My view is that this is not an interruption but an application of the reality of Christ's ministry as our High Priest. Christ is the individual through whom God connects heaven and earth and through what Christ accomplished God destroys sin and restores righteousness in the species human. Thus Paul is saying here that he would love to discuss more of the details of the mechanics behind what Christ had to accomplish in order to save us, but these people are not capable of understanding it, so until they can assimilate, apply and grow in the truths they already have it is no use to go into greater detail.

Another way to say it is this way. It is pointless to explain to someone the surgical techniques in doing a liver transplant to save them from liver cirrhosis, when they still haven't comprehended the need to quit drinking alcohol. Or, if they have comprehended the need to quit drinking alcohol and they believe if they quit drinking then that is all that is needed to restore their liver to perfect health.

The point is, that Paul is explaining what Christ had to accomplish in order to save humanity from sin. The species was saved in the person of Jesus who became a real human being and lived a sinless life and overcame every temptation and developed a sinless human character. Thus in the individual human personhood of Jesus the species created by God in Eden and damaged by Adam and Eve was saved, healed, perfected, restored and exalted to the throne in heaven.

If no other individual human being ever accepted Jesus, the species was still saved in the person of Jesus. But because of God's goodness, grace, love, and what Christ actually achieved, every human being is offered salvation—the option to choose life in Jesus and reject death, to choose to receive from Jesus the Holy Spirit who takes Christ's victory and reproduces it in us. This requires that we are first won to trust—justification—have the heart set right with God, and second it necessarily results in sanctification, the healing, maturing, and growing up in Christ.

Paul is saying that if you accept Jesus, have been won to trust, have experienced the joy of His love and presence, the freedom from guilt and shame, and knowledge of what salvation means, but then you refuse to grow, to mature, to develop and instead choose to live the same immature and destructive patterns of behavior you will harden your heart, and eventually cut yourself off from life because salvation isn't a legal issue it is a healing issue.

Now, let's look at the Scripture and see it spelled out by Paul. Note what Paul writes just before 5:11, we start in 5:8:

> Although he was a son, he learned obedience from what he suffered and, once made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him [He became a real human being, and as a human being had to choose to obey or disobey. He chose to say no to every temptation and to live out God's design law of love perfectly. In so doing, He became perfect or was made perfect. Remember, Bible perfection is about maturity, not sinlessness. Adam and Eve were created sinless, but they chose to become imperfect and sinful. Jesus was born of a woman under the law of sin and death Gal 4:4, with a humanity subject to temptations like us. But because His Father was the Holy Spirit He had no preference for the temptation. Thus, in the human brain, mind, heart of Jesus He was able to develop with His human strength, by trust in His Father, a perfect, mature, sinless human character. Once He did this, He became the source of salvation—meaning the source of truth to destroy lies and the source of a sinless humanity to replace our sinful one that we inherited from Adam. He is the vine and we are the branches that are grafted in through faith or trust and receive the indwelling Spirit who takes what Christ has achieved and produces it in us. So, after He accomplished this mission, He is then enabled, equipped, possessed what is required by reality to save and therefore can enter into the role of our high priest to minister or administer His righteous character to us through the Spirit, note what Paul says next] and was designated by God to be high priest in the order of Melchizedek. [He only became our high priest in the order of Melchizedek after He developed a perfect human character, the remedy for sin. Without destroying the infection of fear and selfishness in the species human, without restoring God's living law of love into humanity, Jesus would not have had what reality required be administer or minister to us in order to save us, thus He would not have been able to enter the role of our high priest. So, again Paul doesn't interrupt a theological discussion, he is expounding on the reality of the application of what Christ achieved for our salvation.] We have much to say about this, but it is hard to explain because you are slow to learn. [Paul would have liked to explain it more, describe more of the details of what Christ actually achieved, but they were not ready to understand it and had he gone into deeper detail it would have no doubt caused confusion. Thus he couldn't. Jesus said something similar to His Apostles "I have much more to say to you, more than you can now bear" (Jn 16:12).] In fact, though by this time you ought to be teachers, you need someone to teach you the elementary truths of God's word all over again. You need milk, not solid food! Anyone who lives on milk, being still an infant, is not acquainted with the teaching about righteousness. [What is being said here? Have you heard about a teaching called righteousness by faith? Paul is saying if we are immature, still on infant formula we are not acquainted with the teaching about righteousness. What is the elementary stuff? He tells us in 6:1 it is repentance from acts that lead to death—in other words the law, the deeds, the dos and don'ts, the penal legal way of viewing salvation that focuses on behavior, or legal declarations that declare that you are righteous when you are actually not > righteous; all of this is not acquainted with what righteousness truly is. Real righteousness is what we become through the victory of Jesus 2Cor 5:21. This is what the mature understand—that God is the Creator of reality, that God's laws are the protocols reality operates upon, that sin transgresses those protocols and takes one out of harmony with God and life, and that salvation requires restoration to unity, at-one-ment, harmony with God and His law. Jesus accomplished this for us and all who trust Him receive from Him a new heart with His law of love as the motivating factor. Then we grow up in Him.] But solid food is for the mature, who by constant use have trained themselves to distinguish good from evil (vv.8-14 NIV84) [This is the law of exertion, choosing to think, reason, pursue truth, apply truth, having real experiences in which we test with careful application and observation of cause and effect the outcomes of our choices. We learn that claims, proclamations, statements of authority are not truth, but must be tested and we develop the ability, by understanding and living in harmony with God's design laws, the capacity to see through the lies, to tell the difference between the right and wrong. So many though, remain immature, they don't know how to reason, to think, to discern, and they look for an authority to tell them the answer, whether it is the pastor, priest, teacher, parent, doctor, CDC, FDA, president, or judge—some authority must tell them the answer. And if the government says you must violate another person's conscience then they respond with, "we must obey the law unless it violates one of God's laws" which they consider to be rules. So these immature people will support the government mandates to violate another person's conscience—a most heinous crime in God's eyes. When they hear protests from fellow church members they cannot figure it out for themselves because there is not a Bible verse that says "thou shalt not accept injected genetic therapeutics into your body" so they look for another authority figure, like their pastor, conference president etc. to tell them the answer. And when a church committee comprised of paid employees, with no actual authority to formulate a position for the church, releases a document declaring that forced injections are not a religious liberty issue, then the immature believe the voices of authority and go along with the unrighteous practice of coercion and compelling power.]

SUNDAY

Read Hebrews 6:4-6:

> "It is impossible for those who have once been enlightened, who have tasted the heavenly gift, who have shared in the Holy Spirit, who have tasted the goodness of the word of God and the powers of the coming age, if they fall away, to be brought back to repentance, because to their loss they are crucifying the Son of God all over again and subjecting him to public disgrace" (Heb 6:4–6 NIV84).

What does this mean?

What law lens do you read it through?

This is a very troubling text for people who read Scripture through the human law lens, the idea that God's law functions like human law—imposed rules requiring legal enforcement.

Haven't we all, after coming to Christ and being converted, and experiencing the joy of salvation at some later point fallen short, committed a sin, even a known sin, knew it was wrong but did it anyway?

If the mind is thinking through the human law lie then this text is often taken to discourage and incite fear—fear of having committed the unpardonable sin. Fear that they had their one change and blew it.

How would you explain this text to someone who is struggling with it?

Design law makes it very simple. Paul is merely saying that if someone has partaken of Christ and experienced the restoring, rejuvenating, healing presence of the Holy Spirit and later chooses to reject Christ and the Holy Spirit, there is no other cure, remedy, or solution available. And because the person had come to Christ, but later leaves Christ, it breaks Jesus heart again via a new rejection of Him. Paul is not saying that an act of sin rejects the Holy Spirit or Jesus. It is what we do after the sin, do we go to Jesus, are we repentant, are we sick in heart because that is not the person we want to be and we are more committed to Jesus afterward? Or do we run from Jesus, to we refuse to go to Him because we prefer the sin and cling to the selfishness, or anger, or desire for revenge or whatever else that we need to release in order to reunite with Jesus. It isn't about the act, it is about the attitude of the heart!

Here is how I rendered it in The Remedy:

> "It is impossible for those whose minds have been enlightened with the truth about God–those who have tasted the goodness of heaven, who have participated in the Spirit of truth and love, who have experienced how good are God's ways and the revitalizing power of the future age–to be restored to health and God's original ideal if they reject all this, for they reject the only Remedy, and no other cure exists. Their loss pierces the heart of God all over again as they spurn his never-ending love" (Hebrews 6:4-6 REM).

Read the second paragraph "To 'have tasted…'" What do you think of the idea of "gift" of God "may" refer to God's grace, or the Holy Spirit?

Jesus said that when He went to His Father He would ask the Father to send the Comforter, the Holy Spirit to them. So there is no doubt that the Holy Spirit is a gift from God.

The book The Desire of Ages states it this way:

> "The Holy Spirit was the highest of all gifts that He [Jesus] could solicit from His Father for the exaltation of His people." DA 671

So realizing that the Holy Spirit as a gift from God is quite right. But, to me neither God's grace nor the Holy Spirit are what Paul is referring to here. What is the purpose of God's grace? What is the office work of the Holy Spirit? What does the Holy Spirit actually do for sinners? So, in my view Paul is referring to is THE GIFT—what God gave to humanity for all eternity—For God so loved the world He gave His only begotten Son! Jesus is the gift that God has given us.

It is Jesus that we are to taste:

- "Taste and see that the LORD is good" (Ps 34:8).
- Jesus was the Word made flesh John 1
- We are to eat the flesh and drink the blood of Jesus (John 6:53-58)

Jesus is the gift, that once we have tasted, partaken and if we later reject, there is nothing left that will cure, save, or heal us from sin.

Jesus is the gift that is given to humanity for all eternity. The office work of the Holy Spirit to convict of sin, to enlighten us, to draw us, to transform us, to take what Christ has achieved and reproduce it in us. The need for the Holy Spirit to do this goes away, the purpose of this gift is resolved, thus the Holy Spirit doesn't carry out these functions for all eternity—but Jesus remains human—gifted to us for all eternity.

> The Holy Spirit was the highest of all gifts that He could solicit from His Father for the exaltation of His people. The Spirit was to be given as a regenerating agent, and without this the sacrifice of Christ would have been of no avail. The power of evil had been strengthening for centuries, and the submission of men to this satanic captivity was amazing. Sin could be resisted and overcome only through the mighty agency of the Third Person of the Godhead, who would come with no modified energy, but in the fullness of divine power. It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer. It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature. Christ has given His Spirit as a divine power to overcome all hereditary and cultivated tendencies to evil, and to impress His own character upon His church. DA 671.2

MONDAY

Read third paragraph, "When the religious leaders…" Hmmm… have they mixed issues? Do you see anything in this paragraph that causes you concern, depending on what is meant?

Specifically, does the gospel challenge the sovereignty and self-determination of the individual?

This is where I think they mix issues, the gospel does challenge our sovereignty but it does not challenge our self-determination.

Sin is selfishness—Satan sought to rise up, to rule over, to become sovereign over God and others. Those actuated by the satanic spirit will likewise be motivated by the desire to rule over others—we see this throughout human history. All human governments have a few ruling elites exploiting the masses for the benefit of the few.

The gospel challenges this and establishes God as Creator as sovereign and His methods of love as the only means of rulership. Those who rule in God's kingdom are the ones who serve others the most—God being the source of life for all living organisms, and the source of life-sustaining energy for the entire universe is the one who serves others the most and thus is the Most High.

God does not gain power, wealth, ability or anything else from us. We gain from Him and in return we recognize this and praise and love Him for it. And when we love like He does we rejoice in giving what God has given to use to uplift others and we become conduits of His kingdom of love as we love others and live to bless others in our world.

But the ways of the world are the ways of taking from others to uplift self. These are human governments. It is shocking to me how many Christians are deceived into believing human governments are righteous, or it is righteous to trust human governments. All human governments are part of Satan's kingdom. They all serve Satan and ultimately are used by him to war against the people of God.

But the next point is the question of self-determination—who, in God's design, in harmony with God's law, is supposed to determine what you choose and do, who you trust, what actions you take? Are we to be puppets that God controls? What is the last fruit of the Spirit? Self-control—when God has His way in our lives He frees us from the control of fear and selfishness and restores liberty, autonomy, self-control to us so that we can be self-determining agents living out God's law of love.

In fact, we cannot fulfill God's purpose for us if we are anything less than self-determining individuals, for God's purpose for us is that we love Him with all our hearts, minds, souls and strength and if we cannot to that if we are not free to determine this for ourselves—computers, robots, puppets cannot love.

TUESDAY

Read Hebrews 10:26-29:

> If we deliberately keep on sinning after we have received the knowledge of the truth, no sacrifice for sins is left, but only a fearful expectation of judgment and of raging fire that will consume the enemies of God. Anyone who rejected the law of Moses died without mercy on the testimony of two or three witnesses. How much more severely do you think a man deserves to be punished who has trampled the Son of God under foot, who has treated as an unholy thing the blood of the covenant that sanctified him, and who has insulted the Spirit of grace? (Heb 10:26–29 NIV84).

What does this mean?

What law lens do you understand it through? Is a legal process being described?

The lesson states: “Paul explains that the rejection of Jesus’ sacrifice will leave the readers without any means for the forgiveness of sin because there is no other means for that forgiveness besides Jesus.”

Is the problem with sin that God won’t forgive, and we need the blood of Jesus in order for God to forgive us?

Did Jesus need a payment made to Himself in order for Him to forgive those who were crucifying Him? Did Jesus reveal a character, method, law, principle different than that which is true about the Father? Then did God need something done to Him to get Him to forgive?

Will God be unforgiving toward those who refuse Christ or will God be completely forgiving, desirous, longing, willing for the wicked to enter the gates of Jerusalem? Will the wicked be kept out of the heavenly city by God or will they be kept out by their own refusal to be reconciled to God and the pain and suffering that sin causes them when God unveils His life-giving glory?

Will God be upon His throne with unforgiveness in His heart? Will He refuse to forgive those who have rejected Him or will they die of sin with God’s forgiveness just like Judas died with Jesus’ forgiveness?

Where is the barrier between God and sinners? Is it in God? Is it in God’s law? Is it sin in human beings?

Then what is the mission of Jesus—is it to do something to God or God’s law, or is to do something in the human species—to fix the sin problem that corrupts us?

So getting God to forgive us has never been the problem. The problem for human beings is two-fold; 1) we needed a person who is part of this creation, a descendant of Adam, a human to be sinless and to become perfect and mature in character restoring God’s living law into the species and 2) we needed to be individually won to trust so that we can receive the new heart and right spirit reproduced within us.

This is what Hebrews is describing, Jesus work to leave heaven, though fully God, and become human with a humanity damaged by sin, a little lower than the angels, but to overcome and perfect humanity, restoring humanity back to sinless righteousness and then ascend to heaven with the remedy He procured and begin administering it to us through the work of the Holy Spirit—symbolically taught as our heavenly High Priest.

But all these truths get muddied and obscured by the infection of imposed law with its legal language and word choices brought over through the various translations. One example in the passage we just read is translating the word “sin” as “sins,” “no sacrifice for sins” leads a person think of deeds, behaviors, acts—which Paul already said in 6:1 is immaturity and in 5:13 not acquainted with righteousness.

If we translate the passage as "no sacrifice left for sin" or "sinfulness," either one, it leads our minds to consider the condition of sin, rather than the symptoms of that condition, which are the acts of sin.

The Greek can be translated either way—it is a choice of the translator to use sins versus sin or sinfulness. Because the idea of God's law being imposed became orthodoxy under the Roman Church, it has never really been questioned and the translators when they translate see the Bible through this warped legal lens.

So, under design law, Jesus is the Remedy, if one rejects Jesus the only Remedy then there is no other remedy left to cure our condition, it is very simple.

Here is how I rendered it in The Remedy:

> "If we deliberately reject the truth about God and his loving, life-promoting methods, and instead — after God sacrificed everything to bring us this healing truth — continue to practice self-destructive methods, no further remedy remains: only the inevitable consequences of unrestrained selfishness — the total destruction of character, perversion of mind, and abject panic and fear when God unveils his life-giving glory which transforms the righteous but consumes the wicked. In the symbolic stage play — which was designed to reveal the truth about God and his plan to heal — anyone who rejected the script of Moses was terminated from the group on the testimony of two or three witnesses. How much more certain will the agonizing death be for those who reject the Son of God (the only Remedy for our terminal condition), who treat as poisonous the healing truth that his death revealed, and who reject God's Spirit that enlightens the mind with this life-saving Remedy?" (Hebrews 10:26-29 REM)

The lesson states in the second paragraph, "The sin for which there is no sacrifice or atonement is described as trampling underfoot the Son of God, profaning the blood of the Covenant, and outraging the Holy Spirit (Heb 10:29).

What do you think of their choosing to describe the Holy Spirit as outraged? This is the word used on the NRSV and ESV, but the KJV uses "despised," the NIV, GNT, NET use "insulted" or "insults."

Does it send a different meaning to consider the Holy Spirit as outraged versus despised or insulted?

I used the word "rejects" which is functionally what happens. The Spirit is the Spirit of truth and love, those who reject Jesus, are rejecting the truth from the Spirit of truth, they are resisting and rejecting the activity, work, function, and impact of what the Spirit does. The Spirit brings truth to the mind, convicts the soul and leaves us free, when we choose to surrender and open the heart, the Spirit brings the victory of Christ, the love of God, the divine energy of the Most High to heal, restore, recreate, enlighten, guide, develop, transform, mature. But if we reject the truth, we close the heart and we treat both Christ and the Spirit as dirt, something worthless to be trampled beneath our feet and there is nothing more God can do for us.

WEDNESDAY

Read Hebrews 6:9-12:

> Dear friends, even though we speak of the pain of loss, in your case, we are confident of all the benefits that are part of God's healing plan. God is not arbitrary or unjust: he knows full well how much you love him by the work you have done in helping his people. We want each of you to continue to diligently practice love and beneficence to the very end, and your healing will be sure. Don't let your guard down and become lazy, but be like those who through constant trust and patience experience healing of the mind and the promises of God. (Hebrews 6:9-12 REM)

They shall know we are Christians by our….:

- Supreme Court appointments
- Elected officials
- Our mask wearing
- Our enforcement of government mandates upon others in order to save lives
- love

But what does love look like? How does it function?

What about telling noble lies? Does love do this?

What are noble lies—the lies that are told for the right reasons, to help others.

Example: Telling people the injections given for COVID are vaccines and if we get enough people injected we can stop the disease, we can get herd immunity, we can prevent sickness and spread. This was known to be a lie from the very beginning by those in charge of the development of these injections, by the FDA, by the CDC and yet they purposely mislead the people because they knew if the people understood these injections will not prevent infection, reinfection or spread, that they only provide less than 1% absolute risk reduction to hospitalization and death, with no known long term safety that the acceptance of them would be diminished. So, we are told by certain people, that this was a noble lie because, supposedly, it was told with the intention to save lives and reduce disease.

The problem is that it denied individuals the opportunity to think, evaluate, consider the real potential benefit versus the potential risks, and instead led people to make choices based on a false expectation. Further, it prevented people from developing their own reasoning and thinking skills, and has caused and continues to cause division and conflict in families, communities, churches, and society at large. No—love doesn't function this way.

What is the reason people would treat others this way—tell so-called noble lies? Because they view others as being inferior, dull, stupid, incapable of understanding, being foolish, less wise than those in power or leadership and thus they are at best like ignorant little children who need the wise to lie to them to get them to do what the wise want.

The Holy Spirit is the Spirit of truth and love. Satan attacks God and God's methods and principles from all angles. If he can get people to reject both truth and love and fully embrace lies and selfishness he will. But if he cannot do that, then he tricks many into separating the attributes of the Spirit into either truth without love or love without truth.

Truth without love are those religionists who hold to "the truth" and it may or may not be correct doctrinal facts, but the promotion of these "truths" are devoid of love so that enforcing truth is paramount even to the point of abusing others, ridiculing, condemning, and even killing those who disagree with them. The Pharisees did this with Jesus and their various doctrinal truths. Many Christians have fallen into this trap.

But there is a ditch on the other side, in which people will advance love devoid of truth. Love is replaced with over-empathy, emotionalism, sentimentalism—we love therefore we don't want to offend, we don't want to say anything that would hurt someone's feelings or cause someone to experience pain, so we tell everyone all their choices are equally fine—it is their truth after all. This is the trap of collusion with harm and of denying truth. And love doesn't do this.

The enlightened Christian has their heart renewed by the Spirit and advances truth in love while leaving others free.

THURSDAY

What do you think of when you consider the imagery of Jesus as an anchor for the soul?

Hebrews 6 focuses on the promises given to Abraham, which is the promise of his Seed coming to save humanity.

> God did this so that, by two unchangeable things in which it is impossible for God to lie, we who have fled to take hold of the hope offered to us may be greatly encouraged. We have this hope as an anchor for the soul, firm and secure. It enters the inner sanctuary behind the curtain, where Jesus, who went before us, has entered on our behalf. He has become a high priest forever, in the order of Melchizedek. (Heb 6:18–20 NIV84).

What does this mean? What is the imagery of the veil or curtain?

In the theater of the OT sanctuary, the daily priests in their white robes represent the priesthood of believers with the character of Christ reproduced within them.

The Holy Place with the lamp, table of bread and wine and golden altar represent the church. The lamp is the living and written Word of God that shines out into the courtyard, the courtyard represents the world, the lamp gives light into the world. The bread and wine also represent Christ, His sacrifice to save us, and the golden altar represents the hearts of believers where incense was burned and went up before God representing the prayers of the saints.

On Sabbath the daily priests (believers) would enter the Holy Place (church) with the High Priest (meeting with Jesus) and eat the Showbread (word of God).

But, as a daily priest, who longs to have closer intimacy with God, who, like Moses, wants to see God face to face, you look back to the Most Holy Place where the shekinah is, and something obstructs your view of God, what?

A veil—and what is sewn on the veil—angels—what does this represent?

What happened to the veil? It was torn open by God when Jesus was crucified. It is the only element of the theater that God destroyed, and that element was an obstacle that kept the people from entering into God's presence. What is the obstacle that obstructs our view and unity with God and that God destroys in Christ to open the way back to unity with Him?

Hebrews 2:14—"Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death--that is, the devil"

Now, if we reject the design law view, and embrace the imposed law view, we teach that the veil is Jesus' body and that God struck Jesus down at the cross but then we must also conclude that Jesus is the obstacle in the way of our unity with God that the Father had to remove. But of course, that doesn't make any sense at all.

God did not lay a hand on Jesus at the Cross, God was in the Son reconciling the world unto Himself. It was Satan and Satan's power that was struck down at the cross, and that was the very moment the veil was torn thereby opening the way back into God's presence for us.

Thus the veil represents Satan's two powers, which angels help us with, but angels could not destroy or open the way back for us. Those two powers are:

- lies about God, which Jesus destroyed
- our carnal nature, which Jesus also destroyed

2 Cor 4:3,4 alludes to this also: "And even if our gospel is veiled, it is veiled to those who are perishing. The god of this age has blinded the minds of unbelievers, so that they cannot see the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God."

What is it that veils the mind and keeps people from seeing the "light" of God? The lies of Satan. And in the old system what kept people from seeing the "light" of the shekinah glory of God? The veil inwrought with angels, which was destroyed by God at Christ's death. Thus the veil represents the lies Satan has told about God and our own sinful nature which separate us from Him, and both were destroyed by Jesus.

Hebrews 10:19,20 states "Therefore, brothers, since we have confidence to enter the Most Holy Place by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way opened for us through the curtain, that is, his body."

Thus, Jesus body refers to both the new and living way through the curtain, the obstacle, the barrier, which are the lies and our fallen nature both of which HE destroyed opening the way back to God.

2022 1Q In These Last Days: The Message of Hebrews
Lesson 8: Jesus—The Mediator of the New Covenant

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "By living a perfect life…" What about this sentence, "Through His death, Jesus canceled the penalty of death that our trespasses demanded…?"

I want to commend them for not saying "Jesus paid the death-penalty our trespasses demanded." Perhaps this new wording is a move in the right direction, but could you word it more accurately?

What law lens are we reading it through?

Why is death the penalty for sin? From where does the penalty of death come? What does the Bible text mean that reads, "The sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law?" (1 Co 15:56 NIV84).

What is the power that causes death for someone who puts a plastic bag over their head? Is it not the law of respiration—when you break that law life ceases. Sin takes us out of harmony with the law that God built life to operate upon and thus the power that results in death is the law. The law is the law of life, it doesn't cause death, it is the breaking of the law that does. However, because the law cannot be changed to meet the sinner in sin, it is the power that causes the result.

This is different than imposed law. Imposed law like speed limits. The power that causes the penalty for speeding is not the law—it is an external enforcer who gives and citation and imposes a fine.

But in God's government, which runs on design law, the power that causes death is the law itself, being out of harmony with it results in death. God doesn't have to act to inflict pain, suffering or death—sin does that. God has to act to suspend the consequences to give time for people to be restored to harmony with the law.

Imagine someone jumps off the Empire State Building—the power which will cause their death is not enforced from a state agency, even if it is against the state's law to jump off the building. The power that enforces the death penalty is the laws of gravity, physics, and health. These are design laws.

In this analogy, the human race in Adam and Eve were on the top of the Empire State Building. Satan comes flying by in the form of an flying serpent and says, "Did God say in the day you jump you will surely die? Oh, no you won't. God knows in the day you jump you will gain the ability to fly and will be like Him so He is trying to keep you down. Look at me. I can fly and you can be even greater than me." So they jump, and for a second they are thrilled, until they realize they are going only one way, then they are overcome with fear. At that moment God steps in and suspends them in midair and gives them the option of having Him put them in through a window. As Paul said in Romans, "God left the sins committed beforehand unpunished (Romans 3:25). But what happens if people refuse to allow God to place them back in harmony with the law? If they say leave me alone God and they are being suspended in midair? God eventually withdraws His hand and lets them have what they insist upon, and what happens? They die, from what cause? That is the reality of the sin problem and how God uses power—always to save and heal, never as the source of death.

So, did Jesus come to cancel the penalty of sin, or to take away the cause of that penalty?

What did John say, "Look, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world! (Jn 1:29 NIV84)? Not, "the Lamb of God, who takes away the penalty for the sin of the world."

This idea of paying penalties, or canceling penalties, or removing penalties is all based on the wrong understanding of law, of God's government, of God's character, of the nature and character of sin and misunderstanding reality.

Death is the unavoidable result of unremedied sin—of the condition of being out of harmony with God and His law of life. No penalty has to be paid or canceled, what has to happen is the condition which causes death has to be resolved, remedied, cured, fixed, removed—thus Jesus takes away the SIN of the world, not the penalty. But once the sin is removed, the penalty is avoided. Acts of sin do not have to be punished—that is Satan's view, the sin condition has to be eradicated, purged, or removed.

The second paragraph, quoting from the SDA Bible Commentary, reads "In the original context this phrase described moral obedience to the will of God. The author of Hebrews uses the phrase to show that the sacrifice of Christ fulfilled the will of God in providing an acceptable atonement, which the animal sacrifices had not provided." (Vol. 7, p. 460).

What does this mean? What makes the atonement acceptable?

What is God's purpose in sending Jesus to be our Savior, to be our atoning sacrifice? To save from sin—okay, but what is the problem that sin caused that Jesus' life, death and resurrection resolves? Is the problem with God or God's law? No! The sin problem exists, occurs, functions, operates within the species human—sin changed the species and corrupted humanity with a death condition that had to be removed.

Jesus partook of our humanity, infected with this death condition and destroyed the death condition and restored God's life condition becoming the source of salvation for all who trust and obey!

Thus, the atonement is acceptable because it accomplishes exactly what God sent Jesus to accomplish, to restore the human species back to at-one-ment with God. Jesus is the restoring agent, the unifier, cleanser, healer, reconciler and this is quite acceptable to God because it achieves what God intended for Jesus to achieve.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "According to Hebrews…" Was Jesus perfect life, death and resurrection part of a different covenant or the fulfillment of the covenant promise given to Adam in Eden in Genesis 3:15—that the seed of the woman would crush the serpent's head?

What is the New Covenant and what is the Old Covenant? Is the New Covenant actually new or is the writer of Hebrews introducing it to the Hebrew people who should have, but didn't, know about it, thus it is only new to the Hebrew understanding?

So, when we talk about two covenants and old and new, one covenant better than the other, the better one is the original one, the one God promised Adam and the one God reaffirmed to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. The idea of the New Covenant being the second covenant is not about when in the history of the human race that the two covenants occurred, but when in the history of Israel the two covenants were established.

Abraham's covenant with God was the same covenant as Genesis 3:15, the promised seed would come and provide salvation. It was at Sinai that the people established a different covenant that in their mind became the first covenant, the only one they knew about. In their history the prophets told them a different covenant would be established and that occurred when Jesus, a Jew, accomplished it. Thus to them it became known as the new covenant, but it was still the fulfillment of the original covenant in Genesis 3:15.

Consider this quote from Faith I Live By:

> As the Bible presents two laws, one changeless and eternal, the other provisional and temporary, [What are these two laws? If one is changeless and eternal what type of law is this? If one is provisional and temporary what kind of law is this? And why would God use a provisional and temporary law? Where do the 10 Commandments fit in? Are they eternal and changeless or are they provisional and temporary? They are an expression of the eternal and changeless law of God, but the ten commandments in that form were added as a temporary provision or tool based on the need of sinful humanity.] so there are two covenants. [What are the two covenants? One based on eternal law—design law, one based on imposed law—temporary provisions. Why? What was the reason for the temporary covenant? Education and protection to lead to the true covenant. What is the eternal covenant?] The covenant of grace was first made with man in Eden, when after the Fall, there was given a divine promise that the seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head. To all men this covenant offered pardon, and the assisting grace of God for future obedience through faith in Christ. It also promised them eternal life on condition of fidelity to God's law. [Why is fidelity to God's law a condition of eternal life? Because God's law is design law—the law upon which life is built. We cannot have life without God's law being restored as the operating protocol upon which we live.] Thus the patriarchs received the hope of salvation. {FLB 77.2}
> This same covenant was renewed to Abraham in the promise, "In thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed." Gen. 22:18. This promise pointed to Christ. So Abraham understood it, and he trusted in Christ for the forgiveness of sins. It was this faith that was accounted unto him for righteousness. The covenant with Abraham also maintained the authority of God's law. [What does this mean? The only way to save sinners was to restore the law of life into humanity, thus the covenant or agreement that God would send Jesus to accomplish what we could not, the eradication of the death principle and the restoration of the law of life—and we, if we trust God, can receive from Him a new heart and right spirit, healing and restoration to life—His law written into our inmost being.] The Lord appeared unto Abraham, and said, "I am the Almighty God; walk before me, and be thou perfect." The testimony of God concerning His faithful servant was, "Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes, and my laws." Gen. 17:1; 26:5. . . . {FLB 77.3}

The Abrahamic covenant was ratified by the blood of Christ, and it is called the "second," or "new," covenant, because the blood by which it was sealed was shed after the blood of the first covenant. {FLB 77.4} [What does this mean? What law lens do you hear it through? The old covenant of symbols and rituals designed to teach was put into effect with the symbolic shedding of animal blood. But that system and that animal blood could not cleanse consciences or remove sin from hearts and minds, it was only a teaching tool. The promise of God, the covenant of grace was given in Eden, but Jesus didn't fulfill the promise until 2000 years ago. It was His sinless life, being tempted in all points like us, but overcoming with His human abilities and dying on the cross to destroy the infection of fear and selfishness, and restoring into humanity God's law of life, that fulfilled the promise. Another way to say this, is that Jesus' victorious life and death made effective, operational, a reality God's promise given in Eden. Thus it was ratified by the blood of Christ.]

The covenant of grace is not a new truth, for it existed in the mind of God from all eternity. This is why it is called the everlasting covenant. {FLB 77.5}

There is hope for us only as we come under the Abrahamic covenant, which is the covenant of grace by faith in Christ Jesus. The gospel preached to Abraham, through which he had hope, was the same gospel that is preached to us today. . . . Abraham looked unto Jesus, who is also the author and the finisher of our faith. {FLB 77.6}

Consider this quote from Patriarchs and Prophets:

The sacrificial offerings were ordained by God to be to man a perpetual reminder and a penitential acknowledgment of his sin and a confession of his faith in the promised Redeemer. They were intended to impress upon the fallen race the solemn truth that it was sin that caused death. [What were the sacrifice of animals intended to remind people of? That sin causes death—but what has happened instead? It is taught that God kills for sin, not that sin causes death. How could this happen?] To Adam, the offering of the first sacrifice was a most painful ceremony. His hand must be raised to take life, which only God could give. [What do you hear described? Whose hand killed the first sacrifice? According to this author it was Adam—yet many of the penal legal adherents point to God providing coverings of skin for Adam and Eve and suggest God killed the first animal. The Bible never says any such thing.

> And this author correctly points out that Adam killed the first sacrifice.] It was the first time he had ever witnessed death, [This author eliminates another possibility that some penal/legal adherents might suggest. Well, sure Adam killed the first ritual sacrifice, God didn't have to confess sins on an animal and kill it like Adam. So he did the first sacrificial killing, but God killed the first animal and provided coverings to demonstrate that God would kill Jesus to provide the robe of righteousness. This author refutes that as well as Adam's sacrifice was the first death he had ever seen. There was no death in Eden before Adam's first sacrifice. Reject the lies of the penal legal theologians.] and he knew that had he been obedient to God, there would have been no death of man or beast. As he slew the innocent victim, he trembled at the thought that his sin must shed the blood of the spotless Lamb of God. This scene gave him a deeper and more vivid sense of the greatness of his transgression, which nothing but the death of God's dear Son could expiate. [What does this mean? Does it mean pay a legal penalty? No, it means take away the damage or result of his sin—only Jesus' death could remove the death condition and restore the life condition. What was the purpose of the sacrifice—to teach reality that sin causes death, not God, but God so loved that He would sacrifice Himself to destroy death and bring life and immortality to light.] And he marveled at the infinite goodness that would give such a ransom to save the guilty. A star of hope illumined the dark and terrible future and relieved it of its utter desolation. PP 68.1

So the old testament sacrifices were merely teaching tools to help lead us to participate in the covenant of grace. What did Satan do about this powerful object lesson?

Consider this quote from Prophets and Kings:

> In patriarchal times the sacrificial offerings connected with divine worship constituted a perpetual reminder of the coming of a Saviour, and thus it was with the entire ritual of the sanctuary services throughout Israel's history…. [Again, what was the purpose in the sacrifices in both patriarchal times and Israel? A perpetual reminder of sin and our coming Savior to save us from sin.] PK 684.4
> From the day the Lord declared to the serpent in Eden, "I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed" (Genesis 3:15), Satan has known that he can never hold absolute sway over the inhabitants of this world. When Adam and his sons began to offer the ceremonial sacrifices [what kind of sacrifices? ceremonial, no saving power in them] ordained by God as a type of the coming Redeemer, Satan discerned in these a symbol of communion between earth and heaven. During the long centuries that have followed, it has been his constant effort to intercept this communion. Untiringly has he sought to misrepresent God and to misinterpret the rites pointing to the Saviour, and with a great majority of the members of the human family he has been successful. PK 685.1 [God provides a ritual, an acted-out type or symbolism that is designed to enlighten, to teach, to lead, to convict of sin, to instill hope in the Messiah, to represent the link with Jesus; and Satan works to corrupt this lesson, to undermine these truths, to pervert its power to free minds from sin and guilt. How? What did Satan do?]

> While God has desired to teach men that from His own love comes the Gift which reconciles them to Himself, [What is the sacrificial system supposed to teach? That God so loved the world He sent His Son to voluntarily give Himself as the means to fix the sin problem and bring us back into eternal loving communion with God.] the archenemy of mankind has endeavored to represent God as one who delights in their destruction. [How? How could Satan take the symbolism that God had provided to teach us of His love and twist it in such a way that people think God delights in their destruction?] Thus the sacrifices and the ordinances designed of Heaven to reveal divine love have been perverted to serve as means whereby sinners have vainly hoped to propitiate, with gifts and good works, the wrath of an offended God…PK 685.2 [How did Satan do this? By getting people to accept the lie about God's law, that it is imposed, and thus sin requires punishment and God is the ultimate punisher and the sacrifices are misinterpreted as means of paying or propitiating and offended God. This is what penal substitution theology does—it mispresents sin as a legal problem and God as the enforcer of the universe.]

Read second paragraph, "The issue with the old…" Correct, the ceremonial, symbolic system could not cleanse from sin, it could only teach the reality of Jesus who can cleanse from sin. Is that how it is taught?

MONDAY

The second paragraph states, "The issue with the old covenant was that the people broke it." What are your thoughts on this? What did the people do that broke it?

What is a covenant? It is an agreement—what did the people do that broke their agreement with God?

Could it be that they broke the agreement by taking responsibility for something that was not theirs to do?

In the covenant agreement with God that saves sinners from sin? What is God's responsibility in the covenant and what is ours?

Whose responsibility is it to:

- Overcome sin?
- Live a sinless life?
- Crush the serpents head, thereby destroying him who holds the power of death that is the devil (Heb 2:14)?
- Destroy death and bring life and immortality to light (2Tim 1:10)?
- Reveal the truth about God perfectly (John 17:4, 6)?
- Destroy the devil's work (1John 3:8)?
- Be the connecting link between sinners and God?
- Reconcile all things whether in heaven or earth to God?

- Write God's law fully, completely and perfectly into the living temple of a human heart and mind?
- Heal and restore all sinners who trust God?

What is the responsibility of human sinners in the covenant?

- To trust God to do all of this, open our hearts, and humbly listen, be instructed and choose what He convicts us in our lives to do—i.e. follow and cooperate with His treatment plan for our life.

But what did the Israelites take responsibility for? For keeping the law, for living in harmony with the 10 Commandments etc.

So their failure wasn't merely in breaking rules, it was in misunderstanding the entire problem and what God would do and what they needed to do.

TUESDAY

Read first two paragraphs, "The Greek…" I like this—I agree—Jesus is the one who accomplishes God's purpose in saving the species human. He did this singly, alone, without any aide, assistance, strength, support from other humans to in some way enable Him to accomplish this. He became a real human and redeemed Adam's fall.

Jesus fulfilled God's purpose in both saving humanity from sin, but also in having humanity fulfill God's intention for our creation before human sin. God's intention were many for humanity:

- to be friends with God
- to be the pinnacle of creation
- to share in godly attributes of dominion—leadership and creation—having children
    - Some may wonder why Jesus didn't marry and have children. Because Jesus came to restore God's creation to sinlessness. Jesus as God creates and He creates sinless beings. Jesus could not as a human pro-create sinless beings because His partner would be a sinner and thus He would reveal a falsehood, that God's plan for humans was to procreate sinners. When God creates it is flawless and God's intention for Adam and Eve in Eden was to have sinless children. Jesus could not participate in that aspect of the human experience because no sinless woman existed.
- to reveal truths about God in their living out God's laws in their leadership of love and their having children

Jesus restores humanity back into unity, friendship, with God so that human beings can live in harmony with God and fulfill God's purposes for our creation.

And He simultaneously made available salvation for all other human beings who choose it.

Read third paragraph, “Christ’s death makes the institution…” I really liked the first two paragraphs we just read, but I am not as thrilled about this one. When they say “it satisfies the claims of the first covenant” are the referring to the old covenant at Sinai? But didn’t we already determine there has only been one covenant in reality, the covenant of grace, and the old covenant so-called is the Israelites is not the covenant of grace? And at Sinai the people took responsibilities to fulfill or accomplish that which was never theirs to accomplish as part of the agreement with God?

So, I don’t understand what they mean by the idea that Jesus, by fulfilling the claims of the first covenant He is able to institute the second covenant? Does that make sense to anyone?

What legal obligations did Jesus take upon Himself? They declare this, but what are these legal obligations?

What does the law of God require?

What law lens do we answer through?

Imposed law—it requires punishment, penalty, legal adjustments.

Design law—it requires restoration to the protocols for life.

So there is an aspect of fulfilling what the law requires, but it is not legal in the common meaning of that term. The legal aspects come from Satan’s lies about God’s law being imposed.

So here are some quotes from EGW—consider what she is describing that the law requires, these are just a small sampling:

> The law requires righteousness,--a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Rom. 3:26. {DA 762.2}
> But the law requires that the soul itself be pure and the mind holy, that the thoughts and feelings may be in accordance with the standard of love and righteousness.--RH, Apr 5, 1898. (2SM 211.) {2MCP 564.1}
> The divine law requires us to love God supremely and our neighbor as ourselves. Without the exercise of this love, the highest profession of faith is mere hypocrisy. . . . {A New Life NL 32.1}

> While the law is holy, the Jews could not attain righteousness by their own efforts to keep the law. The disciples of Christ must obtain righteousness of a different character from that of the Pharisees, [they pursued a legal righteousness] if they would enter the kingdom of heaven. God offered them, in His Son, the perfect righteousness of the law. If they would open their hearts fully to receive Christ, then the very life of God, His love, would dwell in them, transforming them into His own likeness; and thus through God's free gift they would possess the righteousness which the law requires… {MB 54.2}

What does God's law require? Healing, the restoration of God's living law of love into the species. So Christ is the guarantor of this perfect, sinless humanity, the One through whom God accomplished His purpose of perfecting the species human and eradicating the infection of sin.

WEDNESDAY

Read fourth paragraph, "The condition of eternal life is now just what it always has been,—just what it was in Paradise before the fall of our first parents,—perfect obedience to the law of God, perfect righteousness. If eternal life were granted on any condition short of this, then the happiness of the whole universe would be imperiled. The way would be open for sin, with all its train of woe and misery, to be immortalized" (Steps to Christ 62).

Why is the condition of eternal life perfect obedience to the law of God? For the same reason that the condition of temporal life harmony with the law of respiration—both laws are laws upon which life is built. To break the law of respiration results in death. To break God's eternal law, the law of love, is to break the protocols life is built upon and results in death.

What about the idea that the happiness of the entire universe would be in peril if life was granted on any condition short of perfect harmony with God's law? Why?

What is required for safety in the hereafter? That all intelligent beings love God and others more than self, that all are safe neighbors. Can this be achieved through having an angel with a flaming sword on every street corner to enforce the law? No, it is only possible when the law of love is written permanently into every heart such that every being would rather die than break God's law of love.

How will other beings in heaven, like the angels, know who of us are safe to bring to heaven?

I have heard some speculate that this is the purpose of the investigative judgment, to give angels an opportunity to review the records of their future neighbors in order to take away their anxieties and concerns about having us there.

What are your thoughts about this? Why is this not necessary, and in fact, would appeal to the legal view of things?

God is the God of reality—what is it that destroys the wicked? Sin, and when are the wicked destroyed by sin? When they are exposed to God's life-giving glory, the infinite fires of truth and love. What do the wicked experience when they are exposed to God's life-giving glory? Horrible pain and anguish—and from where does the pain and anguish they experience originate? Is the suffering being inflicted by God? Is it something coming out from God? Who else is standing in the very same fires—the righteous and do those fires cause any suffering on the righteous? No—the fires are not harmful, they are truth and love. But what does truth and love do to the wicked? It causes them to no longer be able to avoid their own sinful condition, they experience themselves in contrast to God's sinless perfection and they suffer from unremedied sin.

And what do they do then? They beg for the mountains to fall on them and hide them, they flee, they surrender their lives and no longer want to live. They self-terminate just like Judas did.

Thus, those who would be poor neighbors in heaven become self-evident as their terminal condition cannot be hidden in the presence of God's life-giving glory. So there is no need for a pre-advent record review on part of the angels in order for them to feel comfortable with those of us brought there.

The bottom green section states, "Christ has satisfied the demands of the covenant" what are those demands?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "The first covenant document…" Why was the law written by God on tablets of stone? Because God's law of love was no longer written on the hearts of human beings!

And what are some of God's purposes in writing it on stone?

- A diagnostic instrument to expose sin in us
- A protective hedge for our childhood
- A promise of what we will look like when God heals us—we will then have no other gods before Him etc.
- But could it also be an object lesson—that our hearts are stony and stone cannot live or love and the legal rules along with the stony religious hearts that cherish their rules must be removed and tender hearts that love God and people must be recreated within?

> "I will give you a new heart and put a new spirit in you; I will remove from you your heart of stone and give you a heart of flesh. And I will put my Spirit in you and move you to follow my decrees and be careful to keep my laws" (Eze 36:26–27 NIV84).

Read second paragraph, "But in the new covenant…" So is the issue about rule-keeping or about motive of the heart? The last paragraph states "True obedience comes from the heart as an expression of love."

And when the Holy Spirit is in the heart the motive is right (Spirit of love) and a person grows in understanding of the truth so that over time the behaviors come into greater harmony with design law, with how reality actually works and functions. So an immature person with right motives may still engage in behaviors that are not as God designed (unhealthy life practices for instance) but as they continue to love God and grow their minds gain insight and discernment and wisdom and the mature in their understanding of reality and their behaviors naturally change to live out what they now understand to be best.

2022 1Q In These Last Days: The Message of Hebrews
Lesson 9: Jesus, The Perfect Sacrifice

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SUNDAY

Why Were Sacrifices Needed?

Many Christians are quite confused on this. A few years ago on Christian radio, during Easter weekend, I heard a discussion about the Old Testament animal sacrifices. Two theologians gave their explanation:

- First Theologian: Blood represents life and there has to be the punishment of death for sin, so therefore an animal had to take the punishment and give its life—its blood—so that the offeror could live. That was the substitution. What my former professor… used to call, the exchange of life… The animal dies, the person lives. And so that's the reason for the Old Testament sacrifice for atonement.

- Second Theologian: In the Old Testament, the death of an animal was required to take care of the human sin problem and now we have not the death of an animal, but of the very Son of God, who dies for us. And so his loss of blood is the thing whereby He succumbed on our behalf. (Chris Fabry Live Radio Show March 23, 2016, Moody Broadcasting: The second hour beginning at minute 12:25, guests quoted Michael Vanlaningham and Michael Rydelink).

Are these answers correct?

> The gifts and sacrifices being offered were not able to clear the conscience of the worshiper. They are only a matter of food and drink and various ceremonial washings—external regulations applying until the time of the new order… But those sacrifices are an annual reminder of sins, because it is impossible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins. Hebrews 9:9,10 &10:3,4

Well what about in Old Testament times—where they required then?

> "The multitude of your sacrifices— what are they to me?" says the Lord. "I have more than enough of burnt offerings, of rams and the fat of fattened animals; I have no pleasure in the blood of bulls and lambs and goats… wash and make yourselves clean. Take your evil deeds out of my sight! Stop doing wrong, learn to do right! Seek justice, encourage the oppressed. Defend the cause of the fatherless, plead the case of the widow." Isa 1:11,16,17
> "I want your constant love, not your animal sacrifices. I would rather have my people know me than burn offerings to me." Hos 6:6 GNT

Can you think of examples of people who were saved in Old Testament times who did not participate in the Levitical system, and as far as we have record, didn't offer animal sacrifices?

- Naaman
- Melchezidek
- Jethro
- the widow who sheltered Elijah
- Nebuchadnezzar
- And what about Daniel and all the Jews who were captive in Babylon during the 70 years—were they offering sacrifices at the Temple? Were they still being saved?
- What about Esther and Mordecai were they saved? Were they offering sacrifices at the Temple?

So, the Bible is quite clear, animal sacrifices were never required for salvation—why? Because as Hebrews says, they could not cleanse the conscience, in other words, they could not cure the sin problem.

Then what was their purpose? Educational, object lesson, theater, metaphor, acted out illustration pointing to the reality of Jesus.

Read first three paragraphs, "Hebrews 9:15 explains…" what is the point the lesson is trying to make?

Was the covenant with Abraham and the promise to Abraham a new covenant or a new promise? No, it is the recommunication of the promise made in Eden that the seed of the woman would crush the serpent's head.

When that promise was given to Adam and Eve—which means given to the entire sinful human race for we were all in Adam and Eve—was there some ritual with animals cut in half and God walking through? No! Was there some promise made that God would kill the humans who broke their side of the bargain? No!

There was the promise that God would destroy Satan and his power and redeem Adam's failure thereby opening the way for all who choose to trust and follow God to be reclaimed from sin and restored to righteousness.

Then, why this ceremony with Abraham? Because of the mindset, understanding, and comprehension of Abraham.

If God came and spoke with you today, would God speak Hebrew, Aramaic, or Greek, or would God speak English? Why would God speak English to you when we all know that the Bible is written in either Hebrew, Aramaic, or Greek? Because God, if He wants meaningful interaction with people, must speak a language that they can comprehend. So, this ceremony was communication, a language, that Abraham understood that gave Abraham a sense of commitment, certainty, closure, it was like signing a pledge that was binding in order to give Abraham assurance and confidence that God would do what He said.

What does it say about God that God would stoop to participate in an earthly ceremony for Abraham's sake?

Read fourth paragraph, "The covenant with God gave…" Do we agree that the covenant with Abraham was the re-affirmation of the Genesis 3:15 covenant with Adam of the promised seed to bless all the peoples of the world? If that is so, then what do you make of this idea that the covenant gave Israel access to the Promised Land?

The promise to Abraham about inheriting the land is a dual fulfillment prophecy, similar to Jesus' prophecy about the fall of Jerusalem. With Jesus' prophecy of the fall of Jerusalem He speaks in terms of a local application and a global application. Jesus' prophecy concerns the termination or end of the covenant with both Abraham and Adam.

The covenant with Abraham focuses on two Promised Lands—the local application in which Abraham's genetic decedents are the branch of the human family through whom God accomplishes the Genesis 3:15 promise and brings the Messiah as a human to earth. The covenant to Abraham informs him that his children would inherit the land in Canaan for the purpose of fulfilling their mission of being the avenue through whom Messiah would come SO THAT Jesus can fulfill the covenant of Genesis 3:15 and crush the serpent's head SO THAT the "meek will inherit the earth"—the true Promised Land.

- The genetic descendants inherited Canaan in order to be the avenue for Jesus to come and fulfill the covenant of Genesis 3:15 so that
- The spiritual descendants of Abraham—all those who have faith like Abraham—will inherit the entire planet

Satan tricks much of the world today into believing that the promises to Abraham's children to inherit Canaan are about the little strip of land in the Middle East. That element of the promise has been fulfilled—Jesus came and accomplished God's purpose in crushing the serpent's head. Now, what is about to happen is the global fulfillment when Jesus returns and we finally inherit the earth.

Is there evidence for what I am saying?

> The LORD appeared to Abram and said, "To your offspring I will give this land." (Ge 12 7).
> The LORD said to Abram after Lot had parted from him, "Lift up your eyes from where you are and look north and south, east and west. All the land that you see I will give to you and your offspring forever. I will make your offspring like the dust of the earth, so that if anyone could count the dust, then your offspring could be counted. Go, walk through the length and breadth of the land, for I am giving it to you." (Ge 13:14–17 NIV84).
> You are all sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus, for all of you who were baptized into Christ have clothed yourselves with Christ. There is neither Jew nor Greek, slave nor free, male nor female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus. If you belong to Christ, then you are Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise. (Ga 3:26–29).

Jesus replied, "I tell you the truth, everyone who sins is a slave to sin. Now a slave has no permanent place in the family, but a son belongs to it forever. [If we don't experience freedom from sin through Jesus then we are not part of the family of God, not part of Abraham's family.] So if the Son sets you free, you will be free indeed. I know you are Abraham's descendants. Yet you are ready to kill me, because you have no room for my word. I am telling you what I have seen in the Father's presence, and you do what you have heard from your father." [Jesus is saying to them that though they are genetic descendants of Abraham God doesn't see them as being children of Abraham, but children of a different father. Note, the Jews to whom Jesus was speaking understood this exactly and protested, claiming their genetic heritage.]

"Abraham is our father," they answered. [Note Jesus' response—He disallows this to be a criteria for being considered a descendant of Abraham]

"If you were Abraham's children," said Jesus, "then you would do the things Abraham did. [Those recognized by God as children of Abraham are those who have the same faith in God as Abraham did and act on that faith as Abraham did.] As it is, you are determined to kill me, a man who has told you the truth that I heard from God. Abraham did not do such things. You are doing the things your own father does." [Jesus again tells them their heritage is not genetic but characterological—they have embraced another father, but they again protest, and claim a higher father than Abraham.]

"We are not illegitimate children," they protested. "The only Father we have is God himself." Jesus said to them, "If God were your Father, you would love me, for I came from God and now am here. I have not come on my own; but he sent me. Why is my language not clear to you? Because you are unable to hear what I say. You belong to your father, the devil, and you want to carry out your father's desire. He was a murderer from the beginning, not holding to the truth, for there is no truth in him. When he lies, he speaks his native language, for he is a liar and the father of lies." [Genetics are irrelevant to determine whose children we are—it is character, whose methods we embrace, who we trust, whose law is written into our hearts. This is the situation in the world today—whose children are we? Whose law are we applying to our lives, what methods are we practicing? To we claim to be Jesus' children because we are Christian, Methodist, Baptist, Catholic or Adventist? Or do we trust God like Abraham and live out God's methods and laws in how we treat others?] (Jn 8:34–45).

So, the promise to Abraham, I see as two-fold, a regional local application for the genetic descendants to be the avenue for the Messiah, which ended when they rejected Jesus, and a global fulfillment of all those who have faith like Abraham—we are going to inherit the earth. This means there is no Biblical prophecy being fulfilled in anyone occupying any lands in the Middle East today.

The next fulfillment of this promise of restoring lands will be when Jesus returns the earth made new to the saved. Until then, Satan's forces will gain ever increasing control on the earth. The nation states will align and cooperate with Satanic principles and prepare the world to support Satan's impersonation of Christ. This includes the nation state of Israel—all human governments are part of Satan's kingdom—God's government is not of this world.

What about this idea, "This sprinkling implied the destiny of the party who broke the covenant."

What is wrong with this? What is the law lens that this is processed through?

Did Jesus break the covenant or did Jesus fulfill the covenant? And what was Jesus' destiny in fulfilling the covenant? Was it not to suffer and die as our substitute? But for what purpose? Not to pay a legal penalty, but as the only means to cure the sin problem.

So, the sacrifices with the sprinkling of blood, rather than saying "this is a warning that you better not break our agreement or else this is what will happen to you," it symbolizes the commitment that Jesus is coming to sacrifice Himself, to be bruised, wounded, scourged, crucified, killed to pass through the grave and come out victorious on the other side, in order to overthrow Satan, destroy sin, perfect the species human and provide remedy for all who trust Him. thoughts?

What is being taught by the sprinkling of the blood on the altar in the sacrificial ceremony?

Where did Jesus say His blood must be applied? In us, we must eat His flesh and drink His blood—what does this mean?

Is Jesus speaking of a legal process with His description of eating flesh and drinking blood, or something else?

Read fifth paragraph, "When Israel broke the covenant…"

I don't like this paragraph because it really misrepresents God, the sin problem and God's solution for it:

- Did God face a dilemma? Didn't God know this was going to be their response? Did they put God in a bind? Did God say, "Oh my, look at their response, what am I going to do know. Didn't see that one coming. I'm in a real bind now." God foreknew their entire response and already planned for it and understood what He would have to do in order to deal with their rebellion, refusal, hard heart etc.
- Did the covenant demand the death of the transgressor? No! that is an imposed legal view of things. What did demand the death of the transgressor? The broken law, because of Adam all humans have a terminal sin-condition, we are dead in our trespasses and sins (Eph 2:1). Without Christ the entire species will die of sin—thus the law upon which life is built demands harmony with it, and disharmony is the basis of death.
- Are God's commandments only binding because God stands behind us we a flaming sword at our throat threating to "enforce" the law by killing all who won't obey? In other words, is the law the type of law that requires external enforcement?

- If God had refused to act after Adam sinned, do sinners experience eternal life or pain, suffering, and eternal death? Why?
- But the lesson is saying that if God doesn't act sinners won't be punished for sin and God's law will be unenforceable and things will descend into chaos—what kind of system is this? It is human, it is imperial—and it is a lie.
- If one accepts what the lesson states, then what does justice look like? Law enforcement—and what is the beast of Revelation going to do? It is going to claim to pursue justice through law enforcement.

This false legal view is the picture of God that prepares the world to accept Satan as messiah.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Jesus' death provided…" Are forgiveness and remission the same thing? How do you define the terms? Can a person have their sins forgiven by God, but those sins remain in their hearts, minds, and characters? Those who crucified Christ for example. Then those sins are not remitted even though they are forgiven.

What does remission mean? When cancer goes into remission is it forgiven or eradicated?

The lesson says Jesus came to also cancel the penalty for sin. Did Jesus come to take away the penalty or punishment for sin or take away the sin of the world? And if Jesus takes away the sin, wouldn't sinfulness be gone, or go into remission?

Where does sin exist and occur—in record books or hearts and minds? So to take away the sin of the world means what? To removed sinfulness from hearts, minds and characters of people. And if sinfulness is eradicated, removed, taken away, from the hearts, minds and characters of people, is there any penalty or punishment for those who no longer have sin in their hearts and minds?

So to put sin into remission means what?

Then why was the shedding of blood required to put sin into remission? It was the only means to destroy the infection of fear and selfishness and restore the law of life into the species human.

What are represented by the various offerings?

- Burnt offering the entire sacrificial animal is burned up—what is taught in this theatrical enactment? That sinfulness must be destroyed, that the carnal nature must be eradicated; that lies are burned up by truth and that selfishness is burned up by love—the Holy Spirit, represented by the fire. Jesus, the Lamb of God, lived out the truth and love of God perfectly—He is the truth, the Word made flesh. Thus in the person of Jesus truth and love overcame lies, fear and selfishness.
- The peace offering—what is symbolized? In Jesus the division that sin caused in our relationship with God was removed and humanity the species was restored to perfection and oneness with God—we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, because in Jesus humanity is restored to oneness with God.

- The purification offering or sin offering is when the sinner confesses sin on the head of the animal and the sinner cuts the throat symbolizing that sin, not God causes death, by cutting the source of life, the blood. And the blood circles, which is metaphor for the law of love. Sin severs the law of love and results in death. Jesus, our substitute, took our terminal condition upon Himself and became sin though He knew no sin, so that we might become the righteousness of God. So the blood, represents both the life of the sinner and the life of Jesus who took the sinful condition of the sinner and overcame it. This blood is taken throughout the sanctuary representing our individual connection and faith in Jesus purifying us. The blood applied to the brazen altar represents conversion or justification, and the blood applied to the golden altar represents sanctification or maturing and overcoming through Jesus.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson states that God is the judge of His people—what does this mean? When we read about the judgments of God what does that mean?

How is God being a judge different from a human judge?

Do God's judgments function the same as the judgments of a human judge?

What is the difference?

Are God's judgments legal rulings or something else?

Do God's judgments determine guilt or innocence?

Is it God's judgment that determines whether someone is saved or lost?

If God's judgment doesn't determine guilt or innocence, doesn't determine who is saved and who is lost, what is it?

In Scripture, judgment as a judicial process of a judge determining guilt or innocence is always a function of human law. It is never an outworking of God's divine law. Moses judged the people. Solomon judged the case of whose infant son had died. Pilate judged Jesus.

God's judgments in Scripture are not judicial they are something else, what?

The Four Judgments

When considering the question of judgment, always ask what law lens.

Human law = judicial judgments of guilt or innocence

Design law = dealing with some aspect of reality

The First Judgment: Our Judgment of God

In Eden, we find the evidence of the first judgment. God created a perfect world; a sinless couple; gave them a paradise, perfect health, dominion over the entire planet; and came to them every day to fellowship. But Satan lied to them about God and what God had said was for their good, and Adam and Eve had to make a judgment: Who would they believe, who would they trust—God or the serpent?

We see this first judgment at Mount Carmel, when Elijah confronts the 450 priests of Baal and challenges the people:

If the LORD is God, worship him; but if Baal is God, worship him! (1 Kings 18:21 GNT).

The apostle Paul picks up this theme and states it explicitly in Roman 3:4:

Let God be true but every man a liar. As it is written: "That You may be justified in Your words, and may overcome when You are judged" (NKJV).

> I saw another angel flying in midair, and he had the eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live on the earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people. He said in a loud voice, "Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water" (Revelation 14:6, 7).

The first judgment is our judgment of God.

The Second Judgment: God's judgments of what is therapeutically required to bring about the plan of salvation. It is twofold—1) therapeutically intervening in history to keep open the avenue for Messiah; 2) therapeutically intervening in individual hearts and minds to apply what Messiah achieved.

Old Testament judgments were to keep open the avenue for the Messiah

- The Bible tells us that at the time of the global flood, there was only one righteous man left on the earth. Think about it: An entire planet of people and only one person was still loyal to God. The avenue through which the Messiah would come was almost closed. So God made a "judgment." It was not a judicial judgment. It was a judgment of what was needed to save His precious creation. God decided—judged—that He must protect the family of the one man left loyal to Him so that the Messiah could come, lest every single human be lost. Thus, God sent the flood not as a legal punishment for sin, but as a therapeutic intervention for all humanity, for those who died before the flood (they still needed Jesus to come) and those who have lived since. And also for those who died in the flood. Giving those who drowned one last chance to repent and experience eternal life—similar to the thief on the cross. His temporal life was ending because of his sinful choices, but he found eternal life. The flood was judged to be not only necessary to keep open avenue for Messiah so humanity could be saved, but also was an opportunity for those who drowned in the flood to recognize Noah had told the truth and repent.

- We find God's "judgments" throughout history to fall into this category. God's "judgments" on Egypt were His therapeutic interventions to expose the Egyptian gods as false and to turn the hearts of the people—both Hebrew and Egyptian—to Him for salvation. We find God's "judgments" in the life of Jonah: When God sent him to Nineveh, and he ran away to avoid it, God sent the great fish; then after the warning was delivered and the Ninevites repented, God "judged" that destruction wasn't necessary. In other words, God's "judgment" was that the most therapeutic action was to send a message of warning, which worked. Further, God knew that Jonah suffered with certain prejudices and that this would be therapeutic for Jonah as well.

There is another aspect of God's healing, therapeutic judgment: His work in the hearts and minds of people. David understood this and prayed:

> Examine me, O God, and know my mind; test me, and discover my thoughts. Find out if there is any evil in me and guide me in the everlasting way (Psalm 139:23, 24 GNT).

> Malachi describes this judgment: "Suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come," says the Lord Almighty. But who can endure the day of his coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver. Then the Lord will have men who will bring offerings in righteousness, and the offerings of Judah and Jerusalem will be acceptable to the Lord, as in days gone by, as in former years. "So I will come near to you for judgment" (Malachi 3:1–5 NIV84).

> This is the "judgment" of the Great Heavenly Physician, our Creator: examining us, diagnosing what is wrong in us, and determining what is the best therapeutic intervention to bring to bear to heal and restore us. This is the judgment of our High Priest going on in heaven as He examines the people and prepares them for His return, to complete His healing of them so that when He does come, we will be like Him—for "we know that when he appears, we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is" (1 John 3:2 NIV84). This healing, this transformation, this final work of preparation is what Malachi describes above—the cleansing of our temples, the purifying of the Levites (His people today), is all taught metaphorically in the Day of Atonement rituals. (You can read more about this incredible truth in our Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment for the Modern World pamphlet.)

The Third Judgment: the judgment that the righteous render during the thousand years after they are taken to heaven and all the evidence of history is before them.

> I saw thrones on which were seated those who had been given authority to judge. And I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded because of their testimony for Jesus and because of the word of God. They had not worshiped the beast or his image and had not received his mark on their foreheads or their hands. They came to life and reigned with Christ a thousand years (Revelation 20:4–6 NIV84).

This is also not a judicial process; it is an answering of all the questions people have about the great controversy. The righteous are not determining guilt or innocence, who is saved or who is lost. The righteous are assessing, discerning, and settling their minds into the truth of what transpired and why it transpired regarding how God's laws govern all reality. It is the confirmation of what sin does and how salvation occurs—and why some are saved and others are not when God loves all equally, wants all to be saved, and is all powerful.

> "Do you not know that we will judge angels?" (1 Corinthians 6:3 NIV84).

The third judgment is not a judicial process but a review of reality, of actual history, of applying our understanding of the design laws of God and making the judgment that all who are lost are lost because that is what they prefer and that there was nothing more God could have done for them.

The Fourth Judgment: the judgment that occurs at the end of the thousand years. It is often called the Great White Throne Judgment.

> I saw a great white throne and him who was seated on it. … And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Another book was opened, which is the book of life. The dead were judged according to what they had done as recorded in the books (Revelation 20:11, 12 NIV84).

What is recorded in the books of life? The names of people (Philippians 4:3, Revelation 3:5, 13:8, 17:8, 20:15, 21:27). But in Scripture, names are symbolic of one's character. So, what is recorded is our actual characters, which we have developed through our judgment of God—our judgment to trust Him, to open our hearts to Him, to embrace His design laws and methods of truth, love, and liberty or not. Our judgments of God result in whether we open the heart and are reborn—or harden our hearts in selfishness. Our characters develop along whichever line our judgment decides about God, whether we trust Him and His methods or reject them. Thus, we are judged, diagnosed, based on what is the actual condition of our character.

Here's another way to say it: The books record the accurate picture of who we are in heart—they are like medical records. The records don't determine the condition; they merely record the condition.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "The forgiveness of our sins…." Again the authors obstruct the gospel because of their persistence in presenting these incredible truths through the imposed law lens.

- Sins are described here as a commodity, acts, deeds, something that can be transferred from one person to the next, rather than a condition of being out of harmony with God and God's design law for life. Jesus took our sin—our sinfulness—upon Himself, not our acts or deeds.
- Again forgiveness is described as something that God requires a blood sacrifice in order to do.
    - Did Jesus not have the right to forgive without dying? God—Father, Son and Holy Spirit always had the right to forgive. Jesus' death did not provide God with some right. What Jesus sinless life and selfless death did do, was provide God with an effective remedy to cure the human sin condition. Forgiveness from God was never the problem, the problem was the actual terminal sin-condition of humankind that needed remedy and only Jesus could provide that Remedy. That was a twofold solution—1) truth about God to destroy lies and win to trust, and 2) a new sinless, mature, perfected human character/nature. Jesus accomplished the revelation of truth, the destruction of the infection of fear/selfishness (carnal nature) and the development of sinless, perfect righteous human character/nature.

The lesson focuses on the second phase of the ministry of Jesus which is the pre-Advent judgment. The lesson states, "In this judgment, the records of their lives will be open for the universe to see."

Has the records of our lives, the reality of our hearts and minds, been hidden from the onlooking universe?

Doesn't the Bible say that our lives are a theater a spectacle to angels and men (1Cor 4:9)?

Do the angels in heaven say, when King David's name comes up in the pre-Advent judgment, "Oh my, David committed adultery and murdered Uriah. I had no idea! But wait, look, he also repented, wow, that was a close one, glad we found that out."

Can angels read our thoughts? And if they can, do they need an investigative judgment to investigate the thoughts that they have been reading all long?

The historic SDA view is that Satan and his evil angels cannot read our thoughts, but God has permitted the angels in heaven to read our thoughts all along—they have been "investigating" the sin problem and God's solution for it from before Adam sinned.

> Satan has his evil angels around us; and though they cannot read men's thoughts, they closely watch their words and actions. Satan takes advantage of the weakness and defects of character that are thus revealed, and presses his temptations where there is least power of resistance. He makes evil suggestions, and inspires worldly thoughts, knowing that he can thus bring the soul into condemnation and bondage... {GW92 417.3}

> The adversary of souls is not permitted to read the thoughts of men; but he is a keen observer, and he marks the words; he takes account of actions, and skillfully adapts his temptations to meet the cases of those who place themselves in his power... {RH, March 22, 1887 par. 5}
> Did you forget that angels of God were in attendance, and that their pure eyes were reading your thoughts, the intents and purposes of the heart, and taking cognizance of every act, and delineating your true, frivolous character? {2T 180.2}

This author takes the position that angels are either permitted or not permitted by God to read thoughts. God forbids Satan and his angels to read our thoughts, but He grants permission for His loyal angels to read our thoughts.

If this is so, if the angels in heaven can already read our thoughts, then the purpose of the investigative judgment is not to reveal things to them about us they don't already know.

You may have heard this same idea put another way, that the angels in heaven are worried who will be safe neighbors in heaven and need to investigate to ensure those brought there will be safe to live next door to.

I have heard some speculate that this is the purpose of the investigative judgment, to give angels an opportunity to review the records of their future neighbors in order to take away their anxieties and concerns about having us there.

What are your thoughts about this? Why is this not necessary, and in fact, would appeal to the legal view of things?

God is the God of reality, and what is it that destroys the wicked? Sin, and when are the wicked destroyed by sin? When they are exposed to God's life-giving glory, the infinite fires of truth and love. What do the wicked experience when they are exposed to God's life-giving glory? Horrible pain and anguish—and from where does the pain and anguish they experience originate? Is the suffering being inflicted by God? Is it something coming out from God? Who else is standing in the very same fires—the righteous and do those fires cause any suffering on the righteous? No—the fires are not harmful, they are truth and love. But what does truth and love do to the wicked? It causes them to no longer be able to avoid their own sinful condition, they experience themselves in contrast to God's sinless perfection and they suffer from unremedied sin.

And what do they do then? They beg for the mountains to fall on them and hide them, they flee, they surrender their lives and no longer want to live. They self-terminate just like Judas did.

Thus, it becomes self-evident who would have been poor neighbors in heaven but it is also self-limiting, i.e. no poor neighbors will be able to enter or live in heaven, not because God wants or keeps them out, but they don't want to be there and keep themselves out. So there is no need for a pre-advent record review on part of the angels in order for them to feel comfortable with those of us brought there.

So what is the purpose of the pre-Advent judgment? We have a magazine on the Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment for the Modern World—if you haven't read it, we encourage you to do so. We will ship them free to any US postal address, or you can read it online at: https://comeandreason.com/heavenly-sanctuary/

The bottom line is that this is Christ's work to remove all traces and defects from the characters of people so that they we be enabled to stand in His life giving glory.

The Cross was where Christ saved the species human in His own humanity and procured the Remedy. The sanctuary is an illustration of how Jesus administers or applies that Remedy to individuals to save and heal them from sin, ultimately eliminating sin and purifying His universe.

What about the quote in the last paragraph from EGW which states:

> Man cannot meet these charges himself. In his sin-stained garments, confessing his guilt, he stands before God. But Jesus our Advocate presents an effectual plea in behalf of all who by repentance and faith have committed the keeping of their souls to Him. He pleads their cause and vanquishes their accuser by the mighty arguments of Calvary. His perfect obedience to God's law, even unto the death of the cross, has given Him all power in heaven and in earth, and He claims of His Father mercy and reconciliation for guilty man… But while we should realize our sinful condition, we are to rely upon Christ as our righteousness, our sanctification, and our redemption. We cannot answer the charges of Satan against us. Christ alone can make an effectual plea in our behalf. He is able to silence the accuser with arguments founded not upon our merits, but on His own.

Have you ever heard this before? And if so, how was it taught to you in the past? What does this current quotation lead you to think?

Now this is quite concerning—concerning because the editors of the lesson made a conscious choice on what they quoted and what they left out. A partial quotation can make it appear the original author appear to say something she is not saying.

Let's read it in a fuller setting from the original author and see if this changes the emphasis:

> As Satan accused Joshua and his people, so in all ages he accuses those who are seeking the mercy and favor of God. In the Revelation he is declared to be the "accuser of our brethren," "which accused them before our God day and night." The controversy is repeated over every soul that is rescued from the power of evil and whose name is registered in the Lamb's book of life. Never is one received from the family of Satan into the family of God without exciting the determined resistance of the wicked one. Satan's accusations against those who seek the Lord are not prompted by displeasure at their sins. He exults in their defective characters. Only through their transgression of God's law can he obtain power over them. His accusations arise solely from his enmity to Christ. Through the plan of salvation, Jesus is breaking Satan's hold upon the human family and rescuing souls from his power. All the hatred and malignity of the archrebel is stirred as he beholds the evidence of Christ's supremacy, and with fiendish power and cunning he works to wrest from Him the remnant of the children of men who have accepted His salvation. 5T 470.1 [where is such a battle taking place? Where is the work of Jesus occurring that will rescue a sinner from Satan's power? Where does Satan's powers of lies and selfishness occur? Who listens to Satan's lies, who believes Satan's accusations? Who would Christ need to plead with to persuade them that His sacrifice is sufficient to free the sinner from sin? Would God need to be persuaded that the sacrifice of Christ is sufficient? Would the sinner?]

He leads men into skepticism, causing them to lose confidence in God and to separate from His love; [who is listening to Satan's accusations? With whom will Christ need to plead in order to overcome the accusations?] he tempts them to break His law, and then he claims them as his captives and contests the right of Christ to take them from him. He knows that those who seek God earnestly for pardon and grace will obtain it; therefore he presents their sins before them *to discourage them. [Notice the dynamic here. She doesn't say that Satan knows if he can find a sin the person committed that they forgot to confess and ask forgiveness for that it remains on the legal registry in heaven and God will be forced to pronounce them guilty and Satan wins his legal case. NO! Satan knows that all who trust God will, as Isaiah 55 says, receive FREE pardon from God and grace that heals and restores them, gives them a new heart and empowers them to overcome the accusations and temptations of Satan. Again, where is Christ plea directed?] He is constantly seeking occasion against those who are trying to obey God. Even their best and most acceptable services he seeks to make appear corrupt. [To whom? To themselves to discourage and dishearten so THEY GIVE UP.] By countless devices, the most subtle and the most cruel, he endeavors to secure their condemnation. [By whom? Whose is that condemns? Christ Jesus He is at the Father's right hand and is also interceding for us—also, in addition to who, the Father and who is the Father interceding with? With the accusations of the devil that try and discourage us!] Man cannot meet these charges himself. In his sin-stained garments, confessing his guilt, he stands before God. [Exactly, we don't stand before God and say, "I don't need Jesus. I can cure my own sin condition. In fact, I really haven't sin, I am righteous in my own strength. NO! We stand before God and say, "Father I acknowledge I was born in sin and conceived in iniquity. I was born with a terminal sin condition I didn't choose and I have had many symptoms along the way. I have been fearful and selfish and acted out against your law. I have no ability to change my heart, to heal my condition. I confess I am dead in trespass and sin." Note what happens next.] But Jesus our Advocate presents an effectual plea in behalf of all who by repentance and faith have committed the keeping of their souls to Him. He pleads their cause and vanquishes their accuser by the mighty arguments of Calvary. [For all who acknowledge their condition Jesus pleads effectively TO THEM, "My grace is sufficient for you." I have engraved YOU on the palm of my hand. My victory is your victory. Trust me and I will make you whole! The accusations of Satan of being too sinful to save are vanquished by the effectual plea of Jesus to you!] His perfect obedience to God's law, even unto the death of the cross, has given Him all power in heaven and in earth, and He claims of His Father mercy and reconciliation for guilty man. [Whose mercy? God's mercy, God so loved the world that He sent Jesus to procure the Remedy and then empowers Jesus with all the power of heaven to distribute it to us to heal and save us.] To the accuser of His people He declares: "'The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan.' These are the purchase of My blood, brands plucked from the burning." [Jesus doesn't plead His blood to the Father, Jesus rebukes Satan and refutes his accusations. And listen to what Jesus says to us.] Those who rely upon Him in faith receive the comforting assurance: "Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment." [He removes the fear, the guilt, the shame, the selfishness, the sin-condition and gives us a new heart and right spirit, writes His law of love into our inmost beings so that it is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me.] All that have put on the robe of Christ's righteousness will stand before Him as chosen and faithful and true. Satan has no power to pluck them out of the hand of Christ. Not one soul that in penitence and faith has claimed His protection will Christ permit to pass under the enemy's power. His word is pledged: "Let him take hold of My strength, that he may make peace with Me; and he shall make peace with Me." The promise given to Joshua is made to all: "If thou wilt keep My charge, ... I will give thee places to walk among these that stand by." Angels of God will walk on either side of them, even in this world, and they will stand at last among the angels that surround the throne of God. 5T 470.2

The fact that the acknowledged people of God are represented as standing before the Lord in filthy garments should lead to humility and deep searching of heart on the part of all who profess His name. Those who are indeed purifying their souls by obeying the truth will have a most humble opinion of themselves. [This is the investigative judgment. The investigation of our own hearts/minds/characters and experiencing the healing power of Christ purging and cleansing us from sin to prepare us to meet Him face to face.] The more closely they view the spotless character of Christ, the stronger will be their desire to be conformed to His image, and the less will they see of purity or holiness in themselves. But while we should realize our sinful condition, we are to rely upon Christ as our righteousness, our sanctification, and our redemption. We cannot answer the charges of Satan against us. Christ alone can make an effectual plea in our behalf. He is able to silence the accuser with arguments founded not upon our merits, but on His own. 5T 471.1

Jesus pleads before the Father, carrying out the Father's purpose to save sinners, the Holy Spirit listens to Christ and works in you and me communicating the love, grace and pleas of Christ to you and me to win us back to trust, so we will open the door to our hearts and let Him save us from fear and selfishness!

2022 1Q In These Last Days: The Message of Hebrews
Lesson 10: Jesus Opens the Way Through the Veil

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

Before we get into Lesson 10, I wanted to follow up on a couple of points from Lesson 9: THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "The forgiveness of our sins…." What do you hear? What law lens do you hear this being described through?

What does it mean when they say "Jesus carried our sins?" Does it sound like some sort of stuff, or commodity, or acts, or deeds, something that can be transferred from one person to the next? Or are they inferring that the punishment for our sins was placed upon Jesus and He took our punishment?

Do you think something different if we instead of thinking of the sin problem as bad deeds that deserve punishment, we understand we are born in sin, with a condition of being out of harmony with God and God's design law for life. Jesus took our sin—our sinfulness—upon Himself, not our acts or deeds.

Forgiveness is described as something that God cannot do unless He receives a blood sacrifice. That is paganism—all pagan religions require some offering be given to the deity in order to get the blessing from the deity.

Did Jesus not have the right to forgive without dying? God—Father, Son and Holy Spirit always had the right to forgive and in fact did forgive that is why God sent His Son. Jesus' death did not provide God with some right. What Jesus' sinless life and selfless death did do, was provide God with an effective remedy to cure the human sin condition and restore humanity to at-one-ment with God.

Forgiveness from God was never the problem, the problem was the actual terminal sin-condition of humankind that needed remedy and only Jesus could provide that Remedy. That was a twofold solution—1) the truth about God to destroy lies and win to trust, and 2) a new sinless, mature, perfected human character/nature. Jesus accomplished both the revelation of truth, and the destruction of the infection of fear/selfishness (carnal nature) and the development of sinless, perfect righteous human character/nature.

The lesson focuses on the second phase of the ministry of Jesus which is the pre-Advent judgment. The lesson states, "In this judgment, the records of their lives will be open for the universe to see."

Has the records of human lives, the reality of our hearts and minds, been hidden from the onlooking universe until 1844?

Doesn't the Bible say that our lives are a theater a spectacle to angels and men (1Cor 4:9)?

Do the angels in heaven look to each other and say, when King David's name comes up in the pre-Advent judgment, "Oh my, David committed adultery and murdered Uriah. I had no idea! But wait, look, he also repented, wow, that was a close one, glad we found that out."

Can angels read our thoughts? And if they can, do they need an investigative judgment to investigate the thoughts that they have been reading all long?

My view is that only has the innate ability to God read hearts and minds, angels do not possess this ability in themselves. If the sinless angels in heaven could read the secrets of hearts and minds, then no angel would have been deceived by Lucifer in the beginning of his rebellion.

But God permits or gives the ability to His loyal angels to read our hearts and minds, while He does not give this ability to Satan and his angels. We have a few miniscule examples in the Bible of God permitting humans to do this when Joseph was given the knowledge of the dream of Pharaoh. God is the revealer of secrets and can reveal our secret thoughts and motives to whomever He chooses. And I believe He has given this ability to all the loyal angels.

This view is also the historic SDA view, that is that Satan and his evil angels cannot read our thoughts, but God has permitted the loyal angels to read our thoughts all along—they have been "investigating" the sin problem and God's solution for it from before Adam sinned.

> Satan has his evil angels around us; and though they cannot read men's thoughts, they closely watch their words and actions... {GW92 417.3}
> The adversary of souls is not permitted to read the thoughts of men; but he is a keen observer, and he marks the words; he takes account of actions, and skillfully adapts his temptations to meet the cases of those who place themselves in his power... {RH, March 22, 1887 par. 5}
> Did you forget that angels of God were in attendance, and that their pure eyes were reading your thoughts, the intents and purposes of the heart, and taking cognizance of every act, and delineating your true, frivolous character? {2T 180.2}

If the angels in heaven can already read our thoughts, then the purpose of the investigative judgment is not to reveal things to them about us that they don't already know.

You may have heard this same idea put another way, that the angels in heaven are worried who will be safe neighbors in heaven and need to investigate to ensure those brought there will be safe to live next door to.

Why is this not necessary?

- God is the God of reality, and what is it that destroys the wicked? Sin
- And when are the wicked destroyed by sin? When they are exposed to God's life-giving glory, the infinite fires of truth and love.

- What do the wicked experience when they are exposed to God's life-giving glory? Horrible pain and anguish
- And from where does the pain and anguish they experience originate? from their own terminal sin condition
- Is the suffering being inflicted by God? No!
- Who else is standing in the very same fire—the righteous and does fire cause any suffering to the righteous? No—the fire is not harmful, it is the fire of infinite truth and love.
- But what does truth and love do to the wicked? It causes them to no longer be able to avoid their own sinful condition, they experience the full force of their unremedied guilt, shame, fear that sin causes because their lies and denial doesn't work in the presence of infinite truth.
- And what do they do? They beg for the mountains to fall on them and hide them from God. They flee and ultimately they surrender their lives and no longer want to live in a universe bathed in God's life-giving glory. They self-terminate just like Judas did.

It is both self-evident and self-limiting who would have been poor neighbors in heaven. Self-evident—those unsafe reveal themselves by fleeing and running from God, and self-limiting their sin condition limits or prevents them from living in God's life-giving glory and thus they die of unremedied sin. So, no poor neighbors will be able to enter or live in heaven, not because God keeps them out, but because they don't want to be there and they keep themselves out.

There is absolutely no need for a pre-advent record review on part of the angels in order for them to feel comfortable with those of us brought there.

Then what is the purpose of the pre-Advent judgment? We have a magazine on the Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment for the Modern World—if you haven't read it, we encourage you to do so. We will ship them free to any US postal address, or you can read it online at: https://comeandreason.com/heavenly-sanctuary/

The bottom line is this: Christ is working to remove all traces of selfishness and defects of sin from the characters of people so that we be enabled to stand in His life-giving glory.

The Cross was where Christ saved the species human in His own humanity and procured the Remedy. The sanctuary is an illustration that teaches how Jesus administers or applies that Remedy to individuals to save and heal them from sin, ultimately eliminating sin and purifying His universe.

LESSON 10

SABBATH

In the first paragraph the lesson references John 14:1-3 and states "Jesus ascended to prepare a place for them.

Let's read John 14:1-3:

> "Let not your heart be troubled; you believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you to Myself; that where I am, there you may be also" (Jn 14:1–3 NKJV).

Hasn't this been an encouraging promise that we all learned in childhood?

But what does it mean? Is Jesus building each of us a mansion?

Modern Bible translations don't use the word "mansions" because the Greek word translated mansions in the King James simply means "dwelling place" and in the 17th century when the King James was written the word "mansion" didn't mean a pretentious posh ornate home, but a simple dwelling place. So most modern translations say "rooms" or "dwelling places."

> From the SDA Bible Commentary: monai (singular monē) literally, "abiding places"… Our English word "mansion" is from the Latin mansio, in meaning almost equivalent to the Gr. monē. Mansio, as does monē, means "a remaining place," "a place of abode." The idea of a building of some size or pretentiousness does not attach to the Latin, nor, of course, to the Greek. That idea was a later development of the English word and the meaning should not be introduced into the present verse. Either "mansion" should be understood in its archaic sense of "a dwelling place," or "abode," or one of these meanings should be substituted in a translation of the verse. The fact that there are "many" dwelling places makes certain of sufficient room in the Father's house for all who heed the Father's invitation. (The Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary Vol. 5, p. 1034).

So when Jesus said "In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you…" was He saying that He went to heaven and started a massive construction project to build houses for us?

How long would it take the Creator God who speaks galaxies into existence to build some houses?

Is this passage truly about structures in heaven or is it about something else?

If the saved are to return to living in anything similar to Adam and Eve—what kind of home did He give them? Did they have buildings to dwell in?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

So, could Jesus be referring to something other than what we call buildings or structures? What?

Did Jesus use the phrase, "my Father's house" anywhere else?

> Get these out of here! How dare you turn my Father's house into a market!" (John 2:16 NIV84).
> - Here Jesus refers to the Temple as His Father's house. Does this give insight to John 14? In my Father's Heavenly Temple is room for many…

What about this text:

> As you come to him, the living Stone—rejected by men but chosen by God and precious to him—you also, like living stones, are being built into a spiritual house to be a holy priesthood, offering spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ (1 Pe 2:4–5 NIV84).

What does it mean "being built into a spiritual house"? Did Jesus tell His disciples "in my Father's heavenly sanctuary there are dwelling places for many, if it wasn't so I would have told you. I am going to prepare a dwelling place for you so that we may dwell together in my Father's house?" Could this mean He was going to prepare a new dwelling for us? Where do we currently dwell?

Consider this text—is it related to the dwelling place in heaven that Jesus is preparing for us?

> Now we know that if the earthly tent we live in is destroyed, we have a building from God, an eternal house in heaven, not built by human hands. Meanwhile we groan, longing to be clothed with our heavenly dwelling, because when we are clothed, we will not be found naked. For while we are in this tent, we groan and are burdened, because we do not wish to be unclothed but to be clothed with our heavenly dwelling, so that what is mortal may be swallowed up by life. Now it is God who has made us for this very purpose and has given us the Spirit as a deposit, guaranteeing what is to come. Therefore we are always confident and know that as long as we are at home in the body we are away from the Lord. We live by faith, not by sight. We are confident, I say, and would prefer to be away from the body and at home with the Lord. So we make it our goal to please him, whether we are at home in the body or away from it. For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, that each one may receive what is due him for the things done while in the body, whether good or bad. (2 Corinthians 5:1–10 NIV84).

What does this mean? Is it talking about the investigative judgment seat of Christ? And what is this dwelling place talked about here? Is it related to John 14 about preparing a dwelling place for us? How?

Does this text help?

> The first Adam, made of earth, came from the earth; the second Adam came from heaven. [Who is this? Adam in Eden and Jesus the second Adam. What is the difference?] Those who belong to the earth are like the one who was made of earth; those who are of heaven are like the one who came from heaven. [What is Paul saying? Those who are earthly, selfish, are like the one made of dirt, they decay and return to dirt. But those who are reborn of Jesus are of the light, of the life, they are like the one who came from heaven, they won't decay, but have life. Note what comes next.] Just as we wear the likeness of the man made of earth, so we will wear the likeness of the Man from heaven. [What does this mean? What is the likeness of the man from earth? Is this talking about our bodies, our sinful, sick, diseased, mortal bodies? Yes, this is the context, but we will wear something new, something not like what we inherited from Adam, we will wear the likeness of Jesus—an immortal body free from the carnal drives.] What I mean, brothers and sisters, is that what is made of flesh and blood cannot share in God's Kingdom, and what is mortal cannot possess immortality. [What does this mean? Does flesh and blood mean human? No, because Jesus is still human, as is Moses, and Enoch, and Elijah and they are all in heaven. What is meant by flesh and blood is the fallen, sinful, selfish, carnal nature that we inherited from Adam. That sinful humanity cannot share in God's Kingdom because it is "enmity" to it, it is opposed to it; it is driven by fear and selfishness. It is mortal and dying of a terminal condition. Thus, we need a new humanity one that is not mortal and this is a secret truth.] Listen to this secret truth: we shall not all die, but when the last trumpet sounds, we shall all be changed in an instant, as quickly as the blinking of an eye. For when the trumpet sounds, the dead will be raised, never to die again, and we shall all be changed. For what is mortal must be changed into what is immortal; what will die must be changed into what cannot die. So when this takes place, and the mortal has been changed into the immortal, then the scripture will come true: "Death is destroyed; victory is complete!" (1Corinthians 15:47–54 GNB).

What makes us mortal—is it merely our physiology, is it merely the molecules that make up the body—or is it sinfulness, distrust, fear, selfishness within us?

So, in order for us to receive, possess an immortal body, for death to be swallowed up by life, what needs to happen in us? We need to have sinfulness, selfishness and all traces of rebellion erased from our hearts, minds, and characters so that we can live in heaven and receive the immortal body that Jesus has for us.

So what would Jesus need to do before coming again? Would He not need to apply to the hearts, minds, characters of all who trust Him His perfection, cleansing the Spirit Temples of people from sin and preparing them to meet Him face to face? Wouldn't He need to polish them, hone them, remove from them all defects of character and couldn't this be described as cleansing the sanctuary, or going to heaven to prepare a place for them?

What if we put this teaching of Jesus into our mix:

> Jesus answered them, "Most assuredly, I say to you, whoever commits sin is a slave of sin. And a slave does not abide in the house forever, but a son abides forever. Therefore if the Son > makes you free, you shall be free indeed" (Jn 8:34–36 NKJV). [What does it mean to be able to abide or live in the house of God? We must be freed of sin—what does that require? Do we have to be prepared? Do we have to be converted, renewed, transformed, shaped, cleansed? Is this the message of the cleansing of the sanctuary—Jesus is going to heaven to prepare a dwelling place for His followers—meaning He is going to prepare all who trust Him to be ready to dwell there, to be living stones built together into a house for the Lord? Is this the message of the investigative judgment in heaven? Remember the 23rd Psalm—we dwell in the house of the Lord forever.]

So I paraphrased 2Corinthians 5:1-10 it this way in The Remedy NT:

> "Now, we know that this earthly body is like a tent or hospital gown that wears out easily and leaves us exposed. And if this earthly body–which our individuality currently occupies–is destroyed, we have an eternal body that will never wear out; a heavenly dwelling place for our individuality, but not built by human hands. Meanwhile, the older we get, the more we groan, longing to be free of this deteriorating body and to be clothed in our perfect heavenly body, because when we have exchanged this mortal body for our heavenly one, we will not be found sick, dying, and exposed. For while we are in this collapsing tent, we groan with the burden of aging and slow decay. We don't want to die to be rid of this worn-out body, but we want to be translated directly into our heavenly body so that what is mortal may be swallowed up by eternal life. God's intention for us has never changed: He created us to live eternally and — as the first phase of our restoration — has given us the Spirit to heal our minds, guaranteeing our future complete re-creation. We certainly know that as long as this frail body is our home, we remain away from the Lord; but we live by trusting God with how things will turn out — not by waiting to see the future restoration. Therefore we are confident while in the mortal body, even though we prefer to be translated into our heavenly body and be at home with the Lord. Our goal is to be pleasing to him by living in harmony with his design for life — whether we are in this mortal body or our heavenly one — for we will all appear in Christ's examining room so that each one may be accurately diagnosed and receive what their condition warrants, whether from compliance or non-compliance with God's treatment plan" (2Corinthians 5:1-10 REM)

And I paraphrased John 14:1-3 this way:

> "Don't let fear and doubt trouble your hearts. Put your full trust in God and trust me too. In my Father's home, there is room for all who want to be there; if this were not true, I would have told you. I am going there to direct all my Father's resources who are not only preparing heaven for you, but also preparing you for heaven. And when all things are ready, I will come back and take everyone who has been brought back into unity with the principles of heaven to be there with me, so that we may all be together" (John 14:1-3 REM)

SUNDAY

The lesson points out that the various Feasts in the Old Testament had a prophetic significance—they were designed to forecast, foretell, reveal, teach the plan of salvation.

These Feasts repeated in an annual cycle and together they teach the grand overview of the plan of salvation from Adam's fall until the earth made new.

- Passover – as soon as man fell into sin God passed over their sins "he left the sins committed beforehand unpunished." Rom 3:25
    - Christ was the lamb of God slain from the foundation of the world. Rev 13:8
    - Time covered by the Passover—From Adam's sin until Jesus victory at the cross
    - God gave this to the people as they were about to leave Egypt and that experience is another illustration of the same lesson. Egypt represents being captive in this sinful world. The Hebrews were captive in Egypt, all humanity is captive in sin. Those who trust Jesus, put blood on the door, symbolically saying having the life of Jesus applied to their hearts, God passes over their sins, because it isn't about legal trouble and punishment, it is about the condition of the heart. All who are reborn with new hearts, have Jesus character within, will be delivered from sin and go to the promised land—the earth made new. So the Passover isn't primarily about leaving Egypt, it is about delivering humans from the slavery of sin.

- Unleavened bread – immediately God began dispensing truth unmixed with error to nurture and save, but it was internalized by those in sin, represented by the bitter herbs.
    - This also represents the time from Adam's fall until Christ's victory
    - Eating the unleavened bread symbolizes the internalization of Jesus

- Feast of First Fruits—The first fruits of the victory over death
    - The Wave Sheaf represents Jesus who is the ultimate first fruit, who was buried and rose again in sinless perfection
    - Those who arose with him on resurrection morning to everlasting life

- Feast of Weeks (Pentecost) The pouring out of the Holy Spirit to apply what Christ achieved and bring forth a harvest of healed souls
    - This occurred after Christ's death on the Cross as the benefits of His achievement were dispensed into trusting humans
    - This feast symbolically spans the time from Pentecost AD 33 until the Loud Cry

- Trumpets – a special message for the end time
    - The Loud Cry—awake, prepare, get ready it is time to be reconciled and brought back into unity, at-one-ment with God again because Jesus is coming soon
    - Late 18th and early 19th Century – the Great Awakening in Christianity

- Atonement – reunification with God, oneness with God
    - The healing and restoration of Christlike character within; settling into the truth that one cannot be moved, having our hearts and minds cleansed from fear and selfishness such that we are perfected like Job, Daniel and his three friends, John etc. people who "did not love their life so much as to shrink from death" Rev 12:11.

- The sins of the people placed upon the scapegoat symbolizing the 1000 years when Satan is left in the desolate and void earth and all the righteous place 100% of the blame for all sin, rebellion and the suffering and death it has caused upon Satan—all are 100% convinced that Satan is solely responsible for the sin problem
- From mid 19th Century until the second coming of Christ

- Tabernacles—After we have been restored to at-one-ment in heart, mind, character, Christ returns, recreates the earth and we Tabernacle with Him again in the earth made new—our Eden Garden home for eternity!

MONDAY

The lesson points out that God invited the people to come and meet Him face to face, but the people were afraid and asked for someone to be in between them and God.

Why? Because they didn't know God, their sin caused fear, which caused them to focus on self, they judged God through the lens of their own guilt, shame, how they would treat someone who wronged them and falsely believed God was angry, and wanting to punish. Thus, not knowing God, they didn't trust Him, and lived in fear of being legal trouble for rule breaking.

How did God respond to their refusal to accept His invitation? What does this say about God? Who looks good in this story?

What are the lessons for us?

Does God want us to come into a face-to-face relationship with Him?

What is in the way of that relationship for each of us today?

TUESDAY

The Need for a Veil—the lesson articulates an interesting and truthful idea, that Jesus had to veil His divine glory under human garb lest if He didn't those who He wanted to save would have been destroyed.

Does that mean that the veil in the Temple that was torn in two represents Jesus?

Was Jesus the barrier that prevented us from approaching God and did Jesus have to be removed in order for the way to God to be opened for us? Or was Jesus Himself God who came to us to bring us back into God's presence? Was Jesus working to remove the barrier?

What was behind the veil? The Shekinah glory of God—is Jesus the one who obstructs our ability to see God more clearly or is Jesus the light that lightens all men, the One who opens the way back to God and God's glory for us?

So, what is it that does obstruct our ability to see God, to know Him, to be at-one with Him?

Is it not the lies that Satan tells that we believe about Him and our own carnal natures—i.e. fear and selfishness within us?

What must be taken out of the way for us to be reunited or at-one with God? The lies we believe and our sinfulness.

Jesus is the truth that destroys the lies and Jesus, as a human, took our sin-condition upon Himself and destroyed it at the Cross, establishing in His humanity a new humanity free from all defects caused by Adam. Thus Jesus destroyed the barrier, tore open the veil and through Jesus we can enter boldly into God's presence.

The angels on the veil represent God's ministering angels who are helping us battle against the lies of Satan and resist the temptations of our selfish nature, but they cannot fully reveal the truth about God—only Jesus could do that; and angels cannot destroy our fallen human carnal nature and establish a sinless human nature—only Jesus could do that.

What is the only part of the sanctuary/temple that God directly destroyed? The veil—and the Bible says that Jesus by Jesus death He "destroys him who holds the power of death that is the devil" (Heb 2':14); and destroys the devil's work (1John 3:8); and destroys death and bring life and immortality to light (2Tim 1:10).

The veil of lies, of fear, of selfishness, of corruption of sinfulness was torn down by Jesus and a new and living way back into God's presence was opened all who trust Jesus!

What falsehood do we introduce if we say the veil represents Jesus? That God killed Jesus on the cross, thus making God out to be the source of death as inflicted punishment for sin.

WEDNESDAY

Read bottom green section, "What accusations could Satan…" When you hear about accusations by Satan, or your record of sins, or Jesus pleading in your behalf, what comes to mind? How do you understand the entire process working?

What law lens do you understand it through?

In last Thursday's lesson there was quotation from EGW which states:

> Man cannot meet these charges himself. In his sin-stained garments, confessing his guilt, he stands before God. But Jesus our Advocate presents an effectual plea in behalf of all who by repentance and faith have committed the keeping of their souls to Him. He pleads their cause and vanquishes their accuser by the mighty arguments of Calvary. His perfect obedience to God's law, even unto the death of the cross, has given Him all power in heaven and in earth, and He claims of His Father mercy and reconciliation for guilty man… But while we should realize our sinful condition, we are to rely upon Christ as our righteousness, our sanctification, and our redemption. We cannot answer the charges of Satan against us. Christ alone can make an effectual plea in our behalf. He is able to silence the accuser with arguments founded not upon our merits, but on His own.

Have you ever heard this before? And if so, how was it taught to you in the past? What does this current quotation lead you to think?

Now this is quite concerning—concerning because the editors of the lesson made a conscious choice on what they quoted and what they left out. A partial quotation can make it appear the original author appear to say something she is not saying.

Let's read the original author in a fuller setting and see if this changes the emphasis:

> As Satan accused Joshua and his people, so in all ages he accuses those who are seeking the mercy and favor of God. In the Revelation he is declared to be the "accuser of our brethren," "which accused them before our God day and night." The controversy is repeated over every soul that is rescued from the power of evil and whose name is registered in the Lamb's book of life. Never is one received from the family of Satan into the family of God without exciting the determined resistance of the wicked one. Satan's accusations against those who seek the Lord are not prompted by displeasure at their sins. He exults in their defective characters. Only through their transgression of God's law can he obtain power over them. His accusations arise solely from his enmity to Christ. Through the plan of salvation, Jesus is breaking Satan's hold upon the human family and rescuing souls from his power. All the hatred and malignity of the archrebel is stirred as he beholds the evidence of Christ's supremacy, and with fiendish power and cunning he works to wrest from Him the remnant of the children of men who have accepted His salvation. 5T 470.1 [where is such a battle taking place? Where is the work of Jesus occurring that will rescue a sinner from Satan's power? Where does Satan's powers of lies and selfishness occur? Who listens to Satan's lies, who believes Satan's accusations? Who would Christ need to plead with to persuade them that His sacrifice is sufficient to free the sinner from sin? Would God need to be persuaded that the sacrifice of Christ is sufficient? Would the sinner?]
> He leads men into skepticism, causing them to lose confidence in God and to separate from His love; [who is listening to Satan's accusations? With whom will Christ need to plead in order to overcome the accusations?] he tempts them to break His law, and then he claims them as his captives and contests the right of Christ to take them from him. He knows that those who seek God earnestly for pardon and grace will obtain it; therefore he presents their sins before them *to discourage them. [Notice the dynamic here. She doesn't say that Satan knows if he can find a sin the person committed that they forgot to confess and ask forgiveness for that it remains on the legal registry in heaven and God will be forced to pronounce them guilty and Satan wins his legal case. NO! Satan knows that all who trust God will, as Isaiah 55 says, receive FREE pardon from God and grace that heals and restores them, gives them a new heart and empowers them to overcome the accusations and temptations of Satan. Again, where is Christ plea directed?] He is constantly seeking occasion against those who are trying to obey God. Even their best and most acceptable services he seeks to make appear corrupt. [To whom? To themselves to discourage and dishearten so THEY GIVE UP.] By countless devices, the most subtle and the most cruel, he endeavors to secure their condemnation. [By whom? Whose is that condemns? Christ Jesus He is at the Father's right hand and is also interceding for us—also, in addition to who, the Father and who is the Father interceding with? With the accusations of the devil that try and discourage us!] Man cannot meet these charges himself. In his sin-stained garments, confessing his guilt, he stands before God. [Exactly, we don't stand before God and say, "I don't need Jesus. I can cure my own sin condition. In fact, I really haven't sin, I am righteous in my own strength. NO! We stand before God and say, "Father I acknowledge I was born in sin and conceived in iniquity. I was born with a terminal sin condition I didn't choose and I have had many symptoms along the way. I have been fearful and selfish and acted out against your law. I have no ability to change my heart, to heal my condition. I confess I am dead in trespass and sin." Note what happens next.] But Jesus our Advocate presents an effectual plea in behalf of all who by repentance and faith have committed the keeping of their souls to Him. He pleads their cause and vanquishes their accuser by the mighty arguments of Calvary. [For all who acknowledge their condition Jesus pleads effectively TO THEM, "My grace is sufficient for you." I have engraved YOU on the palm of my hand. My victory is your victory. Trust me and I will make you whole! The accusations of Satan of being too sinful to save are vanquished by the effectual plea of Jesus to you!] His perfect obedience to God's law, even unto the death of the cross, has given Him all power in heaven and in earth, and He claims of His Father mercy and reconciliation for guilty man. [Whose mercy? God's mercy, God so loved the world that He sent Jesus to procure the Remedy and then empowers Jesus with all the power of heaven to distribute it to us to heal and save us.] To the accuser of His people He declares: "'The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan.' These are the purchase of My blood, brands plucked from the burning." [Jesus doesn't plead His blood to the Father, Jesus rebukes Satan and refutes his accusations. And listen to what Jesus says to us.] Those who rely upon Him in faith receive the comforting assurance: "Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment." [He removes the fear, the guilt, the shame, the selfishness, the sin-condition and gives us a new heart and right spirit, writes His law of love into our inmost beings so that it is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me.] All that have put on the robe of Christ's righteousness will stand before Him as chosen and faithful and true. Satan has no power to pluck them out of the hand of Christ. Not one soul that in penitence and faith has claimed His protection will Christ permit to pass under the enemy's power. His word is pledged: "Let him take hold of My strength, that he may make peace with Me; and he shall > make peace with Me." The promise given to Joshua is made to all: "If thou wilt keep My charge, ... I will give thee places to walk among these that stand by." Angels of God will walk on either side of them, even in this world, and they will stand at last among the angels that surround the throne of God. 5T 470.2

> The fact that the acknowledged people of God are represented as standing before the Lord in filthy garments should lead to humility and deep searching of heart on the part of all who profess His name. Those who are indeed purifying their souls by obeying the truth will have a most humble opinion of themselves. [This is the investigative judgment. The investigation of our own hearts/minds/characters and experiencing the healing power of Christ purging and cleansing us from sin to prepare us to meet Him face to face.] The more closely they view the spotless character of Christ, the stronger will be their desire to be conformed to His image, and the less will they see of purity or holiness in themselves. But while we should realize our sinful condition, we are to rely upon Christ as our righteousness, our sanctification, and our redemption. We cannot answer the charges of Satan against us. Christ alone can make an effectual plea in our behalf. He is able to silence the accuser with arguments founded not upon our merits, but on His own. 5T 471.1

Jesus pleads before the Father, carrying out the Father's purpose to save sinners, the Holy Spirit listens to Christ and works in you and me communicating the love, grace and pleas of Christ to you and me to win us back to trust, so we will open the door to our hearts and let Him save us from fear and selfishness!

THURSDAY

The lesson states "Jesus' ascension is not a matter of faith, but of fact. It is this historical dimension of Jesus' ascension that provides compelling force to the exhortation of Hebrews."

This is hugely important—the life, death, resurrection and ascension of Jesus is reality, it is historical fact, it is not a matter of faith in something that is yet to happen, like the earth being made new. The historic accomplishments and achievements of Jesus which are reality are the evidences that are the foundation of our knowledge of and faith in God so that we have faith or confidence that His promises yet to be fulfilled will be fulfilled.

2022 1Q In These Last Days: The Message of Hebrews
Lesson 11: Jesus, Author and Perfector of Our Faith

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read memory text:

"Let us fix our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy set before him endured the cross, scorning its shame, and sat down at the right hand of the throne of God" (Hebrews 12:2 NIV84).

What does this text mean to you?

This text is contains 5 powerful truths for us.

1. God's Design Law

One of God's design laws is operational in this instruction—which one? The law of worship, by beholding we are changed. We actually become like the God we worship and admire. Thus, we are to fix our minds, hearts, affections upon Jesus.

2. Joy set before Him

What is the joy? What is the motive for His action?

What was Jesus achieving on the cross?

Was Jesus' trying to persuade His Father of something or was Jesus the living Word of God doing everything exactly as the Father would do if the Father were the one who came in human form?

Consider this quote from That I May Know Him:

- Had God the Father come to our world and dwelt among us, humbling Himself, veiling His glory, that humanity might look upon Him, the history that we have of the life of Christ would not have been changed.... In every act of Jesus, in every lesson of His instruction, we are to see and hear and recognize God. In sight, in hearing, in effect, it is the voice and movements of the Father. TMK 338.4

What was the joy? Jesus understood that sin destroys, it breaks the bonds of love and trust and obstructs God's living giving presence from flowing into and through people. Jesus understood that He was purging, overcoming, destroying the sin infection and restoring humanity to unity with God and His joy was from:

- fulfilling His Father's will—what joy do know His Father was proud of Him, that His Father admired and loved what He was doing. That His Father would say, "Well done Son, you have revealed my character perfectly and eradicated the infection of fear and selfishness destroying humanity. My heart is bursting with affection for you!"
    - Christ Jesus: Who, being in very nature God, did not consider equality with God something to be grasped, but made himself nothing, taking the very nature of a servant, being made in human likeness. And being found in appearance as a man, he humbled himself and became obedient to death—even death on a cross! Therefore God exalted him to the highest place and gave him the name that is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father (Php 2:5–11 NIV84).
- the knowledge that His sacrifice would not only save the species in His own humanity, not only fulfill the Father's will in revealing the truth about God that secures the unfallen universe, not only because the Father was proud of Him, but because He so loved us and knew that His sacrifice would save all who trust Him and restore them to perfection and eternal life.

What kind of war was Jesus waging? How did Jesus fight it? Is there a lesson for us as we face the injustices coming upon the world today?

3. Author and Perfector of our Faith

What does it mean the author and perfector or finisher of our faith?

The Greek for Author can also be "leader," "originator," "founder," "pioneer."

What does it mean that Jesus is the originator, founder, author, leader, pioneer also the "perfecter" or "finisher" of our faith?

What do you understand faith to be? There is context here, this description of Jesus being the author and finisher of our faith comes right after the long description of faith in chapter 11.

From chapter 11 what do we understand faith to be?

- Is it believing a certain set of doctrines?
- Is it adhering to a certain creed?
- Is it doing certain rituals or ceremonies?

Or is living faith something operational between two living beings? How, what does it do? Any synonyms for faith? The best English synonym is trust—faith is our living trust relationship with God.

Saving faith is a trust agreement between the sinner and God. It is a bond of intelligent, functional understanding—loyalty, devotion, trust, and confidence in God that results in real action and real change in the sinner.

In Hebrews 11:1, the Greek word translated as "substance" is hypostasis. The first part of the word (sub) is from the Greek hypo and means low or under, as in hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) or hypotension (low blood pressure). The last part of the word (stance) is from the Greek stasis and means standing. This Greek word (hypostasis) was translated into a Latin-based word (substance); the first half, sub, means low or under, as in subway or subterranean; the last half, stance, means standing.

Translated into modern English, faith is our "understanding of things hoped for." This understanding has two meanings, both of which apply to our faith: 1) an understanding of God, and 2) an understanding with God.

Jesus is the Author and Finisher of our understanding with God. Our faith relationship with God, our trust in God, requires that we know Him, and the first part of our understanding is to have the lies about God destroyed by the truth that Jesus revealed. Jesus is the author or originator of our faith because Jesus is the source of the truth which destroys the lies of Satan and win us back to trust.

And then in that trust relationship with God, understanding He is trustworthy, understanding we have a terminal sin condition we cannot fix or cure, we enter into a new understanding with God, an agreement with God, some call this a covenant with God.

This understanding with God is a covenant transaction—not a legal transaction. It is like the marriage covenant. When two people get married (as God designed, not as the state legally encodes), they commit to be faithful, loyal, and devoted to one another, forsaking all previous and all other potential love-interests. They commit to go to each other and work together through difficulties, to overcome obstacles together, and to not betray the best interests of the other.

We know God and trust Him with our lives, our hearts, minds, families, fortunes and futures. We trust that if we run to Him daily, with every fear, insecurity, failing, shortcoming, hurt, anxiety, distress, victory, and celebration that He will finish the work of healing our hearts and minds. He is our Healer, we are His patient. We must trust Him and follow where He leads and we trust that His Remedy will fix all that is broken in us as long as we don't break trust with Him.

Jesus establishes or authors our faith by providing all the evidence to win us to trust. And Jesus, having been tempted in all points like us yet without sin, having developed a perfect sinless human character, becomes the finisher of our faith as He reproduces Himself in us, such that "it is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me." We die to fear and selfishness and live to love God and others more than self. This is all the work of Jesus, our work is to choose to trust Him and follow where He leads.

4. Scorning the Shame

What do you make of the idea of Jesus scorning the shame of the cross?

What does shame cause people to do?

Shame causes people to fear rejection, fear embarrassment, fear others will condemn them and not like them. Thus shame causes people to isolate, to hide their true selves, to create all kinds of psychological defenses and to avoid really being known. In other words, shame causes people to divide and separate not come into at-one-ment.

Jesus as the cross is our atonement—His actions and victory removes the dividing walls and all who experience Jesus are known and are able to be known and come into the unity of our faith, to be loved despite their history of sin and shame.

This is one of the reasons the 12 step groups are healing, in those groups people disclose themselves. "Hi, I'm Joe and I'm and alcoholic" and they are accepted as a person struggling. The alcoholism, the problem, the addiction, the bad behaviors done under the influence are not accepted, the person the sinner is accepted. And this is part of the healing that is supposed to be experienced in the church. That we confess our sins one to another, not for the purpose of legal accounting, for judicial adjustment, for forgiveness even, but for the purpose of despising or overcoming the shame inherent in sin. That having been reconciled to Christ, have been reborn with a new heart and right spirit, we are freed from the shame and no longer live in fear.

But it is important to recognize, that shame just like guilt can be appropriate or inappropriate. A person can experience both guilt and shame because they have objectively done wrong (sinned), or a person can experience guilt and shame because they believe a lie when they have not objectively done wrong. This often happens when something wrong has happened to them.

Consider the difference in the shame a woman who commits adultery experiences, with the shame a woman who has been raped experiences. One has genuine shame, due to having shamed herself in the choice to violate her own values, vows, morals, God's design etc. and the resolution necessarily requires repentance, a real heart change, and confession appropriate mature Christians who can know her and still love her and validate her heart transformation and new life of victory and loyalty in Christ.

But the woman who is raped and feels shame, has false shame because she has done no objective wrong. Her shame is based on a lie of some type that being abused by another in some way diminishes her. There is no need for her to repent or confess any wrong, yet her situation may very well require her to reveal herself to others, NOT for the purpose of being forgiven as the adulterer seeks, but for the purpose of disabusing the lie operating in her mind that she is shameful.

Understanding this reality is part of what enabled Christ to despise the shame of the Cross because He knew who He was and that the shame of the experience was actually upon those who rejected and crucified Him, and not on Him. Thus "Father forgiven them they don't know what they are doing… they think they are shaming me – but it is actually shame on them." Christ, when he was lifted up "drew all" unto Himself, thus He knew His act was an act of supreme glory and not shame.

5. Sat down right hand of God's Throne

Does this mean He is not our High Priest ministering in the heavenly sanctuary?

Not at all—both this description sitting at the right hand of God's throne and the descriptions of Jesus in the heavenly sanctuary are visual images to connote function, power, authority, ability, position, and activity.

The right hand of God is the way of saying God's Hand—He has the power, ability, authority to act with the fullness of God. This phrase is not a phrase of physical locality it is a description of divine authority.

Likewise the descriptions of Jesus in the heavenly sanctuary as our High Priest are also not descriptions of physical locality but authority and function—Jesus has the remedy for sin and the ability and authority to apply that remedy to heal sinners and Jesus is doing that work. That is the message of the heavenly sanctuary.

Jesus saved the human race in His own person as a real human overcoming sin when He died on the cross and rose again as an immortal sinless human. In doing so He procured the remedy to sin and is in heaven administering that remedy to all who trust Him, i.e. finishing our faith. This is metaphorically taught in the sanctuary imagery.

SUNDAY

The lesson asks us to read Hebrews 10:35-39:

> So do not throw away your confidence; it will be richly rewarded. You need to persevere so that when you have done the will of God, you will receive what he has promised. For in just a very little while, "He who is coming will come and will not delay. But my righteous one will live by faith. And if he shrinks back, I will not be pleased with him." But we are not of those who shrink back and are destroyed, but of those who believe and are saved (Hebrews 10:35-39 NIV84).

What does this text mean to you?

Upon what is our confidence in God based? Read Friday paragraph 2 and 3 from Steps to Christ:

> God never asks us to believe, without giving sufficient evidence upon which to base our faith. His existence, His character, the truthfulness of His word, are all established by testimony that appeals to our reason; and this testimony is abundant. Yet God has never removed the possibility of doubt. Our faith must rest upon evidence, not demonstration.

> Those who wish to doubt will have opportunity; while those who really desire to know the truth will find plenty of evidence on which to rest their faith. SC 105.2
> It is impossible for finite minds fully to comprehend the character or the works of the Infinite One. To the keenest intellect, the most highly educated mind, that holy Being must ever remain clothed in mystery. "Canst thou by searching find out God? canst thou find out the Almighty unto perfection? It is as high as heaven; what canst thou do? deeper than hell; what canst thou know?" Job 11:7, 8. SC 105.3

What is our faith to be based upon? Evidence, what is evidence? That which reveals truth, which makes things plane, which validates, confirms, gives confidence in something.

What are the three threads of evidence God has given us?

- Scripture
- Science/nature
- Experience

And when all three of these threads come to the same conclusion then we can have confidence in the position.

What is the evidence for the existence of God?

- Scripture
  - The declarations of Scripture—God created heaven and earth;
  - The testimony of people who encountered God
  - The testimony and historical life of Jesus
  - The prophecies written beforehand and then fulfilled
  - The design laws of God described within
- Science/nature
  - The various laws upon which life is built: love, liberty, truth, worship, exertion, laws of health etc.
  - The absolute reliability of the life-giving and health promoting aspects of harmony with God's design laws for life
  - The complexity of life—no living organism can exist by one piece of it developing without the other pieces also being operational at the same time. Thus it is impossible for life to occur on its own, it requires a Creator.
  - The second law of thermodynamics that nothing naturally organizes itself and becomes more complex, all things decay and become more random unless some intelligence puts in energy to organize it. Consider leaving your house for 20 years and coming back to see if it has been improved or decayed.
  - The reality that life never comes from non-living material, life comes from life. All those scientists who claim that life comes from non-living matter on their own have the burden to demonstrate this. Until they can reproduce this they have no evidence. Those who teach Creation have evidence of the entire world that life comes from living organisms.
  - Life requires coded information in the DNA/RNA of all living organisms and information cannot randomly form and code itself, it requires and intelligence.

- Experience
  - Every individual experience of grace, resolution of guilt and shame and transformation of an untrustworthy exploiter into a trustworthy lover of others.
  - Our own personal relationship with God

What about the evidence for God's character?

- The fact that sin exists—if God were like Satan alleges, how would God have handled any questioning, any rebellion? Like every human dictator, with crushing power to destroy. But God has handled it with truth, love, and liberty, because what God wants is love and friendship and this can never be achieved with imposed laws and coercive force.
  - God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power. DA 759.1
- The life of Jesus—who is God in human flesh and if we have seen Jesus we have seen the Father

What about the trustworthiness of God's Word? What evidence is there for this?

- It is historically very accurate
- It reveals God's character through history
- Bible prophecies that have come true
- The principles or design laws that it reveals
- But most importantly the revelation of Jesus Christ

Hebrews 10 speaks about the faithful receiving the promise of God—what is the promise we are to receive?

Does God promise we will experience earthly wealth, health, and long life? What does God promise?

Consider for a moment heroes like Daniel, Job, and Paul—did these individuals receive the promise of God? Didn't Job suffer terrible losses of family, wealth and health? Didn't Daniel experience loss of freedom, being taken as a captive? Didn't Paul get imprisoned, beaten and eventually executed?

What is the promise that they received and that all the faithful will receive? Eternal life and inheritance of the earth made new! The meek shall inherit the earth!

How do we handle the difficulties of this world? How are we to face trials, tribulations, injustices as members of God's family? How are we to war against Satan's forces?

When you read stories like Joseph, Daniel, Paul, how did they wage war? How are we to wage war today?

> Satan assailed Christ with fierce and subtle temptations; but he was repulsed in every conflict. Those victories make it possible for us to conquer. Christ will give strength to all who seek it. No man without his own consent can be overcome by Satan. The tempter has no power to control the will or force the soul to sin. He can cause distress, but not defilement. The fact that Christ conquered should inspire His followers with courage to fight the battle against sin and Satan (EG White From Here to Forever 314).

The text in Hebrews also says, "For in just a very little while, 'He who is coming will come and will not delay.'" What does this mean?

Has there been a delay? The lesson suggests that there is an appointed time for God to fulfill His promises, what do you think of this idea?

The Bible uses language like this, "the appointed time," "when the times are fulfilled" etc., what does it mean?

Does it mean that God appoints a time and regardless of circumstances He says "time is up, here I come ready or not"? Or, does appointed times mean that God looks through the corridors of time and knows exactly when the circumstances are right for Him to act, when the people will be ready for the action He has promise to take?

As we consider this idea of an appointed time, let's include what Peter wrote:

> But do not forget this one thing, dear friends: With the Lord a day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years are like a day. The Lord is not slow in keeping his promise, as some understand slowness. He is patient with you, not wanting anyone to perish, but everyone to come to repentance. But the day of the Lord will come like a thief. The heavens will disappear with a roar; the elements will be destroyed by fire, and the earth and everything in it will be laid bare. Since everything will be destroyed in this way, what kind of people ought you to be? You ought to live holy and godly lives as you look forward to the day of God and speed its coming. That day will bring about the destruction of the heavens by fire, and the elements will melt in the heat. But in keeping with his promise we are looking forward to a new heaven and a new earth, the home of righteousness. (2 Pe 3:8–13 NIV84).

This is speaking primarily of the second coming, with a non-detailed overview of the final end of sin and sinners at end of the 1000 years when the earth is made new. But the context here is the second coming of Christ, in which the wicked will die the first death and go to sleep to be raised again at the end of the 1000 years. So the fires here are the fires of combustion that melt elements and would be similar to the fires that destroyed Sodom. These are not the fires that destroy sin as described in Isaiah 33:14,15.

But, let's focus on the question of appointed times—what does appointed time mean in light of what Peter has written?

Can we hasten the day? How?

When the gospel of the kingdom goes to the entire world then the end will come.

What is the gospel? The good news, but about what? God's kingdom—and God's kingdom is not of this world—so what is the good news to go to the world?

The truth about God's character of love, which is the foundation, source, basis of His law of love, truth, liberty upon which He created the universe to operate.

Thus the good news is that God and His government are not like human governments. No imposed rules, no imposed punishments, no external restrictions upon our freedoms, no censoring, no limits on free speech, assembly, worship. In God's kingdom we have complete and unlimited freedom because every single being there will love God and others and have internal self-control that all restraints to do evil are from themselves having God's law written upon their hearts. Each saint in heaven and the angels would rather die that sin—in fact having been transformed sin is repulsive.

What do you understand the purpose was of God telling Abraham to offer Isaac?

There were several purposes or reasons, but the primary one was for the healing of Abraham's character/heart/mind from sin.

What is the root element of sinfulness or the carnal nature that we are all born with and which tempts each of us?

Fear and selfishness, the me-first survival drives caused by fear.

Salvation is dying to fear and selfishness and being reborn with a new heart and right spirit so that "we do not love our lives so much as to shrink from death."

> Jesus said to his disciples, "If anyone would come after me, he must deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. For whoever wants to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for me will find it (Mt 16:24–25 NIV84).

Abraham's faith relationship with God was a growing, healing, transforming experience. It wasn't instantaneous victory over every deep root of fear and selfishness, it was a living faith relationship that required Abraham to make choices along the way. We see Abraham's faith in:

- Leaving Ur
- Fighting to recover Lot

- Allowing Lot to choose which portion he wanted and trusting God with his own future and fortune
- Trusting that he would have a son and be the father of a great nation
- But Abraham also struggled with doubts, fears, insecurities and ended up distrusting God by taking Hagar to try and fulfill the promise of God with his own ability
- We see fear and selfishness intrude when he lied about Sarah, twice, in order to protect himself
- So while Abraham trusts God, Abraham still struggled to apply that trust fully to surrender every fear, and selfish desire to God. So after God miraculously allowed Sarah to become pregnant and giver birth to Isaac, He instructed Abraham to sacrifice the child who was the fulfillment of the promise. And what would that instruction cause Abraham to arise within Abraham—not because God placed it there, but because it was always there and God wanted to draw it out and removed it—doubt, fear and selfishness. God did this so that Abraham could face His deep fears and the selfishness within and choose to trust God with what was more important to him than his own life and finally get the victory over his own fear and selfishness.

There were other purposes in addition to therapeutically intervening to solidify Abraham in trust, and those reasons include:

- Allowing Abraham to know God more fully, to gain insight into the plan of salvation and empathize with God's heart in sacrificing Jesus
- Be an object lesson of the plan of salvation
- Be an example of faithfulness to generations to come
- To demonstrate that God NEVER requires child sacrifice. Don't miss the point here. While God instructed Abraham to do this—to help Abraham overcome his doubts and fears, God actually stopped and prevented human sacrifice. So this is an example or evidence that God never accepts human sacrifice.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Moses is the second…" What do you think that Moses' life highlights defiance of the king?

The Bible not only records real people who did real historic things, but many of the stories are object lessons to teach the plan of salvation.

The story of the Hebrews in Egypt and Moses is one of this real historic events that teaches a larger reality.

- Egypt represents this world of sin
- Pharaoh represents Satan the ruler of this world of sin
- The Hebrews were slaves in Egypt
    - and we are slaves to sin
- Moses was born a slave in Egypt
    - we are born in sin conceived in iniquity

- The king of Egypt claimed the lives of the Hebrew babies
    - Satan claims the lives of all who are born in sin
- Moses parents rejected the legal claims of the king of Egypt
    - Those who know Jesus reject the legal claims of Satan to the lives of their children
- Moses parents put him in a basket on the water
    - Our parents dedicate us to God and put us in His care
- Moses sister watched over the basket
    - Families and church members watch over our growing children
- God provided opportunity for Moses to be educated by his own mother in the things of God
    - God provides opportunity for the faithful to educate their children in His truth
- God provided Moses educational opportunities in Egypt that would prepare him for his later work
    - God provides us with education in the world to prepare us for His work
- Moses had to choose at some point which kingdom He would identify and align with, Egypt or Israel
    - We have to choose whose kingdom do we align with and whose the methods, laws, and principles we practice
- Moses rejected Egypt and became the deliverer of the people, and led them through the Red Sea, metaphor of baptism, to journey to the promised land
    - We are to reject the principles of this world be immersed into the baptism of the Holy Spirit so we will enter the promised land

WEDNESDAY

What do you think of including Rahab the prostitute in the long list of faithful in Hebrews 11? Isn't it beautiful? Doesn't her inclusion speak hope to everyone of us who have histories marred by ugliness?

And what is the action that Rahab is noted for? Hiding the spies and lying to keep them hidden, why would this be noteworthy to be in the hall of faith?

Did it take faith for Rahab to do this? Did Rahab put her life on the line? Was she willing to sacrifice herself to protect others? And those she chose to protect was based upon what? Did she have some thread of insight, light, hope, and faith in the God of the Hebrews? And she chose to act on that faith and align herself with God.

We don't have a text that God said "well lied Rahab" we have a text that basically says, "Well done, you chose me!"

But Rahab would know very little of God's character, she would know very little of God's methods, principles or preferences, and thus Rahab chose as a child to follow God. And her faith resulted in actions that were meaningful, even though her comprehension was still childlike.

This is a good example of what the Bible means when it says, “man looks on the outward appearance but the Lord looks on the heart.”

The imposed law view, the satanic view, the legal view, is about the deeds and actions, but the healing view, the reality of God’s kingdom is always about the condition of the heart.

Here we have the case of a person whose heart was won to trust in God and chose to act on that trust in a way that she lied, she bore a false witness against her neighbors in Jericho by hiding terrorists bent on destroying all the men, women and children in that city. But she did it because her heart was right.

Who knows if she would have had the faith of Daniel and his friends if she might not have spoken the truth, been called before the city leaders, and God intervene with a miracle like the lions or the fiery furnace and the city responds like Nineveh?

2022 1Q In These Last Days: The Message of Hebrews
Lesson 12: Receiving and Unshakable Kingdom

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read memory text: "Therefore, since we are receiving a kingdom that cannot be shaken, let us be thankful, and so worship God acceptably with reverence and awe" (Hebrews 12:28 NIV84).

What is the unshakable kingdom that we are to receive from Jesus?

Jesus said, "The kingdom of God does not come with your careful observation, nor will people say, 'Here it is,' or 'There it is,' because the kingdom of God is within you" (Lk 17:20–21 NIV84).

Is this a different kingdom than the unshakable kingdom?
When do we receive the kingdom of God that is unshakable?

What is it that makes the kingdom unshakable?

When you think of an unshakable kingdom, do you think of the shaking times, that the world is going through the shaking right now and are we of the kingdom that cannot be shaken out of loyalty to God?

Consider this quote from Youth Instructor February 2, 1893, what do you think?

> Make it the law of your life from which no temptation or side interest shall cause you to turn, to honor God, [what kind of law is this? it is an expression of love and loyalty, of understanding commitment, of integrity and responsibility—it is deciding on what kind of person one will be. And why would we make honoring God the law of our life?] because he "so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." As a redeemed, free moral agent, ransomed by an infinite price, [when you hear this expression what do you think? paying a legal debt, buying us from Satan, paying off His Father not to kill us? What about reality, paying the price necessary to free us from sin. A ransom frees one held hostage or captive. We are held captive in sin by the lies about God that keep us from trusting Him and our own carnal nature. Jesus revealed the truth to destroy the lies and developed a perfect sinless human nature that we may partake of. It was an infinite condescension or price that He paid, but it was the price our condition required to free our hearts and minds from the sin condition.] God calls upon you to assert your liberty, and employ your God-given powers as a free subject of the kingdom of heaven. [Is a free moral agent one who acts out of obligation, rule-keeping, because they are under threat and fear punishment? Or out of love, knowing they are free, not afraid that God will not retaliate against them if they sin, but they know that God grieves when they fall short and longs to heal them, so they love God and freely choose to live as God would have them live because it is what they love to do, it makes the most sense, it is a part of who they are, the law of love and liberty written into their souls!] Be no longer under the thralldom of sin, but as a loyal subject to the King of kings, prove your loyalty to God. [How? By rule keeping, or by loving loyal devotion to God and to the principles of His kingdom?] Through Jesus Christ show that you are worthy of the sacred trust with which the Lord has honored you in bestowing upon you life and grace. You are to refuse to be in subjection to the power of evil. [What is the power of evil—lies, fear and selfishness. We don't surrender our thinking to others, we don't live selfishly, we don't live controlled by fear, we live in harmony with the principles of God's kingdom, truth, love, freedom.] As soldiers of Christ we must deliberately and intelligently accept his terms of salvation under every circumstance, cherish right principles, and act upon them. [Soldiers of Christ—what does this mean? Are we in a war? What kind? Did you read my blog for this week, Is a "Just War" Possible? We are at war and Satan works to incite fear and selfish outage in our hearts to get us to join one of his teams to fight against another one of his teams using his methods of lies, coercion, force, manipulation, some type of compelling power, which changes you when you use those methods on others. We are to use right principles, but what are right principles? Does living by right principles mean we can make rules to apply in every situation, or does the situation determine the specific action to take based on the right principles?] Divine wisdom is to be a lamp to your feet. [Is divine wisdom a list of rules, or understanding design law, God's character, reality, what the sin problem is and God's solution for it and how to live out God's design laws in every circumstance?] Be true to yourselves, be true to your God. [What does it mean to be true to yourself? It means we don't betray ourselves by giving into fear when we are convicted of our duty, when we have understanding of our responsibilities, we stand firm for them and don't surrender our thinking, responsibilities, or decisions to others, and don't go along for the sake of convenience, money, approval, or out of fear of rejection, or losing status or property. Have you seen many fail to be true to principle and be shaken during the COVID, especially in their willingness to use their office to compel and coerce others?] Everything that can be shaken will be shaken; but rooted and grounded in the truth, you will abide with those things that cannot be shaken. The law of God is steadfast, unalterable; for it is the expression of the character of Jehovah. [What kind of law is unshakable and unalterable? We have a message about our Creator God that is to enlighten the world! It calls people out of the mess of imperial law, imposed rules with inflicted punishments to worship Him who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water. It is a message that transforms the heart, establishes God's law in the inmost being so people will not be shaken—but people have to choose! And over the last couple of years the pandemic put the world in position where people had to decide what principles they would practice in treating others. We see millions who have chosen the principles of the beast.] Make up your mind that you will not by word or influence cast the least dishonor upon its authority. YI February 2, 1893, par. 5

To have the religion of Christ means that you have absolutely surrendered your all to God, and consented to the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Through the gift of the Holy Spirit moral power will be given you, and not only will you have your former intrusted talents for the service of God, but their efficiency will be greatly multiplied. The surrender of all our > powers to God greatly simplifies the problem of life. It weakens and cuts short a thousand struggles with the passions of the natural heart. Religion is as a golden cord that binds the souls of both youth and aged to Christ. Through it the willing and obedient are brought safely through dark and intricate paths to the city of God. YI February 2, 1893, par. 6

The lesson states, "Jesus is the Mediator of a new covenant, and His blood provides salvation for believers. His priestly and royal ministry in our behalf is a cause for celebration for the heavenly hosts. And finally, Hebrews 12:25-29 contains the last and climatic exhortation: God's judgment is coming. It will bring destruction to His enemies—but vindication and a kingdom to His people."

What is Jesus mediating? Is it a legal transaction, or is Jesus mediating the solution to the sin problem, wielding truth and love in such a way that it destroys lies, purges the lies from minds and cleanses hearts from fear and selfishness restoring God's design law for life back into the hearts and minds of all who trust God?

This mediation of truth and love also solidifies the loyal angels in their devotion to God and all sympathy for Satan is now gone and they have no vulnerability to any future lie about God.

What does it mean His blood provides salvation? Does it mean red corpuscles? Does it mean blood payment?

What law lens does one use?

And this is something to remember whenever anyone uses the metaphor of Jesus' blood. There are two ways it is viewed, the biblical way and the pagan way.

The biblical way is Leviticus 17:11 the life is in the blood—thus the blood represents life. This is design law. The blood of the sacrificial animal is symbolic of the life of Jesus, which was given, shed, for the purpose of destroying sin, Satan, and death, and restoring life into the species human. In other words, the blood represents the living-giving remedy of Jesus' perfect sinless life and mature human character that He developed as a human.

The pagan way is that the blood represents, not the life, but the death, dying as a sinless being to pay the death penalty to the offended god in order to purchase sinners from the hands of this punishing god by giving the punishing god a substitute death in the place of the ones he was going to take.

So, listen carefully when people talk about the blood and being saved by the blood, are they talking about the life of Jesus being given to us so that we receive a new heart, right spirit and be recreated with the life of Jesus so that "it is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me" or are they saying that the blood represents the death of Jesus paying God the death penalty so God won't kill us.

What about the ideas of judgment as expressed here in this paragraph, that God's judgment brings destruction to His enemies—is that true? Is it the judgment of God that destroys His enemies?

What kind of judgment is being described if it is the cause of the destruction? Wouldn't it be inflicted by the judge? So God becomes the source of pain, suffering and death to those who are lost. Is that true?

No, this is the false conclusion one gets when one believes that God's law functions like human law. Then justice is God inflicting punishment.

But the Bible is very clear about both God's law and from where death for sin comes; God's law is not like human law it is the protocols that life is built upon and just as death comes to those who tie plastic bags over their heads from being out of harmony with the law of respiration, so too, "those who sow to the carnal nature from that nature reap destruction"—not from God. Galatians 6:8.

But the lesson references Hebrews 12:25-29 to support their idea. Let's read it and see if the Bible says God's judgment destroys His enemies:

> See to it that you do not refuse him who speaks. If they did not escape when they refused him who warned them on earth, how much less will we, if we turn away from him who warns us from heaven? At that time his voice shook the earth, but now he has promised, "Once more I will shake not only the earth but also the heavens." The words "once more" indicate the removing of what can be shaken—that is, created things—so that what cannot be shaken may remain. Therefore, since we are receiving a kingdom that cannot be shaken, let us be thankful, and so worship God acceptably with reverence and awe, for our "God is a consuming fire." (Hebrews 12:25–29 NIV84).

Does this say anything about God's judgment destroying the wicked?

What does it say? That God is a consuming fire—which means what?

The sinners in Zion are terrified;
trembling grips the godless:
"Who of us can dwell with the consuming fire?
Who of us can dwell with everlasting burning?"

He who walks righteously and speaks what is right, who rejects gain from extortion and keeps his hand from accepting bribes, who stops his ears against plots of murder and shuts his eyes against contemplating evil—Isaiah 33:14-15

- God speaks to Moses at the bush (Exodus 3:2-4; Acts 7:30-36)
- God came to Mt Sinai and His presence was described as a "consuming fire" did the elements melt like a nuclear explosion? (Exodus 24:17)
- Tell us that when Solomon's Temple was dedicated the Priests couldn't enter because the brightness of God's fiery glory was too great – but did the Temple burn down? So was it heat that was keeping the priests out? (2 Chronicles 5:14 & 7:1-3)

- Lucifer used to walk among the "fiery stones" of God's presence (Ezekiel 28:14,16)
- Jesus on the mount of transfiguration still in His human body that was subject to death – His face shown like the sun and his clothes were bright white – but did His clothes burn off or did He receive 3rd degree burns? (Matthew 17:2)
- "Our God is a consuming fire." (Hebrews 12:29)

What is the lie that Satan has foisted upon us? The place you don't want to go, the place you don't want to be is the place of eternal burnings and consuming fire and that place is God's very presence!

The righteous will be transformed by this life giving glory – as Moses was after 40 days with God – (Exodus 34:29-35)

But what kind of fire is this? How can fire not burn up bushes, buildings and faces and actually transform and heal the righteous but at the same time cause anguish, discomfort, pain and destruction to the wicked?

What kind of fire is this?

This is a fire that is to cleanse the earth of sin, a fire that consumes wickedness

What is sin made out of?

Lies and selfishness

Now what is it that consumes and destroys a lie?

The truth and the HS is called the Spirit of truth.

What is it that consumes and destroys selfishness?

Love and God is Love – so when God's Spirit comes it is the Spirit of Truth and Love

And at Pentecost, when the Spirit came they saw "tongues of fire" – did the house burn down or anyone get injured?

"They perish because they refused to love the truth and so be saved." (2Thessalonians 2:10)

The beast is a system composed of people who are willing to use coercion, force, threat, intimidation i.e. composed of those settled into the selfish character – THE BEAST VIOLATES THE LAW OF LIBERTY - GOD WILL NOT

So if we want to say this is God's judgment, what kind of judgment is it? It is the judgment of reality, diagnosing accurately what actually is the condition of each heart. God's judgment doesn't determine the outcome, it confirms the condition and the condition of each heart determines the outcome.

SUNDAY

Read Hebrews 12:22-24:

> But you have come to Mount Zion, to the heavenly Jerusalem, the city of the living God. You have come to thousands upon thousands of angels in joyful assembly, to the church of the firstborn, whose names are written in heaven. You have come to God, the judge of all men, to the spirits of righteous men made perfect, to Jesus the mediator of a new covenant, and to the sprinkled blood that speaks a better word than the blood of Abel (Hebrews 12:22–24 NIV84).

What does this text mean?

Read first paragraph, "Hebrews affirms…" Are Mount Zion and the heavenly Jerusalem the same?

What do you understand about the New Jerusalem? Do we have any other insights regarding it?

Let's turn to Revelation 21:1-2:

> Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and there was no longer any sea. I saw the Holy City, the new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride beautifully dressed for her husband (Revelation 21:1–2 NIV84). [Is this a different city than we just read about in Hebrews, or is the Holy City, the New Jerusalem the same as Mount Zion, the heavenly Jerusalem? And what does it mean "prepared as a bride beautifully dressed for her husband?" Dressed in what? Would it be righteousness, the white robes of Jesus? What would it mean about the city then, what is it, what is it built out of? Let's keep reading, but keep in mind what we studied in lesson 10 about Jesus going to heaven to prepare a place for us. Remember what we understand the cleansing of the heavenly sanctuary to be, and who the bride of Christ is.]

Skip to verse 9-14:

> One of the seven angels who had the seven bowls full of the seven last plagues came and said to me, "Come, I will show you the bride, the wife of the Lamb." And he carried me away in the Spirit to a mountain great and high, and showed me the Holy City, Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God. [What is this? What is being said? Who is the bride of Christ? Is Christ married to inanimate material, or to living beings? Then what is being described? What would the New Jerusalem have to be constructed out of if the New Jerusalem is the bride of Christ? Do we remember other Bible texts that say that we are "living stones being built together into a house for the Lord"—a dwelling place. Is Christ in heaven preparing us a dwelling place—is this related to the New Jerusalem, the city where our names are, what are > our names? Our individualities, characters, so what is this describing?] It shone with the glory of God, and its brilliance was like that of a very precious jewel, like a jasper, clear as crystal. [What is the glory of God, is it primarily photons, or His character of love? And what are we called to do in the first angel's message? To give glory to God! The New Jerusalem shines with the glory of God and is the bride of the Lamb, is this describing us, a people who have been prepared by Jesus, cleansed from all sin, honed and fitted for God's house, built together to be a living city of God? Or is it describing inanimate material with LED lighting—Living Eternal Divine lighting?] It had a great, high wall with twelve gates, and with twelve angels at the gates. On the gates were written the names of the twelve tribes of Israel. There were three gates on the east, three on the north, three on the south and three on the west. [What does this symbolism suggest? How did the people of Israel camp around the sanctuary? Three tribes on each side and we have three gates on each side of the city. What do gates represent? Entrances into the city of God. And who are the heirs of Abraham according to the promise? Those who are in Christ and are symbolically represented as the children of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, which are the twelve tribes. In the Bible symbolism the Levites camped between the sanctuary and the other 12 tribes, and they represented the people of God who minister to the rest of the world (12 tribes) to bring them into the sanctuary of God, to at-one-ment with God. So the symbolism is saying that the New Jerusalem is built out of people from all walks of life, all four corners of the earth, who are like Abraham having the faith that Abraham had, who are like Isaac, miraculously reborn even though they were dead in sin (like Isaac being miraculously born from a dead womb), and like Jacob they wrestle together with God to overcome their own fear and selfishness.] The wall of the city had twelve foundations, and on them were the names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb (Revelation 21:12-14 NIV84). [What is the building material of this city? The twelve tribes, the twelve apostles, and who is the chief cornerstone? Jesus—what is this city?]

To whom is Christ married, who is the bride?

> For your Maker is your husband—> the LORD Almighty is his name—> the Holy One of Israel is your Redeemer;
> he is called the God of all the earth. (Isaiah 54:5 NIV84).

> Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her to make her holy, cleansing her by the washing with water through the word, and to present her to himself as a radiant church, without stain or wrinkle or any other blemish, but holy and blameless. In this same way, husbands ought to love their wives as their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself. After all, no one ever hated his own body, but he feeds and cares for it, just as Christ does the church—for we are members of his body. "For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and be united to his wife, and the two will become one flesh." This is a profound mystery—but I am talking about Christ and the church. (Ephesians 5:25–32 NIV84).

Who is the bride of Christ? Then what does it mean it is the New Jerusalem coming down from heaven?

What is the shape of the New Jerusalem:

> Now the city is laid out as a square, its length and width the same. He measured the city with the measuring rod at fourteen hundred miles (its length and width and height are equal) (Revelation 21:16 NET).

It is in the shape of a cube.

And the city is made out of pure gold (vs. 18)—what else in Scripture is covered in gold and is in the shape of a cube and is the dwelling place of God?

The Most Holy Place in the Sanctuary/Temple:

Similarities between the MHP and the New Jerusalem:

Most Holy Place	New Jerusalem
Cube	Cube
Covered in Gold-Perfect	Made of Gold
Where God dwells	Where God dwells
High Priest cleanses MHP	HP cleanses the hearts of the saved
The covenant box (at-one)	The universe restored to at-one

So, prior to the coming of Christ, He receives His kingdom, which is primarily a concern for objects or people? And when a wedding occurs, what happens between the bride and groom? Does intimacy occur? Does union occur? Do the two become united in heart, devotion, loyalty, commitment, do they become one? In other words, at a wedding at-one-ment happens!!!!

Do we recognize that the marriage of the Lamb, the receiving of His kingdom (which is why type of kingdom? The kingdom of love, so it requires loving relationships in this kingdom, which is within our hearts and minds), is the same as the investigative judgment, the day of atonement?

Do we realize that the receiving of His kingdom, the wedding is Christ bringing into perfect at-one-ment all those who have put their trust in Him. In other words, the washing, the cleansing of their data-sets, their individualities, their characters as they are united to Christ like a bride to her groom, so that at the resurrection they are perfect?

Consider Revelation 3:12, describing the saved:

> I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: and I will write upon him my new name. Revelation 3:12.

What is being described here? The cleansing of character to restore the saved to God's original design for humanity, receiving the perfection of Christ as their own—being united or at-one with Christ, i.e. being married to Him.

I found this EGW quote in connection with Revelation 3:12 and found it instructive:

> Never will the human family—redeemed by the example of the Sent of God, the only begotten of the Father—understand and fully comprehend the terrible conflict waged with deceptive, alluring power and concealed, deadly hatred by Satan against our Lord when He lived upon earth. After the battle of the great day of God shall take place, when the power of rebellion is forever broken [I am breaking in the middle of a sentence to ask you what are you hearing? What law lens? What kind of battle of the great day of God? What are the weapons of God, what king of warfare? Are you thinking might and power? Or do you remember Scripture, "not by might nor by power but by my Spirit says the Lord" Zech 4:6? Do you remember EGW in many places saying that "God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power." DA 759? So when you hear about the battle of the great day do you immediately recognize it isn't force and might to inflict destruction?] and Christ's mediatorial work in its magnitude is represented so plainly that all of the redeemed of God's family shall, with clear comprehension, understand the mission of His Son as the mediatorial remedy to make of the fallen race a repentant, humble, meek, reclaimed order of beings—then there will be seen developed the difference between the person that serveth God and the one that serveth Him not. {Christ Triumphant 227}
> Rebellion will exist in our world until in heaven are spoken the words "It is done." Rebellion in the church is caused by its members feeling opposed to God and to His terms of salvation. Human beings want abundant room to express themselves and to attract attention. They do not know or understand that they are working out the plans of Satan. If they refuse to see and to become enlightened, if they refuse to be instructed, they reject the mediatorial remedy that has been given to save the sinner—not in sin but from sin. [Wow—saved from sin, not saved in sin. We are not declared righteous while we remain unrighteous as the penal legal theologies claim. No, we become righteous as the Bible teaches 2Cor 5:21. And in the Romans 6:16 obedience comes from the Greek ὑπακοή [hupakoe] –first half hypo as hypoglycemia meaning low, and akoe from which we get acoustic, and means to listen. So biblical obedience means a humble willingness to listen and be instructed, to have the errors, falsehoods, lies removed and to grow in the truth. But the wicked are lost because they did not love the truth and be saved. This author is saying the same thing, they refuse to be instructed, they won't listen to truth. They have their theologies, their rules, their systems and they must be adhered to. But we are to Come and Reason together… Those who refuse to reason, to examine evidence, to pursue the truth have closed their minds to the truth that Jesus has > brought. It is only through the truth we are won to genuine trust in God and then transformed by the Spirit of Truth and Love. Notice the purpose of Christ was not legal, but remedial, healing, to fix the damage sin has done to His creation.] For the express purpose of saving sinners was the remedial work of Christ planned. {Christ Triumphant 227}

Here is another EGW quote:

> Jesus sent His angels to direct the minds of the disappointed ones to the most holy place, where He had gone to cleanse the sanctuary and make a special atonement for Israel. Jesus told the angels that all who found Him would understand the work which He was to perform. I saw that while Jesus was in the most holy place He would be married to the New Jerusalem; and after His work should be accomplished in the holiest, He would descend to the earth in kingly power and take to Himself the precious ones who had patiently waited His return. {EW 251.1}

Do you see the reality through the metaphorical language? Jesus is uniting Himself in heart, mind, character with all the saints through history who have trusted in Him, He is cleansing their names which are their individualities/data sets that are stored in heaven, in the Lamb's book of life. This unity is oneness in the most intimate way and is described as a marriage.

Again, do you see the reality through the metaphor is actual healing of the character, mind, motives to be at-one with Christ.

Those who have died trusting in Him, have their individualities stored in the heavenly records, the Lamb's book of Life, and during the IJ, the Wedding, Jesus unites Himself with them by opening their datasets, their unique stored personhoods and removes all residual defects and writes in His perfection. Thus, they are "washed in the blood" metaphor for the life of Christ, His character restored in them, or covered by the robe of righteousness.

We who are alive on earth receive the same transformation of character through the indwelling of the Holy Spirit and our humble and purposeful trust in Him.

But if all of this is true, how do we understand these comments in The Great Controversy page 426?

> In the summer and autumn of 1844 the proclamation, "Behold, the Bridegroom cometh," was given. The two classes represented by the wise and foolish virgins were then developed—one class who looked with joy to the Lord's appearing, and who had been diligently preparing to meet Him; another class that, influenced by fear and acting from impulse, had been satisfied with a theory of the truth, but were destitute of the grace of God. [Note the time of this wedding, the coming Bridegroom, 1844, which is the Investigative Judgment. Recognize the wedding and the investigative judgment are the same. Throughout your life, have you had the same reaction, feeling, experience when you have thought of the wedding of the Lamb of God to His Bride and the Investigative Judgment? Why not for they are the same event? In the parable of the 10 virgins it distinguishes the two classes, what are they? One class is looking with joy while the other class s looking with fear, one class is diligently studying while the other class is satisfied with theories of truth, but destitute of grace. What is the difference between them? One class actually has intimacy with God, they know Him, they love Him and trust Him and the thought of His return fills them with joy. The other class, they have the theory of salvation, the doctrine of the second coming, but don't actually know and love Jesus, they are not at-one, are not intimate with Him and thus the thought of His return fills them with fear, because their hearts have not been brought into at-one-ment with Christ. They rely on the legal theory of payments, rather than the unity of heart and mind. And when the crisis in the world increase they will focus on the fear. While those who have this unity with Christ will focus on being in His arms and will not be distracted from their love by the chaos in the world. They will say, "even so come Lord Jesus!"] In the parable, when the bridegroom came, "they that were ready went in with him to the marriage." The coming of the bridegroom, here brought to view, takes place before the marriage. The marriage represents the reception by Christ of His kingdom. The Holy City, the New Jerusalem, which is the capital and representative of the kingdom, is called "the bride, the Lamb's wife." Said the angel to John: "Come hither, I will show thee the bride, the Lamb's wife." "He carried me away in the spirit," says the prophet, "and showed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God." Revelation 21:9, 10. Clearly, then, the bride represents the Holy City, and the virgins that go out to meet the bridegroom are a symbol of the church. In the Revelation the people of God are said to be the guests at the marriage supper. Revelation 19:9. If guests, they cannot be represented also as the bride. [What does this mean? Are we the guests or the bride, or does the Bible describe the saved as both depending upon which parable, prophecy, or symbol is being used, so it is not either or it is both? In this particular parable the guests are not the bride, but does that mean the saints are not the bride of Christ? No, of course we are. Then what is being described here? What is the point?] Christ, as stated by the prophet Daniel, will receive from the Ancient of Days in heaven, "dominion, and glory, and a kingdom;" He will receive the New Jerusalem, the capital of His kingdom, "prepared as a bride adorned for her husband." Daniel 7:14; Revelation 21:2. Having received the kingdom, He will come in His glory, as King of kings and Lord of lords, for the redemption of His people, who are to "sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob," at His table in His kingdom (Matthew 8:11; Luke 22:30), to partake of the marriage supper of the Lamb. GC 426.2 [There is the marriage and then there is the marriage supper, the celebration. What constitutes the "marriage"? Isn't it two hearts being united as one? And when do the saved become united or at-one or atonement with Jesus before the second coming or at the second coming? Before, it is the work going on now in heaven as Jesus directs all the agencies of heaven to not only win us to trust, conversion, but to heal and seal us settling us both intellectually and spiritually so that we cannot be moved. In other words, reproducing the character of Christ, washing the bride to prepare her for the physical presence when He comes, to restore perfect love for God and others in us and purging fear and selfishness from our characters.]

The proclamation, "Behold, the Bridegroom cometh," in the summer of 1844, led thousands to expect the immediate advent of the Lord. At the appointed time the Bridegroom came, not to the earth, as the people expected, but to the Ancient of Days in heaven, to the marriage, the reception of His kingdom. "They that were ready went in with Him to the marriage: and the door was shut." They were not to be present in person at the marriage; for it takes > place in heaven, while they are upon the earth. [Meaning—we were no present physically, we are present by faith being restored, reconciled, joined to Christ, united with Him, made at-one with Him and the Father, thus being joined with our Heavenly Bridegroom.] The followers of Christ are to "wait for their Lord, when He will return from the wedding." Luke 12:36. But they are to understand His work, and to follow Him by faith as He goes in before God. It is in this sense that they are said to go in to the marriage. GC 427.1

What do you hear? How do you put it together? Do you see all of this connected to the Investigative Judgment? Do you see the connections between coming to Mount Zion, the heavenly Jerusalem and the cleansing of the sanctuary, having our names written in heaven and our characters cleansed from sin? Do you see it is all teaching the same thing?

Consider these quotes from the same author:

> We are God's great building. Every stroke, every stone put into the building is only a part of the whole. Every worker is himself to become just what God designs he should be in building his own life with pure, noble, upright deeds, that at the end he may be a symmetrical structure, a fair temple, honored by God and man. God must be in this work. "Ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building." Through you He has worked, and will work to do honor to His name by trusting to you these great responsibilities. [What is God's name? Character, and God reproduces in us His character and we carry forth the work of God which glorifies Him by living out His methods of truth, love, freedom!] "We are laborers together with God," and God would use you and me and each individual who engages in His service. Each is to stand upon his watchtower and listen attentively to that which the Spirit has to say to him, for every word and act leaves an impress not only on our characters, but upon the characters of others engaged in the work. The Lord would have you stand forth as Daniel, every phase of your character under His own ministration, that day by day you may grow into a structure that will stand forth, not as a perfect whole in itself, but connected with the work of other chosen workmen, as a beautiful temple for the Lord, a living witness to the value, stability, and nobility of the man who keeps his eye single to the glory of God.
> Your faculties are separate and distinct, yet each is dependent for its success upon the other. So each day God works with His building, stroke upon stroke, to perfect the structure, which thus grows into a holy temple for the Lord. One stone mislaid affects the whole building. This figure represents human character, which is to be wrought upon, point by point. There is not to be a flaw in it, for it is the Lord's building. Every stone must be perfectly laid, that it may endure the pressure placed upon it. God warns you and every worker to take heed how you build, so that your building may bear the test of storm and tempest because it is riveted to the eternal Rock. Take heed how you build. Every hour may be spent in placing the stone on the sure foundation, ready for the day of test and revelation, when we shall be seen just as we are. This warning God presents to me as essential in your case. He loves you with a love that is immeasurable. He loves your brethren in the faith, and He works with them to the same end that He works with you. His church upon the earth is to assume divine proportions before the world, as a temple composed of living stones, every stone emitting light. This building is to be the light of the world, a city set on a hill, which cannot be hid. It is composed of stones laid close together, stone fitting to stone, making a solid building. All the stones are not of the same form or shape. Some are large, some are small, but each has its own crevice to fill. And the value of each stone is determined by the light it reflects to the world. This is God's plan, and He would have all who profess to believe His word fill their respective places in the great, grand work for this time.

We are, dear and much-beloved brother, living amid the perils of the last days. Every mental and physical power is to be cultivated, for all the powers are essential to make the church a building which will represent the wisdom and character of the great Designer. We are to cultivate the talents given us by God. They are His gifts, and are to be used in their right relation to each other, so as to make a perfect whole. God gives the talents, the powers of the mind; man makes the character. [What does this mean? Don't we receive the free gift of the character of Christ? It is both. God gives us truth, love, talents, intelligence, ability, power to think and act, and we must choose to use those powers and abilities. When we do, when we choose to trust Jesus, choose to surrender to Him, we receive new desires, new motives, new insights, new wisdom, and then we must choose to accept those desires, truths, and act on them, when we choose to act, God gives us the power to succeed. We don't succeed or transform ourselves with our own abilities, our own wisdom, our own discoveries, our own strength, it is by choosing to trust God and apply everything that He gives, but the choice to apply it is ours and thus we develop our own character by receiving and living out the character of Christ!] The mind is the Lord's garden, and man must cultivate it earnestly in order to form a character after the divine similitude. The Lord has wrought with you, my much-respected brother, enabling you to act your part as His workman; but there are other workmen who must act their part as God's agents, His members, who help to compose the whole body. Bear in mind, all are to be united as parts of a great machine. The Lord's church is composed of His living, working agencies who derive their power to act from the Author and Finisher of their faith. The great work resting upon God's individual workers is to be carried forward in symmetrical harmony. Manuscript Releases, Volume 2 [Nos. 97-161, 1958-1964].

The first tabernacle, built according to God's directions, was indeed blessed of Him. The people thus were preparing themselves to worship in the temple not made with hands--a temple in the heavens. The stones of the Temple built by Solomon were all prepared at the quarry and then brought to the Temple site. They came together without the sound of ax or hammer. The timbers were also fitted in the forest. The furniture was likewise brought to this house all prepared for use. {3MR 231.3}

Even so, the mighty cleaver of truth has taken out a people from the quarry of the world and is fitting this people, who profess to be the children of God, for a place in His heavenly temple. We want the cleaver of truth to do its work for us. We are taken from the quarry of the world. The material must not be a dead substance but living souls, and these souls must be brought out of the quarry of the world, where the hand of God can fit them for the temple in heaven. We are here as probationers, and we must pass under the hand of God. All rough edges and rough surfaces must be removed and we must be stones fitted > for the building. We are brought into church capacity with defects of character, but we must not retain them. We must be fitted and squared for the building. We must be "laborers together with God," for we are "God's husbandry," we are "God's building." In view of this we must see that our temple is not defiled with sin. We should be lively stones, not dead ones, but live ones that will reflect the image of Christ. We must be worshipers in spirit and in truth. {3MR 231.4}

So how do you understand it all? How do you put it all together?

Here is my paraphrase of Hebrews 12:22-24:

> But you have come into the reality (of which the symbols only pointed to), to Mount Zion, the New Jerusalem — the heavenly city of the living God — and you are part of that city. You have come to join millions upon millions of angels rejoicing in God's presence, into the heavenly sanctuary — the true church of Christ — whose identities are stored in heaven. You have come to God — the source and standard of righteousness for all people; to the archived individualities of righteous human beings perfectly restored into Christlikeness of character; to Jesus — the conduit and administrator of God's healing plan; and to the reality of God's true nature and character, which was much more potently revealed and disseminated when Christ died than in the symbols offered by Abel.

What do you understand it means to come to God the judge?

What law lens do we understand this through? If imposed human law, then we see this as judicial, we accept pagan ideas and teach a Christianized version of paganism in which the deity must be appeased, paid, propitiated, or bought with some sacrifice or offering made to the god in order to enable the god not to kill us or receive some blessing from the god. The Christian version is that God sent the sacrifice instead of us providing it, but still teaches the sacrifice was to pay God—it is still pagan. God becomes the judge overseeing legal accounts to determine who has had every act of sin paid for or not and then make a ruling of pardoned or guilty etc.

All of this is not how reality works because this false view is based on Satan's lie about God's law.

Understanding that God is Creator and His law is design law then we understand judgment as being diagnosis of what is and judging what is necessary to heal and fix what is wrong.

So, Christ in heaven is examining the souls, records, names, individualities of all who have claimed Him as their Savior to determine what is needed to be done in them to remove all sinfulness, all fear, all selfishness, all guilt, all shame and write God's law within them, cleansing them and preparing them to meet God face to face.

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, "In the Old Testament…" What do you understand the lesson is for us? Is it a judicial judgment, or related to all we have talked about?

What is happening in the Great Controversy right now? A shaking, people are being shaken either in or out of loyalty to God.

God is permitting the events to occur on earth right now in order to wake people up and put people into positions where they either truth Him and internalize His methods into their hearts in how they treat others, or they embrace fear and selfishness, identify with the systems of this world and embrace the laws of this world, me-first, power, control, force, punishment, legal maneuverings etc. to make themselves feel more secure.

In this time God's spokespersons are to give a message, to be in awe of God, the Creator and Builder of reality whose laws are design laws because the time in history has come for people to make a right judgment about God and for people to stop worshipping the dictator god promoted by Rome and all the other false religions in the world, the god who makes up rules and punishes rule breakers just like all tyrants do, and return to worship the Creator and Builder of all reality whose laws are the protocols for life, truth, love and liberty.

Every person on earth will choose, what law and what God they worship by choosing what methods they employ in how they govern themselves in the treatment of others.

WEDNESDAY

What is the unshakeable kingdom? What makes it unshakeable?

Can you think of any people who were part of this kingdom, who couldn't be shaken from loyalty to it and living out the living law of it?

What do you think of this from 5T page 80?

> In the last solemn work few great men will be engaged. They are self-sufficient, independent of God, and He cannot use them. [Why can't God use them? Because they are independent of Him, they rely on their own strength, abilities, and not God.] The Lord has faithful servants, who in the shaking, testing time will be disclosed to view. There are precious ones now hidden who have not bowed the knee to Baal. They have not had the light which has been shining in a concentrated blaze upon you. But, it may be under a rough and uninviting exterior the pure brightness of a genuine Christian character will be revealed. In the daytime we look toward heaven, but do not see stars. They are there, fixed in the firmament, but the eye cannot distinguish them. In the night we behold their genuine luster. [What a great analogy. It is when the times get tough that people's true characters are able to be revealed.]

The time is not far distant, when the test will come to every soul....[What test? Is it a 28 fundamental beliefs quiz? Is it a test of method of baptism, or ceremony? It is a test of character, what character do we live in how we treat others, love for God and others, or love for self. Do we use the methods of God or the methods of this world?] In this time, the gold will be separated from the dross in the church. True godliness will be clearly distinguished from the appearance and tinsel of it. Many a star that we have admired for its brilliancy, will then go out in darkness. Chaff like a cloud will be borne away on the wind, even from places where we see only floors of rich wheat. All who assume the ornaments of the sanctuary, but are not clothed with Christ's righteousness, will appear in the shame of their own nakedness.—Testimonies for the Church 5:80, 81

2022 1Q In These Last Days: The Message of Hebrews
Lesson 13: Let Brotherly Love Continue

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Last week in answering questions about the Russian invasion of the Ukraine I said something that could easily be misunderstood and I want to clarify and expose why it could be misunderstood. But before I do, I want to ask some questions:

- What attitude are the followers of Jesus supposed to have to the enemies of God? We are to love our enemies and pray for those who abuse us and do injustice, why? What happens to us if we embrace hate, resentment, and worldly methods to retaliate and destroy our enemies? Can God heal us if we choose these methods? Do you understand the trap of Satan doing various injustices and then getting people outraged by them to choose to do justice by using his methods of inflicting punishment?
- So, what attitude should we have toward Vladimir Putin, Joe Biden, Donald Trump or any other person?
- Does having love in our hearts for every human being, including people like Putin, mean we support what they do, how they act, what policies they advance?
- Christians are to be concerned with souls—with the hearts and minds of people to bring them to truth and the love of God in order to deliver them from the power of lies, fear and selfishness. We are not to get caught up into nation building.
- All nations are Satan's—all of them. They all use his methods and all do injustice. When we get caught up into the politics of nations, we are operating inside Satan's domain and will end up using Satan's methods.
- God is permitting the events to happen that are happening for the purpose of revealing with evidence the activities of His enemy. Those who have eyes to see can discern the methods of God's enemy, the lies, the propaganda, the coercion, the compelling power, the violations of conscience, the trampling upon God given liberties all designed to destroy the image of God in people by either getting them to become mindless pawns, or angry rebels who will use the methods of God's enemy to war against those who are abusing them.
- But we are not of this world, our citizenship is heaven, and we surrender ourselves to Jesus and we grieve as we see people doing evil because we know they are destroying their own souls. And we pray the Spirit of God will work upon all receptive hearts to see the truth and not be drawn into the systems of this world.

So, last week I said something to the effect that the Russia's invasion of the Ukraine doesn't affect our lives here, or doesn't have direct effect on us in America etc. I meant military effect, of soldiers in the streets etc.

But the messaging in the media this week is a constant drumming that the war in Russia is the cause of rising gas prices, and because much of the fertilizers our farmers use comes from the nitrates produced from those petroleum products, our food prices are increasing, along with everything that gets transported in our country—which is everything.

Thus, the messaging in the media and from the White House makes claims that Russia's invasion of the Ukraine is bad for the US and in order to do the morally right thing and oppose the evil empire of Russia, we must suffer financially here in America.

Have you heard this messaging?

But the question is: Is this, in fact, true? Or are we being scammed again by the lies of those who hate America and want to destroy your autonomy, the economic power of middle income America, and increase the power of the government and large corporations?

Well, let's ask some question and investigate the facts and see if we can discern the truth.

Two questions: Is the Russian invasion the cause of our increased energy and food prices? And, will no longer purchasing these products from Russia punish Russia as it is claimed it will do?

- When did our energy costs rise in this country, before or after the Russian invasion? Under the previous administration, gas prices were as low as $1.60 per gallon, they doubled BEFORE the Russian invasion why? Because the Biden administration shut down the keystone pipeline and obstructed our at-home oil and gas production and began purchasing it from Russia and other countries.
- This had the immediate impact of raising prices on Americans, driving inflation, and sending billions of dollars away from American families to Russia companies and other places. Which enriched Russia and gave them more financial resources to conduct their war.
- The amount of oil and natural gas we have available in US lands for our country to continue to consume at 2018 rates is about 2000 year's worth.
- So the increased energy prices and all other prices is NOT from the Russian invasion on Ukraine it is from the Biden's administrations choices to shut down US gas and oil production.
- When the president says that there are 9000 permits for oil and gas drilling that are not being used suggesting that his administration is not holding back US oil production, this is another misdirection intended to deceive. Yes, they have granted such permits, to lands that don't produce oil and gas while refusing to give the permits to the lands rich in oil and gas and refusing to open the keystone pipeline. This gives them the ability to claim that the oil companies are simply not using the permits they have been given.
- What about our not purchasing oil and gas from Russia being morally right in order to punish Russia and cut off their income stream? Well, the only problem with that is that Russia still has full and open markets for its oil and gas to China, India and Turkey, so they won't suffer one wit. Who will suffer by the Biden policies? Middle income and low income Americans—just like what happened with COVID. The super wealthy and big corporations won't suffer, it is the masses who will suffer.

This is not accidental, it is purposeful, targeted, strategic on part of the current administration because this administration aligns itself with the globalists agenda and the World Economic Forum rather than the people of the United States. These globalist have an agenda to eliminate traditional national borders and sovereignty and to institute an elite group of people who own everything and we essentially function as their serfs.

These elites don't believe in God. They don't believe in a hereafter. They don't believe we were created, but evolved, there is no moral right and wrong, only survival of the strongest. They have a vision to pro-actively through genetic and cybernetic manipulation to evolve humans to transhuman, i.e. the next stage in human evolution where we homo-sapiens became like the Neanderthals. But the discerning Bible student knows this is Satan's strategy to destroy the image of God in human beings and place his image there, to cut people off from the influence of the Holy Spirit. These globalists value the earth more than the people and view the masses of people as threat to the planet and their future and therefore must cull the population in order to save both the planet and the species. But they really mean themselves. And the USA is in the way of it because of our constitution which interferes with a few ruling elites dictating to the masses. Thus, one of their stated goals is to remove the USA as the sole superpower, to make it no more powerful than any other nation, militarily and economically. This means they must weaken the dollar, drive up inflation, destroy your savings, basically everything you have been seeing under the policies of the left. So the USA is under assault, it must be weakened. This is a multiprong attack.

COVID was part of this attack. Notice the outcome of COVID and the various governmental responses:

- Low and middle income Americans were weakened, became poorer, lost businesses, increased debt, savings decreased, while government and big corporations got stronger
- A new monitoring system to track you and monitor your body was instituted
- Religious liberty was curtailed
- Free speech was curtailed and continues to be censored, we were censored again last week
- Millions were injured and/or died because of the governmental mandates and the body count is only increasing
- And now the Russian invasion of Ukraine which completely derails the world's focus away from the abuses under COVID

Think about that—has there been various wars, crimes against humanity, ongoing essentially every decade since the end of WWII? Somalia, Bosnia, Cambodia, Venezuela, China's genocides still ongoing, etc. etc. So far is Russia's actions far beyond any of these atrocities? This is not to endorse or support in any way Russia's invasion. We have already said, all human war is unjust. We do not support what Russia is doing. The point I am making is for you to notice how much media coverage it is getting—absolute blanketing of essentially every media headline wall to wall and worldwide? Why? Because the world must be distracted from realizing how we just got Ponzi-schemed in the most diabolical way by the COVID scam.

Did you notice the timing of the invasion? Right when the evidence was breaking about the complete fraud and harm caused by COVID. And did you notice that suddenly all the mandates were just gone without any fanfare, no one really saying we were wrong etc. We don't have time to think about that because there is a horrible evil man invading the Ukraine.

But why would Russia invade so conveniently for the needs of these globalists? Because they were baited into doing it by the current US administration.

Consider the following scenario—30 years ago Texas secedes from the United States and becomes its own independent country. And now in Texas, it is conformed that China has opened multiple bioweapons labs to produce weapons of mass destruction. What would you as an American want to do?

Well, it was confirmed this week in a senate hearing by one of Biden's officials, that the USA has multiple bioweapons labs in Ukraine and has been developing bioweapons, and they have grave concerns that Russia will get access to those biological agents. Hmmm….

There is so much more to this, the CIA involvement, the corrupt US politicians and their family members getting rich in Ukrainian companies etc. but as I wrote in my blog last week, there are no just human wars. All human nations are Satan's all lie, all do evil and we as Christians are not to get caught up in these nation wars. We are to be battling for hearts, minds and souls.

Recognize what is happening are the movements of Satan's forces, and according to Bible prophecy, which nation is the end-time nation that speaks like a dragon—is it Russia? No, it is the United States! So don't be surprised to discover the lying, manipulating, and exploiting of people and nations that the US is doing.

As more of these lies, frauds, manipulations, and outrages come to light, we, who love God, will be sorely tempted to join the forces of the political right to engage and destroy these forces on the political left. But we must resist this. God's people are not in the political left or the political right. Our message is the Jesus is coming again. We will not save this planet, it is going to be destroyed. We will not, through human invention, technology, economic strategy, might, force or any other mechanism bring in a eutopia—things are going to get worse, much worse, and our responsibility is to uplift the kingdom of God, truth, love and liberty.

Now, in preparing the lesson for today I came across this quotation from EGW, consider what is described in light of what is happening in the world today:

> The light of God has given us for the world… is not to be put under a bushel or under a bed. [What is that light? It is the light of the 3 angels, the truth about God's character of love and His methods, Him as Creator and His law as design law] The devil is far from being narrow and prescribed in his work. This is plainly revealed by the rapidly increasing darkness, the multitudinous errors, heresies, misconceptions, and delusions of these last days. [Do we see increasing delusions all around us in various forms where evil is called good and good is called evil?] Creeds and false doctrines are popular and all pervading to leave the minds of the world with the drinking of the wine of Babylon, the most deadly heresy. [What is the wine of Babylon? At is root it the lie that God's law functions like human law, imposed rules, with inflicted punishments and sin is a legal problem requiring legal solutions of various kinds. It results in authoritarianism, a few ruling elites controlling and dictating to the submissive masses. This is how every earthly government has abused the masses and the church of the Dark Ages operated. Do we want our church to operate this way?] The neglect of plainest warnings will place us on the guilty list. [Meaning what? Neglect the remedy and you remain terminal in your sin condition.] Yes, we have plenty of evidence of Satan's might. We have evidence also that the day of work is nearly ended. [Do you see that that Christ's return is near?] Let every power that God has entrusted to His agencies be now employed. Restrict no one's labor in any line if they are established in the truth, but let all work who will. 12LtMs, Lt 31, 1897, par. 13

The great apostasy is working to a point, and will develop into darkness deep as midnight, impenetrable as sackcloth of hair. [What is the great apostacy? It is the great controversy over God's character, the lie about God's law which leads those who believe it to dominate and abuse others and results in people either becoming more like Satan who practice those methods, have their individualities destroyed if they submit to those methods, or rejecting the idea of God altogether and teaching godlessness, evolutionism, communism, socialism etc.] This is the time to employ any system that can be devised to discover and counteract the leaven of error. [Should we expose the lies, reveal the truth, even if it is upsetting to some, hurts some feelings?] Let there be light. There should be one hundred light bearers in our world where there is one today. Darkness will become more dense in human minds after the truth has penetrated and been rejected. But there are some minds where the darkness will be removed. They recognize the light. 12LtMs, Lt 31, 1897, par. 14

The apostasy will exist in this night of spiritual darkness. It will be destroyed by the brightness and exceeding glory of Christ's coming. O, what a day of gladness for the righteous that will be! What a breaking up of the spell of fanaticism and delusive sentiments when Christ shall shine forth before His ancients gloriously! Then the system of satanic delusion, which souls have preferred to the truth that involves a cross, will be broken up. 12LtMs, Lt 31, 1897, par. 15

Satan has come down with great power to work with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish. The powers of deception are working upon minds in every country to gain a foothold. Satan is seeking to hedge up our way in this country. [Hedge up our way means to restrict our liberties, to have our churches closed, to restrict visitations, to close our schools, to interfere with free assembly and association and free speech and to censor ideas that disagree with the lies of Satan. Do we see that happening today? And have you seen many in the church supporting these dark movements of Satan?] The night of trial, the night of weeping, the night of persecution for the truth's sake, is not far distant. [Are we entering this time, is it about to break upon us?] It is through much tribulation that we shall stand as faithful sentinels for God, not swerving one hair from truth and righteousness. Famines will increase; pestilences will sweep away thousands. Dangers are all around us from the powers without and Satanic workings within, but the restraining power of God is now being exercised. 12LtMs, Lt 31, 1897, par. 16 [The restraining power of God was being exercised in 1897, it is still being exercised, but the four winds are loosening, Satanic powers are gaining greater freedom to act. Do you recognize this?]

"Satan hath desired to have thee, that he might sift thee as wheat," is applicable to very many souls. Yet we are not left helpless. The Lord spreads his covering hand over us, saying, "I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not." [Luke 22:31, 32.] 12LtMs, Lt 31, 1897, par. 17 [Yes, the enemy is raging, but we have a Savior who will not leave us nor forsake us. We must keep our eyes fixed in Christ.]

The church militant is not the church triumphant. We are enjoined, "Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Wherefore take unto you the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand. Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness; and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked. And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." [Ephesians 6:10-17.] 12LtMs, Lt 31, 1897, par. 18

The night of trial is nearly spent. Satan is bringing in his masterly power because he knoweth that his time is short. [Are you encouraged? The trial is nearing its conclusion. But Satan is bringing his final great masterful deception to fruition. Can you discern it? The chastisement of God is upon the world to call all who know the truth to hide in the cleft of the Rock and view the glory of God. [What is the chastisement of God? It is God letting go His protection and allowing more of the disasters and evil to occur, so that the people who have not hardened their hearts against God can see the difference between the methods of God and the methods of Satan. God's people those who love truth, love and liberty, who do their own thinking, to present themselves to God as living sacrifices will not conform to the worldly methods of lies, coercion, control and blind submission. We will speak the truth in love, while leaving others free.] The truth must not be muffled now. Plain statements must be made. Unvarnished truth must be spoken in leaflets and pamphlets, and these must be scattered like the leaves of autumn. 12LtMs, Lt 31, 1897, par. 19

Read second paragraph, "Throughout the letter, brotherly love…" What does it mean to "exhort one another"?

The dictionary definition to exhort is: to give urgent advice, recommendations, or warnings.

But what if the advice, recommendations, warnings cause someone to feel uncomfortable? What if the exhortation identifies someone's actions as sinful, destructive, harmful and they feel condemned, or ridiculed, or unaccepted, or they feel unloved because you exhort them for their actions rather then tell them what they are doing is equally healthy to actual objective healthy living?

Do you understand the current world culture is antagonistic to truth, to love, to God's kingdom?

The political correct movement, the idea that if someone takes offense means you were wrong and that you should never say things that upset others or that could be heard as rude, that causes someone to feel condemned is a grand deception of Satan to get the truth speakers of the world to collude with lies and to destroy hearts, minds and souls.

The Holy Spirit is the Spirit of truth and love. Satan prefers that we are both deceitful and unloving, but if he cannot get us to reject both principles of God, then he works to get us to divorce the two, to advance truth without love or love without truth.

Truth without love is seen when people use truths, facts, data to injure, harm, to expose, hurt and embarrass, and then turn around and say "I am only speaking the truth." Their concern is not in helping the other person, it is in making themselves feel good at the expense of the other person, albeit through speaking some factual truth to hurt another, or ruin another's reputation etc. This is not how those like Jesus in character operate.

Consider this instruction regarding the qualities one needs to possess in order to exhort, rebuke, correct another person:

> I have seen the great sacrifice which Jesus made to redeem man. He did not consider His own life too dear to sacrifice. Said Jesus: "Love one another, as I have loved you." Do you feel, when a brother errs, that you could give your life to save him? If you feel thus, you can approach him and affect his heart; you are just the one to visit that brother. But it is a lamentable fact that many who profess to be brethren, are not willing to sacrifice any of their opinions or their judgment to save a brother. There is but little love for one another. A selfish spirit is manifested. {1T 166.2}

What is the principle espoused here? Does the motive matter? But does having the right loving motive mean that one can get a good outcome from the other? What about Jesus' motive when dealing with the leaders of His day? Did He get the outcome He wanted? Why not?

So the first error is to advance some truth without love—but there is the error on the other side, seeking to be loving without truth, which manifests as over empathy or sentimentalism or fear of hurting someone's feeling. The false idea that love is never uncomfortable or interventions of love don't cause pain. This is based on approaching life through feelings rather than reality. Failing to understand the actual situation and what is needed to remedy it.

Here is a truth that many fail to understand: Once there is brokenness there is no pain-free option.

The PC movement fails to understand this. Love seeks to save, to heal, to restore, and genuine, real loving interventions will cause people to feel pain of various kinds. Of course we seek as best we can to minimize the discomfort, but there will still be pain, discomfort when healing brokenness.

Set a broken bone and the recovery process will involve pain.

Set a sin right and there will be the pain of disappointment in self, embarrassment, hurt pride, guilt, shame—Jesus confronted the leaders of His day multiple times in love exposing their hard hearts, their pride, their greed and selfishness and this offended them.

> Then the disciples came to him and asked, "Do you know that the Pharisees were offended when they heard this?"
> He replied, "Every plant that my heavenly Father has not planted will be pulled up by the roots. Leave them; they are blind guides. If a blind man leads a blind man, both will fall into a pit" (Matthew 15:12-14 NIV84).

Should Jesus have changed what He said because of fear others would get offended?

We must have love in our hearts for people, but we must also speak the truth.

The wise rejoice when truth is presented, the wicked seek to destroy the truth and the truth speakers:

- Instruct a wise man and he will be wiser still; teach a righteous man and he will add to his learning. The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom, and knowledge of the Holy One is understanding (Proverbs 9:9, 10 NIV84).
- Whoever corrects a mocker invites insult; whoever rebukes a wicked man incurs abuse. Do not rebuke a mocker or he will hate you; rebuke a wise man and he will love you (Proverbs 9:7, 8 NIV84).

Does this mean we don't speak the truth? No, it means we preach the truth personally to those who are willing to hear, and we present the truth in public forums, on our website, lectures, seminars, books, classes, but we don't go out into the community hunting for people who have no interest in the truth to correct them.

Jesus said, "Do not give what is holy to the dogs; nor cast your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn and tear you in pieces" (Matthew 7:6 NKJV).

So the exhortation of Hebrews is to our brothers and sisters in Christ, those who are wise enough to long for correction, instruction, rebuke, training and who want to grow in godliness.

We do stand up to the false methods, principles, lies of the world, but don't go to individuals to correct them—we live just like Jesus. He preached the truth, exposed the lies of the false systems of belief that were being employed, and when they came to Him and asked Him questions, then He answered them, but He didn't go to those false teachers in order to correct them.

SUNDAY

The lesson is about ministering, supporting, caring for those who are imprisoned, incarcerated.

What does this mean?

Do those incarcerated for preaching the gospel need the same type of support and ministry as those incarcerated for murder, rape, drug trafficking or theft?

Can any imprisoned person benefit from Christian ministry? Absolutely, but do all incarcerated people need the same ministry? Why not?

Is there a lesson for us in dealing with people not in prison, perhaps in the church, community, or family?

Do the circumstances of the individual have any bearing upon what is the most loving action to take when dealing with others?

Does this give us any insight into God's actions in the Old Testament?

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Paul warns the readers…" I like how they worded this—the reason they gave—"because they are two grave threats to brotherly love." They didn't say because it breaks a rule, or gets into legal trouble with God, or that God will be required to punish etc. They got this quite right, sin breaks God's design laws for life, and hardens the heart of the sinner. Sin increases fear, guilt, shame, selfishness and will divide all human relationships.

Adam and Eve in Eden were divided immediately after sin, Adam's fear, guilt, shame, and selfishness caused him to blame his wife.

Only in Christ, where we die to the old fear-ridden, selfish, guilt-ridden, shame-filled life and live a new life of holiness, righteousness, honesty, integrity and love do relationships heal and we experience unity, friendship, trust and the true bonds of brotherhood.

Do the motives for avoiding sin matters? If we avoid acts of sin for fear of getting caught and getting punished but in our heart we would like to commit the sin, what happens in us? We only become more rebellious, jealous, petty, frustrated and untrustworthy and will become discontented gossips, meddlers and legalists seeking to monitor and control other people's lives.

But if we avoid acts of sin because we love God, love others love His methods and it make sense as the best way to do things, what happens to us? We mature and experience peace and contentment and become peacemakers in our families and communities.

What do you think about the phrases “unwarranted divorces”? What would be a warranted divorce?

Does God hate divorce?

Did God, through Moses, give them terms and instructions on how and why to divorce? And did Jesus explain why God did this? Why?

So an analogy, doctors hate to amputate limbs, but do doctors have specific criteria in which amputating limbs is not only authorized, but recommended? Why? Because of gangrene—which occurs when the circulation is compromised, blood doesn’t flow. The life is in the blood, and this can occur through closing or hardening of the arteries. This is a great metaphor for sin. Sin harden the heart and when love no longer flows then characters, souls, minds, harden or turn gangrene. This is said in biblical language of hard hearts or stiff necks, or stony hearts. A person is married to such a gangrenous and destructive spouse, whose heart is hard and cannot be restored to love as Christ loves, then in some circumstances the action that love must take in order to reduce the decay, the damage, and create opportunity for healing is to severe the gangrenous appendage which is known as divorce—cutting away that which is dead.

So, when is divorce the most healthy and loving action to take? When hearts are hard and love cannot be restored into the inmost being and to maintain the marriage destroys souls and unfits the partners for usefulness in God’s cause.

What do you think about the idea of the double standard on sexual ethics throughout much of human history—the idea that it has been permissible for men could cheat but women had to remain chaste?

What law lens do you view this through?

If through the law and standards of this world—it is unfair, unjust to hold women to a standard of sexual chastity while men are permitted to cheat.

And what has modern, western society done, recognizing this unfair double-standard? Has western society sought to apply the principle of God, calling for men to become chaste, to become responsible, for sexual purity, or has western society applied the methods and principles of Satan and advanced a so-called sexual revolution in which it is taught that women should have no different standard of sexual purity than men, that women should be just as free as men to have as many sexual partners as they want and chastity is an antiquated concept from the Dark Ages to control and subjugate women.

And has much of western society accepted this worldly line of thinking? And what has been the result? Is the world become more like Jesus? Are families getting stronger?

But what if we view this through God’s design law. What happens to any person, male or female, who is sexually promiscuous? Does such activity have an impact upon their hearts, minds, bodies, and characters? Yes, the sinner is changed, harmed, damaged, injured by every act of sin.

From a godly perspective, who is in a better position, the man who many sexual partners and cheats on his wife, or the woman who remains chaste until marriage and rather than cheating, divorces the disloyal spouse? While the wife can be heartbroken, emotionally hurt, experience betrayal from her cheating husband etc. Her soul remains pure, her character undamaged, her conscience remains clear. But what happens if she decides to be equal to her cheating spouse and also engages in promiscuous behavior?

