promised. But, even though we don’t have evidence of the future promise, do we have abundant evidence of the existence of God and His trustworthiness? Yes, so the point is this:

Our faith in God is based on EVIDENCE of His existence and His trustworthiness, which He has provided in abundance. However, we do not have current evidence to prove that everything He has promised is real, that we take on faith because of the evidence of the trustworthiness of the One who promised.

Does this make sense? I want to hammer this point home, because in Christianity texts like these have been used to teach a lie that we don’t have or need evidence to believe in God, not so, our faith in God is supposed to be based on the evidences He has provided and what are the three threads of evidence?

- Scripture
- Science
- Experience

Jesus followed the divine plan of education... His education was gained directly from the Heaven-appointed sources; from useful work, from the study of the Scriptures and of nature, and from the experiences of life--God's lesson books, full of instruction to all who bring to them the willing hand, the seeing eye, and the understanding heart. {Ed 77.2}

What do you say to those who report it is illogical to believe in God because we cannot see Him?

What are answers that can put this argument to rest?

Read third and fourth paragraphs:

A preacher stood before a church in a large city. He asked the congregation to be quiet. For a few seconds there was no sound. He then pulled out a radio and turned it on, running the dial across the channels. All sorts of sounds came out of the radio.

“Let me ask,” the preacher said, “Where did these sounds come from? Did they originate in the radio itself? No, these sounds were in the air all around us, as radio waves, waves just as real as my voice is now. But the way we are wired, we don’t have access to them. But the fact that we can’t see or feel or hear them doesn’t mean that they don’t exist, right?”

Are there other examples of things we cannot sense, but are proven to be real?

- Light beyond our visual spectrum—ultraviolet, infrared
- Sound beyond our ability to hear
- Smells beyond our ability to smell—
 - Dogs are believed to have sense of smell 10,000 to 100,000 times as sensitive as ours. If we translated the 10,000 times better to vision—we can see a third of a mile, then a dog could see 3,000 miles!
 - Dogs can sense up to 1 part per trillion. For instance, we could tell if we had a teaspoon of sugar in a cup of coffee, a dog could sense that same teaspoon of sugar a million gallons of water, the amount in two Olympic size pools.
 - There are reports of dogs finding 35 pounds of marijuana packed in plastic container submerged in gasoline within a gas tank.
- Radiation
- Gravity
- Nuclear forces—the force that hold nucleuses of molecules together
- What about quantum forces?

Are there spiritual lessons we can learn from this?

Why should we believe that life is intelligently designed rather than just randomly coming to be on its own?

Last week I mentioned the differences between origin science and evolutionary science. Origin is science on how things came into existence, whereas evolutionary science is about how things adapt and change based on experience. The problem with godless evolutionary science however is that you cannot start evolving until origin happens, if nothing originates then there is nothing to evolve. And all the origin science supports creation and refutes a godless origin.

If you examine the big premises of what evolution teaches about origins versus what creation teaches about origins in light of the scientific method, i.e. what is testable and reproducible, we find something quite interesting—that creation is more scientific than evolution. Here are the big premises:

- Evolution—something came from nothing
- Creation—something came from something else
- Evolution—order came from disorder on its own with no intelligent input—this idea violates the second law of thermodynamics and all scientific experiments disprove the theory
- Creation—order came from disorder with intelligent input—this idea is in harmony with the second law of thermodynamics and life proves this to be true every day
- Evolution—life came from non-living matter on its own, spontaneous generation—which has been proven scientifically to be false, so scientists came up with a new name—abiogenesis, which also has no evidence in science.
- Creation—life comes from living matter—which the entire planet every day demonstrates to be true

Further problems with the godless view of origin are well described in Nancy Pearcey's book Finding Truth (I want to thank Marilyn Holm an online listener for gifting me this book) writes:

The origin of the universe has given rise to a puzzle known as the fine-tuning problem. The fundamental physical constants of the universe are exquisitely balanced, as though on a knife's edge, to sustain life. Things like the force of gravity, the strong nuclear force, the weak nuclear force, the electromagnetic force, the ratio of the mass of the proton and the electron, and many other factors have just the right value needed to make life possible. If any of these critical numbers were changed even slightly, the universe could not sustain any form of life. For example, if the strength of gravity were smaller or larger than its current value by only one part in 10^{60} (1 followed by 60 zeroes), the universe would be uninhabitable. (page 25)

She goes on to say:

What makes the fine-tuning problem so puzzling is that there is no physical cause to explain it. "Nothing in all of physics explains why its fundamental principles should conform themselves so precisely to life's requirement," says astronomer George Greenstein. p. 26

Why do you think chemists have never been able to create life in a lab? Pearcey quotes Physicist Paul Davies and says:

The central role of information explains why scientists have failed "to cook up life in the chemistry lab. Chemistry is about substances and how they react, whereas biology appeals to concepts such as information”—which is clearly not chemical. Genetic information can be described only by using terminology borrowed from the mental world of language and communication: DNA is “a genetic ‘database,’ containing ‘instructions’ on how to build an organism. The genetic ‘code’ has to be ‘transcribed’ and ‘translated’ before it can act.” p 27

Pearcy points out:

Biologists’ favorite analogy for DNA is a computer. The molecule itself (the physical chain of chemicals) is the hardware. The DNA (the encoded information) is the software. In the origin-of-life research, the focus is on building the hardware. “Attempts at chemical synthesis focus exclusively on the hardware—the chemical substrate of life,” Davies writes; they “ignore the software—the informational aspect.” Yet any twelve-year-old kid with a laptop knows that building an electronic device out of copper, plastic, and silicone has nothing to do with writing the code to create the software program.

The surprising implication is that even if scientists succeeded in coaxing all the right chemicals to link up and form DNA molecules in a test tube, that would do nothing to explain where the encoded genetic information came from. p 27.

And, if the scientists in a lab did get the chemicals to form strands of DNA they would deny that they were using their intelligence to create the very conditions needed for the DNA to form—meaning it didn’t happen randomly on its own, but with intelligent input.

There are other lines of reason to support intelligent design to be much more reasonable than a godless origin. First the principle of cause and effect, in order for an effect to occur the cause has to be capable of producing the effect.

Pearcy puts it like this:

Because humans are capable of knowing, the first cause that produced them must have a mind. Because humans are capable of choosing, the first cause must have a will. And so on. Philosopher Etienne Gilson captures the argument neatly: because a human is someone and not a something, the source of human life must also be a Someone.

Materialism cannot explain human consciousness. There is nothing in science that has ever even come up with a theory for the existence of human consciousness.

Philosopher Even Fales calls it a mystery: “Darwinian evolution implies that humans emerged through the blind operation of natural forces. It is mysterious how such forces could generate something nonphysical.” Percy p. 109

Philosopher Colin McGinn treats it akin to a miracle. “We do not know how consciousness might have arisen by natural processes from antecedently existing material things. One is tempted, however reluctantly, to turn to divine assistance...” Percy p. 109

So, we come to the deep denial and foundation of a faith with evidence system of belief for those who deny the existence of God:

In the words of philosopher Galen Strawson, the denial of consciousness “is surely the strangest thing that has ever happened in the whole history of human thought.” It shows “that the power of human credulity [ability to believe without evidence] is unlimited, that the capacity of human minds to be gripped by theory, by faith, is truly unbounded.” It reveals “the deepest irrationality of the human mind.” Ibid. p 110

When we speak of evolution, the adaptation of things over time, the Bible teaches that this process is the way God designed reality to work. This is why God said to Adam and Eve that they would create beings in their image. It is found in the commandments that the sins would pass down 3 and 4 generations. It is found in Psalms that we are born in sin and conceived in iniquity. The Bible teaches that we were created with the ability to learn, adapt, change and pass those changes along to the next generation. This is epigenetic modification which happens within a few generations and which science has documented in thousands of examples.

Any examples of adaptation?

- Darwin’s famous finches – with all the different beaks; the diversity of beaks Darwin observed didn’t happen over millions of years due to random mutation, but happened in 1-2 generations due to environment and epigenetic modification. Amazingly, Darwin’s finches are evidence of creation, not evolution.² Had Darwin had the advantage of modern DNA science his theory of change over millions of years would have been refuted.
- Not all changes, since humankind deviated from God’s design are adaptive and consistent with how God designed life to operate.
 - Telomere shortening, which contributes to aging
 - Epigenetic modification in response to famine, which contributes to obesity in offspring

- Epigenetic modification related to alcohol, which results in offspring of mothers who drink while pregnant have change in taste receptors such that alcohol tastes better than if mother didn't drink while pregnant
- 1000 new damaging mutations in the human genome every generation—the genome is degrading slowly—again consistent with the second law of thermodynamics and just the opposite of the evolutionary theory

So what if we changed the words in Genesis 1:1 from: “In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth.” To:

“Earth began when an extra-terrestrial intelligence came and terraformed it establishing a viable atmosphere and a stable planet.”

Does this say anything that contradicts the traditional view? Would non-believers be more open to it? Would you be comfortable or uncomfortable using this language? If we did use this language wouldn't the most important question still be—who is this extra-terrestrial intelligence? Is he a being we can trust?

Why is it so many prefer the illogical, evidence-denying idea that there is no God and the universe came into being by itself, ordered itself, and generated life all by itself without any intelligent input?

Because the alternative from human history has been worse—a false god who is worse than the worst human dictator—supreme in power and a being who will torture those who don't love him for all eternity.

Many people who have rejected God and gone to a godless view of reality is because the god construct they have been presented with is one that rightly should be rejected. The good news however, is that that God construct is false. We have an incredible truth, a message about our Designer God whose laws are the protocols upon which reality functions, who is always love and is seeking to heal and restore all who trust Him!

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, “Evil is something put into...” Any questions or concerns about this paragraph?

I personally am not comfortable with this description. For me evil requires volition, intention, choice, thus inanimate nature is not capable of evil. Evil requires the choice to reject good and choose evil, without that choice it might be harmful, it might be destructive, it might be a result of some other evil, but itself is not evil.

- is water evil?

- What if water is used to drown someone? Now is water evil?
- What if the water was from a flood, is water now evil?
- Is the flood evil?
- What if the flood was due to a broken dam that broke simply because of age—was the dam evil? Was the water evil? Was it evil for the people to build the dam?
- What if the flood was due to heavy rains, are rains evil?
- What if the heavy rains flooded an area because of development of the area in a flood plane, was it evil to develop an area at risk for flooding?
- Could someone perpetrate evil by using water—drowning someone on purpose, blowing up a dam etc.? Is the water evil? Is the dam evil? Are the explosives evil? Is the flood which occurred because the dam was blown up evil? What was evil? The choice to deviate from love and act selfishly and destructively.
- What about pestilence—is a bacteria evil, or a result of evil in the world?

Read last paragraph, “In Job’s case...” What was the evil for which Satan was responsible? Is the evil in the natural event, or in the one who instigated the natural event to perpetrate harm?

Is a knife evil? What if a knife is used perform life-saving surgery, is the knife evil? What if a knife is used to murder someone, is the knife now evil?

This type of thinking, calling inanimate things evil leads to superstitious thinking:

- black cats are evil
- carved images, statues are evil
- pentagrams and goats heads are evil
- rabbits feet are good luck
- crosses are protection from evil
- a Bible in my car will keep me from a wreck

As we said last week in every culture of the world when you ask people to define evil it always involves exploiting or injuring another human being, and sometimes cruelty to animals, but never to cultures define evil by doing something to inanimate material.

TUESDAY

The lesson is about the friends who were more of a burden than a relief to Job and in the first paragraph it states, “However, after Job first started speaking, bemoaning the tragedies that befell him, they apparently felt it was more important for them to put Job in his place and set his theology straight than it was to encourage and uplift the spirits of their suffering friend.”

Do we ever see this today?

Do you remember the story from the beginning of The God-Shaped Brain of the young woman who came to see me distraught because she and her husband were unable to get pregnant? Her pastor had told her that God was punishing her because when she was a teen she had gotten pregnant and had an abortion and now God was punishing her by making her infertile.

Why would a pastor say such a thing to a young lady hurting as she was? What would motivate the pastor?

Who was the pastor trying to comfort—the young lady or himself? In other words, the pastor saying what he said because he needed to continue to promote a framework that brought him comfort regardless of who he hurt.

This is what Job's friends were doing—Job's friends saw the terrible tragedy that befell Job and it would most certainly cause them some anxiety and distress, and they would want to feel safe and secure in their situation. How? By finding fault with Job, it must be Job's fault and as long as it is Job's fault, something Job did to deserve this, then they didn't have to live in fear and anxiety as long as they didn't do something evil. So, Job just needs to admit he was wrong and deserved this so they can all go home and feel secure.

They wanted to be in control, believe that they were in control of what happened to them and could keep themselves safe. They didn't want to live in a universe in which they were not in control, thus they had this theology of rules and as long as they obey the rules they are safe.

This is very much one of the reasons for the penal views of theology we deal with today. God has His rules, if we know the rules and keep them then we are safe, we cannot be tagged out if we are on base so to speak. Thus many people cling to this false legal view and put burdens on innocents, just like Job's friends, so they can make themselves feel better.

The third paragraph compares how Jesus treated the woman caught in adultery with how Job's friends treated him. Then the lesson says this, "But even if he had been guilty like this woman, what Job needed from these men was what this woman needed, and what all suffering people need: grace and forgiveness."

What do you understand this to be saying? What does "grace and forgiveness" mean to you?

How can this be heard very accurately and correctly in God's plan and how can this be heard very inaccurately and even destructively?

What is grace? How would you explain it to a non-Christian you met on an airplane?

What about forgiveness, what do you understand it to be?

What law lens do you see these things through?

If we operate under the imposed law lens, broken rules which require inflicted punishment, grace means unmerited favor and forgiveness means legal pardon.

If we view these things through design law, we realize grace is God's constant interest, work, expenditure of energy and resources for the healing and restoration of His creation—because God is always gracious. And forgiveness is more than personal or legal pardon, it is the actual experience of being forgiven in the heart which brings repentance and reconciliation.

So the woman caught in adultery did not need to be legally pardoned, she needed to have her guilt, shame, self-loathing, self-disgust, fear of rejection and belief that she was too sinful for God or others to love removed. This is God's grace manifested in Christ's actions in dispersing the crowd and then asking where are her accusers. In other words, "Young lady, I am not accusing you." Why not? There is no need. Her actions were condemning her. Jesus is saying, "I know where you were just now and what you were doing. If you had not been caught and brought before me you would have snuck home, head hung low, consumed with guilt and shame, feeling worthless, searing your conscience and warping your character. I don't condemn you because your own actions are what are condemning and destroying you—why? Because you are acting outside my design for life and relationships and whenever someone chooses to do so they damage themselves. Please stop hurting yourself like this and go and live in harmony with my design—sin no more!

Here is an EGW quote:

God's forgiveness is not merely a judicial act by which He sets us free from condemnation. It is not only forgiveness for sin but reclaiming from sin. It is the outflow of redeeming love that transforms the heart. David had the true conception of forgiveness when he prayed, "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." Psalm 51:10. {FLB 129.2}

If you have concerns about the "not merely a judicial act" meaning that is in part a judicial act, I would say this is because of the written law being added because of transgression to bring us to repentance, so for those who are still operating under the burden of the added written law God doesn't leave them in fear and insecurity, but adds for their peace the language of legal pardon, but there problem was never a legal problem it was always a condition of heart problem.

WEDNESDAY

Read fourth paragraph, "Secular writers, atheistic writers..." Do you know anyone who believes this way? How sad, to think we are only here for up to a 100 years and then we die and it meant nothing?

What does such a concept lead to?

Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die—hedonism—live for the moment, no sense in planning for a future.

The loss of a sense of right and wrong, everything is right if you can get away with it....as some think.

THURSDAY

What parallels do you see in the story of Job and the story of Jesus?

- A conflict over the character of God in which Satan works to misrepresent God; Job and Jesus work to reveal the truth about God
- Job had friends who were suggesting lies to him—Jesus friends (Peter) also suggested lies to him
- Job was righteous and was accused of not being righteous, Jesus was sinless and accused of being sinful
- Job suffered by no wrong action of his own, but because of who he was in God's plan. Jesus suffered by no wrong action of his own but because of who is was in God's plan
- Job turned to nature for answers—but drew the wrong conclusions, Jesus turned to nature as illustration to reveal the right answers!
- Job's wife had no role in his struggle to overcome his dilemma, except to perhaps add an additional burden; Christ's bride played no role in his struggle to overcome his dilemma, except to add a burden (remember when Christ asked His disciples to watch with Him, they slept, and one betrayed Him.)
- Job converses with God and finally come to peace; Jesus prays to His Father during His greatest agony and in that conversation comes to peace.
- Job, even though he lost children and had property destroyed, receives a greater property and more children in the end. Jesus, even though He lose many of His children and has had His property (earth) destroyed, in the end has many children restored to eternal life and His universe renewed in perfection.

Other parallels?

FRIDAY

read and discuss questions.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

January 20, 21, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at The Haven in St. Helena, California

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhcs Summit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Holy Spirit and Spirituality 1Q 2017 Lesson 1

The Spirit and The Word

INTRODUCTION to the Quarterly:

Read fifth paragraph, which is first paragraph on page 3: “But there is a reason...” They are drawing a contrast between the HS and the Father and Son, so are they suggesting the Father and Son do seek to be the center of attention—is that true?

When Jesus was on earth did He seek attention for Himself? Or was He unassuming, often slipped away after a miracle before people could make a big deal, told people not to tell what He had done, and most importantly always said He was here NOT to bring attention to Himself but to point everyone to the Father! And the Father invested His energy and resources in the Son. The Trinity is the Triune perfection of other-centered love all three constantly seeking the good of the other two and their creation.

Why is the HS in the background more? Because of their chosen roles. Within a family the husband and wife decide between them many duties to be fulfilled, laundry, cooking, taking kids to school—either one is completely capable of doing any of these duties, it is simply by mutual agreement that one does some and the other does different duties. It is like this amongst the Godhead, any of the three could do anything because they are all equally God, yet they have, through mutual agreement, decided different roles or duties because of their character of love, because love gives, because all enjoy doing for each other and their creation; and what do you see those duties to be?

- The Father acts as the source of all that is good.
- The Son is the medium, mediator, advocate, conduit, agent through which the Father reveals Himself or acts and directly interacts with their creation on a physical level
- The Holy Spirit is the actualizer or applier of what the Father and Son have achieved

Thus God was in the Son reconciling the world to Himself (2Cor 5:19). Jesus’ work on earth was the acting out of the Father’s heart. His completed mission and victory over sin are applied into the lives of believers by the work of the Holy Spirit. In creation we have the Father as the source, the Son as the architect, designer, and builder and the Spirit as the actualizer or implementer of Their design.

So, with this understanding we realize what Christ meant when He said, “I do nothing of myself.” Christ takes from the Father to fulfill all the Father’s purposes for His universe. In this sense we can see various writers describing Christ turning to the Father, not to persuade the Father to be kind, but to receive from the Father the fullness of the Father’s purpose of love for His creation and carry that purpose out in meaningful action!

Another way to say this is the analogy of the connect-the-dot books. Each dot represents a fact, an actual historical act—these dots were placed by Jesus, who is the member of the Godhead who left infinity to interact in physical form directly with His creation. The Holy Spirit is the member of the Godhead who comes to us and enlightens our minds to connect the dots so that we can see the larger picture of reality.

SABBATH

Read memory text:

“All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, ¹⁷ that the man of God may be complete, thoroughly equipped for every good work.” NKJV

This from the NKJV but the KJV is very similar:

All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: ¹⁷ That the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works. KJV

A week or so ago I mentioned that there were errors in the KJV, this is one of those texts with an error—anyone recognize the translation error in this text?

If you are reading from the KJV it helps you because all the words that are not in the Greek are in italics, which means the translators added those words. So in this case, the first “is” is added, when it says “All scripture is given by inspiration of God...” the “is” is supplied and leads to a false meaning, which has been quite destructive.

What is the false meaning? That all Scripture is given by God—is it? What about the Apocrypha and pseudo-Apocrypha are inspired by God? In the original 1611 KJV the entire Apocrypha was included, so those readers would use this text believe that the Apocrypha is equally inspired to the rest of Scripture.

What about the Koran or the Book of Mormon—are they equally inspired to the Bible? But they are also scriptures, just not our scriptures.

Almost all translations get this wrong. But the American Standard Bible and The Remedy state it more accurately. Here is the American Standard Bible:

Every scripture inspired of God is also profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction which is in righteousness. ASB

Do you see the difference? It is absolutely true that all Scripture that God inspired is useful—it is not true that all Scripture has been inspired by God.

SUNDAY

Read the first paragraph, “How does God ensure...” No doubt, we as finite human beings, with natures that are fearful and selfish have quite limited innate understanding of reality and without the work of the Holy Spirit would be incapable of figuring out what is true.

So God is revealing truth to us—the lesson makes a distinction between revelation and inspiration—what do you understand the difference to be?

- Revelation is the act of revealing or disclosing—in this context, God acting to reveal or disclose truth about Himself and the GC to us.
- Inspiration—in the theological context it is defined as: “a divine influence directly and immediately exerted upon the mind or soul.”

As you hear these definitions, does inspiration then become one method or means of revelation? Or is there another distinction?

Other methods of Revelation besides inspiration?

- Directly talking to an intelligent being—in heaven, in Eden, with Moses, with Enoch, with Elijah
- Through signs and wonders
- Written messages directly from God—10 Commandments
- Written messages through angels—handwriting on the wall
- Written messages through humans—Scripture
- Verbal messages from angels—Gabriel talking to Daniel, Zachariah, Mary, the shepherds etc.
- Verbal messages through people
- Nature—Rom 1:20
- Life experiences and circumstances
- Animals—Balaam’s donkey
- Rituals and symbols and holy-days (holidays)
- Dreams and Visions—would these be forms of revelation that fall under the inspiration category?

Any others?

What is the purpose of all of these various activities—to achieve what? Communication to finite beings, primarily sinners, for what purpose? To enlighten us—to what purpose? To bring us back to the knowledge of God for our healing and restoration. There is nothing magical in any of these forms of communication—such as rituals, communion, baptism, or Scripture all of it is God reaching out to us to enlighten, transform, renew, heal and restore us to unity with Him!

Therefore, if the medium used by God to communicate with us instead becomes an obstacle to communication, worse darkens our minds and misinforms us about God and prevents us from seeing the truth—then what? It might need to be removed—which is what God did twice with the symbolic system of the OT.

The lesson points out that, “Revelation is the process in which God makes Himself and His divine will known to humans. The basic idea associated with the word revelation is an unveiling, or uncovering, a disclosure of something that otherwise is hidden.”

The question—what has hidden what God is revealing? Why are these truth hidden?

Satan’s lies about God and his distortions about God have hidden the truth about God necessitating God to act to reveal it. God has never acted to obscure the truth of His character and method of love—it is Satan that has done this—and most of the world remains in gross darkness to the true character of God, seeing God merely as powerful, but rarely as good.

Read last paragraph, “According to the apostle Peter...”

First question—how does inspiration work? Does the Holy Spirit dictate to the Bible writers what to write? Does the Holy Spirit enlighten the Bible writers with truth but the writers are left free to choose how they will express the truths? What then is inspired by God the words or the ideas expressed by those words? So can we substitute words as long as we retain the accurate meaning or ideas? Yes, this is why we can substitute Greek and Hebrew words with English ones. It is also why those claim the KJV is the only version that can be used show their misunderstanding of inspiration.

Here is what EGW said about inspiration:

The Bible is written by inspired men, but it is not God’s mode of thought and expression. It is that of humanity. God, as a writer, is not represented. Men will often say such an expression is not like God. But God has not put Himself in words, in logic, in rhetoric, on trial in the Bible. The writers of the Bible were God’s penmen, not His pen. Look at the different writers. {1SM 21.1}

It is not the words of the Bible that are inspired, but the men that were inspired. Inspiration acts not on the man’s words or his expressions but on the man himself, who, under the influence of the Holy Ghost, is imbued with thoughts. But the words receive the impress of the individual mind. The divine mind is diffused. The divine mind and will is combined with the human mind and will; thus the utterances of the man are the word of God.-- Manuscript 24, 1886 (written in Europe in 1886). {1SM 21.2}

Why is this important to realize? So we don’t use the Bible as a rulebook, a declaration of actions that we are to take without thought. It is not an instruction manual—do this, to that, but a revelation of God to us to enlighten us to how reality works and bring us back to a trust relationship with God. This requires we actually think and comprehend. Following an instruction manual does not require understanding and very little thought—yet this is how much of religion, including Christianity, functions.

Second question from this paragraph is What give the Bible authority? The lesson suggests its divine source gives it authority—but what does this mean?

- The divine all-powerful ruler who inspired the Bible it will enforce what it says—do what it says or else?
- It contains the seal of God therefore because it has the proper legal elements of a seal it legally binding and must be adhered to?
- Because the divine source if the source of all truth, and therefore the Bible contains truth and truth itself is authoritative?

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, “Inspiration is the term...” Has inspiration stopped with the writing of the Bible? Are people today inspired by the Holy Spirit? If they are is the inspiration of the Holy Spirit less inspiration than the writers of the Bible? How do we determine if a message from someone bears the marks of inspiration from God?

The enemies of the disciples could not but be convinced that Christ had risen from the dead. The evidence was too clear to be doubted. Nevertheless, they hardened their hearts, refusing to repent of the terrible deed they had committed in putting Jesus to death. Abundant evidence that the apostles were speaking and acting under divine inspiration had been given the Jewish rulers, but they firmly resisted the message of truth. Christ had not come in the manner that they expected, and though at times they had been convinced that He was the Son of God, yet they had stifled conviction, and crucified Him. In mercy God gave them still further evidence, [this is the third time in this paragraph that the word “evidence” is used. Notice, not declaration, command, claim, proclamation, order, directive, but evidence, and evidence requires something that proclamations do not—our contemplation, reasoning, understanding and then agreement!] and now another opportunity was granted them to turn to Him. He sent the disciples to tell them that they had killed the Prince of life, and in this terrible charge He gave them another call to repentance. But feeling secure in their own righteousness, the Jewish teachers refused to admit that the men charging them with crucifying Christ were speaking by the direction of the Holy Spirit. {AA 61.1}

What evidence was presented? Why didn’t those church leaders accept the inspiration of the Apostles? What did they use to reject the inspiration of the Apostles? Did they use the OT Scriptures that supported their preconceived ideas and expectations? Do we see this happening today, religious leaders, study for years teaching certain viewpoints and having certain expectations, and resisting any advancing truth that doesn’t meet with their expectations?

We are not to set our stakes and then interpret everything to reach this set point. [which means we are not to go to Scripture to prove what we already believe and have been taught is true] Here is where some of our great Reformers have failed, and this is the reason that many who today might be mighty champions for God and the truth are warring against the truth. . . . [Many within our denomination are warring against the truth—why? Because they have their preconceived ideas and use the Bible to prove those ideas true, rather than learning from the Bible.] God designs we should be learners, first from the living oracles, and second from our associates. This is God’s order. {CTr 331.2}

The Word of God is the great detector of error; to it we believe everything must be brought. The Bible must be our standard for every doctrine. We must study it reverentially. We are to receive no one’s opinion without comparing it with the Scriptures. [this is something I actively encourage everyone to do with what we teach!] Here is divine authority, which is supreme in matters of faith. {CTr 331.3}

Read third paragraph, “While many parts of the Bible...” One of the most important questions when reading Scripture, is first to be sure one has an accurate version of the Scripture and then to inquire, what is the point, why is this recorded in Scripture, what is this to teach? For instance we just finished with Job and we found many things recorded in Scripture that are what Job’s friends said, and which were not true—why are the misunderstandings and falsehoods of Job’s friends recorded in Scripture?

The words of Job’s friends, which were lies and falsehoods, are not inspired of the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit inspired that the events, including the interaction of Job and his friends be recorded, so we might learn lessons, that well intentioned people, people with good motives can be wrong, can even be making arguments that undermine trust in God and lead us away from Him. Thus, the inspired message in Job is not what the friends said, but what we observe happening in the story, be careful who you trust, think for yourself, don’t believe someone else is right just because they are sincere.

The point is that it is not enough to quote a Scripture passage, one must understand why it was written and what it was written to accomplish.

With this in mind turn to:

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, “The Word of God is trustworthy...” What does this mean? Does this mean we are not to make judgments about the Scripture, what it means, what is applicable today and what is not, that we are just to take it as it reads and do what it says? Or, is it okay to read the Scripture and conclude that specific God given instructions should not be practiced by us? Is it okay to disagree completely with one of God’s prophets—for instance, if one of God’s prophets says God is doing something is it okay to sit in judgment of this idea and conclude God is not doing it, but the message of the prophet had a different purpose?

Let's examine a couple of Scripture passages and—I will leave it to you to decide if you will take it as it reads or will you pass judgment on what it says:

Be sure to set aside a tenth of all that your fields produce each year. ²³ Eat the tithe of your grain, new wine and oil, and the firstborn of your herds and flocks in the presence of the Lord your God at the place he will choose as a dwelling for his Name, so that you may learn to revere the Lord your God always. ²⁴ But if that place is too distant and you have been blessed by the Lord your God and cannot carry your tithe (because the place where the Lord will choose to put his Name is so far away), ²⁵ then exchange your tithe for silver, and take the silver with you and go to the place the Lord your God will choose. ²⁶ Use the silver to buy whatever you like: cattle, sheep, wine or other fermented drink, or anything you wish. Then you and your household shall eat there in the presence of the Lord your God and rejoice. Dt 14:22-26

Should we sit in judgment here or should we simply do as the Bible says and use our tithe to buy fermented wine and rejoice in church each week or maybe just once a year? Does the Word of God have full acceptance, or do we only accept the parts that we believe are appropriate to God's will and purpose in our lives today?

Do we stone the Sabbath breaker today? Do we prohibit people from being pastors who have vision problems and who need glasses?

Another example is the story of Micaiah, who is a prophet of the Lord when Ahab is asking Jehoshaphat to join him in attacking Ramoth Gilead. This is what Micaiah said:

But Micaiah said, "As surely as the Lord lives, I can tell him only what the Lord tells me."

¹⁵ When he arrived, the king asked him, "Micaiah, shall we go to war against Ramoth Gilead, or shall I refrain?"

"Attack and be victorious," he answered, "for the Lord will give it into the king's hand."

¹⁶ The king said to him, "How many times must I make you swear to tell me nothing but the truth in the name of the Lord?"

¹⁷ Then Micaiah answered, "I saw all Israel scattered on the hills like sheep without a shepherd, and the Lord said, 'These people have no master. Let each one go home in peace.' "

¹⁸ The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "Didn't I tell you that he never prophesies anything good about me, but only bad?"

¹⁹ Micaiah continued, "Therefore hear the word of the Lord: I saw the Lord sitting on his throne with all the host of heaven standing around him on his right and on his left. ²⁰ And the Lord said, 'Who will entice Ahab into attacking Ramoth Gilead and going to his death there?'

“One suggested this, and another that. ²¹ Finally, a spirit came forward, stood before the Lord and said, ‘I will entice him.’

²² “ ‘By what means?’ the Lord asked.

“ ‘I will go out and be a lying spirit in the mouths of all his prophets,’ he said.

“ ‘You will succeed in enticing him,’ said the Lord. ‘Go and do it.’

²³ “So now the Lord has put a lying spirit in the mouths of all these prophets of yours. The Lord has decreed disaster for you.” 1Kings 22:14-23

Do we take the position, “Well the Bible is God’s Word, who am I to question. If one of God’s prophet says it then it must be the truth and God sends lying spirits.” Or do we sit in judgment of this story and come to a different conclusion? What conclusion do we come to?

To whom was Micaiah speaking? To Ahab, and who did Ahab worship—Baal, who was the god of thunder—a precursor to the Norse god Thor. Whenever there was lightening and thunder, Ahab saw his god acting in power and might and knew his god Baal was real. What kind of message would get through to Ahab, what would Ahab be willing to listen to—a gentle God who would not use might and power and would allow His creatures to kill Him on a cross? So, if God wants to get through to Ahab, how does the message have to be framed? That God is powerful and God sent His agents to the false prophets to deceive them—i.e. the prophets of Baal are lying and you will be defeated if you go to war against them. What does this say about God—that God will not speak French to those who do not comprehend French—in other words God speaks in ways the person spoken to can comprehend.

And how does God look? Amazing, He is still willing to reach out in love to warn Ahab even when Ahab has turned his back on God. What parent in the room wouldn’t do the same for a child who has rejected God, gotten into criminal activity, but the child reached out and asked for your advice—what parent wouldn’t give the best advice in the way designed to get through to the child?

When Hebrews says the Scripture judges the thoughts and attitudes of the heart what does this mean?

Heb 4:12 from The Remedy:

For the word of God is the living and active revelation of the truth about God, his methods and principles, and the real basis of life in the universe. It is sharper than any two-edged sword: it penetrates the deepest recesses of the mind and separates thoughts and feelings, habits and motives; it also diagnoses the true intentions, attitudes, and principles of the heart.

WEDNESDAY

Read the first paragraph, “The Holy Spirit is instrumental...” What does this mean? Does it mean that one cannot understand spiritual truths without the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit? And do we agree with this? Absolutely, then how can we tell if who has the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit?

Is graduating from one of our seminaries evidence one has the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit? Then why do so many churches require a theology degree for pastoral or other church leadership roles?

If education in a parochial school is the measure for service in the church why didn't Jesus go to the parochial school of His day?

The child Jesus did not receive instruction in the synagogue schools. His mother was His first human teacher. From her lips and from the scrolls of the prophets, He learned of heavenly things. The very words which He Himself had spoken to Moses for Israel He was now taught at His mother's knee. As He advanced from childhood to youth, He did not seek the schools of the rabbis. He needed not the education to be obtained from such sources; for God was His instructor. {DA 70.1}

The question asked during the Saviour's ministry, "How knoweth this man letters, having never learned?" does not indicate that Jesus was unable to read, but merely that He had not received a rabbinical education. John 7:15. Since He gained knowledge as we may do, His intimate acquaintance with the Scriptures shows how diligently His early years were given to the study of God's word. And spread out before Him was the great library of God's created works. He who had made all things studied the lessons which His own hand had written in earth and sea and sky. Apart from the unholy ways of the world, He gathered stores of scientific knowledge from nature. He studied the life of plants and animals, and the life of man. From His earliest years He was possessed of one purpose; He lived to bless others. For this He found resources in nature; new ideas of ways and means flashed into His mind as He studied plant life and animal life. Continually He was seeking to draw from things seen illustrations by which to present the living oracles of God. The parables by which, during His ministry, He loved to teach His lessons of truth show how open His spirit was to the influences of nature, and how He had gathered the spiritual teaching from the surroundings of His daily life. {DA 70.2}

Thus to Jesus the significance of the word and the works of God was unfolded, as He was trying to understand the reason of things. Heavenly beings were His attendants, and the culture of holy thoughts and communings was His. From the first dawning of intelligence He was constantly growing in spiritual grace and knowledge of truth. {DA 70.3}

Every child may gain knowledge as Jesus did. DA 70

Do you notice that Jesus' education was a combination of Scripture with science and life experience? Why? Because God is the God who constructed reality and only when Scripture is brought into the bounds of how God created reality to function (design law) can we get to the truth. The religious schools of Christ's day, and religious schools today have rejected design law and teach imposed law and thus sever Scripture from science and nature and end up teaching superstitious beliefs of various kinds. This indoctrinates people into beliefs that close their minds to advancing truth and Christianity is stuck in a system governed by people who have a false criteria for leadership—a theology degree and adhering to a list of preconceived ideas.

In the days of Christ the Jews gave much care to the education of their children. Their schools were connected with the synagogues, or places of worship, and the teachers were called rabbis, men who were supposed to be very learned. {The Story of Jesus 30.3}

Jesus did not go to these schools, for they taught many things that were not true. Instead of God's Word, the sayings of men were studied, and often these were contrary to that which God had taught through His prophets. {SJ 30.4}

Could we say that when one is enlightened by the Holy Spirit they are able to integrate and find the harmony in God's written word and nature? Should we have concerns with leaders who refuse to integrate their understanding of Scripture with the truths revealed in nature and real life experiences?

So can we conclude that having a theology degree is not a reliable measure of whether one is enlightened by the Holy Spirit?

What about gender? Is being male a requirement for enlightenment of the Holy Spirit? Again, why is our institutional church making gender a measure of fitness for church office rather than equipping by the Holy Spirit?

Who is the great divider? Who created Adam and Eve to be one, united, bonded together? Who split them apart and turned them against each other—with Adam (man) the first to turn and cast blame at his spouse? Why in the church are we not coming back to the unity God designed and realizing women were created equal to men?

Did EGW recognize that women were to be treated equal to the men? What did our church determine tithe was to be used for? To pay the salaries of the pastors—then what would it mean if EGW said that in the name of the Lord tithe should be given to women?

There are ministers' wives—Sisters Starr, Haskell, Wilson, and Robinson—who have been devoted, earnest, whole-souled workers, giving Bible readings and praying with families, helping along by personal efforts just as successfully as their husbands. These women give their whole time, and are told that they receive nothing for their labors because their husbands receive wages. I tell them to go forward and all such decisions will be revised. The Word says, "The labourer is worthy of his hire." Luke 10:7. When any such decision as this is made, I will, in the name of the Lord, protest. I will feel it my duty to create a fund from my tithe money to pay these women who are accomplishing just as essential work as the ministers are doing, and this tithe I will reserve for work in the same line as that of the ministers, hunting for souls, fishing for souls. DG 106.1

I know that the faithful women should be paid wages as it is considered proportionate to the pay received by ministers. They carry the burden of souls and should not be treated unjustly. These sisters are giving their time to educating those newly come to the faith and hire their own work done and pay those who work for them. All these things must be adjusted and set in order and justice be done to all...—Manuscript Releases 12:160 (1898). DG 106.2

Does the Holy Spirit use gender as a measure of who is fit for service in God's cause—who is inspired?

Why do you think the institutional churches often use gender as a criteria for leadership if the Holy Spirit does not?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Holy Spirit..." Is this true? Absolutely! Then why are there so many denominations and so many conflicts within denominations?

Because while the Holy Spirit will never lead people to believe contrary to Scripture, people do! And people teach many things from Scripture that are not what the Scripture itself teaches.

Read second paragraph, "Some people claim to..." That go against the "clear message of the Bible." Clear to whom? Isn't that the point what is clear to one person is not clear to another? This is why Paul in Romans 14 said every person is to be fully persuaded in their own mind!

One of the points of disagreement I have had with some church leaders is over the character of God—some church leaders would say I teach things that go against the clear message of the Bible when I teach that sin is the source of suffering, pain and ultimately death—not God, that God is the source of life seeking to heal and deliver from the infection of sin. However, they argue that I deny the clear teaching of Scripture where fire will come down out of heaven from God and destroy the wicked and therefore God is the source of inflicted pain suffering and death.

Is our position, that sin is the source of pain suffering and death and not God, a contradiction of the clear teaching of Scripture, or the truth that all Scripture reveals?

Read last paragraph, "The Holy Spirit never..." Do we agree that if someone is making claims that contradict the Bible that they are not speaking truth?

How do we tell if someone is contradicting the Bible? Do we contradict the Bible when we say we should not use tithe to buy fermented wine and rejoice with it in church each week? Do we contradict the Bible when we say that God did not send lying spirits to Ahab's prophets? Do we contradict the Bible when we say that God is not the source of inflicted pain and suffering, that God does not have to inflict punishment for sin because sin destroys the sinner?

The last question asks “What are some of the teachings that people are trying to promote in the church that are clearly contrary to the Word of God?”

Oh, how about:

- God killed Jesus on the cross?
- God’s law requires legal punishment?
- God is the source of inflicted pain and suffering?
- If you go to church on Sunday you get the mark of the beast?
- If you go to church on Sabbath you get the seal of God?
- Jesus cannot come if women wear makeup or people are not vegetarian?
- Justification is a legal declaration that we are righteous, even though we are not righteous

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

January 20, 21, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at The Haven in St. Helena, California

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhcs Summit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Holy Spirit and Spirituality 1Q 2017 Lesson 2

The Holy Spirit: Working Behind the Scenes

SABBATH

Read the second paragraph, “Yet, He is not the center...” Is this contextual? In other words, do we find this particular fact occurring because of the need of sinful humanity?

- Would Jesus have become human if humanity had not sinned?
- Would Jesus have encumbered His divine abilities with human limitations if humanity had not sinned?
- Would Jesus have needed the Holy Spirit to act as His agent on earth to represent Him if humanity had not sinned?
- Would humans have needed the extra help of the Holy Spirit to point to Jesus and reveal Jesus to us if humanity had not sinned?
- Would humans have needed the extra help of the Holy Spirit to transform our lives and apply Christ’s character in us if humanity had not sinned?

The point is the record we have in Scripture is the record we need for the plan of salvation. There is much information we do not have in Scripture, especially pertaining to things in the heavenly realms and those events that happened in the universe prior to the creation of planet earth.

But, what we do know is that man in sin needed Jesus—why? What did man in sin need Jesus to do? What did Jesus do, accomplish, carry out, that the Holy Spirit and the Father did not do (notice I did not say “could not do,” but did not do). Jesus became human and lived a perfect sinless life by the exercise of a human brain and human abilities, and then died at the hands of His creation. Why? What did this accomplish?

Jesus revealed the truth to destroy Satan’s lies and win us back to trust in God, and Jesus developed a perfect human character restoring God’s design (law) back into the human creation. This could only be done by the exercise of a free sentient human being—which Jesus became. And in dying He destroyed in His humanity the infection of selfishness which had become the dominate operative drive in all human beings and arose with a perfected and restored humanity.

But what does humanity in sin need beyond what Jesus has historically already accomplished? We need the application of what Jesus has accomplished within our hearts and minds! This is the current work of the Holy Spirit—to bring truth to our minds that we can comprehend, leave us free to decide whether we will follow the truth, trust God or not, and then for those who do trust God and invite Him in the Holy Spirit takes what Christ achieved and reproduces it in us.

Here is a quote from one of the founders of the SDA church:

In describing to His disciples the office work of the Holy Spirit, Jesus sought to inspire them with the joy and hope that inspired His own heart. He rejoiced because of the abundant help He had provided for His church. The Holy Spirit was the highest of all gifts that He could solicit from His Father for the exaltation of His people. The Spirit was to be given as a regenerating agent, and without this the sacrifice of Christ would have been of no avail. The power of evil had been strengthening for centuries, and the submission of men to this satanic captivity was amazing. Sin could be resisted and overcome only through the mighty agency of the Third Person of the Godhead, who would come with no modified energy, but in the fullness of divine power. It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer. It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature. Christ has given His Spirit as a divine power to overcome all hereditary and cultivated tendencies to evil, and to impress His own character upon His church. DA 671.2

Do you agree? What is this saying? Notice nothing legal here—what Jesus procured—the remedy to our terminal sin condition—must be applied within us. The Holy Spirit is not working on the Father to do something in some legal court setting or adjust record books. We must partake of the Remedy. We partake by willing cooperation with God and when we surrender the heart in trust, choosing with our individuality—our will—to embrace, accept and apply the truth, the Holy Spirit applies in our hearts what Christ achieved and we are renewed in the deepest recesses of our characters to be like Christ!

Now, was this role needed of the Holy Spirit prior to sin? So, we don't know the exact way the Father, Son and Spirit manifested, acted, interacted etc. with creation prior to the fall of humanity. Remember the Bible is written to provide us everything we need for our healing and restoration, not to provide all answers to all mysteries in the universe.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “By comparing the Holy Spirit’s...” Are there other appropriate lessons we gain from considering the Holy Spirit as the wind?

What about the ubiquitousness (being everywhere) of the wind—air? Can you have wind without air? Is there wind in a vacuum?

Is the Holy Spirit like the air—required for life—always there, sometimes not noticed or thought about, but other times so strong it can't be ignored? Is it like the air which at times is so peaceful you can hardly feel it, but at other times so strong it blows you over? But, what is the most important thing about the air—is it the blowing power of the wind or the life-giving properties that we constantly breathe in?

What would happen if the air were removed from planet earth?

What would happen if the Holy Spirit were removed from planet earth?

And because of the air we have clouds, rain, snow, the climate in which we live, the transfer of heat. Because of the Holy Spirit we have the early and latter rains which refresh the soul, the life giving presence and power of truth and love which creates a new atmosphere in the heart, home, community and church where the Spirit is cherished.

Read second paragraph, “Yet, we can learn to become...” If the Holy Spirit is active where the Holy Spirit wills, why do so many Christians seek to dictate to the Spirit His activities? How do humans try to dictate the activities of the Holy Spirit?

How about groups that restrict the evidence of the working of the Holy Spirit to only one manifestation—speaking in tongues? That this particular action is the only way the Holy Spirit can be manifested? I know some Christians who believe that if they don’t speak in tongues then they have not yet been filled with the Holy Spirit—would this be allowing the Holy Spirit to work, or putting on restrictions?

What about organizations that say the Holy Spirit is restricted by gender, that the Holy Spirit is not allowed to ordain any woman, and if the Holy Spirit does we deny it is the Holy Spirit?

Here are some interesting historic quotes:

If women do the work that is not the most agreeable to many of those who labor in word and doctrine, and if their works testify that they are accomplishing a work that has been manifestly neglected, should not such labor be looked upon as being as rich in results as the work of the ordained ministers? Should it not command the hire of the laborer? ... DG 105.1

This question is not for men to settle. The Lord has settled it. You are to do your duty to the women who labor in the gospel, whose work testifies that they are essential to carrying the truth into families. Their work is just the work that must be done, and should be encouraged. In many respects a woman can impart knowledge to her sisters that a man cannot. The cause would suffer great loss without this kind of labor by women. Again and again the Lord has shown me that women teachers are just as greatly needed to do the work to which He has appointed them as are men.—Evangelism, 493 (1903). DG 105.2

Who has appointed the work?

Does this statement say God only appoints one type of work to women, that of teaching other women? Or is this merely the example that the writer chose to use in order to bring home her main point without diversion onto other areas that were likely to cause resistance?

The point I am making—is the Holy Spirit free to ordain for use in God’s cause whomever the Holy Spirit wants—male or female? Then, what of institutions that say the Holy Spirit is not free to do so?

Well as usual, EGW, took the position of not telling God what to do, but instead allowing God to lead and we should follow:

“All who desire an opportunity for true ministry, and who will give themselves unreservedly to God, will find in the canvassing work opportunities to speak upon many things pertaining to the future, immortal life. The experience thus gained will be of the greatest value to those who are fitting themselves for the ministry. It is the accompaniment of the Holy Spirit of God that prepares workers, both men and women, to become pastors to the flock of God.”—Testimonies for the Church 6:322. DG 251.4

The Lord calls upon those connected with our sanitariums, publishing houses, and schools to teach the youth to do evangelistic work. Our time and energy must not be so largely employed in establishing sanitariums, food stores, and restaurants that other lines of work will be neglected. Young men and young women who should be engaged in the ministry, in Bible work, and in the canvassing work should not be bound down to mechanical employment.

“The youth should be encouraged to attend our training schools for Christian workers, which should become more and more like the schools of the prophets. These institutions have been established by the Lord, and if they are conducted in harmony with His purpose, the youth sent to them will quickly be prepared to engage in various lines of missionary work. Some will be trained to enter the field as missionary nurses, some as canvassers, and some as gospel ministers.”—Testimonies for the Church 8:229, 230. DG 252.1

Why then did EGW not overtly promote the ordination of women? What is the primary purpose of all of God’s spokespersons? To speak the truth about God in a language the audience can comprehend as winsomely as possible and therefore, to not introduce things that are not pertinent to that message and would offend and close minds.

So, to that point, why are there black conferences in the southern states of the USA? Because after slavery what would have happened if the SDA church had allowed blacks into the churches where whites attended?

And what would have happened if the SDA churches had allowed black pastors in churches where whites attended?

Would such a policy have advanced or hindered the gospel message? Why?

Was God against blacks and whites integrating? Or were the minds of the southern whites so prejudiced and biased, that they were not ready for the light on equality of all humans, that in order for them to accept the equality of all humans they must first come to a real knowledge of God as revealed by Jesus?

This means the gospel message had to be presented first, and then reform of character with love rooting out prejudice could occur. If the church tried to move first with integration, before the minds had been renewed with love, then there would have been no advancement of the gospel, in fact the church would likely have been attacked and driven out of communities.

So, there was policy, set up due to cultural biases, that were not what God would have preferred but were expeditious in the setting.

I think this is exactly why EGW did not push for women's ordination, not because God was opposed, but because males were biased and opposed. Here is a portion of a letter from EGW's secretary answering an inquiry about women's ordination and an article written by EGW.

“And may I add that Sister White, personally, was very careful about expressing herself in any wise as to the advisability of ordaining women as gospel ministers. She has often spoken of the perils that such general practice would expose the church to by a gainsaying world; but as yet I have never seen from her pen any statement that would seem to encourage the formal and official ordination of women to the gospel ministry, to public labor such as is ordinarily expected of an ordained minister. DG 255.2

“This is not suggesting, much less saying, that no women are fitted for such public labor, and that none should ever be ordained; it is simply saying that so far as my knowledge extends, Sister White never encouraged church officials to depart from the general customs of the church in those matters.”—C. C. Crisler. DG 255.3

What was the reason—because God has determined that women should not be ordained, or because the culture was so biased that it would set the church up for undo criticism and distract from spreading the gospel?

Would that also mean however, that where culture changes, and the minds of humans become more Christlike, more open to truth, and realize in God's kingdom there is no Jew or Greek, no male or female, but all are equal that ordaining women would be in harmony with the working of the Spirit of God?

How much of God's plans have been delayed, hindered, limited, or watered down, because of the biases, bigotry, and prejudices of human beings?

- 40 years in the wilderness
- Regulations on meat eating
- Kings
- 70 years in captivity

- The Dark Ages
- The delay since 1844

MONDAY

Read last paragraph, “He does not appear...” Do we see the Godhead, agreeing amongst themselves, to take on various roles: the Father as the source of all that is good, the Son as the architect, agent which acts in space and time, and the Holy Spirit as the actualizer, applier?

The bottom green section asks, “What does the Sabbath tell us about this work of Creation and re-creation?”

Hebrews chapter four speaks about the Sabbath, here are verses 1-11 from The Remedy:

Therefore, since the Remedy is still available, and the promise of complete healing and perfect rest still stands, let us be careful that none of us be found to have rejected it.² For we also have had the good news of God's healing truth presented to us just as they did; but the message of truth had no value to them because they did not believe it nor did they trust the one who gave it.³ But we, who have trusted God on the basis of the truth Christ provided, experience healing and enter that rest, and our minds are at peace. As God has said, "So I granted them their persistent choice and said, 'Since they refuse the truth—the Remedy I freely offer—they will never be able to enter my rest and get well.'" It was not because God's perfect rest was not available—for it had been ready since his work of creation was complete—⁴ as the Scriptures say elsewhere regarding the seventh day: "And on the seventh day, God rested his case. He had finished all his work of providing the evidence needed to refute the lies of Satan."⁵ And yet in another passage he says, "If they refuse the truth, if they reject the evidence I have provided, their minds will never find rest and they will not get well."

⁶ The opportunity to find God's healing and rest still remains, even though those who formerly had the good news of God's healing truth presented to them did not get well or find rest because they refused to believe the truth and trust God.⁷ Therefore God again and again presents his healing Remedy, and he set a certain day which he called "today," when much later he spoke through David in the same Scripture as before: "Today, if you hear his voice offering healing and restoration, do not reject the true Remedy and darken your minds."

⁸ For if Joshua had already given them healing of character and rest for their minds, God would not have spoken later about another day of rest still to come.⁹ There remains then a Sabbath-rest—a rest in the evidence and truth of the character of God—which heals and transforms the people of God;¹⁰ for anyone who rests in the achievements of Christ rests from working to save himself, just as God rested from his work.¹¹ Let us therefore make every effort to rest in the truth about God as revealed by Christ, so that no one will fall by following the example of distrust and refusal to accept the truth.

What is the relation of the Sabbath to Creation and recreation? What did God do at the end of creation week? God rested—He stepped back and stopped using power—He created a space in time for contemplation, for thinking, for choosing freely what one prefers. And what do we realize when we appreciate the Sabbath?

- God is not only powerful as evidenced by the first six days of creation week, but God is good, He doesn't coerce, He leaves us free to think and choose for ourselves—God's methods are truth and love to win, not power to intimidate and force compliance
- That God's laws are design laws—how does nature operate, upon what laws? And what does the Sabbath point us to? The Creator and the laws upon which all nature is built—it refutes the dictator view of God!
- That salvation is the process of restoring sinners back into harmony with God's design—i.e. healing, which is a function of design law and it is not a legal process, but a re-creation process, which comes about when we realize the truth and are won back to trust

TUESDAY

The title is The Holy Spirit and the Sanctuary—what do you think of when you think of the Holy Spirit in connection with the Sanctuary?

Certainly, as the lesson points out the Holy Spirit gifted craftsman with abilities to make the elements of the OT sanctuary—but what are the bigger lessons?

What was the sanctuary built in the OT? It was a stage, an object lesson, an acted out drama with cool props, which was to depict what? Us—we are a sanctuary in which the Spirit is to dwell:

- Just as the Shekinah presence of God dwelt in that building, so too the Holy Spirit is to dwell in us.
- Just as the sanctuary had the blood administered throughout, Jesus said we must drink His blood
- Just as the law was kept in the MH place of that sanctuary, so too in the New Covenant the law is written upon our hearts and minds
- Just as the lamp was in that building, so too we are to have the Word of God, which is a lamp to us living within our hearts
- Just as the priests were dressed in white robes our characters are to be cleansed to the perfection of Jesus—His robe of righteousness
- Just as the priests met each Sabbath with the High Priest to eat the showbread, so too we are to meet with Jesus each Sabbath and consume His Word, making it a part of our thoughts, beliefs and cherishing it in our hearts
- And just as the Holy Spirit enabled people then to build the physical building, so too the Holy Spirit gifts people today to go out and spread the gospel, teach truths which will shape and polish other people preparing them to become living stones built together into a house for the Lord.

Here is another historic quote:

The first tabernacle, built according to God's directions, was indeed blessed of Him. The people thus were preparing themselves to worship in the temple not made with hands--a temple in the heavens. The stones of the Temple built by Solomon were all prepared at the quarry and then brought to the Temple site. They came together without the sound of ax or hammer. The timbers were also fitted in the forest. The furniture was likewise brought to this house all prepared for use. {3MR 231.3}

Even so, the mighty cleaver of truth has taken out a people from the quarry of the world and is fitting this people, who profess to be the children of God, for a place in His heavenly temple. We want the cleaver of truth to do its work for us. We are taken from the quarry of the world. The material must not be a dead substance but living souls, and these souls must be brought out of the quarry of the world, where the hand of God can fit them for the temple in heaven. We are here as probationers, and we must pass under the hand of God. All rough edges and rough surfaces must be removed and we must be stones fitted for the building. We are brought into church capacity with defects of character, but we must not retain them. We must be fitted and squared for the building. We must be "laborers together with God," for we are "God's husbandry," we are "God's building." In view of this we must see that our temple is not defiled with sin. We should be lively stones, not dead ones, but live ones that will reflect the image of Christ. We must be worshipers in spirit and in truth. {3MR 231.4}

Read third paragraph, "The Bible tells us..." Did reconciliation between sinful humanity and God actually take place at the Old Testament sanctuary, or was that only a mere enactment, a theatrical depiction, of the true reconciliation that takes place between God and sinful mankind? Where did the genuine, real, reconciliation take place? In the person of Jesus, culminating at the Cross, when Jesus fixed what Adam did to the species!

The lesson also states that "It was God who communicated to Moses His plan to build the earthly sanctuary according to the heavenly original (Exod. 25:9,40)"

What do you understand this sentence to be saying? Is it saying that the OT sanctuary is a physical copy of a building that exists in heaven, that the sanctuary in heaven is built out of similar stuff and has similar elements?

Do we believe there is a physical building in heaven with two compartments, separated by a veil and it has a golden altar with a fire where incense is being burned, along with a lampstand, and a golden table with bread and wine that Jesus eats every seven days; and that behind the curtain is a box made out of genetically defective wood covered by gold containing a rod, manna and the 10 Commandments?

The lesson references Exodus 25:9 and 40 to support their assertion, here are those two texts:

Make this tabernacle and all its furnishings exactly like the pattern I will show you. Ex 25:9

See that you make them according to the pattern shown you on the mountain. Ex 25:40

What was Moses shown? A pattern

What is a pattern? A blueprint, a design, an architects drawing.

Moses was NOT shown a building in heaven. He was shown a pattern for what he was to build on earth—when will we realize this?

A pattern is not a building, but a drawing, an illustration, a depiction, which Moses was shown and for which he used in building the OT sanctuary. This pattern was the instructions on building the stage, the theater, the object lesson; it was not a reproduction of some structure in heaven.

What about Hebrews 8:2?

He serves as High Priest in the Most Holy Place, that is, in the real tent which was put up by the Lord, not by human hands. (GNT)

Does this mean there is a tent in heaven, but it was not build by human beings?

From what is that real physical sanctuary in heaven constructed?

For we are God's fellow workers; you are God's field, God's building. 1Cor 3:9

Don't you know that you yourselves are God's temple and that God's Spirit lives in you? If anyone destroys God's temple, God will destroy him; for God's temple is sacred, and you are that temple. 1CO 3:16,17

What agreement is there between the temple of God and idols? For we are the temple of the living God. As God has said: "I will live with them and walk among them, and I will be their God, and they will be my people." 2Cor 6:16

Consequently, you are no longer foreigners and aliens, but fellow citizens with God's people and members of God's household, 20 built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the chief cornerstone. In him the whole building is joined together and rises to become a holy temple in the Lord. And in him you too are being built together to become a dwelling in which God lives by his Spirit. Eph 2:19-22

1PE 2:4 As you come to him, the living Stone--rejected by men but chosen by God and precious to him-- 5 you also, like living stones, are being built into a spiritual house to be a holy priesthood, offering spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. 6 For in Scripture it says:

"See, I lay a stone in Zion, a chosen and precious cornerstone,
and the one who trusts in him will never be put to shame."

1PE 2:7 Now to you who believe, this stone is precious. But to those who do not believe,

"The stone the builders rejected has become the capstone, " (see Zech chapter 4)

But Christ is faithful as a son over God's house. And we are his house, if we hold on to our courage and the hope of which we boast. Heb 3:6

But I really like this one, in conjunction with the Hebrews text about a sanctuary not built by human hands:

Now we know that if the earthly tent we live in is destroyed, we have a building from God, an eternal house in heaven, not built by human hands. 2Cor 5:1 NIV

What is this talking about? It is talking about or physical bodies, built not by human beings, but by God. Consider now what it means to cleanse the sanctuary? Wow—huge much more significant implications that the traditional meaning—all in harmony with worshiping God as Creator and His plan to heal and restore (design law).

WEDNESDAY

What is the work of the Holy Spirit?

"I have much more to say to you, more than you can now bear. 13 But when he, the Spirit of truth, comes, he will guide you into all truth. He will not speak on his own; he will speak only what he hears, and he will tell you what is yet to come. 14 He will bring glory to me by taking from what is mine and making it known to you. 15 All that belongs to the Father is mine. That is why I said the Spirit will take from what is mine and make it known to you. (Jn 16:12–15).

What does this mean? What is it that is Christ's that we need?

How do we understand this in light of the OT sanctuary symbolism? When blood was being applied throughout the system do we see the blood doing something to God, or to us? What?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Holy Spirit..." This is critical, we could not be saved as a species without the work of the Godhead, Jesus but also the work of the Father and the Spirit, any texts in the Bible that put all of them together in the work of salvation?

Romans 8:

⁵ Those who live according to the sinful nature have their minds set on what that nature desires; but those who live in accordance with the Spirit have their minds set on what the Spirit desires.

⁶ The mind of sinful man is death, but the mind controlled by the Spirit is life and peace; ⁷ the sinful mind is hostile to God. It does not submit to God's law, nor can it do so. ⁸ Those controlled by the sinful nature cannot please God.

⁹ You, however, are controlled not by the sinful nature but by the Spirit, if the Spirit of God lives in you. And if anyone does not have the Spirit of Christ, he does not belong to Christ... And if the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead is living in you, he who raised Christ from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies through his Spirit, who lives in you... ¹⁶ The Spirit himself testifies with our spirit that we are God's children... ²⁶ In the same way, the Spirit helps us in our weakness. We do not know what we ought to pray for, but the Spirit himself intercedes for us with groans that words cannot express. ²⁷ And he who searches our hearts knows the mind of the Spirit, because the Spirit intercedes for the saints in accordance with God's will... ³¹ What, then, shall we say in response to this? If God is for us, who can be against us? ³² He who did not spare his own Son, but gave him up for us all—how will he not also, along with him, graciously give us all things? ³³ Who will bring any charge against those whom God has chosen? It is God who justifies. ³⁴ Who is he that condemns? Christ Jesus, who died—more than that, who was raised to life—is at the right hand of God and is also interceding for us.

God the Father, Son and Holy Spirit are all interceding for us—interceding with what or whom?

- In our hearts and minds against the carnal nature to give a desire for good, wooing us with truth and love
- With the forces of evil, holding them at bay
- And through Christ with sin itself, with what sin would naturally do to the species human. The Godhead interceded to offer an alternative outcome to death.

Read #3 in the bottom section, "By reproducing..."

FRIDAY

The lesson states, “But the work of the Holy Spirit is not instantaneous. We don’t automatically become the kind of people we ought to be...The Holy Spirit is the Divine Agent that works in our lives to make us new creatures in Christ. This is, though, the work of a lifetime.”

What does this mean that we only get transformed on our deathbed?

No, this is a work of a lifetime just like eating is the work of a lifetime—think about eating—do you have to do it your entire life? Does that mean you have reached maturity until the end of your life? No! But if you stop eating what happens? So, if we stop partaking of Jesus via the work of the Holy Spirit what happens?

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

January 20, 21, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at The Haven in St. Helena, California

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhcs Summit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Holy Spirit and Spirituality 1Q 2017 Lesson 3

The Divinity of the Holy Spirit

SABBATH

Read second paragraph, “However, the deity....” What did you think of the last two sentences, “we should not make our human reasoning about God the standard of how the Holy Spirit should be understood. Instead, we should accept and testify to what Scripture affirms, no matter how hard some of the concepts might be for us to grasp fully.”

First—should we be affirming something we don’t grasp?

It almost sounds like they are encouraging us to affirm things that we don’t understand and don’t make sense?

It is this type of reasoning, taking the Scripture as authoritative without thinking, without comprehending, without truly understanding, that has led to so much abuse and destruction in God’s name throughout history.

The religious leaders did this in Christ’s day when dealing with Jesus, they constantly said that the Scriptures taught something and Jesus was constantly seeking to show they what they affirmed from Scripture wasn’t what it taught at all.

Did the Holy Spirit inspire the Isaiah to write, “Come let us reason together though your sins are like scarlet they will be white as snow?”

Is the Holy Spirit saying that God wants us to reason things out with our reasoning powers what is written in Scripture—with a heart open to truth of course?

Do wouldn’t those who disagree with us on some point of doctrine agree that we should accept and testify to what Scripture affirms? If essentially all honest-of-heart Christians would agree that we should accept and testify to what Scripture affirms, why is there so much division?

Because people think the Scripture affirms different things—why do they think this? Because they are exercising their minds to understand to the best of their ability what the Scripture is saying, and people have different perspectives, different assumptions, different blind spots, different capacities and honestly come to different conclusions yet all claiming they are following Scripture.

How do we determine which view is more accurate to the truth? What method do we use?

Here are some methods used throughout history and still used today:

- We pray long and hard until the Spirit convicts us in our spirit what is true—this is the preferred method in the Mormon tradition
- We ask for a sign or wonder, perhaps a message from the Spirit through tongues? Often in Pentecostal traditions
- We look for another human in a position of authority to tell us the right answer—Roman Catholic when Pope speaks ex-cathedra and many Christians who surrender their thinking to their pastors or conference leaders
- We surrender our judgment to someone with a theological degree, or accept what we read in a Bible commentary as the definitive answer
- We organize committees of theologians to investigate and come back to us with a theological paper—we might even make a Scripture research institute and create a tradition that a position coming from that group has some higher spiritual authority and is to be accepted as truth
- We cite proof texts to support our point
- We hold a meeting of church delegates and take a vote on what is truth

Any questions about any of these methods?

Has the Holy Spirit ever used any of them?

- We pray long and experience conviction—yes the HS sometimes does this—but can this be counterfeited? Yes! Then is it the best barometer to determine the movement of the Spirit?
- We ask for a sign or wonder, perhaps a message from the Spirit through tongues? Has the Spirit ever done this? Yes, but can it be counterfeited? Yes! Is it the best barometer to determine the movement of the Spirit?
- We look for another human in a position of authority to tell us the right answer. Has the Spirit ever done this? Yes—God’s prophets in the past. Can this be counterfeited? Is it the best method of determining truth? Can trusting what a spokesperson for God says sometimes be wrong? Remember the old and young prophet? Paul had to correct Peter. Do all people believe the writer of Hebrews correct when he wrote that immediately after the ascension Jesus entered the MH of the heavenly sanctuary?
- We organize committees of theologians to investigate and come back to us with a theological paper—Does the Holy Spirit ever use this method? Yes—can this be counterfeited?
- We cite proof texts to support our point—Does the Holy Spirit ever use this method? Yes, Christ quoted Scripture in response to Satan’s temptations. Can this be counterfeited? Yes, Satan quoted Scripture to tempt Christ.
- We hold a meeting of church delegates and take a vote on what is truth—Does the Spirit ever use this method? Yes, but can it be corrupted and misrepresent the Spirit? Yes!

What method is not represented here and which cannot be corrupted? The integrative evidenced based approach, which harmonizes Scripture, Science and Experience—understanding God’s testable laws and realizing how God actually runs things, then certain interpretations of Scripture are ruled out!

SUNDAY

Read Acts 5:1-4:

Now a man named Ananias, together with his wife Sapphira, also sold a piece of property.² With his wife's full knowledge he kept back part of the money for himself, but brought the rest and put it at the apostles' feet.

³ Then Peter said, "Ananias, how is it that Satan has so filled your heart that you have lied to the Holy Spirit and have kept for yourself some of the money you received for the land?⁴ Didn't it belong to you before it was sold? And after it was sold, wasn't the money at your disposal? What made you think of doing such a thing? You have not lied to men but to God."

Then read second paragraph, "If the Holy Spirit..." Do you find there argument compelling? The weakness I found throughout this entire lesson is not that they fail to make the case that Holy Spirit is God—but that they fail to make the case the Holy Spirit is a distinct individuality and not simply God the Father, God's Spirit. If the Holy Spirit is simply the Spirit of the Father then He would be fully God and the arguments to prove the Spirit is God are moot, because it is God. The position that many who deny the Trinity take in regard to the Holy Spirit is not that the Holy Spirit is some lesser being than God, but that He is the same being as God the Father. Those who deny the Trinity deny the idea that the Spirit is a separate individual to the Father. The lesson doesn't do a great job in addressing this idea and instead makes the point over and over that the Spirit is fully God—which is accepted by many who deny the Trinity because they accept it is God's Spirit.

We will see this problem on almost every page of this lesson.

The lesson uses this text to say that because Peter says that Ananias lied to the Holy Spirit and that he lied to God that the Holy Spirit is God. I can see the argument, I don't think it is wrong, but I don't find it most compelling either. In the same text Peter says that Ananias didn't lie to men—was that true, there were no men there—so what are Peter and the others to whom these two lied, angels? Should we conclude that because Ananias lied to Peter and Peter said that Ananias didn't lie to men that Peter was either an angel or a woman in drag?

And for those who believe that the Holy Spirit is the Father's Spirit using the terms interchangeably doesn't resolve their denial of the Trinity and the separate personality of the Holy Spirit.

Before we explore further the question of the individuality of the Holy Spirit, perhaps we might discuss what happened to Ananias and Sapphira, the lesson says: "Why such a harsh punishment for what these two people did?"

What is the lesson suggesting? Is the lesson suggesting that because they lied to God that God used His power to punish them by executing them?

Any concerns with this interpretation?

1. Does the Bible say they were punished? No! Remember in Sabbath's lesson they authors counseled us with these words, "we should not affirm less than what Scripture states, and we also should not 'exceed what is written.'" In suggesting they were punished, are they exceeding what the Scripture states?
2. What is the punishment for sin—sleep death from which there is a resurrection or eternal death? Which did they die? Then was it punishment?
3. For those who hold a legal view, and believe God inflicts punishment for sin, does the inflicted punishment for sin happen before the judgment? Did the great white throne judgment happen yet? Then was this punishment for sin?
4. Does the Bible say that they were killed by God? No
5. Does the Bible say they were killed by men or angels? No
6. What does the Bible say? That they fell down and died.

If we say God killed them because they lied would there be any problems with this?

- What would it say about how God runs His universe—what method would that be? Would it be coercive? Does God use coercive tactics? Why or why not?
- What happens when people are threatened, "do what I say or I will kill you—legally of course." "I am the king, I have made a law that you will bow down to this golden idol and if you don't I will kill you." All legal—does the fact some people claim that God is the rightful King and He has the right to demand our obedience and if we disobey it is legally right to kill us, avoid the destruction that would happen in God's universe if God acted this way? And what destruction would happen if God acted this way?
- Rebellion—it is a law that when a free being is coerced that love is damaged and eventually destroyed, rebellion is instilled in the heart, and if they stay rather than rebelling, then their individuality is destroyed. God would not do this—ever.

So we read things from one of the founders of the SDA church like this:

Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power. E.G. White Desire of Ages 759 [what is the prevailing power? Truth and Love!]

God could have destroyed Satan and all his sympathizers as easily as one can pick up a pebble and cast it to the earth. But by so doing he would have given a precedent for the exercise of force. All the compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. He would not work on this line... This principle is wholly of Satan's creation. E.G. White Review & Herald, September 7, 1897 [Yet here we have people teaching that God does something that is wholly of Satan's origin.]

"Whereunto," asked Christ, "shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?" Mark 4:30. He could not employ the kingdoms of the world as a similitude. In society He found nothing with which to compare it. Earthly kingdoms rule by the ascendancy of physical power; but from Christ's kingdom every carnal weapon, every instrument of coercion, is banished. E.G. White Acts of the Apostles 12

A sullen submission to the will of the Father will develop the character of a rebel. By such a one service is looked upon as drudgery. It is not rendered cheerfully, and in the love of God. It is a mere mechanical performance. If he dared, such a one would disobey. His rebellion is smothered, ready to break out at any time in bitter murmurings and complaints. Such service brings no peace or quietude to the soul. {ST, July 22, 1897}

Can God get love and trust by using might and power to kill those who don't love and trust? No! Never, this is Satan's method.

Then how do we understand what happened to Ananias and Sapphira—and Peter's words predicting she was going to die?

How did Jesus describe the Holy Spirit to Nicodemus? Like the wind—and what did we discuss last week? The wind is made of air—and air is ubiquitous and required for life. The Greek for Spirit is pneuma from which we get breath and breath of life. So, what would happen to a person if they chose to cut themselves off from earth's atmosphere, from air? Could we say: Why did you do this? And could we say with great confidence: Since you have chosen to no longer abide in the air, since you have chosen to separate yourself from the life-giving atmosphere the people who buried your husband are going to bury you also—because you can't live without contact with the atmosphere?

Can we live separated from God? And who is the member of the Godhead described in the role of the breath of life? The Holy Spirit—does this give insight into why we can't be forgiven for blasphemy against the Holy Spirit? Because the Holy Spirit is the physical conduit of life from the eternal God and the applier of the remedy to sin in our lives!

What kind of a law did I describe in operation in this circumstance? Design law—the law of love. This perspective allows us to have perfect harmony with the Scripture, and yet not put God in the role of acting with Satan's character and methods.

What is the message of the three angels? What is the message we are to take to the world? Do you see our church, the institution we love, has been compromised and good hearted people, with intentions to help, taking a message that continues to obscure the truth about God!

We must come back to understand God's character of love and how He actually constructed His reality to work. We must bring our understanding of Scripture to be in harmony with God's nature, character and principles and stop using human methods and laws in our interpretation of Scripture.

MONDAY

The lesson points us to four texts and asks us what attributes are ascribed to the Holy Spirit which are the exclusive prerogative of God—thus evidence that the Holy Spirit is God:

- 1Cor 2:10,11: The Spirit knows the mind of God
- Ps 139:7: Omnipresence
- Hebrews 9:14: Immortality
- Luke 1:35 wielding the power of the Most High

I do think the Bible provides abundant evidence to support the teaching that the Holy Spirit is fully God—little question to me about this. However, do these text address the interpretation critics of the Trinity make that references to the Holy Spirit are merely references to God the Father's eternal presence moving where the Father moves?

We see the same concern in WEDNESDAY's lesson when it refers to the Spirit as the one who cleanses us from sin, washes and regenerates us and transforms us. The critics of the Trinity would merely say that this again is the energy and presence of the Father being referred to as the Spirit to help us differentiate the action and role the Father is doing at that time. They would remind us that in the Bible God is called many names:

- El Shaddai: "God Almighty." (Gen. 17:1; 28:3; 35:11; Ex. 6:1; Ps. 91:1, 2).
- El Elyon: "The Most High God (Gen. 14:19; Ps. 9:2; Dan. 7:18, 22, 25).
- El Olam: "The Everlasting God." (Gen. 16:13).
- Yahweh (YHWH): Comes from a verb which means "to exist, be." This, plus its usage, shows that this name stresses God as the independent and self-existent God of revelation and redemption (Gen. 4:3; Ex. 6:3).
- Yahweh Jireh (Yireh): "The Lord will provide." (Gen. 22:14).
- Yahweh Nissi: "The Lord is my Banner." (Ex. 17:15).
- Yahweh Shalom: "The Lord is Peace." (Jud. 6:24).
- Yahweh Sabaoth: "The Lord of Hosts." (1 Sam. 1:3; 17:45).
- Yahweh Maccaddeshcem: "The Lord your Sanctifier." (Ex. 31:13).
- Yahweh Ro'i: "The Lord my Shepherd." (Ps. 23:1).
- Yahweh Tsidkenu: "The Lord our Righteousness." (Jer. 23:6).
- Yahweh Shammah: "The Lord is there." (Ezek. 48:35).
- Yahweh Elohim Israel: "The Lord, the God of Israel." (Jud. 5:3; Isa. 17:6).
- Adonai: The singular form means "master, owner." (Gen. 18:2; 40:1; 1 Sam. 1:15; Ex. 21:1-6; Josh. 5:14).
- Theos: Greek word translated "God." Primary word in NT for God

- Kurios: Greek word translated “Lord.” but can be used for others besides God: sir (John 4:11), owner (Luke 19:33), master (Col. 3:22), or even refer to idols (1 Cor. 8:5) or husbands (1 Pet. 3:6)
- Despotes: Greek word translated “Master.” (Luke 2:29; Acts 4:24; Rev. 6:10; 2 Pet. 2:1; Jude 4)
- Father: (Matt. 7:11; Jam. 1:17; Heb. 12:5-11; John 15:16; 16:23; Eph. 2:18; 3:15; 1 Thess. 3:11).

God has many names in Scripture—what do we say to those that suggest pneuma used for the Spirit is just another name for the same eternal God, not another individuality who is also God?

Jesus taught there was a third member of the Godhead called the Comforter, Counselor or Spirit:

- “If you love me, you will obey what I command. And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Counselor to be with you forever—the Spirit of truth. The world cannot accept him, because it neither sees him nor knows him. But you know him, for he lives with you and will be in you. John 14:15-17
- But the Counselor, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you all things and will remind you of everything I have said to you. John 14:26
- “When the Counselor comes, whom I will send to you from the Father, the Spirit of truth who goes out from the Father, he will testify about me. John 15:26

Notice the way Jesus speaks here—this language is not Jesus saying that He will ask the Father to come Himself, but is talking about another entity, another individuality and refers to him as such. So, Jesus’ testimony makes a distinction between the Father and the Holy Spirit as separate individuals.

The Old Testament teaches God is a plurality, not a singularity:

- Then God said, “Let us make man in our image, in our likeness... Genesis 1:26

Even the text quoted by Jews and Muslims that “God is one” teaches a plurality, not a singularity:

- Hear, O Israel: The LORD our God is one LORD: DT 6:4
 - Notice the passage in English uses “Lord” and “God”. The reading of this passage with the Hebrew names for “Lord” and “God” would go like this: “Hear, O Isreal: Yahweh our Elohim, Yahweh is One.” Or,
 - What is interesting is that the word Elohim in Hebrew is plural and is the same word used for God in Genesis 1:26. Thus an accurate English reading might go like this: “The One is more than One yet is One”
 - In Hebrew there are two words for one, Yacheed and Echad. The first indicates singular unit as in one and only, the second indicates compound unity, as the oneness of two or more. In this text Echad is used along with the plural name of God Elohim indicating the oneness of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

But, for me all the above evidence is not what is most compelling. The most compelling evidence for me that God exists in plurality rather than singularity is the nature and character of God Himself.

The Bible says, “God is love.” 1John 4:8. Further the Bible teaches that this love is “not self seeking.” 1Corinthians 13:5. Love is outward moving, other-centered. Therefore, God, being love, could not be love in isolation because love requires an object to pour itself upon. Love is other-centered! God’s nature and character of love, rightly understood, is the most powerful argument for the plurality of God. Therefore, when God created us in His image He created “them male and female” and the “two shall become one” united in a triune relationship – husband, wife and God indwelling their hearts via the Holy Spirit!

The minimum number for genuine other-centered love to exist and function is three—not two. In a relationship of two there can be narcissistic reinforcement—I have seen this in marriages where things were fine until the first child was born and the husband becomes jealous and hostile he no longer commands the supreme attention and affection of the wife.

EGW saw it this way:

There are three living persons of the heavenly trio; in the name of these three great powers--the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit--those who receive Christ by living faith are baptized, and these powers will co-operate with the obedient subjects of heaven in their efforts to live the new life in Christ.-- Evangelism, p. 615. {7ABC 441.9}

Back to the bottom of Monday’s lesson, it states “Jesus also says that blasphemy against the Spirit is unforgivable. (Mt 12:31-32). This is incomprehensible unless the Spirit is divine.”

What does it mean? Through which law lens do you hear this—rules imposed and legal pardon, or design law? And how would this fit with design law?

If the Holy Spirit is the agency from heaven which applies into the terminally sin-sick person the healing Remedy achieved by Christ and the person rejects the Holy Spirit, then what?

If a person rejects Jesus—because they have been told lies about Jesus—or have such strong cultural biases they cannot see Jesus in His true light, but their hearts remain open to the working of the Holy Spirit, and they value the principles of truth, love and freedom—what will happen in their heart?

If a person rejects a life-saving medicine because someone told them that the medicine is poison and will kill them—even though it is exactly what they need, but they accept the very medicine when it is given them in its generic form, rather than the brand name—what will happen?

But, if the person who is sick rejects the only doctor who brings and administers the medicine, then what?

Likewise if a person rejects God because they have heard only of the dictator views, a being who will torture them in hell for all eternity, but their hearts love truth and other people what will the Holy Spirit do for them?

But if a person finds the Spirit of truth and love reprehensible, such that they think honesty, fidelity, truthfulness is weak and despicable, and love for others is weak sentiment and they reject such motives and principles, but claim belief in God, what happens in them?

Blasphemy against the Holy Spirit is not merely saying one doesn't believe in the Trinity, or that one doesn't believe in God, but it is the functional rejection of the presence of the Holy Spirit and the presence of the Holy Spirit as the source, within our internal worlds, of truth, honesty, integrity, love, fidelity etc. Rejecting this and choosing evil is the true blasphemy.

TUESDAY

What lessons do we learn regarding the divinity of the Holy Spirit and the teaching of the Sanctuary? Where was the dwelling place of God in the OT times? In the Sanctuary, but who is to dwell in us? The Spirit and we are often called the Spirit temple—does this enlighten us on a variety of topics, like:

- The Holy Spirit is fully God
- The OT Sanctuary was all theater to teach the truth about what humans were created to be
- That the cleansing of the sanctuary is something quite different than a legal process in a building in heaven

WEDNESDAY

Read last paragraph, “The Bible states that the Holy Spirit raised Jesus from the dead...” The lesson is referring to Romans 8:11:

And if the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead is living in you, he who raised Christ from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies through his Spirit, who lives in you.

What of Jesus' words?

The reason my Father loves me is that I lay down my life—only to take it up again. ¹⁸ No one takes it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have authority to lay it down and authority to take it up again. This command I received from my Father.” Jn 10:17,18

Do you see any tension here? How do we harmonize these two statements?

It is evidence of the Trinity at work, the functional aspects of how love works in God's universe—the Trinity are always working together, never in opposition, never one against the other—like one pleading to the other, but are all involved together, in creation, in redemption, etc. Thus, it is the Father calling His Son, and the Spirit filling the Son and the Son choosing to exercise His own individuality to choose to rise again.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “What would be lost...” The character of God as a being of love as discussed above.

Read the second paragraph, “The divinity of the Holy Spirit...” This is to me is more persuasive, to demonstrate not only that the Bible gives the attributes of God to the Holy Spirit, but lists the Holy Spirit as separate being in the same context as the Father and Son is much more persuasive and really undermines the position of those who would suggest the Holy Spirit is just the Spirit of the Father.

FRIDAY

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

January 20, 21, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at The Haven in St. Helena, California

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhcs Summit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Holy Spirit and Spirituality 1Q 2017 Lesson 4

The Personality of the Holy Spirit

SABBATH

Read memory text, “But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in My name, He will teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all that I said to you.” John 14:26, NASB

In Acts of the Apostles it says:

To the repentant sinner, hungering and thirsting for righteousness, the Holy Spirit reveals the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world. "He shall receive of Mine, and shall show it unto you," Christ said. "He shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you." John 16:14; 14:26. {AA 52.3}

The Spirit is given as a regenerating agency, to make effectual the salvation wrought by the death of our Redeemer. The Spirit is constantly seeking to draw the attention of men to the great offering that was made on the cross of Calvary, to unfold to the world the love of God, and to open to the convicted soul the precious things of the Scriptures. {AA 52.4} [What is the purpose of the Spirit according to this author? To make Christ's sacrifice effectual in sinners—how? What would the Spirit need to do to make that effectual? Would unfolding to the world the love of God be part of it? Would this be something connected to the great offering? Where are the benefits of the great sacrifice to be made effectual—in God the Father or in sinners? Who needs persuading, transforming, renewing, recreating? Do you see how backward the legal model is when it has Jesus pleading His blood, sacrifice in heaven trying to make His sacrifice effectual in heaven?]

Having brought conviction of sin, and presented before the mind the standard of righteousness, the Holy Spirit withdraws the affections from the things of this earth and fills the soul with a desire for holiness. "He will guide you into all truth" (John 16:13), the Saviour declared. If men are willing to be molded, there will be brought about a sanctification of the whole being. The Spirit will take the things of God and stamp them on the soul. By His power the way of life will be made so plain that none need err therein. {AA 52.5} [What is the Spirit doing? Changing the desires of the heart, renewing motives, and enlightening the mind so that we won't be confused about which is the right course of action. But this author says “By His power...” that this change is accomplished—what is the power of the Holy Spirit? The power of truth and love—not by might nor by power but...]

What do you think Christ meant when He said the Spirit will teach you “all things”?

Are there any limits upon what things the Holy Spirit will teach us? Yes! There is the knowledge of good and evil—the Holy Spirit will teach us all things that are good, but will not teach us to participate in evil; the Spirit will enlighten us to discern evil and why it is evil and how to disengage and be free of it.

But what about other topics than religion, will the Holy Spirit teach us science?

In acquiring the wisdom of the Babylonians, Daniel and his companions were far more successful than their fellow students; but their learning did not come by chance. They obtained their knowledge by the faithful use of their powers, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit. They placed themselves in connection with the Source of all wisdom, making the knowledge of God the foundation of their education. A Call To Stand Apart 55

Did the Holy Spirit help Daniel without Daniel's participation? Is there a role we have to play in obtaining knowledge and wisdom? If we make the knowledge of God the foundation of our education do we gain greater knowledge into science, when we study science, than if we do not make God the foundation?

I would suggest—only if we have the right conception of God and practice His methods in our lives. If we believe in God, but have the legal imposed law view of God, that belief will almost certainly obstruct our learning in every avenue. Such ideas as:

- We have faith we don't need evidence
- The Bible said it, I believe it that settles it
- The Bible supersedes science, so any disagreement must be a problem with science—rather than realizing that nature is God's first book—where the truth of God's character was first written, and the Bible came along quite later and rightly understood they always harmonize. So, disagreement between science and Scripture means a misunderstanding exists—and that misunderstanding may be in how we understand Scripture, not science.

But when we come to understand God is the Creator and His laws are design laws and seek to find the harmony between science and Scripture, then worshipping such a God does lead us into greater knowledge in science as well as any other field of non-evil study.

From God, the fountain of wisdom, proceeds all the knowledge that is of value to man, all that the intellect can grasp or retain. The fruit of the tree representing good and evil is not to be eagerly plucked because it is recommended by one who was once a bright angel in glory. He has said that if men eat thereof, they shall know good and evil; but let it alone. The true knowledge comes not from infidels or wicked men. The word of God is light and truth. The true light shines from Jesus Christ, who "lighteth every man that cometh into the world." John 1:9. From the Holy Spirit proceeds divine knowledge. He knows what humanity needs to promote peace, happiness, and restfulness here in this world, and to secure eternal rest in the kingdom of God.--Special Testimonies on Education, pages 26-31; written from Cooranbong, N.S.W., Australia, June 12, 1896.

Let me tell you what I know of this heavenly Guest. The Holy Spirit was brooding over the youth during the school hours; but some hearts were so cold and dark that they had no desire for the Spirit's presence, and the light of God was withdrawn. The heavenly Visitant would have opened the understanding, would have given wisdom and knowledge in all lines of study that could be employed to the glory of God. He came to convince of sin and to soften the hearts hardened by long estrangement from God. He came to reveal the great love wherewith God has loved these youth. . . . {CT 364.2}

A principle of divine origin must pervade our conduct and bind us to God. This will not be in any way a hindrance to the study of true science. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom" (Proverbs 9:10); and the man who consents to be molded and fashioned after the divine similitude is the noblest work of God. All who live in communion with the Creator will have an understanding of His design in their creation. They will have a sense of their own accountability to God to employ their faculties to the very best purpose. They will seek neither to glorify nor to depreciate themselves. . . . {CT 364.3}

What prevented the Holy Spirit from enlightening these people? Their own closed hearts to the presence of the Holy Spirit.

What lines of study will the Holy Spirit enlighten our minds about? All lines of study, including science, that can be employed to God's glory.

And what will all of these lines of study ultimately reveal? The truth about God's character of love—do we see God's character of love revealed in science when science and Scripture are rightly understood?

What is required of us to be able to benefit from the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit? That we accept the truth about God's character of love AND HIS DESIGN for life—which is His Law being design law. If we reject God's law as design law, and instead teach it is imposed law, we obstruct the work of the Holy Spirit and prevent the Spirit from being able to enlighten us in regard to God's truth.

So, what is the power of the Holy Spirit in regard to our salvation? It is the power of truth and love! It is not merely the power to create matter out of energy, but to transform the character of intelligent beings, while retaining their unique individuality—this is only accomplished by the gentle working of truth and love!

Some people have emailed and asked about the presence of the Holy Spirit in the past and what was Jesus talking about when He said the Spirit would come after He was gone? Wasn't the Spirit already present?

I read this in The Desire of Ages regarding Jesus promise of the coming of the Comforter:

Before this the Spirit had been in the world; from the very beginning of the work of redemption He had been moving upon men's hearts. But while Christ was on earth, the disciples had desired no other helper. Not until they were deprived of His presence would they feel their need of the Spirit, and then He would come. {DA 669.1}

The Holy Spirit is Christ's representative, but divested of the personality of humanity, and independent thereof. Cumbered with humanity, Christ could not be in every place personally. Therefore it was for their interest that He should go to the Father, and send the Spirit to be His successor on earth. No one could then have any advantage because of his location or his personal contact with Christ. By the Spirit the Saviour would be accessible to all. In this sense He would be nearer to them than if He had not ascended on high. {DA 669.2}

Does this give insight as to why the Spirit was limited in times in the past? Could it have anything to do with God's character, methods and the way reality works?

Is God love? Does God win our love and trust by overwhelming displays of might and power? Then how? By gentle persuasion of love and truth—and what is required then for a person to experience the Holy Spirit in more overt ways? A desire from that person—without a desire, a willingness in the heart, the Spirit works in the background to inspire, enlighten, draw, woo, but never forces His way, and is limited by our own hearts' desires in how much we experience of Him.

SUNDAY

Read second and third paragraph, "Jesus cares for..." I found this quite interesting, has anyone heard the term allopathic medicine, which is distinct from chiropractic, osteopathic, and homeopathic medicine?

The term allopathic comes from two Greek words—allos and pathos. Pathos means suffering and put together with logia, from which we get logic, pathology means the study of suffering, or disease. Allos mean another—pathos means suffering or disease, so allopathic medicine, which is science based medicine in which I was trained, means not to bring along another disease or suffering to the patient, but to treat the disease or suffering with something that causes the disease to suffering, i.e. something that is directly antagonistic and destructive to the disease. So an infection is treated with an antibiotic.

Homeopathy on the other hand is based on the flawed idea of like cures like, meaning that what causes the disease in healthy people, will cure the disease in sick people; so giving sick people diluted forms of what is believed to have caused the disease is the approach. It has been proven repeatedly to be no better than placebo at best.

So, back to the allos parakletos—another helper. What is the significance of "another helper"? Does this mean separate and distinct from Jesus? What about separate and distinct from the Father? Yes, another, but along side and alike to Jesus to help heal and restore us!

How does the Holy Spirit comfort?

What do you think of this description from The Desire of Ages:

The Comforter is called "the Spirit of truth." His work is to define and maintain the truth. He first dwells in the heart as the Spirit of truth, and thus He becomes the Comforter. There is comfort and peace in the truth, but no real peace or comfort can be found in falsehood. It is through false theories and traditions that Satan gains his power over the mind. By directing men to false standards, he misshapes the character. Through the Scriptures the Holy Spirit speaks to the mind, and impresses truth upon the heart. Thus He exposes error, and expels it from the soul. It is by the Spirit of truth, working through the word of God, that Christ subdues His chosen people to Himself. {DA 671.1}

What do you understand this to mean?

How is truth comforting? What do lies do? Is the comfort that comes from the Spirit emotional only? Or is the comfort the comfort of genuine healing, transformation, health and wellness?

Can someone experience the comfort the Spirit longs to bring if they refuse truth? Why not?

What happens if they claim to believe in God and follow the rules and do the right rituals but hold to lies about God as an imposer of rules and one who is required to inflict punishment? Have any of you ever believed such things? Was there comfort in such belief or instead discomfort, anxiety, uncertainty, fear, insecurity?

What happened when you came to the truth about God and His Design law of love, knowing that deviations from God's design cause suffering and ultimately death, while God is constantly working to heal and restore? Did this truth bring comfort?

Read question at bottom of lesson, "Why is it so much more comforting to know that the Holy Spirit is a personality instead of a mere force?"

- Are these the only two options?
- Does a person have to believe in the unique personality of the Holy Spirit to benefit from the work of the Holy Spirit in their lives?
- Could a person believe the Spirit is the Spirit of God the Father rather than a unique separate personality? Does that prevent the Spirit from working in their lives?
- Could a person not believe either, in the Holy Spirit or in a force? Would the Holy Spirit still seek to work with such a person?
- How could we tell if a person was responding to the Holy Spirit even if they were ignorant of the Holy Spirit?

- Conversely, could a person believe in the unique personality of the Holy Spirit, but accept the workings of a false spirit as the Holy Spirit?
- So, does believing in the unique personality of the Holy Spirit protect one from a false spirit?
- Does not believing in the unique personality of the Holy Spirit preclude one from the benefits of the Holy Spirit?

Romans 2:12-15:

All who sin apart from the law will also perish apart from the law, and all who sin under the law will be judged by the law. ¹³ For it is not those who hear the law who are righteous in God's sight, but it is those who obey the law who will be declared righteous. ¹⁴ (Indeed, when Gentiles, who do not have the law, do by nature things required by the law, they are a law for themselves, even though they do not have the law, ¹⁵ since they show that the requirements of the law are written on their hearts, their consciences also bearing witness, and their thoughts now accusing, now even defending them.)

And what is the New Covenant—God writing His law on the heart and mind, which these people experience. And who is the member of the Godhead who does this internal transforming of the heart? The Holy Spirit—so here we have people who don't know about the Spirit, or God, but are still transformed by the Spirit.

I love this description in The Desire of Ages:

Those whom Christ commends in the judgment may have known little of theology, but they have cherished His principles. Through the influence of the divine Spirit they have been a blessing to those about them. Even among the heathen are those who have cherished the spirit of kindness; before the words of life had fallen upon their ears, they have befriended the missionaries, even ministering to them at the peril of their own lives. Among the heathen are those who worship God ignorantly, those to whom the light is never brought by human instrumentality, yet they will not perish. Though ignorant of the written law of God, they have heard His voice speaking to them in nature, and have done the things that the law required. Their works are evidence that the Holy Spirit has touched their hearts, and they are recognized as the children of God. {DA 638.2}

Some ask, why then do we take the gospel to the world and preach Christ if this is true?

Let me give an analogy. Penicillin is an antibiotic, discovered from mold. It is true, that sometimes, ancient cultures would treat wounds with moss or other materials that contained mold, and the molds secreted penicillin and such individuals benefited and either avoided infection or had infections resolve.

Because it is true that people can benefit from natural occurring penicillin in this way, does that mean we should not produce and distribute penicillin, and teach people of its benefits and how to apply it to those who are infected?

Just because people can find God's character revealed in nature and benefit from the working of the Holy Spirit, doesn't mean it isn't much more effective when the truth is presented in its full light.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Can an impersonal force..." Some of these questions are quite good, like, "Can an impersonal force intercede in our behalf?"

Intercession takes intention, willfulness, understanding, which requires individuality—so this is a very good question.

But one question is not necessarily as good at making the distinction between a personality and an impersonal influence, like, "Does an impersonal influence have the ability to speak?" Just say to your iphone, "Hey Siri." And what happens?

We must put forth the best arguments. What would have happened if you had a functioning iPhone in your pocket 2000 years ago and called the Spirit Siri and in front of a group said, "Hey Siri, what will the weather be like tomorrow?"

Might some people have formed some false beliefs based on that experience?

What is better evidence that hearing a voice speaking?

Read second paragraph, "The distinctive characteristics of personality..." Is there a difference between knowledge and understanding?

- Knowledge is awareness of facts or information, whereas wisdom is the ability to understand and appreciate the significance and right application of those facts?
- Knowledge is awareness that a tomato is fruit; wisdom is knowing that tomatoes don't go in fruit salad.
- Knowledge is awareness that your parents have a rule to brush your teeth or else you will get punished; wisdom is knowing that the punishment will not come from your parents.
- Knowledge is awareness that God has rules that we must obey or else we will get punished; wisdom is knowing that the punishment does not come from God.

What about the point that only a personal being can be grieved? I think this is quite true, inanimate objects cannot be grieved. But can animals be grieved? Are animals are personal beings? Yes, why? Because the higher animals were made to have relationship with each other and mankind—grief is the experience of loss—if we lose someone we have bonded with we grieve, thus animals can grieve. But this is a personal experience. So the Holy Spirit who grieves the loss of every person who is lost is a personal being.

And what about the capacity to choose, and the capacity to love? This is something a machine cannot do, something a non-individual can do. Gravity is a force, but it cannot grieve, it cannot love, it cannot choose. Siri is a program that also cannot grieve, love, or choose.

TUESDAY

Read first two paragraphs, “A challenge we face...” Is it hard to connect with the Holy Spirit because the Spirit remains a very amorphous physical entity?

Does anyone have an idea, a way of conceiving of the Holy Spirit that makes it easier for you to comprehend and make Him real in your life?

What about praying to the Holy Spirit? How many of you have prayed to Jesus? How many have prayed directly to the Father... “Our Father which art in heaven...” How many have prayed directly to the Spirit?

If not, why not? Can we? Should we? Or should we pray only to Jesus or the Father asking them to send the Spirit?

I have often heard people pray for Jesus or the Father to send the Spirit, do such prayers undermine our ability to experience the Holy Spirit as equal to the Father and the Son?

The middle of the lesson asks us to read two passages and replace Holy Spirit with the word power and see if it makes sense.

I know what they are trying to do, but don’t think that it works very well here because of the sentence structure.

Romans 13:15: “May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace as you trust in him, so that you may overflow with hope by the power of the Holy Spirit.” NIV,

So putting in power reads “by the power of the power,” if we reversed it and replaced power with Holy Spirit it doesn’t work either—“by the Holy Spirit of the Holy Spirit.”

This is just bad English. If we instead use force instead of power, it would read “by the power of the force,” which would suggest a force accessible and powerful, like in Star Wars, and thus would give a meaning, although it would be a false meaning.

Same problem with 1Cor 2:4:

My message and my preaching were not with wise and persuasive words, but with a demonstration of the Spirit's power...

- demonstration of “the power’s power” doesn’t work
- but neither does demonstration of “the Spirit’s Spirit”

The Apostles statement in Acts 15:28, gives intent and intelligence to the Spirit “it seemed good to the Holy Spirit and to us.” This type of language is more convincing to me.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “In the Gospel of John...” What is the distinction they are trying to make?

- Life eternal is that they might know... which is not cognitive but personal, experiential, not knowing about but knowing
- Truth it about the knowledge, the experience of reality, of God’s true character and how reality works—which is more than data collection, it is wisdom of life experience with God
- Jesus is the Word that was made flesh, the way and the truth, the living light, the living embodiment of God’s character and law of love
- Thus truth is not something merely to cognitively comprehended, but something to be experienced

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “The question of the personality...” What is the argument being made? That the HS will be slighted, offended, get His feelings hurt, be cheated out of something that is rightfully His?

Is this the argument? OR is the lesson arguing that in denying the personhood of the Holy Spirit we are cheating ourselves of something—what?

A personal relationship with a divine being who is the one who not only connects us with the other two members of the divine trio, but is the one with whom we can have the most personal and intimate connection as we are living temples where the Spirit’s personal presence will dwell!

If we deny the personhood of the Spirit, what do we lose in that intimate relationship?

Read the second paragraph, “If we think of...” The green section states, “We cannot use the Holy Spirit. The Spirit is to use us.”

What happens if we surrender ourselves completely to the Holy Spirit and the Holy Spirit gets to do entirely what the Spirit wants to do in us?

But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control. Gal 5:22,23

The Holy Spirit heals and restores us to God's original ideal and what was that ideal, that we not only have the traits of Christlike character, love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, faithfulness, gentleness, but we also recover the ability to be SELF-controlled, not Spirit-controlled!

God does not want puppets controlled by the Spirit, God wants intelligent beings healed and restored to be able to love others and govern self freely in harmony with God's design.

Adam, before the fall, was self-governed and had the ability to resist evil in his own human strength, at least according to one of the founders of the SDA church:

“Because man fallen could not overcome Satan with his human strength, Christ came from the royal courts of heaven to help him with His human and divine strength combined. Christ knew that Adam in Eden with his superior advantages might have withstood the temptations of Satan and conquered him. He also knew that it was not possible for man out of Eden, separated from the light and love of God since the fall, to resist the temptations of Satan in his own strength. In order to bring hope to man, and save him from complete ruin, He humbled Himself to take man's nature, that with His divine power combined with the human He might reach man where he is. He obtained for the fallen sons and daughters of Adam that strength which it is impossible for them to gain for themselves, that in His name they might overcome the temptations of Satan.” {Confrontation 45}

God's plan is to restore us to perfection, to restore to us self-control so that we can live in harmony with God and His design for life, by the exercise of our own healed minds and wills.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

January 20, 21, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at The Haven in St. Helena, California

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhcs Summit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

2017 Q1 Lesson 5. The Baptism and Filling of The Holy Spirit

SABBATH

The thief cometh not but to steal and to kill and to destroy. I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly. John 10:10. 21KJV.

According to the same author [John] what is the definition of “abundant [read eternal] life? John 17:3.

Where / when did the process of Baptism begin? Did it originate with Heaven or elsewhere?
Consider the following:

“And the devils, indeed, having heard this washing published by the prophet, instigated those who enter their temples, and are about to approach them with libations and burnt-offerings, also to sprinkle themselves; and they cause them [the pagans] also to wash themselves entirely, as they depart [from the sacrifice], before they enter into the shrines in which their images are set.” [Justin Martyr, First Apology, Ch 62].

This seems to indicate that “the devils”, having read Old Testament prophecies, came up with the “ritual” of baptism for pagan rites, knowing of a coming Messiah and the eventual symbolism of baptism.

How did Christianity get from Baptism by water [repentance] to the Baptism of the Holy Spirit?
What’s the whole point of Baptism by water?

This was quoted last week, but it bears repeating:

It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world’s Redeemer. It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature. Christ has given His Spirit as a divine power to overcome all hereditary and cultivated tendencies to evil, and to impress His own character upon His church. DA 671

The preaching of the word is of no avail without the presence and aid of the Holy Spirit; for this Spirit is the only effectual teacher of divine truth. Only when the truth is accompanied to the heart by the Spirit, will it quicken the conscience or transform the life. A minister may be able to present the letter of the word of God; he may be familiar with all its commands and promises; but his sowing of the gospel seed will not be successful unless this seed is quickened into life by the dew of heaven. Without the co-operation of the Spirit of God, no amount of education, no advantages, however great, can make one a channel of light. Before one book of the New Testament had been written, before one gospel sermon had been preached after Christ's ascension, the Holy Spirit came upon the praying disciples. Then the testimony of their enemies was, “Ye have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine.” Gospel Workers 286

“The Christian’s life is not a modification or improvement of the old, but a transformation of nature. There is a death to self and sin, and a new life altogether. This change can be brought about only by the effectual working of the Holy Spirit.”—Ellen G. White, The Desire of Ages, p. 172.

From the teacher’s lesson:

“This week’s lesson should help members of your class to be aware that the baptism of the Holy Spirit is not for a select few or a small group of spiritually elite Christians. The baptism or infilling of the Holy Spirit is for all believers in every generation. When we become insensitive to the infilling of the Holy Spirit, we live the Christian life in our own strength, powerless to overcome temptation. We live in frustrated defeat rather than in joyous victory. Our decisions are based on human wisdom rather than divine guidance. We are caught in the grip of seemingly unbreakable habits rather than enjoying the freedom that the Spirit of Christ brings.”

AMEN.

SUNDAY

The Baptism of the Holy Spirit

Why the baptism by water? Why not just wait on the baptism of the Holy Spirit? What’s the purpose of the baptism by water? What are the similarities? What are the differences? What is a baptism of repentance?

From the Lesson:

“John, however, in contrast to the other Gospels, does not use the future tense when speaking about the baptism of the Spirit. Instead, he uses a present participle, indicating that this is something that has continuing validity (see John 1:33). The same tense is used by John just a few verses earlier in John 1:29, when he talks about another important work of Jesus: the taking away of the sins of the world.” Emphasis added.

Following are 25 versions of John 1: 29. One out of the 25 uses the term “sins”. The remainder use the term “sin.” Which makes more sense? Sin? or sins?

New International Version

The next day John saw Jesus coming toward him and said, "Look, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!

New Living Translation

The next day John saw Jesus coming toward him and said, "Look! The Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world!

English Standard Version

The next day he saw Jesus coming toward him, and said, “Behold, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!

New American Standard Bible

The next day he saw Jesus coming to him and said, "Behold, the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world!

King James Bible

The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world.

Holman Christian Standard Bible

The next day John saw Jesus coming toward him and said, "Here is the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!

International Standard Version

The next day, John saw Jesus coming toward him and said, "Look, the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world!

NET Bible

On the next day John saw Jesus coming toward him and said, "Look, the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world!

New Heart English Bible

The next day, he saw Jesus coming to him, and said, "Look, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world.

Aramaic Bible in Plain English

And the day after, Yohannan saw Yeshua Who came to him and Yohannan said: "Behold, The Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!" Emphasis added.

GOD'S WORD® Translation

John saw Jesus coming toward him the next day and said, "Look! This is the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world.

New American Standard 1977

The next day he saw Jesus coming to him, and said, "Behold, the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world!

Jubilee Bible 2000

The next day John saw Jesus coming unto him and said, Behold the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world.

King James 2000 Bible

The next day John saw Jesus coming unto him, and said, Behold the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world.

American King James Version

The next day John sees Jesus coming to him, and said, Behold the Lamb of God, which takes away the sin of the world.

American Standard Version

On the morrow he seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold, the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world!

Douay-Rheims Bible

The next day, John saw Jesus coming to him, and he saith: Behold the Lamb of God, behold him who taketh away the sin of the world.

Darby Bible Translation

On the morrow he sees Jesus coming to him, and says, Behold the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world.

English Revised Version

On the morrow he seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold, the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world!

Webster's Bible Translation

The next day John seeth Jesus coming to him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, who taketh away the sin of the world.

Weymouth New Testament

The next day John saw Jesus coming towards him and exclaimed, "Look, that is the Lamb of God who is to take away the sin of the world!"

World English Bible

The next day, he saw Jesus coming to him, and said, "Behold, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!"

Young's Literal Translation

on the morrow John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, 'Lo, the Lamb of God, who is taking away the sin of the world;

MONDAY

Being Filled With the Holy Spirit

From the lesson: “If we yield to the influence of alcohol, our walk, talk, and thoughts will be affected negatively. When we are filled with the Holy Spirit, we yield every part of our life to His transforming influence with the result that our walk, talk, and thoughts will reflect Jesus.”

Which Law is being described here?

Again, from the lesson:

“In the Greek of Acts 13:52, the term filled with the Spirit is in the imperfect tense, signifying continuous action. It literally means: “being [continuously] filled.” Being filled with the Spirit is not a one-time event. It is something that we should seek and receive every day. This filling has to be repeated so that every part of our lives is filled with His presence, and so we are empowered to live as we should.

Being filled with the Holy Spirit does not so much mean that we possess more of Him but that He possesses more of us.”

I think this is very well said.

TUESDAY

Conditions Part I

The lesson suggests that “repentance” is one of the first conditions for being baptized by the Holy Spirit. Any thoughts? Does it matter which Law lens you are viewing “repentance”? What constitutes “repentance”? Is it the same as “forgiveness”?

From the lesson:

“True repentance is more than just feeling sorry for the dire consequences of our sins. It is a thorough change of heart and mind so that we see sin for what it really is: an ugly evil and rebellion against God.”

To be sure, “sin” is ugly, evil, and rebellion, but is that all? Why is humanity in “rebellion against God?”

Remember the cascade? Lies believed lead to the broken circle of Love and Trust, which leads to self seeking behavior.

Which Law lens are we viewing sin with?

Sin is “Lawlessness” [I John 3:4] Which Law?

I'm happy that the lesson uses "trust" synonymous with "faith", however, can we receive the Holy Spirit without "trusting God's Word?" How much Scripture was written when Abraham was on Earth? Scripture tells us Abraham "trusted God", not just His Word. And he didn't always trust, did he? Was he bereft of the Spirit?

The lesson asks: "Why does persistent intercession make a difference?" I would ask, "Upon whom does persistent intercession make the difference?"

WEDNESDAY

Conditions Part II

From the lesson:

"Then, as now, the Holy Spirit is granted to all who obey God. In the Bible, love and obedience go hand in hand, and true faith is expressed in obedience."

Is this accurate? Which comes first, the obedience – leading to the indwelling Spirit, or the indwelling of the Spirit – leading to obedience?

What about Balam? He said only what God told him to say [obedience], but was his heart full of love for God?

4 He that saith, "I know Him," and keepeth not His commandments, is a liar and the truth is not in him. 5 But whoso keepeth His Word, in him verily is the love of God perfected: hereby know we that we are in Him. I John 2: 4, 5 21KJV.

Consider, again, which comes first – the keeping His commandments or the indwelling Spirit leading the character to want to live in harmony with God's Design Law?

A mechanical obedience may hide the smoldering fire of rebellion, but it is ready to break out at any time against restraint. In the service of such there is no peace or light or love. The atmosphere surrounding their souls is not fragrant. The influence of their words and actions is felt by others, and this influence is a harm even to those who are trying to do their best in any position in which they are placed. Self-pity is deteriorating to the characters of those who cherish it, and it exerts an influence that spoils the happiness of others. MM 173 – 1932.

17 But, beloved, remember ye the words which were spoken beforehand by the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ, 18 how they told you that there would be mockers in the last times who would walk after their own ungodly lusts.

19 These are they who separate themselves, sensual, having not the Spirit. Jude 17-19 21 KJV. Emphasis mine.

Again, look at the mechanics of the problem. God doesn't withhold His Spirit, they "separate themselves" by their thoughts, choices, and behaviors, searing their own consciences.

THURSDAY

Self-Centered Living versus Christ-Centered Living.

6 You will know these people because of what they do. Good things don't come from people who are bad, just as grapes don't come from thornbushes, and figs don't come from thorny weeds. 17 In the same way, every good tree produces good fruit, and bad trees produce bad fruit. 18 A good tree cannot produce bad fruit, and a bad tree cannot produce good fruit. Matt 7: 16-18. ERV.

But the fruit that the Spirit produces in a person's life is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control. There is no law against these kinds of things. Galatians 5: 22, 23. ERV.

From the Lesson:

"We cannot transform ourselves. We possess no real power to change ourselves, for sin is too deeply ingrained in us. The renewing energy must come from God. The change from within can be successful only through the transforming work of the Holy Spirit. No mere external change, such as correcting this or that bad habit, makes us Christians. The change has to come from a heart renewed by the Holy Spirit.

This is the work of a lifetime, a work that will have its up and downs, but a work that God promises to do in us if we surrender to Him, "being confident of this very thing, that He who has begun a good work in you will complete it until the day of Jesus Christ" (Phil. 1:6, NKJV)."

AMEN. Very well said.

The Holy Spirit and Spirituality 1Q 2017 Lesson 6

The Holy Spirit and Living A Holy Life

Before we get into this week's lesson I received a number of emails from listeners and one post on our Facebook page about our discussion regarding Ananias and Sapphira. Here is the post from our Facebook page, which is similar to the emails received:

Dr. Jennings, really appreciate the focus on God's character and your willingness to challenge our thinking. Even though I agree generally with your conclusions, I fear you have undermined your credibility a bit in this lesson, by selectively quoting Ellen White on the topic of Ananias and Sapphira. I noticed that you quoted Ellen White's beautiful statement about coercion having no place in God's government, and you rightly point out that the Bible does not say this was an act of punishment on God's part (not going beyond what is written), but you did not seem to be aware of Ellen White's own comments on the Ananias and Sapphira story. When your listeners read for themselves Ellen White's comments on the Ananias and Sapphira incident on AA pp.75-76 in which she very clearly refers to the incident using the word punishment, they will have reason to believe you have an agenda and have selectively quoted to make your point. Just as you said regarding the lesson author's comments about the divinity of the Holy Spirit based on this story, that you agree with the conclusion, but don't find the argument compelling, I would say the same. I agree with your conclusion, that God does not coerce, but I'm not sure we need to excise the word punishment from our vocabulary in order to arrive there.

