2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 1
From Reading to Understanding

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

I love the title of this lesson—From Reading to Understanding

It immediately brought to mind a quote from the book Christ's Object Lessons:

> Merely to hear or to read the word is not enough. He who desires to be profited by the Scriptures must meditate upon the truth that has been presented to him. By earnest attention and prayerful thought he must learn the meaning of the words of truth, and drink deep of the spirit of the holy oracles. COL 59.5

This is the key to all Bible study—not knowing the original words, but the intended meaning.

When doing paraphrase this was one of the key principles I applied—what is the true meaning. I received some emails taking issue with some verses because the English words I chose were not in keeping with the Greek. But to me it isn't the word that matters, but the meaning, so I challenged those who emailed me to tell me what the verse means.

This is what we want to do all throughout the Bible, but even more importantly when dealing with symbols, metaphors, similes, images, parables or any other representative expression.

I have some basic guidelines that I have found to be quite helpful in rightly interpreting Scripture:

1. We must understand the overall context of Scripture (not just the immediate context which is what many focus on and thus lose the forest for the trees—they lose the true message for the local message) and that context is a cosmic reality in which God is love all the time and Satan is a being of selfishness who seeks to destroy what God has created.
2. The battle between God and Satan is not a physical battle, but a battle of ideas, concepts, beliefs. God's prime weapons are truth, love, and liberty. Satan's prime weapons are lies, fear based selfishness, and coercion.
3. The Bible is the revelation of the truth about God, His character methods, and plans to send Jesus to save humankind. It also exposes Satan as the source of evil, death, pain, suffering and reveals throughout human history the problems that deviating from God's design causes.

4. Some specific rules of interpreting Bible prophecy are:
    - If one part of a passage is symbolic or metaphor, then the rest is symbolic or metaphor unless clear reasons to be literal are expressed in the text.

topics@comeandreason.com

- The Bible will be used to interpret itself (i.e. symbol interpretations will use Bible definitions before other definitions).
- The general theme is that of the conflict between Christ and Satan.
- God's character of love never changes, therefore interpretations will never result in God being represented in a character other than love.
- God's law of love never changes, therefore interpretations will always be in harmony with God's law of love.
- God's other design laws never change therefore interpretations will not violate God's design laws for life.

The lesson points out that Christ is at the center of Daniel—absolutely true. The context of Daniel is what? Christ at the center of Daniel doing something, working to achieve something—and what is that? Our salvation. Christ is battling Satan and satanic agencies for the purpose of healing His creation.

The lesson wants us to also recognize the difference between classic and apocalyptic prophecy:

- Classic prophecy is a message specifically for the people at that time with limited or little metaphor or symbols but with direct simple to understand message. Example: Jonah's prophecy to Nineveh—repent or the city will be destroyed.
- Apocalyptic prophecy is prophecy that tells of future events and often contains symbols, metaphors, images that require interpretation to understand the reality behind it.

SUNDAY

The lesson asks the question, "In what way is Christ the center of Scripture?"

Is it merely about revealing God's character or is it more—that not only is Christ God the Son, but that He is actively working to achieve a specific goal?

Does Scripture reveal Christ? Does it do more? Does it reveal the truth about the Father? Does it do more? Does it reveal the truth about God working through Christ to achieve an outcome? What is that outcome?

Would that outcome be the coming of Jesus to overthrow Satan, cleanse His creation from sin and cure the sin problem?

- Look, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world! (John 1:29 NIV84) –Is this more than revelation of God's character?
- Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil— 15 and free those who all their lives were held in slavery by their fear of death. (Hebrews 2:14,15, NIV84)
- But it has now been revealed through the appearing of our Savior, Christ Jesus, who has destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. (1Timothy 1:10 NIV84)

topics@comeandreason.com

- The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work. (1John 3:8 NIV84)

Does the Scripture reveal more than the truth about God? Does it reveal what God, through Christ, was achieving? And what was God achieving? The destruction of sin and the healing of His creation!

Then, when we read Scripture do we see the conflict between good and evil being played out with Christ the member of the Godhead who is acting throughout human history to destroy sin and evil and heal His creation?

So, do we interpret the Bible stories through this lens?

Would this mean we could understand Satan working to obstruct God while God working to fulfill His promise to Adam and Eve of a Messiah?

From the book Patriarchs and Prophets:

> "By leading Israel to this daring insult and blasphemy to Jehovah, Satan had planned to cause their ruin. Since they had proved themselves to be so utterly degraded, so lost to all sense of the privileges and blessings that God had offered them, and to their own solemn and repeated pledges of loyalty, the Lord would, he believed, divorce them from Himself and devote them to destruction. Thus would be secured the extinction of the seed of Abraham, that seed of promise that was to preserve the knowledge of the living God, and through whom He was to come—the true Seed, that was to conquer Satan. The great rebel had planned to destroy Israel, and thus thwart the purposes of God. But again he was defeated. Sinful as they were, the people of Israel were not destroyed. While those who stubbornly ranged themselves on the side of Satan were cut off, the people, humbled and repentant, were mercifully pardoned. The history of this sin was to stand as a perpetual testimony to the guilt and punishment of idolatry, and the justice and long-suffering mercy of God" PP 335.

This is a key concept to understand in Scripture as it helps us understand how love intervenes throughout human history—always working to heal and save, to keep open avenue for the Messiah.

Let's give some examples and tell me where you see Christ:

> Now Moses was tending the flock of Jethro his father-in-law, the priest of Midian, and he led the flock to the far side of the desert and came to Horeb, the mountain of God. [2] There the angel of the Lord appeared to him in flames of fire from within a bush. Moses saw that though the bush was on fire it did not burn up. [3] So Moses thought, "I will go over and see this strange sight—why the bush does not burn up."
> [4] When the Lord saw that he had gone over to look, God called to him from within the bush, "Moses! Moses!"
> And Moses said, "Here I am."
> [5] "Do not come any closer," God said. "Take off your sandals, for the place where you are standing is holy ground." [6] Then he said, "I am the God of your father, the God of Abraham, > the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob." At this, Moses hid his face, because he was afraid to look at God. (Exodus 3:1-5 NIV84)

Who is talking to Moses here?

This is Jesus—and did He tell Moses what He wanted to do? What was Jesus' plan?

It was to deliver Israel from bondage, have them become a nation of emissaries who rightly represent God's kingdom, bless them to draw attention of the world to God, convert the world to true worship of God and prepare the way for Messiah to come to cure the terminal sin condition.

The lesson demonstrates that Christ is the center of every chapter of Daniel. Let's review this:

- Chapter One: Nebuchadnezzar takes captive Israel's leadership and carries off articles of the Temple—this is a loose metaphor for Satan taking humanity captive and contaminating the Spirit temple with fear and selfishness. Daniel and his three friends stay true to God, and keep their Spirit temples pure and stay faithful to God. The represents Christ, who came to this world and kept His Spirit temple pure.
- Chapter Two: The kingdoms of the world fall one after another eventually they end up fragmented and unable to find unity until Christ returns and establishes His eternal kingdom here on earth
- Chapter Three: Christ walks with his faithful servants through the fiery trials of this world and the smoke if sin in this world will not contaminate those who walk with Christ.
- Chapter Four: Christ therapeutically intervenes to heal Nebuchadnezzar of selfishness and pride.
- Chapter Five: Christ reveals that the methods and practices of this world result only in death, foreshadows the coming of Christ to cleanse the world from sin
- Chapter Six: Daniel is still captive in a pagan kingdom but stays true to God, keeps his Spirit temple pure and stands up to evil and is sentenced to death for it all based on lies; is thrown into the pit but comes out alive. This loosely represents Christ who came to earth, kept His Spirit temple pure, revealed God's truth, was sentenced to death all based on lies, went into the grave but destroyed death, and came out of the grave to bring life and immorality to light.
- Chapter Seven: Jesus in heaven receives His kingdom and reigns over the universe.
- Chapter Eight: Christ as High Priest applies His remedy to cleanse His people and prepare them to live in His presence.
- Chapter Nine: Reveals Christ wins the victory by becoming the sacrificial lamb of God who destroys the infection of selfishness and establishes a new sinless and perfected humanity.
- Chapter Ten through Twelve: Represents Christ as Michael leading His agencies to fight forces of evil ultimately delivering His people from death.

MONDAY

The lesson provides an outline, a structure, an overview for the book of Daniel:

topics@comeandreason.com

A. Nebuchadnezzar's vision of four kingdoms
    B. God delivers Daniel's friends from fiery furnace
        C. Judgment upon Nebuchadnezzar
        C'. Judgment upon Belshazzar
    B. God delivers Daniel from the lion's den
A. Daniel's vision of four kingdoms

The lesson suggests that such a structure puts the main point in the center, in this case Judgment upon the two kings.

What law lens do we read Daniel through? Do we read it through imposed law and thus we read it to say that God inflicts punishments for sin upon people and forces His way?

Or do we read it through design law that God is evaluating reality and working to heal and save? Thus, God diagnosed Nebuchadnezzar as having a serious condition of selfishness and pride, but he was not beyond healing—so God diagnosed him and judged what intervention was necessary in order to save Nebuchadnezzar, i.e. bring him to repentance.

Later God diagnoses Belshazzar as having the same serious condition of selfishness and pride, but diagnoses him as being beyond healing, so God judges there is nothing God can do to save him, so God sets him free to reap what he chose—which was death.

Does this provide an object lesson for us today? God intervenes to bring discipline to those who are healable and provide them with opportunity to repent and experience healing, but sets those who harden themselves against God free to reap the destruction their sin-condition brings.

Read last paragraph, "In the book of Daniel…" I agree that Daniel uses repetition, no question about it. Prophetic periods are repeated and retold with greater details.

But the lesson suggests this is to show us God's ultimate sovereignty. What do you think about this?

I am unclear what they mean by this?

Hmmm… I looked up the meaning of sovereignty and this is what the dictionary says:

> the status, dominion, power, or authority of a sovereign; royal rank or position; royalty.
> supreme and independent power or authority in government as possessed or claimed by a state or community.

I absolutely agree God is sovereign over the universe—no question about that. I am just a little confused when we suggest the purpose of these prophecies was to show us that He is sovereign?

Is it the fact God knows the future that shows His sovereignty or are they saying that the end results of the prophecies show He is sovereign? Maybe, that is the what is meant, the end results promise us that God is sovereign.

Okay, the prophecies certainly do. So it isn't the ability to predict the future they are suggesting shows us God's sovereignty but the end results, how the future actually turns out that shows God's sovereignty? Is that what they are saying?

I think it must be, because the power to know the future alone would not make one sovereign, it would make one knowledgeable.

TUESDAY

The lesson differentiates classical prophecy from apocalyptic prophecy, with apocalyptic displaying the following features:

- Visions and dreams
- Composite symbolism often of things not found on earth
- Divine sovereignty and unconditionality

Read fifth paragraph, "Divine sovereignty and unconditionality…" What do you think of the last sentence, it rests on God's foreknowledge and sovereignty and will happen regardless of human choices?

Does that mean God makes it happen? Or could it be God foreknows the human choices and is able to give the prophecy because of His foreknowledge of human choice—so it is dependent upon human choice—which God foreknows and foretells?

When the Medes and Persians invaded Babylon were there no human choices involved? When Alexander the Great led the Greek armies to overthrow Persia are we saying Alexander didn't actually make any choices?

Were all of these people just puppets that God was acting through?

This issue brings in to our discussion the question of God's foreknowledge.

Some argue God doesn't actually know what people will do before they do it only what possible things they could do. They argue this because they falsely believe that if God foreknows then we are no longer free to make the choices that we make. They have formed a false belief that for God to foreknow something then it preordains it to be that way and we are no longer free we are slaves to some fate or destiny and we are not free beings. So, they reject the idea that God has foreknowledge because they want to protect the character of God and the principles of love and liberty.

I appreciate their heart and motive and desire to protect God's reputation and the principles of love and liberty. We do also!

However, they make several key errors in their understanding of reality. One is that they treat foreknowledge as causal—it is not. Foreknowledge is merely that, knowledge it is not causation.

If we had a time machine and traveled into the future and watched the next Super Bowl and come back to today. We now know who does what, what the final score will be, who fumbles etc. Does our knowledge cause it to be this way?

Those who believe God can't know our future choices because it would take away or freedom might site quantum experiments that demonstrate the observer effect—which is when we measure or observe something our measurements or observations actually determine the outcome. So, they might suggest that if God were to look into the future His observations impact or cause the outcome. The problem of course is that they forget God doesn't live in our reality. He is not constrained to a linear existence. He does not live within the flow of time. He is the Creator of space, energy, matter and time. He lives outside and above it, thus He is not in the stream or flow of time when He observes things, like we are, thus His observations of time don't impact things like ours do.

Metaphorically, we are in a pool of water, no matter what we do, we are impacting the water around us. God lives outside the pool of water and can observe what is happening in it without interacting with it.

It is a question of understand time—which we understand very poorly. God who is the Creator is the Creator of time and lives outside and above it. We are finite beings and live in a linear existence, meaning we move through time. We lived yesterday but today is a different point in time. Further, we move only one way through time. This is God's design to allow our freewill choices to have consequence and permanence and for us to grow and learn from life experiences. In other words, because of time life becomes consistent and predictable.

God is an infinite being and lives outside of time and to Him all points and time are experienced equally.

Isaiah wrote:

> Remember the former things, those of long ago;
> I am God, and there is no other;
> I am God, and there is none like me.
> I make known the end from the beginning,
> from ancient times, what is still to come.
> I say: My purpose will stand, > and I will do all that I please. 46:9,10

One Christian writer put it this way in Patriarchs and Prophets:

> He that ruleth in the heavens is the one who sees the end from the beginning—the one before whom the mysteries of the past and the future are alike outspread… 43.1

So, how do you understand Bible prophecy, including apocalyptic prophecy—that God is forcing His way, or despite the decisions of human beings, which God foreknows, God's methods of love, truth and freedom are being carried forward and will one day be victorious because God is true to Himself and carries out His actions for the good of His creation?

What then is the purpose of apocalyptic prophecy? Would it be to encourage us? To give us confidence? To help build our faith?

WEDNESDAY

Multiple different ways to interpret Bible prophecy exist:

- preterism views the prophetic events as happening in the past
- futurism has the events awaiting fulfillment in the future
- idealism holds the prophecies are symbolic of general spiritual realities without specific historical reference
- historicism holds that the prophecies reveal unbroken history unfolding, reality as a sequence of historical events happening linearly

Which view do you believe is most accurate?

Can we have both historicism and idealism simultaneously, meaning we believe these are real historic events but also see spiritual meaning?

The lesson also points out that based on Numbers 14:34 and Ezekiel 4:5,6 that in Bible prophecy time is symbolically represented where days stand for years and it is calculated on the Jewish calendar year of 360 days.

THURSDAY

In the second paragraph the lesson points out something we have been discussing for some time—that the Bible records real people who did real historical things, but these lives are also metaphor to tell a larger reality, the great controversy.

The lesson states, "The experience of Daniel in Babylon, resembles that of Joseph in Egypt and Esther in Persia."

First question—why was Daniel in Babylon, Joseph in Egypt and Esther in Persia?

Because Satan was trying to destroy the avenue for the Messiah. God worked through His loyal followers and was able to deliver them:

- Joseph becomes ruler to provide food in time of famine to save the family line.
- Esther intervenes to prevent the slaughter of the family line.
- Daniel and his three friends were used by God to enlighten the pagan leaders to the Creator God and to eventually have the people restored to their land thus preserving the family line.

There are more lessons:

- Joseph was sold by His brothers into slavery. Philippians tells us Jesus left heaven to become human all the way down to being a servant or slave.
- Joseph was faithful to God and persecuted and falsely accused and put in prison, the dungeon, pit metaphor for grave but arises to rule and save. Jesus was faithful to God and falsely accused and sentenced to death, goes into the grave, but arises to rule and save.
- The story of Esther gives a different object lesson—where were the people of Israel supposed to be at the time of Esther? Back in Israel. They had been set free and God called them to return to Israel and rebuild the temple and reestablish their nation and fulfill their mission to prepare the world for Messiah. Mordechai and Esther were among the Israelites who did not obey. Who did not go where God told them. And thus were exposed to attack by Satan through Hamann. Did God abandon them or did God still stay with them and help them? How many times have we heard that if you do this or that God will not be with you? The book of Esther tells us that God doesn't give up on us even when we make choices that go against His revealed will. He only gives up and lets us go when we are beyond healing, not when we choose something we know isn't what He would want.
- Daniel—already discussed above as metaphor for Christ.

Read third paragraph, "God steers the course of history…" What do you think about the statement that God stands in control?

If a person you know comes to you and tells you either they or their child was molested—do you say—well God is in control? Why not? Is God in control or not?

If a person comes to you grieving the death of a child in an auto accident do you say, well God is in control? Why not, is God in control or not?

And if you say in such situations that God is in control, what does it mean? Does saying God is in control mean God controlled the molester? That God caused the accident?

A blanket statement that God is in control is, in my view, a way to introduce confusion, misunderstanding and lead some to reject God.

What is a better way to say this? God is in control of what God controls!

The question is, what does God control?

The key to understanding the saying "God is in control," as well as essentially all theological questions, is how one understands God's law.

If one views God's law functioning like the laws that humans make up—imposed rules requiring the ruling authority to impose punishments—then people view God as making everything happen, which inevitably leads them to form wrong theology. A variety of different errors are formed, such as the teaching that when tragedies occur, it is God who is bringing the pain—such as God controlling the molester who abuses people, or God directing the hurricanes, earthquakes, or God hardens certain hearts.

Some who reject a punishing God but don't reject the imposed-law view embrace and promote Universalism. They teach that because God is love, wants all to be saved, and is ultimately in control, all will be saved in the end. Like the error before, this one also stems from the lie that God is imposing His imperialistic will to maintain "justice" within His government by enforcing His law.

One's level of spiritual maturity—the level through which one comprehends right and wrong—plays into this.

But briefly, levels one through four are immature levels; in each of these, right and wrong is in some way determined by performance and the individual seeks security in rule keeping of some kind. Those operating at one of these levels find safety in the belief that God controls everything, so they don't fear getting into trouble as long as they follow the right rules. But this invariably fails as a rational belief, as history is replete with bad things happening to good people. And when the child is molested rule-keeping doesn't answer the question why did God allow this if He is in control.

Also, the book of Job makes it explicitly clear that bad things are not God's doing.

The truth is realized when we accept that God is Creator and His laws are the protocols upon which reality is built to operate, such as the laws of physics, law of love, law of truth, worship, liberty, exertion, laws of health, the moral laws, and so many more. It is how reality works.

Thus, God is in control of what God controls—and God controls Himself and all His laws.

He sustains reality; He keeps the universe running upon the protocols and laws He established. And one of those laws is the law of liberty, which grants real freedom to sentient beings. Why? Because love only exists in an atmosphere of freedom.

This is how God hardened Pharaoh's heart (Exodus 4:21; 7:3) yet Pharaoh hardened his own heart (Exodus 8:15, 32).

How did God harden Pharaoh's heart? By presenting the truth and leaving Pharaoh free to accept or reject it. The accepting or rejecting causes the end result—healing or hardening. The act of choosing to accept or reject truth; to embrace love or embrace selfishness; to steal, lie, cheat, or be honest, truthful and loyal, changes the person who makes the choice. Without the truth presented and the freedom to reject it, Pharaoh's heart would not have become as hardened. Thus, God hardened Pharaoh's heart through the laws of truth and freedom; He presented truth and left the ruler free. God controlled His laws, but Pharaoh exercised his own will and controlled his own choice, and in choosing to reject the truth, he hardened his own heart. This is how reality works and how God is in control.

From Jerusalem to Babylon

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

What do you think of the title?

When you hear this do you think of Israel going into captivity in Babylon? In our modern mind we think of Jerusalem as the capital of the nation of Israel, yet after Solomon's death in 931 BCE, the kingdom split into the northern and southern kingdoms.

The northern kingdom (comprised of Asher, Dan, Ephraim, Gad, Issachar, Manasseh, Naphtali, Reuben, Simeon, and Zebulun) was known at Israel and the southern kingdom, which included Jerusalem and which remained loyal to David's line, was comprised of Judah and Benjamin.

Israel was conquered and its 10 tribes absorbed by Assyria in 722 BCE. Babylon conquered Judah in 598 BCE.

Why did they go from Jerusalem to Babylon?

Is there a lesson for us today beyond the historical realities?

Do Jerusalem and Babylon provide not just historical facts but represent spiritual kingdoms? And how would you describe the differences between these two spiritual kingdoms?

Jerusalem (think New Jerusalem)	Babylon
Holy	Unholy
Unified	Confused
Practices God's law	Practices man's law
Healing for people	Destructive to people
Values truth, love freedom	Values, lies, selfishness, coercion
Led by Jesus	Led by Satan pretending to be Jesus

Is being a part of either God's kingdom represented by Jerusalem, or Satan's kingdom represented by Babylon, determined by genetics? Or denominational affiliation?

What determines whose kingdom one is a part of? Would it be the condition of the heart?

Does God have some of His people in systems that are part of the confused system that practices the methods of Babylon?

topics@comeandreason.com

> I heard another voice from heaven saying, "Come out of Babylon, my people, so that you do not participate in her sins and suffer from any of her plagues. Revelation 18:4 God's Word Translation

Can one change denominations and still be part of Babylon?

So how would you describe being part of Babylon? Is it primarily about denomination, or about the character, the heart, mind, motives and the methods one practices and picture of God one presents?

And is there a danger in people going from Jerusalem to Babylon spiritually today?

How did ancient Jerusalem get taken captive by Babylon? What was the cause?

They were unfaithful to God—they rejected His truth, they chose the methods, practices and beliefs of the world, and God set them free and they went into captivity.

What happens to our hearts, minds, and characters when we reject the truth of God's kingdom, methods, principles and accept the world's? Does God set us free to reap what we insist upon? And what happens to our hearts and minds if we choose the world over God? Does God use His power to inflict the damage upon us?

So what is Babylon actually today? Here is what one of the SDA founders wrote:

> In Revelation 14 the first angel is followed by a second proclaiming: "Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication." Revelation 14:8. The term "Babylon" is derived from "Babel," and signifies confusion. It is employed in Scripture to designate the various forms of false or apostate religion. In Revelation 17 Babylon is represented as a woman—a figure which is used in the Bible as the symbol of a church, a virtuous woman representing a pure church, a vile woman an apostate church. GC 381.1

Do you agree that Babylon is the systems of false religions that misrepresent God and cause confusion and that any Christian group that embraces the lies about God and promotes them would be part of that confused system?

What is the cause of the confusion? What is the basis of the multitude of conflicting doctrines, beliefs and religious groups?

Because there is a root lie, a false premise that underpins the other lies—and the root lie upon which the false systems are all built is: God's law functions like human law, imposed rules requiring imposed punishments, rather than worshiping the Creator whose laws are design laws.

How many human laws are there in force in this city, county, state and nation? How many more if we added up all the municipalities in this nation? How many more if we added all the countries of the world? And why are there so many? Because they are made up, imposed, not design laws. And do any of them disagree—oppose each other? Can the laws cause confusion? Is the human law system so convoluted, complicated and confusing that most people need lawyers—professionally trained law experts to navigate it—to tell them the rules and what is legal and not legal?

When we have theology built upon human law we have all kinds of made up beliefs that are not grounded in reality and are often contradictory and confusing. Have religions made things so complicated and confusing that many believers falsely believe they need a theologian, pastor, priest to study the Bible for them and tell them the rules, the requirements, what to do to avoid legal jeopardy?

But, if we think through design law is there confusion in the world, among different groups over:

- the benefits of clean air and clean water?
- the damaging effects of tobacco smoke?
- the results of jumping off buildings?

But is there still confusion over dietary practices? Why?

- Because in many religions dietary practices are not built on the laws of health, but religious rules or codes—such as not using the same utensils to cook food with milk and meat
- Because people misunderstand Scripture and apply instructions over ceremonial practices, which were all theater, to actual health practices. For instance, doing away with ceremonial laws after Christ's resurrection, some misunderstand forgetting the laws of health were not done away with, thus they eat without regard to health because they know they won't be condemned for breaking ceremony.

When we confuse God's law for man's law, a system of rules, what is often the result for religious people? They not only end up fragmented into many groups with contradictory rules, but seek to pass laws to enforce their rules upon others, for this is how they believe God functions.

From the same book quoted earlier:

> Many of the Protestant churches are following Rome's example of iniquitous connection with "the kings of the earth"—the state churches, by their relation to secular governments; and other denominations, by seeking the favor of the world. And the term "Babylon"—confusion—may be appropriately applied to these bodies, all professing to derive their doctrines from the Bible, yet divided into almost innumerable sects, with widely conflicting creeds and theories. GC 383.1

What is it that moves people from God's kingdom to the Babylon? Rejecting God's design laws, accepting imposed law as God's law and thus practicing the methods of the confused world. This causes a multiplicity of different doctrines and religious laws or rules to be formed, and then uniting with human governments to pass these upon others.

From the book Patriarchs and Prophets:

> In the professedly Christian world many turn away from the plain teachings of the Bible and build up a creed from human speculations and pleasing fables, and they point to their tower as a way to climb up to heaven. [Why? Because they have already accepted the lie about God's law and thus falsely believe they can create laws or religious rules or requirements] Men hang with admiration upon the lips of eloquence while it teaches that the transgressor shall not die, that salvation may be secured without obedience to the law of God. If the professed followers of Christ would accept God's standard, it would bring them into unity; but so long as human wisdom is exalted above His Holy Word, there will be divisions and dissension. [What is God's standard? His design laws, love, truth, freedom and others] The existing confusion of conflicting creeds and sects is fitly represented by the term "Babylon," which prophecy (Revelation 14:8; 18:2) applies to the world-loving churches of the last days. PP 124.1

Revelation also calls the confused system of Babylon the harlot:

> I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast which was full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns. [4] The woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet, and adorned with gold and precious stones and pearls, having in her hand a golden cup full of abominations and the filthiness of her fornication. [5] And on her forehead a name was written:
> MYSTERY,
> BABYLON THE GREAT,
> THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH. Rev 17:1-5

The Harlot of Revelation is adorned in Purple, Scarlet and Gold. The Harlot is a counterfeit for Christ and God's people.

In the old Testament the High Priest, who represents Jesus wore four colors:

> "They shall take the gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and the fine linen, and they shall make the ephod of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, artistically worked. Exodus 28: 5,6

The harlot only has three colors, what color does the harlot not have? Blue—what does blue represent in this system and why does the harlot not have this color?

Blue represents the law of God, the harlot and those who identify with Babylon reject the law of God, which is design law, and embrace the imposed-type law of the world. (See Exodus 24, 9,10, 12, Numbers 15:37-39).

The High Priest wore a breast plate with 12 stones—what did that represent? The peoples of the earth tied to the High Priest's heart—and what was used to tie this symbol of the people of the earth to the High Priest's heart?

> They shall bind the breastplate by means of its rings to the rings of the ephod, using a blue cord, so that it is above the intricately woven band of the ephod, and so that the breastplate does not come loose from the ephod. Exodus 28:28

And what does the blue cord represent? The law of love! God's law of love is what binds us to Him, only His design does this.

From the book Desire of Ages:

> The yoke that binds to service is the law of God. The great law of love revealed in Eden, proclaimed upon Sinai, and in the new covenant written in the heart, is that which binds the human worker to the will of God. {DA 329.3}

The false religions of the world, including false Christianity deny God's design law of love; they don't deny the 10 Commandments but they replace the 10 Commandments with an imposed view of the law—rules enacted and enforced by a ruling authority. Thus, they teach religious obligations, ceremonies, rituals, at the expense of loving people. Thus, they are represented by the Harlot with no blue thread.

Today, God is waiting for a group of people to take the true message of His character, law, and government to the world calling people back to worship Him who made the heavens, earth and waters.

SUNDAY

The title for the day is God's Sovereignty—what does this mean? Is God in control? Of what? God is in control of what God controls—and what does God control?

God controls Himself and His design laws.

Does God ever take control of people forcing their wills, making them puppets?

Why not? It would be a violation of the law of liberty—love only exists in an atmosphere of freedom. If God were to violate someone's freewill then they would have their individuality overwritten, their capacity to love destroyed and would become a robot. God will not do this.

Thus, God doesn't control people—this is why bad things happen in this world in "which God is in control." Because God is not in control of what people choose; He is in control of Himself and His laws, and one of the laws He controls, by sustaining its existence and operation, is the law of liberty, which gives people freedom to act—including to act against God.

Thus, rightly understood, when we see someone choose evil, we realize they are only able to choose it because God is in control of the laws of the universe, including the law of liberty which allows this person to choose evil.

But, when people choose evil they choose to damage themselves—always—because sin is damaging to the sinner, because it violates the laws upon which life and health are built.

So, with this in mind, how do we understand the description in Scripture that "the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his (Nebuchadnezzar's) hand?" (Daniel 1:2 NKJV).

We understand that God set the king free to reap what the king chose, to be free of God and God's methods and ways. And when God set him free the king of Babylon did what selfish people naturally do, they seek to dominate others and Babylon invaded and took Judah captive.

The lesson asks, "Why does God give Judah and Jerusalem into the hands of the Babylonians?"

Was God punishing them? No!

What is the context of the Old Testament? Remember Genesis 3:15, God promised Adam and Eve a Savior was coming to crush the serpent and save humanity. The context of Scripture is the coming Messiah to save us and Satan working to obstruct that plan.

Remember the 10 tribes to the north have already been successfully erased, assimilated and no longer available to be a special people teaching the truth about God or be the avenue for the Messiah. Only two tribes remain and they were being infected with pagan worship practices that threatened to destroy them as a people also.

Did the Babylonian captivity destroy the last two tribes, or did it work to stop the slide into paganism and establish a remnant who retained a knowledge of Scripture and an avenue for the Messiah?

So, God's permitting of this captivity was not for punishment of sin, but for the obstructing of Satan's plan; it was to keep open the avenue for Messiah. It was therapeutic—though painful, it was an act of love and mercy.

Read the last paragraph, "As we face the challenges…" What do you think of the idea that God drives the forces of history through His sovereignty?

Does this mean God drove Judah into rebellion so that Babylon would take them captive?

No! In my view, to rightly understand these things we must realize there are two antagonistic systems fighting it out on planet earth—God and His kingdom of truth, love and freedom, against Satan and his kingdom of lies, selfishness and coercion. If we forget this, then we invariably end up attributing the evil originating with Satan to God.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Upon arrival…" Tuesday's lesson points out that the captives didn't object to the name changes like they did the food—why?

Why did they draw the line of no compromise where they drew it? What is the underlying principle? What can we learn for application to us today?

Was it primarily about vegetarianism? Do we think Daniel and his three friends were vegetarians before being taken captive? Would they have celebrated Passover? Doesn't the Passover celebration require eating the sacrificial lamb?

So, it doesn't seem the issue is primarily one of a vegetarian diet—even though diet has a huge health impact and thus a mental wellness impact.

What was it about? It was about character, about choice. The line they drew was the line of their choices in governance of themselves.

The goal of a corrupting power is to get the person to willfully* choose to participate with the corruption, even in small, seemingly insignificant ways. It isn't initially about the potential damage of the initial choice, but to get them to choose to violate their standards, because in choosing we change ourselves.

The issue with the names was not what Daniel and his three friends chose, but what others chose to call them. The issue with the food however, was what they choose to do in governance of themselves. They didn't seek to get others to conform to their way of living or practicing, but it was their choice not to cross lines they believed would violate their conscience, which was sensitive to God's design.

This is why Satan had to get Adam and Eve to choose to take of the Tree of Knowledge—it wasn't that the Tree of Knowledge was poisonous, but the choice of distrusting God is what changed them.

It is always Satan's goal to get us to choose, even on something that seems in itself harmless—like a piece of non-poisonous fruit—the act of choosing changes us.

Brain science of those who become physically addicted to substances involuntarily, (i.e. they were given an IV infusion of the addicting meds) were compared with those who chose to take the opiates.

In the brain regions where we experience pleasure and reward both groups had the same negative brain changes. However, in the orbital pre-frontal cortex, where we experience a conviction of wrong-doing (i.e. our consciences) only those who chose to self-administer the drugs experienced negative brain changes here. (The Journal of Global Drug Policy and Practice:

http://www.globaldrugpolicy.org/Issues/Vol%202%20Issue%202/Neurobiology%20of%20Addication%20and%20the%20Adolescent%20Brain.pdf

Surg Neurol Int. 2011; 2: 19. Published online 2011 Feb 21. doi: 10.4103/2152-7806.76977)

The point, we must choose in order for our consciences to be seared and characters corrupted.

So the lines we draw are the lines in governance of self—we do not choose what other people do or what others call us.

TUESDAY

The lesson points out the conflict over diet and Daniel and friends challenge of a 10-day test. The concern of the overseer was that Daniel and his friends would become unhealthy—why did the Babylonian captain have this concern?

Because, being a product of his culture, he believed a lie about what was actually healthy.

Today, we see this all the time, where people are raised to believe a certain practice, idea, way of doing things and are resistant to change:

- Germ theory was resisted by physicians when proposed by Pasteur and Lister
- Hypertension as a medical problem that needed treatment also resisted
- The health damaging effects to most people of most animal products, is resisted (Why did I say to most people of most animal products, rather than all people of all animal products?)
- The rejection of the legal views of the plan of salvation and the embracing of design law—worshiping the Creator and His plan to heal His people.

Read last paragraph, "As we look into the interaction…" "After all, what could be a better diet than the one God originally gave us?"

Of course—there can be no better diet than the one God originally gave us—but what is the problem with this statement?

It assumes that we can have that diet today—we cannot—who has access to the Tree of Life? Who has access to any plant-based food that has not been tainted by genetic and environmental decay and corruption?

All nature groans under the weight of sin—plants are not as God created them. In Eden; there were no thorns, thistles, or toxic, poisonous plants in Eden. There was no poison ivy, no death angel mushrooms, no nightshade or hemlock. There was no genetically modified foods, which evidence suggests contribute to obesity and inflammatory diseases.

Despite the fact that we do not have access to the diet that God originally gave us, the evidence supports that plant-based whole food, organic, non-GMO diets are healthiest for MOST people. But some people have genetic or other health issues that require them to eat various animal products to maintain their best health.

I will include only one quotation from one of the founders of the SDA church who initiated the entire SDA health practices:

> Do not go to extremes in regard to the health reform. Some of our people are very careless in regard to health reform. But because some are far behind, you must not, in order to be an example to them, be an extremist. You must not deprive yourself of that class of food which makes good blood. Your devotion to true principles is leading you to submit yourself to a diet which is giving you an experience that will not recommend health reform. This is your danger. When you see that you are becoming weak physically, it is essential for you to make changes, and at once. Put into your diet something you have left out. It is your duty to do this. Get eggs of healthy fowls. Use these eggs cooked or raw. Drop them uncooked into the best unfermented wine you can find. This will supply that which is necessary to your system. Do not for a moment suppose that it will not be right to do this.... CD 204.1

This is what I love about this author—she always promotes principles of health, not conformity to rules.

The bottom green section asks what is it about Daniels' free choice that opens the way for God to act?

What do you think of this question? Why does Daniel need to choose if God is sovereign in working out His will?

Because God is sovereign over God and God's laws—and God's sovereignty is in running God's universe upon God's design laws, one of which is the law of liberty.

What God wants is our love, trust, loyalty, devotion and restoration to His perfect design. This is only possible in us by our choosing—it is our exercising our freewill choices to participate with God that we experience God's presence and healing power and are actually healed and transformed. thoughts?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Daniel and his companions…" Why do you think in the OT Levitical system people who served in the Temple could have no blemishes?

Because it was theater—it acted out or represented a larger reality—what?

It represented sinners restored to righteousness. Thus, within the theater, only the healthy, those without blemish, could represent those who have been healed from sin. If people had blemishes then it would send the false signal that God will take to heaven those who remained sinful in character.

Why don't we require this of all who hold church office today? Why don't we require all our pastors and church leaders to be without any blemishes, no skin cancers, no strokes, no vitiligo, no rosacea, no blindness or deafness—why not?

Because we are not acting out theater, we are living out reality and physical deformities or health problems were just symbolic of sickness of heart, mind and character, they are not actual character defects. Today it is about reality that matters. Today we should NOT allow people with untreated malignancy of character to be in leadership of our churches, only those who though infected with sinfulness, are actively partaking God's treatment and being healed should be permitted into leadership positions.

If we don't apply the OT rules prohibiting those with blemishes from being in leadership in the church, why do we apply the rules prohibiting women from being in leadership?

Read second paragraph, "God honors…" How do you read this? What does it mean?

Does it mean because they kept the rule God gave, God used His divine power to miraculously give them better health? Or, is this a result of living in harmony with God's design laws, which bring us ever closer to our Creator, which is always healing to us?

Why do the commandments say the sins pass down three and four generations—is God using His power to inflict suffering on our children and grandchildren for our sins—or is it describing design law—the law of genetics, epigenetics and the influences of parenting?

Is it just the physical laws of health—of eating nutritious foods that are at work with Daniel and his friends?

I would suggest no—it is even more about having a clear conscience, doing what they believe is right. When we violate our consciences, we make negative brain changes that impair pre-frontal cortex activity and critical reasoning skills. Further, we activate stress circuits which increase inflammatory stress on the body contributing to further negative brain changes which undermine thinking and learning. Further, stress impairs sleep, and memories consolidate in sleep, so clear conscience with sound sleep improves not only thinking, but memory retention.

Are such blessings only because God acts in a supernatural way to give abilities, or are they a result of living in harmony with God and His designs for life?

And when we live in harmony with God and His designs and seek Him with a sincere heart, do we place ourselves in a position to receive from God greater insights, wisdom, understanding, abilities, knowledge, than we would ever be able to learn on our own?

THURSDAY

The lesson points out that Daniel and his friends, in their education in Babylon, had to learn about the Babylonian gods, their mystical and pagan practices and become knowledge experts in these systems of thought.

What lessons do we learn from this?

Isn't it a law, that by beholding we are changed? (The law of worship) Why were Daniel and his friends not corrupted by studying these subjects?

Because Daniel and his friends made it their daily routine to submit themselves to God, open their minds to God, seek FIRST the truth about God and then filter all they learned in Babylon through the truth of God. Thus, anything in Babylon that was true they could believe and practice, and anything that was false they could understand but categorize as false and not practice.

In my residency, I had to read all the major psychiatric theorists (Freud, Jung, Adler and many others). Their writings are essentially godless and very intellectual. They absolutely have the ability to change a person and this is one of the reasons that the field of psychiatry has the highest percentage of physicians who do not believe in God than any other specialty.

I could feel the pull, the pressure, these writings were having on me, so during my residency for every hour I spent reading these theorists I spent two hours reading the Bible and other Christians writings. I worked to filter what I was reading through Scripture retaining that which was true and rejecting those parts which were not.

This was quite difficult, but doable with, deep study and continual mindset of prayer seeking the leading of the Spirit of Truth. My book Could It Be This Simple? was a result of these years of study.

I realized Freud was correct about the ID, the carnal nature, and its primary drives of pleasure-seeking and aggression that lead us to temptation. Sullivan was right that we have a primary drive to seek relationships—which I understand was built into us by God. Beck was right that our feelings follow what we choose to believe and thus by identifying unhealthy thoughts and replacing them with healthy thoughts we can experiencing healing.

I think Daniel and his friends did this, they studied these systems of the Babylon, but stayed grounded in the truth about God first and this is how they were blessed with wisdom to discern the truth from the error.

The last paragraph states the Cyrus was chosen by God to liberate God's people. What does this mean? Does it mean that God over-road Cyrus's freewill?

Why was Cyrus chosen? Was it because God, in His foreknowledge, knew Cyrus would have a heart sensitive to the Holy Spirit and seek to do that which was right, in harmony with God's kingdom, and be open to the leading of the Holy Spirit?

2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 3
From Mystery to Revelation

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

What does the title, From Mystery to Revelation bring to mind?

Do you think merely of the infinite knowledge of God and our finiteness and all the mysteries of the universe we seek to understand?

Is God the revealer of mysteries? Is the Bible one of God's primary means to reveal mysteries to us? But what mysteries is God revealing through the Bible?

- Is it all mysteries?
- Are some mysteries not especially revealed by God but left for us to discover on our own?
- What type of mystery is God actively revealing—especially in the Bible?

I read this quote from the book Counsels to Parents, Teachers, and Students, what do you think?

> So also Christ presented the principles of truth in the gospel. In His teaching we may drink of the pure streams that flow from the throne of God. Christ could have imparted to men knowledge that would have surpassed any previous disclosures, and put in the background every other discovery. He could have unlocked mystery after mystery and could have concentrated around these wonderful revelations the active, earnest thought of successive generations till the close of time. But He would not spare a moment from teaching the science of salvation. His time, His faculties, and His life were appreciated and used only as a means for working out the salvation of the souls of men. He had come to seek and to save that which was lost, and He would not be turned from His purpose. He allowed nothing to divert Him. CT 385.7

Does this suggest there are different types of mysteries and God is not actively revealing all of them?

What truth is God actively working to reveal?

Before we specify what the mystery of God is—what is the theme of Scripture?

It is a war between the forces of God and the forces of Satan; truth, love, freedom versus lies, selfishness and coercion.

Satan is the father of lies—what would lies create in the minds of people who believe them? Misunderstanding, confusion, distortion, falsehood, i.e. things not understood, mysteries.

God is the God of truth, of light, of openness. God is the revealer of truth, the source of truth and God is constantly shining truth out for our understanding.

Satan is the father of lies, the creator of falsehood, the obstructer of understanding, the founder of superstition and thus the promoter of mystery, and mysticism, and spiritualism.

And what is spiritualism—it is a form of mysticism, that purports to pursue knowledge but its method is to seek knowledge without evidence and without reason—which actually darkens the understanding.

Spiritualism seeks to know something via:

- the lines on the hand
- the selecting of cards
- the shape of tea leaves
- the falling of bones
- the entrails of animals
- the declaration of a fortune teller

None of the methods of spiritualism is based upon evidence, facts, or reality, but merely claims—thus it is the ground of the deceiver and liar who has no truth on his side!

Satan the creator of lies is the creator of confusion and mysteries in regard to God, God's design law, God's character, God's method, God's purposes, and God's plan of salvation.

God is the source of truth and is the revealer, the one who makes known, the one who provides light, evidence, facts, and reality to free our minds from lies. God wants us to think, to reason, to understand and to follow the truth for the truth will set us free.

Now, let's examine a little more closely the specific mystery that Satan's lies have created and the truth God is revealing.

> "Having made known to us the mystery of His will, according to His good pleasure which He purposed in Himself, that in the dispensation of the fullness of the times He might gather together in one all things in Christ, both which are in heaven and which are on earth—in Him." Eph 1:9,10 NKJV

What is this mystery, this thing that was not known or understood and which God is revealing?

That the universe will be unified by Jesus—He will be the One who brings us all into unity as we unite with Him.

In Daniel Chapter 2, Daniel in revealing Nebuchadnezzar's dream says:

> [27] "No wise man, enchanter, magician or diviner can explain to the king the mystery he has asked about, [28] but there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries. [notice God is a revealer, One who makes known, not one who obscures or creates confusion] He has shown King Nebuchadnezzar what will happen in days to come. Your dream and the visions that passed through your mind as you lay on your bed are these:
> [29] "As you were lying there, O king, your mind turned to things to come, and the revealer of mysteries showed you what is going to happen. [30] As for me, this mystery has been revealed to me, not because I have greater wisdom than other living men, but so that you, O king, may know the interpretation and that you may understand what went through your mind.

- What was this mystery that was revealed to the king through Daniel? "In the time of those kings, the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that will never be destroyed"
- What was the mystery revealed? All the universe being brought back into unity through the Rock, and that Rock is who? Jesus Christ

Notice this mystery in the New Testament:

- Romans 11:25,26: "I do not want you to be ignorant of this mystery, brothers, so that you may not be conceited: Israel has experienced a hardening in part until the full number of the Gentiles has come in. [26] And so all Israel will be saved…"
  - What is this mystery? Bringing Jews and Gentiles together into one group of unified saved—the same mystery—God's eternal kingdom.

- Romans 16:25-27: "Now to him who is able to establish you by my gospel and the proclamation of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery hidden for long ages past, [26] but now revealed and made known through the prophetic writings by the command of the eternal God, so that all nations might believe and obey him—
  - What is this mystery? Bringing all nations into unity—the same mystery.

- 1Cor 15:51-52: "Listen, I tell you a mystery: We will not all sleep, but we will all be changed— [52] in a flash, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, the dead will be raised imperishable, and we will be changed."
  - What is this mystery?
  - The fulfillment of eliminating sin and restoring His creation back to perfection and thus bringing us back into unity with the rest of the universe—the same mystery—just a little more detail

- Ephesians 3:2-6: "Surely you have heard about the administration of God's grace that was given to me for you, [3] that is, the mystery made known to me by revelation, as I have already written briefly. [4] In reading this, then, you will be able to understand my insight into the mystery of Christ, [5] which was not made known to men in other generations as it has now been revealed by the Spirit to God's holy apostles and prophets. [6] This mystery is that through the gospel the Gentiles are heirs together with Israel, members together of one body, and sharers together in the promise in Christ Jesus."

    - What mystery? The same mystery—bringing all back into unity through Christ!

- Ephesians 5:25-33: "Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her [26] to make her holy, cleansing her by the washing with water through the word, [27] and to present her to himself as a radiant church, without stain or wrinkle or any other blemish, but holy and blameless. [28] In this same way, husbands ought to love their wives as their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself. [29] After all, no one ever hated his own body, but he feeds and cares for it, just as Christ does the church— [30] for we are members of his body. [31] "For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and be united to his wife, and the two will become one flesh." [32] This is a profound mystery—but I am talking about Christ and the church."
    - What mystery? Bringing all people back into unity or oneness with Christ as Jesus prayed in John 17—the same mystery!

- Col 1:26-27: "the mystery that has been kept hidden for ages and generations, but is now disclosed to the saints. [27] To them God has chosen to make known among the Gentiles the glorious riches of this mystery, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory."
    - What mystery? Healing of our hearts and minds by the indwelling Spirit who takes the perfection of Christ and reproduces it in us who choose to trust Him—and thereby bringing us all unto unity with God and His design laws for life.

So what is the mystery of God? It is bringing the universe back into unity—but how? What method does God use? God wars against the liar and deceiver by revealing the truth about Himself, His character, His methods, His design laws, and the truth purges the lies and wins us back to trust. In trust, we receive a new heart and right spirit, become partakers of the divine nature—the victory of Christ applied in us.

So, the mystery of God is His plan and actions to remove sin, selfishness, lies, corruption, and all deviations from His perfect design of love and restore His character of love, methods of truth and freedom into the hearts and minds of all who trust Him, thus bringing us into genuine unity with him and the unfallen universe.

Why is this a mystery? Because our minds are infected with lies that obscure the truth about God. God is the revealer, the source of truth who is warring against the liar in order to fix the damage in our hearts and minds.

And when will God's ultimate completion of this mystery, this healing and restoration of all who trust Him occur?

Consider this text:

- Revelation 10:7: "But in the days when the seventh angel is about to sound his trumpet, the mystery of God will be accomplished, just as he announced to his servants the prophets."

Do we find ourselves nearing this time? Do we see more truth being revealed today than ever before in human history? Remember the prophecy of the "Sun of righteousness arising with healing in his beams"?

Do we have a role to play? What is our role?

SUNDAY

The Immanence of God

Immanence means: to remain with, to indwell, to be inherent

So, the immanence of God would refer to God with us, God remaining close to us, God indwelling us.

The lesson focuses our attention on Nebuchadnezzar's dream of the multi-metal statue and his inability to remember the details, yet the conviction that it was extremely important. The story unfolds with Nebuchadnezzar demanding his wise men tell him the dream and its interpretation and how they argue this is impossible, culminating with the death sentence and then Daniel's petition for time, Daniel's prayer to God and God's revelation to Daniel of the dream and its meaning.

We all know the story—what I want to focus upon are the methods of God revealed in this story.

What is the context of OT Scripture? It is the war between good and evil: God working to eradicate sin and heal His creation and Satan opposing Him. The one single requirement upon which God's plan hinges is the coming Messiah. Without Jesus, God cannot save planet earth.

Thus, the OT is the record of God working to bring the Messiah and Satan warring to prevent His arrival.

But Satan failed to stop Jesus from being born, so once Jesus was born to Mary, Satan's war had to shift focus. During the 33 years of Christ's life on earth the war shifts to Satan trying to either kill Jesus before Jesus can accomplish His mission on earth (which was to reveal the truth about God AND to develop a perfect, sinless human character thus eradicating the infection of sinfulness) or to get Jesus to corrupt Himself with sin and thus fail in His mission.

Thus, Satan inspired Herod to try and kill baby Jesus. When that didn't work Satan tried to deceive Jesus, bribe Jesus, coerce Jesus but praise God, all of that failed and Jesus accomplished His mission!

After Christ's resurrection Satan's warfare strategy shifts again—no longer is he trying to stop Jesus from being born as a human; no longer is he trying to stop Jesus from accomplishing His mission as a human because those events have happened. So, Satan begins his new strategy to try and destroy all those who know the truth and are followers of Jesus. But that strategy fails, so Satan initiates is final war strategy—he wars to prevent the application of what Jesus accomplished into the hearts and minds of people. In other words, Satan works to infect Christianity with a false view of God so that we fill our Spirit temples Satan's methods and principles i.e. view of God, thereby obstructing the partaking of the truth of God which would restore us to trust and open our hearts to receive the indwelling Spirit to cleanse and restore us.

Satan teaches a false religious system built upon imposed law in which salvation is a legal process occurring in books in order to obstruct people from experiencing the mystery of God—Christ in you the hope of glory.

So, in this story of the dream—notice God's methods? He reveals truth to Nebuchadnezzar—God is a revealer of truth. But God prevents Nebuchadnezzar from remembering the details—why? Because it inspired a real passion, interest, desire in the king do know the truth.

Remember, we will find God when we seek Him with all our hearts. God works to instill a desire for truth, for good, to put enmity between Satan and people. We see this in this story.

God simultaneously, through this method, exposes the counterfeit of Satan, the soothsayers, mystics, fortunetellers as frauds. God does this to undermine the king's confidence in the methods built on deceit and lead the king to value actual truth.

Did God use force to coerce Nebuchadnezzar to believe a certain thing or to take a certain action? No, God used His power to reveal truth to the king which triggered within the king a desire, but the king made freewill choices on how he responded.

While God was working to expose the frauds and to reveal truth, was Satan also working through his agents to try to obstruct the truth? Did the king have to decide how he would respond to the appeals and ideas presented to him by the soothsayers?

What is the application for us today?

MONDAY

The lesson points out that when we face problems we need to remember we are not alone, that we have a God who loves us, who is interested in us personally, who wants to dwell with us and is eager to help us—so we do well to seek Him and to seek His direction, insight, wisdom, will, and direct involvement in solving our problems.

As we do this, however, how can praying to God for His intervention be misused?

- Praying to God for healthy lungs while one continues to smoke
- Praying to God for a healthy marriage while one…fill in the blank:
    - cheats on their spouse
    - physically or verbally abuses their spouse

    - Or—is being physically or verbally abused and one prays for a healthy marriage, but NEVER sets any boundaries, just submits to the mistreatment when they have the ability to leave.
- Praying to pass an exam but not studying when one has the time
- Praying for good health but refusing to eat healthy foods or exercise

What is the point I am making here about prayer?

We err in prayer when we pray for God to overrule the choices we make that He has put into our control. God has given us control over the decisions we make in governance of ourselves. We err when we pray for deliverance but refuse to choose what we know is in harmony with what has been revealed.

God provides us with truth, wisdom, opportunities, but God never does the choosing for us. So to pray to God to act in places where it is our responsibility to act is to misunderstand reality and to stay trapped in some destructive situation.

Sometimes we are faced with opportunities that we don't have sufficient evidence to determine which is the path God would have us take—a job offer comes—should I take it, should I move to a new city etc. In this situation it is quite proper to pray to God for wisdom, discernment, and evidences to seek where He is leading. We ask God for insights, conviction of the Spirit, and ultimately to overrule, we might pray "God, this seems the best given the facts that I currently have. If this isn't your will, reveal to me the evidences to show me and/or simply overrule by closing the door to this opportunity."

I have personally experienced God's answering my prayers in this fashion. But notice, the action one is asking of God is not to act in to make your choices for you, but for insight, wisdom, facts, evidences which you currently don't know, or to overrule if there is something beyond your awareness that would be counter to God's will. God honors these prayers.

In the case of Daniel and his friends, they needed information they could not obtain by study, by research, or from any means within their power. The only way for them to get this information was for God to reveal it to them. So they went to God and asked Him.

The lesson points out two types of prayers—the request for what is needed, and then after the prayer is answered, the prayer of thanksgiving and praise.

Why are these two types of prayer important?

More precisely, for whom are these types of prayer important? Does God need our prayers?

Do our prayers have some impact upon us? What impact to these two types of prayers have upon us?

First type of prayer—the prayer of need—brings our hearts and minds into the truth of our own helplessness, our own limitation, our own inability, and our own hopelessness without God in our lives. It is a prayer of humility that opens our hearts and minds to God, to connect with God, to seek God's presence in our inmost being. This is more than the pursuit of knowledge, such prayer seeks the will of God in our lives and thus opens us to the healing and recreating presence of God. Our fears and insecurities are replaced with love and trust in God. It is part of the process of being transformed as we come into connection with our Creator.

The second type of prayer—the prayer of thanks and praise—solidifies our hearts in love, adoration, appreciation, affiliation, confidence and faith in God. Again working to eradicate our fear and selfishness in the bonds of love and trust.

In other words, prayer is real and has real impact upon those who pray. It is not wishful thinking, it is not magic, it is not mystical, it is tangible and practical, the operating of the mind and heart of a sentient being connecting with our Creator God.

The lesson asks us to read Psalms 138 and consider how it can helps us learn to be more thankful to God. I thought we could compare the NIV to The Remedy for a few verses*:*

Verse 1:

> NIV: I will praise you, O Lord, with all my heart; before the "gods" I will sing your praise.
> REM: With all my heart I give you thanks, O Creator God, before the heavenly assembly I sing your praise.

Verse 2:

> NIV: I will bow down toward your holy temple, and will praise your name > for your love and your faithfulness, for you have exalted above all things, your name and your word.
> REM: I humble myself to your healing presence as taught by your holy temple, > and I praise your character of love; for your methods of truth and love never change, and your promise confirms that your character of love is supreme over all creation.

Verse 3:

> NIV: When I called, you answered me; you made me bold and stouthearted.
> REM: The day I acknowledged my need and called for help, you answered me; you gave me confidence and strength to do what is right.

Verse 7:

> NIV: Though I walk in the midst of trouble, you preserve my life; you stretch out your hand against the anger of my foes, with your right hand you save me.
> REM: Though I live in the midst of a world of troubles, you heal me to live eternally; you send your Hand to stand against my enemies — through the One at your right hand you save me.

Verse 8:

> NIV: The Lord will fulfill his purpose for me; your love, O Lord, endures forever— do not abandon the works of your hands.
> REM: The Lord will complete his healing work in me; your love, O Lord, gives life forever — don't give up on restoring your creation.

TUESDAY/WEDNESDAY

The lesson reviews the history foretold in the prophecy:

- Head of gold—Babylon
- Breast of silver—Media-Persia
- Belly of Bronze—Greece
- Legs of Iron—Rome
- Feet of Iron and Clay—Post Rome Europe

What does this prophecy mean to you? Why do you value it?

Does this prophecy give you confidence in God? Does it give you confidence in the Bible?

In Wednesday's lesson the first paragraph says, "It is an apocalyptic prophecy: a definitive prediction of what God foresaw and would actually bring to pass in the future."

I find this language a little troubling. It appears the way it is written it could be construed as merging foreknowing with causing. In other words, it sounds like if God foreknows it then God will make it happen. This idea is what those who reject God's foreknowledge are objecting to.

They object to the loss of freedom because they realize if we are not free to make our own choices then:

- love doesn't exist
- God is not love

- what we experience in our lives is fraudulent, fake, pretend, preordained to look like we have a choice, but we really don't
- God is a sadistic creator of evil as He makes things happen the way they do

So, to me there are many problems if we merge foreknowledge with causality, which this statement could suggest.

I think a better way to say it would be apocalyptic prophecy is a definitive prediction of what God foreknows people will do along with what God foreknows He will do—i.e. God brings to pass the establishment of His eternal kingdom and the eradication of sin. But God, does cause people to make the choices they make; thus He doesn't bring about their choices, but foreknows their choices.

THURSDAY

The focus is on the stone that destroys the image, let's read Daniel 2:34-35:

> While you were watching, a rock was cut out, but not by human hands. It struck the statue on its feet of iron and clay and smashed them. Then the iron, the clay, the bronze, the silver and the gold were broken to pieces at the same time and became like chaff on a threshing floor in the summer. The wind swept them away without leaving a trace. But the rock that struck the statue became a huge mountain and filled the whole earth.

What does it mean? What law lens do you read it through?

Is it describing the use of might and power to physically overwhelm and destroy?

Are we still reading a prophecy? Does the prophecy use symbols? Do we need to interpret the symbols?

What does a hand or hands represent in Bible symbolism? When we think of the "hand of God" are with thinking of an appendage at the end of God's arm, or does the "hand of God" represent God's power?

So, would a rock cut out without human hands represent without human power?

And the context is in the rise and fall of nations—and how to human kingdoms arise and fall? What power is used? So, does the prophecy reveal a kingdom that doesn't come about by the power humans use? This is an amazing revelation of God's kingdom which will be established but not by the power and methods that human governments use.

What power and methods do human governments use? Lies, coercion, force, power-over to exalt the rulers—selfishness. Destroy one's enemies to protect oneself.

But this kingdom is a rock—would it be the rock of salvation? Would it represent Jesus the rock from whom Israel drank in the desert?

And what power did Jesus use to establish His kingdom, which is NOT of this world? Truth, love, freedom—including giving us the freedom to kill Him.

Thus, there is a kingdom that is coming that will destroy the kingdoms of the world, but it will not use the methods or power over others, the methods of the world to do it. It will not use physical might to kill its enemies. Understand, this is exactly the opposite of what all the false religions of the world teach—including much of Christianity.

Thus Paul writes,

> For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. (2Corinthians 10:3-5 NIV84)

Daniel goes on to interpret the meaning of this rock, set up without human power in verse 44:

> In the time of those kings, the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that will never be destroyed, nor will it be left to another people. It will crush all those kingdoms and bring them to an end, but it will itself endure forever.

What do you think? It will crush those kingdoms—do any other Bible texts come to mind?

> And I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your offspring and hers; he will crush your head, and you will strike his heel. (Genesis 3:15 NIV84)

Jesus will crush Satan's head—the ruler of the kingdoms of this world—how? What power did Jesus use to crush Satan?

Hebrews 2:14, 15:

> Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil—and free those who all their lives were held in slavery by their fear of death.

What power did Jesus use? The power of truth and love presented in an atmosphere of freedom.

> The God of peace will soon crush Satan under your feet. The grace of our Lord Jesus be with you. (Romans 16:20 NIV84)

How does God crush Satan under our feet? By restoring in us His character and methods of love.

God's kingdom is the kingdom of truth, love and freedom. It is built upon the design laws of God, the supreme law being the law of love. Love cannot be coerced or forced. Thus, the kingdoms of this world are crushed—lies are crushed by truth, selfishness and fear are crushed by love and coercion is crushed by freedom.

The Rock, Jesus, establishes His kingdom, but not by human power or methods.

2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 4
From Furnace to Palace

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

The title of the lesson from Furnace to Palace, immediately draws our mind to Daniel's three friends. As we have discussed many times, the Bible records the events of the lives of real people, real, historically accurate—yet the lives and events chosen are often chosen because they also illustrate or represent larger realities in the Great Controversy. How does the events of the fiery furnace, from furnace to palace represent the larger war?

- These men were captives in a land hostile to God. We are captive in this world hostile to God
- These men were faced with a choice to worship the gods of Babylon or to stay faithful the God of heaven. We are faced with the choice to worship the imperial dictator god of this world who imposes laws and inflicts punishment or to worship Him who made the heavens, earth and fountains of water—the Creator God.
- These men were thrown into the fire, but Jesus walked with them and the only thing that burned away were the ropes that bound them, even their clothing did not smell of fire. We will be thrown into fiery trials and Jesus will be there with us and burn away our fears, insecurities, doubts, destructive habits, so that we may be purified and ready to stand in His presence.

Revelation reads:

> I counsel you to buy from me gold refined in the fire, so you can become rich; and white clothes to wear, so you can cover your shameful nakedness; and salve to put on your eyes, so you can see. (Re 3:18 NIV84).

Isaiah 55:1 says:

> "Come, all you who are thirsty, > come to the waters;
> and you who have no money,
> come, buy and eat!
> Come, buy wine and milk > without money and without cost. (NIV84)

- The water is symbolic of the water of life, which cleanses and restores us to trust—it is the pure truth of God that sets our minds free and cleanses our minds of the lies. It also represents the love of God which is pure and frees us from fear.
- The wine symbolic of the perfect life of Jesus of which we partake—we become partakers of the divine nature

- the milk is the milk of truth which the newborn in Christ is to partake to grow up and eat the solid meat of truth, the flesh or bread of truth revealed by Christ (bread is listed in the next verse)

But how do we buy these things without money? The Bible says without money, but it still says we must buy, what does it mean and how do we buy it?

Is there a difference in how you value something when it is given to you and when you buy it?

Can we do any work or bring anything of value that can actually purchase salvation? No! It is achieved by Jesus and it is freely offered to us—yet the Bible still uses the language that we are to buy it—why and with what?

When you buy something of value—a new car, a new home, do you invest time and energy researching, examining, studying the various possibilities, evidences, and facts in order to choose. Do you have a desire to obtain? To you commit yourself to the possession of the object?

We are to buy it in the sense that we are to study, understand, examine and pursue it, seek it with all our hearts:

- Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened. (Mt 7:7,8 NIV84)

- And ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart. (Jeremiah 29:13 ASV)

- "The kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field. When a man found it, he hid it again, and then in his joy went and sold all he had and bought that field. Mt 13:44 NIV84
- "Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant looking for fine pearls. When he found one of great value, he went away and sold everything he had and bought it. Mt 13:45,46 NIV84

So, first we must have a heart attitude that we want to obtain salvation, we want to actually have Jesus in our heart. But, even with that, we still must buy and with what do we buy if not with money?

It is a barter system—we must pay with the thing of ours that we value most that which is most important and precious—our own selves; we must exchange our life for His.

We exchange our:

- sinful life for His sinless life
- corrupt character for His pure character
- our terminal condition for His eternal life
- our guilt and shame for His purity and holiness
- our hearts of stone for His heart of flesh

It is through the fire of life's difficulties and problems that we face our own weaknesses, sinfulness, ugliness of character and we seek God with all our hearts and say to Him:

> Take away my heart of sin, take away my desire for the things of this world, take away my fear, insecurity, doubts, selfishness and write in me your design law of love, a real knowledge of you, give me a new heart and right spirit, that I might partake of your character and be renewed by the Spirit of love and truth. Wash me with the waters of truth, fill me with the love and life of Christ and burn away all the defects so I may stand clean, pure and perfected in your presence Oh Lord!

This is our prayer!

The first paragraph describes how these three worthies made a stand for truth and for God, but how and when did they make their stand public?

In both the issue of food choices and the question of bowing to the idol, did these men go out seeking to make a public statement?

Were they carrying signs marching through Babylon protesting the pagan systems of religion?

Were they standing on the street corners handing out tracts?

Were they holding public meetings to teach the truth about the Hebrew God?

Or, did they take public stands when they were put in positions in which external pressures were brought to bear to try and get them to compromise?

Do we make the most effective witness for God's kingdom by standing on the street corner calling out people's sins, or putting up billboards calling out what we believe are people's sins?

What are the three methods of Satan that were used to try and get the three worthies to compromise their faith?

I want you to see these methods because Satan uses them over and over again and we all get faced with them. The specific temptations are different, but the methods are always the same.

- Deceit—they were faced with constant false pictures of God and pagan ideas about God
- Inducements—some type of a payoff, reward, positive reinforcement—the proverbial carrot. When the issue of food was presented, they were being tempted with position, power, esteem, recognition, and blessing of the king's own food. But when deceit and inducement don't work, what does Satan always resort to?
    - These first two were used to tempt Eve—deceit and inducement to gain knowledge. Satan couldn't tempt Eve in Eden with the third method, but he can us.

- Coercion, threat, infliction of some pain—economic, loss of power, position, humiliation, and ultimately threat to physical wellbeing—torture and death.

Consider how Jesus was tempted of the devil:

- Deceit—Satan pretended to be an angel of light and misquoted Scripture
- Inducement—Satan offered Jesus the kingdoms of the world
- Coercion—infliction of pain, rejection by His friends, physical torture and crucifixion
    - Notice Jesus had to bear temptations that Adam and Eve did not have to bear.

In the Dark Ages these methods were used:

- Deceit—all the lies which infected, and still infects Christianity
- Inducement—indulgences, buying salvation with money or deeds, the church offering lands, titles, or salvation itself to get its way
- Coercion—torture and execution

In our day these same methods are used:

- Deceit—the many pictures of God which teach He runs His universe like Caesar runs Rome—imposing laws, which require the infliction of punishment, so God must be paid off with the blood of His Son not to kill us. Thus trust in God is undermined—and many other lies that infect Christianity to this day.
- Inducement—money, power, position, awards, recognition, just agree to the world's view of things.
- Coercion—no one can buy or sell save him who has the mark of the beast. If we want to keep our position in leadership, schools, universities, government—we must agree to the lies—that there is no God, life evolved from lower organisms. Or, we must worship the dictator god who inflicts punishment. In other words, worldly systems do NOT present truth, in love and leave people free. Worldly systems present their distortions and then ultimately coerce to get compliance and if economic coercion doesn't work then it turns to other coercion, loss of position, power, resources and eventually freedoms and life itself.

SUNDAY

The first paragraph points out that Nebuchadnezzar was not satisfied being the head of gold and didn't want his kingdom to end…

The second paragraph states, "This attitude of pride calls to mind the builders of the Tower of Babel, who, in their arrogance, attempt to challenge God Himself. No less arrogant is Nebuchadnezzar here."

It seems clear the king did struggle with pride and arrogance as revealed in later chapters.

Is it Nebuchadnezzar's fault that he was infected with pride and arrogance? No! He was born infected with it, as we all are because of Adam's sin. We are born in sin (Psalms 51:5).

And, given Nebuchadnezzar's upbringing in Babylon as the heir to the throne, would it be easy for him to gain a knowledge of the true God? What would be the things he was taught about himself in their system? Would he be taught all people are created equally—or would he likely be taught that he was a royal and blessed by the gods and was better than the masses?

When Daniel and the three worthies arrive in Babylon, was the king likely to know God or not know God?

But, as evidenced by the rest of the book of Daniel, does the king have a heart that is still healable?

So, do we read the events transpiring in Daniel as God seeking to punish an arrogant king or as God working to save the king?

Did God foreknow what Nebuchadnezzar would do after he was given the dream of the multi-metal statue? Yes, so why was the vision given? To plant a seed, an idea, to open the king's mind to something more than what he was taught that the king needed to work through to recast the king's understanding of reality and come to know the God of heaven?

Did God foreknow not only that the king would order the statue of gold and command worship, but that His three friends would stand firm and this would provide an opportunity to reach Nebuchadnezzar with more truth?

When we read the OT stories do we see the larger reality being played out? God trying to save while Satan is trying to destroy?

All of this happening under the governance of God—meaning God's control over Himself and His design laws. One of those laws being the law of liberty, thus God respects the choices of people and acts within those choices to bring about the eradication of sin and the healing of His creation.

MONDAY

Again, the lesson not only acknowledges the historical facts and realities of what happened to Shadrack, Meshack, and Abednego, but leads us to see these stories teach a larger reality in the conflict between Christ and Satan.

What is the object lesson for us?

We are facing and are going to continue to face pressures to conform to the world, to accept the world's view of God and those pressures will increase until we either lose things precious to us, or comply. If we comply we might keep things of this world, but what will we lose?

I want to point this out very clearly: When we are faced with choices of conscience, when pressures are brought to bear—whether peer pressures, or pressures to reputation, position, economics, or relationships—we are faced with a decision that has price to it.

If we stay loyal to God we might lose something of value—we might lose friends, we might be rejected by family, we might lose property, position, wealth, we might even lose our mortal lives. But what to we retain? We retain our dignity, our virtue, our integrity, our purity of heart and mind, and ultimately our connection with our Creator who gives us eternal life.

But, if we choose to keep the things of this world, if we choose to compromise to keep a human relationship (Samson and Delilah), property, position, wealth, health or even our mortal lives, we will lose our purity of heart, damage our integrity, sear our consciences, destroy our virtue, corrupt our character and if not repented of we sever our connection with God and lose eternal life.

Satan is a deceiver and one way he deceives is to get us to lose sight of eternal reality and focus on temporal reality.

Read second paragraph, "Today, we are bombarded…" What is the basis of God's authority and what is the basis of the authority of all false gods—including Satan?

Does God's authority come from the Bible? In other words, is the Bible the source of God's authority? No! The Bible is a tool, inspired by God to reveal reality to us, to lead us to a knowledge of God, to expose the lies of the enemy and the results of believing Satan's false view of reality. The Bible communicates God's authority, but is not the source of that authority.

Upon what does God's authority rest—is it power? If we say power, then what kind of power?

Is it the power of physical might and force? No! This is the authority of all false gods—all false gods rest their authority on the ability to inflict punishment on those who do not worship them or obey them. Thus, any place you find in Christianity that God's authority rests upon physical might and power and the ability to punish sinners—you have identified the infection of Satan's lies about God.

So, what kind of power does God's authority rest upon?

Zechariah said, "Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit,' says the LORD Almighty." (Zech 4:6 NIV84)

How does the Spirit work? He is the Spirit of truth and love. Why is this power?
What is Satan the father of? Lies, and what destroys lies? Can you destroy lies by threating to kill those who are lying or those who believe the lies? No! You destroy lies by truth, presented in love and leaving people free.

Thus, Paul said, "I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God for the salvation of everyone who believes: first for the Jew, then for the Gentile." (Romans 1:16 NIV84).

And in the book The Desire of Ages the author beautifully describes this reality:

> God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing *power. DA 759.1

Why is truth and love the prevailing power? Because God wants our love, our trust, our loyalty, our devotion, our friendship—can any of this be obtained by threatening to kill us if we don't give it? Thus physical power cannot be used to win hearts because physical power does not win hearts.

It is the beastly system that uses physical power to coerce. Watch for it and no matter the issue if this method is being used it is not from God.

Please be sure to differentiate coercion from restraining power. Love does use power to restrain:

- Doctors restrain a person who is psychotic and trying to gouge out their own eyes—but restrain only to protect the person and others, not try and force them to love, trust etc. And intervenes with treatments designed to restore the individual to self-control so they can be set free.
- Doctors and governments will quarantine people with contagious diseases, not to force love and trust, but to protect and to treat
- Governments will imprison people who would injure and exploit others, but this restraining power is not designed to force love, trust, or friendship but to protect. In addition to protecting the innocent, incarceration does provide an opportunity for the individual to reflect on their choices and consider their heart motives. Many in prison have turned their lives around and been reborn into God's kingdom of love. Thus the restraining power was an act of love, not a coercion.
- God has used power in this way—holding back the principalities and powers of darkness, the four winds of strife, providing a hedge of protection to prevent evil forces from destroying all who love God. All of this to keep open the avenue for Messiah and provide opportunity for healing.

So, God's authority rests upon truth—reality, the design laws upon which He built all life to operate. To the degree we speak truth we speak with authority—because the truth is authoritative, whether people accept it or not.

But some really struggle with the use of physical power. They understand design law and that God doesn't have to inflict punishment for sin because the punishment is inherent in breaking God's law, and they attempt to teach God that because God never uses physical power to coerce consciences, or to inflict punishment for sin that He never uses physical power that puts people in the grave, i.e. first death of sleep, for other reasons.

I have received multiple emails from people concerned with the idea that God sometimes used physical power to put people to death—first death, which is sleep death, and not the second eternal death. This death is not the punishment for sin, and in fact isn't considered death by God—Jesus said those who believe in Him never die, even though they sleep in the grave.

I received the following email from a sincere person who had read my recent blog on the flood and this question of whether God ever puts people to sleep in the first death:

> I have fully read your article three times and in our group we use your materials and other materials from other proponents on God's Character message.
> Let's reason together little by little based on your article on the Flood and see whether we can arrive at a common understanding.
> First question on the flood and probably Sodom:
> *If God was merely putting people to sleep, why did He make it so painful, such as using flood to drown, fire to roast people alive, including kids? Couldn't He have used a less painful means? Does God need to use violence and the most fearful events in the whole universe before He can put people to sleep?*
> Again, why was the flood worldwide and not limited to only the inhabitants of the then world? Why has the flood left huge devastations of our planet and destabilized our ecosystem if God had to merely put the humans to sleep?
> With the idea that God's power is destructive has lead many people to believe that God is the source of death. Aren't they right to conclude it in that way without the idea of the flood and its subsequent consequences on our ecosystem?

I appreciate so much these emails because they are good questions, probing questions and questions that give us opportunity to reflect, rethink, examine the evidence, reason together and hopefully grow in our understanding.

How would you answer these questions?

Take each point one at a time and examine them and use evidences to respond:

> *If God was merely putting people to sleep, why did He make it so painful, such as using flood to drown, fire to roast people alive, including kids? Couldn't He have used a less painful means? Does God need to use violence and the most fearful events in the whole universe before He can put people to sleep?*

Notice the question introduces an idea that is not in the Bible, it is assumed, or read into the events—that God roasted people slowly torturing them.

But the Bible account is that the fire that destroyed Sodom was so intense the buildings were wiped out. It wasn't a slow burning but instant—vaporization.

How painful is it to be vaporized in a nuclear explosion? So, God acting to vaporize Sodom was not a painful thing. So, it is right to reject the idea that God roasted and tortured people—because He didn't. But, we can reject that misunderstanding without rejecting the truth that He did put those people to sleep.

What about the flood? Drowning in those waters wasn't instantaneous, so didn't this cause suffering and didn't it affect the entire planet, its ecosystem, and all subsequent generations? Yes.

Why? The reason the flood was worldwide was because, according to Genesis 6, the problem was worldwide and, thus, the therapeutic interventions needed to be worldwide.

And what were those therapeutic interventions—besides keeping open the avenue for the Messiah?

First Therapeutic Reason for the Flood: Providing Every Opportunity for Repentance

Didn't God warn, through Noah, for 120 years of a coming flood, of their sinfulness, of their need to repent, of their need to turn to Him for salvation? How did they respond to the message of Noah? Ridicule and rejection. What would allowing the flood to occur over a period of time (rain, fountains of water breaking through, etc.) allow for? Would it allow for some people to reflect and to reconsider? Would the evidence of what was transpiring confirm to them that Noah was right? Would that give the people outside the ark the opportunity to repent? Whether they accept it or not isn't the question I'm asking here; rather, I'm saying that wouldn't a God of love give every opportunity for repentance even if that opportunity was physically painful?

Did the thief on the cross have many truths presented to him throughout his life—yet persistently rejected God, pursuing a sinful life until he ended up in a state of suffering leading toward death? Did that situation give him opportunity to reflect and repent, even though he was destined to die at that point?

Thus, the flood was brought not only to keep open the avenue for Messiah, but it also allowed those who refused to get on the ark one final opportunity for repentance and eternal salvation. Just like the thief, their earthly life was going to be over, but their eternal life didn't have to be.

Second Therapeutic Reason for the Flood: Putting Obstacles in the Way of Future Worldwide Apostacy

What were the factors, besides humans being sinful, that contributed to the entire world hardening against God so quickly after Eden? What happens to sinful people when everything is given to them and they don't have to work for anything? What happens over time to people who are self-indulgent and lead hedonistic lives? What happens if such people live hundreds of years? What influence would such people have on their children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and multiple generations down?

Would altering the environment to make it harder to survive be a punishment for sin or, rather, a therapeutic intervention that would help slow the corruption of human character? Have you ever heard that "idle hands are the devil's workshop?"—i.e., useful labor is protective against temptation.

The Edenic-like conditions on the earth prior to the flood permitted more indulgence of the carnal nature and, thus, accelerated the corruption of human character. The changes to the earth by the flood made it harder to put food on the table and, thus, increased the need for useful labor, which also protected people from sinful indulgence.

Further, the changes to the earth resulted in shortening human life from about 900 years to 120 years, which also limited the pace of the spread of evil, as those who hardened their hearts against God could not corrupt as many generations with their influence. So, putting all these variables together, we see a beautiful God of love who acts in mercy and therapeutically to keep open the avenue for Messiah and slow the progress of the disease of sin.

The story of the flood serves as an excellent example of the difference between facts—flood, ecosystem changed, lives shortened—and the interpretation of facts. Satan works to get us to misinterpret the facts in order to distort the character of God. When we return to design law and understand how reality works, we realize that God was not inflicting punishment but was acting therapeutically to heal and save.

If we don't understand the context of what is actually transpiring in the great controversy, the reality of humanity dying of a terminal condition, of God working to bring the Messiah to save, and Satan working to prevent that plan, then we will misunderstand what we read in the Bible.

Consider observing an ancient battlefield on which you see evil people with swords killing and maiming—sometimes cutting off arms or legs. But on the battlefield, there are also medical personnel who appear to be doing the same thing. They are holding people down, people who are screaming because no anesthesia available, and cutting off their arms and legs (amputating to save the life) or cutting open their bellies (to heal the wounds inflicted). But as the observer, you perceive two groups of people using sharp instruments to cut off limbs and cut into people. You don't realize the two groups are working toward two different goals. You might wrongly conclude, "My doctor would never use such methods; it is evil."

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "For the three Hebrews…" I am not sure what they mean by "they cannot join the ceremony." Didn't they show up for the ceremony? Weren't they on the plane of Dura with the rest of the people when the music played? So, it seems there were there for the ceremony, but they didn't "join in" meaning they didn't participate in the worship of the idol. Perhaps the editors left out the word "in"?

So, what lessons for us? Are there times where we might attend programs, events, or ceremonies that we don't agree with but at the same time don't participate in the process?

Can we make hard and fast rules about what we should attend and not attend, or do such situations have to be evaluated on a case by case basis?

The bottom green section points out that the three worthies knew what God could do. He could deliver them from the furnace. But they didn't know what God would do, so even if God didn't deliver them they would not bow. Meaning, they were ready to die for their faith. The lesson asks where does such faith come from?

What are the reasons people are willing to die for something?

Ultimately, it comes down to living would be worse to them than dying, or another way to say it, death is preferable to living in those circumstances. This can be driving by love for God or others, but is not always driven by faith in God or godly motives, here are examples:

- Dying for someone you love or value (parent for child, soldier for buddy)
- Dying for love for God (martyrs)
- Dying for one's ego—the idea of compromise would cause one to feel so bad about who they are they would rather die than give in to what is asked of them
- Dying for a cause one believes in—righteous or wicked (consider suicide bombers)
- Dying to escape pain or suffering—the right-to-die suicides
- Dying to achieve a mission—Samson

Which of the motives was likely the motives of the three worthies?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson identifies that the fourth man in the fire was Jesus, and then goes on to ask a poignant question in the fifth paragraph:

"Though we love stories like these, they do raise the question about others who are not miraculously delivered from persecution for their faith."

It also raised the question of those not miraculously delivered from sickness, accidents, or exploitation—despite prayers for healing, protection or deliverance.

What do you say to those who have such questions?

What is the context—the real context, the larger context, not the immediate context? We are in a war between good and evil for our eternal lives.

Is the primary issue in this war what happens to our mortal bodies or whether we are reconciled to God and have eternal life?

From God's perspective what is He most concerned with? All the people Jesus healed while on earth, where are they today? Was Jesus primarily concerned with their mortal physical health, or their eternal salvation?

If you had a rope from our sun to earth, which was 93 million miles long and every inch on that rope represents 1 year of human life. Is there any significant difference between 15 inches and 969 inches? What if the rope was an infinite rope?

From God's perspective He created humankind to live eternally, to never die. From His perspective, whether we die at 1 or 20 or 969 we all die young. Additionally, we must remember what we call death God calls sleep—so it isn't this sleep death that concerns God most, but the condition of the heart. Has the person been healed in heart so that they have eternal life. This is the question.

So, in this context, for whom do most of the miracles happen—do they happen for the benefit of those with the greatest faith or for those whose faith needs help?

- Gideon and the fleece—did he need to miracle because his faith was strong or his faith was weak and needed encouraging?
- When Elijah called fire down at Carmel—was this miracle for Elijah's benefit, or was it to help people whose faith was weak?
- Shadrack, Meshack, and Abednego—did they need the miracle in the furnace to stay faithful? While I am sure they were pleased, and they did benefit from the miracle, was it for them that the miracle was given, or was it to reach Nebuchadnezzar?
- Job is described as perfect and righteous in all his ways—did he receive miracles to protect his children, property and health? No! Because his faith was of such quality miracles were not needed to strengthen it.
- When Jesus performed miracles were they for Him or for those who were struggling to establish their faith in Him?
- When the Apostles performed miracles were they for the Apostles or for those who were struggling to have faith in Jesus?
- How did all the Apostles except John die? As martyrs, why no miracles to deliver them? Because their faith didn't require boosting.
- But John was miraculously protected from boiling oil—was it primarily for John, or was it for the spreading of the gospel and the writing of two books of the Bible (John and Revelation)?
- Jonah's miracles (fish and plant)—for whom were they given? For both Jonah and the people of Nineveh—to advance the plan of salvation.

So, my view is that miracles happen when:

- A person or group needs the miracle to strengthen their faith
- God's plan of salvation needs a person to fulfill some mission or purpose (John)

- God is teaching and revealing truth (Jonah and the plant, Balaam)
- To maintain connection with people (Elijah)
- To oppose the spread of evil and to advance the gospel—confusing the languages at Babel, the gift of languages at Pentecost

So, for me, it is about the great controversy and winning the war, which on individual terms is about the character of the person, their faith and their usefulness in God's cause. Sometimes the death of the one who trusts God helps spread the gospel—consider Stephen—so God doesn't miraculously intervene to prevent it. I pray to have such faith if that were ever God's need of me to reach more for Him.

THURSDAY

The lesson talks about the strength and function of faith.

Read second paragraph, "In order to develop…" thoughts?

I think this is well said, real faith doesn't put God to tests, but trusts God with how things turn out.

- The just shall live by faith. (Romans 1:17 KJV)

What does this mean? Other versions render it this way:

- The righteous will live by faith. (Romans 1:17 NIV84)

What does it mean?

With what law lens to you read it through? Through the false human law lens it is read as the just or righteous are those who live by faith in the legal payment of Jesus who is in heaven pleading His blood to the Father to pay or legal debt. If we have this faith then God declares us to be righteous, even though we are not, and thus we are the just i.e. among those legally justified.

This is all a lie—it is a fraud built upon the lie that God's law functions like human law. When we return to worship our Creator God, Him who made the heavens, earth, fountains of water we realize His laws are design laws, protocols upon which reality is built. And the righteous are those who are actually restored to live in harmony with God. Thus the law is written upon their hearts and minds (Heb 8:10).

So, through design law we realize the Just shall live by faith means:

those who have been set right in heart with God, i.e. made righteous, put right, or justified, live by choosing in governance of self to do that which is right or just (i.e. live in harmony with God's design law of love, truth, liberty) and then trust God with the outcome.

The three worthies had to decide in governance of self whether they would bow or not bow—that was their decision. The just or right action in harmony with God's law of love, truth, liberty and worship—was not to bow. They made this righteous or just choice, and then trusted God with the outcome. The just shall live by doing what is right in governance of self and then trusting God with how things turn out.

2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 5
From Pride to Humility

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read second paragraph, "Pride leads to…" We fallen beings are absolutely dependent upon God for our existence, but all living beings—unfallen as well as fallen—are dependent upon God for their existence. He is Creator and sustainer of all life.

However, we fallen need reminding of this and the unfallen do not—why? Because we humans on earth have our minds clouded to reality. Many don't even believe in God any more, don't know about God, or have such distorted views about God they don't realize their life is from Him. Or, pride and selfishness and the survival drives cause them to think they are self-sustaining.

What do you think of this sentence, "Any gifts we have, any things that we accomplish with those gifts, come only from God."

How is this true and how could this statement be misunderstood?

Did God give Samson strength? Yes, then was everything Samson accomplished with that strength from God? If we mean everything Samson did was made possible because God gave the gift and without the gift of strength Samson couldn't have done some of the things he did—then yes, it is from God. But if we mean the specific actions were God's will then no, it wasn't from God.

Has God given human beings the gift of pro-creation, the ability to have children?

Does that mean when a man rapes a woman and she becomes pregnant, that it was an act of God or a gift from God or God's will?

My point is that all life and all talents, gifts, abilities ultimately do come from God as He is the source of all Creation—but that doesn't mean all actions or accomplishments that people do with those gifts are from God. People can abuse the abilities and gifts God has given them to accomplish things that are not God's will and do not come from God.

Consider giving your child a gift of a new car—they only have the car because you have it to them. They then use the car to smuggle drugs across the border—are the smuggled drugs accomplished by you?

The first sentence in the last paragraph states that it took a long time for Nebuchadnezzar to recognize the importance of humility.

topics@comeandreason.com

What is healthy humility and what is unhealthy humility?

Healthy humility is a recognition of truth—one's own finiteness, one's own infection with fear and selfishness, one's own limitations, vulnerabilities and weaknesses—yet under the umbrella of one's calling and purpose in God's plan and in that relationship with God there is confidence and strength that we receive from God as we acknowledge our dependence upon Him.

Unhealthy humility:

- feeling worthless, useless, and of no value
- humility that leads to helplessness
- humility that leads to dependency on others such that one doesn't act but follows others
- humility that makes the humility their point of pride—acting in ways to draw attention to their humility—I'm humble and proud of it
- humility that resides in the heart as humiliation

SUNDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on Nebuchadnezzar's dream about a great tree that is cut down for 7 years, the king's pride and then 7 years of insanity and living like an animal and then restoration.

What do we learn from this story?

Who did Nebuchadnezzar see in his dream? The holy watchers—and it is from this story that we got the title and idea for The Journal of the Watcher.

Who are the watchers? Some type of heavenly being—are they angels, seraphim, cherubim, or are they some other species of heavenly being? We are not told. But they are involved in the events transpiring upon earth—why?

Because they were involved before the events moved to the earth—because the war between God and Satan is a cosmic war.

What do you make of the fact that they are described as watchers and holy ones?

The names describe function and condition of being. These are beings who are not defiled by sin, yet are watching—what is implied by this description?

Why would holy, sinless beings be watching? Is it because they don't know everything, more than that, is it because some things have actually been mispresented by Satan and they are watching for evidences, for answers, to observe to see God in action?

And what do we learn when we realize that it was these watchers who suggested the 7 years of insanity upon Nebuchadnezzar?

What law lens are we viewing this through? Was this to punish or was it to save the king?

It was to save, to bring him to repentance and eternal salvation, then this was not punishment for sin, but a therapeutic intervention to heal him and to spread the truth about God.

Do we learn of the methods and character of God—that God intervenes to heal and not to inflict punishment?

Do we learn that God's holy ones are on our side working to help us?

> Are not all angels ministering spirits sent to serve those who will inherit salvation? Hebrews 1:14-2:1
> Concerning this salvation, the prophets, who spoke of the grace that was to come to you, searched intently and with the greatest care, trying to find out the time and circumstances to which the Spirit of Christ in them was pointing when he predicted the sufferings of Christ and the glories that would follow. It was revealed to them that they were not serving themselves but you, when they spoke of the things that have now been told you by those who have preached the gospel to you by the Holy Spirit sent from heaven. Even angels long to look into these things. 1Peter 1:20-12

And one of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> If you are in communion with Christ, you will place His estimate upon every human being. You will feel for others the same deep love that Christ has felt for you. Then you will be able to win, not drive, to attract, not repulse, those for whom He died…COL 197.1
> In this work all the angels of heaven are ready to co-operate. All the resources of heaven are at the command of those who are seeking to save the lost. Angels will help you to reach the most careless and the most hardened. And when one is brought back to God, all heaven is made glad; seraphs and cherubs touch their golden harps, and sing praises to God and the Lamb for their mercy and loving-kindness to the children of men. COL 197.2

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "Daniel not only interprets…" What was Daniel's advice to the king? Why did Daniel give this advice? Does Daniel's advice suggest that Daniel thought this prophecy was conditional, that it depended on the king, that if the king humbled himself and repented this prophecy may be averted?

Does this mean that not all prophecy in the book of Daniel is apocalyptic? Remember, apocalyptic is what God brings about and doesn't depend upon human choice. Did this prophecy depend upon the arrogance and pride of Nebuchadnezzar?

Whether we see it as punishment (the legal adherents) or therapeutic intervention (design law), is either action necessary if Nebuchadnezzar repents? So, isn't what is foretold in this prophecy a direct result of Neb's choices and condition of heart?

Read second paragraph, "Nebuchadnezzar performs…" What method of ruling others is employed by Nebuchadnezzar? Power over, coercion, force, enslavement, exploitation.

Notice the contrast between Satan's method of governing and God's:

Lucifer in heaven sought to raise his throne above the Most High in order to rule over all beings, the power over others and make the masses serve him.

Jesus did not think equality with God was something to be grasped but humbled Himself to become one who serves others…God's method is to give to build up others.

The governments of the world have historically all used Satan's methods with a few ruling elites dominating and exploiting the masses:

- Pharaohs of Egypt
- Emperors of China
- Shoguns and Emperors of Japan
- Kings of Babylon, Persian, Greece, Rome
- Kings and Popes of the nations of Europe

Notice through all human history human governments model after Satan—power over—a few ruling elites dominating the masses. This type of governing is only possible by oppressing the masses in such a way that prevents the image of God from being developed in people. In other words, the elite can only stay in power if they keep the masses from developing their own individual God-given potential.

I propose that such actions, to destroy the image of God in people is evil and governments that act in such a way as to prevent individual development, growth, advancement, autonomy, reasoning, etc. are part of Satan's kingdom not God's.

Specific methods used in history to injure the image of God and keep the masses subjugated include:

- Denying education—multiple cultures throughout history have done this, and some continue to do this today.
- Control of education to indoctrinate into conformed thinking

- Falsehoods and propaganda, such as divine right of a few to rule the many or superstitious teachings like the fear of hell, with religious authorities possessing the power to send people to heaven or hell, or lies like one group or class of people are inferior or subhuman.
- Control of the media to promote false narratives and propaganda
- Enslaving, imprisoning, and killing
- Control of resources, such as food, water, housing, and healthcare
- Structured impoverishment, such as high taxes; laws limiting ownership of property to the elite; feudal systems in which homes were owned by the aristocracy and the peasants worked simply to have food and shelter with proceeds going to the landowner; coal and railroad barons in the early U.S. history; sweatshops for illegal immigrants today.
- Practices that keep wages low

In response to the abuses of the elite aristocracies socialism and communism arose purporting to be interested in the welfare of the masses, but these forms of government—in every instance—removed one ruling class only to replace it with another that continued to exploit and abuse the masses. (Whether Soviet Union, Communist China, Nazi Germany, Cuba, Venezuela, North Korea, in every instance an elite ruling class exploited the masses.)

Only one government in the history of the world was established with the express purpose of preventing an elite ruling class from dominating and controlling the masses. Revelation prophesied that this government would arise with lamblike rather than dragon-like principles; a government in which the articles of incorporation were constructed to not only give the power to the people, but to obstruct any attempt toward an aristocracy arising that would dominate the masses—the United States of America. (Of course, since its inception, other governments have arisen that model themselves in some fashion after the USA.)

With the rise of the United States, a radical new form of government was formed. Its constitution was specifically structured to protect the individual citizens and states from a centralization of power into the hands of a few ruling elites. It was designed to protect the individuals—the masses. This is exactly opposite of the exploitive methods of Satan. And ever since its creation, the U.S. Constitution, with the liberties contained within, has been under attack by those who wish to establish a government in which a minority of elites rule the masses.

Some people view the rise of the USA as the fulfillment of the lamblike beast of Revelation 13, which arises with principles of religious and political freedom and yet that eventually those freedoms will be taken away and the lamblike beast will speak like the dragon, meaning a ruling authority that coerces and dominates.

What makes the U.S. Constitution specifically hated by Satan and those who wish to dominate the masses are the following:

- Decentralization of power into three equal branches (legislative, executive, judicial)

- The limitation of congress to remove the president except for specific listed crimes (treason, bribery, high crimes and misdemeanors). The framers did not want the U.S. government to be parliamentarian, as in Britain, in which the prime minister serves at the behest of the parliament and can be removed for political reasons at any time by a majority vote of the parliament.
- Formation of an electoral college, rather than simple majority vote, to determine the national election of a president, which is another way to decentralize power and protect the rights of the minority.
- The separation of church and state—having seen the abuses in Europe when religious institutions controlled the power of the state, the framers specifically sought to limit the power of religions to control state agencies in order to enforce religious dogmas.
- The right of the citizenry to carry and bear arms—purposefully written into the constitution as a means for the citizens to protect themselves from threats, including those of an abusive government. (Many people are rightly concerned about the rise in mass shootings, but wrongly believe that removing guns is the way to protect the masses. History has documented in multiple societies that when guns are removed from the citizenry and socialism or communism enters or dictators or despotic sovereigns take over then millions die violently). The problem with increasing violence is because love is being destroyed in our society, not because of gun availability. When people love each other, they don't kill each other. And love is decreasing because people are becoming ever more godless.
- The right to a free and independent press, intended to investigate and expose corruption in government so that the people could act via their power to vote to bring about change. (When the press no longer operates independently but aligns with one group or party it is a threat to the liberties of a country).
- The right to privacy, including no search and seizure without a warrant—again, giving power to the citizen and requiring the ruling authority to have legitimate justification to overrule individual liberties.
- The right to not self-incriminate. During the Inquisition, if an inquisitor asked you, "Did you steal from the church?" and you refused to answer, it was considered the same as an admission of guilt. The framers took power from the state and gave it to the individual.
- An educated citizenry who could read and write in order to be informed and to think for themselves and understand the processes involved to help elect qualified leaders.
- The requirement of elections every two years for the house, six years for the senate, and four years for president, thus, ultimately putting the power into the hands of the electorate and preventing an elite minority from ruling over the majority
- High hurdles to amend and change the constitution.

The USA, with its constitutional protections specifically designed to limit the power of the ruling class, is the most significant governmental obstacle in the world today to the ruling elites who seek to implement a world body to control the nation states. This is quite significant to the informed Christian who understands that before Christ returns, a global-coalition governance will form to subjugate the masses. This is one reason why Satan hates the U.S. Constitution—it obstructs his method of power over the masses.

Thus, we can be "watchers" who are vigilant to observe the movements of forces that are undermining the liberties contained in the Constitution.

The next paragraph points out that God seeks to bless and uplift the poor, which is the exact opposite of the practices of Satan which exploits and dominates the poor.

Let's examine one issue that has been hotly debated in the US over the last three years and consider the impact upon the poor.

> What impact does an unregulated border have on a society—particularly the poor in a society? (Notice, an unregulated border, i.e. open borders allowing anyone to enter without any conditions)
> Do wages for those with the least education, least social connections, and least skills rise or sink? Would suppressing wages result in people developing and advancing, or would it result in them becoming dependent on those with resources and power (either wealthy people, corporations, or government) to provide for them? Would social resources, such as Medicaid, low-cost housing, mental-health treatment programs, social support systems, student aide, etc., be more available or would those systems be overwhelmed and, thus, those with the least resources find themselves with less opportunity to get assistance to develop and advance? Would an unregulated border tend to diminish the number of poor in society or perpetuate and expand masses of people to be ruled by those in power?
> What if such open borders also allowed in immigrants who were from cultures that did not value the principles of the U.S. Constitution, but rather believed in having a supreme leader who would direct and govern the masses?
> If immigration was unregulated and migrants could enter freely without conditions, what impact would it have upon the countries they are fleeing? Would the people fleeing be those persons most content in their countries of origin or those most likely to seek change? And if a critical mass of people who want change is constantly siphoned off by migrating to another country, does this prevent the overthrow of abusive governments? Do open borders perpetuate the abuse and exploitation of the masses in other countries? Would the original nations and their people ultimately be better off by forming governments modeled after the USA or by the continual removal from their society of those who would bring about positive change?

Can there be people who love God and want to uplift others, help them grow and develop to the fulness of their God-given abilities who are on the exact opposite sides of an issue like how to deal with a national border and immigration?

Does any government on earth rightly represent God's government? No!

What then is a healthy approach for those who want to implement Godly principles?

My current understanding is to create opportunity. The role of human government—at its best—is to restrict evil, to set boundaries that create atmospheres for maximal opportunity for individuals to thrive. To set limits on the use of power, just as the US Constitution does.

Thus we have the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Government can protect life, can protect liberty by restricting the power or ability of others to take your life and liberty—but government cannot give happiness, it can only create an atmosphere most conducive to the pursuit of happiness. It does this by removing obstacles to our liberties.

Understanding these principles, we understand that it is healthy in societies to surrender absolute freedoms as long as in so doing it results in greater opportunity for individual development and advancement.

One example is that we give up the absolute freedom to drive our cars any way and anywhere we want, choosing to cede such freedom to traffic laws and to participate in a society that recognizes the authorities that enforce those laws. Such surrender protects us from accidents and physical harm and, thereby, increases our health and ability to develop and grow.

Other examples of the same principle exist regarding food and water regulations, as well as having a standing army for common defense.

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses on the truth that God rules, and in the second paragraph states, “In fact, the ultimate lesson God wants to teach to the arrogant king is that ‘Heaven rules.’” Do you agree this is the “ultimate” lesson?

Is the ultimate lesson in the universe that God rules? Or, is it how God rules?

Not by might nor by power but by the Spirit says the Lord Zech 4:6

Why is how God rules important?

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power. DA 759.1

> The law of God is immutable. Were it otherwise, no confidence could be placed in his government. God rules the world in omnipotence, and all that His love inspires He will execute. He who rules the world in wisdom and love is a God who changes not. He does not abolish today that which He enforced yesterday. RH June 4, 1901, par. 7
> Through all the ages Satan's work has been the same,—to make of none effect the law of God. He has infatuated men and women, leading them to mistake darkness for light, and error for truth. He began this work in heaven, and ever since, he has been trying to deceive. He tells men and women that God has abrogated all law, and will now open the gates of heaven to transgressors…RH June 4, 1901, par. 8
> Those who accept Satan's reasoning are terribly deceived. They accept a position which has no true foundation. God is unchangeable. He is satisfied with nothing short of perfect obedience. [Why? Because God's law is the protocol of life and God is satisfied with nothing less than perfect health, which is only possible in harmony with the protocols upon which life is built] Perfection is the only title which will gain admittance to heaven. The law is the only standard of character. RH June 4, 1901, par. 9
> The law of God and the law of Caesar have come into collision, and will come into collision again. The question we have to answer is, Shall we obey God, or Caesar? [What type of law is God's and what type of law is Caesar's?] RH June 4, 1901, par. 10

So, is the question of whether God rules, or how God rules? And how does God rule? Design law, truth, love, freedom—"not by might, nor by power, but by the Spirit says the Lord." Zech 4:6

Why does God rule this way? What is it God wants from His intelligent beings? Is it the obedience of a well-trained dog? Is it the programmed actions of a robot? No, it is understanding friendship, love, loyalty, devotion, and willing and eager obedience to live in harmony with God's design laws.

WEDNESDAY

Read fourth paragraph, "But this story is not…" Do we see that while the king did not humble himself after seeing the exceptional wisdom of the Hebrews, after the dream of the statue, after the fiery furnace, nor after the dream of the tree, that each of these events were seeds planted in the king's mind that worked together to bring him to repentance along with the 7 years of insanity?

In other words, God was working mercifully for the salvation of the king and the spreading of His healing truth the entire time. And these events unfolded as God knew they would to maximize the opportunity for the king's repentance.

I would say the exact same principles were at work with Moses and Pharaoh—God presented the events to Pharaoh in the way that was most likely to bring conviction to Pharaoh and bring Pharaoh to repentance, but in the case of Pharaoh, after each conviction and acknowledgement of truth, Pharaoh turned around and rejected the truth and chose to believe a lie—thus hardening his heart.

Both stories, Pharaoh and Nebuchadnezzar reveal a God of truth, love and freedom who is kind, gracious and compassionate seeking to heal and save. These stories reveal how God works, how His design laws operate and how God governs the universe.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "How do we know…" I like the conclusion that Nebuchadnezzar repented and was saved. What lessons can we learn about God and God's kingdom and how God operates from realizing that Nebuchadnezzar was brought to salvation?

- God is the God of all humanity
- God loves all people
- God's plan of salvation is for all people and God is working to reach all people
- The OT focuses on the Jewish people because they are the branch of the human family through whom Jesus the Messiah will come, not because they are the only ones God cares for or who God wants to save or because God loves them more than any other human
- That the OT ceremonial laws were not necessary for salvation—they were only theater, teaching tools, to teach the larger reality. Nebuchadnezzar never sacrificed at Temple or partook of Passover, as far as we know he was never circumcised in his body—and why didn't any of that matter? Because it was all symbolic, theater. Nebuchadnezzar was circumcised in his heart, i.e. died to self and had the law of God written in his heart. This is the reality.

FRIDAY

Read second paragraph, "God's purpose…" Consider the theme of the Bible. After Adam and Eve sinned the human race has a terminal condition and will die if the Messiah doesn't come. Jesus is promised in Genesis 3:15 to come and crush the serpent's head.

The focus of the OT is the battle between God and Satan with God focused on bringing Jesus to earth to save humanity and Satan trying to stop the plan.

After God chose Abraham's family to be the avenue for the Messiah, Satan focuses his attention on destroying this branch of the human family:

- Sarah, Rebekah, and Rachel are all sterile—think about that. These people were still closer to the perfection of Eden than we are today. Sarah at 90 was still beautiful enough that Pharaoh wanted her for his wife. Abraham lived to be 175 years of age, yet the first two women in the Messiah's Abrahamic line were sterile and Rachel had Joseph who was the representative of the Messiah and who saved the family from starvation? Is this just random chance, or is it possible Satan was working here to stop the plan? Is there evidence Satan can effect physical health? Consider the story of Job. But God overrules and heals their infertility and uses the events of their infertility to advance His cause.

- Do you think the conflict between Jacob and Esau was because of God's love in their hearts, or Satan working to inflame fear and selfishness and jealousy? What method did Jacob use—deception—who is the father of lies and deceit? Was Satan at work in this family to cause conflict? Did Jacob's actions anger Esau? Would Satan like to flame up anger in Esau to get Esau to kill Jacob? Was this a real threat? Did Jacob flee for his life? Did he later, when returning still have fear for his life? Was Satan trying to get Esau to kill Jacob and Jacob's family?
- What about Jacob's sons? When God gave Joseph dreams why didn't the brothers celebrate this? Where did the jealousy come from? What about the famine, is it possible Satan worked on nature to try and kill the family of Jacob and destroy the avenue for the Messiah? Did God allow the events to transpire, and in fact send the dreams to Joseph as part of the plan to place Joseph where he could save the family and keep open the avenue for Messiah?
- They go down to Egypt and eventually a Pharaoh arises that doesn't remember Joseph. Who inspired the Pharaohs to enslave the Hebrews? What was Satan trying to accomplish—was it the destruction of the avenue for the Messiah? But God sent Moses and delivered the people in a way that brought renown to God by demonstrating all the gods of Egypt were false and kept open the avenue for the Messiah.
- After establishing Israel in Canaan, did Satan work to infect Israel with pagan gods and get them to rebel against god and what happened to the 10 tribes to the north? They were assimilated and disappeared.
- Did Satan, not only infect Israel with false god worship but also inspire the various nations to continually attack Israel and Judah seeking to destroy the avenue for the Messiah?
- Did God allow the captivity in order to keep open avenue for Messiah, to bring the truth through his faithful friends to Nebuchadnezzar who sent royal decrees throughout his empire proclaiming the truth about the God of heaven.

This is the focus of Scripture and as we see it and understand it things become much more reasonable.

2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 6
From Arrogance to Destruction

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

In the aftermath of our POL seminar, I received the following email asking I share it with the class and answer it:

> Good morning, Tim. I know you can be misinterpreted, so I thought I'd ask you to confirm a statement you made as an answer to someone's question at the end of the meetings. Did you say that if people are operating on a level lower than level 5 that they cannot be saved? The lives of some Bible characters and personal experience with other Christians seem to refute that statement. If you believe that Jesus Christ is the Savior and have given your heart to him and live an other-centered life, then do you have to "climb" through the levels of moral development before you are able to be saved? I can see that operating under Level 1 may prevent you from recognizing your need for God because you are self-focused, but I cannot see that the other levels necessarily prevent you from truly giving your heart to the Lord. Many I know love the Lord with all their heart and understand that the Holy Spirit is bringing them into all truth and helping them to develop their character, yet believe that the unconverted will be punished by God. It seems to me that the levels above level 4 bring freedom that the other levels have not yet experienced.

This is a good point to clarify—my point was that salvation by definition is a change of heart from enmity to God to trust in God, from selfishness to love and trust. If this change in heart hasn't happened then a person hasn't been saved.

To me, this is when a person moves from level four to five, which is an issue of the heart, not an issue of the answer one gives on a Bible quiz. I know many people who have been reborn, converted, changed from fear and selfishness to love God and others, but have never been taught theology above level four. So they practice level five while giving Bible answers at level four or lower.

Read first paragraph, "In Daniel 5…" What do you think about the sentence, "Such an act of desecration is tantamount not only to a challenge of God but an attack on God Himself."

Does it mean if one were to attack God then the righteous response from God is to use force to attack back and kill them?

Hmmm… what methods would that be? What kind of law would that operate under—imposed or design?

Do we have evidence of what God does when He is attacked?

When Jesus was bound, beaten and crucified, did He use power to punish His enemies? What is revealed?

Understand, Satan thought this would work; Satan's method is imperialism, rules over, power over, force to comply. Satan thought the most reasonable response to being threatened was to use force to protect self and kill one's enemies. This is Satan's way.

But Jesus showed God's way "Greater love has no man than he give his life for his friends."

Jesus said, if we have seen Him we have seen the Father—in other words if we could spit in the Father's face and curse Him and beat Him, He would also turn the other cheek and forgive us.

God in human form showed us how God responds.

But in heaven when Lucifer started His rebellion against God, did God kill Lucifer?

So, what is transpiring—was Belshazzar actually attacking God personally?

What was Belshazzar doing? He was defaming God, belittling God's reputation, name, disparaging God—and where do such actions have an impact?

If we call God names, ridicule God, deny the existence of God—have we hurt God? Or, do such actions have their impact in the minds of people?

And what would God's actions here teach? That God intervenes to protect and heal His people from those who would try and corrupt them.

This is revealed on another level—by interpreting the symbols of the sanctuary.

Remember, everything associated with the sanctuary was an object lesson, a teaching tool, a symbol of some larger reality. The lamb was a symbol for Jesus, the white robes symbol for purified Christlike character, daily priests symbolic of the priesthood of believers.

What were the vessels that Belshazzar used symbolic of?

God called Paul, His "chosen vessel." Acts 9:15.

Vessels carried the blood of the sacrifice or the wine of the drink offering. Both the blood and the wine are symbols of the life of Christ. We are to drink the blood or wine, which means we are to partake of the life of Christ and then share Christ with others.

Using the vessels for vile activities would be symbolically saying he is corrupting God's people, perverting their character, infecting them with Satan's views of God, using them to lie about God—thus God acts to protect His people from having their hearts and minds corrupted with lies, selfishness and worldliness.

SUNDAY

The lesson asks us to compare how Belshazzar's actions in using the golden and silver vessels from the Temple for debauchery is like the harlot of Revelation 17 using the golden cup to intoxicate the nations.

The last paragraph states, "Like Belshazzar the woman in end-time Babylon holds a golden cup and offers polluted drink to the nations. In other words, my beams of false doctrines and a distorted worship system, modern Babylon lures the world into evil (Rev 17:4-6), oblivious to the judgment that will soon fall upon her."

What does the wine in the cup of the woman represent? False doctrines, lies, false beliefs that the entire world accepts and is confused by.

What would be the core false belief that the entire world has accepted?

That God's law functions like human law—this is the root think about how all the world believes this is who God is.

- All Christian religions teach God in order to be just must use His power to inflict suffering and death upon the wicked—why is this just? Because the law model they have accepted is the lie of Rome, that God's law functions like human law and therefore God must inflict punishment.
- Islam arose to protest many of the abuses of the Roman Church, yet it accepts the same lie that God in order to be just must use His power to inflict punishment on the wicked.
- Judaism has been infected with this view of God for millennia.
- Those who reject God do so because they compare the god presented in these various religions to how reality works and finds a conflict. They see nature and science and see laws that are design laws, constants, and then they look at the gods of the religions of the world and see a dictator who makes up rules and punishes rule breakers and they reject that god. In other words, they are also reacting to the lie, the wine of Babylon.
- Governments who claim God is on their side embrace the imposed law model—the wine of Babylon and believe using coercion or compelling power to force one's way is godly.
- And we believe as the future unfolds that our freedoms will be taken away by those who think they are doing God's will. Why? Because they believe in an imperial god who imposes punishments, the wine of Babylon.

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read Daniel 5:5-8:

> Suddenly the fingers of a human hand appeared and wrote on the plaster of the wall, near the lampstand in the royal palace. The king watched the hand as it wrote. 6 His face turned pale and he was so frightened that his knees knocked together and his legs gave way.
> 7 The king called out for the enchanters, astrologers and diviners to be brought and said to these wise men of Babylon, "Whoever reads this writing and tells me what it means will be clothed in purple and have a gold chain placed around his neck, and he will be made the third highest ruler in the kingdom."
> 8 Then all the king's wise men came in, but they could not read the writing or tell the king what it meant. (NIV84)

What was the purpose of the handwriting on the wall?

Was it to punish Belshazzar—in other words to cause the king emotional torment before he is killed by the invading army because he needs to suffer a certain amount of mental anguish before he dies?

Was it an act of grace, mercy, one last intervention by God to give the wicked king an opportunity to repent?

Do you think this would have caused the entire party to suddenly go from merriment to somberness and seriousness? Do you think the music stopped, the laughing stopped, and things got quite serious?

Would this be an opportunity for everyone in attendance to rethink their situation and repent?

Why did the king call astrologers and enchanters?

Do you think the king was looking for the truth or for an explanation that would sooth his anxiety and fears?

If any of our modern presidents were having a state dinner and something like this happened, a hand appears and writes on the wall—who do you think any of our presidents would call?

Why do you think the diviners could not read the writing? I find it quite strange—most of these types of people are very good at making things up to sound true even though they are not. I have seen similar things in many settings, someone speaks in tongues, just gibberish, hysteria, but another person gives a bland interpretation of some generic message that one could get on a Christian fortune cookie. Never anything that can be disproved and never anything that is actually testable or meaningful, yet most believe the interpretation.

Fortune tellers are very good at conning people with their so-called interpretations—so why do you think that these fortune tellers couldn't give some made-up explanation?

Is it possible that the Holy Spirit impressed them with such uncertainty that they thought it best not to try?

TUESDAY

Read Daniel 5:9-12:

> So King Belshazzar became even more terrified and his face grew more pale. His nobles were baffled. 10 The queen, hearing the voices of the king and his nobles, came into the banquet hall. "O king, live forever!" she said. "Don't be alarmed! Don't look so pale! 11 There is a man in your kingdom who has the spirit of the holy gods in him. In the time of your father he was found to have insight and intelligence and wisdom like that of the gods. King Nebuchadnezzar your father—your father the king, I say—appointed him chief of the magicians, enchanters, astrologers and diviners. 12 This man Daniel, whom the king called Belteshazzar, was found to have a keen mind and knowledge and understanding, and also the ability to interpret dreams, explain riddles and solve difficult problems. Call for Daniel, and he will tell you what the writing means." (NIV84)

Do you think the king didn't know about Daniel? Is it possible that the king never heard the stories of the three worthies and the fiery furnace, didn't know of Nebuchadnezzar's dreams and their interpretation, didn't know of the king's insanity and restoration and declaration of the God of Daniel that went to the entire kingdom? Is it possible that Belshazzar didn't know that Daniel was the chief of all the sages in the land?

Or, is it more likely, that Belshazzar did know but also knew Daniel served the God of heaven and not the gods of Babylon; that Belshazzar knew Daniel was Hebrew and the items just desecrated were from the Jewish Temple, and that as with ALL violations of God's law there is a response of fear, anxiety, guilt, shame and truth magnifies this self-condemnation and Belshazzar, on some level knew he was wrong and knew Daniel would expose his wrong and didn't want to hear from Daniel. Is it possible, the king called the other soothsayers because he wanted to cover his guilt with more lies and flattery?

Do we see God acting in grace to give the king one more opportunity to repent?

The lesson in the bottom green section asks us to read Romans 1:16-32:

> I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God for the salvation of everyone who believes: first for the Jew, then for the Gentile. [What kind of power is the power of God? The good news about God—His methods of truth, love and freedom. It is the power to demolish strongholds of lies that set themselves up against the knowledge of God. It is the power to win to love and trust and love and trust cannot be compelled, thus it is not by might, nor by power but by the Spirit says the Lord.] 17 For in the gospel a righteousness from God is revealed, a righteousness that is by faith from first to last, just as it is written: "The righteous will live by faith." [What does this mean? The righteous, or just, are those who choose in governance of self to do that which is right, in harmony with God's design laws, methods and character, and then trust God with the outcome.]

18 The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness, 19 since what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them. 20 For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse. [Why are people without excuse? What kind of law is described here? Can people know from nature what the tax code is? Can people know from nature what the speed limit is or any other imposed law? So, again God's laws are the design protocols upon which life is built—this is understood from what has been made. But people are free to reject it, but they cannot avoid the results of rejecting the truth. People are free to reject the truth about the dangers of smoking and believe it is healthy to smoke, but they cannot actually get healthy by smoking. In fact, they will get sick and die. This is exactly what is described in the following passages. The sad reality is that the world is intoxicated with the wine of Babylon and falsely believes God's law works like human law and thus misread these passages to teach the very lies that nature refutes. In other words, people teach that God's laws function like human laws and that God uses His power to inflict punishment for sin]

21 For although they knew God, they neither glorified him as God nor gave thanks to him, but their thinking became futile and their foolish hearts were darkened. 22 Although they claimed to be wise, they became fools 23 and exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images made to look like mortal man and birds and animals and reptiles.

24 Therefore God gave them over in the sinful desires of their hearts to sexual impurity for the degrading of their bodies with one another. 25 They exchanged the truth of God for a lie, and worshiped and served created things rather than the Creator—who is forever praised. Amen.

26 Because of this, God gave them over to shameful lusts. Even their women exchanged natural relations for unnatural ones. 27 In the same way the men also abandoned natural relations with women and were inflamed with lust for one another. Men committed indecent acts with other men, and received in themselves the due penalty for their perversion.

28 Furthermore, since they did not think it worthwhile to retain the knowledge of God, he gave them over to a depraved mind, to do what ought not to be done. 29 They have become filled with every kind of wickedness, evil, greed and depravity. They are full of envy, murder, strife, deceit and malice. They are gossips, 30 slanderers, God-haters, insolent, arrogant and boastful; they invent ways of doing evil; they disobey their parents; 31 they are senseless, faithless, heartless, ruthless. 32 Although they know God's righteous decree that those who do such things deserve death, they not only continue to do these very things but also approve of those who practice them. (NIV 84)

What type of law is being described? Design law—and what happens when we violate design law?

This is from Hard Sayings of the Bible about this passage:

> In some sense, God's wrath is built into the very structure of created reality. In rejecting God's structure and establishing our own, in violating God's intention for the creation and substituting our own intentions, we cause or own disintegration. P 542
> The human condition, which Paul describes in Romans 1:18-32, is not something caused by God. The phrase "revealed from heaven" (where "heaven" is a typical Jewish substitute word for "God") does not depict some kind of divine intervention, but rather the inevitability of human debasement which results when God's will, built into the created order, is violated. Since the created order has its origin in God, Paul can say that the wrath of God is now (constantly) being revealed "from heaven." It is revealed in the fact that the rejection of God's truth (Rom 1:18-20), that is, the truth about God's nature and will, leads to futile thinking (Rom 1:21-22), idolatry (Rom 1:23), perversion of God-intended sexuality (Rom 1:24-27) and relational-moral brokenness (Rom 1:28-32). P 543
> The expression "God gave them over" (or "handed them over"), which appears three times in this passage (Rom 1:24,26,28), supports the idea that the sinful perversion of human existence, though resulting from human decisions, is to be understood ultimately as God's punishment which we, in freedom, bring upon ourselves. P 543
> In light of these reflections, the common notion that God punishes or blesses in direct proportion to our sinful or good deeds cannot be maintained… God loves us with an everlasting love. But the rejection of that love separates us from its life-giving power. The result is disintegration and death. P 543 Kaiser, W., et al., Hard Saying of the Bible, Intervarsity Press, 1996,

WEDNESDAY/THURSDAY

Read Daniel 5:13-28:

> So Daniel was brought before the king, and the king said to him, "Are you Daniel, one of the exiles my father the king brought from Judah? [14] I have heard that the spirit of the gods is in you and that you have insight, intelligence and outstanding wisdom. [15] The wise men and enchanters were brought before me to read this writing and tell me what it means, but they could not explain it. [16] Now I have heard that you are able to give interpretations and to solve difficult problems. If you can read this writing and tell me what it means, you will be clothed in purple and have a gold chain placed around your neck, and you will be made the third highest ruler in the kingdom."
> [17] Then Daniel answered the king, "You may keep your gifts for yourself and give your rewards to someone else. Nevertheless, I will read the writing for the king and tell him what it means.

18 "O king, the Most High God gave your father Nebuchadnezzar sovereignty and greatness and glory and splendor. 19 Because of the high position he gave him, all the peoples and nations and men of every language dreaded and feared him. Those the king wanted to put to death, he put to death; those he wanted to spare, he spared; those he wanted to promote, he promoted; and those he wanted to humble, he humbled. 20 But when his heart became arrogant and hardened with pride, he was deposed from his royal throne and stripped of his glory. 21 He was driven away from people and given the mind of an animal; he lived with the wild donkeys and ate grass like cattle; and his body was drenched with the dew of heaven, until he acknowledged that the Most High God is sovereign over the kingdoms of men and sets over them anyone he wishes.

22 "But you his son,[d] O Belshazzar, have not humbled yourself, though you knew all this. 23
Instead, you have set yourself up against the Lord of heaven. You had the goblets from his temple brought to you, and you and your nobles, your wives and your concubines drank wine from them. You praised the gods of silver and gold, of bronze, iron, wood and stone, which cannot see or hear or understand. But you did not honor the God who holds in his hand your life and all your ways. 24 Therefore he sent the hand that wrote the inscription.
25 "This is the inscription that was written:
mene, mene, tekel, parsin[e]

26 "This is what these words mean:
Mene[f]: God has numbered the days of your reign and brought it to an end.
27 Tekel[g]: You have been weighed on the scales and found wanting.
28 Peres[h]: Your kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians." (NIV 84)

So, Belshazzar did know all about Nebuchadnezzar's reign and therefore, most likely knew about Daniel—but didn't originally call him.

Do we believe Belshazzar was overthrown by the Medes and Persians because he used the vessels of the Temple?

Or, was the use of the vessels, just another example of the prideful heart of the king?

If Belshazzar for some reason was unable to use the Temple vessels that night, say the servants couldn't locate them during the party, do we think that Babylon would not have been overthrown?

How long after Daniel's interpretation did the kingdom fall? Evidently, that very night. If the kingdom fell that night, how long had the attack on the city been in preparation by the Medes and Persians?

[d] Or descendant; or successor
[e] Aramaic UPARSIN (that is, AND PARSIN)
[f] Mene can mean numbered or mina (a unit of money).
[g] Tekel can mean weighed or shekel.
[h] Peres (the singular of Parsin) can mean divided or Persia or a half mina or a half shekel.

Weren't preparations going on for months if not years, preparing arms, organizing, training, traveling, planning, preparing and then attacking?

If this was due simply to using the Temple vessels that night, would the army have been in place that night?

So, do we see the Persians were about to overthrow Babylon—whether the party happened that night or not, the Persian army was going to attack. God knew this and God loves all humans, including prideful and arrogant humans like Nebuchadnezzar. And just as God intervened with Nebuchadnezzar to give him opportunities to repent, God intervenes here and gives Belshazzar and all his household one final opportunity to repent before the enemy kills them.

What do we think about the "judgment" that happened that night?

What judgment was this?

There are four judgments:

1. Our judgment of God (Romans 2:4; Elijah at Carmel; Rev 14)
2. God's judgments of our condition, what therapeutic actions are needed to heal and save and eliminate sin, who trusts Him and what to fix in each heart and mind (this includes the investigative judgment)
3. Our judgment of angels during the 1000 years
4. The Great White throne judgment at the end of the 1000 years

What judgment was happening here? God judged or diagnosed the actual condition of Belshazzar's heart and judged that the handwriting on the wall would give Belshazzar one more opportunity to reflect and repent before the Persians came and killed him.

If we don't understand God's design law and instead read the story through human imposed law, what false spin do we put on this story?

FRIDAY

Read the second paragraph, "The history of nations…" What does it mean, "To every nation and to every individual God has assigned a place in His great plan."? And how does God assigning people a place balance with "All are by their own choice deciding their destiny and God is overruling all for the accomplishment of His purposes."?

Do we have a choice or not?

I think the story of Jonah reveals this quite perfectly.

- Was Jonah the only person in all Israel who was willing to work with God?
- Is God able to read the hearts of people?

- Did God know Jonah hated the Ninevites?
- God calls Jonah—was Jonah free to follow or run?
- When Jonah runs God overrules and sends a storm
- Did Jonah understand what was happening?
- Who chose for Jonah to be thrown in the sea?
- Do you think Jonah's choice was to jump ship and get picked up by a submarine? Or was Jonah basically saying, kill me? Was Jonah saying he would rather die than give a message of hope to Nineveh?
- Did God love Jonah? Did Jonah have hatred issues in his heart that needed working out?
- When Jonah was thrown in the ocean did God overrule and send a great fish?
- Did Jonah have time for reflection? Was Jonah forced by God to repent, or did Jonah realize in this circumstance that he needed to change?
- Who was the God of the Ninevites? Dagon the fish God.
- Was all of this accidental, that a messenger from God to Nineveh, the people who worshipped the fish god was delivered by a great fish?
- And did God further intervened for Jonah with the vine?

Do we see in this story the balance between free choice and God overruling for His purposes?

What about President Trump, has God assigned him a place?

2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 7
From the Lion's Den to the Angel's Den

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "After the Medo-Persians…" Isn't this quite remarkable? It really says something about Daniel that the conquering kingdom also put him in a leadership role.

Read second paragraph, "However, as the chapter unfolds…" What is being described with the sentence, "And we can be sure that to a great degree, his faithfulness to God directly impacts his faithfulness in these other areas, as well."

This is the law of worship—by beholding we become changed. Worshipping the God of truth, love, freedom caused Daniel to grow to be more like God, to practice more of God's principles as they were assimilated into his character. Thus, Daniel practiced the same principles of honesty, integrity, faithfulness in all his activities, not just in his religion.

This is one of the problems with the imperial version of Christianity in which people have accepted the lie that God's law works like human law and justice requires forcing people to comply and punishing rule-breakers. This leads to Christians who practice the enemy's methods in the name of Jesus—in the Dark Ages burning people at the stake, the Salem witch trials, Galileo being imprisoned, slavery, Nazi Germany, Rwanda; and what about here in the US, are there those who, in the name of Christ, would be willing to take the freedoms of others?

Does that mean then that Christianity is wrong and we should oppose Christianity? No—it means the world needs to know the truth about the God of love whose laws are design laws—the 3 Angels' Messages!

Does it mean society is better off with a humanistic and godless worldview? No, it means the world needs to know the truth about the God of love!

Read the last paragraph, "Daniel's experience with persecution…" What comes to mind when you think of potential persecution?

Does 1Corinthians 10:13 come to mind?

> "No temptation has overtaken you except such as is common to man; but God is faithful, who will not allow you to be tempted beyond what you are able, but with the temptation will also make the way of escape, that you may be able to bear it." (NKJV)

Have you ever had this promise fulfilled in your life?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

But what about this promise for Stephen or for Paul? Was it fulfilled for them?

Consider Matthew 10:28 "Do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul." (NIV84)

What does this mean?

People can hurt us physically, emotionally, psychologically—but they cannot damage our souls—our souls only get damaged by us when we choose to give in to temptation, to believe the lies, to reject truth, to harden our hearts.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Even in heaven…" In heaven, what method of leadership did Lucifer come to think was the right way to rule?

> For you have said in your heart:
> I will ascend into heaven,
> I will exalt my throne above the stars of God;
> I will also sit on the omount of the congregation
> On the farthest sides of the north;
> I will ascend above the heights of the clouds,
> I will be like the Most High.' (Is 14:13,14 NKJV)

What method is this? To rise above and rule over.

But what is God's methods of rulership as revealed by Jesus?

Your attitude should be the same as that of Christ Jesus:

> Who, being in very nature God,
> did not consider equality with God something to be grasped,
> but made himself nothing,
> taking the very nature of a servant,
> being made in human likeness.
> And being found in appearance as a man,
> he humbled himself
> and became obedient to death—
> even death on a cross! Philippians 2:5-8 NIV84)

What method does Satan apply to governance? Imperialism, imposed law, rules over, and force—the masses must serve him.

What method does God apply to governance? Love, giving, beneficence, God gives of Himself to uplift and bless His creatures.

Thus, one of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> But turning from all lesser representations, we behold God in Jesus. Looking unto Jesus we see that it is the glory of our God to give. "I do nothing of Myself," said Christ; "the living Father hath sent Me, and I live by the Father." "I seek not Mine own glory," but the glory of Him that sent Me. John 8:28; 6:57; 8:50; 7:18. In these words is set forth the great principle which is the law of life for the universe. All things Christ received from God, but He took to give. So in the heavenly courts, in His ministry for all created beings: through the beloved Son, the Father's life flows out to all; through the Son it returns, in praise and joyous service, a tide of love, to the great Source of all. And thus through Christ the circuit of beneficence is complete, representing the character of the great Giver, the law of life. {DA 21.2}

What method of governance does God use? Truth, love, freedom—which means God gives for our good, He does not take from us for His good. He only accepts the service of love:

Historic Adventism taught this:

> Even when he was cast out of heaven, Infinite Wisdom did not destroy Satan. Since only the service of love can be acceptable to God, [why? Because God is love and God does not take from us for His good. God gives to us for our good. To take from us without our free giving to Him would cause resentment in us, incite fear, destroy love. God wants our health, happiness, wellbeing and will not accept that which destroys His creation. Thus He only accepts the service of love.] the allegiance of His creatures must rest upon a conviction of His justice and benevolence. The inhabitants of heaven and of the worlds, being unprepared to comprehend the nature or consequences of sin, could not then have seen the justice of God in the destruction of Satan. [What was just described? Did the writer say in God using power to destroy Satan who would have otherwise lived eternally in sin? No! In the destruction of Satan—the unanswered question in the paragraph, and what angels didn't know, and sadly many Christians don't understand is from where destruction comes. What law lens do you use to understand this? Destruction comes from sin, from choosing to put oneself out of harmony with the laws upon which life is built. To sever one's connection with the source of life.] Had he been immediately blotted out of existence, some would have served God from fear rather than from love. The influence of the deceiver would not have been fully destroyed, nor would the spirit of rebellion have been utterly eradicated. [From where is God working to destroy sin and eradicate it? From the hearts and minds of His intelligent beings, not from historical record books!] For the good of the entire universe through ceaseless ages, he must more fully develop his principles, that his charges against the divine government might be seen in their true light by all created beings, and that the justice and mercy of God and the immutability of His law might be forever placed beyond all question. PP 42.3 [How many have asked why Satan wasn't destroyed when he rebelled—here is why—because sin happens in minds. Lies believed break the circle of love and trust and broken love and trust results in fear and selfishness—thus God doesn't want to destroy Satan, God wants to destroy sin and this can only be done by exposing the truth in order to destroy the lies which had broken the circle of love and trust. This takes time for beings to be fully persuaded in their own minds. Just see what is happening in the world and news cycles right now.]

Paul seeks to impress upon our minds the fact that the foundation of all acceptable service to God, as well as the very crown of the Christian graces, is love; and that only in the soul where love reigns will the peace of God abide. Sanctified Life 87.2

The law of love is the foundation of God's government, and the service of love the only service acceptable to Heaven. God has granted freedom of will to all, endowed men with capacity to appreciate His character, and therefore with ability to love Him and to choose His service. So long as created beings worshiped God they were in harmony throughout the universe. While love to God was supreme, love to others abounded. As there was no transgression of the law, which is the transcript of God's character, no note of discord jarred the celestial harmonies. TMK 366.2

So God governs upon truth, love, freedom, gives to us doesn't take from us, but accepts the service of love—why? Because when we give in love we are not actually providing God something God needs, but we are exercising our God-given capacity to love and thus we grow in love and develop our godly attributes solidifying ourselves in love. God accepts that which is good for His creation, and that is always harmony with Him, His design law and principles.

But Satan's government works on power over, with a ruling elite exploiting and dominating the masses. Throughout all human history the governments of the world have been this way—a few ruling elites, aristocrats, exploiting and dominating the masses and demanding fealty, taxes, service for the benefit of the elite at the expense of the masses. Pharaoh's, Emperors of Japan, China, the kings/emperors of Babylon, Persia, Greece, Rome and the nation states of Europe. Only one government in history was established to give the power to the masses and prevent a ruling elite from arising and that government was the USA with its constitution. And the constitution with its protections of liberty has been under assault since its inception.

It is the most important legal document in the world that stands in the way of a one world government. And this is one of the reasons the US will lead the world in forming a one world government, ultimately speaking like a dragon in the end. Why? Because God's methods always heal, strengthen, build up and as the principles of liberty were practiced this nation became stronger and the constitution held back the elites from forming a one world government.

But that is changing, whether from right or left, the principles of constitution will be set aside in order to establish a ruling elite to dominate the masses and when that happens, the strength of the US will lead the world to form the one world coalition.

The principles under attack right now are:

- The right to bear arms
- Free speech
- Freedom of religion
- Freedom of the press

The devil's methods are the methods of lies, fear and selfishness. What I see happening in the world is that fear is incited from both the right and left and that both extremes are dishonest in their portrayal of the other side. Dishonest in distorting facts and twisting evidences to cause their base to view the other side as an existential threat—a threat to the very existence of the nation and the world. Thus, because life and existence is being threatened, and the world is intoxicated with the wine of Babylon—meaning they believe God's law works like human law and it is right to punish law breakers, then it is right to use power to violate liberty to protect self, to protect what is right, to protect the nation, to protect the world and both sides are seeking the power of the state to force its way and destroy the other side.

This is because both sides are driven by the principles of fear and selfishness and imperial law and most Christians accept the idea that God's law is like human law and will go along if the "right" laws can be passed.

If you have read my blogs over the last two weeks you have seen how some responses given evidence of this in their responses. They are so fearful and so filled with animus that they lose the ability for reasoned discourse and seek to silence voices they don't agree with—the freedom of speech under attack.

It seems very much like the Jewish leaders methods when Peter was preaching Jesus after Pentecost. Use the power of the state and intimidation to silence voices you don't agree with, rather than let people speak and allow the truth to win the day.

The Christian however, who has Jesus in their heart doesn't live in fear. Doesn't need to seek the power of the state to advance the cause of Christ. The Christian presents the truth, in love, and leaves others free. It is okay with me if others see and practice things differently. Because over time the violations of design law will become evidenced.

When we live in harmony with God's design laws we cannot avoid the benefits that result. We do grow and get healthier and advance in wisdom and understanding. When we live in violations of God's design laws we cannot avoid the damaging consequences, our minds will get darkened and depraved just as Paul writes in Romans chapter 1.

What is the root of jealousy? It is a lack of love. When we love others, we are not jealous of their successes, but we celebrate them and rejoice in them. But when we love ourselves most we see other's successes as a threat to us and are jealous and envious.

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read Daniel 6:6-9:

> So the administrators and the satraps went as a group to the king and said: "O King Darius, live forever! [7] The royal administrators, prefects, satraps, advisers and governors have all agreed that the king should issue an edict and enforce the decree that anyone who prays to any god or man during the next thirty days, except to you, O king, shall be thrown into the lions' den. [8] Now, O king, issue the decree and put it in writing so that it cannot be altered—in accordance with the laws of the Medes and Persians, which cannot be repealed." [9] So King Darius put the decree in writing. (NIV84)

What do you think about this?

Why would Darius go along with this?

What was the motivation of those who sought to get this law passed?

What happens when selfishness rules in the heart?

Do we have this problem in the world today?

I saw a movie recently called The Last Full Measure which is the true story of Airman William H. Pitsenbarger, Jr., who was an air force medic during the Vietnam war. When an army platoon had their medic killed Pitsenbarger left his helicopter and saved a number of people but was killed in the process. In the aftermath he was nominated for the Congressional Medal of Honor but it was downgraded to the Airforce Cross. The movie documents the 30 year battle of the soldiers he saved working to get the medal upgraded to the MOH. In the movie, it depicted how various bureaucrats and politicians obstructed the process, not because it wasn't merited, but for their own political reasons or career advancement, but eventually the MOH was awarded.

It was a powerful depiction not only of the heroism of this young man, the regard in which he was held by those he saved, the powerful bonds of brotherhood forged in combat, but also of the corruption in politics and the selfishness in which people will manipulate others for their own gain.

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, "Of course…" Are there lessons in this story for us?

Do we believe what Daniel said in 2:21: that God "sets up kings and deposes them" applies to rulers of governments today?

What do you think of this quotation from one of the founders of the SDA church in the book The Great Controversy, do you believe it?

> But so long as Jesus remains man's intercessor in the sanctuary above, the restraining influence of the Holy Spirit is felt by rulers and people. It still controls to some extent the laws of the land. Were it not for these laws, the condition of the world would be much worse than it now is. While many of our rulers are active agents of Satan, God also has His agents among the leading men of the nation. The enemy moves upon his servants to propose measures that would greatly impede the work of God; but statesmen who fear the Lord are influenced by holy angels to oppose such propositions with unanswerable arguments. Thus a few men will hold in check a powerful current of evil. The opposition of the enemies of truth will be restrained that the third angel's message may do its work. When the final warning shall be given, it will arrest the attention of these leading men through whom the Lord is now working, and some of them will accept it, and will stand with the people of God through the time of trouble. GC 610.3

What did you hear? Did you hear God's agents are godly people? Hmmm…according to this author, those acting for God's cause, who are responding to God's influence are working to hold back the policies and practices that would undermine the laws that restrain evil, i.e. hold back the forces that would undermine our constitutional liberties.

But notice, these men, WHEN the final warning is given, will accept it—then and stand with the people of God. It sounds to me that these men that are referred to as God's agents value the principles of liberty, but are not necessarily converted to God at that time, but are converted later.

Does this sound like Nebuchadnezzar—a arrogant, prideful, pagan yet who was called by Jeremiah God's servant, but who wasn't converted to God until many years later?

I think it is dangerous for us to try and judge the hearts of people—especially people we don't personally know or have experience with, but only see through the lens of their public persona and the media.

What other lessons are there for us in this story of Daniel?

Daniel can also be an object lesson where he represents the people of God:

- He was a foreigner in a godless nation
  - We are foreigners in a godless world
- He was in Babylon and Persia but not of Babylon and Persia
  - We are in the world but not of the world
- He kept his eye fixed on God
  - We keep our eyes fixed on Christ
- He practiced God's principles and remained loyal to God's kingdom
  - We practice God's principles and remain loyal to God's kingdom

- He came under attack from the enemies of God
  - We come under attack from the enemies of God
- He turned to God in prayer, trusted God with the outcome and God closed the lion's mouth
  - We live in the time when the Bible says, Satan is a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour. But for those who, like Daniel, turn to God, trust Him with the outcome, God closes the lion's mouth and we will be eternally delivered.
- Daniel's witness converts the king
  - Our witness will convert others—even some of the leading statesmen
- Daniel is rescued and the plotters of evil die by the lions
  - We will be rescued from sin and the wicked will die by the power of sin along with Satan in the end

Read the bottom green section, "Read Acts 5:27-32…" This is the account of Peter being told by the Sanhedrin not to preach Christ anymore and Peter saying he had to obey God and not man.

Is history filled with people like Peter who found themselves in the situation where they chose to obey God and not the laws of man—like Daniel, like the three worthies?

But is history also filled with people, who thought they were following God and thereby broke human law, but who were in actuality not following God?

Examples:

- All the terrorists and suicide bombers who acted in the name of their god?
- Pro-life advocates who have bombed abortion clinics or shot doctors who perform abortions?

How can we know whether our actions are in harmony with God and His kingdom or violating God's law?

Would it depend on our understanding of God and His kingdom?

Would our understanding of God's law have an impact in our ability to discern right from wrong?

What about those who look to others to tell them the answer? Recently I received an email that informed me of a conference president who received a copy of our Heavenly Sanctuary pamphlet, but instead of studying out the evidence for himself, he sent it off to a theology professor and asked the theology professor to tell him whether it was okay or not. The theology professor answered that he did not do an extensive review, and was only sharing his preliminary thoughts, but listed several doctrines he believed I taught incorrectly. The conference president took this as conclusive evidence and sent out an email warning his constituents that I teach error. But every point the professor made was in some way factually wrong.

What do we learn from this?

It is difficult to persuade people with truth, if those people don't actually know how to evaluate truth for themselves, or value truth, but instead have surrendered their thinking to some human authority to tell them the answers.

Why do people do this? Because they are operating upon imposed law—and at level four and below, one doesn't think for themselves, one looks to someone in authority to tell them the answer.