The modern western thinking is not a movement of moral purity, it is a movement of equality built on earthly values and earthly principles and results in the debasing of women, not the redemption of any corrupt and untrustworthy man.

The godly approach is to love God first and seek to live by the standards of God's kingdom and then seek to bring those principles to bear in all spheres and avenues of life, so godly feminists stand for the purity of God in governing their own bodies, not subjecting themselves to the abuse and mistreatment of others, including abuse and domination from ungodly and unchristlike husbands, but they don't accept the morally depraved standards of the world and seek equality by becoming as untrustworthy and immoral as a cheating husband.

TUESDAY

> "Obey your leaders and submit to their authority. They keep watch over you as men who must give an account. Obey them so that their work will be a joy, not a burden, for that would be of no advantage to you" (Hebrews 13:17 NIV84).

What does this mean?

Is the Bible establishing a system of authoritarian rule like human governments in which the members are to submit to the rulings of those above them? Did God handled Satan's rebellion by using authority over his angels and ordering them to obey and submit?

What do we do with Acts 5:29?

> Peter and the other apostles replied: "We must obey God rather than men!" (Acts 5:29 NIV84).

Should the apostles have submitted to the Jewish leaders? Why not?

What about the Reformers, should they have obeyed and submitted to the Roman Catholic church leaders? Why or why not?

What about in our church today? What about if the General Conference votes something, does that mean the member is to surrender their thinking and individuality to the GC? Or should the member still think for themselves and study and follow the truth humbly where the truth leads.

Consider these quotations from Ellen White and ask yourself, was she not following the Bible to obey and submit to the leaders of the church, and if what she wrote was true then, what about now?

- "The church is in the Laodicean state. The presence of God is not in her midst." (Ms 156, 1898 – Notebook Leaflets from Elms haven Library, Vol.1, Need of Self- Sacrificing Effort, p. 99)

- "I saw that the testimony of the True Witness has not been half heeded. The solemn testimony upon which the destiny of the (SDA) church hangs has been lightly esteemed, if not entirely disregarded. This testimony must work deep repentance; all who truly receive it will obey it, and be purified." {CET 176.2}

- 1898 "It has been some years since I have considered the General Conference as the voice of God." - Manuscript Releases 17, p. 216, 1898; Last Day Events, p. 50.3 1901

- 1901 "It is working upon wrong principles that has brought the cause of God into its present embarrassment. The people have lost confidence in those who have the management of the work. Yet we hear that the voice of the Conference is the Voice of God. Every time I have heard this, I have thought that it was almost blasphemy....We have reached the time when the work cannot advance while wrong principles are cherished." (Manuscript 37, 1901)

- 1902 Ellen White writes to her sons Edson and Willie, "I have but very little confidence that the Lord is giving these men in positions of responsibility, spiritual eyesight and heavenly discernment. I am thrown into perplexity over their course; and I desire now to attend to my special work, to have no part in any of their councils, and to attend no camp meetings, nigh or afar off. My mind shall not be dragged into confusion by the tendency they manifest to work directly contrary to the light that God has given me. I am done. I will preserve my God-given intelligence. My voice has been heard in the different conferences, and at camp meetings. I must now make a change... I shall therefore leave, leave them to receive word from the Bible... This is the light given me and I shall not depart from it." (Letter W-186, 2 Dec. 1902 to Edson and Willie White, p. 4, 5)

- 1904 "Rebellion and apostasy are in the very air we breathe." (2SM 58)

- The apostasy will "develop into darkness deep as midnight, impenetrable as sackcloth of hair," and will increase in strength until the coming of Jesus. (Ellen White, Manuscript Releases, vol. 7, p. 185.1)

There is one key factor that is assumed by the author of Hebrews that is often missed by those who read it. I have overtly stated it in the Remedy:

> "Humbly follow the Christlike leadership of those in authority. They work to protect you from danger and assist you in growth, and they take their responsibilities seriously. Listen to > them and cooperate with them eagerly, so their work will be filled with success and joy; and don't burden them, for burdening them will only undermine their ability to help you" (Hebrews 13:17 REM).

They key is Christlikeness of leadership, the Christlike don't rule over, but lead like Jesus, truth presented in love, leaving free for every person to be fully persuaded in their own mind.

The last paragraph states, "The combination of care and faithfulness from the leaders and obedience or trust from the members will result in joy."

Thoughts about this?

It is only safe to trust the trustworthy—to trust the untrustworthy is harmful and destructive.

And trustworthiness requires three elements:

- The person loves you more than self
- The person is mature—have self governance—a 5 y/o child may love their parent but they still cannot be trusted to take the parent's paycheck to the bank or with giving certain information. Many in the church love others, but are immature, and don't have good self-control, and thus cannot be trusted with positions of responsibility or with certain information.
- The person must have wisdom, which means they must understand reality, God's design laws, character, methods, the problem of what sin actually is and God's solution for it. A person may love you, may have good self-control, but be unwise because they accept the lie that God's law functions like human law, and sin is rule breaking and righteousness is rule keeping and therefore they advise a woman who is being beaten by her husband to submit to such treatment.

So we can only trust those who are trustworthy—and then we only trust them with what is appropriate to trust them with.

If we have a person who loves us more than self, is mature, is wise, do we trust them with our thinking, with our decision-making, with our choices? Or if we are to grow, develop, mature ourselves, must we think for ourselves, choose for ourselves, learn for ourselves, act for ourselves? Thus we still cannot trust another with the choices we make, we must be fully persuaded in our own minds as to the actions we take.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson references Hebrews 13:9 tells us to beware of all kinds of diverse and strange teachings. But how can you determine what is diverse and strange?

When Jesus came and said, "unless you eat my flesh and drink my blood you can have no part with me" might the leaders have alleged that He was teaching what is diverse and strange?

When Martin Luther came along and rejected indulgences, rejected purgatory, rejected the supremacy of tradition over Scripture, might the leadership of his church claim that his views were diverse and strange teachings?

My point, isn't anything that challenges tradition, orthodoxy, long held views often considered strange and diverse?

So, how can we tell what is strange and diverse?

The integrative evidenced-based approach—our teachings must be grounded in reality, a harmonized view of the entire inspired record, with God's revelations in nature and real-life experience.

It is when we pick a little here and a little there from the various evidentiary threads that we end up in confusion and can't discern right from wrong.

We need rock solid foundations that never waiver and never change, and those are God's design laws. When we understand them then we can utilize them as testing tools to differentiate strange and diverse ideas from rational and reasonable ones.

Read second paragraph, "First, Paul does…" Is clean and unclean referring to sanitation or ceremony, to laws of health or rituals?

To the degree they deal with laws of health, actual sanitation they are still binding, to the degree they deal with ritual and ceremony they are not.

God wrapped up some of the laws of health and sanitation principles into the ceremonies to help protect the people from diseases. Those disease protecting elements still apply today because the laws of health still apply. But the rituals don't apply nor do any ceremonial distinctions, particularly regarding to acceptance with God and issues of sin.

So, washing hands, cleansing utensils that touch dead animals or have blood on them are still valid and in fact regulated by the health department, i.e. codified by the state rather than the church for the same basic reasons. But the methods of washing, using an autoclave on utensils instead of washing by hand or through a particular ritual is irrelevant.

The lesson points out that the problem was partaking of foods in a magical or superstitious way such that one believed the foods either blessed in some spiritual way, had magical properties, sin cleansing properties, or condemned, cursed, gave gods power over them. Either way, such foods and eating should be avoided.

What about communion—can people participate in communion in such a way that it becomes superstitious rather than sanctifying?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "The place outside the camp…" What do you think of this idea that anything impure was cast outside the camp because God was "unwilling to see anything unclean"?

If this is so, what do you make of David's prayer:

> Search me, O God, and know my heart;
> Try me, and know my anxieties;
> And see if there is any wicked way in me,
> And lead me in the way everlasting (Ps 139:23–24 NKJV).

Was David asking God to look upon a clean or unclean heart? Was David asking God to look where God is unwilling to look?

Let's read the two texts cited for this idea and see what they are saying:

> The LORD said to Moses, "Command the Israelites to send away from the camp anyone who has an infectious skin disease or a discharge of any kind, or who is ceremonially unclean because of a dead body. Send away male and female alike; send them outside the camp so they will not defile their camp, where I dwell among them" (Nu 5:1–3 NIV84).

> Designate a place outside the camp where you can go to relieve yourself. As part of your equipment have something to dig with, and when you relieve yourself, dig a hole and cover up your excrement. For the LORD your God moves about in your camp to protect you and to deliver your enemies to you. Your camp must be holy, so that he will not see among you anything indecent and turn away from you (Dt 23:12–14 NIV84).

So what do you hear? First and foremost it is about sanitation, about health, about limiting disease, not sin. But it is couched in a context of religious obedience because we are integrated beings and we cannot fulfill God's purposes to the fullest if we are sick. It is through our physical bodies that we live and breathe and exist and have life. So, we present ourselves to God as living sacrifices holy and pleasing to the Lord this is an act of spiritual worship.

So, God gives instructions on keeping the environment healthy, limit spread of diseases so people can be physically healthy to grow in godliness and serve Him.

But what about the defiling of the camp where God dwells. This isn't just about physical health, it also teaches spiritual realities. God doesn't want to dwell in buildings, He wants to dwell in hearts and minds. Thus, if we defile the city with refuse, we get sick and can't function. Likewise, if we defile our spirit temples with fear, selfishness, gluttony, greed, pornography, sexual promiscuity, etc. we corrupt the our hearts and minds, the place where God wants to dwell, and drive Him out of our hearts.

The idea of God not seeing, does this say that God cannot look upon, that God is unwilling to see, or is it saying that God respects your choices, and if you choose to do these things God will see it and God will respect it and God will leave you to it. So don't do these things so God won't see them and God will in fact see the opposite and see that you love and respect Him and He will draw closer to you.

But there is a lesson here. Jesus was rejected by the Jews and was crucified outside the walls of Jerusalem, outside the camp. What is the lesson?

You will not find God inside Judaism today—that system is a dead and corrupt system of legalism that rejects Jesus as Messiah. Jesus is outside their system, outside their theology, and the nation of Israel is not the fulfillment of God's end-time people to evangelize the world, because Jesus is not in their camp.

2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson 1
The Creation

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY GUIDE

In the third paragraph the lesson reads:

> "The English word Genesis is derived from the Greek genesis, which means "beginning," which itself is derived from the Hebrew… "in the beginning"—the first word of the book (hence, the first word of the entire Bible!). Genesis gives us the foundation, base, upon which all the following Scriptures rest. Because it is first, and so foundational to all that comes after, Genesis is probably the most quoted or referred to book in the rest of Scripture."

Many of the reasons they cited is here are the reasons I went ahead and paraphrased Genesis along with the New Testament and Psalms. This book is foundational to understanding reality in so many ways.

However, there is one idea here that isn't quite as tightly connected and thus I want to explore it.

What are your thoughts about genesis being the first word of the entire Bible and because it is first it is foundational?

The way our Bibles are arranged Genesis is certainly the first book and the Hebrew "in the beginning" is the first word, but does that mean that genesis is the first word of Scripture that was written?

Most scholars believe Genesis is the second book of the Bible written, the first being Job.

Now consider, if Job were placed before Genesis and it set the stage for reading the rest of Scripture, would there be a different lens, a change in landscape or emphasis for which we understand the Creation account?

What is the opening scene in Job? A conflict in heaven—does it make a difference if we understand the Bible through the lens of the Great Controversy? And what was the controversy over? In Job 42:7, God clarifies, that what Job has said about God what is right. The issue in the war is what is revealed throughout all of Scripture the goodness, righteousness, and trustworthiness of God which was brought into question by Satan the liar.

Ellen White got this right. The first words in the Conflict of the Ages series, in the book Patriarchs and Prophets are:

> "God is love." 1 John 4:16. His nature, His law, is love. It ever has been; it ever will be. "The high and lofty One that inhabits eternity," whose "ways are everlasting," changes not. With Him "is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." Isaiah 57:15; Habakkuk 3:6; James 1:17.
>
> Every manifestation of creative power is an expression of infinite love. The sovereignty of God involves fullness of blessing to all created beings…
>
> The history of the great conflict between good and evil, from the time it first began in heaven to the final overthrow of rebellion and the total eradication of sin, is also a demonstration of God's unchanging love.
> The Sovereign of the universe was not alone in His work of beneficence. He had an associate—a co-worker who could appreciate His purposes, and could share His joy in giving happiness to created beings. "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God." John 1:1, 2… (Patriarchs and Prophets 33-34).

This setting of the Great Controversy over God's character, law, methods is the lens one must have to discern rightly the rest of Scripture and this is the setting we get when we remember that Job is the first words of Scripture written.

Yes, it is true that Job as a human being lived after the Creation account in Genesis, but the book of Job was written before the Genesis account. This is because the Great Controversy over God's character, methods, law and government began before the Creation account of Genesis and is the central issue in the war.

Let's jump to WEDNESDAY

With the Great Controversy over God's character and law in mind, let's consider the creation of humankind: was there some purpose beyond simply creating more living beings?

Did God have a purpose for humans in the middle of this heavenly war over God's trustworthiness?

If we had Job in mind before reading creation account, we would be aware of the conflict in heaven over God's character and law, and this might give us insight into the purpose of this unique creation.

Let's consider some insight from EGW the first is from Review and Herald April 14, 1896:

> The agencies of Satan are at work to keep the minds of men engrossed with the things of this life, in order that he may work counter to the mission and work of Christ. [Is that just entertainment and routines responsibilities like work, or is it also politics, social justice through government, and wars?] Of Satan, Christ declares he "abode not in the truth." Once Satan was in co-partnership with God, Jesus Christ, and the holy angels. [What is co-partnership? Agreement, cooperation, harmony, like-minded, working upon the same principles and toward the same goals.] He was highly exalted in heaven, and was radiant in light and glory that came to him from the Father and the Son; but he became disloyal, and lost his high and holy position as covering cherub. He became the antagonist of God, an apostate, and was excluded from heaven. He established his empire, and planted the standard of rebellion against the law of Jehovah. [How? By claiming that God's law is imposed and that angels were so holy they had no need for law and that if one breaks the law, God really doesn't give freedom, He kills, He punishes, He inflicts death.] He invited all the powers of evil to rally about his standard, in order to form a desperate companionship of evil to league against the God of heaven. He worked perseveringly and determinedly to perpetuate his rebellion, and to cause men to turn from Bible truth, and to stand under his banner. As soon as the Lord through Jesus Christ created our world, and placed Adam and Eve in the garden of Eden, Satan announced his purpose to conform to his own nature the father and mother of all humanity, and to unite them with his own ranks of rebellion. [What is Satan's purpose? To take human beings, created in the image of God to be temples where God dwells, living beings who operate upon the living law of love and replace God's methods, principles, character and law with his own evil methods, principles and character and the law of sin and death. Satan wants to dwell where God is supposed to dwell.] He was determined to efface the image of God from the human posterity, and to trace his own image upon the soul in place of the divine image. He adopted methods of deception by which to accomplish his purpose. [He deceives people into believing what they are doing is right when they are doing wrong. He does this in a variety of ways, one is to get people to pursue justice by practicing his methods, another is twisting reality so that people believe good is evil and evil is good—such as it is good or acceptable to flaunt perverse sexual views in the workplace but it is abusive and evil to share your faith with people in the workplace. He is able to do this because he has replaced design law with imposed law, and made up rules are arbitrary and often contradict reality—God's design laws, leaving people without any reliable standards upon which they can determine right from wrong. Only those who know God, His character and His design laws can truly discern right from wrong.] He is called the father of lies, an accuser of God and of those who maintain their allegiance to God, a murderer from the beginning. He put forth every power at his command to win man to co-operate with him in apostasy, and succeeded in bringing rebellion into our world. Review and Herald April 14, 1896, par. 4

The life of Christ is to be revealed in humanity. Man was the crowning act of the creation of God, made in the image of God, and designed to be a counterpart of God; but Satan has labored to obliterate the image of God in man, and to imprint upon him his own image. Review and Herald June 18, 1895, par. 2 ["Man" means humankind not male, Adam and Eve together are the crowning act of creation.]

What does it mean to be a counterpart of God? Counterpart means: "a person or thing closely resembling another, especially in function."

Humankind was created for a purpose—to be a counterpart of God, to be in the image of God—to reveal God in character, but also in method and function—to procreate and govern. God designed Adam and Eve, two separate individuals to come into the unity of love and create beings in their image, with their likeness. This is how God the Father, Son and HS function, in some aspect of shared unity in which they give of themselves in love and create. Adam and Eve were to govern the planet as God governs the universe and the entire universe would have learned lessons about God's character, methods, and law.

If Adam and Eve would have stayed loyal and rejected the lies of Satan and fulfilled God's purpose in their creation and had children in a sinless world—how would they have governed the planet? What kind of law would the entire world and all relationships have operated upon?

And, if, in that sinless world, one of Adam's descendants would have rebelled and sinned, what would Adam have done? Would Adam have set up a court room, held a trial, then built gallows and executed his child? Or would the rebellious child have run away and hid in fear, guilt, shame, unable to tolerate the glory of God still blazing from the righteous, like the children of Israel could not tolerate the fading glory from Moses' face? Would Adam have put on a veil, like Moses did, and sought out his child seeking to restore him, just like Jesus veiled His glory and became human to seek us out in order to restore us?

Satan hates everything that exposes him as a liar. Satan hates humanity and does not want us to fulfill the purpose that God created us to fulfill—to live in in harmony with God's design law of love, in truth, in freedom, in peace with God and each other. Satan wants to either destroy us or corrupt us to be the exact opposite of God's design.

Satan's goal has been to take living temples, human beings, and establish himself as the one enthroned in our hearts and minds as the one we love, admire, worship, cherish and behave like. He does this by getting us to believe lies about God and then to embrace his methods of fear and selfishness, coercion and force to advance our way upon others. In so doing he takes away our liberty; he wants to make us satanic in character, to make us pawns and puppets. He has used multiple strategies throughout history and God has been acting throughout history to oppose him and keep open the avenue for the plan of salvation.

Prior to the flood Satan not only worked to corrupt human character, such that humans became violent and hate filled, but Satan also worked to corrupt the species through genetic and hybridized manipulation of the physiology—designed to change our physical natures sufficiently that we would be cut off from God and no longer be image bearers of our Creator but animalistic.

Consider these historic quotes—do you agree?

> But if there was one sin above another which called for the destruction of the race by the flood, it was the base crime of amalgamation of man and beast which defaced the image of God, and caused confusion everywhere. 3Spiritual Gifts 64.1

> Every species of animal which God had created were preserved in the ark. The confused species which God did not create, which were the result of amalgamation, were destroyed by the flood. Since the flood there has been amalgamation of man and beast, as may be seen in the almost endless varieties of species of animals, and in certain races of men. 3Spritual Gifts 75.2

Human beings, prior to the flood, closer to the tree of life, had a greater vitality and could tolerate physiological amalgamations, but these were designed to make humans more debased, more animalistic, less and less like our loving Creator. God not only put all those people into the first death of sleep, but He also changed the nature of the planet, shortening the human life span and making us physiologically weaker so that Satan could not as easily manipulate the human physiology through hybridization or other genetic manipulation to create amalgamations.

God also confused the languages and instituted racial differences to put obstacles in the way of humanity uniting again in total planetary rebellion against God in order to give time for the plan of salvation to be achieved—for Jesus to come.

But Satan has been working through history to achieve his goal of destroying the image of God in humanity and putting his own where God's should be. He continues to do this through all forms of false worship, through disease, through violations of God's laws for physical health, spiritual health, mental health and relationship health.

We cannot have health while violating the laws of health. Thus, every violation of God's design laws injures us. The more we live in violation of God's laws the more injuries we suffer.

Polygamy and male domination over their wives are violations of God's design and injures both husbands and wives. Just as it is when wives exert authority and domination over their husbands. God's design is co-partnership, equality of moral worth and value in which each person loves the other and seeks the best for the other and both parties are mature and trustworthy.

But Satan's multiple forms of exploitation leads to greater injury, more fear, more selfishness and more of his methods being utilized in an effort to try and resolve our fears and insecurities.

Satan continues to work to destroy the image of God in us by all these long-standing methods. But today he is also advancing his plan to destroy the image of God in us through technology. Genetic and cybernetic hybridization is actively being pursued in which human beings will merge themselves with both animals and machines. Researchers are exploring ways to take various animal genes and use them in humans and vice versa, as well as augmenting the human brain with computer chips and other enhancements, such as enhanced visual range seeing into the infrared spectrum, or giving your brain immediate access to the internet over wi-fi, or augmented memory etc. This so-called transhumanism movement is part of Satan's end-time attack on humanity to destroy the image of God in humankind.

I wrote a blog about this entitled Human 2.0 the Rise of the Cyborg where you can find more information, but this research is actively ongoing with the goal to transcend death. The real vision is to be able upload our individuality, consciousness, into an artificial platform (cyborg body) to experience eternal life.

As people have computer chips inserted into their brains to augment memory, access to data, communication or other abilities, what is the likely outcome?

Can sinful and selfish people create sinless loving beings? No, we can only create things that are like us. Additionally, it is my belief, that this is designed to cut people off from the Holy Spirit, to fully solidify people into the image of Satan. Our brains create quantum energy fields that resonate on various frequencies. The Holy Spirit communicates to us through these energy connections, anything that interferes with the natural operations of our brains changes this quantum output and cuts us off from the Holy Spirit, such as intoxication with alcohol and drugs, persistence in evil such that we sear the conscience (which results from real damage to certain brain regions causing change in the normal function of the brain) and I believe genetic hybrids and computer chips in the brain will also result in interfering with the ability of the person to communicate with God, to hear the still small voice of the Spirit.

It is one way that the world before Christ returns will be similar to the world before Noah—the image of God being erased in humankind.

SABBATH

Read last paragraph, "The most important lesson of…" What do you think of this idea that the most important lesson of beginnings, of creation, is grace?

What do you understand grace to be?

This seems to suggest a design law view rather than the penal legal view. For instance, grace in design law view is always an expression of God's graciousness, an outworking of His character of love, a dispersal of His energies, actions, abilities, presence, person, power for the good of His creation. Thus, creating life in sinless perfection to live in holiness with freedom to think and to do would be an act of grace.

But the penal/legal view often defines grace as unmerited favor, doing something good for us when we actually deserve punishment. The unmerited favor idea of grace is a false idea based on the false law concept that has infected Christianity.

Thus the lesson pointing out that God creating life in perfection is an act of grace supports our view of God's character and government.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "It is precisely because…" Was there a Sabbath before the events in Genesis chapter one? Was the Sabbath made? Does the Sabbath have a beginning? Then if the Sabbath has a beginning does it mean the Sabbath is a rule and those who teach an imposed law view are correct?

It depends on why one believes the Sabbath was made, its purpose, and that depends on how one understands God's law. If one presumes God's law is imposed rules then the Sabbath is viewed as a rule, a test of obedience, something that is made up by God and enforced by external power.

Jesus' clarification that the Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath refutes the imposed rule view—it isn't a rule made up and imposed upon us, but a gift that is somehow for our benefit.

So if one has the design law view then one understands that the Sabbath was created with a purpose to fulfill a need that didn't exist prior to when it was created and thus is an expression of God's eternal design laws of truth, love, freedom.

Consider the Sabbath having a beginning like the rainbow—according to the Bible the rainbow also had a beginning. And did the rainbow also have a purpose? Is the rainbow an imposed a sign, an evidence of something? And is the rainbow an evidence of imposed rules or an expression and outworking of design law? So too is the Sabbath, it was created with a purpose, but is not an imposed rule but the outworking of design law—truth, presented in love, leaving free.

The Sabbath was created by God at the end of creation week in the context of Satan's rebellion against Him and that the Sabbath stands as a memorial of God's kingdom and methods of love. We are to remember that in six days, God created the earth and its solar system, and rather than using His power to force Satan into line, God rested on the seventh day. God blessed the Sabbath day by investing it with His methods of governing—the truth (His creatorship revealed), love (a planet whose ecosystem operates upon the design law of love, with sentient beings designed to govern in love and capable of pro-creating beings in their image), and freedom (God rested and left His children free rather than compel them with power to obey).

In creating the Sabbath, God memorialized religious liberty, truth, presented in love, while leaving His intelligent creatures free to decide for themselves. Thus, true Sabbath keepers are people who have God's law, methods, character reproduced in them so that they live out His law and methods in how they treat others; they present the truth, in love, and leave others free, just like God has done.

So, what is the purpose of the Sabbath—it was made for whom? For humankind, why?

Did God know that humans would fall into sin? Then, would God have made a provision that would be beneficial to humans in a world of sin? Is the Sabbath such a resource, such an aide, such a blessing? How?

Again, what was the purpose of the Sabbath?

> I gave them my Sabbaths as a sign between us, so they would know that I the LORD made them holy (Ezekiel 20:12 NIV84).

A sign is a mark, which is an object that conveys meaning, something that symbolizes a message. The Sabbath is a sign, mark, object from God to humanity that He has given for a purpose—to convey a message to us. And in this way, the Sabbath is like a flag. Let's consider object lesson similarities between a national flag and the Sabbath.

- A nation's flag is made for its citizens; the citizens are not made for the flag, just like "the Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath" (Mark 2:27 NIV84).
- A flag is created to inspire the people with patriotic love and loyalty to their country. The Sabbath was created to inspire humans with love and loyalty to God.
- A flag reminds people of the history, values, and principles of a nation. When people see the old Soviet flag, they are reminded of different values than those conveyed by the British, Canadian, or American flag. The Sabbath is given to remind us of God's government, methods, and principles—the kingdom of truth, love, and liberty.
- When people are taken captive in war and they see their national flag, it inspires them with the hope that their countrymen will come and rescue them. We are captives in a world of sin, and the Sabbath is to remind us that God sent Jesus to deliver us from sin, to make us holy, to rescue us.

Have you ever been proud to wave your national flag? Why?
We should be proud to wave the Sabbath—to celebrate the Sabbath, it is a sign that GOD MAKES US HOLY—He will deliver us from the captivity of sin. He has not abandoned us and He foreknew our need and posted this sign into time itself. Evil people may take away our Bibles but they cannot take away the Sabbath—it still flies, week after week the Sabbath still flies to remind us that God will make all who trust Him holy.

But, I know someone is going to ask, what about Sabbath keeping, what rules are we to keep on Sabbath—and as soon as that question is asked, what happens? The mind is infected with imposed law and the Sabbath slowly becomes a burden and a prison of fear and selfishness.

The Sabbath is a sign that God makes us holy. We to present ourselves as living sacrifices holy and acceptable to the Lord. Can we keep ourself holy only one day a week? Or, to be holy must we be holy every day of the week?

> But in order to keep the Sabbath holy, men must themselves be holy. Through faith they must become partakers of the righteousness of Christ. DA 283

Is the Sabbath still binding? I would ask, binding what? Rightly understood, the Sabbath is a gift that helps God bind truth and love into our hearts. How? What truth does the Sabbath reveal?

- God is Creator
- God's law is Design Law
- God's methods are Truth presented in Love leaving us Free
- The Sabbath reveals God does not impose rules and threaten us with imposed punishments. That God presents evidence in love, and leaves us free and this wins us to loyalty to Him.

Read the first paragraph, "It is precisely…" How is the Sabbath an expression of our faith—isn't it an evidence of God's character, methods and law of love? Did they mean to say our valuing and honoring the Sabbath is an expression of our faith?

MONDAY

Read fourth paragraph, "The description of the Creation radically…" Which is more reasonable the Genesis account of creation or godless evolution?

Which view is more consistent with testable evidence?

Let's examine the premises each theory is built upon and find out:

Evolution	Creation
Something came from nothing	Something came from something (Creation)
Life came from non-living matter	Life came from living matter
Complexity comes from chaos with no intelligent input	Complexity comes from chaos with intelligent input
Genetic mutation adds vitality and genetic fitness	Genetic mutation reduces vitality and genetic fitness
DNA coding can write itself	DNA coding requires an intelligence

On every point the creationist view is more scientific, more evidence-based, and more consistent with reality.

Then why do so many people reject the creationist view and prefer the godless view?

Because the historic view of God that most people are familiar with and which the vast majority of Christianity continues to promote has been that of an imperial dictator who makes up rules and eternally tortures rule-breakers who won't submit to His rule.

If God were truly like this, then the universe would be better off without such a god.

But this perverse view of God is Satan's view of God, it is the type of god one gets when they accept the lie that God's law functions like human law. And this perverse view of God, based on believing God's law functions like human law, is the wine of Babylon that intoxicates the entire world. All the world believes this monstrosity is the God of the Bible—all but the very elect, the true remnant. And all the world has their minds damaged by this intoxicating brew of lies about God and His law. Even those who reject God, they do so because they still believe the lie that the Bible teaches this perverse view of God and therefore they reject it, even though the science demonstrates their godless view is unscientific.

The last paragraph tells us that God judged everything He created as "very good."

What type of judgment is this? Is this a judicial process, or a diagnostic one? Again, the lesson rightly teaches design law understanding of reality.

THURSDAY

What is the first and greatest duty of every human being?

To love the Lord with all our entire heart, soul, mind and strength, and the second is to love others as ourselves.

In the world today, what does it mean to honor God?

Do we still have the responsibility to God to be good stewards of the planet?

And does Satan twist these responsibilities to God and the planet in various ways to get people to think they are fulfilling their responsibilities when they are not?

How?

What if people prioritize the health of the planet over the health of people? What if people advance policies with the intention of protecting the planet but those policies actually injure people?

What if they not just injure them physically but harm their minds and souls by getting them to embrace beliefs that are godless, that are based on fear, that inflame selfishness, that increase intolerance, that causes division, that see others who don't practice what they believe as evil and in need of being punished?

Do the people who honor God exploit the planet? Do people who practice God's methods refuse to set boundaries with those who are destructive to both the environment and to others?

What is the balance?

What is our duty to honor God in the choice of the foods we eat?

- Do we honor God with our bodies by how we treat them?
- Do food choices make a difference?
- Should godly people make intelligent choices about what foods they take into their bodies, and will those choices include what maintains their greatest health and therefore usefulness in God's cause?
- Will such choices be based on rules or the laws of health?
- Should people be left free to decide for themselves what choices are best for them—for instance might some people need to avoid eating peanut butter while others will benefit from eating it? Should we make rules that force people to eat peanut butter because of its nutritional value or prohibit people from eating it because others might be allergic?
- Would this principle of being intelligent and personally responsible for what one puts in their body include what medicines people take? Or should society force people to take medicines they don't believe will benefit them and won't honor God?
- What about food choices impacting the environment? Do we have any responsibility there to consider our choice?
- Interestingly, the WEF and leftists want to force people away from eating meat, particularly beef, because of their concerns about global warming and other harms to the environment from cattle while many Christians take the approach that God has given us all the animals to eat and it is godly to kill and eat the animals. What are your thoughts about this?
- This is a great example of Satan twisting things to cause conflict and confusion. Is there a difference between what God has permitted because of sin in this world and what God created and designed to happen?

One of the texts used by Christians to support that idea that it is God intention for us to eat anything we want is 1 Timothy 4:1–5:

> The Spirit clearly says that in later times some will abandon the faith and follow deceiving spirits and things taught by demons. Such teachings come through hypocritical liars, whose consciences have been seared as with a hot iron. They forbid people to marry and order them to abstain from certain foods, which God created to be received with thanksgiving by those who believe and who know the truth. For everything God created is good, and nothing is to be rejected if it is received with thanksgiving, because it is consecrated by the word of God and prayer. (1 Timothy 4:1–5 NIV84).

But the Christians who use this for authorization to eat everything miss an important point in the text—there is a key phrase that is critical to getting the correct meaning and that is: "which God created to be received with thanksgiving." God did NOT create everything to be eaten. Go back to Eden and God specifically lists the foods He created to be eaten, and animals are not included. But this can be pointed out very quickly, just ask them if everything is created by God to be eaten as long as we give thanks, if that is really true—then let's give thanks for a poison ivy salad and eat it. Immediately, they will say, well, that isn't intended for food. Exactly, and God didn't create animals to be eaten for food. It wasn't until after the flood that animals started to be eaten for food and God did authorize animals to be eaten, but then gave a list of what animals were on the authorized list and what animals were not. And this list was based on the laws of health. All the authorized animals are the lowest on the food chain, meaning they are not carnivores or scavengers and thus will be the healthiest to eat.

I think there are some people who have the best health possible by eating various animal products—because of where they are in the world, the food choices available to them, their underlying physiology and other factors. So I would not make a rule on this on either side. The food choices are about living out God's principles of health for our bodies, minds, souls, and community.

SUNDAY

What do we learn about God from the Creation account?

The lesson points out that the words used for God, Elohim and YHWH indicate power and closeness. That God is both powerful, but personal, intimate, and closely concerned and connected to us.

The lesson points out that because we are created beings we are dependent upon God—thoughts about this?

This is profound, one of Satan's lies is to suggest that this dependence is a form of slavery, that we are not really free as long as we are dependent upon God, that real freedom means throwing off obedience to God's law and thus finding freedom. Why is this a lie?

What law lens do we understand it through?

If we understand law like human law then Satan's point is well made. To believe that there is no inherent damage, injury, problem from sin, that it is only sin because God made a rule to outlaw the action, and God uses power to police behavior and punish rule-breaking makes us slaves and destroys love. This corrupt view of God and His government is the root of Satan's rebellion in heaven and sustains it on earth.

But, the message for the people at this time in history is to worship the Creator whose laws are design laws, the laws life is built to operate upon. As such harmony with God and His laws is the very basis of life and every deviation injures those who break God's law.

Freedom is found in health not in sickness and health is found only in harmony with the laws of health. It is a grand deception to teach young people they can have more freedom if they smoke and do drugs, that any parent to puts rules on their children to restrict them from smoking or getting high is trying to enslave their children. No, people who violate the laws of health enslave themselves with all kinds of chains, physical limitations, pain, addictions of various kinds and become less free.

This is also true of the soul that sins. Those who sin become less free, they become enslaved to fear, shame, guilt, selfishness and their actions become various human defenses to avoid these enslaving shackles.

True freedom is found only in Christ, in harmony with God's living law of love. Thus God's creation in Genesis was a world of freedom a world in which Adam and Eve were given dominion to govern, to rule in love, and they were free to rebel, to violate God's laws, but in so doing they only enslaved themselves with chains of fear, guilt, selfishness and shame that they could not break. Only Jesus could break those chains and that is why He came.

2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson 2
The Fall

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read Memory Text:

> "'And I will put enmity between you and the woman and between your seed and her Seed; He shall bruise your head, and you shall bruise His heel'" (Genesis 3:15 NKJV).

This is perhaps the most important text in all of Scripture. This text, this promise, sets the stage for the entire Old Testament. The events recorded in Scripture are not a history of the world; we don't have anything in Scripture on the Mayan, Hawaiian, or Aboriginal peoples because Scripture focuses on the plan of salvation, it focuses on the fulfillment of God's promise to send Jesus our Savior. This is the key to understanding what is transpiring throughout the Old Testament. And all events historic or prophetic that extend after Jesus' ascension focus upon the people who take the gospel forward, this is why the Bible doesn't focus upon the genetic descendants of Abraham after Christ's ascension but upon those who have the gospel.

Read first paragraph, "Amid all that God had…" What does it mean when the lesson states "though they were to know good, they were not to know evil"?

Didn't God tell them about evil? Didn't angels warn them about evil? Didn't God say that "in the day you eat you will surely die"? Isn't death a part of what is evil and not a part of what is good?

The Scriptures teach that God's angels minister to us and some Christians understand, based on this, that prior to the fall God had His loyal and holy angels visit Adam and Eve in Eden and share with them warnings about Satan's rebellion. We read one such perspective in The Spirit of Prophecy Volume 1 p. 32:

> God assembled the angelic host to take measures to avert the threatened evil. It was decided in Heaven's council for angels to visit Eden and warn Adam that he was in danger from the foe. Two angels sped on their way to visit our first parents. The holy pair received them with joyful innocence, expressing their grateful thanks to their Creator for thus surrounding them with such a profusion of his bounty. Everything lovely and attractive was theirs to enjoy, and everything seemed wisely adapted to their wants; and that which they prized above all other blessings, was the society of the Son of God and the heavenly angels, for they had much to relate to them at every visit, of their new discoveries of the beauties of nature in their lovely Eden home, and they had many questions to ask relative to many things which they could but indistinctly comprehend. 1SP 32.3

The angels graciously and lovingly gave them the information they desired. They also gave them the sad history of Satan's rebellion and fall. They then distinctly informed them that the tree of knowledge was placed in the garden to be a pledge of their obedience and love to God; that the high and happy estate of the holy angels was to be retained upon condition of obedience; that they were similarly situated; that they could obey the law of God and be inexpressibly happy, or disobey, and lose their high estate, and be plunged into hopeless despair. 1SP 33.1

They told Adam and Eve that God would not compel them to obey—that he had not removed from them power to go contrary to his will; that they were moral agents, free to obey or disobey. There was but one prohibition that God had seen fit to lay upon them as yet. If they should transgress the will of God, they would surely die. They told Adam and Eve that the most exalted angel, next in order to Christ, refused obedience to the law of God which he had ordained to govern heavenly beings; that this rebellion had caused war in Heaven which resulted in the rebellious being expelled therefrom, and every angel was driven out of Heaven who united with him in questioning the authority of the great Jehovah; and that this fallen foe was now an enemy to all that concerned the interest of God and his dear Son. 1SP 33.2

So, if they were not to know evil why did God and the angels educate them about rebellion and evil?

Because the issue of "knowing" in the Bible isn't about cognitive awareness, comprehension, or factual understanding, Biblical knowing is when something becomes part of your experience. It is knowing intimately, through experience, not through mere information. It is not knowing about something or someone but actually knowing it or them.

For instance:

- there is a difference between knowing about swimming and knowing how to swim.
- there is a difference between knowing the fact that chocolate and vanilla ice cream taste different and knowing what they taste like
- there is a difference between knowing about President Biden and knowing President Biden
- there is a difference between knowing about God and knowing God

The Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil wasn't a place of theoretical knowledge, cognitive knowledge, or academic knowledge. God and the angels had already informed Adam and Eve about Satan, about evil, and about death being the result of sin. The two had been instructed.

Adam and Eve had information, factual knowledge. But having mere facts is not what the tree was about – it was about experience, knowing by experience either good or evil. Choose to trust and believe God and know good – or choose to believe lies, distrust God, and know evil.

God told them, "It is at this tree you will have knowledge, so choose well; choose to trust me and not to partake of the fruit and you will know good – you will know love, trust, loyalty, devotion, maturity, integrity, joy, peace, and godliness. All of this will solidify in your character. So please, my beautiful children, choose to know good! But if you choose to believe lies, distrust me and partake in the fruit, you will know evil – you will know fear, selfishness, insecurity, guilt, shame, distrust, pain, suffering, and death. Please, my beautiful children, don't choose to know evil."

God already knew evil – not in His character, but in His heart, as His heavenly home had been fractured. He was already suffering the heartache of betrayal, disaffection, rebellion, being lied about, and the loss of many of His beloved angels.

God did not want humankind to know this kind of pain, suffering, or heartache. He wanted humankind to know only good, but this required them to choose to trust God – to choose the good in order for them to know it.

So God warned them and placed this tree there for their development as free beings, with His goal for them to choose to know good and solidify themselves in loyalty and love to Him and develop their own mature godlike character. Unfortunately, they chose to know evil and humanity was plunged into pain, suffering and death, and Jesus stepped in to take this terrible terminal condition upon Himself and overcome it and restore the species back to God's perfection, eradicating the death causing principles and writing God's law of love, the life causing protocols back into humanity, thus becoming our Savior.

So what was the purpose of placing this tree in the garden? It was for their development and maturity of character. Consider this historic quote:

> God might have created man without the power to transgress His law; He might have withheld the hand of Adam from touching the forbidden fruit; but in that case man would have been, not a free moral agent, but a mere automation. Without freedom of choice, his obedience would not have been voluntary, but forced. There could have been no development of character. . . . It would have been unworthy of man as an intelligent being, and would have sustained Satan's charge of God's arbitrary rule. {Conflict and Courage13.3}

The third paragraph says, "And, too, the threat of death attached to the warning about disobedience would be fulfilled: they would die."

What type of a threat is this? What law lens do you understand it through? Did God say, "in the day you eat I will be required by holiness, justice, and the immutability of my law to kill you"? Many Christians teach it this way. Or was God saying, "in the day you eat you will step out of harmony with the protocols that I have built life to operate upon and you will surely decay and die"? It would be like saying "in the day you jump off the Empire State Building you will surely die."

Does it make a difference which way we understand God's warning?

If God is the source of threatened suffering and death would that impact our ability to trust Him? Would we need someone in between to protect us from Him? And this is the basis of essentially all paganism, including Christian paganism with its false theories of God needing to be paid the blood of His Son to propitiate His wrath.

And all of this is rooted in accepting the lie that God's law functions like human law, imposed rules requiring infliction of punishment for rule-breaking.

All of this is resolved as soon as we return to worshipping the Creator whose laws are design laws.

SUNDAY

The lesson is about the serpent—who is the one speaking through the serpent?

The lesson points to a couple of other Bible texts to help us:

> "In that day, the LORD will punish with his sword, his fierce, great and powerful sword, Leviathan the gliding serpent, Leviathan the coiling serpent; he will slay the monster of the sea" (Is 27:1 NIV84). [Is this text teaching that God will use physical violence to slay His enemies? The imagery of a sword, a powerful and great and fierce sword sounds fear inducing—what do you think? Revelation tells us the sword comes out of the mouth of Jesus, the rider on the white horse. What comes out of the mouth? Truth and the Scripture tells us that God's word is a double edged sword—Satan the father of lies and all his followers will be slain by the unveiled truth at the end of time. This isn't physical might, but reality itself coming to bear.]
> "And there was war in heaven. Michael and his angels fought against the dragon, and the dragon and his angels fought back. But he was not strong enough, and they lost their place in heaven. The great dragon was hurled down—that ancient serpent called the devil, or Satan, who leads the whole world astray. He was hurled to the earth, and his angels with him" (Revelation 12:7-9 NIV84).

So, the serpent in Genesis who tempts Adam and Eve is not some mere dumb animal, it is Satan.

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, "Satan's attack concerns…" Did Satan say they were immortal? Or did he say they would not surely die?

> "You will not surely die," the serpent said to the woman. "For God knows that when you eat of it your eyes will be opened, and you will be like God, knowing good and evil" (Ge 3:4–5 NIV84).

And if they were immortal, why was there a Tree of Life in the garden? So, it is unlikely that he was saying you are immortal, you cannot die in any way. He was saying that you won't die from eating the fruit.

Now, this lie of Satan's "you will not surely die" has certainly led to the false belief that human beings were created with inherent immortality, the idea that when God created Adam and Eve He created them in such a way that they can never die no matter what. And most of the world has accepted this falsehood, including much of the Christian world.

But the Bible doesn't record Satan saying those words. So, I agree that this original lie is the root of the secondary lie that humans have innate immortality, I don't think that was Satan's primary point for Eve.

I believe what Satan was saying to Eve was that you will not die from eating the fruit. The attack upon Adam and Eve was to get them to distrust God, thus the attack had to undermine their confidence and trust in God, to get them to believe lies about God. Satan is suggesting that disobeying God is not harmful, doesn't inherently hurt, doesn't cause injury, will not result in death.

Satan didn't say, you cannot die, but you will not die from eating the fruit, which introduces a subtle lie to blossom in their heads after they eat: If eating the fruit didn't kill them—and it didn't, and if God told the truth that if they ate of the fruit they would die, then what does that mean? "Oh no, it means that God will kill them, execute them, terminate them, use His power to punish them with death." And they ran because they were afraid of God who was trying to save them. And almost all human being since have been running from God believing that God is required to kill them for disobedience and sin because of this lie that sin itself doesn't result in death is still accepted and taught by the entire Christian world, including our own church today.

From where does death actually come—from God or from sin?

> "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 6:23 NIV84).
>
> "sin, when it is full-grown, brings forth death" (James 1:15 NKJV).
> "The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction" (Galatians 6:8 NIV84).

What was the cause of the sin condition—eating the fruit, or believing the lies about God that resulted in distrust of God and the act of eating the fruit?

- Lies believed break the circle of love and trust
- broken love and trust result in fear and selfishness
- fear and selfishness result in acts of sin (disobedience to God's law of love)
- Acting out sin damages and destroys mind, body, relationships a terminal condition

Consider this historic quote:

> Eve believed the words of Satan, and the belief of that falsehood in regard to God's character, changed the condition and character of both herself and husband. They were changed from good and obedient children into transgressors, and it was only by repentance toward God and faith in the promised Messiah that they could hope ever to regain the lost image of God. RH January 5, 1886, par. 8

TUESDAY

As soon as Adam and Eve sinned they ran and hid—why? Because they were afraid—why? From where did the fear come?

And was it only fear, or was their guilt and shame? And from where did the guilt and shame come?

When God approached them in the garden and Adam said he ran and hid because he was afraid because he was naked, what did God say? "Who told you that you are naked?"

What does God's statement reveal? Who was the source of Adam's condemnation? Was God condemning Adam? Who was?

What does this reveal to us about sin? Was sin a harmless trivial crossing of an arbitrary rule—like a tennis ball just outside the line, someone needs to get an instant replay camera zoom to investigate whether the ball touched the line or missed it? Or, does sin actually cause harm to the sinner?

This is the dividing line between truth and lies, God's kingdom and Satan's. God is the Creator. He built reality. His laws are the laws reality is built upon. Satan is a created being. He cannot build realty thus Satan makes up rules that requires infliction of punishment and then he lies about God and God's law claiming God's laws are rules that require punishment.

> In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. When men broke the law of God, and defied His will, Satan exulted. It was proved, he declared, that the law could not be obeyed; man could not be forgiven. Because he, after his rebellion, had been banished from heaven, Satan claimed that the human race must be forever shut out from God's favor. God could not be just, he urged, and yet show mercy to the sinner. DA 761.4

> The last great conflict between truth and error is but the final struggle of the long-standing controversy concerning the law of God. Upon this battle we are now entering,—a > battle between the laws of men and the precepts of Jehovah, between the religion of the Bible and the religion of fable and tradition. (GC 582.2)

This is the core lie from the beginning, a question over God's law and sadly almost the entire world accepts it, except for the very elect, those who have returned to worship the Creator God who made the heaven, earth, sea and fountains of water.

Read the third paragraph, "In fact, the whole scenario…" Do you see how sad this is? It just breaks my heart to read this perversion, these threads of Satan's lies so deeply imbedded into the thinking of good people.

We don't read anything about a judicial process going on in Eden—this paragraph's description of a legal investigation, judicial judgment, and sentencing are all fantasies projected in from the mindset of the author who views Scripture through the false assumption that God's law functions like human law.

But when we embrace God's design law and reject Satan's view of law, we see a loving Father/Creator/Savior who accurately diagnoses what is wrong and understands that His beloved child now has a terminal condition that needs healing, but this sin-condition can only be healed with the cooperation of the person. So our loving Savior gently approaches the sin-sick Adam and Eve and confronts them on the change in their being in order to bring them to conviction of their situation so that they will repent and cooperate with God for healing and salvation. Then God informs them of the consequences of what their choice has done to them, their relationships and their world along with the the plan of salvation to heal them and restore them to harmony with God's design for eternal life, i.e. save them.

Can God save any sinner without the willing cooperation of the sinner? Why not?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "God begins judgment…" If we use the language of "judgment" what kind of judgment is this?

Does our understanding of law impact our understanding of judgment?

If we believe God's law functions like human law, then when we hear "judgment" what comes to mind? Judicial proceedings, legal rulings, imposing of just punishments—all Satan's system. Ultimately, such view of law undermines trust in God and incites fear leading to all kinds of theological constructs designed to hide and protect us from God. Quite the opposite of what we actually need in order to be saved. It would be like a patient dying of cancer hiding from their oncologist so the oncologist won't diagnose them as terminal—despite the oncologist having a remedy that will put the cancer into remission.

But if we worship the Creator whose laws are design laws, then what are God's judgments, how do we hear this word?

There are four judgments in God's system:

The First Judgment: Our Judgment of God

- At the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil Adam and Eve had to make a judgment—who would they trust—God or the serpent?
- We see this first judgment at Mount Carmel, when Elijah confronts the 450 priests of Baal and challenges the people, "If the LORD is God, worship him; but if Baal is God, worship him!" (1 Kings 18:21 GNT).
- Paul picks up this theme and states it explicitly in Roman 2:4: "Let God be true but every man a liar. As it is written: 'That You may be justified in Your words, And may overcome when You are judged.'" Romans 3:4 NKJV

This judgment of God is not a judicial judgment, it is not a courtroom, it is the judgment of reality, the choice every sentient being throughout the entire universe must make in the aftermath of Satan's rebellion.

> "I saw another angel flying in midair, and he had the eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live on the earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people. He said in a loud voice, 'Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water.'" Revelation 14:6, 7

The first judgment is our judgment of God.

The Second Judgment: God's diagnosis and therapeutic interventions to heal and save

- God's "judgments" in the OT were therapeutic to diagnose, convict, lead to repentance and also to intervene to keep open the avenue to bring the Messiah, to fulfill the Genesis 3:15 promise—the flood, Sodom etc. fall into this category
- And the Investigative Judgment is the therapeutic intervention in hearts and minds to diagnose, and then apply the righteousness of Christ in order to heal and seal the saints for the second coming. David understood this and prayed:

> Examine me, O God, and know my mind;
> test me, and discover my thoughts.
> Find out if there is any evil in me > and guide me in the everlasting way (Psalms 139:23–24 GNT).

Malachi describes this judgment:

> 'Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come,' says the Lord Almighty. But who can endure the day of his coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver. Then the Lord will have men who will bring offerings in righteousness, and the offerings of Judah and Jerusalem will be acceptable to the Lord, as in days gone by, as in former years. 'So I will come near to you for judgment.' (Malachi 3:1–5 NIV84).

This is the Judgment of the Great Heavenly Physician, our Creator, examining us and diagnosing what is wrong and judging what is the best therapeutic intervention to bring to bear to heal and restore us. This is the judgment of our High Priest going on in heaven as He examines the people and prepares them for His return, finishes healing them so that when He does come we will be like Him. For "we know that when he appears, we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is (1John 3:2 NIV84). This healing, this transformation, this final work of preparation is what Malachi describes above, the cleansing of our temples, purifying the Levites, and is metaphorically taught in the Day of Atonement rituals. You can read more about this in our Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment for the Modern World pamphlet.

Third Judgment: Our judgment of reality during the 1000 years, why some are saved and why others are not and God's actions throughout

> I saw thrones on which were seated those who had been given authority to judge. And I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded because of their testimony for Jesus and because of the word of God. They had not worshiped the beast or his image and had not received his mark on their foreheads or their hands. They came to life and reigned with Christ a thousand years (Revelation 20:4–6 NIV84).

This is also not a judicial process, but a settling of all the questions. It is the assessment, discerning, and settling of the minds of how God's laws govern all reality. It is the comprehension of what sin does and how salvation occurs, and why some are saved and others are not when God loves all equally, wants all to be saved and is all powerful.

Fourth Judgment

The fourth and final judgment is the judgment that occurs at the end of the thousand years. It is often called the Great White Throne Judgment.

> I saw a great white throne and him who was seated on it. … And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Another book was opened, which is the book of life. The dead were judged according to what they had done as recorded in the books (Revelation 20:11, 12 NIV84).

Surely this must be judicial right? No, it isn't. What is recorded in the books of life? The names of people (Philippians 4:3, Revelation 3:5, 13:8, 17:8, 20:15, 21:27), and in Scripture names are symbolic of character. So, it is our actual characters, that we have developed through our judgment of God, and our judgment to trust Him, to open the heart to Him, to embrace His design laws and methods of truth, love and liberty or not. Our judgments of God result in whether we open the heart and are reborn, or harden our hearts in selfishness. Our characters develop along whichever line our judgment decides about God. Thus, we are judged or diagnosed based on what is the actual condition of our character. Another way to say it is, the books record the accurate record of who we are in heart—they are like medical records. The records don't determine the condition, there merely record the condition.

This is exactly what Jesus taught when He said:

> Make a tree good and its fruit will be good, or make a tree bad and its fruit will be bad, for a tree is recognized by its fruit. You brood of vipers, how can you who are evil say anything good? For out of the overflow of the heart the mouth speaks. The good man brings good things out of the good stored up in him, and the evil man brings evil things out of the evil stored up in him. But I tell you that men will have to give account on the day of judgment for every careless word they have spoken. For by your words you will be acquitted, and by your words you will be condemned." Matthew 12:33–37 NIV84

What is being described? Character—the actual condition of each heart, a diagnosis of what actually is. God is the God of reality. The builder of all Creation. His laws are the protocols life operates upon. There is never a judicial law court like humans make—this is a lie from Satan. The fourth and final judgment is not judicial, it is the final confirmation of the accurate diagnosis of each heart and mind:

> He who is unjust, let him be unjust still; he who is filthy, let him be filthy still; he who is righteous, let him be righteous still; he who is holy, let him be holy still (Revelation 22:11 NKJV).

So, of the four judgments, which is happening in Eden after the fall? God's diagnosis of what the problem is, what sin has actually caused and the initial therapeutic interventions to begin advancing the plan of salvation. None of God's actions here are judicial or the infliction of punishment for sin.

Just think about it. Did God say, "In the day you eat of the tree you will surely have a more difficult time plowing the ground"? Or, "In the day you eat of the tree your marriage will be ruined"? Or "In the day you eat of the tree you will have painful childbirth?" No, He said the punishment for sin was death, and was that death a sleep in the grave awaiting resurrection or eternal death, the second death. And how sinners have died that death? None!

Understand this clearly, all who say God is inflicting punishment for sin fail to understand reality and are operating under a delusion that God's law functions like human law and they make God out to be the source of inflicted pain suffering and death. We must reject these lies.

Read second paragraph, "We reach here a kind of…" What do you think of the idea that "judgment leads to death, evil, and curses"?

If this is true—then from where does death, evil and curses come?

Unbelievably, it appears the lesson is teaching that God is the originator of death, evil and curses because they come from God's judgment. And this is what always happens when you accept the lie about God's law. Those who believe this way try and cover up their view, try to couch it in theological jargon, want to deny they believe God is the source of death, but they always teach it because to them justice requires the penalty be inflicted and in their worldview the law is made up rules that require made up punishments.

But this is NOT what the Bible teaches. The Bible teaches the sin causes death, sin is the cause of evil and the curses and that Satan is the murderer from the beginning, the one who originated evil, rebellion and whose lies broke the circle of love and trust resulting in death, evil and curses. God's diagnosis doesn't cause it, sin causes it.

THURSDAY

The lesson talks about the curses upon the serpent, childbearing, husbands ruling over wives and the ground.

What do you understand about these?

Why pain in childbearing?

It is an object lesson—of what? That in a sinful world love still works to bring forth new life but it is a painful struggle until delivery. This is a metaphor of both the rebirth experience and our ultimate delivery from sin. The seeds of truth that take root in the heart work bring forth a new Christian life. But this is a painful labor or struggle against self until one is "reborn" and then there is joy. And then in this world there is a continual labor or struggle against the forces of evil until the second coming of Christ and ultimate delivery. All of this reality is taught in the object lesson of childbearing. And why would a woman, having gone through the pain of childbearing, willingly do it again—love! And thus love is the key to overcoming the pain and struggles of this sinful world.

What about the curse on the ground? Why? What does it mean? Does Paul's description in Romans 8 about all nature groaning under the weight of sin have any bearing on what God says to Adam about the ground?

Consider this historic quote:

> Christ never planted the seeds of death in the system. Satan planted these seeds when he tempted Adam to eat of the tree of knowledge which meant disobedience to God. Not one noxious plant was placed in the Lord's great garden, but after Adam and Eve sinned, poisonous herbs sprang up. In the parable of the sower the question was asked the master, "Didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?" The master answered, "An enemy hath done this" (Matthew 13:27, 28). All tares are sown by the evil one. Every noxious herb is of his sowing, and by his ingenious methods of amalgamation he has corrupted the earth with tares. 2SM 288.2

But didn't the lesson state that it is God's judgment that leads to death, evil, and curses? No it is not. It is sin leads to these things. The ground became harder to deal with because an enemy was working against God's creation, sowing in death and decay and God's judgment was the accurate diagnosis of what has happened because of sin.

Consider this quote:

> When this earth was created by Christ, it was holy and beautiful. God pronounced it "very good." Every flower, every shrub every tree, answered the purpose of its Creator. Everything upon which the eye rested was lovely, and filled the mind with thoughts of love for the Creator. Every sound was music, in perfect harmony with the voice of God.
>
> But a change has come. Sin has brought decay, deformity, and death. Today the whole world is tainted, corrupted, stricken with a mortal disease. The earth groans under the continual transgression of the inhabitants thereof.
>
> Human beings have degenerated. One after another they fall under the curse, because sin has entered the world, and death by sin. The truth is not made precious by practice. It does not sanctify the soul. It fades from the mind because the heart does not appreciate its value. In consequence the mind becomes more and more darkened by the atmosphere which is malarious because of the perpetuating of Adam's sin. The conscience has lost its sensitiveness. Through a repetition of sin, the impression made on the conscience by sin has no longer force enough to arrest the transgressor, diseased, depraved, and dying. [Is this describing a legal problem or a state of being, then what type of law is involved? Then what is the solution? Can this be fixed with legal adjustments to the record?] The voice no longer echoes the voice of God, or gives expression to the music of a soul sanctified through the truth. The heart, in which God should be enthroned, is a place from which come forth all kinds of abominations. [What is Satan's goal? To deface the image of God in man and place his own where God's should be, including that of a legalistic deity who makes up rules and punishes rule breakers. Just consider how those religious people crucified Jesus—whose character did they have?] How has the fine gold become dim?—Man has lost the reflection of God's character.
> This calamity is well-nigh universal. There is no place upon earth where the track of the > serpent is not seen and his venomous sting felt. The whole earth is defiled. The curse is increasing as transgression increases. The earth is preparing for purification by fire.

> BEcho May 21, 1900

What is the cause of the curse? Is the curse something that God inflicts or is it something that happens because of sin itself? If God restrained Himself and didn't use any power upon sinners would there be no curse only blessings?

Understand the perversity of Satan's lies. Satan's lies have caused the Christian world to teach that the curses of sin are from God, not from sin, that God is the cause of pain, suffering and death. It is a lie and it is wrong.

Every action of God is for our good. God disciplines those He loves and God speaks in judgments, but those judgments are therapeutic interventions to bring people to repentance in order to save and heal, not to curse or cause pain suffering and death.

Consider this quote:

> "How great is the long - suffering of God toward the wicked! The idolatrous Philistines and backsliding Israel had alike enjoyed the gifts of His providence. Ten thousand unnoticed mercies were silently falling in the pathway of ungrateful, rebellious men. Every blessing spoke to them of the Giver, but they were indifferent to His love. The forbearance of God was very great toward the children of men; but when they stubbornly persisted in their impenitence, He removed from them His protecting hand. They refused to listen to the voice of God in His created works, and in the warnings, counsels, and reproofs of His word, and thus He was forced to speak to them through judgments." - PP 587.4

2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson 3
Cain and His Legacy

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read Genesis 4:6-7: So the LORD said to Cain, "Why are you angry? And why has your countenance fallen? If you do well, will you not be accepted? And if you do not do well, sin lies at the door. And its desire is for you, but you should rule over it" (Genesis 4:6-7 NKJV).

What is being described here? Is this a behavior issue, a legal issue, a state of being issue?

Is God saying if you do the right rituals then I will accept you, but if you don't I will reject you?

What does God want from Cain?

Where does the Lord focus the attention on rituals, on behavior, or on the state of Cain's experience, what is actually happening inside the heart, mind, soul of Cain?

Why didn't God focus upon the ritual?

What does sin do to the sinner? Does it impact their state of being, their health and happiness? Can a person have genuine peace while embracing and practicing sin? Why not?

So what is God saying to Cain?

From The Remedy:

> The Lord gently said to Cain, "Why do you choose to be angry? Why do you choose to be dejected? Don't you know that if you do what is right – what is in harmony with my design for life and my healing plan – you would be happy? But if you choose to break my design for life, then you open the door of your heart for sin (fear and selfishness) to dwell there. It desires to control you, but if you trust me, you can overcome it" (Genesis 4:6-7 REM).

Read last paragraph, "The next events…" What law lens is the lesson these historical events through?

Do you remember last week in Wednesday's lesson it said, "judgment leads to death, evil, and curses…"

If Cain's crime is part of the curses and the curses occur because of God's judgment then wouldn't that mean that God is responsible for Cain killing Abel?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

These are the types of subtle lies Satan weaves into people's minds when they accept the idea that God's law functions like human law.

The lesson makes the problem of sin to be behavioral, criminal, this is not what the Bible teaches:

> This is the message you heard from the beginning: We should love one another. [What is the message from the beginning?] Do not be like Cain, who belonged to the evil one and murdered his brother. And why did he murder him? Because his own actions were evil and his brother's were righteous. Do not be surprised, my brothers, if the world hates you. We know that we have passed from death to life, because we love our brothers. Anyone who does not love remains in death. Anyone who hates his brother is a murderer, and you know that no murderer has eternal life in him (1 John 3:11-15 NIV84).

Who is a murderer, only the one who kills or also the one who hates in their heart?

Was Cain's problem primarily the act—if an angel would have stepped in and stopped Cain's hand from the act but Cain retained murderous rage and intent in his heart, would Cain be okay, in good standing with God, righteous, have no sin on his account in heaven? Would Cain have peace? Would Cain be right with God?

Sin is not primarily a behavioral problem, it is primarily a heart problem, the behaviors are the outworking of the motives of the heart. Jesus said:

> "Make a tree good and its fruit will be good, or make a tree bad and its fruit will be bad, for a tree is recognized by its fruit. You brood of vipers, how can you who are evil say anything good? For out of the overflow of the heart the mouth speaks. The good man brings good things out of the good stored up in him, and the evil man brings evil things out of the evil stored up in him. But I tell you that men will have to give account on the day of judgment for every careless word they have spoken. For by your words you will be acquitted, and by your words you will be condemned" (Matthew 12:33-37 NIV84).

What is Jesus describing? From where to the evil deeds originate? And what type of judgment is Jesus describing? Is this judicial or diagnostic, merely pronouncing the actual condition of what the state of the various hearts are?

MONDAY

Read third paragraph which is a quotation from Patriarchs and Prophets:

> Without the shedding of blood there could be no remission of sin; and they were to show their faith in the blood of Christ as the promised atonement by offering the firstlings of the flock in sacrifice. Besides this, the first fruits of the earth were to be presented before the Lord as a > thank offering (Patriarchs and Prophets 71).

What law lens do you understand this through?

Why could there be no remission of sin without the shedding of blood? Is it because:

- The Father needed a sacrifice offered to Him to do something to the Father, propitiate His wrath, appease Him, persuade Him, soften Him up, make a legal provision to give God permission to do something God was not allowed to do?
- The law which is above God and compulsory upon God required a death penalty be paid?
- Because the law requires a just penalty be paid and the law requires that someone die for the crime of sin and in God's justice system it is considered very righteous to find an innocent person and execute them in place of the guilty and so that the guilty can go free?
- Or, is it that sin changed the condition of human beings infecting them with a death-causing principle and the only way to restore human beings to eternal life was to eradicate the death causing principle and restore the life causing principle within the species—and this required someone that someone had to overcome and destroy the death causing principle as a human—and that is why there could be no remission of sin without the shedding of blood, it was the only way to eliminate sin from sinners.

What is meant by faith in the blood of Christ? Do we have faith in red corpuscles? Or is this a symbolic way of describing the life of Christ, which is the life of sinless perfection and the perfect revelation of God that dispels lies and wins us back to trust?

Where did Jesus say the blood must be applied in order for sinners to be saved?

> Jesus said to them, "I tell you the truth, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day. For my flesh is real food and my blood is real drink. Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood remains in me, and I in him" (John 6:53-56 NIV84).

So what does it mean to have faith in the blood of Christ? Does it mean to have faith in a blood payment made to the Father to clean our records in heaven of recorded sin? Or does it mean, we see the life of Jesus and the lies of Satan are dispelled and we are won to trust and in trust open the heart and Jesus pours His life and love into our hearts and we internalize the life of Christ so "that it is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me" (Galatians 2:20)?

Understand the flesh and blood are symbols of truth and love—that we ingest to make us new beings in Christ. Consider from the same author these quotes about what the metaphor of blood is in reality. Remember if we don't tie metaphor and symbols to reality we are stuck in fantasy and sadly much of Christianity teaches fantasy about a punishing god requiring blood payments to make legal adjustments. But here is from the same author:

> "In the study of the Bible the converted soul eats the flesh and drinks the blood of the Son of God, which He himself interprets as the receiving and doing of His words, that are spirit and life." Fundamentals of Christian Education 378.1
> "The leaven of truth works a change in the whole man, making the coarse refined, the rough gentle, the selfish generous. By it [the truth] the impure are cleansed, washed in the blood of the Lamb." Christ's Object Lessons 102

So, what does it mean to have faith in the blood? To be won to trust by the truth and then to internalize the truth into our own hearts, minds, and characters.

What does it mean the promised atonement?

How do we understand atonement? What law lens are we reading through?

If God's law functions like human law, imposed rules requiring infliction of just punishments, then what is atonement taught to be? Legal punishments and payments.

But when we return to worshipping the Creator whose laws are the design protocols for life, what is atonement—it is bringing two parties that are alienated back into oneness. What is the cause of humanity separation from God? What has broken the bonds of love and trust in our relationship with God? Is there something in God or God's law that causes the divide, or is there something in human beings that causes the divide? It is sin in us that causes the divide, then in order for humans to be at-one with God, where does the action have to take place, in God, in God's law, or in the species human?

Thus, Jesus is "Look, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!" (John 1:29 NIV84).

Jesus doesn't take away the punishment of the world, or take away the anger of God, He takes away the sin. Sin is the destructive and death causing principle that separates us from God and Jesus came to take away the sin.

Sadly, though, because of the infection of imposed law most of the world believes the lie that Jesus came to take away the punishment of God for our sin and thus we have been stuck waiting for the people of God to return to worshipping Him and stop worshipping Satan's impersonation of Him.

An online viewer sent the following quote and asked how we understand it through design law view, this quotation from an article in Signs of the Times Dec 23, 1886:

> The altar and the promise stand side by side, and one casts clear beams of light upon the other, showing that the justice of an offended God could be appeased only by the death of his beloved Son. Signs of the Times Dec 23, 1886

Didn't we just decide that the sacrifice was not for the purpose of appeasing an offended God? But this article seems say that it was. So, what does it mean? Always go back and read the context of a quote, this quote is from an article contrasting Cain and Abel. The altar referred to is the altar built by Cain and Abel, at the instruction of Adam.

The author contrasts the attitudes of the heart of Cain and Abel.

The article starts out with this:

> These two brothers, Cain and Abel, represent the whole human family. They were both tested on the point of obedience, and all will be tested as they were. Abel bore the proving of God. He revealed the gold of a righteous character, the principles of true godliness. But Cain's religion had not a good foundation; it rested on human merit. He brought to God something in which he had a personal interest,--the fruits of the ground, which had been cultivated by his toil; and he presented his offering as a favor done to God, through which he expected to secure the divine approval. He obeyed in building an altar, obeyed in bringing a sacrifice; but it was only a partial obedience. The essential part, the recognition of the need of a Redeemer, was left out. (Signs of the Times Dec 23, 1886)

- What did Abel bring that Cain did not?
- Why was Abel's offering accepted and Cain's was not?
- When the jailer asked Paul, "What must I do to be saved?" What was the answer? "Put your entire trust in the Master Jesus. Then you'll live as you were meant to live—and everyone in your house included!" (Acts 16:31 Message)
- What does this mean to trust, or put one's faith in Jesus? It means a humble willingness to listen, be instructed, follow, to trust, have confidence and faith in Jesus that He knows more than us, loves more than us, sees more than us, and even when we don't understand a reason for a specific instruction we trust Jesus knowing He is good and all His instructions are for our good. This is what it means to obey; in the Bible obedience actually means a humble willingness to listen, to be instructed and then to choose to follow and do what was instructed. This is what Jesus meant when He said: "I tell you the truth, unless you change and become like little children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. Therefore, whoever humbles himself like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven" (Matthew 18:3-4 NIV84).
- What is the difference between Cain and Abel? Abel trusted God, Cain trusted in himself and the two sacrifices were the outworking or evidence or actions of the hearts, trust or distrust, two different types of character were developed.

Later in the article it states:

> In the case of Cain and Abel we have a type of two classes that will exist in the world till the close of time; and this type is worthy of close study. There is a marked difference in the characters of these two brothers, and the same difference is seen in the human family today. Cain represents those who carry out the principles and works of Satan, by worshiping God in a way of their own choosing. Like the leader whom they follow, they are willing to > render partial obedience, but not entire submission to God. Man, in the pride of his heart, would like to believe that he can confer some favor upon God; that our heavenly Father may be the receiver, and not always the giver. But God will not be bribed. He says: "Every beast of the forest is mine, and the cattle upon a thousand hills." "If I were hungry, I would not tell thee; for the world is mine, and the fullness thereof." Man has nothing to give that he has not first received from God. ST December 23, 1886, par. 7

Note the context is over character, one of love and trust versus pride and selfishness. Abel understood the principles of God's government, how God is always the giver, not the receiver, but Cain sought to put God in the role of receiving the offerings to earn favor.

But what if instead of offering God the work of our hands, we offer God the blood of His Son to appease His wrath? Will God be bribed by a better offering?

From the same article:

> How did Abel know so well the plan of salvation?—Adam taught it to his children and grandchildren. And the apostle says that "faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." After Adam had sinned, a feeling of terror seized him. A constant dread was upon him; shame and remorse tortured his soul. In this state of mind he wished to be as far removed as possible from the presence of God, whom he had so loved to meet in his Eden home. But the Lord followed this conscience-stricken man, and while he condemned the sin of which Adam had been guilty, gave him words of gracious promise. In pronouncing the curse upon the deceiver, God had said: "I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel." ST December 23, 1886, par. 4
> This was the first gospel sermon ever preached to fallen man; this promise was the star of hope, illuminating the dark and dismal future of the race. Adam gladly received the welcome assurance of deliverance, and diligently instructed his children in the way of the Lord. This promise was presented in close connection with the altar of sacrificial offerings. The altar and the promise stand side by side, and one casts clear beams of light upon the other, showing that the justice of an offended God could be appeased only by the death of his beloved Son. The bleeding victim consuming on the altar illustrated Adam's teachings, and thus the sight of the eyes deepened the impression made by the hearing of the ear. ST December 23, 1886, par. 5

So with the greater context of the article, how do you understand this section about justice, an offended God and appeasement by the death of His Son?

What "law" lens to you understand justice through? Imposed law or design law, the protocols upon which life is built?

What is God's justice? Doing what is right, doing what is right as defined by the law of love, which is what? What does love require? To heal, to restore, to redeem, to save.

Thus the promise given to Adam, that the seed of the woman would crush the serpent's head, but the serpent would bruise his heel stands beside the altar, which visually acted out the selfless sacrifice of Christ to achieve what was promised. The gentle lamb with its large sad eyes, stands calmly without protest while Able takes a knife and cuts its throat—illustrates gentle Jesus calmly without protest or fighting back being abused and crucified to eradicate the death-causing principle and restore humanity to unity with God.

The promise and the altar enlightened each other.

Then what about being appeased? Again which law lens do you look through?

If the imposed law then one believes this is legal payment to an offended God. But the article itself disallows this interpretation, as it makes clear throughout that the gifts are not given to God, which Cain tried to do, but are from God to man for man's need.

The barrier set up between God and man is that of sin in man, thus what is required to fix the problem of sin in man is provided by God.

It is offensive to God (as it is to any being with a heart of love) to see pain, suffering, death, which occur when God's design for life is broken. Thus God hates sin because it breaks the protocols upon which life is constructed, inflicts pain, suffering, death and is an offense to the pure loving heart of God.

Therefore, if we look through the lens of design law, the law upon which life is built, we see that the sacrifice of Christ was the only means to please God's purpose in saving humankind.

Do you think I am being dishonest with the quote? Well, here is the dictionary definition of the word appease:

> "to make (someone) pleased OR less angry by giving or saying something desired"

What would please God after Adam deviated from God's design and plunged humanity into a death spiral? Would it not please God to see mankind delivered and saved? Is this not what God desired? What would make God less angry? Wouldn't it be to see His beautiful children healed, saved, restored to unity with Him? Thus, the only way God's justice of love could be pleased was through the death of Jesus, who provides the remedy for the terminal condition Adam inflicted upon the world, fulfilling God's desire to save the human race!

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, "God's two questions…" What does it say about God that He approaches Cain in this way?

And what is the condition that God wants Cain to acknowledge—is it a legal condition, God wants Cain to acknowledge he broke a rule, is in legal trouble, needs a legal pardon from the heavenly magistrate, OR God wants Cain to recognize the sinfulness, fear, hatred, bitterness, selfishness and distrust of God and humble himself in trust to God and allow God to heal him?

Can people have proper behaviors and still be enemies of God? Can people love and trust God struggle with sin yet desire to be better and always seek God out after any sin?

Can we tell who is right with God by their behaviors?

Where is God's primary concern on the behavior or the heart motive? Who is preoccupied with behavior? "Man looks on the outward appearance but the Lord looks on the heart!"

Read fourth paragraph, "On the other hand…" What does it mean sin lies at the door? Does this image of something at the door bring another Bible passage to mind?

> Here I am! I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with him, and he with me (Revelation 3:20 NIV84).

Is this a different door than God is referencing with Cain, or the same door? And a door to what? To the heart, we each decide on who and what we allow into our hearts. Satan cannot force a person to sin, he can tempt, but we must choose what we say yes to. Do we say yes to Jesus or to temptation? Do we love God or do we love things of this world, alcohol, drugs, our nation, our professional societies, our alma maters, our theologies more than God?

Read last paragraph, "God's second word…" From where does self-control come? It is the last fruit of the Spirit, as Jesus heals us through His Spirit we gain certain traits of character, and one of those is self-control. We never become puppets or robots, but are freed from the enslavement to fear and selfishness, from the domination of bad habits and addictions and our internal control over ourselves is restored to us.

This process cannot be done by human strength alone; it cannot be done in a sinner by God's strength alone—it is a cooperative effort. We must choose, we must trust God and He supplies the wisdom, insight, conviction, understanding and power to succeed. But God never makes the choice for us, because to do so would destroy our individuality and God loves us too much to do this.

This is also a painful process, dying to self, overcoming sin in the life. The Bible says,

> Therefore, since Christ suffered in his body, arm yourselves also with the same attitude, > because he who has suffered in his body is done with sin. As a result, he does not live the rest of his earthly life for evil human desires, but rather for the will of God (1 Peter 4:1-2 NIV84).

We all have carnal desires that tempt us—but if we arm ourselves with the attitude of Jesus, in a trust relationship with Him, we will choose to say no and God will supply the power to succeed. There will be a time of suffering in the flesh, but if we choose to stay the course the healing comes and we are set free.

WEDNESDAY

Read last paragraph, "It is because Abel's blood…" What caused Cain to be a refugee? Was it because God condemned him, pronounced a punishment upon him, or was it because Cain refused to repent and preferred that course for his life?

What would have happened if Cain would have repented, genuinely? Do we have examples of sinners repenting in Scripture and how God treated them?

What caused Cain to isolate, wander, avoid others, was it God banishing him or fear, guilt, shame in his own heart driving him away?

The following is a description from volume 1 of The Spirit of Prophecy regarding Satan after his fall from heaven and planning his temptation of Adam and Eve:

> Satan stood in amazement at his new condition. His happiness was gone. He looked upon the angels who, with him, were once so happy, but who had been expelled from Heaven with him. Before their fall, not a shade of discontent had marred their perfect bliss. Now all seemed changed. Countenances which had reflected the image of their Maker were gloomy and despairing. Strife, discord, and bitter recrimination, were among them. Previous to their rebellion these things had been unknown in Heaven. Satan now beholds the terrible results of his rebellion. He shuddered, and feared to face the future, and to contemplate the end of these things. 1SP 28.1 [What is the cause of this change? Is this an infliction by God? Is God using power to make the angels feel bad, be discontent, incite strife and conflict? This is what sin does. Breaking God's design laws damages all who break them, whether human or angels. This is what also happened to Adam and Eve, why they ran and hid, and to Cain. There is no peace, joy, or happiness in sin, only in harmony with God and His design law is there life, health, happiness and joy.]
> The hour for joyful, happy songs of praise to God and his dear Son had come. Satan had led the heavenly choir. He had raised the first note, then all the angelic host united with him, and glorious strains of music had resounded through Heaven in honor of God and his dear Son. But now, instead of strains of sweetest music, discord and angry words fall upon the ear of the great rebel leader. Where was he? Was it not all a horrible dream? Was he shut out of Heaven? Were the gates of Heaven never more to open and admit him? The hour of worship draws nigh, when bright and holy angels bow before the Father. No more will he unite in heavenly song. No more will he bow in reverence and holy awe before the presence of the eternal God. Could he be again as he was when he was pure, true and loyal, gladly would he yield up the claims of his authority. But he was lost! beyond redemption, for his presumptuous rebellion! And this was not all; he had led others to rebellion and to the same lost condition with himself—angels, who had never thought to question the will of Heaven, or refuse obedience to the law of God till he had put it into their minds, presenting before them that they might enjoy a greater good, a higher and more glorious liberty. [You see this same argument today in almost all manner of evil, the lie that one can achieve greater freedom by engaging in some sin, some breaking of God's design laws for life. This particularly a part of the current messaging to children from the left about human sexuality. That you can have more freedom if you deviate from God's design of chastity until marriage and greater freedom if you have many partners of any gender.] This had been the sophistry whereby he had deceived them. A responsibility now rests upon him from which he would fain be released. 1SP 28.2

These spirits had become turbulent with disappointed hopes. Instead of greater good, they were experiencing the sad results of disobedience and disregard of law. [What kind of law? Why were they suffering like this? Was this a punishment inflicted by God?] Never more would these unhappy beings be swayed by the mild rule of Jesus Christ. Never more would their spirits be stirred by the deep, earnest love, peace, and joy, which his presence had ever inspired in them, to be returned to him in cheerful obedience and reverential honor. 1SP 29.1

Satan trembled as he viewed his work. He was alone in meditation upon the past, the present, and his future plans. His mighty frame shook as with a tempest. An angel from Heaven was passing. He called him, and entreated an interview with Christ. This was granted him. He then related to the Son of God that he repented of his rebellion, and wished again the favor of God. He was willing to take the place God had previously assigned him, and be under his wise command. Christ wept at Satan's woe, but told him, as the mind of God, that he could never be received into Heaven. Heaven must not be placed in jeopardy. All Heaven would be marred should he be received back; for sin and rebellion originated with him. The seeds of rebellion were still within him. He had, in his rebellion, no occasion for his course, and he had not only hopelessly ruined himself, but the host of angels also, who would then have been happy in Heaven had he remained steadfast. The law of God could condemn, but could not pardon. 1SP 29.2 [What is described here? Why was Satan not taken back? Didn't he express sorrow and repentance? No, the seeds of rebellion were still within him. He was sorrowful of the results, but not of the pride, the selfishness, the jealousy and envy, the falsehoods that he told. He was the same rebel in character. Why can God's law condemn and not pardon, is this describing a judicial process or reality? What type of law? The laws of health can condemn—diagnose and expose where one is terminal, but the laws don't heal, God heals, God saves, God restores and sets right.]

He repented not of his rebellion because he saw the goodness of God which he had abused. It was not possible that his love for God had so increased since his fall that it would lead to cheerful submission and happy obedience to his law which had been despised. The wretchedness he realized in losing the sweet light of Heaven, and the sense of guilt which forced itself upon him, and the disappointment he experienced himself in not finding his expectations realized, were the cause of his grief. [He was sorry for the results, not the sin itself.] To be commander out of Heaven, was vastly different from being thus honored in Heaven. The loss he had sustained of all the privileges of Heaven seemed too much to be borne. He wished to regain these. 1SP 30.1

This great change of position had not increased his love for God, nor for his wise and just law. When Satan became fully convinced that there was no possibility of his being re-instated in the favor of God, he manifested his malice with increased hatred and fiery vehemence… 1SP 30.2 [This is diagnostic—had Satan truly repented and Christ been wrong about him, then when he was told he couldn't come back into heaven, he would have humbly submitted and done everything he could to make God look good. "You're right. I would put everyone else at risk. I am happy to stay out because I want you all to be healthy and happy." But his actions demonstrate Christ was right, there was no genuine repentance or change of heart. Understand what is described, none of this is legal, it is all reality of function based on the law one internalizes into their heart and mind.]

Satan went alone to mature plans that would most surely secure the fall of Adam and Eve. He had fears that his purposes might be defeated. And again, even if he should be successful in leading Adam and Eve to disobey the commandment of God, and thus become transgressors of his law, and no good come to himself, his own case would not be improved; his guilt would only be increased. 1SP 31.2 [What kind of guilt, legal guilt, or reality, he would have more guilt upon his soul knowing how he injured and ruined other innocent beings?]

He shuddered at the thought of plunging the holy, happy pair into the misery and remorse he was himself enduring. He seemed in a state of indecision; at one time firm and determined, then hesitating and wavering. His angels were seeking him, their leader, to acquaint him with their decision. They will unite with Satan in his plans, and with him bear the responsibility, and share the consequences. 1SP 32.1

Satan cast off his feelings of despair and weakness, and, as their leader, fortified himself to brave out the matter, and do all in his power to defy the authority of God and his Son…1SP 32.2 [What is being described? This is what happens with people, evil people reinforce and encourage their evil overcoming any fears, anxieties, or reluctance. Bad company corrupts good character and colludes together to accomplish more evil. Paul wrote in Romans: "They have become filled with every kind of wickedness, evil, greed and depravity. They are full of envy, murder, strife, deceit and malice. They are gossips, slanderers, God-haters, insolent, arrogant and boastful; they invent ways of doing evil; they disobey their parents; they are senseless, faithless, heartless, ruthless. Although they know God's righteous decree that those who do such things deserve death, they not only continue to do these very things but also approve of those who practice them" (Ro 1:29–32 NIV84).

THURSDAY

The lesson focuses on the increase in wickedness from Cain's descendants. Lamech who is first documented to have two wives and who also killed a man and then told his wives that if Cain is avenged 7 times he would be avenged 77 times.

Consider this commentary from third volume of Spiritual Gifts:

> In the beginning, God gave to Adam one wife, thus showing his order. He never designed that man should have a plurality of wives. Lamech was the first who departed in this respect from God's wise arrangement. He had two wives, which created discord in his family. The envy and jealousy of both made Lamech unhappy. When men began to multiply upon the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, they took them wives of all which they chose. This was one of the great sins of the inhabitants of the old world, which brought the wrath of God upon them. This custom was practiced after the flood, and became so common that even righteous men fell into the practice, and had a plurality of wives. Yet it was no less sin because they became corrupted, and departed in this thing from God's order. 3SG 99.1

From where did the discord originate in Lamech's family? Was God using power to cause his family to be in discord? Why wasn't Lamech happy in this situation? Happiness is a by-product of healthiness in all domains, one cannot have health in violations of the laws of health. Likewise one cannot have relationship health while violating the laws upon which relationships are designed to function, such as loyalty, trust, devotion, and love.

So, it was unavoidable that things would be stressful and unhappy when he took more than one wife.

What about God's wrath, what does this mean? Does it mean God is inflicting punishment for rule-breaking, or something else?

What happened to the world prior to the flood? Violence and violence all the time, why? How is it the world degraded so rapidly? Because God poured out His wrath, which is God letting people go who insist on rejecting Him and when God sets free what happens to people, relationships and society?

This is what we read in Romans 1, rejecting God results in God granting your wish which results in all the evils magnifying and multiplying in hearts and in the world.

What do you make of Genesis 6:1-2:

> "When men began to increase in number on the earth and daughters were born to them, the sons of God saw that the daughters of men were beautiful, and they married any of them they chose" (Genesis 6:1-2 NIV84).

Many people believe this describes fallen angels (sons of God as in Job 1) coming down and having relationships with human women and having children that are a mix of angels and humans and this is wear demons come from.

What do you think?

I believe this is describe situations like Samson and Delilah in which a righteous man takes and wicked wife and is corrupted in the process.

So this is referring to descendants of Seth marrying the descendants of Cain.

SUNDAY

The lesson suggests given the translation of the texts around the birth of Cain, the natural hope in a Savior, that Adam and Eve may have invested their hopes into Cain that he would be the fulfillment of the promise—that he would be their Savior.

Read third paragraph, "In fact, Cain…" If it is true that Adam and Eve almost worshipped him, yet he is not Jesus, he is not God, what would be the likely impact of such treatment?

If Cain were worshipped by Adam and Eve, might Cain feel entitled, special, privileged? Might this have been a weakness in his character that contributed selfishness expanding and being jealous when Abel's sacrifice was accepted and Cain's was not? "How dare God NOT accept my sacrifice—it is I, ME, CAIN, the wonder boy, who has brought it, I am not like this dirty shepherd…"?

Might being the firstborn have impacted his value on himself to a degree that he thought more highly of himself than his actual status deserved?

Do any of us ever struggle with similar temptations?

Assuming Adam and Eve did indulge the child and quasi-worship him, were they responsible for the outcome of Cain's life? Absolutely not, it gives some insight into the struggles that Cain would face, but based on the conversation recorded in Genesis between God and Cain, Cain had every opportunity to trust God and overcome the sinful propensities and temptations. How Cain turned out was decided by Cain, not by his parents!

2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson 4
The Flood

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "Then the Lord saw…" When you hear words like the Lord "saw" what does that mean? Do we understand that this is merely the limitation of human language to communicate to us that God is aware, is processing, focusing upon, but is not to suggest that God just discovered something? God is not surprised, did not find out something He didn't already know.

What of the idea that God regretted? What does regret mean? Feel sorrow, remorse, disappointment—does it suggest a failure to anticipate, to not be aware of what was coming?

I personally like grieve better than regret, we can grieve many things that we have no causal responsibility for, but regret to me suggests a little responsibility, though it doesn't have to, it leans that direction.

The NIV renders it better: "The LORD was grieved that he had made man on the earth, and his heart was filled with pain" (Genesis 6:6 NIV84).

The question is why did the Lord grieve? Was it because He was taken unaware? What was the Lord grieved about?

- The pain and suffering His children were experiencing from sin
- The suffering abuse and exploitation of the animals on the earth by the wicked
- The action that the situation required He would have to take if He was going to save humanity from eternal destruction

Read the two last paragraphs, "And yet, God's regret…." What do you make of this idea of God speaking with a "double voice"? Is God two-faced? Is God schizophrenic?

When Jesus returns in glory does He smile at the righteous and scowl at the wicked?

When Jesus comes again is the difference to be found in the heart, mind, character, attitude of God, or in the hearts, minds, attitudes and characters of the people?

Understand the complete corruption in Christianity that almost the entire Christian community has taught the idea that the problem with sin is God's wrath, God's split personality that He loves us but is also filled with wrath and if something isn't done to God then God will lose self-control and rage out against us and torture and kill us OR God will be required by justice and law to use His power to lash out against us and torture and kill us. It is so corrosive and evil and this lie is so deeply imbedded in Christian thought that many good-hearted people cannot even have a reasoned examination of the evidence behind these false ideas. Instead, they are fearful and must silence voices that would challenge this long standing perverse orthodoxy.

Are there ideas that are commonly taught in Christianity that present God with a split personality, with a divided heart, with a double voice?

- God is not only loving but also just?
- God is forgiving but will also inflict just punishment?
- Jesus died for us to protect us from the wrath of God?
- Jesus who is God mediates His blood to the Father God to propriate the wrath of the Father God

What is the core problem that leads to this confused and conflicted picture of God?

The assumption, the lie, the underlying belief that God's law works like human law.

How do we determine whether something is just or right? By the law—so the way we understand law determines directly the way we understand justice and thus the kind of God we understand God to be.

One of the purposes of the Cross was to demonstrate, reveal, provide evidence to show and prove that God is in fact just in how He handles the sin problem and that God does NOT kill or inflict death for sin. Romans 3:25-26, because God left the sins committed beforehand unpunished He was accused of being unfair, and thus Jesus demonstrated on the cross that God is not unfair, but God's way is right and just. And what was revealed about the cause of death at the cross? Did God lay a hand on Jesus? No, Jesus didn't die as an act of God killing His Son, but because God treated Him as if He was an unhealable sinner and let go of His Son. And that is what sin does. Sin separates people from God, who is the source of life, and the only outcome of this is ruin and death.

God is Creator and He builds reality—His laws are protocols reality operates upon. Created beings cannot build space, time, energy, matter, life, and thus we make up rules that require external enforcement through punishment.

Lucifer's rebellion in heaven began over this idea, it extended in Eden over this idea, and it will end over the same issue, which ties directly back into how we understand God, the problem of sin, and God's solution for it.

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> The last great conflict between truth and error is but the final struggle of the long-standing controversy concerning the law of God. Upon this battle we are now entering,—a battle between the laws of men and the precepts of Jehovah, between the religion of the Bible and the religion of fable and tradition. (The Great Controversy 582)

SUNDAY

The lesson focuses on Noah's obedience, in the middle of the second paragraph the lesson states "Noah's response suggests Noah's absolute obedience to what God had told him to do…"

What is the kind of obedience that God wants from us?

- Does God want the obedience of a well-trained dog—thoughtless, mindless, adherence to God's direction? God said it, I believe it, that settles it?
- Does God want us to do things simply because God said to do it?

Why should we obey God?

- Should we obey because God said it?
- Should we obey because God is powerful?
- Should we obey because God will justly punish or richly reward?

Is agreement with God in any way part of our obedience?

Does God want our obedience even if we disagree with Him?

Romans 6:16

> Don't you know that when you offer yourselves to someone to obey him as slaves, you are slaves to the one whom you obey—whether you are slaves to sin, which leads to death, or to obedience, which leads to righteousness? (Romans 6:16 NIV84).

The Greek for obey or obedience is:

The first part is hypo, as in hypoglycemia, or hypotension and means under, or low, or lowly, and the second half is akoe from which we get acoustic and means to listen, to hear.

Bible obedience means a humble willingness to listen, to learn, to be led out of lies, misunderstanding, old habits, preconceived ideas, false beliefs and into better and more accurate understanding of reality, not just in comprehension but in practice. We listen, comprehend, trust, and apply to our lives what we understand. It is not about performance, but about attitude of heart, a desire to be better and a choice to trust Jesus as the one who we listen to to become better.

In that choice to listen, think, comprehend, agree and apply we are united with God and we are empowered to carry out the will of God when we choose to follow what He has directed. In this process we are changed, our hearts are circumcised—we have cut out the attachments to the world, our characters are transformed, our neural pathways are rewired. This is growing up in Christ, receiving the mind of Christ, being sanctified.

So an obedient person is one who eagerly listens for the voice of God and has the desire to hear, to understand, and to fulfill God's instructions and therefore chooses to do so to the best of their ability. It is not about perfect performance; it is about heart attitude.

Consider these historic quotes—what truths, concepts, principles, realities are described in regard to obedience? Is there a difference between the obedience that comes from the penal view, imposed rules, legal concepts and the obedience that comes from faith—love and trust?

> A sullen submission to the will of the Father will develop the character of a rebel. [What does it mean to submit? If a person submits to God's will they do what they understand God says to do. But what would be a reason that someone would submit like this, not willingly, not joyfully, but sullenly? Would it be because of power, because of threat, because of the belief that God is powerful and He has a law and lawbreaking requires God to punish and so one submits not to be punished? And what happens to the character of those who do this? They become rebels. Is this description borne out by reality? Do we have any evidence from Scripture that this occurs?
> - We are talking about the Flood—was the Flood a great display of power? And what happened after the Flood, did they build the tower of Babel because they no longer believed there was a God, or because they didn't trust Him and were rebelling against Him?
> - What about the 10 Plagues of Egypt was this a great display of power? And what were they doing 40 days later? Did they worship the golden calf because they no longer believed there was a God or because they didn't trust Him and were rebelling against Him?
> - What about the conquests of Canaan, like Jericho and other places, again mighty displays of power, but what did they end up doing but worshipping the Baals.
> - And what happened at Mt Carmel? Again mighty power, and all the people said, "The Lord He is God" but did they remain faithful and loyal?
> - Has God ever gotten loyalty, devotion, love, friendship by use of might and power? It cannot be done. That is why the Bible teaches " 'not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit' says the Lord" (Zech 4:6). And how does the Spirit work, truth and love! What kind of obedience springs from the penal/legal view, from law-enforcement, from threats of inflicted punishment? So the obedience that God wants is not the obedience of law, but of faith, of love, of trust, of understanding friendship.]
> By such a one service is looked upon as drudgery. It is not rendered cheerfully, and in the love of God. It is a mere mechanical performance. If he dared, such a one would disobey. His rebellion is smothered, ready to break out at any time in bitter murmurings and complaints. Such service brings no peace or quietude to the soul. {Signs of the Times, July 22, 1897}

> The man who attempts to keep the commandments of God from a sense of obligation merely--because he is required to do so--will never enter into the joy of obedience. [Again what > type of obedience is described here? Is this the obedience of an understanding friend, or of someone who wants to stay out of legal trouble? The imposed law view, the penal/legal views of salvation are all built on Satan's lies about God's law and government. This is why God has blessed His faithful people at this time in human history with the message of the 3 Angels of Revelation 14 which calls people back to worship the Creator whose laws are design laws. Everything changes, we realize that sin transgresses the protocols upon which God constructed life to operate causing a terminal sin-condition and that God so loved us that rather than letting us die of this terminal sin-condition He sent His son to Remedy this condition and restore His law of love into the species human. We realize that God is not the source of pain, suffering and death, but the source of life and health and we eagerly, joyfully, enter into a love and trust relationship with Him and humbly listen to Him to be corrected and led in the paths of righteousness. I this trust relationship with God we choose to go and do where He leads because we agree with Him. This is true obedience.] He does not obey. [But he is keeping the rules. Yes, but real obedience is not about rule-keeping it is about the attitude of the heart.] When the requirements of God are accounted a burden because they cut across human inclination, we may know that the life is not a Christian life. True obedience is the outworking of a principle within. It springs from the love of righteousness, the love of the law of God. The essence of all righteousness is loyalty to our Redeemer. This will lead us to do right because it is right--because right doing is pleasing to God. {Christ's Object Lessons 97}

The bottom gray section states, "What lesson can we learn from the Noah story regarding our role in warning the world about coming judgment?"

When you hear the word "judgment" what do you understand?

What law lens do you hear it through?

Consider these quotations:

> How was it with the rebellious inhabitants of the antediluvian world? After rejecting the message of Noah, they plunged into sin with greater abandon than ever before, and doubled the enormity of their corrupting practices. [What is described here? Did they have a choice? They freely chose to reject the truth, and what was the result? What is the meaning of "corrupting practices"? Does this mean, legal trouble, or is the act of sin itself damaging to the sinner, hardening the heart, searing the conscience, destroying the faculties sensitive to the Spirit of God? Does God use power to cause these damaging effects or is this what sin does to sinners?] Those who refuse to reform by accepting Christ find nothing reformative in sin; their minds are set to carry their spirit of revolt, and they are not, and never will be, forced to submission. [Wow—what is described here? What does reform mean? Is this legal adjustment or actual change in the motives and attitudes of the heart? And what is meant by never forced to submission? Would threats of punishment count as force? Would God using power to punish the wicked count as force? Why will force never be used to make rebels submit? Because it would only harden them in rebellion. The entire penal/legal law model promotes rebellion against God! Only the truth of God's character of love revealed by Jesus wins the heart. Thus Paul wrote "the kindness of God leads us to repentance."] The judgment which God brought upon the antediluvian world declared it incurable…{Testimonies to Ministers 75} [What kind of judgment? Is this a legal judgment? Is this an inflicted punishment? What law lens? We just read no forced submission, then what? It is therapeutic—God acting to keep open the avenue for Messiah, to fulfill the promise of Genesis 3:15. There is only one righteous man left on the entire planet through whom Messiah can come. God waits patiently until the last possible moment and then acts in mercy, in love, in therapeutic judgment accurately diagnosing there are none that will respond and accurately prescribing the action necessary to save the human species and also secure the unfallen worlds—keeping open the avenue for Jesus.]

"How great is the long - suffering of God toward the wicked! The idolatrous Philistines and backsliding Israel had alike enjoyed the gifts of His providence. Ten thousand unnoticed mercies were silently falling in the pathway of ungrateful, rebellious men. Every blessing spoke to them of the Giver, but they were indifferent to His love. The forbearance of God was very great toward the children of men; but when they stubbornly persisted in their impenitence, He removed from them His protecting hand. They refused to listen to the voice of God in His created works, and in the warnings, counsels, and reproofs of His word, and thus He was forced to speak to them through judgments." – Patriarchs and Prophets 587

What kind of judgment is this?

The Jews had forged their own fetters; they had filled for themselves the cup of vengeance. In the utter destruction that befell them as a nation, and in all the woes that followed them in their dispersion, they were but reaping the harvest which their own hands had sown. Says the prophet: "O Israel, thou hast destroyed thyself;" "for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity." Hosea 13:9; 14:1. Their sufferings are often represented as a punishment visited upon them by the direct decree of God. It is thus that the great deceiver seeks to conceal his own work. By stubborn rejection of divine love and mercy, the Jews had caused the protection of God to be withdrawn from them, and Satan was permitted to rule them according to his will. The horrible cruelties enacted in the destruction of Jerusalem are a demonstration of Satan's vindictive power over those who yield to his control. The Great Controversy 35.3

We cannot know how much we owe to Christ for the peace and protection which we enjoy. It is the restraining power of God that prevents mankind from passing fully under the control of Satan. The disobedient and unthankful have great reason for gratitude for God's mercy and long-suffering in holding in check the cruel, malignant power of the evil one. But when men pass the limits of divine forbearance, that restraint is removed. God does not stand toward the sinner as an executioner of the sentence against transgression; but He leaves the rejectors of His mercy to themselves, to reap that which they have sown. Every ray of light rejected, every warning despised or unheeded, every passion indulged, every transgression of the law of God, is a seed sown which yields its unfailing harvest. The Spirit of God, persistently resisted, is at last withdrawn from the sinner, and then there is left no power to control the evil passions of the soul, and no protection from the malice and enmity of Satan. The destruction of Jerusalem is a fearful and solemn warning to all who are trifling with the offers of divine grace and resisting the pleadings of divine mercy. Never was there given a more decisive testimony to God's hatred of sin and to the certain punishment that will fall upon the guilty. The Great Controversy 36

"I was shown that the judgments of God would not come directly out from the Lord upon them, but in this way;

"They place themselves beyond His protection. He warns, corrects, reproves, and points out the only path of safety; then if those who have been the objects of His special care will follow their own course, indepentent of the Spirit of God, after repeated warnings, if they choose their own way, then He does not commission His angels to prevent Satan's decided attacks upon them.

"It is Satan's power that is at work at sea and on land, bringing calamity and distress, and sweeping off multitudes to make sure of his prey, and storm and tempest both by sea and land will be, for Satan has come down in great wrath. He is at work. He knows his time is short and, he is not restrained; we shall see more terrible manifestations of his great power than we have ever dreamed of." Manuscript Release vol. 14, p. 3

Read first paragraph, "The verb…" Was the flood God using His power to inflict punishment upon humanity for sin? What is the punishment for sin—is it sleep death in the grave until resurrection or is it the second eternal death?

Did the people who died in the flood die the first sleep or second eternal death? The first sleep death, then it cannot be the wages of sin death. For the righteous die that death, yet Jesus said "I am the resurrection and the life. He who believes in me will live, even though he dies; and whoever lives and believes in me will never die (John 11:25-26 NIV84).

Further, for those who prefer the penal/legal imposed law view of things, ask them: Does punishment for sin come before or after judgment? When is God's judgment? When are the books of heaven opened and when does judgment occur? Does the judgment for sin happen before the flood or does it happen after the flood? Thus, the flood is not punishment for sin even in their wrong legal model.

Understanding the context of Scripture, and understanding God's design law reality, the events of the flood become very rational and understandable and there is nothing penal legal going on, and there is nothing two-faced going on, there is only our God of love, acting in mercy and grace to heal and save.

The purpose of the flood was therapeutic, to heal and save, not to punish for sin:

First Therapeutic Reason for the Flood: Keep Open the Avenue for Messiah

God would not have baby Jesus born to a woman like Jezebel and God would not force a woman against her will to be the mother of Jesus—in other words God would not perform cosmic rape on a woman in order to incarnate Jesus. God needed a willing woman who loved and trusted Him.

Satan was working to prevent this, to obstruct the plan of salvation, the fulfillment of the promise of Genesis 3:15 by working to get every human to permanently harden their heart against God and thereby shutdown the avenue for Messiah.

At the time of the Flood there was only one righteous man left upon the earth. If God does not act then the entire human species is lost in sin. So God acts in love, mercy, grace, therapeutically, waiting until the last moment, to keep open the avenue for the Messiah in order to save and to heal. No the Flood was NOT punishment for sin.

Second Therapeutic Reason for the Flood: Providing Every Opportunity for Repentance

God warned the people through Noah for 120 years of a coming flood, of their sinfulness, of their need to repent, of their need to turn to Him for salvation.

How did they respond to the message of Noah? Ridicule and rejection. What would allowing the flood to occur over a period of time (rain, fountains of water breaking through, etc.) allow for? Would it allow for some people to reflect and to reconsider? Would the evidence of what was transpiring confirm to them that Noah was right? Would that give the people outside the ark the opportunity to repent? Whether they accept it or not isn't the question I'm asking here; rather, I'm saying that wouldn't a God of love give every opportunity for repentance even if that opportunity was physically painful?

Like the thief on the cross who was suffering execution for his sinful life, still had an opportunity to repent and find eternal salvation. Did the flood give an opportunity for the antediluvians to reflect and repent, even though they were destined to die the first death at that point?

Thus, the flood was brought not only to keep open the avenue for Messiah, but it also allowed those who refused to get on the ark one final opportunity for repentance and eternal salvation.

Third Therapeutic Reason for the Flood: Putting Obstacles in the Way of Future Worldwide Apostacy

What were the factors, besides humans being sinful, that contributed to the entire world hardening against God so quickly after Eden? What happens to sinful people when everything is given to them and they don't have to work for anything? What happens over time to people who are self-indulgent and lead hedonistic lives? What happens if such people live hundreds of years? What influence would such people have on their children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and multiple generations down?

Would altering the environment to make it harder to survive be a punishment for sin or, rather, a therapeutic intervention that would help slow the corruption of human character? Have you ever heard that "idle hands are the devil's workshop?"—i.e., useful labor is protective against temptation.

The Edenic-like conditions on the earth prior to the flood permitted those bent on evil more indulgence of the carnal nature and, thus, accelerated the corruption of human character. The changes to the earth by the flood made it harder to put food on the table and, thus, increased the need for useful labor, which also protected people from sinful indulgence. The useful labor also taught design laws to people (sowing and reaping, watering and growth, etc.) and worked against the lies of Satan.

Further, the changes to the earth resulted in shortening human life from about 900 years to around max of 120 years, which also limited the pace of the spread of evil, as those who hardened their hearts against God could not corrupt as many generations with their influence. So, putting all these variables together, we see a beautiful God of love who acts in mercy to therapeutically keep open the avenue for Messiah, provide every opportunity for repentance and salvation, and slow the progress of the disease of sin.

The story of the flood serves as an excellent example of the difference between facts—flood, ecosystem changed, lives shortened—and the interpretation of facts. Satan works to get us to misinterpret the facts through his lie of imposed law in order to distort the character of God. When we return to design law and understand how reality works, we realize that God was not inflicting punishment but was acting therapeutically to heal and save.

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses on Noah after the flood releasing the various birds. Read the fourth paragraph, "Noah's behavior…"

This goes back to the question of obedience—what kind of obedience does God want? Does He want us thinking, comprehending, understanding, questioning, searching for answers, making proactive choices to advance the cause of God in ways that are in harmony with God's methods and purposes, under the willingness to be led by God of course?

What is the last fruit of the Spirit as listed in Galatians? Self-control—God created us in His image, with our own unique identity, individuality, ability to think and to do and God wants us to develop by practice the ability to discern the right from the wrong and intentionally choose the right because it is right.

God does not want mindless puppets or thoughtless followers.

Consider your child goes away to college and calls you up each day to start the day out right. They say, "Mom/Dad. Thank you for blessing me with your love, with your care, with sending me to this wonderful college and paying my tuition. I sure love you and because I love you, I never want to let you down. So mom day, tell me what you would have me do today. Do you want me to go to class or skip class, you tell me and I will do it? And if you want me to go to class, do you want me to cheat today or be honest? And there is a person in class who irritates me, should I curse them and make fun of them to humiliate them? You tell me what to do and I will do it because I want to be an obedient child because I love you." Would you say, "I'm so proud of my child. I sure raised that child right!"

Is this the type of obedience God wants from us? Or does God want us to be able to think, discern, and make intelligent and wise decisions because we understand Him, His design laws and we agree with Him and prefer His methods and principles?

WEDNESDAY

Was the Covenant God made with Noah a new covenant, a different covenant than what God made with Adam in Eden after the fall? Or was it the outworking of the covenant of grace given to Adam as the head of humanity that Messiah would come?

As we speak of covenants, what do you understand a covenant to be? An agreement, a sacred contract, a relationship, an accord, an understanding?

Was there any covenant that existed before sin?

What about the covenant of marriage between Adam and Eve?

Was the covenant of marriage a legal agreement or something else?

What is the covenant of marriage as God designed it to be?

A marriage, as God designed, is not a legal declaration but an intertwining of hearts, minds, and selves into a greater whole. Godly marriage brings two sentient beings into a type of oneness that defies human logic; a oneness in which both individuals retain their unique identities but simultaneously, under the power of love and trust, function as a greater whole, a bonded, integrated unit or team, who share the same values, principles, motives, and methods.

In a godly marriage, each person rejoices in the advancement and success of the other and celebrates every opportunity to invest in the welfare of their partner. It is a mutually rewarding circle of beneficence in which love flows freely from heart to heart. In such a loving union the two individuals expand, ennoble, develop, and elevate beyond that which either person is able experience or achieve on their own. It is in this unity of love that people flourish and becomes truly godlike and over time their love grows, deepens, and strengthens.

Does the Bible use the relationship of marriage to illustrate the relationship between Christ and His people?

Is this relationship a covenant relationship? Is such a relationship, as God designed, as God implements through Christ and His people a legal adjustment in books, or a transformation of hearts and minds that unite intelligent beings with God?

Is this covenant a different covenant that promised to Adam in Eden or the same?

Is this covenant different than what God intended for Adam and Eve to experience with Him in Eden before sin—or is the plan of salvation the plan to bring humanity into the covenant, the relationship of intimacy, love, union, at-one-ment with God that God intended humanity to experience from the beginning?

And what about the covenant to Abraham was that different or the same as promised to Adam?

And then what about the covenant to Noah? Was it different, or still part of the covenant of salvation, of healing, of at-one-ment of restoring sinners to intimacy and oneness with God?

What is the significance of the rainbow?

Is the rainbow the covenant or a sign, reminder, of the covenant?

What about the Sabbath, is it the covenant, or a sign of the covenant?

And what does Satan do to every gift God gives us?

What has Satan done to marriage, to human sexuality, to the rainbow, to the Sabbath?

2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson
All Nations and Babel

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read Memory Text:

> "Therefore its name is called Babel, because there the LORD confused the language of all the earth; and from there the LORD scattered them abroad over the face of all the earth" (Genesis 11:9 NKJV).

Why did the Lord confuse their languages?

Was this punishment for sin or something else? What was God's purpose in doing it?

Was it an act of vengeance or an act of love and mercy?

Read second paragraph, "However, the line is broken…" What law lens do you hear "judgment" through? What kind of judgment is this?

This is diagnostic and therapeutic judgment, judging what is transpiring, the impact, consequences, what is necessary to minimize the eternal loss of human beings and ultimately keep open avenue for Messiah so humanity can be saved from sin.

There is nothing judicial going on here. It is sad that the lesson keeps using the "judgment" language because it lends itself to reinforcing the deep seated infection of imperial law thinking.

What was the cause or motivation for them to build the tower?

What is the theme of Scripture? Is this event at Babel a stand-alone story to teach us some point, or is it an event that is part of a larger story, a single battle in the middle of a larger war? What is that larger war? Genesis 3:15, the promised Messiah needs to come lest the entire human species is eternally lost. Satan is working to obstruct the coming Messiah. He needs to unite the world—the entire world—into rebellion against God again, just like at the time of the flood. The tower of Babel is part of Satan's attack against God's plan. Thus God intervenes to thwart Satan's attempt to unite the entire human population in rebellion against God and keep open the avenue for the Messiah.

Were the people building the tower because, as a group, the entire world stopped believing in God, or because they did believe but didn't trust Him?

What does this say about the use of power? Can God achieve His goal of loyal followers who love and trust Him and who are also trustworthy by the use of might and power, by inflicting punishments upon those who disobey? Why or why not?

If God cannot get what He wants with use of power, then what does it mean that He used so much power in Old Testament times? Why would He do it? Was He trying to achieve something else in those circumstances? In other words, when God used might and power was He trying to win people to love and trust by the use of might and power or seeking to achieve something else?

Read last paragraph, "In the end, in spite…" I do not like the wording here, that "God turns evil into good." Can God turn evil into good? Or is evil evil and good good? Evil cannot be turned into good, but God can bring good outcomes of the evil actions and intentions of His enemies.

> "And we know that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose" (Romans 8:28 NIV84).

For instance, Lot's daughters getting their father drunk and sleeping with him and each having a son Amon the father of the Ammonites and Moab the father of the Moabites, was not good but evil. That act will always be not good but evil. However, Ruth was a Moabitess and the grandmother of King David and one of the ancestors of Christ. So God did bring good out of the evil, but that doesn't make what Lot's daughters did good.

What do you think about the idea that the confusing of the languages was a curse from God that will eventually be turned to a blessing?

They reference Genesis 11:9 to support the idea, which is our memory text, but let's reread it. Does it say God cursed them?

> "Therefore its name is called Babel, because there the LORD confused the language of all the earth; and from there the LORD scattered them abroad over the face of all the earth" (Genesis 11:9 NKJV).

I don't read where the confusing the languages was a curse. In fact, understanding reality, God's design law, the great controversy, the plan of salvation, to NOT confuse the languages and to allow them to stay united would have been a curse. Why? It would have resulted in greater wickedness, more people hardening against God and more people failing to find salvation.

Thus confusing the languages slowed the spread of Satan's lies and the ability for humans to unite in rebellion against God which was a blessing, total and complete.

Why do you think some view God confusing the languages as a curse?

SUNDAY

The lesson title is The Curse of Ham, what do you understand this to be?

Let's read about it from Scripture, Genesis 9:18-27:

> The sons of Noah who came out of the ark were Shem, Ham and Japheth. (Ham was the father of Canaan.) These were the three sons of Noah, and from them came the people who were scattered over the earth. Noah, a man of the soil, proceeded to plant a vineyard. When he drank some of its wine, he became drunk and lay uncovered inside his tent. Ham, the father of Canaan, saw his father's nakedness and told his two brothers outside. But Shem and Japheth took a garment and laid it across their shoulders; then they walked in backward and covered their father's nakedness. Their faces were turned the other way so that they would not see their father's nakedness.
> When Noah awoke from his wine and found out what his youngest son had done to him, he said,
>
> > "Cursed be Canaan!
> > The lowest of slaves > > will he be to his brothers."
>
> He also said,
>
> > "Blessed be the LORD, the God of Shem!
> > May Canaan be the slave of Shem.
> > May God extend the territory of Japheth;
> > may Japheth live in the tents of Shem, > > and may Canaan be his slave" (Genesis 9:18-27 NIV84).

What do you make of this account?

Who gets cursed in the account? Was it Ham or his son Canaan? Why?

Who did the cursing God or Noah? Was the cursing causal? In other words, is Noah a shaman with some magical powers who when he places a curse on someone it is like voodoo and has the ability to magically ruin that person's life and the life of their descendants? If not what is the curse?

How does design law understand the curse? Was it a prophecy, a vision into the future? Was it a prediction based on understanding reality?

When God makes prophecies that concern people, like various prophecies for the nation of Israel—are those prophecies causal? Meaning does the prophecy take away liberty and predestine people to act out what was prophesied? Or can people still act in ways that cause the prophecy not to occur? Are there such things as conditional prophecies?

Could this curse by Noah be nothing more his view of what was likely to happen because of the nature and character of Ham?

What did Ham do here that would cause Noah to curse his son?

Canaan was the youngest son of Ham, does that give any suggestions as to why he was the one cursed?

Here is Genesis 9:18-27 from The Remedy:

> The sons of Noah who came out of the boat were Shem, Ham and Japheth. (Ham was the father of Canaan.) These were Noah's three sons, and from them came all the people who populate the earth.
>
> Noah began farming and planted a vineyard. Some of the grape juice had fermented, and when Noah drank the wine, he became drunk, took off his clothes and laid naked inside his tent. When Ham, the father of Canaan, saw his father lying drunk and naked, he ridiculed him; and rather than respecting his father and protecting his reputation, he went out and mocked him to his two brothers. But Shem and Japheth respected their father: they placed a robe on their shoulders and then walked backward into the tent and covered their father's nakedness. As they did this, they turned their faces away and did not see their father naked.
>
> When Noah awoke from his stupor and found out what his youngest son had done, he said, "Your disrespectful, critical and contemptuous ways will be a curse to your descendants, starting with Canaan – your youngest, who is still young enough to be molded by your example! Abusive, exploitive and selfish, your descendants will not be trusted members of the family but will become like servants – no closer than slaves – to their brothers."
> Then Noah said, "Praise and adore the Creator God of Shem! But Ham's descendants, beginning with Canaan, will not be trusted members of the family; they will be like servants – no closer than slaves – to their brothers. God will increase Japheth and his descendants, and they will get along well with Shem and his descendants; but Ham's descendants, beginning with Canaan, will not be trusted members of the family; they will be like servants – no closer than slaves – to their brothers."

Read last paragraph, "In addition, the curse…" So are they saying that what Ham did was actually a good thing so that the curse would happen and then become a blessing to all nations?

Or is it better to say that despite the curse that sin causes God can still bring out a blessing that will eradicate sin and its curse?

Moses speaking to the people said,

> "This day I call heaven and earth as witnesses against you that I have set before you life and death, blessings and curses" (Deuteronomy 30:19 NIV84).

In Hebrew parallelism life is equated with blessings and death is equated with curses.

And from where does death come?

> "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 6:23 NIV84).
> Note the contrast between the curse and the blessing—death the curse comes from sin, life the blessing comes from God.

> "The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction; the one who sows to please the Spirit, from the Spirit will reap eternal life" (Galatians 6:8 NIV84).
> Again, the curse of death comes from sinfulness and the blessing of life comes from the Spirit of God

> I declare to you, brothers, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, nor does the perishable inherit the imperishable. Listen, I tell you a mystery: We will not all sleep, but we will all be changed—in a flash, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, the dead will be raised imperishable, and we will be changed. For the perishable must clothe itself with the imperishable, and the mortal with immortality. When the perishable has been clothed with the imperishable, and the mortal with immortality, then the saying that is written will come true: "Death has been swallowed up in victory." "Where, O death, is your victory? Where, O death, is your sting?" (1Corinthians 15:50-55 NIV84).
> - The curse of death does not come from God as punishment for sin. It is what sin unavoidably causes unless sin is eradicated by God. And this is what Jesus has done. He has eradicated the death causing principle from the humanity He assumed and restored the life causing principle into humanity and thereby destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light and is now the Savior, Healer, Restorer, Purifier, Deliverer, Remedy for all who trust Him, (Hebrews 5:9).

MONDAY

What is the purpose of the genealogies in Scripture?

- Historical veracity
- Connection through time, generation to generation—a real living link of people from ancient to modern times
  - This is valuable for many reasons one of them this human link, generation to generation from Adam, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Judah, David, Jesus to Jews living today who still observe the Bible Sabbath confirm exactly which day of the week is the Sabbath for any who question. This is one example why the historic human link in Scripture is valuable.

- Remind us of our fleeting individual existence
- Documents Jesus' is a part of the human family all the way back to Adam

How did Satan pervert the use of genealogies and for which Paul had to write:

- "As I urged you when I went into Macedonia, stay there in Ephesus so that you may command certain men not to teach false doctrines any longer nor to devote themselves to myths and endless genealogies. These promote controversies rather than God's work—which is by faith" (1 Timothy 1:3-4 NIV84).

- "But avoid foolish controversies and genealogies and arguments and quarrels about the law, because these are unprofitable and useless" (Titus 3:9 NIV84).

What is going on? What was the problem?

Paul tells us in these two passages the key to the controversy between Christ and Satan through history, which continues to this day. It is the same issue that derailed the 1888 General Conference. It is the conflict between faith and law. In 1Timothe Paul said: "These promote controversies rather than God's work—which is by faith" And in Titus he said: "But avoid foolish controversies and genealogies and arguments and quarrels about the law."

Faith is from the Greek pistis and this one single word is translated into faith, trust, believe, belief, assurance, fidelity. It means conviction, confidence, certainty, trust.

The issue is about whether we have confidence or trust in God such that we let Him into our hearts to heal and restore us and will humble listen to His instructions and trust Him enough to change our views, practices, methods, values, and follow Him? This is the design law view, healing the distrust caused by sin and restoring us to trust so that we open the heart and allow the Spirit to heal us. This is on contrast to Satan's view which is the law view, law must be kept, someone has to pay a price, some legal mechanism must be accomplished, some ritual performed, some payment made, some book of records cleansed, some judicial ruling occur.

It is rooted in which view of law one holds, design law or imposed law. The view of law one holds changes how one views the character and methods of God. And because of the law of worship changes who we become and what methods we practice.

The faith group and the law group both use the same language such as:

- salvation by faith in Jesus
- righteousness by faith
- Jesus as the saving and atoning sacrifice
- Justification by faith

But they have different meanings depending on whether one worships the Creator whose laws are design laws or one worships the dictator whose laws are made up rules like sinful human beings make.

The root is the lie about God's law that Satan introduced, which when believed results in people believing God is the source of inflicted punishment for sin and thus they view the Bible record as God cursing, God punishing, etc.

So one key to identifying those who hold to Satan's view about God and the lie about God's law is to inquire what they believe happens to the wicked in the end. Those who view God's law as Satan says, believe that God will use His power to inflict pain, suffering, torture and death upon the wicked.

Those who worship the Creator God whose laws or design laws believe the unrepentant in the end will suffer terrible and die eternally, but as an unavoidable result of unremedied sin in them when God no longer shields and protects them from the damaging results of sin.

Note, both groups believe the wicked will suffer and die but one group worships a god who is the source of inflicted pain and suffering to punish sin, the other group worships a God who is the source of life and health and happiness and that the suffering and death comes from people separating themselves from God who is the source of life.

And the reason the one group insists God must punish is because they believe Satan's lie about God's law. So this is a key to identify who still clings to the lie that originated in heaven by God's number one enemy.

We are to be taking the 3 Angels' messages to the world which is to call people out of worshipping the dictator God which Rome made orthodoxy within Christianity and back to worshipping the Creator who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water.

But back to how the Jews were using the genealogies to cause controversy, it is because of the promise to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob about their descendants being a blessing to the world.

The Jews came to believe that genetic descendancy determined virtue and righteousness or merit with God. To be able to trace one's genetic line back to Abraham through Jacob and Isaac, was thought to mean one was automatically blessed by God and entitled to the inheritance promised to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

But Paul says this is foolish thinking, why?

> You are all sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus, for all of you who were baptized into Christ have clothed yourselves with Christ. There is neither Jew nor Greek, slave nor free, male nor female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus. If you belong to Christ, then you are Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise (Galatians 3:26–29).

Did Jesus have anything to say about this?

Jesus Himself explicitly told the Jewish leaders of His day that genetics did not determine who is considered an heir of Abraham and who would inherit the promise. We find Jesus' explanation to the Jewish authorities in John 8:34-45; my comments are in red:

> Jesus replied, "I tell you the truth, everyone who sins is a slave to sin. Now a slave has no permanent place in the family, but a son belongs to it forever. [If we don't experience freedom from sin through Jesus, then we are not part of the family of God—that is, not part of Abraham's family.] So if the Son sets you free, you will be free indeed. I know you are Abraham's descendants. Yet you are ready to kill me, because you have no room for my word. I am telling you what I have seen in the Father's presence, and you do what you have heard from your father." [Jesus tells them plainly that even though they are genetic descendants of Abraham, God doesn't see them as being children of Abraham, but children of a different father. Note, the Jews, to whom Jesus was speaking, understood this point and protested, claiming their genetic heritage.]
> "Abraham is our father," they answered. [Jesus' response disallows their genetics as being a valid basis for being considered a descendant of Abraham.]
>
> "If you were Abraham's children," said Jesus, "then you would do the things Abraham did. [Those recognized by God as children of Abraham are those who have the same faith in God as Abraham did and who act on that faith as Abraham did.] As it is, you are determined to kill me, a man who has told you the truth that I heard from God. Abraham did not do such things. You are doing the things your own father does." [Jesus again tells them that their heritage is not determined genetically but characterologically. They have embraced another father, but again, they protest and claim a higher father than Abraham.]
>
> "We are not illegitimate children," they protested. "The only Father we have is God himself." [The Jews claimed God as their Father because God created humanity. But Jesus disallows this claim as well, for we are born in sin (Psalm 51:5) and Jesus already said that those who remain slaves to sin have no permanent place in the family of God. Only those who, through Jesus, are freed from sin become part of the family of God and are considered children of Abraham. Note Jesus' answer.]
>
> Jesus said to them, "If God were your Father, you would love me, for I came from God and now am here. I have not come on my own; but he sent me. Why is my language not clear to you? Because you are unable to hear what I say. You belong to your father, the devil, and you want to carry out your father's desire. He was a murderer from the beginning, not holding to the truth, for there is no truth in him. When he lies, he speaks his native language, for he is a liar and the father of lies" (John 8:34–45 NIV84). [Jesus unequivocally destroys the idea that genetics determines who is an heir of Abraham, and He makes it clear that it is all about faith, character, love, and trust like Abraham.]

Then what do we understand the promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob to mean?

The covenant with and promises to Abraham focus on two promised lands and I wrote a blog about this Israel and the Promised Land Today in which I give more details. But the promises to Abraham had a local application and a global application. The local application is the one in which Abraham's genetic decedents are the branch of the human family through whom God accomplishes the promise of Genesis 3:15 and through whom the Messiah is born. This local regional promise to Abraham informs him that his children would inherit the land in Canaan for the purpose of fulfilling their mission of being the avenue through whom Messiah would come so that Jesus can fulfill God's greater promise, the covenant of grace given in Genesis 3:15, and crush the serpent's head so that the "meek will inherit the earth" (Matthew 5:5)—the true Promised Land.

- The genetic descendants inherited Canaan in order to be the avenue for Jesus our Savior to be born and fulfill the covenant given to the entire human family in Genesis 3:15 so that …
- … the spiritual descendants of Abraham—all those who have faith like Abraham—will inherit the entire planet, the earth made new.

TUESDAY

The lesson points out that the builders of the tower of Babel wanted to make a "name" for themselves.

What does this mean?

The lesson points out they wanted to replace God with self.

Where did such a motive originate?

Let's read Isaiah 14:12-17:

> How you have fallen from heaven,
> O morning star, son of the dawn! [Who is this?]
> You have been cast down to the earth, > you who once laid low the nations!
> 13 You said in your heart,
> "I will ascend to heaven;
> I will raise my throne
> above the stars of God;
> I will sit enthroned on the mount of assembly,
> on the utmost heights of the sacred mountain.
> 14 I will ascend above the tops of the clouds;
> I will make myself like the Most High." [What is described? What is the motive? Where does it originate?]
> 15 But you are brought down to the grave, to the depths of the pit. [By what?]

16 Those who see you stare at you, they ponder your fate:
"Is this the man who shook the earth and made kingdoms tremble, 17 the man who made the world a desert, who overthrew its cities and would not let his captives go home?" (Isaiah 14:12-17 NIV84).

What is described here? This is describing when the righteous who see through the lies of Satan as he is exposed as the source of pain, suffering, death. And all responsibility for sin and death is placed back upon Satan.

Is this acted out anywhere in the ceremonial system? This is at the Day of Atonement when the high priest places his hands on the head of the scapegoat and it is led into the wilderness. This is not placing individual acts of sin on the scapegoat, but placing the lies of Satan that caused the sin back upon his head with all the subsequent responsibility for the pain and suffering his lies have caused in God's universe.

This is what is happening in the minds of people today as the "blood" of Jesus, which symbolically means His character, the truth and love of God that He revealed, is internalized into our hearts and minds and we discern the difference between God and Satan. As we reject the imposed law lie with all of its subsequent perversions and distortions about God and the plan of salvation, we are being cleansed and the responsibility for all the pain, suffering and death is placed back on Satan's head and we stop teaching that God is the source of death that He inflicts upon the wicked!

WEDNESDAY

Read third paragraph, "The descent of God reminds…" After Adam sinned could the human race be saved without Jesus, without the promised Seed of Genesis 3:15? No!

No question, without Jesus becoming human, humbling Himself all the way through the cross and grave to come out victorious having destroyed death no human being could be saved.

But, did Jesus' death at the cross save every human being? Why not?

Jesus came as the second Adam and as such redeemed the species human, put the species human back into sinless perfection and right connection with God, the source of life, IN HIS PERSON, in the humanity that He took upon Himself. Simultaneously, Jesus revealed the truth about God that destroys the lies of Satan solidifying the unfallen angels in their loyalty.

> For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross (Colossians 1:19-20 NIV84).

And He procured the remedy necessary for any individual sinful human being who places their trust/faith in Him to receive eternal life, a new heart and right spirit, the character, methods, and law of God restored within them.

> once made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him (Hebrews 5:9 NIV84).

So Jesus saved the species in His own person, revealed truth to stop Satan's lies from spreading and securing the unfallen beings in their loyalty, and procured the remedy for fallen humans that we receive by faith when we trust Jesus we open our hearts and the Spirit enters bringing the victory of Christ to us and we are reborn with new motives, desires, and power to live lives of love and truth rather than fear and selfishness.

So why are some saved and some are not? Because some partake of the truth and trust Jesus, open their hearts and receive the regeneration of motives from fear and selfishness to love and trust and then choose to live differently, in harmony with God's principles, and with each choice to follow and apply God's methods in their lives they receive divine power to succeed and their characters are transformed, and some do not partake the truth and open their hearts in trust to receive this indwelling presence of God which transforms them.

THURSDAY

Read the first paragraph, "God's design.." Now consider for a moment, if God did not confuse their languages would their tower have reached into heaven? No, they would have remained on earth, but what would have likely resulted?

Would a human government have formed? And what kind of government would it likely have been with people motivated to make a name for themselves?

Would it have resulted in a few powerful elites dominating and exploiting the masses of people? And what impact does that have on individual development?

So, do you see that God confused their languages and spread them around the world to prevent a single dominating and exploitive human government from developing?

The lesson states in the second paragraph, "Indeed, whenever humans, in open defiance of God, want to 'make a name' for themselves, we can be sure it won't turn out well. It never has."

This is well stated and absolutely true. What about today? Do we see society decaying as godless evolutionism replaced a Creator God worldview in schools and society at large? And is our cultural value system today based on "making a name" for self, getting the most fame, the most clicks, the most followers? And what is the result, are we seeing more virtue, gentleness, kindness, meekness, love, patience, goodness, righteousness, or ever-increasing vileness, wickedness, exploitation and evil?

2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson 6
The Roots of Abraham

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read second paragraph, "In his journeying…" What do you think they mean by this sentence, "In his journeying, Abraham is suspended in a void—without his past, which he has lost, and without his future, which he does not see"?

Did Abraham's life history, prior experiences, knowledge, perspectives, understandings of the cultures and world around him, abilities, language change when he left Ur? In other words, did Abraham leave his history behind? Did he have amnesia?

Did his past no longer have an impact upon who he was and the decisions he made?

We will read about him rescuing Lot this week—who was Lot? His nephew and when did that relationship get established? Wasn't it in his past, in his history?

When Abraham was old and wanted to get a wife for his son Isaac what did he instruct his servant to do? "go to my country and my own relatives and get a wife for my son Isaac" (Genesis 24:4 NIV84).

If Abraham was in a void without his past history, how could he send his servant to his relatives for a wife, weren't his family part of his history?

Perhaps this is simply poorly worded and they meant to say, "Abraham left the support and resources of his home, family, and community," which he did. But it just didn't sound right to me the way it was worded.

SUNDAY

The lesson is about the covenant with Abraham that all nations on earth will be blessed through his Seed, meaning through Jesus.

Read second paragraph, "The fulfillment of that prophecy…" The Bible is an historic document that records the life of real people doing real historic events, but many of its historic figures and the actions they took were chosen by God to be recorded in Scripture because they also serve as object lessons to teach the larger reality of the plan of salvation.

- Ur or Babylon represents Satan's kingdom—and what is the underlying foundation that every kingdom is founded upon? Its laws. And of all the kingdoms that interacted with God's people and thus entered the Bible story arc, what is Babylon known for? The code of Hammurabi—the first nation to have an imposed law. Jesus said His kingdom is not of this world because all the kingdoms of the world operate upon imposed—made up rules—that require inflicted punishments. But God is Creator and His laws are design laws that life is built upon and that when broken continued life require the Creator to heal and fix the damage and restore to harmony with the law lest if God does nothing death ensues.
- Abraham leaving Ur or Babylon is an object lesson for the people of God who are to leave the systems of this world with their imposed laws and inflicted punishments as a way of achieving justice. The beast of revelation rises to do justice, to make things right, to fix what is wrong. But it does so through imposed law and more controlling, oppressive government with more rules, more mandates, more encroachment upon liberty, ultimately coercing consciences. Those who believe God's government operates like Babylon or Rome, with made up rules that require inflicted punishments will embrace this beastly system and believe it is right to do so. But God's true saints will leave the methods of this world behind and live out God's law of truth, love and liberty.
- So, like Abraham left Ur, we must leave the methods, practices, and ways of this world behind. We do not get a new history; we get new hearts and right spirits that live out God's methods and principles in how we treat others. In fact, we remember quite clearly our own history when we used to practice and believe the methods of the world were right, and praise God that we are no longer of this world even though we are still in this world.
- As we leave the old ways of the world behind, no longer identifying with the imposed law systems, the penal legal theologies, but instead advancing the Creator God and living out his methods, we like Abraham move toward the promised land—a land we see by faith.
- Like Abraham left behind his family and human inheritance in order to receive the inheritance from God, we must leave worldly ties behind and be reborn as children of God in order to receive our heavenly inheritance.

MONDAY

Genesis 12:1-9 God calls Abraham to leave Ur and he accepts the call and he, his nephew Lot, his wife Sarah and his servants all leave and go to the Negev.

Abraham's choice to leave his home, family, friends, all that was familiar to him was an act of faith. But when he arrived to the land where God led him there is a famine and in response to the famine he then goes down to Egypt, where he tells Sarah to present herself as his sister for fear of Pharaoh wanting Sarah and killing him and taking her.

What is going on here?

Why did God call Abraham to leave his home and travel to the Negev region?

For Abraham's children to be the avenue for the Messiah. In other words, Abraham was called to be the father of the branch of the human family through whom the Genesis 3:15 promise would be fulfilled, through whom Messiah would come.

Again, this is the focus of Scripture, the great controversy over God's character and government and God's solution for the sin problem, i.e. the plan of salvation. Thus our focus on Abraham's family, narrowing down on Isaac, Jacob, and then Judah.

So, once Abraham is identified by God's call as the one through whom all nations will be blessed by the Seed or descendant who would come, and who is the same promised Seen who will crush the serpent's head, what did Satan do? Did Satan ignore Abraham, or focus his attention on Abraham?

And immediately after Abraham arrives in the promised land area, he experiences a famine—what is likely going on? Who is behind the famine? Satan is actively working on the forces of nature to destroy Abraham.

And when this famine occurred, did Abraham turn to God in faith, or did Abraham seek his own solution? And what solution did Abraham choose? To go to Egypt. And having turned from faith to self-dependence, what was the next action Abraham chose? To lie and to solicit his wife help him deceive others, in order to do what? Protect self. In other words, having left the life of faith for the life of protecting self, fear and selfishness, the survival of the fittest drives, took over and Abraham began practicing the methods of Satan's kingdom rather than the methods of God's kingdom. And what was the result? Trouble for Abraham, but God in mercy intervened therapeutically to stop Pharaoh from violating Sarah's virtue, yet Abraham's reputation was damaged.

Real historic people who did real historic things—but what is the object lesson for us?

- We are all called like Abraham to leave this world and its systems behind and enter a journey of faith with God that will lead us to the heavenly promised land
- Satan will use every means available to him in order to discourage us just like he did Abraham and we may find ourselves in a famine. What is a famine symbolic of? Some place with limited resources—spiritually speaking we may find ourselves in a community with people who don't believe as we do, without the comfort, encouragement, support of fellow believers.
- We may be tempted to go down to Egypt. Egypt is symbolic of godlessness. We may have difficulties and feel as if we are dying of thirst spiritually. And we may be tempted to turn to the systems of this world to find justice, or comfort, or connection and leave behind the truths of God's kingdom.
- But our choices to compromise with the world will always bring painful and negative consequences, yet God in mercy will intervene to provide every opportunity for us to return to Him and His promises and resume our journey to the heavenly promised land. However, we may have embarrassed ourselves, and just like Abraham damaged his relationship with Pharaoh, we may suffer damaged human relationships from trying to cope on our own rather than trusting God and staying faithful to Him.

But another deeper object lesson is when we realize where Abraham has come from, where God is leading Him, and where he was tempted to go:

- Abraham was led from Babylon to the promised land but was tempted by the famine to go down to Egypt. Here we have three distinct places highlighted, Babylon, the promised land, Egypt. Does this trigger your mind to think of any prophecies or object lessons?
- Daniel 11 the King of the North versus the King of the South. In the prophecy there are three places or powers—the King of the North identified as Babylon and Rome; the beautiful land, which is the promised land, and the King of the South which is identified as Egypt.
- Throughout the prophecy the King of the North and the King of the South fight back and forth over the beautiful land, which represents the people of God.
- Both the King of the North and the King of the South are Satan's kingdoms and he pits them against each other to fight back and forth through history in an effort to pull the people of God into one or the other of his factions.
- The King of the North, represented by Babylon and Rome is symbolic of religious imperialism and the King of the South represented by Egypt is symbolic of godlessness in all its forms (paganism, earth worship, evolutionism, communism, humanism).
- Today the King of the South is the godless forces in the world, communism, godless evolutionism, humanism, socialism, leftism; while the King of the North is religious imperialism and is made up of all those people who believe in the creator God, the God of Abraham, but who also believe in imposed law and would use the power of the state to enforce their morals upon others. This would include Judaism, Islam and many Christian groups who seek to use human governments to impose laws to force their moral agenda upon others.
- The Daniel 11 prophecy ends with the King of the South, godless forces, pushing against the King of the North, which incites the King of the North to storm out against him and destroy him taking his power and wealth. Over the last century we have seen the push of godlessness, evolutionism, socialism, communism, leftism, wokeism, seeking to corrupt the minds of people with their godless worldview—which is based on multiple levels of denying reality—like there is no God, that humans evolved on their own, there is no male and female etc. And in America today we are seeing the beginning of rise of the King of the North and a very strong conservative backlash takes over the reins of government and will crush the godless forces that have been pushing their agenda. Did you see where the state of Florida just this week took back political power from Disney which had since 1967 the right to police their own area?
- But throughout all human history, including the prophecy of Daniel 11. God's people are not to be part of either Babylon or Egypt, they are to be identified with the beautiful land. Thus, the 3 Angels' messages call the people of God out of the fallen system of Babylon, built upon imposed laws. This includes both the governments of this world AND the false imposed law penal/legal theologies taught in the churches that make God's government functionally no different than the governments of this world.
- We will find ourselves in increasing end-time distress—like Abraham's famine—and we will have to decide, do we go back to Babylon, join with the forces of the state, impose laws on others, mandates, coerce others, do we go to Egypt and join with the godless forces of leftism, or do we leave Babylon, refuse Egypt and stay loyal to our Creator God and trust Him with our lives, families, and futures such that we stay faithful to His kingdom and live the truth, presenting it in love, while we leave others free?

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, "Abram's reconnection…" This is an excellent point. Abram, when relying on self, when focusing on the threats of this world, experienced increasing fear which led to selfishness, the desire to protect self and thus he fled to Egypt and told lies to protect self.

Do we see in the world today that Satan is like a roaring lion—and a lion's roar is designed to incite fear and fear leads to more selfish behaviors, more willingness to surrender freedom, to lie, to mandate, to control others, in order to feel safe.

However, notice that after Abraham repented and returned to living for God, he again trusts God with his life, his fortune, and his future, and doesn't act to get the best for himself, but allows Lot to choose first and Abraham trusts God to bring good out of whichever land with which he ends up possessing.

This type of decision-making, the decision-making of love and trust, is not natural to our sinful hearts. Our sinful hearts are driven by fear and selfishness and naturally sees threats and chooses actions which are designed to protect self, even if it may put others at risk.

The person of faith, lives differently, they trust God to watch over them, to bring good out of every situation, to protect them—as long as they are carrying out what God would have them do and thus they choose truth, love, and God's principles in how they conduct themselves. They seek to honor God and fulfill His purposes in every situation and trust God with how things turn out. Sometimes this can be a very difficult thing to do, especially when the issue is very important to us and will cause us emotionally pain or suffering.

And these struggles in decision-making are often related to what we have become emotionally attached to. People struggle to set healthy boundaries with others if they fear being rejected by the other. Instead of speaking truth in love and holding firm to what they believe is right for them to do in governance of self, people who live controlled by fear of rejection will compromise what they know is truth, healthy, and right, and go along with the other person in order to be accepted. Such insecure people rather than speaking truth graciously, will try to manage the other person's responses by avoiding any truth they believe will upset the other person. This almost always results in the person lying in some way, just like Abram lied about Sarah to try and manage Pharaoh's reactions to him.

Read the fourth paragraph, "In contrast, Abram's move…" The lesson notes that it wasn't until this separation from Lot that God speaks to Abraham again. Is there an object lesson for us?

- Do we ever have people in our lives that interfere with our connection with God?

- Do we ever have people in our lives that Satan uses to distract us from our duty, or who actively undermine our relationship with God?
- Do we have a responsibility to determine with whom we associate and on what level we associate?
- In other words, whom we let into the inner circles of our affections and whom we spend time with?

- What if we have family members who are not living for the Lord, should we ever stop loving them? Absolutely not!
- Should we ever stop lifting our family members up in pray? No!
- But could there be times we do set boundaries with certain family members and stop hanging out with them, or even stop letting them come over to our homes?
- What about spouses—could someone have married a person who is actually being used by Satan to undermine their mission and purpose for God?
    - What about Samson and Delilah?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson is about the coalition of various kings going to war and Lot being taken captive and Abraham organizing a rescue mission and rescuing Lot.

Read the second and third paragraph, "The involvement…" In light of what we have discussed regarding the King of the North and King of the South, what is the application to us of what Abraham did?

Whose ultimate kingdom did the various kings and political powers that were warring in Abraham's day belong? Note, all the various powers that were warring in Abraham's day were part of Satan's kingdom. Jesus said His kingdom is not of this world. All the kingdoms of this world are Satan.

Likewise, today, Russia and Ukraine, the USA and Iraq or Afghanistan, or China or Iran are all Satan's kingdoms. God's kingdom will not be found in any human government. All human governments are built upon imposed law, which is Satan's form of governing, and all human governments commit injustices in the name of doing justice.

Just as in Abraham's day Satan's various governments warred against each other as a means of taking God's people captive, so too today Satan has his kingdoms, the human governments of this world, war each other in all kinds of ways in order to take the minds and hearts of God's people captive. Satan's agents engage in:

- economic wars
- political wars
- biological wars (think COVID—a manmade virus that killed millions)

- physical wars
- cultural wars (think wokeism—all the recent attacks on the US flag, on the national monuments, on the names of various places, schools, institution, on marriage, on gender, on speech, on liberty, so-called virtue signaling, the BLM movement and so much more—all if this is a form of warfare—every bit of it specifically designed to undermine Bible principles and take captive the hearts and minds of God's people into a godless system of false justice).

So in Abraham's day Satan's kingdoms went to war and took Lot captive. Abraham had to decide what to do? Does he go to war to destroy the kingdoms of the world and establish his own earthly government with him and his people in charge so that he can be safe? No, what does he do? He goes to war to free Lot from captivity.

What is the object lesson for us today?

> "For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ" (2 Corinthians 10:3-5 NIV84)

We are engaged in a war, but we don't fight like the world, we don't use the methods of the world. We don't use guns and tanks; and we don't use the power of the state to pass laws to force people to do it our way. We instead, wield the sword of the Spirit, which is the truth, the Word of God, to destroy the lies and set hearts and minds free from both Babylon and Egypt, from both the King of the North (religious imperialism) and the King of the South (godlessness), by calling people out of the imposed law systems of this world back to worshipping the Creator God whose laws are design laws.

THURSDAY

The lesson focuses upon Abraham paying tithe to Melchizedek, in the third paragraph the lesson states, "Melchizedek is, however, not to be identified with Christ."

I thinks this is a poorly worded sentence and should be written as "Melchizedek is, however, not to be identified AS BEING Christ."

He is identified in Scripture with Christ. He was a type of Christ as the writer of Hebrews makes clear, but He was not Christ.

This is the view taught by the SDA church, here is an historic quote:

> It was Christ that spoke through Melchizedek, the priest of the most high God. Melchizedek was not Christ, but he was the voice of God in the world, the representative of the Father. Selected Messages volume 1 page 409

What is the significance of Abraham paying tithe to Melchizedek?

What is the difference between tithe and offerings?

Tithe is understood to be our lived-out, practiced, acknowledgement of our partnership with God in all things. That all our success in life no matter where, is only due to the fact that God so loved us He sent His Son to partner with us, to become human, to take up our cause, to provide us the living connection with Him that enables us to succeed in every aspect of life. Returning the tithe functionally says we recognize God as our partner in life and that all our success comes from Him!

The offering is our thanks to God, or our passion to support some specific program, outreach, project etc.

What is the tithe supposed to be used for? The advancement of the gospel.

To whom is the tithe to be paid today? The church? Which church?

Well obviously the church promoting the gospel—which church is that? Would we need to identify what the gospel is?

What is the gospel? The good news, about what? Does the good news expand and develop over time taking on new and deeper insights as time unfolds?

Did the Reformers promote the gospel? Did they leave their parent church to do so? And did the Reformation stop with Luther? Did the gospel message advance with advancing truths?

Would you recommend today that people pay tithes to groups presenting the gospel as Luther did, a message that is 500 years old?

What is the gospel message today?

Do we have a responsibility similar to those who did live in Luther's day, to examine the various presentations of the gospel and decide which version we believe to be the most consistent with Scripture and support those presenting that gospel?

Should we decide where to send our tithes, to programs, groups, organizations that are advancing the gospel as we understand it, or are we to mindlessly send our tithes to the organization of our birth, the church that our parents raised us in, regardless of what gospel they present?

Is it possible that many sincere, good-hearted Christians, have been conditioned to send their tithe money blindly to a church organization that is not presenting the gospel and they are innocently funding programs and materials that are working against the final message of mercy for the world? What is the final gospel message to go to the world?

Here is one historic view, do you agree?

> "It is the darkness of misapprehension of God that is enshrouding the world. Men are losing their knowledge of His character. It has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. At this time a message from God is to be proclaimed, a message illuminating in its influence and saving in its power. His character is to be made known. Into the darkness of the world is to be shed the light of His glory, the light of His goodness, mercy and truth…The last rays of merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is the revelation of His character of love." Christ's Object Lessons, p.415

What is the gospel, the good news? Would it be good news that you get eternal life in a universe run by Satan? So, if we teach the good news is that Jesus died to pay for our sins to an offended god so that god won't use his power to kill us are we presenting the good news? No, we are actually teaching Satan's view of God and undermining love and trust.

EG White, one of the founders of the SDA church wrote this about her personal tithe:

> "There are ministers' wives… who have been devoted, earnest, whole-souled workers, giving Bible readings and praying with families, helping along by personal efforts just as successfully as their husbands. These women give their whole time, and are told that they receive nothing for their labors because their husbands receive wages. I tell them to go forward and all such decisions will be revised. The Word says, "The labourer is worthy of his hire." Luke 10:7. When any such decision as this is made, I will, in the name of the Lord, protest. I will feel it my duty to create a fund from my tithe money to pay these women who are accomplishing just as essential work as the ministers are doing, and this tithe I will reserve for work in the same line as that of the ministers, hunting for souls, fishing for souls.{DG 106.1}
> It has been presented to me for years [by whom?] that my tithe was to be appropriated by myself to aid the white and colored ministers who were neglected and did not receive sufficient [income to] properly to support their families… {2MR 99.3}
>
> I have myself appropriated my tithe to the most needy cases brought to my notice. I have been instructed to do this, and as the money is not withheld from the Lord's treasury, [wait, it wasn't being given to the organized church, yet was not withheld from the Lord's treasury, why?] it is not a matter that should be commented upon, for it will necessitate my making known these matters, which I do not desire to do, because it is not best. {2MR 99.5}
> Some cases have been kept before me for years, and I have supplied their needs from the tithe, as God has instructed me to do. And if any person shall say to me, Sister White, will you appropriate my tithe where you know it is most needed, I shall say, Yes, I will; and I have done so... {2MR 100.1}

Did you notice that this person believed that her tithe was to go directly to people who were not funded by the institution, but who were promoting the true gospel message, she was 1) acting at God's direction and 2) the money was going into God's treasury, i.e. storehouse.

What do you think?

What is the gospel for this time? The message of the 3 Angels who come with the eternal gospel? If you haven't read our Final Message of Mercy to the World: The Three Angels magazine, I encourage you to do so. And as you read, ask yourself, is this the gospel?

The final message of mercy to the world, the eternal gospel is the truth about God's character of love, which is only rightly understood when we return to worshipping the Creator whose laws are design laws upon which reality is built to operate. If we teach the imposed law view of law we are not presenting the eternal gospel, but the lie of God's enemy.

Historic Adventism taught the following:

- The last great conflict between truth and error is but the final struggle of the long-standing controversy concerning the law of God. Upon this battle we are now entering,—a battle between the laws of men and the precepts of Jehovah, between the religion of the Bible and the religion of fable and tradition. {GC88 582.2}

What was Satan's opening lies about God's law?

- In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. {DA 761.4}

2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson 7
The Covenant with Abraham

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

The lesson this week is entitled The Covenant with Abraham

What does this title mean to you? What is this covenant?

Read second paragraph, "Like Noah's covenant…" this is well said, yes, the covenant with Abraham is not a NEW covenant, it is the covenant of grace given to Adam after the fall in Genesis 3:15 that a Savior would be born who would redeem Adam's failure—meaning save the species human, destroy Satan, eradicate sin, and open a new path for every human being who so chooses to also experience salvation from sin.

What is the basis of the covenant with Abraham?

- Was it an agreement dependent upon Abraham's work?
- Was it a contract that gave benefits based Abraham's genetics?
- Was it made upon law keeping, regulations, or ceremony?

Certainly Abraham's works were involved—he left Ur, and he is a human with DNA, and there were various ceremonies involved, but was any of this the basis of the covenant?

What was the basis of the covenant? God's grace and Abraham's trusting of God. That is the basis. God promised to send a Savior to deal with the sin problem and Abraham trusted God and then followed where God directed.

Are we able to participate in this covenant? How?

Our participation in the covenant is upon the same foundation, God's grace and our response to that grace is to trust God, i.e. the righteous or just live by faith or trust, and that faith leads us to choose to do what we understand God wants, i.e. we work in faith, but our works do not provide the remedy for our sin-sickness, our genetics make no difference, and our law-keeping and ceremonies have no impact upon God's grace or procuring the remedy to sin.

All of our works and law-keeping are the results or fruits of the Remedy being applied in our hearts and minds through faith/trust.

In the second paragraph the lesson states that Abraham, Sarah, Hagar, and Ishmael all struggled with fear, not fear in the sense of reverence and awe, but anxiety, dread, terror. Why? From where did the fear come?

As soon as Adam sinned he ran and hid because he was afraid—fear is part of the infection of sin and every human being who has ever lived since Adam's fall is a descendant of Adam and Eve and is born infected with fear.

And what does fear cause one to do? Watch out for self—fear tempts us to be selfish, it is the primary emotion that drives the survival of the fittest instinct. It is part of what Paul would describe as the law of sin and death.

What drives out fear? Perfect love, godly love is antagonistic to fear and vice versus. Fear undermines our capacity to love the greater the fear the greater hindrance, love drives out fear the greater the love and less the fear.

But love isn't the only godly element that drives out fear, is there another?

Trust drives out fear, when we trust we have less fear—even if we trust the wrong person or the wrong solution—as long as we trust, or believe, or have faith we have less fear.

This is one of Satan's great traps. Not only does sin incite fear, but Satan roars like a lion—the messaging of the world is fear-inducing, and people don't like to feel afraid, insecure, under threat. People want something to take away the fear and if they can't resolve the threat, make the fear go away, they look for someone or something to trust in that will.

This is why so many trust in penal legal theologies—it takes away their fear. Their sin-punishment has been paid and they are legally declared righteous and they feel safe. To take away this idea is to make them feel afraid and they resist it.

Just like some people who put their trust in mask wearing to stop COVID. The truth that masks make no difference at all takes away their false security, increases their sense of fear and thus they resist it and get angry at others who are not wearing a mask. You see, the people not wearing a mask, even if they don't say anything, are living witnesses to the fact that masks do nothing. These people are living healthy and those who have faith in the mask and need the mask to make them feel safe get threatened by those who are not wearing masks. Not threated by the actual virus, but the virus of fear.

The point is that fear can be resolved by trust and trust can be misplaced.

The truth will expose the inadequacy of solutions that don't work and those who are trusting in those solutions, if not mature and seeking truth, will get angry and seek to silence and destroy those who bring the truth.

What is trust safely built upon?

Trustworthiness of the one being trust, and that is known by what? The truth, thus the truth sets us free—from what? From the lies about God that break the circle of love and trust and incites fear, and the truth restores our trust opening our hearts to God's presence and His love along with our trust based upon the truth further frees us from fear.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "God's first response." The lesson suggests we read Romans 4:1-6:

> What then shall we say that Abraham, our forefather, discovered in this matter? If, in fact, Abraham was justified by works, he had something to boast about—but not before God. What does the Scripture say? "Abraham believed God, and it was credited to him as righteousness." Now when a man works, his wages are not credited to him as a gift, but as an obligation. However, to the man who does not work but trusts God who justifies the wicked, his faith is credited as righteousness (Romans 4:1–5 NIV84).

What does this mean? It says Abraham believed God, what does it mean to believe God? It must mean more than cognitive awareness knowing that God said something and believing that God said it because the Bible says:

> "You believe that there is one God. Good! Even the demons believe that—and shudder" (James 2:19 NIV84).

So "believing God" must be something more than believing God exists or that God said this or that, what is this belief that Abraham had that is recognized to be righteousness?

It means to trust God—Abraham didn't believe some fact that God exists, or God said something, but Abraham actually trusted God. Why would such trust be linked in Scripture with Abraham being recognized by God as being righteous?

What is the natural state of the human heart and mind after Adam's sin? Is the normal/natural state/attitude of a sinful/unrepented heart? Does the sinful heart trust or distrust God?

Since we are referencing Romans to give us insight into this experience known as "saving faith," this faith in which people are recognized by God to be righteous, what some like to say is a legal accounting, or crediting Christ's righteousness to our record book in heaven and declaring us to be righteous even though we are not, maybe we should allow Paul in the very book of Romans only a few verses later in chapter eight to give his insights into this what this experience is.

> For those who live according to the flesh set their minds on the things of the flesh, but those who live according to the Spirit [have their minds set on what the Spirit desires (NIV84)]. For to be carnally minded is death, but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. Because the carnal mind is enmity against God; for it is not subject to the law of God, nor indeed can be. So then, those who are in the flesh cannot please God (Romans 8:5-8 NKJV).

What is the natural state of a sinful or carnal mind/heart? Do sinners naturally trust God?

So if Abraham trusts God what does that mean—does that mean his mind is still set on the carnal or has his heart and mind been changed from distrust to trust and prefer the things of the Spirit of God?

So, when God recognizes Abraham as righteous it is because the sinful, distrusting, carnal heart has been set right, put back to a right orientation of trust in God, which if we use the Latin term for that is justified. God recognized Abraham as having been justified because he actually was! His heart had been changed from distrust to trust, from carnal to spiritual.

The sad history of Christianity is that the healing plan of God, achieved in Christ, taught in Scripture, and promoted by Paul was supplanted by a Roman imperialistic view of law and authority which corrupted the gospel into a legal process. Luther came along and recognized many things taught in the Roman system that were not in Scripture and started the Reformation.

And we are thankful for Luther, what a man of conviction, of courage, a man used by God to lead people out of blindly trusting the authority of church leaders and back to the Bible and translating the Bible into the language of the people. He did a great work for God. But Luther was a finite human who retained many errors in his own thinking.

Luther did not accept all 66 books of Scripture. He did not accept James, Jude, Hebrews, and Revelation. This resulted in Luther failing to see the larger war that goes beyond the human sin problem to the angels in heaven. Further, Luther continued to operate under the imposed law mindset falsely believing that God's law functions like human law, imposed rules requiring imposed punishments by the ruling magistrate. This is one of the core reasons he found no light in the idea that there was a war in heaven, because a powerful God could easily punish any rule-breaker in heaven and no such war could ever be waged. Thus, Luther's views on atonement are also corrupted with penal/legal baggage that he never was able to get rid of.

We have such a better view, which is to be expected, because we have the benefit of the unfolding truth from many diligent Bible students who have advanced the gospel since Luther.

But sadly, when it comes to the atonement many Christians stay stuck in the penal/legal explanations of righteousness by faith as being a legal declaration of something that isn't actually real in the believer.

Here is Romans 4:1-6 from The Remedy:

> What about our father Abraham: what did he understand about this issue? If Abraham was somehow healed by his own efforts at keeping a set of rules or performing certain rituals, then he would have his own healing formula to promote, and would not need trust in God. But what does the Scripture say? "Abraham trusted God, and his trust was recognized as righteousness because the distrust caused through Satan's lies had been removed, and through trust he was endowed with a new heart, right motives and Christlike principles." Now, when a person > works, their wages are earned and are not a gift or an endowment. But the person who doesn't try to earn God's Remedy by working for it, but instead comes to know and trust God–that person's trust is recognized as righteousness because the distrust caused by Satan's lies has been removed, and through trust they receive from God transformation of heart and experience God's own righteous character created within. David says the exact same thing when he describes the blessedness of the person to whom God bestows his perfect cure without them working to earn it: (Romans 4:1-6 REM).

The lesson next points to the land of the promise, what are your thoughts on the land promised to Abraham?

What was the purpose of promising Abraham the land?

Are the promises to Abraham based upon human works? Or human genetics? Or law keeping or ceremonies? Then what?

Was the promise of inheriting the land part of the same covenant of Genesis 3:15, to bring the Messiah to save the species human?

> In your seed all the nations of the earth shall be blessed, because you have obeyed My voice (Genesis 22:18 NKJV).

Who is this promised Seed? The same Seed from Genesis 3:15, so Abraham is the one through whose family the promise to Adam will be fulfilled. This promise was repeated to Isaac (Genesis 26:2-4) and to Jacob (Genesis 28:13-15) so we can be sure that the promised Seed of Genesis 3:15 does not come through Ishmael, but through the line of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob and later Judah.

So, there is no doubt that God made a covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob promising that that region of land would be given to them and their descendants and that through them the promised Messiah would come.

But does that mean the nation-state of Israel that exists today is part of that promise, or is it possible that we may have missed a larger promise from God because we have remained focused on that smaller regional promise? Is it possible that this promise to Abraham and his descendants is a dual-fulfillment prophecy and we have not fully appreciated its larger applications?

The Bible is filled with dual prophecies and promises:

- Joel's prophecy about the outpouring of the Holy Spirit before the second coming of Christ (Joel 2:28–32) is also applied by Peter to the day of Pentecost (Acts 2:14–21).
- Isaiah 14 and Ezekiel 28 both start out referring to an earthly king and then transition to the fall of Lucifer.

- Jesus' prophecy about the second coming is also blended with the destruction of Jerusalem (Matthew 24).

In all these dual-fulfillment prophecies, there is a lesser application and a greater application—the lesser is regional; the greater is global.

- The promise given to Adam and Eve in Genesis 3:15 is the promise given to the entire human race, for all human beings were in Adam and Eve.
- The promise given to Abraham was a regional promise of that global promise.
    - Meaning that God promised that through Abraham's family the earlier promise would be realized; that it would be through Abraham's genetic family that the Seed of the woman would be born and deliver the descendants of Adam from sin and death. This is the focus of Scripture, the plan of salvation.

The covenant with Abraham is the same covenant that was given to Adam, but with Abraham we now have the identification of the specific branch of the human family through whom the Messiah would come. And with the recommunication of the covenant to Abraham, God gives a dual-fulfillment prophecy concerning the land:

1. A smaller, local, regional promise that Abraham's genetic descendants would inherit the land of Canaan in order to fulfill their mission to be the genetic family through whom Jesus would be born; and
2. the larger, global, spiritual fulfillment, that the true descendants of Abraham, those who are like Abraham in faith and character would inherit the entire earth!

The covenant with and promises to Abraham focus on two promised lands. The local application is the one in which Abraham's genetic decedents are the branch of the human family through whom God accomplishes the promise of Genesis 3:15 and through whom the Messiah is born. This local regional promise to Abraham informs him that his children would inherit the land in Canaan for the purpose of fulfilling their mission of being the avenue through whom Messiah would come so that Jesus can fulfill God's greater promise, the covenant of grace given in Genesis 3:15, and crush the serpent's head so that the "meek will inherit the earth" (Matthew 5:5)—the true Promised Land.

- The genetic descendants inherited Canaan in order to be the avenue for Jesus our Savior to be born and fulfill the covenant given to the entire human family in Genesis 3:15 so that …
- … the spiritual descendants of Abraham—all those who have faith like Abraham—will inherit the entire planet, the earth made new.

The promise for the genetic descendants to occupy the small land of Canaan has been fulfilled—Jesus has come. Jesus has confronted Satan, and Jesus has won the victory. Now the promises to Abraham are to be fulfilled on the global, not regional, scale when Jesus returns and we, the faithful, finally inherit the earth.

Here is the biblical evidence for this position:

> The LORD appeared to Abram and said, "To your offspring I will give this land" (Genesis 12 7).

This is the regional promise for the genetic descendants to occupy Canaan for the purpose of being the branch of the human family through which the Messiah would be born.

> The LORD said to Abram after Lot had parted from him, "Lift up your eyes from where you are and look north and south, east and west. All the land that you see I will give to you and your offspring forever. I will make your offspring like the dust of the earth, so that if anyone could count the dust, then your offspring could be counted. Go, walk through the length and breadth of the land, for I am giving it to you" (Genesis 13:14–17 NIV84).

This is the larger, global, promise—that the entire earth (east, west, north, south, all points of the compass) will be given to the people of God; the earth will be made new, and those who are like Abraham in character, in faith, whose hearts have been circumcised from sin, will be heirs to this promise and inherit the earth.

The apostle Paul, a former Pharisee of the tribe of Benjamin and a highly trained Jewish theologian of the first century, wrote:

> You are all sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus, for all of you who were baptized into Christ have clothed yourselves with Christ. There is neither Jew nor Greek, slave nor free, male nor female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus. If you belong to Christ, then you are Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise (Galatians 3:26–29).

Jesus Himself explicitly told the Jewish leaders of His day these very truths, that genetics did not determine who is considered an heir of Abraham and who would inherit the promise. We find Jesus' explanation to the Jewish authorities in John 8:34-45; my comments are in red:

> Jesus replied, "I tell you the truth, everyone who sins is a slave to sin. Now a slave has no permanent place in the family, but a son belongs to it forever. [If we don't experience freedom from sin through Jesus, then we are not part of the family of God—that is, not part of Abraham's family.] So if the Son sets you free, you will be free indeed. I know you are Abraham's descendants. Yet you are ready to kill me, because you have no room for my word. I am telling you what I have seen in the Father's presence, and you do what you have heard from your father." [Jesus tells them plainly that even though they are genetic descendants of Abraham, God doesn't see them as being children of Abraham, but children of a different father. Note, the Jews, to whom Jesus was speaking, understood this point and protested, claiming their genetic heritage.]
> "Abraham is our father," they answered. [Jesus' response disallows their genetics as being a valid basis for being considered a descendant of Abraham.]

"If you were Abraham's children," said Jesus, "then you would do the things Abraham did. [Those recognized by God as children of Abraham are those who have the same faith in God as Abraham did and who act on that faith as Abraham did.] As it is, you are determined to kill me, a man who has told you the truth that I heard from God. Abraham did not do such things. You are doing the things your own father does." [Jesus again tells them that their heritage is not determined genetically but characterologically. They have embraced another father, but again, they protest and claim a higher father than Abraham.]

"We are not illegitimate children," they protested. "The only Father we have is God himself." [The Jews claimed God as their Father because God created humanity. But Jesus disallows this claim as well, for we are born in sin (Psalm 51:5) and Jesus already said that those who remain slaves to sin have no permanent place in the family of God. Only those who, through Jesus, are freed from sin become part of the family of God and are considered children of Abraham. Note Jesus' answer.]

Jesus said to them, "If God were your Father, you would love me, for I came from God and now am here. I have not come on my own; but he sent me. Why is my language not clear to you? Because you are unable to hear what I say. You belong to your father, the devil, and you want to carry out your father's desire. He was a murderer from the beginning, not holding to the truth, for there is no truth in him. When he lies, he speaks his native language, for he is a liar and the father of lies" (John 8:34–45 NIV84). [Jesus unequivocally destroys the idea that genetics determines who is an heir of Abraham, and He makes it clear that it is all about faith, character, love, and trust like Abraham.]

The dual-fulfillment promise to Abraham had two starting points and two ending points.

- The starting point of the global promise was in Eden, in Genesis 3:15;
- the starting point of the regional promise was with Abraham when he was called out of Ur.
- The ending point of the global is when Jesus recreates the earth and the meek inherit it;
- the ending point of the regional promise for the genetic people to be the avenue for the Messiah was when they crucified Christ and Jesus said to them, "Your house is left to you desolate" (Matthew 23:38 NIV84).

Jesus masterfully weaves these two covenant promises together in His prophetic description of the destruction of Jerusalem and His second coming as described in Matthew 24 and Mark 13.

- The destruction of Jerusalem occurs because the regional fulfillment of the promise has ended. The genetic descendants kept open the avenue, Messiah had come, but they rejected Him and now there is no further purpose for a regional land to be occupied by them. The gospel must now go to the world. It is time for the global application, which culminates in the second coming and the meek inheriting the earth.

The great nation that God promised would come from Abraham's descendants is the global nation whose ruler is from the line of David. As the angel said to the virgin Mary about her Son:

> "He will be great and will be called the Son of the Most High. The Lord God will give him the throne of his father David, and he will reign over the house of Jacob forever; his kingdom will never end" (Luke 1:32, 33 NIV84).

And the writer of Hebrews tells us that the faithful of God in Bible times—Abel, Enoch, Noah, along with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob who lived "in the promised land" (Hebrews 11:9)—"did not receive the things promised" (Hebrews 11:13), that they were "looking forward to the city with foundations, whose architect and builder is God" (Hebrews 11:10). "All of these people" of faith "did not receive the things promised; they saw them and welcomed them from a distance. … They were longing for a better country—a heavenly one" (Hebrews 11:13, 16).

The Bible says that "all of these people" did not receive the things promised; note who is included on that list—Enoch, who was taken to heaven! Enoch, who has already received eternal life, a glorified body, who currently lives in heaven with Jesus, surely he has received the promise, hasn't he? Not in its complete and fullest sense. What was Abraham promised? That his spiritual descendants would inherit the earth. This promise will not be fully realized until Jesus comes again, all sin and sinners are eliminated, the New Jerusalem comes down from heaven, and the earth is made new to be the home of the righteous. Then the promise will be realized and we, who have faith like Abraham, will receive our inheritance of a goodly land, a beautiful home, perfect and flawless that God intended Adam and Eve to possess. It is true that the meek will inherit the earth, for what God has promised He will fulfill.

The first paragraph points out that after Abraham believed the promise from God to give him a son, that with time Abraham's faith began to fail. He looked to normal human biology, human culture, and sought to implement a human created solution, based upon human understanding of things and took Hagar to be a surrogate for Sarah. He came up with an alternate heir to fulfill the promise. However, did this work? Was Ishmael the child of the promise?

The Bible is the record of real historic people doing real historic stuff, but their lives also serve as object lesson for us? What is the object lesson here?

God has a plan of salvation based upon the reality of His kingdom, His design laws; the real terminal sin-condition caused by Adam's choice needed to be eradicated and God's law of love needed to be restored into humanity. We need to become righteous again in order to be reconciled to God and receive the gift of eternal life. This required Jesus to come as the second Adam and take the terminal condition upon Himself and eradicate the death causing principle and restore the life causing principle into humanity in order to be our Savior.

In God's plan, all who trust Him will open their hearts in trust and receive the Holy Spirit who renews them in Christlikeness of heart motive, writing God's law upon our hearts reconciling us to God. This is God's plan, to actually fix the damage caused by sin and restore us to sinless perfection.

It is a miracle of rebirth, bringing life out of death, just like Isaac was a miracle birth bringing life out of a dead womb.

But, just like Abraham doubted and sought a human solution through human law and human customs, far too many Christians have rejected God's plan and substituted a human plan based upon human law and customs of legal payments to an offended god to pay for our sins in order to get the god to declare us legally righteous when we remain unrighteous. Far too many people simply cannot believe God's plan can work so they devise their own legal plan instead. This is the penal substitutionary atonement theory based upon human law.

But God calls us back to trust, to faith, and to receive what Christ has done and when we do so, we "become the righteousness of God" (2Cor 5:21).

The lesson points out that God eventually speaks to Hagar but only after she leaves the house of Abraham… what is the object lesson for us?

God will enlighten, convict, speak to people today but ONLY if they leave behind their own human devised methods and systems of salvation and seek Him! If we insist upon our human systems, doing it our way, including the penal legal systems of salvation, we close ourselves off to advancing light, for we reject the true light as false and what else can God do for us?

TUESDAY

What was the sign of the covenant with Abraham? Circumcision—why? What does it mean? What does it symbolize? What is the reality to which it points?

> A man is not a Jew if he is only one outwardly, nor is circumcision merely outward and physical. No, a man is a Jew if he is one inwardly; and circumcision is circumcision of the heart, by the Spirit, not by the written code (Romans 2:28-29 NIV84).

Circumcision is a sign of circumcising the heart—what does this mean? How does this work in reality?

Circumcision is a sign of dying to self, the old carnal heart dying and being reborn to a new life, of cutting away ties, practices, attachments, values of fear, sin and selfishness and have the heart renewed in truth, love, and trust in God.

- Circumcision was painful—conversion, dying to self, is painful
- Circumcision happens on a part of the body not easily seen by others—conversion happens in the secret parts of the heart not easily seen by others

- Those with whom we have some intimacy can know if we have be circumcised bodily (not just spouses, but our doctors, our military buddies with whom we trust our lives and sometimes undress in the same barracks or shower in the same locker room), so too with circumcision of the heart, the people who get to know us well can tell if our hearts have been changed from fear and selfishness to love for God and others
- Circumcision happens upon the part of the body that physically joins husband and wife together as one and circumcision by the Spirit happens upon the heart cutting away sin, fear, selfishness, guilt, shame, and every obstacle that interferes with becoming at-one with God

Without the cutting away of fear, selfishness, guilt, shame and love interests that we care more about than God, we cannot be wedded, united, bonded to our Savior.

Physical circumcision is done by a physical knife, whereas circumcision of the heart is done by the Spirit of love and truth wielding the Spirit created or inspired tools of love and truth:

> For the word of God is living and active. Sharper than any double-edged sword, it penetrates even to dividing soul and spirit, joints and marrow; it judges the thoughts and attitudes of the heart (Hebrews 4:12 NIV84).

The Holy Spirit works through the Scriptures to cut through the lies, fears, misunderstandings and bring healing truth to bear upon our hearts and minds in order to cut out of our hearts falsehoods, unhealthy practices, worldly or lustful affections and to instill godly methods leading us to establish healthy routines and boundaries with others.

The Holy Spirit also works through His trusting followers. When the prophet Nathan confronted King David after his sin with Bathsheba, the truth brought to bear by Nathan was used by the Holy Spirit to bring David to conviction and repentance and was part of healing process of cutting the sin, guilt, shame out of David's heart.

While we can choose for our infant sons to be circumcised, we cannot make the choice for any other human heart to be circumcised, just our own. The new born in Christ must choose for themselves surrender the Holy Spirit, study the Word of God, and actively ask the Spirit to cut out of the heart anything that interferes with our intimacy with Jesus.

This is because the transformation of the heart that occurs in God's plan of salvation requires the active and voluntary participation of the sinner. God cannot use His infinite power to inflict a change of heart without the consent of the person because to do so would destroy that person's individuality and create either a programmed robot that cannot love, or a new intelligent being with a new individuality that would still need to decide for themselves whether to trust God or not.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "God's promise of a son…" What do you think if the description, "he also is a prophet who intercedes on behalf of the wicked?"

Did God need this intercession? If Abraham would have asked for more, would God have relented? Did God tell Abraham what He was going to do hoping Abraham would talk Him out of it?

What is the purpose of this encounter? Was it not to give a record of why God did it? God knew what Abraham would do and God knew that there were not 10 righteous in the city before telling Abraham and having the encounter. God had this encounter because He wanted it understood and recorded that the city was destroyed because not even 10 righteous were in it—but destroyed in the context of the promised Seed to save humanity.

In other words, God just confirmed the covenant with Abraham that Abraham would have the land for the purpose of being the family through whom Jesus would come to save the species from sin, and in that context, God tells Abraham I am going to destroy Sodom and Gomorrah and the associated cities—why? It is necessary to fulfill the promise to you that your family will have this land and be the avenue for the Messiah.

And what did history reveal? Even after removing this toxic sewer of depravity ten of the tribes were dispersed and Judah barely made it through to fulfill their purpose and be the avenue for Messiah.

So we see the grace of God working here not to punish sin, but to keep open the avenue for Messiah and give us a record so that we can understand why God acted—therapeutically, not judicially or punitively.

Also note that when Abraham heard this news from God, Abraham didn't respond with "God said it, I believe it, that settles it." Abraham didn't say, "Who am I to question the sovereign Lord?" But Abraham did question God, humbly, reverently, with jealousy for the Lord's reputation, but He did question Him and Abraham was called a friend of God.

Moses did the same thing years later. This idea in Christianity that we are not to question God is completely contrary to what God wants. He wants us to humbly question and to seek to understand with hearts eager to learn and be corrected by the truth.

FRIDAY

Read second paragraph, "In an extremely…" Is what is described in Scripture regarding Sodom a legal or judicial process? Is it that God grants legal pardon or forgiveness to wicked people for sake of the righteous? Is it that if no righteous people are around then God is not forgiving?

This description misunderstands reality completely. It is quite simple, if there are still enough righteous it means there is still enough viable or healthy tissue that amputation or cauterization is not yet necessary. But when the situation becomes completely necrotic and threatens to kill the rest of humanity, love requires a therapeutic intervention to cauterize the dead tissue in order to save the viable.

2022 Q2 Genesis: Lesson 8
The Promise

by Russell Atkins

SABBATH

The first 3 days of this weeks lesson focuses on God's command to sacrifice Isaac. I think this is one of the most misunderstood stories in all of Scripture. It's also one of the most beautiful understood from a design law perspective. I've heard this story referenced as evidence that God issues arbitrary commands up to and including child sacrifice. The fact that Isaac was not sacrificed often escapes their notice, and usually leads to mumbled non sequiturs.

SUNDAY

Mount Moriah.

Put yourself in Abraham's 120 year old shoes for a moment. He had already listened to his wife and taken her handmaid Hagar, who bore him a son — Ishmael. He loved Ishmael, however, Ishmael was the product of human decisions and efforts. Sarah's reproductive capability was restored and Isaac was born — The Child of the Promise. I have little doubt that Abraham's love for Isaac exceeded his affections for Ishmael, and yet history will show that Isaac was not spoiled or willful. God then asks Abraham to sacrifice his beloved son and he's left in the dark as to why. What would go through your head?? Didn't God tell him that he would father a great nation that could not be counted?? Wasn't Isaac the start of that nation??

Consider the following:

> Three days this father traveled with his son, having sufficient time to reason and doubt God if he was disposed to doubt. But he did not distrust God. He did not now reason that the promise would be fulfilled through Ishmael, for God plainly told him that through Isaac should the promise be fulfilled.
>
> Abraham believed that Isaac was the son of promise. He also believed that God meant just what He said when He bade him to go offer him as a burnt offering. He staggered not at the promise of God but believed that God, who had in His providence given Sarah a son in her old age, and who had required him to take that son's life, could also give life again and bring up Isaac from the dead.
> Abraham left the servants by the way and proposed to go alone with his son to worship some distance from them. He would not permit his servants to accompany them, lest their love for Isaac might lead them to prevent him from carrying out what God had commanded him to do. He took the wood from the hands of his servants and laid it upon the shoulders of his son. He also took the > fire and the knife. He was prepared to execute the dreadful mission given him of God. Father and son walked on together. -- The Story of Redemption, pg 81

Now put yourself in Isaac's young shoes. He could have overcome his aged father with minimal effort. He could have simply outrun him. But he didn't. He allowed himself to be bound and laid on an altar. One marvels at the devotion of a young son to his elderly father.

Consider this:

> Yet none but God could understand how great was the father's sacrifice in yielding up his son to death; Abraham desired that none but God should witness the parting scene. He bade his servants remain behind, saying, "I and the lad will go yonder and worship, and come again to you." The wood was laid upon Isaac, the one to be offered, the father took the knife and the fire, and together they ascended toward the mountain summit, the young man silently wondering whence, so far from folds and flocks, the offering was to come. At last he spoke, "My father," "behold the fire and the wood: but where is the lamb for a burnt offering?" Oh, what a test was this! How the endearing words, "my father," pierced Abraham's heart! Not yet—he could not tell him now. "My son," he said, "God will provide Himself a lamb for a burnt offering."
> At the appointed place they built the altar and laid the wood upon it. Then, with trembling voice, Abraham unfolded to his son the divine message. It was with terror and amazement that Isaac learned his fate, but he offered no resistance. He could have escaped his doom, had he chosen to do so; the grief-stricken old man, exhausted with the struggle of those three terrible days, could not have opposed the will of the vigorous youth. But Isaac had been trained from childhood to ready, trusting obedience, and as the purpose of God was opened before him, he yielded a willing submission. He was a sharer in Abraham's faith, and he felt that he was honored in being called to give his life as an offering to God. He tenderly seeks to lighten the father's grief, and encourages his nerveless hands to bind the cords that confine him to the altar.
> And now the last words of love are spoken, the last tears are shed, the last embrace is given. The father lifts the knife to slay his son, when suddenly his arm is stayed. An angel of God calls to the patriarch out of heaven, "Abraham, Abraham!" He quickly answers, "Here am I," And again the voice is heard, "Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: for now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son, from Me." -- Patriarchs and Prophets, pg 152

Why did God issue such a difficult command?? Was it a test for God's understanding or Abraham's?? Or the onlooking universe??

Abraham had already tried to "Fix" the infertility issue by fathering Ishmael and thereby showed a lack of faith in God's promise. Was this God's way of purifying Abraham's character??

> God has always tried His people in the furnace of affliction in order to prove them firm and true, and purge them from all unrighteousness. After Abraham and his son had borne the severest test that could be imposed upon them, God spoke through His angel unto Abraham: "Now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son from Me." This great act of faith causes the character of Abraham to shine forth with remarkable luster. It forcibly illustrates his perfect confidence in the Lord, from whom he withheld nothing, not even his son by promise. -- Testimonies to the Church, vol 4, pg 19
> Again the Lord saw fit to test the faith of Abraham by a most fearful trial. If he had endured the first test, and had patiently waited for the promise to be fulfilled in Sarah, and had not taken Hagar as his wife, he would not have been subjected to the closest test that was ever required of man. – Spiritual Gifts, vol 3, pg 106

The lesson asks: "After all, what is faith if not trust in what we don't see or fully understand? Also, biblical faith is not so much about our capacity to give to God and to sacrifice for Him — though that has a role, no doubt [Rom. 12:1] — but about our capacity to trust Him and to receive His grace while understanding just how underserving we are." Emphasis mine.

Deserve has nothing to do with the problem. Language like this is diagnostic. "Deserve" comes from an imposed law bias. Does the cancer patient deserve a remedy or is healing the cancer patient simply the RIGHT thing to do. God gives us grace because it's the RIGHT [aka JUST] thing to do in accordance with His character.

From the teacher's notes: The Significance of Atonement

> The reference to "atonement" is already present in the notion of "test." The meaning of the Hebrew verb nissah, "tested" (Gen. 22:1, NKJV), embraces two opposite ideas. On the one hand, it concerns judgment. God "tests" in order " 'to know what is in your heart' " (Deut. 8:2, NKJV; compare Ps. 139:1, 23, 24). This aspect is clearly enunciated by the Angel of the Lord (Gen. 22:11, 12).

Does God not already know what's in our hearts?

MONDAY

God Will Provide.

I the first paragraph the author references Gen. 22:8 "… provide for Himself a lamb for a burnt offering." I like the lesson's point regarding the Hebrew verb "provide" , and its meaning "provide Himself". Isn't that what God did — provide Himself as a sacrifice?? Wasn't God Himself on that cross?? [see Matt 1:23, Matt 28: 19, John 1:8, John 10:30, John 14: 9-11 [basically the entire gospel of John], Philippians 2:5-6.]

Consider the following:

> when the father's hand was stayed as he was about to slay his son, and the ram which God had provided was offered in the place of Isaac—then light was shed upon the mystery of redemption Heavenly beings were witnesses of the scene as the faith of Abraham and the submission of Isaac were tested. The trial was far more severe than that which had been brought upon Adam. Compliance with the prohibition laid upon our first parents involved no suffering, but the command to Abraham demanded the most agonizing sacrifice. All heaven beheld with wonder and admiration Abraham's unfaltering obedience. All heaven applauded his fidelity. Satan's accusations were shown to be false. God declared to His servant, "Now I know that thou fearest God [notwithstanding Satan's charges], seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son from Me." God's covenant, confirmed to Abraham by an oath before the intelligences of other worlds, testified that obedience will be rewarded.
> It had been difficult even for the angels to grasp the mystery of redemption—to comprehend that the Commander of heaven, the Son of God, must die for guilty man. When the command was given to Abraham to offer up his son, the interest of all heavenly beings was enlisted. With intense earnestness they watched each step in the fulfillment of this command. When to Isaac's question, "Where is the lamb for a burnt offering?" Abraham made answer, "God will provide Himself a lamb;" and, and even the angels understood more clearly the wonderful provision that God had made for man's salvation. 1 Peter 1:12. -- Patriarchs and Prophets, pg 155

The teachers edition asks "What is the theological and prophetic significance of the failed sacrifice?"

"FAILED" sacrifice?? I'm having a hard time calling it failed. It was perfect.
Is is possible that angels thought God would interpose at the Crucifixion?? Don't you think they vividly remembered the scenes on Mt Moriah with Abraham and Isaac and were thinking to themselves that God would provide some other means for Salvation?? Why was the death of Jesus the ONLY method for restoring man back to his original design nobility and securing the Remedy for the sin condition??

TUESDAY

The Death of Sarah.

The lesson suggests that because Scripture juxtapositioned Sarah's death next to the return of Abraham and Isaac's trip to Mount Moriah may somehow be related. I'm sure Sarah was disturbed by the news, however, the fact that God did NOT require a human [read any] sacrificeCan, and Isaac was safe and sound leads me to believe that this news was unrelated to her passing. We can get the details when we get to heaven.
I find the bargaining for the field / cave for Sarah's burial place fascinating. If you've ever been to the Middle East you can still find similar bargaining practiced.

WEDNESDAY

A Wife for Isaac.

- Can we learn any lessons today, from the process of selecting a mate and the marriage of Isaac and Rebekah??
- Should parents select from their own families??
- Should parents be involved in the selection process at all??
- How much input should other family members have [if any]??
- Was Isaac and Rebekah's marriage any violation of the Law of Liberty??

> "Should parents," you ask, "select a companion without regard the the mind or feelings of son or daughter?" I put the question to you as it should be: Should a son or daughter select a companion without first consulting the parents, when such a step must materially affect the happiness of parents if they have any affection for their children? And should that child, notwithstanding the counsel and entreaties of his parents, persist in following his own course? I answer decidedly: No; not if never marries. The fifth commandment forbids such a course. "Honor thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Here is a commandment with a promise which the Lord will surely fulfill to those who obey. Wise parents will never select companions for their children without respect to their wishes." Adventist Home, pg 75

THURSDAY

A[nother] Wife for Abraham.

I've never before heard of the notion that Keturah and Hagar might be the same woman. Some jewish commentators suggest this. My question is why doesn't the author mention it?? It makes more sense that they would be two different women — Hagar had probably passed her fertility window, and I suspect Keturah was much younger and [obviously] fertile. Does it matter to salvation?? NO.

I think the listing of Abraham's sons [from the three women] is primarily to distinguish the lineage of The Seed [Jesus of Nazareth] from the other two bloodlines.

The lesson makes the point that "… the Lord remained true to His promises of grace to His faithful servant Abraham, whose faith is depicted in Scripture as a great example, if not the best example, in the Old Testament of salvation by faith (see Rom. 4:1–12). What makes Abraham "the best" example of OT faith, or can you think of anyone with stronger faith??