Here are two paragraphs from AA:

From the stern punishment meted out to those perjurers, God would have us learn also how deep is His hatred and contempt for all hypocrisy and deception. In pretending that they had given all, Ananias and Sapphira lied to the Holy Spirit, and, as a result, they lost this life and the life that is to come. The same God who punished them, today condemns all falsehood. Lying lips are an abomination to Him. He declares that into the Holy City "there shall in no wise enter . . . anything that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie." Revelation 21:27. Let truth telling be held with no loose hand or uncertain grasp. Let it become a part of the life. Playing fast and loose with truth, and dissembling to suit one's own selfish plans, means shipwreck of faith. "Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth." Ephesians 6:14. He who utters untruths sells his soul in a cheap market. His falsehoods may seem to serve in emergencies; he may thus seem to make business advancement that he could not gain by fair dealing; but he finally reaches the place where he can trust no one. Himself a falsifier, he has no confidence in the word of others. {AA 75.3} [Please note what she is describing happening, what is occurring?]

In the case of Ananias and Sapphira, the sin of fraud against God was speedily punished. The same sin was often repeated in the after history of the church and is committed by many in our time. But though it may not be attended by the visible manifestation of God's displeasure, it is no less heinous in His sight now than in the apostles' time. The warning has been given; God has clearly manifested His abhorrence of this sin; and all who give themselves up to hypocrisy and covetousness may be sure that they are destroying their own souls. {AA 76.1}

So, how do you hear this quotation? Through what law lens? Do you hear it as God sending power, originating in Himself, out and inflicting death upon them, OR as God surrendering them to their choice and thus ceasing the use of His power which had been protecting them?

Consider this passage from Romans:

But now a righteousness from God, apart from law, has been made known, to which the Law and the Prophets testify. ²² This righteousness from God comes through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe. There is no difference, ²³ for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, ²⁴ and are justified freely by his grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus. ²⁵ God presented him as a sacrifice of atonement, through faith in his blood. He did this to demonstrate his justice, because in his forbearance he had left the sins committed beforehand unpunished—Romans 3:21-25

Did all the people in OT times (other than Enoch and Elijah) die? Was their death punishment for sin? Paul says their sins were not punished—what do we understand this to mean?

Was the death that Ananias and Sapphira suffered a different death than Nadab and Abihu, or the platoons that came to arrest Elijah or Sodom and Gomorrah suffered? In other words was their death the first or second death? Is the first death the punishment for sin...hmmm...what do we do then?

Perhaps we should read a few other EGW quotes and compare them to the one in AA read above:

"We are not to regard God as waiting to punish the sinner for his sin. The sinner brings the punishment upon himself. His own actions start a train of circumstances that bring the sure result. Every act of transgression reacts upon the sinner, works in him a change of character, and makes it more easy for him to transgress again. By choosing to sin, men separate themselves from God, cut themselves off from the channel of blessing, and the sure result is ruin and death." {1SM 235.2}

And these next two quotes were emailed to me this week by Ben Welebir:

This case is placed on record for our benefit. Just what took place in Pharaoh's heart will take place in every soul that neglects to cherish the light and walk promptly in its rays. God destroys no one. The sinner destroys himself by his own impenitence. When a person once neglects to heed the invitations, reproofs, and warnings of the Spirit of God, his conscience becomes seared, and the next time he is admonished, it will be more difficult to yield obedience than before. And thus with every repetition. Conscience is the voice of God, heard amid the conflict of human passions; when it is resisted, the Spirit of God is grieved. – {5T 120.1}

We want all to understand how the soul is destroyed. It is not that God sends out a decree that man shall not be saved. He does not throw a darkness before the eyes which cannot be penetrated. But man at first resists a motion of the Spirit of God, and, having once resisted, it is less difficult to do so the second time, less the third, and far less the fourth. Then comes the harvest to be reaped from the seed of unbelief and resistance. Oh what a harvest of sinful indulgences is preparing for the sickle! – {5T 120.2}

Are these quotes as equally true as what she wrote in the AA? If so, then how do we balance them?

We recognize the balance is the punishment that sin brings when God stops intervening to hold sin at bay and surrenders the sinner to their choice, which, in the Bible, is also known as God's wrath!

So, Ananias and Sapphira, experienced God's wrath of letting them go, because of their choice, and they reaped what happens when the source of life lets go—they died the first death—not the second, but the method was not merely the wearing out of their bodies from old age, but the accelerated, or speedy, immediate result of separation from God. This is what sin does, which is to separate one from God, and is what we described in different words in our lesson a few weeks ago. Thus, God punished them by stopping His interventions that were keeping them alive and allowing them to reap what sin brings—death. This is exactly what I described happening in the lesson a few weeks ago with the Holy Spirit.

I want to commend all those who found these EGW quotes in AA and emailed us or posted on our Facebook page for not simply reading the EGW quote and then closing your minds to what we are teaching, but inquiring, asking for clarification. Excellent!

But, now, I would like to point out a process that happened here—typically when I present something that sounds like it is different than what has been commonly taught, I go to great lengths to look up statements like this one from EGW in AA and bring it into class and unpack it and demonstrate, as we just did, that what I am teaching is consistent with her writings. However, this time I did not do this and several listeners immediately found they could not resolve this apparent contradiction on their own—but these types of situations are exactly what each of us need in order to practice thinking through the evidence for ourselves. It is like a math teacher showing how to work problems, but then the students need to work some of the problems on their own.

I hope those of you who found the AA quote, over the last couple of weeks, have been grappling with it in light of other quotes, Scriptures, God's design laws searching for answers and realize that the typical inflicted penalty view is wrong, that the punishment is the punishment sin brings when God no longer intervenes.

It is the goal of Come and Reason Ministries to help each person to develop the skill to work through such quotes so that when others come to you with such quotes you won't be stumped, but will be able to give a powerful evidence based response.

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "It's easy to become..." What does it mean? Why does God hate sin? What does it mean that God hates evil?

It is like a doctor hating disease and wanting to destroy it, but does a doctor hate the sick patient or even the terminal patient? No! God hates none of His children, even those who have refused His healing, but He hates the disease which is killing them—sin and evil. And God hates it when His children refuse to let Him heal them!

Read second paragraph, "Holiness, however, is a crucial..." What is holiness? We use the term, but functionally what is it, what does it mean? How do you define it?

Here are 7 definitions from the dictionary of "holy," because holiness means something that is holy:

1. specially recognized as or declared sacred by religious use or authority; consecrated: holy ground.
2. dedicated or devoted to the service of God, the church, or religion: a holy man.
3. saintly; godly; pious; devout: a holy life.
4. having a spiritually pure quality: a holy love.
5. entitled to worship or veneration as or as if sacred: a holy relic.
6. religious: holy rites.
7. inspiring fear, awe, or grave distress: The director, when angry, is a holy terror.

As I see it only one of these definitions defines the core of true holiness, the rest of these are all open to counterfeits and can confuse us and obscure our understanding of true holiness:

1. specially recognized as or declared sacred by religious use or authority; consecrated: holy ground.
 - Can Satan worshippers declare certain temples, or worship sites to be holy and can such places be set aside for religious use? Does setting it aside for religious use make it holy?
2. dedicated or devoted to the service of God, the church, or religion: a holy man.
 - Can a cult priest or priestess be set aside for service to their god, church or religion? Does that make him or her holy?

3. saintly; godly; pious; devout: a holy life.
 - Can a person live a devout, pious and godly—defined by how the god that person worships functions—and burn people at the stake etc.? Does such a life mean a person is holy?
4. entitled to worship or veneration as or as if sacred: a holy relic.
 - If something is worshipped or considered worthy of veneration does that make it holy?
5. religious: holy rites.
 - Are religious rites holy because they are religious rites? Are there many religious rites that are actually evil because they obstruct the truth about God?
6. inspiring fear, awe, or grave distress: The director, when angry, is a holy terror.
 - Does the truth about God bring fear and grave distress—or is it sin which brings the distress. So, if a person is genuinely holy, will they have terror, dread and grave distress of God?

The only definition which, in my opinion, approximates true holiness is definition 4: having a spiritually pure quality: a holy love.

What is the core to this definition? Healthiness, being in harmony with God, His character, methods, design for life. This is what holiness means, restoration to God's original ideal and intent—ultimate total and eternal healthiness.

Does the idea of mental, spiritual and characterological healthiness demystify the concept of holiness?

Can we make ourselves spiritually healthy—i.e. holy? No! Can God? Yes!

Why is the holier-than-thou attitude so offensive? Because it is claiming that the sickness—pride—is actually what healthiness looks like! It would be like walking around with fever and chills and condemning those without fever and chills.

Read third paragraph, “God’s love and holiness...” Does any part of you recoil at this? Why? Because they are introducing a split in God’s character, a false idea and trying to make it sound good—it is the same process as the holier than thou attitude—trying to make something sick look like it is right.

The reason this happens is that they misunderstand God’s law as imposed, and misunderstand holiness as intolerance for breaking rules. They present God’s holiness as strict enforcement of rules that without God balancing it with love would be cruel.

The problem resolves when we come back to Design Law—life only exists and operates upon the design protocols God instituted when He built all reality—His law—which is an expression of love.

Thus, we cannot be reconciled to Him while being out of harmony with that design, any more than an organ can be transplanted into a host that is not compatible—why? Because the host (person dying of renal failure) doesn't want the organ—or because it simply does not possess the right traits to allow it to survive in the atmosphere of the host's body? We cannot survive in the atmosphere of heaven if we are not transformed and renewed in heart to be like God originally designed humankind in Adam to be. And we can only be healed by partaking of Jesus!

Love is holiness, which is healthiness, and there is no other way to live in God's universe. Not one aspect of God's law can be changed without destroying God's creation. Thus God is working through Christ to change the sinners who are out of harmony with God and His design so we can live in God's reality!

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "It's popular to emphasize..." Paragraphs like this sadden me, because it is evidence of how deeply the false law infection penetrates into every aspect of Christian thought.

They are actually trying to draw a contrast between God's love and His holiness—let's examine their concerns and investigate their claims.

They say God's holiness is connected with His name—what does this mean?

In the Bible what is the significance of a name? Why was Jacob's name changed to Israel? Because Jacob's character changed, thus his name changed. In the Bible name means character.

So, what then would it mean if God's holiness is connected with His name? That it is connected with His character, and His character is what? Love! So, consider this quote:

Christ declares the mission he had in coming to the earth. He says in his last public prayer, "O righteous Father, the world hath not known thee: but I have known thee, and these have known that thou hast sent me. And I have declared unto them thy name, and will declare it; that the love wherewith thou hast loved me may be in them, and I in them." [John 17:25, 26.] When Moses asked the Lord to show him his glory, the Lord said, "I will make all my goodness pass before thee." [Exodus 33:19.] "And the Lord passed by before him, and proclaimed, The Lord, The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty. . . . And Moses made haste, and bowed his head toward the earth, and worshiped." [Exodus 34:6-8.] When we are able to comprehend the character of God as did Moses, we too shall make haste to bow in adoration and praise. Jesus contemplated nothing less than "that the love wherewith Thou hast love me" [John 17:26.] should be in the hearts of his children, that they might impart the knowledge of God to others. {CE 75.1}

What is the name of God? It is His character and God is LOVE! So if God's holiness is tied up in His name, then it is tied up in His character of love!

The lesson states holiness describes purity and moral perfection—what is the standard of purity and moral perfection? God's character of love, which is manifested in His living law of love—the design protocols upon which life is built!

Consider these quotes:

Christ came to our world to represent the character of God as it is represented in His holy law, for His law is a transcript of His character. Christ was both the law and the gospel... {CTr 339.2} [If Christ was the law, what kind of law is it? It is living, functional, design law, not imposed rules!]

In setting aside the law of God, men know not what they are doing. God's law is the transcript of His character. It embodies the principles of His kingdom. He who refuses to accept these principles is placing himself outside the channel where God's blessings flow. {COL 305.3} [What kind of law is being described? What happens if we refuse His law? We place ourselves outside the channel where God's blessings flow—i.e. this is design law, it is like the hand cutting itself off from the body!]

So, what is the standard of purity and perfection? God's character of love which is evidenced in the living law of love! Again, no separation or division between holiness and love!

Holiness means being completely free from evil—what is evil at its core?

Unselfishness, the principle of God's kingdom, is the principle that Satan hates; its very existence he denies. From the beginning of the great controversy he has endeavored to prove God's principles of action to be selfish, and he deals in the same way with all who serve God. To disprove Satan's claim is the work of Christ and of all who bear His name. {Ed 154.3}

All sin is selfishness. Satan's first sin was a manifestation of selfishness. He sought to grasp power, to exalt self...The sowing of seeds of selfishness in the human heart was the first result of the entrance of sin into the world. {7MR 232.4}

God desires every one to understand the evil of selfishness, and to cooperate with Him in guarding the human family against its terrible, deceptive power. The design of the gospel is to confront this evil by means of remedial missionary work, and to destroy its destructive power by establishing enterprises of benevolence. {7MR 233.1}

As a remedy for the terrible consequences into which selfishness led the human race, God gave His only begotten Son to die for mankind. How could He have given more? In this gift He gave Himself. "I and My Father are one," said Christ. By the gift of His Son, God has made it possible for man to be redeemed, and restored to oneness with Him. {7MR 233.2}

"God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Love is the great principle that actuates unfallen beings. With amazement the angels behold the indifference that those who have light and knowledge manifest toward a world unsaved. The heavenly host are filled with an intense desire to work through human agencies to restore in man the image of God. They are ready and waiting to do this work. The combined power of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost is pledged to uplift man from his fallen state. Every attribute, every power, of divinity, has been placed at the command of those who unite with the Saviour in winning men to God. Oh that all would appreciate the truth as it is in Jesus! Oh that all would love God in return for the love wherewith He has loved them! {7MR 233.3}

Sin has extinguished the love that God placed in man's heart. The work of the church is to rekindle this love. The church is to cooperate with God by uprooting selfishness from the human heart, placing in its stead the benevolence that was in man's heart in his original state of perfection. {7MR 234.1}

So what is evil? Selfishness, and what is the opposite of selfishness? Love, so again, there is no distinction between God's holiness and His character of love!

Do you think we rekindle love when we teach legal theologies or teach ideas that separate God's character of love from His holiness?

So what does it mean to be free from evil? To be free from selfishness, which means to love perfectly.

So, what then is holiness?

Read third paragraph, "His power is holy power..." Has God been presented by Christians in an unlovely and detestable way? How?

- By presenting His character as split—love and something else—every attribute of God's nature reveals in some way His character of love—there is never a separation
- By presenting God's law as human law, imposed rules and thus God as the imposer of punishments
- By presenting God as the source of evil, pain, suffering and death

Read fourth paragraph, "God's holiness means..." What does this mean? What does it not mean?

If they are saying there is no evil, sinfulness, selfishness in God, that God exists free of all sinfulness then this is absolutely true.

If, though, they mean that God is so holy that He will not tolerate sin in His presence and in fact cannot tolerate it, is such an idea true?

Where did sin begin? In heaven, with whom? Lucifer, and in whose presence did Lucifer dwell? After Adam and Eve sinned who sought them out and in whose presence did they find themselves? God's—so the idea that sin cannot occur in God's presence is disproved. The idea that sin cannot occur or exist in God's presence led to a theological construct that is quite wrong—the idea that God's holiness cannot exist in the presence of sin, so Jesus could not be born to a sinful woman, therefore Mary had to be sinless, which would mean several serious problems if true:

- God has a way to make humans holy without Jesus
- Jesus was not born part of the fallen human species but to a different human species that was not descended from Adam and fallen into sin
- Jesus doesn't know what it is like to be tempted in every way like us because He didn't partake of our humanity
- Jesus' work on earth would not have been able to eradicate the infection of sin, i.e. destroy the carnal nature, if He were born to a sinless mother
- The only purpose for His birth if born to a sinless mother would be to be executed in order to pay a legal payment and such an idea perpetuates the false human imposed law construct and distorts the character of God.

Fortunately, the idea that sin cannot occur in God's presence is false and the teaching that Mary was sinless is also false and we can rejoice that we have a Savior who was born part of this human species and fixed what Adam's sin did to it!

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, "Holiness is both..." What do you hear?

When you hear holiness is a command—what happens in your mind and heart? How is that concept heard and processed?

What law lens to you hear it through?

Does the tension evaporate if we substitute holiness with the word healthiness, where healthiness means spiritual healthiness?

God's command then is His plan, His prescription, His directions, His expectations and goals for us—perfect healing and restoration to Christlikeness—the question is how does this occur?

No man receives holiness as a birthright, or as a gift from any other human being. Holiness is the gift of God through Christ. Those who receive the Saviour become sons of God. They are His spiritual children, born again, renewed in righteousness and true holiness. Their minds are changed. With clearer vision they behold eternal realities. They are adopted into God's family, and they become conformed to His likeness, changed by His Spirit from glory to glory. From cherishing supreme love for self, they come to cherish supreme love for God and for Christ. . . . Accepting Christ as a personal Saviour, and following His example of self-denial--this is the secret of holiness. {AG 120.4}

What do you hear holiness is? It is transformation, rebirth, recreation, restoration, renewal, becoming in heart, mind, character like Jesus, having the law written on the heart, etc. etc. This is being restored to God's design for life, this is all design law, there is no imposed law, legal aspects to any of it!

The bottom paragraph states, "God's acceptance of each believer is perfect from the beginning; yet, our growth in sanctification is a lifelong process and always needs to be extended further so that we become more and more transformed into the unblemished image of Him who has saved us."

What do you hear this say?

Did the antediluvians have an advantage in sanctification because they lived longer? Do we only get sanctified by aging?

Or, when we think of sanctification as being the work of a lifetime, do we realize it is like eating—is eating the work of a lifetime? Why? Because our bodies need ongoing sustenance, not because we haven't matured. So too our minds and characters need daily sustenance, we may experience spiritual maturity here and now—consider Elijah, he achieved it much younger than the antediluvians, yet he still needed daily sustenance.

The green section states, "There is a tension between being holy and yet having to pursue holiness." Is there? How?

Is there a tension between being healthy and having to pursue healthiness?

TUESDAY

The Agent of Sanctification—who is this agent? It is the Holy Spirit—what is Jesus' role?

Jesus is the one who procured the Remedy to sin, the Holy Spirit is the one who applies it into our hearts and minds!

This is the two-phase aspect of salvation, the species being saved or set right or justified with God in the person of Jesus Christ, who simultaneously procured the remedy which heals all who partake. And individuals being set right or justified with God when their hearts are changed from distrust to trust—then in trust—having been set right, their open hearts and experience the presence of the Holy Spirit who brings the achievements of Christ and applies them in the cooperative heart! This is the sanctification, which is an ongoing cooperative experience in the lives of those who trust God and keep their hearts open to Him.

We cannot heal or save ourselves and our works do not procure or provide the remedy. But we have the work of participating and internalizing all that Christ has achieved and making choices to follow His prescriptions.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “We know that...” Do you agree that “the answer is found in the idea of holiness”?

Yes, if we understand the word holiness to mean healthiness. Why do we live in harmony with the laws of health? Because it is the only way to be healthy. Likewise, the only way to be spiritually healthy, whole, and experience the abundant life God wants for us is to live in harmony with His law, which is His construction protocols or design parameters for life!

So, what happens if we break God’s law—do we get in legal trouble with the heavenly judge, or do we damage ourselves and create barriers between us and God, which will eventually lead to our destruction?

Read third paragraph, “To live a spirit-filled...” I think there was some less than ideal word choices here when they said, “The law is never our way to salvation. Rather, it is the path of the saved.”

What is a path other than a way. I think it could have been more clear if stated like this—the law is not the remedy to our terminal state, but is the protocols upon which we live.

So, the laws of health cannot heal a person with a terminal disease—a remedy is needed, however, partaking of the remedy does not do away with the laws of health and if the terminal condition is cured, the healthy person, if they want to stay health, must live in harmony with the laws of health.

The last paragraph states, “While it is possible to keep the letter of the law without love, it is not possible to exhibit true love without keeping the law.”

This is true and well said, but can anyone give some practical examples of what this means?

Can a person live the true law of love without ever keeping the seventh-day Sabbath?

Can a person keep the seventh-day Sabbath without ever practicing the law of love? How about those who crucified Christ?

THURSDAY

First sentence states, “Holiness is the precondition for enjoying the happiness of fellowship with God.” Why?

What if we read, “Healthiness is the precondition...”? Does this make sense?

Can we enjoy fellowship with anyone if we are terminal and dying?

The beginning of the fifth paragraph states, “Activism is not holiness. There will be people who think that they have done great works for the Lord, and yet they really were not following him at all.”

What is the key? Is it the right rituals and rule keeping, or the right heart motive?

These are they that....

FRIDAY

First paragraph asks, “How do we even begin to grasp the holiness of God when our nature is fallen and corrupt and His is compromisingly holy?”

What about through nature and the life of Jesus?

Read and discuss the questions.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhcs Summit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

AUGUST 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Holy Spirit and Spirituality 1Q 2017 Lesson 7

The Holy Spirit and the Fruits of the Spirit

SABBATH

When you think of fruit what comes to mind?

- A product of a plant
- Something that often is nutritious
 - What about spiritual fruits should they nurture?
- A healthy plant brings forth healthy fruit a diseased plant brings forth diseased fruit
 - Is this true regarding fruits of character?
- Fruit is a product of intimacy—offspring are sometimes referred to fruit
 - Are the fruits of the spirit a result of intimacy with God?
- Something that is fertile—capable of reproducing itself
 - What about spiritual fruits—should they be fertile—contribute to the growth of more?
- Do fruits occur on immature or mature plants?
 - What about spiritual fruits, do we experience spiritual fruits in immature or mature people?
- In fact are the fruits the evidence of growing up, maturing?

What enhances maturation and what impairs it?

At Augusta National they hold the Masters each year, and they are renowned for their beautiful Azaleas. But some years, in order to delay the blooming of the plants for the event, they will ice them—the cold prevents maturing—does this have any correspondence in the spiritual world?

What about Laodicea?

Is it an accident that the Holy Spirit is presented as fire? Do we need a certain warmth of heart in order to grow spiritually? If we are cold does that prevent spiritual fruit?

What does it mean to be spiritual cold or lukewarm?

The lesson states, “The fruit of the Spirit is not something we achieve by purely human effort.”

In other words, we cannot do this on our own—would this be similar to saying, “pregnancy is not something a woman can achieve purely by her own effort”? A pregnancy requires something the woman does not possess on her own—what about fruits of the Spirit—do they require something we don’t possess in ourselves?

But, pregnancy requires the woman contribute something of her own—do the fruits of the Spirit require we contribute something of our own? What?

SUNDAY

The lesson asks us to read John 15:1-11 but lets read through verse 15, this is from The Remedy:

As they were walking, Jesus saw a grapevine, and pointing to it, said: "I am the vine from which all truth and life originates, and my Father is the gardener who tends the vine. ²You are the branches which have life and grow—as long as you are connected to me. Any branch that does not grow and bring forth the fruit of a transformed character reveals that it is not genuinely connected to me, and therefore my Father will remove it. Any branch bringing forth fruit of a transformed character my Father prunes and disciplines in order to bring forth even more fruit. ³Your hearts have already been cleansed from the lies of Satan as a result of the truth I have revealed to you. ⁴Remain connected and in unity with me, and I will remain connected and in unity with you. No branch can live, grow, and bear fruit on its own; it must remain connected to the vine. Likewise, you do not have life and cannot grow and bear fruit unless you remain connected to me.

⁵"I am the vine from which all truth and life originates, and you, who receive truth and life from me, are the branches. If a person remains connected to me and in unity with me, I will never sever the connection, and they will develop a fruitful, Godlike character; but separated from me—they can do nothing good. ⁶If anyone severs their connection to me and refuses to be reunited with me, they are like a branch that is cut off from the vine and thrown away and then withers and dies. Such dead branches are picked up, thrown into the fire, and burned. ⁷If you remain connected and in unity with me, and my character is reproduced in you, ask whatever you wish—in harmony with my methods and principles—and it will be given you. ⁸This healing of damaged hearts and minds, which results in the development of godly character in my followers, brings honor and glory to my Father, as it reveals that his methods are the only methods of life, health, and happiness.

⁹"My love for you is just as free, complete and abundant as the Father's love for me. And just as the Father's love lives in me and flows through me to the world, so you must continue to let my love live in you and flow through you to others. ¹⁰If you value my methods and practice my principles of selfless love, my love will live in you—just as I have valued my Father's methods and practiced his principles of selfless love, and his love lives in and flows through me. ¹¹I have told you this so that you may be completely restored to the Father's original ideal for humankind—to unity with him—and you may then experience the joy I have known in my unity with the Father; and then your joy will be complete also. ¹²My prescription to heal your minds and hearts is this: Love each other as I have loved you. ¹³There is no greater love than this—that a person lay down their life to save their friends. This is the principle of life—the central principle of the kingdom of God. This love is the Remedy for the infection that is destroying mankind, and the infection is this: Satan's wicked disease of survival-of-the-fittest, which is preferring self so much that a person will kill their friends in order to save themselves. ¹⁴You are my friends if you take my prescription and love one another. ¹⁵I do not want you to be my servants, because servants only do what they are told but do not understand what the master is doing, nor do they understand the master himself. Their hearts are not in harmony with the master, and what they do they do not do freely. I want you to be my friends—to understand what I am doing—and to freely choose to be in unity with me. That is why I have told you about everything the Father and I are working to accomplish, so your hearts and minds will be in harmony with us.

What does it mean for the Father to prune? What kinds of things does the Father cut away? Not only unhealthy desires, habits, and longings—but also our guilt, shame, fear, anxiety, insecurity, misunderstandings!

Are there any elements described here which are required in order to experience the fruit of the Spirit?

Abiding in Christ—which means what?

Here is what the SDA church historically taught about this concept:

To abide in Christ means that you shall be a partaker of the divine nature. Humanity lays hold upon divinity, and you have divine power... {General Conference Bulletin, May 17, 1909 par. 20}

Great, but how, what are the elements we must partake of to be partaking of the divine nature? What are the two core attributes of God's divine nature that we must purposefully, actively, willfully choose to embrace and internalize and practice?

Consider these quotes:

The blessed Redeemer has set us an example in living out the precepts of the law. [What level of development do you hear this through? Those at level four and below, still operating on the false human imposed law hear this as the 10 Commandments and instantly think of a long list of behaviors and activities we must do—but that is the wrong understanding and not what is meant. Notice the next sentence:] He says to His followers, "Freely ye have received, freely give." [What law is this? The design law, living law, of love!] We are to have an open heart to receive the rich treasures of heaven, and our hearts are to be opened to let those rich treasures out to others. Oh, we need to abide in Christ, then we will be a constant channel through which God will communicate to our brethren and to the world His own gracious Spirit. . . . {TMK 49.2}

What is the first element of God's divine nature we need to actively participate in in order to be abiding in Christ? —Love! And then the second?

"Except ye abide in me," says Christ, "ye can do nothing." We need him every day; we cannot part with him for an hour. Every faculty of our being belongs to him, and should be dedicated to his service. My brethren, if you know that this union with Christ is required of you, and then neglect to maintain a consistent walk and to live in the exercise of faith, the heart will become hardened in disobedience. The tendency is to become self-important and emboldened in a wrong course. It is your duty to abide in Christ. We must be daily learners in his school. [What are the lesson books in His school? Scripture, nature, and experience!] We must know the way ourselves before we can teach others how to walk in it. {RH, March 4, 1884 par. 10}

"Search the Scriptures," was the injunction of the Master. Many have lost much because they have neglected this duty. When we search the word of God, angels are by our side, reflecting bright beams of light upon its sacred pages. The Scriptures appeal to man as having power to choose between right and wrong; they speak to him in warning, in reproof, in entreaty, in encouragement. The mind must be exercised on the solemn truths of God's word, or it will grow weak. [Why? If we fail to exercise our minds on God's word will God use power to make our minds weak? No this is design law, the law of exertion, we must choose to reason, study, think, contemplate, understand, appreciate and choose truth!] We have the truth brought out in publications, but it is not enough to rely upon other men's thoughts. We must examine for ourselves, and learn the reasons of our faith by comparing scripture with scripture. [Notice where EGW points our attention and what she holds up as the standard—the Bible!] Take the Bible, and on your knees plead with God to enlighten your mind. If we would study the Bible diligently and prayerfully every day, we should every day see some beautiful truth in a new, clear, and forcible light. {RH, March 4, 1884 par. 11}

Our ministers are failing here. They are not Bible students, they are weak where they might be strong; for they take things for granted without searching for themselves. They do not become mighty in the Scriptures and in the power of God, because they are satisfied with their present position and attainments... {RH, March 4, 1884 par. 12}

What is the second element of God's divine nature that we must actively participate in in order to abide in Christ? The truth!

The Holy Spirit is the Spirit of Love and Truth—to abide in Christ means that we abide in His methods, His character, His truth, His principles and thus we love God and others and constantly seek to advance in the truth!

So what interferes with growing up and experience the fruit of the Spirit?

Failure to think for oneself, failure to investigate the evidence for oneself, believing because someone else told you something, resting satisfied on history and failing to put into practice what we understand to be true!

Consider an athlete, who achieves great success, perhaps wins a gold medal, and after winning rests satisfied on that past achievement and quits exercising, what happens?

What happens in our hearts, minds, comprehension, character, if we at one point achieved great spiritual fruit, but then rest satisfied and stop exercising our capacity to love our capacity to understand, think and move forward in the truth?

This is what has happened in all religions, traditions set up, creeds, fundamental beliefs are set down, people are indoctrinated to believe certain things, not to think, not to understand, not to wrestle out the issues and develop within themselves the ability to problem solve, love, comprehend, etc. but to regurgitate answers approved by some ecclesiastical authority.

Religion becomes about the right set of doctrines, rather than the right developmental experience.

Such indoctrinational approaches dwarf the mind, stunt the character and harden the heart!

This is why Come and Reason Ministries never wants to tell you what to think, but to stimulate you to study, to search, to ask questions, to examine evidence, to integrate the various threads of evidence God has provided and be fully persuaded in your own mind! (Rom 14:5)

The lesson states in the last paragraph that “The Holy Spirit will give us power to live victoriously and to develop the virtues that are characteristics of those who are God’s children.”

To live victoriously over what? What does it mean to live victoriously?

By the grace of Christ you can gain the victory over self and selfishness. As you live His life, showing self-sacrifice at every step, constantly revealing a stronger sympathy for those in need of help, you will gain victory after victory. Day by day you will learn better how to conquer self and how to strengthen your weak points of character. The Lord Jesus will be your light, your strength, your crown of rejoicing, because you yield your will to His will.
181 {Counsels for the Church 132.2}

MONDAY

Read Galatians 5:22,23:

But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, ²³ gentleness and self-control. Against such things there is no law.

What does this mean?

First what does it mean against such there is no law? What does it mean that love is fulfillment of the law?

Why is love the first fruit listed?

What is the core of God's character, what is the protocol of life, what is it that wins us to genuine trust? Is it not pure selfless love?

The lesson rightly points out that "love is far more than mere human affection."

How would you describe love?

What is the difference between gifts of the Spirit and fruits of the Spirit?

Gifts are abilities—enablings like:

- Organizational ability
- Ability to preach, teach, speak effectively
- Speak in different languages
- Ability to diagnose and treat health problems
- Skills as artisans or craftsman or musicians or artists

Gifts can be bestowed instantly by God, gifts don't change who we are in character, a person can be gifted in many ways yet still be selfish.

Fruits are traits of character, that are the outgrowth of choices—for good or ill, those who choose to partake of Christ, to open their hearts in trust, experience a change in their character from fearful, insecure, selfish, impulsive, impatient to that of love, joy, etc. And those who reject Christ and choose instead the principles of the world also experience fruits of character—but of selfishness, cruelty, fear, insecurity etc.

- Is experiencing God's love dependent upon which organization one belongs?
- Does our method of baptism determine whether we experience God's love or not?
- Does the day we attend church determine whether we experience God's love or not?
- What does impact our ability to experience God's love?
- What about the ideas/beliefs we hold about God?
- What about the ideas we hold about what sin is and how God addresses it?
- What about how we have been treated by others—especially those who claim to be representatives of God?

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, “Romans 14:7 reads:...” What does it mean that the kingdom of God is not eating and drinking...?

There is absolute joy in experiencing God’s love, no question about it, to know that you are loved, to experience forgiveness, grace, acceptance, the removal of guilt and shame brings joy.

But, I am a little uncomfortable with this statement in the lesson: “The joy that is rooted in the fruit of the Spirit, however, focuses on God and what He has done for us.”

Is there another element that brings joy, perhaps even more joy, that focuses somewhere other than what God has done for us?

Let us fix our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy set before him endured the cross, scorning its shame, and sat down at the right hand of the throne of God. Heb 12:2

What does this mean? What joy? Is there joy in sacrificing to bless another? Is there joy in standing for what is right? Is there joy in representing God correctly? Is there joy in giving for another?

What did Jesus mean by this?

So with you: Now is your time of grief, but I will see you again and you will rejoice, and no one will take away your joy. ²³ In that day you will no longer ask me anything. I tell you the truth, my Father will give you whatever you ask in my name. ²⁴ Until now you have not asked for anything in my name. Ask and you will receive, and your joy will be complete. John 16:22-24

What is the joy? What is the cause of the joy?

Can one have joy in isolation? Is joy always a product of a love relationship?

Read third paragraph, “Peace is more lasting than joy...” What did Jesus mean when He said:

“Do not suppose that I have come to bring peace to the earth. I did not come to bring peace, but a sword. ³⁵ For I have come to turn “ ‘a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law—³⁶ a man’s enemies will be the members of his own household.’ Mt 10:34-36

How do we reconcile the idea that the fruit of the Spirit is peace, but Jesus said He didn’t come to bring peace?

As we are reconciled to God through Christ and experience the Holy Spirit within to heal and renew etc. where do we experience peace and where do we not experience peace?

Therefore, since we have been justified through faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ... Rom 5:1

What does it mean to be justified through faith?

- To be set right in heart—to have a heart changed from distrust, from enmity to God, back to trust and love in God
- Thus those whose hearts are changed from distrust and enmity to love and trust have peace with God

Notice this quotation:

Christ is "the Prince of Peace" (Isaiah 9:6), and it is His mission to restore to earth and heaven the peace that sin has broken. "Being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ" (Romans 5:1). Whoever consents to renounce sin and open his heart to the love of Christ, becomes a partaker of this heavenly peace. {AG 320.2}

There is no other ground of peace than this. The grace of Christ received into the heart, subdues enmity; it allays strife and fills the soul with love. He who is at peace with God and his fellow men cannot be made miserable. Envy will not be in his heart; evil surmisings will find no room there; hatred cannot exist. The heart that is in harmony with God is a partaker of the peace of heaven and will diffuse its blessed influence on all around. The spirit of peace will rest like dew upon hearts weary and troubled with worldly strife. {AG 320.3}

What is described as justification by faith? A change of heart—not a legal action!

The false human imposed law construct has led to a false legal idea of justification which has trapped millions into a religion without peace, because they claim legal declarations of being right, even though they are not, and thus there is not peace, because their hearts remain at enmity with God.

The genuine peace of Christ is the peace of abiding in loving unity with God, rather than fear, guilt and shame.

But, as we experience peace with God, we simultaneously go to war with what? We go to war with selfishness, lies and the principles of the world!

So this is MT 10:34,35, from The Remedy:

"Don't think that I have come to make peace with a selfish world. I have not come to bring peace with selfishness, but a sword to cut selfishness out of the hearts of people.³⁵ I have come to cut dysfunctional family ties: to free a son from selfish loyalty to his father's ambitions and feuds, to sever a daughter from the control of an oppressive and manipulative mother, to cut through the fear and hostility a daughter-in-law has toward her mother-in-law.³⁶ A person's worst enemies are often members of their own family.

What do you understand patience to be? Is it not trusting God with how things will turn out, trusting His timing?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Kindness..." Is God ever unkind? What about when thundering at Sinai? What about when dealing with rebellion?

Why was it kind to toss Adam and Eve out of Eden? Why was it kind to bring 10 plagues on Egypt?

Why was it kind to throw the moneychangers out of the Temple?

What does it mean to be faithful? Is faithfulness about the right behaviors, a code list of rules, don't go to a restaurant on Sabbath, don't pick up a limb fallen on your driveway on Sabbath, don't run down the aisle in church, don't eat the leftover communion bread...

What is faithfulness? Is it about carrying out the tasks with a certain accuracy, or about having a heart motive to always live up to God's ideals in every way?

I love this quote from the book Education:

The greatest want of the world is the want of men--men who will not be bought or sold, men who in their inmost souls are true and honest, men who do not fear to call sin by its right name, men whose conscience is as true to duty as the needle to the pole, men who will stand for the right though the heavens fall. {Ed 57.3}

Would you say this describes faithfulness? What is being described?

How does one obtain such ability? And the next paragraph from the book Education leads us to Thursday's lesson. Here is the next paragraph:

But such a character is not the result of accident; it is not due to special favors or endowments of Providence. A noble character is the result of self-discipline, of the subjection of the lower to the higher nature--the surrender of self for the service of love to God and man. {Ed 57.4}

THURSDAY

What is self-discipline?

What is the last fruit of the Spirit? Self-control, enkratia, en—within, and cratia—authority, like democrat, autocrat. So exercising authority within oneself.

What does it mean that the fruit of the Spirit is self-control? It is not Spirit-control; it is self control!

This is huge, profound, and evidence of God's character of love. When we cooperate with God's Spirit the Spirit heals the damage of fear and selfishness, and restores us back to God's original plan for humanity. Beings who are genuinely FREE to exercise governance over themselves—why? Because it is the only way love can be experienced and expressed!

FRIDAY

read and discuss question 1

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhcs Summit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

AUGUST 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Holy Spirit and Spirituality 1Q 2017 Lesson 8

The Holy Spirit and Gifts of the Spirit

SABBATH

What is the difference between fruits and gifts of the Spirit?

Gifts are abilities—endowments—given directly for the purposes of spreading the gospel—preaching, teaching, prophecy, healing etc.

Fruits are traits of character that are developed within the believer through a trust relationship with God and the indwelling of the Spirit.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “The fruit of the Spirit...” I am concerned that the choice of the word Author in this paragraph could lead to misunderstanding. I would have preferred the word “Source.” God is the source of all life, all that is holy, righteous, good, etc. So, if we mean by the word Author—Source, then no problem, but the word Author can also mean the one who writes and when it comes to the development of the fruits and the expression of the gifts is this true?

It is true God is the source—but are we saying we have no part in the development of the fruits or the expression of the gifts? That we don’t also act a role impacting the expression of these gifts and fruits?

Is one of the gifts of the Spirit, the gift of prophecy? And does the gift of prophecy lead some prophets to write Scripture?

Peter says:

Above all, you must understand that no prophecy of Scripture came about by the prophet’s own interpretation. ²¹ For prophecy never had its origin in the will of man, but men spoke from God as they were carried along by the Holy Spirit. 2Pet 1:20,21

Notice, Peter says God is the source—but is Peter saying God is the one who is speaking or writing?

Do you remember this quotation from a few weeks ago?

The Bible is written by inspired men, but it is not God’s mode of thought and expression. It is that of humanity. God, as a writer, is not represented. Men will often say such an expression is not like God. But God has not put Himself in words, in logic, in rhetoric, on trial in the Bible. The writers of the Bible were God’s penmen, not His pen. Look at the different writers. {1SM 21.1}

So, is God the Author of the Bible? Well... just to ensure I don't get a lot of emails—I thought we should consider this quote?

In the instruction given in our schools, the natural and the spiritual are to be combined. The laws obeyed by the earth reveal the fact that it is under the masterly power of an infinite God. The same principles run through the spiritual and the natural world. Divorce God from the acquisition of knowledge, and you have a lame, one-sided education, dead to all the saving qualities that give true power to man. The Author of nature is the Author of the Bible. Creation and Christianity have one God. God is revealed in nature, and God is revealed in His word. In clear rays the light shines from the sacred page, showing us the living God, as represented in the laws of His government, in the creation of the world, in the heavens that He has garnished. His power is to be recognized as the only means of redeeming the world from the degrading superstitions that are so dishonoring to God and man. {CT 395.2}

Wow—so much in this passage—is God the Author of Scripture? Yes, is He the writer of Scripture? No! What does this mean? He is the Source, but not the writer! And, what law did you hear being described in the paragraph above?

Did you notice this author of that statement said “the same principles run through the spiritual and the natural world.” The penal/legal theologians deny this and insist that human methods of sinful beings, imposed rules with coercive enforcement, run through the spiritual. It is a lie!

The author said that God's power is “the only means of redeeming the world from the degrading superstitions that are so dishonoring to God and man.”

What does this mean? From what is God's power redeeming the world? Degrading superstitions—and what are degrading superstitions? False beliefs, lies, distortions, which when believed degrade the mind, warp the character and turn beings that were created to represent God's character of love into beings who would kill others as just punishment for sin.

Then what is the power that redeems from superstitions? The power of love and truth!

To bring it all together, I found this quote, what do you think of it?

The Bible points to God as its author; yet it was written by human hands; and in the varied style of its different books it presents the characteristics of the several writers. The truths revealed are all "given by inspiration of God" (2 Timothy 3:16); yet they are expressed in the words of men. The Infinite One by His Holy Spirit has shed light into the minds and hearts of His servants. He has given dreams and visions, symbols and figures; and those to whom the truth was thus revealed, have themselves embodied the thought in human language. {FLB 10.3}

The Lord speaks to human beings in imperfect speech, in order that the degenerate senses, the dull, earthly perception, of earthly beings may comprehend His words. Thus is shown God's condescension. He meets fallen human beings where they are. The Bible, perfect as it is in its simplicity, does not answer to the great ideas of God; for infinite ideas cannot be perfectly embodied in finite vehicles of thought. Instead of the expressions of the Bible being exaggerated, as many people suppose, the strong expressions break down before the magnificence of the thought, though the penman selected the most expressive language through which to convey the truths of higher education. {FLB 10.4}

God designed the Bible to be a lesson-book to all mankind, in childhood, youth, and manhood, and to be studied through all time. He gave His Word to men as a revelation of Himself. . . . It is the medium of communication between God and man. {FLB 10.5}

Do we see God is the Author but not the writer of the Bible, and would this mean that He is the Author, but not the writer of the fruits and gifts in our individual lives?

The lesson makes the distinction between fruits and gifts. The last fruit listed is “self-control” Is the fruit of self-control from the Holy Spirit or from the self?

It is from the Holy Spirit—how then is it self-control?

Because of fear and selfishness (our carnal nature), we, apart from Jesus, are slaves to the impulses of that nature, thus we are unable to control ourselves but will give in to fear and impulse. However, when the Holy Spirit takes what Christ achieves and restores in us Christlike character we love God and others more than self. This gift of God’s love transforms us and enables us to resist the temptation of fear and impulse and we then are set free to exercise our own individuality in choosing to live in harmony with God’s design. This is the only way love can exist!

In the second paragraph, the lesson states, “The gifts of the Spirit are given so that we can serve others and build up the body of Christ, His church.”

What does it mean to build up the church?

Is it talking about a building, properties, equipment so that our facilities have the best sound and recording and broadcast equipment? Or are buildings and other physical materials merely other resources for the actual building up of the church?

So what does it mean to build up the church?

I thought, given the intense energy of many Christians in politics today, and the intense friction between Islam and other religions, including Christianity, that this quote was interesting from the book The Great Controversy:

The regulation adopted by the early colonists, of permitting only members of the church to vote or to hold office in the civil government, led to most pernicious results. This measure had been accepted as a means of preserving the purity of the state, but it resulted in the corruption of the church. A profession of religion being the condition of suffrage and officeholding, many, actuated solely by motives of worldly policy, united with the church without a change of heart. Thus the churches came to consist, to a considerable extent, of unconverted persons; and even in the ministry were those who not only held errors of doctrine, but who were ignorant of the renewing power of the Holy Spirit. Thus again was demonstrated the evil results, so often witnessed in the history of the church from the days of Constantine to the present, of attempting to build up the church by the aid of the state, of appealing to the secular power in support of the gospel of Him who declared: "My kingdom is not of this world." John 18:36. The union of the church with the state, be the degree never so slight, while it may appear to bring the world nearer to the church, does in reality but bring the church nearer to the world. {GC 297.1}

So can we build up the church by getting the right politicians elected or the right judges placed on the Supreme Court? How many Christians think they are doing their Christian duty by pursuing such a path?

So, how do we build up the church?

If you walk in the light, you can every one be light bearers to the world. Do not seek to accomplish some great work and neglect the little opportunities close at hand. We can do very much by exemplifying the truth in our daily life. The influence which we may thus exert cannot be easily withstood. Men may combat and defy our logic; they may resist our appeals; but a life of holy purpose, of disinterested love in their behalf, is an argument in favor of the truth that they cannot gainsay. Far more can be accomplished by humble, devoted, virtuous lives than can be affected by preaching when a godly example is lacking. You can labor to build up the church, to encourage your brethren, and to make the social meetings interesting; and you can let your prayers go out, like sharp sickles, with the laborers into the harvest field. Each should have a personal interest, a burden of soul, to watch and pray for the success of the work. {My Life Today 220.2}

You cannot build up the church until you are a transformed man. {2T 626.2}

So how do we build up the church?

First we must personally surrender to Jesus and experience Him, know Him intimately and be changed in the heart. We cannot share what we do not know. Then, we can live God's principles and as we do this the power of love combined with truth will be the prevailing power that influences and changes other people bringing them closer to God and His design for life.

Thus building up the church means working to restore God's character and methods within people so that individually and collectively we function in love and truth!

The third paragraph states, "Therefore, spiritual gifts are worthless without the fruit of the Spirit." thoughts?

Again, I prefer another word here, ultimately, eternally, the lesson is correct, without the transformation of character which is evidenced by the fruits, and results in eternal life there is no genuine worth in the gifts. But most people don't think this way and thus when they hear worthless too many think having no worth or value—including earthly worth, so I am concerned the word-choice might lead to some misunderstanding. I would have preferred the word, "pointless" "spiritual gifts are pointless without the fruit of the Spirit."

For example: the gift of languages can have quite a significant worth or value in this world to make money, to negotiate treaties, etc. but it is all pointless if it doesn't result in people being reconciled to Christ and healed from sin and selfishness. What does it profit a man to gain the entire world but to lose his soul?

Same with the gift of prophecy—many cults find the false gift of prophecy, scrying, fortune-telling, etc. to be quite worthwhile, or valuable, but it is all pointless if it hardens the heart and ultimately doesn't have any true worth.

Bottom green question is perhaps the most important question, "Why is love so central to all that we do as Christians?"

Notice in 1 Corinthians, in Chapter 12 Paul lists the spiritual gifts, then in Chapter 13 expounds on love, which is the more excellent way, and then in 14 approaches those who are speaking in tongues telling them the better way is not tongues, but love. Why?

Read 1Cor 13 from The Remedy:

If I am gifted to speak the language of people and angels but do not have God's love in my heart, I am only making meaningless noise, because I remain terminal and dying.²If I am gifted with prophetic insight and understand all mysteries and knowledge, and if I am trusted to move mountains but do not have God's love in my heart, I am a fraud because I am still dying in sin and am nothing at all.³If I give away all my possessions to the poor and die as a martyr tied to a burning stake but don't have God's love in my heart, I am still unhealed and have gained nothing.

⁴Love is the principle upon which life and health are built to operate, and when active in intelligent beings, love is patient and kind. Love gives in order to bless others and does not envy, boast, or promote self.⁵Love is not intrusive, rude, selfish, irritable, or hot-tempered. And love doesn't hold grudges or keep a record of wrongs.⁶Love takes no pleasure in evil but rejoices with the truth.⁷Love always protects, always heals, always restores, builds up, trusts, hopes, and perseveres.

⁸Love originates in God and therefore will never stop and never fail. But one day, prophecies will cease, talking will be paused, and human knowledge will fade.⁹We are finite—knowing just a part of all truth, and prophecy is just a piece of a greater whole.¹⁰But when God restores the universe to His perfect design of love, all imperfection will disappear.¹¹When I was a child, I talked like a child, bragging about myself; I thought like a child, focusing on the dos and don'ts, and I reasoned like a child. But when I grew up, I embraced God's kingdom of love and put the childish ways behind me.¹²Our minds are so darkened by selfishness that we see God's kingdom poorly, like a reflection in a cloudy mirror; but when he returns, we shall see perfectly—face to face! Right now I know only part of God's reality; then—I will have all questions answered and fully know the truth, just as God fully knows me.

¹³So these three endure: trust, hope and love; but the greatest of these is love.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, “It is not we...” Do we agree that we do not earn the gifts of the Spirit? Yes, we agree the gifts of the Spirit are not earned. What does it mean to earn something? It means that what is earned is compensation, reward, pay, something owed us because of our work and we do NOT earn the gifts of the Spirit.

However, does our maturity have anything to do with receiving the gifts of the Spirit?

And does our maturity have anything to do with our choices—our works?

Will parents give the gift a new car to a 12-year-old child? Why not? Consider all the gifts we withhold from our children, not because we are selfish, but because we determine (judge) that they are not mature enough to handle the gift and would harm themselves (and others) if we gave it to them.

Is this a factor in why we don't receive more gifts of the Holy Spirit?

God has in store love, joy, peace, and glorious triumph for all who serve Him in spirit and in truth. His commandment-keeping people are to stand constantly in readiness for service. They are to receive increased grace and power, and increased knowledge of the Holy Spirit's working. But many are not ready to receive the precious gifts of the Spirit which God is waiting to bestow on them. They are not reaching higher and still higher for power from above that through the gifts bestowed, they may be recognized as God's peculiar people, zealous of good works. {8T 247.3}

So one factor in receiving the gifts of the Spirit is our own heart attitudes and maturity, the choices we make to prepare ourselves to be vessels that will use the gifts in harmony with God's methods.

And, then, there is the question of need—even if we are mature do we receive gifts for which we have no need, for which God has no purpose for us to fulfill?

The second paragraph states, “Paul says that the grace of Christ secured the right to give us gifts.”

What does this mean? What are they trying to say? What does it mean secured the right? From whom? Who had the right if God didn't have it and had to secure it?

Does the Bible actually teach this idea or is this another example where the human law lens has infected Christian thought and created an idea that is not part of God's kingdom?

Here is what Ephesians 4:7 says:

- But to each one of us grace has been given as Christ apportioned it.—NIV
- Each one of us has received a special gift in proportion to what Christ has given.—GNT
- But unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ.—KJV
- But Christ gives each one of us just what we need in each circumstance for our good and our development.—The Remedy

Does this saying anything about securing rights of some kind?

No, this idea of securing rights is false and based on the idea that somehow Christ did not have the right—think about that—Christ, who is our Creator, has always had absolutely right to love us, to do whatever He can for our good and healing—in harmony with God's methods and principles. Yes or no?

Read the third paragraph, “Innate ability as such...” How can you tell the difference? And does it make a difference if the ability is innate talent or a special endowment from God?

The following is speaking of the parable of the talents:

The special gifts of the Spirit are not the only talents represented in the parable. It includes all gifts and endowments, whether original or acquired, natural or spiritual. All are to be employed in Christ's service. In becoming His disciples, we surrender ourselves to

Him with all that we are and have. These gifts He returns to us purified and ennobled, to be used for His glory in blessing our fellow men. {COL 328.2}

Read last paragraph, “The Holy Spirit is the one...” What are the learning points in this paragraph?

- The Holy Spirit determines who is gifted and with what gift
- It is a false conclusion to think only one specific gift is evidence of the working of the Spirit
- Gifts themselves are not the primary evidence of the working of the Spirit in the life; the fruits of the Spirit are the primary evidence!
- Gifts are only given when necessary for the advancement of God’s cause, but fruits are always the result of the working of the Spirit in the life
- No need to be envious because, rightly understood, we would not want the other person’s life, responsibilities, or gifts!

TUESDAY

The first paragraph makes the point that spiritual gifts are for service and building up of the church and fulfilling God’s purposes. Then in the second paragraph they point out: “It is a tragedy when God’s gifts, which are supposed to foster unity in the church, are misused so that only certain individuals are elevated...This fosters disunity and gives way to divisiveness.”

Do you agree? Would this include elevating EGW? Does anyone elevate EGW above others in the church? What should be elevated—the messenger or the message, the health care provider or the antidote? And in this case the message is the message about God and the antidote is Jesus Christ.

So, we don’t value Paul, or Peter or Apollos or EGW or Tim Jennings, we value Jesus and elevate only Him, the Father and God’s kingdom of love and truth!

What is the underlying root that allows for such elevations and divisions to occur? Thinking through imposed law—if we think through design law all of this fades away.

Imposed law, level four and below, always look for some authority to be in charge, to determine right and wrong, to set rules, to make rulings, to give the answers—parents, umpires, referees, judges, kings! It is the thinking of a child and Paul says we must put away childish things and grow up.

When we realize it is all about healing, restoration, recreation of Christlike character, then we realize those with the gifts have more responsibility to carry the remedy and work for the healing of souls. The gifting is not for elevating or exalting an individual but for equipping them to do more work for God’s kingdom.

But regarding divisions, read Colossians 2:13-17:

When you were dead in your sins and in the uncircumcision of your sinful nature, God made you alive with Christ. He forgave us all our sins, ¹⁴ having canceled the written code, with its regulations, that was against us and that stood opposed to us; he took it away, nailing it to the cross. ¹⁵ And having disarmed the powers and authorities, he made a public spectacle of them, triumphing over them by the cross.

¹⁶ Therefore do not let anyone judge you by what you eat or drink, or with regard to a religious festival, a New Moon celebration or a Sabbath day. ¹⁷ These are a shadow of the things that were to come; the reality, however, is found in Christ.

What was nailed to the cross? Something that was against us and stood opposed to us? What was against us? Something that causes division and causes us to judge each other with regard to eating and drinking and worshipping—what would that be?

Was the written law, ceremonial or moral given to cause division or to reveal the gospel? And is the gospel against us or for us?

What about the Sabbath? Would it be correct to read it this way: “Therefore do not let anyone judge you by what you eat or drink, or with regard to a religious festival, a New Moon celebration but do judge and cause division over the weekly Sabbath day.”

Is the point about the rituals, commandments, or about doing away with judgmentalism and things that cause division?

Does the Sabbath cause division, or does the judgmental attitude people have cause the division?

And what causes the judgmental attitude? Believing God’s law functions like human law and therefore we look at behavior, we look at rules, we make lists of things to do and then begin inspecting others to insure they are doing the right things.

This is legal religion, consider this quote from Thoughts from the Mount of Blessings:

The effort to earn salvation by one's own works inevitably leads men to pile up human exactions as a barrier against sin. For, seeing that they fail to keep the law, they will devise rules and regulations of their own to force themselves to obey. All this turns the mind away from God to self. His love dies out of the heart, and with it perishes love for his fellow men. [Notice rule keeping, legal religion, turns people away from God and destroys love out of the heart] A system of human invention, with its multitudinous exactions, will lead its advocates to judge all who come short of the prescribed human standard. The atmosphere of selfish and narrow criticism stifles the noble and generous emotions, and causes men to become self-centered judges and petty spies. {MB 123.1}

This is the epitome of divisiveness and is NOT the gospel of Jesus Christ which breaks down dividing walls and brings unity.

When we return to design law, we realize the truth of these things. What was nailed to the cross? What causes division? Was it the law God gave us to lead us back to Him? Did the ceremonial system cause division or was it designed to teach us the gospel?

What was the source of division that was against us and was nailed to the cross? Our carnal nature—our selfishness, our fear, our insecurity, that leads to all the pettiness and division.

So Col 2:13-17 from The Remedy:

When your condition was terminal, when selfishness reigned unchecked in your minds, and when your hearts were tied to the destructive cravings and practices of the world, God intervened and brought you the life-giving Remedy—Jesus Christ. He reclaimed you from your terminal condition,¹⁴ nullifying the pathology report that certified you as dead in sin; he made it clear that the written code, with its regulations, was only a diagnostic instrument designed to expose our terminal state and teach us the need for a true cure, and he nailed it to the cross.¹⁵ Through his death, he revealed the truth about God and—in his humanity—eradicated selfishness, thus he completely destroyed Satan’s weapons of lies and selfishness, and triumphed over Satan at the cross.

¹⁶ Therefore, don't worry about the opinions of those who promote certain rituals, foods, drinks, holy days or religious festivals as a means of being healed and being reunited with God.¹⁷ We know these are merely symbols or metaphors designed to teach the truth of God's healing plan; but the actual Remedy is found only in Christ.

WEDNESDAY

Are spiritual gifts available today?

But the gifts of the Spirit are promised to every believer according to his need for the Lord's work. The promise is just as strong and trustworthy now as in the days of the apostles. "These signs shall follow them that believe." This is the privilege of God's children, and faith should lay hold on all that it is possible to have as an indorsement of faith. {DA 823.2}

“And afterward, I will pour out my Spirit on all people. Your sons and daughters will prophesy, your old men will dream dreams, your young men will see visions.” Joel 2:28

Read last paragraph, “The work of God will be completed...” What do you think of the idea that the gifts of the Spirit will never supersede the Bible?

Why? Is this a false comparison? Is the reason the gifts will never supersede the Bible is that they have different purpose or functions?

What is the purpose of the Bible? A revelation of God to man, a lesson book. Are the gifts a lesson book, or are the gifts enablings to improve our ability to distribute the truths found in the lesson book?

This problem has arisen because some people have falsely believed the gifts are the lesson book, that we can receive messages from the gifts that become the lesson book, either through visions, dreams, tongues, or angel visits. However, any gifts in visions, dreams, tongues or angel visits—if these are from God, will be for the purpose of opening our understanding, giving directions for application etc. of the truths found in the lesson book, the Bible.

In other words, when the Bible is available we should not look to the gifts to tell us what has already been revealed in the Bible. This would be like a patient today praying to God for a sign—a miracle—to let them know whether they should quit smoking or not. God will not provide such a sign to a person in our society, because the truth on that question has been revealed, and if they reject the truth a special sign or miracle won't be given.

This is the central point Jesus was making with the parable of Lazarus and the rich man, if they reject Moses and the prophets, then even if a miracle of a dead man named Lazarus being resurrected won't persuade them, something which Jesus proved true shortly thereafter.

Likewise, if we don't value the Bible as our lesson book, but instead look to signs and wonders to replace the Bible as our lesson book, we will be deceived.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph: "While there are genuine..." How can we tell the difference between true gifts of the Spirit and false gifts?

True gifts always harmonize with God's character and design of love, practicing the methods of truth and liberty.

False spirits will undermine truth, and thus the Scripture, and will ultimately undermine liberty, which leads to rebellion and the destruction of individuality.

The third paragraph states "God gives the church the gift of discernment."

I paused on this because while the gift of distinguishing between spirits and the gift of wisdom are listed in 1 Corinthians 12 as part of the spiritual gifts, Hebrews tells us the mature develop by practice the ability to discern the right from the wrong.

So, while God gives the gift of discernment, is there a part we must play, i.e. must we cooperate with God and think, practice, reason, evaluate, weigh evidence?

The gold that Jesus would have us buy of Him is gold tried in the fire; it is the gold of faith and love, that has no defiling substance mingled with it. The white raiment is the righteousness of Christ, the wedding garment which Christ alone can give. The eyesalve is the true spiritual discernment that is so wanting among us, for spiritual things must be spiritually discerned (RH April 1, 1890). {7BC 965.1}

The eye is the sensitive conscience, the inner light, of the mind. Upon its correct view of things the spiritual healthfulness of the whole soul and being depends. The "eyesalve," the Word of God, makes the conscience smart under its application; for it convicts of sin. But the smarting is necessary that the healing may follow, and the eye be single to the glory of God. The sinner, beholding himself in God's great moral looking glass, sees himself as God views him, and exercises repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ.... {7BC 965.5}

The Laodiceans . . . were not entirely blind, else the eyesalve would have done nothing to restore their sight, and enable them to discern the true attributes of Christ. Says Christ, By renouncing your own self-sufficiency, giving up all things, however dear to you, you may buy the gold, the raiment, and the eyesalve that you may see (RH Nov. 23, 1897). {7BC 965.6}

Do we get spiritual discernment without our repentance, without our dying to self, without our study of God's word?

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhesummit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

AUGUST 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Holy Spirit and Spirituality 1Q 2017 Lesson 9

The Holy Spirit and the Church

SABBATH

Read memory text: “Being diligent to preserve the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. There is one body and one Spirit, just as also you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism” (Ephesians 4:3-5, NASB).

What does it mean “unity of the Spirit”?

In the second paragraph below the lesson states, “The Spirit-inspired Bible is the foundation for the theological unity of the church.”

What does this mean? Is there a difference in “unity of the Spirit” and “theological unity?”

Is the Bible speaking of unity whereas the lesson is speaking of uniformity?

Are unity and uniformity the same?

What is unity in the Spirit? Is it not unity of character, methods, motives, i.e. we love God and others more than self, we practice the principles of being lovers of truth who present the truth in love and leave others free? Yet, we may have different ideas about some points of theology because we are coming from different backgrounds, different perspectives, different levels of maturity? Can persons be united in the Spirit who:

- Were baptized in different ways?
- Attend church on different days?
- Wear and do not wear jewelry?
- Partake of communion in different ways?
- Who have different number of wives?
 - Consider this scenario, which the SDA church grappled with in the 1980s. SDA missionary converts a man with multiple wives to Christ and the man wants to be baptized, but the church leaders tell him he must get rid of all but one wife. But the man says if he does all the women will be outcasts in society, shunned, and perhaps end up as prostitutes. He doesn’t want to treat them in such a way. Who is acting in love and who is not?
 - What if the man says okay, he will keep number two, but the church leaders say no, he must keep number one. But he says, number one was arranged by his parents when he was three and he never chose her nor loved her. He chose number two, but the church leaders say the law is clear, he must only keep his first wife.

- What does unity of love mean? That the men keep all their wives. It is unity of love, doing that which is in harmony with God's principles, not uniformity, not conformity.

Is division—what breaks down unity in Christ—from believing differently about such practices (baptism, communion, day of worship) or from believing differently about God and His law—i.e. believing God's law is arbitrary and that we are righteous when we get our doctrines to harmonize with Scripture, with proper definitions and practice the right behaviors?

Is unity found in agreement on the right definitions of words and rituals or in coming to unity of heart motive that we all love others more than self and grant others freedom to see it differently?

It is immaturity, functioning at level 4 and below, still operating on imposed law constructs that bring disunity—this leads to religions in which the primary issue is one of proclamations, behavior, ritual, attestations to creeds and belief systems, and not about love in the heart. When we have love in the heart then it is primarily about how we treat others, living in harmony with God and His principles and revealing God in our behavior. In other words, it is about how reality functions, not about arbitrary definitions.

Here is a section out of my new book The God-Shaped Heart which will be available August 1, 2017 that demonstrates this point:

It is love and love only that unites, that overcomes rules, that transcends arbitrary laws, that supersedes doctrinal differences. It is love that heals the heart!

January 23, 1943 the SS Dorchester sailed from New York on its way to Greenland transporting over 900 soldiers for the allied war effort in WWII. Aboard were four chaplains: Methodist pastor George L. Fox, Roman Catholic priest John P. Washington, Reform Rabbi Alexander D. Goode, and Reformed

During the early morning hours of February 3, 1943 the Dorchester was torpedoed by the German U-boat U-223. As the men were desperate to escape the sinking ship, the chaplains calmed the men and helped organize the evacuation. When the supply of life jackets ran out before each man had one, the chaplains removed their own life jackets and gave them to others. They helped as many as they could into the lifeboats, and then, as the ship went down, the chaplains linked arms and began to sing hymns and pray for the safety of the men.

One survivor's report:

As I swam away from the ship, I looked back. The flares had lighted everything. The bow came up high and she slid under. The last thing I saw, the Four Chaplains were up there praying for the safety of the men. They had done everything they could. I did not see them again. They themselves did not have a chance without their life jackets. — Grady Clark, survivor¹

The freezing waters didn't differentiate between Protestant, Jew, or Catholic. When Rabbi Goode offered his life jacket to a desperate soldier, it didn't matter what beliefs that soldier held—design law doesn't make distinctions between people. Doctrine didn't matter, liturgy didn't matter, Bible version didn't matter, denomination didn't matter, method of baptism didn't matter—what mattered? Love! Selfless love, love that gives, love that seeks to help others. It is love that heals, love that unites—love that transforms the heart!

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “The Holy Spirit...” What does it mean to be “effectually” united with Christ?

Is this like the United States of America—different states, different people, making a legal bond of unity? Or is our unity with Christ something much more significant than the legal unity of states?

What is the unity we have with Christ?

What do you think of this from the devotional book Our High Calling:

That they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me. John 17:21. {OHC 170.1}

The solemn, earnest prayer of Christ . . . reaches down along the line to our time. What a position is this for fallen man to attain through obedience [how do you hear this word, through what law lens? do you hear conformity, obey or else, or in the Biblical sense hypoacua a humble willingness to listen, trust and following instructions to the best of your ability?]-oneness with God through Jesus Christ! To what heights we are permitted to rise if we will have respect unto the recompense of the reward! We are to receive power from God that human nature, under the divine working, may not always be perverted and not always be under the depraving, corrupting influence of sin. Human nature, through Jesus Christ, becomes allied to angels--yes, even to the great God. {OHC 170.2}

Those who are truly connected with God will not be at variance with one another. . . . His Spirit ruling in their hearts will create harmony, love, and unity. The opposite of this works in the children of Satan; there is with them a continual contradiction. Strife and envy and jealousy are the ruling elements. The characteristic of the Christian is the meekness of Christ. Benevolence, kindness, mercy, and love originate from Infinite Wisdom, while the opposite is the unholy fruit of a heart that is not in harmony with

¹ https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Four_Chaplains

Jesus Christ. . . .In union there is strength. In division there is weakness and defeat. {OHC 170.3}

The most convincing argument we can give to the world of Christ's mission is to be found in perfect unity. . . .In proportion to our unity with Christ will be our power to save souls. {OHC 170.4}

What is the unity? Is it a unity of thought? A unity of doctrine? A unity of worship practice? Or a unity of heart, love for each other and practicing God's methods?

Read second paragraph, "Through the Spirit, we have access..." What building? Is this the same as the heavenly sanctuary which is to be cleansed before the second coming?

The bottom paragraph states, "In every way possible, without compromising what cannot be compromised, we need to seek for unity in the fellowship of believers."

What cannot be compromised?

- The dress code?
- Sabbath behavior—eating out on Sabbath?
- Day of worship?
- Method of baptism?
- Communion?
- Ordination of women?
- Accepting homosexuals into the church?

What cannot be compromised? God's law—which is what? Do we see it as level four and below or level 5 and above?

God's design law cannot be compromised—because it is impossible to compromise it, we can only violate it which always damages us!

But, rituals, metaphors, religious rules, doctrinal definitions—all of those can be compromised as long as the person doesn't compromise God's design for life—which is love!

Consider the story of the Good Samaritan:

- Who was the one person right with God in the story, the priest, Levite or Samaritan?
- Did the Samaritan ever, as far as we know:
 - sacrifice at temple?
 - keep the Sabbath?
 - eat a kosher diet?
 - get circumcised?
- What did the Samaritan do?

- He had a heart renewed in love and sacrificed self for other!

What were all the other observances supposed to teach? God's design of love and His plan to restore us to love, so keeping the rituals without a change of heart is pointless.

MONDAY

First paragraph states, "It is the Holy Spirit who unites us into one body of believers. The public entrance into Christ's spiritual kingdom is through baptism. We are baptized into a specific church body."

What does this mean? It seems a little confusing as the one sentence says we are baptized into Christ's spiritual kingdom, but the next states into a specific church body. Are they saying we are baptized into the church invisible or into a denomination?

Are denominations a part of God's plan, or are denominations evidence of the infection of sin and the disunity in God's church?

Is it God's plan we baptize into thousands of denominations, or that we baptize into Christ?

I think we all agree that we are baptized into Christ, the church invisible when we are baptized—and some organizations merge this with joining their denomination—but not all. So one can be baptized into Christ without being baptized into a specific denomination.

Read next paragraph, "The act of being buried..." Is it a requirement of eternal life to be baptized my immersion in water? Or is this a public ceremony, which has a purpose different than the actual saving of the person?

If we say that immersion in water is a requirement to salvation, what about all the people who lived before the time of Christ? Is there any evidence Enoch or Elijah were baptized by immersion in water? What about the thief on the cross?

What about those heathens who never have the gospel brought, who as Paul says in Romans 2:12 have never heard the law, but are a law unto themselves showing the law is written on the heart—are they baptized by immersion in water?

So, do we have evidence that people, many millions likely, will be saved without ever having been baptized by immersion in water—or sprinkling with water?

But the Bible says there is one faith and one baptism—what does this mean?

Baptism is the transliteration of the Greek word baptizmo, and it simply means to immerse—so is their an immersion with which all who are saved must and do experience? Yes! It is the immersion of the heart and mind into the living water of Jesus Christ through the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, where the old motives, fears, selfishness are washed away and we are renewed in heart, mind, character to be like Christ—loving others more than self. This is the true baptism, not the water ritual.

Then what is the purpose of the water ritual? Something other than salvation; salvation is achieved in the true immersion of the heart and mind into Christ. Water baptism is the public ceremony to assist the community in achieving unity by accepting into fellowship those who have been living in sin.

What is the point of a public wedding ceremony? In all cultures of the world one of the important functions of the ceremony is community acknowledgement, acceptance, and support of the new status of the couple.

What is the point of various initiation ceremonies whether in tribes, gangs, fraternities, military units? It is to change the status of the person in the community, in the minds of all in that group, such as a bar mitzvah, graduation, or pinning ceremony.

Likewise, the ceremony of baptism is not for the cleansing of the heart of the one being baptized, that cleansing happened when the person's mind and heart was immersed into the living water by the indwelling Spirit. The purpose of the public ceremony is to assist the community of believer, the church, in accepting the new convert and achieving unity in the group.

And of course, the public ceremony also has a solidifying, validating, impact upon the mind and heart of the one being baptized.

The lesson states in the bottom paragraph, "Baptism is a positive step with which all who wish to be acknowledged as under the authority of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit must comply. In other words, baptism marks true repentance, the crucifixion of the old life, and it signals the new birth or conversion."

What do you hear them saying? Why must they comply? In order to be saved, or in order for them to be accepted by the group? The lesson is saying that in order to "be acknowledged" by the group, the church, and be accepted into community, one has to make a public stand and mark themselves and give the public signal that they have already been converted or reborn.

Can there be false signals? In other words can a person go through the public ceremony to achieve acceptance into the group without ever having their hearts renewed by the Spirit? Yes, but is such a person saved? Why not? Because salvation is not legal, it is an actual healing of the inner person and water baptism doesn't heal, it only publicly testifies to what is supposed to have happened in the heart. But man looks on the outward appearance, God looks on the heart.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, “The primary means...” Do we ever want to undermine confidence in the Bible? Absolutely not! So be sure that in our view the Bible is God’s inspired word to reveal Himself to us. Yet, having accepted the truth about the Bible and trusting the reliability of the Bible, are there ways that the Bible can be used that cause division rather than bring unity?

How? By interpreting the Bible through level four lenses—a codebook of deeds to be done and sins to be shunned; and refusing to harmonize the Bible with nature and experience. For the Bible itself states explicitly that God’s divine nature is seen in what he has made (Rom 1:20) and that we are to taste and see that the Lord is good.

Jesus expounded the truth of God’s kingdom over and over again, and what was Jesus’ primary method of teaching the truth? It was not by primarily quoting Scripture to the people, even though at times He did quote Scripture. No! The majority of the time Jesus taught from nature and in parables of life experiences to reveal the functional reality of God’s design law for life, which is the plan of healing!

Quoting Scripture, divorced from design law, i.e. nature and reality, causes arbitrary rules, confusion and inconsistencies that lead people away from God and His kingdom of love. This is why Jesus criticized the religious teachers in His day for searching the Scriptures thinking they would find eternal life, but in reality they were not finding it because they were searching for the wrong thing. They were not searching for reality, but for rules to obey.

Read bottom paragraph, “The Word of God...” Is having confidence in the Bible the same thing as agreeing with what other people say the Bible means—even if those other people are church leaders?

The last sentence says, “Were we to lessen or weaken our implicit belief in the Bible as God’s Word of truth to us, the unity of the church would be destroyed.”

What does this imply? Does it mean that the key to unity is believing implicitly in the Bible? Is our belief, which means trust, to be in the Bible or in Christ?

Did the Pharisees constantly argue for the supremacy of the Bible? How many Christian groups today argue for the supremacy of the Bible yet argue amongst each other and show very little love?

The problem is not resolved by agreeing to the supremacy of the Bible, for many children, those operating at level four and below, what Hebrews says are infants still on milk and therefore “not acquainted with righteousness” attest to the supremacy of the Bible. The problem is they view it through imposed law lenses and therefore divide people through their rules and interpretations. This is what lawyers do, become thought police and focus on proper definitions rather than mature Christlike character.

WEDNESDAY

Read the memory text at the top and then the first paragraph: “One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all.” Eph 4:5,6 “Unity in the faith and doctrine is...” Do you have any concerns about the paragraph after reading the Bible verse?

Does the Bible say unity of doctrine?

Why does the Bible not say this? When Jesus comes, do you believe when He appears in the clouds there will be one person, amongst the saved on earth, who will know every text of the Bible with 100% accuracy? No! Not, one, which means what? We are not saved by the right comprehension of Bible facts, by right definitions of doctrines, but by right relationship with God, who through the Spirit takes what Christ achieved and forms right character within.

When Christ returns will ALL the saved have overcome selfishness in a trust relationship with God? Will ALL the saved love God and others more than self? Will ALL the saved present truth in love and leave others free, i.e. refuse to coerce people?

Our unity is not a unity of doctrines, but a unity of character, of God’s methods and principles, and eventually, as we mature, but I don’t think it will happen this side of eternity, we will one day have unity of understanding, of doctrines.

What is the unity of faith? It is a unity of confidence, or trust in God, in His goodness, trustworthiness, love, to always do what is good for His creation.

Why do you think the Bible did NOT say one doctrine? Because the doctrine is the teachings, the rituals, the interpretations, the expression, and people who love and trust God are at different levels of maturity. In a large family, in which all the children love and trust their parents, is there one doctrine for brushing teeth? Or, is there many doctrines—don’t brush get punished, or don’t get a bedtime story, or kids at school will tease, or teeth will decay? The explanation changes, the reason, the purpose is different depending on the maturity of the person. This is exactly like many Christian doctrines, people explain things differently at different levels of maturity—yet there is still only one reality.

Consider parents and love—in God’s design there is one love—but there is not one doctrine, i.e. one expression of love. Love always seeks what is best and therefore will express itself in many diverse ways depending on the child’s need.

In love a parent will:

- hug, kiss and give presents
- dunk in an ice bath if the child is feverish
- stick needles in their legs and inject vaccines
- put in time out
- refuse to give something the child wants if it is not good for the child
- yell and threaten if the child is running toward oncoming traffic

One cannot write a system of rules to account for every situation, there is unity of love, but not uniformity in parenting, likewise there is unity in faith, but there is not uniformity.

Remember the question of the woman at the well when she sought to have Jesus answer a doctrinal question, where is the right place to worship—and what did Jesus say? That doesn't matter, it is about the heart and mind, worshipping God in spirit and truth!

Read third paragraph, “The theological foundation of this unity...”

What is the purpose of our doctrines? Rightly understood all our doctrines are only valuable as they lead us to understand, comprehend, and participate in God and His design for His universe. This means that all doctrines should be viewed as spokes on a wheel that all have their center in God leading us back to unity, or oneness with God and His kingdom of love.

The problem in most organized religions is that the doctrines become divorced from God and instead become stand alone tests of faith or orthodoxy that are in order to protect the organization not heal people. This type of teaching causes people to build their faith on a system of beliefs and loyalty to an institution rather than having faith and loyalty in God.

Read last paragraph, “We have one Lord...” What was the focus of this paragraph? Character building, healing and transforming the person!

THURSDAY

What is the primary purpose and mission of the church? How would you describe it?

Unselfishness, the principle of God's kingdom, is the principle that Satan hates; its very existence he denies. From the beginning of the great controversy he has endeavored to prove God's principles of action to be selfish, and he deals in the same way with all who serve God. To disprove Satan's claim is the work of Christ and of all who bear His name. {Ed 154.3}

It was to give in His own life an illustration of unselfishness that Jesus came in the form of humanity. And all who accept this principle are to be workers together with Him in demonstrating it in practical life. To choose the right because it is right; to stand for truth at the cost of suffering and sacrifice--"this is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness is of Me, saith the Lord." Isaiah 54:17. {Ed 154.4}

All sin is selfishness. Satan's first sin was a manifestation of selfishness. He sought to grasp power, to exalt self. A species of insanity led him to seek to supersede God. And the temptation that led Adam to sin was Satan's declaration that it was possible for man to attain to something more than he already enjoyed, possible for him to be as God Himself. The sowing of seeds of selfishness in the human heart was the first result of the entrance of sin into the world. God desires every one to understand the evil of selfishness, and to co operate with Him in guarding the human family against its terrible, deceptive powers. The design of the gospel is to confront this evil by means of remedial missionary work, and to destroy its destructive power by establishing enterprises of benevolence. {WB, September 9, 1902 par. 3}

Is the primary work of the church to get people to adhere to the right creeds, doctrines or fundamental beliefs, to practice the right rituals or worship on the right day? No! The primary purpose is to be conveyers of God's love, His character of love in the setting of the Great Controversy so people can understand reality and be freed from fear and selfishness.

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhcs Summit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

AUGUST 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Holy Spirit and Spirituality 1Q 2017 Lesson 10

The Holy Spirit, the Word, and Prayer

Kent Johnson an online listener emailed this EGW quote this week:

Satan deceives and corrupts the world and makes men believe that they are sinless and holy while sinning against God, [how? what would Satan need to do to get people to actively sin, but to think they are holy with God?] but in so doing he is only carrying on his original work. He has introduced no new arguments, he has created no new empire of darkness from which to draw supplies for the furtherance of his deceptions. [what does this mean? it is the same issue he raised in heaven and deceived 1/3 of the angels—which was?] And sin that was sin in the beginning is sin today; and sin, the apostle declares, is the transgression of God's law. [what law? How could Satan get people to transgress God's law while they think they are holy and sinless?] In these days it is Satan's determined purpose to intensify sin by making it legal in the children of disobedience. He is to reveal to the world and to heaven what is the order and result of a government carried on according to his ideas of administration and law. [what is Satan doing? Making sin into a legal problem, a legal issue, thus righteousness becomes about being legally right, so people can keep on living out of harmony with God's design but believe they are holy because they have legal payment or keep the legal rules, like the right day of worship.] He is working with secret yet with intense zeal in both Church and State, to cause men to throw off all the restraints of God's law, and take a decided stand with him in the ranks of rebellion; but when his work is accomplished, the Lord will interpose, and vindicate his honor as the supreme Ruler of the universe. {ST April 28, 1890, par. 8}

Incredible insight here—this is exactly Satan's attack, the legal view, not design law, but imposed law. Thus people do things that are "legal" but actually violations of God's law.

Any examples of legal violations of God's law?

- Jesus healing on Sabbath and Pharisees wanting to stone Him. The Pharisees were keeping the legal religion, thinking they were holy, but in actuality were intensifying their sin
- Eating a vegan diet while holding condemnation in the heart toward those who do not—judging them.
- Claiming legal security in salvation by the legal application of the blood of Jesus and being declared righteous by God, but not experiencing an actual change of heart—having the law written on the heart and mind

SABBATH

Read Memory Text: "Likewise the Spirit also helps in our weaknesses. For we do not know what we should pray for as we ought, but the Spirit Himself makes intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered. Now He who searches the hearts knows what the mind of the Spirit is, because He makes intercession for the saints according to the will of God. (Rom 8:26,27, NKJV)

With whom does the Spirit intercede? For what purpose is the Spirit interceding?

- What is the function, action, of the Spirit?
- Is the Spirit working to inform and educate God, or inform and educate us?
- Is the Spirit working to convict God or convict us?
- Is the Spirit working to influence God or influence us?
- Is the Spirit our representative to God or Christ's representative to us?
- Is the Spirit to take what Christ achieved and reproduce it in God or to reproduce it in us?
- Is the Spirit a translator who translates our thoughts to the Father so the Father can understand them otherwise the Father would have no idea what we are trying to say? Or is the Spirit working to enlighten us about God and God's purposes for our lives?
- Is the Spirit working to penetrate the dark cloud of misunderstanding in the mind of God, or in our minds?

The point: where is the Spirit interceding—in heaven with God, or in our hearts and minds?

To make the point even more clearly our memory text is Romans 8:26,27, listen to what Paul says just a few verses later—and we are focusing on the question of intercession vs. 31-34:

What, then, shall we say in response to this? If God is for us, who can be against us? ³² He who did not spare his own Son, but gave him up for us all—how will he not also, along with him, graciously give us all things? ³³ Who will bring any charge against those whom God has chosen? It is God who justifies. ³⁴ Who is he that condemns? Christ Jesus, who died—more than that, who was raised to life—is at the right hand of God and is also interceding for us. ¹

What is being said here? Who is interceding for us in Romans 8?

The Father, Son and Holy Spirit! Any idea that one member of the Godhead is interceding with another member of the Godhead is not what the Bible is teaching.

If they are all interceding for us—what are they doing? What is the intercession?

God—Father, Son, Holy Spirit intercede in three places:

- In our hearts and minds interceding with us, against our natural desires, against the carnal nature. Gen 3, “I will put enmity between you and the woman” speaking to the serpent. The fact we have a longing for good and are not totally corrupt in selfishness is evidence of the intercession of God—the working of the Spirit in our hearts.
- God intercedes with the powers of darkness, holding at bay evil forces, limiting them from total destruction of all that is good.

¹ The Holy Bible: New International Version. (1984). (Ro 8:31–34). Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan.

- God interceded through Christ with the natural outcome of what Adam's sin would result in—eternal death for the human species. Christ altered the outcome, by becoming sin though he knew no sin so that we might become the righteousness of God!

The Spirit is not working to help God with better insight, better understanding, better organization of His thoughts, better realization of His duty, better desire for good, more love, less anger etc. The Spirit is working in us to help us out of the miasma of sin!

Read first paragraph, "True spirituality and prayer go together..." Do we agree that prayer is essential for developing true spirituality, i.e. experiencing God's healing of our hearts and minds? Absolutely!

Then does that mean that practicing vigorous prayer means one has true spirituality? Why or why not?

Can one practice vigorous prayer and be hardened against God or develop a false spirituality?

Were the 450 prophets of Baal, whom Elijah confronted at Mt. Carmel, practicing vigorous prayer? Were they developing true spirituality?

Does it matter to whom one prays?

What do you think of this quotation from the book The Great Controversy:

In rejecting the truth, men reject its Author. In trampling upon the law of God, they deny the authority of the Law-giver. [what law? would replacing design law with human imposed law be trampling upon the law of God?] It is as easy to make an idol of false doctrines and theories as to fashion an idol of wood or stone. By misrepresenting the attributes of God, Satan leads men to conceive of Him in a false character. With many, a philosophical idol is enthroned in the place of Jehovah; while the living God, as He is revealed in His word, in Christ, and in the works of creation, is worshiped by but few. Thousands deify nature while they deny the God of nature. Though in a different form, idolatry exists in the Christian world today as verily as it existed among ancient Israel in the days of Elijah. The god of many professedly wise men, of philosophers, poets, politicians, journalists--the god of polished fashionable circles, of many colleges and universities, even of some theological institutions--is little better than Baal, the sun-god of Phoenicia. {GC 583.1}

What if one has vigorous prayer to a god possessing the attributes of Satan? Will such prayer help their spirituality?

Prayer is essential, but what is more essential is that one is praying to the true God and not to a false god concept made in Satan's image, which is what much of the modern world does—including within Christianity.

The last paragraph states, “We should not be basing our spiritual life on our unsteady experience and subjective feelings, nor focusing our prayers on suspect contemplative and meditative practices.”

What are they saying?

Are they saying we should not pray when emotional? Or that we should not allow emotions to be the answers to our prayers?

Further, are they suggesting we should not take worldly methods of prayer and use those in place of Biblical methods?

What are Biblical methods of prayer?

First and foremost, Bible prayer starts with an actual knowledge of God, if one doesn't know God one cannot have genuine heart to heart communication with God.

So, the root to it all is coming back to a knowledge of God, which enlightens us to His character, methods and principles. When this happens so many ideas are clarified. For instance, what kind of a God would:

- want repetitive mantras that shut down thinking?
 - Would a God of truth want people to limit their growth in truth? Would it be a god that has no truth?
- want followers to empty their minds and not actually have an interpersonal interaction with Him?
 - Would it be a god that, if we got to know we would not like and not trust?
- require prayer to him in order to influence him to be merciful?
 - Would it be a god that had good and love in their heart, or one who did not?
- have prayer be a form, a ritual, a legal checkbox activity that one is required to do in order to get blessed?
 - Would it be a god concerned about the actual condition of his children, or one more concerned with upholding his rules?

But what kind of God would have prayer function as communication between God and humans to open the human mind and heart to the presence of God, in order to heal, restore, recreate, enlighten and renew the created being back to God's ideal? Why?

How does love function? Can love be forced, coerced, commanded, achieved by edict, directive, hierarchical command? No! Love is only achieved by the free exercise of the individual—thus prayer, actually talking with God, is part of God's design for free beings to freely choose to enter into a relationship with God for their growth.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “Even though clothed...” What is the motive in each of the examples given?

Could one pray for all those things with healthy motives? What does this tell us? What lessons do we learn? Man looks on the outward appearance but God looks on the heart!

Read third paragraph, “Prayer does not change God...” Yes, I think we all agree that the character of God does not change based on our prayers, and our prayers open us to God which is part of the process of changing us back into unity with Him.

However, even though our prayers don’t change God—does God ever change what He states He wants based on our prayers? In other words, if we pray long enough can we get God to agree to do what we want?

What about:

- The quail in the wilderness?
- Kings to rule over Israel?
- Fighting to conquer the promised land?
- Balaam and his request to curse Israel?

Can we persist so long in prayer asking for things God does not want us to experience that God finally says—okay? Why does God say okay—even help us to what He said He didn’t want us to do? Is it because God wants us to experience it or because we insist and will only learn by suffering the results of going against what God has said and if God is helping us it limits our ability to blame God for the problem—and God wants us to learn?

Consider this quotation:

Men and women, in the face of the most positive commands of God, will follow their own inclination, and then dare to pray over the matter, to prevail upon God to consent to allow them to go contrary to his expressed will. God is not pleased with such prayers. Satan comes to their side, as he did to Eve in Eden, and impresses them, and they have an exercise of mind, and this they relate as a most wonderful experience which the Lord has given them. A true experience will be in perfect harmony with natural and divine law. False experience will array itself against science and the principles of Jehovah. The religious world is covered with a pall of moral darkness. Superstition and bigotry control the minds of men and women, and blind their judgment, so that they do not discern their duty to their fellow-men, and their duty to yield unquestioned obedience to the will of God. {RH, July 27, 1886 par. 5}

Balaam inquired of God if he might curse Israel, because in so doing he had the promise of great reward. God said, Ye shall not go; but he was urged by the messengers, and greater inducements were presented. Balaam had been shown the will of the Lord in this matter, but he was so eager for the reward that he ventured to ask God the second time. The Lord permitted Balaam to go. Then he had a wonderful experience; but who would wish to be guided by such an experience as that of Balaam? There are those who would understand their duty clearly if their duty was in harmony with their natural inclinations. Circumstances and reason may indicate clearly their duty, but when against their natural inclination, these evidences are frequently set aside. Then these persons will presume to go to God to learn their duty. But God will not be trifled with. He will permit such persons to follow the desires of their own hearts. Psalms 81:11, 12: "But my people would not hearken to my voice; . . . So I gave them up unto their own hearts' lust; and they walked in their own counsels." {RH, July 27, 1886 par. 6}

Those who are desirous to follow a course which pleases their fancy, are in danger of being left to follow their own inclinations, supposing them to be the leadings of God's Spirit. Some have their duty indicated by circumstances and facts sufficiently clear, but have, through the solicitations of friends, in harmony with their own inclinations, been swerved from the path of duty, and passed over the clear evidences in the case; and, with apparent conscientiousness, they have prayed long and earnestly for light. They have had earnest feeling in the matter, and they interpret this to be the Spirit of God. But they have been deceived. This course has grieved the Spirit of God. They had light, and in the very reason of things, should have understood their duty; but a few pleasing inducements balance their minds in the wrong direction, and they urge these before the Lord, and press their case, and the Lord allows them to have their own way. They have so strong an inclination to follow their own course that God permits them to do so, and to suffer the results. These imagine they have a wonderful experience. {RH, July 27, 1886 par. 7}

What is transpiring? Why does God allow them to have their own way? Why doesn't God use power to stop them? What would happen if God did? What is the only way for God to save people and have them be the same individuals with their identities still intact?

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Asking reveals our..." Does the act of asking God mean we trust Him? Or do many ask who do not trust God?

Did the legion of demons ask Jesus to go into the swine? Did that mean they trusted God?

If God knows everything already, and already knows all of our needs, why do we need to ask? Is there something we need we cannot receive without asking? What and why?

Can we receive a new way of thinking, a new heart, a new mind without asking? Why not? Because to change our hearts require our voluntary participation if we as individuals are to remain. God has the power to overwrite us and instill perfect sinlessness into our brain circuits, but to do so would create programmed robots and our individuality would be destroyed. The only way for our unique selves to be retained is by our willing, voluntary participation, choosing freely with our wills to agree and accept God and His methods into our hearts, minds, lives and practices. Thus we must ask God to come into our hearts, ask Him to teach us the truth etc.

God can provide many things without our asking—like the sunshine and the rain, which Jesus said is a blessing to the righteous and the wicked, but God cannot transform the heart without the willing consent and active participation of the sinner.

Read second paragraph, “We truly can ask God for anything...” What about asking God to kill someone, or help you kill someone?

Did Joshua ask God to hold the sun still, to give more time to kill? Did God do it? hmmm... why? Does God like killing? Why did He do it?

What was God’s plan? God would send the hornet and pestilence ahead of Israel and little by little the people would abandon the land and Israel would over the generations slowly take it over without any fighting and no conflict. If that would have happened we wouldn’t have all the fighting still ongoing today.

Who were the ones that were being killed by Israel? Were they following the Spirit of God? If they were what would have happened? Do we have any examples? Yes, Rahab—she was open to the Spirit of God and what happened? What if the entire city responded like Rahab?

Why didn’t they? Because their hearts were aligned with Satan and what was Satan influencing these humans to do? To oppose the plan of salvation, to destroy the avenue through which the Messiah would come. If you lived during the time of the Black Death, bubonic plague where hundreds of millions were dying, and you and your entire family were infected and dying, and you knew there was a remedy to save all who partook, but someone was actively working to prevent the remedy from being delivered, what would you do?

God had a plan to prevent these evil nations from closing the avenue for the Messiah, the pestilence and hornet however, Israel didn’t trust God to follow His plan. They wanted to use the weapons of the world. They wanted to show their strength, they wanted to take revenge and kill.

So, God said, “If you are going to do this, then I want the least amount of killing, the least amount of suffering, the least amount of people scarred by war, suffering with PTSD.” So, do it in one generation, let only one generation of humans experience war and killing, so wipe them all out, leave no one, and then not only will the least number of humans be killed, but the war will stop and we will not have perpetual generations scarred by war. Also, when possible, those who would join and be united in heart with you, don’t kill them accept them into fellowship.”

What about the idea of claiming every promise of the Bible? What does this mean?

Does it mean that God is like a great vending machine, and the promises are the coin to activate it. What we need is to find the right Bible promise, recite the right quotation, claim the correct promise and then God is obliged to give us what He has promised?

How many approach Bible promises like this? And when they do and they don't get what they are claiming, what happens? They lose faith in God, or feel they are not righteous enough, or their faith is not strong enough etc.

Read last paragraph, "Yet, there are some conditions..." Does the statement "All God's gifts are promised on the condition of obedience" mean the same thing as "if we pray selfishly God will not answer our prayers"?

Is it possible, likely even, that if we pray selfishly God may answer our prayer, but we will not be able to receive God's gifts?

Do you see the difference?

- Did Israel pray selfishly when they prayed for quail? Did God answer their prayer? Yes—did they receive God's gift? No, they refused the gift of manna, and because they chose the quail many lost the gift of life.
- Did Israel pray for kings? Did God answer their prayer and choose their first two? Did they receive God's gift? No, they lost the gift of God leading them directly, and further lost their wealth in taxes, their sons in military service and their daughters in harems, and eventually lost their freedom as they were conquered by other nations.

Why does God answer such prayers? What is the alternative? God wants to stay connected, to stay in relationship, because God wants to lead rebellious children back to His ideal. Sometimes when rebellion gets to such a point that God must choose to either cut all ties or goes along with them. Sometimes God has chosen to go along allowing people to experience what He warned them against, but He does not abandon them. He stays close to heal and restore all who learn and turn to Him.

Consider Ester and Mordecai—where did God command the Israelites to be? Back in Israel, to return home and rebuild the temple. But these people did not obey, they stayed in Persia—and did God abandon them?

Now we don't know all the reasons why they didn't return to Jerusalem, only that they didn't. Perhaps they had elderly relatives or friends that were too feeble to make the journey and they stayed to care for them. Regardless, they weren't where God instructed the Israelites to be and God stayed with them and helped them.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, “Asking alone is not enough...” The lesson states, “we have to believe that He will do what is best for us in His time.” If we don’t believe this does that mean God won’t do what is best for us?

Or, does God always do what He determines is best, whether we understand it or not? But does our asking open up avenues for God to work which might not be available if we don’t ask? Why?

What is God working to accomplish? Healing of the hearts and minds of people, our asking opens our minds to His working in ways that are not opened when we don’t ask. Further, our prayers open opportunities for God to act in accordance with the freewill principles of His government without abusing power, without being dictatorial, in interceding in the lives of others.

The lesson asks us to read James 1:6-8:

But when he asks, he must believe and not doubt, because he who doubts is like a wave of the sea, blown and tossed by the wind. ⁷ That man should not think he will receive anything from the Lord; ⁸ he is a double-minded man, unstable in all he does. (NIV)

But when you ask, ask with the sure and confident knowledge that he longs to give you what you ask: do not waver back and forth in fear and uncertainty like a fishing bobber tossed about on ocean waves, for your fear will obstruct your ability to receive what he longs to give you. ⁷ Those consumed by fear will not think they can receive anything from the Lord: ⁸ they are unstable, controlled by emotions, and can't make up their minds about anything. (Remedy)

read third paragraph, “In the Bible...” Faith is trusting and trusting is only safe when trust is placed someone trustworthy—so what is the key to faith or trust? Coming to know God, this is life eternal that they might know you the only true God. John 17:3

What causes us to doubt? Is it not the lies and distortions about God that we believe? The primary one, the root lie of all, is that God’s law functions like imposed human law—this lie is the root to the entire Great Controversy and sadly, it is still being promulgated in the church today!

Did you notice the last portion of the paragraph, where it says “Faith knows that for God nothing is impossible.” But just before it said, “Faith knows that ‘it is impossible for God to lie.’”

Are some things impossible for God? Yes, there are some things impossible for God—like what?

- For God to lie
- For God to be selfish
- For God to fail to love

- For God to be the source of evil
- For God to be the source of death
- For God to be untrustworthy
- For God to save a person against their will
- For God to violate His own character, methods and principles

Do you agree? I have misstated anything here?

WEDNESDAY

read second paragraph, “The third aspect of Bible prayer is reception...” What does it mean to receive it? What are we to receive? Is it more than receiving an idea? What?

The third paragraph states, “As God’s children we are to live on God’s promises, not on His explanations.” thoughts?

What is this suggesting? Is it suggesting that God doesn’t explain things? Is it suggesting that God doesn’t want us to understanding or ask questions? Is it suggesting we don’t think?

What about Isaiah 1:18—come let us reason together...

What about God telling Abraham He was going to destroy Sodom—could this be considered a “promise”? Should Abraham have just said okay?

What did Jesus tell His disciples in John 15:15?

I no longer call you servants, because a servant does not know his master’s business. Instead, I have called you friends, for everything that I learned from my Father I have made known to you. NIV

Has God been seeking to explain Himself, His kingdom, His methods, His purposes, His actions to His intelligent creatures for all eternity?

Then why suggest we don’t go on explanations if God is explaining Himself?

Because of imposed law—imposed laws often don’t have reasons, it is obey because the one in charge said so. But design law is how life is built to function and the Designer wants intelligent obedience, which requires we understand.

What do you think of this quotation?

"All whom God has blessed with reasoning powers are to become intellectual Christians. They are not requested to believe without evidence; therefore Jesus has enjoined upon all to search the Scriptures. Let the ingenious inquirer, and the one who would know for himself what is truth, exert his mental powers to search out the truth as it is in Jesus. Any neglect here is at the peril of the soul. We must know individually the prescribed conditions of entering into eternal life. . . . We cannot allow these questions to be settled for us by another's mind, or another's judgment. . . . We cannot trust the salvation of our souls to ministers, to idle traditions, to human authorities, or to pretensions. . . . The Lord positively demands of every Christian an intelligent knowledge of the Scriptures." Review and Herald, March 8, 1887 (2RH 117:1:1 - 2:0); The Medical Missionary, May 1, 1892 or this quote:

"Teachers should lead students to think, and clearly to understand the truth for themselves. It is not enough for the teacher to explain or for the student to believe; inquiry must be awakened, and the student must be drawn out to state the truth in his own language, thus making it evident that he sees its force and makes the application. By painstaking effort the vital truths should thus be impressed upon the mind. This may be a slow process; but it is of more value than rushing over important subjects without due consideration." Testimonies, vol. 6, p. 154 (1900); cf. CT 434; IMCP 365

Does such understanding mean there are explanations being given? And who is the source of all truth and the explainer of all truth?

Now to be sure, God doesn't explain Himself to us in the sense of accountability or seeking permission, like a child explaining their actions to a parent. But God explains to us the truths about His character, nature, kingdom, principles, methods, purposes and how He has built reality to work—in love.

What is the primary limiting factor in God explaining things to us? Our capacity and readiness to comprehend!

THURSDAY

Praying for the Holy Spirit—what does this mean? What does it look like? When the Holy Spirit is received what is the evidence?

Truth and love manifested in a character like Christ!

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what? Well, after 10 years of ministry, this website has collected a huge number of articles, blogs, videos, podcasts, and notes that need to be categorized and indexed, so YOU can easily find all that's been said on a particular topic. The problem is, we don't have hundreds of eyes and ears on staff to search, read, listen, and find all these nuggets of truth. So, Come And Reason is calling on you, our faithful supporters, to help us with this task.

What do we need from you? Easy. Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Thank you, all, ahead of time for your participation and help in this rather significant endeavor!

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhcs Summit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

AUGUST 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

The Holy Spirit and Spirituality 1Q 2017 Lesson 11

Grieving and Resisting the Spirit

SABBATH

Correction: I want to thank Mary Lou Resendes, an online listener, who helped me uncover an idea that I have held for many years which turns out to be incorrect. I said in Lesson 8 of this quarterly that the gift of tongues at Pentecost was the gift of hearing upon the listeners. But, this was incorrect, the gift instead was from the movement of the Spirit upon the disciples and they were gifted with the ability to speak new languages. This resulted in them breaking into groups and speaking different languages to different groups, which sounded, to those uninformed, like they were drunk. So, Thank You Mary Lou, for clarifying this for me! EGW and the SDA Bible commentary also come to this conclusion.

This is a good example how each of us have beliefs that we have formed throughout are life which may not be entirely accurate. I am constantly seeking to remove ideas which are inaccurate and update my data base with the most accurate understandings!

Read first paragraph, “The Holy Spirit has a unique...” While there is nothing wrong with this paragraph do you have any questions or is this paragraph completely clear? Do you notice any word choices that suggest certain assumptions, or perhaps lend themselves to subtle misunderstanding?

For instance, did you notice “He also awakens in us a desire to accept Jesus and His forgiveness of our sins.”? While it is certainly true, is there a subtle difference if it said, “to accept Jesus and God’s forgiveness of our sins?”

Does saying “his forgiveness” fit better with the false legal/penal view that Jesus forgives and persuades the Father?

Yes, Jesus forgives us, but whose mission was Jesus fulfilling? The Father’s, and

- Jesus was an exact representation of the Father
- Jesus said He will not pray the Father for us because the Father loves us Himself
- God was in the Son reconciling us to Himself
- If God is for us who can be against us
- For God so loved the world...
- For unto us a Son is born and His name shall be called, Wonderful, Counselor, everlasting Father, Prince of Peace

Do we believe that God the Father, Son and Holy Spirit all forgive us? And did their forgiveness come before or after Christ died?

If before, then what was the purpose of Christ's death?

- To destroy sin and Satan
- To destroy death
- To destroy Satan's work of effacing the image of God in man by restoring the image of God in man
- All of which fix what sin has done to this creation and secure the unfallen beings in loyalty

What is the "matchless power" of the Holy Spirit, the power that is not matched by any other power?

Is this speaking of physical power—the Holy Spirit is God and therefore has creative power, the power of physical might on an infinite scale and thus His power is unmatched? Is this what the lesson is referring to?

What is the matchless power to accomplish? Character transformation, healing of hearts and minds, removal of sinfulness, selfishness, fear and restoration of purity, holiness, love—can this be accomplished by physical power?

Is it the power of the law? God gave the written law at Sinai and God thundered with power as the law was given, is this the power?

Consider what Paul wrote in Romans 8:1-4:

Therefore, there is now no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus, ² because through Christ Jesus the law of the Spirit of life set me free from the law of sin and death. ³ For what the law was powerless to do in that it was weakened by the sinful nature, God did by sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful man to be a sin offering. And so he condemned sin in sinful man, ⁴ in order that the righteous requirements of the law might be fully met in us, who do not live according to the sinful nature but according to the Spirit.

What does this mean? How was the law powerless? What did Christ do and how is the Holy Spirit involved?

Here is Romans 8:1-4 from The Remedy:

Therefore, those who trust in Christ Jesus are no longer destined to die,² because through Christ Jesus the law of love has cleansed and healed them from the law of selfishness and death.³ The written law was powerless to restore trust, as it could merely diagnose the infection of distrust and selfishness pervading us all. God accomplished this restoration of his character of love in humans by sending his own Son in human flesh to eradicate selfishness from humanity, reveal the truth about God, expose the lies of Satan, and reveal what happens when the infection of sin is not cured. And so he condemned the infection of selfishness as the destroying element in sinful humanity⁴ in order that the law of love—the principle upon which life is based—might be fully restored in us, who no longer live according to selfish desires, but in harmony with the Spirit of love and truth.

Do you think The Remedy captures the meaning of Romans 8:1-4? What then is the matchless power?

It is the combined power of truth and love. Are we comfortable with this conclusion? Is there Scripture to support it?

- Zech 4:6: Not by might nor by power but by my Spirit says the Lord
- The Spirit is the Spirit of what? Truth and Love
- Jesus said what would set us free? Truth John 8:32
- What is the greatest commandment? Love for God and man, all law hangs on these.

How do love and truth function?

- Do love and truth change the laws of health, or gravity, or thermodynamics?
- Do love and truth coerce?
- Do love and truth force their way? –Why not? What happens if someone tries to force another to believe something?
 - Either destruction of individuality—persons believe based on fear of reprisal and thus become afraid to question, afraid to inquire, afraid to disagree, and slowly become empty shadows fearful of punishment so just agree.
 - Or, people rebel and go to war, flee, leave, but the relationship is terminated

Do you remember this quotation:

God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power. {DA 759.1}

How are truth and love power? What do they do? Do truth and love require the action, the choice, the willful involvement of the individual to have transforming power upon them?

In other words, for truth to have impact does a person have to think, reason, and choose the internalize and apply the truth? For love to have impact does the person have to respond to it and then share it with others? What happens in the mind, character, heart, soul of a person who values and pursues truth and experiences and shares love? Does it have transforming power upon them?

Is any sinner on earth the source of either truth or love? No, so our active participation with God, via the Spirit of Truth and Love, is not saying that we save ourselves, but that the only method for God to save us is by our active choice to participate with Him. This is God mechanism, way, method for our healing and if we refuse something quite dreadful happens. Consider this quote:

If we mistake the wisdom of man for the wisdom of God we are led astray by the foolishness of man's wisdom. Here is the great danger of many in ----- They have not an experience for themselves. They have not been in the habit of prayerfully considering for themselves, with unprejudiced, unbiased judgment, questions and subjects that are new and that are ever liable to arise. [Notice, they are not exercising their ability to think, to reason, to weigh evidence, like Heb 5:14 says the mature do. This is design law, if you don't use it you lose it, so notice what happens to them] They wait to see what others will think. If these dissent, that is all that is needed to convince them that the subject under consideration is of no account whatever. Although this class is large, it does not change the fact that they are inexperienced and weak-minded through long yielding to the enemy, [Who is the enemy? How have they been yielding? By refusing to think, refusing to evaluate truth. Satan is the father of lies, if we refuse to evaluate truth who are we yielding to?] and will always be as sickly as babes, walking by others' light, living on others' experience, feeling as others feel, and acting as others act. They act as though they had not an individuality. Their identity is submerged in others; they are merely shadows of those whom they think about right. [what is happening to their individuality? Why? Is this inflicted by a powerful potentate? What causes it? What would prevent it? Would it be the exercise of their abilities and embracing truth and love? And what agency of the Godhead is involved in bringing truth and love? Then what agency is resisted if we refuse to process and grow in truth and love? The Holy Spirit, this is grieving of the Holy Spirit.] Unless these become sensible of their wavering character and correct it, they will all fail of everlasting life; [Why do you think? Will it be because they didn't confess sin? They didn't ask for forgiveness? They didn't claim the blood payment of Jesus? They weren't baptized or didn't partake communion? No! listen why:] they will be unable to cope with the perils of the last days. They will possess no stamina to resist the devil, for they do not know that it is he. Someone must be at their side to inform them whether a foe or a friend is approaching. They are not spiritual, therefore spiritual things are not discerned. They are not wise in those things which relate to the kingdom of God. [What are they not wise in? Design law, how reality functions, they don't think for themselves, reason things out, but instead look for some authority, some creed, some institution, pastor, theologian, professor to tell them the answer.] Neither young nor old are excusable in trusting to another to have an experience for them. Said the angel: "Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm." A noble self-reliance is needed in the Christian experience and warfare. {2T 129.2}

It is critical that we engage our own wills to choose to participate in God by not accepting Jesus as a concept, as a legal payment, as an idea, but accepting the truth that He revealed and choosing to trust Him, to think, to understand, to choose to apply His methods in how we live, to invite Him into our hearts, to love Him, to rejoice in Him, to celebrate God and God's ways. By making such choices we participate in God's kingdom, God's universe, God's methods and unite ourselves with Him and are changed in the process.

Satan, works to replace real experience, with false legal theology in which we claim legal payments but don't practice God's methods. In fact, we are taught not to think, just believe, just take it on faith, which instead of participating in God's methods, cut us off from God and His methods.

Read next paragraph, "At the same time..." How do feeble sinner resist the powerful and mighty Holy Spirit?

What mechanisms does Satan use to get people to resist the Holy Spirit?

- accepting lies—not just the obvious ones that there is no God but the less obvious ones like
 - God is severe and gets angry if we ask questions
 - God's law is imposed and God keeps track of sins
 - God is the source of inflicted punishment
 - Sin is bad deeds that need legal pardon
 - Jesus died to pay penalties so we won't have to

All such constructs divert people away from participating in reality, in God's kingdom and keep them trapped in legal regimens that have a form of godliness but no power!

Read the next paragraph, "Sin is very alluring..." What is the lesson suggesting the devil does to get us to resist the Holy Spirit?

Active sin, choosing to participate in sinful behavior—which is certainly one way to resist the Spirit and one way in which the conscience is seared and we become less sensitive to the movements of the Spirit of God. No doubt about it.

Any other mechanism? How about what we read just above? How about through the false law lens getting religious people to live in fear of punishment from God, and thus they are afraid to ask questions, afraid to think, surrender their individuality to the properly constituted church authority and allow someone or some committee in the church to tell them what they are to think and believe?

Have any of you ever been called in by the pastor and church board and told that you must submit to church authority and stop teaching certain idea?

What would you do if you were so instructed by your church board?

- Did church authority try to silence Jesus?
- Did church authority try to silence the Apostles?
- Did church authority try to silence the Reformers?
- Did SDA church authority try to silence EGW?

Did God in heaven silence Satan to prevent Satan from telling His lies, when God knew with 100% certainty that Satan was lying? Did Jesus use power or authority to silence people on earth who were lying about Him?

If God would not use His divine authority to silence the father of lies, why have church leaders throughout history done so? Because they have been deceived. Whenever you see leaders using such methods you can be certain that they are not practicing God's methods.

We read a paragraph from DA a few minutes ago about the prevailing power is truth and love and God would not use coercive power. Here is the paragraph that follows:

It was God's purpose to place things on an eternal basis of security, and in the councils of heaven it was decided that time must be given for Satan to develop the principles which were the foundation of his system of government. He had claimed that these were superior to God's principles. Time was given for the working of Satan's principles, that they might be seen by the heavenly universe. {DA 759.2}

- What is being described?
- What method is God using?
- What is the purpose of using this method?
- Why did God want the heavenly universe to see Satan's methods exposed?
- What impact would seeing the truth have?
- What kind of power is God wielding in doing things this way?
- Should we as Christians use power similarly or should we use coercive power?
- Why?

SUNDAY

Second paragraph states, "As powerful as God is, He does not force Himself upon our free will. He respects our choices."

First, what do we call it when a person “forces” themselves upon another? Rape—so if we teach God uses compelling power to force His way, then we are making God into a cosmic rapist.

The lesson is quite right God does not force Himself upon anyone. How is this truth denied in Christianity. In other words, what doctrines are taught in Christianity which put God in the role of using force, coercion, threat, intimidation etc.?

- Any doctrine which has God as the source of inflicted pain, suffering, torture or punishment for sin
- The entire legal accounting system of keeping records that God will review and then God will inflict punishment upon those not claiming the legal payment of Jesus
- The traditional views of hell as a place God created to torture and punish sinners
- God as inflicting sickness upon those who don’t follow Him
- others?

Such teachings incite fear, shut down thinking and either destroy individuality or create rebels!

The lesson states in the third paragraph, “While everyone is responsible for his or her own decisions, we also have a corporate responsibility: we should encourage one another to be faithful, to obey God’s Word, and to stay close to Jesus (Heb 10:24,25).

Heb 10:24,25:

And let us consider how we may spur one another on toward love and good deeds.²⁵ Let us not give up meeting together, as some are in the habit of doing, but let us encourage one another—and all the more as you see the Day approaching.

Do we have a different responsibility corporately than we do individually? Or, is our responsibility over what we do in governance of ourselves in relationship to others whether in the church, in the community, or in the family? In other words, are we individually responsible if the corporate church rejects the truth? No, but are we responsible for our conduct in presenting the truth in our circle of influence as effectively as God enables?

Consider Jesus, was He responsible that the corporate church of His day rejected Him? No, He was responsible for how He conducted Himself in His personal life, but also in His interactions with the church. He did not isolate and neglect those in the community of that dark tradition, but was the light of the world constantly seeking to enlighten them to the truth of God’s kingdom.

Likewise, our responsibility is not for how the corporation responds, but for our conduct in interacting with those in the corporate church as the Spirit leads us in our circumstances.

Now the lesson is suggesting that we never stop associating with those in the church—however, did Christ give different counsel?