We see this all the time—rather than reasoned and evidenced-based explanations, we get authoritative claims:

- The pastor says…
- The theological institute of right thinking says…
- The Bible says—with a quoted text without understanding the meaning
- EGW says…

In other words people memorize the "right" answers but not why they are the right answers and are intolerant of any deviation from those rules.

It's like memorizing the answers to a math exam, but never learning how to do math.

WEDNESDAY

Read last paragraph, "The biblical text…" From last Friday's lesson we read:

> The history of nations speaks to us today. To every nation and to every individual God has assigned a place in His great plan. Today men and nations are being tested by the plummet in the hand of Him who makes no mistake. All are by their own choice deciding their destiny, and God is overruling all for the accomplishment of His purposes. PK 536.2

How do we understand the balance between our freewill and God's sovereignty?

- Did God want Daniel to be betrayed?
- Did he want the hearts of the Persian leaders filled with jealousy and envy?
- Did God want them to throw Daniel to the lions?
- Did God foreknow it would happen?
- Did God intervene to protect Daniel?
- Did God choose for Daniel to maintain his prayer routine?
- Did God choose for Darius to trust Daniel?
- Would God have had the opportunity to reveal truth to Darius in the same profound way without Daniel and Daniel's choice to trust God?

Do we often struggle when in the middle of trials in our lives with the question of where God is? Can God have plans that reach beyond our awareness?

Do our actions and choices ever provide God opportunities to act that He wouldn't have if we didn't make the choices we do?

THURSDAY

Read second paragraph, "Yes, Daniel is miraculously…" Were the evildoers punished? By who and for what?

Were the evildoers punished by God? No, they were punished by Darius, for what? For being traitors to their king and trying to trick the king.

Is this how the evildoers at the end of time are punished?

What is the punishment for sin? Is it torture or is it eternal death? From where does the eternal death come?

Is the devil right when he says, "There isn't anything wrong with sin itself, there is only something wrong with God who will torture you and kill you for it. If we could just get God some anger management classes so God doesn't use His power to hurt us we could live forever in sin because sin doesn't harm, it is God who harms." Is this reality?

No! That is a lie! Sin harms, sin kills, breaking God's law destroys those who do it unless God heals them. Thus the Bible says:

- sin, when it is full-grown, gives birth to death. James 1:15 NIV84
- The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction… Gal 6:8 NIV84

And based on these texts and others one of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> We are not to regard God as waiting to punish the sinner for his sin. The sinner brings the punishment upon himself. His own actions start a train of circumstances that bring the sure result. Every act of transgression reacts upon the sinner, works in him a change of character, and makes it more easy for him to transgress again. By choosing to sin, men separate themselves from God, cut themselves off from the channel of blessing, and the sure result is ruin and death. {1SM 235.2}
> The law is an expression of God's idea. When we receive it in Christ, it becomes our idea. It lifts us above the power of natural desires and tendencies, above temptations that lead to sin. "Great peace have they which love thy law: and nothing shall offend them" (Ps. 119: 165)--cause them to stumble. {1SM 235.3}
> "We read of chains of darkness for the transgressor of God's law. We read of the worm that dieth not, and of the fire that is not quenched. Thus is represented [it is a representation of something, of what?] the experience of every one who has permitted himself to be grafted into the stock of Satan, who has cherished sinful attributes. [What does the worm and fire represent? The experience of those who join with Satan in heart, mind, attitude and principles] When it is too late, he will see that sin is the transgression of God's law. He will realize that because of transgression, his soul is cut off from God, and that God's wrath abides on him. This is a fire unquenchable, and by it every unrepentant sinner will be destroyed. [What is the fire unquenchable? Sin and rebellion solidified in the character of the wicked!] Satan strives constantly to lead men into sin, and he who is willing to be led, who refuses to forsake his sins, and despises forgiveness and grace, will suffer the result of his course" (ST, April 14, 1898 par. 13). [the suffering is in the minds of people, it is represented as fire etc.]

This case [Pharaoh's] is placed on record for our benefit. Just what took place in Pharaoh's heart will take place in every soul that neglects to cherish the light and walk promptly in its rays. God destroys no one. The sinner destroys himself by his own impenitence. When a person once neglects to heed the invitations, reproofs, and warnings of the Spirit of God, his conscience becomes seared, and the next time he is admonished, it will be more difficult to yield obedience than before. And thus with every repetition. Conscience is the voice of God, heard amid the conflict of human passions; when it is resisted, the Spirit of God is grieved. – {5T 120.1}

We want all to understand how the soul is destroyed. It is not that God sends out a decree that man shall not be saved. He does not throw a darkness before the eyes which cannot be penetrated. But man at first resists a motion of the Spirit of God, and, having once resisted, it is less difficult to do so the second time, less the third, and far less the fourth. Then comes the harvest to be reaped from the seed of unbelief and resistance. Oh what a harvest of sinful indulgences is preparing for the sickle! – {5T 120.2}

What about the suffering that we experience from sin in this life, like sickness from addictions, or broken relationships from betrayal, or fear and guilt from exploitation—are these punishments? Or, are these painful consequences of sin mercies to alert us that something is wrong, to make us less satisfied with the course we are on, to give us opportunity to stop our sinful course, reflect, reevaluate and seek God?

Is there a punishment for sin? Absolutely, and what is that punishment? Ruin and death, and from where does that punishment come? From sin itself!

What do we make of the fact that the Persian king not only had the plotters thrown to the lions, but their wives and children also?

2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 8
From the Stormy Sea to the Clouds of Heaven

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "The vision of Daniel 7…" Adam was given dominion—how was Adam to govern earth before sin? What method was he to use?

How do the kingdoms of this sinful world govern? Do they use methods different than God uses?

When Jesus said His kingdom was not of this world, was He speaking primarily of geography or of function—how the kingdoms work, what methods and laws they use?

What is the primary difference?

What of the idea that what Adam lost the Son of man recovers in the heavenly judgment?

I just don't like this language because it seems imprecise. When did Jesus win the victory over Satan? When was Satan cast out?

> Now is the time for judgment on this world; now the prince of this world will be driven out. But I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself." John 12:31-32 NIV84

So, Jesus wins the victory at the cross and yet there is an application of what He achieved to mop up or completely eradicate all the damage Satan and sin have caused.

When you hear the term judgment, what law lens do you hear it through—human imposed law, or God's design law?

Judgment under human law means a legal examination of broken rules and determination of guilt or innocence, followed by the imposition of a punishment or reward.

Judgment under design law is diagnosis of what is actually the condition of the person and judgment of what is the best therapeutic action to take. In Wednesday's lesson we will unpack the judgments more fully.

SUNDAY

The overview of Daniel 7 is a vision in which four beasts are seen followed by a little horn with eyes that uproots 3 horns and speaks great words and seeks to changes times and laws.

The general interpretation of this is that the beasts represent successive kingdoms as follows:

- Lion with wings represents Babylon
- Bear with ribs in mouth represents Medo-Persia
- Leopard with four wings and four heads represents Greece
- Dreadful beast with iron teeth and claws represents Rome
- 10 horns the 10 kingdoms Rome devolved into
- Little horn with eyes represents Papal Rome

MONDAY

The lesson focuses on the Little Horn and the war it is waging against the saints until the Ancient of days comes and does something—what?

Daniel 7:21,22 reads:

> Until the Ancient of days came, and judgment was given to the saints of the most High; and the time came that the saints possessed the kingdom. Daniel 7:22 KJV

What law lens do you read this through? If imposed human law, then it is read as God having a judicial review of events and giving a legal pronouncement in the favor of the saints. If design law, then it is understood as God imparting judgment to the minds of the saints—in other words the ability for the saints to make a right judgment.

The Hebrew word translated "pronounced" in the NIV version actually means "to give" or "to impart" and thus the KJV would be more accurate in this context.

Why do the saints of God need judgment (another word for discernment) given or imparted to them? The Daniel text tells us the horn warred against the saints and was defeating them. What kind of warfare was going on?

> For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. 2 Cor 10:3-5

What kind of war? Where is it being fought? This is a war between truth and lies, centering on God's character, and being fought in our minds!

The lesson rightly connects the little horn of Daniel 7 with the man of sin in 2Thessolonians, and notice what is described:

> Concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered to him, we ask you, brothers, not to become easily unsettled or alarmed by some prophecy, report or letter supposed to have come from us, saying that the day of the Lord has already come. Don't let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God. 2Thes 2:1-4

What do you hear?

What does the "man of lawlessness" mean? An intelligence who goes outside of law, who denies God's law, who seeks to overthrow, invalidate, disregard, deny God's law—what does the little horn do? Seeks to change times and laws.

Further, this little horn power sets itself up in God's temple proclaiming itself to be God—what does this mean?

In the aftermath of Christ's death, resurrection, and ascension into heaven, did this man of lawlessness ride into heaven overthrow God, set himself up in God's temple in heaven, and proclaim himself to be God? No, where did this happen? In the Spirit Temple! In our minds—when Rome changed the way we understand God's law from design law to imposed law. Once this idea was accepted then it could go about implementing all kinds of irrational rules, regulations, rituals, doctrines, creeds, all based in imposed law and all of which intoxicate the world.

If the Spirit Temple is contaminated with lies about God, would those lies need to be cleansed?

Malachi 3:1-3 describes the same event as Daniel 8:14, the cleansing of the sanctuary, but notice the additional details of what is being cleansed:

> Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come," says the Lord Almighty. But who can endure the day of his coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver.

What is getting cleansed during the investigative judgment? The Levites. And who are the Levites? The Priesthood of believers (1Pet 2:5,9).

God is cleansing His people from what?

1) the lies about Him which keep us from trusting Him and
2) when we are won back to trust, He cleanses us from sin. God writes His law of love into our hearts. He restores His character of righteousness in us.

This is what is happening during the investigative judgment.

There are several elements involved simultaneously during the investigative judgment so focusing on one action doesn't invalidate other simultaneous actions, and we will explore these as the lesson unfolds.

TUESDAY

Some struggle with the idea of cleansing the temple in Daniel 8:14 being the same temple referred to by Paul in 2Thessalonians, even though, as the lesson has recognized, the little horn and the man of lawlessness are the same.

They struggle because they still try to understand all these things through the lie that God's law functions like human law and the process of judgment functions like human law courts.

Thus, they interpret the seating of the court in Daniel 7 as a legal court.

If we take a more straightforward approach and ask what is being described in the context of Daniel 7 another idea emerges

> "As I looked, "thrones were set in place, and the Ancient of Days took his seat. His clothing was as white as snow; the hair of his head was white like wool. His throne was flaming with fire, and its wheels were all ablaze. A river of fire was flowing, coming out from before him. Thousands upon thousands attended him; ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him. The court was seated, and the books were opened…."In my vision at night I looked, and there before me was one like a son of man, coming with the clouds of heaven. He approached the Ancient of Days and was led into his presence. He was given authority, glory and sovereign power; all peoples, nations and men of every language worshiped him. His dominion is an everlasting dominion that will not pass away, and his kingdom is one that will never be destroyed. Daniel 7:9,10,13,14

What is actually being described here?

Those who accept the lie that God's law functions like human law falsely believe we are in legal trouble with God and interpret the passage to mean a legal court. They see the word "court" as a place of judicial rulings, a courtroom.

But what is being described is not a judicial proceeding. Instead what is described is a Royal Court! It is the Royal Court of the universe which is holding the Coronation of Christ! Some are uncomfortable with this conclusion and rest their entire position on the Hebrew word "diyn," which is translated "court," claiming this Hebrew word refers to a judicial proceeding. I refer them to The Theological Wordbook of the Old Testament published in 1980 by Moody Press, which says:

> This word, with its derived noun diyn is nearly identical in meaning with šhaphat {shaw-fat} (q.v.) and its derived noun mišhpat {mish-pawt} (q.v.). It appears only twenty-three times, a fraction of the times šhaphat and mišhpat appear. Of the twenty-three appearances, five are in parallel with šhaphat (Jer 5:28; 22:16; Prov 31:8; Ps 7:8 [H 9]); 9:8 [H 9]) and twice more it is associated in the text with mišhpat (Ps 72:2; Jer 21:12). Thus nearly a third of its occurrences show how closely the idea of diyn was identified or associated with the root šhaphat. The verb also occurs in Ugaritic and in parallel with tp (the cognate of šhaphat) (Fisher, RSP, vol. I, p. 166). Likewise a similar—nearly identical as far as it goes—list of terms is associated with diyn, demonstrating the near identity of meaning: with mêyšhar {may-shawr} "uprightness," "equity" (Ps 96:10; cf. Ps 75:2); and with gaša (Ps 54:1 [H 3]; cf. Ps 72:4). As with šhaphat it represents God's government as both among his people (Israel) and among all peoples (Ps 135:14 "people"; Ps 7:8 [H 9] "peoples" cf Ps 72:2; Ps 9:8 [H 9]). As far as the small number of occurrences allows a test, the range of meanings is exactly the same: to govern, in the whole range of activities of government: legislative, executive, judicial, or otherwise. See the discussion of šhaphat and mišhpat. The difference between the terms is simply that diyn is poetic, probably also an archaic and more elegant term. Of the twenty-three occurrences, only one is outside the Protestant grouping of poetical and poetical-prophetic literature. The exception is the single passive form—a Niphal participle (II Sam 19:9 [H 10]). The chief theological significance of this word is that apparently like šhaphat it embodies the idea of government, in whatever realm, in all its aspects.[1]

Once we recognize that the court seated is the Royal Court of the universe convening for the governmental action of coronating Christ then we realize something more is going on than a judicial process.

Why is Christ being coronated? Wasn't He always God? Wasn't He always the rightful ruler? Then what is going on that a coronation of Christ is happening at this time in history?

Satan had alleged Christ was not worthy to rule or it wasn't right for Christ to rule and thus the coronation represents the recognition in the minds of God's intelligent beings of the truth that was always true—the everlasting gospel—the eternal good news of who God and Jesus are.

Let's read Revelation Chapter 5 and I want you to consider—is this a description of the same event occurring in Daniel 7?

> Then I saw in the right hand of him who sat on the throne a scroll with writing on both sides and sealed with seven seals. [what is another name for a scroll? Would it be book? And is what described next about someone coming who is able to open the scroll or book? Is that is what is described in Daniel 7?] 2 And I saw a mighty angel proclaiming in a loud voice, "Who is worthy to break the seals and open the scroll?" 3 But no one in heaven or on earth or under the earth could open the scroll or even look inside it. 4 I wept and wept because no one was found who was worthy to open the scroll or look inside. 5 Then one of the elders said to me, "Do not weep! See, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has triumphed. He is able to open the scroll and its seven seals."

6 Then I saw a Lamb, looking as if it had been slain, standing in the center of the throne, encircled by the four living creatures and the elders. He had seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits[a] of God sent out into all the earth. 7 He came and took the scroll from the right hand of him who sat on the throne. 8 And when he had taken it, the four living creatures and the twenty-four elders fell down before the Lamb. Each one had a harp and they were holding golden bowls full of incense, which are the prayers of the saints. 9 And they sang a new song:

"You are worthy to take the scroll and to open its seals, because you were slain,
and with your blood you purchased men for God from every tribe and language and people and nation.
10 You have made them to be a kingdom and priests to serve our God, and they will reign on the earth."

11 Then I looked and heard the voice of many angels, numbering thousands upon thousands, and ten thousand times ten thousand. They encircled the throne and the living creatures and the elders. 12 In a loud voice they sang:

"Worthy is the Lamb, who was slain, to receive power and wealth and wisdom and strength and honor and glory and praise!"

13 Then I heard every creature in heaven and on earth and under the earth and on the sea, and all that is in them, singing:

"To him who sits on the throne and to the Lamb be praise and honor and glory and power, for ever and ever!"

14 The four living creatures said, "Amen," and the elders fell down and worshiped. NIV84

What is being described? The intelligences in the universe recognize Jesus as worthy and Jesus receives all power and authority and reigns sovereign. He was always sovereign, but now the lies of Satan are refuted in the minds of the intelligences in heaven and all heavenly beings acknowledge the truth about God, and it is NOW time in human history for a message to go forward on earth with that same truth:

> Then I saw another angel flying in midair, and he had the eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live on the earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people. 7 He said in a loud voice,

[a] Or the sevenfold Spirit

> "Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water." Rev 14:6-7 NIV84

This is the message, the truth about God which is eternal good news, make a judgment and worship Him who made…

WEDNESDAY

The lesson acknowledges this is not a human legal court in the second paragraph where it reads, "The Son of man also is a royal figure. He receives "dominion and glory and a kingdom" and "all peoples, nations, and languages should serve him."

It further says that, "The judgment portrayed here shows that true worship is eventually restored."

What is required for true worship to be restored?

Where are changes required to be made for true worship to be restored?

Can true worship be restored by God examining record books and rendering legal judgments?

Or, does restoring true worship require that those who are deceived by the little horn and are worshipping a false conception of God have those false conceptions removed from their minds so they can worship God in truth and love?

- Would the removal of lies from their minds result in their gaining insight, wisdom, discernment or judgment?
- And would they reject the false views of God and judge God to be trustworthy?
- And in trust would they open their hearts to God and invite Him in?
- And would God come into their hearts and minds with His transforming Spirit to cleanse them of fear, selfishness, lusts, and sinfulness—thus recreating them with new hearts and right spirits?

Would this be the cleansing of the temple, the temple of which Paul said the man of lawlessness had set himself up in?

So, what do we understand is happening during the investigative judgment?

Who doesn't know the truth—God or sinful people on earth?

Who needs to investigate to discover truth God or people on earth?

What does the Bible mean when it says:

> Let God be proven true, and every human being shown up as a liar, just as it is written: "so that you will be justified in your words and will prevail when you are judged." Romans 3:4 NET

Who was lied about in heaven? Who believed the lies? —angels and humans, and who needs to decide what to believe now?

When Elijah at Carmel said to the people: ""How long will you waver between two opinions? If the LORD is God, follow him; but if Baal is God, follow him." (1Kings 18:21 NIV84), what was he asking the people to do?

Were the people to make a judgment? About who?

When we read Revelation 14:7: "Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water." (NIV84), do we hear the Elijah message calling for people at the end of time to decide: Is God like Baal an imperial dictator whose laws are like human laws and makes up rules and then punishes rule breakers, or is God the Creator whose laws are design laws?

When we read about the judgment, do we differentiate the different judgments in Scripture or do we mix them together?

There are four judgments:

1. Our judgment of God (Romans 2:4; Elijah at Carmel; Rev 14)
2. God's judgments of our condition, what therapeutic actions are needed to heal and save and eliminate sin, who trusts Him and what to fix in each heart and mind (this includes the investigative judgment in heaven)
    a. So during the Investigative Judgment we are investigating the truth about God and deciding whether we can trust Him or not. God is imparting truth into our minds and giving us discernment or judgment in order to make the right judgment about God.
    b. When we trust God we invite Him in and He enters and transforms us cleansing our hearts and minds from lies and selfishness preparing us to live in His presence
    c. Simultaneously, Jesus in heaven opens the records of each person who has died. What is recorded in the books of heaven, according to Scripture? The name, and the name is Bible symbol-speak for character. He examines each person's character, individuality and makes a judgment—who has trusted me and given me permission to heal them and who has refused me. And then, for those who have trusted Him He makes a second judgment: What needs to be healed to restore them to my perfect ideal. And Jesus cleanses them so that when they rise at the first resurrection they rise in perfect sinlessness. NOTHING judicial is going on it is all actual, real, restorative, healing!
3. Our judgment of angels during the 1000 years
4. The Great White throne judgment at the end of the 1000 years

What is the truth about Jesus being our Mediator?

What law lens do you see it through? If we use the human imposed law view then mediation is legal advocacy in which Jesus is our heavenly attorney to represent us legally before the heavenly tribunal and plead our case to God to get God not to execute us.

But if we use design law understanding we understand that God has been lied about and Jesus is the Father's envoy, representative, and agency to interface with His creation to achieve the purpose of refuting the lies and healing the damage caused by Satan's rebellion. Thus, Jesus is mediating God's remedy to sin to us and the unfallen beings.

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> "While we rejoice that there are worlds which have never fallen, these worlds render praise, and honor, and glory to Jesus Christ for the plan of redemption to save the fallen sons of Adam, as well as to confirm themselves in their position and character of purity. The arm that raised the human family from the ruin which Satan had brought upon the race through his temptations, is the arm which has preserved the inhabitants of other worlds from sin. Every world throughout immensity engages the care and support of the Father and the Son; and this care is constantly exercised for fallen humanity. Christ is mediating in behalf of man, and the order of unseen worlds also is preserved by his mediatorial work. Are not these themes of sufficient magnitude and importance to engage our thoughts, and call forth our gratitude and adoration to God?" {RH, January 11, 1881 par. 4}
> In the purity of his life he [Jesus] had revealed the Father, and the glory of God had beamed forth from his character. The perfection of the Father had been displayed before unfallen worlds, before heavenly intelligences, and to sinful men. In the mediatorial work of Christ, the love of God was revealed in its perfection to men and angels. [What is mediation here? What is Christ doing? Is He pleading to God not to kill us, or is He actually doing something to negate Satan's lies and cleanse the minds of God's intelligent children in order to confirm angels in their loyalty and reconcile sinners to God? But do sinner need something more than the angels in heaven? Notice what else Christ does as mediator.] Having overcome the temptation and borne the test in the wilderness, having overcome in our behalf, he bends his steps toward Calvary, and in the perfection of humanity he grasps the world, and in the fullness of his divinity he lays hold upon the throne of God, [What is being described? Do you understand this as mediatorial work?] and proclaims the result of his terrible conflict with the enemy, exclaiming, "Now is the prince of this world cast out," now is the last enemy destroyed.[from where is the enemy cast out?] The usurper to the throne and kingdoms of the world is put to flight; his confederacy of evil is broken and scattered. With his human arm he encircles the race of Adam, and with his divine arm he grasps the throne of God, and unites finite man with the infinite God, and earth with heaven. He sees as a result of his victory a new heaven and a new earth, from which every trace of evil is removed, and where God is all in all to its righteous inhabitants. {ST, June 27, 1895 par. 7}

Jump to FRIDAY's lesson and read the second paragraph:

> In his own strength, man cannot meet the charges of the enemy. In sin-stained garments, confessing his guilt, he stands before God. But Jesus, our Advocate, presents an effectual plea in behalf of all who by repentance and faith have committed the keeping of their souls to Him. He pleads their cause, and by the mighty arguments of Calvary, vanquishes their accuser. His perfect obedience to God's law has given Him all power in heaven and in earth, and He claims from His Father mercy and reconciliation for guilty man. To the accuser of His people He declares: "The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan. These are the purchase of My blood, brands plucked from the burning." And to those who rely on Him in faith, He gives the assurance, "Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment." Zechariah 3:4. PK 586.2

What do you hear? What law lens do you hear it through? To whom is Jesus pleading?

Is God confused by the arguments of Satan? Does God need Jesus to educate Him and present evidence to God to get God to understand reality and make the right decision?

Who are the beings that have been confused by Satan? When Satan points out our sins who is impacted by that history? Who gets discouraged, guilt ridden, ashamed and fearful?

The same author wrote the following:

> Through the plan of salvation, Jesus is breaking Satan's hold upon the human family and rescuing souls from his power. [What is Satan's power? Heb 2:14 Jesus destroys him who holds the power of death that is the devil. Life eternal is knowing God, what is eternal death? Not knowing God, then what is Satan's power? The lies he tells about God that we believe that keep us from knowing God. Jesus is breaking Satan's hold and rescuing us from his power—how?] All the hatred and malignity of the archrebel is stirred as he beholds the evidence of Christ's supremacy, and with fiendish power and cunning he works to wrest from Him the remnant of the children of men who have accepted His salvation. {LHU 234.2}
> He leads men into skepticism, causing them to lose confidence in God and to separate from His love; [Again, who is being impacted by Satan's lies, and accusations?] he tempts them to break His law, and then he claims them as his captives and contests the right of Christ to take them from him. He knows that those who seek God earnestly for pardon and grace will obtain it; therefore he presents their sins *before them to discourage them. [to whom is Satan' presenting their sins?] He is constantly seeking occasion against those who are trying to obey God. Even their best and most acceptable services he seeks to make appear corrupt. By countless devices, the most subtle and the most cruel, he endeavors to secure their condemnation. [by whom? Whom does Satan seek to get us condemned? Is it not in our own minds, that we conclude we are beyond salvation, too sinful to be loved?] Man cannot meet these charges himself. In his sin-stained garments, confessing his guilt, he stands before God. But Jesus our Advocate presents an effectual plea in behalf of all who by repentance and > faith have committed the keeping of their souls to Him. He pleads their cause and vanquishes their accuser by the mighty arguments of Calvary. [To whom is Jesus pleading? Who needs to have the allegations of Satan refuted? Who needs to believe that God loves them and Jesus' righteousness is sufficient for them? Does God need to be persuaded that Jesus righteousness is sufficient to save a sinner? Who doubts? It is you and me that need to hear Jesus' plea!] His perfect obedience to God's law, even unto the death of the cross, has given Him all power in heaven and in earth, and He claims of His Father mercy and reconciliation for guilty man. [notice now to whom Jesus speaks] To the accuser of His people He declares: "'The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan.' These are the purchase of My blood, brands plucked from the burning." Those who rely upon Him in faith receive the comforting assurance: "Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment." [to whom is Jesus pleading? He rebukes the accuser and pleads for us not to listen to his lies and to trust in Him!] All that have put on the robe of Christ's righteousness will stand before Him as chosen and faithful and true. Satan has no power to pluck them out of the hand of Christ. . . . We cannot answer the charges of Satan against us. Christ alone can make an effectual plea in our behalf. He is able to silence the accuser with arguments founded not upon our merits, but on His own (Testimonies, vol. 5, pp. 470-472). [To whom does Christ's plea need to effect? you and me!]

Jesus pleads before the Father, carrying out the Father's purpose to save sinners, the Holy Spirit listens to Christ and works in you and me communicating the love, grace and pleas of Christ to you and me to win us back to trust, so we will open the door to our hearts and let Him save us from fear and selfishness!

THURSDAY

Speaks of those who are saved by Christ as being the holy ones of God.

What do you think of this historic quote:

> When He leaves the sanctuary, darkness covers the inhabitants of the earth. In that fearful time the righteous must live in the sight of a holy God without an intercessor. The restraint which has been upon the wicked is removed, and Satan has entire control of the finally impenitent. God's long-suffering has ended. The world has rejected His mercy, despised His love, and trampled upon His law. The wicked have passed the boundary of their probation; the Spirit of God, persistently resisted, has been at last withdrawn. Unsheltered by divine grace, they have no protection from the wicked one. Satan will then plunge the inhabitants of the earth into one great, final trouble. As the angels of God cease to hold in check the fierce winds of human passion, all the elements of strife will be let loose. The whole world will be involved in ruin more terrible than that which came upon Jerusalem of old. GC 614.1

When we have been healed by Jesus, restored to His perfection by His work in us, then He can step out from between us and the Father because we are restored to unity with the Father. Jesus intercessory work has been completed! Praise God!

2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 9
From Contamination to Purification

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

As we get into this lesson there will be a lot of details and many people get confused or disagree over the details—but there really isn't any need for that, because we simply need to remember, irrespective the details, the big themes which are:

- God is Creator who built the universe upon design laws
- Adam sinned and infected humankind with a terminal condition
- Jesus is promised in Genesis 3 to be come and save humanity—to provide the remedy to our sin condition.
    - This means that humankind could not be saved without the life death and resurrection of Jesus as man's substitute (2Cor 5:21)
- After Jesus' victory He works from heaven to apply His victory into the lives of believers—this is known as the sanctuary message, in other words, Jesus works to prepare His people to be ready for His return. Thus the sanctuary is a metaphor, a lesson book, a teaching method, a way to describe the reality of God bringing sinners back into perfect at-one-ment with God. This is only accomplished by cleansing sinners from sin.

That is the big overview—all the rest are details, which we will explore, but it is okay that people see certain things differently as long as we don't contradict the big themes. It is okay to see the details differently, because we are developing and understanding at different rates, like some understand math differently than others because of their ability to comprehend more complex elements of mathematics than others. This is why Paul says, "let every person be fully persuaded in their own mind."

The title, From Contamination to Purification: What has been contaminated that needs to be purified?

What contaminates? Would it be sin?

What is sin? Transgression of the law, or lawlessness?

Can physical matter transgress the law?

Can molecules choose to disobey?

If we have a piece of wood, or stone, or metal can that substance sin?

What if that substance were carved or molded into an idol and worshipped by people—has the wood or stone or metal sinned?

topics@comeandreason.com

When Aaron shaped gold into a calf—was the golden-calf sin or sinful?

If we should have that collection of physical matter, the idol, would we have sin in our hands? Does the universe need to be cleansed of the wood, stone or metal used to create idols?

What does need cleansing? Would it be the minds and hearts of people who worshipped the wood, metal or stone? And from what would the minds and hearts of people need to be cleansed of?

Can physical matter be sinful?

What does Paul mean when he says all nature groans under the weight of sin?

Does he mean the physical matter that makes up the earth is sinful or that sin has damaged God's design and creation is suffering from that damage?

Is there a difference between eradicating a disease and healing the damage caused by the disease?

Can a person who is delirious, because they have viral meningitis, drive their car right through their house?

- Will curing the meningitis fix the house?
- Is the house sinful because it was damaged by the delirious person?
- Does the virus that caused the delirium need to be eradicated?
- Does the house also need to be fixed?
- Does the house need to be cured of the viral meningitis?

So, what has been contaminated when Adam sinned and what needs purifying?

Do the physical non-living, inanimate structures in heaven need to be cleansed from sin?

Read memory verse: And he said to me, "For two thousand three hundred days; then the sanctuary shall be cleansed." (Daniel 8:14 NKJV)

To what is the text referring?

Does this text tell us what the sanctuary is or which sanctuary is to be cleansed? What information does this text give us?

- A timeframe
- A cleansing event
- A sanctuary to be cleansed

Does this text tell us when the 2300 years starts or ends?

Does this text tell us what type of cleansing is going on (i.e. physical like washing dishes or bodies, or spiritual cleansing of minds from lies, fear and selfishness)?

No, we need more information to figure out what is actually happening.

One of the founders of the SDA church, who is central in establishing the sanctuary doctrine, wrote the following:

> The coming of Christ as our high priest to the most holy place, for the cleansing of the sanctuary, brought to view in Daniel 8:14; the coming of the Son of man to the Ancient of days, as presented in Daniel 7:13; and the coming of the Lord to His temple, foretold by Malachi, are descriptions of the same event; and this is also represented by the coming of the bridegroom to the marriage, described by Christ in the parable of the ten virgins, of Matthew 25 (Ellen White, The Great Controversy, p. 426).

Do these other Bible texts give us further insights into what is actually happening?

According to Malachi what is being cleansed? The Levites, which means what?

Why would the Levites need cleansing?

Where does sin happen—does sin happen in books or does it happen in hearts and minds?

Can hearts and minds be cleansed by a legal review of historical records? Can hearts and minds be cleansed by erasing ink from parchment?

In the book The Desire of Ages the same author wrote the following, do you agree or disagree?

> In the cleansing of the temple, Jesus was announcing His mission as the Messiah, and entering upon His work. That temple, erected for the abode of the divine Presence, was designed to be an object lesson for Israel and for the world. From eternal ages it was God's purpose that every created being, from the bright and holy seraph to man, should be a temple for the indwelling of the Creator. Because of sin, humanity ceased to be a temple for God. Darkened and defiled by evil, the heart of man no longer revealed the glory of the Divine One. But by the incarnation of the Son of God, the purpose of Heaven is fulfilled. God dwells in humanity, and through saving grace the heart of man becomes again His temple. God designed that the temple at Jerusalem should be a continual witness to the high destiny open to every soul. But the Jews had not understood the significance of the building they regarded with so much pride. They did not yield themselves as holy temples for the Divine Spirit. The courts of the temple at Jerusalem, filled with the tumult of unholy traffic, represented all too truly the temple of the heart, defiled by the presence of sensual passion and unholy thoughts. In cleansing the temple from the world's buyers and sellers, Jesus announced His mission to cleanse the heart from the defilement of sin—from the earthly desires, the selfish lusts, the evil habits, that corrupt the soul. "The Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to His temple, even the Messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in:

> behold, He shall come, saith the Lord of hosts. But who may abide the day of His coming? and who shall stand when He appears? for He is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' soap: and He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver" (Ellen White, The Desire of Ages, p. 161).

What do you hear? Does this sound like a legal process?

God wants to cleanse the hearts and minds of people from lies, fear and selfishness, sinfulness, lusts, evil habits, to restore His perfection in us. Once we are cleansed in heart and mind, it is a simple matter to fix the physical damage done to creation.

Remember from last week's lesson we discovered that the little horn power of Daniel 7 and the man of sin in Thessalonians 2 are the same and that the man of sin set himself up in God's temple proclaiming himself to be God.

We discovered the man of sin did this by waging a war of lies about God. The primary lie being that God's law functions like human law and this resulted in God being worshipped as a dictator who is the source of legal infliction of pain, suffering and death to punish sin.

God foretold to Daniel that it would be 2300 years until enough truth was recovered for people to make a right judgment about God and reject the imperial view of Him and have their minds (sanctuary) cleansed of the lies about Him.

Thus, the same author wrote in the book The Great Controversy:

> Both the prophecy of Daniel 8:14, "Unto two thousand and three hundred days; then shall the sanctuary be cleansed," and the first angel's message, "Fear God, and give glory to Him; for the hour of His judgment is come," pointed to Christ's ministration in the most holy place, to the investigative judgment, and not to the coming of Christ for the redemption of His people and the destruction of the wicked. p. 424

It is the hour in human history when we finally stop viewing God as a dictator and start worshipping the Creator who made the heavens….

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "As in Daniel 2…" What kind of judgment was going on during this time? Is this a judicial process of legal accounting done by a heavenly magistrate, or is it a judgment of what is diseased, what is misunderstood, what is wrong in heart, mind, character and who trusts Jesus and who is open to have their hearts and minds cleansed by Jesus?

In the book The Great Controversy: After referencing Daniel 8:14, Daniel 7, Malachi 3, Revelation 14, the author writes the following about this time in human history:

> Says the prophet: "Who may abide the day of His coming? and who shall stand when He appeareth? for He is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' soap: and He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver: and He shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver, that they may offer unto the Lord an offering in righteousness." Malachi 3:2, 3. Those who are living upon the earth when the intercession of Christ shall cease in the sanctuary above are to stand in the sight of a holy God without a mediator. Their robes must be spotless, their characters must be purified from sin by the blood of sprinkling. [what is to be purified, their characters or their records in heaven?] Through the grace of God and their own diligent effort they must be conquerors in the battle with evil. While the investigative judgment is going forward in heaven, while the sins of penitent believers are being removed from the sanctuary, there is to be a special work of purification, of putting away of sin, among God's people upon earth. This work is more clearly presented in the messages of Revelation 14. GC 425.1

What is the connection between cleansing the records in heaven and the cleansing of the people on earth?

What is recorded in the records of heaven?

- But at that time your people—everyone whose name is found written in the book—will be delivered. Daniel 12:1 NIV84
- Yes, and I ask you, loyal yokefellow, help these women who have contended at my side in the cause of the gospel, along with Clement and the rest of my fellow workers, whose names are in the book of life. Philippians 4:3 NIV84
- He who overcomes will, like them, be dressed in white. I will never blot out his name from the book of life, but will acknowledge his name before my Father and his angels. Rev 3:5 NIV84
- All inhabitants of the earth will worship the beast—all whose names have not been written in the book of life belonging to the Lamb that was slain from the creation of the world. Rev 13:8 NIV84

What does name represent in Scripture? Character, and what is recorded in the records of heaven? Again, one of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> Remember, your character is being daguerreotyped [photographed] by the great Master Artist in the record books of heaven, as minutely as the face is reproduced upon the polished plate of the artist. What do the books of heaven say in your case? Are you conforming your character to the Pattern, Jesus Christ? Are you washing your robes of character and making them white in the blood of the Lamb? "Behold, I come quickly; and My reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work shall be" [Revelation 22:12]. . . . {TSB 62.1}
> Remember that this world is God's daguerreotype office. The pictures of all who live here, old or young, are being made in the books of heaven. What shall the likeness be?—Letter 78, 1901. 3MR 352.3

So, how do we put all of this together?

Imagine your child is dying of leukemia and the doctors say there is nothing they can do, but you hear of a doctor out west who has 100% success rate. Every person that goes to him comes away with a clean bill of health. You get an appt, and you take your child to see the doctor. You take the MRI scans, the pathology reports, the biopsies, the lab results and give all these medical records, which document in precise detail the extent of this terminal disease.

And the doctor takes the records, opens them, removes all the record of illness and inserts clean, blank, white sheets of paper and hands it back to you saying, "Here, no more record of disease." Are you satisfied?

This is the fraud of the legal theory of salvation and the investigative judgment.

What is the truth? Once you go to the doctor he examines all the record of disease but then goes to your child and intervenes in your child with a remedy that puts the cancer into remission, remission—the cancerous cells remit back to their previous cancer free state. Without the shedding of Christ's blood there is no remission of sin—without the victory of Jesus sinfulness in humanity would not remit, we could not be changed back to God's perfection as He created Adam to be.

And, so, the doctor intervenes in your child and actually puts the cancer into remission. The medical records accurately document the extent of the cancer, but also accurate documents the remedy applied and then accurately documents the healing, transforming, curing of the cancer and that your child is actually well.

The only way we get our records in heaven cleansed is for us to trust Jesus with our hearts and minds here on earth and give Him permission to "create in me a clean heart O God and renew a right spirit within me."

Thus, the quote above, while the IJ is going on in heaven there is a putting away of sin in the people of God on earth!

MONDAY

We talked about the little horn last week so won't spend time on it this week.

TUESDAY

The first paragraph helps us understand how the little horn power makes war against the saints. When we put this together with other texts, like 2Cor 10:3-5 we understand that the war is not physical, but a war of ideas, truth versus lies, love versus selfishness, freedom versus coercion for the hearts and minds of God's intelligent beings—who will we trust and who will we become like?

The primary attack of the little horn was to get people to believe the lie that God's law is like human law.

Once that happened, then all kinds of arguments happen over various theological ideas, with opposing sides arguing against each other, but both actually supporting the same lie. From my book The God Shaped Heart:

> A few years ago I received an email with a link to a Christian talk show on which a Catholic priest and a Protestant theologian discussed the Eucharist and transubstantiation. They went back and forth over several points, then the Protestant honed in on the allegation that transubstantiation sacrifices Christ again and again whereas the Bible teaches Jesus died once for all.
> To this the Catholic priest responded:
> > There are two elements to any sacrifice: the immolation and the offering. The immolation is a bloody death. The lamb is slain. What is precious about that is the life in the blood of the lamb that is precious and pays back God. That's how the Old Testament rituals used to work. The immolation happened once but the offering is something Christ does for all eternity. He is right now in the presence of the Father, in the holy of holies, in the eternal presence, offering himself to the Father for the forgiveness of our sins. . . . Christ isn't killed again and again and again, he is offered [in the Eucharist] in the same eternal presence as Christ offers himself.
> The priest said it was by this offering of his sacrifice over and over again that the sins were paid for. So each time we sin, we must take mass in order to have the sacrifice of Christ pay the Father for that sin.
> How do you think the Protestant theologian responded? He argued that Christ is in heaven not offering his sacrifice to the Father over and over, oh no! He emphatically stated that Jesus is in heaven offering his merits to the Father over and over again to remind the Father that he has already paid for our sins.[1]
> In the Protestant view, all human sins were placed on Christ at the cross and paid for there. When we pray for forgiveness, Jesus goes to the Father and reminds him of what Jesus has already done in paying for the sins and makes the legal application of his "merits" as the payment he offers to the Father into our individual accounts.
> Do you see it, the deep infection of the imposed-law construct? Here we have two sincere people, both desiring to live in harmony with God through the victory of Jesus, arguing over whether Jesus is presenting his sacrifice or his merits to the Father to pay for our sins, yet missing the fact they are both worshiping a dictator god who requires some payment in > order not to punish. Why do they think God needs a payment? Because they both accept the idea that God's law functions like human laws—imposed rules, and if God doesn't punish, then there is no justice. Their doctrine is based on the idea we need protecting from God. Thus, trust in God is undermined and Christians, rather than being reconciled to God in heart and mind, are separated from God by beliefs that keep them fearful and distrusting of him.

This is what happens when we accept the lie that God's law works like human law, imposed rules that require God to punish rule-breakers. We end up arguing over irrelevant points while both sides still misrepresent God.

See if you can see this problem in the third paragraph, "In Daniel 8:11, the daily…" Were sinners forgiven through the OT services? Were sins actually dealt with through the OT sanctuary?

> The blood of goats and bulls and the ashes of a heifer sprinkled on those who are ceremonially unclean sanctify them so that they are outwardly clean. 14 How much more, then, will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself unblemished to God, cleanse our consciences from acts that lead to death, so that we may serve the living God! Heb 9:13-14 NIV84

What is the reality?

> Therefore, brothers, since we have confidence to enter the Most Holy Place by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way opened for us through the curtain, that is, his body, and since we have a great priest over the house of God, let us draw near to God with a sincere heart in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled to cleanse us from a guilty conscience and having our bodies washed with pure water. Heb 10:19-22 NIV84

What is actually happening? We are being cleansed by receiving the life of Christ into our hearts and minds.

If we retain the legal lie, the imposed law lie, then we have two sides arguing against each other:

- We must go to priests on earth to intercede with God to get our sins forgiven by presenting to God the sacrifice Jesus made and having those bad deeds removed from God's record book
- We must go to our heavenly High Priest who represents us in the court of heaven so He goes to God reminds God of the legal price He already paid and then removes the record of our bad deed from the books of heaven

Do you see they both teach the same lie about God and God's kingdom and keep people trapped in a system that prevents them from being healed and restored as God desires? Their spirit temples are not being cleansed.

Let's talk about forgiveness: could God, from His heart, forgive us without Jesus coming to earth as our Savior or did God need Jesus to die and offer Him the blood of a human sacrifice in order to get God to be willing to forgive?

> For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life. Jn 3:16 NIV84

Did God forgive us before or after Jesus died?

But is forgiveness from God sufficient to fix the sin problem? Or, even with God's forgiving attitude toward us, did humankind, after Adam sinned, have an actual sin-condition that required fixing and if not fixed would result in death, despite God forgiving us?

This line of questioning exposes again the fallacy of the legal approach. In the legal approach the problem is not our condition, but our legal standing before the court of heaven, and God may have a forgiving heart, but the law of heaven will not allow God to forgive us unless someone pay the penalty. Thus Jesus died to pay the penalty so God now has the legal right to act on the forgiveness that was in His heart. The entire construct is fraudulent because it is built upon a false premise, that God's law functions like human law.

When we understand the truth about God's law we understand that God's forgiveness was automatic because of who God is—God is love. But His forgiveness didn't change the reality of the sin-condition, that required Jesus to come and reverse the damage Adam did, to restore God's perfection into humanity. Thus EGW wrote:

> The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26. DA 762.2

Read first paragraph, "After the devastating attack…" What law lens is being used to describe these events?

This is based on misreading Daniel 7 as a judicial process rather than the same event as Revelation 5, a coronation of Christ, which is recognized in the minds of intelligent beings, including those of us on earth, seeing the truth of who God is and judging Him to be Creator and not dictator.

I want to read a larger section from The Desire of Ages before and after the section I just read:

> In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. When men broke the law of God, and defied His will, Satan exulted. It was proved, he declared, that the law could not be obeyed; man could not be forgiven. Because he, after his rebellion, had been banished from heaven, Satan claimed that the human race must be forever shut out from God's favor. God could not be just, he urged, and yet show mercy to the sinner. DA 761.4
> But even as a sinner, man was in a different position from that of Satan. Lucifer in heaven had sinned in the light of God's glory. To him as to no other created being was given a revelation of God's love. Understanding the character of God, knowing His goodness, Satan chose to follow his own selfish, independent will. This choice was final. There was no more that God could do to save him. But man was deceived; his mind was darkened by Satan's sophistry. The height and depth of the love of God he did not know. For him there was hope in a knowledge of God's love. By beholding His character he might be drawn back to God. DA 761.5
> Through Jesus, God's mercy was manifested to men; but mercy does not set aside justice. [what does justice require? What law lens? What is the just thing if the law is human law? What if it is design law?] The law reveals the attributes of God's character, and not a jot or tittle of it could be changed to meet man in his fallen condition. [why? Because it is the protocol for life, like saying the law of respiration cannot be changed to meet a man under water] God did not change His law, but He sacrificed Himself, in Christ, for man's redemption. "God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself." 2 Corinthians 5:19. DA 762.1
> The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26. DA 762.2
> God's love has been expressed in His justice no less than in His mercy. [justice, what law lens? When we understand that justice is doing what is right, which is healing the damage from sin, and also letting those who refuse healing to reap what they chose, then we see how this is love] Justice is the foundation of His throne, and the fruit of His love. It had been Satan's purpose to divorce mercy from truth and justice. He sought to prove that the righteousness of God's law is an enemy to peace.[how? By teaching the law is imposed, thus to enforce the law requires the law giver to use power to punish lawbreakers thus it makes God out to be the source of death and violence and enemy to peace] But Christ shows that in God's plan they are indissolubly joined together; the one cannot exist without the other. "Mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other." Psalm 85:10. DA 762.3

By His life and His death, Christ proved that God's justice did not destroy His mercy, but that sin could be forgiven, [forgiven not paid for, but forgiveness alone doesn't save, we needed the remedy described above a righteous character developed by Christ] and that the law is righteous, and can be perfectly obeyed. Satan's charges were refuted. God had given man unmistakable evidence of His love. DA 762.4

Another deception was now to be brought forward. Satan declared that mercy destroyed justice, that the death of Christ abrogated the Father's law. [What is the lie based upon? This idea that God's law is imposed, same lie, just presented in a different way. Jesus died to pay the penalty and now the law has been set aside for law breakers. No, it is design law and God restores law breakers to harmony with the law through what Christ has achieved.] Had it been possible for the law to be changed or abrogated, then Christ need not have died. But to abrogate the law would be to immortalize transgression, and place the world under Satan's control. It was because the law was changeless, because man could be saved only through obedience to its precepts, [What does this mean? Under the imperial lie, God could only legally pardon with a sinless offering to pay the penalty to make sure the integrity of the law and divine government are sustained. The truth of design law is that only in harmony with the law is life possible, thus we had to be restored to live out the law] that Jesus was lifted up on the cross. Yet the very means by which Christ established the law Satan represented as destroying it. Here will come the last conflict of the great controversy between Christ and Satan. DA 762.5

That the law which was spoken by God's own voice is faulty, that some specification has been set aside, is the claim which Satan now puts forward. It is the last great deception that he will bring upon the world. He needs not to assail the whole law; if he can lead men to disregard one precept, his purpose is gained. For "whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all." James 2:10. [Why is this true? Because if we set aside one precept we accept the lie that the law is changeable, which means we accept the lie that God's law is imposed not design law, which means we believe Satan's version of God's character] By consenting to break one precept, men are brought under Satan's power. By substituting human law for God's law, Satan will seek to control the world. This work is foretold in prophecy. Of the great apostate power which is the representative of Satan, it is declared, "He shall speak great words against the Most High, and shall wear out the saints of the Most High, and think to change times and laws: and they shall be given into his hand." Daniel 7:25. DA 763.1

> Men will surely set up their laws to counterwork the laws of God. They will seek to compel the consciences of others, and in their zeal to enforce these laws they will oppress their fellow men. DA 763.2 [notice the principles described. Is anything said about Sabbath here? It certainly could be the day of worship that is involved in this, but it doesn't have to be, it could be any coercion, because THAT is how imposed law works!]
> The warfare against God's law, which was begun in heaven, will be continued until the end of time. Every man will be tested. Obedience or disobedience is the question to be decided by the whole world. All will be called to choose between the law of God and the laws of men. Here the dividing line will be drawn. There will be but two classes. Every character will be fully developed; and all will show whether they have chosen the side of loyalty or that of rebellion. DA 763.3

Do you see clearly the issue is about worshipping the Creator whose laws are design laws and developing Godly character, which is the cleansing of the Temple in which the man of sin has set himself up in, or rejecting the Creator God and accepting the imperial dictator god who requires legal payment and must use power to punish law breakers—regardless of which day one goes to church upon.

So, is there a temple in heaven? Yes, and what is the material it is constructed out of? According to EGW, the central figure in the SDA Sanctuary doctrine, she writes, which is consistent with many Bible passages the following:

> The first tabernacle, built according to God's directions, was indeed blessed of Him. The people thus were preparing themselves to worship in the temple not made with hands--a temple in the heavens. The stones of the Temple built by Solomon were all prepared at the quarry and then brought to the Temple site. They came together without the sound of ax or hammer. The timbers were also fitted in the forest. The furniture was likewise brought to this house all prepared for use. {3MR 231.3}
> Even so, the mighty cleaver of truth has taken out a people from the quarry of the world and is fitting this people, who profess to be the children of God, for a place in His heavenly temple. We want the cleaver of truth to do its work for us. We are taken from the quarry of the world. The material must not be a dead substance but living souls, and these souls must be brought out of the quarry of the world, where the hand of God can fit them for the temple in heaven. We are here as probationers, and we must pass under the hand of God. All rough edges and rough surfaces must be removed and we must be stones fitted for the building. We are brought into church capacity with defects of character, but we must not retain them. We must be fitted and squared for the building. We must be "laborers together with God," for we are "God's husbandry," we are "God's building." In view of this we must see that our temple is not defiled with sin. We should be lively stones, not dead ones, but live ones that will reflect the image of Christ. We must be worshipers in spirit and in truth. {3MR 231.4}

The problem with the penal legal lie is that it makes the temple in heaven out of dead substances, elements of matter than cannot sin and cannot be contaminated by sin and cannot be cleansed by sin. It teaches people a lie—that the sin problem is not in their hearts and minds, but in record books and cleansing is not cleansing our hearts and minds but erasing facts of history out of books in heaven.

This is quite different than erasing sinfulness out of the heart, character, motivations, passions, drives of people.

Thus, from the Heavenly Sanctuary and the Investigative Judgment for the Modern World, we have taken some passages from EGW and shown their true meaning. See page 16 of that document.

2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 10
From Confession to Consolation

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read Memory Text: "O Lord, hear! O Lord, forgive! O Lord, listen and act! Do not delay for Your own sake, my God, for Your city and Your people are called by Your name." Daniel 9:19 NKJV

What was Daniel praying for? For deliverance and return to the promised land.

What lesson is there in this for us? Is it more than trusting God and praying for Him to help us deal with life's problems?

Is there an object lesson for us in this? Remember the OT not only records real lives of real people who did real historic things, but are object lessons of a larger reality—what is the object lesson for us?

- Daniel was a captive in a foreign land
  - We are captives of sin in a foreign land
- Daniel trusted God with his life and God protected him
  - We trust God with our lives and God protects us
- Daniel studied Scripture and understood the time had come for Israel to be set free and return to Jerusalem
  - We study Scripture and understand the time has come in human history for God to act to set us free from this world of sin and take us to the New Jerusalem
- Daniel understood the people had failed in their mission for God by accepting the false Baal view of God and misrepresenting God
  - Do we understand that as Christians we have failed in our mission for God by accepting the imperial law view of God (which is the Baal view) and thus have misrepresented God? Or do we believe we have taken the right gospel to the world?
- Daniel confesses the failing and asks God to act to bring about the result
  - Do we confess our failing and are we willing to ask God to act to bring about the end-time events?

Why has God delayed the second coming of Christ?

> But do not forget this one thing, dear friends: With the Lord a day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years are like a day. [9] The Lord is not slow in keeping his promise, as some understand slowness. He is patient with you, not wanting anyone to perish, but everyone to come to repentance. 2Pet 3:8-9 NIV84

What would cause the delay? What has prevented people from coming to the knowledge of God and being saved? A false gospel that people have accepted and that Paul says has a form of godliness but no power.

How would you describe the false gospel that has gone to the world?

What is the true gospel?

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote the following, regarding the message that is to prepare the world for the coming of Christ:

> "It is the darkness of misapprehension of God that is enshrouding the world. Men are losing their knowledge of His character. It has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. At this time a message from God is to be proclaimed, a message illuminating in its influence and saving in its power. His character is to be made known. Into the darkness of the world is to be shed the light of His glory, the light of His goodness, mercy and truth…The last rays of merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is the revelation of His character of love." Christ's Object Lessons, p.415

Do we believe the gospel of the kingdom of love, of the God who is love, of the Creator Designer and Builder of reality, whose laws are the laws upon which life is constructed to exist, has gone to the world? Or, instead has the lie of an imperial god who imposes rules and inflicts the death penalty gone to the world?

From the book The Great Controversy:

> It is Satan's constant effort to misrepresent the character of God, the nature of sin, and the real issues at stake in the great controversy. His sophistry lessens the obligation of the divine law and gives men license to sin. [How? By the imposed law lie, that sin is a legal problem taken care of in legal ways outside the sinner. We don't have to keep the law, in fact we can't, Jesus kept it for us, paid the penalty and now we just life by faith in His legal payment to the Father so the Father won't kills us] At the same time he causes them to cherish false conceptions of God so that they regard Him with fear and hate rather than with love. [This is the result of the legal lie, God becomes the source of inflicted punishment and the One whom we need to be protected from.] The cruelty inherent in his own character is attributed to the Creator; it is embodied in systems of religion and expressed in modes of worship. [These lies of Satan are embodied in our religions and worship—how? Through the legal lie that God's law is like imposed human law and all our theories and doctrines about God become corrupted to teach the lies of Satan.] Thus the minds of men are blinded, and Satan secures them as his agents to war against God. By perverted conceptions of the divine attributes, heathen nations were led to believe human sacrifices necessary to secure the favor of Deity; and horrible cruelties have been perpetrated under the various forms of idolatry. GC 569.1 [And today's Christianity teaches the same thing, that we must present to God the blood of a sinless human sacrifice in order to secure the favor of the Deity.]

Tuesday of this past week as I was riding to work I was listening to Christian radio in my car and a well-known Christian evangelist had a short homily in which he said, that all of us are under "God's death penalty" and Jesus took all the death for all the sins of the world to free us from God's death penalty, so that God could forgive us and not punish us.

He made it clear the problem with sin, in his view, is that we are in legal trouble with God and that God in order to be just must use His power to inflict punishment upon those who would not otherwise reap it. Thus, the problem with sin is breaking rules, upsetting the rule-giver and receiving the punishment from the deity. This is pagan—it is the infection of Rome, it is the wine of Babylon and Christianity is powerless to do its mission until we reject this legal fraud and returns to worship the Creator, Him who made the heavens earth sea and fountains.

This means we reject the idea that God's law is like human law and accept the truth that God's laws are design laws, that sin is being out of harmony with God and His laws and that no human could remedy this situation and that Jesus is our Remedy and will heal and restore all who trust Him. But God justly leaves all those free who reject His free remedy to reap what they have chosen, separation from Him the source of life. Thus death, as the Bible teaches, comes out from unremedied sin, not from God.

So, are we praying for God to fulfill His promises and open the way for the final message to lighten the world, to remove barriers to communication, to remove obstacles to the light of heaven and empower those who are willing to take the truth forward to do so?

SUNDAY

The lesson points out that Daniel was a student of Scripture and as such was aware that the time of Jeremiah's 70-year prophecy was coming to an end. Daniel was looking for God to act.

Read the last paragraph, "As we approach the last days…" Are we to be like Daniel and study God's word? For what?

Do we study to:

- know the right rules or to know the right God?
    - Did the Jews at the time of Christ know which day was the right Sabbath?
    - Did they know the Lord of the Sabbath?
- know the right rituals or know the right realities?
    - Did the Jews in Christ's day know the right rituals such as circumcision?
    - Did they know reality to which circumcision pointed?
- know the right predictions or know the right principles and purposes?
    - Did the Jewish leaders at the time of Herod, know the right prophetic prediction of where the Messiah was going to be born?
    - Did they know the right purpose of Christ coming to earth and the principles of God's kingdom?

What about today—why do we study Scripture? Does it matter?

And what helps us study Scripture correctly? Understanding design law, understanding the Great Controversy context, and understanding the purpose of Scripture.

So why do we study Scripture?

- To know God
- To know God's methods, purposes and principles
- To be reunited with God and become part of His team and be transformed to be like Him in character.
- To fulfill God's purposes

How can sin be obliterated?

Can sin be obliterated by the use of might and physical power?

If God were to use fire to melt the entire earth and every sinner into nothingness, would that eradicate sin?

Is sin a physical element that can be physically eliminated? Is sin made out of molecules?

This is critical for people to understand, because the imperial law lie about God has God using physical power to eradicate sin. It alleges that sin must be punished and that God in order to be just will use power to torment and kill sinners. But what would using physical power to get rid of sinners actually do? Notice God can use physical power to get rid of sinners—but does doing that actually get rid of sin? What would it do?

In the book The Desire of Ages one of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power. DA 759.1

Then later in the same chapter, and this picks up from a quote we used in last week's lesson,

> The warfare against God's law, which was begun in heaven, will be continued until the end of time.[What law? How did Satan war against God's law? Could Satan go into some legislative body in heaven and pass new laws? Could Satan change God's laws? What could Satan do to war against God's laws? Lie about what the law of God is, to get angels to believe the laws of God are imposed rules, like created beings make, rather than design protocols that are for our health and welfare.] Every man will be tested. Obedience or disobedience is the question to be decided by the whole world. [When you hear this to you get anxious? Why? Which law lens do you hear this through? If imposed law, imperial law, then we hear performance, and pressure to perform, but what do we hear through design law? Healing, living in harmony with life as God built it, and this is achieved only through trust in God who heals us.] All will be called to choose between the law of God and the laws of men.[What kind of laws are God's laws and what kind are the laws of men? How are do the operate? What is the way they are enforced? What happens if you break either kind? What do people do when they believe the lie about God's law in dealing with a law-breaker? It is the beastly system of coercion that results.] Here the dividing line will be drawn. There will be but two classes. Every character will be fully developed; and all will show whether they have chosen the side of loyalty or that of rebellion. DA 763.3 [What is the difference in the end, is it a legal accounting or the actual character of people? Who have trusted and worshipped our Creator God and been transformed in heart to be like Him, and who has worshipped the satanic view of god and become like Satan?]

Then the end will come. God will vindicate His law and deliver His people. [How does God vindicate His law? Would God be able to vindicate design law by using power to inflict punishment upon lawbreakers? No, this would sustain Satan's charges. So the entire Christian community that teaches God must use power to punish sin, is presenting Satan's view of God and obstructing the final message to prepare people to meet Jesus.] Satan and all who have joined him in rebellion will be cut off. Sin and sinners will perish, root and branch,[What does cut off mean? What kind of law is being described? When a branch is cut from the vine does the vine have to use power to kill the broken off branch? And what cuts the people from God? Is it an act of God that cuts people off, or is it their sin and their refusal to let God graft them back in to unity with Him?] (Malachi 4:1),—Satan the root, and his followers the branches. The word will be fulfilled to the prince of evil, "Because thou hast set thine heart as the heart of God; ... I will destroy thee, O covering cherub, from the midst of the stones of fire.... Thou shalt be a terror, and never shalt thou be any more." Then "the wicked shall not be: yea, thou shalt diligently consider his place, and it shall not be;" "they shall be as though they had not been." Ezekiel 28:6-19; Psalm 37:10; Obadiah 16. DA 763.4

This is not an act of arbitrary power on the part of God. [What does this mean? What kind of law is arbitrarily enforce? Imperial/imposed law, the punishment is just made up, fines, imprisonment, even death sentences are arbitrary. However, this is not so with design law, the punishment is always the natural result, what one reaps if not healed. So, notice how the quote continues.] The rejecters of His mercy reap that which they have sown. God is the fountain of life; and when one chooses the service of sin, he separates from God, and thus cuts himself off from life. He is "alienated from the life of God." Christ says, "All they that hate Me love death." [Do you see design law clearly being described here? Do you see how the common view in Christianity denies this and sustains Satan's lies about God and His law?] Ephesians 4:18; Proverbs 8:36. God gives them existence for a time that they may develop their character and reveal their principles. This accomplished, they receive the results of their own choice. By a life of rebellion, Satan and all who unite with him place > themselves so out of harmony with God that His very presence is to them a consuming fire. The glory of Him who is love will destroy them. DA 764.1[Why do they die? Is it because God inflicts death on those who would otherwise live eternally, or is it because of their actual state of being, the character they have developed is incompatible with life as God designed it? They are out of harmony with God, God's law and the law of life! Now, notice this, understanding why they die the next paragraph.]

> At the beginning of the great controversy, the angels did not understand this. [What did angels not understand? The nature of God's law, the nature of sin, why death happens.] Had Satan and his host then been left to reap the full result of their sin, they would have perished; but it would not have been apparent to heavenly beings that this was the inevitable result of sin.[Why do Satan and sinners die? Because they are out of harmony with the laws upon which life is built. And why didn't God allow Satan and the rebellious angels in heaven to experience this in the very beginning of Satan's rebellion? Because sin is not a physical entity, but a belief system that undermines love and trust, so notice the last sentence.] A doubt of God's goodness would have remained in their minds as evil seed, to produce its deadly fruit of sin and woe. DA 764.2

Can God obliterate sin by using power to kill all sinners? NO! It is only by truth, love and freedom that sin can be eradicated. And until Christians effectively present these truths then Satan's kingdom of lies continues to hold minds captive and prevent the healing remedy from doing its work.

This is why the message of the 3 angels is to go forward—a message of eternal good news—always true in eternity past and future. This good news is about God, and when we come back to this eternal good news then we are in awe of God and give Him glory by revealing the truth of His character so that people can make a right judgment about Him and worship Him who made the heavens earth and fountains of water…

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, "First, nowhere in Daniel's prayer…" Daniel knows that the people were in captivity because they had failed to stay faithful to God—but is that the full understanding? Was something more going on than: well they weren't faithful so they were being punished?

Does our understanding of God's law make a difference on this?

For instance, was God acting to cause this event using divine power to inflict punishment upon them for sin, or was God withdrawing protection and allowing evil forces to attack them? If one believes it was the active infliction of punishment—I would ask, Then, was God forcing Nebuchadnezzar to invade against Nebuchadnezzar's will? Neb was really a peaceful man, humble, kind, who wanted to set up humanitarian health clinics around the world, but God forced him to become an invading tyrant?

No, God didn't use His power to make it happen in this way, but God surrendered rebellious Israel to go their own way, like a prodigal child leaving home, God let Israel go their own way without His interventions to protect them. And what happened?

Babylon invaded and took them captive.

Jeremiah writes "I will summon all the peoples of the north and my servant Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon," declares the LORD, "and I will bring them against this land and its inhabitants and against all the surrounding nations." (Jer 26:9 NIV84)

If God didn't force Nebuchadnezzar then what does this passage mean? How do we understand it?

Did God know Nebuchadnezzar's heart, mind, character, and plans? Did God also know the hearts of Judah's leaders? Did God know the future? So, God knew what Neb was going to do and God could have acted to stop it like He did with the 185,000 Assyrians in the time of Hezekiah, but this time God didn't. Why not?

Did God make a judgment of what action was best for God to take?

And how do we understand God's judgments?

If we understand judgment through the lie that God's law is like human law then we think God is inflicting punishment.

But if we understand design law and the Great Controversy, and the fact that after Adam sinned the Messiah is promised (Genesis 3) and humankind could not be saved without the Messiah, and God was working to save humankind and end sin, then we understand the OT is the record of this battle between good and evil for the salvation of the species and the arrival of the Messiah.

In this light, we can understand that God judged that Judah was persisting in rebellion against God, and that rebellion would destroy the people who would be the avenue for the Messiah—it would destroy them by corrupting their characters and hardening their hearts so none would remain loyal to God.

Thus, God judged that they needed to repent—so He sent prophet after prophet to warn them and call for repentance. But they rejected His prophets and preferred the false prophets that opposed God's prophets. So God judged that the only way for them to retain a faithful remnant, in harmony with His methods, principles and laws, was to withdraw His protection—to give them their freedom to reap what they had chosen and allow the captivity which would sift the people destroying many of the hardened and keeping a remnant that would be faithful to Him. God could no longer protect the nation, but God could and did protect the individuals who were faithful to Him. And this painful, but therapeutic judgment, worked. The avenue for the Messiah was secured.

And God revealed this was the plan to Daniel—What did the vision given to Daniel reveal about what was to come?

- 490 years for his people to continue to be the ambassadors of God and the avenue for Messiah
- In the middle of the last 7 years the Messiah would end all the rituals and provide the remedy for sin
- The evil one would counter-attack and war against God's people with lies which infected their minds, the truth of Daniel's little book wouldn't be understood until much later in human history
- It would be 2300 years until the people recovered enough truth to have their minds cleansed of the lies and prepare themselves to be united with God

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Daniel's prayer…" How is "judgment" used here? It is understood as punishment, i.e. under the human-law model. But if we understand judgment to be God's therapeutic actions to bring about the plan of salvation, why would praying to God result in staving off judgment? Because their hearts changed and when their hearts actually changed and they were won back to loyalty to God, then the need for the impending therapeutic "judgment" was not needed thus it is averted.

But not always, consider Sodom and Gomorrah, Abraham prayed for God not to bring "judgment" upon these cities, but Abraham's intercession didn't make a difference why? Was the prayer of a righteous man not sufficient to influence God to lay off? No, it wasn't about God's attitude it was about the reality of the hearts and minds of the people in Sodom, and the plan of salvation in bringing the Messiah.

What is shown in this story is that God was quite eager not to destroy Sodom, if only there were any people there with hearts that were healable, hearts that were not fully hardened against Him. But there were not; since there were no hearts to turn back to Him, God judged or diagnosed that the condition was necrotic, unhealable, and if this cancerous lesion of sinfulness remained it would infect His people down the road and obstruct the avenue for the Messiah—thus, God acted therapeutically to excise this lesion and keep open the avenue for the Messiah. God also gave an object lesson, as Peter later informs us, that the wicked will not suffer and be tormented for all eternity.

> God did not allow the gangrenous ancient world to completely cut itself off from him but brought the flood to excise the necrosis and save Noah–a teacher of the Remedy–and seven others.[6]He diagnosed the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah as beyond healing, and in mercy, he cauterized those festering lesions to ash, making it clear that the unhealed will not be made to suffer eternally, but the torment of sin will mercifully be ended; 2Peter 2:5-6, The Remedy

Let's talk about the intercession of Moses—did the intercession of Moses truly change God's mind?

- Does God know the end from the beginning?
- Did God know that when He told Moses that He was going wipe out Israel how Moses would respond?
- Did God know how He would respond to Moses?
- Then, was God ever really planning on destroying Israel?
- Then, what was the purpose in telling Moses He was going to wipe out Israel and start over with Moses' family?
- Can angels read hearts and minds? If they could would any have been deceived by Lucifer in heaven?
- What was it looking like at this time in human history to the angels? Was it looking like God was winning? After the 10 plagues, after the Red Sea, the fire by night and cloud by day, what were the people doing? Worshipping a golden calf—and do you think Satan was taking advantage of this?
- So, what might God want the angels to know—that they didn't understand? That God cannot win by might and power, but truth, love and freedom really does work. God wanted to help the angels see the evidence of His methods healing and transforming a sinner. What is revealed to the angels in heaven, and to us who read the story today?
    - That Moses, who at age 40 murdered an overseer, revealing that at age 40 Moses had a heart willing to use force to kill others to get his way, but, after 40 years with God Moses was now willing to give his life to save others—God revealed that God's methods work for those who trust God!

This is what was really happening. Sadly, those stuck in the human law lie, read this story and falsely conclude that Moses needed to plead to God to get God to back off. Think about that—Wow, sure glad we had good old Moses there because God was having an off day and we couldn't trust God not to kill us, but Moses the murderer, him we can trust to get God to do the right thing. How pathetic is that line of reasoning?

What about the story of Elijah—did God need Elijah to pray to God to get God to send rain? Or, was the entire 3.5 years of drought part of God's plan to expose Baal (the god of weather) as a false God and turn the hearts of the people back to the true God? So Elijah wasn't praying to God to get God to do something, but Elijah was God's agent, God's spokesperson, praying to God so the PEOPLE could see and understand that the rain was coming from God and not from Baal!

The lesson says that in this case that Daniel plays the role of an intercessor or mediator…hmmm… does that mean if Daniel doesn't make this prayer then the people would have to stay in captivity longer?

Read bottom green section, "If you would…" What does the quote mean? What law lens do you read it through?

Why would attempting to present your good works to God as meriting your salvation be treason to God's government?

Here is the dictionary definition of treason:

1. the offense of acting to overthrow one's government or to harm or kill its sovereign.
2. a violation of allegiance to one's sovereign or to one's state.
3. the betrayal of a trust or confidence; breach of faith; treachery.

How is presenting our good works to God for salvation treasonous to God and His government?

What type of law would such an act be based upon? What would such an act suggest about the government of God and the laws of God's kingdom?

What is Satan's primary weapon against God—Satan is the father of lies! And Satan's prime attack is on God's law, that God's law functions like human law.

So, the act of presenting good works to God to merit our salvation is sustaining Satan's lies about God and God's law and government—thus it is treasonous it is an act of war against God's methods of truth, love and freedom.

It would be like getting Ebola infected tissue and offering it to people as a remedy to make people healthy.

What about not offering our good works to God to merit our salvation, but instead offering God the blood of His Son to merit our salvation?

> Let's examine the meaning of the prophecy here in Daniel 9:24: "Seventy 'sevens' are decreed for your people and your holy city to finish (restrain) transgression, to put an end to sin, to atone for wickedness, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal up vision and prophecy and to anoint the most holy. NIV84

Read second paragraph, "1. 'To finish transgression…" What law lens do you read this through? If we think through the imposed law lie, then we read this as taking punishment and paying penalties, but what does it mean through design law? That an end to the sin-condition in humanity would occur—that Jesus would cure the condition, that Jesus would restore God's law into the species human and eradicate the infection of fear and selfishness and become the remedy for the species.

Read next paragraph, "2. 'To make an end of sins…" What do you understand this to mean? Do we see this as legal accounting, or actual fixing? Was Jesus, as the second Adam, tempted in every way just as we are yet without sin? Did Jesus destroy the infection of fear and selfishness in the humanity He assumed and purify that humanity rising as a perfected human? Heb 5:9, "once he was made perfect he became the source of salvation for all who obey him."

3. to make reconciliation or atone for wickedness—what does this mean? Do you read it as legal, or actual? Was God, through Christ, doing something to God, or was God, through Christ doing something in humanity to fix the sin condition and restore humanity to oneness with God?

> Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has gone, the new has come! [Does the Bible say he is declared a new creation and the old record of sin is erased from the record books and a new record is written down in heaven's ledger? No, it says we are actually renewed, recreated, reborn, this is real happening in the hearts/minds/characters of those who trust God] 18 All this is from God, who reconciled us to himself through Christ and gave us the ministry of reconciliation: [Who is being reconciled to who? Is God being reconciled to man or is man being reconciled to God? The penal lie says that God was also being reconciled to man because God, after sin, was filled with anger and wrath and Jesus had to dissipate this from God's heart in order to enable or prepare God to be reconciled to us. This is paganism and false. God never changes, is the same yesterday, today and tomorrow. God is perfect always and needed no changing. No, God was in Christ reconciling the world to himself!] 19 that God was reconciling the world to himself in Christ, not counting men's sins against them. [What? But surely God is keeping an accurate record of sins to do exactly that, to count them against us. No, God keeps an accurate medical record of our condition in order to heal and restore all who let Him, and to reveal why those who are lost are lost—because they refused all actions from God that would have healed them and die of their own terminal condition.] And he has committed to us the message of reconciliation. 20 We are therefore Christ's ambassadors, as though God were making his appeal through us. We implore you on Christ's behalf: Be reconciled to God. 21 God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God. 2Cor 5:17-21 NIV84 [Here we have Jesus as our substitute! Yes, Jesus was our substitute—but for what? Not to pay a legal penalty but to fix the condition so that we may become the righteousness of God! Just as the prophecy of Daniel says, the very next element in the prophecy is…

4. to bring everlasting righteousness—how? What does this mean?

> The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26. DA 762.2

5. To seal up the vision and prophecy—what does this mean? To fulfill and confirm, to make it happen, part of history that cannot be changed.

6. To anoint the most holy—what does this mean?

Two views are possible—the most holy being anointed refers to:

- Jesus when He was anointed by the Holy Spirit
- The Heavenly Sanctuary when Jesus ascended victoriously

Most Christian and Jewish theologians believe this refers to the Messiah being anointed, but the SDA commentary reads:

> In view of the fact that the Hebrew phrase cannot elsewhere be shown to refer definitely to a person, and in view of the fact that the heavenly sanctuary is under discussion in the larger aspects of the vision (see on Dan. 8:14), it is reasonable to conclude that Daniel is here speaking of the anointing of the heavenly sanctuary prior to the time of Christ's inauguration as high priest.[1]

Well a couple of concerns about this view:

The SDA commentary in the paragraph immediately preceding the one just read, states:

> The most Holy. Heb. qodesh qodashim, "something most holy," or, "someone most holy." The Hebrew phrase is applied to the altar (Ex. 29:37; 40:10), other vessels and furniture pertaining to the tabernacle (Ex. 30:29), the holy perfume (Ex. 30:36), specified meat offerings (Lev. 2:3, 10; 6:17; 10:12), trespass offerings (Lev. 7:1, 6), the shewbread (Lev. 24:5–9), devoted things (Lev. 27:28), the holy district (Num. 18:10; Eze. 43:12), and the most holy place of the sanctuary (Ex. 26:33, 34). The phrase is nowhere applied to persons, unless, as some suggest, it is so applied in the text under consideration and in 1 Chron. 23:13. The latter text may be translated, "Aaron was separated to anoint him a most holy one," although it may also be rendered as in the KJV. Jewish expositors and many Christian commentators have held that the Messiah is referred to.[2]

So, the commentary acknowledges that in one place this language is applied to a person, but then suggests in the next paragraph that it isn't applied to a person.

And, its second argument is that the context of Daniel, references 8:14, is about the heavenly sanctuary. However, that ignores the immediate context in this case. Note, Daniel 9:24,25:

> Seventy 'sevens' are decreed for your people and your holy city to finish transgression, to put an end to sin, to atone for wickedness, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal up vision and prophecy and to anoint the most holy.

> 25 "Know and understand this: From the issuing of the decreed to restore and rebuild Jerusalem until the Anointed One, the ruler, comes, there will be seven 'sevens,' and sixty-two 'sevens.' Daniel 9:24-25 NIV84

So, if we consider the immediate context, the focus is not on the entire 2300 years in these passages, but on the portion of the 70 weeks allocated to Daniel's people. Further, within this time frame of the 70 weeks the most holy is to be anointed and there is a person referred to as the Anointed One, the ruler who is to come. So, it seems to me it is more reasonable and consistent with the scripture to consider this phrase to refer to Jesus' anointing by the Holy Spirit.

EGW suggests this when in The Desire of Ages, after quoting this prophecy in Daniel she writes:

> The time of Christ's coming, His anointing by the Holy Spirit, His death, and the giving of the gospel to the Gentiles, were definitely pointed out…DA 234.1

2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 11
From Battle to Victory

Lesson 11: SUNDAY

Read Daniel 10:1-3:

> In the third year of Cyrus king of Persia, a revelation was given to Daniel (who was called Belteshazzar). Its message was true and it concerned a great war. [What war?] The understanding of the message came to him in a vision. 2 At that time I, Daniel, mourned for three weeks. 3 I ate no choice food; no meat or wine touched my lips; and I used no lotions at all until the three weeks were over. (NIV84)

Why was Daniel fasting?

- What is the purpose of fasting?
- What impact does it have?
- Is it to somehow influence God to do something?
- Or, does it do something to us so we are more focused, more attuned, more receptive to hear God?

Does our desire for spiritual truth have anything to do with our growth in spiritual truth?

Does our busyness with life, engagement in entertainment or real-life responsibilities ever interfere with our connection with God?

Could the foods we eat or the things we drink affect our ability to discern spiritual truth?

- Will intoxication on any mind-altering substance impact our ability to discern spiritual truth?
- Studies show that high sugar diets interfere with normal synaptic function in the brain and impair memory—omega 3 fatty acids DHA have protective affects improving memory (J Physiol. 2012;590:2485-2499.)
- What physical exhaustion, failure to rest, failure to take care of the body?
- What about over study?
    - "Intemperance in study is a species of intoxication, and those who indulge in it, like the drunkard, wander from safe paths and stumble and fall in the darkness. The Lord would have every student bear in mind that the eye must be kept single to the glory of God. He is not to exhaust and waste his physical and mental powers in seeking to acquire all possible knowledge of the sciences, but is to preserve the freshness and vigor of all his powers to engage in the work which the Lord has appointed him in helping souls to find the path of righteousness."—Counsels to Parents, Teachers, and Students, 405-406 MM 81.4
    - The law of restoration—physical and spiritual rest, sleep for the body, Sabbath for the mind
- What about poor food choices, junk foods, fast foods?

Does Daniel's fasting potentially have a real physiological impact on his brain's attention, focus, and ability to be sensitive to spiritual truths, to be receptive?

- Fasting increases brain activity and alertness, being well fed slows brain activity and promotes being sedentary, memory and learning is enhanced by fasting.
- Intermittent fasting enhances synaptic plasticity and increased production of new neurons from neuronal stem cells
- Both exercise and intermittent fasting turns on BDNF (a gene that produces Brain Derived Neurotrophic Factor) which is a protein that is like fertilizer for the brain, it enhances the growth of neuron to neuron connections and learning (Cell Metabolism Volume 19, Issue 2, 4 February 2014, Pages 181–192)

From The Aging Brain:

> research has documented that caloric restriction or intermittent fasting slows aging, improves brain health and prolongs life.[i] [ii] The mechanism for this appears to be via a reduction in oxidation and inflammation.[iii]

Is there both a literal and an object lesson for us in this?

Literally: it is beneficial for us to make choices that are physiologically healthy, the healthier we are the more capable we are in growing in godliness, in being sensitive to the movements of God's Spirit.

Object lesson: in addition to physical healthy choices, such as intermittent fasting, we fast spiritually, by being selective in what we taking into our minds and taking time to fill our minds with godliness resources on a regular basis, and regular resting from mental work and mental exertion.

Additionally, we have a mindset of understanding where we stand in earth's history, at the precipice of the second coming and seek God's direction and enabling to advance His cause and hasten the day He appears.

Read second paragraph, "We know from…" What is the object lesson for us, the application to us today of what is revealed in these historical facts?

Israel was captive in Babylon—in the Bible does Babylon represent something beyond an ancient kingdom?

Babylon represents a system of confusion that exists at the end of time—a system that God's people are called to come out of, to be set free from—just as Israel was called to come out of Babylon and return to Jerusalem and rebuild the city walls and the temple.

Let's define some of the object lesson symbols:

- Israel—represent the people of God
- Babylon—represents the false belief systems of the world—confusion, imperialism

- The temple in Jerusalem represents the plan of salvation, bringing human hearts and minds back into unity with God, where each person is a dwelling place for the Holy Spirit. As our Spirit temples are cleansed from sin we are reunited with God and are built into a community of believers thus the temple also represents the church.
- The walls of Jerusalem represent the law of God which acts as a hedge of protection for those who embrace and apply it

As Israel went into captivity to ancient Babylon because of unfaithfulness, Christianity, because of rejecting the truth about God's law, because of accepting Satan's lie that God's law functions like human law, is in the captivity the confusion of religious superstition and myths. The minds of people are held captive—this is the Babylon that Revelation refers to. The confused system of false Christianity, based on imperial law, that we are to come out of.

There were three decrees setting Israel free or three different groups that came out of Babylon before Jerusalem was actually rebuilt—before the walls were repaired and the temple rebuilt.

Israel was called to repair the wall and rebuild the temple; but are we are called to repair the breach and rebuild the temple? How? What temple?

It wasn't until the 3rd calling out or group left and returned to Jerusalem that the Temple was rebuilt, what about for us today, are there three callings out that occur for us, and is it the third group that finishes the work?

I would suggest the possibility that we, this generation with this message about God's design law, is the third and last group to be called out, the ones who will finish the repairing of the breach in God's law and rebuild the temple.

- The first calling out, the Midnight Cry, began in the early 19th Century with William Miller and led to the Great Disappointment of 1844.

- The second calling was 1888 with the Righteousness by Faith message, but it met opposition, and also didn't result in the repair to the breach in God's law.

- And we today are the final group that repairs the breach to God's law and work with God to rebuild the temple!

What is the breach in God's law? That God's law functions like human law, with all the subsequent imperial distortion to God's character and the plan of salvation. We are calling people back to worship Him who made the heavens, earth, and fountains of water. This is Creator worship—and the repair to the breach is to reject the human law construct and return to design law and all that it entails.

This is the message of Revelation 18, the message that is to be joined to the message of the 3 angels of Revelation 14 to lighten the world for Christ's return.

Consider this quote from The Great Controversy:

> The prophet thus points out the ordinance which has been forsaken: "Thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations; and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in. If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on My holy day; and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable; and shalt honor Him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words: then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord." Verses 12-14. This prophecy also applies in our time. The breach was made in the law of God when the Sabbath was changed by the Roman power. But the time has come for that divine institution to be restored. The breach is to be repaired and the foundation of many generations to be raised up. {GC 452.4}

Do you hear this through imposed law lenses, as an arbitrary day to go to church upon—or do you hear a battle between design law and imposed law?

How was it possible for the church to change the day of worship from Sabbath to Sunday? Why isn't there one church, given the state of our world, that has voted that their members are immune from environmental toxins, or air pollution or coronavirus etc.? Because human beings have no power to change design laws!

So, what does it mean that the church did change the day of worship? That Christians no longer see God's law as design law, but merely as imposed rules. This is the real breach, this is the change!

Note the quote said, "The breach was made in the law of God when the Sabbath was changed by the Roman power." It didn't say the breach IS the change in the Sabbath!

The Sabbath change was the evidence of the breach, but in and of itself was not the breach: the true breach, which changes our fundamental understanding of God is when we believe God's law functions like human law. This idea corrupts everything and makes us view God like a dictator and the source of inflicted pain and death. This is paganism and this is what we are called out of.

The SDA church came into existence and reclaimed the right day of worship—but it has not yet fully repaired the breach because it has not rejected imperial/imposed law with its penal legal lie about the plan of salvation.

Notice the Isaiah quote we repair the breach when we call the Sabbath a delight—can delight in anything be legislated? No!

The only way for the Sabbath to be a delight is for a change to occur in the heart—and what makes the Sabbath a delight? The truth about its purpose and what it reveals!

topics@comeandreason.com

The Sabbath reveals the character of God—truth, presented in love, leaving us free! It is a gift of God to us revealing His love, kindness, mercy, truth, and methods! Is it a delight to be free, to have true liberty? This is what the Sabbath guarantees—why and how?

Because God, in the context of a war by Satan against His right to rule, after giving evidence of His Creatorship on days 1-6, gives evidence of His character on day 7. Day 1-6 we learn God is powerful—day 7, we see God step back and stop using power, establishing a day in which intelligent beings are left free to think for themselves.

If God were an imperial dictator like Satan alleges, there would be no Sabbath; the Sabbath proves Satan lied.

But when Sabbath is presented through Satan's lie of imperial law—it is a rule like human law that God imposed and we are required to obey under threat of punishment—then our freedoms are restricted, fear is induced, the Sabbath becomes a burden. This is how the Sabbath was taught and practiced by the Pharisees in Christ's day. They had the right day of the week, but they still had the wrong law because they had imposed law. Thus they worshipped the wrong God, which was proven when they killed the Lord of the Sabbath and wanted Him off the cross to keep the Sabbath.

How many Christians today practice their Christianity just like this—they may have some right doctrine—method of baptism, Sabbath, but promote it through the imposed law lie, thus they promote lies about God and His government and are not repairing the breach. Their Spirit temples are not protected from all the legal lies that enter their hearts and incite fear and distrust of God. Their temples are not being cleansed.

Do you see the connection to repairing the breach in the law and the cleansing of our Spirit temples? If we don't rid ourselves of the lies about God's law, if we retain the false believe that God's law is like human law, then all kinds of lies about God enter our hearts and minds, our Spirit temples. But when we repair the breach, when we understand the truth of design law, then the legal lies are removed and our hearts and minds are cleansed and protected.

The Sabbath was created for humanity; it is a gift to us a blessing to us, but it is also an evidence to the entire universe of God's methods and character. It is like an engagement ring; the ring is a gift to the woman, but it is also an evidence to the entire world of her engagement. The Sabbath was made for human beings, but it is also evidence for the entire universe of God's character and methods.

The Sabbath is not a rule we are obliged to keep under threat of punishment, but an evidence of God's methods that we are invited to embrace, practice and enter into. Thus the Sabbath is space in time we are invited to enjoy as we live lives of truth, presented in love while leaving others free. It is then that we truly delight in the Sabbath.

So, how do we repair the breach—by rejecting the imposed law lie and worshipping our Creator by embracing Him and His design laws for life.

From Prophets and Kings:

> The spiritual restoration of which the work carried forward in Nehemiah's day was a symbol, is outlined in the words of Isaiah: "They shall build the old wastes, they shall raise up the former desolations, and they shall repair the waste cities." "They that shall be of thee shall build the old waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations; and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in." Isaiah 61:4; 58:12. {PK 677.2}
> The prophet here describes a people who, in a time of general departure from truth and righteousness, are seeking to restore the principles that are the foundation of the kingdom of God. [what are they seeking to restore—rules? The right interpretations of prophetic symbols? No! Principles and what are principles? They are God's design laws! And notice, what restoring God's design laws into our understanding, our hearts and minds is described as doing.] They are repairers of a breach that has been made in God's law--the wall that He has placed around His chosen ones for their protection, and obedience to whose precepts of justice, truth, and purity is to be their perpetual safeguard. {PK 677.3}
> In words of unmistakable meaning the prophet points out the specific work of this remnant people who build the wall. "If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on My holy day; and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable; and shalt honor Him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words: then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord; and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it." Isaiah 58:13, 14. {PK 678.1}
> In the time of the end every divine institution is to be restored. The breach made in the law at the time the Sabbath was changed by man, is to be repaired. [She doesn't say the breach made in the law BY the change in the Sabbath, because the breach is much more than that. Remember when Satan broke the law of God in heaven the Sabbath didn't yet exist. We must of course recognize and accept the truth about the Sabbath, but accepting the day of the week while keeping the imperial law view doesn't repair the breach.] God's remnant people, standing before the world as reformers, are to show that the law of God is the foundation of all enduring reform [why? Because it is the law of life, the principles upon which life is established and operates. One cannot have health in violations of the laws of health. So all enduring reform is merely putting people back in harmony with God's design laws for life.] and that the Sabbath of the fourth commandment is to stand as a memorial of creation, a constant reminder of the power of God. [What power? This is key—when you hear this do you hear physical might and power, the power to create? That power was demonstrated during the fist six days of creation week—but what power was revealed during the 7th day? Was a different power revealed? Paul says the the gospel is the power for salvation (Rom 1:6), Remember this quote from EGW: "God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's > principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power." DA 759.1. What is the power of God that the Sabbath reminds us of? That God is moral—He presented truth in love and then leaves us free—God rested and did not compel. This is the power that the Sabbath is to remind us of. If we make it only about physical power we continue to obstruct the healing truth.] In clear, distinct lines they are to present the necessity of obedience to all the precepts of the Decalogue. Constrained by the love of Christ, they are to co-operate with Him in building up the waste places. They are to be repairers of the breach, restorers of paths to dwell in. See verse 12. {PK 678.2}

What was the breach made in the law when the Sabbath was changed? It was not the mere change of the day of worship—the breach was the idea that God's law is imposed law—this is the breach we are to repair.

Thus, we cannot repair the breach by teaching the right day of the week through imposed law lenses—that the Sabbath is an arbitrary test and that God will use power to punish those who don't keep it. This only perpetuates the lie, keeps the breach in the law open.

We are to repair the breach by returning to design law worship and this results in our transformation, for by beholding we are changed.

If we leave the breach in the wall—the idea that God's law is imposed, the Spirit temple remains infected with all the lies about God and thus the temple cannot be rebuilt.

But, when we repair the breach in the law and teach the truth about design law, then we cooperate with God for the healing of our hearts and minds, the rebuilding of the temple. Consider this quote:

> Your faculties are separate and distinct, yet each is dependent for its success upon the other. So each day God works with His building, stroke upon stroke, to perfect the structure, which thus grows into a holy temple for the Lord. One stone mislaid affects the whole building. This figure represents human character, which is to be wrought upon, point by point. There is not to be a flaw in it, for it is the Lord's building. Every stone must be perfectly laid, that it may endure the pressure placed upon it. God warns you and every worker to take heed how you build, so that your building may bear the test of storm and tempest because it is riveted to the eternal Rock. Take heed how you build. Every hour may be spent in placing the stone on the sure foundation, ready for the day of test and revelation, when we shall be seen just as we are…His church upon the earth is to assume divine proportions before the world, as a temple composed of living stones, every stone emitting light. [What is the temple? the church, built from the body of believers, who have cooperated with God for the cleansing of their individual Spirit temples] This building is to be the light of the world, a city set on a hill, which cannot be hid. [What is the light to the world, the city set on a hill? It is the church not any human nation or government.] It is composed of stones laid close together, stone fitting to stone, making a solid building. All the stones are not of the same > form or shape. Some are large, some are small, but each has its own crevice to fill. And the value of each stone is determined by the light it reflects to the world. This is God's plan, and He would have all who profess to believe His word fill their respective places in the great, grand work for this time.

Read last paragraph, "As we look into Daniel…" What is the purpose of intercessory prayer, and prayer in general?

First let's define prayer – what is it? As I understand prayer, it is conversation with God as with a friend. So, prayer is open-hearted communication with God.

What is the purpose of communication with God if God already knows all our thoughts before we even think them? Are we informing God of something He doesn't already know? Then what's the point? Relationship and development!

Does a parent, sometimes, already know what a child is going to say before the child says it? Is there any benefit in the child speaking their thoughts to the parent? What is the benefit? Relationship and development! The child experiences the parent listening, caring, concerned, gains knowledge of a parent who cares, and loves them. This brings security and peace. And the child also develops the ability to think, communicate, comprehend, understand, be open, honest, overcome fear/insecurity etc.

If a child asks a parent for something the child is convinced is good for them, but the parent knows they are not ready to handle or would only injure, what does a loving parent do?

- Does the request of the child work to create love and interest in the heart of the parent for the child?
- Of course not, but the child grows closer to the parent through the experience and learns more of the parents' values and character?

What if the child has misconceptions about the parent and has developed the belief that if the parent doesn't grant the request the parent doesn't love them and that they will never speak to their parent again—what might the parent do in that case—the case of the child insisting on something that will hurt them?

- What did God do when they insisted on the fleshpots of Egypt?
- What did God do when they wanted kings?
- What did God do when they wanted to go to war rather than wait for the land to be abandoned?
- What did God do when they insisted on worshipping the Baals?
- What did the Father do when the prodigal wanted to leave home?

We are like children who know so little of reality, including so little of God and His plans. Prayer is a process of coming into connection with the divine, of opening our hearts and minds to the movement of the Holy Spirit, "listening" to what God has to tell us. In so doing we are learning of Him, coming into contact with Him, opening ourselves to be enlightened, ennobled, and healed by Him. Is such a relationship we surrender ourselves and in that trust relationship:

- our burdens are lifted
- our guilt and shame removed
- our fears taken away
- our minds are enlightened and we see new possibilities, purposes and goals
- we know we are loved, cherished, and valued
- our love for God increases and we willingly surrender to Him and choose to follow Him in fulfilling His purposes.

What about intercessory prayer, what is its purpose? Is it to get God to care about some person He doesn't care about? Is it to bring to God's attention something God doesn't know? Is it to change God's mind about something—to get God to be merciful when God would be less merciful than what you are asking of Him?

Consider this quote—have you ever heard it and do you agree? I have found much comfort in it many times in my life.

> The conflicts of earth, in the providence of God, furnish the very training necessary to develop characters fit for the courts of Heaven. We are to become members of the royal family, the sons of God, and "all things work together for good to those who love God," and submit themselves to his will. Our God is an ever-present help in every time of need. He is perfectly acquainted with the most secret thoughts of our heart, with all the intents and purposes of our souls. When we are in perplexity, even before we open to him our distress, he is making arrangements for our deliverance. Our sorrow is not unnoticed. He always knows much better than we do, just what is necessary for the good of his children, and he leads us as we would choose to be led if we could discern our own hearts and see our necessities and perils, as God sees them. But finite beings seldom know themselves. They do not understand their own weaknesses, and when reproof comes, and cautions are given, when they are rebuked, or even advised, they think that they are misjudged and unjustly treated. God knows them better than they know themselves, and he understands how to lead them. But when he undertakes to guide them in ways which seem mysterious to them, because of their blindness and lack of faith, they rebel, and bring upon themselves unnecessary grief and trouble. They have prayed to the Lord for light and guidance, and the Lord answered them as he did Jacob, and, like Jacob, they do not discern that it is the hand of the Lord leading them in a way contrary to their own choosing. If we will trust him, and commit our ways to him, he will direct our steps in the very path that will result in our obtaining the victory over every evil passion, and every trait of character that is unlike the character of our divine Pattern. ST May 25, 1888, par. 9

When we pray for another, especially when it appears our prayer is not answered, how do we understand that?

When I was in residency one of my colleague's mother was dying of breast cancer. My colleague prayed for her mother's healing, but her mother died. Later she told me initially this was hard for her to understand, until she realized that God was more merciful toward her mother than she was. She said God allowed her mother to pass beyond temptation, pain, and disease and her mother would never have to suffer again. She said she realized her mother's healing was an eternal healing, not a mere temporal one. Some might call this rationalization, I believe it strikes a point – God looks beyond our comprehension to realities we are unaware of and takes all of these multiplicities into consideration when answering our prayers always acting in our best interest.

But there is another aspect for the purpose of prayer, particularly here on earth now, and that has to do with the Great Controversy. God was accused of being a power monger. His character and reputation were misrepresented, and are still being misrepresented today. Only God knows our inmost thoughts, ideas and the future. Only God knows what we are going to think before we think it. Angels and humans have to wait and see what a person says or does before we can know with certainty what is in the heart.

If God were to simply act on our thoughts, before we think them, several problems. First it doesn't give us the opportunity for growth in character, in wisdom, in trust and knowledge and love of God. It is by leaving us the opportunity to wrestle with problems that we grow and when we wrestle with God at our side we grow in love for Him.

But further, by praying and communicating with God we refute Satan's allegations that God abuses His power and reveal that God is acting in accord with the requests of His children and not simply pushing His way upon others. Thus Satan's lies are exposed as false.

What intercessory prayer is not: it is not the process of persuading an unloving god to be a loving one, a disinterested god to be interested, an uncompassionate deity to be compassionate.

> If God is for us, who can be against us? [32] He who did not spare his own Son, but gave him up for us all—how will he not also, along with him, graciously give us all things? [33] Who will bring any charge against those whom God has chosen? It is God who justifies. [34] Who is he that condemns? Christ Jesus, who died—more than that, who was raised to life—is at the right hand of God and is also interceding for us. Romans 8:31-34.

Why do we pray? Because we love our heavenly Father and ultimately really enjoy talking with Him!

But along these lines, jump to WEDNESDAY's lesson read last paragraph, "While Satan was…" Who is Gabriel? Who is the prince of Persia and the prince of Greece?

Who is Michael?

Why was Michael the only one who was available to help Gabriel? Didn't only 1/3 of the angels rebel with Satan? Doesn't that mean the good angels outnumber the bad angels 2 to 1? Then why was Michael the only one available to help Gabriel?

What kind of a war are we in? A war of truth, love and freedom against lies, selfishness and coercion—a war over God's character and methods. Satan has misrepresented them and inflames the worst fears and insecurities with deceptions to make it appear his methods are right.

What position did Gabriel take after Satan's fall? The position of covering cherub, the highest position of the angels, the position from where Lucifer fell, the position closest to the throne of God, the position in which he has the greatest knowledge, intimacy, and understanding of God's character, methods and principles.

In other words, there is no other created being that can bring more light of truth and love to bear than Gabriel. The only other being in the universe that can bring more love and truth to bear than Gabriel is God Himself, thus Michael, Jesus in His pre-incarnate form, comes with the light of God's truth and love and it is sufficient to dispel the darkness of Satan's lies!

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "The most prominent character…" What is the book of Daniel about? It is about the Great Controversy, it is about human history, not just the time of Daniel, but all the way to the end of time and the cleansing of the universe from sin.

Why is Jesus the most prominent character in the book? Because this is the focus of the entire Old Testament—as soon as Adam and Eve sinned, the Messiah was promised (Genesis 3) the Seed of the woman would crush the serpent's head. The entire story is focused on the coming Messiah and Satan's war to try and stop Jesus from coming. Daniel gives the best insights into this war of any Old Testament writer.

Jesus is the central focus because Jesus is the Remedy, the solution, the answer, the fulfillment of the law, the connecting link, the Unifier, the One through whom all things in heaven and earth are reconciled to God!

2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 12
From North and South to the Beautiful Land

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

We received the following emails this week:

Aloha Come and Reason Ministries,

We are so grateful to have a Sabbath School Class that feels like home. Even though we have never met any of you we feel like we belong to a family of loving and inclusive believers.

We set our alarm for 5 am every Sabbath morning to listen to the class live as we live in Hawaii and are five hours earlier than TN

Listening to God's word presented though His design law of love has been and continues to be very healing and gives us the courage to go to a church where teaching God's design law is not welcomed and the challenge to continue to attend sometimes seems overwhelming but at the same time has offered an unprecedented opportunity to have God show us our hearts and how much healing we truly need so we can look at those who judge and criticize with the same eyes as our loving Heavenly Father. It is such a place of peace to know that God is recreating His mind in ours and that in that day we will rise healed and whole.

Mahalo Nui Loa for your continuous ministry

Ben and Colette Ferris

Thank you very much for allowing the lady to share her testimony as part of your broadcast of this week's lesson, Dr Jennings.

You describe and explain really well about sin and remedy; God's design law. However, this woman finally broke through to me how God's grace, His transformation, can be effective.

Thank you for your faithfulness - you and your congregation - in presenting sometimes a very different viewpoint from that provided in lesson guides.
God bless you and your loved ones, plus all those people touched by your balanced material.
For many years, I have thought we need to introduce Jesus then permit God's Holy Spirit to do His work in lives - without my coercing or whatever - just (hopefully, prayerfully) encouraging queries, softly nudging when someone asks.

We cannot legislate faith. We can (and should) enable freedom to express beliefs, however they manifest…

God bless all concerned within Come and Reason Ministry.
Sincerely,

Wilma Gibbs (Australia)

SUNDAY

Read Daniel 11:1-4:

> And in the first year of Darius the Mede, I took my stand to support and protect him. 2 "Now then, I tell you the truth: Three more kings will appear in Persia, and then a fourth, who will be far richer than all the others. When he has gained power by his wealth, he will stir up everyone against the kingdom of Greece. 3 Then a mighty king will appear, who will rule with great power and do as he pleases. 4 After he has appeared, his empire will be broken up and parceled out toward the four winds of heaven. It will not go to his descendants, nor will it have the power he exercised, because his empire will be uprooted and given to others. NIV84

What is being described?

Read first two paragraphs, "Gabriel tells Daniel…

MONDAY

Daniel 11:5-14 depicts the battle between the Hellenistic dynasties, read first paragraph, "Upon the death of Alexander…"

In TUESDAY's lesson verses 16-28 are considered and commentators believe this moves from the Hellenistic dynasties to Rome as the king of the North.

Read first paragraph, "A transition in power…" This seems to be confirmed by verse 22 which read, "Then an overwhelming army will be swept away before him; both it and a prince of the covenant will be destroyed" (NIV 84).

The prince of the covenant would refer to the crucifixion of Jesus which occurred under the Romans.

WEDNESDAY

Daniel 11:29-39 transition us from literal Israel to spiritual Israel and Pagan Rome as the king of the north to Christian Rome as the king of the north.

Read all paragraphs, "Daniel 11…" Do we see elements that remind us of 2Thes in which the man of sin sets himself up in God's temple?

This is more than just physical conquest of Palestine, it now encompasses the Spirit temple—hearts and minds of God's people worldwide.

THURSDAY

Daniel 11:40-45 are reviewed, and there are a variety of interpretations for these texts.

November 2019, Adventist Review article summarized a theological conference held in Berrien Springs to discuss the different views of Daniel 11:

1. The Turkey and Egypt Position

The first view holds fairly closely to what Uriah Smith wrote in his 1884 book…

The King of the North in verses 40-45 is interpreted as being Turkey, either as the Ottoman Empire in its conflict in 1798 AD with Napoleonic France and the breakaway rulers of Egypt (verses 40-44), or as a last-days reincarnation of the Caliphate; and the King of the South in verses 40-45 represents Egypt.

2. The Papacy and Atheism Position

The second position takes the latter half of the chapter symbolically, arguing that the papacy is represented in its persecuting phase during the 1,260 years of papal supremacy.

This position agrees with the first position of a literal/historical interpretive framework for verses 1-22, down to the death of Jesus Christ on Calvary, but argues that after Calvary, the New Testament (NT) consistently applies a more spiritualized interpretation of Old Testament (OT) literal actors.

For instance, historical Babylon in Daniel becomes spiritual Babylon in Revelation; ethnic Israel through the OT era to the end of the 490-year prophecy of Daniel becomes spiritual Israel in NT times; and so on.

Thus, although this position identifies historical actors from verse 23 onward, these historical actors are no longer considered to represent the literal earthly powers to the north and south of Jerusalem, but rather they represent spiritual powers that are manifest in earthly realities, such as, for instance, the papacy as the King of the North. Verses 36-39 represent the full flowering of the blasphemous and persecuting papal power before 1798 AD.

> In verses 40-45, the papacy remains as the King of the North and atheism as the King of the South. This position parallels the identification of the atheist French Revolution in Revelation 11, and Revolutionary France being the power that overthrew the papacy in 1798 AD….

I expand this from the Papacy only, to false Christianity. All of Christianity that embraces and promotes the false law construct with an imperial dictator God and which would use the power of the state to oppose and eliminate its enemies.

I see this view as false Christianity being the king of the North fighting against atheism, humanism and progressivism as the king of the South. And the king of the North suffered defeat by atheism for a period but comes back and destroys the king of the South.

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote in the book The Great Controversy the following:

> "The great city" in whose streets the witnesses are slain, and where their dead bodies lie, is "spiritually" Egypt. Of all nations presented in Bible history, Egypt most boldly denied the existence of the living God and resisted His commands. No monarch ever ventured upon more open and highhanded rebellion against the authority of Heaven than did the king of Egypt. When the message was brought him by Moses, in the name of the Lord, Pharaoh proudly answered: "Who is Jehovah, that I should hearken unto His voice to let Israel go? I know not Jehovah, and moreover I will not let Israel go." Exodus 5:2, A.R.V. This is atheism, and the nation represented by Egypt would give voice to a similar denial of the claims of the living God and would manifest a like spirit of unbelief and defiance. "The great city" is also compared, "spiritually," to Sodom. The corruption of Sodom in breaking the law of God was especially manifested in licentiousness. And this sin was also to be a pre-eminent characteristic of the nation that should fulfill the specifications of this scripture. GC 269.2

The book goes on to apply this to the French Revolution which rejected God and enthroned the goddess of reason. And is the power that overthrew entered Rome and took the Pope captive thus ending the 1260-year reign.

But could this also extend beyond the literal nation of France and the French revolution to the spiritual revolution of rejecting a belief in God and the growth of atheism throughout the world?

What I see happening through history is this:

- Christ came a presented the truth about God and procured the Remedy to sin
- The Apostolic church embraced this truth and the gospel spread and many pagans were converted to Christ over the next several hundred years
- Satan counterattacks with the infection into Christianity of the Imperial law lie when Constantine converts and Christianity becomes false and begins using the methods of Satan to coerce—the crusades, inquisition, burning people at the stake are the most obvious abuses. But, the Imperial law lie also led to arbitrary rules for members about partaking of the Eucharist, about sacred or holy ground to be buried in, about purgatory, indulgences and the denial of science.

- This led to science—which is based on God's book of nature—to conflict with arbitrary rules of the church and science combined with the abuses of an arbitrary Christianity that was based on imposed law resulted in the atheism and the rejection of God.
- Today, as science advances it, combined with the design law understanding of Scripture, which is the truth about God is overthrowing the lies of atheism and the lies of the imperial false god that has infected Christianity. This is the message of the 3 angels to present the eternal gospel and call people back to worship the Designer who made the heavens, earth, sea… Today many honest scientists who follow the evidence are returning to a belief in God because the complexities of science and the laws of nature are inconsistent with life occurring from random forces.
- So we have the remnant of God opposing both the King of the North—false Christianity and the King of the South—atheism to present the true gospel message about our Creator God.

3. The Papacy and Islam Position

… Verses 23-30 trace the rise of the religio-political church of Rome and its political-military exploits, including the Crusades and later campaigns against Islamic power, in which Catholic forces coming to the land of Israel from the north and Muslim armies coming to it from the south sought to control it (verses 25-30).

Then verses 31-39 flesh out the predictions in Daniel 7 and 8 concerning the papacy's unique and astonishing religious pretensions and vicious persecutions (verses 31-39; see also 2 Thessalonians 2). In verses 40-43, the papacy and its allies ("Babylon" in Revelation) finally triumph over Islamic power, its long-time religio-political nemesis (see also the fifth and sixth trumpets in Revelation 9), during the "time of the end" (after 1798 and 1844).

In the course of a final campaign, which apparently aims to persecute God's true people, the papacy abruptly meets its end (verses 44-45) just before a "time of trouble" and Christ's second coming (12:1-3). This interpretation accepts religious emphasis and globalization developing after Christ's first coming as Israel becomes the Christian church and Rome becomes the papacy. However, God's true Christian people are also affected by the political-military activities of Rome and Islam at particular times and locations.

Do we agree that there is a transition away from Imperial Rome to Christian Rome in this prophecy?

If this is correct then the prophecy takes us beyond the local region of Palestine to a worldwide problem. It is no longer about genetic descendants of Abraham being harassed in Palestine, but about the people of God being harassed by two sides—the King of the North representing false Christianity and the King of the South representing either atheism or Islam, depending upon one's interpretation. Or could the King of the South represent both atheism and Islam?

What is the impact upon God's people of these conflicts?

For instance—does Satan use the two sides against each other as a trap to seduce or trick God's people into choosing one of the two sides when both sides are actually Satan's side?

- Could we get caught up in a conflict over whether we should have prayer in schools or not—Christianity promoting prayer in schools versus atheism opposing prayer in schools?
    - Could this lead to good Christian people being tricked into choosing to side with the King of the North—false Christianity—that would seek to force its religious views on others through the power of the state and deny freedom to those who would not want to pray?
    - Could this lead other good Christian people who recognize the principles of liberty as being godly being tricked into siding with the King of the South—atheism—and promoting a system that denies God and indoctrinating generations of children into a false belief system making it harder for them to come to know God?
        - What would be a godly solution to this problem? If the state decides it is its best interest to require its citizens to be educated then, the state provides the funding but leaves the parents free to choose where the child gets educated. The state requires the schools to meet basic academic requirements but doesn't police the religious beliefs taught at those schools.
- Could we get caught up in a conflict over abortion—(this is not about whether abortion is right or wrong any more than prayer is right or wrong, but is about whether the issue could be used by Satan to trick Christians into using his methods to achieve their goals)
    - Could good Christian people who value life and want to protect it get tricked into siding with the King of the North—false Christianity—and seek to pass laws to force people to practice their moral views regardless of circumstance? Could ideas be put forth that say "we believe that ever child is a gift from God" and could such rhetoric confuse people—children, adolescents, or young women—who were raped or sexually abused and became pregnant to wonder if it is true; was the rape God giving them a gift? Could good Christian people get tricked by the King of the North to promote lies about God?
    - Could it lead other good-hearted people who may not be Christian, but who do care about others to recognize the principles of liberty and to side with the King of the South—there is no God—it is just your body, make any choice you want and in so doing lead some women to make choices that they later regret?
- Could it lead to Christian and Islamic conflict?
    - Could those who value Christian principles be tricked by the King of the North into believing that it is godly to use physical might and power to go to war with those who are a threat and we should eradicate Islam because it is the religion of terrorists?
    - Could millions of good-hearted people be tricked by the King of the South—Islam—into believing American and Christianity are the great Satan and they should use whatever means necessary to kill the infidel?

If we allow that this prophecy goes beyond Palestine and genetic descendants of Abraham to encompass the entire world, do we recognize that neither the King of the North nor the King of the South are part of God's kingdom?

Are we as Christians able to recognize that participating with either the King of the North or South is a trap of Satan, in which he gets people to think they are fighting for right while in reality they are siding with evil?

How do we stay faithful to God while these two forces fight each other?

Could it be the that primary purpose of these two forces fighting each other is not for the King of the North and South to destroy each other, but the real purpose is Satan using both sides to destroy God's people?

How do we identify movements of Satan, whether King of the North or South?

The law and methods used—Satan always uses human imposed law and will always use coercion to force his way. No one can buy or sell save him who has the mark of the beast…(Rev 13:17)

God always uses truth, presented in love, while leaving people free. God does not coerce or force the conscience. Whenever you see movements that violate liberty you can be sure it is not the movement of the Holy Spirit.

Angel Rodriguez of the Biblical Research Institute wrote a document on Daniel 11 in 2015 https://adventistbiblicalresearch.org/sites/default/files/pdf/Release_13_Angel_for_website.pdf

In this article he makes some very interesting insights. He makes the case that the prophecies are not merely local and geographic, but are dealing with the cosmic conflict between good and evil. That Michael and Gabriel are involved battling forces of evil behind the scenes.

He connects the events of Daniel with the events of Revelation and makes the case that both books are describing a conflict that goes beyond just human history.

In the Bible God's throne or place of rulership is referred to as being in the North, and Satan wanted to take God's place there. Thus, the King of the North would represent a power that wants to supplant God—a power that believes in God but claims to be God.

The King of the South is identified in the Daniel text as Egypt and Egypt is a power that rejected Yahweh, denied God's existence and set up its many own gods. Thus Egypt represents godlessness in all its forms—paganism, atheism etc.

The BRI institute article makes a compelling case that Daniel 11 is drawing from the backdrop of the greatest and most important event in Israel's history—the Exodus from Egypt:

- God's hand was against Egypt during the Exodus—now the King of the North's hand is against Egypt. God led the exodus from Egypt, whereas the King of the North leads a return to Egypt
- God used the waters of the Red Sea to destroy Pharaoh's army, the king of the north is described a flood coming over Egypt

- The references of chariots and horsemen echo the references of Pharaoh's army chasing the Hebrews
- Edom, Moab, and Ammonites are referenced in the Exodus from Egypt and were people not conquered by Israel. These are also mentioned in Daniel 11 as not being conquered by the king of the north
- Israel took silver, gold and precious things from Egypt, now the king of the north does
- Israel left Egypt to meet God on the holy mountain, Sinai; the king of the north leaves Egypt to go to the "holy mountain"
- Israel was commanded to exterminate the Canaanites and the king of the north heads to Israel to exterminate the people of God

So, the article makes a compelling case that the imagery in Daniel 11 is from the backdrop of the Exodus, but in this prophecy the king of the north supplants God and claims God's authority and seeks to undermine, overthrow or destroy God's purposes and people.

Are there lessons from this imagery that we are to understand as having a larger application than just that geographic region?

- God's people went from Canaan to Egypt and were captives in Egypt and God delivered them from captivity to return to Canaan
    - Humanity left Eden and went into captivity, becoming slaves to sin in Satan's kingdom of fear and selfishness yet Jesus sets us free, He delivers us and leads us back to Eden!
- God sent the plagues upon Egypt to reveal the impotence of their false gods in order to free the minds of the people from belief in them and turn their hearts back to Him.
    - At the end of time plagues fall on Babylon the Great, the trials and difficulties occur to wake up a world that believes in itself and its false gods and get people to evaluate the truth and turn to God
- God led the people through the Red Sea on the way to the promised land.
    - Paul refers to this as a symbol of baptism which is when we die to the old selfish ways and are reborn to a new life. It is only by this rebirth we can enter the new promised land.
    - The waters of the Red Sea destroyed forces of Egypt and the cleansing waters of God, which represent the Holy Spirit, destroy fear, selfishness and the power of Satan in our hearts and minds.
        - 2Cor 10:3-5, For though we live in the world….
        - Where is the battle fought? In our hearts and minds
        - What are the weapons of God that demolish Satan's strongholds? Truth and love—which are the weapons of God, brought by the Spirit of truth and love, and are metaphorically represented as the water of life
- God gave them manna, the bread of heaven, to eat in the wilderness
    - We are in the wilderness of this world of sin and God sent Jesus the Word made flesh for us to ingest. It is by partaking the truth of Jesus that the lies are dispelled and we come to know God and in that true knowledge of God we are won to trust
- While feeding them manna God took them to Sinai and gave them the law

  - After we partake of Jesus, taking the living Word into our hearts and are won to trust, then we open our hearts and God writes His law on our hearts and minds. This is the New Covenant (Heb 8:10). This is the law of love, the living principles of God's kingdom, it is partaking of the divine nature. Thus, we who were dead in trespass and sin, are reborn to life and bring forth the peaceable fruits of righteousness.
- Edom, Moab, and Ammonites were not killed by Israel
  - Edommites were the descendants of Esau, Moabites were the descendants of Lot and his oldest daughter, Ammonites were the descendants of Lot and his youngest daughter.
  - They were allowed to join Israel if they converted.
  - As they were all related to Abraham, they represent people from other branches of the human family that cannot be part of God's family unless they convert, but of whom we are not to war with, instead we are to seek to convert. Yet these people often war with us.
  - Ruth was a Moabitess
  - In Jeremiah 49 God predicts destruction for the Ammonites who worship Molech, but states in the end He will restore the fortunes of the Ammonites.
  - "In that day I will restore David's fallen tent. I will repair its broken places, restore its ruins, and build it as it used to be, so that they may possess the remnant of Edom and all the nations that bear my name," declares the LORD, who will do these things. (Amos 9:11-12 NIV84)
  - So God seeks to save people from all branches of the human family, but only those who actually participate with God for transformation of heart become part of His redeemed.

What is the finally end of the kings of the north and south?

What brings about the end?

How do we understand the future events to unfold?

2020 1Q Daniel: Lesson 13
From Dust to Stars

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read memory version, "Those who are wise shall shine like the brightness of the firmament, and those who turn many to righteousness like the stars forever and ever." (Daniel 12:3 NKJV)

What does the text mean?

What does it mean that the wise will shine like the brightness of the firmament?

Jesus is called the light of the world—light is a metaphor for truth, so what wisdom would be the wisdom that shines bright? Would it be the wisdom about God—His character, methods, principles and government? Would it be the wisdom about His design laws?

What about the idea that the righteous will be like stars forever?

When Lucifer rebelled, he wanted to set himself up above the stars of God:

> For you have said in your heart:
> [m]'I will ascend into heaven,
> [n]I will exalt my throne above the stars of God;
> I will also sit on the [o]mount of the congregation
> [p]On the farthest sides of the north;
> I will ascend above the heights of the clouds,
> [q]I will be like the Most High.' Isaiah 14:13,14

What might this indicate? Did Lucifer want only to rise higher than suns? Or higher than other intelligent beings, to rule over them?

Stars are bodies that give light in the darkness—thus they are metaphors for people of light, people who shine the truth in their lives, who live God's principles in a world promoting the darkness of imperialism.

[m] Ezek. 28:2; Matt. 11:23
[n] Dan. 8:10; 2 Thess. 2:4
[o] Ezek. 28:14
[p] Ps. 48:2
[q] Is. 47:8; 2 Thess. 2:4

Consider these historic quotes—what do you think?

> Among earth's inhabitants, scattered in every land, there are those who have not bowed the knee to Baal. [what is Baal worship?] Like the stars of heaven, which appear only at night, these faithful ones will shine forth when darkness covers the earth and gross darkness the people. In heathen Africa, in the Catholic lands of Europe and of South America, in China, in India, in the islands of the sea, and in all the dark corners of the earth, God has in reserve a firmament of chosen ones that will yet shine forth amidst the darkness revealing clearly to an apostate world the transforming power of obedience to His law.—Prophets and Kings, 188, 189. [what law?]

> Christ dispatches His messengers to every part of His dominion to communicate His will to His servants. He walks in the midst of His churches. He desires to sanctify, elevate, and ennoble His followers. The influence of those who believe in Him will be in the world a savor of life unto life. Christ holds the stars in His right hand, and it is His purpose to let His light shine forth through them to the world. Thus He desires to prepare His people for higher service in the church above. He has given us a great work to do. Let us do it faithfully. Let us show forth in our lives what divine grace can do for humanity. CCh 98.3

In order to shine for God do we need to know the truth about God? Would this include the truth about God's design laws and methods?

SUNDAY

The focus of the lesson is on Michael—the question—who is Michael?

The Jehovah Witnesses teach that Michael is Jesus AND that Michael is a created being, not fully God.

Many Christian groups believe Michael is merely an archangel, no different than Gabriel—a created being—and reject the idea that Michael is Jesus.

There is a third option, that Michael is Jesus in His pre-incarnate form and that Jesus/Michael is fully God, pre-existent, with life original, unborrowed underived.

Let's examine what the Bible says and see which view is most consistent with the Bible texts?

God is infinite and lives in "unapproachable light." 1Timothy 6:16

- Unapproachable by whom?
- Why?
- So, if God wants the closest intimacy with His creatures, what must happen?
- A member of the Godhead must leave infinity and enter linear existence

- Who is the member of the Godhead that is the go-between, the mediator, the intercessor, Jacob's ladder, the vine, the way, the gate?

Did Jesus become the connecting link between God and His creation only after sin or did God, Jesus, interact with His created beings on their level before sin?

Exodus 3:2-6 and Acts 7:30-38:

> the angel of the LORD appeared to him in flames of fire from within a bush. Moses saw that though the bush was on fire it did not burn up. So Moses thought, "I will go over and see this strange sight—why the bush does not burn up." When the LORD saw that he had gone over to look, God called to him from within the bush, "Moses! Moses!" And Moses said, "Here I am." "Do not come any closer," God said. "Take off your sandals, for the place where you are standing is holy ground." Then he said, "I am the God of your father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob." At this, Moses hid his face, because he was afraid to look at God.

Judges 13:16-22:

> The angel of the LORD went up from Gilgal to Bokim and said, "I brought you up out of Egypt and led you into the land that I swore to give to your forefathers. I said, `I will never break my covenant with you, [Who brought Israel out of Egypt? Who promised the land to Abraham? Who made the covenant that He will never break? Yet, the Bible describes this Being as the angel of the Lord…note who Manoah and his wife say this is at the end…] Then Manoah inquired of the angel of the LORD, "What is your name, so that we may honor you when your word comes true?"
> He replied, "Why do you ask my name? It is beyond understanding." [What do you think this means? Why didn't He say "Gabriel" or "Michael" if just an angel? What does a name represent in the Bible? Character, and God is infinite, so His name would represent His infinite self and is beyond finite being's understanding—does the Bible reveal anywhere that Jesus is in fact the one with a name beyond understanding? "I saw heaven standing open and there before me was a white horse, whose rider is called Faithful and True. With justice he judges and makes war. His eyes are like blazing fire, and on his head are many crowns. He has a name written on him that no one knows but he himself." (Rev 19:11,12)] Then Manoah took a young goat, together with the grain offering, and sacrificed it on a rock to the LORD. And the LORD did an amazing thing while Manoah and his wife watched: As the flame blazed up from the altar toward heaven, the angel of the LORD ascended in the flame. Seeing this, Manoah and his wife fell with their faces to the ground. When the angel of the LORD did not show himself again to Manoah and his wife, Manoah realized that it was the angel of the LORD.
> "We are doomed to die!" he said to his wife. "We have seen God!"

So, far do we have Biblical evidence that the term "angel of the Lord" can refer to Jesus? But what about Michael—is Michael actually Jesus in His pre-incarnate form or just another angel?

Jesus said,

> "I tell you the truth, a time is coming and has now come when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God and those who hear will live… Do not be amazed at this, for a time is coming when all who are in their graves will hear his voice and come out…" John 5:28

According to Jesus whose voice raises the dead? His voice!

> For the Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. 1Thessalonians 4:16

> But even the archangel Michael, when he was disputing with the devil about the body of Moses, did not dare to bring a slanderous accusation against him, but said, "The Lord rebuke you!" Jude 9

In Daniel 10:21, Gabriel talking to Daniel, refers to Michael as "your prince" and in Daniel 12:1 He is called the great prince.

Who is the prince of heaven who becomes a human prince, the King of the Jews and ultimately the King of kings?

So, can we make a case that Michael, which means "who is like God?" is actually Jesus in His pre-incarnate form? But we must always ensure that we insist that Jesus/Michael is fully God, pre-existent, with life original, unborrowed, underived.

The lesson points out the Michael acts as a military leader to protect His people.

According to the Bible what kind of war are we in? 2Cor 10:3-5—this is a war for our hearts and minds and God's weapons demolish Satan's strongholds—what are Satan's strongholds? Lies, fear and selfishness, and coercion in the minds and hearts of people—what demolishes lies? Truth, what demolishes fear and selfishness? Love, what demolishes a willingness to control and coerce others? Freedom and love grows!

Jesus said that He is the truth, He is the bread of heaven, the Word made flesh. It is only through the truth Jesus brings that lies are dispelled and we are won to trust and then it is through receiving Jesus into our hearts that we are healed from fear and selfishness to love.

So, yes, Michael leads the forces of truth, love and freedom to war against the forces of lies, selfishness and coercion to save all who will trust Him.

Read last paragraph, "Second, the verb…" What law lens is this described through?

If we acknowledge that "stand" in this verse connotes the idea of intercession—then at this time in history Jesus stands up for and intercedes for His people—what do we understand this to mean through design law?

We are in a war—what kind of war? A war of ideas; truth waging against lies for our minds.

The lesson refers us to Daniel 7, and in Daniel 7 a little horn power is waging war and winning against the saints until God makes an intervention, until some intercession happens and the saints come to possess the kingdom. This is describing what Daniel 12 describes. Remember Daniel 11/12 are another rendition of these global prophecies already told multiple times. So, Daniel 12 describes Michael standing up to intercede and deliver His people.

According to Daniel 7 as the little horn is waging war and winning what does the Ancient of Days intercede and do that changes the course of the war, that causes God's people to break free? He gives judgment to the saints and then they come to possess the kingdom. (verses 21, 22)

According to Jesus where to we find the kingdom of God?

> The kingdom of God does not come with your careful observation, nor will people say, 'Here it is,' or 'There it is,' because the kingdom of God is within you. Luke 17:20-21 NIV84

This is the same process as described in 2Thes 2 when the man of sin sets himself up in God's temple proclaiming himself to be God. What temple? The Spirit temple, thus when the man of sin displaces God in the minds of people and sets up a Satanic caricature of God in the minds of people, Michael the prince intercedes; He stands up, He gives judgment, discernment ability to the saints—how? By giving of Himself—the truth He revealed about God and the truth destroys the lies and wins us to trust and our sanctuaries are cleansed from fear and selfishness as we trust in Jesus. We come to possess the kingdom—the kingdom of love and truth—first in our hearts, minds, characters and then when Jesus comes physically.

Do we see this as a legal process or a healing process? What law lens do we use?

I thought it might be helpful to take some quotes often used by those who insist God's law functions like human law and therefore promote a penal legal theology, and demonstrate that such quotes don't actually mean what they say:

> Jesus will appear as their advocate, to plead in their behalf before God. "If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous." 1 John 2:1. "For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us." "Wherefore He is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them." Hebrews 9:24; 7:25. Christ In His Sanctuary 176.2 [What law lens do you read this through? Do you bring other Bible texts to bear? Do we include Jesus speaking to His Apostles when He said "I am not saying that I will ask the Father on your behalf. No, the Father himself loves you…"(John 16:26,27 NIV84)? Do you include Romans 8:31-34: "If God is for us, who can be against us? He who did not spare his own Son, but gave him up for us all—how will he not also, along with him, graciously give us all things? Who will bring any charge against those whom God has chosen? It is God who justifies. Who is he that condemns? Christ Jesus, who died—more than that, who was raised to life—is at the right hand of God and is also interceding for us." NIV84. Do you hear intercession? And who is interceding for us? Jesus is also interceding in addition to who? God! So Jesus and God are in heaven interceding for us. So, putting the Bible together we have Jesus along with the Father as our advocate. Is this how you read the quote above? Why or why not? Are we so infected with the legal lie that we misread these quotes to present Satan's distorted view of God?

As the books of record are opened in the judgment, the lives of all who have believed on Jesus come in review before God. [What law lens? For what purpose? Legal judicial decision making or diagnosis, triage and remedial action?] Beginning with those who first lived upon the earth, our Advocate presents the cases of each successive generation, and closes with the living. Every name is mentioned, every case closely investigated. Names are accepted, names rejected. [What do names represent in the Bible? Character, what causes some characters to be accepted and some to be rejected? Is it that some people have worked hard and perfected their own characters and others haven't? Or is it that some have trusted Jesus and opened their hearts/minds to Him for Him to recreate in them His character?] When any have sins remaining upon the books of record, unrepented of and unforgiven, their names will be blotted out of the book of life, and the record of their good deeds will be erased from the book of God's remembrance. [What law lens to you read this through? If we use the human law lens then this is about historical deeds, judicial findings and expunging legal rights ultimately with execution for the wicked. But if we understand design law and that the books have the characters of people recorded therein, then we realize that sins remaining in the record "unrepented of" mean that these are sins remaining in the character, sins for which the persons have refused to let go. Understand, it is not just historical acts the refused to admit to and confess these are sinful traits of character that the sinner wants, prefers, desires, embraces, values, prefers over the methods of God. This isn't about historic deeds or acts in ledger it is about the condition of heart/mind/character in reality. Why do such people get blotted out of the book of life? Because they have chosen to solidify in their characters the law of sin and death and are out of harmony with life. To them God's presence would we torture and God will do that to them—He forces no one.] The Lord declared to Moses: "Whosoever hath sinned against Me, him will I blot out of My book." Exodus 32:33. And says the prophet Ezekiel: "When the righteous turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, ... all his righteousness that he hath done shall not be mentioned." Ezekiel 18:24. CIHS 177.1

All who have truly repented of sin, and by faith claimed the blood of Christ as their atoning sacrifice, have had pardon entered against their names in the books of heaven; [I am pausing in mid-sentence so we can think about what is being said. The rest of this sentence will affirm our design-law understanding, but before we read it, let us see if we can figure it out. What does it mean to truly repent—is this a legal process in books, or an actual change of heart? What does claiming the blood of Christ as out atoning sacrifice mean? Is it about red corpuscles? Or does the blood represent symbolically the sinless life of Jesus? What does atone mean? To be united as one. Did Jesus sacrifice Himself to provide a sinless life, a perfect character, to heal us and restore in us God's law/character/methods so that we can be again at one with God? Yes, this is what it means that we have been won to trust in God and have accepted Jesus as our Savior and "it is no longer I that live Christ lives in me." This is why Jesus said we must drink His blood—in other words take His life in to be our new life. And when we do we are restored to oneness—at-one with God. This same author makes it very clear in the book The Desire of Ages page 762 "The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character; [why does the law require this? For the same reason the law of respiration requires we breathe—it is how life is built to operate] and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26." Notice Christ's blood, i.e. life, becomes ours and we are built up into His perfection thus restored to oneness with God. This is not legal, it is actual. And the author said this is how God is just and the justifier—doing what is right by restoring us to real rightness or righteousness with God. Now, let's see how this author actually says it in the continuation of the sentence we are in the middle of] as they have become partakers of the righteousness of Christ, and their characters are found to be in harmony with the law of God, their sins will be blotted out, and they themselves will be accounted worthy of eternal life. [Why are they accounted worthy of eternal life? Because we have partaken of the righteousness of Christ, and their characters are restored to Christlike. From where are our sins blotted out of? From history of from our characters? And where are our characters stored/recorded in heaven? IN God's books. So, our sins our blotted out of our characters recorded in the books. So we could say our sins are blotted out of the books of heaven.] The Lord declares, by the prophet Isaiah: "I, even I, am He that blotteth out thy transgressions for Mine own sake, and will not remember thy sins." Isaiah 43:25. Said Jesus: "He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not blot out his name out of the book of life, but I will confess his name before My Father, and before His angels." "Whosoever therefore shall confess Me before men, him will I confess also before My Father which is in heaven. But whosoever shall deny Me before men, him will I also deny before My Father which is in heaven." Revelation 3:5; Matthew 10:32, 33….CIHS 177.2 [Why will we be denied in heaven if we deny Christ on earth? For the same reason we would be denied as being healthy in an examination room if we refused to take the remedy that would cure us.]

While Jesus is pleading for the subjects of His grace, Satan accuses them before God as transgressors. [While Jesus is before the Father and angels in heaven, to whom is He pleading? Well, who is listening to Satan's accusations? Is God in heaven going, "Wow, Satan is making a really compelling argument—"Hey Son, do you have anything to say that can compete with what Satan says, because right now I think the devil is being quite persuasive. I don't want to find them guilty but right now I am at a loss to know what to do?" Of COURSE NOT! God doesn't listen to Satan and ever since the cross neither do the angels in heaven. Only humans on earth listen to him. Satan recounts our sins to discourage us; to get us give up. Continue the quote…] The great deceiver has sought to lead them [the subjects of His grace] into skepticism, to cause them to lose confidence in God, to separate themselves from His love, and to break His law. Now he points to the record of their lives, to the defects of character, the unlikeness to Christ, which has dishonored their Redeemer, to all the sins that he has tempted them to commit, and because of these he claims them as his subjects. CIHS 179.1

Jesus does not excuse their sins, but shows their penitence and faith, and, claiming for them forgiveness, He lifts His wounded hands before the Father and the holy angels, saying:[What law lens are you hearing this through? Does this say pleading to the Father? No! This is happening in heaven and God's government is open, not secretive. Jesus wants His actions to be seen by all the universe so that all doubt in God will be removed. So that God's methods in healing and restoring will be understood, so that Satan will be fully exposed. So, of course this is happening before the Father and the holy angels. But what is happening? Jesus reveals the truth about our hearts and minds—that He has healed our characters. Notice what comes next:] I know them by name. I have graven them on the palms of My hands. [What does name represent? He knows us by our healed and restored characters because we have eaten His flesh and drank His blood, meaning we have partaking of His character thus we are part of Him—the body of Christ, written on the palms of His hands!] "The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, Thou wilt not despise." Psalm 51:17. And to the accuser of His people He declares: "The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan; even the Lord that hath chosen Jerusalem rebuke thee: is not this a brand plucked out of the fire?" Zechariah 3:2. [To whom is Jesus speaking? To the accuser, He isn't pleading to His Father to get a judicial ruling in our favor. Notice what comes next:] Christ will clothe His faithful ones with His own righteousness, that He may present them to His Father "a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing." Ephesians 5:27. Their names stand enrolled in the book of life, and concerning them it is written: "They shall walk with Me in white: for they are worthy." Revelation 3:4…. CIHS 179.2 [What is described? That Jesus fixes all the damage sin has caused in our hearts and minds and perfects us so that we are capable of living in God's presence and thus He presents us to the Father. Then, having been healed and restored by Jesus' intercessory work in our hearts and minds, we can stand in the presence of God without an intercessor!]

The work of the investigative judgment and the blotting out of sins is to be accomplished before the second advent of the Lord. [Why? Because we must be healed, restored, fixed, before coming into God's presence—why? What happens in the hearts and minds of unhealed sinners when they are exposed to infinite truth and love? Thus, we must have this work done in us before that time.] Since the dead are to be judged out of the things written in the books, it is impossible that the sins of men should be blotted out until after the judgment at which their cases are to be investigated. [What law lens are you hearing this through? What > is written in the books? Our characters, and this is describing the cleansing of the sanctuary, the removal of all residual defects in the hearts/minds/individualities of those who have trusted in Jesus so that when they arise in the resurrection of the righteous they arise sinless and perfected.] But the apostle Peter distinctly states that the sins of believers will be blotted out "when the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord; and He shall send Jesus Christ." Acts 3:19, 20. When the investigative judgment closes, Christ will come, and His reward will be with Him to give to every man as his work shall be. CIHS 180.2

Read first paragraph, "the time of Michael's…" The first paragraph states that at the end of time God's Spirit will be withdrawn from rebellious humanity—why?

Where is the dwelling place of the Holy Spirit? The hearts and minds of people—and what happens if people harden their hearts and minds against God? The Spirit is closed out or slowly withdrawn—this is the reason, because people choose evil over God.

What is the result? The restraining power of God is no longer active in the hearts of the wicked and thus evil increases upon the earth.

The Bible mentions heavenly records—what types of records are kept in heaven—in other words are there more than one type of record?

> And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Another book was opened, which is the book of life. The dead were judged according to what they had done as recorded in the books. Rev 20:12

What is recorded in the book of life? Names—which are characters, thus the judgment is reviewing the characters of people—those who have accepted Jesus and had selfishness and sin purged and righteousness written in—"I will write my law on your hearts and minds"—versus those who have rejected God's healing and retained selfishness in their characters, thus Jesus said:

> "Make a tree good and its fruit will be good, or make a tree bad and its fruit will be bad, for a tree is recognized by its fruit. You brood of vipers, how can you who are evil say anything good? For out of the overflow of the heart the mouth speaks. The good man brings good things out of the good stored up in him, and the evil man brings evil things out of the evil stored up in him. But I tell you that men will have to give account on the day of judgment for every careless word they have spoken. For by your words you will be acquitted, and by your words you will be condemned." Mt 12:33-37 NIV84

But, are the records of people's characters the only records?

I think there are also records of reality—of history—the Bible itself is a partial example of a record of history. Do we believe in heaven there will be records of history? Why?

Who was charged by Satan as being untrustworthy, unfair, arbitrary, cruel? God was charged by Satan—how is God vindicated in the end? Isn't it by the evidence—the truth sets all who embrace the truth free from the lies, from doubt about God? So, won't there be an eternal record of God's actions in the Great Controversy?

And, what will we learn about all those who are lost? In reviewing the history of the lost do we learn something about God? Do we learn that God intervened over and over again in multiple ways to offer them healing, but all those lost in the end are lost because they refused every offer of salvation and there was nothing more God could have done to save them?

The best way to understand the records is to think of them as medical records—they record the reality of each person's condition and the actions of God and His treatment team bringing healing solutions to all, but record the response of the sin-sick people some accept and are healed, others reject and remain terminal—but God is revealed to be only the source of life!

TUESDAY

The Bible describes two deaths—first and second—what is the difference between these two deaths?

- First death is described as a sleep—it is cessation of living activity, the body decays to dust, but the individuality is in a state of suspended animation—i.e. frozen in time, sleeping, waiting to be restored to a body to live again, i.e. resurrection
    - Jesus referred to this in Matthew 10:28, don't be afraid of the one who can destroy the body but can't destroy the soul
    - Consider metaphor of computer
    - body—hardware
    - soul—psyche—software
    - spirit-pneuma--energy
- Second death—annihilation—the destruction of the body and the individuality—eternal non-existence

Which death is the wages of sin death?

Why do we have the first death experience if the wages of sin is the second death? Grace—it is God's grace that permitted this artificial state in which the body dies, but the individuality is retained, to permit the plan of salvation to occur so that sin could be eradicated and people saved.

This is why God barred the way to the Tree of Life after sin—to allow the first death experience to occur—to allow sin to decay nature and degrade the physiology so the body would cease, yet God could still work to heal hearts and minds and Jesus could come as a human to fix the problem. And this is what happened, the Bible says:

> This grace was given us in Christ Jesus before the beginning of time, but it has now been revealed through the appearing of our Savior, Christ Jesus, who has destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. 2Tim 1:9,10 NIV84

How did Jesus destroy death?

What is the basis of life? God is the basis or source of life. Life comes from God and extends out from God and continues in all those who maintain unity with God. Sin severs our connection with God and disconnecting ourselves from God causes injury, pain, suffering and eventual death. Jesus came to take our condition upon Himself, be tempted in every way like we are, but overcome as a human reestablishing in humanity God's perfection thus connected humanity back to God.

At the Cross Jesus destroyed the infection of fear and selfishness when He was tempted in every way just like we are, but refused to act to save self and instead gave Himself in love. In so doing, Jesus in His humanity restored God's law of love back into the species human and fixed the damage that Adam did to humanity. Thus He rose again because death (the law of sin and death) had nothing in Him, no hold, because He destroyed it.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on the book of Daniel which was to be sealed until the time of the end. When did the Biblical time of the end begin?

For many Biblical scholars it began when the 1260-year prophecy ended in 1798, then the message of Daniel was unsealed and knowledge increased—knowledge about these end-time events.

THURSDAY

Why has there been a delay in the Lord's return?

Did you grow up in church singing, "Lift up the trumpets and loud let them ring, Jesus is coming again"?

Did you grow up with the expectation that Jesus was actually returning soon?

As you look around the world and see the conflict, disasters, crime, exploitation, population growth, climate threats, diseases, do you wonder, "What is God waiting for? Why hasn't Christ returned?"

All the way back in the first century, Christians were wondering why Christ had not come back. The apostle Peter told them:

> But do not forget this one thing, dear friends: With the Lord a day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years are like a day. The Lord is not slow in keeping his promise, as some understand slowness. He is patient with you, not wanting anyone to perish, but everyone to come to repentance (2 Peter 3:8, 9 NIV84).

God has waited because He wants everyone who can be saved to be saved—and that requires that people know about Him and come to a repentance. This means the gospel must go to the world; as Jesus said,

> And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached in the whole world as a testimony to all nations, and then the end will come (Matthew 24:14 NIV84)

But it's been two thousand years! Surely the whole world has heard the gospel by now—right? Or has it?

Has the gospel of the kingdom of love gone to the world? Or has Christianity been tricked into taking to the world a lie, a fraud, a false gospel, one that traps the world into a system that promotes a distorted view of God? And if this is so, then is God waiting for the truth about Him to go to the world?