2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson 9
Jacob the Supplanter

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read second paragraph, "Because Jacob deceives…" What do you think about the ideas in this paragraph?

There are historical truths and there are interpretations or assumptions—what are the historical truths?

- Jacob deceived his father into giving him the blessing Isaac wanted to give to Esau
- Jacob flees
- God speaks to Jacob in a dream showing him the ladder connecting earth to heaven
- Jacob himself is later tricked into marrying Leah when he thought he was marrying Rachel

What are the assumptions or the interpretations?

- Jacob "will have to flee for his life"
    - Did Jacob "have to flee for his life?"
    - Did he have no other choice?
    - Could he have chosen to repent then and there and asked his brother to forgive him?
    - Could he have faced the results of his actions and put his life in his brother's hands?
    - Could he have surrendered to God then and there and asked God to intervene as God determines is best, trusting God with His life?
    - Was fleeing the only option Jacob had, or the option that seemed most logical, wise, appropriate from a human standpoint? Jacob had cheated Esau, Esau is out for blood, survival drives dictate he must flee to protect self and thus it appears from a worldly view he will have to flee. But, is it possible if he would have genuinely repented and trusted God then and there God would have intervened in some way to turn aside Esau's wrath?
    - Who was the one that orchestrated the deception on Isaac? Who was the one who recommended Jacob flee and solicited Isaac's agreement for Jacob to flee? Rebekah Genesis 27:5-10 & 43
    - Is there a lesson in this for us today?
        - Do we ever, like Jacob, listen to other people to tell us to do something dishonest, or tempt us to do something we know we shouldn't, to act selfishly, sin, and thereby we create a mess for ourselves?
        - And then just like Jacob, do we listen to the very person who led us into temptation and flee or act in ways that are designed primarily to protect self rather than repent from the sin and set things right?
        - One of my professors taught us: If you find yourself in a hole—quit digging! Even if you can't get yourself out of the hole, if you stop digging it won't get deeper. Many people in trying to fix the hole they put themselves in only dig themselves in deeper.

- I think one of the big challenges for the righteous as we approach the second coming of Christ is going to be resisting actions that seem logical and right on the surface, but are self-driven, rather than faith-driven.

The next assumption or interpretation?

- God "confronts" him at Bethel.
  - The word "confront" is an interpretive word, the first definition in the dictionary is "to face in hostility or defiance; oppose." Using this word to describe what God did suggests God is calling Jacob to task, a chastisement, a statement of "You have been a naughty little boy." But let's read God's interaction with Jacob and see if you might have chosen a different word than "confront."
    - He had a dream in which he saw a stairway resting on the earth, with its top reaching to heaven, and the angels of God were ascending and descending on it. There above it stood the LORD, and he said: "I am the LORD, the God of your father Abraham and the God of Isaac. I will give you and your descendants the land on which you are lying. Your descendants will be like the dust of the earth, and you will spread out to the west and to the east, to the north and to the south. All peoples on earth will be blessed through you and your offspring. I am with you and will watch over you wherever you go, and I will bring you back to this land. I will not leave you until I have done what I have promised you." (Genesis 28:12–15 NIV84).
  - Would you choose confront for this or perhaps, "comfort" or "reassure" or "remind him he isn't abandoned" and God is still with him?
  - And this brings up a very important point when studying any Christian material. We need to have a very sound knowledge of Scripture so that we can recognize human spin, interpretation, misunderstanding, and bias and separate the facts from the insertion of non-inspired human interpretation.

SUNDAY

The lesson focuses on Jacob and Esau. Why was Jacob, who used methods of deception, chosen to receive the blessings of God, to be the one through whom the promised Messiah would come and not Esau?

Could it have anything to do with the different disposition and attitudes of the two brothers? Could their hearts' attitudes toward God be what determined God's ability to work through them?

What was the difference that made it that God could work through Jacob and not Esau?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

> "The older will serve the younger." Just as it is written: "Jacob I loved, but Esau I hated." (Romans 9:12–13 NIV84).

What does this mean?

Is this referring to God's attitude or God's functional ability to act in their lives?

Do we believe God had less love in His heart for Esau than Jacob?

Then what does it mean? This is from the SDA Bible commentary on Romans 9:13:

> This strong expression does not imply positive hatred, as the term is used today, but that God had preferred Jacob above Esau in His choice of the progenitor of the chosen race. It seems to have been common in Biblical times to use the term "hate" in this sense. Thus Jacob's preference for Rachel is compared with his "hatred" for Leah (Gen. 29:30, 31). Similarly Jesus speaks about "hating" one's father and mother (Luke 14:26) and "hating" one's life (John 12:25)… (SDA BC Vol. 6, pp. 586–587).

What about those who read a little more of what Paul wrote about Jacob and Esau in chapter 9 in its greater context and include the following from chapter 8

> For those God foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the likeness of his Son, that he might be the firstborn among many brothers. And those he predestined, he also called; those he called, he also justified; those he justified, he also glorified (NIV84).

and putting both of these texts together they claim what happened to Jacob and Esau doesn't have anything to do with their attitudes, personalities, abilities, or willingness it has to do with God's sovereignty—God does what God wants and God predetermined He wanted Jacob so God made it happen?

What would you say? How do you answer this question?

Does God predetermine who will be saved or who will be lost? If so, then would we be free moral agents or robots, puppets, simulations? And if we are not free can we love? So, either God is love and we are really free, or it is all lie.

So on the first point, God cannot be predetermining what people will do unless we say it is all a simulation run by God and we are not free and God is not love. Further, such a line of belief would also mean God was in control of Satan's rebellion, Adam and Eve's fall because God predetermined their actions, they didn't freely choose them. Again, such a line of reasoning is not consistent with a God of love.

Then how do we understand these texts?

What law lens do we understand them through?

If we read Scripture with the assumption that God's law functions like human law—imposed rules enforced by the rule-giver—then God is the all-powerful enforcer who makes things happen the way He wants them to happen. Under this imposed-law view, predestination is God deciding upon whom He will use His power to call, justify, and glorify.

But under design law, we first understand that God is Creator of all reality—physical matter, energy, time, and life—that His laws (including moral laws) are the protocols upon which life is constructed to operate. We understand that God not only created all reality, but He also continues to sustain the operations of all aspects of His creation.

For by him [Christ] all things were created: things in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or powers or rulers or authorities; all things were created by him and for him. He is before all things, and in him all things hold together (Colossians 1:16, 17 NIV84).

This means God governs, through the sustaining of the laws that He built reality upon, all aspects of creation, including time. Unlike us, God is not constrained to a linear existence; He lives outside the dimension of time. God doesn't serve at the whims of time; time serves God.

When the Bible says that those God "foreknew" He "predestined" to be conformed to the likeness of His Son, it isn't speaking of mere cognitive knowledge (awareness)—a list of names and social security numbers in a heavenly registry; rather, it is speaking of biblical knowledge, the fullest sense of "knowing" someone.

Adam knew Eve his wife, and she conceived (Genesis 4:1 ESV).

Jesus said, "Now this is eternal life: that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent" (John 17:3 NIV84).

This "knowing" is intimate knowledge, not mere cognitive awareness. The unsaved do not have this knowledge of God; therefore, they are not known by God in this intimate, saving way. Jesus said it plainly:

> Not everyone who says to me, "Lord, Lord," will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only he who does the will of my Father who is in heaven. Many will say to me on that day, "Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and in your name drive out demons and perform many miracles?" Then I will tell them plainly, "I never knew you. Away from me, you evildoers!" (Matthew 7:21–23 NIV84).

Jesus surely knows who these people are, so this isn't about awareness. It is about intimacy, unity, oneness—a loving, mutual bond of trust. These people were never friends of Jesus. They never opened their hearts to allow Him in and, thus, they never knew Jesus even though they knew about Him and claimed to be His followers. And because they never chose to know Jesus, they were not in turn known by Jesus in the intimate bonds of fellowship and love. This intimate "knowing" is the key to every person's salvation:

Those whom God fore*knows* He predetermined will be conformed to the likeness of His Son. It is God's purpose to heal and restore all who trust Him. It is a certainty that those who come to know God, open their heart to Him, and experience His indwelling presence are set right (justified). The old is gone, the new is come (2 Corinthians 5:17); the carnal heart is replaced with a new heart and right spirit (Psalm 51:10; Ezekiel 36:26). As Paul said, "It is no longer I who live, but Christ lives in me" (Galatians 2:20 NKJV). Those whom God fore*knows* are the very ones who have chosen to trust Him; that is how God knows them—because they have chosen to know Him.

The Bible is saying that our Creator God, who lives outside of time, foreknows and enters into the hearts and minds of all those who respond to the truth and open the heart to Him. And all who experience God's indwelling presence are set right in heart, mind, and character (justified), and those who are set right in heart and mind, having the law written there (Hebrews 8:10), He conforms to be like Jesus in character—and ultimately glorifies.
As God is an infinite being who lives outside of time, from His perspective, the salvation and glorification of individuals is the reality of His experience. But from our finite perspective, living in our linear existence, the complete glorification is a future event that we will one day experience at the Second Coming.

And while these two brothers are two real people, who did real historic things and had real children—do they also serve as object lessons for us? What is the object lesson for us?

Children of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob are those who:

- Having the faith of Abraham have their hearts circumcised by the Spirit and thus are
- like Isaac, and are children of a miracle birth, we are miraculously reborn through the work of God who brings us new life though we are dead in trespass and sin and
- having had faith like Abraham, been miraculously reborn like Isaac, we in our trust relationship with God wrestle through our own fears, insecurities, selfishness and sin and with God's presence and strength overcome and are given a new name; we have God's name written upon us.
- We then are set free from the enslavement of sin (Egypt) and travel through this wilderness of this world to our heavenly promised land.

Now what is interesting, after the Hebrews leave Egypt and wander in the wilderness, they are instructed by God that they are to go through Edom to enter Canaan. Edom is the land occupied by the descendants of Esau. These descendants were not loyal to Yahweh but they also had not fully hardened themselves beyond redemption and conversion to Yahweh.

God intended the Israelites under the leadership of Moses to pass through the land of Edom and to pay for any water or resources they used there. But the king of Edom refused them and threatened them. When the Israelites were faced with this opposition they had to decide, do they trust God and following His directions, or allow fears and doubts to frighten them and undermine their faith and complain and rebel.

If they would have trusted God He would have intervened for their success over this worldly opposition. Had they trusted God they would have entered the fertile land of Edom, not needed the miraculous water from the rock, treated the Edomites with kindness and respect, been a witness to them of God and the bonds of love would have been built between the two people.

However, they didn't trust God, they instead turned away from God's directions in unbelief and allowed the threats to frighten them and went back into the wilderness where they had to go around Edom through the wilderness instead of through Edom to the promised land. (PP 422).

Is there an object lesson in this for us on our way to the promised land?

God has instructed us to go into the world and share the gospel—we are to wander through the highways and byways of this world and anything we need for our sustenance we are to pay for, but we are to be witnesses wherever we go to the kingdom of God and in our interactions with people we bear witness to God's kingdom of love and many will be converted and leave the worldly ways behind. However, the "kings" of this world don't want us witnessing the gospel, so they threaten us with ridicule, termination from employment, in some places arrest, imprisonment, in other places death.

What is to be our response? Do NOT go our own way, but follow where God leads us. He has a plan. He can be trusted. He will provide for any need and if He has called He has a purpose and will overcome any worldly obstacle to achieve the goal—which is salvation of souls!

Read the fourth paragraph, "For Jacob, in contrast to his brother…" The lesson highlights a very important point—the difference between goals and actions, principles, and methods.

One of Satan's traps is to get people to pursue a righteous goal or principle by using ungodly methods.

This is the philosophy of the ends justify the means, or the so-called greater-good—but this is a grand deception and one that many people fall into.

During COVID we saw this a lot, people having a good goal of wanting to save lives, but because of fear, ignorance, misunderstanding, mind manipulation—millions embraced ungodly methods in the pursuit of the stated goal.

We cannot win God's cause by using Satan's methods.

This type of ends justifying means, of using ungodly methods, is a common result of embracing the world's values and understanding of law.

If law is about make the right imposed rules, then it only makes sense that we can get a more just outcome, a more righteous society, if we can only get the right laws in place and have them more consistently enforced.

But this is a grand deception. Righteousness can never be achieved by law or law enforcement. It is only achieved by God's grace, God's love, God's truth working upon the heart to win people to love and trust in God and to individually value God's methods and principles and identify with them and practice them.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "As soon as Esau…" Why did Jacob flee? Why did Rebekah encourage Jacob to flee?

When we use Satan's methods to try and achieve godly goals we always make matters worse, we introduce dysfunction, pain, suffering, conflict, alienation, and increased fear and selfishness.

Again, consider COVID and the methods employed to achieve the stated goal of saving lives—what actually happened? More people have been killed and are still being killed by the results of the mandated interventions than were saved by the interventions. It was unavoidable—you cannot get good results with ungodly methods.

And what were the methods that caused the damage?

- Purposeful lies and known falsehoods that magnified the perceived danger, obstructed effective treatments, and promoted interventions that harmed and increased deaths (like mask wearing, no treatment until so sick require hospitalization, social isolation, shutting down schools etc.)
- Silencing, censoring, and obstructing honest and open presentation of information and data that refuted the false narrative
- Interfering with the normal and historic standards of medical ethics and practice (informed consent, freedom to choose one's medical treatment, leaving doctor's free to decide with their patients what is the best treatment for their individual care etc.)
- Adding coercive pressures to undermine individual liberty
- Interfering with the normal practice of religion
- Quarantining asymptomatic healthy people
- Slandering and vilifying people who challenged the methods being employed and who advocated for godly principles and practice

And the results speak for themselves, it was completely predictable.

Our challenge when faced with threats in this world is to resist the urge to make fear-based decisions, and instead, despite the fear, make truth and love based decisions. To hold true to the principles and methods of God's kingdom rather than compromise under immediate threat—we don't bow down to avoid a fiery furnace, we don't quit praying in order to avoid the lion's den, and we don't exchange the methods of God for the methods of the world in order to avoid a virus, or the imposed punishments of the state.

What do you think of Bethel, the place where God gave him the vision of the ladder?

- Did Jacob meet God there because he stumbled upon a magic geographic location?
- Is there thinning of the cosmic barriers between heaven and earth in that physical location?
- Was Jacob simply very lucky to have stumbled upon that one place on the globe where God was able to communicate with him, or did God go to Jacob where Jacob was at that point in his journey with a message Jacob needed at that point in his life?

And what does God show us by meeting Jacob there?

- What is the situation?
- Why was Jacob there?
- He was running, why? Because he was afraid, why?
- Because he had just sinned against his father and brother and was running and hiding seeking to protect self—does this remind you of another story in the Bible of someone who sinned and ran and hid and tried to protect self?
- Adam—and how did God respond to Adam? He went after Adam and called to him gently and inquired of Adam what he had done and assured Adam that God was not condemning him but promised the Messiah would come and save him.
- And God meets Jacob after his sin, when he is running in fear and reassures him with His love for him and the promise given to Adam and later to Abraham and Isaac that Messiah is coming and Jacob is not abandoned and humanity is not abandoned.

And God does this for every one of us, when we fail, sin, run and hide, fearful, God runs after us seeking to find us in our guilt and shame and speak words of comfort, reassurance, hope, love and invitation to repent and be reconciled to Him.

Read fourth paragraph, "As for the 'stone'…" Could the stone represent the cornerstone rejected by men and used by God to become the foundation of the true temple built by God and not by men? In other words, could the stone upon which Jacob put his head represent Jesus?

What do you think of the idea that this points to the temple, the sanctuary, the center of God's saving activity for humanity?

What does that mean, the sanctuary as the center of God's saving activity for humanity?

Does that sound geographical? Is the sanctuary the center of God's saving activity because the sanctuary is where sin has happened and from where needs to be removed?

In other words, if saving humanity from sin requires removing sin wouldn't the center of that work have to be where the sin is located?

- And where does sin exist, happen, operate, consolidate, occur?
- Does sin occur in dead non-living matter?
- Then can sin exist in record books?
- Can cleansing the universe from sin be achieved by erasing records of historic accounts of sin?
- Are records of sin the same as sin?
- If an angel reads the Bible story of David and Bathsheba has the angel in heaven read about sin? Has the angel in heaven been contaminated by that sin? Would that angel be sinful for have read the account?
- Would Jesus, in order to cleanse heaven from sin, need to destroy all the Bibles?

So, if sin does not exist in non-living material, if it doesn't exist in records, then saving sinners from sin, cleansing the universe from sin, cleansing sanctuary from sin, is not the process of erasing the record of sin. Cleansing the sanctuary means cleansing sinners from the condition of sin. So, then, where must the cleansing work happen?

So, if the cleansing from sin must happen in the heart and mind of the sinful being, and the sanctuary is the center of the work of saving people from sin, then what is the sanctuary or temple that was not built by human hands and in which Jesus ministers to remove sin?

What does this text mean?

> this is what the LORD Almighty says: 'Here is the man whose name is the Branch, and he will branch out from his place and build the temple of the LORD. It is he who will build the temple of the LORD, and he will be clothed with majesty and will sit and rule on his throne. And he will be a priest on his throne. And there will be harmony between the two.' (Zechariah 6:12–13 NIV84).

What is this temple? Notice this is Jesus, leaving heaven to build the temple of the Lord—what temple is this?

It is the temple of His body, which He said would be destroyed and that He would raise up on the third day. It is also, the temple of the church, those who believe in Him, He is the chief cornerstone and the apostles are the foundation stones and we are living stones built together into a house for the Lord.

And each of us are being shaped by the work of God in our lives, fitted for the heavenly building, having all sinfulness purged from our hearts and love and trust restored within.

It is illustrates the heavenly center in which God's glory shines surrounded by the angels, with Christ as the sold gold lid as the connecting link and His sinless life (blood) that purifies and cleanses us sinners bringing us back into unity with God and the unfallen worlds, symbolized by the ark in the Most Holy Place.

TUESDAY

The lesson is about Jacob being deceived by Laban into marrying Leah.

What are your thoughts on this?

Where was Rachel? We are not told—was she complicit, did she know and was she an active participant in the deception or was she forcibly restrained and kept from warning Jacob? We don't know and are never told, but it is an interesting question to contemplate.

Did Jacob deserve this?

Read the bottom gray section, "Though Jacob was the deceiver…" How do you define justice? Does our understanding of law make a difference?

Can human laws give us justice? Why or why not?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson suggests we read Genesis 29:31-30:24 and asks "How are we, today, to understand the meaning of what takes place here?" I will read it from The Remedy:

> The Lord saw that Leah was not loved like Rachel, so he enabled her to become pregnant very easily, but Rachel remained childless. So Leah did become pregnant and gave birth to a son. She named him Reuben, saying, "The Lord has seen my misery and given me a son; surely my husband will love me now."
> Leah became pregnant again and gave birth to another son. She named him Simeon (which means 'the Lord hears'), saying, "The Lord has heard that I am not loved, so he gave me this son too."
>
> Again Leah became pregnant and gave birth to another son. She named him Levi (which means 'joined'), saying, "Surely my husband will be more tightly joined to me, because I have given him three sons."
>
> Leah became pregnant once again and gave birth to a fourth son. She named him Judah (which means 'praise'), saying, "This time, rather than seeking to earn my husband's love, I will praise the Lord." After that, she stopped having children.

When Rachel realized that she was not having any children for Jacob, she became insecure as his wife and envied her sister. So she said to Jacob, "Give me children, for without them I might as well be dead."

Jacob was upset that she placed this responsibility on him, and said, "I have done my part, but I am not God, and he has not yet chosen to enable you to get pregnant."

Taking matters into her own hands, she said, "Then take my maidservant Bilhah and impregnate her as my surrogate – then she can bear children for me, so that I too can build a family."

So she gave him her servant Bilhah as her surrogate. Jacob had sex with her, and she became pregnant and gave birth to a son. Then Rachel exclaimed, "God has heard my request and answered me favorably!" Therefore, she named him Dan (which means 'God judges favorably').

Rachel's servant Bilhah became pregnant again and bore Jacob a second son. Then Rachel said, "I have fought hard to give my husband sons so I can be equal to my sister, and I have finally done it." So she named him Naphtali (which means 'my fight').

When Leah realized that she had stopped having children, she took her maidservant Zilpah and gave her to Jacob as her surrogate. Zilpah, Leah's servant, bore Jacob a son, and Leah said, "How lucky I am to give my husband a troop of sons!" So she named him Gad (which means 'good fortune').

Leah's servant Zilpah bore Jacob another son, and Leah said, "I am so happy! Now all the other women will call me the most blessed." So she named him Asher (which means 'happy').

During the harvest, Reuben found some mandrake plants in a field and gave them to his mother Leah. Mandrakes were believed to increase fertility, so when Rachel saw them, she said to Leah, "Please give me some of your son's mandrakes."

Denying her marital duplicity, and focusing on her legal status as first married, rather than focusing on the bonds of love, she projected her guilt onto Rachel, saying, "He was my husband first, and you stole his love from me. Isn't that enough for you? Do you want my son's mandrakes too?"

Desperate for anything that might help her get pregnant, Rachel said, "Okay, I'll let him sleep with you tonight if you give me your son's mandrakes."

Leah met Jacob when he came in from the fields that evening and said, "Rachel and I made a deal: Reuben brought me mandrakes, and I traded them with her; and she agreed for you to sleep with me tonight." So he slept with her that night.

God answered Leah's prayer, and she became pregnant and bore Jacob a fifth son. Then Leah said, "God has rewarded me, just as if giving my maidservant to my husband was right." So she named him Issachar (which means 'God rewards').

Leah again became pregnant and bore Jacob a sixth son. Then Leah proclaimed, "God has given me a precious gift. Now that I have borne my husband six sons, he will surely honor me." So she named him Zebulun (which means 'honor').

Later she gave birth to a daughter and named her Dinah.

God never forgot Rachel, and he answered her prayer by healing her infertility and thus enabling her to have children. And she became pregnant and gave birth to a son and said, "God has taken away my shame – may he add to me another son." So she named him Joseph.

So, what do you understanding is taking place here?

Do we have any word from God that God wanted Jacob to have two wives and two surrogates?

Yet God blessed Jacob with 12 sons who became the heads of 12 tribes….but was it God's design, intent, purpose, or did God worked through what He knew these people would do?

- Why was Jacob in this land?
  - because he deceived his father and brother and chose to flee for his life.
  - Was it God's will for Jacob to deceive his father?
  - Did Jacob flee because he repented and turned to God in trust and God instructed him, like Joseph and Mary years later, to flee; or was Jacob still trying to save himself?
  - Was it God's will Jacob flee and not repent?
- Why did Jacob have two wives?
  - Was it God's will that Laban deceive Jacob?
  - Is it God's will for husbands to have more than one wife?
- Why did Jacob take surrogates?
  - Did God instruct Jacob to take surrogates?
  - Did Jacob have a family history of conflict when a wife suggested that her husband take a surrogate to give her children?
  - Why wasn't that family history helpful to Jacob?
  - What motivated Jacob to take a surrogate wife?
  - Was it God's will for Rachel to seek a surrogate? What was Rachel's motive?
  - Do you see godly love in action between the two sisters?
  - Was it God's will for them to compete like this?
  - Is God's will for wives to offer surrogates to their husbands and husbands to listen to such a suggestion?

So, is this history a history that is the outworking of what God wanted them to do, or a revelation of how gracious God is, how God works with us where we are to bring about His plan despite what they were doing? And what is His plan? To restore us to righteousness, eliminate sin from us, which required Jesus to come, and thus in Jacob's life God was working with those people to keep open the avenue for Messiah while simultaneously seeking to deliver them from self-dependence to God-dependence.

What do you think of the story of the mandrakes?

What about the miracle of Rachel getting pregnant?

There are seven miracle births recorded in Scripture—all real historic women who were infertile and God healed their infertility and they then became pregnant in the normal way women do. But, these miracle births are also object lessons pointing to Jesus, the Messiah, who would be a miracle birth of a virgin becoming pregnant by the Holy Spirit. These seven are:

1. Sarah- Isaac – The promised one who will be sacrificed
2. Rebekah – Jacob – wrestles with God to overcome his own weakness and became Israel, the father of the nation built upon twelve sons, Jesus wrestled with temptation and overcome to be the cornerstone of the church built upon twelve apostles
3. Rachel – Joseph – who sold into slavery, became ruler to save people from famine, Jesus humbled himself to be a servant but is exalted to be ruler saving us from sin
4. Monoah's wife – Samson – blessed with strength to deliver Israel from bondage of oppressors and rule over them as judge, Jesus has the strength to deliver us from sin and rule the universe as judge
5. Hannah- Samuel – who became High Priest, Jesus is our High Priest
6. Shunammite woman – child died and resurrected, Jesus died and rose again
7. Elizabeth – John the Baptist – who was greatest of prophets, and Jesus was the greatest of all prophets

THURSDAY

The lesson is about Jacob leaving Laban and returning to his family. He asks to leave, but Laban begs him to stay and so they make a deal. The first fourteen years Jacob works and received his two wives as payment, now he needs to be paid and they work out a system in which Jacob gets the spotted, striped, and speckled newborn lambs and goats and Laban the solid colored ones.

Immediately, Laban seeks to cheat Jacob by sending all the speckled, spotted and striped animals a 3-day journey away.

So, Jacob takes branches from poplar, almond, and plane trees, peels back the bark, making the branches striped, and puts the exposed branches in the drinking water of the breeding females and more speckled, spotted, and striped animals are born.

What do you think of this story?

There is a gene – the agouti gene – that determines the color an animal's fur. If it is turned on in some cells of the body and off in others the fur of the animal will be speckled, spotted and striped. What affects the expression of this gene? The diet of the mother while pregnant.

Recent research has documented that the branches of the trees chosen by Jacob do, in fact, provide the nutrients needed to alter the expression of the agouti gene, which does, in turn, alter the color of the lambs born. 2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson 10
Jacob-Israel

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read last paragraph, "In other words…" It is absolutely certain that God is faithful as Paul wrote in Romans 3:4:

> let God be true but every man a liar. As it is written: "That You may be justified in Your words, and may overcome when You are judged" (Romans 3:4 NKJV).

When is God judged? By whom is God judged? How is God judged? What is the purpose of this judgment?

The central issue in the war is over the knowledge of God (Romans 1:18-31; 2Cor 10:3-5).

Could we present the idea of God being faithful in keeping His promises in such a way that we end up misrepresenting God to be like Satan accuses Him of being, even though we claim we are presenting God as being faithful?

"God is faithful to fulfill what He has promised and that He will do so despite what, at times, seems to be nothing but His people doing all they can to stop that fulfillment."

Is there a qualifier not included in this statement that without it could allow a false view of God to be drawn?

For instance, would it be more accurate to say, "God is faithful to fulfill what He has promised to do in governance of Himself for the eradication of sin and saving of sinners?"

- He promised to send the Messiah and He did
- He promised to provide salvation through Jesus and He did
- He promised to overcome sin and Satan by the victory of Jesus and He did
- He promised to destroy death and bring life and immortality to light and He did
- He promised that the world would never again be totally destroyed by a flood and it hasn't
- He promised that Abraham's descendants through Isaac and Jacob would inherit the land of Palestine for the purpose of being the branch of the human family through whom the Seed of the woman would come that would overcome sin and through whom all peoples of the world would be blessed—and He fulfilled that promise
- He promised to send the Holy Spirit and He has
- He promised that He would not leave or forsake us and He hasn't

But should we take Jeremiah 18:7-10 into account when talking about the Lord fulfilling promises:

- If at any time I announce that a nation or kingdom is to be uprooted, torn down and destroyed, and if that nation I warned repents of its evil, then I will relent and not inflict on it the disaster I had planned. And if at another time I announce that a nation or kingdom is to be built up and planted, and if it does evil in my sight and does not obey me, then I will reconsider the good I had intended to do for it (Jeremiah 18:7-10).

Are some of God's promises conditional upon the responses of the people? Or, do we suggest that God as sovereign will do whatever God wants and we are merely puppets whose strings God controls?

When King Saul committed suicide by falling on his sword, did God force him down onto that sword against his will, or did God do something in Saul's brain to brainwash him into committing suicide like Jim Jones did to his followers?

What about Romans 9:15-18?

> I will have mercy on whom I have mercy, and I will have compassion on whom I have compassion." It does not, therefore, depend on man's desire or effort, but on God's mercy. For the Scripture says to Pharaoh: "I raised you up for this very purpose, that I might display my power in you and that my name might be proclaimed in all the earth." Therefore God has mercy on whom he wants to have mercy, and he hardens whom he wants to harden (Romans 9:15–18 NVI84).

What does this mean? When Pharaoh's heart was hardened did God act to harden it, or did Pharaoh harden his own heart? Why does the Bible describe the hardening of Pharaoh's heart in three ways?

Description #1 – God hardening Pharaoh's heart

- "The Lord said to Moses, "When you return to Egypt, see that you perform before Pharaoh all the wonders I have given you the power to do. But I will harden his heart so that he will not let the people go." Exodus 4:21
- "But I will harden Pharaoh's heart, and though I multiply my miraculous signs and wonders in Egypt, he will not listen to you. Then I will lay my hand on Egypt and with mighty acts of judgment I will bring out my divisions, my people the Israelites." Ex 7:3,4
- "But the Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart and he would not listen to Moses and Aaron, just as the Lord had said to Moses." Ex 9:12

Description #2 – Pharaoh's heart became hard

- "Yet Pharaoh's heart became hard and he would not listen to them, just as the Lord had said." Ex 7:13
- "Then the Lord said to Moses, "Pharaoh's heart is unyielding; he refuses to let the people go." Ex 7:14

- "But the Egyptian magicians did the same things by their secret arts, and Pharaoh's heart became hard; he would not listen to Moses and Aaron, just as the Lord had said." Ex 7:22
- "The magicians said to Pharaoh, "This is the finger of God." But Pharaoh's heart was hard and he would not listen, just as the Lord had said." Ex 8:19

Description # 3 – Pharaoh hardened his own heart

- "But when Pharaoh saw that there was relief, he hardened his heart and would not listen to Moses and Aaron, just as the Lord had said." Exodus 8:15
- "But this time also Pharaoh hardened his heart and would not let the people go." Ex 8:32
- "When Pharaoh saw that the rain and hail and thunder had stopped, he sinned again: He and his officials hardened their hearts. So Pharaoh's heart was hard and he would not let the Israelites go, just as the Lord had said through Moses." Ex 9:34,35

How do we understand this? Which of these verses are the inspired verses? What is the truth?

How do we understand God's sovereignty?

What law lens do we understand Scripture through?

If we believe the lie that God's law functions like human law, imposed law, then sovereignty means God imposes rules and forces things to turn out the way He wants. Therefore, God acted to make Pharaoh's heart hard because God needed to punish Pharaoh and the Egyptians for enslaving the Jews, and to show His power etc.

When we return to worshipping the Creator God and understand His laws are design laws, then we realize that the supreme law is the law of love, that only operates in an atmosphere of freedom, so we understand and live in harmony with the law of liberty. God cannot get love, trust, friendship by using power over His intelligent children to force them to obey. That only results in rebellion and the destruction of love.

Therefore, we understand God is sovereign in maintaining His laws, including the law of liberty, love, the law of truth. In regard to Pharaoh, God presented truth to Pharaoh over and over again in the most powerful, convincing, and profound ways—yet Pharaoh was left free to accept or reject the truth. What happens in the heart, any heart, when truth is understood and rejected? Does the heart become more sensitive or hardened? It hardens. And thus, God's role was in presenting the truth, without the opportunity to examine the truth, be convicted of the truth and then choose to reject it, preferring the lies and selfishness of this world, Pharaoh's heart would not have hardened as much as it did.

So God's role was in presenting the truth. Pharaoh's role was in choosing to reject it. And therefore, all three descriptions are accurate.

But, if God has foreknowledge and God knew Pharaoh would harden his heart, why would God present the truth that He knew Pharaoh would choose to reject?

What was Pharaoh's state of being without the truth being presented? Was Pharaoh a righteous person in a saving relationship with God saved or a sinner terminal in sin, dead in trespass and sin, who without conversion was destined to eternal death?

So Pharaoh's state was terminal, destined to eternal death unless Pharaoh converts, then what was necessary to save Pharaoh? Must Pharaoh be presented with truth and must Pharaoh make a choice on what character, method, principles, laws Pharaoh prefers, on who Pharaoh will trust, and ultimately into which kingdom—God's or Satan's—he will solidify himself into by his choice to accept truth, surrender his heart to God, be converted or not?

So from God's perspective love presents the healing truth to redeem and save and that is what God did, but Pharaoh is the causal agent that determined the outcome of the opportunity, not God. God sustained the operation of His law of liberty, but Pharaoh exercised his liberty to reject the truth and thus harden his heart and condemned himself to eternal destruction.

So, do we need to be careful in how we present God as faithful lest we misrepresent God as arbitrary and one who is like Satan alleges?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Gone from Laban…" What triggers Jacob, at this time in his life, to have this fervent, heart-rending, soul searching, total surrendering prayer to the Lord?

Is his prayer primarily driven by overwhelming love, thankfulness, appreciation and joy, or by fear?

Jacob is motivated to this soul searching pray by a threat he is powerless to resolve. What is that threat?

As Jacob is returning home, gets word his brother is coming with 400 men, what is Jacob's greatest threat, for which he needs God's help in overcoming?

His greatest threat was himself, his own fear, insecurity, long-standing habit of figuring out how to save himself. His greatest threat was the temptation to trust himself and not trust God with his life, his family, his fortune and his future.

Was the threat from his brother real? Perhaps—it turns out that Esau was not a threat to Jacob. The encounter was not like the Assyrians surrounding Jerusalem in Hezekiah's day. God did not have to send the destroying angel to protect Jacob from Esau.

But perhaps that is because Jacob had changed, and having changed he presented himself humbly to Esau, and was no longer conniving and trying to manipulate his brother and Esau recognized this. Perhaps if Jacob had returned claiming to be the head of the family, demanding Esau submit to his authority, then Esau would have been a threat to him.

Was God involved in protecting Jacob from Esau? How? By changing Jacob into a humble person who trusted God.

But, the point is that Jacob was afraid and the fear was not coming from God, nor was it coming directly from Esau, as if Esau was bent on destroying Jacob. No, the fear was coming from Jacob, so where does Jacob's fear originate? What is its source?

Jacob hasn't fully resolved the fear that sin brings, his own record of self-dependence, manipulation, deception, guilt and shame. Coming home gives Jacob the opportunity to confront these residual elements and surrender to God and be fully reborn in righteousness.

Why does God allow events to unfold this way? What does God want for Jacob? God wants Jacob to be freed from the control of fear and selfishness. He wants Jacob to trust Him with his life, and what is required to help Jacob achieve this?

Prior to these events, Jacob had continually sought to achieve what he wanted, or what he thought God had promised by his own initiative, scheming, abilities, conniving, and deception. He didn't consistently live by faith, choosing in governance of self to live in harmony with God's principles and refusing opportunities to lie and deceive.

When his mother tempted him to deceive his father about the blessing, Jacob could have said to his mother: "No, mother. I will not be party to deceit. We can go into father and ask father to give me the blessing, but I will not deceive my father. If God wants me to be the heir of His promises to our family, then God can bring that about with or without my father's blessing upon me."

Imagine for a moment, what might have happened if Jacob had taken this position. But, Jacob, like each of us, was a product of his upbringing, was vulnerable to family ties and influences (this is why Jesus taught that we must love God before our families), and Jacob chose to follow his mother's advice because Jacob hadn't yet come to trust God completely.

It wasn't until 20 years later, on his way back home, that events take place that bring Jacob to this decision-point where he finally gets the victory over himself and trusts God completely.

Let's read this account in Genesis 32:3-27 from The Remedy:

> Jacob sent envoys ahead of him, seeking peace with his brother Esau, who was living in the land of Seir, in the region of Edom. Jacob instructed them, "I want you to say this to Esau, emphasizing my humility and recognition of his familial lordship: 'Your brother Jacob says, I am your humble servant and have been living the past twenty years with uncle Laban. I have all I need – my own cattle, donkeys, sheep, goats, male and female servants. I am sending this message to let you know that I am coming home and recognize you as lord of our family, and I have no need of anything from the family estate. I hope you will forgive me and there will be peace between us.'"

When his envoys returned to Jacob, they told him, "We conveyed your message to your brother Esau, and now he is coming to meet you and is bringing four hundred men with him."

Rather than rejoicing at the news that his brother was coming to see him, Jacob's unresolved guilt over his mistreatment of Esau caused him to react to this news with intense fear and worry. Anticipating the worst, he divided his people, flocks and herds into two separate camps. He thought, "If Esau attacks one camp, the other camp may be able to escape."

Then Jacob prayed, "O God of my grandfather Abraham, God of my father Isaac, please hear me now. You, O Lord, are the one who told me, 'Go back to your homeland and to your family, and I will make you flourish.' I am your humble servant and unworthy of the loving kindness and faithfulness you have shown me. When I left home, crossing the Jordan, I had only my staff, and now I am returning with the abundance of two entire camps. But I'm afraid – overwhelmed by fear. I'm terrified that my brother Esau is coming to attack me, and not just me, but my children and their mothers as well. Please Lord, intervene and deliver me now, for you promised me, 'I will be good to you, watch over you and multiply your descendants like the sand of the sea; they will be too numerous to count.'"

Jacob stayed there that night and selected from his possessions the following as a gift to give to his brother Esau: two hundred female goats and twenty male goats, two hundred ewes and twenty rams, thirty female camels with their young, forty cows and ten bulls, and twenty female donkeys and ten male donkeys. He separated them into individual herds and put them in the care of his servants. Then he instructed his servants, "Go ahead of me to meet my brother, and keep some space between the herds."

He told the servant leading the first herd, "When you meet my brother Esau and he asks, 'Whose servant are you, where are you going, and who owns all these animals?' you must say this: 'They belong to your humble servant Jacob. They are a gift to you, the lord of his family, and he is just behind us.'"

Jacob gave this instruction to the second, third and all the other servants who followed with the herds: "You must say the exact same thing to Esau when you meet him. Be certain to say, 'Your humble servant Jacob is coming right behind us.'" He thought, "Perhaps these gifts will soften Esau's heart and make up for the wrong I did to him, and when he sees me, he will forgive and accept me." So Jacob sent his gifts ahead of him, but he spent the night in the camp.

That night Jacob took his two wives, his two female servants and his eleven sons to the ford of the Jabbok, where they crossed. After he had sent them across the stream, he sent over all his possessions. Struggling with guilt and fear as he prepared to meet his brother, Jacob remained by himself in order to pray. While praying, the gentle hand of the Lord touched him, but Jacob misperceived that he was being attacked by a man and wrestled with him until dawn. When the Lord saw that Jacob was continuing to fight against God's healing presence and that his fear and guilt were near remitting, he gave him the nudge he needed to surrender completely > – he reached out and touched Jacob's hip, dislocating the joint. Then the Lord said to him, "You can let me go now – a new day has dawned for you."

>
> But Jacob replied, "I can't let you go without the assurance of your blessing."
>
> The Lord asked him, "What is your name?"
> "Jacob" (which means 'deceiver'), he answered. Then the Lord said, "You are no longer 'Jacob the fearful self-dependent deceiver,' but you will be known as Israel – the one who, with God, struggled against human fear and selfishness, and overcame" (Genesis 32:3-27 REM).

Jacob was a real historic person, who did real historic things, and his life is recorded to both give us the history of the family through whom Messiah will come, but is also an object lesson. What is the object lesson from Jacob's life from which we can all benefit or which applies to all of us?

Read last paragraph, "And the evidence…" What is wrong with this paragraph? And there is something really wrong here.

If the evidence that Jacob was forgiven was the change in his name, then when would Jacob have been forgiven?

So, for 20 years Jacob wasn't forgiven by God? God was holding it against Him, God was unforgiving to Jacob for 20 years—but this is false.

This is what happens when one holds to the false law model, forgiveness in the imposed law model is about legal pardon and cannot be granted until the penalty is paid, the person has confessed, and accepted the legal terms. Thus the offended god is presented as being unforgiving until he receives the price necessary to grant forgiveness.

But in the design law model the offended forgives immediately—when did Jesus forgive His crucifiers?

- Who pled with Jesus to forgive them?
- Is Jesus offering His blood to Himself to persuade Himself to forgive them?
- Is Jesus forgiveness a legal act?
- Is Jesus God?
- Do we believe Jesus when He said that whoever has seen Him has seen the Father?
- Did Jesus have authority to forgive sins?
- Did the forgiveness Jesus gave reveal the heart, character, attitude of God?
- Did the forgiveness Jesus gave at the cross change the crucifiers into His friends?
- So, even though Jesus forgave them, having rejected that forgiveness, they were not humbled, did not repent, were not reconciled to God and therefore remained in a state of unforgiveness while being forgiven by God.

When did God forgive Jacob—what did we read last week when Jacob was fleeing from Esau's anger?

> "I am the LORD, the God of your father Abraham and the God of Isaac. I will give you and your descendants the land on which you are lying. Your descendants will be like the dust of the earth, and you will spread out to the west and to the east, to the north and to the south. All peoples on earth will be blessed through you and your offspring. I am with you and will watch over you wherever you go, and I will bring you back to this land. I will not leave you until I have done what I have promised you." (Genesis 28:12–15 NIV84).

Does this sound like God is unforgiving or forgiving toward Jacob?

So, when did God forgive Jacob? Immediately, instantly. God always forgives! Every single sinner is forgiven by God because God is love and God forgives.

God's forgiveness requires the sinner to receive it, be changed by it, choose to humble self and repent in order to enter a state of forgiveness. Because love only works in freedom. Just as Paul wrote, it is the kindness of God leads us to repentance (Romans 2:4).

The obstacle to our salvation is not from God it is from us. God doesn't need to be changed to save us, we need to be changed in order to be saved. But the imposed law lie teaches that God needs something done to Him, a price paid, in order to forgive. This is pagan.

But, here is the key to understanding how reality works—does God forgiveness, His kind, gracious, and forgiving attitude means the offender always accepts the forgiveness? And if the offender doesn't accept forgiveness, hardens their heart instead, does God's forgiveness mean they get away with their sin? Why not? Because sin changes them, hardens their heart, corrupts their character, sears their conscience, and as Galatians 6:8 says, destroys them.

The obstacle to our being forgiven, entering a state of forgiveness, is not God, it is us.

God forgives, and if we respond to that love, kindness, forgiveness and repent, then God heals the rebelliousness and gives us a new heart and right spirit and we enter a state of forgiveness—why because we are no longer in rebellion, we are no longer living out of harmony with God and His design law, because His law is now written upon our hearts. We have new characters and thus, we get new names.

So God forgave Jacob immediately, as evidenced by the reassurance and message of comfort God gave Jacob when he fled home. But it wasn't until 20 years later that Jacob finally surrendered, fully repented and received a new heart and that is when his name was changed, because his character changed from self-dependent, to faith/trust in God dependent.

MONDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on Genesis 33 when Jacob and Esau meet. Let's read this encounter from The Remedy:

Jacob looked up and saw that Esau was approaching with four hundred men, so he divided his family in groups: Leah and her children, Rachel and Joseph, and the two female servants and their children. He put the female servants and their children in front, followed by Leah and her children, and he placed Rachel and Joseph in the rear. Then Jacob went on ahead of them. As Esau was approaching, Jacob, demonstrating that he recognized Esau as lord of the family, bowed to the ground seven times.

But when Esau saw Jacob, he ran to meet him and hugged him. Esau threw his arms around Jacob and kissed him. And they were both crying with joy. When Esau stepped back and looked around and saw the women and children, he asked, "Who are these people with you?" Jacob smiled and said, "They are my family – the children God has graciously given your humble servant."

Then, as Jacob introduced them, the female servants and their children came forward and bowed down. Then Leah and her children came forward and bowed down. Lastly, Joseph and Rachel came forward and bowed down.

Esau then asked, "Why did you send all these droves of sheep and cattle to me?" "As my gift to you; to let you know that I long for your grace – for your heart to be reconciled to me," Jacob replied.

But Esau said, "O my brother, I already have plenty. Keep what you have for yourself."

"Please, brother," Jacob implored, "If you have forgiven me and I am again welcomed into your favor, then accept this gift from me. For seeing your smiling face and experiencing your grace is like the face of God smiling down on me. So please accept my gift to you, for God has been generous to me and I have all that I need." And because Jacob insisted, Esau accepted the gift (Genesis 33:1-11 REM).

What do you think of this encounter?

Did Jacob come to value something more than material wealth? What? A clear conscience, peace with God and peace with others. Is there a lesson for us today as we face trials and temptations in this world?

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on Genesis 34 and the sin against Dinah and her brother's response.

Jacob had just returned from Mesopotamia and settled in Canaan near the town of Shechem. His daughter Dinah goes out to visit the young women of the town. Shechem, the crown prince of the region (for whom the town was named), sees Dinah and sexually assaults her. But he is completely infatuated with her and wants to have her for his wife. He seeks to console and comfort Dinah, and she chooses to stay with him in the city after the assault. He then sends his father, the king, to Jacob to negotiate for her hand in marriage. Shechem himself pleads with the family, promising to do whatever they want and pay whatever bride-price they demand to gain their blessing and have Dinah for his wife. Further, Shechem's father offers to let them live in his territory and to become part of his kingdom.

Dinah's brothers respond "deceitfully" and tell Shechem that the only way they can allow him to take Dinah as a wife is if all the men in his city are circumcised; they will then grant permission and promise to live in peace. The king and crown prince tell the men of the city what peace-loving and kind men Dinah's family are, so the men of Shechem agree to be circumcised. Then on the third day, when all the men were incapacitated with pain from their circumcisions, Simeon and Levi, outraged at what happened to their sister, attack and kill all the men in Shechem. They then take all their possessions, flocks, herds, women, and children for their own.

Jacob is alarmed and concerned that their actions will cause the other city-states in the region to join together to attack and destroy his family, so, following God's directions, he moves the family away.

What are your thoughts about these events?

Can we defend the assault Shechem perpetrated upon Dinah? No! It was wrong and cannot be defended. But, who did the greater sin, Shechem or Simeon and Levi? Why and how could this happen?

Do you think Simeon and Levi thought they were sinning? What were they liking telling themselves? Do you think they were telling themselves—let's go do wrong, let's go commit some injustice, or were they telling themselves, injustice was done to our sister and justice requires that we take action—let's go make sure justice is done?

Do we see a trap of Satan in this for human beings throughout all history?

Do you see Satan at work in the events at Shechem – spreading sinfulness and attempting to destroy the avenue for Messiah?

Do you see his strategy of inciting people to try and right a wrong by using evil methods?

Let's spell it out step by step:

- Shechem sexually assaults Dinah – evil is done; sin is committed.
- The sinner, however, doesn't seek to run from his crime, but seems remorseful and seeks to comfort Dinah. Then he goes to her family, acknowledges his wrong, and seeks to give Dinah station, name, and standing as princess of the region, by making her his wife and paying whatever price her family sets. He is willing to do all in his power to heal the injury he has caused. Dinah seems to be agreeable as she stays with him in the city.

- The brothers, however, now have the evil seed of resentment planted in their hearts. That seed, unremedied, sprouts and causes them to become incensed, outraged, and offended. They do not forgive, but seek to expunge the evil – and what methods do they use?
    - Deceit (breaking the 9th commandment)
    - Murder (breaking the 6th commandment)
    - Dishonoring their father (breaking the 5th commandment)
    - Using the sign of God's covenant for evil, thereby taking God's name in vain (breaking the 3rd commandment)
    - Stealing property (breaking the 8th and 10th commandments)

Think of all the innocents in that city who were harmed by Simeon and Levi as they sought to punish the wrongdoer, to set the wrong right, to exterminate the evil, and to change society so such problems would not happen again.

They did all of this evil in the name of justice. They did evil as a way of dealing with evil. And Satan celebrates because sin spreads – the hearts and minds of Jacob's sons were damaged, the goodwill toward Jacob and his family was turned to fear, distrust, and perhaps hatred, and innocents, who may have come to know Jacob's God, were killed. Jacob's family's reputation was tarnished – who can trust any agreements with them? – and, thereby, God's reputation was tarnished.

We can never win God's cause by using Satan's methods.

Do we see these same strategies being used by Satan throughout human history and today? Satan inspires the unrighteous to do evil, then uses that sin to plant the seeds of resentment and outrage into the hearts of the innocent. The seeds bear the fruit of outrage, fomenting into violence focused upon destroying the evil, punishing the wrongdoer, and changing society.

But it is all a deception – a trick, a ploy, a con – being foisted upon people by the master-deceiver. The lie is so well hidden that those reacting to the initial wrong are just like Simeon and Levi, willing to break every principle of love in order to punish those they see as wrong, all the while claiming they are acting in righteousness. If it were possible, even the very elect of God would be deceived.

WEDNESDAY

Read second paragraph, "Meanwhile, the first thing…" After Simeon and Levi's sin at Shechem, God instructs Jacob to go to Bethel, where God had previously appeared to him and build an altar for God there.

Jacob instructs his household to get rid of all the idols and household gods.

What is the object lesson for us in all of this?

Can God deliver us from the enemies of righteousness in this world if we cling to the unrighteousness of this world? Can God free us from fear and selfishness if we continue to practice fear and selfishness? Can God restore love and trust in our hearts if we cling to ideas about God that cause fear and distrust?

If we want to experience the healing God has for us, then we must let go of our hold on the ways, methods, and principles of this world of selfishness, the power over methods, the imperial law methods, including in our theology. If we continue to worship a god who uses power to torture and kill his enemies and requires blood payment to purchase his forgiveness then we cannot be freed from fear and selfishness because such a god-concept incites fear and selfishness.

What about Jacob instructing his household to get rid of all the foreign gods, was he violating the principles of religious liberty?

No, they were free to leave if they wanted, just like Reuben eventually did, but if they wanted to remain in Jacob's household they needed to comply with his standards.

Further, does getting rid of physical idols mean that the heart of the one who worshipped the idol is changed? So, Jacob can require physical idols be removed from the camp, but he cannot force a heart change. The getting rid of the idols wasn't about forcing changes of heart, it was about Jacob taking a stand and giving a message to where his heart was and what he expected from those who stayed with him. Stop trusting the ways, gods, methods of this world, cut them out of your lives and trust in Yahweh.

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, "Jacob's experience during the night of wrestling…" Why? Is this some punishment on God's part? Is this a legal requirement? Or is it simply reality—if you want to be free from fear and selfishness in your character you must come to points in your life in which you face those elements and surrender self completely to Christ for their removal.

Notice I said free from fear and selfishness in your character, your heart motives, not in our fallen state. We will be tempted with fear and selfishness, just as Jesus was, but the righteous who live right before Christ returns will have come to a place of love and trust that in their heart they would rather die than betray Jesus (Rev 12:11).

Understand, before Christ returns, we will not be free from temptation, we will be solidified in love and trust of Jesus so that we will no longer seek to save ourselves by giving into temptation—we will be like Daniel and the three worthies who would not give into temptation to save self.

2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson 11
Joseph, Master of Dreams

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

The lesson points out in the first paragraph that Joseph occupies more space in the book of Genesis than any other patriarch—why?

The Bible tells us that the stories of the Old Testament were recorded "as examples to keep us" (1 Corinthians 10:6 NIV84).

The Bible is the record of real historic people who did real stuff, so the record of Joseph's life is a reliable record of real events that happened.

But the Bible is more than a history book. The record we have here is the focus of the plan of salvation. We read about these lives because it is through them, their families and descendants, that the promised Messiah will come.

But even more than this. Their lives are examples, object lessons, to teach larger realities on multiple levels. Their lives reveal the battle between the two antagonistic principles at war, God's kingdom of truth, love, freedom warring against Satan's kingdom of lies, fear-driven selfishness and coercion.

These Bible stories reveal that without God's love working in our hearts, fear and selfishness (sin), corrupts us and will lead us to betray and exploit others, even those closest to us—our own families.

So the first lesson from Joseph is a personal lesson, a lesson from which we can all benefit. It is a lesson that reveals the damage that unremedied fear and selfishness, sin, causes in us and in the people we love. It is a lesson that despite loving a person that person may do us wrong, injure us, and do injustice, but Joseph's life also reveals that despite the injustice done to us, if we trust God, stay faithful to God, that God can overrule that injustice. And even if we don't get temporal restoration, the faithful receive a godly and righteous character, free from guilt, shame, and the control of the carnal drives.

Joseph's brothers allowed their fear, selfishness, and jealousy to take control of their hearts, minds, and actions. Had they truly loved Joseph, they would have celebrated him and rejoiced when their father honored him. But they didn't actually love Joseph, they were motivated by selfishness. They saw Joseph as a threat. So they sold him as a slave and misled their father into believing Joseph had been killed by wild animals.

Sometimes we describe this by saying "they loved themselves more than they loved Joseph." But, in actual fact, in the godly definition of the word "love," while the brothers didn't love Joseph, they also did NOT love themselves. Their actions were not good for Joseph, but their actions were not good for themselves either. They did not experience improved mental and emotional health, improved relationship with their father, better sleep, more mature and trustworthy character from their choice to treat Joseph as they did.

Their actions harmed Joseph, but their actions harmed themselves also. And who was harmed worse by their actions, Joseph or the brothers? The brothers. When someone sins against us they can harm our bodies, our reputations, our feelings, even our thoughts getting us to struggling with discouraging thoughts about ourselves and our value and worth. But someone's sin against us cannot damage our conscience, warp our character, harden our heart, corrupt our soul. We may grieve, cry out in pain, but like Jesus on the cross, or Stephen when being stoned, or Paul when being whipped, or Peter when being imprisoned can remain pure of heart and godly in character. But when we sin against another we damage our minds, hearts, characters, searing our consciences. The brothers hurt themselves by their sin against Joseph.

The brothers did not love Joseph, but they also did not love themselves. The only way to actually love oneself, is to love others. If we act selfishly—meaning with the motive to exploit another for our own advantage—then we are not acting in love toward our own self, but are damaging ourselves, searing our conscience, hardening our hearts, worsening our condition.

Joseph suffered terrible injustice from his own brothers. His human rights were violated. He was not treated as an individual but as property. He was taken by slave traders and sold in a slave market to Potiphar.

There is no question that what happened to Joseph was wrong; it was sin; it was unjust. And Joseph had no ability to stop it. He could not control the choices of others. Joseph had to decide how he would, in governance of self, deal with the many injustices.
Would he become resentful, bitter, hateful? Would he fantasize about getting even with his brothers? Would he pray to God to take vengeance upon the Egyptians? Would he seek to sabotage and injure those who treated him as a slave?

Or would Joseph surrender his life to God? Would he seek God's presence, God's methods, God's law, God's purpose in his life? Would he trust God to right the wrongs done to him? Would he refuse to become bitter and angry? Would he refuse to let selfishness corrupt his character? Would Joseph, in the face of corruption, become corrupt himself—or would he become more just, more righteous, through trusting God and living out of God's methods in his life?

And this is where Satan tricks and traps so many. When we are wronged, when we are sinned against, that injury, wrong, abuse, exploit plants an evil seed in our heart that must be rooted out or it will corrupt the character of the innocent party. If the wrong done to us sprouts in our heart into bitterness, resentment, a desire for vengeance, hate, or fear, insecurity, malignant distrust of everyone, and that blossoms into self-seeking, self-protecting, defensive and hostile attitudes, a need to control others in order to protect self, then the innocent becomes corrupted and eventually like the one who wronged them.

God has given us a tool a means of rooting out such evil seeds from our heart when others of wronged us and it is—forgiveness. When we forgive those who have wronged us we let go of the anger, resentment, desire for retaliation, and instead plant in the seed of godly love longing for that person's conversion and transformation. Forgiveness prevents the innocent from becoming corrupted and hardened in heart, but it does not change the evil doer. Thus, while we must forgive those who have done us wrong if we want the evil seed removed from our hearts, we must also recognize our forgiveness doesn't change them and therefore we cannot trust them and will not trust them unless persuasive evidence is presented that they have become trustworthy—something we also see in the story of Joseph as he forgave his brothers, but required evidence in order to know if they could be trusted, which he obtained through the trial he put them through.

Joseph chose to trust God and apply God's methods, the law of love, in his life. And how did Joseph treat Potiphar? He was a faithful, loyal, reliable, diligent, true, dedicated, and honest worker, and he carried out all of his slave duties with integrity. This is incredible, going against every notion of human justice in our contemporary worldly culture.

Why would Joseph behave this way? Potiphar was an Egyptian. He wasn't a member of Joseph's family. He wasn't a descendant of Abraham. He wasn't a worshiper of Yahweh. He was a pagan, an idol worshipper, and worst of all—he was a slave owner! He must be a corrupt person, and certainly his buying of Joseph and owning him as a slave made Potiphar undeserving of Joseph's loyalty—right?

Was Joseph loyal to Potiphar because of who Potiphar was, or was Joseph loyal because of who Joseph was? Joseph, as a loyal subject of the Creator, sought to honor God by living out His law of love even in the face of injustice.

One of Satan's most effective traps is to incite real injustice and then get people to seek justice through the application of Satan's methods, his laws, his principles of inflicted punishments and retaliation—because such evildoers "deserve" it. "It is right," Satan says, "for us to be resentful and to harbor fantasies of suffering toward our enemies." It is right in the world's system to use whatever means necessary to ensure that the evil get what they deserve.

Why do you think Joseph didn't try and escape? Once he was put over all of Potiphar's house, it would seem he could have had opportunity to arrange for a horse, or chariot, and made a pretext to some duty and fled Egypt—why do you think he didn't?

- Was Joseph's presence in Egypt, as a slave, part of the events that resulted in Joseph being elevated to rule and eventually save his family and keep open the avenue for the Messiah?
- Did God know the future? Clearly, he already gave dreams to Joseph that his family would bow down to him. So, did God have a plan for Joseph to bring good out of the evil done to him?
- Would God's plan be realized if Joseph doesn't trust God?
- So if Joseph flees Egypt he won't be where God needs him to be.
- So is it possible that Joseph stayed in Egypt because he was surrendered to God's will and was waiting on the Lord to direct him and provide the solution? And Joseph never got any direction from God to flee, so he stayed.

- What would selfishness motivate Joseph to do? Wouldn't it be to flee or sabotage? So, not only does Satan tempt us to retaliate to injustice with ungodly methods, Satan also will inflame selfishness to get us to try and fix our own circumstances WITHOUT seeking God's direction and without waiting for God's solution.

Despite Joseph's high moral standard, his faithful and loyal service, he suffered even more injustice. Joseph was accused of sexual assault and imprisoned for a crime he did not commit. What an outrage—falsely accused, falsely imprisoned after years of loyal and faithful service! Certainly, after such mistreatment it would be okay for Joseph to be bitter and to seek justice—or would it?

But again, how did Joseph actually respond? Did he become bitter and hateful? Did he seek to retaliate? Did he fantasize about getting even? No, he lived out God's law of love in governance of himself. And eventually, through God's miraculous interventions, Joseph was elevated to the second most powerful position in the world—second only to Pharaoh himself.

And once Joseph had such power, what did he do? He had the authority to right all past injustices against him. He could have punished Potiphar's wife and Potiphar if he had wanted. By today's standards, it would have been just and right to put them in prison, fine them, and make them pay reparations.

So why didn't Joseph do this when he had the power to do so?

What would have happened to Joseph—to his heart, mind, and character—if he had practiced the methods of this sinful world in seeking so-called "justice"? What kind of person would he have become had he harbored resentment and bitterness, longing to retaliate eye for eye?

What happens to the hearts of people today when they focus on past wrongs (real wrongs, like Joseph experienced), either to themselves or to their ancestors, and they hold to bitterness and resentment and seek to use the governments of this world to make others pay? Or perhaps teach theologies that God will one day torture people in fire to make them pay for the wrongs they have done?

- We cannot win God's cause using Satan's methods.
- God cannot win His cause using Satan's methods and will NEVER use Satan's methods! AND….
- God cannot win His cause through people whose hearts harbor resentment, bitterness, and desire for retaliation, people who long to inflict punishment on others.
- God can win His cause only through people who trust Him and allow Him to eliminate fear, selfishness, bitterness, jealousy, and the desire for retaliation from their hearts and minds and to restore in them His love, His character, so that they love their enemies as Christ loves us. Then our enemies become our friends. This is the only way forward.

The so-called social-justice movements of the world today are traps of Satan designed to inflame selfishness, incite division, and cause more hostility between people. Only God's laws of love, truth, and liberty will heal and unite humanity. Only as we trust God with our lives, our futures, the outcomes, and stay faithful in governing ourselves in harmony with His principles can we overcome Satan and the powers of this world. As Jesus said, "Blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the earth" (Matthew 5:5 NIV84).

So the first lesson from the life of Joseph is a personal lesson, the battle in each of our hearts with sin when someone does us wrong—how will we respond, with the methods of the world, or by surrendering to Jesus, trusting Him, and living out His methods?

The second lesson is an object lesson of the plan of salvation. Joseph represents Jesus and events in Joseph's life reveal aspects of what Jesus will do for our salvation.

There were seven miracle births that occurred in the Bible besides Jesus' virgin birth. The miracle births were not virgin births, they were women with infertility that God healed—thus it was a miracle of healing the malady of infertility and then they became pregnant in the normal way. But these 7 births all represent Jesus in some way:

1. Sarah- Isaac – The promised one who will be sacrificed
2. Rebekah – Jacob – wrestles with God to overcome his own weakness and became Israel, the father of the nation built upon twelve sons, Jesus wrestled with temptation and overcome to be the cornerstone of the church built upon twelve apostles
3. Monoah's wife – Samson – blessed with strength to deliver Israel from bondage of oppressors and rule over them, Jesus has the strength to deliver us from sin and rule the universe
4. Hannah- Samuel – who became High Priest, Jesus is our High Priest
5. Shunammite woman – child died and resurrected, of course Jesus died and rose again
6. Elizabeth – John the Baptist – who greatest of prophets, and Jesus was the greatest of all prophets
7. Rachel – Joseph

Below are some of the ways Joseph's life foreshadowed the life of Jesus:

- Jacob gave Joseph a coat of many colors. This was Jacob's way of setting Joseph apart from his brothers as the one who would occupy the position of firstborn (which is not about birth order but about position of authority in the family). The firstborn received a double inheritance, something that Joseph received, as the Bible explicitly confirms: "The rights of the firstborn belonged to Joseph" (1 Chronicles 5:2 NIV84).
    - Jesus "is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn over all creation. For by him all things were created: things in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or powers or rulers or authorities; all things were created by him and for him. He is before all things, and in him all things hold together" (Colossians 1:15–17 NIV84).

- Joseph's brothers were jealous, betrayed him, and lied about him.

  - Lucifer was jealous in heaven and betrayed Jesus and, lying about God, led a third of the angels into rebellion; he then lied to Adam and Eve, leading humanity into sin. When Jesus came to Earth, He was despised and rejected by men. His own people betrayed Him, lied about Him, and handed Him over to Roman authorities to have Him killed.

- Joseph was sold and became a slave.
  - Jesus left heaven and humbled Himself all the way down to that of a slave, just as Scripture describes: "You should have the same attitude toward one another that Christ Jesus had, who though he existed in the form of God did not regard equality with God as something to be grasped, but emptied himself by taking on the form of a slave, by looking like other men, and by sharing in human nature. He humbled himself, by becoming obedient to the point of death—even death on a cross! As a result God exalted him and gave him the name that is above every name, so that at the name of Jesus every knee will bow—in heaven and on earth and under the earth— and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord to the glory of God the Father" (Philippians 2:5–11 NET).

- Joseph was faithful in all his duties as a slave.
  - Jesus was faithful in all His duties as our human Savior (Revelation 1:5).

- Joseph was tempted by Potiphar's wife but rejected the temptations.
  - Jesus was tempted by Satan in the wilderness but rejected the temptations (Matthew 4:1–11; Hebrews 4:15).

- Joseph was falsely accused by Potiphar's wife.
  - Jesus was falsely accused by the Jewish leaders.

- Joseph was wrongly imprisoned in a dungeon.
  - Jesus was wrongly imprisoned in the grave.

- Joseph was raised from the dungeon to the right hand of the sovereign.
  - Jesus arose from the grave to the right hand of God (Ephesians 1:20).

- Joseph was Hebrew but also became Egyptian and took an Egyptian name.
  - Jesus is divine but He became human.

- Joseph married an Egyptian woman.
  - Christ's bride is from this world of sin.

- Joseph prepared a place for his family.
  - Jesus prepares a place for us (John 14).

- Seven years of plenty to prepare for the seven years of famine.
  - Seven is a number that represents spiritual completion. We are in a spiritual war, and Jesus is the bread that came down from heaven that provides the spiritual sustenance for all who trust Him (John 6:33, 41). Jesus has a storehouse of spiritual food sufficient for all our needs. Despite living in a world of sin, a world of spiritual famine, Jesus' is the Bread of Life for all who will trust Him.

- Joseph required those who wanted the grain of Egypt to purchase it and, ultimately, they sold everything they had to Egypt.
  - In order for us to partake the bread of heaven, we must surrender all other means whereby we try to obtain eternal life. We are instructed to buy from Jesus the gold tried in the fire (Revelation 3:18). We buy from Jesus through the barter method. We exchange what we have for what He has. We exchange:
    - a sinful heart for a righteous heart
    - guilt and shame for purity and peace
    - condemnation for commendation
    - eternal death for eternal life.

- Joseph received the land of Goshen, a rich and bountiful land, from the sovereign for his family.
  - Jesus will receive the earth made new from His Father for His human family.

- The brothers were alienated from Joseph through their own selfishness and betrayal—they had to change in order to be reconciled to Joseph who was already forgiving toward them.
  - We are alienated from God by our sinfulness and we must be changed to be reconciled to God who is already forgiving toward us.

SUNDAY

Read third paragraph, "The future will…" What do you think of the sentiment in this paragraph?

"No wonder, then, that Joseph's brothers hated him so much?"

What does this mean? Are they saying that it was because Jacob wanted to give Joseph the rights of the first born that his brothers hated Joseph so much?

Is that the reason? No! IT IS NOT. The reason they hated him so much is because they did not love him; they were not reborn; they had fear and selfishness operating in their hearts as their chief motive to action.

If they had loved Joseph as God would have us love each other, then what would have been their attitude when Jacob favored Joseph? They would have celebrated, rejoiced, been happy for him.

So the reason the brothers hated Joseph is not the favor shown by Jacob, but the fear, selfishness, jealousy and lack of love in the hearts of the brothers.

This idea that it was because of the good shown to Joseph that the brothers hated him is classic worldly-think—the blame game. They hated Joseph because of what Jacob did, it is Jacob's fault for being good to Joseph. If someone else is being blessed it is viewed as a slight against us. If someone else is advancing it is viewed as an obstacle to our advancement. So teachers are instructed not to praise students in school who have written an outstanding paper or got an A on the exam because those who didn't score will might get their feelings hurt.

All sin, all evil, all exploitation, is because of sin in the hearts of those who do the evil. It isn't because of another person.

The story of Joseph demonstrates this. This is why Joseph is such a powerful example of Jesus. Despite the multiple wrongs against him, he never chose to hurt those who hurt him.

Joseph's brothers' actions caused consequences—not only to Joseph, but to them. They had guilt, regret, remorse. They had to see the sadness, grief, heartbreak in Jacob for years. And God did not abandon the brothers, but worked on their hearts and eventually they were changed and protected Benjamin rather than themselves.

What is the lesson in all of this?

What do we learn about God through all of this?

Read the fourth paragraph, "Furthermore, Joseph…" What do you think of this paragraph and the sentence "No one likes a snitch."

What law lens is this presented through? This is classic imposed law, human law, Satan's worldview law, not God's law.

No one likes a snitch because their telling the authority gets the wrongdoer in trouble with the authorities. If they hadn't snitched, the authorities wouldn't know and the wrongdoer wouldn't be in trouble. It is the fault of the snitch. The problem with breaking imposed laws is the inflicted punishment of the law enforcer. Thus, no one likes a snitch.

But, in design law, the damage comes from the sin itself, not from the ruling authority. It is the one in authority who has the remedy that can save and heal.

So, imagine that instead of being reported to the legal authorities for legal violations that will result in inflicted punishments, we understand reality as God runs His universe and use design laws for our illustration. So instead of your brother being a snitch, your brother goes to your physician father and reports that he has noticed what appears to be cancerous growth on your back. Do you have the attitude, "no one likes a snitch" or "I love my brother for not ignoring a life-threatening condition"?

But can people report health concerns in a way that is not healing? Can people report someone's physical or mental health struggles in a way that is designed not to bring healing to the person, but to have the person ridiculed, mocked, rejected, despised?

And can people do the same with sin, understand sin through the imposed law lens and report it as rule-breaking to get people into trouble, or fired from their office, rather than seeking to lead them back to the path of righteousness for salvation from sin?

And what does that say about the one who would do such a thing?

The last paragraph, talking about the dreams says, "The genuine prophetic character of the dreams was even ratified by the fact that they are repeated."

I find this statement incredible—truly, I can't believe this would be presented as some sort of evidence of validity.

If I understand correctly what they are saying, and maybe it is me and I just don't comprehend the point, but if I understand it correctly, they are saying that the repetition of the dream validates it as a genuine prophetic message from God.

Well, I can tell you with 100% certainty that simply having a dream that recurs does not mean it is a prophetic message from God. Many of my patients have recurring dreams and the dreams are manifestations of things that they are struggling with. PTSD patients will have recurring dreams of their traumas, just because a dream recurs in no way means it is a prophetic message.

What is the evidence that these dreams were prophetic messages from God? They came to pass, they were true, it actually happened. That is the evidence!

TUESDAY

Judah and Tamar

What do you think of this story?

Read second paragraph, "Judah finds…" Hmmm… What death was it that Er and Onan died, was it the eternal second death that is the wages of sin death, or was it the first sleep death that even the righteous Daniel died? Will Er and Onan be resurrected one day?

So, if this death was not the wages of sin death, was this death punishment for sin?

If it wasn't punishment for sin, then why did God put them to sleep in the first death?

Read the fourth paragraph, "The conclusion of this sordid story…" does this give any insight into what was going on?

Did the Messiah come from the family line of these events after Tamar's trick of Judah?

Was the coming Messiah important? Was it a fulfillment of a promise of Genesis 3:15?

Was God working out the fulfillment of this promise?

Does the death of Er and Onan determine their ultimate destiny?

What determines the ultimate destiny of every human?

What happens at the end of the 1000 years? Why raise the wicked?

From one Bible commentary, the book The Great Controversy describing events after the 1000 years, after the New Jerusalem and all the saints have returned to the earth and the wicked dead have been resurrected:

> "At last the order to advance is given, and the countless host moves on,—an army such as was never summoned by earthly conquerors, such as the combined forces of all ages since war began on earth could never equal. Satan, the mightiest of warriors, leads the van, and his angels unite their forces for this final struggle. Kings and warriors are in his train, and the multitudes follow in vast companies, each under its appointed leader. With military precision, the serried ranks advance over the earth's broken and uneven surface to the city of God. By command of Jesus, the gates of the New Jerusalem are closed, and the armies of Satan surround the city, and make ready for the onset. Now Christ again appears to the view of his enemies. Far above the city, upon a foundation of burnished gold, is a throne, high and lifted up. Upon this throne sits the Son of God, and around him are the subjects of his kingdom. The power and majesty of Christ no language can describe, no pen portray. The glory of the Eternal Father is enshrouding his Son. The brightness of his presence fills the city of God, and flows out beyond the gates, flooding the whole earth with its radiance." (The Great Controversy 664)

Let's read this account in Genesis 38 from The Remedy:

> Now, regarding the time that Judah moved away from his brothers, he went to Adullam and stayed with a man named Hirah. While there, he met a Canaanite woman – a pagan, the daughter of a man named Shua. Judah gave in to his desires and took her, and he had sex with her; and she became pregnant and gave birth to a son, whom he named Er. She became pregnant again and had another son named Onan. She gave birth to a third son while at Kezib, named Shelah.

Judah arranged for his firstborn son Er to marry a woman named Tamar. But Er's heart was hardened to God, and his character was completely corrupt, therefore he was unfit to be the ancestor of Messiah. So the Lord, acting to fulfill his promise to bring the Messiah to save the world, mercifully put Er to sleep in death.

Then Judah, seeking to produce an heir for Er, instructed Onan, "Go and have sex with your brother's wife and fulfill your duty to her and produce an heir for your brother." But Onan's heart was also corrupt with selfishness, and he knew that any child produced with Tamar would not be his heir but Er's, and would receive the birthright. So when he had sex with her, he withdrew prematurely and spilled his seed on the ground to avoid giving his brother an heir. The Lord accurately diagnosed him as hardened in selfishness and terminal in sin, and therefore unfit to be ancestor for Messiah. So, the Lord, in mercy, and to fulfill his promise to bring the Messiah to save the world, also put him to sleep in death.

Judah didn't understand the reason why his sons had died; so he told his daughter-in-law Tamar, "Go home and live with your father; remain as a widow until my son Shelah grows up, and he will fulfill his duty and give you an heir." But Judah was not sincere. He was afraid for his son and thought, "My only remaining son may die too, just like his brothers." So he sent Tamar to live with her father as a way of protecting his son.

After some time, Judah's wife, the daughter of Shua, died. Once Judah had recovered from his grief, he and his friend Hirah from Adullam went to Timnah, where the men were shearing his sheep.

Someone told Tamar, "Your father-in-law is on his way to Timnah to shear his sheep." Realizing that no arrangements had been made for her to marry Shelah despite his coming of age, she implemented her own plan to produce an heir. She removed her widow's clothes, dressed seductively, and disguised herself with a veil. She then sat at the entrance to Enaim, which is on the road to Timnah.

When Judah saw her sitting there, dressed seductively, with her face covered, he thought she was a prostitute. So he went over to her and propositioned her, saying, "Come with me and let me have sex with you."

"How much will you pay me to have sex with you?" she asked.

"I will send you a young goat from my flock," he replied.

"What will you give me to ensure you will send the goat?" she asked.

"What security would you have me give you?" he said.

"Give me your seal and its cord, and your staff," she answered. So he gave them to her and then had sex with her, and she became pregnant by him. Afterward, she returned home and changed back into her widow's clothes.

Judah sent his friend Hirah with the young goat to pay the woman and retrieve his seal, cord and staff, but Hirah could not find her anywhere. So he asked the men who lived there, "Where is the shrine prostitute who sits beside the road at Enaim?"

But the men said, "There is no shrine prostitute here and never has been."

So Hirah returned to Judah and said, "I couldn't find her anywhere. And when I asked the men who lived there about her, they said, 'There is no shrine prostitute here and never has been.'"

So Judah said, "Well then, she can keep my things. It is better to just let her have them than to keep looking for her and let everyone know that we were so foolish to be tricked by her. Besides, I did send the goat, but you couldn't find her."

About three months later Judah was told, "Your daughter-in-law Tamar has been sexually promiscuous, acting no better than a prostitute, and now she is pregnant."
Judah, wanting to avoid giving her to Shelah, seized on this opportunity and ordered, "Take her out and burn her to death!"

But as she was being taken out, she sent a message to her father-in-law: "I am pregnant by the man who owns these. Examine them and see if you recognize whose seal, cord and staff they are."

Judah recognized them immediately and said, "She has not defiled herself, but acted as is her right to produce an heir for my firstborn son. It was I who was the irresponsible one – who failed to do what was right – when I did not give her to my son Shelah." And Judah never had sex with her again.

When it came time for Tamar to give birth, it was discovered that she was going to have twins. During labor, one of the twins put out his hand, and the midwife tied a scarlet thread to his wrist and said, "This one came out first." But then he drew back his hand and his brother was actually born first, and the midwife said, "How did you break out first?" And he was named Perez (which means 'breaking out'), and he became the ancestor of the Messiah. Then his brother, who had the scarlet thread on his wrist, was born and named Zerah (which means 'the scarlet rays of dawn').

THURSDAY

Read the fifth paragraph, "Though Joseph is the one…" Did God bring the famine? What do you think is happening here?

Isn't this the conflict over God fulfilling His promise of Genesis 3:15. The Messiah is promised. Abraham, Isaac and Jacob have been told it is through them the promise will be fulfilled. Satan is working to stop the promise. He wants to destroy this branch of the human family. So, who do we think brought the famine?

Can Satan affect the weather?

Job chapter 1 informs us he can.

So, which is more likely, God brought the famine, or God foresaw the famine and provided for the deliverance of His people from another attack from Satan?

2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson 12
Joseph, Prince of Egypt

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read second paragraph, "Interestingly, this whole next sequence of events…" What does it mean that "Joseph's brothers live that whole experience as a divine judgment"?

What kind of judgment? Is it judicial? Are they saying, God examined the legality of their actions, ruled that they were guilty and sentenced them to suffer so many years of guilt, worry, anxiety, bad sleep, shame, and eventually God arranged for them to be falsely accused of stealing back their money, held in jail for three days, have Simeon restrained in Egypt while the others go back for Benjamin, and then have Benjamin falsely accused etc.

Are they saying God ordered all of this as a judgment against them?

Do we find anything in the experience of Joseph's brothers that could qualify as judicial, as penal/legal other than what Joseph manufactured and falsely accused them of?

Joseph's actions are not God's actions, so we cannot count Joseph as being divine, then what is God's divine judgment here?

When considering the question of judgment, always ask what law lens.

Human law = judicial judgments of guilt or innocence and infliction of punishments.

Design law = dealing with some aspect of reality, diagnosing and therapeutically intervening.

So, regarding Joseph's brothers, what kind of judgment is this? It is the diagnosing of the condition of the heart for the purpose of bringing them to repentance and salvation.

- What law is involved?
    - The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction (Galatians 6:8 NIV84).

What caused the brother's guilt, shame, anxiety, fear?

What caused them to be put through the trials of being falsely accused and imprisoned etc.? Wasn't this reaping what they had sown? In other words, this isn't punishment inflicted to pay for crimes, but it is because the way they treated Joseph revealed their selfish, abusive, jealous and untrustworthy character. And Joseph, not being God, cannot read the secret condition of their hearts. So in order for Joseph to know whether his brothers have changed he needs to put them in situations that require them to make choices that will reveal whether they will protect others or sacrifice others to benefit themselves.

Thus, they are reaping in their relationship a trial that is a result of what they sowed into their relationship with Joseph.

Had they always treated Joseph with respect, love, self-sacrifice and IF instead of selling Joseph as they did, Joseph had been taken by raiders while his brother's fought to protect him, but the brothers were grievously wounded and almost died in their attempts to protect him, but the slavers won and took Joseph—if that had been the history what would have been their experience when they came for grain? Would they have been put through these trials?

As we discussed last week, Joseph is a real historical person who did real things and the history we have in Scripture is reliable. However, these events are recorded as lessons for us to teach us the plan of salvation, the battle between sin, fear, selfishness and righteousness, love, and trust.

Joseph is a type of Christ as we discussed last week, and in this scenario, in regard to the diagnostic and therapeutic judgments, Joseph also acts the role of Christ. The difference is that Jesus doesn't need to do such things to determine the condition of our heart, but Jesus will do such things to help US DETERMINE the nature of our own hearts in order to bring us to repentance and healing.

- Joseph judged that his brothers were selfish and untrustworthy when he last knew them.
    - Joseph had already forgiven them and did not seek or desire revenge against them—but reconciliation requires them to be trustworthy in addition to Joseph to forgive.
- Joseph judged that in order for him to know whether they were trustworthy a trial was necessary—but it wasn't a jury trial, it was a trial of experience, they had to be tried by events to reveal their character. And each and every one of us will be tried by life events also! In God's judgment we are not tried in a courtroom, we are tried by life and our choices!
- Then Joseph judged he could trust them and revealed himself to them.

God does this also, He judges our hearts, what is wrong, what is needed to bring us to repentance. If we refuse the easier, kinder, gentler methods, because God loves us, He will either remove His protections and allow painful consequences to come to teach us, or He will bring specific judgments (like the plagues of Egypt) to cause us to examine ourselves and the situation and come to repentance. These judgments of God are not judicial, they are therapeutic.

Consider this historic quote:

> "How great is the long - suffering of God toward the wicked! The idolatrous Philistines and backsliding Israel had alike enjoyed the gifts of His providence. Ten thousand unnoticed mercies were silently falling in the pathway of ungrateful, rebellious men. Every blessing spoke to them of the Giver, but they were indifferent to His love. The forbearance of God was very great toward > the children of men; but when they stubbornly persisted in their impenitence, He removed from them His protecting hand. They refused to listen to the voice of God in His created works, and in the warnings, counsels, and reproofs of His word, and thus He was forced to speak to them through judgments." - PP 587.4

What about the question of forgiveness?

- When does God forgive?
- Does God forgive those who have not repented?
- If God forgives those who have not repented are they saved?
- Does God's forgiveness save a person?
- What saves a sinner?
- Could a sinner be saved if God refused to forgive?

SUNDAY

The lesson points our attention to Genesis 41:28, when Joseph interprets Pharaoh's dream, and it reads:

> "It is just as I said to Pharaoh: God has shown Pharaoh what he is about to do" (Genesis 41:28 NIV84).

Does this mean that God is the one who brought the famine?

In the Bible if it says that God did something does that mean God did it?

What about these texts?

- While he was still speaking, another messenger came and said, "The fire of God fell from the sky and burned up the sheep and the servants, and I am the only one who has escaped to tell you!" (Job 1:16 NIV84)
    - Who brought the fire? It was Satan, yet the Bible says God did it.
- "Saul died because he was unfaithful to the LORD; he did not keep the word of the LORD and even consulted a medium for guidance, and did not inquire of the LORD. So the LORD put him to death and turned the kingdom over to David son of Jesse." (1 Chronicles 10:13–14 NIV84).
    - How did Saul die?
        - "Saul took his own sword and fell on it. When the armor-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he too fell on his sword and died with him." (1 Samuel 31:4–5 NIV84).
    - Yet the Bible also says that God put him to death because he was unfaithful.

So, when the Bible says that God was about to do this, does it mean God was the active agent to bring the famine, or that God foresaw what was going to happen and sent a message of warning to protect from the famine?

If we look at this strategically through the lens of the Great Controversy, the principles and methods of God and the goals of God, then we may put this text in with the two I already read where the Bible says God did something that He didn't directly do.

After Adam sinned could humanity be saved without Jesus?

- Genesis 3:15 Jesus is promised to come and crush the serpent's head and save humanity.
- The entire Old Testament focus is on fulfilling this promise.
- We focus in on Abraham's family through Isaac and Jacob because it is through them that Messiah comes.
- Satan knows this and thus Satan works constantly to try and destroy this family.
- So, who benefits if a famine comes and the family of Jacob dies?
- One way to understand this is that Satan is working to destroy Jacob's descendants to interfere with the plan of salvation. God in His foreknowledge sees what Satan will do and sends a warning message to prepare and protect the avenue for Messiah so that all the peoples of the world may be blessed through Him.

Then why does the Bible read the way it does? Because that is how Joseph explained things to Pharaoh. But why didn't Joseph just explain to Pharaoh the conflict between God and Satan and that God's enemy was going to bring a famine, but that God sent a warning to prepare and protect?

What is the common mindset about supernatural things in Joseph's day?

They were polytheistic, meaning that they worshipped many gods. To present the Great Controversy in that setting may have fueled a polytheistic worldview—"there is more than one supernatural being, let's offer sacrifices to the god who brings famines so he won't bring famines anymore and so forth."

So, if Joseph presented the GC to Pharaoh, Pharaoh and the priests of the various other gods, may have decided to offer sacrifices to the god that was going to bring the famine, rather than prepare for the famine. They may have considered, well if your God who warned us isn't powerful enough to stop the god who is bringing the famine, maybe we should be worshipping the god who can control the weather and bring famines.

So all through the Old Testament we find God taking credit for things He didn't do, primarily to reach the people where they were in their understanding of things and lead them to truth and salvation.

MONDAY

Read third paragraph which focuses on the meeting where the brothers bow down to Joseph, "Second, this prudential…" What do you think about the idea of "just retribution" the lesson inserts into this narrative?

So I looked up retribution in the dictionary, just to be sure I wasn't misunderstanding the meaning and it reads:

- requital according to merits or deserts, especially for evil.
- something given or inflicted in such requital.

Then I looked up requital and it means:

- to make repayment or return for (service, benefits, etc.).
- to make retaliation for (a wrong, injury, etc.); avenge.
- to retaliate on (a person, group, etc.) for a wrong, injury, etc.

When you read the story of Joseph and his brothers, their meeting, Joseph's actions, and the outcome. Do you see Joseph seeking to retaliate, avenge a wrong, make them pay? Or do you see Joseph longing for reconciliation, heart aching to be reunited with his family, but unsure of whether he can trust them, so he creates circumstances that require them to act and reveal their values and character?

What is going on that the lesson authors would pervert the Scripture like this and twist it to teach that Joseph was seeking just retribution, when Joseph was in fact living out God's law of love and seeking to heal and restore?

It is evidence that whoever wrote this has the wrong understanding of God's law. If we accept Satan's lie that God's law functions like human law, then one must believe that justice requires God to inflict punishment for sin.

This is Satan's greatest achievement, his lies about God's law, that get believers in God to promote Satan's view of God and ultimately practice Satan's methods on others, such as crucifying the Son of God, all the while claiming they were honoring and worshiping God.

In the bottom gray section it reads, "Most of us, surely, have done things for which we are sorry. How can we, to whatever degree possible, make up for what we have done?"

This language is ambiguous—it could be understood in a way that is beneficial and a part of God's healing solution, but it could also be understood in a way that fuels Satan's methods and practices.

What is the key to understanding this in a healthy way?

What law lens are we thinking through.

If design law then we understand that sin damages—it damages the sinner and others. Thus, if we are truly repentant we want to mitigate the harm we have caused others, and we seek to restore what we have taken from them. But the motivation is for their best interest, not to make us feel good about ourselves. Thus, we must assess whether our actions will help or hurt the person we want to make up to.

This is why in the 12 steps of AA, which are really the steps of conversion and spiritual growth to Christian maturity, steps 8 and 9 read:

- Step 8: Made a list of all persons we had harmed, and became willing to make amends to them all.
- Step 9: Made direct amends to such people wherever possible, except when to do so would injure them or others.

So, this is a healthy way to understand making up, meaning seeking to heal any wound or harm we have caused.

But this could also be understood in an unhealthy way and that is when we think through imposed law. And in that mindset making up means making payments, appeasements, and atonements, doing something that is designed to propitiate wrath, to influence the wronged party not to be upset any more, to turn away their anger. This leads to false theologies and activities like:

- Offering God sacrifices to turn away His wrath, to propitiate Him in some way
- Doing various good works as a means of "balancing the scales" in the cosmic justice system
- Doing various penances
- Purgatory
- Indulgences
- Any form of offerings designed to alleviate guilt and make one feel better
- Any form of works designed to make one feel like they have made up for their sin—a form of paying a fine

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses on Joseph treating Benjamin with greater favor than the brothers, such as larger portions of food.

Why did Joseph do this?

Why did Joseph put the cup in Benjamin's bag and then threaten to keep Benjamin as a slave?

Couldn't Joseph have just revealed himself to his brothers as they arrived the first time and then simply asked them, "Have you changed? Have you repented? Can I trust you now?" And if they said "Yes, we are sorry. We will never do such things again. You can trust us" wouldn't that have been good enough? Why not?

Is it any different today? Can we rely on what people say when we don't have a track record of their reliability? Worse, can we rely on those who have already proven to be either untrustworthy or incompetent?

What is the basis of trust? Trustworthiness, but what makes someone trustworthy?

They must love you more than themselves, they must have a desire for your good rather than a desire to use you to benefit themselves, they must have maturity to govern self and fulfill whatever the role is, and they must have wisdom to understand and practice God's methods.

But can a person be trustworthy in heart motive, genuinely want to benefit you, and yet you still cannot trust them? Why? You can trust their motive, but you may not be able to trust their recommendations, choices, actions, or follow their advice, because they may not understand the situation correctly. The point being, you must think for yourself and be persuaded in your own mind.

WEDNESDAY

Read the third paragraph, "That Joseph was using a divination cup did not mean that he believed in its power…." Aren't we relieved to realize that Joseph didn't believe in spiritualism, or divination, or any other form of black magic or fortune telling?

But, what transpired here was more than Joseph just allowing them to believe this idea on their own. Joseph instructed his servants to say to his brothers when they pulled the cup out of Benjamin's sack, "Isn't this the cup my master drinks from and also uses for divination?" (Genesis 44:5).

So this isn't merely allowing the brothers to come to their own flawed conclusion, it is purposeful misdirection, planting an idea in order to mislead the mind. Isn't this a form a deception?

And if it is deception, is it wrong? Is it sin? Why or why not?

Do we have any other examples of people working for God who deceived, even lied? There of course of Rahab who hid the spies and lied and we find both in the lineage of Jesus and the hall of faith in Hebrews.

But what about prophets of God, any of those who purposely misled others, told things in a way that wasn't factual, who presented something in a false light?

What about the story in 1Kings 20:

> By the word of the LORD one of the sons of the prophets said to his companion, "Strike me with your weapon," but the man refused.
>
> So the prophet said, "Because you have not obeyed the LORD, as soon as you leave me a lion will kill you." And after the man went away, a lion found him and killed him.
> The prophet found another man and said, "Strike me, please." So the man struck him and wounded him. Then the prophet went and stood by the road waiting for the king [Ahab]. He disguised himself with his headband down over his eyes. As the king passed by, the prophet called out to him, "Your servant went into the thick of the battle, and someone came to me with a captive and said, 'Guard this man. If he is missing, it will be your life for his life, or you must pay a talent of silver.' While your servant was busy here and there, the man disappeared."

> "That is your sentence," the king of Israel said. "You have pronounced it yourself."
> Then the prophet quickly removed the headband from his eyes, and the king of Israel recognized him as one of the prophets. He said to the king, "This is what the LORD says: 'You have set free a man I had determined should die. Therefore it is your life for his life, your people for his people.' " Sullen and angry, the king of Israel went to his palace in Samaria. (1 Kings 20:35–43 NIV84).

Was the prophet deceiving Ahab? Was it sin to do so? Why or why not?

Or the story in 1Kings 13 where Jeroboam was confronted by the prophet of the Lord prophesying about the birth of Josiah and Jeroboam reaches out his hand to grab the prophet and his hand withers and the altar splits in two. Jeroboam asks the prophet to pray his hand be restored and it was. Jeroboam wants to treat the prophet to a great feast but the prophet replies that the Lord instructed him not to eat bread or drink water or return the same way he came. But on his way back home he is met by an older prophet and this is what happened:

> So the prophet said to him, "Come home with me and eat."
> The man of God said, "I cannot turn back and go with you, nor can I eat bread or drink water with you in this place. I have been told by the word of the LORD: 'You must not eat bread or drink water there or return by the way you came.' "
> The old prophet answered, "I too am a prophet, as you are. And an angel said to me by the word of the LORD: 'Bring him back with you to your house so that he may eat bread and drink water.' " (But he was lying to him.) So the man of God returned with him and ate and drank in his house.
> While they were sitting at the table, the word of the LORD came to the old prophet who had brought him back. He cried out to the man of God who had come from Judah, "This is what the LORD says: 'You have defied the word of the LORD and have not kept the command the LORD your God gave you. You came back and ate bread and drank water in the place where he told you not to eat or drink. Therefore your body will not be buried in the tomb of your fathers.' "
> When the man of God had finished eating and drinking, the prophet who had brought him back saddled his donkey for him. As he went on his way, a lion met him on the road and killed him, and his body was thrown down on the road, with both the donkey and the lion standing beside it. Some people who passed by saw the body thrown down there, with the lion standing beside the body, and they went and reported it in the city where the old prophet lived.
> When the prophet who had brought him back from his journey heard of it, he said, "It is the man of God who defied the word of the LORD. The LORD has given him over to the lion, which has mauled him and killed him, as the word of the LORD had warned him."
> The prophet said to his sons, "Saddle the donkey for me," and they did so. Then he went out and found the body thrown down on the road, with the donkey and the lion standing beside it. The lion had neither eaten the body nor mauled the donkey. So the prophet picked up the body of the man of God, laid it on the donkey, and brought it back to his own city to mourn for him and bury him. Then he laid the body in his own tomb, and they mourned over him and said, "Oh, my brother!"

> After burying him, he said to his sons, "When I die, bury me in the grave where the man of God is buried; lay my bones beside his bones. For the message he declared by the word of the LORD against the altar in Bethel and against all the shrines on the high places in the towns of Samaria will certainly come true." (1 Kings 13:15–32 NIV84).

Was it sin for the older prophet to lie to the younger prophet?

Consider the story in 1Kings 22. The setting is Ahab meeting with Jehoshaphat trying to get Jehoshaphat to join him in attacking Ramoth Gilead. The prophet Micaiah is called and this is what the prophet told them:

> Micaiah continued, "Therefore hear the word of the LORD: I saw the LORD sitting on his throne with all the host of heaven standing around him on his right and on his left. And the LORD said, 'Who will entice Ahab into attacking Ramoth Gilead and going to his death there?'
> "One suggested this, and another that. Finally, a spirit came forward, stood before the LORD and said, 'I will entice him.'
> " 'By what means?' the LORD asked.
> " 'I will go out and be a lying spirit in the mouths of all his prophets,' he said.
> " 'You will succeed in enticing him,' said the LORD. 'Go and do it.'
> "So now the LORD has put a lying spirit in the mouths of all these prophets of yours. The LORD has decreed disaster for you." (1Kings 22:19-23 NIV84).

Does God actually lie? No, then is the prophet lying to Ahab about the spirits in heaven being sent from God to lie to him? What does it mean? That God is sending a message to Ahab, a man who worships Baal and believes all things happen by God who makes them happen. So, in grace, God steps down and assumes the role of causing the lies to be told in order to inform Ahab that going to war will result in his death. This was not about how things truly happen in heaven, but a message of mercy communicated in the only way the listener could comprehend that he had been lied to, all in order to save the sinner.

Did Joseph and these various prophets mislead, present things in a false light that caused the other party to draw false conclusions? Yes, they all did, but was it sin? Why or why not?

The commandment says: "You shall not give false testimony against your neighbor" (Exodus 20:16 NIV84).

Were these various deceits bearing false witness against someone, misrepresenting them to another to hurt them?

What is the difference between these falsehoods and the lies told by Simeon and Levi at Shechem? What was the motive for the lies by Simeon and Levi? What was the motive for the deceits told in these stories?

What about truth telling, can truth telling be sinful? Can people tell truths for the purpose of causing harm, injuring another's reputation, for evil purposes? Can it be sin if it is the truth?

For instance, I am a psychiatrist, I have an ethical, moral, and legal obligation to keep people's confidences, including the fact that a person is a patient of mine.

What would the righteous response be for me if I had a patient who was a pastor that came to see me to get help with an addiction, because he is under conviction and wants to get help to overcome. I have never met this pastor in any other capacity than as my patient. But later a member of our class comes up to me and asks "Do you know pastor so and so…" What should I say? Should I say, "Well, my ethical duties and legal obligations as a psychiatrist prohibit me from answering your question"? Should I say, "Yes I do." And then what do I say when they ask where I met him or how I know him? Or do I say, no? What is the answer that protects the reputation of the pastor and does him no harm?

What do you think of this historic comment about the ninth commandment:

> The ninth commandment requires of us an inviolable regard for exact truth in every declaration by which the character of our fellow men may be affected. The tongue, which is kept so little under the control of the human agent, is to be bridled by strong conscientious principles, by the law of love toward God and man. Sons and Daughters of God 64.2
> False-speaking in any matter, every attempt or purpose to deceive our neighbor, is here included. An intention to deceive is what constitutes falsehood. By a glance of the eye, a motion of the hand, an expression of the countenance, a falsehood may be told as effectually as by words. All intentional overstatement, every hint or insinuation calculated to convey an erroneous or exaggerated impression, even the statement of facts in such a manner as to mislead, is falsehood. This precept forbids every effort to injure our neighbor's reputation by misrepresentation or evil surmising, by slander or tale-bearing. Even the intentional suppression of truth, by which injury may result to others, is a violation of the ninth commandment. Sons and Daughters of God 64.3

Does this comment then mean that Joseph was wrong to mislead his brothers, or the various prophets we read about were sinning because they purposely presented things in a light that was designed to mislead?

No—the issue is one of motive, purpose, and emphasis. Notice the comments by EGW are twice connected to anything that is about another person's character, specifically she says, "The ninth commandment requires of us an inviolable regard for exact truth in every declaration by which the character of our fellow men may be affected."

Thus, we are not to bear false testimony in anyway about another person, in any deceptive way that injures another's reputation or impugns their character.

All the examples from Scripture, including Joseph's, was not about injuring another or misrepresenting another, but it was about having others declare themselves, reveal themselves, or have opportunity to overcome and improve themselves, or to protect another. In other words, all the examples given from Scripture were redemptive acts, not selfish acts.

THURSDAY

Read third paragraph, "Joseph then declares…" Is this correct? Was their evil against Joseph necessary for God to deliver them?

It is very much the argument some of the legalistic Jews were making and which Paul refutes in Romans 3:5-8:

> But if our unrighteousness brings out God's righteousness more clearly, what shall we say? That God is unjust in bringing his wrath on us? (I am using a human argument.) 6 Certainly not! If that were so, how could God judge the world? 7 Someone might argue, "If my falsehood enhances God's truthfulness and so increases his glory, why am I still condemned as a sinner?" 8 Why not say—as we are being slanderously reported as saying and as some claim that we say—"Let us do evil that good may result"? Their condemnation is deserved. Romans 3:5-8 NIV84

Here is how I rendered this in the Remedy:

> But if our sickness and selfishness make God's enduring, healing love easier to see and understand, how do we interpret that? Do we say that since our wickedness makes God's goodness easier to see, since our selfishness makes God's love easier to comprehend, since our sickness makes God's Remedy easier to understand, that we are therefore helping God win his case? Is God unjust if he doesn't give us a free pass? (I am using a human argument that fails to understand the basic principles upon which the universe operates.) Absolutely not! If that were the case, how could God allow anyone to experience the consequences of the persistent refusal of his life-giving Remedy? Some who see sin as a legal problem might argue, "If I were to lie in order to help God reveal what truthfulness is and thus increase his glory, I am actually on his side helping him, so why should I suffer the fate of a sinner?" They might as well try claiming–as we are being falsely accused of saying–"It is by doing wrong that the right occurs. It is by doing evil that good results. It is by acting selfishly that love grows." Those who teach such things deserve the consequence of a depraved and destroyed mind, which is the only result of practicing methods at variance with God's. They fail to understand that violations of God's law of love actually damage the sinner and destroy God's image, methods and principles within them.

2022 2Q Genesis—Lesson 13
Israel in Egypt

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

I want to clarify the point of last week's review of several Bible stories where the prophets of God misrepresented the facts, like Nathan with King David and the servant with one ewe lamb, or the prophet with King Ahab. These people represented stories or acted our stories that were not historically, factually true, but were analogies, or object lessons designed to bring the truth of David's or Ahab's situation to light, to get them to see the truth. Thus the stories were not designed to mislead but to enlighten, and as such were not done to bear false witness but to bring a person into the truth.

Why did God lead them to Egypt?

Why didn't God lead them out of Egypt earlier?

When they went to Egypt how large a group were they? 70 men plus their wives, children and servants. So a small group of a few hundred.

Would a group of a few hundred people be a significant threat to the political and military powers of Canaan where they had been residing?

Would a group of a few hundred be a significant drain on resources, water, grazing land, farmland etc. of Canaan?

Would a group of several million be viewed differently?

Is it likely that Jacob's family would have been able to grow unmolested in Canaan into a group of several million?

But by going to Egypt, they are protected by the strongest nation in the world and they thrive and grow until by the time they leave Egypt they are several million strong and instead of being easily destroyed they overcame.

Even when a new Pharoah came to power that didn't honor Joseph, they viewed the Hebrews as assets to grow not threats to destroy and they continued to grow, until they were ready to be led by God out of Egypt.

The last paragraph states, "The fact, however, that Israel 'dwells' in exile, in Egypt as strangers, is in tension with the hope of the Promised Land."

The Bible is not only a historical record of real people who did real things, but an object lesson to teach the plan of salvation. The Promised Land is symbolic of the true Promised Land—the Earth made new. Egypt is symbolic of this world of sin. They were captive in Egypt and God freed them and led them to the Promised Land and we are captive in sin and God frees us and leads us to the heavenly Promised Land.

SUNDAY

Read last two paragraphs, "This truth…" What spiritual lessons do you take from the history of Israel in the Old Testament?

Turn to Monday, the lesson asks us to read Genesis 47, let's do this and ask, what lessons do we learn from this history:

> Genesis 47:1 Joseph went to Pharaoh and told him, "My father and brothers, along with their flocks and herds and all they possess, have come from Canaan and are now in Goshen." 2 He chose five of his brothers and presented them to Pharaoh.
> Gen 47:3 When Pharaoh asked them, "What is your occupation?"
> They answered, "We, your humble servants, have tended livestock our entire lives, just as our fathers did." 4 They also said to him, "We have come to live here in Egypt for a while, because the famine is so severe in Canaan that our flocks and herds have no pasture. So please, grant your humble servants permission to live in Goshen."
> Gen 47:5 Pharaoh said to Joseph, "I am so happy for you that your father and brothers have come to you here, in Egypt. 6 You are my governor over all of Egypt, so settle your father and brothers in the land you deem best for them. Let them live in Goshen if that is what you think is best. And if any of them are competent, skilled and trustworthy like you, put them in charge of my own livestock."
> Gen 47:7 Then Joseph brought his father Jacob in and presented him to Pharaoh. And Jacob blessed Pharaoh. 8 Pharaoh then asked him, "How old are you?"
> Gen 47:9 Jacob told Pharaoh, "I have traveled the road of life for one hundred and thirty years. But my life has been filled with hardship and heartache, and my life journey will not be as long as those of my ancestors." 10 Then Jacob blessed Pharaoh once more and left his presence.
> Gen 47:11 Joseph gave his family—his father and brothers—the best land in Egypt, settling them in the region of Ramses, just as Pharaoh had directed. 12 Joseph provided everything his father and brothers and their families needed, including plenty of food for every member of his father's household.
> Gen 47:13 The famine was so severe that there was no food anywhere in the entire region; the people and animals in both Egypt and Canaan were starving because of the famine. 14 Joseph, by selling the grain, encouraged the people to procure only what they needed, but eventually he collected all the money to be found in Egypt and Canaan, and he secured the money in Pharaoh's palace. 15 With no more money in either Egypt or Canaan, the people came to Joseph and said,

"We are starving and have no more money, so please, give us food or else we will die before your very eyes."
Gen 47:16 Joseph said to them, "Since your money is gone, transfer ownership of your livestock to Pharaoh in exchange for food." 17 So they brought their livestock to Joseph, and he gave them food in exchange for their horses, sheep, goats, cattle and donkeys. In this way, Joseph provided them food sufficient for another year.
Gen 47:18 The people came to Joseph the following year and said, "Lord governor, you well know that we have no money and all our livestock now belong to the crown; all we have left is our land and our bodies. 19 Why should we starve to death and our land become desolate when you have food to feed us? Buy us and our land in exchange for food, and we will be Pharaoh's serfs; we will occupy and work Pharaoh's land in exchange for food. So give us grain that we may live and that our land does not become desolate."
Gen 47:20 So Joseph bought all the land in Egypt for Pharaoh. Every Egyptian was forced to sell their land, because the famine was too severe for them to survive otherwise; and all the land became Pharaoh's. 21 Thus, Joseph made the people across the entire land of Egypt serfs to Pharaoh. 22 However, this did not include the priests—Joseph did not buy their land, because they received a regular allotment of food from Pharaoh, sufficient to sustain them. Thus, the priests did not sell their land.
Gen 47:23 After buying the land, Joseph set these terms with the people: "Now that I have bought you and your land for Pharaoh, here is seed for you to plant and work the land. 24 When the harvest comes, one fifth will be returned to Pharaoh. The other four-fifths will be yours to use for seed to replant your fields and as food for you and your families."
Gen 47:25 Thankful, the people said, "We have found favor in your eyes, and you have saved our lives, lord governor. We will be Pharaoh's serfs."
Gen 47:26 So Joseph made it a law in the land of Egypt that one-fifth of the harvest belongs to Pharaoh. This law remains in effect today. Only the land of the priests did not become Pharaoh's.
Gen 47:27 And so the Israelites settled in Egypt, in the region of Goshen. They prospered, acquired land, flourished, and greatly increased in number.
Gen 47:28 Jacob lived another seventeen years after moving to Egypt. He lived to be one hundred and forty-seven years old. 29 When Israel's death drew near, he called for his son Joseph and said to him, "If you honor me as your father, place your hand beneath my upper thigh and thereby symbolically place yourself under the witness of my future descendants, and promise me that you will love me and act kindly to me in this: Do not bury me in Egypt, 30 but when I sleep in death with my fathers, carry me out of Egypt and bury me where they are buried."
"I will do as you have said," Joseph replied.
Gen 47:31 But Jacob said, "Swear a sacred oath to me that you will do it." So Joseph swore a sacred oath, promising his father that he would do as he said. Relieved, Israel bowed his head in thanks to the Lord while leaning on the top of his staff. (Genesis 47:1-3 REM)

What lessons for us do you see in this story?

- Egypt represents this world of sin
  - Joseph represents Jesus
- In this world of sin there is a famine of truth a famine of love and all humans are starving

- They had to purchase the food to save them with all that they valued.
    - Will we trust Jesus completely as long as we trust something other than Jesus to save us?
    - Jesus is the bread of heaven that nurtures us and gives us life
    - Jesus counsels the people living in the last days with these words: "I counsel you to buy from me gold refined in the fire, so you can become rich; and white clothes to wear, so you can cover your shameful nakedness; and salve to put on your eyes, so you can see" (Revelation 3:18 NIV84).
    - How do we buy from Jesus?
    - When we buy from Jesus do we lose our freedom? Why do we not lose our freedom when we surrender all to Jesus?

The lesson states in regard to the Hebrews moving into the land, "Wisely, too, Pharaoh does not encourage these sojourners to become beggars, living off the largess of their host. He enquires about their 'occupation' (Genesis 47:3) in order that they may adjust better in their new environment."

Is there a spiritual lesson for us today? What is the godly approach to charity or governmental support for those in need? How does Satan pervert the godly and compassionate desire to help others into programs that rather than helping, uplifting, benefitting others actually harm and destroy?

The Christian principle is one of love, of beneficence, of helping others. But in order to help, what is required?

- A person must be in a position to help—they must have the ability, the means, resources to help

But what else is necessary besides this?

- Wisdom, actual understanding the problem, the cause and then what would be helpful. This requires understanding of reality or design law, an accurate diagnosis of the problem—how one is out of harmony with God's design for life and health and then one can understand what it means to help. And when helping one has to differentiate are you focusing on helping a temporal situation or circumstance or helping address eternal life issues, helping them overcome sin in their lives and come to depend on God?

Thinking strategically, if Satan could get people to pursue helping others by implementing methods that benefit something temporary but which harms the person spiritually or eternally would he do it?

Can you think of any examples of people motivated to help others but the actions taken actual harm the person that is supposedly being helped?

Enabling—is when people focus on relieving a consequence or some immediate suffering as a way of helping, but the action actually supports further self-destruction in the one being helped. Such as a person with a cocaine addiction using their rent money for drugs and they call and say they don't have money for rent and you give them money to help.

The story of the Prodigal son illustrates how the wealthy father acted—he did not enable. The son wanted his inheritance, went off into wild living, wasting the resources and ended up, by his own choices living with the pigs eating the pig slop. The father did not send food vouchers, giving him a subsistence fund, put him up in a hotel…does that mean the father didn't love the boy? What would have been the likely outcome had the father done this? What led the boy to realize his problem? While in with the pigs "he came to his senses" and decided to go back to his father. This is what recovered addicts call hitting rock bottom. Until the person comes to the point that they own their problem and are willing to apply themselves toward recovery, any help given is typically used to keep the person in their dysfunction.

When the Bible says that we are to love our neighbors as ourselves, what does it mean?

Do parents with three children and limited income have to prioritize their resources, time, and money to fulfill their responsibility to their own children, even if that means not feeding homeless children in the neighborhood? If resources are limited, is it an act of love to neglect one's own children in order to give to needy children in the community?

If there were a mass-casualty incident in your community and a call for blood donations went out, is it an act of love to donate? But how much? Would it be an act of love to limit the amount of blood you donate? And what about the doctors and nurses providing the care—would their refusal to give blood, because they are working double shifts and need all their energy to care for the wounded, be an act of love?

Did Jesus set limits on the time he spent with the crowds and pull away to spend time with His Father even though there were still sick and hurting people in the crowds? Does this mean Jesus stopped loving the people? Why did Jesus do it?

If Satan can't get good people to choose evil, then as a means of neutralizing their impact for good he will tempt them to over-extend, over-commit in taking on too many good things that will exhaust them, or cause them to become debilitated and thus impairing their work for the Lord.

Is it love for a church to limit the amount of money it gives away for missions or feeding the poor? Is it necessary for the organization to maintain its own health in order to be able to continue ministering over the long term? Is it an act of love to set such limits on charitable giving? Would the church be best served in giving every penny away and go into bankruptcy?

What about a government? Is it an act of love for a government to set limits on whom they help? Like a parent, should the government use its resources for its citizens, or bankrupt itself trying to help all the needy peoples of other countries?

What about setting boundaries at a nation's border that regulates those coming into a country—is that an act of love? What happens to the most vulnerable in a society when unregulated immigration occurs? Do wages rise for the poorest? Would social resources, such as Medicaid, low-cost housing, mental-health treatment programs, social support systems, student aide, etc., be more available for the most needy in our society—or would those systems be overwhelmed and, thus, those with the least resources would find themselves with less opportunity to get assistance to develop and advance?

The first rule of caregiving, or ministry to others, is the health of the caregiver. If the ones providing care, ministry, and service are incapacitated, then those who are in need can't be helped.

What is the difference between the biblical method of helping those in need and the governments method for helping those in need?

- The biblical method is based on love for others and the resources utilized to help those in need come from people who give freely to help and is administered by people who care about others and want to help, or the resources are made available for a person to help themselves, but the person in need must still apply themselves to get the help—think about Ruth and Naomi.
- The human governmental method is to forcibly take from people who don't want to give to help others and then redistribute the money to people without person to person contact, via a check, a deposit into an account, without any application of the self to develop the self.

Do these two methods have different impacts upon both those from whom the resources are derived and those who receive the resources?

What happens in the heart of the giver who gives because they have love in their heart to help another? What happens in the heart of a person who is forcibly taxed when they don't want to give?

What happens to the person who receives the loving care of people reaching out to help them in their distress, showing interest in them and giving to help them? Will that relationship cause a greater likelihood of the one in need growing and developing as a person? Will it give opportunity for the giver to share about Jesus, to invite them into a church community that can teach them the principles of God's kingdom? And if that happens do lives change for the better?

What happens to the person who receives government money to sustain them? Might they feel they are owed? Might they feel that they haven't earned the money and only deserve it because of their dysfunction and therefore in order to avoid the guilt and shame they need to stay dysfunctional? Might their problems get worse? Might they be reluctant to become more functional for fear of losing the financial support?

Consider Ruth and Naomi, they had a real need, but they were not simply given food, but were given the freedom to collect their food without paying for it. Was there a benefit to them in this method? Would they have lost something valuable had their government delivered food or money to them each month?

Why did God give Adam and Eve work to do in Eden?

Human beings were created in the image of God. He is the Creator, and, therefore, we are designed to be creators in our own sphere. We are built to be industrious, creative, builders, designers, and workers!

When we engage ourselves in activities that are productive, whether they result in an income or not, we experience joy, fulfillment, and expansion in our abilities. We grow healthier and more capable as we apply ourselves and expend our energies to useful outlets.

Regular work has multiple benefits:

- Improved self-esteem, from actual accomplishment and achievement
- Better physical health, from increased physical activity and the reduced firing of stress pathways as we experience satisfaction with completing tasks, or fulfilling our life goals, aspirations, and dreams. Additionally, physical activity produces factors in the brain that causes the neurons to stay healthy, improves the ability of neurons to make new connections, thus improving learning and reducing the risk of dementia as we age.
- Development of our brain circuits that control physical movement, which in turn improves our thinking and reasoning. When we engage in physical activity, the striatal pathways in our brain, that initiate motor movement, develop, but these pathways not only initiate physical movement, they also initiate thinking, so as we develop and use these pathways, we improve our ability to initiate thoughts. The cerebellum, which is involved in making our physical movements smooth and coordinated, also helps smooth and coordinate our thoughts. Thus, when we stay physically active, we ultimately improve our thinking processes.
- Blesses and benefits those around us. As we engage in useful activity, it results in blessings in our environment, whether we are creating works of art or music to brighten the heart, or are mopping, vacuuming, and picking up trash to create clean environments, or growing food, all useful activity blesses those around us.
- Reduces burdens on others. By staying active, we reduce the likelihood of our own disability and the need for others to care for us.
- Harmonizes with the law of love, which is the principle of giving. The more we give, the more we receive. In a community, active people are constantly blessing those around them, while simultaneously being blessed from others.
- Reduces the opportunity for temptation. This is perhaps one of the greatest benefits of useful work. Any time spent in usefulness not only produces all the blessings above, but is time unavailable for engagement in destructive and harmful activities. You've heard the old saying, "Idle hands are the devil's workshop." When we are not engaged in useful activities, we are more vulnerable to temptations that result in harm to ourselves and others.

When we divert our energy, our mind, and abilities away from useful work—activities that may or may not generate income, but are beneficial—and instead use the majority of our energies on entertainments, diversions, and indulgence, we undermine our physical and mental well-being. We become internally restless, lose our sense of peace, and often look for actions to change our feeling state, too frequently in alcohol or other substances, or more entertainment and avoidance of real-life responsibilities.

Would Satan want people to be industrious, to develop themselves, to harmonize with the laws of exertion, to become more capable? So what might be a way to destroy people? Through charity, giving to people what they are capable of achieving or providing on their own.

- For even when we were with you, we gave you this rule: "If a man will not work, he shall not eat." (2 Thessalonians 3:10 NIV84).

Is Paul being cruel or loving?

TUESDAY

Jacob blesses Joseph's two sons, elevating them from the position of grandsons to the position of sons in regard to inheritance of the land, why?

Because Joseph takes the position of firstborn, why?

Was Joseph the first son born to Jacob, then why is he first born?

Who was the first son born to Abraham? Ishmael, but who is considered the firstborn, Isaac, why?

Firstborn is about position of authority, inheritance, not about birth order.

Thus, Christ is called firstborn because He takes the position of authority over God's kingdom.

In regard to Jacob and Joseph, why would Jacob consider and even want Joseph to be the firstborn?

- Who was Jacob's chosen wife? Rachel and who was the first child born to her? So in the sense of Jacob's intention, heart, love, Joseph is the one who was first born to the relationship Jacob intended to be his wife.
- What character did Joseph manifest, so in addition to Joseph being the one whom was the firstborn of Jacob's chosen wife, he manifested the character of one who would fulfill the position most admirably.

Was there also a reason beyond this why the two sons of Joseph were elevated? It helped with the object lesson fulfillment of the acted-out theater of the camp and nation around the sanctuary.

Now there are thirteen tribes instead of twelve; twelve camp around the sanctuary with 3 on each side and Levi camping between the other 12 and the sanctuary.

What does this arrangement depict and is there a lesson for us at this time in history?

- The sanctuary symbolically represents both Jesus and God's plan to restore us into unity with Him. It is the acted-out lesson of taking sinners alienated and separated from God and bringing them back into at-one-ment.
- Levi represents the priesthood of believers and the other 12 tribes represents the unconverted peoples of the world.
- Levi stands between the sanctuary and the tribes symbolically representing the church going out from God to witness to the rest of the world the saving grace of God as provided by Christ.

- In Revelation the New Jerusalem has 12 gates with the names of the 12 tribes and this symbolically represents that people from every nation, kindred, language and group, from east, west, north, and south, will be part of the kingdom of God.

WEDNESDAY

Jacob blesses his sons, let's read chapter 49 of Genesis from The Remedy and discuss it:

Genesis 49:1 Then Jacob called his sons before him and said, "Gather around so I can tell you what will happen to your descendants in the days to come.
Gen 49:2 "Gather together and listen, you sons of Jacob; take heed to what your father, Israel, has to tell you.
Gen 49:3 "Reuben, you are my firstborn, recipient of my strength and first manifestation of my procreative power, destined to lead my sons—the greatest in power.
Gen 49:4 But you lost control of yourself and your passion boiled over like water, and so you will not be the greatest and will not lead, for you presumed to usurp your father's bed, and you defiled it—Yes, he went up onto my couch!
Gen 49:5 "Simeon and Levi are brothers—two of a kind; their lives are instruments of violence.
Gen 49:6 May I never be part of their conspiracies, may my name never be connected to their company, for in anger they have murdered innocent men and taken pleasure in maiming and abusing animals.
Gen 49:7 Their merciless anger is a curse, their indiscriminate rage is cruel.
I will break up their violent union by spreading them among the people, and dilute their influence by dispersing them throughout Israel.
Gen 49:8 "Judah, your brothers will praise your power;
your father's stiff-necked enemies will bow before your Son.
Gen 49:9 O Judah, you are like a young lion—with victory, my son, you will rise up;
but you will become like an old lion, stooped and bent down—who will arouse you?
Gen 49:10 But the scepter will not depart from Judah, nor the ruler's staff from your descendants, until Shiloh—the Remedy to sin—comes and cleanses the people.
Gen 49:11 He will be like a donkey of peace tied to the vine of humanity, a colt bound to the chosen branch;
his garments of character will be washed in new wine and his robes of righteousness with blood, like crushed grapes.

Gen 49:12 His eyes will sparkle like wine, his teeth will be whiter than milk.
Gen 49:13 "Zebulun will live by the coast and be a haven for ships, with borders to Sidon.
Gen 49:14 "Issachar is like a strong, hard-working donkey that finds rest between the burdens of life.
Gen 49:15 For the reward of a comfortable home and a peaceful land, your descendants will carry many burdens and be slaves to their own ambitions.
Gen 49:16 "Dan likes to rule over others and will seek to be first among the tribes of Israel.
Gen 49:17 The descendants of Dan will be like a crafty serpent beside the road, like a viper that strikes at the horse's heels and causes the rider to fall backward; their words will mislead and cause the people to stumble backward.
Gen 49:18 "Oh, how I look forward to you healing your creation, O Lord!
Gen 49:19 "Gad, your descendants will not seek conquest, but when attacked by raiders, will attack back to drive them away.
Gen 49:20 "From Asher will come rich foods;
his descendants will provide food fit for kings.
Gen 49:21 "Naphtali, you are like a deer running free, reveling in sharing the beauty of life.
Gen 49:22 "Joseph is my fruitful son—like a fruitful vine near a life-giving well; his branches are like a protective wall.
Gen 49:23 Those over him attacked him;
they shot their arrows of bitterness and resentment to destroy him.
Gen 49:24 But he is like a bow that bends under pressure and then reverses the assault; his power was strengthened by the hand of the Mighty God of Jacob, protected and guided by the Shepherd, the Rock of Israel,
Gen 49:25 helped by your father's God, blessed by Almighty Creator God, blessed with the refreshing rains of heaven, blessed with the fruitfulness of the earth, blessed to produce and sustain life.
Gen 49:26 The blessings of Jacob, your father, are greater than the blessings of my ancestors, enduring like the everlasting hills.
Let all these blessings rest upon Joseph's head—on the brow of the prince who was set apart from his brothers.
Gen 49:27 "Benjamin is like a ravenous wolf—devouring enemies in the morning and dividing plunder in the evening."

Gen 49:28 These are the twelve tribes of Israel and the blessing that their father spoke to them before he died. He gave each one the blessing that was right for them. (Genesis 49:1-28 REM)

Did Jacob predestine his son's and their descendants to certain fates?

Read second paragraph, "The text then goes…" Any evidence of this? Levi and Simeon, cursed by Jacob for Shechem, but Levi's descendants redeemed themselves at Sinai as the only tribe who stood with God and were blessed with the priesthood.

In other words, despite this curse, each person still had freedom to choose what they would do with their lives.

THURSDAY

After Jacob's death, Joseph's brothers come to him worried that Joseph will no retaliate against them, that Joseph only restrained himself out of respect for Jacob.

> When Joseph's brothers saw that their father was dead, they said, "What if Joseph holds a grudge against us and pays us back for all the wrongs we did to him?" 16 So they sent word to Joseph, saying, "Your father left these instructions before he died: 17 'This is what you are to say to Joseph: I ask you to forgive your brothers the sins and the wrongs they committed in treating you so badly.' Now please forgive the sins of the servants of the God of your father." When their message came to him, Joseph wept.
> 18 His brothers then came and threw themselves down before him. "We are your slaves," they said.
> 19 But Joseph said to them, "Don't be afraid. Am I in the place of God? 20 You intended to harm me, but God intended it for good to accomplish what is now being done, the saving of many lives. 21 So then, don't be afraid. I will provide for you and your children." And he reassured them and spoke kindly to them. (Genesis 50:15-21 NIV84)

What does the actions of the brothers reveal? Who do we learn about from their fears? What does Joseph reveal?

2022 Q3 In the Crucible with Christ—Lesson 1 The Shepherd's Crucible

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

Introduction to the Lesson Guide

The Crucified Creator—what does it mean to you that the Creator God is the One who died on the Cross?

Does it inspire or discourage?

In Old Testament times or during the Roman Empire, how do you think a pagan would react if you witnessed to them about your God who was coming to die on the cross?

Would a God who could be killed by humans be considered one worth following? Possibly, as many of the Pharaohs and Caesars considered themselves gods and they died or were killed, so perhaps. But didn't the people primarily value power and it was the powerful gods that people wanted to follow?

Why would powerful gods get followers? Because sin causes fear and we don't want to be afraid; we want to feel safe and secure, so we want a god that can protect us and make us feel safe.

But we also don't want to depend on the whims of the gods, we want to make ourselves feel safe, so if we can have a powerful god that we can influence with our behaviors, our worship, our offerings, our sacrifices to do what we want, then all the better.

So, how might the only true God, who would allow Himself to be beaten and crucified, be received by many?

Why is Jesus, our Creator who was crucified, worthy of your heart, love, devotion, loyalty, praise and worship?

Because it is not merely about power—it is about the character of the one who wields the power. And what does the Cross tell us about the character of the one who wields the power? That we are safe with Him, that He will never use power to force us to do things His way. That for the rest of us power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely, but:

> Christ Jesus:
>
> 6 Who, being in very nature God, > did not consider equality with God something to be grasped,
> 7 but made himself nothing,
> taking the very nature of a servant,

being made in human likeness.
8 And being found in appearance as a man, he humbled himself and became obedient to death—even death on a cross!
9 Therefore God exalted him to the highest place and gave him the name that is above every name, 10 that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, 11 and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father. (Php 2:5–11 NIV84).

Jesus would rather allow His creatures to kill Him than use His power to stop us from doing so. Why? Because God is love and love only exists in freedom. Take freedom away and love is destroyed and rebellion is instilled and if freedom isn't restored then individuality is eroded and people become shadow people, mindless followers acting out of fear rather than love. Or they are robots, puppets, controlled by the one in charge.

What God wants is our love, devotion, loyalty, friendship, and trust and this cannot be achieved by force or might thus the Bible says:

> Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit,' says the LORD Almighty (Zechariah 4:6 NIV84).

It is by presenting truth in love and leaving people free that God wins people to trust. And in trust we open the heart and His Spirit comes in and heals and transforms taking the victory of Christ, the character of Christ, and reproducing it in us.

The third paragraph states, "We can experience only our own griefs, our own sorrows; at the cross He bore "our griefs, and carried our sorrows" (Isaiah 53:4)—all of them."

What does this mean?

What law lens do we understand the sin problem and God's solution for it through?

If we view God's law functioning like human law, imposed rules that require policing, adjudication with a ruling of guilt or innocence, infliction of penalties upon the guilty to punish sin and uphold the integrity of the law, then this idea means that Jesus came as our substitute to take up our legal liability. He came to be tempted like us and overcome the temptations and be sinless so that when He is punished by God for our sins that punishment will not be legally necessary to apply to Jesus' record and therefore there is an unused legal punishment that has been paid to the heavenly authorities that can be transferred and legally applied to the account of those who claim that blood payment.

But this legal application of inflicted punishment and payment of a blood debt to the ruling god is only able to be applied if the innocent party suffers for every single violation of the law. Therefore, all sins, every single act of sin committed by every single person who has ever lived from Adam's fall all they way until the final end of sinners, was placed on Jesus and God punished Jesus for those sins, thus His punishment was much more severe than any other person in history.

Thoughts about this?

First, what kind of being, god or human, would actually choose to use their power to inflict punishment upon an innocent party instead of the guilty? If God's kingdom worked that way, where it is righteous to find a willing innocent person guilty and inflict punishment upon the innocent party in place of the guilty, and then declare that the guilty party is legally innocent, what would it say about that kingdom and those in charge? It would say the kingdom is corrupt, unjust, and perverse and so are those who run the system.

This is why Satan has infected Christianity with the lie that God's law functions like human law, because it results in concepts being taught about God that makes God out to look Satan in character, unforgiving, severe, arbitrary, the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death for sin, a being who is willing to torture and kill the innocent in place of the guilty. And trust in God is undermined while trust in religious ritual, blood payments, legal adjustments and all other types of means to hide us and protect us from this punishing god are advanced.

Consider the doctrines and ideas taught in Christianity that have as their primary function to hide us or protect us from God, such as:

- Covered by the robe of Christ's righteousness so when the Father looks at us He cannot see our wickedness but only the righteousness of Christ that covers our wickedness
- Covered by the blood which can mean the same thing as the robe of righteousness, something obscuring God's view of us, or can mean legally covering over our record and erasing out of the book the record of our sins
- Jesus as mediator standing between us and the Father pleading His blood to the Father—why? Because the Father is angry, wrathful, and His holiness is offended by our sin and Jesus pleads His blood to propitiate and turn aside God's wrath lest God torture and kill us.
- Jesus, Mary and the Saints stand between God and sinners pleading with the Father not to harm us because God is so angry even the pleas of Jesus are not enough

This is all contrary to Scripture, exactly the opposite of the truth, and is the result of accepting the lie that God's law functions like human law.

When we return to design law, that God is Creator and His laws are the laws that He built life to operate upon, we understand that sin breaks God's design for life and results in death unless God fixes the damages and restores His living law into us. Just as the Scripture teaches:

- The wages of sin is death (Romans 6:23)
- Sin when full grown brings forth death (James 1:15)
- The one who sows to the carnal nature from that nature reaps destruction (Galatians 6:8)

God is the source of life and death does not come from God, it comes from sin, from breaking God's design for life and separating ourselves from the source of life.

We are "dead in trespass and sin" we have a terminal sin condition that we inherited from Adam and we cannot cure it.

Without Jesus every single human being would die from this condition, but God so loved the world that He sent His only Son to provide the remedy so that whosever trusts in Him should not die from sin but be restored to everlasting life.

God was in the Son reconciling the world to Himself.

Thus, He took our griefs and carried our sorrows means He took the terminal condition upon Himself and rather than succumbing to it—He "destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light" 2Timothy 1:10.

In the humanity of Jesus Christ He experienced the full weight of what sin causes, the temptations, the fear, the anxiety, the heart-breaking agony and was tempted to use power to save self, to doubt His Father. But with every temptation He chose to trust His Father and act in love.

Thus in Jesus, in the humanity of Jesus, by exercising His human abilities He destroyed the death causing principle that He inherited through Mary and solidified the life causing principle that He inherited through the Holy Spirit into His human character that He developed by His choices as a human being.

Thus, "once he was made perfect he became the source of salvation for all who obey him" (Hebrews 5:9).

Every act of sin committed by every single human being throughout history was not placed upon Jesus and punished by God. Jesus partook of the sin-condition that every human suffers with and that every human is tempted by and Jesus destroyed that condition and established a new sinless humanity becoming the new head of humanity, the second Adam.

Read the sixth paragraph on page 3, "As we look at these people…" How is it true that Jesus went through worse trials and struggles than other people and how is it not true?

- Did Jesus experience the longest time of unjust imprisonment of any human?
- Did Jesus experience the longest time of being physically abused and tortured before dying of the torture of any human in history?
- Did Jesus experience the greatest exploitation by those in power of any person in history?
- Did Jesus experience the greatest betrayal of someone close to him of any person in history?
- Did Jesus experience the greatest childhood trauma and abuse of anyone in history?
- Did Jesus experience the greatest marital conflict, abuse, mistreatment and marital exploitation and abuse of anyone in history?

How did Jesus suffer more?

- He was tempted in ways no other human has been tempted—to use powers we do not have—such as turning a rock into bread.
    - However, this temptation is only different from our temptations in form or degree. It is not difference in type. It was a temptation to use power inappropriately, for selfish means. While no human has the power to turn rock to bread, many humans have been tempted with the abuse of power, of using their abilities or whatever power they have for selfish purposes. So, this temptation while different in the type of power utilized is the same in root, the temptation to misuse one's power. So I would not suggest this temptation by type is what is meant that Jesus suffered more.
- Who would suffer more if they were forced to look into the sun at noon—a person who is already blind or someone with very good vision?
    - Why would the person who has good vision suffer more than the blind person when both have their faces turned toward the sun and both have their eyes forcible opened?
    - Does the sun treat them differently?
    - Who suffers more if working in a sewer, a person who has lost their sense of smell or a person with a very sensitive ability to smell?
    - So, whose mind, heart, conscience is more sensitive to the sinfulness in the world, the suffering, the abuses, the diseases, the sin all around? Who would suffer more and be tormented in soul just walking around this world of sin and seeing and dealing with all they have to deal with, sinless Jesus or any of us?
- We have all heard about Queen Elizabeth of England—if you were told you were never going to see her, speak to her, or spend time with her from this moment onward for the rest of your life—how big of a loss would that be for your personally? How much suffering would you experience? How much heartache, loss of sleep, distress would that cause you?
    - What if you were told you could never see your spouse or child again for the rest of your life, how big of a loss would that be? What makes the difference?
    - So with Jesus, was His temptation to have His relationship with His Father, whom He has been united with in bonds of from all eternity, severed and broken greater than anything we can imagine?
    - Was the temptation for an infinite being to die greater than our temptation?
    - Was the temptation for a omnipresent being to permanently and for all eternity future give up that power, to restrict Himself permanently to a single point in space and time greater than any temptation we will ever suffer?
    - Did Jesus make sacrifices beyond anything any human could ever sacrifice? And we still don't know all that He has sacrificed for us.

Jesus was tempted in every WAY like us, meaning in all the various roots of sin that fear and selfishness exploit. He was tempted:

- With fatigue, hunger, thirst
- To use power for selfish ends
- With bestowal of power or to gain power
- With misquotation of the Bible

- With lies
- With overwork
- With false allegations
- To doubt
- To do for others what they must do for themselves (like solve family disagreements)
- With false worship
- By poverty
- With wealth
- By rejection
- By betrayal
- With fears of all kinds
- With physical pain and torture
- With death

But ultimately Jesus was tempted in a way that none of us will ever have to face. He was tempted alone. He experienced His unity with the Father severed, and He was not empowered or comforted by His Father's presence, but Jesus overcame on His own, in His own strength as a human by faith. He did not experience the peace and security of God's approval that Stephen experienced, but felt abandoned and let go by His Father.

We will NEVER have to go through that. We may face betrayal, accusation, being lied about, falsely arrested, imprisoned, even may even die as martyrs, but no follower of Christ is left to face such temptations alone. God's presence is with them comforting, inspiring, encouraging and strengthening and as the trials and temptations increase for us, God's grace and comforting presence increases all the more. But this was not so for Christ. He tread the winepress alone (Isaiah 63:3).

Jesus was tempted without the supernatural presence and power of His Father to help Him—why?

Because it was the only means whereby God the Father, Son and Holy Spirit could accomplish their joint goal of eradicating the sin's death causing principle from the species human and restoring the life causing principle within the human species.

Remember, Jesus stayed away when Lazarus was sick because had He gone sooner Lazarus would not have died. Jesus is the source of life and it was God's purpose to allow Lazarus to die and then for Jesus to resurrect him to give supreme evidence that He is our Savior and He has power over death and the grave.

Likewise, Jesus could not have died as our Savior if the Father, who is the source of life, did not let Him go, did not sever their connection. The abandonment of Jesus by the Father during the crucifixion was not an infliction of punishment, it was not the Father being so offended with some basket of sins dumped on His Son that He just couldn't stand it and had to leave. No! It was the purposeful action of our God of love to choose to break their eternal connection so that Jesus could complete the joint mission of destroying the sin infection by dying as a human and restoring the law of love into the humanity that He had taken upon Himself. And thus Jesus arose with a new purified and perfected humanity and becomes the source of salvation for all who trust Him (Hebrews 5:9).

Praise God for Jesus! We will never have to go through what He went through. But we will have our own crucible, our own confrontation with temptation, with fear, with selfishness and will suffer and have to die to self. But we will never have to do it alone. Through every trial, struggle, temptation, if we choose to open the heart to God, to seek His presence, to fix our eyes on Christ, to trust Him He will be there with us, encouraging, guiding, strengthening and comforting until He finishes His work in us and frees us from all defects of His design for life.

SUNDAY

The lesson's focus is on the 23rd Psalm with Jesus being our Shepherd.

The lesson asks "What does the Shepherd do to care for His sheep?"

Let's go through the 23rd Psalm verse by verse and explore the truth God has for us there:

1. The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want.
    - God is watching out for me and I don't need to worry about where my support will come from. I can trust Him to provide all that my soul needs.

2. He makes me lie down in green pastures; He leads me beside the still waters
    - After we put our lives into the Shepherd's hands He will provide soul nurturance, support, love, comfort, sustenance to strengthen us, a safe harbor, a place to grow strong, to recover, to mature.

3. He restores my soul; He leads me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
    - What is the soul? What does it mean to have it restored? He will heal our inner self, cleanse our consciences, and restore our individuality
    - How does Jesus do this?
    - He leads down what paths? What are the paths of righteousness? Is this a legal path, a path of claiming the legal righteousness of Jesus to our account so God declares us to be righteous while we remain unrighteous? Or is this a path that restores our soul to righteousness? That we actually become the righteousness of God (2Cor 5:21)?
    - He leads us in the path which restores us to righteousness, the path that makes us right inside, like He originally intended, so that He and His ways will be glorified in our lives
    - What does it mean for His name's sake? What does God's "name" mean in Scripture? It means His character. So, what is the message here? How is it for God's character's sake that He leads us in the paths of righteous for the restoring of our souls?
    - Does this remind you of any other passages in Scripture?

"Therefore say to the house of Israel, 'This is what the Sovereign LORD says: It is not for your sake, O house of Israel, that I am going to do these things, but for the sake of my holy name, which you have profaned among the nations where you have gone. 23 I will show the holiness of my great name, which has been profaned among the nations, the name you have profaned among them. Then the nations will know that I am the LORD, declares the Sovereign LORD, when I show myself holy through you before their eyes. 24 " 'For I will take you out of the nations; I will gather you from all the countries and bring you back into your own land. 25 I will sprinkle clean water on you, and you will be clean; I will cleanse you from all your impurities and from all your idols. 26 I will give you a new heart and put a new spirit in you; I will remove from you your heart of stone and give you a heart of flesh. 27 And I will put my Spirit in you and move you to follow my decrees and be careful to keep my laws (Ezekiel 36:22-27 NIV84).

- What does God do to magnify His name? He cleanses the people from sin. He destroys out of the hearts of people sinfulness, fear, selfishness and restores His living law of love into their hearts and minds. He makes them righteous! He doesn't declare them righteous while they remain unrighteous, He transforms, heals, renews, and restores them to righteousness.

  And this is how He magnifies His name—how does this magnify the name or character of God?

  Because God is love. God is the source of life and health all of which operates upon the law of love. And God demonstrates through us the combined power of love and truth when applied to hearts and minds heals, that His ways actually restore to righteousness.

  Consider this metaphor—a person is dying of terminal cancer. They are in the late stages, deformed, decrepit and emaciated. And a doctor comes along and provides them a treatment that cures the cancer. They are restored to perfect vibrant health.

  Whose name or reputation is magnified in doing this, the sick dying person or the one who provides the cure?

4. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; For You are with me; Your rod and Your staff, they comfort me.
   - What is this about? Is this the valley of death or the shadow of death? Is it primarily about facing what we call death, the first death, or about something else?
   - What is the context? It is about our Shepherd leading us in the path of righteousness to restore our souls. It is about delivering us from sin and in order to be delivered from sin what must each of us go through?
   - The Shepherd, after providing for us, strengthening us, leads us in the path that will restore us to righteousness, and that path to righteousness is through the valley that feels like we are going to die. It is the valley in which self surrenders all to Jesus and is crucified, the valley which frees us from the domination of fear and selfishness.

"I have been crucified with Christ and I no longer live, but Christ lives in me. The life I live in the body, I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me" (Galatians 2:20 NIV84).

"We were therefore buried with him through baptism into death in order that, just as Christ was raised from the dead through the glory of the Father, we too may live a new life." (Romans 6:4 NIV84).

- Our Shepherd, after providing the spiritual nurturance we need to comfort us, recover and restore us to strength, leads us in the path of righteousness to restore our souls. And that path leads us to face our own sinfulness, our own selfishness, our own carnal nature. And we will be faced with the feeling of dying inside, the valley of the shadow of death in which we die to selfishness and sin, die to the old carnal life. But our Shepherd's rod of love and staff of truth is there to comfort us and guide us and protect us so we will not fear evil, but with our Shepherd confront it and die to it.
- And our Shepherd brings us into this valley over and over and over again until we come through it and stop running out of it. The addict who has hit rock bottom and prays to Jesus for deliverance, will find comfort, will find help, a green pasture and still waters, and forgiveness from sin, the guilt and shame taken away. There will be strengthening, but then that person will be led into the valley where they will face strong temptation and many will turn back to their substance to comfort themselves, to take away the bad feeling of dying to self. It is only when thy cling to Jesus and go through the valley and refuse to turn back to their old substances or whatever their historic sin pattern was and truly die to self that they experience the victory. And thus Jesus will lead us through this over and over again until we get the victory.

5 You prepare a table before me in the presence of my enemies; You anoint my head with oil; My cup runs over.

- Having died to self, having the righteousness of Christ reproduced with in us, having new hearts and right spirits, having our souls restored, we will face many enemies. Enemies of God in our communities, families, and churches, but we will not despair because God prepares a table for us filled with everything we need—the unleavened bread, the new wine that nurtures our healed souls despite the attacks of our enemies. And He anoints our minds with the oil of His Holy Spirit to enlighten, inspire, comfort, encourage, transform, and strengthen. We are never abandoned or let go by our Shepherd. Our cup of salvation, of love, of grace, of blessings from our Shepherd overflows.

6 Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; And I will dwell in the house of the LORD Forever. (Psalm 23:1-6 NKJV)

- Following our Shepherd, living in harmony with Him and His design laws, we grow in goodness and live out His principles experiencing His mercy for the rest of our earthly > lives and we are living stones built together into a house for the Lord and thus we will dwell for all eternity in God's heavenly home.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Imagine the…" What is the key to staying on the path of righteousness?

We to fix our eyes upon Christ, modeling ourselves after Him, allowing Christ to be the model of perfection and the full revelation of God's character to us.

Then, in that love relationship with Jesus, we choose, in governance of ourselves, to do that which we know is right and healthy for us in any given situation and we trust Jesus with how things turn out.

We stop trying to control the future; we stop trying to control others and what others think of us, and focus on living in harmony with God and bringing glory to Him in all that we do.

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses on the valley of the shadow of death and asks, "How do you think the sheep ended up in the valley? Do you think the sheep went there on their own, or did the Shepherd lead the sheep that way Himself?"

Does it matter what we understand that valley to be? If we think this is the valley of temporal death, then there are all kinds of reasons a person could be in that valley—some lead themselves there by choosing self-destructive actions, some are tempted by God's enemy to go there like Samson, some are taken there against their will like Stephen and Paul, some are taken their by age or disease like King Hezekiah.

But if we understand the valley isn't about temporal death, but the shadow of death, the valley in which we die to selfishness and sin then who takes us there?

Does Hebrews 2:14-15 have any bearing on this?

> Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil—and free those who all their lives were held in slavery by their fear of death. (Hebrews 2:14–15 NIV84).

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Throughout our lives…" What is the world's way of dealing with enemies?

Do we judge our enemies and condemn them and seek to punish them whether in courts of law or socially or politically or in acts of violence or war against them?

What is God's way?

Do we judge what is wrong by a different standard, by the standards of eternal health, thus we diagnose the problem that infects the hearts of our enemies and we seek to bring them God's eternal healing solution and if that happens, what happens to our enemy? They become our friend—listen to this from 2Corinthians 5:16-20:

> "No longer, then, do we judge anyone by human standards. Even if at one time we judged Christ according to human standards, we no longer do so. Anyone who is joined to Christ is a new being; the old is gone, the new has come. All this is done by God, who through Christ changed us from enemies into his friends and gave us the task of making others his friends also. Our message is that God was making the whole human race his friends through Christ. God did not keep an account of their sins, and he has given us the message which tells how he makes them his friends. Here we are, then, speaking for Christ, as though God himself were making his appeal through us. We plead on Christ's behalf: let God change you from enemies into his friends!" (2 Co 5:16–20 GNT).

This is why we are to love our enemies and pray for those who mistreat us so that the kingdom of God can advance.

THURSDAY

Bottom green section asks, "What evidence is there from your own knowledge of God that can illustrate the certainty that His goodness and unfailing love pursue us?

FRIDAY

Read top section, which is a quote from Messages to Young People:

> "Those who are finally victorious will have seasons of terrible perplexity and trial in their religious life; but they must not cast away their confidence, for this is a part of their discipline in the school of Christ, and it is essential in order that all dross may be purged away. The servant of God must endure with fortitude the attacks of the enemy, his grievous taunts, and must overcome the obstacles which Satan will place in his way...
> "But if you keep looking up, not down at your difficulties, you will not faint in the way, you will soon see Jesus reaching His hand to help you, and you will only have to give Him your hand in simple confidence, and let Him lead you. As you become trustful, you will become hopeful…

> "You will find help in Christ to form a strong, symmetrical, beautiful character. Satan cannot make of none effect the light shining forth from such a character… God has given us His best gift, even His only-begotten Son, to uplift, ennoble, and fit us, by putting on us His own perfection of character, for a home in His kingdom." (MYP 63-64)

Well a little over a week ago, before I read the lesson for this week, I woke early in the morning with something on my mind that I couldn't let go of. I turned over and tried to go back to sleep, but I couldn't, these thoughts kept going through my mind. So I got up went to my office and wrote out what I was dreaming/thinking about in about 20 minutes and it is the blog posted for this week. But after reading this quotation from Friday's lesson, I thought it would be appropriate to share it with you in class today:

Look to Jesus

When the storms are raging, look to Jesus
When the boat is sinking, look to Jesus
When the tides are rising, look to Jesus
For Jesus is always there

When the cupboards are bare, look to Jesus
When your friends don't care, look to Jesus
When life is unfair, look to Jesus
For Jesus always cares

When the pain just won't stop, look to Jesus
When your heart aches from loss, look to Jesus
When all hope seems lost, look to Jesus
For Jesus is always there

When guilt crushes the soul, look to Jesus
When shame takes its toll, look to Jesus
When you feel all alone, look to Jesus
For Jesus always cares

When tempted with doubt, look to Jesus
When fear is all about, look to Jesus
When you don't know the route, look to Jesus
For Jesus is always there

When you don't know why, look to Jesus
When you can only cry, look to Jesus
When you just want to die, look to Jesus
For Jesus always cares

When you feel beaten and low, look to Jesus

When trust just won't grow, look to Jesus
When you don't know where to go, look to Jesus
For Jesus is always there

When you don't know the choice, look to Jesus
When you don't have a voice, look to Jesus
When life has no joys, look to Jesus
For Jesus always cares

Always look to Jesus, for Jesus saves
Jesus cares, and
Jesus is always there

Building update: We have been delayed due to HVAC issues. The city wouldn't issue permits without an HVAC engineer drawing plans. We hired an HVAC engineer who over engineered the plans resulting in the company bidding the job making a bid inordinately more expensive than our space requires. So at this time we are having a second engineer redo the plans to get a more appropriate bid.

2022 3Q In the Crucible with Christ—Lesson 2
The Crucibles that Come

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read memory text: "Dear friends, do not be surprised at the painful trial you are suffering, as though something strange were happening to you. But rejoice that you participate in the sufferings of Christ, so that you may be overjoyed when his glory is revealed" (1 Peter 4:12–13 NIV84).

Why do painful trials come?

- We live in a war zone with an enemy who hates God, Jesus, and all who are loyal to Jesus, and wants to hurt us.
- There are evil people who intentionally do evil and the innocent suffer.
- We live in a world in which all of nature is infected with the law of sin and death. God's life-giving glory no longer bathes Earth in its sustaining rays and thus all kinds of genetic, physiological, and random events happen that injure and harm. And we are physically slowly decaying toward the first death.
- As consequence of our own choices—either sinful or not. For instance, going skiing and taking a run beyond one's skill level and losing control and breaking a leg is a trial, but it wasn't because of evil people attacking, it wasn't because of sinful choices, it was because of sin in the world and our bodies being frail and subject to such injuries and our choice to over-estimate our ability. But this wasn't a sinful choice.
- God disciplines those He loves. God brings events to bear upon us via His grace for our benefit that are designed to help us, refine us, purify us, mature us, and ultimately settle us into the truth so that we cannot be moved.
- As a witness to our spiritual wellness and God's kingdom—Daniel, the 3 worthies, Stephen, Job…all of these suffered because of evil forces attacking and God permitting it to reveal truth to others and bring others out of sin-sickness into His kingdom.

But regardless of the reason for the trial "we know that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose" (Romans 8:28 NIV84).

Not all things are good, not all trials are good, not all trials are brought by the goodness of God, but in all difficulties and trials, for those who trust God, God works for the good, including for the strengthening of their faith, the growth in their trust and wisdom and maturity.

But, we must not fall into the trap of relegating all trials in life to one or two categories. It can be harmful to do so, can anyone think how?

So, with all of these reasons in mind, why should we rejoice to participate in the suffering of Christ?

But what type of suffering is the type Jesus experienced?

Peter himself tells us at the opening of this chapter, in 1 Peter 4:1-2, just ten verses before our memory text Peter writes the following; consider what type of suffering Peter is talking about:

> "Therefore, since Christ suffered for us in the flesh, arm yourselves also with the same mind, for he who has suffered in the flesh has ceased from sin, that he no longer should live the rest of his time in the flesh for the lusts of men, but for the will of God" (1Peter 4:1-2 NKJV).

What does this mean?

What type of suffering should we count it joy to share it? The suffering that is a result of overcoming sin, that occurs when we say no to temptation, when we refuse to sin, or when we are repentant and healing from some sin, for it is in this suffering that we gain victory, maturity, solidify our trust in God, overcome our own weaknesses, witness the kingdom of God and are freed from the control of fear and selfishness.

Consider a person struggling with smoking. They have come under the conviction that they need to quit. They surrender to Jesus and choose to quit. And for a short time they experience cravings, temptations to smoke, but if they say no to the cravings, their flesh suffers, but they are done with smoking.

But does the person continue to suffer if they remain faithful to Jesus or does the suffering stop and joy come? Do they experience greater freedom and health, not just physically but emotionally and spiritually?

Consider every single temptation and how when we choose to say no to the temptation, there is often an initial suffering in our flesh, in our human emotions, in our selfish nature, but if we cling to Jesus, if we stay with Him, something changes, the longings for the earthly fade and we gain ever increasing freedom from whatever our weakness was.

Read second paragraph, "A crucible is defined…" Does this bring any Bible text to mind?

> "See, I will send my messenger, who will prepare the way before me. Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come," says the LORD Almighty. But who can endure the day of his coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver" (Malachi 3:1-3 NIV84).

What does this text mean? What is this text talking about? Who are the Levites? The priesthood of believers, and what is being described? The cleansing of the people who believe in Jesus. When does this text indicate this cleansing takes place? When Jesus comes to His temple. What temple?

When Jesus was on Earth, did He go to the temple in Jerusalem and cleanse it? What did His driving out of those frauds from the temple courts do? Did it complete the plan of salvation? Did it cleanse the people from sin? No, the cleansing of a physical building from people who are misrepresenting God does not remove sin or fix the sin problem. Christ's actions at the physical temple in Jerusalem was an acted out lesson, it demonstrated theatrically His real mission.

Remember the temple in Jerusalem was merely a stage for God's plan of salvation to be acted out so the people could learn the larger reality of what sin has done and how God through Christ redeems us from sin. But the stage and the play itself were not the reality and had no saving power—it was all to teach the reality of Jesus who is the Lamb of God slain from the foundation of the world and who has the saving power.

So, what did Jesus' actions in cleansing the temple 2000 years ago teach?

One Bible commentary describes it beautifully, this is from The Desire of Ages:

> In the cleansing of the temple, Jesus was announcing His mission as the Messiah, and entering upon His work. That temple, erected for the abode of the divine Presence, was designed to be an object lesson for Israel and for the world. From eternal ages it was God's purpose that every created being, from the bright and holy seraph to man, should be a temple for the indwelling of the Creator. [Understand the reality—we are living beings created by God to be living temples where God dwells by His Spirit. The temple in Jerusalem was only theater, just a teaching tool, to teach the true reality. The law in that system was in a box in the Most Holy Place, but in the New Covenant it is to be written in our hearts. Why? Because God's law is a living law, it is the law of love, the protocols life is built to operate upon. It is not imposed rules like humans make and cannot operate or function written upon stone. It only functions in living beings, thus we are the repository of God's law. But when Adam sinned and replaced God's law with the law of sin and death, fear and selfishness, God wrote a distilled version upon stone as a diagnostic tool, and Jesus came to restore His living law back into the species human.] Because of sin, humanity ceased to be a temple for God. Darkened and defiled by evil, the heart of man no longer revealed the glory of the Divine One. But by the incarnation of the Son of God, the purpose of Heaven is fulfilled. God dwells in humanity, and through saving grace the heart of man becomes again His temple. [In the person of Jesus, God's living law of love is restored into humanity. Jesus becomes the connected link between heaven and earth.] God designed that the temple at Jerusalem should be a continual witness to the high destiny open to every soul. [That temple is an object lesson for what God wants to achieve in you and me, to cleanse us from sin and write His law in us.] But the Jews had not understood the significance of the building they regarded with so much pride. [And far too many Christians don't understand it either.] They did not yield themselves as holy temples for the Divine Spirit. The courts of the temple at Jerusalem, filled with the tumult of unholy traffic, represented all too truly the temple of the heart, defiled by the presence of sensual passion and unholy thoughts. In cleansing the temple from the world's buyers and sellers, Jesus announced His mission to cleanse the heart from the defilement of sin,—from the earthly desires, the selfish lusts, the evil > habits, that corrupt the soul. "The Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to His temple, even the Messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold, He shall come, saith the Lord of hosts. But who may abide the day of His coming? and who shall stand when He appeareth? for He is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' soap: and He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver: and He shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver." Malachi 3:1-3. (The Desire of Ages 161)

This commentator specifically connects Malachi's description of Jesus coming to His temple with the cleansing of the sanctuary which is described as cleansing the people from sin.

Is this cleansing a legal adjustment or an actual healing of hearts and minds?

Where does sin occur, in record books or in people? From where does sin need to be removed if we sinners are to be reconciled to God, historical records or our hearts and minds?

But what happens to the healing of our hearts and minds if we believe salvation is about getting our records cleansed rather than our hearts cleansed?

Do you see how Satan tricks some, like the Pharisees in Christ's day, or the church of the Dark Ages into legal accounting of sin rather than healing of the soul from sin? They develop, as Paul described, a form of godliness but with no power. A system of legal accounting of acts and deeds seeking legal pardon, erasure of records, but no healing of hearts and minds is a counterfeit to the gospel of Jesus Christ.

In reality, when the heart and mind is cleansed the history of sin in that person's life doesn't need to be erased, it needs to be retained because that history stands in contrast to who they are in their restored righteousness and they become powerful witnesses to the power of God to cleanse and redeem. But if we erase the history of sin, then we lose the significance and power of what Christ has done for us. If in eternity future we all view each other like we view Gabriel, sinless and loyal beings, but we have no recollection, no memory of our past, no realization of what we have been healed, delivered, and saved from, we undermine the significance of God's grace, Christ's sacrifice, and the power of God to heal and save sinners.

SUNDAY

The lesson highlights that Peter is reminding believers not to be surprised when trials and struggles come, to understand such difficulties are not foreign or alien to the Christian journey but an expected part of it.

Why are trials and difficulties an expected part of the Christian journey?

Because once there is brokenness of any kind there are no pain free options!

We have all been injured, wounded, broken in some way by sin and the restoration to health, to wellness, is a painful process, but "painful" is not the same has harmful.

One of Satan's traps is tricking people into choosing what feels good rather than what is good.

Read last paragraph, "Many of us…" This is well said. Feelings are unreliable in determining truth. Feelings are signals to us that something is going on, but the feelings themselves cannot tell us whether what is going on is good or bad, only the truth can tell us that.

For instance, if you feel pain does that mean something good or bad is happening? The feeling of pain cannot determine that, only the truth can.

If you are experiencing pain because you are being stabbed then what is happing is bad (the pain is still good because it alerts you that something bad is happening), but being stabbed is not bad because it is painful, it is bad because it is harmful. If you were for some reason numb and being stabbed and therefore didn't feel pain it wouldn't make the stabbing good, it is still bad to be stabbed.

Conversely, if you feel pain while removing a thorn from your finger, that pain does not mean something bad is happening. If you refused to remove the thorn in order to avoid the associated pain, it would not be good.

I have patients whose entire lives are one long history of chaos, dysfunctional relationship after dysfunctional relationship, poor choices in school, work, and often various substance use problems. And for many of these people the root process is that they have developed as their primary mode of decision-making doing what feels best right now—avoiding anything that feels bad and doing that which feels good.

Until they learn the reality that once there is brokenness there are not pain free options they will continue to live chaotic lives. Once they learn this and stop trying to avoid pain and instead commit themselves to choosing to do that which is healthiest even if painful, they begin healing.

MONDAY

Read 1Peter 5:8:

> "Be self-controlled and alert. Your enemy the devil prowls around like a roaring lion looking for someone to devour" (1 Peter 5:8 NIV84).

What does this text mean to you?

Read first paragraph, "Have you ever watched a hungry lion…" What do you think? Does Peter say that Satan is prowling around in the same was as a hungry lion?

He certainly says that the devil is prowling around looking for someone to devour, but Peter makes one very important and critical distinction between a real lion seeking prey and Satan seeking prey. It reveals the method that Satan uses to capture his prey, what is the distinction?

Do real lions roar when they are stalking their prey? Why not? The prey will run away and they will lose their catch.

So, why does Peter describe Satan as roaring when stalking his prey?

Because it exposes Satan's primary method in this world of sin and that is to incite fear. What does fear do to people?

Fear and love are antagonistic, like a seesaw. As one goes up the other goes down. The more fearful we are the stronger the temptation to act selfishly and less capable of both thinking and acting in love. The more we love God and others the less fearful we are and the better we can think and act in harmony with God's law of love.

So, Satan roars to incite fear and lure people to leave the path of love and enter the path of survival-of-the-fittest, of protecting self, of justifying Satan's methods as a means to protect self and even claim it is to benefit others or perhaps the institution.

Why did Caiaphas recommend crucifying Jesus?

> "You do not realize that it is better for you that one man die for the people than that the whole nation perish" (John 11:50 NIV84).

What is the stated motive? We need to protect the nation—which could mean the people or the institution. After all, they knew they were God's chosen people to bring the promises of God to the world. They had an obligation to make sure the nation survived. It seemed only right to them to do whatever was necessary to protect the nation, even using coercion and force to protect the nation, even fraud, perjury, and murder. God's nation and people must be protected!

Have we seen this same line of thinking in Christian history? What about in the Dark Ages?

What about during COVID? Did we see some Christian organizations justify mandates, terminating employees, coercing consciences because it was right to do so in order to protect the institution? The institution is called by God to take the gospel to the world, it has a mission, it must be protected.

What is the motive? Is it love for people or is it fear—fear of government sanctions, shutdowns, loss of funding? Is it fear for self of getting a disease or being infected by others? Satan roars and people sacrifice truth and the principles of God's kingdom in order to protect themselves.

We will see more and more threats of various kinds before Jesus comes. These threats will inflame fear and are designed to undermine thinking and get us to choose the methods of this world rather than the methods of God.

What do you think of the description in the lesson that describes Satan's desire to kill and says "Death, suffering, and the twisting and perverting of morals and values are everywhere. We cannot escape seeing the work of Satan."

Do you agree that the death and suffering and torment and abuse we are seeing in society are from Satan and sin?

This is correct—the Bible is clear, Satan is a murderer from the beginning (John 8:44). Jesus came destroy him who holds the power of death that is the devil (Hebrews 2:14).

So, we agree that pain, suffering, death come from Satan, correct?

Then why do many Christians teach that one day God will use His power to inflict torture, pain, suffering and death upon the wicked to make them pay for their unrepentant sin?

This idea, that God is the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death for sin is a lie of Satan that is rooted in believing the lie that God's law functions like human law.

As long as people believe God's law is imposed rules they cling to the idea that justice requires God to use power to inflict punishment for rule-breaking and the minimum punishment is eternal death.

We are not saying the wicked will not suffer for their unrepentant sin, they will, but from where does the pain and suffering come? Does it come from Jesus who uses power to inflict pain and suffering upon people that they would not otherwise reap, or does it come from unremedied and unremoved sin in their lives when God let's them go to reap what they have chosen?

The Bible is clear, sin when full grown brings forth death (James 1:15) and those who sow to the carnal nature from that nature reap destruction (Galatians 6:8). God is the source of life, not the source of death. Sin is the cause and source of pain, suffering, and death.

But some people did more wickedness in this life than others, like Stalin and Hitler, who did more evil than a 20 year old college student who never accepted Jesus and died by a drug overdose. So, some teach, it would be unfair for the college student to suffer the same punishment as Hitler and Stalin. Therefore, it is argued, that because God is fair, God will perform a miracle to torture some for many days making them suffer in ways that only an infinite powerful God could in order to make them pay for their sins before He kills them.

If this description is true,

- What kind of being is God?
- What is the problem with sinning?

- From where does death come?
- If God restrained Himself and didn't use His power to inflict suffering and death then what happens to the wicked in this scenario?
- If the problem with sin is the punishment inflicted by God then from what or who do we need to be protected?

Read last paragraph, "Peter writes these words…" What do you think of this idea that Jesus has beaten Satan and Satan is a defeated foe?

It is true that when Jesus was here on Earth, Jesus was victorious over Satan, and that Jesus has won the ultimate victory. But if Satan is defeated why is he still on the playing field?

When we defeated Germany and Japan in WWII—was the war still ongoing? Or with their defeat did the war stop?

Jesus absolutely defeated Satan; this is not in dispute—but does that mean the war has stopped? Why not? If Satan is defeated why does the war continue?

> "For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ" (2Corinthians 10:3-5 NIV84).

Does this give us a clue as to why the war continues if Satan is defeated?

Where is this war being fought? In hearts and minds. Satan uses weapons of lies, coercion, physical might, intimidation, fear, etc.

What is necessary from God's perspective to win the war?

Can God win the war by eliminating Satan from existence? Why or why not?

What does God want from us? Our love, trust, devotion, loyalty, friendship—can this be achieved through force, coercion, threats of punishment? Can it be achieved through power over others? Can it be achieved by God forcibly rewriting our hearts and minds to be loyal?

What is necessary for God to win? For everyone to be fully persuaded in their own mind (Romans 14:5). For each person to be settled either fully into the truth that they cannot be moved or fully into the lies that no amount of truth or love will have any redeeming impact upon them.

God wins when every single savable person has been healed and restored from fear and selfishness.

Satan was defeated by Jesus Christ. As a human being, Jesus overcame every temptation, eliminated the death causing principle from the humanity He inherited through Mary and developed a perfect sinless mature human character restoring God's living law into the humanity He assumed.

Thus in the person of Jesus Christ the species human was saved, redeemed, and not merely restored to God's original intention for it in Adam, but in Jesus humanity has been elevated to the throne of God. Jesus sits upon the throne.

At the cross, Jesus defeated Satan, saved the species human in His own humanity, provided the remedy for every other human who chooses to partake by faith of what Jesus has provided. And Jesus solidified the unfallen beings in heaven in their loyalty. As Scripture says,

> "For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross" (Colossians 1:19-20 NIV84)

The war continues on earth, but not in the rest of the universe. After the cross Satan was restricted to planet earth, why? Because the rest of the intelligences in God's universe were settled, they saw Satan exposed at the cross as a liar and murderer and none of them would listen to his lies any more. Thus he was restricted by reality, by the truth revealed by Jesus doing its work in the hearts of the loyal angels.

The only place Satan continues to wage war is on this planet where billions continue to believe his lies. And the war continues because the only way for God to win people is through truth, presented in love, leaving people free to decide for themselves.

But it will not continue forever. Events are unfolding right now that are bringing more and more people to decision points in which they must decide how they will treat others. And it is how we treat others, either by living out God's law of truth presented in love while leaving others free, such that we would protect others, sacrifice self for others, allow ourselves to be mistreated rather than coerce the consciences of others, OR we embrace the methods of Satan and the ends justify the means and we will use force, coercion, mandates, threats, censorship, misinformation, manipulation, to pressure people to do what we think they should.

COVID was a warmup and preparation for the final movements. A philosophy was introduced and embraced by many that in order to save lives it is okay to violate morals and ethics and coerce healthy people to do things they don't want to do.

This philosophy is satanic and when embraced and practiced hardens the hearts of people and solidifies them into the camp of God's enemy. They will become like Caiaphas and do just like the Jews did 2000 years ago, kill the innocent to protect what they think is more important than the innocent.

TUESDAY

The lesson asks us to read Romans 1:18:

> "The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness" (Romans 1:18 NIV84).

What is the wrath of God?

This is from a Bible commentary entitled Hard Sayings of the Bible published by Intervarsity Press. It is specifically commenting on Romans 1:18:

> In some sense, God's wrath is built into the very structure of created reality. In rejecting God's structure and establishing our own, in violating God's intention for the creation and substituting our own intentions, we cause or own disintegration…
>
> The human condition, which Paul describes in Romans 1:18-32, is not something caused by God. The phrase "revealed from heaven" (where "heaven" is a typical Jewish substitute word for "God") does not depict some kind of divine intervention, but rather the inevitability of human debasement which results when God's will, built into the created order, is violated. Since the created order has its origin in God, Paul can say that the wrath of God is now (constantly) being revealed "from heaven." It is revealed in the fact that the rejection of God's truth (Rom 1:18-20), that is, the truth about God's nature and will, leads to futile thinking (Rom 1:21-22), idolatry (Rom 1:23), perversion of God-intended sexuality (Rom 1:24-27) and relational-moral brokenness (Rom 1:28-32).
> The expression "God gave them over" (or "handed them over"), which appears three times in this passage (Rom 1:24,26,28), supports the idea that the sinful perversion of human existence, though resulting from human decisions, is to be understood ultimately as God's punishment which we, in freedom, bring upon ourselves.
> In light of these reflections, the common notion that God punishes or blesses in direct proportion to our sinful or good deeds cannot be maintained… God loves us with an everlasting love. But the rejection of that love separates us from its life-giving power. The result is disintegration and death. (Kaiser, W., et al., Hard Saying of the Bible, Intervarsity Press, 1996, p. 542-543).

This is absolutely brilliantly stated and correct. This is understanding the Bible as God intended, with God as Creator and God's law as design law upon which life is built to operate. Breaking God's law breaks the protocols of life and result in ruin and death.

When one believes the lie that God's law functions like human law, then one falsely concludes justice is the infliction of punishment and wrath is God using power to torture and kill for sin. In that false model, Jesus must plead His blood as a legal payment to the angry and wrathful deity in order to propitiate away the wrath so that that god won't kill us.

But the truth is that God's wrath is exactly what Jesus experienced upon the cross—God letting go. God let Jesus go on the cross so that Jesus could experience exactly what Jesus chose—to complete His mission to eradicate the sin condition, destroy death and bring life and immortality to light and provide salvation for all who trust Him. And God lets the wicked go in the end to reap what they have chosen to be separated from the source of life and the result is ruin and death.

WEDNESDAY

The bottom green section asks, "If God were going to refine and test you today, how might He do it? What actions could you take now to deal with this before God would need to take drastic steps with you, as He did with Israel?"

What does this question lead you to consider? Do you think, "What sin in my life needs to be overcome or removed?"

But did the question actually ask that? I like this question because it asks about God refining us, does that lead us to think differently than what sin needs to be eliminated?

If we think of sin in our lives what is the typical focus? Isn't it usually on deeds, behaviors, and acts?

But from where do all acts of sin originate? From something amiss in the heart, from lack of love and trust, from fear and selfishness.

This is why Paul says, "everything that does not come from faith is sin" (Romans 14:23 NIV84).

The issue isn't primarily about the behavior itself, it is about the heart attitude that leads to the behavior. Are we motived by love and trust or by fear and selfishness? Are we seeking to glorify God or glorify self? Are we seeking to benefit others or benefit self at the expense of others?

It is the motive, not the specific action, this is why one cannot write a list of rules for the godly. Rules and commandments and imposed laws are only for the ungodly as a hedge to restrain them, but not as a method of righteousness.

Paul wrote:

> "We know that the law is good if one uses it properly. We also know that law is made not for the righteous but for lawbreakers and rebels, the ungodly and sinful, the unholy and irreligious; for those who kill their fathers or mothers, for murderers, for adulterers and perverts, for slave traders and liars and perjurers—and for whatever else is contrary > to the sound doctrine that conforms to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, which he entrusted to me" (1Timothy 1:8-11 NIV 84).

When we have the lie that God's law functions like human law we want to make up rules to dictate behavior, and any behavior that doesn't conform to the rules is considered sin. This is what the Pharisees did. But love is not constrained by rules and love heals on Sabbath, but rule-keeping harms while keeping the rules.

Rule-keeping is only for the immature, for the children until they grow up. And rule-keeping can become, for those who refuse to mature in Christ, a form of selfishness, it is a way for selfish people to feel good about their performance while refusing to live in harmony with God's design for life. Remember the Pharisees and Corban?

Further, with rule-keeping what is sinful changes from place to place and time to time:

- At one time it was sinful to pick up sticks on Sabbath and the one doing it must be stoned
  - What about today. If you were on a nature walk with your family and your child picked up some sticks, would they be sinning? Would you stone them to death?
- At one time it was sinful to start a fire on Sabbath.
  - What about today. If you were cold one winter and started a fire in your fireplace on Sabbath afternoon would you be sinning?
- It is considered sin today for people to engage in polygamy—what about when Jacob married Rachel. Was Jacob sinning to do so? Do we ever find him asking God to forgive him for marrying a second wife, or God condemning him for it? Was polygamy in Jacob's day in harmony with God's design? Absolutely not, yet was Jacob's heart in rebellion against God for doing so?
- What about David's sin of adultery with Bathsheba—adultery was sin then and is still sin today (as was/is murder of her husband). But, after he committed adultery, after he murdered Uriah, when did David's physical and intimate relationship with Bathsheba stop being sin? Or, was David's marriage to Bathsheba wickedness and evil and condemned by God and David never really repented from his sin but continued living in sin and he was not a man after God's own heart?
  - When did his relationship with Bathsheba stop being ongoing lived out and active sin?
  - When he repented? Isn't repenting turning away from sin? Did he turn away from her or to her? Did he stop his relationship with her or continue it?
  - When he married her? So God's law is subordinate to local culture? If we move to a country today where polygamy is still legal and practiced it would be not be sin in that country to have more than one wife?
  - It is about how we understand sin—what is sin? Behaviors, or attitudes of the heart?
  - What was the attitude of David's heart that caused him to have the affair and murder Uriah? Selfishness and fear. This is sin.
  - When David converted what happened in his heart? Selfishness and fear were replaced with trust in God, and love for God and others. As a person reborn in heart and mind to God's kingdom, what became David's motive to action? Was it still fear and selfishness or love and trust?

- And what does love desire to do for another? Was David, after his sin and subsequent conversion more concerned with himself or with honoring God and helping others? And in specific regard to Bathsheba was he more concerned with making himself look good or healing the damage to Bathsheba that his sin caused her?
- Did David, as a repentant sinner, have a responsibility to, as far as possible, restore to Bathsheba what he took from her? And what did he take from her? Her good name. Her position and station in that society, which was through her husband. She would be a homeless widow, in danger of becoming a prostitute as her adultery became known. And he took from her the love and affection that her husband gave her. So, in that culture, the only way to restore her name, reputation, station, provide security, and return to her the love and affection of a husband was to marry her and love her genuinely.
- His actions based on selfishness resulted in a child born terminal and who died—an apt object lesson of what sinful living does, it results in death. But once converted and living out the principles of love, he marries Bathsheba and has another child, Solomon the child of wisdom, the wisdom of God.

THURSDAY

The lesson make the observation that there is a big difference between cutting down a plant and pruning it.

How are they similar, how are they different?

What is the object lesson for us?

Can we sometimes find ourselves being pruned but misperceive into thinking we are being cut down?

I see this a lot in relationships that have dependency a.k.a. codependency ties.

These are emotional connections between people that are inappropriate and don't belong. Such as feeling responsible for what others think of you, or feeling responsible for what others feel, or what others do. Or deriving your own sense of security and fulfillment from the approval of others.

All such emotional enmeshments, which derive from another person that which God designed to come only from a relationship with Him or from oneself, are unhealthy and when moving toward health these ties must be severed, pruned, cut back.

However, many people resist because they misperceive what they are experiencing.

So I give the metaphor of Siamese twins joined at the hip. Is their connection normal or abnormal, healthy or unhealthy?

Will cutting that connection be healthy or unhealthy?
Will cutting it feel good or be painful?
Because it hurts does that mean it is bad?
Might it feel like the person is losing a part of themselves? Are they?
Might if feel like they are losing the other person out of their lives? Are they?

In reality, once the unhealthy connection is severed does that mean the relationship is broken and they can no longer do things with their twin, or now they have the opportunity to do so much more?

2022 3Q In the Crucible with Christ—Lesson 3
The Birdcage

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, which is a quotation from the book The Ministry of Healing:

> "In the full light of day, and in hearing of the music of other voices, the caged bird will not sing the song that his master seeks to teach him. He learns a snatch of this, a trill of that, but never a separate and entire melody. But the master covers the cage, and places it where the bird will listen to the one song he is to sing. In the dark, he tries and tries again to sing that song until it is learned, and he breaks forth in perfect melody. Then the bird is brought forth, and ever after he can sing that song in the light. Thus God deals with His children. He has a song to teach us, and when we have learned it amid the shadows of affliction we can sing it ever afterward" The Ministry of Healing 472.

What does this concept mean to you?

Is God the one who sometimes brings us to dark places? And if God brings us to dark places what would be God's purpose?

- Did the master put the songbird in the dark to punish it for wrongdoing?
  - Does God lead us to dark places to punish us?
  - Is punishment for sin something that requires God to inflict it?
  - If God were not to use power to inflict punishment for sin would there be no punishment for sin?
- What is the purpose of the master putting the bird into the dark? To get the bird to stop listening to every distraction and learn to hear the voice of the master.
  - How does this apply to us?
  - What song does God wish to teach us?
  - Isn't it the melody of love?

Does this prophecy from Revelation have any bearing on the illustration? Are the illustration of the songbird and the prophecy communicating the same idea?

> "And they [144,000] sang a new song before the throne and before the four living creatures and the elders. No one could learn the song except the 144,000 who had been redeemed from the earth" (Revelation 14:3 NIV84).

What is this song? It is a song of their experience—and this is why only the 144,000 can learn it. You had to go through it in order for your life to resonate with the experience of it.

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424

What is the song that God wants us to learn? It is a song of love and trust in Him? Of living out His methods in the face of opposition?

Does this idea that God leads us to dark places to cut out the distractions of this world in order to learn from Him the melody of love and sing the song of heaven mean that all dark experiences are from God?

- Did God lead the prodigal son to go off into wild living and end up in the pigsty?
- Did God lead Jonah to run away?
    - No, but God did send the storm and the fish—who is responsible Jonah being in the dark place inside the fish?

SUNDAY

The lesson focuses on the journey the Israelites took when leaving Egypt.

They had just gone through the 10 plagues and Pharaoh finally relents and lets them leave Egypt. The pillar of fire by night and cloud by day is leading them and God leads them into what appears to be a trap—backed up against the sea with Pharaoh's army bearing down on them. Why?

- Couldn't God have acted to prevent Pharaoh's army from leaving Egypt so the people were never frightened like this?
- Couldn't God have opened an earthquake to swallow the Egyptian army miles away so the people never saw them?
- Couldn't God have led the people to a different place a fortress of some sort? In fact, couldn't God have had pillars of rock rise out of the ground and form a fortress around the people from which they could have fought?
- Couldn't God have opened the waters and have the people walk through and be safe on the other side before the Egyptians pinned them against the sea?

Why did God handle it this way?

Was God doing something more than leading them out of bondage? What?

What is the lesson for us?

Does God ever lead us to places where we are helpless and cannot overcome in our own strength? Or do such moments only come from the actions of evil people attacking us or our own foolish choices?

If we pray to God for more faith what is required in order to gain more faith?

It is a law that strength comes through exercise, the law of exertion. If we want stronger muscles we must lift weights and if we start with five pound weights and master that and want to grow stronger what must we do? Add weight, and after we master the 10 pound weights if we want to grow strong what must we do? Add weight, and if our trainer keeps adding weight as soon as the current weight is easy, do we complain and grumble and ask why are you always burdening me?

So what will God do for us if we ask Him to strengthen our faith?

- Is this an abuse of power on God's part?
- Is it punishment?
- Why does God put us into difficult positions to strengthen our faith?
- Why doesn't He just pour out the Holy Spirit to adjust the neurons in our brain to make us feel more confident? Because genuine faith is not about feelings. Genuine faith is confidence, trust, loyalty, devotion in and to God despite how we feel in the moment.
- And what is genuine faith based upon? Evidence, truth, experience. We might have a cognitive understanding of what faith is, but in order to have what some call a living faith, an active faith, a working faith, that requires us to exercise our trust or faith in God in real life circumstances.

So God allows events or brings circumstances that provides us the opportunity to exercise our faith and in so doing our faith grows stronger.

Which takes greater faith—to be in a difficult circumstance and reach out to God and God delivers you just as you desired, or to be in a difficult circumstance and reach out to God and you do not get the deliverance you asked for?

Are there any examples in Scripture of people reaching out to God to be delivered from something and they did not get what they wanted?

- Paul and whatever the thorn in his flesh was
- Paul's arrest and eventual execution
- The man who asked Jesus to solve his dispute with His brother

Read third paragraph, "Following 'the pillar'…" This is well said, following God will be a path filled with obstacles, struggles, stresses, and often pain—why?

- Because we are at war and God's enemies will attack us
- Because we live in a world damaged by sin and nature groans under the weight of it and God's people are not given "magical" powers to avoid the pain that sin has brought upon the world, but are given supernatural power from the Holy Spirit to overcome sin, overcome fear and selfishness in our hearts, minds, and characters despite the trials of this world.
- Because sometimes we make either rebellious or foolish choices that make things harder on us than God would have them be for us—and we must learn from our own actions to not only to listen to God but how His laws function, how reality works, and to choose to harmonize our lives with God's laws, Examples:
    - A person who lives an unhealthy lifestyle, but loves God and others and has given their heart to God, despite their being in a saving relationship with God will have more health problems—obesity, diabetes, cardiovascular problems, sleep and pain problems etc. These trials and difficulties don't keep them from heaven, but make life more difficult as a result of lifestyle choices. They might have more financial strain because of medicines and other treatments they have to use. They might not be able to engage in the full range of activities they would like to etc.

    - Another example is the over-empathizer who Satan cannot get to knowingly choose to do evil and harm another, so Satan tempts them with too many good activities and they take upon themselves the burdens of others and try to relieve others of the responsibilities God would have others carry. And they become exhausted, worn out and discouraged and often complain to God asking why God would burden them like this (Metaphor of a wagon). Further, taking upon oneself the burdens or responsibilities of another you see struggling prevents them from gaining the master, the skill, prevents them from growing stronger so it is not actually helping them but infantilizing them.
- Because we sometimes believe lies that cause pain and undermine trust

Happiness is a by-product of healthiness in all domains—physical, mental, emotional, relational, and spiritual. We cannot have the fullest happiness that God has for us as long as we are unhealthy. So the ultimate happiness comes when we are in heaven and this mortal puts on immortality. But we can still advance in healthiness and experience greater happiness here on this Earth by living in harmony with God's design laws for life. Because healthiness comes from harmony with the laws of health in all domains.

One of Satan's tricks is to get people to violate God's design laws somewhere—physical, mental, emotional, relational, spiritual—and in so doing they will suffer some unhealthy consequence which undermines happiness and then Satan tricks them into substituting pleasure seeking for happiness. And many pleasure seeking activities violate some aspect of the laws of health which only causes more unhappiness and people seek more pleasure to feel better. This is what drives many of the addictive behaviors whether chemical or behavioral.

MONDAY

The lesson points us to Exodus 17 in which the Israelites were traveling through the Desert of Sin and there was no water. They began to grumble against Moses who went to the Lord and the Lord instructed him to strike the rock and God brought water out from the rock for the people.

But the lesson points out that they were following the pillar which stopped at a place without water. Why would God stop at a place without water?

What was happening?

Consider they were in a desert, they had flocks and herds, and children, and they were thirsty. What would you do in such a circumstance—it's hot, your sweating, your children are flushed, your flock of sheep are looking weak, your water supply is gone—what would you be thinking and feeling?

Why didn't God lead them like any good caravan leader would from one oasis to another?

- Was God trying to upset the people?
- Was God punishing the people?
- What was God's purpose in stopping there?

Had the people had enough evidence thus far in their lives to be able to have faith in God?

Not only did they have the miracles in Egypt and the crossing of the Red Sea, but in Exodus 15 we read the follow, which took place before the events here in the Desert of Sin:

> Then Moses led Israel from the Red Sea and they went into the Desert of Shur. For three days they traveled in the desert without finding water. When they came to Marah, they could not drink its water because it was bitter. (That is why the place is called Marah.) So the people grumbled against Moses, saying, "What are we to drink?"
> Then Moses cried out to the LORD, and the LORD showed him a piece of wood. He threw it into the water, and the water became sweet.
> There the LORD made a decree and a law for them, and there he tested them. He said, "If you listen carefully to the voice of the LORD your God and do what is right in his eyes, if you pay attention to his commands and keep all his decrees, I will not bring on you any of the diseases I brought on the Egyptians, for I am the LORD, who heals you." (Ex 15:22–26 NMIV84).

What is the lesson here? What does God want from them? Does love and trust require experience with the person? Is God placing them in experiences to give them opportunity to learn about Him, about their own limitations, and to learn to trust Him with the responsibilities that are not theirs?

Did this event at the Desert of Shur provide evidence that could and should have helped them when they reached the Desert of Sin?

Is there a lesson for us in this? We have nothing to fear for the future, except we forget how God has led us in the past.

Another of Satan's tricks, traps, warfare strategies is to get us so focused upon a problem (real or imagined, in Israel's case the lack of water was a real problem) that we forget God, we forget His providences, purposes, and will in our lives, and we falsely take upon ourselves a burden or responsibility that is not ours. We think of only human abilities, possibilities and solutions.

Did God bring them there for them to dig wells and find water?
Did God plan for them to solve the water problem?

In our lives, do we ever get so focused on a problem that we inadvertently take something upon ourselves that God never intended for us to resolve?

God longs for us to grow in our personal relationship with Him to become like Moses, someone who knew God personally and trusted Him. He wants us to become people who, when difficulties come, go to Him and trust Him with the outcome while we fulfill only the responsibilities that are ours to fulfill. So when the people grumbled, Moses went to God.

Consider Moses' faith. If you were instructed to go before your church this weekend and strike the pulpit with your cane so that water would come out of it, would it take faith on your part to do this? Would you have any doubts our fears that if water doesn't come out you would look foolish and be laughed at or thought to have lost your mind?

If you were in Moses' position, would you have had any temptations to doubt? Would you have had any concerns about looking foolish in front of others?

What is necessary for us to overcome such temptations? To know God so well that we are certain God is directing and that we are not following our own feelings, desires, or imaginations. This only comes from spending time with God each day and growing our personal relationship with Him through Bible study, application of His truths and experiencing His providences as we walk through life with Him.

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on Jesus being led by the Holy Spirit into the wilderness where He was tempted by Satan.

Read second paragraph, "Luke 4 is…" What is the difference the lesson is trying to make about Jesus being tested rather than tempted?

Are they suggesting that Jesus wasn't actually tempted in the wilderness, He was only tested in the wilderness?

Are they suggesting that God the Father and the Holy Spirit's purpose was to test Jesus and They didn't realize that if They led Jesus into the wilderness Jesus would be tempted by Satan, so They didn't lead Jesus into temptation that took them by surprise?

Or did the Father and Spirit know that Satan would tempt Jesus in the wilderness and the Spirit led Jesus there, just as Scripture says?

Doesn't the Bible say: "For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but we have one who has been tempted in every way, just as we are—yet was without sin" (Hebrews 4:15 NIV84).

Was this a requirement of the plan of salvation?

Could Jesus become our Savior without facing temptations and overcoming them?

Then if it was part of His mission as our Messiah would the Spirit have led Him toward or away from completing His mission? Toward. So in Jesus' case, because of His unique position and purpose as our incarnate God and Savior, Jesus had to face Satan and had to go through the temptations and He also went through temptations later at crucifixion weekend and overcome them. Our salvation wasn't possible without this.

So, to suggest that in Jesus' case the Spirit was not leading Him in every step of His life, including out to be tempted, is to undermine the meaning, purpose, and accomplishments of Christ as our Savior.

With us, it is true God will not lead us into temptation because we are not the ones who can provide salvation or overcome the devil, and we do not have the responsibility of being the second Adam. But Jesus stood in a unique position in human history as a unique being as He was both God and man.