Here is Christ's instructions for His apostles:

“Do not go among the Gentiles or enter any town of the Samaritans. ⁶ Go rather to the lost sheep of Israel. ⁷ As you go, preach this message: ‘The kingdom of heaven is near.’ ⁸ Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse those who have leprosy, drive out demons. Freely you have received, freely give... ¹⁴ If anyone will not welcome you or listen to your words, shake the dust off your feet when you leave that home or town. Mt 10:5-14

To whom did Jesus send them? To Israel, which was the church of Christ's day. Did Jesus teach that we should stay where we are rejected and not wanted and where people refuse to listen? No, move on to other groups who are receptive to the truth.

Does this apply to us today?

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, “The Holy Spirit...” Why does the Holy Spirit hate sin? Is it because God is personally offended that sin breaks His law and shows Him disrespect?

Or, is it because God's laws are design laws and sin deviates from how God built life to operate and damages and destroys His children, those He loves?

Read last paragraph, “Whenever we allow...” What is being described? Is the Spirit being fatigued, worn down, getting personally perturbed, exhausted, tired, irritated, so that if we persist in sin over time the Spirit finally says, “I’ve had enough. I can’t take this any more. I am over these people. You have broken my heart and hurt me too much to continue trying to help you. I am leaving you on your own!”? Is this what happens? No, notice this quotation from EGW:

We are not to regard God as waiting to punish the sinner for his sin. The sinner brings the punishment upon himself. His own actions start a train of circumstances that bring the sure result. Every act of transgression reacts upon the sinner, works in him a change of character, and makes it more easy for him to transgress again. By choosing to sin, men separate themselves from God, cut themselves off from the channel of blessing, and the sure result is ruin and death. {1SM 235.2}

This is design law, how we are constructed. Our choices impact upon us and change us and we slowly destroy the faculties that are sensitive to truth and love, and since truth and love are the powers that the Spirit use, if we destroy those faculties we are no longer able to be reached by the Spirit.

It would be like someone burning out their eyes—they are no longer able to see, to read, so that avenue is closed to them. No amount of visual signals will have any impact upon them.

Neuroscience actually confirms this is true.

Delta Fos B, is a protein that alters gene expression, and its expression alters various brain circuits. This has been well documented in addictions.

In our reward pathways the brain releases dopamine and there are neurons, called medium spiny neurons, that register the rise in dopamine in our Nucleus Accumbens (reward center) and send a signal back to the cell bodies that are producing dopamine in the Ventral Tegmental Area telling them, enough, don't release any more.

In addictions, Delta Fos B, will shut these feedback neurons off, thus causing increased dopamine release in reward pathways, which subsequently cause desensitization of the reward circuits, driving increased cravings for more substance.

This change occurs in both the reward pathway and the motor pathways, which result in persons with addictions both craving more substance, and becoming more physically active in seeking more substance.

In the front part of the brain, the part above the orbit of the eye, called the orbital frontal cortex (OFC), is where we get a conviction of wrongdoing and we redirect ourselves away from unhealthy and inappropriate things.

When the OFC fires it inhibits the activity of the dorsolateral prefrontal cortex DLPFC, where we think, reason, plan, strategies. This means that when we are feeling guilty it is harder to think clearly. Think about why God might have constructed things this way? If you were planning on doing something in violations of God's design law then the OFC fires and it becomes harder to plan and think clearly.

When addictive drugs are administered either by oneself or by a third party via IV, delta fos B expression changes occur in the reward and motor pathways. But delta fos B expression changes only occur in the OFC if the substances are self-administered. This means while we can be addicted physically to substances by someone administering it to us, our OFC won't be changed unless we self administer. Our consciences can only be changed by OUR CHOICES!

- Initial cocaine use results in cognitive impairments
- Chronic use is associated with loss of cognitive impairments and OFC volume loss
- Indicates that with purposeful use, genes change, shut down OFC feedback – guilt goes away
- Conscience is being seared!

TUESDAY

The first paragraph states: “That the Holy Spirit can be grieved tells us that God is not indifferent to us and what we do. God is affected by what we decide and how we live.”

When you hear the idea the Spirit is grieved, do you think primarily that the Spirit feels sad, loss, grief emotions—or are you hearing the idea that our connection with the Spirit is slowly eroded and eventually broken?

The primary thought I have had throughout my life is the second. While I believe the Spirit is saddened by our actions, because He loves us, the way I have always understood the grieving of the Spirit is the process of pushing the Spirit away, severing our tie with the Spirit, which occurs because we are destroying the faculties which respond to truth and love.

What of the idea that our actions affect God? Do you agree? How do our actions affect God? Do our actions change God?

Has Satan tried to use the reality that the actions of God’s created beings can affect God to induce a change in God? Didn’t Satan try to get such a change by inducing humans to reject and abuse Jesus, thereby attempting to induce a change in Jesus’ character, actions, choices? And perhaps Satan was even trying to get God to throw in the towel and abandon earth to him?

Praise God, Satan’s attempts failed! God was definitely affected by the choices of Satan and our choices, but God never changed His character, nor His purposes to save, heal and restore His children and universe.

I thought the lesson made an excellent point with this statement: “we delight the Holy Spirit when we speak the truth in love!”

Read last paragraph, “It is interesting...” What does unity of the Spirit look like?

Does it look like everyone believing the same things? Or everyone loving others more than self and respecting the individuality of others?

Does it mean we can be united while we believe certain things differently? There is a difference between the unity of level four and below and level five and above.

Unity at level four is the unity of conformity—the unity of agreed definition to words, doctrinal statements, rituals practiced, creeds, fundamental beliefs, dress codes, diet etc. It is saying we are united in our similar practice of baptism, communion, day of worship, belief in the specialness of our organization. It is the unity of all human clubs, gangs, union, league, sorority, fraternity—they have a code of conduct, when you join you agree to their code.

But the unity of level five and above, is a unity of heart, a unity of love, a unity of friendship, a unity of principle, a unity on how life operates. It is a unity of the Spirit, therefore we realize that true baptism is the immersion of the heart and mind into the truth and love of God via the Holy Spirit, not a certain ritual done in a certain way. We unite with all those who have been united in character to be like Jesus—have the law written on their heart and mine—regardless of their method of ritual baptism. We allow people to have different explanations for things, but work to help them learn to know God in His true character as revealed by Jesus, and to ever grow in their understanding and practice of God’s design protocols for life—His law.

This is the unity of love! We never condone actions which deviate from God’s design because such actions are destructive, but we love those who are deviating and we seek to bring them back to harmony with God and His design.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson focuses on quenching the Holy Spirit, what do you understand this to be? Is this different from grieving the Spirit?

Would grieving the Spirit be the action of personally burning out the faculties that respond to the Spirit, as we have already discussed, and the quenching of the Spirit be obstructing the work of the Spirit in the larger community and in the lives of others?

The first paragraph states, “We should remember that the Holy Spirit does two significant things for us: He gives us knowledge of sin, and He gives us power to overcome sin.”

As I read this I immediately thought of the Spirit of truth and love. The knowledge of sin comes from the truth and the power to overcome is when the truth is combined with love. Do you agree?

Then if the power of the Spirit is truth and love, how would that power be quenched?

What quenches truth? The belief in lies, so teachings that misrepresent God would quench truth—all the penal substitutionary legal imposed law constructs are part of the lies that are quenching the Spirit of truth.

And what quenches love? Selfishness, discord, arguments, resentment, bitterness, fear. Believing lies, promoting lies, writing books, papers, and going on record with a false view of God, then one becomes fearful for one’s reputation and is afraid of truth which exposes the error less one be embarrassed and their reputation, position, tenure be threatened, so one quenches the Spirit of truth and love by clinging to false theories and then using methods of power over to silence critics.

Last paragraph states, “Many who profess to believe that the Bible is the Word of God interpret it in ways that all but denude the Scriptures of any real authority, robbing them of any real power in their lives.”

How does this happen? Is it by denying the inspiration of Scripture? It could be, but could people who profess they believe in Scripture still do this? How? By having a false filter they read Scripture through. By failing to read through God’s character of love and His design law for the universe and instead placing Satan’s imposed law construct over their minds and reading Scripture through that lens!

THURSDAY

What is blasphemy against the Holy Spirit and why can it not be forgiven? Which law lens are you answering this through?

If level 4 and below, imposed law, then blasphemy is speaking wrong words, teaching wrong ideas about the Spirit, not claiming the legal payment of Jesus or denying the Trinity.

But, design law understands reality is that humans are infected with a condition which is terminal, Jesus came and procured the Remedy to our terminal condition and the Spirit is the One who administers it, thus to reject the Spirit is to reject the only means to apply to our lives the remedy to our condition.

If a person finds the Spirit of truth and love reprehensible—such that they think honesty, fidelity, and truthfulness are weak and despicable, and love for others is cheap sentiment, and they reject such principles and motives—yet claim belief in God and the blood payment of Jesus, what happens in them?

Blasphemy against the Holy Spirit is not merely saying that one doesn’t believe in the Trinity or in the Holy Spirit; it is the functional rejection of the presence of the Holy Spirit who brings the perfection that Jesus wrought into our internal worlds (hearts and minds)—the perfection of truth, honesty, integrity, love, fidelity, and so on. Rejecting this and choosing evil is the true blasphemy of the Spirit, and there is no healing for this.

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, “The mere fact...” What do you think about what they say a person should do? Read and discuss questions 1, 3, 4

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

We need HELP! With what?

Whenever you come across an article, blog, video, audio, or note on our website that talks about a specific topic (like wrath, punishment, sanctuary, temple, mind, character, sin, death, etc., etc.), simply go to About > Contact Us and send us a note telling us where you found the information (page # in a document/note, time index in a video or audio file, the exact web address where you found the material, and the TOPIC the citation is talking about). We'll take those TOPICS and arrange them into categories and build a new menu entry to index all these resources.

Calendar: Come and Reason now has a Calendar of Events on our Website. If you would like to know what is coming up or where Dr. J is speaking or who is teaching a particular week, check out the calendar.

April 27-29: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle Is Real at the Thomas Road Baptist Church at Liberty University at Lynchburg, VA. For more info visit <http://lynchburg.cmhcsummit.com/>

May 6, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Summit Northwest Ministries, Post Falls, Idaho: for more info visit: <http://www.summitnorthwest.org/>

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

AUGUST 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Holy Spirit and Spirituality 1Q 2017 Lesson 12

The Work of the Holy Spirit

This week I received an email from an online listener, Dr. Robert Reiswig, with the following quote from one of the founders of the SDA church on what unity actually is, from MS 24, 1892:

We cannot then take a position that the unity of the church consists of viewing every text of scripture in the very same light.... When as individual members of the church, you can love God supremely and your neighbor as yourself, there will be no need of labored efforts to be in unity, for there will be a oneness in Christ as a natural result.

Isn't that brilliant?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Jesus has called..." Isn't this a great paragraph—the Holy Spirit is NOT the accuser...who is?

What is the difference of being an accuser and convicting of sin?

- Motive and purpose—the accuser wants to get the sinner in trouble, wants to prove they are deserving of punishment, not worth the effort to save etc.
- And the accusations if brought to the person are done so to manipulate the them in some way with guilt or fear, or if brought to others to hurt the person's reputation, standing, or status—to get them in legal or some other trouble.
- But conviction is brought to the heart and mind of the one who is in the wrong for the purpose of converting, healing, restoring, healing, and saving that person!

Great distinction, which would you find helpful—an accuser or conviction of heart?

Read second paragraph, "Only a comforter..."

Why do people do this? Why do people become accusers of others? Are there certain beliefs, certain doctrines, certain ways of thinking that lead people to become accusers?

Remember people operating at level four and below are consumed with self, with rules, and with fairness and thus they become, like children consumed with the rules and watching for breaks in the rules, often becoming tattletales. But level five and above focus on the good of the person, on what is needed and thus will ignore the rules if it is better to do so for the welfare of the person.

Does the fact that we are not to be accusers of other people mean that we never speak to anyone about sin when we see them in sin?

What are the times and places we do speak to people about their sin?

- When we have some loving relational responsibility to them
 - a parent and child
 - siblings
 - a friend
 - a doctor to their patient
 - a church member with concern for the welfare of others in the church?
 - I have seen the great sacrifice which Jesus made to redeem man. He did not consider His own life too dear to sacrifice. Said Jesus: "Love one another, as I have loved you." Do you feel, when a brother errs, that you could give your life to save him? If you feel thus, you can approach him and affect his heart; you are just the one to visit that brother. But it is a lamentable fact that many who profess to be brethren, are not willing to sacrifice any of their opinions or their judgment to save a brother. There is but little love for one another. A selfish spirit is manifested. {1T 166.2}

Read third paragraph, "We are His witnesses, not His prosecutors..." What is the difference between a witness and a prosecutor?

What does the prosecutor try and do?

What do witnesses do? And what are we to be witnesses about and on whose behalf? We are not, in the church, to be witnesses of other's sins, but witnesses of God's character and kingdom of love and God's plan to heal and save.

What is the difference between the witness of someone at level four and below and level five and above?

1. Reward and Punishment: Obey or God will punish! God is offended and angry if we do not obey and only Jesus' life would satisfy His offended holiness and wrath. So you better claim the blood of Jesus or God will punish.
2. Marketplace Exchange: God rewards those who obey and if you do the right rituals, worship on the right day, pray the right prayer for 30 days then God will reward you with health and wealth, but if you don't you won't get your reward. And if you do sin God will make you poor and sick.
3. Social Conformity: God is fair and will only punish exactly what people deserve, you can trust God to get it right.
4. Law and Order: God's law was broken and the law requires the death of any law breaker. God killed His Son to uphold the integrity of the law and all who accept the legal payment of

His Son God won't have to execute. But if you refuse the payment. God will not only execute you but torture you as much as your sins deserve before He kills you.

5. Love for Other: God loved us too much to let us go so He sent Jesus to prove His trustworthiness and win us back to a love relationship with Himself. But if we refuse, God won't inflict punishment, He will let us go, but when the lifegiver lets go we die and He will be sad.
6. Principled Based Living: God does love us and sent His Son to win us to trust, but to also fix the terminal condition Adam infected this species with. All who trust God will not only be reconciled in heart, but transformed and conformed back to God's original design and live in harmony with God and His protocols for life. All who refuse die a terrible death as a result of unremedied sin in their lives.
7. Friend of God: Knows that God not only loves us and provides remedy through Christ but His work has secured the entire universe into security so no rebellion will ever arise again.

Consider this quote from the book The Great Controversy:

We cannot know how much we owe to Christ for the peace and protection which we enjoy. It is the restraining power of God that prevents mankind from passing fully under the control of Satan. The disobedient and unthankful have great reason for gratitude for God's mercy and long-suffering in holding in check the cruel, malignant power of the evil one. But when men pass the limits of divine forbearance, that restraint is removed. God does not stand toward the sinner as an executioner of the sentence against transgression; but he leaves the rejecters of his mercy to themselves, to reap that which they have sown. Every ray of light rejected, every warning despised or unheeded, every passion indulged, every transgression of the law of God, is a seed sown, which yields its unfailing harvest. The Spirit of God, persistently resisted, is at last withdrawn from the sinner, and then there is left no power to control the evil passions of the soul, and no protection from the malice and enmity of Satan. (p. 36)

What is being described? Which level of moral development? Is this imposed law of design law?

Read fifth paragraph, "The idea here is not that the Spirit will list specific erroneous acts. Instead, He goes to the most fundamental sin of all: unbelief in Jesus Christ (John 16:9)..."

What do you think of this idea that the most fundamental is not believing in Jesus? John 16:9 states "in regard to sin, because men do not believe in me" what does this mean?

Is the most fundamental sin not believing in Jesus? Did the angels who rebelled in heaven fail because they didn't believe in Jesus?

Did Adam and Eve sin because they didn't believe in Jesus?

Or was it not that they didn't believe in Jesus, but they didn't believe the truth about God and Jesus?

Hmmm.... what did the angels get tempted with and what did Adam and Eve get tempted with? Did they get tempted with the idea that Jesus didn't exist, or that God and Jesus couldn't be trusted?

And is this what it means not to believe in Jesus, to not trust Him? And to trust Jesus does one have to call Him Jesus? What if one calls Him Joshua or Immanuel or El-Shaddai, or Elohim—what if someone doesn't have a name for Jesus but believes in the Great Spirit, or a supreme being who is like Jesus in character and prays to Him and trusts Him?

James wrote: "You believe that there is one God. Good! Even the demons believe that—and shudder." James 2:19

Does the belief of demons in the one God save them? Why not?

Jesus said,

"Not everyone who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only he who does the will of my Father who is in heaven. ²² Many will say to me on that day, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and in your name drive out demons and perform many miracles?' ²³ Then I will tell them plainly, 'I never knew you. Away from me, you evildoers!'" MT 7:21-23

To whom are these people praying and state their belief in? Jesus, yet they are not saved, why? Because they conceive of God and Jesus in a different character that Jesus revealed; they don't know Jesus and thus while they might use the name "Jesus" they are not actually followers of Jesus.

So, is the most fundamental sin not believing in Jesus—if it means broken trust in God and not knowing Jesus then yes. But if it means some legal claim of belief in the moniker "Jesus" then no, it doesn't mean that. And it doesn't even mean believing that Jesus is God's Son, the devils believe that.

To believe in Jesus means to know Him, love Him and His methods of love, truth and freedom, and trust Him with your entire being.

Read the last paragraph, "The fundamental problem of all sin is that we do not believe in Jesus."

True or false? It depends on what one means by these words. I find these words very unhelpful as they lead to a false religion and false understanding.

The devils believe in Jesus, but they don't trust in Him. In our modern world it is trust that most closely conveys the Bible meaning of belief. Belief can mean believing the facts of Jesus, but one can believe that Jesus exists and is God's Son but believe such wrong things about His character and methods that they still don't trust Him. Such are the ones who Jesus condemns as being workers of iniquity.

Further, this seems to fail to understand the problem with sin, what Jesus accomplished to save us and the role of the Holy Spirit in our salvation. Most likely because they see this through false legal lenses.

So, let's ask some basic questions:

- Can any human being be saved without the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ? –No! Impossible, why? Because the truth of God would not be seen AND there would be no remedy for the terminal condition of sinfulness.
- So what was Jesus' role? The member of the Godhead who partook of humanity to reveal perfectly the truth, expose the lies and restore God's law of love back into the species thus destroying the infection and healing the condition—procuring the remedy.
- What is the role of the Holy Spirit in our salvation? To reveal truth, convict us of our terminal condition, convict us of our duty, and when we open the heart, to apply in our hearts/minds what Jesus accomplished.
- Can a person be saved without the work of the Holy Spirit? No!
- Can a person claim a legal acceptance of Jesus' blood payment but never let the Holy Spirit into their hearts to renew them? Are such people saved?
- Can a person be enlightened to the truth of God's methods of love, truth, liberty without ever hearing about the historical Jesus and open their heart to the Spirit and experience the Spirit take what Christ achieved and renew them to be like Christ in character? Are such person's saved? See Rom 2:12-14, Heb 8:10
 - “Those whom Christ commends in the judgment may have known little of theology, but they have cherished His principles. Through the influence of the divine Spirit they have been a blessing to those about them. Even among the heathen are those who have cherished the spirit of kindness; before the words of life had fallen upon their ears, they have befriended the missionaries, even ministering to them at the peril of their own lives. Among the heathen are those who worship God ignorantly, those to whom the light is never brought by human instrumentality, yet they will not perish. Though ignorant of the written law of God, they have heard His voice speaking to them in nature, and have done the things that the law required. Their works are evidence that the Holy Spirit has touched their hearts, and they are recognized as the children of God.” {DA 638.2}

Read second paragraph, “Unconverted people...” Are unconverted people found only outside the Christian church? Or are there many unconverted people on the active membership list?

Why will obedience to the law never justify someone before God?

What does it mean to be justified before God?

When Jesus spoke to Nicodemus what did He tell him? That “unless a man is justified...” Is being born again different than justification?

What is necessary to be saved? What is the problem that causes someone to be lost that Jesus resolves via His life, death and resurrection?

Do we view it through level four and below, legal ideas, or level five and above design protocols for life?

If we have a legal religion in which legal requirements must be met, including paying a death penalty, then are we being saved by obedience to the law—just someone else’s obedience?

What did Christ achieve that saves us?

Read the fourth paragraph, “But the righteousness of Jesus is sufficient for us. It meets the claims of the law of God. It counts with God the Father. And we can claim it for ourselves through faith in Jesus Christ alone.”

What does this mean?

Is it saying that the righteousness of Jesus does something to God, that God counts it in someway and God’s counting of Jesus’ righteousness is what saves us?

What does the law claim?

The incarnation of Christ is a mystery. The union of divinity with humanity is a mystery indeed, hidden with God, "even the mystery which hath been hid from ages." It was kept in eternal silence by Jehovah, and was first revealed in Eden, by the prophecy that the Seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head, and that he should bruise his heel. To present to the world this mystery that God kept in silence for eternal ages before the world was created, before man was created, was the part that Christ was to act in the work he entered upon when he came to this earth. And this wonderful mystery, the incarnation of Christ and the atonement that he made, must be declared to every son and daughter of Adam, whether Jew or Gentile. His sufferings perfectly fulfilled the claims of the law of God. [what does this mean? How do we understand it, through what law lens? The law of God claims to be the foundation upon which life is built. It claims there is no other way of operation in which life is eternally secure and sustainable. How did Jesus suffering fulfill this claim? By restoring that love into the human being as the method of operating and demonstrating that love is more powerful than selfishness and His resurrection was its proof.] None of the apostles could have filled the deficiency, had there been any. {ST, March 25, 1897 par. 8}

What does this fulfillment of the law do for us? How does Christ's fulfillment of the law of love save us? Did He reveal something about Himself and the Father that we needed to understand in order to participate in what He accomplished? What?

The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Rom. 3:26. - The Desire of Ages, pg. 762

The Lord Jesus loves His people, and when they put their trust in Him, depending wholly upon Him, He strengthens them. He will live through them, giving them the inspiration of His sanctifying Spirit, imparting to the soul a vital transfusion of Himself. He acts through their faculties and causes them to choose His will and to act out His character. With the apostle Paul they then may say, "I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me" (Gal. 2:20). - That I May Know Him, pg. 78

This is reality—Christ came to reveal the truth to win us to trust and provide a perfected humanity that we can receive via the Holy Spirit transfusing the perfection of Christ into us, so that it is no longer "I that live but Christ lives in me."

Read fourth paragraph, "The righteousness that is demanded..." First why does the law of God demand righteousness? For the same reason the law of respiration demands we breathe—it is how life is built by God to operate.

What about the idea that Jesus lives to intercede for us? What does this mean?

What does it mean He applies the merits in our behalf? What are His merits?

It depends on the lens through which you view it. Let's contrast the two lenses:

Penal/Imposed Law

Merits = Credits/Points/Payment
Presented to God to earn favor
Offered to earn pardon

Healing/Design Law

Merits = traits of character
Presented to us to earn trust
Offered as remedy to cure hearts

Applied to record books

Reproduced in people

Here is a quotation from a founder of our church. Consider how this is most frequently understood, and how do you understand it or explain it?

The world's Redeemer possessed the power to draw men to Himself, to quiet their fears, to dispel their gloom, to inspire them with hope and courage, to enable them to believe in the willingness of God to receive them through the merits of the divine Substitute. As subjects of the love of God we ever should be grateful that we have a mediator, an advocate, an intercessor in the heavenly courts, who pleads in our behalf before the Father. {LHU 320.2}

What do you hear being described? What law lens? Does God need someone to plead to Him to persuade Him, to legally permit Him, to remind Him, to convince Him? Is there something wrong with God that needs fixing?

Does this quote from the same person give additional insight to what might have been meant?

While Jesus, our Intercessor, pleads for us in heaven, the Holy Spirit works in us, to will and to do of His good pleasure. All heaven is interested in the salvation of the soul. Then what reason have we to doubt that the Lord will not and does not help us? . . . {2MR 37.1}

Does “all heaven” include the Father?

When Jesus left what did He say about the Comforter?

But when he, the Spirit of truth, comes, he will guide you into all truth. He will not speak on his own; he will speak only what he hears... Jn 16:13

To whom is the Holy Spirit listening? To Christ and to whom is Christ pleading? To us, and who is communicating what Christ is pleading? The HS, and to whom is this happening before? God, because whose plan is being carried out? God's plan, thus God is overseeing, supervising, directing the, agreeing, counseling, conferring, confirming the work of the Son and Spirit, “God was in the Son reconciling the world unto Himself.”

- We are the ones who doubt God's goodness.
- We are the ones burdened by guilt and shame and lies to think we are too far gone, too sinful, too wicked, too unholy for God to still love.
- We are the ones who doubt that Christ's love, Christ's righteousness could still be for us.
- We are the ones who are confused, groping in the darkness of this world seeking for the light and Christ from heaven that pleads, through the Holy Spirit, to you and to me, “I love you. Don't give up! Listen to my voice. Follow me. I will never leave you nor for sake you. Trust me, let me into your heart, choose me and I will heal you!”

Consider this quotation, how do you understand it?

Under the new covenant, the conditions by which eternal life may be gained are the same as under the old--perfect obedience. Under the old covenant, there were many offenses of a daring, presumptuous character, for which there was no atonement specified by law. In the new and better covenant, Christ has fulfilled the law for the transgressors of law, if they receive Him by faith as a personal Saviour. "As many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God." Mercy and forgiveness are the reward of all who come to Christ trusting in His merits to take away their sins. In the better covenant we are cleansed from sin by the blood of Christ (Letter 276, 1904). {7BC 931.10}

Where does He apply His merits? In the believers to take away their sinfulness and cleanse them from sin—not in record books and not to the Father!

TUESDAY

John 16:8-11 states:

"When he comes, he will convict the world of guilt in regard to sin and righteousness and judgment: 9 in regard to sin, because men do not believe in me; 10 in regard to righteousness, because I am going to the Father, where you can see me no longer; 11 and in regard to judgment, because the prince of this world now stands condemned."

And the lesson asks "What judgment is Jesus referring to?"

The lesson suggests it is not the future judgment, but the fact Satan has already been judged at Calvary.

I think the lesson is partially correct but are missing a much deeper reality.

If the Holy Spirit is convicting of the judgment of Satan, who is being convicted? What functionally then is happening? The Spirit of truth is enlightening the minds of people about God, Jesus and Satan so that people can make accurate judgments about each, thus Satan stands judged in the minds of enlightened people. This is the judgment, our ability to make accurate assessments of reality, i.e. judge things rightly is what the Spirit enables us to do.

The last paragraph leads us to understand this point more fully when it states, "Satan knows that he was decisively defeated at the cross. Yet, he stubbornly fights and tries to devour as many as he can."

How does Satan fight? What is his primary weapon? Are there any Bible prophecies which speak of this increased warfare against the saints?

Daniel 7:21,22 gives insight:

As I watched, this horn was waging war against the saints and defeating them, until the Ancient of Days came and pronounced judgment in favor of the saints of the Most High, and the time came when they possessed the kingdom.

The above rendering is from the NIV which many, who assume the legal model, prefer. But does the meaning of the passage change when we read from the King James Version?

Until the Ancient of days came, and judgment was given to the saints of the most High; and the time came that the saints possessed the kingdom. Daniel 7:22

Which translation is more accurate?

The Hebrew word translated “pronounced” actually means “to give” or “to impart” and thus the KJV would be more accurate in this context. Why do the saints of God need judgment (another word for discernment) imparted to them?

The Daniel text tells us the horn warred against the saints and was defeating them. What kind of warfare was going on?

For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. 2 Cor 10:3-5

What kind of war? Where is it being fought? This is a war between truth and lies, centering on God’s character, and being fought in our minds!

Amazingly, Paul makes the connection to the cleansing of the Temple even closer and shows how the Temple is connected to this war going on in our minds:

Concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered to him, we ask you, brothers, not to become easily unsettled or alarmed by some prophecy, report or letter supposed to have come from us, saying that the day of the Lord has already come. Don’t let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God’s temple, proclaiming himself to be God. 2Thes 2:1-4

Paul is describing the exact same events as Daniel 7 in which evil powers war against the saints and oppose God. In the aftermath of Christ’s death, resurrection, and ascension into heaven, did this man of lawlessness ride into heaven overthrow God, set himself up in God's temple in heaven, and proclaim himself to be God? No, where did this happen? In the Spirit Temple! In our minds! Therefore, the cleansing of the temple, as described in the Bible, is the cleansing of our minds from the lies about God, which wins us back to trust and results in our cleansing from sin.

Daniel is told in vision that an evil power would arise that would lie, distort, misrepresent God, and defile the Spirit Temple by getting humans to accept, worship, and teach a false picture of God. According to our understanding of interpreting prophetic time, it would take 2,300 years before enough truth would be recovered for Christ to empower His people on earth with judgment (discernment) to break free from the lies and be cleansed in their minds and characters.

All of this is confirmed for us by the other text describing the same event as Daniel 8:14, Malachi 3:1-3:

Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come," says the Lord Almighty. But who can endure the day of his coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver.

What is getting cleansed during the investigative judgment? The Levites. And who are the Levites? The Priesthood of believers (1Pet 2:5,9).

God is cleansing His people from what?

- 1) the lies about Him which keep us from trusting Him and
- 2) when we are won back to trust, He cleanses us from sin. God writes His law of love into our hearts. He restores His character of righteousness in us.

This is what is happening during the investigative judgment.

How does this happen?

By our investigating the truth about God as revealed in Christ, rejecting the lies, and clinging to the truth and trusting God!

Thus Satan is making war by attacking our understanding of God and His character by infecting our ideas with human imposed laws, such that we falsely interpret the Bible and God's prophecies and create a heavenly legal investigative system going over record books, rather than the truth that the Holy Spirit imparts discernment, judgment to us so we can judge God and His methods correctly.

Fear God and give glory to him for the hour of his judgment has come. Rev 14:7

WEDNESDAY

The first paragraph states: “The Holy Spirit is the One who leads sinners to Jesus. Jesus’ substitutionary death has reconciled us to God. Jesus’ forgiveness sets us free to live a new life as God’s adopted children. Now we are no longer God’s enemies (Rom 5:10), but walk according to the Spirit (Rom 8:4) and set our thinking on the things of the Spirit (Rom 8:5).”

Is Jesus our substitute? Absolutely—but for what? How? He is the second Adam, which means what?

When did God and Jesus forgive, before or after Jesus died?

Could God forgive us without the death of Jesus? What do we mean by forgiveness? Was God personally able to extend divine forgiveness without the death of Jesus? Would that have set us free?

The lesson says the forgiveness of Jesus sets us free—but does it?

If the forgiveness of Jesus sets us free, then from what does it set us free? In other words what would be holding us captive that forgiveness frees us from? Guilt? Condemnation? Condemnation of who? Emotional or legal guilt? Will God’s forgiveness free someone from guilt who doesn’t forgiven themselves?

Did Jesus in John 8:32 say something else sets us free? Truth, from what does truth set us free? Lies! Where do lies have their power? Where is the truth applied?

Do we also need freedom from temptation—from where are we tempted? Our own evil desires.

Does the death of Christ do anything to free us from lies and our own evil desire? How?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph “The Holy Spirit is the One who has poured...” What does this mean?

Why is the Holy Spirit so important?

What is the Spirit doing in us?

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions 1, 3, 4.

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

AUGUST 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

June 23,24, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be doing a seminar for the Samaritan Counseling Service in Sarasota FL. For more information www.samaritangulfcoast.com

First and Second Peter Lesson 1 2Q 2017

Introduction to the Study Guide

Read third paragraph, “Besides Peter’s warnings about...” What does it mean that Jesus took our sins in His body when He died on the cross?

The lesson references 1Pet 2:24:

He himself bore our sins in his body on the tree, so that we might die to sins and live for righteousness; by his wounds you have been healed.

What does this mean? Our sins in his body? Does this mean a record of our sins, so every theft, murder, adulterous act, lie, evil deed were tattooed to Jesus body? Does it mean that trillions and trillions of bad deeds were physically punished in Jesus body? Do you think it is possible for all the hundreds of trillions of sins of the billions and billions of people to be adequately punished in one human body over the course of less than 24 hours? For those who think so, then why is it—if the sins of all humans could be adequately punished in one person in under 24 hours that it is taught the wicked will suffering many days or eternally to pay for their sins?

The Greek word translated “sins” according to Strong’s Lexicon:

ἁμαρτία [hamartia /ham·ar·tee·ah/] n f. From 264; TDNT 1:267; TDNTA 44; GK 281; 174 occurrences; AV translates as “sin” 172 times, “sinful” once, and “offense” once. 1 equivalent to 264. 1a to be without a share in. 1b to miss the mark. 1c to err, be mistaken. 1d to miss or wander from the path of uprightness and honour, to do or go wrong. 1e to wander from the law of God, violate God’s law, sin. 2 that which is done wrong, sin, an offence, a violation of the divine law in thought or in act. 3 collectively, the complex or aggregate of sins committed either by a single person or by many.¹

So we have a choice when translating this word, we can translate it as “sins” or “sin.”

What is the difference between Jesus bearing our “sin” and bearing our “sins”? Sin connotes the condition of sinfulness, whereas sins connotes bad deeds. Why do you think the translators chose “sins”?

Could it be because they have accepted the lie that God’s law functions no differently than human law, rules imposed which require imposed punishment? And this results in seeing sin as acts rather than a state of being? And if we see sins as acts, needing punishment, which is level four and below thinking, then we interpret the cross as God punishing His Son to fulfill the law, pay the penalty and create a legal loophole which we sinners, who in that view deserve punishment can slip through. Thus, subtle legal distortions like this get brought into the translations.

If sin is primarily acts, legal wrongs, breaking imposed law, then what would Jesus say to Nicodemus about what is required to be saved?

“Unless a man have his sins punished and the legal debt paid he cannot enter the kingdom of heaven.”

To which Nicodemus would have replied, “How can a man be executed for sin and still enter heaven?”

And Jesus would have said, “By having someone else killed in your place and claiming to be legally accounted as righteous, even though you are still just as wicked.”

And this is the corrupt gospel taught to our students, who then become pastors and professors and keep perpetuating the lie.

But if sin is a state of being out of harmony from that which God constructed life to operate upon, which results in destructive actions, what would Jesus tell Nicodemus? Exactly what He did, “Unless a man be born again he cannot enter the kingdom of heaven.”

The paragraph also said that Jesus’ death brought nothing less than freedom from eternal death caused by sin. This is absolutely true—but why does Jesus’ death free from eternal death? Why does sin result in death and how did Jesus’ death fix the problem so we don’t have to die? In the legal model it is because death is the punishment from God and Jesus took our punishment, so God doesn’t have to punish anyone else. The problem is God, who gets fixed by Jesus’ death.

In the healing reality it is because the sinful condition is one that is out of harmony with how life is built by God to operate and therefore is terminal and Jesus cured the condition. All who trust Him partake of the divine nature and are reborn, renewed, recreated, etc. and are restored into harmony with God’s design for life and will live eternally.

1Peter 2:24 from The Remedy:

He took upon himself our sinfulness (our terminal condition) and in his own person carried it upon the cross so that we could be freed from sin and live the right way—loving God and others more than ourselves. You have been healed by the Remedy procured by his painful ordeal.

Read the next paragraph, “Peter says that Jesus not only died...” The lesson says that Jesus will return to usher in the judgment of God, and they reference 2Peter 3:10-12, which states:

But the day of the Lord will come like a thief. The heavens will disappear with a roar; the elements will be destroyed by fire, and the earth and everything in it will be laid bare.

¹¹ Since everything will be destroyed in this way, what kind of people ought you to be? You ought to live holy and godly lives ¹² as you look forward to the day of God and speed its coming. That day will bring about the destruction of the heavens by fire, and the elements will melt in the heat.

So what are they saying the judgment of God is? They are saying God's judgment is inflicted destruction. They are teaching that God is the source of inflicted pain, suffering, destruction and death and they call it God's judgment.

They note that God will destroy all sin and cleanse the earth with fire, referencing 2Pet 3:7:

By the same word the present heavens and earth are reserved for fire, being kept for the day of judgment and destruction of ungodly men.

What are the lesson authors missing that cause them to describe Peter's writings in such a way as to make God the source of pain, suffering and death?

They are missing the truth of God as Creator and His laws as design laws.

Most people, who view things through how human governments work, imposed laws with imposed penalties, read Peter and think God is inflicting this as a punishment that would not otherwise be received. How do you hear it and is there Biblical evidence to support a different view?

Before we give the evidence to answer those questions, here is a quote from one of the founders of the SDA church regarding God's judgments:

"I was shown that the judgments of God would not come directly out from the Lord upon them, but in this way;

"They place themselves beyond His protection. He warns, corrects, reproves, and points out the only path of safety; then if those who have been the objects of His special care will follow their own course, independent of the Spirit of God, after repeated warnings, if they choose their own way, then He does not commission His angels to prevent Satan's decided attacks upon them.

"It is Satan's power that is at work at sea and on land, bringing calamity and distress, and sweeping off multitudes to make sure of his prey, and storm and tempest both by sea and land will be, for Satan has come down in great wrath. He is at work. He knows his time is short and, he is not restrained; we shall see more terrible manifestations of his great power than we have ever dreamed of." Manuscript Release vol. 14, p. 3

What is God's judgment at the end of time? Setting people free—this is design law, when the life giver lets go what happens? Only the immature, those still on milk, those who have not understood God's law but instead cling to Satan's false view of God's law teach God is the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death as a punishment for sin.

Consider Revelation 20:14:

Then death and Hades were thrown into the lake of fire. The lake of fire is the second death.

So death and the grave are thrown into the lake of fire and they are killed/destroyed there. How does one destroy death?

Adolf Hitler gassed and burned millions of people, was Hitler destroying death? Are we saying that God acts like Hitler, yet when God does it, it is not bringing death but bringing life and destroying death?

Can you kill death by killing people? How would one destroy death? What destroys death? Is it not life that destroy death?

Now the Bible says that by Jesus' death he destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light. (2Tim 1:10) How? How was Jesus' death able to destroy death, and how is this related to destroying death at the end of time?

Would it be helpful to understand the basis of life and what is the cause of death?

This is the problem with the legal/penal view. In that view, having accepted the false law construct, the proponents wrongly believe that death is an inflicted punishment to fulfill the requirements of the law. In other words, in that view death isn't the natural outcome of sin, but the legal infliction from God.

What does these quotations say about God's law and the basis of life?

Jesus, the express image of the Father's person, the effulgence of His glory; the self-denying Redeemer, throughout His pilgrimage of love on earth, was a living representation of the character of the law of God. In His life it is made manifest that heaven-born love, Christlike principles, underlie the laws of eternal rectitude. . . . {RC 68.6}

Those principles that were made known to man in Paradise as the great law of life will exist unchanged in Paradise restored.--Thoughts From the Mount of Blessing, pp. 48-51. {RC 68.7}

Both the redeemed and the unfallen beings will find in the cross of Christ their science and their song. It will be seen that the glory shining in the face of Jesus is the glory of self-sacrificing love. In the light from Calvary it will be seen that the law of self-renouncing love is the law of life for earth and heaven; that the love which "seeketh not her own" has its source in the heart of God; and that in the meek and lowly One is manifested the character of Him who dwelleth in the light which no man can approach unto. {DA 19.2}

But turning from all lesser representations, we behold God in Jesus. Looking unto Jesus we see that it is the glory of our God to give. "I do nothing of Myself," said Christ; "the living Father hath sent Me, and I live by the Father." "I seek not Mine own glory," but the glory of Him that sent Me. John 8:28; 6:57; 8:50; 7:18. In these words is set forth the great principle which is the law of life for the universe. All things Christ received from God, but He took to give. So in the heavenly courts, in His ministry for all created beings: through the beloved Son, the Father's life flows out to all; through the Son it returns, in praise and joyous service, a tide of love, to the great Source of all. And thus through Christ the circuit of beneficence is complete, representing the character of the great Giver, the law of life. {DA 21.2}

What is the basis of life? What is the law upon which God's government operates? What kind of law is this? And if life is built to operate upon this principle, what is the result of choosing to break it? Why?

So what would be needed if someone did break it? A legal payment or restoring to design?

Thus Jesus took our sinful, terminal state upon Himself and fixed it.

What then of the fire in the end and how does this fire destroy death?

Isaiah 33:14,15 The sinners in Zion are terrified; trembling grips the godless: "Who of us can dwell with the consuming fire? Who of us can dwell with everlasting burning?" He who walks righteously and speaks what is right, who rejects gain from extortion and keeps his hand from accepting bribes, who stops his ears against plots of murder and shuts his eyes against contemplating evil...

Where does this love, this principle of giving originate? In God, and flows out from God and it is God's glory, and what does God's glory look like? Fire:

The Ancient of Days took his seat. His clothing was as white as snow; the hair of his head was white like wool. His throne was flaming with fire, and its wheels were all ablaze.

¹⁰ A river of fire was flowing, coming out from before him. Thousands upon thousands attended him; ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him. Dan 7:9,10

So who lives in the consuming fire? The righteous—how is this? Because the fire is God's life-giving glory!

This is the fire that destroys sin—what is sin made out of? Matter? No, at its root sin is made out of lies and selfishness. What destroys lies? Truth, and what destroys selfishness, love. And what is the basis of life, truth and love. When the Spirit fell at Pentecost, they saw two streams of fire, truth and love.

Are we starting to penetrate the veil of lies, primarily over God's law, that has obscured our understanding of reality and has caused billions to teach God is the source of inflicted suffering and death, when in reality God is the source of life and death only results from deviating from God and His design laws upon which life is constructed?

What about the suffering of the wicked in the end in the eternal fire? What causes greater suffering, physical or mental anguish? For Jesus what was His greatest suffering crucifixion weekend? What about the wicked in the end?

What happens to those solidified in lies and selfishness when they are bathed in infinite truth and love?

So consider this historical description written in the Signs of the Time April 14, 1898:

"We read of chains of darkness for the transgressor of God's law. We read of the worm that dieth not, and of the fire that is not quenched. Thus is REPRESENTED the experience of every one who has permitted himself to be grafted into the stock of Satan, who has cherished sinful attributes. When it is too late, HE WILL SEE that sin is the transgression of God's law. HE WILL REALIZE that because of transgression, his soul is cut off from God, and that God's wrath abides on him. THIS is a fire unquenchable, and BY IT every unrepentant sinner will be destroyed. Satan strives constantly to lead men into sin, and he who is willing to be led, who refuses to forsake his sins, and despises forgiveness and grace, will suffer the result of his course" (ST, April 14, 1898 par. 13).

What is being described? What is the fire according to this author? The fires of truth and love, which penetrate the lies and distortion and the suffering is the suffering that reality, that their own condition brings upon them when they can no longer hide from the truth of what they have done to themselves! It is not a physical fire, it is the fire of God's life giving glory! Sin kills, God is the source of life!

Here is another quote, what do you think?

This case [Pharaoh] is placed on record for our benefit. Just what took place in Pharaoh's heart will take place in every soul that neglects to cherish the light and walk promptly in its rays. God destroys no one. The sinner destroys himself by his own impenitence. When a person once neglects to heed the invitations, reproofs, and warnings of the Spirit of God, his conscience becomes seared, and the next time he is admonished, it will be more difficult to yield obedience than before. And thus with every repetition. Conscience is the voice of God, heard amid the conflict of human passions; when it is resisted, the Spirit of God is grieved. – {5T 120.1}

What is being described, an infliction, or a natural result? What kind of law is at work? Design law!

We want all to understand how the soul is destroyed. It is not that God sends out a decree that man shall not be saved. He does not throw a darkness before the eyes which cannot be penetrated. But man at first resists a motion of the Spirit of God, and, having once resisted, it is less difficult to do so the second time, less the third, and far less the fourth. Then comes the harvest to be reaped from the seed of unbelief and resistance. Oh what a harvest of sinful indulgences is preparing for the sickle! – {5T 120.2}

Again, what kind of law is described?

Then what about where Peter says the elements will melt in the fervent heat? Isn't this a fire of combustion?

Absolutely! The question is when does the fire of combustion occur—while the wicked are still alive, or after the fires of love and truth have occurred and after they are already dead and the fires of combustion are the fires which recreate the physical matter back to its sinless perfection?

In the OT sacrificial system—when did they ever burn animals alive? Never, only after the animals were dead did the bodies get burned. Yes, there will be a physical fire, but only after all the wicked have died. And what is the cause of the death of the wicked? Their own voluntary choice surrender their lives. When they come into the full unveiled glory of God and can no longer hide from truth and love, they find the reality of their condition so awful that they choose to surrender their lives rather than live in God's presence. As Scripture says, "They called to the mountains and the rocks, 'Fall on us and hide us from the face of him who sits on the throne...'" Rev 6:16

Or as EGW puts it:

God does not force the will or judgment of any. He takes no pleasure in a slavish obedience. He desires that the creatures of His hands shall love Him because He is worthy of love. He would have them obey Him because they have an intelligent appreciation of His wisdom, justice, and benevolence. And all who have a just conception of these qualities will love Him because they are drawn toward Him in admiration of His attributes. {GC 541.3}

The principles of kindness, mercy, and love, taught and exemplified by our Saviour, are a transcript of the will and character of God. Christ declared that He taught nothing except that which He had received from His Father. The principles of the divine government are in perfect harmony with the Saviour's precept, "Love your enemies." God executes justice upon the wicked, for the good of the universe, and even for the good of those upon whom His judgments are visited. He would make them happy if He could do so in accordance with the laws of His government and the justice of His character. He surrounds them with the tokens of His love, He grants them a knowledge of His law, and follows them with the offers of His mercy; but they despise His love, make void His law, and reject His mercy. While constantly receiving His gifts, they dishonor the Giver; they hate God because they know that He abhors their sins. The Lord bears long with their perversity; but the decisive hour will come at last, when their destiny is to be decided. Will He then chain these rebels to His side? Will He force them to do His will? {GC 541.4}

Those who have chosen Satan as their leader and have been controlled by his power are not prepared to enter the presence of God. Pride, deception, licentiousness, cruelty, have become fixed in their characters. Can they enter heaven to dwell forever with those whom they despised and hated on earth? Truth will never be agreeable to a liar; meekness will not satisfy self-esteem and pride; purity is not acceptable to the corrupt; disinterested love does not appear attractive to the selfish. What source of enjoyment could heaven offer to those who are wholly absorbed in earthly and selfish interests? {GC 542.1}

Could those whose lives have been spent in rebellion against God be suddenly transported to heaven and witness the high, the holy state of perfection that ever exists there,-- every soul filled with love, every countenance beaming with joy, enrapturing music in melodious strains rising in honor of God and the Lamb, and ceaseless streams of light flowing upon the redeemed from the face of Him who sitteth upon the throne,--could those whose hearts are filled with hatred of God, of truth and holiness, mingle with the heavenly throng and join their songs of praise? Could they endure the glory of God and the Lamb? No, no; years of probation were granted them, that they might form characters for heaven; but they have never trained the mind to love purity; they have never learned the language of heaven, and now it is too late. A life of rebellion against God has unfitted them for heaven. Its purity, holiness, and peace would be torture to them; the glory of God would be a consuming fire. They would long to flee from that holy place. They would welcome destruction, that they might be hidden from the face of Him who died to redeem them. The destiny of the wicked is fixed by their own choice. Their exclusion from heaven is voluntary with themselves, and just and merciful on the part of God. {GC 542.2}

Like the waters of the Flood the fires of the great day declare God's verdict that the wicked are incurable.

This is design law, this is reality, this is not an infliction by God, but something God has been using His power to delay, hold at bay, prevent, cure and heal. But those who refuse healing, who have solidified themselves in such a state God will not use His power to keep them alive in a tormented and tortured situation. He respects their freewill choice to pass from existence, and they voluntarily die.

As we study the book of Peter, let us be diligent to view what Peter wrote through the lens of God's design law, and reject the false human impose law concept which puts God in the role of cosmic executioner and source of pain and death.

The Person of Peter

SABBATH

When you think of Peter what comes to mind? Do you find that Peter is a person who encourages you? What in Peter's life do you find encouraging?

Did you notice Peter seems to be impulsive?

- He blurts out answers—some good “you are the Christ” some not so good, “Far be it from you to go and die”
- He jumps out of the boat and swims to shore
- He says things that make no sense, “lets build some tents for you and Moses and Elijah”
- He asks Jesus if he can walk on water with Him
- He denies knowing Jesus
- He runs to the tomb
- He pulls back from associating with uncircumcised

Peter had a heart that wanted to do good, but often allowed the impulse of the moment to lead to actions without first thinking it through, considering, and reasoning it out—and with a heart unconverted many of his actions were not helpful. He even occasionally struggled with this same issue after conversion—remember when Paul had to confront him?

What was the root impulse, with which Peter struggled, that caused him to come up short? Where is it most effectively exposed for us to see?

In the upper room, Jesus tells the disciples that they would all run away and what does Peter say? “Not me!” Was Peter lying? In other words, was Peter planning on running away, but telling Jesus he wouldn't? Or did Peter mean what he said and was speaking his honest intentions?

So, Peter was not lying, he honestly intended to not run... so then, could Jesus trust him? What did Jesus tell him? Before the rooster crows you will deny me 3 times.

What is going on here?

Did Peter love Jesus? Yes...but he still loved himself more! This is the problem, when there was no pressure on self he declared his love and loyalty to Jesus. But when his own life was threatened, having not died to self, he denied Jesus to protect self. So Jesus said to him in the upper room:

Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat: ³² But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren. Lk 22:31,32 KJV

What is the lesson here?

Prior to that night, had Peter gone on missionary journeys for Christ? Had Peter been used to perform miracles? Had Peter professed Jesus as Lord and Savior? Yet, he was still unconverted—because what is conversion? It is not a vocal acknowledgement of Jesus; it is not a legal adjustment for those who have claimed the blood. Conversion is an actual change of heart, where we surrender our survival drive and our lives into Jesus' hands, we die to self and are willing to give our lives for others. We love God and others more than the need to protect ourselves. And this is only possible because of what Jesus accomplished as a human 2000 years ago.

Peter represents beautifully the life of us all, the struggle of us all and the possibility for us all, to, despite coming up short, experience genuine change of heart and reconciliation with God.

Do you notice the contrast with Judas—what is the difference between Peter and Judas? Peter surrendered self and Judas did not. Why? Peter really did love Jesus and valued Jesus' character and methods of truth and love. Judas found Jesus' methods weak and detestable and didn't want to be like Jesus. but wanted to use Jesus for his own agenda.

The last paragraph states “Most important, Peter knew what it was to make mistakes, to be forgiven, and to move forward in faith and humility.”

What do you understand this to mean?

What was the forgiveness Peter so desperately needed? Was it a legal pardon in the courts of heaven? Or was Peter distraught because he had betrayed someone important to him, and Peter was afraid that Jesus' might reject him, might hold his betrayal against him, might not want Peter on the team any more? So Peter needed to know that Jesus personally forgave him. It was not a legal forgiveness Peter needed, but a personal, relational forgiveness that Peter needed.

Why? Because one of the natural results of sin is internal fear, condemnation and shame—this is what sin does. And this causes us to falsely believe that others, if they knew of our sins, would not be able to like us, value us, cherish us, or want to be associated with us. That others would hold our wrongs against us—much more so when the wrong was a betrayal of trust. So, part of the healing and restoration to righteousness is to experience God's forgiveness. And this forgiveness is freely extended from God to all sinners.

What happens if someone doesn't get "forgiven"? What is the problem for a person who doesn't experience forgiveness? What happens in the heart, mind and character of the sinner who remains in a state of unforgiveness?

Think about those who crucified Christ—did Jesus forgive them? Yes, did they receive it? No, and what happened to them? Did they have more or less fear? Did they have more or less peace, more or less compassion, more or less love and joy?

Unremedied sin in the life destroys the character and incites fear and increased selfishness.

Forgiveness is not a legal issue, but a relational issue!

SUNDAY

The last paragraph states "Whatever his faults, and they are many, Peter was a spiritual man who was ready to follow the Lord, regardless of the cost."

What does this mean? What does it mean to be spiritual?

The man without the Spirit does not accept the things that come from the Spirit of God, for they are foolishness to him, and he cannot understand them, because they are spiritually discerned. ¹⁵ The spiritual man makes judgments about all things, but he himself is not subject to any man's judgment: 1Cor 2:14,15

The mind of sinful man is death, but the mind controlled by the Spirit is life and peace; ⁷ the sinful mind is hostile to God. It does not submit to God's law, nor can it do so. ⁸ Those controlled by the sinful nature cannot please God. Rom 8:6-8

What does this mean? Why is the mind of the sinful man death and the mind controlled by the Spirit life? What is the basis of life? God's law of love, which we partake from the Spirit.

But the sinful man doesn't submit to God's law, what does this mean?

So what does it mean to be spiritual? It means to be reborn from a life of fear and selfishness to a life of trust and love, in which one practices the principles of truth, love and liberty—the methods of God as enabled by the Spirit.

Do we see that Peter became such a person? Yes!

Was Peter right on every point of doctrine? No! Paul had to correct him, yet he was still a spiritual man—how do we know? Because he responded to truth, he accepted correction when the correction was in harmony with the truth and Peter was not. In other words, Peter after conversion did not suddenly become omniscient and know all realities, but had a heart that loved God and God's principles and thus was open to being corrected.

The unconverted man isn't willing to step back, allow the Spirit of truth and love to enlighten, bring to conviction and then willingly choose to apply what the Spirit has revealed.

This is true today—are we “saved” by getting the right doctrines? Are we saved by obeying the right rituals? Are we saved by trusting Jesus and experiencing a change in heart motive so that we follow where He leads, value His methods and choose His principles?

Much of Christianity, because of accepting the false law lens, has fallen into the trap of believing that salvation is dependent upon getting the definitions right, the doctrines right, the rituals right, the behaviors right, rather than getting the heart right!

But it has always been about transforming the heart, healing the inner being back into God's original ideal. When Christ returns there will be millions saved who have errors in their understanding of Bible facts, who disagree on various interpretations of Scripture, but none will be saved who harbor selfishness and lies while rejecting love and a hunger for truth.

Turn to WEDNESDAY's lesson and read third paragraph, “As we know, Christian history is soiled...” thoughts?

What does it mean to compromise crucial truths? The lesson points to Revelation 14:12: “This calls for patient endurance on the part of the saints who obey God's commandments and remain faithful to Jesus.”

What are they saying are the important truths that cannot be compromised?

Are they saying doctrines, rituals, worship days, dress, diet, style of music?

What are the crucial truths that cannot be compromised? Is it not the truth of God's character of love and truth and His design law for life—His methods of running His universe?

So, could someone who worships on the right day, eats the right food, baptized in the right way, but because they view God's law as imposed, and that justice requires punishment, use such methods on their fellow human beings? In other words, seek to control human governments to enforce their religious views? And if the doctrines, say baptism, or day of worship, were Biblically sound, what would it mean if the methods of enforcement were not God's methods?

Is it about right doctrines or participating in reality as God constructed it, which eventually will lead to right doctrines?

The bottom pink section asks, “How can we learn to forgive those who have greatly disappointed us, as Peter disappointed Jesus here?”

Is there a difference between forgiving someone and trusting someone? What is the difference?

What helps you to forgive?

- Is it fear that if you don't God won't forgive you?
- Is it obligation, God said we must so I do?
- Is it love for the person, you genuinely want to see them transformed?
- Is it realization that sin destroys the sinner and you don't have to hold a grudge they are destroying themselves, so you can forgive and feel compassion for them?

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read MT 16:13-17, this is where Jesus asks them who people say He is, and then who they think He is and Peter replies with “You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.”

Did this public declaration, confession that Jesus is the Savior, mean Peter experienced salvation at that moment? Are people saved by making this declaration?

Jesus rightly responded that this awareness wasn't from Peter's own intelligence or database, but from insight provided to Peter from the Holy Spirit.

But, for salvation this awareness that Jesus is the Savior requires a response, a choice of the soul to surrender to Jesus, to align with Jesus, the mere acknowledgement of the fact doesn't result in salvation—don't the devils acknowledge this fact?

And did the acknowledgement of the fact that Jesus was the Messiah, the Son of God, mean the disciples then understood God's character, methods, the problem of sin, what Jesus was there to accomplish? Or, despite recognizing Jesus as Messiah, they still didn't understand what was wrong that sin caused that Jesus was here to fix?

How many Christians today are in the same boat, they recognize Jesus as the Messiah, the Son of the living God, but still don't understand why He came, what the problem that sin caused that Jesus came to fix, and how Jesus did fix it?

Read next paragraph, which is a quote from The Desire of Ages p. 415: “The disciples still expected Christ...” thoughts?

Why? Was the truth of what the Savior was to accomplish kept from them by God? Or, was there truth revealed all through the OT that taught Christ was to come and suffer and die in order to resolve the sin problem?

What about:

- the sacrificial system—who did all the sacrificial animals point toward?
- Abraham and Isaac and Mt. Moriah
- Isaiah 53
- Ps 22:16-18: they have pierced my hands and my feet. I can count all my bones; people stare and gloat over me. They divide my garments among them and cast lots for my clothing.

Was there evidence in Scripture that was sufficient to teach that Jesus would have to suffer and die?

Then why did they not consider this possibility? Because of their traditions, because of what they were taught in church school, sermons, because of the accepted orthodoxy of their religious system. They were told false meanings to the Scripture and the symbolic system that obscured their ability to comprehend the truth of Christ's mission.

Do we struggle with similar problems today?

TUESDAY

What would you do if you were on a boat and saw someone walking out to you on the water? And it was someone you knew—would your first response be to ask to walk out to them on the water?

Read fourth and fifth paragraph, “The usual lesson of the story...” What do you think of the question, “Could not Jesus have kept Peter afloat regardless of Peter's fear?”

If we are talking only about physical issues of gravity and water, then the answer is yes, but is something more going on? What?

Is there an object lesson here?

It wasn't about the physical contact, it was about the reaching out from the heart for something that one cannot provide for themselves.

Why didn't Peter simply turn and swim back to the boat? He could swim because he jumped out of the boat and swam to shore in another place, why didn't he just do that? He was in “deep water” at night, with waves and wind and it was evidently more than he believed he could handle.

Have you ever been in circumstance in life in which you felt overwhelmed and about to drown—did you reach out with your heart to Jesus?

Is this a metaphor for our ability to heal our hearts from fear and selfishness?

THURSDAY

The lesson points out that Peter was a leader in the early church. How do you respond to those who say that the church was built upon Peter?

How about simply agreeing with them by quoting Ephesians 2:19-22:

Consequently, you are no longer foreigners and aliens, but fellow citizens with God's people and members of God's household, ²⁰ built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the chief cornerstone. ²¹ In him the whole building is joined together and rises to become a holy temple in the Lord. ²² And in him you too are being built together to become a dwelling in which God lives by his Spirit.

So, yes, the church is built on Peter, along with the other Apostles, with Jesus as the chief cornerstone.

The lesson points out that Peter was influenced by Judaizers and pulled back association with uncircumcised Gentiles until Paul confronted him. What lessons do we learn from this?

Are there lessons in regard to how we relate to those with the special gifts of the Spirit, including the gift of prophecy?

If someone is gifted with the gifts of the Spirit are they infallible? If they are not infallible can and will they get some things wrong? Did Peter get this wrong? Does that mean Peter was not inspired? Does that mean we should not value what he wrote in Scripture?

Should we surrender our judgment to another human, including a prophet or apostle? Romans 14:5 Paul says every person should be fully persuaded in their own mind—so is it okay to disagree with someone, even an apostle of the Lord, as long as one does it based on principles of God's kingdom, in harmony with God's methods of truth and love? Did Paul do this? Would you have been able to stand up to Peter? What about EGW?

Are there things written in Scripture and the writings of EGW that are very appropriate for the people of that time, but are not applicable to us today?

AUGUST 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings’ new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God’s transforming power of love.

August 18,19, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Celebration SDA church in Celebration, Florida.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

September 26-Oct 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC World Conference, Nashville TN, and our ministry will have a booth in the exhibit hall.

First and Second Peter Lesson 2 2Q 2017

An Inheritance Incorruptible

SABBATH

Read Memory Text:

Now that you have purified yourselves by obeying the truth so that you have sincere love for your brothers, love one another deeply, from the heart. 1Pet 1:22 NIV

What does this mean to you?

First, according to this text, what is the result of purification, or what does purification do to a person? It results in a change in heart where people genuinely love others.

What does this mean regarding purification?

Is purification legal or is it something that actually happens within the person?

What did the Jews think purification was? Ritualistic, ceremonial washings, etc. Do Christians today ever struggle with the idea that spiritual purification is found in rituals or ceremonies? Is it?

So what does it mean to be purified? It means a pure heart and right spirit, a change in the inner man to be like Christ. Consider this quote:

Co-workers with Christ will manifest no harshness, no self-sufficiency. These elements must be purified from the soul, and the gentleness of Christ take possession. {Christian Leadership 8.1}

So we understand that being purified is important and necessary for salvation, and that purification is a change in heart from selfishness to love, but how are we purified?

Peter says “you purified yourselves by obeying the truth” What does this mean?

Consider this quote from Evangelism:

There is a vast amount of rubbish brought forward by professed believers in Christ, which blocks up the way to the cross. [What might that be? Is it only pleasure seeking, or any method of the world, such as the world's system of legality being taught in the church as the means of salvation?] Notwithstanding all this, there are some who are so deeply convicted that they will come through every discouragement, and will surmount every obstacle in order to gain the truth. But had the believers in the truth purified their minds by obeying it, had they felt the importance of knowledge and refinement of manners in Christ's work, where one soul has been saved there might have been twenty.--Testimonies, vol. 4, p. 68. (1876) {Ev 110.3}

This quote from evangelism agrees with Peter “believers in the truth purified their minds by obeying it...” what does this mean?

Is Peter saying that we are saved by our works? Where does faith come in?

What law lens are you looking through?

If you believe God’s law functions like human law, imposed rules that require imposed punishments, then serious false ideas emerge, like:

- Being purified means being purified from the legal guilt of the sins we have committed and saved from the punishment of sin
- Purification is when we trust in the blood payment of Jesus we are declared to be pure, even though we are not
- Purification is purifying our heavenly record by purging our records of the recorded sins when we accept the legal payment of Jesus
- But to ensure the records remain purged of our bad deeds we must obey all the rules He has given or else our sins will be retained on the books and God will punish us.

However, if you return to the truth of God’s law, that God is Creator and His laws are the protocols upon which reality function—in all domains—then you realize that sin is being out of harmony with how life is constructed. Such a condition is terminal, and only Christ could restore humankind back to God’s design. Thus, Jesus came and revealed the truth about God to win us to trust, exposed Satan as a liar and fraud to free us from being duped by him, and provided a genuine remedy for our condition.

Thus, Jesus provides the truth which establishes our faith, or trust, and in faith/trust we choose with our wills to not only trust Him, but to apply to our lives what He has instructed, to partake of Him and His methods of truth and love. In so doing, we abide in Him, experience a transforming power to renew and empower us. But it is our choice, to partake or not, to obey or not. And it is by the exercise of our wills to trust and follow that we retain our individuality while the Holy Spirit changes the heart motives.

Thus, the Remedy was achieved by Christ alone; our works could never cure the condition, nor add to anything to what Christ has achieved. However, we must choose to trust, choose to partake, choose to apply what Christ has achieved to our own individual lives—just as if you had a disease and a remedy was available, you did not create or produce the remedy, but you must choose to take it.

So what does it mean to obey?

The Greek for obey or obedience is:

5218 ὑπακοή [hupakoe /hoop·ak·o·ay/] n f. From 5219; TDNT 1:224; TDNTA 34; GK 5633.¹

The first part is hypo, as in hypoglycemia, or hypotension and means under, or low, or lowly, and the second half is akoe from which we get acoustic and means to listen, to hear. It means a humble willingness to listen and to do.

So an obedient person is one who eagerly listens for the voice of God and has the desire to hear, to understand, and to fulfill God's instructions and therefore chooses to do so to the best of their ability. It is not about perfect performance, it is about heart attitude.

So, with this in mind consider some of these quotes:

It is through faith in Jesus Christ that the truth is accepted in the heart, and the human agent is purified and cleansed. . . . [What do you hear? Truth wins to trust, but in trust the truth moves beyond comprehension, beyond ideas understood, into the heart and becomes part of the building blocks of our values, character, identity, thus the truth transforms us—as we choose to believe it and apply it! The truth becomes more than facts but leads to the truth about reality itself, including the ultimate Truth—Jesus Christ!] He has an abiding principle in the soul, that enables him to overcome temptation. [What truth is more than fact but also a principle? Would it not be the truths of God's laws—design protocols—the primary one being love!] "Whosoever abideth in him sinneth not." 1 John 3:6. God has power to keep the soul that is in Christ who is under temptation. . . . {FLB 130.2}

A mere profession of godliness is worthless. It is he that abideth in Christ that is a Christian. . . Unless the mind of God becomes the mind of men, every effort to purify himself will be useless; for it is impossible to elevate man except through a knowledge of God. [What does this mean? In 17:3 life eternal = knowing God. What does this knowledge mean? Is it by studying in seminary? Is it by speaking the ancient languages? What? Personal knowledge, experience with God for oneself.] {FLB 130.3}

The question you need to put to yourselves is, "Am I a Christian?" To be a Christian is to be far more than many understand. It means more than simply having your name upon the church records. It means to be joined to Christ. It means to have simple faith, unwavering reliance upon God. It means to have childlike confidence in your heavenly Father through the name and merit of His dear Son. [What does this mean? It means our confidence in God is based on the evidence Jesus revealed of God's trustworthiness—we can trust God, have confidence or faith in Him!] Do you love to keep the commandments of God, because the commandments of God are God's precepts, the transcript of His character, and can no more be altered than can the character of God? [What are the commandments? Transcript of His character, which is what type of law? Design law of love—do we love who God is and do we love how He constructed reality to operate and do we love to live in harmony with it?] Do you respect and love the law of Jehovah? {FLB 130.4}

Every individual, by his own act, either puts Christ from him by refusing to cherish His spirit and follow His example, or he enters into a personal union with Christ by self-renunciation, faith, and obedience. [What does this mean? Does our choice make a difference in our eternal destiny? Is it a one time choice or ongoing choice? Why? Because of design law—design law is about how life actually operates and we either choose to operate in harmony with God's design or not—and either choices changes us one way or the other] We must, each for himself, choose Christ, because He has first chosen us. This union with Christ is to be formed by those who are naturally at enmity with Him. It is a relation of utter dependence, to be entered into by a proud heart. This is close work, and many who profess to be followers of Christ know nothing of it. They nominally accept the Saviour, but not as the sole ruler of their hearts. {FLB 135.2}

The evil tendencies of mankind are hard to overcome. The battles are tedious. [Have you experienced this reality?] Every soul in the strife knows how severe, how bitter, are these contests. Everything about growth in grace is difficult, because the standard and maxims of the world are constantly interposed between the soul and God's holy standard. [What are the standards and maxims of the world? 1) If it feels good do it 2) the strong survive by defeating the weak 3) it isn't wrong if you are not punished which is based on the imposed legal law construct. 4) justice requires inflicted punishment - this false penal/legal substitutionary theology which is based solely on human law construct obstructs the healing power of God in many lives!] The Lord would have us elevated, ennobled, purified, by carrying out the principles underlying His great moral standard, which will test every character in the great day of final reckoning. {FLB 135.3} [What is the test on the great day of reckoning? Is it a test of our records—whether the records have been purified? Or is it a test of our character? And what would that test look like? Rev 12:11 “These are they who do not love their life so much as to shrink from death” What is being described? A situation in which their character is tested—do they love others more than self, or would they lie, cheat, steal, kill, gossip, manipulate all in order to protect themselves? It is a test of the actual condition of the heart!

So what is salvation? It is purification—it is healing, it is transforming the inner person and this requires are active participation with God!

Here is another quote:

Christ gave His life to make it possible for man to be restored to the image of God. [What is God working to achieve? Not legal outcomes but transformational ones!] It is the power of His grace that draws men together in obedience to the truth. [Can one be purified, healed, in violations of the laws of health—design law? No! Does claiming one believes they are legally justified mean that such a person has been transformed to God's image? No! In other words, the legal model creates the atmosphere for perpetual sin and obstructs God's plan to heal and restore people!] {Amazing Grace 103.4}

God desires us to reach the standard of perfection made possible for us by the gift of Christ. He calls upon us to make our choice on the right side, to connect with heavenly agencies, to adopt principles that will restore in us the divine image. In His written Word and in the great book of nature He has revealed the principles of life. [What are these principles? The law of love, liberty, worship, sowing and reaping, exertion i.e. design law!] It is our work to obtain a knowledge of these principles, and by obedience to cooperate with Him in restoring health to the body as well as to the soul. {AG 103.5}

Men need to learn that the blessings of obedience, [What does this mean? Rule keeping? No! It means living in harmony with God's design for life. As we do we are experience transformation of heart and mind, peace with God and each other] in their fullness, can be theirs only as they receive the grace of Christ. It is His grace that gives men power to obey the laws of God. It is this that enables him to break the bondage of evil habit. This is the only power that can make him and keep him steadfast in the right path. {AG 103.6}

To the heart that has become purified, all is changed. . . . The Spirit of God produces a new life in the soul, bringing the thoughts and desires into obedience to the will of Christ; and the inward man is renewed in the image of God. [Who is the transforming power? The Spirit of God, which takes Christ's victory and reproduces it in us. then what is our work? To investigate the evidence/truth and choose what we believe, and what we cherish by choosing what we do, what we take into our hearts this is partaking of the divine nature.] Weak and erring men and women show to the world that the redeeming power of grace can cause the faulty character to develop into symmetry and abundant fruitfulness. {AG 103.7}

SUNDAY

Peter was an apostle, which the lesson tells us means “one sent.” What do you understand an apostle to be?

Do you think the term “ambassador” is a reasonable synonym? A person sent to represent and fulfill the plans, aspirations, mission, directives, goals of the one who sent them?

Does apostle mean one had to spend time in the physical presence of Jesus being trained by Him?

Then they prayed, “Lord, you know everyone's heart. Show us which of these two you have chosen ²⁵ to take over this apostolic ministry, which Judas left to go where he belongs.” ²⁶ Then they cast lots, and the lot fell to Matthias; so he was added to the eleven apostles. Acts 1:25,26

And while Paul spent 3 years in the desert learning from God, it was not likely that it was a one on one with the physical presence of Jesus as the other apostles experienced.

What are the similarities and differences between an apostles and a prophets?

Similarities:

Both are inspired by the same Spirit, represent the same God, operate upon the same methods, teach the same eternal truths, work for the same eternal agenda, teach the same principles of God's kingdom of love. Both can experience gifts of the Spirit as the Spirit deems necessary to their individual mission.

Differences:

The biggest difference is one of focus. Apostles are like ambassadors, primarily sent out from an organization to represent and fulfill the mission of the organization whereas prophets are typically brought up within the organization to address needs within the organization.

The message of the apostles are often to those who don't yet know or identify with the message or the organization, whereas the message of the prophets are often to those who do identify with the organization yet need correction, clarification, redirection, etc.

But because both apostles and prophets teach the same principles of God's government here is obvious overlap between the two groups. And we can benefit from the teachings of both.

The lesson points out that there is debate over whether the Epistles of Peter were directed mostly to Jewish or Gentile believers.

With this in mind read the last paragraph, "Some commentators argue..." thoughts?

What do you think of this question, "After all, would Peter really have written to the Jews about the 'futile ways inherited from your ancestors?'"

Hmmm.... what do you think? Do these words of Jesus add anything to what Peter wrote?

"Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You build tombs for the prophets and decorate the graves of the righteous.³⁰ And you say, 'If we had lived in the days of our forefathers, we would not have taken part with them in shedding the blood of the prophets.'³¹ So you testify against yourselves that you are the descendants of those who murdered the prophets.³² Fill up, then, the measure of the sin of your forefathers!

³³ "You snakes! You brood of vipers! How will you escape being condemned to hell? ³⁴ Therefore I am sending you prophets and wise men and teachers. Some of them you will kill and crucify; others you will flog in your synagogues and pursue from town to town. ³⁵ And so upon you will come all the righteous blood that has been shed on earth, from the blood of righteous Abel to the blood of Zechariah son of Berekiah, whom you murdered between the temple and the altar. ³⁶ I tell you the truth, all this will come upon this generation. Mt 23:29-36

Was Jesus suggesting anything about futile ways inherited from their ancestors?

Or what about question from the lesson: “would he have said to Jewish readers, ‘For we have spent enough of our past lifetime in doing the will of the Gentiles—when we walked in lewdness, lusts, drunkenness, revelries, drinking parties, and abominable idolatries.’”

Would he have written this to Jews? Does the OT give us any insight? Is there record of the Jews getting caught up, over and over again, in pagan fertility rights with their orgies and drunken revelries? Hmmm... so could this have absolutely been written to the Jews?

So, it doesn't seem unreasonable to me that Peter was writing to both Jews and Gentiles. What do you think?

MONDAY

What does it mean to be elected to salvation or to be the elect of God or “elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father” (1Pet 1:2)?

I am going to read a quotation from Christian Education and I would like the class to decipher, interpret, and describe what it means:

Here are the conditions upon which every soul will be elected to eternal life. Your obedience to God's commandments will prove your right to an inheritance with the saints in light. God has elected a certain excellence of character; and every one who, through the grace of Christ, shall reach the standard of his requirement, will have an abundant entrance into the kingdom of glory. All who would reach this standard of character, will have to employ the means that God has provided to this end. If you would inherit the rest that remains for the children of God, you must become a co-laborer with God. You are elected to wear the yoke of Christ, --to bear his burden, to lift his cross. You are to be diligent "to make your calling and election sure." [2 Peter 1:10.] Search the Scriptures, and you will see that not a son or a daughter of Adam is elected to be saved in disobedience to God's law. The world makes void the law of God; but Christians are chosen to sanctification through obedience to the truth. They are elected to bear the cross, if they would wear the crown. {CE 118.1}

What does it mean?

Let's go through phrase by phrase and see if we can comprehend the meaning. The first question to ask as we start is: which law lens are we reading through, imposed human law or God's design law?

Here are the conditions upon which every soul will be elected to eternal life. [what does "conditions" connote? Factors, if one is viewing it through human imposed law, one thinks "the legal conditions of legal payment and being baptized in the right way and claiming the blood payment." If one is viewing this through design law then one realizes conditions are those aspects of reality upon which God constructed life and which the outcome depend] Your obedience to God's commandments will prove your right to an inheritance with the saints in light. [what commandments? Does this mean behavior? Does it mean day of worship? Does it mean the commandment to love God and others? Is obedience primarily about performance, or the NT Greek hypoacuae and it means a humble willingness to listen and choose to incorporate, internalize, apply and do? And what happens to the believer when we do this? By beholding we are changed, this is design law, law of worship, law of exertion, law of sewing and reaping. This is God working through His design laws to heal and restore, but to retain our individuality we must choose to actively participate!] God has elected a certain excellence of character; and every one who, through the grace of Christ, shall reach the standard of his requirement, will have an abundant entrance into the kingdom of glory. [When did God elect a certain excellence of character? Originally in His creation, but then again in the person of Jesus. Romans 3:21 from the Remedy "But now God has revealed a healthy state of being—a character that is right and perfect in every way—that did not come from the written code, but is exactly what the Scriptures and the Ten Commandments were pointing your minds toward." Why did God elect this excellence of character? Because it is the only character that lives in God's universe of love.] All who would reach this standard of character, will have to employ the means that God has provided to this end. [What means has God provided? Truth and love in freedom wins us to trust and in trust we open the heart and the Spirit provides a new heart/character developed by Christ, and the Holy Spirit to enlighten and transforms as we choose to seek, cooperate and apply.] If you would inherit the rest that remaineth for the children of God, you must become a co-laborer with God. [What does this mean? how are we to labor?] You are elected to wear the yoke of Christ, --to bear his burden, to lift his cross. [What is a yoke? an instrument that binds to together to SHARE the burden, and the yoke that binds us to Christ is the yoke of love! We must love God and Christ and that connects us to Him and shares the burden of life with Him] You are to be diligent "to make your calling and election sure." [2 Peter 1:10.] Search the Scriptures, and you will see that not a son or a daughter of Adam is elected to be saved in disobedience to God's law. [Why? For the same reason no son or daughter is elected to live in violations of the laws of health] The world makes void the law of God; but Christians are chosen to sanctification through obedience to the truth. They are elected to bear the cross, if they would wear the crown. [We must die to selfishness if we are to live in love] {CE 118.1}

What is election? Election is God's choice to provide Christ to reveal truth and procure the remedy, and our choice to trust God and participate with Him in His plan to heal and restore us.

Read last paragraph, “God’s foreknowledge of the elect...” Their example is not an effective example, because the mother doesn’t know what her child will do based on knowledge of the future, but based on knowledge of the character and motivations of the child. So the mother is predicting what is most likely to happen, given her knowledge of previous experiences with the child. This is NOT the same as God’s foreknowledge.

This type of foreknowledge is often wrong and often leads to many problems in relationships as people presume to know what another will do before they do it and therefore prejudge people and not give others the opportunity to grow, transform, make a new decision but anticipate people to do what they have always done. This is not foreknowledge.

True foreknowledge is entirely different, it is knowing the future before the future happens.

Any evidences from Scripture that would demonstrate God does know the specific choices of people before they make them?

- Noah and the ark—preached offering a place on the ark for all who would want a place, but building only one ark
- Prophecy of soldiers rolling dice for Jesus’ clothing
- Prophecies of Daniel, the rise of the various nations
- Israel would be unfaithful and end up in captivity for 70 years
- Cyrus as one who would release Israel to return home
- Judas betraying Jesus
- Peter denying Jesus, but repenting and feeding the sheep

Anyone uncomfortable with God knowing what you will do before you choose to do it?

If God knows before we do it is that the same as causing us to do it? What informs God of what we will do? Our choice in doing it! God doesn’t know it if we don’t do it—but because God lives outside time He is aware of what we choose, but only because we choose it.

TUESDAY

One of the key themes is the resurrection of Jesus Christ—why did Jesus predict so confidently He would rise from the dead?

Was Jesus prediction of His resurrection based on foreknowledge?

In the book The Desire of Ages the author says Jesus could not see through the portals of the tomb (753). If Jesus couldn’t see through the portals of the tomb, then was His prediction based on foreknowledge? Or was His prediction based on something else?

Was it based on real knowledge—the knowledge of God’s character, the nature of sin, what causes death, what the solution for death is, and that He knew He would destroy the cause of death and restore the basis of life into the humanity of which He partook? Thus He could predict the outcome accurately, that He would die, but knew His death would destroy death—the infection of selfishness which causes death, and restore the law of life (God’s design) back into the humanity He assumed, and therefore He would rise in a perfected and immortal humanity?

So, what would the basis of His prediction? The truth of God’s character and design law!

WEDNESDAY

What does it mean to “gird up the loins of your mind”? It means to exert purposeful governance over your mind, specifically:

- Examine your beliefs and rid yourself of beliefs that are erroneous and establish beliefs based on truth
- Control your thoughts and bring them into line with truth
- Govern your imagination, don’t let feelings control the imagination
- Process your emotions through your good judgment and make decisions based on truth, facts, principles, not on emotions

The lesson points out three elements that motivate Christian behavior:

1. God’s character—God is holy and we must be holy
2. Fear of God’s judgment, as the holy God He must judge unholiness
3. We have been bought with a price

What does it mean that God is holy? God is the source of all perfection, purity, righteousness, the very basis of life itself and thus God is the source of all healthiness. And those who are saved will be healed, perfected, restored to perfect harmony with God, thus we will be holy, i.e. healthy, as He is.

What do you think of the second motive, fearing God because He will judge wickedness?

Is fear a good motivator?

What do you understand God’s judgment to be? Is it God determining the outcome of each soul or God diagnosing accurately the condition of each person’s heart?

What determines if a person has a renewed healed heart or a heart hardened in selfishness? What did we read earlier?

Every individual, by his own act, either puts Christ from him by refusing to cherish His spirit and follow His example, or he enters into a personal union with Christ by self-renunciation, faith, and obedience.

So, is it God's judgment of us that determines our eternal destiny, or is it our judgment of God—whether we judge God someone we trust or distrust?

And God's eternal judgment then would simply be His accurate diagnosis of the true condition of each person's character, which has resulted from their choice to either trust Him or not.

What about the third one, because we have been bought with a price, how do you understand this language?

What is a mature and healthy way to understand it?

It cost God—Father, Son and Spirit—an infinite amount, beyond our comprehension, to fix the problem sin caused and provide us with the remedy which cures us.

What is an immature way of understanding it? Sin requires punishment and someone had to pay the price so God won't punish us. Jesus paid that price.

AUGUST 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

June 23,24, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be doing a seminar for the Samaritan Counseling Service in Sarasota FL. For more information www.samaritangulfcoast.com

First and Second Peter Lesson 3 2Q 2017

A Royal Priesthood

SABBATH

Read memory text: "But you are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, His own special people, that you may proclaim the praises of Him who called you out of darkness into His marvelous light" 1Pet 2:9 NKJV

What does it mean? Are "chosen generation," "royal priesthood," "holy nation," "special people" different groups, or descriptions of the same group?

Is this group of people determined by:

- genetics?
- geography?
- ethnicity?
- national citizenry?
- denomination?
- dress code?
- dietary habit?
- day of worship?
- a certain combination of the above?

What determines the makeup of this special people? Character—and what kind of character? Like Jesus and how do people obtain such character?

Consider this quote:

"But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people; that ye should show forth the praises of Him who hath called you out of darkness into His marvelous light." Christ has called you to be His followers, to imitate His life of self-sacrifice and self-denial, to be interested in the great work of the redemption of the fallen race...Christ is your pattern. That in which you are deficient is love. This pure and holy principle distinguishes the character and conduct of Christians from those of worldlings. Divine love has a powerful, purifying influence. It is to be found only in renewed hearts, and naturally flows out to their fellow men. {2T 169.2}

"Love one another," says our Saviour, "as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Christ has given us an example of pure, disinterested love... Without the spirit of love, no one can be like Christ. With this living principle in the soul, no one can be like the world. {2T 169.3}

Who is it that makes up this group? Those who are like Christ in character. And are there any end-time Bible texts that reference these same people?

Then the dragon was enraged at the woman and went off to make war against the rest of her offspring—those who obey God’s commandments and hold to the testimony of Jesus. Rev 12:17

What are the distinguishing features?

- Hold to the commandments—which means what?
 - That they worship on a certain day?
 - Can persons worship on a certain day and still not keep the commandments of God?
 - What is the requirement to be a commandment keeper? To keep the law of love, to have the law of love written on the heart!
 - Thus those who keep the commandments of God are those that live in harmony with God’s design principles of love!
- Hold to the testimony of Jesus—which means what?
 - They accept and share the same testimony Jesus gave about His Father—“if you’ve seen me you’ve seen the Father.”

What does it mean to be called out of darkness into His marvelous light?

What is the darkness? How would you describe it? What is the light?

Here is a powerful quote I came across preparing for this week’s lesson, from 5 Testimonies 738, see if you agree or disagree. This touches on what darkness is, what the light is:

From the beginning it has been Satan's studied plan to cause men to forget God, that he might secure them to himself. Hence he has sought to misrepresent the character of God, to lead men to cherish a false conception of Him. The Creator has been presented to their minds as clothed with the attributes of the prince of evil himself,—as arbitrary, severe, and unforgiving,—that He might be feared, shunned, and even hated by men. [What is Satan’s agenda? What method does he use? What does it mean to be arbitrary? What kind of law is arbitrary? So what teaching today represents God like this? Penal substitution theology is the theology based on arbitrary law and represents God as all of these.] Satan hoped to so confuse the minds of those whom he had deceived that they would put God out of their knowledge. [Has this happened? Has the arbitrary imposed law construct which infected Christianity resulted in philosophies that now dominate the world which teach there is no God? And then, when Satan gets people to reject God, what is his ultimate goal?] Then he would obliterate the divine image in man and impress his own likeness upon the soul; he would imbue men with his own spirit and make them captives according to his will. [Is this happening in the world? Is it happening in the lives of those who still claim a belief in God, but who, having rejected the truth about God, worship the dictator god?] {5T 738.1}

It was by falsifying the character of God and exciting distrust of Him that Satan tempted Eve to transgress. By sin the minds of our first parents were darkened, their natures were degraded, and their conceptions of God were molded by their own narrowness and selfishness. [How many religious people today still have a god molded after their own selfishness?] And as men became bolder in sin, the knowledge and the love of God faded from their minds and hearts. "Because that, when they knew God, they glorified Him not as God," they "became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened." {5T 738.2}

At times Satan's contest for the control of the human family appeared to be crowned with success. During the ages preceding the first advent of Christ the world seemed almost wholly under the sway of the prince of darkness, and he ruled with a terrible power as though through the sin of our first parents the kingdoms of the world had become his by right. [Sadly those who still hold to the imposed law concept within Christianity teach the earth did become Satan's legally, by right when Adam sinned. But this is not true. The earth is Christ's and Satan is a thief and usurper and claims that which is not his.] Even the covenant people, whom God had chosen to preserve in the world the knowledge of Himself, had so far departed from Him that they had lost all true conception of His character. {5T 738.3} [What were the covenant people to do? Preserve a knowledge of God—has that mission changed today, or is it the same?]

Christ came to reveal God to the world as a God of love, full of mercy, tenderness, and compassion. The thick darkness with which Satan had endeavored to enshroud the throne of Deity was swept away by the world's Redeemer, and the Father was again manifest to men as the light of life. {5T 738.4}

When Philip came to Jesus with the request, "Show us the Father, and it sufficeth us," the Saviour answered him: "Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known Me, Philip? he that hath seen Me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Show us the Father?" Christ declares Himself to be sent into the world as a representative of the Father. In His nobility of character, in His mercy and tender pity, in His love and goodness, He stands before us as the embodiment of divine perfection, the image of the invisible God. {5T 739.1}

What is the darkness? The lies about God, that God is like Satan in character and God's law is imposed making God the inflictor of punishments upon the disobedient.

And what is the light? That God is love, the source of life. God is not the source of death. God's law is design law, the protocols He built life to operate upon and death comes from breaking that design and God through Christ has been working to dispel the lies and restore His creation back into His design—unity, at-one-ment with Him.

SUNDAY

What does it mean to live as a Christian?

Read second and third paragraph, “Peter uses two separate...” So is Peter suggesting that when we become Christian we stop criticizing, faultfinding, gossiping, etc.?

Will we avoid making statements that deliberately damage another’s reputation? What about if it is true? If it is true then is it okay to say it?

Did Jesus reveal the sins of the people who brought the woman caught in adultery—or did He protect their reputation? Why? Because Jesus loved them and wanted them to love Him and let Him heal them.

Do we love others? If we love others, even if they are doing wrong do we want to broadcast it?

Consider this quote from 2 Testimonies 109, while it is specific to SDA denomination, think more broadly, could this occur in any denominational group:

I was shown that those who are trying to obey God and purify their souls through obedience to the truth are God's chosen people, His modern Israel. [What does this mean? Who can be part of this group?] God says of them, through Peter: "But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people; that ye should show forth the praises of Him who hath called you out of darkness into His marvelous light." As it was a crime for Amalek to take advantage of the children of Israel in their weakness and weariness, to annoy, perplex, and discourage them, so it was no small sin for you to be closely watching to discover the weakness, the haltings, the errors and sins of God's afflicted people, and expose the same to their enemies. You were doing Satan's work, not the work of God. Many of the Sabbathkeeping Adventists in ----- have been very weak. They have been miserable representatives of the truth. They have not been an honor to the cause of present truth, and the cause would have been better off without them. You have taken the unconsecrated lives of Sabbathkeepers as an excuse for your occupying a position of doubt and unbelief. It has also strengthened your unbelief to see that some of these unconsecrated ones were professing strong faith in the visions, vindicating them when opposed, and defending them with warmth, while, at the same time that they professed so much zeal, they were disregarding the teachings given through vision and were going directly contrary to them. In this respect they were stumbling blocks to Brother U, and were bringing the visions into disrepute by their course of action. {2T 109.1}

What do you hear is going on here? Can people join a denomination and not be converted? Can people claim to represent Christ in any church organization yet fail to apply Christ's principles to their lives and thus misrepresent Him?

Is it acceptable to look at the failings of people in the church as a cause for our lack of trust in God—i.e. our unbelief? Why or why not?

Our trust is not to be in people, but in God. The only person we are to look to in order to establish our trust in God is Jesus!

If we see people in the church failing to live as Christ would live, is it okay to broadcast to others their personal shortcomings?

Is the fact we are not to hurt others' reputations by pointing out their sins, the same as presenting the truth about God, which might conflict with someone else's teachings about God? What is the difference?

The second point Peter makes is the metaphor of a baby hungry for milk, meaning the true Christian not only avoids the negative but hungers for spiritual milk?

He tells them like newborn babes to crave spiritual milk—but why would Peter say this and Paul say that people should get off milk and onto meat, and those on milk are not acquainted with righteousness?

If you see what Peter is saying in verse 1 of chapter 2, he is dealing with people who have just been converted, thus they are newborn babes in Christ, so it is timely and appropriate for them to crave milk. However, it would be expected as they grow and mature to move past milk.

What is the core issue that will result in maturation, and continued spiritual growth? The true Christian develops a heart/mind attitude of loving truth and eager to grow in truth at the earliest possible moment.

In fact the wicked are lost because they did not love the truth and thus be saved or healed. We are not saved by right cognitive knowledge, but by a right trust relationship with God, which is based on the truth of who He is as revealed in Jesus.

And God is the God of truth and those who have come to know Him have developed character traits like His, one of which is a desire for truth. We also have a humility about ourselves and know that we are not all knowing and that we can and do have some things wrong, but are willing to give up our wrong ideas when the truth is persuasive.

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read 1Peter 2:4-8 and asks what crucial truth is Peter referring to here?

As you come to him, the living Stone—rejected by men but chosen by God and precious to him—⁵ you also, like living stones, are being built into a spiritual house to be a holy priesthood, offering spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. ⁶ For in Scripture it says: “See, I lay a stone in Zion, a chosen and precious cornerstone, and the one who trusts in him will never be put to shame.” ⁷ Now to you who believe, this stone is precious. But to those who do not believe, “The stone the builders rejected has become the capstone,” ⁸ and, “A stone that causes men to stumble and a rock that makes them fall.” They stumble because they disobey the message—which is also what they were destined for.

What is Peter teaching?

An easy one—who is the cornerstone? Jesus, of course.

But what is being referred to as living stones? What is being suggested?

What is the house for the Lord?

Read second paragraph, “Pete’s point is that even...” Is this spiritual house the same thing as the heavenly sanctuary or something different?

When you think of the cleansing of the sanctuary—what comes to mind?

Does history need to be cleansed from the facts of what transpired, the record of Satan’s rebellion in heaven, the lies told, the sins human beings have committed, or do sinners need to have their hearts and minds cleansed from sin—from lies and selfishness and restored to truth and love?

What is the danger of concluding the heavenly sanctuary is built out of inanimate matter rather than being built out of living beings?

What kind of theology does one teach if one believes the heavenly sanctuary is built of gold, silver, stone etc.?

How could such substances be contaminated? Can gold and silver and stone sin? Then, what might be taught if people thought concretely? Might some think up an idea that what contaminates the heavenly sanctuary is a record, written deeds of sins committed by people stored in archives? And if this is what contaminates then what is needed to cleanse? To remove the records of history from the books in the building in heaven, which leads to what kind of theology?

A legal theology, in which the problem is the broken rules, which get recorded in the books, and God, in such a theology, is the one keeping track, spying on our every move to keep an accurate record and God becomes the one who inflicts the punishment for those who haven't had their legal status changed.

And thus we create theologies to get legal pardon in order to get the record of the bad deed erased from the record books in heaven, so the building in heaven can be cleansed.

Does any of this sound just ridiculous? Well it is—it is all based on Satan's lie about God and God's law and built on a failure to see past metaphor to the reality which the metaphor was designed to teach.

Can anyone give a more accurate understanding of cleansing the sanctuary?

First, what is the heavenly sanctuary constructed out of? As Peter is telling us, living souls, we are the building blocks.

And what has contaminated the building blocks of this sanctuary? Sin in us. What needs to be cleansed? Our hearts and minds, our characters need to be renewed to be like Jesus.

When we experience conversion, get a new heart and right spirit, have the law written on the tablets of our hearts—does the history of our lives get changed? No! We get changed. Will the recorded history of the universe reveal the circumstances of our birth—that we were born in sin conceived in iniquity? The reality of our childhood, youth and adulthood—including all our sins and shortcomings? But will history also reveal, for the righteous, the acceptance of Jesus and the actual renewal of heart, mind and character to be like Christ—i.e. that we have been cleansed?

Are you comfortable with this conclusion, based on Scripture and sound reason, or do you struggle because of statements like this on in the book The Great Controversy:

As anciently the sins of the people were by faith placed upon the sin offering and through its blood transferred, in figure, to the earthly sanctuary, so in the new covenant the sins of the repentant are by faith placed upon Christ and transferred, in fact, to the heavenly sanctuary. And as the typical cleansing of the earthly was accomplished by the removal of the sins by which it had been polluted, so the actual cleansing of the heavenly is to be accomplished by the removal, or blotting out, of the sins which are there recorded. But before this can be accomplished, there must be an examination of the books of record to determine who, through repentance of sin and faith in Christ, are entitled to the benefits of His atonement. The cleansing of the sanctuary therefore involves a work of investigation—a work of judgment. This work must be performed prior to the coming of Christ to redeem His people; for when He comes, His reward is with Him to give to every man according to his works. Revelation 22:12. {GC 421.3}

Is this clear language or still symbolic language? Who doesn't know something that they need to investigate to discover—God and Jesus, or us sinful humans?

What do we believe the sanctuary is constructed out of? Living stones—people. Then what is the medium upon which the sins are recorded, and from which they need to be removed? Would it not be the individuality, the characters of the people who make up the sanctuary?

Do you hear that in this statement above, or does the statement above tempt you to think concretely and think in human imposed law trails with judges and pronouncements?

Sin is not primarily about deeds; it is about motive and character—what is actually stored in the sanctuary in heaven? The individualities/characters of all the saved. And what needs to be removed from all the saved? The infection of selfishness, the carnal propensities, the lies and distortions that we have believed.

Who removes this? How is it removed? So where is Christ working during this time before His second coming? In the hearts of His believers preparing them for His return. So, from the same author consider this in regard to what is recorded in heaven:

Remember, your character is being daguerreotyped [photographed] by the great Master Artist in the record books of heaven, as minutely as the face is reproduced upon the polished plate of the artist. What do the books of heaven say in your case? Are you conforming your character to the Pattern, Jesus Christ? Are you washing your robes of character and making them white in the blood of the Lamb? "Behold, I come quickly; and My reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work shall be" [Revelation 22:12]. . . . {TSB 62.1}

Every passing hour of the present is shaping our future life. These moments spent in carelessness, in self-pleasing, as if of no value, are deciding our everlasting destinies. The words we utter today will go on echoing when time shall be no more. The deeds done today are transferred to the books of heaven, just as the features are transferred by the artist onto the polished plate. They will determine our destiny for eternity, for bliss or eternal loss and agonizing remorse. Character cannot be changed when Christ comes, nor just as a man is about to die. Character building must be done in this life. We fear that repentance will come to the self-indulgent, tainted soul all too late. A few resolves, a few tears, will never reverse a guilty past life nor blot out of the books of heaven the transgressions, the willful, knowing sins of those who have had the precious light of truth, and can explain the Scriptures to others, while sin and iniquity are drunk up like stolen waters. As though written with an iron pen, they may be found lead in the rock forever. {TM 429.3}

Do you recognize when you read about cleansing the records in heaven, you are actually reading about cleansing the characters of the saved?

If those quotes are not enough then from the same author:

The first tabernacle, built according to God's directions, was indeed blessed of Him. The people thus were preparing themselves to worship in the temple not made with hands--a temple in the heavens. The stones of the Temple built by Solomon were all prepared at the quarry and then brought to the Temple site. They came together without the sound of ax or hammer. The timbers were also fitted in the forest. The furniture was likewise brought to this house all prepared for use. {3MR 231.3}

Even so, the mighty cleaver of truth has taken out a people from the quarry of the world and is fitting this people, who profess to be the children of God, for a place in His heavenly temple. We want the cleaver of truth to do its work for us. We are taken from the quarry of the world. The material must not be a dead substance but living souls, and these souls must be brought out of the quarry of the world, where the hand of God can fit them for the temple in heaven. We are here as probationers, and we must pass under the hand of God. All rough edges and rough surfaces must be removed and we must be stones fitted for the building. We are brought into church capacity with defects of character, but we must not retain them. We must be fitted and squared for the building. We must be "laborers together with God," for we are "God's husbandry," we are "God's building." In view of this we must see that our temple is not defiled with sin. We should be lively stones, not dead ones, but live ones that will reflect the image of Christ. We must be worshipers in spirit and in truth. {3MR 231.4}

The bottom pink section asks, "What does it mean to offer spiritual sacrifices?"

What do you think of this quote?

Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ. 1 Peter 2:5. {HP 281.1}

The church on earth is God's temple, and it is to assume divine proportions before the world. This building is to be the light of the world. It is to be composed of living stones laid close together, stone fitting to stone, making a solid building. All these stones are not of the same shape or dimension. Some are large and some are small, but each one has its own place to fill. In the whole building there is not to be one misshapen stone. Each one is perfect. And each stone is a living stone, a stone that emits light. The value of the stones is determined by the light they reflect to the world. {HP 281.2}

Now is the time for the stones to be taken from the quarry of the world and brought into God's workshop, to be hewed, squared, and polished, that they may shine. This is God's plan, and He desires all who profess to believe the truth to fill their respective places in the great, grand work for this time... {HP 281.3}

In this world we are to shine in good works. The Lord requires His people . . . to reflect the light of God's character, God's love, as Christ reflected it. As we look unto Jesus, all our lives will be aglow with that wondrous light. Every part of us is to be light; then whichever way we turn, light will be reflected from us to others. Christ is the way, the truth, and the life. In Him is no darkness at all; therefore, if we are in Christ, there will be no darkness in us. {HP 281.5}

The church on earth is to become the court of holy love. . . . Christian fellowship is one means by which character is formed. Thus selfishness is purged from the life, and men and women are drawn to Christ, the great center. Thus is answered His prayer that His followers may be one as He is one with the Father. {HP 281.6}

What is the plan? For renewal of Christlike love, character, God's original design, God's law into each and every one of us!

TUESDAY

Read first two paragraphs, "Peter is writing..." What is the covenant? Who are the covenant people?

Covenant is an agreement between two parties—how would you describe the covenant between God and man?

Are there many covenants that God has with man, or is there one overriding covenant, and under the umbrella of that overriding covenant God has made other situational covenants in the fulfillment of that one overriding covenant?

What is the overriding covenant and when was it made and with whom?

Overriding Covenant is God's promise to be true to Himself: God is love—and God will always be love, and He will never deviate from His methods of love—ever.

This covenant was given to all creation, but in the Bible we find it given in Eden when Adam and Eve were created and God gave them: Life, Liberty, Procreative Ability, Dominion, access to the Tree of Life, which means eternal life as long as they remain in harmony with Him and His design for life.

What are the lesser covenants?

Covenant of Grace: When man fell into sin, God being true to Himself and His methods of love, stepped in to provide remedy and rescue humankind from eternal death. This covenant was given to all humanity after the fall, when the seed of the woman was promised to crush the serpent's head.

Covenant to the post flood world: Covenant to never again destroy the entire world with a flood. Articulated to Noah, but given to all humanity post-flood.

Abrahamic Covenant: God's promise to fulfill His covenant of grace specifically through the family of Abraham, which was accomplished in Christ, and was the same covenant given to Adam of the seed crushing the serpent's head.

Mosaic Covenant: God's promise to be true to Himself and His design law and thus promised the people if they live in harmony with His design laws they will reap benefits, but if they don't they will reap suffering. And, if they choose to keep Him first in their hearts He will stay with them, but if they choose to reject Him, He will be true to Himself and give them what they have chosen.

Davidic Covenant: God's promise to fulfill His covenant of grace through a descendant of David, same promise given to Adam and later to Abraham, but now specifically a descendant of David.

New Covenant: which is the restating of what has been the same covenant of grace all along, that God, through Christ will eradicate the infection of sin and restore His perfect design (character of love) back into the hearts of all who trust Him.

Here is a quote from EGW:

As the Bible presents two laws, one changeless and eternal, the other provisional and temporary, so there are two covenants. The covenant of grace was first made with man in Eden, when after the Fall, there was given a divine promise that the seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head. To all men this covenant offered pardon, and the assisting grace of God for future obedience through faith in Christ. It also promised them eternal life on condition of fidelity to God's law. Thus the patriarchs received the hope of salvation. {FLB 77.2}

This same covenant was renewed to Abraham in the promise, "In thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed." Genesis 22:18. This promise pointed to Christ. So Abraham understood it, and he trusted in Christ for the forgiveness of sins. It was this faith that was accounted unto him for righteousness. . . . {FLB 77.3}

The Abrahamic covenant was ratified by the blood of Christ, and it is called the "second," or "new," covenant, because the blood by which it was sealed was shed after the blood of the first covenant. {FLB 77.4}

The covenant of grace is not a new truth, for it existed in the mind of God from all eternity. This is why it is called the everlasting covenant. {FLB 77.5}

WEDNESDAY

What was the role of the priest in the OT sanctuary service?

What was symbolized?

How does it apply to reality?

Who are the priests today and what is our responsibility?

Read third paragraph, “Spiritual house, chosen generation...” Who are the descendants of Abraham?

Were the promises to Abraham ever promises made based on genetics, or were they based on something else?

What were they based upon? Character, those who trust like Abraham trusted are heirs to the promises.

Any Biblical evidence that it was based on character, those who, in a trust relationship with God overcome sinfulness in their life?

Jacob and Esau—what is the genetic inheritance? Esau, but why was Jacob chosen for the promises? What happened in his life?

He was a deceiver, driven by selfishness, always seeking to get ahead for himself, which is a right representation of the carnal heart, at enmity to God. Yet, he wrestled with the angel, which was Christ, and it wasn't that he wrestled against the angel, Jacob was wrestling against self, against his fear, insecurity, own need to be in control, on self-sufficiency; he was wrestling to surrender all of it to God. And he finally did, and when he finally overcame the drive to survive and surrendered his life to God, his name was changed from Jacob/deceiver to Israel, one who with God overcomes.

This is evidence of who is Abraham's true descendant, not based on genetics, but based on trusting God sufficiently to overcome self and receive a new heart and right spirit within.

THURSDAY

Read third paragraph, “Ancient Israel...” What obstructed ancient Israel from fulfilling its mission?

- Egocentrism?
- Nationalism?
- Prejudice and racism?
- Baal worship—which is what? Accepting the lie that God's law is imposed and God functions as the imposer of penalties and must be appeased.

- Sensualism and hedonism

Do we struggle with any of these issues today as Christians?

The Bible calls us to be separate from the world—what does this mean? Does it mean live in monasteries? Or become like the Stylites? How are we to be in the world but not of it?

What about pledging allegiance to a national flag? Do you think early Christians pledged allegiance to Rome? Is it because the Roman emperors claimed to be a god? Or did they have other reasons?

First and Second Peter Lesson 4 2Q 2017

Social Relationships

SABBATH

Read Memory Text: “Above all things have fervent love for one another, for ‘love will cover a multitude of sins.’” (1Peter 4:8 NKJV)

What does this mean? Love covers a multitude of sins? Does it mean:

- cover over
- cover up
- cover for
- To hide
- to erase from memory
- to purge from court documents
- to not hold accountable
- to remit punishment
- to legally pardon

What does it mean love will cover a multitude of sins?

What is sin? What is the problem sin caused that the plan of salvation is designed to fix?

At its root what is sin? Lies and selfishness, which are the opposite of truth and love.

What do lies and selfishness cause or result in? Rebellion—from what? From how God constructed reality to operate.

What does love do to selfishness?

When Jesus loved those who persecuted Him—did their selfishness, their evil, their sin become more difficult or easier to see?

Did Jesus’ love for them cover up, cover over, erase, eliminate, hide, or in any other way obscure their sin?

Or did Jesus’ love make their sin more easily seen?

When Stephen was being stoned and he responded with love, did his loving response cover over selfishness and sinfulness of his persecutors? Did it make their sin more difficult to see or easier to see?

So, does love hide, obscure, cover over, make sin more difficult to see or make the contrast easier?

Any idea that love erases facts, obscures history, purges record books, is false. Jesus said:

For there is nothing hidden that will not be disclosed, and nothing concealed that will not be known or brought out into the open. Lk 8:17

So, what does it mean that love covers a multitude of sins? What does love actually do to sin?

Our memory text from The Remedy:

Above everything, love each other completely, because love destroys sinfulness.

When God writes His law on our hearts and minds—what is actually happening?

Is the law written on our hearts the law of love, the design protocol of God's own nature and character? And when this happens, what happens to the motives of selfishness? Are they being purged, erased, destroyed from where? Out of the character! Sinfulness in the soul being destroyed, and what is doing it? Truth and love!

Here are a couple of quotes, what do you think—agree or disagree?

The law of God is an expression of His very nature; it is an embodiment of the great principle of love, and hence is the foundation of His government in heaven and earth. If our hearts are renewed in the likeness of God, if the divine love is implanted in the soul, will not the law of God be carried out in the life? When the principle of love is implanted in the heart, when man is renewed after the image of Him that created him, the new-covenant promise is fulfilled, "I will put My laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them." Hebrews 10:16. And if the law is written in the heart, will it not shape the life? Obedience--the service and allegiance of love--is the true sign of discipleship. {SC 60.2}

"Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." [take away sin, or take away punishment for sin? And from where is sin taken away, the record books or the character? Does He take away the record of sin or the sinfulness itself?] By beholding Him, we may be changed into His image. [Where is the purifying happening? In people!] The promise has been made, "I will put My laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them." Through disobedience man forfeited holiness, accepting in its place the principles of unrighteousness. [In its place—where? Where is the place from which the principles of holiness were lost and unrighteousness was put? The hearts and minds of people! What metaphor describes the rewriting of God's law into the heart? The cleansing of the sanctuary.] But by breaking the yoke that Satan has fastened upon him, and taking the yoke of Christ, learning of Him His meekness and lowliness, man is created anew. Christ has promised to write in the heart of every repentant sinner His law, which is holy, just, and good. He promises to renovate the soul, through the medium of truth. He diffuses His own life through the entire being. Thus the sinner is born again, and henceforth, in a life of loving service, he is to work out the grand, ennobling principles that he can take with him into the heavenly courts. There is placed upon him a new mould of character, which the world knows not, but which all must receive who obtain entrance into the courts above. {ST, June 28, 1905 par. 6}

Only the covering which Christ Himself has provided can make us meet to appear in God's presence. This covering, the robe of His own righteousness, Christ will put upon every repenting, believing soul... {COL 311.3}

This robe, woven in the loom of heaven, has in it not one thread of human devising. Christ in His humanity wrought out a perfect character, and this character He offers to impart to us... When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged in His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness. Then as the Lord looks upon us He sees, not the fig-leaf garment, not the nakedness and deformity of sin, but His own robe of righteousness, which is perfect obedience to the law of Jehovah. {COL 311.4}

What does it mean that love covers a multitude of sins? I think it means that love destroys sinfulness out of the hearts and minds of those who trust God!

Read first paragraph, "Peter's letter also tackles..." How should Christians live with oppressive and corrupt governments?

Should we identify our own selves with the governments of the world? Should we be proud to be a citizen of an earthly government, or should we be proud our citizenship is in heaven?

Is there a difference in being a law abiding, tax-paying, good neighbor and citizen, and identifying yourself with your nation?

SUNDAY

The lesson is about the relationship between church and state.

The lesson points out that Bible writers encouraged the Christians to obey the laws of the human governments, thoughts?

Read second paragraph, "In some cases, it's pretty obvious..." The lesson is suggesting that when the case arises in which the choice is either obey the laws of human governments or the laws of God, we must choose the laws of God.

Do you agree?

Is this always clear or are there many areas of gray and personal interpretation? Is this one of those areas where “every person must be fully persuaded in their own mind?”

Consider the following possibilities:

- God’s command: Thou shall not kill—what about:
 - A police officer carrying a weapon, and using it to kill a criminal?
 - A soldier in war? Desmond Doss took a particular stand on that one, do all Christians come to the same conclusion as Desmond?
 - Participating in executing a convicted criminal? The medical profession has found it unethical for physicians to participate in executing people, should Christians have less standards than doctors?
 - Euthanasia? Should we assist people with terminal conditions in ending their own lives?
 - Abortion—while many Christians believe abortion is murder, some Christians do not believe abortion is murder—do we allow each person to be persuaded in their own mind, or do we seek to force our beliefs on others?
- Marriage—God’s design in Eden was one man and one woman—what about:
 - polygamy? Do we find Bible writers admonishing an end to polygamy?
 - What of more modern societies?
 - What about same sex marriages—should we obey the laws of the land and leave people free to engage in same sex marriage, or should we disobey the law and seek to obstruct them?
- Slavery—God’s design is for human freedom
 - Did Bible writers advise slaves to leave their masters?
 - In the OT God built into the Hebrew system the legal freeing of slaves ever 49 years. But why didn’t God just outlaw slavery rather than limiting how long one could be a slave? Do we ever find Bible directions that outlaw slavery?
 - FRIDAY’s lesson read the first paragraph, “Ellen G. White advocated...”
 - Did the Bible writers take the same position that EGW took on slavery?
 - Was EGW right or wrong in her position? I
 - s EGW to be taken over the Bible?
 - Why the difference in counsel between EGW and the Bible on the issue of slavery?
 - Was there some aspect of culture that was different? What?
 - If all slaves were set free in first century Rome, what would have been a likely result? Greater order, or disorder, anarchy, crime, starvation, etc. etc. Would the condition of many of the slaves been worse in that day had they suddenly all been set free?

- What would have happened to the gospel and the message of Christ had the Christians began advocating for changes in social order rather than changes in the hearts of people?
- Was Christianity well established in the 19th century, but just emerging in the first? Does this play a role in the different attitude?

What are your thoughts on the relationship between the church and state?

Do you think the church can achieve God's purposes by working through the state institutions? Why or why not?

What methods to states always use? They always use coercion. Can God achieve His goal of changing hearts by the use of coercion? No! Coercion will never work to transform hearts—only love truth in freedom!

Can we run sinful human governments with God's methods—why or why not?

What are God's methods? Truth, love and freedom—which have their primary impact where? And what do they result in? They have their impact on the heart to win to trust and transform the person back to God's design for life. Thus God's methods change people—putting them into harmony with God so they can live in His unveiled presence.

Will truth, love, freedom, without coercive pressure, work in a world populated by people who have rejected truth, who have solidified their hearts in selfishness and are operating on fear and survival mode? Why or why not?

What happens in a sinful world without coercive law enforcement? When law enforcement breaks down—the aftermath of Katrina—what happened? Why does this happen?

So, is the Bible saying that God permits earthly governments to arise in order to provide restraint on evil humans who have rejected the principles of love, truth and freedom, in order to create order and atmospheres where the gospel can be shared and people set free from sinfulness?

Does this mean that God endorses the governments of the earth?