The apostle Paul warned us this would happen:

> But mark this: There will be terrible times in the last days. People will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boastful, proud, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, unholy, without love, unforgiving, slanderous, without self-control, brutal, not lovers of the good, treacherous, rash, conceited, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God—having a form of godliness but denying its power (2 Timothy 3:1–5 NIV84).

As sad as it is, the Bible is true again: Christianity, as practiced today, is no different than the world—child abuse rates, spouse abuse rates, pornography use, and addictions are no different in Christian homes than non-Christian homes. Why? Because a false gospel that has no power to transform lives has taken over Christianity and prevents people from experiencing the healing that God has for them!

Thus, Jesus waits. He waits for the true gospel to go to the world and prepare people to meet Him—only then will He come.

God told His friend Daniel thousands of years ago that this would happen. God revealed to His prophet exactly how this false gospel would take root in Christianity—a corrupting power would seek to change God's law (Daniel 7:25). Paul expanded on Daniel's prophecy, giving more insight into this evil infection:

> Concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered to him, we ask you, brothers, not to become easily unsettled or alarmed by some prophecy, report or letter supposed to have come from us, saying that the day of the Lord has already come. Don't let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God (2 Thessalonians 2:1–4 NIV84).

Paul tells us here that before Christ returns, the evil one will counterattack the gospel of Jesus. He does this by setting himself up as God in God's temple. But what temple? Did Satan ride into heaven and knock Jesus off His throne? Of course not. Paul is speaking of the Spirit temple, the hearts and minds of believers. In other words, the Bible is telling us that Satan will get people to believe that a being with his attributes is God! Satan doesn't get the church to reject the idea of God or the belief in God; instead, he tricks the church into believing that God is like Satan in character and methods.

How could Satan make this happen? How could he get people to reject the truth about Jesus and enthrone the evil one into their hearts and minds as the one to be worshiped—all the while singing songs of praise to Jesus?

Daniel tells us it is by seeking to change God's law, and Paul reveals how he does it by the name he gives this power: "The man of lawlessness."

Satan displaces Jesus in our hearts and sets himself up as the one being worshiped when we accept the lie that God's law functions like human law. It is when we conceive of God's law to be like the laws humans make that Satan enthrones himself in our hearts and minds. Thus, we reject the law of God and promote a lawless view, even while claiming to believe in the Ten Commandments.

God is the Creator of all reality—space, time, energy, matter, and life. God's laws are the protocols He established, built into reality, that govern the operation of all things: the law of gravity, laws of physics, laws of health, and the moral laws—the law of love, law of liberty, law of worship, etc. Life is built to exist only in harmony with God's laws, for they are the protocols for life and health. Deviation from God's laws brings pain, suffering, destruction, and death. (For more on God's Design Laws, see my blog.)

As the Bible teaches:

- The wages of sin is death (Roman 6:23)
- Sin when full-grown brings forth death (James 1:15)
- Those who sow to the carnal nature from that nature reap destruction (Galatians 6:8)

God's laws are design laws. Life only operates in harmony with them.

Human beings cannot create reality. We cannot build space, time, energy, matter, or life. Our laws are not the laws upon which reality exists. Instead, we make up rules and then enforce those rules by threats of punishment.

Christianity has embraced the system of the world in that it teaches that God's law is imposed, imperial, a system of rules that functions like human law and requires the ruling magistrate to use its power to punish rule-breakers. This idea is "lawless"—it is a denial of reality. It dethrones God from His seat as Creator and enthrones a deity that is a rule-maker—functionally no different than any other created being—thus, it enthrones Satan in the minds and hearts of all who accept the lie that God's law is like human law.

The lie of imposed laws results in a cascade of other lies—all of which distort God's character and obstruct His plan to heal and save His people. Some of these subsequent lies are:

- We are in legal trouble with God
- We are under God's death penalty
- God must use His power to kill the disobedient
- Jesus came to be killed by God to pay our legal penalty
- Jesus pleads to God in heaven, offering the Father the blood of a human sacrifice to get God not to kill us
- We need to be protected from the anger and wrath of God
- Jesus hides us or our record from God because if God saw it, He would kill us
- Jesus hides us or our record by covering us in a robe of His righteousness—or by using His blood to erase the records of our sins from the legal accounting books in heaven
- We must do certain rituals (baptism, Eucharist, communion, confession) in order to get the legal application of Jesus' blood payment made to the court of heaven
- It is right and just for God to use power to torture and/or kill people who disobey

The lie that God's law functions like human law has displaced Christ in the minds of millions of people and enthroned a deity that functions like the evil one. And they are sharing this lie about God wherever they go.

God told His friend John that at this time in human history, a message was to be proclaimed that presents the eternal gospel:

> Then I saw another angel flying in midair, and he had the eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live on the earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people. He said in a loud voice, "Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water" (Revelation 14:6, 7 NIV84).

And what is the good news that has always been true—true in eternity past and true in eternity future? That God is not like Satan has portrayed Him to be! He is not a dictator who makes up laws that function like our laws. He is not the source of pain, suffering, and death. He is not the one from whom we need to be protected. And so, the end-time message calls us to make a judgment about God, just like Elijah called the people of his day to make a judgment about God:

> How long will you waver between two opinions? If the Lord is God, follow him; but if Baal is God, follow him (1 Kings 18:21 NIV84).

It is time to choose to worship "him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water." It is time to reject the dictator views of God, to reject the lie that God's law functions like human law, and to embrace the eternal good news that God is our Creator, Savior, and Restorer! It is by embracing the truth about God that we are set free (John 8:32)—free from fear, free from guilt, free from shame. It is the truth about God that wins us to trust, and in trust we open the heart and experience the Spirit healing us, writing in our hearts God's living law of love.

> This is the healing plan I will renew with the house of Israel after that time, declares the Lord: I will recreate and cleanse them, and restore my law of love in their minds, and write my principles of benevolence on their hearts. I will be the God they love, admire and adore, and they will be a people who reveal my true character (Hebrews 8:10 The Remedy).

I invite you to worship our Creator—to reject the lie that God's law functions like human law—and to open your heart to the Spirit of the Lord, asking God to restore in you His perfect law of love so that you can bring glory to Him by revealing His character in your life!

Only when God's people reject the lies of Satan—instead embrace His design law and proclaim the eternal gospel about God's character and methods of love—will Jesus come again.

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 1
The Uniqueness of the Bible

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

INTRODUCTION
to the Study Guide

Read first three paragraphs, "As Seventh-day Adventists we are Protestants…" What do you think of this idea of sola Scriptura?

The argument the lesson and many Protestants take today, is that this means that Scripture is used alone, by itself, without consideration for other threads of evidence to form our doctrines. But this is actually not what the term meant to the Protestant Reformers who coined it, nor how it was used by them.

In fact, there were five solaes, and let's examine the other four to see if they give insight into what sola Scriptura meant to the Reformers who coined the term:

- sola fide – by faith alone
- sola gratia – by grace alone
- Solus Christus or Solo Christo – by Christ or through Christ alone
- Soli Deo Gloria – glory to God alone

Do these other soloes mean that it is only by these alone, or that they are set up against another idea that is being excluded? For instance:

- by faith alone rather than by faith plus works to earn salvation
- by grace alone rather than by grace plus human merit
- by Christ alone rather than by Christ plus church sacraments
- glory to God alone rather than glory to God plus humankind or the church?

Does by faith alone mean without grace and without Christ?

Does Christ alone mean without the Holy Spirit working in the heart?

Do you see how these soloes are not about the element alone, but about excluding something from inclusion that was wrongly being included?

So, what would sola Scriptura mean for the Reformers?

It would be that our doctrinal truths come from Scripture not from Scripture plus church traditions, church councils, or papal rulings.

Does that mean that our doctrines were not to come from Scripture plus other God-given revelation?

When science shows that a balanced whole-food vegetarian diet is healthier than a diet that includes meat, should we reject the scientific evidence because God gave Israel laws on how to prepare meat or because the New Testament church didn't recommend vegetarianism?

The lesson points out that many people who claim to believe in Scripture alone have false beliefs, but what error in how the doctrine of sola Scriptura is understood has contributes to this? Believing that it means that Scripture should not be harmonized with science and experience, or that Scripture should absolutely and always be used alone and by itself to determine our beliefs.

When Scripture is used alone, detached from harmonizing with the laws of God as revealed in nature and detached from our real-world experiences, then it can be twisted to say anything and this is why there are so many Christian groups arguing back and forth, last count over 40,000 different groups.

The Scripture teaches that God has given us three threads of evidence to reveal truth to us:

Scripture teaches that God reveals Himself through His first book—nature:

- Job, a righteous man who was perfect in all his ways according to God says, "Ask the animals, and they will teach you, or the birds of the air, and they will tell you; or speak to the earth, and it will teach you, or let the fish of the sea inform you." (Job 12:7–8 NIV84).
- "The heavens declare the glory of God; the skies proclaim the work of his hands" (Psalm 19:1 NIV84)
- "For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities — his eternal power and divine nature — have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse" (Romans 1:20 NIV84).

And Scripture teaches that God reveals Himself through His second book—experiences of life:

- "Taste and see that the Lord is good" (Psalm 34:8 NIV84).
- "Then he said to Thomas, 'Put your finger here; see my hands. Reach out your hand and put it into my side. Stop doubting and believe'" (John 20:27 NIV84).

And God's third book—the book that came after nature, after experience, is Scripture.

According to one of the founders of the SDA church, Scripture is not the only book that reveals truth to us—but MUST be the foundation of all truth—which means we must harmonize our understanding of science and experience with Scripture, but it also means we must harmonize our understanding of Scripture with the design laws of God revealed in nature and how life actually works:

> The great storehouse of truth is the word of God—the written word, the book of nature, and the book of experience in God's dealing with human life. Here are the treasures from which Christ's workers are to draw. In the search after truth they are to depend upon God, not upon human intelligences, the great men whose wisdom is foolishness with God. Through His own appointed channels the Lord will impart a knowledge of Himself to every seeker. –

{COL 125.2} [What are those channels? Scripture, nature, and experience—but all three must be harmonized!]

Rightly understood, both the revelations of science and the experiences of life are in harmony with the testimony of Scripture to the constant working of God in nature. {Ed 130.3}

Jesus followed the divine plan of education. The schools of His time, with their magnifying of things small and their belittling of things great, He did not seek. His education was gained directly from the Heaven-appointed sources; from useful work, from the study of the Scriptures and of nature, and from the experiences of life--God's lesson books, full of instruction to all who bring to them the willing hand, the seeing eye, and the understanding heart.
{Ed 77.2}

The Scripture says, "All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables; ... that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, I will open My mouth in parables; I will utter things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the world." Matthew 13:34, 35. Natural things were the medium for the spiritual; the things of nature and the life-experience of His hearers were connected with the truths of the written word. Leading thus from the natural to the spiritual kingdom, Christ's parables are links in the chain of truth that unites man with God, and earth with heaven. - COL 17.2

When we separate the three threads of Scripture we have problems:

- Science by itself leads to godlessness
- Experience by itself leads to mysticism
- Scripture by itself leads to confusion, over 40,000 different Christian groups arguing among themselves while claiming Scripture supports their view—why? Because they don't anchor their interpretations in reality, in the laws of nature and thus conjure up all types of irrational beliefs.

If we want to interpret Scripture correctly we must use the integrative evidenced-based approach which harmonizes all three threads.

In the fourth paragraph the lesson makes another common error in interpreting Scripture:

> In short Scripture is the foundational source of the truths that we believe and proclaim to the world. Or, as the Bible itself says, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness" (2Tim 3:16). "All Scripture," of course, means all Scripture—even the Scripture that we might not like; that might step on our toes; and that, to use contemporary parlance, might not be "politically correct."

What is the error made in this paragraph that is a dangerous error?

That all Scripture is God breathed—is it?

- What about the apocrypha? Books like:
  - Esdras (Vulgate 3 Esdras)
  - 2 Esdras (Vulgate 4 Esdras)
  - Tobit.

Do we believe all Scripture is inspired by God? The text should more accurately read, “All Scripture, inspired by God, is useful….” Not “All Scripture is inspired by God…”

So from The Remedy:

> For all Scripture, inspired by God, is beneficial for teaching, redirecting, correcting and training — to promote character transformation — so that God's ambassadors may be exceptionally competent in application of the Remedy and in every other good work. 2Tim 3:16-17

Once we have determined that the text means all Scripture that God inspired is useful, and not that all Scripture is inspired, then we can accept that we should use all of it that God did inspire, even if it is not politically correct.

What might the authors be referring to as Scripture that steps on our toes or is not politically correct?

- Later in the quarterly the lesson focuses on Creation—perhaps it is concerned with accepting the Biblical view of origins and rejecting the evolutionary view?
- If we accept the Biblical view of Creation does that impact other doctrines?
- Are they wanting us to think about God's design for human relationships?
- Are they wanting us to think about the Sabbath?
- Are they wanting us to think about our bodies—the Spirit Temple—and what substances we put in them—particularly with the legalization of marijuana in so many places?
- What about a belief in God itself—is believing in God considered politically correct? Perhaps—Nancy Pelosi says she prays for the president regularly, so perhaps believing in God is politically correct.
- But what about witnessing for God? Did Tim Tebow get negative feedback from the political elites for his public stance on his faith?
- Why is public witness for God considered politically incorrect by some?

SABBATH

Read memory text, "Your word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path" (Psalms 119:105 NKJV) What does this text mean to you?

This is how I phrased it in The Remedy:

> Your word is the lamp that guides my steps — > the light that directs my way.

How does God's Word, the Scripture, guide our steps and direct our paths or ways?

Is it through studying to find the right list of rules?

Is the Bible a code book of deeds to be done and sins to be shunned?

Or does the Bible enlighten our mind to reality—to our Creator, to His design, His methods, His protocols for life and health and therefore doesn't merely give us rules to follow, but enlightens us on how to live in harmony with God and His kingdom of love?

Life is filled with choices—how do you make choices in life? Are you an active decision-maker or passive? Do you examine the evidence, weigh out the issues, prayerfully ask for wisdom and enlightenment, considering God's revelation of truth from Scripture, science and experience and then make an informed choice? Or, do you wait for life events to make choices for you, or for the majority of your peers to decide and then follow the group? Do you let others, perhaps leaders decide what is best?

I have seen so many allowing others to do their thinking—even church leaders? I know of conference presidents who when given some of our materials did not study it out for themselves but sent it off to a theology professor and asked the theology professor to tell them whether what we teach is okay or not. Is such an approach using God's word as a lamp to lighten the steps? No—it removes God's Word from leading one's life and allows another human being to lead.

This quote was written by one of the founders of the SDA church, consider the implications:

> We say decidedly, every minister of Jesus Christ must bind himself to the Source of all light and power and he must not follow in the shadow of any other living man, because there is Christ to whom he must become attached, and he should not bind his heart to any human being and let man do his thinking for him. [The Word of God is to be our light to guide us, not other human's thinking about the Word. What happens if we let others tell us what the Word of God means and don't think for ourselves?] He is not filling his position in society or in the world if he simply accepts what his father has said and what his father, or some great and good man in past generations, has done, and sinks himself, his individuality, in them. Some who think that they preach the gospel are preaching other men's ideas. Through some means they have come to the decision that it is no part of a minister's calling or duty to think diligently and prayerfully. He accepts what other men have taught without asserting his individuality... {1888 834.2} [Do we see any of this in organized churches? Why?]
> Now Satan has his hand in all this work to narrow down the work of God. [What does this mean? Can you see that if people, instead of studying God's word for themselves, instead study their church creeds or fundamental beliefs, restrict the light that God can bring. The Bible is the divine Word of God, and it has truths that are not fully revealed. As we study the Word we gain ever deeper insights. But if we instead study human commentaries on the Scripture we but barriers between us and the source of light and truth.] Ministers of Jesus Christ are to be constantly receiving light from the Source of all light. They are not to be simply receivers of other men's thoughts, they themselves not plowing deep into the mines of truth. If a minister is not a worker himself, digging for the truth as for hidden treasure to find the precious jewels of truth, he is forfeiting his God-given privileges. He is not to put any human mind, any human intelligence, between his soul and God. There is to come no authority from human minds that will in the least degree interpose between him and God's authority to lead, to guide, and to dictate. The ministers of Christ should gather up every ray of light, every jot of strength and illumination from other minds whom God has blessed, but that is not enough. They must go to the Fountainhead for themselves. God has given men reasoning minds and He will not hold them guiltless if they trust in man or make flesh their arm. He wants you individually to come to Him, to draw from Him, to use the ability God gives to understand the living oracles. If one man can see light in examining the Scriptures, so may every true Christian have the right to read, to examine, to search the Scriptures with unabated interest, and gather light therefrom. {1888 834.3}

Do you see the balance in the statement—yes we want to learn from others, hear the truths others have gleaned, but then we are to study the Scripture for ourselves and come to understanding and see the truth for ourselves and allow God to teach us from His Word.

Consider, we may have a math teacher who teaches us math—but we are to work problems on our own, and not simply memorize the answers the teacher gives.

I found the second paragraph interesting and encouraging that we can be confident we have an accurate transcript of the New Testament, "There are more than 24,600…"

SUNDAY

The lesson asks us to read Deuteronomy 32:45-47:

> When Moses finished reciting all these words to all Israel, 46 he said to them, "Take to heart all the words I have solemnly declared to you this day, so that you may command your children to obey carefully all the words of this law. 47 They are not just idle words for you—they are your life. By them you will live long in the land you are crossing the Jordan to possess." NIV84

What does this text mean? Is Moses telling the people that if they keep the right rules they will do well, but if they break the rules they won't?

- Well there is some truth in this. If a parent tells a child to brush their teeth and the child does it only because it is a rule, they will still benefit from the brushing. But, if they never understand the purpose of the rule and come to brush because they actually want to be healthy, they remain children and in need of supervision. God wants us to grow up and do what is right because it is right, it is how life works in God's design, not because of a rule.

What does it mean to take something to heart? Can you obey a rule without taking it to heart?

How many young people obey school rules because they are being monitored but in their heart they are looking for ways to skip classes or get around the rules?

So, this goes beyond rule-keeping, it goes to heart change. This is the New Covenant: God says He will write His law on our hearts and minds—what does this mean? Is this different than Moses was counseling here? Or is it the same?

How does the law get written on our hearts? Is it different than circumcision of the heart by the Holy Spirit or is that the same thing?

The lesson points out that Jesus is the Word made flesh—what does this mean?

Jesus said we are to eat His flesh and drink His blood what does this mean?

The lesson points out in the last paragraph that Jesus is the focus and aim of all Scripture—this is WELL said! Absolutely true.

This gives a key to understanding Scripture—we must understand its purpose. What is the theme of Scripture? The OT Scriptures primary theme is the plan of salvation focused upon the seed of the woman who will crush the serpent's head.

So, let's take a minute and review—how do we accurately read and interpret Scripture, what are some guidelines?

One crucial starting point in understanding God's Word is to identify the purpose of reading it. The Bible is not an instruction book on mathematics, physics, medicine, chemistry, or many other subjects. Rather, its purpose is to teach the truth about God, the problem of sin, and the plan of salvation. It contains all the truths necessary to lead people back to the knowledge of God in order for them to exercise trust in Him and experience healing of heart and mind.

But understanding the purpose of the book—to communicate the truth to save people—isn't enough. One must study Scripture with a desire to comprehend the meaning, and not merely to know the words.

I read valuable insight many years ago from the book Christ's Object Lessons that really helped me grasp this:

> Merely to hear or to read the word is not enough. He who desires to be profited by the Scriptures must meditate upon the truth that has been presented to him. By earnest attention and prayerful thought he must learn the meaning of the words of truth, and drink deep of the spirit of the holy oracles (p. 59, my emphasis).

This is the key to all Bible study—not merely knowing the original words, but knowing the intended meaning. Many get confused on this and end up arguing over the right "word" yet never appreciating the right meaning.

When writing The Remedy paraphrase, this was one of the key principles I applied: What is the most accurate and precise meaning? I have received emails from some who take issue with certain verses because the English words I chose were not in keeping with the Greek. But it isn't the words that matters, for words can change meaning (e.g., consider how the word "gay" has changed meanings over the past century). What matters is the meaning being communicated, so I have always challenged those concerned to tell me what the verse means.

This is what we want to do all throughout the Bible. And it is even more critical to do so when dealing with symbols, metaphors, similes, images, parables, or any other representative expression.

Here are some basic guidelines that I have found to be helpful in rightly interpreting Scripture:

1. We must understand the overall context of Scripture—not just the immediate context, which is what many Bible students focus on and, thus, they lose the forest for the trees; i.e., they lose the broader message for the local message. The overall context is a cosmic one in which God is love all the time and Satan is a being of selfishness who seeks to destroy what God has created.

2. The battle between God and Satan is not a physical battle, but a battle of ideas, concepts, and beliefs—seeking to win hearts and minds to one side or the other. God's prime weapons are truth, love, and freedom. Satan's prime weapons are lies, fear-based selfishness, and coercion.
   One of the mistakes many Bible translators do is translate in ways that put God in the role of using Satan's methods or weapons.
3. The Bible is the revelation of the truth about God, His character and methods, and plans to send Jesus to save humankind. It also exposes Satan as the source of evil, death, pain, and suffering and reveals throughout history the problems that deviating from God's design cause.
4. Throughout Old Testament times, the cosmic conflict was waged on earth, with God working to fulfill His promise to bring the "Seed" that would one day crush the serpent's head (Genesis 3:15), and with Satan working to oppose God by seeking to close the avenue through which the Messiah would be born.
5. The Old Testament records real people who did real things; thus, it is a book that is historically accurate. However, of the billions of people who have ever lived, only a few are recorded in Scripture. This is because the focus of Scripture is the plan of salvation. Thus, God inspired His penmen to record the stories that were not only historically accurate but also revealed cosmic truths—were metaphorical for the battle between Christ and Satan and provide insight into the plan of salvation (for examples of this, see my blog David and the Showbread vs. Uzzah and the Ark).
6. Some specific rules of interpreting Bible prophecy are:
   - If one part of a passage is symbolic or metaphor, then the rest is symbolic or metaphor unless clear reasons for taking it as literal are expressed in the text.
   - The Bible should be used to interpret itself (i.e., symbol interpretations should rely on Bible definitions before other definitions).
   - The general theme is that of the conflict between Christ and Satan.
   - God's character of love never changes; therefore, interpretations should never result in God being represented with a character other than love.
   - God's law of love never changes; therefore, interpretations should always be in harmony with God's law of love.
   - God's other design laws never change; therefore, interpretations should not violate God's design laws for life.
   - Interpretations must be internally consistent with Scripture but also harmonize with science and experience.

MONDAY

The lesson points out that the Bible was written by many different people over many years, some of whom were eye-witnesses to the events they wrote about.

But, this gives us opportunity to consider—How inspiration works. How is the Bible inspired and how is it different from different from the Koran or Book of Mormon?

The Book of Mormon or Koran purports to be a transcript of writings brought by angels to the persons who transcribed them.

The Bible purports to be written by people who actually witnessed events and/or were inspired to know truths to write.

Further, the Bible has many authors, not just one, and the harmony among all the books, despite the various authors, is further evidence of its divine origin.

But how does inspiration work? Do we believe in word or thought inspiration?

Word inspiration is the idea that the very words of Scripture are inspired.

Thought inspiration is the idea that the Bible writers were given inspired wisdom into concepts and ideas and they chose the words from their life experience to best communicate the idea, so the message is inspired, but not the words themselves. Thus, it is legitimate to replace Hebrew and Greek words with English words as long as the message or idea is accurately retained.

Is the power of Scripture in knowing the words or knowing the meaning, which ultimately leads to knowing God?

Can one know the words of Scripture and sometimes the right meaning and still not know God? Consider the Jewish leaders who answered Herod's question about where the Messiah was to be born—they answered Bethlehem, but were they supporters of Christ?

What is the lesson for us in this?

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on Bible prophecy, particularly the prophecies about Jesus, read the second paragraph, "There are at least 65…"

Because Bible prophecies are true, and particularly the prophecies about Jesus are true, does this give us confidence to trust the rest of Scripture and confidence in God?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Bible is unique…" Why is this important and how is it different than writings of other religious material?

Other religions have writings that are philosophical (Buddhism, Confucianism), others have writings that were said to be revealed by an angel (Islam, Mormonism). The Bible is unique in that it has philosophies, poetry, prophecy, revelation, but it most importantly is historical in that it records in history God's dealing with real people to carry out the plan of salvation. This gives the Bible a certain gravitas, authenticity, reliability that no other religious writings have.

But the Bible is not only a history book, which it is, as it records the life of real people who did real things in history, but what is so amazing about the Bible is that those historical events are also object lessons to teach us the larger reality of the Great Controversy and the plan of salvation.

Here are some examples:

- Seven Miracle Births—which I have spoken about many times so won't review here again
- Joseph—metaphor for Christ—sold into slavery, stays loyal, exalted to deliver people
- Moses—did not think becoming ruler was something to be grasped and instead became a wanderer, only to speak to God face to face as a friend, deliver the people from bondage and set up the sanctuary—thus Moses is a real person whose life experiences teach about Christ
- Nehemiah Ezra building up the walls—repair the breech 3 releases, 1844, 1888, Rev 18, final message of mercy to lighten the world God's design law with rev 14 worship creator
- Daniel lion's den—betrayed and stays faithful and protected, in the last days Satan is a roaring lion seeking to destroy those faithful to God, but those who stay united with God will be delivered from his power
- Enoch/Elijah—object of those who are translated into heaven

So the Bible records real people who did real things, but these lives also teach larger realities.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "In 621…" What happened here? God had given the Scripture years before, but it had been lost and thus error and apostacy had crept in. The rediscovery of the Scripture led to revival and reformation.

Has this happened at any other time in human history?

The Reformation—during the Dark Ages the Scriptures were locked away from the people and all kinds of superstitious teaches crept in, and what triggered the Reformation was not merely Martin Luther's 95 thesis, but translating the Bible into the language of the people. Bible truths freed the minds of the people and led to reformation and revival.

But today the Christian world has again forgotten the Bible. It has been said that Christianity is a group of people who are Biblically illiterate.

An article in Christianity Today reports:

> Around 30 percent of British parents don't know Adam and Eve, David and Goliath, or the Good Samaritan are in the Bible. To make matters worse, 27 percent think Superman is or might be a biblical story. More than 1 in 3 believes the same about Harry Potter. And more than half (54 percent) believe The Hunger Games is or might be a story from the Bible.
> More than half of evangelicals (59 percent) believe the Holy Spirit is a force and not a personal being—in contrast to the orthodox biblical teaching of the Trinity being three Persons in one God. As a whole, Americans, including many Christians, hold unbiblical views on hell, sin, salvation, Jesus, humanity, and the Bible itself.
> https://www.christianitytoday.com/edstetzer/2015/july/epidemic-of-bible-illiteracy-in-our-churches.html

And as America and western countries forget the Bible has society become more decadent?

The Bible was supposed to bring revival and spiritual advancement to the infant SDA church in 1888 when Jones and Waggoner brought the message of righteousness by faith—the message that when we have faith, or trust in God, we open the heart and the Spirit comes in and we become righteous. Just as the Bible teaches:

> God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God. 2Cor 5:21 NIV84

But this Bible message was rejected by the leadership and replaced with a legal fraud that we are declared to be legally righteous in a courtroom setting in heaven, even though we are not actually righteous. This rejection of Bible truth led to, like Israel, a wandering in the wilderness since that time.

EGW, after the rejection of this message in 1888, wrote the following:

> "When I purposed to leave Minneapolis, the angel of the Lord stood by me and said: [The following is a quote from the angel of the Lord] "Not so; God has a work for you to do in this place. The people are acting over [re-enacting] the rebellion of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram. I have placed you in your proper position, which those who are not in the light will not acknowledge; they will not heed your testimony; [What was EGW advocating? For the healing view of the gospel promoted by Jones and Waggoner. Righteousness by faith message—which is actual, real, genuine righteousness within the heart/mind of those who trust in Jesus. The rebuilding and healing of our characters when we trust in Jesus—the fulfillment of the day of at-one-ment metaphor, the cleansing of the bride, the groom purifying His bride bringing her into unity/oneness with Him, the cleansing of the sanctuary. All the same. But church leadership rejected this healing view and chose instead to embrace the false imperial legal view of declared righteousness even though we are not. This, is, according to the angel of the Lord, like Korah saying "we can't succeed in going into the promised land." And church leaders, who prefer the imperial law view, have been telling Adventists ever since that we can't succeed in experiencing Christ's righteousness, which prepares us to stand in His presence; we > can only be declared legally righteous, even though we are not.] but I will be with you; My grace and power shall sustain you. It is not you they are despising, but the messengers and the message I send to My people. [Friends of Come and Reason around the world, realize that when you are told you are not welcome, you cannot teach your SS class, that you cannot share the wonders of God's love that has so transformed your life—that it is not you they are rejecting but Christ they are rejecting—just like Korah.] They have shown contempt for the word of the Lord. Satan has blinded their eyes and perverted their judgment; and unless every soul shall repent of this their sin, this unsanctified independence that is doing insult to the Spirit of God, they will walk in darkness. I will remove the candlestick out of his place except they repent and be converted, that I should heal them. They have obscured their spiritual eyesight. [What does this mean? How? By refusing the truth of God's design law, by holding to Rome's imperial law lie, they have blinded themselves to how reality actually works and live in a fantasy of confusion and contradictions mirroring this sinful world with a god who is the source of pain, suffering and death which they call justice.] They would not that God should manifest His Spirit and His power; for they have a spirit of mockery and disgust at My word. Lightness, trifling, jesting and joking are daily practiced. They have not set their hearts to seek Me. They walk in the sparks of their own kindling, and unless they repent, they shall lie down in sorrow. Thus saith the Lord: "Stand at your post of duty; for I am with thee, and will not leave thee nor forsake thee." These words from God I have not dared to disregard."–Letter 2a, 1892, pp. 4, 5. (To "Dear Nephew and Niece, Frank (F.E.) and Hattie," Nov. 5, 1892.) {3MR 191.2}

What happens when we reject Bible truth—darkness of mind, hardness of heart. But when we promote the truth of the Bible the Holy Spirit is poured out to empower the truth to do its work in both transforming hearts and minds and spreading to others.

Read second paragraph, "One of the most powerful testimonies…" How is the Bible powerful—by bringing truth—it is the truth about God which destroys lies and wins to trust and leads to opening of the heart to the Holy Spirit. The Bible itself is not the source of the power, God is the source of the power, but the Bible is the sword of the Spirit, the tool used by God to cut through lies and pierce stubborn hearts and bring conviction to lead us to make new choices, primarily to reject lies and embrace the truth about God.

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 2
The Origin and Nature of the Bible

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Consider some passages from Remedy Psalms to promote God's love

Read first paragraph, "The way we see and understand…" The lesson brings up a good point, our preconceived ideas, assumed premises, mindsets, beliefs we hold before we go to the Bible will impact what we are able to learn from the Bible. The lesson emphasizes the godless mindset and how if one believes there is no God that belief impacts the ability to understand Biblical truths. No doubt about it, but what are other preconceived ideas that people can have that also negatively impact a person's ability to gain truth from the Bible?

- That the Messiah will come and use might and power to overthrow the enemies of Israel and rule on an earthly throne—did this idea corrupt how the Pharisees read the Bible 2000 years ago?
    - What about today—do any religious groups believe this same idea about the second coming of Christ?
- The Bible is to be taken as it reads without reasoning things through
    - Psychotic patients have been known to gouge out eyes because of Jesus's words if you eye offends you then pluck it out
- The Bible is to be taken alone, divorced from science and nature
- God's law functions like human law and God is the source of inflicted pain and death to punish unrepentant sinners.

The lesson points out the value of faith—and contrasts it with skepticism. To be sure if a person is denying God, has concluded that the Bible is a book of myths and fairytales and goes to read it with such a skeptical mind, they are very unlikely to find any truth. But are these the only two options when approaching the Bible?

Can a person:

- Have faith in the wrong god? Remember Jesus said they would prophecy in His name but He never knew them?
    - What happens when people do believe in God, study the Bible regularly, but hold the wrong view of God?
        - Crucified Jesus
        - Salem witch trials
        - Seek to pass laws to make others comply with their relifious views

- Not have faith, but also not have skepticism, could they have an honest desire to discover the truth of the Bible, but haven't yet come to a knowledge of God? Consider the Ethiopian Phillip met on the road

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Bible is not like…" No doubt about it, the Bible is truthful and trustworthy, but does this mean that every text in the Bible is a true statement or should be taken as it reads?

When Satan quoted Scripture to Jesus was Satan speaking truth to Jesus? No, Satan was using Scripture to create a falsehood. Does this happen today, where Scripture is used to create falsehoods?

- How about when a disaster strikes and people say it is God doing it?
  - What about the current Corona pandemic—some people are saying this is God doing it? Are viruses part of God's creation?
  - One person posted on our Facebook page that God is the One who brought the Corona Virus quoting Isaiah 45:7
    "I form the light and create darkness, I bring prosperity and create disaster; I, the Lord, do all these things. "

    Several points to be understood when reading this text:

    In Scripture God is often credited with doing that which He permits to occur. God did not stop King Saul from committing suicide, yet Scripture states God put Sault to death:

    > Saul said to his armor-bearer, "Draw your sword and run me through, or these uncircumcised fellows will come and run me through and abuse me." But his armor-bearer was terrified and would not do it; so Saul took his own sword and fell on it. When the armor-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he too fell on his sword and died with him. So Saul and his three sons and his armor-bearer and all his men died together that same day. 1Sam 31:4-6.
    > Saul died because he was unfaithful to the Lord; he did not keep the word of the Lord and even consulted a medium for guidance, and did not inquire of the Lord. So the Lord put him to death and turned the kingdom over to David son of Jesse. 1Chronicles 10:13,14.

    So, this passage can be understood as God being credited for the evil He permits to occur during this conflict with Satan.

    The Hebrew word ra' can refer to moral evil occurring within the character of a being or external trouble that occurs outside a being. In this case the text is referring to the latter. God does, at times, use His power to bring disasters upon nations and individuals for the fulfillment of His overall healing plan of love. God brought the 10 plagues upon Egypt, but for what purpose? To expose the impotence of their pagan gods and turn their hearts toward Him. Sadly, many didn't respond. Yet we can say that God brought calamity upon them as a therapeutic intervention. Those who don't understand reality will see a god who punishes. Those who do understand reality will see a God of love who intervenes to heal and save. God's actions are always actions of love because God never changes and is true to Himself—He doesn't act based on our misunderstanding, but on what is right.

Finally, the passage was written in reference to King Cyrus who was a pagan ruler called by God to release Israel after 70 years of captivity. Pagan gods are esteemed in relation to their power. The more powerful the god, the greater he is believed to be and the more esteemed by the worshipper. Therefore, God is speaking a language designed to reach the mind of a pagan ruler, reminding Cyrus that the God of heaven has all power.

When compared with the rest of Scripture, we know that this text does not mean evil, sin, darkness, suffering, pain, or death originate, arise from, or are found within the heart of God.

God is light; in him there is no darkness at all. 1John 1:5

When tempted, no one should say, "God is tempting me." For God cannot be tempted by evil, nor does he tempt anyone; James 1:13

God is love 1John 4:16

- How about God's wrath being God using power to punish sin? This is a common misuse of Scripture in which people project their human, worldly understanding of wrath upon Scripture and misconstrue the meaning. What is the true meaning? God always acts in love and uses power to expose evil and give opportunity for salvation—but in the end God sets free those who refuse Him to reap what sin brings, which is death. Thus, God's wrath is exactly what the Bible teaches—letting go. Romans 1:18, 24,26,28.

Read second paragraph, "Direct verbal communication…" Can you think of some people to whom God spoke to directly?

- Adam and Eve (Gen 2:16, 3:9-13)
- Cain (Gen 4:6)
- Noah (Gen 6:13-21, 7:1-4, 8:15-17)
- Noah and his sons (Gen 9:1-17)
- Job and his friends (Job 38:1-42:6)
- Abraham (Gen 17:9 and many others)
- Isaac (Gen 26:24)
- Jacob (Gen 35:1, 9-12, in a dream 28:13-15... likely 32:26-29)
- Moses (Exodus 6:13, 34:33 and many others)

- Aaron (Exodus 6:13 and others)
- Miriam (Num 12:4)
- Joshua (Jos 6:2-5)
- Samuel (1Sa 3:4-14, 15:10, 16:7)
- David (1Sa 23:2, 23:4, 30:8; 2Sa 2:1, 5:19, 5:23-24)
- Nathan (2Sa 7:4-16, 2Sa 12:1 by implication)

Why doesn't God speak directly to us today? What would you do if tonight a being suddenly appears in your bedroom and begins to talk to you?
The lesson suggests that God is the ultimate author of the Bible, read the last paragraph from MONDAY's lesson, which is a quote from the book The Great Controversy:

> The Bible points to God as its author; yet it was written by human hands; and in the varied style of its different books it presents the characteristics of the several writers. The truths revealed are all "given by inspiration of God" (2 Timothy 3:16); yet they are expressed in the words of men. p. v3

What does this mean? God is the author of Scripture in that He directed it, oversaw it, inspired it, but does that mean God wrote the Bible? Is the Bible a dictation from God and the Bible penmen wrote down what God told them to write down? Are the words of the Bible inspired or were the men inspired and they wrote the words they thought best to convey the concepts, thus it is the truths that are inspired?

Consider this quote from the same author as the one above, do you agree or disagree?

> The Bible is written by inspired men, but it is not God's mode of thought and expression. It is that of humanity. God, as a writer, is not represented. Men will often say such an expression is not like God. But God has not put Himself in words, in logic, in rhetoric, on trial in the Bible. The writers of the Bible were God's penmen, not His pen. Look at the different writers. 1SM 21.1
> It is not the words of the Bible that are inspired, but the men that were inspired. Inspiration acts not on the man's words or his expressions but on the man himself, who, under the influence of the Holy Ghost, is imbued with thoughts. But the words and thoughts receive the impress of the individual mind. The divine mind is diffused. The divine mind and will is combined with the human mind and will; thus the utterances of the man are the word of God.—Manuscript 24, 1886 (written in Europe in 1886). 1SM 21.2

So God is the author, in that He inspired the men with truths to be communicated, but God is not the writer. The Bible does not represent God's words, but God's truth, His methods, laws, character, but also exposes Satan, the nature and character of sin, and the plan of salvation.
Why is this important to understand? Because many people get stuck in concrete or magical thinking and believe it is essential to get the right words, or the words used have power. Almost like an incantation, have to get the words right. Such as, don't use Jesus, must use Joshua, but not Joshua, must say Yoshua. Or it isn't God its Jehovah—oh no it's not it's Yahweh, and on the arguments over words go and divert the mind away from truth.

The third paragraph points out that the Scripture is practical—what does this mean? What is required of the Scriptures for them to be practical? That they communicate reality, i.e. operate upon design law and in harmony with how life works. Notice how the New Testament church only put three directives upon the new Gentile believers and they were all practical applications of design law:

- Food polluted by idols:
  - An idol cannot change the nutritional quality of the food. Therefore, eating foods offered to idols does not pollute the body. Paul makes this clear in Romans 14.

- The issue they were addressing is the design law of worship—by beholding we become changed, this also known as modeling. What we believe has power over us: truth heals and sets free, lies damage and enslave. Don't allow your minds to become contaminated by giving any credence to idols. Thus, don't eat food polluted by the idea that it is a bounty given you by a false god or the false god has any power of you.

- Sexual immorality:
  - God designed relationships to operate on love and trust. When sexual intimacy occurs between husband and wife, as God designed, healthy bonding occurs. The brain actually rewires, and reward circuits are heightened for one's spouse. This is design law—how our biology is actually built to work. Deviating from this design is damaging to the mind, body, and relationships.
  - It is a violation of design law, altering brain circuitry, inflaming selfish and fear circuits, thus obstructing healing of mind and character.

- Meat from strangled animals or blood:
  - It also violates design law—the laws of health.
  - Humans were not designed to eat meat, and the blood carries waste products, stress hormones, and various inflammatory factors. Eating raw meat and drinking blood increases disease risk, and when the body is unhealthy the mind is compromised.

The lesson points out that we need the help of the Holy Spirit to apply to our lives what God has revealed in His Word. Question: Are we to apply everything to our lives that God has revealed in His Word, or are some things only applicable to certain people at certain times in history?

- Should all of us follow the example of Abraham and take our first-born child to a mountain to sacrifice expecting God to intervene? No, this was a specific directive to a specific person at a specific time for a specific reason
- Should all of us observe the feasts days of the Old Testament? No, these were again specific directives, for specific people, at a specific time, for a specific purpose. Does that mean we would do wrong if we did observe them? Not necessarily—it would depend on the reason. If one chose to observe them in order to gain insight into the experiences of those who lived in OT times, to learn any lessons possible that these acted out metaphors were designed to teach, this could be beneficial. But if one were to observe the feast days out of a sense of legal obligation, without understanding they are only object lessons and have no direct benefit, then such activities could actually close down thinking and shut the mind to the Spirit of truth.
- What about foods that we eat? Should we eat only those things contained on a list in Scripture?

Read last paragraph, "Scripture also says,.." God is infinite and we are finite, and we cannot comprehend infinity thus we do need God to reveal whatever He desires to us. Further, our minds are infected with fear, selfishness and lies and thus we are unable, in our own ability, to comprehend the truth of God's universe and kingdom without God revealing it to us.

Further, what happens to us when we sin? Sin causes fear, guilt, shame—and what is the natural response to that? To deny and distort, to blame, to externalize, to justify. In other words, the natural response is to try to make those feelings go away, to justify ourselves, to find fault with the rules, the system, with others, to avoid taking responsibility for our own condition or wrong choices—thus we further darken our minds and don't want to accept the truth.

Jesus said,

> This is the verdict: Light has come into the world, but men loved darkness instead of light because their deeds were evil. Everyone who does evil hates the light, and will not come into the light for fear that his deeds will be exposed. But whoever lives by the truth comes into the light, so that it may be seen plainly that what he has done has been done through God." John 3:19-21 NIV84)

Here is a historical quote from one of the founders of the SDA church:

> For this time light is shining from the throne of God upon His people, and He sends His messengers to give that light to the world. All the light given in different ages to the children of men,—in promises, in prophecies, in threatenings, in testimony, and in example,—all has been handed down to this generation by Him in whom are hid "all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge." But from this source new light is constantly received by the Christian, showing yet more clearly the way to heaven. To those who will not see the light, who refuse to walk in the path it reveals, the light becomes darkness; but on the path of him who is willing to see, anxious to hear, and earnest in search for the truth as it is in Jesus, it shines with increasing brightness. The Lord accepts those who are not only willing to hear, but who are ready also to obey. He has said, "To obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams." BEcho January 4, 1897, par. 4

What might this mean? Could it be the light of the 3 angels—to worship Him who made the heavens, earth, and sea? The truth of God's laws as design law and rejecting the lies of imperialism? What happens in the minds of those who accepted the light on the Sabbath but reject the light on design law?

I have seen this happen with people I know, who have refused to give up the imposed law view of God's law and slowly they lost appreciation for truths they once cherished and over time began to embrace more arbitrary ideas.

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, "All of Scripture is divinely inspired…" We went over this last week, but are all Scriptures divinely inspired?

- Koran
- Book of Mormon
- Apocrypha

What about all parts of the 66 books of the Bible?

What about when Paul wrote:

> To the rest I say this (I, not the Lord): If any brother has a wife who is not a believer and she is willing to live with him, he must not divorce her. 1Cor 7:12

Can prophets, those inspired by God to write the Scriptures sometimes be wrong—wrong on details and wrong on things involving the church?

> I am thankful that I did not baptize any of you except Crispus and Gaius, so no one can say that you were baptized into my name. (Yes, I also baptized the household of Stephanas; beyond that, I don't remember if I baptized anyone else.) 1Cor 1:14-16 NIV84

What does this mean? Does it give us insight into how inspiration works? Inspiration is not about the Holy Spirit making sure every detail of reality is remembered correctly, but giving inspiration into truths that the human writer then records with their own words, experiences, and memories.

> When Peter came to Antioch, I opposed him to his face, because he was clearly in the wrong. Before certain men came from James, he used to eat with the Gentiles. But when they arrived, he began to draw back and separate himself from the Gentiles because he was afraid of those who belonged to the circumcision group. The other Jews joined him in his hypocrisy, so that by their hypocrisy even Barnabas was led astray. Galatians 2:11-13 NIV84

What does this tell us about how inspiration works?

Read bottom pink section, "Today there are biblical…" I would agree with the authors that we should not doubt the divine inspiration or reliability of Scripture. So, I believe in Creation, the Exodus, the Flood, the Resurrection. But, what about the last sentence, are we to pass judgment on the Word of God?

I guess it depends—

- Are we to make a judgment of whether we can trust Scripture or not?
- Are we to judge whether to take something literal or metaphorical?
- Are we to judge what applies to our lives and what was specifically for people of another time and not applicable to us today?
- Are we to judge how the various truths apply to our lives?
- Are we to judge whether we can trust God?
    - Let God be proven true, and every human being shown up as a liar, just as it is written: "so that you will be justified in your words and will prevail when you are judged." NET
    - Fear God and give glory to him for the hour of his judgment has come…Rev 14:7
    - Has God been lied about? Has God asked us to investigate the truth He has revealed and make a judgment?

So are we to pass judgment on the Bible?

TUESDAY

The lesson asks why God instructed that His revelation be written down?

What are the benefits to a written record?

- Accuracy through the generations
- Increased distribution
- Reference resource to return to as human memory can change
- Resistant to introduction of false narratives—but has the written Word prevented false narratives from arising? Why not?
    - because people don't study Scripture or
    - don't harmonize Scripture with science and experience or
    - have false premises about Scripture that are not in Scripture such as:
        - immortality of the soul
        - God's law works like human law

WEDNESDAY

Read John 1:14: "The Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us." NIV84

The lesson makes an interesting comparison between Jesus the living Word and the written Word:

- Jesus was conceived by the Holy Spirit yet born of a woman: Scripture is inspired by the Holy Spirit yet written by men
- Jesus became a man and lived at a specific time in a specific place, yet that did not nullify His divinity; the Scripture was written at specific times and places yet that does not deny its divine origins.
- Jesus is not limited to the time and place He lived on earth and Scripture is not limited to the time and place in which it was written.
- Jesus came down to the level of humanity in order to reveal God to us; the Scripture was written in the language of humanity in order to reveal God to us.

As we ingest the truths of the written Word we are taking into our minds and hearts the truth about God Himself, which become building blocks of ideas, concepts, beliefs that dispel lies and purify the heart—thus we eat the flesh of the Son of God and have our temples cleansed by His life (blood).

THURSDAY

The lesson points out the importance of faith in understanding the Bible.

What is faith based upon? Do we have faith before we hear the Scripture or is our faith established upon the Scripture? Which comes first our faith or our hearing of the truths of truth—perhaps from Scripture perhaps from one of God's representatives?

Paul writes in Romans:

> For it is by our faith that we are put right with God; it is by our confession that we are saved. The scripture says, "Whoever believes in him will not be disappointed." This includes everyone, because there is no difference between Jews and Gentiles; God is the same Lord of all and richly blesses all who call to him. As the scripture says, "Everyone who calls out to the Lord for help will be saved." But how can they call to him for help if they have not believed? And how can they believe if they have not heard the message? And how can they hear if the message is not proclaimed? And how can the message be proclaimed if the messengers are not sent out? As the scripture says, "How wonderful is the coming of messengers who bring good news!" Romans 10:10-15 GNT

So upon what is our faith based? Is it not on the word of God, the truth as Jesus revealed and as recorded in Scripture?

So our faith is based upon the evidence God has given us, which is established in history and recorded in Scripture of God's trustworthiness!

Read first paragraph, "All true learning…" what is true learning? Would this be learning that becomes more than an idea, but a way of living, something that is part of the character? Actual believing it to be true?

Is there a difference between learning about something and believing it? I learned about godless origins theories but I never believed them.

Can people learn about God and never know Him? It that true learning?

Knowledge and understand grow out of a loving and trusting relationship—this is true—but how does one come to love and trust their parents? Isn't it by experience, by the evidence of the parents' love and trustworthiness wrought out over time? Or do they come to love and trust their parents because they read about them in a book?

What about us? Do we need to have more knowledge of God than only reading about Him in a book? Where does that knowledge come from? From nature and life experiences—without integrating Scripture knowledge with the knowledge of God revealed in nature and in our real-life experiences then the Bible knowledge is often theoretical but not experiential.

I love this quote:

> Experience is said to be the best teacher. Genuine experience is indeed superior to mere theoretical knowledge, but many have an erroneous idea as to what constitutes experience. Real experience is gained by a variety of careful experiments, made with the mind free from prejudice, uncontrolled by previously established opinions and habits. The results are marked with careful solicitude, and an anxious desire to learn, to improve, and to reform on every point that is not in harmony with physical and moral laws. Christian Temperance and Bible Hygiene 109.1
> That which many term experience is not experience at all; it has resulted from mere habit, or from a course of indulgence, thoughtlessly and often ignorantly followed. There has not been a fair trial by actual experiment and thorough investigation, with a knowledge of the principles involved in the action. Experience which is opposed to natural law,—which is in conflict with the unchangeable principles of nature,—is not to be relied upon. Superstition arising from a diseased imagination is often arrayed in opposition to reason and to scientific principles. To many a person, the idea that others may gainsay what he has learned by experience, seems folly, and even cruelty itself. But there are more errors received and held through false ideas of experience than from any other cause. There are many invalids today who will ever remain such because they cannot be convinced that their experience is not to be relied upon. CTBH 109.2

This false idea of experience is manifested today in the phrase, "That's my truth." This phrase creates a lie that allows a person to hold to something that is actually contrary to design law, contrary to how life actually works. For instance a person who says, "cigarettes help me function better, that is my truth" and they deny the evidence of all the damage it is causing.

In the second paragraph, the lesson states, "In a similar way, we do not understand the Bible correctly when we approach it with an attitude of skepticism or methodological doubt, but in a spirit of love and faith."

How about if we approach it as an expert in the law and theological expert? Did the Pharisees in Christ day approach it this way? Did they understand the Bible correctly? Could this be a problem for theology professors today?

The bottom pink sections asks, "Why is this faith not blind? That is, what are the good reasons that we have for this faith…?"

Upon what do we base our faith?

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 3
Jesus and the Apostles' View of the Bible

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "Unfortunately in this…" I had never thought of the Bible as God's view of humanity, hmmm…if we consider it as such, what view of humanity would you say it suggests God holds?

If you told the average person on the street the Bible is God's view of humanity what might they think?

- human beings are bad, sinners, worms and in need of punishment?
- human beings are loved, sick and dying and God died to save us?

It is a common view in some scientific circles that the Bible is merely human beings view of God. The authors take the view it is God's view of us. I take a different view:

- The Bible is God's revelation of reality to us!
    - The Bible reveals the truth about God
    - The Bible reveals the truth about sin
    - The Bible reveals the truth about sin's origin and Satan
    - The Bible reveals the truth about God's methods and the plan of salvation
    - And in that context the Bible does reveal that God is love and God loves us

Does the law lens one holds before reading Scripture have any impact on the conclusion we draw to this question?

Do some teach that God's view of humanity is that they are under legal condemnation, under "God's death penalty"?

In the design law view, however, we would see that the Bible teaches that humanity is God's special creation—now in a terminal condition, yet which God loves beyond our ability to truly understand, so much that He sent His only begotten Son to deal with the sin problem and offer us remedy so that we might be saved.

SUNDAY

The lesson focuses on Jesus' temptations in the wilderness when Satan tempted Jesus. Read first paragraph, "When tempted by appetite…"

Several questions—was the temptation about appetite, or was appetite the physical medium through which temptation was introduced?

For instance, if Jesus ever found Himself hungry and went to a fig tree to get food to satisfy His physical hunger, would that be sin?

So, let's be clear, it is not sin to be hungry, and it is not sin to satisfy one's hunger. The temptation wasn't one of appetite—it was a temptation to doubt God and act in self-interest, i.e. selfishness.

At a later time, Satan tempted Jesus through another physical avenue—pain when He was beaten and crucified. But pain also could not induce Jesus to doubt His Father, or act against love to save self.

So in the wilderness, Jesus quoted Scripture about life not being found in physical food, but true life, eternal life, is found only in harmony with God. The point Jesus is making is "don't fear the one who can harm the body but cannot harm the soul." Jesus is saying that this mortal body is not what matters, it is the character, the mind and heart, the soul's connection with God that truly matters—that is where life is found.

Why does Jesus quote Scripture here? When Peter tempted Jesus by suggesting that Jesus not go through the cross, did Jesus quote Scripture to Peter? Why not?

This is important to understand—the lesson wants to suggest that Jesus's method here is the single and sole method to be used—quote Scripture when tempted. While quoting Scripture is one of the tools God has given us, it is not the only method to resisting temptation; Jesus used many methods such as:

- Quoting Scripture
- Talking to His Father (Gethsemane)
- Speaking truth and confronting the temptation (Peter)
- Remained silent—when being tempted by High Priest, Pilate
- Choosing to act in love (John this is your mother, Mary this is your son)
- Trusting His Father (Father into your hands I commend my spirit)
- Understanding His mission (Peter put away your sword, "Do you think I cannot call on my Father, and he will at once put at my disposal more than twelve legions of angels? But how then would the Scriptures be fulfilled that say it must happen in this way?" (MT 26:53-43 NIV84)

But in the desert, Jesus quoted Scripture—why?

With whom was Jesus dealing—directly? Satan—and is Satan open to truth? Can Satan be reasoned with? Is Satan actually interested in learning? Or is Satan hardened in lies and selfishness and dialoging with Satan only opens oneself up to his lies which cause confusion. So, when dealing with intelligences that we deem to be beyond reason, who are closed to truth, we either remain silent or quote Scripture—we don't engage, we don't discuss.

Jesus instructed, “do not throw your pearls to pigs. If you do, they may trample them under their feet, and then turn and tear you to pieces.” (MT 7:6 NIV84)

Sometimes, it isn’t even appropriate to share your Bible pearls with people, silence and walking away is the best approach.

But, in the context of Jesus being tempted by Satan, Scripture was quoted. The lesson suggests that in this way Jesus was affirming the authority of Scripture.

What makes Scripture authoritative? Is it authoritative because it is Scripture—the Bible said, it I believe it, that settles it?

Is the Scripture the source of authority—or is God the source of authority and Scripture is a tool used by God to convey His authority?

If an ambassador presents to another nation their papers, their credentials, are the papers the source of the authority or are they tools to convey the authority?

From where does Bible authority originate? From God—so another way to say this, is what has greater authority, the Bible or God? And then one could ask, what has greater authority the Bible or Jesus?

And what is the source of any official’s authority?

This takes us back to the question of what law lens one answers the question through.

Authority in the kingdoms of the world, based on imposed law, come from the office, the position—President, CEO, King, Queen, Pope, and sadly many in church view authority this way and thus allow their pastors to rule with edicts from their office. He must be right, or we should submit, because he is the pastor, conference president, priest, bishop, pope etc. But, this is the authority of Satan’s government—the authority of imperialism, the authority of power over, not the authority of God’s government.

Consider David when Saul was king. Saul was the Lord’s anointed, and David would not raise his hand against King Saul—but David also did not follow or listen to King Saul once he was in rebellion against God. David had a responsibility to follow God over the king. Likewise, with our church leaders, we have the responsibility to follow God over the church leader if that leader is no longer following God.

What, when we view things through design law, is the basis of true authority? What gives authority to someone’s words, regardless of their office? Truth! Truth is authoritative regardless of the office. And since God is the source of all truth, and who only speaks truth, God is always authoritative, but not merely because of His office, but because of His character of truthfulness.

This is important as time unfolds—if an angel of light comes from heaven with the "authority of office" but doesn't speak truth we are to reject it. This is what Jesus was facing in the wilderness, an angel purporting to be from heaven, but was not speaking truth, therefore the angel had no authority. The Bible, which is a revelation of God's truth does have authority—but only to the degree we take truth from it.

Some people can use the Bible to create lies—just as Satan tried to do in the wilderness with Jesus.

So, the Bible is authoritative because it communicates truth. Is the Bible the only source of godly truth? No—there are truths of God's kingdom from other sources, such has science and experience, but these truths are always in harmony and never contradictory to the truth as revealed in Scripture.

So, looking at the three temptations of Jesus, what were they all focused upon? Upon Jesus distrusting His Father and acting in self-interest—this is what Jesus faced.

Now, notice something else very important in this story.

James writes:

> When tempted, no one should say, "God is tempting me." For God cannot be tempted by evil, nor does he tempt anyone; (1:13 NIV84 emphasis mine)

Jesus, showing us how to pray, said: "lead us not into temptation," (Mt 6:13 NIV84

God doesn't tempt anyone, we pray for God not to lead us into temptation, but in this instance the Bible says, "Then Jesus w*as led by the Spirit into the desert to be tempted by the devil*" (Mt 4:1 NIV84 emphasis mine)

What is going on? Jesus became incarnate—human, for a purpose, to accomplish a mission, to cause a specific outcome, to achieve a goal—and that was to:

1. expose Satan as a liar, fraud, and source of death
2. as a human overcome temptation, eradicate fear and selfishness and restore God's design law in humanity thus curing the condition—or one could say procuring the remedy to sin

In order to accomplish His mission, Jesus had to face temptation so that He could exercise His human abilities and choose to apply God's methods as a human and reject the methods of Satan and thereby develop a perfect and sinless human character. Thus, it was part of God's plan that Jesus face the enemy and overcome Him.

This is different than any other human being since Adam's fall. We will never have to overcome Satan on our own. We will always have divine power at our aide to enlighten, convict of the right course, and when we choose it, empower. We will never have to face the evil forces alone. And our primary battle is with ourselves—struggling with our own feelings of fear and selfishness.

Because of Jesus's victory we can receive from Him a new heart, with new desires, motives, and experience the severing, cutting away of the ties to this world—but we must choose to trust Jesus and ask Him into our hearts and do this work in us.

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read Matthew 5:17-20:

> Do not think that I have come to do away with the Law of Moses and the teachings of the prophets. I have not come to do away with them, but to make their teachings come true. Remember that as long as heaven and earth last, not the least point nor the smallest detail of the Law will be done away with—not until the end of all things. So then, whoever disobeys even the least important of the commandments and teaches others to do the same, will be least in the Kingdom of heaven. On the other hand, whoever obeys the Law and teaches others to do the same, will be great in the Kingdom of heaven. I tell you, then, that you will be able to enter the Kingdom of heaven only if you are more faithful than the teachers of the Law and the Pharisees in doing what God requires. GNT

What does this mean? With what law lens to you understand it?

Though imposed law, people hear this as God having made up rules and then keeps an exact account of rule-keeping and there will be no change in any of God's rules—at least not until the New Heaven and New Earth. Therefore if you don't teach the right rules you are in legal trouble—and this leads to all kinds of disputes amongst Christians and Jews as to what are the right rules. A very sad state of affairs that has led to great abuse of people throughout history.

Through design law it is very simple—life as God designed it would not exist if even the slightest change to God's design laws were made. The universe would stop and cease to exist. Thus Christ did not come to change the perfect laws of God that life exist upon, but to do what the law requires—to live in harmony with God's design.

In her book Finding Truth, Nancy Pearcey describes this reality:

> The origin of the universe has given rise to a puzzle known as the fine-tuning problem. The fundamental physical constants of the universe are exquisitely balanced, as though on a knife's edge, to sustain life. Things like the force of gravity, the strong nuclear force, the weak nuclear force, the electromagnetic force, the ratio of the mass of the proton and the electron, and many other factors have just the right value needed to make life possible. If any of these critical numbers were changed even slightly, the universe could not sustain any form of life. For > example, if the strength of gravity were smaller or larger than its current value by only one part in 10^{60} (1 followed by 60 zeroes), the universe would be uninhabitable.[1]

Jesus is not speaking of rules, but informing people of the Creator God and the reality of how God built His universe—of Design Law.

So, Matthew 5:17-20 from The Remedy:

> "And don't think that I have come to destroy what the Old Testament — Torah and Prophets — taught about God and his methods; I have not come to destroy but to fulfill them. Here is the simple truth: Heaven and earth would disappear if even the slightest change were made to God's design protocol for life — what you call his Law. I am not here to destroy the Law, but to accomplish everything it requires. Anyone who violates God's design (Law) and teaches others to do so is out of harmony with heaven; but anyone who practices God's methods (Law) and teaches others to do so is in harmony with the kingdom of heaven. I tell you plainly, if your characters are not renewed with righteousness surpassing that of the Pharisees and lawyers, it simply won't be possible for you to enter the heavenly kingdom of love. The Remedy

The last sentence of the first paragraph reads, "Jesus taught that a mere intellectual knowledge of the Bible and its teachings was insufficient for knowing the truth and, more important, for knowing the Lord, who is that truth."

This is quite right and a very important concept to understand. Professors and theologians, may have intellectual knowledge of the Bible, but such knowledge is insufficient to know the truths contained within. Where this is most profound, and from which many thus far have refused to acknowledge, is in regard to Bible translations.

To be a Bible language expert—having intellectual knowledge—is not enough to know the truth and therefore not sufficient to translate the Scriptures accurately. In my view, with the lexicons now available, the most important knowledge to have in translating Scripture is a knowledge of God's character of love, His design law and the Great Controversy which began in heaven. Without this knowledge, then one can be an expert in Bible languages and translate all kinds of errors into the translation. This is why there is so much legal and punitive language in so many of the translations.

Let's read Matthew 22:34-40:

> Hearing that Jesus had silenced the Sadducees, the Pharisees got together. One of them, an expert in the law, tested him with this question: "Teacher, which is the greatest commandment in the Law?"

[1] Pearcey, N., Finding Truth, David C. Cook Publishing, Ontario, Canada, 2015, p 25.

> Jesus replied: " 'Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind.' This is the first and greatest commandment. And the second is like it: 'Love your neighbor as yourself.' All the Law and the Prophets hang on these two commandments." (NIV84)

Then let's read the second paragraph, "In the statement to the lawyer…"

What is Jesus teaching here? Is He elevating a system of rules, of imperialism, or teaching that the right understanding of the Old Testament is that God's law is the design law of love and everything there if rightly understood is understood as design law, the principles of love?

As we think of the different forms and expressions of the law, which is the great original, the 10 Commandments or Jesus' description of love for God and each other? Which law came first and which was added later?

Did angels in heaven need a law to honor their father and mother, to not commit adultery, or that sins would pass down the generation of angels. In fact, did Adam and Even in Eden need a law that sins would pass down the generations when they had not sinned?

When was the Sabbath created? When this world was created, but according to Job 38, the angels in heaven sang for joy when earth was created—meaning they already existed and thus God's law already existed, but the Sabbath didn't yet exist. Thus, the 10 Commandments were not the original manifestation of God's law.

Remember, Jesus said "the Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath." The Sabbath was made or created, it had a beginning. But the law of God existed before the Sabbath.

Thus one of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> The law of God existed before man was created. The angels were governed by it. Satan fell because he transgressed the principles of God's government. [what does this mean, he broke a rule or he stepped out of harmony with the protocols upon which life was built?] After Adam and Eve were created, God made known to them His law. It was not then written, but was rehearsed to them by Jehovah. {SR 145.1}
> The Sabbath of the fourth commandment *was instituted in Eden. [What does instituted mean? The Sabbath didn't exist before earth was created, yet God's law did—what would that mean about the 10 Commandments? Would it mean the law of God didn't exist in the form of the 10 Commandments at that time and was added later?] After God had made the world and created man upon the earth, He made the Sabbath for man. After Adam's sin and fall nothing was taken from the law of God. The principles of the Ten Commandments existed before the fall and were of a character suited to the condition of a holy order of beings. After the fall the principles of those precepts were not changed, but additional precepts were given to meet man in his fallen state… [what does this mean?] {SR 145.2}

> If the law of God had not been transgressed, there never would have been death, and there would have been no need of additional precepts to suit man's fallen condition. {SR 145.3} [Would this mean such things as sins passing down the generations? Don't commit murder, don't bear false witness, don't steal, don't commit adultery? Would any of these precepts need to be given to sinless beings who operate upon the law of love? Do we see the 10 Commandments were added to communicate the great principles of God's design law of love to sinful beings in their sinful condition?]
> The law of God existed before the creation of man or else Adam could not have sinned. After the transgression of Adam the principles of the law were not changed, but were definitely arranged and expressed to meet man in his fallen condition… {1BC 1104.5}

So the 10 Commandments didn't exist in heaven or Eden, then what was God's law like in heaven before sin?

Consider this quote:

> But in heaven, service is not rendered in the spirit of legality. When Satan rebelled against the law of Jehovah, the thought that there was a law came to the angels almost as an awakening to something unthought of. In their ministry the angels are not as servants, but as sons. There is perfect unity between them and their Creator. Obedience is to them no drudgery. {MB 109.2}

What does this mean? What kind of law can be in force and people are expected to abide by it yet they don't know about it? Only design law, how reality works.

Consider Newton discovering the law of gravity and telling people about it, can't you hearing them say: "gravity is a law, huh, never thought of that, I just know that was how things worked."

If you struggle with the idea that the 10 Commandments were not in existence in the universe before Sinai, consider Newton's laws of motion:

> First Law: An object at rest remains at rest and an object in motion continues at a constant velocity unless acted upon by an external force.
> Second Law: The sum external force F on an object is equal to the mass m of that object multiplied by the acceleration vector a of the object: F=*ma.
> Third Law: When one body exerts a force on a second body, the second body simultaneously exerts a force equal in magnitude and opposite in direction on the first body.
> Now answer the following questions about Newton's laws:
> - Are they real?
> - Do they apply to our lives?

- Do they apply to everyone or only those who hear about them and choose to believe in them?
- Are they rules we must obey or descriptions of how reality is built to function?
- When did they go into effect?
- If Newton had not written them down, would that mean these laws would not exist and thus would not be in effect?
- If we decide in committee to change the wording of the first law to read: "An object at rest remains at rest unless it receives permission from the proper church committee to move," does anything happen in reality?
- In other words, can humans change these laws?
- Are these laws imposed laws or design laws?

The 10 Commandments are like Newton's laws they were not in existence in this written form before human beings sinned, and we have no evidence they existed before Sinai. But the principles of the 10 Commandments were already in existence! And what are the principles of the 10 Commandments? Truth, Love and Freedom!

This goes to the heart of the problem in Christianity—do we understand God's law as principles, design parameters, or as rules. Those who are level four and below are stuck on rules and get very upset if one suggests the 10 Commandments have not always been in existence. They focus on rules and in fact, make up more rules.

So yes, Jesus sustained, supported, and promoted God's law—but always design law, never imperialism.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "After the death of Christ…" So, what do we find? Jesus tied Scripture to real life experiences, to actual historical events that came to pass. Jesus is saying, don't believe the Scriptures because it says so, but because it IS so. This is real and has come to pass.

When Jesus was teaching the people what was His primary method? Did Jesus do Scriptural exegesis to teach them? Did Jesus primarily use Scripture when teaching the masses?

According to Matthew:

> Jesus spoke all these things to the crowd in parables; he did not say anything to them without using a parable. (13:34 NIV84)

This doesn't undermine the reality that Jesus held Scripture to be God's Word and used Scripture as a source of truth—particularly the truth about God, Himself and His mission. But exposes the idea that godly preaching and teaching is only done by quoting the Bible as a narrow view of reality that limits the truth God has revealed.

Consider this quote:

> The same principle appeared in his teaching; the unknown was illustrated by the known. Jesus taught by illustrations and parables drawn from nature and from the familiar events of every-day life. The inspired record says, "All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables; and without a parable spake he not unto them..." Matthew 13:34. In this way he associated natural things with spiritual, linking the things of nature and the life-experience of his hearers with the sublime, spiritual truths of the written word. And his lessons were repeated whenever their eyes rested on the objects which had been associated with eternal truth. Special Testimonies on Education 67.2

What danger to we open ourselves to if we insist that spiritual truth is found exclusively and only Scripture divorced from nature and life experiences? –this is why there are so many denominations. Scripture alone, divorced from reality (nature and experience) causes confusion.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Jesus taught…" Do you agree with the assertions in this paragraph?

Do you agree that when you read the Bible it is the same as God saying something to you?

Well, I think it is true that from the Bible we can absolutely receive communications from God—no question about it. The Bible is one of God's methods of communicating His thoughts, truths, ideas to us. So, yes, the Bible is and can be a means of receiving God's truth; so, to the degree we are receiving God's truths we can understand the Bible as God saying it to us.

But, we should not understand this as reading a Bible text and taking it literally is God giving us a direct and personal message. "If your hand offend thee—cut it off. What you are going to do, do it quickly." Taking these takes and concluding God is speaking to you directly with authority to act is psychotic.

We should not understand receiving truth from the Bible as the same experience as talking with God as with a friend: as Adam did in Eden; as Moses did when he spoke to God face to face; as Abraham did when he challenged God over Sodom etc.

The Bible is a divine instrument to communicate God's truths to us, but it is still different that talking with God.

One of the dangers with the idea of the Bible being God talking directly to us, is that it can lead to the use of the Bible inappropriately, like quoting texts as proof texts and claiming God said it etc.

What about the idea that the Bible contains ultimate authority for every aspect of life?

What does ultimate mean?

In this context it means: highest; not subsidiary, nothing superior to or having authority over.

Is this true—is the Bible the ultimate authority or is God the ultimate authority because God is the infinite source of all truth, all reality, the basis for all life and health?

In the last paragraph the lesson notes that Jesus referred to many events in the Old Testament as historical realities:

- Creation
- Adam and Eve and marriage
- David and the showbread
- Elisha and other prophets
- Sodom
- The flood

And, based on Jesus's use of these events as historical realities it gives confirmation to the validity of the Bible being a trustworthy book. I think this is reasonable conclusion, for those who value Jesus. For those who don't value Jesus this argument will not be helpful.

The last sentence of the last paragraph, referencing the flood, reads, "There is every indication that Jesus was referring to this mighty act of God's judgment as a historical event."

When you hear such words, what do you hear? What law lens do you hear it through?

If through Satan's lie that God's law functions like human law, then it is heard as a judicial act—judgment is the condemnation and infliction of punishment.

But under design law, judgment is understood to be an accurate diagnosis of the condition or situation and then the judgment of what is the most therapeutic action to take. In regard to the flood it was a mighty judgment on God's part—accurately diagnosing hardness of hearts of the people and making a judgment of what is the most therapeutic action to take in order to save humankind.

First point to understand rightly understand in order to comprehend this reality is that the wages of sin is eternal death, not sleep in the grave awaiting resurrection.

Those people who died in the flood died the first death and will arise in a resurrection. So on this point alone we realize the flood cannot be the punishment for sin.

Second point, even in the penal legal model, punishment does not come until after the judgment and the judgment is yet future. So, the flood again, cannot be punishment for sin, it must be for some other purpose.

After Adam sinned, the human race has a terminal condition and will be eternally lost without Jesus coming as our Savior. In Genesis 3, God announces to the serpent that the Messiah was coming. The rest of the OT is the battle between God's agencies working to bring about the plan of salvation, centered on the coming Messiah, and Satan's agencies working to obstruct it.

Satan is working to get every human heart to harden permanently against God, so that he can shut down the avenue for Messiah. At the time of the flood there was only one righteous man left on the earth, Noah, and his family. The avenue for Messiah is almost closed. Therefore, God acts, not to punish sin, but in love and mercy to keep open the avenue for Messiah and bring salvation to humanity.

Further, God sent warnings through Noah to the people for 120 years. They ridiculed and rejected the warnings. But what would a flood occurring over a period of time (rain, fountains of water breaking through, etc.) allow for? Would it allow for some people to reflect and to reconsider? Would the evidence of what was transpiring to them confirm to them that Noah was right? Would that give the people outside the ark the opportunity to repent? Whether they accept it or not isn't the question I'm asking here; rather, I'm saying that wouldn't a God of love give every opportunity for repentance even if that opportunity was physically painful?

Did the thief on the cross have many truths presented to him throughout his life—yet persistently rejected God, pursuing a sinful life until he ended up in a state of suffering leading toward death? Did that situation give him opportunity to reflect and repent, even though he was destined to die at that point?

Thus, the flood was brought not only to keep open the avenue for Messiah, but it also allowed those who refused to get on the ark one final opportunity for repentance and eternal salvation. Just like the thief, their earthly life was going to be over, but their eternal life didn't have to be.

Further, what were the factors, besides human sinfulness, that contributed to the entire world hardening against God so quickly after Eden? What happens to sinful people when everything is given to them and they don't have to work for anything? What happens over time to people who are self-indulgent and lead hedonistic lives? What happens if such people live hundreds of years? What influence would such people have on their children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and multiple generations down?

Would altering the environment by a flood to make it harder to survive be a punishment for sin or, rather, a therapeutic intervention that would help slow the corruption of human character? Have you ever heard that "idle hands are the devil's workshop?"—i.e., useful labor is protective against temptation.

The Edenic-like conditions on the earth prior to the flood permitted more indulgence of the carnal nature and, thus, accelerated the corruption of human character. The changes to the earth by the flood made it harder to put food on the table and, thus, increased the need for useful labor, which also protected people from sinful indulgence.

Further, the changes to the earth resulted in shortening human life from about 900 years to 120 years, which also limited the pace of the spread of evil, as those who hardened their hearts against God could not corrupt as many generations with their influence. So, putting all these variables together, we see a beautiful God of love who acts in mercy, therapeutically, to keep open the avenue for Messiah and slow the progress of the disease of sin.

God never compels, never coerces, and only uses the methods of truth, love, and liberty. But love does restrain evil in order to protect, and God has done this in many places throughout human history.

THURSDAY

The lesson points out that throughout the New Testament the Apostle writers consistently quoted the OT Scriptures, thus validating that the Apostles found those Scriptures to be reliable and God inspired.

It is also true that they were trying to reach their Jewish family and would necessarily be motivated to reference the truths they know in Jesus with OT writings because their audience would need that the affirmation of the OT Scripture in order to believe what they were being taught.

In other words, Jewish people who value the OT Scriptures will not accept Jesus unless His Messiahship can be demonstrated to them from their Scriptures.

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, “Men consider themselves…”

Notice what was said and not said. This author did not criticize testing Scripture against science and nature but against their own ideas of science and nature. This is quite the distinction. Rightly understood Scripture, science, nature and the experiences of life always harmonize.

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 4
The Bible—the Authoritative Source of Our Theology

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read memory text: "To the law and to the testimony! If they do not speak according to this word, it is because there is no light in them." (ISA 8:20 NKJV)

What does this text mean? It means that truth about God will harmonize with Scripture the Torah and the testimony of the prophets. If people teach things that contradict with Scripture then they are not teaching truth—in other words there is not light in them.

But the lesson correctly points out that every Christian group claims that their teachings are based in Scripture, yet within Christianity there are multiple contradictory teachings.

The lesson rightly points out that this is because different groups apply different standards on how they approach, value, interpret and understand Scripture.

As you know, we take the position that Scripture is only one of three threads that God reveals His truths to us through:

Scripture teaches that God reveals Himself through His first book—nature:

- "The heavens declare the glory of God; the skies proclaim the work of his hands" (Psalm 19:1 NIV84).

- "For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities — his eternal power and divine nature — have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse" (Romans 1:20 NIV84).

And Scripture teaches that God reveals Himself through His second book—experiences of life:

- "Taste and see that the Lord is good" (Psalm 34:8 NIV84).

- "Then he said to Thomas, 'Put your finger here; see my hands. Reach out your hand and put it into my side. Stop doubting and believe'" (John 20:27 NIV84).

And God's third book—the book that came after nature, after experience, is Scripture.

When we separate the three threads of Scripture we have problems:

- Science by itself leads to godlessness
- Experience by itself leads to mysticism
- Scripture by itself leads to confusion, over 40,000 different Christian groups arguing among themselves while claiming Scripture supports their view—why? Because they don't anchor their interpretations in reality, in the laws of nature and thus conjure up all types of irrational beliefs.

If we want to interpret Scripture correctly we must use the integrative evidenced-based approach which harmonizes all three threads.

One of the reasons the integrative evidence-based approach is so important is because when we seek to harmonize Scripture with science/nature—it leads away from imperialistic legal interpretations and back to design-law understanding of reality. In other words, it leads us to move from level 4 moral development to level 5 and 6.

Consider the ordinance of foot washing which some Christian groups do and some do not.

If one only uses Scripture, does not seek to harmonize with nature and experience, then one can approach this as a rule, a legal requirement.

After all, Jesus said to them after washing their feet:

> You call me Teacher and Lord, and it is right that you do so, because that is what I am. I, your Lord and Teacher, have just washed your feet. You, then, should wash one another's feet. I have set an example for you, so that you will do just what I have done for you. I am telling you the truth: slaves are never greater than their master, and messengers are never greater than the one who sent them. Now that you know this truth, how happy you will be if you put it into practice! (John 13:13-17 GNT)

And some read this and hear a directive, an instruction, a task, a rule, a command and others do not and thus we have a split in Christianity as some take this as it reads, not questioning, not reasoning, not thinking, but obeying, while others don't believe this is necessary.

How does the integrative evidenced-based approach help us with this?

- In Christ's day how did He and His disciples travel? By walking
- What were the roads and pathways upon which they walked often made out of? Dirt
- And were animals traveling those roads, donkeys, horses, camels? And did the animals leave their waste? And would this be picked up by the feet?
- What footwear did they have? Sandals
- What would happen to their feet? Terribly dirty
- Was washing the feet a religious ritual, or an actual need? A real service that provided not only hygiene, but was refreshing?

- And in Middle Eastern culture what is the foot associated with? It is associated with dirt, lowliness, worthlessness, something trampled under the feet is worthless. Thus, who washes feet the king or the servant?
- So, what is Christ teaching and revealing in His actions? Servant leadership, leadership that serves, that ministers, that uses one's energies to provide blessings to others—real world blessings, interventions that are actually needed by reality.

Where does science and experience come into play?

Science:

- First—on the point of cleanliness—is there scientific evidence that cleaning off dirt and filth helps prevents disease and promotes health?
- Second—is there brain science that shows when we act altruistically, in loving service for others that we activate higher brain circuits and calm fear circuits? Yes! this results in lower inflammatory cascades, better mental and physical health! And, does acting in this way, via the law of exertion, cause growth in these mature brain circuits of altruism, and result in growth in mature character—if done from a genuine love for others? Yes!

Experience:

- First—does experience tell you that when you are clean you are healthier? Does experience tell you that when you are healthier you are happier and more capable of fulfilling the Lord's purposes?
- Second—experience tells us that people who volunteer, when compared to those who don't volunteer, have better health, less physical disability, less dementia, and stay out of nursing homes longer than those who don't volunteer.

So, how do we put all of this together in our application today, that if we did would bring harmony and not division in Christianity?

We realize that Jesus was not setting up a rule, but was demonstrating to them how to humble themselves in loving service to each other. The law of love in action. Thus, today a person who actually follows Jesus's example might:

- Volunteer at their church to clean the bathrooms
- Volunteer to clean the home of an elderly church member or neighbor
- Volunteer, in this COVID 19 environment, to do the grocery shopping for an elderly neighbor

In other words, all acts of real-world service to others are fulfilling Jesus's instructions.

Does that mean that to have a religious foot-washing service is wrong? Not at all, it only means that it is not a legal requirement for salvation. It could be a blessing, a tool the Lord provided to help us humble our hearts, but others could do the service like the Publican's prayer, out of religious pride.

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> Now, having washed the disciples' feet, He said, "I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you." In these words Christ was not merely enjoining the practice of hospitality. More was meant than the washing of the feet of guests to remove the dust of travel. Christ was here instituting a religious service. By the act of our Lord this humiliating ceremony was made a consecrated ordinance. It was to be observed by the disciples, that they might ever keep in mind His lessons of humility and service. DA 650.2
> This ordinance is Christ's appointed preparation for the sacramental service. While pride, variance, and strife for supremacy are cherished, the heart cannot enter into fellowship with Christ. We are not prepared to receive the communion of His body and His blood. Therefore it was that Jesus appointed the memorial of His humiliation to be first observed. DA 650.3

What is described here? A ritual with some magical ability, or a tool, service, that Jesus intends to be a reminder to help us reject pride, variance, strife and humble our hearts before God and in love to each other? So is the service a requirement or is the humbling of the heart the requirement?

Those who don't use the integrative evidence-based approach, and who instead read the Bible through the imposed law lens, may conclude this is a rule to follow and thus set up a regular service to wash the clean feet of their fellow church members. The ritual, done out of a sense of legal obligation makes them feel good about their own piousness—that they are more holy and right with God than those other Christians who don't do this ritual, but who perhaps are volunteering at the foodbank.

So, do you see how using the integrative approach brings harmony because it focuses on the reality to which the service was designed to help one experience. As long as one experiences that reality the service is not a legal requirement, that if you don't perform you get a sin demerit on your record in heaven. The service is understood as a helpful tool to help people remember the reality—that sin infects us all and leads to pride and we all need cleansing by Jesus.

Through the design law view we see all those who with humble hearts help others are fulfilling Christ's instructions and we don't split over ritual. We have no problem supporting those who want to conduct the ritual, but don't ostracize those who are meek and loving like Jesus but haven't found benefit in the service.

I wonder, how many Western Christians, who do practice the ceremony of foot washing, would be eager to go to a culture where people went barefoot, or wore sandals and walked on dirt roads and as they came to church would meet them at the door and wash their feet?

The lesson suggests that the problem in misunderstanding Scripture is that in various groups Scriptural interpretation is impacted by: Tradition, Experience, Culture, and Reason, when it should only be the Bible impacting how we interpret the Bible. We will examine each of these in the rest of the lesson.

The Anglican church historically used the Anglican Triad to determine truth, which was the combination of Scripture, Reason and Tradition.

John Wesley developed the Wesleyan Quadrilateral, which harmonized Scripture with Tradition, Experience and Reason.

The lesson takes the position that this should not be done, that Scripture should be used in isolation divorced from all other influences or lines of evidence. Let's examine these ideas.

SUNDAY

The lesson points out the problem of allowing traditions to negate, supersede, contradict and lead us away from the truth as taught in Scripture.

It gives the example of Corban practiced by the Pharisees in Christ's day. This was when a person would dedicate their assets to be given to the Temple upon their death. This precluded them from using their assets for anything other than themselves during their life. They would not use their resources to provide for their parents, thus negating the commandment to honor their mother and father.

Jesus spoke to them on a level they could understand. They were lawyers, who viewed the world through a legal lens. They misunderstood God's law as imposed and thus Jesus met them where they were and used the commandments, the law, to expose their hypocrisy.

But, was the problem Jesus exposed really about keeping the wrong rules or the wrong traditions? No! It was about selfishness operating in the heart rather than love.

The practice of Corban was a practice that legalized selfishness and allowed a person to be selfish while believing they being pious as they had dedicated their resources to the church. This led to a greater sense of spiritual pride as they were so devout they dedicated all to the church. But, in reality they were selfish, not part of God's kingdom of love. Jesus exposes this by pointing out their failure to love by failing to care for their own parents.

Some may still misunderstand what Jesus was saying. Through the human legal lens they may read this as people replacing God's legal requirement—rule—with their own and thus the problem with what these people were doing was a legal one and they are in legal trouble with God. Design law helps us understand it is about reality, the natural results of taking a false remedy.

Mark 7:6-13 from The Remedy:

> Jesus didn't hesitate in his reply: "Isaiah got it right when he described charlatans like you — those who pretend to partake of the Remedy but instead promote spiritual poison. Just as he wrote, 'These people proclaim their love for me with their mouths, but their hearts are as far away from love for me and my methods as they can get.[7]Their worship is useless, and their teachings are nothing but man-made rules.'

[8] "You have thrown away God's healing prescription and are promoting a counterfeit cocktail of dos and don'ts thought up by men."

[9]He continued, "You have perfected the art of throwing away God's healing prescription and replacing it with your own worthless traditions![10]For Moses taught God's Remedy, 'Love your father and your mother,' and 'Anyone who fails to love their father or mother will certainly die.'[11]But you come along with your own rules — which are the poison of selfishness — and throw out God's prescription of love when you say that if a person says to their father or mother: 'Whatever help I might otherwise give to you it is now Corban (that is, the resources are designated for the Temple),'[12]then you excuse their responsibility to love and provide for their parents.[13]This is just one example of how you make God's healing Remedy useless by replacing it with your worthless traditions handed down through the generations. You do many things just like that."

God's plan is about healing us and what God asks us to do has real world practical application in our lives, in our hearts and minds. The Integrative Evidence-Based approach, which harmonizes Scripture with science/nature and experience leads us to understand Scripture correctly. But divorcing Scripture from nature and experience leads to superstition, confusion, legal ritualistic religious practices that often make no sense.

One of the traditions that has crept into the SDA church that we must reject is the tradition that Scripture is to be used alone, divorced from science and experience. We must integrate Scripture with God's other evidentiary threads if we want to find God's truth.

Let's examine some Christian traditions. We will find some harmonize with the Bible, some contradict it and others do neither. And consider, which of the traditions have actual salvation significance? There are some traditions that are consistent with Scripture and some are not—but even between these, how many are salvation issues—i.e. the tradition will separate the saved from the lost?

How many denominational divisions do we have because of one or more of these traditions?

How many of these are actually essential to salvation? If any of these are not essential to salvation then why are we divided over them?

Because of imperial law thinking—if we think through design law lenses then if something isn't out of harmony with God's design law we don't divide over it.

For instance, in the health care field, operating upon the laws of health, if some people insist that in order to be healthy they must wear red sweaters, we don't care—let them. We present the truth that we find no evidence of benefit for red sweaters, but we find no harm so if some want to wear them, please do. This would be like Romans 14, let every person be fully persuaded in their own mind. But if they insist that health is promoted by smoking cigarettes then we oppose them with the truth—evidence and facts. We still leave them individually free, but we don't ignore the violation of God's design laws of health, and we would not allow them to promote smoking in our fellowship. The violation of God's design law would be a point of division and if some refused to harmonize a point for separation.

In Christianity, many people argue over things that don't really matter and miss what does.

MONDAY

The lesson is about experience, and I really like how the lesson focuses upon our need to personally experience God—His goodness—for ourselves. This is exactly correct.

They also point out that experience needs to be harmonized with Scripture—again this is exactly correct.

But this goes both ways, not only is Scripture to inform us and shape our understanding of the experiences of life, but our experiences of life are to shape and inform our understanding of Scripture.

There is an overlap between experience and science—for science is about testable, reproducible and observable reality—in other words how we experience reality—but not on a one-time basis, but identifying the constants in our world and universe that don't change.

Consider Galileo – who observed the movement of the stars and the earth and concluded that the earth revolves around the sun, but the theologians rejected this experience and measurements and clung to their interpretation of Scripture and imprisoned Galileo.

Doesn't our understanding of Scripture have to be informed by our experience and by science? But also our experiences have to be informed by Scripture.

So, if a person experiences a supernatural event—say their dog talks to them and claims to have a message from God. Should they just believe it because they experienced it, or should they examine that message in light of Scripture and determine whether this experience was in fact from God, or from a false spirit?

How about it is not a miracle of a talking animal but a dream or an impression that they have had and they have the idea that the dream or impression was a message from God, should that experience by filtered through Scripture?

Read the last paragraph, "Experiences can be very deceiving…" No question experiences can deceive. Would that include the experience of studying the Scripture? Can people's Bible study experience deceive them? And if so, how will studying the Bible resolve this is they are being deceived in their study of the Bible? Wouldn't it be by requiring the Bible to harmonize with how the world actually works—testable experience and nature and science, God's design laws?

Is there a difference between experiences and experience?

Do you want an, experienced surgeon, pilot, lifeguard—or do you want a professor who has studied academically and has a Ph.D. in the theory of medicine, flying or swimming—but has never actually done any of it?

What about with our church leaders—is it sufficient to have people with doctoral degrees in theology? Is acquiring academic degrees the same thing as being experienced in the things of God? What would give one such experience?

Actual application of God's truth, God's principles to their own lives and the lives of others. This is what I learned in my residency and describe in the preface to Could It Be This Simple? that true Biblical understanding, experience, must have real-world application and bring about real transformation and healing. Theoretical ideas are worthless in God's kingdom if they don't have actual healing application.

This is a problem in much of Christianity—the doctrines are often theoretical or conceptual but not practical and applicable.

Consider, our experience with God, Jesus said, "Now this is eternal life: that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent." (Johan 17:3 NIV84) What does this mean?

Is this knowing about God, or knowing God?

Can we study for years the biographies of famous people and learn all about them, become experts on the facts of their lives—is this the same as knowing them?

Sadly, this is what happens to many theologians—they study their entire lives to learn all the facts they can of the Bible and about God, but they never actually get to know Him. This is what the Pharisees were like in Jesus's day—experts in the Scriptures—but when God stood among them they didn't recognize Him, because they never actually knew God.

Jesus says the same about many at the end of time, that they will claim to do all kinds of miracles in Jesus's name—but He never knew them.

Real experience is a real personal knowledge of God—you and I actually know Him, and this is knowing more than facts.

God gave us Scripture to reveal the truth about Himself to us in a real world that operates upon His design laws so that we could differentiate the truth of our Creator God from all the false legal impersonations of Him and thus enter into a real experience with Him.

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses on culture and its impact on our understanding of Scripture. It points out that the Scripture was written by people in a particular culture, to people in a particular culture.

Does this mean there are aspects of Scripture that take God's eternal truths and presents them through a cultural lens? And does that mean for us today that we can rightly remove the cultural elements as long as we retain God's eternal truths?

Can you think of any examples of how God's eternal truths were presented through the culture of the time?

What about patriarchal dominance—in other words the male domination of women? Has God's truth and design for human relationships been slanted through a culture in which men were viewed as having authority over women merely by their gender regardless of character?

Has this carried through human history so that in Christianity men are often viewed as spiritually superior to women based solely on gender without regard to character? In other words, many would accept a selfish and prideful male pastor over a Christlike female pastor?

What was God's original design for human beings? Did God create Adam and Eve with one of them subordinate to the other? Or did God create Eve from Adam's side—not from the head to rule over Adam or the foot to be ruled over by Adam—but from his side to be his companion, his equal partner—the two becoming one unit of equality bound together in love.

One of the distortions to God's creation that has happened because of sin—fear and selfishness taking root in the heart—is the loss of equality between men and women. This is moral equality, equality of value as people, equality of worth, equality under God's design laws.

But a truth often missed by people on both sides of this equality question is that God purposely did not make Adam and Eve equal in abilities. God designed and created Adam and Eve with complimentary abilities that when the two unite in godly love they become more and are capable of achieving more than either one can accomplish or be on their own.

Satan wants to corrupt God's design. Satan doesn't want equality between the sexes. Satan wants domination, subordination and exploitation. Satan also wants falsehoods, like men and women are equal in all ways, in all abilities and thus promote the lie that they can do all things equally well and don't really benefit from the union of love as God designed. Because this is inherently false, believing the lie that men and women are equal in ability continually sets up reality based conflicts that fuels the tensions between the sexes furthering the division.

God's design is a design of love—when we love each other we actually cherish, value, respect and long to promote the best in the other. There is never a desire to obstruct, denigrate, or hold down the other, but always to advance, build up, and elevate the other. We value and cherish the differences because we know as a joined couple we are elevated and ennobled as we practice God's methods of love. Thus, in God's design both men and women seek to promote the highest development of every ability in the other.

Within the church, as we come back to God's design, greater and greater equality in how we treat each other is experienced and we recognize the leading of the Holy Spirit in gifting people and thus don't put up man-made rules and traditions that obstruct the leading of the Holy Spirit, such as only men can be pastors.

Read third paragraph, "Culture, like any other facet…" When you hear judgment in this context do you hear a judicial ruling, or discernment, diagnosis, differentiating that which is actually right, reasonable and healthy from that which is not?

While we are not to judge the motives of another person's heart, we are to make judgments about what is actually healthy—absolutely, and understanding God's design and His design laws helps us do so.

Are there cultural pressures which are introducing false ideas into the world and the church which oppose God's healing and restoration to His design for life?

Let's say we had access to the fruit of the Tree of Life today—and if we gave it to a person who was blind it would cure blindness—would that be a godly thing?

What about if we gave it to a deaf person and their deafness was cured, would that be a godly thing? – You understand if we were to do this to all deaf people, curing all deafness that we would destroy a culture—that there is an entire language based on deafness. In fact, as science as pursued a cure for deafness some in the deaf community have opposed curing deafness because if will destroy the deaf community. Is deafness part of God's design? Is deafness sin? Of course not, it is a result of sin in the world, but it is not sinful to be deaf, it is just a condition that interferes with God's design for functioning.

What about if we gave people with autism the fruit of the Tree of Life and it cured the autism would that be a godly thing?

What about if we gave the fruit to people with other than heterosexual sexual identity and it restored them to heterosexual identity would that be a godly thing? If we had such a fruit today that actually did this—would it be met with joy and appreciation or hostility and rage? Why? What would it reveal if people became angry at such an opportunity?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson suggests that using reason to determine truth leads to rationalism and the rejection of Scripture.

Ten years ago, I had a series of meetings with a group of theologians who were opposed to what we teach at Come and Reason Ministries. One of their big objections was that we use reason to understand Scripture. One of their professors, in his paper outlining their objections wrote: "Human reason must bow before divine revelation, or we are left with rationalism."

They argued that we cannot use our reason to understand Scripture because Scripture is divinely inspired and we are sinful and our human reason is warped and thus we must take the Bible as it reads.

Of course, I pointed out the following:

> "Come now, let us reason together," says the LORD. "Though your sins are like scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they are red as crimson, they shall be like wool. (Is 1:18 NIV84)
> One man considers one day more sacred than another; another man considers every day alike. Each one should be fully convinced in his own mind. (Rom 14:5 NIV84)
> But solid food is for the mature, who by constant use have trained themselves to distinguish good from evil. (Heb 5:14 NIV84)

I pointed out that God is the source of all truth—that Satan is the father of lies and that God has revealed truth in Scripture—but then God expects us to exercise our God-given reasoning power to reason through the Scriptures in order to develop by practice the ability to discern truth from error. In so doing, truth sets us free from lies, we are won to trust and our hearts and minds are cleansed in our trust relationship with God. But this doesn't happen if we refuse to reason.

I asked how much truth does Satan have on his side of the argument and how much truth does God have? Since Satan has no truth and God has all truth, who would not want us to reason, who would want us just to believe without investigation, with thinking things through?

Then, since these were SDA theologians I shared some quotes with them from one of the founders of the SDA church, here is one of them:

> God never asks us to believe, without giving sufficient evidence upon which to base our faith. His existence, His character, the truthfulness of His word, are all established by testimony that appeals to our reason; and this testimony is abundant. Yet God has never removed the possibility of doubt. Our faith must rest upon evidence, not demonstration. Those who wish to doubt will have opportunity; while those who really desire to know the truth will find plenty of evidence on which to rest their faith. {SC 105.2}

Are we to use our reason when studying Scripture? Absolutely, but here is the point where human reason is limited and for which we need divine revelation: Because of sin, human reason alone cannot discover the truth about God, God must reveal it to us. But, once God has revealed truth through Scripture, science/nature and experience, we must exercise our reasoning ability to understand and choose the truth and reject the lies.

THURSDAY

The lesson points out that some people allow their experience, in what they believe are the movements of the Holy Spirit, to diminish the role of Scripture. In other words, they get a message they believe is from the Holy Spirit, but that message is not processed through the Scripture to determine if it is harmony with Scripture, or even worse, the message contradicts Scripture and they conclude the Spirit is leading them beyond Scripture.

The lesson rightly points out that the Holy Spirit inspired the Scripture and the eternal truths contained therein do not change. Thus, the Holy Spirit will not contradict the truths of Scripture. However, as we have pointed out earlier, there are many interpretations of Scripture, and the Holy Spirit will lead us to reject false interpretations of Scripture.

Can the Bible be rightly understood without the enlightening of the Holy Spirit? Can reading the Bible transform the heart without the work of the Holy Spirit in the heart? No!

This is why the metaphor of a lamp is so good.

> Your word is a lamp to my feet and a light for my path. (Ps 119:105 NIV84)

The Scripture is the lamp, but the Holy Spirit is the oil in the lamp. A lamp without oil gives no light. Studying Scripture without the Holy Spirit does not result in truth (light) and does not result in a life that shines forth God's kingdom of love. The Scripture is useless without the Holy Spirit. In fact, the Scripture without the Holy Spirit can be a tool to cause great harm. As I have said before, there isn't much more dangerous on planet earth than someone on a mission for God who doesn't actually know Him!

The lesson, in last paragraph says, "It is not our task to sit in judgment over Scripture. The Word of God, rather, has the right and the authority to judge us and our thinking."

Are they saying we are not to reason through the Scripture and make a judgment on whether to follow it or not? That if the Scripture gives us a directive from God, then we are not to question that directive, we are to obey?

Hmmm…. I wonder, if the lesson authors were here what they would say about Deuteronomy 14:22-27 (NIV84):

> Be sure to set aside a tenth of all that your fields produce each year. [23] Eat the tithe of your grain, new wine and oil, and the firstborn of your herds and flocks in the presence of the Lord your God at the place he will choose as a dwelling for his Name, so that you may learn to revere the Lord your God always. [24] But if that place is too distant and you have been blessed by the Lord your God and cannot carry your tithe (because the place where the Lord will choose to put his Name is so far away), [25] then exchange your tithe for silver, and take the silver with you and go to the place the Lord your God will choose. [26] Use the silver to buy whatever you like: cattle, sheep, wine or other fermented drink, or anything you wish. Then you and your household shall eat there in the presence of the Lord your God and rejoice. [27] And do not neglect the Levites living in your towns, for they have no allotment or inheritance of their own.

Here we have a specific command by God to remember the Levites, God's church leaders, with our tithes—do you think they would want us to practice this? And in the very middle of this we are told also to use our tithe to buy fermented drink and celebrate with the Lord, would they want us to practice this?

Well, we are certainly not to sit in judgment of the Scripture and we are certainly not to reason, so I guess they would have us practice this. This is only one example of many that can occur when people fail to reason and to make judgments about the Scripture.

If the Scripture is to have any benefit in our lives, must we make a judgment as to whether we believe it is the Word of God or not?

If the Scripture is to have any benefit in our lives, must we make a judgment as to what the various passages mean? If we don't know what it means can it help us?

We were created in the image of God with the ability to think and to reason and God wants us to develop these abilities to the highest capacity possible. It is only through exercise that strength is acquired. Scripture is given to us by God as the revelation of truth and the spiritual gymnasium for our minds to read, study, and reason in order to develop by practice the ability to discern the right from the wrong. So, yes, we are to reason and we are to examine Scripture and make judgments, but of course always with a humble heart inviting God's Spirit to enlighten and lead.

Human reason alone is the problem, human reason unsanctified is the problem, not human reason humbly surrendered to the Lord.

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 5
By Scripture Alone—Sola Scriptura

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

One of our online class members, Ron Holman, sent in this email:

> The trouble with Scripture is NOT what we don't understand,
> The trouble with Scripture is what we DO understand > and DO NOT apply to our life.
> Psa 119:105 Your word is a lamp to my feet And a light to my path. (NKJV)
> A lamp gives us just enough light to safely take a few steps at a time. A lamp doesn't light up the whole length of the path if we stand still. If we want to have light for our journey, we must step forward into the light.
> We cannot expect God to give us more light, if we do not follow the light He has given us.
> The Captain can guide a giant ship with a small rudder, but only if the ship is moving.

Read first paragraph, "The Protestant claim…" The lesson correctly points out that the Bible is to be our source of theological truth, not the Bible plus equal weight and value to church tradition. This is the original meaning and purpose of the phrase Sola Scriptura. Sola Scriptura was not intended to suggest that Scripture is the only and exclusive source of truth, but to state that Scripture is to be used without man-made traditions interpreting it or negating it—that was its point.

In fact, there were five soloes all of them were not intended to mean only the one element alone, but to divorce that element from a specific other element that had come to be merged with it which undermined the truth.

- sola fide – by faith alone, was to teach by faith and not by faith plus works
- sola gratia – by grace alone, was to teach by grace not grace plus human works
- Solus Christus or Solo Christo – by Christ or through Christ alone and not by Christ plus church sacraments
- Soli Deo Gloria – glory to God alone and not glory to God plus glory to the church

We see that faith alone does not mean without grace or without Christ, and Christ alone does not mean without the Holy Spirit working in the heart.

Do you see how these soloes are not about the element alone, but about excluding something from inclusion that was wrongly being included?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

So too sola Scriptura means our doctrines come from Scripture not from Scripture plus church traditions, church councils, or papal rulings. But sola Scriptura does not mean we are to divorce Scripture from science/nature and experience, the other threads of evidence that Scripture itself teaches God has revealed Himself through.

The idea that Scripture is to be used all by itself without nature and experience is a tradition that must be rejected.

Read second paragraph, "It was the Bible that gave…"

> The historical-grammatical method is one that strives to discover the biblical author's original intended meaning in the text. Many conservative Protestant groups focus on this method.
> The historical-critical method, or higher criticism, is a method that investigates the origins of ancient texts in order to understand the world behind the text, looking for local cultural applications and understanding of the day, rather than the author's written intent. (As an example from today—if we read a statement "He is a gay fellow." The historical-grammatical method would seek to understand what the author meant—did the author mean happy or homosexual? The historical-critical method would seek to understand the typical way the word was used in society at the time it was written.)
> Revealed exegesis posits that the Holy Spirit inspired the authors of the Bible to write things beyond their own understanding and thus the Bible contains deeper meanings or truths than its human authors intended or could have foreseen.

Each of these methods have their strengths and weaknesses. While the lesson authors prefer the historical-grammatical method in which we only draw conclusions consistent with what the authors intended, I can assure you they don't use it exclusively.

Consider these two quotes from one of the founders of the SDA church, and whether you agree, have applied this and believe the lesson authors do also:

> No truth is more clearly taught in the Bible than that God by His Holy Spirit especially directs His servants on earth in the great movements for the carrying forward of the work of salvation. Men are instruments in the hand of God, employed by Him to accomplish His purposes of grace and mercy. Each has his part to act; to each is granted a measure of light, adapted to the necessities of his time, and sufficient to enable him to perform the work which God has given him to do. But no man, however honored of Heaven, has ever attained to a full understanding of the great plan of redemption, or even to a perfect appreciation of the divine purpose in the work for his own time. Men do not fully understand what God would accomplish by the work which He gives them to do; they do not comprehend, in all > its bearings, the message which they utter in His name.... Christ in His Heavenly Sanctuary 103.2

> Even the prophets who were favored with the special illumination of the Spirit did not fully comprehend the import of the revelations committed to them. The meaning was to be unfolded from age to age, as the people of God should need the instruction therein contained.... CIHS 104.1
> Often as [Jesus] presented the Old Testament Scriptures, and showed their application to Himself and His work of atonement, [the disciples] had been awakened by His Spirit, and lifted into a heavenly atmosphere. Of the spiritual truths spoken by the prophets they had a clearer understanding than had the original writers themselves. DA 494.3

Do you agree with these ideas? Does history and evidence support them to be true? Consider the book of Daniel—did Daniel understand all that he wrote? Do we understand more today? Consider any field of study, science, medicine, mathematics, automotive technology—isn't it true that as truths are understood by one generation and taught to the next that the next generation expands and builds upon those truths and more truth unfolds? Wouldn't this be true in our study of the Bible?

If we use strictly the historical-grammatical method, then we cannot gain more from Scripture than the original authors intended when they wrote it. It would severely limit our understanding and the agency of the Holy Spirit to both inspire His prophets and to enlighten and unfold truth throughout the ages.

So, I think all the methods have their value, when used correctly, but can be misused to restrict the truth or introduce error.

But, the biggest problem with any of these methods is that they don't address the assumptions and presuppositions the student has when they come to the Scripture. In my view, it doesn't matter which of these methods one uses if one believes, prior to studying Scripture, that God's law functions like human law. If one accepts that lie then one reads into Scripture imperialism, force, coercion, legal-penal theologies that are not part of God's kingdom and thus corrupt the truth about God.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "From the beginning…" I want to affirm that for SDAs the official position and the method used to form church doctrine is the Bible and the Bible alone.

The SDA church believes that the Bible teaches the Holy Spirit gives spiritual gifts to people and one of those gifts is the gift of prophecy and that EGW was gifted with the gift of prophecy—in which she had special revelation, visions, dreams and was visited by and spoke with angels.

This is a similar claim to Joseph Smith, the founder of the Mormon church, who also claims to have had special revelation and been visited and spoke to angels, particularly the angel Moroni.

What is the difference between EGW's experience and approach to Scripture and Josephs Smith's and does their attitudes toward Scripture and how their writings are used give insight into whether one was more likely inspired by God than the other?

EGW herself subordinated her writings to Scripture. She called her writings the lesser light whose primary purpose was to lead people back to Scripture—the greater light. Her writings were not to be used for the formation of doctrines—the doctrines were to come from Bible study. In the founding of the SDA church the leading brethren would study a subject, often for years, and only after faithful study, pulling from Scripture the Bible basis for a conclusion, would EGW, sometimes, get an vision, dream or some other inspiration which would confirm the conclusions already formed from the Bible.

Ron Duffield, in his book, The Return of the Latter Rain Volume I A Historical Review of Seventh-day Adventist History from 1844-1891 does a great job of providing the historical quotes, references and writings from the pioneers of the SDA church that document this process—and how the church leadership rejected the message of Jones and Waggoner, which EGW endorsed and supported, and instead chose the penal legal view to promote.

But, perhaps the most important point for SDAs is: EGW herself in regard to her writings wrote the following about her writings:

> "If the Testimonies speak not according to the word of God, reject them." (Ellen G. White, Testimonies Volume 5, page 691)

The Testimonies refer to EGW's writings and she herself and the SDA church make the Bible the standard, and if there is ever a contradiction between EGW and the Bible, then her position was that we should reject her writings on that topic.

This is in sharp contrast to Joseph Smith who took the position that his work was to correct and improve the Bible. That if any contradiction arose between the Bible and his writings the Bible was to be corrected by what was revealed to him.

This is why I value the writings of EGW but do not value the writings of Joseph Smith—because EGW never sought to correct Scripture, but elevated the Bible as the standard and subordinated herself and her writings to it, whereas Joseph Smith claims to supersede Scripture.

Now, I was quite heartened to note that the lesson authors wrote: *"*the sola Scripture principle was intended to safeguard the authority of Scripture from dependence upon the church and its interpretation…"

This is a great point—that a group of theologians working at a Bible research institute do not have the authority to interpret Scripture for the rest of us. The Bible remains its own authority. Sadly, for many in Christianity, and some in the SDA church it often doesn't work this way.

For many Christians when Bible questions arise they often seek a theologian, pastor, commentary, or research counsel to tell them the answer and these research institutes end up becoming authorities over the Bible all the while claiming they only believe in the authority of the Bible.

We should respect our church leaders, those who have dedicated their lives to the study of Scripture. We should thoughtfully, prayerfully, and honestly consider, examine, and study ideas that they may present. But we should not surrender our individuality, our minds, our thinking to them and simply believe because a person with an academic degree or in church office says so. We should only believe because we have examined the evidence for ourselves and understand and agree it is actually true.

And remember, we can disagree and still respect and love those with whom we disagree. It is okay. We can still view people who hold to different theological views with love and respect and being part of God's family. I wish we had more of that in the church. I would enjoy the opportunity to have regular discussions with someone who saw it differently as long as we both have love and respect for each other in our hearts and we both acknowledge our human limitations and are open to have our ideas changed with evidence.

I remember Graham Maxwell used to say that he had friends with whom he disagreed on various topics and they would say how they couldn't wait to get to heaven to ask Jesus who was right—but then said he had to be prepared for Jesus to say: "Well, the truth is, you are both wrong." If we don't have a heart that is willing to give up a position we hold when truth is presented then we are no longer walking by the light, the lamp of truth is no longer leading us.

This is why I promote the principle of developing a heart that loves truth and wants to grow in truth at the earliest possible moment—because God's truth is infinite and we will never stop growing in it as long as we live in harmony with God's plan.

The lesson quotes 1Corinthians 4:6, "Now, brothers, I have applied these things to myself and Apollos for your benefit, so that you may learn from us the meaning of the saying, "Do not go beyond what is written." Then you will not take pride in one man over against another." (NIV84)

Read second paragraph, "Not to go beyond…" Not to go beyond Scripture—what does this mean? Is this different from contradicting Scripture? I think we can all agree that we should not incorporate ideas that contradict Scripture, but going beyond Scripture—what does that mean? Does it mean adding to our beliefs and practices things that are not in Scripture—is that okay as long as it doesn't contradict the Bible?

I am not convinced this means that we are restricted from adding to our experiences, practices, beliefs, and ideas things that are not in Scripture as long as they don't contradict Scripture. For instance:

- Does Scripture teach that we should form denominations and have property and buildings built for church worship which are owned by the corporate church?
- Does the Scripture teach we are to build corporate healthcare systems owned by the corporate church?

- Does Scripture teach we are to use printing presses or electronic media in transcribing and printing the Bible and distributing it to others?
- Do we find the structured church service with its opening prayer, opening song, passing an offering plate through the pews, special music, sermon, closing prayer, in which church members are led through the service from the front in the Bible?
- Do we find the practice of soliciting donations from unbelievers to support the gospel in the Bible—some have called this Ingathering?
- Do we find veganism in a post-flood world taught in the Bible?
- Do we find total abstinence from alcohol for all human beings taught in the Bible?
- Does the Scripture teach whether we should or should not use digital devises on Sabbath or in the worship service?

My point is that as long as it doesn't contradict the Bible we may continue to grow and advance in living out the Bible principles in ways the Bible never described.

This is the difference between levels 1-4 moral development and levels 5-7. The first levels are rules oriented, obey or be punished, the higher levels are love and principles oriented, do what is right because it is so and there is no rules to love and thus the specifics can change as long as the principles are practiced. But rules often interfere with the practice of the principles.

We see this same division of maturity in our country right now in dealing with Corona Virus. The point of all the interventions is to stop the spread and prevent illness and death. With this in mind, some guidelines have been put in place:

- No gatherings of more than 10 people
- Wash hands regularly
- Don't touch your face
- Wear mask—especially if at risk
- Quarantine if sick or exposed to someone who has the virus
- Don't shake hands, hug or touch

But some have approached this by making the guidelines into rules—it is no longer about avoiding contact and spreading disease, but enforcing rules. So a father who was in a park with his daughter throwing a ball, with no one around for hundreds of yards, gets handcuffed and taken away.

Those who understand the principle of avoiding contact, yet still wanted to have an Easter Service, promoted a drive-in service in which people would come into the church parking lot, everyone stay in their own cars with the windows rolled up and the service was broadcast where they could hear it. However, government officials, following rules, sent police to give citations to those who were in their cars. This means, the police, going from car to car and giving citations to enforce the rules became vectors that broke the 6-foot distancing and potentially spread the virus to those in their cars.

The point is that the problem with rules versus design laws and principles is a society wide problem and the church is to grow up into maturity, which means we must move past the penal legal view into the worship of our Creator God and embrace and live in harmony with His design laws for life.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Bible itself claims…" The Bible itself does not state that all Scripture is inspired of God, but that all Scripture which is inspired of God is useful. This is a truth, not a claim.

There are many Scriptures that are not inspired by God:

- Apocrypha
- Pseudo-apocrypha
- Book of Mormon
- Koran

This statement by the lesson authors is a good example of why we are not to submit our thinking to other humans—because they make mistakes. This is a clear mistake and if they make a mistake on something this basic, simple, and straightforward, how can we have confidence in their views on more complex ideas? So we don't surrender our thinking to the lesson authors, but respect them for their hard work, motives and consider what they have to say but…

We take the position that Paul wrote in Romans 14, that every person is to be fully persuaded in their own mind. I am not here to tell any of you what to think. You have your own mind, identity, individuality, capacity to reason and think, and we at Come and Reason Ministries are not here to indoctrinate you or tell you what to think, but to stimulate you to think, to present evidences for you to examine for yourself and come to your own conclusions. This is the law of exertion—the only way to get stronger is to exercise—if you don't use it you lose it. So, we want you to think, reason, wrestle with ideas and understand for yourselves the truth and why it is the truth.

So, while I do not believe the authors know all the answers, for none but God knows all the answers, I find value in hearing how others understand things, getting their insights and then examining them for myself in light of God's Word. So I would not want to do away with the study guides or other resources for they are good tools to stimulate study and thinking.

Yes, we can assume a fundamental unity in Scripture—why then do we not have this unity in Christianity? Because if the imposed law lie that has infected how we read Scripture.

In the second paragraph the lesson states, "Without the unity of the Bible the church would have no means to distinguish truth from error and to repudiate heresy."

Consider that for a second—believing the Bible to be inspired by the Holy Spirit such that it communicates consistent, non-contradictory truths is an important concept to understand so that we can utilize Scripture to help clarify other Scripture and find harmony.

However, this does not mean that we can only differentiate truth and error from Scripture—in fact to truly differentiate error from truth, Scripture must not only be compared with Scripture, but with nature/science—God's design laws, and real-life experiences.

If we fail to do this, then using only Scripture we introduce all kinds of false ideas and this is why there are so many denominations and divisions in Christianity.

I have just made a claim, that Scripture is not the only means to differentiate truth and error—is there evidence to support this claim?

Jesus, when dealing with theologians, would sometimes use Scripture to expose their hypocrisy, but was that the only method Jesus used to reveal truth and expose error?

What about these parables:

- the landowner
- the Good Samaritan
- speck versus log in the eye
- new cloth old garments
- the sower
- wheat and tares
- mustard seed
- leaven
- hidden treasure
- pearl of great price
- lost coin
- lost son
- lost sheep
- fishing
- what goes in the mouth/food doesn't defile the character
- laborers in the vineyard
- marriage feast
- ten virgins
- faithful and wicked servant
- one, five, and ten talents
- the rich man and Lazarus
- the Publican and tax collector

Did Jesus teach truth and expose error and heresy? Did He do it by only quoting Scripture?

The idea that sola Scriptura means truth can only be promoted by and error only exposed by quoting Scripture is the false tradition and we must reject it. When we understand God's character, God as Creator, His laws as design laws, how life really works, the nature and character of sin, we can expose error and promote truth in many ways, all throughout life and life's experiences—but truth from science and life experiences will never contradict the truth from Scripture.

This is important, because those who use the Scripture to create false theologies will be foremost to condemn the integrative evidence-based approach. They take a position of moral supremacy, claiming that they are true to the Bible, honor the Bible, respect the Bible, make the Bible supreme and that by using nature and experience we devalue and dilute the Bible and thus they claim that their positions are more Biblically sound than ours. They do this because their positions are refuted by reality, by God's design laws and how life really works. Thus they deny the truth while claiming to promote the truth and we end up with over 40,000 different Christian groups arguing their views of the Bible.

Do we have other Bible examples of people exposing error and promoting truth by means other than quoting Scripture?

- How did Nathan expose to David his error with Bathsheba? With a story about a poor man and his lamb.
- How did Micaiah expose the truth to Ahab and Hezekiah that they should not go to war with Ramoth Gilead? By telling a story about lying spirits in heaven. (1Kings 22)

So, even in the Bible we have many examples of errors being exposed by means other than quoting the Bible.

In the last paragraph, the lesson points out a very good point—that the entire Bible must be taken together. All of the various parts of Scripture must harmonize with the other parts of Scripture. When we allow parts of Scripture to be deleted from our understanding then we open the door to misunderstanding.

The lesson asks what are we to do when one verse in the Bible seems to contradict other verses in the Bible?

Let's consider the story in 1Kings 22. The setting is Ahab meeting with Jehoshaphat trying to get Jehoshaphat to join him in attacking Ramoth Gilead. The prophet Micaiah is called and this is what the prophet told them:

> Micaiah continued, "Therefore hear the word of the LORD: I saw the LORD sitting on his throne with all the host of heaven standing around him on his right and on his left. [20] And the LORD said, 'Who will entice Ahab into attacking Ramoth Gilead and going to his death there?'
> "One suggested this, and another that. [21] Finally, a spirit came forward, stood before the LORD and said, 'I will entice him.'
> [22] " 'By what means?' the LORD asked.
> " 'I will go out and be a lying spirit in the mouths of all his prophets,' he said.

" 'You will succeed in enticing him,' said the LORD. 'Go and do it.'
[23] "So now the LORD has put a lying spirit in the mouths of all these prophets of yours. The LORD has decreed disaster for you."

Yet, James tell us:

> When tempted, no one should say, "God is tempting me." For God cannot be tempted by evil, nor does he tempt anyone.. (1:13 NIV84)

Does God lie or deceive? Do we accept the 1Kings 22 passage as inspired by God? Do we take this literally, just as it reads? Or, do we understand this passage through the lens of what the rest of the Bible tells us about God, and through the lens of design law.

We should ask questions like: Does God actually lie? No, then this must mean something else—and what does it mean? That God is sending a message to Ahab, a man who worships Baal. What happens in the minds of people who worship false gods? (To answer this we must understand design law—the imposed law view merely states that they are in legal trouble for breaking a commandment. But when we understand design law, we understand worshipping changes us—so what happens in the minds of people who worship false gods?) Do they grow in God's wisdom or do their minds become darkened? So, will Ahab, a worshipper of Baal be responsive to clear heavenly light, will he understand heavenly truth, or would the wisdom of heaven be foolishness to a worshipper of Baal? What would a Baal worshipper believe to be true about the gods? That the true gods are the most powerful gods. Ahab would worship a dictator god, a being who imposes his will and make things happen.

Does our God of love want Ahab to die or Ahab to repent and be saved? So what type of message would God send Ahab—a message to lead him to his death, or a message to lead him toward salvation? If Ahab follows the message what does Ahab do? He refuses to go to war. So, this story reveals that God, in grace, steps down and assumes the role of causing the lies in order to inform Ahab that the other prophets had lied to him and going to war will result in his death. This was not about how things truly happen in heaven, but a message of mercy communicated in the only way the listener could comprehend that he had been lied to, all in order to save the sinner.

Now, we have harmony, God is shining light into Ahab's mind, but Ahab doesn't like it.

This is how we harmonize Scripture—but we can only do so if we understand the basic truths about God's character of love and His design laws.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "The biblical testimony…" I want to affirm this—absolutely—that the Bible can be understood by anyone who has a heart's desire to understand truth and opens their hearts and minds to the leading of the Holy Spirit.

Does this mean all Scripture is easily understood, or the basics, the key elements are clearly revealed?

I like these two historic quotes from EGW, do you agree?

> The Bible unfolds truth with a simplicity and a perfect adaptation to the needs and longings of the human heart, that has astonished and charmed the most highly cultivated minds, while it enables the humblest and uncultured to discern the way of salvation. And yet these simply stated truths lay hold upon subjects so elevated, so far-reaching, so infinitely beyond the power of human comprehension, that we can accept them only because God has declared them. Thus the plan of redemption is laid open to us, so that every soul may see the steps he is to take in repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ, in order to be saved in God's appointed way; yet beneath these truths, so easily understood, lie mysteries that are the hiding of His glory—mysteries that overpower the mind in its research, yet inspire the sincere seeker for truth with reverence and faith. The more he searches the Bible, the deeper is his conviction that it is the Word of the living God, and human reason bows before the majesty of divine revelation. A Call to Stand Apart 46.5
> The mysteries of the Bible, so far from being an argument against it, are among the strongest evidences of its divine inspiration. If it contained no account of God but that which we could comprehend; if His greatness and majesty could be grasped by finite minds, then the Bible would not, as now, bear the unmistakable evidences of divinity. The greatness of its themes should inspire faith in it as the word of God. Ed 170.2

WEDNESDAY

Read second paragraph, "The beauty of letting…" The immediate context of what was occurring is very important to correctly understand Scripture, but most importantly is the context of the Great Controversy that began in heaven and spread to this earth.

Read third paragraph, "The Bible is…" I love this quotation and it is exactly right, the grand central theme of Scripture needs to be understood. If we don't understand that central theme then we can take the Bible stories and stand them up as stand-alone stories and that often make little sense. But when we understand the grand central theme then we see how all the parts fit.

And what is that central theme?

- The truth about God—His character, methods and principles of love, truth and freedom. God's design laws—how God built reality to operate.
- The controversy over God's character and design laws when Satan lied and framed God's laws are imposed rules thus alleged God to be a dictator and source of inflicted pain, suffering and death.
- How the creation of this world was not only the crowning act of God's creation, creating beings with Godlike abilities to pro-create and have dominion to rule—but this world was also created as a revelation, a living center of God's perfection to shine throughout all God's universe. Such a revelation would expose Satan's allegations as false, so Satan targeted Adam and Eve to corrupt them and displace God's design and methods of love and instill Satan's methods of fear and selfishness.

- God reveals Himself more fully in Jesus who is the Lamb of God slain from the foundation of the world. Jesus commits Himself to cure humanity, to remedy the sin problem and save this planet and all who trust Him
- The Old Testament is then the battle between the forces of God working to bring the Messiah and the forces of Satan working to obstruct the coming of the Messiah.

When we understand this the Bible stories fall into place and make so much sense.

Read the last paragraph, "When we compare Scripture with Scripture…" No doubt there is great value in being able to understand the original languages. However, with the various lexicons available today, knowing the original languages is not the most important knowledge to have to translate accurately for several reasons.

- The further back in antiquity the less anyone knows of the original languages. In many places in the OT the various lexicons say, "Hebrew unknown" which means the translators make their best guess.

  The older the language the less clearly it is understood. Here is an example of English from the 14th Century. Luke 8:1-2 from Wycliffe's original Bible and then the modern English translation of it:

  > And it was don aftirward, and Jhesu made iorney by citees and castelis, prechinge and euangelysinge þe rewme of God, 2 and twelue wiþ him; and summe wymmen þat weren heelid of wickide spiritis and syknessis, Marie, þat is clepid Mawdeleyn, of whom seuene deuelis wenten
  > And it came to pass afterward, that Jesus went throughout every city and village (castle), preaching and showing the kingdom of 2 God, and the twelve were with him; and certain women, which had been healed of wicked spirits and sicknesses, Mary called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils,

- The most important thing to know is God's character of love, His design laws and the Great Controversy—if one holds the human imposed law lie then when they translate they will incorporate legal distortions into the translation.

Let's examine some differences in various translations:

Romans 3:21-26 from the NIV, GNT, Remedy:

> NIV: But now a righteousness from God, apart from law, has been made known, to which the Law and the Prophets testify. 22 This righteousness from God comes through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe. There is no difference, 23 for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, 24 and are justified freely by his grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus. 25 God presented him as a sacrifice of atonement, through faith in his blood. He did this to demonstrate his justice, because in his forbearance he had left the sins committed beforehand unpunished— 26 he did it to demonstrate his justice at the present time, so as to be just and the one who justifies those who have faith in Jesus.

GNT: But now God's way of putting people right with himself has been revealed. It has nothing to do with law, even though the Law of Moses and the prophets gave their witness to it. 22God puts people right through their faith in Jesus Christ. God does this to all who believe in Christ, because there is no difference at all: 23everyone has sinned and is far away from God's saving presence. 24But by the free gift of God's grace all are put right with him through Christ Jesus, who sets them free. 25–26God offered him, so that by his blood he should become the means by which people's sins are forgiven through their faith in him. God did this in order to demonstrate that he is righteous. In the past he was patient and overlooked people's sins; but in the present time he deals with their sins, in order to demonstrate his righteousness. In this way God shows that he himself is righteous and that he puts right everyone who believes in Jesus.

Remedy: But now God has revealed a healthy state of being — a character that is right and perfect in every way — that did not come from the written code, but is exactly what the Scriptures and the Ten Commandments were pointing your minds toward. This perfect state of being comes from Christ and is created within us by God when we place our trust in him. Our trust in him is established by the evidence given through Jesus Christ of his supreme trustworthiness. There is no difference among any ethnic groups, for all humanity is infected with the same disease — of distrust, fear and selfishness — and is deformed in character and falls far short of God's glorious ideal for humanity. Yet all who are willing are healed freely by God's gracious Remedy which has been provided by Jesus Christ. God presented Jesus as the way and the means of restoration. Now, through the trust established by the evidence of God's character revealed when Christ died, we may partake of the Remedy procured by Christ. God did this to demonstrate that he is right and good — because in his forbearance he suspended, for a time, the ultimate consequence of us being out of harmony with his design for life — yet he has been falsely accused of being unfair. He did it to demonstrate at the present time how right and good he is, so that he would also be seen as being right when he heals those who trust in Jesus.

Psalms 32:3,4:

The Good News Bible: When I did not confess my sins, I was worn out from crying all day long. Day and night you punished me, Lord; my strength was completely drained, as moisture is dried up by the summer heat.

English Standard Version: For when I kept silent, my bones wasted away through my groaning all day long. For day and night your hand was heavy upon me; my strength was dried up as by the heat of summer.

King James Version: When I kept silence, my bones waxed old, Through my roaring all the day long. For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me: My moisture is turned into the drought of summer.

The Remedy: When I held onto my guilt and shame, refusing to talk to God, I stressed myself and my body decayed because every day I screamed "no" denying the truth. But day and night your healing hand pressed firmly upon me; my resistance evaporated, like water in the summer heat.

Do you see how the various translations differ because there is no agreement on the various Greek and Hebrew words or the best English translation for those words. Do you see how the law lens impacts the translations?

THURSDAY

The lesson is about EGW and Scripture. Some have really struggled with this—they question: is she a prophet, is she more than a prophet, is she just a Christian with a good heart etc. Many people have argued over such questions, but these are all false arguments.

Those who want to insist she had the gift of prophecy often do so because they approach Bible truth from a child's view, they want someone else in charge to tell them the answer, so they want EGW to have the prophetic gift so they can find quotes she wrote and use them as the final word. This shifts the responsibility away from them to become fully persuaded in their own mind, from exercising by practice their own ability to reason and think and weigh out the issues and come to their own conclusions. It is so much easier just to believe the person in authority—"the teacher said so" approach. Many people do this, whether with the Bible, the pastor, priest, pope or EGW. But it really misses the entire point.

The question of inspiration, to me, is cleared up very easily with some basic questions.

- Are spiritual things spiritually discerned?
- Which means that sinful human beings can only understand God's truths by the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit
- So, to the degree any human being speaks the truth about God it is only possible for them to do so by the enlightenment and working of the Holy Spirit in their hearts and minds. Whether it is Billy Graham, Martin Luther, or EGW. And all such writings must be compared to and tested by the Scripture, just as EGW said should be done with her writings. So to me the question of her gifting isn't relevant, the relevant question is whether what she wrote harmonizes with the Bible.
- Thus, her writings have value to the degree they speak the truth and harmonize with Scripture NOT BECAUSE SHE WROTE THEM.

A second point that has caused some confusion regarding EGW came up a few decades ago, when scholars discovered that within her writings are text that was copied from other sources. This led to the allegation of plagiarism. This caused a lot of confusion and some to lose confidence in what she wrote—but it really is quite simple.

Imagine you had a family member who was dying with a terminal illness. Your doctor didn't know what to do and hospice has been called in. You go online and find a medical journal in which a cure for your loved one's condition is described. In desperation, having nothing to lose, you give them the recommended remedy—and sure enough it works. They are cured and restored to health. Not only that, but over the next several decades millions of people with the same terminal condition who take the remedy described in the journal also are cured—in fact it has cured everyone who has taken it.

But then, scholars discover that the author of that journal article plagiarized it, copied it from another person. What would you do? Would you decide that the remedy was wrong? Or would you say, so what, it works.

The point is this, the only relevant question is whether it is true or not.

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 6
Why is Interpretation Needed

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read Memory Text: “But without faith it is impossible to please Him, for he who comes to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of those who diligently seek Him.” (Hebrews 11:6 NKJV)

What does this text mean?

Does it mean more than believing God exists and rewards those who seek Him?

James says: “You believe that there is one God. You do well. Even the demons believe—and tremble.” vs. 2:19 NKJV

It sounds like the demons believe God is, but they live in fear of Him. So, having faith is more than merely believing God exists, having faith means trusting in Him.

And why do you think the demons live in fear of God? Has God stopped loving them? Does God have a desire to harm them? If it were possible for God to heal the hearts and minds of the demons and restore them to righteousness would God do it? So, is God a being whom they actually need to fear?

No! Their fear is the inevitable result of sin, just like Adam and Eve, as soon as they sinned they ran and hid because they were afraid. God was for Adam and Eve, but they feared Him—why? Because of what sin does in the hearts and minds of sinners.

God presents truth to win to trust, but sinners are still free to accept or reject the truth. If one rejects the truth what is left for the mind to operate upon? Lies, and what happens in the mind when one clings to lies? They become more fearful and more selfish. Thus, the demons are deluded; they believe lies that God is the source of pain, suffer, torment, death and this is why they fear. Many humans do the same thing, they fear God who is trying to save them rather than fearing the sin in their own hearts and minds which is destroying them.

This is classic projection—project out of one's own heart one's own evil and blame it on another.

And when we conclude someone has it in for us, someone wants to punish us, or worse wants to torture and kill us, can we trust them?

This is the root of Satan's lie about God's law. Satan's lie that God's law is like human law, imposed rules, causes us to conceive of justice as inflicting just penalties for rule breaking; then we conceive of God as the one who inflicts those penalties; which ultimately means we can't trust God because God is violating the law of liberty. We create false theologies in which payments must be made to God to get Him not to kill us, to be protected from God—which is paganism.

The only way we can find harmony in Scripture in which the wages of sin is death, that there is a real penalty for sin, yet God is completely trustworthy and never the One from whom we need to be protected, is by returning to design law and worshipping the Creator God. When we realize that God's laws are the laws reality is built upon, we understand that life, health, happiness are only possible in harmony with those laws. Deviations are damaging and ultimately result in death unless healed by the Creator. In this reality we see God as the source of only good, health, life and we know that sin as the cause of pain, suffering and death. Thus, we can trust God completely because He is trustworthy.

We realize that Jesus's death was an absolute necessity for salvation, but not for legal reasons, but to win us to trust AND fix the damage done to this creation and procure the remedy to heal us.

Understanding design law gives insight into why human beings can be saved by Jesus and fallen angels cannot. Adam and Eve were deceived and their choice damaged them, but not beyond healing. Lucifer and the angels who fell with him persisted in their rebellion in heaven until they had destroyed the faculties responsive to truth and love—they were beyond healing. Here is one such explanation, by one of the founders of the SDA church:

> God in His great mercy bore long with Lucifer. He was not immediately degraded from his exalted station when he first indulged the spirit of discontent, nor even when he began to present his false claims before the loyal angels. [Why not immediately degraded? Because sin damages slowly, it isn't a legal removal by the authority in charge. There was still opportunity for Lucifer to be cured and healed. But notice, Lucifer in this context is already bearing false witness—this is transgression of the law. Consider what this author describes next.] Long was he retained in heaven. Again and again he was offered pardon on condition of repentance and submission. [Pardon on the condition of what? No blood payment, no death penalty, no payment or appeasement or propitiation of any kind—what was required? That Lucifer's heart change and be restored to truth and love—healing was required.] Such efforts as only infinite love and wisdom could devise were made to convince him of his error.[Truth and love were waging with lies and selfishness] The spirit of discontent had never before been known in heaven. Lucifer himself did not at first see whither he was drifting; he did not understand the real nature of his feelings. But as his dissatisfaction was proved to be without cause, Lucifer was convinced that he was in the wrong, that the divine claims were just, and that he ought to acknowledge them as such before all heaven. Had he done this, he might have saved himself and many angels. He had not at this time fully cast off his allegiance to God. [He knew the truth, and his heart was not fully hardened against God yet. He could have chosen to repent and submit. But he didn't] Though he had forsaken his position as covering cherub, yet if he had been willing to return to God, acknowledging the Creator's wisdom, and satisfied to fill the place appointed him in God's great plan, he would have been reinstated in his office. [Notice God wouldn't have even required him to be removed from office, no punishment of any kind would have been inflicted upon Lucifer—why? Because God's laws are design laws it is all about healing, no punishment is required. It is Satan's lie that sin must be punished. God's truth is that sin must be eradicated, removed, purged, healed, cured.] But pride forbade him to submit. He persistently defended his own course, maintained that he had no need of repentance, and fully committed himself, in the great controversy, against his Maker. [And what happens in the mind of those who reject truth and cling to lies? This is why Satan cannot be saved. Consider the following quote.] GC 495.3

But even as a sinner, man was in a different position from that of Satan. [What was different between the two? Was this about geography? No it was about the position of enlightenment and understanding of the truth about God.] Lucifer in heaven had sinned in the light of God's glory. To him as to no other created being was given a revelation of God's love. Understanding the character of God, knowing His goodness, Satan chose to follow his own selfish, independent will. This choice was final. There was no more that God could do to save him. [Why was there no more? Was Jesus unwilling to give His life to save Lucifer? No, that was not the problem—Jesus would have, but it would have done no good as Lucifer already rejected the truth about God's character and methods of love and such truth would have no impact. Satan had changed himself, destroying within himself the very faculties that respond to love and truth. Notice how mankind was in a different position than Lucifer.] But man was deceived; his mind was darkened by Satan's sophistry. The height and depth of the love of God he did not know. For him there was hope in a knowledge of God's love. By beholding His character he might be drawn back to God. [Where is our hope? Being drawn back to God by beholding His character of love. This is why Jesus said the truth will set you free—free from fear of God, free to trust Him, and why Jesus said if we have seen Him we have seen the Father. The lies of Satan are refuted and in trust we open the heart and experience the victory of Christ, such that we receive new hearts and motives—becoming partaker of the divine nature as Jesus shares His perfect human character with us.] DA 761.5

So, why is it impossible to please God without trust? Because trust is what opens our hearts to His Spirit, to be healed, to be transformed. God is not pleased with good task performance while His children die of their terminal condition; God is pleased when we trust Him such that He can heal us from our terminal sin-condition.

SUNDAY

The lesson title is Presuppositions, and points out that all of us have our biases, histories, assumptions, life experiences that impact how we see the world including how we read Scripture. Learning how to examine our own biases and change them is one of the signs of the mature.

Graham Maxwell used to use the acronym FOTAP—the Fallacy Of The Assumed Premise. Assuming something to be true that is not true deceives and we draw the wrong conclusions.

During the current COVID pandemic I have pointed this out many time. If you have listened carefully to Drs. Fauci and Birx as they have given their projections of potential deaths, they have repeatedly said. “The models are only as good as the assumptions they are based upon.”

What this means is that the models and projections are not based on facts, but are based on assumptions drawn from facts.

Here are the facts:

- The virus, SARS-CoV-2, that causes COVID-19 exists
- SARS-CoV-2 is contagious
- COVID-19 does cause some to become gravely ill and die

But the rate of transmission, the virulence—how lethal it actually is— and what percent of people in a population will die if not treated are all assumptions. There has been no hard data to base the models upon, that is why the models at one point suggested over 2 million people in the USA may die, then 1 million, then 200,000, then 100,000 and now less than that.

Situations like the current COVID pandemic are also perfect ground for good and evil to manifest:

Good—people who willingly put themselves in harm’s way to help others such as healthcare workers, and people who willingly sacrifice to help others from being willing to socially distance, to not working, not hoarding, and sharing what they have, even giving up life-saving treatments so others can be saved. We have seen love being manifested.

Evil—hoarding, exploiting, price-gouging, not caring for anyone but themselves and seeking to take advantage. Including using the situation to advance unrelated causes. Seeking to take away liberties—remember freedom is one of God's design laws and encroachment of liberty always incites rebellion. Using the situation to vilify or malign others. We have seen evil being manifested.

Such situations as this have no absolute right or wrong answer—decision making is a risk-benefit analysis that has consequences regardless of which course one takes:

- If the economy closes or remains closed a certain period there are consequences and some people will be harmed
- If the economy never closes or opens at a certain date there are consequences and some people will be harmed.

Because of this reality—it is the perfect ground for those who want to divide, who want to incite anger, hostility, and conflict. People who are uniters will seek to validate the difficulty in making such decisions and support those making decisions identifying their good motives, but dividers will use the situation to incite division.

This also goes back to level of maturity—the mature have grown to be able to make difficult decisions, like physicians in an ER, weighing risks and benefits. But the immature get overwhelmed with complex decision-making and want someone else to tell them what to do, but then if the outcome isn't just what they wanted they will often become angry and attack the one who made the decision.

Assumptions make a big difference in any field of study and in all our decision-making.

In science, assumptions cause faulty conclusions, particularly when it comes to origin of life science, the science of how life began on planet earth.

Here is a partial list of assumptions that corrupt the conclusions that lead scientists to teach the godless theory that life began on earth over billions of years all on its own:

- There is no God
- It is possible for physical matter to organize itself without intelligent input
- Carbon 14 in the atmosphere is at the same concentration today as it was thousands of years ago
- There was no worldwide flood
- There was no water layer above the earth
- Radio decay of isotopes is constant and doesn't change (we now have evidence that solar flares change the rate of radio decay, so if the Bible account of the Sun shining brighter before the flood is true it potentially could impact radio decay rates impacting how we date things)
- Advancement of species occurs through mutation of the genetic code

Every one of these assumptions are not proven facts and are not supported by the evidence, thus when people who hold them view facts, such as a fossil with a certain measurable amount of carbon 14, they interpret the meaning through a false premises and come to false conclusions.

This happens all the time in the godless origin sciences.

What about in theology, what are some of the false premises in Christianity that have corrupted the truth about God?

- #1 is God's law functions like human law, many others are a direct consequence of this assumption
- Justice requires God to punish sin
- Since sin must be punished and someone has to pay the penalty therefore Jesus came to take our punishment
- God in order to be just punished Jesus in our place, therefore God killed Jesus on the cross
- God created human beings in Eden with immortality so that no matter what happens, saved or lost they cannot die
- Jesus is not fully God
- There is no Holy Spirit

All of these premises or assumptions, when accepted, undermine our ability to trust God because they undermine the truth of God's character and trustworthiness. They also, undermine our intelligent understanding of God and what He is trying to accomplish and thus limit our ability to participate with Him.

Recently, I have again received emails from people who are being confronted by those who advance the position that there is no Trinity, that there is no Holy Spirit as a separate individuality, that the Holy Spirit is merely the Father's presence.