So, in my view, the lesson has mixed two similar yet distinctly different experiences here and if we don't disentangle these two experiences it will cause confusion. Jesus was tempted in all points like we are for the purpose of overcoming sin and becoming our Savior.

> During the days of Jesus' life on earth, he offered up prayers and petitions with loud cries and tears to the one who could save him from death, and he was heard because of his reverent submission. Although he was a son, he learned obedience from what he suffered and, once made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him and was designated by God to be high priest in the order of Melchizedek (Hebrews 5:7–10 NIV84).

It was a requirement of His mission that He be tempted in all points like us, and to overcome by using ONLY His human abilities.

We on the other hand, are not capable of overcoming sin, we instead participate with God through faith to be cured or redeemed from sin via the victory and application of what Christ achieved.

When you think about the temptations of Christ, how is it that He was tempted in every way just like us?

In your experience are the worst and most difficult temptations for you the ones that present from some outside source, temptations to sin in ways that you have never before participated in, or are the greatest temptations the ones you have developed habits of doing and tempt you from within?

Did Jesus have any sinful habits to overcome?

Then how was He tempted in every way just like we are?

Because of the human nature that He assumed and that causes the temptation:

> When tempted, no one should say, "God is tempting me." For God cannot be tempted by evil, nor does he tempt anyone; but each one is tempted when, by his own evil desire, he is > dragged away and enticed. Then, after desire has conceived, it gives birth to sin; and sin, when it is full-grown, gives birth to death" (James 1:13-15 NIV84).

We are tempted by powerful human desires and emotions. Did Jesus suffer temptation from human desires and emotions?

In Gethsemane, did Jesus suffer with such great anguish that He felt as if He would die? Did He have human desires not to die, to not go through the cross? Did He even pray and ask His Father that if it were possible for Him not to go through the cross?

Where did those desires originate, from outside Himself or from the humanity He took upon Himself as our Savior?

And if He would have chosen to do what His emotions and desires were tempting Him to do what action would He have taken? Who would He have saved? He was tempted with fear and selfishness, which Adam imbedded into our species when He rebelled.

But with every temptation Jesus chose love and overcame the fear and selfishness of the sinful nature and ultimately chose to die in love rather than use power to stop people from killing Him in order to destroy the infection of fear and selfishness that Adam imbedded into humanity. In the humanity of Jesus God's living law of love was perfectly lived out and Jesus arose on the third day in a purified and perfected humanity. In Jesus Christ, the human species is redeemed, purified, made righteous and stands higher in God's universe than before Adam sinned, for in Jesus Christ a human now sits upon the throne of God.

Read the last paragraph, "Sometimes…" What law lens do you hear these words through?

If human law—imposed rules that require imposed punishment by the ruling authority—then sin is a legal problem and we are in trouble with God, who is required to use His power to inflict torture and death upon us. We cannot be saved in this model unless someone pays our legal penalty to the proper legal authorities in heaven. Jesus' blood, in this model, is the payment that the god of this legal system requires be presented to it, and if it receives this blood payment then this god can give a legal pardon to all who claim the legal payment.

But if we return to worshipping the Creator whose laws are the protocols upon which He built reality to operate, then we realize that sin transgresses or breaks God's laws and as the Bible teaches results in death unless God intervenes to eradicate the sin and restore in the sinner His living law of love.

> "God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God" (2Corinthians 5:21 NIV84).

So, just as the paragraph says Jesus is our Sin Bearer, but how? By bearing the sin condition that Adam infected the species with and overcoming the carnal nature and destroying it at the cross in order to open a new pathway out of sin back into actual righteousness.

Consider how Paul describes this destruction of the fallen man, the carnal nature, the infection of fear and selfishness that we inherited from Adam in order to create a new sinless humanity:

> "But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far away have been brought near through the blood of Christ. [When you hear "the blood of Christ" are you thinking legal payment, death penalty paid, or are you thinking as the Bible teaches the life is in the blood, this is the life of Christ. We are brought near through His life, which perfectly lived out God's law and eradicated the sin infection that separates us from God.] For he himself is our peace, who has made the two one and has destroyed the barrier, the dividing wall of hostility, by abolishing in his flesh the law with its commandments and regulations. His purpose was to create in himself one new man out of the two, thus making peace, and in this one body to reconcile both of them to God through the cross, by which he put to death their hostility" (Eph 2:13–16 NIV84).

This is how I rendered it in The Remedy:

> But now, you — whose minds were once far away, and who were practicing the principles of selfishness and survival-of-the-fittest — have been enlightened and brought near to God, and are in unity with Christ through the truth revealed when he died. For Christ himself is the Remedy that heals the species and brings peace. He has removed fear and selfishness that cause division, mistrust, prejudice, and hostility. He did this by partaking of our human condition, and–via the exercise of his human brain–he loved perfectly, thereby destroying in his flesh (in the humanity he partook) the selfish survival-of-the-fittest drive along with the lies of Satan. In this way, he destroyed the need for the law (with all its regulations) to expose Satan's lies and methods. His purpose was to be the template of a new humanity born out of the unification of the two–our selfish, infected condition merged with his sinless state–thereby purging selfishness from the human heart, and transforming, healing, renewing, regenerating and recreating humanity back to God's original ideal; and in this new being, to reconcile the human race–regardless of ethnic background–into loving unity with God and each other through the revelation of truth at the cross, by which he destroyed the lies of Satan, reestablished trust, and removed fear, selfishness, and hostility" (Ephesians 2:13-16 REM).

What about paid the penalty? What is the penalty? It is death, the wages of sin is death?

Why does breaking the law require the death of the sinner?

Why does tying plastic bag over one's head require death?

If someone has a plastic bag over their head and hasn't yet died and you want to lead them to life what do you have to do? Remove the bag, put them in harmony with the law. In the New Covenant God writes His law upon our hearts and minds, but He is only able to do this because Jesus actually, literally, by exercise of human abilities restored God's law into the species human and destroyed from the humanity is took upon Himself the law of sin and death.

So, Jesus paid a price, no question, but to whom? Who required the price be paid in order for sinners to be saved?

What is it that has held humans in captivity of sin? Lies of Satan and our own fallen condition or carnal nature.

What is required to deliver us from sin? The truth to destroy the lies of Satan and restore us to trust and a new sinless nature.

Jesus provides both the truth, if you have seen Him you have seen the Father, and exposed Satan as a liar and fraud. And Jesus, as a human, developed a sinless human character and as it says in Hebrews 5:9 "once he was made perfect he became the source of salvation for all who obey him." Jesus was always sinless, but Bible perfection is about maturity of character and character cannot be created it is developed by the intelligent being. After Adam sinned no human could develop a perfect sinless human character, so Jesus came, took up humanity damaged by Adam's sin and perfected it, eliminating the drives of selfishness and restoring perfectly God's law of love.

And this is all symbolically taught in the symbols of flesh and blood or bread and wine. Jesus is the Word made flesh, we must eat the flesh the Word which is the truth that destroys the lies and wins us to trust, and when we do, we open the heart and receive a new life, the life is in the blood, and then it is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me.

WEDNESDAY

Read last paragraph, "Whatever their trials…" Is the plan of salvation only about saving human sinners or are human sinners part of something larger going on?

Are there any Bible texts that indicate we humans are part of a larger universal war?

- The first chapter in the book of Job when Satan presents himself before the heavenly counsel reveals a larger sin problem than just humans
- "For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross" (Col 1:19–20 NIV84).
- "Put on all the armour that God gives you, so that you will be able to stand up against the Devil's evil tricks. For we are not fighting against human beings but against the wicked spiritual forces in the heavenly world, the rulers, authorities, and cosmic powers of this dark age" (Ephesians 6:11-2 GNT).
- "And there was war in heaven. Michael and his angels fought against the dragon, and the dragon and his angels fought back. But he was not strong enough, and they lost their place in heaven. The great dragon was hurled down—that ancient serpent called the devil, or Satan, > who leads the whole world astray. He was hurled to the earth, and his angels with him" (Revelation 12:7-9 NIV84).

The sin problem is bigger than just a problem on Earth. God has a sin problem that threatens all of His intelligences throughout the universe and God has to resolve it in away that no only saves humanity but also stops the spread to other intelligences and permanently secures His universe from all future rebellion.

What is needed in order for God to do this?

Did the unfallen and loyal angels in heaven need the Cross? Yes, but did they need the same benefits as us? Not all of them. The angels needed the truth about God that Jesus revealed and they needed to see Satan exposed as a liar and fraud. This is what Jesus referenced when He said:

> "Now is the time for judgment on this world; now the prince of this world will be driven out. But I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself" (John 12:31-32 NIV84).

The word "men" in this text is supplied by the translators, it is not in the Greek. It should read "I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all to myself."

Who is the prince of this world? This is referring to Satan, and from where is Satan being driven out? From the hearts and minds of all who embrace the truth about God that Jesus' death reveals.

After the cross there are no more events like in the book of Job. Satan is no longer able to present himself in heaven to the loyal angels and try and mislead them? Why? Because the cross destroyed all his lies and secured the loyal angels in their loyalty and no heavenly being, after the cross, would listen to anything Satan has to say. They were sealed and secured.

The angels in heaven needed the truth the cross revealed in order to have all the doubts about that Satan's lies presented removed.

We human sinners also need the truth about God, but we need something more, something the angels in heaven did not need. We need a new sinless nature, a new sinless humanity and we could not develop this. So Jesus not only revealed the truth about God but picked upon damaged and broken humanity and eradicated the infection of sin, the death causing principle and developed a perfect sinless humanity that He shares with us. We partake of what He developed via the indwelling Holy Spirit.

THURSDAY

Read the bottom green section, "Almost all…" There is no question that it is extremely valuable and important to remember what God has done for us in the past.

How does remembering what God has done in the past help us deal with trials today?

And what if we misinterpret what God has done in the past does that undermine our ability to cope today?

For instance, we have the story of the flood and if we interpret it as God using power to punish wicked people versus God using power to keep open the avenue for Messiah to save and heal wicked people from sin, does that make a difference in how we cope today?

2022 3Q In the Crucible with Christ—Lesson 4
Seeing the Goldsmith's Face

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read last paragraph, "God is seeking…" This is well said. God is seeking to purify us, to restore His image within us and this is the core purpose of the plan of salvation. We were created to be living showcases of the glory—the character and living law of God.

What does it mean to be created in God's image?

- Ability to love
- Ability to reason, think, and act
- Ability to procreate in our image

Which of these is least significant?

If someone loses or never had procreative abilities, they are sterile, does that mean they cannot be in the image of God, that they cannot bear the image of God?

Did Jesus as a human being procreate? Did He bear the image of God perfectly, in fact restored it completely into humanity?

So, what is the most important aspect of the image of God, a power akin to that of our maker? The power to think and to do—individuality, with intelligence, ability to comprehend, reason, understand and choose.

Will God use His power to destroy His image within us?

What about if we pray for God to use His power to destroy His image within us?

Can you think of any prayers that people pray that if God were to do what the person was asking it would destroy the image of God within them?

How about, "Father you take control. I surrender to you and I give over the driver's seat of my life to you for you to be in control of what I do. You tell me the answer, you decide for me what to do. I don't want to do it wrong, so you take control."

If God were to do this, what would happen to the person? What would happen to the image of God in them?

What is the motive for such a prayer? Is it faith or fear?

The Bible says the mature are those who have developed by practice the ability to discern the right from the wrong Hebrews 5:14. God wants us to be mature, to grow, to understand, to comprehend, to do what is right because it is right and we understand and agree with God and choose it not merely because God has said it, but because we actually prefer it and freely want it.

Is God the only supernatural being who is working to have His image reproduced in humanity?

Satan is also working to have his image reproduced within us and this is the real bottom line focus and outcome of the war between Christ and Satan. It is a war for hearts and minds. These two beings—Christ and Satan—stand at the head of two divergent systems, two antagonistic kingdoms that operate upon opposing principles. Every being in the universe must decide on whose side they will be by the methods, principles, laws they prefer and practice in their life.

It is by our choices in whom we trust and who we choose to follow BY THE METHODS WE EMPLOY in how we live and treat others that we choose one kingdom or the other.

Do we prefer:

- Truth or deception
- Love or fear and selfishness
- Freedom or coercion, force, and control
- Design law or imposed law
- Sowing and reaping or rule-breaking with infliction of punishment

It is a law, the law of worship, that by beholding we are changed. If we worship a god that is like Satan in character, one who makes up rules and uses threats, intimidation, inflicted punishments to coerce and control and calls it justice then we become like that god and will use those methods upon others.

But if we worship Jesus who would not use power to punish His crucifiers but left His creatures free to reject and kill Him, then we, like Jesus present the truth in love and leave others free and we live out the principles of God as His law is written into our hearts by the Holy Spirit through our faith in God.

We are either being cleansed and washed by Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit, purified and prepared as a temple for the indwelling of God via His Spirit, or we are being corrupted and turned into what the Bible calls a synagogue of Satan.

Every intelligent being, angels and humans, are created to be living temples where God dwells by His Spirit and it is Satan's goal to displace God from the throne of our hearts and minds and to establish himself as the ruler of our being. He does this by getting us to choose his method, principles, and laws over God's, even while we claim to be worshipping God or Jesus. Satan does this by getting us to have faith in the wrong god, the god who is like a dictator.

Remember the Jews in Christ's day who claimed both Abraham and God as their father, Jesus explicitly and directly told them that they belonged to their father the devil (John 8:44), yet they were certain that they were obeying Scripture and Jesus was teaching contrary to Scripture. They were not mad a Jesus because they didn't believe in God and Jesus did, but because Jesus presented a different God to the one they believed in.

Calling oneself a Christian, a follower of the Creator God, even a follower of Jesus does not establish one as a temple of God, a person who is restored to the image of God. What does? Worship God in truth as Jesus revealed Him to be in character, principle, and method and thereby surrendering in trust to the true God of love and having His living law of love restored into the heart as the operating system upon which we live, and breath, and function. Meaning, we love the Lord our God with all our hearts, minds, souls and strength and our neighbors as ourselves. We live out God's law, truth, love and freedom.

We don't do this in our own strength, we do this by our choice to trust God and receive His strength. God never chooses for us, but we can never accomplish any victory over sin by our own ingenuity, wisdom, or power.

- All the saving power comes from God.
- The truth that displaces the lies and wins us to trust comes from God
- The love that drives out the fear comes from God
- But the choice to respond to the truth and love of God is ours.
- And when we make that choice God enters the sanctuary of our souls with His healing and cleansing presence and removes the guilt, takes away the shame, imbues us with new motives, new desires, new longings for purity, goodness, love, kindness, honesty. As we identify with these new motives and desires and choose to apply them to our daily activities, decisions, practices and choices we receive power to carry out those choices. When we have moments of human weakness and don't do what our renewed hearts truly desire and allow an old habit to take over, or a situation to irritate us into an impulsive act that we regret—like Moses striking the rock—we are not cast off by God. We grieve in our hearts and go to God humbly, regretting our weakness and longing for His strength to never let God down again. And we receive God's forgiveness, acceptance, love, grace and power to succeed the next time.

The sin problem has never been a legal issue. It has always been a state of being issue. We are either reborn into love and trust and are being cleansed by God to be righteous or we remain in fear, selfishness, rebellion and sin and our souls are being corrupted, hearts hardened, and consciences seared.

SUNDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on Romans 8:29:

topics@comeandreason.com

> "For those God foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the likeness of his Son, that he might be the firstborn among many brothers" (Romans 8:29 NIV84).

What does this mean?

Does this mean God predetermines who is save and who is lost? That God uses His power to save some but not others?

It is very simple really. What, according to Jesus is life eternal? Knowing God (John 17:3). This knowing is not cognitive awareness but an intimate connection with, an opening of the heart in love and trust to God.

And what is the only outcome for a sinner who genuinely and completely opens their heart in love and trust to God? Salvation—why? Because of who God is. God is love and God is the Creator and God will heal all who trust Him and restore them to sinless perfection.

So, God predetermined that all those who come back into intimate connection with Him will be conformed or transformed into the likeness of Jesus, restored to righteousness.

And because God is the Creator of time and time exists and operates at the behest of God and under the power and authority of God, just like gravity, just like the laws of physics, God is not constrained by time. God lives outside and above time and the past, present and future are alike outspread before God. So the Bible informs us that in our linear existence here in 2022, those people whom will come to love and trust God and know God in the future God as predetermined through the victory of Christ will be restored in heart, mind, and character to be like Jesus. But from God's vantage point He already knows or foreknows who those people are because God exists at all points in time.

The third paragraph is an interesting quote from the book The Desire of Ages:

> "The very image of God is to be reproduced in humanity. The honor of God, the honor of Christ, is involved in the perfection of the character of His people" The Desire of Ages 671.

What does this mean?

Why is God's honor involved in the perfection of the character of His people?

If a person dying of terminal cancer is cured by a physician, restored to complete wellness, whose reputation is honored by that remedy and healing?

So God curing and healing sinners from sin reveals the truth about Him, His character, His methods, and that His law restored into the hearts and minds of living beings is the bases of life. God's character is glorified and magnified by His people being restored to love and trust.

Read the last green section, "Imagine being on the field of a huge stadium…" Do you think it would help you make choices for God to consider such a viewpoint?

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read Job 23:1-10:

Then Job replied:
2 "Even today my complaint is bitter;
his hand is heavy in spite of my groaning.
3 If only I knew where to find him;
if only I could go to his dwelling!
4 I would state my case before him and fill my mouth with arguments.
5 I would find out what he would answer me, and consider what he would say.
6 Would he oppose me with great power?
No, he would not press charges against me.
7 There an upright man could present his case before him, and I would be delivered forever from my judge.
8 "But if I go to the east, he is not there;
if I go to the west, I do not find him.
9 When he is at work in the north, I do not see him;
when he turns to the south, I catch no glimpse of him.
10 But he knows the way that I take;
when he has tested me, I will come forth as gold. (Job 23:1-10 NIV84)

Read the second paragraph, "Even amid…" Yes, Job trusted God and could not be shaken from his trust despite not understanding the issues, despite not seeing behind the scenes at the time. This is an excellent point to note. A very important lesson for us in our journey.

But what do you think of the idea that "he endured the refining fire"?

I have difficulty with this conclusion—was Job going through his trials because Job needed to be purified? Or was Job already settled, sealed to God, and purified in character?

Two texts to consider, the first is Job's own words that follow what the lesson asked us to read:

11 My feet have closely followed his steps;
I have kept to his way without turning aside.
12 I have not departed from the commands of his lips;
I have treasured the words of his mouth more than my daily bread. (Job 23:11-12 NIV84)

Does it sound like Job is being purified from Job's perspective? Do we find Job confessing sin, repenting from unrighteousness like we see David doing in Psalms 51? No, we see Job protesting that this is not a result of sin and therefore is not some element of purifying him.

However, the Bible tells us that the human heart and mind is deceitful above all things and utterly wicked, so perhaps Job is self-deceived and he only thinks he is faithful to the Lord. Then, it would be best, in this case to get God's assessment of Job, which we find in Job 1:8:

> "Then the LORD said to Satan, 'Have you considered my servant Job? There is no one on earth like him; he is blameless and upright, a man who fears God and shuns evil'" (Job 1:8 NIV84).

So, does it sound like in Job's case that he was going through his difficulties in order to be refined from some sin?

This is a great example of taking a passage like Job 23:1-10 out of context and using it to make a point that it doesn't actually make, of drawing the wrong conclusion.

This is how the Bible can be used, with all good intentions and honest motives, to introduce confusion and error. And this is why every person must study for themselves and be fully persuaded in their own mind.

Many misunderstand Scripture and inspiration. They think that if we find a Bible text that says something then because the Bible is inspired we are to apply it just as it reads without question. But this is not the purpose of the Bible. The Bible is inspired by God, but it is not a list of rules to obey, or proclamations and declarations to blindly follow.

The Bible is an inspired record of the sin problem and God's actions in resolving the sin problem. It is a revelation of God's character and methods in contrast to those of Satan. Thus it requires us to understand the setting, what is transpiring, why those words were spoken and by whom, what is the manifestation of the sin condition in that setting and how is God's intervention in that setting part of the healing solution. If we read the Bible as a list of rules or proclamations and simply apply them because the Bible said it, then our individual development is stunted, the image of God in us is not being restored, and we will often use a Bible rule in a setting where it causes harm rather than brings healing. Just like the Jews wanted to cast stones at the woman caught in adultery—they had a rule given by Moses and they wanted to apply it. But had they done so, not only would the woman have been killed, but all those who participated would have had their hearts hardened. As Jesus handled it, not only was the woman saved, but many of those who came wanting to throw stones left with seeds of truth working upon their hearts.

We are created in the image of God and are to be thinkers not mere reflectors of other people's thoughts. Jesus calls us into understanding friendship (John 15:15). God wants more from human beings than the obedience of a well-trained dog. God wants more than the obedience of a slave, "the master said it. I will do it, who am I to question." God wants our understanding agreement. We are called to be mature, to develop by practice the ability to discern the right from the wrong. This requires we actually comprehend God's character, His design laws, how reality works, what sin is, how it deviates from God's design and causes pain suffering and death.

The Bible reveals, through human history, reality—how God functions, how God's law functions, and how sin corrupts and destroys.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Jesus was in Jerusalem…" What lessons do you glean from the parable of the ten virgins and the sheep and the goats that is relevant to our preparing for Christ's return?

The lesson points out that the symbol of oil in the lamps of the wise virgins represents both the Holy Spirit and their own mature Christlike character. And the lesson asks, "In what way does the meaning of the story change, depending on whether you see oil as a symbol of the Holy Spirit or of the possession of character?"

What are your thoughts?

How is the oil connected to character such that both interpretations are true simultaneously?

Every single person develops a character, the only question is whether it is a Christlike character or a satanic character.

What is the only way we can develop a Christlike character? By the indwelling of the Holy Spirit!

Can we develop a Christlike character by our own initiative, our own strength, our own works, our own goodness, our own creativity, our own power, our own love? No! The only way we can develop a Christlike character is via the indwelling Holy Spirit who brings new motives, new desires, new understandings, new perspectives, new insights, godly love, and divine power to succeed. As the Holy Spirit brings all of this which Christ wrought out in His humanity to us, we choose to say yes, to prefer the godly over the carnal, to identify with and act in harmony with the godly, and in so doing the Holy Spirit empowers and develops us. We advance from truth to truth, insight to insight, victory to victory as we are convicted of things we need to renounce and step by step, choice by choice, as we follow the leading of the Holy Spirit our characters are transformed.

Thus the metaphor of a lamp, the oil is both the Holy Spirit which brings the victory of Christ, the truth, the love of God, the power of God, and the oil which burns to create light, which is a metaphor of gospel truth, is the light of our witness, our character transformation as we cooperate with the Holy Spirit that transforms us to burn brightly letting our light shine. But if there is no Holy Spirit in the lamp, there is no development of Christlike character and there is no light to shine forth.

What about the parable of the sheep and goats? What is it that determines the ones that God identifies as a sheep or goats?

This is a powerful parable of reality that reveals how every single person on Earth chooses for or against Jesus.

Have you ever wondered how it could be possible that every person in the world will make a choice for or against Christ? This is often a point of concern for some as they consider everything that needs to happen before the Second Coming.

This parable reveals that the choice for or against Jesus isn't a doctrinal choice, isn't a denominational choice, isn't a ceremonial choice, it is a choice on what law we internalize into our hearts in how we live and treat others.

As the world continues to globalize, as governments increase their coercive pressure, as liberties are removed, as lies increase, as fear and selfishness magnify, and as crisis after crisis occurs, governments will add to their laws and increase their demands, pressure, and control. As this happens, every person will be faced with the choice of whether they live out God's law or the law of sin and death.

God's law is the law of love, of truth, of liberty. It is manifested in loving God and others more than self, in protecting the downtrodden, in respecting the individuality of others.

The law of sin and death is the survival-of-the-fittest motive driven by fear and the need to protect self—especially at the expense of others. It is doing whatever one needs to do to survive, even if that means killing others to save self.

It is in how we treat others that we choose whose law we embrace—God's or Satan's; this is how every person chooses either to accept or reject Jesus in the last days, even those in far remote places who have never heard the name Jesus, for our Savior said:

> When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the angels with him, he will sit on his throne in heavenly glory. All the nations will be gathered before him, and he will separate the people one from another as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats. He will put the sheep on his right and the goats on his left (Matthew 25:31-33 NIV84).

Jesus doesn't separate the people based on race, or nationality, or culture, or creed, or denomination, Jesus separates people based on what law they live out in the way they treat others, and thereby how they treat Him:

> Then the King will say to those on His right hand, 'Come, you blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: for I was hungry and you gave Me food; I was thirsty and you gave Me drink; I was a stranger and you took Me in; I was naked and you clothed Me; I was sick and you visited Me; I was in prison and you came to Me.'

> Then the righteous will answer Him, saying, 'Lord, when did we see You hungry and feed You, or thirsty and give You drink? When did we see You a stranger and take You in, or naked and clothe You? Or when did we see You sick, or in prison, and come to You?' And the King will answer and say to them, 'Assuredly, I say to you, inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these My brethren, you did it to Me.'
> Then He will also say to those on the left hand, 'Depart from Me, you cursed, into the everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels: for I was hungry and you gave Me no food; I was thirsty and you gave Me no drink; I was a stranger and you did not take Me in, naked and you did not clothe Me, sick and in prison and you did not visit Me.'
> Then they also will answer Him, saying, 'Lord, when did we see You hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not minister to You?' Then He will answer them, saying, 'Assuredly, I say to you, inasmuch as you did not do it to one of the least of these, you did not do it to Me.' And these will go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into eternal life (Matthew 25:34-46 NKJV).

WEDNESDAY

The lesson points our attention to Daniel chapter 12, let's read verses 1-4 & 10:

> "At that time Michael, the great prince who protects your people, will arise. There will be a time of distress such as has not happened from the beginning of nations until then. But at that time your people—everyone whose name is found written in the book—will be delivered. [what book? What does "name" mean? Character—so whoever is healed to have a character like Christ is in the book of life] Multitudes who sleep in the dust of the earth will awake: some to everlasting life, others to shame and everlasting contempt. [Two resurrections—all who have died throughout human history are only sleeping waiting for the resurrection and the final end. This is a very important point to realize, because all the deaths through human history are NOT the death that is the wages of sin. That death occurs after the judgment. People make errors in reading Scripture and concluding that the Flood, or first born of Egypt, etc. in which God put people to sleep, is God punishing people for sin, no it is not. It is God acting therapeutically to keep open the avenue for the Messiah.] Those who are wise will shine like the brightness of the heavens, and those who lead many to righteousness, like the stars for ever and ever. But you, Daniel, close up and seal the words of the scroll until the time of the end. Many will go here and there to increase knowledge…. [Seal up what words? The prophecies in the book of Daniel, until the time of the end and then the truth of these prophecies will increase until the second coming of Christ. These prophecies began to be understood after the end of the 1260 years which occurred in 1798, which corresponds with the Great Awakening in Christianity and the advancement of the advent message—that Christ is coming again soon.] Many will be purified, made spotless and refined, but the wicked will continue to be wicked. None of the wicked will understand, but those who are wise will understand" Daniel 12:1-4 & 10 NIV84).

What will the wise understand that the wicked will not understand? God's methods—the wise know God and cherish and understand His character and law of love. The wicked do not. The wicked do not know God and do not know God's design laws. In fact, the wicked embrace Satan's methods and laws.

The lesson then asks what is the context?

The context is the final movements of the longstanding battle between the King of the North and the King of the South. If you haven't read my two blogs I this I encourage you to do so:

KING OF THE NORTH VERSUS SOUTH AND TODAY'S END-TIME EVENTS

PREPARE! THE KING OF THE NORTH IS COMING

King of the South is symbolically represented by Egypt—Pharaoh famously said, "Who is God that I should obey Him?" (Exodus 5:2), and the King of the South represents all the godless philosophies and worldviews Satan has used throughout history—paganism, Earth and Sun worship, evolutionism, humanism, communism.

King of the North is represented by both Babylon and Rome—Nebuchadnezzar famously accepted Daniel's God and immediately passed laws that whoever spoke ill of Daniel's God should be put to death. And thus King of the North represents all the systems of religious imperialism. Those forces who claim a belief in the God of the Bible but who merge with the power of the state and will use force to coerce consciences.

These two systems are both Satan's and they have warred back and forth throughout human history. In the prophecy of Daniel 11 the beautiful land is where God's people are found and they are caught in the middle between the war of Satan's two forces.

Do you see these two forces in Jesus day? The religious leaders who wanted Him crucified were part of the King of the North, religious imperialism, Pilate and the forces of pagan Rome were part of the King of the South. And these two forces were fighting each other and Jesus and His followers were caught in the middle. Did Jesus join either side? Did Jesus Apostles join either side?

You saw the same thing in AD 70 when the forces of the King of the South, pagan Rome, surrounded Jerusalem to attack the forces of the King of the North, religious imperialism of the Jews. And when they stepped back briefly, the people of God represented by the beautiful land, the true followers of Christ, fled Jerusalem and were not caught up in Jerusalem's destruction.

This is what we are facing in the world as we approach the end of time. The final movements are the King of the South attacks the King of the North and then King of the North rallies and storms out and destroys the King of the South and then Michael stands up and a time of trouble comes just as we read in Daniel 12. Liberalism is right now making its final assault on the forces of religious imperialism, but if our understanding of the prophecy is correct, it will only enrage those who align with the King of the North and politically conservative forces who are willing to use the power of the state are going to storm out and destroy the forces of liberalism.

I think COVID with its worldwide mandates against individual liberty was analogous to Rome surrounding Jerusalem in AD 70. It is the warning to the people of God that the final assault is just on the horizon and we are to flee. But our flight is not a physical one like the Christians in AD 70, our flight is to flee with our hearts from identifying with and supporting those forces of either the King of the South or the King of the North, to not get caught up into this war between two of Satan's forces, but to advance the principles of God's kingdom.

God's people are in neither group, but God's people will find themselves sorely tempted to join one or the other of these two groups and that is the trap.

The trap is not in agreeing with some point, idea, or principle espoused by either group, the trap is in choosing the methods of Satan that both the King of the North and South utilize in advancing their agenda.

For instance, let's take the question of transgenderism. The King of the South is advancing a lie that there is no male or female, that the concept of man and woman is made up, that our gender does not originate in objective reality and thus any person by merely choosing to make a claim contrary to objective reality can declare their gender to be whatever they wish it to be. But this is so obviously false it becomes silly for any thinking person and reveals it is an assault on the image of God, not just gender, but on thinking. One cannot believe such fantasy unless one stops exercising one's God-given abilities to reason and think and rejects the principles of truth. Understand, a person cannot be transgendered if there is no male and female, if there is no man or woman. You can't take a TRANScontinental flight if there are no continents, you cannot transition from male to female or female to male if there is no male or female.

We must stop letting people who deny objective reality, who live in fantasy, be the barometer of our thinking. It is destructive and unhealthy to individuals and to society.

There is male, there is female, and there are people who have confusion about their gender. Those people are suffering with some condition that interferes with healthy functioning as God designed it and they need our compassion, understanding, and love, not condemnation. But compassion, understanding and love does not mean we surrender our thinking to those who are struggling. We wouldn't let a blind person tell us what color combination works best in our paint schemes, neither should we ever allow people who are gender confused to define human sexuality, male, female, or any aspect of gender.

The godless in society are pushing irrational ideas that are inciting outrage in people, like in some jurisdictions they require female children to use the same bathrooms as biological males who identify as female.

Or in the news this week a school board member announced she would be taking 9-12 year old students to an adult store to teach them about human sexuality in graphic detail. https://www.foxnews.com/us/washington-state-school-board-director-teach-sexual-pleasure-class-9-year-olds-sex-shop

These types of behaviors from the King of the South are so outrageous they tempt righteous people to use the power of the state not merely to restrain people from doing harm, but to seek to punish.

We are right to recognize the truth of God's creation. He made them male and female. We are right to recognize that the healthiest relationships are loving marriages of a man and woman who love God and each other more than self. We are right to recognize that the healthiest families in which children do the best and grow up to be the most successful are families led by a biological male father and a biological female mother in which both parents love each other and function in mature ways.

But we would be wrong to coerce people to conform to our way of living. The balance in this world of sin are spaces in which our liberties do not injure those around us.

So with this in mind, read the second paragraph, "Daniel is told…" What is the difference between the wise and the foolish? What do the wise know and do that the foolish do not know and do not do?

The wise understand God, His character, His methods, His design laws which govern the operations of reality, and they live in harmony with them.

The foolish believe lies—either the lies of liberalism (King of the South) or the lies of religious imperialism (King of the North) and will utilize the methods of coercion to seek to make the world a better place in their image.

But the wise realize that God's kingdom is not of this world. What God wants is our love, trust, loyalty, devotion, friendship, understanding agreement, free and willing participation in living out His methods. And none of this can be achieved by external rules, threats and punishments. In fact, using such methods leads to rebellion.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "A song goes like this…" In my blog for this week, Only God Is Infallible I describe how angelic perfection failed in heaven, how human perfection failed on earth, how God's faithful prophets can still make mistakes—like Moses striking the rock, Elijah running away, Peter compromising principles, that each one of us must have our own faith individually built upon the Rock Jesus Christ if we are to stand firm in the face of trials.

I conclude the blog with these two paragraph:

> As we approach the final moments before Jesus returns, the Bible warns us of terrible times, troublesome times, distressing times. Our fears will be inflamed and our worst anxieties aroused. Everything that we have built our safety upon will be threatened. And it is when our earthly securities are removed, when every single earthly support is stripped away—when our bank account is empty, our home is taken, our liberty destroyed, our family members abandon us, our friends betray us, our church rejects us, and we feel all alone—that we will either be standing upon the solid rock, Jesus Christ, or collapsing into ruin and despair.
> Only those who have developed a personal, living faith in Jesus, who know God for themselves, who trust their lives, fortunes, families, and futures to our infallible Creator God, will be found standing firm. All those who have trusted in other humans—in dynamic speakers, in church leaders, in politicians—will, sadly, discover that they have placed their trust in the fallible.

The lesson points us to Ephesians 4:11-16 which reads:

> It was he who gave some to be apostles, some to be prophets, some to be evangelists, and some to be pastors and teachers, to prepare God's people for works of service, so that the body of Christ may be built up until we all reach unity in the faith and in the knowledge of the Son of God and become mature, attaining to the whole measure of the fullness of Christ. Then we will no longer be infants, tossed back and forth by the waves, and blown here and there by every wind of teaching and by the cunning and craftiness of men in their deceitful scheming. Instead, speaking the truth in love, we will in all things grow up into him who is the Head, that is, Christ. From him the whole body, joined and held together by every supporting ligament, grows and builds itself up in love, as each part does its work (Ephesians 4:11-16 NIV84).

Then the lesson asks, "what does Paul say must happen before the fullness of Christ may be revealed in our Christian community?"

We must grow up, we must be mature. And what does that mean? What does it mean to be a mature Christian? We have developed the ability to discern the right from the wrong (Hebrews 5:14). And what is necessary to do this? We have come to understand the truth of God's design law and have rejected the childlike rules-oriented approach to life based on imposed law with imposed punishments.

Remember the seven levels of moral development.

LEVEL 1: Reward and Punishment
Right and wrong is determined by whoever holds the power to rule by threat of punishment and hope of reward. Mercy (failure to punish) is seen by others at this level as being weak, rather than being moral. This is the level ancient Israel operated at as slaves in Egypt. They did what the task masters said in order to avoid punishment.

People at level one insist that God uses his power to torture and kill the unrepentant wicked, as evidenced when he first established his credentials to rule Israel by acts of punishment upon the Egyptian gods, and by mighty, spectacular miracles demonstrating the Egyptian gods were not gods at all.

This level of thinking is so primitive that it doesn't even require a brain; the mind is completely sidelined. Animals, plants, and even bacteria can be conditioned to avoid painful stimuli and grow toward rewarding stimuli. It is Satan's goal to reduce mankind to "brute beasts and creatures of instinct" operating at level one.

Satisfaction Theory of the atonement most closely matches Level One thinking, which is summarized as follows: God said don't do something, but when we disobey and do what God said not to do, this dishonors and offends him. Therefore, in his justice, he responds with angry vengeance to execute the disobedient to satisfy his outrage. But then Jesus stepped in between God and man to become humanity's substitute. Thus, instead of killing man, God killed his Son in our place and is now satisfied that his honor and justice are preserved.

LEVEL 2: Marketplace Exchange
Right and wrong is determined by an equitable agreement between two parties, also known as quid pro quo – "I'll do something for you if you do something for me." At this level vengeance is a moral duty. People who do evil must be paid back with an equal amount of pain and suffering, in other words, "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." To not return pain and suffering is considered immoral. This was ancient Israel saying at Sinai, when the law was first read, "All the Lord has said, we will do."

Ransom Theory of the atonement most closely matches Level Two thinking, which is summarized as follows: Because earth and humanity are now the legal property of Satan and under his control, the devil claimed legal rights to this earth and the lives of the descendants of Adam and Eve. Therefore, God struck a bargain with the devil to exchange the life of Christ for the lives of the rest of humanity.

LEVEL 3: Social Conformity
Right and wrong is determined by community consensus, for example, when a child says, "But everyone else is doing it." Right is deemed right by the approval of peers.

This was ancient Israel when they wanted kings. All the other nations had kings, so it must be right, thus Israel demanded to have kings.

Governmental Theory of the atonement most closely matches Level Three thinking, which is summarized as follows: In order for everyone to be convinced that God is fair and right in dealing with sin and sinners by inflicting torturous punishment, somebody has to pay the price. That somebody is Jesus, because he's the only one who could pay that price to get mankind off the hook.

LEVEL 4: Law and Order
Right and wrong is determined by a codified system of rules, impartial judges, imposed punishments, and respect for authority. Right is getting a proper pay or reward for good work, and proscribed and inflicted punishment for breaking the rules. Authority figures are rarely questioned, "He must be right, because he is the President, the Judge, the Pope, God, etc."

This was ancient Israel at the time of Christ – "we have a law!" they proclaimed, as they sought to stone Jesus for healing on the Sabbath. This is much of our modern world, with its codified laws, courts, prosecutors, judges, juries, and imposed rules. Authority at this level rests in the coercive pressure of the state to bring punishment upon those who deviate from the established laws. At this level, police agencies and law enforcers are required to monitor the population, searching for breaches in the law in order to impose standardized penalties.

Penal Substitution Theory of the atonement most closely matches Level Four thinking, which is summarized as follows: Jesus died to pay the legal penalty the law demanded and the heavenly judge imposed. The law must be kept. Man broke the law, thus justice demands and requires the imposition of the proper punishment. Someone had to be executed to pay the legal penalty. Jesus became our substitute and was executed in our place by God the Father (as the righteous judge) to pay that penalty. In doing so, the integrity of the law is maintained and sinners can be pardoned, but only if they claim the legal payment made by Jesus.

LEVEL 5: Love for Others
Right is determined by doing what is in the best interest of others, realizing people have value in who they are irrespective of the rules. Wrong is determined, not by a checklist of rules, but by not doing what is actually helpful and beneficial for another.

Jesus demonstrated this when he touched lepers, spoke to women, socialized with tax collectors, and healed on the Sabbath. The Pharisees, operating at level four and below, wanted to stone Him for breaking the law.

Moral Influence Theory of the atonement most closely matches Level Five thinking, which is summarized as follows: Sin separated us from God and corrupted our hearts, so that we no longer trusted God, but God loved us too much to let us go, so Christ's death was the means to reach us with his love and restore us to trust in him.

LEVEL 6: Principle-Based Living
Right is understanding the design protocols and principles upon which life is constructed to operate and intelligently choosing to live in harmony with them. Right is not doing something because a rule says to do so, but because it is understood to actually work this way.

This was Jesus living out God's character of love in all He did, and the Apostles after Pentecost. It is understood that God says what is right because it is right, because it is the way things actually are. It isn't right simply because God said it.

Recapitulation and Christus Victor Theories of the atonement most closely matches Level Six thinking, which is summarized as follows: Christ's life, death, and resurrection is understood to be the only means to fix what sin had done to God's creation. When mankind sinned, the condition of humankind was changed, placing it out of harmony with God and his design for life. Humankind was now held in bondage by their own condition of sinfulness (carnal nature), their terminal state (death), and the lies about God told by Satan. Christ came to break these three powers and fix what sin has done to this creation. Thus "he who knew no sin became sin for us, so that we might become the righteousness of God." 2Cor 5:21.

LEVEL 7: Understanding Friend of God

Those at this level not only have love for God and others (Level 5), not only understand God's design protocols for life (Level 6), but also understand God's purposes and intelligently choose to cooperate in fulfilling their role in His purposes.

Jesus said to His disciples in John 15:15, "I no longer call you servants, because a servant does not know his master's business. Instead, I have called you friends, for everything that I learned from my Father I have made known to you."

People at this level understand the truth about God's character of love, His nature and design for life, the origin of evil, the nature of sin, the weapons of Satan, the original purpose for the creation of humanity, the fall of humanity into sin, God's working through human history, the purpose of the Cross, and the ultimate cleansing of the universe from sin. Jesus operated at this level, as will all those who are ready for translation when Jesus comes again.

Healing Substitution Reality most closely matches Level Seven thinking, which is summarized as follows: The plan of salvation is understood to have a deeper and broader intent than just the redemption of the human species. Both level five and six are true: God's character of love has been misrepresented, His methods of truth, love, and freedom have not been fully understood, so God had a larger purpose than just the salvation of humankind; He was also solidifying the unfallen beings in loyalty to His design methods and character of love.

2022 Q3 In The Crucible With Christ: Lesson 6
Extreme Heat

by Lori Atkins

INTRODUCTION

We are studying Lesson 5 in our quarterly, In the Crucible With Christ. The title of this week's lesson is "Extreme Heat" and the memory text is from Isaiah 53:10…I want to read verses 10 and 11 from several Bible versions so we can unpack this passage a bit and determine not only what the verses say, but what they mean.

- NIV: Yet it was the Lord's will to crush him and cause him to suffer, and though the Lord makes his life a guilt offering, he will see his offspring and prolong his days, and the will of the Lord will prosper in his hand. After the suffering of his soul, he will see the light of life and be satisfied; by his knowledge my righteous servant will justify many, and he will bear their iniquities.
  [This is the NIV and you can see the translators have a certain lens through which they interpret. It has to do we preconceived ideas of God's law and sovereignty—God is causal and inflicting. But this is not in the Hebrew, it is artifact of the translators.]
- GNT: The Lord says, "It was my will that he should suffer; his death was a sacrifice to bring forgiveness. And so he will see his descendants; he will live a long life, and through him my purpose will succeed. After a life of suffering, he will again have joy; he will know that he did not suffer in vain. My devoted servant, with whom I am pleased, will bear the punishment of many and for his sake I will forgive them. [This is the GNT and it shifts the focus slightly that it was God's will he should suffer, but it is not God causing the suffering. This is much closer to the truth as it was God's will for Jesus to rescue humankind!]
- NKJV: Yet it pleased the Lord to bruise Him; He has put Him to grief. When You make His soul an offering for sin, He shall see His seed, He shall prolong His days, And the pleasure of the Lord shall prosper in His hand. He shall see the labor of His soul, and be satisfied. By His knowledge My righteous Servant shall justify many, For He shall bear their iniquities. [This is the NKJV and again the translators bring in a certain view of God's law and God acting as the causal agent.]
- The SDA Bible commentary on this passage states: "The Lord was not delighted that His Servant (see on ch. 52:13), Messiah, should suffer, but rather, in view of the eternal welfare of men and the security of the universe, it was best for Him to suffer. "It pleased the Lord" in the sense that "it was the will of the Lord." Only thus could the plan of salvation succeed. The sufferings of Christ were part of the eternal plan. (Vol. 4, p.291). The Bible commentary is correct—it pleased God that Jesus in perfect accord with Himself and perfectly revealed the Father and perfectly fulfilled

His mission to heal humankind…God was in Christ reconciling the world to Himself (2 Corinthians 5:19). How one understands this passage depends entirely upon the law lens one uses. If we use the false law lens, the lie that God's law works like human law, rules made up and enforced with punishment then what conclusion do we draw from these texts? That God was pleased to inflict punishment on Jesus in order for Jesus to pay the penalty so God could resolve His anger and wrath and save mankind. If we use the true view of God's law as design law, then we realize humankind was in a terminal state, "dead in trespass and sin" and would die eternally unless God intervened through Christ to fix the situation. Thus, while God did not enjoy His Son's suffering, He was pleased for His Son to carry out His purpose to save humankind and the only way to do this was to partake of our human nature, confront the carnal nature and destroy it restoring the species human back to God's original ideal. It would be like a parent whose child was dying of leukemia having another child who was a bone marrow match, they would be pleased the healthy child donated bone marrow to save their sibling, and doing so would cause suffering to the donor and while the parents wouldn't enjoy the healthy child suffering, they would be pleased with it because of what it accomplished.

SABBATH

- lesson contains a quote by one of my favorite authors, C.S. Lewis, and he writes this concerning his grief over the tragic loss of his wife: "Not that I am (I think) in much danger of ceasing to believe in God. The real danger is of coming to believe such dreadful things about Him. The conclusion I dread is not 'So there's no God after all,' but 'So this is what God's really like.' "—A Grief Observed (New York: HarperCollins Publishers, Inc., 1961), pp. 6, 7.
- This week's teachers notes indicate one of the major themes or purposes of this week's lessons is to engage us in a profound study of relevant examples of suffering that will help us understand why God allows suffering in our experiences. Then it says, "The question is, just how hot can it get? How much heat is God willing to risk putting His people through in order to bring about His ultimate purpose of shaping us into the "image of His Son"? So, does God allow suffering in our lives? Does God cause us to suffer – does he bring the heat? Why would a loving God…a God who claims to be the very definition of love…allow his precious children to suffer? How do we understand why bad things happen and why suffering occurs – and why do some suffer and not others?
- A drunk driver runs across the line hits an 18 y/o and the teen dies, the drunk is not harmed. Why? Did God kill the teen? What does it mean that God didn't use divine power to save the teen?
- Two people have cancer, one survives the other doesn't, what does it mean? Did God love one more than the other? Did one have more faith than the other? Have you ever had the critic, the skeptic of God, bring this up as evidence that there is no God? Perhaps the classic argument was presented by Epicurus (341-270 BCE):

- Is God willing to prevent evil but unable to do so? In that case God is not omnipotent.
- Is God able to prevent evil but unwilling to do so? If so, God must be malevolent
- Is God both willing and able to prevent evil? Then why is there evil in the world? Epicurus goes on to say: "God is either willing to remove evil and cannot, or he can and is unwilling; or he is neither willing nor able to do so; or else he is both willing and able. If he is willing and not able, he must be weak, which cannot be affirmed of God. If he is able and not willing, he must be envious, which is also contrary to the nature of God. If he is neither willing nor able, he must be both envious and weak, and consequently not be God. If he is both willing and able—the only possibility that agrees with the nature of God—then where does evil come from? Or why does he not eliminate it?" How do you answer these questions? How would Martin Luther answer such a question? "This is the highest degree of faith, to believe him [God] merciful when he saves so few and damns so many, and to believe him righteous when by his own will he makes us necessarily damnable, so that he seems, according to Erasmus, to delight in the torments of the wretched and to be worthy of hatred rather than love. If, then, I could by any means comprehend how this God can be merciful and just who displays so much wrath and iniquity, there would be no need of faith." (Luther, Bondage of the Will p. 62)

- Do you hear Luther's position? God is not understandable, in fact we shouldn't even try. Faith is believing God is good when all the evidence says He is not good. Sadly, this distorted view of God and this distorted view of faith continues to infect Christianity to this day and many people live with their minds darkened with such beliefs.
- What are the elements that Epicurus and Luther are missing? First and foremost—they have a flawed understanding about God's law and how it functions—God's laws are the design parameters upon which reality is constructed to operate. They are viewing the entire question through the lens of human law, imposed law, imperialism. Thus, for both of them, it is merely a question of power—for Epicurus if God is good then He uses power to impose His will to eradicate evil. And for Luther, God is assumed to be good and to be powerful and we are to accept that on faith and not ask questions—God is sovereign, so who are we to question it.
- So, how do you answer the critics…what key truths are foundational to understanding the question of suffering and evil in the world? First, we must understand God's design, His laws, His original intent for life and humanity; then we must understand the nature and character of sin, what it actually is, and finally the solution for it. All of those who struggle with this do so because on some level they don't see and understand what is actually happening, and are most often trying to understand through the false imposed law lens.
- What are God's design laws? (Here are a few)
  - Law of love—principle of giving (Air, water, food etc.)
  - Law of liberty—love can only exist in atmosphere of freedom
  - Law of worship—by beholding we become changed
  - Law of exertion—strength requires exertion

With these in mind what was God's original design for humankind?
• Was it not an existence of love and perfection?
• Can computers love? No, what is required to love?
• Free sentient beings
• Can love grow and exist without freedom?
• Did God create humankind in His image? Would that include the ability to love? Would that mean genuine freedom? Would genuine freedom mean freedom to disobey—to deviate from God's design?

- All suffering has its roots in the fact that this planet is out of harmony with God's design and His life-giving presence. The specific reasons why suffering and death occur are as follows:
  - Entropy, the slow gradual decay of order that occurs because we are disconnected from God's constant full presence and care. "in the day you eat of the Tree of Knowledge, dying you will die." (Gen 2:17) Aging and the sleep death occur because of this slow decay.
  - Genetic defects, mutations, and disease because of entropy and the slow decay of our original design.
  - Toxins and poisons because of mutations and alterations to God's design—the changes in nature and the manufacture of chemicals and products not original to God's creation.
  - Evil/selfish actions originating in people who are selfish—Cain killing Abel.
  - Evil/selfish actions inspired by Satan upon people to hurt others—Judas betraying Christ.
  - Satan and his agencies affecting nature and causing problems—first chapter of Job.
  - Good people acting to defend and protect—Abraham rescuing Lot.
  - Good people acting selfishly and doing bad things—David murdering Uriah—which occurs because of sin in the heart not yet removed.
  - People, whether good or evil, making mistakes with no intent to help or harm, slipping and falling, auto accident because of ice etc.
  - Humans acting on God's orders—kill all the people, women, children, cattle, etc. Why would God give such orders? Remember it was God's original plan to have the hornet and pestilence go before Israel and as the inhabitants abandoned the land the Israelites would have slowly occupied it with no killing. But the people chose to do it their way and so God gave the instructions, if you are going to kill then in order to minimize suffering, death, and traumatize the least number of people and bring peace in a world, wipe them all out and get it over with. Instead, we have had 4000+ years of continual fighting, violence and war scaring every generation living in that part of the world.
  - God acting to protect, lance, cauterize, keep open the avenue for Messiah—putting people in the grave/asleep, but they will arise again: Flood, first born of Egypt, platoons that came to arrest Elijah, etc.
- Saturday's lesson also asks this important question, "Why do you think God is willing to risk being misunderstood by those he wants to know Him and love Him? How much do you think God is willing to be misunderstood in order to mold you into the image of Christ?" Remember the example of a parent whose child ignores their warnings and continues to play out in the street…so the parent "brings the [extreme] heat"…is that parent willing to risk being misunderstood by their child – who now thinks that the problem/danger with playing in traffic is mommy. How much is that parent willing to be misunderstood…to be the bad guy…if doing so keeps their child safe and alive and healthy until they're able to understand the laws of health and physics?

- So we're supposed to rejoice in suffering…be grateful for trials and tribulation and not be surprised when they happen…bless those who persecute us…and if this extreme heat indeed purifies our hearts and refines our characters as we have been learning every week this quarter, then rather than passively waiting…shouldn't we actually seek it out? Actively go looking for it? Did Christ, for the joy set before Him, seek out "extreme heat" in the form of persecution, suffering, and the agonizing physical/mental/spiritual ordeal before Him. Ms. White wrote these comments about Jesus' reaction to Peter when he tried to obstruct Christ's mission:
"Peter loved his Lord; but Jesus did not commend him for thus manifesting the desire to shield Him from suffering. Peter's words were not such as would be a help and solace to Jesus in the great trial before Him. They were not in harmony with God's purpose of grace toward a lost world, nor with the lesson of self-sacrifice that Jesus had come to teach by His own example. Peter did not desire to see the cross in the work of Christ. The impression which his words would make was directly opposed to that which Christ desired to make on the minds of His followers, and the Saviour was moved to utter one of the sternest rebukes that ever fell from His lips…Satan was trying to discourage Jesus, and turn Him from His mission; and Peter, in his blind love, was giving voice to the temptation. The prince of evil was the author of the thought. His instigation was behind that impulsive appeal. In the wilderness, Satan had offered Christ the dominion of the world on condition of forsaking the path of humiliation and sacrifice. Now he was presenting the same temptation to the disciple of Christ. He was seeking to fix Peter's gaze upon the earthly glory, that he might not behold the cross to which Jesus desired to turn his eyes. And through Peter, Satan was again pressing the temptation upon Jesus. But the Savior heeded it not; His thought was for His disciple. Satan had interposed between Peter and his Master, that the heart of the disciple might not be touched at the vision of Christ's humiliation for him. The words of Christ were spoken, not to Peter, but to the one who was trying to separate him from his Redeemer. "Get thee behind Me, Satan." No longer interpose between Me and My erring servant. Let Me come face to face with Peter, that I may reveal to him the mystery of My love. It was to Peter a bitter lesson, and one which he learned but slowly [how many here are slow learners?], that the path of Christ on earth lay through agony and humiliation. The disciple shrank from fellowship with his Lord in suffering. But in the heat of the furnace fire he was to learn its blessing. Long afterward, when his active form was bowed with the burden of years and labors, he wrote, "Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you: but rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings; that, when His glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy." 1 Peter 4:12, 13. {DA 415-6}

SUNDAY

Abraham in the Crucible

- Just last quarter – Lesson 8, we had a lesson that focused on Abraham's promised son and the unfathomable call to sacrifice his beloved son on Mount Moriah – a sacrifice that perhaps only God himself could understand. In terms of "heat", this certainly seems rather…well, extreme! Why did God issue such a difficult command?? Was it a test for God's understanding or for Abraham's?? Or perhaps for the onlooking universe?? Remember, Abraham had already tried to "fix" the infertility issue by fathering Ishmael, and thereby demonstrated a lack of faith in God's ability to fulfil His promise. Was this God's way of further purifying Abraham's character…removing the last vestiges of selfishness and self-reliance?? One of the founders of our church had this to say about Abraham's experience:
  "Again the Lord saw fit to test the faith of Abraham by a most fearful trial. If he had endured the first test, and had patiently waited for the promise to be fulfilled in Sarah, and had not taken Hagar as his wife, he would not have been subjected to the closest test that was ever required of man." – Spiritual Gifts, vol 3, pg 106

  "God has always tried His people in the furnace of affliction in order to prove them firm and true, and purge them from all unrighteousness. After Abraham and his son had borne the severest test that could be imposed upon them, God spoke through His angel unto Abraham: "Now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son from Me." This great act of faith causes the character of Abraham to shine forth with remarkable luster. It forcibly illustrates his perfect confidence in the Lord, from whom he withheld nothing, not even his son by promise." -- Testimonies to the Church, vol 4, pg 19

- [OPTIONAL] "The wood was laid upon Isaac, the one to be offered, the father took the knife and the fire, and together they ascended toward the mountain summit, the young man silently wondering whence, so far from folds and flocks, the offering was to come. At last he spoke, "My father," "behold the fire and the wood: but where is the lamb for a burnt offering?" Oh, what a test was this! How the endearing words, "my father," pierced Abraham's heart! Not yet—he could not tell him now. "My son," he said, "God will provide Himself a lamb for a burnt offering." At the appointed place they built the altar and laid the wood upon it. Then, with trembling voice, Abraham unfolded to his son the divine message. It was with terror and amazement that Isaac learned his fate, but he offered no resistance. He could have escaped his doom, had he chosen to do so; the grief-stricken old man, exhausted with the struggle of those three terrible days, could not have opposed the will of the vigorous youth. But Isaac had been trained from childhood to ready, trusting obedience, and as the purpose of God was opened before him, he yielded a willing submission. He was a sharer in Abraham's faith, and he felt that he was honored in being called to give his life as an offering to God. He tenderly seeks to lighten the father's grief, and encourages his nerveless hands to bind the cords that confine him to the altar. And now the last words of love are spoken, the last tears are shed, the last embrace is given. The father lifts the knife to slay his son, when suddenly his arm is stayed. An angel of God calls to the patriarch out of heaven, "Abraham, Abraham!" He quickly answers, "Here am I," And again the voice is heard, "Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: for now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son, from Me." -- Patriarchs and Prophets, pg 152

Wayward Israel

- The story of Hosea has some powerful lessons to teach us. Hosea's situation is remarkable. His wife, Gomer, runs away and has children with other men. Though she is sexually unfaithful, God calls Hosea to take his wife back and fully show his love to her again. This story is meant as a parable about God and Israel. The Israelites had left God and were prostituting themselves spiritually to other gods, but God still loved them and wanted to show His love to them. But just look at God's methods!
- First, we risk not recognizing that God is at work. When Israel went through such hard and painful experiences, it might have been hard for them to recognize that their God was working for their salvation.
- Second, we risk misunderstanding God when He is at work. We may recognize that God is at work, but we don't like what He's doing. While we are feeling hurt and embarrassed, it is easy to blame God for being cruel, for not intervening, or for not caring. But God is always working to renew us through His covenant of love.

TUESDAY

Surviving Through Worship

- If God is giving permission for Job to suffer, what difference does it make whether God or Satan is personally inflicting the suffering? How can God be righteous and holy when He actively allows Satan to cause Job such pain? Is this situation a special case, or is it characteristic of the way God still deals with us today?

- It is possible to respond to such suffering in two ways. We can become bitter and angry, turning our backs on a God we believe to be cruel or nonexistent, or we can hang on to God more tightly. Job deals with his catastrophe by staying in God's presence and worshiping Him.

THURSDAY

Extreme Heat

- The bottom line? We live in a broken, sinful world in which we were promised that we would have trouble, guaranteed that we would have trials and tribulations, be "hard pressed on every side, but not crushed; perplexed, but not in despair; persecuted, but not abandoned; struck down, but not destroyed" (1 Cor 4:8-9)…but also promised the ALL these things would work together for good – like a refiner's fire and a launderer's soap to purify us Levites. I'll close with a quote from Ms. White's Testimonies to the Church, Volume 4:
- Our heavenly Father sees the hearts of men, and He knows their characters better than they themselves know them. He sees that some have susceptibilities and powers, which, directed in the right channel, might be used to His glory to aid in the advancement of His work. He puts these persons on trial and in His wise providence brings them into different positions and under a variety of circumstances, testing them that they may reveal what is in their hearts and the weak points in their characters which have been concealed from their own knowledge. He gives them opportunities to correct these weaknesses, to polish off the rough corners of their natures, and to fit themselves for His service, that when He calls them to action they will be ready, and that angels of heaven may unite their labor with human effort in the work that must be done upon the earth. To men whom God designs shall fill responsible positions, He in mercy reveals their hidden defects, that they may look within and examine critically the complicated emotions and exercises of their own hearts, and detect that which is wrong; thus they may modify their dispositions and refine their manners. The Lord in His providence brings men where He can test their moral powers and reveal their motives of action, that they may improve what is right in themselves and put away that which is wrong. God would have His servants become acquainted with the moral machinery of their own hearts. In order to bring this about, He often permits the fire of affliction to assail them that they may become purified… {4T 84.4}

  The purification of the people of God cannot be accomplished without their suffering. God permits the fires of affliction to consume the dross, to separate the worthless from the valuable, that the pure metal may shine forth. He passes us from one fire to another, testing our true worth. If we cannot bear these trials, what will we do in the time of trouble? If prosperity or adversity discover falseness, pride, or selfishness in our hearts, what shall we do when God tries every man's work as by fire, and lays bare the secrets of all hearts? {4T 85.1}

  True grace is willing to be tried; if we are loath to be searched by the Lord, our condition is serious indeed. God is the refiner and purifier of souls; in the heat of the furnace the dross is separated forever from the true silver and gold of the Christian character. Jesus watches the test. He knows what is needed to purify the precious metal that it may reflect the radiance of His divine love. God brings His people near Him by close, testing trials, by showing them their own weakness and inability, and by teaching them to lean upon Him as their only help and safeguard. Then His object is accomplished. They are prepared to be used in every emergency, to fill important positions of trust, and to accomplish the grand purposes for which their powers were given them. God takes men upon trial; He proves them on the right hand and on the left, and thus they are educated, trained, disciplined. Jesus, our Redeemer, man's representative and head, endured this testing process. He suffered more than we can be called upon to suffer…God's work of refining and purifying must go on until His servants are so humbled, so dead to self, that, when called into active service, their eye will be single to His glory. He will then accept their efforts; they will not move rashly, from impulse; they will not rush on and imperil the Lord's cause, being slaves to temptations and passions and followers of their own carnal minds set on fire by Satan. Oh, how fearfully is the cause of God marred by man's perverse will and unsubdued temper! How much suffering he brings upon himself by following his own headstrong passions! God brings men over the ground again and again, increasing the pressure until perfect humility and a transformation of character bring them into harmony with Christ and the spirit of heaven, and they are victors over themselves. {4T 86.2}

- [OPTIONAL] "Those who are finally victorious will have seasons of terrible perplexity and trial in their religious life; but they must not cast away their confidence, for this is a part of their discipline in the school of Christ, and it is essential in order that all dross may be purged away. The servant of God must endure with fortitude the attacks of the enemy, his grievous taunts, and must overcome the obstacles which Satan will place in his way...But if you keep looking up, not down at your difficulties, you will not faint in the way, you will soon see Jesus reaching His hand to help you, and you will only have to give Him your hand in simple confidence, and let Him lead you. As you become trustful, you will become hopeful... You will find help in Christ to form a strong, symmetrical, beautiful character. Satan cannot make of none effect the light shining forth from such a character... God has given us His best gift, even His only-begotten Son, to uplift, ennoble, and fit us, by putting on us His own perfection of character, for a home in His kingdom." (MYP 63-64)

2022 3Q In the Crucible with Christ—Lesson 6
Struggling With All Energy

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Dear Come and Reason family,

Since the founding of our ministry in 2010, we have been actively praying that God would not only lead us in advancing the truth, but also open new avenues for us to share this life-changing message with ever-increasing numbers of people.

Our ministry has steadily grown over the past twelve years, and we have just purchased and are completing renovations on our broadcast studio, classroom, and office facility. As we are being positioned to create more materials to share, God has now opened an entirely new avenue for advancing the healing principles of His kingdom. Dr. Jennings has been nominated for and accepted the position of Chair of the Department of Psychiatry at Liberty University College of Osteopathic Medicine in Lynchburg, Virginia.

The vision for this new position is for Dr. Jennings to lead the medical university in creating a world-class psychiatric residency training program that fully integrates Bible-based Christian principles with modern neuroscience and behavioral medicine. This training program will be a state-of-the-art, comprehensive, and holistic treatment program founded on a Christian worldview. It will not only train new physicians, but it will also become a template program to be replicated across the country and globe in like-minded Christian facilities, practices, and programs.

As you can see, this is an incredible opportunity to advance the gospel—pairing it perfectly with not just the healing arts, but specifically with mental healing in a biblically sound lifestyle program that leads people to harmonize with God's design laws for life and health.

Being at Liberty University will also provide Dr. Jennings with the opportunity to network with other like-minded Christians, increasing the speed at which new platforms to share the gospel and advance the principles of God's kingdom can be built.

Dr. Jennings will be closing his private practice in Chattanooga, and he and his wife, Christie, will be moving to Lynchburg to begin his new duties starting in mid-September. Dr. Jennings will continue to serve as president of Come and Reason Ministries and contribute weekly blogs, new sharing materials, and new lecture series. He will also continue to be involved in the Saturday morning livestream Bible studies and Q&A.

If you want to interact directly with Dr. Jennings, come to our new facility once it is complete; his livestream will be interactive in the studio. If you live outside the area, you will still be able to get the live broadcast as usual. Additionally, we will have a monthly potluck in our new facility, and Dr. Jennings plans on attending in person on those dates.

We hope you share our vision to advance God's healing truth that this opportunity presents, because we absolutely need your continued prayers and support as Come and Reason Ministries moves through this transition. We value you as a vital part of our team, so we ask that you continue to lift us up in prayer, join us each week for our live class, and share our resources with your family and friends.

Sincerely,

Come and Reason Ministries Board and Team

Building update: The HVAC has been installed and we are back on schedule, hopefully for early September move in date. Keep us in your prayers.

SABBATH

Read first two paragraphs, "A man and woman…" Does being a Christian help cope with trauma and loss?

Does prayer help?

What if one writes a computer program that has their computer pray for them each day would that help? Why or why not?

What if one has prayer beads they rub would that help?

What if one has a prayer wheel, with the prayer written on the wheel and they spin the wheel thinking every time the wheel turns a prayer ascends to heaven, would that help? Why or why not?

What is prayer and its purpose?

Does it matter to whom one prays?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

Does it matter for what one prays?

Does it matter with what attitude one prays?

- After 9/11/2001 Univ. MI examined prayer and coping, those who prayed regularly had better psychological adjustment 1 year later than those who did not
- Univ MI different Study Muslim refugees of Kosovo and Bosnia
  - 60% of whom had PTSD
  - 77% of them had "negative" forms of prayer, such as praying their enemies "would pay for what they have done." In other words, prayers of vengeance.
- Muslims with positive prayers - high levels of optimism, hope and healthy adjustment
- Vengeance and anger-related prayer - reduced levels of optimism, hope and healthy adjustment (Journal of Personality Volume 73, Issue 3, p 763-792, June 2005)

So what makes the difference in a person's response to trauma and loss?

Does the view a person has about what is happening matter?

Does the view one holds about who God is, what sin is, God's response to the sin problem, the future, and God's trustworthiness have any impact?

If one is angry with God because of some trauma or loss, is it okay to yell at God and tell Him how angry you are, or would that be a sin?

If your child was angry at you for anything, the reason isn't important, but you love your child and you want to resolve the reason for the anger, what would you want your child to do? Would you want them to talk to you? What if they were really angry and too immature to control it and they either yell for a while or don't talk to you at all, what would you want them to do? Would you want them to come to you with their anger, their accusations, their attitude and tell you, even if they do it immaturely, as long as at some point they are willing to listen?

What does God want from us?

Why does God allow such terrible things to happen in this world? What is the alternative?

SUNDAY

Read the first two paragraphs, "Have you ever prayed…" What will God do for us and what will God not do for us?

Tell me who is responsible for the following, God, us, or both?

- Changing a sinner's heart from disloyalty to God to loyalty to God?
  - Can a sinner change their own heart?

  - Can God change a sinner's heart without the cooperation of the sinner?
  - Does God have the power to force a change of heart?
  - What happens to the individuality of the sinner if God forced a change of heart upon an unwilling person?
  - If we had the ability to brainwash someone, to force a change of mind or attitude through some form of technology, manipulation, chemicals, programming that would cause a person who was rebellious, had hostility toward us to become passive and compliant, should we? Why or why not? What would happen to that person if we forced such a change upon them? Will God do this?
- Whose is the source of truth?
- Are we the source of truth? Can we comprehend godly truth without the aid of the Holy Spirit?
- Do we have a responsibility to search for truth, honestly, with a desire to know it?
- Do we have a responsibility to share the truth as we understand it with others?
- Who is responsible to wrestle with conflicting ideas, to think, reason and ultimately comprehend the truth, and be persuaded by it and choose it?
- Who is responsible to act upon the truth once they have chosen what they believe to be the truth?
- Who is responsible for the power to carry out the actions of healthy living based upon the truth?

From where does the truth originate?
From where does the power to be victorious come?
From where does the choice to be victorious come?
When do we get the divine power to be victorious?

God reveals truth to us in ways we can understand and then leaves us free to decide to say yes and act upon the truth or not. It is when we choose the truth and act upon that we receive the power to succeed. But we don't get the power until we choose to apply the truth by action.

Any Bible examples?

> "Yet as soon as the priests who carried the ark reached the Jordan and their feet touched the water's edge, the water from upstream stopped flowing. It piled up in a heap a great distance away…" (Joshua 3:15-16 NIV84).

The waters in this story are real physical obstacles to achieving what God was directing them to accomplish and represent all the obstacles that interfere with fulfilling what God has called us to do. When we understand God's will, and step out in faith to be obedient in fulfilling what God has called us to do, it is then that God provides the power to succeed and parts the waters for our success.

Many people know God is calling them to some action, but misunderstanding this point they wait until a bridge has been built over the water in order to step out in faith. They know God wants them to cross the waters, so they get an engineering consult, start a construction company, begin a fund raiser, and get a building project going that in fourteen years will result in a bridge to cross the waters that God would have parted had they stepped out in faith and allowed God to work.

Now, this is a metaphor, Solomon built a real temple that took over forty years with much preparation to build it, so of course there are times and places in which we do build real physical objects, but are there times when we need to be moving forward because God has called us to do so and instead we get derailed into planning out the human way forward?

Read third paragraph, "While the Holy Spirit…" This is a great point, the Holy Spirit convicts of sin, brings us the truth about ourselves and our need for Jesus, but who decides whether we repent and respond to the truth or harden the heart and reject it?

But is the only truth the Holy Spirit brings about our own sin condition, or is there another truth that is linked to it that is integral to our repentance, and in fact, without this other truth, just bring the truth about our sin condition might cause us to harden our heart in rebellion?

What is the central issue in the war between Christ and Satan? Is the central issue in the great controversy the sin condition of human hearts, or is the sin condition of human hearts the result of that central issue?

> For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. (2Corinthians 10:3-5 NIV84).

What caused Adam and Eve to sin in the first place? Lies told about God that broke their trust in Him and resulted in their condition changing from loyal love to fear and selfishness. This is the terminal sin condition with which we are all born (Psalms 51:5).

So, yes, we need to know the truth of our terminal sin condition, but that truth must be presented in conjunction with another truth or we don't come to repentance, we instead slide deeper into rebellion by denying God, or by various forms of self-soothing or self-medicating away the conviction of sin and guilt, or by creating false theologies that give us a false legal security but function to undermine trust in God by setting up various barriers to protect us and hide us from Him, and what is that other truth? The truth about God Himself—as Paul wrote in Romans 2:4:

> "Do you show contempt for the riches of his kindness, tolerance and patience, not realizing that God's kindness leads you toward repentance?" (Romans 2:4 NIV84)

Genuine repentance is more than conviction of sin, it is also being restored to trust in God. If we don't come to the truth about God, but instead are convicted of our sinful state while also believing in an untrustworthy, punishing, arbitrary, unfair god who is the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death then we undermine trust in God and lead people to deny God exists, or worship a false god.

What wins us to repentance is the truth about God that Jesus has revealed.

The lesson makes another excellent point about God not forcing the will. While God has the power to do so, He won't do so, why? Is it merely because of what Satan will say about Him? Is God held hostage by Satan's allegations? Or is it because there is a reality involved that would destroy what God is trying to save if God were to do this?

If God were to use power to force people to obey, then He would destroy their individuality and erase their identity and they would become programmed robots and only be imitations or simulations of who they were. The true individual would be destroyed and so would their ability to love.

Love only exists in an atmosphere of freedom, therefore God will never use power to force people, either directly by entering their heart and mind and making choices for them or by coercion and force externally applied.

God, like a loving parent, disciplines those He loves for the purpose of teaching, but God does not coerce. Just like loving parents who discipline their children, if the children insistent on growing up into rebellion, the parents eventually let them go, and sadly, so does God, why?

Does the truth that God will not coerce people into obedience have any impact upon the theologies we teach? Are there any ideas taught in Christianity that could sound like God is coercing?

What about the 3 angels' messages, could they be presented in such a way that it could misrepresent God and cause people to wrongly conclude that God is the type of being who says, you better worship me and in the legally right way I have commanded or else I will torment you with fire and brimstone to punish you for refusing to obey me?

How can we present the 3 angels' messages in way that doesn't misrepresent God? We have a magazine The Final Message of Mercy to the World: The Three Angels that does just that. You can get a copy here, read it online, and if you want some to share and have a US postal address we will ship it free. These are also available in Australia and South Africa.

Do we find God thundering and sounding threatening throughout Scripture, not just in Revelation 14?

How do you understand such language? Can we explain it in a way that doesn't misrepresent God? What is the key? Design law!

Is there another being who, if given the opportunity, will take liberty from people, will coerce consciences, will compel obedience?

Does the Bible predict this will happen on a global scale before Christ returns? Yes, it is the beastly system of Revelation which is ultimately led by Satan.

And have we seen a recent warning presented to the entire world that the beast is rising? Have we recently seen the worldly system of justifying the coercion of consciences as a good and righteous thing to do? And have we seen many churches and church officials join with the state in coercing consciences? Where and when have we seen this warning to the world?

Before Jerusalem was destroyed in AD 70, Jesus foretold there would be a warning sign, which was the armies of Rome surrounded the city, but then they briefly backed away. The Christians recognized that sign and fled the city and were not caught up in its destruction.

This is an object lesson for us. Jerusalem represents the beautiful land, the people of God, the righteous, who are caught up in the war and Satan uses his forces to try and destroy the people of God.

God worked through the Jewish nation to bring saving truths to the world, the inspired writers, the retaining and spreading of the Scriptures, the sanctuary message, a health message, the Sabbath, the looking forward to the advent of the Messiah. And from that group, that organization, came those people who accepted Jesus and took the gospel to the world. Yet, that organization rebelled against Jesus, rejected Him, did not see the warning signs in AD 70 and when Jerusalem was attacked its leaders and loyal adherents to that system were destroyed. The people of God did not side with the leadership of Jerusalem or Rome but left both.

We stand in a similar position, the King of the South (liberalism, godlessness) is attacking and the King of the North (religious imperialism) is rising up, a warning to the people of God went forth when the enemies of God, the enemies of liberty of conscience, circled the globe and then pulled back. What was that warning?

COVID mandates which have coerced the consciences of millions if not billions and were justified under the lie that they were necessary to save lives. Billions have believed these lies and as a result families and communities have been divided, millions, if not billions, have been harmed, deaths increased and did not decrease because of these mandates. Not only were the mandates morally and ethically wrong, they violated the medical and scientific laws of health.

We can never avoid the truth we can only delay the day we deal with it. The truth always comes out in the end, for those who couldn't see the medical, physiological truth about COVID for a variety of reasons, because the data wasn't uncovered yet, or it was obscured by lies and propaganda, the methods employed by those enforcing mandates revealed they were not working for the kingdom of God. They used lies, distortion, coercion, censoring, deplatforming, threats, intimidation, and refused open and honest discussion and exploration of evidence.

And millions have accepted and engaged in practices that are satanic in origin, including many in church leadership, just like the Jews 2000 years ago. Choosing to practice such methods under the justification of saving lives is conditioning people to betray God's principles and preparing hearts and minds for participating in the next big worldwide coercion of consciences.

The people of God are to recognize this warning and flee, not physically like the Christians fled Jerusalem 2000 years ago, but we are to cut out of our hearts, affections, loyalties and devotion the ties to the organizations and systems that practice such ungodly methods and establish our hearts and minds into loyalty to God and God's kingdom of truth, love, and liberty.

If you haven't watched my lecture on COVID and the Manipulation of Your Mind, I encourage you to do so. You will see how millions were duped by the employment of Satan's methods of lies and fear to incite selfishness and silence the truth which would have set minds free. Sadly, many Christian groups and organizations failed to discern the deadly methods employed and joined with the governments of the world to deceive their members and practice methods of coercions, all the while accusing those who practiced God's methods of truth, love, and liberty of not loving others. It has been quite evil.

MONDAY

The lesson points out that Paul in Colossians describes struggling to share the gospel despite being empowered with the power of God, that despite receiving God's power it was exhausting. The lesson notes that it isn't an easy thing to be successful in this world even with God's empowerment.

The lesson then goes on to say, "This is important to remember, because we live in a world in which we want more and more with less and less effort."

First question—is it a godly principle that we are to apply ourselves, that we are to work, including working for God and be workers in our own salvation?

> "work out your salvation with fear and trembling, for it is God who works in you to will and to act according to his good purpose." (Philippians 2:12-13 NIV84).

Do we do this work by ourselves? Does God work out our individual salvation by Himself? No, it is a cooperative effort, why? To retain our individuality. What God wants requires our active work, effort, engagement in a living trust or faith relationship with Him in which we choose and He leads and empowers.

Is this work, which God calls us to do, restricted to emotional mental work or does it include actual physical activity as well, not necessarily for a paycheck, but useful labor to achieve things in the real world?

What happens to people who do not apply themselves to achieve usefulness in this world? What happens to their abilities, talents, and character?

What method would Satan employ, if he could, that would claim to be helping people but would actually be violating God's design, laws, and purposes and result in destroying people?

What about replacing actions that relieve burdens from others purporting to be loving support but which function to relieve burdens and responsibilities from others that they, with diligent effort and real struggle, could accomplish?

What happens to a person if we give to people what they could accomplish for themselves? Will they develop, grow, mature, overcome or get weaker, more enfeebled, and less capable, ultimately becoming more dependent upon others? Is this what God wants for us?

Satan's lie is that love gives to people things without thought, just to give, but what is given interferes with their application of their own God-given abilities and results in their failure to develop themselves to the fullest. Can we think of any practices, policies, and philosophies that do this today?

Why would human beings go along with this? Some people do this purposely, strategically, why? They want to create a dependency class that relies on them and thereby create a predictable voting block for their own political power.

Let me give you an example of this manipulation of people to create an emotional issue that results in creating a reliable voting block to support a particular political faction. Yet, those garnering the support of the voters never actually resolve the issue because if it is resolved they lose the motivation to get people to vote for them.

Consider the recent Supreme Court ruling that overturned Roe v. Wade. We are not talking in here about the morality of abortion, what we are talking about is the legal and political landscape and why this issue has never been resolved in our country and how it is used to manipulate people.

In the USA all legal authority for all government institutions comes from the Constitution. The Constitution establishes the legal framework for the legislative, judicial, and administrative branches of the government.

One of the Supreme Court's jobs in this regard is to monitor and enforce what is inside the legal framework or bounds of what the Constitution authorizes. They act like referees in a football game, ruling whether the player is in bounds or out of bounds. The referee doesn't set the boundary lines, they only rule whether a player has stepped out of bounds or remained in bounds. Likewise, the Supreme Court doesn't set the boundaries, the Constitution does. The Supreme Court rules whether the other players in government, Congress, the President etc. are acting within the bounds of the Constitution or have stepped out of bounds. If they step out of bounds then the Supreme Court rules—unconstitutional, outside the bounds of what the Constitution authorizes and strikes down the action.

For instance, the Constitution authorizes as a right to all citizens the free exercise of one's religion. If Congress were to pass a law that mandated all US citizens must be baptized into a Christian church the Supreme Court would rightly rule that that law is outside the boundary of the Constitution and would strike it down.

But, Congress is free to pass almost any law within the framework of the bounds of the US Constitution. For instance, nowhere in the Constitution does that document give citizens a right to government provided healthcare. However, Congress can pass a law to provide it, which it has done and that is Medicare and Medicaid. And the Supreme Court has found this to be constitutional.

Now the question of abortion. Nowhere does the Constitution give or deny this right, but Congress has always had the authority to pass a federal law to make abortions legal or illegal in this country. Now think about it, why haven't they?

Because there are political parties that wants to have reliable emotional issues that will create large loyal voting blocks to keep them in power. So the political parties purposely and strategically decide NOT to use the Constitutional powers they have to pass a federal law to either provide this as a legal right or make it illegal. If Congress did act in this way, then the issue would be decided and the parties would lose a huge voting block of people. If you are a pro-choice person who supports the pro-choice party, you should ask, since the Roe v Wade decision back in the 1970s, has the pro-choice party ever been in simultaneous control of the House, the Senate and the Presidency and at times with super majorities? Yes, multiple times. Has the issue of abortion been under threat before? Yes, multiple times, and yet this party never used its Constitutional power to put this issue to legislative and legal rest, but instead kept it as a perpetual issue for every presidential election—be afraid, if the next president gets elected isn't of our party he may appoint an justice that will overturn Roe v. Wade….

And thus a perfect political tool to manipulate the masses to create a reliable and emotional voting block to keep themselves empowered.

I am not advocating for or against any political party, I am simply exposing manipulation of minds. I recognize all political parties as manipulative and exploitive and God's kingdom is not of this world. So please don't think because I exposed this political intrigue that I am taking political sides, I am not. I am advocating for leaving political parties behind and aligning with the kingdom of God.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "One of the greatest…" There are some really good points in this paragraph, in fact many good things in this week's lesson.

God created us to experience emotions, to be feeling beings, but our feelings are not to be in charge of us.

The mature person makes decisions based on truth, on understanding reality as God designed it, in harmony with God's laws, principles, purposes and will despite how it feels.

- Daniel and the lion's den
- Job staying faithful despite his grief
- Jesus in Gethsemane

James 1 tells us that we are tempted by our feelings.

Does that mean we should ignore our feelings? Absolutely not, our feelings are information to be processed through our higher faculties of reason and conscience and we choose what we understand is right despite what we are feeling in the moment.

The immature, the unhealthy, have habituated themselves to make decisions in the moment that feels best even when they know it is not the best. The mature, have grown up in their relationship with God to be able to stand firm for what is right even when it doesn't feel good.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson points to Jesus words:

> "If your right eye causes you to sin, gouge it out and throw it away. It is better for you to lose one part of your body than for your whole body to be thrown into hell." (Matthew 5:29 NIV84).

Then asks, "would you call them radical?"

Is Jesus being literal or using this as an object lesson about the value of the soul over the value of the body, of the value of eternal life over the value of temporal life?

One of Satan's tricks is to get us to value the body and what feels good physically over disciplining the body for the development of the character and the healing of the soul.

Another trick of Satan is to get people to value temporal life, the health of the body over eternal life:

- Daniel and the lion's den
- The three worthies on the plain of Dura
- Job and his physical suffering
- Jesus and His crucifixion
- All the martyrs
- COVID and the trap of valuing temporal life over eternal life, of willingness some to corrupt their characters by using coercive methods on others under the justification that it is to save lives, but at what cost? The cost of eternal life for those who harden their hearts in the methods of God's enemy.

THURSDAY

Why do we need to persevere? Who benefits from our perseverance?

Was Job persevering because He needed to work out some rebellion in his own heart?

What other option did Job have than to persevere?

If any of us are in union with God, like Job, and we are suffering some trial, like Job, what other option is there to perseverance?

If we give in we might get momentary temporal relief, but will we experience more peace, more joy, more happiness, or will we end up more miserable, discouraged, and hopeless? Why or why not?

Our choices in life are always between two options, what is healthy and what is unhealthy, what is true and what is false, what is harmony with God's design laws and what is a violation of God's design laws, what is based on trust in God and what is based on distrust in God. And health only is possible in harmony with the laws of health, which means in harmony with God!

2022 3Q In the Crucible with Christ—Lesson 7
Indestructible Hope

by Tim Jennings (announcement last page)

SABBATH

Read Memory Verse: “And hope does not disappoint us, because God has poured out his love into our hearts by the Holy Spirit, whom he has given us” (Romans 5:5 NIV84).

What does this text mean to you?

What is hope?
- The feeling of positive expectation of something desired?
- Looking forward with desire and reasonable confidence?

What do you hope for?
In what or whom to you place your hope?

As Christians, what are we to hope for?

Where are we to place our hope?

What does the memory verse about God’s love and the Holy Spirit have to do with our hope?

Let’s read the memory verse about hope in its larger context starting back in Romans chapter four verse 18 and going through chapter five verse eleven from The Remedy:

> In the face of human opinion and conventional wisdom, Abraham placed his hope and trust in God and thus became the father of many ethnic groups, just as God told him: "Your descendants will be numerous." [19] Without doubting God for a moment, he accepted it in the reality that he was one hundred years old and his ability to procreate was severely limited, and Sarah had gone through menopause and was beyond child bearing years. [20] Even though in human understanding the promise seemed hopeless, Abraham did not waver in his confidence in God, but praised God as he [21] realized that God was able to miraculously fulfill the promise. [22] This unwavering trust in God, in the face of scientific evidence to the contrary, was recognized as righteousness because this trust replaced distrust and opened Abraham's mind to receive the endowment of a new heart, right motives, and Christlike principles established by God's re-creative power. [23] This record of his "trust being recognized as righteousness" is not written merely for Abraham, [24] but for everyone who trusts in God. Everyone who trusts in the God who raised Jesus from the dead is recognized as righteous because through trust they receive the endowment of a perfect heart and have new motives created within, and their distrust of God disappears. [25] Because our minds were infected by distrust of God, and our condition was terminal, Jesus was given up to experience death in order to procure the Remedy. Having achieved God's purpose, he was raised to life, and now distributes this Remedy to completely restore us into perfect harmony with him.

5:1 Therefore, if our minds and hearts have been set right through trust, we are at peace with God through the Remedy achieved by our Lord Jesus Christ. 2 It is through Jesus that we know the truth about God and are won back to trust, and thus open our minds to experience God's gracious healing power. Our joy is found in the hope of full restoration into beings possessing Godlike character. 3 Because of this, we rejoice in our trials and afflictions, for we know that trials bring to light our shortcomings and defects of character. 4 If we persevere, choosing God's methods, the defects are removed and character is purified, and pure character increases our hope for God's kingdom. 5 And our hope will not be disappointed, because God pours out his love into our hearts and thereby matures, ennobles, and restores us into his image by the Holy Spirit, whom he has given to us.

6 You see, at the exact moment it was needed–when we were infected with distrust, rebelling against God, and our condition was terminal–Christ died to restore trust and cure the terminally ill. 7 Very rarely will someone die for a healthy person, though this might sometimes happen; 8 but God the Father demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were dying and in rebellion against him, Christ died to restore trust and cure sinfulness in order to heal us and bring us back to unity with God.

9 Now that we have been won back to trust, cleansed in mind and set right with God by all that Christ accomplished at the cross, it is ridiculous to think that God would let us go! 10 For since–while we distrusted God and fought against him in every way–his Son died to win us back to trust and friendship with himself and to cure our rebellious hearts, how much more, having won us back to trust and friendship, will God heal all the damage caused to us while we were in rebellion against him! 11 And even better still, having experienced this healing of mind and heart, we are overjoyed because God, through Jesus, has made us his friends.

Read second paragraph, “In one of his books…” The lion in the book is supposed to represent Jesus, what do you think of this idea that Jesus “is not safe, but he is good”?

C.S. Lewis has written so many wonderful things and advanced the gospel to millions if not billions. I have personally been blessed by his writings and have grown in my own journey with God from reading what he has written.

So I want to ask, is there any way you can think of that it is true that Jesus is not safe? I couldn’t think of one way this is true, to me this is a vestige idea from coming out of the Dark Ages understanding of God and God’s law, the idea that God’s law is imposed rules like humans make and need external enforcement. But perhaps I am not understanding what he means by this statement and so, can you think of some way in which Jesus is not safe?

If a person was dying of a terminal disease and there was the most compassionate a loving doctor who had a cure that worked 100% of the time for all who put themselves under the care of the doctor and followed the doctor’s instructions, would anyone say of the doctor “he is not safe, but he is good”?

If a person with a terminal condition refused the doctor's treatment, does the doctor become their enemy? If a patient doesn't like the taste of the medicine so they cheat and throw the medicine, given by the doctor, away and substitute their own which tastes good to them—will the doctor use power to harm them? What happens? Can God save cheats?

Does the doctor use any active means to injure, harm, or kill the dying patient who refuses treatment or cheats?

From where does death from sin come? Does it come from God? Does the Bible teach that sin does not harm or cause death, that sin is only legal rule breaking for which God is required to harm and kill? Is God the source of death and all sinners could live eternally in sin if God could just get over His need to kill?

No, the Bible is clear, sin, which breaks God's design laws for life and severs our connection with God, who is the source of life, is the cause of death.

- The wages of sin is death Romans 6:23
- Sin when full grown brings forth death James 1:15
- Those who sow to the carnal nature from that nature reap destruction Galatians 6:8

So where does this idea come that Jesus is not safe but He is good? It comes from believing God's law is like human law, made up rules that require external enforcement and thus Jesus isn't safe because He will enforce the rules and punish the rule breakers, but He is good because He only punishes those who deserve it and will forgive those who ask.

But this view of God is Satan's, it makes God out to be authoritarian and sin to be legal, and safety is found only in external rule enforcement and inflicted punishments, which coerce and undermine freedom and destroy love and individuality. God wants our love, trust, loyalty, friendship and devotion and this can only be achieved by the methods of God, truth, love and freedom. Thus the Bible teaches "not by might, nor by power but by my Spirit says the Lord" Zech 4:6.

The Spirit works via truth and love in absolute freedom, gently, through persuasion, not coercion, because God wants to preserve and ennoble your individuality, not dominate and control you.

Read last paragraph, "Even though…" This is well said, except for the inference that God needs to be "safe." God is absolutely safe. God is the source of life, health, goodness, righteousness, holiness. In God there is no evil, no sin, no shadow of turning, no cruelty, no disease, no unkindness, no wickedness, no disloyalty, no untrustworthiness, no impatience, no foolishness, no ignorance, no immaturity. In God there is perfection of all things good, love, truth, liberty, kindness, patience, virtue, righteousness. God is 100% and absolutely safe at all times.

What is not safe is sin, rebellion, and disharmony with God and God's design laws for life. Sin is absolutely deadly; sin harms, sin hurts, sin injures, sin causes pain, suffering and death.

So erase completely anything in your heart, mind, and beliefs that suggests or infers in anyway that God is not safe. God is the only place of safety.

- If God is for us who can be against us (Romans 8:31)
- If you make the Most High your dwelling—even the LORD, who is my refuge—then no harm will befall you, no disaster will come near your tent (Psalms 91:9-10 NIV84).
- The name of the LORD is a strong tower; the righteous run to it and are safe (Proverbs 18:10 NIV84).
- Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for you are with me; your rod and your staff, they comfort me (Psalms 23:4 NIV84).

God is not the source of evil. God protects us from all evil. We only have safety with Jesus, with God. God is always safe.

But the idea that God is not safe and our desire to feel safe is one of the factors that leads to so much bad theology, teachings designed to hide us and protect us from God because we don't believe He is safe. Such things like needing someone between us and God to plead to God so God won't kill us, or to offer God a sacrifice of human blood to pay God off so God won't kill us, or to cover us with some blinder system, some robe or cosmic screen that causes the Father to see as righteousness when in reality we are unrighteous etc. etc. etc.

We must return to what Jesus taught that if we have seen Jesus we have seen the Father, they are One! And no one had to stand between Jesus and Judas to protect Judas from Jesus. Jesus revealed by acts and deeds, even forgiving His crucifiers, that God is not a threat to us, God is not a danger to us, God is not the source of pain and death. What is a threat is sin and Satan and everything that separates us from God, including ideas that we teach in the church that keep us hiding from God rather than running to Him like king David and praying "search me and see the wicked way in me create in me a clean heart O God and renew a right spirit within me."

But the rest of this paragraph is excellent. Our human perspective is narrow, limited, and our infinite God who sees through time, who sees all the variables and cascading consequences of actions will do things that from our perspective may seem unpredictable and even not make sense to us. But we can be certain God's actions are always for our good, always in harmony with love and trust and to reach the most people for salvation.

Can you think of some examples of where God has done something that was unpredictable?

- God calls Moses to go back to Egypt—did Moses see that coming?
- God responds to Adam's sin by promising Jesus as our Savior did the angels or anyone see that coming?
- God allowed Joseph to be sold as a slave in order to elevate Joseph to Prime Minister—did Joseph's brothers see that coming?

Any examples in your own life?

- This ministry—we didn't see how God was going to work to establish and grow this ministry
- Our call to go to Liberty University. We certainly didn't see that coming. But we can see God leading and are aware of amazing possibilities for reaching people with the truths of God's kingdom for the healing of hearts and minds.

Since we are talking about God pouring love into our hearts and this is our hope. Let's consider 1John 4:16-18 and the three angels' messages.

> "Then I saw another angel flying in midair, and he had the eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live on the earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people. [7] He said in a loud voice, "Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water."
> [8] A second angel followed and said, "Fallen! Fallen is Babylon the Great, which made all the nations drink the maddening wine of her adulteries."
> [9] A third angel followed them and said in a loud voice: "If anyone worships the beast and his image and receives his mark on the forehead or on the hand, [10] he, too, will drink of the wine of God's fury, which has been poured full strength into the cup of his wrath. He will be tormented with burning sulfur in the presence of the holy angels and of the Lamb. [11] And the smoke of their torment rises for ever and ever. There is no rest day or night for those who worship the beast and his image, or for anyone who receives the mark of his name." [12] This calls for patient endurance on the part of the saints who obey God's commandments and remain faithful to Jesus" (Revelation 14:6–12 NIV84).

Now consider what we just read and harmonize it with what John, the same author of Revelation, inspired by the same Holy Spirit wrote in 1John 4:16-18:

> "God is love. Whoever lives in love lives in God, and God in him. [17] In this way, love is made complete among us so that we will have confidence on the day of judgment, because in this world we are like him. [18] There is no fear in love. But perfect love drives out fear, because fear has to do with punishment. The one who fears is not made perfect in love" (1 Jn 4:16–18 NIV84).

- What is the relationship between these two texts?
- How are we to fear God but then if we have God's love in our hearts we will have no fear?
- What is the relationship between fearing God and judgment and what is this confidence of love we are to have on the day of judgment?
- What is the relationship to this and giving God glory?
- What about fear having to do with punishment?
- If we have love and it drives out fear what is the relationship with punishment?
- When we think of punishment for sin, what comes to mind?
- Does punishment typically make one feel safe or incite fear?
- Does God punish and if so are we to be afraid of the punishment of God and if so how can we be perfected in love?

- But if we have fear as we face the judgment and fear the punishment for sin we are not made perfect in love, what is going on?
- Does the text say we are made legally perfect by a full and complete sacrifice to the heavenly magistrate so in the judgment we are declared righteous even though we are not? No, the text says we are made perfect in love, what does this mean?
- What day of judgment?
- Do we not have fear in the day of judgment because we have finally replaced imposed law with design law and we have finally judged God to be right, just as Paul in Romans 3:4 said needs to happen. And when we judge God to be righteous, holy, good, and understand His laws as design laws we trust Him, open the heart and experience His transforming power and are changed to be like Him, just as John is saying we don't fear because in this world we have become like Him!

Do you see the plan of God is to restore us to love and trust, to remove sinfulness from our inmost being, to set us right in heart and mind with God, to bring us into unity at-one-ment with God, to purify us, to cleanse His bride and bring us into eternal oneness with Him, i.e. Christ the Bridegroom weds His bride after He purifies her and makes her righteous.

SUNDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on the Big Picture and references Revelation 12:7-9 and Romans 8:22, let's look at those and ask, what is the big picture ideas of these two passages that can help us understand what is happening in the world?

> And there was war in heaven. Michael and his angels fought against the dragon, and the dragon and his angels fought back. But he was not strong enough, and they lost their place in heaven. The great dragon was hurled down—that ancient serpent called the devil, or Satan, who leads the whole world astray. He was hurled to the earth, and his angels with him (Revelation 12:7-9 NIV84).

What is the big picture idea here? How does it help us with difficulties in this world today? Does it give us hope or discouragement?

What kind of war is this?

Why was Satan cast out to the earth, why not some other planet?

Who gave Satan the ability to act on planet earth?

What about Romans 8:22?

> We know that the whole creation has been groaning as in the pains of childbirth right up to the present time (Romans 8:22 NIV84).

What is the big picture idea here? How do we apply it to what we see in the world today?

Is there sickness and defects and pain in the world today because there is sin in the world? Are all such problems a result of individual sin or caused by acts of sin?

Why is there disease, aging, death, decay, poisonous plants, ferocious beasts in the world today? From where did all of this come?

Did God create plants with thorns and plants that are toxic to humans, poisonous plants?

Did God create animals that kill each other for food? From where did they come?

And before Christ returns and God eliminates all sin, sickness, disease and death, do things on earth get better or worse? Why?

Does this give us hope or undermine hope?

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Oswald Chambers…" Just like C.S. Lewis, Oswald Chambers has written incredible things about God and dedicated his life to spreading the gospel, and millions if not billions have been blessed by his works. I also have found beautiful truths about God from reading some of Oswald Chambers writings.

But I question this particular idea. I wish he were here so I could ask him what he meant, for perhaps he means something I don't comprehend. But the way I am understanding these two sentences, it just doesn't quite add up for me.

Yes, God absolutely reveals Himself to us in all kinds of ways:

- In Scripture
- In the life of Jesus
- In nature and science
- In music
- In every act of kindness, mercy, compassion and love
- In the quiet moments when the Spirit moves upon our hearts
- In the providences of life

But does that mean that God will not reveal His plans to us? Hmmm…consider these Bible verses:

- "The Sovereign LORD never does anything without revealing his plan to his servants, the prophets" (Amos 3:7 GNT).
- "I am telling you now before it happens, so that when it does happen you will believe that I am He" (John 13:19 NIV84).
- "I have told you now before it happens, so that when it does happen you will believe" (John 14:29 NIV84).

Has God revealed through multiple Bible promises what He was going to do before He did it—sending the promised Messiah, bringing the Babylonians and the 70 year captivity and then having Israel set free to return and so much more, the various prophecies of Daniel etc.?

Has He told us of the second coming and an earth made new? Is He going to do it?

So, I am not sure what Oswald Chambers meant here, perhaps he meant that God doesn't spell out all the little details of where and how He is going to act in our lives because God, like a loving parent, sometimes wants to surprise us and see the smile, joy, and excitement on our faces when He blesses us with something He didn't tell us beforehand.

The lesson focuses on Job's struggles and his questions and the questions of Job's friends, then the lesson points out that God asks Job 60 questions which distinguish God as the infinite Creator and Job as a creature. Such question as:

> "Where were you when I laid the earth's foundation? Tell me, if you understand" (Job 38:4 NIV84).

And

> "Can you bind the beautiful Pleiades? Can you loose the cords of Orion?" (Job 38:31 NIV84).

Why do you think God asked Job such a long list of questions that made it clear God was the infinite Creator and Job, as a created being, was limited in both his ability and understanding?

Consider what the lesson suggests in the fifth paragraph, "God never…" Do you agree with this conclusion, that because God is the infinite Creator "Job certainly does not need any answers"?

If God was going to win the war with might and power and not give answers, couldn't He have done that right in heaven and there would have been no need for this world to fall into sin? Couldn't He have just punished Lucifer from the beginning and exercised His might to force compliance, if that was what He was going to do?

But is that the way God wins? Why or why not?

And what about the idea that the need for explanation has been eclipsed by overwhelming might, power, and magnificence, is this what God wants? Is this how He wins the war?

Did Jesus use such methods when He was on earth? Could Jesus have wowed His audiences with great displays of power and might and wealth and pomp? Did He? Why not? What did Jesus want to be the only thing that attracted His followers to Him? The beauty of heavenly truth! Why?

Because it is a battle for hearts and minds and every person MUST be fully persuaded in their own mind, so settled into the truth about God, His methods, principles and laws that nothing can shake us from God.

Satan doesn't have truth and love, but Satan does have more power than we do. Satan can wow, mesmerize, intimidate, demonstrate great light shows, mysteries, pomp, and wealth. Satan showed Jesus all the wealth of the nations of the world and offered them to Him, but God doesn't win hearts this way.

God wins hearts by presenting truth in love and leaving us free. The war is not over might and power, but over God's character and trustworthiness in the use of His infinite might and power. God absolutely invites our questions, "Come let us reason together…"

So, what was the purpose of this long list of questions to Job? It was NOT to shut Job down, to stop Job's questions, but it WAS the answer to Job's questions. God was leading Job by these questions to realize that there are perspectives, issues, possibilities that Job had not considered, that there is more going on that just earth, that an entire universe is involved, including the angels in heaven. God was, through these questions, opening Job's mind to larger realities Job had never considered and thus Job is silenced by insight, by truths that were stunning, awe-inspiring, and incredible. These questions were not presented to intimidate Job but to ennoble and enlighten him. It is really sad that God's magnificent patience in talking with Job and asking these questions is presented by some to teach exactly the opposite of what God actually did for Job.

God's actions in asking these questions caused thinking, questioning, contemplating deeper truths and thus opened Job's mind which is unlike certain religious institutions that build grand cathedrals and demonstrate much pomp and mystical ceremonies that are designed to intimidate and shut down thinking and reasoning.

TUESDAY

The lesson points to one of the most tender, encouraging, comforting and beautiful passages in Scripture, one that at times in my life has brought comfort and encouragement to me. Isaiah 41:13:

> "For I am the LORD, your God, who takes hold of your right hand and says to you, Do not fear; I will help you" (Isaiah 41:13 NIV84).

Have you ever needed God to take your hand and help you?

What does this perspective mean to you?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson points us to Israel's captivity in Babylon and that despite their captivity God still had a plan for them.

The Bible records these events not only as historical facts, but as lessons, as teaching illustrations to teach us the larger reality of the sin problem and God's solution for it.

- Why was Israel taken captive in Babylon? Because they were unfaithful to God and worshipped false God's. What is the spiritual lesson? What does Babylon represent?
- What happens to our hearts and minds if we reject God and His law?
- Will our hearts and minds be taken captive?
- Why did God allow them to be taken captive by Babylon?
- Why does God allow our hearts and minds to be taken captive if we reject Him and choose sin?
- Did God forget them and abandon them in Babylon?
- Does God forget us and abandon us even if we end up enslaved by some sin?

The lesson points our attention to Psalm 137 where the Babylonians were asking the captives to sing songs about their homeland, but they couldn't do it and this psalm has one of the most difficult passages in Scripture.

Let's read this from the NIV and consider what it is saying, then we will read it from The Remedy:

> By the rivers of Babylon we sat and wept when we remembered Zion.
> 2 There on the poplars we hung our harps,
> 3 for there our captors asked us for songs, our tormentors demanded songs of joy; they said, "Sing us one of the songs of Zion!"
> 4 How can we sing the songs of the LORD while in a foreign land?
> 5 If I forget you, O Jerusalem, may my right hand forget its skill.
> 6 May my tongue cling to the roof of my mouth if I do not remember you, if I do not consider Jerusalem
> 7 Remember, O LORD, what the Edomites did on the day Jerusalem fell. "Tear it down," they cried, "tear it down to its foundations!"
> 8 O Daughter of Babylon, doomed to destruction, happy is he who repays you for what you have done to us—
> 9 he who seizes your infants and dashes them against the rocks. (Ps 137:1–9 NIV84).

What does it mean? We have a Bible verse that tells us happy is the one who takes their enemy's babies and smashes them against the rocks. Should we start a religious campaign to put this into practice?

Does this sound right to you or does it sound in some way contradictory to what Jesus taught?

Here it is from The Remedy:

> 1 By the rivers of Babylon, as captives in this selfish world, we wept > when we remembered Zion — God's fortress of spiritual health and wellness.
> 2 There on the willows we hung our harps
> 3 while our captors told us to sing: they demanded songs of happiness and joy; they said, "Sing us a song of health about Zion!"
> 4 How can our lives be songs revealing God's character of love > while our hearts are held captive to this selfish world?
> 5 If I forget the truth about you, O Jerusalem — the center of God's healing plan — may I write no more music.
> 6 May I sing no more songs, if they are not about you;
> if they do not teach God's healing plan centered in you, O Jerusalem, > as my highest joy.
> 7 Remember, O Lord, what the Edomites did the day Jerusalem — your spiritual treatment center — fell? They shouted, "Tear it down, tear it down to the ground!"
> 8 O people of Babylon, who cling to selfishness, you are doomed to destruction! Happy are those who are finished with you, just as you deserve; who have weaned themselves from you.
> 9 Happy are they who take your children to fall upon the Rock and be broken.

THURSDAY

The lesson speaks of God's discipline and point out that in the Greek the word for discipline was the most basic word for "education."

Are discipline and punishment the same?

What is the difference?

Does the motive make a difference?

What is the goal of discipline?

What is the goal of punishment?

Should we fear discipline? What about punishment? Do we remember that in love there is no fear, because fear has to do with punishment?

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Dear Come and Reason family,

Since the founding of our ministry in 2010, we have been actively praying that God would not only lead us in advancing the truth, but also open new avenues for us to share this life-changing message with ever-increasing numbers of people.

Our ministry has steadily grown over the past twelve years, and we have just purchased and are completing renovations on our broadcast studio, classroom, and office facility. As we are being positioned to create more materials to share, God has now opened an entirely new avenue for advancing the healing principles of His kingdom. Dr. Jennings has been nominated for and accepted the position of Chair of the Department of Psychiatry at Liberty University College of Osteopathic Medicine in Lynchburg, Virginia.

The vision for this new position is for Dr. Jennings to lead the medical university in creating a world-class psychiatric residency training program that fully integrates Bible-based Christian principles with modern neuroscience and behavioral medicine. This training program will be a state-of-the-art, comprehensive, and holistic treatment program founded on a Christian worldview. It will not only train new physicians, but it will also become a template program to be replicated across the country and globe in like-minded Christian facilities, practices, and programs.

As you can see, this is an incredible opportunity to advance the gospel—pairing it perfectly with not just the healing arts, but specifically with mental healing in a biblically sound lifestyle program that leads people to harmonize with God's design laws for life and health.

Being at Liberty University will also provide Dr. Jennings with the opportunity to network with other like-minded Christians, increasing the speed at which new platforms to share the gospel and advance the principles of God's kingdom can be built.

Dr. Jennings will be closing his private practice in Chattanooga, and he and his wife, Christie, will be moving to Lynchburg to begin his new duties starting in mid-September. Dr. Jennings will continue to serve as president of Come and Reason Ministries and contribute weekly blogs, new sharing materials, and new lecture series. He will also continue to be involved in the Saturday morning livestream Bible studies and Q&A.

If you want to interact directly with Dr. Jennings, come to our new facility once it is complete; his livestream will be interactive in the studio. If you live outside the area, you will still be able to get the live broadcast as usual. Additionally, we will have a monthly potluck in our new facility, and Dr. Jennings plans on attending in person on those dates.

We hope you share our vision to advance God's healing truth that this opportunity presents, because we absolutely need your continued prayers and support as Come and Reason

Ministries moves through this transition. We value you as a vital part of our team, so we ask that you continue to lift us up in prayer, join us each week for our live class, and share our resources with your family and friends.

Sincerely,

Come and Reason Ministries Board and Team

Building update: The HVAC has been installed and we are back on schedule, hopefully for early September move in date. Keep us in your prayers.

2022 3Q In the Crucible with Christ—Lesson 8
Seeing the Invisible

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

The lesson asks, "How can we be sure about what we do not see?"

- Do you have any confidence or faith that radio waves exist? Why?
- Do you have any confidence or faith that radiation is real? Why?

Upon what have you based your faith in the existence of these things you cannot see?

What about our faith in God? Is there evidence for the existence of God? What evidence?

> since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse (Romans 1:20 NIV84).

What evidence is there from nature of God's eternal power and existence?

- The complexity of life itself
- The testable premises of life (complexity never happens randomly, it requires the input of an intelligence; life never comes from non-living matter, only from living organisms)
- The testable laws upon which life is built are fine tuned to sustain life and if any single one of them were to be changed in the slightest life as we know could not exist
- The testable moral laws, like the law of love, liberty, truth, exertion, restoration etc.
- The coded information in the DNA and RNA of all living organisms. There is no naturalistic explanation for information coding itself—and all thinking persons know this.

Thus, those who continue to promote godless theories of existence are the ones who operate outside objective reality, who deny evidence, and who advance belief systems that are superstitious, and require the suspension of reason.

But the delusion of godless evolution is so deeply imbedded into the accepted orthodoxy of modern education and science that it is almost never questioned.

The people who believe and teach this are blind guides leading more blind people to beliefs based on claims and proclamations that require the rejection of objective evidence. And it is this same type of denial of evidence, of rejection of design laws, of accepting authority of office, of position, of credentials, that governed the Dark Ages church in its abuses of people and which has been behind the entire COVID mandates and human rights abuses and exploitation. And you see the same hostile response that Reformers received from the Dark Ages church leveled against the those calling for truth in regard to the COVID and godless evolution misinformation.

In addition to the evidence of God built into the created order, we also have Scripture with its revelation of God, including God's foreknowledge evidenced in prophecy; the character of God revealed most clearly in the life of Jesus; and the plan of salvation.

And, we also can add to this our personal life experiences with God, harmonizing all three science, Scripture, and experience leads to solid reality based understanding of truth and the truth leads us back to our infinite God of love who values nothing higher than the freedom of His intelligent creatures that our loyalty to Him may be freely given.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "If God really loved me…" Have you ever thought this? Have you known people who have?

What is the problem with this type of thinking? What does it reveal?

It reveals that the person who says this doesn't truly know the heart of God and how much God loves them. If they did, then in trying circumstances they would say something like, "I know God loves me, but I just don't know why this is happening, why He is allowing this. It doesn't make sense." That is exactly how Job thought when he suffered at Satan's hand.

That is a right and reasonable question anyone might ask in our finite existence, even for those who do know God and know that God loves them. We even hear and echo of such a question by Jesus on the cross, "My God, My God, why have you forsaken me?" But Jesus never questioned God's love for Him.

But what does questioning God's love for us often lead to? Could it lead to other questions, like, "What sin did I commit that God is punishing me?"

Read third paragraph, "In Romans 8:32…" Do you like this rendering in The Message? It is very nicely done.

What is your answer to the lesson's question, "How could we possible think that God would send Jesus to die for us and then turn mean and stingy?"

Could it have anything to do with why we believe Jesus died for us?

Could the law lens we explain Jesus' death through impact how we see God?

topics@comeandreason.com

The Roman church became infected with the Roman view of God's law, the idea that God's law functions like human law, imposed rules that require the rule-giver to use power to punish and enforce rule-breaking. In this false law model, God becomes the source of suffering and death inflicted as punishment for sin upon sinners and thus Jesus' death is presented as a means to persuade God, appease God, propitiate God, influence God, legally pay God or God's law so that the ruler won't use power to torture and kill us.

Here are some quotations from various religious traditions documenting that our understanding of God has become infected with the human law model—and these statements document very clearly why people think that God sent Jesus but is still mean and stingy:

- What did Christ's suffering and death actually accomplish that allowed the Father to provide the human race with salvation? … Scripture teaches only that Christ became a 'propitiation,' a 'sin offering,' or a 'sacrifice' for sins...Essentially, this means that Christ, because he was guiltless, sin-free and in favor with God, could offer himself up as a means of persuading God to relent of his angry wrath against the sins of mankind… Anger against sin shows the personal side of God, for sin is a personal offense against him… God is personally offended by sin and thus he needs to be personally appeased in order to offer a personal forgiveness. In keeping with his divine principles, his personal nature, and the magnitude of the sins of man, the only thing that God would allow to appease him was the suffering and death of the sinless representative of mankind, namely, Christ. (Robert Sungenis, Founder and President of Catholic Apologetics International Publishing: Not By Faith Alone (Santa Barbara: Queenship, 1997), pp. 107-108.)

- We affirm that the atonement of Christ by which, in his obedience, he offered a perfect sacrifice, propitiating the Father by paying for our sins and satisfying divine justice on our behalf according to God's eternal plan, is an essential element of the Gospel. (A Call to Evangelical Unity," Christianity Today, June 14, 1999.)

- Paul always speaks of people being reconciled to God (2Cor 5:19; Rom 5:10; Col. 1:20). He never refers to God being reconciled to us. In spite of that fact, however, we should recognize that sin affected both sides. Humanity's rebellion and sense of guilt alienated it from God, while God was separated from humankind by His necessary hatred of and judgment on sin (His wrath). Christ's sacrificial death (propitiation) removed the barrier to reconciliation from God's side.)Knight, George, The Cross of Christ, p. 74.)

- Christ's self-sacrifice is pleasing to God because this sacrificial offering took away the barrier between God and sinful man in that Christ fully bore God's wrath on man's sin. Through Christ, God's wrath is not turned into love but is turned away from man and borne by Himself. Seventh-day Adventist Believe 27, p. 111.

- Why did God the Father choose a cross to be the instrument of death? Why did He not choose to have Christ instantly beheaded or quickly run through with a spear or sword? Was God unjust in executing judgment on Christ with a cross when He could have done it by beheading, a noose, a sword, a gas chamber, a bolt of lightening, or a lethal injection? Whidden, W., Ministry Magazine, February 2007. http://www.ministrymagazine.org/archive/2007/February/sinners-in-the-hands-of-god.html

- One of the fundamental problems of the Moral Influence Theory is that it rejects the substitutionary nature of Christ's death. The idea that God had to kill the innocent instead of the guilty in order to save us is considered a violation of justice. (emphasis mine) Rodriguez, A., Adventist World Review, December 2007; p. 40.

Do you see the imposed law lie woven into all of these statements? The idea that God's law functions like human law puts God into the role of executioner, the source of pain, suffering, and death inflicted because of rule-breaking.

But when we return to worshipping God as Creator, we recognize His laws are the protocols upon which reality is built and that sin is the source of pain, suffering, and death, not God. God is the source of goodness, life, health, and happiness and God's laws are the basis of such health and happiness. "The law of the Lord is perfect giving life to the soul" Psalm 19:7.

When we understand God's law is design law then we understand God is always good and God has been working through Jesus for the elimination of all deviations from His design, the elimination of sin and the restoration of His law in us, the restoration to righteousness or rightness which is the restoration to life. But if we refuse God, then God gives us up to our choice, which is separation from Him who is the source of life, and the result is ruin and death. This is the right Biblical understanding of God's wrath. This is what Paul says in Romans 1:18-32:

> The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness, 19 since what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them. 20 For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse.
> 21 For although they knew God, they neither glorified him as God nor gave thanks to him, but their thinking became futile and their foolish hearts were darkened. 22 Although they claimed to be wise, they became fools 23 and exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images made to look like mortal man and birds and animals and reptiles.
> 24 Therefore God gave them over in the sinful desires of their hearts to sexual impurity for the degrading of their bodies with one another. 25 They exchanged the truth of God for a lie, and worshiped and served created things rather than the Creator—who is forever praised. Amen.
> 26 Because of this, God gave them over to shameful lusts. Even their women exchanged natural relations for unnatural ones. 27 In the same way the men also abandoned natural relations with women and were inflamed with lust for one another. Men committed indecent acts with other men, and received in themselves the due penalty for their perversion.
> 28 Furthermore, since they did not think it worthwhile to retain the knowledge of God, he gave them over to a depraved mind, to do what ought not to be done. 29 They have become filled with every kind of wickedness, evil, greed and depravity. They are full of envy, murder, strife, > deceit and malice. They are gossips, 30 slanderers, God-haters, insolent, arrogant and boastful; they invent ways of doing evil; they disobey their parents; 31 they are senseless, faithless, heartless, ruthless. 32 Although they know God's righteous decree that those who do such things deserve death, they not only continue to do these very things but also approve of those who practice them. (Ro 1:18–32 NIV84).

Are we seeing this today? This passage is not talking biological conditions that sin brings upon the world. Jesus answered that question when His disciples asked who sinned that the man was born blind, him or his parents and Jesus answered neither. This passage is not talking about people born with biological conditions such as intersex conditions Klinefelter's, Androgen Insensitivity Syndrome, hermaphrodites and many others. No, this passage is talking about people who exchange and abandon the natural for the unnatural, people who started out life with normal, godly, natural desires and through rejection of God, rejection of truth, preferring false worship, and the pleasures of this world debased themselves and changed the natural God-designed relationships for the unnatural and perverse.

And God's wrath is exactly what it has always been, after every effort to reach people with love, truth, mercy, grace, forgiveness, and redeeming power, if people insist on going their own rebellious way, God gives them up to reap what they have chosen. It is the only action love can take. But because those actions are in violation of the laws upon which God constructed life and health to operate they will only destroy themselves.

From the Bible commentary Hard Sayings of the Bible published by Intervarsity Press we read the following about this section of Romans and God's wrath:

> In some sense, God's wrath is built into the very structure of created reality. In rejecting God's structure and establishing our own, in violating God's intention for the creation and substituting our own intentions, we cause or own disintegration. P 542

> The human condition, which Paul describes in Romans 1:18-32, is not something caused by God. The phrase "revealed from heaven" (where "heaven" is a typical Jewish substitute word for "God") does not depict some kind of divine intervention, but rather the inevitability of human debasement which results when God's will, built into the created order, is violated. Since the created order has its origin in God, Paul can say that the wrath of God is now (constantly) being revealed "from heaven." It is revealed in the fact that the rejection of God's truth (Rom 1:18-20), that is, the truth about God's nature and will, leads to futile thinking (Rom 1:21-22), idolatry (Rom 1:23), perversion of God-intended sexuality (Rom 1:24-27) and relational-moral brokenness (Rom 1:28-32). P 543

> The expression "God gave them over" (or "handed them over"), which appears three times in this passage (Rom 1:24,26,28), supports the idea that the sinful perversion of human existence, though resulting from human decisions, is to be understood ultimately as God's punishment which we, in freedom, bring upon ourselves. P 543

> In light of these reflections, the common notion that God punishes or blesses in direct proportion to our sinful or good deeds cannot be maintained… God loves us with an everlasting love. But the rejection of that love separates us from its life-giving power. The result is disintegration and death. P 543 (Kaiser, W., et al., Hard Saying of the Bible, Intervarsity Press, 1996).

So, do we see how exchanging the truth about God's law for the lie that God's law functions like human law, that people can still think of God as mean and stingy despite sending Jesus as our Savior?

MONDAY

The lesson quotes John 14:14 "If you ask anything in My name, I will do it."

Do you believe this? Is it true?

If you pray, and end your prayer by saying, "In Jesus name" and ask that you win the next lottery, will Jesus do this for you? Will Jesus do anything we ask in His name?

Is it possible we don't understand the meaning of praying in Jesus' name?

The lesson goes on to note that this promise of Jesus is the reason we end our prayers "In Jesus' name" and asks "When we say this, what do we normally think it means?"

What does it mean to pray in the name of Jesus?

In the Bible what do names represent? Character, so to pray in Jesus' name isn't about putting a verbal tag at the end of our prayers, it is about praying with the character of Christ.

Now, if we are praying with a heart that has been renewed to be like Jesus in character, what kinds of things will we pray for? For God's will to be done on Earth as it is in heaven. Can we be sure that God will do His will if we ask Him?

Read the third paragraph, "When our request…" Are you encouraged to think about the entire power of heaven, with all of its agencies going into action to answer our godly prayers? Can you think of any examples from Scripture?

I really like Daniel chapter 10 when Daniel prayed for the fulfilling of Jeremiah's prophecy of setting the captive free after 70 years. Daniel prays and fasts for 21 days and then Gabriel comes and tells him that as soon as Daniel started praying 21 days earlier he was dispatched from heaven to go to the king of Persia, but Gabriel was being opposed by the prince of Persia. Gabriel says he can't stay long to explain this because the prince of Greece was coming to help the prince of Persian in opposing Gabriel, and Gabriel doesn't have anyone to help him except Michael.

What does all of this mean?

- When we pray with Christlike motives heaven answers
- There are real intelligent beings, angels, on our side working to oppose Satan and his fallen angels
- Who are the princes of Persia and Greece? These are fallen angels working under the command of Satan, who the Bible calls the prince of the world.
- How many of the angels rebelled with Lucifer? 1/3, then why is it, if heaven as a 2 to 1 advantage in angels, there is no one left to help Gabriel except Michael?
- What kind of warfare is this? Were Gabriel and the princes of Persia and Greece engaged in physical warfare?
- 2 Cor 10:3-5 it is war for hearts and minds, it is a battle of truth versus lies, love versus selfishness, freedom versus coercion. Gabriel is the angel who became covering cherub occupying the place that Lucifer abandoned. In the created order Gabriel stands closest to God and there is not another angel with greater understanding of the truth and love of God than Gabriel. So there is no other angel that can bring more truth and love to bear than Gabriel—it isn't about numbers it is about truth and love. So only Michael, the prince, the one whose voice raises the dead, the one who holds the keys to death and the grave, the angel of the Lord who spoke to Moses in the bush in Exodus 3 and who the Bible says is the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. This is Jesus in His pre-incarnate form. Only Jesus can bring more truth and love to bear than Gabriel.
- Let's be clear here, we are not suggesting Jesus is an angel or a created being. Absolutely not, Jesus is fully God, pre-existent, fully divine, with life original, unborrowed and underived from another source. We are suggesting that Jesus prior to incarnation manifested in the form of an angel and this is supported throughout Scripture. He did this because finite beings, including angels, cannot enter into infinity where God lives in unapproachable light, so one member of the Godhead left infinity to interact with His intelligent creatures on their level. That member was and is Jesus.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Resurrection addresses…" It is absolutely true that we as humans do not have the power over death, we are powerless to stop it. We are not the source of life. We cannot speak things into existence. We cannot cure the sin problem. We cannot destroy death and bring life and immortality to light.

Life originates in God and is sustained by God and God alone.

But what do you think of this idea that the death of Jesus made us legally right with God?

Is the sin problem a legal problem?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

When Adam and Eve sinned were they still faithful, holy, pure, righteous beings who merely had a legal problem with God, or were they changed in some way?

If the sin problem is a legal problem what happens if we don't get the proper legal solution?

What is a legalist? Someone who is preoccupied with their legal standing—this statement is legalism, and it is based upon the Roman view of God's law that God's law functions like human law.

The reality is that God is the Creator, His law are the protocols upon which life is built and sin transgresses God's law and changes the sinner from a state of holiness and life to unholiness and death.

As Scripture teaches that we are dead in trespass and sin. We have a terminal condition which we inherited from Adam and that without remedy results in death. But God did not leave us without Remedy. He sent Jesus, who while we were still sinners died for us in order to procure the solution, a cure, a remedy, that we could never provide for ourselves. And if we surrender in love and trust to Jesus, the Spirit takes that remedy and cure and instills it in us. There are many metaphors for this in Scripture note what they describe:

- Circumcision of the heart by the Spirit
- Removing the hard stony heart and putting in a tender heart
- Rebirth
- Renewal
- Dying to the old life and arising to a new life
- Having the mind of Christ
- Our old self no longer living but Christ living in us
- Writing the law in our hearts and minds

What do all of these descriptions functionally describe? Do they describe a legal process or a renewing, healing, transforming process?

You will not find the human law court system of theology in Scripture—some might immediately object and say, what about Zechariah and the high priest standing before God and being accused by Satan.

Great example, just read the story and ask what is happening. Is there any legal process going on at all, or is there a healing and renewal process with the rejection of the legal attacks made by Satan? The angel of the Lord is directed to take away the sin of the high priest and clothe him in righteousness, this is healing and the Lord rejects and rebukes the legal attacks of Satan.

We must stop presenting Satan's view of law and Satan's perversion of the plan of salvation that ultimately makes God out to be like Satan in character, the source of pain, suffering, and death.

Read the second paragraph, "However, the Resurrection…" What of this idea that the Resurrection placed Jesus at the right hand of the Father in a position of power and authority?

Was Jesus not in that position before His incarnation, sinless life, death and resurrection? Is this just a typographical error and they left out the phrase "in His human incarnated form" at the right hand of the Father?

I certainly agree that Jesus took His humanity back to heaven and Jesus is the second Adam and because of His victory over sin and Satan, Jesus, as a human, stands at the right hand of the Father. If that is what they meant then I agree completely. But I wouldn't want to say that Jesus the Son of God was not already at the right hand of the Father before His incarnation.

The lessons asks us to read Ephesians 1:18-23:

> "I also pray that your reasoning abilities and conscience may be healed so that you can discern and understand God's purpose for all humanity — the incredible, rich inheritance in store for his children —and God's incomparable power to heal and restore all who trust him. That life-giving power was seen as the outworking of his true strength, which he exerted when he raised Christ from the dead and seated him at his right hand in heaven, above all power, rulers and authority, above all other kingdoms, empires or governments, and above every title that can be given–now and forever. And God placed everything under Christ's governance and appointed him the Supreme Head over all creation, including the church–his body, the showcase of his character–which he fills with every blessing and ability" (Ephesians 1:18-23 REM).

What is the message in this passage?

Read last paragraph, "But Paul doesn't…" Didn't Jesus have the power to rule before the resurrection? Didn't Jesus have the right to rule before His resurrection? What didn't Jesus have before His incarnation, sinless life, death on the cross and resurrection, that we need?

> "Although he was a son, he learned obedience from what he suffered 9 and, once made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him" (Hebrews 5:8-9 NIV84).

Why did Jesus have to learn obedience? This is talking about His humanity, not His divinity. Jesus came to fix what Adam broke. Jesus took up humanity damaged by Adam and the generations of sin and overcame all that damage and carried humanity back into sinless perfection. In the person of Jesus, exercising only human abilities, not divine abilities, Jesus overcame every temptation, loved perfectly, chose with a human brain to trust His Father and give His life in love despite being tempted with human emotions and the drives of me-first survival of the fittest that urged Him to save self. And thereby, at the Gethsemane and the Cross Jesus destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light by destroying the law of sin and death, the carnal drives, fear and selfishness infecting the species, and restoring God's living law of love back into the species human. Thus He became the source of salvation for all who obey Him.

When we are won to trust and open the heart this victory of Jesus is given to us as gift, we get peace with God in our hearts, our fear goes away, we get new desires and new motives that we must choose to act upon and when we do we grow and mature in those desires and motives and develop godly character. But the motives, desires, and power to succeed are all from Jesus, the choice to trust, the choice to apply the truth, and the choice to act come from us, but the victory that enables all of this comes from Jesus and Jesus alone.

WEDNESDAY

Read second paragraph, "Someone once said…" Why do we wait often to go to the Lord until we are overwhelmed and feel helpless?

- Worry about future events and issues that is not ours to worry about—ours is to choose in governance of self what we know is right, healthy, and reasonable and trust God with how things turn out
- Not wanting to accept certain things or outcomes, especially when we see things going ways that cause us emotional distress
- Trying to avoid some pain, seeking an easier way. Deciding based on how it feels rather than on whether it is right and healthy.
- Concern about being negligent, in other words, not wanting to ask God for help because we don't want to be presumptuous, or to bother God with things that we think are insignificant. We are conscientious and want to do our part and sometimes we overreach and try to do things that we should first seek God's directions and counsel before pursuing. Like David building a temple.

Read the fourth paragraph, "Anxiety is caused by all sorts of things…" This is right. Anxiety is a symptom and should be considered a signal to the mind that something is wrong in a similar way that pain is a signal that something is wrong with the body.

If you get physical pain the first response should not be "I have a pain disorder and need pain medicine." The first response should be, what is causing the pain and the second is, what do I need to do to resolve the cause. Is the pain from a thorn, touching something hot, a cramp, etc.

Likewise, anxiety signals that something is wrong and the first question should be, what is the cause of the anxiety, and the second, how to I resolve it. Anxiety can come from:

- Physical causes—hormone problems/sleep problems/substances etc.
- Relationship problems
- Psychological problems
- Spiritual problems
- Real world threats
- Financial problems
- Being overwhelmed with too many legitimate responsibilities
- Trauma

It is a mistake to treat the symptom of anxiety with a single intervention, whether that intervention is medication or prayer.

Read the last paragraph, "Whatever the reasons…" What about the question "Does God still care enough to intervene when a divorce is looming?" And then the lesson states, "The Bible states that He cares enough to transform any situation."

Is it true that God cares enough to transform any situation? Yes, it is absolutely true that God cares, but could this statement lead to misunderstanding, such as: If God cares, and He doesn't transform the situation, then that means He either wanted the divorce, or the abuse, or the murder or rape or whatever other evil transpired, or He isn't powerful enough to transform it.

This is the problem many have, with leaving a statement like this in isolation.

But in order for God to transform a marriage, what type of intervention are we talking about?

Healthy relationships require healthy people. What happened to the relationship between Jesus and Judas? It ended in betrayal—did God not care enough to intervene? Of course He did, and He intervened directly by washing Judas dirty feet, by protecting Judas's reputation etc. But God's interventions don't take away our freewill and thus when it comes to relationships God cannot fix the relationship, what God can do is heal the hearts and minds of the individuals in the relationships IF they let God into their hearts and then the relationships improve as the people improve. But if people close their hearts to God, then God cannot fix the relationship.

THURSDAY

The lesson asks about how you would describe God to people who feel that God has disappeared and abandoned them?

FRIDAY

The lesson quotes E.G. White who wrote, "Faith grows strong by coming in conflict with doubts and opposing influences. The experience gained in these trials is of more value than the most costly jewels" 3T p. 555.

Do you see a design law involved? The law of exertion—if we want to grow stronger we must exercise the ability for if we don't use it we lose it. Thus, faith grows stronger as we face various conflicts, trials, doubts, and opposition, but stand firm in our faith, following the truth and trusting God.

2022 Q3 In The Crucible With Christ: Lesson 9
A Life of Praise

by Lori Atkins

SABBATH

memory text

> "Rejoice in the Lord always. Again I say, rejoice!" Phillipians 4:4

How much leeway is given here…there is an absolute in that sentence, what is it? How much time or what conditions are specified when we should NOT be rejoicing in the Lord? I mean, it is easy to shout with joy…praise…rejoice when we feel joy, when we are on top of the mountain, things are right in our worlds. But what about when we feel anything but joy, when we are down in the bottom of the pit at the bottom of the valley, and everything is going wrong? Is it easy to rejoice then…to sing songs of praise and thanksgiving? Could that be precisely the time when we need – perhaps more than ever – to praise God? Is it possible that praise can indeed transform even our darkest circumstances – not by changing the objective facts situation – but by changing our perspectives, our attitudes, and even changing those around us in a way that encourages and empowers and sustains us in the midst of our challenges?

What is praise? The dictionary definition specifies that "praise" can be either a noun or a verb, and is described as an expression of admiration or approval for someone or something…also to glorify or extol.

How can something so simple be such a powerful transformational weapon in the worst of circumstances?

I want to go through some inspiring examples of the transforming power of praise in some unimaginable situations.

Roman Emperor Antoninus Pius (a.d. 138–161) continued Emperor Trajan's policy and practice of persecuting Christians. In a.d. 155, a crowd brought a group of Christians to the authorities of the city of Smyrna in Asia Minor to be convicted and punished. When the Christians refused to acknowledge the gods of the empire, they were punished by death. Afterward, the crowd demanded that Polycarp, the bishop of the church in Smyrna, be brought before the city. A disciple and friend of the apostle John, the old Polycarp also was a widely known and influential Christian leader in Asia and beyond. When Polycarp finally was brought into the amphitheater, the proconsul tried to persuade him to recant his faith and curse Christ.

The faithful disciple of Jesus replied: "For eighty-six years I have served him, and he has done me no evil. How could I curse my king, who saved me?" When, eventually, the proconsul condemned him to be burned on the pyre and the soldiers tied him to the stake, Polycarp prayed and praised God with a loud voice:

> "Lord Sovereign God . . . I thank you that you have deemed me worthy of this moment, so that, jointly with your martyrs, I may have a share in the cup of Christ. . . . For this . . . I bless and glorify you. Amen."—Justo L. González, The Early Church to the Dawn of the Reformation, The Story of Christianity, vol. 1, revised and updated ed. (New York: HarperCollins Publishers, 2010), p. 54.

Polycarp was only one of thousands of Christians who, following biblical characters such as David and Paul, praised God from amid persecution and the trials of life. Those early Christians praised God from the flames, from the stakes, from the amphitheaters full of wild animals, from crosses, from the prison cells, and from the chambers of torture. They did not think about the injustice done to them; they did not calculate the cost-benefit ratio of their act. They loved and trusted God and did not hesitate to make a radical and ultimate commitment to Him. They did not consider it a hardship to die for their Lord. Rather, they considered it a privilege to suffer and die for their beloved Savior. They unhesitatingly trusted God and His promise of resurrection and considered death but a moment in time on their way to meet their Lord in glory.

Writing about the experience of David as he faced the rebellion of his son Absalom, Ellen G. White notes David's habit in resorting to singing and praising God in times of trouble:

> "'A mighty valiant man,' a man of war, a king, whose word was law, betrayed by his son whom he had loved and indulged and unwisely trusted, wronged and deserted by subjects bound to him by the strongest ties of honor and fealty—in what words did David pour out the feelings of his soul? In the hour of his darkest trial, David's heart was stayed upon God, and he sang."—Patriarchs and Prophets, pp. 741, 742.

What about Job? In the midst of unimaginable loss – property, livestock, wealth, all of his children…He said,

> "I was born with nothing, and I will die with nothing. The Lord gave, and now He has taken away. May his name be praised!" – Job 1:21 GNT

In chapter 2 of The Great Controversy, entitled "Persecutions in the First Centuries," Ellen G. White describes how singing and praising God gave Christians the most genuine and deep joy and peace amid the fiercest affliction and persecution:

> "Like God's servants of old, many were 'tortured, not accepting deliverance; that they might obtain a better resurrection.'…These called to mind the words of their Master, that when persecuted for Christ's sake, they were to be exceeding glad, for great would be their reward in heaven; for so the prophets had been persecuted before them. They rejoiced that they were accounted worthy to suffer for the truth, and songs of triumph ascended from the midst of crackling flames. Looking upward by faith, they saw Christ and angels leaning over the > battlements of heaven, gazing upon them with the deepest interest and regarding their steadfastness with approval. A voice came down to them from the throne of God: 'Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.' Revelation 2:10."—The Great Controversy, p. 41.

Fanny Crosby the song writer who wrote many famous hymns such as:

- "All the Way My Savior Leads Me"--1875,
- "Blessed Assurance"--1873,
- "He Hideth My Soul"--1890,
- "More Like Jesus"--1867,
- "Jesus Is Tenderly Calling You Home"--1883,
- "Near the Cross"--1869,
- "Redeemed, How I Love to Proclaim It!"--1882,
- "Rescue the Perishing"--1869,
- "Safe in the Arms of Jesus"--1868,
- "Take the World, But Give Me Jesus"--1879,
- "Tell Me the Story of Jesus"--1880,
- "To God Be the Glory"--1875

She was blind from infancy and later in life, wrote:

> "It seemed intended by the blessed providence of God that I should be blind all my life, and I thank him for the dispensation. If perfect earthly sight were offered me tomorrow I would not accept it. I might not have sung hymns to the praise of God if I had been distracted by the beautiful and interesting things about me. If I had a choice, I would still choose to remain blind...for when I die, the first face I will ever see will be the face of my blessed Savior." – https://www.eaec.org/faithhallfame/fanny_crosby.htm

Then there is the story of Horatio Spafford, who faced much tragedy and difficult circumstances in the late 1800's. First, his son died when he was only 2 years old…then despite being a successful attorney and real estate investor, the Great Chicago Fire of 1871 ruined him financially as his investment properties were significantly damaged by the great fire. His business interests were further hit by the economic downturn of 1873, at which time he had planned to travel to Europe with his family on the SS Ville du Havre. In a late change of plans, he sent his family ahead while he was delayed on business concerning zoning problems following the Great Chicago Fire. While crossing the Atlantic, the ship collided with another sea vessel, the Loch Earn, and sank rapidly…all four of Spafford's daughters died. His wife Anna survived and sent him the now famous telegram, "Saved alone …". Shortly afterwards, as Spafford traveled to meet his grieving wife, just as his ship passed near where his daughters had died, he was inspired to write the words to a song…one he named after the stricken vessel, but a song we recognize by the famous chorus, "It is Well With My Soul."

How is this possible?

How do you pass the spot where all FOUR of your daughters went to their watery graves and write these words:

> "When peace like a river, attendeth my way, When sorrows like sea billows roll; Whatever my lot, Thou hast taught me to say It is well, it is well, with my soul…For me, be it Christ, be it Christ hence to live: If Jordan above me shall roll, No pang shall be mine, for in death as in life, Thou wilt whisper Thy peace to my soul."

How does a person praise God for their blindness…thank Him for not distracting her with sight?!? How do martyrs sing songs of triumph and rejoice even while they are burning? This is not natural to me…surely this ability or instinct to praise at all times and in any circumstance is supernatural, and requires practice. What design law might be in play here…if we want to learn how to play an instrument, we must practice…if we want to be good at math, we must work math problems. So if praising – even in the midst of the storm – doesn't come naturally to us, when we practice praise so that it becomes a natural part of our lives, a habit, just our instinctive reaction in ANY circumstance, then praise has the power both to convert and to conquer.

> "And while I adore and magnify Him, I want you to magnify Him with me. Praise the Lord even when you fall into darkness. Praise Him even in temptation. [Wait…what???] 'Rejoice in the Lord alway,' says the apostle; 'and again I say, Rejoice.' Will that bring gloom and darkness into your families? No, indeed; it will bring a sunbeam. You will thus gather rays of eternal light from the throne of glory and scatter them around you. Let me exhort you to engage in this work, scatter this light and life around you, not only in your own path, but in the paths of those with whom you associate. Let it be your object to make those around you better, to elevate them, to point them to heaven and glory, and lead them to seek, above all earthly things, the eternal substance, the immortal inheritance, the riches which are imperishable."—Testimonies for the Church, vol. 2, pp. 593, 594.

SUNDAY

Framework for Praise

There are two basic types of prayer. First type of prayer—the prayer of need—brings our hearts and minds into the truth of our own helplessness, our own limitations, our own inability, and our own hopelessness without God in our lives. It is a prayer of humility that opens our hearts and minds to God, to connect with God, to seek God's presence in our inmost being. This is more than just the pursuit of knowledge, such prayer seeks the will of God in our lives and thus opens us to the healing and recreating presence of God. Our fears and insecurities are replaced with love and trust in God…we are transformed as we come into connection with our Creator.

The second type of prayer is that of thanksgiving, worship, and praise. This type of prayer solidifies our hearts in love, adoration, appreciation, affiliation, confidence, and faith in God…all of which is also working to eradicate our fear and selfishness in the bonds of love and trust. Prayers of praise and thanksgiving focus our minds away from ourselves and onto Him by communicating our love, devotion, reverence, appreciation, and thankfulness to God. It is exalting God for who He is, communicating our longing for Him. Our praise welcomes His presence in our midst – God lives in our praise…He inhabits the praises of His people, so when we praise and worship God, His presence comes to dwell with us…and when He does, things change. Always. You can count on it – hearts change, situations change, minds change, attitudes change, lives change. Every time you praise God, something changes within you, or your circumstances, or in the people or situations around you. Even if we can't see all that is being affected, we can trust that it is…because it is impossible to touch the presence of God and there NOT be change.

When you come in contact with all that God is, it will affect all that you are. Praise is the prayer that changes everything. This framework for praise comes from really knowing God – the eternal life kind of knowing mentioned in John 17:3 – If we really understood who God is, our praise would be unending…It simply could not be contained.

Who is this practice of praise for? What is the point of rejoicing always (Phil 4:4), or blessing the Lord at all times (Psalm 34:1)? Is all this praising and worshiping for God or for us? Does God need to be reminded of who He is, or do we need to be reminded? Does God need to be reassured in the knowledge of His greatness, perfection, and love…or are we the ones who forget? When we are praising God, we are demonstrating and agreeing with and becoming like who He is. This instinctive response of praise must become a condition of the heart, a way of life, a pattern that is woven into the very fabric of our being – to the point where it is no longer a decision that has to be made because the decision has already been made, and we live a lifestyle of praise. (The Prayer That Changes Everything, Stormie Omartian, Harvest House Publishers, 2004.)

There is more design law stuff woven into this process of deciding…of actively choosing…the right action of the will. What is it? Our brains are amazing quantum computers. They are composed of 100 billion neurons and more than one trillion supporting cells. Each neuron can have up to 10,000 connections to other neurons. That's over 40 quadrillion interconnections!

These 40 quadrillion interconnections in our brains are comprised primarily of dendrites. Within each neuron, there are 10 million microtubules, and each microtubule is made up of billions of tubulin molecules, which in turn are composed of 445 amino acids, which are made of various atoms, many of which share electrons. Within these quadrillions of dendrites, with their millions of microtubules made of billions of tubulin molecules, the atoms form shared electron clouds.

These clouds exist in positions of uncertainty until you think about something and form a conclusion, a belief, or accept a truth — or a lie. Your act of choosing to believe something will cause the electron clouds, in various places within the dendrites, to collapse. This causes conformation change within the microtubule structure, which solidifies the memory or belief into the brain.

This is the process of choosing, when we choose to believe something it changes us, whether it is true or false, the choice to believe it changes the conformation of our dendritic electron clouds. This is why we can have a change of heart, or change of insight, or conviction of certainty very quickly when a belief changes—even while the brain hasn't had time to build a new neural pathway or connection…and those pathways and connections the brain builds then hardwires in learned information and behaviors that can become rote or habitual.

[OPTIONAL – but this is different than forming conclusions and beliefs and memories. Your beliefs and memories are stored within the brain tubulin structure until something happens that causes you to reexamine or reevaluate the belief or memory and come to a different conclusion. This is how beliefs are stored and mindsets are established. This is why the Bible tells us to rejoice in trials because they build character. Difficulties in life will cause us to re-examine our beliefs and the electron clouds reenter a position of uncertainty and we can change our beliefs and when we choose a new belief they collapse in new patterns corresponding to the new belief. This gives insight into the law of worship, which says that by beholding, we become changed. In psychiatry, this is known as "modeling." We neurobiologically and characterologically change to become like what we admire, worship, think about, choose, and act on.]

Our beliefs initially collapse the electron clouds storing those beliefs, and then as we act on those beliefs, think through and reaffirm those beliefs, recite them and live them the brain creates pathways wiring in the beliefs to habits of thinking, reacting and processing. Thus, we are changed and transformed by what we think, praise, value, worship, watch, believe and engage in.

MONDAY

Praying Down Walls

What was God trying to teach the Israelites in the story of Jericho? What actually caused the walls to fall? "By trust in God, the people marched around Jericho for seven days, and the walls fell." When God is on the verge of doing something new in our lives, He may bring us to a Jericho, for He may need to teach us that the power to triumph does not come in our own strength and strategies. Everything we need comes from outside ourselves. So, no matter what is in front of us, no matter how insurmountable it may seem, our role is to praise God – the source of everything we need. This is faith in action.

TUESDAY

The Life of Praise

In the first paragraph, the quarterly reiterates what we just discussed – "Praise is something that we must practice until it changes from being an activity done at a particular time to an atmosphere in which we live. Praise shouldn't so much be a specific act but a specific way of life." This is well said and references what law?

And did you know this practice or framework or atmosphere of praise is not just for us. The Bible says "Let everything that has breath praise the Lord!" – Psalm 150:6. Listen to this quote from the Review and Herald,

> "While we rejoice that there are worlds which have never fallen, these worlds render praise, and honor, and glory to Jesus Christ for the plan of redemption to save the fallen sons of Adam, as well as to confirm themselves in their position and character of purity. The arm that raised the human family from the ruin which Satan had brought upon the race through his temptations, is the arm which has preserved the inhabitants of other worlds from sin. Every world throughout immensity engages the care and support of the Father and the Son; and this care is constantly exercised for fallen humanity. Christ is mediating in behalf of man, and the order of unseen worlds also is preserved by his mediatorial work. Are not these themes of sufficient magnitude and importance to engage our thoughts, and call forth our gratitude and adoration to God?" — RH, January 11, 1881 par. 4

> "Our life is to be bound up with the life of Christ; we are to draw constantly from Him, partaking of Him, the living Bread that came down from heaven, drawing from a fountain ever fresh, ever giving forth its abundant treasures. If we keep the Lord ever before us, [law of worship, by beholding we are changed] allowing our hearts to go out in thanksgiving and praise to Him, [law of exertion, the more we exercise something it gets stronger] we shall have a continual freshness in our religious life. [!!!] Our prayers will take the form of a conversation with God as we would talk with a friend. He will speak His mysteries to us personally. Often there will come to us a sweet joyful sense of the presence of Jesus. Often our hearts will burn within us as He draws nigh to commune with us as He did with Enoch. When this is in truth the experience of the Christian, there is seen in his life a simplicity, a humility, meekness, and lowliness of heart, that show to all with whom he associates that he has been with Jesus and learned of Him. – COL 129.3

A Witness Who Convicts

How can our praise transform the eternal destinies of those around us?

Did Stephen's reaction when being stoned affect Saul?

> "The martyrdom of Stephen made a deep impression upon all who witnessed it. The memory of the signet of God upon his face; his words, which touched the very souls of those who heard them, remained in the minds of the beholders, and testified to the truth of that which he had proclaimed. His death was a sore trial to the church, but it resulted in the conviction of Saul, who could not efface from his memory the faith and constancy of the martyr, and the glory that had rested on his countenance." – AA 101.3

Were spectators in the arenas impacted by the martyrs singing and praising and praying even as the flames engulfed them?

THURSDAY

A Weapon That Conquers

How can praise be a powerful weapon when a "vast army" is coming against you?

> "We do not know what to do, but our eyes are on you." 2 Chron 20:12

Even though God was going to fight for them, they still had to go out to face the enemy. But this was no ordinary march to war. Jesoshaphat appointed a choir to sing praises to the Lord as they marched out. "As they began to sing and praise, the Lord set ambushes against the men of Ammon and Moab and Mount Seir who were invading Judah, and they were defeated." God intervened at the very moment they exercised their faith in His promise, as they began to "praise him for the splendor of his holiness."

Did you know this practice or framework or atmosphere of praise is not just for now, here on this earth? Do you think if we develop a habit of praising God in every circumstance, that we will just cease that behavior in heaven…or will we continue to develop it, refine it, and deepen those neuro pathways for all eternity. If we do not develop a heart of praise and thanksgiving while here on earth, could that impede our progress…or even make us unfit for heaven?

> "Could those whose lives have been spent in rebellion against God be suddenly transported to Heaven, and witness the high, the holy state of perfection that ever exists there,—every soul filled with love; every countenance beaming with joy; enrapturing music in melodious strains rising in honor of God and the Lamb; and ceaseless streams of light flowing upon the redeemed from the face of Him who sitteth upon the throne,—could those whose hearts are filled with hatred of God, of truth and holiness, mingle with the heavenly throng and join their songs of praise? Could they endure the glory of God and the Lamb?—No, no; years of probation were granted them, that they might form characters for Heaven; but they have never trained the mind to love purity; they have never learned the language of Heaven, and now it is too late. – GC88 542.3

And what is the language of heaven?

> " Then I looked and heard the voice of many angels, numbering thousands upon thousands, and ten thousand times ten thousand. They encircled the throne and the living creatures and the elders. [12] In a loud voice they were saying: "Worthy is the Lamb, who was slain, to receive power and wealth and wisdom and strength and honor and glory and praise!" [13] Then I heard every creature in heaven and on earth and under the earth and on the sea, and all that is in them, saying: "To him who sits on the throne and to the Lamb be praise and honor and glory and power, for ever and ever!" – Revelation 5:11-13, NIV

A life of rebellion against God has unfitted them for Heaven. Its purity, holiness, and peace would be torture to them; the glory of God would be a consuming fire. They would long to flee from that holy place. They would welcome destruction, that they might be hidden from the face of Him who died to redeem them. The destiny of the wicked is fixed by their own choice. Their exclusion from Heaven is voluntary with themselves, and just and merciful on the part of God. GC88 542.3

Meekness in the Crucible

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read memory verse: "Blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the earth" (Matthew 5:5 NIV84).

What does this mean to you? We are called to be meek, but what is meekness?

Is meekness the same as weakness? What is the difference?

There is no greater example of the contrast between meekness and weakness than Jesus and Pontius Pilate. John 18:29–19:16.

Despite Jesus being falsely accused, lied about, cruelly mistreated, and abused, He retained self-control and a calm, fearless yet meek dignity founded on the strength of His righteous character and trust in His Father that could not be shaken by any worldly assault.

By contrast, Pilate, though empowered with earthly authority that was reinforced by Roman soldiers, demonstrated weakness of character: a fear of what others thought, a willingness to compromise his own judgment and choose the wrong, even when convicted of what was right, merely to avoid the accusation of being disloyal to Caesar and face the potential loss of position and power.

Jesus was meek and strong. Pilate was weak and wrong.

What is necessary to be meek? What is the source of strength that allows someone to be meek and strong?

What is the cause of weakness, even when one is empowered with all earthly power?

Meekness is a trait of character that stems from the outworking of God's love operating in the heart; weakness of character stems from fear dominating the heart.

As soon as Adam sinned, he ran and hid because he was afraid (Genesis 3:10). Fear that incites selfishness is part of the infection of sin. But "there is no fear in love. But perfect love drives out fear, because fear has to do with punishment. The one who fears is not made perfect in love" (1 John 4:18 NIV84).

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424

Love focuses our concern on others. Fear focuses on self. Love is willing to sacrifice self for others, whereas fear sacrifices integrity, principle, honor, truth, and others to protect self. "This is how we know what love is: Jesus Christ laid down his life for us. And we ought to lay down our lives for our brothers" (1 John 3:16 NIV84).

The meek love God and others and are not afraid to stand for God's truth; the weak are driven by fear and will compromise the truth to protect themselves.

And thus meekness is founded on the combination of truth and love coming from a trust relationship with our trustworthy God of love. We experience the transformational power of God's love as we come to the knowledge of God, the truth about God and are won back to trust.

Truth and love combined is the power that changes hearts and minds from fearful weakness to cheerful meekness.

The meek, having been reborn into God's kingdom of love, experience godly self-control (Galatians 5:23); the weak remain fearful and selfish and seek to make themselves feel safe by trying to control others.

These weak people "are full of envy, murder, strife, deceit and malice. They are gossips, slanderers, God-haters, insolent, arrogant and boastful; they invent ways of doing evil; they disobey their parents; they are senseless, faithless, heartless, ruthless" (Romans 1:29–31 NIV84). And we see these weak people all too often in positions of power in the world, in businesses and also in the church. Why? Because the meek seek to help others, the weak seek to gain power for self, to make self feel safe and use their energies to advance self into the positions of power; and the world loves such people.

Jesus said, "If the world hates you, keep in mind that it hated me first. If you belonged to the world, it would love you as its own. As it is, you do not belong to the world, but I have chosen you out of the world. That is why the world hates you" (John 15:18–19 NIV84).

Satan is the father of the weak, the father of fear and selfishness; listen to what the Bible says about Satan and his method of governing:

> How you have fallen from heaven, O morning star, son of the dawn! You have been cast down to the earth, you who once laid low the nations! You said in your heart, "(1) I will ascend to heaven; (2) I will raise my throne above the stars of God; (3) I will sit enthroned on the mount of assembly, (4) on the utmost heights of the sacred mountain. (5) I will ascend above the tops of the clouds; (6) I will make myself like the Most High." But you are brought down to the grave, to the depths of the pit (Isaiah 14:12-15 NIV84).

Satan seeks to rise above, to rule over—and every human government operates upon Satan's method, a few ruling elites rising over and exploiting the masses to empower the elites.

Notice Jesus' method of governing:

> Christ Jesus: Who, being in very nature God, (1) did not consider equality with God something to be grasped, (2) but made himself nothing, (3) taking the very nature of a servant, (4) being made in human likeness. (5) And being found in appearance as a man, (6) he humbled himself and (7) became obedient to death—even death on a cross! Therefore God exalted him to the highest place and gave him the name that is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father (Philippians 2:5–11 NIV84).

Jesus sacrifices self to uplift the masses. No human government represents the government of God. We will never achieve God's kingdom, God's purposes through Satan's methods and human governments.

Note further, Satan made six claims or six moves to advance self:

(1) I will ascend to heaven;
(2) I will raise my throne above the stars of God;
(3) I will sit enthroned on the mount of assembly,
(4) on the utmost heights of the sacred mountain.
(5) I will ascend above the tops of the clouds;
(6) I will make myself like the Most High

But because his method of self-exaltation is a violation of God's design law of love, the law upon which life is built, Satan is brought down to the grave and dies from his rejection of God and God's methods.

But Jesus makes seven moves to counter Satan's self-exaltation, Jesus:

(1) did not consider equality with God something to be grasped,
(2) but made himself nothing,
(3) taking the very nature of a servant,
(4) being made in human likeness.
(5) And being found in appearance as a man,
(6) he humbled himself and
(7) became obedient to death—even death on a cross!

Jesus lived out God's law, the design protocols of love destroying the infection of selfishness and thus even though Jesus died on the cross, by doing so Jesus:

- Destroyed him who holds the power of death that is the devil (Hebrews 2:14)
- Destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light (2Timothy 1:10)
- Destroyed the devil's work by restoring the image of God in humankind (1John 3:8)

And therefore, having accomplished the eradication of the sin infection and restored God's law in humanity, Jesus rose from the grave and is exalted to the highest place and receives all glory and praise forevermore amen!

The meek are those who have had God's law written into their hearts so that they live and love like Jesus. They seek to bless others, and they understand that love grows only in freedom; they advance the autonomy of others and use any positions of power they have to help others develop and grow.

But the weak are jealous of others, fear not having what others have, fear others gaining more skill, or ability, or fame, or fortune and taking their power from them so they seek to control others.

The meek present the truth in love and leave others free; the weak lie, manipulate, and coerce all in order to protect themselves.

The religious leaders in Christ's day were weak in character, consumed with fear—fear of loss of power, position, authority, and respect; rather than rejoicing in Jesus and admitting they were wrong, they instead worked to destroy Him.

Jesus taught His disciples to be meek, to respect the choices of those with whom they sought to share the gospel. If people didn't want to listen, the disciples were not to take personal offense, become angry, or seek to retaliate. Instead, they were to recognize that such people were injuring themselves and to simply move on to those who did want to hear the truth, without carrying any of the "dirt" of the rejection with them.

> "If anyone will not welcome you or listen to your words, shake the dust off your feet when you leave that home or town" (Matthew 10:14 NIV84).

The meek present the truth in love and leave people free.

But the weak in character, if not in positions that enable them to assert control over others, will instead either find someone powerful for them to believe in, follow, surrender themselves to, and become their adherent and pawn; or they become a behind-the-scenes conniver, plotter, and manipulator of others—like Judas, who sought to manipulate Jesus through behind-the-scenes betrayal.

The meek stand firm for truth in the face of opposition; they don't compromise truth or God's principles to garner favor. The weak present what they believe others want to hear in order to be accepted, seeking to manage people around them to keep themselves in good standing.

Yes, "blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the earth!" (Matthew 5:5 NIV84).

SUNDAY

The lesson calls our attention to Moses who was called the meekest man in the world and points out that "Moses was called to endure endless waves of gossip and criticism."

Is gossip a serious problem or a minor thing?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

How did Lucifer advance his war in heaven? What did Lucifer do in heaven that got 1/3 of sinless angels to rebel? Wasn't it gossip and criticism?

Have you ever been gossiped about or criticized?

What enables you to handle such mistreatment?

When you are gossiped about do you focus upon the gossip, the gossiper, the reaction of others, or something else?

What is our responsibility when people gossip about us?

How did God handle things with Lucifer? How did Jesus handle gossip and misinformation about Him when He was on Earth?

Our responsibility is in how we live and govern self, to do what we know is right, healthy, and reasonable and in accordance with God's will and then leave others free to think and do as they choose.

If a person is misinformed and is open to be corrected, then going to them to reconcile the misunderstanding is Biblical, even taking 1-2 others with you. However, if the person is closed to truth, closed to correction, then we are not to cast our pearls before swine lest they turn and attack us. In other words, conversations with people who are bent on hurting us only gives them information to twist and turn to hurt us.

Jesus didn't engage with the Sanhedrin during His trial, they were not interested in truth, in doing what was right. Anything He said would be twisted and used against Him, which is exactly what happened when He finally spoke.

So, we deal with gossips by living out the principles of God's kingdom in how we govern self and how we treat others. We keep our focus on Jesus and advancing His truth.

One of Satan's strategies is to divert us to the gossip and take our eyes off Jesus and instead of continuing to advance the truth we focus on getting certain people convinced, trying to prove to them that what they are saying isn't true, or worse, conforming to their concepts of right and wrong to get them to see you as okay.

Eventually the truth wins out, this is the Great Controversy—the truth is being revealed. The truth about God revealed in Jesus and at the cross the two antagonistic principles stood face to face. God's self-sacrificial love and refusal to use power to force others to comply with His law and Satan's method of power over others which does use force to make others to comply and to destroy those who won't.

I have consistently and repeatedly pointed out the contrast between these two systems of governing and frequently over the last few years done so by pointing to events happening in our society in which these two principles are at war and exposed them for all to see. Yet, I repeatedly get emails from people telling me to stop being political, to stop taking sides, to just stick with the Bible and the truth in the Bible.

For those who have had such concerns, do you not understand that these two antagonistic principles enter into every phase of human experience. In every act of live we are deciding on whose side of the Great Controversy we are going to be found by the methods and principles we choose to employ in how we treat others.

I love this historic quote from the book Education:

> The Bible is its own expositor. Scripture is to be compared with scripture. The student should learn to view the word as a whole, and to see the relation of its parts. [One of the problems many have with the Bible is that they take a story here a verse there and don't understand it in the context of the entire history of the Bible and the war between Christ and Satan.] He should gain a knowledge of its grand central theme, [What is that grand central theme? The truth about God, the kingdom of God, the methods and design laws of God at war with the lies of Satan, the imposed law system of Satan, the corruption, disease, abuse, and destruction that comes from breaking God's design law and following Satan—and God's intervention to heal the damage done and restore us to harmony with Him and thus experience etern al life.] of God's original purpose for the world, of the rise of the great controversy, and of the work of redemption. He should understand the nature of the two principles that are contending for supremacy, [What are these two principles? Love versus fear and selfishness; truth versus lies; freedom versus coercion and control] and should learn to trace their working through the records of history and prophecy, to the great consummation. [We must see these two principles at war through human history, through Bible history, but we also must be able to see how they battle all the way to the very end so that we can choose to be aligned and part of God's kingdom.] He should see how this controversy enters into every phase of human experience; how in every act of life he himself reveals the one or the other of the two antagonistic motives; and how, whether he will or not, he is even now deciding upon which side of the controversy he will be found. Ed 190.2 [We must not just study Scripture to understand how God's principles and methods warred against Satan's principles and methods in the past, we must then understand how those same two systems are warring for hearts and minds today and how this conflict enters into every phase of human experience and we are all deciding whose methods we prefer, whose law we are incorporating into our hearts and minds by how we treat others. Thus, when I point out these things that are happening in the world I am NOT being political. I am advancing the truth of God's kingdom and calling each of you to leave the methods of this world behind—to come out of Babylon that fallen imposed law system that coerces and controls.]

Satan doesn't care one wit about whether someone has a physical disease or gets cured from that physical disease. Satan doesn't care one wit whether someone takes a treatment or doesn't take a treatment; what the evil one cares about is whether is getting people to choose his methods so that they become like him! Satan wants people, in the pursuit of saving temporal lives, to choose his methods and become like him in character.

Can Satan trick good people into becoming coercive and manipulative and violate the principles of love and liberty? What if it is all to save lives, save lives from a virus?

Who would have thought that the SDA church would have willingly sided with the various governments of the world to close their churches and stop their missions and to coerce the consciences of their employees, students, and the people coming to their institutions for help? Who would have thought the SDA church would actively collude with fraud, misinformation, and lies that have resulted on one of the greatest abuses to humanity in history?

Why did so many go along? Why are so many still colluding? Because they don't understand the principles, they are deceived by looking at the diversion, the misdirection, the misinformation.

Let me say this as clearly as I can—what has happened to the world during the COVID pandemic was NOT ABOUT A VIRUS it is spiritual warfare, it is about the kingdom of Satan assaulting the kingdom of God—and where is the kingdom of God found on Earth according to Jesus? Within you and me. It is about getting people to be afraid, and based on fear and misinformation, under the guise of supposedly helping others and saving lives, to get people to choose to use state power, political power, economic power (no one can buy or sell), to coerce people to make decisions that went against their own judgment and conscience.

There were two issues: 1) the objective facts about the virus and the various objective interventions to deal with it and 2) the methods we employ in how we treat others as we advance whatever solution we think is best.

Both issues are legitimate to discuss and explore and pursue the facts and truth about, but the more important issue is the methods one uses for that determines what law one internalizes into their heart, and whose kingdom one becomes a part of.

Now with this in mind, let us consider the quotation from Upward Look in Thursday's lesson. I will quote a little bit more than the lesson did:

> Now is our time of peril. Our only safety is in walking in the footsteps of Christ, and wearing His yoke. Troublous times are before us. In many instances, friends will become alienated. Without cause, men will become our enemies. [Have we seen this over the last couple of years, churches, families, friends dividing?] The motives of the people of God will be misinterpreted, not only by the world, but by their own brethren. [Have we seen this?] The Lord's servants will be put in hard places. A mountain will be made out of a molehill to justify men in pursuing a selfish, unrighteous course… By misrepresentation, these men will be clothed in the dark vestments of dishonesty, because circumstances beyond their control made their work perplexing. They will be pointed to as men that cannot be trusted. And this will be > done by the members of the church. [Have you seen this? Have you experienced this?] God's servants must arm themselves with the mind of Christ. They must not expect to escape insult and misjudgment. They will be called enthusiasts and fanatics. But let them not become discouraged. God's hand is on the wheel of His providence, guiding His work to the glory of His name. UL 177

Read first two paragraphs, "After the people…" What do you think of this story?

The lesson says that God decided to destroy the people—did He? Did God decide to destroy the people and if it wasn't for Moses, who had more patience that God, more love than God, more understanding and compassion that God, and therefore interceded with God then God would have destroyed the people?

Is it true that God needs people like Moses and ultimately Jesus to intercede with Him to talk Him down, to calm His anger, to propitiate His wrath, to keep Him from killing us?

I have some patients with certain conditions that at times will flair up and cause them to lose control of themselves. These people know themselves well enough that they will ask their spouse, "if you see me having symptoms of unusual irritability, or impulsivity, please intercede with me and remind me to take an extra dose of my medicine so I won't escalate into a full relapse and need to be hospitalized again."

Is God like this? Does God have some mental health problem and needs His Son to plead with Him to help Him get a grip?

Of course not!!!

- God is for us! Romans 8:31
- For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son John 3:16
- God was in the Son reconciling the world to Himself 2Cor 5:19

God did not decide to destroy the people when talking to Moses. Then what was going on?

The Bible tells us that angels long to look into these things (1Pet 1:12). That we are a spectacle a theater to angels and men (1Cor 4:9), and the angels in heaven just watched God deliver the people in a mighty and miraculous way yet within 40 days the people are having an orgy around a golden calf.

What do you think Satan was doing with that? We see glimpses in Job chapter one where Satan twists things, presenting things in a false light before the heavenly counsel trying to win more of the angels to his side. Do you think Satan was doing the same thing here?

Does God have foreknowledge? Absolutely, so God knew when He said what He said to Moses exactly how Moses would respond, and God knew that He was not going to destroy the people. God was never intent on destroying the people. Then why did God say this to Moses?

What God did want to demonstrate was that His methods of truth, love, and freedom work to heal hearts and minds.

Remember 40 years earlier Moses was a man who was willing to kill others; he murdered the overseer and then ran away. The angels knew this history.

So in the face of this apparent defeat, where the people having just been delivered miraculously by God prefer a false god and it appears they are waste of time, God looks to the angels in heaven says, "I know it looks bad, but my methods work. Remember Moses, 40 years ago he murdered someone, the infection of selfishness was strong in his heart. But after spending time with me he has been healed. He has a new heart and right spirit. He won't kill others to protect himself any longer, no, my law of love is restored in him and he will sacrifice himself to save others. Watch this…."

And Moses revealed that God's methods do work. Moses demonstrated new methods and motives and godly love for others and supreme concern about the reputation of God.

This is what was transpiring.

The lesson suggests this is a lesson on grace and in the last paragraph states "grace is needed when people least deserve it."

What are your thoughts on this?

What do you understand the grace of God to be? A classic answer is "unmerited favor," and what is usually meant by that? Is it something we don't deserve or haven't earned.

And it is certainly true that none of us have earned God's grace. His grace is not a paycheck, a medal, or a reward for some achievement on our part. But to talk about grace in this way focuses on the process of receiving grace—not on what grace is.

The typical meaning of merit is the reward one has a right to as a result of their own work or effort. If you get paid by your employer, you have earned or merited that pay. If you get stronger muscles by exercising regularly, you have earned or merited the growth in your muscles. If you become a better musician because you practice regularly, you have earned or merited that proficiency.

Unmerited favor is when you receive something you didn't earn or didn't merit; in other words, you don't have a right to claim something as being owed to you. In that sense, God's grace is not ours to claim by right. But understanding that God's grace is not something we earn still doesn't tell us what that grace is.

If someone gave you a glass of water as you were dying of thirst in a desert, you didn't buy it, earn it, or work for it—it was a gift. One could say the water was unmerited; it was given to you freely. But the water is water—the method of how you get it, whether free or at a cost to you, is separate from the substance of what it is.

The gift of God's grace to us is the manifestation of His character of love; it is gracious of God. But the fact that God gives His grace freely does not tell us what that grace is. Consider grace as a noun; the action of gifting it is a verb—we receive God's grace without earning it, but what is His grace?

Since it is true that God's grace is a gift to us—something we have not earned, something we are not owed, something we do not receive by right—does that also mean we do not deserve God's grace?

That depends on how one understands or defines "deserve." Does a child born with a terminal illness deserve to be treated with kindness, compassion, and offered a remedy if one exists to restore them to wellness—even though they have done nothing to earn such treatment? Why would they deserve it? Does a child, simply by being a human child, deserve the love of its parents—not because the child earned anything but because of who the child is to the parents? Do we have value and worth to God, not because of our achievements or any work we have done, but because of who God created us to be, because of what God has designed for us and invested in us?

When the Bible describes Jesus as growing in wisdom and stature and favor (which is the Greek word for grace) with God and men (Luke 2:52), did Jesus not deserve His Father's grace or favor?

Was the grace that Jesus received from His Father, as our human substitute, given freely by His Father or did Jesus have to earn it? The Father gave His grace to Jesus in the same way He gives His grace to us! Jesus didn't "earn" grace from His Father through some system of employment or quest fulfillment. Jesus, as a human, received the free grace of His Father and was empowered by the Father's grace in order to accomplish their joint purpose in saving humanity from sin.

So what is God's grace?

The Greek word translated as grace is χάρις [charis /khar·ece/], and the Strong lexicon says it is "good will, loving-kindness, favour … the merciful kindness by which God, exerting his holy influence upon souls, turns them to Christ, keeps, strengthens, increases them in Christian faith, knowledge, affection, and kindles them to the exercise of the Christian virtues" (Strong, J. 1995. In Enhanced Strong's Lexicon. Woodside Bible Fellowship).

This is exactly what Paul wrote in Romans 2:4: "God's kindness leads you toward repentance" (NIV84).

And the kindness of God is freely given because of who God is. We see God's grace in His every action, all His activities, which are the outflow of His character of love and which always fights against evil, opposes corruption, stands against sin, and heals, renews, recreates, cleanses, and ultimately destroys death and brings life and immortality to light (2 Timothy 1:10). God's grace is the dispersement of His energy, love, life, and power and is seen in His every act, but it is most fully seen in response to rebellion and sin. As Paul wrote, "Where sin abounded, grace abounded much more" (Romans 5:20 NKJV).

God was just as gracious before sin and His grace was present and active before sin, but after sin His grace has been active and revealed in ways that were never before seen in the universe because it was never before needed—including the gracious condescension of Jesus to be our Savior. Prior to sin, God was just as gracious, but His grace never had to function to overcome sin until sin occurred.

We see God's grace in calling to Adam in the cool of the day before Adam sinned, but His grace is more powerfully revealed when God gently called, "Adam, where are you?" when Adam was hiding in the bushes after he sinned.

We see God's grace in His patient forbearance toward lost sinners prior to the Flood, waiting to act until there was no other option, when only one righteous man was left on the earth; thus, we see God's grace in bringing the Flood as a therapeutic intervention to keep open the avenue for the Messiah in order to save the species human from sin and eternal death.

But we see God's grace most fully revealed in sending Jesus to take up humanity, broken and damaged by Adam's sin, and overcome where we never could.

- "The Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us. We have seen his glory, the glory of the One and Only, who came from the Father, full of grace and truth" (John 1:14 NIV84).

- "From the fullness of his grace we have all received one blessing after another. For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ" (John 1:16, 17 NIV84).

- "But each of us was given grace according to the measure of Christ's gift" (Ephesians 4:7 NRSV).

- "For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith—and this not from yourselves, it is the gift of God—not by works, so that no one can boast. For we are God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do" (Ephesians 2:8–10 NIV84).

The grace of God is indeed a gift—like water to a person dying of thirst is a gift; the gifting is gracious, but the grace is more than the act; it is the substance of God's character—His love, truth, methods, power, glory, righteousness—fully manifested in Jesus. When we receive God's grace, we are receiving the presence and power of God via His indwelling Spirit, we are receiving the gift of Jesus, and can say as Paul did, "It is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me" (Galatians 2:20). When we receive God's grace, we receive a new heart and right spirit; we have His law written upon our hearts and minds (Hebrews 8:10).

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Someone once said…" The lesson asks us to read Matthew 5:43-48:

> "You have heard that it was said, 'Love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' But I tell you: Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, that you may be sons of your Father in heaven. He causes his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous. If you love those who love you, what reward will you get? Are not even the tax collectors doing that? And if you greet only your brothers, what are you doing more than others? Do not even pagans do that? Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect" (Matthew 5:43-48 NIV84).

What does it mean? Why are we to pray for those who persecute us?

What is revealed by the examples Jesus gave as to how God treats the righteous and unrighteous the same? What kind of law is revealed in Jesus' example? This is the reality, God is Creator, His laws are design laws and they treat everyone the same, the only difference is in the individual, not the laws or in God.

What happens to us if instead of praying for our enemies we fantasize about their punishment, suffering, and death, and pray for their punishing, and perhaps even looking forward to the day when God tortures them in hell?

But what happens to us if we pray for our enemies, pray for their repentance, for the sin-sickness in them to be cured and for them to become trustworthy friends of God?

WEDNESDAY

Read second paragraph, "It is terrible…" What do you understand justice to be? How can you tell what is just and unjust?

Does our view of law make a difference?

Do we recognize that the abuser, the sinner, the oppressor is actually destroying their own souls and doing more damage to themselves than they are to the victim of their crime?

When Jesus was being crucified by the mob, who was being destroyed in that process? Was Jesus being destroyed or were those crucifying Him destroying their own souls?

What about when Stephen was being stoned? Did the stoning of Stephen destroy Stephen or those who stoned him?

What did Jesus mean by:

> "Do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. Instead, fear the one who is able to destroy both soul and body in hell" (Matthew 10:28 NET).

Who destroys the souls of sinners in the fires of hell?

> "The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction" (Galatians 6:8 NIV84).

How do we understand this?

Is sin harmless and God is the one who harms the sinner for their sin, or does sin actually destroy?

What law lens do we use?

If God's law is like human law then sin doesn't actually cause harm any more than going 36 mph in a 35 mph zone does. In this false law model sin is a legal problem that requires the ruling authority to use power to inflict punishment for sin, thus, in this false model, God becomes the source of suffering and death and the one whom we need protection from—and many atonement models and theologies teach such ideas, something being done to God to protect us from Him.

But when we understand God as Creator and His law as design law then we understand that sin breaks the very protocols of life, separate us from God and results in ruin and death and requires God to heal and restore in us His law reconciling us to Him so that we receive life from Him.

2022 3Q In the Crucible with Christ—Lesson 11
Waiting in the Crucible

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read memory text: "But the fruit of the Spirit is…longsuffering" (Galatians 5:22 NKJV).

Thoughts about this? Other versions say patience.

There is a song by a Christian group called Petra entitle More Power to Ya and the lyrics are:

You say you've been feeling weaker, weaker by the day
You say you can't make the joy of your salvation stay
But good things come to them that wait
Not to those who hesitate
So hurry up and wait upon the Lord

More power to ya
When you're standing on His word
When you're trusting with your whole heart in the message you have heard
More power to ya
When we're all in one accord
They that wait upon the Lord, they shall renew, they shall renew their strength

Jesus promised His disciples He'd give strength to them
Jesus told them all to tarry in Jerusalem
When they were all in one accord
The power of His Spirit poured
And they began to turn the world around

So be strong in the Lord and in the power of His might Put on all His armor and fight the good fight
In all of our weakness, He becomes so strong
When He gives us the power and the strength to carry on

Read the first two paragraphs, "Scientists did…" The findings: some children waited and some children didn't. Those who waited turned out to be better adjusted and more confident later in life than those who didn't. This is what the scientists observed. But what does it mean?

topics@comeandreason.com

The lesson concludes that patience was indicative of something greater and more important in human character.

Are there any other explanations for what was observed?

Could the differences be explained by:

- Difference in home life, a nurturing loving home versus chaotic and unstructured home? Would such a childhood impact how well-adjusted someone was later in life?
- Differences in nutrition and brain development?
- Underlying and untreated ADHD?

I am not discounting in any way the value and importance of patience and the necessity of developing the fruits of the Spirit, nor am I discounting that whenever in life a person develops the fruits of the Spirit their life, from that point onward, will be better adjusted and they will have more confidence. I think the link between Christian maturity and healthiness is well established, so don't misunderstand what I am saying.

I am pointing out that this particular study does not prove the link as there are other underlying causes that could undermine adjustment that are not originating in spiritual immaturity, but biological dysfunction, trauma, or nutrition etc.

In fact, failing to recognize the biological causes and misdiagnosing an impulsive child as having a spiritual problem rather than a neurobiological one if in fact it is neurological, could result in parents failing to provide the proper nutrition or getting the proper medical treatment and instead they bring more authoritarian rules to bear in an attempt to discipline the child to teach them self-control, which would only work to instill in the child a distorted self-image, discouragement, and/or a sense of rebellion and could result in a child dropping out, going into more destructive pathways that would not have occurred if the child had been diagnosed early, given proper treatment, which would have resulted in their better impulse control, better performance in school, which would have resulted in them gaining more confidence in themselves, forming a healthier self-image, and the parents having less anxiety and worries and thereby treating the child with more objective and merited praise rather than criticism and discipline and the child would grow up better adjusted etc.

Now, if you are a parent and you look back and recognize you had a child with a biological problem that when they were small you didn't appreciate and you treated them as if they were merely rebellious or unruly, i.e. you didn't get them medical treatment you disciplined and it got worse…what do you do today?

Do you beat yourself up? Do you feel guilty? Do you judge yourself with new information that you didn't have at the time? In other words, do you look back on your life and punish yourself for not acting upon information you didn't even know? Or do you treat yourself based on your motives and recognize your heart was for the welfare of your child and you did the best you could at the time? And you continue to move forward in the truth eager to grow and add greater wisdom and insight to how you live today?

SUNDAY

The lesson points our attention to Psalm 27:14:

> Wait for the LORD;
> be strong and take heart > and wait for the LORD (Psalm 27:14 NIV84).

What does it mean to wait for the Lord?

The GNT renders the verse this way:

> Trust in the LORD.
> Have faith, do not despair.
> Trust in the LORD (Psalm 27:14 GNT).

Do you hear wait for the Lord the same as trust in the Lord?

This is how I paraphrased it in the Remedy:

> Trust in the Lord,
> be strong and confident.
> Trust in the Lord (Psalm 27:14 REM).

What is the relationship between trusting God and waiting for God? When we trust the Lord with the outcome, with the future, with aspects of reality that are not ours to carry out, then we are able to wait for Him to bring about the result in His time.

The lesson asks us to read Psalm 37:7:

> Be still before the LORD and wait patiently for him;
> do not fret when men succeed in their ways, > when they carry out their wicked schemes (Psalm 37:7 NIV84).

Do we see wicked schemes being carried out by people in the world today? Does it cause you to fret, to worry? How can you not worry about what we see on the news every day?

Does turning our eyes upon Jesus help? Is it one of Satan's strategies to get us to focus upon the problem rather than the solution, to get us to focus on the disease rather than the cure?

THURSDAY

The lesson points us in detail to Psalm 37 so let's go through it from the Remedy:

> 1 Do not be distraught over the apparent gains of the selfish > or envy those who persist in violating God's design of love; [Why not? It isn't fair is it? Why should those who do wrong prosper? Shouldn't they suffer? What law lens are you viewing the selfish and wicked through?]
>
> 2 for they will soon wither like grass, > like flowers of the field they will fade away.
>
> 3 Trust in the Lord and live to love others; > be active in your community as a shepherd of God's kingdom of love. [What happens in us if we do this?]
>
> 4 When you delight in the Lord, > he will give you what your heart desires. [What does this mean? Does it mean God will give us the numbers to the next winning lottery ticket? No, it means our hearts are in harmony with God's and we will desire what He desires for us, that's why He will give us what we desire.]
>
> 5 Commit yourself to following God's plan — living in harmony with his designs; > trust him with how life turns out and he will do what is best:
>
> 6 he will renew your character into righteous love that shines brighter every day; > your decisions will radiate goodness like the noonday sun. [What is the focus of the righteous? On God's kingdom of truth, love, liberty, which operates where? Within us!]
>
> 7 Rest in the Lord and be patient for his plan to unfold;
> don't be distraught when the selfish seem to succeed — > when they carry out their wicked schemes. [This is the verse the lesson focused our attention upon. Do we see why we don't need to be distraught when the selfish seem to succeed? Because every act of sin damages them; they are hardening their hearts, searing their consciences, warping their characters and destroying their souls. We don't need to be jealous of them for they have nothing of eternal value. We need to, like Jesus, pray, "Father forgive them they don't know what they are doing."]
> 8 Don't let anger or resentment take root in your heart;
> don't worry or ruminate — it only inflames selfishness. [Do you see how our modern media, politics, programming, messaging constantly seeks to divide society on issues that are designed to incite anger, instill resentment, cause fear and worry, and inflame selfishness. What is happening in the world is part of the roar of the lion, inflaming fear, driving selfishness and division. Don't listen to the messaging of the world, focus on Jesus, understand His character and methods of truth, love, freedom and then follow the truth on all subjects.]

9 And selfish people will sever themselves from life, but those who trust in the Lord will inherit the earth. [Why will the selfish die? What happens? Who decides for the selfish that they die eternally? From where does the inheritance for the righteous come? Is this inheritance a legal pronouncement, a ruling, or is it something literal, experiential, objective that we receive? When a branch is grafted into a vine does it receive something that is not its own by right, does it begin to inherit something from the vine? When we are grafted into Jesus do we inherit something actual from Him that lives and operates within us and brings forth new life? But doesn't the Bible say the meek inherit the earth? Isn't the land, the world, our inheritance? Then why am I suggesting we receive our inheritance through being grafted to Jesus? Romans 6:23 the wages of sin is death but the gift of God is eternal life—is an inheritance a right or a gift? But what kind of a gift is an inheritance? It is a gift given to once descendants. Meaning it goes to members of the family, the children of the patriarch. And what makes us children of God? Being reborn into the family of God, dying to sin and selfishness and having our hearts renewed to be like Jesus. And what causes us to experience this renewal, this regeneration, this recreation to be like Jesus? It is being grafted into the Vine, Jesus, being won back to trust and opening the heart to Him and receiving His indwelling presence so that He writes His law upon our hearts and minds. And we receive His law, character, methods written upon our hearts and ultimately inherit the earth made new as our home. But we don't get the earth made new as our home unless we first inherit from Jesus the gift of a new heart and right spirit.]

10 It won't be long, and the selfish will be no more;
you will consider their place in the universe and realize they no longer exist. [Why won't the selfish be in the universe? How does that come about? Do we need to be jealous and envious of those who are destroying themselves by embracing and practicing the methods of God's enemy?]

11 But the humble who trust the Lord and love others will inherit the earth and enjoy everlasting peace. [Have you experienced more peace when you love others, trust the Lord, and are humble, and more stress when you fight with others who are arrogant and selfish?]

12 The selfish plot against the unselfish and viciously attack them; [Why? Why did the selfish plot against Jesus and attack Him? Was Jesus seeking to harm anyone? Do the true followers of Jesus seek to harm others? Do they seek to take from others? Or are the followers of Jesus seeking to uplift others, bless others, protect others, and advance the only principles and practices that bring health and life? Then why do the selfish attack the followers of Jesus?

Because the natural result of sin, of selfishness, is guilt, fear, and shame. These emotions are painful and no one wants to experience them. There are only two ways to avoid feeling these feelings. The godly way, which is through repentance and renewal in which we receive new hearts and right spirits and we live new lives with new motives and we stop living selfishly.

This is almost always a painful experience, walking through the valley of the shadow of death in which we feel like we are dying, but we are only dying to the old selfish nature because our Shepherd is leading us in the paths of righteousness for the restoration of our soul.

But because this is a painful renewal process, because it requires giving up old ways, old ideas, old habits, old addictions, old pleasures, old beliefs, old power, many people reject this path and instead choose the other way to avoid these feelings—denial and distortion. Denying anything is wrong, distorting their minds and their understanding of what is happening, projecting their dysfunction and defects out of themselves onto others and blaming others as a means of making themselves feel better. "it wasn't me, it was the woman you gave me" Adam cried.

Those who refuse repentance will use denial and distortion as a means of avoiding the inherit guilt, shame, fear, and sense of inadequacy that comes from being out of harmony with God and His designs for life. But when they come into the presence of the righteous, the rightness of the life of the godly condemns them even if the righteous say nothing. Their denial and distortions don't work and they feel the pressure of guilt, shame, fear, inadequacy and will do several things to avoid this.

- They will seek to tempt the righteous to join them in their sinful and dysfunctional living.
- If the righteous graciously refuse, then they will try and force the righteous person tell them how good they are.
- They will try and justify their sin, making excuses and defending themselves.
- They will make themselves out to be victims, it isn't their fault, and they will present their struggles into the face of the righteous and demand the righteous tell them that they are okay. If the righteous comply and agree that evil is good, that perversion is purity, that the wicked are righteous, then the denial of the guilty is maintained and their guilt, shame, fear suppressed and they move on.
- But if the righteous do not comply, but maintain a godly standard of living, then the wicked will become angry and accuse the righteous of being intolerant, judgmental, abusive, bigoted etc. and will use whatever means possible to try and punish and destroy the righteous. This is what the unrighteous did to Jesus and do you see this happening in the world today?]

13 but the Lord laughs at their foolishness, for he sees their end approaching. [We don't need to fear the lies, attacks, plots of the wicked because they are only destroying themselves.]

14 The selfish draw their knives and load their guns to kill the humble and those who refuse to defend themselves — to destroy those who live in harmony with God's designs.