TUESDAY

Read 1Peter 3:1-7:

Wives, in the same way be submissive to your husbands so that, if any of them do not believe the word, they may be won over without words by the behavior of their wives, ² when they see the purity and reverence of your lives. ³ Your beauty should not come from outward adornment, such as braided hair and the wearing of gold jewelry and fine clothes. ⁴ Instead, it should be that of your inner self, the unfading beauty of a gentle and quiet spirit, which is of great worth in God's sight. ⁵ For this is the way the holy women of the past who put their hope in God used to make themselves beautiful. They were submissive to their own husbands, ⁶ like Sarah, who obeyed Abraham and called him her master. You are her daughters if you do what is right and do not give way to fear.

⁷ Husbands, in the same way be considerate as you live with your wives, and treat them with respect as the weaker partner and as heirs with you of the gracious gift of life, so that nothing will hinder your prayers.

The lesson asks "How is what is said relevant to marriage in today's society?"

Do we ever hear, in Christianity, about wives submitting to their husbands? What does this mean?

What is Peter's focus here? Is Peter's concern to establish hierarchical command structure within the family? Is Peter's concern to define lines of authority? In Peter's day, was there already an accepted hierarchy within families—pagan, Jew and Christian?

What was the accepted hierarchy across all groups in Peter's day? Husband's ruled in their homes—wives were subservient.

So, is Peter establishing or in any other way commenting about the lines of authority within the home, or is Peter's focus on something entirely different?

What is Peter's focus? Is it not on the salvation of husband and wife? Is it not on the healing of the inner persons from sinfulness and bringing both members to conversion, which leads both to experience the marriage relationship as God originally intended, mutual other-centered love and self-sacrifice!

From The Remedy:

In the same way, wives, by your conduct, actively seek to reveal God's true character to your husbands, so that even if they don't believe the Scriptures, they may be won over by your humble, loving service² when they see genuine, selfless love in action.³ The beauty that emanates from God cannot be revealed in outward trappings such as hairstyle, jewelry or designer clothes, so don't get tricked into making your external appearance your main concern.⁴ Instead, real, godly beauty is found in a heart, mind and character that has been healed to be like Christ's—gentle and loving—and is of the highest worth in God's sight.⁵ This is how the holy women of the past, who trusted God, made themselves beautiful: they lovingly sought the godly best for their husbands,⁶ like Sarah, who graciously supported Abraham and called him "my hero and leader." You are truly heirs of Sarah if you give of yourself in love to build up your husband, and not give into fear and selfishness.

⁷If you are a husband, then be sure to always consider the needs of your wife and treat her with love, sacrificing yourselves for her good. Respect her as the weaker partner, but remember her equality to you as an heir of God's gracious gift of life. Do this so that you may experience the unity of love, and nothing will then interfere with your conversations with God.

Is this how you have most commonly heard Peter's words? What has prevented this focus from coming to the forefront? Could it be the acceptance of the imposed law lens with its focus on rules, rather than understanding God's design?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Paul addresses some..." What does it mean rulers are appointed by God? Does it mean that God chooses every ruler?

Was Nero chosen by God? Was Hitler chosen by God? When the little horn power arises and wars against God and against God's people, is God the one who set up that power? Or does the Bible say that this power gets its authority from the dragon? So did God set up this little horn power?

Even in ancient Israel, were all kings set up by God?

But Israel has rejected what is good;
an enemy will pursue him.

⁴ They set up kings without my consent;
they choose princes without my approval.
With their silver and gold they make idols for themselves to their own destruction. Hosea 8:3,4

Even in ancient Israel God did not set up all kings.

So, does God appoint all rulers or set up all governors or governments? No!

Then how do they get into power? What is God's role? God permits people to set up their governments, under the umbrella of His rule, which is liberty, and then reap the consequences.

The closing years of the ill-fated kingdom of Israel were marked with violence and bloodshed such as had never been witnessed even in the worst periods of strife and unrest under the house of Ahab. For two centuries and more the rulers of the ten tribes had been sowing the wind; now they were reaping the whirlwind. King after king was assassinated to make way for others ambitious to rule. "They have set up kings," the Lord declared of these godless usurpers, "but not by Me: they have made princes, and I knew it not." Hosea 8:4. Every principle of justice was set aside; those who should have stood before the nations of earth as the depositories of divine grace, "dealt treacherously against the Lord" and with one another.

Hosea 5:7. {PK 279.1}

Do we do God a disservice by teaching that all kingdoms are set up by God?

What is the Christian response to rulers, governments that operate out of harmony with God's principles?

Should the church use its energy to try and reform governments?

Which government abused human rights more—today's US government or Rome at the time of Christ and the first century?

Did Christ, or any of the Apostles, seek to change the government of Rome? Did they petition for a new governor in Palestine? Did they seek to get new senators in the Roman senate? Did they advocate for changing the laws of Rome?

Where did Christ and the Apostles focus their energy? On changing the hearts of people—why? Because when people love each other how do they behave?

In our society today do we see love?

When we love someone who disagrees with us, how do we treat them?

Do we see in society today people treating those who disagree with them with kindness, respect, tolerance, a willingness to listen and try to understand? Do we see those who disagree giving opponents the benefit of the doubt, interpreting their words in the most gracious light, or instead instantly putting the worst possible interpretation upon them?

What is the greatest problem in society today? Is it not the lack of love for each other?

THURSDAY

Read last paragraph, "Peter was not being..." What is the principle being espoused? To seek to live in harmony with God's design and apply God's principles in our actions, which would mean seeking to bless and help others.

Could two people, who both have concern for others in their hearts, seek to implement governmental policies that are opposed to each other?

For instance, could one person seeing poverty and wanting to help those without food, shelter, education, suggest a program which provides money for those individuals to spend to purchase food, clothing shelter etc.?

Could another person, equally concerned, suggest a program that provides work, job training, employment but ties the money to work?

Could the two people end up fighting, yet both initially have the same goal?

What ends up complicating such altruistic actions being implemented through human governments? The inevitable involvement of people who are not converted to love others and who will exploit the system for selfish gain.

FRIDAY

Read and discuss question

#1 “Should Christians never stand up for their rights? As you do, consider this question, as well: Just what are our rights?”

Why did Jesus say turn the other cheek when struck unjustly? Why did Jesus say if someone takes your coat give them your shirt as well? What was Jesus trying to teach?

How do we overcome selfishness? Can we overcome selfishness by acting selfish? Can we drive out sickness with disease?

“Darkness cannot drive out darkness: only light can do that. Hate cannot drive out hate: only love can do that.”—Martin Luther King Jr., Strength to Love (1963)

Question #2: “What are examples in which the impact of Christians on society has been a powerful force in changing society for good?”

- Charitable organizations (Red Cross, Salvation Army, Samaritan Center etc.)
- The constitution of the USA, liberty of conscience, separation of church and state
- End to slavery
- Health, wellness and anti-addiction programs
- Justice systems that seen genuine fairness
- Movements that seek equality of all human beings
- Others?

Question #3: “What are examples in which Christians, instead of helping change the ills of society, acquiesced to those ills and even helped justify them?”

- Inquisition—unjust

- Crusades and wars (Rwanda, Nazi Germany)
- Intolerance of beliefs
- Promoting the Divine right of Kings
- Subjugation of women
- Seeking to control the state to advance the gospel

First and Second Peter Lesson 6 2Q 2017

Suffering for Christ

SABBATH

Read Memory Text: “For to this you were called, because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that you should follow His steps.” 1Pet 2:21

What does it mean that we were called to suffer? Why?

It says because Christ suffered for us—why did Christ suffer for us?

What was the cause of Christ’s suffering?

Were any of the following the cause Christ’s sufferings:

- Physical mistreatment and abuse?
- Failure of people to recognize and respond to truth?
- Seeing His creation ravaged by sin?
- Rejection by people—especially those claiming to be His followers?
- Rejection and abandonment by His disciples?
- Betrayal by Judas?
- Going without food in the desert, physical fatigue and exhaustion?
- The human condition that He assumed and came to cure?
- The separation He felt from His Father during crucifixion weekend?
- The fear of dying and the agony and temptation to stop death from taking Him?
- The fear He might never rise again?

Can we categorize the various types of suffering?

First, all suffering only happens because sin exists in the world, yet is all suffering due to some act of sin by the one suffering? No!

So what categories can we break suffering into?

- Suffering of righteous people who are being attacked by unrighteous forces, whether people or demonic agencies.
 - This is what Peter is referring to in our memory text—being mistreated by people
 - Jesus suffering this way, as have many righteous people throughout history
 - Why did Jesus say when this happens we should turn the other cheek?
 - When is it proper not to turn the other cheek but to act to prevent the attack?
 - Parents whose children are trying to hit them—why is it better to intervene to stop the child? Because love seeks what is best, and it is greater love to - discipline the child to prevent the formation of such unruly character traits. Note the act to intervene here is obviously not an act to retaliate, to destroy, to injure, but to protect the child and promote healthy development.

- Psychotic patient who is seeking to hit you—why is it better to intervene to stop them? Because they are incapable of comprehending right from wrong and need protection from themselves and the witness of love would do them no good. Note the act to intervene here is obviously not an act of vengeance, retaliation, or to destroy, but to restore to mental wellness.
 - So, when does Jesus' directive apply? When the action of turning the other cheek exposes the evil of unjust violence and exploitation and serves to promote the principles of love and respect for all human beings. The non-Christian Gandhi perhaps demonstrated this principle most effectively on a societal basis.
- Suffering that occurs because of disease and decay in nature
 - disease, aging, poisons, toxins, accidents, injuries
 - Suffering that occurs because of sin destroying that which we love
 - see animals suffer
 - see loved ones rebel and destroy themselves in unhealthy living
 - Suffering that occurs because of our carnal nature tempting us and God's healing solution being applied?
 - Therefore, since Christ suffered in his body, arm yourselves also with the same attitude, because he who has suffered in his body is done with sin. 1Pet 4:1
 - What does this mean?

What caused Christ the greatest suffering?

He went a little distance from them--not so far but that they could both see and hear Him--and fell prostrate upon the ground. He felt that by sin He was being separated from His Father. The gulf was so broad, so black, so deep, that His spirit shuddered before it. This agony He must not exert His divine power to escape. As man He must suffer the consequences of man's sin. As man He must endure the wrath of God against transgression. {DA 686.3}

Again the Son of God was seized with superhuman agony, and fainting and exhausted, He staggered back to the place of His former struggle. His suffering was even greater than before. As the agony of soul came upon Him, "His sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground." The cypress and palm trees were the silent witnesses of His anguish. From their leafy branches dropped heavy dew upon His stricken form, as if nature wept over its Author wrestling alone with the powers of darkness. {DA 689.3}

...a light shone forth amid the stormy darkness of the crisis hour, and the mighty angel who stands in God's presence, occupying the position from which Satan fell, came to the side of Christ. The angel came not to take the cup from Christ's hand, but to strengthen Him to drink it, with the assurance of the Father's love. He came to give power to the divine-human suppliant. He pointed Him to the open heavens, telling Him of the souls that would be saved as the result of His sufferings. He assured Him that His Father is greater and more powerful than Satan, that His death would result in the utter discomfiture of Satan, and that the kingdom of this world would be given to the saints of the Most High. He told Him that He would see of the travail of His soul, and be satisfied, for He would see a multitude of the human race saved, eternally saved. {DA 693.3}

Christ's agony did not cease, but His depression and discouragement left Him. The storm had in nowise abated, but He who was its object was strengthened to meet its fury. He came forth calm and serene. A heavenly peace rested upon His bloodstained face. He had borne that which no human being could ever bear; for He had tasted the sufferings of death for every man. {DA 694.1}

Why did Christ experience it?

- He experienced the agony of being disconnected from God the source of love, life, and truth
- He experienced the full weight of what the carnal nature does—it tempts with fear and selfishness and Christ's humanity felt this terrible fear and agony

Why didn't Christ put a stop to it?

- If Christ's uses His divine power to stop death from taking Him, who does He save? Self, this would be exactly what Satan would like, for Christ to use His power in self-interest. Satan claims that love is not real and that God is selfish, thus God's character would have been undermined and misrepresented had Christ chosen to save Himself.
- Second, the infection of selfishness in the heart/mind of humanity would not be overcome and a new human character/nature would not have been developed if Christ chose to save Himself

The foe who in the wilderness had confronted Christ assailed Him now with fierce and subtle temptations. Had Jesus yielded for a moment, had He changed His course in the least particular to save Himself, Satan's agencies would have triumphed, and the world would have been lost. {DA 486.1}

If Jesus suffered in our place why do we have to suffer?

Once there is brokenness there are no pain-free options! If you have a broken leg and do nothing you don't avoid pain, and you have permanent disability. If you go to the orthopedic surgeon, get a pin, and then physical therapy there is pain, but the process leads to healing, resolution of pain and restoration of function. But, there are no pain free options.

Is it any different for humanity broken by sin?

Christ achieved the Remedy to sin that no other human could achieve, however, that Remedy still must be applied into the lives of every person who is saved. The application of that Remedy results in suffering when love confronts selfishness, when truth confronts the lies we have cherished, when destructive habits are resisted and overcome by the presence of God's indwelling Spirit.

We will all suffer because we are all damaged by sin—the only question is will our suffering be in harmony with God's healing plan, which leads to restoration and eventual freedom from all suffering, or not?

SUNDAY

The lesson is about the first couple of centuries after Christ and the persecution of Christians by the various civil governments. What is your understanding of why this happened?

Were Christians being persecuted because they were inciting rebellion, like the Jews who constantly sought to overthrow the Romans and which led to the destruction of Jerusalem in AD 70?

Were Christians carrying out acts of terrorism?

Were Christians desecrating pagan worship centers and painting graffiti on Roman statues?

Were Christians calling for boycotts of Roman businesses?

What were Christians doing? They were preaching Christ—and in an empire with many gods—12 primary gods: Jupiter, Juno, Mars, Venus, Minerva, Neptune, Ceres, Vulcan, Diana, Bacchus, Mercury, Vesta, and minor household spirits that were worshipped, who the Romans believed protected each home and later other gods such as Isis, Pan and Mithras came to be worshipped.

So in a culture with so many gods, why were Christians persecuted for adding another God to the mix?

Because there is a Great Controversy between God and Satan and there are only two versions of God—the truth of God who is love as Jesus revealed, who is Creator and whose laws are design laws, and gods who function like Satan alleges, with Satan's characteristics, like sinful beings. And how do sinful beings govern? Impose rules that require punishment and/or some form of payment or appeasement.

Christianity presented a God that stood in marked contrast to all the other gods in the world—a God who was not merely powerful, but who was selfless love and whose laws were design laws! This, Satan could not allow—so Satan inspired his followers to try and eliminate the knowledge of the true God.

Jesus said those living in darkness don't want to come into the light lest their evil deeds be exposed. Love and truth is offensive to those operating on lies and selfishness.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph “When Peter says...” What is the blessing we received when we suffer for righteousness sake?

How do we overcome selfishness? Can we overcome selfishness by acting selfish? Can we drive out sickness with disease?

“Darkness cannot drive out darkness: only light can do that. Hate cannot drive out hate: only love can do that.”—Martin Luther King Jr., Strength to Love (1963)

Why should Christians not fear those who are attacking them?

What can prevent Christians from being afraid? Three elements I have thus far identified overcome fear:

- Love
 - Perfect love casts out all fear—what is the truth here and how does it help us overcome fear?
 - Neurobiologically when our love circuits fire our fear circuits calm.
 - In your life when you are acting in love toward others, what happens to your fear?
 - Do we see evidence of this in the death of Stephen and the martyrs?
 - Christian de Chergé, was a French Catholic monk and the Trappist prior of the Tibhirine monastery in Algeria, and in 1993, with the rise of radical Islam, Father Chergé knew that his life was in danger. But rather than leave Algeria, Father Chergé chose to stay and continue his witness to the love of Jesus Christ. On May 24, 1996, Father Chergé was beheaded by Muslim radicals. Anticipating his death, Father Chergé had left a testament with his family to be read upon the event of his murder. The testament reads in part:

If it should happen one day—and it could be today—that I become a victim of the terrorism which now seems ready to encompass all the foreigners living in Algeria, I would like my community, my Church, my family, to remember that my life was given to God and to this country. I ask them to accept that the One Master of all life was not a stranger to this brutal departure. I ask them to pray for me: for how could I be found worthy of such an offering? I ask them to be able to associate such a death with the many other deaths that were just as violent, but forgotten through indifference and anonymity.

I should like, when the time comes, to have a clear space which would allow me to beg forgiveness of God and of all my fellow human beings, and at the same time to forgive with all my heart the one who would strike me down. . . .

My death, clearly, will appear to justify those who hastily judged me as naïve or idealistic: “Let him tell us now what he thinks of it.” But these people must realize that my most avid curiosity will then be satisfied. This is what I shall be able to do, if God wills—immerse my gaze in that of the Father, to contemplate with him his children of Islam just as he sees them, all shining with the glory of Christ, the fruit of his Passion, filled with the Gift of the Spirit, whose secret joy will always be to establish communion and to refashion the likeness, delighting in the differences.

For this life given up, totally mine and totally theirs, I thank God and you also, the friend of my final moment, who would not be aware of what you were doing. Yes, for you also I wish this “thank you”—and this “adieu”—to commend you to the God whose face I see in yours. And may we find each other, happy “good thieves,” in Paradise, if it pleases God, the Father of us both. Amen¹

- One factor which enables us to overcome fear is love.
- Where do we find such love?
- How do we experience it?
- What prevents us from experiencing such love?
- Truth
 - First truth is the truth about God—do you know Him for who He is such that you genuinely trust Him—with your wealth, life, family, future? Do we believe God really has our best interest at heart? Or is our view of God one that many of my patients have when they ask:
 - Why did God take my child in a car accident?
 - Why did God give my child cancer?
 - Why didn’t God prevent my husband from cheating?
 - Why did God give me bipolar?
 - If we believe God does such things can we truly trust Him?
 - What kind of emotions do such beliefs cause? Fear and what does fear cause us to do? Watch out for self—which is the opposite of love!
 - What did Jesus mean when He said: “Do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. Rather, be afraid of the One who can destroy both soul and body in hell.” Mt 10:28
 - What is the truth here and how can this reduce fear?
 - By realizing that our individuality, our personhood, our software, cannot be corrupted by others, and if we trust God while our bodies can be destroyed our individualities are safe with Christ in heaven
- Purpose—the third element that protects against fear
 - If we understand our suffering serves a purpose, does it help us endure it?

¹ Christian de Chergé, “Last Testament,” Eternal Word Television Network, <http://www.ewtn.com/library/MARY/LASTTEST.HTM>.

- Did you hear in the Desire of Ages quotation above what that author describes that the angel of heaven did who came to Christ in Gethsemane? The angel pointed Christ to the purpose of His suffering, what it would accomplish, which further invigorated His love for us!
- Does our suffering for righteousness serve a purpose?
- If you knew your suffering would be useful in protecting someone you love, would that help give your courage?
- In my book, The God-Shaped Brain, I write about a patient dying of esophageal cancer and his struggles to understand why he wasn't healed, despite prayer for healing. He came to understand God did not cause the cancer, but allowed it for a higher purpose. through his dying process as he continued to demonstrate trust in God, experience peace, showed love and kindness toward others, and wasn't afraid—he saw his two siblings give their heart to God. He died, but he died with the comfort that not only would he rise again, but his brother and sister would be in eternity with him.

The third paragraph states, “Clearly there is no merit in suffering for being a wrongdoer.”

What is meant by “merit”? Do they mean benefit, there is no benefit in suffering for wrongdoing? Or do they mean something else?

Is there a disciplinary benefit in suffering for wrongdoing? In other words, can the suffering of wrong doing work to lead someone to reevaluate their actions? Did the prodigal son find himself suffering as a result of wrong doing? Did his suffering lead him to go home?

When people suffering for wrongdoing, while they might learn something and change their ways, when such suffering is imposed by law enforcement, rather than the natural results of sin, such suffering actually perpetuates the lie that God's government works this way.

Do the lesson authors mean that merit is a benefit for the advancement of God's kingdom, for the healing from sin?

What is the benefit to God's kingdom when we suffering for right-doing?

The revelation of truth which advances the knowledge of God and helps promote the methods and principles of God to those who don't already know them.

Additionally, those who suffering for doing right experience further healing, solidification, transformation of their character as they choose the right and reject the wrong.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “In all these passages...” When you hear the concept of judgment what comes to mind? To you think through judicial or medical lenses? Do you think through imposed law or design law?

What is judgment through judicial lens? It is a legal process, focused on behavior, the dos and don'ts and ultimately resulting in the judge making a ruling which determines the fate of the one being judged.

Through design law—what do we realize?

First, who is the one who is the focus of the judgment? Who is the one who was lied about in the beginning? What was the cause of the spread of sin in the universe? What did Satan do to get 1/3 of the angels and later humanity to fall?

What did Paul mean when he wrote:

God must be true, even though every human being is a liar. As the scripture says, “You must be shown to be right when you speak; you must win your case when you are being tried.” Rom 3:4

What is the first message of the 3 angels of Revelation 14?

“Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water.”

The hour of whose judgment has come? The hour in which God can be seen in His true light and people, who have had their minds shrouded in the grossest darkness about God can make a right judgment about Him and finally worship Him who made the heavens, earth, and sea. It is a call to worship the designer and reject the dictator views of God.

So, why does judgment start with the house of God? Because God's people are the first to recognize the truth about Him and reject the lies of Satan and then go out and tell others!

What about the idea of standing before God, i.e. the Great White Throne judgment?

What is judgment through the medical lens? The accurate diagnosis of the condition of the one being examined, and then the medical judgment of what is the appropriate treatment to resolve, heal and thus save the one who has been diagnosed.

When you think of God acting as judge which view do you choose and why? Which is most accurate with Scripture? Which is more consistent with design law and how reality works?

In the second paragraph it states, “Sin has brought evil into the world, and God’s people throughout the ages have long waited for God to make things right again.”

What does it mean for God to make things right? What is another work for making things right, or doing what is right? Justice!

Is making things right, justice, the same as inflicting pain and suffering upon those who persist in sin and refuse salvation?

What about Bible texts that speak of vengeance being God’s?

- Therefore the Lord, the Lord Almighty, the Mighty One of Israel, declares: “Ah, I will get relief from my foes and avenge myself on my enemies. ²⁵ I will turn my hand against you; I will thoroughly purge away your dross and remove all your impurities. Isaiah 1:24,25
- Strengthen the feeble hands, steady the knees that give way; ⁴ say to those with fearful hearts, “Be strong, do not fear; your God will come, he will come with vengeance; with divine retribution he will come to save you.” ⁵ Then will the eyes of the blind be opened and the ears of the deaf unstopped. ⁶ Then will the lame leap like a deer, and the mute tongue shout for joy. Water will gush forth in the wilderness and streams in the desert. Isa 35:3-6
- The Spirit of the Sovereign Lord is on me, because the Lord has anointed me to preach good news to the poor. He has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim freedom for the captives and release from darkness for the prisoners, ² to proclaim the year of the Lord’s favor and the day of vengeance of our God, to comfort all who mourn, ³ and provide for those who grieve in Zion— to bestow on them a crown of beauty instead of ashes, the oil of gladness instead of mourning, and a garment of praise instead of a spirit of despair. Isa 61:1-3

What is God’s vengeance? It is God taking vengeance on sin, NOT SINNERS, by destroying all deviations from His design and thereby healing all who let Him!

Is this right or just for God to do? Then what does it mean for God to set things right?

Read bottom pink section, “Think of all the evil in the world that has gone, and still goes, unpunished. Why, then, is the concept of justice and God’s righteous judgment so crucial for us as Christians? What hope do we get from the promise that justice will be done?”

What is revealed in these questions?

- That the authors do not understand God’s law, nor character nor the nature of sin, and therefore do not understand the plan of salvation

- Worse, it reveals that the infection of Satan's lies about God's government have deeply infected Christian thought and the infection is being promoted as the cure.
- These ideas present the problem with sin as one of inflicted punishment coming from God. This false view of justice makes God out to be the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death. Thus, people end up teaching theologies which are designed to hide us and protect us from God, rather than deliver and heal us from sin!

What do I mean?

- What is the difference between God's law and man's law? How are they functionally different?
- What happens if one breaks God's law? What will happen to the one who breaks God's law if God does not act?
- What action does God take and why?
- What happens to the one who breaks man's law? What will happen if human law enforcement does not act?
- What action do human governments take and why?
- What did Lucifer allege in heaven regarding God's law?
 - In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. {DA 761.4}
- What does the Bible and the founders of the SDA church teach regarding what happens for transgressing God's law?
 - The wages of sin is death. Romans 6:23
 - Sin when full grown brings forth death. James 1:15
 - The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction. Gal 6:8
 - Sickness, suffering, and death are work of an antagonistic power. Satan is the destroyer; God is the restorer. {MH 113.1}
 - God destroys no one. The sinner destroys himself by his own impenitence. {FLB 58.7}
 - Read the Scriptures carefully, and you will find that Christ spent the largest part of His ministry in restoring the suffering and afflicted to health. Thus He threw back upon Satan the reproach of the evil which the enemy of all good had originated. Satan is the destroyer; Christ is the Restorer. {MM 240.1}
 - Satan is the destroyer. God cannot bless those who refuse to be faithful stewards. All He can do is to permit Satan to accomplish his destroying work. We see calamities of every kind and in every degree coming upon the earth, and why? The Lord's restraining power is not exercised. {6T 388.3}
 - Men have reached a point in insolence and disobedience which shows that their cup of iniquity is almost full. Many have well-nigh passed the boundary of mercy. Soon God will show that He is indeed the living God. He will say to the angels, "No longer combat Satan in his efforts to destroy. Let him work out his malignity upon the children of disobedience; for the cup of their iniquity is full. They have advanced from one degree of wickedness to another, adding daily to their lawlessness. I will no longer interfere to prevent the destroyer from doing his work." {RH, September 17, 1901 par. 8}

- Christ never planted the seeds of death in the system. Satan planted these seeds when he tempted Adam to eat of the tree of knowledge, which meant disobedience to God. {16MR 247.2}
- We are not to regard God as waiting to punish the sinner for his sin. The sinner brings punishment upon himself. His own actions start a train of circumstances that bring the sure result. Every act of transgression reacts upon the sinner, works in him a change of character, and makes it more easy for him to transgress again. By choosing to sin, men separate themselves from God, cut themselves off from the channel of blessing, and the sure result is ruin and death. {FLB 84.7}

What is justice?

It is doing what is right or just, as defined by what? The law, what law? The law of love, which emanates from God's character. So, with the law of love as the standard, which is design law, what is justice?

Justice – Bible definition is to do right in helping others, show compassion and mercy – no concept of punitive infliction of punishment, that is a human definition, which definition does PSM use? Here is the Biblical evidence:

- "Defend the poor and fatherless; Do justice (tsadaq) to the afflicted and needy" (Psalm 82:3 NKJV).
- Wash yourselves clean. Stop all this evil that I see you doing. Yes, stop doing evil and learn to do right. See that justice (mishpat) is done--- help those who are oppressed, give orphans their rights, and defend widows. (Isaiah 1:16,17 GNB)
- This is what the LORD says to the dynasty of David: 'Give justice (mishpat) each morning to the people you judge! Help those who have been robbed; rescue them from their oppressors.' (Jeremiah 21:12 NLT)
- 'Thus says the Lord GOD: 'Enough, O princes of Israel! Remove violence and plundering, execute justice (mishpat) and righteousness (tsadaq), and stop dispossessing my people,' says the Lord GOD. 'You shall have honest scales....' (Ezekiel 45:9,10 NKJV)
- The LORD is waiting to be kind to you. He rises to have compassion on you. The LORD is a God of justice (mishpat). (Isaiah 30:18 GW)

- “This is what the LORD of Armies says: Administer real justice (mishpat), be compassionate and kind to each other.” (Zechariah 7:9 GW)
- “He executes justice (mishpat) for the orphan and the widow, and shows His love for the alien by giving him food and clothing” (Deuteronomy 10:18 NASB)

2017 Q2 Feed My Sheep 1st and 2nd Peter

Lesson 7 – Servant Leadership

Leadership is a hot topic – leaders in business, leaders in government, church leaders, team leaders. There are countless books written on the topic every year, tons of classes and seminars taught on how to be a good leader. In fact, I put just the word “leadership” in Amazon’s book search engine and it returned 184,106 titles.

So what makes a good leader?

Are there consistent traits or qualities that effective leaders have in common?

How can we tell who is – or who will be – an effective leader?

Think about maybe people you have worked for or others who have struck you as good leaders. What are some of the common characteristics of successful leaders?

- Vision
- Communication
- Inspiration
- Innovation

These days on social media, if you like someone’s Instagram and don’t want to miss any of their photos...what do you do? If you happen to participate in the social media sewer known as Twitter, and you don’t want to miss someone’s asinine tweets, what do you do?

You FOLLOW them!

Instagram queen, Selena Gomez, has 118 million “followers”...does this make her an effective leader? Katy Perry has 97,298,907 Twitter followers...is she a good leader?

I have also known people in my life who were able to communicate a vision and inspire folks in such a way that they would quit their jobs, pack up their families, and move across the country in order to keep working for these leaders.

Is having followers or people being willing to follow necessarily an indication of strong leadership skills?

We will talk more specifically about Servant Leadership in Tuesday's lesson, and whether a servant leader exhibits different qualities...but this week's lesson tends to focus exclusively on the importance of these leadership traits in "church" leadership – the church proper, the organized, institutional, bureaucratic, political church. Sometimes, nothing can reduce the selfless and servant posture from folks like a little organizational power and prestige can...right? Even if it doesn't start out that way.

SUNDAY

Elders in the Early Church

So, let's revisit the history and context of who Peter is addressing here in his letter, and what is happening at the time. These are brand new churches, the apostles are evangelizing like crazy, the Holy Spirit is moving, new members and new churches are being added all the time, and the needs became overwhelming pretty quickly.

- So this rapid growth is a great problem to have – lots of churches would love to be able to say, “man, we just have too much growth...we are just adding too many members.” But the early church rapidly outgrew the apostle's ability to manage it effectively, and there were logistical issues, growing pains, and a real need for more defined structure in the organization.
- They had multiple ethnicities, cultures, nationalities coming together...but each with significant differences in traditions, beliefs, and practices (sound familiar?)...in fact, this first controversy or issue that arose was based on one group's perception that they were being discriminated against by the other groups.
- So these first elders were selected and ordained to handle some of the administrative, logistical, and organizational needs of the new churches, so that those who were preaching and evangelizing, and spreading the gospel would not be sidetracked or hindered by those tasks that were not the best use of their time or skills.
- These elders were given many different roles in early Christianity – they helped establish more structure in their local congregations. And since many were already leaders of their local communities, they sometimes acted as teachers, as preachers, and they ensured that the needs and well-being of their communities were being met.

In the teachers section, there is actually a distinction made between the roles of deacons and elders. Although the apostles were the early church's first leaders, Acts 6:1-6 describes the earliest attempt to draft additional leaders to share the organizational and structural responsibilities more effectively. These men were later called deacons, which mean those who minister to the needs of others. Subsequently, the apostles also found a need to appoint spiritual leaders in each church congregation and these men were known as elders, literally, older men of age and experience. The apostles were itinerant (traveling/roving) leaders, while the elders were local church leaders, and the deacons helped provide organizational and administrative support.

MONDAY

The Elders

Peter gives some instruction to the new elders and church leaders in 1 Peter 5:1-4:

“To the pastors and teachers among you, I call on you as a fellow pastor and teacher who witnessed Christ’s sufferings, and one who will also share in the glorious re-creation to be revealed: Protect God’s flock selflessly, like loving shepherds, serving as guides and guardians—not out of obligation or requirement, but freely—as God designed for you to do. Watch over it willingly, not seeking reward or payment, but eager to serve others; not like dictators exercising power and authority over those entrusted to their care, but modeling servant-leadership to your flock. Then, when the Chief Shepherd returns, you will be crowned with the glory of Christ’s perfection that will never fade away.”

Peter calls himself a fellow elder, pastor, and teacher when he gives this advice...do you think maybe it comes from a place of his personal experience?

Are there ways for these principles to apply to each of us, regardless of our roles in or out of the church?

Many times in the New Testament Jesus is referred to in the role of shepherd, the Good Shepherd, in our previous text as the Chief Shepherd. So, it is interesting that Peter, in this text, likens the role of an elder to a shepherd tending God’s flock.

What does that lead us to conclude about the significance of the role of elders in the church?

Are they literally tasked with being Christ’s representatives or envois to his church here on earth?

With that in mind, what are some of the qualities listed in the lesson that make good elder material? You will see many parallels to the effective leadership traits we discussed earlier.

- Patience (as a shepherd with his sheep)
- Humble, willing and eager to serve – no compulsion, guilt (nominating committee time), manipulation
- Nurturers and overseers
- Ready to function as examples rather than dictators
- Spiritual maturity, fully understood God’s methods and principles of love so they could foster the spiritual development of each new congregation

TUESDAY

Servant Leadership

What is servant leadership? How is it different from regular leadership we have been discussing? Well, another Google search yielded many of the same qualities and characteristics...along with some that weren't previously mentioned – traits like “person of character”, “puts others first”, “compassionate collaborator”, “leads with moral authority”, “empathy/healing”, “stewardship”, “builds community”.

Is there a common theme running through all of these? Selflessness!

Is there any doubt why Jesus was the quintessential servant leader?

For me, nothing illustrates the servant leadership concept better than the picture of Jesus we get a glimpse of in John 13:3-4 (this is from The Remedy):

“Jesus knew that his Father had placed all things—whether in heaven or on earth—in his hands, and that he had come from God to reveal him and was returning to God when his mission was complete. So in order to give his disciples a further revelation of God, he got up from his meal, took off his outer garment, and wrapped a towel around his waist. Then poured water in a bowl and began to wash the dirty feet of his disciples, drying them with the towel that was tied around him.”

What a beautiful picture, right? Especially when we remember that two of those feet were about to betray him.

Mrs. White expands on this story in her book, The Desire of Ages, but again we need to make sure we have a good grasp of the context and setting, and the recent events that took place right before the last supper. If you remember, the disciples were bickering amongst themselves, jockeying for position in Christ's kingdom, and the mother of the sons of thunder had just asked Jesus to put her two sons at his right and left hand! Think that caused any conflict? Here is what The Desire of Ages says about that encounter:

“Jesus bears tenderly with them, not rebuking their selfishness in seeking preference above their brethren. He reads their hearts, He knows the depth of their attachment to Him. Their love is not a mere human affection; though defiled by the earthliness of its human channel, it is an outflowing from the fountain of His own redeeming love. He will not rebuke, but deepen and purify.” DA 548

So based on that bit of background here is what she says about Christ's act of servant leadership:

“Another cause of dissension had arisen (other than the bickering and the brothers). At a feast it was customary for a servant to wash the feet of the guests, and on this occasion preparation had been made for the service. The pitcher, the basin, and the towel were there, in readiness for the feet washing; but no servant was present, and it was the disciples' part to perform it. But each of the disciples, yielding to wounded pride, determined not to act the part of a servant. All manifested a stoical unconcern, seeming unconscious that there was anything for them to do. By their silence they refused to humble themselves. – {DA 644.2}

How was Christ to bring these poor souls where Satan would not gain over them a decided victory? How could He show that a mere profession of discipleship did not make them disciples, or insure them a place in His kingdom? How could He show that it is loving service, true humility, which constitutes real greatness? How was He to kindle love in their hearts, and enable them to comprehend what He longed to tell them? – {DA 644.3}

The disciples made no move toward serving one another. Jesus waited for a time to see what they would do. Then He, the divine Teacher, rose from the table. Laying aside the outer garment that would have impeded His movements, He took a towel, and girded Himself. With surprised interest the disciples looked on, and in silence waited to see what was to follow. “After that He poureth water into a basin, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith He was girded.” This action opened the eyes of the disciples. Bitter shame and humiliation filled their hearts. They understood the unspoken rebuke, and saw themselves in altogether a new light. – {DA 644.4}

So Christ expressed His love for His disciples. Their selfish spirit filled Him with sorrow, but He entered into no controversy with them regarding their difficulty. Instead He gave them an example they would never forget. His love for them was not easily disturbed or quenched. He knew that the Father had given all things into His hands, and that He came from God, and went to God. He had a full consciousness of His divinity; but He had laid aside His royal crown and kingly robes, and had taken the form of a servant. One of the last acts of His life on earth was to gird Himself as a servant, and perform a servant's part. – {DA 644.5}

Before the Passover Judas had met a second time with the priests and scribes, and had closed the contract to deliver Jesus into their hands. Yet he afterward mingled with the disciples as though innocent of any wrong, and interested in the work of preparing for the feast. The disciples knew nothing of the purpose of Judas. Jesus alone could read his secret. Yet He did not expose him. Jesus hungered for his soul. He felt for him such a burden as for Jerusalem when He wept over the doomed city. His heart was crying, How can I give thee up? The constraining power of that love was felt by Judas. When the Saviour's hands were bathing those soiled feet, and wiping them with the towel, the heart of Judas thrilled through and through with the impulse then and there to confess his sin. But he would not humble himself. He hardened his heart against repentance; and the old impulses, for the moment put aside, again controlled him. Judas was now offended at Christ's act in washing the feet of His disciples. If Jesus could so humble Himself, he thought, He could not be Israel's king. All hope of worldly honor in a temporal kingdom was destroyed. Judas was satisfied that there was nothing to be gained by following Christ. After seeing Him degrade Himself, as he thought, he was confirmed in his purpose to disown Him, and confess himself deceived. He was possessed by a demon, and he resolved to complete the work he had agreed to do in betraying his Lord.”

– {DA 645.1}

I know this is a long quote, but I was so intrigued and touched by these insights that I wanted to share it...and hearing this description of Judas' reaction reminded me of a little bit of Come and Reason history.

Some of you may remember in the very early days of our ministry, before we were Come and Reason, there were a group of folks who would get together and speak on God's character of love called The Good News Tour...anyone remember?

Well, they came up is a startling illustration reenacting the scene just described, but Jesus was washing the feet of George W. Bush, Kofi Anan, Osama Bin Laden, and others. They used it on marketing materials to advertise their events, but it turned out to be quite a controversial lightening rod. Many folks characterized the image as offensive – Christian denominations, non-Christian denominators, veterans – all demanded that flyers be removed and posters be taken down.

Why do you think this image caused so much controversy...any ideas?

I definitely did a double-take when I first saw it...it made me a bit uncomfortable and caused a bit of cognitive dissonance. Maybe it's easier to read John's account of Jesus washing the feet of both his friends and his enemies, filtered through the lens of our comfortable biases and prejudices and our interpretation of whose feet he should wash...and whose he shouldn't...than it is to see it laid out in a shocking, realistic, too-close-to-home illustration?

Why would this image of the Servant God cause such a visceral, some might say Judas-like, reaction in people?

I think the reason and the discomfort comes from both sides of the equation...or the stage. One of the reasons veterans strongly objected to the poster was the portrayal of Osama Bin Laden on equal footing with the president and the former secretary of state. If you notice, all of the folks being served are on the same level in this picture.

Have you ever heard the saying that the ground is level at the foot of the cross? Aren't we all terminal and in need of Christ's healing, saving remedy? And isn't his desire and willingness to serve and heal and save equal for all who are willing to receive it? The other source of discomfort may come from the picture of God portrayed here...and I say that purposely. Some might actually be able to accept Jesus in this picture and in this servant role, but have trouble interposing God the father in his place...but if Jesus and the Father are one, and if we have seen Jesus we have seen the Father, then isn't that exactly what we are seeing in the picture?

Maybe if you are waiting with baited breath for God to come back in glory and triumph and punish His (and your) enemies, then you are uncomfortable with and do not want to see a picture of him serving those enemies in love and humility? This is at the heart of the imposed law construct that has infected the vast majority of Christianity, and it's preventing hearts and minds and lives from being transformed by God's spirit of truth and love.

Continuing on with the quote –

“Judas, in choosing his position at table, had tried to place himself first, and Christ as a servant served him first. John, toward whom Judas had felt so much bitterness, was left till the last. But John did not take this as a rebuke or slight. As the disciples watched Christ's action, they were greatly moved. When Peter's turn came, he exclaimed with astonishment, “Lord, dost Thou wash my feet?” Christ's condescension broke his heart. He was filled with shame to think that one of the disciples was not performing this service. “What I do,” Christ said, “thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter.” Peter could not bear to see his Lord, whom he believed to be the Son of God, acting the part of a servant. His whole soul rose up against this humiliation. He did not realize that for this Christ came into the world. With great emphasis he exclaimed, “Thou shalt never wash my feet.” – {DA 645.2}

Solemnly Christ said to Peter, “If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with Me.” The service which Peter refused was the type of a higher cleansing. Christ had come to wash the heart from the stain of sin. In refusing to allow Christ to wash his feet, Peter was refusing the higher cleansing included in the lower. He was really rejecting his Lord. It is not humiliating to the Master to allow Him to work for our purification. The truest humility is to receive with thankful heart any provision made in our behalf, and with earnestness do service for Christ. – {DA 646.1}

At the words, “If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with Me,” Peter surrendered his pride and self-will. He could not endure the thought of separation from Christ; that would have been death to him. “Not my feet only,” he said, “but also my hands and my head. Jesus saith to him, He that is washed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit.” – {DA 646.2}

These words mean more than bodily cleanliness. Christ is still speaking of the higher cleansing as illustrated by the lower. He who came from the bath was clean, but the sandaled feet soon became dusty, and again needed to be washed. So Peter and his brethren had been washed in the great fountain opened for sin and uncleanness. Christ acknowledged them as His. But temptation had led them into evil, and they still needed His cleansing grace. When Jesus girded Himself with a towel to wash the dust from their feet, He desired by that very act to wash the alienation, jealousy, and pride from their hearts. This was of far more consequence than the washing of their dusty feet. With the spirit they then had, not one of them was prepared for communion with Christ. Until brought into a state of humility and love, they were not prepared to partake of the paschal supper, or to share in the memorial service which Christ was about to institute. Their hearts must be cleansed. Pride and self-seeking create dissension and hatred, but all this Jesus washed away in washing their feet. A change of feeling was brought about. Looking upon them, Jesus could say, “Ye are clean.” Now there was union of heart, love for one another. They had become humble and teachable. Except Judas, each was ready to concede to another the highest place. Now with subdued and grateful hearts they could receive Christ’s words. – {DA 646.3}

The 4th paragraph says Peter, “goes on to explain that a key difference between His kingdom and those of the Gentile nations is the type of leader that will emerge in His kingdom.”

When I read that I said yep, that is a key difference...but it is a product or an outgrowth of the key difference.

What is the key difference between God’s kingdom and earthly kingdoms?

Imposed law versus design law!

“Those who wish to lead in the kingdom where Jesus is King must become servants because the leaders in Jesus’ kingdom will be like Jesus” very well said! Thus, Peter is calling church leaders to the same ideal: the surrender and self-denial seen in Jesus must be revealed in them, as well.

The box at the bottom of Tuesday’s lesson points out how closely Paul’s writing in Phil 2:4-8 coincides with Peter’s instructions to church leaders. From The Message:

“If you’ve gotten anything at all out of following Christ, if his love has made any difference in your life, if being in a community of the Spirit means anything to you, if you have a heart, if you care— then do me a favor: Agree with each other, love each other, be deep-spirited friends. Don’t push your way to the front; don’t sweet-talk your way to the top. Put yourself aside, and help others get ahead. Don’t be obsessed with getting your own advantage. Forget yourselves long enough to lend a helping hand. Think of yourselves the way Christ Jesus thought of himself. He had equal status with God but didn’t think so much of himself that he had to cling to the advantages of that status no matter what. Not at all. When the time came, he set aside the privileges of deity and took on the status of a slave, became human! Having become human, he stayed human. It was an incredibly humbling process. He didn’t claim special privileges. Instead, he lived a selfless, obedient life and then died a selfless, obedient death—and the worst kind of death at that—a crucifixion.”

WEDNESDAY

Clothed in Humility

Does being clothed in humility seem counterintuitive to being a leader?

Is being described as “humble” a compliment or an insult?

Wednesday’s lesson describes the “stratified” class system that existed in the ancient world in Peter’s day. There was a “ruling elite” class that had what might be called a commanding presence. The so-called middle class was likely non-existent, leaving various groups of the lower class all the way down to the lowest rank of all – the slave – and the Greek word for “humility” described the proper attitude for those of lower rank to have toward those of a higher one.

This same Greek word means lowly, insignificant, weak, poor, and describes people with no power or status in society. In the world outside of Judaism and Christianity, the word “humble” was associated with those of low status, and to act humbly would not necessarily have been commended as appropriate conduct or a compliment. But isn't it interesting that "confidence combined with humility" is listed as a common factor in successful servant leadership?

So Peter's advice in chapter 5 versus 5-7 was a bit counterculture for the time, and still is. The Remedy says:

"Young people, respectfully listen to the counsel of those who are older, and follow their wise leadership. But all of you – old and young alike – treat each other with humble and loving service, because 'God is the opposite of self-exaltation, and his very nature opposes pridefulness; he pours his healing power into the humble.' Therefore, surrender yourselves under God's almighty healing hand that he might restore you, uplifting you to his ideal in due time. Pour out your worries, frustrations, and burdens upon him, because he cares for you."

Another quote from one of the founders of our church giving instruction to pastors and church leaders says,

"To succeed as Jesus succeeded, lead humbly as Jesus led—Jesus, the dear Saviour, has given marked lessons in humility to all, but especially to the gospel minister. In His humiliation, when His work upon earth was nearly finished and He was about to return to His Father's throne whence He had come, with all power in His hands and all glory upon His head, among His last lessons to His disciples was one upon the importance of humility. While His disciples were contending as to who should be greatest in the promised kingdom, He girded Himself as a servant and washed the feet of those who called Him Lord and Master." {PaM 284.2}

Wednesday's lesson concludes,

"Sure, anyone could be humble before God, the Creator of the heavens and the earth. Also, it's relatively easy to be humble before those who are above us, who have power over us, and who are 'higher' in status than we are. The true test comes when we reveal humility toward those who are 'under' us, who have no power over us. That's the kind of humility Peter is talking about here."

One more quote on Christ's humility from Sons and Daughters of God:

"In consenting to become man, Christ manifested a humility that is the marvel of the heavenly intelligences. The act of consenting to be a man would be no humiliation were it not for the fact of Christ's exalted pre-existence. We must open our understanding to realize that Christ laid aside his royal robe, His kingly crown, His high command, and clothed His divinity with humanity, that He might meet man where he was, and bring to the human family moral power to become the sons and daughters of God. The meekness and humility that characterized the life of Christ will be made manifest in the life and character of those who ‘walk even as he walked’.” {81}

THURSDAY

Like a Roaring Lion

So we have already discussed the context of Peter’s writing – he wrote against the backdrop of persecution. The lesson says, “The great controversy theme wasn’t just abstract theology to his readers;” they were experiencing it for reals, up close and personal, in a way that most of us have not, at least for now. There was no doubt a war going on for the hearts and minds of those new Christian converts, just as there is a war going on today for our hearts and minds.

Revelation 12:7-9 talks about how that war started and the origin of evil:

⁷There was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought using truth and love against the lies and deceptions of the dragon, but the dragon and his angels fought back against the truth, spreading more lies about God and Jesus, his Son.⁸But his lies were not strong enough, and they lost their place of esteem and respect in heaven:⁹The great dragon—the ancient serpent called the devil or Satan that leads the entire world away from God and his methods of love—was cast out of the hearts, minds and affections of the loyal beings in heaven. He and his angels were cast to the earth—the only place in the universe where beings still believe his lies about God.”

The end of the second paragraph says,

“Yet, the good news is that the devil will ultimately be destroyed in the end.”

Is that really the good news?

What is implied in that statement?

We are living in enemy territory. Lions are stealthy, they stalk their prey by keeping hidden until the sudden last-minute attack. Watch a little NatGeo Wild if you are unsure. Lions might toy with their prey, but they have one goal in mind. Satan is subtle, and stealthy, and wise. He knows our weaknesses – maybe better than we do – and he knows the best ways to exploit them. We might not be aware of the danger unless we remain alert, clear minded, and self-controlled. We are also told to “resist him, standing firm in the faith” and he will flee.

What steps can we take to be alert, clear minded, and self-controlled?

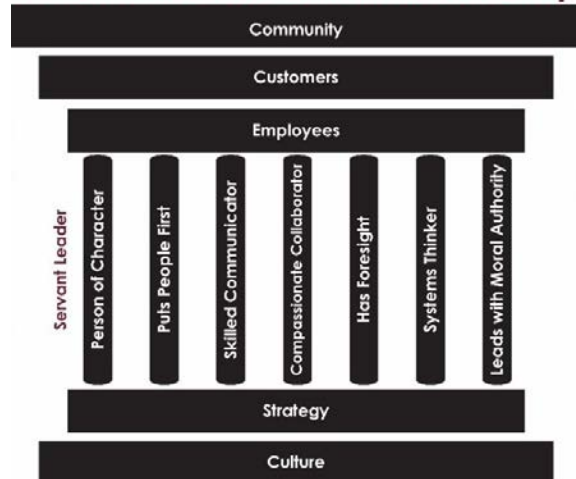

Sin damages, sin destroys, and the devil doesn't want to just cause you or your loved ones pain, heartache, or make you cry. He wants nothing less than to destroy you, and destroy as many of God's children as he can. Yes, the devil is real. The battle is real, our sufferings are real. But the "God of all grace" has overcome the world...has defeated him who holds the power of death – the devil. So whatever we are suffering, if we remain faithful – even unto death – victory is assured.

Discussion question: How would you answer the claim that Satan is not real but just a symbol of the evil found in human nature?

Lesson 8: Jesus in the Writings of Peter

SABBATH

“Who Himself bore our sins in His own body on the tree, that we, having died to sins, might live for righteousness—by whose stripes you were healed” (1 Peter 2:24, NKJV).

What does this text mean?

How did Jesus “[bear] our sins in His own body”?

How are we “healed” by His “stripes”?

The lesson refers to Peter’s focus on “Christ’s suffering” and suggests that we model that “suffering”.

How does this help? Which suffering?

The lesson also states that it “was God Himself, who came in human flesh and who lived and died so that we can have the hope and promise of eternal life.” It was, indeed, God Himself that lived and died, but not for the hope and promise of eternal life – it was for the revelation of eternal life, itself. [See John 17:3].

SUNDAY

Jesus, Our Sacrifice

What do you hear when you hear “Jesus, our Sacrifice”?

Do you still think in concrete terms, and see lambs with their throats slit, bleeding on the ground, having their organs burnt on an altar and their meat eaten by priests?

Even if we don’t think in terms of priests of Baal cutting themselves, do we still have an appeasement mindset when we hear the word, “sacrifice”?

The lesson states: “An overarching theme of the Bible, maybe even the overarching theme, is that of God’s work in saving fallen humanity. From the fall of Adam and Eve in Genesis to the fall of Babylon in Revelation, Scripture in one way or another reveals the work of God in seeking to save “that which was lost” (Luke 19:10).” Is this all?

Doesn't Scripture delve in to the how and why God is working to "save that which was lost"?

Does it help to know the context of Man's fall and needing of a Savior, in cosmic terms, as well?

From the lesson:

Peter thus likens Christ's death to that of a sacrificial animal in the Hebrew Bible. A sinner brought a sheep without blemish to the sanctuary. The sinner then laid his hands on the animal (Lev. 4:32, 33). The animal was slaughtered, and some of its blood was smeared on the altar; the rest was poured at the base (Lev. 4:34). The death of the sacrificial animal provided "atonement" for the one who offered the sacrifice (Lev. 4:35). Emphasis mine.

Did the death of the animal provide any atonement?

Wasn't the Levitical sacrificial system a "teaching tool" to get humanity to look forward to the actual "atonement"?

"The multitude of your sacrifices—what are they to me?" says the LORD. "I have more than enough of burnt offerings, of rams and the fat of fattened animals; I have no pleasure in the blood of bulls and lambs and goats. Isa. 1:11.

For I desire mercy, not sacrifice, and acknowledgment of God rather than burnt offerings. Hosea 6:6.

But go and learn what this means: 'I desire mercy, not sacrifice.' For I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners." Matt. 9: 13.

MONDAY

The Passion of Christ.

The lesson states that the Greek word that gets translated as "Passion" in English refers to a verb meaning "to suffer". Many Christians [1 + billion Catholics] reference his physical suffering especially in the last week or so before his death.

Was Christ "passionate" about the physical suffering?

What about the suffering to overcome the human "nature" to save Himself?

Which do you think he was more "passionate" about? T the word “passion” can have many meanings in English, one of which is, “an intense desire or enthusiasm for something”. What was that something?

Who has believed our message and to whom has the arm of the LORD been revealed?

*² He grew up before him like a tender shoot, and like a root out of dry ground.
He had no beauty or majesty to attract us to him,*

nothing in his appearance that we should desire him.

*³ He was despised and rejected by mankind,
a man of suffering, and familiar with pain.
Like one from whom people hide their faces
he was despised, and we held him in low esteem.*

⁴ Surely he took up our pain and bore our suffering, yet we considered him punished by God, stricken by him, and afflicted.

*⁵ But he was pierced for our transgressions, he was crushed for our iniquities;
the punishment that brought us peace was on him,
and by his wounds we are healed.*

*⁶ We all, like sheep, have gone astray, each of us has turned to our own way;
and the LORD has laid on him
the iniquity of us all.*

*⁷ He was oppressed and afflicted, yet he did not open his mouth;
he was led like a lamb to the slaughter,
and as a sheep before its shearers is silent,
so he did not open his mouth.*

⁸ By oppression^[a] and judgment he was taken away.

*Yet who of his generation protested?
For he was cut off from the land of the living;
for the transgression of my people he was punished.^[b]*

*⁹ He was assigned a grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death,
though he had done no violence,
nor was any deceit in his mouth.*

*¹⁰ Yet it was the LORD's will to crush him and cause him to suffer, and though the LORD makes^[c] his life an offering for sin,
he will see his offspring and prolong his days, and the will of the LORD will prosper in his hand.*

*¹¹ After he has suffered,
he will see the light of life^[d] and be satisfied^[e];
by his knowledge^[f] my righteous servant will justify many,
and he will bear their iniquities.*

*¹² Therefore I will give him a portion among the great,^[g]
and he will divide the spoils with the strong,^[h]
because he poured out his life unto death, and was numbered with the transgressors.
For he bore the sin of many,
and made intercession for the transgressors.
Isa 53: 1-12. NIV. Emphasis mine.*

Quoted in the lesson:

*“Satan with his fierce temptations wrung the heart of Jesus. The Saviour could not see through the portals of the tomb. Hope did not present to Him His coming forth from the grave a conqueror, or tell Him of the Father’s acceptance of the sacrifice. He feared that sin was so offensive to God that Their separation was to be eternal. Christ felt the anguish which the sinner will feel when mercy shall no longer plead for the guilty race. It was the sense of sin, bringing the Father’s wrath upon Him as man’s substitute, that made the cup He drank so bitter, and broke the heart of the Son of God.”—Ellen G. White, The Desire of Ages, pg. 753.*

TUESDAY

The Resurrection of Jesus.

What’s the typical Christian perspective on Christ’s resurrection? Most versions have some elements of God’s anger was assuaged by the shedding of Jesus’ blood, so as a reward for the “perfect sacrifice”, Jesus was granted life again. Even our lesson has the element of giving us “hope” of a heavenly “inheritance” from the resurrection.

Is this accurate, or is there more – much more?

The lesson also points out that His resurrection showed “... He has the power to conquer death itself.” Was it Jesus’ “power” that conquered death?

What is His “power” in the first place?

Life is the default status in God’s universe. Death, as we know it, exists only on Earth. When Jesus had perfectly restored God’s original design back in to Man, Life was the only possible result. After He had been made perfect, through suffering [Heb. 5: 8, 9], He could allow Himself to be “put to sleep”, but the grave could not hold Him. This is how He was able to say, “I lay down My life, that I may take it again.” [John 10:17]. He was the designer. He knew that Man restored to his original nobility would live.

But it was not merely to accomplish the redemption of man that Christ came to the earth to suffer and to die. He came to “magnify the law” and to “make it honorable.” Not alone that the inhabitants of this world might regard the law as it should be regarded; but it was to demonstrate to all the worlds of the universe that God's law is unchangeable. Could its claims have been set aside, then the Son of God need not have yielded up His life to atone for its transgression. The death of Christ proves it immutable. And the sacrifice to which infinite love impelled the Father and the Son, that sinners might be redeemed, demonstrates to all the universe—what nothing less than this plan of atonement could have sufficed to do—that justice and mercy are the foundation of the law and government of God. GC 503. Emphasis – mine.

And this is eternal life, that they may know You, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom You have sent. John 17:3.

WEDNESDAY / THURSDAY

Jesus as the Messiah / Divine Messiah.

I'm a little unsure why the lesson made the distinction between "Jesus – The Messiah & Jesus the Divine Messiah" in Wednesday and Thursday's lessons. We have the benefit of hindsight to see the mistakes made by the Jews and Christ's disciples as to what "The Messiah" really represented [i.e. looking for a temporal ruler to cast off the yolk of Roman oppression].

My question is, are we, in the 21st Century, in danger of making the same mistakes from 2,000+ years ago?

Does modern Christianity, with all of the blessings of Scripture, Commentary on Scripture, historical perspective, Science, & experience have the same distorted concept of who "The Messiah" is and what should be expected in the coming future?

- Do we really believe that Jesus [Immanuel -- God With Us] is the complete representation of God Himself?
- Do we really believe that God Himself died on that cross?
- Do we really believe that God, The Father, loves us so much, that He would not use His power to save Himself, if we chose to kill Him?
- Do we really believe that God's "Anger" is actually Him "letting go"?
- Do we really believe God will not use his power to destroy the wicked in the end?
- Do we really believe God's Law functions very differently from human laws?
- Why is it important that Jesus was fully divine?
- Why is it important that Jesus was fully human?
- "When you think about the life and death of Jesus and then realize that He was God, what does this tell you about the kind of God we serve and why we should love and trust Him? Bring your answer to class on Sabbath."  From the Lesson.

First and Second Peter Lesson 9 2Q 2017

Be Who You Are

SABBATH

Read Memory Text: “For this very reason, make every effort to add to your faith goodness; and to goodness, knowledge; and to knowledge, self-control; and to self-control, perseverance; and to perseverance, godliness; and to godliness, mutual affection; and to mutual affection, love.” 2Pet 1:5-7

What is being described? Is there a progression?

What does Peter mean by faith? Does he mean your religion? Does he mean trust, confidence? And what is the object of our faith? Is it enough to have faith, to believe in something like many people do, but not to know what?

How do we get this faith?

Were you ever taught that every person is given a measure of faith by God?

This is from the KJV Rom 12:3:

For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith.

Does this mean every person is given faith in God? If faith is trust and confidence, can that be given to a person?

Here is Rom 12:3 from the NIV:

For by the grace given me I say to every one of you: Do not think of yourself more highly than you ought, but rather think of yourself with sober judgment, in accordance with the measure of faith God has given you.

Does you hear this differently? Rather than every person being given faith, it is speaking of those who have received faith from God.

Or the GNT:

And because of God’s gracious gift to me I say to every one of you: do not think of yourself more highly than you should. Instead, be modest in your thinking, and judge yourself according to the amount of faith that God has given you.

Again, the text is not saying that God gives every person faith by some supernatural outflow of power, but speaking to the fact that as our faith in God grows our understanding of reality changes and we become more humble realizing all our gifts are from God.

So, from where does faith come?

Consequently, faith comes from hearing the message, and the message is heard through the word of Christ. Rom 10:17

What does this mean? Faith or trust comes from the comprehension, understanding and acceptance of the truth of God and His character as revealed by Christ.

What about knowledge, what kind of knowledge is being referred to? Is he talking about going to seminary and getting a degree in theology? Is he talking about an experiential/experimental knowledge? What experiential knowledge?

Now this is eternal life: that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent. John 17:3

Consider this historic quotation:

Experience is said to be the best teacher. Genuine experience is indeed superior to mere theoretical knowledge, but many have an erroneous idea as to what constitutes experience. Real experience is gained by a variety of careful experiments, made with the mind free from prejudice, uncontrolled by previously established opinions and habits. The results are marked with careful solicitude, and an anxious desire to learn, to improve, and to reform on every point that is not in harmony with physical and moral laws. {CTBH 109.1}

That which many term experience is not experience at all; it has resulted from mere habit, or from a course of indulgence, thoughtlessly and often ignorantly followed. There has not been a fair trial by actual experiment and thorough investigation, with a knowledge of the principles involved in the action. Experience which is opposed to natural law,—which is in conflict with the unchangeable principles of nature,—is not to be relied upon. Superstition arising from a diseased imagination is often arrayed in opposition to reason and to scientific principles. To many a person, the idea that others may gainsay what he has learned by experience, seems folly, and even cruelty itself. But there are more errors received and held through false ideas of experience than from any other cause. There are many invalids today who will ever remain such because they cannot be convinced that their experience is not to be relied upon. {CTBH 109.2}

What about our knowledge of God, should it be based on genuine experience which requires careful investigation that harmonizes Biblical evidence with scientific principles and the laws of nature?

Why? Because when we refuse to do this we create superstitious beliefs, false views of God that damage the mind and obstruct God's healing.

Can you think of superstitious teachings in Christianity that deny design law?

- Transubstantiation – the idea that the communion wafer after it passes the palate and enters the esophagus changes from flour, sugar, oil, and salt to the physical flesh of Jesus' human body.
- If you have forgotten to confess some sin you will not be able to be in heaven because that sin will still have to be punished.
 - Why is this superstition? It would be like a person who has cancer from smoking who gets treatment and the cancer goes into remission, forgetting that they also chewed tobacco once and never mentioned it to the doctor—so because they forgot to mention chewing tobacco then they must be executed.
 - This is a false idea based on the false law construct
- If you confess your sins they get erased from record books in heaven
 - This is like saying when a disease gets eradicated from your body the medical record gets erased and your memories get wiped out.
- If you confess your sins Jesus covers you with a cloak of sin invisibility so that the Father cannot see your sins and thus cannot punish you for them. We call it the robe of His righteousness.
- Baptism by water cleanses you from sin
- Sacrifices of animals cleanses from sin
- Keeping feast days is necessary for salvation
- If a person dies and doesn't get last rights by a priest their soul will not go to heaven
- If a person is not buried on holy church ground they cannot go to heaven
- Others?

Look at our memory text: without correct knowledge and/or experience with God we cannot progress to the next element—self-control. How many people fail to develop self-control—which is the last fruit of the Spirit in Galatians? Could it have anything to do with a false experience, a false belief about God that incites fear and undermines trust?

These virtues culminate in mutual affection and then love—what is the difference between mutual affection and love?

Did anyone ever see the movie The Miracle Worker? The story of Helen Keller?

- Before Annie Sullivan Helen would do whatever she pleased, when meals served she would stick her hands in anyone's plate and take what she wanted.
- Helen's mother had great affection, compassion, sympathy for Helen, and couldn't bear to act in ways that might cause the poor child to suffer.
- So Helen's mother wouldn't set boundaries or expect anything more from the child

- Annie came and began teaching Helen, but initially Helen rebelled and there was quite a fight, a fight that the mother couldn't stand to watch, but in the end, Helen learned and eventually could use sign language...

Now, who had the greatest affection for Helen? Her mother—but who showed the greatest love for Helen? Annie—why? Because love is not simply about affection—the warm feelings and kind regard, and emotional connection; love is about doing what is actually best for another, even if it feels bad doing it. Love often requires personal sacrifice to do what is good for another.

How might this apply in our church community?

In my life it means that when people call my office from out of state, or come up to me at a seminar, with some crisis or problem and desperately want me to treat them—if I act in love what do I do?

I say no—why? Because I cannot get a proper history to actually get a proper diagnosis and then provide appropriate treatment which requires follow-up and reassessment with adjustment in treatment based on progress, with someone long distance or with a brief talk in the back of a seminar room.

However, when I say no, what do I risk? I risk being misunderstood as cold and not caring etc.

So what should I do? Do what I believe is the most reasonable, healthy and proper action, even if the other person doesn't understand.

SUNDAY

Read 2Peter 1:1-4:

Simon Peter, a servant and apostle of Jesus Christ,

To those who through the righteousness of our God and Savior Jesus Christ have received a faith as precious as ours:

² Grace and peace be yours in abundance through the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord.

³ His divine power has given us everything we need for life and godliness through our knowledge of him who called us by his own glory and goodness. ⁴ Through these he has given us his very great and precious promises, so that through them you may participate in the divine nature and escape the corruption in the world caused by evil desires.

Read second paragraph, "Peter emphasizes that..." When you think of God's divine power what comes to mind?

For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. ⁴ The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. ⁵ We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. 2Cor 10:3-5

What are we demolishing in this war? Ideas, falsehoods, that are misrepresenting God, and what weapons do we use?

Weapons with divine power—what kind of weapons are those?

I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God for the salvation of everyone who believes: first for the Jew, then for the Gentile. Rom 1:16

What is the gospel? It is God's power to save—but what kind of power? Is it the kind of power the Jews were looking for to overthrow the Romans?

What kind of power is the divine power that demolishes everything that sets itself up against the knowledge of God?

What kinds of things set up against the truth about God and misrepresent Him?

- Lies AND
- Selfishness

Thus, what are the weapons that destroy lies and selfishness? Truth and love!

Consider this historic quote from one of the founders of the SDA church, do you agree? Is this describing the same power that Peter and Paul are describing?

God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power. {DA 759.1}

When you read verses like we just read in 2Peter about the power of God, do you immediately think of truth and love, the power to free minds and heal hearts or do you think of physical power?

Now, just to be clear, did I say anything here today that says God does not have infinite physical powerful i.e. that God is not omnipotent? No! God is all-powerful, but the power of God that saves, that heals minds and transforms characters, is not physical might, it is the power of truth and love!

The third paragraph states, “We are called to love God, but how can we love a God we don’t know? We come to know God through Jesus, through the Written Word, through the created world, and through the experience of living a life of faith and obedience.”

Wow—did you see that? The lesson put in the Integrative Evidence-based Approach! The truth is spreading!

Do you have any friends in the SDA church that you need to show this to—because now that it is in the Study Guide they will feel comfortable believing it?

MONDAY

What do you think of the title of Monday’s lesson, “Love, the Goal of Christian Virtue”?

Do you agree? Yes, and if true then what does this mean?

What does it mean in regard to who is saved in the end? Are we saved by:

- denominational affiliation?
- method of baptism?
- attestation to a creed?
- legal adjustment in record books?

Or are we saved by being transformed in heart to love God and others more than self?

Any texts to support this idea?

Then I heard a loud voice in heaven say:
“Now have come the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God, and the authority of his Christ.
For the accuser of our brothers, who accuses them before our God day and night,
has been hurled down.

They overcame him
by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony; they did not love their lives so much as to shrink from death. Rev 12:10,11

What does this text mean?

What is salvation? It is healing and what is the power that brings the healing? The power of truth and love, and where does the power of truth and love have its impact? In the hearts, minds and characters of intelligent beings, how? Truth destroys lies to win us to trust, and in trust we invite God in and the Spirit comes in and takes the perfection of Christ and reproduces it us.

Who is the accuser? Satan, and he has been hurled down, how? What hurled him down?

Now is the time for judgment on this world; now the prince of this world will be driven out.³² But I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself.” Jn 12:31,32 (the word men is supplied, not in the Greek)

What is driving Satan out? And from where is Satan being driven out?

John 12:31,32 from The Remedy:

Now is the time for the infection of selfishness and sin in this world to be fully diagnosed and revealed as destructive; now, Satan—the prince of this selfish world—will be driven out into the open, out of the shadows, out from behind his lies and distortions about God and God's methods, out where all can see him as the murderer he truly is, and thus out of the hearts of all who love me.³² When I am lifted up from the earth, I will draw all intelligences throughout the universe to me."

The saved overcame the accuser how?

By the blood of the Lamb and the word of their testimony, which is what?

Blood is metaphor or symbolic for the life of Christ, which is the perfect character of Christ, that the righteous partake of, what Peter refers to in our text as being “partakers of the divine nature.” This is what Jesus meant in John 6 about drinking His blood and eating His flesh. Thus we overcome by believing the truth about God such that we trust God enough to open the heart to Him and then receive the Spirit and are changed in heart by receiving the perfection of Christ so that we die to survival drives and love others more than self!

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, “Peter urges his readers...” What is the new reality? Is it a new legal reality, we get declared to be righteous even though we are not righteous, which is what is taught in the penal view?

Such a view is not a new reality, but a perpetuation of Satan’s lie; that false legal view has God presenting a mass fraud, which would be a new declared legal standing, but with no real newness of heart, mind, or character.

The true new reality is the new heart, right spirit, and recreation of the inner man where we have died to selfishness and live in a love relationship with God that inspires us to love others more and more every day!

The new reality is the real regeneration and recreation within the believer; this is design law, not imposed law!

Read next paragraph, “The problem is that not all...” What prevents so many Christians from living spiritually fruitful lives?

Could it be they are told by their church leaders that salvation is a legal accounting of their sins, and that there is no victory, no transformation that happens until the second coming. Could it be they are told everyone continues to go on sinning right up until Jesus comes but not to worry because the legal punishment for all those bad deeds Jesus has already paid, and if you have legally accepted it, God declares you are righteous, even though you continue to lie, cheat, commit adultery, steal, murder or whatever your sin is.

Could the very theology taught, the lie of imposed law with its expectation that there is no victory, just legal accounting of sins, be a core obstacle for Christians in experiencing true victory?

WEDNESDAY

Read memory text and first paragraph, “Yes, I think...” What are the problems with the doctrine of immortality of the soul? It is based on premises that are not supported by evidence—i.e. that God, in Eden when He first created Adam and Eve gave them immortality at that point. What is wrong with this teaching?

- Denies Biblical evidence of human mortality
 - After he drove the man out, he placed on the east side of the Garden of Eden cherubim and a flaming sword flashing back and forth to guard the way to the tree of life. Gen 3:24
 - God, the blessed and only Ruler, the King of kings and Lord of lords, ¹⁶ who alone is immortal and who lives in unapproachable light, whom no one has seen or can see. To him be honor and might forever. Amen. 1Tim 6:15,16
 - For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord. Rom 6:23
- What does the idea that God gave humankind immortality in Eden say about God?
 - If God has foreknowledge and knew they would sin and yet gave them immortality foreknowing millions would live just a few years, maybe a teen who sinned and never accepted Jesus, but then suffer in hell for all eternity, what kind of God would He be?
 - That God is a sadistic being, not a God of love
 - If God didn't know the future, didn't know they would sin and gave them immortality then what would that say about God?

- That God is not omniscient—He doesn't have foreknowledge
- Worse, He doesn't even have wisdom and can't even anticipate potential negative outcomes
- This doctrine of immortal soul ultimately makes God to be either sadistic, or incompetent and both views result in a god who is completely untrustworthy.

Read third paragraph, "A study of what the New Testament..." Did you notice the lesson authors have done, what SDA theologians almost always do, they skip part of this text? We cannot skip it; we must include it and understand it. So let's read the 1Thes 4, starting in verse 13 instead of 16:

Brothers, we do not want you to be ignorant about those who fall asleep, or to grieve like the rest of men, who have no hope. ¹⁴ We believe that Jesus died and rose again and so we believe that God will bring with Jesus those who have fallen asleep in him. ¹⁵ According to the Lord's own word, we tell you that we who are still alive, who are left till the coming of the Lord, will certainly not precede those who have fallen asleep. ¹⁶ For the Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. ¹⁷ After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever. ¹⁸ Therefore encourage each other with these words.

What is going on here? First, did you notice that the concern the NT Christians had, to which Paul was addressing, is that those living on earth would go to heaven BEFORE those who have died? This is the complete opposite of what is commonly believed today.

And today SDAs often find themselves arguing with non SDA Christians over what happens at death—do our loved ones sleep in the grave awaiting resurrection, or do they go to heaven to be with Jesus?

Our modern understanding of computers help us: We are tripartite:

- Body – Soma – Hardware
- Soul – Psyche – Software/Mind/Individuality
- Spirit – Pneuma – Energy/Breath of life

When Our Computers Run Out of Power What State Do They Go Into?

- They "sleep"
- How does the Bible describe those who "die"?
- They "sleep" but, as Jesus said, those who believe in Him will never die!
- When your computer "sleeps" it is not destroyed
- If your computer backs up on a "cloud" what happens if someone destroys your machine?
- Do not be afraid of those who kill the body (hardware) but cannot kill the soul (Psyche/Software). Matthew 10:28

What happens when we die?

- The Body (soma) hardware, disintegrates to dust
- The Spirit (pneuma) energy, returns to God
- The Soul (psyche) software/individuality, is safe with Christ in Heaven, stored securely in the Lamb's book of life – the heavenly “servers”
- The person “sleeps” waiting to be “downloaded” into new hardware (bodies)

What makes most sense and harmonizes all Scripture with science and experience?

Paul's description of bringing the saved back from heaven and also raising them from the grave—their individualities (souls) software come back with Christ, while their hardware, bodies (soma) come up out of the grave, and God breathes in them the breath of life (spirit/pneuma) and they live again.

THURSDAY

Read second paragraph, “That Peter expects...” Do you agree or disagree? When your computer hardware gets destroyed, can your software, data survive separately from the hardware, say on another server or backup drive somewhere?

Do we believe our individualities do survive separate from the body?

If our individuality doesn't survive, then what is being resurrected?

Jesus said, “Do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. Rather, be afraid of the one who can destroy both soul and body in hell.” Mt 10:28

Is Jesus suggesting that the body can be destroyed while the soul is not destroyed? Yes, just as we described above.

Now, is there a difference in keeping our individuality intact and having that individuality actively interacting and assimilating new experiences?

First and Second Peter Lesson 10 2Q 2017

Prophecy and Scripture

SABBATH

What is the primary purpose of Bible prophecy? Is it:

- to give us the ability to know the future before it happens?
- to map out future events and plan what to do?
- to demonstrate God has foreknowledge and nothing catches Him by surprise and thus increase our confidence in God?

If the last is the reason for Bible prophecy, when in the flow of time do we get to experience that confidence from the prophecy—before or after the events happen? After!

What is the Bible principle regarding how we understand prophecy?

If what a prophet proclaims in the name of the Lord does not take place or come true, that is a message the Lord has not spoken. That prophet has spoken presumptuously. Do not be afraid of him. Dt 18:22

“You heard me say, ‘I am going away and I am coming back to you.’ If you loved me, you would be glad that I am going to the Father, for the Father is greater than I. ²⁹ I have told you now before it happens, so that when it does happen you will believe. John 14:28,29

So, if you were to utilize these directions, when are you able to do so, when the prophecy is given, but before the events prophesied take place, or after the events prophecy take place?

The primary purpose of Bible prophecy is to be experienced AFTER events happen, then we can have increased confidence in God who foreknew and was not taken by surprise.

There is a secondary purpose for prophecy, which is what? To give us general warnings and safeguards but not a specific road map of exactly who, what, when and where.

Jesus’ prophecy about persecution of the saints, of the events prior to the second coming, about false Messiah’s going into the world, about not seeking to find Him in the secret meeting but as the sun shines from the east to west. Notice, these types of prophecies give measurable, testable, but non-specific points which keep us from going down wrong paths.

It is usually only after the events happen that we are able to fill in the specifics of who, what, when, and where.

Why is that? First because the prophecies themselves are not specific, but why are the prophecies not specific?

If God does know the future before it happens, why doesn't He provide detail prophecies, with persons, places, times, dates and exact events?

Have you ever considered how your life would be different if you knew with 100% certainty the following:

- The specific day, time and method of your death?
- The specific day and time of the Second Coming of Christ?

If you knew the specifics of either of these would it impact how you lived today? How?

If you knew the second coming wasn't for another 700 years, would that encourage or discourage you? Would you be tempted to become apathetic?

If you knew with 100% certainty that Christ would appear in the clouds with all His holy angels three days from now at 2:14 p.m. would you do anything different? Would you write the bills due at the end of the week, mow the lawn, go to work, etc?

If you knew you wouldn't die until 2034, would you be less or more cautious? Might you take some more risks? Might a person become less concerned about eternity thinking, "Oh, I've got time"?

Is there a reason God gives prophecy in general terms that give us guidance yet that we often don't understand specifically until after the events have transpired?

Even with the prophecies to Nebuchadnezzar, the specifics of when, who, and how were not told, only the large landscape of subsequent kingdoms.

How does this impact our lives today?

We should not get caught up into being overly concerned with every interpretation of Bible prophecy, particularly if they are about future events with overly detailed specifics. They are most likely going to have inaccuracies in them.

We should review Bible prophecies that have been fulfilled using them as evidences to build our confidence in God, and understand the general themes of prophecies yet to come.

Memory text: "We have also a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day star arise in your hearts." 2Pet 1:19

To what is Peter referring: primarily about prognostication or about the testimony of God's spokespersons?

Here is the same passage from the NIV:

And we have the word of the prophets made more certain, and you will do well to pay attention to it, as to a light shining in a dark place, until the day dawns and the morning star rises in your hearts.

What have God's spokespersons been telling us? Primarily prophesying specific dates, times, places, events, or proclaiming a promise, proclaiming the truth about God, His character, methods, and the Remedy/Savior named Jesus who would come and fulfill all God's promises to heal and fix what sin has done to God's creation? And this is known as the mystery of God—the truth about God and His actions to heal and restore His creation!

Yes, it is true that the prophets spoke of unfolding truth about God in events yet to come, thus it was prognostic, but what the prophets spoke was so much more than merely predicting future events. The prophets proclaimed universal eternal truth; they proclaimed God's character, methods, and love all of which have their origin in God, were obscured by Satan's lies and would be revealed in Jesus.

Thus the sure word spoken by God's prophets has always been, and will always be, the truth about God, sometimes this also includes prognostication.

Could Satan trick people into miss the truth about God by getting them so focused on the prognostic details they don't even consider what the prophet is saying about God?

Could there be people, entire churches, who value Bible prophecy so much they make certain elements of Bible prophecy a test of fellowship and actually argue if you don't come to the same conclusion you will be lost—say something like finding in Bible prophecy a specific day of worship and arguing if you worship on a specific day you will get the mark of the beast?

What is wrong with such an approach? It misses the truth of God's character and actually misapplies the prophecy to misrepresent God.

And what is the result Peter points forward toward as a result of the sure word from the prophets? That the Day Star will arise in our hearts.

What is this? This is Jesus—this is being transformed in the inner person, this is partaking the divine nature, this is circumcision of the heart by the Spirit; this is the Spirit taking the perfect character of Jesus and reproducing it in us!

But the light, the truth about God, is shining into a dark place—where is that dark place?

The minds of human beings—and what has made that place dark? The lies about God Satan has told and we have believed.

John 1:1-13 from The Remedy:

¹In the beginning was Jesus—God's very thoughts made audible and visible—and Jesus was with God, and was God.

²He was with God before anything else existed.

³Through Jesus everything was created; without Jesus nothing was created that has been created.

⁴In Jesus was life—original, unborrowed, underived—and his life enlightens the mind about God: about his character, methods, and principles.

⁵The light of Jesus' life shines into the darkened minds of human beings—darkened by Satan's lies about God—but their darkened minds have not understood the light.

⁶There came a man called John who was empowered and directed by the Spirit of God.

⁷He came as a witness to testify that Jesus was the true light sent to dispel the darkness enshrouding the mind, so that everyone might believe the truth about God and be healed.

⁸John was not the light of truth; he came only as a witness to the light.

⁹The true Light that enlightens everyone—God's very thoughts made visible and audible—was coming into the world.

¹⁰Jesus—the true Light—was in the world, and even though the world was created by him, the world was so blinded by Satan's lies that it didn't even recognize him.

¹¹Jesus came to his own people—whom he had especially chosen, instructed and blessed—but many refused to accept him because they preferred Satan's version of a savior.

¹²But all who recognized and accepted him—all who valued and accepted the character, methods and principles he revealed—he made them children of God, transforming them into like character, practicing God's methods and principles.

¹³They were made God's children not because of genetics or biological descent, or because of human procreation, but because of the transformation of mind, heart and character brought about by God.

Is this not what Peter is talking about when he describes the Day Star dawning in our hearts?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “All through his epistles...” First, do you notice the point the lesson makes, that Peter's certainty is in the what and the who, not the specifics about times and places and specific human actors in some future scenario. His certainty is in the truth about God, the problem of sin and God's solution for it—Jesus Christ!

But what do you think about the last sentence: “It was Peter's trust in the Written Word that helped him know the Word ‘made flesh’ (John 1:14).”?

I wonder if this is backward—wasn't it Peter's trust, along with His personal experience and knowledge of Jesus the living Word, which enlightened his mind with correct understanding and subsequent increased confidence in the Written Word?

In fact, the way the lesson authors have put it is a major error for many people today—how?

Many Christians, and theologians in particular, have this approach: They go to the Bible study the Old Testament with all its symbols, metaphors, dark speech examples, form their interpretations, beliefs, doctrines about what they think it means, and then go to the New Testament and force Jesus to fit into their understanding of what it all means.

I have taken the other approach—Jesus must be studied first! Only after coming to know Jesus, and correctly understanding Him (the true light) and what He taught can we then properly understand the written word. Thoughts?

What did Jesus say to the religious leaders in His day?

You diligently study the Scriptures because you think that by them you possess eternal life. These are the Scriptures that testify about me, ⁴⁰ yet you refuse to come to me to have life. Jn 5:39,40

Here are a few quotes from one of the founders of the SDA church, consider which approach this person takes—studying the Old Testament Scripture and then coming to understand Jesus, or coming to know Jesus and what He taught and then studying to know the truth of the OT Scripture?

- The system of Jewish economy was the gospel in figure, a presentation of Christianity which was to be developed as fast as the minds of the people could comprehend spiritual light. Satan ever seeks to make obscure the truths that are plain, and Christ ever seeks to open the mind to comprehend every essential truth concerning the salvation of fallen man. To this day there are still aspects of truth which are dimly seen, connections that are not understood, and far-reaching depths in the law of God that are uncomprehended. Fundamentals of Christian Education 238
 - Could this be referring to the truth of design law being obscured by interpreting the symbols through imposed law lenses?
- Christ was the foundation of the Jewish economy. The whole system of types and symbols was a compacted prophecy of the gospel, a presentation in which were bound up the promises of redemption. Acts of the Apostles 14
 - What is the OT about? Jesus and the good news about God!
- The significance of the Jewish economy is not yet fully comprehended. Truths vast and profound are shadowed forth in its rites and symbols. The gospel is the key that unlocks its mysteries. Through a knowledge of the plan of redemption, its truths are opened to the understanding. Far more than we do, it is our privilege to understand these wonderful themes. We are to comprehend the deep things of God. Christ's Object Lessons 133

- What is the key? The gospel
- And who is the clearest revelation of the gospel? Jesus!

Many of the interpretations of the OT change when we seek to know Jesus before we study the OT. So, I would suggest it was Peter's personal knowledge of and trust in Jesus the living Word, that gave him right understand and subsequent confidence in the Written Word.

In fact, Paul the theology scholar who knew the OT Scriptures very well had a really hard time accepting Christ—why? Because he studied the OT Scriptures first, through their traditional views. After accepting Christ Paul had to spend 3 years in the desert being instructed by Christ in order to correct all his misunderstandings about the OT Scripture. Only then was he ready to be Jesus' ambassador and gospel messenger.

Read fourth paragraph, "Some of what the prophets..." What did the angels desire to know?

The lesson references 1Peter 1:12, let's read verses 11 and 12:

trying to find out the time and circumstances to which the Spirit of Christ in them was pointing when he predicted the sufferings of Christ and the glories that would follow. ¹² It was revealed to them that they were not serving themselves but you, when they spoke of the things that have now been told you by those who have preached the gospel to you by the Holy Spirit sent from heaven. Even angels long to look into these things.

What were they longing to understand? The coming of Christ, His sufferings, death, resurrection—why was it necessary, what would it accomplish, what would the angels learn?

Where did sin begin? In heaven, with whom? An angel, over what? Was it over money, land, sex, gambling? Over what? Whether God and Christ could be trusted. What weapon did Satan use—primarily lies. And what impact do lies have on minds? Confusion, undermining of trust, breaking of love, so what would the angels long to understand? The truth of the issues which Satan raised in their minds over God. Remember 2Cor 10:3-5?

Again from one of the founders of the SDA church, what do you think, does Scripture support this view?

By coming to dwell with us, Jesus was to reveal God both to men and to angels. He was the Word of God,—God's thought made audible. In His prayer for His disciples He says, "I have declared unto them Thy name,"—"merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth,"—"that the love wherewith Thou hast loved Me may be in them, and I in them." But not alone for His earthborn children was this revelation given. Our little world is the lesson book of the universe. God's wonderful purpose of grace, the mystery of redeeming love, is the theme into which "angels desire to look," and it will be their study throughout endless ages. Both the redeemed and the unfallen beings will find in the cross of Christ their science and their song. It will be seen that the glory shining in the face of Jesus is the glory of self-sacrificing love. In the light from Calvary it will be seen that the law of self-renouncing love is the law of life for earth and heaven; that the love which "seeketh not her own" has its source in the heart of God; and that in the meek and lowly One is manifested the character of Him who dwelleth in the light which no man can approach unto. DA 19, 20

That which alone can effectually restrain from sin in this world of darkness, will prevent sin in heaven. [What do you think that is? What restrains sin? Is it threats of punishment? Might and power, flaming swords? What is sin? Transgression of the law, what law? The law of love which is the foundation of God's government, so what can effectually keep people from violating love? What is the power of God we discussed last week? The power of truth and love, which was manifested most effectively where? At the cross, so what would you predict can effectually restrain sin?] The significance of the death of Christ will be seen by saints and angels. Fallen men could not have a home in the paradise of God without the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world. Shall we not then exalt the cross of Christ? The angels ascribe honor and glory to Christ, for even they are not secure except by looking to the sufferings of the Son of God. It is through the efficacy of the cross that the angels of heaven are guarded from apostasy. Without the cross they would be no more secure against evil than were the angels before the fall of Satan. Angelic perfection failed in heaven. Human perfection failed in Eden, the paradise of bliss. All who wish for security in earth or heaven must look to the Lamb of God.

The plan of salvation, making manifest the justice and love of God, provides an eternal safeguard against defection in unfallen worlds, as well as among those who shall be redeemed by the blood of the Lamb. {5BC 1132.8}

For centuries God looked with patience and forbearance upon the cruel treatment given to his ambassadors, at his holy law prostrate, despised, trampled underfoot. He swept away the inhabitants of the Noachian world with a flood. But when the earth was again peopled, men drew away from God, and renewed their hostility to him, manifesting bold defiance. Those whom God rescued from Egyptian bondage followed in the footsteps of those who had preceded them. Cause was followed by effect; the earth was being corrupted. What law is being described? The law of liberty, the law of sowing and reaping.

A crisis had arrived in the government of God. The earth was filled with transgression. The voices of those who had been sacrificed to human envy and hatred were crying beneath the altar for retribution. All heaven was prepared at the word of God to move to the help of his elect. One word from him, and the bolts of heaven would have fallen upon the earth, filling it with fire and flame. God had but to speak, and there would have been thunderings and lightnings and earthquakes and destruction.

The heavenly intelligences were prepared for a fearful manifestation of Almighty power. Every move was watched with intense anxiety. The exercise of justice was expected. [What was Satan's core lie about God? That God is arbitrary, meaning God's law is not design law but imposed rules which require God to inflict punishment. What does justice look like when based on design law of love? Seeking to heal and restore while leaving free those who refuse. What does justice look like when based on imposed laws? Infliction of punishment. If Satan's lie about God's law being imposed was being considered by the loyal angels in heaven, then what would they be expecting when God exercises justice?] The angels looked for God to punish the inhabitants of the earth. [Why did they look for this? Because they were considering that Satan's view of law had some merit. Satan's lie had not been eradicated from the minds of loyal angels. What did God actually do?] But "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." "I will send my beloved Son," he said. "It may be they will reverence him." Amazing grace! Christ came not to condemn the world, but to save the world. "Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins."

The heavenly universe was amazed at God's patience and love. To save fallen humanity the Son of God took humanity upon himself... {RH, July 17, 1900 par. 6} What law is revealed in the coming of Jesus? Design law of love to fix what was broken and restore human beings back to love and trust. This is the Justice of God, which God revealed and which destroys Satan's lies about God for all who have ears to hear and eyes to see.

Before Christ's first advent, the sin of refusing to conform to God's law had become widespread. Apparently Satan's power was growing; his warfare against heaven was becoming more and more determined. A crisis had been reached. With intense interest God's movements were watched by the heavenly angels. Would He come forth from His place to punish the inhabitants of the world for their iniquity? Would He send fire or flood to destroy them? All heaven waited the bidding of their Commander to pour out the vials of wrath upon a rebellious world. One word from Him, one sign, and the world would have been destroyed. The worlds unfallen would have said, "Amen. Thou art righteous, O God, because Thou hast exterminated rebellion." {ST, August 27, 1902 par. 4}

Why would the loyal angels have said amen? Because they didn't fully understand God's design law, why? Because Satan's lie was so effective. Thus, as the Bible teaches, angels longed to look into these things and understand more accurately the reality of God's character and the lies of Satan. And it was at the Cross that the prince of this world was cast out—out of the affections, minds, hearts of the sinless beings in the universe and out into the open for all who love truth to see—Satan is exposed as a liar and fraud!

MONDAY

Read third paragraph, "Peter highlights..." Any concerns about this?

First, I believe these events are historic, accurate, and really happened. And they happened because Jesus is the Son of God and this is evidence, which is consistent with His divinity and purity that we would expect to see in our Creator God. So all of this is consistent with Jesus as the Son of God and our Savior.

But, and there is a but, what is the but?

This type of physical manifestation can be counterfeited; therefore such manifestations alone, i.e. without the historic life of purity and self-sacrificial love lived out by Jesus, cannot be relied upon.

Any Bible evidence to support my concerns?

- How did Satan manifest to Jesus in the wilderness? As an angel from heaven. Did that mean because Satan presented with supernatural light and miraculous signs he could be trusted?
- “For such men are false apostles, deceitful workmen, masquerading as apostles of Christ.¹⁴ And no wonder, for Satan himself masquerades as an angel of light.” 2Cor 11:13,14
- “But even if we or an angel from heaven should preach a gospel other than the one we preached to you, let him be eternally condemned!” Gal 1:8

What is the point here?

That the true God will absolutely be powerful, and absolutely have miraculous revelations and demonstrations that accompany His true visible presence—no doubt. But miracles, signs, and wonders can all be counterfeited, thus we must rely upon something that cannot be counterfeited, and what is that?

The truth—the truth about God, His character and methods of love and the laws upon which He has constructed reality to operate upon.

Understanding these and how they operate, there are certain actions that God will never take—such as?

- God will never lie
- God will never say “love me or I will kill you” i.e. coerce, why? Because it violates the law of liberty and destroys love and incites rebellion
- God will not, and in fact, cannot, force people to love and trust Him
- So, when beings of immense power, manifesting what appears to be heavenly light, performing miracles attempt to impose a system of justice like our fallen world uses—coercion—“Worship me, I love you, I died for you. I only want your good. I don’t want to punish you. But if you refuse, justice requires I punish disobedience. I will first restrict your ability to buy and sell, and imprison, but if this doesn’t bring you to repentance, well holiness and justice requires that I execute you.” This is the beast—that many Christians are preparing to accept.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, “Here, as we can see...” Where is the darkness? In our hearts, but what causes the darkness?

See, darkness covers the earth and thick darkness is over the peoples, but the Lord rises upon you and his glory appears over you.
³ Nations will come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your dawn. Is 60:2,3

To what is this referring? Primarily the lies about God, and the darkness in the minds of humans about God and Jesus who is the light of truth about God and His methods of love which will draw the peoples of the world, not just Jews, but Gentiles as well.

The lesson mentions supernatural power—what power did Jesus wield when He confronted Satan in the wilderness?

Did Jesus overcome by having heavenly angels come and drive Satan away?

What power did Jesus wield in Gethsemane and crucifixion weekend?

It was the power of truth and love—Jesus clung to the truth and loved others more than self. This is the power, the divine power we are given to demolish strongholds, and only this power is to be used.

WEDNESDAY

Read last two paragraphs and then the pink section: “Then what did Peter...” Is this an absolute rule? Should a believer surrender their understanding and thinking to the church board, or the church as a whole?

What does Paul mean in Romans 14 that every person should be fully persuaded in their own mind?

Are the lesson authors suggesting when it comes to Biblical truth that church members should surrender their interpretations to the church leadership?

Hmmm...In OT times why did God send prophets to the people? Did God send them to the nation to get the prophet to submit their ideas to the people and if the people? Remember Jeremiah, his prophecy was rejected and he was put in a pit. Should Jeremiah have changed his understanding because the body of believers saw it differently?

What about this quotation from one of the founders of the SDA church?

As the light and life of men was rejected by the ecclesiastical authorities in the days of Christ, so it has been rejected in every succeeding generation. Again and again the history of Christ's withdrawal from Judea has been repeated. When the Reformers preached the word of God, they had no thought of separating themselves from the established church; but the religious leaders would not tolerate the light, and those that bore it were forced to seek another class, who were longing for the truth. In our day few of the professed followers of the Reformers are actuated by their spirit. Few are listening for the voice of God, and ready to accept truth in whatever guise it may be presented. Often those who follow in the steps of the Reformers are forced to turn away from the churches they love, in order to declare the plain teaching of the word of God. And many times those who are seeking for light are by the same teaching obliged to leave the church of their fathers, that they may render obedience. {DA 232.2}

Is it safe to surrender our thinking to people because they occupy positions of church administration?

What is a healthier approach to pursuing truth than seeking a consensus of human opinion?

What about the integrative evidence-based approach that seeks to understand truth in harmony with testable evidence?

What about the evidence of healing and transformation of lives? In other words, does your application of the truth you currently understand result in ever increasing mental, physical, spiritual and relational health and growth in Christlikeness?

THURSDAY

Read second paragraph, "After warning Timothy..."

What is the problem with the translation of 2Tim 3:16 quoted here? They have the "is" in the wrong place. It should be, "All scripture given by God is profitable..." not "All Scripture is given by God..." Are all the scriptures in the world given by God, or are some scriptures made up by men or inspired by demons?

Read fourth paragraph, "Doctrine: Doctrines are the teachings..."

The lesson makes a critically important point here, the primary purpose of doctrines are what? To reveal God and connect us to Him.

What happens if we set up stand-alone doctrines, disconnected from the truth about God and use proof texts to support them and make them tests of fellowship?

Read fifth paragraph, “Guidance: Paul tells...”

What is the point? True godliness, true spirituality, is coming back into harmony with how reality is constructed by God to operate!

What does it mean “wise unto salvation?” What is salvation? It is healing, and who provides the Remedy? How is healing achieved? What is our role in the healing process?

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions 1, 2, 4.

July 14,15, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Lakeport SDA church, in Lakeport CA.

August 18,19, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Celebration SDA church in Celebration, Florida.

Sep 5, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

September 26-Oct 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC World Conference, Nashville TN, and our ministry will have a booth in the exhibit hall.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

First and Second Peter Lesson 11 2Q 2017

False Teachers

We received this email this week:

Hello and thank-you for writing The Remedy New Testament. I just recently came upon a copy at McKay's bookstore and don't know why I bought it because I already own dozens of Bibles with access to many more on e-Sword. But the Title caught my attention ... and something prompted me ... so profound that I had to get it, despite my usual dislike for paraphrases.

I started reading it last night with 1John then the Gospel of John and couldn't put it down until falling asleep sometime around 3-something this morning.

I travel a lot, which brings me in contact with a LOT of people and only rarely are the doors closed to some kind of Kingdom-discussion, with me usually leaving them with a copy of a book I'm reading or one I feel specifically prompted to give them. In fact, it's why I go to McKay's so often...it's to pick-up books for specific people I plan to meet ... and the Holy Spirit has never disappointed me yet ... or any of the recipients of the books. Nor do I think He ever will.

I was just recently asking what book will I next be "freely-given" so I can freely-give?

And that's when I came across The Remedy.

I would like to purchase in bulk for upcoming trips to New York, Missouri and South Dakota.

I also think your rendition to be the most profound rendering since the NEB ... which I've been distributing for years, thanks to McKay's.

But they only had ONE copy of The Remedy and therefore the email of inquiry to you direct for more.

I find your rendering so much more conducive to the people I tend to somehow be placed in their paths ... the homeless, the disenfranchised, addicts of all sorts, the sexually disoriented, prisoners, military who have seen some horrendous things and drown themselves in coping/escape mechanisms, inner-city at-risk kids and drop-outs, immigrants of all sorts, Native Americans on reservations, seniors who feel they nothing left to contribute and waiting to die ... you know ... people in need of the Great Physician and waiting for someone to share some GOOD NEWS for a change.

SABBATH

Read second paragraph, “Satan launches a two-pronged attack...” Does Christianity still face the problem of false teachings today?

What teachings do you find within Christianity today that are false?

I am not a denominationalist—meaning I do not believe a person is saved based on membership in a particular denomination.

If people believe salvation is by belonging to a particular denomination, would that be a true or false teaching?

But having said that, I am familiar with some distinct teachings among the various denominations, I thought I might review some of them and see if any of these are essential in determining a genuine Christian:

1. The Scriptures are inspired by God
2. There is one true God who exists in the triune perfection of love—Father, Son and Holy Spirit.
3. Jesus is the divine member of the Godhead who is identified as God’s Son and who became human, lived a sinless life, died on the cross, rose again to life and ascended to heaven
4. God is the Creator and the world was created in seven literal days and God rested on the seventh day creating the Sabbath as a gift for human beings. Life did not evolve on its own.
5. Human beings were created in God’s image, with their own unique individuality and freedom to make their own choices
6. There is a conflict between God and Satan waging in the minds of intelligent beings over who to trust
7. Jesus became human, lived a sinless life and died on the cross for the purpose of defeating Satan, saving humankind, and securing the universe unfallen
8. God’s works via the Holy Spirit to heal and transform every human being who will let Him
9. Those who are transformed by the Holy Spirit having immersed their hearts in God’s love and truth, and, when able, give public witness by the ritual of water baptism
10. Those who trust God and are united in love are known as God’s church and they work together to reach other people with God’s healing grace
11. The Holy Spirit enables those who trust God to fulfill roles by providing abilities or gifts for the fulfillment of their calling
12. God is Sovereign and His law is unchangeable
13. Jesus is in heaven directing all the agencies at His disposal to defeat evil, Satan and to save and heal all who will let Him
14. The wages or result of unhealed sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in an earth made new.

15. Jesus is coming again soon in the clouds of heaven, visibly to resurrect the righteous dead and translate the righteous living to heaven, the wicked will die the first death and the earth will be barren for 1000 years, followed by the resurrection of the wicked, the final judgment and the eradication of all sin, pain, and death itself and then the universe will be cleansed and the earth made new.

Now, if a person believes all of these things, what would that make them?

Hmmm.... doesn't Satan and all his rebellious angels believe every one of these things?

Isn't it true that an intelligent being can believe every one of these beliefs to be true and be a devil, be Satan himself, God's worse enemy?

So, does believing such things make one a Christian?

Is there a lie operating here somewhere? It is a lie that we are Christians by attestation to a set of beliefs and by joining a particular denomination and by public baptism.

Jesus said, "By this all men will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another." Jn 13:35

What is necessary to be a true Christian—to hold to a specific set of beliefs, or to have the heart transformed from selfishness to Christlike love?

And what is necessary to have the heart transformed to Christlike love? Knowing God—having the lies of God removed and knowing God personally, individually, intimately for who He is as revealed by Jesus Christ, which results in unity of heart, mind and character—we are at-one with God again. "This is life eternal that they might know you the only true God and Jesus Christ whom you have sent." John 17:3

And what prevents people from truly knowing God? Lies, false teachings, which create believers who believe in systems of theology, creeds, fundamental beliefs, but who still do not know God and who are not transformed to be like Jesus in character.

And what is the core lie within Christianity that obstructs people from knowing God?

The false law—the idea that God's law is imposed and requires inflicted punishment, which results in people creating doctrines that are designed to function how? The doctrines function by separating people from God, by hiding them from God, by protecting them from God rather than reconciling them to Him. This is the majority of Christianity, think of the barriers of false ideas about God that have been built up in the minds and practices of so many Christians. Can you name any?

- I need an intercessor between me and God to plead my case to God and persuade Him not to punish me for my sins
 - In Catholicism it is not only Jesus, but Mary and the saints who plead to God and the priests to whom sins are confessed because God couldn't tolerate us if there wasn't someone in between
 - In Protestantism it is Jesus who is our advocate pleading His blood or merits to the Father reminding the Father that He has paid the price for our sins so the Father doesn't punish us
- I need someone to hide my sins from God
 - In Catholicism it is Jesus, Mary and the Saints who hide our sins from God by covering them with the blood of Jesus; when we partake the Mass Jesus then applies His sacrifice to erase the sin from records and keeps God from seeing it and acting to punish
 - In Protestantism it is Jesus applying His blood to our record books to erase the record of sins, or covering us with His robe of righteousness, which is taught that His perfect sinless life gets recorded in our record book so when our records are open we have the life of Jesus recorded there so the Father only sees Jesus' sinless life and not our own.
- I need someone to pay my debt
 - In Catholicism it is Jesus, along with our works, penances, indulgences and other activities combined that pay our debt so the Father doesn't have to punish
 - In Protestantism it is Jesus who paid our complete debt to God so He doesn't have to punish

Do you see how these doctrines function? To hide or protect us from God? Why? Because believing the lie about God's law we believe the lie God must inflict punishment, thus we are never truly reconciled to God, we don't really know Him and we certainly don't trust Him. Thus we continue to live in fear, rather than being transformed back to beings who love God and others more than self.

It also leads to the concern that salvation is based on having the right doctrinal beliefs—thus if we can collect the right list of beliefs, and swear allegiance to that set of beliefs then we are saved. This leads to centuries long arguments among Christians over doctrines:

- What day to worship upon?
- Which method of baptism?
- Eternal or limited hell?
- Trinity or no trinity?
- Why did Jesus have to die?

Are we saved by knowing the right answers to any of these questions?

It is a lie that having the right doctrines results in salvation—what is the true purpose of doctrines? What they tell us about God, how they bring us into a closer intimacy with Him uniting our hearts with His, so that we are transformed to be like Jesus in heart!

The right way to approach any list of doctrines is to ask, if this is true what kind of being would God be? What does it say about God? Does this teaching increase trust or undermine trust in God? etc.

SUNDAY

The lesson asks us to read portions of 2Peter 2, lets read the entire chapter from the NIV and then from The Remedy and discuss it:

But there were also false prophets among the people, just as there will be false teachers among you. They will secretly introduce destructive heresies, even denying the sovereign Lord who bought them—bringing swift destruction on themselves. [While this is true that some humans will deny Jesus is Lord, do the devils deny Jesus is Lord? Remember what the demoniacs said?] ² Many will follow their shameful ways and will bring the way of truth into disrepute. [What are their shameful ways? Will it not be the ways that deny truth, which leads to superstitions and denying love, i.e. promoting selfishness?] ³ In their greed these teachers will exploit you with stories they have made up. Their condemnation has long been hanging over them, and their destruction has not been sleeping. [What does this mean? An infliction, or a consequence?]

⁴ For if God did not spare angels when they sinned, but sent them to hell, putting them into gloomy dungeons to be held for judgment; ⁵ if he did not spare the ancient world when he brought the flood on its ungodly people, but protected Noah, a preacher of righteousness, and seven others; ⁶ if he condemned the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah by burning them to ashes, and made them an example of what is going to happen to the ungodly; ⁷ and if he rescued Lot, a righteous man, who was distressed by the filthy lives of lawless men ⁸ (for that righteous man, living among them day after day, was tormented in his righteous soul by the lawless deeds he saw and heard)— ⁹ if this is so, then the Lord knows how to rescue godly men from trials and to hold the unrighteous for the day of judgment, while continuing their punishment. ¹⁰ This is especially true of those who follow the corrupt desire of the sinful nature and despise authority. [Are these words easy to understand? Do they incite fear or love? What law lens are you hearing these words through? What do they mean in reality? What is God actually doing?]

Bold and arrogant, these men are not afraid to slander celestial beings; ¹¹ yet even angels, although they are stronger and more powerful, do not bring slanderous accusations against such beings in the presence of the Lord. ¹² But these men blaspheme in matters they do not understand. They are like brute beasts, creatures of instinct, born only to be caught and destroyed, and like beasts they too will perish.

¹³ They will be paid back with harm for the harm they have done. Their idea of pleasure is to carouse in broad daylight. They are blots and blemishes, reveling in their pleasures while they feast with you. ¹⁴ With eyes full of adultery, they never stop sinning; they seduce the unstable;

they are experts in greed—an accursed brood! [accursed by who or what?] ¹⁵ They have left the straight way and wandered off to follow the way of Balaam son of Beor, who loved the wages of wickedness. ¹⁶ But he was rebuked for his wrongdoing by a donkey—a beast without speech—who spoke with a man’s voice and restrained the prophet’s madness. [What is the straight way they have left?]

¹⁷ These men are springs without water and mists driven by a storm. Blackest darkness is reserved for them. [What does this mean? Reserved by whom, what is the cause of the darkness?] ¹⁸ For they mouth empty, boastful words and, by appealing to the lustful desires of sinful human nature, they entice people who are just escaping from those who live in error. ¹⁹ They promise them freedom, while they themselves are slaves of depravity—for a man is a slave to whatever has mastered him. ²⁰ If they have escaped the corruption of the world by knowing our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ and are again entangled in it and overcome, they are worse off at the end than they were at the beginning. [Why are they worse?] ²¹ It would have been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than to have known it and then to turn their backs on the sacred command that was passed on to them. ²² Of them the proverbs are true: “A dog returns to its vomit,” and, “A sow that is washed goes back to her wallowing in the mud.”

Do you see God and His law of love, the principle of liberty in these verses? Or do these verses bring up ideas of imposed laws and inflicted punishments?

When you read them to you feel more love, peace, joy, or more anxiety, fear and dread? Why? Does the preconceived ideas we have been taught impact how we hear these words?

From The Remedy:

In the past, among God’s people were those who claimed to speak for God and bring his Remedy, but they did not speak for God at all, and they brought a false remedy. Likewise, there will be people among you who claim to teach God’s truth and have God’s Remedy but will teach lies. They will subtly introduce false remedies—destructive doctrines purported to heal but actually incite fear, shut down thinking, and damage the mind. They will even deny the Sovereign Lord who procured the Remedy, thus bringing rapid deterioration and destruction upon themselves. [Do you see design law in this version? What happens to a person who refuses remedy? Why does it happen?] ² There will be large numbers of people who embrace their corrupt ways while calling themselves Christians, thus causing the Remedy to be considered worthless. [Why?] ³ In their eagerness for power, fame and wealth, these false teachers will mislead you with theories and doctrines they have made up on their own. Because of this, their terminal condition only worsens, and their ultimate destruction is unavoidable. [Again do you see why? Is God to be feared in this rendering or is unremedied sin to be feared?]

⁴For God did not suspend reality to let the angels avoid the consequences of their deviation from his design for life, but he expelled them from his presence, suspending them in utter darkness for the day they reap the full result of unremedied sin. [What is this saying? What does the Bible teach about God's presences? 1Tim 6:16 God lives in unapproachable light. Jesus is the source of light. So how would God suspend angels in utter darkness? By expelling them from His presence, which occurred by whose choice? And is this speaking primarily of physical light or the light of truth?] ⁵God did not allow the gangrenous ancient world to completely cut itself off from him but brought the flood to excise the necrosis and save Noah—a teacher of the Remedy—and seven others. ⁶He diagnosed the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah as beyond healing, and in mercy, he cauterized those festering lesions to ash, making it clear that the unhealed will not be made to suffer eternally, but the torment of sin will mercifully be ended; [Do these stories show a God who is love working to heal and save, like a doctor intervening with a very sick patient, or a deity who is angry and mad who seeks to torture and kill, which God do you see in these verses?] ⁷and God delivered Lot—a man who partook of the Remedy and was tormented by the disgusting lives of those living in violation of God's design—⁸for it was torture for that man with a healed mind and sensitive heart to live day after day among such vileness and see and hear such vulgarity.[what was the cause of the torment to Lot? Was it inflicted by God or was it due to sin in his world? Have any of you been tormented when those you love have chosen to indulge sin and debased, damaged and injured themselves?] ⁹If God can do all of this, he also knows how to rescue from affliction the godly—those who have partaken of the Remedy—while preserving until the day everyone is accurately diagnosed, the ungodly—those who by refusing the Remedy suffer in persistent sin,¹⁰and especially those whose minds are controlled by selfishness and who are so self-centered that they despise any authority, oversight, or redirection. They are presumptuous, pompous and arrogant; they are so self-absorbed that they have no respect for heavenly beings, but instead, they denigrate them.¹¹Yet even angels, who are mightier and stronger than these false teachers, do not slander such beings in the presence of God—the source of all truth.¹²These people speak foolishly about things they don't even comprehend; they are like unthinking animals, driven by fear, rage, and lust. They are caught up in their own destructive choices, and—like the unthinking beasts—they will also perish. [Why will they perish—a judicial infliction, or the natural result of unremedied sin and separation from the only source of life?]

¹³They will reap what they have sown, receiving as their wages the harmful results of living outside God's design. Their idea of health and happiness is to violate trust, stay faithful to no one, and openly indulge the basest passions. They are festering lesions of decay, reveling in their orgies.¹⁴They constantly backstab, betray and exploit; they never stop violating God's design for life—the law of love—and instead, constantly promote selfishness. They seduce the immature and unstable; they are experts in taking for themselves, regardless of how it hurts others. They are unhealed, dying under the curse of sin,¹⁵they have chosen to leave the design protocols for life and have embraced the methods of Balaam, son of Beor, who loved the rewards procured by exploiting others.¹⁶But a donkey had more sense than Balaam and told him he was wrong. With the voice of a man, the donkey spoke and stopped the prophet's insane action.

¹⁷These people have nothing to offer; they are like dried-up springs, having no more substance than a vapor trail in the sky. Eternal darkness is what awaits them. [Why? What is the result of eternal separation from the source of all light, truth and love?] ¹⁸They proclaim a false message, empty of any healing power but appealing to the selfish human desire to advance self. They entice people who are only just escaping the dog-eat-dog world. ¹⁹They promise freedom from fear and selfishness but are themselves slaves to their own insecurities, lusts and depraved natures—for a person is a slave to whatever controls them. ²⁰If they have broken free from the corruption of the world by experiencing a genuine intimacy with our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ but choose to entangle themselves again in the web of selfishness, lust and deceit, they are worse than they were before they knew the freedom in Christ. ²¹They would suffer less if they had never experienced the joy and freedom of righteousness than to have known it and turned back into slavery and pain, ignoring God's design—the sacred protocols that were passed on to them. ²²Their characters prove true the proverbs: "A dog swallows its own vomit," and "You can clean a pig, but it will return to wallowing in the mud."

The lesson asks how we can protect ourselves against accepting false doctrines?

What method do you use?

What about the integrative evidenced-based approach, which requires us to know God's design laws, and harmonize our understanding of Scripture with testable parameters and real life experiences?

When we do this what kind of a God do we find? And isn't the ultimate question, the ultimate truth the truth about God Himself, His nature, character, method of operating?

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "In the strongest possible language..." Can you think of any doctrines today that promise people freedom but actually enslave people instead?