Understand this is an attack on the character of God. If you would like a full exploration of the Bible texts and evidences for the Triune God, Father, Son and Holy Spirit all with their own unique identity and individuality and all being fully God, then go to our website comeandreason.com and type TRINITY into the search engine. I am not going to go over the many Bible texts that evidence this truth, it is on the website.

To me the most important truth is understanding God's design law and nature. The Bible says, "God is love." 1John 4:8. Further the Bible teaches that this love is "not self-seeking." 1Corithians 13:5. Love is outward moving, other-centered.

Therefore, God, being love, could not be love in isolation because love requires an object to pour itself upon. Love is other-centered! If we make the argument that at some point in eternity past there was a time in which God existed as a singularity then at that point in time God is something other than love.

God's nature and character of love, rightly understood, is the most powerful argument for the plurality of God. We see this in the creation of humankind, "let US make man in OUR image…" He created "them male and female" and the "two shall become one" united in a triune relationship – husband, wife and God indwelling their hearts via His Spirit!

The least number we can have and still have truly other-centered love is three. With two we can have narcissistic self-reinforcement. I have seen this in couples when they both adore each other and everything is fine, until the first child comes along and the mother gives more time and attention to the child and the husband becomes jealous and begins to complain. He didn't really love, he loved what he got from her, not what he could give to her or his child.

Satan seeks to destroy the truth about the plurality of the Godhead because it undermines the truth about God's character of love and, in so doing, places an obstacle to the only healing remedy for sin: God's "perfect love [that] casts out all fear." As we see the truth about God, as revealed in Jesus, the lies about Him are removed and we are won to trust and in that trust He pours His love (Himself) into our hearts (Romans 5:5) and we are transformed to be like Him! And it is the Holy Spirit that is the agency which operates in our hearts to achieve this healing—thus to deny the Spirit obstructs the healing agency of God.

One of the founders of the SDA church, who understood design law and God's character and methods of love wrote the following:

> In describing to His disciples the office work of the Holy Spirit, Jesus sought to inspire them with the joy and hope that inspired His own heart. He rejoiced because of the abundant help He had provided for His church. The Holy Spirit was the highest of all gifts that He could solicit from His Father for the exaltation of His people. The Spirit was to be given as a regenerating agent, and without this the sacrifice of Christ would have been of no avail. [Why? Because our problem is not a legal one. If it was a legal one then Jesus's perfect sacrifice was made and we could claim it to pay our debt in the courts of heaven without the Holy Spirit. But this wasn't the problem, the problem with sin is how it changes and destroys us. We must be won to trust so that we will open the heart to God and allow the Spirit in to change and heal us.] The power of evil had been strengthening for centuries, and the submission of men to this satanic captivity was amazing. Sin could be resisted and overcome only through the mighty agency of the Third Person of the Godhead, [this author identifies the Holy Spirit as the Third Person of the Godhead—I agree] who would come with no modified energy, but in the fullness of divine power. It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer. [Why? Because what Jesus wrought out, a perfect human character is only effectual in living beings, and we cannot make our hearts renewed, it is the Spirit of God indwelling us that renews us, makes Christ's victory ours—we become partakers of the divine nature.] It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the > divine nature. Christ has given His Spirit as a divine power to overcome all hereditary and cultivated tendencies to evil, and to impress His own character upon His church. {DA 671.2}

> There are three living persons of the heavenly trio; in the name of these three great powers--the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit-- those who receive Christ by living faith are baptized, and these powers will co-operate with the obedient subjects of heaven in their efforts to live the new life in Christ.-- Evangelism, p. 615. {7ABC 441.9}

The lesson points out that the disciples had a wrong understanding of the coming Messiah. They were looking for someone to throw off the Romans and rule from an earthly throne.

Where did the disciples get these wrong ideas about the coming Messiah? Did the wrong ideas come from Scripture?

Well this leads to another premise, which the lesson pointed out last week as false, but many still operate under:

- Spiritual enlightenment requires a theological education
- Or, we must be told by a church leader what the Bible means
- Or, the Bible can only be rightly understood on its own divorced from science and real-life experiences

I have had certain church leaders reject what we teach for the reason that they have a degree in theology and I do not, therefore their degree in theology makes them the authority.

Notice that such an argument is not based on truth, or evidence, or facts, or reason, or Scripture, but upon authority of office—such a conclusion is to be rejected. But this way of thinking has been around for a long time and it was part of the problem with the disciples. They thought that the Scribes and Pharisees were the authority on church matters and thus deferred their conclusions to what the church leaders taught and believed what they said.

How many Christians do the same thing today?

In the Old Testament, who were the ones at the forefront of leading the people away from God?

> The priests did not ask, 'Where is the Lord?' Those who deal with the law did not know me; the leaders rebelled against me. The prophets prophesied by Baal, following worthless idols. (Jeremiah 2:8).

Jesus as a child did not get his education at the church schools—the schools of the prophets—why not? One Bible commentator gives insight:

> In the days of Christ the Jews gave much care to the education of their children. Their schools were connected with the synagogues, or places of worship, and the teachers were called rabbis, men who were supposed to be very learned. {The Story of Jesus 30.3}
> Jesus did not go to these schools, for they taught many things that were not true. Instead of God's Word, the sayings of men were studied, and often these were contrary to that which God had taught through His prophets. {SJ 30.4}

As an adult Christ said to the theologians of His day:

> "Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You travel over land and sea to win a single convert, and when he becomes one, you make him twice as much a son of hell as you are. (Matthew 23:15).

When Christ selected His twelve Apostles, upon which He built the church, how many had formal theological training? None, they were fisherman, and a tax collector—regular people. Why didn't Christ pick at least one person with a seminary degree to be among the original twelve? Here is one Bible commentary explanation:

> The work of Jesus was to reveal the character of the Father, and to unfold the truth which He Himself had spoken through prophets and apostles; but there was found no place for the truth in those wise and prudent men. Christ, the Way, the Truth, and the Life, had to pass by the self-righteous Pharisees, and take his disciples from unlearned fishers and men of humble rank. These who had never been to the rabbis, who > had never sat in the schools of the prophets, who had not been members of the Sanhedrin, whose hearts were not bound about with their own ideas,--these He took and educated for His own use. He could make them as new bottles for the new wine of His kingdom. These were the babes to whom the Father could reveal spiritual things; but the priests and rulers, the scribes and Pharisees, who claimed to be the depositaries of knowledge, could give no room for the principles of Christianity, afterward taught by the apostles of Christ. The chain of truth, link after link, was given to those who realized their own ignorance, and were willing to learn of the great Teacher. {5BC 1088.9}

And through the Dark Ages it was the same; theologians opposed the advancing light of heavenly truth, and worked to keep the traditions and teachings that darkened minds and obstructed the work of God's kingdom.

Now, let's be very clear: It is also true that God has had His great theologians throughout history, but almost always they had to unlearn the conclusions their theological training taught them in order to move God's cause forward. Paul, the only theologian of the Apostles, had to undo his formal training with a three-year personal study program with God in the desert. Martin Luther, the great reformer, likewise had to cast off his formal theological indoctrination in order to become a beacon of God's truth. And, in every successive reformation and advancement in truth the advancement rarely if ever starts with those holding theology degrees, but with humble people who love God and honestly study His word.

Does this mean those with theological education cannot be men and women of God – absolutely not. We must remember, Paul, Luther, Nicodemus, Joseph of Arimathea, and many other good, godly men and women throughout history. The point is similar to my experience during my psychiatric residency. Education changes a person; the mind can be shaped by the education one receives. Psychiatric residency is highly biased toward agnostic or godless understandings of humanity and thus many an individual who enters residency believing in God leave no longer a believer. I had to study two hours in God's word for every hour I studied psychiatric theory to remain grounded in God's truth.

Most theology programs are highly biased to imposed law views of God and many church traditions. Thus theological education can bias those who get the degree into legal views of God and His government.

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, “But, as any good…” This is exactly correct, all translations paraphrase because there is no word for word exact translation. Some do it more than others, but they all do it. The real question is whether the meaning is accurate and the truth comes through.

The lesson points out that we don’t need to know the original languages to understand essential Bible truths—this is also true.

The key is understanding God’s law, once you understand God’s law as design law, these laws become lines of protection that your interpretations stay within.

As I said last week, the most important aspect to understand in Bible translation, given the lexicons available today, is the truth about God’s character of love, His design laws and the Great Controversy. Without this, just relying on the Bible text people weave in all kinds of wrong ideas based on imposed law.

Consider Psalms 137:8,9:

> O Daughter of Babylon, doomed to destruction, > happy is he who repays you > for what you have done to us—> he who seizes your infants > and dashes them against the rocks. NIV84
> Babylon, you will be destroyed.
> Happy are those who pay you back > for what you have done to us-> who take your babies > and smash them against a rock. GNT

> O people of Babylon, who cling to selfishness, you are doomed to destruction!
> Happy are those who are finished with you, just as you deserve; > who have weaned themselves from you.
> Happy are they who take your children > to fall upon the Rock and be broken. The Remedy

The first two don't have in mind the Great Controversy over God's character of love and don't seem to understand the nature of sin, and don't have in mind design law. When those elements come into our understanding—with the belief that the Holy Spirit was inspiring the Bible writers, then we understand a deeper truth is being communicated.

TUESDAY

The lesson points out that if we try to understand the Bible with today's cultural norms we will likely draw false conclusions.

Read first paragraph, "A background…" This is well said, and so true, sadly though, it is very rare for me to hear this truth put into application in sermons and Bible teachings. All too often, I hear people taking Bible stories and texts in which God is described as doing something He permitted as proof that God is the source of inflicted punishment.

This happens because of multiple false assumptions:

- God's law works like human law
- Our culture and Bible culture are the same so if the Bible describes God doing it then God is doing it

Read second paragraph, "Culture also raises…" If one has a rules-approach to the Bible then this is very difficult, but if one has a design law approach this is quite easy.

Rules approach means the Bible is a guidebook of the right rules, listing the deeds to be done and sins to be shunned. We must study to find the right rules and the right way to keep the rules. This method of thinking and approaching the Bible is one of the reasons there are so many divisions.

Some believe it is important to keep all the directives found in the OT, including the Levitical law. Others believe those rules were replaced with new rules. Some believe that the church has the authority to determine the rules, others believe the Bible sets its rules and we can only discover those rules, we can't change them.

Those who operate upon principles—the protocols upon which God built reality to operate—understand any rules given were tools to help the immature by protecting, teaching, and leading, but the rules are not needed for the mature.

> We know that the law is good if one uses it properly. We also know that law is made not for the righteous but for lawbreakers and rebels, the ungodly and sinful, the unholy and irreligious; for those who kill their fathers or mothers, for murderers, for adulterers and perverts, for slave traders and liars and perjurers—and for whatever else is contrary to the sound doctrine that conforms to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, which he entrusted to me. (1Timothy 1:8-11 NIV84)

The written law was not given as a means of salvation, but merely as a tool to expose spiritual disease, convict or diagnose us and lead us to Jesus for healing.

From The Remedy

> We know that the written law is a diagnostic instrument for the soul, and it is good if used properly. We also know that this diagnostic tool was not made for the spiritually healthy, but for those who are selfish in character, those who are spiritually diseased, who don't know God, who don't love others but kill their fathers and mothers, the ill at heart, murderers, sexual perverts and adulterers, human traffickers, liars, deceivers, and for everyone and everything else that is out of harmony with God's design for life or doesn't harmonize with the incredible truth about God's character of love that he has entrusted me to share.

Read the last three paragraphs, “Though God spoke to specific…” What did you hear? “The same principle applies…” A principle is a design law, not a rule.

They use the example of algebra—algebra is governed by mathematical laws that do not change.

So, the point the lesson is making is that we can only rightly understand Scripture when we reject the rules-oriented approach and understand it through design law!

WEDNESDAY

What is meant by our sinful and fallen nature?

Are we to blame, is it our individual fault that we have a sinful fallen nature?

Did we have a choice at any time to never have a sinful fallen nature? What are the core attributes of a sinful fallen nature? Fear and selfishness—when did these attributes enter humanity? When did you first experience these drives?

How do we come into possession of a sinful fallen nature? By birth—Ps 51:5 born in sin conceived in iniquity.

Why are we born with a sinful fallen nature rather than being born without one?

Is this a legal issue or a state of being?

Were Adam and Eve capable of having children with natures different from what they possessed? When we understand reality, we realize that Adam and Eve could only pass on what they possessed—once they corrupted themselves they could only pass on corruption. This is why Jesus became human—to fix the damage Adam did to this creation.

If God doesn’t hold us accountable for having a fallen nature, what are we held accountable for? For rejecting the remedy Jesus procured that will cure us. Oswald Chambers put it this way:

> The Bible does not say that God punished the human race for one man's sin, but that the nature of sin, namely, my claim to my right to myself, [selfishness] entered into the human race through one man. But it also says that another Man took upon Himself the sin of the human race and put it away — an infinitely more profound revelation…
> Sin is something I am born with and cannot touch— only God touches sin through redemption. It is through the Cross of Christ that God redeemed the entire human race from the possibility of damnation through the heredity of sin. God nowhere holds a person responsible for having the heredity of sin, and does not condemn anyone because of it. Condemnation comes when I realize that Jesus Christ came to deliver me from this heredity of sin, and yet I refuse to let Him do so. From that moment I begin to get the seal of damnation. "This is the condemnation [and the critical moment], that the light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light . . . " (John 3:19) Oswald Chambers, My Utmost for His Highest, http://utmost.org

We are held accountable for refusing the remedy to our condition, not having the condition.

How does our condition impact our understanding of Scripture? By causing us to view it in ways that keep fear and selfishness alive—and nothing does that more effectively than the penal legal substitution theology.

The imposed law lie inflames fear and teaches the grossest of lies about God and our situation. It teaches that we get legal adjustment of our status in books of heaven where God will declare us to be righteous even though we are not. It teaches us to accept that our fallen state is corrupt and there is nothing to do except claim legal adjustment while we continue to sin. Thus, this false legal theology keeps distrust of God alive and keeps selfishness alive in the hearts of so-called believers.

The last paragraph states, "we should approach the Bible in faith and submission and not with an attitude of criticism and doubt. Pride, self-deception, and doubt lead to an attitude of distance toward God and the Bible that surely will lead to disobedience, that is, an unwillingness to follow God's revealed will."

Faith in what? Faith in God? Faith in the Bible? Faith in the church's teaching about the Bible? Faith in what the pastor tells you the Bible means? Faith in what?

What is our faith in God to be based upon? Does God want us to believe and have faith in Him because He says so?

Does Satan want us to have faith in Satan—in false gods? Upon what does Satan want us to base our faith? How is what Satan wants different than what God wants?

- Who wants us to believe based on claims and who wants us to base our faith on truth?
- Who wants us to believe without reasoning and who wants us to reason and think for ourselves?
- Who wants us to claim we have faith so we don't need evidence and wants us to look for evidence?
- Who wants us to trust in emotions and powerful feelings, and who wants us to choose truth, evidence, facts and reality despite the powerful feelings—consider Gethsemane as an example.
- Who wants us to believe or have faith based on what someone else in authority says and who wants us to have faith because we are fully persuaded in our own minds? (Romans 14:5)
- Who wants us to simply follow what we are told—the Bible said it I believe it that settles it, and who wants us to grow up to think for ourselves? (Heb 5:14)

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "The most important question in the Bible…" No doubt this is a very important question, but where does it fit in regard to the questions about God Himself? Is the central issue in the war about my salvation, or is it about the knowledge of God?

Is there any concern about making the most important question to us about our salvation? Is there any danger in making salvation another way of promoting selfishness?

How much of Christianity is focused on what we must do to be sure we get what we want—eternal life and rewards? How much of Christianity teaches that we can do all kinds of sins as long as we get them properly legally dealt with, or get the church to absolve us—after all the most important question is about our salvation?

But what about Moses when God spoke about starting over with Moses's family—was Moses's primary concern with his own salvation or was Moses willing to sacrifice his eternal life for another cause? What was that cause?

Did Moses love the people more than God loved them? Was Moses wrong to be not think of his own salvation first?

What about Paul when he said he would gladly give his life that his fellow Jews might be saved, was Paul's primary concern with his own salvation? Was Paul wrong not to make his own salvation the most important question?

Shouldn't the most important question be, "Do we know God?" When we genuinely know God, not about Him, but know Him in trusting relationship—this does result in eternal life (John 17:3), but our primary concern is not about our eternal life. When we really know God, we stop worrying about our eternal life, because we trust God with our life. We know Him and know how trustworthy He is, and appreciate His character, methods, government, kingdom so much, we can say like Jesus on the cross, "Father into your hands I commit my spirit." In other words, we can say, "God, while I love you and want to be in heaven, I trust you with my life and if you know that the universe will be better without me, it's okay, don't bring me, just let me be useful to your cause."

Read last paragraph, "The issue of interpretation…" this is classic level four misunderstanding of reality and the false assumption that causes so much lack of unity in the church.

Their position is that we must study the Bible to get the correct doctrines so we can all come to a unity of cognitive understanding of the right ways to interpret

Scripture, the right rules that we are required to obey and the right way to obey those rules. This is a grand falsehood from level four thinking and trying to read Scripture through the lie that God's law functions like human law.

When we come to the truth of design law then we experience unity of heart, motive, love for God and each other, thus we live to bless others, we are trustworthy, we don't exploit, don't deceive, don't harm others, we celebrate the successes of others and we have unity of heart motive and God's principles even if we are baptized in different ways, go to church on different days, and sing different songs.

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 7
Language, Text and Context

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first two paragraphs, "More than 6,000 languages are spoken…" What does this mean? This entire quarterly has been helping us understand how important the Bible is. We agree that the Bible is God's inspired Word, useful for teaching, rebuking correcting and training in righteousness. No question about it.

But the lesson has, in various places, made the point that the Bible must be used alone, by itself as our source of truth and knowledge of God, as our basis for salvation. We at Come and Reason have challenged this idea and shown that the Scripture itself teaches that God has provided three threads of evidence to reveal the truth about Himself—Scripture, Science/Nature and Experience—and it is by harmonizing these three we have the most reliable truth.

Think about the two positions—Scripture alone versus, Scripture, nature and experiences of life combined, and then consider what the first two paragraphs in the lesson today have pointed out.

There are 1.5 billion people in the world today (this doesn't count all those people throughout human history) that do not have a Bible in their language. If the Bible is the only source of truth that we can use to find God and salvation, then is the position the lesson takes would suggesting that all these people without hope? Is that right? Is God only able to reach and save people who have had the Bible translated into their language? Or, who at least have had someone speak the Bible to them in their language?

What about the people who lived on earth before Moses wrote the first five books of the Bible—are those people without hope? Obviously not, as we have the record of Enoch walking with God and being translated into heaven—but Enoch never had a Bible to read—how could this happen? Because Enoch had real life experience with God.

Now, we never want to undermine the Bible as God's inspired word, but when we realize how reality works, then we can reject the idea that the Bible is the sole and exclusive source of truth that God uses to reach people. Then we will return to reality—God has three threads of truth, Scripture, nature, experience. Thus, we read about this very question of God reaching people who have not had the Scriptures starting in Romans 1:20:

> For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse….NIV84

First point Paul makes is that the truth about God may be understood from nature, not only from Scripture. Paul is making the point that it is not an excuse for those who have not had the benefit of Scripture. He goes on in the next few verses to describe how despite the evidence from nature about God, they reject this truth and preferred images made by their own hands.

And Paul describes the law of worship in action—a design law, how worshipping idols degrades the mind and character. This is the natural result of violating the law of worship and worshipping the created rather than the Creator.

Then, having established the truth of God in nature, having established the reality of design law, Paul makes this incredible point starting in chapter 2:12:

> All who sin apart from the law [Torah—Scripture] will also perish apart from the law, and all who sin under the law will be judged by the law. 13 For it is not those who hear the law who are righteous in God's sight, but it is those who obey the law who will be declared righteous. 14 (Indeed, when Gentiles, who do not have the law, do by nature things required by the law, they are a law for themselves, even though they do not have the law, 15 since they show that the requirements of the law are written on their hearts, their consciences also bearing witness, and their thoughts now accusing, now even defending them.) NIV84

What is the new covenant described in Hebrews 8? Writing the law on the hearts and minds of people. And what does Paul say happens to these people who do by nature the things contained in the Torah—the law? They have had God's law written in their hearts and minds—these people are part of the new covenant, the saved of God—yet they have never heard Scripture. How is this possible? Because they have learned the truth about God's character and methods from nature and have responded to the principles of God's kingdom as evidenced in nature and have experienced the healing of the Holy Spirit renewing them with the Remedy Christ procured.

But those who say that Scripture is our only source of truth deny the very Scripture that they claim to believe, because the Scripture teaches that some to the saving truth about God via what God has revealed about Himself in nature.

One of the founders of the SDA church, who understood design law wrote:

> Those whom Christ commends in the judgment may have known little of theology, but they have cherished His principles. Through the influence of the divine Spirit they have been a blessing to those about them. Even among the heathen are those who have cherished the spirit of kindness; before the words of life had fallen upon their ears, they have befriended the missionaries, even ministering to them at the peril of their own lives. Among the heathen are those who worship God ignorantly, those to whom the light is never brought by human instrumentality, yet they will not perish. Though ignorant of the written law of God, they have heard His voice speaking to them in nature, and have done the things that the law required. [Do the things the law required? Do you think they were baptized? Do you think they paid tithe? Do you think they partook communion service? Do you think they kept

> Sabbath? Do you think they at the right diet? Yet This author says they did the things that the law required. Paul says the law is written on their heart—what kind of law—the principles of life—the law of love, truth, freedom!] Their works are evidence that the Holy Spirit has touched their hearts, and they are recognized as the children of God. {DA 638.2}

God is the Creator and His character is revealed in what He has made. This is exciting, it is beautiful and it makes sense. It gives us resources to understand Scripture accurately—God's testable design laws—so that we won't be deceived by myths and superstitious teachings made up by people.

But, this truth in no way undermines our confidence in Scripture. Scripture is inspired by God and is trustworthy to lead us into all the truth necessary for salvation. So we never want to undermine the purpose, value or trustworthiness of Scripture. We do want to undermine interpretations that teach Scripture contradicts reality and God's revelations of Himself in His other threads of evidence.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Bible was written as a witness…" Again—I want to validate the Bible as God's inspired Word, trustworthy and reliable to lead us into all truth necessary for salvation.

I want to validate the Bible as a historical document that does record eye-witness testimony to events of human history and God's dealing with the sin problem. So, it does stand as a witness to God's work in history. And we should value that witness, absolutely.

But, I have a question—what is more valuable evidence, the witness testimony to a work, act, or event, or the work, act, or event itself? Another way to ask it is, what gives eye witness testimony greater veracity? Wouldn't it be direct corroborating evidence?

To the degree we have direct evidence (and we don't have direct evidence for all the acts of God such as Daniel and the lion's den and many of the other valuable stories, therefore we are so blessed and thankful for the history of what God has done that is recorded in Scripture), but to the degree we do have direct evidence in nature and life experiences of God's works, acts, and the events of history, they give greater veracity to the witness of Scripture and increase our confidence in the portions of Scripture with no direct corroborating evidence.

Remember the woman at the well who spoke with Jesus and then went home and told her neighbors about Jesus, we read from John 4:39-42:

> Many of the Samaritans from that town believed in him [Jesus] because of the woman's testimony, "He told me everything I ever did." So when the Samaritans came to him, they urged him to stay with them, and he stayed two days. And because of his words many more became believers. They said to the woman, "We no longer believe just because of what you said; now we have heard for ourselves, and we know that this man really is the Savior of the world."

What is described here? Her testimony, her witness, led them to seek Jesus for themselves, and they shifted their belief from being based on her witness to their own experience with Jesus. But their own experience with Jesus did not contradict or invalidate her testimony, but it superseded it—it was more powerful, more authoritative than her testimony because it was direct evidence.

Likewise, the testimony of Scripture is powerful—but isn't the testimony of Scripture to lead us to our own personal experience with God, God's methods, God's laws, the outcomes in our own lives of applying God's laws, of trusting Him, and examining nature for ourselves and the evidences God has provided there? And when we do this, do these evidences undermine our confidence in the witness of Scripture? Absolutely NOT! Because all the truth confirms the testimony of Scripture we value it more!

However, let me be very clear, this approach will result in our rejecting the false traditions of religious systems, the made-up theories of people. It will result in cleansing our minds from the lies taught about God in many religious circles and thus the Scripture becomes clearer to us. However, those who hold theology degrees or church leadership positions and still cling to the false theories will accuse us of rejecting the Scripture or undermining the Scripture if we reject their theories. This is exactly how the church leaders treated Jesus and the Apostles and the Reformers.

What I am saying about how we value Scripture and how we present God's kingdom, is how Jesus taught God's truths, by parables and real-life examples demonstrating how God's design laws work in reality, which are the way Scripture is to be understood.

So, our challenge is to continually integrate Scripture with reality, understanding it through the lens of God's design laws, as we do, the Bible becomes more and more accurately understood and we free our minds from the human myths that have crept in over the millennia.

Read the last paragraph, "Some people not only have the Bible translated…" What do you think of this idea we are to "obey what it teaches"?

I suspect many of you would agree—but isn't there a lot of disagreement among good-hearted people as to what the Bible teaches? Is there disagreement as to what applies and what doesn't, what we are to obey and what we are not to obey?

Does it make a difference whether we read Scripture through imposed law versus design law lenses in regard to what and how we are to obey?

What Bible instructions are we to obey? Consider the following Bible instructions—are we to obey these today because they are in the Bible? And, if we are to obey them, then how are we to obey them? And if you decide that some are to be obeyed and some are not, what is the criteria? If we don't obey some of this Bible commands, then does that mean we have supplanted the Bible with human reason? In other words, are we supposed to think about what the Bible commands and reason through its meaning and whether it applies and how it applies, or are we supposed to simple say, "The Bible said it, I must obey it?"

Here is a partial list of specific Bible commands from God:

- Do not eat or drink blood (Genesis 9:4, Leviticus 17:10).
- Do not eat leavened bread (bread with yeast) during the Feast of Unleavened Bread (Exodus 12:15). This year that was April 8-16, 2020—how many of you at bread with yeast during those days? Are you obeying the Scripture?
- Do not eat animal fat (Leviticus 3:17). The text actually reads: 'This is a lasting ordinance for the generations to come, wherever you live: You must not eat any fat or any blood.'" NIV84—
    - Does this apply or not apply?
    - Do you apply the blood part and reject the fat part?
    - Do you read it literally as a stand-alone text and then conclude no milk, cheese, butter or any product such as cakes, cookies, breads that use anything with animal fat?
    - Or, do you read it in the context of animal sacrifice and apply it only to the internal body fat of the animal and not other animal fats such as milk fat?
- Do not eat pork (Leviticus 11:7–8).
- Do not eat aquatic creatures lacking fins or scales (Deuteronomy 14:9-10).
- Do not eat any meat not killed according to the Kosher practice (Deuteronomy 12:21).
- Buy fermented wine with tithe money and rejoice at church (Deuteronomy 14:24-26)
- If male, you must be circumcised (Genesis 17:14).
- Do not worship idols (Exodus 22:20, Leviticus 20:1-5, Deuteronomy 17:2-7).
- Do not blaspheme (Leviticus 24:14-16,23).
- Do not consult a psychic or spiritualist (Leviticus 19:31).
- Do not break the Sabbath (Exodus 31:14, Numbers 15:32-36). But what does that mean? Do we need a list? Is swimming okay? Is riding a horse? What about saddling a horse? What about driving a car, or pushing an elevator button?
- Do not perform any work on the Sabbath (Exodus 20:10). Do we need to tie our handkerchief to our clothing lest it be considered work to carry it on Sabbath? What about fireman, should they all refuse to work on Sabbath? What about the people who work for the utility companies, should they all refuse to work on Sabbath?
    - I remember in med school having an orthodox Jewish man on my surgical team. One Friday night we came out of a surgery into the doctor's lounge and the TV was on. This fellow asked me to change the channel so he could watch a Memphis State basketball game. He asked me to change the channel because it was Sabbath and he wasn't allowed to change the channel as that would be creating a spark which was starting a fire, which he wasn't allowed to do on the Sabbath, but he could watch the game if I changed the channel. Are we thankful for all the non-believers who work on Sabbath so that our society won't fall apart?
    - Do we take Sabbath keeping as a rule prohibiting all work, as something that applies only to the Jews, as a principle that applies to not working for ourselves, but work in service of others is okay?

- One of the positions that we at Come and Reason have taken is that the Sabbath is a sign, an evidence, of God's kingdom and methods of love—of design law government. Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. We have asked, if you sin on the Sabbath have you made the Sabbath less holy? If you do righteousness on the Sabbath have you made it more holy? Do our actions in any way impact the holiness of the Sabbath? So are we keeping the Sabbath holy or ourselves holy? And can we keep ourselves holy only one day in seven? So, the Sabbath was made for man—as a sign, flag, reminder, evidence to us that all week we are thinking Remember the Sabbath day—what it reveals—Our God is real, the Creator of Heaven and Earth. He is love and His kingdom is the kingdom of love and operates on design law. So, live in harmony with God's kingdom and principles all week long. We have taught this for some time.
- This week one of our online listeners—and I don't know who it was as this was forwarded to me—sent the following quote from EGW that I had never seen before: "All through the week we are to have the Sabbath in mind and be making preparation to keep it according to the commandment. We are not merely to observe the Sabbath as a legal matter. We are to understand its spiritual bearing upon all the transactions of life. All who regard the Sabbath as a sign between them and God*, showing that He is the God who sanctifies them,* will represent the principles of His government*.* They will bring into daily practice the laws of His kingdom*. Daily it will be their prayer that the sanctification of the Sabbath may rest upon them. Every day they will have the companionship of Christ,* and will exemplify the perfection of His character*. Every day their light will shine forth to others in good works."* 6T 353

- You must not ignore the judgment of a judge or a priest (Deuteronomy 17:8-13). When Jesus and the Apostles didn't to follow the judgments to of the priests were they refusing to obey the Bible? Should Martin Luther have listened to the priests of his day? Are we to obey this instruction from the Bible?
- Do not strike your parents (Exodus 21:15).
- Do not curse your parents (Exodus 21:17, Leviticus 20:9).
- Do not be a stubborn, rebellious, profligate, or a drunkard child (Deuteronomy 21:18-21). But, would getting intoxicated on ecstasy or methamphetamine be okay because the Bible doesn't mention them?
- Do not plant more than one kind of seed in a field (Leviticus 19:19).
- Do not wear clothing woven of more than one kind of cloth (Leviticus 19:19).
- Do not cut your hair on the sides of your head or clip the edges of your beard (Leviticus 19:27).
- Do not dress across gender lines (Deuteronomy 22:5).
- Do not cut your bodies for the dead or put tattoos on yourself (Leviticus 19:28).
- You must stand up in the presence of the elderly (Leviticus 19:32)
- Women must not speak in church (1 Corinthians 14:34-35)

This is just a partial list of all the instructions in the Bible—and the lesson says the most important thing is that we obey the Bible. Hmmm….

Does it matter whether we approach the Bible through human imposed law lenses, level 1-4 moral development, or through design law lenses, levels 5-7?

What is true Bible obedience?

In the New Testament the Greek word for obedience, obey, to obey is: πακοή [hupakoe /hoop·ak·o·ay/

And it has two halves—the first half is where we get hypo, as in hypoglycemia, or hypotension, or hypodermic and means low, or under, and the last half is where we get acoustics and acoustical, and means to listen or hear. And thus the Biblical meaning of obedience is NOT about performance but is about heart attitude toward God. Specifically, Bible obedience is a humble willingness to listen, learn, comprehend, hear and embrace, with a heart desire to follow and apply what God is teaching. It is not about performance, but about heart attitude, trusting God, eager to grow, learn, understand and follow God.

This is why Jesus repeatedly said, things like, hearing though they do not hear, or let him who has ears, hear. So people will say things today like, "Do you hear me?" "Are you listening?"

So what does it mean to be obedient in God's kingdom? It is not primarily about performance, it is about the motivation of the heart, the desire, the eagerness to understand God and follow where God is leading.

Example: You have two sons, one 3 years old the other 14. One day, while weeding in your tomato garden, your 3 y/o comes up behind you and with a big smile pulls up a tomato plant and says, "Help daddy!" Is this child an obedient or disobedient child? Later you send your 14 y/o out to weed in the garden and the 14 y/o only pulls up weeds, no tomatoes are damaged, yet he curses you the entire time because he isn't able to play on his Gameboy.

Which child is in harmony with the parent? Which child is considered obedient? Is it about performance of the task, or the attitude of the heart? This is Bible obedience, a willingness to listen and follow with love and eagerness to do and go wherever our Heavenly Father leads.

What about all those specific instructions to the Jews? Remember the context—the Jewish people became actors in a drama—a theater, a symbolic acted out play which was to teach the plan of salvation. Many of the instructions were for the purpose of the play, the drama, and only apply to those who are acting on stage—in the play, which is over since Christ fulfilled what it taught.

But, some of the instructions were basic health and sanitation, others were giving guidance to the law of love—such as how people honor their parents.

So, one needs to understand God's design laws, then examine the instructions and determine which are part of the theater and only apply to the actors on the stage, and which are guidelines to help live in harmony with the principles, but we practice the principles, not apply the rules.

For instance, the guideline: "Whoever strikes his father or his mother must surely be put to death." Exodus 21:15 GNT

- Do we read this as a rule or understand the principle?
- Do we apply both parts of this? Do we want to apply the first part that children should not strike their parents? Do we accept the second part and teach that a child who does strike their parent should be put to death?
- Is this an absolute rule—a child should never strike their parent? What about if the parent had a heart attack and the child did a precordial thump, which is a very firm and hard strike to the chest that can restart the heart? Should a child with medical training, EMT, nurse, doctor, whose parent has a heart attack refuse to do the precordial thump because the Bible forbids them to strike their parent? Of course not, this isn't about the literal act of striking, but about the attitude of rebellion and seeking to injure and harm one's parents to rebel against their authority, which ultimately damages the character of the child.

The lesson is pointing out that whenever one language is translated into another language individual words can have a variety of potential other words in the new language. Further, one word can have a variety of different subtle nuanced meanings that the new language word may not contain.

Thus, the context of how it is being used informs us of the meaning in that usage.

The lesson points out the Hebrew word chesed and its use in various places as kindness, mercy, love. They cite 1Kings 3:6, let's read it from a variety of translations and notice, how the various translators translate this one word differently:

- And Solomon said, Thou hast shewed unto thy servant David my father great mercy, according as he walked before thee in truth… KJV
- Solomon answered, "You always showed great love for my father David, your servant, and he was good, loyal, and honest in his relations with you… GNT
- And Solomon said, "You have shown great and steadfast love to your servant my father David, because he walked before you in faithfulness… NRSV
- Solomon replied, "You demonstrated great loyalty to your servant, my father David, as he served you faithfully… NET
- Solomon answered, "You were very kind to your servant, my father David. He obeyed you, and he was honest and lived right… NCV

None of these are wrong, they are all legitimate translations but there are subtle differences in how we understand the translations. Consider how we use the English word love, it has many nuanced meanings.

- Love can connote kindness, mercy, compassion, patience, truthfulness—he told him the truth, that was an act of love

- Erotic love—romance
- Phileo brotherly of familial love
- Agape altruistic love
- Attachment, enjoyment—love for cars or music or activities like flying or fishing etc.
- love has many different potential meanings depending on how it is used

Read last paragraph, "The Hebrew word…" This is a good insight, shalom does mean more than peace, it does connote wholeness, completeness, well-being—why? Does the law lens we read through impact our understanding? Does design law enlighten and expand the meaning of shalom?

Through design law, how reality works, understanding God's original design, understanding how sin has damaged God's design and God's intention and His plan to cure/heal us, we understand that shalom* connotes God's plan to restore and heal us back to harmony with His design laws for life. Being out of harmony with God and His design laws causes pain, suffering, dissonance, discord, conflict, tension. The natural result of restoration to God's design is peace—peace with God, peace with God's design laws, peace with one's own heart and mind, peace with life as God designed it, thus the results are wholeness, completeness and well-being!

This is not an arbitrary thing—a magical word or an invocation of divine power, but a statement of reality in God's kingdom of love! Shalom—restoration to God's design brings health, wellness, wholeness—we are at peace.

TUESDAY

The lesson points out that another literary device of the Bible is the use of repetition to emphasize things. We, in the English language, emphasize things with bold letters, italics, or exclamation points, but the Bible brings emphasis by repeating itself.

They give the example of Genesis 1:26,27:

> Then God said, "Let us make man in our image, in our likeness, and let them rule over the fish of the sea and the birds of the air, over the livestock, over all the earth, and over all the creatures that move along the ground." So God created man in his own image, in the image of God he created him; male and female he created them. NIV84

What is emphasized by repetition in these two texts?

- The plurality of God as a unified being
- The creation of humankind by God
- That humanity was created as a unified plurality in God's image

The Bible also emphasizes the holiness of God, "Holy, Holy, Holy…"

What does "holy" or "the holiness of God" mean? Two general ideas are often associated with holiness—purity and separation—the separation means set apart from the unholy—and both apply if rightly understood.

God is the source of all truth, life, purity, love, goodness and in Him there is no darkness, evil, corruption. Thus, God is infinite goodness, infinite purity, infinite healthiness and all evil and sinfulness is distinctly separate from God. Thus God is holy, holy, holy, pure and perfect in an infinite way and completely separate from all defilement and sin—separate in His being and character.

This idea of God's holiness has been corrupted in some circles to teach God has a negative and intolerant attitude toward sinners and can't stand for sin to be in His presence. Ideas such as sin cannot exist in God's presence led to the idea that Mary was sinless in order for sinless Jesus to be incarnate. This is exactly the opposite of the truth. The truth is that in God's character there is no sin, He is completely holy, i.e. pure—but sin began in heaven in God's presence, but in the mind/heart of Lucifer, not IN God.

Further, Jesus "who knew no sin became sin for us so that we might become the righteousness of God." 2Cor 5:21. Jesus merged His holy divine self with our sinful humanity in order to purge humanity from sinfulness and make humanity holy—sinless and perfect again.

So, holiness is sinless purity and perfection and God is holy and perfectly pure and sinless and all darkness and sinfulness are separate from God's nature and character.

But notice how when we use the human law model we corrupt the holiness of God by incorporating death into the view of God taught; this happens when people teach that God, in order to be just, must use His power to inflict death upon sinners. They make God out as the source of death to punish sin. This is not so, God is holy—He is the source of only good, only life, only righteousness, and death is the result of no longer being in unity or at-one-ment with God.

This is why the Bible teaches: The one who sows to the carnal nature from that nature will reap destruction." Galatians 6:8 Or, "the wages of sin is death" (Rom 6:23) not the punishment of God is death. Note, in this very verse Romans 6:23, the Bible teaches what actually comes from God—"the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life!"

Christianity has become so infected with the imposed law lie that essentially every Christian denomination teaches that God is the source of inflicted death. How sad—it is no wonder the Lord has not yet returned. God is waiting for a people to stand up and make a right judgment about God—reject the imperial law pagan god from Rome and glorify God by returning to worship Him who made the heaven, earth and fountains of water—our Creator whose laws are design laws.

So, God is truly holy. We can NOT make ourselves holy but are instructed to be holy as God is holy. What does this mean? That we are to cooperate with God to be healed, cured, saved—restored to godliness. We are to have sinfulness cut out of our hearts and minds (metaphorically circumcision of the heart by the Holy Spirit). As we are healed by God we separate from fear, selfishness, sin, corruption and become partakers of the divine nature thus we become holy—i.e. purified with new hearts and right spirits.

Places and objects used by God to assist in our healing, our purification, are also called holy—such as the ground where Moses talked to God at the bush, or the Sanctuary and its instruments, or the Sabbath day. All holy because they are used by God to assist us in healing, in becoming restored to unity with God i.e. purified from sin.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Words in Scripture…" I like this paragraph because it helps us see that there is not just one context to a passage of Scripture, but multiple contexts to Scripture.

- The immediate context within the sentence
- The context within the paragraph
- The context within the book
- The context within the entirety of Scripture
- The historical context
- The prophetic context
- The Great Controversy context

All of these must be considered to get the most accurate understanding.

The most important context, in my view, is understanding the Great Controversy over God's character and government, which means that we must understand the truth of God's design laws, and then we must understand the purpose of Scripture. What is its purpose? To give insight into the truth in this battle between Christ and Satan raging for our hearts and minds.

If we believe the Holy Spirit inspired the Bible writers, then we believe there is harmony among the Bible passages in regard to God's character, methods, principles, design laws, and the plan of salvation.

So, let's examine another text in light of these various contexts and see if we gain any insights into potential meaning. As we look at the following passage, it is okay if you ultimately come to a different conclusion than I have, but I want you to consider, is your conclusion most consistent with God's character, methods, principles, or is it based on long held assumptions?

Let's look at Psalms 139:13-16:

> For you created my inmost being; you knit me together in my mother's womb. I praise you because I am fearfully and wonderfully made; your works are wonderful, I know that full well. My frame was not hidden from you when I was made in the secret place. When I was woven > together in the depths of the earth, your eyes saw my unformed body. All the days ordained for me were written in your book before one of them came to be. NIV84

Is this translation the most accurate, or has this translation introduced ideas that are not actually intended by the author and even introduce false ideas into our understanding about God and led to many bad theologies?

If we take this translation as it reads, then we conclude that God is the one who directly acts to create each individual human being inside their mother's womb. But then, it really wasn't in the womb, it was in the depths of the earth—oh but we are not to take the depths of the earth literally—but we are to take the first part just as it reads?

Well, let's consider that we are to take it as many teach that God literally knits us together in our mother's womb. If this is true, that God knits each of us together individually in our mother's womb, then God is responsible for birth defects. If a child has spinal bifida well, God must have had a bad knitting day. If this is the correct rendering, then God's divine creative power must be less powerful than a bottle of vodka since so many fetal alcohol children are born. Worse, since we are born in sin and conceived in iniquity, if this rendering is literally true that God is forming each of us directly with His divine power then God is creating sinful, defective humans—which is absolutely not true.

The Bible truth is that God was directly involved in the formation of only three human lives: Adam, Eve and the incarnation of Jesus. And all three of them, when God acted, were sinless. Jesus stayed that way, Adam and Eve did not.

But when God created Adam and Eve He gave them a godlike ability, the ability to pro-create beings in their image. After Adam and Eve sinned they changed themselves and became sinful. But they still had the ability of pro-creation and thus could create beings in their image—and their image was now corrupted with sin. This is why we are born in sin and conceived in iniquity—Ps 51:5

God does not control the use of the abilities He gives us. We can use them as God designed, or we can abuse those abilities. When people have children it is by the choice of those individuals to use the pro-creative abilities God has given them. When a man abuses the ability and rapes a woman and she becomes pregnant, this is not an act of God. The woman is not to think, "Well God did this to me." Such an act is a human being abusing an ability, not God acting.

So, back to our passage,

The Hebrew word translated in many Bible versions as "formed" or "made" is קנה [qanah], and according to the New American Standard Hebrew-Aramaic and Greek Dictionaries is translated most commonly as "bought," "buy," "purchased," and also as "redeemed." So formed is more accurately translated as "redeemed."

The Hebrew word translated as "inmost being" is כליה [kilyah /kil·yaw/] means "seat of emotions or affections."

The Hebrew word translated as "knit me together" according to the Enhanced Strong's Lexicon is סוּך, סכך, שׂכך [cakak, sakak /saw·kak/] v. and translates as "cover" 15 times, "covering" twice, "defence" once, "defendest" once, "hedge in" once, "join together" once, "set" once, and "shut up" once.

Contrary to popular translations, the context of this verse is not about physical embryological development, or God using power to physically create a new human life, but is about the plan of salvation. The Psalmist in Psalms 51:5 describes that he was "born in sin, conceived in iniquity" and here acknowledges that despite his sinful origins, God was already there acting to redeem him and cleanse him from sinfulness.

So, from The Remedy Psalms

> For you have redeemed my heart and mind; you covered me with grace from the moment I was conceived in my mother's womb. I praise you because you are awesome; wonderful and marvelous are all your works, and I know this very well. You know my entire being —how I was built from your secret code, constructed from the elements of the earth. You saw me before I was born; my entire life was recorded in your book of foreknowledge before one day came to be.

This is how the Great Controversy context, with understanding design law, leads to accurate understanding of the Scripture.

In the later paragraphs the lesson points out that "Adam" can refer to "humanity," the first male person "Adam," or the "ground" from which God created Adam the first person. Thus, the context determines which is being referred to, the ground, the first male person, or the species human.

Another view, is that the term Adam is used in this way to help us understand that humanity is a species created from this earth and a male is incomplete, and the human being (man-Adam) was only completed when the female was created and joined the male, that was when a full human was formed. The two shall become one, as this is God's design for the two united as one are the fulfillment of His design and reflect the image of God.

THURSDAY

What is the primary purpose of Scripture?

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, "In His word…" The standard of character, no doubt, then what happened to the Pharisees who crucified Christ? Did they not believe in the sacredness of Scripture? Did they have a different Scripture than what God intended? Did they not read and study the Scripture? Did they not memorize it?

Then what happened? How can it be that people can study the Scripture and still experience deformed character such that they end up crucifying Christ?

Because they accept a false premise about God's law and thus everything read is warped to support Satan's lie about God and His character and methods.

Only when we come back to design law do we understand reality correctly.

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 8
Creation: Genesis as Foundation—Part I

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

I like this title—Genesis as Foundation, because, as the lesson points out our understanding of reality is outlined in Genesis.

There are facts and then there are interpretations of facts. The biases, assumptions, presuppositions, beliefs we hold impact how we interpret facts.

The healthiest approach is, to the best of our ability, ensure our beliefs, biases, assumptions, are in harmony with how reality works, with the evidence and the facts and doesn't deny or ignore them.

Genesis lays out foundational basis for many beliefs that help us form a framework for understand reality. Here are some of those foundational beliefs:

- God is real and God is triune being of love
- God is the Creator
- The Earth and all life upon it were created by God
- Human beings were created by God in God's image
- God's laws are design laws—the protocols reality is built upon
- Sin is deviation from God's design which brings suffering and death and has its basis in lies which undermines trust and love
- Sin did not and does not come from God
- Death because of sin does not come from God
- The Sabbath as an aide to assist human beings in cooperating with God for holiness
- God's plan to heal and to save
- The worldwide flood
- The nature of humankind as mortal
- Marriage and family

As we undermine our belief in any of these foundational beliefs then we begin to corrupt our understanding of reality. This happens in a variety of ways:

- There is no God—we evolved from slime
- There is a god, but his law is imperial and sin is breaking his law and that god must use power to inflict death upon law breakers
- God uses death to create—the theistic evolution
- The Sabbath is a concept not a day, or the Sabbath is strictly Jewish, or the Sabbath is the 7th day but it is an arbitrary test of obedience that God will punish you for if you don't obey

- Human beings have immortality and can never die
- Marriage is an artificial construct made up by male dominated societies to control women
- Women were created to be subordinate to men or women were created equal but God decided after sin that they should be subordinated to men
- There was no worldwide flood
- Sin is a made-up concept by religions which are also made up to control people
- God's plan of salvation is to do something to God to pay for our sin so God won't torture and kill us
- Genesis is just a book of myths

These are just some examples of how the foundational ideas can be corrupted to either reject them totally, or to still believe them but in such a distorted way that people are still out of harmony with God and still don't understand reality.

We achieve ever-increasingly accurate understanding of reality when we use the integrative evidence-based approach which harmonizes Scripture, Nature and Experience.

SUNDAY

Genesis 1, In the Beginning the Creation story.

When we consider the origins of life there are really only two overall theories—intelligent design—God created, or godless origins by natural forces all on its own without any intelligent input.

If we use the scientific method we would want to do experiments that we can observe and reproduce in which we get the same results each time. However, we cannot go back and test either theory of origins. So, we are left with the premises that each theory is built upon—and these can be tested. So let's test them:

Godless Origins	God Created Origins
Something came from nothing	Something came from something else
Order came from chaos without intelligent input	Order came from chaos with intelligent input
Life came from non-living matter	Life came from another living organism
DNA gains information through mutation	DNA degrades through mutation

Notice as we test these base premises upon which these two theories rest, it is not a mix some supporting one theory and some supporting the other—all of them, 100% support creation by God and refute the idea that life originated on its own.

Living organisms require three elements to exist and live: physical matter (atoms etc.), energy, and coded information stored in the DNA.

The theory of godless origins postulates and focuses exclusively upon the physical matter and energy and how they might have, in some primordial soup formed amino acids or DNA molecules. But they have no answer whatsoever for the third element required for life—the coded information stored in the DNA.

From my book The Aging Brain: Proven Steps to Prevent Dementia and Sharpen Your Mind

> The idea that living beings originated on their own without any intelligent input would be similar to believing that a storm arose with high winds, rain and lightning that raged for years, and during this storm the strong winds blew rocks and sand at high speeds until some were shattered and worn down to formed letters of the alphabet. This is analogous to believing that the random forces of nature in some chemical soup with lightning strikes eventually formed DNA molecules. But, even if we accept that this happened (which is a big leap of blind, evidenceless faith) scientists still ignore the most critical aspect of what is required for life—the encoded information contained within the organized DNA sequences. Having an alphabet does not mean we have usable and functional information. To believe that random forces brought life about would require we not only believe the alphabet formed on its own, but beyond this we must also believe that the winds, rains, and lightning strikes—all on its own—organized the letters into the entire encyclopedia Britannica. Yet this is exactly what millions of good-hearted, honest, thinking people do believe.
> But why would thinking, honest-of-heart, scientists choose to believe something that the evidence refutes? Because the historical alternative belief system is significantly more destructive! What is the historical alternative belief system—the one that reasonable people reject? The belief in an all-powerful god who functions no differently than the worst despots in human history—a god who says, "Love me or I will burn you in hell forever."
> This grotesque god-construct, rightly rejected by reasonable people, is pointedly described by Richard Dawkins in his book The God Delusion:
> "The God of the Old Testament is arguably the most unpleasant character in all fiction: jealous and proud of it; a petty, unjust, unforgiving control-freak; a vindictive, bloodthirsty ethnic cleanser; a misogynistic, homophobic, racist, infanticidal, genocidal, filicidal, pestilential, megalomaniacal, sadomasochistic, capriciously malevolent bully." [1]

[1] Dawkins, Richard. The God Delusion. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, 2006. 51.

So, in my view, the reason good-hearted thinking people reject God and the Genesis account is because they have been given two alternatives that are both lies—the godless view and the dictator god view and the godless view is preferable to the dictator god view.

This is why the 3 angels' messages of Revelation is so important at this time in history, because it calls people back to worship the Creator, Him who made the heavens, Earth, seas and fountains of water. It calls the godless to worship the Creator, but it also calls the imperial god worshippers to reject the false dictator-god they worship and embrace the Creator—which means reject imperial law with penal legal theologies and embrace design law with God's plan to heal and restore.

So, which worldview is more reasonable? The view of our Creator God of love who built reality to operate upon His design laws of love, truth, liberty.

The second paragraph states, "Darwinian evolution is contradictory to Scripture in every way, and attempts by some to harmonize it with the Bible makes Christians look silly."

Darwinian evolution is the concept that species evolve over millions of years by mutation of the genes which confer new and improved abilities allowing them to compete more effectively for limited resources thus selecting out the less capable and retaining the more capable to reproduce thus over the generations causing the species to evolve or develop. It also taught transmutation of the species, one species evolving into another through this process.

Couple of points—Darwinian evolution really doesn't address origins science. It is a theory based on the observations of the world already created. One couldn't have natural selection occurring before there was life. So, don't confuse evolution—things changing, adapting, evolving over time with origins of life—they are different concepts.

There has never been any scientific evidence given of one species mutating into another species. This theory is still taught, but it is taught without supporting evidence, and not just without supporting evidence, in the face of contradicting evidence. Yet, it is still believed my millions.

Evolution—the process of a species changing or evolving based on environmental pressures does occur. God created us to be able to adapt and change, so this idea of change or adaptation is not contrary to God's design for life.

Natural selection—the process of the least fit being selected out also occurs, the less capable individuals or traits are pressured by survival pressures toward elimination from the gene pool. But, selecting out the least capable, or another way to say that—the most damaged, is not the same as saying those that survive are advancing and improving. The idea of natural selection takes the observation that the least fit don't survive and draws a false conclusion—a lie in fact—that is the core to the entire evolutionary theory and that lie is, since the least fit don't survive and the more fit in a population is surviving, that means the more fit are actually advancing. This is not so—in fact all members of each generation of each species is genetically degrading, some more some less but each generation of every species is less genetically fit than the generation before.

In the human genome each generation of humans has at least 1000 new damaging mutations that the generation before didn't have. So, selecting out the most damaged that can't survive still happens, but it doesn't mean the survivors are more fit than the previous generation—they are not.

Evolutionary theory has essentially only two truths—things adapt or change over time and natural selection selects out the least fit. All the other so-called points of evolutionary theory are proven false:

- Species advance via mutation of the DNA code—false—every gene mutation thus far identified degrades the species, none have been identified that makes the species healthier or advance
- Species evolve from one to another through mutation—there has not been one example of this
- Darwin's original theory, represented by the different beaks of finches has now been proven false. He theorized that the changes occurred over millions of years, and scientists later added in the concept of DNA mutation. But this has now been tested and the various finches have the same DNA code. Their DNA does not have mutation of the sequences that caused the beaks to be different. The beak differences are caused by epigenetic changes which occurs in 1-2 generations. This is exactly consistent with what the Bible teaches, that God created us with ability to create beings in our image. We have the ability to make choices and those choices alter, not the DNA sequences, but the instructions on how those sequences are expressed and those instructions are passed down 3-4 generations, they will keep passing down if the behaviors continue in the subsequent generations reinforcing the changes. Thus, again the Bible is right and Darwinian evolution is proven false. [2]

Now, EG White, one of the founders of the SDA church and contemporary of Charles Darwin, had a different view of things. She, with her third grade education, somehow was able to have scientific knowledge well beyond that of all her contemporaries that has now been proven to be true. Specifically, she promoted the principles of epigenetics—that our actions change our DNA expression and we pass those changes along, without even knowing about DNA. Here are a couple of quotes:

> Parents ... by indulgence have strengthened their animal passions. And as these have strengthened, the moral and intellectual faculties have become weak. The spiritual has been overborne by the brutish. Children are born with the animal propensities largely developed, the parents' own stamp of character having been given to them.... The brain force is weakened, and memory becomes deficient.... The sins of the parents will be visited upon their children because the parents have given them the stamp of their own lustful propensities.—Testimonies for the Church 2:391 (1870). 1MCP 136.1

> The nobler the aims, the higher the mental and spiritual endowments, and the better developed the physical powers of the parents, the better will be the life equipment they give their children. In cultivating that which is best in themselves, parents are exerting an influence to mold society and to uplift future generations.... 1MCP 139.1

And this is what the science actually shows—our life choices change us, alter our gene expression and we pass along not only the DNA sequences but this epigenetic modifications to our children either passing along advantages or disadvantages.

But, EG White somehow understood it was more than lifestyle choices, it was also mental processes, attitudes of the heart:

> Every woman about to become a mother, whatever may be her surroundings, should encourage constantly a happy, cheerful, contented disposition, knowing that for all her efforts in this direction she will be repaid tenfold in the physical, as well as in the moral, character of her offspring. Nor is this all. By habit she can accustom herself to cheerful thinking, and thus encourage a happy state of mind and cast a cheerful reflection of her own happiness of spirit upon her family and those with whom she associates. 1MCP 131.2

> The thoughts and feelings of the mother will have a powerful influence upon the legacy she gives her child. If she allows her mind to dwell upon her own feelings, if she indulges in selfishness, if she is peevish and exacting, the disposition of her child will testify to the fact. Thus many have received as a birthright almost unconquerable tendencies to evil.—The Signs of the Times, September 13, 1910. (Temperance, 171.) 1MCP 132.1

Well, brain science proves this to be true:

- Study of over 4000 mothers and their children
- Followed for over 18 years
- Mothers with negative, pessimistic, depressive thinking patterns when pregnant increased the risk of their child being depressed 18 years later.
- This association remained after accounting for maternal and offspring depression.
- The thought patterns of the mother accounted for 21% of the association between maternal and child depression. (Am Journal of Psychiatry 2013; 170:434-441).

And if mother is highly stressed during pregnancy—which may not be because she has historically stressful patterns of thinking, but tragedy could occur while pregnant, husband could be killed or deployed to war etc. But if she is highly stressed during pregnancy:

- Mother's stress hormones cross the placenta
- Interferes with the stress response "braking system"
- This occurs through epigenetic modification

- Children are more stress prone, irritable, moody, and they pass this along to their children - unless new experience introduce new gene expression. (Medina, J. Psychiatric Times, April 2010, p. 16)

Again, the Biblical worldview is proven more correct and scientifically accurate than the evolutionary worldview.

The lesson points out in the third paragraph that God as Creator not only created physical matter, but also time and as such lives outside of time. This is quite important—and true. God lives on a plane of existence beyond our full experience and comprehension. Some people cannot handle this and believe that if God lives outside of time, and because of that is able to know the future, then God's foreknowledge of our choices takes away our freedom to choose. Because they are sensitive to God's character of love and realize love requires freedom, with all the best intentions they create a lie—because they have a false premise. The lie they create is that God either cannot know the future or chooses to put a blindfold on Himself and not look into the future because, in their view if He did we wouldn't be free. The false premise this is based upon is that God's foreknowledge takes away our freedom to choose.

It is really quite simple—to God, who lives outside of time, what is it that informs Him of our future choices (note future to us—not future to God as God lives in all points of time simultaneously)? God knows our future choices when we make them. In other words, it is our act of choosing that informs God of the choice. If we don't choose it, God doesn't know it because it didn't and doesn't happen. Because God lives outside of time, to us right now, God is aware of our choices next year, but He only know what we choose next year because next year we are the ones that choose it.

One other point, in Genesis 1:1 the language "In the beginning" is not speaking of the beginning of all things—but the Genesis 1 "in the beginning" is the beginning of this solar system, specifically the terraforming of earth and the sun, moon, stars of this solar system. Job 38:7 informs us the angels sang for joy when the earth was created. So, that means the angels already existed, thus Genesis doesn't speak to creating the entire universe, just this solar system.

MONDAY

The lesson points out that Genesis teaches that the earth was created during a 7-day week, in which each day was 24 hours long. It rejects the idea that suggests Genesis is metaphorical book and the days represent long eons of time in which life slowly evolved on earth, or that God uses evolutionary methods to create life over eons of time.

Why is it not rational to believe that Genesis is referring to long periods of time and why does the account make much more sense to believe these are 24-hour days?

- Plant life was created on day 3 and the local sun was created on day 4, if it was thousands of years or more between the creation of plant life and the sun then all life would have died before the sun was created. So, the sequence of creation also gives evidence to the author's intended meaning that the Bible is teaching literal 24-hour days.

- The idea that God used some aspects of evolution to create life is also irrational to the Christian and is part of Satan's lie because it merges Satan's principles of death with God's principles of life. To create through evolution requires death, the killing off of those less adaptable so that through natural selection the strong survive. This is the theory of Satan's kingdom and any attempts to introduce this into Christian thought corrupts the truth about God and His kingdom of love.

This philosophy of the merging life and death is called dualism—the coexistence of both good and evil as a requirement for life to exist. This is a foundational belief in the eastern philosophies and it is part of theistic evolution. The idea of life and death both being part of God's character and kingdom is a lie. It is Satan's goal for the eternal coexistence of both good and evil, but the Bible teaches that in God there is only light and no darkness whatsoever and that sin and death are intruders which one day will be permanently and completely eliminated from God's creation.

How has dualism entered mainstream Christian doctrines? Via the imperial law lie, in which God in order to be just must punish sinners by either killing them or torturing them in hell for all eternity. In both views, God is a being who is the source of life and the source of death or suffering inflicted under the guise of justice—thus dualism—Satan's worldview.

We must reject this, come back to worship the Creator and understand His laws as design laws and then we have a holy God who is not the source of death.

TUESDAY

The lesson is about the Sabbath.

The day, months, and years are all marked by the movements of the earth and moon. But there is no astronomic reason for the seven-day week. This is quite profound evidence to those who want to claim there is no God or deny the Genesis account of creation. Ask them to explain the basis for the seven-day week, which is the week through essentially every society as far back as recorded history.

But, what is the significance of the Sabbath?

It is all about context—when it came into being and its purpose. The Sabbath was created, Jesus said, 'The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath. Therefore the Son of Man is also Lord of the Sabbath'" (Mk 2:27,28 NKJV)

The Sabbath serves Jesus, Jesus doesn't serve the Sabbath—but how? What purpose did Jesus have in creating the Sabbath?

Jesus was speaking to the Jews when He said the Sabbath was made for man, meaning it wasn't made just for the Jews, but for the human race.

But for what purpose? What was happening in the universe when earth was created? War over God's right to rule. And what does the Sabbath reveal?

The first six days of creation week reveals God has power, but it is the seventh day, when God rested from using power, that reveals His character, truth, presented in love, leaving people free to think for themselves. Thus, the Sabbath is evidence that Satan lied about God. If Satan were correct, there would be no Sabbath.

Exodus tells us the Sabbath is a sign that God makes us holy, but what does this mean?

In the larger setting of the war between God and Satan, over God's character, government of love and methods of love, what does the Sabbath reveal?

It reveals God's character – that He doesn't use power to coerce, that He leaves us free. Thus, Sabbath observance is about the free exercise of our power of choice to acknowledge God and live in harmony with Him.

One of the positions that we at Come and Reason have taken is that the Sabbath is a sign, an evidence, of God's kingdom and methods of love—of design law government. Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. We have asked, if you sin on the Sabbath have you made the Sabbath less holy? If you do righteousness on the Sabbath have you made it more holy? Do our actions in any way impact the holiness of the Sabbath? So are we keeping the Sabbath holy or ourselves holy? And can we keep ourselves holy only one day in seven? So, the Sabbath was made for man—as a sign, flag, pennant, reminder, evidence to us that all week we are thinking Remember the Sabbath day—what it reveals—Our God is real, the Creator of Heaven and Earth. He is love and His kingdom is the kingdom of love and operates on design law. So, live in harmony with God's kingdom and principles all week long. We have taught this for some time.

I read this quote last week, but it is so powerful I wanted to read it again:

> "All through the week we are to have the Sabbath in mind and be making preparation to keep it according to the commandment. We are not merely to observe the Sabbath as a legal matter. We are to understand its spiritual bearing upon all the transactions of life. All who regard the Sabbath as a sign between them and God, showing that He is the God who sanctifies them, will represent the principles of His government. They will bring into daily practice the laws of His kingdom. Daily it will be their prayer that the sanctification of the Sabbath may rest upon them. Every day they will have the companionship of Christ, and will exemplify the perfection of His character. Every day their light will shine forth to others in good works." 6T 353

What is true Sabbath keeping, avoiding certain behaviors one day in seven, or being transformed in heart to live out God's principles all week long while we look forward to the day that shines as evidence of God's kingdom and methods of love.

Understand the issue of Sabbath versus Sunday is not about the days themselves, it is about what the days represent. They are signs or marks—consider them like flags of nations. The US Flag is a sign or mark of the USA, but it is not the USA, but those who love the USA (or any person who loves their nation) respects and values the flag. They wave it, they display it, they don't throw it in the dirt, burn it or mock it. Not because the flag is magical or has power, but because of what it represents.

Likewise, Sabbath became a special day by Creation—it was Created by God as a day of rest and thus it is a sign or evidence of Design law and God's kingdom of love, truth, freedom.

Sunday became a day of rest or worship day by legislation—by human counsels and governments passing in committees a law that set it aside as the day of worship. Thus, Sunday becomes a sign or flag of imperialism of a god who makes up rules and inflicts punishment, of the systems of this fallen world, of the beastly systems, of the penal legal religious dogmas.

So, what if a person observes the seventh-day Sabbath as their weekly religious day of rest, worshipping the Creator God on that day—does that mean they are right with God? What if they do so teaching that the Sabbath is an arbitrary test of obedience, a rule that God made up, and if you don't observe it God will punish you? Consider those who crucified Christ, did they worship on the wrong day? No, they had the right day, but the wrong law—i.e. imperial law and thus they worshipped the wrong imperial god and rejected the Creator God and crucified Him.

We must grow up past level four moral development, we must reject the imperial penal legal view of God and embrace the truth of God as Creator. Only then will we be true Sabbath keepers who practice His principles all week long.

What about those who teach the truth about God's character and methods of love, His design laws, but hold religious services on a day other than Sabbath? When governments begin enforcing worship upon pain of punishment, those who are like Jesus in character will not go along with such enforcement and will leave that style of worship and join with all those who honor God and His methods of truth, love and freedom

In C.S. Lewis' last book of the Narnia series Lewis describes a Calormene soldier named Emeth and his encounter with Aslan the lion. Emeth was a worshipper of Tash, and as a result was terrified when he came face to face with Aslan. This is that encounter from the book:

> I fell at his feet and thought surely this is the hour of death, for the Lion will know that I have served Tash all my days and not him.
> But Aslan's response?

> Son thou art welcome. But I said, alas Lord I am no son of thine but the servant of Tash. He answered, Child all the service thou hast done to Tash I account as service done to me.
> I questioned the Glorious One: Lord, is it then true that thou and Tash are one? The Lion growled and said, It is false. Not because he and I are one, but because we are opposites, I take to me the services which thou hast done to him. For I and he are of such different kinds that no service which is vile can be done to me, and none which is not vile can be done to him. Therefore if any man swear by Tash and keep his oath for the oath's sake, it is by me that he has truly sworn, though he know it not, and it is I who reward him. And if any man do a cruelty in my name, then, though he says the name Aslan, it is Tash whom he serves and by Tash his deed is accepted".

Emeth questions once more:

> Beloved, said the Glorious One, unless thy desire had been for me thou shouldst not have sought so long and so truly. For all find what they truly seek.

Is it ultimately about the Sabbath, or the Lord of the Sabbath?

WEDNESDAY

Marriage—a relationship of love, as God designed in which two individuals become united as one—not one individual, but one in heart, love, service, other-centeredness, sharing common purpose, goals, methods, principles.

Marriage was designed to give created beings the most godlike of abilities and experiences. It was created with two beings of equal worth, value and standing under God's design law, but who were created with complementary abilities that would result in expansion of love, awareness, experience, development, and achievement as they united in the bonds of marital love as God designed. In other words, God's design would result in greater development, experience of godliness and achievement than either could experience alone.

And of course, Satan hates God's design and wants to corrupt it. After the fall, fear and selfishness replaced love and trust and instead of two co-equals operating in other-centered love, domination and control infected God's design. All kinds of mistreatment, abuse, exploitation, betrayal and heartache have occurred as the marriage relationship has been attacked by methods and principles other than love, trust, truth, and freedom.

Satan attacked God's design in other ways—physically in which God's plan of procreation, the two joining in love to create beings in their image, was damaged and infertility emerged and heartache over inability to have children has plagued humankind.

An online listener Maria Averill, sent in this question:

> Is there any way Dr. Jennings can address Genesis 3:16 Where God says to Eve,
> > "I will greatly increase your pains in childbearing;
> > with pain you will give birth to children.
> > Your desire will be for your husband, > > and he will rule over you."
> If they are suffering the natural consequences to their sin why would God feel the need to add sorrow to it? That seems out of character for Him.

You are so right—this is a translation and makes it sound like God is inflicting what He is pronouncing. God as the source of truth is now informing His beloved and cherished children what the consequences of their choices will be. Their sin has changed them and because of this God's design is altered with fear and selfishness—pain, heartache, domination and control will now contaminate life. So, if I were to paraphrase this it would read like this:

> "Because my design of love has now been replaced with fear and selfishness, having and raising children will be very hard—filled with sorrow. Fearful, you will seek protection from your stronger husband, but he will dominate you."

Over the last several decades in Western societies, the definition of marriage, one man and one woman, has changed to include same-sex relationships. Many Christians have been upset over this and there has been conflict in society and in churches because of it.

I thought a little history of marriage might be helpful.

In ancient times, marriage was a community or family event in which a male and female committed themselves to be husband and wife. There were no governments involved, just the public commitment of the two people along with their families' and acknowledgement of the community.

Old Testament Levitical law codified certain aspects of marriage which was designed to protect women from being arbitrarily discarded and replaced by their husbands. And it remained male and female. But during Bible times a man could have more than one female as wife.

In early Christianity, marriage remained a family and community event. One male and one female, polygamy was banned.

As the church became organized the Roman Church recognized marriage between a man and a woman as a sacred relationship. Marriages for centuries were recorded in the church records.

Wikipedia states the following:

As part of the Protestant Reformation, the role of recording marriages and setting the rules for marriage passed to the state, reflecting Martin Luther's 's view that marriage was a "worldly thing".[61] By the 17th century, many of the Protestant European countries had a state involvement in marriage.

As part of the Counter-Reformation, in 1563 the Council of Trent decreed that a Roman Catholic marriage would be recognized only if the marriage ceremony was officiated by a priest with two witnesses. The Council also authorized a Catechism, issued in 1566, which defined marriage as, "The conjugal union of man and woman, contracted between two qualified persons, which obliges them to live together throughout life."[63]
In the early modern period, John Calvin, and his Protestant colleagues reformulated Christian marriage by enacting the Marriage Ordinance of Geneva, which imposed "The dual requirements of state registration and church consecration to constitute marriage"[63] for recognition.

Prior to the Protestant Reformation the state governments had no role in marriage. It was the Protestant Reformation, which wanted a means to record marriages free of the Roman Church that led to the involvement of the state and the marriage licenses. Over the course of time various legal privileges were attached to marriage—tax benefits, inheritance benefits, next of kin rights etc.

Do we now finding that the merger of church and state is causing problems? Christians invited the state into the marriage institution, and now the state is redefining it, and many Christians are unhappy about this. Should this be another lesson in church/state relations?

Here are some other questions about marriage:

- Is there a difference between what you choose to do in your personal life, and what one should seek government to do in regard to marriage?
- Is there a difference between Biblical marriage and marriage as sanctioned by a human government, i.e. legal marriage?
- Were the Reformers correct to suggest a person isn't married in God's eyes until they get a legal marriage by the state?
- Can someone get married by the state and not be married in God's eyes?
- Should the church seek to get the state to enforce the church's view of marriage?
- Would you be happy if Muslims became a majority in your country and legalized polygamy?
- Is there a difference in spiritual union, marriage blessed by God, and legal marriage?
- Do the state and the church serve the same master?
- Do the state and the church have the same agenda?
- Do the state and the church concern themselves with the same elements of marriage?
- Church is concerned with God's blessing, unity of two individuals in a holy covenant, spiritual wholeness, honoring God with one's life, revealing the truth of God's character as he designed marriage to do, family integrity, raising children in Godly ways, etc.

- The state is concerned with legal contracts, who inherits whose property, who is the legal guardian, who makes legal health care decisions, not who is united by God.
- Should, adults, in our society be allowed to enter into legal contracts regarding the disposition of their property, guardianship, medical decision-making etc.? What if those adults are the same sex?
- Can we live in peace with those who enter into such contracts, even if they call in marriage?
- Is every "marriage" blessed by God—regardless of whether it is heterosexual or homosexual?
- Can people get legally married, but not experience the marital union as God designed?
- Are some marriages actually traps of Satan?

So, is there a difference between a church sanctioning an action, and the state sanctioning it?

What system do you prefer – the one in which such matters are decided by the church – as in the Middle Ages, the one we have in which these matters are decided by the state, or a mixed system in which one has to get both the state and church to agree?

THURSDAY

Read second paragraph, "God declared…" What do you understand the purpose of the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil to be?

What do you take from the name of this tree?

To you see it is a tree of reality—it is the place where Adam and Eve would decide what they would know.

> This is life eternal that they might know you the only true God and Jesus Christ whom you have sent John 17:3

This knowledge of Good and Evil, wasn't theoretical knowledge, it wasn't cognitive knowledge. God and the angels had already informed Adam and Eve about Satan, about evil, about the consequences of death. Adam and Eve had information, factual knowledge. That is not what the Tree was about—it was about experience, knowing by experience Good or Evil, by the choice to trust and believe God, or to believe lies and disbelieve God thereby breaking trust with Him.

God tells them, at this tree you will have knowledge—choose well, choose not to partake and you will know Good—you will know love, trust, loyalty, devotion, maturity, integrity, joy, peace, and godliness all of this will solidify in your character. But if you choose to partake the fruit, you will know fear, selfishness, insecurity, guilt, shame, distrust, pain, suffering and death—you will know evil.

God already knew evil—not in His character, but in His heart as His heavenly home had been fractured and He was already suffering the heartache of betrayal, disaffection, being lied about and the loss of His most loved angel. God did not want humankind to know this kind of pain, suffering, heartache. He wanted humankind do know only good, but this required them to choose to trust God and choose the good in order for them to know it.

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> God might have created man without the power to transgress His law; He might have withheld the hand of Adam from touching the forbidden fruit; but in that case man would have been, not a free moral agent, but a mere automation. Without freedom of choice, his obedience would not have been voluntary, but forced. There could have been no development of character. . . . It would have been unworthy of man as an intelligent being, and would have sustained Satan's charge of God's arbitrary rule. {CC 13.3}

Read question 3, "If the Bible…" It is when Christians are level four and below and promote an imperial God that requires them to believe without evidence, to follow rules that cause harm that they are called closed minded, because they are.

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 9
Creation: Genesis as Foundation—Part 2

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "It is commonly…" How was it that people believed the earth was flat? From their limited sensory experiences, what they could perceive from a single point on earth, and misinterpreting or misunderstanding Scripture. The angels standing at the four corners of the earth taken concretely rather than figuratively.

But, while we might give understanding to those who believed the earth was flat thousands of years ago—how do we explain the flat earth society today?

Today, there are people who believe the earth is flat. It is an incredible example of the capacity of the human mind to deny evidence and distort facts in order to hold to a false belief. So let's examine the Flat Earther's belief system and identify the various mental tricks employed to deny reality and how these same methods are used by billions of people around the world to cling to other false belief systems. From the Flat Earthers—website here are some of their key beliefs and explanations:

- Their beliefs are not a joke. They want to be taken seriously.
- Their beliefs are based primarily upon what a person can experience with their own unenhanced senses—no telescopes, just stand in a place on the earth and look around. Thus, they restrict the evidence they base their belief upon to what they can experience directly.
    - This process is one of selection bias—limiting oneself to a restricted evidence-base in order to minimize or eliminate data, facts, evidence that would refute or contradict the core belief.
    - This process is also seen in:
    - The way sola Scriptura is used by the penal legal theologians. They restrict the evidence they are willing to accept by rejecting science, nature, real life experiences—thus they cling to a false view of God's character and government.
    - This was exactly how the flat earth idea was believed in the Middle Ages—the theologians refused to accept science, used Scripture only.
    - Evolutionists who reject the Bible and restrict their evidence-pool to only those data-points which they can currently measure or test. They also reject and refuse to incorporate scientific data-points that refute the godless origins theory. Such as the radio halos found in ever bedrock of the earth.
- While the Flat Earth Society is not tied to a religion, many adherents take a literal view of Scripture.
    - This is literalism, concrete thinking, refusing to abstract, refusing to understand symbols, metaphor, parables, figures of speech etc.
    - Many Christians do this with a variety of beliefs: "The Bible said it, I believe it." Examples, taking the parable of Lazarus and the rich man as literal. Or, reading statements of God hardening Pharaoh's heart as literal—God making Pharaoh into a rebel even though Pharaoh really wanted to repent and love God. Or, predestination, in which God chooses who is saved and lost.

- They deny humans have been to space and claim that the various national space agencies have faked all the videos in order to create complex organizations to embezzle money.
    - Denial of reality to maintain a firmly held belief. This is a classic primitive defense mechanism, seen in addictions where the addict denies they have a problem, or claims they can handle it. It is also seen in relationships of abuse in which the victim makes excuses for the abuser, denying the problem is a lack of love in the abuser and the abuser also denies the problem is in their own heart/mind and instead blames the victim.
    - Scientists do this constantly when they deny evidence that refutes their godless theories—such as genetic evidence that refutes Darwin's theory of mutation over millions of years. Or, how no godless theory exists to explain where the coded information found in our DNA came from—which is required for all life.
    - Religious groups that deny evidence exposing sacred beliefs as false, most importantly the false belief that God's law works like human law, imposed rules requiring God to punish.
- They argue that photographic and video evidence from weather balloons, aircraft, satellites can be easily doctored or altered. Therefore, such evidence is not to be accepted as reliable.
    - This is taking a fact or truth and applying it falsely to create a lie or falsehood: take a truth—photographic evidence can be altered—and applying that fact to the photos in question without actually demonstrating that the photos or videos in question have been doctored. Thus, any evidence that refutes the position can be rejected out of hand because "photos can be altered."
    - Christians do this in a variety of ways. Fact: We are to live by having faith in God. False application: Having faith means we don't ask questions and don't require evidence, we just believe. Fact: We are to trust the Bible as the inspired Word of God. False application: We are not to reason but take the Bible just as it reads.
    - Scientists do this via multiple false assumptions. Fact: Carbon 14 decays at a fixed rate. False application: Accurate carbon dating can be obtained by measuring carbon 14 levels—but this is predicated upon an unprovable assumption that carbon 14 in the atmosphere was the same thousands of years ago as it is today.
- They believe the earth is a flat disc with the arctic circle at the center and the sun revolves around the earth. Around the edges of the disc is an ice wall that holds the oceans in. Government agencies have people at the ice wall to prevent anyone from climbing over and discovering the edge of the world.
- They deny gravity exists and instead believe what we call gravity is centrifugal force claiming the earth is constantly accelerating.
    - The result of employing multiple mental gymnastics—selection bias, denial, distortion, and false application of facts results in forming beliefs that are out of harmony with reality, i.e. false beliefs, lies.
    - Christianity has many of these—God is the source of pain and suffering under the guise of justice. Human beings have immortal souls. God tortures humans in hell for all eternity. God killed Jesus on the cross in order to satisfy His wrath. God requires the blood of a human sacrifice in order to forgive us.

    - Science has many of these—there is no God. Life came from non-living matter all on its own. Complexity and organization occur spontaneously on their own without any intelligent input.
- When asked how is it that the other planets that we can see are spheres and not round discs—their answer is that the other planets are not earth, and a flat earth doesn't require the other planets to be flat.
    - Christians do this when questions or evidence doesn't fit their model and they respond with: God's ways are not our ways, we just take that on faith and don't require it to make sense.

The Bible teaches how reality works—there is truth and there are lies. Each of us is to be fully persuaded in our own minds (Rom 14:5). If we choose to reject the truth then the only thing left for the mind to rest upon is a lie and with each subsequent rejection of truth we go further and further from reality until we eventually become delusional. This is what the Bible teaches in 2 Thes 2:9-11:

> The rise of the deviant one will be accompanied by manifestation of Satan's methods and power, counterfeit miracles, signs and wonders, and anything else that deceives and darkens the minds of those who are dying–those who did not develop minds that love the truth, and thereby did not partake of the Remedy. Because they reject the truth, God leaves them to their delusional world built on lies. The Remedy

This is true regarding any subject matter. If we on a clear day look at the sky and tell you the sky is blue, and use a meter that gives the exact wavelength of light being refracted and present that evidence to a person. They still have to choose to accept and believe it or reject it. But if they reject it—what is left for the mind to rest upon? It doesn't matter whether they choose red, or pink, or brown, or green, if it isn't blue it is a lie.

This is what happens to many people, they have never trained the mind to think through evidence and they form beliefs without evidence and thus reject evidence to cling to the belief. But this process damages and enfeebles the mind.

Let's talk a little about critical reasoning.

The more complex an issue the more easily for someone to find themselves believing false theories.

The more complex the issue the more information, facts, and data-points are needed to determine an accurate view.

Consider a complex puzzle with 10,000 pieces—what happens if you are given 12 of those pieces and told to determine the image?

Would accuracy increase with more pieces included?

This is the problem with Christian theologies—many of the conclusions, teachings, doctrines, are formed on limited data, using some of the pieces but not all of them.

Martin Luther for instance only accepted 62 books of the Bible as inspired, not all 66. He didn't value Revelation, Jude, James, and Hebrews. Excluding these four books deletes a lot of information particularly about the Great Controversy and the war in heaven, and thereby alters the context to understand the rest of Scripture.

Many Christians today split the Bible in two and teach an old dispensation with an Old Testament and a new dispensation with a New Testament. The Old Testament is not included in many theologies, at least not in the same way.

The Jews of course deny the New Testament and thus limit their understanding of reality.

Many Christians refuse the integrative evidenced-based approach and don't include the puzzle pieces from science and life experiences.

Others who value Scripture don't include all 66, they pick and choose the texts that support their view, but don't include and rationally explain the texts that don't.

Another way to distort the picture is to bring in pieces that are not part of the original puzzle. Muslims and Mormons bring in additional writings that take supremacy over Scripture and thus alter the picture they see from Scripture.

We at Come and Reason want to include all the evidence God has given—all of Scripture, plus science and experience.

Then, with all the evidence form the most accurate understanding of truth, always remaining open to have our views expand and update as more truth is understood and uncovered. In other words, we don't lock into a certain view and refuse to update with new credible evidence.

We also recognize that some pieces or threads of evidence have more value than other evidence. Foundational to understanding reality is to identify God's design laws—the laws upon which reality is built to operate. These are constants, they never change and therefore become references, yardsticks, barometers, guidelines to which our explanations must conform.

Further, for accurate understanding of Scripture one needs to recognize Jesus is God. This truth becomes another standard upon which our explanations of the rest of Scripture must be conformed. If we have teachings about God that contradict the truth that Jesus revealed about God, then we know our explanations are incorrect.

But if we deny Jesus is fully God then the message of Scripture gets distorted—God is not fully revealed in Jesus. If Jesus is not fully God, we don't know what God would do in various circumstances. We don't know whether God would forgive His persecutors, if Jesus is not fully God. Worse, we instead learn that God would sacrifice another to protect Himself rather than God sacrificing Himself for the good of others. Those who deny the Trinity, don't realize the terrible corruption of God's character the Arian or non-trinitarian views bring.

Why is it necessary for every person to be fully persuaded in their own mind? What happens if a person believes something because someone else told them, but they haven't actually been persuaded?

- Either they don't really believe it and they just conform which means they are really being dishonest and in hidden state of rebellion or,
- They are not settled, so even if they are a genuine believer, they are easily converted to another belief when a new dynamic and charismatic speaker comes along and presents what appears to be persuasive evidence.

But what is the problem in the mind of the person who believes the right thing, the actual truth, but hasn't thought it out for themselves. In other words, what is wrong with believing the truth because someone else told you the answer, your church, your parents, your pastor etc.?

It would be like knowing the right answers to the math exam because someone else told you that was the answer, even if your memorized answer is correct, you still don't know how to do math. Thus, your ability to examine facts, evidences, problem solve is impaired and you will base decisions on who you have the most confidence in, not in the truth itself.

When Satan impersonates Christ and does miracles etc. such people are almost certainly going to be deceived.

Our current culture is rife with such people, who believe headlines, believe people in authority, believe media personalities, believe news reports, but don't examine the evidence and reason it out for themselves.

MONDAY

This is a very interesting lesson, it describes one of the ancient non-Biblical creation narratives—the Atra-Hasis Epic.

The lesson points out critical differences, read #1 and #2, "In Atra-Hasis man works…"

When we understand the difference between design law and imposed law this is obviously and clearly Satanic in origin.

Notice this account has humans working so the gods can rest and the gods ultimately use power and force including death in order to bring forth life. This is exactly opposite of God's kingdom of love in which God gives of Himself for our good so we can find rest in Him and our God is the enemy of death, He is the one who destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light.

In a biblical worldview, we understand that there are two antagonistic forces at war: God and His kingdom of love, truth, freedom—which is at war with Satan and his kingdom of fear-driven selfishness, deceit, and coercion.

From the beginning of Satan's rebellion in heaven, he put his methods into play and attempted to ascend to the universe's highest position in order to rule over the other beings (Isaiah 14:13, 14). Satan's method is domination over, rule over.

But notice God's methods as revealed in Jesus. "Christ Jesus: Who, being in very nature God, did not consider equality with God something to be grasped, but made himself nothing, taking the very nature of a servant, being made in human likeness. And being found in appearance as a man, he humbled himself and became obedient to death" (Philippians 2:5–8 NIV84).

Satan's method is to rule over and dominate others, requiring the masses to serve him; God's method is to give of Himself to uplift His creation.

We see this difference in the contrast between the Bible Genesis account and the Atra-Hasis Epic. But, many have failed to see this essential difference in Christianity and the world today.

The three major monotheistic religions (Judaism, Christianity, Islam) have all been infected with the idea that God laws are like human laws, imperial rules requiring external infliction of punishment, rather than the truth that God's laws are design laws.

This has led to the false idea that sin is a legal problem that needs punishing, rather than a terminal condition that needs curing.

Every government based upon Satan's methods is a system in which a ruling elite rules over the masses in order to exploit the masses for the benefit of the few ruling elites. This is all accomplished through the imposing of rules/laws and the infliction of punishments for rule-breakers, along with rewards to those who please the elite.

Sin and evil are not the same. Sinfulness is a condition of being—a state of disharmony with God's design. Something with which we are born and is cured only in Jesus.

Evil is not merely the sin condition: struggling with fear, selfishness, addictions, and lusts. Evil is the intentional and purposeful choice to embrace selfishness and exploit, abuse, injure, harm, and dominate others. It is recognizable as actions that thwart other people's paths toward growth, development, enlightenment, and ultimately entering into a saving and eternal relationship with God.

Thus, activities of Satan and those influenced by him have the impact of demoralizing, degrading, injuring, harming, and undermining others—with the effect of one person or group dominating another person or group. In other words, satanic agencies seek to destroy the image of God in humans such that we become less capable of self-governance (the last fruit of the Spirit) and, thus, put us in need of external oversite, control, or being cared for by others.

Satanic agencies will always attempt to destroy individuality, thinking, reasoning, and autonomy in order to mold people into fear-driven, thoughtless hordes that are willing to subject themselves to the control of others they view as stronger, wiser, or in some way more capable or worthy.

Can you think of some examples in society?

Can you think of some examples in the church?

- indoctrination rather than teaching to think
- believe under coercion—threats from God or threats from the church
- The papal organizational structure is one of a ruling elite, a hierarchy with a supreme dictator operating upon imperial law. The SDA church was organized with diffusion of authority to the membership and not a central leadership. This was designed to allow truth to unfold and grow. Truth doesn't advance in society with all people waking up one day with the new understanding. It advances with individuals making discoveries and sharing their new insights, which are initially resisted, but because they are truth the are demonstrated over time to be more accurate and slowly, over time more and more people accept the truth and society advances. The SDA system was set up so that new truths could arise and false ideas would be weeded out naturally. Truth would occur in a local church, it would be shared within that group, conferences and then unions and divisions would slowly embrace the new truth and then when the majority of the world church have accepted the new light it becomes part of the official position of the church. The papal system resists such growth as it dictates the beliefs from on high and new beliefs from individuals that challenge orthodoxy is considered heresy. Sadly some in the SDA church have moved to reshape the organization into the papal model with a central hierarchy that dictates beliefs and obstructs the advancement of truth. This then obstructs the development and uplifting of people.

By contrast, God's methods always seek to uplift the and develop people restoring them back into the image of God.

When God's principles are active, people gain autonomy, ability, and capability. The principles of truth, love, and freedom lead people to think for themselves, grow in insight, wisdom, and understanding; in exercising their own ability to think and to do; in developing their God-given individuality to become thinkers, not mere reflectors of other people's thoughts.

This is why Jesus said, "My kingdom is not of this world." Because every human government in history has a few ruling elites dominating and exploiting the masses for the benefit of the elites—the aristocracy.

- ancient Egypt with its Pharaohs
- China with its emperors and empresses

- Japan with its shoguns eventually leading to its emperors
- Babylon, Persia, Greece, Rome with their kings, emperors, and popes leading to the nation states of Europe with their divine right of kings

When the US government was set established, its constitution was specifically written to obstruct this Satanic model—a ruling elite exploiting the masses. The US Constitution was written to diffuse power into the hands of the people and prevent a ruling aristocracy from arising. It did this by:

- Decentralization of power into three equal branches (legislative, executive, judicial)
- The limitation of congress to remove the president except for specific listed crimes (treason, bribery, high crimes and misdemeanors). The framers did not want the U.S. government to be parliamentarian, as in Britain, in which the prime minister serves at the behest of the parliament and can be removed for political reasons at any time with a majority vote of the parliament.
- Use of the electoral college rather than simple majority vote, which is another way to decentralize power and protect the rights of the minority.
- The separation of church and state—having seen the abuses in Europe when religious institutions controlled the power of the state, the framers specifically sought to limit the power of religions to control state agencies in order to enforce religious dogmas.
- The right of the citizenry to carry and bear arms—purposefully written into the constitution as a means for the citizens to protect themselves from threats, including those of an abusive government.
- The right to a free and independent press, intended to investigate and expose corruption in government so that the people could act via their power to vote to bring about change.
- The right to privacy, including no search and seizure without a warrant—again, giving power to the citizen and requiring the ruling authority to have legitimate justification to overrule individual liberties.
- The right to not self-incriminate. During the Inquisition, if an inquisitor asked you a question and you refused to answer, it was considered the same as an admission of guilt. The framers took power from the state and gave it to the individual.
- An educated citizenry who could read and write in order to be informed and to think for themselves and understand the processes involved to help elect qualified leaders.
- The requirement of elections every two years for the house, six years for the senate, and four years for president, thus, ultimately putting the power into the hands of the electorate and preventing an elite minority from ruling over the majority
- High hurdles to change this system written into the constitution.

If we believe the Biblical worldview, then we can anticipate that the US constitution with its protections of liberty and the diffusion of power into the hands of the masses will be attacked and eroded and that eventually a ruling elite will take over the US and use centralized governmental power to exploit the masses. Have we seen this occurring over the years since the founding of the USA?

Now, as I list some examples of how Constitutional protections have been slowly eroded, I want you to observe one of Satan's strategies or methods—doing evil and then initiating a response to destroy, removed, stop the evil—but the response ultimately erodes Constitutional protections.

- The Civil War strengthened the federal government and weakened states' rights—despite its positive effect of eliminating slavery
- Ever increasing gun regulation, making law-abiding citizens more dependent and vulnerable to the state's overreach—despite its intended positive goal to reduce gun violence in society
- Movements in certain states to do away with the electoral college—despite its stated goal of merely wanting the election to be representative of the majority of people
- The movement of media organizations toward promoting agendas rather than presenting facts—despite their goal of wanting to improve society
- The erosion to the right to privacy: FISA Courts, Patriot act, ever increasing cameras monitoring our behavior, digital listening systems, internet monitoring—despite the goal to protect us from terrorism
- Federal income tax which shifts economic power from individuals to the Federal government—despite the goal to protect the nation from foreign powers and provide social benefits
- Uncoupling the dollar from the gold standard and the creation of the Federal Reserve, which further moves economic power away from people to the ruling elites—despite the goal of a stable economy
- Huge government bureaucracies with layers of regulation and restrictions of liberty—despite the goal to protect from abuse and exploitation
- Governmental determination of what businesses are essential and what are not in the current COVID pandemic—despite the goal of protecting citizens from disease and death

Did you notice that every erosion of the protections of liberty, every move toward an ever-increasing centralized government with ruling elites is by attacking some actual other abuse or wrong? This is a classic strategy of Satan, create a wrong, an injury, an illness even, and then have the solution to that problem move further toward Satan's end-goal of a world-government of ruling elites that dominate the masses.

This is the mindset of the social progressives and all socialistic and communist governments—they present a problem—poverty, economic inequality, exploitation of a segment of society and then propose a solution in which ruling elites take away liberty and enforce by coercion the mandates of the government.

All false narratives have a controlling god who restricts liberty and takes from the masses to support the deity. Christians who hold to an imposed law view of God will do the same thing when they see a wrong to their worldview—abortion, homosexual marriage, and then seek to get the government to restrict liberty to achieve the goal that they believe is right. It is the exact same beastly method and they are falling for the exact same trick of the devil.

The truth is that God is the source of all and life, energy, goodness, love, truth all originate from Him and He is constantly dispersing His own energies for our health, welfare and the sustaining of His universe.

TUESDAY

Genesis versus Paganism—what is the root lie to all paganism? A god who functions like created beings, who makes up rules and governs by the use of coercive power, i.e. overseeing behavior and inflicting punishment for rule-breaking.

In other words, a god who is in some way restrictive of liberty.

Satan used this method in Eden, did God say you cannot eat from any tree in the garden—God is restricting your liberty. Rather than the truth, God gives us complete freedom—freedom to choose absolutely—but not freedom from the design laws and thus not freedom from the results or consequences of our choices.

So what is paganism—gods who make up rules, inflict punishment, and require the lesser creatures do something to the god to get the god to give to them.

At the 1897 General Conference Session of Seventh-day Adventists, Pastor George E. Fifield, secretary of the New England Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, gave a powerful sermon on this subject. Here is an excerpt:

> "In Christ Jesus we …[are] the household of God; and are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner-stone. … This is as near to the Lord as we can get. This is the at-one-ment. … Notwithstanding this, we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted [Isa 53:4]. That was what we thought about it. We said, God is doing all this; God is killing him, punishing him, to satisfy his wrath, in order to let us off. That is the pagan conception of sacrifice. The Christian idea of sacrifice is this. Let us note the contrast. 'God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believes in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.' That is the Christian idea. Yes, sir. Indifference keeps, hatred keeps, selfishness keeps. … But love, and love only, sacrifices, gives freely, gives itself, gives without counting the cost; gives because it is love. That is sacrifice, whether it is the sacrifice of bulls and goats, or of him who is the Lamb of God. It is the sacrifice that is revealed throughout the entire Bible. But the pagan idea of sacrifice is just the opposite. It is that some god is always offended, always angry, and his wrath must be propitiated in some way.
> "If it is an ordinary case, the blood of bulls and goats will suffice; but if it is an extraordinary case, the blood of some innocent virgin or child must flow; and when the god smells the blood, his wrath is appeased. We talk of pagan immortality, pagan Sunday, pagan idolatry, etc.; but it seems to me that the lowest thought is that men have brought this pagan idea of sacrifice > right into the Bible, and applied it to the sacrifice of the cross. So the Methodist Discipline uses these words: 'Christ died to reconcile the Father unto us,' that is, to propitiate God so that we could be forgiven—paganism straight out. Why, brethren and sisters, it is the application of the pagan conception of sacrifice to the sacrifice upon the cross, so that that wonderful manifestation of divine love, which God intended should cause all men, all beings in the universe, to wonder and adore, has been turned around and made a manifestation of wrath to be propitiated in order to save man. I am glad that we are losing sight of this manner of viewing the subject, where we do not say that Christ died to reconcile the Father unto us. Brethren, there is sometimes such a thing as to give up the expression of a thing, and think we have thus gotten rid of it, when a good deal of it still lingers and clouds our consciousness of the love of God, and the beauty of his truth, so that we cannot present a clear gospel." (1897 General Conference Daily Bulletin Sermon Series number 1)

Do you see how paganism has infected Christianity? The entire penal substitution theology is a form of paganism as it teaches a false penal/legal god who requires propitiation of wrath by the blood of a human sacrifice.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson focuses upon the genealogies of Genesis 5 and 11 and how they give specific ages when persons had children, how long they lived, what age when they died. They make the point that these specifications give credibility to the veracity of the Biblical account. Particularly it doesn't leave room for missing generations to extend the age of the earth by millions of years.

The lesson points out that some have attempted to reinterpret these accounts to be metaphor, or to skip generations so that the timeline can be extended to conform to the currently understood scientific model of the age of the earth.

Let's talk about that.

There are two general ways scientists try to determine age of some fossil, relic or rock.

If it is organic (containing carbon) then they often use carbon dating. If it is inorganic they use radio-decay rates of various radio isotopes.

Where does C -14 Come From?

> Radiocarbon dating relies on a simple natural phenomenon. As the Earth's upper atmosphere is bombarded by cosmic radiation, atmospheric nitrogen is broken down into an unstable isotope of carbon - carbon 14 (C-14).
> The unstable isotope is brought to Earth by atmospheric activity, such as storms, and becomes fixed in the biosphere. Because it reacts identically as regular carbon C-12, C-14 becomes attached to complex organic molecules through photosynthesis in plants and becomes part of their molecular makeup. Animals eating those plants in turn absorb Carbon-14 as well as the stable isotopes. This process of ingesting C-14 continues as long as the plant or animal remains alive, thus the amount of C-14 in a living organism remains constant, at the same ratio as what is in the environment.

C-14 Decay Profile

When the organism dies, the ratio of C-14 within its carcass begins to gradually decrease. The rate of decrease is 1/2 the quantity at death every 5,730 years. That is the half-life of C-14.

So when some bones are found and dated at 3 million years what do we say? Are they measuring the amount of radiocarbon correctly? No, C14 levels become too small to continue to measure beyond what would be approximately 50,000 years. So, such claims of bones being 3 million years old are not based on carbon 14, but on where they are found. In other words, it is not direct scientific evidence.

But what about items that are dated to be 40-50,000 years of age, should we accept this as an accurate date. No, we should accept the measurement of C14 in the specimen as an accurate measurement—but the date projected from that amount of C14 is based on an assumption that the carbon 14 in the atmosphere at the time that organism died was at the same concentration as the carbon 14 in our atmosphere today. This is not provable and thus is totally assumed. The Bible narrative gives a plausible explanation that the C14 levels in any organism living before the flood would be significantly lower as there was a water layer above the earth that would have reduced the solar radiation reaching the nitrogen and forming C14. Thus anything living before the flood would appear much older than it actually is.

What about the other radiodating techniques for rocks i.e. inorganic matter?

This is based upon another assumption that radioactive isotopes decay at a constant rate. But, recent research has demonstrated that solar flares altar the radio decay rates of radioactive isotopes. Further, the decay rates change on a 33 day cycle which corresponds to the rotation of the sun's core. https://phys.org/news/2010-08-radioactive-vary-sun-rotation.html

Again, the water layer above the earth as the Bible describes would impact radio decay. We don't know the impact the flood had on radioisotopes on the earth. And the Bible describes a scenario, in which the sun burns 7 times hotter and the moon burns as bright as the sun, this would have been when the water layer was over the earth. (Isa 30:26)

If any of those unprovable assumptions are true, then the radio dating is completely unreliable because we don't know the rates and starting points of when the earth was created.

So the point is, science doesn't have any reliable evidence to refute the Genesis narrative.

THURSDAY

The lesson points out that Jesus and the New Testament writers took the Old Testament account of creation literally and this gives added reliability to the creation account. I don't dispute this at all.

But if one were to be specific to this line of evidence, all one could ultimately conclude is that the Bible writers believed the Bible account to be true, their belief doesn't prove it to be true.

In fact, did the Bible writer believe other things that were not true and for which they had to change their beliefs?

- Did the Apostles originally believe Jesus would rule with power over?
- Did they originally seek to have the highest positions of power in Jesus' kingdom?
- Did they originally believe they shouldn't associate with non-Jews?
- In other words, were there many beliefs the Bible writers didn't understand and had to grow into truth as Jesus and the Holy Spirit revealed it to them. So, critics could argue that just because the New Testament writers believed something only proves that they believed it.

I personally agree with them on creation and believe they were correct, but don't believe in creation merely because they did, but because it is true and the evidence is overwhelming for it.

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 10
The Bible and History

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

The lesson points out that the Bible is constituted history—in other words it is recording events that occurred in history in a linear fashion.

There are a variety of ways to approach the Bible. If one uses the wrong approach then one can take the same Bible texts, stories, and come to divergent conclusions.

- The Bible is a storybook written by people ignorant of reality who were trying their best to describe what was happening.
- The Bible is history with religious beliefs that were borrowed from multiple other religions in the region
- The Bible is a book of myths, not to be taken seriously but metaphorically
- The Bible stories are stand-alone stories each teaching us the power of God and the principles of right and wrong—do right God blesses, do wrong God punishes.
- The Bible is to be understood through imposed law lenses, God is supreme and made up law and we are expected to obey, but if we don't God is required to punish.
- There are two dispensations—the Old Covenant recorded in the Old Testament in which salvation was achieved through law and animal sacrifice, and the New Covenant recorded in the New Testament in which salvation is by grace through faith in the blood payment of a human sacrifice—Jesus the Son of God.
- The Bible is to be taken literally, just as it reads, without understanding figures of speech, metaphor, symbols.
- The Bible is the authoritative source of all truth—no, the Bible is the authoritative source of saving truth—the truth about God, the origins of humanity, sin, the plan of salvation—everything necessary for salvation. But it is not the authoritative source of truth on the best manufacturing techniques for ink pens, or printing presses, or metallurgy, or physical therapy techniques.

All of these approaches are flawed—the approach that helps us see the truth God has inspired to be recorded in the Bible is:

- Understanding God as Creator and thus His law as Design Law
- Using the integrative evidence-based approach wherever multiple threads of evidence are available.

- Taking all 66 books together as one dispensation—one God, one human race, one sin problem, and one solution to the problem—thus understanding the Bible is telling one story—not many stand-alone stories.
- Appropriately interpreting figures of speech, metaphor, simile, parable
- Refraining from using the Bible to teach things it is not intended to teach
- Examples of extreme literalism and using the Bible to teach or apply to things in was never intended include:
    - Not starting a fire on Sabbath means any action which has a spark, such as turning on an electrical switch—so we must have computer programming to turn on all the switches for us, or program our elevators to constantly run stopping at every floor on the Sabbath.
    - The New Testament never mentions musical instruments in worship, therefore we can only worship God with our voices and cannot use instruments.
    - The Bible is a book on the physics of motion and therefore when the Bible refers to the sun rising in the east or setting in the west, or in Joshua's battle the sun stood still, then such comments are referring to the sun moving around the earth or the sun being stopped from moving.

But with our method in mind we see that the Old Testament is the process of God working to bring Messiah and Satan and evil forces working to not only corrupt human beings into sinfulness, but also to specifically prevent the coming of the Messiah. That is the focus, goal, key. If Jesus never came as a human then the human race is eternally lost, planet earth is not freed from sin, Satan's rebellion continues, perhaps more intelligent beings in the universe are deceived and join Satan's rebellion.

But, with Jesus's victory on earth at the Cross, Satan's rebellion is overthrown. The rest of the sinless beings in the universe are solidified in loyalty, none give Satan a second to present his arguments any more, thus his work is restricted to earth. Further, the human race was redeemed in Jesus, which means eventually the planet is going to be restored—the only outstanding variable is how many individual humans will cooperate with Jesus for healing of their hearts and minds.

So, the key is Jesus. With this in mind the stories fall into place, the focus of the Bible falls into place. We understand what is transpiring right from the beginning:

- Immediately after Adam's fall, God is working to reveal the truth about Himself, the coming Messiah and the plan of salvation—seeking to heal hearts and minds. Satan is working to harden hearts and minds, distort the plan of salvation with a lie and obstruct the coming Messiah. So, Satan inspires Cain to reject humble trust in the coming Messiah and to embrace pride in his own hard work and take the fruit of his own labor and offer these to God as a means to pay or merit salvation—denying his need of a Savior. Abel, humbly accepts his sin condition and puts his faith and trust in the promised Messiah to come. Satan stirs up jealousy in Cain and inspires him to kill Abel—kill the one who embraces truth and practices God's methods and teaches God's plan of a coming Messiah.

- Satan leading the world into rebellion against God, seeking to harden hearts permanently against God so that not one human being would work with God, thereby closing the avenue for the Messiah. God waits until there is only one righteous man left on the entire earth and acts by bringing the flood in order, not to punish, but to keep open the avenue for the Messiah. The flood was also not like Sodom immediate vaporization, but was a period of time giving all on the earth who had heard the 120 years of Noah's preaching time to repent—like the thief on the cross their earthly life was over, but they could still turn to God if there was any part of them not hardened beyond healing. And, God changed the face of the earth to increase the necessity of work in order to slow the corruption of human character and to shorten the lifespan of mankind to again slow the spread of sin—all of these actions designed to keep open the avenue for Messiah, eliminate sin and save humanity.

- The same process with the tower of Babel, Satan working to unify the world into rebellion, to harden hearts and close avenue for Messiah. God works to slow the spread of evil and keep open the avenue for Messiah.

- The focus on Abraham and his family is because it is through Abraham's family that the Messiah is going to come—the Bible no longer needs to focus on the entire human race, but that branch through which Messiah will come. Additionally, Satan's prime focus is now to destroy that branch of the human family through which Messiah is going to come. And that is what we see happening throughout the Old Testament.

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "The monarchy of David…" First question—what this God's plan—to have a monarchy?

This so-called golden age was not God's plan, but God working with them, within the limits of the people's willingness to trust and follow God.

Consider what God told them:

> Samuel told all the words of the LORD to the people who were asking him for a king. 11 He said, "This is what the king who will reign over you will do: He will take your sons and make them serve with his chariots and horses, and they will run in front of his chariots. 12 Some he will assign to be commanders of thousands and commanders of fifties, and others to plow his ground and reap his harvest, and still others to make weapons of war and equipment for his chariots. 13 He will take your daughters to be perfumers and cooks and bakers. 14 He will take the best of your fields and vineyards and olive groves and give them to his attendants. 15 He will take a tenth of your grain and of your vintage and give it to his officials and attendants. 16 Your menservants and maidservants and the best of your cattle and donkeys he will take for his own use. 17 He will take a tenth of your flocks, and you yourselves will become his slaves. 18

> When that day comes, you will cry out for relief from the king you have chosen, and the LORD will not answer you in that day."
> 19 But the people refused to listen to Samuel. "No!" they said. "We want a king over us. 20 Then we will be like all the other nations, with a king to lead us and to go out before us and fight our battles."
> 21 When Samuel heard all that the people said, he repeated it before the LORD. 22 The LORD answered, "Listen to them and give them a king." 1Sam 8:10-22

Multiple things come to mind—is this a stand-alone story or part of the one story—humanity fallen into sin and God working to bring Messiah to save humanity while Satan works to obstruct the coming Messiah?

- What did God describe would be the result of their request? A ruling elite, monarchy, aristocracy, in which that ruling elite exploits the people for the benefit of the aristocracy. Whose form of government is this? Satan's form of government. What happens to the masses in this form of government?
- Why did the people want this, according to the text? So they could be like the other nations. Again, what did Jesus say about the kingdoms of this world? His kingdom was not of this world. They didn't want God's kingdom and methods, they wanted to be like the world. And what did they get?
- Do we see how this again was an attack on God's plan, to bring in methods and principles of exploitation, domination, control that would damage and destroy the image of God in people and thereby harden hearts and obstruct the avenue for Messiah. And in fact that happened, they continued through their leadership to go into false worship with ever increasing selfishness which obstructed God's plan—not only to bring Messiah, but obstructed God's plan for the people—they never became the nation of priests to evangelize the world for Messiah, but instead became ever-increasingly self-centered nationalists.

So, in this so-called golden age we find the Great Controversy being played out with Satan subverting God's plan with his own imperial law methods.

God's plan was for the people to be a kingdom of priests, i.e. who would go out into the world and share the truth about God and that God would be there king.

Now, consider what we saw in the wilderness—God provided food for them, water for them, sustained their clothing so things didn't wear out, and provided good health so they didn't get sick. God was giving of himself to support them and provide for their health and welfare. He instructed them only with such instructions as were good for their character development:

- the offerings of various kinds (gold, silver, mirrors etc. to build the sanctuary) was not for God's benefit to support and sustain God, but was for the benefit of the people, to bring them in by practice to be participants in God's methods; for them to be givers in order to open the channels of love and trust in their hearts by action. To give them opportunity to invest themselves with God in their own healing of heart and mind.

- the various regulations God set up were not for God' benefit, or to control and dominate people but for their health and protection and maturity—to lead them into ever increasing character development and unity with God

But they rejected God's plan and substituted their own and we see the patience, love, mercy and grace of God who meets them where they are and works with them to still bring about His plan of Jesus coming to save humanity.

The point of the lesson is to establish that King David and Solomon were real people who existed and ruled Israel as the Bible describes. They provide various archeological evidence that corroborates the Bible narrative that David and Solomon did in fact exist.

What would be the purpose of arguing that David never existed, he is a fictional character? It is part of the obstruction of the plan of salvation to deny the descendant of David—Jesus who is our Savior.

MONDAY

The lesson reviews the history of King Hezekiah when Isaiah was prophet and the Assyrians attacked Judah—how the Assyrians sacked several cities, but Hezekiah turned to the Lord who promised they would not breech the walls of Jerusalem—and how the angel of the Lord overthrew the 180,000 Assyrian army.

The lesson gives archeological evidence that all these individuals lived and this gives veracity to the Biblical account.

Do we see this story as a stand-alone story—just another example of how if we trust God He delivers us from our enemies, but if we don't then He doesn't deliver us? Worse, if we fight against God He destroys us?

Without understanding the larger Great Controversy narrative, it is frequently presented like this. But these are false conclusions leading to the health-wellness gospel—do the right thing, keep the right rules, pray the right prayer and God blesses you with health and wealth. But if you don't you either don't get the blessing or worse, God actively harms you.

- During this time in human history the Zhou dynasty ruled China. Did God punish the Chinese who were under the Zhou dynasty at this time? They didn't promote Yahweh; they established the idea of Mandate of Heaven which gave them the authority to take wealth from others to support their regime. During this time Confucius who founded Confucianism and Laozi the founder of Taoism lived. Did God punish these people for their failing to follow Him? Why not? Because the theory that God inflicts punishment is false.

- During this time in human history the Chavin empire ruled in portions of South America. Did God punish the ancient Chavin society which was pagan and polytheistic? No—why not? Because the theory that God punishes people for wrong worship or not obeying Him is a lie.
- Satan's lie from the beginning—I love this quote from one of the founders of the SDA church, revealing what the SDA church was supposed to teach:
    - In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. When men broke the law of God, and defied His will, Satan exulted. It was proved, he declared, that the law could not be obeyed; man could not be forgiven. Because he, after his rebellion, had been banished from heaven, Satan claimed that the human race must be forever shut out from God's favor. God could not be just, he urged, and yet show mercy to the sinner. DA 761.4

Satan's lie from the beginning is that God's law functions like human law and God must inflict punishment for disobedience. Some take the Bible stories, like Hezekiah and misapply it to teach this very lie—in fact the vast majority of Christian teaching seems to do this. Why? Because a beastly system infected Christianity with a lie that essentially every theology department of every Christian denomination teaches to their pastors and Bible teachers—that God's law functions like human law.

But what do we understand then is going on with the Assyrians and Hezekiah if God is not punishing the Assyrians and not merely rewarding Hezekiah? It is the plan of salvation—this is the story. Satan is working through the Assyrians to try and destroy the avenue for Messiah. God acts to keep open the avenue for Messiah. It is that simple. Without Jesus then every human being throughout all human history is eternally lost. So, the key to understanding the entire Scripture is the plan of salvation centering upon Jesus.

Then, with that understanding in mind we must still understand God's design law and how love actually works, the principles of liberty. We must understand God cannot heal hearts and minds without willing agreement and participation of the sentient being.

This is why God gave them kings when He didn't want them to have kings—because God cannot force hearts and minds into loyalty. God cannot heal hearts and minds from fear and selfishness by exercise of power—such actions would only turn sentient beings into mindless programmed robots. So, when we refuse to trust God, to allow Him to lead and direct, God meets us where we are and allows our choices to bring us painful consequences to awaken us to what happens when we are outside His will. Then, when we turn to Him, He heals and restores our hearts and minds.

But if we embrace the Great Controversy view and understand the Bible is focused on Jesus the Messiah, yet still hold to the human imposed law lie, then we still teach a lie and make God out to be the source of pain and suffering and still misunderstand the Bible stories.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson provides archeological evidence to support that Jesus was a real historical figure as well as other people who lived at the time of Jesus and who are mentioned in the Bible.

I really don't know of any arguments that have been put forth that take the position that Jesus didn't exist or that Jesus is a made-up figure like Santa Claus.

The attacks on Jesus have not been that He did not live, but that He was not the incarnate Son of God, but just a good Jewish teacher. That is the more typical attack.

Why can we have confidence in rejecting the idea that Jesus was just a good teacher?

- The fulfillment of all the OT prophecies in the person of Jesus—the actual historical events that all accurately are fulfilled in His life
- What the teachings of Jesus reveal—the complete and perfect revelation of God and God's design law of love.
- Jesus's own testimony about who He was. If He is not the Son of God, then He would be viewed as delusional as He claimed to come from God and was returning to God. He referred to Himself as the I Am, a reference to God.
- The witness of the Apostles—and the fact they worshipped Jesus.
- The empty tomb
- The understanding that the entire OT was teaching the Messiah was coming and what the Messiah was to accomplish and then how it was accomplished in Jesus
- Did you notice I did not reference the miracles that He performed? Not because they are unimportant, but because the other weight of evidence is so overwhelming and persuasive and because miracles are the easiest to counterfeit. In other words, we don't need to believe in Jesus based upon miracles. And on the road to Emmaus Jesus's method to lead his disciples to understand the truth of who He was and His mission, was not to reveal Himself as risen—a miracle to be sure—but to take them through the evidence of Scripture fulfilled in His life.

THURSDAY

The lesson points out that the Bible records the history of people not only to give us historical events, but to demonstrate to us from history how faith changes lives and brings victory.

What is faith? It is trust, confidence, belief, devotion that leads to action.

Let's examine how faith led to action that led to victory in people's lives and worked as part of God's plan of salvation. Let's examine the list of people in the hall of faith in Hebrews 11:

- Abel—we already discussed how he trusted God and cooperated with God for his own healing and taught God's plan to bring the Messiah—and how Satan worked against the truth and inspired Cain to kill him, trying to close the avenue of truth.
- Enoch—we see God's ultimate plan, those who trust God and walk with Him are cured of sin, given immortal life and taken from the world of sin. This is the promise we receive in Jesus.
- Noah—Satan worked to harden the hearts of the human race to close avenue for Messiah. God worked through Noah to keep open avenue for Messiah.
- Abraham—trust God and left his family, moved to a new land, and had a promised child in old age. Abraham through trust experiences a new heart and becomes the father of the faithful and his family were God's chosen helpers through which the Messiah came. The focus of the Bible narrows down on this branch of the human family. Satan focused his energies on trying to destroy or corrupt this branch of the human family in order to obstruct God's saving plan.
- Sarah—trusted God and was healed of infertility and enabled to become a mother at age 90. Again, God's plan to bring forth Messiah was carried forward by people who trusted Him and were willing to cooperate with Him.
- Isaac—trust God and voluntarily surrendered himself to be sacrificed, cooperating with God to give a metaphor for the plan of salvation, to help his father Abraham overcome his own fears and be sealed in faith.
- Jacob—who struggled throughout his life with fear and selfishness, but who with God's help wrestled against his own fear and selfishness and gained the victory by trusting God. Thus his name was changed to Israel, one, who with God, overcomes. We see in Jacob's life how Satan tempted him to give up and do his own thing—again working to destroy the avenue for Messiah.
- Joseph—we see Satan working to destroy this branch of the human family by stirring up jealousy in Joseph's brothers, inspiring them to sell him as a slave. I believe Satan brought the famine trying to starve out the family—working to stop the coming Messiah. But Joseph trusted God and though the brothers intended their actions for evil, God overruled for good. God allowed (did not cause) the bothers to sell Joseph in order to place Joseph just where he was needed when the famine came in order to save the family and keep open the avenue for the Messiah.
- Moses—after God's victory over Satan's plan through Joseph and the resettling of the family in Goshen. God blessed them and they grew. But Satan inspired the new leadership in Egypt with fear and selfishness and they enslaved the Israelites. Satan working to destroy the avenue, to erase the image of God in them, to demoralize them, to harden them, to get them to give up on trusting God. So, God sends Moses. But Satan inspires Pharaoh to kill all the males of a certain age in order to try and stop God's deliverance of the people. Again, working to destroy this branch of the human family. God intervenes and places Moses in Pharaoh's family and provides Moses with the best education in the world. Satan tempts Moses to act on his own and he murders an overseer and Satan uses this to undermine Moses resolve and the trust of the Israelites in Moses. Moses flees—Satan working to get rid of God's chosen agent for that time. But God continues to develop Moses over the next 40 years and Moses returns to deliver the people from slavery and establish them as God's helpers keeping open the plan of salvation. Throughout this entire story we can see this struggle between God working to bring the Savior and Satan working to destroy this branch of the human family: the false gods of Egypt to corrupt the minds of the Hebrews and the plagues to expose the false gods and turn the people back to Yahweh; Korah, Dathan and Abirum leading the people into rebellion and God acting to stop the rebellion in order to keep the plan of salvation moving forward; the golden calf and the destruction of the calf and drinking of it in the water; the well, on and on, you can see this battle between Satan trying to corrupt and destroy the avenue for Messiah and God working to keep open the avenue for Messiah.

- The people passing through the Red Sea and the Egyptian army drowning—Satan working to destroy the avenue for Messiah by inspiring an army to kill them and God working to keep it open.
- Rahab—who hid the spies and lied—but she lied in faith—she trusted God when it was a danger to her life. God working to establish Israel as His agents for the communication of truth to free hearts and minds from sin and ultimately the arrival of Messiah, and Satan working on the pagan groups to either war against and destroy Israel, or to infect them with further false beliefs. Either directly by pagan worship practices, or by fear and intimidation and thus doubting God. Thus God works to remove these agents from being able to destroy the avenue for Messiah. You will notice, throughout all of this history, God typically removes the minimum required to keep open the avenue for Messiah. As evidenced by Sodom, God has the ability to completely annihilate and eradicate and wipe clean. He could have done that to all the people in Canaan and thus given Israel a depopulated land. But that is not God's goal—God doesn't want to remove people, He wants to save people. So when He acts He acts like a surgeon who removes only the cancer, the minimum tissue necessary in order to heal.
- Gideon—same thing, Satan is stirring up enemies to try and destroy the avenue for Messiah. God uses Gideon to drive them back and keep open avenue for Messiah.
- Barak—same thing, Sisera was used by Satan to try and destroy God's people, closing the avenue for Messiah. Deborah instructs Barak to oppose Sisera and God gives them victory keeping open avenue for Messiah.
- Samson—God called Samson to be a champion to hold back the enemies, and Satan attacks and corrupts Sampson through lust and selfishness. Samson in the end destroys many of the enemies of Israel thus limiting their negative influence and ultimately working to keep open avenue for Messiah.
- Jephthah—Same thing, Satan inspires the Ammonites to attack Israel, seeking to destroy them thus shutting down the avenue for Messiah, but through Jephthah's faith in God he is used to lead forces against the Ammonites driving them back and keeping open the avenue for Messiah.
- David—Satan is working through the Philistines to destroy Israel thus seeking to close the avenue for Messiah. God works through David to kill Goliath and route the Philistine army. Satan corrupts Saul and seeks to have David killed, thus destroying the avenue for Messiah. But God preserves David keeping open avenue for Messiah.

Do you see the story, how the Bible makes perfect sense when we understand the issues going on?

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Bible is the most ancient…" I agree with this statement, but does this mean the Bible is to be used alone, or combined with God's other revelations in nature and experience?

Consider these quotes from the same author:

> It was not alone upon the hills of Judea, not among the lowly shepherds only, that angels found the watchers for Messiah's coming. In the land of the heathen also were those that looked for Him; they were wise men, rich and noble, the philosophers of the East. Students of nature, the Magi had seen God in His handiwork. From the Hebrew Scriptures they had learned of the Star to arise out of Jacob, and with eager desire they awaited His coming, who should be not only the "Consolation of Israel," but a "Light to lighten the Gentiles," and "for salvation unto the ends of the earth." Luke 2:25, 32; Acts 13:47. They were seekers for light, and light from the throne of God illumined the path for their feet. While the priests and rabbis of Jerusalem, the appointed guardians and expounders of the truth, were shrouded in darkness, the Heaven-sent star guided these Gentile strangers to the birthplace of the newborn King. GC 315.2
> As these magi studied the starry heavens, they beheld the glory of the Creator. Seeking clearer knowledge, they turned to the Hebrew Scriptures. In their own land were prophetic writings that predicted the coming of a divine teacher. Balaam's prophecies had been handed down by tradition from century to century. But in the Old Testament the magi learned with joy that the Saviour's coming was near. The whole world was to be filled with a knowledge of the glory of the Lord. From Heaven with Love 34.3

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 11
The Bible and Prophecy

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

The Bible and Prophecy—what is the primary purpose of prophecy?

> I have told you now before it happens, so that when it does happen you will believe. John 14:19 NIV8

The primary purpose is to increase our faith, confidence, belief, trust in God ONCE the prophecy happens. It is not primarily so that we can predict future events in detail, but when events happen we can see that God foreknew and that God's plan is being carried out and therefore we can trust God.

Have you considered the focus or endpoint of Bible prophecies? Is there an overarching theme to the Bible and Bible prophecy—various prophecies having increasing details, but do many of the Bible prophecies have the same theme?

Well, let's ask, what are the themes or end-goal of each of these prophecies:

To Satan in Eden: And I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your offspring and hers; he will crush your head, and you will strike his heel. Gen 3:15 NIV84

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

To Abraham: I will surely bless you and make your descendants as numerous as the stars in the sky and as the sand on the seashore. Your descendants will take possession of the cities of their enemies, and through your offspring all nations on earth will be blessed… Gen 22:17,18 NIV84

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

To David: The LORD declares to you that the LORD himself will establish a house for you: When your days are over and you rest with your fathers, I will raise up your offspring to succeed you, who will come from your own body, and I will establish his kingdom. He is the one who will build a house for my Name, and I will establish the throne of his kingdom forever. I will be his father, and he will be my son… Your house and your kingdom will endure forever before me; your throne will be established forever.' " 2Sam 7:11-16 NIV84

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

To Isaiah: For to us a child is born, to us a son is given, and the government will be on his shoulders. And he will be called Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace. Of the increase of his government and peace there will be no end. He will reign on David's throne and over his kingdom, establishing and upholding it with justice and righteousness from that time on and forever. Isaiah 9:6,7 NIV84

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

Zechariah's prophecy about a measuring stick and Joshua the High Priest and Satan accusing—what is it about?

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

To Zechariah: Tell him this is what the LORD Almighty says: 'Here is the man whose name is the Branch, and he will branch out from his place and build the temple of the LORD. 13 It is he who will build the temple of the LORD, and he will be clothed with majesty and will sit and rule on his throne. And he will be a priest on his throne. And there will be harmony between the two.' Zech 6:12-13 NIV84

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

To Haggai: This is what the Lord Almighty says: 'In a little while I will once more shake the heavens and the earth, the sea and the dry land. 7 I will shake all nations, and the desired of all nations will come, and I will fill this house with glory,' says the Lord Almighty… The glory of this present house will be greater than the glory of the former house,' says the LORD Almighty. 'And in this place I will grant peace,' declares the LORD Almighty." Haggai 2:6-9 NIV84

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

To Joel: And afterward, I will pour out my Spirit on all people. Your sons and daughters will prophesy, your old men will dream dreams, your young men will see visions. Even on my servants, both men and women, I will pour out my Spirit in those days. I will show wonders in the heavens and on the earth, blood and fire and billows of smoke. The sun will be turned to darkness and the moon to blood before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD. And everyone who calls on the name of the LORD will be saved; Joel 2:28-32 NIV84

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

To Jeremiah: This is what the Lord says: "When seventy years are completed for Babylon, I will come to you and fulfill my gracious promise to bring you back to this place. For I know the plans I have for you," declares the Lord, "plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future. Jer 29:10.11 NIV84

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

Daniel 2 the multi-metal man—ends with God's kingdom

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

Daniel's vision of beasts ends with: "In my vision at night I looked, and there before me was one like a son of man, coming with the clouds of heaven. He approached the Ancient of Days and was led into his presence. He was given authority, glory and sovereign power; all peoples, nations and men of every language worshiped him. His dominion is an everlasting dominion that will not pass away, and his kingdom is one that will never be destroyed." Daniel 7:13-14 NIV84

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

To Malachi: See, I will send my messenger, who will prepare the way before me. Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come," says the LORD Almighty. But who can endure the day of his coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver. Mal 3:1-3 NIV84

- Jesus destroying sin and Satan and saving people

To Malachi: "Surely the day is coming; it will burn like a furnace. All the arrogant and every evildoer will be stubble, and that day that is coming will set them on fire," says the LORD Almighty. "Not a root or a branch will be left to them. But for you who revere my name, the sun of righteousness will rise with healing in its wings. And you will go out and leap like calves released from the stall. Then you will trample down the wicked; they will be ashes under the soles of your feet on the day when I do these things," says the LORD Almighty. Mal 4:1-3 NIV84

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "The foundational method…" There three general approaches to Bible prophecy are:

- Historicism—historical linear flow that events move into the future in an unbroken chain.
- Preterism—which teaches the prophecies of the Bible are all historic, occurring in the past. Daniel's prophecies all occurred before the birth of Christ and Revelation all were fulfilled in the first century. Preterism was put forth by Jesuit Priest Luis de Alcasar during the counter reformation (the Roman church's attack against the Reformation) in the 16th Century. Its purpose was to undermine historicism and create an interpretation that made it impossible for prophecies of Daniel and Revelation to apply to the Roman church.
- Futurism—interprets Bible prophecy as having a future fulfillment around the second coming of Christ, typically literally with very little interpretation of symbols or metaphor.
- Idealism—interprets Bible prophecy as all symbolic of ideals or themes of processes, but not historic, not actually apply to specific events, but principles or processes.

The Protestant Reformers used the historicist approach to Bible prophecy, Luther and the other reformers. It wasn't until the Roman counter reformation that non-historicist methods were proposed.

The SDA church continues to use the historicist method and Sunday's lesson demonstrates this with the prophecies of Daniel, the multi-metal man and the beasts which the Bible lists as specific nations (Babylon, Mede-Persia, Greece, Rome) that arose in a linear and progressive way through history.

MONDAY

Documents the year-day principle, that in Bible prophecy a day stands for a year. We find this principle in:

- Numbers 14:34: For forty years—one year for each of the forty days you explored the land—you will suffer for your sins and know what it is like to have me against you.'
- Ezekiel 4:6: "After you have finished this, lie down again, this time on your right side, and bear the sin of the house of Judah. I have assigned you 40 days, a day for each year.

So, these two texts give us a principle to use in Bible time prophecy, but it still needs to be applied to determine if it is correct, which would be demonstrated by accurate fulfillment of time prophecies.

One of the best places to see this demonstrated is the prophecy of Daniel 9:24-27 concerning the coming Messiah:

24 "Seventy weeks are determined
For your people and for your holy city,
To finish the transgression,
To make an end of sins,

To make reconciliation for iniquity,
To bring in everlasting righteousness,
To seal up vision and prophecy,
And to anoint the Most Holy.
25 "Know therefore and understand,
That from the going forth of the command
To restore and build Jerusalem
Until Messiah the Prince,
There shall be seven weeks and sixty-two weeks…

26 "And after the sixty-two weeks
Messiah shall be cut off, but not for Himself…

27 Then he shall confirm a covenant with many for one week;
But in the middle of the week
He shall bring an end to sacrifice and offering… NKJV

It is very interesting to read the prophecy in multiple translations because you will note significant differences in how it is translated, based on the assumptions the translators have when they translate. It is a good place to show how wide-ranging translations can be and how biases and assumptions can influence the way it is translated. This translation is a reasonable one, if you understand the "sevens" are weeks, which most of the other translations say.

So to test the year-day principle we need to calculate the total number of days/years, have a starting point and then see if in fact Messiah comes as described and experiences and accomplishes what is described on time.

If you research this prophecy you will find many various interpretations and applications, some taking the preterist view, and apply this prophecy to Antiochus and events before the time of Christ. And I have seen many arguments over the details of the text between the historicists and preterists.

But to me it is really quite simple to know the historicist view is correct: it is a general principles to understanding Scripture—and that is what is the purpose of the Bible, its central purpose? To reveal God and His plan of salvation. If there are multiple potential interpretations and only one of them focuses on Jesus and the plan of salvation and the others take our attention away from Jesus and the plan of salvation, which do you think is the true interpretation?

The focus of the entire OT is the controversy between God and Satan focused on the promised seed who will crush the serpent's head. Thus, as will be demonstrated, this prophecy is specific to the coming Messiah.

There were three different decrees given to rebuild Jerusalem. This allows for the different potential applications to different times. But only one of them also gave them autonomy to self-govern, which not only rebuilds but restores, which was the decree by Artaxerxes in 457 BC.

So we have a starting point and we have 70 weeks, weeks have 7 days so 70 times 7 equals 490 days, which would be 490 years.

The prophecy breaks the 70 weeks into segments, 7, 62 and 1. The first 7 weeks (49 days or years) plus 62 weeks (434 days or years) which together equals 69 weeks, or 483 days, which become 483 years according to year/day principle.

If we use the starting date of 457 BC:

- The first 7 weeks or 49 years are the years the Jews took to rebuild the temple after their captivity
- The next 434 years added to the 49 equals 483 years which takes us to 27 AD and that was when Jesus was baptized and began His ministry—the coming of the Messiah—just as the prophecy predicted
- In the middle of the last week 3.5 years later He brings an end to the sacrificial system—Jesus died in 31 AD—again just as the prophecy predicted
- At the end of that 70 weeks, 34 AD the gospel goes to the Gentiles, i.e. the entire world.

So, focusing on Jesus, we can see this prophecy is very accurate and is specific in its time application, thus the day year principle is validated. And we also see again that the focus of Bible prophecy is the plan of salvation.

TUESDAY/WEDNESDAY

The lesson focuses on identifying the little horn of Daniel, that the horn arises out of the fourth kingdom—which was Rome and wars against the saints and has many specific identifiers such as it:

- claims God's power or position—blasphemes
- uproots three horns—which the 10 horns represent the 10 groups that Rome broke up into and three of them were Arian i.e. didn't believe in the divinity of Jesus, and this power destroyed them—the Ostrogoths, Heruli and Visigoths.
- Would persecute for 1260 days or years—the Roman church received power in 538 when Roman General Belisarius defeated the last of the Arians and gave authority to the Bishop of Rome. 1260 years later, exactly at 1798 Berthier, Napoleon's general entered Rome and took the pope captive, ending the 1260 years of persecution.
- Seek to change times and laws—and the Roman church introduced imperialism, the belief that God's law functions like human law and then changed the day of worship from Sabbath to Sunday. These days stand as signs, symbols, banners, flags, pennants of two systems of worship—Creator Designer God whose laws are protocols upon which life is built, or dictator god who makes up rules like we do and then uses power to punish rule-breakers.

But I want to focus us on the power behind the horn and connect it with Wednesday's lesson, the cleansing of the sanctuary.

The prophecy of Daniel and 8 and 9, focuses on the 2300 years, 70 weeks of which was cut off for the Jewish people to complete their mission to be the avenue for the Messiah which we already discussed, after that the Remedy procured by Jesus would be taken to the entire world but the little horn would oppose it.

The 2300-year prophecy takes us to 1844 and the Millerite movement in which Baptist preacher William Miller taught the sanctuary is the earth and the cleansing was Jesus returning to the earth. This resulted in the great disappointment when Jesus didn't return and afterward a reevaluation of the interpretation.

This is a good example of the misuse of Bible prophecy—its primary purpose is to give us confidence in God once the events have happened, not to accurately predict future events in detail. We can predict general events accurately, like the second coming and ultimate victory over sin. Once the time period had past we can interpret the prophecy and see God acting through history and have increasing confidence in Him.

Further, when we look at the Bible, including Bible prophecy, do we interpret through a human imposed-law lens, or through the design-law lens?

Several questions:

1. What sanctuary needed cleansing?
2. What is the problem with the sanctuary that it needs cleansing? And then after answering these two questions we can answer
3. How is the sanctuary cleansed?

I would recommend, if you haven't read it, getting our pamphlet The Heavenly Sanctuary and Investigative Judgment for the Modern World. You can download the pdf from our website, read it on our website, or in the US we will mail you one or more if you want to share them.

From what is the sanctuary in heaven constructed—if we use Biblical sources?

It is always built of living stones—who are the people of God.

"Don't you know that you yourselves are God's temple and that God's Spirit lives in you? If anyone destroys God's temple, God will destroy him; for God's temple is sacred, and you are that temple." (1 Corinthians 3:16,17).

From one of the founders of the SDA church—which gives us insight into how this was taught historically:

> "In the building of the sanctuary as a dwelling place for God, Moses was directed to make all things according to the pattern of things in the heavens. God called him into the mount, and revealed to him the heavenly things, and in their similitude the tabernacle, with all that pertained to it, was fashioned.

"So to Israel, whom He desired to make His dwelling place, He revealed His glorious ideal of character. The pattern was shown them in the mount when the law was given from Sinai and when God passed by before Moses and proclaimed, "The Lord, The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth." Exodus 34:6. ..

"Through Christ was to be fulfilled the purpose of which the tabernacle was a symbol--that glorious building, its walls of glistening gold reflecting in rainbow hues the curtains inwrought with cherubim, the fragrance of ever-burning incense pervading all, the priests robed in spotless white, and in the deep mystery of the inner place, above the mercy seat, between the figures of the bowed, worshiping angels, the glory of the Holiest. In all, God desired His people to read His purpose for the human soul. It was the same purpose long afterward set forth by the apostle Paul, speaking by the Holy Spirit:

"Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are." 1 Corinthians 3:16, 17. (Education 34-36).

"In the cleansing of the temple, Jesus was announcing His mission as the Messiah, and entering upon His work. That temple, erected for the abode of the divine Presence, was designed to be an object lesson for Israel and for the world. From eternal ages it was God's purpose that every created being, from the bright and holy seraph to man, should be a temple for the indwelling of the Creator. Because of sin, humanity ceased to be a temple for God. Darkened and defiled by evil, the heart of man no longer revealed the glory of the Divine One. But by the incarnation of the Son of God, the purpose of Heaven is fulfilled. God dwells in humanity, and through saving grace the heart of man becomes again His temple. God designed that the temple at Jerusalem should be a continual witness to the high destiny open to every soul. But the Jews had not understood the significance of the building they regarded with so much pride. They did not yield themselves as holy temples for the Divine Spirit. The courts of the temple at Jerusalem, filled with the tumult of unholy traffic, represented all too truly the temple of the heart, defiled by the presence of sensual passion and unholy thoughts. In cleansing the temple from the world's buyers and sellers, Jesus announced His mission to cleanse the heart from the defilement of sin,--from the earthly desires, the selfish lusts, the evil habits, that corrupt the soul. "The Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to His temple, even the Messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold, He shall come, saith the Lord of hosts. But who may abide the day of His coming? and who shall stand when He appeareth? for He is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' soap: and He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver: and He shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver." Mal. 3:1-3. (DA 161).

So what sanctuary needs cleansing? The sanctuary of the human soul, which each one makes up a building block of the sanctuary in heaven.

What was the first thing that contaminated the human soul?

Lies—lies about God told in Eden and lies believed break the circle of love and trust resulting in fear and selfishness.

The lies about God persist and fear and selfishness persist and thus our temples need cleansing from the lies about God which win to trust and then in trust we open the heart and receive new hearts, have the law written on the heart, etc. which means we get the character of Christ reproduced within—no longer I that live but Christ lives in me. This means that fear and selfishness are replaced with love and trust.

> "Eve believed the words of Satan, and the belief of that falsehood in regard to God's character, changed the condition and character of both herself and husband. They were changed from good and obedient children into transgressors..." (RH, January 5, 1886 par. 8).

Now, let's examine the little horn power:

- Daniel states the little horn grew great, but "not by its own power." So where does the little horn get his power? Revelation 13:2 tells us the power comes from the dragon.
- The little horn threw the starry host down and trampled them, yet Revelation tells us the dragon's tail swept 1/3 of the stars out of heaven (Revelation 12:3).
- The little horn power sets itself up against the prince and the dragon fought against Michael the Prince (Revelation 12:7).
- The little horn power takes away the daily sacrifice, (the daily sacrifice is just a metaphorical way of saying God's entire plan to heal and restore from sin). God's plan of salvation was taken away. The dragon creates a false system—a penal legal system that supplants God's healing plan (Mark 4:15, 2Cor 11:14, 2Thes 2:9). The dragon's false plan does not result in healing and restoration but is a plan that degrades the human being.
- The little horn power brought the place of his sanctuary low. Instead of having a plan that heals and restores the mind, the false system defiles and damages the soul sanctuary and brings it low. The dragon establishes the synagogue of Satan (Rev 2:9, 3:9) a false sanctuary, a spirit temple filled by the satanic spirit.
- The little horn power throws truth to the ground and causes deceit and the dragon is the father of lies (John 8:44).
- The little horn power persecutes the saints and the dragon persecutes the saints (Rev 12:13-17).

Every defining feature of the little horn power is true of the dragon. And who is the dragon, the true enemy of God? That ancient serpent called the devil, or Satan (Rev 12:9). The true enemy of God is Satan and the little horn power is merely one of his agents and Satan uses many agents.

Where does the little horn get his power? From the dragon!

But what is the dragon's power?

> "Since the children have flesh and blood, he [Christ] too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death--that is, the devil" Hebrews 2:14.

The devil holds the power of death and what is the power of death?

Christ gives us the insight we need in John 17:3 "Now this is eternal life: that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent."

Eternal life is knowing God, then what would eternal death be? Not knowing God! Then Satan's power of death are the lies that he tells about God, that we believe, that keep us from knowing God!

So what defiles the soul temple? The lies about God that Adam and Eve believed that broke their trust and confidence and relationship with God; the continued lies that we believe that prevent us from trusting God and being reconciled to Him.

If those persistent lies about God are not removed by the truth about God that Jesus Christ has brought, then Satan's principles of selfishness continue to grow – the earthly desires, the selfish lusts, the evil habits. These destructive elements strengthen within and instead of Christlike character developing we develop the character of the rebel, the Satanic character; and the soul, the individual created with dignity, nobility of character, in God's image to represent Him to an onlooking universe, the being designed to be the dwelling place of the Holy Spirit instead of revealing Godlike character becomes a synagogue of Satan and the habitation of devils and reveals the Satanic character, ultimately ending in desolation and destruction.