15 But their knives cut through their own hearts, and their guns will be broken. [What law lens do we see things through? Do we remember "Do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. Rather, be afraid of the One who can destroy both soul and body in hell" (Matthew 10:28 NIV84)?]

16 It is better to be unselfish and poor than to be selfish and rich; [Why? Is this what the world teaches? Do we remember the wisdom of God is foolishness to the world.]

17 for the selfish are terminal and will lose all they have, but the unselfish receive life from the Lord. ["For what profit is it to a man if he gains the whole world, and loses his own soul?" (Matthew 16:26 NKJV).

18 The Lord cares for the unselfish, and they inherit eternal life. [The Lord "cares" in this verse refers to actively providing for and intervening in the lives of the unselfish, the "cares" here is not referring to compassion or concern for people. God cannot provide for the welfare of the wicked when they refuse the truth, love, and grace that is the basis of their healing and restoration. Thus God cannot actively care for those who reject His care.]

19 In the time of trouble they will not be ashamed; in the days of spiritual famine, they will be filled. [Daniel was not ashamed when he was accused of being a traitor to the king and condemned to the lion's den. Peter, Silas, and Paul were not ashamed when they were labeled as heretics by the church and arrested and imprisoned. We will not be ashamed to call Jesus Lord and to stand for the principles of God. And our hearts and minds will be filled with the Spirit of God and the love of God.]

20 But the selfish will perish:
those that oppose the Lord and his design will be like the fat of rams; consumed in the fires of love, they will go up in smoke. [Why do the wicked perish? Does God want them to die? Who insists on the wicked being cut off from life, from God, from not being part of God's kingdom? The wicked do. It is their choice; they beg for the mountains to fall on them (Revelation 6:16). They do not want to live in a kingdom of infinite truth and love where their lies, denial, and distortion do not work, where they experience the pain and suffering unremedied sin causes. And why are they likened to the "fat of rams"? The fat of the sacrificial animals was burned on the altar and is symbolic of sin. And what happens to lies and selfishness when it is exposed to infinite truth and love? It is consumed. The lies the wicked tell themselves that allow warp their minds in order to avoid their own guilt and shame don't work in the flames of infinite truth and love and thus they suffer the pain that unremedied sin causes and they ultimately choose to let go their lives and voluntarily surrender their existence rather than live in the presence of God being bathed in infinite truth and love.]

21 The selfish take from others and do not return, but the unselfish give generously. [The two antagonistic principles of the two antagonistic systems of governing. We all choose one or the other as the law we settle into in how we treat others.]

22 Those blessed by the Lord will inherit the earth, but those who reject the blessing will be cut off. [Why? Is it an arbitrary reward or a natural result? Who does God want to inherit the earth? Or another way to say it, how many humans does God want to be saved and inherit the earth? So if God wants all humans to be saved (1Timothy 2:4) and inherit the earth, then who decides, determines, chooses for those who are not saved to not be saved?]

23 The Lord heals and restores those who follow his prescription for life;

24 even if they sleep in the grave, they will not be eternally lost, because the Lord holds on to them. [Do we remember this when a loved one dies from any cause, sickness, accidents, murder, injustice?]

25 Once I was young, but I've lived long and am now old, yet I have never seen the unselfish abandoned by God or their children seeking to feed only themselves.

26 They always give generously and lend freely, and their children live to bless others.

27 Turn from selfishness and love other people;
then you will live forever.

28 For the Lord loves the unselfish — those who live right — and will not abandon those who faithfully follow him;
he watches over them forever,
but the children of selfishness will be cut off.

29 The unselfish will inherit the earth and live upon it forever.

30 Those who live in harmony with God's designs speak wisdom, they tell how reality works — what is right and true.

31 God's design protocol (law) is in their heart and they don't sidestep it.

32 The selfish spy on the unselfish, seeking to destroy them;

33 but the Lord will not abandon them to the power of the selfish or let their condemnation stand. [The wicked will condemn the righteous but they have no true power over them.]

34 Wait expectantly for the Lord and live in harmony with his way.
He will regenerate you to inherit the earth;
you will see: the selfish will be no more. [We must keep our eyes fixed on Jesus, on the eternal realities, not on the earthly problems. We must not fall into the trap of pursuing human justice, seeking to make justice by implementing artificial rules enforced upon others, such as equity agendas we see so much of. All such actions make things worse and cause harm. We are to live God's principles of equality of all people. Equality is treating everyone with the love, dignity, respect, and autonomy that we each have as beings created in the image of God. Equity is about forcing outcomes based on some identity measure and always causes inequity, injustice, and interferes with individual development and autonomy. Equity sows division in society, incites conflict by creating opposing groups fighting for limited outcome slots, but all under the lie of seeking to improve society. It is a fraud, a lie, a manipulation, a violation of God's methods, recognize it and refuse to support it.]

35 I once saw a selfish and cruel person who appeared to grow in influence and power like a tree growing in good soil, 36 but when I looked again, they died and were no more:

though I looked for them, they were nowhere to be found. [This will be the result of all the wicked in the end, not an infliction, but the unavoidable result of cutting themselves off from the source of life.]

37 Take note of the person with mature godly character, observe those who live right, for such living results in peace.

38 But all who rebel against God's design will cease to exist;
the future of the persistently selfish is destruction. [Why? Because they sever their connection with God, the source of life, their end is unavoidable.]

39 The remedy that heals the godly comes from the Lord;
he is their sanctuary in troubled times.

40 The Lord helps them and rescues them;
he delivers them from the wicked and cures them from their own selfishness because they trust in him. [This is the key to health, happiness, victory, and eternal life—the saved trust God; they trust Him with their lives, fortunes, families, futures and are sealed to God. They are so settled into their loyalty, love, devotion, and trust that no lie, persecution, trial, tribulation, or mistreatment can shake them from their trust. These are the perfected of God!]

MONDAY

Read Romans 5:6 and Galatians 4:4-5:

> "You see, at just the right time, when we were still powerless, Christ died for the ungodly" (Romans 5:6 NIV84).

> "But when the time had fully come, God sent his Son, born of a woman, born under law, to redeem those under law, that we might receive the full rights of sons" (Galatians 4:4-5 NIV84).

Then read first paragraph, "In these verses…" What do you think made it the right time for Jesus' incarnation? Why do you think God waited in human history until He did?

What ideas have you heard?

Was the plan of salvation only for human beings or was the work that Jesus was to accomplish to encompass more than just humans?

> "For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross" (Colossians 1:19-20 NIV84).

So God was working to save humans from sin, but also to stop the rebellion in heavenly realms, to secure the unfallen sinless beings in their loyalty.

Remember, angelic perfection had already failed in heaven, while 2/3's of the angels stayed loyal to Jesus, the issues that Lucifer raised that led 1/3 to rebel had not been fully dealt with and resolved. God, through Jesus, not only had to provide what was necessary to save human beings from sin, but also had to do it in such a way that His actions would resolve the issues raised by Lucifer and secure the loyal angels into their loyalty.

We read about this in various places like Colossians one that we just read, but Jesus references it when He said:

> "Now is the time for judgment on this world; now the prince of this world will be driven out. But I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself" (John 12:31-32 NIV84).

If your version has "men" in it, that word is supplied by the translators, it is not in the Greek. Jesus wasn't drawing only humans to Himself at the cross, but heavenly beings as well.

Jesus' crucifixion would pronounce judgment upon this world and the prince of this world—what kind of judgment is this? Was the crucifixion of Jesus a legal court setting? No! It is the judgment that Paul wrote about in Romans 3:4:

> "let God be true but every man a liar. As it is written: 'That You may be justified in Your words, and may overcome when You are judged'" (Romans 3:4 NKJV).

The war began in heaven when Lucifer lied about God and deceived 1/3 of the angels into judging God falsely and rebelling against Him. While 2/3's stayed loyal, they had questions that needed answering lest they also eventually lose trust in God and rebel.

Jesus is saying that at the cross He will be lifted up and reveal the truth about God, His character and methods of truth, love, and liberty and expose Satan as the liar and fraud that he is and Satan's methods as the source of all pain, suffering, and death. When this truth is fully revealed then Satan's power to deceive will be broken in the hearts and minds of all who see and embrace the truth, thus Satan will be drive out. He will be driven out of the shadows, out into the open for all to see him for who and what he really is and when that happens his power is broken and Jesus by being lifted up will draw all beings who value truth to Himself, including the angels in heaven.

The angels who witnessed this had their questions about God answered and Satan was revealed as the liar and murderer that he is and thus the angelic host in heaven pronounced judgment that God and Jesus are holy, holy, holy (we read about this in Revelation after Jesus' ascension), and Satan was cast out of the affections of all the angels in heaven. From that point forward Satan's work was restricted to earth not by physical force, but by the reality that no angel in heaven would listen to anything Satan had to say. Only on earth are intelligent beings still listening to Satan and believing his lies.

Okay, so with all that in mind, why wait until that time in human history for Jesus to come in order to provide salvation for humans but also reveal truth to angels?

What is the central issue in the war—God's trustworthiness—and what is Satan's angle to undermine trust in God? That God abuses power by imposing law that requires God to punish lawbreakers. In other words, Satan's lies are rooted in lies about God's law and methods, specifically that God's laws function like human laws, made up rules requiring God to use power to punish. This makes God out to be the source of death and the one whom we need to be protected from, and thus theologies develop about appeasing God, or propitiating His wrath, or paying Him legal penalties, or ransoms, or mediation to plead human blood to God to calm God down. In other words, the false law view that Satan originated undermines trust and incites rebellion against God.

How does this connect with when Jesus came in history?

Prior to this point in human history, where do we find a people who appear to be keeping the blueprint, the laws that God gave them? Nowhere! This is the first time in human history that a group of people appear to be keeping the law God gave through Moses.

- Sabbath keeping
- Sacrificed the right animals in the right way at the right times in the right place
- Ate the right foods
- Paid the right tithe
- Dressed the right way
- Obeyed the right commandments
- They no longer sacrificed to Baal, Molech, or any other pagan god

From the outside, they appeared to be keeping all the rules that God gave them. And when Jesus came and lived among them, what happened? They hated Him and killed Him.

Understand the significance, angels cannot read hearts and minds, and it is possible to behaviorally appear similar. The person who loves others more than self will not cheat, or murder, but the person who keeps the rules out of fear of punishment may never cheat or commit murder. It can appear quite similar from the outside. When Jesus came we finally have a group of people who are rule-keeping, who are following the script God gave through Moses. But rule-keeping of the RIGHT rules for the wrong reasons turns one into a rebel who will kill Jesus. In other words, the timing of Jesus' appearance, to a group of law-keeping followers of Yahweh, revealed that God's kingdom and government is not legal, is not imposed law, is not rule keeping, but is spiritual, is design law, is based upon truth, love, and freedom and operates in the deepest recesses of the intelligent being.

God cannot get what He wants through imposed rules and inflicted punishments. And angels finally saw, not just Satan exposed as a liar and fraud, not just God revealed in Jesus to be completely trustworthy to have all power, but that God's laws are not imposed, that rule-keeping, a legal religion that keeps the right rules, still turns people into rebels against God.

We need this lesson today as we approach the second coming of Christ. We need to return to worship the Creator who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water and whose laws are design laws and reject the imposed law dictator view of a legal god in which salvation is a legal process. For those who worship the legal imposed law punishing god will become like him and just like the Jews 2000 years ago will be among the worst enemies of God.

So why does God wait for certain times to act? What is God waiting for? Could it be that God is waiting for us?

Peter suggests in 2 Peter 3:12 that we can hasten the day of the Lord's appearing, what do you think of this idea?

When the Bible talks about delay, if there is a delay is it truly ever on God's part, or is it on our part, humanity's part, God waiting for us to respond to His saving grace?

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses on king David and the patience he revealed from the time he was anointed to be the next king by Samuel until he actually became king.

What enabled king David to exercise such patience?

Where did David place his trust?

David's attitude was that if God wanted him to be king then God would bring it about in God's timing and David didn't have to do anything to make it happen other than stay faithful to God.

What might have happened if David, after the anointing started campaigning to overthrow Saul?

What would have happened to David's character? What would have likely happened to the nation?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson points to Elijah's running away after Carmel when he was threatened, let's read the account from 1Kings 19:

> Now Ahab told Jezebel everything Elijah had done and how he had killed all the prophets with the sword. So Jezebel sent a messenger to Elijah to say, "May the gods deal with me, be it ever so severely, if by this time tomorrow I do not make your life like that of one of them."
>
> Elijah was afraid and ran for his life. When he came to Beersheba in Judah, he left his servant there, while he himself went a day's journey into the desert. He came to a broom tree, sat down under it and prayed that he might die. "I have had enough, LORD," he said. "Take my life; I am no better than my ancestors." Then he lay down under the tree and fell asleep.
>
> All at once an angel touched him and said, "Get up and eat." He looked around, and there by his head was a cake of bread baked over hot coals, and a jar of water. He ate and drank and then lay down again.
>
> The angel of the LORD came back a second time and touched him and said, "Get up and eat, for the journey is too much for you." So he got up and ate and drank. Strengthened by that food, he traveled forty days and forty nights until he reached Horeb, the mountain of God. There he went into a cave and spent the night.
>
> And the word of the LORD came to him: "What are you doing here, Elijah?"

> He replied, "I have been very zealous for the LORD God Almighty. The Israelites have rejected your covenant, broken down your altars, and put your prophets to death with the sword. I am the only one left, and now they are trying to kill me too."
>
> The LORD said, "Go out and stand on the mountain in the presence of the LORD, for the LORD is about to pass by."
>
> Then a great and powerful wind tore the mountains apart and shattered the rocks before the LORD, but the LORD was not in the wind. After the wind there was an earthquake, but the LORD was not in the earthquake. After the earthquake came a fire, but the LORD was not in the fire. And after the fire came a gentle whisper. When Elijah heard it, he pulled his cloak over his face and went out and stood at the mouth of the cave.
>
> Then a voice said to him, "What are you doing here, Elijah?"
>
> He replied, "I have been very zealous for the LORD God Almighty. The Israelites have rejected your covenant, broken down your altars, and put your prophets to death with the sword. I am the only one left, and now they are trying to kill me too."
>
> The LORD said to him… "Yet I reserve seven thousand in Israel—all whose knees have not bowed down to Baal and all whose mouths have not kissed him" (1Kings 19:1-15 & 18 NIV84).

What lessons do we learn from this?

- Mighty people of faith, like Elijah, still struggle with human emotions
- People of faith do not know all things and can make false assumptions, and the assumptions can impact the choices we make—being alone when 7000 were still faithful
- God uses power, but God is not found in power, nor does God describe Himself as power, God describes Himself as love and truth
- What impact does might and power have upon the heart? Does love and truth advance most effectively during great displays of might and power, or do might and power incite fear and this can make it more difficult to grow in love and truth?
- Thus the still small voice, the gentle voice of the Holy Spirit. God advances His kingdom by truth and love working gently upon hearts and minds without intimidation and threats why?
- Because what God wants cannot be achieved by threat, force, or external power. It is the internal power of truth and love that achieves what God wants.
- But didn't God just use might and power at Carmel? Why if He can't advance His kingdom by might and power? Might and power can cause people to stop and listen, but it cannot cause people to love and trust.

Did Elijah learn this lesson? Evidently yes, because later Elijah is transported to heaven without seeing death.

Have you ever considered this? Have you ever sung the song, swing low sweet chariot?

Have you ever wondered why aren't more people taken to heaven like Elijah was?

Would you want to go if it were offered to you?

Would you leave behind, right now today, your spouse, children, grandchildren to go to heaven where you would be able to watch the behind the scenes struggles of your family, the temptations, the secret sins, the exploitations, the sufferings and heartaches, and you wouldn't be here to support them, comfort them and encourage them?

Would you go? It would be a very difficult decision. Maybe this is why Elijah was taken because as far as we know he didn't have any immediate family, no wife, no children, thoughts?

2022 3Q In the Crucible with Christ—Lesson 12
Dying Like a Seed

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Let's read the memory text, John 12:23-26:

> "Jesus replied, 'The hour has come for the Son of Man to be glorified. I tell you the truth, unless a kernel of wheat falls to the ground and dies, it remains only a single seed. But if it dies, it produces many seeds. The man who loves his life will lose it, while the man who hates his life in this world will keep it for eternal life. Whoever serves me must follow me; and where I am, my servant also will be. My Father will honor the one who serves me'" (John 12:23–26 NIV84).

What does this text mean to you?

> "Jesus replied, 'The hour has come for the Son of Man to be glorified.'"

What is Jesus referring to when He says the time has come for Him to be glorified? Is He referring to might, power, pomp, signs, or wonders?

He is referring to His crucifixion; to being beaten, abused, treated unjustly, and dying on the cross. How is this glorifying Him?

What is God's glory? His character of love! And why does God's glory, His character, need to be revealed at such cost? Because Satan's primary war effort is lies about God and those lies caused confusion throughout the universe and the truth about God and God's character and methods of love needed to be revealed to settle all questions about God's trustworthiness.

So how was the crucifixion the means to glorify Jesus? Jesus had all power and at the crucifixion what does Jesus do with all power? He restrained the use of His power; He left His sinful creatures free to abuse and mistreat Him. He revealed that He values the freedom of His intelligent creatures more than He values protecting Himself, which means He revealed He is love and how love actually works. He submitted to injustice, to abuse, to death and in doing so He destroyed the lies about God that Satan told, and destroyed the infection of fear and selfishness within the humanity that He assumed thereby perfecting humanity and thus, even though He was buried, He rose again demonstrating that God's laws are the laws of life.

Notice what Jesus says in this same conversation about His being glorified by His refusal to use power to protect Himself, but instead He accomplishes His goal by surrendering Himself in love to protect the liberty of His creatures, even protecting the liberty of His enemies to abuse and kill Him:

> "Now my heart is troubled, and what shall I say? 'Father, save me from this hour'? No, it was for this very reason I came to this hour. [Jesus knew this was His mission, to confront and overcome the lies, but also to purify the species human by destroying the infection of fear and selfishness, the carnal drives of sin that corrupt the human species. Thus He rose again as the new head of a new humanity that He perfected.] Father, glorify your name!"
> Then a voice came from heaven, "I have glorified it, and will glorify it again." The crowd that was there and heard it said it had thundered; others said an angel had spoken to him.
> Jesus said, "This voice was for your benefit, not mine. Now is the time for judgment on this world; now the prince of this world will be driven out. But I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself." He said this to show the kind of death he was going to die." (John 12:27-33 NIV84). [The word "men" is supplied, it is not in the Greek. Jesus didn't say He would draw all men to Himself, but He would draw all unto Himself. Jesus was including the unfallen angels in heaven. As Colossians 1:20 says "all things in heaven and earth are reconciled to Christ at the cross." The lies of Satan were refuted at the cross. God and Jesus were revealed to be trustworthy and all sympathy for Satan in the loyal beings in heaven was severed. Satan's work was restricted after the cross by the revelation of truth of God's character, methods, principles fully lived out by Jesus. God was glorified in His Son at the cross]

When we think of God's glory do we think of His character of love?

When we think of the 3 Angels' messages and the call to "Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water" (Revelation 14:7 NIV84), do we think about loving others and sacrificing self like Jesus did as the way to give God glory? Or do we present a god who makes up rules and then we tell people that if they don't obey His rules then they are in legal trouble because God is sitting in judgment and if they don't stop breaking His rules He is going to declare them guilty and then use His power to inflict pain and suffering upon them before He kills them? Is this the message we are to share to the world in order to bring God glory? Or is such a penal/legal punishing god the very picture of a human dictator, the very character of Satan, the very same type of power used against Jesus by His crucifiers and the opposite of the glorious character of God?

> "Jesus replied, 'The hour has come for the Son of Man to be glorified. I tell you the truth, unless a kernel of wheat falls to the ground and dies, it remains only a single seed. But if it dies, it produces many seeds. The man who loves his life will lose it, while the man who hates his life in this world will keep it for eternal life. Whoever serves me must follow me; and where I am, my servant also will be. My Father will honor the one who serves me'" (John 12:23–26 NIV84).

So what does it mean to glorify God? What are the lessons of the kernel falling into the ground and dying?

There are multiple:

First, is what Jesus said directly. The seed is an object lesson of Jesus, as our Savior, dying and being buried only to come forth in a new and perfected humanity, the second Adam, who provides the remedy to sin and thereby Jesus brings forth much fruit—the saved throughout history who have partaken if Jesus' victory and been saved from sin.

Second, this lesson applies to us individually. We are required to "die" to sin, to selfishness, to the old carnal nature and rise again with a new heart and right spirit, living a new life with new motives that come from Jesus. So, the object lesson also applies to us individually, we are to die to the survival drives, the fear driven, me-first, self-advancement motives of this world, and live to love God and others more than self, sacrificing self for the good of others.

Now let's explore this concept a little more. Was the death of Christ an event that brought an end to life, or an event that brought an end to death and the death causing principle and opened the way for eternal life to be experienced by us?

> "So do not be ashamed to testify about our Lord, or ashamed of me his prisoner. But join with me in suffering for the gospel, [this is self-sacrificial love, this is dying to selfishness by giving of self for the advancement of God's kingdom] by the power of God, who has saved us and called us to a holy life—not because of anything we have done but because of his own purpose and grace. [Saved us? From what? From Himself, from an angry punishing god who would use power to torture and kill us? No! From sin, from the death causing principle that corrupts us.] This grace was given us in Christ Jesus before the beginning of time, [think about that—how could this grace be given us in Christ Jesus before time was even created? Which means before we were created, which means before angels were created? Because this grace is not something new, it is the eternal gospel spoken of in the 3 angels' messages, the eternal good news that has always been true about God. God's character of love has never changed, it has always been the same. God's design laws of love have never changed, they have always been and always will be constants that life is built upon. The only thing that changed was Lucifer corrupted himself and spread lies about God causing the perspective of angels and humans to change, to question God, to distrust Him and to be afraid of Him, to view God as authoritarian and unforgiving, severe, and punishing. But this was never true. God has always been and will always be the same, God is love and God is always for us and never needs anything done to Him to save us. But we need something done to us to return us to trust in Him so that we will cooperate with Him so that He can heal and save us. And Jesus is true to Himself and committed Himself to be our Savior before time was even created.] but it has now been revealed through the appearing of our Savior, Christ Jesus, who has destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel" (2 Timothy 1:8-10 NIV84). [Jesus death wasn't the death that ends life, it was the death that ends the cause of death, that destroys sin, that destroys rebellion, that destroys Satan and Satan's power of death (Hebrews 2:14) and fully restores God's living law of love into the species human, which means perfectly restores the species to unity with God, the source of life and thus brings life and immortality to light.]

When we think about the seed falling into the dirt and "dying" that seed still has the life-causing principle in it, but it dies to what it was so that it can live to what it can be in God's purpose. Jesus died as our Savior in order to destroy the infection of sin, "God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God" (2 Corinthians 5:21 NIV84). Jesus died to destroy sin, Satan, death, Satan's power, and Satan's work and restore God's law and character back into the living temple, the showcase where God created it to be—the human being and this is why He rose again, it was the predictable, inevitable, unavoidable result of His completing His mission. Unity with God, knowing God intimately, loving and trusting Him, having His living law of love written upon the heart through that intimate love connection with God is life. Jesus could predict His resurrection because He knew what He was going to accomplish, not because of prophetic vision of the future.

We just read 2 Timothy 1:10 about destroying death, here are the texts about what else Christ destroyed by His death:

- "Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil" (Hebrews 2:14 NIV84).
- "The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work" (1 John 3:8 NIV84).
    - And what has Satan worked to accomplish? To destroy the image of God in human beings and put Satan's image where God's should be. Satan has been jealous of Jesus as Creator and humans as pro-creators and Satan has labored to make beings in his image, specifically to turn humanity into, as Revelation calls it, "synagogues of Satan." But in Jesus all of Satan's corruption has been purged and God's perfection has been fully and completely restored into the species human and in Jesus we have a perfect, sinless human being. Jesus justified or put right the species human in the humanity He took upon Himself and carried through the cross. Now a human being stands at the right hand of the Father and wields the power of the Godhead because that human being is none other than God Himself, our Savior, Jesus Christ.

And when we are united through faith in Jesus, His life, His love, His victory is reproduced in us through the indwelling Spirit and the infection of fear and selfishness is displaced as the motivating power of our actions. We are still tempted in this world, but our motivation is our love, trust, and devotion to God and we choose to align ourselves with God and choose His methods relying on His power to overcome and succeed.

There is another lesson from the seed falling to the ground and dying and that is the lesson of the resurrection from the first death to immortal life in an earth made new.

Paul wrote:

> "So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption: It is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness; it is raised in power" (1 Corinthians 15:42-43 KJV).

Jesus said,

> "I am the resurrection and the life. He who believes in me will live, even though he dies; and whoever lives and believes in me will never die. Do you believe this?" (John 11:25-26 NIV84).

Do we believe this?

Then this dying isn't the cessation of life it is something else? It is a pause, a sleep, a state of suspended animation, a timeout, an interruption of active living, but it is not the cessation of existence. Thus, it is not the death that is the result of unremedied sin in the life.

The Bible refers to two deaths, the first death, which is described as this sleep—just like your computer running out of power goes to sleep. Jesus said this of His friend Lazarus and went to the grave to wake him up. That death was not the death the wicked die in the end. The first death, the sleep death is the death of grace, of mercy; it is an artificial state of pause permitted by God for the plan of salvation to be carried out.

But the Bible refers to a second death, a death that comes after the 1000 years, after the great white throne judgment, a death from which there is no resurrection, a death in which the individuality of wicked are eternally destroyed and they live no more. This is death from sin, the actual cessation of existence.

Now, the question, what causes the death that is the wages of sin? Does sin cause this eternal death or does God cause this death as a punishment for sin?

If God were to do nothing, to exercise no power, to take no action, but merely to allow events and circumstances to operate in their natural way, in harmony with Himself and His design laws for life, would the wicked live eternally in sin or would they die?

I recently had a conversation with a very intelligent and sincere Christian gentleman who takes the position that God, for justice sake, is the cause of death for the wicked. He suggests that God takes an action that causes the death of the wicked in the end. He argues that God, by revealing His glory, is killing them by this action and this is justice and the punishment for sin.

It is a subtle misinterpretation of reality that comes from the imposed law view, the idea that God's law functions like human law and that God as Sovereign must use power to inflict the pain and suffering and death upon the wicked for justice sake.

But the facts are being interpreted backwards—as soon as Adam sinned God, in mercy began taking an action, using power, intervening, interceding in ways that are artificial, that are not natural to His universe, in order to stop sin and save His children. What action did God take that was artificial, but an act of grace to save sinners? God veiled Himself. He withdrew His infinite life-giving glory from planet earth, to prevent the destruction of humanity that would have occurred had He not. Adam and Eve suddenly found themselves naked and cold and they sought to cover themselves because God's light was no longer their covering. The natural state in God's universe is to be bathed and covered in light, like Elijah and Moses were on the mount of transfiguration; like the millions described in Daniel when the Ancient of days takes His throne and rivers of fire come out from Him.

After Adam sinned, God in mercy withdrew His full presence, His sustaining power didn't flow over the planet any longer in its fullest sense and nature began to decay, mutations entered, things began to wither and die, including human beings. Aging and the sleep death are not inflicted punishments by God for sin, they are a result of God's grace working, of God veiling His presence to allow the plan of salvation to be carried out.

Remember God said to Moses, "no one may see me and live" (Exodus 33:20 NIV84). Why?

What destroys the lawless in the end? The brightness of Jesus' coming (2Thes 2:8).

So what does the Bible teach is the cause of eternal death? Is God the source of death, does death come out from God? Or is God the source of life and death is the unavoidable result of breaking away from God and refusing reconciliation and healing that God freely offers? In other words, death results from unremedied sin which severs the connection with God, the source of life and occurs when God stops using power to protect the wicked and returns the universe to its normal state, filled with His glory. Any Bible verses on this?

- "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 6:23 NIV84).
- "Sin, when it is full-grown, gives birth to death" (James 1:15 NIV84).
- "The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction" (Galatians 6:8 NIV84).

So first death is a sleep, a timeout, a pause, a mercy of God's grace for the purpose of carrying out the plan of salvation, while the second death is the eternal destruction of the sinner the eternal cessation of life that comes from sin for all who refuse God's healing.

But, is the terminology of "dying" that doesn't actually result in death but results in life confusing?

I use this concept a lot in marriage counseling when dealing with a toxic marital situation in which certain practices are employed that are damaging to both parties, yet both parties want to save the marriage, but they don't want to go on like this.

What are they saying they want? They want the old way of relating to die and they want to have a new relationship with new motives, practices, principles that bring forth fruits of joy, love, kindness, health, and wellness. They don't want to return to the old ways, the old relationship, they want to kill it so they can have a new relationship in which new and healthy ways of living are employed.

And what would be required for them to have such a new and healthy marriage? Healthy relationships require healthy people, so the only way for them to kill the dysfunctional marriage and bring forth a new and vibrant one, is for each of them to die to fear, sin, and selfishness and be reborn with godly principles—God's living law active and functioning in their hearts and minds.

This is what the Bible is teaching—we must die to all the ways that are harmful, the fear-based self-centered motives that break the very protocols that life and health are built upon. When we do this, we do die to the old destructive habits and ways and are reborn into Jesus Christ and His life begins to flow into us renewing us as new creatures in Him.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Contemporary culture…" Is this correct? Are we to give up our rights? Do we have any inalienable rights that we are never to surrender? Did Jesus surrender His rights?

The lesson points us to Philippians 2:5-9 in which Jesus did not think equality with God was something to be grasped but humbled Himself into humanity and all the way to the cross.

There is no question that Jesus sacrificed Himself and surrendered His original position in heaven in order to take a lowly position on Earth, for the purpose we already explored, to complete His mission of stopping the rebellion of sin and saving humanity. But did Jesus give up His rights to do so?

It all depends on what law lens you are thinking through. If we use the human law lens then Jesus gave up His rights, but if we use God's design law, then we see something beautiful and incredible.

Did Jesus have the right to save humanity after Adam sinned? Did Jesus give up that right or did He exercise that right?

Who is the rightful ruler of planet Earth, Adam or Jesus? Did Adam rule Earth as Creator and owner of the Earth, or was Adam's rule subordinate to God and under the rightful authority of Jesus? When Adam sinned and Satan claimed Adam's position as ruler of Earth, did Jesus surrender His right to Earth and cede it to Satan or did Jesus retain His right and exercise His powers for the purpose of overthrowing Satan, destroying Satan's power (as we read in Hebrews 2:14) and redeeming Earth from Satan's clutches?

When Jesus was on Earth 2000 years ago, did He surrender His right to heal, to save, to forgive sins, to set captives free? Did Jesus surrender His right to teach and reveal the truth about the Father to the religious authorities and theology professors?

Did Jesus surrender His right to life? Or did Jesus say that He was laying down His life only to pick it up again?

> "The reason my Father loves me is that I lay down my life—only to take it up again. No one takes it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have authority [the right] to lay it down and authority [the right] to take it up again. This command I received from my Father" (John 10:17-18 NIV84). [This command—this mission, the Father sent Jesus to accomplish their joint mission to overthrow Satan, destroy sin, destroy death, and save humanity. God was in the Son reconciling the world to Himself.]

Did Jesus surrender His rights or retain them and exercise them?

Did Jesus surrender His freedom or retain His freedom?

When Peter cut off the High Priest's ear,

> "Jesus commanded Peter, 'Put your sword away! Shall I not drink the cup the Father has given me?'"(John 18:11 NIV84)

> "Do you think I cannot call on my Father, and he will at once put at my disposal more than twelve legions of angels? But how then would the Scriptures be fulfilled that say it must happen in this way?" (Matthew 26:53-54 NIV84).

Did Jesus surrender His right to joy or did Jesus retain His right:

> "Let us fix our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy set before him endured the cross, scorning its shame, and sat down at the right hand of the throne of God" (Hebrews 12:2 NIV84).

Did Jesus surrender or retain His right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness?

Jesus retained and exercised His rights, but did so only in harmony with reality, with God's kingdom, through living out God's design laws of truth, love, and liberty.

The argument of the lesson about giving up our rights applies only when we view our rights through human law, because human law is about imposing our will on others, forcing others to submit to our ways, it is imperial, demanding that others acknowledge us and treat us the way we insist is our right.

But the kingdom of God is within us (Luke 17:21), and when we exercise the authority God has given us over ourselves to live out His methods and principles we never seek to force the hearts, minds, and consciences of others, but we also never surrender our right to live godly lives to the ungodly either. So we will not collude with beastly methods of coercion of consciences, even if we lose our government reimbursements, our jobs, or our freedom to travel etc.

Satan is a liar and he deceives by getting people to replace the laws of God for the methods and laws of humanity and then to seek to advance their rights through imperial methods of legislation, force, coercion upon others, rather than advancing our rights through living out the truth, the love, and the methods of God in how we treat others.

MONDAY

Read Romans 12:1-2:

> "Therefore, I urge you, brothers, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as living sacrifices, holy and pleasing to God—this is your spiritual act of worship. Do not conform any longer to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is—his good, pleasing and perfect will" (Romans 12:1-2 NIV84).

The lesson states, "It is only the renewed mind that truly can understand God's will."

What does it mean to have a renewed mind?

Can you think of any ways in which a renewed mind thinks differently than an unrenewed mind?

What do you think about what the verse itself says, that "you will be able to test and approve what God's will is"?

What does this mean? Are we to test and then approve God's will? Aren't we merely to surrender and submit to God's will? If we are to test and approve God's will what would that mean for our thinking process? Are we to reason, comprehend and understand, or are we merely to submit and do what God instructs?

Does the renewed mind seek to understand God while the unrenewed mind seeks to simply obey?

Does the renewed mind seek an enlightened and intelligent faith while the unrenewed mind has "blind" faith?

Does the renewed mind seek to understand God's methods and principles and intelligently live in harmony with them, while the unrenewed mind seeks to determine the right rules and the authorized way to keep the rules?

Does the renewed mind, with a jealousy for God's reputation, humbly question what God has said while the unrenewed mind seeks to obey and never question what God has said? Consider Abraham questioning God about Sodom or Moses questioning God about destroying the people? Did they have renewed minds? Would it have been better had they taken the position "Who am I to question God. If the Sovereign has said it, I believe it, and that is all there is to it."

What about John 15:15 Jesus says:

> "I no longer call you servants, because a servant does not know his master's business. Instead, I have called you friends, for everything that I learned from my Father I have made known to you" (John 15:15 NIV84).

Does a friend of God have a renewed mind? What about a servant?

Is there a difference between the attitude and mindset of a friend and that of a servant?

What does God want from us and why?

WEDNESDAY

Read the first paragraph, "When Eve…" What is being suggested? Is it being suggested that Eve was to believe that she did not have the ability to think, to comprehend, to reason, to understand? Was she to believe she was incapable of determining the right from the wrong and choosing the right? Was she not to exercise and use her own judgment and make a choice?

In fact, wasn't the Tree of Knowledge put in the garden for this express purpose, to give Adam and Eve the opportunity to be confronted in the most gentle way possible, with a choice—a choice to trust or distrust God? To believe God or believe the lies of Satan about God and then act upon what they chose to believe?

At the Tree of knowledge, would they choose to know the truth and trust God and thereby choose to know love, loyalty, and friendship with God and solidify themselves into beings with characters like God's, or would they choose to know fear, selfishness, disloyalty, shame, guilt, and death?

The tree was the place where they were to exercise the abilities God gave them and choose. It was not placed there for them to become mindless servants who refuse to think who simply turn off their reasoning abilities and say, "God said it who am I to question or seek to understand." They were to think through all that God had given them, all that He had revealed about Himself and that they knew personally about Him and compare that to the lies being told and conclude the serpent is lying and that God is trustworthy; they were to be fully settled into their understanding and loyalty to God because they thought the issues through and had been fully persuaded in their own minds. They were to mature and the mature are those who have developed by practice the ability to discern the right from the wrong (Hebrews 5:14).

The lesson next focuses on King Saul's downfall and they suggest his downfall was a three step process in which Saul "saw" the scattering of his troops, then "said" to himself that the Philistines would win, so he "felt" compelled to offer sacrifice.

The situation was that an army of Philistines was gathering and Saul initially has about 3000 men. Samuel was to meet them, but for 10 days doesn't come and Saul is fearful, doesn't show faith or confidence in the Lord, and his men start deserting, ultimately by the time Samuel arrives there are about 600 men left with Saul.

> Saul remained at Gilgal, and all the troops with him were quaking with fear. 8 He waited seven days, the time set by Samuel; but Samuel did not come to Gilgal, and Saul's men began to scatter. 9 So he said, "Bring me the burnt offering and the fellowship offerings." And Saul offered up the burnt offering. 10 Just as he finished making the offering, Samuel arrived, and Saul went out to greet him.
>
> 11 "What have you done?" asked Samuel.
>
> Saul replied, "When I saw that the men were scattering, and that you did not come at the set time, and that the Philistines were assembling at Micmash, 12 I thought, 'Now the Philistines will come down against me at Gilgal, and I have not sought the LORD's favor.' So I felt compelled to offer the burnt offering."
> 13 "You acted foolishly," Samuel said. "You have not kept the command the LORD your God gave you; if you had, he would have established your kingdom over Israel for all time. 14 But now your kingdom will not endure; the LORD has sought out a man after his own heart and appointed him leader of his people, because you have not kept the LORD's command." (1 Samuel 13:7-14 NIV84).

Why did Saul lose the kingdom over this? Didn't he, in dire circumstances turn to the Lord? He didn't go to the witch of Endor here, what did he do wrong?

He misrepresented God and treated God like a pagan god, like Baal, a god that requires sacrifice to be offered to get the god to intervene and help. He didn't actually trust God, but thought he had to pay god, influence god, bribe god with a sacrifice to get a blessing.

TUESDAY

The lesson points our attention to the story of Samuel as a child and hearing the voice calling his name and eventually realizing it wasn't Eli, but God, and Samuel responds with "speak Lord, for your servant is listening."

The lesson points out that the Holy Spirit is the still small voice that speaks gently to those who are willing to listen. Why? Why does the Spirit work this way?

What does God want from us and for us? God wants our understanding friendship, love, loyalty, devotion, and agreement with Him. Can God get this by intimidating, frightening, or in any way threatening us? What happens if we are overwhelmed with might and power? Does it lead to love, trust, understanding friendship? Or does intense stress impair thinking, learning, and growth?

Yes, when we are frightened, when our fear circuits fire, it impairs the function of the prefrontal cortex and the ability to think, reason, comprehend, process new concepts and ideas are impaired, further the more fear the more self-concerned we become, we regress into survival modes of fight, flight, of freezing.

God doesn't want this for us, thus the God works, not by might, nor by power, but by His Spirit, and the Spirit is the Spirit of truth and love, in an atmosphere of absolute freedom.

If that is so, then why did God thunder at Sinai, why did God send earthquakes, she bears, and fire at Mount Carmel?

While it is true that understanding friendship, love, trust, and loyalty can only be achieved through the gentle application of truth and love, gentle truths cannot be heard in the middle of a riot. So, God sometimes raises His voice to quiet the audience and get them to listen. And at Sinai when God thundered and all the people were terrified, there was Moses standing there in the middle of it all saying, "there is no need to be afraid." God was not their enemy, any more than if you would be if you came home to find your teenagers having a wild party with loud music, alcohol, drugs and several people were on the roof about to jump with umbrellas to see if they would work like parachutes and you yelled loud enough to stop the chaos. You are not the enemy of your children or their friends, but in that environment raising your voice was necessary to stop the chaos and hopefully over the next days and weeks get your children to listen.

But if they won't listen, then what happens as a result of mere power to quiet the chaos?

- What happened after the flood—the tower of Babel
- What happened after the plagues of Egypt—the golden calf
- What happened after the earth swallowed Korah and the other rebels—more grumbling and complaining
- What happened after the fire fell at Mount Carmel—more rebellion and eventual captivity in Babylon

Can God get understanding friends by the use of might and power? No! He can only get temporary cessation of chaos, but if people won't listen to the gentle voice of truth and love, what more can God do for them?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "As we saw yesterday…" What do you think about this? Can shopping make people happy? No, such activities can bring momentary pleasure, but not happiness. Happiness is always a by-product of healthiness, it is the natural result of growing closer to Jesus and living in harmony with His designs for life. Ultimate happiness will be experienced in the Earth made new.

But many people substitute pleasure-seeking for happiness, but pleasure-seeking often breaks the laws of health, the design laws of God and causes more unhappiness which will trigger more pleasure seeking to offset the unhappy feelings—it is a destructive cycle downward.

The only way out is the truth, the truth will set you free, but to begin the walk out of dysfunction to health is painful.

Once there is brokenness of injury of any kind there are no pain free options, the only options are to do what heals or not, but the healthy path is often painful. For those on the pleasure seeking path they almost always avoid the healthy path because it doesn't feel good, and thus then continue down the unhealthy path causing their condition to worsen.

The lesson points out that only supernatural help from God can relieve the pressure and give us victory. I agree with this, we cannot overcome in our own strength, the choice is ours, the power comes from God. But does the supernature help and power always come in obviously supernatural ways? Or is it often the gentle voice of the Spirit of truth and love working on a heart in the quiet moments of the night?

2022 Q3 In the Crucible with Christ - Lesson 13:
Christ in the Crucible

by Linda Ojala

NOTE: The actual Sabbath School lesson is in yellow, which is included for those who don't have this quarterly lesson.

SABBATH

Overview of the Week

Memory Text: "And about the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? that is to say, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" (Matthew 27:46).

This week's study is all about God suffering with us in the trenches….military band of brothers style…forever bonded by our shared experience of suffering under the consequences of sin.

Whenever we look at the issue of suffering, the question comes: How did sin and suffering first arise? Through divine revelation we have good answers: They arose because free beings abused the freedom God had given them. This leads to another question: Did God know beforehand that these beings would fall? Yes, but obviously He thought it was, as C. S. Lewis wrote, "worth the risk."

Worth the risk? For whom? For us, while God sits in heaven on His throne? Not exactly. The freedom of all His intelligent creatures was so sacred that, rather than deny us freedom, God chose to bear in Himself the brunt of the suffering caused by our abuse of that freedom. And we see this suffering in the life and death of Jesus, who, through suffering in our flesh, has created bonds between heaven and earth that will last throughout eternity.

Sometimes I think of us compared with ants. We so easily step on them, poison them, etc. But what type of exchange would it be for us to BECOME an ant, live like one, die like one in excruciating pain, then spend eternity as an ant?

And what do we imagine is the difference between God and us? SO much more!

SUNDAY

The Early Days

Scripture gives us little information about the early years of Jesus. A few verses, however, tell us something about those conditions and the kind of world the Savior entered.

Read Luke 2:7, 22-24 (see also Lev. 12:6-8) and Matthew 2:1-18. What do we see in these verses that gives us an indication of the kind of life Jesus faced from the start?

Poverty - Born in a stable, 2 doves or pigeons (the gift of the poor);

Herod's attempt to kill him, but instead killed all the other boys age 2 and under, since Jesus' parents raced to follow the angel's direction and left for Egypt by night..

Of course, Jesus was not the first person to live in poverty or to face those who wanted to kill Him, even from an early age. There is, however, another element that helps us understand the uniqueness of what Christ suffered from the earliest times.

Read John 1:46. What element does this add to help us understand what sufferings the young Jesus had faced?

Nazareth had a terrible reputation, causing people to think nothing good could come from there.

With the exception of Adam and Eve before the Fall, Jesus was the only sinless person who ever lived on the earth. In His purity, in His sinlessness, He was immersed in a world of sin. What a torture it must have been, even as a child, for His pure soul constantly to be in contact with sin. Even in our hardness because of sin, we ourselves often shrink away from exposure to sins and evil that we find repulsive. Imagine what it must have been like for Christ, whose soul was pure, who wasn't the least bit tainted by sin. Think of the sharp contrast between Himself and others around Him in that regard. It must have been exceedingly painful for Him.

Jesus was purity personified. Goodness is the exception in our world. According to today's media, 'if it bleeds, it leads."

MONDAY

Despised and Rejected of Men

How do we enjoy being around "perfect" people? With Jealousy, undermining, gossiping, undermining, lying about them? "She's SO Purrrfect!" You can probably hear the catty Purrring!

Would we really have treated Jesus any differently than the people of his day did?

We hear his frustration in Scripture:

> Why is my language not clear to you? Because you are unable to hear what I say. You belong to your father the devil, and you want to carry out your father's desire. He was a murderer from the beginning, not holding to the truth, for there is no truth in him. When he lies, he speaks his native language, for he is a liar and the father of lies. Yet because I tell the truth, you do not believe me! John 8:43-45
>
> You unbelieving and perverse generation, "Jesus replied," how long shall I stay with you? How long shall I put up with you? Matthew 17:17

topics@comeandreason.com

> "Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you who kill the prophets and stone those sent to you, how often I have longed to gather your children together, as a hen gathers her chicks under her wings, and you were not willing." Matthew 23:37

Can we relate to that? What do we need?

Spiritual Binoculars: Each individual has to focus on what they want to see clearly.

> "Jesus replied, 'Very truly I tell you, no one can SEE the kingdom of God unless they are born again'…..Jesus answered, 'Very truly I tell you, no one can enter the kingdom of God unless they are born of water and the Spirit. Flesh gives birth to flesh, but6 the Spirit gives birth to spirit.' John 3:3, 5

As a nurse, I find that much of my advice is not taken, though it would surely make the person I am advising feel better. Now I am to the point that, as one slogan says, "Yes, I'm a nurse….no, I don't want to look at it."

But God gave us spiritual freedom, and freedom means allowing people to have their own beliefs and decisions, even if we disagree with them, even if we know they are going to suffer and maybe even die because of those beliefs and decisions.

James Webb Space Telescope is finding galaxies 9.5 billion light years away, and that is only in one direction from Earth. It's impossible for me to imagine how far light can travel in 9.5 BILLION years!

https://apod.nasa.gov/apod/ap220713.html

Christ came to our tiny bit of the Milky Way Galaxy and offered himself to create the cure for our fatal spiritual illness.

Read the following verses, all the while keeping in mind the fact that Jesus was divine, the Creator of heaven and earth, and that He came to offer Himself as a sacrifice for the sins of the whole world (Matt. 12:22-24; Luke 4:21-30; John 8:58, 59). How do these verses help us understand the sufferings that Jesus faced here on earth?

> Matt. 12:22-24 Jesus healed a demon-possessed man who was both blind and mute
>
> Luke 4:21-30 The crowd wanted to kill him by throwing him off of a hill, but he walked right through them and left
> John 8:58, 59 Jesus hid himself and walked away from the temple grounds from people trying to stone him.

Whether by leaders, or even by the common people, Jesus' life, acts, and teachings were constantly misunderstood, leading to rejection and hatred by people He came to save. In a certain sense it must be like a parent who sees a wayward child in need of help, and though the parent is willing to give everything for that child, the child spurns the parent, heaping scorn and rejection upon perhaps the only person who can spare that child from utter ruin. That's what Jesus faced while here on earth. How painful it must have been for Him.

Read Matthew 23:37. What does it tell us about how Christ felt about the rejection? As you read, ask yourself, too, "Was He feeling bad for Himself (as we often do when facing rejection), or was it for another reason?" If for another reason, what was it?

Jesus longed to gather, shelter and protect all of his Jewish children, but they weren't willing. In verse 38 Jesus told them that their house is left desolate.

We've all felt the sting of rejection, and maybe our pain was similar to Christ's in that it was unselfish: We were pained, not because we were rejected, but because of what the rejection would mean for the one who was rejecting us (perhaps someone we care about who refuses to accept salvation in Christ). Imagine, though, how it must have felt to Jesus, who was fully aware of what He was to face in order to save them, and at the same time fully aware of what the consequences of their rejection would be. "It was because of His innocence that He [Christ] felt so keenly the assaults of Satan." — Ellen G. White, Selected Messages, book 3, p. 129.

TUESDAY

Jesus in Gethsemane

Did God's foreknowledge include "forefeeling"? With us, we start feeling the pain when something bad happens. To God, did He feel this pain forever, since He knew about this event forever?

"And saith unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful unto death: tarry ye here, and watch" (Mark 14:34).

Whatever Jesus suffered throughout His 33 years here on earth, nothing compared to what He started to face in the last hours before the cross. From the eternal ages (Eph. 1:1-4; 2 Tim. 1:8, 9; Titus 1:1, 2) the sacrifice of Jesus as the offering for the world's sin was planned, and now it was all coming to pass.

What do the following verses tell us about Christ's suffering in Gethsemane? Matt. 26:39, Mark 14:33-36, Luke 22:41-44.

Matt. 26:39 Jesus asking not to have to go through this, but he would do the Father's will

Mark 14:33-36 Jesus began to be deeply distressed and troubled and he told his disciples he was "overwhelmed with sorrow to the point of death"

Luke 22:41-44 An angel had to come and strengthen him, as he was sweating drops of blood.

"He went a little distance from them — not so far but that they could both see and hear Him — and fell prostrate upon the ground. He felt that by sin He was being separated from His Father. The gulf was so broad, so black, so deep, that His spirit shuddered before it. This agony He must not exert His divine power to escape. As man He must suffer the consequences of man's sin. As man He must endure the wrath of God against transgression.

Christ was now standing in a different attitude from that in which He had ever stood before. His suffering can best be described in the words of the prophet, 'Awake, O sword, against My shepherd, and against the man that is My fellow, saith the Lord of hosts.' Zech. 13:7. As the substitute and surety for sinful man, Christ was suffering under divine justice. He saw what justice meant. Hitherto He had been as an intercessor for others; now He longed to have an intercessor for Himself." — Ellen G. White, The Desire of Ages, p. 686.

Is there a difference between God's anger and God's wrath in the Bible?

Examples from old and new testament:

1. "The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of people, who suppress the truth by their wickedness, since what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them. For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that people are without excuse. For although they knew God, they neither glorified him as God nor gave thanks to him, but their thinking became futile and their foolish hearts were darkened. Although they claimed to be wise, they became fools and exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images made to look like a mortal human being and birds and animals and reptiles. Therefore God gave them over in the sinful desires of their hearts to sexual impurity for the degrading of their bodies with one another. They exchanged the truth about God for a lie, and worshiped and served created things rather than the Creator—who is forever praised. Amen. Because of this, God gave them over to shameful lusts. Even their women exchanged natural sexual relations for unnatural ones. In the same way the men also abandoned natural relations with women and were inflamed with lust for one another. Men committed shameful acts with other men, and received in themselves the due penalty for their error. Furthermore, just as they did not think it worthwhile to retain the knowledge of God, so God gave them over to a depraved mind, so that they do what ought not to be done. They have become filled with every kind of wickedness, evil, greed and depravity. They are full of envy, murder, strife, deceit and malice. They are gossips, slanderers, God-haters, insolent, arrogant and boastful; they invent ways of doing evil; they disobey their parents; they have no understanding, no fidelity, no love, no mercy. Although they know God's righteous decree that those who do such things deserve death, they not only continue to do these very things but also approve of those who practice them." Romans 1:18-32

2. "It was because of the Lord's anger that all this happened to Jerusalem and Judah, and in the end he thrust them from his presence." 2 Kings 24:20

3. "Who handed Jacob over to become loot, and Israel to the plunderers? Was it not the Lord, against whom we have sinned? For they would not follow his ways; they did not obey his law. So he poured out on them his burning anger, the violence of war. It enveloped them in flames, yet they did not understand; it consumed them, but they did not take it to heart." Isaiah 42: 24,25

4. "The Lord has given full vent to his wrath; he has poured out his fierce anger. He kindled a fire in Zion that consumed her foundations. The kings of the earth did not believe, nor did any of the peoples of the world, that enemies and foes could enter the gates of Jerusalem. But it happened because of the sins of her prophets and the iniquities of her priests, who shed within her the blood of the righteous. Now they grope through the streets as if they were blind. They are so defiled with blood that no one dares to touch their garments. "Go away! You are unclean!" people cry to them. "Away! Away! Don't touch us!" When they flee and wander about, people among the nations say, "They can stay here no longer." The Lord himself has scattered them; he no longer watches over them. The priests are shown no honor, the elders no favor." Lamentations 4:11-16

5. "When God heard them, he was furious; he rejected Israel completely. He abandoned the tabernacle of Shiloh, the tent he had set up among humans. He sent the ark of his might into captivity, his splendor into the hands of the enemy. He gave his people over to the sword; he was furious with his inheritance." Psalm 78:59-61

6. "The Lord has opened his arsenal and brought out the weapons of his wrath, for the Sovereign Lord Almighty has work to do in the land of the Babylonians…. Listen to the fugitives and refugees from Babylon declaring in Zion how the Lord our God has taken vengeance, vengeance for his temple. "Summon archers against Babylon, all those who draw the bow. Encamp all around her; let no one escape. Repay her for her deeds; do to her as she has done. For she has defied the Lord, the Holy One of Israel…. "See, I am against you, you arrogant one," declares the Lord, the Lord Almighty, "for your day has come, the time for you to be punished…. This is what the Lord Almighty says: "The people of Israel are oppressed, and the people of Judah as well. All their captors hold them fast, refusing to let them go. Yet their Redeemer is strong; the Lord Almighty is his name. He will vigorously defend their cause so that he may bring rest to their land, but unrest to those who live in Babylon." Jeremiah 50:25, 28-29, 31, 33-34

7. "Neither their silver nor their gold will be able to save them on the day of the Lord's wrath.' In the fire of his jealousy the whole earth will be consumed, for he will make a sudden end of all who live on the earth." Zephaniah 1:18

God's Anger and Wrath seem to be used somewhat interchangeably, but let's review the sample of texts listed above.

1) Wrath - Gave them over to their own destructive thoughts and actions
2) Anger - Thrust them from His presence
3) Anger – Handed over Judah and Israel handed over to be plundered, to war, but
    a. they still didn't learn
4) Anger and Wrath - enemies and foes could enter the gates of Jerusalem. The Lord himself scattered them; he no longer watches over them
5) Furious - he rejected Israel completely. He abandoned the tabernacle of Shiloh, the tent he had set up among humans. He sent the ark of his might into captivity, his splendor into the hands of the enemy. He gave his people over to the sword; he was furious with his inheritance
6) Wrath - the weapons of his wrath, the time for you [Babylon] to be punished, All their captors hold them fast, refusing to let them go. Yet their Redeemer is strong; the Lord Almighty is his name. He will vigorously defend their cause
7) Wrath - In the fire of his jealousy the whole earth will be consumed, for he will make a sudden end of all who live on the earth

WEDNESDAY

The Crucified God

Imagine an America with crucifixion – public, naked death – for anything the government deemed wrong, or "inappropriate! We are so used to hearing about the crucifixion, but perhaps don't realize all that occurred to Jesus. So, I looked up an article called

'A Physician's View of the Crucifixion of Jesus Christ' by Dr. C. Truman Davis for a description of crucifixion:

> "…. the upright post, or stipes, was generally fixed permanently in the ground at the site of execution and the condemned man was forced to carry the patibulum [the cross piece], weighing about 110 pounds, from the prison to the place of execution.
> Many of the painters and most of the sculptors of crucifixion, also show the nails through the palms. Historical Roman accounts and experimental work have established that the nails were driven between the small bones of the wrists (radial and ulna) and not through the palms. Nails driven through the palms will strip out between the fingers when made to support the weight of the human body. The misconception may have come about through a misunderstanding of Jesus' words to Thomas, "Observe my hands." Anatomists, both modern and ancient, have always considered the wrist as part of the hand.

A titulus, or small sign, stating the victim's crime was usually placed on a staff, carried at the front of the procession from the prison, and later nailed to the cross so that it extended above the head. This sign with its staff nailed to the top of the cross would have given it somewhat the characteristic form of the Latin cross.

But, of course, the physical passion of the Christ began in Gethsemane. Of the many aspects of this initial suffering, the one of greatest physiological interest is the bloody sweat. It is interesting that St. Luke, the physician, is the only one to mention this. He says, "And being in agony, He prayed the longer. And His sweat became as drops of blood, trickling down upon the ground." Every ruse (trick) imaginable has been used by modern scholars to explain away this description, apparently under the mistaken impression that this just doesn't happen. A great deal of effort could have been saved had the doubters consulted the medical literature. Though very rare, the phenomenon of Hematidrosis, or bloody sweat, is well documented. Under great emotional stress of the kind our Lord suffered, tiny capillaries in the sweat glands can break, thus mixing blood with sweat. This process might well have produced marked weakness and possible shock.

After the arrest in the middle of the night, Jesus was next brought before the Sanhedrin and Caiphus, the High Priest; it is here that the first physical trauma was inflicted. A soldier struck Jesus across the face for remaining silent when questioned by Caiphus. The palace guards then blind-folded Him and mockingly taunted Him to identify them as they each passed by, spat upon Him, and struck Him in the face.

In the early morning, battered and bruised, dehydrated, and exhausted from a sleepless night, Jesus is taken across the Praetorium of the Fortress Antonia, the seat of government of the Procurator of Judea, Pontius Pilate. You are, of course, familiar with Pilate's action in attempting to pass responsibility to Herod Antipas, the Tetrarch of Judea. Jesus apparently suffered no physical mistreatment at the hands of Herod and was returned to Pilate.

It was then, in response to the cries of the mob, that Pilate ordered Bar-Abbas released and condemned Jesus to scourging and crucifixion. There is much disagreement among authorities about the unusual scourging as a prelude to crucifixion. Most Roman writers from this period do not associate the two. Many scholars believe that Pilate originally ordered Jesus scourged as his full punishment and that the death sentence by crucifixion came only in response to the taunt by the mob that the Procurator was not properly defending Caesar against this pretender who allegedly claimed to be the King of the Jews. Preparations for the scourging were carried out when the Prisoner was stripped of His clothing and His hands tied to a post above His head. It is doubtful the Romans would have made any attempt to follow the Jewish law in this matter, but the Jews had an ancient law prohibiting more than forty lashes. The Roman legionnaire steps forward with the flagrum (or flagellum) in his hand. This is a short whip consisting of several heavy, leather thongs with two small balls of lead attached near the ends of each. The heavy whip is brought down with full force again and again across Jesus' shoulders, back, and legs.

At first the thongs cut through the skin only. Then, as the blows continue, they cut deeper into the subcutaneous tissues, producing first an oozing of blood from the capillaries and veins of the skin, and finally spurting arterial bleeding from vessels in the underlying muscles. The small balls of lead first produce large, deep bruises which are broken open by subsequent blows. Finally the skin of the back is hanging in long ribbons and the entire area is an unrecognizable mass of torn, bleeding tissue. When it is determined by the centurion in charge that the prisoner is near death, the beating is finally stopped. The half-fainting Jesus is then untied and allowed to slump to the stone pavement, wet with His own blood.

The Roman soldiers see a great joke in this provincial Jew claiming to be king. They throw a robe across His shoulders and place a stick in His hand for a scepter. They still need a crown to make their travesty complete. Flexible branches covered with long thorns (commonly used in bundles for firewood) are plaited into the shape of a crown and this is pressed into His scalp. Again there is copious bleeding, the scalp being one of the most vascular areas of the body.

After mocking Him and striking Him across the face, the soldiers take the stick from His hand and strike Him across the head, driving the thorns deeper into His scalp. Finally, they tire of their sadistic sport and the robe is torn from His back. Already having adhered to the clots of blood and serum in the wounds, its removal causes excruciating pain just as in the careless removal of a surgical bandage, and almost as though He were again being whipped the wounds once more begin to bleed. In deference to Jewish custom, the Romans return His garments. The heavy patibulum of the cross is tied across His shoulders, and the procession of the condemned Christ, two thieves, and the execution detail of Roman soldiers headed by a centurion begins its slow journey along the Via Dolorosa.

In spite of His efforts to walk erect, the weight of the heavy wooden beam, together with the shock produced by copious blood loss, is too much. He stumbles and falls. The rough wood of the beam gouges into the lacerated skin and muscles of the shoulders. He tries to rise, but human muscles have been pushed beyond their endurance. The centurion, anxious to get on with the crucifixion, selects a stalwart North African onlooker, Simon of Cyrene, to carry the cross. Jesus follows, still bleeding and sweating the cold, clammy sweat of shock, until the 650 yard journey from the fortress Antonia to Golgotha is finally completed. Jesus is offered wine mixed with myrrh, a mild analgesic mixture. He refuses to drink. Simon is ordered to place the patibulum on the ground and Jesus quickly thrown backward with His shoulders against the wood. The legionnaire feels for the depression at the front of the wrist. He drives a heavy, square, wrought-iron nail through the wrist and deep into the wood. Quickly, he moves to the other side and repeats the action, being careful not to pull the arms too tightly, but to allow some flexion and movement. The patibulum is then lifted in place at the top of the stipes and the titulus reading, "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews," is nailed in place.

The left foot is now pressed backward against the right foot, and with both feet extended, toes down, a nail is driven through the arch of each, leaving the knees moderately flexed. The Victim is now crucified. As He slowly sags down with more weight on the nails in the wrists, excruciating pain shoots along the fingers and up the arms to explode in the brain — the nails in the wrists are putting pressure on the median nerves.

As He pushes Himself upward to avoid this stretching torment, He places His full weight on the nail through His feet. Again there is the searing agony of the nail tearing through the nerves between the metatarsal bones of the feet. At this point, as the arms fatigue, great waves of cramps sweep over the muscles, knotting them in deep, relentless, throbbing pain. With these cramps comes the inability to push Himself upward. Hanging by his arms, the pectoral muscles are paralyzed and the intercostal muscles are unable to act. Air can be drawn into the lungs, but cannot be exhaled. Jesus fights to raise Himself in order to get even one short breath. Finally, carbon dioxide builds up in the lungs and in the blood stream and the cramps partially subside. Spasmodically, he is able to push Himself upward to exhale and bring in the life-giving oxygen.

It was undoubtedly during these periods that He uttered the seven short sentences recorded:

The first, looking down at the Roman soldiers throwing dice for His seamless garment, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

The second, to the penitent thief, "[I add, for clarity, as there was no punctuation in the original scripture, '"Truly I tell you] Today thou shalt be with me in Paradise."

The third, looking down at the terrified, grief-stricken adolescent John — the beloved Apostle — he said, "Behold thy mother." Then, looking to His mother Mary, "Woman behold thy son."

The fourth cry is from the beginning of the 22nd Psalm, "My God, my God, why has thou forsaken me?"

Jesus experienced hours of limitless pain, cycles of twisting, joint-rending cramps, intermittent partial asphyxiation, searing pain where tissue is torn from His lacerated back as He moves up and down against the rough timber. Then another agony begins -- a terrible crushing pain deep in the chest as the pericardium slowly fills with serum and begins to compress the heart. One remembers again the 22nd Psalm, the 14th verse: “I am poured out like water, and all my bones are out of joint; my heart is like wax; it is melted in the midst of my bowels.”

It is now almost over. The loss of tissue fluids has reached a critical level; the compressed heart is struggling to pump heavy, thick, sluggish blood into the tissue; the tortured lungs are making a frantic effort to gasp in small gulps of air. The markedly dehydrated tissues send their flood of stimuli to the brain. Jesus gasps His fifth cry, “I thirst.” One remembers another verse from the prophetic 22nd Psalm: “My strength is dried up like a potsherd; and my tongue cleaveth to my jaws; and thou has brought me into the dust of death.” A sponge soaked in posca, the cheap, sour wine which is the staple drink of the Roman legionaries, is lifted to His lips. He apparently doesn’t take any of the liquid.

The body of Jesus is now in extremes, and He can feel the chill of death creeping through His tissues. This realization brings out His sixth words, possibly little more than a tortured whisper, “It is finished.” His mission of atonement has completed. Finally He can allow his body to die.

With one last surge of strength, he once again presses His torn feet against the nail, straightens His legs, takes a deeper breath, and utters His seventh and last cry, “Father! Into thy hands I commit my spirit.”

The rest you know. In order that the Sabbath not be profaned, the Jews asked that the condemned men be dispatched and removed from the crosses. The common method of ending a crucifixion was by crurifracture, the breaking of the bones of the legs. This prevented the victim from pushing himself upward; thus the tension could not be relieved from the muscles of the chest and rapid suffocation occurred. The legs of the two thieves were broken, but when the soldiers came to Jesus they saw that this was unnecessary.

Apparently, to make doubly sure of death, the legionnaire drove his lance through the fifth interspace between the ribs, upward through the pericardium and into the heart. The 34th verse of the 19th chapter of the Gospel according to St. John reports: “And immediately there came out blood and water.” That is, there was an escape of water fluid from the sac surrounding the heart, giving postmortem evidence that Our Lord died not the usual crucifixion death by suffocation, but of heart failure (a broken heart) due to shock and constriction of the heart by fluid in the pericardium.

Death by crucifixion was one of the harshest punishments the Romans meted out to anyone. It was considered the worst way to die. Thus, how horrific for anyone to be killed that way, in particular the Son of God! Jesus, we must always remember, came in human flesh like ours. Between the beatings, the scourgings, the nails hammered into His hands and feet, the harrowing weight of His own body tearing at the wounds, the physical pain must have been unbearable. This was harsh, even for the worst of criminals; how unfair, then, that Jesus, innocent of everything, should face such a fate.

Yet, as we know, Christ's physical sufferings were mild in contrast to what was really happening. This was more than just the killing of an innocent man.

What events surrounding the death of Jesus showed that more was going on than most people there understood at the time? What significance can we find in each of these events that can help reveal what happened there?

> Matt. 27:45 "From noon until three in the afternoon darkness came over all the land."
>
> Matt. 27:51, 52 "At that moment the curtain of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom. The earth shook, the rocks split and the tombs broke open. Then bodies of many holy people who had died were raised to life. 53 They came out of the tombs after Jesus' resurrection and went into the holy city and appeared to many people"
> Mark 15:38 "The curtain of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom."

Clearly, something much more was happening here than just the death, however unfair, of an innocent man. According to Scripture, God's wrath against sin, our sin, was poured out upon Jesus. Jesus on the cross suffered a righteous God's righteous indignation against sin, the sins of the whole world. As such, Jesus suffered something deeper, darker, and more painful than any human being could ever know or experience.

I'd like us to consider the above underlined statement. The real punishment for sin is the consequence it brings...."The wages of sin is death." Romans 6:23. God was withdrawing. Was God doing this to Jesus? No…As the source of life, God had to withdraw from Jesus to enable him to die, and Jesus had to be separated from his Father for the first time in all eternity. Jesus was receiving the worst Satan could dish out, and the effects of total separation from God with the weight of sin that causes total heartbreak and loss. The Bible even prophecies that we would say God did this to Jesus.

> Surely he took up our infirmities and carried our sorrows, YET WE CONSIDERED HIM STRICKEN BY GOD, SMITTEN BY HIM, AND AFFLICTED. BUT he was pierced for our transgressions, he was crushed for our iniquities; the punishment that brought us peace was upon him, and by his wounds we are healed. We all, like sheep, have gone astray, each of us has turned to his own way; and the Lord has laid on him the iniquity [the sin condition] of us all. Isaiah 53 4-6

The Suffering God

We are so used to it that it's hard to imagine life any other way. Jesus knew the other way of life. What He left behind to rescue us is beyond our comprehension. What does a minnow know about our life, for a limited example?

Imagine life in heaven, without sin. Consider this partial list:

- A life without any fear or anxiety. Forever safe!
- A pain-free, upgraded body; the ability to see long distances, see microscopically, fly, travel the universe.
- Meet and talk with Jesus and beings from antiquity, listen their stories and what they have learned throughout the ages
- Sing and play music with angels and with Jesus.
- Spend eternity with those we lost here on earth
- The freshness, the views of creative art and the unspoiled beauty of a vast universe

We might as well get used to it: as long as we are here, in this world, we are going to suffer. As fallen creatures, it is our fate. Nothing in the Bible promises us anything different. On the contrary …

What do the following verses have to tell us about the topic at hand?

> Acts 14:22 "We must go through many hardships to enter the kingdom of God"
>
> Phil. 1:29 "It has been granted to you on behalf of Christ not only to believe in him, but also to suffer for him.
>
> 2 Tim. 3:12 "In fact, everyone who wants to live a godly life in Christ Jesus will be persecuted."

Yet, in the midst of our suffering, two things we should keep in mind.

First, Christ, our Lord, has suffered worse than any of us ever could. At the cross, He "has borne our griefs and carried our sorrows"(Isa. 53:4, NKJV); what we know only as individuals, He suffered corporately, for us all. He who was sinless became "sin for us" (2 Cor. 5:21), suffering in a way that we, as sinful creatures, couldn't begin to imagine.

But second, as we suffer, we should remember the results of Christ's suffering, that is, what we have been promised through what Christ has done for us.

Read …. What are we promised?

> John 10:28 "I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish; no one will snatch them out of my hand."
>
> Romans 6:23 "The gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord."

Titus 1:2 "A faith and knowledge resting on the hope of eternal life, which God who does not life, promised before the beginning of time.."

1 John 2:25 "And this is what he promised us – eternal life."

Whatever our sufferings here, thanks to Jesus, thanks to His bearing in Himself the punishment of our sin, thanks to the great provision of the gospel — that through faith we can stand perfect in Jesus right now — we have the promise of eternal life. We have the promise that because of what Christ has done, because of the fullness and completeness of His perfect life and perfect sacrifice, our existence here, full of pain, disappointment, and loss, is no more than an instant, a flash, here and gone, in contrast to the eternity that awaits us, an eternity in a new heaven and a new earth, one without sin, suffering, and death. And all this is promised to us and made certain for us only because of Christ and the crucible He went into so that one day, coming soon, He would see "the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied" (Isa. 53:11).

FRIDAY

Further Thought

Read Ellen G. White, "Gethsemane," pp. 685-697, and "Calvary," pp. 741-757, in The Desire of Ages.

"Three times has He uttered that prayer. Three times has humanity shrunk from the last, crowning sacrifice. But now the history of the human race comes up before the world's Redeemer. He sees that the transgressors of the law, if left to themselves, must perish. He sees the helplessness of man. He sees the power of sin. The woes and lamentations of a doomed world rise before Him. He beholds its impending fate, and His decision is made. He will save man at any cost to Himself. He accepts His baptism of blood, that through Him perishing millions may gain everlasting life. He has left the courts of heaven, where all is purity, happiness, and glory, to save the one lost sheep, the one world that has fallen by transgression. And He will not turn from His mission. He will become the propitiation of a race that has willed to sin. His prayer now breathes only submission: 'If this cup may not pass away from Me, except I drink it, Thy will be done." — Ellen G. White, The Desire of Ages, pp. 690, 693.

Will we turn from our mission? What does Satan use to turn us from our mission?

Too involved/busy with sports, politics, work, entertainment, travel, etc.

The good can become the enemy of the best!

How does it help us in our own sufferings, this knowledge that God Himself, in the person of Christ, suffered more than any of us ever could? What should the sufferings of Christ in our behalf mean to us? What comfort can we draw from this amazing truth? As you think about your answer, keep in mind the following statement from Ellen G. White: "All the suffering which is the result of sin was poured into the bosom of the sinless Son of God." — Selected Messages, book 3, p. 129.

Remember 1 Peter 5:8, "Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the devil walks about like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour" (NKJV).

Satan sought to devour God and take His place, by killing Jesus, now he is after each of US, but with 2,000 more years of practice and experience. If he can't go, he certainly doesn't want you to!

When I have been in very low places in my life, the stories of Job and Joseph, Moses and Jesus are such an encouragement. What do you do when you are at a low point?

Don't waste Christ's sacrifice to create your cure.

- It's not enough to believe God is good.
- It's not enough to believe Christ created the cure.
- If Satan can just separate you from God and keep you from taking the cure…he wins and you lose eternal life in a vast, sinless universe.

Remain watchful by praying and reading the Bible every day, but read it to:

- find the puzzle pieces that God put in there for you
- get to know your maker and savior. Can you imagine that the smartest, most powerful and most loving being in the universe wants to be your person friend and for you to communicate with each other?
- find your mission and purpose
- be disciplined and corrected.

> "Search the scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life." You will have a conflict to be right. I Don't command you to read the Bible—I never shall. I want you to read the Bible because you love it, not because you are driven to it, for then it will be an unpleasant task. But if you neglect the reading of the Bible, you will lose your love for it. Those who love the word of God are those who read it most. By reading and searching out scripture references, you will see the chain of truth, and will see new beauties in the word of God. While you make the Scriptures more your study, and become more familiar with them, you will be better fortified against the temptations of Satan. When inclined to speak, or act, wrong, some scripture will come to arrest you, and turn you right. It is not natural for the heart to love the Bible; but when it is renewed by grace, then the mind will feast upon the rich truths and promises contained in the word of God.

2022 Q4 Future Hope: Lesson 1
Rebellion In A Perfect Universe

by Russell Atkins

LESSON INTRODUCTION

"God created human beings to enjoy eternity in a loving relationship with Him and His creation. But this relationship was distorted by the mysterious appearance of sin within the heavenly courts (Isa. 14:12–15, Ezek. 28:12–19, Rev. 12:7–12) and the subsequent fall of Adam and Eve (Gen. 3:1–19, Rom. 5:12)."

"As mortal human beings, we need assurance in the present and hope for the future. As well stated by the Swiss theologian Emil Brunner, "What oxygen is for the lungs, such is hope for the meaning of human life. Take oxygen away and death occurs through suffocation, take hope away and humanity is constricted through lack of breath; despair supervenes, spelling the paralysis of intellectual and spiritual powers by a feeling of the senselessness and purposelessness of existence. As the fate of the human organism is dependent on the supply of oxygen, so the fate of humanity is dependent on its supply of hope."—Eternal Hope (London: Lutterworth Press, 1954), p. 7. Indeed, the biblical hope sustains us during the existential crises we face in our journey toward eternity."

This is well said. The lesson takes great pains to trace "death" back to its origins [Satan's rebellion in Heaven]. This "great controversy" perspective has been unique to Adventism and thankfully other Protestant denominations are clueing in to its value.

SABBATH

How you have fallen from heaven, you star of the morning, son of the dawn! You have been cut down to the earth, you who defeated the nations! (Isa. 14:12, NASB).

From the lesson: "Many thinkers have tried to explain the origin of evil. Some suggest that evil always has existed because, in their view, good can be appreciated only in contrast to evil. Others believe that the world was created perfect but, somehow, evil emerged. For example, in Greek mythology, evil started when the curious Pandora opened a sealed box out of which flew all the evils of the world (this myth, however, does not explain the origin of the evils supposedly hidden in that box).

By contrast, the Bible teaches that our loving God is all-powerful (1 Chron. 29:10, 11) and perfect (Matt. 5:48). All that He does must likewise be perfect (Deut. 32:4), which includes how He created our world. How, then, could evil and sin appear in a perfect world? According to Genesis 3, the fall of Adam and Eve brought sin, evil, and death here.

But that answer raises another issue. Even before the Fall, evil already had existed, manifested by the "serpent," who deceived Eve (Gen. 3:1–5). Hence, we need to go back, even before the Fall, in order to find the source and origins of the evil that so dominates our present existence and that at times can make it pretty miserable."

Again, well said.

What is "Death"? How does Scripture define it? How many types of "death" are spoken of in the Bible? Why didn't Lucifer die as soon as he rebelled? Or when he was cast out of Heaven?

What Law lens do you view these questions with?

SUNDAY

Creation, and Expression of Love.

We can easily see two antagonist principles / governments at war here on Earth — in humanity, indeed, all of nature. Scripture provides us some clarity

> "Sir, did you not sow good seed in your field? How then does it have tares?" And the owner replied, " "An enemy has done this" (Matt. 13:27, 28, NKJV).
>
> See also: https://biblehub.com/romans/8-22.htm

Before Mankind fell, God warned the First Couple about consuming the forbidden fruit. ". . . you shall surely die" Genesis 2:17 This gets literally translated from Hebrew as ". . . dying you shall die."

This is quoted from Ministry Magazine:

Consider a classic example in the final phrase in Genesis 2:17: " 'But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil you shall not eat, for in the day that you eat of it you shall surely die' " (emphasis added).[1] The Hebrew text uses an idiomatic construction literally translated "dying you shall die." Members and students figure out such literal translations, and come running to the pastor with questions. Some have asked me if this phrase indicates that Adam and Eve began dying that very day, even though they did not finish dying the same day. Others wonder if this might be a descriptive warning akin to a parent telling a child, "If you touch the fire, you will get burned." Still others suspect it should be understood as a divine announcement disclosing an enforceable penalty. Emphasis mine.

I encourage you to read the entire article and consider which Law lens is viewed by the author.

https://www.ministrymagazine.org/archive/2011/12/dying-you-shall-die

Clearly Eve and Adam didn't die the instant they tasted the fruit. WHY? What prevented their instant death? Did God intervene in some fashion to prevent their instant consumption?

- He intervened to veil His own glory, so our first parents would continue living on Earth with the hope of restoration.
- He intervened in now corrupted human nature [putting enmity between humans and Satan — Gen. 3: 15]
- He intervened in Nature itself by putting a "fear" of man into the creatures of the Earth after the flood. — Gen. 9: 2
- He intervened by restraining the powers of darkness [4 winds of destruction in Revelation].
- He intervened by gifting humanity the first death of sleep. How is this a gift??

Question from the lesson: "What can the certainty that 'God is Love' tell us about the nature of His creative activities?"

What indeed?

The lesson goes on to list three implications of Love / Creation

1. Love cannot exist in / of itself — it must be expressed.
2. All that God does is an expression of His infinite love [Creation, redemption and "punitive judgements"].

   The lesson quoted DA p. 762 for support.

   "God's love has been expressed in His justice no less than in His mercy. Justice is the foundation of His throne, and the fruit of His love." Time to check your Law lens.

3. Since God is Love, He cannot be the source of sin/evil.

Is Love the only reason God created? Specifically our creation?? Was there something else at play?

MONDAY

Free Will, the Basis of Love.

I think the Law of Liberty is the most misunderstood of the Design Laws. Why does God give pedophiles freedom to molest children?? Why does He give a high schooler the freedom to shoot his classmates? Why did He, knowing the end from the beginning, create Lucifer in the first place?

Why is "free will" important? ^^^ Love cannot exist without it.^^^

I loathe the terms "hate speech" and "hate crime". There's only FREE SPEECH. Free speech you like and free speech you don't. And there's only crime. Period.

Given our current cultural mess, I have some good friends that have said "We just need the 'right kind' of dictator to . . ." Would a dictator actually help? Or has our culture already become dictatorial? Do we need more freedom / free will or less?

Which Law lens are we using??

From the lesson:

> The origin and nature of sin are mysteries that no one can fully explain. Even so, God did not ordain sin to exist; He only allowed its existence, and then, at the cross, He took upon Himself the ultimate punishment for that sin, thus enabling Him, ultimately, to eradicate it. In all our painful musings about evil, we must never forget that God Himself paid the highest price for the existence of sin and of evil (see Matt. 5:43–48 and Rom. 5:6– 11), and that He has suffered from them more than any of us ever will.

How would you explain the above paragraph??

TUESDAY

Mysterious Ingratitude.

The lesson references Ezekiel 28:12–19 for this lesson. Pay special attention to verse 18 and think about the final Judgement.

From the lesson:

> "In reality, Lucifer was created perfect—which included his ability to choose freely. However, abusing that perfection by the misuse of his free will, he became corrupted by considering himself more important than he actually was."

Was Lucifer created perfect? The above passage seems to indicate he was.

Or was he created sinless, like Adam and Eve, who had to develop perfection?

> "Sin originated in self-seeking. Lucifer, the covering cherub, desired to be first in heaven. He sought to gain control of heavenly beings, to draw them away from their Creator, and to win their homage to himself. . . . Thus he deceived angels. Thus he deceived men. He led them to doubt the word of God, and to distrust His goodness. . . . Thus he drew men to join him in rebellion against God, and the night of woe settled down upon the world.
> Sin appeared in a perfect universe. . . . The reason of its inception or development was never explained and never can be, even at the last great day when the judgment shall sit and the > books be opened. . . . At that day it will be evident to all that there is not, and never was, any cause for sin. At the final condemnation of Satan and his angels and of all men who have finally identified themselves with him as transgressors of God's law, every mouth will be stopped. When the hosts of rebellion, from the first great rebel to the last transgressor, are asked why they have broken the law of God, they will be speechless. There will be no answer to give."—That I May Know Him, p. 15.

WEDNESDAY

The Price of Pride.

Tuesday's lesson suggested that ingratitude played a role in Lucifer's fall. It may have a point, however, I think Pride, today's subject, was the primary force. In my experience, pride leads to ingratitude.

From the lesson:

> "In the Bible, the city of Babylon stands for a power in direct opposition to God and His kingdom; and the king of Babylon (with special allusion to Nebuchadnezzar) becomes a symbol of pride and arrogance. God had revealed to King Nebuchadnezzar that Babylon was only the gold head of the great image of successive empires (Dan. 2:37, 38). Challenging God's revelation, the king made an image entirely of gold—a symbol that his kingdom would last forever—and even required everyone to worship it (Daniel 3). As in the case of the king of Tyre (Ezek. 28:12–19), the king of Babylon also became a symbol of Lucifer.
> Isaiah 14:3–11 describes the fall of the haughty and oppressive king of Babylon. Then, Isaiah 14:12–15 moves from the historical realm to the heavenly courts and highlights that a similar proud and arrogant spirit generated the original fall of Lucifer. The text explains that Lucifer planned to exalt his throne above all heavenly hosts and make himself " ' "like the Most High" ' " (Isa. 14:14). This was the beginning of a new and hostile situation in which God's altruistic love and cooperation would be challenged by Lucifer's selfishness and competition. The enemy was not afraid of accusing God of what he himself was and of spreading his lies to other angels. Here are the mysterious origins of evil in the universe."

Is Babylon the ONLY power standing in direct opposition to God and His kingdom?? [see Ex. 5: 2, and Daniel 11 with https://comeandreason.com/daniel-11-end-time-events/]

Consider the following:

> [The] work of opposition to the law of God had its beginning in the courts of heaven, with Lucifer, the covering cherub. Satan determined to be first in the councils of heaven, and equal with God. Selected Messages, book 1, p. 222.
>
> The evil that led to Peter's fall and that shut out the Pharisee from communion with God is roving the ruin of thousands today. There is nothing so offensive to God or so dangerous to the human soul as pride and self-sufficiency. Of all sins it is the most hopeless, the most incurable.

Peter's fall was not instantaneous, but gradual. Self-confidence led him to the belief that he was saved, and step after step was taken in the downward path, until he could deny his Master.—Christ's Object Lessons, pp. 154, 155. Emphasis mine.

THURSDAY

Lesson — The Spread of Unbelief.

Was Lucifer's issue "unbelief" or did he sincerely believe he was equal with Michael? The quote from yesterday tells us he opposed God's Law and presented it as imposed to the angelic host.

Adam and Eve's issue was believing sincerely a lie, and not trusting God.

From the lesson:

> "Reflecting on the beginning of this controversy, Ellen G. White explains that "God in His great mercy bore long with Lucifer. He was not immediately degraded from his exalted station when he first indulged the spirit of discontent, nor even when he began to present his false claims before the loyal angels. Long was he retained in heaven. Again and again he was offered pardon on condition of repentance and submission."—Ellen G. White, The Great Controversy, pp. 495, 496.

We do not know how long that war lasted in the heavenly realms. Regardless of its intensity and time span, the most important aspect of the whole struggle was that Satan and his angels "were defeated, and there was no longer any place for them in heaven" (Rev. 12:8, NRSV; see also Luke 10:18). The problem, of course, was that they came here, to the earth."

> After Satan and those who fell with him were shut out of heaven, and he realized that he had forever lost all its purity and glory, he repented, and wished to be reinstated in heaven. He was willing to take his proper place, or any position that might be assigned him. But no; heaven must not be placed in jeopardy. All heaven might be marred should he be taken back; for sin originated with him, and the seeds of rebellion were within him. Both he and his followers wept, and implored to be taken back into the favor of God. But their sin—their hatred, their envy and jealousy—had been so great that God could not blot it out. It must remain to receive its final punishment. [Ed. Why??]
> When Satan became fully conscious that there was no possibility of his being brought again into favor with God, his malice and hatred began to be manifest. He consulted with his angels, and a plan was laid to still work against God's government. When Adam and Eve were placed in the beautiful garden, Satan was laying plans to destroy them. . . . It was decided that [he] should assume another form and manifest an interest for man. He must insinuate against God's truthfulness and create doubt whether God did mean just what He said; next, he must excite their curiosity, and lead them to pry into the unsearchable plans of God—the very sin of which Satan had been guilty.—Early Writings, p. 146.

Friday

Further Thought: Read Ellen G. White, "Why Was Sin Permitted?" pp. 33–43, in Patriarchs and Prophets; "The Origin of Evil," pp. 492–504, in The Great Controversy. [Emphasis mine.]

There was no possible hope for the redemption of those [Satan and his angels] who had witnessed and enjoyed the inexpressible glory of heaven, and had seen the terrible majesty of God, and, in presence of all this glory, had rebelled against Him. There were no new and wonderful exhibitions of God's exalted power that could impress them so deeply as those they had already experienced. If they could rebel in the very presence of glory inexpressible, they could not be placed in a more favorable condition to be proved. There was no reserve force of power, nor were there any greater heights and depths of infinite glory to overpower their jealous doubts and rebellious murmuring. Their guilt and their punishment must be in proportion to their exalted privileges in the heavenly courts.—Ellen G. White, Confrontation, p. 21.

From the beginning, God and Christ knew of the apostasy of Satan, and of the fall of man through the deceptive power of the apostate. God did not ordain that sin should exist, but He foresaw its existence, and made provision to meet the terrible emergency. So great was His love for the world, that He covenanted to give His only-begotten Son, 'that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.' John 3:16.—Ellen G. White, The Desire of Ages, p. 22.

2022 4Q On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 2
Death In A Sinful World

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read Memory Text: "Therefore, just as through one man sin entered the world, and death through sin, and thus death spread to all men, because all sinned" (Romans 5:12 NKJV).

From where does death come? What is the source of death?

There are two options—the imposed law view or the design law view.

The imposed law view is that death comes from God and is inflicted by God as punishment for sin.

The design law view is that death comes from Satan and sin, from breaking God's law and severing oneself from the source of life.

What does the Bible teach?

- The wages of sin is death but the gift of God is eternal life Romans 6:23
- Sin when full grown brings forth death James 1:15
- Those who sow to the carnal nature from that nature reap destruction Galatians 6:8
- "Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil" (Hebrews 2:14 NIV84).
- "This grace was given us in Christ Jesus before the beginning of time, but it has now been revealed through the appearing of our Savior, Christ Jesus, who has destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel" (2 Timothy 1:9-10 NIV84).

Understand, the design law view is that God's laws are the laws upon which the Creator built reality and life to operate. Sin breaks God's law, breaks the design for life, and without intervention from our Creator, the only result is ruin and death.

This was acted out in the sacrificial system when the sinner confessed sins on the head of the animal and then the sinner, not the priest, cut the circulation—the life is in the blood (Lev 17:11) and the blood circulates, but sin cuts the circle, severing God's design and the result is death. God does not inflict death, sin does.

But the imposed law view posits that sin is a legal problem that gets one into legal trouble with the ruling authority. Death would not occur for the wicked unless the cosmic rule-maker used his power to inflict death upon the wicked and kill them for their rebelliousness. This, in their penal-legal system, is called "justice." But this teaching is a violation of the law of liberty, to believe this undermines trust in God, destroys love, and spreads rebellion.

Further, this view teaches that life and death have the same eternal source, which is in the heart of their god. This is the root of eastern philosophies that teach for the universe to exist there must be balance between light and dark, good and evil, life and death and that both will exist forever. This is Satan's dream for both good and evil to exist eternally. And this is what the penal legal theologies teach. But it is a lie. Death does not originate in God nor does it come out from God. God is the source of life, death is what happens when one sins, rebels against God and refuses God's healing to their terminal condition.

Read the second paragraph, "Having been cast out of heaven…" I like how the lesson wrote that Satan "imagined" a legal solution to the sin problem, that some legal pardon could be devised. Yes, that is correct, the legal theory, built upon the idea that God's law functions like human law and that the sin problem can be solved by a legal solution is all from Satan's imagination—it is not reality, it is fantasy.

Some might argue, what about the Ten Commandments, those are not from Satan, those are from God. Correct, they were given by God—but when and to whom, and what do they establish and reveal?

When a parent gives a rule to a child not to play in the street, or they must brush their teeth, is the parent setting up a legal system of justice that requires the parent to kill the child if the child disobeys? Or is the parent, demonstrating grace to protect the child, by adding a layer of rules for the child who cannot understand the actual laws of physics and thermodynamics, how reality works, and how failure to live in harmony with the laws of physics will result in injury and death?

Thus, the Bible teaches in Galatians that the written law was added because of sin so that we could more easily see it. The written law acts as a mirror to expose sin in us, as a protective hedge to protect us in our immaturity, and as a aid to lead us to Jesus for healing and restoration.

So, in our modern language the written law of Ten Commandments is like an MRI but for the soul. The MRI was not made for healthy people but for the sick, to diagnose and expose disease hidden from normal view. But the MRI doesn't heal, the law doesn't heal, the MRI is to bring conviction or certainty of one's sick state and need for healing and lead a person to the doctor who heals. Likewise,

> We know that the law is good if one uses it properly. We also know that law is made not for the righteous but for lawbreakers and rebels, the ungodly and sinful, the unholy and irreligious; for those who kill their fathers or mothers, for murderers, for adulterers and perverts, for slave traders and liars and perjurers—and for whatever else is contrary to the sound doctrine that conforms to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, which he entrusted to me" (1 Timothy 1:8-11 NIV84).

What do you think about the idea that Adam and Eve were not even to expose themselves to the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil?

This is classic imposed law think—a law-keeping approach to salvation. Consider this commentary from the book Thoughts From the Mount of Blessing:

> The effort to earn salvation by one's own works inevitably leads men to pile up human exactions as a barrier against sin. For, seeing that they fail to keep the law, they will devise rules and regulations of their own to force themselves to obey. [Have you ever seen this with say, Sabbath observance?] All this turns the mind away from God to self. His love dies out of the heart, [That is what imposed law does, it violates liberty through coercion and destroys love] and with it perishes love for his fellow men. A system of human invention, with its multitudinous exactions, will lead its advocates to judge all who come short of the prescribed human standard. [The imposed law view of things—human standard] The atmosphere of selfish and narrow criticism stifles the noble and generous emotions, and causes men to become self-centered judges and petty spies. MB 123.1

This is exactly what the penal legal view of salvation does. And the lesson suggests a new rule that God did not give and in fact is the opposite of what God wanted—the lesson suggests they were not to expose themselves to temptation at the Tree? They reference Genesis 2:16,17 to support this idea:

> And the LORD God commanded the man, "You are free to eat from any tree in the garden; but you must not eat from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, for when you eat of it you will surely die" (Genesis 2:16–17 NIV84).

Does this text support the idea that God did not want them to expose themselves to temptation? Who put the Tree of Knowledge in the Garden? And where did God put it?

> "In the middle of the garden were the tree of life and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil" (Genesis 2:9).

So God put the Tree of Knowledge in the middle of the garden near the Tree of Life—does this sound like God did not want them exposed, or that God did want them exposed but He wanted them exposed in a way that they were capable of rejecting the temptation and choosing loyalty to Him? Why?

What is it that God wants from all His intelligent beings whether human or angels?

God wants our loyalty, love, trust, devotion, understanding friendship and agreement with Him. And how can God get this? Can God get our love, trust, friendship by programming us like robots? Can God get our love, trust, and friendship by using power and might to threaten to kill us if we don't love Him? Can God get our love, trust, and friendship through withholding the issues from us so that we are never faced with the questions or the lies and therefore never choose Him?

So, what is necessary—for God to be truly righteous and trustworthy and worthy of our love and loyalty—which He is; and for us to have evaluated the allegations of Satan in light of the truth and choose for ourselves to reject the lies and trust God.

Adam and Eve in Eden, before they sinned, had the ability to do this in their own sinless human strength. We do not. But they could have chosen loyalty and they could have developed a sinless human character. But the only way for them to do this was to be exposed to the issues in the controversy and choose to reject the lies and embrace and settle themselves into the truth.

The Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil is not the tree of cognitive information—God and the angels had already told Adam and Eve about the rebellion, they already had didactic instruction and warnings about sin. The Tree was the place where Adam and Eve would decide what they would know in reality, in experience: would they choose to reject the lies and know love, loyalty, trust, righteousness, and eternal life and have God's living law solidified into their character, or would they embrace the lies and choose to know fear, selfishness, distrust, shame, guilt, rebellion and death?

So, understanding design law, we understand how reality works, what God wants, the true purpose of the tree, and when we reject Satan's imposed law lie we realize God wanted Adam and Eve to reject the lies and know the truth in action and deed and become mature children of God. Thus God designed for the most mild exposure to the cosmic issues possible in a protected and sinless world, all for their success.

I came across this quote in the commentary Conflict and Courage, which was written by E.G. White, one of the founders of the SDA church, let's compare this view with what we just read from the quarterly.

> Our first parents, though created innocent and holy, were not placed beyond the possibility of wrongdoing. . . . [Why? Because they were free beings, not robots, capable of love, because God is love and His law of love requires liberty.] They were to enjoy communion with God and with holy angels; but before they could be rendered eternally secure, their loyalty must be tested. [What kind of test? Is it a rule-keeping test or a test of who they will choose to love, who they will choose trust, who they will choose be loyal to, thus a test of whose character, methods, and law they will choose to internalize into their characters.] At the very beginning of man's existence a check was placed upon the desire for self-indulgence, the fatal passion that lay at the foundation of Satan's fall. [A check, meaning an opportunity to be tempted with self-indulgence, but an opportunity to say no to that temptation. Why? What is the way we mature, gain strength in God's design? Through exercise, the law of exertion, they could not gain strength, could not mature, if they never faced the question, were never tempted and chose to say no.] The tree of knowledge, which stood near the tree of life in the midst of the garden, was to be a test of the obedience, faith, and love of our first parents. While permitted to eat freely of every other tree, they were forbidden to taste of this, on pain of death. They were also to be exposed to the temptations of Satan; but if they endured the trial, they would finally be placed beyond his power, to enjoy perpetual favor with God. . . . {CC 13.2} [They were not to avoid being exposed as the lesson suggests, but were to be exposed, why? So they would overcome, solidify the truth about God into their hearts and then Satan's lies would no longer have any impact upon them.]

God might have created man without the power to transgress His law; He might have withheld the hand of Adam from touching the forbidden fruit; but in that case man would have been, not a free moral agent, but a mere automation. [Yes, God could have built robots, but robots cannot love and God did not do this.] Without freedom of choice, his obedience would not have been voluntary, but forced. There could have been no development of character. . . . It would have been unworthy of man as an intelligent being, and would have sustained Satan's charge of God's arbitrary rule. {CC 13.3}

God did not want Adam and Eve to sin. He wanted them to face the temptation and, based on all the other evidences of His goodness, His reliability, His trustworthiness, reject the lies of Satan and choose to know good, to know life, to know Him and internalize Him and His law of love into their inmost being. Unfortunately, they chose to know evil instead.

SUNDAY

Read Genesis 3:1-4:

> Now the serpent was more crafty than any of the wild animals the LORD God had made. He said to the woman, "Did God really say, 'You must not eat from any tree in the garden'?"
>
> The woman said to the serpent, "We may eat fruit from the trees in the garden, but God did say, 'You must not eat fruit from the tree that is in the middle of the garden, and you must not touch it, or you will die.' "
>
> "You will not surely die," the serpent said to the woman. (Genesis 3:1–4 NIV84).

Read the third and fourth paragraphs, "From the perspective of human logic…" Does this sound right to you or is there something not right here?

What is the idea, message, or thought you think the lesson is advancing with these two paragraphs?

Do you get the sense that the lesson is suggesting you cannot trust your ability to reason and think? Is the lesson undermining reasoning, weighing of evidence, and suggesting that perhaps we are to believe because God gave a commandment or a rule or an instruction and we are not to reason it out for ourselves?

Let's demonstrate the problems with these two paragraphs.

The lesson argues there was no evidence in the natural world of the existence of death. Does that mean there was no evidence in the natural world for them to make a right decision upon?

- Did they have evidence of the existence of God?
- Did they have evidence of the goodness of God?
- Did they have evidence of the love of God?
- Did they have evidence in nature of how life was built to operate and the design laws that govern its existence?
- Did they have evidence of liberty and freedom granted to them by God?
- Did they have evidence of other intelligent beings (angels) being loyal and loving and trusting God?
- Did they have evidence that God gives freely, having given them dominion over the animals on the planet?
- Did they have evidence that God gives liberty of conscience and freedom to choose?

So when the serpent ate the fruit and spoke to Eve, with all the evidence provided and the warning of God and the testimony of angels, what would be the most logical and reasonable action for Eve to take? To go get her husband, talk to him and together go and ask God before acting. Human logic didn't fail here, human logic and reason wasn't actually applied here.

So, if they were to make an evidence-based decision with the evidence available at the time, the evidence would conclude that the serpent lied.

The lesson states the "human reason is not always the safest way to evaluate spiritual matters" thoughts about this?

How can the authors know this? Would they have had to reason out the reasons why this so? And if they did reason this out, how can they rely on their reason to come to this conclusion? How can they know whether the Scripture should be obeyed, should they reason out whether it is trustworthy or not? And should they reason through which Scripture to obey, should they apply a non-reasoning acceptance to all Scripture, say the apocrypha, the Book of Mormon, the Quran?

How can these authors know to obey the 66 books without reason but not the other various scriptures in the world? Is it that they surrendered their reason to some other humans to tell them what is acceptable to believe without reason and what is not? And in that case are they actually listening to God or to fallible humans who reasoned it out for them?

What does Scripture say?

> "Come now, let us reason together," says the LORD. "Though your sins are like scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they are red as crimson, they shall be like wool. (Isaiah 1:18 NIV84).
>
> "One man considers one day more sacred than another; another man considers every day alike. Each one should be fully convinced in his own mind" (Romans 14:5 NIV84).

What is the Biblical principle? That we must think, reason, weigh the evidences for ourselves and be fully persuaded in our own mind—why? Because this is how truth changes a person.

A person convinced against their will is of the same opinion still. It is not transformative to believe because someone else told you, it is transformative to believe when you understand the truth and why it is true and love and choose the truth.

This is why Jesus said to His disciples:

> "I no longer call you servants, because a servant does not know his master's business. Instead, I have called you friends, for everything that I learned from my Father I have made known to you" (John 15:15 NIV84).

Jesus does not want the obedience of a well-trained dog, or a slave. He wants understanding friendship, which requires we reason and think through the evidence God has provided.

Let's consider this historic quote, again documenting a principle that the SDA church was founded upon, and ask, is the quarterly advancing this principle or undermining it?

> All whom God has endowed with reasoning powers may become intellectual Christians. God has given abundant evidence of the truth of his word, and he requires that those who would be counted as the followers of Christ should study the Scriptures, that they may be able to give to every man a reason of the hope that is in them, with meekness and fear. He has not required any one to believe without evidence. Let the inquirer after truth put to the stretch his mental powers in diligent study of the word of God. To neglect this duty is to place the soul in peril of eternal death. Each one is required to understand the conditions upon which eternal life depends. We must know what saith the Lord, that we may be able to live "by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord." We cannot afford to have another settle questions of such momentous import as those concerning our soul's salvation. We must open the Scriptures for ourselves, searching the word of God prayerfully, that we may know the truth as it is in Jesus. We cannot afford to trust to the ministers, to follow idle traditions, to subject our souls to human authority, but we must know for ourselves what God has said. We are to be laborers together with God, and we must know, we must be determined to know, what are the conditions upon which we may become heirs of salvation. If we neglect this important duty, we shall die in our sins. – The Medical Missionary, May 1, 1892

Now, we are not the source of truth, thus God must reveal truth to us, so the revelation of truth is not something we can accomplish with our human ability, human reason cannot discover divine truths unrevealed by God, but once God has revealed them to us, which He has in His Word, and in nature (Romans 1:20) and in His providences (life experiences), God calls us to examine the truth and compare the truth that He has revealed against with the lies and make a decision on whom we will trust, who we will believe, what we will embrace and choose to practice in our own lives.

What about the idea that the Word of God can appear to be illogical and senseless to us?

If it does, then we are misunderstanding it in some way. The Word of God is always trustworthy, when rightly understood. But the Word of God misunderstood and misapplied causes harm.

When the religious leaders in Christ's day wanted to stone the woman caught in adultery were they applying their own made-up rules or where they applying the Word of God? But did they understand it correctly? Why or why not?

MONDAY

Read the last three paragraphs, "Eve's curiosity…" What do you think of the idea she was forced to decide?

Once the lies were presented, it is true that she would have to decide what she believed, who she trusted. But, was she forced to decide at that moment? Did she have the liberty, the freedom to walk away, to think about it, to get her husband, to go to God that evening and gather more information and input before deciding?

Does it sound like they are denigrating the empirical method of observation?

Hmmm…consider this historical quote describing what is legitimate experience to make decisions upon:

> As I have before stated, you, my sister, rely upon experience. Your experience decides you to pursue a certain course. But that which many term experience is not experience at all; it is simply habit, or mere indulgence, blindly and frequently ignorantly followed, with a firm, set determination, and without intelligent thought or inquiry relative to the laws at work in the accomplishment of the result. 3T 68.3 [Now while Eve had no bad habits, did she make a choice without intelligent thought and without full inquiry as to the laws at work?]
>
> Real experience is a variety of careful experiments made with the mind freed from prejudice and uncontrolled by previously established opinions and habits. [What is real experience? It is careful experiments, problems solved in a variety of ways, with a mind free from prejudice, bias, opinion, habits, preconceived ideas in order to observe what is actually happening—how reality works. It is the outworking of God's design laws in reality in contrast to Satan's imposed laws] The results are marked with careful solicitude and an anxious desire to learn, to improve, and to reform on every habit that is not in harmony with physical and moral laws. The idea of others' gainsaying what you have learned by experience seems to you to be folly and even cruelty itself. But there are more errors received and firmly retained from false ideas of experience than from any other cause, for the reason that what is generally termed experience is not experience at all; because there has never > been a fair trial by actual experiment and thorough investigation, with a knowledge of the principle involved in the action. 3T 69.1

What trial by experiment could Eve have conducted that would have enabled her to know that the serpent was lying?

How about waiting and giving time to see what happens to the serpent after eating of the fruit?

How about calling God over to the tree and having God and the serpent confront each other and observing the interaction?

Imagine, she calls God over and God casts Satan out of the serpent and she sees the fallen angel in his true form—what might that have done to Eve's understanding and perspective of things? Would it have been evidence of someone trying to deceive her?

But there is a principle the lesson is trying to help us embrace, which is a righteous principle and that is trusting God and remaining loyal to Him when we don't currently have all of our questions answered or enough evidence to comprehend the issues involved. Job, for instance, didn't understand why things were happening. He did not have the behind-the-scenes information about the drama playing out in heaven. But Job had enough evidence and personal experience with God to trust God and remain loyal to God giving God opportunity to explain things to Him.

This is correct, we are not to make decisions merely and only on our own ability to understand events, but we are to make decisions based on our ability to understand God, His methods and principles and to trust HIM!

TUESDAY

The lesson explores the question of Satan's lie that if Eve should eat the fruit she would not surely die.

The question of whether sinners die or not can be explored from a variety of perspectives:

- What did God mean when He said they would die if they ate the fruit?
- Did it mean physical death?
- Did it mean as some suggest, spiritual death?
- Did it mean God would inflict death?
- Did it mean that eating the fruit would cause death?
- Is the death the first death, the sleep death from which there is resurrection, or the second eternal death from which there is no resurrection?

Satan's lie is that sin does not result in death, that both the righteous and the wicked live eternally, it is just the place where they live, the condition in which they live, and how God treats them is different.

We can approach this question by comparing the various Bible texts about sin resulting in death while eternal life is only for the righteous etc.

A Bible text examination approach presents a compelling case Biblical that sin does result in death and the eternal life is a gift from God for those who are restored to righteousness, but there is another, more impactful line to explore on this question, and that is what it says about God.

The underlying premise that many people hold that causes them to believe that unsaved sinners live eternally in a place of suffering is that in Eden, when God created Adam and Eve, that at that time, before they sinned, He created some part of them, whether soul or spirit, that is immortal and can never die.

The Bible doesn't actually teach this, but this is the assumed premise. You can approach this premises with Bible texts that say the soul who sins will die (Ezekiel 18:4, 20). But the more impactful approach is to ask, if this premise is true, what does it say about God?

- Did God foreknow that Adam and Eve would sin before He created them?
- Did He foreknow they would have children born in sin and conceived in iniquity?
- Did He foreknow that billions of their descendants would live very short earthly lives of sin and die without salvation?
- And if God foreknew all of this and created them with some aspect of their being that could never die and therefore created conditions He foreknew would result in billions of people suffering for all eternity in the torments of hell for being born into sin that they never chose, what would that say about God?
- What kind of a god would God be if this were true?

- On the other hand, of the Open Theists are correct (which they are not but let's argue their view), that God doesn't know the future and God didn't realize Adam and Eve would fall, what would that say about God?
- Did God get caught by surprise? Did God not even have enough wisdom to anticipate the possibility this could happen?

Either way, the argument that humans are inherently immortal, created by God in Eden with immortality, says horrible things about God and ultimately undermines trust in God.

WEDNESDAY

Read second paragraph, "Genesis 3…" From where does fear, guilt, and shame come? Does God inflict this or is it the natural result of what sin does?

And what impact does fear, guilt, and shame have upon people? What does it result in within the sinner and how does it impact relationships?

Fear is inherent to the sin condition—we are born afraid, shame immerges around 18-36 months and guilt begins about age 4.

Babies will startle and be afraid this is an inheritance from Adam's fall. As we grow up, we find focuses for our fear—fear of rejection, fear of failure, fear of environmental things (germs, heights, water, darkness, black cats), fear of God.

Fear turns the mind to self and self-protection and results in the drives to survive, the kill or be killed principles, the justifications to harm another in order to advantage self. Fear and love are opposites, when we love others we will sacrifice self for their advantage, to benefit them, a mother sacrificing self to save her child is a perfect example.

Shame requires social connotation, and just like guilt there is appropriate and inappropriate shame.

But shame is used by evil to destroy, to isolate, and to obstruct God's healing solution.

Shame causes one to feel, and then believe, that no one could love them and accept them if people knew about their sin, their shamefulness. Thus shame leads to secrecy, isolation, social mask-wearing, and false theologies that teach we will never be truly known for who we are, but will remain hidden behind the shield of Christ's righteousness who covers our shameful histories.

The reality is that we will not have shame when we are in Christ because the old has died and we have new identities in Christ.

One of the roles of a healthy, godly, church is to help people experience the grace and love of God that overcomes the shame. It is to experience being known and being loved despite our shame.

The woman caught in adultery experienced this. She had real shame and once Jesus dispatched the crowd, He did not condemn her. He saw her. He saw the real her, deep down into her soul and He still loved her, but more than this, He saw who she could be if she were freed from fear, selfishness, guilt, and shame and thus He treated her in that moment with love, with grace, with acceptance as a person while He didn't accept the destructive behaviors and fearful and shameful thoughts and feelings. This knowing her and loving her and accepting her while rejecting the sickness of sin that was infecting her, is called imputed righteousness.

Jesus imputed to her, in the way He treated her, what He knew she could be if she trusted Him. He imputed His love to her, He longing for her recovery, healing, wellness; He imputed in how He treated her the perfection of who she could be if she trust Him. And because of the imputed righteousness that she experienced from Him, she was won to trust in Jesus and opened her heart and He imparted His righteousness to her which transformed her to a new creature who became righteous, just as it says in 2Cor 5:21.

Read the fourth paragraph, "Adam and Eve…" What law lens do you understand God's words through?

If we accept Satan's lie that God's law functions like human law, then the text is read as God pronouncing a death sentence against them which He will one day enforce.

But if we return to design law, then we recognize God is merely diagnosing their condition for what it is—a terminal state of being that without remedy will result in death.

Consider, if someone were exposed to a fatal dose of radiation, do they die in that moment? No, we have heard news reports of people being assassinated with polonium. They do not die the day they ingest the polonium, but they are degrading and returning to dust—do we say they are sentenced to death? No, they receive a change in their actual condition that results in deterioration and death—unless and remedy and cure can be applied.

This is what Adam and Eve did, they changed their state of being and God veiled His life-giving glory, they no longer had access to the Tree of Life, and their biological systems began to decay in harmony with the 2nd law of thermodynamics and they eventually died the first death experience turning back to dust.

This was not a legal death sentence; it was a diagnosis of their terminal condition.

THURSDAY

Read Genesis 3:15:

> "And I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your offspring and hers; he will crush your head, and you will strike his heel" (Genesis 3:15 NIV84).

This is the key to understanding the entire Old Testament. Once Adam sinned no human could be saved without Jesus, our Messiah, coming and overcoming where we could not. The entire OT narrative is the battle between God's forces working to bring the Messiah to save humanity and bring an end to Satan and sin and secure the universe unfallen, and Satan warring to prevent the coming of the Messiah.

This gives us insight into why the Bible focuses our attention on the descendants of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and then Judah, because it is through them that the Messiah comes.

It gives insight into why God intervened with the Flood, Sodom, and many other places, it was all about keeping open the avenue for the Messiah, because without Jesus no human being could be saved.

The text gives us insight also into God's intercessions or interventions. Once Adam sinned God intercedes in three places or ways, this text reveals one of them. God intercedes in human hearts with the Holy Spirit to convict of sin, to instill a desire for Him, for right, for life. Without this intercession in our hearts there would be a perfect union between fallen human beings and fallen angels. We can still see that in individuals who reject the workings of the Holy Spirit and sear their consciences and harden their hearts, they become fully united to Satan and under his demonic influence. But the entire human race would be in that state if it wasn't for God interceding in our hearts in this way.

God also intercedes in holding back the principalities and powers of darkness, putting up a hedge of protection around the righteous.

And God, interceded in the natural result of sin within the human species by Jesus becoming incarnate and destroying the carnal infection and restoring God's living law back into the human species, thereby become the second Adam and opening a new a living way back into the presence of God for us.

2022 Q4 Future Hope: Lesson 3
Understanding Human Nature

by Russell Atkins

SABBATH

Memory text: "And the LORD God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul" (Genesis 2:7).

When the serpent told Eve she "certainly will not die", he was repeating a theme he had already started with Eve [and in Heaven as well]. The theme was God was withholding something desirable from her — "Did God really say, 'You must not eat from any tree in the garden'?" Genesis 3:1.

Implied in this question is God is stingy/selfish.

What kind of God would not let His created beings eat the fruit of the trees?
How can a God like this claim to love you?
God doesn't really have the best interest in His heart for his creation.

My suspicion is Lucifer had been observing Adam and Eve since their creation and he had noticed some subtle body language cues and facial expressions between them. I suspect he noted some differences in knowledge and understanding between the two and thought if he appealed to Eve's desire for increased knowledge, he would have his best chance.
What do you think he would have tempted Adam with if it had been Adam alone at the tree?? Or does it even matter?

Ever since the Fall, he has been tempting women with the idea that someone or something [i.e. The nebulous Patriarchy] is trying to withhold freedom or knowledge from them. And he has been tempting men with women.

This is fallen human nature.

It's difficult to imagine anything other than our fallen nature isn't it?

> If men had been willing to receive the truth so plainly stated in the Scriptures concerning the nature of man and the state of the dead, they would see in the claims and manifestations of spiritualism the working of Satan with power and signs and lying wonders. But rather than yield the liberty so agreeable to the carnal heart, and renounce the sins which they love, multitudes close their eyes to the light and walk straight on, regardless of warnings, while Satan weaves his snares about them, and they become his prey. "Because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved," therefore "God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie." 2 Thessalonians 2:10, 11. [ED: What Law is described here?].

> Those who oppose the teachings of spiritualism are assailing, not men alone, but Satan and his angels. They have entered upon a contest against principalities and powers and wicked spirits in high places. Satan will not yield one inch of ground except as he is driven back by the power of heavenly messengers. The people of God should be able to meet him, as did our Saviour, with the words: "It is written." Satan can quote Scripture now as in the days of Christ, and he will pervert its teachings to sustain his delusions. Those who would stand in this time of peril must understand for themselves the testimony of the Scriptures.—The Great Controversy, p. 559.

SUNDAY

A Living Being.

From the lesson: "Although both animals and man alike were made from "the ground," (Gen. 2:19, NIV) the formation of the man was distinct from that of animals in two main ways. First, God shaped the man physically, and then "breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and the man became a living being" (Gen. 2:7, NIV). He was a physical entity before he became a living one. Second, God created humanity as both male and female in the very image and likeness of the Godhead (Gen. 1:26, 27)."

Scripture doesn't explicitly say that the animals were spoken in to existence or whether or not God formed them with his hands, but it is explicit in saying that Adam was formed by the hands of God [Christ] and the breath of life was breathed in to him.

Note that Adam was formed from Earth and Eve was formed from Adam. There's some great symbology here.

Consider what Man relates to the best. The world [Earth] that he functions in. He observes it, tests it, explores it. He describes and codifies all of the natural laws he can and shares this with his fellow men.

Consider what Woman relates to the best. Man [i.e. human relations]. She observes, and tests, and explores them. She then, gossips with all of her friends about them.

"Men test ideas. Women test men." Jordan Peterson.

> Physical life is something which each individual received. It is not eternal or immortal; for God, the Lifegiver, takes it again. Man has no control over his life. But the life of Christ was unborrowed. No one can take this life from Him. "I lay it down of myself," He said. In Him was life, original, unborrowed, underived. This life is not inherent in man. He can possess it only through Christ. He cannot earn it; it is given him as a free gift if he will believe in Christ as his personal Saviour. "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent." John 17:3. This is the open fountain of life for the world.— Ellen G.

White Comments, in The SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 5, p. 1130.

In the creation of man was manifest the agency of a personal God. When God had made man in His image, the human form was perfect in all its arrangements, but it was without life. Then a per sonal, self-existing God breathed into that form the breath of life, and man became a living, intelligent being. All parts of the human organism were set in action. The heart, the arteries, the veins, the tongue, the hands, the feet, the senses, the faculties of the mind, all began their work, and all were placed under law. Man became a living soul. Through Christ the Word, a personal God created man and endowed him with intelligence and power.—The Ministry of Healing, p. 415.

MONDAY

The Soul Who Sins Shall Die

Read Ezekiel 18:4, 20 and Matthew 10:28. How can these verses help us understand the nature of the human soul?

The lesson states "Nothing infected by sin can be eternal by nature." I would go farther and say that nothing created can be eternal by nature. Created beings can be future eternal, but not past eternal. Only God is Eternal [past / present / future].

It also states "Death is the natural consequence of sin, which affects all life here." Well said. Death is not an imposed punishment from God for sin. It's a predictable, unavoidable outcome of sin [aka Lawlessness].

How does Ezekiel 18:4, 20: " 'The soul who sins shall die' " (NKJV) help us in our understanding??

What about the 2nd Commandment:

> "You shall not make for yourself an image in the form of anything in heaven above or on the earth beneath or in the waters below. 5 You shall not bow down to them or worship them; for I, the Lord your God, am a jealous God, punishing the children for the sin of the parents to the third and fourth generation of those who hate me, 6 but showing love to a thousand generations of those who love me and keep my commandments."

Is this a contradiction??

From the bottom section in Monday's lesson:

> Why is the surety of the Second Coming, which is made certain by Christ's first coming (and

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

> after all, what good was Christ's first coming without the second?), so crucial to all that we believe? What hope would we have without the promise of His return?

Is Christ's 2nd coming necessary?? What about the 3rd coming?? Could God and His Law be vindicated with just Christ's death/resurrection?

> When the voice of God awakes the dead, he will come from the grave with the same appetites and passions, the same likes and dislikes, that he cherished when living. God works no miracle to re-create a man who would not be re-created when he was granted every opportunity and provided with every facility. During his lifetime he took no delight in God, nor found pleasure in His service. His character is not in harmony with God, and he could not be happy in the heavenly family.—Christ's Object Lessons, p. 270.

> Satan told his angels to make a special effort to spread the lie first repeated to Eve in Eden, "Ye shall not surely die." And as the error was received by the people, and they were led to believe that man was immortal, Satan led them on to believe that the sinner would live in eternal misery. Then the way was prepared for Satan to work through his representatives and hold up God before the people as a revengeful tyrant— one who plunges all those into hell who do not please Him, and causes them ever to feel His wrath; and while they suffer unutterable anguish, and writhe in the eternal flames, He is represented as looking down upon them with satisfaction. Satan knew that if this error should be received, God would be hated by many, instead of being loved and adored; and that many would be led to believe that the threatenings of God's Word would not be literally fulfilled, for it would be against His character of benevolence and love to plunge into eternal torments the beings whom He had created.—Early Writings, p. 218.

TUESDAY

The Spirit Returns to God.

It's time for a review.

Humans are tri-partate. We have a body [Gr. Soma]. We have a unique identity [Gr. Psyche]. And we have an energy source [Gr. Pneuma — aka "Breath of Life"]

This is analogous to a computer having hardware, software, and an energy source [AC / DC / Battery].

The lesson uses terms "soul" and "spirit". Where do these fit in to our computer analogy? Is't the "Soul" the same as the Psyche / Unique identity, and the "Spirit" the same as the Pneuma / Energy source??

> "If death be the last enemy to be destroyed at the resurrection, we may learn how earnestly believers should long and pray for the second coming of Christ, when this full and final > conquest shall be made. . . . This is the day that all believers should long, and hope, and wait for, as being the accomplishment of all the work of their redemption, and all the desires and endeavors of their souls." "Hasten, O Lord, this blessed day!". . . Such was the hope of the apostolic church, of the "church in the wilderness," and of the Reformers.—Maranatha, p. 14.

WEDNESDAY

The Dead Know Nothing.

The lesson recommends reading Job 3:11–13; Psalm 115:17; Psalm 146:4; and Ecclesiastes 9:5, 10 for insights on the state of the dead.

Are there any other, perhaps better texts available to us??

See Daniel 12: 2. Multitudes who sleep in the dust of the earth will awake: some to everlasting life, others to shame and everlasting contempt.

- John 11:, 12,13. His disciples replied, "Lord, if he sleeps, he will get better. Jesus had been speaking of his death, but his disciples thought he meant natural sleep."

- 1 Cor. 15: 50-52. I declare to you, brothers and sisters, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, nor does the perishable inherit the imperishable. 51 Listen, I tell you a mystery: We will not all sleep, but we will all be changed— 5 in a flash, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, the dead will be raised imperishable, and we will be changed.

- Eph. 5: 14. This is why it is said: "Wake up, sleeper, rise from the dead, and Christ will shine on you."

- 1 Thess. 4:13-15. Brothers and sisters, we do not want you to be uninformed about those who sleep in death, so that you do not grieve like the rest of mankind, who have no hope. For we believe that Jesus died and rose again, and so we believe that God will bring with Jesus those who have fallen asleep in him. According to the Lord's word, we tell you that we who are still alive, who are left until the coming of the Lord, will certainly not precede those who have fallen asleep. [ED: Emphasis mine].

The following is an interesting perspective from EGW:

> "But, mother," said I, "do you really believe that the soul sleeps in the grave until the resurrection? Do you think that the Christian, when he dies, does not go immediately to heaven, nor the sinner to hell?"

She answered: "The Bible gives us no proof that there is an eternally burning hell. If there is such a place, it should be mentioned in the Sacred Book." . . .

It was some months after this conversation before I heard anything further concerning this doctrine; but during this time my mind had been much exercised upon the subject. When I heard it preached, I believed it to be the truth. From the time that light in regard to the sleep of the dead dawned upon my mind, the mystery that had enshrouded the resurrection vanished, and the great event itself assumed a new and sublime importance. . . . If at death the soul entered upon eternal happiness or misery, where was the need of a resurrection of the poor moldering body?

But this new and beautiful faith taught me the reason why inspired writers had dwelt so much upon the resurrection of the body; it was because the entire being was slumbering in the grave. I could now clearly perceive the fallacy of our former position on this question.—Life Sketches of Ellen G. White, pp. 49, 50.

THURSDAY

Resting With the Forefathers.

From the lesson:

"We can identify at least three meaningful aspects of resting with the forebearers. One is the idea that sooner or later the time will come when we need to rest from our own tiring labors and sufferings. Another idea is that we are not the first and only ones to follow that undesirable trail, because our forebearers already have gone ahead of us. A third idea is that, by being buried close to them, we are not alone but remain together even during the unconsciousness of death. This might not make much sense to some modern individualist cultures, but it was very meaningful in ancient times."

Can anyone think of any advantages / disadvantages of being buried next to our kin??

2022 Q4 On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 4
The Old Testament Hope

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

Thank You! Thank you to all of our supporters and friends who have been praying for us and supporting us. It is all of you who have made it possible to purchase and renovate this space.

I also want to thank Come and Reason Board, and I want to thank our building committee who has worked very hard, volunteering untold number of hours in planning, researching materials, going and examining products, installing equipment and no one has done more than Dean Scott.

I want to thank the rest of our building committee Karin Covi, Lori Atkins, Michael Land, and Francesca Brewster.

Our purpose in purchasing and renovating this building is to continue to share the final message of mercy with the world. It is this purpose, this vision, to hasten the coming of the Lord that we have committed ourselves and our resources. And therefore, we are going to pray a prayer of dedication, dedicating this space to the glory of God.

We know that God does not dwell in buildings made by human hands, but in the hearts and minds of His people. So we are not dedicating this building as a dwelling place for God, but as a workspace for us, His children to work for Him and to carry forward His purpose for us at this time.

> Father—this space is not ours; it is yours and we are your stewards. We have dedicated ourselves to you Lord, and now we dedicate this space to you—to glorify your character and methods of love. We ask you to dispatch angels to watch over this place and will hold back all evil influences and forces that would attempt to infiltrate this place and undermine your will. We ask for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit here today and upon these people and all those who come to this place to work for you and to worship you and also upon all the people who support us online and who dedicate themselves to work for you in sharing this message throughout the world. We love you and seek only to honor you and to say about you what is right. To that end, we ask for your presence, your inspiration, your cleansing from all sin, and your power to succeed in taking your truth to the world. Thank you Father, thank you Jesus, thank you Holy Spirit, and we close with the words of your friend Peter,
>
> "Whoever speaks, let it be with God's words. Whoever serves, do so with the strength that God supplies, so that in everything God will be glorified through Jesus Christ. To him belong the glory and the power forever and ever. Amen" (1 Peter 4:11 NET).

SABBATH

The Old Testament Hope—what was it? And is it different from the New Testament hope?

Read first paragraph, "The Old Testament hope…" What is the hope suggested here? Is it resurrection from the dead?

Hmmm…. Isn't it true that both wicked and righteous are resurrected from the dead—to either the resurrection of life or the resurrection of damnation? So, is merely being resurrected from the dead the hope or is resurrection part of the hope, a manifestation of the hope, a result of experiencing what we truly hope for, a consequence of the hope?

Isn't the true hope for both Old and New Testament the hope of deliverance from sin, of taking away the sin of the world, of removing sinfulness from us and from the planet and the universe, of restoring human beings back into God's original ideal for our existence, of bringing us back into unity and oneness with our Creator? And isn't that hope found in the promised Messiah of Genesis 3:15?

Thus the Old Testament hope is the same as the New Testament hope the promised Messiah, Jesus, the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world and cleanses us from all unrighteousness and restores us to at-one-ment or unity with God, who destroys him who holds the power of death that is the devil, who destroys the devil's work, who destroys death and brings life and immortality to light—and who restores us and the universe to sinless perfection.

So, the hope is not simply in the resurrection, the hope is in Jesus and the eradication of sinfulness from us, and there are some people who participate in the "hope" that will never be resurrected bodily from the dead, but will be like Enoch and Elijah and never die, because resurrection is a part of the hope—the real hope is in Jesus, who cleanses us from sin and we become the righteousness of God.

This is why Jesus said, "I am the resurrection and the life. He who believes in me will live, even though he dies; and whoever lives and believes in me will never die. Do you believe this?" (John 11:25-26 NIV84).

The people who have been reconciled to God through Jesus never die even if their bodies die, do you believe this? How do you explain this to a non-believer?

So, what happens to people when they die? Do they return to dust? Do they go to God? Do they go to heaven? Or do they do all three?

According to the Bible, human beings are tripartite:

> "Now may the God of peace himself make you completely holy and may your spirit and soul and body be kept entirely blameless at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." (1Thes 5:23 NET, emphasis supplied).

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

Is it possible that at death, one part of a human returns to dust, one part goes to God, and one part goes to heaven?

Interestingly, computers are also tripartite and serve as a very poignant object lesson. In order to have an operational computer, one needs hardware, software, and an energy source. Having only two of these three, results in a computer that will not operate. All three are required for actual functioning. In a similar way, to have an operational (functioning) human being, it requires all three components—body, soul, and spirit:

- The Greek word for body is σῶμα [soma] and is analogous to a computer's hardware—the physical machine, including our brain.
- The Greek word for soul is ψυχή [psuche], from which we get psyche, as in *psych*iatry and *psych*ology, and means our unique individuality, personhood, identity.[1] It is analogous to a computer's software.
- And the Greek word for spirit is πνεῦμα [pneuma], from which we get pneumonia or pneumatic and means wind, air or breath, as in the breath-of-life. This is our energy source—the life-energy originating from God.

If a computer runs out of power, what state does it go into? It sleeps. This is exactly how the Bible describes those who die the first death: they sleep, awaiting the resurrection (see Ps 7:5, 13:3; Mt 9:24; Jn 11:12-13; 1Thes 4:13). So, with this in mind, we can now answer what actually happens to the various components of a human being at death.

At the first death,

- the body returns to dust (see Gen 3:19, Ps 44:25, Ecc 3:20);
- the spirit—life energy—returns to God who gave the breath of life (see Ecc 12:7);
- but what about the soul—the psyche, the individuality, the software? Where does that go?

If someone stole your laptop and was threatening to destroy it, but you had a perfect copy of the data backed up on a cloud-server, you might say, "I'm not afraid of the one who can destroy my laptop [body] but cannot destroy the software [soul/psyche]." This is what Jesus described in Matthew 10:28 when He spoke about those who might kill us for our faith in Him.

Why is it, that killing of the body cannot destroy the soul? Because the soul is our psyche, our individuality, our unique personhood and is distinct from the body. The question is, Where does the soul go when it is absent from the body? The apostle Paul said,

[1] The use of the term soul can be confusing, because sometimes the term soul refers to the entire living being. When someone sends out an SOS (save our souls), they are calling for their entire living selves to be saved. In this article, however, the soul as referenced in 1Thes 5:23 is not the entire living person, but one (the psyche/individuality) of the three components that make up the entire human being.

> Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord: (For we walk by faith, not by sight:) We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord. (2Cor 5:6-8 KJV, emphasis supplied)

But where would our identities (souls) be stored in heaven? Would it not be in the heavenly records—the Lamb's book of life? Which the Bible says contains the names of the righteous, which are the Bible way of saying their character, their identity, their individuality.

If someone destroyed your laptop but your data was safe on a cloud-server, the data would not be active and operational but dormant—awaiting download to new hardware. And when our bodies die and decay to dust; the breath of life returns to God; and our souls (individualities) are safely secured on the heavenly "servers" in the presence of the Lord, in what state are they? They are asleep / dormant / in stasis, awaiting download into new bodies (hardware) at the resurrection. The apostle Paul brilliantly describes this very process:

> Brothers, we do not want you to be ignorant about those who fall asleep, or to grieve like the rest of men, who have no hope. We believe that Jesus died and rose again and so we believe that God will bring with Jesus those who have fallen asleep in him. The Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever. (1Thes 4:13-18 NIV84, emphasis supplied)

Did you notice that the very same righteous dead who arise out of the ground are also coming down out of heaven with Christ, and that they are described as coming from heaven in a state of sleep? How can this be? Because their souls (psyches/software), which are stored/recorded on the heavenly "servers," are coming down with Christ to be downloaded into their new immortal bodies during the resurrection at the Second Coming! Jesus, the Builder of our tripartite beings, understood this and proclaimed,

> I am the resurrection and the life. He who believes in me will live, even though he dies; and whoever lives and believes in me will never die. (Jn 11;25,26 NIV84)

The righteous may sleep, but they never die. Their individualities are safe with Christ in heaven!

So is our hope in the resurrection or in cleansing from sin and reconciliation with God from the work of Jesus in us?

Read second paragraph, "But how could…" after our explanation of the tripart nature of humanity does it make clear sense how destroying the body, the hardware, does not destroy the soul, the software—individuality? And that our individuality is safe and secure with Christ in heaven waiting to be downloaded onto new upgraded hardware?

The lesson says in the third paragraph that "we know that in the beginning God brought life into existence from nonlife through the power of His word…"

I just want to clarify this statement, God was not dependent on external material whether living or nonliving material for Him to create life. The lesson is correct in that God spoke into existence both the living (plants, animals) and the nonliving materials. Thus, God did not use evolution to form life from lower forms over millions or billions of years, but created it directly. However, life comes from life and while God was not dependent on external living matter to create life, God is a living being and all life originates in, and comes from, God who shares His life, His life-giving energy with all living beings—what the Bible calls the "breath of life."

This is one of those testable points that differentiates a creationist worldview from a godless worldview. The godless teach that living organisms arose from nonliving materials on their own. Science disproves this, as no living organism has ever been demonstrated to arise from nonliving material. However, the creationist view has a living being, God, creating other living organisms and all of nature shows that one living being can share its life to give rise to other living organisms.

SUNDAY

Read Job 19:25-27:

> I know that my Redeemer lives, and that in the end he will stand upon the earth. And after my skin has been destroyed, yet in my flesh I will see God; I myself will see him with my own eyes—I, and not another. How my heart yearns within me! (Job 19:25–27 NIV84).

What does this passage mean? Some suggest this is not describing the nature of humans in death or the resurrection, but only describing Job's mindset, Job's understanding and hope. What would you say to this perspective?

Do we have any Biblical examples of people who have died being resurrected? So, if we believe the Bible to be true, then the historical resurrection of people from the dead would support this text as describing reality not merely Job's wishful thinking?

Do other Bible writers teach the same truth, about bodily resurrection from the dead? And did Jesus teach resurrection from the dead?

And if Jesus Himself, was not bodily raised from then Scripture says we are t be people most pitied.

So given the weight of evidence from the rest of Scripture and history, Job was not merely expressing his own imaginings, but his awareness of the reality of the future in God's universe. Though we may fall asleep in the first death that "death" is not the destruction of our individuality, our souls/software, and God will resurrect us from the dead into a new heaven and new earth.

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read from Psalm 49, let's read it in its entirety from The Remedy:

1 Hear this, everyone;
listen carefully, every person who lives on the earth,
2 both young and old,
rich and poor alike:
3 I will tell you real wisdom, because I understand how reality works. [You want to know how Daniel, Shadrack, Meshach and Abednego were 10 times wiser than the other fellows? It wasn't simply because they ate a vegetarian diet. It was because they worshipped the Creator God and understood God built reality and His laws are the laws upon which reality works, design laws, and they sought to harmonize their lives with how God's reality works.]
4 I will use my insight to discern profound proverbs and bring forth the hidden meaning like music from a harp.
5 Why should I fear in the days when evil abounds, when the depravity and villainy of my enemies surround me—6 those who believe they are spiritually superior because of their wealth and boast of their great riches? [Do we see this in the world today, evil abounding, villainy, and people who believe their godless worldview is superior and boast of their earthly wealth and power? Do we need to fear?]
7 No one can ever cure their own terminal condition, no human can buy the remedy from God—
8 the cost to procure it is beyond our means. [What is the cost? Is it a monetary cost? It is a legal cost? What is it? It is what reality required, perfect harmony with the laws upon which life is built—a sinless life that confronted and destroyed Satan's power of death—the lies about God by perfectly revealing the truth about God, eradicated sinfulness from humanity, destroyed death and replaced the death causing principle in humanity with the life causing principle in humanity thereby becoming the second Adam, the second head of the species human. It cost the life of the Son of God to achieve this outcome and none of us had the sinless life or constitution necessary to engage this battle, not being God ourselves we couldn't reveal the truth about God, and we didn't have a sinless life to confront and overcome the evil and replace the carnal infection with sinless perfection. Only Jesus could do this for us.]
Nothing we could provide would ever cure our mortal state 9 so that we would live forever and never experience death. [But the godless of this world are trying to use their wealth and power to do just this, to provide their own cure, to create means for them to live forever. They are doing this through genetic and cybernetic research. Looking for ways to extend human life or to transfer human consciousness onto a cybernetic platform.]
10 For all can see that everyone dies—the wise, the foolish and the thoughtless brutes—everyone perishes and leaves their wealth to others. [This text appeals to reality—look around, all can see that everyone dies. But we live in a time when reality is denied, what is actually real and objective is rejected and replaced with feelings, wishes, fantasies, imaginations, and desires. If a person doesn't feel one way, it doesn't matter what objective biology and reality says, they can proclaim they are not what they are and demand everyone else agree with them. It is claimed that their feeling, their subjective experience is their "truth" and all of us are required to accept their feeling as reality. Understand this clearly, what is happening in our society today is not primarily about gender, it is a demonic assault on truth, on reality, on minds. The goal is to infect minds with the idea that there is no objective reality. If there is no objective reality then there is no standard upon which anything can be right or wrong and thus no justification for judging anything as good or evil. In this demonic view all perspectives are equally valid. And when this lie, that there is no objective truth, is accepted, it destroys the ability of intelligent beings to think, to discern, to examine situations and actions of others and decide if those actions are good or evil. Thus, the only thing left for decision-making is power. You must submit to and accept as right the ruling authorities. If the authorities say that it is right, you are not allowed to question because there is no other standard than their position and power to judge them by. To question someone in authority is to be rebellious, insubordinate, a threat and you must be eliminated. This is the true goal of the demonic forces working in this world. It is a set up for beastly powers. And we see this very clearly in modern medicine—no longer are physicians encouraged to think, to question, to search for testable evidence, but are threatened by those in positions of authority to submit to the powers that be. This is the same method as the Dark Ages church, rejecting the Reformers' appeal to the evidence of Scripture, or Galileo's appeal to the evidence of science, and instead demanding submission to authority.]

[11] Their inner thoughts (characters) are fixed as their permanent state of being.
Though they claimed the earth as their own, [12] their prized selfish—sin-infected—world will not last:
they will die just like brute beasts. [Though they claim "we must save the planet," the earth, as it is, will be destroyed and replaced with a new earth. Worse, because of their godless worldview they have no hope of a sinless future in a earth made new, and therefore they advance policies that harm the people in order to save the planet because they value this planet more than the people. But we know the truth and we understand reality and we value the people more than the planet. We always act as good stewards and will not exploit the planet, but we won't get tricked into advancing policies that are harmful to the people in order to seek to save the planet.]

[13] This is the inevitable end for those who trust in themselves, and of all who follow them and embrace their selfish ways.
[14] Like mindless sheep they are destined for the grave, and death will consume them.
When the earth is made new,
the righteous—those restored to God's perfect design—will walk over their graves; their bodies will turn to dust in the grave, and they will never live in heavenly mansions.
[15] But God will heal my terminal condition and resurrect me from the grave;
he will most certainly take me to live with him. [This is reality. We must keep our eyes on Jesus. We must always see things through the lens of God's kingdom, which is not of this sinful world.]

16 Don't be distraught when the selfish become rich, when their estates become increasingly opulent and grand, 17 for they will take nothing with them when they die—their wealth will not follow them into the grave.
18 Though they proclaim themselves fulfilled and triumphant—and they are praised for their success—19 they will die like all the other selfish people before them;
they will never see the light of life again.
20 A person who is wealthy without understanding the reality of God's design is like the mindless beast doomed to perish.

What lessons from this psalm apply to us today? Is it only wealth? What about power and position and fame?

Does Satan use the glamor of this world to get us to focus on earthly things and forget heavenly things? Do we sometimes get jealous when we see evil appearing to succeed? Would we trade a clear conscience and a pure heart for more wealth, more power, more earthly success?

Do you remember the Sports Illustrated poll of aspiring Olympic athletes back in 1997?

- 198 sprinters, swimmers, power-lifters and others answered two questions:

  Q) You are offered a banned performance-enhancing substance with 2 guarantees: you will not be caught and you will win your competition. Would you take it?
  A) 195 – yes, 3 – no

  Q) You are offered a banned performance-enhancing substance with 3 guarantees: you will not be caught, you will win every competition you enter for the next five years and, you will die from the side effects. Would you take it?
  A) More than half – yes

  source: Sports Illustrated, April 14, 1997

Do you think in the past 25 years this has improved in society? Or has this attitude of selfishness worsened?

- Do we live in a society where character is valued or where the ends justify the means?
- Do we live in a society where we respect the property of others or where those who shoplift from stores are defended and protected as merely seeking to right some institutional wrong?
  - But do we ever hear a public discussion about what is happening to the hearts, minds, characters of the people doing the stealing?
- Do we live in a society where individual God-give rights of self-determination and liberty of conscience are respected, or where the ends justify the means and it is considered just to coerce consciences for the so-called greater good?

- Do we ever hear about what happens to the hearts, minds, and characters of those who would use such methods on others?

Two wrongs do not make a right and we cannot win God's cause using Satan's methods. One of Satan's strategies is to inspire or tempt someone to do real wrong and then incite anger, outrage, and hate into the hearts of others and get them to seek to make the wrong right by using more of Satan's methods, whether eye for an eye retaliation, or vigilante acts, or using the laws of the state to inflict various forms of so called retaliatory justice on those viewed as being in the wrong.

True Christian justice is doing what is right because it is right, and what is right or just is defined by God's law of love, the protocols upon which reality is built. Thus, true justice always seeks to eliminate the infection of sin, to eradicate fear and selfishness with love, to eviscerate lies with truth, and to win our enemies into being our friends.

But worldly justice is about payback, about inflicting pain and suffering upon those who have done us wrong, about forcing our ways upon others and worldly justice always results in perpetual cycles of violence and abuse in which everyone is injured.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "The book of Isaiah…"

Let's read Isaiah 56:1-7:

> This is what the LORD says:
>
> "Maintain justice > and do what is right, > for my salvation is close at hand > and my righteousness will soon be revealed.
> 2 Blessed is the man who does this,
> the man who holds it fast, > who keeps the Sabbath without desecrating it, > and keeps his hand from doing any evil."
>
> 3 Let no foreigner who has bound himself to the LORD say,
> "The LORD will surely exclude me from his people."
> And let not any eunuch complain,
> "I am only a dry tree."
>
> 4 For this is what the LORD says:
>
> "To the eunuchs who keep my Sabbaths, who choose what pleases me and hold fast to my covenant—

5 to them I will give within my temple and its walls a memorial and a name better than sons and daughters;
I will give them an everlasting name that will not be cut off.
6 And foreigners who bind themselves to the LORD to serve him,
to love the name of the LORD,
and to worship him,
all who keep the Sabbath without desecrating it and who hold fast to my covenant—
7 these I will bring to my holy mountain and give them joy in my house of prayer. (Isaiah 56:1–7 NIV84).

What does this mean? What do you believe is the central message of this passage? Isn't the central message that God's salvation is for all people, it is not restricted by genetics?

There is something about the Sabbath that seems important here, would you agree? What is it? Is it knowing the right day? Is it avoiding work on the right day?

Did the Jews who crucified Christ go to Temple on the wrong day? Did they run their business on that day? Did they pick heads of grain on that day?

What is the point of asking these questions? Can one identify and make behavior changes to not work in any way on the Sabbath and to also attend church every Sabbath and still not be "keeping" the Sabbath?

- If you have the right Sabbath but trust the wrong god, are you saved or lost?
- If you have the right Sabbath but practice the wrong principles, are you saved or lost?
- If you have the right Sabbath but develop the wrong character, are you saved or lost?

- If you have the wrong Sabbath but trust the right God, are you are saved or lost?
- If you have the wrong Sabbath but practice the right principles, are you or saved or lost?
- If you have the wrong Sabbath but develop the right character, are you or saved or lost?

Is the Sabbath a gift from God? For what?

- Is it to assist us in knowing God and experiencing His healing from sin, or is the Sabbath a rule we must keep to prove to God we are on His side and are good people?

Was the Sabbath made? And, according to Jesus, for whom was it made?

And what is the purpose of the Sabbath according to Scripture?

> I gave them my decrees and made known to them my laws, for the man who obeys them will live by them. Also I gave them my Sabbaths as a sign between us, so they would know that I the LORD made them holy. (Ezekiel 20:11-12 NIV84).

Are we saved by law-keeping? Does the law have power to save and heal from sin? Is the Sabbath able to save and heal from sin?

What is the Sabbath a sign of? A sign that God makes us holy, what does this mean?

Is the Sabbath a sign to us that God is the one who makes us holy OR is our Sabbath-keeping a sign to God that we are holy?

The Sabbath was created by God at the end of creation week in the context of Satan's rebellion against Him and the Sabbath stands as a memorial of God's kingdom and methods of love. As such the Sabbath is a sign, like a flag, it is an evidence of God's methods, principles, and design laws built right into time so that it cannot be removed from our experience. We all pass through it every week. We may not recognize it, we may have forgotten it, but it is still there and cannot be destroyed by Satan.

This is amazing! God built this sign into time itself so that it would remain for all of us to witness and see and this sign is like a flag, it inspires, it signals, it communicates truths about God and His kingdom of truth, love, and liberty.

It was in six days that God created the earth and its solar system, and rather than using His power to force Satan into line, God rested on the seventh day. God stopped using power and rested and God blessed the Sabbath day by investing it with His methods of governing—the truth (His creatorship revealed), love (a planet whose ecosystem operates upon the design law of love, with sapient beings designed to govern in love and capable of pro-creating beings in their image), and freedom (God rested and left His children free rather than compel them with power to obey).

In creating the Sabbath, God memorialized religious liberty, truth, presented in love, while leaving His intelligent creatures free to decide for themselves. Thus the Sabbath is a sign that God makes us holy by restoring us to live in harmony with His methods of truth, love, and liberty in how we treat others.

All week long we are to remember the Sabbath, remember what it stands for, remember the kingdom and methods of God and live those methods all week long. This is how we keep the Sabbath holy. And then we trust God with our fortunes, our futures, our success in this world by refusing to act in self-interest on the Sabbath, we rest in our trust relationship with Him demonstrating that we live out His principles in all that we do.

Think about it, if we do evil on the Sabbath have we made it less holy? If we worship God on Sabbath have we made it more holy? So we are not keeping Sabbath holy, we are living as holy beings when we honor the God of the Sabbath by having His law written upon our hearts and living out the principles that the Sabbath is a sign of.

But if we, like the Jews 2000 years ago, have the right day of the week, but the wrong god, the wrong understand of law, and the wrong character, then we will crucify the Lord of the Sabbath and want Him off the cross in order to be sure and keep the Sabbath day holy.

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on Psalm 71, David who has had many struggles finds comfort and reassurance in recounting God's care for Him in the past. Let's read the psalm from The Remedy:

1 O Lord, I trust you completely; take away all my shame. [From where does shame come and why does it need to be taken away by Jesus? What does shame do to a person? What impact does it have? And what helps us overcome the shame of sin?]
2 Recreate me and restore me to your perfect and righteous design; hear me and save me from fear and selfishness.
3 Be my remedy and my recovery room to which I can always go;
give the command to heal me,
for you are my remedy and my refuge.
4 Set me free, O God, from fear and selfishness, from the clutches of evil and cruelty.
5 For you, O Creator God, are my only hope,
the source of my confidence since my youth.
6 I have relied on you since birth;
you have provided for me since the day I was born.
I live in continual praise to you.
7 To many, my life is evidence of your saving power, because upon you I have relied for healing and restoration.
8 Praise for you constantly pours from my mouth;
I proclaim the beauty of your character of love all day long.
9 Do not force me to retire when I am old;
do not release me from your service when my strength is gone. [Is there a principle of God's kingdom expressed here? Is this in contrast to what the world teaches? Does the world teach that we should retire, quit working? But one of God's principles is the benefit of useful labor. We grow stronger as we exercise, as we employ ourselves into God's cause and work in our communities, not for pay but for the glory of God, we are benefited. Those who volunteer live longer, have less illnesses, less depression, less dementia and stay out of nursing homes longer than those who do not volunteer. One of the actions that can accelerate one's decline is to retire and quit working. So I tell people, while you might retire from a paying job, don't stop working for God's cause, stay active and engaged in the Lord's work and you will be blessed.]

10 My enemies misrepresent me;
they conspire together, watching for an opportunity to destroy me.
11 They say, “God has abandoned him;
take him down now,
for no one will rescue him.”
12 O God, don’t stay away a moment longer than necessary;
come quickly to help me, O my God.
13 My accusers will be consumed with shame;
those who want to destroy me will drown in their humiliation and disgrace.
14 But I will continually trust you and praise you with ever greater affection and regard.
15 I will tell of your right and holy character and methods of love;
all day long I will speak of your remedy to fear and selfishness, even though the magnitude of your achievement is beyond my comprehension.
16 I will go empowered by you, O Creator God;
I will promote your character and methods of love, and only yours! [What is described? Do you see contrasting methods? Do you see the wicked slandering, accusing, attacking, but the Psalmist is not retaliating against them. He is focused upon God, upon living to glorify God which means He lives out God’s methods and designs. He does not pursue justice with worldly methods, but via God’s methods.]
17 O Creator God, you have taught me of your kingdom of love since my childhood, and to this day I proclaim how wonderful you are!
18 And even when I am old and gray, do not release me from your service, O God; empower me to proclaim your kingdom of love to the next generation—the power of your healing remedy to those who come after me. [Yes, let’s share what we have learned from God with the next generation, with our children and grandchildren.]
19 Your right and perfect character of love, O God, is the praise of heaven; you have done great things and there is none like you!
20 You have shown me the selfishness within me—the source of my pain and sorrow;
you bring to me your life-giving remedy, and from the grave
you will raise me to everlasting life.
21 You make me greater, healthier, holier and happier than ever before and surround me with your comforting presence.
22 I will praise you with song for your never-changing love and goodness, O my God;
my life will be a song of praise to you,
O Holy One, in whom Israel trusted.
23 I will shout for joy and sing your praises, for you have healed me!

[24]I will tell of your perfect character of love for all eternity, for those who sought to destroy me reap only shame and humiliation.

Can we have the same hope and attitude as David?

2022 4Q On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 5
Resurrections Before the Cross

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

What resurrections can you recall that occurred before Jesus died and rose again?

The lesson lists the following:

- Moses
- The son of the Phoenician woman, the widow of Zarephath who housed Elijah
- The son of the Shunamite woman Elisha helped
- The son of the widow of Nain
- Jarius's daughter
- Lazarus

Any others? I recalled this one:

> Once while some Israelites were burying a man, suddenly they saw a band of raiders; so they threw the man's body into Elisha's tomb. When the body touched Elisha's bones, the man came to life and stood up on his feet (2 Kings 13:21 NIV84).

The lesson also points out that the Bible is consistent in its teaching that the dead know nothing, that death is like a sleep, a period of unconsciousness. And, it is a fact that the Scripture contains no record of any of the people who were resurrected giving reports of any experiences that occurred while they were dead. This lack of a report is not the same as a report that they didn't know anything, but it is consistent with the description that death is a sleep and is what we would expect if the Scripture teaching that death is an unconscious sleep is true. Conversely, if death is a time where souls are conscious and are in paradise celebrating and experience joys and bliss beyond human imagination, then one would expect some report about this.

It is interesting, that the only place we find reports about consciousness after death is outside the Bible. It is very similar to Eastern Mediation practices.

I was at a medical seminar many years ago where a famous Harvard physician was teaching the audience of the medical benefits of Eastern Meditation. He had representatives of every major world religion and multiple minor ones, and these representatives all described how Eastern Meditation was used in their religion.

When it came to Q&A time I went to the microphone and asked the Catholic priest, Protestant pastor, and Jewish rabbi, the three religions based on Scripture, if this form of meditation is found anywhere in the Bible, and all three said no.

Isn't it interesting, that Eastern Meditation is found in every religion of the world, but the one place it is not found is in God's inspired word?

I find this lack of testimony from resurrected people in Scripture of consciousness in death quite profound, when we consider all the resurrections, and how so-called near death experiences and voices from the beyond occur outside Scripture.

SUNDAY

Read Jude 9:

> But even the archangel Michael, when he was disputing with the devil about the body of Moses, did not dare to bring a slanderous accusation against him, but said, "The Lord rebuke you!" (Jude 9 NIV84)

What lessons, truths, insights, principles, does this passage reveal?

Who is Michael? There are three main positions put forth:

- The Jehovah Witnesses take the position that Michael is Jesus in His preincarnate form, before He was born in Bethlehem—and they take the position that Jesus was a created being, not fully God.

- The SDA church takes the position that Michael was Jesus in His preincarnate form but Jesus is fully God, pre-existent with life original, unborrowed and underived from another. That Jesus was never an angel in substance, but prior to His incarnation manifested Himself in heaven in the form of an angel.

- Most of the rest of the Christian world takes the position that Michael is not Jesus at all, just an archangel like Gabriel.

In my view, the Jehovah Witnesses' view can be rejected from the outset because they take the position that Jesus was not fully God and if Jesus is not God, then the plan of salvation, as I understand it, could not have been accomplished by Jesus, the truth about God could not be revealed by a being who is not God. In fact, if Jesus was not fully God, then we don't learn that God is love, a being willing to sacrifice Himself for us, but instead learn that God is selfish and willing to sacrifice others to protect Himself. And of course, the weight of Scripture on the various attributes of divinity are all part of the description of Jesus—creative power etc.

So the only two reasonable options to consider are whether Michael is Jesus the divine Son of God in His preincarnate form or whether He is just another archangel like Gabriel.

First point to consider is that Michael's name means "who is like God?" or "One who is like God." This is a clue, but certainly not conclusive.

So let's examine the Scripture and see if we can make a sound case for whether Michael is fully God-the Son, Jesus, in His preincarnate form, or whether Michael is just a created angel like Gabriel.

Exodus 3:2-6:

> There the angel of the LORD appeared to him in flames of fire from within a bush. Moses saw that though the bush was on fire it did not burn up. So Moses thought, "I will go over and see this strange sight--why the bush does not burn up."
>
> When the LORD saw that he had gone over to look, God called to him from within the bush, "Moses! Moses!"
>
> And Moses said, "Here I am."
>
> "Do not come any closer," God said. "Take off your sandals, for the place where you are standing is holy ground." Then he said, "I am the God of your father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob." At this, Moses hid his face, because he was afraid to look at God. (Exodus 3:2-6)

We have the account of the angel of the lord being God—this account in Exodus is repeated by Stephen and affirmed in Acts 7:30-38.

In Judges chapter two we find:

> The angel of the LORD went up from Gilgal to Bokim and said, "I brought you up out of Egypt and led you into the land that I swore to give to your forefathers. I said, 'I will never break my covenant with you, and you shall not make a covenant with the people of this land, but you shall break down their altars.' Yet you have disobeyed me. Why have you done this? Now therefore I tell you that I will not drive them out before you; they will be thorns in your sides and their gods will be a snare to you." (Judges 2:1-3).

With whom was the covenant that Israel made? Was the covenant between the people and a created angel or with God? And who promised to drive out the occupants of the land, was the promise from an angel or was the promise from God?

> Then Manoah inquired of the angel of the LORD, "What is your name, so that we may honor you when your word comes true?"

> He replied, "Why do you ask my name? It is beyond understanding. "Then Manoah took a young goat, together with the grain offering, and sacrificed it on a rock to the LORD. And the LORD did an amazing thing while Manoah and his wife watched: As the flame blazed up from the altar toward heaven, the angel of the LORD ascended in the flame. Seeing this, Manoah and his wife fell with their faces to the ground. When the angel of the LORD did not show himself again to Manoah and his wife, Manoah realized that it was the angel of the LORD.
>
> "We are doomed to die!" he said to his wife. "We have seen God!" (Judges 13:17-22)

This account also affirms that the angel of the Lord is God.

This next text, Zechariah 3:1-7, will describe the same dynamics we see in the conflict over the body of Moses recorded in Jude. Notice the players involved and who is doing what:

> Then he showed me Joshua the high priest standing before the angel of the LORD, and Satan standing at his right side to accuse him. [Notice Satan is the accuser. Accusation is one of Satan's methods, God doesn't use this method.] The LORD said to Satan, "The LORD rebuke you, Satan! [Who are the players? Joshua is there and being accused by Satan and the angel of the Lord is there, but then the text says "the Lord said to Satan 'The Lord rebuke you…" Is this a fourth party or is this the angel of the lord, who is God? Doesn't this sound just like the conversation over the body of Moses? And who said "the Lord rebuke you" there?] The LORD, who has chosen Jerusalem, rebuke you! Is not this man a burning stick snatched from the fire?"
>
> Now Joshua was dressed in filthy clothes as he stood before the angel. 4 The angel said to those who were standing before him, "Take off his filthy clothes."
>
> Then he said to Joshua, "See, I have taken away your sin, and I will put rich garments on you." [Who takes away our sin? Is it an angel? Is it the Father? Or is Jesus the Lamb of God who takes away our sin?]
>
> Then I said, "Put a clean turban on his head." So they put a clean turban on his head and clothed him, while the angel of the LORD stood by.
>
> The angel of the LORD gave this charge to Joshua: "This is what the LORD Almighty says: `If you will walk in my ways and keep my requirements, then you will govern my house and have charge of my courts, and I will give you a place among these standing here. (Zechariah 3:1-7).

Do we recognize the angel of the Lord here as Jesus in His preincarnate form?

> "At that time Michael, the great prince who protects your people, will arise. There will be a time of distress such as has not happened from the beginning of nations until then. But at that > time your people--everyone whose name is found written in the book--will be delivered. (Daniel 12:1)

Interesting passage, we don't know who Michael is from this passage, but he protects the people—from what? What is the focus of Scripture? Is it primarily about local conflicts with regional rulers, or is the focus of Scripture, as we read in Zechariah, a conflict between cosmic powers, Satan and his agents are the enemy from whom we are being protected? And if so, the great prince of the universe, who protects us is the one who becomes King of kings and Lord of lords, Jesus. This text certainly allows for such an interpretation, but itself doesn't establish it.

> And there was war in heaven. Michael and his angels fought against the dragon, and the dragon and his angels fought back. (Revelation 12:7)

This affirms our view of a cosmic war against principalities and powers of darkness with Michael leading the heavenly host against Satan, the dragon, who was cast out of heaven. But it still doesn't establish Michael as Jesus in His preincarnate form.

> But even the archangel Michael, when he was disputing with the devil about the body of Moses, did not dare to bring a slanderous accusation against him, but said, "The Lord rebuke you!" Jude 9

Now this text establishes that Michael is in the form of an archangel, and that Michael is the one who raised Moses from the dead, which is a big clue to the true identity of Michael, because who has the power of death and the grave?

Here is another clue as to who raised Moses, wouldn't it be the one who buried His friend Moses?

> "Moses, the servant of the LORD, died there in Moab, just as the LORD had said. The LORD buried the body of Moses in Moab" (Deuteronomy 34:5-6).

But there is more:

> "For the Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first" (1 Thessalonians 4:16).

Whose voice raises the dead? In this passage it is the voice of the archangel, which in this passage could be a different being than the Lord or it could be the Lord Himself. This passage doesn't conclusively tell us if the Lord of this passage is the voice of the archangel, and whether this is Michael. But Jesus Himself, had previously told us:

> "I tell you the truth, a time is coming and has now come when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God and those who hear will live."

> "Do not be amazed at this, for a time is coming when all who are in their graves will hear his voice and come out--those who have done good will rise to live, and those who have done evil will rise to be condemned" (John 5"25 & 28-29).

Jesus speaking to John in Revelation says:

> "Don't be afraid! I am the First and the Last. I am the living one. I died, but look—I am alive forever and ever! And I hold the keys of death and the grave" (Revelation 1:17-18 NLT).

Who holds the keys to death and the grave and whose voice raises the dead? The voice of Jesus, which is the voice of the archangel, who is Michael who raised Moses and is the angel of the Lord who spoke to Moses from the bush. So, I think we can make a strong case that Michael is Jesus in His preincarnate form.

With this understanding we can make greater insights into the conflict between good and evil.

Peter wrote:

> "And we have the word of the prophets made more certain, and you will do well to pay attention to it, as to a light shining in a dark place, until the day dawns and the morning star rises in your hearts" (2 Pe 1:19 NIV84).

The Greek for "morning star" is phosphorus and means bright light, so some translations say day star, and it refers to Jesus. But this Greek word when translated into the Latin is translated as Lucifer, because Lucifer means light bearer, one who gives light. And how is Jesus described in John chapter one?

Jesus is described as "The true light that gives light to every man" (John 1:9).

Now what is the implication of this? First, is there any reason why Jesus, who is fully God, pre-existent, with life original, unborrowed, underived, would appear throughout His created order as an angel?

What does God, who is love, want to have with His intelligent creatures?

Do parents want a close and loving relationship with their children? Will parents get down on their knees, down on the level of their children and interact with their children on a level of the child in order to share experiences, connect, bond, and love them? Will parents play pretend-school or pretend-house or make silly faces and noises to connect with their children and see them smile?

Or do parents insist on teaching calculus to their small children, or speaking about theoretical physics, or the various atonement models?

What is the bigger gap in ability, a human parent and their child, or our infinite God and His created beings?

Would God step down from infinite power, might, knowledge, and experience onto the level of His finite children to connect with and join them in loving relationship?

1 Timothy 6:16 tells us God lives in "unapproachable light"—unapproachable by whom? By all finite beings. God is an infinite being, with infinite power, infinite, knowledge, infinite light—and a finite mind, even that of an unfallen angel, cannot assimilate and process infinite truth, knowledge, power.

So if finite beings cannot enter into infinity and since God wants close intimate connection with His creatures, what must God do? A member of the Godhead must leave infinity and interact with His creatures on their level of existence. This is Jesus. Jesus has always been the bridge-builder, the go-between, the connecting link, the mediator between our infinite God and the created order. And in this role, prior to His incarnation as our Savior, Jesus manifested Himself in the form of an angel to connect and interact with angels.

So I find it not only possible, but highly compelling and reasonable to conclude the Michael is God the Son, Jesus, in His preincarnate form.

MONDAY

The lesson points us to the resurrections two OT resurrections, let's read one of these stories, 2 Kings 4:8-37:

> One day Elisha went to Shunem. And a well-to-do woman was there, who urged him to stay for a meal. So whenever he came by, he stopped there to eat. 9 She said to her husband, "I know that this man who often comes our way is a holy man of God. 10 Let's make a small room on the roof and put in it a bed and a table, a chair and a lamp for him. Then he can stay there whenever he comes to us."
>
> 11 One day when Elisha came, he went up to his room and lay down there. 12 He said to his servant Gehazi, "Call the Shunammite." So he called her, and she stood before him. 13 Elisha said to him, "Tell her, 'You have gone to all this trouble for us. Now what can be done for you? Can we speak on your behalf to the king or the commander of the army?' "
> She replied, "I have a home among my own people."
>
> 14 "What can be done for her?" Elisha asked.
>
> Gehazi said, "Well, she has no son and her husband is old."
>
> 15 Then Elisha said, "Call her." So he called her, and she stood in the doorway. 16 "About this time next year," Elisha said, "you will hold a son in your arms."

"No, my lord," she objected. "Don't mislead your servant, O man of God!"

17 But the woman became pregnant, and the next year about that same time she gave birth to a son, just as Elisha had told her.

18 The child grew, and one day he went out to his father, who was with the reapers. 19 "My head! My head!" he said to his father.

His father told a servant, "Carry him to his mother." 20 After the servant had lifted him up and carried him to his mother, the boy sat on her lap until noon, and then he died. 21 She went up and laid him on the bed of the man of God, then shut the door and went out.

22 She called her husband and said, "Please send me one of the servants and a donkey so I can go to the man of God quickly and return."

23 "Why go to him today?" he asked. "It's not the New Moon or the Sabbath."

"It's all right," she said.

24 She saddled the donkey and said to her servant, "Lead on; don't slow down for me unless I tell you." 25 So she set out and came to the man of God at Mount Carmel.

When he saw her in the distance, the man of God said to his servant Gehazi, "Look! There's the Shunammite! 26 Run to meet her and ask her, 'Are you all right? Is your husband all right? Is your child all right?' "

"Everything is all right," she said.

27 When she reached the man of God at the mountain, she took hold of his feet. Gehazi came over to push her away, but the man of God said, "Leave her alone! She is in bitter distress, but the LORD has hidden it from me and has not told me why."

28 "Did I ask you for a son, my lord?" she said. "Didn't I tell you, 'Don't raise my hopes'?"
29 Elisha said to Gehazi, "Tuck your cloak into your belt, take my staff in your hand and run. If you meet anyone, do not greet him, and if anyone greets you, do not answer. Lay my staff on the boy's face."

30 But the child's mother said, "As surely as the LORD lives and as you live, I will not leave you." So he got up and followed her.

31 Gehazi went on ahead and laid the staff on the boy's face, but there was no sound or response. So Gehazi went back to meet Elisha and told him, "The boy has not awakened."

> 32 When Elisha reached the house, there was the boy lying dead on his couch. 33 He went in, shut the door on the two of them and prayed to the LORD. 34 Then he got on the bed and lay upon the boy, mouth to mouth, eyes to eyes, hands to hands. As he stretched himself out upon him, the boy's body grew warm. 35 Elisha turned away and walked back and forth in the room and then got on the bed and stretched out upon him once more. The boy sneezed seven times and opened his eyes.
>
> 36 Elisha summoned Gehazi and said, "Call the Shunammite." And he did. When she came, he said, "Take your son." 37 She came in, fell at his feet and bowed to the ground. Then she took her son and went out. (2 Kings 4:8–37 NIV84).

What do we learn from this story?

I believe this is story is real, that this woman really lived, she had a child, the child died and a real prophet of named Elisha was used by God to act as He did and the power of God raised this boy from the dead.

But, is there more to it than just the evidence that resurrection is real?

As we have described many times, the Bible is not only the record of real historical people who did real things, but these real events often teach larger realities of the plan of salvation through object lessons.

The first object lesson of this story is the boy—he is one of seven miracle births in the Bible and they all tell us something about Jesus. Jesus was a miracle birth to a virgin, these seven were miracle births to women who were infertile and God miraculously healed their infertility and they became pregnant in the normal way from their husbands. But, each one teaches us something about Jesus our Savior:

1. Sarah- Isaac – The promised one who will be sacrificed
2. Rebekah – Jacob – wrestles with God to overcome his own weakness and became Israel, the father of the nation built upon twelve sons, Jesus wrestled with temptation and overcame to be the cornerstone of the church built upon twelve apostles
3. Rachel – Joseph – who was sold into slavery but through faithfulness to God became ruler to save his people from famine; Jesus humbled himself to be a servant but through His faithfulness to His Father overcomes and is exalted to be ruler and saves us from sin
4. Monoah's wife – Samson – blessed with strength to deliver Israel from bondage of oppressors and to rule over them, Jesus has the strength to deliver us from sin and rule the universe
5. Hannah- Samuel – who became High Priest, Jesus is our High Priest
6. Shunammite woman – child died and resurrected, and Jesus died and rose again
7. Elizabeth – John the Baptist – who greatest of prophets, and Jesus was the greatest of all prophets

So the first object lesson from this story is the example of the child, a miracle birth and later the child dies and rises again. But is there more to this story, deeper object lessons to learn?

Elisha is a type of Christ, a spokesman, representative, and object lesson for Jesus. Some of the miracles of Elisha that demonstrate this:

- Elisha directs a widow woman to fill jars with oil and sell the oil to pay the debt of their deceased father and prevent her sons from being taken into slavery. (2 Kings 4:1-7)
    - The oil represents the Holy Spirit which Jesus pours out and it is via the Holy Spirit that the victory of Christ becomes ours and prevents us frees us from the slavery of sin and the debt of our father Adam
- Miracle of providing a son for the Shunammite woman (2 Kings 4:15-17)
    - Represents Jesus miracle birth
- The raising of the son of the Shunammite woman (2 Kings 4:18-37)
    - Represents Jesus rising from the dead
- Miraculously makes poisonous food edible and feeds the faithful prophets (2 Kings 4:38-41)
    - Represents Jesus the bread of life, becoming sin though He knew no sin in order to destroy death and bringing life and immortality to light. He feeds us His righteousness and delivers us from death.
- Feeds 100 men with 20 loaves, multiplying the food (2 Kings 4:42-44)
    - Jesus feeds the masses multiplying the bread and fish, but also represents Jesus Himself being the bread of life which feeds us the word of truth
- Heals Naaman of leprosy (2 Kings 5:1-14)
    - Jesus healed many lepers and leprosy is a metaphor for sin and Jesus heals us from sin
- Makes an axe head float (2 Kings 6:1-7)
    - Jesus has power over the forces of nature, calmed the storm and walked on water
- Warns Israel of the enemies plans (2 Kings 6:8-10)
    - Jesus reveals to us the plans of the enemy
- Angel armies protect him from the enemy forces, and he blinds the enemies leading them into the hands of the king and instructs for the enemies to be fed and given water and then sets them free and these former enemies stopped attacking Israel. (2 kings 6:11-23)
    - Jesus has His angel armies around us protecting us and He desires to take the blind enemies in this world and open their eyes so they experience the bread and water of life so that they are turned from enemies into friends of God and stop attacking the people of God

Do you see how Elisha was a type of Christ?

But the boy was a type of Christ—is this confusing to have different people in the same story representing Jesus?

Consider the OT Sanctuary service:

- Moses represented Jesus in His preincarnate state, as Moses talked with God face to face and then left and went out and built the sanctuary, Jesus in heaven prior to His incarnation talked to God face to face about the plan of salvation and then left heaven and built His temple:
  - "Here is the man whose name is the Branch, and he will branch out from his place and build the temple of the LORD. It is he who will build the temple of the LORD, and he will be clothed with majesty and will sit and rule on his throne. And he will be a priest on his throne. And there will be harmony between the two.'" (Zechariah 6:12–13 NIV84).
- The lamb represented Jesus during His 33 years on Earth when He was sacrificed as our Savior
- Aaron represented Jesus after His resurrection functioning in the role of our High Priest

So, back to the question of the object lessons from this story, Elisha and the boy both represent Jesus, what do we learn from this?

Jesus said,

> The Father loves me because I am willing to give up my life, in order that I may receive it back again. No one takes my life away from me. I give it up of my own free will. I have the right to give it up, and I have the right to take it back. This is what my Father has commanded me to do." (John 10:17-18 GNT).

Do we see this acted out in the story of Elisha raising the boy when both represent Jesus?

What about the laying on him mouth to mouth, eyes to eyes, hands to hands? Does that seem strange to you? It is an object lesson, of what?

> "May God himself, the God of peace, sanctify you through and through. May your whole spirit, soul and body be kept blameless at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. The one who calls you is faithful and he will do it" (1 Thessalonians 5:23–24 NIV84).

Jesus, as our substitute, as our second Adam, had to purify humanity from sin in spirit, soul, and body.

- Spirit=breath, which is represented by mouth. Jesus breathed on His disciples and they received the Holy Spirit. The Greek for breath and spirit is the same word pneuma.
- Soul=eyes, the Greek for soul is psyche, our individuality, our mind, our thinking. Eyes symbolize wisdom, discernment, enlightenment, thinking, and thus symbolize the soul. We often say that the eyes are windows into the soul
- Body=hands, the hands symbolize our actions, our works, which we do with our bodies.

So, the object lesson is that Jesus who died as our substitute raises His humanity back life after winning the battle over Satan and sin, and Jesus purifies humanity in spirit, soul, and body, mouth, eyes, and hands.

And the boy sneezes seven times—seven the number of perfection or completion; sneezing is blowing out of impurities, Jesus purged the infection of sin and perfectly purified humanity. And this is symbolized for our cleansing from sin when in the sanctuary service the High Priest (Jesus), sprinkles the blood of the lamb (which represents Jesus' sinless life) seven times over the ark on the Day of Atonement. Jesus cleanses us completely from sin.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph,

> The Bible says that Jesus "'went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, for God was with Him'" (Acts 10:38, NASB). Indeed, all the Gospels are full of accounts of Jesus ministering to many needy and hurting souls, which is why later many Jews came to believe that Jesus was the promised Messiah."

Is there a reason beyond the benefit of physical healing that Jesus spent so much time healing and not preaching?

It is the most accurate, efficient, and reality-based way to reveal the plan of salvation.

The plan of salvation is the plan of healing, it is not the plan of legal adjustment.

- We do not heal people from any sickness or disease by adjusting what is recorded in the medical record.
- We do not heal people from disease by legal declaration that they are well when they are still sick.
- We do not heal someone from disease by judicial ruling.
- We do not heal someone from disease by finding someone else who never had the disease and recording their healthy status in the record of the sick one.
- We do not heal someone from disease by have the doctor's son plead with the doctor to diagnose them as sickness free even though they are terminal.

No, we heal someone from disease by removing any toxins, pathogens, or brokenness and restoring the person to harmony with God and God's laws of health. God's plan of salvation is to restore His law of life into humanity—the new covenant is writing God's law into the hearts and minds of people.

Every wound, injury, sickness and health problem is caused by some break from the design laws upon which God created life and health to operate. Health and wellness are experienced when the principles, presence, and powers of our Creator God are brought to bear upon the suffering one. This is why healing physical illness teaches the plan of salvation because the plan of salvation is restoring God's law into our hearts and minds.

Thoughts?

The lesson points out that when Jesus raised the son of the widow of Nain He did so without her asking for help, whereas the Phoenician widow and the Shunammite woman both asked for help from Elijah and Elisha.

What do you make of this difference?

> "You see, at just the right time, when we were still powerless, Christ died for the ungodly. Very rarely will anyone die for a righteous man, though for a good man someone might possibly dare to die. But God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:6-8 NIV84).

God absolutely helps us when we ask, but God stepped in to help us before we asked!

Do parents only help their children when they ask? Or, are loving parents most pro-active in seeking to help their children when the children don't even realize they need help?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson points us to the resurrection of Jairus's daughter. I love this story because it gives powerful details that help us understand some of the issues of first death and how God sees it.

This little girl was dead and her death was understood by the community as many mourners had already arrived and began to mourn.

But Jesus tells them that the girl is not dead but asleep, and they laugh at Him.

What does this tell you?

That the girl was not in a physiological sleep, but was, what we call, dead.

But why didn't Jesus say, "It's okay that the girl is dead. Don't worry" Why did Jesus say she was asleep? Was Jesus trying to trick them or deceive them? Or was Jesus doing what He always does, trying to enlighten them because He is the light which lightens all people?

But did they receive the light? No, they laughed at Him.

Do we have insight today as to how a person can die what we call death, but God calls it a sleep? Yes, the analogy of computers that run out of power go into sleep mode. And if the data is backed up on a cloud, then the machine can be destroyed, but the computer can be resurrected by downloading the data to new hardware.

Thus, God wants us to understand the death that we call death is not what God calls death and is not the death of sin, not the death God warned Adam and Eve about in Eden. Jesus said that those who die the sleep death and believe in Him will never die.

Only the unrepented, the unsaved, die the death that is the wages of sin. And that death happens at the end of the 1000 years, and it is the death that God and the Bible call death and it is the death from which there is no resurrection. It is the death where not only the body is destroyed, but the soul, the individuality, the software.

THURSDAY

Lazarus—another great story to help us understand the difference between first and second death. Jesus again describes Lazarus as sleeping rather than dead, but His disciples didn't understand and thought He meant a physiological sleep, so Jesus had to tell them he was dead.

But Jesus was going to wake him up from the dead, but Jesus waited for four days, because there was a superstitious belief that the spirit hung around the body for three days. Thus waiting for four days met the people where they were in their ignorance and false understandings, to ensure they all believed and knew that Lazarus was dead, and not merely physiologically sleeping.

Another great detail recorded in Scripture is that when Jesus told them to roll away the stone, Martha objects that the body will be stinking because decay and rot had set in. This give greater credence to the fact that Lazarus was dead, and to the power of Jesus over death.

FRIDAY

Read and discuss questions.

Read third question, "If you think that the soul is immortal and that the dead, especially the righteous dead, live on in heaven after they die, what need is there for a resurrection at the end of time?"

And what would heaven be like right now for any person if they die and are conscious and aware in heaven? Would a mother who dies and leave behind small children be happy to see them placed in foster care and mistreated? Would a father who dies be happy to see his children molested by a step-father who enters their life after his passing?

Could heaven really be a place of joy and bliss for people while their loved ones continue to struggle with evil and sin here on earth?

2022 4Q On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 6
He Died for Us

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

TUESDAY

The lesson asks us to read John 19:1-30, which describes Jesus' before Pilate and the Jewish leaders calling for Jesus' death and how they said they have no king but Caesar and then Jesus' crucifixion. Let's read verses 28-30:

> Later, knowing that all was now completed, and so that the Scripture would be fulfilled, Jesus said, "I am thirsty." A jar of wine vinegar was there, so they soaked a sponge in it, put the sponge on a stalk of the hyssop plant, and lifted it to Jesus' lips. When he had received the drink, Jesus said, "It is finished." With that, he bowed his head and gave up his spirit. (John 19;28-30 NIV84)

What was finished? What did Jesus complete and accomplish at the cross?

Before we explore this question let me say at the outset some foundational truths and what we believe about the mission, purpose, and accomplishments of Jesus:

- After Adam sinned, no human being could be saved without the sinless life, sacrificial death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ our Savior
- The death of Jesus was a requirement for the salvation of human beings from sin
- Jesus died as our substitute—we believe in substitutionary atonement, in other words, Jesus took the place of sinful human beings in order to address and overcome the sin problem for us so that human beings can be saved from sin.
- There is nothing any human being can do to add to or improve upon what Christ has done for us
- We as individuals experience individual salvation by God's grace as manifest in the accomplishments of Jesus Christ when we partake of those accomplishments through faith, also known as trust.
- We experience the victory of Christ in our lives individually when, through faith, we open our hearts to God and the Holy Spirit takes the victory of Christ and changes our hearts and minds—the new covenant (Hebrews 8:10); this is known as being reborn—what Jesus said to Nicodemus.

So, having made these statements clear, don't get confused when we reject certain explanations of why Christ had to die. Any explanation we give will not contradict the statements above.

What was finished? Do we have Jesus using this same language about finishing His work elsewhere?

topics@comeandreason.com

> After Jesus finished saying this, he looked up to heaven and said, "Father, the hour has come. Give glory to your Son, so that the Son may give glory to you. For you gave him authority over all humanity, so that he might give eternal life to all those you gave him. And eternal life means knowing you, the only true God, and knowing Jesus Christ, whom you sent. I have shown your glory on earth; I have finished the work you gave me to do. Father! Give me glory in your presence now, the same glory I had with you before the world was made. I have made you known to those you gave me out of the world" (John 17:1-6 GNT)

Was what Jesus finished at the cross when He said "it is finished" and what Jesus said here in John 17 about finishing the work the Father sent Him to do addressing the same or different accomplishment?

Was Jesus' finishing the work the Father gave Him to do, specifically to resolve the sin problem?

Could we say that Jesus' sinless life and sacrificial death is the solution to the sin problem?

Then would our understanding and explanation of what we think the sin problem is influence why we think Jesus had to die?

So, what is the problem that sin caused that Jesus' death fixes?

When Adam sinned in Eden did God get changed? Did God's law get changed? Did the condition of Adam and Eve get changed when they sinned?

So, is there a problem with God or God's law that needs fixing? Is there a problem in humanity that needs fixing?

So, where will the effect, the impact, the saving change have to occur to save humans from sin, will Jesus' death have to do something to God or God's law, or will it have to do something to humankind in order to save or redeem human beings from sin?

So, how did Satan cause the sin problem in humans? By lying about God.

- Lies believed break the circle of love and trust
- Broken love and trust result in fear and selfishness
- Fear and selfishness result in acts of sin
- Acts of sin damage mind, body, relationships—a terminal condition

So, if sin began with believing lies about God, what does the healing solution start with? The truth about God—Jesus said, you will know the truth and the truth will set you free (John 8:32).

- Truth destroys lies and wins back to trust
- In trust we open the heart and the Spirit pours in love—we are reborn with new motives
- Love and trust results in acts of righteousness, service, beneficence

- Acts of righteousness result in growing in godliness/maturing, and advancing the kingdom of love and truth—we who were dead in trespass and sin come to live and bring forth peaceable fruits of righteousness

But the entire healing progression begins with the truth about God that wins us back to trust.

So, Jesus finished the work the Father gave Him to do—He made the truth about God known. But is revealing the truth the complete and total and only aspect of what Christ came to do? Did sinners need more?

Is God's law involved in some way in our sin problem and God's solution for it?

Through what law lens do we understand the sin problem and God's solution for it?

If we view God's law functioning like human law, imposed rules that require a judicial ruling of guilt or innocence with the infliction of "just" penalties upon the guilty to punish sin and uphold the integrity of the law, then we explain the purpose of the cross in legal terms, and we see God as the source of inflicted pain and death as punishment for breaking His rules.

The legal view leads good-hearted people to draw a host of wrong conclusions because their underlying premise about God's law is wrong.

- They will say that Jesus came to be tempted like us and overcome the temptations so that He could be a sinless substitute upon whom God inflicts our punishment in order to meet the demands of His holy law.
- It is then claimed that if we sinners accept this legal payment that God will be able to declare us to be righteous even though we are unrighteous and
- That God will not be legally required to kill us.
- Further it is taught that if we claim the blood payment of Jesus then God will apply that blood to our heavenly records and it erases the historical records of our sins so that no record of our sinful deeds will remain for any saved or sinless being to ever know about when we get to heaven.
- But this legal application of inflicted punishment and payment of a blood debt to the ruling god is only able to be applied if the innocent party suffers for every single violation of the law. Therefore, it is taught, that every single individual act of sin, committed by every single sinner in history was placed on Jesus and God punished Jesus for those sins, thus His punishment was much more severe than any other person in history.

Do you find this explanation reasonable? Are you won to trust a god who would artificially inflict punishment upon an innocent in order for the guilty to go free?

Would you like to live in a country where innocent people are purposely and knowingly punished for the crimes of the guilty so that the guilty can go free? If we were to set up a system that punished the voluntary innocent, say a mother willing to be punished for the crimes of her adult child, would doing so make us more like Jesus?

Where does this unjust explanation come from? It comes from accepting the lie that God's law functions like human law and the sin problem is a legal problem and therefore the purpose of Christ's death was to provide a legal solution.

This is why Satan has infected Christianity with the lie that God's law functions like human law, because it results in concepts being taught about God that make God appear to be like Satan in character, unforgiving, severe, arbitrary, the source of inflicted pain, suffering and death for sin, a being who is willing to torture and kill the innocent in place of the guilty. Such teachings undermine genuine trust in God while they increase faith in religious ritual, blood payments, legal adjustments and all other types of means of various superstitious teachings and rituals that serve to hide us and protect us from this punishing god and simultaneously give power to human religious leaders and organizations:

- pay your tithes and offerings or your sins will remain on the books
- make sure you remain in good standing as a member of your religious organization or else you can't have eternal life (fear ex-communication from the organization)
- make sure you participate in the right rituals in the right way or you cannot be saved—and who decides whether the ritual is done properly, who is empowered by investing ritual with the belief that it has saving power?

This is all contrary to Scripture, exactly the opposite of the truth, and is the result of accepting the lie that God's law functions like human law.

When we return to design law, that God is Creator and His laws are the laws that He built life to operate upon, we understand that sin breaks God's design for life and results in death unless God fixes the damage and restores His living law into us. Just as the Scripture teaches:

- The wages of sin is death (Romans 6:23)
- Sin when full grown brings forth death (James 1:15)
- The one who sows to the carnal nature from that nature reaps destruction (Galatians 6:8)

God is the source of life and death does not come from God, it comes from sin, from breaking God's design for life and separating ourselves from the source of life.

We are "dead in trespass and sin" we have a terminal sin condition that we inherited from Adam and we cannot cure it. David wrote that we are born in sin and conceived in iniquity (Psalm 51:5). And this condition, without remedy, results in symptoms—acts of sin—and eventual death.

Without Jesus every single human being would die from this condition, but > "God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life. For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but to save the world through him. Whoever believes in him is not condemned, but whoever does not believe stands condemned already because he has not believed in the name > of God's one and only Son. This is the verdict: Light has come into the world, but men loved darkness instead of light because their deeds were evil" (John 3:16-19 NIV84)

From where does the condemnation for sin come? It doesn't come from God, Jesus didn't come to condemn, but to save, we stand condemned already-why? Because we are terminal, dead in trespass and sin, only those who embrace the light, take in the truth as Jesus revealed and are won to trust and in trust open their hearts receive the indwelling Spirit who takes what Christ accomplished for us and renews us, we are reborn into new beings with a heart like Christ because Christ dwells with in. This is all reality based, based upon God's design law, the actual condition of the hearts, minds, and characters of people. There is nothing penal legal going on.

If a patient receives a terminal cancer diagnosis from their doctor, do they go home and tell their family, "Well, the doctor has condemned me to death?" And does the family respond by saying, "If we could only get the doctor to not be so judgmental, maybe we could pay the doctor a fee and with the proper payment maybe we could get the doctor to declare you to be cancer free even though you am not."

And if there were doctors and patients who operated this way, diagnosing terminal disease, but taking payments to declare people to be healthy when they are still terminal, what would the outcomes be? People would still be suffering, getting worse, and dying of their terminal condition. And this is sadly what we see in much of Christianity:

- Child abuse rates are no different in Christian and non-Christian homes
- Spouse abuse rates are no different
- Pornography use no different
- Addictions no different

Paul warned that at this time in history people would have a form of godliness but with no power—and that is what the penal legal system does—it sets up a system that gives a form of godliness but it cheats people of the life transforming power because it tells them salvation is a legal process that happens OUTSIDE of them, when in reality salvation is a supernatural process that happens inside of them, as Jesus said, "the kingdom of God is within you."

This plan to save sinners through Jesus was the joint plan of the Godhead—God so loved the world HE sent His Son—God was in the Son reconciling the world to Himself.

Jesus took the terminal sin-condition upon Himself and rather than succumbing to it—He "destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light" 2Timothy 1:10.