- What about penal substitution theology?
 - What does it promise? Freedom from punishment for sin
 - What does it deliver? Fear of punishment for sins unrepented of, fear of a god who must inflict punishment for unrepented sin, fear in a universe where their god is the source of inflicted pain and suffering, enslavement in a system of religion in which one lives in fear of doing something wrong:
 - "Oh no, I had the TV on Friday afternoon, was talking on the phone and forgot to turn it off before sunset."
 - "Oh no, in a meeting at work I took a paperclip off a bundle of papers and put it in my pocket and then brought it home, did I steal from my employer? Have I done this before, will God punish me if I forgot to ask forgiveness for it?"

- “Is it okay to throw the Frisbee on Sabbath afternoon? What about a baseball, what about basketball, what about hitting a tennis ball?”
- “We must not stay after church in the lobby to visit lest someone speak about something not holy and we hear it.”
- “I haven’t taken communion in three years, am I still saved or am I in trouble with God?”
- “What if I get into an argument and impulsively curse a person, and then step out in front of a car and get killed before I confess this sin—am I still saved?”
- “I did a rolling right at a stop sign, didn’t stop completely, is that sin for disobeying the law? Should I confess it?”
- “I see people beside the road holding signs “homeless” “Will work for food” etc. Should I give them a donation? What if they use the money for drugs? If I don’t give does that mean I am selfish? Is it sin to give or not give? I don’t know what to do?”

Do you see the imposed law system creates entire lines of thinking, belief systems that darken the mind, incite fear, enslave with legalistic and ritualistic behaviors, steal joy and cause one to constantly look at themselves rather than to rejoice in their love and admiration for God and Jesus!

This then leads to the false legal solution—well even if it is sin, I don’t need to worry because all my sins, past present and future were placed on Jesus at the Cross and God punished Jesus for my sins, I have accepted that legal payment and my record in heaven is stamped legally pardoned, and God declares me to be righteous, even though I am not. So, I don’t worry about whether these things are sins or not, because Jesus legally paid my penalty.

TUESDAY

The lesson speaks about people who return to their former sinful lives.

Read fourth paragraph, “Perhaps the echo of the words...” What is Jesus referring to with his parable?

Matthew 12:44,45: from The Remedy:

"When the mind of a person is freed from an evil spirit, the spirit seeks another to harass. But if the spirit finds no other,⁴⁴ it says, 'I will return to the one I left.' If, when it arrives, it finds the mind not filled with God's Spirit but instead empty and uncommitted,⁴⁵ it gets seven other spirits more wicked than itself and infiltrates the mind with lies, temptations, and distorted thinking. And the condition of that person is worse than before, because truth no longer has any impact on them. That is how it will be with this wicked generation."

Why is their condition worse than before? Because their initial condition was one of believing lies without having the benefit of knowing the truth, but then the truth was presented and the truth dispelled the lies and set them free. Then, after knowing the truth, they chose to reject the truth, to not apply the truth to their lives and instead choose the lies reverting to their old ways. Now, having considered, understood and rejected the truth, such truth has no impact because it has been rejected, thus they are worse off than before and the lies multiply and deepen their darkness.

What of the last sentence, “If involvement in church and the sharing of the new faith do not replace the earlier secular activities, it is too easy to revert to one’s old ways.”

Are they suggesting that it is church activities and sharing the faith that keeps people from having a darkened mind?

Can a person who has been freed from fear and selfishness by coming to the knowledge of Jesus Christ and His love for them, revert back to a life of fear and selfishness while they are active in, and perhaps because of, church activities?

In other words, do church activities keep us safe from backsliding or walking away from God? Were those who put Christ on the Cross, active in their church or not active?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “Many people have observed...” What does this sentence mean, “God is in control of the destinies of the wicked”?

Does this mean God determines the outcomes of their lives? That it is God’s choice whether they are saved or not? Or that it is God’s choice that determines their punishment?

These ideas are wrong; they are lies. This statement is evidence that the authors are operating on the false view of God’s law—i.e. that God’s law operates like human law and God will inflict the punishment they deserve.

What determines the destiny of the wicked is not the choice of God, but the choices of the wicked. Their refusal to accept healing, their persistence in evil change them, warp them, harden them, and build up a life history of evil that they will one day face in the presence of all truth and love. This is what determines their destiny, and their own unhealed characters is the source of their suffering.

This is from the book, Hard Sayings of the Bible by Intervarsity Press, commenting on God’s wrath described in Romans 1:

In some sense, God’s wrath is built into the very structure of created reality. In rejecting God’s structure and establishing our own, in violating God’s intention for the creation and substituting our own intentions, we cause our own disintegration. P 542

The human condition, which Paul describes in Romans 1:18-32, is not something caused by God. The phrase “revealed from heaven” (where “heaven” is a typical Jewish substitute word for “God”) does not depict some kind of divine intervention, but rather the inevitability of human debasement which results when God’s will, built into the created order, is violated. Since the created order has its origin in God, Paul can say that the wrath of God is now (constantly) being revealed “from heaven.” It is revealed in the fact that the rejection of God’s truth (Rom 1:18-20), that is, the truth about God’s nature and will, leads to futile thinking (Rom 1:21-22), idolatry (Rom 1:23), perversion of God-intended sexuality (Rom 1:24-27) and relational-moral brokenness (Rom 1:28-32). P 543

The expression “God gave them over” (or “handed them over”), which appears three times in this passage (Rom 1:24,26,28), supports the idea that the sinful perversion of human existence, though resulting from human decisions, is to be understood ultimately as God’s punishment which we, in freedom, bring upon ourselves. P 543

In light of these reflections, the common notion that God punishes or blesses in direct proportion to our sinful or good deeds cannot be maintained... God loves us with an everlasting love. But the rejection of that love separates us from its life-giving power. The result is disintegration and death. P 543

Kaiser, W., et al., Hard Saying of the Bible, Intervarsity Press, 1996,

What does the last sentence, “Whether unrighteous humanity or the fallen angels, God has taken special note of their evil and has planned their punishment on the day of judgment,” say to you?

Again, what kind of law does such a statement reveal the authors believe in?

The infection of Satan’s lie is deeply rooted within the landscape of Christianity. The final message to the world to prepare people for the second coming of Christ is to worship Him who made the heavens, earth, sea etc. and stop worshiping the dictator. We are called to designer worship.

Read second paragraph, “Peter and Jude record three examples...” Was God’s action at the flood, at Sodom, vengeance? Or was it something else?

First, what law lens are you looking through? Does God’s law function like human law, or is God’s law design law, protocols reality is built upon?

So, if God operates on design law, what do we make of the flood and Sodom and Gomorrah?

Was God acting to punish sin, or was God acting in mercy to restrain sin and keep open the avenue for healing and restoration?

First question—what is the punishment for sin, first death—sleep in the grave and then resurrection, or eternal death? Did the people who died in the flood or Sodom die first or second death? First, it therefore is not punishment for sin.

Second question, speaking in a language of those stuck in the false law construct: Does the punishment for sin happen before or after judgment? Or which comes first, the judgment and then the execution of the sentence for the guilty? Had the judgment happened at the time of the flood and Sodom? So, again it cannot be punishment for sin.

So, understanding reality, we realize what happened then was not God punishing for sin, nor God acting vindictively or vengefully. What was happening?

After Adam sinned, what was the condition of the human species? Could the species human be saved without Jesus coming to earth and completing His mission?

Did Satan know this? Genesis three, God tells the serpent the seed of the woman would crush the serpent's head. Did Satan know a Messiah was coming?

And what did Satan do? Did he try and prevent the Messiah from coming to earth? How?

Would God have Jesus born to a woman like Jezebel or force a woman against her will to be the mother of Jesus? So, what if Satan gets every person to permanently harden their heart to God? How many righteous people were on the earth at the time of the flood?

So was the flood God acting to punish or God acting in mercy and love to keep open the avenue for Messiah, in order to heal and save?

So the lesson authors see God as the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death—is there a problem with this view of God? What?

What is the truth? God is the source of all good, truth, love and life, sin is deviations from God's design and sin itself results in pain, suffering and death unless remedied by God.

Which God is the one you can trust?

So what are the false teachings? Those teachings about God that make God into the one we must fear, the punisher, the source of pain and death.

Is it surprising to discover that false teachings are found in every denominational organization?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “The first substantive reference to Sodom...” First question did Abraham negotiate with God? Hmm... Did God go to Abraham unaware of how Abraham would respond? Did God respond to Abraham’s requests to not destroy for 50, 40 and so on with a lack of knowledge of how many righteous people were in Sodom?

Did the conversation Abraham had with God change the outcome that God told Abraham was going to happen?

In other words, was God negotiating with Abraham or doing something else? What was God doing? God was educating by action the angels in heaven, who long to look into these things, and Abraham by experience on the kind of person God is.

What about the destruction of the cities, what is revealed about God, and about the end of the wicked at the end of time?

That God does not torture, that God will not allow people to suffer eternally but bring an end to the suffering.

FRIDAY

In the paragraph it states, “Christ came to release us from the condemnation of the law...” How?

What does this mean?

What law lens?

If the law is like human law, what would it mean to be released from the condemnation of the law? For instance, what does it mean to be released from a speeding ticket? To either have the fine waived or someone else to pay the fine. This is the false theology of penal substitution.

But, when we realize God’s law is design law, what does it mean to be released from the condemnation of the law? For instance, what does it mean to be released from the condemnation of a terminal diagnosis of lung cancer from years of smoking (violating the laws of health)? To be healed by having the cancer put into remission. Now, if the cancer is in remission and one is no longer living in violations of the laws of health, is there anything for the laws of health to condemn?

So, Christ frees us from the condemnation of the law by procuring a remedy and then applying that remedy in us to heal and restore us to live in harmony with His law/design for life.

Read and discuss questions 1-3

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

June 8-10, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC Event The Struggle is Real in Naperville, IL.

Sep 5, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

September 26-Oct 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC World Conference, Nashville TN, and our ministry will have a booth in the exhibit hall.

First and Second Peter Lesson 12 2Q 2017

The Day of the Lord

SABBATH

What does the lesson title bring to mind? Do you think:

- Celebration—like the marriage feast described in the parable?
- Reunion—like the prodigal son returning?
- God's exoneration—like Romans 3:4 says?
- Do you think punishment, judgment, vengeance and wrath? And if so, what law lens do you view these ideas through?
- Do you think the Lord's Day—the day of rest and gladness?
- Is there any parallel between the weekly Sabbath and the Day of the Lord?
 - The weekly Sabbath came at the end of creation week, at the end of God finishing His work of creating planet earth, humans and giving the evidence to refute Satan's lies
 - The Day of the Lord comes at the end of God finishing His work of redeeming and saving human beings and eliminating the infection of sin
 - The weekly Sabbath, for those who reject the truth about God is day of greatest violating of God's design – either by partying or by legal enslavement to manmade rules that destroy freedom
 - The Day of the Lord will be the day that those who have lived in greatest violation of God's design will come face to face with the truth of their condition, their history, their rejection of healing and reap the full consequences of their choices.
 - Thus, is the Sabbath and the Day of the Lord alike in that it all depends on whether one is right with God in heart and mind or not—if so then both are days of rest, celebration, rejoicing, but if not both are days of dread, suffering, destruction?

FRIDAY

A quote from the book The Desire of Ages says,

“The expectation of Christ's coming is to make men fear the Lord, and fear His judgments upon transgression. It is to awaken them to the great sin of rejecting His offers of mercy. Those who are watching for the Lord are purifying their souls by obedience to the truth.”

What does this mean? What does it sound like to you? When you hear language like this what comes to mind?

Does such language cause you to think of God as heavenly physician seeking to heal the sick, but leaving those who refuse to reap what they have chosen, or to think of God as a judge and imposer of punishment?

The problem is not in the quote above, the problem is that most people think through human imposed law, and further don't even allow the author who wrote it to define what she means by the terms she used. She used the term judgments upon transgression.

What are the judgments of God?

Let's read some Bible texts:

- Wail, for the day of the Lord is near; it will come like destruction from the Almighty... See, the day of the Lord is coming—a cruel day, with wrath and fierce anger—to make the land desolate and destroy the sinners within it.¹⁰ The stars of heaven and their constellations will not show their light. The rising sun will be darkened and the moon will not give its light.¹¹

I will punish the world for its evil, the wicked for their sins. I will put an end to the arrogance of the haughty and will humble the pride of the ruthless.¹² I will make man scarcer than pure gold, more rare than the gold of Ophir.¹³ Therefore I will make the heavens tremble; and the earth will shake from its place at the wrath of the Lord Almighty, in the day of his burning anger. Is 13:6, 9-13

- Alas for that day! For the day of the Lord is near; it will come like destruction from the Almighty. Joel 1:15
- Woe to you who long for the day of the Lord! Why do you long for the day of the Lord? That day will be darkness, not light.¹⁹ It will be as though a man fled from a lion only to meet a bear, as though he entered his house and rested his hand on the wall only to have a snake bite him.²⁰ Will not the day of the Lord be darkness, not light—pitch-dark, without a ray of brightness?²¹ “I hate, I despise your religious feasts; I cannot stand your assemblies.”²² Even though you bring me burnt offerings and grain offerings, I will not accept them. Though you bring choice fellowship offerings, I will have no regard for them.²³ Away with the noise of your songs! I will not listen to the music of your harps.²⁴ But let justice roll on like a river, righteousness like a never-failing stream! Amos 5:18-24
- “The day of the Lord is near for all nations. As you have done, it will be done to you; your deeds will return upon your own head. Ob 15
- Now, brothers, about times and dates we do not need to write to you,² for you know very well that the day of the Lord will come like a thief in the night.³ While people are saying, “Peace and safety,” destruction will come on them suddenly, as labor pains on a pregnant woman, and they will not escape.⁴ But you, brothers, are not in darkness so that this day should surprise you like a thief.⁵ You are all sons of the light and sons of the day. We do not belong to the night or to the darkness.⁶ So then, let us not be like others, who are asleep, but let us be alert and self-controlled.⁷ For those who sleep, sleep at night, and those who get drunk, get drunk at night.⁸ But since we belong to the day, let us be self-controlled, putting on faith and love as a breastplate, and the hope of salvation as a helmet. ⁹ For God did not appoint us to suffer wrath but to receive salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ. 1Thes 5:1-9

- But the day of the Lord will come like a thief. The heavens will disappear with a roar; the elements will be destroyed by fire, and the earth and everything in it will be laid bare. 2Pet 3:10
- The sun will be turned to darkness and the moon to blood before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord. ³² And everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved; Joel 2:31,32
- Multitudes, multitudes in the valley of decision! For the day of the Lord is near in the valley of decision. ¹⁵ The sun and moon will be darkened, and the stars no longer shine. ¹⁶ The Lord will roar from Zion and thunder from Jerusalem; the earth and the sky will tremble. But the Lord will be a refuge for his people, a stronghold for the people of Israel. Joel 3:14-16

How would you describe the day of the Lord?

So what is going on here? Is God going to use His power to inflict pain, suffering, punishment for sin? This is what is commonly taught, why?

Because people read these verses through imposed law and wrong believe these verses mean God inflicting punishment like earthly governments do.

However, under design law, these verses mean something entirely different—what?

- God's judgments are His accurate diagnosis AND His merciful/therapeutic interventions
- God's judgments always harmonize with His character and design laws, thus God never coerces

Consider these verses:

- Romans 1:18-34, God's wrath is letting go
- For a fire has been kindled by my wrath, one that burns to the realm of death below. It will devour the earth and its harvests and set afire the foundations of the mountains. I will heap calamities upon them and spend my arrows against them... But God says the wise will understand what his wrath really is: "If only they were wise and would understand this and discern what their end will be! How could one man chase a thousand, or two put ten thousand to flight, unless their Rock had sold them, unless the Lord had given them up?" (emphasis mine). (Deut 32:22-23, 29-30)
- "When that happens, I will become angry with them; I will abandon them, and they will be destroyed. Many terrible disasters will come upon them, and then they will realize that these things are happening to them because I, their God, am no longer with them. (emphasis mine). (Deut 31:17 GNT)

Do we find harmony here or conflict?

So what are the judgments of God? From the author of The Desire of Ages quote read earlier:

"I was shown that the judgments of God would not come directly out from the Lord upon them, but in this way;

"They place themselves beyond His protection. He warns, corrects, reproves, and points out the only path of safety; then if those who have been the objects of His special care will follow their own course, independent of the Spirit of God, after repeated warnings, if they choose their own way, then He does not commission His angels to prevent Satan's decided attacks upon them.

"It is Satan's power that is at work at sea and on land, bringing calamity and distress, and sweeping off multitudes to make sure of his prey, and storm and tempest both by sea and land will be, for Satan has come down in great wrath. He is at work. He knows his time is short and, he is not restrained; we shall see more terrible manifestations of his great power than we have ever dreamed of." Manuscript Release vol. 14, p. 3

Are these judgments the same as the judgment of God in The Desire of Ages quotation?

What is the cause of the pain, the suffering, the death of the wicked in the end?

What is happening and why?

What is to be feared, God or unremedied sin in the heart and mind?

What is the source of pain, suffering and death—God or sin?

Why then do Bible writers use such harsh language when talking about the day of the Lord?

- What level of moral development is the primary audience?
- What activities is the primary audience involved in?
- What was the belief system of the people of earth in Old Testament times? i.e. polytheistic, meaning they had good gods and bad gods, kind beneficent gods and mean punishing gods. They would pray to the kind gods for bountiful harvest, health, children, but to the mean gods to punish their enemies. What did the true God want them to learn first and foremost—There is one God—so God allowed both good and evil to be attributed to Him rather than opening an opportunity for misunderstanding that Satan was worthy of worship.
- It was not this way in the immediate aftermath of the fall—it was only this way once the minds of men became so polluted with polytheistic ideas.

Read first two paragraphs SABBATH's lesson, "In ages past people..." Were you grieved as I was when you read this paragraph? How sad, how pitiful, how deeply the infection of Satan's lies about God have penetrated Christian thought that this could be put out as sanctifying truth.

So, let's examine their assumption, their hypothesis, that a belief in a god who will have a future judgment and therefore punish the disobedient is a godly reason that people should avoid doing evil and instead do good.

Consider the following people from history—did they believe in a god who would hold people accountable and inflict punishment for sin?

- Nadab and Abihu—Lev 10
- King Saul
- Balaam
- Annas and Caiaphas
- Popes and prelates through the dark ages
- Puritans who burned so called witches at the stake
- KKK and other groups who burn crosses in yards of black people and white supremacists who participate in lynchings?
- Mafia bosses—why do they go to confession?
- Islamic terrorists—do they believe in God and a future judgment?

All of these evil people, and millions more through history, believed in a judgmental god and a future judgment, yet carry out terrible acts of evil—so does the belief in a judgmental god and a future judgment prevent people from doing evil, or is it in truth, just the opposite? The belief in a punishing god causes more hardness of heart, destroys love and makes evil grow?

Which do you think would result in a more altruistic society, to believe in no God, or to believe in a judgmental punishing god?

- A recent study of 1170 children from six countries—United States, Canada, China, Jordan, South Africa, and Turkey—found that children raised in religious homes were not as good at sharing and more likely to be punitive when compared to children raised in more secular homes.
- The author of the study said in an interview, "In our study, kids from atheist and nonreligious families were, in fact, more generous. . . . Together, these results reveal the similarity across countries in how religion negatively influences children's altruism. They challenge the view that religiosity facilitates pro-social behavior, and call into question whether religion is vital for moral development—suggesting the secularization of moral discourse does not reduce human kindness. In fact, it does just the opposite." (J. Decety et al., "The Negative Association between Religiousness and Children's Altruism across the World," Current Biology 25, no. 22 (November 16, 2015): 2951–55.)

God's laws are design laws—one of them being the law of worship, by beholding we are changed. Understanding this, the study outcome is no surprise; it is the predictable and unavoidable outcome when the predominant worldview of God is that of an authoritarian dictator who operates on imposed law.

We really are transformed into the image of the god we worship. It is just as the prophet Jeremiah said, "They followed worthless idols and became worthless themselves" (Jer. 2:5). Or as Paul said, "Because those people refuse to keep in mind the true knowledge about God, he has given them over to corrupted minds" (Rom. 1:28).

The sad truth is these ideas put out in our quarterly are obstructing the final mission of the church, obstructing the truth about God that is to lighten the world, keeping people trapped in the darkness of lies about God, undermining trust in God, and preventing people from experiencing the freedom that Jesus has provided.

What is the final true message that is to lighten the world before the great and terrible day of the Lord?

"It is the darkness of misapprehension of God that is enshrouding the world. Men are losing their knowledge of His character. It has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. At this time a message from God is to be proclaimed, a message illuminating in its influence and saving in its power. His character is to be made known. Into the darkness of the world is to be shed the light of His glory, the light of His goodness, mercy and truth...The last rays of merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is the revelation of His character of love." Christ's Object Lessons, p.415

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Peter warned..." Can anyone summarize what we discussed last week about those who bring a false gospel/remedy promising freedom but that actually enslaves?

- What is sin—deeds or a condition of heart that leads to destructive deeds?
- So could one be a slave to sin because they are in a religion that teaches sin is a legal problem of bad deeds, that must be accounted for, so they confess bad deeds, seeking to get legal pardon, erasure from heavenly records etc, but never actually have a change of heart?
- In this situation they live in fear, fear of the judgment, fear of unconfessed sin, fear of people finding out what they have done etc.
- This is not the freedom Christ promised but the false gospel of the originator of lies.

It is this false picture of God which has defiled the Spirit Temple—or as Paul said to the Thessalonians the man of sin has set himself up in God's temple proclaiming himself to be god. This is why we have a message that the sanctuary is to be cleansed—but that message has also been corrupted by Satan's lies and instead of teaching the truth, which cleanses hearts and minds, the false law construct has resulted in a false sanctuary message, with heavenly legalism, in which legal accounting is going on in books in heaven.

We must come back to the truth about God, which will result in the minds of people being cleansed from lies, hearts being transformed and the final message of mercy going to the world—the cleansing of the sanctuary!

Read the bottom pink section, “Why must the Word of God...” Any questions come to mind?

- How many Christians group are out there quoting the Bible as their source of authority yet arguing among themselves what it means?
- How can we understand the Bible if we don’t reason and think?
- Why did God give us reasoning powers if He doesn’t want us to use them?
- Why did God say, “Come let us reason together...” if we are not to think for ourselves?
- What does God want from us—blind unthinking behavioral obedience, or our love and trust?
- Can love and trust be obtained without a person being fully persuaded in their own mind of the trustworthiness of the other?
- Romans 14:5 every person must be fully persuaded in their own mind, why? What does this require?
- Did those who put Christ on the cross claim to believe the Scripture and also the Sabbath? Did that protect them from being God’s enemies?

What do you understand is the purpose of the Sabbath?

Jesus said the Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath—what does this mean?

If I said, McKee Baking Company built their fitness center for their employees, the employees were not built for the fitness center, what would you think this statement means?

Does this give any insight to what Christ was saying about the Sabbath?

MONDAY

Scoffers—those who ridicule the idea of God and the second coming—how do you deal with such people?

Why do you think Christ has not returned?

- Is the time of the second coming something God fixed and He is just waiting on the cosmic stopwatch to run down and then He is coming back—ready or not?
- Or, is the time of the second coming determined by events on planet earth, and those events are a result of the choices of humans and thus we are delaying His return by not choosing to prepare for His return?

Is there something happening on earth that is delaying Christ's return? What?

When Jesus said the gospel of the kingdom will be preached... has the gospel of the kingdom of love gone to the world, or has a false gospel of the kingdom of an imperial dictator gone to the world?

Revelation 7 God tells the 4 angels to hold back the four winds of strife until an event happens—what? Who are God's servants? What is the sealing of God's servants?

Could God be waiting for the truth about Him to be presented effectively enough to seal His end time spokespersons and then the four winds loose and these spokespersons present the truth about God and from their witness and great multitude will be saved?

Then what would be the effect of presenting God like this week's lesson does? Would it be to bring people to a true knowledge of God, or to obstruct the end time truth from healing hearts and minds i.e. delay the coming of the Lord?

TUESDAY

What do you think of the title?

Many people struggle with the concept of time—the lesson states in the third paragraph, “In other words, our conception of time is not like God's: so, we need to be careful in the judgments we make about time.”

Do you believe God made time? If God made time is God subject to time, or is time subject to God?

Could one of the aspects of Jesus saying He is Lord of the Sabbath also mean He is the Lord of time?

Is God constrained to a linear existence, or does God transcend time?

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

I AM means an eternal presence; the past, present, and future are alike with God. He sees the most remote events of past history and the far distant future with as clear a vision as we do those things which are transpiring daily. We know not what is before us, and if we did, it would not contribute to our eternal welfare. God gives us an opportunity to exercise faith and trust in the great I AM. . . . {TMK 12.2}

Do you believe this to be true? What does this mean for us today?

Could God not only be outside time, which allows Him to experience all points in time simultaneously, but could time move at different rates in different places?

The Hafele–Keating experiment was a test of the theory of relativity. In October 1971, Joseph C. Hafele, a physicist, and Richard E. Keating, an astronomer, took four cesium-beam atomic clocks aboard commercial airliners. They flew twice around the world, first eastward, then westward, and compared the clocks against others that remained at the United States Naval Observatory. When reunited, the three sets of clocks were found to disagree with one another, and their differences were consistent with the predictions of special and general relativity. (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hafele%E2%80%93Keating_experiment)

Clocks that flew east, with the rotation of the earth moved faster than the clocks on earth and thus when compared to the clocks on earth, less time had past, they were behind the clocks on the earth. The clocks flown west, against the earth's rotation, flew slower relative to those on earth, and thus more time elapsed on those than the ones stationary on earth. Additionally the stronger the gravity the slower the clocks move, so clocks on the space station move faster than ones on earth.

Is it possible while thousands of years have passed on earth that only a few days have passed in heaven since Lucifer's rebellion?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson asks the question “So what does this have to do with me now?”

This is a great question—is the gospel merely next-life, life insurance? Or does it have application today, here and now?

Those with the legal view often fail to make the connection and end up saying things like in paragraph two, “our whole Christian faith would become meaningless without the return of Christ and all that is promised.”

Is this true? In other words, there is no meaning, no purpose, no benefit in living God's way except for the future life; God's way doesn't benefit us today, except as it ensures our future eternal life. Is this thinking correct?

Consider, if there is no second coming of Christ does that suddenly mean that selfishness, lies, betrayal, coercion, intimidation, abuse, murder, adultery, hatred, etc. are healthier ways to live than love, truth, honesty, integrity, freedom, kindness, mercy, loyalty and forgiveness?

Even if no future life, which methods result in better living here and now?

So what difference does it make? The difference between sickness and health, pain and wellness, life and death—why? Because God's laws are design laws and harmony brings health, here and now!

THURSDAY

Peter warns that Paul's writings can be misconstrued—thoughts? Have Paul's writings been misconstrued? How?

Paul's writings are the primary writings used by those who teach the penal substitutionary lie, built upon the human imposed law construct. Paul never taught penal substitution, sadly his writings have been used to support this lie. I believe Peter was warning against this.

First and Second Peter Lesson 13 2Q 2017

Major Themes

SABBATH

Read memory text: “He himself bore our sins in his body on the cross, so that, free from sins, we might live for righteousness; by his wounds you have been healed.” 1Pet 2:24 NRSV

Now I am going to read the same verse from The Remedy and I want you to compare the two and think, do you here the exact same meaning from the two renderings?

He took upon himself our sinfulness (our terminal condition) and in his own person carried it upon the cross so that we could be freed from sin and live the right way—loving God and others more than ourselves. You have been healed by the Remedy procured by his painful ordeal.

Does it make a difference to use “sins” versus “sinfulness”? What difference?

Does our understanding of this verse, whether he took our sins or sinfulness upon himself, impact our understanding of the judgment?

Read second paragraph, “What is significant is that Peter...” How do you understand the judgment? Is there one judgment, two judgments, three judgments?

For instance:

- Is there an investigative judgment, a judgment before the second coming? If so,
 - Who is being judged and who is doing the judging?
 - Is this a judicial process with records being reviewed and evidence being entered and defense attorneys pleading for the accused?
 - Who determines who is saved and who is lost?
 - Whose judgment is being exercised and whose executive decision-making is being utilized to determine the saved and lost in this judgment?
 - Is God judging the people of the earth, or is this the judgment of the people of the earth as to whether they can trust God?
- Is there a judgment during the 1000 years?
 - If so who is doing the judging and who is being judged?
 - Are the righteous judging the lives the wicked and the fallen angels?
 - Are the righteous judging whether God was right in who is there in heaven and who is not?
- Is there a judgment after the 1000 years?
 - If so, who is doing the judging and who is being judged?

- Is this a judicial process with records being reviewed and evidence being entered and defense attorneys pleading for the accused?
- Is this the revelation of all histories, realities, characters as they are—each person coming face to face with their own selves?

SDA Church has taught the idea of a judgment that occurs before the second coming of Christ. This doctrine has its roots in the Great Awakening of the 19th Century with the Baptist Preacher William Miller and his Daniel prophecy of Daniel 8:14, the cleansing of the sanctuary, which he taught was the earth to be cleansed at the second coming, which he predicted would occur Oct 22, 1844.

But there was a great disappointment when Christ did not return and people began to examine what was misunderstood and they realized the Bible does not teach that the earth is the sanctuary to be cleansed. They reevaluated, and over a course of years, realized some form of preparation was to be done before the return of Christ. Sadly, because of the infection of the false law construct, many people developed a heavenly legalism theory in which there is a courtroom in heaven and books are open and records of deeds are recorded there, and these records are investigated, with prosecution, defense, pleas etc. However, this is all misunderstood.

In Scripture there are several texts that refer to this important event in salvation history, which was taught by one of the founders of the SDA church, but which those who embraced the false law model failed to understand.

Here is the historic quote:

The coming of Christ as our high priest to the most holy place, for the cleansing of the sanctuary, brought to view in Daniel 8:14; the coming of the Son of man to the Ancient of days, as presented in Daniel 7:13; and the coming of the Lord to His temple, foretold by Malachi, are descriptions of the same event; and this is also represented by the coming of the bridegroom to the marriage, described by Christ in the parable of the ten virgins, of Matthew 25. {FLB 207.4}

Daniel 8:14 is merely predicting the time this event will begin, no other significant details are given in the 8:14 text.

In Daniel 7 we read:

“As I looked, “thrones were set in place, and the Ancient of Days took his seat. His clothing was as white as snow; the hair of his head was white like wool. His throne was flaming with fire, and its wheels were all ablaze. A river of fire was flowing, coming out from before him. Thousands upon thousands attended him; ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him. The court was seated, and the books were opened....“In my vision at night I looked, and there before me was one like a son of man, coming with the clouds of heaven. He approached the Ancient of Days and was led into his presence. He was given authority, glory and sovereign power; all peoples, nations and men of every language worshiped him. His dominion is an everlasting dominion that will not pass away, and his kingdom is one that will never be destroyed. Daniel 7:9,10,13,14

What is being described? What law lens are you reading through, imposed human law, or design law?

Those looking through human imposed law lenses teach that this text is describing a judicial proceeding in heaven in which God is the great Judge who sits down to pronounce judgment upon all mankind, but this passage of Scripture does not actually say that, instead we have to read into the Scripture to come to that conclusion.

If we take a more straightforward approach and ask what is being described in the context of the passage another idea emerges.

The word “court” can mean a legal body, but what else does the word “court” describe? A Royal court!

What is being described is not a judicial proceeding. Instead what is described is a Royal Court! It is the Royal Court of the universe which is holding the Coronation of Christ! Some are uncomfortable with this conclusion and rest their entire position on the Hebrew word "diyn," which is translated “court,” claiming this Hebrew word refers to a judicial proceeding. I refer them to The Theological Wordbook of the Old Testament published in 1980 by Moody Press, which says:

This word, with its derived noun diyn is nearly identical in meaning with šhaphat {shaw-fat} (q.v.) and its derived noun mišpat {mish-pawt} (q.v.). It appears only twenty-three times, a fraction of the times šhaphat and mišpat appear. Of the twenty-three appearances, five are in parallel with šhaphat (Jer 5:28; 22:16; Prov 31:8; Ps 7:8 [H 9]; 9:8 [H 9]) and twice more it is associated in the text with mišpat (Ps 72:2; Jer 21:12). Thus nearly a third of its occurrences show how closely the idea of diyn was identified or associated with the root šhaphat. The verb also occurs in Ugaritic and in parallel with tp (the cognate of šhaphat) (Fisher, RSP, vol. I, p. 166). Likewise a similar—nearly identical as far as it goes—list of terms is associated with diyn, demonstrating the near identity of meaning: with mēyšhar {may-shawr} “uprightness,” “equity” (Ps 96:10; cf. Ps 75:2); and with gaša (Ps 54:1 [H 3]; cf. Ps 72:4). As with šhaphat it represents God’s government as both among his people (Israel) and among all peoples (Ps 135:14 “people”; Ps 7:8 [H 9] “peoples” cf Ps 72:2; Ps 9:8 [H 9]). As far as the small number of occurrences allows a test, the range of meanings is exactly the same: to govern, in the whole range of activities of government: legislative, executive, judicial, or otherwise. See the discussion of šhaphat and mišpat. The difference between the terms is simply that diyn is poetic, probably also an archaic and more elegant term. Of the twenty-three occurrences, only one is outside the Protestant grouping of poetical and poetical-prophetic literature. The exception is the single passive form—a Niphal participle (II Sam 19:9 [H 10]). The chief theological significance of this word is that apparently like šhaphat it embodies the idea of government, in whatever realm, in all its aspects.[1]

Further, notice the text says that all people from all over the earth worship Jesus—what does this mean? It means that the minds of people are being changed—it means that people are making decisions to worship Jesus, it means they are making judgments about the trustworthiness of God!

Once we recognize that the court seated is the Royal Court of the universe convening for the governmental action of coronating Christ, which involves intelligent beings recognizing Jesus as worthy of our worship, we can more clearly understand what occurs during the investigative judgment. Daniel 7:21,22 gives insight:

As I watched, this horn was waging war against the saints and defeating them, until the Ancient of Days came and pronounced judgment in favor of the saints of the Most High, and the time came when they possessed the kingdom.

The above rendering is from the NIV which many, who assume the legal model, prefer. But does the meaning of the passage change when we read from the King James Version?

Until the Ancient of days came, and judgment was given to the saints of the most High; and the time came that the saints possessed the kingdom. Daniel 7:22

Which translation is more accurate? The Hebrew word translated “pronounced” actually means “to give” or “to impart” and thus the KJV would be more accurate in this context.

Why do the saints of God need judgment (another word for discernment) imparted to them?

The Daniel text tells us the horn warred against the saints and was defeating them. What kind of warfare was going on?

For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. 2 Cor 10:3-5

What kind of war? Where is it being fought? This is a war between truth and lies, centering on God’s character, and being fought in our minds! Amazingly, Paul makes the connection to the cleansing of the Temple even closer and shows how the Temple is connected to this war going on in our minds:

Concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered to him, we ask you, brothers, not to become easily unsettled or alarmed by some prophecy, report or letter supposed to have come from us, saying that the day of the Lord has already come. Don’t let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God. 2Thes 2:1-4

Paul is describing the exact same events as Daniel 7 in which evil powers war against the saints and oppose God. In the aftermath of Christ's death, resurrection, and ascension into heaven, did this man of lawlessness ride into heaven overthrow God, set himself up in God's temple in heaven, and proclaim himself to be God? Now, where did this happen? In the Spirit Temple! In our minds!

Therefore, the cleansing of the temple, as described in the Bible, is the cleansing of our minds from the lies about God, which wins us back to trust and results in our cleansing from sin.

Daniel is told in vision that an evil power would arise that would lie, distort, misrepresent God, and defile the Spirit Temple by getting humans to accept, worship, and teach a false picture of God. According to our understanding of interpreting prophetic time, it would take 2,300 years before enough truth would be recovered for Christ to empower His people on earth with judgment (discernment) to break free from the lies and be cleansed in their minds and characters.

All of this is confirmed for us by the other text describing the same event as Daniel 8:14, Malachi 3:1-3:

Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come," says the Lord Almighty. But who can endure the day of his coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver.

What is getting cleansed during the investigative judgment? The Levites. And who are the Levites? The Priesthood of believers (1Pet 2:5,9).

God is cleansing His people from what? 1) the lies about Him which keep us from trusting Him and 2) when we are won back to trust, He cleanses us from sin—fear and selfishness. God writes His law of love into our hearts. He restores His character of righteousness in us. This is what is happening during the investigative judgment.

How does this happen? By our investigating the truth about God as revealed in Christ, rejecting the lies, and clinging to the truth and trusting God!

Many have a very difficult time with this truth, because certain Bible passages are misunderstood, such as:

- As I judged your fathers in the desert of the land of Egypt, so I will judge you, declares the Sovereign Lord. Ezekiel 20:36

- You, then, why do you judge your brother? Or why do you look down on your brother? For we will all stand before God's judgment seat. Romans 14:10
- For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, that each one may receive what is due him for the things done while in the body, whether good or bad. 2 Cor 5:10
- Since you call on a Father who judges each man's work impartially, live your lives as strangers here in reverent fear. 1 Peter 1:17
- And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Another book was opened, which is the book of life. The dead were judged according to what they had done as recorded in the books. Revelation 20:12

Traditionally, these texts are interpreted to mean that God's judgment determines our destiny, either saved or lost. But this is not the case. God's judgment is merely the accurate diagnosis of our condition, either healed and restored to Christlikeness or incurable. An example of God's judgment is found in Hosea 4:17:

Ephraim is joined to idols; leave him alone!

What is God's judgment in this case? Ephraim cannot be separated from his idols, so leave him the way he is.

What determines our eternal destiny is not God's judgment upon us, but our judgment of God, which in turn makes us either fit or unfit for living in God's system of other-centered love. If we judge God trustworthy, then we open our heart and His Spirit heals us from sin. If, instead, we accept Satan's lies and judge God as untrustworthy, then we keep our heart closed and eventually move ourselves beyond His healing reach. One day all will stand in God's presence and their true condition will be revealed – this is God's judgment. Jesus describes this reality:

“Make a tree good and its fruit will be good, or make a tree bad and its fruit will be bad, for a tree is recognized by its fruit. You brood of vipers, how can you who are evil say anything good? For out of the overflow of the heart the mouth speaks. The good man brings good things out of the good stored up in him, and the evil man brings evil things out of the evil stored up in him. But I tell you that men will have to give account on the day of judgment for every careless word they have spoken. For by your words you will be acquitted, and by your words you will be condemned.” Matthew 12:33-37

It is our very condition that determines our eternal destiny. We cannot make ourselves good. We can only be made good by the power of God working in us. And what determines whether God's power is experienced within our hearts and minds? Whether we trust God and open our heart to Him or not.

This reality is stated beautifully in the book The Great Controversy:

Like the waters of the Flood the fires of the great day declares the verdict that the wicked are incurable. They have no disposition to submit to divine authority. Their will has been exercised in revolt; and when life is ended, it is too late to turn the current of their thoughts in the opposite direction, too late to turn from transgression to obedience, from hatred to love. GC 543.1

Does God's verdict make the wicked incurable or does God's verdict merely pronounce the reality that already exists in the hearts and minds of the lost – that they are incurable?

We do not need to fear God who is trying to save and heal us; we need to fear sin, which if unremedied, destroys us!

What then is recorded in the record books of heaven?

The "record books" are a description of recorded data—I doubt seriously it is paper, or parchment, but some type of recording system we can't comprehend. But there are at least three distinct recording systems:

- The system in which the lives of people are recorded, i.e. their individualities, identities are stored, the book of life
- The book sealed with seven seals, which is a history of the entire great controversy which God wrote down before He created any intelligent life, demonstrating His foreknowledge of all that would happen
- The records kept by the recording angels which were directed by God to record events as they unfold, and when the book sealed with seven seals is revealed it will match perfectly with what the recording angels recorded, demonstrating that while God has foreknowledge, He never used that foreknowledge to take away our freedom of choice. And that God did everything He could to save every person and those lost are only lost because they insisted on refusing God's healing.

With this in mind, what is your response to the last paragraph in Sabbath's lesson which states, "that God will judge our actions at the last judgment"?

Is it our actions that are judged or our hearts?

- Man looks on the outward appearance God looks on the heart
- Make a tree good and its fruit will be good
- From the abundance of the heart man speaks...
- As a man thinks in his heart so is he

Is sin a problem of deeds, actions, or a problem of the heart that is manifested in the actions?

Can a person do an act, which appears good, but which is actually evil?

Can a person do an act, which appears evil, but is actually good?

Let's give a simply example:

- Could the act of standing up in the church sanctuary, turning over the communion table, taking out your belt and cracking it, and accusing the pastor and elders of defaming God's house be either an act of evil or an act of righteousness—depending on who is doing it, why, and the motive of the heart?
- Can we tell by the act alone?
- Can one person see the act and judge it righteous and another judge it evil?
- What about the husband, whose wife has a massive stroke is brain dead, so he pulls the plug and lets her die? Could it be that he fulfilled a promise he made to her to not let her exist in a vegetative state and thus it was an act of great love? Could it be he has had a girlfriend on the side for years and he can't marry his girlfriend until the wife is dead?
- Can we tell by the act along?

Are we really judged by acts, or are we judged by the actual condition of our hearts—have we been won to trust God, opened our hearts to Him and been reborn with new desires, motives, longings and thus “it is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me”?

SUNDAY

The lesson talks about salvation—what do you understand the word salvation to mean?

If a non-Christian sits next to you on an airplane and you have a two hour flight, and they ask you, what does salvation mean—what do you say?

Acts 4:12 is a great verse for this because it has two words we can examine, salvation and saved:

Salvation is found in no one else, for there is no other name under heaven given to men by which we must be saved.”

What do both words mean?

σωτηρία [soteria /so·tay·ree·ah/] n f. Feminine of a derivative of 4990 as (properly, abstract) noun; TDNT 7:965; TDNTA 1132; GK 5401; 45 occurrences; AV translates as “salvation” 40 times, “the (one) be saved” once, “deliver + 1325” once, “health” once, “saving” once, and “that (one) be saved + 1519” once. 1 deliverance, preservation, safety, salvation. 1a deliverance from the molestation of enemies. 1b in an ethical sense, that which concludes to the souls safety or salvation. 1b1 of Messianic salvation. 2 salvation as the present possession of all true Christians. 3 future salvation, the sum of benefits and blessings which the Christians, redeemed from all earthly ills, will enjoy after the visible return of Christ from heaven in the consummated and eternal kingdom of God. Additional Information: Fourfold salvation: saved from the penalty, power, presence and most importantly the pleasure of sin.¹

Deliverance from what is going to injure, harm, destroy, enslave—the question: from what do we need deliverance? Do we need deliverance from:

- God?
- God’s judgment?
- God’s punishment?
- Our sinful condition?
- Our false beliefs, fears, insecurities, bad habits, selfishness i.e. from ourselves?
- Our fallen state, terminal and dying state of being?

Hmmm, then what would Jesus need to do to provide this deliverance, pay a legal penalty to His Father? How would such an act fix our condition or free us from our fear, selfishness and distrust of God?

It wouldn’t, that is why Christianity has been so impotent in doing its work, because it has been infected with a false law construct and preaches a false remedy that doesn’t work.

This is the man of sin setting himself up in God’s temple proclaiming himself to be God—and from which we must cleanse our minds and hearts.

What does saved mean?

ἐκσώζω, σώζω [sozo /sode·zo/] v. From a primary sos (contraction for obsolete saoz, “safe”); TDNT 7:965; TDNTA 1132; GK 1751 and 5392; 110 occurrences; AV translates as “save” 93 times, “make whole” nine times, “heal” three times, “be whole” twice, and translated miscellaneous three times. 1 to save, keep safe and sound, to rescue from danger or destruction. 1a one (from injury or peril). 1a1 to save a suffering one (from perishing), i.e. one suffering from disease, to make well, heal, restore to health. 1b1 to preserve one who is in danger of destruction, to save or rescue. 1b to save in the technical biblical sense. 1b1 negatively. 1b1a to deliver from the penalties of the Messianic judgment. 1b1b to save from the evils which obstruct the reception of the Messianic deliverance.²

It means to heal! To fix what is out of harmony with how God built life and health to function.

If a person goes to the emergency room bitten by a poisonous snake and says “Doctor Please save me” what are they asking for—forgiveness? No! Healing!

Read second paragraph, “In many of the sacrifices described...” Was sin being transferred? Truly, in reality? Was sin even symbolically being transferred or was another symbolism being represented?

Consider, as you hear this, what law lens are you hearing it through—human imposed law, or design law? Is this describing a legal process or a healing process?

From the book The Great Controversy:

Important truths concerning the atonement are taught by the typical service. A substitute was accepted in the sinner's stead; but the sin was not canceled by the blood of the victim. A means was thus provided by which it was transferred to the sanctuary. By the offering of blood the sinner acknowledged the authority of the law, confessed his guilt in transgression, and expressed his desire for pardon through faith in a Redeemer to come; but he was not yet entirely released from the condemnation of the law. On the Day of Atonement the high priest, having taken an offering from the congregation, went into the most holy place with the blood of this offering, and sprinkled it upon the mercy seat, directly over the law, to make satisfaction for its claims. Then, in his character of mediator, he took the sins upon himself and bore them from the sanctuary. Placing his hands upon the head of the scapegoat, he confessed over him all these sins, thus in figure transferring them from himself to the goat. The goat then bore them away, and they were regarded as forever separated from the people. {GC 420.1}

Now, lets ask some questions:

Important truths concerning the atonement are taught by the typical service. A substitute was accepted in the sinner's stead;[accepted for what purpose, to punish or to cure?] but the sin was not canceled by the blood of the victim.[sin, does this mean act, or state of being out of harmony with God's design, is this referring only to the animal symbols, which Hebrews tells us was never able to cleanse the conscience of the worshipper, or to Jesus?] A means was thus provided by which it was transferred to the sanctuary.[what sanctuary, a tent made of gold, goats skins, and silver, or to the sanctuary Jesus mentioned that when they destroy it He would raise it up in three days? And was the act transferred, or is this symbolically teaching the terminal condition was taken up by another?] By the offering of blood the sinner acknowledged the authority of the law, confessed his guilt in transgression, and expressed his desire for pardon through faith in a Redeemer to come;[What does the blood symbolize? Life, whose, Jesus' which is sinless and cleanses, and thus the blood acknowledge what type of law, impose rules requiring inflicted punishment, or God's design law He built life to operate upon? Why language such as pardon and transgression and guilt? To what moral developmental level were the people who received the ceremonial law?] but he was not yet entirely released from the condemnation of the law. [what does the law of God condemn? Deviations from design, like the law of respiration condemning going into space without a spacesuit. Why was the sinner not released from such condemnation? Because they were only acting out a symbol, the Savior had not yet come, the Remedy had not yet been procured, they had not yet been glorified and permanently freed from the infection of sin] On the Day of Atonement the high priest, having taken an offering from the congregation, went into the most holy place with the blood of this offering, and sprinkled it upon the mercy seat, directly over the law, to make satisfaction for its claims. [What does this mean? What does the law claim? What satisfies that claim? What law lens are you looking through? If our child was dying of leukemia what does the law of health claim? In other words, what does the law of health require in order for your child to live? The leukemia to go into remission—what would be the only thing that would satisfy that requirement and also satisfy you? A remedy that achieves that healing! In our case what is the remedy that achieves our healing? The truth which destroys lies and the perfect character of Jesus reproduced within and these are symbolized by what? The blood!] Then, in his character of mediator, he took the sins upon himself and bore them from the sanctuary.[What does this mean in His capacity as mediator? Who is the High Priest representing? Jesus, and what is Jesus working to do? Where is Jesus working? In a building or in the hearts and minds of His people? So Jesus took our sinfulness upon Himself and eradicated it, perfected humanity, and then works in us to eradicate our selfish, carnal nature and put His nature where our fallen nature was. Thus He removes our sinfulness, our fear, our insecurity, our selfishness along with the lies, the shame the guilt and carries it away from us and what does Jesus do with it?] Placing his hands upon the head of the scapegoat, he confessed over him all these sins, thus in figure transferring them from himself to the goat. The goat then bore them away, and they were regarded as forever separated from the people. {GC 420.1} [What does this mean? That having cleansed our minds from the lies about God, our carnal natures etc., all responsibility for all sin, rebellion, pain, suffering, death rests back on Satan who originated the rebellion without cause—this is atonement bringing the hearts and minds of all who will allow Him back into unity, at-one-ment!]

Read third paragraph, “The blood of the sacrifice...” What does this mean?

- Did the blood of animals have any actual role in salvation?
- Did a person have to participate in the Levitical system to be saved?
 - Naaman, Nebuchadnezzar, the widow who housed Elijah, Daniel and the loyal in Babylon while the temple was torn down, Esther and those who didn't return to Jerusalem, the Magi from the East, the Queen of Sheba
- The blood of animals is symbolic of what? The blood of Jesus and are we saved by the red corpuscles of Jesus, or is the blood of Jesus also symbolic—of what? The life of Jesus which is a sinless, perfect life.
- So what did Jesus mean when He said unless you eat my flesh and drink my blood you have no part with me—cannibalism? No!
- His flesh is symbolic of truth, words, ideas, and as food is the molecules which become the building blocks of our physical bodies, the truth of God is to be the ideas, constructs, beliefs, data-sets, that are to become the building blocks of our minds, attitudes and beliefs which win us to trust and we open the heart and receive the life a new heart and right spirit, symbolized by the blood!

MONDAY

In the second paragraph the lesson states, “In the Hebrew Bible, things that are holy are set aside for use in the temple or for God’s purposes.”

According to the Hebrew Bible what was it that symbolically was used to make things holy? The blood of the sacrificial animal—in fact blood from any other animal always defiled, including human blood, but the blood of the sacrificial animal ALWAYS made things holy.

What is the lesson? What then does it mean that some teach the blood of the sacrificial animal contaminated the sanctuary?

What does it mean to be holy? Would holiness entail being in harmony with God, being like God in character, heart, motive etc.? And is God the standard of what is right, i.e. what is healthy? Can one have life outside of God? Then is holiness in its true sense complete godlike healthiness of heart, mind, character where selfishness and fear are replaced by love and trust?

TUESDAY

Read second, third and fourth paragraphs, “Peter highlights two things...” What does this mean?

Why does judgment start with the house of God? What do you understand the judgment to be? Are you thinking through human law lens and conceiving of a judicial process, or through design law in the Great Controversy and thinking of Romans 3:4 “God may you be proved right when you are judged”?

Who will be the first to make the right judgment about God, those who have never heard of God, or those in the house of God? This is very straightforward.

And it is what is taught in Revelation chapter 7 about the servants of God being sealed in their foreheads before the great multitude who are saved. The servants are those in the house of God who are first settled into the truth and who give the final message of mercy which leads others to make a right judgment about God and be saved.

What do you understand the fire to be and how do you explain it?

Does the Bible describe two fires? What is the sequence of these fires?

The wicked are destroyed by the brightness of Christ’s coming, what about the righteous, do they avoid that brightness or do they live in it? What of Daniel 7, the ancient of days takes his throne and rivers of fire come out, who is in the fire?

Yet there is a fire in which the elements melt in the heat? What is the difference?

The fire of God's presence, the fires of truth and love burn through lies and selfishness and the wicked, those solidified in rebellion, surrender their lives not wanting to live in a universe of love and truth. After the wicked are dead, then the fires of combustion burn on the earth and the earth is recreated in perfection.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson states, "For both Peter and Paul, government authorities have been put in place by God Himself to act as a check against those who would do evil."

Does this mean that human governments govern as God governs, using God's methods and represent God's kingdom?

Does this mean they have the divine right of kings?

Does this mean God endorses and supports what human governments do? Did God supported slavery in Rome or in America when the governments practiced slavery?

No! Don't confuse the reality that God's principles of order are manifested in orderly governments to minimize chaos and anarchy with the idea that human governments represent God and His methods; they do NOT.

Jesus said, "My kingdom is NOT of this world."

The last paragraph states, "Peter would no doubt share Paul's conviction that good church governance is important too. Paul insists, "Let all things be done decently and in order" in church worship services."

Are we to run the church like human governments run their states?

Is order in the church supposed to come from authoritarian measures, coercion, censure, threats dictator like tactics?

Or is order in the church supposed to come from loving one another like Christ loves the church seeking the best for each other?

THURSDAY

Read last paragraph, “His words should be a good reminder...” Some very good points in this paragraph, we absolutely should read Scripture with context and historical circumstance in mind, with spiritual insight, the knowledge of salvation etc.

One of the problems with all of this however is that most people read all of this through the false law lens and therefore come to wrong conclusions about what it all means.

Experience is said to be the best teacher. Genuine experience is indeed superior to mere theoretical knowledge, but many have an erroneous idea as to what constitutes experience. Real experience is gained by a variety of careful experiments, made with the mind free from prejudice, uncontrolled by previously established opinions and habits. The results are marked with careful solicitude, and an anxious desire to learn, to improve, and to reform on every point that is not in harmony with physical and moral laws. {CTBH 109.1}

That which many term experience is not experience at all; it has resulted from mere habit, or from a course of indulgence, thoughtlessly and often ignorantly followed. There has not been a fair trial by actual experiment and thorough investigation, with a knowledge of the principles involved in the action. Experience which is opposed to natural law,—which is in conflict with the unchangeable principles of nature,—is not to be relied upon. Superstition arising from a diseased imagination is often arrayed in opposition to reason and to scientific principles. To many a person, the idea that others may gainsay what he has learned by experience, seems folly, and even cruelty itself. But there are more errors received and held through false ideas of experience than from any other cause. There are many invalids today who will ever remain such because they cannot be convinced that their experience is not to be relied upon. {CTBH 109.2}

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions:

1. Can we hasten the day of the Lord? How?
2. How do we harmonize Scripture and nature in a world infected by sin?

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Korean and Polish Translations: A publisher in Korea has contracted to translate Could It Be This Simple? (CIBTS) into Korean, and a publisher in Poland has contracted to translate The God-Shaped Brain (GSB) into Polish. We will let you know when these are available.

July 14,15, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Lakeport SDA church, in Lakeport CA.

August 18,19, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Celebration SDA church in Celebration, Florida.

Sep 5, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

September 26-Oct 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC World Conference, Nashville TN, and our ministry will have a booth in the exhibit hall.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Gospel in Galatians Lesson 1 3Q 2017

Paul: Apostle to the Gentiles

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, “It’s not that hard...” What would you say were the major doctrinal beliefs held by Saul of Tarsus?

- God as Creator?
- Mankind was in sin?
- A Messiah was Promised?
- The Jews were chosen by God as a special people to prepare for the Advent of the Messiah?
- The Sabbath was a special and holy day?
- Diet laws were to be obeyed?
- They were not to marry non-Jews?
- The Sanctuary was important in God’s plan to save humanity?
- And what would Saul believe about law?
 - That God imposed law and broken law required punishment?
 - How would Saul then behave toward those who he saw breaking the law, if Saul wanted to act like the God he worshipped?

What group on earth today sounds like Saul—believes in and worships the Creator, that man is in sin, that a Messiah came, that God has a special end time people who are to prepare the world for the second advent, that the Sabbath is special, that diet is to be modified closer to God’s original design, that the sanctuary is important in God’s plan to save humanity? Would it not be the SDAs?

And what would you say most SDAs believe about God’s law? That it is imposed rules that require the rule giver to inflict punishment for breaking?

And what kind of theology is taught with that kind of law?

Was Saul able to do God’s work, fulfill God’s plan, as long as he operated on the imposed law concept?

What about the SDA church, or any Christian church, can we fulfill God’s plan for us at this time in human history if we are operating on the false law construct?

What method did Saul use in converting people? Coercion, force, intimidation—what method did Christians use in the Dark Ages?

What method do many evangelists use today? Your time is short, you could get hit by a bus and before long you will be tortured in hell if you haven’t accepted Jesus.

Remember I brought this evangelistic tool some use to class a few years back, it looks like a $1,000,000 dollar note and on the back it reads:

Here Is The Million Dollar Question: Will you go to Heaven when you die? Here's a quick test: have you ever lied, stolen, or used God's name in vain? Jesus said, "Whoever looks at a woman to lust for her has already committed adultery with her in his heart." If you have done these things, God sees you as a lying, thieving, blasphemous, adulterer at heart, and the Bible warns that one day God will punish you in a terrible place called Hell. But God is not willing that any should perish. Sinners broke God's Law and Jesus paid their fine. This means that God can legally dismiss their case. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." Then Jesus rose from the dead, defeating death. Today, repent and trust Jesus, and God will give you eternal life as a free gift. Then read the Bible daily and obey it. God will never fail you.

What method is being employed? What law lens is being used? Can we as a church do God's work when we present Satan's view of God?

What method did Paul use after his conversion? Rom 14:5 "let every person be fully persuaded in their own mind." Present the truth in love and leave others free!

What about God, what does God want from His intelligent creatures? Does God want our genuine love and trust? Can God get our love and trust by using threats of punishment?

Then what happens in the hearts and minds of people when church leaders teach that in the end God will use His power to torture and kill the wicked. That we need to repent or God will be required to kill us?

This idea is based on the false human law construct and undermines love and trust and prevents Christians from completing the mission of preparing the world for Christ's return.

What we should be saying is, "We are dying of a terminal condition and if you don't trust God, He will be unable to heal you—why? Because the healing is the transforming of your character, and the only way for your character to be transformed and you to remain you, is by your voluntary and willful participation.

Yes, God has the POWER to rewrite your mind and impose a perfect character in anyone, but to do so without that person choosing it, would erase that person's identity and simply create a new individual.

You might ask, well why doesn't God do that?

Parents, do any of you have children who have been disobedient, maybe even rebellious—if you had the power to erase their identity and put another person’s identity—another mind, a mind of a different person that would be obedient and loyal—into their body, would you do it? Why not? Because it wouldn’t be your child! And if your goal is to heal and save your child, such an act would destroy them anyway, so there is not point in doing such a thing.

Thus, God presents the truth in love and leaves us all free. But the false law construct has blinded billions into a legal religion with no power to save, and in fact, obstructs people from truly trusting God.

SUNDAY

The first paragraph points out that Saul was involved in the stoning of Stephen—holding the coats of those who stoned Stephen.

How did Stephen act during his stoning? “Lord, do not hold this sin against them.” Acts 7:60

What do you see manifested in Stephen’s response? Is this the character of a sinful human beings or the character of Jesus? Do you see in Stephen that the survival of the fittest principle has been removed and God’s design of love has been restored! Is this a demonstration of Bible perfection? Not perfect behavior, but perfect trust in God such that we love others more than self?

When perfection comes up, those in the legal model immediately get anxiety, focus on deeds, behavior, and teach theologies that no one is perfect and no one can be perfect that we live in sin, and keep on sinning, but under the umbrella of God’s grace, meaning Jesus paid for all our sins. But, in reality, Bible perfection is not primarily about behavior or deeds, it is about the heart, the heart attitude of trust in God and love for others. Thus even when the deeds are not great, the person is recognized as righteous, any examples?

- Rahab
- David
- Samson
- Jephthah

Do you think Stephen’s death had significance beyond Stephen’s own life? How and why?

Heb 2:14,15 says:

Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil—¹⁵ and free those who all their lives were held in slavery by their fear of death.

Do you think Saul had a fear of death? What did he see in Stephen?

If Stephen was consumed by guilt, out of harmony with God, etc. would he have been so kind, gracious and other-centered to his tormenters at his death?

The last paragraph states, “Saul saw that the great prophetic promises of God’s kingdom had not yet been fulfilled (Daniel 2, Zech. 8:23, Isaiah 40-55), and he probably believed it was his task to help God bring that day about—which could be done by cleansing Israel of religious corruption, including the idea that this Jesus was the Messiah.”

What method did Saul and the Jewish leaders use to try and eliminate religious corruption?

Why did they use this method?

Every religion that uses force, coercion, threat, inflicted punishment, sanctions, intimidation, etc. to enforce religious dogma exposes itself as a false religion. When acting in such a way it becomes beastly, and thus the beast of revelation coerces—“no one could buy or sell unless he had the mark, which is the name of the beast or the number of his name.” Rev 13:17

What is the mark of the beast? The imposed law method of coercion to force compliance!

How many Christians today would gladly take control of their government and pass laws to enforce what they believe are right moral behaviors? How many Christians will accept a god who comes performing miracles and speaking gentle words, begging sinners to repent and worship him, yet stating, “I only want your love. If you won’t worship me I will be forced by holiness and justice to punish and eventually kill you. So please worship me.” How many will say “This is our God we have waited for him”?

Jesus called His followers to love others—to convert NOT coerce people, why? Because love and trust cannot be obtained by legislation, or coercion.

What happens when people are forced to comply with religious laws that they don’t believe in?

What about:

- Prohibition? which came about by Christian groups recognizing the destructive effect of alcohol; what happened in society—a better society, or did it lead to more corruption, more crime, more violence?
- What about societies where Sharia laws are in force? What happens in places where such laws are passed? Do people become more loving, more kind, more generous, more enlightened, or do people become more fearful, less enlightened and more intolerant?
- What about when abortion was illegal—did it result in no abortions being performed, or did people just get them in back alleys, with unsafe conditions with coat hangers and more people were hurt etc.?

- Are some Christians today trying to pass laws to force others to comply with their belief system?
- Does God work in this way to implement His plan of salvation?

MONDAY

The lesson focuses on Saul's conversion when Jesus said to him "it is hard to kick against the goads."

What does this mean?

- To what is Jesus referring?
- Is Jesus commenting on an inflicted punishment upon Saul, or a natural result?
- What type of law is involved?
- Is there a principle here as to why pain happens when we sin?
- What happens if you touch a hot stove? Why?
- Is the pain bad or good? Why?
- What does the pain lead you to do?
- What if you feel no pain when you touch the stove?
- What disease causes one to lose pain sensation? Leprosy, and what happens in leprosy?
- Do you see why leprosy is a metaphor for sin? Sin deadens our consciences and we are less aware of the damage we are inflicted upon ourselves.

What happens inside the person who cheats, steals, commits adultery? Why?

Is this an inflicted punishment or a consequence of violating God's design law? And is the pain, turmoil, bad or a healthy response to influence a person to stop their destructive actions?

In the middle of the lesson it asks, "What role did the grace of God have in this experience? In other words, how much did Saul deserve the goodness that the Lord showed toward him?"

What do these questions imply the lesson believes grace is? Might they define grace, as many people have, as: "unmerited favor"?

If this is the true definition of grace, then, when the Bible says that "Jesus grew in wisdom and stature and in favor (grace—same Greek) with God and man" does that mean Jesus' favor with God and man was unmerited?

When you say grace before a meal, do you say, "God while you don't really merit our thanks, we give it anyway"?

Hmmm.... is the traditional definition of grace flawed? Yes—it is very flawed, because it is tainted with the false law construct. People go to the idea with the presumption we are guilty criminals who deserve only to be punished and therefore we don't merit anything good from God.

The focus of their definition is on us, but the true focus of grace is about God. God is gracious, regardless of whom God is dealing with—because God never changes, God is the same yesterday, today and tomorrow. So, God’s grace is not dependent upon us, whether we are good or bad. Was God less gracious in heaven before sin? No, but the full extent of how good and gracious God is was not evident until after sin.

For instance, was God less capable of and willing to healing blindness before sin? No, but His ability to heal blindness was not seen or understood until after sin and there was blindness for Him to heal. But God’s character, methods, grace was no different before and after sin. But our understanding of it has changed.

Further, grace also connotes the idea of God’s work, God’s actions, God’s interventions—and thus God’s grace is God acting, through all time, in all manner, for the good of His creation, providing what is always best for them. This is Grace!

Yes, it is true we do receive blessings, favors, grace from God that we have not earned, it is not wages, or something we created—so grace and blessings from God can be bestowed without our meriting it because of some good action we have taken. However, grace is not restricted to this definition. Grace is from God and is poured out from Him, upon the righteous and unrighteous. Jesus received God’s grace in His life on earth, as do the holy angels.

The lesson states in the third paragraph, “The only thing Saul deserved was punishment...” What level of moral decision-making is being revealed in this statement? Level 1-4, this is the immaturity that Hebrews chapter 5 says “is not acquainted with righteousness.” This means those who are teaching this legal view are not teaching the truth about righteousness, but are obstructing it.

This idea is that Saul’s problem was Saul’s bad behavior and bad behavior, rule breaking, requires the ruling authority to punish. But this is not the reality of our situation.

What is the true situation of every human being since Adam and Eve sinned?

Ps 51, we are born in sin conceived in iniquity—what does this mean? Are we born sinless, or are we born sinful?

Did any of us choose to be sinful, sinners? Did any of us have the choice to be perfect and sinless like Adam and Eve?

Is it our fault we were born this way? No! Do we have a condition we didn’t choose? Yes, and that condition is one of fear and selfishness—and what will that condition result in, without remedy? Acts of fear and selfishness, which the Bible calls what? Sins—so the sins are they the problem or the symptoms of the problem? Symptoms and do patients need to be punished for having symptoms?

What does Paul, who was born in sin, deserve from a God who is love?

Imagine you have a child who rebelled against all you taught them and went into wild living, and used dirty needles and got HIV infected, and then had a child with another person who was also HIV infected, so that your first grandchild was born HIV infected. Now, answer the following questions:

- What did your grandchild do wrong?
- Would you love or hate your grandchild?
- What if you were the doctor who had a cure for HIV, what would you do with that cure?
- What would your grandchild deserve from you? Would your grandchild deserve your love? Why? Because of something your grandchild has done, or for who your grandchild is?
- Who are we to God? Are we HIS children, and by the fact we are HIS children do we deserve His love—not because of something we have done, but because of who WE ARE?
- One of Satan's lies is this idea of unmerited favor, which focuses people on their behaviors and blinds them to realizing who they truly are—Children of God!
- Now, back to your grandchild who is HIV infected and you have a cure, what happens if as your grandchild grows up and you offer the free remedy, but they persistently refuse it?

Thus Oswald Chambers wrote in My Utmost for His Highest:

The Bible does not say that God punished the human race for one man's sin, but that the nature of sin, namely, my claim to my right to myself, entered into the human race through one man. But it also says that another Man took upon Himself the sin of the human race and put it away — an infinitely more profound revelation...

Sin is something I am born with and cannot touch— only God touches sin through redemption. It is through the Cross of Christ that God redeemed the entire human race from the possibility of damnation through the heredity of sin. God nowhere holds a person responsible for having the heredity of sin, and does not condemn anyone because of it. Condemnation comes when I realize that Jesus Christ came to deliver me from this heredity of sin, and yet I refuse to let Him do so. From that moment I begin to get the seal of damnation. “This is the condemnation [and the critical moment], that the light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light . . .” (John 3:19) read the second paragraph, The appearance of Jesus...” Could Saul of Tarsus have known the truth without this intervention? In other words, was there enough truth revealed in the OT and by the witness of Stephen and the other Apostles that was sufficient to convert Saul? Why then wasn't Saul converted by the Scriptures, the witness of Stephen and the other Apostles?

Because Saul had such biases he rejected the meaning, and it took a special event to get him to step back and reevaluate.

Notice what the Damascus road did and what it did NOT do.

- Did the Damascus road download into Saul's brain a new life history?
- Did it give him a sudden new set of memories?
- Did he have new Bible verses memorized in his mind?
- What did it do?
- It gave him reason to step back and say, "Wait a minute, my CONCLUSIONS about all I have studied are wrong. I need to rethink, reevaluate and come to new understanding of all I have previously thought."
- So, did he get a new Bible, or did he use the same OT Scriptures?
- But what was different?
- His mind was now motivated to understand the meaning without the false legal bias he was raised with, to see that God had a plan to heal through Jesus.

What about today—have you met people who simply refuse to rethink and reexamine evidence. They are so convinced they are right they won't even allow for another possibility?

What will cause them to rethink? A life crisis, some event that doesn't fit with their understanding, are such events punishments...or therapeutic interventions?

Now, did God force Saul to come to new conclusions? Did God over ride Saul's autonomy and self-determination.

Some think God by appearing in this way did overwhelm Saul's self-determination and forced Saul to conversion; that it was denying Saul free will. Any evidence to refute this claim?

- Pharaoh—how many miracles were shown to Pharaoh and did Pharaoh convert?
- What about those who came to arrest Jesus? Jesus' divinity flashed through and they fell down, just like Saul on the Damascus road, and then they got to see Jesus reach out and put an ear back on—and what did they do? They still arrested Jesus and killed Him.
- So did the use of blinding light to cause Saul to fall down and rethink over ride Saul's free choice? No!

WEDNESDAY

The Gospel Goes to the Gentiles...what is the significance of this? Answer these questions in regard to how God sees humanity:

- Are there different paths to salvation for different groups?
- Does God value one ethnic or racial or national group over another?
- Do some humans have a different sin condition than others?
- Do all human beings have the same sin condition and in need of the same solution?

- If all humans have the same sin condition and need the exact same remedy, and God favors no group over another, then what was the purpose of the Jewish nation? Was God favoring them with salvation and not wanting other non-Jews saved?
- In OT times is there evidence that God wanted all people to be saved?
 - Solomon's Prayer: "When foreigners who live in a distant land hear how great and powerful you are and how you are always ready to act, and then they come to pray at this Temple, ³³listen to their prayers. In heaven, where you live, hear them and do what they ask you to do, so that all the peoples of the world may know you and obey you, as your people Israel do." 2Chron 6:32,33
 - Isa 56:6,7: And foreigners who bind themselves to the Lord to serve him, to love the name of the Lord, and to worship him, all who keep the Sabbath without desecrating it and who hold fast to my covenant— ⁷ these I will bring to my holy mountain and give them joy in my house of prayer. Their burnt offerings and sacrifices will be accepted on my altar; for my house will be called a house of prayer for all nations."
 - And Miriam and Aaron spoke against Moses because of the Ethiopian woman whom he had married: for he had married an Ethiopian woman. Num 12:1
 - Rahab, Ruth, Naaman, Nebuchadnezzar, the widow who sheltered Elijah—all saved, all non-Jews.

Then what was the purpose of the Jewish nation?

- To be actors in a play, a drama, to learn the truth about the problem of sin and God's solution, and to take this truth to the world. They were God's first helpers to teach the entire world of God's plan to save all who let Him.
- But they rejected their mission, so God gave the privilege to the Gentiles to take the healing remedy to the world.

THURSDAY

The lesson focuses on the conflict in the church with those who came from Jewish background wanting the new Gentile believers to be circumcised and obey the feast days.

What were the Judaizers focusing upon? Rules, laws, which is what type of law? Imposed law, and what did Paul say about such an approach?

That those who want circumcision should go all the way and castrate themselves and maybe they would stop reproducing people who taught such non-sense—does that sound too strong?

But as for me, my brothers and sisters, if I continue to preach that circumcision is necessary, why am I still being persecuted? If that were true, then my preaching about the cross of Christ would cause no trouble. ¹²I wish that the people who are upsetting you would go all the way; let them go on and castrate themselves! Gal 5:11,12

What did the first church counsel decide the converts needed to do? Was this imposed rules or promotion of design law?

“Instead we should write to them, telling them to abstain from food polluted by idols, from sexual immorality, from the meat of strangled animals and from blood” (Acts 15:20). These instructions are not imposed rules but are the wisdom of design law. How?

Food polluted by idols:

- An idol cannot change the nutritional quality of the food. Therefore, eating foods offered to idols does not pollute the body. Paul makes this clear in Romans 14.
- The issue they were addressing is the design law of worship—by beholding we become changed. As we discussed in chapter 7, this is called modeling. What we believe has power over us: truth heals and sets free, lies damage and enslave. Don’t allow your minds to become contaminated by giving any credence to idols. Thus, don’t eat food polluted by the idea that it is a bounty given you by a false god.

Sexual immorality:

- God designed relationships to operate on love and trust. When sexual intimacy occurs between husband and wife, as God designed, healthy bonding occurs. The brain actually rewires, and reward circuits are heightened for one’s spouse. This is design law—how our biology is actually built to work. Deviating from this design is damaging to the mind, body, and relationships.
- It is a violation of design law, altering brain circuitry, inflaming selfish and fear circuits, thus obstructing healing of mind and character.

Meat from strangled animals or blood:

- It also violates design law—the laws of health.
- Humans were not designed to eat meat, and the blood carries waste products, stress hormones, and various inflammatory factors. Eating raw meat and drinking blood increases disease risk, and when the body is unhealthy the mind is compromised.

The New Testament church rejected the imposed-law rules and focused instead on living in harmony with God’s design law for life. When we have accepted the lie that God’s law is simply a list of rules, we believe they are subject to change with time and place. Good Christian people fall into the trap of arguing back and forth over trivial points, oblivious to the fact they are all worshiping the same dictator god. We then teach our children ideas of God that drive a wedge between them and God.

July 14,15, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Lakeport SDA church, in Lakeport CA.

August 18,19, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Celebration SDA church in Celebration, Florida.

Sep 5, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

September 26-Oct 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC World Conference, Nashville TN, and our ministry will have a booth in the exhibit hall.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

3Q 2017 The Gospel in Galatians Lesson 2

Paul's Authority and Gospel

SABBATH

“For do I now persuade men, or God? Or do I seek to please men? For if I still pleased men, I would not be a bond-servant of Christ”
(Galatians 1:10, NKJV)

In the title of the lesson – is it Paul's Gospel? Or someone else's? Who originated it? When and where did the “Gospel” develop? Is the “Gospel” something that started after the crucifixion / resurrection or has it been around much longer? And what is “the Gospel”? Does it matter which Law lens we view the “Gospel” through?

Paul knew that he spent a long time working in opposition to the “Gospel” [see the memory text].

The lesson poses a hypothetical situation in the first paragraph of Sabbath's lesson.

I would like to pose another one. Suppose one of the prominent professors of theology at a respected Christian university, who had spent many years presenting a legal theology, including books, sermons, and sitting on committees tasked with rooting out heresy in the local church, gets up in front of his class and states that he's been presenting a false remedy for many years and begins to present a healing theology in an effort to undo his early life's work. How would he be treated by his students? By the other professors? By the church members? By his wife and family?

These are the barriers Paul faced in the presentation of The Gospel of Christ, to the Jews and, likely to a lesser extent, to the Gentiles.

SUNDAY

Paul, The Letter Writer

The lesson goes in to some style points and authentication support. My understanding is Paul's authorship of Galatians is generally unquestioned. I'm more interested in the content.

The lesson does provide a provocative question at the bottom of Sunday's lesson.

“If the Bible were to be written today, what kind of medium, format, and style do you think the Lord would use to reach us now?”

MONDAY

Paul's Calling

Who did Saul believe he was working for pre-conversion? Who did he believe he was working for post-conversion? From the lesson:

“The fact that Paul so strongly denies that his apostleship rests on any human being suggests that there was an attempt by some in Galatia to undermine his apostolic authority. Why? As we have seen, some in the church were not happy with Paul's message that salvation was based on faith in Christ alone and not on works of the law. They felt that Paul's gospel was undermining obedience. These troublemakers were subtle. They knew that the foundation of Paul's gospel message was tied directly to the source of his apostolic authority (John 3:34), and they determined to launch a powerful attack against that authority.” Emphasis mine.

¹¹ I want you to know, brothers and sisters, that the gospel I preached is not of human origin.

¹² I did not receive it from any man, nor was I taught it; rather, I received it by revelation from Jesus Christ. Galatians 1: 11, 12. Emphasis mine.

I'm not sure why the lesson keeps referring to “Paul's Gospel”, when Paul, himself states very clearly the origin of the message.

Note the source of the opposition in the above paragraph. “Why?”

As we have seen, some in the church were not happy with Paul's message that salvation was based on faith in Christ alone and not on works of the law.”

It would seem that the imposed law mindset predates the conversion of Constantine, and for those needing an Ellen White quote, consider the following:

But in heaven, service is not rendered in the spirit of legality. When Satan rebelled against the law of Jehovah, the thought that there was a law came to the angels almost as an awakening to something unthought of. In their ministry the angels are not as servants, but as sons. There is perfect unity between them and their Creator. Obedience is to them no drudgery. Love for God makes their service a joy. So in every soul wherein Christ, the hope of glory, dwells, His words are re-echoed, "I delight to do Thy will, O My God: yea, Thy law is within My heart." Psalm 40:8. {MB 109.2}

And again:

To the very close of the controversy in heaven, the great usurper continued to justify himself. When it was announced that with all his sympathizers he must be expelled from the abodes of bliss, then the rebel leader boldly avowed his contempt for the Creator's law. He reiterated his claim that angels needed no control, but should be left to follow their own will, which would ever guide them right. He denounced the divine statutes as a restriction of their liberty, and declared that it was his purpose to secure the abolition of law; that, freed from this restraint, the hosts of heaven might enter upon a more exalted, more glorious state of existence. The Truth About Angels pg. 43.

The Imposed vs Design Law struggle is as old as the controversy between Satan and Christ. It was one of the founding tenets of Lucifer's rebellion, and he's been very successful imparting his viewpoint to humanity, as well.

I'm in the middle of reading Sigve Tonstad's book "God of Sense and Traditions of Nonsense" [<https://www.amazon.com/Sense-Traditions-Non-Sense-Sigve-Tonstad/dp/1498233139>], which I highly recommend. In it, he tackles some of the concepts and stories from both the Old and New Testaments where "sense" seems to be missing or lacking.

He speaks eloquently on the issue of Freedom, and how this is understood, and misunderstood. In one passage he states,

"Proof gives a person no way of retreat. Faced with incontrovertible proof, the person who is in his or her right mind will have to surrender even if yielding happens against his or her will. Jesus offers evidence but not proof, in part because the indisputable proof can be a form of compulsion. In God's economy, it is possible to say no without seeming to be out of one's mind. Assent must be freely given, and it must be given in response to manifestations that are not coercive." Tonstad. God of Sense and Traditions of Nonsense pg. 333.

With this in mind how do we approach the lesson's compelling question at the bottom of Monday's lesson?

"In what ways, even subtly, is the authority of Scripture being challenged today within the confines of our church?"

TUESDAY

Paul's Gospel. Here we go again ...

From the lesson:

"What is the central truth upon which the gospel resides? According to Paul, it is not our conformity to the law—the point that Paul's opponents were trumpeting. On the contrary, the gospel rests fully on what Christ accomplished for us through His death on the cross and resurrection from the dead. Christ's death and resurrection did something that we never could do for ourselves. They broke the power of sin and death, freeing His followers from the power of evil, which holds so many in fear and bondage."

Is this accurate? Is it complete? What's missing? What's correct? Conformity to which "Law"?

WEDNESDAY

No Other Gospel

“No other Gospel”, even one from an angel “of light” that calls fire down from heaven?

What is the real problem Paul is confronting in Galatians 1? If his audience was “turning away” from living in the Grace of Christ [v. 6], what were they turning to? What’s the logical conclusion? A works or legal “gospel”, perhaps?

At least we don’t have those concerns today, right?

From the bottom section in Wednesday’s lesson:

“There is, today, a tendency, even in some of our churches, to emphasize experience over doctrine. What matters most (we are told) is our experience, our relationship with God. However important experience is, what does Paul’s writing here teach us about the importance of correct doctrine?”

Does Paul’s letter really teach us about the importance of correct doctrine? Didn’t he have his doctrines in a row when he was persecuting the early Christian church? Didn’t the Pharisees have their doctrines straight when they nailed Immanuel [“God With Us”] on a cross?

How does our understanding of using multiple threads of evidence to understand Truth help us? Is there a counterfeit for the “Integrative, Evidence-based Approach” we have learned? Consider the following, again, from Tonstad’s book, quoting Dostoevsky’s book, The Brothers Karamazov:

“There are three powers, only three powers on earth, capable of conquering and holding captive forever the conscience of these feeble rebels, for their own happiness – these powers are miracle, mystery, and authority.” pg. 255. Emphasis mine.

Do we see these three powers being used as a metric for uncovering and understanding “Truth”?

THURSDAY

The Origin of Paul’s Gospel.

The lesson asks, “Why did Paul not require Gentile converts to be circumcised?”

Was it for increasing his number of converts? What was the original design of the male genitalia? What was the purpose of circumcision in the first place?

“If man had kept the law of God, as given to Adam after his fall, preserved by Noah, and observed by Abraham, there would have been no necessity for the ordinance of circumcision. And if the descendants of Abraham had kept the covenant, of which circumcision was a sign, they would never have been seduced into idolatry, nor would it have been necessary for them to suffer a life of bondage in Egypt; they would have kept God's law in mind, and there would have been no necessity for it to be proclaimed from Sinai or engraved upon the tables of stone. And had the people practiced the principles of the Ten Commandments, there would have been no need of the additional directions given to Moses.” Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 364.2 Emphasis mine.

Paul is quite clear where and when he received The Gospel of Christ. His reputation was probably well known among Jews and Gentiles alike, given his enthusiasm for persecution of the early Church. What would have been gained by his opponents by attempting to discredit him?

Do we see any of the same tactics employed today?

The Gospel in Galatians Lesson 3 3Q 2017

The Unity of the Gospel

SABBATH

Read memory text, “Complete my joy by being of the same mind, having the same love, being in full accord and of one mind.” Philippians 2:2 ESV

What is the text telling us the one thing we are to be unified upon is? We must have the same mind, be in one accord about what? Love! We must come to the truth about what God’s character of love is; His methods of love, how love works. It is a unity of love that we must have!

Can anyone tell me how love works? Love gives, love is other-centered, love is outward moving, love is selfless, love is patient, kind, gentle, humble, interested in the welfare of others—which means love does what is in the eternal best interest in how we relate to others. So this means—we always give what the other wants? Does God give us everything we want? Why not?

Read paragraph one: “Protestant reformer John Calvin...” Avoid schism on what?

Read the next two paragraphs, “But should unity be preserved...” What does it mean to not compromise on truth?

Does it mean we are unified with the right facts, the right interpretations of Scripture, the right doctrines, the right definitions, the right fundamental beliefs, the right rituals, that this is what matters?

Can we obtain unity of the gospel by coming to unity of fundamental beliefs?

Before we get into historical evidence, let’s break it down to some very straightforward questions:

- When Jesus comes again—at the moment of His appearing in the clouds, amongst those who ARE saved, will there be any single person who understands every detail and fact of the Bible correctly; interpret every symbol accurately, knows the true meaning of all prophecy?
- Or will every saved person have many facts wrong?
- But will there be some element that will be common amongst all the saved? What?
- Will all the saved have been renewed in heart/character to love God and others more than self?
- Will all the saved have been changed in character to practice Godly methods, which are truth i.e. honesty, love, and liberty?
- Will any selfish and deceitful person be amongst the saved?
- And what is the avenue for the heart change to occur?

Remember the cascade of sin:

- Lies believed break the circle of love and trust
- Broken love and trust result in fear and selfishness
- Fear and selfishness result in acts of sin
- Act of sin damage mind, body, relationships—terminal condition

Healing cascade:

- Truth believed destroys lies and restores trust—about what?
- Restored trust we open the heart to God and love is poured in
- Love and trust cast out fear and we engage in acts of righteousness, giving, beneficence, love
- Acts of righteousness, giving, love, witness God's kingdom and we grow in godliness

But the healing always starts with the truth about God and His character and methods of love. When we substitute other TRUTHS for the truth about God we obstruct healing.

For instance, if we substitute the truth of God's character and methods of love, which win us to trust and open our hearts so we experience the indwelling Spirit and are transformed, with say...the truth about baptism by immersion and suggest if a person isn't baptized by immersion then they have not obeyed, and God has rules and doesn't tolerate deviations in the slightest from His rules—Adam and Eve only ate a piece of fruit but God wouldn't tolerate it. Uzzah only touched the ark but God wouldn't tolerate it. So, if you haven't been baptized by immersion God won't tolerate disobedience and you won't be saved.

Do you see what just happened? The truth about God has been replaced with the truth about baptism, but because the truth about God is not central then a lie about God is presented, and people rather than having trust in God restored have fear of God increased and instead find security in legalism, either rule keeping, or the false penal substitutionary fable of paying God a legal fee.

We are to be united in character, and this only happens when we come back to the truth about God.

Now to examine some history:

Was Martin Luther's protests primarily focused on doctrines, or were His 95 thesis examples of evidences to point out some other problem?

When a doctor identifies a constellation of symptoms, what is the purpose? To help recognize an underlying problem or disease state. It is the underlying disease state which causes the constellation of symptoms.

What was Martin Luther's list designed to expose? That salvation, or healing from sin, comes from trusting God, and the 95 thesis were examples of practices and teaches that undermined trust in God. Why? Martin Luther exposed that the methods of the institutional church are not the methods of God and that the methods the institutional church used of falsehood, coercion, bribes, manipulation, fear, survival exploitation, were not God's methods, and therefore failed to win trust, heal hearts and minds, and transform characters to be like Jesus.

As evidence that Martin Luther was right, and that we are right, what have so-called Christians who value the imposed law, with all these human methods done throughout history?

- Crusades
- Inquisition
- Run mafia organizations—then attend mass and church
- Attack, murder, exploit, and deceive the American Indians, then go to church each Sunday and sing hymns while calling the native people savages.
- Murder one million Tutsis by rival Hutus in a few months, primarily killing zones were the churches, often right after kneeling at the altar and partaking mass

Is there a difference in examining doctrines and examining the impact those doctrines have upon our views of God and our character development and how we treat others?

Did the Pharisees in Christ's day have wrong doctrines about:

- Which day was the Sabbath?
- God as Creator?
- The Inspiration of Scripture?
- Which foods were on the permitted list?
- Paying of tithe?
- Who could serve as priest?

Did they have the right view of God? Did they have God's methods in their hearts? Were they united with heaven in fulfilling God's purposes?

So, is the most important thing to get doctrines right, or to get our understanding about God and His methods right and then form our doctrines?

Would it be a good test of our doctrines to ask, what do they say about God?

Can we have a healthy belief system if we have stand-alone doctrines that we support with proof texts—but which are not directly connected to how we understand God and His methods?

What did Jesus say would demonstrate we are His followers?

That we love one another—is there a difference between unity of love and unity of doctrine?

Why is there such an emphasis on right doctrines? It is because of people stuck at level four thinking who believe right doctrines are actually what matter, when they are only important in regard to how they enlighten us to God and His reality.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “Having refuted...” Who was saying Paul’s gospel was not in harmony with Peter and the other Apostles?

Was it teachers who knew and practiced God’s love?

And what was it about Paul’s teaching that they used to suggest Paul was a renegade and disagreed with the other Apostles?

- He didn’t require circumcision
- He didn’t require Jewish feast days
- He didn’t require Jewish dress

What did Paul require? That people be reborn with new hearts that love God and others more than self, and that Jesus Christ is the Remedy to sin, and we receive a new heart, i.e. reborn by accepting Jesus into our lives.

Why did Paul require this and not Feast Days, or circumcision, or dress, or any other ritual? Because this is what is necessary to actually heal and fix what is wrong with us and unite us with God’s design for life!

Do such obstacles and difficulties occur today? Are there people today teaching the truth about God’s character and kingdom of love, the importance of being healed in the inner man, having a new heart and right spirit, but who are opposed by others, even church leaders, perhaps even being accused by such people for being renegades and disagreeing with the Apostles?

We have had many friends from around the world contact us and tell us that when they try and tell their church members about God’s character and methods of love they have met opposition, often from the pastor or other church leaders, even accusing them of being heretics and telling them not to come to church any more.

Hmmm...why?

Because the accusers are still stuck in the false law construct, which means they have the wrong diagnosis. They believe falsely that our problem is a legal problem and therefore promote a false legal solution. In such a world the focus is on legality, ensuring the ritual is carried out properly, ensuring the doctrines are properly defined etc.

Imagine scuba diving and you get your foot caught and your tank is running out of air, and another diver comes along with a spare tank and offers it to you, would it matter to you if the other diver was a man or a woman?

Imagine you were dying of an infection and a doctor came along with an antibiotic which would save your life, would it matter to you if the doctor were a man or a woman?

Imagine you are lost in a forest it had been days, you are dehydrated, hungry, weak, frightened, and a forest ranger comes along who can lead you to safety, would it matter if they were a man or a woman?

Why does it not matter in any of these situations if the person who helps you is a man or a woman?

Because the laws in question, which are threatening your life, are design laws.

What about when we take the gospel to the world, why is it the church says only men can be ordained? Because the church is still operating under the false law construct and they wrongly conclude that it really does matter, and sadly they end up making decisions that obstruct the healing gospel.

Jesus gave a parable to illustrate this problem to the church in His day.

The parable of the Good Samaritan: We could give the same parable today and replace the Samaritan with a woman, all the ordained pastors, conference presidents and General Conference committee leaders walk by, while a woman helps the injured man. Hmmm.... Again design law, laws of health as the injured person is helped.

Notice, in the parable of the Good Samaritan who of the actors in the parable kept the Sabbath, ate the right foods, paid tithe, dressed the right way, believed in the Sanctuary and Advent message? The Priest and Levite adhered to all the right doctrines and practiced all the right rituals, but were they commended for being right with God?

Who was commended for being right? What made the difference doctrine or love in the heart? It is a renewed heart that loves like God loves that brings unity and doctrines are only important as they lead us back to the truth about God.

When we place doctrines as test of fellowship, separated from what they tell us about God and God's methods of love, truth and freedom, then we actually create barriers to love!

Read bottom green section, "What are some issues that threaten church unity today? More important, after we define them, how do we deal with them? What issues are more important than unity itself?"

Evidently to many people there seems to be a lot of things more important than unity—such as power, authority, orthodoxy, protecting history, protecting the perceived prestige of the institution, correct definitions of doctrines—others?

But what is another term for unity? At-one-ment and what does the Bible say the outcome of God's work through Christ will be?

And he made known to us the mystery of his will [why was this a mystery? Was God keeping secrets? What made this difficult to comprehend or understand? It was Satan's lies about God which caused all kinds of wrong and confused thinking which kept hidden the truth of God's character and will —notice what is God's will] according to his good pleasure, which he purposed in Christ,¹⁰ to be put into effect when the times will have reached their fulfillment—to bring all things in heaven and on earth together under one head, even Christ. Eph 1:9,10

This is atonement—unity—healing and restoring His universe back to the perfection of love.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Circumcision was a sign of the covenant relationship that God established with Abraham, the father of the Jewish nation."

Of what was circumcision a sign?

What was the importance of circumcision?

Could a person be saved by being circumcised?

Did a person in OT times have to be circumcised in order to be saved?

Naaman, Nebuchadnezzar, the Patriarchs, Melchizedek...no evidence is found that these persons were circumcised, yet good evidence is found that they were saved.

Was circumcision required for Jewish males to be saved, but not for others? Then are there two paths of salvation?

No! So it wasn't required for Jews to be saved either, for what was it required? To be a member of the acting troupe known as Israel, to act out the plan of salvation in type, in theater, in symbol—and perhaps a helpful tool for the Jewish men who were frequently tempted to worship at the fertility cults of the day. Perhaps it was a last line of defense as the Jewish man approached the cult prostitute, maybe the awareness he was Jewish would call into question why he was worshipping there instead of worshipping Yahweh.

The Bible tells us that circumcision of the body is not required for salvation. The circumcision that is required for salvation, for both Jew and Gentile, is not bodily circumcision, but circumcision of the heart.

What is circumcision of the heart?

How does physical circumcision typify this?

- Can you tell by looking at a person on the street if they have had circumcision of the body?
- Can you tell by looking at a person on the street if they have had circumcision of the heart?
- Can you tell if you reach a certain level of intimacy if a person has had circumcision of the body?
- Can you tell if you reach a certain level of intimacy if a person has had circumcision of the heart?
- Is circumcision of the body painful?
- Is circumcision of the heart painful?
- Is circumcision of the body less painful when we are younger?
- Is circumcision of the heart less painful when we are younger and have less sin habits developed?

What about Moses, why did Moses end up in a confrontation with God because his son had not been circumcised?

It was theater—and only those who follow the Script can be on stage. Exodus 4:24 is commonly translated as God was about to kill Moses—but the Hebrew doesn't say that, it says "him" and the context is about Moses uncircumcised son. Thus, what is most likely is that God was about to take Moses son off stage because he was not following the Script so Moses wife got him in costume very quickly and he was permitted to stay on stage and be an actor in the drama.

Also, Moses was about to become leader of Israel, and God was about to give instructions for salvation to a bunch of people who were very primitive and rebellious and what would have happened to the lessons God was going to give through Moses, if Moses and his family did not follow the ritual handed down through Abraham?

I think this demonstrates that Moses understood there was no direct value in circumcision; that it was the condition of the heart that mattered. But it also demonstrates that Moses didn't fully appreciate the utter primitive thinking of the Jews, their rebellious and stubborn hearts and therefore the importance of consistency in acting out the symbols. Therefore, God needed to remind Moses to be consistent lest false ideas creep into the symbolic system, which happened even with the scrupulousness to the Script.

Read bottom green section, "Maybe today circumcision isn't the issue. But what (if anything) do we as a church struggle with that parallels this problem?"

What about any doctrine that promotes sectarianism—i.e. that it really does matter what denomination one belongs to. That we are saved by denomination, and thus we begin to identify doctrines that set us apart from other denominations and make those doctrines tests of fellowship, marks of distinction and even tests of salvation?

TUESDAY

The lesson talks about the freedom we are to have in Christ, read first paragraph, “Freedom, as a description...” thoughts?

The lesson states, “Freedom from being enslaved to the desires of our sinful natures, freedom from the condemnation of the law, and freedom from the power of death.”

What law lens do you hear these promises through?

If through the false imposed law lens, what is often taught?

- That we are not condemned to be executed by God for our sins, because the law that condemns us has been paid by the perfect blood of Jesus so it has been satisfied and God can now pardon us.
- That we are freed from the imposed punishment of the eternal death sentence, which would be inflicted by God if Jesus didn’t pay the penalty for us
- That we will one day get a new heart and right spirit and in that future day be delivered from the domination of the sinful desires

What is the truth? It is all design law truth:

- That when we accept the truth about God we open the heart and God’s Spirit enters and takes the perfection that Jesus achieved and reproduces it in us. We get the victory over the sinful desires here and now as we experience new motives and new thoughts within
- That we are not condemned by the law because we are now renewed to be in harmony with the law because we love God and others more than self
- That we have victory over death because we have been healed from the terminal condition which causes death

WEDNESDAY

The lesson is about Peter’s fear of what other Jews would think of him when he was associating with Gentiles, so Paul confronts Peter publicly.

What lesson do we learn from this event?

- Was Peter wrong on this issue?
- Was his error on this issue before or after he experienced the gift of the Holy Spirit, what some might call the gift of prophecy? It was after.
- Does this mean that because he was wrong about this issue, that he was not inspired? No!
- Does it mean that his writings are not inspired? No!
- What does it tell us about how inspiration of the Holy Spirit works?

- When a person is inspired by the Holy Spirit does that mean they are now perfect, sinless and never make any mistakes again and never get any Bible issue wrong?

What about EGW? Many people believe she was inspired, does that mean she was correct on everything she ever did and said? Did she claim to be correct on everything she ever did or said?

Do some people in the SDA church hold EGW up almost as an icon and use her writings as a litmus test of orthodoxy?

Does a person have to accept the writings of EGW to be saved? No! Can a person deny EGW was inspired by the Holy Spirit and still be saved? Yes!

Why then the hard line some take on the writings of EGW? Is it because they are more concerned about the SDA institution and what it might mean for the institution than for saving souls?

Now—have I, by asking these questions and pointing out that a person, like Peter, can be inspired and still be wrong on some issues, stated whether I believe EGW was or was not inspired?

Many people argue over this issue—it is a pointless argument that causes division and does not bring unity. Here is how we deal with that.

Does the Bible say that spiritual things are spiritually discerned? Yes (1Cor 2:14), what does this mean? That only by the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit are sinful human beings capable of understanding and communicating the truths of God's kingdom—do we agree?

Then, to whatever degree a person communicates the truth of God's kingdom, whether it is Peter, Paul, Martin Luther, John Calvin, John Wesley, Ellen White or whomever, they are only able to communicate truth as the Holy Spirit enlightens their mind.

So, to argue over whether someone is a prophet or not, is mute and causes division not unity. It is exactly what the Bible warns against:

My brothers, some from Chloe's household have informed me that there are quarrels among you. ¹² What I mean is this: One of you says, "I follow Paul"; another, "I follow Apollos"; another, "I follow Cephas"; still another, "I follow Christ."

¹³ Is Christ divided? Was Paul crucified for you? Were you baptized into the name of Paul?
1Cor 1:11-13

Were you baptized into the name of Martin Luther, or Calvin, or Wesley or White? No, you were baptized into Jesus! These arguments or quarrels are pointless and lead to division.

Why then to people do it? Because of spiritual immaturity—believing the false law construct that getting the answers right on a Bible test is what matters. People who have yet to think through from cause to effect, why things are the way they are, instead look to an authority to tell them the answer: Mom whose right, Dad, Teacher, Preacher, Umpire, Referee, Judge, Pope, prophet...someone tell me the answer.

THURSDAY

The lesson asks what reasons did Paul give for confronting Peter publicly, and references Galatians 2:11-14:

¹¹ When Peter came to Antioch, I opposed him to his face, because he was clearly in the wrong.

¹² Before certain men came from James, he used to eat with the Gentiles. But when they arrived, he began to draw back and separate himself from the Gentiles because he was afraid of those who belonged to the circumcision group. ¹³ The other Jews joined him in his hypocrisy, so that by their hypocrisy even Barnabas was led astray.

¹⁴ When I saw that they were not acting in line with the truth of the gospel, I said to Peter in front of them all, “You are a Jew, yet you live like a Gentile and not like a Jew. How is it, then, that you force Gentiles to follow Jewish customs?”

What was the issue?

That division would be introduced, based on a false artificial, imposed law, ritualistic criteria, rather than based on the actual condition of heart and mind.

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions 1-3, why is there no doctrine on the character of God as the central issue in the GC in our church?

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Korean and Polish Translations: A publisher in Korea has contracted to translate Could It Be This Simple? (CIBTS) into Korean, and a publisher in Poland has contracted to translate The God-Shaped Brain (GSB) into Polish. We will let you know when these are available.

Currently CIBTS is available in English, Spanish, Portuguese, and German and GSB is available in English and Korean.

July 14,15, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Lakeport SDA church, in Lakeport CA.

August 18,19, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Celebration SDA church in Celebration, Florida.

Sep 5, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

September 26-Oct 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC World Conference, Nashville TN, and our ministry will have a booth in the exhibit hall.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

The Gospel in Galatians Lesson 4 3Q 2017

Justification by Faith Alone

SABBATH

What does the title mean to you? What law lens to you hear these words through?

Before we even address questions like justification and atonement, we have to determine some basic facts:

- What is sin? –transgression of the law
- Is this transgression a behavior—a deed, a bad act, or is it a condition of heart and mind?
- “everything that does not come from faith is sin.” Rom 14:23
 - Is the focus on the specific act, or the motivation for the act?
 - Then, how does transgression of the law relate to a condition of heart and mind?
- What is God’s law?
- How does God’s law function?
- Does God’s law function no differently than man’s law—rules imposed requiring imposed punishments? –this is Satan’s allegation “Every sin must meet its punishment urged Satan.” DA 761
- Is God’s law design law, protocols upon which life and health are constructed to operate?
- If sin is breaking laws that function like human laws and therefore require the lawgiver to inflict just punishment, then what is justification? It is a legal solution—which is what many theologians argue.
- However, if God’s law is design law, protocols upon which reality and life is built, then what is justification—putting right what is not as God designed it to be.

This week I discovered a lecture given to a conference of pastors by a theology professor who spoke for over an hour on why what we teach in this class is wrong.

The theologian said that the word justification is legal language and therefore by definition of the word requires a legal explanation.

There are several problems with the theologian’s explanation: first the Bible was not written in English, or Latin, thus the word justification does not exist anywhere in Scripture. It is a word used by the translators who, already have a legal bias and thus, introduce legal ideas.

Secondly, even if we use the word justify, legal definitions are not the only legitimate definitions to that word. Justify also has meaning with no legal elements at all, to justify the margins on your document is not a legal act, but an actual moving or setting what is not in line to being in line.

Finally, justify can also mean to show, demonstrate or prove an action, position, person, claim to be right. The legal view has justification being declaration not demonstration. But the justification of setting right and demonstrating are the true Biblical definitions. The legal definition is not Biblical, it is the lie and I will give you the evidence for this so every person can be fully persuaded in their own mind.

The demonstration aspect of justify is what God was doing in the Great Controversy; God is the one being justified—God is showing, demonstrating, proving His righteousness and Paul speaks about this in Romans 3:25, 26:

From GNT:

God offered him, so that by his blood he should become the means by which people's sins are forgiven through their faith in him. God did this in order to demonstrate that he is righteous. In the past he was patient and overlooked people's sins; but in the present time he deals with their sins, in order to demonstrate his righteousness. In this way God shows that he himself is righteous and that he puts right everyone who believes in Jesus. GNT

Thus, justify can mean something legal, but it can also mean simply proving what is already true (God's character and methods of love) and also setting what is not in harmony or in line with God's design back to God's original design.

We cannot tell from the word itself, which meaning is the correct one. So the theologian who says it must be legal because it is a legal word demonstrates a huge bias and denies other possibilities.

From Wikipedia, which does a really good job of defining the penal substitutionary view of justification by faith, states:

Sola fide (Latin: by faith alone), also known as justification by faith alone, is a Christian theological doctrine that distinguishes most Protestant denominations from the Catholic Church, the Eastern Orthodox Church, and some parts of the Restoration Movement.

The doctrine of sola fide asserts God's pardon for guilty sinners is granted to and received through faith alone, excluding all "works". All mankind, it is asserted, is fallen and sinful, under the curse of God, and incapable of saving itself from God's wrath and curse. But God, on the basis of the life, death, and resurrection of his Son, Jesus Christ alone (solus Christus), grants sinners judicial pardon, or justification, which is received solely through faith. Faith is seen as passive, merely receiving Christ and all his benefits, among which benefits are the active and passive righteousness of Jesus Christ. Christ's righteousness, according to the followers of "sola fide," is imputed (or attributed) by God to the believing sinner (as opposed to infused or imparted), so that the divine verdict and pardon of the believing sinner is based not upon anything in the sinner, nor even faith itself, but upon Jesus Christ and his righteousness alone, which are received through faith alone.

Martin Luther opposed the Catholic teaching of righteousness by combination of Jesus' sacrifice and our works. Luther's position was that our works of penance, pilgrimage, offerings, abasement, flagellation or any other work could not justify us. We agree completely!

The question that separates our position with the legal penal view is not whether we can contribute to our own justification—we absolutely state we cannot. The question is: What is justification? Is it legal, or is it actual something that is achieved in human beings? Is it declared by not experienced, or is it only declared once it is experienced?

The reason this division exists is because there are two ways to understand God's law and depending on what view of God's law one holds that directly determines how one understands justification.

The legal penal theologians hold that God's law functions no differently than the laws sinners make—rules imposed requiring judicial oversight and imposed punishment. And therefore claim, as Wikipedia states above, that justification is when the righteousness of Jesus is imputed which means declared or accounted in a legal way in the courts of heaven, but not experienced in the believer. They make God out to declare something as true which is not actually true.

Further, they accuse us, because our model has an actual change occurring within the believer, of teaching Moral Influence Theory. (MIT)

Their accusation is actually diagnostic of their level of understanding. They claim we teach MIT because they are operating at level four moral development and people can only comprehend one level above their current level—and Moral Influence is level 5.

We do not promote Moral Influence Theory, and in fact we demonstrate its deficiencies, however the theologians who oppose us cannot comprehend what we are saying and thus claim we are Moral Influence. In the lecture the theologian admitted this multiple times "I really didn't understand what he meant by that." "He dressed it up with things not typically in MIT but if you eliminate those elements you get moral influence theory."

That would be like saying, "he put wings and an engine on it and called it an airplane, but if you remove the wings and engine you get a soap box."

They are being as honest as they are capable of being—they simply don't comprehend this perspective. This has happened many times in human history:

- Jesus presents design law truth and the legal theologians oppose Him and take offense that He doesn't support their legal views
- Apostles refuse to promote legal theology and are opposed by the Judaizers
- John Wesley and was opposed by leaders of the Church of England and they made fun calling him a Methodist (GC 257)

- Jones, Waggoner, and Ellen White when they presented the healing view were opposed by the legal believing leadership in the SDA church
- We are still facing the same long battle—who is God and how does His government work—like sinful humans, which is what penal substitution teaches, or do we worship the Creator and Designer who operates upon the laws of love, truth, and freedom?

Design law understands Justification differently:

- When Adam and Eve sinned did God get changed?
- Did God's law get changed?
- Did the condition of humankind get changed?
- So what needs to be "set right" in order to bring unity or at-one-ment?
- Does something need to be done to God, to God's law?
- Does something need to be done in sinners to fix what sin has done to them?

Jumping to FRIDAY and reading the first paragraph:

"The danger has been presented to me again and again of entertaining, as a people, false ideas of justification by faith. I have been shown for years that Satan would work in a special manner to confuse the mind on this point. The law of God has been largely dwelt upon and has been presented to congregations, almost as destitute of the knowledge of Jesus Christ and His relation to the law as was the offering of Cain. I have been shown that many have been kept from the faith because of the mixed, confused ideas of salvation, because the ministers have worked in a wrong manner to reach hearts. The point that has been urged upon my mind for years is the imputed righteousness of Christ..." Faith and Works p 18

What is the danger? What was she warning about? A false view of righteousness by faith which dwells on law and not on the character of Jesus—the exact problem we have in the church today which promotes justification as a legal issue and imputed righteousness as something declared rather than realized within the believer. Thus they obstruct the gospel and keep people from the faith.

Here is another quote from the same author:

What is justification by faith? It is the work of God in laying the glory of man in the dust, and doing for man that which it is not in his power to do for himself. When men see their own nothingness, they are prepared to be clothed with the righteousness of Christ... {FLB 111.2}

The thought that the righteousness of Christ is imputed to us, not because of any merit on our part, but as a free gift from God, is a precious thought. The enemy of God and man is not willing that this truth should be clearly presented; for he knows that if the people receive it fully, his power will be broken. {FLB 111.6}

What is justification by faith? God's work in doing something legal, or in doing something actual?

What work could we not do? What law lens are you thinking through?

What is the actual problem human beings have because of Adam and Eve's sin—is the problem legal or a state of being?

What do we need to be right with God?

- A new record?
- A legal document?
- A legal declaration?
- Or a new heart and right spirit?
- Does God's law need to be sustained, supported, shown to be without defect? How?
- Penal view—by paying the legal death penalty inflicted by God
- Design law view—by doing what the law requires, perfectly restoring humankind into harmony with the law, i.e. justifying or setting right humankind and demonstrating that deviations result in death.

Again from the same author:

The law requires righteousness,--a righteous life, a perfect character; [why does the law require this? Why does the law of respiration require we breathe?] and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. [what is another way of saying a holy life and perfect character? The righteousness of Christ. And what is another way of saying offers a free gift to all who will receive them? Imputed! Imputed is not legal or declared it is a remedy of a new heart, life, attitude, desires, mindset within the believer received from Christ.] His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Rom. 3:26. {DA 762.2} [Where is the righteousness of the law fulfilled? In record books? In courtrooms in heaven? IN THE BELIEVER!

What do you hear? What is justice? What is justifying here? What is actually happening, do we find something legal or something transformational, putting sinful beings back into harmony with God's design?

And what was necessary? A new sinless character. And could sinful humans do this for themselves? Could any work on our part achieve this? So, did Christ do something, Objective, that we could not do and can never do? What? He developed a perfect sinless HUMAN character, by exercising His HUMAN brain and power of choice!

- Thus the species human was justified, or set right with God, in the person of Jesus Christ.
- God's law of love, being restored into Christ's humanity while Christ destroyed the infection of fear and selfishness, resulted in what? Christ's humanity rising from the dead. Thus, God's law was vindicated—it was demonstrated, the law was revealed to be the source of life. "The law of the Lord is perfect reviving the soul!" It is design law!
- God was justified, demonstrated to be right in how He governs, how His law works, and for suspending the ultimate consequences for unremedied sin until Jesus came to provide remedy and offering that remedy to us.
- Jesus now stands as the head of humanity, where Adam was created to stand. In heaven, Jesus now is the representative of human beings, the head of the species human. Thus His life stands for the life of humanity. And we as individuals can partake of what Christ achieved—remedy, which is a perfect character, and when we do we are set right!
- So our individual justification, or setting right is when we move from distrust to trust and open the heart to God, then we become partakers of the divine nature and it is no longer I that live, but Christ lives in me. We are right with God and God declares this to be so, because it is so.

But, those of the legal mindset, stuck on human law, confuse and obstruct this healing because they move the justification away from what Christ accomplished in His own person, throw down the law of God and replace it with human law, and move justification away from our participation in Christ's accomplishments, and instead put it in record books and courts in heaven, with the adjustments being made to God's attitude and our legal accounts.

Further the penal view adherents are adamant that imputed righteousness is legal accounting, where God imputes to our records in heaven the righteousness of His Son declaring us legally justified or righteous, even though we are not. Whereas, they would teach, that imparted righteousness is what we experience within us to transform us to Christlikeness.

This distinction is of their own imagination, a fantasy, created by their own false understanding of law and failure to understand reality, and these ideas, these legal fantasies obstruct the final work of God on earth—what some call the 3 Angel's message.

Listen to these quotes by the one of the founders of the SDA church, what some of the founders of SDA church historically taught:

He would have us comprehend something of His love in giving His Son to die that He might counteract evil, remove the defiling stains of sin from the workmanship of God, [to what is this referring? Is it not the human being?] and reinstate the lost, elevating and ennobling the soul to its original purity through Christ's imputed righteousness. TMK 206 Is this declared in some legal way, is it some application to records or courts in heaven, or is it an actual change happening within the believer being? And what is this healing change accomplished through? The imputed righteousness of Christ!

"But we all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory even as by the Spirit of the Lord" (2 Cor. 3:18). Beholding Christ means studying His life as given in His Word. We are to dig for truth as for hidden treasure. We are to fix our eyes upon Christ. When we take Him as our personal Saviour, this gives us boldness to approach the throne of grace. By beholding we become changed, morally assimilated to the One who is perfect in character. [Where is the focus? Where is the change? Is this legal or actual in the believer?] By receiving His imputed righteousness, through the transforming power of the Holy Spirit, we become like Him. [Again, where is the change, where is the impact of the imputed righteousness of Christ? This is not legal, the entire legal doctrine of penal substitution taught in Christianity is based on a lie, it is based on the false view of God's law and this doctrine obstructs God's final message to the world] The image of Christ is cherished, and it captivates the whole being. {AG 96.4}

Abundant grace has been provided that the believing soul may be kept free from sin; for all heaven, with its limitless resources, has been placed at our command. We are to draw from the well of salvation. . . . In ourselves we are sinners; but in Christ we are righteous. Having made us righteous through the imputed righteousness of Christ, God pronounces us just, and treats us as just. [What did this say? Did it say "having declared us righteous"? No! Having MADE us righteous through what? The imputed righteousness of Christ, then, having first made us righteous THEN God pronounces us righteous or just! This is a repudiation of the penal substitution doctrine.] He looks upon us as His dear children. Christ works against the power of sin, and where sin abounded, grace much more abounds. {AG 181.4}

We aim too low. The mark is much higher. Our minds need expansion, that we may comprehend the significance of the provision of God. We are to reflect the highest attributes of the character of God. . . The law of God is the exalted standard to which we are to attain through the imputed righteousness of Christ. {OHC 364.2} [What is aiming too low? Is aiming to low aiming for legal adjustment, for record erasure, for a declaration of being righteous even though we are not? What law is the law of God? Is it not the law of love, which is design protocol, and to attain it means what? To be healed, restored, renewed, born again, through what? The imputed righteousness of Christ! This is truth! We must reject the legal penal view and expand our minds to a higher and loftier reality of God's design and plan to heal and restore us to His perfect ideal!]