The abomination that causes desolation is the abominations of lies about God, told by Satan and religious systems that results in the desolation of the image of God in man, the destruction of character and ultimately the desolation of the sanctuary – the sanctuary of the human soul.

What cleanses the sanctuary? And of course we all know this answer, we have been taught this since childhood – "The blood of Jesus" cleanses. But what does that mean? How does the blood of Jesus cleanse? Jesus said, ""I tell you the truth, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day. For my flesh is real food and my blood is real drink." (John 6:53-55). We know that Jesus was not promoting cannibalism, so His words must mean something else, what does it mean to drink His blood and eat His flesh?

Consider this historic view:

> "In the study of the Bible the converted soul eats the flesh and drinks the blood of the Son of God, which He himself interprets as the receiving and doing of His words, that are spirit and life." (Fundamentals of Christian Education 378).
> "The leaven of truth works a change in the whole man, making the coarse refined, the rough gentle, the selfish generous. By it [the truth] the impure are cleansed, washed in the blood of the Lamb." (Christ's Object Lessons 102).

The blood is symbolic of the truth that Jesus brought, the truth about God which wins to trust, but the blood is symbolic of more: Leviticus 17:11,14 tell us that the life is in the blood. Thus the blood is also symbolic of the perfect life of Jesus, which those who trust Him receive.

This represents the two phases of Christ's mission, the two phases in our salvation: Christ came to reveal truth to win to trust, but Christ also came to develop a perfect character which He offers as a free gift to all who trust Him. Therefore, the blood is symbolic of the truth revealed by Christ which cleanses the Spirit Temple of the lies about God and wins to trust and the blood is also symbolic of His perfect life, His perfect character which is reproduced in the Spirit Temple by the working of the Holy Spirit; this application into our hearts of His character is symbolically taught as the cleansing of the sanctuary. Thus to partake of His blood is to partake of the truth about God and the character of Christ, which cleanses the Spirit Temple from sin.

Here is another historic quote

> "The coming of Christ as our high priest to the most holy place, for the cleansing of the sanctuary, brought to view in Daniel 8:14; the coming of the Son of man to the Ancient of > Days, as presented in Daniel 7:13; and the coming of the Lord to His temple, foretold by Malachi[3:1-3], are descriptions of the same event; and this is also represented by the coming of the bridegroom to the marriage, described by Christ in the parable of the ten virgins, of Matthew 25." (p. GC 426).

Remember in the quote above four texts are all referring to the same event. Malachi 3:1-3 which is describing the same event, which states He comes to "purify the Levites"

Well who are the Levites? "You also, like living stones, are being built into a spiritual house to be a holy priesthood, offering spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ." (1Pet 2:4) What is another name for a "spiritual house"? A sanctuary!

What is being cleansed? Doesn't it make sense that Jesus is cleansing His people from sin so we can live with Him again face to face? Doesn't the Bible say we shall see Him face to face for we shall be like Him?

Consider this quote:

> "The cases of all are pending in the heavenly sanctuary. Day by day angels of God are watching the development of character… All defects must be remedied. The character must be assimilated to the character of Christ... At an infinite cost a fountain has been prepared for our cleansing. In the blood of the Son of God we may wash our garments of character, and make them white." (ST, April 17, 1901).

When we study these things do we study with design law, realizing we are damaged by sin, out of harmony with God and His design for life and in need of healing and restoration. Or, do we accept the pagan view that God's law is imposed rules and we are in legal trouble and we need to get legal payments made and adjustment in legal accounts or records in heaven in order for God to legally stamp pardon by our names?

If you ask about the records in heaven being cleansed, simply inquire, what is recorded in those records?

- "At that time Michael, the great prince who protects your people, will arise. There will be a time of distress such as has not happened from the beginning of nations until then. But at that time your people—everyone whose name is found written in the book—will be delivered." Daniel 12:1

- "He who overcomes will, like them, be dressed in white. I will never blot out his name from the book of life, but will acknowledge his name before my Father and his angels." Revelation 3:5

What does name represent in the Bible? Character!

If you are an SDA, here is what one of the founders and the most important person in establishing this doctrine had to say:

> Remember, your character is being daguerreo-typed [photographed] by the great Master Artist in the record books of heaven, as minutely as the face is reproduced upon the polished plate of the artist. What do the books of heaven say in your case? Are you conforming your character to the Pattern, Jesus Christ? Are you washing your robes of character and making them white in the blood of the Lamb?" (TSB 62.1, emphasis supplied)

> "Every passing hour of the present is shaping our future life. These moments spent in carelessness, in self-pleasing, as if of no value, are deciding our everlasting destinies. The words we utter today will go on echoing when time shall be no more. The deeds done today are transferred to the books of heaven, just as the features are transferred by the artist onto the polished plate. They will determine our destiny for eternity, for bliss or eternal loss and agonizing remorse. Character cannot be changed when Christ comes, nor just as a man is about to die. Character building must be done in this life." (TM 429.3, emphasis supplied)

What is recorded in the records are the unique identities and individualities of every person who puts their trust in Jesus.

When Jesus returns and raises the righteous at the first resurrection, will those righteous arise sinful, rebellious, carnal, or will they arise perfect and sinless?

Did those who died trusting in Jesus die with all their defects perfected, overcome, completely and totally eliminated and eradicated from their being, or did they still struggle with sin, but trusted in Jesus? Will they arise with those same defects?

Will the thief on the cross who trusted Jesus arise with the heart of a thief? Will Martin Luther, the great reforming arise with an alcohol problem and as an anti-Semite?

Then something needs to happen in them before the resurrection so that when they arise in the resurrections all residual defects of character have been removed. This is another aspect of Jesus' work in the heavenly sanctuary, in the cleansing of the records.

Here is another historic quote:

> We believe without a doubt that Christ is soon coming. This is not a fable to us; it is a reality. When He comes He is not to cleanse us of our sins, to remove from us the defects in our characters, or to cure us of the infirmities of our tempers and dispositions. If wrought for us at all, this work will all be accomplished before that time." (CCh 214.4, emphasis supplied)

Those who die trusting in Jesus have died with their hearts, minds, souls open to Him giving Him freedom to work, heal and cleanse. Any residuals not overcome while alive, Jesus completes while they are asleep in death.

So the big overview:

After Christ's victory at the cross, Satan's man of sin—the little-horn power, as Paul and Daniel describe him—wages war against God's people by attacking the truth about God. This evil power advances its assault on God's character by changing people's perception of God's law—it replaces the truth of God's design-law with the human imposed-law lie. This little-horn power—man of sin—thereby sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God (see Dan 7:25; 2Cor 10:3-5; 2Thes 2:4), by getting humans to conceive of God as an authoritarian dictator—an imposer of rules, who, in order to be just, must use His power to inflict punishment and death on the unrepentant. This little-horn power is winning the war of ideas by filling hearts and minds of people with imperial, dictatorial views of God until the Ancient of Days comes and gives judgment/discernment to the saints (see Dan 7:22).

God, looking down the corridors of time, tells His friend Daniel that 490 years remain for the Jewish people to be the avenue for the Messiah. In the middle of the last week of their mission, the Messiah will come and end the ceremonial system, and He will provide the remedy for human salvation (see Dn 9:24-27). But the little-horn power will arise after Christ's victory at the cross, and it will war against the saints until a message goes forth from God, proclaiming to the world: Be in awe of God, for the time has come for people to make a right judgment about God—to worship the Designer, Creator, Him who made the heavens, earth, seas and fountains of waters (see Rev 14:7).

The Three Angels' Message is specific in its design to turn the minds of people away from the imperial dictator-god with its false, imposed Roman-law construct, back to our Creator God, whose laws are the design-protocols upon which life is built. Those who accept the truth about God and His design-law understand their need for healing and transformation, and they cooperate with Jesus in His work of cleansing the sanctuary—their souls—so that they will be prepared to meet Him face to face. Those who reject the truth about God and His design-law continue to perpetuate the lie of the little horn and teach the investigative judgment concept through legal lenses, subvert the church, and obstruct the final healing message.

THURSDAY

The lesson goes from specific prophecies to typology, meaning symbols are a type and reality is the fulfillment or anti-type. Example, the sacrificial lamb is a type, Jesus is the fulfillment or the anti-type.

Understanding the Jewish sacrificial and feast economy as acted out lessons, theater, object lessons allows us to look past the symbolism to its fulfillment in reality—the antitype.

The annual feast days are examples of a type and antitype; they teach the plan of salvation from the fall of Adam to the earth restored:

Passover – as soon as man fell into sin God passed over their sins "he left the sins committed beforehand unpunished." Rom 3:25

- Christ was the lamb of God slain from the foundation of the world. Rev 13:8
- Those who don't have the healing life of Jesus applied to the doorpost of their hearts—symbolized by the lambs blood on the doorpost of the house—will die of unremedied sin
- Time covered by the Passover—From Adam's sin until Jesus victory at the cross

Unleavened bread – immediately God began dispensing truth unmixed with error to nurture and save, but it was internalized by those in sin, represented by the bitter herbs.

- This also represents the time from Adam's fall until Christ's victory
- Eating the unleavened bread symbolizes the internalization of Jesus

Feast of First Fruits—The first fruits of the victory over death

- The Wave Sheaf represents Jesus who is the ultimate first fruit, who was buried and rose again in sinless perfection and is the unleavened or sinless bread of whom we partake
- Those who arose with him on resurrection morning to everlasting life

Feast of Weeks (Pentecost) The pouring out of the Holy Spirit to apply what Christ achieved and bring forth a harvest of healed souls

- This occurred after Christ's death on the Cross as the benefits of His achievement were dispensed into trusting humans
- This feast symbolically spans the time from Pentecost AD 33 until the Loud Cry

Trumpets – a special message for the end time

- The Loud Cry—awake, prepare, get ready it is time to be reconciled and brought back into unity, at-one-ment with God again!
- Late 18th and early 19th Century – the Great Awakening in Christianity

Atonement – reunification with God, oneness with God

- The healing and restoration of Christlike character within; settling into the truth that one cannot be moved
- Removing the residual defects from all who trust Jesus so when they arise in the resurrection they are sinless and perfect in character
- From mid 19th Century until the second coming of Christ

Tabernacles—After we have been restored to at-one-ment in heart, mind, character Christ returns and we Tabernacle with Him again in the earth made new—our Eden Garden home for eternity!

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 12
Dealing with Difficult Passages

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

What makes a Bible passage difficult?

- When it is written in symbolism or metaphor—in other words when it is written in code and we don't know the proper key to decode it
  - Bible prophecies
- Taking literal things that are meant to be symbolic or metaphoric
  - The parable of the rich man and Lazarus
- Taking things symbolically or metaphorically when they are intended to be literal
  - The seven days of creation week as symbolic of periods of time
- Failing to understand one of the various contexts of Scripture (the immediate historical context, the prophetic context, the textual context, the Messianic context, the cosmic conflict context) Examples:
  - Immediate—Eye for an eye rule is in context of slaves coming out of Egypt, which would be understood as moving level one thinkers to level two, and placing a limit on retaliation—the strongest are not free to plunder whatever they want. And is instead seen as God's standard and therefore people either remain immature or have a punitive picture of God.
  - Prophetic—splitting the last week of the 70-week prophecy of Daniel and putting it into the future for a future time for Israel to again sacrifice animals and be God's agents on earth
  - Textual—Putting the comma in the wrong place in Jesus' conversation with the thief, or adding the word "man" to Jesus' words about drawing all unto Himself at the cross.
  - Messianic—Misunderstanding God's actions in the OT when He acted to put some people to sleep in the grave as the war between Satan working to destroy the branch of the human family through which Messiah would come and God working to keep it open.
  - Cosmic conflict—misunderstanding the entire purpose of the Levitical law and the OT sacrifices as having any actual literal salvation benefit.
- False premises or assumptions when reading the Bible
  - Humankind was created immortal and cannot die
  - Failing to understand God's design law and accepting the lie that God's law functions like human law
  - God must use power to inflict punishment for sin
  - God's justice is like human justice only knowing all the facts and being based on God's law

- Failing to study with the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit
- Using the Bible for purposes it was not given—to be authoritative on topics it was not written to enlighten upon
    - A rule book defining what is lawful or unlawful to do on the Sabbath
    - A justification for the subordination of women to men and wives to be governed by their husbands. Consider this historic quote and identify the design law being described:
        - Few have correct views of marriage. They make light of this Heaven-appointed institution, and after it has been entered into thoughtlessly, without a true sense of its sacredness, the obligations it imposes are often shamefully disregarded. Ignoring the personal rights of women, the husband becomes unkind and authoritative. The individuality of the wife is submerged in that of the husband. She becomes the slave of his caprice and passions, as though she had naught to do but to obey his whims. He quotes texts of scripture to show that he is the head, and that he must be obeyed in all things, claiming that his wife must have no will separate from his. He acts the tyrant. But the same Bible that prescribes the duty of the wife prescribes also the duty of the husband. He is to be kind and affectionate, to love his wife as a part of himself, and to cherish her as Christ does His church. 18MR 312.1
    - The authority on architecture, physics, electrical engineering, computer technology, aerodynamics, auto-technology, astronomy and many more fields of study. Rightly understood the Bible and science never contradict each other—but there are many fields of study the Bible is silent upon.
- Others?

What would be a good formula or general guide for studying the Bible and coming to accurate understanding?

- Start by humbling surrendering to God and asking for the Holy Spirit to enlighten the mind when studying Scripture
- Decide what one believes is the purpose of Scripture

> "In His word, God has committed to men the knowledge necessary for salvation. The Holy Scriptures are to be accepted as an authoritative, infallible revelation of His will. They are the standard of character, the revealer of doctrines, and the test of experience. 'Every scripture inspired of God is also profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction which is in righteousness; that the man of God may be complete, furnished completely unto every good work.'" 2 Timothy 3:16, 17, R.V. GC vii.1
> Is the Scripture given to be the authority on accounting practices, cartography, geography, surgical techniques, metallurgy, astronomy? Rightly understood Scripture and science never contradict, but science will give much greater truth or evidence in some fields of study than Scripture will, BECAUSE the Scripture was not given to enlighten in those fields of study.

But when it comes to salvation and character to development there is nothing that gives more light, truth, or insight that the Bible. So the primary purpose of Scripture is to reveal the truth about God, the sin problem and God's solution for it.

- Understand God's various design laws as revealed in Scripture and upon which God built reality to operate. First, that God's laws are design laws, not imperial rules. Second, how love actually functions, and then the other design laws.

> "The same power that upholds nature, is working also in man. The same great laws that guide alike the star and the atom control human life. The laws that govern the heart's action, regulating the flow of the current of life to the body, are the laws of the mighty Intelligence that has the jurisdiction of the soul. From Him all life proceeds. Only in harmony with Him can be found its true sphere of action. For all the objects of His creation the condition is the same--a life sustained by receiving the life of God, a life exercised in harmony with the Creator's will. To transgress His law, physical, mental, or moral, is to place one's self out of harmony with the universe, to introduce discord, anarchy, ruin." {Ed 99.2}
> "God's healing power runs all through nature. [From where does this healing power come? It comes from God Himself. God is constantly dispersing of Himself, giving of Himself to sustain all His creation. God is the great source of life and all life flows out from God to His creation. This is the law of love built into all reality. But sin obstructs the flow of God's healing presence. Sin severs our connection with God.] If a tree is cut, if a human being is wounded or breaks a bone, nature begins at once to repair the injury. Even before the need exists, the healing agencies are in readiness; and as soon as a part is wounded, every energy is bent to the work of restoration. [Before Adam and Eve sinned God was already bent toward their salvation. Jesus the Lamb of God slain from the foundation of the world. Why? Because it is God's character and the nature of His universe to promote life, to heal injury, to restore from damage.] So it is in the spiritual realm. Before sin created the need, God had provided the remedy. [What kind of law is this?] Every soul that yields to temptation is wounded, bruised, by the adversary; [What? Notice not in legal trouble and under threat from God, but wounded, injured; then what is needed? A remedy to heal!] but whenever there is sin, there is the Saviour. It is Christ's work "to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, ... to set at liberty them that are bruised." Luke 4:18. Ed 113.1 [Notice the plan is for Jesus to heal, not Jesus to pay off His Father not to kill us.]
> In this work we are to co-operate. "If a man be overtaken in a fault, ... restore such an one." Galatians 6:1. The word here translated "restore" means to put in joint, as a dislocated bone. How suggestive the figure! He who falls into error or sin is thrown out of relation to everything about him. [What is described here? What kind of law? Is the sinner described as being in legal trouble or actually out of harmony with reality, with God's design for life?] He may realize his error, and be filled with remorse; but he cannot recover himself. He is in confusion and perplexity, worsted and > helpless. He is to be reclaimed, healed, re- established. [What is the action to be taken, get legal pardon, or get healed, restored, renewed, regenerated, re-established?] "Ye which are spiritual, restore such a one." Only the love that flows from the heart of Christ can heal. Only he in whom that love flows, even as the sap in the tree or the blood in the body, can restore the wounded soul. Ed 113.2 [What is described? And where is the action? Is the love flowing from Christ to His Father to get the Father to act, or is the love flowing into the heart of the sinner to heal us? And what metaphor does the Bible use for this? The blood of Jesus—and where is the blood of Jesus to be applied? In our hearts to heal us. Yet, Christianity has accepted the lie that we are in legal trouble and has falsely interpreted the blood as a legal payment to God to stop God from killing us.]

> Love's agencies have wonderful power, for they are divine. The soft answer that "turneth away wrath," the love that "suffereth long, and is kind," the charity that "covereth a multitude of sins" (Proverbs 15:1; 1 Corinthians 13:4, R.V.; 1 Peter 4:8, R.V.) -would we learn the lesson, with what power for healing would our lives be gifted! How life would be transformed, and the earth become a very likeness and foretaste of heaven!" Ed 114.1

If we don't understand God's design law, His character and methods of love, how love actually functions—if we replace God's design law with imposed law—then we apply Satan's methods and make the problem worse.

Right now in the USA there are all kinds of injustices, violence, hurt, taking place. Satan's way is to divide people into factions and see others who are not in "our" faction as the enemy, as the source of evil, abuse, mistreatment; to be outraged and angry at the injustice and then seek to make the others pay, to inflict some punishment upon them, to use Satan's methods of coercion and force and inflicted punishment to retaliate against them—and the divisions grow deeper, the hostility grows stronger, the violence perpetuates and people become hardened in hatred.

- We must know the context—the immediate context, but also the overarching context—that Scripture is telling one story and it all harmonizes. There is one human race, one sin problem, one originator of sin, one original human, one Creator God, and one solution to the sin problem. If we don't understand the larger context then we get caught in the immediate context and create all kinds of contradictions—like people being saved by animal sacrifices in the OT and by the blood of Jesus in the NT etc.

- We must understand the battle is not a physical battle over power and might, but a battle over ideas, concepts, methods and principles.

- The OT is primarily the story of God fulfilling His promise in Genesis 3 to bring the Messiah to save the human race. If we don't understand this context we will misunderstand much of Scripture

- Understand the Bible records real lives of real people who did real historic things, but many of those events are foreshadowing the Messiah or teaching larger realities in the plan of salvation.

- Scripture must harmonize with itself

- Scripture decodes itself

- God's character of love and design laws never change therefore our interpretations must never conclude God violates His own design for life or has a character other than love

- Jesus is the key to understanding God's truth. Jesus is the key to understanding God's character. Jesus is the key to unlocking the mysteries of the Jewish economy. Consider this historic quote:

> The significance of the Jewish economy is not yet fully comprehended. Truths vast and profound are shadowed forth in its rites and symbols. The gospel is the key that unlocks its mysteries. Through a knowledge of the plan of redemption, its truths are opened to the understanding. Far more than we do, it is our privilege to understand these wonderful themes. We are to comprehend the deep things of God. Angels desire to look into the truths that are revealed to the people who with contrite hearts are searching the word of God, and praying for greater lengths and breadths and depths and heights of the knowledge which He alone can give. COL 133.1

But what if we teach the gospel is the good news that Jesus came to take our place under the condemnation of God and was killed by God in our place to pay or legal debt so that God won't kill us. And that if we claim to blood of Jesus as our legal payment then we get legal pardon in the books of heaven and God declares us to be legally righteous even though we remain unrighteous. If this is the gospel we claim, what will it do to how we understand Scripture? This is why the Scripture is poorly understood because people have accepted a false gospel which is nothing but paganism.

The true gospel is the good news about God Himself, His character of love, His design law of love upon which He built life to operate and that God has always been for us and constantly uses every agency at His disposal for our healing and restoration. Thus the gospel—the good news is found in Jesus. It is sin that destroys; it is God that heals and restores. And God so loved the world that He sent His only Son… to heal and save all who trust Him.

When this is the good news and we realize that if we have seen Jesus we have seen the Father, then we understand Scripture in a completely different way, a way that clears up many of the difficult passages of Scripture.

SUNDAY

The lesson is about Bible contradictions. I went online and here are what some people cite as Bible contradictions. How do you answer them?

- "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy." — Exodus 20:8
- "One man esteemeth one day above another: another esteemeth every day alike. Let every man be fully persuaded in his own mind." — Romans 14:5

- "… the earth abideth for ever." — Ecclesiastes 1:4
- "… the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up." — 2Peter 3:10

- "… I have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved." — Genesis 32:30
- "No man hath seen God at any time…"– John 1:18

- In reply Jesus declared, "I tell you the truth, no one can see the kingdom of God unless he is born again. John 3:3
- Look, he is coming with the clouds, and every eye will see him, even those who pierced him; Rev 1:7

- "… with God all things are possible." — Matthew 19:26
- "…The LORD was with Judah; and he drove out the inhabitants of the mountain; but could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley, because they had chariots of iron." — Judges 1:19

- "…thou shalt give life for life, Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot. burning for burning, wound for wound, stripe for stripe. " — Exodus 21:23-25
- "…ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on the right cheek, turn to him the other also." — Matthew 5:39

- "This is my covenant, which ye shall keep, between me and you and thy seed after thee; Every man child among you shall be circumcised." — Genesis 17:10
- "…if ye be circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing." — Galatians 5:2

- "Honor thy father and thy mother…"– Exodus 20:12
- "If any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple. " — Luke 14:26

What did you notice these critics were doing? They were being dishonest with the text. They did not seek to understand the meaning of the text, but sought to find texts to which they could apply a false meaning, a meaning that was not intended in order to create the appearance of contradiction. So, what we have revealed is the dishonest methods of the critic, not contradictions in the Bible.

You can see these same dishonest methods used all the time by those who hold false positions—they did this against Jesus.

Are there any texts in Scripture that you have struggled with that seem to be contradictory?

MONDAY

Dealing with difficulties honestly. I really like how the lesson said that it is better to simply say "I don't know what that particular passage means" than to try and create a superficial interpretation that turns out later to be false.

Read 1Chronicles 29:17 "I know, my God, that you test the heart and are pleased with integrity. All these things have I given willingly and with honest intent. And now I have seen with joy how willingly your people who are here have given to you" NIV84

What does this mean? It means God is more concerned with an honest heart that seeks what is right, what is true, what is holy, than actually being right on a particular point or fact.

The Jews were right when Herod asked them where the Messiah was to be born—they knew it was Bethlehem, they were right on which day is the Sabbath, they were right on what foods were on the approved list, but being right on facts didn't mean they had hearts that loved truth or loved God and loved people.

The Good Samaritan had a heart that was right—that loved others but as far as we know—did not keep Sabbath, eat kosher, pay tithe, sacrifice at temple—in other words this person would be doctrinally wrong—yet he was right with God. How is this possible? Because his heart was right.

Does this mean having a right heart means we have no responsibility for truth? No, just the opposite—those with right hearts not only love God and people—but they love truth and are eager to grow in truth as they are able to comprehend and understand it. But, we recognize that people come from different backgrounds, have different abilities, capacities, and not all of us will come to the same understanding of the facts—but the saved will all have new hearts that practice the principles of God—particularly love for others.

Will there EVER come a time in which any of us know all truth? No—we never become God all knowing, we never become infinite—we always remain finite. So, if we never know all truth does that mean there is always more to learn? And if we have more to learn, does that mean we could have some concepts, ideas, hypothesis, beliefs that are wrong even in heaven? For instance, could you decide to study advanced mathematics in heaven and get a complex equation wrong? And then rejoice when Jesus gives you the clue that allows you to understand it and get it right?

If we will never know all truth—what will all the save know and from which they will never be shaken?

> Now this is eternal life: that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent. (John 17:3 NIV84)

What kind of knowing is this? This is not mere factual knowledge, this is experiential knowledge. We may know about George W. Bush or Barak Obama or Donald Trump—but how many actually know them?

The saved will know God—know His character, His trustworthiness, His methods and principles of truth, love, freedom. They will know this by experience and will identify with God and His methods such that the methods of evil, lies, coercion, fear, selfishness are repulsive—so that they would rather die than live in a universe governed by Satan's methods.

Focusing on the heart allows us to have unity with those who have Godly hearts, even if they worship on a different day or eat different foods. But we don't have unity with those in our own denomination if their hearts are not renewed, we instead have division.

Those who foster division in the church or society are those who refuse to focus on heart motive. We see this in the COVID pandemic. There has been and remains no absolutely right or wrong action to take in protecting people. The question is one of heart motive and principles—are the decision-makers seeking to help or seeking to hurt; are they understanding the principles involved; or are they seeking to advance themselves or use this as an opportunity to advance some other agenda or merely enforce rules regardless of consequence?

The mature look at the motive, realize the difficulty in the situation, understand there isn't any clear-cut right answer and actions may change and even reverse course with new data, as facts unfold. The immature criticize changes in position and cite consequences that are less than ideal when they occur.

TUESDAY

The lesson talks about being humble and willing to be corrected or grow in our understanding.

This is a very good point—the mature are those who love truth but also recognize their own finiteness and are open to change their views when new truths are in evidence.

The immature lock themselves into a system of creeds or fundamental beliefs and refuse to change or update when new truth presents itself.

This is why the founders of the SDA church intended for the SDA church never to have a creed or a list of fundamental beliefs, but took the position that the Bible and the Bible alone is to be their creed.

> The Bible, and the Bible alone, is to be our creed, the sole bond of union; all who bow to this Holy Word will be in harmony. Our own views and ideas must not control our efforts. Man is fallible, but God's Word is infallible. Instead of wrangling with one another, let men exalt the Lord. Let us meet all opposition as did our Master, saying, "It is written." Let us lift up the banner on which is inscribed, The Bible our rule of faith and discipline.—The Review and Herald, December 15, 1885. 1SM 416.2

But when we create a list of fundamental beliefs any challenge to that list of beliefs is considered to be an attack on orthodoxy, on God, and is alleged to be heresy. The ability to advance and grow is undermined or obstructed when we lock into a list of specific beliefs, rather than principles.

Consider this historic quote:

> In every age there is a new development of truth, a message of God to the people of that generation. The old truths are all essential; new truth is not independent of the old, but an unfolding of it. It is only as the old truths are understood that we can comprehend the new. When Christ desired to open to His disciples the truth of His resurrection, He began "at Moses and all the prophets" and "expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning Himself." Luke 24:27. But it is the light which shines in the fresh unfolding of truth that glorifies the old. He who rejects or neglects the new does not really possess the old. For him it loses its vital power and becomes but a lifeless form. COL 127.4

I would say this is nowhere more profoundly demonstrated than in understanding God's law—the truth of God's law being design law has not contradicted any truth of the past, but has advanced our understanding of the truth. But those who have refused to accepted the advancing light of God's law being design law, don't possess the old truths of God's law either, they instead operate upon the imperial law lie and misunderstand all law.

The bottom pink asks if truth is unfolding how can we striking the right balance between humility and certainty?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Real achievement…" What law is being described? The law of exertion—if you want to get stronger you must exercise.

Do we see how the Bible strengthens us as we study it? Do we see that we cannot develop skills of reason, discernment, problem solving if we never wrestle out problems?

Thus the mature are those who have developed by practice… Heb 5:14

Do we also see why the Bible presents many ideas that can be initially difficult to understand? Why? Because it reveals the truth of our infinite God for us to contemplate and think through and thus we grow as we study and advance in our acceptance of Bible truth.

But if the Bible was merely simple concepts with nothing complex or difficult to comprehend it would not only be limited in its ability to help us develop, but such simplicity would argue against an infinite God.

Read second paragraph, "The fact that you cannot…." This is another excellent point, and all people who take the view that difficult Bible problems cannot be solved undermine their own growth and development.

Others, however state the belief that some Bible problems are too difficult to understand as a psychological defense. They actually hold a belief which they are afraid to change, and thus really don't want to solve the apparent conundrum because the solution would require them to give up a cherished belief; OR they fear what might be thought of them for changing their view, or because they have preached or written a certain view in the past.

The mature are those who are able to say they are growing in truth and give up old ideas when better ones arise.

Read last paragraph, "When some difficulties…" this is another excellent point and reminds us of the metaphor of God's word being a lamp unto us

THURSDAY

Read second paragraph "If you do not understand…" This would be true only on matters of theology and God's principles for life—for matters upon which the Bible was given to enlighten us. It would not be true on matters for which the Bible was not given to enlighten us.

If one were to use the Bible only, can we make definitively case for a vegetarian lifestyle in this current world of sin? But, can we bring nutrition and health science to bear, harmonizing that science with Bible principles and make a strong case for a vegetarian lifestyle?

This is one example, of where science supports Bible principle to lead us to a healthy conclusion that the Bible alone does not definitively teach.

Any others?

FRIDAY

Read first paragraph, "In the Bible…"What of the idea that faithfulness to Scripture will respect the text rather than alter the text?

I really dislike paragraphs like this because what it suggests is that we are to take the Bible as it reads and if we don't we are not faithful to Scripture—but what they really mean is to take the Bible as they interpret it. They really don't mean that we should take the Bible for what it says.

Ask the authors about Deut 14, take tithe to buy fermented wine and rejoice before the Lord, whether we should we be faithful to Scripture here? I am confident they would have an interpretation that would cause us to not do it. In The Clear Word paraphrase it is changed from fermented to unfermented wine in DT 14:26, even though the Hebrew means fermented. I wonder if this was one of the places the lesson authors were referring to?

The problem is that translation requires interpretation and can have large variation, even of innocuous things.

Consider the following texts, first Genesis 28:18:

- And Jacob rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put for his pillows and set it up for a pillar…KJV
- Jacob got up early next morning, took the stone that was under his head, and set it up as a memorial. GNT
- Early in the morning Jacob took the stone he had placed near his head and set it up as a sacred stone. NET
- The next morning Jacob got up very early. He took the stone he had rested his head against, and he set it upright as a memorial pillar NLT
- Early in the morning Jacob took the stone that was near his head and set it up as a marker. Holman Christian Standard Version

So, was the rock used as a pillow, did Jacob rest his head upon it, or was it just placed near his head? Are we being true to the text?

2020 2Q How to Interpret Scripture: Lesson 13
Living by the Word of God

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

I received this email this week:

> Dear Dr. Jennings
> I would like to share a recent experience with you with regard to your Power of Love study series. A group from our church (SDA) started the series 8 weeks ago. Once we were no longer able to meet in person, we continued with zoom. Let me first say that with the exception of myself and the couple hosting the study series, the rest of the group are mostly unfamiliar with your ministry. Last week we studied the Seven Levels of Moral Decision Making. I have wondered with each passing week what the class reaction might be as this is a very conservative group. We began to go through the seven levels and when we reached number four, one of the gentlemen from the group began to cry. He said, " That has been me for 40 years and I don't want to live like this anymore"! It was such a powerful moment Dr. Jennings. I have read all of your books, listened to podcasts and watched your Sabbath School class, but never was I so grateful to know of your beautiful message as I was in that moment, because just a few years ago, that was me as well.
> I will continue to pray for your ministry, especially that somehow you are able to reach our youth.
> I remember you once said that as a child you remembered a children's story about how the angels would follow you around and right down all of the bad things you did. That was my life as well. I believe that picture is one that our church continues to impress upon our youth. No wonder they leave the church. I wouldn't want that God in my life either.

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, “The best method…” Now this is a good point—the law of exertion, if we don’t use it we lose it, but if we exercise we get stronger. So, if we want to get stronger in God’s truth, methods, principles, we not only must study the concepts but practice God’s methods and principles in how we live. This is so true—but what is the danger with this law?

Does the law of exertion only work on godly practices? No! It is a law of how reality works, thus if we embrace ungodly methods and practice, those then they get stronger and we become more like the evil one.

This would be what the Pharisees did in Christ’s day—they were students of the Bible and devoted long hours to becoming experts on Scripture, yet they accepted the wrong interpretations, primarily of God's law—the lie it is imposed—and practiced the methods of this world and became hardened against God.

Think about Saul of Tarsus and what methods he practiced before Damascus Road and after—did his methods change? What happened that caused a change in methods for Paul? He had a change of understanding when he met Jesus.

Did Paul, instantly, or even within a week or month, after meeting Jesus have all his methods changed? Or did it take several years for Paul to rework his own mind, understanding and practices?

So the paragraph talks about obedience that is life-transforming. It is absolutely true that obedience to God's methods, principles, design laws—to God—is life transforming. When we harmonize with truth, the laws upon which God built reality to operate, we cannot avoid the blessings, the healing, the restoration that comes from God.

But, disobeying God, obeying a system of religious rules or observances that are not in harmony with God, that are based upon this world's methods is also transforming—but in a negative way. Just as one cannot avoid the positive transforming of character that come from harmonizing with God, one cannot avoid the negative when one harmonizes with the world.

So, the lesson title, Living by the Word of God, it all depends on how one understands the Word of God. If one understands it as a list of rules to be enforced by the imperial magistrate under threat of punishment then such obedience harms rather than heals.

Consider these historic quotes:

> The man who attempts to keep the commandments of God from a sense of obligation merely--because he is required to do so--will never enter into the joy of obedience. He does not obey. When the requirements of God are accounted a burden because they cut across human inclination, we may know that the life is not a Christian life. True obedience is the outworking of a principle within. [what kind of law is this? where is the action occurring? -in a book in heaven or in the heart/mind of the believer?] It springs from the love of righteousness, the love of the law of God. The essence of all righteousness is loyalty to our Redeemer. This will lead us to do right because it is right--because right doing is pleasing to God. {COL 97.3} [Can love and loyalty be achieved by threatening to punish people who don't love and are not loyal?]

So what happens in the heart and mind of a person who obeys out of threat of punishment? It is a violation of the law of liberty, and when you threaten people love is damaged and eventually destroyed and a desire to rebel is instilled in the heart.

Consider this quote:

> A sullen submission to the will of the Father will develop the character of a rebel. By such a one service is looked upon as drudgery. It is not rendered cheerfully, and in the love of God.

> It is a mere mechanical performance. If he dared, such a one would disobey. His rebellion is smothered, ready to break out at any time in bitter murmurings and complaints. Such service brings no peace or quietude to the soul. {ST, July 22, 1897} [This is the obedience of the penal/legal system, the threat of punishment, which destroys love and incites rebellion. Just like the person who emailed us said, the youth leave when they are taught this way. Such an approach is a violation of the law of liberty.]

The real issue is the condition of the heart and mind. Do we as individuals love truth, love liberty, love God and others? Or do we fear for ourselves and are angry that things don't go our way and believe that when we see wrong it is right and proper to use power to punish rule-breakers and to force our way?

Or, do we realize the truth that we are infected with principles of fear and selfishness and God gives us every opportunity to choose truth, love, liberty—not as a mere concept but as the principles we practice? But Satan hates these principles so he constantly stirs up injustices in order to incite outrage in people to get them to seek to destroy the injustice by the practice of Satan's coercive principles.

One of Satan's tricks is to do evil and then get people to try and snuff out the evil by his methods of force and coercion, which only perpetuates more evil. Understand the purpose of the Bible—it is not giving to set up human governments. Jesus said, His kingdom is not of this world. The Bible is given to save people, meaning to free hearts and minds from fear and selfishness and restore individuals to loyalty to God. To transform people from sinners to saints.

Satan tricks Christians by seeking social reform through government and law rather than through transforming hearts of people. Whenever you try and advance God's kingdom through government coercion will be used.

Worse is the false justification of violence, rioting, intimidation, beatings, mobs taking over property, burning buildings and injuring people and claiming it is because they love others and want to help others.

Jesus and the Apostles never used such methods in a culture of rampant human rights abuses and systemic slavery. They didn't seek to change the government, they didn't have riots—in fact if you read Acts you will see it was the Jews who opposed God's message that stirred up riots over and over again and used methods of violence. They did this with Jesus before He died; they did it with the stoning of Stephen; they did it with Peter; they did it with Paul and the violence was so bad Roman soldiers had to come in and rescue Paul.

Don't be deceived these mobs that are rioting and claiming they are doing so because they love others are frauds and do not represent God's kingdom. They are agents of the evil one whether they know it or not.

Living by the Word of God—doesn't mean living by a written rule-list, it means living by the power of the living Word of God abiding in the heart. Jesus is the Word made flesh. We must have Jesus living in our hearts by the Holy Spirit or no real change happens, no obedience happens.

Consider this historic quote, written in 1889, right after the 1888 GC when church leaders rejected the righteousness by faith message and God's design law, and chose imposed law and the penal/legal lie. Notice what EGW wrote:

> God grants men a probation in this world, that their principles may become firmly established in the right, thus precluding the possibility of sin in the future life, and so assuring the happiness and security of all. Through the atonement of the Son of God alone could power be given to man to establish him in righteousness, and make him a fit subject for heaven. [The atonement of Jesus would do what? Pay a legal debt? No! give power to human beings to establish in human beings righteousness, which eradicates fear and selfishness, writes God's design law upon the heart and heals us, makes us fit subjects for heaven. Why are we unfit now? Because God can't stand us? No! Because we can't stand the purity, holiness, and infinite love and truth of God and we would flee His presence. So, notice the next sentence:] The blood of Christ is the eternal antidote for sin…[What do antidotes do? They cure, they heal, they eradicate infection, purge disease. And the disease of sin is rooted in lies about God that breaks trust resulting in fear and selfishness in the heart. So where must the antidote be applied—in a record book in heaven? To God? To God's law? Or in the hearts of sinners? Thus the blood is a metaphor of the truth and life of Jesus, the truth destroys lies, wins to trust and in trust we invite God in and the Spirit takes the perfection of Christ and reproduces it in us, love casts out fear and thus instead of living to protect self, we trust God with our lives, our families, our futures and we love others] {ST, December 30, 1889 par. 3}
> The death of Christ upon the cross made sure the destruction of him who has the power of death, who was the originator of sin. When Satan is destroyed, there will be none to tempt to evil; the atonement will never need to be repeated; and there will be no danger of another rebellion in the universe of God. That which alone can effectually restrain from sin in this world of darkness, will prevent sin in heaven. The significance of the death of Christ will be seen by saints and angels. Fallen men could not have a home in the paradise of God without the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world. Shall we not then exalt the cross of Christ? The angels ascribe honor and glory to Christ, for even they are not secure except by looking to the sufferings of the Son of God. It is through the efficacy of the cross that the angels of heaven are guarded from apostasy. Without the cross they would be no more secure against evil than were the angels before the fall of Satan. Angelic perfection failed in heaven. Human perfection failed in Eden, the paradise of bliss. All who wish for security in earth or heaven must look to the Lamb of God. The plan of salvation, making manifest the justice and love of God, provides an eternal safeguard against defection in unfallen worlds, as well as among those who shall be redeemed by the blood of the Lamb. Our only hope is perfect trust in the blood of Him who can save to the uttermost all that come unto God by Him. The death of Christ on the cross of Calvary is our only hope in this world, and it will be our theme in the world to come. Oh, we do not comprehend the value of the atonement! If we did, we would talk more about it. The gift of God in his beloved Son was the expression of an incomprehensible love. It was the utmost that God could do to preserve the honor of his law, and still save the transgressor. [what does this mean? Why? Because God's law is design law. It was the only way to restore God's methods operationally into a human being—a human being had to choose to reject fear and selfishness and live out God's law of love perfectly. Jesus did this for us and now becomes our remedy.] Why should man not study the theme of redemption? It is the greatest subject that can engage the human mind. If men would contemplate the love of Christ, displayed in the cross, their faith would be strengthened to appropriate the merits of his shed blood, and they would be cleansed and saved from sin. [Appropriate the merits—what does this mean? Merits are what Christ accomplished or merits—which is His righteousness, His perfection, His character. We appropriate it by faith or trust, opening the heart and the Spirit comes in and "it is no longer I that live but Christ lives in me." We are reborn, have new hearts and right spirits. This is what appropriate means—the actual real righteousness by faith, we become the righteousness of God. But when this was rejected for the penal legal lie, theologians teach that appropriate the merits of Christ is claiming His blood as a legal payment in a court in heaven so God declares us to be righteous even though we are not. Listen to the next sentence] There are many who will be lost, because they depend on legal religion, or mere repentance for sin. But repentance for sin alone cannot work the salvation of any soul. Man cannot be saved by his own works. Without Christ it is impossible for him to render perfect obedience to the law of God; and heaven can never be gained by an imperfect obedience; for this would place all heaven in jeopardy, and make possible a second rebellion… {ST, December 30, 1889 par. 4}

Those who will be saved in the kingdom of God will be those who have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. The image of Christ will be perfected in every soul who accepts the gift of his grace, and those who are perfected through his grace, will stand before God equal in elevation, in power and purity, to the angels, and will be honored with them before the eternal throne. The angels of heaven will love those whom Christ has loved, and has bought with his own precious blood. {ST, December 30, 1889 par. 7}

The plan of salvation, the message of the Bible, the gospel message has its impact upon individual hearts and minds. It is not a message for establishing human governments—all human governments operate on Satan's methods and mixing God's methods with Satan's methods does not purify it corrupts. We must be circumcised in heart, i.e. have Satan's methods cut out, we don't mix God's methods with the methods of the world.

SUNDAY

At the end of the first paragraph it says, "in the end, there are only two sides from which to pick."

What are those two sides? God and Satan—of course—but what is the difference between those two sides?

Are these the two sides:

- The Eucharist versus communion—in which in the Eucharist Jesus goes to His Father and presents His sacrifice to the Father to pay for our sins at that time, versus the communion which is just a memorial of Jesus having already paid the Father for our sins at the time of His death and when we confess our sins Jesus doesn't present His sacrifice to the Father but Jesus presents His merits to the Father to remind the Father He already paid for our sins at the time of the cross?
- Worship on Sunday the Lord's day and keep it holy or God will punish you for your sin versus worship on the Sabbath and keep it holy or God will punish you for your sin?
- Do penance to pay for your sin or God will punish you versus claim the blood of Jesus to pay for your sin or God will punish you?
- Have Mary and the saints intercede for you with God to assuage His wrath and obtain mercy lest God punish you for your sins versus have Jesus intercede for you with God to assuage wrath and obtain mercy lest God punish you for your sins?
- The catechism is the authority we should use to interpret Scripture and know what God would have us believe and do, versus our denominational creed or list of fundamental beliefs voted in official church conference is the authority we should use to interpret Scripture and know what God would have us believe and do?
- Those who don't believe in God versus those who do believe in God?
- Those who believe in the Bible versus those who don't believe in the Bible?

Are any of these the two sides?

According to Scripture what are the two sides?

- Wheat and tares
- Fruitful vine and withered vine
- Sheep and goats
- Righteous and wicked
- Saved and lost
- Living and dead
- Christlike and Satan-like

What will separate these two groups in the end? Will it be:

- Denominational affiliation?
- Version of the Bible?
- Participation in the Jewish feast days?
- Weekly rest from labor on a particular day of the week?
- Bible reading?
- How they were baptized?
- Foods they ate?

- Claiming to believe in Jesus?

What will separate them? Notice, in all the examples of the two groups from the Bible the division is made from the actual inherent qualities of groups themselves.

- Wheat and tares may appear the same superficially, but they are not the same in reality
- Vines may appear the same superficially—but a fruitful and withered vine are not the same functionally—one is alive the other dead
- Sheep and goats are not the same
- So too with the righteous and the wicked, the difference is in them, in their hearts, minds, characters, in what they have chosen to love, who to trust, what methods and principles they prefer and practice and thus in who they are in heart, mind and character. This is the difference.

The plan of salvation is always about what happens inside the heart, mind, character of the sinner and never a legal process in a court off in some distant galaxy.

This is what one of the founders of the SDA church said:

> Satan is trying to lead men and women away from right principles. The enemy of all good, he desires to see human beings so trained that they will exert their influence on the side of error, instead of using their talents to bless their fellow men. And multitudes who profess to belong to God's true church are falling under his deceptions. They are being led to turn away from their allegiance to the King of heaven. {Counsels to Parents, Teachers and Students 494.1}

How can this be? Because they turn away from right principles—what does this mean? What are principles?

During the COVID crisis there is the principle of love, seeking to do no harm, and understanding how the virus spreads and that led to social distancing recommendations in order to seek to protect others.

But this principle of seeking to protect, of seeking to love, of seeking to not harm, and therefore seeking to prevent the spread of disease can be implemented in many different ways.

Rule-keepers will want to create a list of obligations and restrictive rules to apply across the board to all people and enforce those rules, even when enforcing the rules violates the principles.

Consider, people who want to attend a church service go to their church, remain in their own car and have a service piped in through their radio or via loudspeaker—but a police officer goes from car to car and gives tickets because there is a rule that people are not to gather for church.

Consider all the ways this same process happens in religion—rules meant to be helpful in leading people to live by God's principles, but which actually supplant the principles and end up causing harm.

Examples—rules on Sabbath keeping which make the day a burden and a dread.

The second paragraph points out that God works in us through the Holy Spirit—what are the methods of the Holy Spirit? Truth and love—how does this work?

The Spirit of truth brings truth to our minds in ways we can comprehend but then leaves us free to choose whether to accept or reject it, to say yes and apply it or say no and not apply it.

When we say yes and choose the truth then the Holy Spirit gives us divine power sufficient for the task, for the victory, and enables us to grow in character with that truth. But we don't get the power until we actually choose the truth.

This is a cooperative effort. God cannot heal a heart and mind without the willing choice and cooperation of the person; but the person cannot heal their own mind by exercising their own abilities independent of God. It is a cooperative effort in which we humbly surrender ourselves in trust to God and the choose to follow where He leads apply the truth that He reveals.

Why? Because God cannot heal our hearts and minds against our wills and retain our individuality. The only way for us, as individuals to be saved is to be fully persuaded in our own minds and choose the truth and choose to trust God. In this way, we open our hearts and minds for God to cleanse and heal in perfect harmony with His methods. Thus our individuality is retained.

MONDAY

The lesson points us again to Jesus' use of Scripture to respond to Satan's temptations in the wilderness. The lesson points out that it is not enough to be able to quote Scripture, that the devil did this.

This is a very good point—how many sins and evils are supported through quoting Scripture?

How is it possible that Scripture can be used to support evil? Because it is misunderstood and misapplied—primarily and almost always through the imposed law lens—rules that must be enforced. Through the thinking that the Bible is a rule book we are to follow.

Examples:

- Slavery—some slave owners used the Bible to support the practice
- War
- The lie that justice is inflicting punishment on wrong doers

- All the religious rituals that obstruct people from genuine transformation of heart

What do you think the lesson means by this: "If He [Jesus] had not known the exact words of Scripture and the context in which they appear, He could easily have been deceived by the devil."

Does this have the ring of truth to it or does it sound like it is off in some way?

Was the only reason that Jesus was not be deceived by the devil because He knew the exact words of Scripture and their context? If He had the words out of order, if He didn't know them exactly then He would He have be deceived?

Where is the safety coming from in this idea? In knowing the exact words—not knowing God, not knowing truth, not knowing God's laws and methods, but knowing the exact words of Scripture. What is the underlying belief in this idea? What level of decision-making is this?

Does it remind you of this?

> "The great men who built up the Western Church were almost all trained Roman lawyers. Tertullian, Cyprian, Augustine, Gregory the Great (whose writings form the bridge between the Latin Fathers and the Schoolmen) were all men whose early training had been that of a Roman lawyer,—a training which moulded and shaped all their thinking, whether theological or ecclesiastical. They instinctively regarded all questions as a great Roman lawyer would. They had the lawyer's craving for exact definitions. They had the lawyer's idea that the primary duty laid upon them was to enforce obedience to authority, whether that authority expressed itself in external institutions or in the precise definitions of the correct ways of thinking about spiritual truths. NO BRANCH OF WESTERN CHRISTENDOM HAS BEEN ABLE TO FREE ITSELF FROM THE SPELL CAST UPON IT BY THESE ROMAN LAWYERS OF THE EARLY CENTURIES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH." Thomas Lindsay in his book A History of the Reformation page 168

It sounds like our safety is in the precise words, the exact definition, the correct doctrine, the right theology—which is all level four rules-oriented thinking or below. If I know the right rules, I can stay on base and not be tricked into getting tagged out.

It could even lead to magical thinking with incantations and believing there is some power in the actual words spoken.

Is the Bible a code-book, a rule-book, like Major League Baseball's rulebook?

I want to suggest that Jesus did quote Scripture not because He knew the exact words—but because He knew the true meaning of Scripture. He knew the truth about God's character, God's methods, God's design law, and He quoted the Scripture that supported God's methods and principles that He lived by.

Consider this story from the book of Acts:

> Some Jews who went around driving out evil spirits tried to invoke the name of the Lord Jesus over those who were demon-possessed. They would say, "In the name of Jesus, whom Paul preaches, I command you to come out." Seven sons of Sceva, a Jewish chief priest, were doing this. One day the evil spirit answered them, "Jesus I know, and I know about Paul, but who are you?" Then the man who had the evil spirit jumped on them and overpowered them all. He gave them such a beating that they ran out of the house naked and bleeding. (Acts 19:13-16 NIV84)

But weren't they using the right words?

Read bottom pink section, "What has been your own experience in using the Scripture in your battle with temptations?" thoughts?

I can see my use of Scripture has changed as I have matured and grown in moral development. Paul wrote:

> When I was a child, I talked like a child, I thought like a child, I reasoned like a child. When I became a man, I put childish ways behind me. (1Co 13:11 NIV84)

What was the context of this? The love chapter—how love works. He is saying, when I was a child, immature, not understanding God's character and methods of love I acted like a child—and what did Saul of Tarsus focus on then? Rules, law-keeping, do's and don'ts—this is childishness. But when he grew up he left his childishness and rule-keeping behind and instead focused on love and living in harmony with God's design for life.

So, too when I was immature I was all about the rules. I diligently searched the Bible for my proof texts to prove my doctrines legally and biblically correct so I could be morally superior to my other Christian friends because I was right and they were wrong. It didn't matter if I was selfish in heart as long as I kept the right rules. As a child, I used the Bible as a weapon to attack others who believed differently than me.

But, when I grew up, I put such things behind me and instead have focused on God's character, methods, principles, design laws for life—in loving others. I focus on teaching people about God, and how reality works, the only path to actual healing and salvation—the restoration of God's design in hearts and minds. This puts the rules in their proper place—a necessary tool for children, but not how reality actually works.

TUESDAY

The lesson points out that Jesus did not come to change the law but to fulfill it. They take issue with those who claim Jesus did away with the law.

The problem with many is that when they read Jesus' statement that He didn't come to change the law but fulfill it is that they read it through the imposed law lie, thus they read it as Jesus keeping the rules and coming to pay the legal penalty the law demanded. Thus, they misunderstand the Scripture and misrepresent was Jesus actually did.

Let's examine the Matthew texts that the lesson points to and identify what Jesus actually taught about the law.

- "You have heard that it was said to the people long ago, 'Do not murder, and anyone who murders will be subject to judgment.' But I tell you that anyone who is angry with his brother will be subject to judgment. Again, anyone who says to his brother, 'Raca,' is answerable to the Sanhedrin. But anyone who says, 'You fool!' will be in danger of the fire of hell. Mt 5:21-22 NIV84
    - What did Jesus do? He moved it from behavior to the condition of the heart—it isn't just the act, it is the motive for the act. This elevates it from imposed law, to design law—actual healing of hearts and minds. Thus, Jesus didn't come to pay a legal penalty but to provide remedy that heals the heart.
- "You have heard that it was said, 'Do not commit adultery.' But I tell you that anyone who looks at a woman lustfully has already committed adultery with her in his heart. Mt 5:27-28 NIV84
    - What did Jesus do? Again moves it from behavior to the condition of the heart—regardless of whether the act was actually committed or not. God's law is design law!
- "It has been said, 'Anyone who divorces his wife must give her a certificate of divorce.' But I tell you that anyone who divorces his wife, except for marital unfaithfulness, causes her to become an adulteress, and anyone who marries the divorced woman commits adultery. Mt 5:31-32 NIV84
    - What did Jesus do? Again focuses on the condition of the heart, not legality. The writ of divorcement was about legality, but Jesus says, if there hasn't been betrayal, breech of trust in the relationship, then the heart remain loyal and to divorce a loyal spouse whose heart is faithful forces that spouse into a severed relationship, and if they marry again they are being unfaithful to their heart loyalties—i.e. adultery. So, again, Jesus elevates this from rule keeping to design law.

- "You have heard that it was said, 'Eye for eye, and tooth for tooth.' But I tell you, Do not resist an evil person. If someone strikes you on the right cheek, turn to him the other also. Mt 5:38-39 NIV84

    - What did Jesus do? Again moves away from imposed rules to design law and healing of heart. Love the other person, don't seek to punish the other person—seek their redemption. But even this can be practiced as a rule and then it would become harmful. It is about the principle of seeking to reach the other person's heart for God's kingdom.

- "You have heard that it was said, 'Love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' But I tell you: Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, that you may be sons of your Father in heaven. He causes his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous. If you love those who love you, what reward will you get? Are not even the tax collectors doing that? And if you greet only your brothers, what are you doing more than others? Do not even pagans do that? Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect. Mt 5:43-48 NIV84

    - What did Jesus do? Again focuses on heart change not rule enforcement and then gives specific examples from nature of how God and His laws work, sunshine and rain, and that if we are to children of God, part of God's family, members of God's kingdom we must stop being rule enforcers and instead grow up to love people.

So what did Jesus do with Scripture? He took the Scripture and pulled it out of the false legal setting the Jews had put it in, and reset it in God's design law setting. That is the message we have for people today, the 3 Angels Messages, to worship Him who made the heavens…. to stop worshipping the imperial dictator.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson reminds us of the importance of spending quiet time with God. No question about it—the law of worship—by beholding we are changed; and the law of exertion—if you want something to get stronger you must exercise it. If we are to grow in godliness we must spend time with God.

The first sentence of the third paragraph reads, "If you love someone, you enjoy spending time alone with that beloved person."

Hmmm… there is an assumption in this text that needs exposing.

What if you have a child who is rebellious, hostile, hateful, drug addicted, deceitful, steals from you, would you still love your child? Would you enjoy spending time with that child as long as they remain so ugly in character?

What if you have a parent who is critical, negative, always finds fault with you when you are around—might you still love your parent and long for a close relationship—but, not enjoy spending time with them because of how they treat you?

So, what if people are taught that God is intolerant of sin, in fact gets angry, wrathful when He sees sin. That His holiness requires Him to lash out with punishment whenever He sees sin and that we need a mediator to stand between us and God to protect us from His wrath. If this is the view a person has of God, do you think they want to spend time with Him—even if they say they love Him?

This is one of the reasons Jesus came—to show us the Father is not like this at all. The Father is just like Jesus! So we do want to spend time with someone we love when we experience they genuinely love us.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "Memorizing Scripture…" This is an excellent point. I know many people who believe in God, but have essentially no knowledge of Scripture so they don't have truth to fall back on to help them in times of crisis. They get overwhelmed and discouraged and have a hard time seeing God's hand in their lives.

The Bible is God's revelation of Himself to us—and is filled with encouraging stories to help us in our time of need. But if we don't now it, life is often much harder.

2020 2Q Making Friends for God: Lesson 1
Why Witness?

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

We are starting a new quarter on witnessing and we received this email this week:

> Hello.
> I am just learning about God's design laws vs. imposed laws. I've been sharing these new ideas with my extended family of Adventists on the West Coast. Everyone seems to be experiencing a tremendous blessing of peace and renewed joy with this fuller understanding. I am so grateful to have found your website.
> My question: I am a nurse consultant for the state of California's intellectually disabled population. I would say most of my 500 coworkers (social workers) have placed their trust in me from day one, precisely because I am a nurse, and I feel the weight of responsibility that comes with such trust. Because I have a private office, there are several coworkers that I have built up a warm personal relationship with over the past 3 years of employment. They regularly stop by and ask me questions about God (at least until we were sent home in March for shelter in place requirements). Most are from a Catholic background. I am saddened to think that I did not have a more expanded picture of God to share with them until recently. Now on extended lockdown at home and working full time remotely, the questions from coworkers are coming in again. I have been reading everything Dr Jennings has written, thankful for the timing (more time to read while on lockdown). One thing I haven't quite been able to find the right new words for is the inevitable question of WHY ARE YOU A SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST? My old answer would have been along the lines of level 4 understanding :(
> Now I want to be able and ready to share an answer in 30 seconds (one trip up the elevator basically is all the time I get), AND in a longer, more detailed response (over phone or text), that is designed to get them thinking in a positive way towards God AND the Adventist church that I love. I'm having trouble articulating both in brevity, and I don't want to overwhelm a coworker who is merely curious. Suggestions welcome. Thanks so much.

So, how would you answer her question? And if you are not an SDA, then substitute your denomination in there and consider, how would you answer as to why you are a member of whatever denomination you belong?

My answer would be something like this: First, I don't take the view that salvation is found in organizational affiliation, but in a trust relationship with Jesus Christ. With that being said, I am an SDA because I have found the most comprehensive and accurate understanding of reality that integrates Scripture, science and experience harmoniously together to provide substantive answers to all of life's big questions. In other words, the integrated views I have learned are the most consistent with reality and makes the most sense when compared to all other religions and denominations that I have examined.

And then I would be ready to give multiple examples for the inevitable follow up question they will ask—can you give me an example of what you mean? I would invite them to a longer discussion and likely start with design law and the example of love and liberty. Then I would go into the Great Controversy and why the Scripture takes the focus it does on the human family tree etc. What God's goals are and how they are only accomplished in hearts and minds, not in books somewhere.

Why witness?

- To benefit people—ultimately for salvation and eternal life

Who is benefited by witnessing?

- Both those who accept the truth and those who share the truth

Are any people harmed by witnessing?

- What happened to Pharaoh when Moses witnessed to him? Why did this happen to Pharaoh? Does that mean Moses should not have witnessed to him?
- What did Jesus say about the cities in His day having had His witness to them? That their guilt would be greater than Sodom's. Does that mean Jesus should not have witnessed to them?
- So they are not harmed by the witness of truth—they are harmed by the rejection of truth, the witness of truth gives them opportunity for healing and eternal life—even if they reject it.

What happens if we witness because we want to get the most baptisms in the conference? Do we risk witnessing with wrong motive and perhaps not even witnessing the truth?

- Jesus told the religious leaders in His day that their witness caused their converts to become twice the son of hell than they themselves were, why was that?

What is the primary goal of witnessing?

- Is the goal to get people to accept right doctrines—only as necessary for healing their hearts and minds? Our question could be metaphorically asked about a sick person—is our goal to get them to accept the right understanding of their disease?
- Is it to get them to join a particular denomination?
- Is it introduce people to Jesus and have them open their hearts in trust to Him so that they are turned from God's enemies to His friends?
- Will all of God's true friends agree on every point? Did Paul and Barnabas agree over John Mark (Acts 15:36-41)?
- Did Paul and Peter agree on associating with uncircumcised people, at least initially?
- Did Paul say that people must agree on what foods to eat or what days to treat as special?
- But what did the Apostles all agree on? Jesus is Lord and God's character and methods of love. Salvation is healing of hearts and minds through a trust relationship with Jesus.

Should we witness to every person?

- What was the purpose of telling the disciples to shake the dust off their feet?
- What did Jesus mean when He said not to cast our pearls before swine?

Are there different ways to witness and if so what are some of the different ways?

- Preaching
- Teaching
- Ministering—healthcare, helping after disaster, helping in times of need, feeding, clothing, comforting, --in other words all acts of compassion and service
- Books, blogs, articles, pamphlets
- Movies
- Lectures, videos, Bible study classes
- Preaching on the street corner
- One on one Bible study
- Witnessing at work or in the elevator
- Sharing what God has done for your personally
- Living our lives in ways that reveal God's principles
- Others?

Can we think we are witnessing for God's kingdom but actually be witnessing for Satan's kingdom? Can we proclaim the name of Jesus while promoting the principles of Satan?

- What if we were to pass laws requiring people to be baptized or else get punished?
- What about laws to worship at all or in certain ways?
- What about laws that give preference to people who believe certain things about God?
- What about laws that restrict people from sharing their beliefs about God?
- What about any merging of church and state?
- What about the crusades using violence in the name of God's kingdom—how about using violence in society today, rioting and destroying property to promote God's kingdom?
- What about using the power of the state to minister to people in need, such as taxing people to create social programs to help those in need? Why is this not part of God's kingdom?
    - Is it God's methods to take by force from people who don't want to give? Jesus said regarding taxes to give to Caesar what is Caesar's and to God what is God. He didn't argue against the state taxing and neither am I. I am making the point that Jesus made—paying taxes is not giving to God, and the state doesn't do God's work or the church's work, regardless of what they do with the money.
    - Will forcing people to give what they don't want to give result in greater love in their hearts?
    - Is the primary purpose of God's kingdom to give people food for their body or clothes or housing? Or is the primary purpose to give people eternal life?
    - When Christians in love see people in need and bring relief, food, clothing, adoption, shelter, does this create opportunity for the person to learn about Jesus? Will some inquire—why are you doing this? And will the answer that God so loved the world He gave His only Son and He has so loved us that we follow Him in loving others, impact souls for God's kingdom when it is accompanied by acts of service? But what if we take out the Christian, the church, the love of God and insert the state—the state that is vigilantly godless?

- What happens in the process of charity, of helping those in need, when we remove the compassion, the kind person, the caring people, and insert an agency, a bureaucracy, a monthly dispersement of money detached for all human contact?
- What happens if the money, clothing, food, shelter is given in a relationship with someone who cares about the person who is receiving it—a person that becomes part of their life?
- What happens when the orphan is not put in a state-run institution, in foster care in which the foster-parents are given money from the state to take care of them, but the orphan is adopted by families who love them and who sacrifice their own resources to provide for them?
- When Ruth and Naomi were without food, how did God's system provide for their food? They could get free food, but how? They had to glean for it. Is there a difference between gleaning, working in the field to gather your own food and having it given to you with no effort? What difference does it make on the heart, mind and character of the person in need?
- God's system was to connect people with people, social justice of individuals who have it in their hearts to love their neighbors, to show hospitality, to give opportunity, to rescue, to feed, to clothe. There is nothing in God's system of people paying taxes to create state agencies who become impersonal machines to take from those with no interest in the needy and give to those without. This is a corruption that instills resentment in those taxed, and no gratitude in those who receive; it instead it instills a sense of entitlement and causes division in society rather than bringing people back into unity. Think through the difference that happens when people help people directly and remove the agencies of government.
- God is always working to heal hearts and minds, restore the image of God in people. Satan is always working to destroy hearts and minds and efface the image of God in people. Human systems always corrupt—and it is most insidious when the human system purports to be helping people—but in actuality it damages.

Did I just say that the state should not have any social programs? No—I did not. I said the church (Christians) should recognize that the state cannot do the work of the church and if we promote social justice through the state we ultimately use the methods of Satan, undermine God's kingdom and promote the kingdom of the beast.

Can you be an effective witness to something you don't personally know or understand?

Read first paragraph, "God's great longing…" thoughts?

Can there be salvation without transformation? Or does God's plan of salvation actually mean healing, recreation, regeneration, restoration, transformation?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424

What do you think of this statement: If we are not being transformed we are not being saved?

From what are we being saved? We are being saved from sin—sinfulness, the condition of being out of harmony with God and His design for life. Thus, salvation heals our hearts, minds, characters such that we are being transformed in how we think, feel, and act—away from fear and selfishness and toward truth, love and freedom.

But, the penal legal lie, the theology based on human law models, that operate like human governments, is that we are being saved from the punishment that God must inflict. Thus, in this legal lie salvation and transformation are different.

But in reality, they are one and the same.

What is the difference between the sacrifices in paganism and the sacrifice of Jesus?

What is the purpose of all pagan sacrifice? To do something to the deity—to pay legal debt, to assuage wrath, to propitiate anger, to merit mercy or buy forgiveness.

Sadly, Christianity has embraced this idea of paganism, but substituted Jesus' blood for other blood. It is all a lie. The sacrifice of Jesus was not to change God or change God's law, or pay a legal payment. Jesus' sacrifice was to destroy sin, Satan, Satan's power and provide the remedy to heal human beings thus restoring all who trust God back into harmony with God and give them eternal life.

So, what happens when we go out and witness the following:

- You are a sinner and condemned to death
    - Or, have you struggled with fear, doubts, heartaches, uncertainties, loneliness? Do you long for peace, love, joy? Those are symptoms of a terminal condition we didn't choose, but for which God has provided a cure. We are all born in fear and selfishness, but God has a remedy that takes away our fear. You don't have to take it, but you will continue to suffer and ultimately die of this sin-condition.
- God is required by holiness and righteousness to punish sin
    - Or, God is love and love cannot be forced. So God will never force you to be with Him, to love Him, to accept Him. But you have a condition that without remedy results in death. God offers you eternal life, to cure you, but if you refuse, God loves you enough to give you the freedom to say no—but if you do then you will die eternally.
- The punishment for sin is execution by God to die eternally or eternal torture in hell
    - Or, God will let go all who don't want to be with Him, crying as He does, but since He is the source of life all who are permanently disconnected from Him die—no eternal torment, just non-existence. Why? Because they choose to die rather than live in God's presence—God does not inflict this on them.
- God loves you too much to just leave you to be punished so God sent His Son, who is perfect, sinless, innocent and punished His Son instead of you.

    - Or God loves us to much to let us die of this condition, so He sent His only Son to take the condition upon Himself and cure it offering us a free remedy.
- If you don't accept Jesus' legal payment or Jesus' blood to pay God for your sins then God, despite already punishing an innocent being for the sins of guilty, will still punish you for the same crime.
    - If you don't accept Jesus into your heart to transform and heal you back into harmony with how God built life to operate, then the natural result is you solidify yourself into being out of harmony with God's design for life and the only result or outcome is eternal death. God sadly gives you the freedom to choose death rather than life.
- But hey, this God who punishes the innocent and who will inflict torture and punishment upon you if you don't love Him—He really loves you. So, you want to come to church with me this weekend?
    - Do you see how much God truly loves you that He has provided everything for your eternal healing, health, happiness and eternal life—but He would never force you and if you truly don't want life, God will sadly let you go. But my God respects your individuality and would never force you to do anything. Would you like to learn more about my God and visit my church sometime?

Do you see the evil that has been foisted upon the world by teaching the Bible through the lie that God's law works like human law? This is the Roman lie.

What a difference it makes to present the truth.

SUNDAY

The first sentence of the first paragraph states, "God provides opportunities daily for people everywhere to know Him."

I couldn't agree more, the lesson references what Paul says in Romans 1:20:

> For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse.

What does this mean?

Can you find anything in nature—without Scripture—that instructs one on:

- Baptism?
- Sabbath worship?
- Tithing?
- Communion?
- Accepting the blood payment of Jesus for the payment of sins?

What, then is being taught by Paul? Is Paul in any way teaching a legal religion or is Paul saying God's nature and qualities are those of the Creator and as such are built into reality—they are not like man-made rules—they are protocols upon which life works. And any person is able to look around and see how this reality works.

Consider Jesus' parable of the sower in Mark 4:13-20—what is revealed in that parable?

> "Don't you understand that this illustration demonstrates that God's kingdom operates upon natural law — design protocols for life? If you don't understand this, you will misunderstand all my illustrations.[14]The farmer plants the words of truth into the hearts of people.[15]Some people have hearts that are hard and callous, like a road, and they don't respond to the truth when it is presented. They hear the truth, but they don't consider it seriously: Satan distracts them with some temptation or problem, and the truth is forgotten.[16]Other people have hearts like gravel–shifting and unstable: they respond with excitement to every new idea, but nothing takes root.[17]And since the truth doesn't take root in their hearts, they only stay involved briefly. As soon as the truth requires some sacrifice or actual work on their part, they quit and move on to their next emotional fix.[18]There are other people, who have minds like soil filled with weeds and thorns. They hear the truth,[19]but the thorns of worry and fear, or the weeds of seeking healing of heart in fame, fortune, or other earthly desires choke out truth and love, and make their hearts desolate.[20]But there are those whose hearts are like fertile soil. They hear the truth, comprehend it, love it, embrace it, nurture it, choose it, and build on it; and it heals, transforms and renews them, causing them to produce fruits of righteousness even more than a hundred times what was planted in them." Mark 4:13-20 The Remedy

What is described in the parable a legal process or a process of actual healing and transformation? What laws do seeds and plants operate upon? Why did Jesus use such illustrations?

What obstructs people from learning the truth of God as revealed in nature? How about being taught from earliest childhood that God's kingdom works like human legal justice system?

The last sentence of the first paragraph, after acknowledging that God's truth is revealed in nature goes on to say, "When we share Jesus with others, we provide them with their best opportunity to be saved."

When we present Jesus in His true light I agree with this completely.

But, has Jesus had His identity stolen? Has true historic Jesus, who perfectly reveals God to us, been replaced with Satan's mischaracterization? And has that fraudulent impersonation of Jesus been the one that has been taken to the world?

Ron Cantor, in his book Identity Theft does a great job of telling the story of how Jesus' Jewish identity was stolen by Romanism and that the Jesus of Christianity today is nothing like Jesus revealed. He demonstrates that the first century church was not what we think of, but was the natural advancement of Judaism taking the Messiah Jesus to the world. In his book, he does a great job of documenting how Christianity throughout history became anti-Jewish and thus today for many people, both Jews and Muslims, Christianity has no connection to the Biblical Jesus and because of this Jesus is not a being the Jews want to hear about.

If you haven't read this book, I would encourage you to give it a read, it has some good insights.

In the second paragraph the lesson states, "In Romans 6-8, he [Paul] describes how the grace that justifies each believer also is sanctifying grace."

Why is it that justifying grace is sanctifying grace? Because it is the exact same remedy being applied to the exact same place in the exact same way by the exact same agency that achieves both.

Justifying means to put what is wrong right, setting it back in its proper place, sanctifying means the keeping it right and the full purification or complete healing that comes after being set right.

But under the penal lie, real justification of heart is stolen from people and replaced with the lie that they are legally declared righteous even though they are not righteous. But the Bible teaches that "God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God." (2Cor 5:21 NIV84)

Consider these historic quotes:

> Many commit the error of trying to define minutely the fine points of distinction between justification and sanctification. Into the definitions of these two terms they often bring their own ideas and speculations. Why try to be more minute than is Inspiration on the vital question of righteousness by faith? Why try to work out every minute point, as if the salvation of the soul depended upon all having exactly your understanding of this matter? All cannot see in the same line of vision. You are in danger of making a world of an atom, and an atom of a world. {CTr 150.2}
> As penitent sinners, contrite before God, [heart change first] discern Christ's atonement in their behalf, and accept this atonement as their only hope in this life and the future life, their sins are pardoned. This is justification by faith. Every believing soul is to conform his or her will entirely to God's will, and keep in a state of repentance and contrition, exercising faith in the atoning merits of the Redeemer, and advancing from strength to strength, from glory to glory. Pardon and justification are one and the same thing. . . . {CTr 150.3}
> Justification is the opposite of condemnation. God's boundless mercy is exercised toward those who are wholly undeserving. He forgives transgressions and sins for the sake of Jesus, who has become the propitiation for our sins. Through faith in Christ the guilty transgressor is brought into favor with God and into the strong hope of life eternal. . . . {CTr 150.4} [What law lens are your reading this through? Why can God not pardon unrepented sins? What is the condition of a heart that has not repented? It's actual condition remains sinful, selfish, fear-ridden, God will not lie, will not give a false diagnosis, thus He will not overlook or pardon the actual terminal state of a person. But when we repent, accept Christ into our hearts, fear and selfishness are replaced with love and trust. We are set right in heart with God, this is justification and we have forgiveness of past sins through the forbearance of God—i.e. we are pardoned, because we are now in harmony with God and His design for life]

But while God can be just, and yet justify the sinner through the merits of Christ, no man can cover his soul with the garments of Christ's righteousness while practicing known sins or neglecting known duties. God requires the entire surrender of the heart, before justification can take place; [again heart change before justification] and in order for man to retain justification, there must be continual obedience, through active, living faith that works by love and purifies the soul. {FW 100.1} [Why? Because it is not a legal process, but an actual state of being. It is like saying a sick person benefits when they trust the doctor and take their medicine, but they can only retain their health as long as they continue to take their medicine, following the doctor's instructions, i.e. live in harmony with the laws of health. Break the laws of health the doctor doesn't prosecute you in court, but you return to a state of sickness not wellness.]

So what is our role in witnessing God's plan of salvation? How do you tell people this truth?

Read Zephaniah 3:17

The LORD your God is with you,
he is mighty to save.
He will take great delight in you,
he will quiet you with his love,
he will rejoice over you with singing." NIV84

What does this text mean to you? What do you discern of God's character?
Does this sound like a deity bent on punishing sin? Does this sound like an angry and wrathful god?

What is the motive that is required for this to be true? Love—God is love and God loves you and me, more than a parent loves a child. And parents, how much rejoicing would you have if your child was dying and you were able to save them?

Do we have other examples in the Bible that teach this truth about God?

- Parable of the lost coin
- "Or suppose a woman has ten silver coins and loses one. Does she not light a lamp, sweep the house and search carefully until she finds it? [9] And when she finds it, she calls her friends and neighbors together and says, 'Rejoice with me; I have found my lost coin.' [10] In the same way, I tell you, there is rejoicing in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner who repents." (Luke 15:8-10 NIV84)
- the lost sheep and lost son

TUESDAY

Read first three paragraphs, "The Dead Sea…" What law is being described? This is the law of love, a design law built right into reality, the very foundation of life itself.

What happens when we break it?

What does God want to restore in us? His law written on our hearts and minds.

Can this be achieved by a list of rules? Then how is it achieved?

Through our experiencing God's truth and love and being won to trust in God.

When we have been won back to love and trust in God, what instructions or prescriptions has God given us to help us grow in love?

Giving to others—and what are we to give to others?

- Tithes to God and offerings to others
- Time, energy, our own love, compassion, concern, wisdom
- Food, clothing, shelter
- Respect
- Truth

And the more you give the more you will receive. This is how our ministry works, and why we focus on giving so much away.

Read fourth paragraph, "God could have…" If God could have done it without us, why didn't He?

What law is being described?

Is it an act of love for God to have us participate in His plan to reach others, or would it be more loving if God did it without us?

What about when we seek to help others—if we love them how much do we do for them?

Is it an act of love to do for people that which they are able to do for themselves? Why or why not?

What is meant by the Bible instructions: "For even when we were with you, we gave you this rule: "If a man will not work, he shall not eat." (2Then 3:10 NIV84)

What happens to Grandma if we put her in a wheelchair when she can still walk?

What happens to a child if we carry them and never put them down?

What happens to any of us if we don't exercise the abilities God has given us?

So another trap of Satan is to get compassionate people to seek to relieve other people's suffering by doing for others what they are able to do for themselves.

Which helps a person more—giving them a handout—or giving them opportunity to develop themselves and make their own way—become autonomous?

Does that mean there is no place to give handouts? No, there are many places where it is necessary to provide food, clothing, medicine, shelter, but the goal is to do so for the least amount of time necessary to restore people to independence. This happens best when it is done person to person, rather than removing the human contact and putting governmental agencies in between.

People can love each other—institutions cannot.

Kent Johnson, one of our online listeners, came across this quote from The Desire of Ages and sent it to us this week:

> "The government under which Jesus lived was corrupt and oppressive; on every hand were crying abuses,—extortion, intolerance, and grinding cruelty. Yet the Saviour attempted no civil reforms. He attacked no national abuses, nor condemned the national enemies. He did not interfere with the authority or administration of those in power. He who was our example kept aloof from earthly governments. Not because He was indifferent to the woes of men, but because the remedy did not lie in merely human and external measures. To be efficient, the cure must reach men individually, and must regenerate the heart." DA 509.3

This is exactly correct—if we want true social justice we must apply God's principles, which reach the hearts of people. As soon as we insert the state into the mix we obstruct God's healing plan!

WEDNESDAY

The lesson is about faithfulness to Christ's command. What do you think this means?

The lesson focuses on how God wants all to come unto salvation. What commands of Christ are we to follow in helping people come to salvation?

Do you think the church is better off when governments take over functions of the church—like caring for the homeless, feeding the hungry, providing for the orphans?

Do you think as the governmental programs grow the churches become less community focused and more inwardly focused, more focused on their own doctrines, building programs, and building up membership?

Are there dangers in relying upon the state to minister to people in need?

THURSDAY

The lesson is about God's love motivating our witness.

What happens when we try to teach or share things we don't personally know?

When I experienced the freedom and peace that came when I finally came to know God as Creator and His laws as design laws—it was life transforming. My fear evaporated away and I became very passionate to see my fellow Christians who have lived under such burdens of fear, primarily from legal views of God, set free. So I began teaching these truths and more and more people have come to experiencing healing and peace in their own lives as God's design laws have been brought to bear in their lives.

FRIDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on the purpose of the church. What would you say the purpose of the church is?

> The persecution that came upon the church in Jerusalem resulted in giving a great impetus to the work of the gospel. Success had attended the ministry of the word in that place, and there was danger that the disciples would linger there too long, unmindful of the Saviour's commission to go to all the world. Forgetting that strength to resist evil is best gained by aggressive service, they began to think that they had no work so important as that of shielding the church in Jerusalem from the attacks of the enemy. Instead of educating the new converts to carry the gospel to those who had not heard it, they were in danger of taking a course that would lead all to be satisfied with what had been accomplished. To scatter His representatives abroad, where they could work for others, God permitted persecution to come upon them. Driven from Jerusalem, the believers "went everywhere preaching the word." AA 105.2

How many church leaders today, rather than moving forward in truth, look inward and think it is there job to protect the members from ideas that are different than what the leader currently believes?

What is the problem with this?

2020 3Q Making Friends for God: Lesson 2
Winsome Witness: The Power of Personal Testimony

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

I received this email yesterday:

> I want to thank you for the work you are doing in revealing God's love through your teachings.
>
> I recently shared your blog (Dinah: A lesson in Satan's tactics for today) with my mother in Ghana. We have had a few discussions about how understanding God's love can transform our hearts. I am actually overseas for my studies so the only medium I can reach my family is by calling them online or sending them an article.
> My mother called me with tears in her voice. As a "good" seventh-day Adventist, she didn't know how Satan gets access to us even when we feel we are right with God. She came face to face with her inner self as someone who isn't easily forgiving and had a little knowledge of the fact that it is one of Satan's working principles to sow a seed of pain and resentment just so we will be like him.
> She told me she was having problems with a tenant and has always prayed to God to "sack" this tenant from her house. Little did she know that she started harboring some hate in her heart against this tenant. After reading the article, she now prays that the Lord should help her love this tenant the more.
>
> Due to the positive impact of this article, she told me that she printed it out and have shared copies with friends and family. Today whenever she calls someone on phone, she cannot keep quiet about this message.
> My heart is filled with so much joy that I can share with her the truth as it is in Christ concerning his LOVE. God bless your ministry. I know there are frictions from within and without trying to prevent the message from being preached but God is still working on minds and hearts and my family is one of them.

After reading this, I thought it would be nice to start class by reading Psalms 32 from The Remedy of the Lord in Song:

Happy are they whose wicked minds are restored to perfect purity, whose selfishness is eradicated.
2 Happy is the person whose infected heart the Lord transforms to perfection, in whose mind there is no deceit.

3 When I held onto my guilt and shame, refusing to talk to God,
I stressed myself and my body decayed because every day I screamed, "no!" denying the truth.
4 But day and night
your healing hand pressed firmly upon me;
my resistance evaporated like water in the summer heat.
5 Then I admitted my sin-sickness to you and did not hide my character-deformity.
I said, "I will confess my selfishness to the Lord"— and you healed me
and freed me from guilt.
6 Therefore let all the faithful ask you for this same healing while healing is still possible;
then when the guilt, shame and regrets of life come flooding in,
the faithful will not drown in them.
7 You are my safe harbor;
you protect me from the storms of life
and turn my life into a song of deliverance.
8 The Lord says, "I will teach you my methods and how to live in harmony with my designs;
I will guide you and watch over you.
9 Don't be like the unthinking horse or mule that do not reason or understand and must be forced by bit and bridle to follow the simplest instructions."
10 Many are the sufferings of those who defy your designs, but those who trust the Lord are healed by his never-failing love.
11 Celebrate God's goodness and be happy, you spiritually-healthy;
sing for joy, all you with hearts like God's!

I also received this email yesterday:

> The SS lessons have been so great, [my wife] says each time, "I have to listen to this again,". And we do. I have used the lessons when I teach our SS class and we have been able to see the growth and understanding of the class members. The Blogs on the current events are courageous and "right on" so thanks for that also. These are truly difficult times and such a major change from what I lived in the 1950's. When I read of the statements in The Great Controversy, I thought, how can this be? This is the land of the free and the home of the brave. We have lost so much freedom and so fast. Tim-I am amazed over and over at all you do and > how you have been inspired to teach us so clearly of God's love and Design law concepts. Thanks again

For those who are not familiar with the reference in The Great Controversy the online listener was referring to, this is a one of them. But, what I want you to do is replace "church" with the church of social justice or the church of political correctness, and honor Sunday with any example of imposed law to coerce consciences you can think of going on in our country—i.e. examples of freedoms being eroded.

> The dignitaries of church and State will unite to bribe, persuade, or compel all classes to honor the Sunday. The lack of divine authority will be supplied by oppressive enactments. Political corruption is destroying love of justice and regard for truth; and even in free America, rulers and legislators, in order to secure public favor, will yield to the popular demand for a law enforcing Sunday observance. Liberty of conscience, which has cost so great a sacrifice, will no longer be respected. In the soon-coming conflict we shall see exemplified the prophet's words: "The dragon was wroth with the woman, and went to make war with the remnant of her seed, which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ." [Revelation 12:17.] GC88 592.3

Read second paragraph, "It is difficult to argue…" It is true that when you tell people how your life has been changed by Jesus that it is a powerful witness.

Does anyone want to share how Jesus and the truth that we have all come to know has changed your life?

What about the idea that "It is difficult to argue against personal experience." I think this is true, particularly if we mean trying to convince someone who has had the personal experience to believe something that contradicts their personal experience.

I don't think it is as hard for us to negate or argue against a personal experience in our own understanding when we recognize their personal experience as dangerous, fraudulent, destructive, false, erroneous, or we simply are not convinced their experience is valuable.

The challenge is in dealing with friends, family, church members, who have personal experiences that we believe are dangerous, false, destructive and trying to convince them that their experience is lying to them.

For instance:

- One I deal with in my practice quite regularly is trying to convince people that marijuana is harmful to their brain. (I am talking about marijuana with THC, not CBD oil with no THC). It is difficult to try and convince them that marijuana is not a good treatment for mental health problems, but actually worsens them. It is difficult because they have an experience in which the marijuana makes them feel better so if they feel better how could the marijuana be bad. They are basing wellness on feelings, and limiting their conclusions to only how they feel, not the totality of the evidence—including their total life experience; they typically don't include their actual functioning or evidence of brain health. They then will search the internet for data that seems to support their view—which is propaganda or anecdotal, but not science. How do I deal with their experience? I point out they are there to see me, if it was really helping and they were doing well they wouldn't be there to see me. Then I show them evidence from brain scans of people who use marijuana. Then we examine their own life and function. Then I take them though other examples in their life when their feelings lied to them. Ultimately, they have to decide and most of the time my patients decide to give up marijuana and with proper treatment they get better. But some don't and they don't get better.

- Within Christianity there is a great divide over what some call "speaking in tongues." Those who practice it will talk about their experience and those who don't will consider their experience fraudulent, either emotional hysteria or demonic and want nothing to do with it. Yet, those who have had the experience are almost never open to have their views changed about the experience.
- What about the current craze in America of people claiming "Well that's my truth" as a way of saying their experience overrides all evidence?
    - This is a dangerous phenomenon because it relabels experience as truth, thus creating a lie and confusing minds. Experiences and truth are not the same. It might be true that a person has had a certain experience, but the experience doesn't mean what the person believes about the experience is true.
    - Example—a person may experience incredible feelings of attraction to another—they may believe they are in love and that this person is the right person to be their spouse. But, later, they come to realize that the person was not the "one."
    - Example—survivor's guilt—a person survives a trauma, whether war or a home fire or natural disaster, and someone they loved didn't. And the loss causes them to blame themselves for not saving the others, when they did nothing wrong. It is their truth that they survived and lost someone, but their belief about themselves and the loss are not true. It is often difficult to get people to change their belief about this. Their "truth" is actually not true.

Let's explore how experiences can deceive and mislead:

- Substituting someone else's experience for your own. Here is a historic quote from one of the founders of the SDA church, describing events over 100 years ago—but these human problems persist today.

> If we mistake the wisdom of man for the wisdom of God we are led astray by the foolishness of man's wisdom. Here is the great danger of many in -----. [This is happening to many right now with the social justice movement. Let me put it this way—there is a difference between a just cause and just actions. Satan tricks people by presenting a just cause combined with unjust or worldly methods of resolving the issue, thus following the foolishness of man's wisdom instead of following God's wisdom. In every human society and government in history some group has been treated unjustly, sometimes on race, sometimes on nationality, sometimes on religion, sometimes on politics (not joining the party). It is a trap to use human governments to advance God's kingdom.] They have not an experience for themselves. They have not been in the habit of prayerfully considering for themselves, with unprejudiced, unbiased judgment, questions and subjects that are new and that are ever liable to arise. [How many in our society today are taking the time to prayerfully consider for themselves, with unprejudiced, unbiased judgments the questions of social justice? Or, how many are accepting the views put forth by the media, the angry and hurt, and following what others think? In my blog for this week some commented against it without even reading it, just by reading the title. Is that taking the time to prayerfully consider for themselves this issue? Our society and our church are in danger because people are being conditioned to react, to follow, but not to think reason, weigh evidences with unbiased judgment through God's design law lenses] They wait to see what others will think. If these dissent, that is all that is needed to convince them that the subject under consideration is of no account whatever. [How many people are doing this, waiting for the latest post, tweet, blog or statement from their party leader or movement leader?] Although this class is large, it does not change the fact that they are inexperienced and weak-minded through long yielding to the enemy, and will always be as sickly as babes, walking by others' light, living on others' experience, feeling as others feel, and acting as others act. [This is the mob, mob mentality, in which a person's individuality is submerged into the group.] They act as though they had not an individuality. Their identity is submerged in others; they are merely shadows of those whom they think [are] right. Unless these become sensible of their wavering character and correct it, they will all fail of everlasting life; they will be unable to cope with the perils of the last days. They will possess no stamina to resist the devil, for they do not know that it is he. [How many will be duped into fighting just causes by unjust methods? Historically Adventism has taught that one day religious leaders will take the reins of government and pass Sunday laws. Why will people seek to do this? Because they think they are fighting for justice, for God's kingdom, trying to make the world a better place, a moral place, they have a just cause—but we recognize the methods are unjust. What about if we substitute Sunday legislation, with other legislation designed to pursue social justice? Could such laws be passed that cross the line of simple equal opportunity to coercion, i.e. using methods of the devil to promote a just cause? How many will possess no stamina to resist such a movement?] Someone must be at their side to inform them whether a foe or a friend is approaching. They are not spiritual, therefore spiritual things are not discerned. They are not wise in those things which relate to the kingdom of God. [I see this happening right now, so many Christians don't seem able to differentiate the kingdom of God from the kingdoms of the world. They see no problem with using the state to promote their understanding of social justice, i.e. morality. And the reason is they don't differentiate God's design law from human imposed law. Accepting imposed law it makes sense to use the state to promote social justice.] Neither young nor old are excusable in trusting to another to have an experience for them. Said the angel: "Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm." A noble self-reliance is needed in the Christian experience and warfare. 2T 129.2

- So, substituting someone else's experience for your own, letting someone else do your thinking for you is one way experience can deceive.

- Accepting feelings as truth or reality

    - As we mentioned feelings in relationships can lie and many people get into relationship in which they have powerful feelings and have a wonderful experience, but the evidence is that this person they are with is not healthy, mature, or trustworthy, but they don't want to examine evidence because their experience tells them it is perfect, this is the one. In talking with people in such situations it is most effective to back away from the specific person they are with and ask more general questions about what are the qualifications a person must possess to be qualified to fill the role of your life partner—and lead them to list qualities such as loves you more than self, trustworthiness, honesty, reliability etc. and then compare that list with the actual person. Other truths can be brought to bear, such as the law of liberty, or healthy relationships require healthy people.

- Not checking the experience against testable laws, evidence and reality

    - I was consulted to see a patient once who had type I diabetes mellitus. He was in his twenties and was in the hospital for diabetic ketoacidosis because he stopped taking his insulin. The primary MD wanted to know if he was suicidal. He wasn't—then why did he stop his insulin? He went to a faith healer who publicly placed hands on him and "healed" him. He had a wonderful experience, felt euphoric, was overwhelmed by the spirit, spoke in tongues and was convinced by his experience that he was healed. When I asked if he continued to monitor his blood sugars he said no. When I asked why, he said, "Because it would demonstrate a lack of faith and if I don't have faith then I can't be healed." He had an experience, but he didn't want any actual evidence or truth or reason or thinking to challenge that experience.

    - A person who loves God's kingdom of truth would do just the opposite, if healed they would want to check their sugars and keep a log and document the evidence so they can show everyone that God had healed them. Do you notice the lies imbedded in the cloak of so-called "faith" that kept the young man from checking his sugars? Even his "faith" became a lie to obstruct the truth—this is what Satan does with experiences that are not consistent with reality and God's design laws.

- Another way experiences mislead is Globalization: Using a real experience from a specific situation and then applying it to all other examples or situations of similar nature. Witnessing a miscarriage of justice—say a police officer abusing their power and hurting or even killing a suspect, and then globalizing that officer's misconduct to conclude that all police are abusers and can't be trusted and police departments need to be defunded.

- Someone this week told me of conversations with their 18 y/o son who is doing this. Because of recent events and the social media he follows, he has concluded that all police or untrustworthy and police forces need to be defunded.

  How do you talk to people who think like this? Don't argue against the specific experience—the misconduct of the specific officer. Initially, don't even focus upon the police at all. Instead move away from the discussion about police and talk about something they can relate to in order to expose the fallacy of globalization. You must understand that the problem the person has is not with the police, but with their misapplication of a specific incident globally.

  So, in this case, the young man is a video gamer—I would ask: Are there any video gamers that cheat? When he answers yes, I would say, does that mean all video gamers are cheaters?

  Then I would present the following scenario: Imagine that you entered a video game contest in which the winner receives a $10,000 prize, and you win. But when you go to claim your prize, you discover someone has stolen your identity and already taken the $10,000. Would you be okay with that? When they say no, then I would ask—what would you want done? When they say they want the person caught and the $10,000 returned to them, I would say—and who do you think will do that? At that point no matter what he says it is merely labels because he will be describing law enforcement, which is the police. He might call them rule-enforcers, he might call them gaming commission, bank regulators, rightifiers, but regardless he is talking about someone with authority to enforce order in society—this is the role of police.

  Another example, when you graduate from high school you parents buy you a new car, would you be excited? Yes! What if two weeks later it is stolen, what would you want to happen? Who would do that? And whatever he describes is again police.

How do we challenge someone's personal testimony or experience that you believe is leading them astray?

By asking questions, not typically by direct confrontation. First, affirming them in some way—be careful not to state agreement or affirmation for what you believe to be false. But you could affirm them by thanking them for sharing their story or experience with you, by showing interest in them as a person. But then you can ask questions that are designed to engage thinking. Typically, when people have false experiences those experiences are sustained by denial of some reality or evidence. The goal in discussion is to get the person to think and examine their experience.

Consider this historic quote when dealing with people's experience:

> Satan leads people to think that because they have felt a rapture of feeling they are converted. But their experience does not change. Their actions are the same as before.

> Their lives show no good fruit. They pray often and long, and are constantly referring to the feelings they had at such and such a time. But they do not live the new life. They are deceived. Their experience goes no deeper than feeling. They build upon the sand, and when adverse winds come their house is swept away. MYP 71.3
> Many poor souls are groping in darkness, looking for the feelings which others say they have had in their experience. They overlook the fact that the believer in Christ must work out his own salvation with fear and trembling. The convicted sinner has something to do. He must repent and show true faith. MYP 71.4
> When Jesus speaks of the new heart, He means the mind, the life, the whole being. To have a change of heart is to withdraw the affections from the world, and fasten them upon Christ. To have a new heart is to have a new mind, new purposes, new motives. What is the sign of a new heart? A changed life. There is a daily, hourly dying to selfishness and pride. MYP 72.1

Thoughts? Do you see how reality always has evidence associated with it? One cannot have a genuine experience with Jesus without having the life changed.

What does it mean to withdraw the affections from the world and fasten them upon Christ?

SUNDAY

The lesson focuses on the demoniac from whom Christ cast out the demons that went into the pigs. Then Christ instructed the healed man to go back to his town and tell what God had done for him.

The lesson asks, "Why do you think Jesus sent the man into Decapolis to witness to his family and friends rather than nurturing him in his newfound faith by keeping him with Himself?"

The lesson points out several very good reasons:

- The demoniac was well known in the region and people would recognize him and the marked change in him would stimulate interest in what he had to say.
- His healing would demonstrate the essence of the gospel which is the restoration of godliness into people
- His healing would become a point of community interest and people would tell people and help spread the interest in Christ

But what about for the healed man—any reason for the man himself that Christ sent him to do this witness rather than keep him with his disciples?

The law of exertion—we get stronger by exercise—so having the man go and tell what the Lord did for him, would reinforce his faith in Jesus and help him grow spiritually. In doing so the man's will aligns more and more with God's, his confidence in God grows and his mind becomes less vulnerable to fear, doubt, and thus less accessible to demonic influences. Why? Because he was speaking truth and acting upon truth and this always heals.

But, what happens if a person doesn't speak truth, but instead speaks falsehoods or just constantly voices criticism or doubt, not from an honest heart asking questions to search out the truth, but from a heart that loves to cause conflict?

I read this in The Desire of Ages and it describes the principle of the law of exertion and how what we say reinforces itself upon us. And as all principles do, this one works regardless of whether you are doing something positive or negative:

> The words are an indication of that which is in the heart. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks." But the words are more than an indication of character; they have power to react on the character. Men are influenced by their own words. Often under a momentary impulse, prompted by Satan, they give utterance to jealousy or evil surmising, expressing that which they do not really believe; but the expression reacts on the thoughts. They are deceived by their words, and come to believe that true which was spoken at Satan's instigation. Having once expressed an opinion or decision, they are often too proud to retract it, and try to prove themselves in the right, until they come to believe that they are. It is dangerous to utter a word of doubt, dangerous to question and criticize divine light. The habit of careless and irreverent criticism reacts upon the character, in fostering irreverence and unbelief. Many a man indulging this habit has gone on unconscious of danger, until he was ready to criticize and reject the work of the Holy Spirit. Jesus said, "Every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment. For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned." DA 323.1

This is a principle—speak critically, negatively and it changes the mind, alters brain pathways, reinforces the negative. But speak positively, share what God has done for you, speak truth, then these words react back upon the individual and helps them grow and reinforce their ability to discern truth in the future.

Do you see in this the danger of a non-Christian education? What happens when in school young people are taught ideas that are contrary to Bible truth? What happens to the mind when the student has to write papers that are critical of Christianity? What happens to the mind when they have to speak, or answer questions, or give presentations that are critical of Christian principles and values?

Is it any wonder that our society is in the mess it is in today—the public education system, including the university system, has indoctrinated the last several generations in a godless philosophy of life.

THURSDAY

The lesson focuses on Paul's personal testimony of his conversion to Agrippa and emphasizes again the power of personal testimony.

But it makes a very good point, "Kindness opens hearts where abrasiveness closes them."

What enables us to be kind to the unkind?

When you see injustice being done do you respond with patience, understanding, kindness?

Do we struggle with the temptation to retaliate? Is that desire to punish the wrong doer from God?

Keith Johnson is an online friend, who has worked for years in prison ministry teaching inmates developed four questions to help them understand more clearly what justice is from God's viewpoint. I have these in my book The God Shaped Heart

Take a moment and answer each question for yourself.

1. What if I told you that your youngest child was murdered? Would you want mercy or justice for the perpetrator?
2. What if I told you that the murderer was your oldest child? Would you want mercy or justice for the perpetrator?
3. What if I told you that you are guilty of the murder of the only begotten Son of God? Would you want mercy or justice as the perpetrator?
4. What if I told you that you had a daughter, your only daughter, the apple of your eye, who has never given you a moment's grief, but tonight, as her father, you happen to have your tux hanging in the closet, because tomorrow you are scheduled to walk your daughter down the aisle and give her away to someone whom you approve? If you're the mother, you have your new dress hanging next to her wedding gown that you have been planning and preparing for since the first time she held her in her arms. But tonight, your daughter is at a bachelorette party with her peers and they talk her into having "one-for-the-road," the first ever in her life. Two, three, four, five, six, seven (drinks) later, while on her way home, she wipes out a school bus full of little children on their way to camp. Everybody aboard the bus dies in a fiery inferno, but you daughter survives. Do you want mercy or justice for your daughter (?) and…what do those who are related to the victims who were on the bus want?

When we talk about justice—do we use human law or God's law? When we understand God's law and see injustice then are we able to show kindness, compassion, grace, forgiveness to the wrong doer?

How many people have you heard in the last few weeks interested in the redemption and salvation of the police officer that killed George Floyd? Do you think Jesus is interested in that officer's salvation? Should we be interested in that man's salvation?

What happens when a sinner experiences grace, versus when a sinner experiences condemnation? Which is more likely to lead the sinner to repent?

What is the responsibility of the Christian?

Will state agencies typically show grace and seek to lead sinners, criminals, to repent, or do they seek to condemn and inflict punishment? Do we see why we can never get God's justice through human governments?

MONDAY

The lesson is about witnessing the risen Christ, how do you do that?

Anyone want to share what they have found effective in sharing the risen Jesus with people who don't already know Him?

I think this is a great question—any ideas on effective ways to witness the risen Savior to people who do not already believe in Him?

The lesson focuses merely on the historic account as described in Scripture of the women going to the tomb, not finding the body of Christ, the angel telling them Jesus has risen and their sharing this truth.

There is nothing wrong in sharing this Scripture with people who do not yet believe in Jesus—but do you find this is likely to help people come to know Jesus who don't already believe in Jesus or the Bible?

If they believe in the Old Testament then perhaps going through the prophecies of the Old Testament about the Messiah and how Jesus fulfilled all of them would be helpful to bring a person to believe in Jesus. But if a person doesn't believe in the Bible at all, then how do you witness to the risen Jesus?

What evidence can you provide to demonstrate Jesus is real?

What about this idea from the book The Desire of Ages:

> When the message of truth is presented in our day, there are many who, like the Jews, cry, Show us a sign. Work us a miracle. [People want some evidence and commonly cry for a sign or miracle. What is the problem with miracles? They can be counterfeited. And, we are told that before Christ comes satanic spirits will perform miracles to deceive. But people want something besides a verbal testimony or proclamation, what they hear as a claim without evidence, to base their faith upon.] Christ wrought no miracle at the demand of the Pharisees. He wrought no miracle in the wilderness in answer to Satan's insinuations. He does not impart to us power to vindicate ourselves or to satisfy the demands of unbelief and pride. [Does this mean we may have to endure ridicule, accusation, condemnation from people who reject our belief in Christ?] But the gospel is not without a sign of its divine origin. Is it not a miracle that we can break from the bondage of Satan? Enmity against Satan is not natural to the human heart; it is implanted by the grace of God. When one who has been > controlled by a stubborn, wayward will is set free, and yields himself wholeheartedly to the drawing of God's heavenly agencies, a miracle is wrought; so also when a man who has been under strong delusion comes to understand moral truth. [What is the miracle, the evidence that can be pointed to? The evidence of a life transformed to godly principles, the dishonest becomes honest, the exploiter a protector, the cruel becomes kind, the fearful becomes courageous, the liar becomes honest, the cheat becomes loyal. Transformation of character is evidence of our risen Savior.] Every time a soul is converted, and learns to love God and keep His commandments, the promise of God is fulfilled, "A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you." Ezekiel 36:26. The change in human hearts, the transformation of human characters, is a miracle that reveals an ever-living Saviour, working to rescue souls. A consistent life in Christ is a great miracle. In the preaching of the word of God, the sign that should be manifest now and always is the presence of the Holy Spirit, to make the word a regenerating power to those that hear. This is God's witness before the world to the divine mission of His Son. DA 407.1

So, how can we reach people who don't know Christ? First, we have to personally know Him—we can't share what we don't know. And this means we have to have an experience—a transformation of our lives so that we become like Christ in heart/character.

Then, we seek to treat people like Jesus did. We get to know people, spend time with them, seek to help them. And this opens an entire other area where the battle between truth and deception rage—what does it mean to help someone?

This requires that we actually know God's law, His design law, how life is built to operate. Then, our goal is to help people know God personally and move to live in harmony with His design for life.

This means they must exercise their power of choice, to engage their abilities, to apply truth to their lives. They must live the Christian life. We cannot do it for them. Which means there are times when we must not resist and refuse to rescue people from their situation because they need to choose and act for themselves or they will never grow and develop.

It requires wisdom to know where we intervene to rescue and where we do not. If we don't intervene when we should then someone may be lost—if we do intervene when we shouldn't then someone may be lost.

I found a couple of historic quotes that I thought were quite interesting from a book Counsels to the Church:

> There are two classes of poor whom we have always within our borders—those who ruin themselves by their own independent course of action and continue in their transgression, and those who for the truth's sake have been brought into straitened circumstances. We are to love our neighbor as ourselves, and then toward both these classes we shall do the right thing under the guidance and counsel of sound wisdom. {CCh 284.2} [Is this suggesting that perhaps we are to think about what a person needs in various circumstances?

That the help provided may vary depending on how and why a person is in need? Could we harm if we confused the two classes or lumped them all into the same class?]
There is no question in regard to the Lord's poor. They are to be helped in every case where it will be for their benefit. {CCh 284.3} [Does this imply that there are times when helping someone might not be for their benefit? Or when actions taken to benefit might actually harm? Can you think of any examples?]

God wants His people to reveal to a sinful world that He has not left them to perish. Special pains should be taken to help those who for the truth's sake are cast out from their homes and are obliged to suffer... The poor among God's people must not be left without provision for their wants. Some way must be found whereby they may obtain a livelihood. [What is the help advocated here? Is it only a handout or is it something else? What is the difference to the person in need to receive a handout versus receiving employment? What is it God wants for all humans? The restoration of godliness in them—which would mean not only a pure heart and right spirit, but integrity, intelligence, wisdom, ability to think and to act, industry, meaningful usefulness. Should we seek to help people develop these abilities, or should we infantilize capable people by merely giving handouts?] Some will need to be taught to work. Others who work hard and are taxed to the utmost of their ability to support their families will need special assistance. [What is special assistance? Perhaps a raise, perhaps a new job that pays more, perhaps a subsidy, perhaps a low-cost housing opportunity. The point is, assisting people in need is righteous—but we have to understand the actual need. Do you notice a single cookie cutter intervention won't work?] We should take an interest in these cases and help them to secure employment. There should be a fund to aid such worthy poor families who love God and keep His commandments. {CCh 284.4} [Do you know of any church that has an employment program?]

Methods of helping the needy should be carefully and prayerfully considered. We are to seek God for wisdom, for He knows better than shortsighted mortals how to care for the creatures He has made. There are some who give indiscriminately to everyone who solicits their aid. In this they err. In trying to help the needy, we should be careful to give them the right kind of help. There are those who when helped will continue to make themselves special objects of need. They will be dependent as long as they see anything on which to depend. By giving undue time and attention to these, we may encourage idleness, helplessness, extravagance, and intemperance. {CCh 285.1} [Could this be true regardless of the source of the aid—family, friends, church or state? And what would be the most likely initial response if such a person were cut off from the aid they were previously receiving? Protest, complaint, accusation of not being loved or valued, worsening in their condition, function, appearance. And what if they are a member of a group that has historically been mistreated or exploited, what might they do? Make accusations of discrimination?]

When we give to the poor we should consider: "Am I encouraging prodigality [wastefulness like prodigal son]? Am I helping or injuring them?" No man who can earn his own livelihood has a right to depend on others. {CCh 285.2} [Do we apply this principle well when we give without knowing to whom we are giving? So, what is required? We must get to know people. But what is easier? Do we ever prefer to have the state involved, to pay our taxes, to have state social programs to help the poor because that way we don't have to do it and we don't have to feel guilty for not doing it? It relieves us as Christians from any responsibility.]

TUESDAY

The title: Changes Lives Make a Difference. How do changed lives make a difference?

Do lives changed to be like Jesus, as we read in the quote above, make a difference in society? How?

But what about lives changed in the other direction—to be more violent, selfish, exploitive, deceitful, do they also make a difference in society? How?

How do we resist being drawn into the methods of Satan?

If Satan cannot get good people to choose evil directly—such as cheating, stealing, committing adultery, murdering, exploiting, abusing, lying—then what other actions does the devil take to undermine good people—in other words, to change their lives for the negative?

By overwhelming them with righteous causes that they accept and thus burn out.

How about by inciting a wrong, an evil, an exploitation, an abuse, and stirring up the outrage, the heartache, the sense of injustice in the hearts of the righteous and then placing before them the option of seeking to address the wrong by implementing Satan's methods? Let's use power to inflict pain, suffering, punishment upon the wrong doer—or let's use violence to intimidate those that we perceive have failed us in order to coerce and intimidate them into doing what we think is necessary to fix the wrong.

This is not God's method and will always cause further corruption, division, and problems. Only God's methods heal, worldly methods always divide.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson is about telling what Christ has done for us personally—does anyone want to share?

With the current events going on in the world many people are become afraid. In fact, some parties use fear of the future in order to manipulate people.

I have found this quote very helpful to me throughout the years:

> "We have nothing to fear for the future, except as we shall forget the way the Lord has led us, and His teaching in our past history." Christian Experience and Teaching 204.1

This is one of the reasons to recount our personal experiences. Our experiences of how God has led us in the past, how He has delivered us in the past, helped us, been with us, builds our faith and reminds us that we can face an uncertain future without fear because God is by our side.

2020 3Q Making Friends for God: Lesson 3
Seeing People through Jesus' Eyes

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

The title of this week's lesson: Seeing People through Jesus' Eyes—what do you think?

Does it depend on who we understand Jesus to be?

Do we believe seeing people through Jesus' eyes is different than seeing people through the Father's eyes?

When you consider yourself standing before God and being examined—what to you conclude? What to you experience? Do you experience peace, joy, confidence, or fear and anxiety, guilt and shame?

When you consider standing before God and being examined, do you experience confidence because you believe Jesus stands between you and the Father and protects you by preventing the Father from actually seeing you?

This week on Christian radio I heard a pastor telling his audience that we can have confidence because when we sin we have Jesus as our advocate standing next to the Father in heaven to pay the Father for our sin.

Do you think the Father would have an angry response if He saw a sinner without Jesus beside Him to remind Him of the blood He shed to pay for the sinner's sin?

Or, do you think "God so loved the world that He sent His Son…" That "while we were yet sinners Christ died for us…" That "God was in the Son reconciling the world to Himself…" that if you've seen Jesus you've seen the Father… that "if God is for us who can be against us…"

What do you think when you think if how God sees us?

When we look at people through Jesus' eyes are we certain we are using the right law lens? Does Jesus look through human law at people, or does Jesus look through God's law? And what kind of law is God's law?

When Adam sinned and ran and hid because he was afraid, how did God approach him? What did it mean that God said, "Adam who told you that you were naked?"

How did God see Adam? He saw him sick, injured in soul, damaged and in need of healing. God did not see him as a criminal in need of punishing.

I am going to read to you the opening story from my book The God-Shaped Heart it is a retelling of the story of the woman caught in adultery and dragged before Jesus. Do we see sinners like Jesus saw this woman or do we see sinners like the religious leaders saw this woman? And do we see ourselves like this woman saw herself, or do we see ourselves like Jesus sees us?

> She was terrified. Dust caked her mouth, and the tears that made trails through the dirt on her face couldn't flow fast enough to keep the painful grit out of her eyes. Her knees bled from being dragged through the rough streets as she desperately clung to the torn sheet barely covering her body. She frantically looked for escape, but in every direction there was only the impenetrable wall of hate. She could feel their malice building, their hunger for her blood, the dam holding back their pent-up savagery about to break upon her.
> She knew she deserved to die. She was taught from childhood that what she had just been caught doing was punishable by death, and she loathed who she had become. She remembered how her uncle had taken her innocence when she was only a child and then had told her how wicked and filthy she was. He called her vile names, and those insults replayed in her mind in a nonstop cacophony of self-loathing. Some part of her longed for escape; perhaps death would finally free her from the years of guilt, shame, insecurity, fear of rejection, and chronic loneliness—yes, loneliness. Though she had been with more men than anyone she knew, she always felt alone, unloved, worthless. Life was hard; perhaps it was better this way. Perhaps this was God's will for someone like her, someone who wasn't pure. Perhaps death was all she deserved. Let it come. Why fight it? She sank down in the dirt waiting for the stones to find her.
> But the stones never came. One moment the vulgar taunts of the murderous mob were all she could hear, and the next—silence. Daring to open her eyes, she saw a pair of sandaled feet. Fearfully looking up, she thought she must be dreaming as she saw the kindest face she had ever seen, and he smiled at her.
>
> How could he smile? But he was smiling, and in his smile she saw peace, compassion, and real concern for her. And then she noticed his eyes. They were intense, and she knew instantly that he saw her—not the nearly naked body the mob looked upon nor the frightened girl groveling in guilt and shame. No! He saw her! He saw the little girl, the bruised, battered, betrayed, exploited, misunderstood, and vilified little girl hiding behind years of bad choices, broken promises, and self-hatred. He saw the little girl inside longing to be loved, desperate to be whole—he saw her!
> She held her breath as he asked her where her accusers were. With a voice barely above a whisper, not wanting to shatter this fragile moment, she told him they had gone. And then, the unbelievable happened, her world shook, her distorted self-image shattered, her understanding of reality changed. His voice was so compassionate, so tender, like the gentlest music, and she heard him say, "Neither do I condemn you." How? How could he not? He knew what she was, and what she had done. She knew what the law said, what the teachers said, what the priests said. Everyone agreed she deserved to be condemned. But not this man! He said no, I don't condemn you! I love you and want you to be whole—go now and live a better life, live in harmony with God's design for life and relationships!

The years of pent-up shame burst, and tears began to spill down her cheeks—not the terrified tears of guilt and fear she had shed just moments before, but tears of joy and relief, tears of love and thanksgiving. She was loved despite any previous actions, loved not for what she had done but loved for who she was—a child of God!

There is power in love—power to change people, power to heal broken hearts, power to transform lives. God is love, and it is his plan to pour his love into our hearts to heal, transform, and rebuild each of us back into his original design for humankind (Rom. 5:5). But sadly, something obstructs that love. Something has prevented far too many good Christian people from experiencing that transforming power. (pages 13-15)

Do we see past the sins of people, through their bad choices, through the pain and suffering to see them? Do we see what people can be if they would let Jesus heal them?

Do we see ourselves though the eyes of Jesus or do we let past wounds, past mistakes, past sins fill our hearts with guilt and shame and destroy our peace and obstruct or view of Jesus?

What about if it is more than just a sin like the adultery of the woman in this story, what if it is actual crime, harming another? How does Jesus see us then?

Do you think the two thieves on the crosses were innocent men? Did Jesus love them anyway? Was Jesus concerned for their salvation? How did Jesus see them? Did He still see them as His children injured and wounded by sin, but healable, that if they trusted Him He could fix the brokenness in their hearts—take away the fear and selfishness so that they would be people with godly hearts?

What is the Christian approach to those who have actually committed crimes in our society? Are we to seek vengeance, seek to inflict punishment, or seek to redeem them, to love them, to lead them to Christ for the healing of their hearts?

So, we might restrain them from committing more crime in order to prevent injury to innocents and also from further damaging their own characters, but do we seek to lead them to Jesus to turn them from enemies of God into friends of God? Should we?

What about the officer that has been arrested and charged with the murder of George Floyd—what is the Christian response to him? Should we seek vengeance upon Him? Should we seek vengeance upon other police officers not involved? Should we seek to punish other citizens or organizations or corporations? Or should we see this officer's salvation? How do you think Jesus looks at that officer? Should we see the officer like Jesus does?

Imagine you have a son, in the 5th grade, who has a teacher that has been molesting him. Your son has tried to tell people but no one believes him, or if they do they tell him there is nothing they can do so he keeps getting sent back to that teacher's classroom. Eventually, feeling helpless and full of anger, your son gets a baseball bat and goes into a rage at the school, breaking windows in cars, breaking computers in the school, hitting other children and teachers breaking bones. Some friends join him, some of whom were also abused, some who just empathize with him, and they protest the injustice done to him and others by march through the community breaking into houses of other teachers, destroying property of anyone along the route, involved or not involved with the abuse, and they call for the city to defund the teachers and fire them all.

Would you love your son? What action would you take if this was your son? What is the primary goal or outcome you want in this situation? What do you want for your son? What do you think is happening inside the heart and mind of your son?

What do you think Jesus wants for your son?

Will your son get a good outcome for his soul, his character, his heart, if the community gives him what he wants, disbands schools, fires teachers, and even buys him a new car, gives him a house, puts money in his account? What is he likely to do the next time he feels he is wronged?

Love wants to heal the heart of your son, to protect him, but your son needs protection from more than the abusive teacher—your son needs protection from himself—from acting on the hurt and pain in ways that damage his soul. So, in love, as a parent would you take the bat out of his hands, would you stop him from attacking and injuring others, would you sit and hold him while he cries, and would you seek to heal the wounds he has suffered—what about helping to heal any wounds he inflicted upon others in his rage?

And if we are really mature in Christ, we would seek transformation of heart/salvation for the abusing teacher—just like God did for king David. But, how many believe the most just thing to do is to use force to inflict suffering, pain, punishment upon the abuser—and not just the abuser but anyone who looks like the abuser?

When we see problems through the lens of human law, crimes to be punished, we will fail to fulfill our Christian mandate of taking the gospel to the world. Our actions will not unite and heal hearts and minds but cause further division.

What about changing the identify of Christ?

Some today are calling for the destruction of images of Jesus in churches and cathedrals that portray him as white. I am not sure what they mean by this—I wish someone would ask them—are they saying he was black? A preacher a year or so ago in this community said that Jesus was black and put up a picture of black Jesus on the screen.

What is the problem when we focus on Jesus' skin color? We are NOT focusing on His character and His true identity as the Son of God. Should His skin color matter to us or should we stay focused on the only two elements that actually matter for our salvation—that was He the Son of God and He developed a perfect sinless human character?

What impact does it have on people to shift away from Jesus' character to His skin tone? Do such discussions bring greater unity or cause some sense of division, hostility?

Is there a difference in saying "imagine Jesus was black" and saying "Jesus was black"? There can be a benefit to black people to imaging Jesus was black to allow a closer connection in their personal experience. It would be like saying to a woman who is being abused, "Jesus was abuse, imagine he was a woman being abused how would she have handled it?" Nothing wrong with such an imaginary application to Jesus' character and methods.

But would it be helpful to go around and tell people Jesus was a woman and let's destroy images of Jesus as a man and replace them with Jesus as a woman? Likewise while skin color is not important to salvation, character is, those who focus on skin color are not only introducing division but introduce falsehoods—and lies never heal, they only damage.

The truth is that Jesus' humanity was descended through David, going back through Abraham, Noah, to Adam—thus Jesus' humanity was not from the caucuses—meaning he wasn't Caucasian but His humanity wasn't from Africa so he wasn't Negro either. He was Semitic.

Ellen White had visions in which she saw Jesus and she said that one particular picture she saw was the closest to how Jesus appeared to her in vision. This is that picture:

Do the protesters want to shift our focus to Jesus' skin color, trying to promote the idea He was black, because it fits the narrative they are pushing that black people get abused by white people and Jesus was crucified by Romans. Such a view distorts the purpose of Jesus' mission to earth and takes away the real reason why Jesus was crucified. A non-black Jesus doesn't fit their narrative and leads us to realize the true reasons Jesus was crucified was not because of His skin color, but because of His pure and holy character.

So, how do we address the call for the destruction of white Jesus's? By recognizing those calling for these changes are not Christian—they are the ones who Jesus said will come to Him claiming to have done all these good works in Jesus' name, but He will tell then to go away they worked iniquity and never actually knew Him. They are not people who are interested in promoting truth in love—the character of Christ. They are not presenting a message of unity, but of division; they are not interested in healing society's wounds but of causing greater pain and hostility.

We are to see it for what it is and rest confident in the truth of our Savior. People can say all manner of evil against Him and us falsely, but we know the truth and we stand at peace upon the truth. We recognize that those who reject truth are rejecting salvation because salvation is found only via the path of truth. We recognize that they are searing their own consciences and hardening their hearts and we grieve for them, we love them, but we do NOT join them in demonstrations of solidarity that is based upon lies, falsehoods and ungodly methods of conduct.

One of the most deceitful and destructive elements of this current social justice movement is the false dichotomy they have set up. They identify an event or events that expose legitimate wrong that any righteous person is outraged by and desires to see rectified—but then they present two false options—1) their destructive method of violence, coercion, lies about history and demand everyone surrender to their new narrative, story, understanding and actions like removing pictures of Jesus if you want to show you are racially sensitive and here is the other lie they project with intensity—2) if you don't accept their view then you are a racist, bigot, or part of the abusive system.

Thus, they trap many good-hearted people into going along with their destructive methods to keep from being labeled a racist—this is wrong. The lover of Jesus loves all people, doesn't care about skin color, but cares about the quality of character, a person's heart. A follower of Jesus wants to see all people come to salvation and will love those protesting, but realize they are damaging themselves any time they accept lies and use ungodly methods to advance their agenda, and we will NOT be tricked by their false allegations into participating with their destructive methods.

The end-time deceptions are so subtle that if it were possible the very elect will be deceived—this current movement is a very powerful lie because it identifies wrongs that need rectifying but weaves in lies and worldly methods that corrupt.

SUNDAY

The lesson focuses on Jesus healing the blind man and references Mark 8:22, but I want to focus on the blind man in John chapter 9, this is from the NIV:

> As he went along, he saw a man blind from birth. 2 His disciples asked him, "Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?"
> 3 "Neither this man nor his parents sinned," said Jesus, "but this happened so that the work of God might be displayed in his life. 4 As long as it is day, we must do the work of him who sent me. Night is coming, when no one can work. 5 While I am in the world, I am the light of the world." 6 Having said this, he spit on the ground, made some mud with the saliva, and put it on the man's eyes. 7 "Go," he told him, "wash in the Pool of Siloam" (this word means Sent). So the man went and washed, and came home seeing.

Thoughts about this? Does it seem strange the way it happened? I was talking to Messianic Jewish Rabbi Eric Walker who told me this was done specifically to demonstrate Jesus was God and the Messiah.

In Jewish culture the Messiah will do the following to prove He is Messiah, which was articulated in the answer to John the Baptist's disciples when they asked are you the one:

- The blind receive their sight—creation power (will unpack this below)
- lepers are cleansed—which was the forgiveness of sin
- the deaf hear—bringing truth to enlighten
- the dead are raised— Lazarus after four days because the Jews believed the soul didn't leave the body until then
- gospel preached to the poor

So, what is the significance of healing the man born blind?

1. "In the beginning God "CREATED"
2. John 9 – Jesus encounters a blind man at the Pool of Siloam – Verse 1 - As Jesus passed by, He saw a man blind from birth
3. The term blind from birth begs the investigation into how one could determine 2000 years ago a newborn's visual acuity. The only conclusion that is 100% certain that the man was blind from the moment of birth is that he was born without eyes. This is supported by the fact that he is referred to as having his eyes closed. If he had eyes and was blind that would not be able to be determined at the time of birth. The" born blind" reference in made multiple times depending on the translation.
4. Jesus does what the Creator did on the 6th Day as recorded in Genesis:

> 2:4 This is the account of the heavens and the earth when they were created. In the day that the Lord God made the earth and the heavens, 5 no shrub of the field was yet on the earth, and no plant of the field had yet sprouted, for the Lord God had not caused it to rain on the earth, and there was no man to cultivate the ground. 6 But a mist arose from the earth and watered the whole surface of the ground. 7 Then the Lord God formed man from the dust of the ground and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living being.

5. Note that the mist made the earth damp – Jesus took dirt – spit into it to make it damp and created (BARA) eyes for the man born blind.
6. Eye witness testimony is given to support the claim the man was born blind. His Testimony and both his parents.
7. This was an act of "creation" which only God can "BARA" create and in the same manner as God created (BARA) out of wet ground (as in the earth was covered in water, the mist watered the ground, we are a new creation breaking through water, we are baptized breaking through water, etc.) Jesus also "created – BARA) an act of God in the flesh.

The lesson focuses on healing, why is healing such a central part of the gospel message?

I read the following from the book Testimonies to the Church Vol 6. What do you think, what lessons are being taught and why?

> Again and again I have been instructed that the medical missionary work is to bear the same relation to the work of the third angel's message that the arm and hand bear to the body. [What is the message of the three angels? When you hear it do you hear a message that immediately connects to medical work? What kind of law does medical practice work upon? Design law—laws of health. Who are we called back to worship in the 3 angels messages? The designer/creator, which means design law. What is the plan of salvation except the plan of healing, so we cannot effectively take the 3 angels message to the world divorced from the medical work because to do so perpetuates the imposed law lie] Under the direction of the divine Head they are to work unitedly in preparing the way for the coming of Christ. The right arm of the body of truth is to be constantly active, constantly at work, and God will strengthen it. But it is not to be made the body. [What does this mean? It simply means the message of salvation is not primarily a message about healing our mortal bodies from physical illness. While the healing arts operate on design law, and vividly portrays the plan of salvation that is to heal us, the plan of salvation is about healing our characters. So if we make it merely about physical health we miss the entire point.] At the same time the body is not to say to the arm: "I have no need of thee." The body has need of the arm in order to do active, aggressive work. [But when we divorce the gospel message from the medical work we make the spreading of the gospel ineffectual because it becomes legal rather than healing] Both have their appointed work, and each will suffer great loss if worked independently of the other… {6T 288.1}
> The medical missionary work should be a part of the work of every church in our land. Disconnected from the church it would soon become a strange medley of disorganized atoms. It would consume, but not produce. [healthcare, disconnected from the gospel consumes rather than produces—wow—do we see that today? Is the wealth of America being consumed by the healthcare industry? Why? Because it is disconnected from the gospel. The gospel leads people to God which leads people to live responsibly, in harmony with design law, which heals body and soul, and reduces sickness, produces people that are able to contribute to society, the disabled ill decrease. But, treating illness disconnected from the gospel leads to lifestyles of indulgence that results in more and more sickness and its treatments and more and more disability and the consuming of resources] Instead of acting as God's helping hand to forward His truth, it would sap the life and force from the church and weaken the message. Conducted independently, it would not only consume talent and means needed in other lines, but in the very work of helping the helpless apart from the ministry of the word, it would place men where they would scoff at Bible truth. [have we seen this happening in our world as healthcare has become and end unto itself and the costs have skyrocketed and many in the healthcare field scoff at the Bible?] {6T 289.1}

The gospel ministry is needed to give permanence and stability to the medical missionary work; and the ministry needs the medical missionary work to demonstrate the practical working of the gospel. [The gospel—good news about God give permanence because it brings people into a saving relationship with God so they will experience everlasting life—eternal healing. Without the gospel than life is temporary. And the ministry needs the medical work to make it practical, in other words to show the plan of salvation transforms and heals, it is not theoretical] Neither part of the work is complete without the other. {6T 289.2}

The lesson points us to the story of the woman at the well and recommends we read it, this is from John 4 in The Remedy:

While Jesus was resting at the well, a Samaritan woman came to draw water. Jesus asked her, "Would you be kind enough to give me a drink?"[8](Jesus was alone, because his disciples had gone to town to buy food).

[9]The Samaritan woman was momentarily stunned by Jesus' request because Jews were notorious for discriminating against Samaritans (women in particular) and wouldn't even talk to them. Once she recovered from her shock, she said to Jesus, "What's going on that you, a Jew, would ask me, a Samaritan woman, for a drink?" [Imagine in the 1930's being in a Southern state and being a white doctor or professor and asking a black woman if she would use her cup to bring him a drink.]

[10]Jesus, with courtesy and respect, said, "If you knew the gift that God has provided for all humanity, and who it is that is asking you for a drink, you would ask me and I would give you the water of eternal life."

[11]"Sir," the woman replied, "the well is deep, and you have nothing with which to draw the water, so where do you propose to get this water of eternal life?[12]Are you greater than our father Jacob who dug this well and drank from it himself, as did all of his family and their flocks and herds?"

[13]Jesus patiently answered, "Everyone who drinks of the water from this well, in just a short time becomes thirsty again,[14]but whoever drinks the water of life I give them will never thirst again. In fact, the water of life I give will actually become a new fountain inside them, that will overflow to eternal life."

[15]Upon hearing what Jesus said, the woman eagerly requested, "Sir, please give me this water so that I won't ever get thirsty again and have to keep coming here to draw water."

[16]Jesus told her, "Go and get your husband and come back."

[17]She replied, "I don't have a husband." Jesus gently said to her, "You are right when you say that you have no husband.[18]In fact, you have had five husbands, and the man you now live with is not your husband. So when you said that you don't have a husband, that was quite true." [How did Jesus handle this? Did He say it in a way to embarrass or humiliate, or in a way to validate her honesty while letting her know that He already knew about her many husbands and current living situation and He was still speaking with her? What is the message that Jesus knew all about her and still spoke to her kindly and saw her as someone of value or worth?]

[19]Shocked and somewhat uncomfortable with such a personal revelation, the woman said, "Sir, to know such things you must certainly be a prophet.[20]So please help me with a problem: Our people have always worshiped God here on this mountain, but you Jews claim that the place we must worship God is in Jerusalem; so which is it?"

[21]Jesus declared, "Believe me, dear woman, the place where one worships God is not important; it is the condition of the heart of the worshiper that matters. Very soon, you will worship the Father neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem.[22]You Samaritans worship a confusing tradition of rituals that does not enlighten the mind and have no ability to heal the worshiper; we worship the Creator God, and our minds are enlightened and healed by him because all he asks of us is sensible and reasonable. The plan to heal humanity from the infection of selfishness and sin is provided through the Jews.[23]The time has now come that all true worshipers will worship the Father with an intelligent and reasonable understanding of who he is, respecting, admiring and loving the truth about his nature, character, and methods. These understanding worshipers are the kind the Father seeks.[24]God is intelligent and reasonable, and his worshipers must worship him intelligently and reasonably, appreciating and valuing the truth of God's methods and principles."

[25]The woman said thoughtfully, "I know that the Savior of the world, called Christ, is coming. When he comes, he will make plain the truth about God and untwist all the confusing ideas about the Father. He will destroy the lies of Satan that prevent us from knowing God. He will explain the real problem regarding the infection of selfishness and sin within mankind, and he will reveal God's plan to heal and restore mankind to God's original ideal."

[26]Then Jesus proclaimed, "I, who stand before you and am speaking with you, am he."

> [27]Just as Jesus said this, his disciples returned and were shocked to find him talking with a woman — and not just any woman, but a Samaritan. They were too insecure to ask, "Why are you talking with her?" or "What do you want with her?"
> [28]After hearing what Jesus had just told her, the woman forgot all about her water jar, rushed back to town, and said to the people,[29]"Come, see a man who knew everything about me. Could this be the Savior we have been waiting for–the Christ?"[30]The townspeople were so intrigued by the woman's testimony that they made their way toward Jesus.
> [31]While the woman was witnessing to the townspeople, the disciples urged Jesus, "Teacher, eat something."
> [32]But he said to them, "I have food that nourishes me that you don't yet understand."
> [33]The disciples were puzzled and said to each other, "Did someone else bring him food?"
> [34]Jesus said to his disciples: "The food that nourishes me and gives me strength is to do the will of the Father who sent me, and to finish the work he has given me to do: to reveal the truth about him, expose the lies of Satan, and cure human sinfulness.

How did Jesus approach this woman? How did He see her? Did her nationality, race, skin color, gender make a difference to Jesus? Why not?

Did it make a difference to the disciples? Why? What did Jesus want to teach them?

In God's view of earth how many races are there? One human race, all descended from Adam and all of us suffering with the same sin condition and all in need of the same remedy. (We have a sin condition—not a skin condition)

Who wants to fragment us into groups fighting with each other?

The Bible teaches that as we come to Jesus we come closer and closer to each other until eventually all who unite with Jesus are united as one—unified in love and truth.

Consider this historic quote—do you agree?

> When Christ is not abiding in the heart by faith, there are discord and strife and but little effort made to get near to each other where we can be one in Christ Jesus. As we approach the great center, Christ Jesus will be our Unity, which is as a wheel within a wheel. The nearer we come to Christ, the nearer we come to each other. Those who live in Christ realize the greatest harmony, heart with heart. Discord and strife are not found in that company who are sanctified through the truth. We need faith and love. Let us seek for it. 12LtMs, Lt 202, 1897, par. 9

I have found this to be true, when Christie and I travel around the world and meet people for the first time who love our Creator God and understand His design law of love, we have such a unity, a oneness, a connection with them. And they are not all from the same denomination—but they all love God and His design of love.

But when we meet Christians who cling to the imposed law view, there is discord as they often must argue over this verse or that ritual or that observance, rather than the unity of love that comes from Christ living in the heart. Even when in the same denomination.

Read bottom green section, "Who are the people whom, due to the influence of your own culture and society, you tend to view disdainfully, or with a lack of respect? Why must you change your attitude, and how can that change come?"

My blog a week ago Christian Beware the Trap of the Social Justice Movement generated a huge response. But interestingly, while my blog mentioned no politicians, there were people who responded with hateful messages toward one politician or another. Some said ugly things about Trump, others said ugly things about Biden etc.

Do you think Jesus loves Trump and Biden and wants to heal both of their hearts? Should we love them any less?

What does it say about us if we harbor (not be tempted with—remember temptation is not sin) but harbor disdain or hate for people in our hearts?

If we see them as suffering from the same sin-sickness as ourselves and in need of the same remedy, does that change our attitude toward them?

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, "Jesus' message…" This is an excellent insight, we all have opportunities to witness God's kingdom. Everyone of us have, and will have, opportunities to witness God's kingdom that will never be available to other people. Do we have minds and hearts open to share God's kingdom to others?

What ways have you found to be effective in doing this?

Read bottom green section, "Why can…" Do we ever mistake leading people to Christ with joining a church organization?

Do we ever mistake leading people to Christ with obeying a certain set of creeds or beliefs?

Do we ever become sin police, monitoring our friends or family members and acting as voices of condemnation to condemn sin in their lives?

Is it hard to lead people to Jesus while holding stones in our hands?

Do we ever struggle with being more intolerant of our own family who are engaging in activities we deem as sinful than non-family members doing so?

Do we ever struggle with being more indulgent of our own family than non-family?

What is the healthy approach to family and friends who are not growing with Jesus?

WEDNESDAY

Dealing with difficult people—have you ever had difficult people to deal with?

How do we deal with difficult people?

- Seek to understand before seeking to be understood;
    - assess with whom you are dealing, their hearts, attitudes, beliefs, biases, wounds, hurts, objections. It requires getting to know someone before you can share with them.
    - In the medical model, we must diagnose before we treat. So, too, before you know what truth of God needs to be ministered into a person's life, you need to accurately diagnose what their struggle or problem is. Too often Christians are taught a false legal view and have a cookie cutter approach that says we are all condemned to death by God and we all need to accept the legal payment of Jesus and we try to fear bash people into praying the sinner's prayer.
- Love people as people, seek to show you care about them rather than are seeking to get something from them
- Live a life that reveals a healthier and happier way
- There are some people that are actually incapable of grasping or understanding certain concepts. How do we deal with them?
- When truth is spoken, speak in love but leave free—no retaliation if they don't embrace or validate the truth you share. Consider the example of sharing the dangers of smoking with someone who either doesn't believe it or doesn't want to change even though they believe it. What should your attitude be and how should you treat them? What if it isn't smoking but is diet, or day of worship or accepting Jesus or marrying someone you think is wrong for them?
- When do we shake the dust off our feet and move on? When is it love to set boundaries, where do we draw that line?
- If a person who smokes comes to your house is it judgmental to inform them of no smoking in your house or car? And if they light up anyway do you ask them to leave if they can't comply with your boundary? How does this apply to other activities? What about critical comments, negativity, cursing, rudeness?

God's providences—anyone want to share a story in which God opened a door for you to witness for him?

FRIDAY

Read first question and discuss—what is our job in bringing people to Jesus and what is the Holy Spirit's job?

We are to spread truth, the seed, but the HS sinks it into the heart and brings forth fruit—that is not our job.

What if we believe we must see a harvest from our sowing—i.e. we count baptisms etc. Might our approach to sharing truth change if we expect, desire, look for a measurable outcome?

2020 3Q Making Friends for God: Lesson 4
Prayer Power: Interceding for Others

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

I received this email this week:

> Greetings, I am a high school teacher and also an elder in our church. Your teachings have greatly enriched my Christian experience. I try to give tidbits of the teachings to my students and also include them in the weekly sabbath sch lesson slides I prepare every week. Fellow leaders are so unwilling to read but the church members read and instantly accept the teachings and desire more. Thank you so much and may God promote this ministry especially for such a time as now. I will carry it forward in my small corner of the world.

SABBATH

Read memory text: "Confess your trespasses to one another, and pray for one another, that you may be healed. The effective, fervent prayer of a righteous man avails much." NKJV

Why does the Bible tell us to confess our sins one to another?

What happens inside the heart and mind of a person when they commit sin?

They experience guilt and shame, which leads to what internal response? Self-condemnation, fear of rejection, fear of not being good enough, fear that no one will accept them or love them if they knew their sin—which leads to what?

Either—living a lie, wearing a "mask," keeping people at a distance, but always in fear, which leads to religiosity and much legal-behavioral religious works to deal with one's unresolved guilt and shame; OR—it leads to rejection of God, hardening the heart, justifying the sin and continuing in the sin.

So, what is the solution to resolving the guilt and shame of sin? God's grace—experiencing grace, truth, and love. And such grace that heals is given and experienced without earning it, without works, without ritual—in other words the grace that heals is to be experienced before a person joins a denomination, quits their Sabbath job, changes their diet, gets baptized etc.

If you haven't read Curt Thompson's book Soul of Shame, I recommend it. Curt is a Christian psychiatrist and a friend. He and I have taught a course together several times for the AACC. He has some very good Biblical insights into the destructiveness of shame, how Satan uses shame to trap people and God's truths to heal and free from shame.

When Adam sinned how did God approach him? It was grace, "Adam who told you that you were naked? It wasn't me Adam. I am not condemning you, that is your own conscience, that is what sin does."

When we confess to another godly person, our fear of rejection, our fear of condemnation, of being shunned, abandoned, of not being loved is shattered when we experience that we are loved and valued and accepted despite our sin and that there is a God who has provided a healing remedy to transform us and heal the brokenness within us.

This is why we confess one to another—but this only happens when people love each other and understand the truth about sin and salvation; that sin is a condition of being out of harmony with God's design rooted in fear and selfishness, that it is about character, hearts, minds, not behaviors; that the behaviors are the symptoms of the sin-sickness into which we were all born. And the solution is not penal legal focusing on behavior, but healing the heart from fear and selfishness.

If we have a penal/legal approach it perpetuates the mask wearing and living lies because if we confess we are likely to experience punishment from the group, denomination, that we are members in, removal from office, gossip through the church etc.

I have seen this happen, a person confesses his sin and the legal church authority tells them that because they have repented and confessed, that they can still be a member of the church, but that they are now disqualified to preach, lead the music team, be head elder, or host their TV program.

This is why 12-step programs are historically much better at helping addicts overcome than regular church attendance.

I wonder what the legal church authorities would have done with a leader who confessed to:

- Murder—remember Moses
- Seducing a subordinate's wife and then murdering the subordinate--David
- A conman, liar, thief and polygamist—Jacob
- Building shrines to pagan gods and sacrificed his own son—Solomon

How is it that God can use people who do such things?

Because man looks on the outward appearance but God looks on the heart. God knows that all these behaviors that these people had were symptoms of hearts infected with fear and selfishness, which is a condition of being that God can cure, if the person trusts Him. Thus, God knows the deeds are merely the symptoms of the condition that needs curing and not legal matters that need punishing. So, when these individuals kept their hearts open to God, God knew the case was not lost and He could not only heal them, but use them in His cause.

Read second and third paragraphs, "There is a direct relationship…" First, I want to emphasize that when we pray for others God works in our hearts to draw us closer to Him. This is part of the law of worship, the law of exertion—we become like the One we worship, admire, focus upon, think about—thus we fix our eyes on Christ. When we spend time in prayer we are positively changed by that experience.

Now effective prayer is humble submissive prayer, praying to God as our Supreme Creator—not as a candy dispenser. If we pray to God mechanistically, reciting memorized prayers it doesn't have the positive transforming effects upon us. If we claim Bible promises like they somehow bind God to fulfill our will, then we are not transformed, we actually treat God like occultists treat demonic spirits, citing incantations to bind the spirits to their will.