In the humanity of Jesus Christ, He experienced the full weight of what sin causes, the temptations, the fear, the anxiety, the heart-breaking agony and was tempted to use power to save self. He was tempted in every way just like us but without sin (Hebrews 4:15). And we are tempted when we are dragged away and enticed by our own evil desires (James 1:14). Did Jesus experience human emotions that tempted Him to act in self-interest? Yes, in Gethsemane He suffered terrible emotional anguish and was tempted to act in ways to save self, but with every temptation He chose to trust His Father and act in love.

Thus in Jesus, in the humanity of Jesus, by exercising His human abilities He destroyed the death causing principle that He inherited through Mary and solidified the life causing principle that He inherited through the Holy Spirit into His human character that He developed by His choices as a human being.

Thus, "once he was made perfect he became the source of salvation for all who obey him" (Hebrews 5:9).

Wasn't He always perfect? Jesus was always sinless, but Bible perfection is about maturity of character and character cannot be created, it is developed by the choices of the intelligent being. Once Adam sinned no human being could develop a sinless human character, thus Jesus came as the second Adam to overcome and destroy the death causing principle and restore God's life causing principle, God's law, into the human being.

Every act of sin committed by every single human being throughout history was not placed upon Jesus and punished by God. Jesus partook of the sin-condition with which every human suffers and every human is tempted by and Jesus destroyed that condition and established a new sinless humanity becoming the new head of humanity, the second Adam.

Was the problem that sin caused restricted to human beings? Was there a problem with sin that existed in God's universe before Adam and Eve sinned?

And when Lucifer and 1/3 of the angels sinned did their rebellion change God or God's law? Did God need to do something to address the sin problem in the rest of the universe? Was Christ's death not only designed to provide what sinful human beings needed in order to save us from sin, but also what loyal angels needed in order to secure them in their loyalty and prevent further angelic defection?

> And he is the head of the body, the church; he is the beginning and the firstborn from among the dead, so that in everything he might have the supremacy. For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross. (Colossians 1:18–20 NIV84).

What was needed for the loyal angels in heaven—they were not sinners, but somehow they needed the cross why? What did the cross do to help the loyal angels?

Jesus tells us about this when He said:

> "Now is the time for judgment on this world; now the prince of this world will be driven out. But I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself" (John 12:31-32 NIV84).

If your version has "men" in it, that word is supplied by the translators, it is not in the Greek. Jesus wasn't drawing only humans to Himself at the cross, but heavenly beings as well.

Jesus' crucifixion would pronounce judgment upon this world and the prince of this world—what kind of judgment is this? Who is the prince of this world? It is Satan—so at the cross Satan is being judged and driven out. But was the crucifixion of Jesus a legal court setting? No! It is the judgment that Paul wrote about in Romans 3:4:

> "let God be true but every man a liar. As it is written: 'That You may be justified in Your words, and may overcome when You are judged'" (Romans 3:4 NKJV).

The war began in heaven when Lucifer lied about God and deceived 1/3 of the angels into judging God falsely and rebelling against Him. While 2/3's stayed loyal, they had questions that needed answering lest they also eventually lose trust in God and rebel.

In order to resolve the sin problem that Satan's lies caused, God not only needed to provide a solution that fixes the damage sin caused to humans and open a path for sinful humans to be restored to righteousness and eternal life, but God also had to provide the answers to the allegations of Satan to solidify the loyal angels in their loyalty. In other words, God had to reveal Himself to be righteous—which is what Paul says was the purpose of the cross:

Romans 3:21-26:

> But now the righteousness of God apart from the law is revealed, being witnessed by the Law and the Prophets, even the righteousness of God, through faith in Jesus Christ, to all and on all who believe. For there is no difference; for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, being justified [the Greek for righteousness and justice is the exact same, so this could read as "being made righteous" or "being set right" instead of being justified, which is I believe is the correct rendering as the plan of salvation is not designed to make a legal adjustment in books while we remain wicked, but to make us righteous. As it says in 2Cor 5:21 "he who knew no sin became sin for us so that we might become the righteousness of God."] freely by His grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, whom God set forth as a propitiation by His blood, [The Greek for propitiation is hilasterion, which is the word used for the lid to the ark of the covenant. It simply means that Christ was sent by God as the way and means of resolving the sin problem and restoring us to righteousness and reconciling us to God] through faith, to demonstrate His righteousness, because in His forbearance God had passed over the sins that were previously committed, to demonstrate at the present time His righteousness, [What was the reason God did this? To demonstrate His righteousness, to demonstration He is righteous, why did this have to be demonstrated? Because Satan lied about God's character and alleged God is unrighteous, how? By alleging God makes up laws and inflicts arbitrary punishments. That God would inflict punishment upon an innocent is one of the greatest ways Satan advances the lie that God is not righteous] that He might be just and the justifier of the one who has faith in Jesus. [Again, just and justifier are the same Greek as righteous and righteousness]. (Romans 3:21–26 NKJV).

Here is how I rendered it in The Remedy:

> But now God has revealed a healthy state of being — a character that is right and perfect in every way — that did not come from the written code, but is exactly what the Scriptures and the Ten Commandments were pointing your minds toward. This perfect state of being comes from Christ and is created within us by God when we place our trust in him. Our trust in him is established by the evidence given through Jesus Christ of his supreme trustworthiness. There is no difference among any ethnic groups, for all humanity is infected with the same disease — of distrust, fear and selfishness — and is deformed in character and falls far short of God's glorious ideal for humanity. Yet all who are willing are healed freely by God's gracious Remedy which has been provided by Jesus Christ. God presented Jesus as the way and the means of restoration. Now, through the trust established by the evidence of God's character revealed when Christ died, we may partake of the Remedy procured by Christ. God did this to demonstrate that he is right and good — because in his forbearance he suspended, for a time, the ultimate consequence of us being out of harmony with his design for life — yet he has been falsely accused of being unfair. He did it to demonstrate at the present time how right and good he is, so that he would also be seen as being right when he heals those who trust in Jesus.

Jesus is saying that at the cross He will be lifted up and reveal the truth about God, His character and methods of truth, love, and liberty and expose Satan as the liar and fraud that he is and Satan's methods as the source of all pain, suffering, and death. When this truth is fully revealed then Satan's power to deceive will be broken in the hearts and minds of all who see and embrace the truth, thus Satan will be drive out. He will be driven out of the shadows, out into the open for all to see him for who and what he really is and when that happens his power is broken and Jesus by being lifted up will draw all beings who value truth to Himself, including the angels in heaven.

The angels who witnessed this had their questions about God answered and Satan was revealed as the liar and murderer that he is and thus the angelic host in heaven pronounced judgment that God and Jesus are holy, holy, holy (we read about this in Revelation after Jesus' ascension), and Satan was cast out of the affections of all the angels in heaven. From that point forward Satan's work was restricted to earth not by physical force, but by the reality that no angel in heaven would listen to anything Satan had to say. Only on earth are intelligent beings still listening to Satan and believing his lies.

This is why, before Christ returns, a message goes forward to give God glory, just as Christ prayed in John 17 that He would be glorified in order to finish the work of making God known so that God would be judged correctly and the lies about Him would be overthrown, so too at this time in history, we His people are to be the light of the world to glorify Him because the hour has come for people to make a right judgment about God, to stop judging Him to be an imperial dictator and to return to worshiping Him as Creator, Him who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water.

WEDNESDAY

The second paragraph states, "But animal sacrifices could not take away sin by themselves (Heb. 10:4). They provided only conditional forgiveness dependent on the effectiveness of Christ's future sacrifice on the cross."

What do you think about this? Is any of this true? What about the first sentence, "But animal sacrifices could not take away sin by themselves (Heb. 10:4)." Does that mean animal sacrifices could take away sin when they are joined with something else, say animal sacrifices plus faith in a future sacrifice?

Could animal sacrifices ever take away sin? No! Period, full stop. Animal sacrifices were never able to remove sin, save from sin, provide any impact that could resolve or remedy sin. They were only and ever designed to teach, to educate, to impact the mind of the sinner in ways that would lead the sinner to Jesus for salvation. This is true through all human history since the fall of Adam.

People did not have to participate in the OT sacrificial system to experience salvation, but they did have to experience what the OT sacrificial system was teaching, that is, reconciliation with God through the efficacy of Jesus.

Can you think of any people who did not participate in the OT animal sacrifices that the Bible indicates experienced salvation? Naaman and Nebuchadnezzar. We also have no record of Daniel and his friends presenting animal sacrifices during the 70-year captivity.

So the first sentence, at best, is very poorly constructed, but it likely reveals more. It likely reveals a fundamental misunderstanding of the sin problem and God's solution for it, which the second sentence further confirms. "They provided only conditional forgiveness dependent on the effectiveness of Christ's future sacrifice on the cross."

What? An animal sacrifice provided conditional forgiveness? Is the sin problem one of getting God to forgive? It is forgiveness from God that is the obstacle? Or is God's forgiveness freely given without any price being paid because that is who God is, but His forgiveness doesn't resolve the sin problem because His attitude was never the obstacle to our salvation?

Is Jesus fully God? Did Jesus have the authority to forgive sins? Did Jesus on the cross forgive those who crucified Him? And did that save them? Were they, by Jesus' forgiveness, turned from enemies to friends? It is true that no sinner could be saved without God's forgiveness, but the obstacle was never God's forgiveness. The obstacle to salvation is our distrust of God what the Bible calls a lack of faith and our fallen or carnal nature. In other words it is sinfulness in us that is the obstacle to salvation, not some deficiency in God that is remedied by Jesus. Our distrust of God and our fallen sinful nature needed to be removed by God in order to restore us to one-ness with Him, i.e., save us—and both were accomplished by Jesus as our substitute.

It all goes back to the law lens one views things through. Through the human law lens, we are in legal trouble and what we need is forgiveness or pardon. Through design law, God is love and freely forgives, but His personal forgiveness doesn't address the lies of Satan and restore us to trust in Him, and doesn't remove sinfulness from humanity and restore God's living law into humanity. These are the obstacles, the lies of Satan and sin in us, which had to be directly addressed and resolved. Jesus came and did both, presented the truth about God in order to remove the lies of Satan and restore trust and He developed a perfect righteous human character that He offers to impart to us when we are won back to trust.

The second to the last paragraph states, "Martin Luther referred to the cross as 'the altar on which He [Christ], consumed by the fire of the boundless love which burned in the His heart, presented the living and holy sacrifice of His body and blood to the Father with fervent intercession, loud cries, and hot, anxious tears (Heb. 5:7)."

What does this quote say to you? What is the message? Is it suggesting a type of intercession to God, that Jesus is offering His sacrifice to God for us and pleading to God for us in some way?

What is interesting is that they reference Hebrews 5:7 to support Christ praying like this to the Father for us, but let's read this text and go through verse 10:

> During the days of Jesus' life on earth, he offered up prayers and petitions with loud cries and tears to the one who could save him from death, and he was heard because of his reverent submission. Although he was a son, he learned obedience from what he suffered and, once made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him and was designated by God to be high priest in the order of Melchizedek. (Hebrews 5:7–10 NIV84).

Does this sound like what we read from Martin Luther? It does not! Martin Luther suggested Jesus is in heaven pleading with tears and such to the Father; but Hebrews describes Jesus on Earth, struggling in His humanity as our substitute with the temptations of the death causing principle asking His Father for the strength to succeed in His personal struggle as our substitute and He was heard and He succeeded and as the text says He then became the source of our salvation. Jesus is not pleading with God to get God to be merciful, He is pleading to God for the strength to complete their joint mission to overthrow Satan, sin, and save humanity. Jesus doesn't need to plead to His Father, just as He previously told His disciples in John 16:26:

> In that day you will ask in my name. I am not saying that I will ask the Father on your behalf. No, the Father himself loves you because you have loved me and have believed that I came from God. (John 16:26-27 NIV84).

THURSDAY

In the second paragraph the lesson states, "Christ did not die just the natural death that every human being has to face. He died the second death, so that all those who accept Him will never have to experience it for themselves."

I agree with them completely on the first part, that Christ did not die the natural death that every human being faces, but I would like it if the lesson authors were here, I would ask them, "could you please define for us, from the inspired record, what is the second death." And then with that definition, I would ask does Christ's death meet those indicators. We will explore those indicators in a moment, but I would also ask them if they could provide any inspired reference that states Christ died the second death?

So far no one has been able to do so, why? Because the idea of Christ dying the second death comes from the penal/legal lie—and it would serve Satan's purposes if Christ did die the second death. For the second death is the death from which there is no resurrection and Satan would love for Christ to still be dead.

The reason some teach that Christ died the second death is because they have the penal view; they understand that the wicked die the second death as the penalty for sin, and therefore, in their model for them not to have to die the second death then someone else has to so that the second death penalty is paid. And, if we suggest that Christ did not die the second death, then in their model, their legal sin-penalty hasn't been paid and they would be required to die for their sin. This causes them to experience terrible fear and anxiety and they not only desperately cling to this false view, they get really upset as those of us to point out the truth. It is so upsetting to them that most close their ears to the truth and make the false allegation against us that we don't believe in substitutionary atonement.

But the root to their difficult is the same root to their entire penal legal model of salvation, namely they have the wrong concept of law. They believe God's law functions like human law and that the penalty for sin is an inflicted legal penalty by God. They all teach Satan's lie that opened the controversy in heaven, that every sin must meet its punishment (DA761).

When we return to design law, we realize that the wages of sin is death (Rom 6:23), sin when full grown brings forth death (James 1:15), that the sinner needs to be delivered from sin, that the sin condition needs to be eradicated, that sinners need curing, healing, transforming, not punishing.

We could say that Jesus destroyed or killed the carnal nature at the cross, but Christ Himself did not die eternally, He conquered death and rose again in a perfected and sinless humanity.

Christ did not die the first death and Christ did not die the second death. Christ's humanity was unique, His life was unique, and His death was unique. Jesus' death was the means of eradicating sin from the species human, destroying the death causing infection of fear and selfishness, and establishing a new sinless humanity. There is nothing penal legal going on.

But further evidence that refutes the idea that Jesus died the second death:

The Bible uses the term "second death" only in the book of Revelation in 2:11, 20:6, 20:14 and 21:8. The first two times the term is used the Bible tells us that the second death has no power over the righteous—was Jesus righteous? The second death has no power over Him! And those victorious in Christ, those who arise in the first resurrection, the second death has no power over them.

The last two texts the Bible gives us some description of what the second death actually is:

- Rev 20:14 “The lake of fire is the second death”
- Rev 21:8 “their place will be in the fiery lake of burning sulfur. This is the second death.”

According to Revelation the second death occurs in the lake of fire or that dying in the lake of fire is the second death. Did Christ die in the lake of fire? When Jesus died is there any inspired evidence that Jesus died with fire reigning down upon Him? Or does the inspired record reveal just the opposite that darkness covered Him and He pled, “my God, my God why have you forsaken me” (Matt 27:45, 46)?

And what do we understand the lake of fire is? It is the fire of God’s life-giving glory that the righteous live in and which consumes sin. It is the fires of infinite truth and love emanating from God. Rivers of fire flow out from God and billions of righteous stand in this fire (Daniel 7:9-10; Isaiah 33:14-15).

So what would have happened to Jesus if He were exposed to God’s life giving glory? He would not have died because there was no sin in Jesus. The only way for Jesus to complete His mission and

1. die to overcome the carnal drives of fear and selfishness,
2. to restore God’s law of love, the law of life into humanity
3. to reveal the truth about God’s character love that God is safe with all power and would rather let His creatures kill Him than use His power to stop it
4. to expose Satan and his sympathizers and murderers and the source of death, and
5. reveal what God actually does to the sinner, was for the Father, the source of life, to let go, to abandon Him.

Thus the Father letting Jesus go was not an act of punishment upon Jesus, it was the cooperative choice of the Father and Son to complete the mission of destroying the sin infection and saving humanity.

God acts the same toward Jesus and the wicked in the end—He let’s both go to reap what they have chosen. Christ chose freely to go through the cross for the purposes of overcoming sinfulness and restoring righteousness into humanity. And God set Jesus free to experience fully what that choice resulted in.

And God sets the wicked free to experience fully what their refusal to be reconciled to God results in. And the wicked die, when they are exposed to God’s life-giving glory because they are solidified in sin, in fear and selfishness.

While God treats both Christ and the wicked the same, letting both go to reap what they have chosen. Because they have chosen differently, they experience different outcomes.

Jesus death was the means of actually destroying death! 2 Timothy1:10 states, Christ "destroyed death and brought life and immortality to life."

Death results where selfishness rules and death is destroyed where love reigns supreme! Christ died when love overcame selfishness, when He gave His life freely, when He chose to lay down His life voluntarily. In Christ the law of love, the law of life, was fully lived out when Christ refused to use His power to save self, but rather gave His life freely in love. In Christ, giving destroyed taking, love destroyed selfishness, life destroyed death! And thus Christ's resurrection was the inevitable, predictable, reality-based outcome of restoring the law of life perfectly into the humanity that He possessed.

The differences between Christ's death and that of those who die the second death are stark:

- Christ died trusting the Father – Luke 23:46
  The wicked die distrusting the Father – Revelation 6:16

- Christ died longing to see the Father – Mark 15:34
  The wicked die hiding from the Father – Revelation 6:16

- Christ died when the Father's presence was hidden – Mark 15:34
  The wicked die when the Father is fully revealed – 2 Thes 2:8

- Christ died less than 72 hours – Luke 24:1-8
  The wicked die eternally – Malachi 4:1-3, Romans 6:23, James 1:15, 2Pet 3:10-12

- Christ died when love overcame selfishness – John 3:16, 10:17,18, 1John 3:16
  The wicked die overcome by selfishness – Revelation 21:8

Do you see the amazing difference it makes to return to design law? Do you see how accepting Satan's lie about God's law, that it is imposed and justice requires inflicted punishment, takes away so much of what Christ actually accomplished at the cross, and worse, it makes God out to be the source of pain, suffering and death.

2022 4Q On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 7
Christ's Victory Over Death

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first two paragraphs,

> Central to the Christian faith is the resurrection of Jesus. Paul made this point very powerfully when he wrote: "For if the dead do not rise, then Christ is not risen. And if Christ is not risen, your faith is futile; you are still in your sins! Then also those who have fallen asleep in Christ have perished" (1 Cor. 15:16-18, NKJV). We will look at this in more detail next week.
>
> Thus, no matter all the emphasis Paul put on Christ's death, and how important it was — "For I determined not to know anything among you except Jesus Christ and Him crucified" (1 Cor. 2:2, NKJV) — it really does us no good apart from His resurrection. That's how crucial the resurrection of Jesus is to the entire Christian faith and the plan of salvation.

Why is this true?

If our current life were the only life and there was no future life, which would be the better way to live, the life that Jesus showed us—a life of love, truth, liberty, of integrity, honesty, loyalty, kindness, mercy, grace; or a life of fear, selfishness, exploitation, villainy and cruelty? Which is the healthier and happier life to live regardless of the future life?

Then why does the crucifixion of Christ do us no good if He was not resurrected? Why doesn't Paul say that even if Christ were not to have risen from the dead that living like Christ is the best way to live?

He wrote:

> "For if the dead do not rise, then Christ is not risen. And if Christ is not risen, your faith is futile; you are still in your sins! Then also those who have fallen asleep in Christ have perished" (1 Cor. 15:16-18, NKJV).

What is this saying? If Christ hasn't risen from the dead then we are still in our sins—and if we are still in our sins it is not possible for us to live a righteous life. While it is true that, even if there were no resurrection, living like Jesus leads to the healthiest and happiest life experience in this sinful world, the only way we are capable of living that healthy and righteous life is through the victory of Jesus. And that victory is the victory that destroys death, so if Jesus didn't rise from the dead, we would not be delivered from the sin condition and would be hopelessly lost in corruption and misery.

What Paul is saying goes beyond the future resurrection, it is about the power of Jesus' victory that we can experience here and now to live the victorious life, the fruitful life. Jesus said:

> The thief does not come except to steal, and to kill, and to destroy. I have come that they may have life, and that they may have it more abundantly. (John 10:10 NKJV).

Jesus wants us to experience the abundant life, the life full of His love, goodness, mercy, truth and presence. But if Jesus did not win the victory over Satan, sin, and death, then He does not have the remedy to our sin condition so that we can live the abundant life. But praise be to God that Jesus did win the victory and God "made Him who knew no sin to be sin for us, that we might become the righteousness of God in Him." (2Corinthians 5:21 NKJV).

SUNDAY

Read Matthew 27:62-66:

> The next day, the one after Preparation Day, the chief priests and the Pharisees went to Pilate. "Sir," they said, "we remember that while he was still alive that deceiver said, 'After three days I will rise again.' So give the order for the tomb to be made secure until the third day. Otherwise, his disciples may come and steal the body and tell the people that he has been raised from the dead. This last deception will be worse than the first."
>
> "Take a guard," Pilate answered. "Go, make the tomb as secure as you know how." So they went and made the tomb secure by putting a seal on the stone and posting the guard. (Matthew 27:62-66).

What do you learn from this passage?

- The enemies of Jesus knew He predicted His death and resurrection
- They didn't believe Him, why? They had the OT stories of resurrections of the two children and the dead man who touched Elisha's bones, so why didn't they believe?
- The high priest, Caiaphas, was a Sadducee and the Sadducees didn't believe in a resurrection. Thus they didn't believe it was possible. Their preconceived ideas blinded them to the truth.
    - But it was also about politics and power, about ego and pride. The Pharisees, like Paul, believed in the resurrection. And these two theological schools had heated debate over this issue. There were power struggles, who would be high priest etc. If the Sadducees acknowledged the resurrection it would mean a loss of their position, power, and authority.
    - What have you seen people do in the world today and in the church today in order to maintain their earthly power, position, authority?
    - Do people purposely lie, obstruct the truth, censor, seek to silence those who would expose their lies, refuse to allow discussion of topics that would expose their choices has harmful?

    - The Sadducees were invested in denying the truth because self was valued more than God.
- They didn't have mindsets that prioritized the truth, they had mindsets of all religious cults, the need to defend their doctrines, which gave them power, which required them to deny evidence and truth that contradicted their system of beliefs
    - Those who are lost in the end the Bible describes as being lost because "they did not love the truth and thus be saved." We are not saved by the amount of factual truth we know. When Jesus returns there will not be one person among the saved who knows every detail and passage of Scripture correctly and fully, but all the saved will be lovers of truth. They will have hearts that are humble to be corrected by the truth, rather than hearts that resist and deny truth. The lost hate the truth and don't want to be corrected by it. This was the mindset of those who crucified Christ.
- Do we see this same mindset today? All cults do this, communism does this, in fact every evil satanic system does this because they are all built on lies and the truth will overthrow such systems. Thus, evil systems will value authority of office, power, position, proclamations, claims, and will seek to obfuscate the truth and destroy those who are advancing the truth. We saw this with COVID, how the system is bent on destroying those who only want to discover what is actually true, but those in power, who have advanced a false narrative, cannot tolerate the truth, it threatens their position, power, and authority, and thus they use methods of silencing, censoring, deplatforming, restricting liberty, termination from employment, and in some countries people who advanced evidence contradictory to the government have been disappeared.
- But what did the scheming of the Jewish religious leaders result it? They desperately wanted to use might and power to stop the resurrection, so they sealed the tomb and placed soldiers to guard it and this resulted in what? A more certain historical record of the resurrection. It is a certainty that the Jewish peasant disciples could not have seduced a detachment of Roman soldiers into neglecting their duty, which if discovered would result in their execution.

So after the resurrection, the Roman soldiers had a story to tell, their firsthand testimony of what they experienced, which was an angel coming down from heaven, overwhelming them, they passed out, and when they woke the tomb was open and Jesus was gone.

When they report this to the Jewish leaders, how do the leaders respond? Turn to MONDAY's lesson, and let's read Matthew 28:11-15:

- While the women were on their way, some of the guards went into the city and reported to the chief priests everything that had happened. When the chief priests had met with the elders and devised a plan, they gave the soldiers a large sum of money, telling them, "You are to say, 'His disciples came during the night and stole him away while we were asleep.' If this report gets to the governor, we will satisfy him and keep you out of trouble." So the soldiers took the money and did as they were instructed. And this story has been widely circulated among the Jews to this very day. Matthew 28:11-15 NIV84).

What do we learn from this?

From this account does it sound like the priests believed or didn't believe the Roman soldiers?

If the chief priests did not believe the account of the Roman soldiers; if they believed that the soldiers had neglected their duty and that the disciples had stolen the body of Jesus, what would the chief priests have done? They would have gone to Pilate, reported them, and demanded they be publicly tried and punished.

But if they would have done that, and Pilate had a trial, what would have occurred? The Roman soldiers would have all given testimony to the fact Jesus rose from the dead—and what else would have likely happened? The witnesses who saw Jesus after His resurrection could have been called to give testimony that they had seen Jesus alive.

And if this would have happened, what would have happened to the Jewish leadership?

Go back and read Stephen's speech before the Sanhedrin as recorded in Acts chapter seven. I will read his summation, but recognize that if the Roman soldiers would have been tried and had given public testimony, along with other witnesses, the entire countryside, the populace at large would have been saying what Stephen said here to the chief priests:

> "You stiff-necked people, with uncircumcised hearts and ears! You are just like your fathers: You always resist the Holy Spirit! Was there ever a prophet your fathers did not persecute? They even killed those who predicted the coming of the Righteous One. And now you have betrayed and murdered him—you who have received the law that was put into effect through angels but have not obeyed it." (Acts 7:51-53 NIV84).

And if the people took up this position, what would have happened to those religious leaders? Do you see why, despite believing the testimony of the Roman soldiers, they chose to cover up the truth and advance their lies?

This is exactly what the unrepentant always do; they are motivated by fear and selfishness and choose to do whatever is expedient to protect themselves. It is the classic ends justify the means mentality. It is exactly what we see happening around the world from those who are in power and desperate not to lose it.

The first paragraph in Monday's lesson points out that Christ's divinity did not die at the cross, it was His humanity that died, and then it was His divinity that resurrected His humanity.

Thoughts about this? Questions about this?

From where does all life come or originate? In God, God is the source of all life. And Jesus, God the Son, has life original, unborrowed, underived from another source. And after Adam sinned, Jesus chose to join His immortal life with our mortal life, in order to destroy the death causing principle and restore humanity back to harmony with God and give us the gift of eternal life.

Through His sufferings Jesus confronted the infection of fear and selfishness, the carnal drives, and destroyed them and by His choices as our substitute He developed a perfect, mature, and sinless human character. At the cross love and selfishness battled it out in the heart and mind of Jesus Christ, and love destroyed fear and selfishness. Thus Jesus rose again as the predictable and inevitable result of completing His mission—which was to destroy the death causing principle and restore the life causing principle into humanity.

TUESDAY

The lesson asks us to read Matthew 27:51-53:

> At that moment the curtain of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom. The earth shook and the rocks split. The tombs broke open and the bodies of many holy people who had died were raised to life. They came out of the tombs, and after Jesus' resurrection they went into the holy city and appeared to many people. (Matthew 27:51-53 NIV84).

What does the tearing of the veil at the time of Christ's crucifixion reveal? What is the object lesson? What is being taught by that action?

What does the veil represent?

It is commonly taught that the veil represents Jesus' body, this idea comes from Heb 10:19,20 which says:

> Therefore, brothers, since we have confidence to enter the Most Holy Place by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way opened for us through the curtain, that is, his body…(Hebrews 10:19-20 NIV84).

Does this text say that the veil is Jesus' body? The sentence structure allows for "body" to refer to either the curtain or the new and living way through the curtain, either is possible, both in the English and Greek. So we must study a little deeper to know which it is.

Let us consider the meaning and implications of both options.

In the theater of the OT sanctuary, the veil obstructed the light of God's glory from being seen, the glory shone over the top of the veil as the veil didn't reach the ceiling. What could this mean?

- Christ did veil His full fiery glory in humanity so that He could dwell among us sinners and not destroy us
- But at the same time Christ is the light which lightens all men, and Christ glorified God in His life. In fact, Jesus, praying to His Father, said in John 17: "I have brought you glory on earth by completing the work you gave me to do." Further, the Bible describes the second temple, which was smaller than Solomon's temple, as being more glorious than Solomon's, why? Because Jesus revealed the glorious character of God in person at that temple. So, while the physical glory of God was veiled, the greatest revelation of the true glory of God, which is His character, was revealed by Christ.

- In the Great Controversy between God and Satan, who is the light that reveals the glory of God and who is the one that constantly seeks to obstruct the glory of God from reaching the people?
- So if we focus only on the physical aspects we would conclude on this point that the veil represents the body of Jesus, but if we focus on the Great Controversy and the elements of truth, righteousness, love, and God's character we would conclude that the veil represents the lies of Satan that obstruct that light.

The veil has angels sown on it, and the Bible further reveals that there is a battle between godly angels and satanic angels, we read about this throughout Scripture, including places like Daniel chapter ten. So the veil with angels could represent the angelic host of God sent to the church to help us battle with the lies and powers of Satan that obstruct our way back into God's presence. But angels, though ministering spirits sent to help us, are not able to pierce the veil and open the way back into God's presence for us. Only Jesus could do that.

Here is a very clarifying point. The only element of the OT sanctuary that God used His power to destroy is the veil. This destruction of the veil happened at the very moment of Christ's death. And what does Scripture tell us Christ destroyed?

> Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil (Heb 2:14 NIV84).
>
> Our Savior, Christ Jesus, who has destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel (2 Timothy 1:10 NIV84).
>
> The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work (1 John 3:8 NIV84).

So, what was destroyed by Christ's death? Satan's power of death, death itself, and Satan's work which has been to destroy the image of God in humanity and place Satan's image where God should be.

And at the moment of Christ's death the veil was rent opening the way back into the presence of God. We can make a very strong case that the veil represents the lies of Satan about God that keep us from knowing and trusting God, and our fallen nature both of which Jesus destroyed at the cross, thereby opening a new a living way back into the presence of God for us.

We can look at it on the other side. If we say that the veil represents Jesus' body, which the penal legal view likes to take, then we must conclude that God is the one who killed Jesus on the cross. This is also what the penal legal view teaches, that God was required by law and justice to put our sins on Jesus and then use His divine power to punish our sins by executing Jesus in our place.

However, this contradicts everything about Scripture and mispresents God as being like Satan in character.

- It is based on the lie that God's law functions like human law
- It makes God out to be the source of death
- It contradicts the plain testimony of Scripture and Jesus Himself when Jesus cried, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" (Matthew 27:46 NIV84). God did not lay a hand on Jesus, but separated Himself from Jesus, setting Jesus free from His life-sustaining presence in order for Jesus to accomplish their joint mission of destroying Satan, Satan's lies and power, and death itself, and restoring in humanity God's living law of love. If God did not separate from His Son, it would not have been possible for Jesus to die since God is the source of life. Thus God's abandoning of Jesus on the cross was by mutual consent among the Godhead, not one member punishing another member.
- So, we must reject the idea that the veil represents the body of Jesus, and instead conclude it represents the obstacles to our reconciliation to God that were destroyed by Jesus.
- Thus, because of Jesus we have a new and living way opened for us back into the presence of the Father.

I believe Paul alluded to this very understanding of the veil being Satan's lies when he wrote:

> And even if our gospel is veiled, it is veiled to those who are perishing. The god of this age has blinded the minds of unbelievers, so that they cannot see the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God. (2Corinthians 4:3,4)

So, which interpretation do you think fits more fully with the full testimony of Scripture, that the veil is Jesus' body and God punished Jesus by destroying Jesus on the cross, or that the veil is what obstructs our reconciliation with God and Jesus destroyed those obstacles and opened a new a living way for us back into unity or at-one-ment with God?

The lesson also points out that many people were resurrected with Jesus, and these individuals were resurrected to immortal life and went to heaven with Jesus.

> "When he ascended on high, he led captives in his train and gave gifts to men." (Ephesians 4:8 NIV 84).

I think we read about some of these resurrected victors in places like Revelation 4:4:

> Surrounding the throne were twenty-four other thrones, and seated on them were twenty-four elders. They were dressed in white and had crowns of gold on their heads. (Revelation 4:4 NIV84)

Who are the ones dressed in white with gold crowns and with whom Christ shares His throne? These are not angels, nor are they sinless beings from other worlds, these 24 elders are human sinners saved by Jesus. I believe that at least some of them are the resurrected saints taken back to heaven with Jesus when He ascended.

Have you ever speculated on who some of these might be? We might be okay to consider that three are, Enoch, Elijah, and Moses since we know those three by name are in heaven. But have you considered any other possibilities?

- I personally don't think Adam or Eve are part of this group. I think they sleep in the grave until the second coming, but that is just my view.
- But what about Abel, whose blood cried out to God from the ground?
- What about Noah?
- What about Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and Joseph?
- What about David, a man after God's own heart?
- John the Baptist?

I don't know who they are, but don't you think every single one of those resurrected with Jesus were friends of God and would say of God what is right?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson gives a long list of people that Scripture records saw Jesus after His resurrection. These include:

- Mary Magdalene
- The Apostles on more than one occasion, including Thomas who wasn't there on the first occasion
- The men on the road to Emmaus
- And we have this account in 1Corinthians 15:
    - For what I received I passed on to you as of first importance: that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures, and that he appeared to Peter, and then to the Twelve. After that, he appeared to more than five hundred of the brothers at the same time, most of whom are still living, though some have fallen asleep. Then he appeared to James, then to all the apostles, and last of all he appeared to me also, as to one abnormally born. (1Corinthians 15:3-8 NIV84).

This is quite a profound historical record of witnesses to the resurrection of Jesus.

What do you think of Thomas's experience? It is helpful in so many ways. What was the basis upon which Thomas was persuaded? Thomas was persuaded by his own experience with Jesus, whereas the men on the road to Emmaus were persuaded by the weight of Scripture. These stories reveals two of the threads of evidence through which God works, Scripture and real life experiences. Jesus did not quote Bible verses to Thomas, but instructed Thomas touch Him and then said to Him, stop doubting and believe, based on what? On his experiencing, which confirmed for Thomas what he already knew from Scripture and from what Jesus had previously taught him.

What do you think of this text, and remember what I am about to read to you is the record of Jesus' activity in His immortal resurrected body:

> While they were still talking about this, Jesus himself stood among them and said to them, "Peace be with you."
>
> They were startled and frightened, thinking they saw a ghost. He said to them, "Why are you troubled, and why do doubts rise in your minds? Look at my hands and my feet. It is I myself! Touch me and see; a ghost does not have flesh and bones, as you see I have."
> When he had said this, he showed them his hands and feet. And while they still did not believe it because of joy and amazement, he asked them, "Do you have anything here to eat?" They gave him a piece of broiled fish, and he took it and ate it in their presence. (Luke 24:36-43 NIV84).

What do you think of this? Why did Jesus do it? Wasn't Jesus concerned about maintaining a vegetarian diet in His new and immortal body?

It shows the incredible steps that Jesus is willing to take to condescend in order to reach us and disabuse us of falsehood. He did this because they had the idea in their mind that He might be a ghost rather than a real physical being.

One other small point I want to clarify about the witnesses that saw Jesus. Who was the first to see Him after His resurrection? Mary Magdalene, and the encounter, as translated into many versions, has resulted in a myth being told about Jesus. The encounter is translated like this in many versions:

> Jesus replied, "Do not touch me, for I have not yet ascended to my Father." (John 20:17 NET)

This has led to the myth that Jesus could not be touched and if Mary had touched Him prior to ascending to His Father that she would have contaminated Him or despoiled Him of His purity or virtue. But this is not what Jesus was saying, the Greek is active present, it means "do not go on touching me" meaning "you must stop clinging to me and let me go because I need to go see my Father."

So the NIV renders it:

> Jesus said, "Do not hold on to me, for I have not yet returned to the Father. (Jn 20:17 NIV84).

THURSDAY

The lesson points out that Jesus, in His immortal body continues to carry the scars from His crucifixion, why?

A very interesting passage in Zechariah gives one possible reason:

> If someone asks him, 'What are these wounds on your body?' he will answer, 'The wounds I was given at the house of my friends.' (Zechariah 13:6).

Throughout all eternity Jesus will carry the reminders of what He sacrificed in order to overthrow sin, save sinners, and secure His universe. We will never plumb the infinite depths of HIs sacrifice. But He will always bear the marks which will continually draw from all intelligences love, appreciation, and further inquiry.

And the text implies that there will be those in heaven who don't know the story of Jesus and His wounds will be a great starting point for them to ask Him about the marks and listen to the story. Certainly, all those who died before the Cross might have questions about the marks, but what about those since the cross is there any evidence that there might be people in heaven who haven't heard the story of the cross?

First, let's be very clear—no human being can be saved without Jesus. In other words, every human being who is saved from sin is saved only because of the life, death, resurrection of Jesus. It is through Jesus and by Jesus and what He accomplished that salvation is provided to humanity and there is no other name, power, or avenue through which salvation can occur.

However, the Bible indicates that some people partake of Jesus and His salvation without fully realizing the story and historical account of what He did. Paul makes this case in Romans where in verse 1:19-20 he says:

> what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them. For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse (Romans 1:19-20 NIV84).

Notice Paul doesn't say that what may be known about God is plain to them because the gospel story has been told to them by missionaries, no, it is through what God has made. And if people learn about God through what He wrote into the book of nature, who is the member of the Godhead through which they are coming back to this knowledge of God? Jesus:

> In the beginning there was the Word. The Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was with God in the beginning. All things were made by him, and nothing was made without him (John 1:1-3 NCV).

Then a few verses later in Romans Paul writes the following:

> All who sin apart from the law will also perish apart from the law, and all who sin under the law will be judged by the law. For it is not those who hear the law who are righteous in God's > sight, but it is those who obey the law who will be declared righteous. (Indeed, when Gentiles, who do not have the law, do by nature things required by the law, they are a law for themselves, even though they do not have the law, since they show that the requirements of the law are written on their hearts, their consciences also bearing witness, and their thoughts now accusing, now even defending them.) (Romans 2:12-15 NIV84).

Paul is making the case that those who learn the truth of God's character and methods of love from what God has made and trust Him as Creator and open their hearts to Him, that the Holy Spirit will take the victory of Jesus and reproduce the character of Christ in them, even though they haven't learned the story yet. The law is written upon their hearts, which is exactly what the Bible says is the New Covenant (Hebrews 8:10). But, these people, even if they haven't heard the story, are still only saved by Christ and through Christ, not through some other way.

From Last week's lesson: THURSDAY

In the second paragraph the lesson states, "Christ did not die just the natural death that every human being has to face. He died the second death, so that all those who accept Him will never have to experience it for themselves."

I agree with them completely on the first part, that Christ did not die the natural death that every human being faces, but I would like it if the lesson authors were here, I would ask them, "could you please define for us, from the inspired record, what is the second death." And then with that definition, I would ask does Christ's death meet those indicators. We will explore those indicators in a moment, but I would also ask them if they could provide any inspired reference that states Christ died the second death?

So far no one has been able to do so, why? Because the idea of Christ dying the second death comes from the penal/legal lie—and it would serve Satan's purposes if Christ did die the second death. For the second death is the death from which there is no resurrection and Satan would love for Christ to still be dead.

The reason some teach that Christ died the second death is because they have the penal view; they understand that the wicked die the second death as the penalty for sin, and therefore, in their model for them not to have to die the second death then someone else has to so that the second death penalty is paid. And, if we suggest that Christ did not die the second death, then in their model, their legal sin-penalty hasn't been paid and they would be required to die for their sin. This causes them to experience terrible fear and anxiety and they not only desperately cling to this false view, they get really upset as those of us to point out the truth. It is so upsetting to them that most close their ears to the truth and make the false allegation against us that we don't believe in substitutionary atonement.

But the root to their difficult is the same root to their entire penal legal model of salvation, namely they have the wrong concept of law. They believe God's law functions like human law and that the penalty for sin is an inflicted legal penalty by God. They all teach Satan's lie that opened the controversy in heaven, that every sin must meet its punishment (DA761).

When we return to design law, we realize that the wages of sin is death (Rom 6:23), sin when full grown brings forth death (James 1:15), that the sinner needs to be delivered from sin, that the sin condition needs to be eradicated, that sinners need curing, healing, transforming, not punishing.

We could say that Jesus destroyed or killed the carnal nature at the cross, but Christ Himself did not die eternally, He conquered death and rose again in a perfected and sinless humanity.

Christ did not die the first death and Christ did not die the second death. Christ's humanity was unique, His life was unique, and His death was unique. Jesus' death was the means of eradicating sin from the species human, destroying the death causing infection of fear and selfishness, and establishing a new sinless humanity. There is nothing penal legal going on.

But further evidence that refutes the idea that Jesus died the second death:

The Bible uses the term "second death" only in the book of Revelation in 2:11, 20:6, 20:14 and 21:8. The first two times the term is used the Bible tells us that the second death has no power over the righteous—was Jesus righteous? The second death has no power over Him! And those victorious in Christ, those who arise in the first resurrection, the second death has no power over them.

The last two texts the Bible gives us some description of what the second death actually is:

> Rev 20:14 "The lake of fire is the second death"
> Rev 21:8 "their place will be in the fiery lake of burning sulfur. This is the second death."

According to Revelation the second death occurs in the lake of fire or that dying in the lake of fire is the second death. Did Christ die in the lake of fire? When Jesus died is there any inspired evidence that Jesus died with fire reigning down upon Him? Or does the inspired record reveal just the opposite that darkness covered Him and He pled, "my God, my God why have you forsaken me" (Matt 27:45, 46)?

And what do we understand the lake of fire is? It is the fire of God's life-giving glory that the righteous live in and which consumes sin. It is the fires of infinite truth and love emanating from God. Rivers of fire flow out from God and billions of righteous stand in this fire (Daniel 7:9-10; Isaiah 33:14-15).

So what would have happened to Jesus if He were exposed to God's life giving glory? He would not have died because there was no sin in Jesus. The only way for Jesus to complete His mission and

1. die to overcome the carnal drives of fear and selfishness,
2. to restore God's law of love, the law of life into humanity
3. to reveal the truth about God's character love that God is safe with all power and would rather let His creatures kill Him than use His power to stop it

4. to expose Satan and his sympathizers and murderers and the source of death, and
5. reveal what God actually does to the sinner, was for the Father, the source of life, to let go, to abandon Him.

Thus the Father letting Jesus go was not an act of punishment upon Jesus, it was the cooperative choice of the Father and Son to complete the mission of destroying the sin infection and saving humanity.

God acts the same toward Jesus and the wicked in the end—He let's both go to reap what they have chosen. Christ chose freely to go through the cross for the purposes of overcoming sinfulness and restoring righteousness into humanity. And God set Jesus free to experience fully what that choice resulted in.

And God sets the wicked free to experience fully what their refusal to be reconciled to God results in. And the wicked die, when they are exposed to God's life-giving glory because they are solidified in sin, in fear and selfishness.

While God treats both Christ and the wicked the same, letting both go to reap what they have chosen. Because they have chosen differently, they experience different outcomes.

Jesus death was the means of actually destroying death! 2 Timothy1:10 states, Christ "destroyed death and brought life and immortality to life."

Death results where selfishness rules and death is destroyed where love reigns supreme! Christ died when love overcame selfishness, when He gave His life freely, when He chose to lay down His life voluntarily. In Christ the law of love, the law of life, was fully lived out when Christ refused to use His power to save self, but rather gave His life freely in love. In Christ, giving destroyed taking, love destroyed selfishness, life destroyed death! And thus Christ's resurrection was the inevitable, predictable, reality-based outcome of restoring the law of life perfectly into the humanity that He possessed.

The differences between Christ's death and that of those who die the second death are stark:

- Christ died trusting the Father – Luke 23:46
  The wicked die distrusting the Father – Revelation 6:16

- Christ died longing to see the Father – Mark 15:34
  The wicked die hiding from the Father – Revelation 6:16

- Christ died when the Father's presence was hidden – Mark 15:34
  The wicked die when the Father is fully revealed – 2 Thes 2:8

- Christ died less than 72 hours – Luke 24:1-8
  The wicked die eternally – Malachi 4:1-3, Romans 6:23, James 1:15, 2Pet 3:10-12

- Christ died when love overcame selfishness – John 3:16, 10:17,18, 1John 3:16
  The wicked die overcome by selfishness – Revelation 21:8

Do you see the amazing difference it makes to return to design law? Do you see how accepting Satan's lie about God's law, that it is imposed and justice requires inflicted punishment, takes away so much of what Christ actually accomplished at the cross, and worse, it makes God out to be the source of pain, suffering and death.

2022 4Q On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 8
The New Testament Hope

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read Memory Text:

> And this is the testimony: God has given us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He who has the Son has life; he who does not have the Son of God does not have life (1 John 5:11,12 NIV84).

What does this text mean? Does it trigger any questions in your mind?

- Why would God need to "give" us eternal life if we already have it?
- Does this text make any sense if the common belief that humans are immortal or have immortal souls was true?
    - And we have asked this before, but what would it say about God if He created humans in Eden with immortality knowing ahead of time they would sin and some humans would live for eternity is torment? Or if He failed to realize the possibility and was caught off guard?
    - There nothing about the common doctrine of natural immortality of the soul that says anything good about God.
- Does our memory verse about having eternal life only in Jesus apply to all humans or only to those who have lived since the time of Jesus?
    - Did Enoch, Elijah, and Moses receive eternal life? And did they receive it through Jesus or through some other path or means?
- Do the Jews have a pathway to heaven that bypasses Jesus?

God created one human race in Adam; Eve was taken from Adam and all other humans were born of their line.

And there is one sin condition which entered through Adam and Eve and all human beings are born infected with it (Ps 51:5). And there is only one solution for it, and that solution is Jesus Christ!

Now, why is it that if we have Jesus we have life and why is it that those who don't have Jesus don't have life?

- Is it because those who have Jesus have the proper legal documents to present to immigration control authority at the gates of the New Jerusalem?

- Is it because they have something of enough value to the Father, specifically the shed blood of His Son, that when they present this blood to the Father the Father will be influenced in some way to let us into heaven; whether that is by making a legal payment to satisfy His sense of justice, or to appease His wrath or something else?
- Is it a bargain with God we offer God the blood of His Son and in exchange He gives us eternal life?

Why does having the Son mean we have eternal life?

What does it mean to have the Son?

Can you think of any other place in the Bible where Jesus speaks of what eternal life is?

> Now a man came up to Jesus and asked, "Teacher, what good thing must I do to get eternal life?"
>
> "Why do you ask me about what is good?" Jesus replied. "There is only One who is good. If you want to enter life, obey the commandments." (Matthew 19:16–17 NIV84).

Is law-keeping the way to achieve eternal life? If we work really hard and keep the right rules does that mean we can obtain eternal life? If we keep the right commandments does that mean we have Jesus in our life?

I have heard many Adventists use texts like this one in relation to the Sabbath and elevate Sabbath keeping to a litmus test of having Jesus and being among those who have eternal life. Is Sabbath keeping a sign we have eternal life?

Did the Jews who crucified Christ go to synagogue on the wrong day of the week? Did they have the wrong Sabbath?

Why can we not achieve eternal life by law-keeping? Because law-keeping cannot cure the death-causing sin problem. This is a core issue between Satan's counterfeit religions and true Christianity. True Christianity is based upon God's design law for life. We understand God's laws are the laws upon which life and health are built by God to operate and sin breaks that design and results in ruin and death unless remedied by Jesus. However, if one substitutes human law, imposed rules that require imposed penalties, for God's law then one misunderstands God's use of law and teaches a pagan method of salvation, specifically legal payments and appeasement sacrifices to the punishing god to assuage wrath and pay for sin. Further, people focus on law keeping as a means of salvation and fail to realize the Ten Commandments were given by God not as a means of salvation, but as a diagnostic instrument to expose the sin-sickness in our hearts and lead us to Christ for healing of the sin condition.

Paul makes this very clear in several places. He describes what a great law keeper he was until he realized the tenth commandment that said thou shall not covet and realized that there is no behavior or deed he could do to keep that command. He realized the law was actually about the heart and then he realized all ten commandments are about what is happening in the heart, not a list of rules to be kept. He describes the real purpose of the written law in several places (like 1 Timothy 1:8-11), to be a diagnostic instrument to expose or sin condition and bring us to Christ for healing and the law was not given for the righteous but the wicked. Like an MRI is not designed for healthy people but for sick people to diagnose what is wrong. But the MRI doesn't heal and neither does the written law.

Paul also describes this in Romans 7, I am going to read this from the Remedy verses 4-13:

> Therefore, your selfish, fear-ridden heart died when you accepted the truth revealed by Christ's death, and you received a new heart from him who was raised from the dead, in order that you might grow in character–to be like Jesus–and live to honor God. For when we were controlled by the infection of fear and selfishness — which resulted from distrust — the destructive passions revealed by the law were ravaging our bodies, we were terminally ill and spreading death wherever we went. But now, as we die to the distrust, fear and selfishness that once bound us, the law no longer diagnoses us as infected and terminal. In fact, the law now confirms that we have a new heart–not by observing rules, but created within by the Spirit. We are now healthy and loving like Jesus.
>
> What shall we say then? Is the law evil and selfish because it increases the amount of evil and selfishness we see? Absolutely not! I would not have known what evil and selfishness looked like if it wasn't for the diagnostic efficacy of the law. I would not have realized that coveting was evil and selfish if the law didn't say, "Don't covet." But selfishness, taking advantage of the fact that the law is only a diagnostic instrument–and not a Remedy–magnified every covetous desire within me. For apart from the diagnostic ability of the law, sin is unrecognizable. Once I thought I was healthy and free from the infection of distrust, fear and selfishness, but then the commandment examined me, exposed how utterly infected I was, and diagnosed me as terminal. I discovered that the very commandment given only to diagnose my condition I had unwittingly attempted to use as a cure, and thus my condition only worsened. For selfishness, taking advantage of the fact that the commandment could only diagnose and not cure, deceived me into thinking that I could be cured by working to keep the commandments; but instead, my terminal state only worsened. So understand this: The law diagnoses perfectly, and the commandment is the standard of what is right and good, set apart by God to reveal what is evil and destructive.
> Did the law, which did good by diagnosing what was wrong with me, become the source of my terminal condition? Of course not! It only exposed what was already in me, so that I could recognize how totally decayed, putrid and near death I was, and so that through the lens of the commandment I might become utterly disgusted with evil and selfishness, and long for a cure. (Romans 7:4-13 REM)

But Jesus still connected eternal life with obeying the commandments, why? What is the basis of the Ten Commandments? Notice this exchange between Jesus and a Jewish lawyer:

> On one occasion an expert in the law stood up to test Jesus. "Teacher," he asked, "what must I do to inherit eternal life?"
>
> "What is written in the Law?" he replied. "How do you read it?"
>
> He answered: " 'Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind'; and, 'Love your neighbor as yourself.'"
>
> "You have answered correctly," Jesus replied. "Do this and you will live." (Luke 10;25-28 NIV84).

Is there a connection between loving God with our entire being and loving our neighbors as ourselves and keeping the commandments?

If you love someone—and we are talking operationally not emotionally, the love of God is not restricted to sentimental or warm feelings, God's love functions in a positive way toward the best interest of others. So when the Bible talks about loving God and others it isn't restricted to having feelings of affections, but is primarily focused on the actions and function of your life. If you love someone you won't murder them, you won't cheat on them, you won't bear false witness about them, you won't steal from them, you won't even covet anything of theirs. If you love them all their successes you celebrate and you actively seek to protect them and build them up as you are able. You speak well of them, or you remain silent if you cannot speak well of them—just like Jesus did.

So, can we love God and our neighbors by following a list of rules? What enables us to love others? The ability to genuinely live godly lives of love is to first experience God's love in our own lives. We must be renewed in heart and mind by faith/trust in God through Jesus Christ! We must individually and deeply know God for ourselves.

Thus Jesus said:

> Now this is eternal life: that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent (John 17:3 NIV84).

Knowing in the Bible is intimate knowledge of and experience with, not knowing about.

How is knowing God and Jesus related to having the Son, which means having eternal life?

Can we have the Son, which means having eternal life, if we do not know God and Jesus?

Jesus prays just a few verses later in John 17:

> My prayer is not for them alone. I pray also for those who will believe in me through their message, that all of them may be one, Father, just as you are in me and I am in you. May they also be in us so that the world may believe that you have sent me. I have given them the > glory that you gave me, that they may be one as we are one: I in them and you in me. May they be brought to complete unity to let the world know that you sent me and have loved them even as you have loved me. (John 17:20-23 NIV84).

What does it mean to be in Jesus and in the Father? Is this speaking of physical cellular occupation? No! It is speaking of in union, in unity of heart, mind, motive, values, desires, principles, practices, having the law of God written upon our hearts:

> This is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel after that time, declares the Lord. I will put my laws in their minds and write them on their hearts. I will be their God, and they will be my people. No longer will a man teach his neighbor, or a man his brother, saying, 'Know the Lord,' because they will all know me, from the least of them to the greatest (Hebrews 8:10-11 NIV84).

Is knowing the Lord connected with His law being written upon the heart? And is this connected with eternal life? Why?

This is beautifully described in the book Christ's Object Lessons:

> When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged in His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness. Then as the Lord looks upon us He sees, not the fig-leaf garment, not the nakedness and deformity of sin, but His own robe of righteousness, which is perfect obedience to the law of Jehovah. COL 311.4

This author connects our faith relationship with Jesus, with the transformation of our inner being, in which our hearts, will, mind, and thoughts are brought into unity and harmony with Jesus receiving the perfection of Christ's character and we live a life like Jesus through the indwelling Spirit. This is law keeping, loving God and others through Christ. It is not legal, it is transformational, healing, recreational, actual, real, as Paul wrote in 2Corinthians 5:21 "we become the righteousness of God."

What is another name for being united as one with God? For the work of Jesus bringing us into unity with the Father and the Son? It is called at-one-ment. And is there another Biblical relationship in which two are to become one? Marriage—and in a marriage, as God designed, do the people lose their individuality? No! But do they come into unity, oneness? And the church is described as the bride of Christ, we are to be united with God, to know Him, because we have the Son and the Son is the exact revelation of the Father to us.

And to know Him is to be one with Him in heart, mind, attitude, desires, motives, principles, methods, practices why? Because of a list of rules? No, because we love His ways, it is the only way we want to live, we experience our greatest joy, happiness, and fulfillment in living out God's living law in how we treat others.

Death is caused by just the opposite, by not knowing the Lord:

> Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil (Hebrews 2:14 NIV84).

Satan has the power of death and what is that power? His lies about God that we believe that keep us from knowing God (John 8:44).

Remember, lies believed break the circle of love and trust.

Believing lies about God does NOT necessarily mean people stop believing in God.

Consider this for a moment: If we had a time machine and could travel back to crucifixion Friday and stand beside those who were mocking Jesus as He hung on the cross, and if we asked them the following questions, what do you think their answers would be?

- Do you believe in God? –absolutely we are so committed to God that we seek to root out heresy and this man is a heretic
- Do you believe in the Bible? –of course, this man refused to follow what the Bible teaches, He wouldn't stone a woman caught in adultery
- Do you believe in the Sabbath? -absolutely and this man wouldn't correct his disciples from harvesting grain on Sabbath
- Do you believe in the sanctuary and its role in God's plan to save sinners? -of course, and this man threatened to destroy the temple and we cannot allow for anyone to threaten us in that way

Go down the list, what was the problem in the belief system of the Jews who insisted that Christ must die?

It was not any specific doctrinal point—it was that they did not know God. Every single doctrine they held was processed through the lens of imposed law with a god who is an imperial dictator and who is the source of inflicted punishment upon rule-breakers, a god who must be appeased with sacrifice, or works, or offerings, and thus, via the design law of worship, they became like that abusive and unjust god. They held a fraudulent trial, bribed witnesses, intimidated the Roman governor and killed the Son of God and then demanded He be taken off the cross before sunset to keep the Sabbath of the God they just killed. They did this so they could keep the right rules and thereby feel good about themselves, proving to themselves by their law-keeping that they are righteous and good and in good standing with God. After all, they were fastidiously keeping the Sabbath.

Understand, Satan's lies are not restricted to those who do not believe in God or are outside people called by God. Satan's lies have deeply infect Christianity because Christianity holds the truth and where God is revealing is truth is where Satan works most aggressively to oppose it.

We have the exact same problem the Jews had 2000 years ago, Satan has infected Christianity with the lie that God's law functions like human law, and therefore God is the source of pain, suffering, defects, deformity, and death and that God needs something done to Him in order for God to forgive, to be merciful, and to save. This is paganism, this is Satan's lie, and it is how Satan sets himself up in God's temple proclaiming himself to be God (2 Thessalonians 2:4).

Read second paragraph:

> Thus, for Christ and the apostles, the Christian hope was not a new hope but, rather, the unfolding of the ancient hope already nurtured by the patriarchs and prophets. For example, Christ mentioned that Abraham foresaw and rejoiced to see His day (John 8:56). Jude stated that Enoch prophesied about the Second Coming (Jude 14, 15). And the book of Hebrews speaks of the heroes of faith as having expected a heavenly reward that they would not receive until we receive ours (Heb. 11:39, 40). This statement would be meaningless if their souls were already with the Lord in heaven.

Yes, the same hope for salvation that we have in Jesus, is the hope that all humans have had throughout human history.

But what do you think of the about the argument that "the book of Hebrews speaks of the heroes of faith as having expected a heavenly reward that they would not receive until we receive ours (Heb. 11:39, 40)." If they stopped there I would agree completely with this statement. But then then added this "This statement would be meaningless if their souls were already with the Lord in heaven"?

Hebrews 11:39 states: "These were all commended for their faith, yet none of them received what had been promised" (Hebrews 11:39 NIV84).

Of these faithful folk, the Bible says "none of them" received what had been promised—and who was included in the list? Enoch—who is in heaven—has not received what has been promised, but didn't Enoch receive eternal life? Yes, so the fact Enoch, who is in heaven, is on the list of heroes in Hebrews undermines the last point in the lesson, that the statement would be meaningless if their souls were already in heaven. So the promise not yet received must be talking about something more than eternal life, what?

> They did not receive the things promised; they only saw them and welcomed them from a distance. And they admitted that they were aliens and strangers on earth. People who say such things show that they are looking for a country of their own. If they had been thinking of the country they had left, they would have had opportunity to return. Instead, they were longing for a better country—a heavenly one. (Hebrews 11:13–16 NIV84).

What is the promise of God? That the meek shall live forever in heaven? No, that the meek will inherit the Earth (Matthew 5:5). Jesus prayed for God's will to be done on Earth as it is in heaven (Matthew 6:10). God has promised to not only deliver us from sin, but to cleanse and renew the Earth from sin and make Earth our home by bringing God's government and kingdom to Earth. Then we can live on a sin-free Earth, a home without sickness, pain, suffering, exploitation, crime—a place where everyone loves each other truly and freely, a better land than what we have now. This is what the heroes were longing for and what has not yet been received.

The more we become like Jesus on this Earth, the more this Earth torments the soul, the less true peace we have in this wicked and evil place. Yes, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, but we do not have peace in this world. Remember what the Bible says about Lot:

> Lot, a righteous man, who was distressed by the filthy lives of lawless men (for that righteous man, living among them day after day, was tormented in his righteous soul by the lawless deeds he saw and heard)— (2 Peter 2:7-9 NIV 84).

MONDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on the promise of Jesus that He will come again.

Do you believe this? What would give you cause to believe that Jesus is coming soon, even within our lifetime?

Can you list any signs of Jesus soon return?

- Fulfillment of various Bible prophecies—such as the 1260 years ending in 1798 which places us in the "last days." But that has been over 200 years ago, why would we think Christ's return could be soon rather than 200 years into the future?
- Wars and rumors of wars have been going on for 2000 years
- Pestilences—certainly we have seen those, but they also have been going on for 2000 years
- What about "Because of the increase of wickedness, the love of most will grow cold" (Matthew 24:12)? Do we see ever increasing selfishness and a lack of human decency and love for each other?
- The persecution of the righteous? But throughout all human history the wicked have always persecuted the righteous, what is different about now?
    - In every previous era, when the righteous have been persecuted there was always someplace on Earth the righteous could flee and establish a new society of liberty. The USA was established just for that reason. But when the USA betrays its founding and Constitutional principles of civil and religious liberty, then there will be no place left on earth for the righteous to flee and a worldwide system of abuse will soon follow, and Jesus will come shortly thereafter.
    - Did we see evidence during COVID that such a system of abuse and coercion of conscience could be set up and implemented in very short order?

But this is all in place, the systems of human governments are capable of doing this now, so why the delay? Because God is not waiting for the wicked to become more wicked, God is waiting for all those who can be saved to become righteous!

As Peter wrote:

> But do not forget this one thing, dear friends: With the Lord a day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years are like a day. The Lord is not slow in keeping his promise, as some understand slowness. He is patient with you, not wanting anyone to perish, but everyone to come to repentance. (2 Peter 3:8–9 NIV84).

What is Jesus waiting for? For us to be ready, which means He is in heaven, working with all the agencies at His disposal, to cleanse His temple, His people, to prepare us to be able to stand in His presence.

The lesson asks us to read John 14:1-3 do you see a connection between this passage, the work of Jesus and the delay:

> "Let not your heart be troubled; you believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you to Myself; that where I am, there you may be also" (Jn 14:1–3 NKJV).

What does it mean?

Modern Bible translations don't use the word "mansions" because the Greek word translated mansions in the King James simply means "dwelling place" and in the 17th century when the King James was written the word "mansion" didn't mean a pretentious posh ornate home, but a simple dwelling place. So most modern translations say "rooms" or "dwelling places."

> From the SDA Bible Commentary: monai (singular monē) literally, "abiding places"… Our English word "mansion" is from the Latin mansio, in meaning almost equivalent to the Gr. monē. Mansio, as does monē, means "a remaining place," "a place of abode." The idea of a building of some size or pretentiousness does not attach to the Latin, nor, of course, to the Greek. That idea was a later development of the English word and the meaning should not be introduced into the present verse. Either "mansion" should be understood in its archaic sense of "a dwelling place," or "abode," or one of these meanings should be substituted in a translation of the verse. The fact that there are "many" dwelling places makes certain of sufficient room in the Father's house for all who heed the Father's invitation. (The Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary Vol. 5, p. 1034).

So when Jesus said "In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you…" He wasn't saying that He went to heaven and started a massive construction project to build houses for us, but that in His Father house is room for everyone.

How long would it take the Creator God who speaks galaxies into existence to build some buildings?

Does the Bible use the language of "God's house," or what Jesus said, "My Father's house" anywhere else?

> "Surely goodness and love will follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the LORD forever" (Psalm 23:6 NIV84).

Jesus, who spoke the words in John 14 promising to come again, also spoke the words in Revelation to the seven churches which says the following:

> "I am coming soon. Hold on to what you have, so that no one will take your crown. Him who overcomes I will make a pillar in the temple of my God. Never again will he leave it. I will write on him the name of my God and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which is coming down out of heaven from my God; and I will also write on him my new name" (Revelation 3:11–12 NIV84).

What does this mean? Twice Jesus has connected His soon return with preparing the house of the Lord, the temple of the Lord, and in Revelation we are being prepared as pillars to be part of that house and we will never leave it. Why will we never leave the heavenly temple? It is not because the heavenly temple is an inanimate building made of gold and silver bricks and we are not chained to a pillar like Samson in that pagan temple; we will not be locked away in some physical geographic location and imprisoned in some building for all eternity. No, the reason we will never leave the heavenly temple is because the temple of God is built out of living beings and we will never leave it because we will never choose to sin and thereby remove ourselves from our love and loyalty to God. We will be pillars in God's house!

But what must God do to prepare for this day when we live in God's house? Must God do something in heaven to get heaven ready for us or must God do something in us to get us ready for heaven?

Peter wrote:

> As you come to him, the living Stone—rejected by men but chosen by God and precious to him—you also, like living stones, are being built into a spiritual house to be a holy priesthood, offering spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ (1 Peter 2:4–5 NIV84).

So what would Jesus need to do before coming again? Would He not need to apply to the hearts, minds, characters of all who trust Him His perfection, cleansing the Spirit Temples from sin and preparing His bride to meet Him face to face? Wouldn't He need to polish us, hone us, remove from us all defects of character, all fear of Him, all distrust of Him? And couldn't this be described as cleansing the sanctuary, or going to heaven to prepare a place for them?

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses upon Jesus identifying Himself as the bread which came down from heaven.

What does this mean to you? How is Jesus the bread that came down from heaven?

When Jesus said,

> I am the living bread that came down from heaven. If anyone eats of this bread, he will live forever. This bread is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world."
> Then the Jews began to argue sharply among themselves, "How can this man give us his flesh to eat?"
> Jesus said to them, "I tell you the truth, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day. 55 For my flesh is real food and my blood is real drink. Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood remains in me, and I in him. (John 6:51–56 NIV84).

What did He mean?

When we think of Bible metaphors and symbols, do we interpret them to their true meaning?

- Is there power in the blood of Jesus?
- What power is in the blood of Jesus?
- If we had some red corpuscles shed by Jesus when He was crucified 2000 years ago, somehow saved in a sealed jar, would those red blood cells have some power? Would they cleanse from sin? Would they pay our debt? Would the Father in heaven be happy to see the blood?
- Or is the power in the one who shed His blood, and the power to impact us in the power of the truth of what was accomplished by Jesus when He shed His blood. The truth destroys lies and sets us free and in trust we open the heart and receive the life of Christ, which is in the blood.

Thus the flesh and blood symbols got replaced by Jesus with the bread and wine symbols. Jesus said the bread represented His body, His flesh, and the wine represented His blood. When we partake of this at a communion service are we taking in literal human flesh and blood? Is it being transformed as we swallow into human flesh? Or are these symbols of something else? What?

When we eat food it is broken down into molecules that become building blocks to our literal body. Jesus is the Word made flesh, to partake the flesh of Jesus means to partake of the Word, to partake of the truth. And the truth becomes building blocks of our beliefs, concepts, schemas, and displaces the lies and our minds are won from fear and distrust of God to trust in God, and then in trust we open the heart to Jesus and He pours in His Spirit of love and we partake of the life of Christ, the life is in the blood. We get a new heart and right spirit, it is no longer we that live but Christ lives in us. Thus, partaking of Christ is to partake of the truth about God He revealed and the character of Christ that He developed for us.

The lesson points out that without Jesus we do not have eternal life, but does that mean if one claims salvation by Jesus and identifies themselves publicly as a Christian, and does good works in the name of Jesus they are saved? If so, what did Jesus mean by:

> "Watch out for false prophets. [A prophet is not merely a person who gives prophecies of the future, the vast majority didn't. The prophets were God's spokespeople, whose who came to the people with a message from God. Jesus is saying, watch out for those claiming to be my messenger, claiming to be telling you heavenly truths, but in fact are not, they are false spokespersons.] They come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ferocious wolves. By their fruit you will recognize them. [What fruits? Fruits of character—the methods people employ in how they treat others? Are they legalistic, rules oriented, do they present God in a light different that Jesus? Do they practice the methods of God in how they treat others, or would they use the power of their position to coerce consciences under the guise of needing to save lives?] Do people pick grapes from thornbushes, or figs from thistles? Likewise every good tree bears good fruit, but a bad tree bears bad fruit. [You cannot receive Christlike character by worshiping a god that is like Satan in character, even if you call that false god Jesus.] A good tree cannot bear bad fruit, and a bad tree cannot bear good fruit. Every tree that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. Thus, by their fruit you will recognize them. "Not everyone who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only he who does the will of my Father who is in heaven. [Claiming allegiance to Jesus in some legalistic, payment way is not sufficient for salvation, but living out the will of God like Jesus did, being transformed to be like Jesus in character is a requirement—why? Because it is the basis of life, the living law of God written into the heart by the Spirit of God.] Many will say to me on that day, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and in your name drive out demons and perform many miracles?' Then I will tell them plainly, 'I never knew you. Away from me, you evildoers!' (Matthew 7:15-23 NIV84). [In whose name were they doing this? Not Buddha or Muhammed but in the name of Jesus. These people would identify themselves as Christians, but Jesus tells them they are evildoers and He never knew them. What is life eternal? Knowing God, why are these people who are doing good works in the name of Jesus described as being evil? If they don't know Jesus, what are they doing in His name? Misrepresenting Him, doing good works, with the wrong methods and teaching falsehoods, which corrupts their characters and produces bad fruit.

WEDNESDAY

Read the second and third paragraph:

> There is a historical tendency to read into the expression, "bring with Him those who sleep in Jesus" (1 Thess. 4:14, NKJV) more than the text is saying. Many who accept the theory of the natural immortality of the soul suggest that Christ, at His second coming, will bring with Him from heaven the souls of the righteous dead who are already in heaven with God. Those souls thus can be reunited with their respective resurrected bodies. But such an interpretation is not in harmony with the overall teachings of Paul on the subject.

Read the words of this non-Adventist theologian on the real meaning of this verse: "The reason why the Thessalonian Christians can have hope as they grieve for the dead members of their church is that God 'will bring' them, that is, he will resurrect these deceased believers and cause them to be present at Christ's return, such that they will be 'with him.' The implication is that these deceased believers will not be at some kind of disadvantage at the parousia of Christ but will be 'with him' in such a way that they share equally with living believers in the glory associated with his return." — Jeffrey A. D. Weima, 1-2 Thessalonians, Baker Exegetical Commentary on the New Testament (Grand Rapids, MI: Baker Academic, 2014), p. 319.

- The place of the soul and its condition:
    - The common view is the soul is in heaven in consciousness awaiting the reunion with a new body
    - The SDA view is the soul is either in the grave or nowhere waiting for the resurrection (real problems with the SDA view if they think literally, where is the soul of those who died in Hiroshima and Nagasaki that were vaporized, or people who were eaten by sharks at sea etc. etc.)
    - The truth is what we have described with the computer metaphor and which the Bible beautifully describes in this passage. A living functioning human being requires three parts, body, soul, spirit, like a computer requires hardware, software, energy. And when the body dies, the software/soul goes into a state of sleep, just like a computer that runs out of power. And just like a computer can have its data backed up on a cloud, so too, our individualities, souls are stored on the heavenly servers, the Lamb's book of life waiting for download into new bodies at the second coming, but they are in a state of sleep. Just as the Bible describes.

If you read Friday's lesson they quote EGW from Acts of the Apostles:

> "'Even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him' [1 Thess. 4:14], Paul wrote. Many interpret this passage to mean that the sleeping ones will be brought with Christ from heaven; but Paul meant that as Christ was raised from the dead, so God will call the sleeping saints from their graves and take them with Him to heaven. Precious consolation! glorious hope! not only to the church of Thessalonica, but to all Christians wherever they may be." — Ellen G. White, The Acts of the Apostles, p. 259.

How do you understand her statement? Is it in conflict with our position?

Does the Bible take a position on human beings being tripartite, having bodies, souls, and spirits? When the body is destroyed where is the soul, the individuality, the psyche? If we say that the individuality, the memories, mindset, beliefs, attitudes, experiences that make a person a unique individual are retained in the memory of our infinite God, then where are they being kept? Where is God? The Bible actually describes the storage place as separate from God's own memory and uses the language of Lamb's book of life where the "names" are written, and in the Bible names represent character. EGW herself wrote in other places:

> Remember, your character is being daguerreotyped [photographed] by the great Master Artist in the record books of heaven, as minutely as the face is reproduced upon the polished plate of the artist. What do the books of heaven say in your case? Are you conforming your character to the Pattern, Jesus Christ?. . . {TSB 62.1}
> Remember that this world is God's daguerreotype office. The pictures of all who live here, old or young, are being made in the books of heaven. What shall the likeness be?—Letter 78, 1901. 3MR 352.3

So is our explanation about souls being asleep and safe upon the heavenly servers and brought with Jesus upon His return wrong? I don't think so. EGW was writing with the understanding she and her audience had regarding these things at the time, emphasizing the salient and critical point of human beings are mortal and in first death they are not aware but in a state of sleep.

THURSDAY

The lesson focuses on the second coming, will it be a secret rapture or will it be the full second coming with every eye seeing Him?

I have my belief about this, but I don't really get concerned about it because it doesn't really matter much as it will become self-evident when Jesus comes. What does matter however, is whether we are restored to genuine friends of Jesus who lie and practice the methods of God in how we treat others.

2022 Q4 On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 9
Contrary Passages?

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read the first paragraph:

> Peter warns us: "always be ready to give a defense to everyone who asks you a reason for the hope that is in you" (1 Pet. 3:15, NKJV). Paul adds, "Preach the word! Be ready in season and out of season. Convince, rebuke, exhort, with all longsuffering and teaching. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine" (2 Tim. 4:2, 3, NKJV). This being the case, we should look not only at those passages that easily can be explained to fit our beliefs, but we should also deal with passages that are commonly used to teach something different from what we believe. (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 72)

- If two people understand the Bible differently on various doctrines, does that mean one of them is not right with God?
- How is it that good hearted people can read the same passage of Scripture yet come to completely different understandings of what it means?
- When Jesus returns will any of the saved correctly know every single detail of Scripture?
- What is the primary purpose of the doctrines we hold—the most important reason we have doctrines?

The primary purpose of each doctrine is to reveal the truth about God. Every doctrine is to be directly connected to our understanding about God, what does this doctrine reveal to us about God, His kingdom, His methods, His design laws for life. They should be like spokes on a wheel, every single one of them connected to God and leading to greater intimacy with God.

But sadly, all too often, our doctrines become stand-alone litmus tests of orthodoxy that we prove with a series of Bible texts and then apply our interpretation to behavior and use this to test the faithfulness of others all of which turns the focus away from God onto self; and worse, such an approach mispresents God as punishing and vengeful. This is exactly how the Jews in Christ's day approached Bible study, not as a book designed to reveal the truth about God, but as a code book that listed certain laws or truths that were to be obeyed in order to have salvation.

Read our memory text:

> You diligently study the Scriptures because you think that by them you possess eternal life. These are the Scriptures that testify about me, yet you refuse to come to me to have life. (John 5:39–40 NIV84).

Notice, the Jews were searching Scripture for the keys to eternal life, approaching it as a code book of deeds to be done and sins to be shunned, but they failed to realize that Scripture is designed to lead us back to a knowledge of God.

Remember life eternal is knowing God. That if we have the Son we have life, life is not found in having the right list of doctrinal beliefs.

If we have the correct doctrine, teaching about some subject, say method of baptism, or Sabbath day, but that doctrine is not connected to the truth about God then that doctrine can be used to mislead and obstruct the plan of salvation.

Jesus said:

> Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You travel over land and sea to win a single convert, and when he becomes one, you make him twice as much a son of hell as you are (Matthew 23:15 NIV84).

Did these Jewish lawyers and theologians that Jesus was speaking to have the wrong Sabbath day, eat the wrong foods, have the wrong religious festivals, the wrong tithe percentage, the wrong sanctuary? What did they have wrong? They failed to connect the doctrines to the truth about God and instead set the doctrines into the setting of human governments and human laws, imposed rules requiring legal accounting and management, and behavioral monitoring.

So as we look at these contrary passages, we need to keep in mind that our Christian friends in other traditions may very well interpret some of these passages differently than us, and we may be quite correct in disagreeing with their interpretation, but that doesn't mean they don't know God or that we do. Our love and knowledge of God is unfolding, and they, like us, may hold beliefs that have never been fully examined and traced through the entire record of Scripture and linked back to God—asking what does the belief say about God? And this is the most important question on all of these passages: What do the various interpretations say about God?

SUNDAY

Read Luke 16:19-31:

> "There was a rich man who was dressed in purple and fine linen and lived in luxury every day. At his gate was laid a beggar named Lazarus, covered with sores and longing to eat what fell from the rich man's table. Even the dogs came and licked his sores.
>
> "The time came when the beggar died and the angels carried him to Abraham's side. The rich man also died and was buried. In hell, where he was in torment, he looked up and saw Abraham far away, with Lazarus by his side. So he called to him, 'Father Abraham, have pity on me and send Lazarus to dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue, because I am in agony in this fire.'

"But Abraham replied, 'Son, remember that in your lifetime you received your good things, while Lazarus received bad things, but now he is comforted here and you are in agony. And besides all this, between us and you a great chasm has been fixed, so that those who want to go from here to you cannot, nor can anyone cross over from there to us.'

"He answered, 'Then I beg you, father, send Lazarus to my father's house, for I have five brothers. Let him warn them, so that they will not also come to this place of torment.'

"Abraham replied, 'They have Moses and the Prophets; let them listen to them.'

" 'No, father Abraham,' he said, 'but if someone from the dead goes to them, they will repent.'

"He said to him, 'If they do not listen to Moses and the Prophets, they will not be convinced even if someone rises from the dead.' " (Luke 16:19-31 NIV84).

Is this a literal story or is this a parable?

Why would people believe this is a literal story rather than a parable?

- Preconceived ideas—if one already believes that souls go to heaven in some conscious way, then this story seems to describe that process, so it doesn't trigger cognitive dissonance, it doesn't make one pause and question, it is read literally because it seems to fit an underlying belief.
- But what are the reasons that indicate this is not a literal description of reality and supports the idea that this is a metaphor or parable?
    - This is describing disembodied souls or spirits, yet the rich man asks that Lazarus dip his "finger" in water to cool his "tongue" both of these are body parts. Spirits don't have fingers and tongues.
    - If this describes reality in which the dead are conscious, then those in heaven and hell can see and communicate with each other. And if that is how heaven functions, what would the experience be like for the various saved who have loved ones crying out to them from the torments of hell for all eternity? Would King David be filled with joy and peace and without any grief or tears if for all eternity he sees and hears his son Absalom crying out to him from the torments of hell?
    - What would it say about the saved if we could be in heaven and watch any living being, animal, human, or angel, being tormented and crying out in pain and look upon that and feel satisfied, feel good, feel "yes, that is right, glad to see it"?
    - And if this is literally the way things are in God's universe, that some are tormented in the fires of hell for all eternity and the righteous, for all eternity, watch and hear their screams of pain what kind of place is that for the righteous? Would you be happy there?

Wouldn't such an experience destroy tenderness of heart, cause either demoralization or hardness and callousness of heart?

- And what kind of God would God be if He created a universe in which people are born into a world they did not choose, born into sinfulness that they did not choose, and experience child abuse they did not choose, and are murdered before they ever accept Jesus as their Savior and God sends them to hell to be tormented for all eternity—a short life in sin with no opportunity for salvation followed by eternal torment. What kind of being would God be if this were true?
- So, does taking this story literally say anything good about God?

What did Jesus tell this story? What truths was He trying to get across? I think there were several truths Jesus wanted to convey to the people of that day and, as I list them, consider if these were falsehoods that the Jews struggled with that this story exposed and truths we need to remember today:

- Health and wealth are not good indicators of salvation, righteousness, or standing with God
- Poverty and sickness are not good indicators of who is out of favor with God or cursed of God
- There is a chasm that separates the righteous from the unrighteous and when it becomes fixed it cannot be crossed—and that chasm is the chasm between love and selfishness. Once a person has become fixed in heart and mind into either camp they cannot cross over to the other side.
- There will be a day of recognizing, a day when all parties will realize the difference between the two camps, and the lost will be terribly dissatisfied.
- God reveals Himself to us via Scripture, nature, revelation and if we will not believe the evidence God provides through His divine agencies during this lifetime, we will not be changed even if we have the testimony of someone returning from the dead, which the Jews proved true when Jesus raised a man named Lazarus from the dead and they still would not believe.

So this is how I paraphrased it, see what you think?

> "You know the circulating story of a wealthy man dressed in fine clothes and who lived in luxury every day. At the entrance to his estate was a beggar named Lazarus, who was sick and covered in sores. He would have been happy with the scraps from the rich man's table. He was so badly off, the dogs licked his sores.
>
> "As the story goes, when the beggar died, angels transported him to heaven and sat him next to Abraham, but when the rich man died, he was buried in the ground. The rich man looked up while being tormented in hell, spotted Abraham millions of light years away, and noted Lazarus beside him. So he cries out, his voice carrying over the expanse of the universe, 'Oh Father Abraham! Take pity on me and send Lazarus to dip his finger in water and cool my tongue because I am in agony in this fire.'
>
> "But, as the story goes, Abraham replied, 'Son, don't you remember all the wealth and health you had during your lifetime while Lazarus suffered in poverty and sickness, but now he is rejoicing here and you are in agony. Besides, the kingdom of love and the kingdom of selfishness are separated by such a chasm that those fixed in one cannot cross over to the other.'

"He answered, 'Then please, Father, send Lazarus to my family, for I have five brothers who need to know. Have him warn them so they won't end up fixed in selfishness and suffer in torment.'

"Abraham replied, 'They have the Scriptures — it contains all they need to know.'

" 'No, Father Abraham,' he pleaded, 'they need more than the Scriptures. If someone from the dead goes to them, they would turn away from selfishness, partake of the Remedy, and be renewed in love.'

"Abraham said to him, 'If they don't value the Scriptures and won't listen to the instructions God has provided therein, they will not be convinced even if someone returns from the dead.' " (Luke 16:19-31 REM).

MONDAY

Read first paragraph,

> One of the Bible passages most widely used to try to prove the immortality of the soul is Luke 23:43 — "He replied, 'Truly I tell you, today you will be with me in Paradise'" (NRSV). Almost all Bible versions (with few exceptions) translate this text in a similar way, giving the impression that on the very day Christ died, Christ and the thief would be together in Paradise. This should not surprise us because those translations were made by biblical scholars who believe in the dogma of the natural immortality of the soul. But is this the best translation of the text? (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 74)

The lesson makes a great admission, that Bible translators bring in their biases, preconceived ideas, and beliefs into the translation and will introduce those biases as they translate. This is one place that demonstrates this process—where the translators choose to place the comma. But the bigger distortion to Bible translation is the bias that translators bring about God's law, the idea that God's law functions like human law, imposed rules that require God to inflict punishment and thus God is represented as the source of death. When the translators hold this assumption then they translate this legal distortion into the text. This legal distortion is introduced honestly, with great integrity, without malice or deceit because in many places it is linguistically permissible. Such as translating the Greek δικαιόω [dikaioo /dik·ah·yo·o/ in various places like Romans 3:24 as justice, justify, justification, justified, rather than righteous, righteousness, or set right and put right.

This one Greek word can legitimately be translated either way and the translators decide based on their own understanding, their own biases. If they view God's law like human law, they will often translate in ways that introduce the legal sounding language. But if they understand that salvation is about relationship to God, knowing and loving God, then they interpret more often as righteous and righteousness.

The Remedy paraphrase is purposely written to interpret through the lens of design law not imposed law.

Back to our verse for today: Jesus answered him, "I tell you the truth, today you will be with me in paradise." (Luke 23:43 NIV84).

This is a straightforward verse to figure out. The question in this translation is where to place the comma, before or after the word "today"?

- Punctuation is not in the original Greek but is supplied by the translators, meaning the comma is not inspired by God.
- Moving the comma, one word over, changes the meaning from going to heaven on that day, to being promised on that day that he would go to heaven. "I tell you the truth today, you will be with me in paradise."

Both options are permissible grammatically, so which is it? We need other evidence from Scripture and the Scripture provides it:

John 20:17, Jesus speaking to Mary:

> Jesus said, "Do not hold on to me, for I have not yet returned to the Father. (John 20:17 NIV84).

If Jesus hadn't returned to the Father by Sunday morning, that means He and the thief were not in paradise on Friday, so the comma should be placed to emphasize the promise given that day.

TUESDAY

Read Philippians 1:21-24:

> For to me, to live is Christ and to die is gain. If I am to go on living in the body, this will mean fruitful labor for me. Yet what shall I choose? I do not know! I am torn between the two: I desire to depart and be with Christ, which is better by far; but it is more necessary for you that I remain in the body. (Philippians 1:21-24 NIV84).

What does this mean? How do you explain it?

Do our biases and preconceived ideas impact how we read it?

If Paul meant that some part of him would go to heaven in conscious form and be with Jesus, would that idea contradict anything Paul wrote elsewhere? Paul describes very clearly when we will be alive and conscious in the Lord's presence:

> Brothers, we do not want you to be ignorant about those who fall asleep, or to grieve like the rest of men, who have no hope. We believe that Jesus died and rose again and so we believe that God will bring with Jesus those who have fallen asleep in him. According to the Lord's own word, we tell you that we who are still alive, who are left till the coming of the Lord, will certainly not precede those who have fallen asleep. For the Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever. Therefore encourage each other with these words. (1 Thessalonians 4:13–18NIV84).

Paul is saying here that we meet the Lord together, that those who are alive will not precede those who have fallen asleep. Those with the Lord are in a state of sleep and not conscious, but are being brought back with Jesus to become alive again.

How do we reconcile this text with the Philippians text?

A living functioning human being requires three parts, body, soul, and spirit, like a computer requires hardware, software, and energy. And when the body dies, it returns to dust/dirt, the spirit—life energy—returns to God from whom all life originates, and the software/soul goes into a state of sleep, just like a computer that runs out of power. And just like a computer can have its data backed up on a cloud, so too, our individualities, souls are stored on the heavenly servers, the Lamb's book of life, waiting for download into new bodies at the second coming, but they are in a state of sleep. Just as the Bible describes.

But what about 2 Corinthians 5, which seems to suggest when we die we do go to the Lord:

> Now we know that if the earthly tent we live in is destroyed, we have a building from God, an eternal house in heaven, not built by human hands. Meanwhile we groan, longing to be clothed with our heavenly dwelling, because when we are clothed, we will not be found naked. For while we are in this tent, we groan and are burdened, because we do not wish to be unclothed but to be clothed with our heavenly dwelling, so that what is mortal may be swallowed up by life. Now it is God who has made us for this very purpose and has given us the Spirit as a deposit, guaranteeing what is to come.
> Therefore we are always confident and know that as long as we are at home in the body we are away from the Lord. We live by faith, not by sight. We are confident, I say, and would prefer to be away from the body and at home with the Lord. So we make it our goal to please him, whether we are at home in the body or away from it. For we must all appear before the > judgment seat of Christ, that each one may receive what is due him for the things done while in the body, whether good or bad. (2 Corinthians 5:1-10 NIV84).

How do you explain this?

What would it say about God if we interpret this to mean disembodied spirits in a state of consciousness going to be in the Lord's presence at death? Is the emphasis about disembodied spirits, or is Paul actually talking about new bodies, heavenly bodies that we will live in?

From The Remedy:

> Now, we know that this earthly body is like a tent or hospital gown that wears out easily and leaves us exposed. And if this earthly body–which our individuality currently occupies–is destroyed, we have an eternal body that will never wear out; a heavenly dwelling place for our individuality, but not built by human hands. Meanwhile, the older we get, the more we groan, longing to be free of this deteriorating body and to be clothed in our perfect heavenly body, because when we have exchanged this mortal body for our heavenly one, we will not be found sick, dying, and exposed. For while we are in this collapsing tent, we groan with the burden of aging and slow decay. We don't want to die to be rid of this worn-out body, but we want to be translated directly into our heavenly body so that what is mortal may be swallowed up by eternal life. God's intention for us has never changed: He created us to live eternally and — as the first phase of our restoration — has given us the Spirit to heal our minds, guaranteeing our future complete re-creation.
>
> We certainly know that as long as this frail body is our home, we remain away from the Lord; but we live by trusting God with how things will turn out — not by waiting to see the future restoration. Therefore we are confident while in the mortal body, even though we prefer to be translated into our heavenly body and be at home with the Lord. Our goal is to be pleasing to him by living in harmony with his design for life — whether we are in this mortal body or our heavenly one — for we will all appear in Christ's examining room so that each one may be accurately diagnosed and receive what their condition warrants, whether from compliance or non-compliance with God's treatment plan.

WEDNESDAY

Read 1 Peter 3:13-20:

> Who is going to harm you if you are eager to do good? But even if you should suffer for what is right, you are blessed. "Do not fear what they fear; do not be frightened." But in your hearts set apart Christ as Lord. Always be prepared to give an answer to everyone who asks you to give the reason for the hope that you have. But do this with gentleness and respect, keeping a clear conscience, so that those who speak maliciously against your good behavior in Christ may be ashamed of their slander. It is better, if it is God's will, to suffer for doing good than > for doing evil. For Christ died for sins once for all, the righteous for the unrighteous, to bring you to God. He was put to death in the body but made alive by the Spirit, through whom also he went and preached to the spirits in prison who disobeyed long ago when God waited patiently in the days of Noah while the ark was being built. In it only a few people, eight in all, were saved through water… (1 Peter 3:13-20 NIV84).

How do you explain this?

Why do we not take this to mean Jesus went to some place in an alternate reality where living souls are being tormented and preached to them for three days?

- It contradicts the Bible teaching on the mortality of the soul
- It contradicts the Bible teaching that sin causes death and replaces it with the idea that God causes eternal torment
- It contradicts the idea of the first death is a sleep
- It contradicts the idea that salvation must occur during this life and suggests that some souls could be saved after this life is over—this opens up the possibility for false doctrines like purgatory
- And if taken literally, what about all the other souls who died without the knowledge Christ after the Flood, didn't Christ care enough about them to preach to them also?
- And what would this say about God if a place of conscious torment really existed?

Then what does the text mean? Who are spirits in prison that are being referred to and how did Christ preach to them?

The Bible says "Are not all angels ministering spirits sent to serve those who will inherit salvation" (Hebrews 1:14 NIV84).

Do angels have bodies or are they disembodied spirits? So the term spirit can mean many things, including the intelligent being, as in this case.

Did Jesus come to set captives free? Free from what? Does the Bible describe that those without Christ are slaves to sin? So this is describing the reality that all sinners are captives of sin and death and only in Christ are we set free from sin and death. And every human since Adam was born enslaved by sin with a terminal sin-condition; then how did Christ preach to those before the Flood?

Notice the text says that Christ preached to those people who died in the Flood through His Spirit. The Holy Spirit is Christ's representative and agency on Earth through whom Christ brings truth to bear upon every human heart and mind throughout all human history. And the Holy Spirit was active prior to the Flood when Noah was preaching bringing the truth to bear upon their minds, just like He has been active through all human history. Remember David prayed in Psalm 51, "take not your Holy Spirit from me" and in Genesis one the Spirit hovered over the face of the deep. God's Holy Spirit has always been active.

So from The Remedy:

> Don't you see that if you are genuinely committed to God and eagerly practice his methods of love, you cannot be stopped? Even if you are attacked or persecuted for doing what is right, by forgiving and loving others you reveal God's true character and simultaneously are advancing to be more like him. So "do not fear for this mortal life as the world fears; and don't be frightened for a minute," but make Christ the center of your heart, mind and character. Always be prepared to talk about God's character of love, as revealed in Jesus, to anyone who asks why you are hopeful in the face of persecution, trial, and difficulty. But be sure to do it with gentleness, kindness and respect, with a pure heart and clear conscience, so that those who lie, gossip, and spread rumors about your ministry for Christ may be ashamed of their malicious ways. It is better, if God permits, to be persecuted for doing good than to suffer the results of doing evil, for that is exactly what Christ did. He suffered terribly and died once in order to cure sinfulness–to provide a Remedy for all humanity and restore us to unity with God. In Christ, love vanquished selfishness, and righteousness overcame unrighteousness. He allowed the sin-sick to kill him, and in giving himself freely, he triumphed over the infection of selfishness and fear, and was renewed to life by the Spirit of love and truth. It was through this same Spirit of love and truth that he preached to all humans, who were held in the bondage of sin. Yes, it was Christ, working through the Spirit, who preached to those bound by sin in Noah's day. He was so patient with them, working constantly to reach them as Noah built the ark, yet only eight people responded and had a new life on the other side of that great flood. (1 Peter 3:13-20 REM).

THURSDAY

Read Revelation 6:9-11:

> When he opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of those who had been slain because of the word of God and the testimony they had maintained. They called out in a loud voice, "How long, Sovereign Lord, holy and true, until you judge the inhabitants of the earth and avenge our blood?" Then each of them was given a white robe, and they were told to wait a little longer, until the number of their fellow servants and brothers who were to be killed as they had been was completed. (Revelation 6:9-11 NIV84).

How do you address this text?

First—this is symbolic not literal! It is important to remember when reading Revelation almost everything is presented in symbolic language. When we read about a rider on a white horse with a sword coming out of his mouth—we are not to take that literal. When we read about lamb slain, we are not to take it literal, the lamb represents Jesus.

We must move away from the symbolism to what the symbols represent.

How would you explain this?

First option is to decide what altar is being referred to, is it the golden altar in the Holy Place, or the brazen altar in the courtyard?

Read the first paragraph,

> The opening of the fifth Apocalyptic seal reveals an unusual scene. The souls of the martyrs were seen metaphorically "under the altar" crying to God for vengeance (Rev. 6:9-11). Some commentators are inclined to identify this "altar" as the altar of incense mentioned under the seventh seal (Rev. 8:1-6). But the reference to "blood" (instead of "incense") in Revelation 6:9-11 leads us to see here an allusion to the altar of burnt offering, where the blood of the sacrifices was poured (Lev. 4:18, 30, 34). As the blood of those sacrifices used to be sprinkled around the altar, so the blood of the martyrs was symbolically poured at God's altar when, by remaining faithful to the word of God and the testimony of Jesus (Rev. 6:9, see also Rev. 12:17, Rev. 14:12), they lost their lives. (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 77)

The lesson takes the position that the altar is the brazen altar, not the golden, what do you think?

I think this is wrong for several reasons:

- Their reason is that the blood of the sacrifices was poured out around the brazen altar not the golden and therefore this must indicate the brazen altar. However, the blood was also applied to the horns of the altar. If a non-priest brought the sin offering then the blood was applied to the horns of the brazen altar and the blood poured out at the based of the brazen altar. But if a priest brought the sin offering then the blood was applied to the horns of the golden altar with the remaining poured out at the base of the brazen altar.
- In the OT sanctuary theater, who do the priests in their white robes represent? They represent the priesthood of believers. And to which group do the martyrs, those who died for their faith in Jesus, belong—to the non-believing group or the believers in Christ? So, the sacrifices of the non-priests would not represent the martyrs, it would be the sacrifices of the priests which would represent the martyrs and that blood was applied to the golden altar. And these martyrs were given white robes, just like the daily priests wore, which symbolically represents the righteousness of Christ. And this symbolizes the cleansing of their individualities, hearts, minds, characters from all sin and defect perfecting them for eternity.
- And what does the blood symbolize? It symbolizes the life. And in this context, the sinner confessing their sin, not their deeds, but their sinfulness, their sinful life upon the lamb, symbolically says I surrender my life to you Jesus and Jesus takes our place and overcomes our sinful condition where we could not. The blood is applied to the golden altar symbolically registering our name—character, individuality, our life in the Lamb's book of life—as a life cleansed by Jesus, a life in which the carnal has died and the righteousness or life of Christ has been infused.

- The Bible uses the symbolism of the blood for the life, the life of the righteous call out to God for Him to finish His work and restore them and the world to sinlessness. The Bible uses this symbolism all the way back in Genesis when Abel's blood called out to God from the ground.

The lesson makes a very good point in the second paragraph,

> The "souls" under the altar are also symbolic. By taking them literally, one would have to conclude that the martyrs are not fully happy in heaven, for they are still crying out for vengeance. This hardly sounds as if they are enjoying the reward of salvation. The desire for vengeance can make your life miserable. But your death, as well? (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 77)

If we take this literally, would these righteous people be in a place of happiness and bliss or where sin has not yet been fully eradicated?

And will the righteous actually have a desire for vengeance in their heart? If the righteous really wanted God to punish the wicked wouldn't they be disobeying Jesus when He said we are to forgive those who wrong us, love our enemies and pray for those who abuse us?

- But the text says their lives call out for vengeance, so how do we understand it?
- What is the Bible definition of this vengeance?
    - "Therefore the Lord, the LORD Almighty, the Mighty One of Israel, declares: "Ah, I will get relief from my foes and avenge myself on my enemies. I will turn my hand against you; I will thoroughly purge away your dross and remove all your impurities (Isaiah 1:24-25 NIV84).
    - These saints are calling upon God to finish His work of destroy sin, wickedness, and all sin from them and all other humans who open their hearts in trust to God! They are calling for the completion of the plan of salvation and the complete eradication of sin from God's universe, not for God to use power to hurt others.
    - But this is all symbolic, not to be taken literal.

Read the third paragraph,

> Also, it's important to remember that John was not given a view of heaven as it actually is. "There are no white, red, black, or pale horses there with warlike riders. Jesus does not appear there in the form of a lamb with a bleeding knife wound. The four beasts do not represent actual winged creatures of the animal characteristics noted. … Likewise, there are no 'souls' lying at the base of an altar in heaven. The whole scene was a pictorial and symbolic representation." — The SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 7, p. 778. (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 77)

This is well reasoned and I agree with it, but find it quite interesting that when it comes to the heavenly sanctuary many SDA's take the opposite position, that John or EGW were shown a view of heaven as it actually is. No, this is correct, Bible prophets are given visions that are not literal windows into heaven, but symbolic representations of heavenly realities.

Read bottom pink section:

> Who (especially of those who have been victims of injustice) hasn't cried out for justice, which has not yet come? Why must we, by faith, trust that ultimately the justice so lacking in this world will nevertheless come? What comfort can you draw from this wonderful promise?

Thoughts? What does this mean? What is justice? What determines what is just or right? Does the law have any role in defining and determining justice?

And if we believe God's law is made up rules like humans make, then how is justice described? It is God using power to inflict punishment upon the unrepentant. God becomes the cosmic enforcer the source of pain, suffering, and death.

But, if we understand God's law as design law, we recognize justice is doing what is right, and the right thing is to heal and save from sin, but for those who destroy the faculties that respond to the Spirit of love and truth, then the only right or just action for God to take in regard to them, is to set them free to reap what they have chosen—separation from Him who is the source of life. God let's them go and they die of their unhealed terminal sin condition just as the Bible teaches, sin when full grown brings forth death, and those who sow to the carnal nature from that nature reap destruction.

God is just, sustaining and supporting and maintain the constant operation of His design laws, including the law of liberty and giving people freedom to die if that is what they insist upon, rather than force them to stay in His presence which would be a place of torment to those who have solidified themselves in wickedness and selfishness.

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, which is a quote from Christ's Object Lessons:

> "In the parable of the rich man and Lazarus, Christ shows that in this life men decide their eternal destiny. During probationary time the grace of God is offered to every soul. But if men waste their opportunities in self-pleasing, they cut themselves off from everlasting life. No after probation will be granted them. By their own choice they have fixed an impassable gulf between them and their God." — Ellen G. White, Christ's Object Lessons, p. 260.

What makes the gulf impassable? Why can't God use His infinite power to bridge the gap?

Read question two:

> Reflect on the contrast between the unnegotiable religion of the Christian martyrs and the flexible religion of our postmodern generation. In other words, what are things worth dying for? However, if one has a view that all truths are merely relative, or cultural, then why die for any of them? At the same time, what can we learn from those who were willing to die for causes that we believe are false?

Does the fact someone is willing to die for their faith mean what they believe is correct? Consider the Branch Davidians, those who died in Jonestown, those who fly planes into building for their cause?

Can people be so settled into lies they will die for those falsehoods and false causes?

What is the difference between the righteous who will not compromise, who do not love their lives so much as to shrink from death, and the wicked who will die for their cause?

The Spirit of God is the Spirit of truth and love, it is the combination of these two elements that is evidence of God's kingdom. Satan's kingdom is built on lies and selfishness and Satan will mix his principles with God's.

Satan will mix lies with love and selfishness with truth to create corruptions that can appear appealing and seduce people into practicing them.

Can you think of any examples of this mixture?

2022 4Q On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 10
The Fires of Hell

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

The lesson describes a traditional view of hell with never ending torment and in Catholic theology a place of punishment to purge sin called purgatory. Then goes on to say, "In short, a false understanding of human nature has led to terrible theological errors."

I would suggest, it is a false understanding of human nature coupled with:

- A false understanding of God's law
- A false understanding of the sin problem
- A false understanding of the solution for the sin problem
- And ultimately, a false understanding of God

The idea of an immortal soul is coupled with the idea that God's law functions like human law and God must, for justice sake, punish sin. The idea that justice requires punishment is so deeply imbedded as an assumed truth that most people cannot even step back long enough to examine the question, to consider the implications and study the evidence for themselves. Many people almost immediately close off their minds at the suggestion that God doesn't use power to inflict punishment for sin. And to support the false conclusion that He does use His power to inflict punishment for sin they will contrast that idea with other falsehoods of various kinds like—

- "well if God doesn't punish sin, then there is no punishment for sin and you must be teaching universalism."
- Or "if God doesn't punish sin, then Jesus didn't have to die for our sins and you don't believe in substitutionary atonement."

So, before discussing such topics, it is helpful to first define our understanding of God's law. If we take the position that God's law functions no differently than human law, imposed rules requiring infliction of punishment, then the mind is trapped in the lie that God must punish sin.

But if we worship God as Creator and recognize that as Creator God builds reality, space, time, energy, matter, and life, and that reality is built on the laws of reality, law of gravity, physics, health etc. Then we realize that life and health are only possible in harmony with God and His design laws for life.

Satan and humans cannot build reality, we are created beings. We can only make up rules and use force to punish rule breaking. This idea of governing is Satan's method and he infects hearts and minds with the idea that God's law works this way. And then, when it comes to understanding passages of Scripture about punishment for sin, hell etc. people project in the false belief that justice requires inflicted punishment, and since God is just God must inflict punishment. And it is falsely taught that if we don't get our just punishment put off onto someone else, then God must punish us, and then the only question is whether the punishment is eternal or the punishing is eternal—and that is determined by how we understand human nature as the lesson says.

The lesson takes the position that the eternal burning torment of the traditional view, based on the idea that man has natural immortality and sin must be punished is worse than the common SDA view (but we realize, not the true SDA view) in which it is taught that man is mortal and sin must be punished.

Which is worse?

In the eternal punishing view, God created human beings in Eden with natural immortality, it is true, that in that view God didn't really consider the implications, didn't anticipate the potential downside, didn't have foreknowledge to know what was going to happen, and when Adam and Eve sinned, God was heartbroken, sent His Son to die to pay the penalty, but sadly, there is nothing more He can do for the wicked. They have immortality and cannot die so their rejection of salvation results in eternal torment and it really saddens God. He never wanted this for them, He just doesn't have any other option.

In the common SDA view, which is not the true SDA view, it is correctly taught that man was made mortal, and immortality is a gift of God to the righteous. But it is falsely taught that sin requires externally inflicted punishment and because there are different levels of sin, Hitler sinned much more than a teenager who never accepted Jesus and died during a burglary, for instance, then in justice, God and the saints sit in committee and determine how much suffering must be inflicted upon each person to satisfy justice. And then God reigns down fire upon the wicked and God uses His power to perform a miracle to keep the wicked alive in the fires to ensure they suffer the proper time they deserve before God kills them.

Which view is better?

Do either of these views actually say anything good about God? In the eternal torment view, God is inept, blind, foolish, hapless, doesn't have foreknowledge or if He does and created humans with immortality knowing they would sin then God is cruel and a tyrant. And in the limited torture view, God is the source of inflicted pain, suffering, torture, and death—the one from whom we need protection. God is saying love me or else I will torture and kill you. A violation of the laws of liberty, love, and truth.

Both views undermine our ability to know and trust God.

So, what is the truth? This section on the consuming fire and eternal burning is from our Three Angel's magazine, so if you want to share this with others, you can find it there.

The Old Testament prophet Isaiah describes this fire:

> "The sinners in Zion are terrified; trembling grips the godless: 'Who of us can dwell with the consuming fire? Who of us can dwell with everlasting burning?'" (Isaiah 33:14 NIV84)

What is being described? Hell, the torment of the third angel. But who can live in this fire? Who will spend eternity in the flames? Isaiah gives a shocking answer:

> "He who walks righteously and speaks what is right, who rejects gain from extortion and keeps his hand from accepting bribes, who stops his ears against plots of murder and shuts his eyes against contemplating evil!" (33:15 NIV84)

- When God spoke to Moses from within the bush, the bush burned, but did not get consumed. (Exodus 3:2-4, Acts 7:30-36)
- When God came to Mt. Sinai, His presence was described as a "consuming fire," but the elements did not melt. (Exodus 24:17)
- When Solomon's Temple was dedicated, the priests couldn't enter because the brightness of God's fiery glory was too great, but the Temple did not burn down. (2 Chronicles 5:14, 7:1-3)
- Lucifer, before his fall, walked among the "fiery stones" of God's presence. (Ezekiel 28:14, 16)
- God takes His throne "rivers of fire" come out from Him and billions stand in this fire without any harm. (Daniel 7:9, 10)
- Jesus, prior to His crucifixion, in a body still subject to death, was bathed in heavenly fire, yet no harm came to Him. His clothes didn't even get scorched. (Matthew 17:2)
- Hebrews tells us that "our God is a consuming fire," (12:29) and the Song of Solomon states: "love is as strong as death its jealousy unyielding as the grave. It burns like blazing fire, like a mighty flame. Many waters cannot quench love; rivers cannot wash it away." (8:6, 7 NIV84)

The lie that Satan has foisted upon us is this: the place you don't want to go, the place you don't want to be, is the place of eternal burning and consuming fire. But, as amazing as it may seem, that place is God's very presence!

The "burning sulfur" described by the third angel is from the Greek thion and is a form of the word thios. Thios means God, those who study thios study theology. Thus, thion is divine fire or the fire of God's glory. The righteous will spend eternity bathed in the flames of God's fiery presence. But the wicked are consumed in that eternal fire.

When Christ returns He doesn't come veiling His glory, but in the full splendor of His holy, loving, righteous self; brighter than the sun! Rivers of blazing love surging out from Him, the earth will be bathed in His glory! (Isaiah 6:3) The righteous will be transformed by the life-giving fires of love, just like Moses was transformed after being in God's presence. He came down off the mountain with his face radiating heavenly fire, but Moses wasn't in pain. He didn't have third degree burns. His whiskers weren't even singed. But the children of Israel, unrepentant, still filled with sin and selfishness, when they saw Moses' face, they shrank back and begged him to wear a veil. They couldn't stand the heavenly light. (Exodus 34:33-35)

The fire of infinite love is painful only when the mind is not healed. The guilty conscience, the unregenerate heart that prefers lies and selfishness cannot tolerate the light of love and truth.

This is why the Bible describes that the wicked are destroyed by the brightness of Christ's coming. (2 Thessalonians 2:8)

But how can this be? How can a fire that doesn't burn up bushes, buildings, or faces consume the wicked in the end? What kind of fire is this?

This is the fire of love and truth that glorifies God's people while it cleanses the earth of sin.

A fire that consumes sin? What is that?

It is not the fire of combustion, which burns material substances, things made out of molecules like our homes, furniture, and books, because sin is not made out of physical matter. Sin is made out of ideas, thoughts, concepts, attitudes, and beliefs. At its core, sin is composed of two elements: lies (Satan is the "father of lies"), (John 8:44) and selfishness. Fires of combustion don't destroy ideas. Fires that burn material substances don't consume lies and selfishness.

So, what does consume a lie? The truth! And what consumes selfishness? Love! The Holy Spirit is the Spirit of both truth and love. Amazingly, when the Spirit fell at Pentecost, they all witnessed two streams of fire over each person, (Acts 2:3) yet no one got burned. The building didn't burn down. Their clothes didn't ignite. It was their hearts and minds that were cleansed by that fire – the fire of love and truth.

What happens in the mind of those who reject truth and cling to falsehood, when the truth of God comes shining through? They suffer torment of mind, anguish of heart, and suffering of psyche. And what happens to those whose hearts are filled with selfishness, when the pure, undiluted, love of God comes blazing through? The terrible suffering that unremoved sin causes.

What will it be like, on that day, for that abusive mother, for that sexually deviant father, to look into the mirror of undiluted truth and see their own selves as they really are, no self-distortion, no lies, just the plain truth? What will it be like for such a person to have full awareness of what their actions did to their child? What will it be like to have this truth sear through their mind in front of the entire universe?

There will be terrible suffering in the flames of God's love, but not inflicted as an external penalty. That suffering to come will be the unavoidable torture of soul that unremedied sin inflicts.

This is why some do suffer longer, not because God uses power to inflict punishment, but because some have more lies and selfishness in their hearts that resist and fight against the fires of truth and love.

The Bible confirms that the fire of God's presence consumes sin, not material substances. God demonstrated that the "consuming fire," which destroys the wicked, is not a fire that burns elements. In Leviticus, we read about Aaron's sons who, as priests, brought unauthorized fire before the Lord:

> Aaron's sons Nadab and Abihu took their censers, put fire in them and added incense; and they offered unauthorized fire before the LORD, contrary to his command. So fire came out from the presence of the LORD and consumed them, and they died before the LORD… Moses summoned Mishael and Elzaphan, sons of Aaron's uncle Uzziel, and said to them, "Come here; carry your cousins outside the camp, away from the front of the sanctuary." So they came and carried them, still in their tunics, outside the camp, as Moses ordered (Leviticus 10:1-5 NIV84 emphasis mine).

The "fire of the Lord" "consumed" them, yet their bodies weren't charred and their tunics were still intact.

The third angel warns, that the wicked are tormented in "the presence of the holy angels and of the Lamb" (Revelation 14:10 NIV84). It is God's very presence where the consuming fires of love and truth originate and in His presence the wicked can no longer hide from their own corrupt histories, the reality of their own wickedness.

And eventually, after all the wicked, like Nadab and Abihu, have been consumed yet their physical bodies not destroyed, when only dead bodies of the unrepentant remain, then the fires of combustion, spoken of by Peter in which the elements melt in the terrible heat consumes all that remains and the earth is recreated free of all sin a new earth, the home of the righteous (2Peter 3:12-13). But the third angel tells us will never forget:

> And the smoke of their torment rises for ever and ever.

Smoke is what is left after something is burned. The smoke symbolizes the memory, the lessons learned of what unremedied sin does to sinners—it torments and destroys. This lesson will never be forgotten. The righteous will remember for all eternity that the wicked suffered and died, not at God's hand, but because of their condition and because they refused to allow God to heal them. The righteous will remember for all eternity that every person who is eternally lost is lost only because they prefer non-existence to living in a universe of love and truth.

I have just walked us through the Scripture evidence for our position, I have said the common SDA view is not the true SDA view, so to back that up, let me give you a quote from one of the founders of the SDA church from the book The Great Controversy and we will unpack it and discover our view is the one consistent with the founders of the SDA church.

> God has given to men a declaration of His character and of His method of dealing with sin. [what do you think that declaration is?] "The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty." [What do you hear? What is His method? Why will God not clear the guilty? What law lens do you see it through, imposed or design?] Exodus 34:6, 7. "All the wicked will He destroy." "The transgressors shall be destroyed together: the end of the wicked shall be cut off." Psalm 145:20; 37:38. The power and authority of the divine government will be employed to put down rebellion; yet all the manifestations of retributive justice will be perfectly consistent with the character of God as a merciful, long-suffering, benevolent being. {GC 541.2} [What does this mean? Do you hear retributive justice and think using power to inflict harm, pain, punishment? This would be imposed law thinking. Or do you hear the power and authority of the divine government will be employed—used—to put down rebellion through design law? What is God's means, methods, power? It is the power of love, truth and freedom. Notice what is described in the following paragraphs]
>
> God does not force the will or judgment of any. He takes no pleasure in a slavish obedience. He desires that the creatures of His hands shall love Him because He is worthy of love. [If this is true, then can God be the source of inflicted torture, punishment, and death? Is it possible to get free decisions, uncoerced choices, friendship, trust, loyalty, and love by threatening to kill those who don't choose what you want them to choose?] He would have them obey Him because they have an intelligent appreciation of His wisdom, justice, and benevolence. [What reason would God have us obey? Not fear of punishment, but appreciation of His character of love, which cannot exist if God is the source of inflicted punishment. It is Satan's view that God must punish sin because it makes God out to be the source of death and undermines love.] And all who have a just conception of these qualities will love Him because they are drawn toward Him in admiration of His attributes. {GC 541.3}
> The principles of kindness, mercy, and love, taught and exemplified by our Saviour, are a transcript of the will and character of God. [What are the principles of God's character? Do these principles coerce, compel, or torture?] Christ declared that He taught nothing except that which He had received from His Father. The principles of the divine government are in perfect harmony with the Saviour's precept, "Love your enemies." [Does love seek to inflict pain and suffering to torture and punish? But notice what is describe next as love for our enemies] God executes justice upon the wicked, for the good of the universe, and even for the good of those upon whom His judgments are visited. [What does this mean? What law lens do you hear this through? What is justice? And what are God's judgments? Do you hear this legally and punitively or diagnostically and therapeutically? What is justice? Doing what is right, and what determines what is right and wrong? The law, so what law? In God's government it is God's law, which is design law, which is the law of love, which means God wants to minimize pain, minimize suffering, and heal all who will let him, but ultimately God's law seeks to stop the torment of those who won't allow Him to heal them. Thus, God's justice is like the parent whose child with a terminal illness who refuses every intervention that would heal them, the parent does NOT seek to prolong and protract the suffering, but to allow the suffering to end. Notice what is described next.] He would make them happy if He could do so in accordance with the laws of His government and the justice of His character. [Why can't God make them happy? Because they refuse to participate in His methods, they refuse to allow Him to heal them. And happiness is the by-product of healthiness and healthiness is only possible in harmony with God's design laws for life. Thus God's method for making us happy is writing His law in our hearts and minds and freeing us from sin, which is transgression or living out of harmony with His laws.] He surrounds them with the tokens of His love, He grants them a knowledge of His law, and follows them with the offers of His mercy; but they despise His love, make void His law, and reject His mercy. [How do they make void His law? By replacing it with a false law—imposed law. Think how sad it will be for those legal Sabbath-keepers who wouldn't enter Pilates house but sought to kill Jesus. Imposed law-keepers, worshipping the imposed law-giver and become like the god whose government is based on made up rules and inflicted punishments—the god of this fallen world. How many today are in the same situation?] While constantly receiving His gifts, they dishonor the Giver; they hate God because they know that He abhors their sins. The Lord bears long with their perversity; but the decisive hour will come at last, when their destiny is to be decided. [What determines their destiny? Is it a judicial finding in a heavenly court, or the choice of the sinner to permanently harden their heart, searing their conscience, so that the work of the Holy Spirit has no impact upon them?] Will He then chain these rebels to His side? Will He force them to do His will? [These are rhetorical questions, meaning that God will not do this, which means He cannot be the source of inflicted punishment and death. He does not use His power to perform miracles to keep them alive, chained to His side in the fires of His presence.] {GC 541.4}

Those who have chosen Satan as their leader and have been controlled by his power are not prepared to enter the presence of God. [Why? What does this mean?] Pride, deception, licentiousness, cruelty, have become fixed in their characters. [How did it become fixed? Who fixed it there? If God "judges" their characters fixed, does He make it fixed or is God's judgment the accurate diagnosis of what they have chosen to do to themselves?] Can they enter heaven to dwell forever with those whom they despised and hated on earth? Truth will never be agreeable to a liar; meekness will not satisfy self-esteem and pride; purity is not acceptable to the corrupt; disinterested love does not appear attractive to the selfish. What source of enjoyment could heaven offer to those who are wholly absorbed in earthly and selfish interests? {GC 542.1}

Could those whose lives have been spent in rebellion against God be suddenly transported to heaven and witness the high, the holy state of perfection that ever exists there,-- every soul filled with love, every countenance beaming with joy, enrapturing music in melodious strains rising in honor of God and the Lamb, and ceaseless streams of light flowing upon the redeemed from the face of Him who sitteth upon the throne,--could those whose hearts are filled with hatred of God, of truth and holiness, mingle with the heavenly throng and join their songs of praise? Could they endure the glory of God and the Lamb? No, no; [Why not? Does God uses divine power to prevent them from being there, to inflict torture upon them, or is their condition incompatible with God's design for life? And notice the language of the author, "Could they endure the glory of God and the Lamb?" Will the righteous "endure" God's presence, or thrive in God's presence? Will God's glory be oppressive to the righteous? Why do the wicked experience God's presence as torment? Does God treat the wicked differently or is it the nature and character of the wicked that respond differently to the infinite fires of love and truth that emanate from the presence of God? Notice, what this author gives as the reason.] years of probation were granted them, that they might form characters for heaven; but they have never trained the mind to love purity; they have never learned the language of heaven, and now it is too late. A life of rebellion against God has unfitted them for heaven. [Why are they unfit? Is it that they don't have the right legal payment in record books, or is it something actually within them? Notice why they are not fit] Its purity, holiness, and peace would be torture to them; the glory of God would be a consuming fire. [This is huge, what do they experience as torture? Purity, holiness and peace! Is this God using His power to cause pain, to inflict suffering, is there something coming out from God other than goodness, mercy, love and truth? It is their condition which experiences goodness as pain, purity as torment, holiness and suffering. The torture happens because of sin in them, not as an infliction from God!] They would long to flee from that holy place. They would welcome destruction, that they might be hidden from the face of Him who died to redeem them. [What do the wicked actually want? Separation from God! Why do they want it? To be at peace, to stop their suffering; So, in this situation what is the just action for God to take, what is the merciful action for God to take? Is there a difference between justice and mercy? Notice the next sentences] The destiny of the wicked is fixed by their own choice. Their exclusion from heaven is voluntary with themselves, and just and merciful on the part of God. {GC 542.2}

Like the waters of the Flood the fires of the great day declare God's verdict that the wicked are incurable. [This is design law, this is justice and mercy, and justice and mercy rightly understood are always an expression of God's character of love.] {GC 543.1}

SUNDAY

Read Mark 9:47-48:

> And if your eye causes you to sin, pluck it out. It is better for you to enter the kingdom of God with one eye than to have two eyes and be thrown into hell, where 'their worm does not die, and the fire is not quenched.' (Mark 9:47-48 NIV84).

What does this text mean? Is it literal or metaphor?

From the SDA Bible commentary:

> Worm. Greek skōlēx, "a maggot," or "a worm." As Major, Manson, and Wright (The Mission and Message of Jesus, pg 123) comment, "The undying worm is not the symbol of a soul which cannot die, but is the symbol of corruption which cannot be purged." In verse 43 "life" is set forth in contrast with "the fire that never shall be quenched." In Rom. 6:23 and many other scriptures "life" stands in contrast with "death." In John 3:16 the contrast is between "everlasting life" and "perishing." It is obvious that Jesus here intends the same contrast. "The fire is not quenched" stands in apposition to "their worm dieth not," and is an equivalent expression, yet it seems incongruous that maggots should pursue their work in the presence of fire. There is nothing in the word skōlēx, "worm," that even remotely justifies the popular explanation equating "worm" with "soul" (see on Isa. 66:24), a fact recognized by almost all commentators, whatever they may think personally about the state of man in death. Nichol, F. D., ed. (1980). The Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary (Vol. 5, p. 636). Review and Herald Publishing Association.

So, what is the meaning of the expression?

It is better to die to self here and rid from our lives anything that fuels selfishness, then to retain the links to selfishness and die eternally. For those who solidify themselves in selfishness will not have the worm or corruption of selfishness removed but will be consumed in the fires of love and truth.

Here is how I paraphrased this in The Remedy, along with a footnote:

> And if you have the habit of using your eye to look at material that warps your character and sears your conscience, then cut it out. It is better to have a healed mind and enter into eternal life with one eye than have both eyes and a warped character and be cast into torment, where 'their worm of selfishness does not die, and the fire of truth and love will burn eternally.' (Mark 9:47-48 REM)

- Footnote: Their worm of selfishness does not die" is intended to say, "where they do not die to self," or "where selfishness is not removed from their character." Thus, they do not survive when all sin and selfishness is consumed by the life-giving glory of God's fiery presence.

MONDAY

The lesson states, "When qualifying fire (Matt. 18:8, Matt. 25:41, "everlasting"), it implies that the fire will not go out until it fully consumes what is being burned."

Thoughts? This is a common error made by those who believe the fire is artificially inflicted by God as punishment. When we return to design law and the evidence of Scripture we recognize, as we have already documented in the lesson today, that the eternal fire is the fire of God's life-giving glory. It is Satan's fondest desire to have this fire go out, for it would mean the end of God.

But we are thankful that the fire never goes out. But we are also thankful that the fire is not harmful, it is life-giving, what is harmful is sin. And the sad fact is that most people are more afraid of the fire of God's life-giving glory that heals and restores than the sin in their life that torments and kills.

TUESDAY

The lesson is about purgatory. Because imperial/imposed-law requires punishment for wrongdoing, the church of the Dark Ages taught that sin must be punished. This led to the doctrine of purgatory, where after death, conscious souls have their sins purged through punishment. In Roman Catholic theology, entrance into heaven requires the "remission before God of the temporal punishment due to sins whose guilt has already been forgiven," for which indulgences may be given which remove "either part or all of the temporal punishment due to sin," such as an "unhealthy attachment" to sin. (Catechism of the Catholic Church, "The celebration of the Christian Mystery." The Holy See. The Catholic Church. Retrieved 14 March 2017.)

Catholic doctrine teaches that those who die in grace, but who have not yet fulfilled the temporal punishment, due to their sin, can do so in purgatory.

One of the major doctrines that the great reformer Martin Luther rejected was the teaching that conscious souls are punished in purgatory. He disagreed with this doctrine in two ways:

- First, he did not believe in a conscious soul that could experience punishment, and instead taught that the saints sleep peacefully:
    - "It is enough for us to know that souls do not leave their bodies to be threatened by the torments and punishments of hell, but enter a prepared bedchamber in which they sleep in peace." (Weimarer Ausgabe, 43, 360, 21–23 (to Genesis 25:7–10); also Exegetica opera latina, Vol 5–6 1833 p. 120 and the English translation: Luther's Works, American Edition, 55 vols. (St. Louis: CPH), 4:313.)
- Second, Luther put forth a new theory designed to free people from both the fear of purgatory and the exploitation of indulgences to buy loved ones their freedom from further punishment in purgatory. He expanded Anselm's satisfaction theory of atonement by adding inflicted punishment. Luther taught the idea that all sins by all humans from all time were placed on Christ at the cross and punished by God at the cross. Thus, for the saints, there were no unpunished sins remaining to be punished, thus there was no need for purgatory. (Paul Althaus, Die Theologie Martin Luthers, 7th ed. (1994), 179, 191-195.)

Unfortunately, the same root lie underpins both purgatory and Luther's solution—that God's law functions like human law and that breaking the law (an act of sin) requires inflicted punishment, and therefore Luther's solution and penal substitution theology continue to misrepresent the sin problem to be the legal and inflicted punishment for sin coming from an authoritarian god.

The completion of the Reformation requires the rejection of this imposed law lie, in order to take the eternal gospel to the world to prepare the world for Christ's return.

How is the SDA investigative judgment message similar to purgatory taught by the Roman church?

- Both teach that at death sinners are not prepared to enter heaven
- Both teach that actions can be done to or for the dead complete the salvation process
- The Roman church teaches the sinner is conscious and suffering to pay their unpaid legal sin-debt to complete the necessary temporal punishment for their sin
- The SDA church teaches that the legal payment for their sin was paid by Jesus at the Cross and Jesus as Mediator is in heaven applying that legal payment to legal documents to purge from the record of the saints any remaining unpaid legal debt that would be required for them to pay after the resurrection. But for those who have not surrendered to Jesus, their sins remain on the books to be punished after the thousand years.
- The Catholic view as remaining sins being punished in purgatory to purify the sinner and take them to heaven.
- The SDA view has the remaining sins of those who have not placed their trust in Jesus being punished in their body through a miracle and torture at the end of the thousand years.
- Our view is that no legal process is going on at all, only healing and restoration through the achievements of Christ. In heaven, Jesus applies His perfection to the hearts, minds, and characters of all who trust Him, so that "it is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me." At death humans sleep as Scripture teaches and Luther agrees. All who die trusting in Jesus, despite not yet achieving the full healing of their hearts and minds, while asleep in Him, have His perfection applied to their individuality so that when they arise from the dead at the resurrection they arise perfected. The thief on the cross does not arise with desires to steal. Martin Luther does not arise addicted to alcohol or hating the Jews and longing to kill them. And for the living, this settling into the truth about God and His methods and being transformed to love God and others more than self, occurs in them so that they become faithful and trustworthy friends of God, who like Job, will not betray that trust even in the face of persecution and death.

The real problem with the Roman view or the penal legal Investigative Judgment view, is not the underlying idea that a further work is being accomplished by Jesus in the lives of the saved, but how that work is perverted into something penal/legal rather than healing and restorative.

Non-SDA Protestants don't have any further work at all going on. For them, everything was accomplished at the cross, all we do is accept it and then we are saved, there is certainly the doctrine of maturing, sanctifying that occurs during this life, but nothing more for God to do in the lives of the saints to actually remove sin until glorification.

We view it this way. The species human was saved in Jesus, who, as the second Adam, redeemed the species from the corruption Adam placed upon it. But, individual members of this species still must partake of Christ's victory by faith. That victory is not a legal adjustment in books, but a transformation of the person, the soul, we:

- partake of the divine nature
- have new hearts and right spirits
- receive the mind of Christ
- have the heart circumcised by the Holy Spirit
- are reborn
- have the heart of stone removed and a tender heart created within
- have the law written upon the heart and mind
- receive a new name which is a new character
- partake the flesh and blood or bread and wine which symbolize the life of Christ taken into the soul itself
- And some people experience the full healing transformation on this earth and are ready to go straight into heaven, like Enoch and Elijah. But others do not experience this full healing in their life, but die trusting Jesus with elements in heart not yet harmonized with God. For those individualities, Jesus purifies them so that when they arise in the resurrection they arise perfected in character and no longer struggling with any residual sin problem. This is the work of the cleansing of the sanctuary, His High Priestly ministry.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson asks "Why is there a resurrection and a judgment?"

This is a very valuable question, reasoned through it brings to light multiple truths.

- If people receive their reward at death, either paradise or hell, what is the purpose of the resurrection and judgment?
- If the SDA view of mortality of the soul is correct, why raise the wicked who are "asleep" to experience more pain and suffering that will not result in their repentance, only to kill them again?

What is the purpose of the resurrection after the 1000 years?

There are four judgments described in Scripture, if you would like to read about the other three, go to our blog on The Four Judgments

The Great White Throne Judgment is the fourth and final judgment.

> I saw a great white throne and him who was seated on it. … And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Another book was opened, which is the book of life. The dead were judged according to what they had done as recorded in the books (Revelation 20:11, 12 NIV84).

What is being described? Is this a legal process? What law lens do we read Scripture through?

What is recorded in the books of life? Or should we say the book of your life? The names of people (Philippians 4:3, Revelation 3:5, 13:8, 17:8, 20:15, 21:27). But in Scripture, names are symbolic of one's character. So, what is recorded is our actual characters, which we have developed through our judgment of God—our judgment to trust Him, to open our hearts to Him, to embrace His design laws and methods of truth, love, and liberty or not. Our judgments of God result in whether we open the heart and are reborn—or harden our hearts in selfishness. Our characters develop along whichever line our judgment decides about God, whether we trust Him and His methods or reject them. Thus, we are judged, diagnosed, based on what is the actual condition of our character.

Here's another way to say it: The books of heaven record the accurate picture of who we are in heart—they are like medical records. The records don't determine the condition; they merely record the condition.

This is exactly what Jesus taught when He said:

> Make a tree good and its fruit will be good, or make a tree bad and its fruit will be bad, for a tree is recognized by its fruit. You brood of vipers, how can you who are evil say anything good? For out of the overflow of the heart the mouth speaks. The good man brings good things out of the good stored up in him, and the evil man brings evil things out of the evil stored up in him. But I tell you that men will have to give account on the day of judgment for every careless word they have spoken. For by your words you will be acquitted, and by your words you will be condemned (Matthew 12:33–37 NIV84).

What is being described? Character—the actual condition of each heart, a diagnosis of what the reality actually is. God is the God of reality, the builder of all Creation. His laws are the protocols upon which life operates. There has never been a heavenly judicial law court like humans make; the idea that God is an arbitrary judge who is the source of inflicted punishment for sin is a lie from Satan.
The fourth and final judgment is not judicial; it is the final confirmation of the accurate diagnosis of each heart and mind:

> He who is unjust, let him be unjust still; he who is filthy, let him be filthy still; he who is righteous, let him be righteous still; he who is holy, let him be holy still (Revelation 22:11 NKJV).

So what is the purpose of resurrecting people at the end of the thousand years? To demonstrate that God's diagnosis, what is recorded in the books about the quality of character of each lost person is accurate. God does not expect us to believe simply because He says so, but because it is so. And when God raises the wicked their own actions demonstrate the accurate diagnosis of their terminal sin-state.

When the wicked are raised the final time the New Jerusalem the saints, Jesus, and His angels are on the Earth and in the city, and the gates of the New Jerusalem are open.

And what do the wicked do when they see the city? Do they come to Jesus in repentance and ask for cleansing from sin? Do they try to peacefully enter the city?

Who keeps them out of the city? They do. They do not want to come in, and what does this reveal? That even with the New Jerusalem upon the Earth those settled into sin, lies, rebellion, selfishness will not be convinced, will not repent, and there is nothing more God can do for them. Every single lost soul choose to be lost. They would rather die than live in God's universe the way God created life to operate.

And when the fires of infinite truth and love are released and flow out of the city onto the Earth, and Jesus is weeping, He has had to handle it in such a way that every single saved person can go up to Him and put an arm around Him and say, "It is okay, we know there is nothing more you could have done."

2022 4Q On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 11
End Time Deceptions

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

What comes to mind when you consider the title End-Time Deceptions?

What is the focus or purpose of the end-time deceptions? In other words, what is the goal of the end-time deceptions? Is there any particular truth that the end-time deceptions are intended to prevent people from embracing?

Of course all of Satan's deceptions are designed to prevent people from coming to salvation in Jesus Christ, but is there anything different about the end-time deceptions?

Would end-time deceptions be particularly designed to counter the end-time message from God?

God has been revealing truth to win people to salvation from the moment Adam sinned, but truth is unfolding and we are told God has a special end-time message to prepare people for the coming of Christ. Would Satan's end-time deceptions be specifically designed to counter God's final message of mercy to the world?

And what is God's end-time message? How would you describe it?

We have a magazine entitled The Final Message Of Mercy To The World: The Three Angels.

What is the purpose of this final end-time message?

- To advance the eternal gospel which is the eternal good news about God We do this by…
- Revering God for who He is the builder of reality, whose laws are design laws
- We glorifying Him in our character by living out His principles in how we treat others
- We return to worshiping the Creator whose laws are design laws, truth, love, liberty and reject the imperial dictator views of God that came through Rome and thus we judge God to be like Jesus revealed
- We call people to leave Babylon, the system of pagan god constructs who run their kingdoms on imposed law, with gods who inflict punishment on rule breakers and who require appeasement and payments to forgive, particularly payments of blood.
- And by leaving the false religions of this world, the systems that pursue justice through legal means and return to worshiping Him who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water, we live out God's living law of love in how we treat others.

One of the founders of the SDA church described the final message of mercy, which is the truth about God that allows us to make a right judgment about God and leave the false system of this world in this way:

> "It is the darkness of misapprehension of God that is enshrouding the world. Men are losing their knowledge of His character. It has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. At this time a message from God is to be proclaimed, a message illuminating in its influence and saving in its power. His character is to be made known. Into the darkness of the world is to be shed the light of His glory, the light of His goodness, mercy and truth…The last rays of merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is the revelation of His character of love." Christ's Object Lessons, p.415

The final message mercy is the eternal gospel, the good news about God that has always been true and will always be true that wins us back to trust, and it is returning to worship God as Creator, which means recognizing His laws as design laws and rejecting the imperial Roman dictator view of God, which means rejecting the penal legal infection to Christianity.

Will Satan's end-time deceptions be designed to counter this end-time message of mercy?

The end-time deception is designed to keep people loyal to Babylon, to prevent people from breaking out of the beastly system.

How many deceptions are there? Untold numbers, this is why Jesus said,

> "Enter through the narrow gate. For wide is the gate and broad is the road that leads to destruction, and many enter through it. But small is the gate and narrow the road that leads to life, and only a few find it" (Matthew 7:13-14 NIV84).

There are never-ending number of lies and false paths, but only one truth and one true path to salvation.

This is why we fix our eyes on Christ, and do not fix our eyes on the multitude of falsehoods or false messiahs. Knowing the truth makes identifying the false easy.

But if we do not know the truth then identifying the false is difficult.

And the truth we must know goes beyond specific doctrines, the truth that protects us from deception is the truth about God which connects all true doctrines together into a cohesive whole. All true doctrines lead us back to God and enlighten us about His character, methods, design laws, principles, practices, and standards.

One of Satan's greatest deceptions is to get people:

- to focus on doctrinal truth while embracing functional lies

- to focus on being right about facts while embracing the wrong methods
- to focus on right beliefs while applying the wrong principles
- to focus on the right religion while harboring selfish attitudes
- to focus on the right fundamental beliefs and creed while developing a satanic character
- to focus on advancing the so-called right doctrinal beliefs and religious observations through the methods of this world, imposed law with imposed penalties and coercive pressure as a means of pursuing justice

Satan experienced great success with the Jewish nation 2000 years ago when he was able to deceive them into rejecting the Messiah that they had been waiting for their entire existence to receive. How?

Satan didn't achieve this rejection of Christ by getting them to reject the Bible, or God as Creator, or the Sabbath day, or the sanctuary message, or tithing, or the dietary message. It wasn't the list of fundamental beliefs that they got wrong, it was the truth of God's character, His methods, His principles, His design law that they exchanged for the imposed laws and coercive methods of this world.

They had set all of God's directions into the human law setting and came to view God as authoritarian, dictatorial, punishing, unforgiving, severe, a being who required appeasement. They viewed the use of law and punishment as the way to achieve justice and so they used external power and force to coerce people, even killing the innocent to advance their cause.

> Caiaphas, who was high priest that year, spoke up, "You know nothing at all! You do not realize that it is better for you that one man die for the people than that the whole nation perish." (John 11:49-50 NIV84).

It is better to kill an innocent to save the nation. We have a people to protect, we can't let this man go if we want to save lives.

We have seen the same ungodly and evil methods in operation over the last two years, people being seduced into using coercion to advance a cause they view as just, we must save lives, it is therefore righteous and good to use imposed laws to intimidate, fine, restrict liberties, arrest, destroy reputations and careers.

It is better to hurt our employees and patients than to lose our government funding, we have a health message to advance, we have institutions to protect. It is better for a few to be inconvenienced and their liberties violated that for our organization to lose its institutions we have a special message to take to the world.

How many millions of faithful have been infected with these satanic methods of treating others because they have trusted church leadership to tell them what is right and wrong? How many have trusted governments to tell them and have gone along and have who have used these beastly methods on their own families?

I have heard multiple stories of families torn apart during the past two years because of fear, which inflames selfishness and results in the justification of the practice of the satanic self-centered methods on others.

Do we see what has happened over the last two years as part of Satan's end-time deception to lure people into embracing evil methods and incorporating those practices into their characters?

Over the last two years, as the world applied the methods of force, coercion, restriction of liberty, as families allowed fear to dominate, what has been the result? Have we reaped more love? Have people become more like Jesus in character? Has the fellowship of family and friends grown closer during this crisis as we pressed together supporting each other, recognizing the individuality of others and leaving them free to decide for themselves what is best in their life?

Or have millions, billions, been duped into believing this is "life and death" and those who won't do what the government says are enemies, are fools, are evil, are trying to kill the good people and they should be punished with limited freedoms, loss of jobs, and even the limited freedom to see their own families.

Do we recognize this as part of Satan's end-time deception, his way of implanting his methods into hearts and minds, of getting people to believe it is actually right to treat others like this, as long as it is to save lives or perhaps protect the planet, or some other greater good?

Some might counter, but we aren't doctors, we don't know the science, how are we to know not to do this when our doctors tell us and our government healthcare leaders tell us?

Because it wasn't about the science, it was about the methods being employed in how we treat others. Even if people didn't have access to the specific scientific evidence, every single reasoning person was capable of seeing and discerning the methods being employed by the two groups:

- Restrictions on liberties—liberty of travel, assembly, worship, speech
- Coercion—closure of business, terminating from jobs, arrests, fines, loss of licenses
- Accusation and vilification

These methods are not from God. They are from God's enemy and any reasoning person can see this and know it.

Why did so many collude?

- Because they were afraid
- Because they believed what they were told
- Because they worship a god who imposed uses law and external punishments
- Because they think God's justice is through imposed law and punishment
- Because they didn't trust God with the results of choosing to live out His methods and believed they needed to protect themselves and thus billions concluded with human governments and > chose the path that made them feel empowered and safe and which kept their organization funded and in good standing with the government.

And what was the result? Very predictable—whenever we violate God's laws we injure and harm others. And the result of applying the methods of God's enemy over the last two years has been untold amounts of injury, harm, and deaths that are still piling up. Let me say this very clearly—more lives have been lost by the mandates than were saved by the mandates, and the death toll continues cascade down from those mandates through multiple generations.

I am not saying any of this to change any government, or any governmental policy in the world. I am saying this to change the hearts and minds of those who have not been hardened into the methods of the beastly system, the methods of coercion and control, to fulfill our end-time mission of calling people out of Babylon.

Leaving Babylon is about leaving systems and methods of the beast behind, not mere doctrines, but practices in how we treat others. The people of God are the people of truth, which they present in love, while leaving other free. The people of God's enemy may have some truth that they embrace and advance, but they will advance it with Satan's methods, with propaganda, with selfishness, with coercion, force, and restrictions of liberty.

We cannot win God's cause using Satan's methods.

So, as we approach the end-time, we must look beyond specific doctrinal beliefs, and to the methods, character, and principles of God and make decisions in harmony with God's principles in how we live and treat others and trust Him with how things turn out.

Let me say this very clearly. The saved will not be a group of people who know all things; the saved will not be a group of people who believe every text of Scripture the same way; the saved will not be a group of people free from every misunderstanding or false idea; no, the saved will be those who:

- Know God and Jesus Christ whom God sent (John 17:3)
- Have God's law of love, truth, and liberty written upon their hearts as the primary motive to action
- Who love the truth and are willing to grow in the truth as soon as they can comprehend it
- Who love God with all their heart, mind, soul, and strength
- Who love others more than self and would give their lives for others
- Who refuse to use the methods of coercion upon another person's conscience
- Who practice the methods of God in governance of self
- Who trust God with how things turn out

Thus when it came to specific medical treatments over the last two years, there were/are people of God on both sides of the treatment question—because it wasn't about a specific medical treatment, it was about how one advances what they believe to be the truth. The people of God who truly believed a certain medical treatment was the right thing to do, presented the evidence and their plea to get it to others, but then left others free to decide for themselves. But those who were/are beastly use coercive tactics upon others to force others to do what they want them to do.

Jesus said, when it comes to separating the saved from the lost, the differentiating factor is not doctrinal beliefs, day of worship, faithful tithe, method of baptism, but how we treated others. Why?

Because the methods we choose to apply to ourselves in how we treat others determines what law gets written upon our hearts and minds! Are we practicing God's methods of truth, love, and liberty in how we treat others, or are we practicing Satan's methods of fear, self-preservation, self-deception and justification of using coercion and force as necessary for the greater good?

This application of coercive methods under the guise of doing good, to protect, to save lives, is a much greater and serious end-time deception than merely believing something wrong about the state of the dead.

With that in mind read the Memory Text:

> And no wonder! Even Satan disguises himself as an angel of light. So it is not strange if his ministers also disguise themselves as ministers of righteousness. Their end will match their deeds. (2 Corinthians 11:14-15 NRSV).

Their ends match their deeds—yes practice the methods of Satan in how you treat others, regardless of how sincerely you believe it is right to do so, and you will reap the satanic mold upon your character and end up hating God, the things of God, and the people of God.

This brings up another question that many often ask. What about sincerity, won't those who sincerely believe the wrong thing, but believe with an honest heart, still be saved?

And this is a great question because it affords the opportunity to differentiate what ultimately matters from what doesn't, facts from methods.

- If one sincerely believes something wrong about a fact, a doctrine, an idea such as the method of baptism, or whether the vax helped or harmed, either way, it won't matter in the end IF they practiced the methods of God in how they advanced their belief. The methods of truth, love and freedom.
- But, if one believes the truth on a doctrine, but sincerely believes that Satan's methods of the ends justifying the means and therefore they use propaganda, force, coercion of conscience, restrictions of liberties, to protect and save lives, then even if their doctrinal belief is right, their character is wrong and they will sincerely end up like Satan in character and be lost.

What I have unpacked for you here today is a revelation of why the end-time deception will be so powerful that if it were possible the very elect would be deceived. Because it will not primarily be a deception about a specific doctrine or idea, but a deception to embrace and practice the methods of Satan as we advance a good cause, a just cause, a righteous cause, such as saving lives or saving our nation, saving our institutions, or saving the planet.

And sadly, far too many Christians are never taught the principles of God's design law methods and instead are taught doctrines through the lens of imposed law, with God using imposed punishments upon rule-breakers, so if the cause is right, and there is no specific Bible text against it, then they will conclude it is right to use these methods on others.

SUNDAY

Mysticism—the primary aspect of mysticism is an internal experience, which is believed to be supernatural in some way. The person experiences something within that they believe is from their god, their dead ancestors, some super-human force in the cosmos. This is most commonly pursued through some form of Eastern meditation or mindfulness practices.

These practices have real effects upon the brain and the person's experience, but those experiences are not balanced with Scripture and science.

Mysticism is the pursuit of some internal feeling to guide in one's decisions. This is why much of Mormonism is actually mysticism, the praying for the burning bosom. The idea that the Holy Spirit leads through internal impressions that are experienced through silencing the mind and waiting for the internal impression irrespective of truth, evidence, and revelation of God through Scripture and nature.

Read the last paragraph,

> Those who think that it matters not what they believe in doctrine, so long as they believe in Jesus Christ, are on dangerous ground. The Roman Inquisitors who condemned to death untold numbers of Protestants believed in Jesus Christ. Those who had "cast out demons" in Christ's name (Matt. 7:22, NKJV). had believed in Him. "The position that it is of no consequence what men believe is one of Satan's most successful deceptions. He knows that the truth, received in the love of it, sanctifies the soul of the receiver; therefore he is constantly seeking to substitute false theories, fables, another gospel." — Ellen G. White, The Great Controversy, p. 520.

What is the point of this paragraph, what is the idea the authors want us to learn from this paragraph?

Does it seem the authors, with the support of a quote from EGW, are emphasizing the importance of ensuring we have the right doctrines?

Is there a subtle error introduced with this line of thinking?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

What is the primary purpose of all doctrines? To lead us to the knowledge of God, to advance the eternal gospel. As the EGW quote referenced above says, Satan introduces error to introduce another gospel, a false gospel, which means a false conception of God.

And the primary doctrine introduced into Christianity that undermines the gospel is the idea that God's law functions like human law; then you take the 28 fundamental beliefs, set them into a human law construct, and you have introduced another gospel, a false gospel, because you have introduced a false god who is an imperial dictator, the source of imposed pain, suffering and death upon rule-breakers.

Remember what we already discussed about the doctrines of the Jews 2000 years ago—they had right individual doctrines, but the wrong understanding of God and His law and thus they rejected and crucified Christ.

EGW wrote that our own church leadership did the same thing at the 1888 conference:

> On many occasions the Holy Spirit did work, but those who resisted the Spirit of God at Minneapolis were waiting for a chance to travel over the same ground again, because their spirit was the same. Afterward, when they had evidence heaped upon evidence, some were convicted, but those who were not softened and subdued by the Holy Spirit's working, put their own interpretation upon every manifestation of the grace of God, and they have lost much. They pronounced in their heart and soul and words that this manifestation of the Holy Spirit was fanaticism and delusion. They stood like a rock, the waves of mercy flowing upon and around them, but beaten back by their hard and wicked hearts, which resisted the Holy Spirit's working. Had this been received, it would have made them wise unto salvation; holier men, prepared to do the work of God with sanctified ability. But all the universe of heaven witnessed the disgraceful treatment of Jesus Christ, represented by the Holy Spirit. Had Christ been before them, they would have treated him in a manner similar to that in which the Jews treated Christ. {1888 1478.2}

In 1888 what doctrines did these leaders of the SDA church have wrong? Did they have the wrong Sabbath, the wrong state of the dead, the wrong sanctuary, the wrong health message, the wrong tithing practices, the wrong Bible, the wrong belief about Creation? They embraced and clung to the wrong law, the imposed law, that was the issue. Waggoner's book was entitled The Gospel in Galatians whereas the GC President GI Butler wrote a book advancing the view of those who rejected the 1888 message and his book was entitled, The Law in Galatians.

Sadly, we are still stuck in the wilderness of imposed law, the desert devoid of the water of life, devoid of the latter rain, devoid of the design laws of God, the living law of love that emanates from God and flows out in rejuvenating streams into the hearts and minds of all who trust God.

MONDAY

Near death experiences—any questions about these?

These experiences are presented by some as evidence of consciousness after death.

And for those with eyes to see and ears to hear, i.e. discernment, these experiences expose themselves as being completely contradictory to what they claim. How?

What do they claim? They claim to be able to give some insight into what happens at death, but they are called, "near death experiences." If something is near death, is that the same thing as death?

And that is the key to understanding these experiences. No one, not one single person, has ever died and come back to tell us their experience.

Death is not the transient pausing of the functioning of one of the body's organs, such as the heart stopping for a short period and then restarting. Death is necrosis, cellular decay and rot. Until cellular decay and rot happens, death of the body has not occurred.

A person can donate organs, such as their heart, and that heart stops beating, is put on ice, is shipped across country, is implanted into another person and it starts beating again. That heart is not dead—likewise when a person has an arrythmia and their heart stops beating and they receive CPR and cardioversion and their heart starts beating again, the heart never died and the person never died.

So, these so-called near-death experiences cannot tell us anything about what happens at death, they can tell us the experience of a person when various bodily systems fail to operate properly, but that isn't death.

Interestingly, a person does not have to be near death to experience a NDE. A 1990 study at the University of Virginia Health Sciences Center in Charlottesville of 58 people who had experienced NDEs found that half would have survived without medical care. Something as innocuous as fainting can produce an NDE.

Other experiments documented people can induce these experiences by a series of hyperventilation and breath holding and rapid changes in position, which changes blood flow to the brain.

TUESDAY

Reincarnation is the belief that a person's individuality recycles through many lives on its way to purification and eternity.

This belief is advanced through the idea of the first law of thermodynamics that energy is neither created or destroyed but retained. Meaning that energy changes forms, but isn't increased or decreased.

A Hindu doctor once used this argument on me, that energy isn't created or destroyed but continues on. So the energy in his body will continue on in a new form, in a new body after he dies and thus he will be reincarnated.

He is right about the energy continuing on, but is wrong about the nature of humankind and our individuality.

This is where Jesus and the Biblical view is more scientific that the Easter view. The Eastern view merges energy with individuality and suggests that when energy recycles so does the person.

The Biblical view describes humans has having three parts, body, soul, spirit. We use the analogy of a computer to understand this, hardware, software, and energy.

The Bible teaches that at death the body/hardware turns back to dust, the energy goes back to God is conserved in harmony with the first law of thermodynamics, but the software, the individuality, the soul, sleeps, is safely stored in the Lamb's book of life waiting for the resurrection. We could say stored on the heavenly servers. So the Biblical view is much more scientific and accurate than the Eastern view.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph:

> The word "necromancy" derives from the Greek terms nekros (dead) and manteia (divination). Practiced since ancient times, necromancy is a form of summoning the alleged active spirits of the dead in order to get knowledge, often about future events. Ancestor worship, meanwhile, is the custom of venerating deceased ancestors because they are still considered family and whose spirits can, it is believed, influence the affairs of the living. These pagan practices can be very attractive to those who believe in an immortal soul and who also miss their deceased loved ones.

This is a form of spiritualism, let's review a definition of spiritualism. If you know this definition you can identify spiritualism in all its form, whether necromancy, voodoo, tarot cards, tea leaves, palm reading, astrology or any other form.

Spiritualism is the pursuit of knowledge without the investigation of evidence or the use of reason.

All spiritualism practices what to know something, the future, what happens after death, what decision to make, what their dead loved one thought of something etc. It is the pursuit of knowledge without investigating the evidence God has given and using our God-given reasoning powers to comprehend and understand the truth.

Satan has no truth on his side so he must sideline the pursuit of God's truth, the evidence God has given and our reasoning powers. Thus Satan introduces practices and methods that set aside the truth and reasonableness for mystical and supernatural experiences.

THURSDAY

The lesson focuses upon fallen angels, Satan's demonic allies, presenting themselves in a supernatural way pretending to be a messenger from God, whether in a séance, a voice, automatic writing, or in physical manifestation and in person.

Satan appeared as an angel from heaven to Jesus during Christ's temptations in the wilderness.

And Satan will one day impersonate Christ claiming to be our Messiah.

How can we tell the difference between Jesus and Satan's impersonation of Him?

Will we be able to tell by:

- Miracles?
- Signs and wonders?
- The melodiousness of his voice?
- The testimony of church leaders?
- Whether he quotes Bible texts or not?
- What foods he eats?
- Whether his feet touch the ground?

Satan will not have truth on his side, but more importantly, Satan will use satanic methods, the methods of imposed law and coercive force. Satan will present himself as a being of love, here to save, and who only wants to protect, as long as we worship him and recognize him as our leader. We will do this by embracing and practicing his methods in pursuing a course is stated to save the planet, protect lives, and bring in a new era of peace. But those who refuse, must be punished, first with restrictions, limited buying and selling, loss of property, imprisonment, but if they won't repent, then justice requires that rebellion and sin be punished. He will cry, and plead, and remind you of how he has already given his life for you, but if you won't follow, justice requires that you be put to death and pay the death penalty yourself because you have rejected the penalty he paid in your behalf.

How many Christians will accept this being?

How many SDA will accept him if he also endorses and enforces the 7th day Sabbath?

2022 4Q On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 12
The Biblical Worldview

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

What is a Biblical worldview?

Is a Biblical worldview better than other worldviews?

Does it depend on what law model those who hold a Biblical worldview have?

Does it depend on what God concept those who hold a Biblical worldview have?

Did those who crucified Christ consider themselves to have a Biblical worldview?

Did the Puritans who burned people they believed were witches to death believe they had a Biblical worldview?

Do you think David Koresh and the Branch Davidians believed they had a Biblical worldview?

Is it enough to believe in the Bible? Is it possible to believe in the Bible and be one of God's worst enemies?

Would you like to have someone like David Koresh or Caiaphas, who both would claim to have a Biblical worldview, in charge of your church or perhaps in charge of your government?

Is knowing the Bible enough or something more than knowing Scripture needed?

Is life eternal knowing the Bible or is it knowing God and Jesus Christ—and of course the Bible is God's revelation to us. Thus, we need to prioritize the Scripture in our pursuit of truth, but I am making a point.

The primary purpose of Scripture is to reveal God to us in the context of the cosmic conflict, the sin problem, and God's solution for it.

Scripture reveals God's dealing with the sin problem and thereby reveals God to us, this is its primary purpose.

So a Biblical worldview means understanding the truth about God, God's character, God's design laws and methods and not falling into the trap of viewing God and the Bible through human law and imperialism.

In fact, I would suggest that those who hold the wrong picture of God and believe God's law functions like human law, who have presented God running the universe like Caesar ran Rome, with imposed rules and imposed punishments, are actually promoting a non-biblical worldview while claiming to be promoting a biblical worldview.

Read first paragraph:

> The book of Revelation speaks of two major "globalizations" prior to the Second Coming of Christ. Revelation 13 describes the globalization of error, when "all the world" will marvel and follow the beast from the sea (Rev. 13:3, 7, 8, 12, 16, NKJV). Revelation 14 highlights the globalization of truth, when the "everlasting gospel" will be preached "to every nation, tribe, tongue, and people" (Rev. 14:6, 7, NKJV). During those "distressing times" (2 Tim. 3:1, NRSV), "every wind of doctrine" will be blowing (Eph. 4:14, NKJV) and people will "turn away from listening to the truth and wander away to myths" (2 Tim. 4:4, NRSV). "Through the two great errors, the immortality of the soul and Sunday sacredness, Satan will bring the people under his deceptions. While the former lays the foundation of spiritualism, the latter creates a bond of sympathy with Rome." — Ellen G. White, The Great Controversy, p. 588. (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 96)

How would you describe the globalization of error?

The lesson seems to be leading us to believe the final globalization of error will be over the state of the dead and day of worship, that if we have the right understanding of the state of the dead and worship on the Bible Sabbath then we will not be drawn into the beastly system and wont use its power?

Is this true? Will knowing the truth about these doctrines and worshiping on the right day mean people receive the seal of God and are protected from receiving the mark of the beast?

Or, is it that the two errors referenced above open people up for the final deception and they choose the beastly methods and practices? The author they quoted says: "Through the two great errors, the immortality of the soul and Sunday sacredness, Satan will bring the people under his deceptions."

So is the final deception believing wrong about these two ideas, or about other deceptions that Satan brings people under?

Have you ever heard the idea that Sunday is the mark of the beast? But the same author we quoted above repeatedly says that Sunday enforcement is the mark of the beast, not Sunday itself. That same author says there is nothing in the Sabbath commandment that forbids worshiping God on Sunday or doing missionary work on Sunday or requires antagonizing our neighbors by working on Sunday.

The issue is about what Sunday and Sabbath represent. They stand as emblems, marks, signs, flags, pennants of two systems or governing.

Sabbath became a day of worship by Creation, God created it as a day of rest when God rested from using power after giving evidence of His methods, of His creatorship, of creating an entire planet that functions upon His design laws. And He did this in the context of a war against His right to rule. God, presented truth, in love and wove the design law of love into this entire planet, and then rather than using power to force angels to bow, He created a day where He stopped using power, a day of liberty, of freedom to think without pressure or coercion. Thus the Sabbath stands as a symbol or sign of the methods and principles of God's government.

Sunday became a day of worship through legislation and stands as evidence or a symbol of imperialism, of imposed law with external enforcement and inflicted punishment. It is a sign of the methods and practices of Satan and this fallen world. Why? Because created beings cannot create reality, we cannot make laws of physics, or gravity, or health, so created beings who want to counterfeit the government of God make up rules that are called laws and enforce them with inflicted punishment. Thus the artificial legislation of Sunday sacredness, not going to church on Sunday, but legislation, imposed passed laws about its sacredness, is evidence of the beastly system and methods. And when those laws are enforced with coercion then the coercive force used to coerce conscience is understood to be the mark of the beast. Those who believe in their minds that it is right to coerce another person's conscience mark themselves in their foreheads, symbolic of their minds. And those who go along with the coercion to keep their job, their government funding, their travel privileges or any other benefit, mark themselves in their hands, symbolic of their works.

But, the two days, Sabbath and Sunday, are not the governments, any more than the US flag is our government. They two days are signs or marks of the governments and the two types of laws.

And people can wave the US flag while they work for enemies of the US government. Likewise, people can revere and extol the Bible Sabbath and crucify the Lord of the Sabbath and want Him off the cross by sunset to keep the Sabbath. Such people are marked as beastly.

Whereas, those who revere the principles of God, truth, love, liberty and refuse to coerce others consciences while they worship on Sunday are sealed of God and considered Sabbath keepers because they have the design law of God written upon their heart of which the Bible Sabbath is a sign.

The same author the lesson quoted wrote the following:

> The time has come for the true light to shine amid moral darkness. The third angel's message has been sent forth to the world, warning men against receiving the mark of the beast or of his image in their foreheads or in their hands. To receive this mark means to come to the same decision as the beast has done, and to advocate the same ideas, in direct opposition to the word of God. {Review and Herald, July 13, 1897 par. 5}

What are the methods and practices of the beast?

- Lies
- Imposed laws
- Coercive enforcement

The same author wrote in in the book The Great Controversy:

> If the reader would understand the agencies to be employed in the soon-coming contest, he has but to trace the record of the means which Rome employed for the same object in ages past. [This means look at the methods employed, not the specific doctrine the methods were employed to advance.] If he would know how papists and Protestants united will deal with those who reject their dogmas, let him see the spirit which Rome manifested toward the Sabbath and its defenders. {Great Controversy 573} [Again, the author is telling us to look at the METHODS employed.]
>
> Royal edicts, general councils, and church ordinances sustained by secular power were the steps by which the pagan festival attained its position of honor in the Christian world... [What methods? Proclamations, imposed rules, legislation, authority of office, backed up by governmental coercive enforcement. This is what we are to be watching for. Romanism, overruling conscience on any subject by edict, authority of office—perhaps an executive order, law, and inflicted punishment. Have we seen these methods used the last two years? And did many Christians collude with them?] {Great Controversy 574}
>
> The royal mandate [or executive orders] not proving a sufficient substitute for divine authority, Eusebius, a bishop who sought the favor of princes, and who was the special friend and flatterer of Constantine, advanced the claim that Christ had transferred the Sabbath to Sunday. Not a single testimony of the Scriptures was produced in proof of the new doctrine... {Great Controversy 574}. [What is the method of Satan here? Imposed laws and mandates coupled with claims, declarations, and proclamations without evidence. Have we seen mandates recently that coerced consciences, mandates that lacked evidence to support them, and that were advanced through some claim? In other words, Eusebius, a doctoral church historian and theologian, gave his expert opinion that something was true. He claimed it, declared it, used the authority of position and office. Have we seen this happening in society recently? And have we recognized this as beastly? Or are we locked into the day of worship only and cannot recognize the beastly methods at work that destroy hearts through other forced behaviors or false ideas?]
> Later it was decreed that rich men should be punished with the loss of half of their estates; and finally, that if still obstinate they should be made slaves. The lower classes were to suffer perpetual banishment…{Great Controversy 574} [What methods are employed here? Have we recently seen the use of financial punishment, loss of employment, restrictions of liberty upon those who didn't comply with government mandates regarding their own body and health?]

> Later the pope gave directions that the parish priest should admonish the violators of Sunday and wish them to go to church and say their prayers, lest they bring some great calamity on themselves and neighbors... {Great Controversy 575} [Have we seen the science priests and government officials making the argument that it is right to coerce others because if we don't some great calamity will happen to them and their neighbors?]

With this in mind, how would you describe the globalization of deception that brings the world, all but the righteous, into the camp of the beast?

By the advancement of some just cause through the application of Satan's methods, and those methods are:

- Imposed laws and made up mandates that coerce conscience
- Claims, proclamations, declarations—not evidence and truth; in other words, propaganda, misinformation, and deceit
- Silencing, vilifying, and censoring those pursuing and presenting evidence and truth
- Accusations against those who resist the mandates that they are the cause of calamity and suffering on society
- Use of coercive pressure, fines, loss of property, loss of jobs, loss of position, licenses, ability to travel, assemble, worship, visit family, imprisonment and the Bible says eventually death penalty

Are we seeing the globalization of such methods and principles, the willingness of a freedom-loving people to abuse their neighbors and restrict the liberties of others under the guise of advancing some good cause?

And what of the church's response?

Consider this warning, from the same author, written over 100 years ago:

> In the movements now in progress in the United States to secure for the institutions and usages of the church the support of the state, Protestants are following in the steps of papists. {Great Controversy 573} [Have we seen churches join the state in the coercion of its employees in order for them to secure the support of the state, the continued financial reimbursements, the avoidance of any fines, or orders to shut down?]

Do we see the call of the three angels, which the lesson references, is a global message of truth, of the eternal gospel, the good news about God that has always been true, that God is the Creator, whose laws are design laws and God is not an imperial dictator whose laws are imposed and enforced with external punishments?

- Do we recognize and respond to the call to return to worship God as Creator, the One who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water, and we do this by rejecting imposed law and embracing design law?

- Do we respond to the call to leave Babylon, the fallen system of imposed law and imposed punishments and stop aligning and supporting systems that coerce others' consciences, even for good causes?
- And are we presenting the truth about God in love while leaving others free? The hour has come in human history for people to make a right judgment about God, to stop judging Him to be like a Roman dictator and judge Him to be exactly as Jesus revealed.

Those who make this right judgment about God open their heart in trust to Him and the Holy Spirit is poured out transforming their characters, healing their hearts and minds, so that they bring glory to God by living out God's methods in how they treat others.

This is the final message of mercy, that separates the people of God from the world. And the people of God are those who are like Jesus in character and have His law written into their hearts and minds so that they love God and others and live out that love in how they treat others. Whereas, the enemies of God may very well be religious but they have embraced the lie that God is like Caesar and worship a dictator-god, and by so doing they embrace the imposed law of Satan and become like God's enemy, people who seek what they believe is right by using force, coercion, and punishment upon others to coerce consciences—all under the guise of seeking the greater good, protecting lives, saving the planet, or equity for all.

SUNDAY

Read Luke 2:52: "Jesus grew in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and men" (Luke 2:52NIV84).

The lesson states,

> Jesus was the perfect Human Being, and His growth comprised all basic dimensions of human existence. According to Luke 2:52, "Jesus grew in wisdom [mentally] and stature [physically], and in favor with God [spiritually] and man [socially]" (NIV)."His mind was active and penetrating, with a thoughtfulness and wisdom beyond His years. Yet His character was beautiful in its symmetry. The powers of mind and body developed gradually, in keeping with the laws of childhood. As a child, Jesus manifested a peculiar loveliness of disposition. His willing hands were ever ready to serve others. He manifested a patience that nothing could disturb, and a truthfulness that would never sacrifice integrity. In principle firm as a rock, His life revealed the grace of unselfish courtesy." — Ellen G. White, The Desire of Ages, pp. 68, 69. (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 97)

How did Jesus grow as a human? Did Jesus grow in a different way than the rest of us? Let's consider the different aspects of growth and what is necessary to grow in healthy ways and how Jesus did it and whether those same resources are available to us:

- Physical growth—what is necessary to grow physically?
    - Nutrition—food, did Jesus have to eat? Is healthy food important to our growth and health?
        - What happens with poor nutrition? Does poor nutrition affect only the body and physical growth, or does it have impact on the mind, the ability to regulate mood, to concentrate and focus, on memory and neural development? And does that have an impact on the ability to discern spiritual truths and to serve God to the fullest?
    - Exercise
        - The law of exertion if you want something to get stronger you must exercise, physical development requires exercise.
        - But exercising the body also improves brain development. Exercise increases anti-inflammatory factors that protect the brain from oxidative stress, neurotrophins which improve neuroplasticity and the ability to adapt and learn, and endorphins and enkaphalins which improve mood, provide resilience, help manage stress, and all of these factors improve neural development.
        - Additionally, the circuits which initiate physical movement also have a role in initiating thoughts, and the circuits which make our movements fluid, smooth, and organized, have a role in organizing our thoughts. Thus developing the body is not restricted to the body, but to the mind, character, and spiritual development as well.
        - Did Jesus need to physically exercise, to engage in physical activity, including work to develop various motor skills that would help his thinking and mental processing? And do we?
        - If we don't live in harmony, to the best of our ability, with the laws of health, what happens? And do physical health problems impact our usefulness in God's cause?
    - Security and safety
        - Iraqi children in safe zones versus war zones
        - Children experience security and safety not from governments, or the reality of available resources, but from their parents. If the parents create a home in which the children feel safe, then the children are insulated from much of the stressors in the world around them.
        - Did Jesus need a home in which He was safe and not abused?
        - Can we choose to be godly parents and not exploit and abuse our children, and do all in our power to provide safety and security for them?
    - Love
        - Fredrick the Great's study on infants…
        - Did Jesus need to be loved as a child and to experience the love that is God's design for parents to provide for their children?
        - Can we provide that love to our children?
- Mental growth, growth in wisdom and understanding—what is necessary?
    - Nutrition
    - Exercise—physical and mental, education, problem solving, application

  - Security/safety—an environment where it is valued and safe to ask questions, to contemplate, to challenge orthodoxy, and access to sources of truth
  - Love
- Spiritual growth
  - A healthy body and mind from harmony with the laws of health
  - Truth, access to spiritual truth, Scripture, nature, and someone to educate on the meaning
  - Protection from indoctrination into falsehood
  - Safety and security—non-abusive environment
  - Love
  - Choosing to build a relationship with God, talk with God, seek to listen to God's answers, apply God's directions, trust God with outcomes
  - Application of the truth in practice, loving others, exercising mercy, grace, forgiveness, patience, kindness and self-control
  - Did Jesus need these elements to grow? Do we?
- Social/relational growth
  - Healthy mind, body, and spirit
  - Love
  - Security/safety
  - Exercise in application of healthy relational principles, being the healthiest person in governance of self that one can be while leaving others free.
  - Do we see Jesus doing this, governing self with godly methods and principles, while leaving others free?
    - Did His brothers try to influence His decisions? Did Jesus surrender His choices to the opinions and influence of His brothers?
    - Did Jesus tolerate rejection in order to do what was right?
    - Do we need to do the same if we want healthy relationships?
    - Does being healing in governance of self guarantee that we will have healthy relationships?
    - Were all of Jesus' relationships healthy? No! Healthy relationships require healthy people and His relationship with Judas ended in betrayal, why? Because Judas was selfish and refused the truth and love of God into his heart.
    - We cannot have healthy relationships with unhealthy people. And healthy people are not perfect people but people who are mature enough to be responsible for themselves, to look at their own contributions to problems, to be willing to own their own shortcomings and through God's grace, repent, ask for forgiveness and strive to overcome. But the unhealthy are those who refuse to take responsibility for their own shortcomings, who won't repent, who won't grow and mature, but who instead always blame others, make excuses, and never grow up. We can love them like Jesus loved Judas, but the relationship will not be healthy, and if they don't change themselves, the relationship will eventually come to an end.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph:

> "The dualistic theory of a mortal body with an immortal soul has generated various theories about the human body. For example, for ancient Greek philosophers, the human body was the prison of the soul, which was liberated by death. In an echo of this pagan concept, many Christians today believe that the body is the temporal housing of the immortal soul, which will be reintegrated with the body at the resurrection. By contrast, pantheists make the human body divine; they believe that God and the universe are one and the same. For them, all things are God and the human body is part of the one single integrated and universal divine substance. Surrounded by conflicting theories on the subject, we must stand firm on what the Bible teaches regarding the nature of humanity." (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 98)

Do you agree or disagree with the concept that the body is the temporal housing of the immortal soul?

What about for the righteous, for the saved, is the body the temporal housing of an immortal soul—a soul that becomes immortal because it has received the gift of eternal life from Jesus?

Jesus said:

> "I am the resurrection and the life. He who believes in me will live, even though he dies; and whoever lives and believes in me will never die. Do you believe this?" (John 11:25-26 NIV84).

Do those who believe in Jesus die or never die? If they never die does that mean they have received the gift of eternal life? And if they have received the gift of eternal life from Jesus does that mean this body is the temporal house for the now immortal soul that will be returned to a new body at the resurrection?

Are there other Scriptures that would support this?

> "Do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. Rather, be afraid of the One who can destroy both soul and body in hell" (Matthew 10:28 NIV84).

Is Jesus saying the soul is not destroyed when the body is destroyed on this earth?

What about 1Thessalonians 4:14, that Jesus will bring with Him those who have fallen asleep in Him? If they are asleep in Jesus are they destroyed or dead?

So, the error is not that the body houses a soul that does not die at the death of the body, but that humans possess in themselves inherent immortality and that righteousness or wickedness has no bearing on whether a soul dies. The Biblical truth is that humans were created mortal and as long as Adam and Eve were sinless they would never die, but sin severed the connection with God who alone is immortal (1 Tim 6:16), and is the source of life and their condition became terminal. Thus, sinful humans are "dead in trespass and sin" we have a terminal condition that without remedy will result in eternal death.

However, Jesus became the second Adam, took up that terminal condition and eradicated the death causing principle and restored the life causing principle, the perfect connection with His Father and in Jesus humanity again possesses eternal life. For all those who are reconciled to Jesus they receive the gift of eternal life and thus even though the body dies, in Jesus they still live, their soul is not destroyed at the death of this mortal body, but sleeps in Jesus awaiting the resurrection. Thus, for the righteous they never die, they may sleep, but they never cease to exist.

Therefore, there is a truth that this mortal body houses the soul that, in Christ, will never die, but only for the righteous.

Read second paragraph:

> "Both Adam and Eve were created in God's own image and likeness (Gen. 1:26, 27), which was reflected not only in their character but also in their physical aspect. Because that image was marred and even hidden by the presence of sin, the work of redemption is to restore human beings to their original condition, including their physical health, to the degree possible for beings unable to partake of the tree of life." (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 98)

What is Satan's goal for humankind? Does Satan want to kill all human beings? Or does he have another goal in mind? Does Satan want to destroy the image of God in humankind and put his image where God's should be?

What do you think Satan would prefer—an earth devoid of all life where he reigns an empty lifeless planet or an earth filled with human beings who are like him in character and recognize him as their lord?

In fact, aren't we told that during the 1000 years Satan will be confined to this earth devoid of life and it is a prison to him. He has no desire for geographic territory nor, do I believe, he has a desire to simply to kill all humans. He wants to kill the humans who won't bend the knee to him, the humans who won't accept his mold upon their characters, the humans who are lights of God's love and truth that expose him as a murderer, liar, and fraud.

TUESDAY

Read 1 Corinthians 2:16:

> "For who has known the mind of the Lord that he may instruct him? But we have the mind of Christ" (1 Corinthians 2:16 NIV84).

What does it mean to have the mind of Christ?

Does it mean that Christ takes control of our minds, that we surrender the driver's seat to Him and He makes the choices for us?

Does it mean that we are good and obedient children who wait for Jesus to tell us what to do and then we following His instructions without question?

Does it mean we have our minds changed to love what He loves, value what He values, desire a world that He desires, practice His methods and principles, and have characters that are built in harmony with His character so that we are partakers of the divine nature and have the living law of God written upon our hearts as the motivating principle of action?

And how is it possible for a person to obtain the mind of Christ? Can Christ use might and power to impose His mind upon us? Why or why not?

Can people develop the mind of Christ on their own, with their own power?

Then if God can't achieve this through the exercise of His might and power and we can't achieve it by the exercise of our might and power, how can we experience the mind of Christ?

By faith, by trust—it is when we are won back to God in love and trust and open our hearts and minds to God, with a humble willingness to listen and follow, that we voluntarily choose to accept, assimilate, and apply God's methods and principles to our hearts and minds. And in that trust relationship the Holy Spirit is there to not only enlighten with God's truth, but to empower the individual to succeed in growing in God's truth.

This is the only method that transforms the soul while retaining the individuality of the person who is being saved.

This is why it is the kindness of God that leads us to repentance (Romans 2:4) and why every person must be fully persuaded in their own minds (Romans 14:5).

It is why the Bible teaches that God's methods are not by might nor by power but by the Spirit says the Lord (Zechariah 4:6); it is the Spirit of love and truth working gently upon the heart, without intimidation, threat, or force that wins us to trust and changes the heart.

How beautiful is our God!

Read the second paragraph,

> "The Lord had promised that under the "new covenant" He would put His law in the minds of His people and write it on their hearts (Jer. 31:31-33, compare with Heb. 8:8-10, Heb. 10:16). It is no surprise, then, that in the Sermon on the Mount, Christ broadened and deepened the meaning of God's commandments to the level of thoughts and intentions (see Matt. 5:17-48). So, we can gain victory over temptation only by God's transforming grace and, at the level of thoughts and intentions, we should claim that promise so that we can stop sinful thoughts." (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 99)

Weren't the commandments always that broad?

What is the tenth commandment? Thou shall not covet—and what does that entail? Does it not focus on the level of the thoughts and intentions? And doesn't that demonstrate that all ten were always about the thoughts and intentions?

Then why did Christ have to explain it as He did? Did the people come to view the law as a list of rules to be kept, as imposed, as legal?

Do Christians today still struggle with this same misconception?

What is a better understanding of the Ten Commandments? They were a distillation, or codification, of the design law of love specifically written for sinful human beings and added for our benefit as a diagnostic instrument and protective hedge. The Ten Commandments did not exist in heaven when Lucifer sinned; angels didn't have a law to honor their mother and father, or a law about sins passing down the generations, or not to commit adultery, or not to covet their neighbor's wife, and the Sabbath had not yet been created.

The eternal design laws of God were already in existence, but the diagnostic code of the Ten were specifically written for sinful humans.

Read third paragraph,

> We will always have sinful natures until Jesus comes. But if we are in Christ, we are fully covered by His righteousness. Although we are not yet perfect, we are considered already perfect in Him (Phil. 3:12-15). "When we are united to Christ, we have the mind of Christ. Purity and love shine forth in the character, meekness and truth control the life. The very expression of the countenance is changed. Christ abiding in the soul exerts a transforming power, and the outward aspect bears witness to the peace and joy that reign within." — Ellen G. White, Selected Messages, book 1, p. 337. (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 99)

What does it mean to be perfect? And what does it mean to be covered by the robe of Christ's righteousness?

From the same author in Christ's Object Lessons here is her view, which gives a great historic view of what the SDA church historically taught. Does it still teach this, or does it teach something different? Is this what you believe or do you believe covered by the robe of Christ's righteousness means something different?

> This robe, woven in the loom of heaven, has in it not one thread of human devising. Christ in His humanity wrought out a perfect character, and this character He offers to impart to us… By His perfect obedience He has made it possible for every human being to obey God's commandments. When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged in His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness. Then as the Lord looks upon us He sees, not the fig-leaf garment, not the nakedness and deformity of sin, but His own robe of righteousness, which is perfect obedience to the law of Jehovah. {Christ's Object Lessons 311}

And what does it mean to be perfect? What law lens do you answer the question through?

I wrote a blog on this recently entitled Last Generation Theology, if you would like a full exploration of this question.

But the short answer is that Bible perfection is about maturity of character in our trust relationship with God. That we have come to a point that God can trust us to stay faithful to Him no matter what the problem.

- Job was described as perfect and he was a man who trusted God in the face of terrible tragedy, loss, sickness and friends and family that worked to undermine his trust
- Daniel and his three friends trusted God and wouldn't break trust with Him to save their own lives
- Revelations 12:11

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph,

> The Holy Spirit is God's powerful Agent who pours out the love of God into our hearts (Rom. 5:5), leads us into a true saving experience (John 16:7-11), guides us into all the truth (John 16:13), and empowers us to fulfill the gospel mission (Acts 1:8). Because it is the Holy Spirit who counteracts the degenerating work of Satan, it is no surprise that Satan tries by all means to distort our understanding of the nature and work of the Holy Spirit. While some deny His > personality, others emphasize the gifts of the Spirit over His transforming power. (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 100)

Do you think sinful humans can experience salvation without the Holy Spirit?

One Christian author, in the book The Desire of Ages, describes the work of the Holy Spirit in our salvation this way, do you agree?

> "The Spirit was to be given as a regenerating agent, and without this the sacrifice of Christ would have been of no avail. The power of evil had been strengthening for centuries, and the submission of men to this satanic captivity was amazing. Sin could be resisted and overcome only through the mighty agency of the Third Person of the Godhead, who would come with no modified energy, but in the fullness of divine power. It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer. It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature. Christ has given His Spirit as a divine power to overcome all hereditary and cultivated tendencies to evil, and to impress His own character upon His church." {The Desire of Ages p. 671}

A simple description of the different roles the Godhead takes in our salvation is that Jesus is the one who procured the remedy to our sin condition and the Holy Spirit is the one who applies what Jesus has procured.

The species human was saved in the person of Jesus. Jesus became a real human being and lived a sinless life and destroyed the infection of sin Adam brought into himself and with which the rest of us are born (Ps 51:5). Jesus partook of that humanity and purified it in His person and thereby carried humanity to the perfection God intended for the species when He created Adam. Thus, in Jesus the species was redeemed. Jesus simultaneously procured the remedy that the Holy Spirit applies to us.

But without the work of the Holy Spirit in bringing what Jesus achieved into our hearts and minds no human could resist the corruption of sin in our lives. The Holy Spirit:

- Puts enmity between sinful human and Satan; in other words, the Holy Spirit puts a desire for good in our hearts, a longing for love and something better than evil and rebellion
- Convicts of sin
- Convicts of duty
- Reveals truth to us in ways we can comprehend, and then leaves us free to decide
- When we choose the truth the Holy Spirit provides divine power to succeed in living out that truth
- Comforts us
- Removes guilt and shame for those who trust God
- Instills new motives and desires that Christ wrought out

Do you see why the Holy Spirit is under constant attack in a variety of ways?

How is the Holy Spirit attacked?

- By replacing the true Holy Spirit with false spirits of hysteria or emotionalism
- By denying the existence of the Holy Spirit
- By separating the work of the Holy Spirit, which is the Spirit of truth and love so that people advance one or the other but
    - Love without truth is not kind—it's cruel; Truth without love is not healing—it's destructive.

2022 4Q On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 13
The Judging Process

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

What does the title, "The Judging Process" cause you to think? What law lens do you understand judgment through?

Read the first paragraph,

> If Scripture is clear about one thing, it is the reality of judgment. God will judge the world. The texts, both in the Old Testament and the New, are numerous and without ambiguity. The justice so lacking here and now will one day come. (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 104)

What does this mean to you?

- What is the purpose of God's judgment? –provide justice, as the lesson says?
- Then what does God's judgment do? –determine guilt, innocence, reward and punishment?
- Does God's judgment determine guilt or innocence?
- Does God's judgment determine punishment or reward?

Keep these questions in mind as we explore the various aspects of judgment.

Read second paragraph,

> The Bible says that God has "perfect knowledge" (Job 37:16, NIV) and "knows everything" (1 John 3:20, NIV), including our most secret intentions (Eccl. 12:14, Jer. 17:10). We can hide from everyone and everything else, but nothing is hidden from God.

Do you believe this to be true? Yes, I do also. But what about ideas like this from previous study guides:

> "Saving souls from death is possible only through the 'covering' of sins, by apply the gospel to our lives, and become instruments of mercy." (2014 fourth quarter The Book of James Lesson 12 Thursday).

> "no matter how bad sin is, God's grace is sufficient to cover it for those who claim His promises by faith." (2014 second quarter Christ and His Law lesson 7 Sunday).

What about ideas that suggest that for the righteous their sins are erased from the record books, that they wear the robe of Christ's righteousness so when the Father looks at them He doesn't known all their sins? Are the sins of the righteous hidden from the Father? In the judgment will the sins of the saved be known and revealed or hidden and covered up?

The Bible says:

> I, even I, am he who blots out your transgressions, for my own sake, and remembers your sins no more. (Isaiah 43:25 NIV84)
> For I will forgive their wickedness and will remember their sins no more (Hebrews 8:12 NIV84).

Does this mean at some point some things are hidden from God? Or God does some selective memory erasure to cause Himself a form of amnesia?

No! Nothing is hidden from God, including the future. To God all reality is outspread, past, present, and future are alike to God. Nothing is hidden from Him.

The texts above are not about cognitive knowledge or awareness, they are about relationship relevance. When your child is sick and dying from a terminal condition, and you have a remedy to cure them, you must pay attention, you must focus on their sickness and the treatment to cure them. But when they are completely well, you don't have to focus on or think about their sickness, the vomiting, diarrhea, fevers, anymore. When the fully healthy child says, "mommy I'm sorry I vomited on your new shoes" you say, "its forgotten." It's over. This is what the Bible means, it is no longer an issue for God to focus upon because sin is no longer in us.

And that is what it means to blot out our sins and transgressions—God blots them out of our hearts, minds, and characters when He writes His law into our hearts and minds. God erases nothing from history, but He does erase fear, selfishness, guilt, shame, and evil motives from our hearts, minds, and characters.

Thoughts?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph,

> For many, the idea of judgment means condemnation. And though that's part of the process, we mustn't forget that the idea of judgment has a positive side, in that judgment also involves the vindication of the righteous. Actually, the book of Daniel refers to an end-time judgment "in favor of the saints of the Most High" (Dan. 7:22, NKJV). God's judgment includes both — a principle found in this Old Testament text: "Then hear in heaven, and act, and judge Your servants, condemning the wicked, bringing his way on his head, and justifying the righteous by giving him according to his righteousness" (1 Kings 8:32, NKJV). (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 105)

The lesson quotes the NKJV which reads:

> until the Ancient of Days came, and a judgment was made in favor of the saints of the Most High (Daniel 7:22 NKJV).

But what do you think of these versions?

> until the Ancient One came; then judgment was given for the holy ones of the Most High, and the time arrived when the holy ones gained possession of the kingdom. (Daniel 7:22 NRSV).

> until the Ancient of Days came, and judgment was given for the saints of the Most High (Daniel 7:22 ESV).

> Until the Ancient of days came, and judgment was given to the saints of the most High (Daniel 7:22 KJV).

The Hebrew is יְהַב [yâhab /yeh·hab/] and has 28 occurrences, and is translated as "give" 21 times, "given" twice, "delivered" once, "laid" once, "paid" once, "prolonged" once, and "yielded" once. It means to give, provide. 1A2 to place, lay (foundations). (Strong, J. (1995). In Enhanced Strong's Lexicon. Woodside Bible Fellowship.)

So is there a difference in the meaning of God pronouncing judgment in favor of the saints and God giving judgment to the saints?

What is the core problem in the Great Controversy? What is the root to sin and rebellion in God's universe? It is distrust of God! It is the lies of Satan that undermine our faith and trust in God.

Paul wrote:

> For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. (2 Corinthians 10:3–5 NIV84).

Paul wrote in Romans:

> God must be true, even though every human being is a liar. As the scripture says, "You must be shown to be right when you speak; you must win your case when you are being tried." (Romans 3:4 GNT).

> Let God be proven true, and every human being shown up as a liar, just as it is written: "so that you will be justified in your words and will prevail when you are judged." (Romans 3:4 NET)

What is God revealing to Daniel in Daniel 7:22? A time in human history when the saints are given judgment, discernment, the ability to see through the lies, the ability to make a right judgment about God. This corresponds with the final message to the world of the 3 Angels:

> Then I saw another angel flying in midair, and he had the eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live on the earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people. He said in a loud voice, "Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water." (Revelation 14:6-7 NIV84).

It is the time in human history for people to make a right judgment about God.

Why wait until this time in human history, hasn't God been calling people to trust Him and make a right judgment about Him all along?

Yes, this is not about individual salvation, that has been going on all along. This is about the worldwide movements that bring everyone to the point of making a decision as to what view of God they hold and whether they will believe and trust Him or deny Him.

The wine of Babylon are the false views of God taught throughout the world that intoxicates or confuses and benumbs the minds of people. The eternal gospel counters those false views, calling people back to worship the Creator, by expounding the reality of His design laws of truth, love, and liberty. These truths of God's character and how He runs His universe in genuine freedom and love based on truth, stands in sharp contrast to the totalitarian methods of earthly governments and the beast. Liberty of conscience draws people whereas coercive force drives people away from love and trust.