Last week we suggested it might be a good test of our doctrines to examine what those doctrines say about God.

What does penal substitutionary ideas about justification say about God?

In the imposed law construct, which is the basis for penal substitutionary theology:

- God is the source of inflicted punishment i.e. death
- Thus death comes out from God
- Who do they teach killed Jesus on the Cross?
 - For a loving God to maintain His justice and righteousness, the atoning death of Jesus Christ became ‘a moral and legal necessity.’ God’s ‘justice requires that sin be carried to judgment. God must therefore execute judgment on sin and thus on the sinner. In this execution the Son of God took our place, the sinner’s place, according to God’s will. SDA Believe 27 p. 111
 - Why did God the Father choose a cross to be the instrument of death? Why did He not choose to have Christ instantly beheaded or quickly run through with a spear or sword? Was God unjust in executing judgment on Christ with a cross when He could have done it by beheading, a noose, a sword, a gas chamber, a bolt of lightening, or a lethal injection? (Whidden, W., Ministry Magazine, February 2007. <http://www.ministrymagazine.org/archive/2007/February/sinners-in-the-hands-of-god.html>)
 - One of the fundamental problems of the Moral Influence Theory is that it rejects the substitutionary nature of Christ’s death. The idea that God had to kill the innocent instead of the guilty in order to save us is considered a violation of justice. (emphasis mine) Rodriguez, A., Adventist World Review, December 2007; p. 40.
 - In this false legal view sin is not harmful, it is criminal, and would not result in death but requires God to kill, thus God is the one we need protection from
- It promotes dualism, that both good and evil exist eternally, that life and death find their origin in the eternal being—God

But what does inspiration say?

- Surely he took up our infirmities and carried our sorrows, yet we considered him stricken by God, smitten by him, and afflicted. (Isaiah 53:4)
 - What did God prophecy would happen? Has it?
- Jesus speaking to those who would later crucify Him said, “You belong to your father, the devil, and you want to carry out your father’s desire. He was a murderer from the beginning...” (John 8:44)
 - Who is the source of death according to Jesus?
- Do not be deceived: God cannot be mocked. A man reaps what he sows. ⁸The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction; the one who sows to please the Spirit, from the Spirit will reap eternal life. Gal 6:7,8 (What kind of law is described here?)
 - What is the cause of death according to Scripture?
- Satan saw that his disguise was torn away. His administration was laid open before the unfallen angels and before the heavenly universe. He had revealed himself as a murderer. By shedding the blood of the Son of God, he had uprooted himself from the sympathies of the heavenly beings. White, E.G., Desire of Ages, p. 761.

- Who killed Jesus according to EGW?

With which view do you agree?

Which law is the true law of God?

So what is genuine Justification?

Justification - Healing Substitution Model: Is not a legal status. Instead it simply means being set right with God. Christ, as our substitute, took defective humanity upon Himself and in His person (human brain) destroyed the carnal nature, perfectly living out the law of love and developed a perfect human character. Therefore, the human race (species) was set right (justified) with God in the person of Jesus Christ. Through this achievement (a free gift), Christ's perfect character is now offered to all mankind. Each individual person is "justified" (set right) when they are won back to trust by the truth Jesus revealed. In this mindset of trust, they experience the indwelling of the Holy Spirit who "sanctifies" them by transfusing Christ's character into the believer.

So does the Bible give evidence that it is as we teach and not as the legal theologians teach?

Romans 4:1-3:

What then shall we say that Abraham, our forefather, discovered in this matter? ² If, in fact, Abraham was justified by works, he had something to boast about—but not before God. ³ What does the Scripture say? "Abraham believed God, and it was credited to him as righteousness." NIV

What shall we say, then, of Abraham, the father of our race? What was his experience? ² If he was put right with God by the things he did, he would have something to boast about—but not in God's sight. The scripture says, "Abraham believed God, and because of his faith God accepted him as righteous." GNT

What does it say here? That Abraham believed, or had faith, which means what? That he trusted God.

What is the natural state of the sinful human heart?

the sinful mind is hostile to God. It does not submit to God's law, nor can it do so. Rom 8:7
NIV

The natural state of the sinful heart is opposition and distrust of God. But, what is the condition of Abraham's heart as described above?

What came first, God's recognition and declaration that Abraham was righteous or Abraham's heart change from distrust to trust?

God's recognition, declaration, accounting of Abraham as righteous is because Abraham had his heart set right with God. Abraham was changed from distrust to trust.

Just as EGW described above: Having made us righteous through the imputed righteousness of Christ, God pronounces us just, and treats us as just. {AG 181.4}

Notice what Paul says later in Romans 4:

⁹ Is this blessedness only for the circumcised, or also for the uncircumcised? We have been saying that Abraham's faith was credited to him as righteousness. ¹⁰ Under what circumstances was it credited? Was it after he was circumcised, or before? It was not after, but before!

What is Paul saying? That the works—circumcision—did not have any place in justifying, setting right, healing Abraham, but was a sign of what had already taken place in Abraham. But what had already taken place? His heart had been set right—a real and actual change, not some legal accounting in books.

What is happening within Christianity is worse than just a theological disagreement—the penal legal view is the infection of thought that God warned through His prophetic penmen would come into Christianity and war against the saints and obstruct God's plan and keep people trapped in sin. Today the promulgation of this false legal theology prevents the church from fulfilling its mission of taking the gospel to the world so Christ will return.

Jesus said that when the gospel of the kingdom shall be preached as a witness to all nations, then the end will come... what kingdom? The kingdom of love.

But what has actually happened, because of the acceptance into Christianity of the lie that God's law functions no differently than human law, is that Christianity, including the SDA church, has taken the false gospel of a legal dictator, who is the source of inflicted death and who even killed His Son, to the world.

God is waiting for a remnant people at the end of time to come back to the truth about Him and His design law of love and take this good news to the world!

SUNDAY

Read second paragraph, "The verb to..." Let's read Galatians 2:15-17:

"We who are Jews by birth and not 'Gentile sinners' ¹⁶ know that a man is not justified by observing the law, but by faith in Jesus Christ. So we, too, have put our faith in Christ Jesus that we may be justified by faith in Christ and not by observing the law, because by observing the law no one will be justified.

¹⁷ "If, while we seek to be justified in Christ, it becomes evident that we ourselves are sinners, does that mean that Christ promotes sin? Absolutely not! NIV

Can someone explain what that means? What law lens do you read it through?

What does justify mean—something legal, or something in reality being set right?

Does the text actually say anything about a courtroom, a legal accounting, or some declaration? No, all of this is read into the text by those who come to the text with their human imposed law construct projected onto the divine government.

Galatians 2:15-17 from The Remedy:

"We who were born Jewish—part of God's specially chosen educational team, blessed with the symbolic teaching tools—and not part of the ignorant Gentile world,¹⁶ clearly know that a person is set right with God not by rituals, symbols, or keeping to a certain educational script, but simply by trusting Jesus Christ. So we, too, have been won back to trust by the evidence Christ has revealed of God's true character and methods and thus our minds are set right with God by trust in Christ, and not by rituals or adhering to a certain set of rules, because it is not possible to heal the mind and set the heart right with God by behaviorally following a set of rules.

¹⁷ "If while we seek to be healed and set right with God, through the truth that Christ has revealed, it becomes obvious that the infection of selfishness has not been eradicated from our hearts, does that mean Christ promotes selfishness? Absolutely not!

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, "The phrase..." Do you see how deeply imbedded the lie has become?

It is absolutely true that our works cannot justify us—however, it would be easier for people to comprehend if we simply said, no amount of work on our part can produce a remedy that heals our hearts and cleanses our minds from fear, selfishness, guilt and shame.

TUESDAY

Read third paragraph, "It's important to remember..." Remember they are speaking of legal justification, and thus in their thinking, if faith was part of justification then the act of faith becomes a legal work, which would have merit or value and contribute to our legal change in status. In their model this is not so, only by the legal application of the perfect life of Jesus can we be legally declared righteous.

They do not comprehend that part of what is wrong is our lack of trust, and our lack of trust is an obstacle to our justification—and what Paul in Romans 14:23 says is sin. Without our trust there is no justification for any individual sinner. So trust does not provide remedy, but trust is necessary for us to partake of the remedy. And trust is won by evidence of God's trustworthiness revealed in Christ.

Additionally, the species human was justified, set right, restored to perfection, put right with God in the person of Jesus Christ who took upon Himself humanity defective by sin and cured the condition, carried humanity to perfection. Thus, the act of setting the species right with God was accomplished completely singly and totally by Jesus alone and it was this same act that procured the remedy that heals us.

We become partakers of the divine nature, no longer our sinful selves, but Christ living in us.

WEDNESDAY

What does the title, "The Obedience of Faith" bring to your mind?

What is obedience?

Is obedience about what one does? Is merely following orders? Is the obedience God wants what we get from a well trained dog? Is it about performance?

Or is obedience not primarily about performance but the desire to understand and follow the instructions to the best of one's ability?

Is obedience then, about trust—I trust my dive instructor and thus when my dive instructor tells me to adjust my regulator in a certain way, I am eager to listen and follow what he says. But what if I misunderstand or what if I don't have the strength to turn a stuck valve but try with all my might?

When the Jesus came down from the mount of transfiguration he found his disciples flummoxed because they had been trying to heal a boy, cast out a demon that caused seizures, but had not succeeded. Were His disciples disobeying by trying to cast out the demon? Or were they obeying? But in that case they didn't have the wisdom, understanding, faith, strength to accomplish the task. But did they have hearts that wanted to?

This is Biblical obedience, an awareness of our helpless, sick, terminal condition, our inability to cure what is wrong with us, COUPLED with the knowledge of God's true character—His goodness, love, desire to heal and restore us. Then, we have an eager and humble attitude to listen to God, to discover and understand His wisdom, His methods, His ways and to apply them to our lives to the best of our ability.

The problem with traditional Christianity and the penal legal approach is that it shifts the focus away from a humble eagerness to listen to God, to a fearfulness to identify the right rules and follow them lest we get punished. This results in a distorted system in which people are taught to place their faith in systems that put barriers between their hearts and God—like the blood, the robe, the mediator to plead, pay, erase, hide and protect us from God.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, “One of the main...”

We received this email from Sweden this week:

Last Sabbath I was conducting the English Bible study at our church and, as I normally do, I used your notes and even made a handout with your statements about coercion and false religion, mark of the beast, and the circle of love and trust. Our church is little and they don't know about your teachings, but last Sabbath we had a guest who is a teacher, raised and educated in Scotland, and he even preached afterwards.

At the Bible study he argued that he knew about your teachings and that they had a principal at their school in Romania who followed and believed your teachings and that they had problems with him, because he never punished the pupils. He let them do whatever they wanted without any consequences, but talking to them. The pupils lost their respect for him and eventually the principal had to go.

The email went on to describe more of their discussion about what we actually teach and how love really functions with healthy boundaries, discipline, restraint etc.

But, this argument that the true gospel of Christ leads people to sin is one Paul faced and one we face. This argument is based on people being stuck at level four and below and in their mind, if there isn't some punishment for sin, then there is no restraint against it.

So, to those who make such arguments, the Bible has an answer:

Where is the wise man? Where is the scholar? Where is the philosopher of this age? Has not God made foolish the wisdom of the world? ²¹ For since in the wisdom of God the world through its wisdom did not know him, God was pleased through the foolishness of what was preached to save those who believe. ²² Jews demand miraculous signs and Greeks look for wisdom, ²³ but we preach Christ crucified: a stumbling block to Jews and foolishness to Gentiles, ²⁴ but to those whom God has called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God. ²⁵ For the foolishness of God is wiser than man's wisdom, and the weakness of God is stronger than man's strength. 1Cor 1:20-25

Those who operate on the world's system of imposed law and imposed punishment find God's system of design law foolish and they cannot comprehend it.

The imposed law view has all kinds of loopholes, you may break the law, and such breaks require punishment, but you can get someone to pay the penalty for you so you don't have to pay it. And you can commit more and more sin and as long as you claim the legal payment and repent asking God's forgiveness then Jesus will pay your penalty.

The legal view creates loopholes around the law.

Design law—there are no loopholes, the law of God cannot be changed without life in the universe being destroyed—because it would be like changing gravity, or the nuclear force, or the laws of thermodynamics. Everything upon which God's creation rests would disintegrate.

So, sin, is deviation from design, and we are either restored, (healed) to be in harmony with the design, or not. Christ came, not to pay a legal penalty but to put humankind back in harmony with God's law.

What about pardon language, what is pardon?

Consider this quotation:

Satan deceives many with the plausible theory that since God's love for His people is so great, He will excuse sin in them; that while the threatenings of God's Word are to serve a certain purpose in His moral government, they are never to be literally fulfilled. But in His dealings with His creatures, God has maintained the principles of righteousness by revealing sin in its true character—by demonstrating that its sure result is misery and death. The unconditional pardon of sin never has been and never will be. Such pardon would show the abandonment of the principles of righteousness that are the very foundation of the government of God. . . . {CTr 139.4}

What is the cause of misery and death—sin, which is what, deviating from God's design law, and why can sin not be unconditionally pardoned? Because it would be like saying "I pardon you for not breathing" it cannot be done. One must comply with the laws upon which life is built, then one can be pardoned for prior deviations—why? Because one is now in harmony with the law.

Pardon and justification are one and the same thing. Through faith, the believer passes from the position of a rebel, a child of sin and Satan, to the position of a loyal subject of Christ Jesus, not because of an inherent goodness, but because Christ receives him as His child by adoption. The sinner receives the forgiveness of his sins, because these sins are borne by his Substitute and Surety. The Lord speaks to His heavenly Father, saying: "This is My child, I relieve him from the condemnation of death, giving him My life insurance policy--eternal life--because I have taken his place and have suffered for his sins. He is even My beloved son." Thus man, pardoned, and clothed with the beautiful garments of Christ's righteousness, stands faultless before God. {FW 103.2}

What is actually happening, a legal process, or a change in state of being? What makes one a rebel? A legal status or an actual state of sinfulness, having a heart at war with God and His principles? Then what makes one a loyal subject of Christ—a legal claim by Jesus, or a change in the inner man accomplished by Jesus when we trust Him? Justification is setting right that which is wrong, and that means fixing what is out of line with God and His character of love, truth and freedom. Thus we are pardoned for our past only when we are healed from the cause of the past sins, so pardon and setting right are the same as actual healing of the inner person.

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

July 14,15, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Lakeport SDA church, in Lakeport CA.

August 18,19, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Celebration SDA church in Celebration, Florida.

Sep 5, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

September 15,16 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Church in the Valley, Aldergrove, British Columbia, Canada.

September 26-Oct 1, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the AACC World Conference, Nashville TN, and our ministry will have a booth in the exhibit hall.

October 12-16, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at Garden Grove SDA church in Garden Grove, CA. This will be a multi-speaker event focusing on the atonement. For more information contact:

2017 Q3 The Gospel In Galatians Lesson 5

Old Testament Faith

SABBATH

“Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us—for it is written, ‘Cursed is everyone who is hanged on a tree’ ”(Galatians 3:13, ESV).

From the Lesson:

“A little boy had made a little boat, all painted and fixed up beautifully. One day someone stole his boat, and he was distressed.

In passing a pawnshop one day he saw his boat. Happily he ran in to the pawnbroker and said, ‘That is my little boat.’ ‘No,’ said the pawnbroker, ‘it is mine, for I bought it.’ ‘Yes,’ said the boy, ‘but it is mine, for I made it.’ ‘Well,’ said the pawnbroker, ‘if you will pay me two dollars, you can have it.’ That was a lot of money for a boy who did not have a penny. Anyway, he resolved to have it; so, he cut grass, did chores of all kinds, and soon had his money.

“He ran down to the shop and said, ‘I want my boat.’ He paid the money and received his boat. He took the boat up in his arms, and hugged and kissed it, and said, ‘You dear little boat, I love you. You are mine. You are twice mine. I made you, and now I have bought you.’

“So it is with us. We are, in a sense, twice the Lord’s. He created us, and we got into the devil’s pawnshop. Then Jesus came and bought us at awful cost—not silver and gold, but His precious blood. We are the Lord’s by creation and by redemption.”—William Moses Tidwell, Pointed Illustrations (Kansas City, Mo.: Beacon Hill Press, 1951), p. 97”

What curse were we redeemed from referenced in the memory text? I’ve hung from a tree before – am I cursed? What does Paul mean?

What may we discern from the above passage? What’s the first question we must ask ourselves or others regarding this or passages like this? How is this illustration helpful? How is it harmful? Is it diagnostic of the author / editor / etc.? What’s the diagnosis?

SUNDAY

The Foolish Galatians

What does Paul characterize as “foolish” with regard to the Galatians [see Galatians 3:1-6]?

What is it about fallen human nature that makes us want to “work” our way in to God’s grace?

The lesson asks a poignant question as well:

“In what sense could we be in danger of falling into the same spiritual pitfall of starting out right and then falling into legalism?”

Another great question from the lesson:

“How often, if ever, do you find yourself thinking, I’m doing pretty well. I’m a pretty solid Christian, I don’t do this and/or I don’t do that . . .and then, even subtly, thinking you’re somehow good to be saved? What’s wrong with that picture?”

I think the lesson wants us to see the focus on works, but the problem is much bigger. Where’s the real focus? ON SELF!

MONDAY

Grounded on Scripture.

Considering our “Integrative Evidence Based Approach” to discerning Truth, should we be wary when we see statements like “grounded in Scripture” or “Scripture, and Scripture only”?

For review: What are the 3 primary avenues of discerning Truth?

1. Scripture
2. Nature / Science
3. Personal Experience / Relationship.

We have seen what happens when we marry ourselves to only one avenue of searching for Truth.

Scripture Only – 34,000 different sects of Christianity all using the same book to defend their mindset, and beat others over the head with.

Nature Only – Evolution, Atheism, Survival of the Fittest.

- Experience Only – Mysticism, Spiritualism, Elevating Feelings/Emotions to dethrone reason and judgment.

For certain, Paul's presentation of the gospel was grounded in Scripture, however, it was not the only anchor. He had a deep personal relationship with his Savior, and observed / obeyed the know laws of Nature.

Paul's only Scripture was the Old Testament. His support for Christ's position as Messiah / Savior, and the intent of Heaven for the gospel to go to the Gentiles are found throughout the OT. What about his view of God the Father? Is He the same in the OT as well as the New Testament?

TUESDAY

Reckoned as Righteous.

"Reckoned as Righteous" How many times have you heard that phrase? Which Law lens are you hearing it through?

Many authors use synonyms "accounted", "credited", "counted" and "imputed" instead of "reckoned". What do these terms mean? Some say it's a legal metaphor.

Some say it's a business / Accounting metaphor. Even from a business/Accounting perspective, it makes more sense than from a legal one. In my practice book keeping, I don't "credit" myself with money that I don't have. If I have the $$$, it goes in the credit column. If I'm owed money, I can't call the bank and tell them "just put it in my account – it's coming eventually."

Could we come up with a healthcare version of this?

Could we say "Abraham believed God and was diagnosed as righteous"?

Too many "scholars" would have us believe that God's voicing of Abraham's righteousness made it so. I believe that's backwards. Abraham trusted God, opened his heart to the Spirit of Truth and Love, and his character was transformed, so God declared him righteous –

BECAUSE. HE. WAS.

God accurately diagnosed Abraham's character as healed. God didn't have to speak him in to righteousness, nor did he declare him righteous – even though he wasn't. God didn't lie about Abraham's character, and He doesn't lie about ours.

From the lesson:

"The Bible is clear: Abraham's obedience was not grounds for his justification; it was, instead, the result. He didn't do the things he did in order to be justified; he did them because he already was. Justification leads to obedience, not vice versa."

Thank You. Well said.

WEDNESDAY

The Gospel in the Old Testament.

Are there any differences between the “gospel” in the Old and the New Testaments? What constitutes the “gospel” in the Old Testament? What about the New Testament? How are they similar/different? What “gospel” did Paul have? Was some of Paul’s audience claiming that the OT gospel was different?

From the lesson: “The basis of God’s covenant with Abraham centered on God’s promises to him.”

I respectfully disagree. The basis of God’s covenant with Abraham centered on God’s trustworthiness. God’s promises are manifestations of His trustworthiness that we sometimes need to take on faith. God’s fulfilled promises are evidence of His trustworthiness.

Again, from the Lesson:

“Some mistakenly conclude that the Bible teaches two ways of salvation. They claim that in Old Testament times salvation was based on keeping the commandments; then, because that did not work very well, God abolished the law and made salvation possible by faith. This could not be farther from the truth. As Paul wrote in Galatians 1:7, there is only one gospel.”

Again, well said. How could God “abolish the law” when it’s the design template for life itself?

THURSDAY

Redeemed From a Curse

What was the “Curse”? Who was responsible for the “Curse”? How was mankind redeemed from the “Curse”?

Which Law lens are you looking through?

From the Lesson:

“The word redeem means “to buy back.” It was used to refer to the ransom price paid to release hostages or the price paid to free a slave. Because the wages of sin is death, the curse of failing to keep the law was often a death sentence. The ransom paid for our salvation was not insignificant; it cost God the life of His own Son (John 3:16). Jesus ransomed us from the curse by becoming our sin-bearer (1 Cor. 6:20, 7:23). He voluntarily took our curse upon Himself and suffered in our behalf the full penalty of sin (2 Cor. 5:21).”

FRIDAY

“Upon Christ as our substitute and surety was laid the iniquity of us all. He was counted a transgressor, that He might redeem us from the condemnation of the law. The guilt of every descendant of Adam was pressing upon His heart. The wrath of God against sin, the terrible manifestation of His displeasure because of iniquity, filled the soul of His Son with consternation. All His life Christ had been publishing to a fallen world the good news of the Father’s mercy and pardoning love. Salvation for the chief of sinners was His theme. But now with the terrible weight of guilt He bears, He cannot see the Father’s reconciling face. The withdrawal of the divine countenance from the Saviour in this hour of supreme anguish pierced His heart with a sorrow that can never be fully understood by man. So great was this agony that His physical pain was hardly felt.”—Ellen G. White, The Desire of Ages, p. 753

The Gospel in Galatians Lesson 6 3Q 2017

The Priority of the Promise

SABBATH

What does the lesson title mean?

Simply that the promise takes precedence and the promise is the way salvation will be accomplished, not through the imposition of law.

Read Memory Text: “For if the inheritance comes by the law, it no longer comes by promise: but God gave it to Abraham by a promise” (Gal 3:18 ESV).

What was promised? That the seed of the woman would crush the serpent’s head—which was given in Eden, and was renewed to Abraham, that through Abraham’s seed, not seeds, the promise would be realized.

- The promises were spoken to Abraham and to his seed. The Scripture does not say “and to seeds,” meaning many people, but “and to your seed,” meaning one person, who is Christ. Gal 3:16
- (Gen 12:7, 13:15, 24:7)

What was the promise—to give the land to Abraham’s seed forever—what land? Was it referring to the small speck of acreage in the Middle East, or the entire world?

And who is the seed?

So the plan to restore the earth to human sovereignty was it a plan to be accomplished by the imposition of law or through the promise in a Messiah, a Savior, who would be first descended from Adam and Eve and later through the lineage of Abraham.

What would this Messiah need to do in order to fulfill the promise to restore the earth and save humankind?

Was the problem that after Adam and Eve sinned God was restrained by some law upon His own being that prevented Him from forgiving and saving, until some legal mechanism be instituted to free God to act?

Was the problem that God’s nature of love had become contaminated and God’s heart was filled with anger and wrath and some action needed to be taken in order to drain the anger and wrath from God so God would then act in mercy to save?

Was the problem that Satan had some legal ownership to the earth and Jesus had to come to purchase the earth and humans back from Satan?

Was the problem that the condition of humanity was changed and was out of harmony with God and God's design for life and without intervention the human species would cease to exist?

So what was needed from the Seed? What was the promise made in Eden and to Abraham?

That Jesus would come and crush the serpent's head and heal the species providing remedy to all who will accept.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Even if his opponents..." Did the giving of the law nullify the previous arrangement?

Did it modify or change the previous arrangement?

What was the previous arrangement God had with Abraham before the law given at Sinai?

Abraham had a problem he could not fix for himself:

- He couldn't produce a child with his wife Sarah—this was a real problem for Abraham and Sarah, but also a type or symbol of his inability to produce a cure for the sin problem through any means available to humans
- Through human effort alone, without the intervention of God, we produce only slaves to sin—which is what Abraham did produce with his slave Hagar—and another child of slavery Ishmael. Again real historical events, with real historical people, but who also represent in the theater larger realities.

What was needed in order for God to be able to intervene and fix Abraham's problem?

- Did God need more power?
- Did God need some inducement?
- Did God need His Son to plead with Him and work on Him to intervene for fix Abraham's problem?
- Did Abraham need to trust God and consent to God's intervention in His life—why?
- God is love and love only works in atmosphere of freedom—Coercion is found only under Satan's government, thus God could not act to resolve Abraham's problem without Abraham's consent i.e. trust – both to provide a child with his wife Sarah and to provide a remedy into Abraham's heart to sin

Thus, the faith—which is what?

Hebrews tells us that faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. The word substance comes from the Greek hypostasis which has two halves:

- hypo—which means under as in hypoglycemic, or hypotension
- stasis which means standing

This was translated into a Latin-based word substance that has two halves:

- sub—which means under as in subway, submarine, subterranean
- stance—which means standing

And we can translate that to modern English as “faith is our understanding”

And understanding as two meanings, and both apply:

- our cognitive comprehension of God, His methods, trustworthiness
- our agreement with God—we have an understanding with Him

I put these ideas of faith into my book Could It Be This Simple? back in 2007. I just came across this quotation in a book Faith and Works about two weeks ago:

What is faith? "The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Hebrews 11:1). It is an assent of the understanding to God's words which binds the heart in willing consecration and service to God, Who gave the understanding, Who moved on the heart, Who first drew the mind to view Christ on the cross of Calvary. Faith is rendering to God the intellectual powers, abandonment of the mind and will to God, and making Christ the only door to enter into the kingdom of heaven. {Faith and Works 25.2}

So faith is the understanding the trust that Abraham places in God and God promises to provide the remedy, the solution—in type to give evidence of the reality, Sarah becomes pregnant—the reality Jesus Christ!

So, how was Abraham set right—justified? By faith—and what happened?

The natural state of the human heart is to distrust God, to be enmity to Him Rom 8:7. But Abraham experienced a heart change and his heart that did not trust was changed to a heart that trusted God and then he was recognized as righteous or set right, because in fact he was. Rom 4:4

Thus Abraham was set right through trust and the law given four hundred years later did not change this, nor God's plan to fulfill His promise.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, “Paul had argued...” The lesson is correct, working to keep the law cannot save—why?

Simply because the problem is not a legal one and thus cannot be resolved or remedied by a legal solution. Any teaching of legal solutions for the sin problem are false and work to obstruct God's plan of salvation. This is what Paul is teaching and why the Jews had so much problem with Paul and many Christians still do today.

We teach that sin is deviation from design and we are either restored (healed) to be in harmony with God's design or not. Christ came, not to pay a legal penalty but to put humankind back in harmony with God's law.

When we focus on legal solutions we move the minds of people away from their real condition and to a false remedy that has a form of godliness but with no power to heal and restore.

What do we do then with all the legal sounding language, when God pardons the sinner?

Consider this quotation:

Satan deceives many with the plausible theory that since God's love for His people is so great, He will excuse sin in them; that while the threatenings of God's Word are to serve a certain purpose in His moral government, they are never to be literally fulfilled. [what is the basis for this deception? Having first accepted the false law construct that God's law functions like human law a system of rules imposed that requires imposed punishment—thus once accepting this lie He can introduce another lie that because God is love He will excuse sin. Because in truth God will not use His power to inflict punishment for sin. But not inflicting punishment is not excusing sin. Why? Because of the truth of God's law being design law. When we realize that truth then we realize God doesn't excuse sin, but every person who refuses remedy will reap a terribly painful end, but not at the hands of God. It would be like saying all those with some terminal illness who refuses the cure God will excuse—no He won't but He won't inflict their pain, suffering and death either.] But in His dealings with His creatures, God has maintained the principles of righteousness by revealing sin in its true character—by demonstrating that its sure result is misery and death. [Do you see the language here, principles of righteousness i.e. design for life and that sin has a sure result—design law which is misery and death] The unconditional pardon of sin never has been and never will be. Such pardon would show the abandonment of the principles of righteousness that are the very foundation of the government of God. . . . {Christ Triumphant 139.4}

Those in the imposed law camp use quotes like this proof that there is a legal accounting, that God's law does function like ours and God will hold sinners accountable and punish the unrepentant.

But, what is the cause of misery and death, as stated in the very quote? —sin, which is what, deviating from God's design law, and why can sin not be unconditionally pardoned? Because it would be like saying "I pardon you for not breathing" it cannot be done. One must comply with the laws upon which life is built, then one can be pardoned for prior deviations—why? Because one is now in harmony with the law.

Would you be comfortable saying that pardon and healing are the same? That pardon and setting a person right, putting them back into harmony with God's design are one and the same? What is another name for setting right or putting right? Justification, do you feel comfortable saying pardon and justification are one and the same? Listen to this historical quote:

Pardon and justification are one and the same thing. Through faith, the believer passes from the position of a rebel, a child of sin and Satan, to the position of a loyal subject of Christ Jesus, not because of an inherent goodness, but because Christ receives him as His child by adoption. The sinner receives the forgiveness of his sins, because these sins are borne by his Substitute and Surety. The Lord speaks to His heavenly Father, saying: "This is My child, I reprieve him from the condemnation of death, giving him My life insurance policy--eternal life--because I have taken his place and have suffered for his sins. He is even My beloved son." Thus man, pardoned, and clothed with the beautiful garments of Christ's righteousness, stands faultless before God. {Faith and Works 103.2}

What is actually happening, a legal process, or a change in state of being? What makes someone a rebel? A legal status or an actual state of sinfulness, having a heart at war with God and His principles? Then what makes one a loyal subject of Christ—a legal claim by Jesus, or a actual change in the inner man accomplished by Jesus when we trust Him? Justification is setting right that which is wrong, and that means fixing what is out of line with God and His character of love, truth and freedom. Thus we are pardoned for our past only when we are healed from the cause of the past sins, so pardon and setting right are the same—an actual healing of the inner person.

Read second paragraph, "Paul's argument in Romans 3..." Why is this even a concern? Why does Paul find himself having to educate them on this issue? Why do so many Christians go to such great lengths to argue so intensely that the law was not done away with? Because they are operating under the imposed human law. If they would simply come to the reality that God's law is design law then it becomes obvious the law isn't done away with.

When a doctor provides remedy to a patient with a disease, maybe a disease contracted by misconduct, say infections from IV drug use. Does treating the infection, healing the person, do away with the laws of health? We don't have to make such arguments when we come back to design law. But the intensity of these arguments are themselves evidence that the audience is stuck in imposed law and Paul is trying to help them see how reality works. Sadly, many Christians are stuck in the same problem today.

Read the third paragraph, which is not from an inspired source, but thoughtful Bible scholars making commentary, i.e. the thoughts of a theologian or a committee of theologians:

“The plan of justification by faith reveals God’s regard for His law in demanding and providing the atoning sacrifice. If justification by faith abolishes law, then there was no need for the atoning death of Christ to release the sinner from his sins, and thus restore him to peace with God.”¹

How can these ideas be understood in a helpful and accurate way?

What is justification—setting right or putting right

What is faith—our understanding trust

What is law—God’s design parameters for life

What is atoning—reuniting and restoring to unity that which is not in unity

So we might rewrite it as:

The plan of restoring people to God’s perfection by trust reveals God’s regard for His design for life as this could be accomplished only by providing the reuniting and healing sacrifice. If restoring people to God’s perfection by trust abolishes God’s design for life, then there was no need for the reuniting and healing death of Christ to heal the sinner from his terminal condition, and thus restore him to peace with God.

TUESDAY

The title for the day is: The Purpose of the Law

What law is being referred to in Galatians 3?

First paragraph states, “While both the ceremonial and moral law were ‘added’ at Sinai because of transgressions, we see by considering the following question that Paul appears to have the moral law primarily in mind.”

The question the lesson asks is, “To what was it added, and why?”

First—do you agree that the law that was added was both the ceremonial and the moral law—but Paul is especially talking about the moral law (10 Commandments) in Galatians 3?

The lesson has done a superb job of correctly identifying that Paul was primarily talking about the 10 Commandments here.

So, to what was it added and why?

¹ Nichol, F. D. (Ed.). (1980). The Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary (Vol. 6, p. 510). Review and Herald Publishing Association.

Two quotations from one of the founders of the SDA church:

- If man had kept the law of God, as given to Adam after his fall, preserved by Noah, and observed by Abraham, there would have been no necessity for the ordinance of circumcision. And if the descendants of Abraham had kept the covenant, of which circumcision was a sign, they would never have been seduced into idolatry, nor would it have been necessary for them to suffer a life of bondage in Egypt; they would have kept God's law in mind, and there would have been no necessity for it to be proclaimed from Sinai or engraved upon the tables of stone. And had the people practiced the principles of the Ten Commandments, there would have been no need of the additional directions given to Moses. {PP 364.2}
- I am asked concerning the law in Galatians. What law is the schoolmaster to bring us to Christ? I answer: Both the ceremonial and the moral code of ten commandments... "The law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith" (Gal. 3:24). In this scripture, the Holy Spirit through the apostle is speaking especially of the moral law. {ISM 233, 234}

Did you notice the language “had the practiced the principles of the Ten Commandments...”?

Do you hear practicing the principles of the Ten Commandments and obeying the Ten Commandments differently?

Can the “obeying” approach result in a rules, imposed law, type approach—lists of behaviors, do this, don’t do that, etc.? Can the obeying or keeping the Ten Commandments approach lend itself to a level four thinking about God?

Does the “practicing the principles of the Ten Commandments” lead us to something else?

What does it mean to practice the principles of the Ten Commandments? What are the principles of the 10 Commandments?

- Love
- Truth
- Freedom

And if we practice these principles is it about rules or about a change of heart?

So, what was the purpose of the written law? Why was it given?

Because the designs of God, His methods, His principles of love, truth, freedom were not written in the hearts and minds of humans and we humans needed a tool to help us realize this. As the lesson states in the second paragraph:

The law was not intended to be some kind of program for “earning” salvation. On the contrary, it was given, Paul says, “to increase the trespass” (Rom 5:20, ESV); that is, to show us more clearly the sin in our lives (Rom 7:13).

But what do you think of this in the last paragraph:

While the ceremonial laws pointed to the Messiah and emphasized holiness and the need of a Savior, it is the moral law, with its “Thou shall nots,” that reveals sin, that shows us that sin is not just a part of our natural condition but is, indeed, a violation of God’s law. This is why Paul says, “Where there is no law there is no transgression” (Rom 4:15 ESV).

What are they trying to say? Are they trying to separate the sinful condition from the behaviors? What do they mean by: “the moral law, with its “Thou shall nots,” that reveals sin, that shows us that sin is not just a part of our natural condition but is, indeed, a violation of God’s law”?

Are they saying it isn’t sin until we behaviorally break a rule?

What shall we say, then? Is the law sin? Certainly not! Indeed I would not have known what sin was except through the law. For I would not have known what coveting really was if the law had not said, “Do not covet.” Rom 7:7

What is sin in the 10th commandment a behavior or an attitude of the heart even without behavior? Then what about the rest is it thou shalt not do an act, or rather than a list of rules we try and adhere to, this is both the diagnostic tool and promise of what we will look like when God heals us: “When I heal you, you won’t even have a desire for such things. You will not murder, you will not bear false witness...”

The focus on sin being behavior is based on the false human law construct. Those who teach such ideas have just substituted the principles of the Ten Commandments with the rules of the Ten Commandments, which creates a form of godliness but denies the power. This view leads people to misunderstand the purpose of the law, the problem of sin and God’s solution and thus leaves people claiming legal salvation but never experiencing victory and transformation.

Understanding design law we understand that sin is deviation from God’s design, and thus itself is damaging and ultimately terminal if not remedied. Further, we understand that this condition of being, results in symptoms, which we call sins, but the sins are not the primary problem (yes they are a problem but not the primary problem) the sins are the symptoms of the primary problem which is a heart and mind operating upon selfishness rather than love.

Any concerns about what I have said? Are you persuaded by the truth of God’s word, the evidence of science and nature and real life experience that you can stand confidently upon this reality against church authority that wants to focus on the legal distortion?

Well, in case you need some historic validation—here are a couple of EGW quotes:

- There is a great work to be done for many of us. Our minds and characters must become as the mind and character of Christ. Selfishness is inwrought in our very being. It has come to us as an inheritance, and has been cherished by many as a precious treasure. No special work for God can be accomplished until self and selfishness are overcome. To many everything connected with themselves is of great importance. Self is a center, around which everything seems to revolve. {Historical Sketches 138.7}
- All sin is selfishness. Satan's first sin was a manifestation of selfishness. He sought to grasp power, to exalt self. A species of insanity led him to seek to supersede God. And the temptation that led Adam to sin was Satan's declaration that it was possible for man to attain to something more than he already enjoyed, possible for him to be as God Himself. The sowing of seeds of selfishness in the human heart was the first result of the entrance of sin into the world. God desires every one to understand the evil of selfishness, and to co operate with Him in guarding the human family against its terrible, deceptive powers. The design of the gospel is to confront this evil by means of remedial missionary work, and to destroy its destructive power by establishing enterprises of benevolence. {WB, September 9, 1902 par. 3}

As a remedy for the terrible consequences into which selfishness led the human race, God gave His only begotten Son to die for mankind. How could He have given more? In this gift He gave Himself. "I and My Father are one," said Christ. By the gift of His Son, God has made it possible for man to be redeemed and restored to oneness with Him. "God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Love is the great principle that actuates unfallen beings. With amazement the angels behold the indifference that those who have light and knowledge manifest toward a world unsaved. The heavenly host are filled with an intense desire to work through human agencies to restore in man the image of God. They are ready and waiting to do this work. The combined power of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost is pledged to uplift man from his fallen state. Every attribute, every power of divinity has been placed at the command of those who unite with the Saviour in winning men to God. O, that all would appreciate the truth as it is in Jesus. O, that all would love God in return for the love wherewith He has loved them. {WB, September 9, 1902 par. 4}

Sin has extinguished the love that God placed in man's heart. The work of the church is to rekindle this love. The church is to co-operate with God by uprooting selfishness from the human heart, placing in its stead the benevolence that was in man's heart in his original state of perfection. {WB, September 9, 1902 par. 5}

What did you hear in these passages?

What is sin? Selfishness—how do we become selfish?

What is the purpose of the church? Is the plan of salvation legal or is it restorative, healing?

Then what was the purpose of the law? A diagnostic instrument to help everyone understand their terminal state and turn to Christ for the only remedy!

WEDNESDAY

Discuss the question at the top of the lesson, “Does Paul’s statement about the law being added at Mount Sinai mean that it did not exist previously? If not, what was the difference before and after Mount Sinai?”

Does Paul give a clue to Timothy in 1Tim 1:8-11:

We know that the law is good if one uses it properly. ⁹ We also know that law is made not for the righteous but for lawbreakers and rebels, the ungodly and sinful, the unholy and irreligious; for those who kill their fathers or mothers, for murderers, ¹⁰ for adulterers and perverts, for slave traders and liars and perjurers—and for whatever else is contrary to the sound doctrine ¹¹ that conforms to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, which he entrusted to me.

What does it mean? Was the law given for the righteous? No, then to whom was it given? It was given for sinners—then did it exist before there were sinners?

Did the 10 Commandments exist before human beings existed?

Did angels in heaven need a law to honor their father and mother, to not commit adultery, or that sins would pass down the generation of angels. In fact, did Adam and Even in Eden need a law that sins would pass down the generations when they had not sinned?

If you struggle with the idea that the 10 Commandments were not in existence in the universe before Sinai, consider Newton’s laws of motion:

First Law: An object at rest remains at rest and an object in motion continues at a constant velocity unless acted upon by an external force.

Second Law: The sum external force F on an object is equal to the mass m of that object multiplied by the acceleration vector a of the object: F=ma.

Third Law: When one body exerts a force on a second body, the second body simultaneously exerts a force equal in magnitude and opposite in direction on the first body.

Now answer the following questions about Newton’s laws:

- Are they real?
- Do they apply to our lives?
- Do they apply to everyone or only those who hear about them and choose to believe in them?
- Are they rules we must obey or descriptions of how reality is built to function?
- When did they go into effect?
- If Newton had not written them down, would that mean these laws would not exist and thus would not be in effect?
- If we decide in committee to change the wording of the first law to read: “An object at rest remains at rest unless it receives permission from the proper church committee to move,” does anything happen?
- In other words, can humans change these laws?
- Are these laws imposed laws or design laws?

The 10 Commandments are like Newton’s laws they were not in existence in this written form before human beings sinned, and we have no evidence they existed before Sinai. But the principles of the 10 Commandments were already in existence! And what are the principles of the 10 Commandments? Truth, Love and Freedom!

This goes to the heart of the problem in Christianity—do we understand God’s law as principles, design parameters, or as rules. Those who are level four and below are stuck on rules and get very upset if one suggests the 10 Commandments have not always been in existence. They focus on rules and in fact, make up more rules.

The Jews have done this through the generations and so have many Christians—making up lots of rules unique to their culture which they then attempt to enforce upon others. This is a legal religion, whether it is oneself keeping the law or a legal substitute law keeping.

Consider this quotation:

The effort to earn salvation by one's own works inevitably leads men to pile up human exactions as a barrier against sin. For, seeing that they fail to keep the law, they will devise rules and regulations of their own to force themselves to obey. All this turns the mind away from God to self. His love dies out of the heart, and with it perishes love for his fellow men. A system of human invention, with its multitudinous exactions, will lead its advocates to judge all who come short of the prescribed human standard. The atmosphere of selfish and narrow criticism stifles the noble and generous emotions, and causes men to become self-centered judges and petty spies. {MB 123.1}

The Pharisees were of this class. They came forth from their religious services, not humbled with a sense of their own weakness, not grateful for the great privileges that God had given them. They came forth filled with spiritual pride, and their theme was, "Myself, my feelings, my knowledge, my ways." Their own attainments became the standard by which they judged others. Putting on the robes of self-dignity, they mounted the judgment seat to criticize and condemn. {MB 123.2}

The people partook largely of the same spirit, intruding upon the province of conscience and judging one another in matters that lay between the soul and God. [Do we do this today?] It was in reference to this spirit and practice that Jesus said, "Judge not, that ye be not judged." That is, do not set yourself up as a standard. Do not make your opinions, your views of duty, your interpretations of Scripture, a criterion for others and in your heart condemn them if they do not come up to your ideal. Do not criticize others, conjecturing as to their motives and passing judgment upon them. {MB 123.3}

What is being described? What kind of law is God's law? What happens when we replace it with human law construct?

Do we understand the 10 Commandments as a diagnostic tool, based on the eternal principles (design law) of love, truth, freedom which originate in the heart and mind of God?

I want to point out what the lesson stated in the last paragraph, "Christ can do what the law could never do—provide a true remedy for sin, that is, justify the sinners and by His Spirit fulfill His law in them (Rom 8:3,4)."

Wow! Did you hear that? The lesson got it right—God sent Christ as the remedy to heal our sin condition, and justification is healing or setting the sinner right with God again! Incredible!

THURSDAY

Read the third paragraph, "As majestic as the giving..." What do you think of this idea that there was no need for a mediator? Why not?

Because we are sick and God is our Creator, Healing, Fixer—of what is wrong, i.e. the problem is in us, the problem is not in God!

In summation of the lesson let's read Galatians 3:19-29 from The Remedy:

If God promised to heal us, then what was the purpose of the law? It was added because of our sin-sick state—our darkened minds and the rapid rate at which we were destroying ourselves—in order to diagnose our condition and teach us a healthier way to live until the only true cure, Jesus (the promised One) had come. God communicated this law through angels, and then through Moses as an intermediary to the people.²⁰ But when there is only one party involved—and God and his Son Jesus are One—an intermediary is not needed.

²¹ Is the written law, then, somehow in opposition to the promises of God? Of course not! The written law was simply a tool to diagnose our sickness and lead us to God for healing. If the written law could somehow cure the infection of selfishness and promote life, then healing would certainly have followed the giving of the law.²² But Scripture is clear: All humanity is infected with selfishness and is imprisoned by this terminal condition. It is by trust that we experience the only cure, the One promised—Jesus Christ—who was given to humankind as the Remedy to this terminal condition.

²³ Before Christ came, we were quarantined by the written law—restrained from continual self-destruction—until Christ procured the only true cure.²⁴ The written law was provided as a safeguard to protect us and lead us to Christ—the Great Physician—so that we might be restored to unity with God by trust in, and partaking of, Christ.²⁵ Now that trust in God has been restored—and we are set right in heart, mind, and character, and again practice God's methods—we no longer need the law to diagnose our condition or lead us back to God.

²⁶ Through the Remedy established by Jesus Christ you are all loyal children of God,²⁷ for all of you who have immersed your minds and hearts into the truth of God as revealed by Christ have had your characters changed, and—like a new set of clothing—replaced with the character of Christ.²⁸ Your station on earth is irrelevant: it doesn't matter whether you are Jew or Greek, slave or free, male or female—for you are all one in character, method, principle and motive through all that Christ has done.²⁹ If you are Christlike in heart and mind, then you are one of Abraham's descendants and an heir to all the promises of God.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

August 18,19, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Celebration SDA church in Celebration, Florida.

Sep 5, 2017: Dr. Jennings' new book The God-Shaped Heart will be released by Baker Books. Here is a brief description:

Love is more than emotion, more than compassion, more than positive regard for another; love is power—the power to live, heal and be free. Love is functional, operational, with specific design parameters built into the fabric of reality. Love is intelligent and as we intelligently choose to harmonize with how love functions we not only experience greater health, fulfillment and wellbeing, we are transformed to become forces for good in the world. In The God-Shaped Heart Christian psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jennings explores the healing power of love, exposes a belief system infecting Christianity that obstructs love, and identifies eternal truths that open the heart to God's transforming power of love.

The Gospel in Galatians Lesson 7 3Q 2017

The Road of Faith

SABBATH

This week's lesson is based on Galatians 3:21-25, let's read these texts first from the NIV:

Is the law, therefore, opposed to the promises of God? Absolutely not! For if a law had been given that could impart life, then righteousness would certainly have come by the law. ²² But the Scripture declares that the whole world is a prisoner of sin, so that what was promised, being given through faith in Jesus Christ, might be given to those who believe.

²³ Before this faith came, we were held prisoners by the law, locked up until faith should be revealed. ²⁴ So the law was put in charge to lead us to Christ that we might be justified by faith.

²⁵ Now that faith has come, we are no longer under the supervision of the law.

What do you understand this to mean?

In this passage to what law is Paul referring? As we discovered last week, both the ceremonial and moral law of the 10 Commandments, but especially the 10 Commandments.

And what is the purpose of the law in this passage? A remedy? No! Something else—what?

What does it mean prisoner of sin? How is the world a prisoner to sin?

What does it mean held prisoner by the law? Does it mean we are criminals and the law sentences us to death and we are criminals on death row awaiting the ruling authority to execute us, except for those who claim the legal death payment of Jesus in their place?

What then is the cause of death? Does death come from sin itself, or is death an imposed punishment inflicted by God?

Such ideas are what the false legal view leads to, the lie that God's law functions like sinful human governments, imposed rules requiring imposed punishments. But, when we return to worship God as Creator and realize His laws are design laws, then we realize that sin is breaking His design for life and is a terminal condition which results in death unless remedied by our Savior.

What does justified by faith mean? It depends of the view of God's law one holds BEFORE they read the passage. If one believes God's law works like sinful human law then they read this passage and think it is God declaring in the courts of heaven the legal accounting of a person to be righteous even though they are not when that person claims in faith the legal payment of Jesus.

All such ideas are not reality, at best they are metaphor, at worst they are lies.

In reality, justification is simply setting humanity right with God again, fixing what is wrong, putting back to God's original design what is not longer in harmony with His law and design.

Here is Galatians 3:21-25 from the Remedy:

²¹ Is the written law, then, somehow in opposition to the promises of God? Of course not! The written law was simply a tool to diagnose our sickness and lead us to God for healing. If the written law could somehow cure the infection of selfishness and promote life, then healing would certainly have followed the giving of the law.²² But Scripture is clear: All humanity is infected with selfishness and is imprisoned by this terminal condition. It is by trust that we experience the only cure, the One promised—Jesus Christ—who was given to humankind as the Remedy to this terminal condition.

²³ Before Christ came, we were quarantined by the written law—restrained from continual self-destruction—until Christ procured the only true cure.²⁴ The written law was provided as a safeguard to protect us and lead us to Christ—the Great Physician—so that we might be restored to unity with God by trust in, and partaking of, Christ.²⁵ Now that trust in God has been restored—and we are set right in heart, mind, and character, and again practice God's methods—we no longer need the law to diagnose our condition or lead us back to God. The Remedy

Now, I received a message after lesson four asking this question:

After reading the notes for lesson 4 it seems that you are thinking like Catholics. Protestants understand “the grace of justification” as purely a legal declaration; for Rome justification is a process of inner renewal, something that happens in us.

This is a very understandable concern and a reasonable issue to raise, especially since essentially all of Christianity has indoctrinated into the idea that these two views are the only two views and the choice is a binary either or choice. So, I want to thank the person who sent in this question.

It also gives each of us an opportunity to do some reasoning and perhaps break out of a trap in which both positions are less than accurate.

First, how do you handle questions such as this? What is your response?

Before we get to the actual facts of the concern, notice one of the methods of persuasion being employed—to contrast the understood Protestant position with that of the understood Catholic position—why do that? What is the purpose?

Is it to suggest that if the Catholics have a certain view it must be wrong, therefore we should hold the other view?

This is one of the arguments made by those who argue against the Trinity, that because the idea is held by Catholics it cannot be correct. But this is a weak argument.

The demon possessed often said about Jesus "We know who you are thou Son of the Most High God." Would we suggest that because the demons said this about Jesus that we should argue the opposite that Jesus is not the Son of the Most High God? No we would not, so determining whether a view is right or wrong based on who said it, is not the best method for decision making.

Who said it can cause us to be suspicious, to scrutinize, but how about some actual evidence of which view is most accurate?

Next, it is important to check the assumed positions of the questioner are correct. What is the difference between the Protestant and Catholic views of Justification?

The very simplistic difference between the historic Lutheran and Calvinistic view and the Catholic views is this:

- Protestant—justification is an act of faith accepting the legal accounting, declaring, crediting, imputing to the sinner's account the sinless righteousness of Jesus, without any works on the sinner's part while the sinner remains just as sinful as before. It is an event in time that cannot be undone except by the loss of faith.
- Catholic—justification is the change in the inner man accomplished by the grace of God plus the works of the believer. Thus it is a process happening over time. In this view, the sinner is born with original sin and the sinner can be moved from a state of condemnation to a child of God only by baptism (infant), and later by faith plus the sacraments. The sacraments of baptism, penance, mass, etc. are controlled by the Church and thus are gateways to justification.

Historically, the Roman Church had come to a point in history where they held people hostage to the authority of the church institution. Salvation was dependent not upon a trust relationship with Jesus Christ alone, but a combination of faith in Jesus and works controlled by the church to include penance, baptism, mass, and indulgences. Further, salvation could be obtained through purging of the wickedness after death in a place called purgatory. A living person could help a loved one out of purgatory by purchasing a pass from the church to accomplish this.

Martin Luther and the reformers saw the corruption of this system and protested against it. In so doing they moved people toward a better understanding. However, their understanding and teaching was still predicated on the imposed law construct, already deeply rooted in the Catholic system. Thus, while it was moving away from institutional authoritarianism, and arbitrary works, it did not actually come to teach what true justification actually is. Instead, it set up another theological construct based on the false law idea.

Truth is unfolding and those who cling to the penal substitutionary view of the early reformers cling to a view which freed the reformers from the domination of a institutional system, however, it did not free them from the domination of selfishness and fear nor the view of God as the inflictor of eternal torment as the punishment for sin. This penal legal view has a form of godliness with no power.

According the an online Catholic Encyclopedia:

What then is the part assigned to faith in justification? According to Luther (and Calvin also), the faith that justifies is... the infallible conviction (fides fiducialis, fiducia) that God for the sake of Christ will no longer impute to us our sins, but will consider and treat us, as if we were really just and holy, although in our inner selves we remain the same sinners as before.

In the Protestant system, however, remission of sin is no real forgiveness, no blotting out of guilt. Sin is merely cloaked and concealed by the imputed merits of Christ; God no longer imputes it, whilst in reality it continues under cover its miserable existence till the hour of death. Thus there exist in man side by side two hostile brothers as it were — the one just and the other unjust; the one a saint, the other a sinner; the one a child of God, the other a slave of Satan — and this without any prospect of a conciliation between the two.

Thus we find in one of Luther's letters, written to Melancthon in 1521, the following sentence: "Be a sinner and sin boldly, but believe and rejoice in Christ more strongly, who triumphed over sin, death, and the world; as long as we live here, we must sin."...

We now come to the different states in the process of justification. The Council of Trent assigns the first and most important place to faith, which is styled "the beginning, foundation and root of all justification" ... The process of justification is then brought to a close by the baptism of water, inasmuch as by the grace of this sacrament the catechumen is freed from sin (original and personal) and its punishments, and is made a child of God. The same process of justification is repeated in those who by mortal sin have lost their baptismal innocence; with this modification, however, that the Sacrament of Penance replaces baptism. a <http://www.newadvent.org/cathen/08573a.htm>

Now, do we teach either of these views? What is the problem with both of these views?

This is a classic trap of Satan, get people believing two wrong views and then to argue those two views against each other. This happens when Protestants and Catholics argue over the Eucharist—the Catholic view is that during the mass Christ presents His sacrifice to the Father to pay for our sins, the Protestant view is He presents His merits to remind the Father that He has already paid for the sins on the Cross. Both miss the point that they are serving a dictator God, with an imposed law, who is the source of inflicted punishment for sin and who must be paid in order not to kill.

This same problem is happening with their argument over justification. They are both built on a legal system of imposed rules with inflicted punishment. The Protestant position grew out of a burdensome religion in which works weighed down the sinner with penance and some action constantly needing to be done to influence God not to punish. The Protestants took away the sacraments, the works of humans, but did not take away the false law which causes people to think justice is God punishing, thus justification is addressing the punishment problem. Further, the Protestants actually set up a system in which people are told they are set right with God without any internal change in their heart at all, thus they will expect to continue to sin right up until the moment of translation. This is the form of godliness with no power.

The Catholic view realizes a change needs to happen in the person, but teaches that change comes about by the works of the person and the power of the sacraments of the church in conjunction with faith. Thus the Catholic view merges justification and sanctification and then adds sacraments and works.

The traditional Protestant view realizes change is part of salvation but separates it from justification and instead calls it sanctification. Whereas, justification is completely a legal process that has no internal change occurring in the believer.

Our view is that the species human was set right (justified) with God in the person of Jesus Christ—by what Jesus accomplished in His humanity. Because of Jesus there is a perfect, sinless human being—a descendant of Adam—who did not need to be delivered from His personal sin, but who by the exercise of His own human brain developed a perfect, sinless human character, thus restoring the species human to God's original intent.

The species was healed, put right, set right, justified first in the person of Jesus by His sinless life, selfless death which destroyed death and brought life and immortality to life, and thus resulted in His resurrection—in a humanity perfected and sinless.

In so doing, He procured the remedy to save all other humans who would give their consent to God so He can heal them.

In our experience we must first partake of Christ, ingest His body which was broken for us—this is symbolic of the truth. Jesus is the Word made flesh, thus by partaking of the words of truth—the truth about God Jesus revealed, the lies of Satan are destroyed and we are won from enmity and distrust to trust. This is justification, our hearts are set right in trust with God again. Romans 4:4 God, who is always truthful acknowledges the truth of this change and recognizes, accounts, declares that we who trust are set right with Him.

Then, in trust, their heart is opened and the Holy Spirit takes what Christ achieved and reproduces it within us. This is symbolically taught by drinking the wine—which is symbolic of the blood, which itself is symbolic of the life of Jesus, which is His perfect sinless character. We actually get a new heart and right spirit, it is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me, we become partakers of the divine nature. And with our trust in God and desire to live in harmony with His designs of truth, love and freedom, we make choices to apply to our lives the truths and principles He reveals to us. This is sanctification.

But all of this is a gift from God, we don't earn it, we don't create it, we don't procure it, we receive it by faith and participate by trust in God. There are not sacraments or works in creating the Remedy, there is human cooperation in accepting and applying it to our lives.

Many commit the error of trying to define minutely the fine points of distinction between justification and sanctification. Into the definitions of these two terms they often bring their own ideas and speculations. Why try to be more minute than is Inspiration on the vital question of righteousness by faith? Why try to work out every minute point, as if the salvation of the soul depended upon all having exactly your understanding of this matter? All cannot see in the same line of vision. You are in danger of making a world of an atom, and an atom of a world. {CTr 150.2}

So we believe Christ achieved the remedy to our sinful condition singly and alone without any help from any sinner, or any human institution. He is the head of the human family, species, and is the second Adam. Thus in the person of Jesus humanity is restored to its right place in God's universe. This is the justification or the setting right of the species human. But in doing this He also achieved the remedy that every sinful human being may freely partake and be transformed and eternally saved. But before internal healing happens the sinner must trust God and open the heart to Him. His heart must be set right, i.e. he must exercise trust or faith in God, which is justification.

This robe, woven in the loom of heaven, has in it not one thread of human devising. Christ in His humanity wrought out a perfect character, and this character He offers to impart to us. "All our righteousness are as filthy rags." Isa. 64:6. Everything that we of ourselves can do is defiled by sin. But the Son of God "was manifested to take away our sins; and in Him is no sin." Sin is defined to be "the transgression of the law." 1 John 3:5, 4. But Christ was obedient to every requirement of the law. ...By His perfect obedience He has made it possible for every human being to obey God's commandments. When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged in His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness. Then as the Lord looks upon us He sees, not the fig-leaf garment, not the nakedness and deformity of sin, but His own robe of righteousness, which is perfect obedience to the law of Jehovah. {COL 311.4}

We want parents to awake from their lethargic sleep. Awake and see that at this time you must put on the beautiful robe of Christ's righteousness....The righteousness of God never covers a soul all polluted with sin. John says, "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29). Will you let Him take it away? {1SAT 237}

So some review quotes from two weeks ago:

What is justification by faith? It is the work of God in laying the glory of man in the dust, and doing for man that which it is not in his power to do for himself. When men see their own nothingness, they are prepared to be clothed with the righteousness of Christ... {FLB 111.2}

The thought that the righteousness of Christ is imputed to us, not because of any merit on our part, but as a free gift from God, is a precious thought. The enemy of God and man is not willing that this truth should be clearly presented; for he knows that if the people receive it fully, his power will be broken. {FLB 111.6}

The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Rom. 3:26. {DA 762.2} [Where is the righteousness of the law fulfilled? In record books? In courtrooms in heaven? IN THE BELIEVER!]

He would have us comprehend something of His love in giving His Son to die that He might counteract evil, remove the defiling stains of sin from the workmanship of God, [to what is this referring? Is it not the human being?] and reinstate the lost, elevating and ennobling the soul to its original purity through Christ's imputed righteousness. TMK 206 Is this declared in some legal way, is it some application to records or courts in heaven, or is it an actual change happening within the believer being? And what is this healing change accomplished through? The imputed righteousness of Christ!

"But we all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory even as by the Spirit of the Lord" (2 Cor. 3:18). Beholding Christ means studying His life as given in His Word. We are to dig for truth as for hidden treasure. We are to fix our eyes upon Christ. When we take Him as our personal Saviour, this gives us boldness to approach the throne of grace. By beholding we become changed, morally assimilated to the One who is perfect in character. [Where is the focus? Where is the change? Is this legal or actual in the believer?] By receiving His imputed righteousness, through the transforming power of the Holy Spirit, we become like Him. [Again, where is the change, where is the impact of the imputed righteousness of Christ? This is not legal, the entire legal doctrine of penal substitution taught in Christianity is based on a lie, it is based on the false view of God's law and this

SUNDAY

Read second paragraph, “These people believed...” What does this sentence mean, “The law cannot make anyone alive spiritually”?

Can the law make anyone alive physically?

Can the law make anyone alive in any way?

Then why emphasize “spiritually”?

What does it mean to be dead spiritually?

As a people, we are backsliding from God. The hearts of his professed children are being estranged from him. While they have a name to live, the true, vital energies of the soul have become spiritually dead.. {RH, July 10, 1879 par. 6}

Those are spiritually dead who profess to worship God while the heart is not in the work. {ST, June 24, 1886 par. 3}

What does it mean to be spiritually dead? To be profess to worship but God, to be involved in church work, but the heart is not in it.

And what is the heart—is it the pump inside the chest?

In my new book, The God-Shaped Heart I go into detail describing the difference between the brain, mind and heart. Spiritually speaking, the heart is your true secret self, where you character, desires, motives, inmost personal identity is.

The Brain is the machine, the hardware, the neurons and glia, which are constantly changing based on the operations of the mind.

The mind is the entire software database, including your language, other facts and knowledge and memories, but your heart is a subset of your mind composing your core self.

To be spiritually dead is to have the right facts about God and the right doctrines, but not to be regenerated to have the law of love restored as the motive in the heart, to still be operating upon the principles of fear and selfishness. The spiritually dead are still focused on survival and that is their personal survival and the institutions to which their ego, self-esteem, name and reputation are tied. They may die for their institution, or a certain doctrine, if they have spent enough time associating their personal self with that institution. But their motive is still selfish and thus they are spiritually dead.

To arouse those spiritually dead, to create new tastes, new motives, requires as great an outlay of power as to raise one from physical death. It is indeed giving life to the dead to convert the sinner from the error of his ways; but our Deliverer is able to do this; for He came to destroy the works of the enemy. And will He not accomplish that which He has pledged himself to perform? {RH, March 12, 1901 par. 16}

What does it mean to be kept under the written law? The lesson suggests a couple of meanings:

1. an alternate way of salvation by keeping the rules—but the Bible makes it clear this is impossible
2. being under its condemnation—read second paragraph, “Under the law...” thoughts?

Do you like the second view? Is there another view?

Yes the written law is a gift to function like a diagnostic instrument and protective hedge and a guidepost. It diagnosis what is wrong to bring us to realize we are dying and need external help, it protects us from further self-injury, and leads us back to Christ who can heal us.

We are not under condemnation because of the written law—we are under condemnation because of the terminal condition with which we were born.

The written law merely diagnosis what is already true in us. This is why Paul writes in Romans 5:12-14

Therefore, just as sin entered the world through one man, and death through sin, and in this way death came to all men, because all sinned—¹³ for before the law was given, sin was in the world. But sin is not taken into account when there is no law. ¹⁴ Nevertheless, death reigned from the time of Adam to the time of Moses, even over those who did not sin by breaking a command, as did Adam, who was a pattern of the one to come.

From The Remedy:

Therefore, the infection of distrust of God—which deformed humanity's heart and mind with selfishness and fear, and which results only in death—infected the human race when Adam accepted Satan's lies about God and broke trust with him. This infection of fear and selfishness is inherited by all human beings, so all are born infected.¹³ This is revealed by the fact that before the written law was given, the infection of distrust, fear and selfishness was already present in the world. But this infection of distrust, fear and selfishness is not diagnosable without the law.¹⁴ Nevertheless, even without being diagnosed as infected with this terminal condition, humans still died, all the way from the time of Adam to Moses—even those who did not break a specific command, like Adam did—revealing that the problem is the infected state of our minds and not a legal issue with God. Adam, the first man, being the conduit through which the infection entered humanity, also represents the one man who is the conduit of the antidote that cures all those who accept it.

TUESDAY

Did you notice how awkward and difficult it is for those who hold the false human law concept to communicate the goodness of the law. They really work so hard to help people see that God's law is for us, because most react to it as if it is not.

It become so simple when we realize God's law is design law, and that the written law was added as a tool we needed, to diagnose, protect and lead to Christ.

From The Remedy:

Before Christ came, we were quarantined by the written law—restrained from continual self-destruction—until Christ procured the only true cure.²⁴ The written law was provided as a safeguard to protect us and lead us to Christ—the Great Physician—so that we might be restored to unity with God by trust in, and partaking of, Christ... Gal 3:23,24

WEDNESDAY

Read third paragraph, "Paul's description of the law..." What does Romans 2:4 says brings us to repentance? It is the kindness of God.

Does the law have a negative aspect?

When did Adam run and hide from God before or after the law was given at Sinai?

Why did he run and hide? Where did the condemnation originate? Was it from the written law or did the condemnation originate in Adam's changed condition?

So why was the law added later? Because sin numbs, deadens, warps, hardens and people no longer felt conviction, no longer felt shame, guilt, condemnation, and thus the written law was needed to diagnose those so sin sick they didn't think they were sin sick—but the condemnation is in the condition and existed before the written law was given.

Is what the function of written law negative? If you have a tumor and go into the MRI and it reveals the tumor is that a negative aspect of the MRI? Or is it a redemptive and helpful aspect?

The condemnation comes from the condition itself, the law only diagnoses or exposes or reveals the condition. Thus Jesus said:

“Make a tree good and its fruit will be good, or make a tree bad and its fruit will be bad, for a tree is recognized by its fruit. ³⁴ You brood of vipers, how can you who are evil say anything good? For out of the overflow of the heart the mouth speaks. ³⁵ The good man brings good things out of the good stored up in him, and the evil man brings evil things out of the evil stored up in him. ³⁶ But I tell you that men will have to give account on the day of judgment for every careless word they have spoken. ³⁷ For by your words you will be acquitted, and by your words you will be condemned.” Mt 12:33-37

THURSDAY

Read fourth paragraph, “Instead, because the law is a transcript of God’s character...” What does it mean a transcript of God’s character? What are the lessons of this metaphor? What are the limitations of a transcript?

Consider DNA a transcript of a person. Does the DNA transcript reveal things about the person?

Does the DNA transcript let us know beauty of the smile? The reaction of forgiveness when wronged, the kindness in adversity, the depth of love in action?

The law of God is a living law and cannot be truly understood on stone—in fact it was not written on stone until it was no longer written in the hearts and minds of human beings. God’s plan is to restore His design law, His living law, back into you and me where it can be seen in its full active glory!

Love does no harm to its neighbor. Therefore love is the fulfillment of the law. Rom 13:10

FRIDAY

Read third paragraph, “All who did service...” Discuss question 1.

Lesson 8 – From Slaves to Heirs

This lesson title is obviously based on the Memory Text from Galatians 4:7,

“So you are no longer a slave, but a son, and if a son, then an heir through God.”

What does it mean that we are no longer slaves?

Slaves to what?

Slaves to our sinful behaviors/addictions/bad acts? Or slaves to our sinful nature, our condition of heart and mind?

And what are we heirs to? What do we inherit?

We will try to get some clarity and answer some of those questions as we go through this week’s lesson.

SATURDAY

Young Martin Luther’s experience of being a slave –

“by seeking to obtain pardon for sin and peace through his own works. He led a most rigorous life, endeavoring by fasting, vigils, and scourgings to subdue the evils of his nature, but even this monastic life brought no relief. He shrank from no sacrifice by which he might attain such a purity of heart that would enable him to stand approved before God. He called himself a “pious monk who strictly followed the rules of his order, and yet, found no peace within them...if ever a monk could obtain heaven by his monkish works, I should certainly have been entitled to it.”

But this strategy didn’t work for him...and it still doesn’t work...for anyone.

Does mindset ring true with anyone else here?

I remember growing up...even if we paid lip service to “salvation by faith”, there was always the underlying emphasis on obeying the rules and our behavioral performance; the works had to at least look good from the outside. That sounds a bit like slavery...and it felt a bit like slavery to me.

Apparently, the Galatians were experiencing similar struggles and Paul talks about it in Chapter 3 verses 1-5:

“Jesus Christ was clearly portrayed as crucified, and as the only Remedy for our sin-infected minds! 2 I would like to know just one thing from you: Did you receive the Spirit of love and truth, and experience his healing power, by practicing rituals and observing rules, or was it by understanding and believing the truth that you heard? 3 Are you really so foolish that you think that after experiencing the healing power of the Spirit, which came by trust alone, you can now complete the healing process by your own effort—without the Spirit? 4 Have you really gone so far in the treatment course for nothing? And it will be for nothing if you persist in trying to heal yourselves! 5 Is it because you observe a set of rules that God enlightens your minds with his Spirit and miraculously transforms your characters, or is it because you have been won to trust by the evidence Jesus revealed?”

The Galatians also thought that practicing rituals and observing a set of rules and relying on their own efforts could complete their healing or transform their characters. For Luther, only when he began to understand the truth about salvation in Christ, did he ever start to have any kind of spiritual freedom and hope for his own soul. And based on what I understand now, although his protestations advanced truth from where he started, there was still more truth to be discovered (and there still is! and there will always be more truth to uncover – throughout eternity!), because they still held to the view that God’s law is imposed. God’s true character of love, along with the knowledge that His laws are natural design laws, and the fact that he does not govern his universe in the same way humans - (thank God!) – these are some of THE most freeing and liberating concepts I have learned in this class. You will know the truth, and the truth will set you free.

Here is our Memory Text from the Remedy paraphrase,

“Rejoice! You are no longer childlike, needing the supervision of a slave, but are adult children, wise and mature; and as mature children—heirs with Christ of all that is promised!”

What is promised? What have we been told about our inheritance?

- Eternal life
- Kingdom of heaven – the kingdom prepared for us since the creation of the world
- The (new) earth

SUNDAY

Our Condition in Christ

The quarterly asks us – keeping Gal 3:25 in mind, how does Gal 3:26 help us understand what our relationship to the law is, now that we have been “redeemed” by Jesus? Would someone please read Gal 3:25-27 for us?

“Now that trust in God has been restored—and we are set right in heart, mind, and character, and again practice God's methods—we no longer need the law to diagnose our condition or lead us back to God. 26 Through the Remedy established by Jesus Christ you are all loyal children of God, 27 for all of you who have immersed your minds and hearts into the truth of God as revealed by Christ have had your characters changed, and—like a new set of clothing—replaced with the character of Christ.”

The quarterly compares a master's son being under a pedagogue while he was a minor - did anyone else have to look have to look up “pedagogue” or was that just me?

Google defines it as: a teacher, especially a strict or pedantic one...and “pedagogy” is a thing...who knew? Anyway, the quarterly is comparing a minor child under a pedagogue to an immature Christian or unbeliever... and then says that their relationship with the law is changed because they are now adult “sons” of God.

Does our relationship with the law change as we mature? Which law...and how?

If our parents have a “law” that we brush our teeth, does our relationship with that law change as we grow up and mature? Why is that?

What is the significance of Paul using the word sons instead of the more generic term children in this passage?

In that time and culture, the family inheritance was passed on to the male offspring. The phrase “sons of God” also had special meaning and was the specific designation of Israel in the Old Testament, and Paul wanted to highlight that, in Christ, the Gentiles (everyone - all nations, kindred, tongues, and peoples) now enjoy the same special relationship with God that had previously been somewhat exclusive to Israel.

What is it about baptism that makes it such a significant event?

- Is it that the right words were said?
- Is it the depth of the water? Size of the tank?
- Dunked or sprinkled?
- Which denomination?
- Whether the baptizee has accepted and agreed to the appropriate creed or doctrines or fundamental beliefs?

I have a couple of texts that speak to why baptism is a significant event.

Gal 3:27-29 “27 for all of you who have immersed your minds and hearts into the truth of God as revealed by Christ have had your characters changed, and—like a new set of clothing—replaced with the character of Christ. 28 Your station on earth is irrelevant: it doesn't matter whether you are Jew or Greek, slave or free, male or female—for you are all one in character, method, principle and motive through all that Christ has done. 29 If you are Christlike in heart and mind, then you are one of Abraham's descendants and an heir to all the promises of God.”

Romans 6:3-5 “ 3 Or don't you realize that all of us who were immersed into union with Christ Jesus were immersed into selflessness and have died to self-centeredness? 4 We symbolically demonstrate that we have joined him in dying to self by being buried in water, in order that—just as Jesus rose from the dead, displaying the life-giving glory of the Father—we too may live a new life, displaying God's glorious character. 5 If we have joined him in dying to self, we will absolutely join him in his resurrection and in new life!”

1 Peter 3:21-22 “21 The flood is symbolic of baptism: Just as those who responded to the Spirit in Noah's day and went through the water—safely in the ark—to a new life, those who follow the Spirit go through baptism to a new life in Christ today. This doesn't wash away dirt from the body, but it symbolizes the Spirit's cleansing of the conscience from fear and selfishness. You are healed by the life of Jesus Christ who rose from the dead 22 and is in heaven at God's right hand, directing the Spirit to take his perfect character and reproduce it in you. All heavenly intelligences recognize him as worthy and sovereign, and he is directing all the agencies of heaven for your healing.”

So what is it that makes baptism such a significant event?

There is a Frank J. Matera quote in the 3rd paragraph that says:

“Paul views baptism as the moment when Christ, like a garment, envelops the believer. Although he does not employ the term, Paul is describing the righteousness which is conferred (bestowed/granted/given/imparted) upon believers.”

What do you think about that...what is Paul really describing here?

Is this simply a legal transaction, a declaration of something that's actually not true?

Or does this garment envelop the believer...is this righteousness conferred upon believers...because an actual change has taken place, because a heart that was at enmity toward God has been transformed to a heart that trusts God and has been...set right!

One of the founders of our church describes this covering garment or robe like this:

“Only the covering which Christ Himself has provided can make us meet to appear in God’s presence. This covering, the robe of His own righteousness, Christ will put upon every repenting, believing soul...This robe, woven in the loom of heaven, has in it not one thread of human devising. Christ in His humanity wrought out a perfect character, and this character He offers to impart to us...Everything that we of ourselves can do is defiled by sin. But the Son of God “was manifested to take away our sins; and in Him is no sin.” Sin is defined to be “the transgression of the law.” 1 John 3:5, 4. But Christ was obedient to every requirement of the law. [which law? what are the requirements of the law?] By His perfect obedience He has made it possible for every human being to obey God’s commandments. When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged in His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness.”

Pink box: “Dwell on the thought that what is true of Christ is also true of us. How should this amazing truth affect every aspect of our existence?”

MONDAY

Enslaved to Elementary Principles

So in the first part of Galatians chapter 4, Paul elaborates on the metaphor of a young heir who is a master of his father’s estate by title, but as a minor he is required to be under the supervision of guardians and managers until he reaches maturity and “is little more than a slave in practice.” The quarterly asks how this story should help clarify what the role of the law should be in our lives now that we are in Christ?

We just talked about this a bit in terms of the tooth brushing law. We know that God’s laws do not change, but as we grow up and mature, does the role of God’s law in our lives change? How?

When we come to realize God’s law is not like man’s law, it is not a list of imposed rules, that God’s laws are the protocols upon which reality works and upon which life is constructed to operate, and that deviations are destructive to the deviant...then we come to an understanding of the underlying principles behind the laws, we are in agreement with them, and we become an active participant in God’s purposes. I think the role of the law - particularly the written/moral law - in our lives should continue to be a diagnostic instrument to highlight aspects of our character that still need healing. And when we fully understand the natural laws we have highlighted in this class, we can use them to predict the future. Has anyone here been able to do that? Gravity? Plastic bag/respiration? Exertion? Liberty?

OK, back to Paul’s child heir metaphor in Gal. 4:1-7 –

“I mean that the heir, as long as he is a child, is no different from a slave, though he is the owner of everything, 2 but he is under guardians and managers until the date set by his father. 3 In the same way we also, when we were children, were enslaved to the [elementary principles] of the world. 4 But when the fullness of time had come, God sent forth his Son, born of woman, born under the law, 5 to redeem those who were under the law, so that we might receive adoption as sons. 6 And because you are sons, God has sent the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, crying, “Abba! Father!” 7 So you are no longer a slave, but a son, and if a son, then an heir through God.”

What are these “elementary principles” of the world that enslave us as children?

Paul’s relates humanity’s status prior to the coming of Christ to the “minor” in the above text, who owns everything but is in effect no different than a slave. There is some theological dispute, but most agree that Paul is equating this phrase “elementary principles” to the rudimentary principles and practices of religious life...and how these symbolic ceremonies and rituals and practices have repeatedly become a stumbling block for God’s people - the Israelites, the Jews in Christ’s day, then with the Galatians, and how about with many religious folks today?

Reading these same verses in the Remedy shed some light for me:

1 What I am trying to explain to you is that as long as the heir remains immature, they are really no different from a slave, because they need someone to supervise their behavior, make their decisions, and guide their actions—even though they own the entire estate. 2 They don’t have self-governance, so they need the guardians and trustees to protect them from their immature self until such time as they can handle their own affairs. 3 Likewise, when we were childlike in character and immature in our thinking, we had no self-control and were slaves to selfish impulses. 4 But when the time was right, God intervened and sent his Son—born of a sin-infected human mother, as a real human baby, with a humanity weakened by the law of sin and death— 5 in order to purify, cleanse and purge humanity from the infection of selfishness and fear. He did this in order to heal and restore those diagnosed as “terminal” by the written law, so that we might receive all the blessings of sons and daughters of God. 6 Because we are children of God, God sent the Spirit of his Son into our hearts to restore Christlikeness of character so that we genuinely call out to God, "Daddy, Father!" 7 Rejoice! You are no longer childlike, needing the supervision of a slave, but are adult children, wise and mature; and as mature children—heirs with Christ of all that is promised!

So these ceremonial laws and practices were only symbols - mere shadows of what was to come - they were always meant to point to Christ, and never intended to take his place. Paul is pointing out how immature it was for the Galatians to go back now and try to regulate their lives around these rules and rituals instead of around Christ - when they were able to experience the real thing! He wanted them to grow and progress from drinking milk to eating solid food like mature Christians who are acquainted with the ways of righteousness (Heb 5:11).

[Optional] Pink box question: Can it be argued that the more you grow and mature spiritually, the more childlike your faith will be?

TUESDAY

God Sent Forth His Son

Galatians 4:4 says:

“But when the fullness of time had come, God sent forth his Son, born of woman, born under the law, to redeem those who were under the law, so that we might receive adoption as sons.”

Have you ever thought about why that time was just the right time?
What was going on in the world that made it just the right time?

From a historical and cultural perspective, that time frame was known as the Pax Romana, or the Roman Peace - a 200-year period of relative stability and peace all across the Roman empire. Rome's conquest of the Mediterranean world brought peace, a common language, favorable means of travel, and a common culture that helped to facilitate the rapid spread of the gospel in the early Christian church.

Is there any doubt that the God of the universe, the God of infinite wisdom, would choose the exact right, perfect time to intervene in human history with the promised Messiah?

What does it mean when the text says Jesus was “born under law”?

The text says it points not only to his Jewish heritage, but also to the fact that he bore our condemnation...what does that mean? The law of sin and death, he was born with our condition - a selfish, carnal nature.

The 2nd paragraph in Monday's lesson equates God sending forth his son with God taking the initiative in our salvation...and it certainly was the most significant, tangible evidence of God taking the initiative in our salvation, but it certainly was not His first time or the initial initiative taken on our behalf. When did he first take the initiative in our salvation? According to Isaiah, Matthew, Luke, Acts, Hebrews, and Revelation...He is the lamb slain from the foundations of the world. Adam and Eve get the promise of a redeemer immediately after eating the fruit in Eden...then basically the entire Old Testament is a series of examples of God taking the initiative in our salvation, and intervening over and over to keep open the avenue for the Messiah to come.

The last paragraph on Tuesday's lesson was interesting to me...I almost felt like the author was experiencing an internal struggle between some healing model/design law concepts and some penal substitution/imposed law concepts. "It was necessary for Christ to assume our humanity because we could not save ourselves"...100% true.

"By uniting His divine nature with our fallen human nature, Christ legally qualified to be our Substitute, Savior, and High Priest"

Did he really need legal qualifications?

"As the second Adam, He came to reclaim all that the first Adam had lost by his disobedience" (Rom. 5:12-21)"

I might would reword the last phrase to 'by his distrust, by the damage he did to his heart, mind and character'... rather than by his disobedience, because the implied focus is on behavior alone. "By His obedience He perfectly fulfilled the law's demands, thus redeeming Adam's tragic failure."

What are the law's demands and how did he perfectly fulfill it?

One of this class' favorite quotes from the Desire of Ages:

"The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character" [Why?? Why does the law of respiration require that we breathe? Because that is how life was designed to operate!] "and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character." [What is maybe the only thing God cannot create? Character! It must be wrought out, developed, refined, and perfected through the exercise of your free will....so although Christ was created sinless, he had to mature and develop his perfect character.]

"These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this,

Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can 'be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus.'

Back to the quarterly:

"And by His death on the cross, He met the justice of the law, which required the death of the sinner, thus gaining the right to redeem all who come to Him in true faith and surrender."

Does the "justice of the law" require the death of the sinner?

What does the "justice of the law" require?

The just thing, the right thing to do under the law of love...is to heal and restore the sinner back to his original design!

WEDNESDAY

The Privileges of Adoption

Wednesday's lesson starts out by digging into Paul's statement that Christ has "redeemed" or bought back or ransomed those who were "under the law". It correctly defines "ransom" as the price paid to secure the freedom of a hostage or a slave. It also correctly asks the question, "from what do we need to be freed?" and does quite a good job at answering that question, but still reveals some imposed law/penal views. So what do we need to be redeemed or ransomed from - what is holding us captive?

1. Satan's lies about God we have believed that keep us from knowing and trusting God, and
2. Our sinful, selfish nature.

What then is the price necessary to free us?

The truth that will destroy the lies and free our minds to trust, and a new perfect nature/character, and Jesus provides both and both could only be achieved by His sinless life, selfless death and resurrection!

This is what Christ came to do - to reveal the father and His character - to make him known - in order to win us back to trust...and to develop a perfect character in his humanity, which he offers as a free gift to all who are willing to receive it.

To whom was this price paid...the judge?

An angry God?

No...To us! We are the ones who needed the truth and we are the ones who needed a new nature!

The quarterly points out that Paul's use of the word adoption is unique - he is the only New Testament author to use it, and it talks about this word being more vivid and descriptive of Christ accomplished for us, than even the word salvation.

Has anyone here experienced adoption - either by being adopted or by adopting a child? Hopefully that's not too personal a question. I am genuinely in awe of folks who foster and adopt in this world, and I believe it is such a beautiful representation of how we are all grafted into the family of God. Apparently, adoption was a well-known legal procedure at that time in the Greco-Roman world, and several roman emperors during Paul's life used adoption as their means of choosing a successor when they had no legal heir. There are many real rights and privileges guaranteed through adoption – and from those I know who have participated in adoption, there is literally no difference in how an adopted versus a naturally born child is loved and accepted as part of the family. So, if we broken folks can manage to achieve that here on an earthly level...how much better to is the experience of divine adoption as children of God and co-heirs with Christ.

This is a great quote from Friday's lesson talking about our adoption:

“In the council of heaven, provision was made that men, though transgressors, should not perish in their disobedience, but, through faith in Christ as their substitute and surety, might become the elect of God predestined unto the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to Himself according to the good pleasure of His will. God wills that all men should be saved; for ample provision has been made, in giving His only-begotten Son to pay man's ransom. Those who perish will perish because they refuse to be adopted as children of God through Christ Jesus.”

The box at the bottom of Wednesday's lesson talks about Paul's use of the word Abba - the intimate term children call their daddys - and asks if you enjoy that kind of intimate closeness to God in your own life? If not, what's the problem? What typically keeps folks from experiencing this type of an intimate, close relationship with God?

Thursday

Why Turn Back to Slavery?

Gal 4:8-11 from the Remedy:

“In the past, before you knew God as revealed by Jesus, your minds were held in the bondage of fear and superstition by gods of your own darkened imaginations. 9 But now that you have come to know God as revealed by Jesus (or, more importantly, now that Christlike character has been developing within you, and you are known as God's children), how could you possibly return to the dark, powerless, destructive beliefs and practices of your former lives? Do you wish to have your minds destroyed and be enslaved by superstition and ignorance all over again? 10 You are actually observing ceremonial holidays as if somehow such observances could heal the mind, remove selfishness and guilt, or restore the character to Christlikeness. 11 I can hardly believe it! I am beginning to wonder whether all my time with you has been wasted.”

The 2nd paragraph of Thursday's lesson is interesting, and I picked up on some defensiveness about whether sabbath observance might be included in Paul's list of ceremonial practices and holidays.

"Many have interpreted Paul's reference to "days and months and seasons and years" as an objection not merely against ceremonial laws but against the Sabbath, as well. Such an interpretation, however, goes beyond the evidence. Does it?

For starters, if Paul really wanted to single out the Sabbath and other specific Jewish practices, it is clear that he easily could have identified them by name. Second, Paul makes it clear that whatever it is the Galatians are doing, it has led them from freedom in Christ to bondage.

“If observance of the seventh-day Sabbath subjects a man to bondage, it must be that the Creator Himself entered into bondage when He observed the world's first Sabbath!” — The SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 6, p. 967.

Also, why would Jesus not only have kept the Sabbath but taught others how to keep it, if its proper observance were in any way depriving people of the freedom that they have in Him?

Were there folks in Israel who were “keeping the Sabbath” but were still kept in bondage?

Isa 1 says:

“Stop bringing meaningless offerings! Your incense is detestable to me. New Moons, Sabbaths and convocations— I cannot bear your worthless assemblies. Your New Moon feasts and your appointed festivals I hate with all my being. They have become a burden to me. I am weary of bearing them.”

Were there folks in Christ’s day who were “keeping the Sabbath” and were still in bondage?

They wanted to stone Christ for the way he kept the sabbath, because he broke all their rules...and they did eventually kill the Lord of the Sabbath but wanted his body down off the cross so they could “keep the Sabbath.”

Are there folks today who are “keeping the Sabbath” in ways that are leading them from freedom in Christ toward bondage?

The Gospel in Galatians Lesson 9 3Q 2017

Paul's Pastoral Appeal

SABBATH

Read the first paragraph, “As we’ve seen...” Does correct doctrine matter? Yes! Why?

What is the importance of correct doctrine?

For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. ⁴ The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. ⁵ We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. 2Cor 10:3-5

What is the central issue in the war between good and evil?

The truth about God—His character and methods of love, truth and freedom, thus doctrine is important AS it reveals truth about God that ultimately wins us back to trust in God!

What did the war start over in heaven?

How did Satan get Adam and Eve to rebel? What issue?

Let's ask some clarifying questions:

- What does it mean to be saved? Does it mean a legal declaration or a restoration to righteousness, an actual regeneration of heart, mind, character to be like Christ, which results in immortality?
- Can a person be saved who holds to fear, selfishness and deceit? Why not?
 - It would be like asking can a person be healed who insists on ingesting cyanide, or smoking, etc. why can't they be healed?
- Can a person claim to accept the legal payment of Jesus but still prefer the methods of coercion, fear, selfishness? Are such persons saved?
 - Why not?—it would be like what they did to George Washington—when he had pneumonia the doctors said they were going to heal him and what did they do? They bled about half his body blood to get rid of the evil humors—the doctors claimed to have the remedy, but they didn't in fact what they did was make his condition worse. This is what happens in the false legal model. The pastors and theology professors who hold it are like the doctors treating George Washington—those doctors really wanted to cure Washington, they were doing what they thought was right, but in reality it was NOT right and thus they harmed while trying to do good. This is what the legal penal model of salvation does, harms while claiming to do good.

- Can a person have their characters renewed such that selfishness is replaced with other-centered love, but have never heard the message of Scripture? (Rom 2:12-14)
- Can a person be saved while rejecting the methods of God?
- Can a person be saved who doesn't worship on Sabbath?
 - Now remember we are talking about the importance of right doctrine, what is its importance—to bring us back to a trust relationship with God such that we are renewed in heart to be like Jesus—can that happen for people who don't worship on Sabbath?
- Can a person be saved who is never baptized by water?
- Can a person be saved who never joins a Christian church?
- Can a person be saved who believes in immortality of the soul?
- Can a person be saved who believes in eternal burning hell?
- Can a person be saved who doesn't believe in the Trinity?
- Can a person be saved who doesn't believe in six days of creation?
- Can a person be saved who doesn't partake communion or practice foot-washing ceremony?
- Can a person be saved who rejects love, truth, freedom, who values lies, coercion, selfishness—regardless of what religion they are, or what blood payments they claim?

What do we learn from this? What is the importance of doctrine?

Doctrines are important as they enlighten and inform us of reality—which originates and centers upon God, who is the source of reality—the Creator. If we have doctrines that are disconnected from God, that stand alone as tests of orthodoxy, then we actually obstruct the saving truth that Christ came to bring.

So, let's examine some doctrines and ask what do they tell us about God?

1. Holy Scriptures—the doctrine that the Old and New Testaments are inspired by God and contain the information necessary for salvation.
 - What does this doctrine tell us about God?
 - God communicates with us, provides us with evidence to refute the lies told about Him, as well as explanation of our circumstance, how reality works, His plan to heal and fix what is wrong with us and how we can cooperate with Him for salvation. Which says what about God?
 - Why would God take the time to explain things to us?
 - Does this mean God wants our understanding and agreement?
 - What does this say about God? What kind of God wants agreement?
 - Why didn't God just say get in line and obey or else?
 - Helpful—ideas, truths, wisdom, primarily about God, His character, design, and methods in contrast to Satan and his methods are communicated. The ideas and truths are what is important, the specific words are not special, magic, inspired and thus the Greek and Hebrew can be replaced with English or other languages as long as the truths are retained.

- Harmful—words are inspired and must be taken literally; it is instruction manual of deeds to be done and sins to be shunned. We are not to ask questions or think, merely to believe and do what it says. Only King James is acceptable.

2. Trinity

- Helpful—God is love, love is other-centered, outward moving. The smallest number that exists to have genuine other centered love is three. Love cannot exist in a singularity, two can be narcissistically reinforcing, but three requires self-sacrifice for the other two. God is love and the Trinity is evidence of this reality. All three are equal in character, ability, eternity.
- Harmful—There is a hierarchical difference between the Godhead, or there is no Trinity. One being dominates and governs all other beings.

3. Creation

- Helpful—God is Creator and designed life to operate in harmony with His own character of love. We see love in nature in all the protocols of giving upon which life is constructed. Yet all nature groans under the weight of sin and thus we see disease and defect, not of God's design or origin, but due to violations of God's design and all such defects will one day be eliminated by God.
- Harmful—God didn't create directly in six literal days but used evolutionary forces over millions of years with the strong killing the weak to eventually evolve humans to the point we are today. What kind of being would God be if this were true?
 - Certain Christians hold to this view because they still cling to imposed law models of right and wrong. Thus they have no problem with a god who is the source of death.

4. Nature of Man

- What does it say about God that we have freedom to choose?
- What does our ability to love, to procreate say about God?
- What about or mortality—what does it say about God?
- Helpful—man was created mortal with conditional immortality pending development of a perfect sinless character of love
- Harmful—man was created immortal unconditionally—what would it say about God if God created human beings immortal in Eden—He either doesn't have foreknowledge (or even good anticipatory skills), or is sadistic and unloving

5. Great Controversy

- What kind of a God would allow questions to arise and give liberty to rebel?

6. Life, Death, Resurrection of Christ

- What is revealed about God in the life of Jesus?
- Helpful—Jesus partook of humanity in order to reveal the truth that destroys Satan's lies and wins us to trust, destroy the infection of fear and selfishness, develop a perfect human character by restoring God's design (law) of love into the species human and thereby carry humanity to perfection and becoming the source of salvation for all who trust and obey Him. All of this in accordance with God's will. God was in the Son reconciling the world to himself.

- Harmful—God was angry His law was broken and was required by law to kill the breakers of His law, so Jesus came in order for God to kill Him so that the legal penalty could be paid and God wouldn't have to kill us. Jesus now stands between us and God working to keep God from killing us.

7. Baptism

- Helpful—water baptism is a symbol of the immersion of the heart, mind, character into God—where fear and selfishness, sin, guilt, shame are washed away and we are renewed to be like Christ by the cleansing waves of truth and love emanating from God, revealed and fulfilled in Christ and distributed by the Holy Spirit
- Harmful—water baptism is a legal requirement and the water baptism itself provides saving benefit

8. Communion

- Helpful—bread and wine are reminders to us of Christ and what He provides for our salvation, healing, nurturing and growth. Just as bread and wine provide nutrients to the body which become part of the cells of our bodies, so Jesus is the Word made flesh, the source of all truth. As we ingest into our minds the truth it dispels the lies and becomes the building blocks of ideas, concepts, perspectives, beliefs that form our mindsets and result in our hearts moving from distrust of God to trust. When we trust God we open the heart and God pours His love into our hearts, this is symbolized by the wine, which is the blood, which is the life, which is the perfect character of Christ, which we receive as a gift and we actually experience new motives, desires, in harmony with God.
 - The bread and wine symbol is to be more than a ceremony but to remind us just as our body needs daily nutrition by ingesting bread and wine so our minds/hearts need daily nutrition by ingesting the truth and love that comes from Jesus. So at every meal we are to be reminded of and partake of Jesus!
- Harmful—the bread and wine are either magical or legal, they magically transform to the literal flesh and blood of Jesus and by taking them they magically do something to make us acceptable to God; or they are a legal requirements that we must partake in order for Jesus to go to the Father in our behalf and pay the legal payment to God so God won't punish us.

9. Law of God

- Helpful—God's laws are design protocols upon which life is constructed, deviations are destructive to the deviant. God has been working through Christ to restore humanity back into harmony with God and His design (law). God like a loving parent, added laws (10 Commandments, Levitical laws) to educate, diagnose, protect, and lead, but never as a means of salvation i.e. healing because the law cannot fix what is wrong.
- Harmful—God's law functions no differently that human law, a system of imposed rules requiring legal adjudication and infliction of imposed punishments. Therefore God is the righteous judge who hold legal court and investigates records to determine guilt, innocence and length of punishment and then God uses His power to inflict pain, suffering and death on the legally guilty.

10. Sabbath

- Helpful—Sabbath is a sign, an evidence, a proof of God's character of love, created in the context of an assault on His right to rule—rather than using power to force His way, God created a day for freedom to think. The Sabbath is evidence of design law, creation, how reality is built to operate. And all who model themselves after God and Christ present the truth in love and leave others free—which is what the Sabbath evidences.
- Harmful—the Sabbath is an arbitrary test of obedience, just observing this day as a weekly religious day of observance makes one right with God, and working on this day ensures one is condemned to hell.

11. Christ's Ministry in the Heavenly Sanctuary

- Helpful—The entire OT sanctuary system of rituals and rites were symbolic representations of God's plan, through Christ, to heal and restore human beings back into His original perfection. Thus Christ is in heaven directing all the agencies at His disposal to heal and cleanse the Spirit temple from sinfulness
- Harmful—There is a building in heaven in which Jesus presents blood, smoke and His sacrifice to the Father pleading the Father not to hurt us. In this process records of bad deeds are being removed from record books in heaven or amounts of time of inflicted pain and suffering in the fires of hell are being registered against those who have not accepted Jesus' legal payment for their sins

Do we understand all doctrine is only important as it informs us of reality—of who God is, how His designs (laws) work, what happens when we break His designs (laws) and how God through Christ works to fix (save/heal) His creation and how we can participate in His healing plan?

SUNDAY

The lesson points us to Galatians 4:12-20. Would someone read these verses?

I plead with you, brothers, become like me, for I became like you. You have done me no wrong. ¹³ As you know, it was because of an illness that I first preached the gospel to you. ¹⁴ Even though my illness was a trial to you, you did not treat me with contempt or scorn. Instead, you welcomed me as if I were an angel of God, as if I were Christ Jesus himself. ¹⁵ What has happened to all your joy? I can testify that, if you could have done so, you would have torn out your eyes and given them to me. ¹⁶ Have I now become your enemy by telling you the truth? ¹⁷ Those people are zealous to win you over, but for no good. What they want is to alienate you from us, so that you may be zealous for them. ¹⁸ It is fine to be zealous, provided the purpose is good, and to be so always and not just when I am with you. ¹⁹ My dear children, for whom I am again in the pains of childbirth until Christ is formed in you, ²⁰ how I wish I could be with you now and change my tone, because I am perplexed about you!

What is Paul's concern? What did Paul want to see happen as a result of his labor for them? "Christ is formed in you!"

The lesson rightly points out in the last paragraph, "To be a follower of Christ is more than just the profession of faith; it involves a radical transformation into the likeness of Christ."

Is this radical transformation a legal event, or a healing action?

This is genuine salvation, being reborn, regenerated, etc. all the descriptions of Scripture are the same.

But it is interesting—we received an email this week from a person who just read the document put out 7 years ago after we met with some of the local theology professors. Do you remember? They wanted to know if we had a response. My response is The God-Shaped Heart. But, to sum up their position they claimed that while our healing view is taught in Scripture, it is only one metaphor amongst many, such as legal, ransom, lost and found and others. And that their view is much richer and deeper because they include all the metaphors while we emphasize only one.

Do you see what they have just done? Metaphor is only metaphor as long as it is directly tied to some reality. If there is no reality to which it is tied it is no longer metaphor but fantasy.

The reality of Scripture is healing, renewal, regeneration into Christlikeness. The metaphors of Scripture all point to this reality. When they say the healing view is metaphor they have removed the reality and thus they are no longer teaching truth but fantasy.

This is the exact same problem Paul was dealing with in Galatia. Paul has real concerns that his work to bring them the healing remedy of Jesus, which when partaken results in this genuine transformation of the inner person, is being interfered with and perhaps will be obstructed. What is it that Paul fears will prevent the Galatians from experiencing this regeneration into Christlikeness?

Paul's very next words tells us what the false teachers were doing to obstruct the healing truth: "Tell me, you who want to be under the law, are you not aware of what the law says?" (Gal 4:21).

A legal theology was being introduced and Paul was concerned that such a theology would prevent them from experiencing Christ within. And Paul was right, this is exactly what has happened to Christianity. The human law concept infected the church and salvation has been corrupted into a legal process rather than a healing one.

Sadly, we are still fighting this same battle today!

MONDAY

The lesson points out that to other churches (Corinth etc.) Paul at times challenged them to imitate his behavior, but with the Galatians he instead challenged them to become like him.

What is the point Paul is trying to make?

Is there a difference in behaving and becoming? What is the difference?

To what does Paul want them to become?

The lesson states, “Paul is referring to his experience as a Christian, a foundation that rests on Christ alone, a faith that trusts in what Christ has done for him and not in his works of the law.”

What is the lesson emphasizing? What is the critical difference between works of the law and what Paul is calling for them to achieve?

The lesson rightly points out that Paul is calling for them to trust—what is the natural state of the sinful heart toward God? Enmity—one of distrust of God.

Thus, Paul is calling for them to experience not a mere behavior change, but a heart change, to be transformed from distrust of God to trust in God—this is what he describes about Abraham and it is called? Justification—the change of heart from distrust to trust is the putting right of a soul with God again.

Paul is telling them that this cannot be accomplished by legal acts or legal declarations, but only by an actual change within their inner being.

Thus, Paul is warning the Galatians to be ware of theologians who come along and say that salvation is a legal process, one of law, and justification is a legal declaration. Such a doctrine will obstruct them from experiencing what he has worked to achieve, Christ within. To experience Christ within, the heart must be changed from distrust to trust, and the law cannot achieve this.

Thus, today Christianity is still struggling with what Paul warned the Galatians about, falling into a false legal construct of sin and salvation and promoting a legal declarative salvation, rather than the genuine renewal of heart.

And this is why addictions, pornography, teen pregnancy, spouse and child abuse rates are no different in Christian homes than non Christian homes, because they have a form of godliness but no power—because as the Bible says the law is powerless to save and heal and much of Christianity is focused on legal solutions. The healing truth is not legal, it is experiential—a real trust relationship with a God who loves and who will indwell, heal, restore, cleanse, free from guilt, free from shame, instill new motives, desires and principles in all who trust Him!

TUESDAY

The lesson talks about how Paul not only challenged the Galatians to become like him in internal change from distrust to trust with the transformation of character that follows, but also points out that Paul became like the Galatians in that he stopped all the Jewish ceremonial law requirements and lived without those symbolic rules.

Read last paragraph, “Although contextualization is not always easy...” What is the core of the gospel that cannot be changed?

- God’s design laws of love, truth, freedom, worship, health, physics etc.
- Salvation is genuine trust in God which results in being renewed in heart to live like God designed life to operate, selfless love for God and others

What things can be contextualized?

- Religious ceremonies (circumcision, baptism, communion, weddings, funerals, Sabbath observance, church liturgy)
- Music
- Dress
- Diet
- Church organization
- Ordination
- Gender roles in the church
- Use of alcohol

But what about these can they be contextualized?

- Polygamy
- Slavery
- Use of drugs

WEDNESDAY

The lesson is about Paul’s physical health and the care he received at Galatia.

Why didn’t the Galatians reject Paul when he had health problems? Weren’t health problems frequently seen as a curse from God?

Why did God not provide miraculous healing to Paul?

In Scripture are miracles usually provided for the benefit of the strong in faith, or are they provided for those who need their faith strengthened?

- Visions of Pharaoh interpreted by Joseph
- Gideon and the fleece
- Elijah calling for the drought
- Elijah calling fire down from heaven
- Elisha raising the axe head
- Elisha's servant seeing the angel army
- Fiery furnace deliverance
- Daniel and Lion's den
- Jesus healing people
- Lazarus being raised from the dead
- The Apostles healing people
- Peter walking out of prison

Were these miracles primarily for those through whom the miracles were performed, for those with strong faith, or for those who needed their faith strengthened?

So, why did Paul not get a miracle? Paul didn't need a miracle and because God's grace, God's power to heal hearts and minds, which is the primary purpose on earth now, was made more powerfully manifest in Paul in Paul's infirmity. And perhaps, given Paul's history of Phariseism, this was permitted as therapeutic for Paul, a constant reminder that his strength was always in God and not in Himself—a protection against the encroachment of any pride.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "The expression..." Have you ever had the experience of speaking the truth to someone who doesn't want to hear it?

When do we speak the truth and when do we stay silent?

Jesus said to disciples he had much to tell them but they couldn't bear it at that time.

Is there only one truth or are there many truths?

Is truth dependent upon the developmental level of the person?

Is it true to a small child that they must brush their teeth or else they will get in trouble with their parent? But is that really true?

How many so-called truths do people hold about God that are like this, only true because of their level of understanding, but in eternal reality not true?

Was it true that the Law of Moses called for the stoning of a person who commits adultery? Was it true that stoning the woman caught in adultery and thrown down before Jesus would have been against God's will? How can both be true?

Context—why was it true in Moses' day, but not true in Christ's day?

Truth is unfolding, our capacity to understand truth and comprehend it increases as we utilize our ability to understand and assimilate truth, and as a species truth slowly is assimilated, but typically new truth is resisted and fought against by the establishment:

- Most medical advances met with opposition by those in authority
 - washing of hands before surgery
 - germ theory and sterilization of equipment
- Religious truth typically meets with opposition
 - Galileo and earth revolving around the sun
 - The truth about God's design law versus imposed law

Imagine you could travel back in time to the 14th century and bubonic plague was ravaging the land. You know that this is caused by a bacterial infection spread by fleas. Both the religious and medical leaders taught the people this was punishment from God, it was evil due to sin.

What do you think would happen if you began to try and teach people there were invisible living organisms that were infecting their bodies causing this illness that you could prevent by good hygiene and flea control?

Do you think the church leadership would have been relieved to hear that God was not punishing the people? Would this truth have been immediately embraced? Why not? What would cause people to hold to the lie?

Pride, power, authority and a preconceived system of beliefs.

Do we struggle with the same thing today?

Russell mentioned to me recently that there are four stages to acceptance of new truth:

- Truth is initially rejected or ignored
- Then it is ridiculed or mocked
- Then it is fought against, attacked, lectured against
- Then it is accepted

2017 Q3 Lesson 10: The Two Covenants

Getting Windows Ready - Don't Turn Off Your Computer

Getting Christians Ready - Don't Turn Off Your Mind

“The life I now live, I live by faith in the Son of God who loves me and gave himself for me.”
Galatians 2:20

“As the will of man co-operates with the will of God, it becomes omnipotent. Whatever is to be done at His command, may be accomplished in His strength. All His biddings are enablings.” COL 333

Memory Verse: “But the Jerusalem that is above is free, and she is our mother.” Galatians 4:26 NIV

Things I do not like to think about:

- The Movie “Titanic”
- Friend watching the movie “A Cry in the Dark”
Story of the Chamberlains experience after a dingo stole their baby out of the camping tent
“Don't leave your baby”
- Certain Bible passages I do not like to read:
Genesis 3
2 Samuel 11 - David and Bathsheba
Genesis 16 - Abram, Sara & Hagar

Read Galatians 4:21 - 31 (the passage for this week) What prompted Paul to write the letter to the Galatian churches?

- The abandonment of the “gospel” by the Galatian believers
- Letter organization
Angst over believers choosing a different gospel
Paul's History
Persecutor of Christ
Conversion
Sequestration in Arabia to be taught by the Holy Spirit
Trip to Jerusalem to confer with Peter & James Council in Jerusalem confirming his mission to the Gentiles
Opposition of Peter's hypocrisy
Restoration of unity with God is by trusting God and not by trying to do some specific task or “works”
The life I now live is by trusting Christ
Galatians 2:20
How did the Galatians first come to God: by trust. ----- Now what has happened

This is just how it was with Abraham

Galatians 3:6 “Consider the experience of Abraham; as the scripture says, "He believed God, and because of his faith God accepted him as righteous."”

Christ redeemed us from the natural consequences of lawlessness

The law was given to identify sin and death

Prior to our trusting God, the law was a guardian and tutor to bring us to God
Those who trust God are truly Abraham’s descendants

Sonship by adoption vs foreigners

(last week) the appeal of a pastor with a desire for his children

This week an allegory of two covenants

SABBATH

The Two Covenants

First paragraph begins with a discussion of how people have misunderstood the two covenants we are talking about today: Sinai and Abraham

Second paragraph: “The legalism that Paul was confronting in Galatia was a perversion, not just of Christianity but of the Old Testament itself.”

SUNDAY

Covenant Basics

Covenant - definition

“Various agreements into which God has, from time to time, entered with men - Noah, Abraham, and Israel for example.

“New Covenant” - Jeremiah 31:33, Hebrews 8:8-13

Human covenant

Between equals

Imposed by superior on an inferior

How many covenants did God make with humans?

More than 12, depending on how strict you want to define covenant

Covenants as promises made in the vernacular / language of human contracts / promises.

How you read the covenants is largely understood by which lense you see God and His dealings with His creation.

(How you see God also has a great influence by which you view God: as benevolent, stern, judgmental, gracious, loving being.)

How you see God determines whether you need a potion (“Grace”) applied to you (with a paint brush or roller to cover or hide you) or you need a gracious being as the Creator and Sustainer of the universe who is reconciling you to Himself by His strength.

“When that day comes, you will ask him in my name; and I do not say that I will ask him on your behalf, for the Father himself loves you. He loves you because you love me and have believed that I came from God.” John 16:26, 27

Biblical covenants

KJV - 272 hits (Study Guide states nearly 300 uses of the Hebrew word)

first listed is with Noah - Genesis 6:18

Second is listed in Genesis 9:9

Made with Noah, all humans, animals and every living creature.

Promise that there would never be an all encompassing flood again.

Gave a token of the covenant: the rainbow

Noah did not have to do anything to make the covenant happen.

How did Noah keep the first two covenants?

The deliverance from the flood

The promise of no new flood

Bottom paragraph: Is a description of imposed vs design law paradigm. Which way would you have written this?

MONDAY

The Abrahamic Covenant

The first covenant God made with Abram was a promise of blessings if Abraham would leave and go

The second covenant . . .for all the land of Palestine to be given to Abram’s descendants (Gen 15:18)
It was sealed in a manner typical of contracts at that time in that region. Yet, it was more a promise on God’s part than an agreement on Abram’s part.

It was ten years later that Abram and Sarah hatched the plan for Hagar to have a son for the family: again typical for the customs of the day in that region.

Abram and Sarah were doing what was the common practice for lineage and inheritance in their day and age.

TUESDAY

Abraham, Sarah, and Hagar

Read the last sentence of the 3rd paragraph.

“Had Abraham trusted in what God had promised him instead of letting the circumstances overcome that trust, none of this would have happened, and a lot of grief would have been avoided.”

How do we know when to choose a solution or not?

Proverbs 3:5 , 6 “Trust in the Lord with all your heart. Never rely on what you think you know. Remember the Lord in everything you do, and he will show you the right way.”

Why are certain people included in the Bible narrative? Why are certain people or people groups not included in the Bible narrative?

Do you ever feel like your life is meaningless in spite of faithful service to God?

Let’s talk briefly about people that could be spoken more about. People complain that certain peoples are not included in the Bible. China, Northern Europe, etc.

Many people are mentioned in the Bible and then we never hear about anything else they did. Sometimes even their names are not known.

1 Kings 19:18 “7000 in Israel, all the knees that have not bowed to Baal and every mouth that has not kissed him.”

The “woman at the well”

Some we know their name and still don’t know much about them: Keturah.

In the last paragraph of Tuesday’s lesson it lists Hebrews 11:11, 12. Read this passage. . .

“It was faith that made Abraham able to become a father, even though he was too old and Sarah herself could not have children. He trusted God to keep his promise. Though Abraham was practically dead, from this one man came as many descendants as there are stars in the sky, as many as the numberless grains of sand on the seashore.”

What do you know about Abraham’s vitality? How many sons did Abraham have?

8: Ishmael, Isaac, plus the six sons of Keturah (Genesis 25:1)

One of the sons was Midian. Who were the Midianites? Do you know any stories of the Midianites?

Who was Joseph sold to when he was sent to Egypt as a slave? Where did Moses flee to when he was escaping from the consequences of Pharaoh?

Who was Moses' father-in-law?

Jethro

The priest of Midian (Exodus 3:1)

Where did Midian live?

Who solicited Balaam to curse Israel? (Numbers 22:7)

Who were the ones who led the Children of Israel into immoral behavior on the very threshold of Canaan? (Numbers 25)

Who did Gideon defeat?

Why were they warring against Israel?

What is the life-cycle and trajectory of Midian?

- one of the sons of Abraham
- this family and subsequently his family grew up in a God-fearing and worshiping family was circumcised with all of the other members of the family and staff
- Had a priest who was a worshiper of the true God
- became further and further away from the true God to the point they were worshiping immorally and induced the Children of Israel to do the same (the whole story of Peor)
- Eventually became blood enemies of their cousins and warred with them and subdued them, stealing their food / crops to the point of starvation (where / why was Gideon when the angel of the Lord appeared to him)

There has been a great deal of criticism of the path that God guided the Children of Israel in the Old Testament

- The purging of the land from idolatry
- The separation from intermarriage with Gentile neighbors
- The strange ceremonial laws
- circumcision of the males
- To what purpose were all these "laws" made?
 - Natural law
 - there were some health benefits to some of the restrictions
 - Preservation of the progenitors of the Anointed One to come.
 - Encourage faithfulness to righteousness

What was the purpose for the Children of Israel to be a separate people? Why is their story told and not someone else? Are they more important in God's eyes than other national groups?