- Spontaneous prayer results in activation of same brain regions as when talking to another person (theory of mind), regions associated with anticipation, consideration of another's response, attitudes, feelings, reaction (right & left cortex)
- When reciting memorized prayers or repetitive mantras the same brain regions activate as when reciting nursery rhymes – regions of recall, rote learning and repetition – but not higher cortical function – no prefrontal cortex
- When making a list for Santa the Prefrontal cortex does not activate as in spontaneous prayer—thus our belief about the experience impacts the brain response. This is important because many atheists like to make fun by making comparisons to praying to God to praying in fairies or pixies. Brain science shows that in fact, it is not the same.
- The brain doesn't activate in the same way when interacting with computer or inanimate objects—the brain doesn't expect reciprocity or think about the wants/desires/need of the computer, no empathy, connection, relational interaction. Praying to God then, regularly, would cause one to be more open to self-reflection, how one is living, what principles one is practicing, and thus be more open to grow and mature.

But it does depend upon to which God one prays and for what one prays:

- In the aftermath of 9/11/2001 terrorist attack, University of Michigan scientists evaluated the impact of prayer in coping with trauma and discovered that students who prayed in the aftermath of the trauma had better psychological adjustment 1 year later than those who did not pray.
- But they also evaluated Muslim refugees of Kosovo and Bosnia and found that many of them also prayed to cope with the stress, 60% of whom had PTSD. Interestingly, they found that 77% of them had "negative" forms of prayer, such as praying their enemies "would pay for what they have done." In other words, prayers of vengeance.
- They found that positive prayers and practices were related to high levels of optimism, hope and healthy adjustment, but justice-seeking and anger-related religious practices that sought vengeance were related to reduced levels of optimism, hope and healthy adjustment. (Journal of Personality Volume 73, Issue 3, p 763-792, June 2005)

We are changed by prayer, but it does matter to whom we are praying and for what we are praying.

Our brains are amazing quantum computers. They are composed of 100 billion neurons and more than one trillion supporting cells. Each neuron can have up to 10,000 connections to other neurons. That's over 40 quadrillion interconnections!

These 40 quadrillion interconnections in our brains are comprised primarily of dendrites. Within each neuron, there are 10 million microtubules, and each microtubule is made up of billions of tubulin molecules, which in turn are composed of 445 amino acids, which are made of various atoms, many of which share electrons.

Within these quadrillions of dendrites, with their millions of microtubules made of billions of tubulin molecules, the atoms form shared electron clouds. These clouds exist in positions of uncertainty until you think about something and form a conclusion, a belief, or accept a truth — or a lie. Your act of choosing to believe something will cause the electron clouds, in various places within the dendrites, to collapse. This causes conformation change within the microtubule structure, which solidifies the memory or belief into the brain.

This is the process of choosing, when we choose to believe something it changes us, whether it is true or false, the choice to believe it changes the conformation of our dendritic electron clouds. This is why we can have a change of heart, or change of insight, or conviction of certainty very quickly when a belief changes—but the brain hasn't had time to build a new neural pathway or connection. The pathways and connections the brain builds hardwires in learned information and behaviors that can become rote or habitual, but this is different than forming conclusions and beliefs and memories.

Your beliefs and memories are stored within the brain tubulin structure until something happens that causes you to reexamine or reevaluate the belief or memory and come to a different conclusion. This is how beliefs are stored and mindsets are established. This is why the Bible tells us to rejoice in trials because they build character. Difficulties in life will cause us to re-examine our beliefs and the electron clouds reenter a position of uncertainty and we can change our beliefs and when we choose a new belief they collapse in new patterns corresponding to the new belief.

This gives insight into the law of worship, which says that by beholding, we become changed. In psychiatry, this is known as "modeling." We neurobiologically and characterologically change to become like what we admire, worship, think about, choose, and act on. Our beliefs initially collapse the electron clouds storing those beliefs, and then as we act on those beliefs, think through and reaffirm those beliefs, recite them and live them the brain creates pathways wiring in the beliefs to habits of thinking, reacting and processing. Thus, we are changed and transformed by what we think, value, worship, watch, believe and engage in.

If we spend time watching vulgar, exploitive, debasing, cruel, selfish, deceitful, or otherwise ungodly material, we will be changed by it. Our quantum matrix will realign, our neural networks will rewire to come more and more into harmony with what is selfish and evil—that is, what is demonic.

This gives greater importance to the biblical exhortation to fix our eyes on Christ (Hebrews 12:2) and to focus upon "whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable—if anything is excellent or praiseworthy—think about such things" (Philippians 4:8 NIV84). It gives insight into how the Holy Spirit can indwell a person's mind to bring healing and restoration.

Truth sets free; truth heals, because truth changes conformation and the configuration of our brains. Truth realigns us with the Source of truth, such that we become more sensitive to the Spirit of truth—and as we choose the truth, focusing upon, meditating, and worshiping the God of truth, we experience the alignment of our minds with the mind of God. We become "indwelled" by the Holy Spirit.

Consider this like your computer being "indwelled" by antivirus software. That software doesn't overrule your decisions or actions, but rather, in the background, it's constantly monitoring for malicious code, alerting you to what is harmful, and working with you to remove it. But you remain free to ignore or override the antivirus software. However, if you do, the malicious code may eventually defeat the antivirus software on your device and take control of your computer.

Likewise, when we choose the ways of the world—the vile, vulgar, crude, debasing, selfish, exploitive, and manipulative—we change ourselves. What we choose to watch, esteem, promote, and value changes our brain resonance patterns. When we make coercion, force, and intimidation the principles that we value, we become more aligned with the demonic.

The Holy Spirit alerts us to the wrongfulness, the danger, but we remained free and if our emotions are inflamed we may choose to ignore the Spirit and pursue the course contrary to God's ways. In that path we move ourselves out of harmony with God, we sear our consciences, warp our characters, harden our hearts. The Spirit continues to alert us, but if we don't repent and realign with God, over time we become incapable of hearing the Spirit any longer.

The sinful world operates upon imperialism: rules (laws) requiring the infliction of punishment by a ruling authority. When Christians teach others that our Creator God operates like sinful humans do, making up rules that He then enforces by punishing rule-breakers, we reject the truth and choose lies, aligning ourselves with the father of lies.

Satan traps people into becoming like him by getting them to pursue a righteous cause with unrighteous methods, to use the methods of force and coercion to impose their moral standards. Not, mere restraint of people seeking to do evil, but to impose upon people.

Human governments are ordained by God to restrain evil—they are not capable nor authorized by God to instill or bring about righteousness.

The imposed law lie, accepted by Christianity—that God's law works like human law—has resulted in the false penal substitution theology and obstructs the work of the Holy Spirit by establishing lies in the minds of people, preventing the truth from transforming the individual. Further, it sets Christians up to believe that using the state to pass laws to enforce morality, rather than restrain evil, is godly.

But, instead of experiencing greater love and trust, the legal methods cause individuals to experience greater fear of punishment for sin and to create theologies designed to protect them from their punishing god (such as Jesus "pleading His blood" so the Father won't kill them); such believers in society often seek to take control of governments to enforce their beliefs.

Another trap is the false idea that if one rejects God altogether then one cannot be part of the process of forming the image of the beast in Revelation. Not so, the beastly system of Revelation is the system of coercion, of legal enforcement of moral imperatives. Those who don't believe in God will always use the methods of the beast because that is the only option left to them. They will seek power to coerce others, because ultimately they are driven by fear and selfishness and not love.

God wants to set us free—free from fear, free from selfishness, free from the methods of this world. He wants to restore in us His character and methods of love. But this is only possible as we are fully persuaded in our own minds (Romans 14:5). We must choose the God of truth and choose His methods, we must reject the lies about Him; in so doing, our quantum matrix is changed and we are transformed into harmony with the God of love and truth.

There is another aspect to the quantum understanding of our being. We not only have the ability to use our physical bodies to impact others, such as a surgeon suturing a wound, or setting a broken bone, or a therapist stretching a limb, or giving a massage etc., but the evidence reveals that we can impact people on the quantum level.

We can directly use our physical ability to impact another person and bring healing. We can do this with or without inviting God into the process. A surgeon who doesn't believe in God can still reduce a dislocated joint, or sew up a laceration and the wound will heal because the laws of God are in operation whether the surgeon believes in God or not.

This is describing the physics of big things—Newtonian physics.

Isaac Newton's ideas of the universe, which focus on laws of motion, an object exerts a direct force on another object and so forth.

Newtonian thinking focuses on the physical aspects of reality brain receptors, electrical signals, neurotransmitters, but this is only one part of our amazing universe

Newtonian understandings fail to explain:
- Consciousness
- Freedom of choice
- Flocks of birds and schools of fish turning in unison
- Human intuition
- The sudden awareness of a loved one in danger
- Miraculous healings

But, God is also the God of the infinitely small things, the quantum world and He built us with quantum abilities as well as physical abilities.

In Quantum physics matter is both a particle—being at a specific point in space-time, and also a wave—extending throughout the entire region of space and time

Quantum Understanding has led to ideas such as:
– Entanglement—everything is in the universe is connected – Observer effect and String theory

Observer effect is the effect our observations have on the world around us.
- Matter is both mass and a wave, but also has spin and vibration
- But the matter remains in a state of uncertainty until impacted by the observer, the act of measuring, observing, encountering the object determines the outcome—whether it presents as wave or matter. This is also the process of changing our electron cloud conformation—the process of choosing.
- This provides scientific basis for freedom of choice our choices cause real change in the world around us altering how things turn out

We are not merely programmed or fated to have certain outcomes, our choices really do make a difference.

String theory states that everything in the universe is connected by infinitesimally small strings

This idea teaches that particles separated by physical space are connected by these strings—entangled and can impact each other

Now interestingly, years before physicists discovered Quantum Mechanics and string theory, a 19th Century Sage, named Ellen White, one of the founders of the SDA Church wrote:

> It is God's plan that every part of His government shall depend on every other part, the whole as a wheel within a wheel, working with entire harmony. He moves upon human forces, causing His Spirit to touch invisible chords, and the vibration rings to the extremity of the universe. (Manuscript 22, 1897. Ev 93.1)

Modern Quantum Mechanics provides a scientific basis for not only freewill choices, but belief in a higher power, who is connected to the entire universe.

This raises serious questions for us today—
- Is the conscious intent of a being able to alter physical matter & impact outcomes?
- Can conscious intention alter gene expression—in oneself and/or in others?
- Can such conscious intent be involved in prayer and healing?

Researchers placed placental DNA in test tubes and instructed participants to generate the emotion of love and goodwill and then focus their intention on causing the DNA to wind tighter or looser

This can be measured by the absorption of UV light, and what did they find?

Focused intention with love and goodwill caused a 25% conformation change in DNA

When the tubes of DNA were in the room with the participate and they generated emotions of love and goodwill but with no focused intention—No DNA change

When focused intention but no emotion of love and goodwill—no DNA change

To get the change it required both the emotion of love and good will and focused intention.

Then to test whether this was a general electromagnetic effect or not, they placed three test tubes side by side and had the participants focus their intent on changing DNA in only two of the tubes but not the third, and that is exactly what happened.

Finally, in five separate experiments, in which the DNA samples were a half mile away from the participants, the same DNA conformation changes occurred when the participants focused their intent with love and good will.

This study would indicate that we can only impact other people or things around us with our prayers if we have love and good will along with focused intent. If we have negative emotions, hate, hostility and pray for injury, cast spells, call for harm to a person, this study would indicate that it would have no effect on others—it would change the one praying for the injury through the laws of worship and exertion, but it would not impact the person they are against.

This makes sense if we understand God is love and the quantum linkages are created by and sustained by Him, thus they work upon love, not upon selfishness and hate.

- Elizabeth Targ, MD, PhD conducted a study to measure the impact of remote (long distance, never having met the patient) prayer on terminally ill AIDS patients
- Pts matched regarding CD4 count and severity of illness and randomized into 10 weeks remote healing prayer group or control group
- Faith healers (from multiple traditions) were presented with a patient's photo, name and T-helper cell count
- All patients were blinded to who was being prayed for and who was not
- 6 months later blinded medical review found those who received remote prayer showed:
- Improved mood (p=0.02)
- Significantly less doctor visits (p=0.01)
- Fewer hospitalizations (p=0.04)
- Fewer days in the hospital (p=0.04)
- Fewer AIDS defining illnesses (p=0.04)

- Lower illness severity (p=0.03)
    - (Western Journal of Medicine 1998, 169(6), 356)

Our prayers not only invite God and His heavenly agencies to intervene directly into the lives of those we pray for, but if we pray with love, good will and focused intention for their good, our prayers also have a direct effect upon them.

SUNDAY

The lesson focuses upon the cosmic struggle—where is the battle fought between good and evil?

2Cor 10:3-5—for though we live in the world…

The battle is a battle for our hearts and minds—it is not over these mortal bodies.

Our bodies are avenues to impact our minds and hearts—disease, pain, assault, starvation, deprivation, all negative things that impact our bodies impact our brains and minds and are avenues to lead us away from God and incite fear, selfishness, and lies.

God's directions in Scripture, which always lead us to harmonize with His design laws, result in greater physical health, relational health, mental health and all of this has a positive impact on our minds and gives us greater ability to grow in God's truth—but it is not primarily about this mortal body, it is about the mind/heart/individuality/soul/psyche, which God plans to transfer to an immortal body.

This is why Jesus said not to fear the one who can destroy the body but cannot destroy the soul—the individuality.

Read first two paragraphs, "The Bible lifts…" This is well said, God respects our freedom and never uses coercion—why is this true? The law of liberty—what happens to love when a person is coerced.

What does God seek to achieve, what is His goal for us? He wants our love, our trust, our loyalty, our friendship, because He is the source of life and only in harmony with Him can we experience eternal life and true happiness. Can God get this from us by taking away our liberty and threatening to kill us if we don't give it to Him?

Do you see how evil the religions of the world are that teach that God is saying "love me or I will kill you?"

Do you see why human governments, which always use coercion, cannot bring about righteousness?

Do you see the trap that Satan is setting up to get people to seek social justice through the imposition of the state? It will only result in more rebellion, violence and division in society. Imposed law cannot bring about love, trust, unity, it can only restrain evil from acting out.

MONDAY

The lesson focuses on Jesus as a human praying to His Father—why did Jesus have to pray to His Father if Jesus is God?

Because Jesus lived as a human and only used the abilities of a human while He lived here as a human. Thus, He prayed because that is the only way for us humans to have a living connection with God.

What about in heaven today—do we believe Jesus is in heaven today praying to His Father to get His Father to act in our behalf? Or do we see Jesus and the Father working in perfect unity and harmony to achieve the salvation of every human being who is willing to respond—even those who ultimately reject what Jesus, the Father and the Holy Spirit are doing?

Consider this quote from a book entitled Prophets and Kings:

> In his own strength, man cannot meet the charges of the enemy. In sin-stained garments, confessing his guilt, he stands before God. But Jesus, our Advocate, presents an effectual plea in behalf of all who by repentance and faith have committed the keeping of their souls to Him. He pleads their cause, and by the mighty arguments of Calvary, vanquishes their accuser. His perfect obedience to God's law has given Him all power in heaven and in earth, and He claims from His Father mercy and reconciliation for guilty man. To the accuser of His people He declares: "The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan. These are the purchase of My blood, brands plucked from the burning." And to those who rely on Him in faith, He gives the assurance, "Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment." Zechariah 3:4. PK 586.2

What do you hear? What law lens do you hear it through? To whom is Jesus pleading?

Is God confused by the arguments of Satan? Does God need Jesus to educate Him and present evidence to God to get God to understand reality and make the right decision?

Who are the beings that have been confused by Satan? When Satan points out our sins who is impacted by that history? Who gets discouraged, guilt ridden, ashamed and fearful?

Who then needs to be pled with to not give in to the accusations?

When you hear of Jesus pleading in heaven do you understand that He is the Father's agent to plead to you to trust Him to heal you and save you and get you to stop listening to the guilt, shame and lies of the devil?

The same author wrote the following:

> Through the plan of salvation, Jesus is breaking Satan's hold upon the human family and rescuing souls from his power. [What is Satan's power? Heb 2:14 Jesus destroys him who holds the power of death that is the devil. Life eternal is knowing God, what is eternal death? Not knowing God, then what is Satan's power? The lies he tells about God that we believe that keep us from knowing God. Jesus is breaking Satan's hold and rescuing us from his power—how?] All the hatred and malignity of the archrebel is stirred as he beholds the evidence of Christ's supremacy, and with fiendish power and cunning he works to wrest from Him the remnant of the children of men who have accepted His salvation. {LHU 234.2}
> He leads men into skepticism, causing them to lose confidence in God and to separate from His love; [Again, who is being impacted by Satan's lies, and accusations?] he tempts them to break His law, and then he claims them as his captives and contests the right of Christ to take them from him. He knows that those who seek God earnestly for pardon and grace will obtain it; therefore he presents their sins *before them to discourage them. [to whom is Satan' presenting their sins?] He is constantly seeking occasion against those who are trying to obey God. Even their best and most acceptable services he seeks to make appear corrupt. By countless devices, the most subtle and the most cruel, he endeavors to secure their condemnation. [by whom? Whom does Satan seek to get us condemned? Is it not in our own minds, that we conclude we are beyond salvation, too sinful to be loved?] Man cannot meet these charges himself. In his sin-stained garments, confessing his guilt, he stands before God. But Jesus our Advocate presents an effectual plea in behalf of all who by repentance and faith have committed the keeping of their souls to Him. He pleads their cause and vanquishes their accuser by the mighty arguments of Calvary. [To whom is Jesus pleading? Who needs to have the allegations of Satan refuted? Who needs to believe that God loves them and Jesus' righteousness is sufficient for them? Does God need to be persuaded that Jesus righteousness is sufficient to save a sinner? Who doubts? It is you and me that need to hear Jesus' plea!] His perfect obedience to God's law, even unto the death of the cross, has given Him all power in heaven and in earth, and He claims of His Father mercy and reconciliation for guilty man. [notice now to whom Jesus speaks] To the accuser of His people He declares: "'The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan.' These are the purchase of My blood, brands plucked from the burning." Those who rely upon Him in faith receive the comforting assurance: "Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment." [to whom is Jesus pleading? He rebukes the accuser and pleads for us not to listen to his lies and to trust in Him!] All that have put on the robe of Christ's righteousness will stand before Him as chosen and faithful and true. Satan has no power to pluck them out of the hand of Christ. . . . We cannot answer the charges of Satan against us. Christ alone can make an effectual plea in our behalf. He is able to silence the accuser with arguments founded not upon our merits, but on His own (Testimonies, vol. 5, pp. 470-472). [To whom does Christ's plea need to effect? you and me!]

Jesus pleads before the Father, carrying out the Father's purpose to save sinners, the Holy Spirit listens to Christ and works in you and me communicating the love, grace and pleas of Christ to you and me to win us back to trust, so we will open the door to our hearts and let Him save us from fear and selfishness!

TUESDAY

The lesson asks us to read about Paul's prayer to the Ephesians in Ephesians 1:15-21, from The Remedy:

> Because of this, ever since I heard about your trust in Jesus and your love for all our fellow believers,16 I have not stopped giving thanks for you, or remembering you in my prayers.17 I keep asking the God of our Lord Jesus Christ — the glorious Father — to pour out his Spirit of wisdom and revelation upon you so that you may know him and all he is trying to accomplish.18 I also pray that your reasoning abilities and conscience may be healed so that you can discern and understand God's purpose for all humanity — the incredible, rich inheritance in store for his children — 19 and God's incomparable power to heal and restore all who trust him. That life-giving power was seen as the outworking of his true strength,20 which he exerted when he raised Christ from the dead and seated him at his right hand in heaven,21 above all power, rulers and authority, above all other kingdoms, empires or governments, and above every title that can be given–now and forever.

For what is Paul praying? What impact would such prayers have upon the Ephesians? What impact would it have upon Paul?

The lesson also asks us to read Paul's prayer for the Philippians in 1:15-21, from The Remedy:

> I am so thankful for you, that every time I speak to God I tell him how thankful I am.4 In all my conversations with God about you, I always talk with joy,5 because you have been effective partners in promoting the good news about God — from the first day you heard it until now.6 I am completely confident of this: God, who began his good work of healing and restoring you to his original ideal, will continue healing you right up to the day Jesus Christ returns to take us home.
> 7 It is only natural that I am filled with joy, because you are so dear to me; for no matter what I have been doing, whether in prison or freely proclaiming the good news about God, you have been partakers with me of God's gracious Remedy.8 God can testify how I share with Christ Jesus the deep desire to be with you.
> 9And when I talk with God, it is my desire for you that your love may grow — with ever-increasing knowledge and understanding of God's character, methods and principles, with ever-increasing depth of insight — 10 so that you may be able to distinguish with cutting efficiency the difference between the healthy and unhealthy, the true and false, the right and wrong–right up to the day when Jesus comes and takes us home.11 I want you to become true > friends of God, who have recovered the ability to think clearly, choose wisely, live completely in harmony with God's methods and principles, and who reveal Christlike love in everything you do.

For what was Paul praying?

WEDNESDAY

Read Daniel 10:10-14, 20,21:

> A hand touched me and set me trembling on my hands and knees. 11 He said, "Daniel, you who are highly esteemed, consider carefully the words I am about to speak to you, and stand up, for I have now been sent to you." And when he said this to me, I stood up trembling.
> 12 Then he continued, "Do not be afraid, Daniel. Since the first day that you set your mind to gain understanding and to humble yourself before your God, your words were heard, and I have come in response to them. 13 But the prince of the Persian kingdom resisted me twenty-one days. Then Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, because I was detained there with the king of Persia. 14 Now I have come to explain to you what will happen to your people in the future, for the vision concerns a time yet to come…" 20 So he said, "Do you know why I have come to you? Soon I will return to fight against the prince of Persia, and when I go, the prince of Greece will come; 21 but first I will tell you what is written in the Book of Truth. (No one supports me against them except Michael, your prince. (NIV84)

Read fourth paragraph, "This is a fascinating…" Who is Gabriel? Who is the prince of Persia and the prince of Greece?

Who is Michael?

Why was Michael the only one who was available to help Gabriel? Didn't only 1/3 of the angels rebel with Satan? Doesn't that mean the good angels outnumber the bad angels 2 to 1? Then why was Michael the only one available to help Gabriel?

What kind of a war are we in? A war of truth, love and freedom against lies, selfishness and coercion—a war over God's character and methods. Satan has misrepresented them and inflames the worst fears and insecurities with deceptions to make it appear his methods are right.

What position did Gabriel take after Satan's fall? The position of covering cherub, the highest position of the angels, the position from where Lucifer fell, the position closest to the throne of God, the position in which he has the greatest knowledge, intimacy, and understanding of God's character, methods and principles.

In other words, there is no other created being that can bring more light of truth and love to bear than Gabriel. The only other being in the universe that can bring more love and truth to bear than Gabriel is God Himself, thus Michael, Jesus in His pre-incarnate form, comes with the light of God's truth and love and it is sufficient to dispel the darkness of Satan's lies!

2020 3Q Making Friends for God: Lesson 5
Spirit-Empowered Witnessing

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

We received this email this week:

> I'm so excited about the free resource opportunity:):):) I'm sure it is a lot of work on your end but I have been telling anyone I think will be interested:):) Thank you and Praise God for your continued commitment to share and spread this beautiful truth :):)
> When I was at the conference in TX, I shared with Tim how God had led me to share "The God Shaped Heart" with the pastor of a Sunday church I attend. The Pastor was hungry for answers, for TRUTH. He got the book, studied it, and the Spirit brought the truth home, the pastor received it and he now shares these beautiful God-concepts with his congregation. Sunday, his wife shared with me that until they read that book they were lost in legalism and struggling with confusion about God's character. Their upbringing, though not SDA, had brought the same incongruent concepts. "If He is love than how can this be true"!!!!!!!! (You can fill in the "this" with whatever lie the devil spins!!!!!!) She said that book saved their lives spiritually and their own personal relationship. They have both accepted this beautiful truth and are sharing it with over a 1000 people each Sunday through FaceBook. They are both so excited. She said they have never felt so free in God, Jesus and the Spirit:):):) Truly, PRAISE HIM from WHOM ALL BLESSINGS FLOW !!!!!!!!!! This story brought shivers and tears at the wonder of our AMAZING GOD!!!!

SABBATH

Mark 16:15 “Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.’ NKJV

Acts 1:8 “But you shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you shall be witnesses to Me in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth.” NKJV

What is the gospel? Good news? About what? How would you describe it?

- Salvation in Jesus? This is certainly good news—yet Revelation states that the gospel is eternal—meaning there is a good news that has always been good news and will always be good news and is directly related to salvation in Jesus—what is that?
- The truth about God—how is the truth about God eternal good news and how is that truth connected to salvation in Jesus?

What was the basis of sin? What is the core root that caused rebellion against God, disaffection—which means heart loyalty to God was broken and the heart has other attachments, desires and motives than love for God—what caused this?

Lies about God told by Satan—what then would be needed then to save sinners? Would it not be the truth about God that restores trust?

But is the truth about God that wins us to trust enough for fallen human beings to be saved, or is something more needed? What more is needed?

What about a new nature, a new heart and right spirit, a new sinless character? And where do we sinners obtain such a new heart, a new character?

Who not only revealed the truth about God to destroy Satan's lies (Heb 2:14), and said "if you've seen me you've seen the Father," but also, as a human, using only human abilities, lived a sinless life, was tempted in every way just like we are yet without sin. He never gave in to fear and selfishness but loved perfectly. And in so doing, eradicated the infection of sin, fear and selfishness, and arose in a perfected humanity—the new head of the species, the second Adam (Heb 5:8,9)

So, is there a link between the eternal gospel and Jesus?

What happens if we delete and change both of these and replace the true gospel of God's character with something penal legal payment instead?

Jesus died to save us no longer means He died to reveal truth about God to destroys lies and win to trust, and provide us a sinless human character—but instead it means He died to pay His Father a blood payment so His Father won't kill us. If this is what people present, what happens in hearts and minds?

Do you see how this false gospel removes both elements necessary for our salvation—we no longer have the truth about God, instead we have a lie that God is the source of death, and we don't seek to have a new heart and right spirit, instead we seek to be hidden from God because we are told we can't be righteous, we can only be declared righteous.

Further, the Spirit is the Spirit of both truth and love, truth to destroy lies and love, which is the character of God and thus what Christ perfectly developed.

So, the Holy Spirit becomes the agency of Jesus to advance the truth, destroy lies, win to trust and then administer into our hearts and minds the new motives and desires, i.e. the character of Christ.

But if we reject the truth about God then we don't seek the Spirit to heal, we instead rest secure in a legal penal solution.

So, the gospel is the good news about God: What is the power? How does the Holy Spirit work?

Here is a quote from the book, Acts of the Apostles about power, what do you think?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

> "Whereunto," asked Christ, "shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?" Mark 4:30. He could not employ the kingdoms of the world as a similitude. In society He found nothing with which to compare it. Earthly kingdoms rule by the ascendancy of physical power; but from Christ's kingdom every carnal weapon, every instrument of coercion, is banished. This kingdom is to uplift and ennoble humanity. God's church is the court of holy life, filled with varied gifts and endowed with the Holy Spirit. The members are to find their happiness in the happiness of those whom they help and bless. AA 12.2

What is the power that we are to use?

> I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God for the salvation of everyone who believes: first for the Jew, then for the Gentile. Romans 1:16 NIV84

What kind of power is in the gospel, which is the good news about God?

Here is a quote from the book The Desire of Ages what do you think?

> God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power. DA 759.1

What is the power of God that we are to use? The power of truth combined with love—and from where do we get such power?

From the indwelling Spirit, that is why the Bible teaches, "not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit says the Lord" (Zechariah 4:6).

Why doesn't God use compelling power?

What impact does force, threat, coercion have upon a person?

- Increases fear
- Decreases trust
- Increases resentment
- Decreases love
- Leads to either loss of individuality or rebellion

What impact does the power of truth and love have upon a person?

- Decreases fear
- Increases trust

- Forgiveness of wrongs and eradication of resentment
- Increases love
- Leads to restoration of individuality, development of self-governance, confidence and growing up into the full stature of Christ

> For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. 2Cor 10:3-5 NIV84

What weapons do we wield? Truth and love, how do we wield them?

Can people think they are promoting the gospel and actually be promoting a false gospel?

> Gal 1:8 "But even if we or an angel from heaven should preach a gospel other than the one we preached to you, let him be eternally condemned!" NIV84

What happens if we accept a different version of the gospel? The law of worship and exertion, we are changed by our worship and practices. If we persist in promoting a false gospel we become hardened in alienation to God and the truth. If we are lovers of the truth, we may have ideas or beliefs that are not true, because we are finite and growing, but we are sensitive to truth and grow in truth as we are able to comprehend it. So it isn't about knowing all things correctly, it is about loving and growing in truth, rather than holding to views that are not true when truth presents.

Consider the implication of this historic quote from Acts of the Apostles:

> Wherever the need of the Holy Spirit is a matter little thought of, there is seen spiritual drought, spiritual darkness, spiritual declension and death. Whenever minor matters occupy the attention, the divine power which is necessary for the growth and prosperity of the church, and which would bring all other blessings in its train, is lacking, though offered in infinite plenitude. AA 50.1
> Since this is the means by which we are to receive power, why do we not hunger and thirst for the gift of the Spirit? Why do we not talk of it, pray for it, and preach concerning it? The Lord is more willing to give the Holy Spirit to those who serve Him than parents are to give good gifts to their children. For the daily baptism of the Spirit every worker should offer his petition to God. Companies of Christian workers should gather to ask for special help, for heavenly wisdom, that they may know how to plan and execute wisely. Especially should they pray that God will baptize His chosen ambassadors in mission fields with a rich measure of His Spirit. The presence of the Spirit with God's workers will give the proclamation of truth a power that not all the honor or glory of the world could give. AA 50.2

Do we ask for the Holy Spirit with real desire to receive Him into our lives?

What would cause us to value the Holy Spirit so little?

- Perhaps being frightened by the fear of false spirits? The Bible tells us to test the spirits, perhaps movements that smack of fanaticism, emotionalism, that claim to be the movements of the Spirit of God frighten us into not seeking the true Spirit of God?
- Perhaps accepting a legal theology in which one falsely believes salvation is in claiming a legal blood payment to have one's heavenly record books adjusted—thus no real need for the Spirit, the payment is being made in heaven.
- Perhaps anti-trinitarian teachings that propose that there is no Holy Spirit, that there is only God the Father and the Father is omnipresent, and we can ask for the Father's presence into our lives, but we don't seek the presence of the Holy Spirit because we don't believe He exists?

What happens if we reject or don't accept the Holy Spirit, what is the problem with valuing little the Holy Spirit?

Here is one view of the importance of the Holy Spirit, from The Desire of Ages, do you agree?

> In describing to His disciples the office work of the Holy Spirit, Jesus sought to inspire them with the joy and hope that inspired His own heart. He rejoiced because of the abundant help He had provided for His church. The Holy Spirit was the highest of all gifts that He could solicit from His Father for the exaltation of His people. The Spirit was to be given as a regenerating agent, and without this the sacrifice of Christ would have been of no avail. The power of evil had been strengthening for centuries, and the submission of men to this satanic captivity was amazing. Sin could be resisted and overcome only through the mighty agency of the Third Person of the Godhead, who would come with no modified energy, but in the fullness of divine power. It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer. It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature. Christ has given His Spirit as a divine power to overcome all hereditary and cultivated tendencies to evil, and to impress His own character upon His church. DA 671.2

Do you agree? What is the danger of rejecting the Holy Spirit?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "With the promise…" Why was it good for the disciples and for us that Jesus leave and send the Holy Spirit?

What is it that Jesus, the Father and the Spirit actually want for us?

They want our healing, our restoration to righteousness, and what does that require for each of us? That we are each, fully persuaded in our own minds. We each must be convinced of the truth, must come to trust God for ourselves, must surrender our own hearts to God for ourselves, which means we each must strive in life with temptations, hurts, heartaches, trials, and wrestle out for ourselves these issues in a relationship with God. Thus, sending the Spirit allows each of us individuals access to God in a way that Jesus's physical presence would not. It enhances our engagement in thinking, weighing, and choosing instead of just seeking the expert with the answer to tell us what to do.

God doesn't want us to have the obedience of a well-trained dog, that sits and waits until the master says jump. God wants understanding friends that intelligently agree with Him and freely choose to live in harmony with Him and His methods. This requires that we do more than say, "God you tell me what to do and I will do it." God wants us to understand for ourselves what is right and wrong and to choose the right.

What kind of help does the Holy Spirit give? How does the Holy Spirit work?

- Reveals truth to people in ways they can comprehend
- Brings convictions—of sin, of duty, of longing for something more, of not being satisfied with the disease of sin
- Brings hope, brings comfort, brings love
- Leaves completely free to decide for oneself and when we choose truth the Spirit provides power to follow through with the choose.
- The Spirit also brings gifts and abilities to enable us to succeed in fulfilling any calling God has placed upon us

MONDAY

An Empowered Church—what does that mean to you?

What does empowered mean? What kind of power?

What is the church? Is it denomination? Is it church invisible?

Does the Holy Spirit restrict His activity to specific denominations?

The Holy Spirits seeks to work on every human heart—the work of convicting of sin and bringing people to salvation—this is not the same as being empowered by the Spirit.

Are there any requirements to receive the indwelling and empowering of the Holy Spirit?

- Repentance—will we receive the Holy Spirit if we remain unrepentant?
- Repentance leads to humility, i.e. the overthrowing of selfishness and pride—a willingness to be taught, led and changed
- Develop a heart that loves truth
- Loves God and others
- What about some level of truth about God?

Will God send His Spirit to us if we are not lovers of truth, if we cling to false views of God? In other words, will God empower us with His Spirit to take a message to the world that misrepresents Him?

I received this email this week from an online lister, C.K. Lester sharing two quotes from EG White, one of the founders of the SDA church:

I saw these quotes in a video I watched this week.

> "There is to be in the [Seventh-day Adventist] churches a wonderful manifestation of the power of God, but it will not move upon those who have not humbled themselves before the Lord, and opened the door of the heart by confession and repentance. In the manifestation of that power which lightens the earth with the glory of God, they will see only something which in their blindness they think dangerous, something which will arouse their fears, and they will brace themselves to resist it. Because the Lord does not work according to their ideas and expectations they will oppose the work. "Why," they say, "should we not know the Spirit of God, when we have been in the work so many years?"—The Review and Herald Extra, December 23, 1890.

Of note: "Because the Lord does not work according to their ideas and expectations..." Ha! God's laws are not like man's laws!

> "The third angel's message will not be comprehended, the light which will lighten the earth with its glory will be called a false light, by those who refuse to walk in its advancing glory."—The Review and Herald, May 27, 1890.

Do you see how many who cling to imposed law, and teach God is the source of inflicted death for law breaking, and Jesus must pay the penalty to the Father are actually rejecting the Three Angels Message and the power that comes from the Spirit of God?

What about this, could a person or group fail to advance in the truth by clinging to actual truth from a previous generation, truth that was truth for its time, but is no longer truth for today?

For instance:

- Accepting the Old Testament Scriptures and following what they teach but rejecting Jesus as Messiah, so teaching people to be converted to Judaism of the Old Testament variety without Jesus—would that be truth for today?

  Consider this quote from Acts of the Apostles p. 61:

  The enemies of the disciples could not but be convinced that Christ had risen from the dead. The evidence was too clear to be doubted. Nevertheless, they hardened their hearts, refusing to repent of the terrible deed they had committed in putting Jesus to death. Abundant evidence that the apostles were speaking and acting under divine inspiration had been given the Jewish rulers, but they firmly resisted the message of truth. Christ had not come in the manner that they expected, and though at times they had been convinced that He was the Son of God, yet they had stifled conviction, and crucified Him. In mercy God gave them still further evidence, [this is the third time in this paragraph that the word "evidence" is used. Notice, not declaration, command, claim, proclamation, order, directive, but evidence, and evidence requires something that proclamations do not—our contemplation, reasoning, understanding and then agreement! And rejecting evidence has a damaging impact that rejecting claims or proclamations do not. When we reject evidence, we turn off the brain regions of thinking, reasoning, contemplation and we cling to non-evidenced based beliefs. This damages the mind and makes it harder to think and discern in the future. But rejecting claims doesn't do that because they are just claims, meaning opinions, not facts, not truths and rejecting them doesn't damage the mind especially if one is waiting for evidence.] and now another opportunity was granted them to turn to Him. He sent the disciples to tell them that they had killed the Prince of life, and in this terrible charge He gave them another call to repentance. But feeling secure in their own righteousness, the Jewish teachers refused to admit that the men charging them with crucifying Christ were speaking by the direction of the Holy Spirit. {AA 61.1}

What evidence was presented? Why didn't those church leaders accept the inspiration of the Apostles? What did they use to reject the inspiration of the Apostles? Did they use the OT Scriptures that supported their preconceived ideas and expectations? Do we see this happening today, religious leaders, study for years teaching certain viewpoints and having certain expectations, and resisting any advancing truth that doesn't meet with their expectations?

- What about teaching the truths Martin Luther presented and clinging to his understanding? While Luther moved forward in truth, he was coming out of deep darkness and did recover all Bible truth and to only advance as far as Luther means we are still 500 years behind where truth has advanced. The Spirit isn't going to empower us to go backward.

  Consider this quote from Christ Triumphant p. 331:

  We are not to set our stakes and then interpret everything to reach this set point. [which means we are not to go to Scripture to prove what we already believe and have been taught is true] Here is where some of our great Reformers have failed, and this is the reason that many who today might be mighty champions for God and the truth are warring against the truth… [Many within our denomination are warring against the truth—why? Because they have their preconceived ideas and use the Bible to prove those ideas true, rather than learning from the Bible.] God designs we should be learners, first from the living oracles, and second from our associates. This is God's order. {CTr 331.2}

  The Word of God is the great detector of error; to it we believe everything must be brought. The Bible must be our standard for every doctrine. We must study it reverentially. We are to receive no one's opinion without comparing it with the Scriptures.

> [this is something I actively encourage everyone to do with what we teach!] Here is divine authority, which is supreme in matters of faith. {CTr 331.3}

If we want to be empowered the Holy Spirit, do we need to repent, have humble hearts, love the truth, love God and others, but also be willing to grow in the truth?

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Throughout the book of Acts…." What about receiving the strength to face trials and challenges in a hostile culture?

Do we see this in the world today?

Do we see hostility to the truths of God's kingdom?

Is there fear in our society of speaking the truth as one understands it?

Which of the following is in harmony with God and which is in harmony with Satan?

- When we hear ideas that we believe are wrong we speak the truth in love but leave people free to disagree
- When we hear ideas that we believe are wrong we use intimidation, coercion, threats of various kinds—canceling speakers, firing people from their jobs, shouting them down—to ensure such opinions are silenced?

From Acts 17:23-34:

> About that time there arose a great disturbance about the Way. 24 A silversmith named Demetrius, who made silver shrines of Artemis, brought in no little business for the craftsmen. 25 He called them together, along with the workmen in related trades, and said: "Men, you know we receive a good income from this business. 26 And you see and hear how this fellow Paul has convinced and led astray large numbers of people here in Ephesus and in practically the whole province of Asia. He says that man-made gods are no gods at all. 27 There is danger not only that our trade will lose its good name, but also that the temple of the great goddess Artemis will be discredited, and the goddess herself, who is worshiped throughout the province of Asia and the world, will be robbed of her divine majesty."
> 28 When they heard this, they were furious and began shouting: "Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!" 29 Soon the whole city was in an uproar. The people seized Gaius and Aristarchus, Paul's traveling companions from Macedonia, and rushed as one man into the theater. 30 Paul wanted to appear before the crowd, but the disciples would not let him. 31 Even some of the officials of the province, friends of Paul, sent him a message begging him not to venture into the theater.

> 32 The assembly was in confusion: Some were shouting one thing, some another. Most of the people did not even know why they were there. 33 The Jews pushed Alexander to the front, and some of the crowd shouted instructions to him. He motioned for silence in order to make a defense before the people. 34 But when they realized he was a Jew, they all shouted in unison for about two hours: "Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!" (NIV84)

Why didn't these workers want to listen, to reason, to consider?

You will notice this—when truth is on one's side then we want to engage people, to reason, to examine, to present evidence, to persuade. But, when we don't have truth we want to silence, to intimidate, to shut down voices or views that don't agree with ours.

Truth always wins over lies in the minds of those open to the truth.

But those who don't have the truth and don't want the truth will not be persuaded by it, and don't want any presenting it. The truth itself is offensive to them, because it exposes their lies, wrongs, falsehoods.

Jesus said,

> "Light has come into the world, but men loved darkness instead of light because their deeds were evil. Everyone who does evil hates the light, and will not come into the light for fear that his deeds will be exposed." (Jn 3:19-20 NIV84)

What kind of methods are being used today by the cancel culture? Would we say that one of the methods is economic coercion—if people speak out against what they like they seek to get them fired, canceled or their products or companies boycotted?

Hmmm….does anyone have concerns that Bible prophecy may be being fulfilled right before our eyes?

> He was given power to give breath to the image of the first beast, so that it could speak and cause all who refused to worship the image to be killed. He also forced everyone, small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, to receive a mark on his right hand or on his forehead, so that no one could buy or sell unless he had the mark, which is the name of the beast or the number of his name. Rev 13:15-17

What is being described, what methods? Coercion, force, intimidation and economic pressures and sanctions. Hmmm….are these the methods of God? Do we see the enemy at work when we see such methods being employed?

Do we have the courage and strength to speak the truth in love—to warn people against embracing the methods of the world, to not get a mark in their hand by going along with and practicing the methods of the world, and to not get marked in their forehead by believing those methods are righteous.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson is about witnessing—what is the central theme of Scripture?

- There is a God in heaven who created the universe
- This Creator God is love and created all things in sinless perfection—without disease or defect
- Real love requires real freedom, so God did not create His intelligent beings as robots or puppets, but gave real freedom.
- This freedom was abused and lies were told about God, and lies believed break the circle of love and trust resulting in fear and selfishness.
- God's design for life was broken, love and trust was displaced by fear and selfishness stemming from believing lies. This is a terminal condition that damages God's design for life.
- God's laws are the design laws He built life to operate upon and deviation damages and destroys.
- God so loved us that when humankind became infected with fear and selfishness He did not abandon us but sent His own Son to reveal the truth to destroy the lies and win us to trust, and to cure the condition by procuring the remedy that heals all who do trust.
- This remedy is freely available to everyone and will heal all who trust God.
- What is the Remedy – the perfection of Jesus Christ, the truth revealed about God first that wins to trust and then in trust a new human character we receive by the indwelling Spirit such that our hearts actually change and we have new desires and new motives.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "A careful study…" Where do you see the gospel struggling today to overcome cultural bias?

Or, how is cultural bias obstructing the gospel?

What about the culture that there is no God, that we all just evolved from lower life? Why is this idea appealing? What was the historic alternative? What kind of God did the Dark Ages church present? What about today is Christianity presenting a God worthy of our worship or is much of Christianity infected with a false god that functions no different than a tyrant?

What other cultural biases obstruct the gospel?

Does racism have any place in the gospel of Jesus Christ?

What does it mean that in Christ there is neither Jew or Greek?

If we have ideas promoted today that divide people on the basis of race, is that from God?

Does the Bible divide people? What are the camps the Bible divides people into?

The metaphors are:

- Wheat and tares
- Sheep and goats
- fruitful and withered vines
- pure woman and harlot

But these are metaphors of what reality? God's people are the righteous versus Satan's people who are the wicked, which divides people by what? Character! Do we have the character of Christ or the character of the enemy?

When we focus on nationality or race or gender what are we not focusing upon? Character and thus we divide on issues that incite more conflict, hate, fear, selfishness and obstruct God's plan to bring all people under one head Jesus Christ.

2020 3Q Making Friends for God: Lesson 6
Unlimited Possibilities

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first two paragraphs, "God calls us to witness…" To what are we to witness about? God—to be sure—but does the message about God ever take on any specific focus relevant to the situation of the people at a specific place or time in history?

- Did Noah witness for God but have a specific message to give?
- Did Moses witness for God when he appeared before Pharaoh and demanded the Hebrews be set free to worship Yahweh?
- Was Samuel witnessing for God when he called king Saul to account for taking booty from one of the cities they conquered?
- Was Jeremiah witnessing for God when he told Israel, including the leadership, to submit to Babylonian rule?
- Was Jesus witnessing for God when He answered the question about taxes and told them to give to Caesar what is Caesar's and to God what is God's?
- Was Paul witnessing for God when he told the Christians how to live in relationship with Roman authorities in Romans chapter 13?
- Was Ellen White witnessing for God when she wrote the book The Great Controversy in which she describes the long history of church-state abuse and governmental policies that violate God's principles and warned about forming of the image to the beast?

Now, were any of these witnesses for God being political, or were they witnessing for God in the context of real-life situations in which the people found themselves?

Were any of these people running for governmental office? Were any of these people seeking to change the governments of the world? Were any of them seeking to get certain judges, senators, governors elected or laws passed?

Does witnessing for God mean that we never speak about issues that intersect with the state?

If we do speak about issues that intersect with the state does that mean we are being political? Certainly, we could be—but can we speak about God's methods and principles and how to apply them to our current circumstances without being political, yet addressing current events?

I have received a few emails recently from people saying they feel that over the last six months or so, that our class has become political. I would counter, that we have not become political, but eschatological, that I continue to advance God's kingdom of truth, love, and liberty, founded upon God's design laws, that are an expression of His character—and like the great spokespersons for God throughout history, at times, we make local and contemporary application of God's principles to our real-life situation.

I am not advocating for a political party, or a specific law, or a politician—I am advocating for the truth, for people to be freed from manipulation, for the application of God's principles and method, and for the recovery of the image of God in people. I am sounding an end-time warning to alert people to the dangers of joining forces with movements that are practicing principles contrary to God's kingdom, despite their stated goal.

At this time in human history, to what are we to witness? What is our message to the world today? What are we to share that meets the needs of society today?

Now I love this quote and have shared it before, it is found in the book Christ's Object Lessons, what do you think?

> It is the darkness of misapprehension of God that is enshrouding the world. Men are losing their knowledge of His character. It has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. At this time a message from God is to be proclaimed, a message illuminating in its influence and saving in its power. His character is to be made known. Into the darkness of the world is to be shed the light of His glory, the light of His goodness, mercy, and truth…The last rays of merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is a revelation of His character of love. The children of God are to manifest His glory. In their own life and character they are to reveal what the grace of God has done for them. COL 415.5

Does this have anything to do with the law of God? How is the law of God and God's glory and our revealing God's glory in our lives related?

Can we live out the law of God without confronting intersecting with people and practices in our society that violate the law of God?

I found this quote by the same person who wrote Christ's Object Lessons and she attributes these words to an angel of God—what do you think?

> Said my Guide, "There is much light yet to shine forth from the law of God and the gospel of righteousness. [What do you think is being referred to? More rules, or the light of God's design law, how God built life to operate—the law of love and liberty an expression of the character of God? Are we giving more light to the law of God by presenting it as design law and rejecting the imposed rules view?] This message, understood in its true character, and proclaimed in the Spirit, will lighten the earth with its glory.[What message? The truth about God, who is love, who created the universe to operate upon the law of love and that God is completely trustworthy.] The great decisive question is to be brought before all nations, tongues, and peoples. [What is the great question? If God is like Baal—an imperial dictator who imposes rules, inflicts punishment, and requires legal solutions—then worship him by becoming like him, by practicing his methods, by embracing imperial rule. Mark yourselves in > your hands by your actions of going along with forcing people by coercion and threat to do what you want, or mark yourselves in your forehead by believing it is actually right to do so. Or, worship Yahweh, the Creator, whose laws are design laws, and present the truth, in love while leaving people free and be sealed in your foreheads with the seal of God by being settled in character into His methods and principles.] The closing work of the third angel's message will be attended with a power that will send the rays of the Sun of Righteousness into all the highways and byways of life, and decisions will be made for God."—Manuscript 15, 1888, 5. (To "Dear Brethren Assembled at General Conference," November 1, 1888.) 2MR 58.1

How is the law of God related to the third angel's message?

Here is a description from the book Christ Triumphant:

> The first and second messages [Revelation 14:6-8] were given in 1843 and 1844, and we are now under the proclamation of the third; but all three of the messages are still to be proclaimed. It is just as essential now as ever before that they shall be repeated to those who are seeking for the truth. By pen and voice we are to sound the proclamation, showing their order and the application of the prophecies that bring us to the third angel's message. There cannot be a third without the first and second. . .
> "Then I saw another angel flying in midair, and he had the eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live on the earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people.[What is the eternal gospel—the good news that has been true for eternity past and will be true for eternity future and which Jesus revealed in His life here on earth? That God is not as Satan alleges, God is truly good, trustworthy, and a being of love. But notice, specifically what comes next] He said in a loud voice, 'Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come.[What law lens are you hearing this through? The hour in which a tribunal is set up, or the hour in history when enough truth has been presented that people can make a right judgment about God? Notice, immediately after saying the hour of his judgment has come, we are told what to do in response to finally judging God correctly] Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water.'" [What kind of law is creation built upon? Design law, stop judging God to be a dictator and the source of inflicted pain and death, and judge Him correctly, as Creator whose laws are design laws] This message, if heeded, will call the attention of every nation and kindred and tongue and people to a close examination of the Word, and to the true light in regard to the power that has changed the seventh-day Sabbath to a spurious sabbath. . . The Sabbath memorial, declaring who the living God is, the Creator of the heavens and the earth, has been torn down, and a spurious sabbath has been given to the world in its place. Thus a breach has been made in the law of God. . . {CTr 338.5}

What are we to call people's attention to? Not the Sabbath or Sunday as THE issue, but to the power that changed the Sabbath to Sunday. In other words, the Sabbath-Sunday issue is the evidence of the breach in the law, and what was that breach? The lie that God's law is imposed law—changing in the minds of people that God's law functions like human law. This is the breach, the Sabbath was created as a day of rest and is evidence of design law, Sunday was legislated as a day of rest and is evidence of imperial law or human law. Thus, we are to call people out of a system of imperialism, religions that teach God's law functions like human law and back to worship our Creator whose laws are design laws. This is the repairing of the breach!

So what is the final message of mercy? The truth about God—His character and methods of love, design law, how reality works.

SUNDAY

Differing Gifts—what does it mean that we have differing gifts?

From where do our gifts come?

If we have differing gifts does that mean we have different value or worth? No!

If we have differing gifts, even though we the same value and worth, do we have different abilities?

If we have different abilities, despite having equal worth, what would that mean for where we find ourselves working in God's cause? Do we all end up doing the same activity?

What about in society as a whole—do these principles hold true? Are we all of equal worth as children of God? But do we have different abilities, gifts and talents? Does that mean some individuals are better suited than others for various positions or jobs?

Do we also have different individualities, and do we develop different characters?

Do we apply ourselves uniquely and thus, can two people with similar gifts get different outcomes because of different applications of their gifts?

What is God's role in the development of a person's gifts, abilities and talents?

What is the person's role?

What is society's or government's role in the development of an individual's gifts?

Are there laws involved—what kind of laws? What are the design laws that are involved? The law of exertion, the law of worship, the law of love, the law of liberty—all of these are involved in a person developing their abilities to the maximum.

Can governments legislate and enact laws designed to help people develop their abilities—like laws that all children will attend school? Or laws that provide meals for kids at school. Will such laws cause all children to get equal outcomes from school? Why not?

- Are all teachers equal?
- Are all schools equal?
- Are all children equal?
- Are all homes and parents equal?
- Do all have equal friends?
- Do all have equal ability?
- Do all have equal health?
- Do all have equal sleep, nutrition, safety, or support?
- Do all apply themselves equally to the task of learning?

Do all have equal value and worth? So does equality in value and worth mean we all get equal outcomes?

What is the Christian's responsibility?

What principles must be applied in order for people to maximize their development?

To maximize development, individuals must be stressed, challenged, pressured to struggle against difficulties. In other words, strength come from exertion, so in order to grow people have to be presented with problems or obstacles that are beyond their current level of functioning or understanding, yet within their ability to master.

Most of the time this means they will not initially perform well or won't initially understand. It means that frequently they will get the problem wrong—but as they apply themselves their skill, understanding, and abilities get strengthened, honed, developed and improved. A good teacher or coach will push, but also encourage.

It is damaging to people to never be stressed, challenged, or pressured, to be given advancement without having applied oneself and developed one's abilities. In other words, passing children to the next grade when they haven't mastered their current grade-level, because we don't want to hurt their feelings, or stigmatize them is damaging.

The first paragraph of our lesson talks about unity despite differing gifts, do you hear anything we have been talking about this morning that if applied is unifying? Have we been elucidating ideas and principles that are universal truths, that are true for all people, of all cultures, throughout all human history?

Have these principles of individuality, hard work, reaping and sowing come under attack in our society recently? Why?

Consider the impact in history when position was awarded based on identity rather than ability:

- Divine right of kings—rulers become rulers because of inheritance not because of ability, not based on character, talents or gifts. What happened in human history when this occurred?
    - Do you notice God overthrew this human tradition in several places:
    - Abel and Seth inherited the blessing, not Cain;
    - Isaac inherited the blessings, not Ishmael;
    - Jacob inherited the blessings not Esau;
    - Joseph inherited the double portion of the first born, not Reuben;
    - Judah became ruler of the family not Reuben, Simeon, or Levi;
    - Ephraim inherited the blessing of the firstborn not Manasseh.
    - Solomon inherited the kingship not David's older children.
- What about in society today, what happens if we place people in position based on some identity issue, rather than ability?
    - Pastors are based on gender not upon gifting by the Spirit?
    - We require school admissions or business admit or hire based upon gender or race rather than qualifications?
    - What impact does that have upon people if we reward based no some identity issue rather than on abilities? Would it undermine individual application, why strive, why develop, why achieve, it won't matter, what I need to do is be identified with the groups that get advancement, that is what matters. Character isn't important, group identity is what is important.
    - This same problem can be applied to religion, when people believe belonging to the right denomination is what matter not character. 2000 years ago, "We are Jews and we have Moses and the Law, and we are God's chosen." What about today, "We are Seventh-day Adventists and we are secure because we have the Sabbath and we are God's chosen."
    - Is it about identity with various groups whether race, nationality, or religion, or is it about having character like Jesus?

Is it ungodly to discriminate—meaning to differentiate in our decision-making—in who we hire, what position we place people in, who we marry, who we let babysit our children, who we associate with based upon character, abilities, gifts? Or are we supposed to make such discriminating decisions?

One of the falsehoods that has become commonplace in society today is that being equal in worth, in value, means we have equal abilities—it does not. This falsehood leads to the idea, that it is wrong to discriminate based upon ability, character, gifting, or talents—it is not.

It is actually good for all involved to be truthful, to say to those ill-suited for certain tasks or roles, that they don't have the requisite qualifications or skillset for that position.

When does this become a problem? What happens if a person gets their feelings hurt when they are rejected in a relationship or for a position?

Have you ever been rejected for a position—whether being left out in a pick-up game on the playground, or rejected when dating, or rejected by an employer, or rejected by a church group?

How did you respond when rejected?

How did Jesus respond when He was rejected?

What is a healthy response to rejection?

- Be truthful—evaluate, to the best of your ability, why you were rejected, was it because:
    - you were ill suited for the position?
    - the other person was ignorant of your abilities?
    - the other person had a bias against you?
    - the other person didn't have a bias against you, but did have a bias toward the other person that was selected (nepotism for instance)?
    - God was protecting you from some future bad outcome?
- Apply the truth
    - If you realize that you are ill suited, then address that concern.
        - If you weren't picked for a basketball team and you are 5'8" tall, accept the truth about yourself, you will never be a professional basketball player, no matter how much you practice.
        - If you don't have the education, license, experience, then if you want the position go to school or get the license
        - If you have character shortcomings—an addiction you have not addressed and thus were rejected in a relationship—then get into recovery etc.
    - But if you realize that you are well suited but still were not chosen, then apply the truth that your rejection in that circumstance was not about you, but about something outside of you, and that if you have put your life in God's hands, then you can have assurance that God is protecting you, or the other person has their reasons that have nothing to do with you and move on.

In the last two paragraphs the lesson uses the Bible metaphor of the body, and that the body has many different parts that have different functions, but all are important to the overall health of the body. They give the example of the eyelashes, and how small they are, but what an important role they play.

Likewise, in the body of Christ, the church, we all have different abilities, gifts, talents—and have developed them differently. And therefore, will have different roles to play, but as long as we are surrendered to God, following where God leads, we will be useful to the body of Christ and in God's cause.

What is the basis of true unity? Do we have true unity when we all take an oath to believe the same creed or list of fundamental beliefs?

Or, is true unity found when we have had our hearts renewed to love like Jesus loves—including having hearts that love the truth and love to grow in the truth?

If we have a group of people with hearts that are pure, that love like Jesus, that are honest, kind, patient, peaceful, true, meek—does that mean they all believe the same on every point?

Why not? Because we are all finite, we are all coming from different backgrounds, we all have different experiences, different education, and are at different places in our maturity—thus it is predictable and inevitable that we WILL understand various points of doctrine differently. We are not unified by having the same list of beliefs—we are unified in loving the same God, surrendering to the same Savior, and have the same design law (love, truth, freedom) written upon our hearts, so we practice the same methods.

I have unity with my grandchildren—we are united in love, affection, devotion, trust, loyalty—but we certainly do NOT understand everything the same way—and our difference in understanding is not a source of division between us, why not? Because of love, because of trust, we both have hearts to understand the other. I love to hear how my grandchildren understand things, and they love to spend time with me and learn from me.

Why is it not like this in the church, with some being more mature than others, but all having love for each other?

In my experience, traveling around the world, whenever people accept the truth about God's character of love, and His law as design law, there is this unity of heart. We may still see certain points differently, but we have real friendship, affection, and love for each other.

But when unity is based on legality, agreeing to a certain list of rules, then arguments are frequent when differences of belief, doctrine, definitions, rituals, practices, come up. Why? Because security is not found in heart transformation, but in rule-keeping. In that situations, whenever someone doesn't believe things like us, it makes us insecure and incites argument and conflict, rather than loving acceptance.

When is it appropriate and even necessary to amputate a body part? When that part becomes gangrenous—which occurs when it is cut off from the blood flow despite being attached to the body.

Is there a lesson in this for when we need to cut people off from our fellowship?

What does the blood represent? The life and love of Jesus. And what happens in our hearts and minds if we shut ourselves off from God's presence in our lives? We become more selfish, more fearful, and will manifest the fruits of the selfish spirit—gossiping, judgmentalism, perversities of various kinds, unkindness, untruthfulness, accepting and teaching lies, hardness of heart.

But, when do we sever the connection with such people—when do we amputate a person from our fellowship? Jesus said the wheat and tares grow up together until the harvest, that we are not to seek to uproot the tares from the church—yet, are there times it is still necessary? When?

When a limb of the body does need to be amputated, who do we want to do it? How do we want it done? Are there a lessons in this analogy in how we should handle the painful circumstance of severing a connection with a church member who has hardened themselves in such a way they are leading others away from God?

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "According to 1Corinthians 12…" Do you believe this? Do you see this as an issue of trust in God?

What happens when people trust God with their lives, accept their abilities and gifts, humbly seek to apply them where God leads? What happens when people do not do this?

Satan tempted Eve to be dissatisfied with the gifts and abilities and position God had given her, and he suggested she could be more if she would merely take the fruit God had said not to partake of.

How many people today, partake of some "forbidden fruit" because they are not content with their lives, their selves, and are seeking for more ability, fame, power, position, or wealth than God has called for them to have?

What happens when we are not content with God's plan for our lives?

What do you think of this historic quote from Review and Herald August 4, 1910:

> God did not create evil. He only made the good, which was like himself. But Satan would not be content to know the will of God and do it. His curiosity was on the stretch to know that which God had not designed he should know. Evil, sin, and death were not created by God; they are the result of disobedience, which originated in Satan. [A result of disobedience, not an inflicted punishment by God for rule-breaking, but the unavoidable result of being out of harmony with the design laws that God built life to operate upon.] But the knowledge of evil now in the world was brought in through the cunning of Satan. These are very hard and expensive lessons; but men will learn them, and many will never be convinced that it is bliss to be ignorant of a certain kind of knowledge, which arises from unsatisfied desires and unholy aims. The sons and daughters of Adam are fully as inquisitive and presumptuous as was Eve in seeking forbidden knowledge. They gain an experience, a knowledge, which God never designed they should have; and the result will be, as it was to our first parents, the loss of their Eden home. When will human beings learn that which is demonstrated so thoroughly before them? RH August 4, 1910, par. 4

Can you think of types of knowledge that God never designed for us to have? The knowledge, by experience, i.e. knowing, anything that is out of harmony with His design law for life.

He doesn't want us to have:

- The knowledge of what taking cocaine or other illegal drugs feels like
- The knowledge of adultery
- The knowledge of worshipping false gods
- The knowledge of sorcery or witchcraft or communing with demons
- The knowledge of cruelty to other people or to animals
- The knowledge of murder
- The knowledge of bearing false witness
- The knowledge of envy
- The knowledge of laziness
- The knowledge of gluttony
- The knowledge of pornography
- The knowledge of war
- The knowledge of human politics (remember God warned them against kings)
- The knowledge of sin in all its deviations from God's design

If God did not want humans to have the knowledge of evil, why did God put the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil in the Garden of Eden?

Notice it was the Tree of the Knowledge of Good AND Evil, meaning what?

It was the Tree, that would impart knowledge, but what kind of knowledge?

- Was it a tree where they would go to pick up books to read about good and evil?
- Would they get a TED talk on good and evil at the tree?
- Would they hear sermons or have Bible studies at the tree?
- What kind of knowledge were they to get there?
- When Jesus said, "This is life eternal that they might know you the only true God and Jesus Christ whom you have sent." (John 17:3) what kind of knowledge what Jesus speaking of?
- So, what kind of knowledge were they to obtain at the tree?
    - The knowledge of experience. They were to consider, reason, think, reflect, examine the evidence, and then decide and choose to internalize into their hearts and minds either good (trust in God, choose thee truth and embrace His methods and thus know good) or internalize evil (distrust in God, choose the lie and embrace Satan's methods and thus know evil).

God put the Tree there for their development, for them to exercise the abilities God had given them so they could solidify themselves in perfect loyalty to God—so they could know good.

It was never God's design or intent for them to come to know evil by experience. It was God's design, for them to know the evil of sin by description, by education, just as God and the loyal angels had warned them—"in the day you eat thereof you will surely die." But God never wanted them to know evil by experience.

WEDNESDAY

Read second paragraph, "God promises that His…" Are gifts of the Spirit restricted by gender? Are certain gifts given only to men or to women?

Do we obstruct the health of the church if we take the position that only certain gifts can be experienced by men?

Are there objective differences in general between men and women?

Is it ungodly, discriminatory, to recognize these differences?

Why do you think, through all human cultures, throughout all recorded human history, societies have been organized in families with men being predominantly in leadership?

Is it only because of selfishness and men abusing their physical strength, or are their objective reasons that contribute to this arrangement, including in homes where godly love rules?

Consider human history, and consider a husband and wife who both love and trust God and want to live according to God's design. They enter into a genuine partnership to live other-centered lives; they both seek to bless and uplift the other and never seek to dominate, abuse or control the other. Would the couple want to divide responsibilities between the two of them so that their family would be most successful in their society?

Then, who would likely be the hunter, the woodsman, the plowman, the laborer and who would be the child bearer and homemaker? Would this be because of abuse, or because both husband and wife want to maximize their inherent strengths for the good of their family?

If a more successful arrangement could have been found in history, don't you think it would have emerged? Has a more successful arrangement ever emerged?

Now, does that mean there cannot be crossover? Are there examples in history of strong women succeeding in leadership?

But what happens when we ignore inherent differences in ability, and move forward with practices that ignore those realities? Are there any dangers?

Are families under assault today? From what forces? Are women being tempted in societies today to be dissatisfied being a mother and homemaker, to not be content in following their gifts? I know of women who love being mothers and homemakers, and yet still experience criticism for not working outside their home.

TUESDAY

What is the purpose of spiritual gifts?

Read first paragraph, "Spiritual gifts…" The gifts are for the healing of people and the elimination of sin, for the advancement of God's kingdom.

The lesson asks what is the difference between spiritual gifts and natural talents?

Read third paragraph, "The special gifts of the Spirit…"

THURSDAY

What is necessary to grow our gifts? Are any of God's laws involved? What happens if we don't apply ourselves?

Should we expect our gifts to just be given and develop without application?

What about ideas in society that it is wrong to expect hard work?

FRIDAY

Read second paragraph, "To everyone…"

2020 3Q Making Friends for God: Lesson 7
Sharing the Word

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "When we witness…" This is an great point, that our witnessing is about Jesus, not about a denomination, or a rule, or a creed, or a ritual, but about Jesus.

And who is Jesus—what would you tell someone about Jesus?

And as we witness about Jesus what is important that we witness about?

> Then the dragon was enraged at the woman and went off to make war against the rest of her offspring—those who obey God's commandments and hold to the testimony of Jesus. (Rev 12:17 NIV84)

What did Jesus say He was here to witness about?

- Anyone who has seen me has seen the Father. (John 14:9 NIV84)
- I have brought you glory on earth by completing the work you gave me to do. And now, Father, glorify me in your presence with the glory I had with you before the world began. I have revealed you… (John 17:4-6 NIV84)

What was Jesus' testimony to reveal? The truth about God, is this related to the eternal gospel mentioned in the 3 angel's messages and the final message of mercy to the world? How?

- The eternal good news is the good news about God—which Satan lied about in heaven and lied about in Eden and has continued to lie about and misrepresent through all human history
- The final message of mercy to the world is the truth about God's character of love, which is manifested in Jesus Christ, who lived out perfectly God's living law of love.

So, when we witness about the Word are we making it clear Jesus is the living Word of God who became human in order to reveal God to us while simultaneously exposing Satan and sin and procuring the remedy to heal humanity from sin?

When we witness about Jesus, whose testimony was about His Father, do we have to use the name Jesus?

Is it sometimes wise when witnessing about Jesus not to actually use the name Jesus? When?

How did Jesus speak to the people? He used parables, why?

What did many of His parables reveal?

Design law, the methods of God, exposing the lie of imperialism and arbitrary rules.

Parables of Jesus

The Lamp - Matthew 5:14-16

- If one lights a lamp and let it do what it does naturally and don't interfere by artificial means, it shines. What kind of law is revealed in the parable? God's truth and love will always shine out of our lives to brighten the world around us. And if one tries to hide the light they are working against how reality operates.

The Speck and The Log - Matthew 7:1-5

- What is the natural result of a larger object in one's eye? One cannot see clearly with obstructions in the eye. This parable teaches the reality that lies obstruct our ability to discern. The more lies one believes the greater the blindness. So if we want to be effective in helping others we must first remove the distortions from our own minds. What kind of law is described here? Again, design law, how reality works.

New Cloth on Old Garment - Matthew 9:16-17

- What happens, if new cloth is sewn onto old cloth? The new cloth tears the old garment, why? Does a ruling authority inspect the garment and issue a decree that law enforcement must enforce by tearing the garment or is it design law, how reality works? This is the same lesson as in the new wine in old skins that one of our class members wrote an excellent blog about, which you can find on our website.

The Divided Kingdom - Matthew 12:24-30

- A kingdom divided against itself cannot stand, why? What is the reason? It is the natural result of warring against oneself. The system collapses. Do we see forces at work in America today to divide the country—not just typical politics in which all parties are for the same goal of a stronger nation and merely debate different ways to get there, but are the divisions growing in such a way they threaten the actual health of the nation? What kind of law causes the collapse when a kingdom wars against itself?

The Sower - Matthew 13:1-23

- What is the lesson? Why do the seeds grow differently? Is it because of God uses His power to make the seeds grow differently? Or are the seeds equally healthy when planted, the sunshine and rain are the same for all, but the soil where the seeds are planted is different? Which represents what? The hearts of people into which the seeds of truth are planted—what kind of law is involved?

The Weeds Among the Wheat - Matthew 13:24-30

- What is revealed in this parable? Why do weeds grow in a field? Do they come up naturally or are they planted? What happens if you pull weeds growing next to wheat? Does some of the wheat get pulled up? Why? So what is the lesson—what kind of law is involved?

The Mustard Seed - Matthew 13:31-32

- What do mustard seeds do when planted in a garden? How do they do it? What does the mustard plant become—a place of shade for others—why? What is taught? What kind of law is involved?

The Leaven - Matthew 13:33-34

- What is the lesson of leaven? How does leaven work? Is it that God inspects the flour and if there is leaven then God uses power to perform a miracle for those who use leaven but won't perform the miracle for those who don't? No, it is a natural result of design law at work.

Hidden Treasure - Matthew 13:44 and Pearl of Great Price - Matthew 13:45-46

- What is taught in these two parables? What is the natural result when our hearts value something? And when we value it more than anything else in the world what do we do? What law is being described?

The Net - Matthew 13:47-50

- What determines which fish are kept and which are discarded? It is the condition of the fish themselves—there is no jury, no prosecutor, no defense lawyer, no judge. It is all based on the actual condition of the fish. So too in the end of time people are separated by their condition of heart—having accepted Jesus and been renewed in love, or rejected Jesus and been hardened in selfishness. This is design law, no penal/legal issue at all!

What Comes Out of the Mouth - Matthew 15:10-20

- Why is it that what goes into a person's mouth does not determine his cleanliness but what comes out does? What kind of law is involved? Is the person unclean because someone hears what they say, reports it to authorities, has a judicial review and a legal ruling that declares them unclean? What was Jesus teaching?

The Lost Sheep - Matthew 18:10-14

- What is revealed? The heart of God, who loved the world so much He gave His only begotten Son—does it teach that God was paid such a high price, the blood of His Son, that He was induced to go look for the sheep? No, He already valued the lost sheep so much that He went to find it. Did the sheep have to do anything to get the shepherd to come looking? What is the natural action to take when we love someone who is lost? Again, the reality is God's character of love, nothing legal.

The Unforgiving Servant - Matthew 18:23-35

- What causes the servant with the great debt to ultimately be lost? What lesson is taught? Is it a legal issue, or an issue of character? Was the man with the great debt given grace—did the grace change his heart? What law is revealed?

Laborers in the Vineyard - Matthew 20:1-16

- This is a great parable because it really exposes the fallacy of imposed law. The workers who worked one hour got the same pay as those who worked all day. What did those who worked all day think? What do you initially think when you hear this story? What if we added to the story that those who worked all day were people of color and those who worked one hour were white? Is it fair that they all got the same pay? It is totally unfair if we have an imposed law view, but if we have design law view and understand that the payment, the reward, is eternal life with Jesus and the field is the field of this earth where we work to save souls, then it is totally fair. Those who worked all day had salvation early in their life and the privilege of working with God and therefore coming to know Him better. They applied His methods early in their lives and became more skilled in laboring for Him, and applying His principles, which means they became more mature than those who only worked an hour. But, if one holds the human law model it appears unfair. It is a great parable.

The Two Sons - Matthew 21:28-32

- One says he will work in his father's field but then doesn't, the other son says he will not work in his father's field but then does, what is the lesson? What law is involved? How many today are being duped because they go merely on the words people say and don't look at their actions? Lies are mere words, truth is how reality works. Thus, the parable is again application of design law revealing the truth in spite of the words.

The Tenant Farmers - Matthew 21:33-45

- This parable reveals the actual condition of the hearts of people and the actions they take when selfishness rules in the heart. They are lost in the end because of hardening their own hearts despite all the pleas from the landowner (God) to repent. No legal issue, but reality of their heart condition.

Marriage Feast or Great Banquet - Matthew 22:1-14

- Who was invited, who came, who decided who attended, what is the lesson? So who decides who is at the banquet and who is not? Is this a legal process of bad deeds done and then getting records expunged by the application of some payment, or is it a process of accepting the invitation and partaking of the resources provided—i.e. the clothing given, which represent the remedy of Christ's righteousness which heals us.

The Ten Virgins - Matthew 25:1-13

- What makes the difference in the wise or foolish, what is the lesson? Why don't lamps shine without oil, is it a miracle God performs for those who have oil but refuse to perform for those who don't? Or is it how reality works? Who can have the light of God's character without the oil of the Holy Spirit in their hearts? So, who decides which are the wise and foolish, who have the oil and who doesn't? What law is involved?

Ten Talents or Gold Coins - Matthew 25:14-30

- What is the lesson? What law is described? The law of exertion! What happens if you don't use the talents you have—if you don't use it, you lose it. But if you apply yourself you gain more abilities.

The Good Samaritan - Luke 10:29-37

- What determined who was right with God? What is exposed as fraudulent? How many Sabbaths did the Samaritan keep? How many sacrifices at the temple did he make? How much tithe did he pay to the temple? How many kosher meals did he eat? Do you see what mattered was not a list of rules, but having God's love in the heart—what law is this?

The Rich Fool - Luke 12:13-21

- What is revealed? What determines his eternal end? What law is involved?

The Lost Coin - Luke 15:8-10

- What is taught about God's kingdom and God? Is God's character to search for His lost children revealed? What is different between the lost coin, sheep, and son?
- The lost coin didn't know it was lost and the owner searched for it and found it.
- The lost sheep knew it was lost but didn't know how to get home and the owner searched for it and found it.
- The lost son knew he was lost and knew the way home and the father waited for the son to make the choice to come home.
- In all three what does the father/owner reveal about himself? What kind of law is involved?

The Prodigal Son - Luke 15:11-32

- What is taught? Why did the father leave the son in dire straits? Why did the father accept him back? Why did the older son get upset? What did the older son value? What law is involved? Did the prodigal have to pay a legal penalty? Why not?

The Rich Man and Lazarus - Luke 16:19-31

- What is the lesson, what is taught? What law is involved? If people won't accept truth when presented, miracles won't change them.

In all of these parables what is Jesus revealing the kingdom of God and what kind of kingdom is it? What law does it operate upon? Over and over again Jesus taught reality, design law, how things actually operate. No where do we find Jesus teaching penal substitution theology, no where do we find Jesus teaching imposed law with imposed punishments. Jesus constantly overthrew their system of rules and creeds.

So, are we giving the testimony of Jesus to the world or have we accepted the wine of Babylon, that God's law is like human law and misrepresent the teachings of Jesus through the lie that God must use His power to punish sinners?

What is God waiting for? What is the final message? So, what do you tell people about Jesus?

SUND AY

The lesson points to various symbols of God's Word and asks what we can learn from each symbol.

- Lamp
  Gives light to see but one has to move forward in the light to see beyond your immediate circumstance. Likewise we don't get more light of truth until we apply and move forward in the light we have. Then the light is advancing.

- Fire
  What does fire do? It cleanses, the truth of God's Word will burn out lies, distortions, falsehoods, will convict of sinful habits or practices, and lead us to God to have them burned out of our hearts.

  Fire also warms, heats, gives energy and spreads—when we are on fire for God's Word we bring warmth to our environment, we are energized for action, and the fire spreads to others.

- Seeds
  Sometimes lie dormant until the right circumstances then sprout and bear fruit—sometimes the truth is planted in a heart but doesn't sprout until later. But when it does sprout in good soil, the truth bears fruit of righteousness and will be shared with others and the truth spreads.

- Bread
  Nurtures, gives strength, and as bread is taken into the body and broken down into molecules that become building blocks to our body tissues. So too truths taken into our hearts become building blocks to our ideas, beliefs, constructs, philosophies for life and worldview shaping our mindsets and characters leading us out of darkness, lies, and distrust of God back to trust in God.

- Sword
  Can be used to block attacks, it can be use to attack, it can be used to cut and kill. So the Word of God can defend, like Jesus did with Satan's temptations in the wilderness. It can be use to pierce through defenses based on lies and selfishness, it can cut deep into the heart and mind > and separate emotions from facts bringing conviction, breaking through denial and distortion. It can kill—what did the truth do to Judas? What happens to those hardened in lies and selfishness when they are exposed to infinite truth and love—the fires of God's life-giving glory?

When we share the seeds of truth, the word of God is it a requirement to quote a Bible verse? Can we share the truth of God's kingdom, the Word, without quoting the Bible? Is it wrong to do so? Can we value the Bible as God's Word, yet sometimes choose to share the truth without quoting it?

MONDAY

Read first two paragraph, "The Word of God is the Living Word…" What do we understand this to mean?

Is it the vocalizations of God that are meant or does this refer to a person, a member of the Godhead?

> In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was with God in the beginning. Through him all things were made; without him nothing was made that has been made. In him was life, and that life was the light of men. The light shines in the darkness, but the darkness has not understood it… The Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us. (John 1:1-5, 14 NIV84)

If God didn't speak the words of Creation, does that mean He couldn't have created—if we could put a gag in God's mouth, would that render Him powerless?

It isn't about vocalizations—it is about a person, Jesus the living Word. And it is about the truth, the truth that emanates from God and resonates throughout God's universe.

From the book The Desire of Ages:

> By coming to dwell with us, Jesus was to reveal God both to men and to angels. He was the Word of God,--God's thought made audible. In His prayer for His disciples He says, "I have declared unto them Thy name,"--"merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth,"--"that the love wherewith Thou hast loved Me may be in them, and I in them." But not alone for His earthborn children was this revelation given. Our little world is the lesson book of the universe. God's wonderful purpose of grace, the mystery of redeeming love, is the theme into which "angels desire to look," and it will be their study throughout endless ages. Both the redeemed and the unfallen beings will find in the cross of Christ their science and their song.[science meaning reality, understanding, reason, facts, design law, song our joy, our love, our heart's appreciation, our emotional expression—and both our understanding of reality and our emotional experience will be in perfect harmony] It will be seen that the glory shining in the face of Jesus is the glory of self-sacrificing love. In the light from Calvary it will be seen that the law of self-renouncing love is the law of life > for earth and heaven; that the love which "seeketh not her own" has its source in the heart of God; and that in the meek and lowly One is manifested the character of Him who dwelleth in the light which no man can approach unto. DA 19, 20

What kind of law is described here? It isn't about proclamations or edicts or declarations or vocalizations like human rulers give, it is about God's character of love and the reality He created which operates upon His design of love!

What do you think of the quote from the book Education in the second to last paragraph,

> The creative energy that called the worlds into existence is in the word of God. This word imparts power; it begets life. Every command is a promise; accepted by the will, received into the soul, it brings with it the life of the Infinite One. It transforms the nature and re-creates the soul in the image of God. Ed 126.4

Is this creative energy that called worlds into existence referring to vocalizations, or a Person, a member of the Godhead?

When we partake of the divine nature, of what are we partaking?

Is there more than concepts and facts involved? In other words, when we partake of the truth, experience a trust relationship with God, apply His methods to our lives do we not only get a change of heart attitude, a change of mind, a change of character, do we also get physically changed? Yes, our brains change. And do all of these changes bring us into actual closer intimacy with God? Can we become ever closer in some resonance frequency, some harmonic, some quantum connection? Is there some actual connection between God and God's creation that God designed and built into the universe that goes beyond just agreeing upon ideas, values, beliefs?

What happened to Moses on the mountain? What happened to his face? What were Adam and Eve covered in before the fall? Where did that light come from?

As we partake of the Word, the truth and connect with our Creator is there some aspect of God's reality, that we don't fully comprehend, that connects us with God and we become conduits of greater life energy from God?

When Jesus asks us to let our light shine could it mean more than just truth—could it mean that as we come into unity with God His life-giving energy and presence dwells in us and we eventually will shine—actually shine?

What did Moses and Elijah look like at the mount of transfiguration?

TUESDAY

Benefits of Scripture, what benefits have you found in studying God's Word?

Read first paragraph, "There are multiple benefits…" I love this—they are referencing the law of worship—exactly right, this is a design law.

Then, if by reading the Scriptures we ingest truth which leads us to trust God and ultimately we partake of the divine nature and via the law of worship are changed to be more and more like God, what did Jesus mean when He said:

> You diligently study the Scriptures because you think that by them you possess eternal life. These are the Scriptures that testify about me, yet you refuse to come to me to have life. (John 5:39-40 NIV84)

What is happening here? How is it possible to read and study Scripture, yet not become a partaker of the divine nature, nor become more like Jesus?

Did they have the wrong Scriptures?

Did they have the wrong premises when they approached Scripture? Such as?

- God's law is imposed law, therefore Scripture is a law book, or code book
- Salvation is found in the right law keeping
- Salvation is found in the right rituals
- Salvation is found in the right sacrifices
- Salvation is found in belonging to the right group

What is the right understanding of Scripture—a revelation of God to humankind of what?

- God's nature, character, government, law, methods
- Satan and sin
- The Great Controversy
- The plan of salvation

Consider this quote from the book Education p. 190:

> The student should learn to view the word as a whole, and to see the relation of its parts. He should gain a knowledge of its grand central theme, of God's original purpose for the world, of the rise of the great controversy, and of the work of redemption. He should understand the nature of the two principles that are contending for supremacy, and should learn to trace their working through the records of history and prophecy, to the great consummation. He should see how this controversy enters into every phase of human experience; how in every act of life he himself reveals the one or the other of the two > antagonistic motives; and how, whether he will or not, he is even now deciding upon which side of the controversy he will be found. Ed 190.2

Do we have a view that integrates the entire inspired record? Can we see the grand theme? Can we understand the purpose of the world, the rise of the great controversy, the two antagonistic motives—what are they? How does the plan of salvation work? Who decides your salvation?

Read the bottom green section, "Think about a time…" For me personally, when I have faced difficulties, the way the Word of God benefited me was not in some prose, or sentiment, or promise, or cliché, but in helping me experience God. My strength was not from the book, but from the author of the book, my comfort was not from the Scripture, but from connecting with the God of the Scripture. And this is how the Bible helped me—it helped me connect with God in truth, in reality, in meaningful and real ways.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Someone has counted…" I really like how they emphasized that God's promises to give us everything necessary to be victorious over sin in our lives—for eternal life. The promises of God are not given for us to attain all this world has to offer.

What does it mean that the Bible is filled with promises?

- That God is a God who is reaching out to us, who loves us, who has our good at heart, who is filled with infinite blessings for us…but why does God make promises?
- When are promises necessary? Or, another way to ask it, what is the purpose of giving a promise? Isn't it to instill confidence in the one to whom the promise is given?
- Why is the Bible filled with so many promises? Because humanity is filled with so many lies about God, so much fear, selfishness, and sin and thus doubts God's goodness. Therefore God is constantly giving of Himself what we need to overcome our distrust of Him. thoughts?

So, I am thankful the Bible is filled with promises from God, because it reveals a God who will do everything that is in harmony with His nature of love and truth to save us.

But what about the idea that the Bible promises are made to each one of us?

In the sense that they reveal our trustworthy God and we can all gain confidence in God as we read the record of His promises, then this is true. But, does it mean every individual promise is made to each individual on earth?

- Is the promise that the Savior would be your descendant made to you?
- Did God make you a promise that you will have a descendant who will reign on your throne forever?

Are some promises of God conditional?

Consider the promise of salvation—it is an interesting promise because it is unconditional and conditional.

It is unconditional in that God promised in Eden that the Seed of the woman would crush the serpent's head, that the Messiah would come and would redeem Adam's sin and save the species human. This promise is not conditional—God would fulfill this in His own person. And in so doing God would also provide the way for any individual human to partake of the victory achieved by Jesus for their individual salvation—but that is conditional.

It depends upon them accepting what Jesus has done, of being persuaded in their own mind, of choosing to surrender their hearts, let go of fear and selfishness and trust God with their lives, of preferring God's design law methods over the imperial systems of this world. Why is salvation conditional upon our individual agreement and choice? Because it is the only way to retain our individuality—we must agree and choose and accept in order to be transformed while still being us.

Some people get confused on the unconditional the unconditional elements of God's actions in His Son overthrowing Satan and redeeming the species, and apply this to every individual human teaching that every individual will be saved regardless of their free choice. Reality simply doesn't work that way.

The lesson points out that God promises to provide for our physical needs—hmmm… Why did many Jews stop believing in God after the holocaust? Because many prayed, claimed the Bible promises and were not delivered. Many of survivors who lost so many family gave up on God because of this.

What about Christians in the Dark Ages—were any martyred? What happened to God's promises to provide for their physical needs?

Read the last paragraph, "There are so many…" I am not a fan of this paragraph, there is a truth here, but it isn't presented in the best light.

It is true that if we have no faith in God, don't want Him in our life, rebel against Him, persist in sinful living then our lack of faith obstructs God's power in our life and we should not expect miracles from God in such a state.

However, this paragraph could lead to the false conclusion that if one doesn't experience a miracle then it is because of a lack of faith—this is a lie. Consider the book of Job—did Job have a lack of faith? Yet, what did he experience?

In fact, in my book The God-Shaped Brain I describe the danger in believing such things and point out that in Scripture most of the time miracles are performed for the weak in faith, not the strong in faith.

- When Gideon was called by God to defeat the Midianites did he ask for the miracles of the fleece because his faith was strong or because his faith was weak and he needed encouraging?

- At Mount Carmel when the fire fell from God consuming the sacrifice offered by Elijah, was the miracle given for Elijah to strengthen his faith or was the miracle given for the people who were weak in faith?

- When Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego were thrown into the fiery furnace God miraculously intervened to save their lives, but for what purpose? Was it primarily to extend the lives of the men thrown into the furnace or was it a means of exposing the impotence of the golden idol, the truth about God and of reaching Nebuchadnezzar, a man weak in faith? By contrast notice the genuine mature faith of the three worthies who when threatened with a burning death put their lives into God's hands and trusted Him with the outcome knowing God could save, but allowing God not to intervene. They said, "O Nebuchadnezzar, we do not need to defend ourselves before you in this matter. If we are thrown into the blazing furnace, the God we serve is able to save us from it, and he will rescue us from your hand, O king. But even if he does not, we want you to know, O king, that we will not serve your gods or worship the image of gold you have set up." Daniel 3:17,18.

- Consider the lives of the Apostles, God miraculously intervened in many places (opening prison doors), but always as a means of spreading the gospel. Were the miracles of healing done through the Apostles done in order to strengthen the Apostles faith, or to strengthen the faith of those to whom the Apostles were preaching the gospel? When the Apostles eventually lost their lives, God did not miraculously intervene to save them (with the exception of John). Did God refuse to perform miracles to save His Apostles because they didn't have enough faith or was their faith so strong that they trusted God with their very lives? Was their faith so intense that God didn't have to perform a miracle to help them maintain their confidence in Him?

Many people believe that miracles are a good barometer of who we should believe or in whom we should place our faith. But in Eden the miracle of a talking serpent didn't make the serpent trustworthy. Satan often confuses the mind and obstructs the way to God by the use of miraculous signs and wonders. In fact, the Bible prophecies that before Christ returns Satanic agencies will perform miracles as a way of deceiving many (Mark 13:22, Rev 13:13, 16:14). Jesus said that in the end there will be those who claim to be Christian who have performed miracles in His name but who were never on God's side (Matthew 7:21-23).

God wins people to faith in Him by the revelation of His trustworthiness as revealed ultimately in life and death of Jesus Christ. Miracles can be counterfeited, the truth as revealed by Jesus cannot. The question is never about God's ability to perform miracles, the question is, do we know God well enough that our confidence will not be shaken when He doesn't miraculously intervene.

Genuine faith is not having confidence that God can perform miracles, but is trusting Him even when He doesn't.

2020 3Q Making Friends for God: Lesson 8
Ministering Like Jesus

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

I received this email this week:

> To Dr Jennings and the entire class and all of the online people, without this class me and my spouse would truly be lost and stuck in an impossible place with God constructs that were ruining our lives.
> You happily sent us a case of the Remedy about 3 years ago and we gave them out to others who we knew are stuck believing in penal substitution god. It's not an exaggeration to say that your Bible class has been a life saver..
> For all the reasons that you teach, so many in our lives are immovable from their positions, (parents, other friends and family). It's hard, even depressing, to see everyone reaching out for comfort from all the wrong sources.
> The last few months it's been especially hard for us as we struggle to make God our first priority, you've mentioned several things that we are still dealing with and sadly I know we've come up short.
> But God has blessed us with a child and we have never been so happy (most of the time), we hope to be the best parents one could have. We also wanted others in the class to know that they are very much appreciated, Russel, Wendel, Linda and all the rest, you are in the prayers from online participants and thank you for being great!!

Read memory verse: "But when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion for them, because they were weary and scattered, like sheep having no shepherd" (Matthew 9:36 NKJV).

Why were they like sheep without a shepherd? Didn't they have the Bible at the synagogues? Didn't they have the ceremonial system? Didn't they have the Sabbath? Didn't they have the priesthood? Why were they like sheep without a shepherd?

Because they didn't have the truth about God and His design law for life. Why didn't they have this truth, isn't it in Scripture? Isn't it revealed in the little drama of the ceremonial system? Doesn't the Sabbath declare God's as Creator and doesn't creation operate upon design law—so why were the like sheep without a shepherd?

Because Satan is a liar and Satan has been lying about God's character and God's law since the beginning and the enemy's lies have been so effective that all of these tools to reveal truth about God have been misunderstood and misapplied. The people needed God Himself to come and reveal the truth.

Here is a short section from the book The Desire of Ages:

> Looking unto Jesus we see that it is the glory of our God to give. [What do you think of when you think of God's glory—fire, lightning, or love?] "I do nothing of Myself," said Christ; "the living Father hath sent Me, and I live by the Father." "I seek not Mine own glory," but the glory of Him that sent Me. John 8:28; 6:57; 8:50; 7:18. In these words is set forth the great principle which is the law of life for the universe. [What does the law of life mean? And what is it? The law of love, design law that originates in God's character and emanates from Him, and is perfectly lived out in Jesus] All things Christ received from God, but He took to give. So in the heavenly courts, in His ministry for all created beings: through the beloved Son, the Father's life flows out to all; [this isn't just beautiful prose this is reality, the life-energy from God flows out to all living things from God] through the Son it returns, in praise and joyous service, a tide of love, to the great Source of all. And thus through Christ the circuit of beneficence is complete, representing the character of the great Giver, the law of life.
> In heaven itself this law was broken. Sin originated in self-seeking.[What is sin? Is it rule breaking, or breaking the very protocol of love that life is built upon? If sin is breaking the protocol for life, what is the result of sin? Death, and if one is out of harmony with life, what is needed to save a person in sin? The restoration of the law of life within them. Do you see how the penal legal lie obstructs God's healing plan?] Lucifer, the covering cherub, desired to be first in heaven. He sought to gain control of heavenly beings, to draw them away from their Creator, and to win their homage to himself. [Gain control of heavenly beings—wow, how? Lies believed break the circle of love and trust, incite fear and selfishness. Do we see this in society today—lies gaining control of people? Notice the very next words.] Therefore he misrepresented God, attributing to Him the desire for self-exaltation. With his own evil characteristics he sought to invest the loving Creator. Thus he deceived angels. Thus he deceived men. [Satan lied about God in heaven; he lied about God in Eden and he continues to lie about God through his agencies on earth including the false doctrines in Christianity rooted in the lie that God's law functions like human law and thus God is the source of inflicted pain and suffering] He led them to doubt the word of God, and to distrust His goodness.[Do you believe a being to be good if you simultaneously believe that being will torture and kill you if he is not paid the proper price not to? Do you see the evil of penal substitution theology?] Because God is a God of justice and terrible majesty, Satan caused them to look upon Him as severe and unforgiving. [What is justice? Doing what is right and just, as defined by what? The law, so if we can get beings to accept the lie that God's law is like human law, imposed rules, then what does justice look like? It giving proper punishments to rule-breakers. And from who metes out the punishment? So, Satan gets beings to see God as severe and unforgiving by lying about God's law. But when we worship God as Creator and understand

> His laws are design laws, then we realize justice is doing what is right, which is seeking to heal and save by restoring sinners to harmony with His design for life; but it is also right and just to leave people free not to cooperate with God for healing and sadly reap what their persistent choice causes—eternal death] Thus he drew men to join him in rebellion against God, and the night of woe settled down upon the world.
> The earth was dark through misapprehension of God. That the gloomy shadows might be lightened, that the world might be brought back to God, Satan's deceptive power was to be broken. [What caused the darkness in this world? Lies about God, then what is needed to lift the darkness? The truth about God. How can this be achieved? Can the lies and distrust of God be removed by threatening to kill all who don't accept heaven's view of things? Never, notice what comes next in the quote] This could not be done by force. The exercise of force is contrary to the principles of God's government; He desires only the service of love; and love cannot be commanded; it cannot be won by force or authority. Only by love is love awakened. [Again do you see how corrupt Christianity has become by accepting the lie that God's law works like human law and justice is to inflict punishments upon rule breakers. In other words, to believe sin can be overcome by force, which leads Christians to believe it is righteous to use force either through government or through riots or wars to achieve their goals.] To know God is to love Him; His character must be manifested in contrast to the character of Satan. This work only one Being in all the universe could do. Only He who knew the height and depth of the love of God could make it known. Upon the world's dark night the Sun of Righteousness must rise, "with healing in His wings." Malachi 4:2. DA 22.1

Who is the Sun of Righteousness? Jesus, and what does it mean that he must rise with healing in his wings? This is a quote from Malachi 4:2, let's read that prophecy together Malachi 4:1-6 NIV84:

> Surely the day is coming; it will burn like a furnace. All the arrogant and every evildoer will be stubble, and that day that is coming will set them on fire," says the LORD Almighty. "Not a root or a branch will be left to them. But for you who revere my name, the sun of righteousness will rise with healing in its wings. And you will go out and leap like calves released from the stall. Then you will trample down the wicked; they will be ashes under the soles of your feet on the day when I do these things," says the LORD Almighty. "Remember the law of my servant Moses, the decrees and laws I gave him at Horeb for all Israel. "See, I will send you the prophet Elijah before that great and dreadful day of the LORD comes. He will turn the hearts of the fathers to their children, and the hearts of the children to their fathers;

The Hebrew translated wings doesn't mean just wings of a bird that cause flight, but also wings like the wings of a building, the portions that extend out from the center—and what extends out from the Sun? Beams of light—so the Sun of Righteousness arises with healing in the beams of light extending out from Him.

This is talking about the second coming of Christ. It is telling us that all the sinners who refuse healing will be annihilated, die and be no more, be turned back to dust. But those of us who trust Jesus don't have to worry because we will be saved. His transforming and healing truth and love will rise on us like the sun, rising with healing in its rays.

Think about this—what is being taught?

What caused the loyal angels and Adam and Eve to become disloyal to God? Lies about God. What is the truth metaphorically likened to? Light, truth is light, lies believed cause darkness.

What has Satan's lies done to the world? Covered it in darkness—darkness covers the people a gross darkness the people.

But before Jesus returns, He, the Sun of Righteousness, rises with healing in His rays.

Imagine you are in a dark cave for days and days with no light and you are brought out immediately into the bright sunlight, what is that like? But what happens if you are brought out before dawn and watch the sun rise?

The Sun of Righteousness, Jesus, at this time in human history is rising with truth, ever increasing amounts of truth, the truth about God's character, the truth about God's law as design law, the truth about God's methods, and those who love Him embrace the truth and are transformed by the application of the truth in their hearts by the Holy Spirit. Thus, when Jesus appears in His full unveiled glory, they are ready to be in His presence. Notice, they are being healed by this process.

This is the same as saying they are being cleansed, which is the exact same truth taught in the cleansing of the sanctuary message, that God cleanses His people of sin so they are ready to meet Him. For the Scripture says that when He returns we shall see Him as He is for we shall be like Him (1John 3:2).

But for those who don't love the truth, who cling to lies, rather than being healed, they are hardened in lies and selfishness and when they are exposed to the full unveiled glory of God their unhealed condition causes them torment of mind, heart, soul until they are consumed with guilt, shame, fear and choose not to live in such a kingdom of infinite truth and love; they voluntarily surrender their lives back to God, and are turned back to dust.

But before this happens the prophet Elijah must come. Why? Because, just as Elijah called the people to choose between the true God and the false god, so too a message like that is to go to the world. And people today must choose between the true Creator God or the false Baal god. And who was Baal?

Baal was the son of El (i.e., El-ohim or El-Shaddai). He was the god of weather and was often called "Almighty" and "Lord of the Earth." Baal was the god who brought rain, thunder, lightning, who fertilized the earth, controlled the sun, and brought the harvest. Baal fought the great serpent leviathan, as well as battled against Mot, the god of death. And most amazing of all, it was taught that Baal died in his battle with Mot and was resurrected to bring life to earth.[1]

So what was the problem with worshiping a god who was the son of El, who controlled the weather, who brought rain, sunshine, and fertility, who blessed with a full harvest, who warred against the great serpent and death, who died and was resurrected to bring life to the earth? What was wrong with this god? What was Elijah opposing? What made Baal worship false?

Here is what one Christian writer identifies as the central distortion in Baal worship:

> "Determined to keep the people in deception, the priests of Baal continue to offer sacrifices to their gods and to call upon them night and day to refresh the earth. With costly offerings the priests attempt to appease the anger of their gods ... " (Prophets and Kings 124)

The Bible confirms this:

> "So the prophets prayed louder and cut themselves with knives and daggers, according to their custom, until blood flowed" (1 Kings 18:28).

So putting all of this together and what does Malachi's prophecy tell us? That Jesus is going to rise at the end of time with ever-increasing truth about God to lighten those who have eyes to see, and that truth will be the Elijah message, the truth about God as Creator and His law as design law that exposes Baal worship as false, particularly the lie that God's law functions like human law and God requires some legal payment to appease or assuage His wrath. This is the same as the three angels' messages.

To give this message is what it means to give the message of Jesus, to give the testimony of Jesus—to bring people back under the care of their heavenly Shepherd.

Read first paragraph, "Jesus genuinely…" There is no doubt Jesus loved people and always sought to pour God's love into their lives.

Who decided what Jesus gave to people? Did Jesus always give what people wanted? Why not? Does love give what people want or what is actually best for them?

Did Jesus ever leave people with needs that He did not meet? When and why?

- Nazareth they didn't believe in Him
- The curiosity of Herod who wanted to see miracles
- The people when they wanted to have more food
- What about when Jesus was tired and need to rest or spend time with His Father? Was Jesus being selfish to retire from the needy for rest and personal time with His Father? Is there a lesson in this for us?

What limits what God does in people's lives? Isn't it the condition of the people and the circumstances they are in?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Jesus always looked for the good in others…" No doubt again that Jesus loves us all and seeks to save sinners. But absolutist statements trigger my mind to think, is this true? Is it true that Jesus "always" looked for the good in people? If so, how, what does it mean?

What about Matthew 23 was Jesus looking at the good?

> "Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You shut the kingdom of heaven in men's faces. You yourselves do not enter, nor will you let those enter who are trying to….You snakes! You brood of vipers! How will you escape being condemned to hell?" (vv 14, 33 NIV84)

Was Jesus looking at the good in them? No, He wasn't looking at the good in them, but He was looking out for the good of them and others.

Understanding design law, Jesus was diagnosing their condition and revealing that diagnosis to them with evidence. This is the presentation of the truth, as a final attempt to bring conviction for their salvation. Jesus wasn't seeking to condemn them but to save them, thus Jesus was seeking their good, by exposing to them their terminal state, their false religion based on imposed law, giving them the opportunity to reject the lies and embrace the truth and be saved. I believe His voice was filled with heartache, compassion and concern for them—not hostility.

Jesus saw the good—the health of character—that they could experience if they would allow Him to heal them. Like a doctor can see past the disease to how well a person can be if they take the treatment. But in this case Jesus was sad because they were sick and clung to a false remedy of their own devising and rejected the actual cure and they didn't even know it.

From The Remedy Matthew 23:14-39*:*

"Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! Your false teachings obstruct people from being healed and entering God's kingdom of love. You certainly are not healed and do not enter into salvation, but worse still, you actively work to prevent others, who want to be saved, from being healed.

14 Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You con widows from their homes, yet you make public displays of praying long prayers. Unhealed you choose to remain! Your suffering will be most severe.

15 "Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You go around the world trying to convert one person, and when you do, you indoctrinate them so deeply into your false penal system that they become twice as much the child of lies and selfishness as you are.

16 "Misery is yours, you irrational and unthinking teachers! Unbelievably, you say: 'If anyone swears by the temple, it doesn't count; but if anyone swears by the gold of the temple, then they are bound by the oath.'17 You make no sense at all! Think about it: Which is truly most important–the gold, or the temple that makes the gold holy?18 Another of your sayings is: 'If anyone swears by the altar, it doesn't count; but if anyone swears by the gift on the altar then they are bound by the oath.'19 You don't understand the simplest truths! Think about it: Which is truly most important–the gift, or the altar that makes the gift holy?20 Don't you get it? The one who swears by the altar swears by it and everything on it.21 And whoever swears by the temple, swears by it and by the One whose dwelling place it is.22And oaths sworn before heaven are promises made before God's throne; and the One who sits on it knows the true intent of the heart.

23 "Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You keep rules, such as proudly paying a pre-tax tithe and even giving a tenth of the herbs in your garden, but you fail to do what actually matters–to live in harmony with God's Law, which is his design for life. You fail to 'do what is right because it is right.' You are not merciful but judgmental and critical, and you cannot be trusted to protect those struggling with sin. You should have lived lives of love for others, without neglecting the simple instructions of God.24 You are truly irrational and unthinking teachers! You are so focused on keeping the rules — such as dietary laws — that you fail to understand that their purpose is to promote health. You're so confused that you actually think it would be a virtue to die of starvation rather than eat something not on the 'approved' list.

25 "Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You work so hard to make yourselves look good on the outside, but the inside–the heart–is full of selfishness, arrogance, and greed.26 You truly don't understand anything about God's kingdom! The mind, the character, the heart — they all must be cleansed first, and then the outside will also be clean.

[27] "Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You are like highly polished burial vaults: they look beautiful on the outside, but inside are nothing but the bones of the dead, and everything that defiles.[28] You are just like that. On the outside you appear to people as good and righteous, but on the inside you are full of lies, selfishness, and evil. You are great counterfeits!

[29] "Misery is yours, you who teach a legal religion, you penal theologians, you counterfeits! You go to great lengths to give praise and honor to God's spokespersons and church leaders of the past.[30] You say, 'If we would have lived back then, we would never have rejected God's spokespersons or joined those who killed them.'[31] By such claims you condemn yourselves, because you acknowledge such actions are wrong, yet by your actions today you reveal you are the true descendants of those who murdered God's spokespersons. You're just like them[32] and your sins pile on top of the sins of your forefathers!

[33] "You slippery serpents! You brood of venomous vipers! You think you can cure yourselves with your own snake oil?[34] It's because of your false remedy — your penal legal trickery — that I am sending my spokespersons, instructors and Bible scholars, some of whom you will attack, kill, and crucify; others you will beat–some physically, some verbally–right in church, running them out of town with beatings and the most vicious gossip.[35] The pure and holy lives that have been sacrificed through history — from Abel, all the way through to Zechariah the son of Berekiah, who was murdered right in church, at the altar — testify the truth to you.[36] But the sad truth is that this generation will reject all this evidence.

[37] "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you sick and hard-hearted people who have rejected the Remedy, killed God's spokespersons, and stoned those sent to you with the cure! How my heart has longed to pull you to safety, like a hen gathers her chicks under her wings, but you would not let me.[38] Look around: I leave your house to you abandoned without Remedy, and infected without cure.[39] For I tell you plainly, when you see me next, you will say: 'He is the One sent by God to reveal God's true character and provide the Remedy.'"

Read second paragraph, "The scribes'…" How many do this today, live in fear of something in the environment contaminating them. Perhaps being afraid of someone at church starting up a conversation that is not a Sabbath topic, talking about a ball game or the latest news and afraid that to discuss such things would breaking the Sabbath. So they come in to church late and leave early to ensure they don't interact with anyone that would contaminate them with sin.

The lesson points out that Jesus used the metaphor of salt for His followers, what lessons do we learn from this?

Matthew 5:13 from The Remedy: "You are like salt to humanity: preserving the knowledge of God, providing the flavor of heaven, and increasing the thirst for God."

Are we like this—do we preserve the knowledge of God, give people a taste of heavenly truth and love and inspire them to thirst for God?

The lesson points out that we are to be light to the world and that the light doesn't avoid darkness it shines into the darkness.

How do we shine the light of God's truth and love into the darkness of this world? And how can Satan trick people to exchange light for darkness?

- Light is always truth, love and freedom, i.e. the methods of God.
- Darkness is always lies, selfishness and coercions, i.e. the methods of Satan.

Satan gets good people to exchange the light for darkness by exchanging any of the elements of God for the elements of Satan.

Martin Luther King Jr. wrote:

> Darkness cannot drive out darkness; only light can do that. Hate cannot drive out hate; only love can do that (as quoted in Strength to Love, 1963).

Can we see movements afoot in the world today that are seeking to trap good people into using Satan's methods to achieve their goals?

The following is from an interview entitled with Ellen G. White on November 20, 1895 entitled "Words of Caution Regarding Sunday Labor, the Colored People, and the Way to Oppose Error," she said:

> This is God's world, and wicked men are simply permitted to be in it. This earth was deeded to Abraham and his children, and we will come into possession of it before long. [Who are Abraham's children? All those who have the faith like Abraham, who have been circumcised in heart are considered children of Abraham. Remember he is the father of many nations. This is not about genetics, but about who has partaken of Jesus by faith and been renewed in heart like Abraham.] We must not feel that we will receive any help from those around us, but we must be where we can help them. 5MR 67.1 [We don't look for humans who are not on God's team to help us, i.e. human governments or political movements, we look to where we can help those who don't know Jesus to come to know God and God's methods]
> When you begin to work with parliaments, that sets the devil to work, and if he cannot make the work hard for us, who can? [If we seek human governments to work with us in the advancement of God's kingdom we set the devil to work. We corrupt the gospel and the church by ultimately bringing in the methods of the world—imperialism and coercion into the work. This corrupts the minds and hearts of people and obstructs the kingdom of God.] Do not let your work be known any more than necessary. Let the truth work. [How does the truth work? We present evidence and truth and leave people free and the truth exposes lies and transform hearts and minds.] Our best course is not to get up an exemption. [Meaning, not to seek governmental to give us legal exemption for our ministry or activity. Just go about living out

God's kingdom, ministering and loving others. Don't seek to get governments to give permits or laws supporting your work.] God has given light that the least said about these things the better. The devil and all his hosts are working to destroy God's law, and when you begin to work on those lines he will stir up men to believe that we do not regard their laws, nor obey their decrees. [When we seek to promote God's law by seeking governmental involvement we will stir up the devil and ungodly men to oppose us by passing their laws.]

We are not to reveal all our purposes and plans to men. Satan is working in an underhanded way, and he will continue so to work. He will not work openly and above board. His power is to work upon human minds to make a start, to set a powerful movement on foot before the people's minds are prepared for it. [Do we see this happening today? Underhanded methods, dishonest methods that are not above board, claiming one thing but doing another, designed to work upon human minds to set powerful movements into motion?]

Question: Can we not get the truth before the minds of the members of parliament in a quiet way, and by furnishing them reading?

From the light that has been given me, we should fear that these men and rulers will take their position against the work and then they will act like the devil; [We should not expect the political leaders on either side to act like Jesus, they will act like the devil. Why? Because the devil's methods are imposed law with coercion and that is the only way human governments work. So no matter how righteous the goal, when the church seeks to get the government to advance it, the methods will be those of the devil. The only righteous (God ordained) purpose of human governments is to restrain evil, there is no God ordained place for human governments to advance righteousness because righteousness is a matter of the heart and human governments have no role there.] but every advantage should be taken to get acquainted with these men; not in a way to produce anything like prejudice. We must appear to them as trying to help others, working on the line of the Christian help work. [Notice, we should show the politicians that we have no interest in politics, we have interest in them as people, we have interest to help people through ministering to them, not through changing the government.] As they see the good work we do on these lines, their prejudice will be removed in a large measure, and their hearts will be open for more. [And when their hearts are open for more what should we present, what should we share?] Then we should not present the Sabbath, but let us present Christ. [Not the false Christ presented in the penal legal lie, but the true Christ who reveals the character of God and His kingdom of love.] What if they should begin to oppose you and say, Oh, that's a Seventh-day Adventist?—Lift Christ up higher and still higher. It means a great deal to be wise as serpents and harmless as doves. 5MR 67.5 [And how did Jesus work? Did Jesus work politically to change government, or did Jesus work to help people?]

The world is not to be condemned until after they have the light. We must tell them the simple story of conversion. [The light of what? The light of God's kingdom of love, His design law, the testimony of Jesus, calling people to the eternal gospel and the worship of Him who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water. We are calling people out of Babylon, the confusing system of imposed law to worship our Creator whose laws is design law. Can we convert people through legislation, through elections, through governmental action? How are people converted, what is that simple story of conversion?] The people are to be pitied, and we want to soften them so that the Spirit of the Lord can mold them. They have been receiving false ideas. If we come close to them, and show them the love of Christ, we can do much more for them.... [The core falsehood is that God's law works like human law, which leads to the lie that we can achieve a righteous society with the right politicians, laws, judges and policies]

Question: Would it not be as well for us to present principles rather than dwell upon what the governments will do?

We have nothing to do with the government's actions. [Wait, didn't she live in a democracy, a representative government? Aren't we supposed to use our political voice to advance the agenda of God? NO! It always corrupts because all human governments are beastly and use the methods of coercion. We are not to do this. We are to stand up for truth, to oppose evil, to speak out against abuses—but with the focus on changing the hearts of people, to bring them to conversion, not to pass laws that force people to act like we want with hearts that are unconverted.] It is our duty to obey God, and when they arrest you, take no thought what you shall do. What you are to do is to follow Christ step by step. We need not commence weeks beforehand to examine the question and plan out what we will do when they do so and so, neither what we are to say. Study the truth, and the Spirit of the Lord will bring to your remembrance what you shall say…

If we should let loose of Jesus and take up our own spirit, it may take months, or perhaps years to counteract that one wrong move. [What does the spirit of self do? What does Jesus lead us to do?] Unless many of us are converted and become as little children, we shall never see the kingdom of God… [Was she speaking to people who were not members of the church? No, she was speaking to people who were members of the church, yet refers to them as unconverted, why? Because it is about heart change from the methods of the world, from fear, selfishness, imperialism, coercion, to the methods of God, truth, love, freedom, design law—trust in God so that we don't try and force our own way. She was acknowledging that the wheat and tares grow together in the church and many of the church members need true conversion.]

In cases where we are brought before the courts, we are to give up our rights unless it brings us in collision with God. It is not our rights we are pleading for, but God's right to our service. [Wow, what did you hear? Is the devil trapping millions of Christians with movements right now focused on claiming their legal rights and then seeking to gain political power to force their way?]

Instead of resisting the penalties imposed unjustly upon us, it would be better to take heed to the Saviour's words:- "When they persecute you in this city, flee ye into another: for verily I say unto you, Ye shall not have gone over the cities of Israel, till the Son of man be come."—Manuscript 22a, 1895, pp. 4-6. ("Words of Caution Regarding Sunday Labor, the Colored People, and the Way to Oppose Error," Interview, November 20, 1895.) 5MR 67-69

Do you realize there are powerful movements at work in Christianity that would call this perspective evil. These theological movements teach Jesus' life was necessary to reveal the goodness and love of God to win us to trust in God, but Jesus' suffering and death was not necessary for our salvation. In fact, these theologies teach that the crucifixion of Christ was merely the result of evil people rejecting God's love and His death has no benefit for our salvation. Further, this false theology teaches that to promote the sacrifice of Christ on the cross as a virtue, as having salvation value, is a means to exploit the poor and colored people of the world by teaching them to suffer, to sacrifice. This false theology teaches that we should not look to the Cross of Christ and trust God in our suffering, but should rise up to throw off the oppressor. Thus, this theology teaches the death of Christ was not necessary for salvation and that such ideas are taught by the powerholders as a way to exploit the masses.

What do you say about such views?

That they have a fundamental misunderstanding of reality. They are reacting to the lie that God's law works like human law. They misunderstand the nature of sin, the law of God, the methods of God and the purpose of Jesus' mission on earth. They don't realize that it wasn't possible for Jesus to procure the remedy to save humanity without the cross—that it was at the cross that God's law of love destroyed the law of sin and death, and in the person of Jesus cured the sin condition in humanity. That is where Jesus became our Remedy, our source of salvation (Heb 5:8,9). Thus, this theology, which appeals to modern political movements, is another subtle trap of Satan to try and remove the sacrifice of Christ as central to our salvation.

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, "Jesus' statement…" How many Sabbaths had the centurion kept? Did he eat a kosher diet? Sacrifice at Temple? Pay a regular tithe?

Then how could he be close to God's kingdom? Did the religious leaders like this perspective that Jesus was revealing? Why not? What about today?

What if we told people who trusted Jesus, lived lives of loving service to others, but didn't go to church on Sabbath, didn't pay tithe, didn't eat a vegetarian diet, had wine twice a week with dinner, that they had more faith than our pastor or conference president?

What is the difference between a compliment and flattery?

Consider this historic quote from the book Eternity Past writing about the war between God and Satan:

> God could employ only such means as were consistent with truth and righteousness. Satan could use what God could not—flattery and deceit. It was therefore necessary to demonstrate before the inhabitants of heaven and all the world that God's government is just, His law perfect. Satan had made it appear that he himself was seeking to promote the good of the universe. The true character of the usurper must be understood by all. He must have time to manifest himself by his wicked works. EP 14.2

What is the difference between a compliment and flattery?

- A compliment is sincere praise or commendation based on fact and reality intended to affirm and validate
- Flattery is insincere praise based not based on fact and intended to mislead, entice or deceive

Why must time be given for Satan to manifest his character and methods? Why couldn't God just tell everyone that Satan was wrong?

Can lies be effectively removed from people's minds with declarations alone, or does evidence have to be revealed?

Since God's laws are design laws, deviations from His designs laws will always reveal, over time, destruction, pain, suffering and death. Only in harmony with God and His laws is their health, happiness and life.

TUESDAY

The lesson points out that Jesus spent much of His ministry healing people, why? What is revealed by healing? Why kind of law does health operate upon?

Is there a judicial process in healing people?

Can people live in health while violating the laws of health? Miracles of God can certainly give immediate physical healing to any physical ailment, but will health be retained if a person persists in violating the laws of health?

Do you see why Jesus after healing often instructed to live better lives or to sin no more?

What lesson does this teach about salvation?

Is our salvation exclusively and only God's responsibility? What is our responsibility and what is God's?

What about in healing our relationships? Does God have a role? Do we have a role? If we do everything perfectly in harmony with God's laws, designs, methods, instructions, will that guarantee that we have healthy relationships? Why not? Because healthy relationship require healthy people—and we can only choose health for ourselves, if the other person is unhealthy then the relationship will be unhealthy.

The lesson points out that in some healings Jesus linked healing from sickness with forgiveness for sin—why?

What did the people in Christ's day believe about the cause of sickness? They believed a lie that all sickness was a result of sin, that is why the disciples asked who sinned the man or his parents that he was born blind.

So, when Jesus met people with serious sickness, and they also had terrible guilt from believing that their sickness was punishment by God for their sin. Or, in the case of the paralytic, perhaps his sickness was a result of sin, Jesus wanted to do more than free their bodies of illness, He wanted to free their minds from guilt and shame and reconcile them to God. So, He linked the healing with forgiveness when necessary.

And how did the religious leaders respond to Jesus healing the sick, whether He actually stated their sins were forgiven or not? They were not happy, why? Because in their mind the people were being punished by God for sin, and Jesus was overruling what they believed were God's just punishments for sin.

Isn't it interesting, rather than examining their own beliefs about reality, considering whether they were misunderstanding the nature of sin, God's character and methods, instead they judged Jesus to be in error and condemned Him as working for Satan in performing miracles?

Do we see any such distortions in the way people deal with truth today?

WEDNESDAY

Read bottom green section, "Is it possible to live the abundant life…" Fanny Crosby the song writer who wrote many famous hymns such as:

- "All the Way My Savior Leads Me"--1875,
- "Blessed Assurance"--1873,
- "He Hideth My Soul"--1890,
- "More Like Jesus"
- "Jesus Is Tenderly Calling You Home (Jesus is Calling)"--1883,
- "Near the Cross"--1869,
- "Praise Him! Praise Him! Jesus, Our Blessed Redeemer!"--1869,
- "Redeemed, How I Love to Proclaim It!"--1882,
- "Rescue the Perishing"--1869,
- "Safe in the Arms of Jesus"--1868,
- "Take the World, But Give Me Jesus"--1879,

- "Tell Me the Story of Jesus"--1880,
- "To God Be the Glory"--1875,

She was blind from infancy and later in life, wrote:

> It seemed intended by the blessed providence of God that I should be blind all my life, and I thank him for the dispensation. If perfect earthly sight were offered me tomorrow I would not accept it. I might not have sung hymns to the praise of God if I had been distracted by the beautiful and interesting things about me.
> If I had a choice, I would still choose to remain blind...for when I die, the first face I will ever see will be the face of my blessed Saviour.

Can we have the abundant life with sickness, poverty, infirmity?

What is it that Jesus promises us today?

What happened to all the people Jesus healed of physical illness 2000 years ago?

Is God's primary concern that we live an extra 50 years here on earth? What is God's primary concern? That we receive eternal life, that we are reconciled to Him.

THURSDAY

Read the third paragraph, "The Old Testament…" I love, this, so well said, yes, salvation is healing. What other Bible references reveal this reality?

- circumcision of the heart
- remove heart of stone
- rebirth
- mind of Christ
- renewal
- cleansing
- adoption—but by what means? Legal declaration? No, by reaching us with His love so that we adopt His truth and love and are transformed into unity with Him. This is how we become part of God's family.
- Ransom—what does a ransom do? It frees from bondage, and what holds us in bondage? The lies of Satan we believe and our own carnal natures. Then what is the price to free us? The truth that destroys the lies and wins us to trust and a new nature—which is applied where? In us, so again the reality is our healing and transformation and restoration back to unity with God and His design for life.

2020 3Q Making Friends for God: Lesson 9
Developing a Winning Attitude

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "The more we study…" No question about it God's love is infinite and it is absolutely true that His forgiveness is infinitely deeper than any sin—but was the problem with sin ever a problem with God's forgiveness? If Jesus didn't die would God be unforgiving toward sinners? If Jesus didn't die would God refuse to forgive, or be prohibited by some law from forgiving?

No—what is the issue—it is not one of God forgiving, it is one of our hearts, minds, attitudes distrusting God, living in fear, preferring selfishness, doubting His goodness. In other words, we simply won't believe that God forgives outright, and we insist that our sin requires some legal payment made to God in order to get God to forgive. This is a lie.

Our sin problem is a problem in us, a problem of character, a problem of being out of harmony with God and His design for life; it was never a problem with God. God didn't need something done to Him to get Him to forgive—we needed something done to us to get us to trust God, open our hearts to Him for healing and to repent!

The lesson says, "No one was beyond His love." It is true God loves everyone and never stops loving anyone—but does that mean everyone responds positively to His love? Does the fact that God loves everyone and there is nothing we can do to get God to love us more or get Him to love us less mean that His love wins everyone to salvation? Again, the problem isn't God's love, His love is infinite and freely given to all people, but not all believe it, want it, or value it.

What does sin do to the sinner? It sears the conscience, hardens the heart, warps the mind and destroys the faculties that respond to love and truth—thus though God's love is infinite and never ceases, some people change themselves so much they become immovable in sin and no amount of truth or love will win them. King Herod would be an example of a person who destroyed their faculties that respond to truth and love; and this is why Jesus didn't respond to him during His trial. Nothing Jesus did or said would have had any positive impact—yet Jesus still loved Him.

Regarding Developing a Winning Attitude, which is the title for the lesson this week, let's examine Ephesians 4:17-32 in detail, from the NIV84:

> So I tell you this, and insist on it in the Lord, that you must no longer live as the Gentiles do, in the futility of their thinking. What makes their thinking futile? What is the basic premise of the world? Me-first, power over, the ends justify the means, fear-driven survival of the fittest, might makes right, imposed law and enforced obedience. The methods of the world are futile why? Because no amount of externally imposed might and power can heal hearts and minds, in fact it makes it worse. The way that seems right to the world only leads to death. So, this type of thinking leads to religious views and practices that are legal in order to bring a sense of security, diminish the fear—but it is a false security, a delusion or illusion depending on how deeply one believes it. The appeal of the penal legal views with its various list of rules gives the self a sense of control—

- As long as I can figure out the right doctrines and make a pledge to accept them
- As long as I can identify the right rituals and perform them in the right way
- As long as I can know the right rules and keep them—or accept that Jesus kept the rules for me and thus claim that I have perfect legal rule keeping in my record in heaven
- If I do all of this, then whenever fear and guilt assail me I can feel safe because I believe the truth, have performed the right rituals, obey the right rules and have the legal payment applied to my account.
- A false security because all of that can be done without any change of heart, without any renewal of character. Not only does the penal legal lie which infects Christianity lead to this false security, it actually prevents real transformation because it simultaneously teaches that God is the source of legally inflicted punishment and death and He is the one from whom we need an intercessor to protect us. Thus, this theology obstructs our trust and reconciliation with God.
- It is only by rejecting imposed law, returning to design law that we can understand the truth of our condition and God's amazing sacrifice to provide us remedy, and thus trust Him for our healing and thereby experience a new heart via the indwelling Spirit.

18 They are darkened in their understanding and separated from the life of God because of the ignorance that is in them due to the hardening of their hearts. What separates them from God? Darkness of understanding, which is caused by what? Lies—about God, about sin, about salvation—which are rooted in what? The lies about God's law—mispresenting it as imposed law with imposed punishments. So, even if they are religious, which essentially all were, their religiosity was legal, seeking to appease their gods, to do works, to get payments, to do penance, to propitiate wrath, to turn away the anger of their gods. In other words, none of them knew God because they operated upon a false paradigm that warped their understanding of reality itself. This is the same process that infected Christianity and led to the Dark Ages—darkness covering the people, yet the people remained religious. And such darkness about God, even though people remain religious leads to the hardening of hearts—why? Because it is self-centered, it is feared-based, it is not based upon truth and love.

19 Having lost all sensitivity, they have given themselves over to sensuality so as to indulge in every kind of impurity, with a continual lust for more. Not being reconciled to God, having accepted a false paradigm of legality, a punishing god, leads to increased guilt, shame, searing of the conscience and this leads to self-indulgence, get for self, advance self, gratify self. Either through direct pleasure seeking or through self-medicating, i.e. intoxicating self to numb a guilty conscience that the false religiosity can't resolve. Pornography rates and substance abuse rates are no different whether one identifies as Christian or not. Barna research found that 57% of pastors and 64% of youth pastors admit to struggling with porn.

(https://www.barna.com/the-porn-phenomenon/) Why? Because penal legal theology cannot heal hearts from fear and selfishness, only increases guilt and reduces a sense of wellbeing.

Happiness is a by-product of healthiness in all domains. Healthiness is only possible in harmony with the laws of health—in all domains—physical, mental, spiritual, relational. This is only possible in harmony with the laws God built His universe to operate upon. To the degree we are in violation of the God's design laws, we are unhealthy, and this undermines our happiness. Many people when unhappy, say struggling with guilt or shame, rather than seeking to identify the cause, the place where they are out of harmony with God's design and seek God to change their lives to live in harmony with His design, which would bring happiness, instead, in their unhappiness substitute pleasure seeking and thus live indulgent lives that worsen their health and cause more unhappiness leading to more sensual living.

20 You, however, did not come to know Christ [Messiah—Savior—Rescuer—Remedy—Healer] that way. 21 Surely you heard of him and were taught in him in accordance with the truth that is in Jesus. 22 You were taught, with regard to your former way of life, to put off your old self, which is being corrupted by its deceitful desires; 23 to be made new in the attitude of your minds; 24 and to put on the new self, created to be like God in true righteousness and holiness. What is being described? What does it mean to "know Christ"? Does it mean to know about—to know the right facts, the right doctrines? Does that mean facts or doctrines are irrelevant? No, it means we must know the truth about Jesus, but we must also know Jesus, which goes beyond the truth of facts. For instance, a person may know the fact that Jesus was born in Bethlehem and not actually know Jesus. Jesus said in the last days many will come to Him professing to be His followers, but He never knew them. Conversely, a person may be a follower of Jesus and actually know Him and love Him and be like Him in character, but not know all the facts like where He was born.

Knowing Christ leads to what? Is this a legal process being described? Let's read the passage again: Is the Apostle describing that we must remember all the bad deeds, confess them, claim the legal payment of Jesus' blood to our account in heaven, and then believe we are declared to be righteous even though we are not righteous? No! That is the lie that keeps good people trapped in miserable and destructive cycles of sin.

When we know Jesus, we are won to trust and we open our hearts in trust and invite Him in. We ask for His renewing agency, the Holy Spirit to remove the destructive desires that deceive us (our feelings can lie to us) and to have new desires, motives, attitudes that come from Jesus and are imbued into us by the Holy Spirit. We become new creatures in Christ and we become like God i.e. godlike in fact. This is actual righteousness, holiness, transformation of character, not some legal fictional declaration of righteousness while we remain unrighteous.

True righteousness by faith is this transformation of the heart motives and attitudes that comes through trust in Jesus. There is nothing legal going on, it is all actual, genuine, healing, transformational. Thus, our life histories of sin, the deeds we have committed in the past, they never change, what changes is our hearts and minds. We become NEW people.

King David, through all eternity future, will still be the father of Solomon, why? Because he had an affair with Bathsheba and murdered Uriah, those historical facts never change. Those historical facts do not get erased from history. When we get to heaven every intelligent being there will know David's history. But his history of bad deeds doesn't matter—why? Because David repented and had a change of heart—thus He is healed in character, actual, real righteousness, holiness, at-one-ment with God in reality. This is the true message of salvation!

25 Therefore each of you must put off falsehood and speak truthfully to his neighbor, for we are all members of one body. What does this mean—members of one body? Would it mean the same as there is neither Jew or Greek but we are one in Jesus? Would it mean there is neither black or white or Asian or Hispanic but in Jesus we are one human race? Would it mean that we are to speak truth that in God's kingdom all lives matter and reject the racially divisive messages that suggest some lives matter more than other lives? The world doesn't know Jesus. The world wants to divide, Jesus wants to unite!

26 "In your anger do not sin": Do not let the sun go down while you are still angry, 27 and do not give the devil a foothold. What does this mean? Do we find a lot of anger being manifested in our society today? Is a lot of it being manifested after the sun goes down, every night riots in certain cities with violence? Is this how Jesus would act? Do you realize this is not the way of the genuine Christian who is being renewed in his mind to have the attitude of Christ?

Does that mean we are not to have anger? It all depends of the type of anger and the focus of the anger. There is a difference between righteous anger and sinful anger:

- Righteous anger is always motivated by love for people and focuses on destroying the disease of sin in order to heal and save people
- Sinful anger is motivated by selfishness and focuses on punishing, hurting, or destroying people, while perpetuating sin and selfishness

Here is a simple example: Doctors have righteous anger toward pathogens (measles, polio, Ebola, Corona) and diseases (cancer, Alzheimer's, multiple sclerosis, etc.). They seek to destroy all disease and pathology in order to heal and save people. But doctors do not have anger toward sick and dying patients.

Of course, doctors do get angry at activities that spread disease, especially when it is purposeful—HIV-infected individuals who spread the disease with dirty needles or unprotected sex. But doctors still love the addict or prostitute who is spreading the disease. It's just that, while seeking to cure those currently infected, doctors also want to prevent the spread of the disease to protect all who are not yet infected.

Doctors also offer remedies for HIV and methods to stop its spread, but when a person refuses to take the remedy and to use methods that prevent infecting others, doctors get angry not only at the disease, but they also get angry at the refusal of the person who rejects the treatment.

And how much greater the anger when the person who refuses lifesaving treatment is the doctor's own son or daughter?

Why are the doctors angry in such situations? Because they love the dying person and know they can save them, if the terminal individual would only let them.

This is righteous anger—never seeking to harm the person, but always motivated by love to heal and save, even when a person refuses healing and chooses paths that destroy themselves and others. This is the anger that God expresses:

> As the Holy Spirit says: "Today, if you hear his voice offering healing and restoration, do not reject the true Remedy and darken your minds as you did in the rebellion in the desert, during the opportunity to partake of God's cure, where your fathers broke my heart by trying their own remedies and rejecting the truth which I brought and for forty years patiently tried to heal them. That is why I was so angry with what happened to that generation, and said, 'Their minds continually reject the healing truth, and they refuse to practice my ways of health and live.' So I granted them their persistent choice and said, 'Since they refuse the truth–the Remedy I freely offer–they will never be able to enter my rest and get well'" (Hebrews 3:7–11 The Remedy).

Selfish anger, however, is not motivated by love for others, nor is it angry at the suffering that sin is causing others. Rather, selfish anger is an anger about the wrongs we experience—done to us or to what we value—not for love for others. Examples of this include:

- Anger at not getting our way
- Anger at having our ideas challenged or refuted
- Anger at having our projects and pursuits interfered with
- Anger at having our self-promotion thwarted or name maligned
- Anger at being assaulted, injured, robbed
- Anger at having been embarrassed
- Anger of envy—someone else getting what we have wanted
- Anger of perceived unfairness, someone else has more than we do, or gets privileges we believe we deserve, or perhaps we do deserve
- Anger when someone questions our authority, disobeys, or disrespects us
- Anger at having not lived up to the family standard

And this type of anger can be projected out of the self onto proxies—we can see others in our environment who approximate our plight and we unconsciously project our own selfishness out onto them and then get angry at their plight, mistreatment, injury and vent our anger on the perceived exploiters—deceiving ourselves that because we are angry about another person's mistreatment we are not selfish—we are loving and it is okay then to seek to punish the wrongdoer.

28 He who has been stealing must steal no longer, but must work, doing something useful with his own hands, that he may have something to share with those in need. If people were applying the attitude of Christ, would they steal, riot, destroy property? Or would they get busy working in their communities to build up, not tear down? Does God want Christians to support movements that use the methods of the world to achieve their ends—even if the goal is a righteous goal? Why or why not?

29 Do not let any unwholesome talk come out of your mouths, but only what is helpful for building others up according to their needs, that it may benefit those who listen. Is lying wholesome talk? What about gossiping or rumor spreading if the rumor is true? What about slander, speaking unkind? What about if it is for the purpose of ensuring your candidate wins the next election—is it godly and righteous to speak unkind things of the opposing candidate if it helps you win the election? What if it is true but not relevant to the ability to carry out the office, is okay then to bear tales? When I speak of politics getting one's candidate elected through such methods were you thinking of human governments? But, could all of this apply to the church as well? Have you ever seen a major political race (whether for government office or church office) in which both sides only spoke wholesome things that built up the opposing candidates?

Is there a difference between speaking clearly about the differences in policy, methods, vision, goals, plans, beliefs, doctrines, and attacking a person?

Did Jesus speak clearly the truth about God's kingdom, law, methods, goals, plans and expose the distortions that others were teaching? Did Jesus ever slander others and expose their personal sins? Or did Jesus actually protect the reputations of His enemies—remember the people who brought the woman caught in adultery?

Do you recognize these differences in methods and are you able to apply the information to your decision making and practices?

30 And do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, with whom you were sealed for the day of redemption. What grieves the Holy Spirit? Rejecting His agency, i.e. holding to lies, resisting truth, and clinging to selfishness and resisting love. Thus, note what the Apostle says next:

31 Get rid of all bitterness, rage and anger, brawling and slander, along with every form of malice. 32 Be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgave you. Ephesians 4:17-32 NIV84 Can you see why the genuine Christians in our society do not align themselves with movements that fail to love every human being as an equal? Why genuine Christians won't align with movements that use methods of violence, deceit, slander, that incite fear, hostility, that coerce and intimidate and force their way?

Do you see how the devil is manipulating society right now by inciting wrong, abuse, misconduct and inspiring people to be outraged by it and then tricking them into pursuing the righteous goal of eliminating evil by the practice of his methods of force, violence, coercion. But this only spreads more evil, incites more violence, and hardens more hearts.

We are not to participate in such activities. We are to come out and be separate. We are to understand that the only God-ordained use for human governments is to restrain evil, to hold in check people that overtly seek to exploit and harm others. There is no role for human governments to promote righteousness because righteousness is a heart issue and human governments have no power to heal hearts—human governments can only injure, harm, and damage hearts.

So what is a winning attitude? Having an attitude like Christ!

SUNDAY

The lesson states, "The last place the disciples expected to find hearts receptive to the gospel was in Samaria." Why?

What was the basis of the disciple's belief about who was reachable for God's kingdom? Did they have biases that nationality, genetics, gender or race increased or decreased one's viability for the kingdom of God?

Where did they get such ideas? Why didn't they know better? Were the disciples used to studying Scripture for themselves and coming to their own conclusions—or had they been conditioned by their culture to believe what the leaders of their society told them?

What about today? In our society, are we teaching people how to think for themselves, how to examine the evidence, understand the design laws of God, how reality works, to discern truth and come to their own conclusions? Or are we teaching people to surrender their thinking to those in authority—whether teachers at university, church leaders, governmental leaders, or media personalities?

Who is God trying to reach with the gospel? What role does genetics, race, nationality, gender play in God's plan, who is savable by God? These elements are meaningless to whether someone is part of God's kingdom or not—what actually matters? Heart attitude—is one like Jesus, what law is written in the heart and mind, truth, love and freedom, versus lies, fear & selfishness, and coercion.

Are we able to accurately judge who is reachable for God's kingdom?

What is our responsibility for others? Present the truth in love, treating every person with value, but leaving them free—so if they reject the truth we move on, we don't demand they accept it. This is one of the problems in society today—there are movements afoot that no longer want to leave others free to believe differently than they do. There are movements afoot that want to punish those who believe differently or practice differently. This is a violation of the law of liberty and will always result in love being damaged and destroyed, more rebellion, and if freedom isn't restored the loss of individuality.

This is Satan's goal—to destroy love, to incite conflict and rebellion, and to destroy individuality. He wants people to be helpless, passive, incapable of thinking for themselves.

Some of the movements going on right now are so emotionally, economically, relationally abusive—i.e. unwilling to leave others free—that many people are being intimidated and are slowly losing the ability to discern, to think for themselves. They are starting to become shadows of others, thinking through the lens of the mob.

I have patients who are in relationships with abusive spouses, some physical abuse, but most are emotionally abused—if they don't do what their spouse wants or think the way their spouse wants, then the abusive spouse will: yell, criticize, name-call, get angry, slam doors, mock, reject, ignore, embarrass, withhold money, withhold affection, cancel dinner or other activities. And the abused spouse rather than speaking truth in love and leaving their spouse free to pout and act out, instead begins to think "Oh I can't say that my spouse won't like it and will get angry and may cancel dinner." And over time they actual start thinking like their spouse, not because they believe it is right, but because they have surrendered their individuality and go along to avoid hostility and emotional assault.

The dominated spouse eventually stops speaking the truth and accepts the lies being told by the abusing spouse.

This is EVIL and is Satan's method to destroy individuality and occurs because the truth is not on the side of the abuser.

This is exactly what is happening in society today with the cancel culture. They cannot achieve their goals with reasoned presentation of the truth to persuade to a better way, so instead they use rage, name-calling, hostility, abusive language, verbal and physical assaults, cancel events etc. to create fear to get people to surrender individuality and stop speaking the truth in order to avoid the temper tantrums of those who don't like the truth and all parties are injured by this process.

We must never surrender our individualities to others. We must never accept and go along with lies merely to avoid upsetting someone's feelings. It is true we don't need to seek out those we know have no interest in the truth and throw the truth in their face—Jesus didn't do this and instructed if people don't want to hear the truth go to others who do. But, we must never stop presenting the truth just because some will scream and accuse of being insensitive etc.

MONDAY

Read first two paragraphs, "Our attitudes often determine…" There is much truth in these two paragraphs, and I constantly pray that God will continue to heal my heart and help me have an ever increasingly winsome attitude and method in my presentations.

Our attitudes, how we present the truth is important. Imagine you are hungry and someone brings you your favorite meal—perfectly cooked—on a beautiful silver platter, would it be appealing? How about they bring the same exact meal, cooked the same way to you on a garbage pail lid? Is it as appealing?

So presentation, attitude, does make a difference, no doubt, but is this the ultimate truth? My question is, is a person's demeanor, attitude, style of presenting more important than their character, heart, motives and the message itself? As we mature, can we see past the presentation to the actual heart, character and message?

I have patients, who I have gotten to know very well, and they have good hearts; they really care about people, but because of their background, some of them have ways of interacting that are blunt, direct, abrasive—they seem outwardly to be harsh. Some of them are from a different cultures, but others have Asperger's Syndrome in which they merely don't have the neurological hardware to recognize social cues and thus seem abrasive, but in their heart they are not mean-spirited. Sadly, many of these good-hearted people get misjudged because they are often abrupt and come across as rude.

If any of you remember the TV show Bones, the lead character Dr. Temperance Brennan was like this—good-hearted but many people were offended by her directness.

Conversely, the best con artists are the most socially enjoyable and friendly. In fact, the community pedophiles, the ones who exploit other people's children, are often the persons everyone in the community likes.

This is also true in public figures. We don't know the hearts of actors, athletes, politicians, we only know their public persona, their public demeanor—but we don't actually know them. Yet, so many people seem to get caught up into judging these public figures character based on communication style and public demeanor, i.e. public persona and end up supporting and identifying with those who have good social skills, but being hostile to those with poor social skills.

Consider Bill Cosby—what was his public reputation before the actual evidence presented in a court of law?

Our challenge is to be mature people who have developed, by practice, the ability to discern right from wrong (Heb 5:14) and not jump to conclusions, especially about someone's heart or character without actually corroborating evidence—and allegations are not evidence.

Read the third paragraph, "The woman in Matthew 15…" thoughts? What do you understand is happening here?

How do we get stronger at something? We must exercise, whether muscles or abilities—what about faith? If our faith is to grow stronger do we need exercise it?

When a coach gives their athletes exercises to do, even if those exercises stress them, cause them pain, make them sweat, are hard to do, is the coach for or against the athlete?

What if a coach told a group of athletes that because they came from poor homes, or homes with only one parent, or they had a history of abuse that any such athlete was given a pass and didn't have to do laps, lift weights, run drills, or study the playbook. They could just show up for the games.

If the coach said, "you have had such a hard life at home that I don't want to stress any more by demanding that you do the same drills, learn the same playbook, lift the same weights as the other athletes, that would not be fair to you; it might discourage you, so you can go home while the other students are required to stay and do the hard work" What would you say about such a coach?