Thus, the final message is about God's character and government of truth, love, and liberty, of design law. We reject the imposed Roman-law fraud that has infected Christianity and call people out of that fallen system of imposed rules with a god waiting to use his power to inflict pain and suffering and death that would not otherwise be experienced if that god didn't do so. That view of God is pagan, it is a lie, and it destroys in the hearts and minds of those who believe it the very faculties that respond to love and truth.

Such a view of God, if embraced and practiced, will turn people into beings who will use external power and force to inflict punishment upon those who don't comply with their mandates.

So the judgment given to the saints is the revelation of the truth about God, His design laws, methods, and principles which exposes the imposed law system of Rome as a fraud and allows the saints to make the judgment that God is not the kind of person Satan says, but is completely trustworthy.

Further, it allows the saints to judge the methods they will embrace and employ in how they treat others. By choosing the methods of God, truth, love, and liberty, they give glory to God and reveal His character drawing more people to the truth about God and out of the fallen system of Babylon.

And even in the OT Bible verse quoted by the lesson to try and prove imposed law and a punishing God, the text reveals God's method are design law:

> Then hear in heaven, and act, and judge Your servants, condemning the wicked, bringing his way on his head, and justifying the righteous by giving him according to his righteousness" (1 Kings 8:32, NKJV).

Paul states this very directly in Galatians 6:7-9:

> Do not be deceived: God cannot be mocked. A man reaps what he sows. The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction; the one who sows to please the Spirit, from the Spirit will reap eternal life. Let us not become weary in doing good, for at the proper time we will reap a harvest if we do not give up. (Galatians 6:7-9 NIV84).

In the Bible there are five types of judgments, let's review them:

Legal judgment—which is based upon human law, and how human governments operate. It is when an external legal authority makes a legal ruling determining guilt or innocence and reward and punishment.

This type of judgment was used by the Sanhedrin and Pilate to judge and condemn Jesus to death.

This type of judgment does not exist in God's kingdom because the law upon which it is based does not exist in God's kingdom.

God's law is not human law and does not function like human law, made up rules. God is the Creator whose laws are design laws and biblical judgment has more meanings than external legal pronouncements.

The First Judgment
We have already discussed the first judgment, which is our judgment about God. This first type of judgment was first described in the Bible in Genesis, in Eden, when Adam and Eve had to make a judgment: Who would they believe, who would they trust—God or the serpent?

When we are presented with lies about someone we know, someone we love and trust, we have to make a judgment: Do we believe the lies or reject them? Likewise, the first judgment is our judgment of God—do we judge Him to be trustworthy or not? It is that simple.

We see this first judgment at Mount Carmel, when Elijah confronts the 450 priests of Baal and challenges the people:

> If the LORD is God, worship him; but if Baal is God, worship him! (1 Kings 18:21 GNT).

This judgment of God is not a judicial judgment, it is not a courtroom; it is the judgment of reality, the choice every sapient being throughout the entire universe must make in the aftermath of Satan's rebellion.

It is the judgment Daniel 7 is describing, God giving discernment to the saints to make a right judgment about God and break free of the lies that have held them in bondage.

Why was this necessary after Jesus Himself came and revealed the truth about God?

Tragically, shortly after the apostles died, the Christian church began embracing the Roman imposed law lies. And Christianity was corrupted into arbitrary and legal rules and requirements with a punishing god who needed a human blood sacrifice to propitiate his wrath.

Paul describes this infection of imposed law when he describes the man of lawlessness:

> Don't let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God. (2 Thessalonians 3-4 NIV84).

This is describing Satan's attack to do away with God's law, the man of lawlessness. He comes with a theory, a philosophy, a theology that infects the minds of people and thereby sets himself upon in God's temple—the Spirit temple, the hearts and minds of people as the one to be worshiped. By embracing the idea that God's law functions like Roman law, and that God is a being who makes up rules and then enforces those rules with inflicted punishment, and who requires a legal payment be made to Him for our sins, Satan has replaced God in the hearts of people and enthroned himself into human hearts, the temple of God, as the one who is worshiped and adored.

He is lawless and is doomed to destruction because he sets aside the design laws of God for made up rules and the only outcome for those who continue to break God's design laws for life is ruin and death.

This perversion of imposed law has infected every branch of Christianity and judgment, for almost all Christians, has come to mean judicial proceedings: Satan, the accuser; Jesus, our defense attorney; and the Father, the judge who decides our destiny and grants rewards or inflicts punishments. But this way of legal functioning is a sinful-human law system. It is not the way God and His heavenly kingdom operate.

Thus, before Christ returns, God sends a message that contains the eternal good news about Him as our Creator. We are called to make a right judgment about God, to stop worshiping the imperial dictator of that fallen Babylonian system, and come out of that imperial legal distortion. It is now the time to glorify God by revealing His methods in our lives and by worshiping Him who made the heavens, earth, sea and springs of water. The hour of God's judgment has come, the question is how will you judge God?

The first judgment is our judgment of God.

The Second Judgment
When we understand design law, we can see that Adam and Eve's sin did not create a legal problem; it created a lethal problem.

They were not loyal, faithful, and holy beings filled with godly love and trust who were now suddenly in legal trouble with God. No—their sin altered them in such a way that without direct intervention from God, they would die. Their condition was terminal, and every human being born since is born with this same terminal condition.

The Messiah, the Remedy to our terminal state, was promised in Genesis 3:15; the seed of the woman would come to crush the serpent's head. While Adam's sin introduced the death condition, the promised Messiah would bring the cure—eradicate the death condition and reconnect humanity to the source of life.

Thus, the entire Old Testament is a record of the battle for human salvation—God working through His agencies to bring Christ, for the purposes of overcoming sin and healing humanity, and Satan working to stop God's plan.

How could Satan prevent Jesus from being born as a human? By getting every human being to harden their heart so that there wouldn't be a single woman willing to be the mother of our Messiah. God would not force a woman against her will, and God would not have Jesus born to a vile, hate-filled woman like Jezebel.

The Bible tells us that at the time of the global flood, there was only one righteous man left on the earth. Think about it: An entire planet of people and only one person was still loyal to God. The avenue through which the Messiah would come was almost closed.

So God made a "judgment." It was not a judicial judgment. It was a therapeutic judgment, a judgment of what reality required in order for God to save His precious creation.

God decided—judged—that He must protect the family of the one man left loyal to Him so that the Messiah could come, lest every single human be lost. Thus, God sent the flood not as a legal punishment for sin, but as a therapeutic intervention for all humanity, for those who died before the flood (they still needed Jesus to come) and those who have lived since. And also for those who died in the flood.

Noah preached for 120 years, warning of the coming flood and proclaiming God's grace in providing the ark for anyone who was willing to get on board. No one else did. But think of the gracious opportunity the flood provided those rebellious people. The rains and rising waters were evidence that Noah had been telling the truth. Those evidences gave the rebellious people time to repent before their mortal lives were lost and to experience salvation and receive eternal life. They would be like the thief on the cross next to Christ; he had lived rebelliously but, at the end of his life, he accepted Jesus and received salvation even though his temporal death was unavoidable. The flood was a therapeutic act to keep open the avenue for Messiah to save the world, but it was also therapeutic for the people of that time, giving them one final opportunity to repent.

And sadly, some people have tried to impugn our position by quoting from one of the founders of the SDA church who wrote that no righteous died in the flood. This position, in the mind of those who prefer a human law view of things negates the argument I just made about giving one more opportunity. But that is because they mix issues. The issue I just described was about God, God's actions, God's character, it was not about any sinner? I just described how God's actions in bringing the flood was therapeutic to keep open the avenue for the Messiah, and was also therapeutic for those who died in the flood, giving them time to repent. That is true—I have no idea whether someone availed themselves of the evidence of the rains and rising waters and the truths Noah preached and actually repented. That is a different question. The question is what is God's judgment, is it judicial or therapeutic. Those who assume God's law is like human law see the world and the Bible through the warp of human legality and insist God must inflict punishment for sin and therefore, look to stories like the flood to prove God inflicts punishment for sin.

But even their own theology contradicts them. Even for those who insist on believing the lie that God's law functions like Satan's law, I would remind them that even in their false narrative, the judgment for sin is a future event—and punishment for sin is not inflicted before judgment. Further, punishment for sin according to Scripture is not sleep in the grave until resurrection, but the eternal death that happens after the 1000 years. Thus, the flood is not judicial in any shape or fashion. It is therapeutic.

We find God's "judgments" throughout history to fall into this category. God's "judgments" on Egypt were His therapeutic interventions to expose the Egyptian gods as false and to turn the hearts of the people—both Hebrew and Egyptian—to Him for salvation. We find God's "judgments" in the life of Jonah: When God sent him to Nineveh, and he ran away to avoid it, God sent a storm and the great fish; then after the warning was delivered and the Ninevites repented, God "judged" that destruction wasn't necessary. In other words, God's "judgment" was that the most therapeutic action was to send a message of warning, which worked. Further, God knew that Jonah suffered with certain prejudices and that this would be therapeutic for Jonah as well.

There is another aspect of God's healing, therapeutic, judgment: His work in the hearts and minds of people. David understood this and prayed:

> Examine me, O God, and know my mind; test me, and discover my thoughts. Find out if there is any evil in me and guide me in the everlasting way (Psalm 139:23, 24 GNT).

Malachi describes this judgment:

> "Suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come," says the Lord Almighty. But who can endure the day of his > coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver. Then the Lord will have men who will bring offerings in righteousness, and the offerings of Judah and Jerusalem will be acceptable to the Lord, as in days gone by, as in former years. "So I will come near to you for judgment" (Malachi 3:1–5 NIV84).

This is the "judgment" of the Great Heavenly Physician, our Creator: examining us, diagnosing what is wrong in us, and determining what is the best therapeutic intervention to bring to bear to heal and restore us. This is the judgment of our High Priest going on in heaven as He examines the people and prepares them for His return, to complete His healing of them so that when He does come, we will be like Him—for "we know that when he appears, we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is" (1 John 3:2 NIV84). This healing, this transformation, this final work of preparation is what Malachi describes above—the cleansing of our temples, the purifying of the Levites (His people today), is all taught metaphorically in the Day of Atonement rituals, which is also taught in the wedding metaphor, Christ cleansing His bride and the two becoming one.

And today we are releasing our new magazine: The Wedding of Christ to His Bride: Preparing the Church for the Second Coming.

Just as with the first judgment, the second judgment is also not a judicial process. It is God's judgment of what is therapeutically needed for the plan of salvation to be realized on both a global and an individual scale.

The Third Judgment

The third judgment is the judgment that the righteous render during the thousand years after they are taken to heaven and all the evidence of history is before them.

> I saw thrones on which were seated those who had been given authority to judge. And I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded because of their testimony for Jesus and because of the word of God. They had not worshiped the beast or his image and had not received his mark on their foreheads or their hands. They came to life and reigned with Christ a thousand years (Revelation 20:4–6 NIV84).

This is also not a judicial process; it is an answering of all the questions people have about the great controversy. It is the assessment, discerning, and settling of minds regarding how God's laws govern all reality. It is the confirmation of what sin does and how salvation occurs—and why some are saved and others are not, when God loves all equally, and wants all to be saved, and is all powerful.

This judgment by the saints includes more than judging why some of our friends and loved ones are not in heaven; it also includes judging what the angels did and how they possibly could have rebelled: "Do you not know that we will judge angels?" (1 Corinthians 6:3 NIV84).

The saints will review the history of what transpired on earth and the lives of the lost, humans and angels alike, and they will judge that there was nothing more that God could have done. God's design laws and government will stand vindicated, and God will not be falsely blamed for any soul not being in heaven. Without this judgment, doubt about God's goodness would remain in the hearts and minds of those, who like the thief on the cross, were saved near the end of their lives and didn't have time to work through all their doubts and misunderstandings. This is the judgment in which the saved exercise their God-given ability to think, reason, discern and settle all their questions so that sin will never arise again.

The third judgment is also not a judicial process but a review of reality, of actual history, of applying our understanding of the design laws of God and making the judgment that all who are lost are lost because that is what they prefer and that there was nothing more God could have done for them.

The Fourth Judgment
The fourth and final judgment is the judgment that occurs at the end of the thousand years. It is often called the Great White Throne Judgment.

> I saw a great white throne and him who was seated on it. … And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Another book was opened, which is the book of life. The dead were judged according to what they had done as recorded in the books (Revelation 20:11, 12 NIV84).

Surely this judgment must be judicial … right? No, it isn't.

What is recorded in the books of life? The names of people (Philippians 4:3, Revelation 3:5, 13:8, 17:8, 20:15, 21:27). But in Scripture, names are symbolic of one's character. So, what is recorded is our actual characters, which we have developed through our judgment of God—our judgment to trust Him, to open our hearts to Him, to embrace His design laws and methods of truth, love, and liberty or not. Our judgments of God result in whether we open the heart and are reborn—or harden our hearts in selfishness. Our characters develop along whichever line our judgment decides about God, whether we trust Him and His methods or reject them. Thus, we are judged, diagnosed, based on what is the actual condition of our character.

Here's another way to say it: The books record the accurate picture of who we are in heart—they are like medical records. The records don't determine the condition; they merely record the condition.

This is exactly what Jesus taught when He said:

> Make a tree good and its fruit will be good, or make a tree bad and its fruit will be bad, for a tree is recognized by its fruit. You brood of vipers, how can you who are evil say anything good? For out of the overflow of the heart the mouth speaks. The good man brings good things out of the good stored up in him, and the evil man brings evil things out of the evil stored up in him. But I tell you that men will have to give account on the day of judgment for every careless word they have spoken. For by your words you will be acquitted, and by your words you will be condemned (Matthew 12:33–37 NIV84).

What is being described? Character—the actual condition of each heart, a diagnosis of what the reality actually is. God is the God of reality, the builder of all Creation. His laws are the protocols upon which life operates. There has never been a heavenly judicial law court like humans make; the idea that God is an arbitrary judge who is the source of inflicted punishment for sin is a lie from Satan.

The fourth and final judgment is not judicial; it is the final confirmation of the accurate diagnosis of each heart and mind:

> He who is unjust, let him be unjust still; he who is filthy, let him be filthy still; he who is righteous, let him be righteous still; he who is holy, let him be holy still (Revelation 22:11 NKJV).

And so our memory text for this week about appearing before God's judgment seat, means appearing before the most accurate diagnostician, the one who perfectly and accurately diagnosis what is. This is how I rendered it in The Remedy:

> for we will all appear in Christ's examining room so that each one may be accurately diagnosed and receive what their condition warrants, whether from compliance or non-compliance with God's treatment plan. (2 Corinthians 5:10 REM).

MONDAY

Any questions about the pre-advent judgment?

Does the Bible teach this concept of Jesus examining people and cleansing the sanctuary from sin before He returns?

Where do you find this concept?

- Daniel 8:14
- The parable of the wedding guests being examined
- Malachi 3:1-5
- Also in the wedding and wedding supper
    - Hallelujah! For our Lord God Almighty reigns. Let us rejoice and be glad and give him glory! For the wedding of the Lamb has come, and his bride has made herself ready. Fine linen, bright and clean, was given her to wear." [Fine linen stands for the righteous acts of the saints.] Then the angel said to me, "Write: 'Blessed are those who are invited to the wedding supper of the Lamb!'" (Revelation 19:6–9 NIV84).
- But also in the symbolism of the annual feasts

And this is how we approach it in our new magazine:

The purpose of the ceremonial system was to teach the plan of salvation, to teach the reality of Jesus. In that symbolic system, there were seven annual feasts that were like a theatrical play meant to illustrate, to teach sinful humans, God's saving plan from the fall of Adam to the earth made new. Each of the seven major feasts had a real-life fulfillment and covered a portion of human history from Adam's fall all the way to the earth made new:

- Passover: The first feast in the annual cycle was the Passover. As soon as Adam and Eve sinned, God "passed over" their sins. He "left the sins committed beforehand unpunished" (Romans 3:25 NIV84) and promised a Passover Lamb who "takes away the sin of the world" (John 1:29 NIV84). This feast had its fulfillment in Jesus—the Passover Lamb, who was crucified on Passover Friday. The time in human history covered by this feast was from Adam's sin until Christ's death on the cross.
- Unleavened Bread: This feast was concurrent with the Passover and symbolizes that after Adam's sin, God immediately began dispensing truth unmixed with error (symbolized by the unleavened bread) to nurture and feed His children. The bitter herbs represent the bitterness caused by sin, which became a part of human life. Both the Lamb slain and the bread without yeast represent Christ, the source of truth and healing for sinful humanity.

  This Passover meal was eaten before the death angel came, which symbolizes that God had predetermined to "passover" our transgression and provide a remedy to save and heal us from our terminal sin condition. Jesus is our remedy; He is the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world (Revelation 13:8).

  The Feast of Unleavened Bread symbolized the internalization of the truth about God as provided by Christ. The time period represented in the Feast of Unleavened Bread is from Adam's fall until the crucifixion of Christ. This feast was replaced with the communion service to commemorate the sacrifice of Christ after the crucifixion and to represent the continual necessity of the partaking of Jesus to be saved.
- The Wave Sheaf: This was also symbolic of Christ, who is the sinless first fruit raised from the dead. Just as the wheat is buried in the ground, symbolically dying, and comes forth in newness of life, so also Christ was buried in the ground, came forth in newness of life, and brought forth many righteous with Him. The time frame represented by this ceremony was from the time of Christ's resurrection until Pentecost—the time Jesus and those resurrected with Him witnessed in person in Jerusalem (Matthew 27:52, 53).
- Feast of Weeks (Pentecost): The truth spreads and takes root in many hearts and a harvest is experienced. This was fulfilled during Pentecost two thousand years ago, when the Holy Spirit fell upon those believers of the early church and the truth about God spread throughout the known world. The time frame covered is from ad 31 (Pentecost) until the nineteenth century.
- Trumpets: A special message for the end of time that is to awaken the end-time church (symbolized by the ten virgins in Christ's parable) from their slumber and announce Jesus, the Bridegroom, is coming soon. Prepare! Get Ready! Christ is coming back soon! This trumpet call is to call the people to the wedding of Christ, the Groom, with His bride, the church, and occurred with the Great Awakening in the nineteenth century.
- Atonement: At-one-ment is the time immediately before the second coming of Christ, when the Groom puts the final cleansing touches upon His bride, wedding her to Himself, purifying her into complete harmony of heart, mind, motive, method, and character with Him, for "we know that when he appears, we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is" (1 John 3:2). This is the time in which we are living today!

- Tabernacles: This feast symbolically taught the time after the wedding (two becoming one), when the saints tabernacle (dwell) with God away from the world of sin in the earth made new. This is the wedding supper of the Lamb.

Just as the Old Testament Passover feast had a real and literal fulfillment when Jesus died as our Passover Lamb on Passover Friday, so also there is a real and literal cleansing, uniting, bonding, and at-one-ment of the Bridegroom and His bride that precedes the second coming. We are living in that time right now!

So Jesus is in heaven working through His agencies to heal the hearts and minds of those who have placed their faith/trust in Him to prepare us for His return.

TUESDAY

Any questions about the millennial judgment?

WEDNESDAY

Read the first two paragraphs:

> During the Middle Ages there was a strong tendency to portray God as a severe, punitive Judge. Today the tendency is to describe Him as a loving, permissive Father who never punishes His children. Yet, love without justice will turn into chaos and lawlessness, and justice without love will become oppression and subjugation. God's judging process is a perfect blend of justice and mercy, both of which derive from His unconditional love.
>
> The executive judgment is God's final and irreversible punitive intervention in human history. Limited punitive judgments occurred, for example, in the casting out of Satan and his rebellious angels from heaven (Rev. 12:7-12), the driving out of Adam and Eve from the garden of Eden (Genesis 3), the Great Flood (Genesis 6-8), the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah (Genesis 19, Jude 7), the death of the firstborn in Egypt (Exodus 11-12), and the death of Ananias and Sapphira (Acts 5:1-11). So it is no surprise that there will be an executive judgment of the wicked also at the end of human history. (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 108)

What is being described? What law lens are they presenting God, God's law, God's government, and God's justice through?

When I read stuff like this it makes me sick, breaks my heart, saddens me because this is the wine of Babylon, this in the view of the man of sin Paul wrote about, this is the way things are described when one accepts the lie that God's law functions like human law. This view obstructs the final message of mercy, this type of presentation is one the reasons the world has not yet been lighted with God's glory.

From one of the founders of the SDA church, in the book The Desire of Ages we read:

> In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. The Desire of Ages 761

Do we see this very same argument, coming right out of the mouth of Satan being made in our own study guide? And we wonder why Jesus waits, why the latter rain has not fallen.

Will God pour out His Spirit upon people to empower them to take Satan's lies about Him to the world?

If we want the latter rain to be pour out upon us, we must reject the wine of Babylon, the imposed law lie, and return to worshiping the Creator whose laws are design laws and then as a people we will receive His power to lighten the world.

Viewing the Bible through the wrong law lens, the lesson makes a predictable and all too common mistake and that is using the Old Testament actions of God as evidence of the final end of sin and sinners, as God making judicial judgments and inflicting punishment.

First, every person who died in human history died the first death, the sleep death, and not the death that is the punishment for sin. To equate these two diverse experiences creates a lie.

The first death is an artificial state permitted because of God's grace to allow for the plan of salvation to be realized. The natural result of sin is separation from God and eternal death, the destruction of body and soul, annihilation.

But God so loved the world that He gave us His Son so that all who believe in Him would not die that eternal death. And Jesus was given to us from the foundation of the world, the Lamb of God slain from the foundation of the world.

As soon as Adam sinned Jesus was there carrying out God's plan of mercy and applying His grace to hold at bay the full results of sin, which is eternal death. Thus God allowed for the first death to be experienced, in which bodies cease to operate but the individualities of people are stored on heavenly servers, the Lamb's book of life. The Bible describes this first death as a state of sleep.

Every person who died from any cause in human history is sleeping, they have not experienced eternal death.

And the punishment for sin is eternal death, not sleep until resurrection. So the lesson creates a falsehood by using God's OT therapeutic intervention in putting some people to sleep as evidence of what happens to the unrepentant in the end.

Questions?

But the lesson quotes EGW, one of the founders of our church to suggest that God does inflict punishment, let's read the third paragraph:

> "God's goodness and long forbearance, His patience and mercy exercised to His subjects, will not hinder Him from punishing the sinner who refused to be obedient to His requirements. It is not for a man — a criminal against God's holy law, pardoned only through the great sacrifice He made in giving His Son to die for the guilty because His law was changeless — to dictate to God." — Ellen G. White, Manuscript Releases, vol. 12, p. 208.

Do you see how this quote can serve those who believe God's law functions like human law? And the problem is that they take quotes like this in isolation to support the false view they already hold rather than allowing the author to describe the method of bringing punishment.

> This case is placed on record for our benefit. Just what took place in Pharaoh's heart will take place in every soul that neglects to cherish the light and walk promptly in its rays. God destroys no one. The sinner destroys himself by his own impenitence. When a person once neglects to heed the invitations, reproofs, and warnings of the Spirit of God, his conscience becomes seared, and the next time he is admonished, it will be more difficult to yield obedience than before. And thus with every repetition. Conscience is the voice of God, heard amid the conflict of human passions; when it is resisted, the Spirit of God is grieved. – {Testimonies vol. 5, p. 120.}
>
> The Jews had forged their own fetters; they had filled for themselves the cup of vengeance. In the utter destruction that befell them as a nation, and in all the woes that followed them in their dispersion, they were but reaping the harvest which their own hands had sown. Says the prophet: "O Israel, thou hast destroyed thyself;" "for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity." Hosea 13:9; 14:1. Their sufferings are often represented as a punishment visited upon them by the direct decree of God. It is thus that the great deceiver seeks to conceal his own work. By stubborn rejection of divine love and mercy, the Jews had caused the protection of God to be withdrawn from them, and Satan was permitted to rule them according to his will. The horrible cruelties enacted in the destruction of Jerusalem are a demonstration of Satan's vindictive power over those who yield to his control. Great Controversy 35.3
> We are not to regard God as waiting to punish the sinner for his sin. The sinner brings the punishment upon himself. His own actions start a train of circumstances that bring the sure result. Every act of transgression reacts upon the sinner, works in him a change of character, and makes it more easy for him to transgress again. By choosing to sin, men separate themselves from God, cut themselves off from the channel of blessing, and the sure result is ruin and death. Selected Messages vol.1, p 235.

"I was shown that the judgments of God would not come directly out from the Lord upon them, but in this way;

"They place themselves beyond His protection. He warns, corrects, reproves, and points out the only path of safety; then if those who have been the objects of His special care will follow their own course, indepentent of the Spirit of God, after repeated warnings, if they choose their own way, then He does not commission His angels to prevent Satan's decided attacks upon them.

"It is Satan's power that is at work at sea and on land, bringing calamity and distress, and sweeping off multitudes to make sure of his prey, and storm and tempest both by sea and land will be, for Satan has come down in great wrath. He is at work. He knows his time is short and, he is not restrained; we shall see more terrible manifestations of his great power than we have ever dreamed of." Manuscript Release vol. 14, p. 3

Satan and sin destroy, God is the source of life and since sin God has been using His power to hold Satan, sin, and the ultimate result of sin—eternal death—at bay. God brings punishment NOT by dispensing power, but by ceasing to dispense power and allowing what naturally happens when sin is not removed, eternal separation from God and eternal destruction from sin, not from God.

THURSDAY

The lesson states at the end of the millennium the wicked are raised to receive their final punitive sentence.

Is that why they are raised? Does God raised people who are experiencing no pain, no suffering, not distress simply to inflict some pain and suffering on them and then kill them?

Understand, this is what the imposed law view says. That in order to be just God must raise dead people, bring them back to consciousness in order to use His divine power to torture them the appropriate amount of time to make them pay and suffer for their sins before He kills them.

Fortunately, this is a lie. When we return to design law we understand a completely different process is happening.

God raises every single person back to life and allows them to complete their lives as they freely choose, which will demonstrate the truth, that God keeps no one out of heaven, every single sapient being who is eternally lost is eternally lost because they prefer death over life in God’s kingdom.

At the end of the 1000 years the New Jerusalem comes down from heaven and the wicked are raised from the dead, a period of time goes by during which the wicked are building weapons of war. During this time the gates of the New Jerusalem are open, and not one single person on the outside comes in.

What does this reveal? It reveals that God is not keeping people out, they keep themselves out. Only when they march in mass to attack the city does Jesus order the gates closed.

> At last the order to advance is given, and the countless host moves on—an army such as was never summoned by earthly conquerors, such as the combined forces of all ages since war began on earth could never equal. Satan, the mightiest of warriors, leads the van, and his angels unite their forces for this final struggle. Kings and warriors are in his train, and the multitudes follow in vast companies, each under its appointed leader. With military precision the serried ranks advance over the earth's broken and uneven surface to the City of God. By command of Jesus, the gates of the New Jerusalem are closed, and the armies of Satan surround the city and make ready for the onset. GC 664.3

> Now Christ again appears to the view of His enemies. Far above the city, upon a foundation of burnished gold, is a throne, high and lifted up. Upon this throne sits the Son of God, and around Him are the subjects of His kingdom. The power and majesty of Christ no language can describe, no pen portray. The glory of the Eternal Father is enshrouding His Son. The brightness of His presence fills the City of God, and flows out beyond the gates, flooding the whole earth with its radiance. GC 665.1

Where does His fiery glory flow first? Into the city, and who is in the city? The saved, and the fire doesn't harm them in the least, demonstrating the fire is not the source of pain, suffering, or death. Sin is the source of pain suffering and death. And when the fires of infinite truth and love flow over the wicked, it causes overwhelming agony of mind and heart as each person has full awareness of their sin, the pain and suffering they have caused others, complete guilt and shame that they can no longer avoid with their lies and distortions and awareness of what they have given up. Eventually, person by person they all acknowledge they would rather not live than live in the fires of God's presence and they surrender letting go their hold on life. Some do this in a moment, others linger hours, others for days, and Satan the last.

But none of this is inflicted by God. God has been shielding His creatures from this fate the entire time. This is God's strange act, removing His protective shield and letting sinners reap fully the pain, suffering, and torment that unremedied sin causes.

2022 4Q On Death, Dying, and the Future Hope—Lesson 14
All Things New

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read Memory Text:

> Then He who sat on the throne said, "Behold, I make all things new." And He said to me, "Write, for these words are true and faithful." (Revelation 21:5 NKJV)

Isn't this a beautiful promise? Aren't we looking forward to this day?

Have you ever considered what it means to makes all things new?

When Jesus says, "I make all things new," is this a current event or a future event?

The NKJV says "I make all things new" but this is how the NIV renders it:

> He who was seated on the throne said, "I am making everything new!" Then he said, "Write this down, for these words are trustworthy and true." (Revelation 21:5 NIV84).

I am making everything new…does it make a difference to us if the making of all things new is future activity or present activity? Does the tense add meaning and implication to what God, through Jesus, is accomplishing?

When Jesus says He makes or is making all things new, is the focus of that promise on inanimate material like rocks, stars, moons and cities paved with gold with gates of pearl? Or is the focus upon removing sin from living beings, of making people new and removing all the corruption, damage, and sickness that sin has caused all the living organisms on this planet?

If God has the power, which He does, to make all things new, why has He not already done it? Why wait so long?

Can God cleanse the universe from sin by the use of might and power? Why or why not?

What is sin? It is distrust, rebellion, disloyalty, and selfishness, driven by lies and fear.

Can God, by using greater amounts of physical might, power, threats, and even execution, remove fear, distrust, rebellion, and disloyalty? He cannot, God wants our love, trust, loyalty, and devotion, and none of this can be achieved through increasing physical pressure and external power. To do so destroys the very attributes that God cherishes most.

If God only wanted robots then He could resolve the sin problem with a snap of His fingers. But then the Godhead would live alone in a universe full of high-end robots that simulate life, but are, in reality, not alive, not sentient or sapient, but merely carrying out God's programmed algorithms.

If you had the power to build a world in which you lived alone with hundreds, thousands, millions of robots that you created, but all of them were merely acting out the routines that you programmed them to act out, would you ever truly be able to love them or be loved?

God doesn't want a universe of pretend, with self-delusion, and He won't have it. He wants a universe of reality, in which real intelligent beings know Him, appreciate Him and love Him for who He is, because He is worthy, loyal, faithful, true, a God of love and truth, who values our freedom and would die rather than use His power against us.

He wants us to know Him just like a loving parent wants their children to know, appreciate, and love them, not because the parent wants to be worshipped, but because the parent wants intimacy, understanding friendship, faithfulness, loyalty, and trust with their children.

And for us there is another reason in our relationship with God that God wants us to know Him, to be close to Him, to love and appreciate Him—and that is the law of worship, by beholding we are changed. God is the infinite source of all truth, love, goodness, and righteousness, and He created use to become like that which we admire, worship, adore, and choose. This is why He tells us to have no other God's before Him—on planet earth we are the highest created beings, there is nothing on earth that we can worship that will advance, develop, or improve us. Anything on earth that we worship degrades us, this is why God says to worship Him, the infinite One, for by beholding Him we are changed and we never stop developing through all eternity future. It is for our good not God's need that God tells us to worship Him. It is also why He wants us to know Him intimately, He wants us to be healthy, happy, and to grow and it is by placing Him at the center that this happens.

And the Bible is clear on what happens when we substitute any other object, concept, or false god construct for the true God, Romans 1 tells us that they exchanged the truth about God for images made with their own hands and their minds became darkened, depraved, and futile. Jeremiah 2:5 says:

> They followed worthless idols and became worthless themselves. (Jeremiah 2:5 NIV84).

So, with this in mind, how is Jesus making all things new? What is required? What methods will work and what methods won't work?

Can God make hearts and minds new by rules, by threats, by coercion, by force, by might and power?

This is Satan's primary strategy to represent God as an imperial dictator, whose laws are made up rules enforced through threats and inflicted punishments. As long as people believe this it obstructs the ability of Jesus to make all things new because such beliefs obstruct love and trust and incite rebellion, fear, and selfishness. Further, such beliefs, via the law of worship, cause people to become like that God and they will begin to practice the pursuit of justice through the method of Satan, of imposed laws, more rules, more external control, more coercion and force, all in the name of justice and they will be ripe for Satan to come and impersonate Christ claiming he is coming to restore order and bring justice and punish wickedness and they will rejoice. We are seeing the world being deceived on issue after issue with these methods right now!

People may be religious, but their religion and rules are what they place their faith in, their theology and rituals are what gives them security, their claims of legal payment is what makes them feel safe and therefore anything that threatens their religion, theology, rituals, or legal payment incites fear and the response is anger, aggression, hostility toward those who bring the truth.

This is what Jesus experienced, this is what the Apostles experienced and this is what every person who advances the truth of God's kingdom of truth, love, and liberty experiences.

Read first paragraph,

> Scripture gives us this hope: "But according to His promise we are looking for new heavens and a new earth, in which righteousness dwells" (2 Pet. 3:13, NASB). (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 112)

What is the message of Scripture here? What does the future hold from a biblical worldview?

Is there a competing philosophy overtaking the world? Is there a different view of the future that is dominating society? And what is that different view? The Green Movement, the idea that climate change is threatening the planet, the idea that humans are the problem.

- What does the godless worldview proclaim about the future of humanity and the planet?
- Is the message different than the biblical one?
- Does one view bring hope and encouragement and the other fear and hopelessness?
- Does one view lead people to help others, a call to fellowship and unity, to be a blessing in their community, to sacrifice for the welfare of others, and does the other lead people to see others as competitors, polluters, resource devourers that need controlling and culling?
- Does one value people more than the planet while the other values the planet more than people?

I have said this last point many times, just reasoning out the philosophy of the Green Movement and the actions they are taking, but recently I came across documentation of this philosophy:

Alex Epstein, in his book The Moral Case for Fossil Fuels writes:

> Many leading environmental thinkers, including those who predict fossil fuel catastrophe, hold as their standard of value what they call "pristine" nature or wilderness—nature unaltered by man. For example, in a Los Angeles Times review of The End of Nature, McKibben's influential book of twenty-five years ago predicting catastrophic climate change, David M. Graber, research biologist for the National Park Service, wrote this summary of McKibben's message:

> McKibben is a biocentrist, and so am I. We are not interested in the utility of a particular species or free-flowing river, or ecosystem, to mankind. They have intrinsic value, more value—to me—than another human body, or a billion of them. Human happiness, and certainly human fecundity, are not as important as a wild and healthy planet. I know social scientists who remind me that people are part of nature, but it isn't true. Somewhere along the line—at about a billion [sic] years ago, maybe half that—we quit the contract and became a cancer. We have become a plague upon ourselves and upon the Earth. It is cosmically unlikely that the developed world will choose to end its orgy of fossil-energy consumption, and the Third World its suicidal consumption of landscape. Until such time as Homo sapiens should decide to rejoin nature, some of us can only hope for the right virus to come along.

In his book, McKibben wrote that our goal should be a "humbler world," one where we have less impact on our environment and "Human happiness would be of secondary importance." What is of primary importance? Minimizing our impact on our environment. McKibben explains: "Though not in our time, and not in the time of our children, or their children, if we now, today, limited our numbers and our desires and our ambitions, perhaps nature could someday resume its independent working." This implies that there should be fewer people, with fewer desires, and fewer ambitions. This is the exact opposite of holding human life as one's standard of value. It is holding human nonimpact as one's standard of value, without regard for human life and happiness.

There is a real difference between the biblical worldview and the godless worldview. The current worldwide Green movement is godless, it is part of Satan's end-time deception to trick good people into participating with their own destruction, and as everything Satan does it is based on lies and misdirection.

God told Adam and Eve to be fruitful and multiple and subdue the earth, to grow the human population and make the planet take on our imprint, humans are not destroy, abuse, or exploit, but we are to definitely develop the earth and put our imprint upon it. In a world of sin, it would mean making the planet more human friendly, doing everything we can for human health and thriving, again without willful destruction and abuse.

The Green movement is the exact opposite, its intention is to curb human growth, human population, human development and to prioritize the planet over the people who are created in the image of God.

The green movement, critical theories, and COVID policies are all part of an anti-Christian, anti-Bible end-time movement of Satan to capture the minds of the human race and destroy the image of God in people.

SUNDAY

The lesson asks us to read Isaiah 65:17-25 and

> "Behold, I will create new heavens and a new earth. The former things will not be remembered, nor will they come to mind. But be glad and rejoice forever in what I will create, for I will create Jerusalem to be a delight and its people a joy. I will rejoice over Jerusalem and take delight in my people; the sound of weeping and of crying will be heard in it no more. Never again will there be in it an infant who lives but a few days, or an old man who does not live out his years; he who dies at a hundred will be thought a mere youth; he who fails to reach a hundred will be considered accursed. They will build houses and dwell in them; they will plant vineyards and eat their fruit. No longer will they build houses and others live in them, or plant and others eat. For as the days of a tree, so will be the days of my people; my chosen ones will long enjoy the works of their hands. They will not toil in vain or bear children doomed to misfortune; for they will be a people blessed by the LORD, they and their descendants with them. Before they call I will answer; while they are still speaking I will hear. The wolf and the lamb will feed together, and the lion will eat straw like the ox, but dust will be the serpent's food. They will neither harm nor destroy on all my holy mountain," says the LORD. (Isaiah 65:17-25 NIV84).

What do you think of this passage? Do we take it literally, exactly as it reads, or do we interpret it, seek out the meaning of what is being described in this word picture?

Will we have no memory of what Jesus did for us, no recollection of sin and the sacrifice of Jesus to deliver us? No recall of the evil of sin and how harmful it is? Or will we remember, but it won't be the focus, it won't be an issue needing to be addressed because all the questions are settled, all the disloyalty, fear and selfishness are removed and the rebellion won't come up again, the misunderstandings, the falsehoods, the lies about God will never take root again in any heart or mind.

What about people dying before one hundred being considered accursed, will people still die before or after one hundred years? No, so what is meant by this? In fact, while we will all live eternally, will any of us get elderly, decayed, and decrepit? No, so what does this mean?

Several possible interpretations exist, and they are not contradictory. One is that this is a blended prophecy, like Jesus in Matthews 24 in which He wove together the events around the destruction of Jerusalem and the second coming. This would be a blending of the promises to ancient Israel in this temporal world if they had remained faithful they would have experienced better health, lived longer, but still died around a 100 hundred instead of the average age of death back then which was around 45-50. And they would have also received the eternal blessings of the new heaven and earth.

Another interpretation is that this is a word picture describing the joy of multigenerational families living together without being ravaged by war, pillage, disease, famine, or ravenous animals. In other words, the new heaven and earth will be a safe place where we all live together with our loved ones.

And both possibilities are likely true.

But what about Isaiah 35:8-10:

> And a highway will be there; it will be called the Way of Holiness. The unclean will not journey on it; it will be for those who walk in that Way; wicked fools will not go about on it. No lion will be there, nor will any ferocious beast get up on it; they will not be found there. But only the redeemed will walk there, and the ransomed of the LORD will return. They will enter Zion with singing; everlasting joy will crown their heads. Gladness and joy will overtake them, and sorrow and sighing will flee away. (Isaiah 35:8-10 NIV84).

Is this a contradiction in Scripture, where in one Biblical description we have lions that eat straw and in another there are no lions in the new earth?

Not at all, God is encouraging the people who live in a time when predators were a real threat, that in the new earth there will be no ferocious beasts.

Read the third paragraph,

> However, that plan did not materialize as expected. Then a new plan was established, but now with the church, composed of Jews and Gentiles from all nations (Matt. 28:18-20, 1 Pet. 2:9). The prophecies of Isaiah, therefore, have to be reread from the perspective of the church (2 Pet. 3:13, Rev. 21:1-5). (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 113)

Did God have two plans of salvation or only one plan? Does God today have a different plan of salvation for those who are genetic descendants of Jacob than for the rest of humanity?

No, there is one sin problem which entered through Adam, and all human beings are descended from Adam. And there is one solution for the sin problem and that is the "second Adam" Jesus Christ, the new head of humanity.

Genetics does not determine salvation, reconciliation with God and receiving the gift of salvation through Jesus Christ does.

So, did the refusal of the Jews to fulfill God's calling mean God made a new plan, or that God continues to carry out the same plan with people who are willing?

MONDAY

What is your understanding of the Temple of God?

The problem I have seen most commonly when it comes to questions of the heavenly sanctuary, cleansing from sin, and the plan of salvation, is that people get stuck on material, on real-estate, on geography, on inanimate matter and by doing so misconstrue the entire problem and God's amazing solution for it.

Let's establish some baseline points of agreement, or foundational truths.

- God is a real being who created a real universe made out of real physical matter operating under physical laws
- In God's universe there are real physical cosmic structures, stars, planets, moons, comets etc.
- Heaven is also a real physical place with real physical structures of various kinds, buildings of various kinds.
- God also made real living beings who are also made out of physical materials of various kinds, our bodies, made out of carbon, hydrogen, iron, calcium and other chemicals.

So any discussion about the meaning of the heavenly sanctuary in the context of the plan of salvation in no way invalidates the physical realities and structures God has created.

But with all that in mind let's ask some questions:

- When Lucifer rebelled in heaven, did he seek to occupy a building made out of inanimate material? Was the issue, the rebellion in heaven, one of real estate, of occupying some castle or temple or facility?
- Can molecules of gold and silver sin?
- Can inanimate materials joined together by God to construct buildings sin?
- Can sin happen outside of living beings?
- Is there some mechanism or means whereby a living sinner can have their sins or sinfulness physically removed from them, like some pathogenic bacteria, and have that sin placed on some heavenly surface and have that structure become contaminated with sin?
- When we confess our sins and receive God's grace and forgiveness through the sacrifice of Jesus, do our sins somehow get physically removed from us and placed into heavenly test-tube, petri dish, or specimen bottle or some book, parchment, hard drive, some special heavenly stasis field that is now contaminated, corrupted, filled with the worst filth and necrotic vileness in the universe. Is there a heavenly sin-filled sewer system festering and overflowing with all the sins being confessed and causing contamination that Jesus needs to decontaminate or cleanse?

When we speak of the temple in heaven, in the context of the plan of salvation, are we actually speaking about a physical structure built out of inanimate material, that now contains vileness and sinfulness that Jesus is going around spraying His blood upon to cleanse it or are we speaking of something else?

Consider what the Bible says when describing the fall of Lucifer in heaven:

> Your heart became proud on account of your beauty, and you corrupted your wisdom because of your splendor. So I threw you to the earth; I made a spectacle of you before kings. By your many sins and dishonest trade you have desecrated your sanctuaries. (Ezekiel 28:17-18 NIV84).

What does this mean? Is the Bible saying that some physical pathogen was created in a laboratory with gain of function research and released into the environment and that Lucifer's physical domain, his place of personal rectitude, his home, his safe-space, his sanctuary was physically contaminated?

Or is the Bible describing pride and selfishness, that took root in Satan's heart and mind and by choosing this path Satan desecrated his sanctuaries, the inmost place of his being where God's Spirit was to dwell, where God's presence was to live, where God's design methods for life is to be written by God as the core protocols for all action?

Where in the OT Sanctuary was the law kept? In the ark, in the Most Holy Place. Where in the New Covenant is the law kept? In our hearts and minds?

Which is the more literal, the box made of wood and gold, or our hearts and minds?

Can sin happen in wood and gold? Can cleansing from sin happen in wood and gold?

Does Satan work to possess more wood and gold or to possess hearts and minds?

Consider what Paul wrote in Thessalonians:

> Don't let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God. (2 Thessalonians 2:3–4 NIV84).

What does this mean? What temple? Some building in heaven? Some structure on earth? Or the Spirit Temple, the hearts and minds of people? Where does Satan want to be enthroned?

And is the end-time cleansing of the sanctuary about cleansing structures, or cleansing hearts and minds from sin, rebellion, distrust, fear, and selfishness? Of writing God's law of love back into our sanctuaries?

This is what we describe in our new magazine The Wedding of Christ to His Bride: Preparing the Church for the Second Coming

TUESDAY

Read the first paragraph:

> The Bible says that God "dwells in unapproachable light" (1 Tim. 6:16, NRSV), and that "no one has ever seen God" (John 1:18, 1 John 4:12, NRSV). Does it mean that the saints in heaven will never see God the Father? Not at all. It is quite evident that not seeing God refers to the human beings after the Fall, because there are several indications in Scripture that the saints will actually see Him in heaven. (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 115)

Does unapproachable light mean we cannot physically see God in the new heaven or Earth or does it mean something else?

Light is a Biblical metaphor for truth—God is the infinite source of truth, He knows all things about all things, and a finite being cannot assimilate infinite knowledge, thus He is unapproachable from the perspective of His knowledge, His power, His abilities. We will never be able to operate in infinite, with infinite knowledge, power, or abilities. However, that doesn't mean God doesn't allow us to see Him at some point in whatever physical way He chooses to appear to us. But whatever we see when we see Him will only be partial.

The Bible says that Jesus "has a name written on him that no one knows but he himself." (Revelation 19:12 NIV84).

This doesn't mean a word, a monogram, a label, it means Jesus is infinite and names represent character and no one but an infinite being can know the fullness of our infinite God, so none of us will ever know that name that encompasses the totality of His being.

But we will know His character of love, loyalty, truth, faithfulness and we will have been transformed to be like Him and we will see Him face to face for we shall be like Him in character qualities, in methods of operating, and in various delegated attributes like the ability to reason, think, choose, love, and act. But we will not be like Him in power, in infinite knowledge, in omnipresence etc.

In the bottom pink section the lessons asks us to Read 1 Peter 1:22 and then asks, "How does this text reveal to us the link between obedience and purification?"

> "Now that you have purified yourselves by obeying the truth so that you have sincere love for your brothers, love one another deeply, from the heart." (1 Peter 1:22 NIV84).

Any ideas triggered in your mind from this text and the lesson's question?

Any other texts say similar things? Jesus saying if we love Him we keep His commandments. But can love be commanded? Can we get more love by more rules and rule enforcement?

But Jesus and Peter have both connected love with obedience, what is going on?

The Greek translated obeying is ὑπακοή [hupakoe /hoop·ak·o·ay/] (Enhanced Strong's Lexicon), first half hypo like hypoglycemia or hypotensive and means low, under, submissive, and the second half is the root from which we get acoustic or acoustical, and means to listen.

So biblical obedience means a humble willingness to listen, a love for the truth, a willingness to have the lies removed with truth, a heart that is not prideful, not arrogant, but open to correction and will seek and follow the truth as soon as they are able to comprehend it.

The obedient are not those who know all truth, only God knows all truth. The obedient are not those whose doctrines are most correct. Think of the Jews who crucified Christ, they had better doctrines than the Roman centurion or the Samaritan woman at the well, and they followed the rules, the laws, but they were not obedient because they did not have hearts and minds that could be corrected.

When Jesus returns every single saved human will have things they believe that are not 100% accurate, but they will all have come to the point that they trust Jesus and are willing to be corrected, they humbly listen and following where Jesus leads.

And Jesus leads us to love our enemies, to forgive those who wrong us, to present the truth in love and leave others free, to not love our lives so much that we would be afraid to die and would find it justifiable to coerce others to take actions that would make us feel safe.

WEDNESDAY

Read fourth paragraph:

> We can trust that in the final judgment God will treat every single human being with fairness and love. All our loved ones who died in Christ will be raised from the dead to be with us throughout eternity. Those unworthy of eternal life will finally cease to exist, without having to live in an "unpleasant" heaven or in an ever-burning hell. Our greatest comfort derives from the fair way God treats everyone. When death definitively ceases to exist, the redeemed will shout joyfully, "Where, O death, is your victory? Where, O death, is your sting?" (1 Cor. 15:54, 55, NRSV). (Adult SS Guide 4Q 2022, p. 116)

What do you think of this statement? Any questions? Any concerns?

What does God do to the unrepentant lost in the end and why?

From last week's lesson there were some points we didn't get to and fit in here, so let's review them, from WEDNSDAY last week we find the following quotation from one of the founders of the SDA church:

> "God's goodness and long forbearance, His patience and mercy exercised to His subjects, will not hinder Him from punishing the sinner who refused to be obedient to His requirements. It is not for a man — a criminal against God's holy law, pardoned only through the great sacrifice He made in giving His Son to die for the guilty because His law was changeless — to dictate to God." — Ellen G. White, Manuscript Releases, vol. 12, p. 208.

The question is not whether the wicked receive punishment, or whether God brings it to this conclusion, the questions are about the methods and means and why.

God has been using power to stop the pain, suffering, and destruction that sin brings. Even at the cross, when Jesus and the Father allowed the wicked to kill Jesus, God and Jesus were exercising power to hold at bay what the sinfulness of the sinners sins would do if God wasn't holding the natural state of things in His universe at bay.

The natural state of things in God's universe is that Jesus and the Father radiate infinite truth and love from their person that looks to us like fire. The nature state is that all holy beings are filled with God's living presence and they also radiate this glory. Angels are brilliant like fire, Moses coming off the mountain had a face that radiated some of this fire. Adam and Eve walked around before sin in clothing of fire or light. And there is nothing harmful in the fire, but this fire consumes sin, those with hearts and minds bent on evil find love, truth, kindness and mercy painful to be exposed to because they become aware of their own evil which they deny.

So, at the cross Jesus veiled His full glory, had He not, those trying to crucify Him would have fallen down stuporous if not dead, like they did with the smallest flash of His divinity was released when they came to arrest Him.

So, how does God punish the wicked? By letting them reap what naturally happens when sin is not removed. When God stops using power to protect and insulate people from what they have been choosing to do to themselves. This is described in the Bible as God's wrath, God letting people go to reap what they have chosen. In Romans 1:18-32 Paul describes this in detail.

In Revelation the four angels holding back the four winds of strife are described as having power to harm the land air and sea, how? By letting go that which they have been holding back.

So, if you read the founder of the SDA church they quoted, you will find that she agrees with us on this, and describes the method or mechanism through which God destroys or punishes, and it is via design law, letting people reap what they sow as Galatians 6:8 describes. It is not an external infliction of some artificial "fair" measure of torture before execution.

> God destroys no one. The sinner destroys himself by his own impenitence. When a person once neglects to heed the invitations, reproofs, and warnings of the Spirit of God, his conscience becomes seared, and the next time he is admonished, it will be more difficult to yield obedience than before. And thus with every repetition. – {Testimonies vol. 5, p. 120.} [design law described as the means]

The Jews had forged their own fetters; they had filled for themselves the cup of vengeance. In the utter destruction that befell them as a nation, and in all the woes that followed them in their dispersion, they were but reaping the harvest which their own hands had sown. Says the prophet: "O Israel, thou hast destroyed thyself;" "for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity." Hosea 13:9; 14:1. Their sufferings are often represented as a punishment visited upon them by the direct decree of God. It is thus that the great deceiver seeks to conceal his own work. By stubborn rejection of divine love and mercy, the Jews had caused the protection of God to be withdrawn from them, and Satan was permitted to rule them according to his will. The horrible cruelties enacted in the destruction of Jerusalem are a demonstration of Satan's vindictive power over those who yield to his control. Great Controversy 35.3 [notice the methods of God, how the punishment comes, it is when God stops using power to protect. Yet our own church teaches the view that God must use power to inflict suffering pain and death as punishment for sin. And we wonder why the latter rain hasn't come.]

We are not to regard God as waiting to punish the sinner for his sin. The sinner brings the punishment upon himself. His own actions start a train of circumstances that bring the sure result. Every act of transgression reacts upon the sinner, works in him a change of character, and makes it more easy for him to transgress again. By choosing to sin, men separate themselves from God, cut themselves off from the channel of blessing, and the sure result is ruin and death. Selected Messages vol.1, p 235.

"I was shown that the judgments of God would not come directly out from the Lord upon them, but in this way;

"They place themselves beyond His protection. He warns, corrects, reproves, and points out the only path of safety; then if those who have been the objects of His special care will follow their own course, indepentent of the Spirit of God, after repeated warnings, if they choose their own way, then He does not commission His angels to prevent Satan's decided attacks upon them.

"It is Satan's power that is at work at sea and on land, bringing calamity and distress, and sweeping off multitudes to make sure of his prey, and storm and tempest both by sea and land will be, for Satan has come down in great wrath. He is at work. He knows his time is short and, he is not restrained; we shall see more terrible manifestations of his great power than we have ever dreamed of." Manuscript Release vol. 14, p. 3

God brings punishment NOT by dispensing power, but by ceasing to dispense power and allowing what naturally happens when sin is not removed, eternal separation from God and eternal destruction from sin.

Last week in THURSDAY's lesson it stated that at the end of the millennium the wicked are raised to receive their final punitive sentence.

Is that why they are raised? Does God raised people who are experiencing no pain, no suffering, not distress simply to inflict some pain and suffering on them and then kill them?

Understand, this is what the imposed law view says. That in order to be just God must raise dead people, bring them back to consciousness in order to use His divine power to torture them the appropriate amount of time to make them pay and suffer for their sins before He kills them.

Fortunately, this is a lie. When we return to design law we understand a completely different process is happening.

God raises every single person back to life and allows them to complete their lives as they freely choose, which will demonstrate the truth, that God keeps no one out of heaven, every single sapient being who is eternally lost is eternally lost because they prefer death over life in God's kingdom.

At the end of the 1000 years the New Jerusalem comes down from heaven and the wicked are raised from the dead, a period of time goes by during which the wicked are building weapons of war. During this time the gates of the New Jerusalem are open, and not one single person on the outside comes in.

What does this reveal? It reveals that God is not keeping people out, they keep themselves out. Only when they march in mass to attack the city does Jesus order the gates closed.

> At last the order to advance is given, and the countless host moves on—an army such as was never summoned by earthly conquerors, such as the combined forces of all ages since war began on earth could never equal. Satan, the mightiest of warriors, leads the van, and his angels unite their forces for this final struggle. Kings and warriors are in his train, and the multitudes follow in vast companies, each under its appointed leader. With military precision the serried ranks advance over the earth's broken and uneven surface to the City of God. By command of Jesus, the gates of the New Jerusalem are closed, and the armies of Satan surround the city and make ready for the onset. GC 664.3
> Now Christ again appears to the view of His enemies. Far above the city, upon a foundation of burnished gold, is a throne, high and lifted up. Upon this throne sits the Son of God, and around Him are the subjects of His kingdom. The power and majesty of Christ no language can describe, no pen portray. The glory of the Eternal Father is enshrouding His Son. The brightness of His presence fills the City of God, and flows out beyond the gates, flooding the whole earth with its radiance. GC 665.1

Where does His fiery glory flow first? Into the city, and who is in the city? The saved, and the fire doesn't harm them in the least, demonstrating the fire is not the source of pain, suffering, or death. Sin is the source of pain suffering and death. And when the fires of infinite truth and love flow over the wicked, it causes overwhelming agony of mind and heart as each person has full awareness of their sin, the pain and suffering they have caused others, complete guilt and shame that they can no longer avoid with their lies and distortions and awareness of what they have given up. Eventually, person by person they all acknowledge they would rather not live than live in the fires of God's presence and they surrender letting go their hold on life. Some do this in a moment, others linger hours, others for days, and Satan the last.

But none of this is inflicted by God. God has been shielding His creatures from this fate the entire time. This is God's strange act, removing His protective shield and letting sinners reap fully the pain, suffering, and torment that unremedied sin causes.

What does it mean to have God's name in the forehead? Name means character and it means we have the character of Christ reproduced in us!

2023 1Q Managing for the Master Till He Comes Lesson 1: Part of God's Family

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read Memory Text: "Behold what manner of love the Father has bestowed on us, that we should be called children of God!" (1 John 3:1 NKJV).

What does it mean to be a child of God?

Have you heard some pastors ask if only your obedient children are considered your children? They say, aren't your rebellious children still your children and then ask, so aren't the wicked, the unrepentant, considered children of God—just children behaving badly?

Some might point to the genealogy of Christ in Luke chapter three which ends:

> the son of Enosh, the son of Seth, the son of Adam, the son of God. (Luke 3:38 NIV 84).

And from this verse conclude since Adam was the son of God, and we are all descended from Adam then every human is a child of God, either good or bad, obedient or disobedient. What do you think of this idea?

What did Jesus mean when He said to the Jewish leaders:

> You belong to your father, the devil, and you want to carry out your father's desire. He was a murderer from the beginning, not holding to the truth, for there is no truth in him. When he lies, he speaks his native language, for he is a liar and the father of lies (John 8:44 NIV84).

Does the Bible mean something more than merely being part of the human family in order to also be part of God's family?

Consider these verses:

> Yet to all who received him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God—children born not of natural descent, nor of human decision or a husband's will, but born of God. (John 1:12-13 NIV 84).

What does it mean to be born of God? In order for a human to be part of the family of God, to be considered a son or daughter of God, must that individual first be born into the world, but then also be reborn and it is at the rebirth experience that they become a part of God's family?

topics@comeandreason.com

Consider these verses:

> You are all sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus (Galatians 3:26 NIV84).
>
> Those who are led by the Spirit of God are sons of God. For you did not receive a spirit that makes you a slave again to fear, but you received the Spirit of sonship. And by him we cry, "Abba, Father." The Spirit himself testifies with our spirit that we are God's children. Now if we are children, then we are heirs—heirs of God and co-heirs with Christ, if indeed we share in his sufferings in order that we may also share in his glory. (Romans 8:14-17 NIV84).

So how does one become a part of Satan's family? And how does one become a part of God's family? Consider this verse:

> The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work. [What is the devil's work? What has Satan been working to accomplish? To destroy the image of God in man and put Satan's image where God's should be. Think about what it means to be a child of someone—don't the children of the parents resemble the parents, carry within them attributes of the parents, genetically, physically in appearance, but also in attributes of language, character, practice, and often beliefs. Does this have a bearing on what it means to be part of God or Satan's family? Would those who carry within themselves the attributes, characteristics, methods, principles of God, thereby resembling God, being restored to the image of God be the ones considered part of God's family. While those who instead internalize the methods, principles, practices, and characteristics of Satan and thereby become like Satan are considered part of Satan's family because they resemble him and carry around his image? Consider what John says next.] No one who is born of God will continue to sin, because God's seed remains in him; he cannot go on sinning, because he has been born of God. This is how we know who the children of God are and who the children of the devil are: Anyone who does not do what is right is not a child of God; nor is anyone who does not love his brother. (1 John 3:8-10 NIV84).

Does this verse make you uncomfortable? "No one who is born of God will continue to sin, because God's seed remains in him; he cannot go on sinning, because he has been born of God."

Do we believe that via the Holy Spirit we are reborn, that we receive new hearts and right spirits, that the "seed" of God is planted within us. In other words, we receive the very life of God, we become partakers of the divine nature and it works a change in us and our motives, desires, attitudes, understanding, perspectives and practices change, we grow, develop, transform and become ever more like Jesus!

Or do we instead believe that we have a legal adjustment in a book and have adoption papers filed in the heavenly court and we are legally declared to be part of God's family even though we go on living sinful lives and still look like Satan in character?

Which idea are you more comfortable with:

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
comeandreason.com
topics@comeandreason.com

- those born of God will go on sinning until Jesus returns
- those born of God will not go on sinning

What law lens do you understand this through? What is the essence or root of sin? Is it deed and task performance or is it attitudes of the heart? And the root attitude of sin is distrust of and disloyalty to God predicated upon fear and selfishness. Those born into the family of God may be tempted by fear and selfishness, they may have struggles in personal performance, they may make errors in judgment (like Peter when he didn't associate with the uncircumcised), but they do not break trust with God, they remain humble, they have hearts that love truth and are willing to be corrected and grow. They love God and love others. They do not lover their lives so much as to shrink from death (Revelation 12:11). Thus, they develop, advance and grow in godliness—just like children grow—this growth in godliness is evidence that they are children of God, that they are part of God's family.

So how do we know who is part of the family of God or the family of Satan? John tells us:

- This is how we know who the children of God are and who the children of the devil are: Anyone who does not do what is right is not a child of God; nor is anyone who does not love his brother.

When we are reborn to lives that love God and others we are part of God's family. As you have done it unto the least you have done it unto Jesus!

Read first sentence,

> "As Christians, an amazing feature about our relationship with God is that He trusts us to manage His affairs on this earth" (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 6).

Why does God do this? What is God's purpose and goal?

What design laws are involved?

God does this for our growth and development, via the law of exertion. God wants us to mature, to develop, to comprehend, to become masters of ourselves and our environment—but not masters of others. Therefore, God places real responsibilities in our hands for it is by exertion, by application, by challenge that we develop and grow.

Jesus taught this principle in the parable of the talents. Those who invested their talents received more. Those with musical talent who apply themselves, practice, and play, will advance in their skill, and more talent will be gained—perhaps additional instruments, understanding the mathematical elements of music, becoming a song writer or composer etc. All of this happens in the brain as neural networks expand with use.

But if we don't use it we lose it!

As we love others our capacity to love grows. As we exercise or faith/trust in God our faith and trust in God grows.

Thus God gives us opportunities for growth and development, but does that mean God trusts us?

Did God give to the Jewish people various truths to take to the world via Scripture and the lessons contained in the sanctuary service?

Did Jesus trust those religious leaders when He was here? Why didn't Jesus trust them if God gave them this responsibility?

Did God choose for King Saul to be the first king of Israel and have Samuel anoint him? And in the end, could God trust King Saul?

Did God place Lucifer in a place of responsibility? And did Lucifer eventually become a being who God could not trust?

This is an important point to understand, people can be in positions of responsibility for God and even called by God to that position but that doesn't mean God can trust them or that we can trust them.

I have had people tell me that I have no right to question what a pastor says because they are the Lord's anointed and placed in that position by God. The implication was they were to be believed and trusted because of the office they held. But this is a lie. The Bible principle is that every person must be fully persuaded in their own mind. That people placed in positions of responsibility by God are to lead like Jesus did, truth, love, and freedom. Jesus left people free to disagree and leave and so must we.

Yes, God gives us responsibilities for our growth and development and God wants to trust us in those roles, like He was able to trust Job, and Daniel, and Moses, and so many others. But what is necessary for us in order for God to trust us?

SUNDAY

The lesson asks us to read Ephesians 3:14-15:

> For this reason I kneel before the Father, from whom his whole family in heaven and on earth derives its name. (Ephesians 3:14-15 NIV84).

What does it mean that God is called our Father, that Jesus taught us to pray "Our Father"?

When you think of God as our Father does it bring comfort, peace, security, confidence, or fear, doubt, and a desire for an intercessor?

Does our concept of what a father is and how our fathers treated us have any bearing on our ability to experience God as our heavenly Father?

If we had a father that was abusive, how do we get past that in our relationship with God?

Does God require us to consider Him our Father?

In the book The Shack by Wm. Paul Young, he describes a man's encounter with God where God presented Himself to the man in for the form of a woman. In the context of the story, the man had grown up with an abusive alcoholic father and the man had terrible anger, resentment, and trauma issues around his father. So in the story God approaches this man in a way that would avoid having all that anger and resentment directed at God and allow the man to get to know God and work through his doubts, fears, anger, and hurt and ultimately find healing for his soul.

What do you think of this? Do you think God would stoop down and interact with us in humble ways in order to reach us in our struggles and lead us back to Him?

Consider what Paul wrote to the Philippians about Jesus:

> Your attitude should be the same as that of Christ Jesus: Who, being in very nature God, did not consider equality with God something to be grasped, but made himself nothing, taking the very nature of a servant, being made in human likeness. And being found in appearance as a man, he humbled himself and became obedient to death— even death on a cross! (Philippians 2:5-8 NIV84).

Do we believe what Jesus said that if we have seen Him we have seen the Father? Do we believe the Father would also humble Himself to reach us?

Do we have any other examples of God approaching sinful humanity in gentle, humble ways, or describing Himself in humble ways?

- Calling out gently to Adam in the garden, "Where are you?"
- God and Jesus veiling their glory in order to reach us
- "For you know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, so that you through his poverty might become rich" (2 Corinthians 8:9 NIV84).

So how might a person who has had a human father that mistreated them and therefore struggles with connecting with God as our Father get past that?

What about the idea of God presenting Himself as female, as a woman? Is this biblical?

First question, who created Adam and Eve, male and female? And were they both created in the image of God or just the male partner? And in God's design is the image of God realized to its fullest extent with just one of them, or does it take both Adam and Eve united in holy marital love to be a complete unit of godlike humanity?

So is the female, godly femineity, equally a part of the image of God as the male—godly masculinity?

Are there Bible examples of God taking feminine or female aspects to teach things about Himself?

- Jesus describing how He would like to be like a hen calling her chicks under His wings for protection? (Matthew 23:37)
- You deserted the Rock, who fathered you; you forgot the God who gave you birth. (Deuteronomy 32:18 NIV84)
- Can a mother forget the baby at her breast and have no compassion on the child she has borne? Though she may forget, I will not forget you! See, I have engraved you on the palms of my hands (Isaiah 49:15-16 NIV84).
- As a mother comforts her child, so will I comfort you (Isaiah 66:13 NIV84).
- Yet I was the one who taught Israel to walk. I took my people up in my arms, but they did not acknowledge that I took care of them. I drew them to me with affection and love. I picked them up and held them to my cheek; I bent down to them and fed them. (Hosea 11:3-4 GNT).
- Like a bear robbed of her cubs, I will attack them and rip them open. (Hosea 13:8 NIV84).
- Like an eagle that stirs up its nest and hovers over its young, that spreads its wings to catch them and carries them on its pinions (Deuteronomy 31:11 NIV84).
- For a long time I have kept silent, I have been quiet and held myself back. But now, like a woman in childbirth, I cry out, I gasp and pant. (Isaiah 42:14 NIV84).

There is one more I want to share with you. It is a parable from Jesus, as I share this, I want you to note that this parable is one of three about finding that which is lost, the first is the lost sheep and the shepherd goes out to find the lost sheep. The last is the lost son who comes home to the father, and then there is this one placed right in the middle:

> "Or suppose a woman has ten silver coins and loses one. Does she not light a lamp, sweep the house and search carefully until she finds it? And when she finds it, she calls her friends and neighbors together and says, 'Rejoice with me; I have found my lost coin.' In the same way, I tell you, there is rejoicing in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner who repents." (Luke 15:8-10 NIV84).

In the parable of the lost sheep who is represented by the shepherd who finds the lost sheep?

In the parable of the lost son, who is represented by the father to whom the son returns?

Then in the parable of the lost coin who does the woman represent?

Did you know that the Bible represents God as a woman or with various female attributes this many times?

So, if a person has serious problems, like in the book The Shack, with God as a father, but they have many positive experiences with a loving and trustworthy mother, would God be okay with that person approaching Him as their loving mother, the hen who wants to take them under her wings?

Do you think there are aspects of the Godhead we have not fully appreciated because we tend to focus almost exclusively on the male aspects and minimize the female?

And has Satan exploited this in society today by advancing an ungodly, corrosive philosophy under the guise of promoting something good for women? Today's modern feminist movement is not about equality as God designed it for both men and women, it is about destroying godly masculinity, destroying the godly role of women as mothers and men as fathers, and destroying families under the guise of self-advancement. If you doubt it, just look at where the modern left has gone in advocating for biological males to compete against women in women's sports claiming honors, scholarships, and other advancements that women would have obtained. The goal of the modern feminist movement is not on godly equality that uplifts all parties and protects families and children, it is based on selfishness and exploitation and is destructive to all parties involved.

MONDAY

The title for today's lesson is "God Is the Owner of Everything" what do you think of this idea?

What is the Biblical basis for this idea?

- God is Creator and all things are His by the reality that everything was created by Him and everything holds together because of Him
    - "The earth is the LORD's, and everything in it, the world, and all who live in it; for he founded it upon the seas and established it upon the waters." (Psalm 24:1-2).
    - "For by him all things were created: things in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or powers or rulers or authorities; all things were created by him and for him. He is before all things, and in him all things hold together." (Colossians 1:16-17 NIV84).
    - "For every animal of the forest is mine, and the cattle on a thousand hills. I know every bird in the mountains, and the creatures of the field are mine." (Psalm 50:10-11 NIV84).

If God owns everything, what role do we play in God's design?

- We are God's agents, representatives, ambassadors, stewards, delegates. People who have been given abilities, resources, talents, and responsibilities by God to carry out God's purposes.

- We are to live as God's friends and representatives using the resources God has placed in our hands for the advancement of the kingdom of God.
- And the more we give in God's kingdom the more we receive from God!

Are there competing methods in this world of sin when it comes to ownership? What are the two primary competing methods?

- Capitalism
- Marxism

Are either one of these God's methods? Do both of these methods result in abuses and injustices of various kinds?

The foundation of all human economies is the idea of ownership, of buying and selling. Nothing is free in this life; we must pay for it, and in this world we are taught that safety and security is found in owning things, the more we own, the safer we feel.

This is exactly the opposite of how God's economy works; it operates upon free giving, everything that lives gives and gives freely without expectation of payment.

- Freely you have received, freely give (Matthew 10:8 NIV84).
- Give freely and become more wealthy; be stingy and lose everything. The generous will prosper; those who refresh others will themselves be refreshed (Proverbs 11:24, 25 NLT).

The Bible describes God's economy as a system of free giving. It is by giving away that we become rich. But this is nonsense to a fear-driven, selfish world.

In Satan's kingdom, the more you take—hoard, store up—the more you have; if you give it away, you merely deplete your resources. It is only by consuming, taking, and possessing that one gets ahead in this world.

This is the opposite of God's economy, in which everything operates upon the design law of love—the principle of free giving.

> "He causes his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous" (Matthew 5:45 NIV84).

Satan hates God's system and design and in this world of sin there are two modern economic systems that Satan pits against each other to cause conflict and division in society—Capitalism and Marxism (socialism).

Capitalism is a system in which people, individuals, can own property—it is a system of personal buying and selling. Its primary motivator is the accumulation of wealth. Businesses and business owners and board in capitalism have their number one priority is for their companies to make money for their shareholders, not do what is best for people. Without governmental regulation and self-restraint, this system always results in abuse and exploitation, with a few becoming extremely wealthy at the expense of the masses.

Marxism identifies the principle of "ownership of property" as evil, but it proposes a solution that creates an even greater corruption and more vile outcome than Capitalism. The Marxist solution is that no one can own anything; all property is owned by the state. Marxism, which is supposed to solve the problem of worldly selfishness and ownership by restricting all property ownership to the state, creates a system in which the state becomes supreme over everything—including the people. The state replaces God as the true owner, and people no longer answer to God as His stewards, but to the state. And this inevitably results in a functional outcome that most people who support socialism are blind to: In all socialist, Marxist, communist societies, the state is more valuable than the people. In Marxism, the individual is only useful as long as they serve the state. Rather than people owning private property, in Marxism, people ultimately become the de facto property of the state. And in every instance in human history in which socialism has been established, the governments eventually committed mass abuse—imprisonment, impoverishment, and even genocide—against its own citizens, which is why it's an even grosser perversion of God's economy than Capitalism.

But again, these two systems are not God's and Satan plays them off each other to divide society and cause conflict and harm

God's economy is the kingdom of love and free giving, the gospel of grace. The biblical metaphors of payment are not economic; they are objective achievement. If you donate a kidney to save your child who is dying of renal failure, you "pay a high price"—but the price isn't an economic (or a legal) price, nor is it arbitrarily or artificially set. It is the price reality itself requires to fix or heal the condition; and it is a price that love freely gives. God and Jesus did pay a price, but it wasn't economic (it also wasn't legal); it was the price our sin-condition required in order to heal and restore—and what love freely gave to save the object of their love.

Do we see conflicts in the world today based on these two economic models? But do you recognize the intrusion of Marxism when it focuses on something other than money?

Classic Marxist philosophy divided society based on economic power, focusing on the economic relationships in society. Those without wealth were pitted against the wealthy. But classic Marxism failed to make serious inroads in Western populations.

Various Marxist philosophers struggled to understand why Marxism failed to take hold in the west, and they finally realized Western countries were protected by the historic values and beliefs of Protestant Christianity, including the idea that God is the true owner, not the state, and we are His stewards.

Various Marxist philosophers realized that if Marxism remained focused exclusively on economic differences, its influence over people in the West would be limited. They concluded that to overthrow the Western democracies and economies it would require a new ideology, specifically overthrowing the belief in the Christian God and biblical values and principles.

Therefore, these Marxist scholars developed and advanced what is today called Critical Theory, which is distinctly different from Traditional Theory.

Traditional Theory seeks to study and understand why people groups behave in certain ways, but it doesn't seek to change a people group. By contrast, Critical Theory specifically and intentionally seeks to change a society, particularly toward Marxism. M. Horkheimer, Marxist scholar, wrote the following in 1937:

> Whereas a Traditional Theory is meant to be descriptive of some phenomenon, usually social, and aims to understand how it works and why it works that way, a Critical Theory should proceed from a prescriptive normative moral vision for society, describe how the item being critiqued fails that vision (usually in a systemic sense), and prescribe activism to subvert, dismantle, disrupt, overthrow, or change it. … This use of the word "critical" is drawn from Marx's insistence that everything be "ruthlessly" criticized and from his admonition that the point of studying society is to change it. https://newdiscourses.com/tftw-critical-theory

Critical Theory seeks to understand society in order to criticize it ruthlessly and to subvert, dismantle, disrupt, and overthrow the prevailing social order. Critical Theory shifts focus away from actual economic power differences, from business owners and workers, and toward perceived "power" differences—the oppressor and the oppressed. Classic Marxist philosophy focused on economic relationships in society, those with wealth and those without, whereas Critical Theory focuses on the "power" relationships in society, those identified to be part of the power group versus those identified to be among the powerless or exploited.

Understand that in Critical Theory, objective individual power or powerlessness is not relevant; the focus is on group identity—to what group one belongs. If one belongs to a group that is identified as "oppressed," then one is automatically considered disadvantaged and as being exploited by the "oppressors." And if one is identified to be a member of an "oppressor" group, then one is automatically considered to be abusive, exploitive, sexist, or racist by virtue of membership in that group, irrespective of personal belief, attitude, or conduct.

Critical Theory has multiple branches of identified oppressed classes, with multiple branches of study to advance its philosophy. Subgroups of Critical Theory include:

- Intersectional Feminism
- Critical Sexual Studies (LGBTQ)
- Post-Colonial Studies
- Indigenous Studies
- Fat Studies
- Critical Race Theory

In Critical Theory, it is taught that these and other identified "oppressed" groups must take power from the "oppressors" in order for there to be "equity" or fairness. But because the inequities are presumed to be inherent in the institutions built by the empowered group, the only way to be rid of the inequities is by overthrowing the societal institutions that, as they claim, sustain the "oppressor" group in their position of power.

For instance, in Critical Sexual Studies, the "oppressed" are non-binary people or LGBTQ individuals and the "oppressors" are those who hold traditional Christian values of monogamous heterosexual marriage. Critical Sexual Studies teaches that it is not enough to gain equality under the law so that same-sex couples can marry. According to Critical Theory, a society that advances heterosexual marriage based on a divine design for human wellbeing is sexist, discriminatory, and abusive; and that any person who merely identifies as heterosexual is automatically part of the "oppressor" group. Whereas any person who identifies as LGBTQ is automatically part of the "oppressed" group.

So, according to Critical Sexual Studies, a gay actor or athlete millionaire with a private jet, $20 million home, chauffeur, personal chef, personal trainer, and exclusive access to the most elite elements of society is still "oppressed"—whereas, a heterosexual single mother living in poverty receiving food stamps is an "oppressor."

The goal of so-called equity along gender and sexuality lines in Critical Theory is to change the ideology of society regarding human sexuality, male-female relations, and even what it means to be male or female. In order to do this, the philosophical underpinnings for traditional marriage must be removed, which means destroying Christian values, and specifically in America, Christianity.

This same philosophy, methodology, and practice underpins every mode of Critical Theory, including Critical Race Theory (CRT).

In CRT, a nuclear family with a father and mother holding power over children would be deemed racist and "whitism," as parents having power are deemed "oppressive" and the children are understood to be "oppressed." CRT's solution is for the children to be raised by the community—in this case, the state—which is exactly the philosophy of Marxism and, by extension, Communism. This explains why in the USA today, wherever CRT is advanced, school officials believe it is their right and mandate to teach children various ideas, such as gender fluidity, that typically violate the values, morals, beliefs, and educational goals of the parents.

These CRT school officials intentionally exclude parents because the philosophy views traditional two-parent homes as racist and part of the institutions of society that need to be subverted and overthrown. This explains why, in some districts, school officials advance gender-affirming care, hormone therapy, and even gender reassignment surgery on minors without parental involvement. Traditional parenting is, by CRT standards, racist and a form of "whitism" and, therefore, must be opposed.

What is being opposed is Protestant Christianity, the belief in God, and the idea that God is the owner and we are His stewards to carry out His purposes. Socialism can have no other god before it, thus the state must become the most powerful and most sacred entity in the hearts and minds of the people. All Critical Theories have as their primary goal to destroy the belief in Jesus and the God of the Bible.

So recognize what is happening here on the US and other places is not a racial war, it is a culture war. The godless forces of Satan are working not merely to change capitalism to Marxism, but to destroy the principles of Christianity in society. And they are doing it through the guise of seeking various forms of so-called social justice. But all of it is a lie and part of the movements of God's enemy.

We need to not get caught up in the political fights, but we are called to a cultural war. Jesus said we are to fight with the weapons of heaven, truth, love, and liberty. We are to advance the kingdom of God by exposing the darkness and calling people back to God's kingdom, God's methods, God's principles in how they live their lives. And if people put God first all the Critical Theories would be destroyed.

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses on what God has given to us and provides to us for our welfare and eternal success.

What is the greatest gift God has given to humanity? Jesus Christ, "God so loved the world that He GAVE…."

God did not loan His Son to us, He gave Jesus to humanity. Even though Jesus is fully God, He is now also a real human being, a part of the species human. And He will retain that humanity for all eternity. Consider the implications, consider the condescension, consider the sacrifice, consider the love of God and Jesus in doing this for us!

And in addition to the Son, what else has God given us for our success? Jesus said,

> But the Counselor, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you all things and will remind you of everything I have said to you. (John 14:26 NIV84).

Can we be saved without Jesus? No!
Can we be saved without the Holy Spirit? No!

It is the Holy Spirit that brings truth, convicts of sin, and leads us to repentance. It is the Holy Spirit that when we respond to the love and truth of God and open the heart, takes the victory of Christ and reproduces it in us, giving us the new birth, making us members of the family of God by reproducing God's character in us.

The Holy Spirit makes effectual in us what Christ achieved for us!

Another way to say it in a medical metaphor is, Jesus procured the remedy to our sin condition and the Holy Spirit administers or applies that remedy to our hearts and minds.

Thoughts?

Is there anything that is necessary for our salvation that God has not provided?

What other gifts has God provided for our healing and salvation?

- The Bible
- The lessons in nature
- Christian people and resources
- Angels
- Spiritual gifts
- Wisdom, discernment, insight
- Repentance, faith, love, forgiveness

Others?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on obedience and commandment keeping, as Jesus said, "If you love me keep my commandments."

Read, third paragraph:

> "Keeping the law? Obeying the commandments? For many Christians, unfortunately, the idea of obeying the law (especially the fourth commandment) is legalism, and they claim that we are called, simply, to love God and to love our neighbors as ourselves. However, God is clear: we reveal our love to God and to our neighbors by, yes, obeying His commandments." (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 10).

Any questions? Any concerns? What do you think the lesson is trying to tell us?

Is the principle right? If we love God do we live in harmony with His law, in other words obey the commandments?

If you love someone do you steal from them, or cheat on them, or lie about them, or murder them, or even covet their success?

So, the principle is quite right, if we have been restored to love and trust in God we live in harmony with God's law.

Then what about law-keeping? What is the relationship to love and law-keeping?

Can you get more love and trust by more rules and rule enforcement, more threats and punishments? Can you get love by commanding people to love you?

So how does this work? What law lens do we see this through? If we have a human law model, then God's law, including the Sabbath, is an arbitrary test of obedience, rules made up that God enforces with inflicted punishments. Such a construct will lead those who claim loyalty to God to keep the rules, but not love or trust God and ultimately become God's enemy.

This was demonstrated by the Jews 2000 years ago who had the right Sabbath and were the most rigorous Sabbath keepers in history, they were all about the law and obedience, but they had the wrong understanding of law, they operated from a human law model and they rejected and crucified Christ while keeping the law.

The same thing happens in every human heart that operates from law instead of love and trust. The Bible repeats this lesson over and over again, that salvation cannot come from the law or law keeping, it comes from faith or trust in God which is established by the truth that sets us free from the lies that broke our trust. It is the kindness of God that leads to repentance (Romans 2:4).

So what about the Sabbath? How do we understand it? What is its purpose? Why did God make the Sabbath for angels—oh wait, the Sabbath wasn't made for angels, it was made for humans.

Wow—think about that. In heaven when Lucifer rebelled and sin started there was no Sabbath.

The Sabbath was created after sin entered the universe, it was created at the end of creation week of this planet, for what purpose? It was a gift to humankind, why? What does it provide for us? Why do we need it? How does it benefit us and why does Satan hate it?

Read the last paragraph,

> "In Matthew 7:21-27, Jesus said that those who hear and do God's words are likened to a wise builder who built his house upon the solid rock. Those who hear and don't obey are likened to a foolish builder who built his house on the sand—with disastrous results. Both heard the word; one obeyed, one didn't. The results made the difference between life and death." (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 10).

What is the lesson trying to teach us? Is the lesson trying to tell us we must have the right law and law keeping we must obey or else we will be like the fool who builds on the sand and when the storm comes his house collapses?

Consider the parable for what it actually teaches—why will a house on a rock stand and a house on sand collapse when a storm comes? Is it because of some rules, some legal pronouncement, some failure to get the proper building permit, or is it because of the laws of physics, design laws, how reality works?

And in the metaphor, what is the house? It is our character, and what is the rock? Jesus of course, and Jesus is the source of truth and reality, so building our character on Jesus means we build upon the truth, upon God's designs and methods, and a trust relationship with Him.

What does the sand represent? The shifting concepts of human philosophies and the ever-changing nature of made up laws and rules, including religious laws and rules, including Sabbath keeping. When we approach Sabbath keeping legally it creates confusion, uncertainty, conflict:

- Is it okay to swim on Sabbath or only wade?
- Can we bathe on Sabbath or do it before Sabbath?
- Is it okay to go out and eat on Sabbath so our families don't have to work?
- If we go out to eat on Sabbath should we pay for it ahead of time?
- What about travel on Sabbath how far can we travel?
- Is it okay to ride a horse on Sabbath? Is it work to saddle and unsaddle it?
- What about throwing a ball on Sabbath is that work or play and is that allowed?
- What about if a person lives in Tromso Norway where the sun set this year November 27 and won't rise again until January 15. If Sabbath begins at sunset and ends at sunset, they have no Sabbaths for almost two months in the winter and two months in the summer when the sun rises and doesn't set again for almost two months. Better hope the winter sunset doesn't happen on a Friday, you won't be able to go to work for almost two months….

Do you see how the legal approach to Sabbath is sinking sand?

What is the design law approach?

The Sabbath is a sign, a gift, an evidence, built into the fabric of time itself so that it cannot be removed or hidden that reveals to us the truth about God, His character, His methods, how He governs. The Sabbath is the sign of God's creatorship, His design laws, and how He presents the truth in love and then rests, stops using power and leaves His intelligent creatures free to decide for themselves. In other words, the Sabbath is a sign of liberty and the way God runs His universe. And this is why we are to remember it all week so that we remember the kingdom of God, the character of God, the methods of God and we apply them to our lives all week long.

> By the grace God has given me, I laid a foundation as an expert builder, and someone else is building on it. But each one should be careful how he builds. For no one can lay any foundation other than the one already laid, which is Jesus Christ. If any man builds on this foundation using gold, silver, costly stones, wood, hay or straw, his work will be shown for what it is, because the Day will bring it to light. It will be revealed with fire, and the fire will test the quality of each man's work. If what he has built survives, he will receive his reward. If it is burned up, he will suffer loss; he himself will be saved, but only as one escaping through the flames. (1 Corinthians 3:10-15 NIV84).

Consider how I rendered it in The Remedy:

> By using the wisdom, insight and understanding that God has given me regarding his plan for rebuilding the human heart and mind, I laid a foundation in harmony with his original design, and others are now building on it. For Jesus Christ is the only true foundation–the real source of God's character, methods and principles–and no one can replace him. One can build on this foundation using pure, holy and costly materials, or using ordinary, common and cheap materials, but ultimately, the work will reveal itself for what it is, because the day on which Christ returns will bring everything into the light of truth. On that day, the quality of a person's character-building will be revealed by the fiery glory of God's presence–for only those whose characters are in harmony with God's character will be able to stand in the fiery presence of his life-giving glory. And if those whom the builders have worked to build up in Christ survive, the builders will be rewarded with happiness and joy.15If, however, the builder's work is burned up, the builder will suffer great sorrow and loss: the builder will be saved, but only as one whose misunderstandings, errors, misconceptions and mistakes are consumed in the fire of God's truth and love. (1 Corinthians 3:10-14 REM).

2023 1Q Managing for the Master Till He Comes—Lesson 2
God's Covenants with Us

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

The Title, "God's Covenants with Us" suggests multiple covenants—how many covenants are there?

If you do an online search many Christian websites will list at least these five covenants:

1. Noah Covenant
   The first covenant appeared after the great flood. God solemnly promises never to destroy creation again (Gen. 9:8-11).
2. Abrahamic Covenant
   The second covenant of God is with Abraham. God chooses him and blesses him. Through him, blessings will come to nations. (Gen.12:2)
3. Mosaic Covenant
   Abraham's descendants, the tribe of Israel, were next to establish a covenant with God. As His set of people, the covenant expects Israel to obey the commands God gave to Moses. (Exod. 20)
4. Davidic Covenant
   The tribe of Israel then became a great nation ruled by King David. God's covenant with David involves David's descendants and promises that He will build a dynasty for David. (1 Chr. 17)
5. New Covenant
   The New Covenant is God's own solution to men's failures in keeping the covenants. And it is fully expressed through the Person of Jesus. He fulfilled all covenants.

Are there multiple covenants between God and humanity, or is there only one and all the various other covenants we think of, such as those listed above, are simply extensions of, or further development of, or the working out of the one covenant?

Does it make a difference if we see the covenants as multiple individual covenants or as the advancement and working out of a single covenant?

What do you think? One or multiple covenants? And does it make a difference which way we understand it, if so what is the significance?

- When we think of the sin problem and God's solution for it, how many sin problems are there?
- How many human species have fallen into sin?
- How many solutions are there to the sin problem?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

There is one human species—created in Adam—and one sin problem infecting the one human species, and one solution for that problem, Jesus Christ who is the second Adam.

This truth would suggest that there is one covenant, one plan, one remedy to the sin problem and every human who is saved is saved through the application of the same remedy provided by God through Jesus. Paul wrote:

> There is one body and one Spirit, just as there is one hope to which God has called you. There is one Lord, one faith, one baptism; there is one God and Father of all, who is Lord of all, works through all, and is in all. (Ephesians 4:4-6 GNT).

This perspective would cause us to read the Bible as a whole, to recognize a single story being worked out through the pages of human history—the battle between Christ and Satan. God's covenant in Genesis 3:15, the covenant of grace in which He promised to send Jesus as our Savior is the only covenant—and every other additional covenant is merely the working out, expansion, development, application of that covenant in human history.

For instance:

- the covenant to Noah was to keep open the avenue for Messiah to fulfill the promise of Genesis 3:15—it was an act of mercy, a therapeutic action of grace with a promise not to fear such a worldwide flood again
- the covenant to Abraham was the focusing down on which branch of the human family through which the Messiah would come
- the Mosaic covenant was the working through that family to keep open the avenue for Messiah to come and to infuse into human culture and education the Bible and object lessons to teach the one covenant of grace
- the Davidic covenant focuses further down the branch of the human family through whom the Genesis 3:15 promise, the covenant of grace, would be fulfilled—through Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, David but it is still the same covenant, but with the added promise of successful rulership
- the new covenant is the application into the hearts and minds of people the covenant of grace through Jesus which restores God's living law into people reconciling them to God.

If we fail to view the Word of God as a whole, if we instead break the Bible into different sin problems and different covenant solutions, then we obstruct the healing plan. We end up teaching different ways to be saved and introduce inconsistencies and confusion which obstructs the truth about God. For instance:

- the OT can be taught as the old covenant of law in which some people are saved through animal sacrifices and in the NT a new covenant of grace is introduced where others are saved through the sacrifice of Jesus.
- Or that genetics actually matter and the genetic descendants of Jacob have some different path to salvation than the rest of us and that in the future God will renew a covenant with them that > is different than the covenant with the rest of us, rather than realizing that any person saved regardless of genetics is saved through Jesus, through the only covenant—the covenant of grace.

It is Satan who wants to fragment the Scriptures into bits and pieces here a little and there a little and thereby introduce conflicting ideas, because if we accept such views it makes God out to be inconsistent and unreliable and we more easily accept the idea of an arbitrary rule-maker who needs appeasement or payment in order not to kill us.

It is when we recognize the larger view, the idea of a sin problem that began in heaven and spread to earth and see the Bible as a single whole that things start to fall into place.

Consider now, these historical views, written by one of the founders of the SDA church regarding God's covenant with humanity. Consider if you agree or disagree, and whether this is the way it is being taught today?

> "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ: according as He hath chosen us in Him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blame before Him in love: having predestinated us unto the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to Himself, according to the good pleasure of His will." (Ephesians 1:3-4) Before the foundations of the earth were laid, the covenant was made that all who were obedient, all who should through the abundant grace provided, become holy in character, and without blame before God, by appropriating that grace, should be children of God. This covenant, made from eternity, was given to Abraham hundreds of years before Christ came. Fundamentals of Christian Education 403
> Who hath saved us, and called us with an holy calling, not according to our works, but according to his own purpose and grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus before the world began. 2 Timothy 1:9.
>
> The purpose and plan of grace existed from all eternity. Before the foundation of the world it was according to the determinate counsel of God that man should be created, endowed with power to do the divine will. But the defection of man, with all its consequences, was not hidden from the Omnipotent, and yet it did not deter Him from carrying out His eternal purpose; for the Lord would establish His throne in righteousness. God knows the end from the beginning.... Therefore redemption was not an afterthought ... but an eternal purpose to be wrought out for the blessing not only of this atom of a world but for the good of all the worlds which God has created.
>
> The creation of the worlds, the mystery of the gospel, are for one purpose, to make manifest to all created intelligences, through nature and through Christ, the glories of the divine character. By the marvelous display of His love in giving "his only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life," the glory of God is revealed to lost humanity and to the intelligences of other worlds…

> The terms of this oneness between God and man in the great covenant of redemption were arranged with Christ from all eternity. The covenant of grace was revealed to the patriarchs. The covenant made with Abraham ... was a covenant confirmed by God in Christ, the very same gospel which is preached to us.... Paul speaks of the gospel, the preaching of Jesus Christ, as "the revelation of the mystery, which hath been kept in silence through times eternal, but now is manifested, and by the Scriptures of the prophets, according to the commandment of the eternal God, is made known unto all the nations unto obedience of faith" (Romans 16:25, 26, R.V.). God's Amazing Grace 129.
>
> This same covenant [the covenant of grace] was renewed to Abraham in the promise "In thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed" (Genesis 22:18). This promise pointed to Christ. So Abraham understood it, and he trusted in Christ for the forgiveness of sins…
>
> Though this covenant was made with Adam and renewed to Abraham, it could not be ratified until the death of Christ. It had existed by the promise of God since the first intimation of redemption had been given; it had been accepted by faith; yet when ratified by Christ, it is called a new covenant. The law of God was the basis of this covenant, which was simply an arrangement for bringing men again into harmony with the divine will, placing them where they could obey God's law… The Abrahamic covenant is the covenant of grace. "By grace are ye saved" (Ephesians 2:8). God's Amazing Grace 133.

In the first paragraph, the lesson states, "Amazingly enough, God has made contracts (covenants) with us." (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 14).

What do you think if this idea of God's covenants with us, including the covenant of grace, the covenant of salvation, being a contract?

Does the idea of a contract lead your mind to think of legal things?

Are there other ways to think of contracts? What about agreements? Do agreements have to be legal in the sense of human law, or can then be actual—cause and effect—design law, how reality actually functions, but we have misunderstood because we have reinterpreted the covenant of grace, the agreement we enter with God for our salvation, through legal imposed law lenses?

This idea of a contract comes from many places, but one of them is Hebrews 11: "faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Hebrews 11:1 NKJV)

The word translated substance is hypostasis and ancient papyrus documents have been found in which this term was used for various legal contracts or agreements. Thus, for those who read the Bible with a human law lens the use of this word gives support to their idea that faith is a legal contract with God and salvation is a legal process.

It is true that saving faith is a trust transaction between the sinner and God. It is a bond of intelligent, functional understanding—a loyal, devotion, trust, and confidence in God that results in real action and real change in the sinner.

But is it a legal process or actual?

The Greek word translated as "substance" is hypostasis. The first part of the word (sub) is from the Greek hypo and means low or under, as in hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) or hypotension (low blood pressure). The last part of the word (stance) is from the Greek stasis and means standing. This Greek word (hypostasis) was translated into a Latin-based word (substance); the first half, sub, means low or under, as in subway or subterranean; the last half, stance, means standing.

Translated into modern English, faith is our "understanding of things hoped for." This understanding has two meanings, both of which apply to our faith: 1) an understanding of God, and 2) an understanding with God.

First, our faith is built upon truth, our understanding (comprehension) of reality—the reality of God's existence, His character, goodness, trustworthiness, methods, design laws, and also what sin is, our terminal condition, our inability to save or heal ourselves, and what God has provided for us through Christ. With this understanding of reality Satan's lies are displaced and we are won to trust in God.

Second, now that we comprehend God's trustworthiness and the beauty of His character, and our terminal sin-condition, we eagerly enter into an understanding (agreement) with God. This understanding with God is a covenant transaction—not a legal transaction. It is like the marriage covenant. When two people get married (as God designed, not as the state legally encodes), they commit to be faithful, loyal, and devoted to one another, forsaking all previous and all other potential love-interests. They commit to go to each other and work together through difficulties, to overcome obstacles together, and not to betray the best interests of the other.

As sinners, we're unable to promise our spouses that we will never make mistakes; rather, we promise that when we do make mistakes, we will work through them together—that despite such mistakes, we will stay faithful, honest, loyal; own up to our own shortcomings; repent when we are wrong; and seek to do better.

The covenant of marriage is symbolic of our faith relationship with God, which is the agreement known as the covenant of grace. In the covenant of grace, we have the understanding that God is love, that He so loved the world that He gave His only Son not to condemn the world but to be the remedy that cures our terminal condition (John 3:16, 17). We have the understanding that we cannot save or heal ourselves, so we enter into an understanding with God. We go to God and say:

> "God, because of all you have done through Jesus, all the evidence you have revealed about your trustworthiness, I am won over to you. I trust you and surrender myself to you, and I know that you will heal my heart and mind from sin. Going forward, I will honor you by cooperating with you and following your instructions. I know you are always faithful to me, Lord; now I choose to be faithful to you too. I give you my heart, my mind, my soul, and my strength. In the life I now live, I will live to honor and bring glory to you. In good times and in > bad, it is you, Lord, that I cling to; it is you that I will faithfully run to; it is you that I will always seek, for you and I are now 'one' just as you and Jesus are one" (John 17:20–23).

In this marriage-like covenant of faith, Jesus is the groom and we are the bride. The faithful bride is not a sinless people, but they are sinners who have "died" to the old me-first life of sin and have been "reborn" into a new life of love, with hearts being transformed and renewed because they have entered into a covenant relationship with Jesus in which they maintain their connection to Him. They stay faithful; they do not turn away from Him when they are hurt, frustrated, angry, assaulted, threatened, tempted. Instead, they remain faithful when trials, tribulation, and shortcomings occur; they always run straight to Jesus, faithfully seeking Him in every problem, even their failures. These are the ones described as being pure brides, dressed in white, who did not betray their faith, their covenant relationship, by going after other gods (i.e., other solutions to their sin problem).

This is the agreement, the contract, the covenant we are to have with God. This is not a legal contract, it is an actual union of intelligent beings into a faith relationship where each agrees to be faithful to the other.

The lesson sites another promise from God, given after the Flood, we are very familiar with the promise never to destroy the entire world by water, and the sign of the rainbow. But God gave another promise after the Flood:

> "As long as the earth endures, seedtime and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, day and night will never cease" (Genesis 8:22 NIV 84).

What do you think of this promise? Do you believe it to be true? Is there any implication for us today if we believe this promise?

What about the worldwide climate change messaging going on? Is the message of climate change in harmony with this promise or does it contradict it?

Do the political powers of this world that constantly harp climate disaster and use it to advance various policies do so from a biblical or godless worldview?

What is the impact upon people of the messaging and ideas of climate change? Does that message inspire with hope, does it reduce fear, does it bring people together in love, does it result in greater freedom and liberty in society, or more fear, more conflict, greater restrictions of liberty, coercion, and control?

- We are not facing a global climate disaster—we are facing a global spiritual disaster.
- We are not facing man-made global warming—we are facing man-made global coldness of heart; Jesus said, "Because of the increase of wickedness, the love of most will grow cold" (Matthew 24:12 NIV84)

Satan blinds people to reality by getting them to focus on something emotional as a distraction to what is really happening:

> "The god of this age has blinded the minds of unbelievers, so that they cannot see the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God" (2 Corinthians 4:4 NIV 84).

Look at the various philosophies dominating the world all rooted in godless evolutionism, the denial of God, the Bible, and the principles of Christianity.

- Global warming or climate change is a godless philosophy coming from those who deny what the Bible teaches about God and the future of this planet. It will incite fear and cause people to surrender liberty and take actions that actually hurt humanity.

- Worldly economics as we discussed last week, Capitalism versus Socialism—deny that God is the owner and we are His stewards. As long as Christianity is the primary belief system and people recognize that God is the owner and we are His stewards, then Socialism could make no headway because the root of Socialism is that the state is the owner of everything and we are the agents of the state. So, all the various socialist movements have focused on advancing godless evolutionism in our schools and society in order to destroy Christianity.

- All Critical Theories are based in godless evolutionism and socialism in which economic differences are replaced with identity power differences, so called oppressed and oppressors. But the goal is to destroy Christian values and principles. The goal is to destroy families and have children raised, indoctrinated by the state, to be loyal party members, to efface and destroy the image of God in people. This is why we see the assault on marriage, male-female identity, and the corrosive teaching to little children in public schools ideas that parents oppose and without parental consent.

Satan's end-time push is active and aggressive. The purpose and goal is to increase chaos, disorder, confusion, uncertainty, and fear so that people, longing for security and safety will accept a totalitarian ruler who uses force to restore order.

The Christian fights against this with the divine weapons given to us by God. With truth, presented in love, while leaving others free:

- we do not use coercion
- we do not use propaganda
- we do not restrict liberties
- we do not mandate others do what we say
- we do not collude with and support philosophies and systems based in godlessness
- we discern the difference between the godless green movement that leads people away from Jesus, away from fulfilling our responsibility to be good stewards of the Earth and have dominion over it; and instead we actively seek to develop the Earth to make it every more human friendly in ways that are not destructive and abusive.

- we value people more than the planet and realize that no matter how well we do as God's stewards this planet is being destroyed and replaced with a new one.

Do we remember God's promise after the flood that seasons will continue until Jesus comes, or do we reject biblical truth and accept the religion of the green?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph,

> The Death of Christ on Calvary made salvation possible for every person who has ever lived or who will ever life. Unlike the promise of the seasons, salvation is not unilateral—it is not given to everyone, regardless of what they do. The belief that everyone will be saved is called "universalism." (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 15).

Without the sinless life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ no human being could be saved from sin. Jesus' coming as a human and dying as our Savior is an absolute requirement for salvation.

But why? Why did Jesus have to die to save sinners? Couldn't God just forgive us and save us?

What is the problem that sin caused that the plan of salvation was designed to fix?

When Adam sinned:

- Did God get changed?
- Did God's law get changed?
- Did the condition of humankind get changed?
- Then where must the work of Christ occur to save humankind?

And what must be applied to save sinners?

> "Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil." (Hebrews 2:14 NIV84)

What is Satan's power?

- Lies—Satan is the father of lies. John 8:44
- Life eternal is knowing God. John 17:3
    - Eternal death is not knowing God.
    - Satan's power is the lies he tells about God, that if we believe will keep us from knowing Him.
    - Christ revealed the truth which destroys the lies and wins us back to trust.

The first healing element Christ had to bring in order to break Satan's power and save humankind was the truth. "you will know the truth and the truth will set you free" John 8:32

Why is this the first step in saving human sinners? Because without restored trust no one would open their heart to God and allow Him to save them. Without restored trust we would all remain in fear, selfishness, and rebellion against God.

But while revealing truth to restore trust is an absolute requirement to save sinners, is it enough, or is something more than the revelation of truth and restored trust needed?

If you were dying of a terminal condition and your father was a wonderful trustworthy, loving doctor, and your father had a remedy that would cure your condition, but you believe lies about your father, and you believe he will kill you if he gets close to you. What is required in order for you to experience healing or to be saved from your terminal condition? The truth must destroy the lies so that you are won back to trust and allow your father to apply the remedy to you.

But what if you have a wonderful, trustworthy, loving physician father who you do love and trust completely, but your father has no remedy to your condition. Will your trust result in your healing or being saved from your condition if he doesn't have a remedy?

We need both. We need the truth that destroys lies and restores us to trust and we need an actual remedy that heals our condition. We could not provide either, so Jesus reveals the truth, and as a human Jesus destroyed the death causing principle that Adam brought into humanity and restored in humanity the life-causing principle, thereby becoming the second Adam and the source of salvation for all who obey Him.

> "Christ Jesus, who has destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel." (2 Timothy 1:10 NIV84)
> "Although he was a son, he learned obedience from what he suffered and, once made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him." (Hebrews 5:9, 10 NIV84)

Wasn't Jesus always perfect? He was always sinless! Bible perfection is about character, and character cannot be created; it must be developed by the choices of the individual agent. Jesus became a real human, was tempted in every way just like we are but without sin, and overcame every temptation by living out God's perfect design law and methods of love and thereby, in His humanity, in His human brain, developed a perfect human character, He became the source of salvation or healing.

In order to destroy death, Christ had to restore humanity back into harmony with the law of love—the law of life.

- He revealed truth, which exposed Satan as liar, secured the unfallen universe, and won humanity back to trust:

- He destroyed Satan and his power.
- He destroyed the infection of selfishness and cured humankind.
- "The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work." 1 John 3:8

Satan has worked to efface the image of God in humanity and put Satan's image where God's should be. In Jesus God's image was perfectly restored into the species human.

Now, because of Jesus, we can have the lies about God removed and be restored back to trust in God. And in that trust relationship we open our hearts and the Spirit enters and takes what Christ achieved and reproduces it in us. Jesus taught this in symbol when He said:

> "I tell you the truth, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day." (John 6:53-54 NIV84)

Flesh—is symbolic of the Word of Truth. Jesus is the Word made Flesh. And as we take in food it becomes the substance that builds our bodies. Likewise when we take in the truth the truth becomes the building blocks of our understanding, concepts, beliefs, and mindset. The Flesh was replaced with the symbol of Bread—the truth destroys lies and wins to trust.

And having partaken the flesh, the bread, the truth and been restored to trust, we then partake the blood—the life is in the blood—we, via the Holy Spirit, receive the life of Christ, a new heart and right spirit, we get new desires and new motives, "… it is no longer I that lives but Christ lives in me." (Galatians 2:20 NIV84). Or as Peter says We become "partakers of the divine nature." (2 Peter 1:4 NIV84).

This is why Christ had to die to save sinners. Christ saved the species human in His person, and revealed truth to win us to trust and procured the remedy, a sinless human character that He gives to us when we open our hearts and invite Him in.

And simultaneously, the revelation of the truth, solidified the loyal angels in their loyalty.

> "God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross." Colossians 1:19, 20

MONDAY

The lesson focuses on Israel as a chosen people. For what? What was God's purpose in choosing Israel? What were they chosen for?

Did God choose Israel for salvation while neglecting or rejecting all the other peoples of the world for salvation?

God's call to Israel was not for them to receive exclusive salvation, but for them to be the branch of the human family tree through whom the Messiah would come, and as such be His helpers, His assistants, to take the truth, the gospel to the world so that all humans could be saved.

Did Israel fulfill their purpose? Well, God intervened over and over again to protect a remnant through whom Messiah would come, for without Jesus no human could be saved. So, that branch of the human family had enough faithful people last to fulfill the purpose of Jesus being born into the world.

But what about them embracing their mission, accepting the gospel commission, accepting what God has provided in Jesus and sharing the truth about God with the world?

Jesus had already told them that their genetics made no difference, their claim to be children of Abraham by biological descent was irrelevant because they embraced Satan's character and were therefore considered children of Satan.

Right before His crucifixion, Jesus did something more. He exposed and condemned their false version of Judaism. There was a true version of grace which Jesus lived out which was love and truth that included everyone, Roman, Samaritan, Jew. And then there was the false version which excluded everyone except those who adhered to these false leaders' legal system of rules. In Matthew 23 Jesus eviscerates their false system and makes it clear that in rejecting Him, the fulfillment of the Genesis 3:15 covenant of grace, their entire system is left devoid of any saving grace:

> 13 "Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You shut the kingdom of heaven in men's faces. You yourselves do not enter, nor will you let those enter who are trying to.
> 15 "Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You travel over land and sea to win a single convert, and when he becomes one, you make him twice as much a son of hell as you are.
> 16 "Woe to you, blind guides! You say, 'If anyone swears by the temple, it means nothing; but if anyone swears by the gold of the temple, he is bound by his oath.' 17 You blind fools! Which is greater: the gold, or the temple that makes the gold sacred? 18 You also say, 'If anyone swears by the altar, it means nothing; but if anyone swears by the gift on it, he is bound by his oath.' 19 You blind men! Which is greater: the gift, or the altar that makes the gift sacred? 20 Therefore, he who swears by the altar swears by it and by everything on it. 21 And he who swears by the temple swears by it and by the one who dwells in it. 22 And he who swears by heaven swears by God's throne and by the one who sits on it.
> 23 "Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You give a tenth of your spices—mint, dill and cummin. But you have neglected the more important matters of the law—justice, mercy and faithfulness. You should have practiced the latter, without neglecting the former. 24 You blind guides! You strain out a gnat but swallow a camel.
> 25 "Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You clean the outside of the cup and dish, but inside they are full of greed and self-indulgence. 26 Blind Pharisee! First clean the inside of the cup and dish, and then the outside also will be clean.

27 “Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You are like whitewashed tombs, which look beautiful on the outside but on the inside are full of dead men’s bones and everything unclean. 28 In the same way, on the outside you appear to people as righteous but on the inside you are full of hypocrisy and wickedness.
29 “Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You build tombs for the prophets and decorate the graves of the righteous. 30 And you say, ‘If we had lived in the days of our forefathers, we would not have taken part with them in shedding the blood of the prophets.’ 31 So you testify against yourselves that you are the descendants of those who murdered the prophets. 32 Fill up, then, the measure of the sin of your forefathers!
33 “You snakes! You brood of vipers! How will you escape being condemned to hell? 34 Therefore I am sending you prophets and wise men and teachers. Some of them you will kill and crucify; others you will flog in your synagogues and pursue from town to town. 35 And so upon you will come all the righteous blood that has been shed on earth, from the blood of righteous Abel to the blood of Zechariah son of Berekiah, whom you murdered between the temple and the altar. 36 I tell you the truth, all this will come upon this generation.
37 “O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you who kill the prophets and stone those sent to you, how often I have longed to gather your children together, as a hen gathers her chicks under her wings, but you were not willing. 38 Look, your house is left to you desolate. 39 For I tell you, you will not see me again until you say, ‘Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.’” (Matthew 23:13-39 NIV84).

WEDNESDAY

The lesson is about tithe and tithing. What do you understand the tithe to be? Is tithe the same as offerings? What is the difference?

Is tithing a legal requirement?

Is tithing a practice of trustworthy partnership?

Is tithe a measure of our righteousness, our faithfulness to God?

Did those who demanded Christ be crucified pay tithe? Even on the herbs in their garden.

The fact that the betrayers of God paid tithe does not mean that tithe is not part of a healthy relationship with God, only that it cannot be used as a measure of our relationship with God.

What is the purpose of the tithe? What is it to be used for? For advancing the gospel of Jesus Christ.

To whom is the tithe to be given?

If you lived 1000 years ago, during the Dark Ages, to whom would you pay your tithe? Would you be advancing the gospel by giving it to the Roman Church?

What about today? Would God have His tithe given to institutions or organizations that are mispresenting Him, especially if there are other organizations that are advancing the true gospel?

Do we have a responsibility to evaluate where we pay our tithe, or should we blindly pay it to the organization of our upbringing?

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote this:

> "There are ministers' wives… who have been devoted, earnest, whole-souled workers, giving Bible readings and praying with families, helping along by personal efforts just as successfully as their husbands. These women give their whole time, and are told that they receive nothing for their labors because their husbands receive wages. I tell them to go forward and all such decisions will be revised. The Word says, "The labourer is worthy of his hire." Luke 10:7. When any such decision as this is made, I will, in the name of the Lord, protest. I will feel it my duty to create a fund from my tithe money to pay these women who are accomplishing just as essential work as the ministers are doing, and this tithe I will reserve for work in the same line as that of the ministers, hunting for souls, fishing for souls.{DG 106.1}
>
> It has been presented to me for years [by whom?] that my tithe was to be appropriated by myself to aid the white and colored ministers who were neglected and did not receive sufficient [income to] properly to support their families… {2MR 99.3}
>
> I have myself appropriated my tithe to the most needy cases brought to my notice. I have been instructed to do this, and as the money is not withheld from the Lord's treasury, [wait, it wasn't being given to the organized church, yet was not withheld from the Lord's treasury, why?] it is not a matter that should be commented upon, for it will necessitate my making known these matters, which I do not desire to do, because it is not best. {2MR 99.5}
>
> Some cases have been kept before me for years, and I have supplied their needs from the tithe, as God has instructed me to do. And if any person shall say to me, Sister White, will you appropriate my tithe where you know it is most needed, I shall say, Yes, I will; and I have done so... {2MR 100.1}

Did you notice that this person believed that her tithe was to go directly to people who were not funded by the institution, but who were promoting the true gospel message, she was 1) acting at God's direction and 2) the money was going into God's treasury, i.e. storehouse.

What do you think?

I think the gospel would advance much more rapidly if every person took seriously the responsibility of where they place their tithe. This would require of them to study and determine what is the true gospel of Jesus Christ, and then examine where they are placing their tithe and decide, is that organization advancing the true gospel, not just in the list of right doctrinal beliefs, but in the methods they practice in how they run their organizations and how they treat others?

If people did this, it would change the people giving tithe to become more effective in their own lives and the gospel would lighten the world!

THURSDAY

The lesson asks us to read Matthew 6:25-33, but let's include verse 34:

> "Therefore I tell you, do not worry about your life, what you will eat or drink; or about your body, what you will wear. Is not life more important than food, and the body more important than clothes? Look at the birds of the air; they do not sow or reap or store away in barns, and yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not much more valuable than they? Who of you by worrying can add a single hour to his life?
>
> "And why do you worry about clothes? See how the lilies of the field grow. They do not labor or spin. Yet I tell you that not even Solomon in all his splendor was dressed like one of these. If that is how God clothes the grass of the field, which is here today and tomorrow is thrown into the fire, will he not much more clothe you, O you of little faith? So do not worry, saying, 'What shall we eat?' or 'What shall we drink?' or 'What shall we wear?' For the pagans run after all these things, and your heavenly Father knows that you need them. But seek first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things will be given to you as well. Therefore do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own" (Matthew 6:25-34 NIV84).

Where is Christ focusing the attention?

Where does our modern world focus our attention?

Did you know the various social justice movements actively reject this passage of Jesus? In fact, they argue that scripture is designed to keep people oppressed, to advantage oppressors. That people should not trust God with their lives, that they should not be at peace and seek God's solution for this only perpetuates poverty and exploitation. Instead, people should rise up and demand what is theirs by right, take what has been denied them by the powerful and use any means they can to do social justice, if that means going into stores owned by the wealthy and stealing, that is only the proper redistribution of wealth to the oppressed.

Jesus focuses upon our hearts, minds, characters, and eternal life, not the specifics of this temporal world, but eternity. Jesus Himself had no possessions, no earthly pomp or wealth, yet Jesus is supreme over all.

Do you see how the philosophies and movements of this world are designed to cause envy, jealousy, dissatisfaction, distrust in God, division and hostility?

We have a better message a message of Jesus, of our Creator God of love, who is coming back to restore all things to perfection and who will provide eternal life for all who trust Him.

Just as Jesus said for those who trust Him, “In this world you will have trouble. But take heart! I have overcome the world.” (John 16:33 NIV84).

2023 1Q Managing for the Master Till He Comes—Lesson 3
The Tithing Contract

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

What do you think of the title—The Tithing Contract?

Is tithing a legal requirement? Is the tithing a business contract? Is tithing a business deal?

Or is tithing part of the covenant of grace, a part of the love relationship covenant between the believer and God?

Does it impact you the same way if tithe is a business relationship versus a love relationship?

Consider the difference upon you between these two possibilities: you and God have entered into a legal business contract in which 10% of any profits are God's and 90% are yours, versus you have entered into a love/trust relationship in which everything is God's from the start, but God gives you 90% of all gain to manage as His steward for your own necessities, recreation, charitable giving, etc., and He only retains 10% specifically designated for the advancement of His kingdom on Earth?

Does it make a difference on you to approach tithing in these two ways? What is that difference?

If we approach it as a legal business contract and think that as long as we give our 10% then God is required by the legal contract to continue to use His divine power to bless us with more wealth—what motive might that develop in the heart?

If our tithing is part of a love/trust relationship and everything is already recognized as God's and we experience all gain as blessings from God and He graciously gives us 90% of it retaining only 10% specifically for gospel ministry, what motive does that engender into the heart?

Which way do you think God would have us approach tithing?

SUNDAY

Read second paragraph,

> The first mention of tithe in the Bible is in Genesis 14, which tells the story of Melchizedek's meeting with Abram. The last mention of tithe in the Bible recalls the same encounter, but the words "tenth" and "tithe" are used interchangeably (see Heb. 7:1-9). Note in the Hebrews story > that neither Melchizedek nor Christ were of the tribe of Levi, so tithing precedes and follows the specialness of the Levites. Tithing is not exclusively a Jewish custom and did not originate with the Hebrews at Sinai. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 23).

What do you take away from this paragraph?

- This combination of texts, Abram paying tithe and then that event being described later as a tenth is a good way to define that the tithe does indeed mean a tenth or 10%
- What is the significance for us of the fact that tithe was paid to someone not of the tribe of Levi?
    - The lesson makes the case that the tithe is not restricted to the Old Testament and is not a Jewish custom, but is for all believers.
    - Another possible lesson is that this story gives biblical basis that the tithe is not restricted to one single group, denomination, or family, but is to support the advancement of the gospel and be placed wherever the Holy Spirit leads the person to return it, just as Abram was led to do. What are your thoughts about this?
    - Keep this idea in mind as we go through the rest of the week's lesson.

Read the bottom green section:

> Why is it important to understand that tithing, like the Sabbath, was not something that originated in the ancient Israelite legal or even religious system? What message should we, who live after the cross, take from this truth? (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 23).

What is the difference between the things we find in the Bible that are specifically part of the legal and religious system of ancient Israel and the things that are not?

Can you think of other teachings that were part of ancient Israel, like the Sabbath and tithing, but did not originate with them and are not restricted to their system? And can you think of elements that were restricted to their system?

First, practices that did not originate with ancient Israel and are still healthy for us to practice today?

- Marriage between one man and one woman
- Various duties and responsibilities to family and community—to love
- Work—useful labor give in Eden
- Dominion over and godly development of the Earth
- Ownership of various types of property and managing it as good stewards of God
- Principles of healthy diet—clean and unclean meats, which are based upon the laws of health and not the ceremonial laws, and were established at the Flood when seven of the clean animals were taken onto the ark and only two of the unclean.
- But what about animal sacrifices—they originated before ancient Israel's legal and religious system, why don't we practice those any more but we still advocate for marriage, the Sabbath, tithing, healthy diet, good stewardship etc.?

- Because it isn't simply about when it started, but about its purpose and function. All of the things we carry forward, Marriage, Sabbath, healthy diet, good stewardship, godly management of resources, tithing all have design law functional impact on our health, welfare, and development. The sacrificial system of animals never had any direct functional impact, but served as an object lesson and teaching tool until the reality of Jesus came. When humankind fell into sin, God provided an object lesson to teach them the reality of what sin does and also point them to Jesus as the solution. But that object lesson became perverted with legalism and people came to believe multiple lies, that the animal sacrifice had some saving benefit, that God was pleased with death, that God required offerings be given to Him instead of realizing that the offering was being given by God to us not us to God. In other words, Satan had corrupted that object lesson so that it came to teach the exact opposite of what it was supposed to teach, so it had to be swept away and replaced with the reality of Jesus.

What about the annual feasts? They were specifically given to Israel and were part of their theatrical system of acting out the plan of salvation. Just as we are to participate in the reality of what the sacrifices represented by presenting ourselves a living sacrifice holy and acceptable to God and receive the sacrifice of Jesus via the Holy Spirit into our hearts, but not bring an animal to some temple and kill it, we are also are to participate in the reality of what the annual feasts represented or taught.

- Passover—blood applied to the doorpost and they ate the flesh of the sacrificial animal. We are to eat the Word of God, the flesh, Jesus is the Word made flesh and be won to trust and then open our hearts to receive the life of Jesus "it is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me" which is symbolized by the blood applied to the doorposts, the life is in the blood, we get new hearts and right spirits etc.
- Unleavened Bread—We partake the unleavened bread, meaning we continue to ingest the Word of God unmixed with the errors and selfishness of this world to nurture us and grow
- Wave Sheaf—We recognize Jesus is the wave sheaf and the first fruit with His victory over death and lives as our Savior in heaven.
- Pentecost—We receive the outpouring of the Holy Spirit who applies in our lives what Christ achieved, renewing us and equipping us to carry the gospel forward
- Trumpets—we recognize the call for the church to gather, to cooperate for Christ for His return occurred with the Great Awakening in the late 19th century.
- Atonement—we live in the day of cleansing of the bride, of Jesus finishing His work for the final people on Earth preparing them to meet Him when He comes and we participate with Him being sealed, cleansed, settled beyond being shaken from loyalty no matter what trials come.
- Tabernacles—we look forward to the second coming when Christ makes all things new and we tabernacle with our Savior in an Earth made new.

So we celebrate the ancient feasts by embracing and living out the reality to which those theatrical lessons pointed.

MONDAY

Read from the middle question to the end of the lesson:

> Read Deuteronomy 12:5-14. These verses do not indicate that God's children could use their own discretion as to where their tithe was deposited. What principles can we take from these verses for ourselves today?
>
> As members of God's family, we want to understand and practice His will regarding what to do with our tithe. In the biblical narrative, we learn that three times in each year — Passover, Pentecost, and Feast of Tabernacles (Exod. 23:14-17) — God's people were to travel to Jerusalem to bring their tithes and offerings personally and to praise and to worship God. Then the Levites distributed the tithe to their brethren all over the land of Israel (see 2 Chron. 31:11-21, Neh. 12:44-47, Neh. 13:8-14). In harmony with this biblical central storehouse principle, the Seventh-day Adventist Church has designated the local conferences, missions, and unions of churches as storehouses on behalf of the world church, and from which the ministry is paid.
>
> For the convenience of church members, the tithe is brought to the local church, where, as part of their worship experience, members bring their tithes and offerings, though some use online giving. The local treasurers then forward the tithe to the conference storehouse. This system of tithe management, outlined and ordained by God, has enabled the Seventh-day Adventist Church to have a worldwide and growing impact in the world.
>
> Imagine if everyone decided to give their tithe to whomever they wanted to, at the expense of the Adventist church itself. What would happen to our church? Why is that practice, then, such a bad idea and contrary to Scripture? (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 24).

What is the message you are hearing from this section?

Do you hear the following message:

- Ancient Israel was not allowed to use their own discretion as to where to place their tithe
- Church members today are not to prayerful consider and use their own discretion as to where to place their tithe
- If you prayerfully, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit place your tithe with any other person or group than the SDA church you are acting contrary to Scripture

Is this the message the lesson is trying to communicate? Is this message what the Bible teaches?

It is always good to go back to the Bible and examine the evidence for ourselves and not allow the lesson or others to tell us what the Bible says.

The lesson referenced Deuteronomy 12:5-14, let's start with 12:1:

These are the decrees and laws you must be careful to follow in the land that the LORD, the God of your fathers, has given you to possess—as long as you live in the land. Destroy completely all the places on the high mountains and on the hills and under every spreading tree where the nations you are dispossessing worship their gods. Break down their altars, smash their sacred stones and burn their Asherah poles in the fire; cut down the idols of their gods and wipe out their names from those places.

You must not worship the LORD your God in their way. [What is the context? These are the first four verses, the next verse is where the lesson starts our quote, but note the context is to ensure that the people did not practice worship like the pagans. Why? What is the issue at hand?] But you are to seek the place the LORD your God will choose from among all your tribes to put his Name there for his dwelling. To that place you must go; there bring your burnt offerings and sacrifices, your tithes and special gifts, what you have vowed to give and your freewill offerings, and the firstborn of your herds and flocks. [Is this section about tithing, or is it more than tithing? Why does the lesson pick out tithing from this section while ignoring all the other instructions?] There, in the presence of the LORD your God, you and your families shall eat and shall rejoice in everything you have put your hand to, because the LORD your God has blessed you.

You are not to do as we do here today, everyone as he sees fit, since you have not yet reached the resting place and the inheritance the LORD your God is giving you. [What does this mean, not do as everyone sees fit? Why not? What is the context, what is happening? God is taking a group of former slaves, who had many pagan ideas in their minds and practices and is forging them into a cohesive force to resist the pull of the pagan practices FOR THE PURPOSE of keeping open the avenue for Messiah.] But you will cross the Jordan and settle in the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, and he will give you rest from all your enemies around you so that you will live in safety. Then to the place the LORD your God will choose as a dwelling for his Name—there you are to bring everything I command you: your burnt offerings and sacrifices, your tithes and special gifts, and all the choice possessions you have vowed to the LORD. And there rejoice before the LORD your God, you, your sons and daughters, your menservants and maidservants, and the Levites from your towns, who have no allotment or inheritance of their own. Be careful not to sacrifice your burnt offerings anywhere you please. Offer them only at the place the LORD will choose in one of your tribes, and there observe everything I command you. (Deuteronomy 12:1–14 NIV84). [Is the instruction about not worshiping wherever one pleases primarily about the tithe, or about the animal sacrifices? Why? Because God doesn't want them to participate in pagan fertility worship. He wants them to move past appeasement and cult worship, to true worship of our Creator God who sacrifices Himself for us. Thus, they are to restrict their worship to the places and means God has directed.]

But even more interesting, in this same set of guidelines given by God that the lesson references, we find a specific section on tithing just two chapters later, but the lesson left it out. Let's read these specific set of tithing instructions that are part of this same set of instructions the lesson referenced and consider why the lesson didn't include these, and what it means that the lesson is using Scripture to support their claim that we are not at liberty to decide what to do with the tithe, where to place it, but are required by God to give without thinking.

Be sure to set aside a tenth of all that your fields produce each year. [We had a few tomato plants this year and they produced a lot of tomatoes. But it didn't cross our minds to place 10% of our tomatoes into an offering plate—should we have? Do you think the institutional church would be happy if we did bring a bag of tomatoes to put in the plate? The instruction in Deuteronomy seems to indicate we are to do this. Are we not living according to Scripture if we don't? Or has culture changed, as well as what we recognize as our wealth or income from our work from that of the Hebrews of old?] Eat the tithe of your grain, new wine and oil, and the firstborn of your herds and flocks in the presence of the LORD your God at the place he will choose as a dwelling for his Name, so that you may learn to revere the LORD your God always. [Wait, so we are to eat the tithe ourselves, wow, good news, we feel a lot better realizing that we are to eat the tithe and not give it to the church, as long as we do it with thanks and rejoicing for the Lord. But I thought the tithe was to be given to the church for the church to consume it, why is God telling the worshipper to consume the tithe? What is the purpose of the tithe? It is to advance the gospel—and what is the gospel? The good news—about what? About God—so what is God's purpose in having the ancient Hebrews spend His tithe on items that they consume in worship? What is God contrasting? What had He told them not to do? God is contrasting Himself with the false gods of Egypt and the pagan cults all around them. All false systems of gods that make up rules and inflict punishment upon sinners for rule-breaking. As such the sinner, the worshiper, is required to bring gifts and offerings to the offended god to appease the wrath of the God, or to pay for their sins, or to influence the god to forgive or give blessings. The more costly the gift, the greater the influence on the offended god. Thus pagan worship often devolved into human and infant sacrifice because nothing was more valuable than one's firstborn son. But God is demonstrating by action that He is NOT like the pagan gods, that He gives of Himself for us, we don't bring things to Him to buy Him off, or influence Him. So God specifically directed that the tithe, which was understood to be His, would be used for the people to buy and consume items in worship of God—and the people learn that God is good! The tithe was used in this way to advance the gospel, the good news about God!] But if that place is too distant and you have been blessed by the LORD your God and cannot carry your tithe (because the place where the LORD will choose to put his Name is so far away), then exchange your tithe for silver, and take the silver with you and go to the place the LORD your God will choose. Use the silver to buy whatever you like: cattle, sheep, wine or other fermented drink, or anything you wish. Then you and your household shall eat there in the presence of the LORD your God and rejoice. [What did God instruct them to do with the tithe? Why isn't the lesson applying this as a rule that we are to do today? Not only does it instruct to use the tithe to buy fermented drink and other staples, but the worshiper is to consume it, not merely give the silver to the church. Do you see some inconsistency in how the Bible is being used, picking texts that support a certain conclusion while excluding others? What do you think these texts mean and how do they apply to us today?] And do not neglect the Levites living in your towns, for they have no allotment or inheritance of their own. At the end of every three years, bring all the tithes of that year's produce and store it in your towns, so that the Levites (who have no allotment or inheritance of their own) and the aliens, the fatherless and the widows who live in your towns may come and eat and be satisfied, and so that the LORD your God may bless you in all the work of your > hands. [So if we use these instructions to ancient Israel as the sole basis of our tithing method the tithe is to be given to the church every three years, with the other two years being used for the celebration of God by the members. Thoughts?] (Deuteronomy 14:22-29 NIV84).

How do we understand the issue of buying whatever they want including fermented wine and celebrating before the Lord?

What happens to wine without refrigeration or vacuum sealing? It either ferments or turns to vinegar.

Fermented wine was a common drink of the day. God is not endorsing drunkenness, in fact the Bible specifically warns against drunkenness. But God is meeting people in the reality in which they live. They routinely drank weak fermented wine and God was telling them, in this context, whatever they prefer to drink with their meals, that drink is a gift from God and is to be used to rejoice in the Lord and experience the reality that God is good, God gives of Himself to bless and uplift us. It is that simple. It would be an error to use this text to make a case for or against alcoholic beverages.

Is tithe a measure of our righteousness, our faithfulness to God?

Did those who demanded Christ be crucified pay tithe? Even on the herbs in their garden (Luke 11:42).

The fact that the betrayers of Jesus paid tithe does not mean that tithe is not part of a healthy relationship with God, only that it cannot be used as a measure of our relationship with God.

What is the purpose of the tithe? What is it to be used for? For advancing the gospel of Jesus Christ.

To whom is the tithe to be given?

If you lived 1000 years ago, during the Dark Ages, to whom would you pay your tithe? Would you be advancing the gospel by giving it to the Roman Church?

What about today? Would God have His tithe given to institutions or organizations that are mispresenting Him, especially if there are other organizations that are advancing the true gospel?

Do we have a responsibility to evaluate where we pay our tithe, or should we blindly pay it to the organization of our upbringing?

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote this:

> “There are ministers' wives… who have been devoted, earnest, whole-souled workers, giving Bible readings and praying with families, helping along by personal efforts just as successfully as their husbands. These women give their whole time, and are told that they receive nothing for their labors because their husbands receive wages. I tell them to go forward and all such decisions will be revised. The Word says, "The labourer is worthy of his hire." Luke 10:7. When any such decision as this is made, I will, in the name of the Lord, protest. I will feel it my duty to create a fund from my tithe money to pay these women who are accomplishing just as essential work as the ministers are doing, and this tithe I will reserve for work in the same line as that of the ministers, hunting for souls, fishing for souls.{DG 106.1}

It has been presented to me for years [by whom?] that my tithe was to be appropriated by myself to aid the white and colored ministers who were neglected and did not receive sufficient [income to] properly to support their families… {2MR 99.3}

I have myself appropriated my tithe to the most needy cases brought to my notice. I have been instructed to do this, and as the money is not withheld from the Lord's treasury, [wait, it wasn't being given to the organized church, yet was not withheld from the Lord's treasury, why?] it is not a matter that should be commented upon, for it will necessitate my making known these matters, which I do not desire to do, because it is not best. {2MR 99.5}

Some cases have been kept before me for years, and I have supplied their needs from the tithe, as God has instructed me to do. And if any person shall say to me, Sister White, will you appropriate my tithe where you know it is most needed, I shall say, Yes, I will; and I have done so... {2MR 100.1}

Did you notice that this person believed that her tithe was to go directly to people who were not employed by the institutional church, but who were promoting the true gospel message? And in doing so she was 1) acting at God's direction and 2) the money was going into God's treasury, i.e. storehouse?

What do you think?

I think the gospel would advance much more rapidly if every person took seriously the responsibility of where they place their tithe. This would require of them to study and determine what is the true gospel of Jesus Christ, and then examine where they are placing their tithe and decide, is that organization advancing the true gospel, not just promoting a legal list of doctrines or rules that we may very well agree with, but do they say of God what is right? Do they teach the truth about God's character, methods, and design laws and what methods do they practice in how they run their organizations and how they treat others?

If people did this, it would change the people giving tithe to become more effective in their own lives and the gospel would lighten the world!

TUESDAY

What is the purpose of the tithe? There are two reasons, one, is to advance the gospel—and the second is described in the third paragraph,

> Tithing is important because it helps us establish a relationship of trust with God. To take one-tenth of your income and "give it away" (though, technically, it belongs to God anyway) truly takes an act of faith, and only by exercising faith will your faith grow. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 25).

This is a great point, our faith and trust in God grows through exercise. Tithing is one way to help us practice faithfulness to God and experience greater faith and trust in God.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson asks the question whether we should pay tithe on the gross or the net income. What do you think of the question?

The lesson goes on to argue that tithe should be paid on the gross income, what do you think of this?

Does the directions of Paul from Romans 14 apply to the question of gross or net tithing?

> Accept him whose faith is weak, without passing judgment on disputable matters. One man's faith allows him to eat everything, but another man, whose faith is weak, eats only vegetables. The man who eats everything must not look down on him who does not, and the man who does not eat everything must not condemn the man who does, for God has accepted him. Who are you to judge someone else's servant? To his own master he stands or falls. And he will stand, for the Lord is able to make him stand. One man considers one day more sacred than another; another man considers every day alike. Each one should be fully convinced in his own mind (Romans 14:1-5 NIV84).

What is the point here? What does it mean if one has great faith then they can eat anything but if one has weak faith then they should eat only vegetables? Is this talking about the laws of health, dietary health, or something else?

It is talking about the heart, mind, and conscience. In Paul's day, meat sold in the market was often the butchered meat from animals sacrificed to pagan gods. Some of the believers were afraid that eating the meat sacrificed to pagan gods would give those gods power over the one who ate the meat. Paul is saying if you have mature faith you know pagan gods are nothing but wood and stone and cannot affect the nutritional quality of the meat, and that the demonic forces behind the wood and stone have no power over those protected by God. Thus the mature in faith can eat the food without fear or worry. But, for those of immature faith, who still have superstitious fears in their mind, and by eating such meat would feel guilty, afraid, or believe that the demons or false gods have some power over them, then it is better not to eat. The problem is not with the meat, the problem is with the beliefs about the meat. One of Satan's powers is lies, is getting falsehoods into our minds and hearts that disrupt our unity with God. This is why the truth sets us free.

The children are fearful of making mistakes and they want simple lists of rules to behaviorally obey, like don't eat meat offered to idols, so that they can feel safe. They don't have to think, comprehend, understand, and they don't mature and develop. But God wants us to mature and develop, so He wants every person to be fully persuaded in their own mind.

This applies to the tithe, if a person pays on the net, but they believe that in doing so they are cheating God, the problem isn't the amount of tithe, but the choice to do something they believe is cheating. That choice will cause them to experience guilt, fear, shame, and harm their relationship with God. Conversely, another person who believes that they tithe only on what they receive and they do so with an honest heart, then they may tithe on the net without any damage to their character or relationship with God.

Why do you think the lesson makes such a hard case for mindless paying of tithe on the gross and only to the organized church?

The last sentence in the lesson is a quote from EGW which reads:

> "Everyone is to be his own assessor and is left to give as he purposes in his heart." — Ellen G. White, Testimonies for the Church, vol. 4, p. 469.

Would that suggest that we are to mindlessly give what the organized system has told us, or that we are to evaluate for ourselves under the guidance of the Holy Spirit with a clear conscience what we are to return in tithe and also what we are to give in offerings?

Why is this important? Does it make a difference to our own development if we give mindlessly to obey rules, to avoid guilt, to avoid legal trouble, versus we give because we know and love God and we have thoughtful calculated what is right to give?

THURSDAY

The lesson states the following:

> This week we have reviewed several of the constituent elements of the tithe:
> 1. The amount — which is a tenth, or 10 percent, of our income or increase.
> 2. Taken to the storehouse — the place from which the gospel ministers are paid.
> 3. Honoring God with the first part of our income.
> 4. Used for the right purpose — the support of the ministry.

> It is our responsibility as church members to uphold the first three items; it is the responsibility of the storehouse managers to make sure that the tithe funds are used properly. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 27).

Do you agree or disagree?

It is true that whatever organization receives funds from donors, once those funds are received those with management responsibilities for that organization are responsible for how those funds are used.

However, does that mean those who donate to various organizations have no responsibility to assess how the organization they are donating to is using the funds?

Do we have a responsibility to use our tithes to support the gospel in the most effective way we understand the gospel is being advanced? And does that mean prayerful and intelligent consideration of where to place our tithe?

2023 1Q Managing for the Master Till He Comes—Lesson 4
Offerings for Jesus

by Tim Jennings

SUNDAY

Last week we discussed tithing, this week we explore the question of offerings.

Any questions about offerings? How about this:

- Since God created everything (Genesis 1)
- Since everything already belongs to the Lord (Deuteronomy 10:14)
- Since all things are sustained by Him (Hebrews 1:3)
- Since He holds all things together (Colossians 1:17)
- And since God has said, "If I were hungry, I would not ask you for food, for the world and everything in it is mine" (Psalms 50:12 GNT).

Then why are we to return tithe and give offerings? This is not a question of what those funds are to be used for, we answered last week that the tithe is to be used to advance the gospel, the kingdom of God. No, this question is why does God instruct us to return tithe and give offerings—does He need it?

What are the two primary antagonistic principles at war between the kingdom of God and the kingdom of Satan?

Love versus selfishness

And what is the natural orientation of our heart as we are born into the world? We are bent toward selfishness and would be hopelessly lost to selfishness if it wasn't for God's grace intervening in our hearts to convict us of a better way, to draw us back, to lead us away from sin, to make us dissatisfied with selfishness and bring us to conversion. This is why salvation is more than being born into the world, we must also be reborn into God's kingdom of love. Which means the bent of our internal self, our inmost hearts drives, shifts from selfishness to love, we are still capable of being tempted by selfishness but the converted person doesn't identify with or desire to be selfish, doesn't justify selfishness, but grieves when they stumble and longs to be free of selfishness.

So, understanding that we have a bent toward selfishness, which is driven by fear and the desire to make self safe, and we need to be reborn into God's kingdom of love and then grow in love, why do you think God has instructed us to return tithe and give offerings?

To exercise both faith and love—to help us open the channels of our selfish hearts to give and the Bible says the more you give the more you will receive.

topics@comeandreason.com

This doesn't sound right to the selfish world; it sounds like foolishness to them. The world teaches you get more by taking and hoarding and have less by giving. And the world frightens people into hoarding and not giving by focusing on shortages, catastrophes, and seeks to break down families and communities that support each other so that fear increases.

But God teaches we get more when we give, how is that possible?

First, is God's promise primarily about receiving stuff if we give or about something else? Is God's promise about increasing earthly treasures—stocks, bonds, gold, silver, lands, houses, or increasing heavenly treasures—fruits of righteousness, peace, love, joy, faith, godliness, honesty, integrity, wisdom, discernment, Christlikeness, and maturity? What is it that heaven treasures material wealth, or Christlikeness of character? Then what do you think God wants to primarily pour upon us, to give us more of, stuff, or the attributes of Himself, the principles and practices of heaven?

Jesus said:

> "Do not store up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust destroy, and where thieves break in and steal. But store up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where moth and rust do not destroy, and where thieves do not break in and steal. For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also" (Matthew 6:19–21 NIV84).

What do you think it means? How do we store up treasure in heaven? Notice how Luke recorded these instructions—he added some details:

> Then Jesus said to his disciples: "Therefore I tell you, do not worry about your life, what you will eat; or about your body, what you will wear. Life is more than food, and the body more than clothes. Consider the ravens: They do not sow or reap, they have no storeroom or barn; yet God feeds them. And how much more valuable you are than birds! Who of you by worrying can add a single hour to his life? Since you cannot do this very little thing, why do you worry about the rest?
>
> "Consider how the lilies grow. They do not labor or spin. Yet I tell you, not even Solomon in all his splendor was dressed like one of these. If that is how God clothes the grass of the field, which is here today, and tomorrow is thrown into the fire, how much more will he clothe you, O you of little faith! And do not set your heart on what you will eat or drink; do not worry about it. For the pagan world runs after all such things, and your Father knows that you need them. But seek his kingdom, and these things will be given to you as well.
>
> "Do not be afraid, little flock, for your Father has been pleased to give you the kingdom. Sell your possessions and give to the poor. Provide purses for yourselves that will not wear out, a treasure in heaven that will not be exhausted, where no thief comes near and no moth destroys. For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also" (Luke 12:22-34 NIV84).

- Do you see how the world inflames our fear of not having, and seeks to get us to be more selfishness by creating situations in which people are in need?
- How much is peace of mind worth?
- How much is peace of heart worth?
- How much is good health worth?
- How much is living a life of love and trust worth?
- How much is being useful to God and fulfilling His purpose, knowing your life matters, knowing that through you God's kingdom advances and your life makes a difference for good?
- How much is reconciliation with God and eternal life worth?
- And how are we able to experience peace of mind and heart, live lives of love and trust, fulfill God's purpose? Is it by our initiative, our creativity, our strength, our innate abilities—or is it by receiving what God has provided to us through Jesus and sharing that love, joy, wisdom, energy, time, money, food, clothing, with others?

Consider the garden hose on your house and the fire hydrant on the street in front of your house. If you open both of them up full blast, which gives more water away? The fire hydrant—and in so doing which receives more water to it?

We are the metaphorical hose or fire hydrant. God is the municipal infinite source of water, as we allow the love of God to flow through us to others we receive more of God's love flowing into us. The more love we give away, the more we receive from God!

Jesus told the woman at the well,

> "whoever drinks some of the water that I will give him will never be thirsty again, but the water that I will give him will become in him a fountain of water springing up" (John 4:14 NET).

There is a song by Michael. W. Smith called Give it Away and these are the lyrics:

> She asked him for forever
> And a promise that would last
> He said, "Babe, you know I love you
> But I can't commit to that"
> She said, "Love isn't love
> Till You give it away"
>
> A father lived in silence
> Saw his son become a man
> There was a distance felt between them
> 'Cause he could not understand
> That love isn't love
> Till you give it away

You gotta give it away

As we live
Moving side by side
May we learn to give
(May we learn to give)
Learn to sacrifice

We can entertain compassion
For a world in need of care
But the road of good intentions
Doesn't lead to anywhere
'Cause love isn't love
Till you give it away, yeah
You gotta give it away

As we live
Moving side by side
May we learn to give
(May we learn to give)
Learn to sacrifice

Love is like a river
Flowing down from the Giver of life
We drink from the water
And our thirst is no longer denied
You gotta give it away

As we live
Moving side by side
(Moving side by side)
May we learn to give
(May, may, may we learn to give)
Learn to sacrifice

There was a man who walked on water
He came to set the people free
He was the ultimate example
Of what love can truly be 'Cause His love was His life
And He gave it away
You gotta give it away

As we live

Moving side by side
May we learn to give
(May, may we learn to give)
Learn to sacrifice

You gotta give it away

This is the purpose of God in providing us the privilege of tithing and giving offerings, to help us grow in love for God and others and strengthen our faith/trust in Him. God wants us to grow and mature in godliness. We do this by practicing His methods, so He wants us to regularly make decisions that are contrary to the practices of the world, to regularly exercise our ability to live out God's law of love and to exercise our faith in God, to say no to fear, no to selfishness and yes to the kingdom of God.

But, let me be clear—it isn't about the act of giving, it is about the motive of giving. A person can give from a selfish motive, a guilt motive, a fear motive, a resentful and bitter motive, a political motive and if a person gives from such motives they will grow more selfish, bitter, fearful, or resentful.

This is why the Lord loves a cheerful giver, not merely a giver (2 Corinthians 9:7).

So, with this in mind, that God gave us the practice of tithing and giving offerings as therapy for our souls, a therapeutic tool or practice to help us resist the infection of fear and selfishness and help us open the rusted channels in our hearts where love is to flow, and help us grow in godliness, understanding all of this, what is the offering that is the most important that we are to bring to God, the offering that He wants most?

- "Certainly you do not want a sacrifice, or else I would offer it; you do not desire a burnt sacrifice. The sacrifices God desires are a humble spirit—O God, a humble and repentant heart you will not reject" (Psalm 51:16-17 NET).

- "What I want from you is plain and clear: I want your constant love, not your animal sacrifices. I would rather have my people know me than burn offerings to me" (Hosea 6:5-6 GNT).

- "Therefore, I urge you, brothers, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as living sacrifices, holy and pleasing to God—this is your spiritual act of worship. Do not conform any longer to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is—his good, pleasing and perfect will" (Romans 12:1-2 NIV84).

What is the first and primary offering we are to bring to God? Ourselves! Only after we have given ourselves to God, can we bring other offerings that are pleasing, because only with renewed hearts will our giving be cheerful and be therapeutic in God's design law kingdom to help us grow to be more like Jesus.

Does that mean a person is not to give anything until they are first converted? It means what God wants is us not stuff.

In the process of conversion, an individual may be moved by the Holy Spirit with motives to give to certain causes and those motives of love, compassion, desire to bless and help are evidence of God's Spirit working upon the heart even before full conversion. So God would absolutely want such a person to follow those motives and give as they are responding to the work of the Holy Spirit in their life. And in doing they will gradually be drawn closer to God and will experience conversion.

So anyone, regardless of their conversion status who experience compassion for others, the motives of love, altruism, and is convicted to give to help others should do so, it is part of God's plan moving in the living being to strengthen the spiritual attributes of His kingdom in the person and bring them ultimately to full conversion.

But beware, Satan perverts tithing and the giving of offerings. Satan understands the issue isn't the amount given but the motive in giving. He perverted the OT animal sacrifices and offerings to be viewed as appeasement. He got them to think God would be happier with thousands of slain animals and flowing rivers of blood. And they brought these expensive offerings, but what happened? They ended up killing Jesus.

If Satan can get people to give from fear, from guilt, from obligation, from legal requirement, from a business contract, from selfishness, because they are afraid of God, because they are trying to buy God off, pay for their sins, alleviate their own guilt, if Satan can get people to give from any reason other than godly love, then even the act of giving can be used to corrupt the soul and undermine trust in God.

Consider this story from Scripture:

> To some who were confident of their own righteousness and looked down on everybody else, Jesus told this parable: "Two men went up to the temple to pray, one a Pharisee and the other a tax collector. The Pharisee stood up and prayed about himself: 'God, I thank you that I am not like other men—robbers, evildoers, adulterers—or even like this tax collector. I fast twice a week and give a tenth of all I get.' "But the tax collector stood at a distance. He would not even look up to heaven, but beat his breast and said, 'God, have mercy on me, a sinner.' "I tell you that this man, rather than the other, went home justified before God. For everyone who exalts himself will be humbled, and he who humbles himself will be exalted." (Luke 18:9–14 NIV84).

Is it only about giving, or does the motive matter?

Read third paragraph:

> Our offerings are an evidence of our willingness to self-sacrifice for God. They can be a deeply spiritual experience, an expression of the fact that our lives are wholly surrendered to God as > our Lord. To us, as an English idiom says, it is "putting our money where our mouth is." You can say you love God, but generous offerings help reveal (and even strengthen) that love. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 31).

Thoughts? Do the first and second sentences sound just a little different than the first sentence?

"Our offerings are an evidence of our willingness to self-sacrifice for God" versus "They can be a deeply spiritual experience"?

Would it be slightly more accurate to say, Our offers can be an evidence, rather than are an evidence?

Maybe I am being too picky, but I think for many legalists, the act is what matters rather than the motive and thus, if you give, you have fulfilled your legal requirement and thus the giving is the evidence. People like to think this way, just like the Pharisees Jesus was addressing in the text above, because they can do things to make themselves feel good about themselves while they retain a selfish and unconverted heart.

So, I don't think I am being too picky here, I think the motive is really more important than the act and focusing only on the act can perhaps interfere with some people experiencing true conversion.

The lesson seems to validate this concern in the next paragraph which reads,

> An offering comes from a heart that trusts in a personal God who constantly provides for our needs as He sees best. Our offerings rest on the conviction that we have found assurance of salvation in Christ. They are not an appeasement or a search for God's acceptance. Rather, our offerings flow from a heart that has accepted Christ by faith as the only and sufficient means of grace and redemption. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 31).

So I very much like the lesson included this paragraph, because it is the motive that matters more than the act. But, once the motive is correct the actions are necessary to solidify the right motive into the character, to change the wiring of the brain, to establish the new motive as the automatic and engrained pattern of living.

MONDAY

Read Deuteronomy 16:17:

> "Each of you must bring a gift in proportion to the way the LORD your God has blessed you" (Deuteronomy 16:17 NIV84).

What does this text mean to you? Does it apply to us or only to ancient Israel? Is this to be taken literal or metaphorical? How literal?

- If your dog gives birth to a litter of puppies do you donate one of the puppies to the church? Or, do you follow the instructions God gave Israel of the first born sheep and sacrifice the firstborn puppy and burn the body on an altar? How literal do we take these instructions?
- If the Lord has blessed you with children, do you, like Hannah, take one of your children and leave them with church leaders to raise?

Is the instruction in Deuteronomy a rule or a principle? And what is the principle? The principle is love. God wants His people to experience more of His goodness, more of His love, more of His healing and transforming power and ultimately eternal life. So God directs His people how to participate in His kingdom. Jesus said it this way: "Freely you have received, freely give" (Matthew 10:8 NIV84).

The lesson quotes Jesus saying the following:

> "For everyone to whom much is given, from him much will be required" (Luke 12:48 NKJV).

What does this mean?

This quote is plucked out of a parable Jesus told, perhaps it would help us to read the entire parable:

> The Lord answered, "Who then is the faithful and wise manager, whom the master puts in charge of his servants to give them their food allowance at the proper time? It will be good for that servant whom the master finds doing so when he returns. I tell you the truth, he will put him in charge of all his possessions. But suppose the servant says to himself, 'My master is taking a long time in coming,' and he then begins to beat the menservants and maidservants and to eat and drink and get drunk. The master of that servant will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour he is not aware of. He will cut him to pieces and assign him a place with the unbelievers.
>
> "That servant who knows his master's will and does not get ready or does not do what his master wants will be beaten with many blows. But the one who does not know and does things deserving punishment will be beaten with few blows. From everyone who has been given much, much will be demanded; and from the one who has been entrusted with much, much more will be asked."
>
> "I have come to bring fire on the earth, and how I wish it were already kindled! But I have a baptism to undergo, and how distressed I am until it is completed! Do you think I came to bring peace on earth? No, I tell you, but division. From now on there will be five in one family divided against each other, three against two and two against three. They will be divided, father against son and son against father, mother against daughter and daughter against mother, mother-in-law against daughter-in-law and daughter-in-law against mother-in-law." (Luke 12:42-53 NIV84).

What is the lesson? What is Jesus describing? Who are the managers or stewards? What does it mean for the Lord's managers to berate and neglect and abuse? Did you see this being fulfilled during the last three years and how some church leaders rather than protecting their flock from abuse and coercion of conscience, aligned with governments around the world to coerce consciences?

What does it mean to be beaten with many or few blows? This text is often used by the imperialists, those who wrongly believe that God's law works like human law, that God will be required to inflict punishment for disobedience, so how do we explain this text?

And how do we understand Jesus saying He didn't come to bring peace but division? Isn't He the Prince of Peace?

Is this passage difficult to understand and explain?

What law lens are we reading through? What is our understanding of the natural state of humanity after Adam sinned? Selfish—and with whom do sinners naturally align if not for the intervention of God? They align with Satan and practice his methods. Thus, Jesus did not come to bring peace with sin and selfishness but to divide, to cut away sin and selfishness, to pull people out of pain, suffering, sin-sickness, and corruption and into peace, health, happiness and eternal life. He cannot provide eternal life to people who refuse to leave sinfulness behind. Thus, we must separate from the cause of pain and death, which is sin.

From The Remedy:

> Jesus gave this answer. "Who then is an intelligent and wise manager — one qualified to share the Remedy effectively in order to nurture the master's staff? It will be the most awesome experience for that aide when the master returns to find them reliably doing so. Truly, that aide will be trusted with all the master possesses. But what if the master's aide is self-centered and says to themself, 'The master has been gone a long time, and who knows when he will return?' and rather than nurturing the staff, they berate, abuse and mislead them, and then go and use the master's resources to party with gluttons and drunkards? That aide will be totally surprised, caught completely unaware, on the day their master returns. The master will let that wicked servant go, cutting their relationship and casting them out with all the other counterfeits and frauds who have peddled false remedies.
> "The aide who understands the Master — his design, the problem being addressed, and how to apply the Remedy — and either doesn't heed his instructions or applies a false remedy will suffer many blows: a guilty conscience, warped character, damaged reason, broken relationships and ultimately, a destroyed soul. But the one who doesn't know about the Remedy or how to apply it and therefore doesn't share it, or applies a false remedy will suffer few blows–regret, disappointment, and grief. The more you are given, the more you possess to share with others; the greater your abilities, the more gifts you have to give away.

> "I have come to ignite the fire of truth and love upon the earth, and oh how I wish it were already an inferno! But I have a mission to complete, and the pressure on me to complete it is overwhelming. Do you think I have come to make peace with this selfish world? Absolutely not! I have not come to make peace with selfishness but to cut selfishness out of the hearts of people. From now on, those who choose the Remedy will cut dysfunctional family ties, and a family of five will be divided — two against three and three against two. Love will free a son from selfish loyalty to his father's ambitions and feuds, and a father from the selfish exploits of his son; love will sever a daughter from the control of an oppressive and manipulative mother, and a mother from the selfish demands of her daughter; love will cut through the fear and hostility a daughter-in-law has toward her mother-in-law, and mother-in-law toward daughter-in-law." (Luke 12:42-53 REM).

Do you see how design law clarifies this and makes it so easy to understand, but more than that? Do you see how reading this through the lens of God's design law causes our love, admiration, reverence, respect, and trust in God to grow?

The lesson asks us to read Psalms 116:12-14:

> How can I repay the LORD > for all his goodness to me?
> I will lift up the cup of salvation > and call on the name of the LORD.
> I will fulfill my vows to the LORD > in the presence of all his people. (Psalm 116:12-14 NIV84).

What does this text mean to you?

Can we repay the Lord? Not in some way that is legal, or in some way that covers the expense of what the Lord has done. So if we think in human terms we can never repay the Lord.

But if you think about what God wants as a return from us for His sacrifice, for His investment in us, what do you think? What would make God say, "it was worth it" and make God say, "well done" to us, is there something we can do to repay the Lord in this way?

We can give Him our love, our trust, our loyalty, our faithfulness, our energy, time, our lives in service of His kingdom, which spreads the gospel and plants the seeds of truth into other hearts which the Spirit waters bringing more people back to God. How much would you cherish and feel it was worth it if your sacrifice resulted in saving one of your children from death, but in so doing your child responds by sharing the remedy that saved them with your other dying children and in turn they were also saved?

So this is how I rendered it in the Remedy:

> What can I give to the Lord for all the goodness he has given to me?

I will carry to others his remedy to save them and proclaim God's healing character of love.
I will keep my promise to the Lord to share his remedy with all the nations. (Psalm 116:12-14 REM).

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph,

> "The Bible does not give us an order of service for worship. But it appears that at least four things are present in worship services. In the New Testament this list includes study/preaching, prayer, music, and tithes and offerings." (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 33).

If you were to practice worshiping like the New Testament Christians, those who accepted Jesus and came together to worship God after the crucifixion, what might that look like?

I am going to list a list of worship practices. Some are from the Bible describing the New Testament church in worship and some are from the pagan cult worship practices of the first century, and some are from both. I want you to tell me, which are from Christianity and which are from pagan cult worship:

- Meeting in some type of a temple, church building or professional worship center—pagan
- Meeting in nature or someone's home—the early church
- Having a professional paid speaker give an inspiring sermon to an observing audience—pagan
- Having a group discussion led by someone understood to be more spiritually mature—early church
- Having an elevated pulpit for the speaker—pagan
- Having a division between the priesthood and laity—pagan
- Celebrating Christmas and Easter—pagan
- Worshiping together on Sunday—pagan
- Collecting offerings during worship service—pagan
- Worship leaders who dress in exclusive and distinct clothing that distinguishes them from the non-religious leaders—pagan
- Every member having a role, spontaneity, freedom, little regulated structure, open discussion—the early church

Where did today's order of worship originate—the New Testament and first century Christian practices or the Catholic mass? The order of worship that most Protestants practice originated in the Catholic mass, not the new testament church. What we do here, with our open discussion, ability for any member to ask questions, and have conversational study of Scripture is much more closely how the early church worshipped.

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote the following, about worship as we approach the second coming of Christ, do you agree or not? And if you agree what would the benefit be?

> There should be less preaching and more teaching. There are those who want more definite light than they receive from hearing the sermons. Some need a longer time than do others to understand the points presented. If the truth presented could be made a little plainer, they would see it and take hold of it, and it would be like a nail fastened in a sure place.
> It has been shown me that our camp meetings are to increase in interest and success. As we approach nearer the end, I have seen that in these meetings there will be less preaching and more Bible study. There will be little groups all over the ground with their Bibles in their hands, and different ones leading out in a free, conversational study of the Scriptures" (Testimonies to the Church volume 6, p. 87).

This description of little groups having conversational studies of the Scripture is how the early church worshipped, except they had few copies of the Scriptures.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson asks us to read Mark 21:41-44:

> Jesus sat down opposite the place where the offerings were put and watched the crowd putting their money into the temple treasury. Many rich people threw in large amounts. But a poor widow came and put in two very small copper coins, worth only a fraction of a penny. Calling his disciples to him, Jesus said, "I tell you the truth, this poor widow has put more into the treasury than all the others. They all gave out of their wealth; but she, out of her poverty, put in everything—all she had to live on." (Mark 12:41-44 NIV84).

What are the lessons you derive from this story?

What is more important to God, the amount of the gift, or the motive of the heart?

What about to whom the gift was given? Did that matter? For the purpose of the giver it matters what they believe about the organization and purpose of the gift they are giving.

Read the first two paragraphs,

> Jesus and His disciples were in the temple courtyard where the treasury chests were located, and He watched those who were bringing their gifts. He was close enough to see that a widow had given two copper coins. She had put in all that she had. "But Jesus understood her motive. She believed the service of the temple to be of God's appointment, and she was anxious to do her utmost to sustain it. She did what she could, and her act was to be a monument to her memory through all time, and her joy in eternity. Her heart went with her gift; its value was > estimated, not by the worth of the coin, but by the love to God and the interest in His work that had prompted the deed." — Ellen G. White, Counsels on Stewardship, p. 175.

>
> Another very significant point is that this is the only gift Jesus ever commended — a gift to a church that was just about to reject Him, a church that greatly deviated from its calling and mission. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 34).

Was the organization she was donating to actively advancing the true gospel or working against it?

Jesus twice overthrows their money tables and drives out the greedy false leaders and tells them they are misrepresenting God.

Yet, this woman didn't know it. She believed that the money was going to be used in the service of God and God recognized her sincerity and she experienced His blessing in her heart and mind and growth in godly character.

However, aren't we also told that Jesus disciples carried a money bag to use in helping people? What if this woman had had more information, perhaps had observed Jesus overturning the money tables, perhaps had a brother who was one of the deceitful priests and she knew the corruption and misuse of funds going on, perhaps she had listened to Jesus and was convicted that He was the Messiah and therefore she gave her two mites to His disciples instead of the collection box at the Temple—if she had done that would she have been wrong? Would she have experienced less of a blessing? Would she have been going against God's will? Or would she have had an even greater blessing because not only would she be giving from a faithful and loving heart, but her gift would more directly support the true gospel, and she would have had greater understanding, insight, appreciation of God's will, principles, methods, kingdom and would have been able to share the true message of Jesus with others.

THURSDAY

The lesson asks us to read the story recorded in Mark 14:3-9:

> While he was in Bethany, reclining at the table in the home of a man known as Simon the Leper, a woman came with an alabaster jar of very expensive perfume, made of pure nard. She broke the jar and poured the perfume on his head.
> Some of those present were saying indignantly to one another, "Why this waste of perfume? It could have been sold for more than a year's wages and the money given to the poor." And they rebuked her harshly.
>
> "Leave her alone," said Jesus. "Why are you bothering her? She has done a beautiful thing to me. The poor you will always have with you, and you can help them any time you want. But you will not always have me. She did what she could. She poured perfume on my body beforehand to prepare for my burial. I tell you the truth, wherever the gospel is preached > throughout the world, what she has done will also be told, in memory of her." (Mark 14:3-9 NIV84).

What lessons do we take from this story?

- Why did some criticize her?
- Whose heart motives were right?
- What did Jesus value?
- Would she have been wrong if she had chosen instead of using the money on ointment to anoint Jesus to instead give it to the disciples to distribute to the poor?
- Were the critics wrong for recognizing the money could have been used in another way?
- Were the critics wrong in bringing up the fact the money could have been used in another way? Why?
- What if they were sincerely interested in blessing others and they were simply frustrated seeing so many people still in need and they simply wanted to use this money to help others—if their motive would have been sincere and not selfish, would it then have been right to criticize this woman's use of the money? Why or why not?
- Does Romans 14 apply here, every person is to be fully persuaded in their own mind?
- Who is responsible for deciding where to donate the funds and resource they have in their possession?
- So it wasn't the place of others to determine the motive, reasons, or leading of the Holy Spirit upon another person in how they worship God or return offerings to God. So, even if their motives were good, it was wrong for them to publicly criticize this woman and question her donation. Thoughts?

While in God's kingdom people are to freely decide where to return their tithes and offerings, are there people active in Christ's day and active in our day that make it their goal to get people to donate without the person investigating or considering what the organization stands for, or how the funds are being used?

> Jesus said, "Watch out for the teachers of the law. They like to walk around in flowing robes and be greeted in the marketplaces, and have the most important seats in the synagogues and the places of honor at banquets. They devour widows' houses and for a show make lengthy prayers. Such men will be punished most severely." (Mark 12:38049 NIV84).

What does it mean they devour widows' houses? Does it suggest taking the wealth of the vulnerable? And don't you think they did so under the guise of advancing God's kingdom?

Jesus said to those religious leaders:

> "You have a fine way of setting aside the commands of God in order to observe your own traditions! For Moses said, 'Honor your father and your mother,' and, 'Anyone who curses his father or mother must be put to death.' But you say that if a man says to his father or mother: 'Whatever help you might otherwise have received from me is Corban' (that is, a gift devoted > to God), then you no longer let him do anything for his father or mother. Thus you nullify the word of God by your tradition that you have handed down. And you do many things like that." (Mark 7:9-13 NIV84).

What is the lesson?

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph:

> The heavenly record book of remembrance also notes the financial faithfulness of God's family members. "The recording angel makes a faithful record of every offering dedicated to God and put into the treasury, and also of the final result of the means thus bestowed. The eye of God takes cognizance of every farthing devoted to His cause, and of the willingness or reluctance of the giver. The motive in giving is also chronicled. Those self-sacrificing, consecrated ones who render back to God the things that are His, as He requires of them, will be rewarded according to their works. Even though the means thus consecrated be misapplied, so that it does not accomplish the object which the donor had in view, — the glory of God and the salvation of souls, — those who made the sacrifice in sincerity of soul, with an eye single to the glory of God, will not lose their reward." — Ellen G. White, Testimonies for the Church, vol. 2, p. 518. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 36).

What does this mean? Is this literal accounting, list of deeds or amounts of donations, or is this symbolic of something else?

What is recorded in the heavenly records? Names, and names represent what? Character, and what happens in a person's character when they are honest, loyal, faithful, true, generous, when they give? What happens in a person's character when they lie, cheat, and exploit?

And what is the reward and what is the punishment?

2023 1Q Managing for the Master Till He Comes—Lesson 5
Dealing with Debt

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read memory text:

> The rich rule over the poor, and the borrower is servant to the lender. (Proverbs 22:7 NIV84).

What do you think of the idea that the rich rule over the poor? Does this still happen in society today?

There are multiple ways the rich exploit the poor:

- Charge high interest on loans
- Tax laws the give advantage to the rich
- Inflation—which is the increase in prices because more money is printed and flooded into circulation, this reduces the buying power of people's savings
- And one of the primary ways that the elite exploit and control the masses is through getting people into debt.

Do we gain more freedom or less by incurring debt? Have you known people who made decisions in life that they would not have otherwise made because they were servicing their debt? Decisions like, staying in a job or taking a job that was not their calling, perhaps a job that was actually harmful to them, like a third-shift job? Have you known people to go along with practices that they would not have gone along with had they not been in debt?

When we are under financial pressure are we more vulnerable to compromising our principles? And if we compromise our principles because of financial pressure, happens to our minds? The normal response to compromising one's beliefs or principles is to feel guilt, if financial pressures prevent repentance, then the way to alleviate the guilt is to warp the mind, to rationalize and justify and the choice to avoid guilt and shame, which means we lose critical reasoning ability, our discernment is undermined, we actually come to believe things to be a certain way when we would not have had we not gone along?
I saw many people do this curing COVID, compromise long standing principles and ethics in how they treat others and then rationalize and justify why it was good to do so.

There are multiple ways to manipulate people, one is through propaganda, misinformation, and deceit. Another is through financial incentives, either through reward, or threat of loss. If persons can become indebted then they can be more easily manipulated through means to service the debt and pressures on them to call the debt or undermine their ability to service the debt.

Consider the current higher educational system in America—structured so that people can go to school, get an education, but enter the workforce with a high debt. Does entering the workforce with high debt increase the freedom of the worker, or make it easier for corporations and governments to manipulate the professional, get them to take jobs they might not otherwise take?

And in the medical profession, not only do many physicians enter the workforce with large student debt, starting a practice often requires substantial investment of money to buy the equipment and set up the practice. In order to stay financially viable, it is important to have hospital privileges, to be in various insurance networks, and accept government reimbursements. If one doesn't do this, their income is threatened, their ability to service their debts—school debt, professional debt, personal debt such as a mortgage—is threatened.

So, pressure can be brought to bear on physicians to accept treatment protocols, algorithms, practice policies that the physician would not have otherwise accepted had they not been in debt. Once having accepted the protocols, many will justify, see the good in it, close their minds to alternatives that would expose the protocol as suboptimal because that would cause guilt, require action, threaten income, incite fear and insecurity. Have we seen individual physician autonomy and independent decision-making has been severely curtailed over the last 30 years?

When I became a physician more doctors owned their own practice than were employed by corporations, today more than 75% of doctors are employed by corporations. The practice of medicine in America is no longer primarily about health, about making people the healthiest they can be, it is about profit for the corporations; it is a medical industry and physicians are the pawns in the corporation of machine that are manipulated by the industry. Nothing exposed this more than COVID when the long-standing ethics of medicine were set aside and physicians colluded with government and industry to violate their oaths and coerce people into participating in medical experimentation, taking an experimental medical treatment with no proven safety, and no proven effectiveness, and which has now proven to be ineffective, to not do what it was proclaimed to do and worse, to cause serious harm. Yet, having compromised, having rationalized, and justified, and lied to themselves millions still believe the lies.

Now more than ever we can see the wisdom for the historic Adventist lifestyle message of living in harmony with God's principles of health, which reduce sickness and diseases, decreasing the need to put oneself in the hands of a for profit medical industry.

And do you see the wisdom in, as far as possible avoiding debt.

Getting people into debt is a way to manipulate and control them.

How easy is it in our society to get into debt, to get a credit card, to get a loan, to borrow on your next paycheck, to get a title loan?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424

Are people required to have a worthy need, a good purpose, in order to get into debt, or can someone borrow money for essentially anything?

Some might argue that loaning money is to help people, if that were the case, then would it be so easy to get debt for almost any reason? Or would there be actually safeguards in place to protect people from foolish debt? Parents would you allow your children to take on debts for any frivolous reason if it were up to you?

How easy do you think it would be to borrow money if this biblical principle were applied to all loans in America today?

> "If you lend money to any of my people with you who is poor, you shall not be like a moneylender to him, and you shall not exact interest from him. If ever you take your neighbor's cloak in pledge, you shall return it to him before the sun goes down, for that is his only covering, and it is his cloak for his body; in what else shall he sleep? And if he cries to me, I will hear, for I am compassionate" (Exodus 22:25-27 ESV).

Would it be so easy to get into debt today if the loan institutions couldn't charge interest?

And recognize the rich loan money to both make money, but also to manipulate and control people. If the profit option was not available, loans would still be made, less loans, but they would still be made as a way to manipulate and control those in debt.

Second paragraph,

> Why is debt an almost international scourge at every level — personal, corporate, and government? Every society has always had at least a small percentage who were in debt. But today a much larger portion of the people are in debt, and it's almost never to their benefit. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 38).

Do you think it is an accident that the US has so much debt?

The US government currently is over $31 trillion dollars in debt. Is this a good thing? That amount of debt is almost $100,000 of debt for every person in America.

Is debt and debt management of nations going to play any part in events leading up to the second coming of Christ?

When Revelation warns of the beastly system using economic sanctions, no one buying or selling unless they receive the mark of the beast, what would be required to bring that about?

Would financial systems of the world need to be integrated?
Would physical cash need to go away and money become electronic?
Would tracking of financial transactions need to occur?

What would cause people to participate in such a global restructuring of economies?
Would fear play a role? Would the threat of the loss of basic resources, food, clothing, shelter, heat, etc., cause people to cooperate with increasing governmental control?
Would a global financial crisis have a role to play in bring this about? And would large national debt have a potential role to play?

Consider these questions:

- How would our nation function differently if we had no national debt?
- Would our ability to invest in national infrastructure be improved?
- Would our ability to invest in communities and community development be improved?
- Would our ability to provide academic scholarships improve?
- What would happen if we created real jobs for people and have real accountability?

What are some of the reasons the US has so much debt?

- Politicians spending money to reward constituents?
- The government itself is too big
- Is there an agenda to cripple the government with debt?

Do you remember the mortgage crisis that occurred back in the early 2000s? Do you know how that came to be?

Some of the factors, I will not claim this is all of the factors, but some of the factors are that during the Clinton Administration they wanted congress to fund more housing for low income and inner-city development. Congress refused, so the Clinton Administration directed Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac to change the rules on mortgage loans so that low-income people, who under the previous loan guidelines could not qualify to get alone, could now get home loans. Further, they changed rules on how mortgages were handled, allowing them to be broken up into various investment vehicles and sold and traded. All of this worked to cause housing prices to inflate, by infusing billions of dollars into the housing market, causing housing inventories to decrease and prices to increase. Millions of people got approved for loans that they were not qualified for—i.e. more debt than their income could handle, and worse the mortgage greater than the home was worth. Thus, people were upside down in houses, with loans they could not pay, and homes that even if sold would not pay off the loan. While this was going on, the mortgages were being traded and sold, making billions of dollars for investors, until the people who were not qualified defaulted on their loans.

The banks recognized they had billions of dollars loaned out that would not be paid back and many of these major banks would fail if they were infused with money, so congress passed the bailout bill and bailed out the banks—which got the corporations and the wealthy elites out of debt, but kept millions of Americans in debt as they still owed on their mortgages, while passing the debt long to you and me the tax payer as all that bad debt is now part of our national debt that our taxes will have to eventually pay off. And where did all the money go? It went into the hands of the big corporations and wealthy elites.

If they were going to do this, why didn't they approve the same amount of government bailout of the mortgage industry, but instead of paying it directly to the banks they required the banks to use the money to pay down $250,000 on every primary home mortgage they held? If they would have done this, the banks would have been made solvent, and the people would have been relieved from debt. Those with homes with mortgages less than $250,000 would have had their debt paid off, and others would have had significant equity established which would allow them to refinance at better terms or sell their homes and get something more affordable.

But the government leaders didn't do this? Why? Because much of what the government (and this true for all human governments throughout all human history) does is not for the benefit of the people, it is for the benefit of the powerful at the expense of the people.

All governments on earth are part of Satan's kingdom, not God's. Jesus said His kingdom is not of this world. Satan's government operates on a few ruling elites exploiting the masses for the benefit of the elites.

The US Constitution was established to protect the people from the government, an abusive church, and the corporate elites. It has been the best human government ever established in this sinful world, however, its protections have been eroding and the Bible tells us that before Jesus comes, every human government, including the USA, will be part of the beastly system—the system with a few ruling elites exploiting the masses.

Recognize what is happening, don't get discouraged, lift up your head and recognize redemption is drawing near.

SUNDAY

The lesson suggests that there are three primary reasons people get into financial difficulty:

- Ignorance—people just don't know about finances and make mistakes
- Greed and selfishness—living beyond their means, seeking pleasures of various kinds, ego wanting to look good to others
- Misfortune or tragedy—health problems, disasters, accidents, wars etc.

These are the big categories as to why people get into financial trouble, but what about taking on debt in the first place? What can motivate that?

- A desire to improve one's life and that of their family—so a business loan, a student loan, a home loan, a car loan to have a car to go to work. There are a lot of righteous reasons people will take on debt. Does that mean debt is good? No, debt is not good, the motive for someone to accept debt may be altruistic, it may not be selfish, but the debt is still not good.
- For greed and selfishness
- Ignorance, getting tricked by someone

The point of this review is that no debt is good—if the same outcome and problem can be resolved without debt, it is better to do so. You will retain greater freedom. But debt in and of itself is not evil—it just isn't the best. However, the motive for the debt, and the motive of those loaning can be either good or evil.

What can help us from taking on bad debt, foolish debt, trivial debt? Does this biblical wisdom have any bearing?

> Keep your lives free from the love of money and be content with what you have, because God has said,
>
> "Never will I leave you; > never will I forsake you."
>
> So we say with confidence,
>
> "The Lord is my helper; I will not be afraid.
> What can man do to me?" (Hebrews 13:5-6 NIV84).

Does being content with one's life, advancing and developing along the pathways of life that God leads one down protect a person from foolish debt?

Does this world want people to be content with what they have within God's will for their lives? Or do the leaders of this world actively do things to incite jealousy, envy, greed, lust for wealth, and discontent?

Why does God say to be content and the world says "it isn't fair that others have more"?

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read Matthew 6:24:

> "No one can serve two masters. Either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and Money" (Matthew 6:24 NIV84).

The lesson also points us to 1 John 2:15, but let's read through 2:17:

> Do not love the world or the things in the world. If anyone loves the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world—the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life—is not of the Father but is of the world. And the world is passing away, and the lust of it; but he who does the will of God abides forever. (1 John 2:15-17 NKJV).

How is this connected to not serving two masters?

Is the focus really about money, or something else? What is it about?

What are the two antagonistic principles that are warring for every heart and mind? Love versus selfishness!

Remember the cascade of sin in the human heart? God created Adam and Eve in sinless perfection. They had love and trust for God operating in their heart and they lived in open communion with God. What happened? They believed Satan's lies about God and that resulted in what?

- Lies believed break the bonds of love and trust
- Broken love and trust result in fear and selfishness
- Fear and selfishness cause acts of sin
- Acts of sin damage mind, character, body, relationships—a terminal condition

John elucidates the three primary avenues through which fear and selfishness tempt us through our evil desires:

- lust of the eye = materialism, greed, love of money, and possessions
- lust of the flesh = sensualism, the pleasures of the senses
- price of life = egotism, pride, arrogance, elitism, power over others

All of these motives are selfish, driven by fear and the need to control, hoard, dominate, and promote self at the expense of others. They are the exact opposite of the motives of God, who so loved the world that He gave—gave Himself to uplift us.

So as we follow Jesus, our hearts become circumcised, cut away, from valuing stuff, or physical pleasures, or power over others and instead we value God, Jesus, the truth, and others and we experience joy in living for God, fulfilling His purpose, helping free other hearts and minds from the traps of this fallen world.

Read last paragraph:

> We enter into our church membership with praise and thanksgiving to our God, who has created and redeemed us. In point 9 (of 13) in our baptismal vows, we were asked, "Do you believe in church organization? Is it your purpose to worship God and to support the church through your tithes and offerings and by your personal effort and influence?" As Seventh-day Adventists, we all said yes. So this text (Ps. 50:14, 15) is a promise to those who offer thanksgiving to God and are faithfully paying their vows. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 40).

Do you have any concerns about this? Anything about this make you stop and go, "something seems off here"? Or do you think, this is right?

Is the process and practice you read described in this paragraph Scriptural? Is it from the Bible?

What is the process you read described here? It is the process of baptizing people—but what is it that the paragraph describes that people are being baptized into?

In the New Testament, when people were baptized, were they baptized into the Jewish nation? Were they baptized into the Roman church? Were they baptized into the Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, Adventist, or any other denominational church? What were they baptized into? Into Jesus, baptism was not denominational, it was a public witness of a person entering into an eternal bond of love and trust with Jesus. Baptism was dying to an old life and rising to a new life as an individual who is bonded to Jesus with cords of love and trust, wash clean of the old life of sin and arisen to a new life with Jesus.

Consider this example from the New Testament and see if this sounds like what the lesson described. If these are different, consider what elements are different, what impact those differences have, and why would the procedural differences be employed?

> Now an angel of the Lord said to Philip, "Go south to the road—the desert road—that goes down from Jerusalem to Gaza." So he started out, and on his way he met an Ethiopian eunuch, an important official in charge of all the treasury of Candace, queen of the Ethiopians. This man had gone to Jerusalem to worship, and on his way home was sitting in his chariot reading the book of Isaiah the prophet. The Spirit told Philip, "Go to that chariot and stay near it."
>
> Then Philip ran up to the chariot and heard the man reading Isaiah the prophet. "Do you understand what you are reading?" Philip asked.
> "How can I," he said, "unless someone explains it to me?" So he invited Philip to come up and sit with him…
>
> The eunuch asked Philip, "Tell me, please, who is the prophet talking about, himself or someone else?" Then Philip began with that very passage of Scripture and told him the good news about Jesus.
>
> As they traveled along the road, they came to some water and the eunuch said, "Look, here is water. Why shouldn't I be baptized?" And he gave orders to stop the chariot. Then both Philip and the eunuch went down into the water and Philip baptized him. (Acts 8:26-31& 34-38 NIV84).

Is this the same process you heard described in the paragraph from the lesson?

What is the difference?

The New Testament baptized people into Jesus, whereas today people are baptized into organizations.

Notice how the process is changed, and the impact it has upon the believer, turning powerful love/trust relationships which would cause believers to change the world like the New Testament church did, into fear-ridden, legalistic, religionists with a form of godliness without any power, just like Paul described would happen.

Here is what has caused this change. Rather than baptizing new converts into Jesus when their hearts are converted, modern Christianity has substituted the sinner's prayer. And then enrolled the convert into baptismal classes that can last weeks and months, in which they are required to both attest to believing certain doctrines and often change lifestyle practices. The smoker must give up smoking, they must quit their Sabbath job, quit eating certain foods, gain the victory over their addictions, and once they have improved their life enough THEN and ONLY THEN are they permitted to be baptized—because they are being baptized into the organization and not to Jesus, all of this indoctrination and personal life change must be done FIRST in order to protect the organization from people becoming members that are not conforming to the standards.

This process destroys the love and trust in Jesus the new converts have and places the organization into the place of devotion where Jesus should be. This is intentional, the organizations want loyal and devoted followers to their brand, their system, their club, and thus BEFORE baptism the baptismal candidates have to give a public vow to adhere not to loyal love to Jesus, but to the creed or fundamental beliefs of that system—including their promise to financially support that system.

I personally find no objection to supporting denominational churches with our money—they do many good things, schools, hospitals, missions, community service, feeding the hungry etc. I object to inserting the denominational system into the conversion process and supplanting Jesus as the one to whom our vows of loyalty are made.

How should this function? We should baptize people into Jesus whenever they are truly converted, like the Ethiopian. And AFTER they are baptized into Jesus we should invite them to join our organization and educate them about what our organization stands for, what our mission is, what it means to be a member in good standing and instruct them to pray and ask God if God's wants them to serve in our organization or if God has another field for them to serve Him in.

TUESDAY

The lesson gives a three-step plan on how to get out of debt:

Step 1: Stop accumulating new debt, cease all credit spending.

Step 2: Make an agreement with God that as He blesses you, you will faithfully apply your resources to paying off your debts and quickly as possible. You will not buy new stuff with your new income, but pay off debt.

Step 3: Make a list of all debts, largest to smallest, bring all debts into compliance and then begin with the smallest and pay extra on it until it is paid off and then add that amount to the next smallest debt, and keep doing that until all debt is paid.

This is a guide, it is a not a set of rules, but a general guide to be applied individually to a plan that works best in your circumstance to get your debt paid.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph:

> The Bible is very clear that God does not want His children to become responsible for the debt obligations of others. In the book of Proverbs, the Lord has warned us against surety — that is, cosigning or being guarantor for another person. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 42).

Did you know this was a Bible principle?
Consider these Proverbs:

> "Do not be a man who strikes hands in pledge or puts up security for debts; if you lack the means to pay, your very bed will be snatched from under you" (Proverbs 22:26–27 NIV84).

> "He who puts up security for another will surely suffer, but whoever refuses to strike hands in pledge is safe" (Proverbs 11:15 NIV84).

> "If you promise to pay a stranger's debt, you will regret it. You are better off if you don't get involved" (Proverbs 11:15 GNT).

Why are we not to give security or guarantee another person's debt?

Read second and third paragraph:

> Surety usually occurs when a person with poor credit seeks a loan from a lending institution and does not qualify for the loan. The loan officer will tell the unqualified person that if he or she will get a friend with good credit to cosign with him or her, then the bank will grant the loan and hold the cosigner responsible in the event of a default.
>
> Sometimes a fellow church member will come to you and ask you to cosign. Your response should be: "The Bible says I should never do that." Please understand that the Bible encourages us to be helpful to those in need, but we should not become responsible for their debts.

Could this be one reason?

> "The wicked borrow and do not repay, but the righteous give generously" (Psalm 37:21 NIV84).

Could we be advised not to secure another person's loan to prevent them from defaulting, from defrauding even? And what happens to that other person if they do this?

If a person is a responsible person and wants to pay off their debt, but they have debt that they cannot pay off for reasons beyond their control, what happens within them? Do they have more peace, less worry, less anxiety, less guilt, or do responsible people who have such debt get injured by not being able to pay it back? The conscience of the honest responsible person is not seared by such circumstances, but their mental and emotional health might be undermined with worry, less sleep, overwork to try and pay the debt, feelings of fear and inadequacy, guilt, shame etc.

And what happens to irresponsible people who take on debt and don't pay it back? What happens to their characters, their consciences?

So what about giving money away—will giving money away to people who are capable, but not mature, or capable and not responsible, make the lives of the recipients better?

Is it a Biblical principle to give money away to people who are less well off financially, but who are capable and yet not actively working to improve their station?

What do you think of this Biblical counsel?

> Our brothers and sisters, we command you in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to keep away from all believers who are living a lazy life and who do not follow the instructions that we gave them. You yourselves know very well that you should do just what we did. We were not lazy when we were with you. We did not accept anyone's support without paying for it. Instead, we worked and toiled; we kept working day and night so as not to be an expense to any of you. We did this, not because we have no right to demand our support; we did it to be an example for you to follow. While we were with you, we used to say to you, "Whoever refuses to work is not allowed to eat."
> We say this because we hear that there are some people among you who live lazy lives and who do nothing except meddle in other people's business. In the name of the Lord Jesus Christ we command these people and warn them to lead orderly lives and work to earn their own living. (2 Thessalonians 3:6–12 GNT).

Why is this a godly thing to do and giving handouts to people who are capable is destructive—including government handouts?

What is happening in society today? Do we help people our communities by giving away resources to the capable? Or do we destroy?

If you are an employer, have you noticed in the last few years with the rich government aid programs that it is more difficult to find quality willing workers?

In my 2018 blog, The Benefits of Work, I described how work benefits people in multiple ways.

In Eden, before sin — a perfect world — God gave Adam and Eve work to do. Human beings are created in God's image, and God is a creator. In the likeness of God, we have a built-in desire to be industrious, to engage in meaningful activity, and to use our energy, creativity, and ingenuity to build, construct, devise, make, or otherwise produce something of value, consequence, or purpose.

Such creativity is built into our being, and when we do engage in meaningful activity, whether it be work for the sake of making money to provide for one's family, or gardening, because one loves flower, or drawing, painting, writing, playing music, caring for animals, being a homemaker, or any of a myriad of other industrious activities, we experience growth and a greater sense of wellbeing, meaning, and purpose as human beings. Our sense of wellbeing, of usefulness, of confidence, and even joy all increase.