- They were the keepers of His law and commands
- They were the progenitors of the Promised Anointed One

- They were to tell others of God
- They are only important when they are fulfilling the purpose for which they were designed.
 - When they obstruct God's message either by lifestyle or other choices, they cease to be important in the narrative.

Why have we not read more about Abraham's other children? Because they have little to say about the central message of God's character, love and redemption portrayed in the remainder of scripture.

- The Bible has a "Grand central theme"
- God has used people from all walks of life to help tell His story
 - Amos: Fig grower / fig picker / shepherd (farm laborer, in current terms he was a migrant worker)
 - Jeremiah: Royal family member
 - Disciples
 - We know a lot about some
 - Peter
 - James
 - John
 - Judas
 - A little about three
 - Andrew
 - Thomas
 - Matthew
 - ...
 - Names only
 - Thaddeus
 - Simon the Zealot
 - Song: "Jesus loves the little children, all the children of the world, Red and yellow, black and white, all are precious in his sight. . ."
- "Gross darkness"
 - Isaiah 60:2 - 3
 - Acts 28:26 - 27
 - What were they in the dark about?
 - What was the purpose of Christ?
 - Read John 17:1 - 8

After Jesus finished saying this, he looked up to heaven and said, "Father, the hour has come. Give glory to your Son, so that the Son may give glory to you. For you gave him authority over all people, so that he might give eternal life to all those you gave him. And eternal life means to know you, the only true God, and to know Jesus Christ, whom you sent. I have shown your glory on earth; I have finished the work you gave me to do. Father! Give me glory in your presence now, the same glory I had with you before the world was made.

"I have made you known to those you gave me out of the world. They belonged to you, and you gave them to me. They have obeyed your word, and now they know that everything you gave me comes from you. I gave them the message that you gave me, and they received it; they know that it is true that I came from you, and they believe that you sent me.

WEDNESDAY

Hagar and Mount Sinai

Exodus 6:2 - 8, 19:3 - 6; Deut 32:10 - 12

God appeared to Abraham, Isaac & Jacob as God Almighty (El Shadday)

God appeared to Moses & the Children of Israel as God of existence and creation. (Yahveh, Jehovah)

Exodus 19:5 - 6 "Now then, if you will indeed obey my voice and keep my covenant, then you shall be my own possession among all the peoples, for all the earth is mine; and you shall be to me a kingdom of priests and a holy nation."

Exodus 19:8 "All the people answered together and said, "All that the Lord has spoken we will do!"

God is giving promises and assurances of who He is and how He will take care of them. They are assuring Him that they will do whatever He says, and they mean well.

Compare with Peter's denial of Christ.

- Matthew 26:31 - 35
- Mark 14:27 - 31
- Luke 22:61
- John 13:36 - 38

This covenant is not a contract you must fulfill, but a promise that is yours to "keep." Compare this with the memories of the miracles and surroundings of Christ's birth that Mary "treasured all these things, pondering them in her heart." Luke 2:19

Psalms 1:2 "But his delight is in the law of the Lord, And in His law he meditates day and night."

Psalms 119

"No one who believes in Jesus Christ is under bondage to the law of God; for His law is a law of life, not of death, to those who obey its precepts. All who comprehend the spirituality of the law, all who realize its power as a detector of sin, are in just as helpless a condition as is Satan himself, unless they accept the atonement provided for them in the remedial sacrifice of Jesus Christ, who is our atonement - at-one-ment with God.” 6BC 1077.5

“Through faith in Christ obedience to every principle of the law is made possible.” 6BC 1077.6

Further Thought

God Made Manifest in Christ. ST, January 20, 1890 par. 9

What is an allegory?

How is the works based religion of the “Judaizers” any different from the SDA theology of Sabbath keeping?

The Gospel in Galatians Lesson 11 3Q 2017

Freedom in Christ

SABBATH

What does the title of the lesson mean to you? Freedom from what? Freedom from God's punishment for sin?

19th Century Evangelist George MacDonald wrote:

"The Lord never came to deliver men from the consequences of their sins while those sins yet remained ... Yet, feeling nothing of the dread hatefulness of their sin, men have constantly taken this word that the Lord came to deliver us from our sins to mean that he came to save them from the punishment of their sins.

"This idea has terribly corrupted the preaching of the Gospel. The message of the Good News has not been truly communicated. Unable to believe in the forgiveness of the Father in heaven, imagining him not at liberty to forgive, or incapable of forgiving forthright; not really believing him God who is fully our Savior, but a God bound—either in his own nature or by a law above him and compulsory upon him—to exact some recompense or satisfaction for sin, a multitude of religious teachers have taught their fellow men that Jesus came to bear our punishment and save us from hell. But in that they have misrepresented his true mission."¹

Freedom from sin, which if unremedied, brings its own punishment? What is sin's punishment? From where does sin's punishment originate?

What about freedom from guilt and shame?

How do we experience freedom from guilt and shame? What causes the guilt and shame to go away?

Is it not healing and restoration to righteousness? Is it not the truth displacing lies, restoring trust in God and recreating the heart to be in harmony with God? Is it not experiencing the truth that God is not mad at us, He loves us and only wants to heal us.

What does it mean to be "in Christ"?

Does it not mean to be in unity, one-ness, in heart, mind, attitude, values, methods, practices, trust, confidence via our accepting the truth, opening the heart and experiencing His indwelling Spirit?

We had an online listener, Russell Bantin, email a quotation from one of the SDA founders, Ellen White this week, that I had never read before. I thought I would share a few paragraphs:

But the moral law, which is to be written in the heart, is the law of love. It is the expression of the very nature of the God of love as interpreted to us in the life and teachings of Christ, who said, “I have kept My Father’s commandments.” John 15:10 . To keep this law is to love as God loves. To the natural heart this is impossible, and so God has promised to give us a new heart: “A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you.” Ezekiel 36:26 . In harmony with this provision is the prayer of David: “Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a steadfast [margin] spirit within me.” Psalm 51:10 . We may call this conversion, or regeneration, or the new birth, or the new creation; but in any case it is the impartation of a new life from God, that life which is love, and is revealed in loving. Those who have this experience are “partakers of the divine nature” (2 Peter 1:4), and that nature is expressed in obedience to the divine law of love.

“When the principle of love is implanted in the heart, when man is renewed after the image of Him that created him, the new covenant promise is fulfilled, ‘I will put My laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them.’ And if the law is written in the heart, will it not shape the life? ... Here is the true test. If we abide in Christ, if the love of God dwells in us, our feelings, our thoughts, our purposes, our actions, will be in harmony with the will of God as expressed in the precepts of His holy law.”

And this experience is guaranteed to us by the promise of God, and is provided for us through the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, the Spirit of love: for we know that “the love of God hath been shed abroad in our hearts through the Holy Spirit which was given unto us.” Romans 5:5. “Salvation is of Jehovah.” Jonah 2:9. Taken from the pamphlet, The Savior of the world - SOTW p. 81 <https://m.egwwritings.org/en/book/1409.319#333>

And this week on our Facebook page, Francesca posted a beautiful picture with 1John 4:21 from The Remedy:

God’s prescription is this: Internalize God’s love—which transforms the entire being—so that you love both God and people; for whoever loves God will also love others.

What does it mean to be In Christ? To have our hearts united in a love with Christ such that we live like Christ united with the principles of heaven!

Read second paragraph, “Paul addresses...” What is legalism? What is the motivation suggested in the lesson? Earning God’s favor, in this case by observing the law or rule keeping. This is classic legalism, what I refer to as legalism type I.

Do you recognize two types of legalism?

- Type 1—we keep the law and by rule keeping we earn or merit our reward
- Type 2—we try to earn favor with the Father through the legal application of someone else's actions, deeds, or achievement. The idea that a legal penalty had to be paid so that the legal payment could be legally applied to our accounts in heaven and we could be receive the legal approval of God and be declared to be legally righteous—even though we are not

Both are legalism and both have a god who needs something done to him in order to earn his favor. Both types have a form of godliness with no power and both types are lies that obstruct God's true healing plan, which is the plan to restore sinners to actual, not declared, righteousness. How? By restoring God's design law of love in the heart/mind as the way of living.

What is the greatest threat to lapsing into licentiousness? It is the false imposed law, that God runs His universe like humans run earthly governments which has led to all the distortions about God, including penal substitutionary thoughts about salvation. Why is this the greatest threat to holy living and the most likely cause of licentiousness?

For two reasons—first this is rules oriented, coercive and without reason. Thus, it is motivated by fear, violates the law of liberty and results in rebellion. For thinking people this view of God will be nonsense and many will reject the idea of God altogether and thus end up leading a licentious life.

Second—those who stay in the church believing in Christ, do so under a false legal view which leads to theologies that say things like, “all sin was placed on Christ at the cross and legally accounted for and punished by God then. If you accept Jesus as your Savior then His legal payment for ALL your sins, past, present and future is accepted in heaven and all your future sins are also already paid. We can't live victoriously, oh, try your best, but don't expect to, so once saved you are always saved.”

People seek to have the sin problem resolved in legal books, through legal application of Christ's legal payment, rather than seeking a new heart and right spirit. In fact, they don't even expect to live victoriously—they are told by their pastors that it isn't possible, don't even try.

Remember—under this false penal legal system of theology pornography rates are the same in Christian homes as non-Christian homes, spouse abuse and child abuse rates are no different in Christian than non-Christian homes. And teen pregnancy and abortion are higher in America than any western country, and America has the highest percentage of Christians.

The fact is that the penal legal religion doesn't result in freedom from licentiousness and never can because it gives a false diagnosis and thus provides a solution with no power to free people.

God prophesied through Paul:

Don't let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. ⁴ He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God. 2Thes 2:3,4

What temple? The Spirit temple—how? Notice it is the man of lawlessness, i.e. he rejects God's law, which is design law and replaces it with something that is not God's law—which is a system that functions like sinful beings, setting up rules and then enforcing those rules with threats of punishment—the false law. Seeking to change God's law just as Daniel prophesied. And what is the result of this?

But mark this: There will be terrible times in the last days. ² People will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boastful, proud, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, unholy, ³ without love, unforgiving, slanderous, without self-control, brutal, not lovers of the good, ⁴ treacherous, rash, conceited, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God— ⁵ having a form of godliness but denying its power. Have nothing to do with them. 2Tim 3:1-5

Thus, God foretold through John that at the end of time a special message was to go to the entire world:

Then I saw another angel flying in midair, and he had the eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live on the earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people. ⁷ He said in a loud voice, "Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water." Rev 14:6,7.

Which means what? If one has already accepted the false legal view it means be afraid of God because the time has come for God's tribunal to meet and the records of all bad behavior will be reviewed and punishment for sin will be determined, and you better come back to worship in the way God said or you will be punished.

But, when we come back to design law—the reality of who God is it reads differently. From The Remedy:

Then I saw another messenger flying in midair, and he had the eternal good news about God's character of love to proclaim to everyone living on earth—to every nation, tribe, language, and people—which represents a movement of people who arise to proclaim the truth about God's character of love throughout the world.⁷ He said in a clear, resounding voice, "Be in awe of God, and glorify him by living his methods of love, because the hour has come for everyone to make a judgment about God, and worship the Designer, Creator and Builder who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and springs of water— all of which operate upon his law of love."

And connecting all of this to why the legal view contributes to more licentiousness, we read the second angel's message:

A second angel followed and said, “Fallen! Fallen is Babylon the Great, which made all the nations drink the maddening wine of her adulteries.” Rev 14:8

What does this mean? From The Remedy:

A second messenger followed the first, proclaiming throughout the world: "Don't trust Babylon the Great—a symbolic description of religions that misrepresent God—as it is fallen into the lies about God and intoxicates the world with its pagan views of God, maddening the people with its adulterous idea that God coerces and must inflict punishment if not properly appeased."

The view that God's law is imposed and God polices His law like humans do their laws, and God will inflict punishment is the core idea within Christianity that has gone to the world. And it is a lie—and it has intoxicated the entire world and people have reacted to it by either becoming abusive like this God and coercing people with wars, or sanctions, or imprisonment; or they have rejected the idea of God altogether and thus the world is becoming increasingly secular why? As a direct rejection of this false view of God taken to the world by Christianity!

We are talking in the lesson today about freedom in Christ and this is genuine freedom—from fear, from addiction, from selfishness, from bad habits, but this freedom can only be realized and experienced when we come back to the truth about God—God who is love and who created all reality to operate upon His design protocols of love. The truth combined with love, which is found only in Jesus Christ, is the power that transforms us and enables us to be free!

Why is freedom so important? What happens if liberty or freedom is violated?

- love is damaged and eventually destroyed
- desire to rebel instilled
- destroyed individuality

What will God never do? Violate liberty or freedom, because to do so would destroy love. Thus the false human imposed law construct is revealed to be false. Many theological ideas are ruled out like:

- All the teachings in which God is the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death—even though presented under the guise of justice
- God makes all things happen
- Certain views of God's sovereignty: like God is in control—but of what?
 - Is God in control of our choices? Why not?
 - And if He is not controlling the choices of people then is He in control of the pain and suffering in this world?

SUNDAY

Read memory text: “Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage.” Gal 5:1

What kind of bondage?

What holds us in bondage?

- fear? what kind of fear? fear of rejection, fear of what people think? fear of someone getting their feelings hurt? fear of death?
 - I have so many patients who see me who are tender hearted people, but who have never learned to tolerate the negative responses from others. They live in fear of rejection, fear of someone being mad at them and make decisions based on what others might think, rather than on what is actually true, healthy and reasonable.
 - These people are not free but slaves—slaves to the attitudes of others
 - Hebrews 2:14,15 tells us Christ died to free those held captive by their fear of death
- opinions of others?
 - In addition to the attitude of others some are fearful of the opinions of others, if others think them ignorant, or disagree with their ideas, or are in authority in the organization or have a doctoral degree then their opinions must be right so the surrender thinking to someone’s opinion—these people are not free.
- habits?
 - Can be healthy or unhealthy—I have the habit of brushing my teeth, of drinking a glass of water each morning, of putting on my seat belt when I get in the car. I have many habits—am I a slave to my habits, or are my habits fulfilling my will?
 - In other words, are the habits I have formed habits that are developed because of purposeful self-discipline in harmony with truth and facts to make my life healthier, or are the habits formed by neglect and thoughtlessness and in harmony with impulse, emotion and desire?
- lies?
 - Truth sets free—lies enslave, are our beliefs based on truth, or do we cling to falsehood?
- guilt?
- health problems?
- others?

From The Remedy:

“Christ has set us free from selfishness, free from fear, free from ignorance about God—free to be his friends. So stand firm in the truth about God as revealed in Jesus, and don't let yourselves be duped back into a system of rituals and works motivated by fear and selfishness.” Gal 5:1

Read last paragraph, “This formula shares...” What do you hear? Is there legal elements being promoted in this paragraph?

What is meant by “at least not without forfeiting our lives.”? Are they suggesting we could pay the price ourselves if we gave our lives? But in fact, this is not true. They think this because they have a false diagnosis, which is a legal diagnosis. They think sin is a legal problem and thus requires the infliction of the just penalty, which God established in Eden as death, and thus in that model we could pay that penalty ourselves—but we would then be dead, but the legal penalty would have been paid.

The problem with this view is that it misdiagnoses the problem. Our problem with sin is not legal; it is our actual condition of being out of harmony with how God designed life to operate and thus we are terminal. We are dead in trespass and sin, i.e. out of harmony with how God built life to function.

So, would our death create a remedy? Would our death cure the condition? In other words, would our death provide what the law requires? You see in the false legal view the law requires death. But that is not so. When we understand design law, what does the law require? Harmony with it, which the Bible calls righteousness. It is like saying the law of respiration requires we breathe. So one of the founders of the SDA church wrote things like this:

- The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. {DA 762.2}
- But the law requires that the soul itself be pure and the mind holy, that the thoughts and feelings may be in accordance with the standard of love and righteousness.--RH, Apr 5, 1898. (2SM 211.) {2MCP 564.1}
- The divine law requires us to love God supremely and our neighbor as ourselves. {A New Life NL 32.1}
- That which God required of Adam before his fall was perfect obedience to His law. God requires now what He required of Adam, perfect obedience, righteousness without a flaw, without shortcoming in His sight. God help us to render to Him all His law requires. We cannot do this without that faith that brings Christ's righteousness into daily practice. {2SM 380.4}
- God offered them, in His Son, the perfect righteousness of the law. If they would open their hearts fully to receive Christ, then the very life of God, His love, would dwell in them, transforming them into His own likeness; and thus through God's free gift they would possess the righteousness which the law requires. {MB 54.2}
- His law requires your heart's supreme affection for your Maker. It requires you to do unto others as you would have them do to you. {BEcho, February 15, 1889 par. 8}

Notice, imposed law demands or requires punishment, design law demands or requires harmony with its design.

Would the death of a sinner restore the sinner to harmony with God's design? NO!

Thus Christ, who knew no sin, came and became sin for us so that we might become the righteousness of God. Christ destroyed the infection of fear and selfishness, in His human self, and restored God's design law of love in His human self, by the exercise of His human will, thus He rose again in a perfected humanity, in possession of a perfect human character. He offers this as a Remedy a free gift to all who will trust Him. Thus, we surrender our old fear and selfish selves and receive a new heart, with new motives of love and trust and become partakers of the divine nature!

Now, it is true to achieve this cost God and Christ a high price; it required Christ to die as the only means to reveal the truth, destroy the infection of fear and selfishness and perfectly seal God's law of love into His humanity. But this wasn't a legal price; it was the price that reality required.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Paul's command..." How would you describe what Christ has done for us? How do we stand free? What does it mean to stand free?

The lesson points us to some Bible texts and asks from what does Christ set us free:

Rom 6:14: "For sin shall not be your master, because you are not under law, but under grace." NIV

What does this mean? What law? What law lens?

Here is Rom 6:14: from The Remedy:

For distrust, fear and selfishness will no longer hold control over you, as you are no longer under the law's terminal diagnosis, but—having partaken of God's gracious Remedy—you are under his healing care.

Rom 6:18 "You have been set free from sin and have become slaves to righteousness." NIV

What does this mean?

From The Remedy:

Therefore you have been freed from distrust, fear and selfishness, and have been bonded to love, truth and liberty, doing what is right because it is right.

Romans 8:1,2: "Therefore, there is now no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus, ² because through Christ Jesus the law of the Spirit of life set me free from the law of sin and death." NIV

What does this mean?

From The Remedy:

Therefore, those who trust in Christ Jesus are no longer destined to die,² because through Christ Jesus the law of love has cleansed and healed them from the law of selfishness and death.

It is always about reality—about our condition being out of harmony with how God built life to operate and God working through Christ to free us from this condition and restore us to righteousness, purity, love which results in life eternal.

Gal 4:3: “So also, when we were children, we were in slavery under the basic principles of the world.” NIV

So what would it mean to be freed?

From The Remedy:

Likewise, when we were childlike in character and immature in our thinking, we had no self-control and were slaves to selfish impulses.

So what does it mean to be freed?

Gal 4:8: “Formerly, when you did not know God, you were slaves to those who by nature are not gods.” NIV

From The Remedy:

In the past, before you knew God as revealed by Jesus, your minds were held in the bondage of fear and superstition by gods of your own darkened imaginations.

What does it mean to be freed? How?

Gal 5:1: “It is for freedom that Christ has set us free. Stand firm, then, and do not let yourselves be burdened again by a yoke of slavery.”

From The Remedy:

Christ has set us free from selfishness, free from fear, free from ignorance about God—free to be his friends. So stand firm in the truth about God as revealed in Jesus, and don't let yourselves be duped back into a system of rituals and works motivated by fear and selfishness.

The last paragraph states, “The context suggests that Paul is referring to freedom from the bondage and condemnation of a law-driven Christianity, but our freedom includes much more. It includes freedom from sin, eternal death, and the devil.”

What is sin? Transgression of the law—what law? Which causes what? Thus freedom from sin frees us from death, because sin causes death.

What about freedom from the devil—how do we get free from him?

What is the devil’s power (Heb 2:14, John 17:3)?

TUESDAY

The lesson points out problems with submitting to circumcision for the purpose of getting right with God. First, they point out that to try and get right by keeping the law requires one to keep all the law.

Then, read second paragraph, “Second, the person...” Did Abraham get circumcised to save himself? Then why did Abraham get circumcised? Wasn’t it to demonstrate that his heart was already circumcised? So was there a circumcision that was not a means of salvation, but a result of salvation?

What about today? Are there any Christian rituals that function like circumcision, as an evidence of a changed life, but that do not change the life?

Baptism by water? Communion?

Have any of these ever come to get misapplied and function as means of salvation or requirements to salvation? If you don’t confess sins to a priest they are not removed from your ledger and God will punish you? If you don’t partake mass you don’t have the sacrifice of Jesus placed to your account in heaven? If you don’t undergo water baptism you don’t cleansing from sin?

Can any behavior be misunderstood and misapplied?

Can eating a healthy diet get misunderstood and misapplied that salvation is dependent on eating?

Can church attendance get misunderstood and misapplied such that day of worship becomes a test of salvation?

What is the only test? Have we actually be renewed in heart to be like Jesus!

WEDNESDAY

What causes a person to live a healthier life—having a list of rules to obey, go to bed at a specific time, eat this food, exercise so many minutes and feeling obligated to obey the rules or else they will get punished – or understanding the laws of health and choosing to live in harmony with them?

Who is more likely to cheat? Why do cheats never get away with cheating?

If you are paying a trainer to train you and he gives you exercises to do and you cheat and don't do them, do you get away with it?

What about in God's plan of salvation?

This is why the legal views fail—because they are all about cheating. They cheat people from true victorious living by proffering off legal loophole living. Just claim Jesus perfect record to your account—no need for you to apply God's principles to your life, all the sins are already taken care of...

This false freedom is the classic adolescent who asks, "If God will forgive me for having premarital sex, what's wrong with having premarital sex."

THURSDAY

Read second paragraph, "This is not to imply..." What do you think about the sentence "It is not an abandonment of the law, nor a reduction of the law only to love; it is the way through which the believe could experience the true intent and meaning of the whole law!"

Can the law be reduced to love? Can God's law ever be anything other than some aspect of love?

What is revealed by the statement? A level of understanding that has yet to comprehend reality as God created it.

Read 1Cor 13

The last sentence of the third paragraph states, "Without love, the law is empty and cold; without law, love has no direction."

What does this mean? It means they don't comprehend love as design protocol or law, but as feelings, sentiment, emotions, compassion. They don't comprehend how love functions.

The Gospel in Galatians Lesson 12 3Q 2017

Living by the Spirit

SABBATH

What does it mean to live by the Spirit? The Spirit is the Spirit of three prime attributes—what are they?

- Truth
 - And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Counselor to be with you forever—the Spirit of truth. Jn 14:16,17
- Love
 - Whoever does not love does not know God, because God is love 1Jn 4:8
- Freedom
 - Now the Lord is the Spirit, and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is freedom. 2Cor 3:17

If these are three prime attributes of the Holy Spirit—what would it mean to live by the Spirit?

What method does the Spirit use to bring salvation to people?

‘Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit,’ says the Lord Almighty. Zech 4:6

Why will the Holy Spirit not use might and power?

What does God want to achieve in people? Is it not complete and perfect love and trust?

Can love and trust be restored into sentient beings by threats and punishment?

What method?

By the truth of God’s character of love, given, demonstrated, communicated, proved in selfless love, leaving people free to reject that love.

What happens when you believe someone is out to harm you? What happens in your heart?

What happens when you believe someone is required to inflict punishment, and not only is required, but has the moral and legal right to do so? What happens when instead that person, rather than punishing, forgives, but more than that redeems, heals, restores you?

What is it that has separated us from God? Is it God’s anger and wrath, or is it the lies we have believed about Him, and our own fear and selfishness?

What would be necessary to reconcile us, to get through the barrier of such lies, fear and selfishness? Would it not be love and truth?

And metaphorically—if you were to set up a play to reveal that God is pure love and truth who is trying to reach us, but we are separated from God by lies and our own fear and selfishness, what might you act out? Might you act out a brilliant light being hidden and obstructed by a veil and that veil being ripped through to open the way for you to enter into the light?

What happened when Christ died? Did not the veil which separated the priests, which represent the believers, get ripped and the way into God's presence what opened?

And what did Christ tear through if not the lies we believe and the fearfulness we have that drive us to watch try and save ourselves? He tore through these barriers in order to provide us a new character and heal and save us!

Hebrews 10:19,20 from The Remedy:

Therefore, brothers and sisters, since Jesus died to bring us the truth about God and to eradicate selfishness from humanity, we no longer need to be afraid but can confidently enter the Most Holy Place—God's very presence—because Christ's death revealed the truth about God and ripped open the veil of lies told by Satan that blinded our minds, and destroyed the infection of selfishness that separated us from him.

Have you experienced the love of God as revealed in Christ so that any doubts, fears, insecurities that separate you from God have been ripped out of your heart and you have been reconciled back to oneness with our God of love?

From the book Christ's Object Lessons:

In the great and measureless gift of the Holy Spirit are contained all of heaven's resources. It is not because of any restriction on the part of God that the riches of His grace do not flow earthward to men. If all were willing to receive, all would become filled with His Spirit. {COL 419.1}

It is the privilege of every soul to be a living channel through which God can communicate to the world the treasures of His grace, the unsearchable riches of Christ. There is nothing that Christ desires so much as agents who will represent to the world His Spirit and character. There is nothing that the world needs so much as the manifestation through humanity of the Saviour's love. All heaven is waiting for channels through which can be poured the holy oil to be a joy and blessing to human hearts... {COL 419.2}

The indwelling of the Spirit will be shown by the outflowing of heavenly love. The divine fullness will flow through the consecrated human agent, to be given forth to others. {COL 419.4}

The Sun of Righteousness has "healing in His wings." Malachi 4:2. So from every true disciple is to be diffused an influence for life, courage, helpfulness, and true healing. {COL 419.5}

The religion of Christ means more than the forgiveness of sin; it means taking away our sins, and filling the vacuum with the graces of the Holy Spirit. It means divine illumination, rejoicing in God. It means a heart emptied of self, and blessed with the abiding presence of Christ. When Christ reigns in the soul, there is purity, freedom from sin. The glory, the fullness, the completeness of the gospel plan is fulfilled in the life. The acceptance of the Saviour brings a glow of perfect peace, perfect love, perfect assurance. The beauty and fragrance of the character of Christ revealed in the life testifies that God has indeed sent His Son into the world to be its Saviour. {COL 419.6}

Christ does not bid His followers strive to shine. He says, Let your light shine. If you have received the grace of God, the light is in you. Remove the obstructions, and the Lord's glory will be revealed. The light will shine forth to penetrate and dispel the darkness. You cannot help shining within the range of your influence. {COL 420.1}

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "'Walking' is a metaphor drawn..." When you think about walking, do you think of some arduous technically difficult task you must perform, or an ability that develops naturally?

How do we learn to walk physically?

Is effort put in? It is effort that the child must be coaxed into doing?

Does learning to walk spiritually require we put in effort? When does the most spiritual growth happen, when you are being prodded, coaxed, pushed or when you desire to grow spiritually?

Does walking physically require continued walking to keep walking? And spiritually?

Can we learn to walk by merely watching other people walk? And spiritually?

What interferes with learning to walk physically—diseases, lack of effort, injury, what about spiritually? Sin-sickness of heart, failure to engage with God, and mental, emotional, physical and spiritual injuries all interfere.

When a child learns to walk do they ever stumble and fall? When people learn to walk spiritually do they ever stumble and fall?

When a child stumbles and falls when they learn to walk physically, do we mock, criticize, ostracize the child or do we immediately seek to comfort, heal in injured and help the child back onto their feet?

Do we treat those who fall spiritually with the same attitude?

Should the child think after falling, “I’ll never learn to walk. Look at all these older children and adults they walk so well, some even run, I can barely stand, I’m just not good enough?”

Do those who fall spiritually ever fall into such traps and give up?

Should the adults/parents, when their child falls and perhaps gets hurt, think “I will never let my child fall again” and therefore pick their child up, carry them and never set them down again?

Are there lessons here we should consider in learning to walk by the Spirit?

Read last paragraph, “Paul’s comments about...” thoughts?

Is there any conflict with walking in the Spirit and obeying God’s law?

Can law keeping, sometimes, become an obstacle to walking in the Spirit? How and when?

What type of law and law keeping is opposed to the Spirit?

From the book Christ’s Object Lessons:

The man who attempts to keep the commandments of God from a sense of obligation merely--because he is required to do so--will never enter into the joy of obedience. He does not obey. When the requirements of God are accounted a burden because they cut across human inclination, we may know that the life is not a Christian life. True obedience is the outworking of a principle within. It springs from the love of righteousness, the love of the law of God. The essence of all righteousness is loyalty to our Redeemer. This will lead us to do right because it is right--because right doing is pleasing to God. {COL 97.3}

Do you hear two types of law being described in the quote above?

What is the natural result in your heart when you are required by an external authority to obey a law on threat of punishment—one that you have not agreed with?

What happens when you obey because you not only understand, and agree, but also because it is the way you prefer it be done?

Genuine law keeping isn't about an argument over the accuracy of one's definition of the commandments—should we have images of Christ in our church or not? Should we worship on Saturday or Sunday—this is not the question. Assuming that whatever law one is attempting to keep is the correct law—what happens in the heart of you keep it (the correct law) but do so under the imposed law model—i.e. you believe it is a rule that if you break God's justice requires that He punish?

This is how Satan has infected Christianity—by getting Christians to falsely believe God's law functions like human law, and millions have grown increasingly fearful of God while trying to keep His law, trying to stay out of trouble with God. This has resulted in their characters being hardened—leading to fracturing of the church into tens of thousands of groups, leading to using methods of force and coercion on those who break the rules we believe are God's, and has pitted Christians against each other arguing back and forth over this doctrine or that, while all are suffering with the exact same sickness of heart and refusing the genuine Remedy Christ has provided.

What is meant by love being fulfillment of the law? It is the design protocol of life and must be restored into the heart/mind/character in order for salvation to be experienced, why? Because that is what salvation actually is—healing and restoration to healthiness also known as righteousness.

The last sentence reads, “The genuine obedience that God desires never can be achieved by outward compulsion but only by an inward motivation produced by the Spirit.”

This is well said, what then does it mean in regard to the doctrines we teach about God and how He deals with sin?

If this is true, and it is, can God be the source of inflicted punishment for sin? Can God's law function like sinful human laws? Why not?

MONDAY

The title for the day is The Christian Conflict what is that conflict? With whom does each of us have the greatest battle to fight?

The lesson points us to Galatians 5:17 and Romans 7:14-24.

Gal 5:17: “For the sinful nature desires what is contrary to the Spirit, and the Spirit what is contrary to the sinful nature. They are in conflict with each other, so that you do not do what you want.”

What does this mean? Does it mean you don't do the good you want to do or you don't do the evil you want to do?

What is it the natural heart wants? And if we live by the Spirit we no longer gratify those desires, so we don't do what the carnal nature wants.

Is this how you read it?

In Romans 7 there has been a long debate as to whether Paul is speaking of a converted or unconverted person, whether there is victory or not.

Let's read Romans 7:14-25 from The Remedy:

¹⁴We know that the law is consistent, reliable and reasonable; but I am inconsistent, unreliable and unreasonable, because the infection of distrust, fear and selfishness has warped my mind and damaged my thinking. ¹⁵I am frustrated with what I do! For having been restored to trust, I want to do what is in harmony with God and his methods and principles; but I find that even though I trust God, my old habits, conditioned responses, preconceived ideas and other remnants of the devastation caused by distrust and selfishness are not yet fully removed. ¹⁶And if I find an old habit causing me to behave in ways that I now find detestable, I affirm that the law is a very helpful tool revealing residual damage in need of healing. ¹⁷What is happening is this: I have come to trust God, and I desire to do his will, but old habits and conditioned responses—which present almost reflexively in certain situations—have not yet been totally eliminated and thus cause me to do things I do not want to do. ¹⁸I know that my mind was completely infected with distrust, fear and selfishness, which totally perverted all my desires and faculties, so that even when distrust has been eradicated and trust has been restored, the damage caused by years of distrustful and selfish behavior has not yet been fully healed. So, I find that at times, I have the desire to do what is right, but do not yet have the ability to carry out the desire. ¹⁹For the old habits and conditioned responses are not the good I want to do: No! They are remnants of my selfish, unconverted mind. ²⁰So, if I find myself doing what I no longer desire to do, it is not myself that acts, but the vestiges of old habits and conditioned responses that have yet to be removed. And through God's grace, they will soon be removed.

²¹So I find this reality at work: When I want to do good, my old selfish habits and residual feelings of fear are right there with me. ²²In my mind, I rejoice in God's methods and principles, ²³but I recognize that I remain damaged from years of being infected with distrust and practicing Satan's methods, so that even though the infection of distrust has been removed, the old habits of fear and self-promotion tempt me from within. ²⁴What a damaged and corrupt man I am! Who will deliver and heal me from a brain and body so diseased and deformed? ²⁵Praise be to God—for he has provided the healing solution through Jesus Christ our Lord! So then, I find that in my mind I am now renewed with trust in God and love of his methods, but my brain and body remain damaged by years of self-indulgent behavior.

My understanding, which I think is obvious in the paraphrase, is that when we are converted our hearts, our software, our inmost desires are to live in harmony with God and His methods. However, our individuality is still operating on hardware (bodies and brains) in which we have previously practiced sinful living. Thus we have developed various habits, conditioned responses and automatic reactions, which go against our new desires and intentions. It takes time to change these imbedded patterns of response and I believe this is what Paul is describing in Romans 7.

Because of this tug of war between our reborn spiritual nature and our selfish nature, God has given us counsel that if we follow results in a reduction of the power of our selfish drives and improves our ability to resist; conversely if we don't apply God's counsel then the power of the selfish drives are more intense and our power to resist is diminished. Any thoughts on what those directions are?

- First and foremost a trust relationship with God in which the Spirit lives in us, then:
- Studying God's Word along with prayerful meditation—the law of worship, by beholding we become changed. We must assimilate new ways of thinking, new patterns of understanding, new methods of decision making, and by studying God's Word, worshipping and meditating on His character, creation, methods, precepts etc. we strengthen healthy brain circuits and leave dormant unhealthy ones, which over time are pruned back—thus we are changed.
- Choosing to help others—altruism activates love circuits and calms fear circuits; the law of exertion—if you want something to be stronger you must exercise it, thus exercise love circuits and they grow stronger.
- Healthful lifestyle choices, such as regular sleep, avoidance of intoxication, regular exercise etc. which all improved higher cortical function and reduce selfish impulses thus making it easier to choose to live in harmony with God's methods. In other words, you will be less irritable, less likely to act in ways you later regret.
- Forgiving those who do us wrong—which releases us from negative emotions, calming immune response and decreasing illness, again making it easier to live in harmony with God's principles.

Read bottom green section, “From your own experience...” anyone want to share wisdom they have learned?

- After having repented and experienced God's forgiveness—after having done all in your power to set right any wrong you have done—after having had a change of heart so that such an act in the future is offensive to you—then forgive yourself. Recognize history cannot change, but your heart desires and motives can be changed in a trust relationship with Jesus Christ—if you have experienced that change then don't live in shame and fear of past mistakes, but accept those past mistakes as symptoms of the sickness of sin with which you were born, and from which you are being healed by God's grace working in you.

TUESDAY

The lesson asks us to read the list of works of the flesh and then the fruits of the Spirit, so let's read Galatians 5:19-21:

The acts of the sinful nature are obvious: sexual immorality, impurity and debauchery;²⁰ idolatry and witchcraft; hatred, discord, jealousy, fits of rage, selfish ambition, dissensions, factions ²¹ and envy; drunkenness, orgies, and the like. I warn you, as I did before, that those who live like this will not inherit the kingdom of God.

What do you hear?

How is idolatry and witchcraft works of the sinful nature?

What is the sinful nature? It is fear and selfishness, and what is the basis of idolatry and witchcraft? Fear and selfishness, about protecting self, getting for self. Pagan practices always have works, appeasement, attempts of the worshipper to influence, control, pay, bribe, or otherwise direct outcomes. Self does not die in such practices, but the misdeeds may be accounted for.

Look for this in Christianity—are there versions of Christianity which focus on accounting for the bad deeds, presenting offerings to God in order to assuage or propitiate His wrath? Such practices are paganism disguised as Christianity.

What about practices in Christianity where certain incantations must be recited in order to bring the power of the supernatural to bear to get what you want, whether it be healing, or a job, or a promotion etc. There is the belief that if the right words, or right rituals, or right incantations can be stated then God is required to dispense supernatural energy to effect the outcome we want—this is witchcraft.

Why will those who live like this not inherit the kingdom of God?

What is the kingdom of God? Is it primarily a kingdom of possessions, is it the kingdom of fear, of selfishness? Or is God's kingdom primarily defined by its attributes, methods, character? Which is what?

God's kingdom is the kingdom of love, truth and freedom—why won't those who live as described by the works of the flesh above inherit such a kingdom?

Is it because God makes the choice to refuse them? Or, is it because they are unfit to live their and they actually choose death rather than to live in God's kingdom?

WEDNESDAY

Read Galatians 5:22,23:

²² But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, ²³ gentleness and self-control. Against such things there is no law.

What are these? How do we assimilate them?

What is the last fruit listed here? Self-control—what does this mean?

What does this mean in light of certain religious experiences that claim the Spirit of God is present and people lose self-control?

What does this mean for those who pray that they don't want to be in control, so they ask God to take control?

If God has His way in our lives who ends up in control of our lives? We do—God heals us and restores us to His original design such that we are in governance of ourselves. Why? Because only free sentient beings are capable of genuine love and God ultimately is love and wants us to live in a universe where we experience genuine love.

Read first paragraph, “The Ten Commandments...” Can we understand the fullness of God's love by obeying the commandments?

Can the commandments be obeyed in ways that have no love at all?

Can God's law be fully understood written on stone? Why or why not?

God's law is a living law and can be fully understood only in living beings.

What is the highest and fullest revelation of God's law? Jesus!

What about “The idea that love for God and love for our neighbor void the Ten Commandments makes about as much sense as saying that love for nature voids the law of gravity.”

What is the problem with their assertion?

They are comparing a codified written description of a design law with an actual design law.

This occurs because they fail to understand the difference between design and imposed law, and fail to understand the purpose of the 10 Commandments.

The lesson is correct that love does not void the 10 Commandments, but what does the law of love do in regard to the commandments?

It puts the commandments in their proper place, which is what? A diagnostic instrument and protective hedge that was added because of our need. The law was not given as a remedy to sin, or a list of behaviors to which we are to conform. The 10 Commandments are not the law upon which life is built, but a codified description of that law specifically written for fallen human beings.

Angels didn't need a code to honor their parents, not commit adultery or warn about how sinful living would genetically alter them and pass down 3 and 4 generations. We fallen humans did.

Thus the Bible teaches:

What shall we say, then? Is the law sin? Certainly not! Indeed I would not have known what sin was except through the law. For I would not have known what coveting really was if the law had not said, "Do not covet." Rom 7:7

We know that the law is good if one uses it properly. ⁹ We also know that law is made not for the righteous but for lawbreakers and rebels, the ungodly and sinful, the unholy and irreligious; for those who kill their fathers or mothers, for murderers, ¹⁰ for adulterers and perverts, for slave traders and liars and perjurers—and for whatever else is contrary to the sound doctrine ¹¹ that conforms to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, which he entrusted to me. 1Tim 1:8-11

So, love does not void the law—but when God's design law of love is written again on the heart, its purpose on stone is no longer needed.

Read last paragraph, "The fact that Paul..." Why is love supreme? Because it is the principle upon which life is based!

Read 1Corinthians 13 from The Remedy:

¹If I am gifted to speak the language of people and angels but do not have God's love in my heart, I am only making meaningless noise, because I remain terminal and dying.²If I am gifted with prophetic insight and understand all mysteries and knowledge, and if I am trusted to move mountains but do not have God's love in my heart, I am a fraud because I am still dying in sin and am nothing at all.³If I give away all my possessions to the poor and die as a martyr tied to a burning stake but don't have God's love in my heart, I am still unhealed and have gained nothing.

⁴Love is the principle upon which life and health are built to operate, and when active in intelligent beings, love is patient and kind. Love gives in order to bless others and does not envy, boast, or promote self.⁵Love is not intrusive, rude, selfish, irritable, or hot-tempered. And love doesn't hold grudges or keep a record of wrongs.⁶Love takes no pleasure in evil but rejoices with the truth.⁷Love always protects, always heals, always restores, builds up, trusts, hopes, and perseveres.

⁸Love originates in God and therefore will never stop and never fail. But one day, prophecies will cease, talking will be paused, and human knowledge will fade.⁹We are finite—knowing just a part of all truth, and prophecy is just a piece of a greater whole.¹⁰But when God restores the universe to His perfect design of love, all imperfection will disappear.¹¹When I was a child, I talked like a child, bragging about myself; I thought like a child, focusing on the dos and don'ts, and I reasoned like a child. But when I grew up, I embraced God's kingdom of love and put the childish ways behind me.¹² Our minds are so darkened by selfishness that we see God's kingdom poorly, like a reflection in a cloudy mirror; but when he returns, we shall see perfectly—face to face! Right now I know only part of God's reality; then—I will have all questions answered and fully know the truth, just as God fully knows me.

¹³ So these three endure: trust, hope and love; but the greatest of these is love.

THURSDAY

The lesson lists five keys to victory in the Spirit:

- To choose to apply to our lives what the Spirit leads
- To be willing to following where the Spirit leads
- To be reborn with new motives from the Spirit
- To conform our choices, practices and habits to harmonize with the Spirit of love and truth
- To choose to say no to the desire of the selfish nature, i.e. be willing to tolerate negative emotions in order to choose to follow where the Spirit leads

The way the Spirit works is the Spirit enlightens with truth we can comprehend and will convict us of what the right choice on any given subject is, but then the Spirit leaves us free to choose the right or not. When we choose to apply the truth to our lives then we receive divine power sufficient for the task. BUT we don't get the power until we make the choice!

Example of Lot! Lot was willing to leave, but didn't have the power on his own, so the angels provided the power to pull him out of the doomed city where he was emotionally attached.

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, "The life of the Christian..." Could this describe religious people?

Read and discuss questions 1-3

2017 Q3 Lesson 13 – The Gospel and the Church

Any initial reactions when you hear or read that title? As frequently happens, I immediately went to definition questions - what is the Gospel...or which Gospel? Any scriptures come to mind?

Romans 1:16-17 (NIV) - 16 For I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God that brings salvation to everyone who believes, or in the Remedy: 16 I am not ashamed of spreading the good news about God and his character, methods and principles, as this is God's power which heals everyone who believes and trusts in him: firstly to the Jews—those initially called to assist in spreading the Remedy, and then to the Gentiles—those most recently called to help spread the Remedy. 17 For the good news is a revelation of God's true righteousness—character, methods and principles—that restores trust in God and results in re-creation of a righteous and Christlike character in humans, just as it is written: "The Christlike will live by choosing what is right in governance of themselves, and by trusting God with how things turn out."

One of the founders of our church adds to that by saying,

“...for the gospel is the power of God unto salvation, when it is interwoven with the practical life, when it is lived and practiced. The union of Christlike work for the body and Christlike work for the soul is the true interpretation of the gospel.” - {CME 7.3}

As you may know, at the time our denomination was founded Mrs. White encouraged the church to tightly couple the healing/health message with the gospel message...any idea why? This is what she said in a book called Counsels on Health,

“These lessons are for us. There are conditions to be observed by all who would preserve health. All should learn what these conditions are. The Lord is not pleased with ignorance in regard to His laws, either natural or spiritual. We are to be workers together with God for the restoration of health to the body as well as to the soul. {CH 31.1} And we should teach others how to preserve and to recover health. For the sick we should use the remedies which God has provided in nature, and we should point them to Him who alone can restore. It is our work to present the sick and suffering to Christ in the arms of our faith. We should teach them to believe in the Great Healer. We should lay hold on His promise and pray for the manifestation of His power. The very essence of the gospel is restoration, and the Saviour would have us bid the sick, the hopeless, and the afflicted take hold upon His strength. {CH 31.2} The power of love was in all Christ's healing, and only by partaking of that love, through faith, can we be instruments for His work. If we neglect to link ourselves in divine connection with Christ, the current of life-giving energy cannot flow in rich streams from us to the people. There were places where the Saviour Himself could not do many mighty works because of their unbelief. So now unbelief separates the church from her divine Helper. Her hold upon eternal realities is weak. By her lack of faith, God is disappointed and robbed of His glory. {CH 31.3}

Romans 16:25 - Now to him who is able to establish you in accordance with my gospel, the message I proclaim about Jesus Christ, in keeping with the revelation of the mystery hidden for long ages past

2 Corinthians 4:4 - The god of this age has blinded the minds of unbelievers, so that they cannot see the light of the gospel that displays the glory of Christ, who is the image of God. From the Remedy: Satan, the god of this pagan age, has blinded the minds of unbelievers, so they don't see or comprehend the truth about God—his methods and principles as revealed in Christ, who is God's very thoughts made audible and visible.

Galatians 1:11 - I want you to know, brothers and sisters, that the gospel I preached is not of human origin. From the Remedy: Brothers, I want you to be perfectly clear on this, the good news that I proclaim—the message of healing and restoration—the truth about the character of God as revealed by Jesus, is not something fabricated or concocted by human beings.

Ephesians 3:6 - This is the truth previously hidden and not understood: God loves all humanity, and all humanity is included in God's plan to heal and restore, and—through the incredible good news of God as revealed in Christ—all humans are included in the promises given to Abraham, and are therefore heirs of the blessings of salvation which come through Christ Jesus.

One more quote that provides some amazing insight about the law and the gospel and truth that should be constantly unfolding.

“Christ in His teaching presented old truths of which He Himself was the originator, truths which He had spoken through patriarchs and prophets; but He now shed upon them a new light. How different appeared their meaning! A flood of light and spirituality was brought in by His explanation. And He promised that the Holy Spirit should enlighten the disciples, that the word of God should be ever unfolding to them. They would be able to present its truths in new beauty. {COL 127.2}

Ever since the first promise of redemption was spoken in Eden, the life, the character, and the mediatorial work of Christ have been the study of human minds. Yet every mind through whom the Holy Spirit has worked has presented these themes in a light that is fresh and new. The truths of redemption are capable of constant development and expansion. Though old, they are ever new, constantly revealing to the seeker for truth a greater glory and a mightier power. {COL 127.3}

In every age there is a new development of truth, a message of God to the people of that generation. The old truths are all essential; new truth is not independent of the old, but an unfolding of it. It is only as the old truths are understood that we can comprehend the new... But it is the light which shines in the fresh unfolding of truth that glorifies the old. He who rejects or neglects the new does not really possess the old. For him it loses its vital power and becomes but a lifeless form...No man can rightly present the law of God without the gospel, or the gospel without the law. The law is the gospel embodied, and the gospel is the law unfolded. The law is the root, the gospel is the fragrant blossom and fruit which it bears. The Old Testament sheds light upon the New, and the New upon the Old. Each is a revelation of the glory of God in Christ. Both present truths that will continually reveal new depths of meaning to the earnest seeker. Truth in Christ and through Christ is measureless. The student of Scripture looks, as it were, into a fountain that deepens and broadens as he gazes into its depths. Not in this life shall we comprehend the mystery of God's love in giving His Son to be the propitiation for our sins. The work of our Redeemer on this earth is and ever will be a subject that will put to the stretch our highest imagination. Man may tax every mental power in the endeavor to fathom this mystery, but his mind will become faint and weary. The most diligent searcher will see before him a boundless, shoreless sea. The truth as it is in Jesus can be experienced, but never explained. Its height and breadth and depth pass our knowledge. We may task our imagination to the utmost, and then we shall see only dimly the outlines of a love that is unexplainable, that is as high as heaven, but that stooped to the earth to stamp the image of God on all mankind. {COL 129.1}

OK, we have defined "the Gospel"... now, what is "the Church"? How would you define that? Is it a building? We have a whole bunch of churches in this area...which one is THE church? Is it a specific denomination, set of doctrines, or beliefs?

I thought it might be beneficial to check with one of the founders of our church to see what she had to say about what "the Church" is...turns out she has quite a bit to say about it - enlightening, significant, sobering, weighty things:

The church is God's agency for the proclamation of truth, empowered by Him to do a special work... – {AA 600.2}

The church is God's appointed agency for the salvation of men. It was organized for service, and its mission is to carry the gospel to the world. From the beginning it has been God's plan that through His church shall be reflected to the world His fullness and His sufficiency. The members of the church, those whom He has called out of darkness into His marvelous light, are to show forth His glory. The church is the repository of the riches of the grace of Christ; and through the church will eventually be made manifest, even to "the principalities and powers in heavenly places," the final and full display of the love of God. Ephesians 3:10. – {AA 9.1}

During ages of spiritual darkness the church of God has been as a city set on a hill. From age to age, through successive generations, the pure doctrines of heaven have been unfolding within its borders. Enfeebled and defective as it may appear, the church is the one object upon which God bestows in a special sense His supreme regard. It is the theater of His grace, in which He delights to reveal His power to transform hearts. – {AA 12.1}

The church is very precious in God's sight. He values it, not for its external advantages, but for the sincere piety which distinguishes it from the world. He estimates it according to the growth of the members in the knowledge of Christ, according to their progress in spiritual experience. – {COL 298.1}

The real character of the church is measured, not by the high profession she makes, not by the names enrolled upon the church book, but by what she is actually doing for the Master, by the number of her persevering, faithful workers. Personal interest, and vigilant, individual effort will accomplish more for the cause of Christ than can be wrought by sermons or creeds.—The Review and Herald, September 6, 1881. – {ChS 12.1}

The present attitude of the church is not pleasing to God. There has come in a self-confidence that has led them to feel no necessity for more truth and greater light. We are living at a time when Satan is at work on the right hand and on the left, before and behind us; and yet as a people we are asleep. God wills that a voice shall be heard arousing His people to action.—Gospel Workers, 297-300 (1915). – {CW 41.3}

This is from the Teacher's Quarterly:

"God has commissioned the church as His transforming agent upon the earth. The omnipotent Savior might have bypassed humanity when reaching the lost world. What could sinful, weakened, vacillating humans contribute to this noble enterprise? Dispatch the sinless angelic host, mobilize the faithful creatures from other galaxies, or utilize divine remote controls: the omnipotent, omniscient Creator of the universe had these and thousands of additional options at His disposal. Nevertheless, He included the fellowship of redeemed individuals, the church, as His distributing agency. Care should be exercised in expressing this truth. The church has the privilege and opportunity of sharing and modeling the gospel before fallen humanity. This sacred responsibility, however, is not proprietary. Humans do not possess franchise authority, and they cannot deny access to God. The Holy Spirit is God's primary disseminator of grace with the church, assuming the role of cooperating agency. Rather than denying access to God, the church's work is to expand access. What glorious opportunities! The church works hand in hand with God to evangelize and nurture fallen human beings. Miraculous transformation and reformation occur constantly within this divinely originated and ordained fellowship."

SUNDAY

Restoring the Fallen

Who are "the fallen?"

The quarterly asks – How should Christians respond when a fellow believer falls into sinful behavior?

Paul says, "we should restore that person gently." We have lots of different churches represented here...how do you think your churches do with this if you had to grade them? Should this response be any different with non-believers?

The terminology Paul uses in Galatians 6 refers to a mistake, a stumble, or a misstep - not a deliberate or defiant sin; and therefore, the proper response in such circumstances should not be punishment, condemnation, or disfellowship but restoration. When is that NOT the proper response?

The quarterly points out that the Greek word translated as "restore" is katartizo, and it means "to mend" or "to put in order." In the New Testament it is used to refer to the "mending" of fishnets (Matt. 4:21), and it is used as a medical term in Greek literature to describe the process of setting a broken bone. In the same way that we would not abandon a fellow believer who fell and broke a leg, as members of the body of Christ we should gently care for our brothers and sisters in Christ who may stumble and fall as we walk together on the path to God's kingdom.

This is also from the teacher's notes in the quarterly, and it's so well-said and kind of surprised me - in the best way:

"The church's constant objective is restoration, not condemnation. Many understand the terminology of church discipline punitively. Well-intentioned members, zealous to protect the church's reputation, declare that the erring must be separated in order to avoid contamination.

This is a very dangerous approach. The religious leadership of Christ's time was anxious about condemning the adulterous woman in John 8; but were they themselves sinless? Had they no need for forgiveness? Was there no divine condemnation for their hypocrisy? Perhaps the notion of protecting the church's reputation needs reexamination. Compare the work of a hospital. Hospitals exist for the purpose of physical healing and restoration. Does every patient leave the hospital alive? Obviously not. Does the presence of occasional casualties nullify the hospital's mission and purpose? Would your community declare that the local hospital should close because it lost a patient? Should hospitals limit their services to those with common colds and other easily curable diseases in order to enhance their track records and bolster their reputations, turning away trauma patients, cancer victims, and other difficult cases? Rather than dismissing difficult cases, physicians aggressively tackle them, researching new methodologies and techniques to affect healing. Disease is meticulously studied, new therapies are developed, and yesterday's death-sentence diseases become today's miraculous breakthroughs. Perhaps those who work with spiritual illness should adopt a similar attitude. Thus, discipline would become redemptive rather than punitive, and the church's reputation would rest upon the compassionate and aggressively creative way that believers fight the sin disease. Christians should forcefully battle sin, not sinners. Obviously, some will be lost. But should churches start limiting their ministry to good citizen types in order to bolster their success rate, their action would prove that they have forgotten their purpose. Discipline, in Paul's usage, refers to training in righteousness. It is a series of actions or behaviors whose objective is forming a more intimate relationship with God. Far from being punitive, Paul's discipline is restorative and positive. Like fine-tuned triage units, churches become centers for cooperation and accountability in achieving a common goal: the healing of sin-scarred hearts through the life-giving love of God."

WOW!! That is good stuff!

MONDAY

Beware of Temptation

Paul's appeal and counsel indicates a sense of urgency and genuine concern when he says to, "pay careful attention to" or "keep a careful eye on yourself", lest sin also take you by surprise. Can anyone else relate? Does your behavior or your reactions or responses sometimes catch you by surprise? Basically every. time. i. open. my. mouth. Even if Paul wasn't referring to any specific trespass or behavior, his words in Gal 5:26 against becoming "conceited" suggest that he is warning the Galatians (and us!) against feeling that they are in some way superior to those they are restoring.

The quarterly describes this sense of spiritual pride as one of the greatest dangers to the Christian walk...why? The lesson says it's because this spiritual pride makes us think we are somehow immune from committing certain types of sin...is that what makes it so dangerous? I believe the danger is much greater than that. Is it dangerous or damaging if a person has a terminal disease but doesn't know it...or is too proud to go to the doctor? Why? Because they will not seek help or partake of the remedy and be healed! That is why a sense of spiritual pride can be one of the greatest dangers to the Christian walk. The last paragraph in Monday's lesson says, "The sobering fact is that we all have the same sinful nature — a nature that is opposed to God." Yes! Our natural heart is at enmity toward God, it distrusts God - this is a terminal condition if left unremedied. Christ procured that heart-transplant remedy through His life, death, and resurrection and offers it as a free gift to all who are willing to receive it.

TUESDAY

Burden Bearing

Tuesday's lesson points out several practical spiritual insights related to Paul's instruction in Galatians 6:2, which says: "Bear one another's burdens, and thereby fulfill the law of Christ". What do you think that is? Wednesday's entire lesson is devoted to that question, so start thinking about what the law of Christ is and how bearing each other's burdens might fulfill it.

There are 3 spiritual insights defined in Tuesday's lesson

1. All Christians actually do have burdens to bear - shocking, right? Where does this misconception come from, that somehow if you are following Christ, and paying your tithe, and worshipping on the right day, and eating the right foods, and donating to the Samaritan Center, and checking all those right boxes...that somehow you should be exempt from the burdens and trials of this life? This view is not biblical, for Christ himself tells us that, "In this world you will have trouble" (John 16:33) - it's guaranteed! But what...what is the rest of that text? "But take heart! I have overcome the world!" That promise of trouble is couched between two incredibly comforting and reassuring promises of hope - the first part is that He tells us, "I have told you these things so that in me you may have peace." He does not want us to be bewildered or caught by surprise, and He wants us to have God's peace—that is beyond words and human explanation and transcends our circumstance—to fill our minds and strengthen our hearts as we trust totally in Christ Jesus.
2. God does not intend for us to bear all our burdens alone. How many of us are far more willing to help others carry their burdens than we are to allow or ask others for help with our own? Paul condemns this attitude of self-sufficiency as human pride...to which I have to say, "ouch"! Think about this: when we refuse to admit that we have needs and weaknesses, we rob ourselves of the comfort and support of others...AND we prevent others from fulfilling the ministry God has called them to do. Wow!

3. Finally, God calls us to bear each other's burdens because it is through OUR actions that God's comfort is made manifest (this sounds a lot like what we just discussed as the definition of "the church"). The quarterly quotes John Stott in his book, The Message of Galatians, "Human friendship, in which we bear one another's burdens, is part of the purpose of God for His people." God comforts us not so we can be comfortable, but so we can be comfort-able - e equips us to be able to comfort others.

WEDNESDAY

The Law of Christ

Galatians 6:2 says, "Carry each other's burdens, and in this way you will fulfill the law of Christ." Our quarterly points out that Paul's use of the phrase "the law of Christ" is unique - it is used nowhere else in the entire Bible, which of course has led to a number of different interpretations of what he meant. What do you think he means? I don't remember a commandment about bearing each other's burdens, so I don't think he's talking about that law. Do we think it's related to Galatians 5:14, which says, "For the entire law is fulfilled in keeping this one command: Love your neighbor as yourself." What about Romans 13:10, which says, "Love does no harm to a neighbor. Therefore love is the fulfillment of the law." In Matthew 5:17, Christ even says He has not come to abolish the Law (capital L) or the prophets, but to fulfill them. This law of Christ is the law of Love.

The second part of Wednesday's lesson makes an interesting point about the two different terms Paul uses for the word "burden" in verses 2 and 5 of chapter 6 - 1 refers to a heavy load carried for a long distance, the other is interpreted as a ship's cargo, a soldier's backpack, or even a child in the womb. So, the first type of burden can be laid aside or shared, but the second type cannot. A pregnant mother must carry her own child, she can't hire that out. So, some burdens others can help us bear, but for others - a guilty conscience, illness, death - we must rely on God's help alone. Agree?

THURSDAY

Sowing and Reaping

Galatians 6:7 says, "Do not be deceived: God cannot be mocked. A man reaps what he sows." What do you think Paul means when he says, "God cannot be mocked"? The author of the quarterly believes Paul's point is that people may ignore God or even flout His commandments, but they cannot outwit God. He is the ultimate judge, and in the end they will have to pay the price for their actions.

The quarterly calls Paul's reference to sowing and reaping a metaphor...is it? Or is it a natural design law upon which our reality is built? This is what one of the founders of our church has to say about it:

“The Spirit of God keeps evil under the control of conscience. When man exalts himself above the influence of the Spirit, he reaps a harvest of iniquity. Over such a man the Spirit has less and less influence to restrain him from sowing seeds of disobedience. Warnings have less and less power over him. He gradually loses his fear of God. He sows to the flesh; he will reap corruption. The harvest of the seed that he himself has sown, is ripening. He has a contempt for God's holy commandments. His heart of flesh becomes a heart of stone. Resistance to truth confirms him in iniquity. It is because men sowed seeds of evil, that lawlessness, crime, and violence prevailed in the antediluvian world. “All should be intelligent in regard to the agency by which the soul is destroyed. It is not because of any decree that God has sent out against man. He does not make man spiritually blind. God gives sufficient light and evidence to enable man to distinguish truth from error. But He does not force man to receive truth. He leaves him free to choose the good or to choose the evil. If man resists evidence that is sufficient to guide his judgment in the right direction, and chooses evil once, he will do this more readily the second time. The third time he will still more eagerly withdraw himself from God and choose to stand on the side of Satan. And in this course he will continue until he is confirmed in evil, and believes the lie he has cherished as truth. His resistance has produced its harvest (MS 126, 1901).”—Ellen G. White Comments, The SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 6, p. 1112.

2017 Q3 The Gospel in Galatians - Lesson 14: Boasting in the Cross

The Cross – Roman torture device which was intended to be the most humiliating, most painful, most drawn out period of suffocation that always ended in death. Even if that meant breaking of the legs to force death by suffocation.

So how can we boast about this?

Christians show the cross, wear the cross, put in on their churches and Bibles. Why?

- Because payment was made?
- God's anger was appeased?
- God showed us just how much He loves us?
- God created a cure for our incurable illness of sin?

SABBATH

Memory Text - Galatians 6: 14, "May I never boast except in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, through which the work has been crucified to me, and I to the world...."

Galatians 6:15 adds, "...what counts is a new creation."

Jeremiah 9:23, 24,"This is what the Lord says: 'Let not the wise boast of their wisdom or the strong boast of their strength or the rich boast of their riches, but let the one who boasts boast about this: that they have the understanding to know me, that I am the Lord, who exercises kindness, justice and righteousness on earth, for in these I delights,' declares the Lord."

Does the cross help to give us the understanding to know God?

Would we boast about the doctor we had found who had:

- Kindness: The ability to show compassion
- Justice: The ability to correctly diagnose
- Righteousness: The ability to restore the terminally ill to health and life

SUNDAY

Paul's own Hand

Paul takes a very personal, agonizing interest in the welfare of the Galatian Christians.

MONDAY

Boasting in the Flesh

Galatians 6:12, 13, “Those who want to make a good impression outwardly are trying to compel you to be circumcised. The ONLY reason they do this is to avoid being persecuted for the cross of Christ. Not even those who are circumcised obey the law, yet they want you to be circumcised that they may boast about your flesh.”

He intimates that his opponents are hiding behind a mask.

Question: “What should this tell us about how even the “best” of motives can lead us astray if we aren’t careful? Is avoiding persecution a “best” motive?

TUESDAY

Boasting in the Cross

Second paragraph: “Jews found the idea of a crucified Messiah offensive, and Roman found crucifixion so repulsive that it was not even mentioned as a form of punishment suitable for a Roman citizen.”

It was predicted that we would misunderstand the cross. Isaiah 53:1-5, “Who has believed our message and to whom has the arm of the Lord been revealed? He grew up before him like a tender shoot, and like a root out of dry ground. He had no beauty or majesty to attract us to him, nothing in his appearance that we should desire him. He was despised and rejected by men, a man of sorrows, and familiar with suffering. Like one from whom men hide their faces he was despised, and we esteemed him not. Surely HE TOOK UP OUR INFIRMITIES and CARRIED OUR SORROWS, but WE CONSIDERED HIM STRICKEN BY GOD, SMITTEN BY HIM, AND AFFLICTED. BUT he was pierced for OUR transgressions, he was crushed for OUR iniquities; the punishment that brought us peace was upon him, and BY HIS WOUNDS WE ARE HEALED.”

Jesus’ preparation for the cross prior to the Garden of Gethsemane: John 13:1-5, “It was just before the Passover Feast. Jesus knew that the time had come for him to leave this world and go to the Father. Having loved his own who were in the world, he now showed them the full extent of his love. The evening meal was being served, and the devil had already prompted Judas Iscariot, son of Simon, to betray Jesus. Jesus knew that the Father had put all things under his power, and that he had come from God and was returning to God; so he got up from the meal, took off his outer clothing, and wrapped a towel around his waist. After that, he poured water into a basin and began to wash his disciples’ feet, drying them with the towel that was wrapped around him.”

Have you considered the Cross in the light of the Seventh day Sabbath?

- Just like when “The Word”, the part of God that we now know as Jesus created a day of rest to allow us to consider how he uses his power, Jesus once again shows us what he does with power over ALL things. Christ worked, then created a day of rest for us to consider how he uses His power. So in both cases we can learn about Him, learn to trust Him, appreciate Him, which develops into love for Him...and He gives us the love and desire to love.
- We focus on Judas, and Peter, but Jesus knows that very same day, every single one of his disciples will either desert, deny or betray him. (Matthew 26:31-35)
- He gives them this gift, shows them he is able and willing to clean them no matter how dirty they get.
- Gives them/us an example of how to love others
- Shows us how to help others accurately see and know THIS GOD.
- Possible parable in the cross? Death to self before finding rest in God/Christ, which brings us life?

Disciples and the cross:

Darkness before Dawn, Page 36, E. G. White

“Before His crucifixion the Savior explained to His disciples that he was to be put to death and to rise again from the tomb, and angels were present to impress His words on minds and hearts. But the disciples were looking for temporal deliverance from the Roman yoke, and they could not tolerate the thought that He in whom all their hopes centered should suffer an ignominious death. The words which they needed to remember were banished from their minds; and when the time of trial came, it found them unprepared. The death of Jesus as fully destroyed their hopes as if He had not forewarned them. So in the prophecies the future is opened before us as plainly as it was opened to the disciples by the words of Christ. The events connected with the close of probation and the work of preparation for the time of trouble, are clearly presented. But multitudes have no more understanding of these important truths than if they had never been revealed. Satan watches to catch away every impression that would make them wise unto salvation, and the time of trouble will find them unready.”

- What has the Cross done to affect your relationship to the world?
- What difference has it made in your life?
- How differently do you live now than you did before giving yourself to the Lord, who died for you?

Angel's Response to Christ's birth:

2 Spirit of Prophecy, Page 16, E.G. White

"In Heaven it was understood that the time had come for the advent of Christ to the world, and angels leave glory to witness his reception by those he came to bless and save. They had witnessed his glory in Heaven, and they anticipate that he will be received with honor in accordance with his character, and the dignity of his mission. As angels approach the earth, they first come to the people God had separated from the nations of the world as his peculiar treasure. They see no especial interest among the Jews, no eager waiting and watching that they may be the first to receive the Redeemer, and acknowledge his advent. In the temple, which had been hallowed by daily sacrificial offerings, prefiguring his coming, and symbolizing his death, no preparations are being made to welcome the Savior of the world. The Pharisees continue to repeat their long, meaningless prayers in the streets, to be heard of men, in order to obtain the reputation of great piety and devotion. The angels from Heaven behold with astonishment the indifference of the people, and their ignorance in regard to the advent of the Prince of Life. The proud Pharisees, claiming to be God's chosen people, in their hypocritical devotions, are proclaiming the law, and exalting traditions, while men of other nations are dealing in fables, and are worshiping false gods. All alike were ignorant of the great event which prophecy had foretold would transpire."

Angel's Response to Christ's trial and death:

Desire of Ages, Page 700, E.G. White

"The angels of heaven witnessed every movement made against their loved Commander. They longed to deliver Christ. Under God the angels are all-powerful. On one occasion, in obedience to the command of Christ, they slew of the Assyrian army in one night one hundred and eighty-five thousand men. How easily could the angels, beholding the shameful scene of the trial of Christ, have testified their indignation by consuming the adversaries of God! But they were not commended to do this. He who could have doomed His enemies to death bore with their cruelty. His love for His Father, and His pledge, made from the foundation of the world, to become the Sin Bearer, led him to endure uncomplainingly the coarse treatment of those He came to save. It was a part of His mission to bear, in His humanity, all the taunts and abuse that men could heap upon Him. The only hope of humanity was in this submission of Christ to all that He could endure from the hands and hearts of men."

Look at the Compassion our Creator has for us!

Understanding the Cross as a multifaceted Jewel – and through it, Christ:

- Perfected an unselfish, loving character to his death, which he gives us for free.
- Showed how much God values our freedom
- Ripped off the mask of Satan and his methods and view of God – how his kingdom would work. Satan is a liar and murderer. God did not kill Satan, but gave him the chance on this earth to show the universe his idea of governing, but from the moment Christ was born, Satan showed that he would kill God to accomplish his goals, and finally succeeded. (Christ laid down his own life....)
- The trapper became the trapped
- Opened his disciples' eyes to their true hearts and characters
- Witness to the whole Universe of watching beings, to further understand God
- Cuts off our affection from this world and points us to God
- Showed us the true meaning of sacrifice
- Said, "It is finished!" (what is finished?)
- "I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all people to myself." John 12:34
- "...unless a kernel of wheat falls to the ground and dies, it remains only a single seed. But if it dies, it produces many seeds" John 12:24
- Saved one thief, changed the course of one man's life during a portion of one day so completely that Christ assured him he would be with Him in paradise.
- Was a living/dying parable? (God told Moses to make a bronze snake, and the Israelites who were bitten by poisonous snakes and looked up at it and live. Numbers 21:6-9). This was to represent Christ curing us of the poisonous bite of the serpent Satan.

Can we make an idol out of the cross, by misinterpreting it?

Later, they named that snake "Nehushtan" (means 'a brazen thing' or 'a mere piece of brass'), burned incense to it and worshipped it, so that Hezekiah had to break it into pieces. 2 Kings 18:4-4.
Worshipping the snake instead of who and what it pointed to?

Last Paragraph:

"The cross of Christ changes everything for the believer. It challenges us not only to reevaluate how we view ourselves but also how we related to the world. The world – this present evil age and all that it entails (1 John 2:16) – stand in opposition to God. Because we have died with Christ, the world no longer has the enslaving power it once held over us, and the old life that we once lived for the world is no longer. Following Paul's analogy, the break between the believer and the world should be as if the two died to each other."

So, how do Christ and his angels view our lack of Compassion toward each other?

Last week, I quoted Proverbs 24: 11-12, which bears repeating today:

“Rescue those being led away to death; hold back those staggering toward slaughter. If you say, “But we knew nothing about this,” does not he who weighs the heart perceive it? Does not he who guards YOUR life know it? Will he not repay each person according to what he has done?”

Desire of Ages, Page 825, E. G. White

“Divine love has been stirred to its unfathomable depths for the sake of men, and angels marvel to behold in the recipients of so great love a mere surface gratitude. Angels marvel at man’s shallow appreciation of the love of God. Heaven stands indignant at the neglect shown to the souls of men. Would we know how Christ regards it? How would a father and mother feel, did they know that their child, lost in the cold and the snow, had been passed by, and left to perish, by those who might have saved it? Would they not be terribly grieved, wildly indignant? Would they not denounce those murderers with wrath hot as their tears, intense as their love? The sufferings of every man are the sufferings of God’s child, and those who reach out no helping hand to their perishing fellow beings provoke His righteous anger.”

Testimonies for the Church volume 4, pages 319 and 320, E.G. White

“I have read of a man who, journeying on a winter’s day through the deep, drifted snow, became benumbed by the cold which was almost imperceptibly stealing away his vital powers. And as he was nearly chilled to death by the embrace of the frost king, and about to give up the struggle for life, he heard the moans of a brother traveler, who was perishing with cold as he was about to perish. His humility was aroused to rescue him. He chafed the ice-clad limbs of the unfortunate man, and, after considerable effort, raised him to his feet; and as he could not stand, he bore him in sympathizing arms through the very drifts he had thought he could never succeed in getting through alone. And when he had borne his fellow traveler to a place of safety, the truth flashed home to him that in saving his neighbor he had saved himself also. His earnest efforts to save another quickened the blood which was freezing in his own veins, and created a healthful warmth in the extremities of the body.”

Manuscript 29, 1900, E. G. White

“The angels of God will make effectual the work of men...O that those who are halting between two opinions could only understand the agencies continually at work to keep at bay the armies of the power of darkness! By presenting earthly advantages or earthly obstacles to defeat the purposes of God, and by various other methods, Satan would intercept every ray of light from the messengers of God. But if the curtain could be rolled back, and eyes now blind to the invisible agencies could view with restored spiritual vision the conflict continually going on in behalf of the souls perishing away from Christ, what a difference would be made in the working of the agencies in this world! Decided advance movements would be made. Without delay their entire influence for good would be thrown on the side of Christ. They would behold the intense interest of the angels of God in behalf of souls who are throwing away the opportunities and privileges now so valuable to them to obtain an experimental knowledge of God and of Jesus Christ whom He has sent."

We are culturally acclimatized by those around us, so people's actions vary from culture to culture. To make ourselves more beautiful to others, some put rings around their necks until their necks are very tall, expand their earlobes until they are very large, glue white bird feathers into their hair, get tattoos, etc. They often have no idea that what they have grown up with and consider a mark of beauty, others would consider bizarre. We pay others to make our hair look nice, paint our toenails and fingernails, etc.

I went into a Hair Salon this week, and immediately noticed the smell of hair products wafting in the air. A few minutes later, I realized that I could no longer smell the hair products. I had already gotten used to them, though breathing long term fumes might do me harm.

Consider how this applies to our sensitivity toward what is good versus bad, how we distance ourselves from others because of our culture.

- Americans have the need for the most distance from others than any other culture, about 4 feet from friends and extended family, 4-10 feet from acquaintances or colleagues, 10 or more feet from strangers.
- Per Edward T Hall and Proxemics, Beyond Culture, 1977, Europeans require half as much distance as the US in conversation, 4-7 feet.
- Some cultures want to touch you while they talk with you. For example, one of my patients from Vietnam put her hand on my arm the whole time we were talking.

That speaks to the distance we must gap between us and other humans, but how do we love someone we can't see?

- Jeremiah 3:14: "I am your husband."
- Isaiah 54:5 "Your maker is your husband – the Lord Almighty is his name."

What does it mean to love God with all your strength and heart? How do we go from being a stranger to God, then loving God with a love that is stronger than death? Thinks about how do we fall in love?

- What thoughts/feelings come to your mind when you think of falling in love with your girlfriend/boyfriend?
- What thought/feelings come to your mind when you think of falling in love with God?
- Differences? Similarities?

Compare: How do long distance relationships work?

Is loving God the same as knowing God? What does it mean to know God?

Spoken by Jesus in the sermon on the Mount: Matthew 7: 21-23,

“Not everyone who says to me, ‘Lord, Lord,’ will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only the one who does the will of my father who is in heaven. Many will say to me on that day, ‘Lord, Lord did we not prophecy in your name and in your name drive out demons and in your name perform many miracles?’ Then I will tell them plainly, ‘I never knew you. Away from me, you evildoers!’ The Complete Jewish Bible says, “you workers of lawlessness!”

Matthew 22:35-40,

“...an expert in the law, tested him with this questions: ‘Teacher, which is the greatest commandment in the Law?’ Jesus replied:’ Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind.’ This is the first and greatest commandment. And the second is like it: ‘Love your neighbor as yourself.’ ALL the Law and the Prophets hang on these two commandments.”

1 John 4:8,

“Whoever does not love does not know God, because God is love.”

1 John 3:1,

“How great is the love the Father has LAVISHED on us, that we should be called children of God? And that is what we are!”

How the Bible uses the word, “Knew.”?

Genesis 4:1, 17, 25 Yada – intimacy, NIV translated this way, “Adam made love to his wife”, “Cain made love to his wife” ...and they conceived...

“Seinfeld” TV show used this word to gloss over the details of intimate encounters, and it has become very popular usage in our culture to gloss over details of a story by saying, “and yada, yada, yada...”

Intimacy is dedicating ourselves to a person so we can engage them with our love and affection.

How does the cross help us to understand and intimately love God?

Jesus was giving his last talk to his disciples before his death in John 14, and said in verses 21, 23 and 24,

“Whoever has my commands and keeps them is the one who lives me. The one who loves me will be loved by my Father, and I too will love them and show myself to them.....Anyone who loves me will obey my teaching. My Father will love them, and we will come to them and make our home with them. Anyone who does not love me will not obey my teaching.”

Peter thought he knew and loved and would die for Jesus, until after he denied Jesus. Proverbs 12:10,
“The righteous know the needs of their animals, but the mercy of the wicked is cruel.”

- Understanding the needs of those around us and taking care of them.

Jeremiah 22:15, 16, “Josiah...gave justice and help to the poor and needy and everything went well for him. Isn’t that what it means to know me? Says the Lord.”

1. Doing justice
2. Showing mercy to the poor and needy
3. Exemplifying a good and righteous character
4. Faithfully living out our covenant relationship with the Lord in every area of our life.

Luke 24:30-32, 45 – The story of how Jesus in disguise walked with the 2 disciples on the road to Emmaus after His resurrection. First He opened their minds, so they could understand scripture until their “Hearts Burned,” then He opened their eyes so they recognized Him.

How do we love perfectly?

1 John 4:15-21 to 1 John 5:1-4,

“If anyone acknowledges that Jesus is the Son of God, God lives in them and they in God. And so we know and rely on the love God has for us. God IS love. Whoever lives in love lives in God, and God in them. This is how love is made complete among us so that we will have confidence on the day of judgment: In this world we are like Jesus. There is no fear in love. But perfect love drives out fear, because fear has to do with punishment. The one who fears is not made perfect in love. We love because he first loved us. Whoever claims to love God yet hates a brother or sister is a liar. For whoever does not love their brother and sister, whom they have seen, cannot love God, whom they have not seen. And he has given us this command: Anyone who loves God must also love their brother and sister. Everyone who believes that Jesus is the Christ is born of God, and everyone who loves the father loves his child as well. This is how we know that we love the children of God: by loving God and carrying out his commands. And his commands are not burdensome, for everyone born of God overcomes the world. This is the victory that has overcome the world, even our faith.”

Jesus prayed his last prayer with the disciples prior to being crucified, in John 17:6, 26,

“This is eternal life, that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent.....I have made you known to them and will continue to make you known in order that the love you have for me may be in them and that I MYSELF may be in them.”

The Signs of the Times, May 21, 1912, E.G.White.

“The death of Christ removes every argument that Satan could bring against the precepts of Jehovah. Satan has declared that men could not enter the kingdom of heaven unless the law was abolished, and a way devised by which transgressors could be reinstated into the favor of God, and made heirs of heaven. He made the claim that the law must be changed, that the reins of government must be slacked in heaven, that sin must be tolerated, and sinners pitied and saved in their sins. But every such plea was cast aside when Christ died as a substitute for the sinner.”

But the reverse is also true – fear casts out love, and turns into self protection

“Marriage is a Dance” seminar Ken and I attended years ago, run by men, which was very different for me. What I learned from men:

- Your marriage is like a sport team: no one person wins or loses. Either the whole team wins or the whole team loses. If one person is consistently right/winning, it makes the other person is consistently wrong/losing. Who would want their most loved team member to always be feeling like a loser?
- To be a winning team, do anything it takes, reading, brainstorming, counseling, praying, to come up with a win-win solution to your problem. If you don't, your whole team loses.
- They redefined unfaithfulness as creating fear in your spouse, not just running around on your spouse
- Love can be regained if you get into close proximity and remove the fear.
- Treat each other's hearts very carefully, as something of extreme value...really get to know your spouse, get a Phd in your spouse.

Sanctuary Service as a guide to getting to know and love God:

Come from outside the camp, through the Israelites, into the outer court, wash with the laver, eat the bread, see by the light, pray at the table of incense, go through Christ (the Curtain) and become covered with the gold from Christ as in the base of the ark (which was Acacia wood covered in gold), join with God above the ark, by Christ (the totally gold cover to the ark). The angels are watching and amazed by this whole process.

What is love in to us, to our culture?

We “love” those shoes, cute puppies, that dress, our children, all with the same word. Or we use similar sounding words like adore, captivated.....

How do you stay in love? What grows love in you?

- Truth
- Devotion
- Vulnerability
- Desire
- Worth
- Attractive
- Respond to being loved
- Amazement
- Appreciation
- Gratitude
- Learning about each other, not to take advantage, but to meet the other's needs
- Weed your garden
- Forgiveness
- Spend time with each other

- Share your life, not just your house

What decreases love?

- Lies
- Coercion
- Fear
- Indifference
- Lack of appreciation
- Allowing misunderstandings and resentments to grow
- Spending very little time with each other
- Taking advantage and presuming on the other
- Seeing marriage responsibilities as a duty, rather than as part of a partnership
- Disrespect

I have been asking people about how they relate to, know and love a God they can't see? Some of the responses have been:

- Use imagination to picture a scene and you and Jesus walking/talking together
- Remember miracles and answers to prayer that they and others have had.
- Other ways?

Luke 10:22-28,

"...No one knows who the Son is except the Father, and no one knows who the Father is except the Son and those to whom the Son chooses to reveal him. Then he turned to his disciples and said privately, 'Blessed are the eyes that see what you see. For I tell you that many prophets and kings wanted to see what you see, but did not see it, and to hear what you hear but did not hear it.'

"On one occasion an expert in the law stood up to test Jesus. 'Teacher,' he asked, "what must I do to inherit eternal life? 'What is written in the Law? He replied, 'How do you read it?' He answered: 'Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind,' and 'Love your neighbor as yourself.' "You have answered correctly.' Jesus replied, 'Do this and you will live.'

This was followed by the story of the Good Samaritan, who helped a man attacked by robbers. The brother was the Samaritan who had mercy on the wounded man, rather than the priest and Levite who walked past without helping.

Could you describe love as a hunger and thirst to be with the one you love and to share life with them?

Nehemiah 9:13-17,

"You came down on Mount Sinai; you spoke to them from heaven. You gave them regulations and laws that are just and right, and decrees and commands that are good. You made known to them your holy Sabbath and gave them commands, decrees and laws through your servant

Moses. In their hunger, you gave them bread from heaven and in their thirst you brought them water from the rock; you told them to go in and take possession of the land you had sworn with uplifted hand to give them. But they, our forefathers, became arrogant and stiff-necked, and did not obey your commands. They refused to listen and failed to remember the miracles you performed among them.

Matthew 5:5,

“Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they will be filled.”

What events in your life have caused you to love God more?

WEDNESDAY

A New Creation

What does it mean to be a new creation?

Third paragraph:

“It is the divine act in which God takes a person who is spiritually dead and breathes spiritual life into him.”

How have you experienced what this means?

- House flipping – renovation
- New direction
- Better understanding
- New purpose
- Higher goals
- Different methods
- Better outcome
- Can't keep doing the same things and expect a different outcome

What about claims that we can make ourselves into a new creation without Christ?

Example could be L. Ron Hubbard, American science fiction writer and founder of “Scientology” – said that, “Man has it within himself to make himself better.” It promises to help you “reach your full potential”. Scientology is defined as a religious system based on the seeking of self knowledge and spiritual fulfillment through graded courses of study and training. But it has been reported by people who have left the church that if you decide to leave the church, any of your family still in the church disconnects from you and never talks to you again, and the church does everything they can to try to destroy your life, your job, the respect others in your community might have for you.

THURSDAY

Final Remarks

Galatians 6: 16,

“Peace and mercy to all who follow this rule, even to the Israel of God.” The word translated as “Rule” literally refers to a straight rod or bar used by masons or carpenters for measuring. Figuratively, it came to mean rules or standards by which a person evaluates something.

Galatians 16: 17,

“Finally, let no one cause me trouble, for I bear on my body the marks of Jesus.”

According to the SDA Bible Commentary, Vol 6, page 989,

“...Paul has marks that indicate whose slave he has become, and for him there is no other loyalty than to Christ...The scars Paul had received from his enemies while in the service of his Master spoke most eloquently of his devotion to Christ.”

- What are the “marks,” physical or otherwise, that you have because of your faith in Jesus?
- What has your faith cost you?

FRIDAY

Further Thought

Ellen G. White Comments, The SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 6, page 1113,

“The cross of Calvary challenges, and will finally vanquish every earthly and hellish power. In the cross all influence centers, and from it all influence goes forth. It is the great center of attraction; for on it Christ gave up His life for the human race. This sacrifice was offered for the purpose of restoring man to his original perfection. Yea, more, it was offered to give him an entire transformation of character, making him more than a conqueror.

“Those who in the strength of Christ overcome the great enemy of God and man, will occupy a position in the heavenly courts above angels who have never fallen.

“Christ declares, ‘I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me.’ If the cross does not find an influence in its favor, it creates an influence. Through generation succeeding generation, the truth for this time is revealed as present truth. Christ on the cross was the medium whereby mercy and truth met together, and righteousness and peace kissed each other.

This is the means that is to move the world. (MS 56, 1899)”

Movie, “End of the Spear”. It depicted missionary men attempting to bring Christ to natives, but the natives killed them all upon arrival. These natives were all about taking revenge on the other tribes around them, so there were no old people in the village, as the other tribes would also take revenge and kill their people. Then the missionary’s wives went to the same people, took someone with them who had come from their own tribe and spoke their language. They did not take revenge on the killing of their husbands, but helped the natives. How they won the hearts of the natives was by telling them that when Jesus was speared, he did not spear back. They understood that.

Discussion Questions:

In light of Paul's statement about having been crucified...to the world (Galatians 6:14):

- What relationship should Christians have with the world today?
- How should Christians relate to issues dealing with the environment, racism, abortion, etc.

I have an issue about legislating even good religious things, using the power of government to legislate morality. When that happened in the "Dark Ages" persecution inevitably happened, as the government/church tried to force others to believe as they did.

Consider this:

- If you don't believe in abortion, don't have one, if you don't believe current TV and movies are good for people, don't watch them, etc. "Vote with your feet".
- Being a part of changing people's heart through being used by the Holy Spirit, so that others won't want to do harmful things to themselves, each other, or the environment.

2017 Q4 The Book of Romans

Lesson 1: The Apostle Paul in Rome

I recently received an email from an online supporter, who pointed out that my comments about the KJV not being the version that Christ read, nor the most accurate English version, given its out of date King's English, could have been interpreted as making fun of people who value the King James Bible. Therefore, I want to make it clear I meant no offense to anyone. If my comments were offensive to you, please forgive me—no offense intended. I was merely attempting to bring an idea forward in such a way that people would stop and think about the issue.

A few weeks ago I read the following quotation and attributed it to EGW. I stated I had never heard this before, and there is a reason—She didn't write it. It was written by William Prescott. The confusion came because it was archived on the EGW estate website.

But the moral law, which is to be written in the heart, is the law of love. It is the expression of the very nature of the God of love as interpreted to us in the life and teachings of Christ, who said, "I have kept My Father's commandments." John 15:10 . To keep this law is to love as God loves. To the natural heart this is impossible, and so God has promised to give us a new heart: "A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you." Ezekiel 36:26 . In harmony with this provision is the prayer of David: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a steadfast [margin] spirit within me." Psalm 51:10 . We may call this conversion, or regeneration, or the new birth, or the new creation; but in any case it is the impartation of a new life from God, that life which is love, and is revealed in loving. Those who have this experience are "partakers of the divine nature" (2 Peter 1:4), and that nature is expressed in obedience to the divine law of love.

"When the principle of love is implanted in the heart, when man is renewed after the image of Him that created him, the new covenant promise is fulfilled, 'I will put My laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them.' And if the law is written in the heart, will it not shape the life? ... Here is the true test. If we abide in Christ, if the love of God dwells in us, our feelings, our thoughts, our purposes, our actions, will be in harmony with the will of God as expressed in the precepts of His holy law."

And this experience is guaranteed to us by the promise of God, and is provided for us through the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, the Spirit of love: for we know that "the love of God hath been shed abroad in our hearts through the Holy Spirit which was given unto us." Romans 5:5. "Salvation is of Jehovah." Jonah 2:9. Taken from the pamphlet, The Savior of the world - SOTW p. 81 <https://m.egwwritings.org/en/book/1409.319#333>

INTRODUCTION

The first paragraph states, “Five hundred years ago this month, Martin Luther, a 33-year-old theology professor, posted his Ninety-five Theses.”

Yes, Martin Luther took a stand against distortion, against church abuses, against ideas that enslaved the minds and hearts of people.

Yes, Martin Luther was a man who was true to his conscience and wouldn’t allow politics or church administration or church authority to intimidate him into compromising the truth, as he understood it.

Yes, Martin Luther said no to ecclesiastical authority and yes to following the Bible—and Martin Luther put the Bible in the language the people could read.

Did Martin Luther have all truth? Absolutely not, he had very strong anti-Semite beliefs and wrote quite offensively about the Jews. I have never read anything attributed to him that would indicate he rightly understood God’s law. He didn’t accept the books of James, Revelation, Jude and Hebrews as being inspired. These are just a few of the problems with Martin Luther. Given these, just to name a few...

Should we hold to the understandings and practices of Martin Luther?

How many would like to go to a doctor today who practiced medicine like they did 500 years ago?

How many would like to have your food prepared by cooks who stored and prepared food like they did 500 years ago?

How many would like to drink water from water sources they had 500 years ago?

How many would like to travel in conveyances they had 500 years ago?

How many would like to dress like they did 500 years ago?

How many would like marriage to function like it did 500 years ago?

How many women would like to give birth in the same setting they did 500 years ago?

Truth is unfolding—all truth, including Bible truth.

God is infinite and we are finite—how big is the gap?

We are to be moving forward in our knowledge, understanding and truth—for all eternity we are to grow in our knowledge of God.

Martin Luther was a man who moved forward in truth, a man who moved from darkness toward ever increasing light. Yet, We should not seek to promote the belief system that Martin Luther put forward—theologians who today promote Martin Luther’s theology do not move forward in the light, they promote darkness rather than light. Theologians who promote penal substitution, Martin Luther’s idea, have us moving away from truth and back into falsehood.

Such teachings don’t bring people to God, free people from oppression, transform people, but keep people trapped.

If you were in the sunlight walking into a cave you are moving away from light, but if you are deep in a cave and walking toward the entrance you are moving into the light. Both persons may at one point stand at the exact same place and be experiencing the exact same amount of light, yet one person is moving toward the light—This is Martin Luther 500 years ago moving out of the Dark Ages, but a person today who moves toward Luther’s theology is moving into darkness. All the theologians of today who insist on promoting Martin Luther’s ideas and penal substitution theology are moving away from the light.

We must acknowledge Martin Luther—give thanks to him and what he did to lead people out of the dark cave of misunderstanding—but we must NEVER go back to his understanding, we must move forward—always forward to ever more understanding and experience with our infinite God!

If you understand where Martin Luther was coming from you will have better understanding as to why he came up with penal substitution theology and why it was an improvement over where he was—yet is a terrible idea for anyone to believe today.

Two grand lies underpin the development of penal substitution—one lie Martin Luther was seeking to eliminate, but the other lie he did not.

The first lie is that God’s law functions like human law—merely a system of rules imposed that require legal adjudication and infliction of proper punishment by the ruling authority. Martin Luther never understood God’s design law—therefore all of his theology, while moving forward, is still infected with this core falsehood.

Why penal substitution? Because of the second lie that Martin Luther did recognize as a lie and wanted to eliminate from Christianity—the doctrine of purgatory.

The teaching of purgatory taught that if sinners didn’t get purged from sin in this life but were not totally damned, their souls would go to a place in between heaven and hell, in which the soul would be purged of any remaining sinfulness and eventually allowed into heaven. This held people in terrible fear, allowed for all kinds of abuses, such as extorting people for money. The old fund raising slogan of the day, “whenever a coin in the coffer rings a soul from purgatory springs.”

Thus, penal substitution was created by Martin Luther to directly undermine the church’s teaching on purgatory. In penal substitution it is taught that all sins of every person, past, present and future were placed on Christ and the Cross, and Christ as the sinner's substitute was punished by God for all the sins of all the human race. Sinners must simply accept the legal payment of Jesus' innocent blood to their account in heaven. If they do then they are legally declared to be righteous, even though they are not, and when they die the credit from Jesus' is applied and no need for purgatory because all the punishment for the sin has already been carried out.

You can see how the idea of penal substitution was a step forward from the Dark Ages view of purgatory—however, it is a major move backward from the truth as we present it. And in fact, penal substitution itself is based on the lie that God's law functions like our law.

God prophesied in Scripture that the reformation will be completed by a group of people called the remnant, who come back to worship the Designer, who reject the imposed law construct, who throw off the penal legal ideas of salvation and instead experience the genuine healing and transformation available from the Remedy of Jesus Christ living in them.

The fourth paragraph states, "Yes, it was in Romans that Luther found the great truth of 'justification by faith' alone."

What is justification by faith?

What Luther taught—and what many theologians teach today—is not genuine justification by faith.

Justification by faith is also known as righteousness by faith because to be justified is to be made right or righteous.

Hebrews, speaking about the spiritually immature states, "Anyone who lives on milk, being still an infant, is not acquainted with the teaching about righteousness." (5:13)

And Hebrews goes on to describe what makes one immature, or still on milk: "Therefore let us leave the elementary teachings about Christ and go on to maturity, not laying again the foundation of repentance from acts that lead to death..." (6:1)

This is the do's and don'ts the penal legal theologies, focusing on law and deeds. Thus, according to Hebrews those who hold to penal substitution theology, which teaches that sin is behavioral, breaking God's imposed law, which requires imposed penalties, and that God sent Jesus to be our substitute in taking the punishment, are not acquainted with righteousness. Even their own position states that they are not acquainted with righteousness for they say: anyone who accepts the legal payment Jesus made will be declared righteous even though they are not.

By their own doctrinal statements they say that people are declared righteous even though they are not which means the people who follow this teaching are not righteous.

It is no wonder Christ has not returned. Christ is waiting for a people to throw off the lies about Him, to experience genuine healing, genuine righteousness, genuine transformation.

Now lest anyone think that because I am exposing the lies of penal substitution theology that I am rejecting the substitutionary nature of Jesus sacrifice for our salvation—let me make it abundantly clear.

We COULD NOT BE SAVED WITHOUT THE LIFE, DEATH AND RESURRECTION OF JESUS CHRIST!!!!

Jesus was our substitute in that, Jesus took our terminal condition upon Himself and cured it, thus providing the healing remedy which transforms, heals, i.e. saves all who allow Him to do so. Or as the Scripture says:

God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God. 2Cor 5:21

Notices the great difference between what the Bible teaches and what penal substitution teaches. The Bible teaches that we become righteous, penal substitution teaches we are declared righteous even though we are not. The false imposed law has infected Christianity and resulted in a false legal salvation scheme that keeps millions trapped in a form of godliness that has no power to transform.

We must come back to the truth and experience God living within, renewed hearts and minds to be like Jesus.

Or if you prefer one of the founders of the SDA church, what the SDA church was supposed to be teaching today:

The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26. {DA 762.2}

This is genuine justification by faith. The penal substitutionary idea of justification by faith is a lie that gives people a false legal security but cheats them out of genuine victory, transformation, peace and healing.

The seventh paragraph states, “Yet, over the long years the Reformation has stalled.”

Why? What is your understanding of why the reformation has stalled?

What is obstructing its completion?

What message needs to go forward to complete the reformation?

Here is what the SDA church was founded to take to the world:

“It is the darkness of misapprehension of God that is enshrouding the world. Men are losing their knowledge of His character. It has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. At this time a message from God is to be proclaimed, a message illuminating in its influence and saving in its power. His character is to be made known. Into the darkness of the world is to be shed the light of His glory, the light of His goodness, mercy and truth... The last rays of merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is the revelation of His character of love.” Christ's Object Lessons, p.415

The Reformation will only be complete when all the lies and distortions about God have been replaced with the truth and we present God in His genuine beauty and holiness—the glorious truth of His character of love—which REQUIRES we come back to design law and throw off the human imposed law construct, which means we must reject penal substitution theology. As long as we present God as the source of inflicted pain, suffering, and death—albeit legally applied—we fail to finish the Reformation. This is what Satan has done—he has infected Christianity with this lie about God's law so that theologians of all denominations actively present God in a false light.

The Reformation will only be finished when God is presented in His true character—just as Jesus revealed Him to be.

The last paragraph states, “We are Seventh-day Adventists, and we rest upon the principle of sola scriptura, Scripture alone...”

But if we allow Scripture to inform us of the God's books of truth, God's sources of enlightenment—what do we discover?

That the Scripture never teaches Scripture alone—isolated from science and nature and real life experiences. Instead, Scripture teaches that God has three threads of evidence to be harmonized: Scripture, science and experience.

Romans 1:20 God's divine nature is seen in what he has made so that men are without excuse.

All the passages in Scripture where we are instructed to meditate on God's creation and wonders—for what purpose? To learn about God.

The Bible says, “Taste and see that the Lord is good...” and Jesus told Thomas to put his hands in his side, stop doubting and believe based on his experience.

What did many of the parables of Jesus use to illustrate God's kingdom? Either nature or real life experiences or combinations of both.

And the founders of the Seventh-day Adventist church understood this:

The great storehouse of truth is the word of God—the written word, the book of nature, and the book of experience in God's dealing with human life. Here are the treasures from which Christ's workers are to draw. In the search after truth they are to depend upon God, not upon human intelligences, the great men whose wisdom is foolishness with God. Through His own appointed channels the Lord will impart a knowledge of Himself to every seeker. — {COL 125.2}

Jesus followed the divine plan of education. The schools of His time, with their magnifying of things small and their belittling of things great, He did not seek. His education was gained directly from the Heaven-appointed sources; from useful work, from the study of the Scriptures and of nature, and from the experiences of life—God's lesson books, full of instruction to all who bring to them the willing hand, the seeing eye, and the understanding heart. {Ed 77.2}

Those who teach the imposed legal view, don't want to include science, nature and experience why? Because then their arbitrary law view will be eliminated. Thus they deny the Scriptures while claiming their authority comes from the Scriptures.

SABBATH

The third paragraph states, "And yet however localized the immediate issues that Paul was addressing, the principles behind them—in this case the question how is a person saved?—is universal."

Great question—how do you answer the question—how is a person saved?

What does it mean to be saved?

Before you answer it would you need to know from what a person is being saved? In other words, what is wrong that is causing a person to be lost, or damned, or to die?

What must God achieve in order for humans to be saved?

What must humans do in order to be saved?

What law lens do you understand this through?

When people have the false law lens they create false ideas about salvation and thus what was necessary. Here is a classic description of the false view:

Paul always speaks of people being reconciled to God (2Cor 5:19; Rom 5:10; Col. 1:20). He never refers to God being reconciled to us. In spite of that fact, however, we should recognize that sin affected both sides. Humanity's rebellion and sense of guilt alienated it from God, while God was separated from humankind by His necessary hatred of and judgment on sin (His wrath). Christ's sacrificial death (propitiation) removed the barrier to reconciliation from God's side. Knight, George, The Cross of Christ, p. 74.

This is a lie on many levels, thought to be true because of the belief that God's law works like our law, imposed rules that require punishment.

First, notice this view acknowledges what Scripture says that nowhere does Scripture teach something needed to be done to God for our salvation. But, "in spite of that fact..." we know better than Scripture.

This view claims that God was separates from humankind by His hatred of sin—No! This is a lie. God didn't separate from humankind because of sin, God BECAME human "He who knew no sin became sin for us so that we might become the righteousness of God."

God is like a physician whose child is sick, the physician father hates the sickness, but doesn't let the sickness drive the father away, no the father draws close to bring healing to the child!

Notice the penal substation view teaches the exact opposite of what the Bible teaches, it denies Scripture, it places barriers between the soul and God, it obstructs God's plan of salvation. It, based on the false legal view, is the reason the reformation has stalled.

What did John the Baptist teach? That Jesus is the Lamb of God who came to take away the sin of the world! It is our sin that separates us from God not some bad attitude with the heart of God.

So what is necessary for salvation? How do you explain it?

Here is another historic quote—what do you hear described here—do you agree or disagree? Why?

The work of gaining salvation is one of copartnership, a joint operation. There is to be co-operation between God and the repentant sinner. This is necessary for the formation of right principles in the character. Man is to make earnest efforts to overcome that which hinders him from attaining to perfection. But he is wholly dependent upon God for success. Human effort of itself is not sufficient. Without the aid of divine power it avails nothing. God works and man works. Resistance of temptation must come from man, who must draw his power from God. On the one side there is infinite wisdom, compassion, and power; on the other, weakness, sinfulness, absolute helplessness. {AA 482.2}

Would this be in harmony with Philippians 2:12,13:

Continue to work out your salvation with fear and trembling, for it is God who works in you to will and to act according to his good purpose.

What is being described?

Is a legal adjustment being described where someone is declared righteous, even though they are not, or is genuine healing and transformation being described?

Why must we cooperate?

Why must we choose to align ourselves with God and choose to say no to evil?

When you made the choice to marry your spouse what did that choice do to you? Did it change you in some way? How? Did you close down your pursuit of other? Did your heart give its devotion, loyalty, trust to your spouse? Could such change occur by anything other than a voluntary choice?

Is this one of the reasons God uses the metaphor of marriage for Christ and the church?

In other words, can our characters be changed and we simultaneously retain our unique individuality without our active participation in choosing?

Again, what type of salvation process is this—is it legal or transformational?

Do you see how the penal legal model has infected Christianity and prevented millions from the true intimate relationship, healing and victory that God offers?

SUNDAY

Read fifth paragraph, “In his epistle to the Romans...” What were the hopes and promises made especially to the Jews?

Were the hopes and promises offered to the Jews of exclusive salvation, in other words, prior to Christ you had to be a Jew to be saved?

No—many non-Jews were saved in OT times, all the Patriarchs before Abraham, Melchizedek, Lot, Jethro, Naaman, Nebuchadnezzar, the shunammite woman, the Magi from the East.

Then what were the hopes and promises given to the Jews that now has been given to the Gentiles?

Was it not the privilege of being the conduits of the truth about God witnessed in their lives?

Although the whole earth is mine, ⁶ you will be for me a kingdom of priests and a holy nation. Ex 19:5,6

At the end of every three years, bring all the tithes of that year's produce and store it in your towns, ²⁹ so that the Levites (who have no allotment or inheritance of their own) and the aliens, the fatherless and the widows who live in your towns may come and eat and be satisfied, and so that the Lord your God may bless you in all the work of your hands. Dt 14:28,29

Was Israel not supposed to be the conduit of God's love, demonstrating the methods, principles and truth about God, putting His design laws of love into practice, and bring all nations to a knowledge of God?

Another quote on what the SDA church used to teach:

"Ye are the light of the world." The Jews thought to confine the benefits of salvation to their own nation; but Christ showed them that salvation is like the sunshine. It belongs to the whole world. The religion of the Bible is not to be confined between the covers of a book, nor within the walls of a church. It is not to be brought out occasionally for our own benefit, and then to be carefully laid aside again. It is to sanctify the daily life, to manifest itself in every business transaction and in all our social relations. {DA 306.5}

True character is not shaped from without, and put on; it radiates from within. If we wish to direct others in the path of righteousness, the principles of righteousness must be enshrined in our own hearts. Our profession of faith may proclaim the theory of religion, but it is our practical piety that holds forth the word of truth. The consistent life, the holy conversation, the unswerving integrity, the active, benevolent spirit, the godly example,—these are the mediums through which light is conveyed to the world. {DA 307.1}

What did you hear?

What is being described—design law, healing, transformation of character, restoration to genuine righteousness. Again and again and again, we find that the penal legal view is not found in Scripture, it is a lie of the false law construct.

Yesterday I did a live skype interview for a broadcast that broadcasts into Israel. It was hosted by a Messianic Jew, a man who was raised Jewish but has accepted Jesus as his Savior.

We talked about a lot of things—but what do you think the greatest obstacle to reaching Jews with the gospel of Jesus is?

Christians—look at the history of what so-called Christians have done to the Jews—ostracized, persecuted, imprisoned. We are talking about Martin Luther today, he wrote horrible things about the Jews. In fact I heard a radio interview this week in which a Christian was discussing Jesus with a Jewish professor in Israel and the professor said, "I only have one question for you: Is Martin Luther your brother?"

Many attribute Martin Luther's writings to directly impacting the holocaust. And the majority of those who participated in the holocaust would have identified themselves as Christians.

But it didn't start out this way. If you read the New Testament, the Gentile converts to Christianity were focused on taking up offerings to send to Jerusalem to reach the Jews. Yet all of this changed—why? Because the NT church operated on design law of love, but the idea of God's law changed to imposed rules and Christianity changed from believers who shared to bless others, to believers who carried out the Crusades, inquisition and many other atrocities. And which the Bible states will one day do it all again—no one can buy or sell save him who has the mark of the beast. Coercion in the name of God will occur again.

MONDAY

The question near the bottom asks, "What important principle can we take away regarding the whole question of mission from the fact that Paul sought to help from an established church in order to evangelize a new area?"

What is a principle? A design parameter, or protocol upon which reality works.

We talk about design laws a lot in here, can you think of one described above?

The law of love—which is the law of giving—absolutely. And it is also described as the law of impartation:

One of the divine plans for growth is impartation. The Christian is to gain strength by strengthening others. "He that watereth shall be watered also himself" (Proverbs 11:25). This is not merely a promise; it is a divine law, [what kind of law?] a law by which God designs that the streams of benevolence, like the waters of the great deep, shall be kept in constant circulation, continually flowing back to their source. In the fulfilling of this law is the secret of spiritual growth. . . . {Amazing Grace 285.4}

This is brilliant—this is the truth—this is design law!

Can you think of ways to sabotage this design?

- Getting people to hoard instead of give—by inciting fear, but undermining trust in God
- Selfishness—which is increased with fear and distrust of God
- What about over-giving? What about a person who wants to donate blood so they go and donate a pint every day, what happens then?
 - So, what if the person who wants to donate blood every day is told no by the blood bank? Is the blood bank being unkind, unloving?
 - What of the farmer who wants to donate food and doesn't want to be selfish so the farmer won't eat one morsel of food for himself—what happens then?

- What of the farmer who limits how much he gives away, keeping back seed stock, and enough to provide for his staff, his family, and pay for all his expenses—is he being selfish?
- So one way to sabotage this principle of giving is to trick compassionate people into giving beyond sustainable limits to the point of exhaustion, burnout, or even death.
- What of a nation who sets boundaries limiting how many people it allows into its borders every year—is this limitation necessarily an act of selfishness, or could it be done because the citizens of that nation want to help others and want to be a resource to benefit the less fortunate, but need to set boundaries to keep it sustainable?

The bottom pink section reads “Notice how much Paul’s great desire was to minister and to serve. What motivates you and your actions.”

This is one of the reasons for Come and Reason Ministries, to share, to give, to reach others, to bring real peace and healing. This is why we make so many materials to give away.

TUESDAY

Read last paragraph, “Not by Paul’s sermons...” What do we learn from this?

What events reached Nebuchadnezzar with the gospel? Was it not three friends of God being persecuted and thrown into a fire?

What events reached Darius with the gospel—what is not Daniel in the lion’s den?

What started Paul’s trouble with his conscience that the Damascus Road experienced brought to fruition? Was it not Stephen being stoned?

What helped spread the gospel in the first century? Was it not the witness of the martyrs?

What is the point?

Can some of the objectively wrong actions, painful events, even evil perpetrated upon us by others, be turned to witness the gospel if we allow God to empower us with grace in how we deal with the mistreatment?

But what happens if we embrace the world’s methods and believe we must fight to defend our rights?

What is the method in which we are to fight? 2Cor 10:3-5, we do not wage war as the world does...

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, “Beloved of God...” What makes God’s love more special to those who have chosen Him?

Does God care more in His heart for those who have chosen Him than He does for those who have rejected Him?

Or, is it that those who choose God and respond positively to His love are special in that they participate, experience, grow, are transformed by His love and thus within THEM they increase their capacity for knowing, appreciating, responding, engaging, conversing, sharing with God. In other words, they are enabled to delve into deeper and deeper levels of loving interaction with God than those who refuse Him?

Thus, the love relationship becomes special in what it does within those who respond, but God doesn’t have a different disposition toward those who refuse His love!

Read the fourth paragraph, “Saints is the translation...” What does “holy” mean? Does it mean to be set apart by God? Set apart from what? From what does God want to set us apart? Is it not sin, evil, selfishness, fear, guilt, shame?

So, if God separates us from sinfulness, selfishness, fear, guilt, shame, what is He doing in us? He is healing us, restoring us, recreating us into His image—which is another way of saying He is making us right, or righteous, which is justification. And this is what it means to be holy—to be righteous—which is restored to God’s design, which is healthiness!

Read last paragraph, “The great news of the gospel...” Any concerns about the precision of this language?

Was God’s original intent for all humanity to find salvation in Jesus—or was God’s original intent for Adam and Eve to stay loyal and never sin?

The plan for our redemption was not an afterthought, a plan formulated after the fall of Adam. It was a revelation of "the mystery which hath been kept in silence through times eternal." Romans 16:25, R. V. It was an unfolding of the principles that from eternal ages have been the foundation of God's throne. [principles mean what? and what is the law which is being described?] From the beginning, God and Christ knew of the apostasy of Satan, and of the fall of man through the deceptive power of the apostate. God did not ordain that sin should exist, but He foresaw its existence, and made provision to meet the terrible emergency. So great was His love for the world, that He covenanted to give His only-begotten Son, "that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3:16. {DA 22.2}

2017 Q4 The Book of Romans Lesson 2

The Controversy

SABBATH

“The law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ.” John 1: 17.

Is the apostle John correct? Was the “law” given by Moses? It’s called the “Mosaic law,” so if not, then by whom?

Are we supposed to read Scripture concretely, or with another, more open, mindset? Is it possible that John, himself – the near constant companion of our Savior for 3+ years, had an “Imperial Law” mindset?

“The law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ.” Assuming that God Himself gave “the law” to Moses, then is there no grace and truth in the “Mosaic” law?

Consider the following:

If man had kept the law of God, as given to Adam after his fall, preserved by Noah, and observed by Abraham, there would have been no necessity for the ordinance of circumcision. And if the descendants of Abraham had kept the covenant, of which circumcision was a sign, they would never have been seduced into idolatry, nor would it have been necessary for them to suffer a life of bondage in Egypt; they would have kept God's law in mind, and there would have been no necessity for it to be proclaimed from Sinai or engraved upon the tables of stone. And had the people practiced the principles of the Ten Commandments, there would have been no need of the additional directions given to Moses. PP 364.

What was the state of the Israelites at the time of the presentation of the “Mosaic” law?

What was the level of their moral development?

What kind of people needed a law on the books telling them not to commit incest [Lev. 18: 6-18.]?

What kind of people needed a law telling them not to avoid child sacrifice or bestiality [Lev 18: 21, 23]?

What was the level of their moral development at the time of Christ?

They were, by then, consummate “law” keepers and legislators. The written law was their bread and water. Might they have needed a deeper revelation of the same “grace and truth” present in the Mosaic law?

We need to understand that EVERY word of the imposed [written] law that came from God's mouth is a revelation of some aspect of His Design [natural] law, and therefore, a revelation of some facet of His Character of Love, and therefore, Life.

Here's what the founder of our church had to say on the subject:

Jesus answered, "It is written: 'Man shall not live on bread alone, but on every word that comes from the mouth of God. Matt. 4:4.

A Better Covenant

But in fact the ministry Jesus has received is as superior to theirs as the covenant of which he is mediator is superior to the old one, since the new covenant is established on better promises. Heb. 8:6.

From the lesson:

"Perhaps the greatest difference between the religion of the Old Testament and that of the New is the fact that the New Testament era was introduced by the coming of the Messiah, Jesus of Nazareth. He was sent by God to be the Savior. People could not ignore Him and expect to be saved. Only through the atonement He provided could their sins be forgiven. Only by the imputation of His perfect life could they stand before God without condemnation. In other words, salvation was through the righteousness of Jesus—and nothing else."

There's truth and error in this paragraph. Which is which?

Why was the "new" covenant better than the "old" covenant? [Hint: see Heb. 8: 9 as to the problem with the "old" one.]

Was there anything wrong with the "old" covenant from God's side of the contract? Of course not, the covenant was broken by the children of Israel soon after it was ratified. The bride had an affair during the honeymoon.

How is the "new" covenant built on "better" promises?

Are God's promises dependent on His mood?

Was He in a better mood for the "new" covenant?

Also from the lesson:

“Meanwhile, the moral requirements remain unchanged in the New Testament, because these were founded in the character of God and of Christ. Obedience to God’s moral law is just as much a part of the New Covenant as it is of the Old Testament.”

Jewish Laws and Regulations

The lesson does an admirable job of distilling the various laws and regulations in to 5 broad categories [see below].