What about it if isn't a coach but it is a teacher or social worker telling students the same thing regarding academics?

Jesus didn't play these games with the Canaanite woman. He loved her and wanted her to grow and to strengthen her faith, so He stressed her faith so she could exercise it so that her faith would grow stronger. What an amazing loving God we serve!

Do you see how design law—how reality works, brings such clarity to stories like this?

TUESDAY

The lesson makes the point that being friends alone with those who don't know Christ will not win people to Christ, but unfriendliness can turn people away from Christ.

Is there a difference between friendship and friendliness? What is the difference?

Do friends risk losing the friendship to protect their friend? The old adage, friends don't let friends drive drunk. But, someone being friendly may not take this stand because they don't want to deal with the potential conflict. Does this dynamic have application in society today?

Is there any caution to forming friends with people who don't know Christ? What is the caution?

Read second paragraph, "The apostle Paul…" thoughts?

What is the difference between a compliment and flattery?

Consider this historic quote from the book Eternity Past writing about the war between God and Satan:

> God could employ only such means as were consistent with truth and righteousness. Satan could use what God could not—flattery and deceit. It was therefore necessary to demonstrate before the inhabitants of heaven and all the world that God's government is just, His law perfect. Satan had made it appear that he himself was seeking to promote the good of > the universe. The true character of the usurper must be understood by all. He must have time to manifest himself by his wicked works. EP 14.2

What is the difference between a compliment and flattery?

- A compliment is sincere praise or commendation based on fact and reality intended to affirm and validate
- Flattery is insincere praise not based on fact and intended to mislead, entice or deceive

Why must time be given for Satan to manifest his character and methods? Why couldn't God just tell everyone that Satan was wrong?

Can lies be effectively removed from people's minds with declarations alone, or does evidence have to be revealed?

Since God's laws are design laws, deviations from His design laws will always reveal, over time, destruction, pain, suffering and death. Only in harmony with God and His laws is their health, happiness and life.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "In these two passages…" The two passages are Romans 15:7 and Ephesians 4:32, we have already read Ephesians 4:32, so let's read Romans 15:7:

> "Accept one another, then, just as Christ accepted you, in order to bring praise to God." (NIV84)

So, we are to accept others just as Christ accepts us. Is the acceptance we have with Jesus unconditional acceptance, or are their conditions? What are the conditions?

Here is one historic view:

> The condition of our acceptance with God is a practical separation from the world. The Lord calls upon us as a people, "Come out from among them, and be ye separate," "and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you." The world may despise you because you do not meet their standard, engage in their dissipating amusements, and follow their pernicious ways; but the God of heaven promises to receive you, and to be a Father unto you. "Ye shall be My sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty." 2 Corinthians 6:17, 18. Counsels on Health 51.1

Will Jesus accept us into fellowship with Him if we refuse to be separated from sin, selfishness, lies, and the methods of the world? Why not—doesn't Jesus love us enough to accept us?

He loves us enough to refuse to accept us in a state that will ensure our destruction. He cannot heal and save us if we refuse to let go of fear, selfishness, lies, and sin. We don't have to rid ourselves of the sin—for we cannot do so, but we have to be willing for Jesus to separate us from the sin. We must surrender ourselves to Him for healing, cleansing, renewal. If we go to Jesus and say, that we want to be accepted but we do not want to be freed from sin, there is nothing He can do for us until we choose Him over sin.

So the lesson gets it right in the last paragraph, "Jesus' attitude was not, 'Do whatever you please. It's all right. I still accept you,' His attitude was, rather, 'No matter what you have done, I am willing to forgive you and provide you with power to change.'"

This is the reality—healing and transformation, not mere legal accounting.

So, what should our acceptance of others be—unconditional or conditional?

I see this all the time, in families with someone who insists on living destructive lifestyle—it could be an addiction that they refuse to get into recovery for, or it could be merely a constantly negative critical and fault-finding attitude toward others. But regardless, these destructive individuals will often present to their families demanding acceptance without condition and if boundaries are set the destructive one accuses the one setting the boundary of not loving them, of not being kind, or Christlike or forgiving—and will manipulate the kind-hearted person into a position where they are exploited over and over again.

Consider you had a relative who worked for the city sewer system and was in and out of the sewers all day long. At the end of their shift they are covered in foul-smelling waste and, without cleaning themselves up they come over to your house and demand to sit down with your family and eat dinner. What would you do? Would you let them? What, if when you said, "Hey we would love to have you eat with us, but you need to go home and clean up first," they respond with the allegation that you are being judgmental, critical, unaccepting, unkind, and don't love them?

Some people come into our lives with foul attitudes that create foul atmospheres; we are not required to accept people without condition, in fact to do so is often unloving and harmful. To give feedback that you love them, but they need to clean themselves up before you let them around your family is not unChristlike it is godly.

Read third paragraph, "And yet…" What does it mean to be accepted by faith?

It isn't about history, it is about current reality. Example of having gastroenteritis as a child….

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "Jesus did not neglect…" this is so well said, Well done quarterly!

The Christian experience that heals is the one that leads to our Creator, the Builder of reality whose laws are design laws which are the basis of life. It is in a trust relationship with Him that we are transformed to live in harmony with Him and His design for life.

Bottom green section, read, "If someone were to ask you, 'Why are you a Christian?' how would you respond, and why?"

2020 3Q Making Friends for God: Lesson 10
An Exciting Way to Get Involved

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

We received a call this week from someone giving her testimony about watching the class online during the pandemic. She said that typically she and her husband watch the class live on Saturday mornings but since inviting her son and his family over to their home for church they've had to switch to watching the replay in order to accommodate her 15-year-old grandson's questions and comments. They need to pause the bible study and attempt to answering his questions— (sometimes they wish Dr. Jennings was actually there to help answer his deep and thoughtful questions!!) This was an unexpected result since her grandson seemed to be disinterested in church when he was attending regular services before the shutdown of in-person gatherings began.

Read Memory Text: "Then he said to his disciples, "The harvest is plentiful but the workers are few. Ask the Lord of the harvest, therefore, to send out workers into his harvest field" (Matthew 9:37-38, NKJV)

What does this verse mean to you?

When is the harvest? In Israel they had two, and they had two rains, the early rain and the latter rain, and the early harvest and latter harvest—what is this an object lesson for?

The early rain was for the early harvest, which was Pentecost and the initial reaping of souls that starting the Christian church at the time of the Apostles.

But the latter rain falls to prepare and cause the latter harvest, the harvest of souls that prepare for the second coming.

And the metaphor of the harvest has two applications—reaping souls from the world into the church, but also the final reaping when Jesus comes and ultimately separates the wheat from the tares.

Our job is to harvest, bring people into the church a saving relationship with Jesus—it is Jesus job, at the time of the second coming, to separate the wheat from the tares.

Here is an historic quote from one of the founders of the SDA church:

> But near the close of earth's harvest, a special bestowal of spiritual grace is promised to prepare the church for the coming of the Son of man. This outpouring of the Spirit is likened to the falling of the latter rain; and it is for this added power that Christians are to > send their petitions to the Lord of the harvest "in the time of the latter rain." In response, "the Lord shall make bright clouds, and give them showers of rain." "He will cause to come down ... the rain, the former rain, and the latter rain," Zechariah 10:1; Joel 2:23. AA 55.1

> But unless the members of God's church today have a living connection with the Source of all spiritual growth, they will not be ready for the time of reaping. Unless they keep their lamps trimmed and burning, they will fail of receiving added grace in times of special need. AA 55.2
> Those only who are constantly receiving fresh supplies of grace, will have power proportionate to their daily need and their ability to use that power. Instead of looking forward to some future time when, through a special endowment of spiritual power, they will receive a miraculous fitting up for soul winning, they are yielding themselves daily to God, that He may make them vessels meet for His use. Daily they are improving the opportunities for service that lie within their reach. Daily they are witnessing for the Master wherever they may be, whether in some humble sphere of labor in the home, or in a public field of usefulness. AA 55.3

What is being described? Why is it that the ones ready to receive the outpouring of the Holy Spirit are the ones who did not wait and look to some future time, but were active each day developing themselves, applying themselves in God's cause, spending time with Him, connecting with Him, sharing what He has given them with others? Why are these the ones to receive the outpouring of the Holy Spirit and not those who wait by doing nothing?

Is there any law of God involved in this?

The law of exertion—what happens if you don't exercise? If you don't use it you lose it—but if you do exercise, you get stronger and develop more ability.

What would happen if you had a person who never exercised, never studied the playbook, never lifted weights, but dreamed about being the starting quarterback in the Superbowl. And because of their dream they bought all of their team's paraphernalia—hats, shirts, even jerseys and helmets. This person would walk around town in the team uniform and would look ready to play. But what would happen if that person were to actually start as quarterback in the Superbowl? What would they do when the plays were called, when the responsibility was on their shoulders, when the pressure was on?

What will happen to people who have not developed themselves in godliness if the Holy Spirit were to come upon them in power?

We at Come and Reason Ministries have been praying for years that the Lord will send more workers to the field—more people who will join us in sharing this message and over the years this ministry has slowly grown. This month, August, we are celebrating our 10-year anniversary of incorporation into a not-for profit ministry. We started are weekly Bible Study class years before, but it was in 2010 that we incorporated. And since then God has blessed and more and more people accept this end-time healing message and join us in sharing it with others.

Yet, we still see so much more to do. Does that mean we should double our workload and do more if we are already doing what God has called us to do?

Consider this historic quote:

> Though Jesus could work miracles, and had empowered His disciples to work miracles, He directed His worn servants to go apart into the country and rest. When He said that the harvest was great, and the laborers were few, He did not urge upon His disciples the necessity of ceaseless toil, but said, "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that He will send forth laborers into His harvest." Matthew 9:38. God has appointed to every man his work, according to his ability (Ephesians 4:11-13), and He would not have a few weighted with responsibilities while others have no burden, no travail of soul. DA 361.4
> Christ's words of compassion are spoken to His workers today just as surely as they were spoken to His disciples. "Come ye yourselves apart, ... and rest awhile," He says to those who are worn and weary. It is not wise to be always under the strain of work and excitement, even in ministering to men's spiritual needs; for in this way personal piety is neglected, and the powers of mind and soul and body are overtaxed. Self-denial is required of the disciples of Christ, and sacrifices must be made; but care must also be exercised lest through their overzeal Satan take advantage of the weakness of humanity, and the work of God be marred. DA 362.1

What do you hear? Is there a law involved in this? What law and what kind of law?

The corollary law of exertion—which is the law of restoration.

As finite beings, once we expend a resource we must rest and recover in order to have more to expend. If we do not rest, we burn out.

- Baseball pitchers must rest between games or they ruin their arms
- Olympic marathon runners will not run again the next day—they must rest

One of Satan's strategies if he cannot get good people to choose evil is to overtax them with too many good works to the point they burn out.

We must have the wisdom to maintain the health of our Spirit temples, our bodies, so that we can stay on the field as long as God would have us work for His cause.

While I was preparing for today's class on small groups, about connecting with others, I was thinking about the unity we are to have in Christ. About how God created us to be one with Him and each other and how sin separates and divides us. I was reflecting on movements in the world today and how so much happening right now is causing division rather than unity. As I was studying and researching, I came across another historic quote. What do you think of this quote?

> What an argument of power is the prayer, "That they all may be one; as You, Father, art in Me, and I in You, that they also may be one in Us:[What is another word for all of us becoming one? At-one-ment, Bible atonement is not legal it is healing, restorative, the removing of the infection of fear and selfishness so that we are united in the bonds of love, truth, and freedom that originates in God's character, bring us back to oneness with Him.] that the world may believe that You have sent me. And the glory which You gave Me I have given them; that they may be one, even as We are one: [What is God's glory? It is His character of love and it is that love which brings unity, healing and oneness. And it is at this time in Earth's history that we are to give glory to God because the hour of His judgment has come, the hour in which people are to judge whether God is like Baal, an imperial dictator who imposes law and inflicts punishments and needs a blood payment not to do so. Or whether God is like Jesus revealed, a being of self-sacrificing love who gives in order to save and heal. The true message about God, that gives Him glory, wins people to trust Him and restores us into oneness with Him. But the false imposed law Baal view causes division.] I in them, and You in Me, that they may be made perfect in one: [What is the perfection here described? The perfection of love for each other—that we are perfect in one and how do we get this perfection? By being reunited with God through the victory of Jesus and the application of His victory in us by the indwelling Spirit. Then fear and selfishness is removed and we have love for God and others.] and that the world may know that You have sent Me, and have loved them, as You have loved Me." (SpTB07 44.3 Testimonies to the Church Containing Messages of Warnings and Instruction to the Seventh-day Adventists)
> I have repeated this wonderful statement; for it contains the very evidence that we are to present to the world,—the perfection of unity in the followers of Christ. The members of the church of God must reach this perfection. [Again, what perfection? The perfection of loving unity for and with each other! It is not task perfection, it is love for others perfection and this love for each other is evidence—of what? It is evidence of a power contrary to the powers of this earth. Look around and see what earthly powers do, what political powers do, what governments do, what imposed law applications do. They divide, the incite injustice, the imposed law method is always unfair. In every human government some cheat, some commit crimes and don't get punished, others are innocent and do get punished, others are discriminated against, others are discriminated for. All human governments are unfair, and the more governmental policies and laws, the more division. We, those who know God, who have Jesus living in our hearts are able to rise above the world and love when it isn't fair, to forgive those who have wronged us, to pray for those who have spitefully used us. This love is the evidence of a power the world cannot overthrow.] I can not do more than urge upon them that this perfection is found in unity in Christ. The Saviour has presented before us how much will be gained in working out the unity that will join one believer to another in the perfection of Christian love.... SpTB07 44.4 [When you hear about Bible perfection is this what immediately comes to your mind, that we are to be united with Jesus to love others as Christ loves us? Or, do you hear "perfection" through the human law lens and think about task performance?]

This message I am given to bear, as the Lord's messenger. [Can you make the same claim—to be the Lord's messenger? Why not? Didn't Jesus say that as the Father had sent Him, He is sending us? Are we not all to be messengers for the Lord?] The unity for which Christ prayed is a sacred pledge of discipleship. Those who enter heaven must be one with Christ. Unless they should bear the same perfection of character that He bore while on this earth, they would spoil heaven. The trial and test is to come here in this world. Here we are to be stamped with the image and superscription of God. The virtue of the grace of Christ will perfect the character of every believer who truly accepts Him. [Does this frighten you? Do you hear this as some work you must attain? Some performance you must achieve? Or do you hear this as a cancer patient hears the description of having 100% of their cancer eliminated, put into remission to be perfectly healed by the remedy provided by their doctor? Without the shedding of Christ's blood there is no remission of sin—without the victory of Christ, His perfect character, sinfulness in the hearts and minds of humans would not remit. But, because of Jesus, all who trust Him, can have the Holy Spirit fill their hearts and minds and self can be crucified and sinfulness can remit and be replaced with love for God and others. Thus, the Bible describes those who are ready to meet Jesus when He comes as those who do not love their lives so much as to shrink from death—fear and selfishness is replaced with love and trust. In other words, they are perfect in love for God and others. As the quotation said, "The virtue of the grace of Christ will perfect the character of every believer who truly accepts Him."] All true disciples are made members of the royal family. All have the new heart, and all blend in perfect harmony. They speak the same thing, though in this world their language may differ. Their manner of expression may not be the same, but their one desire is for the highest end in this life,—the sanctification of the same Spirit. They love as brethren. SpTB07 45.1[We may be from different countries, different races, different cultures, different tribes, but all who have new hearts with God's law written in, will love each other as the family of God—we are one as God is one! This terrifies Satan. The enemy doesn't want us to love—he wants us to hate, to fear, to distrust and thus we can see the devil's work in the world today.]

Christ's disciples must obey the laws of heaven on this earth, else they will never obey them in the higher world. [What laws? Is this describing that we must get the right list of rules and keep them in some legal way, or that we must be restored to live in harmony with the laws God built reality to operate upon? What kind of law did the angels in heaven have? Why didn't they know about law when Lucifer rebelled, why was it something unthought of to them? What is the only kind of law that can be in operation and enforced that people are not informed about? Design law, it is merely how reality works. Thus, if we do not love here we will hate love their. If do not embrace honesty here, truthfulness, then we will hate truth there. If we do not practice liberty here we will not value liberty there. It is about the character, what the heart becomes by the methods, principles and design laws accepted, valued, internalized and applied here and now. By faith/trust in Jesus we can overcome our inherent fear and selfishness and experience God's methods restored within and carry out those methods in how we treat others.] I call upon every physician, upon every gospel minister, to obey the laws of God in everything. [What kind of laws do physicians work with and treat patients through? The laws of health and these are design laws. Are the laws that the gospel operates upon of a different type, are they mere rules like humans make up and that we must keep under fear of inflicted punishment, or are they also design protocols?] This world is the school in which we are to prepare for graduation into the higher school. [What are we to learn in this school of this world? The truth about God and His methods. We are to learn to discern, to differentiate the truth from the lies of Satan. We are to learn the methods of God and the love of God and to grow in that love and in the practice of His methods. We are to learn to trust God with our entire being. And then we graduate to eternity, in which there is no more sin, disease, pain, suffering death—but we are still in school, for God is infinite and we are finite and we will spend all eternity learning and being overwhelmed with awe at the incredible love of God.] We know not who are the chosen of God only as they reveal the education they have received from the Father and the Son, through the Holy Spirit. Christ is their Mediator, their Righteousness, and their unity centers in God. [Mediator—where is Christ mediating? In the heavenly sanctuary—which is built out of what? What is the building material of this dwelling place for God? Where is it the Bible tells us God wants to dwell? In our hearts and minds. Thus the sanctuary is a metaphor for the true Temple of God, which is the hearts and minds of people. Jesus is mediating, via the Holy Spirit, in our hearts and minds working to cut out fear, selfishness, distrust, lust and unholy passions and write in truth, godly love, and the fruits of the Spirit. Each day in the Old Testament Temple the High Priest, and only the High Priest, would trim the wicks on the candlestick. Remember the central spirt was solid gold, representing Jesus, the sick other bowls with lamps represent humanity, man was created on the sixth day. Six, plus one equals 7 the number of perfection. Thus, when we are joined to Jesus and He trims our hearts we become perfect—perfect in love and shine the light of God's glory out to others.] Those who are so stubborn that they will not comply with the prayer of Christ will be lawless, loveless, impolite. They could not be admitted into the family of heaven. [Christ prays for us to be one as He and the Father are one. But those too stubborn to comply will be lawless, loveless and impolite—why? But what if they keep the weekly Bible Sabbath, and eat only the approved foods, and pay a faithful tithe, and get baptized in the right way, and believe in the Bible, and claim Jesus' blood as the payment for their sins? Can a person do all of this religious stuff and still not be united with God in heart? And why do those who refuse to be united with God, to be one in heart, mind, method, motive, one in love with God become lawless, loveless and impolite? What law is being referred to when she says lawless? Why are they not admitted to the family of heaven?] The truth cherished in the heart will work out a blessed unity among Christ's disciples in the lower school of earth. The Lord is dishonored by the contention and strife caused by the unsanctified dispositions of professing Christians. SpTB07 45.2 [What truth cherished in the heart? Is it not the eternal gospel, the eternal good news about God, which Satan has lied about? Is it not the truth that Jesus has revealed about God and God's kingdom of love, the reality that God's laws are design laws and are perfect and life and health and only possible in harmony with God and His design for life? What dishonors the Lord? strife, conflict, division—would this include joining with movements that claim to promote equality, to oppose injustice but use the methods of violence, coercion, intimidation, riot, and any other method that divides and instills fear and hostility?]

I have written out fully the instruction that I was commissioned to give. [Who do you believe commissioned her to write this?] We are now to take our individual selves in hand, and conquer the wicked feelings that rise in our hearts. In allowing the venom of these feelings to flow forth in words, we help Satan in his work. [How many in the Christian world today are being duped into allowing feelings of anger, rage, resentment, bitterness, hurt over real injustice to motivate them to act in ways that are contrary to love? But we are to be one with God as Jesus is one with God. When did Jesus make that prayer of unity? Right before His crucifixion. Was Jesus treated justly by human governments? How did Jesus respond to the injustice? When Peter pulled out a sword to fight, what did Jesus do? What is to be our response to those who do injustice? What does the world want us to do? Consider seeing someone assaulting another, what is your instinct? What would you want to do? What if the person being assaulted is your child, wife, husband, mother, sister? When you see news images of people being dragged out of their cars and beaten in the streets do you have some part of you that is outraged? Do you get tempted to want to strike back? Do you have feelings that tempt you to consider wishing you could have been there with a gun and you would have shot the assailant to protect the innocent. You, like Peter would pull out your sword and strike a blow for justice. But, what if the person attacking your child, your wife, your sister, is your oldest son—what would you do then? What would you want to do for your son—kill him, beat him, or restrain him for the purpose of saving him?] Our church-members need a reconversion, a renewal of the Holy Spirit's power to make them children of God, members of His family. Let every one in our churches now humble his own heart, confess his own sins, and remember that God has a controversy with those who have kept the work from advancing, by their crooked characters, which need to be made all over again. SpTB07 46.1

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, “The Father, Son, and Holy Spirit…” What is described? Do you see love functioning in this relationship?

I have often talked about how love only functions in relationship. That it doesn’t function in isolation or as a singularity. And that the minimum number for genuine other-centered-love is three, which is a strong evidenced-based reason to believe in the Trinity.

I received this email this week:

> I was wondering where I can find sources that support the statement that you need at least 3 individuals to have love truly demonstrated.
> Thanks for your materials. They have answered all the questions I had in my Christian experience. Filled the gaps in the SDA theology.

I am doing the power of love course with some fellow church members. We all love it. May God keep blessing your efforts.

I need the sources I asked for to refer some other SDA colleagues who asked for "proof".

How would you answer this inquiry?

My response:

What do they consider "proof?" Which is more "proof" a textbook that cites that gravity exists or dropping an apple?

Which is more proof, a statement made by a person with credentials or the reality of how love actually functions?

Ask the persons who are requesting proof what they consider more authoritative—statements, declarations, descriptions, or the reality of how things actually function? Which holds more weight with them the description of things by people or the reality to which the various experts are referring when they describe it? Is the description by Isaac Newton of the various laws of motion more authoritative that the actual functioning of objects in motion?

So ask them can love function in isolation, as a singularity—and if so have them demonstrate other-centered love with no other.

If they suggest that two individuals can love each other, acknowledge this is possible, but ask how can that love be differentiated from narcissistic reinforcement? In other words, if no sacrifice is ever required, how can we tell if there is love or if the two parties merely love the love and adoration they receive from the other? One of Satan's allegations in heaven against God is that God required sacrifices from His creation but wouldn't sacrifice Himself. Satan's allegations is that God is self-centered or narcissistic.

> "In the light of the Saviour's life, the hearts of all, even from the Creator to the prince of darkness, are revealed. Satan has represented God as selfish and oppressive, as claiming all, and giving nothing, as requiring the service of His creatures for His own glory, and making no sacrifice for their good. But the gift of Christ reveals the Father's heart. It testifies that the thoughts of God toward us are "thoughts of peace, and not of evil." Jeremiah 29:11. It declares that while God's hatred of sin is as strong as death, His love for the sinner is stronger than death. DA 57

Two beings can be in relationship that appears to be loving, but in reality is merely self-serving. This type of narcissistic reinforcement is exposed in relationships where husband and wife seem to be totally in love and then the first child comes a long and the husband begins to get angry at the wife for no longer giving him all her attention.

Three is the minimum number necessary for genuine other-centered love. But, if after a discussion of evidence, take them to Scripture and read how the Trinity functions, no member of the Godhead seeks glory for Themselves, but all are seen to uplift and glorify the other. If they want other sources then here are a couple:

> "But turning from all lesser representations, we behold God in Jesus. Looking unto Jesus we see that it is the glory of our God to give. "I do nothing of Myself," said Christ; "the living Father hath sent Me, and I live by the Father." "I seek not Mine own glory," but the glory of Him that sent Me. John 8:28; 6:57; 8:50; 7:18. In these words is set forth the great principle which is the law of life for the universe. All things Christ received from God, but He took to give. So in the heavenly courts, in His ministry for all created beings: through the beloved Son, the Father's life flows out to all; through the Son it returns, in praise and joyous service, a tide of love, to the great Source of all. And thus through Christ the circuit of beneficence is complete, representing the character of the great Giver, the law of life." DA 21

In the quote above, there are three, the Father, Son and the created beings, who are infused and empowered to love by the Holy Spirit.

> "In describing to His disciples the office work of the Holy Spirit, Jesus sought to inspire them with the joy and hope that inspired His own heart. He rejoiced because of the abundant help He had provided for His church. The Holy Spirit was the highest of all gifts that He could solicit from His Father for the exaltation of His people. The Spirit was to be given as a regenerating agent, and without this the sacrifice of Christ would have been of no avail. The power of evil had been strengthening for centuries, and the submission of men to this satanic captivity was amazing. Sin could be resisted and overcome only through the mighty agency of the Third Person of the Godhead, who would come with no modified energy, but in the fullness of divine power. It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer. It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature. Christ has given His Spirit as a divine power to overcome all hereditary and cultivated tendencies to evil, and to impress His own character upon His church.
> Of the Spirit Jesus said, "He shall glorify Me." The Saviour came to glorify the Father by the demonstration of His love; so the Spirit was to glorify Christ by revealing His grace to the world. The very image of God is to be reproduced in humanity. The honor of God, the honor of Christ, is involved in the perfection of the character of His people. DA 671

Note the Father sends the Spirit, the Spirit glorifies the Son, and the Son glorifies the Father—the principle of love functioning in the Godhead for the purpose of healing sinners steeped in selfishness back to God's design of other centered love.

God's methods and plans always bring the unity of love—Satan's methods and plans always brings fear, division, distrust, selfishness, hostility.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Bible provides numerous examples…" Have you found where God has called you to work in His field?

What do you say to those who complain that we are only pawns on a chessboard in a game between God and Satan and God uses us to achieve what God wants and they don't want to be pawns to God or Satan?

Does God use us like pawns? No—what is the key to understanding this? What law lens are you looking through.

Chess is an arbitrary game with arbitrary rules and arbitrary consequences for movements upon an arbitrary board. It reinforces the idea that God's law is like human law and God plays games like humans do.

When we reject the imposed law view and understand design law—then we want to be used by God; we want to become active and engaged in applying ourselves usefully in God's cause. Why? Because we get to help our team (family, friends, neighbors, church family), and there is joy in helping those we love. And in exercising our abilities, including our love, those abilities, including our love grow stronger. We genuinely develop more skills, become more proficient, and so it is for our good to be used by God—not for God's need—it is the only way that we can grow in knowledge, in insight, in wisdom, in patience, in faith, in godliness and in love.

The lesson focuses our attention on Jethro's organizational recommendations to Moses.

Read second paragraph, "Every individual…" thoughts? Did this remind you of anything today? The military, the US Army is organized by:

- Squads (typically 5-10 soldiers)
- Platoons (4-5 squads, 40-50 soldiers)
- Companies (4-5 platoons, 200-250 soldiers)
- Battalions (3-5 companies 500-1000 soldiers)
- Brigades (3 or more battalions 3000-5000 soldiers)
- Division (3 brigades 15,000-20,000 soldiers)
- Corps (2-5 divisions 30,000- 100,000 soldiers)
- Armies (2-5 corps 60,000-500,000 solders)

And in the army there are leaders at each level, Squad leaders, Platoon leaders, Company, Battalion, Brigade, Division, Corps and Army commanders. At each level of this organization the individuals have responsibilities for the health, welfare, safety, education, development, proficiency, readiness, and equipping (both training and providing equipment) of their people.

It is part of the training that leaders lead from the field. They go through what their soldiers go through. They live in the field when their soldiers are in the field. The commander ensures his people are fed before he eats, his people rest before he rests.

Why is this the way leadership is taught? What impact does it have on subordinates to see their commander working with them, ensuring they eat before he eats etc.?

In the church, do we experience this type of leadership—servant leadership? Would we benefit from small groups in which members care for each other, look out for each other? How do we do that when people are free to come and go when times get tough?

For instance, how well would a military unit hold together if each member could pick up and leave at any time they wanted? What would happen during training, when things get tough? What would happen during deployment, during actual combat?

What is it that keeps soldiers together in combat? Do units who operate on fear of punishment from their superiors function best in combat?

What about those who function on love—the bonds of brotherhood? What forges or builds those bonds of love? Common cause, struggling through difficulties together, having each other's back, knowing each other and experiencing their reliability and trustworthiness in real world application.

Is there a lesson for us in our work for God's kingdom?

Are there other ways to get this type of experience besides in the military? Ball teams or any team activity can help build this type of bond of brotherhood. But, the point is that we must work together, struggle together, sacrifice together, achieve together, overcome together.

Is one of the reasons for church groups for us to come together for common purpose? This reality is a powerful argument against those who say they can worship God on their own from home and they don't need to belong to a group.

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, "A study of anatomy…" this is so true. We have been given different skills, abilities, gifts that when blended with others who have different gifts, but applied together for God's cause can achieve so much more.

This ministry would not achieve nearly as much or reach nearly as many people if I were working by myself. Dean Scott is gifted in ways I can only dream about. His skill with computers and graphics and design and video production and website programming is all beyond me. And because of Dean all of you who follow us online are able to access our material and it is always of the highest quality.

I am so thankful for Dean—let's be sure to keep Dean in our prayers, like Moses, he needs to stay energetic and healthy.

We are hopeful and prayerful that each of you will reach out to others and share this message where the Lord opens doors. We are actively working to prepare and make available more resources for you to use to share this message.

WEDNESDAY

The lesson points out that the New Testament believers regularly met in homes—why? Because the New Testament church didn't own property, it was all about the people.

Is there benefit to owning properties? Of course, schools, publishing houses, hospitals, in addition to places of worship. So much of the work would be restricted if Christian organizations didn't own any properties.

But, we must never lose sight of the fact that the properties are not the church, the properties are merely resources or tools for the body of believers to utilize in fulfilling God's work.

Properties, organizations, institutions are not saved, people are. When people lose sight of this and begin to think that their responsibility for God is primarily to protect property they can be tricked into betraying their trust for God. When governments make actions that threat to take church property unless the organization goes along with policies that are contrary to God's methods and laws, it is important to let the properties be seized rather than compromise principles.

THURSDAY

What small groups have you been a part of and how have they been a blessing to you?

There are all types of small groups that can be formed and helpful to people such as:

- 12 step groups
- grief recovery groups
- divorce recovery groups
- abuse recovery groups
- Bible study groups
- cooking groups
- book groups

2020 Q3 Making Friends for God: Lesson 11
Sharing the Story of Jesus

by Lori Atkins

SABBATH

When you think about witnessing…telling people about Christ…how does it make you feel? Excited? Nervous? Grateful? Afraid? Obligated? Reluctant? Why?

One of the founders of the Adventist church advises us:

> "The Lord has said, "Ye are My witnesses." Isaiah 43:10. But all who are called to be witnesses for Christ must learn of Him, that they may be efficient witnesses. As children of the heavenly King, they should educate themselves to bear testimony in a clear, distinct voice and in such a manner that no one may receive the impression that they are reluctant to tell of the mercies of the Lord. – CT 243.1

From Saturday's lesson, "Witnessing is sharing what we know about Jesus." I'm glad this is more fully explained in the next sentence, because we have learned here that there is a significant difference between knowing ABOUT swimming – the physics, the techniques, the strokes – and actually getting down in the water and actually swimming. We may know a lot ABOUT some public figure – a politician, a celebrity, an athlete – but how many of us really truly KNOW them.

The next sentence says, "It is letting others know what He means to us and what He has done for us."

Are some bells ringing or electrons firing…doesn't this sound like a description of one of the three prongs in our integrative evidenced based approach – experience! Witnessing is sharing what we know OF Jesus…what we have experienced in a trust relationship with him. It is not trying to prove what we believe is right or showing that others' beliefs are wrong…that does not make for a winsome witness.

> "Our sharing about Jesus must come from a heart that has been healed by His mercy and grace, and transformed by His love and truth. Then other people will see how the truth we believe has impacted and changed our lives. This is the best reason why we must live what we believe. Truth presented in the context of a changed life makes all the difference."

That same author agrees…see what you think about this:

> "Successful Ways of Witnessing for Christ—Not all can go as missionaries to foreign lands, but all can be home missionaries in their families and neighborhoods. There are many ways in which church members may give the message to those around them. One of the most successful is by living helpful, unselfish Christian lives. Those who are fighting the battle of life at great odds may be refreshed and strengthened by little attentions which cost nothing. Kindly words simply spoken, little attentions simply bestowed, will sweep away the clouds of temptation and doubt that gather over the soul. The true heart expression of Christlike sympathy, given in simplicity, has power to open the door of hearts that need the simple, delicate touch of the spirit of Christ. -- AH 485.1

What about the this question addressed in last week's class…are we the Lord's messengers…and are you comfortable with that label…and of course Tina's ability to voice what most of us are thinking but afraid to say.

For those who did not hear that exchange last week, Dr. Jennings read a quote from Mrs. White that said,

> "This message I am given to bear, as the Lord's messenger…and asked us if we could make that same claim – of being the Lord's messenger…if not, why not? Jesus said that as the Father has sent me, so He is sending us. I found this quote that helps to explain why and how we can be effective messengers for Him…spoiler alert, it's not because of us. "Have not your energies been quickened by the blessing that God has bestowed upon you? Has not the truth been more deeply impressed upon your soul? Can you not see more clearly its relative importance to those who are perishing out of Christ? Since the manifest revealing of God's blessing, are you witnessing for Christ more distinctly and decidedly than ever before?
> The Holy Spirit has brought decidedly to your minds the important, vital truths for this time. Is this knowledge to be bound up in a napkin and hidden in the earth? No, no. It is to be put out to the exchangers. As man uses his talents, however small, with faithfulness, the Holy Spirit takes the things of God, and presents them anew to the mind. Through His Spirit God makes His word a vivifying power. It is quick and powerful, exerting a strong influence upon minds, not because of the learning or intelligence of the human agent, but because divine power is working with the human power. And it is to the divine power that all praise is to be given. – 8T 55

SUNDAY

Jesus: The Basis of Our Testimony

Sunday's lesson talks about our extreme makeovers – not a home remodel…or some new makeup or a hairdo – but in the ways we are different before we encounter Christ and after we have been changed by His Spirit. What are some of those differences…can we list some?

Dead in our trespasses and sin – terminal versus healed, renewed, and transformed to be like Christ in heart, mind and character.

Hard hearts of stone versus soft hearts of flesh…hearts that were at enmity and distrust toward God are now trusting, open, seeking truth, and in agreement with Him.

Slaves to our sinful condition and carnal natures versus free with a new spiritual nature.
Attached and striving for the things of this world versus having the things of this world cut away through circumcision of the heart – which can manifest itself sometimes in dramatic changes in behaviors, habits, likes/dislikes…and sometimes in more subtle shifts in motives, methods, and attitudes.

Our fearfulness and selfishness are replaced with love, other-centeredness, and fearlessness – evidenced by a change in the methods we use – we move from methods of control, coercion, manipulation, and punishment…to kindness, honesty, liberation, we speak the truth in love and leave people free.

> Ephesians 2:1-10, The Remedy: "As for you, you were terminal and dying in the distrust, fear and selfishness[2] in which you used to live when you followed the survival-of-the-fittest principle of the world instituted by the ruler of the kingdom of the air–the intelligent being whose principles are now at work in all those who reject truth, love, and freedom.[3] All of us also were born infected with this destructive survival-of-the-fittest principle and at one time gratified its selfish and unhealthy desires and thoughts. Like the rest of humanity, we were born infected with this principle which — if not removed — would result in our self-destruction.[4] But because God is love, because he is merciful, gracious, forgiving, patient and kind, and because he truly loves us,[5] he removes the infection of distrust and selfishness and heals us through Christ. It is because God is gracious, loving and kind that you have been healed and set right with him.[6] God raised the human race from its degraded and detestable state through Jesus Christ's victorious life, and humanity again occupies its seat in God's heavenly counsel–in the person of Jesus Christ our Lord–[7] in order that the amazing truth of God's gracious character may be showcased for all eternity through the love expressed to us in Jesus Christ.[8] It is only because of God's grace that you have been healed through trust–and you did not create this trust yourself, but it was established through the evidence of God's character revealed in the gift of Jesus Christ.[9] This is not by some human work–No way!–so there is no room for anyone to boast.[10] We are God's special creation brought to existence by Christ Jesus to showcase his character–his living law of love–which was always God's design for us.

One of the founders of the Adventist church puts it this way in this familiar quote from a book called Christ's Object Lessons:

> "This robe, woven in the loom of heaven, has in it not one thread of human devising. Christ in His humanity wrought out a perfect character, and this character He offers to impart to us…When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged with His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. [This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness.] – COL 311.4

If you have seen any of the "extreme makeover" shows, you know there is not an overnight transformation…there is work involved, a lot of work, effort…but whose work? Is this before and after transformation God's work? My work? Our work?

God's work: His work is to procure the remedy – from the foundation of the world to the promise of the redeemer, to ensuring a way was kept open for the Messiah to come, to having fear and selfishness war it out in his humanity, giving Himself in love, and ultimately overcoming the infection, developing a perfect human character, and offering that to us as a free gift.

Our work: trust Him, open the heart to him, and when His spirit pours His love into our hearts to receive it, to assimilate, it to agree and cooperate with Him.

> "Herein is revealed the outworking of the divine principle of cooperation, without which no true success can be attained. Human effort avails nothing without divine power; and without human endeavor, divine effort is with many of no avail. To make God's grace our own, we must act our part. His grace is given to work in us to will and to do, but never as a substitute for our effort." --LHU 193.4

> "There are two grand forces at work in the salvation of the human soul. It requires the cooperation of man with the divine agencies-- divine influences, and a strong, living, working faith. It is in this way only that the human agent can become a laborer together with God. The Lord does not sanction in any one of us a blind, stupid credulity. He does not dishonor the human understanding, > but, far from this, He calls for the human will to be brought into connection with the divine will. He calls for the ingenuity of the human mind, the tact, the skill, to be strenuously exercised (!!) in searching out the truth as it is in Jesus… Ye are labourers together with God." -- OHC 310.5

So how can salvation be wholly of Christ and no work of ours, and yet require our work of cooperation? Think design law and it all becomes clear. We are born in a terminal condition, out of harmony with and divergent from God's design. Christ, and Christ alone, took this condition upon Himself, and by the exercise of His human will, cured the condition procuring a remedy for all humanity. He lived a life in perfect harmony with God and thus developed a perfect human character.

This is our Remedy. We cannot do this; we can only choose to partake of what He has developed in our behalf. But the partaking is not the developing.

> Christ came to the earth as man, he lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. -- DA 762.2 adapted

Note how the justification happens, according to this passage? It is by becoming a partaker of the divine nature, by partaking of Jesus in a trust relationship, and receiving a new heart and right spirit through the power of the Holy Spirit, we are set right in heart and mind, justified.

MONDAY

The Transformative Power of Personal Testimony

Monday's lesson presents 2 real life examples who experienced extreme makeovers – James and John, the brothers who were originally known as the "Sons of Thunder," but were transformed and changed because of their close relationship with Jesus.

The quarterly says a couple of things so well here, I have to point them out. Jesus' way is the way of love, not combative force. In the presence of Jesus' love, John's impetuosity and anger were transformed to loving-kindness and a gentle, compassionate spirit. In John's first epistle, the word love appears nearly 40 times; in its various forms, it appears 50 times.

> "There is an eternal principle of the universe (what would another term for 'an eternal principle of the universe' be?). Ellen G. White states this principle well in these words: 'The exercise of force is contrary to the principles of God's government; He desires only the service of love; and love cannot be commanded; it cannot be won by force or authority. Only by love is love awakened."—{DA 22}.

TUESDAY

Telling the Story of Jesus

This lesson points out some of the inexperience and lack of qualifications of Christ's first missionaries/evangelists. These were not His disciples or long-time followers, but rather two gentlemen, aka "madmen", who experienced healing and liberation from demon possession. These were men who had likely never heard Jesus preach even one sermon, had never sacrificed at or even been to temple services, they certainly had not attended seminary or memorized the Torah or Old Testament scrolls.

So what in the world would they have to share with people, what deep spiritual insights could they possibly have to impart? They shared the Jesus they knew because they had experienced Him for themselves.

> "Their changed lives were living proof that Jesus was the Savior. These men told what they knew, what they had seen, heard, and felt of Jesus' power. This is what everyone can do whose heart has been changed by God's loving-favor."— DOA, 340

So how can this be? How effective and what difference can my witness actually make? Do you feel Unfit? Incapable? Ill-equipped? How can I improve my skills in this area?

> "Well, in this work, as in every other, skill is gained in the work itself. It is by training in the common duties of life and in ministry to the needy and suffering that efficiency is assured. Without this the best-meant efforts are often useless and even harmful. It is in the water, not on the land, that men learn to swim." – AH 490.2

What law is being described here?

Listen to this one:

> "It is God's purpose to manifest through His people the principles of His kingdom. [What is another word for "principles"?] That in life and character they may reveal these principles, He desires to separate them from the customs, habits, and practices of the world.... – AH 519.3
> Wonderful scenes are opening before us; and at this time a living testimony is to be borne in > the lives of God's professed people so that the world may see that in this age, when evil reigns on every side, there is yet a people who are laying aside their will and are seeking to do God's will—a people in whose hearts and lives God's law is written. – AH 519.4 [These are individuals, not a denomination!]

And if we have any young folks watching or listening out there, lest you think that being God's messenger and witness doesn't include you, think again! Listen to what this author says about it:

> "When heavenly intelligences see that men are no longer permitted to present the truth, the Spirit of God will come upon the children, and they will do a work in the proclamation of the truth which the older workers cannot do because their way will be hedged up.
> In the closing scenes of this earth's history many of these children and youth will astonish people by their witness to the truth, which will be borne in simplicity, yet with spirit and power. They have been taught the fear of the Lord, and their hearts have been softened by a careful and prayerful study of the Bible. In the near future many children will be endued with the Spirit of God and will do a work in proclaiming the truth to the world that at that time cannot well be done by the older members of the church.
> Our church schools are ordained by God to prepare the children for this great work. Here children are to be instructed in the special truths for this time and in practical missionary work... By them God's message will be made known and His saving health to all nations. – AH 489

THURSDAY

Something Worth Testifying About

What's the "something" that's worth testifying about…and what makes it worth it?

Is what most of Christianity believes worth testifying about?

Is some heavenly legal proceeding where you are declared righteous even though you're not worth testifying about?

Is having your medical records altered to say you're well…while you're still dying of a terminal disease…worth testifying about?

Is getting to spend eternity with a God who will torture you if you don't love Him worth testifying about?

I gotta tell you and I have said before that the traditional legal, penal view of God and Christianity that I was raise in, taught, steeped in…was NOT worth testifying about…not to me, at least…and I didn't…I never told a soul. And now look at me…I'm up in front of a class…I'm on YouTube, permanently ensconced on the internet in perpetuity. What changed?

Please don't misunderstand what I'm saying…as we read earlier, this is not because of the learning or intelligence of the human agent, but because divine power is working with the human power. And it is to the divine power that all praise is to be given. I'm talking about what changed in my thinking, in my paradigm(s), in my knowledge about God, and my experience OF God. I thought I would try to just delineate out a few of the most significant shifts that are now worth testifying about…and I know everyone here has some too, so I want to see if you have some on your list that aren't on mine.

The medical healing or healing substitution atonement model – and even the meaning and pronunciation of the word at-one-ment. In contrast to the traditional penal substitution model, which focuses on an angry or "just" God who must be appeased or propitiated, the healing model shifts the focus to the sinner's condition – this carnal nature, this corrupt character that is motivated by fear and selfishness and the drive to survive – this is a terminal condition that is in need of healing. Christ cured this disease of fear and selfishness in His humanity, an procured a remedy which He offers as a free gift to all who accept it.

God is the creator and designer – his laws are the laws upon which reality and life are built and designed to operate. Once you embrace this concept and change your "law lens" from imposed rules to design laws, you end up basically having a secret decoder ring or a crystal ball that helps you predict the future…or more often diagnose the past.

Understanding the importance of methods, principles, and character instead of focusing on following specific rules, behaviors, and performance.

The Sabbath – is a sign/flag/banner representing God's government and His methods of truth, love, and freedom versus the flag/banner of imposed/enacted/arbitrary rules requiring force/coercion/punishment.

Entirely new view and appreciation for the investigative judgment and cleansing of the sanctuary doctrines – the investigative judgment is all about God and not us…He has not already gotten through the "A" names as he works alphabetically through the Lamb's Book of Life. No, our destiny is determined by OUR judgment of God – do we trust Him? Is He trustworthy? Plus I have a vastly different/expanded understanding of all the sanctuary symbols and the entire service – what/where it is, what it's made of, what needs to be cleansed, and how it gets cleansed.

Why Christ had to die and what his life, death, and resurrection accomplished. I obviously don't have time for a complete study of this topic, but search the words "why Christ had to die" on comeandreason.com, and you will get lots more detailed explanations. Very briefly, Christ came to reveal the truth about the Father, which destroys the lies and distortions, and refutes Satan's accusations about who He is and how He governs. He also came to reveal the truth about Satan's character, who was shown to be a liar and a murder from the start. By giving Himself in love all the way to death on a cross, Christ purged the infection of fear and selfishness from His perfected human character, and procured a remedy that he offers as a free gift to us to cure our terminal sin sick condition. Finally, Christ destroyed death by perfectly restoring the law of love – the basis for life – life is the default setting in God's universe – He restored humanity back into harmony with God's perfect design…and life was the inevitable result.

The amazing great controversy perspective and the ongoing point-counterpoint battle between good and evil, between God and His accuser, playing out in this theater and spectacle to angels and men – from the Garden of Eden, through the Old Testament, the life/death/resurrection of Christ, right up to today the war is still being waged.

Love cannot exist in an atmosphere without freedom and God. Is. Love. The good news isn't good news at all if God is like Satan has alleged Him to be.

So what changed? God hasn't changed…the truth about who He is and His character of love have not changed – they have always been good and have always been true and have always been worth testifying about. What changed is me…He changed me…the truth about who He is continues to change me. This last message of mercy to go to the world – the truth about His character of love is life changing. And this healing atonement model is for real, it is not metaphor, it is not symbolic, it is actual tangible genuine healing, restoration, regeneration, renewal in the heart, mind and character of the believer. He doesn't want to grant you legal pardon, He wants to heal you and save you…He doesn't want to declare you to be righteous, He wants to make you righteous – set you right, back in harmony with his perfect design. Our salvation is not legal or transactional, it's transformational.

2020 3Q Making Friends for God: Lesson 12
A Message Worth Sharing

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

A Message Worth Sharing—what is a message for this time that is worth sharing?

Read Memory Text:

> Then I saw another angel flying in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach to those who dwell on the earth to every nation, tribe, tongue, and people—saying with a loud voice, "Fear God and give glory to Him, for the hour of His judgment has come; and worship Him who made heaven and earth, the sea and springs of water." Revelation 14:6,7 NKJV

Read the first paragraph, "Christ's atoning death…" Let's affirm that Jesus is the key—that Jesus is God's solution to the sin problem, that Jesus is our Savior, that only through what Jesus has achieved for us is salvation possible. Let's affirm our thankfulness to God and Jesus for Jesus and what He has done for us.

But having affirmed all of that does this paragraph sum up the gospel and the final message we are to take to the world? Is what is described in this paragraph different from any other Evangelical or Protestant Christian group?

I don't disagree with anything in this paragraph, I just find it both inadequate and incomplete. It leaves out the central most important issue that Jesus came to expose and resolve, and the way its worded lends itself to be too easily construed through the lies of Babylon, the very thing that we are to come out of.

What is the key to the final message that this paragraph neglects that Revelation 14 points us toward?

What is the key lie that is the foundation to Satan's rebellion?

God's law, that God is Creator and His laws are design laws—this is the key. As long as we continue to present any idea through the lens of imposed law we still promote Satan's lies.

Here are a several of historic quotes to show what the SDA church is supposed to be teaching:

> The history of the great conflict between good and evil, from the time it first began in heaven to the final overthrow of rebellion and the total eradication of sin, is also a demonstration of God's unchanging love. PP 33.4 [What is the issue? God's character of love, God's methods of love, God's law of love. What is the final message of mercy? The truth about God's character of love! And love only exists in an atmosphere of freedom. Satan's system, government, methods, laws always erode liberty because it is based on imposed law that requires external enforcement and in the end such actions always destroys love. This is the great lie in Christianity that God imposes law and imposes penalties, thus to teach such things teaches God is something other than love! Let's keep reading…]

The Sovereign of the universe was not alone in His work of beneficence. [What is another word for beneficence? Altruism, giving, other-centeredness, love—and why was He not alone? Because love cannot exist in a singularity. The arguments against the Trinity are another attack on God's character of love. Listen to what comes next…] He had an associate—a co-worker who could appreciate His purposes, and could share His joy in giving happiness to created beings. [Who is able to know the mind of God? Who can enter into infinity? Who can share in the purpose of God? Only God…continuing on with the quote…] "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God." John 1:1, 2. Christ, the Word, the only begotten of God, was one with the eternal Father—one in nature, in character, in purpose—the only being that could enter into all the counsels and purposes of God. "His name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace." Isaiah 9:6. His "goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting." Micah 5:2… [Satan has been attacking the position of Christ from the beginning and the theories that Jesus is not fully God is part of Satan's attack]. PP 34.1

The Father wrought by His Son in the creation of all heavenly beings. "By Him were all things created, ... whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by Him, and for Him." Colossians 1:16… [Jesus is the Creator—fully God and Satan hates it] PP 34.2

The law of love being the foundation of the government of God, the happiness of all intelligent beings depends upon their perfect accord with its great principles of righteousness. [Why? For the same reason our health require we breathe—it is the law life is built upon] God desires from all His creatures the service of love—service that springs from an appreciation of His character. He takes no pleasure in a forced obedience; [Why? Because it destroys love, incites rebellion, destroys creativity, destroys individuality, causes pain, suffering, misery, unhappiness—how could God take pleasure in such a thing. But this is what billions of Christians believe and teach, that God will use His power to inflict pain and suffering and death on those who don't love Him.] and to all He grants freedom of will, that they may render Him voluntary service. [Because only in freedom is there love and only in this environment is there development of our individuality and abilities.] PP 34.3

Satan has been persevering and untiring in his efforts to prosecute the work he began in heaven, [what work did he begin in heaven? the war against God of course, which was what kind of war? a war of ideas against the character of God, and what was at the root of Satan's strategy in this war? What has Satan been constantly working to get intelligent beings to believe that results in rebellion against God and damage to them?] to change the law of God.[Satan achieves his goal when he gets intelligent beings to accept in their minds that God's law is imposed rather than design law. He can't change reality, but he can lie and can get intelligent beings to change their view or belief about God's law and this changes their belief about God, and changes them from loyal to sinful.] He has succeeded in making the world believe the theory he presented in heaven before his fall, that the law of God was faulty, and needed revising. [What kind of law can be revised? This is what Satan has succeeded at, at getting people to believe God's law is like human law, imposed rules, legislation, revisable. It is not!] A large part of the professed Christian church, by their attitude, if not by their words, show that they have accepted the same error. [Yes, including many in the SDA church. All penal legal substitution theology promotes this lie of Satan!] But if in one jot or tittle the law of God has been changed, [Because as Jesus said doing so would result in heaven and earth passing away.] Satan has gained on earth that which he could not gain in heaven. He has prepared his delusive snare, hoping to take captive the church and the world. But not all will be taken in the snare. [Who won't be snared by this lie? Those who reject it and embrace the truth about God's design law and thus about God's character and methods. It is the message of the 3 Angels to worship the Creator and reject the dictator views of God.] A line of distinction is being drawn between the children of obedience and the children of disobedience, the loyal and true and the disloyal and untrue. Two great parties are developed, the worshipers of the beast and his image, and the worshipers of the true and living God. [And the beastly system is the system of imposed law, coercion, force, inflicted punishment regardless of day of worship. God's system is that of the Creator, it is the system of life, of love, of truth, of freedom of design law. And God sent Christ to restore us back to life!] 2SM 107.2

Now consider these quotes—again in the setting of where we are in earth's history and what is the message we have worth sharing:

> The last great conflict between truth and error is but the final struggle of the long-standing controversy concerning the law of God. Upon this battle we are now entering,—a battle between the laws of men and the precepts of Jehovah, between the religion of the Bible and the religion of fable and tradition. (GC 582.2)

What kind of laws to men pass? What kind of laws does the Creator build reality to operate upon?

> There is no such thing as weakening or strengthening the law of Jehovah. As it has been, so it is. It always has been, and always will be holy, just, and good, complete in itself. It cannot be repealed or changed. [Why? Because it is not legislated, it is not imposed, it is not a rule, it is not the kind of law humans make. God's laws are design protocols for life. To change them would be to destroy the universe and life as God built it. Thus it cannot be repealed or changed.] To "honor" or "dishonor" it is but the speech of men. (PK 625.1)

> Between the laws of men and the precepts of Jehovah will come the last great conflict of the controversy between truth and error. Upon this battle we are now entering—a battle not between rival churches contending for the supremacy, but between the religion of the Bible and the religions of fable and tradition. (PK 625.2)

Again, what is the final conflict over? What difference does it make in how we view God's law?

Let's do a quick summary and then come back to the first angel's message:

Sin is transgression of the law—but what is the difference if we understand the law differently?

Imposed law	Design law
Sin is being in legal trouble	Sin is having a terminal condition
God is required by law to punish sin	God is required by His law & character of love to save sinners
Jesus died to pay legal penalty	Jesus died to be our Remedy
God killed Jesus in our place	God so loved that He gave Jesus to be our Savior
Salvation is claiming a legal solution of Jesus blood to appease God	Salvation is accepting the truth Jesus revealed about God opening the heart and receiving the mind of Christ via the HS—being reborn
Atonement is legal payment	Atonement is at-one-ment
The gospel is Jesus died to propitiate God and atone for our sin	The gospel is the eternal good news about God
The final message is perverted to be legal issues of right days or right rituals or right claims of legal salvation	The final message is the truth about God's character of love –here is what one of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

"It is the darkness of misapprehension of God that is enshrouding the world. Men are losing their knowledge of His character. It has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. At this time a message from God is to be proclaimed, a message illuminating in its influence and saving in its power. His character is to be made known. Into the darkness of the world is to be shed the light of His glory, the light of His goodness, mercy and truth…The last rays of > merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is the revelation of His character of love." Christ's Object Lessons, p.415

Connect the previous quotes about the final struggle between the law of God and the law of men and God's character and you will see that the rebellion of Satan is rooted in the lie that God's law is merely imposed rules, like humans make, that requires God to use power to inflict punishment.

The first angel's message is a call to reject this lie about God, to return to worship our Creator Him, who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water and thereby give Him glory in how we live, by living in harmony with His design laws, because the hour of God's judgment has come.

This is the hour in human history in which people are to decide if God is like Baal, an imperial dictator who requires a blood sacrifice to appease him, or if God is like Jesus the Creator whose laws are design protocols and whose character is love and who gave Himself to cure or terminal sin condition.

So, Revelation 14:6,7 from The Remedy:

> Then I saw another messenger flying in midair, and he had the eternal good news about God's character of love to proclaim to everyone living on earth–to every nation, tribe, language, and people–which represents a movement of people who arise to proclaim the truth about God's character of love throughout the world. He said in a clear, resounding voice, "Be in awe of God, and glorify him by living his methods of love, because the hour has come for everyone to make a judgment about God, and worship the Designer, Creator and Builder who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and springs of water– all of which operate upon his law of love."

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Throughout salvation history…" What do you think of the use of the word judgment here? It is a correct use of the word, but it lends itself to being too easily misunderstood if one has a human law mindset.

In a human law mindset what does this sound like? A judicial process, God has some line of total number of bad deeds by a person, or nation, or group, and when that threshold is met, then God judges it is time for Him to act to punish all the badness. But, before He does, He sends warning that He is going to punish.

Is this how it sounds?

But, is this the truth of how it really is? No!

It is true, God is never caught off guard, and it is true God sends warnings to His people, no doubt about that. But, what the authors don't seem to incorporate into their explanation are two key pieces of reality that illuminate events quite clearly and those two pieces of reality are: God's design law and the Great Controversy in which after Adam's sin the Messiah was promised.

With these truths in mind, the Old Testament is the record of God working to bring the Messiah and Satan working to stop God's plan.

With those two critical pieces of information we then see that God's judgments are not judicial but therapeutic. God is judging what actions are necessary to fulfill the plan of salvation, to keep open the avenue for the Messiah. God sends warnings to humanity of the dangers of deviating from His design laws, what will happen to them, like a doctor warning His patients of the results of smoking.

Then God takes actions, when necessary to excise necrosis in order to keep open the avenue for Messiah or no human would be saved.
What confuses people is they confuse first death, which is sleep, with second death which is annihilation and what God calls death. God has acted to put people to sleep in times past–for what purpose? To save humanity, to keep open the avenue for the Messiah, like at the flood, but God does not kill people. Every human in history is alive, some walking on the earth right now, but others asleep awaiting resurrection.

So, God sends these messages to warn people, in order to save people, but if people refuse the message what does God do? Does God ever become the source of death or is sin the source of death?

So, let's read a few passages from Genesis in The Remedy:

> Gen 6:5 The Lord saw how human beings, by choosing to indulge selfishness, had completely corrupted themselves, destroying in themselves his design of love, and how their every desire was totally selfish and their hearts sought evil all the time. 6 The Lord grieved at their suffering, and his heart ached over humanity's terminal condition. He also grieved at the action his love must take in order to slow the spread of sin and to keep open the avenue for the Messiah to come and save the human species. 7 So the Lord pronounced his therapeutic plan: "I will remove the malignantly selfish humans from the face of the earth that I have made; I will remove humans and animals, both large and small, and the birds of the air. Having to do this grieves me, for I have created them." 8 But the Lord was pleased that he had a friend in Noah…
> Gen 6:11 The earth, created by God to operate upon the principle of love (the circle of giving), was being destroyed by the grossest violence and exploitation. 12 God saw how fear and selfishness had spread throughout the earth, corrupting all living creatures, for all living things were violent and sought to dominate and destroy each other. 13 So God pronounced his healing plan to Noah: "It has come before me that if I don't act, then all life on earth will end, because the earth is being destroyed by constant violence and exploitation. I am going to stop this cycle of violence and put an end to the living creatures and change the earth to slow down future corruption… 17 Understand that I must act to save humanity—to keep open the avenue for the Messiah and slow the spread of sin—I am going to bring waters to flood the earth, and all the > creatures living upon it are going to die; and the face of the earth will be changed. [18] But I will fulfill my pledge to save humanity through you…"

So, what is God's judgment? It is the accurate diagnosis of each person and the situation as a whole and what is necessary for Him to do in order to remedy the sin problem and save the species and as many people as possible. There is never anything penal legal in God's judgments, they are always manifestations of love in order to heal and save.

Read second paragraph, "The message of eternal significance…" What is the message of "present truth" for us today?

Here are two historic quotes about present truth:

> God intends that even in this life the truths of His Word shall be ever unfolding to His people. [Why unfolding? Because this is how reality works. We are not only in darkness and misunderstanding about God and His kingdom, but we are finite, so even in the Earth made new we will always be advancing and growing in truth. We will never be God and never have infinite knowledge. This is quite exciting always new discoveries. But does Satan want us to advance in truth? It is a godly approach to establish our doctrines and refuse to advance in our understanding?] There is only one way in which this knowledge can be obtained. We can attain to an understanding of God's Word only through the illumination of that Spirit by which the Word was given.... And the Saviour's promise to His followers was, "When He, the Spirit of truth, is come, He will guide you into all truth.... For He shall receive of Mine, and shall show it unto you." John 16:13, 14. CSA 46.7

> God desires man to exercise his reasoning powers; [If we are able to obtain this knowledge only through the illumination of the Holy Spirit, then why do we have to exercise or reasoning powers? Because we are not robots. The Holy Spirit illuminates our minds to comprehend truth, but we must exercise our God-given reasoning abilities to think it through, to comprehend, to choose and agree, to, as Paul says, be fully persuaded in our own minds. This is the only way for us to be transformed while retaining our individuality. If God were to simply write the truth into our being we would not be us anymore but robots or computers. And it isn't truth cognitively comprehended, but truth embraced and accepted into the character as principles we build our identity upon that matters. Many people will be lost who know the truth cognitively, but don't accept into their hearts and characters—Satan knows the truth about God, but rejected God's methods, principles and character and thus formed a character of selfishness instead.] and the study of the Bible will strengthen and elevate the mind as no other study can.... A sense of the power and wisdom of God, and of our inability to comprehend His greatness, should inspire us with humility, and we should open His Word, as we would enter His presence, with holy awe.... CSA 47.1

> In every age there is a new development of truth, a message of God to the people of that generation. [What is the message to this generation? Is it not the 3 Angels Messages—which > is the truth about God as Creator, which brings us back to His law being design law!?] The old truths are all essential; new truth is not independent of the old, but an unfolding of it. It is only as the old truths are understood that we can comprehend the new. [This is a fantastic point—we in our class are not denying any of the old truths, but advancing them by putting them in their right setting of God's design law. For instance, Christ died as our Savior, and without the life, death and resurrection of Jesus we could not be saved. But we reject the penal/legal theory built on Satan's lie that God's law is like human law and continues to distort God's character and undermine our trust in God. We put the death of Christ in its right setting as God's solution or remedy to the sin problem. Jesus died to reveal truth and destroy lies in order to win us to trust AND to eradicate sinfulness from the species by being tempted as a human just like us but instead, as a human, living out God's law of love perfectly thereby restoring into the species human God's law of love. Christ developed a perfect, sinless human character and thus becomes our Remedy—nothing penal legal at all, it is simply what life and reality in God's universe requires.] When Christ desired to open to His disciples the truth of His resurrection, He began "at Moses and all the prophets" and "expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning Himself." Luke 24:27. But it is the light which shines in the fresh unfolding of truth that glorifies the old. He who rejects or neglects the new does not really possess the old. For him it loses its vital power and becomes but a lifeless form. COL 127.4

What is the truth for our generation? What is the new light that illuminates the old? It is the truth of God's design laws, worshipping Him as Creator and understanding the entire conflict as a question over God's law, what type of law. Thus the entire Bible is embraced and understood in the fuller light of present truth.

MONDAY

Read second paragraph, "From the first to the last…" As we described in a previous class, the overarching theme of Bible prophecy is the coming Messiah to destroy sin and restore humans and the Earth back into heavenly perfection. Praise God!

And is there a message for God's people today?

Let's read the message to the Laodicean church in Revelation chapter 3, from The Remedy:

> [14]"To the messenger to my children in the church in Laodicea, write:
> This message is from Jesus–the consistent, reliable, faithful and true Witness–who is the origin of God's creation:[15]I know your choices. I know that you are neither on fire with love, nor do you appear cold with selfishness. I wish you were either on fire for my kingdom, or clearly opposed to it![16]But because you are a lukewarm mix of cold hearts practicing selfish methods while appearing to be on fire for my kingdom, you misrepresent me and make me sick to my stomach. I am about to vomit you out.[17]You claim to be spiritually rich and full of heavenly treasure, thinking you have the truth and are in need of nothing, but you are so self-deceived that > you don't realize you are devoid of my character of love. You are decrepit, pathetic, bereft of true godliness, with minds so closed that you can't even comprehend truth. You stand naked and exposed.[18]My prescription for you is to exchange your corrupt motives for the gold of godly love purified through fiery trials, so that you can be rich in what heaven values. Exchange your filthy, selfish characters for the perfect character of Christ — pure and white — so that you can cover the shame of your imperfection. And apply the salve of the Holy Spirit to your minds, so that you can see and understand the reality of your own condition, and that of God's kingdom of love.

> [19]"It is those whom I love that I diagnose and provide these therapeutic interventions, so take ownership of yourselves: turn away from destruction, and apply the Remedy.[20]I am here now! I am standing at the door to your hearts, knocking with truth and love. If any hear my voice and open their hearts, I will come in and commune with them, and they with me.
> [21]"Everyone who prevails by completing the treatment, and lives in harmony with my methods of love until the end, will sit enthroned with me–just as I overcame, and sit enthroned with my Father.[22]Those whose minds are open to truth will understand what the Spirit reveals to the churches."

Is this a message for Christians today? What is the reason many Christians struggle with true godliness of character? What is the connection with this message and the message of the 3 angels?

How does the lie about God's law fit into this?

What happens to the person who believes they are in legal trouble with a god who will torture and kill them unless they get a substitute to plead to this god and pay this god a blood payment of his own blood not too kill them? What happens if they believe that salvation is a legal adjustment of their record by claiming the legal payment of their substitute and that once they make this claim by "faith" they are saved?

Do you see how the lie that God's law is like human law has corrupted the gospel and trapped millions into a fraud that prevents actual righteousness and results in exactly what Revelation describes as Laodicea?

I am sadly seeing this on our Ministry Facebook feed this week. I posted a blog about the principles of liberty written into the US Constitution being under attack and how this is part of Satan's end-time strategy to bring about his beastly system. I did not mention any political party or politician but wrote about the principles of God versus the principles of Satan unfolding in the world around us, hoping to enlighten people to the two antagonistic methods and principles.

But sadly, the vast majority of the comments are political advancing one party or candidate or railing against another. Some are even threating violence or war. It is quite sad to see how many don't realize they are joining with Satan regardless of whether they are left or right if they embrace imposed law methods and want to use coercion to force their methods upon others.

For those with eyes to see you realize that Revelation is coming true right before our eyes.

TUESDAY

The lesson points out that the epicenter of Revelation is chapter 14, it is the end time message to prepare people for Christ's return. We have already explored 3 verses of this chapter, but let's read this chapter from The Remedy:

> Then I looked and saw Jesus the Lamb standing on Mount Zion, which represented the place of victory over sin. He was with the 144,000 who had been healed and had the character of Jesus and the Father completely restored in their minds, which was symbolized by the name of the Father and Son written on their foreheads. [2] I heard the sound of God's presence—like the ocean roar or deep thunder—and with it, what sounded like many harps being played together, symbolizing the beautiful melody that comes from the lives of the healed. [Have you ever seen lives that were like beautiful music? Beautiful music requires harmony—this is a metaphor for those whose lives are in harmony with God and His law of love—it is beautiful. But, have you seen lives that are dissonant out of harmony with God and His design of love?] [3] As God and the four living beings and the elders were watching, the healed lived Christlike lives that were like the sound of beautiful music —a song which only the 144,000 who had been redeemed from earth could sing. [4] These are the ones who did not corrupt themselves by filling their hearts with false views of God or practicing Satan's methods—they kept their characters pure. They follow Jesus the Lamb wherever he goes, always revealing the truth about him. They were redeemed from fallen humanity and are the first fruits—the first ones so settled into the truth about God and the Lamb that nothing could move them. [5] No lie about God was found in their testimony; they are without blame.
> Rev 14:6 Then I saw another messenger flying in midair, and he had the eternal good news about God's character of love to proclaim to everyone living on earth—to every nation, tribe, language, and people—which represents a movement of people who arise to proclaim the truth about God's character of love throughout the world. [7] He said in a clear, resounding voice, "Be in awe of God, and glorify him by living his methods of love, because the hour has come for everyone to make a judgment about God, and worship the Designer, Creator and Builder who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and springs of water—all of which operate upon his law of love." [Do you see this message as the message we are to give today?]
> Rev 14:8 A second messenger followed the first, proclaiming throughout the world: "Don't trust Babylon the Great—a symbolic description of religions that misrepresent God—as it is fallen into the lies about God and intoxicates the world with its pagan views of God, maddening the people with its adulterous idea that God coerces and must inflict punishment if not properly appeased."
> Rev 14:9 And a third messenger followed the first two and proclaimed in a voice that was heard throughout the world: "If anyone gives worth and honor to the beastly system of coercion by choosing the methods of the beast and thus marking themselves as 'loyal in heart' by embracing the character of the beast, or marking themselves as 'loyal in deed' by practicing his methods, [10] they will reap the full fury of unremedied sin when God no longer shields them from their destructive choice. They will experience immeasurable torment of mind and burning anguish of heart when they stand in God's fiery presence and are bathed in unquenchable fire of truth and love—all in the very presence of Jesus and the holy angels. [11] The memory of their suffering and the lesson of their self-destructive choice will never be forgotten throughout all eternity. There will be no peace of mind—day or night—for those who prefer the methods of the beast and model after him, or for any who choose to mark themselves as followers of the beast." [12] This requires patient endurance on the part of the healed, who live God's methods of love and remain true to Jesus.

Rev 14:13 Then I heard another voice from heaven say, "Write this: Happy are those who die to sin and self, trusting the Lord from now on." "Yes," says the Spirit, "they will rest from working to save self, and their loving deeds will follow them."

Rev 14:14 I looked, and I saw Jesus, the Son of Man, surrounded by a cloud of brilliant angels, wearing a crown of gold on his head—symbolic of his perfect character and rule of love. He had a sharp sickle in his hand, symbolizing his intent to bring his followers home. [15] Then another messenger came out of the heavenly temple and called in a clear voice to Jesus, who was in the cloud of angels: "Take your sickle and cut your followers free from all earthly ties and bring them home! The time to reap has come, because your people have matured and are ready to be cut free." [16] So Jesus, seated amongst the cloud of angels, swung his sickle and all throughout the earth his people were cut free and brought to heaven.

Rev 14:17 Then another angel came out from the temple in heaven, and he had his own sharp sickle. [18] Yet another angel came, from the altar, with the authority of the fire of truth, and called in a loud voice to the angel with the sharp sickle: "Take your sharp sickle and gather the cluster of those who—like grapes—have ripened, but ripened on the vine of earth's principles; for they are fully hardened in their selfish ways." [19] The angel swung his sickle and gathered those who—like grape clusters—were ripened into complete rebellion against God, and he threw them into the winepress where they were pressed down under the destructive force of unremedied sin when God no longer shielded them from their destructive choice. [20] When God finally let go, they were crushed—outside the city of God—under the weight of guilt, shame, despair and fear that unremedied sin brings. Their lives ebbed away, and the dead were piled up 6 feet (1.8 meters) high for nearly 200 miles (320 kilometers) around the city.

Does this sound like the Revelation you have always read? What is different?

Does it make a difference to read it through the lens of design law?

When you think of God's final judgment what comes to mind? Is it judicial or diagnostic?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Revelation's last-day message…" If we present the final message to the world as a legal message about the right rules and God having a judicial review of legal elements in heaven, are we presenting the eternal gospel or are we perpetuating the lie of Babylon?

The final message is about God's character of love and it is only understood correctly when we understand His law correctly. This is why the final struggle is over what it all began over in heaven, a question of God's law.

When Satan rebelled in heaven, was there a weekly Sabbath? No! The final question is not about the weekly Sabbath, but it is about what the weekly Sabbath is a sign of—which is design law.

The weekly Sabbath was created for man at the end of Creation week as a time filled with God's methods/law, i.e. truth, presented in love, leaving people free.

Thus, the Sabbath, as a day of rest, is evidence or sign of design law.

Sunday became a day of rest by legislation, thus it is a mark if imposed law.

The final issue in the war is whether God is like Jesus revealed, Creator, Builder of reality who governs on design law, or whether God is a dictator who makes up rules and inflicts punishment on rulebreakers.

WEDNESDAY

Read second paragraph, "In an age…" What does this mean to you? What message do you hear?

When people believe the imposed law lie then they believe they can get away with sin, there are loopholes, there are exceptions, they might not be caught, the authorities might not know, they might get someone to erase the record of their sin, or get someone to hide the judge from seeing their sin.

We see this in society today that people are doing all kinds of violence, rioting, looting, murdering and thinking they can get away with it because many in authority are not enforcing human law.

But, we don't see people lining up to pour gasoline over themselves and light themselves on fire, or jump off the Empire State Building, or ingest radioactive toxins—why not? Because all of these actions operate upon design law and the law breaker cannot avoid the damage to themselves. This is how reality works.

All the looters, rioters, murderers are searing their own consciences, hardening their own hearts and this cannot be avoided. They take themselves further and further away from harmony with God.

What does it mean "only His righteousness is good enough to pass through the judgment?"

Do you hear this as something legal? If only His righteousness is good enough to pass through the judgment how does that help us?

Is it some legal loophole that for those who claim the legal payment of Jesus that in the judgment when the Father looks at our record He sees the righteousness of Jesus stamped in there?

Would you hear it differently if it was worded, "only His character is perfectly healthy enough to pass through the examination without being diagnosed as terminal?"

What does this text mean?

> God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God. 2Cor 5:21 NIV84 or this?

> I have been crucified with Christ and I no longer live, but Christ lives in me. Gal 2:20 NIV84 or this?

> "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29).

If Jesus righteousness is the only thing good enough to pass through the judgment, where must it be applied? Where must we find it in the judgment? Would it be in the hearts and minds of the saved? And if Christ's righteousness actually becomes ours, and our characters actually become righteous because of the indwelling of Jesus, what will our records reveal?

And then, could we use the metaphor of covered by the righteousness of Christ? Yes, because He doesn't cover over, but covers for, He takes the sin away and gives us His righteousness and we are actually changed.

The penal legal lie teaches a fraud that I call the candy-coated rotten apply theory in which the robe of Christ's righteousness is like the candy on a rotten apply, it covers over the rot of sin. This is a lie that the imposed law penal substitution theology teaches.

The truth is we become righteous through our faith or trust in Jesus, this is the righteousness by faith message.

Here are a couple of historic quotes:

> The righteousness of God never covers a soul all polluted with sin. John says, "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29). Will you let Him take it > away? You cannot bear your own sin. Christ says He will take your sin if you lay hold of the merits of a crucified and risen Saviour…{1SAT 237.2}

From where is the sin taken away? This author says it is taken away from the soul, not from a record book. It is a literal, actual, healing of the person's character that is being described.

Here is another quote:

> Only the covering which Christ Himself has provided can make us meet to appear in God's presence. This covering, the robe of His own righteousness, Christ will put upon every repenting, believing soul. "I counsel thee," He says, "to buy of Me . . . white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear." Rev. 3:18. {COL 311.3}
> This robe, woven in the loom of heaven, has in it not one thread of human devising. Christ in His humanity wrought out a perfect character, and this character He offers to impart to us… By His perfect obedience He has made it possible for every human being to obey God's commandments. When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged in His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness. Then as the Lord looks upon us He sees, not the fig-leaf garment, not the nakedness and deformity of sin, but His own robe of righteousness, which is perfect obedience to the law of Jehovah. {COL 311.4}

THURSDAY

Read last paragraph, "Revelation 14 describes…" I agree it describes two systems of worship the Creator and the beast—and what is the foundational difference between these two systems or governments? The laws of each, and what is the type of law in God's kingdom versus the beasts? Design law in God's kingdom and imposed law in the beasts.

And what method does God use to govern with Design law? Truth, love freedom.

What method does the beast use with imposed law? Lies, fear and selfishness, and coercion.

What are the flags, pennants, signs, marks of these two systems or kingdoms?

Sabbath a sign of Creation and design law, built in the fabric of time itself as a day of liberty and freedom revealing God's design methods and…

Sunday a mark of imperialism, legislated by man as a day of rest and worship, thus a mark if imposed law and coercive enforcement.

If we were to promote Sabbath as an imposed law of God enforced by God through inflicted punishment then we are actually promoting the wine of Babylon, the lie of Satan that God functions like sinful beings. It is only by returning to design law that we can see the truth.

Can we do anything by our behavior to make the Sabbath more or less holy than it is? No—then when we "keep the Sabbath holy" are we keeping it holy or ourselves holy? And can we keep ourselves holy only one day in seven?

So, is Sabbath keeping a legal matter or a lifestyle that persists all week long, i.e. living God's design laws as represented by the Sabbath?

Consider this quote:

> All through the week we are to have the Sabbath in mind and be making preparation to keep it according to the commandment. We are not merely to observe the Sabbath as a legal matter. We are to understand its spiritual bearing upon all the transactions of life. All who regard the Sabbath as a sign between them and God, showing that He is the God who sanctifies them, will represent the principles of His government. They will bring into daily practice the laws of His kingdom. Daily it will be their prayer that the sanctification of the Sabbath may rest upon them. Every day they will have the companionship of Christ, and will exemplify the perfection of His character. Every day their light will shine forth to others in good works. 3TT 20.3

Those Pharisees of Judaism and Adventism who keep a legal weekly Sabbath are actually not Sabbath-keepers—they are the ones who crucified Christ.

> In the time of the end every divine institution is to be restored. The breach made in the law at the time the Sabbath was changed by man, is to be repaired. [She doesn't say the breach made in the law BY the change in the Sabbath, because the breach is much more than that. Remember when Satan broke the law of God in heaven the Sabbath didn't yet exist. We must of course recognize and accept the truth about the Sabbath, but accepting the day of the week while keeping the imperial law view doesn't repair the breach.] God's remnant people, standing before the world as reformers, are to show that the law of God is the foundation of all enduring reform [why? Because it is the law of life, the principles upon which life is established and operates. One cannot have health in violations of the laws of health. So all enduring reform is merely putting people back in harmony with God's design laws for life.] and that the Sabbath of the fourth commandment is to stand as a memorial of creation, a constant reminder of the power of God. [What power? This is key—when you hear this do you hear physical might and power, the power to create? That power was demonstrated during the fist six days of creation week—but what power was revealed during the 7th day? Was a different power revealed? Paul says the the gospel is the power for salvation (Rom 1:6), Remember this quote from EGW: "God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's > principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power." DA 759.1. What is the power of God that the Sabbath reminds us of? That God is moral—He presented truth in love and then leaves us free—God rested and did not compel. This is the power that the Sabbath is to remind us of. If we make it only about physical power we continue to obstruct the healing truth.] In clear, distinct lines they are to present the necessity of obedience to all the precepts of the Decalogue. Constrained by the love of Christ, they are to co-operate with Him in building up the waste places. They are to be repairers of the breach, restorers of paths to dwell in. See verse 12. {PK 678.2}

What was the breach made in the law when the Sabbath was changed? It was not the mere change of the day of worship—the breach was the idea that God's law is imposed law—this is the breach we are to repair.

Thus, we cannot repair the breach by teaching the right day of the week through imposed law lenses—that the Sabbath is an arbitrary test and that God will use power to punish those who don't keep it. This only perpetuates the lie, keeps the breach in the law open.

We are to repair the breach by returning to design law worship and this results in our transformation, for by beholding we are changed.

2020 Q3 Making Friends for God: Lesson 13
A Step in Faith

by Lori Atkins

SABBATH

I generally like the last lesson in the quarterly to kind of review and recap the concepts we've learned and discussed over the previous 12 weeks…to kind of hit the high points…to see how much we have really retained…how much of what we heard actually stuck…and then focus on practical application so we can put what we have learned into practice with the goal of implementing and integrating the concepts into our real daily lives – particularly considering the significance of what we have been studying on how to witness effectively, truthfully, the importance of our personal testimony…and how these are skills that can be honed and refined, and just like our muscles they must be exercised.

I didn't find too much of that in the Lesson 13 content, so hopefully it's okay with you if we take a bit of literary license from the quarterly this week and do a bit of an interactive recap…and quiz! I'm going to be quizzing you to see how much you remember, what concepts you found especially profound or those that really made an impact, maybe find out if there are some topics you still have questions on?

So all this quarter, we have been looking at making friends for God and studying the importance of our personal witness. In Week 1, we talked about the reasons why we witness and the primary goals of witnessing… remember any of those?

- To get people to accept the right doctrines? Not particularly—only as is necessary for healing their hearts and minds. It's more like our goal is to get them to accept the right understanding of their disease?
- To get them to join a particular denomination?
- To introduce people to Jesus and have them open their hearts in trust to Him so that they are turned from God's enemies to His friends?
- Will all of God's true friends agree on every point? Paul and Barnabas? Paul and Peter? What foods to eat or what days to treat as special?
- But what did the Apostles all agree on? Jesus is Lord and God's character and methods of love. Salvation is healing of hearts and minds through a trust relationship with Jesus.

Ultimately, we witness because we love and care about people…and love is outward moving and other centered. If God's love is poured into our hearts, we can't keep it to ourselves – it overflows onto people we come in contact with – we want the people we know and love to experience the peace, love, joy that we have found…particularly our family and loved ones.

We saw this concept so clearly illustrated in Lesson 7 when we reviewed the parable of the laborers in the field. I know you all remember the familiar story from Matthew 20, where some laborers came early in the day looking for a vineyard job…agreed to the day's wage, and went to work. Then some other folks came at noon, were told by the vineyard owner, "I will pay you what is right," and then joined the others in the field. Later in the day, just an hour before quitting time, more workers joined for the same agreed-upon "right pay," and finished that last hour of the shift with the rest of the crew. Then when it was time to settle up, everyone got paid the same – the guy who labored 8-10 hours in the vineyard, in the heat of the day, got the same pay as the dude who came in at maybe 5 pm and only worked for one hour!

Don't you have an immediate kind of visceral reaction to that outcome? Doesn't it seem to violate some universal standard of fairness?

It definitely does – and under human law constructs, the whole story is completely unfair on every level. But the shift to a design law interpretation changes everything…and explains one of big reasons why we witness.

When we understand that the worker's reward – the agreed upon wage – the right payment – is eternal life with Jesus, and the vineyard is this earth where we witness and work to save souls…suddenly the story is completely fair and such a beautiful picture of reality. The ones who got called early accepted Jesus into their life early...and not only did they get reward of eternal life – just like the thief on the cross got in his last hour on this earth - but they also got to work with God their whole lives, they learned how to work in the field - which is the field of human souls. Thus, they learned God's methods, they learned God's principles of how to "fish" for men...they became more efficient in how to wield the sword of truth in love while leaving people free - these are skills that must be practiced, they must be exercised - remember the quote we read a couple of weeks ago that said,

> "In this work [witnessing/ministering], as in every other, skill is gained in the work itself...It is in the water, not on the land, that men learn to swim." – {AH 90.2}

Their characters are more developed, they have become more like the landowner! Whereas the one who came in at the last hour, he received eternal life...he got the same pay, but he didn't get the blessing of working all his life with the landowner. See how design law removes any hint of arbitrary-ness and unfairness from the story? How there is no prejudice or bias being portrayed, but rather just an accurate depiction of how reality actually works.

But back to witnessing...this is why we witness!! Talk about laboring in the field...how many of you...how many of us have labored over our parents, our spouses, our families, our loved ones, and maybe especially over our children - not just over their eternal salvation, but because we want them to KNOW the God we know…so that, as it says in John 17:3, their eternal life can start right now…we want them to know the blessing of working in the field in close communion with the landowner…we want their minds, hearts, and characters to be molded and shaped by the Holy Spirit to be like Christ. This is why we witness.

Is all witnessing helpful, or can witnessing ever be harmful? Does anyone remember from Lesson 1 some of the ways that witnessing might actually cause harm?

> It is by training in the common duties of life and in ministry to the needy and suffering that efficiency is assured. Without this the best-meant efforts are often useless and even harmful. – {AH 490.2}

• What happened to Pharaoh when Moses witnessed to him? Why did this happen to Pharaoh? Does that mean Moses should not have witnessed to him?

• What did Jesus say about the cities in His day having had His witness to them? That their guilt would be greater than Sodom's. Does that mean Jesus should not have witnessed to them?

• So they are not harmed by the witness of truth—they are harmed by the rejection of truth, the witness of truth gives them opportunity for healing and eternal life—even if they reject it.

• What about if we witness because we want to get the most baptisms in the conference? Do we risk witnessing with wrong motive and perhaps not even witnessing the truth?

• Jesus told the religious leaders in His day that their witness caused their converts to become twice the son of hell than they themselves were, why was that?

In Lesson 2, we discussed the power of personal testimony and how telling people how your life has been changed by Jesus and your personal experience with Him can be a winsome, effective witness. But we also talked about how personal experience, strong feelings and emotions can be deceptive or misleading or even false…which is why the three overlapping threads of evidence are so important, and why experiences and feelings must be checked against testable laws, evidence, and reality. Remember this historic quote regarding people's experience?

> "Satan leads people to think that because they have felt a rapture of feeling they are converted. But their experience does not change. Their actions are the same as before. Their lives show no good fruit. They pray often and long, and are constantly referring to the feelings they had at > such and such a time. But they do not live the new life. They are deceived. Their experience goes no deeper than feeling. They build upon the sand, and when adverse winds come their house is swept away. Many poor souls are groping in darkness, looking for the feelings which others say they have had in their experience. They overlook the fact that the believer in Christ must work out his own salvation with fear and trembling. The convicted sinner has something to do. He must repent and show true faith. When Jesus speaks of the new heart, He means the mind, the life, the whole being. To have a change of heart is to withdraw the affections from the world, and fasten them upon Christ. To have a new heart is to have a new mind, new purposes, new motives. What is the sign of a new heart? A changed life. There is a daily, hourly dying to selfishness and pride. – {MYP 72.1}

See how reality always has evidence associated with it? A genuine experience with Jesus is always evidenced by a changed life.

This is the very evidence that can help us witness about Christ to folks who may not already believe in God or Jesus or even in scripture. Remember this from Lesson 2?

For people who may believe in the Old Testament or in the Bible, then perhaps going through the prophecies of the Old Testament about the Messiah and how Jesus fulfilled all of them would be helpful to bring a person to believe in Jesus. But what if a person doesn't believe in the Bible at all, then what do you do? What evidence can you provide to demonstrate Jesus is real? We just talked about it!

What do you think of this idea from the book The Desire of Ages:

> "When the message of truth is presented in our day, there are many who, like the Jews, cry, Show us a sign. Work us a miracle. [But miracles are problematic because they can be counterfeited. Even so, people want something besides a verbal testimony or proclamation – that they hear as a claim without evidence, to base their faith upon.] Christ wrought no miracle at the demand of the Pharisees. He wrought no miracle in the wilderness in answer to Satan's insinuations. He does not impart to us power to vindicate ourselves or to satisfy the demands of unbelief and pride. [Uh oh. Sounds like we might have to endure ridicule, accusation, condemnation from people who reject our belief in Christ?] But the gospel is not without a sign of its divine origin. Is it not a miracle that we can break from the bondage of Satan? Enmity against Satan is not natural to the human heart; it is implanted by the grace of God. When one who has been controlled by a stubborn, wayward will is set free, and yields himself wholeheartedly to the drawing of God's heavenly agencies, a miracle is wrought; so also when a man who has been under strong delusion comes to understand moral > truth. [What is the miracle, the evidence that can be pointed to? The evidence of a life transformed to godly principles, the dishonest becomes honest, the exploiter becomes a protector, the cruel becomes kind, the fearful becomes courageous, the liar becomes honest, the cheat becomes trustworthy. Transformation of character is evidence of our risen Savior.] Every time a soul is converted, and learns to love God and keep His commandments, the promise of God is fulfilled, "A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you." Ezekiel 36:26. The change in human hearts, the transformation of human characters, is a miracle that reveals an ever-living Saviour, working to rescue souls. A consistent life in Christ is a great miracle…This is God's witness before the world to the divine mission of His Son. – {DA 407.1}

I once was lost but now I'm found…was blind but now I see.

In Lesson 4, we studied ways we can intercede for others - particularly the impact of intercessory prayer. What is the purpose of intercessory prayer? Is the purpose to influence God to love more, to be more kind, to get God to do something good that God would not otherwise want to do?

If God always wants to do good, always wants to heal and save, then why do we need to pray?
What are God's methods and how does He achieve His goals?
Does God violate freewill?
Does He force His way in?

Thus, one aspect of prayer is our freewill consent inviting God into a situation. But there is another aspect: Does the process of praying have an impact upon the one who prays? Can our conversations with God be healing, transforming, maturing to us?

Additionally, is there an aspect of prayer that exercises our own individual mental energies focusing our beings toward the welfare of others?

Prayer not only brings God into the equation, but it allow us as believers to join our energies together and focus our intentions on the healing of others.

In God's universe, can this directly exert a positive influence? Yes, if we understand quantum physics and string theory…which of course I don't, but I'm fascinated by it… our prayers, when focused with love and good intention, can have a direct positive healing physical impact on the one being prayed for, through the quantum connections that God built into His universe. Just as a person can use their physical body through Newtonian physics to massage muscles or put pressure on a wound, perform

CPR, set a bone, just as that direct physical contact and intervention can be healing, so too our prayers through quantum connections can exert positive impact on others!

In Lesson 5, we discussed Spirit-empowered witnessing…and honestly, God forbid that we attempt any of these witnessing endeavors without first inviting the Holy Spirit into the midst of it – to prepare/convict hearts (the witnesser and the witnessee), to have us cross paths with and make divine appointments with folks who are open and seeking truth, and to give us insight into unspoken needs and the right words to say. Consider the implication of this historic quote from Acts of the Apostles:

> "Wherever the need of the Holy Spirit is a matter little thought of, there is seen spiritual drought, spiritual darkness, spiritual declension [def: a condition of decline or moral deterioration] and death. Whenever minor matters occupy the attention, the divine power which is necessary for the growth and prosperity of the church, and which would bring all other blessings in its train, is lacking, though offered in infinite plenitude [does that offer ever expire?]. Since this is the means by which we are to receive power, why do we not hunger and thirst for the gift of the Spirit? Why do we not talk of it, pray for it, and preach concerning it? The Lord is more willing to give the Holy Spirit to those who serve Him than parents are to give good gifts to their children. For the daily baptism of the Spirit every worker should offer his petition to God. Companies of Christian workers should gather to ask for special help, for heavenly wisdom, that they may know how to plan and execute wisely. – {AA 50.2}

I know we do that here in this ministry.

What in the world might cause us to value the Holy Spirit so little? Perhaps being frightened by the fear of false spirits?

The Bible tells us to test the spirits, perhaps movements that smack of fanaticism, emotionalism, that claim to be the movements of the Spirit of God frighten us into not seeking the true Spirit of God?

Perhaps accepting a legal theology in which one falsely believes salvation is in claiming a legal blood payment to have one's heavenly record books adjusted—thus no real need for the Spirit, the payment is being made in heaven.

Perhaps anti-trinitarian teachings that propose that there is no Holy Spirit, that there is only God the Father and the Father is omnipresent, and we can ask for the Father's presence into our lives, but we don't seek the presence of the Holy Spirit because we don't believe He exists?

What happens if we reject or don't value the Holy Spirit? Here is one view of the importance of the Holy Spirit, from The Desire of Ages, do you agree?

> "In describing to His disciples the office work of the Holy Spirit, Jesus sought to inspire them with the joy and hope that inspired His own heart. He rejoiced because of the abundant help He had provided for His church. The Holy Spirit was the highest of all gifts that He could solicit from His Father for the exaltation of His people. The Spirit was to be given as a regenerating agent, and without this the sacrifice of Christ would have been of no avail. The power of evil had been strengthening for centuries, and the submission of men to this satanic captivity was amazing. Sin could be resisted and overcome only through the mighty agency of the Third Person of the Godhead, who would come with no modified energy, but in the fullness of divine power. It is the Spirit that makes effectual what has been wrought out by the world's Redeemer. It is by the Spirit that the heart is made pure. Through the Spirit the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature. Christ has given His Spirit as a divine power to overcome all hereditary and cultivated tendencies to evil, and to impress His own character upon His church. – {DA 671.2}

This entire quarterly was about witnessing – witnessing the story of Jesus, the story of His saving remedy…and Lesson 4 contained such a brief, concise, on-point summarization of the central theme of scripture I wanted to include it here as something to really commit to memory – not memorized by wrote, but as a part of your story, that you can relate (during an elevator ride) when someone asks you why you believe the Bible or what is the Bible even about.

- There is a God in heaven who created the entire universe. This Creator God is love and created all things in sinless perfection—without disease or defect.
  Real love requires real freedom, so God did not create His intelligent beings as robots or puppets, but gave real freedom.
- This freedom was abused and lies were told about God. Those lies were believed, which broke the circle of love and trust, and resulted in fear and selfishness.
- God's design for life was broken, love and trust was displaced by fear and selfishness stemming from believing lies. This is a terminal condition, the result of being out of harmony with God's design for life.
  God's laws are the design laws He built life to operate upon and any deviation damages and destroys.
- God loved us so much that when humankind became infected with fear and selfishness, He did not abandon us but sent His own Son to reveal the truth to destroy the lies and win us back to trust, and to cure the condition by procuring the remedy that heals all who do trust.

- This remedy is freely available to everyone and will heal all who trust God and cooperate with the treatment plan.
- That Remedy is the perfection of Jesus Christ, the truth revealed about God that wins us back to trust, and then in trust we open our hearts and receive a new human character by the indwelling Spirit…and by partaking of that divine nature, we are transformed in character, our hearts actually change, and we develop new desires and new motives.

In Lesson 7, we covered almost every single one of Christ's parables through the natural design law…we don't have time to go through them all here, but I encourage you to get those notes and save them, because they're profound. One key point that really stuck with me was the differences between the lost coin, the lost sheep, and the lost son…remember those?

- The lost coin was lost but didn't know it was lost, and the owner searched for it and found it. The lost sheep knew it was lost but didn't know how to get home and the owner searched for it and found it.
- The lost son knew he was lost and he knew the way home, and the father waited for the son to make the choice to come home.
- In all three what does the father/owner reveal about himself? He is always, always working to woo, to heal, to save…in whatever way is in our best interest and for our best good. What kind of law is involved?

Just a couple of high points from Lesson 8, we reviewed some prescient quotes from an interview of Ellen White that took place in 1895, where she said this:

> "When you begin to work with parliaments, that sets the devil to work, and if he cannot make the work hard for us, who can? [If we seek human governments to work with us in the advancement of God's kingdom we set the devil to work. We corrupt the gospel and the church by ultimately bringing in the methods of the world—imperialism and coercion into the work. This corrupts the minds and hearts of people and obstructs the kingdom of God.]

This gives us some insight into the extremely practical applications we have learned this quarter, and how what we are learning about design laws…about how human governments work – all human governments – the methods they use…and how we apply these concepts to what's going on in our world today…how we interpret end time events…and how important it is to recognize what methods and principles are being used, even in the promotion of righteous and just causes. Check out the rest of that jaw-dropping interview in the Lesson 8 notes.

One last concept from Lesson 8 that I don't believe we got around to covering in class. The quarterly asked the question, "Is it possible to live the abundant life Jesus offers if you are poverty-stricken or sick? Did Jesus offer people something deeper than physical healing?"

Have you ever heard the name Fanny Crosby? She was a prolific song writer who wrote many famous hymns such as:
• "More Like Jesus Would I Be"--1867
• "Safe in the Arms of Jesus"--1868,
• "Near the Cross"--1869,
• "Praise Him! Praise Him! Jesus Our Blessed Redeemer!"--1869,
• "Rescue the Perishing"--1869,
• "Blessed Assurance"--1873,
• "All the Way My Savior Leads Me"--1875,
• "To God Be the Glory"—1875
• "Take the World, But Give Me Jesus"--1879,
•"Tell Me the Story of Jesus"--1880,
• "Redeemed, How I Love to Proclaim It!"--1882,
• "Jesus Is Tenderly Calling You Home"--1883,
• "He Hideth My Soul"--1890,

Now Fanny was blind from infancy and later in life, wrote:

> "It seemed intended by the blessed providence of God that I should be blind all my life, and I thank him for the dispensation. If perfect earthly sight were offered me tomorrow I would not accept it. I might not have sung hymns to the praise of God if I had been distracted by the beautiful and interesting things about me. If I had a choice, I would still choose to remain blind...for when I die, the first face I will ever see will be the face of my blessed Saviour."

So can we have the abundant life with sickness, poverty, infirmity?

What is it that Jesus promises us today?

What happened to all the people Jesus healed of physical illness 2000 years ago?

Is God's primary concern that we live an extra 50 years here on earth?

What is God's primary concern? That we receive eternal life, and that we are reconciled to Him.

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 1
Education in the Garden of Eden

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Received this email this week:

> Thanks very much for what you guys do – I'm fairly new to Come and Reason and took my time listening to lectures and the Bible studies before 'buying in'. 😊 I'm very thankful that Dr. Jennings has been able to articulate the 'penal legal theory' in a way that has resonated with so many people. It is one of those concepts in Christianity that I grew up believing was wrong, but could never really define it or see the bigger picture associated with it. It's also funny because I'm in my late 40s and have recently gotten into Law school, and yes the Socialist/Marxist ideas hinted at in lesson studies are alive and well in Canadian Universities as well.
> Thank you again for all you do. I enjoy the podcasts when I have some spare time to clean up in the shop (remnants of summer projects), or when I get to prepare to lead out in our local Sabbath School Lesson study (I too have difficulty making it past 'Sunday').

We are starting a new quarter on Education—what is the purpose of education?

- To learn
- To develop

But for what purpose are we to learn and develop?

> The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom, > and knowledge of the Holy One is understanding. (Proverbs 9:10 NIV84)

Read the first paragraph in the introduction: "Think about the above text…" This is so well said, so what is the purpose of education? To learn and develop to become wise, which means….we come to know the truth about God and His kingdom, methods, principles…which means….we grow to be more and more like Him—to develop Christlike character!

Are there laws involved in this process? What laws?

- Worship—by beholding we are changed
- Exertion—strength comes from exercise
- Truth—truth destroys lies and ennobles and develops the person
- Love—we live out the principles of love in how we treat others as we grow in our love and appreciation for God

I want to read to you the first paragraph of the book Education:

> Our ideas of education take too narrow and too low a range. [What does this mean? Reading, writing, arithmetic, academic learning, vocations, degrees, scholastics—this is the lower education, the narrow education, focused on things, facts, fields of study—but not the larger reality of God's kingdom, who we are, the war, God's methods and purposes. One can get advanced degrees in this world and still be most ignorant of reality. Think of all those scientists who teach there is no God.] There is need of a broader scope, a higher aim. True education means more than the pursual of a certain course of study. It means more than a preparation for the life that now is. [What does this mean? That our education is first and foremost for our lives in God's kingdom, not the kingdoms of this world.] It has to do with the whole being, and with the whole period of existence possible to man. [The whole being—is that more than cognitive? Is it more than physical? What is the whole period of existence possible to us? Eternity—what is the focus of education for eternity?] It is the harmonious development of the physical, the mental, and the spiritual powers. It prepares the student for the joy of service in this world and for the higher joy of wider service in the world to come. Ed 13.1

What is the difference between mental and spiritual powers?

What is the spirit of a human—we are not speaking about a vapor that floats around—but what is the spirit of a man? Is it attitude—"he's got good spirit?" Is it heart affection, "I'll be with you in spirit?"

Is it that part of humanity that is sensitive and responsive to God?

What are spiritual powers versus mental powers and how to we develop them?

My view is that the spiritual powers are those powers we get from being connected with God. Mental powers are abilities or capacities God created us with that we can still exercise while in rebellion against God, but the spiritual powers can only grow to the degree God is working in us.

Spiritual powers include:

- Love—the process of compassion, altruism, empathy—to the degree a person loves with genuine love for others it is an evidence of God working in their life.
- Truth bearing—the ability to know, live, and share real truth—the truth of God's kingdom and reality.
- Living Faith—not the mere capacity to have faith, but the functional faith in God that results in ability to stand in the face of opposition, to trust God with outcomes and do what is right when pressure is applied not to. Like the three worthies on the plain of Dura.
- Hope—genuine hope comes from knowing God and the eternal realities of His kingdom. There is a futile earthly hope—in which we hope for things or earthly results, but all such hope fails in the end and leaves us hopeless. This earthly hope would be similar to the counterfeits to love, when we love things or people for what they do for us rather than love God or love the people for who they are.

- Discernment—the ability to differentiate good and evil
- Wisdom—the ability to apply truth and knowledge in harmony with God's principles for the outworking of God's purposes
- Knowing God's methods—how reality works—God's methods are foolishness to the world. In the world the more you take and hoard the more you have. In God's kingdom the more you give the more you have.
- Conscientiousness/conscience—the closer we come to God the more sensitive our conscience becomes. Things of the world become offensive and we rejoice in the good. We are quick to realize when something is off. The more we develop this power the more sensitive we are to deviations from God's design laws.
- Others?

Mental powers include:

- Reasoning ability
- Scholastic ability
- Knowing people and things
- Memory
- Problem solving skills
- Strategic thinking
- Concentration/attention/focus
- Situational awareness
- Psychological mindedness (ability for introspection)
- Abstract thinking ability

How do we develop the spiritual powers? By experience and exercise.

- First and foremost is being loved—healthy nurturing, loving environment develops in the infant and child the spiritual ability to love.
- Parental reliability, predictability, keeping one's word with the child develops the child's ability to trust. Trust is further developed in situations of distress and deliverance.
- Teaching children reality by both didactics and experience—application of the lesson in reality, develops discernment.

Then, as with all powers, we must exercise—if we want more love we must love more. We must spend time in communion with God, the source of love, but then share what God has revealed and given to us with others.

In researching for class I came this quote:

> The humble worker who obediently responds to the call of God may be sure of receiving divine assistance. [What is described in this sentence? God calls, we humbly exercise our freedom to choose to say yes, and when we do we receive divine assistance. We are not left to our own power.] To accept so great and holy a responsibility is itself elevating to the character. [Why? What is described? The act of choosing changes us, either aligning > ourselves with God and His kingdom or alienating us. Every choice to follow God is healing to us.] It calls into action the highest mental and spiritual powers, and strengthens and purifies the mind and heart. Through faith in the power of God, it is wonderful how strong a weak man may become, how decided his efforts, how prolific of great results. He who begins with a little knowledge, in a humble way, and tells what he knows, while seeking diligently for further knowledge, will find the whole heavenly treasure awaiting his demand. The more he seeks to impart light, the more light he will receive. [What laws are described? Both the law of exertion and the law of love, the more you give the more you receive.] The more one tries to explain the word of God to others, with a love for souls, the plainer it becomes to himself. [Notice the caveat—with a love for souls. If one tries to explain it without love, one is a Pharisee, outside of God's kingdom—many theologians through history have become educated academically but still are ignorant of the kingdom of God. It is when we have love for others in the heart that we are connected with God and His Spirit is there to direct and enlighten our minds.] The more we use our knowledge and exercise our powers, the more knowledge and power we shall have. COL 354.1 [Again the law of exertion.]

> Every effort made for Christ will react in blessing upon ourselves. If we use our means for His glory, He will give us more. As we seek to win others to Christ, bearing the burden of souls in our prayers, our own hearts will throb with the quickening influence of God's grace; our own affections will glow with more divine fervor; our whole Christian life will be more of a reality, more earnest, more prayerful. COL 354.2

How can we strengthen our spiritual powers? By exercise, by applying whatever truth we currently know. By diligently seeking to add to our current understand and practice more of God's methods and principles, by sharing what God has done for us with others.

> But solid food is for the mature, who by constant use have trained themselves to distinguish good from evil. (Hebrews 5:14 NIV84)

Spiritual powers cannot function without the mental powers or physical powers, but both the mental and physical can function without the spiritual.

- Evil people who reject God (and Satan and his demons) can reason, strategize, memorize, learn to facts, gain new skills and abilities both mental and physical—the mental and physical abilities can operate without developing the spiritual
- But one cannot know truth, love, hope, be conscientious, having living faith, discern, have genuine wisdom without mental abilities, without a physical body. And to the degree our physical health is undermined all of our spiritual abilities are undermined—even if we have a heart desire to act, if we are physically sick, we are limited in spiritual power.

So, Satan seeks to destroy by:

- Infecting our thinking with lies about God, which undermine the development of spiritual powers, we don't really trust, but make up theologies to keep us hidden or protected from God.

This impairs our unity with God, it impairs our ability to grow in love, it impairs our hope, it keeps fear alive. It makes us spiritual weaklings.
- Getting us to overtax ourselves either mentally or physically to the point of burnout—i.e. we don't rest and recover
- Getting us to live in violations of the laws of health which undermines our spiritual powers.
- Undermining healthy education so we don't develop our mental powers in godly lines, but in godless lines, thus dwarfing our spiritual powers—this is what public education does.

Destructive factors cause contradictions and work against God's design laws:
- a caregiver, parent, teacher, pastor who claims to love but exploits
- a caregiver, parent, teacher, pastor who claims to love but is inconsistent, doesn't keep boundaries, thus can't be trusted
- a person in a role of authority teaching things that are contradictory to reality—made up rules and threats of punishment under the guise of love
- failure to live in harmony with the laws of health—thus toxins, poor diet, no physical exercise
- believing that faith means believing what doesn't make sense or believing without evidence—thus no exercise of one's reasoning abilities
- believing lies about God and God's laws that lead to fear-based religions

Do our spiritual powers operate independently of our mental and physical powers? No!

If we neglect or injure one domain will it impact the other domains?

Healthy education starts in the home with a healthy environment that provides good nutrition, sleep, fresh air, but also healthy love, touch, affection, healthy boundaries, and as the child is able they are engaged in discussion, explanation leading them to understand the world God created, ultimately connecting these lessons back to a knowledge and experience with God. Thus, it includes teaching them the Bible and all reality through the lens of Bible truth.

Read second paragraph, "The system of education…." What are the principles of education you gain from considering Eden?
- Daily communing with God
- Learning from reality—from nature, how reality actually works, which teaches what kind of law? Were there any keep off the grass signs in Eden?
- Learning from examination, study, evidence and experience. God brought the animals to Adam and Adam evaluated them and gave them names appropriate to their kind.
- Learning from doing—God had Adam and Eve tend the garden, put their abilities to use, to act, evaluate and assess, and learn.
- Learning through relationships—Adam and Eve conversed with angels and shared experiences with each other

If we want to damage true education we would interfere with these elements or principles. We would:

- Remove or replace God with a false god, no god, or a human mediator in God's place—and look at what happened to humanity when the Roman church replaced God with both a false god and human mediators, and later when society rejected God altogether.
    - On our Facebook page we frequently get people posting critical comments about those who believe in God. Claiming that the Bible and Christianity support slavery or murder or war or other abuses. What these comments reveal is how deeply the lie that God's law being imposed has infected the world.
- We would replace design law and how reality works with man-made law and legal requirements and restrictions—
    - This leads to all kinds of inconsistencies, loopholes, abuses, extortions, taxes, domination, ever increasing fear and damages the reasoning powers. People become legal, rigid, rules-oriented, irrational to reality applying rules because the rules say so. We see this so much right now with how COVID is being handled so differently in different jurisdictions. So, it destroys discernment and wisdom, love, faith and hope.
- We would replace actual examination of reality with textbooks filled with claims, proclamations, lists, theories—whether religious dogmas or creeds or godless theories of origins, or claims there is no male or female, all that contradict reality and thus requires the denial of evidence
    - This leads to increasing intolerance of those who don't see it the socially correct way. We have less willingness to intelligently discuss, explore, examine, and greater use of power over to enforce our way, through firing, socially rejecting, ostracizing, or violence. This happens in academia with those who want to show the evidence for creation and God, and is happening now with any who disagree with a certain social agenda. This is what always happens when views are held that are not based on truth—truth must be suppressed and those bring truth must be attacked. Thus God's prophets were perpetually attacked; Jesus was attacked; the apostles were attacked; the Reformers were attacked; and who is being ostracized, vilified, attacked by mobs today?
- We replace doing—the practical development of abilities—with academic memorization of narratives, histories, worldviews, philosophies and humanistic values
- We replace God's design for relationships, marriage and family, loving other people by seeking their best interest, with all kinds of distortions based on the law of this sinful world—survival of the fittest. And relationships get distorted in which men dominate women, marriage becomes polygamous, slavery occurs, might makes right, power is in arms or wealth, the economy of heaven is replaced with capitalism, communism, socialism all of which operate on imposed law and me-first principles.

Do you see how the public educational systems of this world are completely corrupt, are destructive to our spiritual nature and abilities, and interfere with human beings developing into the full stature that God has designed for us?

My sister sent me this quotation this week from The Great Controversy, the context is Jesus distraught over Jerusalem just before His crucifixion:

The Majesty of Heaven in tears! the Son of the infinite God troubled in spirit, bowed down with anguish! The scene filled all Heaven with wonder. That scene reveals to us the exceeding sinfulness of sin; it shows how hard a task it is, even for infinite power, to save the guilty from the consequences of transgressing the law of God. [What do you hear? Why is it hard? If it is just a legal problem and Jesus was willing to pay the penalty, and all we need to do is accept the legal application and have the judge make a ruling, why is that hard? Because that entire idea is a lie, it is a fraud, it is not true. The real problem is not legal but the actual state of our hearts and minds operating out of harmony with God and His design law for life. It is hard to get people to choose God, to reject the lies they love, to reject fear and selfishness and choose to trust Jesus and be transformed in heart. To reject the methods of this world in seeking justice and apply the methods of God. I see how hard it is every day. Look around and you will see those who refuse truth and prefer the way of the world.] Jesus, looking down to the last generation, saw the world involved in a deception similar to that which caused the destruction of Jerusalem. The great sin of the Jews was their rejection of Christ; the great sin of the Christian world would be their rejection of the law of God, the foundation of his government in Heaven and earth. [The great sin of the Christian world, not the agnostic or atheistic world, or communist world, or the Buddhist or Hindu world, but of the Christian world. Consider the meaning. Do we have Christians around the world teaching lawlessness—i.e. there is no law of God, sin doesn't exist, no one will face judgment, God will not punish, or do we have the entire Christian world teaching that all have sinned, and sin is transgression of the law, and we are in legal trouble, and God is required by His holy law to inflict punishment upon lawbreakers? So, understand what this author is saying, that God's design law would be rejected by Christianity, not that they would teach there is no law, but that Christians would accept a replacement to God's law. The would replace God's law with human imposed law and to do so is actually lawless. This is what has happened.] The precepts of Jehovah would be despised and set at naught. Millions in bondage to sin, slaves of Satan, doomed to suffer the second death, would refuse to listen to the words of truth in their day of visitation. Terrible blindness! strange infatuation! (pp 22) [Why are they doomed to suffer the second death? Because having accepted the lie about God's law, that it is imposed rules, they have accepted a false diagnosis—that we are in legal trouble. Having accepted a false diagnosis they have created many false legal solutions to the sin problem, but those theological constructs all based on human law fail to actually heal the heart and mind and renew the character. Thus millions remain in the bondage of sin, fear, selfishness, abusing their spouses, or children, yet claiming legal payment for their sins.]

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Though we don't think of a garden…" There are multiple benefits from being in nature that would enhance learning, less anxiety or stress, better cognitive performance, and real-world experiences.

- A study of 498 Japanese individuals evaluated the impact of walking in the forest versus a routine day. The study found hostility (P<0.001) and depression (P<0.001) scores decreased significantly, and liveliness (P=0.001) scores increased significantly on the forest day compared with the control day. (Morita, E. et al., Psychological effects of forest environments on healthy adults: Shinrin-yoku (forest-air bathing, walking) as a possible method of stress reduction, Public Health , Volume 121 , Issue 1 , 54 – 63).

- Great Britain has over 100 schools that operate in outdoor forest settings. Observation of students from these schools noted improvements in the children's confidence, motivation and concentration, language and communication and physical skills. (O'Brien, L., Learning outdoors: the Forest School approach, Education 3-13, Vol. 37, Iss. 1, 2009, Pages 45-60. O'Brien, L., Forest School and its impact on young children: Case studies in Britian. Urbaan Forestry and Urban Greening, Vol 6, Iss 4, November 2007, Pages 249–265).

Read second paragraph, "God made man and woman…" Why did God give Adam and Eve work to do?

Because it is only by application of one's abilities that a person develops. Useful labor is beneficial for us. The benefits include:

- Improved self-esteem, from actual accomplishment and achievement.
- Better physical health, from increased physical activity and the reduced firing stress pathways as we experience satisfaction with completing tasks, or fulfilling our life goals, aspirations, and dreams.
- Development of our brain circuits that control physical movement, which in turn improves our thinking and reasoning.
- Benefits those around us: as we engage in useful activity our activities will result in blessings in our environment—whether we are creating works of art, or music to brighten the heart, or are mopping, vacuuming, picking up trash to create clean environments, or growing food. All useful activity blesses those around us.
- Reduces burdens on others: by staying active we reduce the likelihood of our own disability and the need for others to care for us.
- Harmonizes with law of love, which is the principle of giving; and the more we give the more we receive
- In the world of sin, working reduces opportunity for temptation, and this is perhaps one of the greatest benefits of useful work today and thus helps us develop mature character

So useful labor operates upon the laws of exertion and love. If you wanted to injure people, to undermine their development, to cause them to be less capable—what action might you take?

Which group would be most likely to develop to their highest potential:

- Those who have liberty, freedom, and equal opportunity but have to work for everything they get, no freebies, no handouts

- Those who also have liberty, freedom, and equal opportunity but everything necessary to live is given to them, monthly stipend, free housing, food vouchers, whether they achieve or don't achieve they will always have a place to live, clothes to wear, food to eat.

It is a violation of God's design to give everything to people and never require them to exert themselves, never place them where they have to work, to apply their energies, to grapple to overcome and achieve.

In the third paragraph the lesson points out that God wants humans to be happy. From where does happiness arise?

As I have said previously happiness is the byproduct of healthiness in all domains – physical, mental, emotional, relational, and spiritual. When we are physically ill, we are not happy; mental or emotional illness – not happy; relationship conflict – not happy; spiritual sickness (guilt, shame, condemnation) – not happy.

Just this week I came across a quote from Viktor Frankl—Austrian Neurologist, Psychiatrist and Holocaust Survivor:

> Success, like happiness, cannot be pursued; it must ensue, and it only does so as the unintended side effect of one's personal dedication to a cause greater than oneself or as the by-product of one's surrender to a person other than oneself.

Many people who are unhappy, because they are unhealthy spiritually and psychologically, substitute pleasure seeking for happiness and most pleasure seeking violates the laws of health in some way and thus they only get worse.

Happiness is the byproduct of healthiness in all domains, and healthiness is experienced only when we are in harmony with God's design laws for life – the protocols upon which the Creator God has built reality to operate. When we break the laws of health, sickness, disease, and suffering occur – thus undermining our happiness. This is why the Bible repeatedly tells us, "Happy are those who keep God's law!" (Proverbs 29:18 GNT).

While we cannot choose to "be happy" or seek to directly obtain happiness, we can choose to be healthy, choosing to live in harmony with all aspects of God's design laws for life. And as we choose healthiness, the byproduct is ever increasing happiness.

Over the last several decades a lot of research into happiness has occurred. And what do you think the research shows?

- In one 6-week study the researchers had participants randomized into a control group and two active groups. One group was to "count your blessings" once a week on Sunday, the other active group was to "count your blessings" 3 times per week Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday. This was done by making lists of things they were thankful for.

- Those who counted their blessings once a week had improvement in gratitude and happiness
- Both the controls and those who counted their blessings three times per week had reductions in both gratitude and happiness
- Once a week caused actual thankfulness and appreciation, three times a week caused a desensitization where the list making became rote, a chore, proforma, routine and perhaps even a burden. (Lyubomirsky, S et al, Pursuing happiness, the architecture of sustainable change. Review of General Psychology. 2005;9(2)111-131).

- In a different 4-week study they had a control group and two study groups, one group was to do acts of kindness for others, the other study group was to do acts of kindness for self. At the end of the study, and at a later follow up.
  - Those who did acts of kindness for others were happier than the control group, but those who did acts of kindness for self were no different from the control group. (Nelson, SK et al., Emotions. 2016;16(6):850-861).

- In another 4-week study researchers wanted to see if acts of kindness did more than just bring an emotional state of happiness. Are their physical benefits to acts of kindness. They had four groups—controls, those who were to do acts of kindness for others, those who were to do acts of kindness for the world—like picking up trash along the road, and those who did acts of kindness for self. Then they examined gene expression in WBC's to see if there was a difference in immunity.
  - Those who did acts of kindness for others had reduced inflammation and improved viral fighting ability when compared to controls. In other words, gene expression changed, epigenetically, based on acts of kindness toward others.
  - But those who did acts of kindness toward the world or for self, did not differ from controls. (Nelson-Coffey, SK, et al., Psychoneuroendocrinology. 2017;81:8-13).

- Researchers found that acts of kindness or happiness interventions could backfire in some situations and make a person less happy;
  - When the motivation is self-focused, doing acts of kindness so others will like you more, or you will get advancement, or praise etc.
  - When it becomes a burden, rote, work, rather than actual love
  - When it contradicts one's heart, beliefs, or current mindset
    - Such as a person who is in clinical depression making a thankful list—this can actual cause the person to feel guilt, feel like a burden to others as they think about how much others have done for them
    - Cultural contradictions—like in some Eastern cultures to give thanks to parents for a good job in raising their children is viewed as an insult as if they wouldn't have fulfilled their duty to their family
    - Actions that go against a person's baseline personality, such as an introverted person being directed to give thanks in front of a group

- What the research has thus far demonstrated is that the greatest action one can take that consistently brings increased happiness is acts of kindness for others.

MONDAY

Near the bottom of the lesson we read, "In Genesis 3:1-6, examine the description the serpent used and that Eve repeated. What do you notice about the information that the serpent offers Eve? What do you notice about how Eve then regards the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil?"

This is from the NIV:

> Now the serpent was more crafty than any of the wild animals the LORD God had made. He said to the woman, "Did God really say, 'You must not eat from any tree in the garden'?"
> 2 The woman said to the serpent, "We may eat fruit from the trees in the garden, 3 but God did say, 'You must not eat fruit from the tree that is in the middle of the garden, and you must not touch it, or you will die.' "
> 4 "You will not surely die," the serpent said to the woman. 5 "For God knows that when you eat of it your eyes will be opened, and you will be like God, knowing good and evil."
> 6 When the woman saw that the fruit of the tree was good for food and pleasing to the eye, and also desirable for gaining wisdom, she took some and ate it. She also gave some to her husband, who was with her, and he ate it.

What do you notice from this exchange? What did the serpent do? What lies or distortions did the serpent introduce?

What is meant by the claim "you will not surely die?" What is implied? Is the serpent saying there is nothing actually harmful about eating the fruit?

If the serpent is saying there isn't anything harmful in eating the fruit, yet God has said if you eat of it you will die, then if the fruit won't kill them, what is the unsaid implication?

This is where Satan introduces the idea of God's law being imposed—there is nothing inherently wrong with eating the fruit, so you can eat it and not die, God may use power to kill you, but the act of eating the fruit itself is not harmful. This is the subtle lie woven into the temptation.

But there is another tactic of Satan seen here that is being used widely in society today—he globalizes. He takes a minor or narrow restriction or issue and makes it appear like it is a total issue. "Did God really say, 'You must not eat from any tree in the garden'?"

"You can't eat anything in this place—all the trees are off limits. God is restrictive"—globalization.

Do we see this being done today to incite people to rebel against love, to turn against their neighbors, to attack their communities?

What about the narrative of white police officers shooting black men being a global, society wide problem leading to hostility, violence and calls for police departments to be defunded? This narrative is a lie, not all the trees in the garden are off limits, not all the millions of righteous and honest police officers are hunting down black men.

But there is a globalization, a distortion of reality, taking a narrow point and making it sound like it is globalized as a free-for-all killing spree of a system that targets blacks. Do we want the truth?

Candace Owen, a black American woman, granddaughter of a sharecropper, writes in her newly released book: Blackout: How Black America Can Make Its Second Escape From the Democrat Plantation:

> The narrative that black me are routinely discriminated against and slaughtered by white police officers has become a dominate theme across mainstream media, inspiring protests, boycotts, and clashes with police officers. Across social media, footage of black men dying at the hands of white police officers has received hundreds of millions of views, garnering an emotional response from many who have decided that police brutality is a problem that needs to be solved. Of course, virtually no American would stand in support of something has horrific as police brutality, but the truth is, the issue of blacks being murdered at will by vigilante police officers is but a dishonest distortion, blown out of proportion by the liberal media's foundational need to highlight the suffering of the black community—whether real or imagined.
> In an op-ed published by the City Journal on September 25, 2017, writer and attorney Heather Mac Donald used indisputable numbers to dispel the narrative that killing of black men by white cops was such a frequent, senseless occurrence that all black mothers ought to keep their sons locked up in their rooms… 'Contrary to the Black Lives Matter narrative, the police have more to fear from black males than black males have to fear from police,' Mac Donald wrote. 'In 2015, a police officer was 18.5 times more likely to be killed by a black male than an unarmed black male was to be killed by a police officer.'…
> The FBI's 2018 data on homicides clearly shows that blacks do not need to be protected from white police officers—they need to be protected from themselves. of the 2,925 blacks who were killed in 2018, 2600 of their murderers were other blacks; only 234 were white. I need not point out the fact that even if those 234 white-on-black homicides were all committed by cops (they were not), blacks are still 11 times more likely to be killed by someone within their own community." pp 167-171.

She goes on to document that research shows that the most relevant variable that increases the likelihood of being shot by police is not race, but the amount of crime in the county in which one lives. If you live in a county in which a lot of white people are committing crimes then white people are more likely to be shot, but if you live in a county in which a lot of black people are committing crimes then black people are more likely to be shot. Police shootings have nothing to do with race and everything to do with crime.

Why do I present these data in a Bible study? Because we are examining the methods of Satan—how he distorts reality and deceives. How he takes a minor narrow issue and tries to globalize it in order to incite fear, resentment, and rebellion.

Satan is described in the Bible as a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour. When the lion roars it incites fear. When you see all these messages inciting fear in our society today, causing people to pull back, to isolate, to stop ministering to each other, to attack others who don't live by their fear-based restrictions, do you see the roaring lion?

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, "Though she [Eve]…" The Bible says Eve was deceived—was it about not taking God seriously, or about believing a lie?

And how would you describe the lie that she believed? Was it merely about the dangers of the fruit, or about the trustworthiness of God?

This is where the devil really tricked her. In demonstrating the fruit wasn't harmful he got her focusing on the fruit and diverted her mind away from what really mattered—this trick works today on so many. This issue was not about the fruit, it was about who she trusted.

Life, health, happiness all have their source in God. The key was not a piece of fruit, but their love/trust relationship with God. Satan was using the Tree of Knowledge to introduce doubt about God, not to get her to eat a poisonous fruit.

- Lies believed break the circle of love and trust
- Broken love and trust result in fear and selfishness (survival of the fittest)
- Fear and selfishness result in acts of sin
- Acts of sin damage mind, body, relationships a terminal condition

Here are a couple of historic quotes, demonstrating what I am teaching has been understood for years and is part of historic Adventism.

> Eve believed the words of Satan, and the belief of that falsehood in regard to God's character, changed the condition and character of both herself and husband. They were changed from good and obedient children into transgressors..{RH, January 5, 1886 par. 8}

Now consider this quote:

> Through belief in Satan's misrepresentation of God, man's character and destiny were changed, but if men will believe in the Word of God, they will be transformed in mind and character, and fitted for eternal life {1SM 346.1}

Jesus said the truth will set us free—truth from what? Lies about God. The truth about God's character of love is the final message of mercy, this is the 3 angels' messages, this is our mission.

- Truth believed destroys lies and restores trust
- In trust we open the heart and love casts out fear
- Love and trust leads to acts of righteousness, service, altruism
- Acts of righteousness results in maturing of character and witnessing the kingdom of God

But it all starts with the truth about God—as long as we cling to the penal legal lies about God the healing plan is obstructed!

What do you understand the purpose of the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil to be?

What do you take from the name of this tree?

Do you see it is a tree of reality—it is the place where Adam and Eve would decide what they would know.

> This is life eternal that they might know you the only true God and Jesus Christ whom you have sent John 17:3

This knowledge of Good and Evil, wasn't theoretical knowledge, it wasn't cognitive knowledge. God and the angels had already informed Adam and Eve about Satan, about evil, about death being result of sin.

Adam and Eve had information, factual knowledge. That is not what the Tree was about—it was about experience, knowing by experience Good or Evil, by the choice to trust and believe God, or to believe lies and disbelieve God thereby breaking trust with Him.

God tells them, at this tree you will have knowledge—choose well, choose not to partake of the fruit and you will know Good—you will know love, trust, loyalty, devotion, maturity, integrity, joy, peace, and godliness all of this will solidify in your character. But if you choose to partake the fruit, you will know fear, selfishness, insecurity, guilt, shame, distrust, pain, suffering and death—you will know evil.

God already knew evil—not in His character, but in His heart as His heavenly home had been fractured and He was already suffering the heartache of betrayal, disaffection, being lied about and the loss of His most loved angel.

God did not want humankind to know this kind of pain, suffering, heartache. He wanted humankind do know only good, but this required them to choose to trust God and choose the good in order for them to know it.

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote:

> God might have created man without the power to transgress His law; He might have withheld the hand of Adam from touching the forbidden fruit; but in that case man would have been, not a free moral agent, but a mere automation. Without freedom of choice, his obedience would not have been voluntary, but forced. There could have been no development of character. . . . It would have been unworthy of man as an intelligent being, and would have sustained Satan's charge of God's arbitrary rule. {CC 13.3}

WEDNESDAY

Read third paragraph, "The good news is…" What has Jesus done for us? How would you describe it? And how is what Jesus has done for us to be connected to education?

Do we alter the education we provide when we teach the plan of salvation (what Jesus has done for us) through the imposed law view, when we teach a penal legal salvation?

THURSDAY

The lesson focuses on those who despise authority. What do you understand authority to be?

What is the difference between the authority wielded by humans and the authority wielded by God?

What kind of law do the two systems operate upon?

Does our understanding of law impact our understanding of authority?

Do we view authority like the authority of a:

- referee
- umpire
- official
- judge
- magistrate

What gives the people in these offices authority? The rules of the various organizations—and ultimately the consent of those upon whom the authority is visited.

In other words, human authority arises out of the consent of the governed—we must go along.

But God's authority rests in truth—in reality itself and thus it is authoritative even for those who refuse to accept it. It is the authority of design law.

The lesson asks us to read 2Peter 2. This particular passage is grossly misunderstood and in my view seriously mistranslated through the lens of imposed law in most translations. I will read it from The Remedy:

> 1In the past, among God's people were those who claimed to speak for God and bring his Remedy, but they did not speak for God at all, and they brought a false remedy. Likewise, there will be people among you who claim to teach God's truth and have God's Remedy but will teach lies. They will subtly introduce false remedies — destructive doctrines purported to heal but actually incite fear, shut down thinking, and damage the mind. They will even deny the Sovereign Lord who procured the Remedy, thus bringing rapid deterioration and destruction upon themselves.2There will be large numbers of people who embrace their corrupt ways while calling themselves Christians, thus causing the Remedy to be considered worthless.3In their eagerness for power, fame and wealth, these false teachers will mislead you with theories and doctrines they have made up on their own. Because of this, their terminal condition only worsens, and their ultimate destruction is unavoidable.
> 4For God did not suspend reality to let the angels avoid the consequences of their deviation from his design for life, but he expelled them from his presence, suspending them in utter darkness for the day they reap the full result of unremedied sin.5God did not allow the gangrenous ancient world to completely cut itself off from him but brought the flood to excise the necrosis and save Noah–a teacher of the Remedy–and seven others.6He diagnosed the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah as beyond healing, and in mercy, he cauterized those festering lesions to ash, making it clear that the unhealed will not be made to suffer eternally, but the torment of sin will mercifully be ended;7and God delivered Lot–a man who partook of the Remedy and was tormented by the disgusting lives of those living in violation of God's design–8for it was torture for that man with a healed mind and sensitive heart to live day after day among such vileness and see and hear such vulgarity.9If God can do all of this, he also knows how to rescue from affliction the godly — those who have partaken of the Remedy — while preserving until the day everyone is accurately diagnosed, the ungodly — those who by refusing the Remedy suffer in persistent sin,10and especially those whose minds are controlled by selfishness and who are so self-centered that they despise any authority, oversight, or redirection. They are presumptuous, pompous and arrogant; they are so self-absorbed that they have no respect for heavenly beings, but instead, they denigrate them.11Yet even angels, who are mightier and stronger than these false teachers, do not slander such beings in the presence of God–the source of all truth.12These people speak foolishly about things they don't even comprehend; they are like unthinking animals, driven by fear, rage, and lust. They are caught up in their own destructive choices, and — like the unthinking beasts — they will also perish.
> 13They will reap what they have sown, receiving as their wages the harmful results of living outside God's design. Their idea of health and happiness is to violate trust, stay faithful to no one, and openly indulge the basest passions. They are festering lesions of decay, reveling in their orgies.[14]They constantly backstab, betray and exploit; they never stop violating God's design for life — the law of love — and instead, constantly promote selfishness. They seduce the immature and unstable; they are experts in taking for themselves, regardless of how it hurts others. They are unhealed, dying under the curse of sin;[15]they have chosen to leave the design protocols for life and have embraced the methods of Balaam, son of Beor, who loved the rewards procured by exploiting others.[16]But a donkey had more sense than Balaam and told him he was wrong. With the voice of a man, the donkey spoke and stopped the prophet's insane action.

[17]These people have nothing to offer; they are like dried-up springs, having no more substance than a vapor trail in the sky. Eternal darkness is what awaits them.[18]They proclaim a false message, empty of any healing power but appealing to the selfish human desire to advance self. They entice people who are only just escaping the dog-eat-dog world.[19]They promise freedom from fear and selfishness but are themselves slaves to their own insecurities, lusts and depraved natures — for a person is a slave to whatever controls them.[20]If they have broken free from the corruption of the world by experiencing a genuine intimacy with our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ but choose to entangle themselves again in the web of selfishness, lust and deceit, they are worse than they were before they knew the freedom in Christ.[21]They would suffer less if they had never experienced the joy and freedom of righteousness than to have known it and turned back into slavery and pain, ignoring God's design–the sacred protocols that were passed on to them.[22]Their characters prove true the proverbs: "A dog swallows its own vomit," and "You can clean a pig, but it will return to wallowing in the mud."

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 2
The Family

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Over the last year have you perceived that we are nearing the second coming of Christ?

- Have you perceived evil forces increasing their assault?
- Have you seen evil more clearly exposed in society than ever before?
- Have you heard the roar of our enemy working to incite fear?
- Have you seen society fracturing into ever increasing hostile groups?

I have as well. We must keep our eyes fixed on Jesus—the Author and Finisher of our faith. Jesus is they key—the true Jesus, not the pagan fraud that infected Christianity when Constantine converted.

As we return to Jesus the Creator and His design laws we want to practice His principles. We gain discernment and we have a duty to promote God's principles. But should we teach God's principles only in history, or should we teach people living at this time how God's principles are applied today? Should we teach people how to discern, to differentiate God's workings from the enemy of God?

Should we expose violations of God's principles in various movements and activities in the world today?

Consider these three descriptions:

> Satan has ascribed to God all the evils to which the flesh is heir. He has represented him as a God who delights in the sufferings of his creatures, who is revengeful and implacable. RH November 17, 1891, par. 5

What method does Satan use? Projection—do evil or incite evil and then ascribe it to God as the one who is the source of the evil. Projection is a form of denial, a form of deceit, a form of lying. Not only is evil being done, but the one doing it blames some other for it.

> By departing from God's law the Hebrews had failed to become the people that God desired to make them, and then all the evils which were the result of their own sin and folly they charged upon the government of God. So completely had they become blinded by sin. PP 605.2

What method did these apostates use? They did evil and blamed it and it's consequences on God.

> In the days of the Reformation its enemies charged all the evils of fanaticism upon the very ones who were laboring most earnestly against it. GC 397.1

topics@comeandreason.com

What method did Satan's agents use here? To do evil, fanatical evil and charge their evil to the Reformers.

Do we see in our society today movements and groups doing evil and then blaming it on others? Whenever you see this method you can know those practicing it are not from God regardless of the cause they advocate.

Do we have a role to play, at this time in earth's history to sound the alarm, to wake people up, to promote the methods of truth, love, freedom and expose the methods of deceit, coercion, and selfishness?

But what if in doing so, we are accused of being political, should we stop?

Is there a difference in exposing the destruction that occurs when God's methods are violated and advocating for a politician, political party, or legislation?

Come and Reason Ministry advocate for no politician, political party, or legislation. We are not interested in getting any person elected or law passed—we are interested in freeing people's hearts and minds from worldly methods and establishing people into the kingdom of God.

I was reflecting on this issue again this week because several messages have come in from people who accuse me of being political when I apply truth to reality and society. As I was reflecting, I read Psalms 49 from The Remedy of the Lord in Song and wanted to share it with you. Consider what it says in light of what is happening in the world today:

> Hear this, everyone; listen carefully, every person who lives on the earth,
> [2]both young and old, rich and poor alike:
> [3]I will tell you real wisdom, because I understand how reality works.
> [4]I will use my insight to discern profound proverbs > and bring forth the hidden meaning like music from a harp.
> [5]Why should I fear in the days when evil abounds, > when the depravity and villainy of my enemies surround me — > [6]those who believe they are spiritually superior because of their wealth > and boast of their great riches?
> [7]No one can ever cure their own terminal condition, > no human can buy the remedy from God —
> [8]the cost to procure it is beyond our means.
> Nothing we could provide would ever cure our mortal state
> [9]so that we would live forever and never experience death.

10 For all can see that everyone dies — the wise, the foolish and the thoughtless brutes — everyone perishes and leaves their wealth to others.
11 Their inner thoughts (characters) are fixed as their permanent state of being.
Though they claimed the earth as their own,
12 their prized selfish — sin-infected — world will not last:
they will die just like brute beasts.
13 This is the inevitable end for those who trust in themselves, and of all who follow them and embrace their selfish ways.
14 Like mindless sheep they are destined for the grave, and death will consume them.

When the earth is made new,
the righteous — those restored to God's perfect design — will walk over their graves; their bodies will turn to dust in the grave, and they will never live in heavenly mansions.
15 But God will heal my terminal condition and resurrect me from the grave;
he will most certainly take me to live with him.
16 Don't be distraught when the selfish become rich, when their estates become increasingly opulent and grand, 17 for they will take nothing with them when they die — their wealth will not follow them into the grave.
18 Though they proclaim themselves fulfilled and triumphant — and they are praised for their success — 19 they will die like all the other selfish people before them;
they will never see the light of life again.
20 A person who is wealthy without understanding the reality of God's design is like the mindless beast doomed to perish.

What do you hear in this psalm that is a lesson for today?

Do you hear messaging from certain groups in society today that is designed to incite jealousy, envy, make people feel it isn't right that some people have more wealth than they have? Do you hear messaging that is designed to inspire people with a sense of unfairness and inspire them to seek power in order to take from others rather than earn for themselves? When you hear this messaging do you see it inspiring love for the less fortunate or class division, resentment and hostility?

Selfishness leads to jealousy, envy, anger, and hate at not having as much as others, which leads to feeling one is being taken advantage of. It causes people to value this world and the wealth and possessions of this world more than the riches of God's kingdom—which are truth, love, freedom, and godly character. When people are filled with love of possessions and become envious and demand equality of stuff, what happens? Do we see people being uplifted, coming together in mutual love and respect or do we see people being destroyed?

This is a great trap of Satan which he has used successfully over and over again throughout human history; he incites the fearful selfish heart to become jealous and envious, to look at the world's wealth as the ideal, to accept the world's methods as right, to believe the lie that the-power-over-others method of domination, of imposed law and violence to force one's way is right. In Satan's world the strong survive and the weak die.

And Satan leads such selfish and envious people to use human governments to take from others in order to get for self—this is what all aristocracies do, what all Marxism does, what Socialism does, what Communism does, what Stalinism does—100% of the time when these principles are practiced in society the masses are exploited for the benefit of the few, but what makes this so evil is that the masses are hurt under the umbrella of the lie that they are being helped—that it is for their good. What makes it so diabolical is that the people themselves, by embracing selfishness, by embracing envy, are tricked into embracing these practices under the guise of doing good. It is a great deceit and it occurs because people have embraced Satan's law of me-first, of getting more for self, of jealousy, envy and that imposed law is how one gets righteousness. They don't actually love others functionally; they have not sought to live in harmony with God's kingdom and methods.

There are many compassionate people who get deceived into this destruction because they allow their feelings to rule them and don't understand how love actually functions; they don't understand the difference between God's law and the laws of this world and they go along with these destructive methods because they want to help the less fortunate. But they are the blind who are following blind leaders.

We have a higher calling—we are not to make the riches of this world our focus. We are to make God's kingdom, God's reality, God's methods the focus. We are to love God supremely and every human being as ourselves—as part of our own body—seeking their best, but always under the umbrella of God's methods and principles. It is only with God's methods that we find true unity, equality, and harmony.

But as soon as we try and achieve God's methods of righteousness through human governments, we corrupt the message, damage the mission and ultimately end up promoting Satan's methods and kingdom.

Read first paragraph, "As human beings…" this is so true, we are always learning and life teaches—the question is what are we learning?

Does the fact that we are always learning me we are always learning truth?

Can we be lifelong learners and learn falsehoods?

What would you say would be keys to right learning?

Establishing the right principles for learning, having the right sources of truth and having mature teachers? What are the keys to having these?

- Understanding reality—the ways in which we learn. We learn by experience, we learn by instruction, we learn by doing, we learn by observing, we learn by worshipping, we learn by relationship (which is a form of experience).
- The integrative evidenced-based approach, which harmonizes Scripture, Science and Experience—separating these three threads opens the door to distortion and misunderstanding.
- Having the right worldview, lens through which to understand facts.
    - There are facts and there are interpretations of facts. The facts can usually be agreed upon, it is the interpretations that cause disagreement.
- Understanding God's law as design law and then identifying those laws and how they function. These become constants upon which we can take confusing pieces of data and test them, examine them, and draw reliable consistent conclusions.
- Understanding the nature and character of sin, as a condition of being out of harmony with God's design for life which damages the sinner and if unremedied results in death and not a legal problem.
- Understanding that we are finite and that truth is unfolding and we never arrive to a place that we stop learning.
- Trusting God as the source of truth and therefore studying and pursuing truth in any field of study with a heart humble before God seeking His enlightenment.