When we are active, industrious, and engaged in meaningful employment (not necessarily for pay), we are healthier, happier, and experience greater peace.
Conversely, idleness, a failure to engage one's abilities in development or meaningful application, is damaging to one's wellbeing. It undermines a person's dignity, while increasing feelings of inadequacy, guilt, shame, and worthlessness, which leads to pleasure-seeking and other acting-out behaviors in an attempt to alleviate the sense of inadequacy. As the old saying goes, idle hands are the devil's workshop.

Doing nothing, refusing to engage in constructive activity, and not investing one's energies and abilities into meaningful employment (when one is capable), degrades the human being.
Understanding this, what action could people take if they wanted to demoralize others — to destroy other people's dignity and undermine their God-given individuality? They could take away their usefulness, take away their meaningful employment, and create programs or systems that free the capable from useful labor. They could promote public policies designed to give money, food, clothing, housing, cell phones, cars, and a variety of other resources to otherwise capable people who choose not to work.

I want to be clear: I am not concerned about politics; I am concerned about people — about their health, wellbeing, and integrity.

Throughout time, many others have recognized what I'm saying here:

- "If we take the route of the permanent handout, the American character will itself be impoverished." — Richard Nixon, Republican, 37th President of the USA
- "Working moms, and increasingly working dads, don't want a government handout, but they do need a hand up." — Madeleine Kunin, Democrat, Governor of Vermont and U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland
- "The desperately poor may accept handouts, because they feel they have to. For those who consider themselves at least middle class, however, anything that smacks of a handout is not desired. Instead, they want their economic power back." — Robert Shiller, Nobel Laureate in Economics and Sterling Professor of Economics at Yale

- "At Year Up, our students — low income 18- to 24-year-olds — come to us having already faced substantial obstacles in life. They are not in search of a handout; what they want most of all is the ability to take ownership of their own futures." Gerald Chertavian, founder and CEO of Year Up; has worked with urban youth for more than 25 years.

I have seen the destruction of wellbeing, the demoralization that occurs when people are given things that they could otherwise earn — whether it be from well-meaning parents, family, friends, church members, or society. When we receive handouts that we don't believe we merit, we experience guilt, loss of esteem, a falling sense of worth, and often feel guilt and inadequacy. This leads to an unconscious need to alleviate the guilt with justification for the handout, contributing to either a sense of entitlement and identifying oneself as being downtrodden, mistreated, or wronged in the past and, thus, the handout is simply compensation and is deserved, or by experiencing physical or mental symptoms of illness that justifies the handout.

Let me be clear here as well: I am not saying that there are no people suffering from real physical and mental illness; there are, and they need our compassion and help. What I am saying is that when handouts are received by those who could otherwise provide for themselves, it causes in them a need to justify the handout, and this can take a variety of forms — either by seeing oneself as deserving, because of some perceived social injustice, or by experiencing some physical or mental problem.

THURSDAY

The lesson contrasts the Bible method of setting limits on debts, and every so often all debts were canceled and the debtor was set free of their debt, versus the practice today of essentially lifelong indebtedness.

Are there any types of debts that are reasonable to take in our society? And why?

- Debts for which you already have the funds to cover and the debts are taken for other financial purposes—perhaps as a tax deduction, because the debt will be forgiven as part of an incentive program etc.
- Using credit cards for convenience that is paid off every month with no interest.
- What about student loans?
- Mortgages versus renting?

2023 1Q Managing for the Master Till He Comes—Lesson 6
Laying Up Treasure in Heaven

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

The title for this week is "Laying Up Treasure in Heaven" how do we do that?

When you think of treasure what comes to mind?

Think of some of the movies that have been made:
- Treasure Island
- National Treasure
- King Solomon's Mine
- Treasure of the Sierra Madre

When the idea of treasure comes up, what typically comes to mind?

Do you think that in a world where gold is used as pavement, jewels are used as foundation blocks, and pearls are used for gates, that gold, jewels, and pearls are considered treasure?

What is considered treasure in heaven?

Despite the treasures that the world tries to get your heart to value, in moments of quiet reflection, what are the things you genuinely treasure most?
- The love of your spouse?
- Your 5-year-old, with grass stains on their knees, and dirt on their face bringing you dandy lions with a big smile and "Mommy I love you"?
- Seeing your child give their heart to Jesus?
- Being reborn, having peace with God, freedom from guilt and shame?
- Choosing to serve God and knowing you are useful to God and have a higher purpose than simply accumulating earthly wealth?
- Being part of a movement that advances the kingdom of God and seeing other people freed from the mental and emotional chains of sin and false religion?

What things do you truly treasure?

What do God and the heavenly beings treasure?

Let's look at what Jesus was teaching His disciples about heavenly treasure when a man asked Jesus how to get eternal life. We find this in Matthew 19:16 and we will read through to 20:16:

> Now behold, one came and said to Him, "Good Teacher, what good thing shall I do that I may have eternal life?" [How does this man address Jesus? Does he acknowledge Jesus as the Son of God, the Savior, God in human form? No, he asserts that Jesus is no different than any other Rabbi or teacher of the Torah. And, where is the primary focus of this man's concern? On self, on securing for himself eternal life. Is his question the same as asking, "What must I do to bring honor to God?" Or "What must I do to fulfill God's purpose for my life?" Or "How can I serve God most fully?" Or "How can I know God's will for my life?" How often do religions encourage the same focus as this man? In other words, how much evangelism suggests the primary gospel message is individual salvation? Certainly, Jesus came to save sinners—absolutely true—"For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son…" But what does it SAY ABOUT GOD that He loves us so much that He would sacrifice Himself to save us? It is good news that we can be saved from sin, but isn't the better news that God is love? And we are called to bring sinners to Christ for salvation. But can Christianity, if we take the primary focus off of God and His character of love and place the focus on us, become something selfish? Something that burdens people because it is about what they must do, focuses on their behavior, the do's and don'ts with lists of rules, keeping self the center with our fears of sinning, the memories of our past sins with subsequent guilt and shame, our feelings of not being good enough? And can this create a religion of works? Is this man possibly operating from that motive, "WHAT CAN I DO…?" And how does Jesus respond?]
> So He said to him, "Why do you call Me good? No one is good but One, that is, God. But if you want to enter into life, keep the commandments." [What is Jesus trying to do with His question? When Jesus says there is only One good but God, is Jesus suggesting He is not fully God? No, He is trying to get the young man to recognize that Jesus is in fact good, to get the young man to realize he is talking to God. But Jesus is also saying to the man, "If you don't recognize me as God, if you recognize me only as a teacher, then why are you calling me good—all goodness comes from God." Why did Jesus tell Him if he wants to enter into life He needs to keep the commandments? Is Jesus promoting a legal religion, a system of rule-keeping? Is it possible to have health while violating the laws of health? No! Jesus is trying to help this man understand that life is only possible in harmony with the design laws that God built life to operate upon. The commandments are a succinct description of how love function. Love honors others, love doesn't seek to harm, exploit, take advantage of others, therefore love doesn't murder, or cheat, or bear false witness, or steal, love doesn't even have the desire in the heart so love doesn't covet. Jesus is saying, "if you want to have life, you must be restored to my kingdom of love and then you will keep the commandments." But the man didn't understand. he was still thinking of externals, of behavior, so…]
> 18 He said to Him, "Which ones?"
> Jesus said, " 'You shall not murder,' 'You shall not commit adultery,' 'You shall not steal,' 'You shall not bear false witness,' 'Honor your father and your mother,' and, 'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.' "

20 The young man said to Him, “All these things I have kept from my youth. What do I still lack?” [Where in the 10 commandments do we find “you shall love your neighbor as yourself”? Why did Jesus add this to the end of quoting some of the commandments? This is evidence that Jesus was not reciting a list of rules for a legal religion of rule-keeping, but He was describing what people look like when love is restored in the heart. People who love others don’t murder, commit adultery, steal, bear false witness. So Jesus added such people love others as themselves. Jesus is revealing that the commandments are not legal, they are not a code of conduct to be legally enforced, they are a description of how love functions and how people who love others function. This is what we will do when we love. We will affirmatively NOT commit adultery, steal, murder, bear false witness because we LOVE them and it would go against all we are as people to do such things. Just think of how offensive it would be to you to even consider harming your own child, abusing them in some vile way. If you have love in your heart you would rather die than do such a thing. This is what Jesus is describing, people who love simply do NOT do these things to others. But how did the man respond? Did he respond by saying, “I have loved like this my entire life”? Or did he miss the point and focus on external behavior, rule-keeping, a legal religion? Now, consider. If this young man had been obeying all these commandments his entire life—why is he asking Jesus what he must do have eternal life? Why does he ask Jesus, “what is it I still lack?” Isn’t the fact he is asking Jesus these questions evidence that his rule-keeping is not sufficient, that he still recognizes something is wrong, that he does not have peace with God, that his conscience is not clear, that his guilt and shame are not removed? And what happens to religious people who keep the lists of rules but who have not found the peace with God that comes from genuine rebirth and a new heart that loves God and others? What kind of people do they become? Pharisaical, legalists, judgmental, critical, controlling of others, imperial just like those religious people who crucified Jesus. Notice what Jesus tells him.]

21 Jesus said to him, “If you want to be perfect, go, sell what you have and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow Me.” [We are talking about treasure in heaven today. Is Jesus setting up a new rule, a new commandment that if we want to have treasure in heaven, to be perfect and enter into eternal life then we must sell all we have and give it to the poor? Are we to enter a monastery, nunnery, commune, cloister, or perhaps do like Simeon Stylites who lived in Spain between 390 and 459 AD, and who built a small platform on top of a pillar and lived there for 37 years, he owned nothing, and he did nothing. He did this so he would not sin, since he didn’t interact with anyone. Is this what it means to be perfect? Is Bible perfection about task performance, rule-keeping, commandment compliance, or is it maturity, entering into a mature love/trust relationship with God? It is about maturity of character. Job was described as perfect, because even though Job had many questions, didn’t understand many things, when faced with horrible tribulation and trials, Job never broke trust with God. Bible perfection is about trusting God with our entire being. And this rich man trusted his riches. So Jesus is telling him if he wants to be perfect, then he needs to stop trusting in earthly wealth, stop trusting in rule-keeping, religious rituals, membership into the right church organization, and start trusting in Jesus! How is giving to the poor establishing treasure in heaven? Is there an angelic accountant in heaven that keeps track of all your donations to Goodwill, the Samaritan Center, the Food Kitchen, or your local church, and those who donate to such good programs get credits listed by their names in the books of heaven and will have more stars in their crowns, bigger mansions, larger estates on the new earth? What is the treasure? Does giving to help others from a heart that loves and trusts God and loves other do something in the heart, mind, character of the one who gives? And is that something to be treasured? Does God treasure that? As a parent if you see your child give something of theirs to help another, do you treasure that?]

22 But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions. [Why was he sorrowful? Think about it? What does this reveal? Where did this man place his security, his trust, and what did he value? If you had five children that you love with all your heart and they were kidnapped, and the kidnapper was demanding $50 million dollars to return your children and if you scraped everything you own together you have exactly $50 million dollars. Would you go away sad because you have great wealth, or would you rejoice that you have so much wealth? Why would you rejoice? Because your wealth could be used to free your children and you treasure your children more than your possessions. Consider the response of Zacchaeus after Jesus went to his home.

> But Zacchaeus stood up and said to the Lord, "Look, Lord! Here and now I give half of my possessions to the poor, and if I have cheated anybody out of anything, I will pay back four times the amount."
> Jesus said to him, "Today salvation has come to this house, because this man, too, is a son of Abraham. For the Son of Man came to seek and to save what was lost." (Luke 19:8-10 NIV84).

Do you notice the difference between Zacchaeus' response and that of the rich young ruler? Zacchaeus found something he valued more than money and he suddenly found joy in using his money to help others. Can't you just imagine that after this event Zacchaeus started some community help center and for the rest of his life he was a giver, using his resources to help others?

But—wait, Zacchaeus only gave half his wealth to the poor and paid back four times what he took fraudulently. He kept some of his wealth for himself. Didn't Jesus say to be perfect the man must give away all his possessions—Zacchaeus didn't meet this, he didn't give away all but Jesus said he found salvation, he found eternal life. What does this reveal? It isn't about the objective material possessions, it is about the heart's attitude and connection to those possessions. Zacchaeus had his heart set right, had his love for wealth severed, and his affections reset on Jesus and heaven. The rich young ruler did not.]

Then Jesus said to His disciples, "Assuredly, I say to you that it is hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. And again I say to you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God."

When His disciples heard it, they were greatly astonished, saying, "Who then can be saved?" [Why were the disciple astonished? Because the theology, the belief of the day, was that if you were healthy and wealthy you were blessed of God, but if you were sick and poor you were cursed of God. So to the disciples Jesus was saying those who are the most blessed by God, the good people, will have the most difficult time entering into heaven. It didn't make sense. That is because they held a false belief about health and wealth. This same false belief was revealed when they asked Jesus, about the man born blind, "who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?" (John 9:2 NIV84). Of course, Jesus said neither.]

But Jesus looked at them and said to them, "With men this is impossible, but with God all things are possible." [Men cannot change their own heart. We cannot recreate godly desires, affections, or genuine love within us. But God can transform hearts, cut away the lust for the things of this world and establish His methods in our hearts—IF we trust Him and invite Him in. We must choose to say yes to God and God does the healing and transforming as we continue to say yes and choose to follow where He leads.]
27 Then Peter answered and said to Him, "See, we have left all and followed You. Therefore what shall we have?" [What is Peter doing here? Where is Peter's focus? Can you see Peter rubbing his hands together and saying, "Okay, cool, we gave up everything to follow you, YEAH, what are we going to get out of it? What is our reward?" What does this reveal? Doesn't it reveal Peter still has some healing to do? Don't you love Peter? I love God, love the Bible, love how the Holy Spirit inspired these accounts to be recorded, love Peter for being so much like me. I have had these same thoughts, and traveled over this same ground. Isn't this how we think at some point in our journey with God? Jesus doesn't rebuke Peter. But notice what Jesus says.]
So Jesus said to them, "Assuredly I say to you, that in the regeneration, when the Son of Man sits on the throne of His glory, you who have followed Me will also sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. And everyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother or wife or children or lands, for My name's sake, shall receive a hundredfold, and inherit eternal life. But many who are first will be last, and the last first. [What is Jesus saying here? Is He focusing on earthly success, accolades, wealth, or on the new heaven and earth, when Jesus comes again? And when He comes again isn't it true that every single sacrifice or thing we gave up here for Jesus will pale in comparison to what we receive there? What of the idea that the first will be last and the last will be first? What is valued most in God's kingdom? When all power was given to Jesus in John 8, what did Jesus do? He washed dirty feet. In Philippians 2 it describes Jesus who was equal with God giving up all His power and position and humbling Himself all the way to death on the cross in order to uplift us—and therefore Jesus is elevated to the highest position of honor and glory. The sacrifice of Jesus reveals the sharp contrast between Satan and Jesus. Satan's kingdom runs on power over others, taking from others to elevate self—a few powerful elites rising over the masses, making up various rules or laws that are enforced upon the masses to exploit, control, and dominate the masses for the benefit of the ruling elites. This is true of every human government in history. And Jesus said His kingdom is not of this world. In Jesus kingdom the one with the most power sacrifices or gives the most for the benefit of the least. Jesus gave up everything that was rightfully His in order to benefit us. And those who live like Jesus will give of themselves for the benefit of others. Then Jesus tells an incredible parable that doesn't make sense at all to the thinking of this world.]

"For the kingdom of heaven is like a landowner who went out early in the morning to hire laborers for his vineyard. Now when he had agreed with the laborers for a denarius a day, he sent them into his vineyard. And he went out about the third hour and saw others standing idle in the marketplace, and said to them, 'You also go into the vineyard, and whatever is right I will give you.' So they went. Again he went out about the sixth and the ninth hour, and did likewise. And about the eleventh hour he went out and found others standing idle, and said to them, 'Why have you been standing here idle all day?' They said to him, 'Because no one hired us.' He said to them, 'You also go into the vineyard, and whatever is right you will receive.'

"So when evening had come, the owner of the vineyard said to his steward, 'Call the laborers and give them their wages, beginning with the last to the first.' And when those came who were hired about the eleventh hour, they each received a denarius. But when the first came, they supposed that they would receive more; and they likewise received each a denarius. And when they had received it, they complained against the landowner, saying, 'These last men have worked only one hour, and you made them equal to us who have borne the burden and the heat of the day.' But he answered one of them and said, 'Friend, I am doing you no wrong. Did you not agree with me for a denarius? Take what is yours and go your way. I wish to give to this last man the same as to you. Is it not lawful for me to do what I wish with my own things? Or is your eye evil because I am good?' So the last will be first, and the first last. For many are called, but few chosen." (Matthew 19:16-20:16 NKJV)
[What do you think of this parable? What is Jesus trying to teach? Is the landowner being unfair? Who are the actors in this parable? Who is the landowner? Who are the workers? What are the wages? This is a great parable because it exposes the fallacy of imposed law – the lie of penal (legal) salvation. The workers who worked one hour got the same pay as those who worked all day. What did those who worked all day think? What do you initially think when you hear this story? What if we added to the story that those who worked all day were people of color while those who worked only one hour were white – and they all got the same pay? Is that fair? It is totally unfair if we have an imposed-law view, but if we have a design-law view and understand how reality works, we immediately see just how fair God's kingdom is. The payment is eternal life; this is the reward. The field is the earth, where we work with Jesus to save souls. Those who worked all day had salvation early in their lives and the privilege of working with God and, therefore, coming to know Him and His truths more fully and growing in character and skill in God's methods. They applied His methods early in their lives and became more skilled in laboring for Him and applying His principles, which means they became more mature in character than those who worked only an hour. The thief on the cross came at the last hour and got the same pay (eternal life), but he did not have a lifetime of growing in friendship with God. But if one holds the human-law model, the penal lie, then this parable appears unfair. This is why the Pharisees hated what Jesus taught!]

So, what is treasure in heaven?

SUNDAY

The lesson is about Noah and how Noah's life drastically changed when he followed God's command to build an ark and preach about the coming Flood.

Read second paragraph,

> Noah could have spent his time and resources building a home for himself, but he chose to make a drastic change in his life and to spend 120 years of that life in following the call of God to build the ark. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 47).

Yes, Noah had the freedom to choose to spend his time and resources on himself—but he could not do that if he also wanted to:

- Be loyal to God
- Keep open the avenue for the promised Messiah
- Save his family
- Save friends and other humans
- Save the animals
- Save himself

Yes, Noah had a choice, and it was a choice between life and death, not just temporal life and death, but eternal life and death. Noah's choice was made from a heart that loved and trusted God, and a heart that wanted to fulfill God's purpose, a right heart. That is why Noah is described as a right or righteous man because his heart had been set right with God.

Read third paragraph,

> Many skeptics today dismiss the story of the Flood as a myth, often based on scientific speculations about the known laws of nature. This is nothing new. "The world before the Flood reasoned that for centuries the laws of nature had been fixed. The recurring seasons had come in their order. Heretofore rain had never fallen; the earth had been watered by a mist or dew. The rivers had never yet passed their boundaries, but had borne their waters safely to the sea. Fixed decrees had kept the waters from overflowing their banks." — Ellen G. White, Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 96. Before the Flood, people argued that a flood could never come based on a faulty understanding of reality; after the Flood, based on a faulty understanding of reality, they argue that it never came to begin with. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 47).

Do we find the same dynamic at work today but in reverse? My blog for the week is God's Promises and the Climate Change Lies Part 1 and is part one of a two part blog on the current climate change lies.

> If you approach life from a biblical worldview, then you understand that there are two antagonistic forces at war on planet Earth—God's kingdom of truth, love, and freedom versus Satan's kingdom of lies, selfishness, and coercion.
>
> These two systems originate from two different living beings: our infinite God of love, who is the source of all truth, love, righteousness, purity, holiness, virtue, goodness, and life itself, and Satan, who is the originator of lies, selfishness, evil, pain, suffering, disease, deformity, corruption, and death.

God's agencies of light battle against Satan's agents of darkness; truth and love war against lies and selfishness. And this battle enters into every phase of our existence.

God is constantly seeking to lead us out of the darkness of misunderstanding, confusion, and error and into the light of truth. But throughout human history, Satan has been persistently and effectively introducing lies, false narratives, which are intended to replace the truth and entrap hearts and minds in fear and selfishness.

In Eden, God warned that breaking trust with Him and violating the laws He built life to operate upon would result in ruin and death. Satan advanced an alternative narrative—that God lied, that sin does not result in death, and that God was not giving the warning to protect humans from self-inflicted injury and death but rather to prevent them from becoming more powerful and godlike so that God could hoard power and control for Himself. Sadly, Adam and Eve believed the false narrative and humanity became corrupted by sin.

Cain also accepted a false narrative and rejected God's directions, substituting his own works in place of God's provision. In doing so, he was unavoidably corrupted; his rejection of truth and God's instructions led to uncontrolled jealousy of his brother Abel, whom he eventually murdered.

At the time of Noah, God sent a message of impending climate disaster: The world would be destroyed by a worldwide flood in 120 years (Genesis 6:3). Noah faithfully preached that message, warning Earth's inhabitants of the coming climate disaster and offering them the only means of escape—getting on the ark he was building (2 Peter 2:5).

But the ungodly, following Satan's leading, rejected God's warning and presented an alternative narrative. You can imagine these deniers of God mocking Noah as an extremist, an alarmist, a crazy person. They would point to the "science" that proved rain had never occurred, that the waters of the seas and rivers had never left their shores. They would claim that it was scientifically impossible for a flood to happen. They would counter God's revelation with scientific measurements from nature, claiming that there were no such things as floods.

What happened? Jesus shed light on this, saying:

> As it was in the days of Noah, so it will be at the coming of the Son of Man. For in the days before the flood, people were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, up to the day Noah entered the ark; and they knew nothing about what would happen until the flood came and took them all away. That is how it will be at the coming of the Son of Man (Matthew 24:37–39 NIV84, emphasis mine).

Despite Noah's preaching of the impending flood for 120 years, the people didn't know, they didn't understand, they didn't recognize what was about to happen. Why? Because they accepted the false narrative and rejected the message of truth coming from God.

If you lived back in Noah's day, with your current belief in God and the Bible, who would you have believed: Noah or the media and scientific experts of the day?

Jesus said something similar would happen in our day: As His second coming approaches, people will be unaware of and will be unprepared for His return. Why? Because they, like the wicked antediluvians, will reject the message of God and, instead, choose to believe the false narrative that comes from Satan.

And one of Satan's false narratives deluding the world today is a direct denial, rejection, and replacement of a promise given to humanity by God in the aftermath of the Flood:

> As long as the earth endures, seedtime and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, day and night will never cease (Genesis 8:22 NIV 84).

God's promise is that our climate and seasons will continue stably until the second coming of Christ—that is, "as long as the earth endures."

But the lie of Satan, the false narrative of this corrupt world, is that of "climate change," climate disaster, the ending of human life through the destruction of the climate.

And just like the antediluvians, we must decide which view we believe: the godless, the evolutionists, the pundits of this world, the same people who foisted COVID mandates upon the world, restricted our liberties, and injured our children—or our Creator?

What is the impact on people who believe the climate change falsehood? Does that message inspire people with hope, reduce fear, bring people together in love, and result in greater freedom and liberty—or does that anti-biblical message incite fear, stir conflict, inspire restrictions of liberty, and lead to coercion and control?

Understand this clearly:

- We are not facing a global climate disaster—we are facing a global spiritual disaster.
- We are not facing man-made global warming—we are facing man-made global coldness of heart; Jesus said, "Because of the increase of wickedness, the love of most will grow cold" (Matthew 24:12 NIV84).

Satan blinds people to reality by getting them to focus on something emotional as a distraction to what is really happening:

> The god of this age has blinded the minds of unbelievers, so that they cannot see the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God (2 Corinthians 4:4 NIV84).

Satan's end-time push is active and aggressive and turns the mind away from God, away from the Bible, away from the hope of a new heaven and new earth, to a future in which we supposedly destroy ourselves through overpopulation and climate disaster. Thus, we must save ourselves through activities that actually harm the people—the many various solutions proposed by the so-called "green" movement. Their proposed solutions are anti-human, anti-science, and anti-liberty, and they are pro-elite, designed to help the ruling class dominate and control others. The green movement of climate change propogandists is a movement of the godless bent on destroying the image of God in people and the liberty of conscience.

The purpose and goal of the climate change proponents is to increase chaos, disorder, confusion, uncertainty, and fear so that people, longing for security and safety, will accept a totalitarian ruler who uses force to restore order.

So when you hear the climate change fear purveyors, remember God's promise that the seasons will not change "as long as the Earth endures," reject their lies, and cling to the truth as it is in Jesus.

In my blog this next Thursday I will unpack in part 2 the lies about CO2 and how burning fossils fuels is not destroying the planet, but doing the exact opposite, making the planet more habitable, more green, more human friendly, which Satan hates and the godless, the evolutionists, the green movement purveyors are not advancing God's kingdom—but Satan's anti-god, anti-human thriving, false narrative designed to incite fear and justify totalitarian beastly control.

MONDAY

The lesson focuses on Abraham trusting God, leaving his home, and following God's calling in his life.

The lesson emphasizes that through Abraham all the families on the earth would be blessed. Why? What is that about? It is about the promise of Genesis 3:15, the promised Messiah that would crush the serpent's head and save humanity from sin. God reveals in this promise to Abraham that it is through Abraham's descendants that the promised Messiah would come.

God gives Abraham, in addition to the promise that all the nations or families of the earth would be blessed through the Messiah, that his descendants would inherit the land. And the lesson points out that this promise was made to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

This is important because Abraham had other children and this makes it clear the promises were not given to Ishmael, or to Esau, but through Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

But what about the land of Israel today? Is the nation state of Israel today part of this same promise?

There is no doubt that God made a covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob promising that that region of land would be given to them and their descendants and that through them the promised Messiah would come. But does that mean the nation-state of Israel today is part of that promise, or is it possible that we may have missed a larger promise from God because we have remained focused on that smaller regional promise? Is it possible that this promise to Abraham and his descendants is a dual-fulfillment prophecy and we have not fully appreciated its larger applications?

The Bible is filled with dual prophecies and promises:

- Joel's prophecy about the outpouring of the Holy Spirit before the second coming of Christ (Joel 2:28–32) is also applied by Peter to the day of Pentecost (Acts 2:14–21).
- Isaiah 14 and Ezekiel 28 both start out referring to an earthly king and then transition to the fall of Lucifer.
- Jesus' prophecy about the second coming is also blended with the destruction of Jerusalem (Matthew 24).

In all these dual-fulfillment prophecies, there is a lesser application and a greater application—the lesser is regional; the greater is global.

The promise given to Adam and Eve is the promise given to the entire human race, for all humans were in Adam and Eve. The promise given to Abraham was a regional fulfillment of that global promise. It was the promise that through Abraham's family the earlier promise would be realized; that through Abraham's genetic family, the Seed of the woman that will deliver the descendants of Adam from sin and death will come. This is the focus of Scripture, the plan of salvation. This is why the Bible's focus is on Abraham's children and not the Chinese or Eskimos, not because God doesn't love all people—He does—but because the Messiah was not going to come through those other branches of the human family. The Bible even continues to narrow our focus as we get closer to Christ's arrival. We don't follow all of Abraham's descendants, such as Ishmael's or Esau's children, but only Jacob's line because it is through Jacob's children that the greater promise would be realized. And eventually, we follow only Judah, the ten tribes to the north being assimilated and dispersed.

And what was the promise given to Adam and repeated to Abraham? That a Descendant of theirs, a real human, would come and destroy sin and Satan and save the human race from eternal death.

The covenant with Abraham is the same covenant that was given to Adam, but with Abraham we now have the identification of the specific branch of the human family through whom the Messiah would come. And with the recommunication of the covenant to Abraham, God gives a dual-fulfillment prophecy concerning the land: 1) A smaller, local, regional promise that Abraham's genetic descendants would inherit the land of Canaan in order to fulfill their mission to be the genetic family through whom Jesus would be born; and 2) the larger, global, spiritual fulfillment, that the true descendants of Abraham, those who are like Abraham in faith and character would inherit the entire earth!

The covenant with and promises to Abraham focus on two promised lands. The local application is the one in which Abraham's genetic decedents are the branch of the human family through whom God accomplishes the promise of Genesis 3:15 and through whom the Messiah is born. This local regional promise to Abraham informs him that his children would inherit the land in Canaan for the purpose of fulfilling their mission of being the avenue through whom Messiah would come so that Jesus can fulfill God's greater promise, the covenant of grace given in Genesis 3:15, and crush the serpent's head so that the "meek will inherit the earth" (Matthew 5:5)—the true Promised Land.

- The genetic descendants inherited Canaan in order to be the avenue for Jesus our Savior to be born and fulfill the covenant given to the entire human family in Genesis 3:15 so that …
- … the spiritual descendants of Abraham—all those who have faith like Abraham—will inherit the entire planet, the earth made new.

Satan has tricked much of the Christian (and Jewish) world today into believing that the promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob's children to inherit the land are exclusively to genetic descendants occupying a small strip of land in the Middle East. God's promise is much bigger than that. The promise for the genetic descendants to occupy the small land of Canaan has been fulfilled—Jesus has come. Jesus has confronted Satan, and Jesus has won the victory. Now the promises to Abraham are to be fulfilled on the global, not regional, scale when Jesus returns and we, the faithful, finally inherit the earth.

Here is the biblical evidence for this position:

> The LORD appeared to Abram and said, "To your offspring I will give this land" (Genesis 12:7).

This is the regional promise for the genetic descendants to occupy Canaan for the purpose of being the branch of the human family through which the Messiah would be born.

> The LORD said to Abram after Lot had parted from him, "Lift up your eyes from where you are and look north and south, east and west. All the land that you see I will give to you and your offspring forever. I will make your offspring like the dust of the earth, so that if anyone could count the dust, then your offspring could be counted. Go, walk through the length and breadth of the land, for I am giving it to you" (Genesis 13:14–17 NIV84).

This is the larger, global, promise—that the entire earth (east, west, north, south, all points of the compass) will be given to the people of God; the earth will be made new, and those who are like Abraham in character, in faith, whose hearts have been circumcised from sin, will be heirs to this promise and inherit the earth.

The apostle Paul, a former Pharisee of the tribe of Benjamin and a highly trained Jewish theologian of the first century, wrote:

> You are all sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus, for all of you who were baptized into Christ have clothed yourselves with Christ. There is neither Jew nor Greek, slave nor free, male nor female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus. If you belong to Christ, then you are Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise (Galatians 3:26–29).

Jesus Himself explicitly told the Jewish leaders of His day these very truths, that genetics did not determine who is considered an heir of Abraham and who would inherit the promise. We find Jesus' explanation to the Jewish authorities in John 8:34-45:

> Jesus replied, "I tell you the truth, everyone who sins is a slave to sin. Now a slave has no permanent place in the family, but a son belongs to it forever. [If we don't experience freedom from sin through Jesus, then we are not part of the family of God—that is, not part of Abraham's family.] So if the Son sets you free, you will be free indeed. I know you are Abraham's descendants. Yet you are ready to kill me, because you have no room for my word. I am telling you what I have seen in the Father's presence, and you do what you have heard from your father." [Jesus tells them plainly that even though they are genetic descendants of Abraham, God doesn't see them as being children of Abraham, but children of a different father. Note, the Jews, to whom Jesus was speaking, understood this point and protested, claiming their genetic heritage.]
>
> "Abraham is our father," they answered. [Jesus' response disallows their genetics as being a valid basis for being considered a descendant of Abraham.]
>
> "If you were Abraham's children," said Jesus, "then you would do the things Abraham did. [Those recognized by God as children of Abraham are those who have the same faith in God as Abraham did and who act on that faith as Abraham did.] As it is, you are determined to kill me, a man who has told you the truth that I heard from God. Abraham did not do such things. You are doing the things your own father does." [Jesus again tells them that their heritage is not determined genetically but characterologically. Who do they look like, whose image do they bear, that of God or that of Satan? They have embraced another father, but again, they protest and claim a higher father than Abraham.]
>
> "We are not illegitimate children," they protested. "The only Father we have is God himself." [The Jews claimed God as their Father because God created humanity. But Jesus disallows this claim as well, for we are born in sin (Psalm 51:5) and Jesus already said that those who remain slaves to sin have no permanent place in the family of God. Only those who, through Jesus, are freed from sin become part of the family of God and are considered children of Abraham. Note Jesus' answer.]
>
> Jesus said to them, "If God were your Father, you would love me, for I came from God and now am here. I have not come on my own; but he sent me. Why is my language not clear to you? Because you are unable to hear what I say. You belong to your father, the devil, and you want to carry out your father's desire. He was a murderer from the beginning, not holding to the truth, for there is no truth in him. When he lies, he speaks his native language, for he is a liar and the father of lies" (John 8:34–45 NIV84). [Jesus unequivocally destroys the idea that genetics determines who is an heir of Abraham, and He makes it clear that it is all about faith, character, love, and trust like Abraham.]

The dual-fulfillment promise to Abraham had two starting points and two ending points.

- The starting point of the global promise was in Eden, in Genesis 3:15; the starting point of the regional promise was with Abraham when he was called out of Ur.
- The ending point of the global promise is when Jesus recreates the earth and the meek inherit it; the ending point of the regional promise for the genetic people to be the avenue for the Messiah and take the gospel to the world was when they crucified Christ and Jesus said to them, "Your house is left to you desolate" (Matthew 23:38 NIV84).

Jesus masterfully weaves these two aspects of the promises together in His prophetic description of the destruction of Jerusalem and His second coming as described in Matthew 24 and Mark 13. The destruction of Jerusalem occurs because the regional fulfillment of the promise has ended. The genetic descendants kept open the avenue, Messiah had come, but they rejected Him and now there is no further purpose for a regional land to be occupied by them. The gospel must now go to the world. It is time for the global application, which culminates in the second coming and the meek inheriting the earth.

Israel as a political entity today is not the fulfillment of the promise to Abraham that his descendants would be a great nation. That great nation is the global nation whose ruler is from the line of David. As the angel said to the virgin Mary about her Son, "He will be great and will be called the Son of the Most High. The Lord God will give him the throne of his father David, and he will reign over the house of Jacob forever; his kingdom will never end" (Luke 1:32, 33 NIV84).

And the writer of Hebrews agrees with our assessment. Hebrews tells us that the faithful of God in Bible times—Abel, Enoch, Noah, along with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob who lived "in the promised land" (Hebrews 11:9)—"did not receive the things promised" (Hebrews 11:13), that they were "looking forward to the city with foundations, whose architect and builder is God" (Hebrews 11:10). "All of these people" of faith "did not receive the things promised; they saw them and welcomed them from a distance. … They were longing for a better country—a heavenly one" (Hebrews 11:13, 16).

The Bible says that "all of these people" did not receive the things promised; note who is included on that list—Enoch, who was taken to heaven! Enoch, who has already received eternal life, a glorified body, who currently lives in heaven with Jesus, surely he has received the promise, hasn't he? Not in its complete and fullest sense. What was Abraham promised? That his spiritual descendants would inherit the earth. This promise will not be realized until Jesus comes again, all sin and sinners are eliminated, the New Jerusalem comes down from heaven, and the earth is made new to be the home of the righteous. Then the promise will be realized and we, who have faith like Abraham, will receive our inheritance of a goodly land, a beautiful home, perfect and flawless that God intended Adam and Eve to possess. It is true that the meek will inherit the earth, for what God has promised He will fulfill.

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on Lot and the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah, in the last paragraph the lesson points out that Abraham bargained with God to spare the city.

When God revealed to Abraham His plan to destroy Sodom and the other cities, why didn't Abraham say, "God said, I believe it, that's all there is to it"?

If Abraham had faith in God shouldn't Abraham have simply said, "If you say so sir"?

Was God upset with Abraham for questioning Him?

Is this an example for us? Does God want blind, unthinking, servant-like obedience, or does God want understanding friends who obey because we agree? And if we don't understand what God has said, and we still love God and want to obey Him, does God want us to ignorantly go along or to talk to Him, to question Him?

The lesson points us to Genesis 18, let's read some of this from The Remedy:

> When the men finished their meal, they stood up and headed off toward Sodom. Abraham walked with them for a while to say his goodbyes. Then the Lord turned toward his two companions and said, "Should I hide from Abraham the therapeutic action I must take in order to protect Abraham's descendants from corruption, so that they will become a great and powerful nation – a blessing to all the peoples of the earth – through whom I will fulfill my promise of grace? For I know Abraham and have chosen him to head the family through whom I will fulfill my promise to save humanity. He will teach his children and their families to live in harmony with me and my design for life, to do what is right and exercise good judgment, and I will fulfill through Abraham what I promised him I would do."
>
> So the Lord said to Abraham, "The wail of discord, caused by deviations from my design of love, coming from Sodom and Gomorrah, is so great and their selfishness so malignant that no more time given them will do any good. I have come in person to examine if their selfishness is beyond healing. If not, I will know."
>
> The two angels, in the appearance of men, left and headed toward Sodom, but God stayed with Abraham. Abraham's heart was heavy with concern for the Lord, and in empathy he said, "In the act of cleansing, will you sweep away the spiritually healthy, godly people, together with the malignantly unhealthy – the terminally selfish, who are beyond healing? What if there are fifty spiritually healthy, godly people in the city? Will you really eradicate the whole city rather than seek to uplift it through the righteous? Let it never be that you would do such a thing; you would never destroy the spiritually healthy in order to eradicate the terminally selfish. You would never treat the godly like the wicked – never! Surely, the Ruler of all the earth will do what is right!"

> The Lord said, "If I find fifty spiritually healthy, godly people in Sodom, I will not remove it." (Genesis 18:16-26 REM).

And Abraham keeps negotiating all the way down to ten and God keeps agreeing all the way down to ten.

What does this tell us about God?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on Jacob who becomes Israel.

How did Jacob become Israel?
When did Jacob become Israel?
What was necessary for Jacob to become Israel?
Could Jacob become Israel on his own?
What took so long?
Is there a lesson in this for us?

THURSDAY

The lesson focuses on Moses—how old was Moses when he started his ministry for God—when He went back to Egypt to confront Pharaoh and lead the people out of bondage?

He was 80 years old! Does this mean perhaps, that Moses, while choosing God over the riches of Egypt, still had some things to learn, some maturing to do before he was ready to fulfill the mission God had for Him?

Does the fact that Moses used his own might to murder an overseer at age 40 give some evidence to the fact that while Moses was choosing God and his people over Egypt, he still had some spiritual maturing to do before he was ready to fulfill the mission?

And what does it tell us about how God determines who is useful in His cause versus how humans determine who is useful?

- What are the chances today, that an 80-year-old murderer would become the president of the general conference?
- What about a known cheat and fraud who tricked his own father in order to steal his brother's birthright?
- What about an adulterer and murderer who seduced a friend's wife, got her pregnant, and then had the friend murdered to try and cover it up?

- What about an uneducated fisherman who publicly curses and swears that he doesn't know Jesus?

Man looks on the outward appearance, but God looks on the heart.

When Moses returned to Egypt, was he immediately received as a hero and leader by the Hebrews? Or, perhaps some remembered him as a murderer?

2023 1Q Managing for the Master Till He Comes—Lesson 7
Unto the Least of These

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

What do you think of the title "Unto the Least of These"? What does it mean?

Jesus gave a description of what it will be like when Jesus comes again:

> "When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the angels with him, he will sit on his throne in heavenly glory. All the nations will be gathered before him, and he will separate the people one from another as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats. He will put the sheep on his right and the goats on his left. [When Jesus comes He separates all the peoples of the world. This division of people is called here, the sheep and the goats, but is also called the wheat and the tares, the pure woman and the harlot, the fruitful vine and the withered vine, the righteous and the wicked, the saved and the lost.
>
> Who determines into which group a person finds themselves? I was reading recently in a magazine from another organization that was presenting its views of the 3 angels of Revelation, and they take the position that God determines which group people are in during the judgment. Is that right? When Jesus separates into the two groups is He determining who ends up in the two groups?
>
> If a shepherd separates sheep from goats, does the shepherd determine which animal IS a sheep and which IS a goat, or does the shepherd simply separate the animals based on what they actually are? So in this object lesson, Jesus is telling us that His judgment to separate into two camps does not determine who is a sheep and who is a goat, but merely confirms what is—some are sheep and some are goats and He separates them accordingly.
>
> Then who does determine who is a sheep and who is a goat? We do, it is our choices that determines what type of people we become. And what are the decisions that we make that ultimately puts us into one camp or the other? To believe the truth Jesus revealed about Himself and His Father, to trust Jesus with our hearts and minds, to value Jesus' methods, principles, design laws, practices, and choose to say yes to them and apply them ourselves. This means that the methods we choose to practice in HOW WE TREAT OTHERS determines what kind of character we develop, for how we choose to live and treat others is the fruit of who we trust and what principles we value.
>
> So God divides people based upon whether they live in harmony with His character, methods, design laws—the principles He built life and health to operate upon or not. He separates what is healthy from what is harmful and destructive.
>
> What is the underlying basis of God's division—the law/principles that people choose to embrace and which become written in their hearts. The sheep, the people of God, have God's law written in their heart, they love truth, they love God and others, they respect and protect the liberty of others, whereas the unrighteous may believe the same list of doctrines, they may observe Sabbath, believe in baptism, claim Jesus as their Savior, tithe faithfully, believe in the Bible, in Creation, and so much more, yet accept the wrong law, the imposed law with its coercive method of pursuing righteousness such that the ends justify the means and they will use power over others to control, coerce, and punish—just like the religious leaders did to Jesus.

Does the world also divide society, people? Along what lines does the world divide? The root motive of worldly division is not love, it is about power and control. So the world always divides in a way that, if you look for it, you will find that a few elites are exploiting the masses through the divisions in society that they incite, inflame, and magnify. Examples:

- Religions used by the unrighteous to exploit the masses, keep groups divided, and empower a few elites—and these religions will always be some form of imposed rules with punishing gods, never do we see religions that live like Jesus seeking to exploit the masses
- Human legal systems that create legal castes or divisions in society that benefit the elites and put obstacles in the way of the masses in achieving true success and autonomy. This includes:
    - Historic state sponsored slavery, which has occurred in almost every society in human history
    - Jim Crow laws
    - Caste systems
    - Divine rights of kings, separating royals from commoners
    - Laws that divide aristocrats from commoners
    - Tax laws, property laws, zoning laws, etc.
    - Laws related to affirmative action and diversity and equity

  Notice the difference between human laws and God's law. Human laws divide by setting up all kinds of arbitrary divisions to "legally" cause and enforce various divisions in society that pit the masses against each other while a few ruling elites siphon off resources and are empowered by these divisions. Whereas, God's laws are the design protocols upon which life is built. Human beings cannot change them, we only live in harmony with them or not. The laws of God treat every person the same regardless of tribe, language, nation, religion, or people group. Break God's law and all people suffer the damaging consequences, return to harmony with God and His law and all people reap the benefits.

  Satan and the elites do not like this, they want power, they want control, and therefore they want a system that they can manipulate artificially by inserting rewards and punishments that require people to seek them, adore them, worship them, conform to their demands in order to either reap a reward or avoid punishment. Satan tricks the masses into focusing on individual cases of abuse but miss the bigger picture of who is running the system and who is truly benefiting, and in earthly kingdoms it is rarely the people. The systems of this world are corrupt and exploit the masses for the benefit of the elites.

- So selfish elites exploit people by inflaming division along the lines of race, tribe, language—but wait, didn't God cause this division at the tower of Babel? Yes, why?
    - What happened in the world prior to the tower of Babel? The Flood—and why did the Flood occur? Because the entire world, every living human being other than Noah and his family, hardened their hearts against God in a worldwide confederacy of rebellion and sinfulness to such a point that no truth or love could reach them. And if God did not act, the human avenue through which the promised Messiah of Genesis 3:15 would be born was about to be snuffed out and the entire human species lost. So God acted to keep open the avenue for the Messiah. And shortly thereafter, what are the peoples of the world doing? They are uniting again in a worldwide rebellion against God seeking to build their own way into heaven. So God acts at Babel and introduces divisions into human society—language changes, scattering the people around the world, causing the various racial changes—not as punishment, but as a therapeutic intervention to slow the lies of Satan and prevent a worldwide rebellion against heaven in order to keep open the avenue for Jesus to come.

      The divisions of society along race, language, and tribal lines have NO moral value—in other words, race, language, nationality, tribe of origin etc. has no bearing in determining who is righteous and who is wicked, who is a sheep and who is a goat. The value in introducing these divisions was to slow the spread of Satan's lies and false narratives.

      And God reverses this division when Jesus comes: We read in Revelation that a great multitude from every nation, tribe, kindred, people and language are saved, gathered around the throne, all worshipping Jesus—meaning they have become one people group united in righteousness, in love for God and others, having God's law written upon their hearts, and they will all received glorified heavenly bodies that will not carry the trace of sickness, disease, and various genetic and epigenetic differences that separate us into different racial groups—we will again be one human race descendants of Adam and Eve but reborn into the family of God with God as our Father and Jesus our Savior. And we will all speak the same language, and it won't be English, or Greek, or Hebrew, or German, or Spanish it will be the language of heaven.
- Wealth
- Politics and political party
- Fame
- Nationality
- Sports team fanatics
- Gender—God divided humankind into male and female with His intention that the two should become one. That the joining of the paired partners in the bonds of intimate and godlike love would result in an experience of mutual love and growth that cannot be experienced in isolation. And the marriage bond of love is a metaphor for the relationship the people of God are to have with God, an intimate union of heart, mind, motive, method where individuality is retained but a cohesion of trust and love builds creating a greater unit of oneness than can be experienced as a singularity.

    - But the world perverts the godly division of male and female in which our differences are intended to enhance, compliment, and support both parties. The world approaches the godly differences not from love, but from fear and selfishness, therefore differences are a threat, someone must have more power than the other in order to rule over the other, one must submit; or the more recent attacks on godly male and female divisions have been on gender itself, seeking to destroy human individuality, corrupt character, destroy minds, and make people into mindless bots controlled by various elites—they are doing this through a perverse and corrupt diversity, equity, and inclusion agenda along racial and gender lines.

- You can identify all of this evil if you watch the methods being employed. The methods evil uses include:
    - Lies—lies upon lies are told to advance all the various diversity, equity, and inclusion agendas—including the lies attached to these various words.
    - Arbitrary laws and made-up rules
    - Coercive pressures of various kinds, fines, loss of accreditations of institutes, loss of professional licenses, loss of job
    - Accusation—remember Satan is the accuser. Look at how frequently and quickly the DEI proponents are to accuse anyone who doesn't submit to their agenda of being a racist, sexist, misogynist, homophobe, anti-trans or any other label they can accuse a person or business or church of being in order to pressure them to conform to their agenda.

God divides and the world divides—but the divisions are not along the same lines. God divides based on character—those who are like Him and practice His methods because they have returned to love and trust in Him, and those who are like Satan and prefer his methods and practice his principles. But the world divides upon innocuous lines that have no moral importance, but always result in people, in either camp who fight along those lines, becoming more solidified into the satanic mold. Notice as Jesus continues where God divides:]

"Then the King will say to those on his right, 'Come, you who are blessed by my Father; take your inheritance, the kingdom prepared for you since the creation of the world. For I was hungry and you gave me something to eat, I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink, I was a stranger and you invited me in, I needed clothes and you clothed me, I was sick and you looked after me, I was in prison and you came to visit me.'
"Then the righteous will answer him, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you something to drink? When did we see you a stranger and invite you in, or needing clothes and clothe you? When did we see you sick or in prison and go to visit you?'
"The King will reply, 'I tell you the truth, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers of mine, you did for me.' [What is Jesus focusing upon that makes a person a sheep, one of the righteous? It is how we treat others—why? Because how we treat others reveals what law, methods, principles we have chosen to accept and apply to ourselves. It reveals whose kingdom we prefer, the kingdom of God or Satan.

What is implied by their question "When did we see you…and do this?" Doesn't the question indicate that they were not doing these good things to earn credit in heaven, or as a requirement from God, or as a rule, or a means of getting themselves off the naughty list and onto the good list, but this was at outworking from hearts that have been changed? We have choices in life, to trust or distrust God, and then in that trust to apply His methods in how we live, which means in how we treat others. And the methods we employ in how we treat others solidifies into our characters the law that we value.

Do we value the law of God or the laws of men. The Jews who crucified Christ valued the laws of men, even though they claimed they worshipped God, and they demanded Jesus be taken off the cross to keep the Sabbath law of God—the truth was that they valued and practiced coercive force over others, not love, truth, and liberty. They were not willing to leave people free to choose for themselves, but instead used their power and position to bring external pressures to bear to force their way upon others. This is the method of Satan.

And this is the method used during COVID and the forced business closures—please don't buy into the lie that those closures were necessary to stop a virus or save lives, please be wise and discerning enough to realize that the virus was not stopped or slowed by these interventions—because the interventions were never intended to stop the virus. This was a division in society inflicted for the purpose of the elites exploiting the masses to empower the elites. Notice that the big businesses didn't close, but the small businesses for forced to close—the businesses owned by a single mother struggling to support her family were closed, but the corporate businesses were not. I guess the virus new not to enter a national chain business. Realize that liquor stores were kept open while small businesses were forced to close—is alcohol a necessity for life? Does alcohol improve the immune system? No it makes one more vulnerable to infection. Or the arbitrary and completely ineffective mask mandates—including outdoor mask mandates—did this stop the spread? No, and multiple studies prior to this documented that such actions don't stop community viral spread—again evidence that the action was not intended to stop the virus but for another reason—power, control, and condition people to accept arbitrary governmental, anti-constitutional, coercive authority. Or the forced injection with a substance that has no ability to prevent infection, reinfection or stop the spread—yet coercion was used. Understand, what happened with COVID was societal manipulation, behavioral and psychological conditioning of the masses, to justify ungodly methods in the pursuit of a claimed good cause so that people will be even more willing to coerce their neighbor and use ungodly methods on their own families the next time. And it is coming! And those who would use these ungodly methods on others… well Jesus describes them next.]

"Then he will say to those on his left, 'Depart from me, you who are cursed, into the eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels. For I was hungry and you gave me nothing to eat, I was thirsty and you gave me nothing to drink, I was a stranger and you did not invite me in, I needed clothes and you did not clothe me, I was sick and in prison and you did not look after me.' [I was a single parent working to support my family and you forced my business to close. I was a healthcare worker and you threatened my job if I didn't violate my conscience in the care of my Spirit Temple.]

> "They also will answer, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or a stranger or needing clothes or sick or in prison, and did not help you?'
> "He will reply, 'I tell you the truth, whatever you did not do for one of the least of these, you did not do for me.'
> "Then they will go away to eternal punishment, but the righteous to eternal life." (Matthew 25:31-46 NIV84).

Understand, the methods we choose to practice in how we treat others determines the God we accept, the law we practice, and the kind of people we will become.

Satan is not deceiving the majority of the world into overt Satan worship. He didn't trick the Pharisees in Jesus' day with idol worship—he tricked them into embracing and practicing his evil methods in the pursuit of what they believed was right.

The lesson draws our attention to the Scriptures that focus on caring for the alien, fatherless, and widows.

What is the significance of this? Is it merely their status as aliens, fatherless and widows, or did those three groups signify something more?

In Bible times, how were strangers or aliens to be treated?

Do we have examples from how Abraham treated the angels that were appearing as men?

Is there some element of hospitality that is expected for a traveler in those days? Why?

Did they have:

- Rest stops?
- Convenience stores?
- Fast food restaurants?
- Travel lodges and hotels?

So for the stranger and alien what is God wanting people to do? To act in love, mercy, grace, kindness—to help others. And what does that do for the people of God? And what does that do for the kingdom of God?

What about the fatherless—what were the issues and what do they represent to us today?

- Certainly there were elements of financial security, having a home, food, and protection, and often times inheritance came through the father
- But in that society were fathers supposed to provide something more?
- The fathers were supposed to be the priests of the home, to lead the family into the knowledge of God, to instill into their children the love of God, teach the children the commandments of God, the purpose of their existence as individuals and as a people group, to lead them to honor

God in the methods they practiced in how they lived and dealt with others. Thus the father was a symbol of our heavenly Father, of Jesus, and the fatherless would be symbolic of those who don't know about God, are not a part of God's family.

- Caring for the fatherless was to both inspire them and us to act in love and help provide for the temporal needs of the orphans, but also inspire people to search out the spiritually fatherless and bring them to God and invite them into the family of God, to be adopted as sons and daughters of God.

What about the widows?

- Again, in that culture there was certainly the aspect of daily needs, home, clothing, food, work and providing for their sustenance.
- But was there something more represented in this instruction as well?
- There are the literal widows that need temporal assistance with sustenance and in providing that assistance people grow in love as they practice godly methods.
- But widows also serve as an object lesson. They represent people without a husband—a husband is the symbolic representative of Christ. We were created in Eden to be in a holy union with Christ, but because of sin we have been separated from that perfect union and are born into the world in the position of the widow, one who doesn't have a husband. Christ is the groom and we who make up the church are the bride of Christ. The widow has no husband no one to provide a home, a name, a position and those who do not enter into the love/trust relationship with Jesus don't have a heavenly home, a new name, or a position in God's kingdom. It is only through being reconciled to Christ that we find our home, name, and place. So the widow represents those who are not saved, those who haven't accepted Jesus, they are alone, starving, homeless i.e. without a heavenly home. And we are to introduce them to Jesus and invite them into the family of God.

We should not neglect the literal physical needs of the less fortunate—but we should recognize that providing only for the physical needs and not ministering to their spiritual needs is ultimately meaningless. Our true goal is to introduce people to Jesus, to bring God's love, methods, principles into their lives—which will certainly work to reduce suffering and deprivation in this world and advance human health and thriving, but all for a higher purpose and that is to know God, honor God, live for God, advance God's purpose on this earth, which is to love God and others. In doing so real human suffering is reduced, but more importantly hearts and minds are transformed to receive eternal life.

SUNDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on the time Jesus went to the Synagogue and read from Isaiah 61:1,2 and applied it to Himself.

Let's compare what is recorded in Luke that Jesus read with what is written in Isaiah—see if you notice any significant differences:

The Spirit of the Lord is on me, because he has anointed me
to preach good news to the poor.
He has sent me to proclaim freedom for the prisoners and recovery of sight for the blind, to release the oppressed, to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor." (Luke 4:18–19 NIV84).

The Spirit of the Sovereign LORD is on me, because the LORD has anointed me
to preach good news to the poor.
He has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim freedom for the captives and release from darkness for the prisoners, to proclaim the year of the LORD's favor and the day of vengeance of our God, to comfort all who mourn… (Isaiah 61:1–2 NIV84).

Did you notice that Luke records that Jesus left out "and the day of vengeance of our God, to comfort all who mourn"?

Why do you think Jesus left this out when He read it and then said, "Today this scripture is fulfilled in your hearing" (Luke 4:21 NIV84)?

What were the Jews looking for? They were looking for a Savior who is like Satan in character. They were looking for a powerful being who will use physical might to destroy their enemies, to punish the Roman, to have the same earthly system of imposed laws and forced compliance, only with the Jews in charge to run that satanic system—and, of course, they only wanted to have such a system of power and control in order to save lives.

So Jesus left off the only line from Isaiah's prophecy that could be misconstrued to teach the false satanic version of God that they preferred. Jesus wanted to draw the distinct contrast between the kingdom of God and the kingdoms of this world.

Some might ask, but why did Isaiah even have that line in there about God's vengeance if God wasn't going to, at some point, use His power to take vengeance?

Or, some argue that Jesus left that line out because that wasn't part of His earthly mission. He was here to take our sins and pay or legal sin debt by sacrificing His life, the vengeance part of Isaiah's prophecy comes at the end of time. So Jesus left it out back then because it didn't apply to the mission He was fulfilling at that time.

What do you say about this?

What law lens do you read and understand it through?

If we have the human law lens, then what is vengeance? It is using power to harm someone, to make them pay, to inflict some recompence upon them.

But what if we have design law, then what is vengeance?

We only have to let the Bible interpret itself, Isaiah interpret his own use of then term and we have our answer:

> Therefore the Lord, the LORD Almighty, the Mighty One of Israel, declares: "Ah, I will get relief from my foes and avenge myself on my enemies. I will turn my hand against you; I will thoroughly purge away your dross and remove all your impurities" (Isaiah 1:24-25 NIV84).

Doctors take vengeance upon disease, cancer, infections, not upon patients. God takes vengeance upon sin, not sinners. He seeks to destroy lies with truth, selfishness with love, rebellion with loyalty, cruelty with kindness, and coercion with freedom.

Notice what Malachi says, and this is describing the time in human history right before the second coming, the time when the sanctuary is cleansed or when the bride of Christ is cleansed and prepared to meet Jesus face to face:

> "See, I will send my messenger, who will prepare the way before me. [Who is this messenger? In Jesus' day this was John the Baptist, who went before Jesus and prepared the way for Jesus. The Apostles asked Jesus wasn't Elijah to come before the Messiah and Jesus said that John was the fulfillment of that coming in the spirit and mission of Elijah. This is from Malachi chapter 4, where the prophet says that the Lord will send the prophet Elijah before the great and terrible day of the Lord. Before the second coming a message goes forth like the one Elijah gave to prepare the people for the return of the Lord. And what is that message? What did Elijah famously confront and call the people to do? He confronted Baal worship. And who was Baal?
>
> Baal was the son of El (i.e., El-ohim or El-Shaddai). He was the god of weather and was often called "Almighty" and "Lord of the Earth." Baal was the god who brought rain, thunder, lightning, who fertilized the earth, controlled the sun, and brought the harvest. Baal fought the great serpent leviathan, as well as battled against Mot, the god of death. And most amazing of all, it was taught that Baal died in his battle with Mot and was resurrected to bring life to earth.
>
> So what was the problem with worshiping a god who was the "husband and protector of Israel," the son of El, who controlled the weather, who brought rain, sunshine, and fertility, who blessed with a full harvest, who warred against the great serpent and death, who died and was resurrected to bring life to the earth? What was wrong with this god? What was Elijah opposing? What made Baal worship false?

Baal required payment, appeasement, sacrifice be offered to him in order to receive blessing or benefit.

Baal become Zeus to the Greeks, Jupiter to the Romans, Thor to the Norse people, and Jesus Christ to all people who believe that God's law is like human law, imposed rules requiring imposed penalties, and requires the blood of a human sacrifice be offered to Him in order to pay Him not to kill us.

So today God has a people who have a message to the world that is to prepare the way for Christ to return. It is a message that God is the Creator and His laws are design laws, the protocols life is built upon. That sin is transgression of God's law, and sin causes pain, suffering, and death, and that God so loved the world that He sent His Son to take up our terminal condition and destroy the cause of death and restore the cause of life in humanity and thereby reconnect humanity to God. Thus the Bible says that Jesus "destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light" 2 Timothy 1:10, and that "God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God" (2 Corinthians 5:21 NIV84).

This is the message we are giving, to prepare the world for Christ's return! As this message is advancing, Malachi continues:]

Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come," says the LORD Almighty. [What temple? Is this a building made of stones and wood? Is it a building in heaven made out of inanimate materials? Or is this speaking of the spirit temple, the corporate body of believers that are founded on the cornerstone of Jesus Christ and built upon the apostles? What does the text say next…]

But who can endure the day of his coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver. [So what is being purified when Jesus comes to His temple? The believers, who are represented as the Levites, the priesthood of believers. So, what temple does He come to? And this is God working to remove all our dross, the impurities in our lives that we have asked Him to remove, that we long for Him to remove, even the ones we haven't yet identified.] Then the LORD will have men who will bring offerings in righteousness, and the offerings of Judah and Jerusalem will be acceptable to the LORD, as in days gone by, as in former years. [What are the offerings we bring? Present yourselves as living sacrifices holy and pleasing to God this is your spiritual or acceptable or true worship (Romans 12:1). Or as David prayed, "You do not delight in sacrifice, or I would bring it; you do not take pleasure in burnt offerings. The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit; a broken and contrite heart, O God, you will not despise" (Psalm 51:16-17 NIV84). This is what God wants, to heal all the damage with in us. Malachi continues]

"So I will come near to you for judgment. I will be quick to testify against sorcerers, adulterers and perjurers, against those who defraud laborers of their wages, who oppress the widows and the fatherless, and deprive aliens of justice, but do not fear me," says the LORD Almighty" (Malachi 3:1-5 NIV84). [What judgment? What law model? This is diagnosis, this is accurately diagnosing what is actually the condition of the heart and mind. Notice who he would testify against, those who oppress widows and the fatherless…He is separating sheep from goats. And what determines who is a sheep and a goal? The actual condition of their characters. This is not a judicial process. This is God working to cleanse the hearts and minds, to take vengeance on sin, rebellion, lies, selfishness by removing it and restoring us to oneness and friendship with him. But, He leaves every single person free and in the end God respects the free choice of every person and separates them based on what they have chosen.]

So Jesus read to them that the prophecy of Isaiah was fulfilled to them and how did they receive Jesus' message? They hated Him and didn't want His kingdom.

How do you think we as Christians today would receive His message? Have we seen over the last several years the sheep and goats manifesting their characters in how they treat others? Have you seen many people, under the guise of righteousness, claiming only that they want to love others, advancing the methods and practices of Satan?

The lesson goes on to point out that Jesus overthrew their ideas about who was right with God and who wasn't. He rejected their false idea that poverty meant a person was cursed of God and that wealth meant a person was right with God. The lesson states in the last paragraph, "Jesus' love for the poor was one of the greatest evidences of His Messiahship…" thoughts about this?

We all agree that Jesus loves every human being regardless of race, tribe, language, social status, wealth or poverty, sickness or health—so we agree that Jesus loves the poor.

Questions:

- Did Jesus multiple a few loaves and fishes to feed multitudes on more than one occasion?
- Did Jesus have gold coins appear in a fish's mouth?
- Did Jesus have the nets of the disciples overflow to bursting with fish?
- Did Jesus have the ability to provide gold coins, or baskets of fish, or storehouses of grain to the entire nation? Then why didn't He?
- Couldn't Jesus have provided resources to every single human being in Palestine while He was here to lift them all out of poverty? Then why didn't He?

Was His primary mission to relieve poverty?

What would have happened if Jesus would have done this?

Can we, by giving wealth to people, make them righteous?

Can you save people from themselves, from sin, by giving wealth?

Does that mean we don't ever give to help the less fortunate? Of course not, but it does mean that we must recognize what Jesus said that we will have the poor with us until Jesus comes, that programs designed to eradicate poverty are misguided and will almost always cause more harm.

Our godly goals are to create opportunities for people to embrace and participate with Jesus and the things of God, to experience improvement in their lives—which means people have to make the choice to say yes to God and to embrace His methods into their lives.

Often times, it is the experience of the pain of our foolish or rebellious choices that breaks people out of their denial, their self-delusion, and they become open for the seeds of truth to be implanted into their hearts. In various 12-step programs this is called hitting rock bottom. We see this in the parable of the prodigal son, who squandered all his wealth, ended up homeless living with pigs and eating pig food. The father remained wealthy and could have hired a social worker to go to his son and buy him food from Pizza Hut, and put him up each night in a government paid hotel, and buy him a bus pass, and give him a cell phone—but if the father would have done that, do you think the boy would have, as the Bible says, "come to his senses" or would perhaps the boy thought "I am doing okay" and remained in his self-destructive lifestyle and never returned to his father?

Was the father being unkind, unloving, selfish, or cruel by refusing to reach out and help his son in his homelessness?

Has Satan tricked many empathetic and good hearted people into giving to people what they could legitimately provide for themselves and thereby becoming enablers that enable and collude with the self-destruction of these souls?

Most of the pro-social programs in our society do not help people from a godly perspective, they function to destroy godly character and ultimately keep people trapped in discouragement, dependency, and helplessness.

Consider the Bible method of helping the less fortunate in MONDAY's lesson first paragraph:

> In their writings, the Bible's authors included many of God's provisions for the poor, the strangers, the widows, and the fatherless. We have records of this all the way back to Mount Sinai. "Six years you shall sow your land and gather in its produce, but the seventh year you shall let it rest and lie fallow, that the poor of your people may eat; and what they leave, the beasts of the field may eat. In like manner you shall do with your vineyard and your olive grove" (Exod. 23:10, 11, NKJV). (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 58).

Can you recall any people in Scripture who were benefited by this system to help the poor and the widows? Ruth and Naomi and while these poor women were allowed to get grain without paying for it, for free, how did they get it? They had to go out and glean it themselves, and then who had to thresh it, and then grind it to flour, and then cook it?

What are the lessons from this method and the benefits of it?

- What was provided? That which they could not provide for themselves. They did not have fields to sow, nor seed to sow, nor did they have money to buy, so God made provision that the food would be available as they had no means to grow it or buy it for themselves. But did they have the means to glean, thresh, grind, and prepare it themselves? Yes! And this they were required and expected to do.

- And what did requiring them to do as much as they were capable of doing for themselves result in?
    - They would be physically active. This results in all kinds of physical health benefits to mind and body.
    - Their useful labor would give them a sense of accomplishment, purpose, worth, which would diminish the discouragement and hopelessness that can come from uselessness. It would help them build a sense of autonomy, a sense of achievement, to inspire them to do continue to develop themselves.
    - It would prevent them from burdening others with that which they could still do for themselves.
    - The work with minimal returns, enough to feed themselves, might motivate them to seek better employment that would not only allow them to buy as much food as they gleaned, but to improve their station.
- What happens when we provide for people that which they could legitimately accomplish for themselves, but through choice, through negligence, or laziness refuse to do?
- What happens if we give passing grades to children who do not actually learn the material or achieve passing grades—regardless of the reason? If a child comes from objective disadvantage such that they have no books to read, no teachers to teach, no environment to learn and they somehow end up in our classroom, would it be a benefit to such a child to give them a passing grade even though they cannot read? Why or why not?

In the second paragraph, the lesson tells us to defend the poor in addition to the fatherless—this identifies another group besides the fatherless and the widow—the poor. And the poor are the literal economic poor, but they are also representative as an object lesson to the poor in spirit, the discouraged, the down in heart, the exploited, those who don't know the joys of salvation in Jesus.

The lesson contrasts the godly ministry to the less fortunate, which seeks to relieve immediate needs while provide opportunities for individuals to become autonomous, mature, develop, and grow into the full stature of sons and daughters of God—not simply relieve immediate needs, with another worldly corruption. Read the last paragraph,

> In contrast, even in more modern times, particularly in England, under the impact of what has been known as "Social Darwinism," many thought that not only was there no moral imperative to help the poor but that it was, in fact, wrong to do so. Instead, following the forces of nature, in which the strong survive at the expense of the weak, "Social Darwinists" believed that it would be detrimental to society to help the poor, the sickly, the indigent because, if they multiplied, they would only weaken the social fabric of the nation as a whole. However cruel, this thinking was the logical outgrowth of belief in evolution and the false narrative it proclaims. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 58).

What is the difference between "Social Darwinism" described above and what Paul describes "If a man will not work, he shall not eat" (2 Thessalonians 3:10 Niv84)?

The Darwinists believe that there is no God, that we are in the process of evolving to higher life forms through the stronger surviving to pass along their genes, therefore it is helpful to future generations for the weaker people with weaker genes to be removed from the gene pool and over time the species advances. In passive application it would mean not helping those struggling but allowing them to die. In active application, it would mean actively killing those who can't defend themselves—kill or be killed.

The Bible view is that we are made in the image of God and life and health only happen in harmony with God and His design laws for life. One of those laws is the law of exertion, if you want something to grow in strength you must exercise it, because if you don't use it you lose it.

Therefore, godly people provide opportunity for others to apply their God-given abilities in useful and productive ways which helps that person mature and develop, but we do not assist people in destructive activities for doing so helps the pathology grow stronger.

Providing subsistence for a person who could provide for themselves and are only hungry because they refuse to work, enables corrupt traits of character in that person. Providing them an opportunity to make a living, or earn a meal, is a godly way to provide for those who are capable.

THURSDAY

Has us consider Job—what are the lessons you value from the book of Job?

Read last paragraph,

> Ellen G. White suggested, "Do not wait for them [the poor] to call your attention to their needs. Act as did Job. The thing that he knew not he searched out. Go on an inspecting tour and learn what is needed and how it can be best supplied." — Testimonies for the Church, vol. 5, p. 151. This is a level of money management and stewardship of God's resources that is beyond the practice of many of God's children today. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 60).

Does this Christian counsel harmonize with or contradict what we have been saying in class today?

The key to this statement and is differentiating what is "needed" from what is "wanted" or what the world sets up as a standard of need. And then to answer "how best it can be supplied," "best" meaning what? Most economical? Easiest for the helper? Or best for helping the person in need recover the image of God within them and fulfill the purpose God has for them?

Might the best in one situation being giving money as a scholarship for a student who cannot pay for themselves? But does the scholarship donor attend the classes, read the books, do the studying, write and turn in the assignments, or does the scholarship recipient still have a lot of work to do in order to develop themselves?

Might the best thing in another situation be to provide an admittance to a university but not provide funding and allow the student to work their own way through?

Isn't it easier to just give money blindly than to investigate and determine what is actually needed and then decide what is the best way to provide it?

Wouldn't it be even easier if, because we care so much for others, if we could convince our government representatives to pass laws to tax our fellow citizens who are not as caring and godly as we are and take their money and create various social programs to help people, giving away vast sums of money to people who are poor but without inspection of the actual need and no pursuit of the best way to provide the need?

2023 1Q Managing for the Master Till He Comes—Lesson 8
Planning for Success

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

What do you think of from the title, "Planning for Success"? The lesson rightly asks, how do we define success?

When you think of planning for success, what do you consider to be success? What standard do you use?

What determines whether you are successful or not?

My granddaughter Lennox played on the Standifer Gap SDA school basketball team this year and they did not win one game—were they successful?

Well they…

- Improved their basketball skills
- Improved their cerebellar brain function, which helps develop their overall brain organization and impacts thought organization later in life
- Experienced the physical health benefits of exercise
- Learned teamwork
- Experienced team bonding and improved friendships
- Learned how to handle themselves responsibly and focused upon being good sports, having positive attitudes, affirming others, being kind to the other team members etc. and while they didn't win a game their team was the unanimous choice of all the other teams for the sportsmanship award.

Were they successful or did they fail? Doesn't it depend on what criteria one uses to measure success and failure?

- I am proud of Lennox—not for how well she played basketball—even though I saw improvement in her physical skills. What I am truly proud of her for is her spirit, her attitude, her choice to stay positive, to focus on kindness, and caring about the people, including the other team members, more than winning. That is evidence of Jesus in your heart!

What is the standard that determines success in God's kingdom?

- Is it the Ten Commandments?
- If we keep that list would that be the measure of success?

- Would the motive in the heart have any bearing on whether one is a success when keeping that list?
- Love for God and others?
- Living in harmony with God's design laws?
- And what does living in harmony with God's design laws look like?
- Is it measured primarily by performance, how well one does on tasks and deeds, for instance we know loving others helps, so do we measure success by counting how many people we feed, or how many articles of clothing we give to the poor, who how much money we give? Or is success determined by attitudes and motives of the heart when carrying out the action? The Bible says, "Man looks at the outward appearance, but the LORD looks at the heart" (1 Samuel 16:7 NIV84).
- So would success be a person who:
    - Loves God and others
    - Loves the truth and is willing to grow in new truth
    - Is honest, kind, loyal, faithful, and trustworthy
    - Is mature and self-governed
    - Is wise in the principles, methods, and design laws of God

How does a person become like this?

- By beholding we are changed—we must first and foremost have the truth about God as revealed by Jesus at the center of our lives.
- We must be won to love God and cherish Him and value His character and methods and long to be like Him.
- Then we eagerly open our hearts and actively ask God to come in and transform us. We experience new motives and new desires and then we must choose to apply the truth God has revealed to our lives and then we experience the joy of living out the principles of God. The selfish and corrupt things of this world become offensive and disgusting to us. And as we choose to live out God's principles we mature.
- When we slip up, we know God loves us and we go to Him in sorrow, in repentance, in disappointment with ourselves, and experience His grace, forgiveness, and healing power so that the next time we face a similar situation we will be quicker to recognize the danger and choose a different path.

What is the standard that the world measures success by?

- Power
- Position
- Wealth
- Fame
- Clicks, followers, or views
- Gold medals, awards of various kinds
- Performance, how well one completes a task—winning at all cost
- Survival

Do we sometimes confuse these two standards?

Consider this historic quote from Christian Education about the Christian school at Battle Creek MI, what do you think? Any relevance for us today?

> Our College at Battle Creek is a place where the younger members of God's family are to be trained according to God's plan of growth and development. They should be impressed with the idea that they are created in the image of their Maker, and that Christ is the pattern which they are to follow. [Is this the message our young people will get in the public-school systems? Does it make a difference in the development of our children if they believe they are made in God's image and are to pattern themselves after Christ, or if they believe there is no God and they are just the final link in an evolutionary chain of evolving animals in which the strongest kill the weakest?] Our brethren permit their minds to take too narrow and too low a range. They do not keep the divine plan ever in view, but are fixing their eyes upon worldly models. [Who is doing this? Our brethren, our fellow church members, leaders, and educators. Do you think she is suggesting that our brethren are rejecting the belief in God and the Bible, and are teaching that we evolved from lower life forms? No—she is not suggesting that. She is saying that our Bible believing, God fearing brethren have in some other way had a narrow view and have been fixing their eyes on worldly models. What might that be? Could it be the worldly model of law and justice? A worldly model of a god who makes up rules and is required to use his power to punish rule-breakers and that that god requires some legal payment be made in order to propitiate his wrath? And what happens to the heart and mind if that kind of a god is internalized?] Look up, where Christ sitteth at the right hand of God, and then labor that your pupils may be conformed to that perfect character. [What is the recommendation? Take our eyes off worldly standards, and instead make Jesus the center. Is there a law involved in this recommendation? The law of worship—we become like the one we admire and worship. And what do we see in Jesus? We see the Father.] Christian Education 41.
> If you lower the standard in order to secure popularity and an increase of numbers, and then make this increase a cause of rejoicing, you show great blindness. If numbers were evidence of success, Satan might claim the pre-eminence; for, in this world, his followers are largely in the majority. [Do we ever get tempted to measure success by numbers? Have churches ever had numbers of baptisms as the measure of success for their pastors? And what about lowering the standard to keep our governments approval of us, our government funding, Medicare reimbursements of our healthcare institutions? When is it okay to exchange the principles of God for the methods of this world? Have we seen over the last several years various Christian organizations justifying the use of coercive force on others, even claiming to do so is an act of love?] It is the degree of moral power pervading the College, that is a test of its prosperity. It is the virtue, intelligence, and piety of the people composing our churches, not their numbers, that should be a source of joy and thankfulness. Christian Education 42.

What is to be the thing that we are to value, that we hold as a standard of whether we are successful or not? Christlikeness of the people in our institutions.

Do you know what the motto of Liberty University is? Training Champions for Christ.

In every leadership meeting that I have attended, they make this mission central—they make Christ central, make standing for Biblical truth central and actively seek methods of teaching that incorporates the truth of God's kingdom into every aspect of learning.

As I was thinking about these things in preparing the lesson, I came across this historical quote from one of the founders of the SDA church. I feel confident that the faculty at Liberty would agree with this, what do you think?

> It should be the fixed purpose of the youth to aim high in all their plans for their life-work. They should adopt for their government in all things the standard which God's Word presents. [What government? Their government, in other words, how they govern themselves. What is the standard that God's Word presents that we are to adopt for our self-government? Is it a list of rules? Should we go to the Bible and find a list of approved foods and prohibited foods and then make a rulebook and not only apply it to ourselves, but also judge others who claim to be Bible believers by that list? If we see people eating foods on the naughty list then can we be sure that they are not following the Bible? Or perhaps rules about dress, or jewelry, or religious rituals. Is this what the author means by living by the standard in God's Word?] This is the Christian's positive duty, and it should be also his positive pleasure. [Do you hear any contradiction in this sentence? Or do you recognize this author's understanding of design law? Can you make a rule that your child is required to eat turnip greens? Can you even enforce that rule so they will eat them to fulfill their duty to eat foods on the healthy list? Can you make them take pleasure in it? So how can our fulfillment of Biblical duties be a pleasure? God instructed throughout Scripture that His people were to observe Sabbath, but in Isaiah, He told them in order to truly keep the Sabbath they must delight in it. This is design law. We don't really obey God until we move from children who obey out of duty, out of fear of punishment, out of obligation, because the rules say so, into mature people who have come to recognizes that God's laws are the laws life are built upon and we freely do it because we not only want to, but we delight in it. Consider teeth brushing, how a child does it because of a rule, but as an adult we delight to brush our teeth because we love keeping our teeth healthy.] Cultivate respect for yourself because you are Christ's purchased possession. [What is the lesson here? What is the idea being taught? Why should a person have self-respect? Because God so loved us He not only created us in His image, but Jesus died to redeem us from sin. We are valued and cherished by God and we are to recognize our value and respect ourselves as children of God. In other words, our value comes in who we are. Is that the world's standard? Or does the world place value on what people do not on who they are? In the world we are valued because we get good grades, hit the most home runs, can run faster, jump higher, sing better, speak more eloquently. Does the world value people for who they are or for what they do? God wants people, including our children, to understand who they are as His children and respect themselves as His redeemed and cherished people and to value themselves and others for who they are.] Success in the formation of right habits, advancement in that which is noble and just, will give you an influence that all will appreciate and value. [What determines what is noble and just? Don't we hear a lot about justice in the world and doing what is just? What is God's standard of justice? It is God's law, and how does that function? It is the law of love, truth, and liberty—the laws of reality. We cannot be just if we violate God's law. One of Satan's traps is to get people to pursue some justice via his methods, methods that violate God's design laws—made up rules by enforcement, manipulation, and coercion rather than truth, love, and conversion.

And how do we develop habits of any kind? By repetition, by doing things over and again until neural networks are laid down that make our responses semi-automatic. This includes motor habits like how you button your clothes or tie your shoes, but also habits in how we process information and treat others. Notice the counsel on the types of habits we are to develop.] Live for something besides self. [Is this a rule? Interestingly, the author did not say live for someONE besides yourself, but for something besides yourself—in other words a higher purpose that survival-driven me first. It is a call to altruistic living, to serve a greater purpose than self-advancement, which will mean our lives become blessings to others.

But what happens if we use force to make a person do something that is beneficial to others, that that person doesn't agree with? What happens inside the one forced? God's government does not function like human governments. God does not use force to get our compliance. He will, with children, act the role of a loving parent and discipline, but in the end, when He knows we have had enough truth to make our decision, He leaves us free to reject Him if we desire. So, is living for others a rule or a principle? Notice what is said next.] If your motives are pure and unselfish, if you are ever looking for work to do, if you are always on the alert to show kindly attentions and do courteous deeds, you are unconsciously building your own monument. [This is all design law—about the motives and the motives of unselfish love leading to actions that apply those motives in the world around us and this builds a monument, what kind of a monument? It builds Christlike character, reputation, recognition of trustworthiness, beauty, and reliability—not necessarily in the eyes of the worldly, those who selfishly reject God, but in the eyes of God and the heavenly beings—those who see reality for what it is.] This is the work God calls upon all children and youth to do. Do good, if you would be cherished in the memory of others. Live to be a blessing to all with whom you come in contact, wherever your lot may be cast. Let the children and youth awake to their opportunities. By kindness and love, by self-sacrificing deeds, let them write their names in the hearts of those with whom they associate.—The Youth's Instructor, February 7, 1901.

Does this description sound like people whose lives would be successful?

But what if some people do take the position that Bible standards for our success does mean that we are to use the Bible to find the "right" rules, and then we should make a list of those rules, like the "right" and "wrong" foods, clothes, rituals and not only live by them but seek to get everyone else to live by them too?

Have you ever met people like this—I assume they really want to do good, but have you found their influence to be good or disruptive?

Well, as I was thinking about these things, and in light of the health message given to the SDA church—which has been a huge blessing to many and is simply a message calling people to live in harmony with the laws of health, learning to care for the Spirit temple so that people can experience the best possible health to be of the greatest use in God's cause—I was thinking of some who fail to understand the laws of health, the principles involved, and instead approach it as a list of rules and how doing so can harm. And then I came across this historical quote, also from E.G. White, who was integral in advancing the value of living in harmony with the laws of health. What do you think of this?

> While we would caution you not to overeat, even of the best quality of food, we would also caution those that are extremists not to raise a false standard and then endeavor to bring everybody to it. There are some who are starting out as health reformers who are not fit to engage in any other enterprise, and who have not sense enough to take care of their own families or keep their proper place in the church. And what do they do? Why, they fall back as health-reform physicians, as though they could make that a success. They assume the responsibilities of their practice and take the lives of men and women into their hands, when they really know nothing about the business.—Testimonies for the Church 2:374, 375 (1869). CH 161.2

Do you love it when people speak truth clearly and plainly?

She is applying the principle of Romans 14—let every person be fully persuaded in their own mind. Don't try to bring everyone else to your standard.

She describes people who have their own responsibilities that they have not managed well.

- The natural result of not fulfilling one's legitimate duties, when one is capable of doing so, is to experience guilt, shame, and inadequacy.
- If they refuse to respond to the godly conviction of guilt by humbly seeking Jesus, asking for enlightenment, and then repenting and choosing to reform and begin fulfilling their responsibilities—if they fail to do this, then their guilt, shame, and inadequacy only worsens.
- Having rejected the path of truth and repentance, they then seek to offset their guilt and shame by some activity that they invest with goodness, some behavior that they can point to and claim as evidence of righteousness, virtue, or fulfilling God's purpose for their life. They become an extremist in some behavioral element of life that they can control, such as diet and food choices, or dress, etc.
- Their fastidious compliance with their righteous food list makes them feel good and allows them to avoid the suppressed guilt and shame for neglecting their actual duties in life.
- Having taken this position as a means to avoid their own guilt, shame, and inadequacy, they cannot tolerate any feedback that suggest a different course is equally righteous. They cannot tolerate others not eating according to their rigid standards and also being considered as equally righteous, because if one could be righteous while deviating from the food list, then that would mean their hard work is not righteous and it would no longer serve the purpose of allowing them to avoid their own guilt and shame.
- Thus, they criticize and find fault with those who don't eat according to their rules, may seek to get others removed from offices in the church for not eating according to their rules, and do all they can to convert others to their stringent and extremist eating patterns.

Such an extremist may very well consider their life a success—but is it?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph:

> As youth matures into adulthood, thoughts will arise about having to provide for basic needs-food, clothing, and shelter. Jesus Himself has told us how to prioritize our needs when He said, "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Matt. 6:33). Of course, for those who are older and who didn't make the choice for Jesus when they were young, there is still time to make the right decisions regarding stewardship. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 65).

What do you think of Jesus promise: "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Matt. 6:33)?

What does it mean?

- Does it mean if we don't have adequate food, shelter, clothing then we are not seeking God's kingdom?
- Does it mean that if we don't have adequate food, shelter, clothing and want more we need to conduct more Bible studies?
- Is Jesus setting up a quid pro quo system of receiving blessings if you serve in His system—and thus health and wealth become good measures of righteousness?

If we think only of this temporal life Jesus' words here may be confusing, but if we approach life from a Biblical reality, then this comes into clarity. What do I mean?

Because of Adam's sin we are all born in sin and conceived in iniquity—we are born with a terminal condition that without remedy will result in eternal death. What difference does it make if we have all earthly wealth and then die eternally? Jesus is saying prioritize eternal life over temporal life. That doesn't mean that God doesn't care about our temporal wants—He does, He provides and Jesus provided all kinds of temporal blessings, healing, food, etc. when He was here. The point of this statement however, is that we must value eternal things over temporal things.

We must be so settled into the truth that we would not:

- bow to an idol to avoid a fiery furnace
- stop praying to God to avoid a lion's den
- stop preaching the gospel to avoid arrest and imprisonment and even execution
- We will not embezzle to pay our house payment, or steal to get money to go to school, or bear false witness to get a promotion etc. etc.

It would be better to be like so many martyrs who sleep in death awaiting the resurrection into eternal life than to live a few more years on earth, and then sleep in death anyway, and lose eternal life.

Recognize God's priority for everyone—which would be our priority for ourselves and our loved ones if we sat where God sits—and that is eternal life. Where God sits eternal life is what matters, not years of temporal life.

If you had a rope from our sun to our Earth, that would be a rope 93 million miles long. And if every inch on that rope represented one year of life. And if a person lived 969 years Methuselah or 10 years—a child dies, is there a significant difference between 969 inches and 10 inches on a rope 93 million miles long? And God's rope is an infinite rope. God's design for our lifespan is eternity. So God is primarily concerned with bringing people into a trust relationship with Him where He heals the damage of sin and gives them the gift of eternal life. If they sleep, like Daniel, for a few years or a few thousand years, it really doesn't matter as long as they have been restored to trust in Him for they will have eternity to live, thrive, and grow.

Again, that doesn't mean God doesn't care about our temporal needs and struggles, He does, but we must look beyond the temporal to the eternal.

The paragraph ends by affirming even if we were not faithful in stewardship when we were young, we can choice to be faithful now. This is so true—we cannot change history, we can only choose to surrender to God, be transformed and live in new ways moving forward.

Read last paragraph,

> After Jacob made his spiritual and financial commitments to God, the Lord directed him to Rachel at the well (see Gen. 29:9-20). It is fitting to make your spiritual decision and your lifework decision before committing to marriage. Your future spouse should know "what they are getting into." Is this person a committed Christian? What type of work will he or she be involved in? Will this person be a teacher, a nurse, a lawyer, a laborer, whatever? What kind of life will I be committing to? Other questions that need answers before the marriage commitment are: What level of education has been completed? What amount of debt will come into the marriage? Am I willing to accept this situation as part of my responsibility? (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 65).

What are your thoughts?

- Did anyone give you advice before your chose your spouse? What advice was given?
    - I remember a Bible teacher telling us to trust God with finding our spouse. What are your thoughts about this advice?
    - Does the kind of God people believe God to be, have an impact in their ability to trust Him?

    - What if people believe in God, but have a punitive, legal, view of Him? Could that make them believe but not trust? Could they believe that God would pick someone they won't like?
    - I think it is better to get to know God for who He is first.
    - If we don't know God, if we aren't friends of Jesus, then we probably are not ready to be getting married—what do you think?
- What advice have you given to your children or grandchildren regarding finding their spouse?
- Any advice would you give today that is different than what you gave in the past?
- What advice do you wish someone would have given to you before you chose your spouse?

The lesson, in the green section, points us to 2 Corinthians 6:14 about not being yoked together with unbelievers. What are your thoughts on this?

Is it enough for a potential spouse to believe in Jesus, to have been genuinely converted to Christ? Or is something more required than this in order for two individuals to be equally yoked as God intends? Would the level of maturity of the converted Christian matter?

Can a person genuinely be converted to Christ but still be immature in the things of God, perhaps approach their Christianity from a rule-keeping perspective, very much like a child who seeks to be a very good little boy or girl. They want to know the rules and they want to keep them—they don't have any interest in why, they just want to know what to do in order to be good, to get a gold star, to avoid getting sin registered in their record, and to avoid getting punished.

Now, is the attitude, the desire to be good, to be obedient, to have mommy and daddy say "well done" evil, sinful, or wrong? Not at all, it shows the child's heart is rightly aligned with the parents. This is a converted Christian, they want to please God, they are not in rebellion—so they would meet the qualification of being a believer. But would such a person make a good spouse? Not likely, not until they grow up. Perhaps two people at that same level of maturity could marry and then in humble faith grow together as the Holy Spirit leads.

But what happens to children who are eager to obey as children, as they grow up if they never discover the reason for the rules? What happens to Christians who as newborn babes in Christ are eager to know the rules and obey, if they never grow up but stay stuck in rule-keeping?

And what if you are mature in your Christian walk, above the level of the child that Hebrews five describes, and marry a genuine believer that is immature, someone who is at the rule-keeping level? Wouldn't that almost certainly result in problems?

Can you think of one of God's design laws that is perhaps the most important when it comes to establishing healthy partner relationships? Certainly love—but what about the law of liberty?

What happens in a relationship when liberty is violated? And could an immature Christian, one who wants to please God, but hasn't yet grown beyond the rules, have a motive of love for God and their spouse, but then sees their spouse breaking one of the rules and think that the spouse is sinning, so because they love their spouse they seek to get their spouse to comply? And what happens if the spouse who broke a rule doesn't agree that their behavior was a sin? Will the love and concern of the rule-keeping spouse prevent the damage if they seek to pressure and force compliance?

What other elements are important in finding a life partner?

- Healthy relationships require healthy people—so instead of asking God to help you find the right partner, ask God to help you become the right person for the partner He knows is best for you.
- Not just Christians, but of similar maturity and similar practice, vision, goals, and calling. It would be a poor match if a person who was called by God to third world mission field married a person who was called by God to lead cancer research.
- Similar lifestyle patterns—i.e. an outdoor camping enthusiast would not do well with an indoor bookworm.
- Compatible IQ—if the difference is too great then they have little in common to talk about
- Do they live God's design laws in governance of self and how they treat others?

THURSDAY

The lesson focuses on seeking godly counsel—what does this mean to you?

I think this is very wise counsel, but what is the danger in this?

Because it is absolutely true that we want godly counsel and not worldly counsel, but how do we know the person we are seeking for godly counsel actually knows God?

- Are we supposed to surrender our decision-making to those from whom we seek counsel?
- What if they are the pastor, or conference president?
- Does a pastor necessarily have better counsel that the church janitor?
- What determines if the counsel is godly or not? Does authority of office?
- Does the view of God one holds impact the counsel they give?
- How about if a person is a Christian of another denomination—can they give godly counsel? Would the quality of the counsel be determined by the denomination a person belongs to?
- What standard do you use when you give godly counsel?
- Would a list of rules from the Bible be a good basis for godly counsel?
- What about application of God's design law principles?
- If we are following God's plan will we apply principles the same in all circumstances?

TUESDAY

The lesson states in the third paragraph:

> The children who are brought into the world during this segment of life are called "a heritage from the LORD" (Ps. 127:3, NKJV). We must remember that children bring with them an awesome responsibility. The goal of Christian parents is to train their children to become independent adults in this life and to fit them for the life to come. Here are three points to help parents (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 67).

And then the lesson lists these three:

1. Provide a Christian home environment.
2. Teach children a willingness to work and an appreciate for it.
3. Help with a good education.

Do you disagree with any of these? I think these are excellent and I agree with them, yet something struck me as I read this. I remembered multiple people with whom I grew up, and with whom I attended Christian school, and spent time in their homes and saw their parents do these things—yet they have left the church. I know of families where every child in the home where these things were done left the church.

What happened? How can parents:

1. Provide a Christian home environment.
2. Teach children a willingness to work and an appreciate for it.
3. Help with a good education.

And the children leave?

Now we need to be very clear here, before we explore this further, even with perfection—God parenting Lucifer and Adam and Eve, free-will beings can still choose to rebel. So, a child in rebellion is NOT evidence of poor parenting.

But does that mean there are not methods with higher likelihood of a positive impact and methods with a higher likelihood of a negative impact?

Can you think of any? And to be sure some of these change with age, time, place, situation. One might employ any of these in a particular place, but I am specifically thinking of the general rule, practice, and method across the landscape of parenting the child, not in emergencies.

- Do it because I said so
- Obey because the Bible says so
- Good is determined by how well you obey
- Rule-keeping as a measure of righteousness
- God is the source of inflicted punishment for sin

- Sin is doing bad things and requires punishment
- Forgiveness is getting our sins pardoned by accepting the blood payment of Jesus
- Jesus is in heaven pleading to the Father to protect us from His wrath
- God sends His angels to watch over you, but if you go into a movie theater you guardian angel will stay outside, but the recording angel will go in and record your sin
- You can't go out to eat on Sabbath, but you can work in the church-school cafeteria on Sabbath and get paid as long as the money goes to pay for your Christian education, but you can't use the money for anything else. And you can't get a job in a local restaurant on Sabbath to earn money for school, even though the tips will result in three times the income from the cafeteria and you will only have to work one Sabbath instead of three each month to pay for your tuition.

Could God be presented to children in such a way that He is not friendly, and worse, He isn't even rational, but comes across as capricious, arbitrary, and even mean and untrustworthy?

Now, does that mean there is no place for parental rules, or church standards, or teaching our children by setting of rules?

Consider how you taught your children to brush their teeth, or not play in the street? Was there a time you had a rule? Was there a time you had to oversee and enforce that rule? And was there a time you didn't have to do that anymore? Why not?

What is different about our rules for bushing teeth and playing in the street and our religious rules?

If God's laws are design laws, then won't the same methods of teaching apply?

But wouldn't that require that WE KNOW why there are rules? And if we have never learned why we brush our teeth, and only do it because good people do and bad people don't, then we will be able to help our children learn why?

So, why do we do what we do as Christians?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson in the second paragraph brings out an excellent point:

> God calls His children to a higher standard in work and life. That standard is God's law written in our hearts (see Jer. 31:33) and reflected in our characters. As society erodes and Christian teaching is diluted and minimized, it will become even more important for the individual Christian to live and work on a level that is above reproach. The Bible says, "A good name is to be chosen rather than great riches, loving favor rather than silver and gold" (Prov. 22:1, NKJV). (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 68).

One of Satan's strategies is to get us to take our focus off of Christ and focus on the world and its standards, to tempt us to think that if everyone else is giving bribes to the city inspector we will need to bribe them also if we want to have our business succeed. But the lesson is correct. We are responsible for governance of ourselves. We are not responsible for:

- How others govern themselves
- What others think of us
- How things turn out

Many people I see in my practice forget this and get caught up into frustration, anger, or jealousy when they see others cheating. Or they get very upset if others accuse them or think badly of them, and rather than simply doing in governance of self what is right, rather than simply being the most Christlike person they can be, instead they focus on persuading others' view of them. And many rather than focusing on making the wisest choice they prayerfully can in humble openness to God's leading and then trusting God with how it turns out, instead seek to make things turn out a certain way they believe is best.

MONDAY

The lesson explores the benefits of work. What do you think?

Human beings were created in the image of God. He is the Creator, and, therefore, we are designed to be creators in our own sphere. We are built to be industrious, creative, builders, designers, and workers!

When we engage ourselves in activities that are productive, whether they result in an income or not, we experience joy, fulfillment, and expansion in our abilities. We grow healthier and more capable as we apply ourselves and expend our energies to useful outlets.

Regular work has multiple benefits:

- Improved self-esteem, from actual accomplishment and achievement
- Better physical health, from increased physical activity and the reduced firing stress pathways as we experience satisfaction with completing tasks, or fulfilling our life goals, aspirations, and dreams. Additionally, physical activity produces factors in the brain that causes the neurons to stay healthy, improves the ability of neurons to make new connections, thus improving learning and reducing the risk of dementia as we age.
- Development of our brain circuits that control physical movement, which in turn improves our thinking and reasoning. When we engage in physical activity, the striatal pathways in our brain, that initiate motor movement, develop, but these pathways not only initiate physical movement, they also initiate thinking, so as we develop and use these pathways, we improve our ability to initiate thoughts. The cerebellum, which is involved in making our physical movements smooth and coordinated, also helps smooth and coordinate our thoughts. Thus, when we stay physically active, we ultimately improve our thinking processes.

- Blesses and benefits those around us. As we engage in useful activity, it results in blessings in our environment, whether we are creating works of art or music to brighten the heart, or are mopping, vacuuming, and picking up trash to create clean environments, or growing food, all useful activity blesses those around us.
- Reduces burdens on others. By staying active, we reduce the likelihood of our own disability and the need for others to care for us.
- Harmonizes with the law of love, which is the principle of giving. The more we give, the more we receive. In a community, active people are constantly blessing those around them, while simultaneously being blessed from others. We receive benefits of electricity, clean air, water, emergency services, road crews that keep the roads clear, and so much more from people we will most likely never meet.
- Reduces the opportunity for temptation. This is perhaps one of the greatest benefits of useful work. Any time spent in usefulness not only produces all the blessings above, but is time unavailable for engagement in destructive and harmful activities. You've heard the old saying, "Idle hands are the devil's workshop." When we are not engaged in useful activities, we are more vulnerable to temptations that result in harm to ourselves and others.

When we divert our energy, our mind, and abilities away from useful work—activities that may or may not generate income, but are beneficial (housework, lawn care, gardening, sewing, painting, sculpting, building, writing, playing musical instruments, drawing, developing systems or programs of education, parenting, coaching, and so many more)—and instead use the majority of our energies on entertainments, diversions, and indulgences (video games, TV, amusement parks, playing games), we undermine our physical and mental well-being. We become internally restless, lose our sense of peace, and often look for actions to change our feeling state, too frequently in alcohol or other substances, or more entertainment and avoidance of real-life responsibilities.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

New Billboard Resource: In response to requests from our listeners, we are designing billboards with various themed slogans, each one to be released periodically. They will be released in sets that have the same slogan with different layouts and images. These are available for anyone who would like to download and use them in their community. Come and Reason Ministries is not, at this time, planning on purchasing billboard space, but we are making these available for those who want to put billboards up in their community. 2023 1Q Managing for the Master Till He Comes—Lesson 9
Beware of Covetousness

by Mark Cox

SABBATH

MEMORY TEXT: "Take heed and beware of covetousness, for one's life does not consist in the abundance of the thing he possess" Luke 12:15 NKJV

The Memory Verse for this lesson is a WARNING! Nothing good comes from coveting! It is also a REMINDER! The purpose of our life / the meaning of our existence, is more important then having what we think we need, want or desire.

As we will see in our lesson the cause and effect of coveting is full of heartache, pain, suffering, death and destruction. Nothing but DISASTER comes from the heart bent on coveting.

And yet it is so commonly human that we have to be WARNED again and a again to avoid it! And REMINDED over and over that there is meaning in life beyond what we posses.

> Everywhere its slimy track is seen. It creates discontent and dissension in families; it excites envy and hatred in the poor against the rich; it prompts the grinding oppression of the rich toward the poor. And this evil exists not in the world alone, but in the church. How common even here to find selfishness, avarice, overreaching, neglect of charities, and robbery of God "in tithes and offerings." PP 497.1

THOU SHALT NOT COVET
It is God's Tenth Commandment

> "You shall not covet your neighbor's house. You shall not covet your neighbor's wife, or his male or female servant, his ox or donkey, or anything that belongs to your neighbor." Exodus 20:17 NIV

The Tenth Commandment is unique, because coveting, is more specifically, not as selfish behavior, but selfish thoughts and emotions. Allowing the heart and mind to obsess over needing, wanting or desiring something that is not ours to have, or that belongs to someone else, like Wealth / Power, Position or Possessions. The tenth commandment, stop coveting, means don't even THINK about it! ——Stop it!

Think about What We Think

> 3For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. 4The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to > demolish strongholds. 5We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. 6And we will be ready to punish every act of disobedience, once your obedience is complete. 2 Corinthians 10:3-6

No One's Gonna Know / Who's Gonna Know…what you are thinking and feeling until it reveals itself. The danger of coveting is you may not be found out till it is too late. Thus the WARNING! Take responsibility of thoughts and emotions or reap the consequences of unrestrained random thoughts.

Provoking Thought: A young married woman raises the question to a man she had become fond of. "If you commit to one person in marriage, is it possible to have thoughts and feelings for another person?" The wise man gives her this answer, "When you commit to one person, you won't allow yourself to have thoughts and feeling for another."

Metaphor of Conception that gives Birth to Death.

> 14 but each person is tempted when they are dragged away by their own evil desire and enticed. 15 Then, after desire has conceived, it gives birth to sin; and sin, when it is full-grown, gives birth to death. James 1:14-15 NIV

Coveting is not the kind of sin you would say is "as bad as" other sins. No! This is the ultimate disaster with Immediate, Short Term and Long Term Consequences in relationship with our fellow man and for eternity.

We can recover from disaster, however, the danger of coveting is that the damage to the heart and mind might be so severe that recovery is impossible. The disease incurable. The sin unpardonable.

IF GOD DIDN'T POINT IT OUT - We would be unaware of our own condition

> 7 I would not have known what evil and selfishness looked like if it wasn't for the diagnostic efficacy of the law. I would not have realized that coveting was evil and selfish if the law didn't say, "Don't covet." 8 But selfishness, taking advantage of the fact that the law is only a diagnostic instrument—and not a Remedy—magnified every covetous desire within me. For apart from the diagnostic ability of the law, sin is unrecognizable. 9 Once I thought I was healthy and free from the infection of distrust, fear and selfishness, but then the commandment examined me, exposed how utterly infected I was, and diagnosed me as terminal. Romans 7:7-9 Remedy

*Recommend reading Romans 7 & 8 in The Remedy for a more detailed discourse of the Ten Commandments - God's Intervention, to diagnoses and remedy for our condition.

THE SINFUL HUMAN CONDITION - Self-destructive - Creatures of Habit

> "He acts on the principles to which he has accustomed himself. Thus actions repeated for habits, habit form character, and by the character our destiny for time and eternity is decided." COL 356.2

SINS - Fear and Selfishness in our Character - Moral Failure. Behavior, Thoughts and Emotions.

> "16 If anyone sees his brother sinning a sin which does not lead to death, he will ask, and He will give him life for those who commit sin not leading to death. There is sin leading to death. I do not say that he should pray about that. 17 All unrighteousness is sin, and there is sin not leading to death." 1 John 5:16-17

TRANSGRESSION - Fear and Selfishness in our Relationships - Violating Trust with God and Others or even Self - ie. We can lie to God, others and ourselves. John says,

> "Sin is the transgression of the law" [The Law of Love] 1 John 3:4 "Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind.' 38 This is the first and greatest commandment. 39 And the second is like it: 'Love your neighbor as yourself.'" Matthew 22:37-39

INIQUITY - Fear and Selfishness in our Community/Society/Life Style - Wickedness abounds. There is no room for good. Crooked is normal. Bent is the new straight.

> "Woe to those who call evil good, and good evil; Who put darkness for light, and light for darkness; Who put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter!" Isaiah 5:20 The wicked are destroyed "because they did not love the truth and thus be saved." 2 Thes 2:10.

> 6 "…The Lord, the Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abounding in goodness and truth, 7 keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving INIQUITY and TRANSGRESSION and SIN, by no means clearing the guilty, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children and the children's children to the third and the fourth generation." Exodus 34:6-7 NKJV

For God so loved the work that he gave his son Jesus Christ - Gods heart towards us is Love and Forgiveness, but our hearts are distrustful because of lies believed about God, we become fearful and selfish - But Jesus restores us back to a right relationship God through Truth and Love and heals our Characters, Relationships and Communities.

God was in Christ reconciling the world to Himself, 2 Corinthians 5:19

THE LESSON - Four Stories - Four Tragic Ending.

1. Lucifer
2. Achan
3. Judas
4. Ananias & Sapphira

We are warned, "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." Matthew 6:24. "Take heed, and beware of covetousness." Luke 12:15. "Let it not be once named among you." Ephesians 5:3.

> We have before us the fearful doom of Achan, of Judas, of Ananias and Sapphira. Back of all these we have that of Lucifer, the "son of the morning," who, coveting a higher state, forfeited forever the brightness and bliss of heaven. And yet, notwithstanding all these warnings, covetousness abounds. – PP 496.4

No Good Ending for our characters! Which begs the question, "Where's the Gospel in the Story? Where's the Good News?"

The Gospel in each of these stories is the revelation of God character of Love. Each story we see God's principles and methods to save, not just humanity, but angels and unfallen worlds. In our four stories we will see God save the Heavenly Universe, the Nation of Israel, the Disciples, and the Church.

> The last rays of merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is the revelation of His character of love." Christ's Object Lessons, p.415.3

The Healing Metaphor - The Good Physician intervenes, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abounding in goodness and truth, Diagnoses the Human Condition and offers the Remedy. The Remedy continually rejected, the carnal heart unrestrained, the Condition intensifies until the infection becomes incurable. The last resort is Surgery. Remove the infected flesh before the whole body dies. Surgery is both good news and bad news. Because the Remedy was rejected we can save the body but we can't save the member of body.

> We cannot know how much we owe to Christ for the peace and protection which we enjoy. It is the restraining power of God that prevents mankind from passing fully under the control of Satan.....God does not stand toward the sinner as an executioner of the sentence against transgression; but He leaves the rejectors of His mercy to themselves, to reap that which they have sown. Every ray of light rejected, every warning despised or unheeded, every passion indulged, every transgression of the law of God, is a seed sown which yields its unfailing harvest. The Spirit of God, persistently resisted, is at last withdrawn from the sinner, and then there is left no power to control the evil passions of the soul, and no protection from the malice and enmity of Satan..... – GC 36.1

SUNDAY

The Ultimate Original Sin

The Perspective is a Cosmic View - Lucifer, Jesus and the Heavenly Universe

The Responsibility - God surgically removes covetousness from the Heavenly Universe.

Post Surgery - The Good News is the Heavenly Universe is saved. The Bad News is the terrible loss of Lucifer, his Angels and all who habitually reject the Remedy and following Lucifer's principles and methods.

What do we know about the story?

> 7 And war broke out in heaven: Michael and his angels fought with the dragon; and the dragon and his angels fought, 8 but they did not prevail, nor was a place found for them in heaven any longer. 9 So the great dragon was cast out, that serpent of old, called the Devil and Satan, who deceives the whole world; he was cast to the earth, and his angels were cast out with him. Revelation 12:7-9 NKJV

Lucifer coveting in the society of Heaven

> "Not content with his position, though honored above the heavenly host, he ventured to covet homage due alone to the Creator. Instead of seeking to make God supreme in the affections and allegiance of all created beings, it was his endeavor to secure their service and loyalty to himself. And coveting the glory with which the infinite Father had invested His Son, this prince of angels aspired to power that was the prerogative of Christ alone."
> Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 35 Introduction "Why was Sin Permitted"

> "God in His great mercy bore long with Lucifer. He was not immediately degraded from his exalted station when he first indulged the spirit of discontent, nor even when he began to present his false claims before the loyal angels. Long was he retained in heaven. Again and again he was offered pardon on condition of repentance and submission. Such efforts as only infinite love and wisdom could devise were made to convince him of his error. The spirit of discontent had never before been known in heaven. Lucifer himself did not at first see whither he was drifting; he did not understand the real nature of his feelings. But as his dissatisfaction was proved to be without cause, Lucifer was convinced that he was in the wrong, that the divine claims were just, and that he ought to acknowledge them as such before all heaven. Had he done this, he might have saved himself and many angels. He had not at this time fully cast off his allegiance to God. Though he had forsaken his position as covering cherub, yet if he had been willing to return to God, acknowledging the Creator's wisdom, and satisfied to fill the place appointed him in God's great plan, he would have been reinstated in his office. But pride forbade him to submit. He persistently defended his own course, maintained that he had no need of repentance, and fully committed himself, in the great controversy, against his Maker." – GC 495.3 Chapter 29 "The Origin of Evil"

Not until the death of Christ was the character of Satan clearly revealed to the angels or to the unfallen worlds. The archapostate had so clothed himself with deception that even holy beings had not understood his principles. They had not clearly seen the nature of his rebellion.

It was a being of wonderful power and glory that had set himself against God. Of Lucifer the Lord says, "Thou sealest up the sum, full of wisdom, and perfect in beauty." Ezekiel 28:12. Lucifer had been the covering cherub. He had stood in the light of God's presence. He had been the highest of all created beings, and had been foremost in revealing God's purposes to the universe. After he had sinned, his power to deceive was the more deceptive, and the unveiling of his character was the more difficult, because of the exalted position he had held with the Father.

God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power.
It was God's purpose to place things on an eternal basis of security, and in the councils of heaven it was decided that time must be given for Satan to develop the principles which were the foundation of his system of government. He had claimed that these were superior to God's principles. Time was given for the working of Satan's principles, that they might be seen by the heavenly universe. – {DA 759.2}

"How you are fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! How you are cut down to the ground, You who weakened the nations! For you have said in your heart: I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God; I will also sit on the mount of the congregation on the farthest sides of the north; I will ascend above the heights of the clouds, I will be like the Most High." Isaiah 14:12… NIV

"You were the anointed cherub that covers, and I had put you in the holy height of God where you were; you have walked up and down in the midst of the stones of fire. 15 You were perfect in your ways from the day that you were created, until iniquity was found in you. 16 By the multitude of your goods they have filled your midst with violence, and you have sinned. So I cast you profaned from the height of God, and I destroy you, O covering cherub, from among the stones of fire. 17 Your heart was lifted up because of your beauty; you have spoiled your wisdom because of your brightness. I will cast you to the ground; I will put you before kings, that they may behold you. 18 By the host of your iniquities, by the iniquity of your trade, you have profaned your holy places; so I brought a fire from your midst; it shall devour you, and I will give you for ashes on the earth, before the eyes of all who see you. 19 All who know you among the peoples shall be astonished at you; you shall be terrors, and you will not be forever." Ezekiel 28:12-19 NKJV

Lucifer's principle, Survival of the Fittest, and his methods of lies, compelling force, coercion and manipulation.

Jesus's life principle, Disinterested Benevolence reveals God's Character of Love - and the prevailing power of Truth and Love are his methods.

Jesus meets Lucifer in the wilderness

> "1 Then Jesus was led by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted by the devil. 2 After fasting forty days and forty nights, he was hungry. 3 The tempter came to him and said, "If you are the Son of God, tell these stones to become bread." 4 Jesus answered, "It is written: 'Man shall not live on bread alone, but on every word that comes from the mouth of God.'" 5 Then the devil took him to the holy city and had him stand on the highest point of the temple. 6 "If you are the Son of God," he said, "throw yourself down. For it is written: '"He will command his angels concerning you, > and they will lift you up in their hands, > so that you will not strike your foot against a stone.'"
>
> 7 Jesus answered him, "It is also written: 'Do not put the Lord your God to the test.'" 8 Again, the devil took him to a very high mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their splendor. 9 "All this I will give you," he said, "if you will bow down and worship me."
>
> 10 Jesus said to him, "Away from me, Satan! For it is written: 'Worship the Lord your God, and serve him only.'" 11 Then the devil left him, and angels came and attended him." Matthew 4:1-11.

Satan's fruitless rebellion he imposes on the world.

> "Satanic agencies confederated with evil men in leading the people to believe Christ the chief of sinners, and to make Him the object of detestation. Those who mocked Christ as He hung upon the cross were imbued with the spirit of the first great rebel. He filled them with vile and loathsome speeches. He inspired their taunts. But by all this he gained nothing." – DA 760.4

Jesus plan to save the Heavenly Universe.

> "But the plan of redemption had a yet broader and deeper purpose than the salvation of man. It was not for this alone that Christ came to the earth; it was not merely that the inhabitants of this little world might regard the law of God as it should be regarded; but it was to vindicate the character of God before the universe. To this result of His great sacrifice—its influence upon the intelligences of other worlds, as well as upon man—the Savior looked forward when just before His crucifixion He said: "Now is the judgment of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out. And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all unto Me." John 12:31, 32. The act of Christ in dying for the salvation of man would not only make heaven accessible to men, but before all the universe it would justify God and His Son in their dealing with the rebellion of Satan. It would establish the perpetuity of the law of God and would reveal the nature and the results of sin." – PP 68.2

This is not an act of arbitrary power on the part of God. The rejecters of His mercy reap that which they have sown. God is the fountain of life; and when one chooses the service of sin, he separates from God, and thus cuts himself off from life. He is "alienated from the life of God." Christ says, "All they that hate Me love death." Ephesians 4:18; Proverbs 8:36. God gives them existence for a time that they may develop their character and reveal their principles. This accomplished, they receive the results of their own choice. By a life of rebellion, Satan and all who unite with him place themselves so out of harmony with God that His very presence is to them a consuming fire. The glory of Him who is love will destroy them. – DA 764.1

A life of rebellion against God has unfitted them for heaven. Its purity and peace would be torture to them; the glory of God would be a consuming fire. They would long to flee from that holy place and would welcome destruction, that they might be hidden from the face of Him who died to redeem them. The destiny of the wicked is fixed by their own choice. Their exclusion from heaven is voluntary with themselves, and just and merciful on the part of God. Like the waters of the Flood the fires of the great day declare God's verdict that the wicked are incurable. Their will has been exercised in revolt. When life is ended, it is too late to turn their thoughts from transgression to obedience, from hatred to love. – HF 333.5

While the earth was wrapped in the fire of destruction, the righteous abode safely in the holy city. Upon those that had part in the first resurrection, the second death has no power. [Revelation 20:6; Psalm 84:11.] While God is to the wicked a consuming fire, he is to his people both a Sun and a shield. [Revelation 20:6; Psalm 84:11.] – GC88 673.3

14 The sinners in Zion are terrified;
trembling grips the godless:
"Who of us can dwell with the consuming fire?
Who of us can dwell with everlasting burning?"
15 Those who walk righteously and speak what is right, who reject gain from extortion and keep their hands from accepting bribes, who stop their ears against plots of murder and shut their eyes against contemplating evil
Isaiah 33:14-15 NIV

1 Lord, who may dwell in your sacred tent?
Who may live on your holy mountain?

2 The one whose walk is blameless, who does what is righteous, who speaks the truth from their heart;
3 whose tongue utters no slander, who does no wrong to a neighbor, and casts no slur on others;
4 who despises a vile person
but honors those who fear the Lord; who keeps an oath even when it hurts,
and does not change their mind;
5 who lends money to the poor without interest;
who does not accept a bribe against the innocent.
Whoever does these things will never be shaken.
Psalms 15

The Accursed Thing in the Camp

The Perspective is a World View - Achan, Rahab and the Nation Israel

The Responsibility - God, through Israel, surgically remove covetousness from among them. 'Sanctify yourselves for tomorrow, because thus says the Lord God of Israel: "There is an accursed thing in your midst, O Israel; you cannot stand before your enemies until you take away the accursed thing from among you."

Post Surgery - The Good News is Israel as a nation is saved and their influence as a nations is restored and Rahab and her family are saved by Israel. The Bad News the terrible loss of 36 Israelites at the battle of Ai and Achan and his family stoned and burned.

What do we know about the story?

Human trafficking

> No Israelite woman shall be a cult prostitute, nor shall any Israelite man be a cult prostitute. You shall not bring the fee of a whore or the pay of a dog into the house of the Lord your God in fulfillment of any vow, for both are abhorrent to the Lord your God.—Deuteronomy 23:18-19 NJPS

2 Kings 23:3-10

> "...bring forth out of the temple of the LORD all the vessels that were made for Baal, and for the grove, and for all the host of heaven....And he put down the idolatrous priests...that burned incense unto Baal...he brake down the houses of the sodomites, that were by the house of the LORD, where the women wove hangings for the grove....And he defiled Topheth, which is in the valley of the children of Hinnom, that no man might make his son or his daughter to pass through the fire to Molech."

Ezekiel 23:37-39

> "...Thus they have committed adultery with their idols and even caused their sons, whom they bore to Me, to pass through the fire to them as food. "Again, they have done this to Me: they have defiled My sanctuary on the same day and have profaned My sabbaths. "For when they had slaughtered their children for their idols, they entered My sanctuary on the same day to profane it; and lo, thus they did within My house."

Joshua's encounter with Christ before the Battle of Jericho

> 13 And it came to pass, when Joshua was by Jericho, that he lifted his eyes and looked, and behold, a Man stood opposite him with His sword drawn in His hand. And Joshua went to Him and said to Him, "Are You for us or for our adversaries?"
> 14 So He said, "No, but as Commander of the army of the Lord I have now come."
> And Joshua fell on his face to the earth and worshiped, and said to Him, "What does my Lord say to His servant?"
> 15 Then the Commander of the Lord's army said to Joshua, "Take your sandal off your foot, for the place where you stand is holy." And Joshua did so.

Rahab saves the Israel spies

> 11 And as soon as we heard these things, our hearts melted; neither did there remain any more courage in anyone because of you, for the Lord your God, He is God in heaven above and on earth beneath. 12 Now therefore, I beg you, swear to me by the Lord, since I have shown you kindness, that you also will show kindness to my father's house, and give me a true token, 13 and spare my father, my mother, my brothers, my sisters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death."
>
> 14 So the men answered her, "Our lives for yours, if none of you tell this business of ours. And it shall be, when the Lord has given us the land, that we will deal kindly and truly with you."
> Joshua 2 NKJV

> The advancing hosts of Israel found that knowledge of the mighty workings of the God of the Hebrews had gone before them, and that some among the heathen were learning that He alone was the true God. In wicked Jericho the testimony of a heathen woman was, "The Lord your God, He is God in heaven above, and in earth beneath." Joshua 2:11. The knowledge of Jehovah that had thus come to her, proved her salvation. By faith "Rahab perished not with them that believed not." Hebrews 11:31. And her conversion was not an isolated case of God's mercy toward idolaters who acknowledged His divine authority. In the midst of the land a numerous people—the Gibeonites—renounced their heathenism and united with Israel, sharing in the blessings of the covenant. – PK 369.2

Rules of Engagement

> 17 Now the city shall be doomed by the Lord to destruction, it and all who are in it. Only Rahab the harlot shall live, she and all who are with her in the house, because she hid the messengers that we sent. 18 And you, by all means abstain from the accursed things, lest you become accursed when you take of the accursed things, and make the camp of Israel a curse, and trouble it. 19 But all the silver and gold, and vessels of bronze and iron, are consecrated to the Lord; they shall come into the treasury of the Lord."
> Joshua 6:17-18 NKJV

> 22 But Joshua had said to the two men who had spied out the country, "Go into the harlot's house, and from there bring out the woman and all that she has, as you swore to her." 23 And the young men who had been spies went in and brought out Rahab, her father, her mother, her brothers, and all that she had. So they brought out all her relatives and left them outside the camp of Israel. 24 But they burned the city and all that was in it with fire. Only the silver and gold, and the vessels of bronze and iron, they put into the treasury of the house of the Lord. 25 And Joshua spared Rahab the harlot, her father's household, and all that she had. So she dwells in Israel to this day, because she hid the messengers whom Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.
> Joshua 6:22-25 NKJV

Defeat at Ai

7 But the children of Israel committed a trespass regarding the accursed things, for Achan the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took of the accursed things; so the anger of the Lord burned against the children of Israel.
2 Now Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which is beside Beth Aven, on the east side of Bethel, and spoke to them, saying, "Go up and spy out the country." So the men went up and spied out Ai. 3 And they returned to Joshua and said to him, "Do not let all the people go up, but let about two or three thousand men go up and attack Ai. Do not weary all the people there, for the people of Ai are few." 4 So about three thousand men went up there from the people, but they fled before the men of Ai. 5 And the men of Ai struck down about thirty-six men, for they chased them from before the gate as far as Shebarim, and struck them down on the descent; therefore the hearts of the people melted and became like water.
6 Then Joshua tore his clothes, and fell to the earth on his face before the ark of the Lord until evening, he and the elders of Israel; and they put dust on their heads. 7 And Joshua said, "Alas, Lord God, why have You brought this people over the Jordan at all—to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us? Oh, that we had been content, and dwelt on the other side of the Jordan! 8 O Lord, what shall I say when Israel turns its back before its enemies? 9 For the Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land will hear it, and surround us, and cut off our name from the earth. Then what will You do for Your great name?"

The Sin of Achan

10 So the Lord said to Joshua: "Get up! Why do you lie thus on your face? 11 Israel has sinned, and they have also transgressed My covenant which I commanded them. For they have even taken some of the accursed things, and have both stolen and deceived; and they have also put it among their own stuff. 12 Therefore the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, because they have become doomed to destruction. Neither will I be with you anymore, unless you destroy the accursed from among you. 13 Get up, sanctify the people, and say, 'Sanctify yourselves for tomorrow, because thus says the Lord God of Israel: "There is an accursed thing in your midst, O Israel; you cannot stand before your enemies until you take away the accursed thing from among you." 14 In the morning therefore you shall be brought according to your tribes. And it shall be that the tribe which the Lord takes shall come according to families; and the family which the Lord takes shall come by households; and the household which the Lord takes shall come man by man. 15 Then it shall be that he who is taken with the accursed thing shall be burned with fire, he and all that he has, because he has transgressed the covenant of the Lord, and because he has done a disgraceful thing in Israel." '
16 So Joshua rose early in the morning and brought Israel by their tribes, and the tribe of Judah was taken. 17 He brought the clan of Judah, and he took the family of the Zarhites; and he brought the family of the Zarhites man by man, and Zabdi was taken. 18 Then he brought his household man by man, and Achan the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, was taken.

19 Now Joshua said to Achan, "My son, I beg you, give glory to the Lord God of Israel, and make confession to Him, and tell me now what you have done; do not hide it from me."
20 And Achan answered Joshua and said, "Indeed I have sinned against the Lord God of Israel, and this is what I have done: 21 When I saw among the spoils a beautiful Babylonian garment, two hundred shekels of silver, and a wedge of gold weighing fifty shekels, I coveted them and took them. And there they are, hidden in the earth in the midst of my tent, with the silver under it."
22 So Joshua sent messengers, and they ran to the tent; and there it was, hidden in his tent, with the silver under it. 23 And they took them from the midst of the tent, brought them to Joshua and to all the children of Israel, and laid them out before the Lord. 24 Then Joshua, and all Israel with him, took Achan the son of Zerah, the silver, the garment, the wedge of gold, his sons, his daughters, his oxen, his donkeys, his sheep, his tent, and all that he had, and they brought them to the Valley of Achor. 25 And Joshua said, "Why have you troubled us? The Lord will trouble you this day." So all Israel stoned him with stones; and they burned them with fire after they had stoned them with stones.
26 Then they raised over him a great heap of stones, still there to this day. So the Lord turned from the fierceness of His anger. Therefore the name of that place has been called the Valley of Achor to this day.

The Heart of Judas -

The Perspective is the Soul View - Judas, Mary and the Disciples.

The Responsibility - Jesus surgically removes coveting from among the Disciples. Man among men.

Post Operation: The Good News, the Disciples of Christ saved from the poison of covetousness. The Bad News, Judas commits suicide.

What do we know about the Story

Judas loves money, dips into the purse for his own benefit,

Judas sees Jesus as a self-help guru and way to improve his status - easily parts company.

Mary sees Jesus as the savior of her soul and cannot live without him.

> The history of Judas presents the sad ending of a life that might have been honored of God. Had Judas died before his last journey to Jerusalem he would have been regarded as a man worthy of a place among the twelve, and one who would be greatly missed. The abhorrence which has followed him through the centuries would not have existed but for the attributes revealed at the close of his history. But it was for a purpose that his character was laid open to the world. It was to be a warning to all who, like him, should betray sacred trusts.

Judas had naturally a strong love for money; but he had not always been corrupt enough to do such a deed as this. He had fostered the evil spirit of avarice until it had become the ruling motive of his life. The love of mammon overbalanced his love for Christ. Through becoming the slave of one vice he gave himself to Satan, to be driven to any lengths in sin.

Judas was highly regarded by the disciples, and had great influence over them. He himself had a high opinion of his own qualifications, and looked upon his brethren as greatly inferior to him in judgment and ability. They did not see their opportunities, he thought, and take advantage of circumstances. The church would never prosper with such shortsighted men as leaders. Peter was impetuous; he would move without consideration. John, who was treasuring up the truths that fell from Christ's lips, was looked upon by Judas as a poor financier. Matthew, whose training had taught him accuracy in all things, was very particular in regard to honesty, and he was ever contemplating the words of Christ, and became so absorbed in them that, as Judas thought, he could not be trusted to do sharp, far-seeing business. Thus Judas summed up all the disciples, and flattered himself that the church would often be brought into perplexity and embarrassment if it were not for his ability as a manager. Judas regarded himself as the capable one, who could not be overreached. In his own estimation he was an honor to the cause, and as such he always represented himself.

Judas was blinded to his own weakness of character, and Christ placed him where he would have an opportunity to see and correct this. As treasurer for the disciples, he was called upon to provide for the needs of the little company, and to relieve the necessities of the poor. When in the Passover chamber Jesus said to him, "That thou doest, do quickly" (John 13:27), the disciples thought He had bidden him buy what was needed for the feast, or give something to the poor. In ministering to others, Judas might have developed an unselfish spirit. But while listening daily to the lessons of Christ and witnessing His unselfish life, Judas indulged his covetous disposition. The small sums that came into his hands were a continual temptation. Often when he did a little service for Christ, or devoted time to religious purposes, he paid himself out of this meager fund. In his own eyes these pretexts served to excuse his action; but in God's sight he was a thief.

Christ's oft-repeated statement that His kingdom was not of this world offended Judas. He had marked out a line upon which he expected Christ to work. He had planned that John the Baptist should be delivered from prison. But lo, John was left to be beheaded. And Jesus, instead of asserting His royal right and avenging the death of John, retired with His disciples into a country place. Judas wanted more aggressive warfare. He thought that if Jesus would not prevent the disciples from carrying out their schemes, the work would be more successful. He marked the increasing enmity of the Jewish leaders, and saw their challenge unheeded when they demanded from Christ a sign from heaven. His heart was open to unbelief, and the enemy supplied thoughts of questioning and rebellion. Why did Jesus dwell so much upon that which was discouraging? Why did He predict trial and persecution for Himself and for His disciples? The prospect of having a high place in the new kingdom had led Judas to espouse the cause of Christ. Were his hopes to be disappointed? Judas had not decided that Jesus was not the Son of God; but he was questioning, and seeking to find some explanation of His mighty works.

Notwithstanding the Saviour's own teaching, Judas was continually advancing the idea that Christ would reign as king in Jerusalem. At the feeding of the five thousand he tried to bring this about. On this occasion Judas assisted in distributing the food to the hungry multitude. He had an opportunity to see the benefit which it was in his power to impart to others. He felt the satisfaction that always comes in service to God. He helped to bring the sick and suffering from among the multitude to Christ. He saw what relief, what joy and gladness, come to human hearts through the healing power of the Restorer. He might have comprehended the methods of Christ. But he was blinded by his own selfish desires. Judas was first to take advantage of the enthusiasm excited by the miracle of the loaves. It was he who set on foot the project to take Christ by force and make Him king. His hopes were high. His disappointment was bitter.

Christ's discourse in the synagogue concerning the bread of life was the turning point in the history of Judas. He heard the words, "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink His blood, ye have no life in you." John 6:53. He saw that Christ was offering spiritual rather than worldly good. He regarded himself as farsighted, and thought he could see that Jesus would have no honor, and that He could bestow no high position upon His followers. He determined not to unite himself so closely to Christ but that he could draw away. He would watch. And he did watch. – {DA 716 - 719}

To put this picture together I used,

Matthew 26:6-13;
Mark 14:3-11
Luke 7:36-50
John 12:1-11
Desire of Ages - the chapter entitled - The Feast at Simons house
2SP CHAPTER 32 - Mary's offering

Let's put the story together.

JESUS - God, Savior, Best friend to Lazarus, Martha and Mary
SIMON - Pharisee, Leper healed by Jesus,
JUDAS - Simons son and cousin to Mary - Disciple, Thief and betrayer. Embarrassed , revengeful - sold Jesus 30 pieces
JEWS / PHARISEES, RABBIS - Planning to murder Jesus and Lazarus
LAZARUS, MARTHA, MARY- BROTHER and SISTER, FRIEND of Jesus, COUSIN to Judas. Simon was their UNCLE.
Lazarus- raised from the dead.
Martha - always serving

Mary - It was Mary who sat at His feet and loved to learn of Him , Mary was the Women caught in adultery - probably the first time Jesus met her and probably how Jesus became acquainted with Lazarus and Martha. Being at Jesus feet was a special for Mary. It at Jesus feet Mary cast and condemned of sin - by self righteous men. It wasn't until it was all quiet that Mary began to look up - and the first thing she saw were Jesus Feet.
Mary was a Prostitute - how she became a Prostitute is interesting - Led into sin by uncle Simon, Jesus cast out Seven devils,.

It was Mary who poured upon Jesus/God head/feet the precious anointing oil, she bought with her own money at great price - money earned from prostitution - some of the money was earned from religious leaders
Mary bathed His feet with her tears.
Mary stood beside the cross, and followed Him to the sepulcher.
Mary was first at the tomb after His resurrection.
It was Mary who first proclaimed a risen Saviour

Incest / Rape

> As did Nathan with David, Christ concealed His home thrust under the veil of a parable. He threw upon His host the burden of pronouncing sentence upon himself. Simon had led into sin the woman he now despised. She had been deeply wronged by him. By the two debtors of the parable, Simon and the woman were represented. Jesus did not design to teach that different degrees of obligation should be felt by the two persons, for each owed a debt of gratitude that never could be repaid. But Simon felt himself more righteous than Mary and Jesus desired him to see how great his guilt really was. He would show him that his sin was greater than hers, as much greater as a debt of five hundred pence exceeds a debt of fifty pence. – DA 566.5

Judas Heart Exposed at His Father's House - Simon the Leper

> 1Six days before the Passover, Jesus came to Bethany, where Lazarus lived, whom Jesus had raised from the dead. 2Here a dinner was given in Jesus 'honor. Martha served, while Lazarus was among those reclining at the table with him. 3Then Mary took about a pint of pure nard, an expensive perfume; she poured it on Jesus 'feet and wiped his feet with her hair. And the house was filled with the fragrance of the perfume.
>
> 4But one of his disciples, Judas Iscariot, who was later to betray him, objected, 5"Why wasn't this perfume sold and the money given to the poor? It was worth a year's wages." 6He did not say this because he cared about the poor but because he was a thief; as keeper of the money bag, he used to help himself to what was put into it.
>
> 7 "Leave her alone," Jesus replied. "It was intended that she should save this perfume for the day of my burial. 8You will always have the poor among you, but you will not always have me." John 12:1-8 NIV

3 Then Judas, His betrayer, seeing that He had been condemned, was remorseful and brought back the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders, 4 saying, "I have sinned by betraying innocent blood."

And they said, "What is that to us? You see to it!"
5 Then he threw down the pieces of silver in the temple and departed, and went and hanged himself. Matthew 27 NKJV

15 And in those days Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples (altogether the number of names was about a hundred and twenty), and said, 16 "Men and brethren, this Scripture had to be fulfilled, which the Holy Spirit spoke before by the mouth of David concerning Judas, who became a guide to those who arrested Jesus; 17 for he was numbered with us and obtained a part in this ministry."
18 (Now this man purchased a field with the wages of iniquity; and falling headlong, he burst open in the middle and all his entrails gushed out. 19 And it became known to all those dwelling in Jerusalem; so that field is called in their own language, Akel Dama, that is, Field of Blood.)
20 "For it is written in the Book of Psalms:
'Let his dwelling place be desolate,
And let no one live in it';
and,
'Let another take his office.'
Acts 1 NKJV

WEDNESDAY

Ananias and Sapphira

The Perspective is a Church View - Ananias and Sapphira, Jose's/Barnabas and the Church.

Responsibility - God, through the church, surgically removes covetousness from among its members.

Post Operation: The Good News, God saves the church from covetousness and becoming corrupted by persecution. The Bad News, Ananias and Sapphira - Sudden Death!

What do we know about the story?

Joses/Barnabas - Moved by the Holy Spirit sold his land and gave freely.

Ananias and Sapphira - Coveting position and money - sold their land and regretted it, hold back money and lie to the Holy Spirit > 1Now a man named Ananias, together with his wife Sapphira, also sold a piece of property.

> 2With his wife's full knowledge he kept back part of the money for himself, but brought the rest and put it at the apostles 'feet.
> 3Then Peter said, "Ananias, how is it that Satan has so filled your heart that you have lied to the Holy Spirit and have kept for yourself some of the money you received for the land?
> 4Didn't it belong to you before it was sold? And after it was sold, wasn't the money at your disposal? What made you think of doing such a thing? You have not lied just to human beings but to God."
> 5When Ananias heard this, he fell down and died. And great fear seized all who heard what had happened. 6Then some young men came forward, wrapped up his body, and carried him out and buried him.
>
> 7About three hours later his wife came in, not knowing what had happened. 8Peter asked her, "Tell me, is this the price you and Ananias got for the land?"
> "Yes," she said, "that is the price."
>
> 9Peter said to her, "How could you conspire to test the Spirit of the Lord? Listen! The feet of the men who buried your husband are at the door, and they will carry you out also."
> 10At that moment she fell down at his feet and died. Then the young men came in and, finding her dead, carried her out and buried her beside her husband. 11Great fear seized the whole church and all who heard about these events. Acts 5:1-11 NIV

Recommend reading Tim's Blog - "The Sword of God"

The following are some excerpt of Tim's Blog. Emphasis provided.

Consider the following verse:

> Revelation 19:19-21 Then I saw the beast and the kings of the earth and their armies gathered together to make war against the rider on the horse and his army. But the beast was captured, and with him the false prophet who had performed the miraculous signs on his behalf. With these signs he had deluded those who had received the mark of the beast and worshiped his image. The two of them were thrown alive into the fiery lake of burning sulfur. The rest of them were killed with the sword that came out of the mouth of the rider on the horse, and all the birds gorged themselves on their flesh.

Notice the sword is coming out of the rider's mouth – the Rider is Christ, do you think He will have a large piece of metal sticking out of His mouth when He returns? No, what comes out of a person's mouth? Words and what kind of words does Christ always speak? Truth! Therefore, the sword is symbolic of the truth. "The word of God is living and active. Sharper than any double-edged sword, it penetrates even to dividing soul and spirit, joints and marrow; it judges the thoughts and attitudes of the heart." Hebrews 4:12

The wicked are destroyed "because they did not love the truth and thus be saved." 2 Thes 2:10. In other words the wicked have hardened their minds in lies, solidified their characters in falsehood, warped their selves in deception and the sword of God is the truth that cuts through their lies right to their inner self.

When people sin they are convicted with guilt, this is the work of the Holy Spirit. No one likes guilt and we all want it to go away. There are only two ways to resolve appropriate guilt, God's way – repentance and restoration and reconciliation. And Satan's way, lies, denial, distortion, externalization. Adam said after his sin, "It wasn't me. It was that woman you gave me. If she had not brought me the fruit I would have never ate it. Don't blame me, blame her."

This is the hardened condition of all those who have not opened their hearts and minds to the Spirit of Truth here. What will it be like for those who have lived in the darkness of lies to come face to face with infinite truth, truth which can not be denied, truth that cannot be avoided, truth which sears through to their souls? Their minds cannot take it and they die.

THURSDAY

Overcoming Covetousness

Remedy / Cure / Treatment / Surgery

What does life "consist of"?

The spirit of liberality is the spirit of heaven.

> This spirit finds its highest manifestation in Christ's sacrifice on the cross. In our behalf the Father gave His only-begotten Son; and Christ, having given up all that He had, then gave Himself, that man might be saved. The cross of Calvary should appeal to the benevolence of every follower of the Savior. The principle there illustrated is to give, give. "He that saith he abideth in Him ought himself also so to walk, even as He walked." 1 John 2:6. – AA 339.2 On the other hand, the spirit of selfishness is the spirit of Satan. The principle illustrated in the lives of worldlings is to get, get. Thus they hope to secure happiness and ease, but the fruit of their sowing is misery and death. – AA 339.3

God's Remedy for Selfishness and Covetousness

> The giving that is the fruit of self-denial is a wonderful help to the giver. It imparts an education that enables us more fully to comprehend the work of Him who went about doing good, relieving the suffering, and supplying the needs of the destitute. AH 370.3

Constant, self-denying benevolence is God's remedy for the cankering sins of selfishness and covetousness.

> God has arranged systematic benevolence to sustain His cause and relieve the necessities of the suffering and needy. He has ordained that giving should become a habit, that it may counteract the dangerous and deceitful sin of covetousness. Continual giving starves covetousness to death. Systematic benevolence is designed in the order of God to tear away treasures from the covetous as fast as they are gained, and to consecrate them to the Lord, to whom they belong.... AH 370.4

The constant practice of God's plan of systematic benevolence weakens covetousness and strengthens benevolence.

> If riches increase, men, even those professing godliness, set their hearts upon them; and the more they have, the less they give to the treasury of the Lord. Thus riches make men selfish, and hoarding feeds covetousness; and these evils strengthen by active exercise. God knows our danger and has hedged us about with means to prevent our own ruin. He requires the constant exercise of benevolence, that the force of habit in good works may break the force of habit in an opposite direction. AH 371.1

"I came across this lovely anecdote from a book by late Vanguard founder John Bogle. This was an exchange Bogle witnessed at a party given by a billionaire on Shelter Island in New York.
The late novelist Kurt Vonnegut informed his pal, Joseph Heller, that their host, a hedge fund manager, had made more money in a single day than Heller had earned from his wildly popular novel Catch-22 over its whole history.
Heller responded – 'Yes, but I have something he will never have . . . enough.'
Fittingly, John Bogle titled his book 'Enough.'"
Joseph Heller and "Enough"

Be Content in all things

> 4 Rejoice in the Lord always. I will say it again: Rejoice! 5 Let your gentleness be evident to all. The Lord is near. 6 Do not be anxious about anything, but in every situation, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. 7 And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus.
>
> 8 Finally, brothers and sisters, whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable—if anything is excellent or praiseworthy—think about such things. 9 Whatever you have learned or received or heard from me, or seen in me—put it into practice. And the God of peace will be with you.
>
> Thanks for Their Gifts
>
> 10 I rejoiced greatly in the Lord that at last you renewed your concern for me. Indeed, you were concerned, but you had no opportunity to show it. 11 I am not saying this because I am in need, for I have learned to be content whatever the circumstances. 12 I know what it is to be in need, and I know what it is to have plenty. I have learned the secret of being content in any and every situation, whether well fed or hungry, whether living in plenty or in want. 13 I can do all this through him who gives me strength.

We know that the law is good if one uses it properly. We also know that law is made not for the righteous but for lawbreakers and rebels, the ungodly and sinful, the unholy and irreligious; for those who kill their fathers or mothers, for murderers, for adulterers and perverts, for slave traders and liars and perjurers—and for whatever else is contrary to the sound doctrine that conforms to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, which he entrusted to me. 1Timothy 1:9-11

Whosoever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: for sin is the transgression of the law. I John 3:4 [Law of Love]

What, then, was the purpose of the law? It was added because of transgressions until the Seed to whom the promise referred had come… So the law was put in charge to lead us to Christ that we might be justified by faith. Galatians 3:19, 24 [The Ten Commandments]

"I am asked concerning the law in Galatians. What law is the schoolmaster to bring us to Christ? I answer: Both the ceremonial and the moral code of ten commandments." 1SM 233.1

The Jews had forged their own fetters; they had filled for themselves the cup of vengeance. In the utter destruction that befell them as a nation, and in all the woes that followed them in their dispersion, they were but reaping the harvest which their own hands had sown. Says the prophet: "O Israel, thou hast destroyed thyself;" "for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity." Hosea 13:9; 14:1. Their sufferings are often represented as a punishment visited upon them by the direct decree of God. It is thus that the great deceiver seeks to conceal his own work. By stubborn rejection of divine love and mercy, the Jews had caused the protection of God to be withdrawn from them, and Satan was permitted to rule them according to his will. The horrible cruelties enacted in the destruction of Jerusalem are a demonstration of Satan's vindictive power over those who yield to his control. – GC 35.3

"Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap".....Just what took place in Pharaoh's heart will take place in every soul that neglects to cherish the light and walk promptly in its rays. God destroys no one. The sinner destroys himself by his own impenitence..... 5T 120.1

"GOD DESTROYS NO MAN."

COL 84. "The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction;" Gal 6:8. "Evil will slay the wicked." Psalms 34:21.

2023 1Q Managing for the Master Till He Comes—Lesson 10
Giving Back

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

The title of the lesson is Giving Back, and the memory verse is:

> Then I heard a voice from heaven say, "Write: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from now on."
> "Yes," says the Spirit, "they will rest from their labor, for their deeds will follow them." (Revelation 14:13 NIV84).

What do you think this memory verse has to do with Giving Back? The lesson is focusing upon the last years in our lives, retirement and preparing for our deaths, estate planning, legacy planning, what we give back or leave to others when we die.

Read second paragraph:

> As people get older, they almost naturally begin to worry about the future. The most common fears are: dying too soon (before the family is taken care of); living too long (outliving their assets or savings); catastrophic illness (all my resources could go at one time); and mental and/or physical disability (who will take care of me?). (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 80).

I see many patients with anxiety and one of the most common anxieties I see are worries or fears about the future. This is a very human experience that we have all had. Younger people worry about whether they will find a spouse, or get a good job, or have money for college, while older people worry about many of the things listed in the lesson. But we are all tempted to worry about the future.

What is the difference between worrying about the future and wise planning for the future?

Is there a difference between worrying about whether one will be able to support their family in the future and a person who prayerfully plans out what college classes they need to obtain a marketable degree, how they will pay for it, and then daily applies themselves to that plan?

Is there a difference between a person worrying about retirement and one who makes reasonable choices in how they spend and invest their resources today?

What about the people who never worry about the future and therefore never make a plan, never seem to invest themselves in productive living but just assume it will always work out, and often have other family, friends, or even the state provide for them when their irresponsible choices land them in dire circumstances? Is it better to approach life like these people who never seem to worry about the future? Why or why not?

There is a ditch on both sides of the healthy path—on the one side is the person who never considers the consequences of their actions and never seems to plan out their choices. What kind of character do they develop? And then there are the people who are consumed with fears and uncertainties of the future to the point that they seem paralyzed from acting, or at least from ever experiencing joy in this life.

What is the best way to handle fears of the future?

- Step back and reflect on one's duties, choices, responsibilities, and actions today—ask, am I doing what is right, healthy, and reasonable in harmony with my understanding of God's will for my life today? Are there any actions or choices that I could make today that I believe God would have me do, that are healthier, or wiser, or necessary for me to fulfill God's purpose for my life? If so, then make those choices.
    - What we are doing by asking these questions is refocusing the mind away from the future and back on today, refocusing away from what we have no authority or control over onto what we do have authority and control over. The future is unknown, our responsibilities and choices today are not. We are unable to act in the future, we are able to act today. We have no authority over the future, but we are exercise authority over ourselves. So we refocus our attention where God has given us authority to act and that is in governance of self today.
    - We certainly seek God in prayer and ask Him to enlighten us to any choices that He would have us make that is currently outside of our awareness, but having done all of this then…
- We trust God with the outcome, the future.
    - The Bible says: "The just shall live by faith" (Galatians 3:11 KJV)
- We turn the future over to God and let Him take care of it.
- But as we make choices today, we assess the new evidence that comes from those choices and make new choices based on that evidence.
- Example: At a crossroad with no signs or maps or anyone to tell you what is down each road. It is better to make a choice and start down a road, even if it is the wrong road, then to make no choice and never go anywhere. Having made the choice to go down the wrong road along that road new information will be obtained to let you know it isn't the right road and you can reverse course and go down another path.
    - Going to college and not knowing what to major in. Make a choice, take some classes, in experiencing those classes you will either confirm or refute that that major is the right one for you and if you discover that no, you definitely don't want to go down that career path, you make a new choice and change majors.

But what about worrying about mental or physical disabilities? How do we apply what I said to that?

Instead of worrying whether we will be mentally or physically disabled in the future, we step back and inquire: Am I living as healthfully as I can? Am I making choices in governance of myself today that are designed to maintain my spirit temple (body) to the best degree possible. Do I make healthy choices in food, exercise, study, mental stimulation, rest, sleep, relationships, boundaries, and fulfillment of duties?

My book The Aging Brain: Proven Steps to Prevent Dementia and Sharpen Your Mind, goes into great detail on almost every aspect of our lives documenting how our choices today either accelerate aging or slow it, and either contribute to greater likelihood of disability or reduce it, both physical disability and late onset Alzheimer's dementia.

So rather than worry about the future, we examine our lives and make the healthiest and wisest choices we can in the habits and practices of life we engage in today and then trust God with the future.

In fact,

- Chronic worry activates inflammatory pathways that damage the brain and increases both mental and physical disability
- Study of 5000 individuals found that neuroticism—which included feelings of guilt, anger, anxiety, depression—chronic patterns of negative and worried pessimistic thinking—was associated with a greater risk for dementia. In contrast, conscientiousness was shown to be protective against dementia. (Lee-Fay, L., et al., Does Personality Affect Risk for Dementia? A Systematic Review and Meta-Analysis; American Journal of Geriatric Psychiatry. VOL 21, ISSUE 8, P713-728, AUGUST 2013 http://www.ajgponline.org/article/S1064-7481(12)00031-0/fulltext)

So what are some of the choices we can make today that can reduce our risk of mental and physical disability as we age?

Six Keys to maintaining wellness as we age:

- Physical Conditioning
- Mental Stimulation
- Rest—Physical and Mental
- Stress Management
- Anti-inflammatory Diet
- Healthy Spirituality

Exercise

- Older Adults who exercise regularly are 40% less likely to experience disability [1]
- Increased IL-10 and decreased inflammation [2]
  - Exercise improves insulin sensitivity
- Turns on all neurotrophins [3] [4]

- Older persons who exercised saw, over 1yr, 2% growth in hippocampus reversing two years of aging [5]
- Older persons walking 15 min/day decreased AD [6]

Mental Stimulation:

- Mental Stimulation
  - New Learning: Mentally stimulating activities and certain brain-training programs are in the long term associated with lower brain amyloid levels and a decreased risk for AD, as are graduating from college or engaging in life-long learning.[1,2]

Rest—sleep and Sabbath rest:

- 1-2% of body mass
- Uses 20% body energy
- High state of flux
- Many waste products
- During sleep the brain cells contract expelling metabolic waste and increasing clearance from brain, including beta amyloid[2]

- OSA – Cognitive impairments, mood disorders and loss of gray matter which reversed with treatment[1]
- Systemic Metanalysis of over 12,000 articles found
    - breathing related sleep disorders increase risk of all cause dementia, AD, VD[4]
    - Insomnia increases risk of AD[4]
- Benzodiazepines increase memory problems [3]

Here is an interesting quote from one of the founders of the SDA church, did your teachers ever quote this one to you when you were in school?

> Intemperance in study is a species of intoxication, and those who indulge in it, like the drunkard, wander from safe paths and stumble and fall in the darkness. The Lord would have every student bear in mind that the eye must be kept single to the glory of God. He is not to exhaust and waste his physical and mental powers in seeking to acquire all possible knowledge of the sciences, but is to preserve the freshness and vigor of all his powers to engage in the work which the Lord has appointed him in helping souls to find the path of righteousness. Counsels to Parents, Teachers, and Students 405.

There are design laws involved in this. One is the law of exertion, if you want something to get stronger you must exercise it because if you don't use it you lose it. So if you want stronger music skills, language skills, math skills you must study and apply yourself to these fields.

But, the corollary law is the law of restoration, as finite beings once we expend energy we must rest and recover lest be injure ourselves and burn out.

One of Satan's strategies if he cannot get good people to choose evil, is to over tax them with good works to do without adequate rest so that they exhaust and burn out.

This author recognizes this design law and describes its violation, overstudy, in very strong language to convict people of the damage they do to themselves in failing to get adequate mental rest.

Healthy Diet

- 3 distinct nutrient biomarker patterns (NBPs) in blood related to cognitive performance & (MRI) measures of brain aging.
- 2 Diet patterns with favorable cognition and brain volume
  - High in plasma B vitamins (B1, B2, B6, folate, and B12), as well as vitamins C, D, and E (Fruits, Nuts, Grains, Vegetables)
  - High in plasma marine omega-3 fatty acids. (Oily Fish)
- Diet with less favorable cognition and brain volume
  - A diet high trans fat pattern (fast food, junk food)[1]

- After Age 70 the brain shrinks by 0.5% per year
- 1,111 women age 70 no dementia at the beginning of the study
- 8 years later: women with the highest EPA and DHA blood levels at the study's outset had brains that were about two cubic centimeters larger overall than women with the lowest levels.
- Hippocampus was 2.7% larger in women who had fatty acid levels twice as high as the average.
- The analysis adjusted for other factors that could influence the women's brain size, including education, age, other health conditions, smoking and exercise.[1]

Healthy Spirituality

- Meditate on a God of love—12 minutes per day activates anterior cingulate cortex (ACC) calming amygdala, reducing stress cascades. Adults over 65 who did this for 30 days had larger ACC, and the ACC where we experience altruistic love calms amygdala where we experience fear, perfect love casting out fear. This caused reduction in blood pressure and individuals had 30% improvement in memory testing. Newberg, A. How God Changes Our Brain. Ballantine Books, New York. 2009: p.49.

- Adults who volunteer (after accounting for variables such as education, baseline health, smoking, etc.)
- Live longer, have less illness, less disability, less depression, less dementia and live independently longer than those who did not. Post, S. Altruism and Health Perspectives from Empirical Research, Oxford University Press, New York, 2007: p. 22,26).

- REST Gene (Repressor Element 1-Silencing Transcript)
  - Cell Conductor – turning genes on and off
  - Impacts neuronal and brain circuitry development
  - Protects memory circuits—low levels increased risk of dementia
  - Turned off my chronic mental stress
  - Turned on by meditation and healthy spirituality Ashton N, Hye A, Leckey C et al. Plasma REST: A Novel Candidate Biomarker of Alzheimer's Disease Is Modified by Psychological Intervention in an At-Risk Population. Transl Psychiatry. June 6, 2017; 7(6): e1148
- Healthy Spirituality
  - Activates PFC and ACC, calms amygdala, lowers inflammatory response resulting in improved mental and physical health
  - Altruistic activities result in better mental and physical health
  - Reduced anxiety and worry
  - Healthier lifestyle so reduced oxidative stressors
  - Healthier relationships lower stress

We have much we can do in developing and creating habit patterns that promote health, reducing toxic damage to our bodies, slow aging, maintain our vitality and reduce risk of disability. However, we cannot control the future. Once we are doing what we know is healthiest, if we want peace of mind, we must trust God with how things turn out.

Read last third paragraph:

> When commenting on these fears, Ellen G. White wrote: "All these fears originate with Satan. … If they would take the position which God would have them, their last days might be their best and happiest. … They should lay aside anxiety and burdens, and occupy their time as happily as they can, and be ripening up for heaven." — Testimonies for the Church, vol. 1, p. 424. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 80).

Does this make sense? Is it hard to do? What makes it hard to do? Has anything made it easier? How about if we spend more time in thoughtful meditation on the life of Christ?

In light of the science we just reviewed about meditating 12 minutes a day on a God of love and the benefits of doing so, consider this quotation from the book The Desire of Ages which is a book about the life of Christ:

> It would be well for us to spend a thoughtful hour each day in contemplation of the life of Christ. We should take it point by point, and let the imagination grasp each scene, especially the closing ones. As we thus dwell upon His great sacrifice for us, our confidence in Him will be more constant, [what is another name for confidence? Faith!] our love will be quickened, [what does love do to fear?] and we shall be more deeply imbued with His spirit. If we would be saved at last, we must learn the lesson of penitence and humiliation at the foot of the cross. (Desire of Ages 83).

SUNDAY

The lesson asks us to read Luke 12:16-21:

> And he told them this parable: "The ground of a certain rich man produced a good crop. He thought to himself, 'What shall I do? I have no place to store my crops.'
> "Then he said, 'This is what I'll do. I will tear down my barns and build bigger ones, and there I will store all my grain and my goods. And I'll say to myself, "You have plenty of good things laid up for many years. Take life easy; eat, drink and be merry." '
> "But God said to him, 'You fool! This very night your life will be demanded from you. Then who will get what you have prepared for yourself?'
> "This is how it will be with anyone who stores up things for himself but is not rich toward God." (Luke 12:16-21 NIV84)

What is the lesson of this parable? Is the lesson that:

- We should not have any savings accounts or retirement plans or any plans for our future needs?
- Our resources are only to be used on absolute necessities for ourselves, that we are not to take vacations, or spend money on anything that is comforting or a luxury for such spending would be selfish?
- We are not to live selfishly; we are not to ignore the things of God; we are to live to glorify God; but in that godly lifestyle of altruistic living we are certainly to care for self, which includes vacations, and reasonable comforts and spending on maintaining one's wellbeing and health.

Read fourth paragraph,

> The general picture given in the Bible is that a person works and remains productive as long as he or she is able. In fact, it is interesting to note that the authors of the great prophetic books of Daniel and the Revelation were, many believe, both in their 80s when they completed their > work. This was at a time when the average age at death was about 50 years. Ellen G. White published some of her best-known and best-loved books, such as The Desire of Ages, after about age 70. Age, then, as long as we are healthy, should not mean that we stop being productive and, to whatever extent possible, doing some good. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 81).

This is a great paragraph. One of the things that contributes to loss of vitality as we age is the idea that productivity ends at 65, that at 65 we are to retire, quit useful labor, and relax, watch TV, and do very little. Such actions will accelerate aging and death.

Those who remain active and useful maintain their vitality and wellness longer, for it is a law, the law of exertion, that if you want to gain or maintain strength you must exercise the ability for if you don't use it you lose it.

So, while we might retire from a job at 65, we should never ever retire from useful labor, whether in our homes, or in our communities and churches.

- Mindset – does our mindset matter on aging?
  - For as he thinks in his heart, so is he. (Prov 23:7 NKJV)

- Interesting Study:
- 1979 – Men 75 years old
- 1 week at a retreat, no material dated later than 1959
- 1 week they were to pretend it was 1959
- Given ID's with their 55 y/o picture
- Tested before and after: physical strength, posture, perception, vision, cognition, memory.
- Results?
  - In every measure they improved
  - Greater flexibility
  - Better posture
  - Much improved hand strength
  - Eye-sight improved by 10%
  - Memory improved by 10%
  - More than half had improved IQ scores
  - Appeared younger
  - when before and after pictures were shown to random strangers Langer, E. (2009), Counterclockwise: Mindful Health and the Power of Possibility. New York: Ballentine.

How old was Moses when God met him at the bush and called him into ministry? 80! Moses wasn't ready to start his ministry until he was 80 years old. So don't ever think that you are too old to start working for God!

MONDAY

Read second paragraph,

> Not only does life go by quickly, but when you die, you take nothing with you, at least of the material goods that you have accumulated. (Character? That's another story.) "For when he dies he shall carry nothing away" (Ps. 49:17, NKJV), which means that he or she leaves it behind for someone else to get. Who will get it, of course, depends upon what plans are made beforehand. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 82).

The lesson focuses on estate planning. Do you have a will? Have you decided where you want your assets to go?

And this doesn't mean only money, it can mean other resources, like books.

When I was in my residency, I was attending church in Augusta Georgia, and I was teaching a SS class. There was a beautiful elderly lady who loved God who came to my class. A few years later, I had graduated my residency and been transferred to another army base and she passed away. But in her will, she left me her hard bound set of the Conflict of the Ages series. And I read that set through, underlining, marking, writing notes in it and it has been a tremendous blessing to me.

As you consider your estate planning, don't just think about money. Think about people you can bless in other ways.

- Consider writing a letter to key people in your life, sharing with them what they mean to you. Share key points of life's wisdom that you have learned and want to pass along, let them know of hope that you will see them again when Jesus comes. Let them know you are looking forward to sitting down in the New Jerusalem with them and letting them tell you about their life after you passed.
    - We find that Jacob, prior to his death, gave each of his sons a message specifically for them. Genesis 49
- Consider ways to support the advancement of God's kingdom after you have passed that continues the work for God that you have been doing throughout your life.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson points to several Bible texts and asks what principles we take from these texts in how to deal with money?

> Command those who are rich in this present world not to be arrogant nor to put their hope in wealth, which is so uncertain, but to put their hope in God, who richly provides us with everything for our enjoyment. Command them to do good, to be rich in good deeds, and to be generous and willing to share. In this way they will lay up treasure for themselves as a firm > foundation for the coming age, so that they may take hold of the life that is truly life. (1 Timothy 6:17-19 NIV84).

- Thoughts? Do commands telling people not be arrogant work?
- What about commands to be generous? Can a person give millions to charity and still not be generous? Is generosity primarily the act of giving, the amount given, or the heart attitude in giving?
- Most versions use the work command but the KJV uses charge. What do you think?

This is how I rendered it in The Remedy NT:

> Instruct those who are wealthy in worldly goods not to be so self-absorbed, nor to put their confidence in riches which can evaporate so quickly, but instead, to put their trust in God, who abundantly provides us with everything we need for health and eternal happiness. Instruct them to 'do what is right because it is right,' to be rich in love for others, and generously give of themselves for the good of others. This is how they should live to be in harmony with God's design, develop character that will last eternally, and be rich with love and friends in heaven; this is living as God designed life to truly operate. (1 Timothy 6:17-19 REM).

Next verse is 2 Corinthians 4:18:

> So we fix our eyes not on what is seen, but on what is unseen. For what is seen is temporary, but what is unseen is eternal. (2 Corinthians 4:18 NIV84)

- What does it mean to fix our eyes on what is not seen? Is it talking about our physical eyes or our mental awareness, focus, attention, interest, heart's desire?
- How do we do that today?
- Does this apply to the perspective that we understand world events through?
- Are we to understand world events through the lens of the Great Controversy?
- Would that include planning for the future?
- What is seen is temporary—would that include political parties, social justice movements, nations? What about churches—are denominational churches temporary? Should our focus be on the church institution or on God's plan, methods, movements, practices, principles, and eternal realities?

The next text is Proverbs 30:8:

> Keep falsehood and lies far from me; give me neither poverty nor riches, but give me only my daily bread. (Proverbs 30:8 NIV84).

- What does this mean to you?
- Over the last three years have you prayed—"Lord keep falsehood and lies far from me"? Have you recognized the miasma, the constantly flooding of the airwaves, media, social networks, news outlets, medical news with propaganda, falsehoods, and lies? I have prayed for the truth to shine forth, for the lies to be exposed by the truth.

- What is the daily bread referenced here? Is it merely physical food for the body, or is the author referencing something else?
- Jesus said when tempted in the wilderness: "It is written: 'Man does not live on bread alone, but on every word that comes from the mouth of God.'" (Matthew 4:4 Niv84).
- What does it mean to live by every word that comes from God?

The next verse is Ecclesiastes 5:10:

> Whoever loves money never has money enough; whoever loves wealth is never satisfied with his income. This too is meaningless. (Ecclesiastes 5:10 NIV84).

- Have you found this to be true?
- The people who love money are driven by fear and insecurity and no matter how much they get they don't have enough because money cannot take away fear, and the money they have can be lost or taken away. So they seek more, but because they are fear-driven they see threats all around, threats that something or someone might take their money and they have made money their security, which only causes them to live in more fear.

Read last paragraph,

> "I saw that many withhold from the cause while they live, quieting their consciences that they will be charitable at death; they hardly dare exercise faith and trust in God to give anything while living. But this deathbed charity is not what Christ requires of His followers; it cannot excuse the selfishness of the living. Those who hold fast their property till the last moment surrender it to death rather than to the cause. Losses are occurring continually. Banks fail, and property is consumed in very many ways. Many purpose to do something, but they delay the matter, and Satan works to prevent the means from coming into the treasury at all. It is lost before it is returned to God, and Satan exults that it is so." — Ellen G. White, Testimonies for the Church, vol. 5, p. 154. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 84).

Why does Jesus not want deathbed charity? What is the difference in lifelong charity versus deathbed charity?

In order to mature, grow, and develop godly character one has to exercise their power of choice to live out the methods and principles of God.

We cannot grow in faith if we never exercise our faith. Charitable living, giving to others, is a means of exercising our love for God and others and also our faith in God, that He will provide.

If we hold all our resources until death we have lived a life of distrust, of self-centeredness which increases fear of the next life, and to offset that fear, to make oneself feel hopeful for the future, some people have left their wealth to some charity, as if that one act of giving their wealth to charity when they could no longer use would change their character from lifelong selfishness to love.

God wants our hearts to be transformed to be like Jesus, and that transformation happens through living a life of trust in Jesus, applying His methods, and developing habits in harmony with God's design laws for life.

THURSDAY

highlights the many advantages of giving now:

1. The donor actually can see the results of the gift — a new church building, a young person in college, an evangelistic campaign funded, etc.
2. The ministry or person can benefit now when the need is greatest.
3. There is no fighting among family or friends after your death.
4. It sets a good example of family values of generosity and love for others.
5. It minimizes estate tax consequence.
6. It guarantees that the gift will be made to your desired entity (no interference from courts or disgruntled relatives).
7. It demonstrates that the heart of the donor has been changed from selfishness to unselfishness.
8. It stores up treasures in heaven.

What is the treasure we store up in heaven?

2023 1Q Managing for the Master Till He Comes—Lesson 11
Managing in Tough Time

by Tim Jennings

SABBATH

Read Memory Text:

> Offer to God thanksgiving,
> And pay your vows to the Most High.
> Call upon Me in the day of trouble;
> I will deliver you, and you shall glorify Me. (Psalm 50:14-15 NKJV)

What does this text mean to you? What is the message?

What does it mean to pays one's vows to God?

- Other versions have fulfill your vows to God, which makes sense, to fulfill one's vows means to be honest, loyal, faithful, true, responsible—to do what you say.
- I am just not sure about the word pay, it makes it sound more mechanical, more transactional, more commercial, something we have to do to get something from God.
- In reality our loyalty, faithfulness, honesty with God doesn't change God, it is necessary for us to be able to stay attuned with God, to align with God, to be in harmony with God, to connect, hear, understand, and value what God values, to receive the wisdom and power of God to be victorious.

What does it mean to call upon the Lord and the day of trouble and God will deliver us and we will glorify God?

- Have you known people who have found themselves in troubles not of their own making—maybe a victim of a thug, someone who was trafficked, or in a war zone and displace, someone suffering from a terminal disease and such a person called upon God to deliver them, but the war didn't stop, the crime was not interrupted, the disease wasn't cured?
- Do you think the martyrs called upon God when they were being tortured in the arenas of Rome?

How do we explain this Bible verse to those who have called upon the Lord in times of trouble but the trouble was not taken away?

Does the deliverance that God promises mean rescue from all earthly difficulty?

Jesus said:

> "But before all this, they will lay hands on you and persecute you. They will deliver you to synagogues and prisons, and you will be brought before kings and governors, and all on account of my name. This will result in your being witnesses to them. But make up your mind not to worry beforehand how you will defend yourselves. For I will give you words and wisdom that none of your adversaries will be able to resist or contradict. You will be betrayed even by parents, brothers, relatives and friends, and they will put some of you to death. All men will hate you because of me. But not a hair of your head will perish. By standing firm you will gain life." (Luke 21:12-19 NIV84).

So what do these texts mean? How can God promise to deliver us but then say that we will be persecuted and some even put to death, but not a hair on your head will perish? Does the Bible contradict itself? Does God make false promises?

How do you explain this?

What is the entire point, focus, purpose of Scripture? The plan of salvation! Is the plan of salvation the plan of temporal deliverance or eliminating sin and restoring sinners to eternal life?

The God's promises and actions are always geared toward the plan of removing sin and restoring sinners to eternal life.

Jesus said,

> "Do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul." (Matthew 10:28 NIV84)

He is saying in Luke 21 that the evil powers in this world will seek to destroy the righteous, that evil forces may even kill the body of the righteous, but we will not perish, not the smallest piece of our true selves will perish, i.e., be eternally destroyed, for all who trust in Jesus will be resurrected to eternal life.

So, this is how I rendered our memory verse:

> So bring me what matters — a heart thankful to God, > and give the Most High your loyalty, just as you have promised;
> call upon me when you are hurting and distressed, > and I will heal you, transforming your character, and you will glorify me." (Psalm 50:14,15 REM).

Read first paragraph,

> Sometimes our world seems to be spinning out of control: wars, bloodshed, crime, immorality, natural disasters, pandemics, economic uncertainty, political corruption, and more. There is a > strong urge for individuals and families to think first of their own survival. Accordingly, much thought is given to seeking security in these uncertain times, which, of course, is understandable. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 88).

What is described? What is driving people to seek security? Fear—do only the wicked experience fear or are the righteous also tempted by fear?

And are there different options to resolve fear available to the righteous that the rejectors of God do not have? What are the options the righteous have that those who have rejected God do not have to resolve our fear?

- Trust in God
- Prayer
- Claiming God's promises
- Trustworthy friends of God
- The protection of angels
- The presence of the Holy Spirit
- Love for God and others poured into our hearts
- Purpose bigger than self

If the rejectors of God do not have these means to cope with fear, what actions do they take to seek security?

- Running away to somewhere they believe is safe
- Fighting—seeking to destroy what they perceive as the source of their fear

And what methods will the ungodly use?

- Force, coercion, control over others
- Mandates
- Restriction of liberties
- Restriction on free speech
- Accusations, name calling
- Propaganda and lies
- Economic sanctions and financial pressure

Have you seen this happening in the world?

Why do you think this is happening?

Where is the dwelling place of the Holy Spirit on Earth? In the hearts and minds of people—and what happens as billions of people harden their hearts and minds to the Holy Spirit? The Spirit slowly withdraws.

And as the Spirit withdraws, what happens to Satanic forces? They get more liberty to act. And what do satanic forces do with more liberty? And things become more debased, chaotic, destructive.

But why would God allow this? Why not just intervene and stop it?

Over the last couple of years, I have attended several medical conventions in which the presenters spoke in positive ways of how wonderfully the health delivery system, and they the doctors and nurses, did during COVID. They were specifically praising how they rallied and worked so hard to lock down, wear masks, and give as many injections as they could.

They were completely oblivious to how such actions, taken globally, killed millions more people than any that might have been saved by their actions.

I could see the truth, but these people didn't. What needs to happen for them to break out of their delusion? Reality based consequences over time.

I realized that God permits people to make their choices and then lets the consequences come to bear, and when things get more chaotic these events will awaken the people who have the capacity to still recognize truth to ask what is going on, what is happening in the world? But those who have already destroyed the faculties God has given us that respond to truth and love will misinterpret the evidence and will blame the righteous for the cause of the chaos and destruction.

It will be important, when the sleeping people wake up and ask what is happening, that God's people are ready and capable of telling the truth about what is happening of intelligently advancing His kingdom—being able to explain and demonstrate the difference between the methods and principles of God and those of this world. This goes far beyond a list of doctrines, but to understanding reality and its operations, meaning understanding God's design laws and their application to every phase of our existence. We need to have resources available tracts, magazines, books, videos, podcasts that are all presenting the truth.

And from the witness of God's faithful a great multitude will respond and embrace the truth and be saved.

Sincerely asking what is going on with no one to present the truth would be a sad thing. Paul wrote in Romans 10:13-15:

> "Everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved."
> How, then, can they call on the one they have not believed in? And how can they believe in the one of whom they have not heard? And how can they hear without someone preaching to them? And how can they preach unless they are sent? As it is written, "How beautiful are the feet of those who bring good news!" (Romans 10:13-15 NIV84).

So, what is God waiting for? Why the delay in the second coming? Why does God still hold back the final events? Because God is waiting for His people to be sealed, to be settled into the truth about Him so that they cannot be moved, so that He can pour out the latter rain upon them to empower them to take the final message of mercy to the world. And when that happens then the four winds loosen and things continue to unravel, a great multitude from every nation, tribe, language and people will hear the witness of God's friends and be saved.

This is what it means that judgment starts with the house of God (1 Peter 4:17). God's people are the first to recognize the truth and make the right judgment about God, to reject the imperial Roman dictator view of God as a god who makes up rules and then uses His power to punish rule breakers and instead worships Him as the Creator, the One who made the heaven, earth, sea, and fountain of waters. We do this by rejecting the imposed law lie and realizing God's laws are design laws.

As we settle into the truth about God, returning to Creator worship, judging Him to be completely trustworthy, we open our hearts to receiving the indwelling Spirit of God that heals and transforms us and empowers us to not only resist the corruption of this age, the godless philosophies of the green earth-worshippers, and the godless critical theorists, and the godless greedy corporate merchants of the earth—we resist the powers of this age and stay true to the design laws and principles of Jesus Christ.

SUNDAY

The title of the lesson is Putting God First and focuses our attention on the famous story of Jehoshaphat and the army coming to destroy Judah and how the king, when he heard of the threat, immediately decided to inquire of the Lord and called a fast for all of Judah. And after prayerfully inquiring of the Lord, the prophet of God told the king this:

> He said: "Listen, King Jehoshaphat and all who live in Judah and Jerusalem! This is what the LORD says to you: 'Do not be afraid or discouraged because of this vast army. For the battle is not yours, but God's. Tomorrow march down against them… You will not have to fight this battle. Take up your positions; stand firm and see the deliverance the LORD will give you, O Judah and Jerusalem. Do not be afraid; do not be discouraged. Go out to face them tomorrow, and the LORD will be with you.' " (2 Chronicles 20:15-17 NIV84).

The lesson then asks what are the spiritual principles we can take from this story?

- Always seek God first!
- Trust God with the future, with how things turn out
- Don't give in to fear and discouragement when things of this world seem beyond you

Other lessons?

Does this mean that we are never to engage in any battles, that we are never to actively fight in any type of conflict, that we are always to remain passive in every conflict and exclusively wait for the Lord to act and deliver us?

If so, what does 2 Corinthians 10:3-5 mean?

> For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. (2 Corinthians 10:3-5 NIV84).

Are there battles in which we are to seek God, surrender to Him, trust Him, follow His direction, but to also to actively fight?

Paul makes clear here that we are to fight but we are not to use the weapons of the world—and Jehoshaphat demonstrates how he did not use the weapons of the world. We are not to go to war seeking to dominate and control people with physical might and coercions. We are not to seek to destroy or kill our enemies.

What about using the power of the state to bring order, to govern, to pass laws? Are we to seek to control the state to pass laws to force others to live as we believe is in harmony with God's will?

If we are not to do this does that mean we should have no laws and let crime flourish?

The only righteous use of might and power is in the restraint of those seeking to actively harm others. In restraining the evil-doer we protect all parties, we protect the innocent, and we protect the evil-doer from doing more damage to their own characters and consciences. But restraint does not advance righteousness. Any time governments move away from setting healthy boundaries for maximizing human liberty to instead advancing some moral agenda, such as the green movement and many other woke policies currently being advanced, but it could also be religious right policies such that we saw in history requiring church attendance, either way, such laws that seek to coerce conscience and force moral behavior always results in causing more harm, inciting rebellion, and leading to fractures in society.

We are not to restrict liberty, we are not to threaten people's livelihoods, or restrict commerce—the beast is the one who tells people they cannot buy or sell unless they receive his mark.

What are the divine weapons we are to use? Truth, love, liberty, prayer, faith/trust in God, hope, wisdom and discernment, patience, kindness, gentleness, meekness.

We are to present the truth, in love and leave others free. We are to trust God with outcomes; we are to remain hopeful, but we are to be active in the cause of God, not passive, yet wise in our actions, not purposely antagonizing or casting our pearls before those who we know will only be offended and have no interest in the truth.

Besides opposing lies, policies, and practices that are contrary to the kingdom of God and destroy minds, increase fear, and incite selfishness where else are we to do active warfare or engage in serious conflict and battle?

Here are two historic quotes that speak of battles that we are to be active in, yet in a strange way. What do you think?

> Battles are to be fought every day. A great warfare is going on over every soul, between the prince of darkness and the Prince of life.... As God's agents you are to yield yourselves to [God], that He may plan and direct and fight the battle for you, with your cooperation. The Prince of life is at the head of His work. He is to be with you in your daily battle with self, that you may be true to principle; that passion, when warring for the mastery, may be subdued by the grace of Christ; that you come off more than conqueror through Him that hath loved us. Jesus has been over the ground. He knows the power of every temptation. He knows just how to meet every emergency, and how to guide you through every path of danger. Then why not trust Him? Conflict and Courage 117.
> The warfare against self is the greatest battle that was ever fought. The yielding of self, surrendering all to the will of God, and being clothed with humility, possessing that love that is pure, peaceable, and easy to be entreated, full of gentleness and good fruits, is not an easy attainment.... The soul must submit to God before it can be renewed in knowledge and true holiness. The holy life and character of Christ is a faithful example. His confidence in his heavenly Father was unlimited. His obedience and submission were unreserved and perfect. He came not to be ministered unto, but to minister to others. He came not to do his own will, but the will of Him that sent him. In all things he submitted himself to Him that judges righteously. From the lips of the Saviour of the world were heard these words, "I can of mine own self do nothing." [John 5:30.] Gospel Worker 376

Does the battle with self require our active engagement? But what is the active choice or action we are to take? To actively surrender to Christ, we cannot win the battle with selfishness and fear by our own effort or willpower, we win by being won to trust in Jesus and surrendering ourselves, our longings, our fears, our desires, our hopes and dreams, our futures to Him and trusting Him. He then works a change in us, instilling love and removing guilt, shame, and fear and our faith, confidence, trust, hope, joy, peace all increase. We are transformed to live lives in harmony with Him rather than in harmony with the survival methods of this world.

MONDAY

The lesson focuses on our need to trust God and not our own resources and uses the story of King David being tempted to take a census of Israel when God told him not to.

Why didn't God want David to take a census? Because David would be tempted to put his faith in his spearman, chariots, warriors, and money rather than God. So Satan tempted David to take a census as a means to get David to take his focus off of God and place it onto the things this world values—power, might, and wealth.

Do we ever struggle with the same temptation today?

Most of us don't have soldiers to count, so what kinds of things does the devil tempt us to trust in rather than God?

- Wealth?
- Retirement plans, SSI?
- Fame?
- What about agreement of others, what others think? I have many patients who live their lives in constant pursuit of and fear of the what others think of them. If others affirm them, they fell good, if others are upset with them or criticize them they fall into emotional distress. Are we to make the attitudes and opinions of others the source of our peace and wellbeing?
- Our own intelligence?
- The government?
- Science and medical experts?
- Injections, masks, lockdowns?
- Others?

Was God trying to instruct, through this story with David, that all His faithful followers should not keep accurate records of their assets and resources, that we should not have accountants, that we should not know the size of our estate or the number of employees in our business?

Not at all, God was teaching the simple lesson that we should not place our faith in anything other than Him.

Read the fourth paragraph,

> In our immediate context, it is very tempting to trust in the power of the government or in our bank accounts, but in every crisis mentioned in the Bible, when the people trusted in God, He honored their trust and provided for them. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 90).

Have you seen people placing their trust in the government rather than God over the past couple of years? And how has that turned out?

I saw this division quite clearly, those who love God and others did not advance a cause based on fear. They presented a course of action that they believed was the best course, but they were willing to leave others free to decide for themselves what was best for their lives.

But those who were not motived by love, but instead were motivated by fear, believed that science, or the government could keep them safe. They believed that it was right and good to force others to act in certain ways, to restrict freedom of speech, worship, assembly, travel, commerce and even force people to take drugs they did not want. And many of the people who did this convinced themselves they were only do this to save lives, because they loved others.

But it was all a grand evil manipulation of minds by fear and propaganda and those in whose hearts fear was stronger than love turned to the governments and supported the ungodly actions of the beastly systems of this world.

It was an object lesson, a wakeup call, a warning of the abomination that causes desolation that is about to break upon the world for the final conflict before Christ returns. The events around COVID—a worldwide orchestrated violation of the principles of God—serve in a similar way to the Roman army surrounding Jerusalem in AD 70. The Romans surrounded Jerusalem, then pulled back, the Christians remembered Christ's warning and fled, and when the Roman army came back and destroyed the city no Christian lost their life there.

We have just had our warning to prepare our hearts and minds for the methods and practices of the final worldwide beastly system. All those who have embraced God's design law methods are called to leave the systems of this world, to leave Babylon, God's call recorded in Revelation is "come out of her my people." This isn't a geographical leaving, it is leaving with your heart, cutting your ties of loyalty and affection to systems and organizations that would use beastly methods on its members or support the governments in doing such things to its citizens. It is a call to solidify your hearts, minds, and characters into the methods and principles of God in how you treat others.

It is only a short time and final events are going to unfold on this world.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph:

> What should Seventh-day Adventist Christians do in response to difficult times? Do we hunker down in a survival mode? No, in fact, just the opposite is true. Because we know that the end of the world and the second coming of Christ is near, we want to use our assets to tell others the good news of the gospel and what God has prepared for those who love Him. We understand that someday soon everything on this earth will be burned up. (2023 1Q SDA Adult Bible Study Guide page 91).

How are you preparing for the final events preceding the coming of Christ? Are our primary preparations for the final events to be physical preparations, prepare bunkers, food caches, and emergency shelters to flee to? Or are our primary preparations to be preparing our hearts and minds to stand firm in the face of persecution, to solidify our faith and trust in God?

The lesson asks us to read 2 Peter 3:3-13, I will read it from The Remedy:

> First of all, understand and don't be surprised that in the last days, scoffers and doubters will arise: they will prefer the sickness of selfishness while ridiculing the cure, labeling the infection of selfishness as 'normal. 'They will say, "Survival-of-the-fittest is the way the universe runs: this is why we are here — not because of divine creation. Where is this so-called > God? Where is the coming he promised? Ever since human history has been recorded, the principles of evolution have governed life, and all things continue just as they always have. "But these scoffers deliberately deny the truth and ignore the fact that long ago, by God's Word, the world was created out of water and with water. They reject the fact that it was by these same waters that a flood destroyed the world, and they refuse to believe that the same Word has testified that the present world, which is kept for the day of final diagnosis and the elimination of everyone and everything deviant from God's design, will be destroyed by fire.

>
> But don't forget the true nature of God's kingdom of love. Understand that the Lord lives outside the constraints of time, and with him a day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years is like a day. There is no delay on his part in keeping his promise to return: he is simply waiting for what he has always been waiting for–the Remedy to be taken to the entire world so that none who remain curable will be lost.
>
> But the Lord's return — coming suddenly like a thief — will surprise many people: There will be a loud roar and the sky will disappear; the very elements will melt in the intense heat, and the entire planet will be laid bare.
> Since everything the world values will end in this way, what kind of people are you to be? Each person must partake of the Remedy and be healed, live a life that loves others and honors God as you anticipate our Lord's return, and work to speed his coming. On that day, the atmosphere of selfishness will be consumed by fire, and the very elements contaminated by sin will melt in the intense heat. But just as promised, Jesus will make a new atmosphere and an entirely new earth–free from disease and defect, free from the infection of selfishness–the eternal home of the healed. (2 Peter 3:3-13 REM)

The lesson reminds us that we are to have this eternal reality in mind as we live. While we must occupy until Jesus comes, we are not to live for the pleasures of this world, but to be purposeful in taking actions that are designed to spread the good news about God and hasten the day of His return.

That is what Come and Reason Ministries was founded to do, to advance what we believe is the final message of mercy to the world, the truth about God's character of love and His methods of truth, love, and freedom. And the key to properly understanding Scripture and God's character of love is how one understands God's law—if we understand God's law to be functionally no different that the imposed rules made up by humans then we teach ideas about God that make Him out to be no different in character than us—a rule-monger who uses power over others to force His way and inflict punishment for rule breaking. But when we return to worshiping the Creator we realize God's laws are the protocols reality is built upon and any deviation from those laws causes injury and eventual death unless remedied by our Creator. In this view God is the source of life and health, the Healer and Savior of our souls and it is sin that is the cause of pain, suffering, and death.

This truth about God, when embraced and internalized transforms the soul.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson asks us to read 1John 2:15-17:

> Do not love the world or the things in the world. If anyone loves the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world—the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life—is not of the Father but is of the world. And the world is passing away, and the lust of it; but he who does the will of God abides forever. (1 John 2:15-17 NKJV).

What does this text mean?

There are two antagonistic principles or motives vying for every heart and mind—fear/selfishness versus love.

God's kingdom is the kingdom of love whereas Satan's kingdom is the kingdom of selfishness based on fear. The more fear the more self-centered we become and the more willing we are to harm others. The more love the less fear and the more willing we are to sacrifice to help others.

John is telling us that the survival drives of me-first fear driven selfishness of this sinful world manifests in three primary ways or avenues or desires or drives:

- The lust of the flesh—sensualism
- The lust of the eyes—materialism
- The pride of life—egotism

The Bible tells us that after Adam sinned we are all born of a sinful mother and a sinful father, we are "born in sin, conceived in iniquity" (Psalms 51:5). Which means we are born genetically vulnerable to these various selfish desires.

Some are born genetically more vulnerable to the sensual sins, the addictions, and lusts of the flesh. Others are born more genetically vulnerable to greed, materialism, or ego and pride.

But the Bible teaches that despite these vulnerabilities of our birth, because of Jesus and God's grace we still remain free to decide whether we will give in to these temptations or instead surrender to God for the renewing of our mind and the recreation of new hearts and right spirits within, which gives us new desires and new motives.

We have the choice, say yes to the temptations, or say no and surrender to God.

As we open the heart to God the Holy Spirit comes in and, using the Bible metaphor, circumcises our hearts. This means the Spirit of God cuts away from our affections, our longings, our reward pathways, the attachments we have to the destructive things of this world and establishes attachment to the things of God. But this work of reorienting our heart to the things of God requires a daily surrender to God, requires our active choice and agreement with the Spirit of God.

The transformation that happens within the heart and mind of a sinner is accomplished by the power of God but by our choice—we choose to say yes to God and no to temptation and evil, we choose to surrender to God, to open the heart, to believe the truth, to trust God with our lives, but it is God who provides the truth, changes the desires, and provides the divine power to succeed.

We can never experience a new heart and right spirit by our own effort. But God can never transform a heart into righteousness against the will of that person. That person must freely choose—why? It isn't that God doesn't have the power. He is God He has the power. But to use divine power to change a heart against the desire, intent, and will of the person would destroy that person's identity and individuality and effectively erase that person from existence. What would be the result would be either a robot or a new intelligent being, but the previous individual would be lost. This is why God doesn't use power to force a change of heart, and why it requires are active and willful participation.

Can you trust a God who would not only sacrifice Himself to save you and me, but operates in such a way that we never lose our freedom. He never uses His power to override our individuality?

THURSDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on Revelation 13:11-17:

> Then I saw another beast, coming out of the earth. He had two horns like a lamb, but he spoke like a dragon. He exercised all the authority of the first beast on his behalf, and made the earth and its inhabitants worship the first beast, whose fatal wound had been healed. And he performed great and miraculous signs, even causing fire to come down from heaven to earth in full view of men. Because of the signs he was given power to do on behalf of the first beast, he deceived the inhabitants of the earth. He ordered them to set up an image in honor of the beast who was wounded by the sword and yet lived. He was given power to give breath to the image of the first beast, so that it could speak and cause all who refused to worship the image to be killed. He also forced everyone, small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, to receive a mark on his right hand or on his forehead, so that no one could buy or sell unless he had the mark, which is the name of the beast or the number of his name. (Revelation 13:11-17 NIV84)