“It is convenient for us to classify Old Testament laws into various categories: (1) moral law, (2) ceremonial law, (3) civil law, (4) statutes and judgments, and (5) health laws.

This classification is in part artificial. In actuality some of these categories are interrelated, and there is considerable overlap. The ancients did not see them as separate and distinct.

The moral law is summed up by the Ten Commandments(Exod. 20:1–17).

This law sums up the moral requirements of humanity. These ten precepts are amplified and applied in various statutes and judgments throughout the first five books of the Bible. These amplifications show what it meant to keep the law of God in various situations. Not unrelated are the civil laws. These, too, are based on the moral law. These define a citizen’s relationship to civil authorities and to fellow citizens. They name the penalties for various infractions.

The ceremonial law regulated the sanctuary ritual, describing the various offerings and the individual citizen’s responsibilities. The feast days are specified and their observance defined. The health laws overlap the other laws. The various laws relating to uncleanness define ceremonial uncleanness, and yet they also go beyond this to include hygienic and health principles. Laws regarding clean and unclean meats are based on physical considerations.”

Which. Law. Lens. Are you looking through?

TUESDAY

As the Custom of Moses

At a lodging place on the way, the LORD met Moses¹ and was about to kill him. ²⁵ But Zipporah took a flint knife, cut off her son’s foreskin and touched Moses’ feet with it. “Surely you are a bridegroom of blood to me,” she said. ²⁶ So the LORD let him alone. (At that time she said “bridegroom of blood,” referring to circumcision.) Exodus 4: 24-26.

On the way from Midian, Moses received a startling and terrible warning of the Lord’s displeasure. An angel appeared to him in a threatening manner, as if he would immediately destroy him. No explanation was given; but Moses remembered that he had disregarded one of God’s requirements; yielding to the persuasion of his wife, he had neglected to perform the rite of circumcision upon their youngest son. He had failed to comply with the condition by which his child could be entitled to the blessings of God’s covenant with Israel; and such a neglect on the part of their chosen leader could not but lessen the force of the divine precepts upon the people. Zipporah, fearing that her husband would be slain, performed the rite herself, and the angel then permitted Moses to pursue his journey. In his mission to Pharaoh, Moses was to be placed in a position of great peril; his life could be preserved only through the protection of holy angels. But while living in neglect of a known duty, he would not be secure; for he could not be shielded by the angels of God. PP 255.

Why did / do the Jews place such a heavy significance on circumcision?

From the bottom section in the lesson:

“What is your attitude toward church leadership? How cooperative are you? Why is cooperation so important? How could we function if everyone was doing only what he or she wanted to do, independent of the larger body?”

WEDNESDAY

The Gentile Believers

With them they sent the following letter:

The apostles and elders, your brothers,

To the Gentile believers in Antioch, Syria and Cilicia:

Greetings.

²⁴ We have heard that some went out from us without our authorization and disturbed you, troubling your minds by what they said. ²⁵ So we all agreed to choose some men and send them to you with our dear friends Barnabas and Paul— ²⁶ men who have risked their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. ²⁷ Therefore we are sending Judas and Silas to confirm by word of mouth what we are writing. ²⁸ It seemed good to the Holy Spirit and to us not to burden you with anything beyond the following requirements: ²⁹ You are to abstain from food sacrificed to idols, from blood, from the meat of strangled animals and from sexual immorality. You will do well to avoid these things.

Farewell. Acts 15: 23-29.

What do these [highlighted] requirements have in common?

Which laws are being observed [Hint: it's not the 10 Commandments]?

From the bottom section:

“Could we, in some ways, be laying on people burdens that are not necessary but are more from tradition than divine command? If so, how?”

THURSDAY

Paul and The Galatians

From the Lesson:

“It is an oversimplification to ask whether Paul is speaking of ceremonial or moral laws in Galatians and Romans. Historically, the argument was whether or not Gentile converts should be required to be circumcised and keep the law of Moses. The Jerusalem Council already had ruled on this question, but some refused to follow its decision.

Some read in Paul's letters to the Galatians and the Romans evidence that the moral law—the Ten Commandments (or, in truth, only the fourth commandment)—is no longer binding on Christians. Yet, they are missing the point of the letters, and missing the historical context and issues that Paul was addressing. Paul, as we'll see, stressed that salvation was by faith alone and not by the keeping of the law, even the moral law. Yet that isn't the same thing as saying that the moral law shouldn't be kept. Obedience to the Ten Commandments was never an issue; those who make it an issue are reading back into texts a contemporary issue, one that Paul wasn't dealing with. How do you respond to those who claim the Sabbath is no longer binding upon Christians? How can you show the truth of the Sabbath in a way that does not compromise the integrity of the gospel?”

WHICH LAW LENS?

The Book of Romans Lesson 3 4Q 2017

The Human Condition

SABBATH

Memory verse: “All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God.” Rom 3:23

What does this mean?

Does it mean all have broken a rule? Or does it mean all have a condition of heart that contaminates all their decision-making?

Read first paragraph: “Early on in the book...” I think this is very well said, but before we explore the meaning, let’s read the first paragraph in FRIDAY’s lesson:

“Thus the biblical terminology...” Do you hear these two paragraphs saying the same thing, or do you hear them differently? If differently, what do you hear differently about how they describe sin?

How do you understand sin? Is it merely behavior, or is it the heart condition that leads to the behavior?

And at its root, what is sin? It is untruthfulness and selfishness. As the Scripture says,

“The heart is deceitful above all things, And desperately wicked; Who can know it?” Jer 17:9
NKJV

So, what is the human condition?

Ephesians 2:1 “As for you, you were dead in your transgressions and sins” NIV84

What condition is this? It is a terminal condition—how did we get this condition?

Ps 51:5: “Surely I was sinful at birth, sinful from the time my mother conceived me.” NIV84

Do we need to feel guilty about having this condition? Why or why not?

What does this condition cause—unless treated? Sins, which are what? Actions that are selfish and ultimately lead to the sacrifice of others to advance self.

So, the sins, the bad deeds we have all done, are they the problem, or are they the symptoms of the problem?

What did Jesus say in Matthew 5? That the bad deeds are symptoms of the sick heart condition.

So, what is needed to deal with this human condition—a legal solution or a healing solution?

From Oswald Chambers:

Sin is something I am born with and cannot touch— only God touches sin through redemption. It is through the Cross of Christ that God redeemed the entire human race from the possibility of damnation through the heredity of sin. God nowhere holds a person responsible for having the heredity of sin, and does not condemn anyone because of it. Condemnation comes when I realize that Jesus Christ came to deliver me from this heredity of sin, and yet I refuse to let Him do so. From that moment I begin to get the seal of damnation. “This is the condemnation [and the critical moment], that the light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light.” (John 3:19) <http://utmost.org/the-nature-of-degeneration/>

Remember the analogy of an HIV infected couple having an baby born HIV infected? What did the baby do wrong? This is all humans since Adam and Eve.

Now two quotations from Ellen White, one of the founders of the SDA church:

All sin is selfishness. Satan's first sin was a manifestation of selfishness. He sought to grasp power, to exalt self... The sowing of seeds of selfishness in the human heart was the first result of the entrance of sin into the world. God desires every one to understand the evil of selfishness, and to co operate with Him in guarding the human family against its terrible, deceptive powers. The design of the gospel is to confront this evil by means of remedial missionary work, and to destroy its destructive power by establishing enterprises of benevolence. {Worker's Bulletin, September 9, 1902 par. 3}

There is a great work to be done for many of us. Our minds and characters must become as the mind and character of Christ. Selfishness is inwrought in our very being. It has come to us as an inheritance, and has been cherished by many as a precious treasure. No special work for God can be accomplished until self and selfishness are overcome. To many everything connected with themselves is of great importance. Self is a center, around which everything seems to revolve. {Historical Sketches 138.7}

So, what do Oswald Chambers and EGW say regarding sin? It is a condition of being, with which we were born and did not choose, but we have the option of choosing Jesus who can heal us from this condition.

SUNDAY

Romans 1:16,17:

For I am not ashamed of the gospel; it is the power of God for salvation to everyone who has faith, to the Jew first and also to the Greek. 17 For in it the righteousness of God is revealed through faith for faith; as it is written, “The one who is righteous will live by faith.” NRSV

The Lesson asks what these verses mean to you?

What is the gospel? Good news? About what?

Well I did a web search asking the question “What is the gospel?”

Here are some of the top answers:

What exactly do Christians mean when they talk about the “gospel of Jesus Christ”? Since the word “gospel” means “good news,” when Christians talk about the gospel, they’re simply telling the good news about Jesus! It’s a message from God saying, “Good news! Here is how you can be saved from my judgment!” <https://www.crossway.org/articles/what-is-the-gospel-2/>

Is this the gospel? This is like the cartoon I have shown in some of my lectures of Jesus standing at a door knocking and the captions read:

“Let me in”
“For what?”
“So I can save you”
“From what?”
“From what I will do to you if you don’t let me in!”

Is this really good news?

Here is another online description from an article in Christianity Today:

“Therefore, the gospel is the truth that we are all sinners or criminals before God, and under the sentence of eternal death or separation from God and all that is good. In his love for us, God the Father sent God the Son to earth to become a man. Jesus was born without a sin nature, and lived a sinless life. He allowed himself to be crucified, and as he hung on the cross, God the Father took all of my sins, put them on Jesus and punished him in my place.

“Jesus took the wrath of God for me, and he died. His body was placed in a tomb, and on the third day he came back from the dead, never to die again. God in his love and grace has overcome our two enemies of sin and death, and those who acknowledge to Jesus that they are sinners, and trust him to save them from eternal condemnation are forgiven their sins and given the gift of life eternal with God.” <http://www.christianitytoday.com/edstetzer/2015/june/what-is-gospel.html>

Is this good news?

In this description, from where does death originate? Who is the source of pain, punishment and death?

God—this is the false gospel—the lie—the bad news that God is the source of inflicted pain and death and thus we need to create theologies that protect us from God.

We teach God requires human sacrifice to assuage His wrath, for if God was presented with the sinless blood of His Son He would lash out against us and destroy us all—or worse torture us all in hell for eternity. Is such a depiction of God really good news?

This distorted gospel is all based in the lie that God's law functions like human law—imposed rules requiring judicial oversight. But we are called to take the message to the world that we are to worship Him who made the heavens, earth, sea and all that is in them—we are to worship this Designer whose laws are the protocols upon which life is built and any break in those laws results in ruin and death unless remedied by the Designer.

So what is the good news? God is not like Satan has portrayed Him to be.

What lie did Satan tell in heaven? What is the truth that Satan obscured to angels and then to Adam and Eve? Is it not the good news about God?

- Must God hide Himself from sin, lest if God sees our sin God will have no self-control and lash out in anger and wrath and destroy us? Or did God become sin in order to save us?
- Is the problem with sin that God is offended, or angry, or must inflict punishment? If God would restrain Himself and refuse to lash out and destroy sinners, could sinners live forever in sin?
- Is the real problem of sin from God's behavior toward sinners, or what sin does to sinners?

So what is the gospel? It is the good news about God—that God is good, truth, love—always and never deviates to anything else in any way.

How is this good news the power of God for salvation?

Remember the cascade of destruction—if you believe your spouse is having an affair but they are not—what happens?

- lies believed break the circle of love and trust
- broken love and trust results in fear and selfishness
- fear and selfishness results in acts of sin
- acts of sin damage—a terminal condition

Healing Cascade:

- Truth believed destroys lies and wins to trust
- In trust open the heart and God pours His love in (character renewal)
- In love and trust we engage in acts of love, service, altruism
- Acts of service, love, altruism witness the kingdom of love and we grow in godliness

But the entire healing cascade starts with the truth about God—thus Jesus said, “You will know the truth and the truth will set you free.” Jn 8:32

The truth about what? God.

This is why life eternal is knowing God—Jn 17:3 and that by his death Christ destroyed him who holds the power of death that is the devil Heb 2:14. Satan’s power is to get us to believe lies about God that prevent us from knowing and therefore trusting God.

How does the evil one do this?

Therefore, what is Satan’s strategy? To prevent people from knowing the truth about God.

How? By presenting false gospels that misrepresent God as a being we need protection from—which is the predominate view in Christianity—and the reason for this is that Christians have accepted the lie about God’s law, which was prophesied in Daniel 7:25—that God’s law is like human law.

This is what Paul warned about in Thessalonians that the man of sin would set himself up in God’s temple proclaiming himself to be god. How? By getting Christians to teach that God is like Satan in character, a being who is the source of inflicted pain and suffering, an arbitrary being who makes up rules and then uses coercive power to enforce his rules.

This is why the sanctuary (Spirit temple) needs cleansing—it needs cleansing from the lies about God which have so deeply infected Christianity.

This is what I expose in my latest book The God-Shaped Heart

What does it mean the righteous, or just, shall live by faith?

That the righteous or just, are those who choose to do what they know is in harmony with God’s design (i.e. what is right or just) and then trust God with the outcomes.

So these verses from The Remedy:

I am not ashamed of spreading the good news about God and his character, methods and principles, as this is God’s power which heals everyone who believes and trusts in him: firstly to the Jews—those initially called to assist in spreading the Remedy, and then to the Gentiles—those most recently called to help spread the Remedy.¹⁷ For the good news is a revelation of God's true righteousness—character, methods and principles—that restores trust in God and results in re-creation of a righteous and Christlike character in humans, just as it is written: "The Christlike will live by choosing what is right in governance of themselves, and by trusting God with how things turn out."

In the lesson a common misconception is promoted in point 1, in which they define the gospel. It is absolutely true that the Messiah has come and because of what He achieved we can, by placing our trust in Him, experience healing from sin and everlasting life. Absolutely true—and it is also true this is very good news for us sinners.

Yet, it is not true that this is the gospel, i.e. the good news that heals and sets us free. The good news that we can be saved is the result of the gospel, it is not the gospel—the gospel is the good news about God.

The Bible in Revelation 14:6 says the gospel is the “eternal gospel” that means it is good news eternally—both in eternity past as well as in eternity future—and the only good news that is eternally true, is the good news about God—the only eternal being, and the only genuinely good being.

The salvation of humanity is wonderfully good news that is *the result of accepting and trusting in the eternal gospel—that God is our friend, that God is trustworthy, that God is love, and His methods are always in harmony with love and that God in Christ sacrificed Himself to fix all the problems that sin caused in His universe.

This is critical to recognize—remember that lies believe break the circle of love and trust and incite fear and selfishness. Healing starts with truth that destroys lies and wins to trust. But, if we replace the good news about God, with the good news that Jesus died so we can be saved, then we leave out the healing truth we need in order to have the lies about God removed and truly be won to trust. And instead we create false theologies that function to protect or hide us from God. This is what has corrupted Christianity and which we are called to oppose—the finishing of the Reformation is the elimination from our thinking the lies about God which stem from the false law and the replacement of the true gospel with this subtle distortion.

The bottom pink section states, “Do you ever struggle with assurance?” What are the reasons that cause this struggle with assurance of salvation?

Everything that undermines our true knowledge of God!

Life eternal is knowing God—JN 17:3, thus anything that undermines this true knowledge will undermine assurance.

What theologies do this?

The legal theologies that focus our minds on our sins, our misdeeds and our need for accounting—we must confess, we must get pardon, we must get forgiveness—and oh my, what if I forgot a sin and never asked for the blood of Jesus to be applied? Is that one still paid for or will it keep me out of heaven?

What if I have a moment in which I lose my temper and curse someone and then get hit by a car and die before I can confess—is that sin pardoned or does it remain on the record books and will I have to die for it?

Such horrible ideas are all based on the lie that God's law functions like our laws, rules imposed which require imposed punishments, rather than the truth that God's laws are design laws and we have a condition which needs healing.

The question is not do we have symptoms, the question is are we partaking of Jesus—the Remedy?

MONDAY

The first sentence of the first paragraph states, “Amazingly enough, some people actually challenge the idea of human sinfulness, arguing that people are basically good.”

What do you understand sin to be?

I wrote the second chapter in the book Servant God, the chapter title is “What Is Sin?”

When I asked high school students to write down the answer to that question these were some of the answers:

- An act contrary to that for which God stands
- Something that separates us from God
- Doing something morally wrong
- Anything evil or unjust
- Something that brings us down
- The absence of anything good/anything not of God
- Doing anything you know deep inside is wrong
- Bad stuff
- A bad thing that Satan discovered and brought upon us
- The cause of all pain and suffering
- When you do something you feel guilty about
- Anything that makes God unhappy
- Something to be forgiven
- Whatever you do wrong, yet don't even care what you did

The next two answers were submitted by more than 10% of the students:

- Sin is not following the Ten Commandments

- Sin is going against the will of God

What do you hear in these descriptions? Have they gotten to the root of sin, or are they dancing around it? Are their answers like the following answers to the question: What is disease?

- Something that goes against what health stands for
- Something that requires quarantine
- Something that is unhealthy
- Something that is just bad or sick
- Something that makes you feel bad
- Doing anything you know deep inside is bad for you
- A destructive element Satan discovered and brought upon us

Do these descriptions really tell you what disease is or do they dance around it describe some of the results of disease or actions we take because of disease?

Two students had a different view of what sin is:

- The absence of love
- The opposite of God's character—sin is selfishness

These two would be like saying:

- disease is breaking the laws of health and cutting oneself off from the source of life
- disease is the opposite of God's design for life

So the majority responses were descriptions of some of the consequences, some of the symptoms, some of the behaviors that demonstrate sin—the minority describe the underlying cause for those symptoms.

The Bible describes sin in these two ways:

- Sin is lawlessness or transgression of the law (1Jn 3:4)
- Everything that does not come from faith is sin (Rom 14:23)

Are these describing something different or the same thing? How do you explain these verses?

What law? The law of love, which is design law, the protocols upon which life is built—every breath....

And what is it that causes love to be breached? It is broken trust, which happens when lies are believed.

Thus, when we don't trust God, we don't experience His love in our hearts, this results in fear and selfishness and thus we act to protect self rather than to live in harmony with God's design of love.

TUESDAY

The lesson talks about how there was this hope that with the twentieth century humanity would improve, advance, and move past its brutal past—however it was one of the most destructive and bloody in human history.

What do we learn from this? What were contributing factors to this?

There was a movement in the US in the early twentieth century called Eugenics, which arose from Darwinism, and is the idea that humanity can be improved by selective breeding. If we take the strongest and best amongst us and breed them together we can get subsequent generations stronger and more advanced—this is the idea.

It was started in America and led to forced sterilization of many people who were deemed genetically inferior, this would include those with mental handicaps and one of the primary places the forced sterilizations were carried out was in psychiatric hospitals.

It was the writings of thought leaders in America that influenced the Nazi's and led to the movement in Germany of a pure Arian bloodline and ultimately to killing those deemed to be genetically inferior.

Thus, introducing the philosophy of a godless universe in which the strong survive passing on the better genetic material to improve subsequent generations led to some of the most horrible moments in human history.

Now, does this mean that if people believe in God they don't commit atrocities?

It all depends on the God in which they believe—whenever people reject the truth about the God of love—as revealed in Jesus—and instead worship a god who is the imposer of law and must impose punishments for law-breaking, then those people eventually become abusive of others—consider the Crusades, Inquisition and many other atrocities carried out by those who claim a belief in God. Consider the Muslim extremists today.

The only protection is to come back to the truth about God as Jesus revealed.

The lesson asks us to read Romans 1:22,23 and answer “How do we see this principle being manifested now?”

Although they claimed to be wise, they became fools²³ and exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images made to look like mortal man and birds and animals and reptiles.

How do we see this manifested today?

- Sports teams?
- Movie stars?
- Cars, houses?
- What about a god who requires the blood of a human sacrifice to pay him for sin so he won't kill you?

Consider this quotation from one of the founders of the SDA church:

Thousands have a false conception of God and His attributes. They are as verily serving a false god as were the servants of Baal. Are we worshiping the true God as He is revealed in His Word, in Christ, in nature, or are we adoring some philosophical idol enshrined in His place? God is a God of truth. Justice and mercy are the attributes of His throne. He is a God of love, of pity and tender compassion. Thus He is represented in His Son, our Saviour. He is a God of patience and long-suffering. If such is the being whom we adore and to whose character we are seeking to assimilate, we are worshiping the true God. {FLB 59.8}

Do we have Baal worship in Christianity today? Do you remember who Baal was?

Do we see people today worshipping a false god and thereby being corrupted by it?

Remember what happened in Rwanda? Those who worshipped an authoritarian god participated in genocide while those who worshipped a God of love protected the refugees.

Or, studies that demonstrate that the worship of an authoritarian god increases the likelihood of child and spouse abuse, but the worship of a God of love reduces the risk.

Yes, we become like the God we admire and worship and sadly Christianity has been infected with a distorted view of God, which is based on accepting a lie about His law—namely that it functions like human law.

WEDNESDAY

Read second paragraph, “But he wasn’t...” What does it mean they were “condemned by God’s law”?

Is there a difference in being condemned legally and then sentenced to an imposed death, and being diagnosed as terminal and condemned by the terminal state to die unless remedy is received?

So, how do we hear this? Is God using law books to judge our behavior and condemning us to die at His hand, or is God diagnosing our condition as being out of harmony with how life is construct by Him to exist and that we will die if we refuse to let Him cure us?

Which version leads you to trust God?

What was the problem the Jews had that Paul was working to disabuse them of? That sin was a matter of behavior and therefore righteousness was a matter of behavior—not so, sin is a state of being out of harmony with God and His design in heart and mind that leads to destructive behaviors. Righteousness is being healed, restored or set right in heart and mind and results in healthy, kind, loving, Christlike behaviors.

THURSDAY

Romans 2:4 states that that kindness of God leads to repentance—why?

Read first paragraph, “We should notice...” This is well said—it is God’s kindness that leads us to trust Him and repent, turn to Him for healing.

They are so right that God never uses coercion!

Question: what is coercion?

According to the dictionary coercion is: “use of force or intimidation to obtain compliance.”

Hmmm... then what would it mean if God used His power to inflict punishment upon those who refused to repent?

It would be coercion, which would violate the law of liberty, destroy love, incite rebellion and destroy individuality. Thus, we can only have harmony with Scripture and reality when we reject the imposed law that puts God in the role of inflicting punishment and return to design law which has the punishment coming out from the deviation from design and God in the role of healing and saving.

The lesson states in the last paragraph, “human effort can’t bring salvation...”

Why not?

- Because the payment has to be sinless or God won’t accept it?
- Because the ransom price was a sinless life and we don’t have one to give?
- Because God wouldn’t be satisfied and His wrath would not be propitiated without a sinless offering?
- Because we could never procure the remedy for our condition?

2017 Q4 The Book of Romans - Lesson 4

Justification By Faith

To be perfectly honest, I have found this quarterly to be a challenge thus far...and I found this week's lesson to be a challenge. And one of the reasons I feel so strongly about this is illustrated by this letter the ministry recently received:

"Dear Dr. Jennings, Just finishing reading The God-Shaped Heart and have such a sense of relief on the one hand and a sense of being cheated by our church for 77 years not knowing the real character of God. The importance was always placed on a checklist instead of His character. What a relief to know the TRUTH! I'm sharing information about the book with others."

I relate to so much of this - the relief and gratitude and sense of being cheated and sadness for many missed opportunities.

"There is something wrong in Christianity. God's law of love - his design protocols on which reality is built to operate - has been replaced with a fallen human-law construct, and god has been falsely presented as a punishing dictator...and one who needs to be appeased, at the worst, even with the blood of his own son in order to survive His wrath. This idea, above all others, is at the root of Christianity's impotence, its inability to connect to the power of God for real healing and transformation of the heart." The God-Shaped Heart (Jennings, 2017).

And if you had any doubts about if or how deep this infection runs in Christianity, and even in our own denomination...this lesson and this quarterly should provide some evidence.

And if you think this is something new or that the church didn't used to teach how this false law construct and penal substitution theology hardens hearts and prevents real heart transformation from taking place (having a form of godliness but no power), one of the founders of our church describes it this way:

"Today a large part of those who compose our congregations are dead in trespasses and sins. They come and go like the door upon its hinges. For years they have complacently listened to the most solemn, soul-stirring truths, but they have not put them in practice. Therefore they are less and less sensible of the preciousness of truth. The stirring testimonies of reproof and warning do not arouse them to repentance. The sweetest melodies that come from God through human lips—justification by faith, and the righteousness of Christ—do not call forth from them a response of love and gratitude. Though the heavenly Merchantman displays before them the richest jewels of faith and love, though He invites them to buy of Him "gold tried in the fire," and white raiment" that they may be clothed, and "eye salve" that they may see, they steel their hearts against Him, and fail to exchange their lukewarmness for love and zeal. While making a profession, they deny the power of godliness. If they continue in this state, God will reject them. They are unfitting themselves to be members of His family. {CCh 67.3}

The memory text is a familiar one from Romans 3:28:

“Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law.”

What does it mean to be “justified”?

- 1) Having a good, legitimate reason for something,
- 2) show that something is reasonable, right, or true,
- 3) printed on a page so that the letters at the right or left edge form a straight line,
- 4) declared or made righteous in the sight God.

In fact, this is from www.biblestudytools.com:

“Justification is the declaring of a person to be just or righteous. It is a legal term signifying acquittal...”

Accordingly it is not surprising that salvation is often viewed in legal terms. Justification points to the acquittal of one who is tried before God. And in Scripture it is not too much to say that righteousness is basically a legal term. The law that mattered was, of course, the law of God, so that righteousness signified conformity to the law of God...which, of course, it does - but ONLY if you correctly understand God’s law. We’ll talk more about the possible meanings of justify in Tuesday’s lesson.

What about the reference to “the law” in our memory text - which law?

I believe this is talking about the actual, codified moral law - the MRI-ish diagnostic instrument designed to reveal/highlight/pinpoint our disease, but has no power to heal or save.

Why was this Justification by Faith concept so revolutionary - both in Christ’s day and in Martin Luther’s Reformation?

Compared to the Jewish leadership’s corrupt temple practices in Christ’s day and the Catholic Church’s corrupt practices of indulgences in Luther’s day...of course the concept of justification by faith and trust in God alone was revolutionary!

These paragraphs in Saturday’s lesson kind of set the tone for this week’s lesson and kind of give you an idea of where we’re headed:

“The phrase [justification by faith] itself is a figure based on law. The transgressor of the law comes before a judge and is condemned to death for his transgressions. But a substitute appears and takes the transgressor’s crimes upon himself, thus clearing the criminal. By accepting the substitute, the criminal now stands before the judge, not only cleared of his guilt but also regarded as never having committed the crimes for which he was first brought into court. And that's because the substitute—who has a perfect record—offers the pardoned criminal his own perfect law keeping. In the plan of salvation, each of us is the criminal. The Substitute, Jesus, has a perfect record, and He stands in the court in our stead—His righteousness accepted in place of our unrighteousness. Hence, we are justified before God, not because of our works but because of Jesus, whose righteousness becomes ours when we accept it “by faith.”

Talk about good news! In fact, the news can't get any better than that.

SUNDAY

The Deeds of the Law

Sunday's lesson takes a bit of an about face here with what I believe is some very accurate and well-stated analysis of the moral law's functional role and what it was designed to do:

“To be under the law means to be under its jurisdiction – [what is the jurisdiction of the law of love]? The law, however, reveals a person's shortcomings and guilt before God. The law cannot remove that guilt; what it can do is lead the sinner to seek a remedy for it. This [moral] law can't save us any more than the system of Judaism could save the Jews. To save a sinner is not the moral law's function. Its function is to reveal God's character and to show people wherein they fall short of reflecting that character - it is a diagnostic instrument. The law can no more save us than the symptoms of a disease can cure the disease. The symptoms don't cure; they point out the need for the cure. That's how the [moral] law functions.”

MONDAY

The Righteousness of God

At first appearance, Monday's lesson appears to take bit of a sharp turn back toward the penal model, but I want to dig into the Selected Messages quote in the middle of the page. Did this quote give anyone else more than a moment's pause? It says, “Righteousness is obedience to the law. The law demands righteousness, and this the sinner owes to the law; but he is incapable of rendering it. The only way in which he can attain to righteousness is through faith. By faith he can bring to God the merits of Christ, and the Lord places the obedience of His Son to the sinner's account. Christ's righteousness is accepted in place of man's failure, and God receives, pardons, justifies, the repentant, believing soul, treats him as though he were righteous, and loves him as He loves His Son.” —Ellen G. White, Selected Messages, book 1, p. 367.

Then the lesson asks, “How can you learn to accept this wonderful truth for yourself?”

Well, that one kinda threw me for a loop! I'm thinking wait a sec...that sounded like straight-up penal substitution...and I'm thinking wow that does not fit in or coincide with lots of other stuff I've read written by this same author.

So, you know that this ministry has never, ever wanted to tell folks what to think, but simply wants to get people TO think and to learn how to think for themselves. You may also remember a couple of times in this class when Dr. Jennings has walked us step-by-step through the process he goes through when trying to unpack a tough scripture or a tough quote like this. Well, apparently I need a couple more lessons, because when I was preparing for this lesson and read this quote, I sent Tim an email with the subject line that read simply, "HELP!!!" and asked him for some advice on how to walk through this quote using the natural law/healing remedy model instead of the penal model. I found this methodology so helpful, I thought maybe it would be useful for you too, so I want to share with you what he shared with me.

- The first thing to do when confronted with such a quote is to go to the source and read it in context (which makes perfect sense), so here is the quarterly's quote expanded for context:

"Without the grace of Christ, the sinner is in a hopeless condition; nothing can be done for him; but through divine grace, supernatural power is imparted to the man, and works in mind and heart and character. It is through the impartation of the grace of Christ that sin is discerned in its hateful nature, and finally driven *from the soul temple. It is through grace that we are brought into fellowship with Christ, to be associated with Him in the work of salvation. Faith is the condition upon which God has seen fit to promise pardon to sinners; not that there is any virtue in faith whereby salvation is merited, but because faith can lay hold of the merits of Christ, the remedy provided for sin. Faith can present Christ's perfect obedience instead of the sinner's transgression and defection. When the sinner believes that Christ is his personal Saviour, then, according to His unfailing promises, God pardons his sin, and justifies him freely. The repentant soul realizes that his justification comes because Christ, as his substitute and surety, has died for him, is his atonement and righteousness. {1SM 366.3} Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness. Now to him that worketh is the reward not reckoned of grace, but of debt. But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness" (Romans 4:3-5). Righteousness is obedience to the law. The law demands righteousness, and this the sinner owes to the law; but he is incapable of rendering it (this should remind you of another familiar quote...we'll look at it in a sec). The only way in which he can attain to righteousness is through faith. By faith he can bring to God the merits of Christ, and the Lord places the obedience of His Son to the sinner's account. [Keep some of these key terms in mind so we can define and decode them here in a bit] Christ's righteousness is accepted in place of man's failure, and God receives, pardons, justifies, the repentant, believing soul, treats him as though he were righteous, and loves him as He loves His Son. This is how faith is accounted righteousness; and the pardoned soul goes on from grace to grace, from light to a greater light. He can say with rejoicing, "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost; which he shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour; that being justified by his grace, we should be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life" (Titus 3:5-7). {1SM 367.1}

It already sounds better when read in context, right?

Several points—

- God communicates to people where they are
 - just as you would speak and communicate differently to your two-year-old child then you would to your teenage child, right?

Understanding the limits of cognitive abilities, comprehension, and maturity impact what and how we communicate - just as does when dealing with spiritual matters.

- There is one truth, but there are many ways to express it
 - and people at different moral levels are spoken to differently. EGW here is speaking to people here who are still stuck in the false law thinking. Yet she is trying to lead them out of it. Jesus used similar techniques in many of His parables. This all becomes clear when we “decode” some of the key words.
- What are the “merits of Christ”?
 - These are the traits of character, i.e. the perfect character Christ has developed (as stated in DA 762). His new, perfect, human character is the remedy - the character He has promised to reproduce in us! Did you notice early in the quote where sin is being driven from? Not from record books, but from the soul temple, but how? By the application of the merits (which is the character) of Christ! Yet later the quote mentions merits being placed to the sinner's account?

Okay, in heaven what is it that's being recorded in the heavenly records? All of our sinful deeds?

“Remember, your character is being daguerreotyped [photographed] by the great Master Artist in the record books of heaven, as minutely as the face is reproduced upon the polished plate of the artist. What do the books of heaven say in your case? Are you conforming your character to the Pattern, Jesus Christ? Are you washing your robes of character and making them white in the blood of the Lamb? "Behold, I come quickly; and My reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work shall be" [Revelation 22:12]. . . . {TSB

So, when we have faith (trust) in Jesus and open the heart, the Holy Spirit takes what Christ achieved (His merits—His perfect character) and writes or applies it to our hearts and minds (Heb 8 - I will write my law on your hearts and minds).

It is then (and only then) placed to our sinners account - because the only way the records in heaven change is by changing our characters on earth.

Now combine this quote with one of our favorites from DA 762

“The law requires...righteousness, a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God’s holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These (merits!) He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can ‘be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus’.”

- Combine these quotes and you realize that we have remission of sins that are past through the forbearance of God—not through some legal action, thus the pardon mentioned in the original quote is not a legal court action, but the reality that God doesn’t hold our sins against us and never has.
- But our minds have feared this, like Adam running and hiding in Eden - and thus we needed to be reassured that God is not holding it against us and therefore we are told that God pardons us, but only if we are truly healed, because if we refuse to be healed He doesn’t say, “the laws upon which I have constructed life to operate are suspended and you in your fear and selfishness are going to be healthy anyway - he can’t do that!”

Oh my word, I love every bit of that analysis! How much differently does that quote read now?

TUESDAY

By His Grace

The quarterly points out that the word “justify” is built on the same Greek word as “righteousness” - interesting, right? Is it reasonable that a term that means “being set right or right-i-fied” and a term that means “doing right because it is right” could come from the same Greek root word?

The lesson says,

“Hence, there is a close connection between ‘justification’ and ‘righteousness’”, but maybe not for the reasons stated in the quarterly. “We are justified when we are ‘declared righteous’ by God.”

Why do you think the lesson put “declared righteous” in quotes?

In my mind, the account of Abraham’s conversion tells a different story, and we heard a bit of it in the quotes we just read. Abraham trusted or believed God, and it was counted/accounted/imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called the Friend of God.

Look at the order of events! Was he justified or set right when or because God declared him righteous? Or was his natural heart actually converted from distrust (or at enmity) toward God to a heart that trusts and is open to God - as it was originally designed.

And once his heart had been set right...or justified...then - and only then - did God declare him righteous - because he WAS! And because this is a REAL state, not a wink-wink-nudge-nudge “state” - an actual change of heart takes place - it’s not a “declaration”, it’s a real transformation...and because God is not a liar...He will not declare us to be righteous even though we are not.

He will not declare us to be healed and well even though we are still terminal.

Sadly, the quarterly doesn’t stop there:

“Before this justification a person is unrighteous and thus unacceptable to God; after justification he or she is regarded as righteous (whether it’s true or not) and thus acceptable to Him.”

What did God do after Adam and Eve sinned in the garden?

Is a sick patient “unacceptable” to a physician? Or is the disease or illness unacceptable to a physician?

WEDNESDAY

The Righteousness of Christ

Paul further expounds on the great news of salvation in Romans 3:25, using the fancy word “Propitiation”.

What is your first, reflex reaction when you hear the word propitiation?

Although I have now come to believe that the Bible does NOT teach penal substitution, is there any doubt why and how there is so much confusion with all the legal language and terminology used - particularly in Romans and most of Paul's writings?

When you read the Bible, what language do you read it in?

If you read the Bible in English, then there is a translation bias toward legal language. When Constantine converted, Christianity accepted a change in the way it viewed God's law, away from the construction protocols for life and accepted the idea that God's law functions just like laws did in Imperial Rome.

Thus Christianity began seeing God as a legal dictator. ALL BIBLE TRANSLATIONS have been done AFTER Constantine converted. This means the translators, while sincere, all had preconceived ideas about the law being imposed and therefore, when they translated they projected legal language that was not in the original text.

This passage in Romans 3 is a classic example and is a favorite of the penal proponents. Listen to verses 23-25 in the KJV:

“For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God; Being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus: Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God;”

Do you hear how this could sound like a legal problem and solution, with words like justification, atonement, justice, propitiation etc? Of course! This is because of the fact that the translations occurred after the infection of imposed law into Christianity, and also because in English our legal language has a Latin basis. But the Bible doesn't actually present a legal problem with a legal solution, it presents a problem of our actual terminal condition with a healing solution.

The Greek translated as either “sacrifice of atonement” or “propitiation” is the word hilasterion, which is the same word used for the lid to the ark of the covenant. Notice, this is not a legal word, it is a noun - the place of reconciliation - so, Jesus is the means and place of reconciliation or restoration to unity with God.

But when the translators interpreted the word they projected onto it what THEY believed happened at the mercy seat. And what did they believe happened? A legal process of expiation of sin by the sprinkling of blood.

In other words, they already had false ideas about God's law and what the plan of salvation is; believing in an imposed law, they falsely believed the plan was to take care of legal requirements, thus when they interpreted the word they added legal ideas not actually in the text. When one realizes God's law is not imperial, not imposed, but the protocols upon which life is built to operate, then one realizes that humankind is not in legal trouble, but suffering from a condition, a state of being, that is terminal, out of harmony with God's design.

In this light one realizes God's plan of salvation is to heal and restore. Thus, the sprinkling of blood was not for the purpose of taking care of legal penalties, but for the purpose of cleansing and restoring, regenerating and recreating in righteousness.

The lesson couldn't be more obvious – according to Leviticus the life is in the blood– and thus in sprinkling the blood the priests were symbolically sharing the LIFE of Christ. The application of the blood is the pure life, or character of Christ, partaken of by the believer, which regenerates and transforms us.

Here is how this passage in Romans reads in Dr. Jennings' The Remedy paraphrase:

“3:21 But now God has revealed, a healthy state of being – a character that is right and perfect in every way, that did not come from the written code, but is exactly what the Scriptures and the 10 Commandments were pointing your minds toward. 22 This perfect state of being comes from Christ and is created within us by God when we trust him. Our trust in him is established by the evidence given through Jesus Christ of his supreme trustworthiness. There is no difference amongst any ethnic group, 23 for all humanity is infected with the same disease of distrust, fear and selfishness, and are deformed in character and fall far short of God's glorious ideal for mankind. 24 Yet all, who are willing, are healed freely by God's gracious Remedy that has been provided by Jesus Christ. 25 God presented Jesus as the way and means of restoration. Now, through trust established by the evidence of God's character revealed when Christ died, we may partake of the Remedy procured by Christ. God did this to demonstrate he is right and good, because in his forbearance he suspended, for a time, the ultimate consequence of being out of harmony with how he designed life to exist and has been falsely accused of being unfair. 26 So, he did it to demonstrate how right and good he is at the present time, so he would be seen as being right when he heals those who trust in Jesus.”

Can you hear the difference in these two versions of the same scripture?

[Pink Box] Satan, likely, expected God to destroy the world after it sinned; instead, God sent Jesus to save it. What does that tell us about the character of God? How should our knowledge of His character impact how we live?

THURSDAY

Without the Deeds of the Law

Apparently Ellen G. White was asked the question, “What is justification by faith?” She gave an interesting answer when she wrote:

“It is the work of God in laying the glory of man in the dust, and doing for man that which it is not in his power to do for himself.”—Ellen G. White, Testimonies to Ministers and Gospel Workers, p. 456.

Paul’s point is that although obedience to the law is not the means of justification, the person who is justified by faith still keeps the law of God and, in fact, is the only one who can keep the law.

An unregenerate person who has not been justified can never fulfill the requirements of the law. Which law?

Again, the order of events is this: the kindness of God leads us to repentance - the truth about his character of love and His trustworthiness wins us back to trust. When we are won back to trust, our hearts are set right - back to His original design (justification by faith!) - then we open our hearts to him and He pours out his Holy Spirit and we get a heart transplant - He reproduces the perfect character Christ achieved through His life, death, and resurrection in us.

“By His perfect obedience He has made it possible for every human being to obey God's commandments. When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged in His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness. Then as the Lord looks upon us He sees, not the fig-leaf garment, not the nakedness and deformity of sin, but His own robe of righteousness, which is perfect obedience to the law of Jehovah. {COL 311.4}

[REPEATED] And if you wonder if or how this false law construct and penal substitution theology hardens hearts and prevents real heart transformation from taking place (having a form of godliness but no power), one of the founders of our church describes it this way:

“Today a large part of those who compose our congregations are dead in trespasses and sins. They come and go like the door upon its hinges. For years they have complacently listened to the most solemn, soul-stirring truths, but they have not put them in practice. Therefore they are less and less sensible of the preciousness of truth. The stirring testimonies of reproof and warning do not arouse them to repentance. The sweetest melodies that come from God through human lips—justification by faith, and the righteousness of Christ—do not call forth from them a response of love and gratitude. Though the heavenly Merchantman displays before them the richest jewels of faith and love, though He invites them to buy of Him “gold tried in the fire,” and white raiment” that they may be clothed, and “eyesalve” that they may see, they steel their hearts against Him, and fail to exchange their lukewarmness for love and zeal. While making a profession, they deny the power of godliness. If they continue in this state, God will reject them. They are unfitting themselves to be members of His family. {CCh 67.3}

The Faith of Abraham -- Jennings

Last week I spoke at a conference on the Atonement. There were several other speakers there, none of whom advocated for penal substitution. Two of the speakers felt that penal substitution was a metaphor that held value and should be kept in our tent, but all felt it was not the most accurate or helpful understanding.

Jean Sheldon presented incredible historical evidence that the imposed law versus design law conflict goes all the way back to Babylon, and is at the root of the distortions about God.

One speaker presented ideas I had not heard before and which helped me understand new avenues of danger when one separates the three threads of evidence. Science alone risks leading to godlessness, Scripture alone risks confusion (34,000 different Christian groups) and Experience alone not only leads to mysticism, but also risks social justice gospels in which people's experiences are put central and the Cross of Christ is removed. In fact in some of these social justice gospels it is argued that the death of Christ was an interruption to God's plan of salvation and was not necessary for our salvation. Very interesting and important that we are aware of this, because they use the righteous truth of equality in all humans as the avenue to remove the cross... be aware.

SABBATH

Read memory text: "Do we then make void the law through faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the law." Rom 3:31 KJV

What law? Do you hear rules or design law?

What is faith? Trust, confidence, belief? When you understand how God's design laws function does your trust and confidence, belief, faith in God increase or decrease?

How do we establish the law by faith?

The newer translations say we "uphold" the law—how do we uphold the law by faith?

When we understand design law, and we are won to trust then we, in our beliefs, our testimony, our comprehension, our choices and our longings hold to, value, identify with, align ourselves with, side with God's law, thus our lives become living vehicles through which God's law is lived out. We demonstrate, sustain, uphold or reveal that only in harmony with God's design law is their life, health and happiness.

Read third paragraph, "In Romans 4 Paul..." Is this an accurate description of what Paul is teaching?

This is the view one gets when one replaces the truth of God's design law with the lie that God's law functions like imposed human law. So let's clarify it.

1. Does God promise grace? Yes
2. Does there need to be a human response to God's grace by having faith—which is what? Trust? Do we need to have this response? Yes
3. When we trust God does that result in a legal action in which God declares us to be righteous when we are not? No! This is the lie—this belief is based on the lie that God's law is like ours and thus needs a legal pronouncement, which God declares us righteous when in reality we are not. So it teaches God promotes a legal fraud, or fiction, or a lie. So, now we have a god who lies. Further, it teaches Christians that there is no transformation, there is legal declaration—so Christians have a form of godliness with no power.
4. The lesson states this is how it worked with Abraham—is it? No!

What is the problem sin caused the plan of salvation is designed to fix?

- When Adam sinned did God get changed?
- Did God's law get changed?
- Did the condition of humankind get changed?
- What changed in humankind? Love and trust were replaced with distrust, fear and selfishness.

So, in order to restore humankind to unity with God, i.e. save the species, does something need to happen to God? To God's law? No! Something needs to change in the condition of human beings. So notice what the Bible actually says about Abraham:

What shall we say, then, of Abraham, the father of our race? What was his experience? ²If he was put right [which is what? Justified] with God by the things he did, he would have something to boast about—but not in God's sight. The scripture says, "Abraham believed God, and because of his faith God accepted him as righteous." Romans 4:1-2, GNB

What is the natural state of the human heart? Enmity (Rom 8:7), which is distrust of God!

But Abraham now trusted God, or was no longer hostile or distrustful of God; he was no longer against God in his heart—thus Abraham experienced a change in his heart attitude toward God and AFTER this heart change then God recognized him as being right with God, AKA righteous—i.e. justified, i.e. set right, because his heart had changed from distrust to trust. This is true righteousness or justification—there is nothing legal involved.

Read fourth paragraph, "It is crucial to remember..." When you hear the word "salvation," what do you hear? Do you instantly hear "healing"? Or do you hear saving from punishment? And if you have the salvation from punishment idea, from where does the punishment come? Then, in that model from who are you being saved? This is the problem with the penal view it has us setting up beliefs in which we need to be saved from God. It causes a double bind that incites fear and ultimately keeps people separated from God.

What do you make of the undeserving language, if we deserved it we would be owed it and it would be a debt owed us and not a gift.

What law lens do you see this through? This is imposed law language, rights, ownership, indebtedness, earning.

What about design law lens? Does this Romans 13:8 have any bearing on the question?

Let no debt remain outstanding, except the continuing debt to love one another, for he who loves his fellowman has fulfilled the law. Rom 13:8

When Adam sinned, did God love Adam less? Did God's love long for Adam, wanting to save Adam and all humans? Do we deserve this love? Did God love Adam in Eden before sin—did Adam deserve God's love then? Does sinless Gabriel deserve God's love? Do sinless beings "earn" God's love?

This description of undeserving instills a false idea—that we are undeserving because we are sinners, but if we were not sinners then we would deserve it. Hmm... think that through in your love for your children...

So, with this in mind, do we earn the Remedy to our sin condition or is it a complete gift from God and we can never procure it? It is a free gift, that we do not earn, it is totally from God's love for us. And that love flows from God because God is love, not because we are good.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "In this passage, [Rom 3:31]..." What does it mean faith does not make void the law of God?

What law lens are we thinking through?

If you have faith or trust in your doctor, who has a remedy for your otherwise terminal condition, does your faith in your doctor and his remedy make void the laws of health?

If a person was born HIV positive does their obeying the laws of health remedy their condition? No, obeying God's law does not remedy our condition, accepting the Remedy that Jesus procured doesn't do away with the laws upon which life is built.

When we come back to design law all this tension fades away, because the tension between faith and law only exists when we believe in the false imposed law.

Second paragraph asks, “What, for instance, was the entire sanctuary ritual if not a representation of how sinners are saved—not by their own works but by the death of a substitute in their stead?”

Do we believe that Jesus is our substitute and that His life and death and resurrection were a REQUIREMENT for the salvation of humankind? ABSOLUTELY YES!

We believe in Substationary Atonement—but we deny PENAL substitution. IN other words, Christ’s substitution was not for penal, legal, appeasement, payment to God purposes! It was for fixing what sin did to God’s creation!

“God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God.” 2Cor 5:21

The last paragraph states, “Paul sets forth David’s restoration to divine favor as an example of justification by faith.”

Read Romans 4:6-8:

This is what David meant when he spoke of the happiness of the person whom God accepts as righteous, apart from anything that person does:

“Happy are those whose wrongs are forgiven, whose sins are pardoned!

Happy is the person whose sins the Lord will not keep account of!” GNB

So, what do you hear? Those who come to Scripture with the belief that God’s law functions like human law read in legal language, however, is that what is truly being described.

From The Remedy:

David says the exact same thing when he describes the blessedness of the person to whom God bestows his perfect cure without them working to earn it:

⁷“Happy are they whose wicked minds are restored to perfect purity, whose selfishness is eradicated.

⁸“Happy is the person whose infected heart the Lord transforms to perfection.”

Think about it—which brings more happiness—to have an historical or legal record of evil and sin erased, or to have evil and sin removed from the character, mind and heart?

I explore the 51st Psalm in The God-Shaped Heart:

¹Have mercy on me, O God, according to your unfailing love; according to your great compassion blot out my transgressions.

From where do you think David wants his sin blotted out—recorded history or his heart, mind, and character?

²Wash away all my iniquity and cleanse me from my sin.

He realizes something is wrong within his heart that needs purifying.

³For I know my transgressions, and my sin is always before me.

⁴Against you, you only, have I sinned and done what is evil in your sight, so that you are proved right when you speak and justified when you judge.

He acknowledges his condition is terminal and that he cannot run from it; no matter where he goes he carries his sinful self there. God's diagnosis of his terminal condition is perfectly accurate.

⁵Surely I was sinful at birth, sinful from the time my mother conceived me.

He realizes this problem has been within him his entire life. He was born this way, infected with fear and selfishness.

⁶Surely you desire truth in the inner parts; you teach me wisdom in the inmost place.

He understands that what God wants is to heal what is broken in his heart and mind.

⁷Cleanse me with hyssop, and I will be clean; wash me, and I will be whiter than snow.

He acknowledges that only God has the healing solution. Only the Creator can re-create him back to God's original intent.

Notice, that this justification of David is all about healing the inner workings of David's heart.

MONDAY

Read first two paragraphs, "The issue..."

"If one believes that he or she must earn acceptance—that he or she must earn a certain standard of holiness...."

Do you mean like, after I accept Jesus I must quit smoking, overcome my addiction, quit my Sabbath job, stop wearing jewelry etc. before I can be baptized? I must reach a certain standard of holiness before I can become a Christian?

Do we say on the one hand that it is all by grace through faith and we must merely accept the free gift from Jesus, but on the other hand, does the church in practice require sinners to reach a certain standard before they accept them into baptism and membership?

This entire concern evaporates when we come back to understand God's law correctly. If you had HIV infection, or metastatic cancer, would you think: "well if I keep the Sabbath, or eat right, or exercise regularly," or any other work, that by working hard you could cure yourself?

You would immediately accept you have a condition for which you cannot remedy.

The problem occurs when we accept the lie that God's law is like ours and sin is breaking rules that require payment, then sometimes people try to be good so they won't be in trouble with the one in charge.

The lesson states justification is a gift from God—what do you understand justification to be?

Some have been confused about what we teach in here, because I am teaching about setting our hearts and minds right, winning us back to trust and restoring us to Christlikeness, thus some accuse me of making our trust the justifying element. NOT SO!

This is my understanding, point-by-point, see if you agree and if not, where to we diverge?

- Adam & Eve were created perfect and sinless
- They were free moral agents who had the ability in themselves to develop a perfect character by exercising their sinless abilities to choose to be loyal and live in harmony with God and His design
- They instead chose to believe lies, and formed defective characters infecting humanity with fear and selfishness
- Sin did not change God or God's law, but changed the condition of humankind
- Only God could fix what Adam did to humankind—no person born of natural human ability could fix what Adam did to the human species
- Jesus partook of our humanity in order to fix what sin did to His creation
- The species human was set right, fixed, put right, made righteous, also known as justified in the singular person of Jesus Christ
- Christ in His victory becomes the new head of humanity, the second Adam who eradicated the infection of fear and selfishness and restored God's law of love perfectly, developing a perfect human character
- Christ's victory procured the Remedy which is freely available to all individual humans who will accept it
- We as individuals are set right, or justified, when we in heart are won from distrust to trust and fully open our heart to God.

- Then, like Abraham, when we trust God, God recognizes that we are now in a right relationship with Him and pours His Spirit into our hearts and minds taking the perfect character of Christ and reproducing it in us.

Where do we diverge?

Read fourth paragraph, "The sinner must come..." What does this mean?

When I was in California, one theologian asked about the imputed righteousness of Christ, suggesting that the imputed righteousness a legal application to our accounts whereas imparted is what happens in us. He was suggesting my approach denies the legal, elements, which are called imputed righteousness, whereas the healing transformational within us is the imparted righteousness.

Have you heard this before? Let me state this plainly, this so-called difference in imputed and imparted is a difference created by theologians, who see the world through the false imposed law lens. This difference is not real, the reality is that imputed and imparted have the same function, outcome. Two different ways to describe the same process, but perhaps from two different vantage points. Imparted focusing on the recipient, imputed focusing on the attitude of the giver, but both describing something happening in the heart, mind, character of the sinner. Listen to how EGW used imputed:

"But we all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory even as by the Spirit of the Lord" (2 Cor. 3:18). Beholding Christ means studying His life as given in His Word. We are to dig for truth as for hidden treasure. We are to fix our eyes upon Christ. When we take Him as our personal Saviour, this gives us boldness to approach the throne of grace. By beholding we become changed, morally assimilated to the One who is perfect in character. By receiving His imputed righteousness, through the transforming power of the Holy Spirit, we become like Him. The image of Christ is cherished, and it captivates the whole being. {AG 96.4}

Abundant grace has been provided that the believing soul may be kept free from sin; for all heaven, with its limitless resources, has been placed at our command. We are to draw from the well of salvation. . . . In ourselves we are sinners; but in Christ we are righteous. Having made us righteous through the imputed righteousness of Christ, God pronounces us just, and treats us as just. He looks upon us as His dear children. Christ works against the power of sin, and where sin abounded, grace much more abounds. {AG 181.4}

We aim too low. The mark is much higher. Our minds need expansion, that we may comprehend the significance of the provision of God. We are to reflect the highest attributes of the character of God. . . . The law of God is the exalted standard to which we are to attain through the imputed righteousness of Christ. {OHC 364.2}

He would have us comprehend something of His love in giving His Son to die that He might counteract evil, remove the defiling stains of sin from the workmanship of God, and reinstate the lost, elevating and ennobling the soul to its original purity through Christ's imputed righteousness. TMK 206

So what is being affected by the imputed righteousness of Christ? The sinner is being affected. What about the records in heaven? Are they being affected by the imputed righteousness of Christ?

What is recorded in the records?

Remember, your character is being daguerreotyped [photographed] by the great Master Artist in the record books of heaven, as minutely as the face is reproduced upon the polished plate of the artist. What do the books of heaven say in your case? Are you conforming your character to the Pattern, Jesus Christ? Are you washing your robes of character and making them white in the blood of the Lamb? "Behold, I come quickly; and My reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work shall be" [Revelation 22:12]... {TSB 62.1}

So, when we open the heart in trust, the Holy Spirit takes what Christ achieved, His perfect character and reproduces it in us. This is imputing the righteousness of Christ to us, which transforms our character which is recorded in the record books of heaven!

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses on Romans 4:14-17:

⁴ For if those who live by law are heirs, faith has no value and the promise is worthless, ¹⁵ because law brings wrath. And where there is no law there is no transgression.

¹⁶ Therefore, the promise comes by faith, so that it may be by grace and may be guaranteed to all Abraham's offspring—not only to those who are of the law but also to those who are of the faith of Abraham. He is the father of us all. ¹⁷ As it is written: "I have made you a father of many nations." He is our father in the sight of God, in whom he believed—the God who gives life to the dead and calls things that are not as though they were. NIV

What does this mean?

What is Paul saying about law keeping? What cannot come by law keeping? Righteousness, which is being set right, which is healing or recreation into Christlikeness.

Why not?

From The Remedy:

For if it were possible to develop perfect motives, methods and principles by performing rituals or following a certain code, then there would be no need to trust God for his healing power in our lives, and his promised inheritance would be meaningless.¹⁵ The written law or code simply exposes the extent of our sickness of mind and heart which, if not cured, results in death. If it weren't for the written law, we wouldn't even know how sick we are, for without some standard of health to measure by, no defect could be diagnosed.

¹⁶Therefore the restoration to a perfect state of being and the inheritance of eternal life on a renewed earth come by trusting the One who made the promise to do it. This transformation is accomplished by God's graciousness and is guaranteed to all the children of Abraham—not only his genetic descendants who were given the written diagnostic code, but also to his spiritual descendants, who—just like him—trust God. Abraham is the father of all who trust God.¹⁷ As it is written: "I have made you the father of many different ethnic groups." The God in whom Abraham trusted—the Creator God who is the source of all life and who calls things into existence from nothingness—considers all of us who trust him to be descendants of Abraham.

What are the implications for us today? What about the genetic descendants of Abraham today—do they have some other avenue to salvation than Jesus?

What about the promises made to Abraham and his descendants—are those promises to the genetic descendants or to all those who become like Abraham in character—which is only experienced through accepting Jesus?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "As we saw yesterday..." What was the promise?

Jesus is the promise! But what did the promise of Jesus accomplish? How would you describe it?

Simon asked of the panel in California last week, if a person who doesn't believe in Christ asks you "What did Jesus' death do for me? What would you say?"

How about this for a simple answer: Jesus came so that we might be freed from fear and selfishness and live in love being at peace with God and each other.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "We often hear..." Why do people say this? Because they think the law of God functions like human law, and they think the old covenant was a covenant of the people keeping rules—which they failed to keep perfectly. So they are told that the new covenant is Christ, as our substitute, kept the rules perfectly for us, received our legal punishment for all sins ever committed, we are legally accounted as perfectly keeping the rules. Therefore, we don't have to worry about the law or rules any more—because we could never keep them anyway.

But design law resolves all this. We are dead in trespass and sin (terminal) and Christ came and cured this terminal condition and offers us His remedy for free. This free remedy heals us but doesn't change the laws of health, including the moral laws of spiritual health.

Read fourth paragraph, "In the New Testament..." What is true in this paragraph and what is not true?

- Does both the law and gospel appear in the New Testament? Yes
- Does the law show what sin is? Yes
- Does the gospel point to the remedy for sin? Yes
- Is the death and resurrection the remedy for sin? Yes, but I would include Jesus' life before the death also.
- If there is no law there is no sin—true? Yes, but what does it mean? If there are no legal rules there are no legal violations, i.e. crimes, and thus no legal way to warrant punishment? Or, if there are no laws of health then one cannot violate the laws of health? If there is no gravity one cannot jump off a building and be hurt. If there is no law of respiration what cannot drown.
- Only the context of law does the gospel make sense. Does the type of law determine if the it makes sense or if our teachings become nonsense? If we are talking design law things make sense, but the moment we substitute God's design law for human imposed law then all kinds of nonsense emerge.
 - For instance, if we accept the imposed law view, then sin is breaking a rule for which we are in legal trouble. We are on death row, and are in debt to God and His law. Now, notice the non-sense this leads to:
 - The Bible says God forgives us our debts as we forgive our debtors
 - If you owed someone a debt of $10,000 and couldn't pay it, but your brother comes along and pays off the debt for your. Does the person who you owed the money to then turn to you and say: "Now that I have been paid in full, I forgive you your debt"? Can you forgive a debt that has been paid?
 - Or, God is just and therefore God uses His power to kill the innocent so that the guilty can go free.

The false law model causes all kinds of nonsense.

However, design law brings beautiful clarity.

Read last paragraph, "We often..." What is the problem with this paragraph? Again they are arguing from a false law model, and suggest the problem is inflicted punishment.

But design law makes it clear—God could not get rid of His design laws and have the universe still exist. As Jesus said in Matthew 5:18

Here is the simple truth: Heaven and earth would disappear if even the slightest change were made to God's design protocol for life—what you call his Law. I am not here to destroy the Law, but to accomplish everything it requires. The Remedy

Many Christians, who have the imposed law construct believe the law was done away with at the Cross because of texts like Col 2:13,14:

When you were dead in your sins and in the uncircumcision of your sinful nature, God made you alive with Christ. He forgave us all our sins, ¹⁴ having canceled the written code, with its regulations, that was against us and that stood opposed to us; he took it away, nailing it to the cross. NIV

But here is from The Remedy:

When your condition was terminal, when selfishness reigned unchecked in your minds, and when your hearts were tied to the destructive cravings and practices of the world, God intervened and brought you the life-giving Remedy—Jesus Christ. He reclaimed you from your terminal condition, ¹⁴ nullifying the pathology report that certified you as dead in sin; he made it clear that the written code, with its regulations, was only a diagnostic instrument designed to expose our terminal state and teach us the need for a true cure, and he nailed it to the cross. The Remedy

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

November 17,18, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Vallejo Dr. SDA church in California.

January 19,20, 2018: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Tacoma Central SDA Church, Tacoma, Washington.

Sadly, we have had three class members who have had family members pass away in the last several weeks. Our hearts and prayers go out to each one:

- Dean Scott (our board member and Director of Media Production) lost his sister, Valerie
- Linda Ojala (who substitute teaches sometimes) lost her father, Don Wheeler
- George Graves (long time supporter) lost his mother, Mary Lou Graves

Adam and Jesus

Before we even get to the lesson, an online listener Bobby Miskimen posted this on our Facebook page quoting one of the founders of the SDA church, examining our position and previous statements one righteousness by faith:

Righteousness within is testified to by righteousness without. He who is righteous within is not hard-hearted and unsympathetic, but day by day he grows into the image of Christ, going on from strength to strength. He who is being sanctified by the truth will be self-controlled, and will follow in the footsteps of Christ until grace is lost in glory. The righteousness by which we are justified is imputed; the righteousness by which we are sanctified is imparted. The first is our title to heaven, the second is our fitness for heaven. { RH June 4, 1895, par. 7 }

Reading the other quotes provided in the lesson regarding imputed righteousness further clarify what she meant by this phrase.

So, in my mind there is a distinction, but these are merely 2 steps in the same process:

- 1) By God's imputed righteousness, the human heart is restored to its original design (Ezekiel 11:15-21), the good tree is restored (Luke 6:43-45), we are grafted into the vine (John 15:1-5), etc.
- 2) The Holy Spirit, in cooperation with our new heart/spiritual nature, works out the imparted righteousness of sanctification

I would be interested if you agree or not.

Yes I agree, and we could state it like this:

- Imputed righteousness, which is justification, is the righteousness that sets our hearts right, changes the heart from distrust to trust. This would be the act of grafting us back into trust with God
- Imparted righteousness, which is sanctification, is the flowing into the heart of the Holy Spirit who takes the righteousness of Christ and reproduces it in us, thus changing our desires, motives, attitudes to be like Christ.

So, to give confirmation this is what the founders of our church meant, and that imputed righteousness is not this legal fiction taught in the penal view of God declaring someone to be righteous when they are not, but is the actual setting of the heart right from distrust to trust, from the same founder who wrote that imputed righteousness is our title to heaven we read:

The proud heart strives to earn salvation; but both our title to heaven and our fitness for it are found in the righteousness of Christ. The Lord can do nothing toward the recovery of man until, convinced of his own weakness, and stripped of all self-sufficiency, he yields himself to the control of God. Then he can receive the gift that God is waiting to bestow. [Notice the heart must change, this is the title to heaven, the imputed righteousness changing the heart from distrust to trust, then we receive the imparted righteousness with transforms us] From the soul that feels his need, nothing is withheld. He has unrestricted access to Him in whom all fullness dwells. "For thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy; I dwell in the high and holy place, with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite ones." Isaiah 57:15. {DA 300.1}

I read an article in the Adventist World NAD magazine October 2017 edition, which I felt it was important to bring up as the subject is pertinent to this quarter's lessons. I read this article with incredible sadness, the sadness a doctor might feel at seeing a patient riddled with cancer—this article is riddled with the imposed law lie.

The Title of the article is: The Fountain of Every Good: The Paradigm shift we call the Reformation. Laszlo Gullusz Ph.D. p 22

The fresh understanding of the gospel in the sixteenth century brought changes of such an extent that Diarmaid MacCulluch, a well-known scholar writing on the history of the Reformation, summarizes this paradigm shift as "All things made new."¹ Martin Luther's foundational contribution to theology was the recognition that salvation is a free gift of divine mercy, and humans can do nothing to get it except to receive it through faith alone.

This idea was revolutionary, since it stood in sharp contrast to the medieval understanding of salvation in which the concept of merit played a crucial role. Sin was considered to be a problem of being, which needed healing through a process of transformation. [Is this incorrect? Does the Bible not teach we are dead in trespass and sin? That we have carnal natures, that our hearts are selfish, that we need to be reborn, regenerated, recreated, that we are born in sin and conceived in iniquity? Does not salvation actually mean healing, Saved, sodzo in Greek means to heal—so is this idea of sin being a problem of being wrong? But it is put in this article as if it is wrong—and this is the problem with the Penal Substitutionary view it leads people away from the right diagnosis, substitutes a false legal diagnosis and then gives them a religion with a form of godliness but no power.] Consequently, it was believed that salvation was the result of becoming a “holy person by cooperating with grace by all means possible.”² [Is this false? Did Jesus not teach, “be ye therefore perfect as your Father in heaven is perfect?” (MT 5:48) Are we not called to be a holy priesthood? (1Pet 2:5,9) Is the author suggesting that Protestantism actually teaches salvation does not result in becoming a holy person by cooperating with God? What are the options here?

- We become holy on our own;
- We become holy in cooperation with God;
- God uses His power to make people holy without any cooperation;
- We don’t become holy at all;
- God plays a grand fraud and no one becomes holy, God merely pro-claims they are!

This system implied that humans must add their effort to the work of God’s grace in order to achieve salvation, since eternal life came a reward for cooperating with divine grace. [The fault lies in viewing the salvation problem through imposed legal lenses, thus adding our effort is viewed as adding to the healing or saving value of Christ’s achievements; as if Christ’s achievements alone were not enough to save us. The Protestants view is correct to reject any idea that suggests Christ’s achievements alone were insufficient to save humanity, or that any actions on our part adds to what Christ accomplished to save the species. However, they are wrong to suggest that there is no cooperation with Divine agencies for our personal salvation. This is all resolved when we return to Design law. In that reality we understand that Christ, singly and alone put the species human right with God in His own human personhood while simultaneously procuring the Remedy that heals all who trust Him. In other words, the species was put right with God in the person of Jesus, who also procured what was necessary to save individual members of the species, who by faith are connected to, i.e. grafted into Christ, who is the righteous vine. But we must trust Him and cooperate with Him for the partaking of and application of His remedy in our lives. This cooperation does not create the remedy or earn the remedy, it only partakes of the remedy freely provided by Christ. So the Catholic view is that our works add to what Christ has done and our works are necessary for us to merit or be worthy or earn salvation in Christ. We reject this idea. However, the Protestant view that the sin problem is legal and salvation is something declared which does not actually happen within the believer is also wrong and needs to be rejected.] Purgatory, a concept considered the theological foundation for a vast church business in the medieval period (including the payment for salvation by purchasing indulgences), became for the Reformers the symbol of all that was wrong with this view of salvation. [Protestants quite correctly reject purgatory along with anything we do to merit, purchase, or pay for salvation. This idea of purchasing salvation came in because of accepting the false impose law view. And in fact, to be rid of purgatory was one of the main reasons Luther came up with the idea of a legally declared justification. He wanted to take away the power the institutional church had over people with the doctrine of purgatory and thus taught that all sins, past, present and future were placed on Christ and punished in Christ, thus we accept the legal application and are declared righteous and there is no need of purging sins. Protestants are right to reject purgatory, but have erred in continuing to view salvation through the imposed law lens thus making the process a legal one, rather than the healing reality it is] The “theology of the cross” lay at the heart of Luther’s argument, highlighting the centrality of God’s mercy despite human sin, instead of demanding from people virtue as a prerequisite for grace.

The key expression in Luther’s thought is the “righteousness of God” (iustitia Dei). In Romans 1:18-3:20 Paul establishes that argument that all people are guilty, and so the main problem of humanity is facing God’s justice. [Here we see the false law infection clearly. Paul does not teach that all people are guilty, he teaches that all people are sinful, i.e. have a condition of being which is terminal “dead in trespass and sin” (Eph 2:1, Col 2:13) are carnal, which without God’s intervention will result in death. (Rom 6:23, James 1:15, Gal 6:8) Futher, Paul teaches that the sin problem is not God inflicting punishment, but what unremedied sin will do when God stops holding its damaging consequences at bay!] In pre-Reformation theology the “righteousness of God” was equivalent to the punishment by the divine judge. [Again the infection of the impose law view in both Catholic and Protestant theology] Luther challenged this view as the result of his study of Psalms, Romans, and Galatians in the period between 1513 and 1517 while he lectured on these books at Wittenberg University.

Luther established biblically that the iustitia Dei is not to be understood in terms of God’s righteousness, by which God is Himself justified, but as the righteousness by which He justifies sinful human beings. [Yes, this is so, but wrongly taught as a legal accounting rather than the truth of actually setting humanity right with God] Righteousness is a gift from God given for the benefit of humanity. It is a gift by which God declares believers righteous even though they are not in themselves righteous. [Here is the legal distortion, God declaring us to be righteous, even though we are not. Now while it is true that we are not in ourselves righteous, it is not true that we are not righteous when we experience a heart change from distrust to trust. That is righteous, i.e. set right with God. This idea that we are declared righteous even though we are not is a deep lie that keeps millions trapped in a form of godliness with no power].

This new definition of righteousness points to God as “the fountain of every good.”³ [Note, this “new definition,” because it was made up by Luther to counter the abuses of a works system that led to indulgences, all based on the false law construct. Protestants and Catholics alike are both stuck arguing back and forth inside the false law arena, thus neither view presents the true gospel nor the true view of righteousness by faith] The cross reveals “an exuberantly happy God who glories in sharing His happiness. He is not stingy or utilitarian, but a God who glories in being gracious.”⁴ This is revealed in the climactic statement of Paul’s argument for justification by faith in Romans 4:25: “[Jesus our Lord] was delivered over to death for our sins and was raised to life for our justification” (NIV).

Today, however we need an even stronger focus on the Reformation principles of justification by faith. This biblical teaching has the potential to give us a fresh experience of the work of God, the power of God, the wisdom of God, the strength of God, the salvation of God, and the glory of God so needed in today’s secular post-modern culture. Reformation matters, even after 500 years.

So an overview of history:

- Adam and Eve were created sinless with the capacity to exercise their ability to develop perfect sinless character, they didn’t
- Humanity infected with fear and selfishness God intercedes to save humanity
- The Jewish nation was given truth about God to take to the world to bring all the world into a saving relationship with God—however they became legalistic and exclusive, focusing on rule keeping rather than love for God and others—i.e. no heart change in many
- Jesus came and threw off the legal approach to salvation and revealed the truth about God while developing a perfect human character, destroying the devil’s power (lies Heb 2:14), destroying death (selfishness 2Tim 1:9,10) and destroying the devil’s work (effacing the image of God in man 1John 3:8).
- The New Testament church taught that Jesus overcame sin and Satan for humanity becoming the second Adam perfecting humanity and that He accomplished this singly and alone and that no other human being can add to what Christ did to save humanity.
- However, the NT church taught that the saved must partake of what Christ accomplished, and this partaking was a cooperative relationship with God in which the sinner had to make choices to trust God and to follow in their actions God’s methods and designs. Their choosing to do so does not create the Remedy to sin, nor add to what Christ accomplished but is the internalization and participation in Christ’s accomplishment. All of which result in internal transformation of heart and mind—being reborn, circumcision of the heart by the Spirit, having the law written on the heart, having the mind of Christ etc. This is what Paul meant by work out your salvation with fear and trembling, or James that faith without works is dead. It would be like saying faith in your doctor, without taking the remedy he provide is worthless, i.e. doesn't heal.

- The NT church operated upon design law, not imposed law—it was all about healing and renewal
- Then the imposed law lie re-infected Christianity and the idea of renewal of the heart was retained, but legal confusion combined with this and it came to be believed that the healing required legal actions done by both the sinner and the church. Thus the gospel became corrupted to exploit people based on fear, such as the teaching of purgatory and the selling of indulgences, and the idea that one had to act in a certain way or do a certain ritual in order to be saved. Thus human works were blended with the idea of healing to create a false system
- The Protestant reformation threw off the idea of human works providing salvation, teaching instead the reality that the remedy to sin was accomplished by Jesus singly and alone and no human work could add to what Christ has done. However, they simultaneously rejected the idea of sin being a condition of being requiring heart transformation and renewal, thus they have perpetuated a false legal view that has a form of godliness with no power.
- The SDA church was founded to finish the Reformation—to take the good start made by Luther and complete it, which requires that we come back to design law, which eliminates the legal misunderstanding infecting both Protestant and Catholic theologies. Thus, our founders wrote things like this, regarding the cooperation between man and God for salvation, something the Review article above rejects:
- There are two grand forces at work in the salvation of the human soul. It requires the cooperation of man with the divine agencies-- divine influences, and a strong, living, working faith. It is in this way only that the human agent can become a laborer together with God. The Lord does not sanction in any one of us a blind, stupid credulity. He does not dishonor the human understanding, but, far from this, He calls for the human will to be brought into connection with the divine will. He calls for the ingenuity of the human mind, the tact, the skill, to be strenuously exercised in searching out the truth as it is in Jesus... Ye are labourers together with God. {OHC 310.5}

SABBATH

What do you think of from the Title? Do you think of two paths, two directions, two conditions, two inheritances, two outcomes?

- Adam—fear, selfishness, sin—terminal condition that results in death
- Jesus—love, truth, holiness—remedy that cures the terminal condition and results in eternal life

Jesus took up humanity, damaged and terminal by Adam's choice to break God's design thus corrupting the human species, and cured the sin-condition.

Read Memory Text: "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ: by whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God." Rom 5:1,2

What does this mean? What law lens do you hear it through? Do you hear a legal process? Do you hear this: "Therefore, being declared legally innocent, we are no longer under God's death sentence because of the legal payment of Jesus, whom we also have access to God's grace...."

What does justification mean? It means putting right, setting right in actuality, not in legal accounting. In other words, when you justify the margins on your document, you actually move the words that are out of line and put them in line you DON'T leave the words misaligned and then declare you have moved them.

This legal declaration of righteousness is a lie, brought about by accepting the lie that God's law functions like our law and tricks good people into accepting beliefs that not only don't heal, but actually undermine trust in God and therefore injure.

Read first paragraph: "Paul has established..." When they say, "the point that justification, or acceptance with God, comes only through faith..." are they saying that justification and acceptance with God are one and the same?

If so, what are they saying justification is doing? Is it doing something to get God to accept us? In the legal view the problem with sin is not the sinner, it is God's attitude of unacceptance, legal condemnation, rejection, wrath and anger and thus, we need Jesus to pay the legal price to this offended god so that this god will now accept us. This is paganism and we must reject it if we are to come to the knowledge of God and reveal Him to the world.

Genuine justification is setting right that which is wrong or deviant. Human beings, after Adam's sin were wrong, or out of harmony with God and God's design—in a terminal condition. Jesus took up humanity, terminal, dying, and set the human species right, first IN HIS OWN HUMANITY. Jesus is the second Adam, the new head of the human race, thus the species human was justified in the person of Jesus—not by a legal declaration, or legal imposition of punishment, but by a healing act. Just like justifying your margins you actually move the words out of harmony to be in line, Jesus took humanity upon Himself and actually moved humanity back into perfection—back into perfect harmony with God and God's design law of love!

This is true justification. Now, all human beings who trust Jesus can partake of what He achieved, and we are individually justified when our hearts/minds/characters are moved from distrust to trust and in trust we open the heart and receive the indwelling Spirit who takes what Christ achieved and reproduces it in us!

What does it mean the righteousness of Christ alone “is enough to give us right standing with our Lord.”

Again, do you hear this as influencing God; that the problem is God’s unaccepting attitude?

Such views are a result of the false imposed law lens.

With design law, it is true that the righteousness of God makes us acceptable why? BECAUSE God will only accept life, healing, restoration. He will not accept death, disease, decay, pain and suffering. It would be like you if your child had some terminal disease, the only thing acceptable to you is full complete healing and cure. Thus the righteousness of Jesus, which is the Remedy, the perfection of humanity, without it we remain terminal.

So, one of the founders of the SDA church wrote, regarding the robe of Christ’s righteousness and what it means to be covered by that robe of righteousness:

This robe, woven in the loom of heaven, has in it not one thread of human devising. Christ in His humanity wrought out a perfect character, and this character He offers to impart to us... When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged in His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness. Then as the Lord looks upon us He sees, not the fig-leaf garment, not the nakedness and deformity of sin, but His own robe of righteousness, which is perfect obedience to the law of Jehovah. {COL 311.4}

Do you see this is healing, this is not a legal process. In fact, the legal view cheats people from this genuine restoration to righteousness by telling them they are declared righteous even though they are not. We must look higher, expect higher, trust higher, and let God heal our hearts!

Read the next paragraph, “Through the fall of one man...” Do you hear the infection, the lie, the distortion that keeps millions trapped in sin?

This is so deeply imbedding that most Christians don’t even question it.

But what did John the Baptist say about Jesus? Did he say:

- The Lamb of God who takes away the punishment of God for sin?

Or

- The Lamb of God who takes away the record of our sins?

Or did John actually say:

- The Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world?

George MacDonald, 19th Century Congregationalist Theologian and Preacher wrote:

The Lord never came to deliver men from the consequences of their sins while those sins yet remained ... Yet, feeling nothing of the dread hatefulness of their sin, men have constantly taken this word that the Lord came to deliver us from our sins to mean that he came to save them from the punishment of their sins.

This idea has terribly corrupted the preaching of the Gospel. The message of the Good News has not been truly communicated. Unable to believe in the forgiveness of the Father in heaven, imagining him not at liberty to forgive, or incapable of forgiving forthright; not really believing him God who is fully our Savior, but a God bound—either in his own nature or by a law above him and compulsory upon him—to exact some recompense or satisfaction for sin, a multitude of religious teachers have taught their fellow men that Jesus came to bear our punishment and save us from hell. But in that they have misrepresented his true mission. George MacDonald, Discovering the Character of God (Minneapolis: Bethany House, 1989), p. 39

The church cannot finish its mission while taking a pagan concept of God to the world. We must come back to worship Him who made the heavens, earth, sea and all that in them is—the Designer, which requires we reject this false legal view and embrace the truth about God who is love and His law is the law upon which reality is built.

Further, do you notice the false legal view has sins being erased from record books, from history and the historical memory of the universe, rather than sinfulness being erased from the hearts, minds, characters of sinners.

Again, a lie that cheats good people from experiencing healing of their inner being, but instead living in fear of some sin not being confessed and then not being removed from the record books. Or living in fear of someone finding out the history of some sin they committed.

Some have the idea that we won't have any memory or record of the sins of the righteous in heaven because they have been erased from the record books. Hmmm.... think about the following:

- Did David confess his sins and have them forgiven by God? Are they erased from history? Do angels know when we discuss David?
- When the woman washed Jesus feet with expensive ointment and was being criticized Jesus said, "I tell you, her many sins have been forgiven—for she loved much. But he who has been forgiven little loves little." Lk 7:47 NIV84
- Revelation states "And they sang a new song before the throne and before the four living creatures and the elders. No one could learn the song except the 144,000 who had been redeemed from the earth. ⁴ These are those who did not defile themselves with women, for they kept themselves pure.” Rev 14:3,4 –what does this mean? Is it not the song of their experience, thus only they can sing it because only they went through it? But would they have to remember what they went through in order to sing the song?

- In the book Education I read the following: “ "In His temple doth everyone speak of His glory" (Psalm 29:9), and the song which the ransomed ones will sing--the song of their experience--will declare the glory of God: "Great and marvelous are Thy works, O Lord." p. 308 –Would people have to remember their experience in order to sing the song of their experience?

And one of the founders of the SDA church wrote this:

Every question of truth and error in the long-standing controversy has now been made plain. The results of rebellion, the fruits of setting aside the divine statutes, have been laid open to the view of all created intelligences. The working out of Satan's rule in contrast with the government of God has been presented to the whole universe. Satan's own works have condemned him. God's wisdom, His justice, and His goodness stand fully vindicated. It is seen that all His dealings in the great controversy have been conducted with respect to the eternal good of His people and the good of all the worlds that He has created. . . . The history of sin will stand to all eternity as a witness that with the existence of God's law is bound up the happiness of all the beings He has created. With all the facts of the great controversy in view, the whole universe, both loyal and rebellious, with one accord declare: "Just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints." {Mar 346.2}

We will remember, the record books are not erased; our memories of what we went through serve as part of the evidence that provide security from ever being deceived again and markedly enhance our love, confidence, trust and appreciation for God.

It is Satan who wants the records erased, because the records of reality, of truth, reveal the amazing perfection, goodness, righteousness, holiness of God and the evil, corruption and vileness of Satan.

Our personal histories give glory to God demonstrating His goodness in not rejecting us sick in sin, and that His methods when applied to sinners heal, regenerate and renew us back to perfection.

Read next paragraph, “Paul contrasts Adam and Jesus...” Yes—Jesus came to undo what Adam did—which was to the actually fix the condition of the human species, not to perform some legal process.

Yes—Christ is our substitute—in that “he who knew no sin became sin for us [substitution] so that we might become the righteousness of God.” 2Cor 5:21

This is healing, restoration, regeneration, recreation, actually putting right what was not right, which is the condition of the human heart and mind. This is true salvation, justification, and the purpose of substitution—to heal and procure the remedy—perfect sinless human character—which no one born of sinful mother and father could ever do.

SUNDAY

The lesson asks us to read Romans 5:1-5 and then summarize the message, so let's read these verses from The Remedy:

¹Therefore, if our minds and hearts have been set right through trust, we are at peace with God through the Remedy achieved by our Lord Jesus Christ.²It is through Jesus that we know the truth about God and are won back to trust, and thus open our minds to experience God's gracious healing power. Our joy is found in the hope of full restoration into beings possessing Godlike character.³Because of this, we rejoice in our trials and afflictions, for we know that trials bring to light our shortcomings and defects of character.⁴If we persevere, choosing God's methods, the defects are removed and character is purified, and pure character increases our hope for God's kingdom.⁵And our hope will not be disappointed, because God pours out his love into our hearts and thereby matures, ennobles, and restores us into his image by the Holy Spirit, whom he has given to us.

Read first paragraph, “Being justified...”

Does this even make any sense? Remember the analogy of the person who stops brushing their teeth and gets cavities, goes to their pastor and the pastor tells the suffering person that Jesus brushed His teeth perfectly and if they accept Him as their substitute then God will declare them to have perfect teeth even though they don't. They just need to leave believing that their teeth are legally declared by God to be without any cavities. So they leave claiming they believe it, but in just as much pain with just as much decay—and thus trust in God is undermined because their experience contradicts what they are told to believe.

This false penal/legal model not only cheats people out of genuine healing it subtly destroys human reason and intelligence, because people know by their experience that they are hurting, struggling, decaying in heart and mind, yet they are told that despite this God in heaven declares they are perfectly righteous. It creates a terrible disconnect where God operates on some plane of existence disconnected from us—a fantasy island, which causes people to actually distrust God. And thus they create theologies to be protected or hidden from God.

Again, this entire distortion happens because people accept the lie that God's law functions like human law, imposed rules requiring legal imposed punishments, and thus create an entire false theology to deal with the wrong diagnosis.

Read next paragraph, “At the same time...”

“What more glorious news could there be for sinners?” How about the truth—that our condition was cured by Jesus, not punished by God.

So in the view put forth by the lesson:

- Who is punishing Jesus?
- Who is the source of pain, suffering and death?

In this controversy between good and evil, who wants to paint God as the one who causes pain suffering and death?

- In this legal penal view, who do we need protection from? So whose agenda does the legal view serve?

This false view leads to all the theological doctrines that function to hide us and protect us from God, and thus cheats us out of the reunion, the reuniting, the reconciliation, the unity, the at-one-ment God offers us to enter into with Him!

Can you reason out the problems that occur when we teach all sins have been laid upon Christ and punished in Christ?

- Does that mean, Hitler, Stalin, abortionists, who have ended hundreds of millions of lives, thus preventing quadrillions of sins from ever being committed reduced the sufferings of Jesus?
- If some people suffering either many days or all eternity (depending on your view) how could Jesus pay that penalty for all the sins of the world in only a few hours?
- If God forgives us our debts as we forgive our debtors, how is it we say our debt was paid? If someone pays your debt, can the person who received payment then turn to you and say, “now that I have received the proper payment, I forgive your debt”?
- Does this mean that if God were not to use His power to inflict punishment for sin that sinners could live eternally in sin because there really isn’t anything harmful about sin other than God will punish you for it?

From the book Hard Sayings of the Bible published by IVP:

In some sense, God’s wrath is built into the very structure of created reality. In rejecting God’s structure and establishing our own, in violating God’s intention for the creation and substituting our own intentions, we cause our own disintegration. P 542

The human condition, which Paul describes in Romans 1:18-32, is not something caused by God. The phrase “revealed from heaven” (where “heaven” is a typical Jewish substitute word for “God”) does not depict some kind of divine intervention, but rather the inevitability of human debasement which results when God’s will, built into the created order, is violated. Since the created order has its origin in God, Paul can say that the wrath of God is now (constantly) being revealed “from heaven.” It is revealed in the fact that the rejection of God’s truth (Rom 1:18-20), that is, the truth about God’s nature and will, leads to futile thinking

(Rom 1:21-22), idolatry (Rom 1:23), perversion of God-intended sexuality (Rom 1:24-27) and relational-moral brokenness (Rom 1:28-32). P 543

The expression “God gave them over” (or “handed them over”), which appears three times in this passage (Rom 1:24,26,28), supports the idea that the sinful perversion of human existence, though resulting from human decisions, is to be understood ultimately as God’s punishment which we, in freedom, bring upon ourselves. P 543

In light of these reflections, the common notion that God punishes or blesses in direct proportion to our sinful or good deeds cannot be maintained... God loves us with an everlasting love. But the rejection of that love separates us from its life-giving power. The result is disintegration and death. P 543 Kaiser, W., et al., Hard Saying of the Bible, Intervarsity Press, 1996,

From one of the founders of the SDA church:

We are not to regard God as waiting to punish the sinner for his sin. The sinner brings the punishment upon himself. His own actions start a train of circumstances that bring the sure result. Every act of transgression reacts upon the sinner, works in him a change of character, and makes it more easy for him to transgress again. By choosing to sin, men separate themselves from God, cut themselves off from the channel of blessing, and the sure result is ruin and death. {1SM 235.2}

The idea that God must use His power to inflict punishment for sin is Satan’s lie from the beginning. Another quote from the book The Desire of Ages. I like to quote this because it not only is put together so beautifully, but provides historical documentation on how the SDA church used to see it, and exposes how deeply the imposed law lie has infected the church:

In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. When men broke the law of God, and defied His will, Satan exulted. It was proved, he declared, that the law could not be obeyed; man could not be forgiven. Because he, after his rebellion, had been banished from heaven, Satan claimed that the human race must be forever shut out from God's favor. God could not be just, he urged, and yet show mercy to the sinner. {DA 761.4}

But even as a sinner, man was in a different position from that of Satan. Lucifer in heaven had sinned in the light of God's glory. To him as to no other created being was given a revelation of God's love. Understanding the character of God, knowing His goodness, Satan chose to follow his own selfish, independent will. This choice was final. There was no more that God could do to save him. But man was deceived; his mind was darkened by

Satan's sophistry. The height and depth of the love of God he did not know. For him there was hope in a knowledge of God's love. By beholding His character he might be drawn back to God. {DA 761.5} [What do you hear? Lies believed break the circle of love and trust, broken love and trust result in fear and selfishness. Humans had fear and selfishness in us because we believed lies about God, thus truth about God could dispel the lies and win us back to trust, and in trust to receive the perfect character of Christ to restore us to God's ideal. But Satan, having known the character of God—rejected it. He didn't believe lies about God, but preferred selfishness to love, thus revealing truth to Satan doesn't dispel lies and win to trust and therefore there was nothing God could do for him.]

Through Jesus, God's mercy was manifested to men; but mercy does not set aside justice. The law reveals the attributes of God's character, and not a jot or tittle of it could be changed to meet man in his fallen condition. [Why? Because God's law is design law and to change the laws upon which all reality is built would be to destroy all reality] God did not change His law, but He sacrificed Himself, in Christ, for man's redemption. "God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself." 2 Corinthians 5:19. {DA 762.1}

The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26. {DA 762.2}

Do you see the entire healing view based upon Design law here? No legal imposed law construct!

MONDAY

The middle of the states "Romans 5:9 says we can be saved from God's wrath through Jesus. How do we understand what that means?"

Since we have now been justified by his blood, how much more shall we be saved from God's wrath through him! Rom 5:9 NIV84

What does this mean?

What is God's wrath based upon what we just read in Hard Sayings of the Bible on Romans 1? God letting go to reap what sin does when God isn't holding its destructive consequences at bay.

So from The Remedy:

Now that we have been won back to trust, cleansed in mind and set right with God by all that Christ accomplished at the cross, it is ridiculous to think that God would let us go! Rom 5:9

But read the next paragraph and see how the lesson authors describe the meaning of Romans 5:9, “On the eve of their departure...”

So, what do you hear the wrath of God is? What do they describe the blood of Jesus functionally doing? This is paganism, a god who is wrathful and who uses his power to inflict pain and death unless held at bay by the blood of a human sacrifice.

The correct understanding is what the Bible actually teaches, and what we read above—God strives with all His agencies to win His intelligent creatures back to love and trust in order to heal them from their terminal condition, but if they insist on rejecting Him, He will sadly—in harmony with His law (character)—grant them freedom to reap what they have chosen, separation from Him which results in ruin and death. This is God’s wrath, letting them go.

TUESDAY

In the first paragraph the lesson makes an excellent point worth noting—God designed that human beings should live forever. In other words, death was not designed by God, but is an intruder to God’s order.

The lesson asks us to read Romans 5:12 “Therefore, just as sin entered the world through one man, and death through sin, and in this way death came to all men, because all sinned...” NIV84 and then the lesson states, “Commentators have argued more over this passage of Scripture than most others.”

Why?

Read next paragraph, “One point they argue over....” I like how they said Jesus is the only remedy!

From The Remedy:

Therefore, the infection of distrust of God—which deformed humanity's heart and mind with selfishness and fear, and which results only in death—infected the human race when Adam accepted Satan's lies about God and broke trust with him. This infection of fear and selfishness is inherited by all human beings, so all are born infected.

When we come back to Design law all the confusion clears up.

WEDNESDAY

Read Romans 5:13,14:

for before the law was given, sin was in the world. But sin is not taken into account when there is no law. ¹⁴Nevertheless, death reigned from the time of Adam to the time of Moses, even over those who did not sin by breaking a command, as did Adam, who was a pattern of the one to come. NIV84

What does this mean? If it is a legal problem, and there is no law, and then no accountability—then why were people still dying from Moses to Adam? What does this reveal? That sin is not a legal problem, but a condition of being that is terminal without Remedy:

From The Remedy

This is revealed by the fact that before the written law was given, the infection of distrust, fear and selfishness was already present in the world. But this infection of distrust, fear and selfishness is not diagnosable without the law.¹⁴ Nevertheless, even without being diagnosed as infected with this terminal condition, humans still died, all the way from the time of Adam to Moses—even those who did not break a specific command, like Adam did—revealing that the problem is the infected state of our minds and not a legal issue with God. Adam, the first man, being the conduit through which the infection entered humanity, also represents the one man who is the conduit of the antidote that cures all those who accept it.

Read third paragraph, “It is true that...” Do you see any problems here? What?

Who is the punisher according to this paragraph? So what is the problem with sin? Is the problem sin itself, or a god who punishes you for it? And if God is the punisher for sin, then what do we need salvation from? From the punishment of God, so God sent Jesus to be punished—this is the corruption, all based on the false law view, just as George MacDonald described in the earlier quote.

This teaching, right here in this paragraph, is what obstructs the final message of mercy from going to the world, from what some call the work of the 3 angels to lighten the world with the truth about God to prepare for the second coming of Christ.

THURSDAY

The lesson states “As humans, we received nothing from Adam but the sentence of death...” How do you hear this?

Could you state what we received from Adam more accurately?

Read third paragraph, “Look at the opposing...” Yes, Christ came to undo all Adam did—excellent, this is worthy of deep contemplation, let's examine the contrast and understand what it means.

- Death from Adam—life from Christ
 - Why death—what causes death? From where does death originate? Wages of sin, sin when full grown—thus sin comes from transgressing God's design protocols, laws, of life
 - Then where does life originate—in God, and it flows out to all that live in harmony with His laws (designs) so Christ by his death destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light—how?
 - By destroying the infection of fear and selfishness at the Cross and establishing in humanity the perfect character of love, i.e. the law of love the protocol of life!
- Disobedience from Adam—obedience from Christ
 - What does this mean? Adam broke the law upon which life is built to operate and thus his condition became terminal. Christ restored the law upon which life is built and the healed the terminal condition
- Condemnation from Adam—Justification from Christ
 - From where does Adam's condemnation come? From the condition itself, from being fearful and selfish, rather than operating on love, truth and freedom. Where does being set right originate? In Christ's singular victory of overcoming the drive to survive, the fear and selfish temptations with perfect love and thus establishing a new human character, which put humanity back right with God and His design for life.
- Sin from Adam—righteousness from Christ
 - Sin is what? Transgression of the law, or being out of harmony with God's design protocols for life i.e. the law of love. Righteousness is being perfectly in harmony with God and His designs for life, and thus Christ developed a perfect righteous character. Heb 5:8,9 and thus when made perfect became the source of salvation for all who obey him.

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions

The Book of Romans Lesson 8 4Q 2017

Who is the Man in Romans 7?

by Dr. Jennings

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

November 17,18, 2017: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Vallejo Dr. SDA church in California.

January 19,20, 2018: Dr. Jennings will be speaking at the Tacoma Central SDA Church, Tacoma, Washington.

Two weeks ago I had the privilege of speaking at the Arlington TX SDA church and we had a great event, met so many friends who already watch us online, and new friends who heard this message for the first time. We gave away many DVDs and had an extremely positive reception.

I want to thank especially Allen Webber and Alyce Whitten who were integral on helping organize this event and also making me feel so welcome when there.

On a sadder note, one of the people I met there, Heidi Medcalf sent the following email last night:

My best friend, Amber lost 10 of her family members (Holcombe family) in the tragic church shooting last Sunday.

Will you please pray and request ongoing prayer during our Bible study class tomorrow?

In addition, I always like to offer up a praise with every prayer request to God. Through this awful tragedy, we are already seeing God's hand performing miracles. Brian and Carla (Amber's Uncle and Aunt) loved the Lord and lived for Him in everything they did. Their oldest son Scott did not believe in God and did not have a relationship with Him, which is why he was not in church with the rest of the family members on that fateful day. Through this tragedy of losing his family, he said he has never seen so much "love" from others and now professes that Jesus is Lord and though losing his entire family, he now sees.

It has been a very emotional week. In talking to Amber's Grandfather (Pappa) he said the following "I've read the book, I know the story and I know how it ends, and therefore I'm ok. I also asked Amber the following question...."If your family knew that by losing their life, Scott would come to know his Savior and one day they would all be reunited in Heaven together, would they have given their lives so that he could know his Father?? She said YES, 100% no doubt about it. We held each other and thanked our Father who is always working for our good and asked Him to hasten his return.

Thank you again for your beautiful message that God is love, the whole world needs to hear the message and I have faith that they will, soon!!!

*Your sister in Christ,
Heidi*

Dr. Jennings was one of a select group of Christian mental health leaders to be invited to the White House to meet with Donald Trump's staff on Wednesday, November 8, 2017, to discuss mental health, opioid addiction and faith-based initiatives. Other attendees included Tim Clinton, PhD, President of the AACC who helped organize this event, James Dobson PhD who advocated for the importance of healthy families in promoting mental wellness, Daniel Amen MD who advocated on educating young people on brain health, Paul Meier MD, Caroline Leaf PhD, Henry Cloud PhD, and others.

Dr. Jennings had the opportunity to dialogue with these thought leaders, including Pastor Paula White, the President's pastor and friend who was integral in bringing this event about. During the meeting with White House staff the attendees had an opportunity to hear the President's initiatives on mental health issues from a variety of staff, including Kellyanne Conway. Attendees were able to provide direct feedback to the President's staff, discuss potential obstacles to effective mental health treatment and suggest solutions. The President's staff was extremely informative, open, and demonstrated a deep commitment to treating the whole person, mind, body and spirit. The President's staff informed attendees of his personal deep commitment to Christian principles, and the many specific changes he is making to improve mental health care in America.

Specifically President Trump has directed the Department of Health and Human Services to:

- Develop programs to address the opioid crisis to include expanded treatment, expanded court ordered treatment, drug courts, diversion from incarceration to treatment, improved communication with families and involvement of faith-based programs
 - Late October, 2017 the office of civil rights put out guidance that if a person has experience an opioid overdose and was treated in an emergency room that confidential rules did not prevent the medical staff from contacting family to inform them of the overdose. This should improve family involvement in getting those struggling with such addictions into treatment and recovery.
- Focus on early detection and early treatment of serious mental problems (i.e. in adolescence)
- Developing crisis intervention programs to provide behavioral health services on site (in community), rather than the ER or hospital, which would increase family and community involvement in care and stabilization
- Integrating physical health care into the care of those with serious mental health problems and substance use disorders
- Enforcing mental health parity laws to ensure those with mental illnesses get the treatment they need

Additionally, this administration is initiating a national program to train primary care providers to ask about suicide on a routine basis in their offices as most people who commit suicide see a primary care provider shortly before committing suicide, but are rarely asked about suicide at those visits.

The President has initiated an office of innovation which has taken up the task of reforming the prison system in America from merely a system of incarceration and punishment, to rehabilitation and reintegration into society. They are seeking to reduce the financial burden on society by reducing the number incarcerated and also returning those incarcerated back into functional society. They are exploring all options, including improved mental health treatment of those in prison, reducing TBI in youth and teaching the young to care for their brains as research has demonstrated that those in prison are more likely to have some form of brain trauma; and faith-based prison ministries to assist those incarcerated in experiencing transformation of heart motive to get a real new start in life.

Dr. Jennings was very encouraged by the meeting and informed this is the first in what is planned as an ongoing dialogue between the faith community and the White House. Please keep us in your prayers that we can effectively communicate and promote God's healing truths!

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "Few chapters in the Bible..." Why? What causes the confusion? Could it be the assumptions one holds before one goes to the text?

If one conceives of law in a certain way before they read the text will it color how they understand what is being said?

The last paragraph states, "Whatever position one takes, what's important is that Jesus' righteousness covers us and that in His righteousness we stand perfect before God, who promises to sanctify us, to give us victory over sin, and to conform us to the 'image of his son' (Rom. 8:29)."

What does it mean to be covered by the robe of Christ's righteousness?

Why does covering us with the righteousness of Christ cause us to stand perfect before God?

- Does the description above sound like we are standing perfect before God before we are actual perfect before God—why would we need sanctification if we are perfect before God?
- And what kind of a trick is going on if we are somehow able to get God to believe we are perfect, yet we are not perfect? What kind of a God wouldn't know that?
- This confusing description, which is written to bring hope, yet instead causes doubts, is based on misunderstanding God's law, and therefore teaching the robe of Christ righteousness is a metaphor that teaches a legal accounting process rather than a healing and transforming experience in the believer.

Here is one view from the book Christ's Object Lessons, do you agree with this view or prefer a different one?

This robe, woven in the loom of heaven, has in it not one thread of human devising. Christ in His humanity wrought out a perfect character, and this character He offers to impart to us. ... When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged in His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness. Then as the Lord looks upon us He sees, not the fig-leaf garment, not the nakedness and deformity of sin, but His own robe of righteousness, which is perfect obedience to the law of Jehovah. p. 311

Do you agree? So when does the Lord see us covered with the robe of righteousness—before or after we have been healed in heart and mind?

What would it mean then if we teach people the metaphor is a declaration of being seen as perfect before God BEFORE we are healed within? It means we are cheating people, we are leading them to believe a system of lies and falsehood that has a form of godliness, but has no power. This false view leads people to believe they need to have their sins hidden from God—why? Because the legal view has God as the source of inflicted punishment for sin.

In the book above, what was described was healing—nothing legal going on here, it is all about restoration, recreation to righteousness.

SUNDAY

Read Romans 7:1-6:

Do you not know, brothers—for I am speaking to men who know the law—that the law has authority over a man only as long as he lives? ²For example, by law a married woman is bound to her husband as long as he is alive, but if her husband dies, she is released from the law of marriage. ³So then, if she marries another man while her husband is still alive, she is called an adulteress. But if her husband dies, she is released from that law and is not an adulteress, even though she marries another man.

⁴So, my brothers, you also died to the law through the body of Christ, that you might belong to another, to him who was raised from the dead, in order that we might bear fruit to God. ⁵For when we were controlled by the sinful nature, the sinful passions aroused by the law were at work in our bodies, so that we bore fruit for death. ⁶But now, by dying to what once bound us, we have been released from the law so that we serve in the new way of the Spirit, and not in the old way of the written code. (NIV84)

Why does Paul use a legal analogy? To whom was he writing? What is the point?

“By dying to what once bound us, we have been released from the law...” What once bound us?

- sin, selfishness, fear, survival drive
- our carnal natures
- lies we believe
- guilt and shame

So, verses 4-6 from The Remedy:

Therefore, your selfish, fear-ridden heart died when you accepted the truth revealed by Christ's death, and you received a new heart from him who was raised from the dead, in order that you might grow in character—to be like Jesus—and live to honor God.⁵For when we were controlled by the infection of fear and selfishness—which resulted from distrust—the destructive passions revealed by the law were ravaging our bodies, we were terminally ill and spreading death wherever we went.⁶But now, as we die to the distrust, fear and selfishness that once bound us, the law no longer diagnoses us as infected and terminal. In fact, the law now confirms that we have a new heart—not by observing rules, but created within by the Spirit. We are now healthy and loving like Jesus.

First paragraph states, “The Jews had difficulty grasping the fact that this system, given to them of God, should end with the coming of the Messiah. This is what Paul was dealing with—Jewish believers still not ready to abandon what had been such an important part of their lives.”

Did the system of animal sacrifices, circumcision of the body, feasts provide salvation?

Did a person have to participate in that system to be saved?

- Naaman
- Shunammite woman
- Nebuchadnezzar
- Good Samaritan
- The Woman at the Well

Why were the Jews not ready to abandon the system that was such a part of their lives? Was it because they ascribed a value to that system that the system did not actually possess?

What about those who hold to the penal/legal model? Do they have difficulty letting it go? Why? Do they ascribe a value to it that it does not actually possess?

Read last paragraph, “Again, given all else that Paul...” What is the importance of the Bible Sabbath?

What law lens do you see it through?

If we say the Sabbath is an arbitrary test of obedience, that God declared it to be holy and unless he decrees a different day it remains holy by decree—what type of law are we promoting?

What is the importance of the Sabbath? Is it a test of obedience or a gift for some reason?

The Sabbath was made for man not man for the Sabbath—what is its purpose?

What does it do? What makes it holy?

How did the Sabbath as a day of rest come to exist? It was created that way!

What was associated with the creation of the Sabbath? What was happening in the universe during the creation of planet earth?

What do days 1-6 of Creation week reveal about God? that he is powerful

What do we learn about God on day 7? the character of the one who holds the power, truth presented in love but leaving His intelligent creatures free!

So, what is the importance of the Sabbath? It was given to man, man was not given to the Sabbath, so what was it given to man for?

The Sabbath is evidence of God's character of love, and His methods of governing, truth presented in love while leaving his intelligent beings free! The Sabbath declares every week that God runs His universe on Design law. This is why we are to REMEMBER the Sabbath—think, remember—what? God as Creator and His laws as the laws upon which reality are built.

How did Sunday become an official day of worship? By legislative vote—what type of law is this?

So, the two days of worship stand as evidence of two methods of governing or two types of law (design versus imposed)—the days themselves are not the two methods or laws, but are evidences of two methods or laws.

What is the flag of the United States? It is a sign or symbol of the United States of America—is the flag the USA? No, it is only a sign. Can a person carry the US flag in combat, but be fighting for the enemy?

If we teach the Sabbath is an arbitrary test of obedience are we representing the truth about God's design law or imposed law? Imposed law, thus we are promoting the Sabbath as a mark for the beastly system of coercion.

Can someone keep Sunday as their day of worship, yet present the truth about God as a God of love and His design law as His method of governing?

C. S. Lewis taught this idea in the last book of the Chronicles of Narnia series when he describes a Calormene soldier named Emeth and his encounter with Aslan the lion. Emeth was a worshiper of Tash and as a result was terrified when he came face to face with Aslan:

I fell at his feet and thought surely this is the hour of death, for the Lion will know that I have served Tash all my days and not him.

But Aslan's response?

Son thou art welcome. But I said, alas Lord I am no son of thine but the servant of Tash. He answered, Child all the service thou hast done to Tash I account as service done to me.

I questioned the Glorious One: Lord, is it then true that thou and Tash are one? The Lion growled and said, It is false. Not because he and I are one, but because we are opposites, I take to me the services which thou hast done to him. For I and he are of such different kinds that no service which is vile can be done to me, and none which is not vile can be done to him. Therefore if any man swear by Tash and keep his oath for the oath's sake, it is by me that he has truly sworn, though he know it not, and it is I who reward him. And if any man do a cruelty in my name, then, though he says the name Aslan, it is Tash whom he serves and by Tash his deed is accepted.

Emeth questions once more:

Lord, I have been seeking Tash all my days.

Beloved, said the Glorious One, unless thy desire had been for me thou shouldst not have sought so long and so truly. For all find what they truly seek.¹

Is it primarily about the day—or is it about the heart, mind and character of the person to be like Jesus?

In addition to the Sabbath being an evidence of God's design law, how are we to relate to it? According to Isaiah it is to be called a delight, a day of celebration, rejoicing, rest and gladness—really the Sabbath is supposed to be a weekly vacation from the stressors of this sinful world—to set aside our burdens and relax—to rest and rejuvenate.

Imagine you went to your favorite beach resort to relax on vacation, but when you got there it was taken over by terrorists and you were held there against your will—how relaxing and enjoyable would your vacation be?

When we present the Sabbath an arbitrary test of obedience, as a day of restriction of liberty, a day in which we can't do this and can't do that, a day that if you do the wrong thing it will go against you in the heavenly courts, we misrepresent God's law, God's character, undermine trust and destroy the purpose of the Sabbath to be a day of rest and gladness. Thus, we can observe the right day and crucify the Lord of the day.

So the lesson is correct, Paul is not doing away with the Sabbath or the 10 Commandments—he is doing away with the legal understanding of sin and salvation and putting the Commandments in their proper place, a diagnostic instrument. So, if the Sabbath is not a day of rest, joy, rejuvenation, recovery—if the Sabbath is a day of fear, insecurity, worry about whether you did this or that, then the Commandment reveals there is still healing to do in your heart—for perfect love to come in and cast out all the fear and self-referenced thinking about God and the law.

MONDAY

The lesson asks if the 10 Commandment law was done away with at the Cross?

Read Romans 7:7-11 from The Remedy:

What shall we say then? Is the law evil and selfish because it increases the amount of evil and selfishness we see? Absolutely not! I would not have known what evil and selfishness looked like if it wasn't for the diagnostic efficacy of the law. I would not have realized that coveting was evil and selfish if the law didn't say, "Don't covet."⁸ But selfishness, taking advantage of the fact that the law is only a diagnostic instrument—and not a Remedy—magnified every covetous desire within me. For apart from the diagnostic ability of the law, sin is unrecognizable.⁹ Once I thought I was healthy and free from the infection of distrust, fear and selfishness, but then the commandment examined me, exposed how utterly infected I was, and diagnosed me as terminal.¹⁰ I discovered that the very commandment given only to diagnose my condition I had unwittingly attempted to use as a cure, and thus my condition only worsened.¹¹ For selfishness, taking advantage of the fact that the commandment could only diagnose and not cure, deceived me into thinking that I could be cured by working to keep the commandments; but instead, my terminal state only worsened.

What was the problem the Jews had with the law? They thought it could function as a cure—but it was only given to help expose or diagnose what was wrong.

Read fourth paragraph, “Thus, Paul explains...” What do you think of the lesson’s definition of sin: “sin is a violation of the revealed will of God...”?

Can you find this definition in Scripture? What definitions can we find in Scripture?

- sin is the transgression of the law 1Jn 3:4
 - Which means what? Deviating from God’s design
- everything that does not come from faith is sin. Rom 14:23
 - Which means what? Lies believed break the circle of love and trust resulting in fear and selfishness—which is deviant from God’s design of love.

Thus both definitions are about breeching God's design protocols of love.

What about the definition that sin is the violation of the revealed will of God?

- After the 70 year captivity what was God's revealed will? To return to the Promised Land
 - Did Esther and Mordecai return to the Promised Land? Were they sinning?
- What was the revealed will of God in regard to whether Israel should have human kings?
- Did God come to change His will on this?
- Who chose their first two kings?
- Was God helping them sin?

What do you think of the new definition of sin? It is based on authoritarianism i.e. seeing God as a dictator, God said it, you better do it, or it is sin.

We must come back to design law, and then realize it is about the motive of the heart.

- Were either Moses or Abraham sinning when they argued against the reveal will of God?

Read the next paragraph, "In Paul's line of argument..." So how did Christ fulfill the law? What law? How do you understand it?

If the law is like human law then Christ fulfilled it by taking our punishment, but if the law is Design law, Christ restored the design protocols back into humanity and destroyed the deviations that cause death.

- Which view do you find more consistent with how reality works?
- Which view leads you to have greater trust in God?
- Which view undermines trust in God?
- Then which view do you think Satan would support?
- Which view is the common view in the world today?

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Because the Jews revered..." This is well said!

Read third paragraph, "Carnal means 'fleshly...'" How does Christ free us from the slavery to sin?

Slavery takes our freedom—how does sin take our freedom? Is this a legal slavery, or an actual condition of being?

Read Romans 7:14-20 in The Remedy:

We know that the law is consistent, reliable and reasonable; but I am inconsistent, unreliable and unreasonable, because the infection of distrust, fear and selfishness has warped my mind and damaged my thinking.¹⁵I am frustrated with what I do! For having been restored to trust, I want to do what is in harmony with God and his methods and principles; but I find that even though I trust God, my old habits, conditioned responses, preconceived ideas and other remnants of the devastation caused by distrust and selfishness are not yet fully removed.¹⁶ And if I find an old habit causing me to behave in ways that I now find detestable, I affirm that the law is a very helpful tool revealing residual damage in need of healing.¹⁷ What is happening is this: I have come to trust God, and I desire to do his will, but old habits and conditioned responses—which present almost reflexively in certain situations—have not yet been totally eliminated and thus cause me to do things I do not want to do.¹⁸ I know that my mind was completely infected with distrust, fear and selfishness, which totally perverted all my desires and faculties, so that even when distrust has been eradicated and trust has been restored, the damage caused by years of distrustful and selfish behavior has not yet been fully healed. So, I find that at times, I have the desire to do what is right, but do not yet have the ability to carry out the desire.¹⁹ For the old habits and conditioned responses are not the good I want to do: No! They are remnants of my selfish, unconverted mind.²⁰ So, if I find myself doing what I no longer desire to do, it is not myself that acts, but the vestiges of old habits and conditioned responses that have yet to be removed. And through God's grace, they will soon be removed.

What kind of freedom is being described?

If we focus on a legal model, then what would the experience of the person struggling in Romans 7? Wouldn't it be by cycles of guilt, fear of punishment, seeking legal payments and erasure of records. But what is being described is the reality of a person whose heart has been renewed, but even though the heart is renewed, they haven't yet made Christlike living the automated practices of their life.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Using the law as a mirror, the Holy Spirit convicts a person that he or she is displeasing God by not fulfilling the requirements of the law."

What does this sound like? Does this sound very childlike—"you broke the rule and have to go to the principal's office—you're in trouble now!"

Why is God displeased? Is he displeased because we break his rules, that this somehow disrespects him and offends his holiness? Or, is he displeased because breaking his law is breaking the protocols upon which our life and health depend and he is quite unhappy to see those he loves injured and dying?