Methods of learning in include:

- Receiving
    - Listening
    - Reading
    - Watching
        - But receiving can be done actively or passively
        - Passive: listening and accepting what you hear because you invest the source (speaker, author) with authority; my teacher said it therefore it must be true. I read it in a textbook or science journal therefore it must be true.
        - Active: hearing what someone is says or teaches, but thinking for yourself, examining the evidence for yourself, and only believing or accepting what is being taught when the evidence supports it and it actually makes sense.
- Participating
    - Discussion
    - Role play
    - Playing
    - This type of learning can be less obvious—people can be taught things without actually realizing they are being taught, without active thinking things through. This is how many people come to understand the imposed law lie about God's government, because all human systems operate this way. All games have made up rules and we accept them as right and learn that right and wrong is determined by the rules. Thus the focus of the play is on the specific game and learning the rules of the game, but one is also being taught that right and wrong is determined by the rules and eventually outside rule-enforcers—referees, umpires, police, judges, God.

- Doing
  - Application
  - Practicing
  - Editing, rewriting, correcting,
  - Building
  - Teaching

In medical school they had the phrase, See One, Do One, Teach One.

Our lesson title is The Family, and we received this email recently:

> We are so blessed to learn about God's design laws, Sanctuary, His character of love, His principles and methods from you. Thank you so much for bringing a greater understanding and love for God. I grew up in Church with the legalistic view of God.
>
> By being legalistic while the children were growing up at home we have failed as parents. We should have helped them experience God! Although three of our children are professionals they are not interested in coming to Church. But since our understanding and attitude has changed they are still close in relationship to us. We gave them your books and encourage them to listen to your SS class. We pray for them, love them and remain helpful to them. We wait for the Holy Spirit to continue to work in their hearts as we did mess up totally.
> But there is a lot of resistance from our Church members to study and see if what you are saying is right! One of them did started listening to you. We keep sharing these truths with our SS Class as it is vital and we hope one day they will be open to have you in our Church.
>
> We want to let you know how much we appreciate your ministry. We enjoy SS Class discussions with all of the member's participation…
>
> May God continue to bless your ministry that all will be enlightened and our Savior will come and take us home soon. We are tired of all the confusion and chaos here.
> We pray for your ministry and for all of you who are participating and giving sacrificially.

Read second paragraph, which is a quote from The Desire of Ages:

> From the earliest times the faithful in Israel had given much care to the education of the youth. [Do we do this today? If we are not giving care to the education of our children, would that mean we are not faithful? What is the purpose of the education of our children? What are the consequences of allowing the state to take over their education? If a person today has grown children, like our email above, and in their personal journey has come to new insights about

> God should they look back on how they raised their children with guilt? Can they look back with regret or disappointment, but without guilt? When is guilt appropriate? When we knowingly do wrong. Can a person teach what they do not know? Can you teach your child Spanish if you don't know Spanish? Could parents in the 19th Century teach their children to floss their teeth? Why not? Because floss didn't exist and no one new about it or its importance. Should parents, once floss was discovered and made available, look back and feel guilty they didn't know and teach this? We must not punish ourselves with false guilt for not teaching our children what we ourselves didn't know.] The Lord had directed that even from babyhood the children should be taught of His goodness and His greatness, especially as revealed in His law, and shown in the history of Israel. Song and prayer and lessons from the Scriptures were to be adapted to the opening mind. Fathers and mothers were to instruct their children that the law of God is an expression of His character, and that as they received the principles of the law into the heart, the image of God was traced on mind and soul. Much of the teaching was oral; but the youth also learned to read the Hebrew writings; and the parchment rolls of the Old Testament Scriptures were open to their study. DA 69.2

Teach our children of God's greatness and goodness revealed in His law and that the law is an expression of His character and when we receive it into our hearts the image of God is traced on mind and soul.

What do you hear in this?

What law lens? If you were raised, and always believed, that law means rules—imposed law like humans make, that require oversight and legal enforcement, does that impact what you teach your children? Does it create contradictions in which God is presented as something other than love, but at the same time you tell your children that God is love?

If we read this through design law, then do we find a perfect harmony—God as our loving Creator, who built reality for life, for our health, our happiness and deviations from those parameters injure us and require healing from God. But harmony with God and His law transforms us to be like Him.

Will our children receive this type of education—an education which centers on God and His methods and design—in public schools? Are there political movements that want to get rid of private Christian schools and mandate everyone get a public education? What might happen to private schools if the government could require students to stay home for a year or more and take online classes? Will parents continue to pay $15,000 a year for their children to take classes on a computer? In fact, in some places in the US today private schools are struggle, some are closing because of the current government restrictions. Are the actions of the government merely designed to save lives, or are they malicious, calculated to destroy private schools and get our children into public schools for a socialist/humanist indoctrination? Consider the restriction of religious liberty being impose by government—do you see Bible prophecy being fulfilled?

https://www.masslive.com/news/2020/06/future-of-private-schools-in-question-with-wave-of-closures.html

https://www.baltimoresun.com/opinion/op-ed/bs-ed-op-0717-private-schools-trouble-20200716-j4lhjelbmrfwfjkxvyyvibka6m-story.html

Should we stand up and while not becoming political, should we voice opposition to practices that restrict religious liberty? Should we help people see that there is a consistent attack against religious liberty from the philosophy of humanism, evolutionism, and secularism?

One city in America, which is extremely "progressive" has restricted attendance in churches to 1 person at a time, while other businesses (barbershops, nail salons, day cares, stores) are not restricted in this way. Why such restrictions focused on houses of worship? Does anyone truly believe this is about protecting from a virus? Do you see the signs of the time?
https://www.foxnews.com/politics/justice-dept-calls-on-sf-to-end-draconian-coronavirus-rules-for-houses-of-worship

If you read my blog King of the South Versus King of the North—I take the position that these kings represent two philosophical forces—godless secularism as the king of the south and religious imperialism as the king of the north. The final movements are an attack from the king of the south, which enrages the king of the north to storm out against the king of the south destroying the king of the south. This would be the forming of the image of the beast of religious imperialism.

SUNDAY

Family first—all learning begins in the home.

Where do children learn to speak their first language? And consider this learning—

- Are we born genetically programmed to speak a certain language?
- Does anyone make the choice on which language they speak first?
- Can a person by force of will choose to start speaking a different language than their family?

Now consider this—this language we learn simply by our environment, that we didn't choose, isn't genetically programmed, we couldn't avoid it, we simply assimilated it from our environment—and EVERYTHING we think is filtered through it. When we look outside and see an object with limbs and leaves we see a TREE we do not see a BAUM—which is the German word for tree.

Do you think English is the only filter we learn like this?

- What about the filter of who we are?
- How men and women treat each other?
- Whether people can be trusted?
- Whether we have value and are loved?
- What love is and how it functions?
- Whether there is a God or not?

- Whether God can be trusted or not?
- Whether people of other cultures and races are equal to us?
- Whether people of other religions are equal to us?

How do we learn such things? First—at home in what we experience, in how we are treated, in how we see others in the family and community treat each other, in how we see our parents live—not just what they say, but what they do.

Would this mean that there is a generational influence to education? In other words, what the parents know and live is passed on to the children. If the parents want to pass something different on to the children the parents must introduce something new into the home.

Consider immigrant families that historically required English to be spoken in their home by their children. Why did they do this?

Read fifth paragraph, "Christian education is a commitment…"

Educating families, where would such education take place?
Consider the list of things in this paragraph:

- Doctrine—which means teaching
    - Is there a difference between teaching a list of beliefs, a creed, a list of fundamental beliefs versus how to reason and think?
    - Are there some core beliefs, foundational to understand in order to learn how to discern, reason, think and problem solve? What are they?
        - God is love—and God loves you personally, individually and is your friend and will never forsake you
        - God is Creator and His laws are design laws
        - Teaching children God's design laws as the child is able to comprehend
- Worship—is there a law involved?
- Instruction—method of teaching, how to teach whereas doctrine is what we teach
- Fellowship—is about relationship
    - Do we fellowship with everyone?
    - Do we let our children fellowship with everyone?
    - Where do we draw the line and why? What do we teach our children when we draw lines in regard to fellowship?
    - How do we set boundaries with people we don't want our children to fellowship with while not introducing into our children ideas of superiority or inferiority?
- Evangelism—what is this? Is this sharing the gospel of Jesus or is this sharing the right Creed and getting people to join the right organization?
- Service—do we all give the same service? Why or why not?

The last paragraph points out that even in Eden, with perfect parenting, things don't always turn out well, it states: "Of course, as the story shows, a good education doesn't always lead to the kind of outcome that one would hope for."

Are parents responsible for how their children turn out?

This a critical point that many parents struggle with because of a Bible verse

> Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it. (Proverbs 22:6 NKJV)

And many parents are taught that this is a promise that if they do a good job they will be guaranteed a good outcome. They are taught that if they teach them right then even though their children may stray, when they get older they will come back.

But if they don't, then the parent is left believing a lie that it must mean the parent did something wrong. And because we are all finite, we always will find new truths later in life we didn't know when we were younger; people who believe this view will turn on themselves and say "Its my fault, if I had only known this truth or that truth then my children wouldn't have left the church."

But parents are not responsible for how another human being turns out even their own children—They are responsible for their conduct in parenting.

The better translation of this passage is:

> Train up a child according to his way, and when he is old he will not depart from it. (Proverbs 22:6 NKJV)

In other words, if you let the child dictate the terms of his rearing, what to watch, whether to go to school what to eat, whether to do chores, etc. you can be sure the child will be a self-indulgent out of control adult who doesn't have any capacity for self-control or handling life's stressors. This is not a promise that if you do a good job you get a good outcome, but if you do no job you get a bad outcome.

In the moving The Miracle Worker about Helen Keller, you see this in Helen before Annie Sullivan came into her life. The parents set no boundaries and let this child do whatever she wanted and she was more out of control that a family dog.

In truth, the Proverb can be translated either way, so which is right, how can we be sure that what I am saying is true? A perfect, flawless, sinless test case of a parent—God parenting Lucifer, and Adam and Eve—did God make mistakes and do things wrong? Did God get the outcome He wanted? So, the passage cannot mean we are guaranteed a good outcome, but a bad if we do not job at all.

Just consider all the influences beyond parental influences that can impact the outcome of children's lives.

MONDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on the little we know about the childhood of Jesus.

Read the third paragraph,

> The child Jesus did not receive instruction in the synagogue schools. His mother was His first human teacher. From her lips and from the scrolls of the prophets, He learned of heavenly things. The very words which He Himself had spoken to Moses for Israel He was now taught at His mother's knee. As He advanced from childhood to youth, He did not seek the schools of the rabbis. He needed not the education to be obtained from such sources; for God was His instructor. DA 70.1

Why was Jesus not put in the parochial schools of His day?

Weren't the schools of His day in existence because God had instructed them to establish these schools?

Shouldn't a parent simply trust that the church school will give the child a proper education? What was wrong with the schools in Christ's day that Jesus was not to attend them?

They taught traditions of man over the truth of God! They indoctrinated into a false system of legal religion with all kinds of rules and did not teach the reality of God's kingdom.

Where could Jesus find the reality of God's law to study in addition to Mary sharing with Him the various Scriptures she had learned throughout her life?

- Jesus followed the divine plan of education. The schools of His time, with their magnifying of things small and their belittling of things great, He did not seek. His education was gained directly from the Heaven-appointed sources; from useful work, from the study of the Scriptures and of nature, and from the experiences of life—God's lesson books, full of instruction to all who bring to them the willing hand, the seeing eye, and the understanding heart. – {Ed 77.2}

- The great storehouse of truth is the word of God—the written word, the book of nature, and the book of experience in God's dealing with human life.– {COL 125.2}

What method is this? The integrative evidence-based approach! Why is this the best method? Because God's law is design law, which is what reality operates upon and when we harmonize Scripture with nature and experience we avoid the imperial human law model—Satan's counterfeit.

This is critical—and you can see why those who teach the penal-legal lie are so insistent that Scripture be studied separately from science and experience.

The last paragraph states that there was much Mary and Joseph didn't understand about Jesus "because Jesus had knowledge and wisdom that had been imparted to Him only by the Lord."

What are your thoughts about this? I certainly agree that Jesus did have knowledge and wisdom imparted to Him by the Lord, no question about it.

But, does that mean that Jesus learned in ways that we cannot learn, or if it is true for Jesus it can also be true for us, that we can have knowledge and wisdom imparted to us directly from the Lord IF we also have a heart that loves God and is humbly seeking to be taught by God, and is faithfully applying to oneself what God has revealed and continues to use the methods and resources God has put in our lives? In other words, we don't neglect the Bible and insist God reveal things to us directly.

But, if we are humble and faithful, can we expect God and angels to reveal things to our minds?

Well, the author of The Desire of Ages thought so:

> Every child may gain knowledge as Jesus did. As we try to become acquainted with our heavenly Father through His word, angels will draw near, our minds will be strengthened, our characters will be elevated and refined. We shall become more like our Saviour. And as we behold the beautiful and grand in nature, our affections go out after God. While the spirit is awed, the soul is invigorated by coming in contact with the Infinite through His works. Communion with God through prayer develops the mental and moral faculties, and the spiritual powers strengthen as we cultivate thoughts upon spiritual things. DA 70.4

TUESDAY

The lesson points out that teaching is communication—and communication is transfer of knowledge that occurs through relationship, which works on both an emotional level and personal one.

The lesson states a good relationship must be built. The lesson is definitely onto some principles of education—but the relationship doesn't have to be good to teach—it can be bad and still teach—but the quality of the relationship impacts what is taught.

Consider:

- Military training—are things taught? Do people learn? Are there relationships? Are those relationships always nurturing, positive, encouraging? Or are they sometimes hostile, critical, stressful, abusive even? Does learning take place? What kind of learning? Are there skills learned in such an environment that if one succeeds in the process strengthens them? But can people also be broken or damaged? Do both groups learn—those who succeed and those who wash out?
- Consider cult indoctrination—are there relationships involved? Does learning take place? But what kind of learning? What impact does it have? What is it designed to do? What methods are employed?

  - In cult indoctrination (as well as gangs) one of the central, core, primary tools that is essential for their success is relationships. They use the power of peers, along with a controlled environment in which divergent views or perspectives are restricted, to break down the individuality and surrender thinking to the group norm and ultimately the cult or gang leader.
  - Individuals with strong sense of self are not attracted to such groups and anyone who cannot be molded and have self surrendered will be terminated from the group
- Healthy use of these principles is as Jesus functioned, first having mature individuals who have a trust relationship with God and who understand God's design for life and the problem of sin in people, then who present the truth in love and leave others free. We love those who don't accept our views or the truth of God's kingdom, but it isn't possible for them to really unite with us in heart as long as they hold to principles outside God's design. So we intelligently keep healthy boundaries with people while we still love them and treat them with respect.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Parents have an awesome…" What do you think about the idea that if fathers are weak family, society and the church suffers?

What are the qualities that make for strong men in society and what factors would weaken them?

Is the modern feminist movement, what is happening in society today, healthy for families, healthy for women, healthy for men?

What is God's design for male-female relationships? Equality, Adam and Eve co-equals, two individuals united in love as one joint entity, neither ruling over the other and united they are able to be more and achieve more than either could by themselves:

- United their experience in love is magnified beyond anything either could do alone.
- Their ability to procreate and have children is only possible together.
- Their ability to learn, discern, develop, is expanded as they share their perspectives with each other.
- I believe their united selves also created strengths that neither would have alone—they are healthier. Research shows healthy marriages do convey physical health benefits compared to single people.

God's design builds up both parties to be more than either is alone—when God's principles are practices in the relationship. BUT when God's design, methods and principles are violated then injury and harm occur.

It is better to be single than to be married to the wrong person or be married to a spiritually emotionally unhealthy person.

God's design for marriage is warped, damaged, distorted in ways that injure both men and women by:

- Polygamy
- Male domination over women—women becoming property to be bartered by their father's to other men; women having no individual rights separate from what her husband grants her; women being physically, emotionally, spiritually, sexually abused by their husbands
- Women being denied education
- Women being denied liberty, free speech, or other autonomy
- Women being denied equal job opportunity—can't work in certain fields merely because of gender, not because of their ability, or being paid less than a man for the same work

To the degree initiatives work to restore God's principles of truth, love, liberty and equality they are healthy. So initiatives that give women rights of equality of individuality, freedom these are all healthy. But initiatives that go beyond this are damaging.

Is the modern feminist movement today seeking only to promote the equality of men and women? Or, is the modern feminist movement seeking to destroy maleness, masculinity?

I want to suggest that the modern feminist movement is a great example of how everything we pursue separate from God's design, law and principles will be corrupted and perverted. If we pursue converting people to Jesus Christ through the methods of the world we will not convert people to Jesus but will harm others as we coerce and force our way upon others. The principles of the world are the principles of imposed rules and laws that coerce and corrupt.

Let's examine and compare God's design with modern feminism.

Do you see messages in society that uplift maleness, masculinity, and men in general to see them be the most godly bastions of Christlike leadership possible, or is the messaging from feminism that maleness, masculinity is bad, abusive and something to be opposed—that if a man is leading women will be exploited?

Well just consider, did God make male and female and give men and women different, but complimentary qualities? If we dominate and suppress women, as has happened in the past, this damages, injures and corrupts, likewise movements that seek to correct the historic domination of women, by suppressing maleness will also damage and corrupt.

Which of the following is held up by feminism today as the greater ideal?

- Retain your virginity until you find a man to marry and then enter into a lifelong marriage OR your body is your own and have sex outside of marriage with anyone you please—male or female?
- Embrace your femineity and love others more than self by becoming a mother and live at home raising your children in goldy love with the support a godly loving husband OR seek to get the best career for yourself, don't sacrifice your career for a family, don't surrender yourself for others, get ahead in this world!

- Men have abilities, strengths and qualities that women do not have and they can do some things better than women and society functions best when we embrace and promote a healthy harmony of both male and female strengths in which they are united in love OR Men have nothing of any real value to offer and society and women would be much better off if men would simply withdraw from leadership and let women run everything?

What is a healthy message for Christians parents to teach their children about men and women, their roles, their place in society and the church?

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, this is so important to never forget what God has done for us as a species, the history of His interventions as recorded in Scripture, but also for us individually. I love this quote:

> We have nothing to fear for the future, except as we shall forget the way the Lord has led us, and His teaching in our past history. 3SM 162

What does this mean to you?

Not only the actions of the Lord in the past, but the truths the Lord has revealed to us throughout history. Have these truths been forgotten? What about the truth of God's design law—and how accepting the lie of imposed law has caused us to forget the truth of what Christ achieved on the Cross and now it is taught in a penal legal lie that makes us forget the truth of God's character.

This is why the final message of mercy is the truth of God's character of love, which is the message of the 3 Angels of Revelation 14, which is also the righteousness by faith message.

The second paragraph points out that Israel was taught to teach their children the marvelous works of God among them and for them: For what purpose?

What if those works are taught to the children in a way that leads to "We are a special people from the rest of the world?" Could it lead to elitism, religious narcissism, exclusivism etc.?

So, what is the purpose of teaching what God has done in the past? To increase our faith in God of course, but does our worldview, our understanding of what God is accomplishing important to understand God's actions in the past?

Thus we need to teach:

- God's character of love—His design law of love, how God built life to function
- What sin actually is—deviation from God's design for life which is a terminal condition that needs healing by God

- That Jesus is the remedy that must come to Earth, He must become human or all humans are lost
- This then enlightens us to the OT as a war between Satan trying to obstruct Jesus becoming incarnate and God working to keep open the avenue for Jesus—the Jewish people then become the focus once God chose Abraham as the one that through his descendants the Messiah would come

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 3
The Law as Teacher

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "In warning…" What do you hear when we read this? What is Paul dealing with—legalism, the idea of God's law being rules imposed and that by law-keeping we can obtain healing from sin and experience righteousness and eternal life. Is it possible for us to do this?

Life doesn't come from the law—but does life come in violation of the law? Consider these historic quotes in light of what Paul is saying—can we harmonize them?

> It will be seen that the glory shining in the face of Jesus is the glory of self-sacrificing love. In the light from Calvary it will be seen that the law of self-renouncing love is the law of life for earth and heaven; that the love which "seeketh not her own" has its source in the heart of God... DA 19.2

> Looking unto Jesus we see that it is the glory of our God to give. "I do nothing of Myself," said Christ; "the living Father hath sent Me, and I live by the Father." "I seek not Mine own glory," but the glory of Him that sent Me. John 8:28; 6:57; 8:50; 7:18. In these words is set forth the great principle which is the law of life for the universe. All things Christ received from God, but He took to give. So in the heavenly courts, in His ministry for all created beings: through the beloved Son, the Father's life flows out to all; through the Son it returns, in praise and joyous service, a tide of love, to the great Source of all. And thus through Christ the circuit of beneficence is complete, representing the character of the great Giver, the law of life. DA 21.2

> All things both in heaven and in earth declare that the great law of life is a law of service. The infinite Father ministers to the life of every living thing. Christ came to the earth "as He that serves." Luke 22:27. The angels are "ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of salvation." Hebrews 1:14. The same law of service is written upon all things in nature. The birds of the air, the beasts of the field, the trees of the forest, the leaves, the grass, and the flowers, the sun in the heavens and the stars of light—all have their ministry. Lake and ocean, river and water spring—each takes to give. Ed 103.2

Then, understanding the idea that God's law is the law of love, the law if service or giving, which is the law of life, we read the following Bible texts:

> This is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel after that time, declares the Lord. I will put my laws in their minds and write them on their hearts. I will be their God, and they will be my people (Heb 8:10 NIV84).

> All who sin apart from the law will also perish apart from the law, and all who sin under the law will be judged by the law. For it is not those who hear the law who are righteous in God's sight, but it is those who obey the law who will be declared righteous. (Indeed, when Gentiles, who do not have the law, do by nature things required by the law, they are a law for themselves, even though they do not have the law, since they show that the requirements of the law are written on their hearts, (Rom 2:12-15 NIV84).

So what is going on with the idea that life doesn't come from the law, but restoring us to life requires God putting His law in our hearts and minds?

From where does life originate? God is the source of all life—no creature or living thing has life in and of itself. (That's Satan's dream to have life eternal apart from God, that is the doctrine of eternal hell, life eternal apart from God, that somehow created beings have life in and of themselves.)

Do the design laws of God give life or are they the protocols upon which life exists?

For instance—do the laws of health give life? No—God gives life, but does maintaining life require we live in harmony with the laws upon which God built life to operate? And if someone is sick with cancer from years of smoking (violating the laws of health) and is dying and God heals them of the cancer—in order for them to live will they also need to stop smoking—live in harmony with the laws of health?

So, the laws do not give life, but breaking God's laws damage and ultimate result in death by cutting us off from the source of life.

Do you see how the design law understanding makes perfect sense of all of this, but an imposed law view causes confusion?

The most important question that underpins essentially everything Christian doctrine is: How do you understand God's law?

When you are discussing issues with others and come to points of disagreement, before getting into the specific doctrine or question or text, step back and clarify with them, How do you understand God's law?

If they understand God's law to function like human law, imposed rules, legal accounting, judicial action, imposed punishments, the will never understand your perspective. They are operating in a false worldview and all their conclusions about the Bible and God will be tainted with Satan's lie about God and God's law. They might accept Jesus as their Savior and teach that He died to save them—but they will teach it through the lie that it was to pay a legal penalty to an offended god who without that payment would use his power to kill them.

The entire world is drunk on the wine of this lie and we have a message that is to go forward at this time in earth's history to enlighten the world for the second coming of Jesus. This message calls people out of the confusion of Babylon—that system of thousands of Christian groups all arguing back and forth over this verse, this doctrine or that ritual because that is what you get with imposed law-confusion and argument. We call them to worship the Creator whose law is design law and reveal to them how God's law is constant and the law upon which life is built, upon which reality works!

Why are so many confused about this? Because of how God did use what appears to be imposed law in the Bible, like the Levitical laws and the 10 Commandments.

Then people read quotes like this one from Christ's Object Lessons

> God's law is the transcript of His character. It embodies the principles of His kingdom. He who refuses to accept these principles is placing himself outside the channel where God's blessings flow. COL 305.3

Many people read things like this and think that God does impose law, that He gave the 10 Commandments at Sinai and they are the full and complete law of God. They don't understand the author's use of "principles" and instead latch onto the 10 Commandment list as a list of imposed rules.

But they have problems with Paul in Galatians where he says the 10 Commandments were added later—in other words the 10 Commandments didn't always exist. The principles of love for God and others, which are the basis of the 10 Commandments, existed eternally, emanating from the heart of God, but the 10 Commandments were added much later, after humans sinned.

The same author who wrote the quote from Christ's Object Lessons above also wrote the following:

> If man had kept the law of God, as given to Adam after his fall, preserved by Noah, and observed by Abraham, there would have been no necessity for the ordinance of circumcision. And if the descendants of Abraham had kept the covenant, of which circumcision was a sign, they would never have been seduced into idolatry, nor would it have been necessary for them to suffer a life of bondage in Egypt; they would have kept God's law in mind, and there would have been no necessity for it to be proclaimed from Sinai or engraved upon the tables of stone. And had the people practiced the principles of the Ten Commandments, there would have been no need of the additional directions given to Moses. {PP 364.2}
> The law of God existed before man was created. The angels were governed by it. [Did angels have a law to honor their father and mother? Not to commit adultery? That sins would pass down 3-4 generations in beings who were at that time sinless? Did angels have a law in heaven, prior to sin, commanding them not to make graven images, not to worship other gods? Was the law that existed in heaven at that time the 10 Commandments?] Satan fell because he transgressed the principles of God's government. [Are principles rules or are they protocols, design laws?] After Adam and Eve were created, God made known to them His law. [What do you think this was? Was it a list of 10 rules? Did Adam and Eve have a law posted in Eden PRIOR to their fall that said their sins would pass down 3-4 generations, when they were at that time sinless? Did Adam and Eve have a law posted in Eden for them to honor their father and mother?] It was not then written, but was rehearsed to them by Jehovah. {SR 145.1}

The Sabbath of the fourth commandment was instituted in Eden. [If the Sabbath of the fourth commandment was instituted in Eden it was not instituted at Sinai correct? But that means it was also not in existence before Eden. So did the angels have a Sabbath commandment when Lucifer rebelled?] After God had made the world and created man upon the earth, He made the Sabbath for man. After Adam's sin and fall nothing was taken from the law of God. The principles of the Ten Commandments existed before the fall and were of a character suited to the condition of a holy order of beings. After the fall the principles of those precepts were not changed, but additional precepts were given to meet man in his fallen state. {SR 145.2} [Additional precepts? Yes, like sins passing down 3-4 generations, don't commit adultery, don't murder, etc. None of this has to be given to beings who are sinless and operate upon the principles of love because when we love as God designs we would never cheat, steal or murder.]

The law of God existed before the creation of man or else Adam could not have sinned. After the transgression of Adam the principles of the law were not changed, but were definitely arranged and expressed to meet man in his fallen condition. (Ibid., March 14, 1878). {1BC 1104.5} The principles of love don't change, but what love does in different situation does change.

So, why did God give the 10 Commandments? Are the 10 Commandments the full expression of God's law? No!

From Could It Be This Simple?

The Ten Commandments are like your DNA code. Yes, we can document a person's specific DNA sequence, offering us an accurate transcript of certain aspects of the individual. But would we know the fullness of the person--the sound of his laugh, the brightness of her smile, the warmth of his or her love--by studying the DNA code? Likewise, the Ten Commandments are but a dim reflection of God's law of love and liberty. Just studying the Ten Commandments will never reveal the fullness of God's law. Instead, we must see the law in living flesh.

God created humanity to be the repository of His living law of love. It was only after the human race fell and the divine law of love was no longer written in the mind that it became necessary to put it on stone in an attempt to awaken us to our sickly state. But it is God's plan to restore His law of love and liberty in our minds. Regarding the new covenant, the writer of Hebrews, quoting Jeremiah states, "This is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel after that time, declares the Lord. I will put my laws in their minds and write them on their hearts" (Heb. 8:10). pp 65

If God's law is design law, the protocols upon which life operates and not imposed rules like humans make, then why did God give the 10 Commandments?

Because we needed it to reveal to us our sin-sick hearts and minds and act as a hedge of protection. The written law, the 10 Commandments are simply a diagnostic took to diagnose us, but the written law has no capacity to heal. It is like an MRI, which can reveal disease inside us hidden from sight, but cannot cure what it reveals. That is the purpose of the 10 Commandments.

Paul writes in 1Timothy 1:8 that the law was not given for the righteous—the spiritually healthy—but for the unrighteous, those who are still terminal in sin and have not repented and had God's law written on their hearts and minds.

SUNDAY

Read the last two paragraphs, "First, they hear, and then, they learn to fear God…." Does this make clear and perfect sense, or is some part of your mind going—"wait a minute?"

"the more we come to know about God, the more we can fear Him, too, because we can see just how holy and righteous He is and how sinful and unrighteous we are in contrast, and how it is only by grace—undeserved merit—that we are not destroyed."

So, does this sound like they mean fear as awe and admiration or fear as in, dread, terror, to be afraid?

But, what about 1John 4:18:

> There is no fear in love. But perfect love drives out fear, because fear has to do with punishment. The one who fears is not made perfect in love. NIV84

Wait—we are to come to know God so that we love Him, and the more we love Him the less fear we have, because if we remain in fear we are not made perfect in love. But the lesson says that the more we come to know Him the more fear we have while we love Him….

Do you see the infection of Satan? This idea of combining fear and love as being holy or virtuous is a lie of Satan. It stems from the imposed law lie, which teaches sin must be punished. When we cling to the lie that God's law functions like Satan's, imposed rules then we cling to the idea that God must punish sin, we love Him for punishing Jesus in our place, but we fear Him because we know He would punish us if it wasn't for Jesus hiding us from His gaze.

This entire idea is false—God is not the source of pain, suffering or death. God is the source of life; pain, suffering and death are the results of actions that break God's design laws, that separate us and distance us from God.

The closer we come to God the more we are restored to God's design for life until we are ultimately healed completely by God and experience eternal life with Him.

Anything that incites fear of God obstructs God's plan to save us. Let me say that again, anything that makes us afraid of God obstructs God's plan to heal us.

Now, there is a place where the immature, the child, who doesn't understand reality, may attribute fear to their parent, and the loving parent allows the child this misunderstanding in order to protect them in their immaturity from outside dangers—but the parent expects the child to grow up and stop being afraid of the parent.

For instance, a loving parent will set a rule for their small children not to play in the street. If the child disobeys and plays in the street the loving parent will discipline—inflict a painful consequence upon the child in order to protect the child from what would happen if they were hit by a car.

- In the child's mind why is it wrong to play in the street? Because mommy or daddy will punish.
- In the child's mind where is their fear focused? On what mommy or daddy will do.
- But where is the real threat?
- What should the child truly be afraid of? Being hit by the car—which takes them out of harmony with the laws of health causing pain and death.

Notice how the loving parent steps in between the child and reality and takes onto themselves the role of being the inflictor of pain allowing the child to view them as the source of suffering, but in reality the parent is never the source of the suffering, but is merely stepping into that role long enough for the child to grow up and understand reality and realize that they never needed to have fear of the parent—ever. This is what God often did in the Old Testament and what He wants for His immature children to grow up and understand. When we understand reality, God's true character and methods of love, His design laws, then we love Him and all fear of Him goes away.

Satan has tricked billions, by his lie about God's law, to be more afraid of God who is trying to save them than the sin in their life which is killing them.

The persistent idea that a right attitude toward our Heavenly Father is to both love and fear Him comes straight out of Romanism—the imposed law lie:

From my book The God-Shaped Heart:

> Our instinctive notions of dictator gods are based on human imposed-law constructs—gods of power who rule by coercion. This is level four and below thinking. This is immaturity. But Jesus overturns such ideas! Jesus reveals a God who presents truth in love and leaves his creatures free. The apostles, once freed from the false-god view, preached Jesus and him crucified and presented God's law as love—and the New Testament church grew (Rom. 13:10; Gal. 5:14; James 2:8).

But sadly, after apostolic times, Christianity gave up its hold on the selfless God of love. The church rejected the understanding that God is Creator and his laws are built into the fabric of reality and replaced this truth with an authoritarian god in the mold of Caesar, a dictator who demands worship on the threat of punishment. [Jurgen] Moltmann [in his book Sun of Righteousness, Arise, writes]:

> The Roman father of a family corresponded to the Roman father gods and to the later father of the gods, Jupiter, acting as a household priest. The Caesar was seen as the pater patriae, the father of his country, and ruled as priestly king of priestly father, the pontifex maximus. On the one hand these titles reflect the people's expectation of protection by the ruler, and on the other his unrestricted power: the father of his country is omnipotent—pater omnipotens. In Lactantius's writing about "the Wrath of God," we can clearly see how the Roman idea of the father has been transferred to the Christian God: the one God is both Lord and Father, his power being fatherly and also supreme. "We should love him because he is the Father, but we should also fear him because he is the Lord. . . . In both persons he is deserving of worship. Who would not love the Father of his soul with a proper childlike reverence? Or who without punishment could disdain the one who as the ruler of all things has the true power over all?" [Jurgen Moltmann, Sun of Righteousness, Arise: God's Future for Humanity and the Earth (Minneapolis: Fortress, 2010), 89.]

When the God of love whom Jesus revealed is replaced with this dictator view, it is no surprise that Christian husbands abuse their wives just as frequently as men who have never heard of Jesus. Why? Because they are operating on the same imposed law. And just as an apple cannot avoid falling to the ground when released, so too our characters (our hearts) cannot avoid becoming like the god we worship—it is the law of worship! pp. 129

This idea that we are to love and fear God is a strictly pagan idea stemming from accepting Rome's lie about God's law. Our message is to return people to worship our Creator God, whose law is design law, be healed in our hearts and minds such that His perfect love casts out all fear. Yes, we have ever increasing awe of God but ever decreasing fear of God.

MONDAY

What does it mean that the law is a witness against the people?

The lesson asks us to read from Deuteronomy 31, let's start in verse 15 from the NIV84:

> Then the LORD appeared at the Tent in a pillar of cloud, and the cloud stood over the entrance to the Tent. 16 And the LORD said to Moses: "You are going to rest with your fathers, and these people will soon prostitute themselves to the foreign gods of the land they are entering. They will forsake me and break the covenant I made with them. 17 On that day I will become angry with them and forsake them; I will hide my face from them, and they will be destroyed. Many disasters and difficulties will come upon them, and on that day they will ask, 'Have not these disasters come upon us because our God is not with us?' 18 And I will certainly hide my face on that day because of all their wickedness in turning to other gods. [What is described? What kind of law? What action does God take when people turn away from Him? He leaves them free—the law of liberty. Why does God do this? What choice does God have? If God were to use His power to continue to bless and protect people from rebellion what would that mean? It would mean God violates His own law, it would mean that freedom doesn't exist, which means love doesn't exist, it would teach people that destructive ways are actually healthy. What does the Bible call it when God let's people go to reap what they have chosen, in other word, turns His face from them? God's wrath. Why does harm come to them? Is God inflicting it? What is the only result of breaking God's design law for life? Pain, suffering, ultimately death. So, what is God wanting for them to understand? Do we understand any better than they did? Was the law written a witness against them? How?] 19 "Now write down for yourselves this song and teach it to the Israelites and have them sing it, so that it may be a witness for me against them. [Why will this be a witness? If you read the words to the song in DT 32 you will see it describes reality, what God did for them, how they rebelled and worshipped demons, how God leaves them free, how they reap what they have sown and how God is always love. It witnesses that God's law is design law and people are free to accept God and be healed or reject Him and get worse.] 20 When I have brought them into the land flowing with milk and honey, the land I promised on oath to their forefathers, and when they eat their fill and thrive, they will turn to other gods and worship them, rejecting me and breaking my covenant. 21 And when many disasters and difficulties come upon them, this song will testify against them, because it will not be forgotten by their descendants. I know what they are disposed to do, even before I bring them into the land I promised them on oath."[God knows the selfishness in their hearts and He knows what unremedied selfishness will result in. He also knows the future so He knows this is how it will go. But God's actions of love and grace despite this testifies that their suffering and loss are not from God but from sinfulness in them.] 22 So Moses wrote down this song that day and taught it to the Israelites.

WEDNESDAY

Read second and third paragraphs, "Whatever education venue…" Wow—what do you think of the idea that we cannot explain why pain and suffering happens to the faithful, the obedient? Really?

It makes me wonder if this is written by a level two thinker. Remember the 7 levels of moral decision making? Level two is Marketplace Exchange, the quid pro quo, you do something for me in exchange of an agreed upon reward.

This is the health-wellness gospel, if you do right you will get health and wealth, but if you do wrong you get sickness and poverty.

This was the thinking of the Pharisees 2000 years ago when they taught that disease was punishment from God for sin and thus they got angry at Jesus for healing disease. In their view He was overruling God's just punishment upon sinners.

This is the thinking of the Apostles when they asked Jesus who sinned the blind man or his parents that he was born blind. And what did Jesus say?

This is the thinking of those who when tragedy strikes and a child dies they say, "Oh, you must have had some sin in your life for this to happen."

It is sick, it is childish, it is immature and it is NOT how God's kingdom works.

While it is true there is cause and effect and we do reap benefits from living in harmony with God's design laws and suffer when we violate them. We must remember we are not living in sinless Eden—we are living in a war zone. We are living in enemy occupied territory. We are living in the world of the prince of darkness where Satan has power to act. Thus, in this world God's law is not lived out perfectly, but God, His agents and His design law are at war with Satan's design, law and agents.

Thus—all nature groans under the weight of sin. There are all kinds of physical diseases and defects that affect every human being regardless of their righteous character. All people age and die the first death—this is the law of sin and death at work on planet earth.

But more than this, there are evil people who seek to do evil and the righteous suffer.

There are natural disasters because nature is unraveling as a result of God's slowly loosening His restraining hand and giving Satan more and more freedom. Why? Because the Holy Spirit dwells in hearts and minds of people and as people harden their hearts the Holy Spirit is slowly withdrawn from the earth and Satan gets more freedom and nature becomes more violent.

There are pestilences and poisons in the environment that affect the righteous as well as the wicked.

The reason the righteous suffer is not a mystery, it is clear and understandable. Yet, in their suffering the righteous always have God with them—they retain their peace with themselves, they retain their new heart and right spirit, they retain their love for God and others, they retain their hope and surety in a better world to come.

Right in the middle of the faith chapter, Hebrews 11 we read from The Remedy:

> Based on his confidence in God, [Abraham] made his home in the land promised to him, even though he was like a stranger in a foreign country; he lived in tents, as did his son Isaac and grandson Jacob, who were also heirs of God's promise. He wasn't concerned with earthly palaces, because he was looking forward to living in the city whose foundation, architect and builder is God.

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

> All of these people were living in trust, confident in God when they died. They did not receive all the things promised, but they understood them in their minds and rejoiced in their reality. And they openly acknowledged that they were strangers and aliens, and not part of this selfish earth. They were making it plainly known that they wanted a different land–a land of their own. And they didn't want the land they had left, for they could have easily returned from where they had come. No! They were longing for a better country — a land free from selfishness, disease, death, crime and exploitation, where guards, police and security are no longer needed — they were longing for heaven. Therefore God is honored to be known as their God (for they value his methods of love, truth, and freedom) and he has prepared an eternal home for them.

Do we have this perspective that we are foreigners and aliens in a world infected with selfishness and because of this, bad things will happen to God's people, but we know that this sinful world is not our home?

And this is why we at Come and Reason Ministries refuse to promote one political group or politician or nation over another—because this world is not our home—Jesus said His kingdom is not of this world. We cannot achieve or mission for God through human governments. Recently, as I have pointed out the failings of trying to do so, some who have aligned with one political movement or another have gotten offended and think I am taking political sides, but I am not.

Hear me clearly—what I am trying to do is to FREE YOU FROM LOYALTY TO ANY HUMAN SYSTEM AND ESTABLISH YOU IN LOYALTY TO THE KINGDOM OF GOD!

Read last paragraph, "Without question…" Can we have a heavenly perspective to understand that we can prosper in God's kingdom while not prospering in the world?

What happens to the gold of godly character when we start focusing on the riches of the world and how others have more than we do?

Do we see movements afoot today that are stoking the flames of envy and jealousy based on the riches of the world?

What is the Christian response? Where are we to focus?

The lesson references Psalms 84:10, this is from The Remedy of the Lord in Song:

> Better is one day spent in the courts where you dwell > than a thousand away from you;
> I would rather stand at the entrance to the house of my God > than live in comfort in the tents of the wicked.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "Jesus Christ…" Why did Jesus have to die in order to save us? What law lens do you look through?

Why and how was He our just substitute?

> God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God. 2COR 5:21 NIV84

He became our substitute so that we might become the righteousness of God. In other words, it was for our healing, actual fixing of the brokenness in us, not a legal adjustment or declaration. But how, what did He need to achieve? Couldn't God, in His grace and love, merely give us a legal pardon?

If your child disobeyed your instructions to never touch the pesticides in the garage and for some drank some of the poison and were convulsing, would your legal pardon or personal forgiveness fix the problem? What is needed a remedy and a cure.

This is a metaphor of the reality that transgressing God's design law for life is like transgressing the laws of health—it actually damages the transgressor. Because of Adam's sin humanity became terminal, dead in trespass and sin and needed a remedy and a cure for the condition.

Thus Jesus merged His sinless divinity with or terminal sinful humanity in order to live as a real human being, be tempted in every way just like we are but without giving in to any temptation and thus develop a new humanity purged of the fear/selfishness infection.

> For he himself is our peace, who has made the two one and has destroyed the barrier, the dividing wall of hostility, by abolishing in his flesh the law with its commandments and regulations. [The two one, referring to Jews and non-Jews. In other words, unifying people into one body. How, by destroying the dividing wall of hostility—what is the dividing wall of hostility? What caused Cain to kill Abel? What causes all hostility, division, violence, conflict? Sin, fear and selfishness, the carnal nature—thus Jesus came to destroy sin that exists in the heart of sinful humans. Sin is the dividing wall. What about abolishing in his flesh the law with its commandments and regulations? What is the purpose of the added law, the 10 Commandments and other ordinances? They were ADDED as a diagnostic instrument to expose sin, and are they necessary when sin has been eliminated? Are MRIs needed when there is no disease? So Jesus destroys the need for the written law which exposes sin, by destroying sin in the heart. Why did He do this? Next verse] His purpose was to create in himself one new man out of the two, thus making peace, and in this one body to reconcile both of them to God through the cross, by which he put to death their hostility. [One new man? Yes, the second Adam, a new human being that is free from sin, free from fear and selfishness, free from the carnal drives. In Jesus the carnal nature was eliminated and God's perfect character of love was established. Thus, through Jesus we may partake of the DIVINE nature and be part of a new humanity, cleansed and renewed, and all who do are reconciled or at-one with God through the > cross where Jesus destroyed the infection of fear and selfishness and thus put to death their hostility.] (Ephesians 2:14-17 NIV84)

His sinless life and sacrificial death destroy the infection of fear and selfishness—the carnal nature—and restore God's perfect design of love into the humanity He assumed, thus becoming the second Adam the new head of a perfected humanity.

> once made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him (Heb 5:9 NIV84)

Remember Bible perfection is not sinlessness, Adam and Eve were sinless in Eden, but they were not perfect because Bible perfection is about character, which cannot be created, it must be developed. Jesus as a human developed a perfect character and thus became the Remedy, the source of salvation for all who trust Him!

This is what the law requires:

> The law requires righteousness,—a righteous life, a perfect character; and this man has not to give. He cannot meet the claims of God's holy law. But Christ, coming to the earth as man, lived a holy life, and developed a perfect character. These He offers as a free gift to all who will receive them. His life stands for the life of men. Thus they have remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God. More than this, Christ imbues men with the attributes of God. He builds up the human character after the similitude of the divine character, a goodly fabric of spiritual strength and beauty. Thus the very righteousness of the law is fulfilled in the believer in Christ. God can "be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Romans 3:26. DA 762.2

Read second paragraph, "Perhaps John…" What law is involved here? The law of worship.

What happens when we replace Jesus as Creator whose law is design law and His mission was to fix the damage Adam did, with Jesus as imperial dictator whose laws function like Caesar's who came to pay a legal penalty to the divine punisher of sin-crimes?

Read last paragraph, "That so-called…."

Why can we not be released from obligation to obey the law? For the same reason you cannot be released from the obligation to obey the law of respiration—to stop living in harmony with the law is only possible by death.

TUESDAY

Read second and third paragraphs, "The Lord tells Joshua…" What does this mean?

What law? Why do blessings come from obedience to God but cursing come from disobedience?

Is it imposed—does God use power to miraculously give blessings and inflict punishments? Or is it how reality works? Any examples?

What about David and the showbread versus Uzzah and the ark?

Why didn't David get into trouble for going in and eating the showbread and giving it to his men, which broke the Levitical law, but Uzzah died when he broke the Levitical law by touching the ark?

Ancient Israel is not only a historical reality—real people who did real things, which are accurately recorded in the Old Testament—but its history is also recorded "as examples and were written down as warnings for us, on whom the fulfillment of the ages has come" (1 Corinthians 10:11).

Israel, to help them learn and teach the larger reality, was given a little theater (the sanctuary), with intricate props, beautiful costumes, and a precise script—all designed to help them act out God's plan to save humans from sin. We must recognize this perspective in order to understand why it was okay for David to take the showbread from the temple and give it to his men to eat, but it was not okay for Uzzah to touch the Ark of the Covenant during transport on a wagon pulled by oxen.

Symbolically, the showbread represents Jesus, the Bread of Life, of which the priesthood of believers, as sinners on earth, are to partake. It is in partaking of Jesus that sinners are healed (saved) from sin and death and receive righteousness and life.

This was acted out theatrically on a weekly basis, when, on each Sabbath, the daily priests, in their white robes (which represent the righteousness of Christ), joined the High Priest (representing Jesus), in the Holy Place to eat the showbread. Thus, when David and his men ate the showbread, they not only received physiological nurturance, but their actions were in harmony with the script—sinners partaking of Christ and receiving life.

The Ark of the Covenant represents a universe healed completely from sin, a universe restored to the sinless presence of God. Symbolically, only the High Priest, who represents Jesus, entered the Most Holy Place, where the Ark resided. He did this at the end of the annual drama, in order to bring sinners into oneness (at-one-ment) with God. Following this came the Feast of Tabernacles, symbolically the time when the saved tabernacle, or dwell, with God again.

It is only through Jesus that the rest of humanity can be healed, restored to righteousness, and made ready to live in God's presence. Sinners on earth can enter into the presence of God only through "the new and living way" opened through the veil by Jesus (Hebrews 10:20).

When Uzzah touched the Ark, his actions, within the drama, said that he was entering God's presence without Christ. But any sinner apart from Christ remains unhealed from sin and cannot live in the unveiled glory of God—thus, Uzzah died.

We must remember, however, that this was all theater—meaning Uzzah's death was the death the Bible calls "sleep" and from which all will experience resurrection (Daniel 12:2). It is the same death that God told Daniel he would experience (Daniel 12:13). We don't know the condition of Uzzah's heart; we don't know in which resurrection he will arise. The death of Uzzah was not the "wages of sin" death that comes after the Judgment—it was the first death. Therefore, it was not a punishment for sin; it was the proper demonstration, within the object lesson theater, of what happens to unhealed sinners who enter God's presence. This was done to educate all humanity that sinners can come into God's presence only through Christ.

Also note that the Ark was captured at one point by the Philistines and they did not die from touching it. Why? Because they were not part of the acting troupe—they were not on stage—they were not part of the script. God in love revealed to them with tumors and breaking their idol that their gods were false, but there was no penalty for touching the ark that God was required to inflict upon them.

So, when we discuss "law" we must always discern the difference between design law and imposed law, and how love can use imposed rules, like a parent with teeth brushing, to help the immature learn and stay safe.

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 4
The "Eyes of the Lord": The Biblical Worldview

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Starting in the second paragraph the lesson state:

> Today, many of the smartest and best-educated people think that humans evolved from what was originally a simple life-form.
> As human beings, we never look at the world from a neutral position. We see it, always and only, through filters that impact how we interpret and understand the world around us. That filter is called a worldview and it's so crucial that we teach our young people, and even older church members, the biblical worldview."

Is there more than one biblical worldview?

- Is there a biblical worldview that teaches a god who tortures people in hell for all eternity?
- Is there a biblical worldview that teaches god imposes law like we do and inflicts punishment for rule breaking?
- Can one accept a biblical worldview and still reject God and crucify His Son?

Understanding that one can have a so-called biblical worldview and still be an enemy of God, what are some healthy biblical filters that will help us form an accurate biblical worldview and help us be a friend of God's?

- God is Creator—thus life originates in God and was created by God
    - What is the problem if we reject this and replace it with the godless worldview?
        - Survival of the fittest is seen as right
        - There are no absolute truths only relativism, meaning there are no moral absolutes—what is deemed good changes with whoever is in power
        - No purpose to life other than to pass on one's genes—this leads to nihilism, hopelessness, pleasure-seeking, and corruption

- God's laws are Design Laws
    - What is the problem if we reject this and replace it with imposed law that God's law functions like human law?
        - God is no better than us, one who rules over by force of might and coercion
        - That might makes right
        - That there is nothing wrong with sin except the inflicted punishment from God
        - God is viewed as arbitrary
        - God violates liberty which destroys love and incites rebellion

        - Doctrines like the divine right of kings—which results in domination and abuse
        - Irrational traditions and superstitions
        - Rituals or symbolic teaching tools become legal requirements rather than learning lessons
        - The Bible is interpreted through a worldview that makes God out to be untrustworthy and leads to the rejection of God altogether and a godless worldview
- Sin is a condition of being out of harmony with God's design and thus is a terminal state that needs a remedy provided by God
    - What happens if we replace this with the lie it is a legal status?
        - Then sin is viewed as a legal problem which requires a legal solution
        - Jesus becomes a legal substitute who is punished by the ruling authority in our place and thus it is taught that God killed His own Son to satisfy divine justice
        - Salvation is perverted away from healing our characters to getting legal adjustment in heavenly records, which leaves people dying in sin with false security
        - This mindset leads to intolerance of others, attempts through history to enforce religious rules on those we see sin as violating God's law—because we become like the God we worship and thus become punishers of lawbreakers
- The Old Testament is the battle between God working to fulfill His promise to send Jesus to provide the Remedy to our terminal condition and Satan working to stop that plan, i.e. destroy the line of the Messiah.
    - What happens if we reject this worldview and accept the false imposed law worldview instead?
        - Old testament is seen as a time when salvation was achieved through animal sacrifices but now we are saved through Jesus' blood payment
        - God is viewed as angry and wrathful in OT but gracious and loving after His Son dies and presents Him His blood
        - God is viewed as a being from whom we need protection

So some healthy beliefs to form healthy filters for a healthy biblical worldview include:

- God is Creator—thus life originates in God and was created by God
- God's laws are Design Laws
- Sin is a condition of being out of harmony with God's design and thus is a terminal state that needs a remedy provided by God
- The Old Testament is the battle between God working to fulfill His promise to send Jesus to provide the Remedy to our terminal condition and Satan working to stop that plan, i.e. destroy the line of the Messiah.

SUNDAY

Read fourth paragraph, "Central to any Christian…" What do you hear in this paragraph?

First, we do have a personal God, a God who loves us and cares for us and who has revealed His character of love to us. Though He is all powerful, He never abuses His power or takes away our freedom.

But what do you think of this idea, "He is a God of miracles who, though using natural laws, is not bound by those laws and who can transcend those laws when He wills (such as in the virgin conception of Jesus)."

Let us agree that God is a God of miracles—no question about it.

But, what do you hear is the idea being promoted that "though using natural laws God is not bound by those laws and can transcend them"? Is the lesson suggesting that God overrules, overrides, bends, goes around, or breaks His laws?

Do you think if we asked the authors if their statement also applies to moral law that they would agree that God is not moral can transcend the moral law?

They didn't include moral law in their paragraph so it could be implied that they are specifically making a distinction between natural law and moral law.

To me this is the type of statement you get from a level four thinker who is trying to acknowledge God's natural law, but at the same time make a distinction between natural and moral law. It is an evidence that whoever wrote this may not fully appreciate God's law—natural or moral—because all of God's laws are manifestations of God's presence and character.

Here are some historic quotes—let's consider them in light of this question of God's relationship to natural and moral law.

> All things both in heaven and in earth declare that the great law of life is a law of service. [Is this speaking of the moral law or natural law or both? Is the moral law the law of service?] The infinite Father ministers to the life of every living thing. Christ came to the earth "as He that serves." Luke 22:27. The angels are "ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of salvation." Hebrews 1:14. The same law of service is written upon all things in nature. [Ah, this author was first speaking of the moral law and now applies this same law to natural law. Wow, no difference for this author.] The birds of the air, the beasts of the field, the trees of the forest, the leaves, the grass, and the flowers, the sun in the heavens and the stars of light—all have their ministry. Lake and ocean, river and water spring—each takes to give. Ed 103.2

Do you believe that God is not bound by this law, that He operates outside it, that He does things not in accord or in harmony with it?

> The same power that upholds nature, is working also in man. The same great laws that guide alike the star and the atom control human life. The laws that govern the heart's action, regulating the flow of the current of life to the body, are the laws of the mighty Intelligence that has the jurisdiction of the soul. From Him all life proceeds. [What law has jurisdiction of the soul? Isn't that the moral law? Yet this author says it is the same law that guides the star and atom.] Only in harmony with Him can be found its true sphere of action. For all the objects of His creation the condition is the same--a life sustained by receiving the life of God, a life exercised in harmony with the Creator's will. To transgress His law, physical, mental, or moral, is to place one's self out of harmony with the universe, to introduce discord, anarchy, ruin. {Ed 99.2} [Does this sound like God operates outside His own designs, structure, laws? Or are all of them manifestations of and extensions of His own nature and character—i.e. Himself?]

Does God operate outside of this law? Why or why not?

> By the laws of God in nature, effect follows cause with unvarying certainty. [Does God operate outside of this law? Or when God acts God is the cause bringing about the effect? And what allows for us to act in ways that bring effects? Isn't it because of the orderly results of God's laws built into the universe? And where do all God's laws have their origin? And where does the power come that sustains and maintains the operations of God's laws? From God. So does God change His character? Does God change His methods? Does God change His laws? Or is God the same, always love, always consistent, always reliable? If we introduce ideas that God can do what He wants whenever He wants regardless of His laws (which in reality are manifestations of His character) then what have we introduced? Satan's lie that God is arbitrary. The problem is that people want to understand God's law like tax laws, human imposed rules, which should not apply to the one who governs or collects the taxes. That is the fallacy of trying to understand this through the false law lens to start with.] The reaping testifies to the sowing. Here no pretense is tolerated. Men may deceive their fellow men and may receive praise and compensation for service which they have not rendered. But in nature there can be no deception. On the unfaithful husbandman the harvest passes sentence of condemnation. And in the highest sense this is true also in the spiritual realm. [Does God supersede this law?] It is in appearance, not in reality, that evil succeeds. [This is an important truth—it is deception and falsehood that allow people to believe that evil succeeds and incites people to be envious of those who do evil and then seek to be like the evil doer in order to get ahead] The child who plays truant from school, the youth who is slothful in his studies, the clerk or apprentice who fails of serving the interests of his employer, the man in any business or profession who is untrue to his highest responsibilities, may flatter himself that, so long as the wrong is concealed, he is gaining an advantage. But not so; he is cheating himself. The harvest of life is character, and it is this that determines destiny, both for this life and for the life to come. Ed 108.2

Does God change this law or operate outside of it? When God performs the miracle of salvation, the new heart, the rebirth in a person—is God operating outside of this law or working in harmony with it to heal and restore?

> God's healing power runs all through nature. If a tree is cut, if a human being is wounded or breaks a bone, nature begins at once to repair the injury. Even before the need exists, the healing agencies are in readiness; and as soon as a part is wounded, every energy is bent to the work of restoration. So it is in the spiritual realm. Before sin created the need, God had provided the remedy. Every soul that yields to temptation is wounded, bruised, by the adversary; but whenever there is sin, there is the Saviour. It is Christ's work "to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, ... to set at liberty them that are bruised." Luke 4:18. Ed 113.1 [In doing this is God working outside His law or in harmony with His law?]
> In this work we are to co - operate. "If a man be overtaken in a fault, ... restore such an one." Galatians 6:1. The word here translated "restore" means to put in joint, as a dislocated bone. How suggestive the figure! He who falls into error or sin is thrown out of relation to everything about him. He may realize his error, and be filled with remorse; but he cannot recover himself. He is in confusion and perplexity, worsted and helpless. He is to be reclaimed, healed, re - established. "Ye which are spiritual, restore such an one." Only the love that flows from the heart of Christ can heal. Only he in whom that love flows, even as the sap in the tree or the blood in the body, can restore the wounded soul. Ed 113.2

Is God bound by the law of love—by His own character—by the way He built life to operate—by His own nature—in other words is God self-governed?

God never operates outside His own laws because they are the outworking of Himself—His own personhood, energy, life flowing out from Him to His universe to create and then to sustain, and after sin, to heal and to restore. It is Satan who wants to divorce God from His law to suggest that either the law operates without God or God operates independently from the law.

If the law operates without God then we can be in charge of our own salvation, nature itself becomes our god or we are left without hope. If God operates independent of His law then His laws are something distinct and separate from God and are like made up rules and thus it sustains Satan's charges against God.

Consider this historic quote:

> As regards this earth, Scripture declares the work of creation to have been completed. "The works were finished from the foundation of the world." Hebrews 4:3. But the power of God is still exercised in upholding the objects of His creation. It is not because the mechanism once set in motion continues to act by its own inherent energy that the pulse beats, and breath follows breath. Every breath, every pulsation of the heart, is an evidence of the care of Him in whom we live and move and have our being. From the smallest insect to man, every living creature is daily dependent upon His providence. Ed 130.5

> The mighty power that works through all nature and sustains all things is not, as some men of science claim, merely an all-pervading principle, an actuating energy. God is a spirit; yet He is a personal being, for man was made in His image. As a personal being, God has revealed Himself in His Son. Jesus, the outshining of the Father's glory, "and the express image of His person" (Hebrews 1:3), was on earth found in fashion as a man. As a personal Saviour He came to the world. As a personal Saviour He ascended on high. As a personal Saviour He intercedes in the heavenly courts. Before the throne of God in our behalf ministers "One like the Son of man." Daniel 7:13. Ed 131.5
> The apostle Paul, writing by the Holy Spirit, declares of Christ that "all things have been created through Him, and unto Him; and He is before all things, and in Him all things hold together." Colossians 1:16, 17, R.V., margin. The hand that sustains the worlds in space, the hand that holds in their orderly arrangement and tireless activity all things throughout the universe of God, is the hand that was nailed to the cross for us. Ed 132.1
> The greatness of God is to us incomprehensible. "The Lord's throne is in heaven" (Psalm 11:4); yet by His Spirit He is everywhere present. He has an intimate knowledge of, and a personal interest in, all the works of His hand. Ed 132.2
> It was the Maker of all things who ordained the wonderful adaptation of means to end, of supply to need. It was He who in the material world provided that every desire implanted should be met. It was He who created the human soul, with its capacity for knowing and for loving. And He is not in Himself such as to leave the demands of the soul unsatisfied. No intangible principle, no impersonal essence or mere abstraction, can satisfy the needs and longings of human beings in this life of struggle with sin and sorrow and pain. It is not enough to believe in law and force, in things that have no pity, and never hear the cry for help. We need to know of an almighty arm that will hold us up, of an infinite Friend that pities us. We need to clasp a hand that is warm, to trust in a heart full of tenderness. And even so God has in His word revealed Himself. Ed 133.2

All manifestations of God's laws are manifestations of God's presence, God's personal, loving, active interest in creating, sustaining and healing His creation.

Then, what of the supposed example in the lesson that the virgin birth of Jesus was a miracle that operated outside natural law?

I find this incredible that they would use such an example, why? Because we fallen human beings can cause a virgin—a woman who has never been intimate with a man to become pregnant—by invitro fertilization and implantation of a fertilized egg.

Imagine going to a primitive society and one night you have a 3-D projector with stereo audio projection equipment and you project the image of a brilliant angel into a young woman's room and tell her that the power of God will come upon her and she will conceive and give birth to a son. Then that night you have an aerosolized anesthetic pumped into the room, once she is asleep your team goes in, harvests one of her eggs, fertilizes it with a Y carrying sperm and artificially implants her with the fertilized egg. She is now pregnant and will give birth to a son—how might the locals record this event?

Is this scenario I just described science fiction, completely preposterous, fantasy, or is what I described within the ability of our known science to do? If we were to do this would we be violating any of God's laws?

So, would an actual angel visiting Mary be violating God's laws to communicate with her? And would God Himself be violating His own laws that He built nature and reality to operate upon in order to have Christ become incarnate?

It is just the opposite—the reason Jesus became incarnate was because God's laws could not be violated and life as God built it still exist. The only way for God to save us was for Him to do it in harmony with His laws. Thus Jesus became human to restore God's laws into the human species that was no longer living in harmony with God's design laws for life.

And there is Scripture to support that God did not violate His law on this very point:

> But when the time had fully come, God sent his Son, born of a woman, born under law, to redeem those under law, that we might receive the full rights of sons. Gal 4:4,5

Is this speaking only of the moral law or physical law? Or as the quote above, all law of God is the same, a manifestation of His character and nature of love?

MONDAY

Read the third paragraph, "The doctrine of Creation…" Why is believing the truth that we were created by an intelligent God essential to the most accurate and healthiest worldview?

Consider the implications if there is no God versus if there is God on the following points or questions and the consequences to us and society depending on which worldview we hold:

- Who humans are
    - God-created—we are God's creation, made in His image, to be the repositories of His living law, to love and be loved, to exist in a universe of health, happiness, discovery, a universe constructed for our joy, with infinite never-ending growth and development
    - godless—we are an accident, something that just randomly came into being against all the forces of a chaotic universe that are working to destroy us. We are nothing more than animals here today and gone tomorrow with no purpose beyond reproducing
- Why we are here

    - God-created—because God loves us and we are here because of love, like loving parents have children and invest all they have in the health and welfare of their children and the parents experience joy as they see their children happy
    - godless—there is no purpose or reason we are here it's an accident of random forces
- Where we are going
    - God-created—we are going to a future in which all sin is eliminated, all pain eradicated, all selfishness purged a new heaven and earth where we will live eternally growing, discovering, loving, sharing
    - godless—we have a few specs of time on the cosmic scales and then we die and are no more
- What happens at death
    - God-created—we sleep and will be resurrected to everlasting life
    - godless—we cease to exist
- What is right and what is wrong—moral decisions
    - God-created—what is right is determined by God's design laws, which are expressions of His character and methods of love. Any violations injure and damage those who break His laws and will result in death unless we let God heal us back to harmony with His design for life
    - godless—there is no absolute right and wrong, it changes based on culture, opinion, perspective, and ultimately the only law that really governs is the law of survival of the fittest, the strong will survive the weak will die. This becomes the law because in the godless worldview death is necessary for advancement, we must kill off the inferior in order for the superior to pass on its genes and the species improve over eons of time.
- The condition of the earth
    - God-created—the earth is slowly deteriorating from sin and separation from God and despite all efforts to be good stewards, this earth will unravel, disasters will increase and this earth will be destroyed and God will make a new earth the home of the righteous. The people are more important than the planet itself. Jesus died to save the people—not simple to save the planet—He can make a new planet in an instant.
    - godless—this earth is our mother and we are killing our mother and we can save the earth and ourselves if we make the right decisions for the environment, for the earth. This means ultimately that we must not only decrease carbon emissions, but we must reduce the population for without population control all other efforts will fail. The earth is more important than the people on the earth

Do you see if we reject Creation we reject the foundation of everything that makes us in God's image and we degrade ourselves into nothing but brute beasts? Who would want this for us? It is Satan who is behind the godless theories.

But how could Satan get honest seekers of truth to reject God and the Bible? By infecting Christianity with the lie that God's law functions like human law, thus Christianity became abusive, irrational, superstitious and contradictory to how reality works—the Dark Ages—and people of reason, who saw God's true design laws in nature, moved away from the coercive power of a state religion and rejected God altogether.

The results have been just as devastating as the Dark Ages. We don't find health by replacing one lie with another lie—we find health when we replace lies with truth!

When talking with people who believe in the godless theories of life, it is important to clarify the difference between origins science, and common "evolution." Too often the term evolution gets applied to origins, but in strictest sense evolution is how things adapt and change after they already exist. They must exist before they can evolve. So evolution really doesn't explain in any way how life or the universe originated.

Once you clarify and focus on origins then the science is overwhelmingly supportive of Creation and refutes godless origins:

We cannot test the moment of Creation or the Big Bang, but both views rest upon premises that are testable and reproducible, in other words science can prove one true and the other false. Let's do that:

Godless origins	God Created origins
Something came from nothing (Big Bang)	Something came from something (Creation)
Life came from non-living matter	Life came from living matter
Complexity comes from chaos randomly with no intelligent input	Complexity comes from chaos with intelligent input
Random mutation of genetic code adds vitality and genetic fitness causing a species to develop over time	Random mutation damages the genetic code reducing fitness and degrading a species over time
Selection can select out the damaging mutations leaving the next generation more fit than the previous	Selection occurs, but it is insufficient to select out all the damaging mutation, so despite selection, the next generation is less fit than previous generations

If all of this isn't enough, we have even more evidence. For all living organisms three elements are required for life: physical matter, energy and coded usable information found in the DNA or RNA of the organism.

Scientists who deny God focus entirely upon the physical components which are the building blocks of living organisms, the DNA, proteins etc. They ignore entirely the complex information stored within the DNA itself—where did that information originate? The idea that living beings originated on their own without any intelligent input would be similar to believing that a storm arose with high winds, rain and lightening that raged for years, and during this storm the strong winds blew rocks and sand at high speeds until some were shattered and worn down to formed letters of the alphabet. This is analogous to believing that the random forces of nature in some chemical soup with lightening strikes eventually formed DNA molecules.

But, even if we accept that this happened (which is a big leap of blind, evidenceless faith) scientists still ignore the most critical aspect of what is required for life—the encoded information contained within the organized DNA sequences. Having an alphabet does not mean we have usable and functional information. To believe that random forces brought life about would require we not only believe the alphabet formed on its own, but beyond this we must also believe that the winds, rains, and lightening strikes—all on its own—organized the letters into the entire encyclopedia Britannica. Yet this is exactly what millions of good-hearted, honest, thinking people do believe.

But why would thinking, honest-of-heart, scientists choose to believe something that the evidence refutes? Because the historical alternative belief system is significantly more destructive! What is the historical alternative belief system—the one that reasonable people reject? The belief in an all-powerful god who functions no differently than the worst despots in human history—a god who says, "Love me or I will burn you in hell forever."

So, Darwin came along at a time when people were rejecting the Dark Ages false view of God, and rightly so, and he came up with a godless theory. Unfortunately, Darwin didn't have the scientific tools to investigate his theory. Had he, the world would have been saved this foray into another dead-end trail of falsehood. Why? Because the science has proven Darwin wrong.

Darwin observed finches with different beaks, some designed to be efficient at getting grubs from the dirt, others with beaks for getting under bark etc. He hypothesized that these beaks changed over millions of years as mutations entered the DNA altering the beaks and those with the more efficient beaks survived to reproduce and pass along the new better DNA. Interesting theory, but no way to test it, until now. And guess what? Darwin was wrong and the Bible was right.

> The different beaks that Darwin observed didn't happen over millions of years due to random mutation, but happened in 1-2 generations due to epigenetic modification. Amazingly, Darwin's finches are evidence of creation, not evolution. [1] Had Darwin had the advantage of modern DNA science his theory of change over millions of years would have been refuted.

But, but the time science was available to test Darwin's theory and prove it false, it had already become a new religion that people believe based on faith without evidence.

TUESDAY

How has the Biblical worldview helped you understand the world around you?

What do you believe is going to happen to this planet?

Is the modern green movement a Bible-based movement, or is the modern green movement a modern form of paganism, of nature worship?

In history has there been many cultures that worshipped either nature or gods that were manifestations of some aspect of nature?

And if we reject the true Creator and promote a godless worldview what is likely to happen? Other belief systems that humans can believe in will emerge—, evolutionism—a false religion, communism/socialism—false religions, and most recent one, which is one of the most popular today is the green movement.

Notice in these godless movements, who is the savior in all of them?

- Evolutionism, we are the highest life-form and now we are working to artificially advance or evolve ourselves to the next level. Elon Musk is funding new research into creating true cyborgs, humans with brain computer interface chips implanted in the skull. We will evolve ourselves higher. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DVvmgjBL74w&feature=youtu.be
- Communism/socialism—we will create a utopia, an Eden-like world in which everyone has everything and there no haves and have nots
- Green movement—earth is our mother and we are a plague destroying our mother, we must act to save our mother and thus ourselves. But the only way for the green movement to succeed is to reduce the population. Understand, it is not possible to sustain the current population of the earth and implement everything the green movement wants to implement. The Greens have not God, they have no hope for the future other than the hope in saving themselves by saving the planet.

All of these religions (evolutionism, communism, socialism, greenism) are false and all lead to the destruction of people. They are all based on fear and selfishness, not love.

WEDNESDAY

Read third paragraph, “Look also at the first angel’s message…” Why is this message linked to God as Creator? What kind of law is creation built upon? What kind of law did the Roman church infect Christianity with?

Is this message intended as a remedy to the lies that came out of Rome?

Then it must turn people back to God as Creator and His laws as design laws.

Do we present the 3 Angels' messages correctly if we present it as judicial, as God holding a tribunal, as God inflicting external punishments? No! We sustain the lie of the enemy.

How do we present the 3 Angels' messages correctly?

Revelation 14:6-12 from The Remedy:

> 6Then I saw another messenger flying in midair, and he had the eternal good news about God's character of love to proclaim to everyone living on earth–to every nation, tribe, language, and people–which represents a movement of people who arise to proclaim the truth about God's character of love throughout the world.7He said in a clear, resounding voice, "Be in awe of God, and glorify him by living his methods of love, because the hour has come for everyone to make a judgment about God, and worship the Designer, Creator and Builder who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and springs of water– all of which operate upon his law of love."
> 8A second messenger followed the first, proclaiming throughout the world: "Don't trust Babylon the Great — a symbolic description of religions that misrepresent God — as it is fallen into the lies about God and intoxicates the world with its pagan views of God, maddening the people with its adulterous idea that God coerces and must inflict punishment if not properly appeased."
> 9And a third messenger followed the first two and proclaimed in a voice that was heard throughout the world: "If anyone gives worth and honor to the beastly system of coercion by choosing the methods of the beast and thus marking themselves as 'loyal in heart' by embracing the character of the beast, or marking themselves as 'loyal in deed' by practicing his methods,10they will reap the full fury of unremedied sin when God no longer shields them from their destructive choice. They will experience immeasurable torment of mind and burning anguish of heart when they stand in God's fiery presence and are bathed in unquenchable fire of truth and love–all in the very presence of Jesus and the holy angels.11The memory of their suffering and the lesson of their self-destructive choice will never be forgotten throughout all eternity. There will be no peace of mind–day or night–for those who prefer the methods of the beast and model after him, or for any who choose to mark themselves as followers of the beast."12This requires patient endurance on the part of the healed, who live God's methods of love and remain true to Jesus.

How do we explain that Jesus bore the punishment of sin for us? Does the law lens we use matter?

Education Lesson 5 4Q 2020
Lessons from the Sanctuary

by Russell Atkins

SABBATH

> "For it is the God who commanded light to shine out of darkness, who has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ" (2 Corinthians 4:6, NKJV).

Any other scriptures coming to mind when you read this passage?

> Gen. 1: 3 "Let there be light."
> Ps. 19: 1 "The heavens declare the glory of God; the skies proclaim the work of His hands."
> John 17: 3 "And this is eternal life, that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom You have sent."
> Rev. 21: 23 "The city foes not need the sun or the moon to shine on it, for the glory of God gives it light, and the Lamb is its lamp."

What made/makes Jesus the "Master Teacher"?

SUNDAY

Revealing the Father.

> From the lesson: "Jesus also is "the express image of his person"(Heb. 1:3). The term used here, the Greek word charactēr, is sometimes used of the impression a seal makes in wax or the representation stamped on a coin. So, Jesus is "the exact imprint of God's very being" (Heb. 1:3, NRSV). If we wish to know the Father, we must listen carefully to what the Master Teacher says about Him. And we must watch the Master Teacher, as well. The Father is seen in the Son."

I think this is very well said. How, then, do Adventist Christians promote contradictory doctrines like those contained in the penal substitution theologies if the above is true?

WHICH LAW LENS ARE WE VIEWING THE DOCTRINES THROUGH?

If Jesus is the "express image" of God, then we need to reject many of our Christian [read – Adventist] dogmas.

Can you name some of them?

Sabbath as an arbitrary test of obedience.

Jesus is pleading His merits [or blood] before the Father in order to secure forgiveness from sin or just to allow us to avoid the "punishment" for sin.

God put all sins past, present, and future on Christ at the Cross and punished Him in our place.

God won't burn you forever – that would be evil. No, He will use his miraculous power to keep you alive in order to burn you only as long as you deserve. Now let's all gather around, hold hands, and sing Kum-ba-Ya.

Consider the EGW quote in the middle of the lesson.

> "The Light appeared when the world's darkness was deepest. . . .
> "There was but one hope for the human race . . . that the knowledge of God might be restored to the world.
> "Christ came to restore this knowledge. He came to set aside the false teaching by which those who claimed to know God had misrepresented Him. He came to manifest the nature of His law, to reveal in His own character the beauty of holiness."—Ellen G. White, Education, pp. 74–76.

Have you ever considered that Jesus came when the darkness about God was at its deepest?

Didn't the Jewish church leadership have all of the Scriptures? The oracles of the prophets? The Torah? The ten commandments?

Didn't they have the lessons from Creation? Didn't they have their own experiences both as individuals and as a race?

In what manner was "darkness" the deepest when the Jews had all of these advantages?

Did the Jews know God? Of course not. Otherwise they would not have murdered Him.

If you've not yet read Tim's blog on Christ's parables, you're missing out. The overarching theme of all of them is design law. Much [? all] of Christ's work in revealing God the Father included revealing God's Law as design law.

https://www.comeandreason.com/index.php/en/blogs-main/842-parables-of-jesus

Every single parable He told in Scripture revealed God's design for life and how to apply it to our current state of being out of harmony with that design.

The lesson went to great lengths to point out that Jesus's mission was revealing the Father and His character. Was this the only thing needed to provide salvation? What's missing from the lesson?

TUESDAY

Reading the Master Teacher's Mind

The lesson references Philippians 2: 1-11.

> Therefore if there is any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any affection and mercy, [2] fulfill my joy by being like-minded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind. [3] Let nothing be done through selfish ambition or conceit, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem others better than himself. [4] Let each of you look out not only for his own interests, but also for the interests of others.
> [5] Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus, [6] who, being in the form of God, did not consider it robbery to be equal with God, [7] but made Himself of no reputation, taking the form of a bondservant, and coming in the likeness of men. [8] And being found in appearance as a man, He humbled Himself and became obedient to the point of death, even the death of the cross. [9] Therefore God also has highly exalted Him and given Him the name which is above every name, [10] that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of those in heaven, and of those on earth, and of those under the earth, [11] and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father. NKJV.

Here's the passage from the NSRV.

> If then there is any encouragement in Christ, any consolation from love, any sharing in the Spirit, any compassion and sympathy, [2] make my joy complete: be of the same mind, having the same love, being in full accord and of one mind. [3] Do nothing from selfish ambition or conceit, but in humility regard others as better than yourselves. [4] Let each of you look not to your own interests, but to the interests of others. [5] Let the same mind be in you that was in Christ Jesus, [6] who, though he was in the form of God, did not regard equality with God as > something to be exploited, [7] but emptied himself, taking the form of a slave, being born in human likeness. And being found in human form, [8]he humbled himself and became obedient to the point of death— even death on a cross. [9] Therefore God also highly exalted him and gave him the name that is above every name, [10] so that at the name of Jesus every knee should bend, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, [11] and every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

Is Paul [generally considered to be the author of Philippians] trying to draw a distinction between Jesus and another being, who thought [wrongly] himself equal to God, and did consider exploitation or "robbery" to get his way?

Does this ring any Scripture bells?

How about Isa. 14: 13-14?

> "I [Lucifer] will ascend to heaven; I will raise my throne above the stars of God; … I will make myself like the Most High."

Or Eze. 28: 2-19?

> "Because your heart is proud and you have said, "I am a god…; you were the signet of perfection, full of wisdom and perfect in beauty; … You were blameless in your ways from the day that you were created, until iniquity was found in you; … So I brought out fire from within you; it consumed you."

Get your minds around this. Jesus, fully God – pre-existent, The Source of life, eternal past, present, & future did not exercise power in order to maintain that prerogative. He allowed his creation to murder Him instead of using His power to prevent it.

Meanwhile, a created being was so enamored with himself that he tried to "rob" God of the adoration of other created beings. The Greek word for robbery" used in the Philippians passage is "harpagmos" and is used only once in all of the New Testament. The word implies robbery by violence or "something to which one can claim or assert title by gripping or grasping."

This is quite a cosmic contrast.

Going back to our lesson's title – Jesus as the Master Teacher, what does this "teach" us?

WEDNESDAY

The Master Teacher and Reconciliation.

The lesson does an excellent job of bringing out Christ's role as a reconciler, and of God's lead role in the task or reconciliation. It also does well to include the cosmic element of the need of reconciliation referencing Colossians 1: 15-20 – "all things, whether on earth or in heaven, by making peace through the blood of his cross" [v.20].

In the past, it was difficult for me to conceptualize the need for unfallen angels to be reconciled back to God. Now with a better understanding of Design Law and the remedy for sin, it makes complete sense.

How can we function as reconcilers today?

THURSDAY

The Master Teacher's First Pupils

The lesson asks us to imagine gazing in to the manger on the night of Jesus's birth.

What do you see? What do you smell? What do you hear? Was Jesus born with the ability to speak, or was language learned? Was it cold / warm? Was He crying or peaceful?

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 6
More Lessons From the Master Teacher

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

I am excited to share a special resource, recently made available by Pineknoll and it is their new book, Conversations about God by Graham Maxwell, with Louis Venden and edited by Jon Paulien.

In 1984, Graham Maxwell conducted a lecture series at the Loma Linda University Church entitled, Conversations about God. After each presentation he would have a Q&A period with Louis Venden. These were all recorded, and recently Pineknoll has transcribed and edited these presentations and discussions and produced a beautiful book and are giving these away at no cost. We have enough here for all of you who attend our class, so pick one up today.

If you watch online, please go to Pineknoll.org and request your free copy and they will ship it to you at no cost, anywhere in the world!

SABBATH

Read memory text:

> Then Jesus said to him, "Go your way; your faith has made you well." And immediately he received his sight and followed Jesus on the road. (Mark 10:52 NKJV)

What does this mean, "your faith has made you well?" Didn't Jesus—God—make him well?

Does wellness come from faith? Did this man have real physiological blindness of his eyes or did he have a conversion disorder—a psychological blindness and he just resolved his psychological stress and that is why his vision was restored?

I believe he had physiological blindness, not a conversion disorder, so what does it mean his faith made him well?

Doesn't the healing power come from God? Then what is the role of his faith? Would his faith be his consent, his trusting connection to God that opens the way, the path, the bond between this man and God for God's healing power to work in the man?

Then what do we do with people who pray for healing of various kinds and don't receive it? Does that mean they just didn't have enough faith? It is certainly possible a person could pray without actual faith in God—consider the prophets of Baal at Mt Carmel praying for a miracle and didn't receive it. So a person can pray to a false god, or to the real God but with a selfishness heart, but can we tell a person's faith level, the condition of their heart connection with God, by whether a miracle happens or not?

Was Paul a man of faith? Did Paul receive the healing for which he prayed?

There is another element involved beyond our faith or trust in God when it comes to miracles occurring—and what is that other element? God's will—God's knowledge of events and God's working out His larger purposes for the good of all.

Consider this historic quote, what do you think of it?

> We have united in earnest prayer around the sickbed of men, women, and children, and have felt that they were given back to us from the dead in answer to our earnest prayers. In these prayers we thought we must be positive and, if we exercised faith, that we must ask for nothing less than life. We dared not say, "If it will glorify God," fearing it would admit a semblance of doubt. We have anxiously watched those who have been given back, as it were, from the dead. We have seen some of these, especially youth, raised to health, and they have forgotten God, become dissolute in life, causing sorrow and anguish to parents and friends, and have become a shame to those who feared to pray. They lived not to honor and glorify God, but to curse Him with their lives of vice. {2T 148.3}
> We no longer mark out a way nor seek to bring the Lord to our wishes. If the life of the sick can glorify Him, we pray that they may live; nevertheless, not as we will but as He will. Our faith can be just as firm, and more reliable, by committing the desire to the all-wise God, and, without feverish anxiety, in perfect confidence, trusting all to Him. We have the promise. We know that He hears us if we ask according to His will. Our petitions must not take the form of a command, but of intercession for Him to do the things we desire of Him. When the church are united, they will have strength and power; but when part of them are united to the world, and many are given to covetousness, which God abhors, He can do but little for them. Unbelief and sin shut them away from God. We are so weak that we cannot bear much spiritual prosperity, lest we take the glory, and accredit goodness and righteousness to ourselves as the reason of the signal blessing of God, when it was all because of the great mercy and lovingkindness of our compassionate heavenly Father, and not because any good was found in us. {2T 149.1}

What I have discovered in the Bible when it comes to miracles is that most of the time miracles occur through the strong in faith FOR the weak in faith. Miracles rarely occur for the direct benefit of the strong in faith.

- Gideon and the fleece—was the miracle because Gideon's faith was strong or needed encouraging?
- The miracle of no rain for 3.5 years followed by the miracle of fire from heaven—were these miracles for Elijah's benefit a man of strong faith, or were they for the benefit of the people who were confused and had weak faith?

- The miracles of the 10 plagues of Egypt and the walking through the Red Sea on dry ground, were these for Moses benefit a man of faith, or for all the people Hebrew and Egyptian who had weak faith in the true God?
- All of the miracles that Jesus did, were they to strengthen Jesus' faith or the faith of those who saw or benefited from them?
- The miracles worked through the Apostles—for the Apostles or those to whom they were seeking to reach with the gospel?
- The miracle of opening the prison for Peter, was it to strengthen Peter's faith, or to open the way for Peter to share the gospel?

Again and again miracles happen through the strong in faith for the benefit of those whose faith need strengthening. Gideon had faith, but it needed strengthening. I would suggest the blind man had faith, but it needed strengthening and the miracle strengthened it—or perhaps the blind man was a person whose healing could reach others in the community whose faith in Jesus was weak or both.

As we grow in our faith relationship with God we will become "perfect" i.e. mature in our faith or trust in God such that we cannot be shaken out of our trust in God even if miracles don't happen for us. This is what we find in the life of Job—he was described as perfect and righteous in all his ways—not sinless, but he was mature in his trust in God. He didn't know or understand everything, and when multiple tragedies struck him, he continued to trust God with his life.

Does it matter in what or whom we place our faith, or is all that matters is that our faith is sincere?

Consider this historic quote:

> "Faith in a lie will not have a sanctifying influence upon the life or character. [Is this a legal thing? Is it they didn't have faith in the right legal payment or they had faith in the wrong god and therefore God was legally required to injure their character, or was legally restricted from healing their character, OR is it describing reality, design law, that our faith actually works to impact and change us?] No error is truth, or can be made truth by repetition, or by faith in it. Sincerity will never save a soul from the consequences of believing an error. Without sincerity there is no true religion, but sincerity in a false religion will never save a man. I may be perfectly sincere in following a wrong road, but that will not make it the right road, or bring me to the place I wished to reach. The Lord does not want us to have a blind credulity, and call that the faith that sanctifies. [What is blind credulity? It is talking about the so-called blind faith, believing without evidence, accepting claims, proclamations, rhetoric, words, but not actual evidence. This is Satan's ground, Satan is the father of lies, he has words, rhetoric, claims, but he has no evidence. God is the source of all truth, God also has words but all God's words, directives, verbal revelations are backed up by reality, the actual facts of history, the evidence of outcomes, of cause and effect, of truth itself; all reality supports God as worthy of our trust and exposes Satan as a liar. So be very leery of any person, group, party that wants you to believe without evidence, on the weight of claims or powerful rhetoric, who wants to shut down investigation, who wants to silence other voices or stop new evidence from being presented.] The truth is the principle that sanctifies, and therefore it becomes us to > know what is truth. [What does this mean? We talk about justification by faith and sanctification by faith, but this author says the truth is the principle that sanctifies—what does it mean? Can we be sanctified by lies, by believing falsehoods? No, only the truth sets us free!] We must compare spiritual things with spiritual. We must prove all things, but hold fast only that which is good, that which bears the divine credentials, which lays before us the true motives and principles which should prompt us to action." Letter 12, 1890; Selected Messages, vol. 2, p. 56

Read the first paragraph, "Who among us…" From where does guilt and shame originate? From sin itself—when we sin we take ourselves out of harmony with God and God's design laws for life and we experience guilt and feel shame. This is legitimate or appropriate guilt and shame. However, the feeling of guilt and shame can also come from lies—Satan is the father of lies—which means if we accept lies they infect our minds and cause guilt and shame even if we didn't actually commit a sin.

Either way, if we feel guilt and shame, what do we want? We want to stop feeling of guilt and shame, but appropriate and inappropriate guilt and shame are resolved differently:

Appropriate guilt and shame are resolved by repentance and restoration—experiencing healing of our hearts, minds and characters by God in us.

Inappropriate guilt and shame are resolved by truth and eliminating the lie

Either way, appropriate or inappropriate guilt and shame if unresolved cause what? Fear—fear of rejection, fear of reprisal, of punishment, fear of not being good enough, fear of embarrassment, fear of loss of position or relationship—and what does fear lead us to do? If instead of going to Jesus, we allow the fear to direct our actions we seek to protect self in a variety of ways:

- Blame game—it wasn't me it was the woman; it wasn't me it was the serpent. It's not my fault because I was abused as a child, or grew up in a poor neighborhood, or didn't have a father in my home, or my parents were alcoholics or drug addicts, or no one ever loved me. I have every right to lie, cheat, steal, rob, rape, shoplift, assault—it's not my fault I had a bad childhood. But, the truth is, regardless of our histories, our wounds, our mistreatment, our circumstances, as we grow up we have the responsibility for what we do with our lives—do we heal, maturej, overcome, embrace God, accept Jesus, practice His methods and principles, or do we reject God, reject Jesus, reject the healing grace of God and instead practice the methods of the world?
- Denial, justification, rationalization—I did what I needed to do. It is right to watch out for self, to protect self, and if that means stealing it is right to do. These big corporations are stealing all the time, they cheat us and don't pay the taxes they are supposed to, they don't pay a living wage. I have the right to take what I need. I don't have a problem, you're just judgmental and mean—stop being so racist, sexist, xenophobic—you are supposed to love others—you just a hypocrite.

- Self-medication through alcohol, drugs, shopping, serial relationships, seeking to numb the guilt and shame, which typically results in more guilt and shame, more denial and distortion and more self-medication
- False penal/legal theologies that hide us and cover us rather than heal us. God can't see my sin because Jesus' righteousness covers me. My record book gets erased and God can't judge me etc. We place our faith in a false system that gives false security and fails to actually fix the sin problem in our hearts. This leads to the false-Christian, the Pharisees, the legalistic Christians that are hyper-vigilant to make and keep their religious rules, and these become the ones who must seek out and destroy those in the church and community who don't keep their rules. Historic examples:
    - Crusades—go kill Muslims and you will have forgiveness for your sins
    - Indulgences or other payments to the church, building a Cathedral will earn forgiveness
    - Hunting down and abusing or killing Jews, blacks, homosexuals
    - Using the power of the state to force one's religious agenda

How do we get past guilt and shame?

The only true way past it is God's way, to heal our hearts and minds which requires the application of truth and love:

If legitimate guilt and shame then:

- the truth that diagnosis our condition so we admit we have a problem
- the truth of what that problem is—not a legal problem but an actual condition of being out of harmony with God, infected with fear and selfishness
- the truth about God, His character and trustworthiness
- the truth about Jesus, what He achieved—our remedy to heal and restore us
- This truth wins us to trust and in trust we open our hearts to God and invite Him in and He pours His love into our hearts (Rom 5:5). And God's love casts out fear and selfishness and we are reborn with new identity, the old is gone, the new is come and thus we no longer live in fear, guilt, shame, because we have a new life in Jesus.

If illegitimate guilt and shame:

- then the truth to displace the lies and free us from the false guilt and shame

The lesson points us to Psalms 32. I want to contrast this Psalm from the NIV and The Remedy because it will reveal how the lens one has when translating impacts how it is written. Do we have an imposed law lens and the sin problem is legal and salvation is legal adjustment, or do we have a design law lens and the sin problem is a condition of being out of harmony with God and His protocols for life and salvation is being healed and restored to harmony with God?

Now I will say that if one has the design law understanding one can read the NIV without a problem at all. But, if one does not have the design law view, if one has the imposed law view, then the NIV and other traditional translations work to keep people stuck in the false imposed law worldview. This is where The Remedy can be helpful.

From the NIV:

1 Blessed is he whose transgressions are forgiven, whose sins are covered.
[If your worldview is imposed law then this seems to be penal legal. Sins are deeds and forgiveness is legal pardon covering sins is having Jesus' perfect life record cover over my record of bad deeds to hide the record and me from God. But if one has the design law view, then one understands forgiveness in its fuller and true sense of reconciliation with God and covering is taking the responsibility to fix and heal the problem, not covering over. We could do this contrast with every verse, but I will just read the rest of the psalm and then contrast it with The Remedy version.]
2 Blessed is the man whose sin the LORD does not count against him and in whose spirit is no deceit.
3 When I kept silent, my bones wasted away through my groaning all day long.
4 For day and night your hand was heavy upon me;
my strength was sapped as in the heat of summer. Selah
5 Then I acknowledged my sin to you and did not cover up my iniquity.
I said, "I will confess my transgressions to the LORD"— and you forgave the guilt of my sin. Selah
6 Therefore let everyone who is godly pray to you while you may be found; surely when the mighty waters rise, they will not reach him.
7 You are my hiding place; you will protect me from trouble and surround me with songs of deliverance. Selah
8 I will instruct you and teach you in the way you should go;
I will counsel you and watch over you.
9 Do not be like the horse or the mule, which have no understanding but must be controlled by bit and bridle or they will not come to you.
10 Many are the woes of the wicked, but the LORD's unfailing love surrounds the man who trusts in him.
11 Rejoice in the LORD and be glad, you righteous;
sing, all you who are upright in heart!

From The Remedy:

1 Happy are they whose wicked minds are restored to perfect purity, whose selfishness is eradicated.
2 Happy is the person whose infected heart the Lord transforms to perfection, in whose mind there is no deceit.
3 When I held onto my guilt and shame, refusing to talk to God,

I stressed myself and my body decayed because every day I screamed, "no!" denying the truth.
4 But day and night your healing hand pressed firmly upon me;
my resistance evaporated like water in the summer heat.
5 Then I admitted my sin-sickness to you and did not hide my character-deformity. I said, "I will confess my selfishness to the Lord" — and you healed me and freed me from guilt.
6 Therefore let all the faithful ask you for this same healing
while healing is still possible; then when the guilt, shame and regrets of life come flooding in, the faithful will not drown in them.
7 You are my safe harbor; you protect me from the storms of life and turn my life into a song of deliverance.
8 The Lord says, "I will teach you my methods and how to live in harmony with my designs; I will guide you and watch over you.
9 Don't be like the unthinking horse or mule that do not reason or understand and must be forced by bit and bridle to follow the simplest instructions."
10 Many are the sufferings of those who defy your designs, but those who trust the Lord are healed by his never-failing love.
11 Celebrate God's goodness and be happy, you spiritually-healthy;
sing for joy, all you with hearts like God's!

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "Typical stories of the Fall…" What was the purpose of this tree? Why was it there? How does reality work? Was the tree there because of how God's design—His law of life—actually operates?

Was this tree there for the good of Adam and Eve and all humanity?

When we consider the reason for the Tree of Knowledge, do we understand it through design law or imposed law?

Satan tricked them into believing a lie in regard to how God's law functions. Right there in Eden, at the Tree of Knowledge is where Satan first introduces humanity to his lie that God's law is imposed and by doing so undermined our first parent's trust in God.

Satan makes the claim, "you will not surely die." What is implied Satan's declaration? Does this lie say, "God is not capable of executing you so you cannot die?" Or simply that eating the fruit is not harmful, "You won't die from doing so. Look at me. I am not dead, that's proof that eating the fruit doesn't kill."

Think through the subtle imbedded lie: If there is nothing inherently harmful with eating the fruit, if the action itself won't cause death, and yet God said that they would surely die if they did eat it, then what would that mean? That God would have to inflict death upon them. So, what type of law is this that requires the ruling authority to inflict the punishment? Imposed!

And this is what essentially all of Christianity teaches with its penal legal lie that God must kill the unrepentant sinner in order to be just.

But through design law (how reality functions), what is God's purpose in placing the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil in the Garden. What did God want for Adam and Eve? How was this tree necessary for them to fulfill and achieve what God desired for them?

What meaning do we take from the name of this tree—the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil?

Do you see it is the tree of knowing reality? Do you understand it as the place where Adam and Eve would decide what they would know?

What does it mean to know something or someone?

Now this is eternal life: that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent (John 17:3 NIV84 emphasis mine).

Is knowing God and Jesus merely cognitive, to know facts, information, data? No, in the Bible to know means to have an intimate experiential knowledge of something or someone. Think of the difference between knowing about someone from reading a biography, and actually knowing them as a friend or family member. Or the difference between knowing how to swim and knowing what swimming is.

The Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil wasn't a place of theoretical knowledge, or cognitive knowledge, or academic knowledge. God and the angels had already informed Adam and Eve about Satan, about evil, and about death being the result of sin. They had been instructed.

Adam and Eve had information, factual knowledge. But mere facts is not what the tree was about—it was about experience, knowing by experience either good or evil. Choose to trust and believe God and know good, or choose to believe lies and distrust God and know evil.

God tells them, "It is at this tree you will have knowledge, so choose well; choose not to partake of the fruit and you will know Good—you will know love, trust, loyalty, devotion, maturity, integrity, joy, peace, and godliness. All of this will solidify in your character. So please, my beautiful children, choose to know Good! But if you choose to partake the fruit then you will know Evil—you will know fear, selfishness, insecurity, guilt, shame, distrust, pain, suffering and death. Please, my beautiful children, don't choose to know Evil."

God already knew evil—not in His character, but in His heart as His heavenly home had been fractured and He was already suffering the heartache of betrayal, disaffection, rebellion, being lied about and the loss of His most loved angel.

God did not want humankind to know this kind of pain, suffering, or heartache. He wanted humankind to know only good, but this required them to choose to trust God—to choose the good in order for them to know it.

There was nothing poisonous about the fruit; it was not physically harmful. The tree was not dangerous or deadly. What was dangerous or deadly was to break trust with God, to believe lies and act on them, to deviate from His design for life, to choose to know evil, to infect themselves with fear and selfishness.

Read bottom pink section, "Whatever else Christian education entails…" This is so true and consider how this need to hide from God has infected Christianity and is taught in a variety of ways:

- Covered by the robe of righteousness which is perverted to hide us from the Father, rather than teaching the beautiful truth of actually being healed such that our characters become like Jesus. Consider this historic quote:
    - When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged in His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness. Then as the Lord looks upon us He sees, not the fig-leaf garment, not the nakedness and deformity of sin, but His own robe of righteousness, which is perfect obedience to the law of Jehovah. COL 311.4
- Jesus our mediator stands between us and the Father and pleads our case to the Father—again hiding us, rather than the truth that Jesus came from the Father to mediate to us and in us and bring us back to love, trust and unity with the Father.
    - In other words, Satan lied about God and we believed those lies and no longer knew or trusted God. WE needed someone to bring us the truth about God to dispel the lies and win us back to trust. Thus Jesus is the mediator of God's government, kingdom, truth, love to us. God didn't need truth and love ministered to Him—we did. Thus the metaphor of the animal blood and flesh Jesus applies to us, we must eat His flesh and drink His blood—not God!
    - Understanding this reality we understand that Jesus has always been the bridge builder between the infinite God and His finite creation. Jesus has always been the one interacting in the form of His creation. Prior to the incarnation Jesus manifested in the form of an angel to angels—building the bridge, mediating to angels.
    - Jesus said "if you've seen me you've seen the Father." It is Jesus who left heaven to connect us back to God. Jesus is the mystical ladder that Jacob saw and upon whom all the resources of heaven travel to reach us on earth.
    - Consider this historic quote: "While we rejoice that there are worlds which have never fallen, these worlds render praise, and honor, and glory to Jesus Christ for the plan of redemption to save the fallen sons of Adam, as well as to confirm themselves in their position and character of purity. The arm that raised the human family from the ruin which Satan had brought upon the race through his temptations, is the arm which has preserved the inhabitants of other worlds from sin. Every world throughout immensity engages the care and support of the Father and the Son; and this care is constantly exercised for fallen humanity. Christ is mediating in behalf of man, and the order of unseen worlds also is preserved by his mediatorial work. {RH, January 11, 1881 par. 4}

- Unfallen angels needed the same truth about God that we need in order to expel all doubt caused by Satan's lies and solidify them in love and loyalty, but we needed something MORE than the angels—we also needed a new heart and right spirit—i.e. a sinless character. Jesus provides both, the truth to the angels and us and to us a new humanity, a sinless character He wrought out as a human. This is represented in the flesh and blood—the flesh is representative of the truth (as is the bread), both we and the angels ingest the truth. But we also ingest the wine or the blood, which is symbolic of His sinless life, i.e. perfect character and thus we become partakers of the divine nature. Jesus shares His perfection with us and uplifts the human species to a height higher than before Adam fell. Unfallen angels do not partake of the blood, i.e. the life of Christ.

- Covered by the blood of Jesus perverted to teach some type of blood payment or covering to hide our sins rather than the sinless life of Jesus becomes ours as we eat the flesh and drink the blood, we get new hearts and right characters and the Father sees us as healed and restored by possessing the mind of Christ
- The blood of Jesus is perverted to be a legal payment put in a legal book in heaven that erases the record of ours sins so in the judgment the Father doesn't know what we have done, instead of the blood being a metaphor of His sinless life and we internalize it and are healed and transformed having the law written upon our hearts and minds.

MONDAY

The lesson is about Jacob after he cheats Esau and deceives his father and runs for his life and how God comes to Jacob in a dream and reassures Jacob that God had not abandoned him and through his descendants God would work out the plan to save humanity and through them the Messiah would come.

The lesson uses this story as an example of how God does not abandon us when we sin but continues to pursue us in order to save us.

Read bottom pink section, "What can we learn…" Does it depend on how we understand the sin problem?

What determines how we understand the sin problem? Would our understanding of God's law impact how we understand sin?

If we understand the law like human law, then sin is bad deeds, but if we understand law as design law then sin is a condition of being out of harmony with how God built life to operate that occurred to humanity because of Adam's choice to break trust with God.

Are we born guilty, legally condemned to death by the government of God, or are we born terminal, with a condition that will result in death if not remedied?

Imagine an HIV infected man and woman have a child born HIV infected, what did the child do wrong? Is the child guilty? But does the child have a condition that if unremedied will result in its death?

This is every human being since Adam and Eve sinned, we are born in sin conceived in iniquity—Psalms 51:5

Now, consider the HIV infected child—if no remedy is provided will they simply die, or will they have various symptoms and sicknesses before they die?

What is the unavoidable result of sinfulness in our lives if we do not have God in our lives? Will we have symptoms of the sin condition—and what does the Bible call those symptoms? Sins—so the deeds, the acts of sin are the manifestation of sinfulness, they are not the problem directly, but are the result of the problem that infects the heart.

This is what Jesus taught in Matthew 5 when He said:

- "You have heard that it was said to the people long ago, 'Do not murder, and anyone who murders will be subject to judgment.' But I tell you that anyone who is angry with his brother will be subject to judgment. vs 21-22 NIV84
- "You have heard that it was said, 'Do not commit adultery.' But I tell you that anyone who looks at a woman lustfully has already committed adultery with her in his heart. vs 27-28 NIV84

WEDNESDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on the story of the Canaanite woman who asks Jesus to heal her daughter and Jesus initial refusal followed by doing so.

How do you understand this story? Why would Jesus choose to handle it this way?

- To strengthen the faith of the woman?
- To expose the biases and prejudices in the disciples?
- To reveal that the Gentiles are heirs with the Jews to the promises to Abraham and through faith may receive those promises?
- Other reasons?

Here is one historic view:

> The Saviour longed to unfold to His disciples the truth regarding the breaking down of the "middle wall of partition" between Israel and the other nations—the truth that "the Gentiles should be fellow heirs" with the Jews and "partakers of His promise in Christ by the gospel." Ephesians 2:14; 3:6. This truth was revealed in part at the time when He rewarded the faith of the centurion at Capernaum, and also when He preached the gospel to the inhabitants of Sychar. Still more plainly was it revealed on the occasion of His visit to Phoenicia, when He healed the daughter of the Canaanite woman. These experiences helped the disciples to understand that among those whom many regarded as unworthy of salvation, there were souls hungering for the light of truth. AA 19.3
> Thus Christ sought to teach the disciples the truth that in God's kingdom there are no territorial lines, no caste, no aristocracy; that they must go to all nations, bearing to them the message of a Saviour's love…AA 20.1

THURSDAY

Read first two paragraphs, "Jesus and His followers…" Jesus wanted to bring hope to the world—what hope?

- Did Jesus want to bring hope that He would overthrow the Romans and establish an earthly government that would punish the Romans for what they had done to the Jews?
- Did Jesus want to bring hope that might and power over others would win the day?
- Did Jesus want to bring hope in earthly governments and earthly methods?
- But weren't there slaves in Jesus' day? Weren't there human rights violations? Weren't there problems with racism and sexism? Weren't women disadvantaged and mistreated? Did Jesus provide hope to all of the people who suffered under every injustice of every kind? What hope did Jesus bring?

Can we achieve the purpose of God—which is the hope of a new heaven and new earth the home of the righteous—can we achieve this purpose through human governments? Can we achieve it through passing human laws, through coercion?

Is it possible that one of Satan's strategies to deceive the elect, to delay the second coming of Christ, is to get Christians caught up in politics, to get Christians to identify REAL injustices in society and then to seek to remedy those injustices through the implementation of laws, through force, through coercion—and thereby obstruct the mission of the church which is to bring people to Jesus for healing of hearts and minds?

The bottom pink section asks us to read Hebrews 5:12-14:

> In fact, though by this time you ought to be teachers, you need someone to teach you the elementary truths of God's word all over again. You need milk, not solid food! 13 Anyone who lives on milk, being still an infant, is not acquainted with the teaching about righteousness. 14 But solid food is for the mature, who by constant use have trained themselves to distinguish good from evil. NIV84

What do you hear? Do you hear a law being described? The law of exertion—if you want something to get stronger you must exercise it. If you want to gain wisdom, discernment, you must think, reason, and assimilate truth through the practice of application of God's methods and principles.

But the immature don't do this, the immature stay stuck on milk—and what is milk? The next verses tell what the milk is it is the dos and don'ts the rules, just like what children need, but the mature understand why parents give rules. The children don't understand and think the rules or the metaphors or the symbols or the teaching tools are the reality rather than understanding reality.

God wants us to grow up to leave behind the childish way of understanding and to actually know Him and His methods and designs.

This is the 3 angel's messages, to worship Him who made the heavens and earth, it is a call out of Babylon the system of imposed laws and rules, the penal/legal religions including penal substitution theology. We are to leave that behind because it is all based on Satan's lie about God and His law.

TUESDAY

The lesson points out that Jesus functioned as a teacher—and what did Jesus teach? If you had to answer—what would you say is the central truth that Jesus wanted people to know?

- The truth about God—"if you have seen me you have seen the Father."

Why is this the central truth? Because it is the center of the war, it is the focus of Satan's attack. Satan alleges that God cannot be trusted, and Satan advances his war against God with lies and misrepresentation. Thus the Bible teaches:

> For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. (2Corinthians 10:3-5 NIV84)

Jesus came to reveal the truth about God, in His person, but also in His teaching and this means He came to reveal the kingdom of God. In other words, He came to reveal how God's government functions—meaning God's law and what kind of law did Jesus reveal in ALL of His teachings? Design law!

I won't go through them all again, but recently I wrote a blog demonstrating that 100% of the parables of Jesus taught design law and exposed the human imposed law model as false. But here are just a few:

The Sower | Matthew 13:1–23

- Why do the same species of seeds grow differently? Is it because God uses His power to miraculously make the seeds grow differently? Or are the seeds equally healthy when planted and receive equal amounts of sunlight and rain, but the soil in which the seeds are planted is different? Which represents what? The hearts of people into which the seeds of truth are planted; again, what kind of law is involved?

The Weeds Among the Wheat | Matthew 13:24–30

- Why do weeds grow in fields? Are they planted, or do they come up naturally? What happens when you pull weeds growing next to wheat? Does some of the wheat get pulled up? In the church, the unconverted grow up next to the converted; if we try to root out the unconverted, we will also pull out of the church the converted to whom the unconverted are connected. Thus, we are instructed to wait until the harvest, the second coming, to separate the wheat and the tares. And what determines which group one is placed into? Reality! Wheat is wheat, and weeds are weeds—they are separated based on what they actually are. So too, in the end, those saved are those who have had their hearts and minds set right with God (reborn), while the lost are those who have never had their hearts changed, despite many of them claiming a legal right of salvation via the blood payment of Jesus. What kind of law is involved?

What Comes Out of the Mouth | Matthew 15:10–20

- Why is it that what goes into a person's mouth does not determine his cleanliness, but rather what comes out of his mouth? What kind of law is involved? Is the person who speaks evil unclean because someone hears what they say, reports it to authorities, which causes a judicial review and a legal ruling that declares them unclean? Or do the words and actions of a person reveal the actual unclean nature of their character?

Laborers in the Vineyard | Matthew 20:1–16

- This is a great parable because it powerfully exposes the fallacy of imposed law—the lie of penal (legal) salvation. The workers who worked one hour got the same pay as those who worked all day. What did those who worked all day think? What do you initially think when you hear this story? What if we added to the story that those who worked all day were people of color while those who worked only one hour were white—and they all got the same pay? Is that fair?

  It is totally unfair if we have an imposed-law view, but if we have a design-law view and understand how reality works, we immediately see just how fair God's kingdom is.

  The payment is eternal life; this is the reward. The field is the earth, where we work with Jesus to save souls. Those who worked all day had salvation early in their lives and the privilege of working with God and, therefore, coming to know Him and His truths more fully and growing in character and skill in God's methods. They applied His methods early in their lives and became more skilled in laboring for Him and applying His principles, which means they became more mature than those who worked only an hour. The thief on the cross came at the last hour and got the same pay (eternal life), but he did not have a lifetime of growing with God. But if one holds the human-law model, the penal lie, then this parable appears unfair. This is why the Pharisees hated what Jesus taught!

The Beaten Servant | Luke 12:47, 48

- The servant who knows his master's will but doesn't do it receives many stripes, but the servant who doesn't know his master's will receives few stripes. Is this, as the penal/legal adherents claim, proof positive that God's law is imposed and functions like human law, with God inflicting different amounts of punishment upon sinners?

  Not at all! Jesus did not say that the servants were beaten by the master—only that they would receive differing amounts of blows, or stripes or pain or suffering, depending on how much they actually knew. Jesus is again describing how reality works—we actually experience differing amounts of guilt, shame, regret, and sin-damage to our hearts and minds depending on how much truth we know and choose to reject. It is simply how reality works and how I paraphrase it in The Remedy:

  "The aide who understands the Master — his design, the problem being addressed, and how to apply the Remedy — and either doesn't heed his instructions or applies a false remedy will suffer many blows: a guilty conscience, warped character, damaged reason, broken relationships and ultimately, a destroyed soul. But the one who doesn't know about the Remedy or how to apply it and therefore doesn't share it, or applies a false remedy will suffer few blows — regret, disappointment, and grief."

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 7
Worship in Education

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read memory text:

> Give to the LORD the glory due His name; bring an offering, and come before Him. Oh, worship the LORD in the beauty of holiness! (1 Ch 16:29 NKJV).

What does it mean to give the Lord glory?

What do we mean when we refer to His "name"?

When we pray, "in the name of Jesus" what does this mean? Does it mean:

- using the actual word "Jesus"?
- Must we use Joshua or rather Yeshua?
- Or does the name in the Bible mean character?

Jacob, the deceiver, when he was converted and experienced a heart change had his name changed to Israel—one who with God overcomes.

Do we understand name means character?

Here is one historic quote from the book The Desire of Ages:

> But to pray in Christ's name means much. It means that we are to accept His character, manifest His spirit, and work His works. The Saviour's promise is given on condition. "If ye love Me," He says, "keep My commandments." He saves men, not in sin, but from sin; and those who love Him will show their love by obedience. {DA 668.2}

So, the name of God means what? His character and what is your understanding of the character of God? Let's list character traits of God and contrast them with abilities—I will throw out some and you let me know whether this is a character trait or an ability:

- God is omniscient—all knowing
- God is love
- God is truth/truthful
- God is omnipotent—all powerful
- God is Creator (perhaps both as creating is a manifestation of both His ability and character)
- God is patient

- God exists outside time and thus has foreknowledge
- God is forgiving
- God is omnipresent
- God is just
- God is constant—never changing
- God is omnipresent—able to be everywhere at once

What has the conflict between Satan and God been about? What has Satan done to incite rebellion? Has Satan ever truly questioned God's abilities? Or has Satan's attacks always been on God's trustworthiness—God's character, the way God uses His abilities?

> From the beginning it has been Satan's studied plan to cause men to forget God, that he might secure them to himself. Hence he has sought to misrepresent the character of God, to lead men to cherish a false conception of Him. The Creator has been presented to their minds as clothed with the attributes of the prince of evil himself,--as arbitrary, severe, and unforgiving,--that He might be feared, shunned, and even hated by men. Satan hoped to so confuse the minds of those whom he had deceived that they would put God out of their knowledge. Then he would obliterate the divine image in man and impress his own likeness upon the soul; he would imbue men with his own spirit and make them captives according to his will. {5T 738.1}

Do we see this in the world today? Can people who reject God and embrace godlessness be growing in godliness, accurately represent Jesus, be empowered by the Spirit to practice God's methods? Or will they grow more like selfish, more fearful, more controlling?

Can people who believe in God but accept a false view of God and thus worship a god who is like Satan in character become more like Jesus, or will they become more like the enemy? The law of worship—by beholding we are changed!

Should we expect that if we jump off buildings we will float? Should we expect that if we reject God that we will become more like Jesus?

Then, what can you expect people who reject Jesus to do when it comes to the methods and principles they practice in how they run their business, in how they deal with conflict, in how they would administer a school, in how they would run a government?

I want you to discern, to be able to differentiate God's methods from Satan's. Now, what is the most effective conman—the one who comes to you and says: "I am here to steal from you, to molest your children, and get you addicted to drugs." Or the one who says, "I am here to make you wealthy, to care for your children, to give you better health—and then steal from you, molest your children and addict you to drugs?"

And then when you find yourself impoverished and unhealthy the person who did this blames the ones with real solutions and remedies—this is true evil.

This is what Satan does—he infects us with sin, steals our joy, happiness, health, injures our families and then blames God or godly people or God's methods as being the problem.

Do you see this happening with various leaders or groups in society today—claiming they are here to help us while they or their followers are actually injuring and inciting the problems they claim they are there to fix?

What do we learn about God's character when we look to Jesus?

So, we are to bring an offering and come before the Lord—what does this mean, bring an offering? An offering of what?

- Therefore, I urge you, brothers, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as living sacrifices, holy and pleasing to God—this is your spiritual act of worship. Do not conform any longer to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is—his good, pleasing and perfect will. Romans 12:1,2 NIV84
- I want your constant love, not your animal sacrifices. I would rather have my people know me than burn offerings to me. Hosea 6:6 GNT

What are we to bring to God as an offering? Ourselves, for renewal, for healing, to be restored to love and trust and then when we do this we do what the rest of the text says, we worship Him in the beauty of holiness.

Does this remind you of any other Bible text that has a call to glorify God by magnifying His name and to worship Him?

The 3 Angels' messages—At this time in human history a message is to go forward to be in awe of God and give Him glory—meaning reveal His true character of love—because the time in human history has come for people to make a right judgment about God, to worship Him who made the heavens, earth, sea and fountains of water, to worship the Designer and reject this pagan imperial dictator who imposes law and inflicts punishment for sin.

And we are to do this in the beauty of holiness?

WEDNESDAY:

The lesson asks in the middle highlighted section, "The beauty of holiness? What might that mean?"

Read third and fourth paragraphs, "For starters, think about how ugly…" I think the lesson is pointing us in the right direction, sin damages, distorts, corrupts, injures, infects, perverts, abuses, exploits, harms, destroys and kills. Sin is ugly—in fact ALL ugliness is a result of sin, not all ugliness is sin, but all ugliness is a result of sin.

For instance, any disease, defect, illness, deformity such as blindness, paralysis, deafness, lesions, mental impairments are a result of sin but these things are not sin. Jesus instructed his disciples that the man born blind wasn't born blind because he or his parents sinned. But blindness wouldn't exist in the world if the world wasn't infected by sin.

Paul tells us in Romans 8 that all nature groans under the weight of sin. So, sinfulness or the condition of sin is a state of being out of harmony with God, God's design and that injures and harms and the greater the distance from God, from His perfection—His holiness—the greater the deformity, injury, damage. In other words, the greater we separate ourselves from God the greater the ugliness—and such ugliness is both physical and characterological.

This is from the book The Desire of Ages describing the scene in which Jesus confronts the satanic legion controlling the demoniacs:

> From some hiding place among the tombs, two madmen rushed upon them as if to tear them in pieces. Hanging about these men were parts of chains which they had broken in escaping from confinement. Their flesh was torn and bleeding where they had cut themselves with sharp stones. Their eyes glared out from their long and matted hair, the very likeness of humanity seemed to have been blotted out by the demons that possessed them, and they looked more like wild beasts than like men. DA 337.1
> The disciples and their companions fled in terror; but presently they noticed that Jesus was not with them, and they turned to look for Him. He was standing where they had left Him. He who had stilled the tempest, who had before met Satan and conquered him, did not flee before these demons. When the men, gnashing their teeth, and foaming at the mouth, approached Him, Jesus raised that hand which had beckoned the waves to rest, and the men could come no nearer. They stood raging but helpless before Him. DA 337.2
> With authority He bade the unclean spirits come out of them.... a marvelous change had come over the demoniacs. Light had shone into their minds. Their eyes beamed with intelligence. The countenances, so long deformed into the image of Satan, became suddenly mild, the bloodstained hands were quiet, and with glad voices the men praised God for their deliverance. DA 338.2
> The encounter with the demoniacs of Gergesa had a lesson for the disciples. It showed the depths of degradation to which Satan is seeking to drag the whole human race, and the mission of Christ to set men free from his power. Those wretched beings, dwelling in the place of graves, possessed by demons, in bondage to uncontrolled passions and loathsome lusts, represent what humanity would become if given up to satanic jurisdiction. Satan's influence is constantly exerted upon men to distract the senses, control the mind for evil, and incite to violence and crime. [Do we see this happening in society today? When you see rioters looting stores, assaulting people on the street, dragging people out of their cars, yelling, > shouting down voices of that disagree with them, when you see liberty attacked, when you see freedom of speech oppressed, when you see big tech censoring and promoting falsehoods do you see the enemy of God at work destroying the image of God in people and inciting more division and conflict?] He weakens the body, darkens the intellect, and debases the soul. Whenever men reject the Saviour's invitation, they are yielding themselves to Satan. Multitudes in every department in life, in the home, in business, and even in the church, are doing this today. It is because of this that violence and crime have overspread the earth, and moral darkness, like the pall of death, enshrouds the habitations of men. Through his specious temptations Satan leads men to worse and worse evils, till utter depravity and ruin are the result. The only safeguard against his power is found in the presence of Jesus. [Do you believe this to be true? Are there groups today who are actively seeking to eliminate Jesus from our society? Do you find Jesus freely preached in communist countries? Why do communist leaders always seek to get rid of Christianity? Because the principles of God are freedom, liberty, truth, openness and Satan's principles are coercion, deceit, domination, control and communism cannot exist where people love God and promote the methods of Jesus. Do you see forces at work in America today that are seeking to lead people down a path that eliminate Jesus and the gospel from our nation?] Before men and angels Satan has been revealed as man's enemy and destroyer; Christ, as man's friend and deliverer. His Spirit will develop in man all that will ennoble the character and dignify the nature. It will build man up for the glory of God in body and soul and spirit. "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." 2 Timothy 1:7. He has called us "to the obtaining of the glory"—character—"of our Lord Jesus Christ;" has called us to be "conformed to the image of His Son." 2 Thessalonians 2:14; Romans 8:29. DA 341.1

Do we recognize that true beauty is found only in holiness and holiness is restoration to God's design, living in harmony with God's design laws, which is healthiness.

Ancient Israel was supposed to be separated from the evil and sinfulness of the world—but that didn't happen, they became just as evil and corrupt as the world; yet while doing so they came to believe they were being separate from the world what happened?

They accepted the lie about God's law as imposed rules and this lie led them to act, as all worldly systems function and focus which is upon behavior, deeds rather than character. Thus, Israel separated themselves from the world by:

- Dress
- Religious rituals
- Diet
- Day of worship
- List of doctrines

But because they did not separate from the world in understanding of God's law, or God's character or God's methods, they did not experience difference from the world in character—they remained filled with fear and selfishness and this led them to take all their differences in dress, ritual, diet, worship and doctrines and become:

- bigoted
- prejudicial
- arrogant, narcissistic and prideful
- hard-hearted and conceited
- to exploit those around them and to ignore the plight of the less fortunate even among Israel
- and kill the Creator when He stood among them

Accepting the lie that God's law functions like human law resulted in the Jews becoming just as evil as the pagans around them.

Are we at risk for doing this today?

Read second paragraph, "The place of worship was the tabernacle…" Don't we agree that central to worship is Jesus and the plan of salvation?

Yet, what do we do with the following text?

> Not everyone who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only the one who does the will of my Father in heaven. On that day many will say to me, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and cast out demons in your name, and do many deeds of power in your name?' Then I will declare to them, 'I never knew you; go away from me, you evildoers.' Matthew 7:21-23

If we were to find people who fall into this group, the ones Jesus identifies here as evildoers, and we went to them today and asked them if they believed that Jesus and the plan of salvation was central to worship, what would they say?

So is there something more to it that just saying Jesus is central to salvation? Is there something more than saying "I accept Jesus is my Savior"? Is there something more than saying Jesus is our substitute? In other words, can a person claim all of this and still be an enemy of Jesus? How is that possible?

By accepting a false view of the character of Jesus and the Father—if one accepts a false view of them, then one values false character and by beholding we are changed. If one accepts God is arbitrary, severe, exacting, revengeful, that justice requires God to use power to torture and kill then one becomes like that false god and may claim that false god is Jesus and may claim to be a follower of Jesus but in reality is a follower of Satan.

In C.S. Lewis' last book of the Narnia series Lewis describes a Calormene soldier named Emeth and his encounter with Aslan the lion. Emeth was a worshipper of Tash, and as a result was terrified when he came face to face with Aslan. This is that encounter from the book:

> I fell at his feet and thought surely this is the hour of death, for the Lion will know that I have served Tash all my days and not him.

But Aslan's response?

Son thou art welcome. But I said, alas Lord I am no son of thine but the servant of Tash. He answered, Child all the service thou hast done to Tash I account as service done to me.

I questioned the Glorious One: Lord, is it then true that thou and Tash are one? The Lion growled and said, It is false. Not because he and I are one, but because we are opposites, I take to me the services which thou hast done to him. For I and he are of such different kinds that no service which is vile can be done to me, and none which is not vile can be done to him. Therefore if any man swear by Tash and keep his oath for the oath's sake, it is by me that he has truly sworn, though he know it not, and it is I who reward him. And if any man do a cruelty in my name, then, though he says the name Aslan, it is Tash whom he serves and by Tash his deed is accepted".

Emeth questions once more:

Lord, I have been seeking Tash all my days.

Beloved, said the Glorious One, unless thy desire had been for me thou shouldst not have sought so long and so truly. For all find what they truly seek.

And what is the root that would cause believers in Jesus to actually become enemies of Jesus? It is believing lies about God's law—if one believes God's law is imposed then one necessarily concludes that justice is inflicting punishment upon rule breakers and this leads to all the penal legal distortions and lies and the hardening of hearts of people. It obstructs people from actually being reconciled to God in their hearts and minds and gives them a false hope in a legal adjustment while they remain controlled by fear and selfishness.

Consider this historic quote:

> Any measure that is of such a nature as to oppress the poor and afflicted, bring neglect upon the widow and the orphan, is leading us away from the example given us in the life of Christ, and misrepresenting the principles of God's law. [What law is this? Is it a list of rules or the principle of love? And is love just an emotion or God's design for life? And what happens if we don't exercise love? What happens if we do? This is the law of exertion so not only are we helping others we are either growing in love or selfishness depending on how we treat others.] Representative men connected with the work and cause of God will bring a heavy retribution upon themselves if they mislead the people by their spirit and action, and misrepresent the principles of the law of Jehovah. [What does this mean? What law? The law of love, what kind of heavy retribution? An infliction, or the hardening of heart and the inevitable guilt and shame they will experience when they face infinite truth?] If they weave into the work that which springs from their own natural temperament, and mar the cause by disorders of their own natural disposition, they will cause to appear in the work of God the attributes of the fallen foe and his confederate angels, rather than the attributes of Jesus Christ.[What are the attributes of Satan versus the attributes of Christ? Which is a greater act of love to give a fish to a hungry person to teach a person to fish? The idea being to give handouts to those capable of become independent and thereby, through disuse causing them to become less capable, not developing their abilities, losing confidence in themselves, and thus becoming more dependent on whomever is giving them the fish—is this love or is this a great deception of destruction hidden under the mantle of compassion?] The fashion of the work coming forth from every soul that is born of God has been clearly pictured before us. He who is truly a child of God will experience the transforming power of grace upon mind and heart, and his character will develop after the divine similitude. [What does this mean? Does this have anything to do with the law of God? Remember God's law is the law of love and is the design protocol for life, notice what comes next] The description of the work of Christ will be the description of the work of every one who is born of God, who walks not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. The apostle says of such, "Ye are laborers together with God," representing the holy law of God to heaven, to worlds unfallen, and to the fallen world. Representing the law of God in its true character arouses the enmity of Satan. [What does it mean to represent the law of God? Would it mean to love like Jesus loves?] Those who love God with all the heart, will love the law of his kingdom. They will not only profess to be guided by its principles, but they will actually live them out, even in a world that is no more favorable to the development of Christian principles than were the inhabitants of the world before the flood, of whom it is written that the thoughts and imaginations of their hearts were evil, and only evil continually. A similar condition of society exists in our world today, and if those who claim to be God's commandment-keeping people do not put in practice the principles of the law which Christ came to our world to vindicate, pronouncing it holy, just, and good, they misrepresent the character and mission of their professed Master. They mislead men in regard to the requirements of the law, and will be stumbling-blocks in the way of sinners. The Lord of hosts has warned us that we shall take heed not to misrepresent the law of his government by any unmerciful action on our part toward our fellow-men. Neither are we to rob God in tithes and in offerings; for the remnant people of God are to be representatives to the world of the character of Christ. Not a thread of selfishness is to be woven into their practices. The law of God is to be lived out. Thus in the character of God's people a living testimony will be borne that will contradict the fallacy of Satan, who has declared that the law of Jehovah is arbitrary, and holds its subjects under a cruel bondage. RH August 13, 1895, par. 6

Wow—does this have application for us today? Do we see groups in our society today that either want us to deny God and His methods altogether, or they claim to believe in God but are willing to use human governments to advance their agenda and practice the same methods of the world?

SUNDAY

This takes us right back to Sunday, everyone worships something. This is the looking outside of oneself for a frame of orientation that gives life meaning, direction and purpose, whether the person realizes it or not.

Everyone does it, some may not worship God, but they worship—power, money, other people, idols, concepts, philosophies, nature.

Why does God say we are to have no other gods but Him?

> They followed worthless idols and became worthless themselves. Jeremiah 2:5

Romans 1 Paul describes how they didn't think it worthwhile to retain the knowledge of God, they exchanged the truth of God for a lie and preferred images made with their own hands and their minds became, depraved, darkened and futile!

It is a law that by beholding we are changed—this is the law of worship, we change biologically and characterologically based on what we admire and worship. As the highest created beings on planet earth there is nothing we can worship that advances us, anything on earth we worship degrades us. Thus, God wanting our highest development tells us to worship Him the infinite One! It is for our good, our development, not His need that God says to worship Him!

But can we do the same pagan false worship without images or idols? Here is one historic quote, do you agree?

> Thousands have a false conception of God and His attributes. They are as verily serving a false god as were the servants of Baal. Are we worshiping the true God as He is revealed in His Word, in Christ, in nature, or are we adoring some philosophical idol enshrined in His place? God is a God of truth. Justice and mercy are the attributes of His throne. He is a God of love, of pity and tender compassion. Thus He is represented in His Son, our Saviour. He is a God of patience and long-suffering. If such is the being whom we adore and to whose character we are seeking to assimilate, we are worshiping the true God. {FLB 59.8}

The lesson focuses on our responsibility to teach truth to our children, to teach of God's actions in the past, to teach our children to love, trust and praise God based on reality, on His attributes of character and the manifestations of His goodness in history and reality and then to repeat these lessons over and over in song and other forms of praise.

Why is this important?

- repetitio est mater studiorum—repetition is the mother of study/learning

It is the manifestation of the law of exertion, if you want something to get stronger you must exercise it. Thus, the more you do something the better you get at it. Your brain wires in neural pathways and things go from a piece of data one remembers to beliefs, filters, presets upon which one filters new information.

If we accept lies then those form false schemas, beliefs, perspectives that cause us to interpret the world around us in distorted ways.

Truth displaces lies and reshapes our minds and characters.

Why is it necessary to repeat?

- Because in this fallen world we are slow to learn
- Because there is a difference between learning facts and having them become part of our character
- Because there is a difference between learning facts and loving the person those facts inform us about
- Because there are many lies and distortions that seek to infect our minds
- Because we naturally bring up doubts, fears, selfishness and distortions and the seed of truth must be planted and constantly tended in order to bring forth fruit—analogy of a garden

TUESDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on Jesus encounter with the woman at the well and when the question of worship comes up Jesus tells her:

> Believe me, woman, a time is coming when you will worship the Father neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem. You Samaritans worship what you do not know; we worship what we do know, for salvation is from the Jews. Yet a time is coming and has now come when the true worshipers will worship the Father in spirit and truth, for they are the kind of worshipers the Father seeks. God is spirit, and his worshipers must worship in spirit and in truth. John 4:21-24

What does this mean?

The Greek word for spirit is pneuma and was translated to Latin as spiritus which literally means breath and was translated to English as spirit.

But the word actually has multiple meanings:

1. wind/air
2. breath/life energy/vital element/life spark
3. intelligent being/character/personality/attitude/attributes/emotions
4. mythical/superstitious entity that lives without physical body

And sometimes these different meanings occur in the very same passage:

> John 3:8 “The wind (pneuma) blows wherever it pleases. You hear its sound, but you cannot tell where it comes from or where it is going. So it is with everyone born of the Spirit (pneuma)."

Sometimes this one Greek word means more than one thing in the same use:

> Luke 8:55 “Her spirit (breath of life and her unique individuality) returned, and at once she stood up. Then Jesus told them to give her something to eat.” Meaning it wasn’t just life that animated her body, but that HER spirit, i.e. her unique self returned when the breath of life returned.
> Luke 23:46: Jesus called out with a loud voice, "Father, into your hands I commit my spirit." When he had said this, he breathed his last.

What did Jesus commit to the Father, just the breath of life, or His unique self?

Here is an historic view of what this means in this context:

> “Our personal identity is preserved in the resurrection, though not the same particles of matter or material substance as went into the grave. The wondrous works of God are a mystery to man. The spirit, the character of man, is returned to God, there to be preserved. In the resurrection every man will have his own character. God in His own time will call forth the dead, giving again the breath of life, and bidding the dry bones live. The same form will come forth, but it will be free from disease and every defect. It lives again bearing the same individuality of features, so that friend will recognize friend. There is no law of God in nature which shows that God gives back the same identical particles of matter which composed the body before death. God shall give the righteous dead a body that will please Him.” {6BC 1093.2}
> HEB 1:14 Are not all angels ministering spirits sent to serve those who will inherit salvation?
> LK 1:46,47 And Mary said: "My soul glorifies the Lord and my spirit rejoices in God my Savior…”

Then sometimes pneuma is mythological:

> Luke 24:39 "Look at my hands and my feet. It is I myself! Touch me and see; a ghost (pneuma) does not have flesh and bones, as you see I have."

So, what does it mean that "God is spirit, and his worshipers must worship in spirit and in truth."

Wind? Breath of life? Ghostly vapor? Or intelligent, sentient being with individuality?

Let's consider how we use the word spirit in English:

- When we say that team really has school spirit – what do we mean?
- When we say, a prisoner was tortured until his spirit was broken what do we mean?
- When we say someone is mean spirited what do we mean?
- When we say someone is a free spirit what do we mean?
- When we say someone is high spirited what do we mean?
- Though unable to join us today he is with us in spirit what do we mean?
- Though enemies they settled their differences with a kind spirit, what do we mean?
- The spirit of 1776 is not dead, what do we mean?
- He has the spirit of a rebel, what do we mean?
- How about he has an evil spirit?

Do any of these usages mean a demon or other intelligent entity is involved?

What is a spirit being? Any being that has intelligence, willfulness, personality, character, individuality.

Evil spirits are intelligent beings who are evil, who practice Satan's methods and reject God's.

What type of beings can be an evil spirit? Angels, who when fallen are demons.

What about humans, can they be evil spirits? Can a human being have their own evil spirit separate and distinct from a demon? If Satan and all demons were wiped out right now, could humans still have evil spirits—evil minds, hearts, attitudes and characters, selves?

Consider this quote from The Desire of Ages:

> Judas had naturally a strong love for money; but he had not always been corrupt enough to do such a deed as this. He had fostered the evil spirit of avarice until it had become the ruling motive of his life. DA 716

So we have as synonyms demons and fallen angels which can also be referred to as evil spirits. But a rebellious human who is warring against God could also be called an evil spirit or it could be said he has an evil spirit.

So, what does it mean God is spirit and wants worshippers who worship Him in spirit and truth?

God is intelligent, with individuality (not a force of nature), who is rational, reasonable, purposeful and who operates upon love and is the source of all truth.

God wants worshippers who are intelligent, who exercise their individuality to love truth and grow in truth, thus they operate in harmony with God's design law and are purposeful in pursuing God and God's kingdom. They actually know and appreciate Him for who He is—these are the worshippers God seeks. Not the superstitious dark-minded worshippers who worship a false version of God that keeps them from growing and developing.

How can you tell whether your worship is of the true God, versus a false god or false spirit?

Here is the contrast:

- The Spirit of God is love; evil spirits are selfish
- The Spirit of God is truth; evil spirits lie
- The Spirit of God gives freedom; evil spirits coerce and enslave
- The Spirit of God is heals; evil spirits destroy
- The Spirit of God is giving; evil spirits take
- The Spirit of God removes fear; evil spirits incite fear
- The Spirit of God brings stability; evil spirits cause instability
- The Spirit of God is patient; evil spirits are impulsive
- The Spirit of God is kind; evil spirits are cruel
- The Spirit of God forgives; evil spirits are resentful, keep score, and require appeasement
- The Spirit of God sacrifices self for others; evil spirits sacrifices others for self

THURSDAY

Read fourth paragraph, "Many are the great intellectual ideas…"

The lesson asks, "What are some of the current popular beliefs that clash with Scripture…?"

- Godless origins
- We can save the earth through environmental initiatives
- Survival of the fittest is adaptive and helpful to advance the species
- Humans are less valuable than animals or the planet
- Equality means everyone deserves equal everything—but some aspect of outcomes, or equality is not about equal moral worth, but equal ability thus we demand all people be given equal roles

FRIDAY

Read and discuss first paragraph, "The heart is deceitful…"

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 8
Education and Redemption

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

I am excited to share a special resource, recently made available by Pineknoll and it is their new book, Conversations about God by Graham Maxwell, with Louis Venden and edited by Jon Paulien.

In 1984, Graham Maxwell conducted a lecture series at the Loma Linda University Church entitled, Conversations about God. After each presentation he would have a Q&A period with Louis Venden. These were all recorded, and recently Pineknoll has transcribed and edited these presentations and discussions and produced a beautiful book and are giving these away at no cost. We have enough here for all of you who attend our class, so pick one up today.

If you watch online, please go to Pineknoll.org and request your free copy and they will ship it to you at no cost, anywhere in the world!

Read Memory Text: "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness" (2Timothy 3:16 NIKJV).

thoughts? What do we understand to be a better translation and why?

> For all Scripture, inspired by God, is beneficial for teaching, redirecting, correcting and training — to promote character transformation (2Timothy 3:16 The Remedy).

Do these two texts mean the same thing? What is the difference and is it important?

This is why we don't surrender our thinking but must reason through Scripture. This translation, the KJV and the NKJV have an error in the translation which suggests that all Scripture is given by inspiration. Is that so?

- What about the apocrypha? Books like:
  - Esdras (Vulgate 3 Esdras)
  - 2 Esdras (Vulgate 4 Esdras)
  - Tobit.
  - Judith ("Judeth" in Geneva)
  - Rest of Esther (Vulgate Esther 10:4 – 16:24)
  - Wisdom.
  - Ecclesiasticus (also known as Sirach)
  - Baruch and the Epistle of Jeremy ("Jeremiah" in Geneva) (all part of Vulgate Baruch)

- What versions of the Bible have included the apocryphal books?
  - Gutenberg Bible
  - Luther Bible
  - Clementine Vulgate
  - King James Version

- Pseudepigrapha?
  - 3 Maccabees.
  - 4 Maccabees.
  - Assumption of Moses.
  - Ethiopic Book of Enoch (1 Enoch)
  - Slavonic Second Book of Enoch.
  - Book of Jubilees.
  - 3 Baruch.
- Book of Mormon?
- Koran?

So we believe that all Scripture which is inspired by God is useful…

Read second paragraph, "But for the purposes…" What do you think of the idea that theme of the Bible is of a Teacher and His students?

Who is the Teacher? Who are the students?

What do you think of this perspective from the apostle Peter?

> Concerning this salvation… Even angels long to look into these things. (1Peter 1:10-12).

What about the angels in heaven—are they also students? Are they also learning things they didn't already know?

This is from the book Patriarchs and Prophets and goes along the lines of Peter's view:

> But the plan of redemption had a yet broader and deeper purpose than the salvation of man. [What? Isn't the entire gospel about us, about our salvation? No the gospel or good news is about God and it just so happens that God is so good that He did not abandon us after Adam sinned, but sent His Son to save us, but the good news is that God is not like Satan has made Him out to appear.] It was not for this alone that Christ came to the earth; it was not merely that the inhabitants of this little world might regard the law of God as it should be regarded; but it was to vindicate the character of God before the universe. [How should God's law be regarded? As design law—remember Satan in the opening of the great controversy took the position that every sin must meet its punishment. Satan is the author of imposed law, imposed punishments which distort the character and government of God and incite fear and rebellion.

> The message to lighten the world calls us back to worship the Creator whose laws are design laws] To this result of His great sacrifice--its influence upon the intelligences of other worlds, as well as upon man—[the sacrifice of Jesus was for other sinless beings? If so then it wasn't some legal payment for our sins as some like to claim; it was to reveal the truth and expunge the lies!] the Saviour looked forward when just before His crucifixion He said: "Now is the judgment of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out. And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all unto Me." John 12:31, 32. [Cast out of where? What kind of action is Jesus' death on the Cross? Is it an act of force or the use of might and power by God to throw someone down? Is God using angels with flaming swords in a physical battle? This is an act of love, of surrender, of laying down of physical might and power, yet, Jesus says by this act that Satan is cast out—how? What does it mean? Cast out of where? Satan is cast out of the affections of heavenly beings and all human beings who, through the Sacrifice of Jesus, are won back to trust in God! The battle has never been a physical battle. It has always been a battle over who we love and trust!] The act of Christ in dying for the salvation of man would not only make heaven accessible to men, but before all the universe it would justify God and His Son in their dealing with the rebellion of Satan. It would establish the perpetuity of the law of God and would reveal the nature and the results of sin. {PP 68.2}

What does it mean establish the perpetuity of the law? If the law was a system of imposed rules, rules can be changed or bent or cheated—look around at every human government in history—all human laws get bent or cheated by those in power.

But God's laws are design laws and these cannot be changed, or bent, or cheated. To change the law of God is to change the very order of the universe, all we know, life as we know it would not exist if God's design laws were changed. If the law could be changed then Jesus would not have had to die, but the death of Jesus was the only way to reveal the truth and cure the problem while maintain God's design for life!

Are there any other Bible texts that support this view?

> For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him [Jesus], and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross (Colossians 1:20 NIV84).

What is reconciled to Christ through His blood? Was this blood shed for angels? Was it shed to pay their legal penalty for their sins? Then what is the blood of Jesus doing for angels? Why did they need it?

Consider this from The Desire of Ages:

> To the angels and the unfallen worlds the cry, "It is finished," had a deep significance. It was for them as well as for us that the great work of redemption had been accomplished. They with us share the fruits of Christ's victory.

> Not until the death of Christ was the character of Satan clearly revealed to the angels or to the unfallen worlds. The archapostate had so clothed himself with deception that even holy beings had not understood his principles. They had not clearly seen the nature of his rebellion. {DA 758}
> Satan saw that his disguise was torn away. His administration was laid open before the unfallen angels and before the heavenly universe. He had revealed himself as a murderer. By shedding the blood of the Son of God, he had uprooted himself from the sympathies of the heavenly beings. Henceforth his work was restricted. Whatever attitude he might assume, he could no longer await the angels as they came from the heavenly courts, and before them accuse Christ's brethren of being clothed with the garments of blackness and the defilement of sin. The last link of sympathy between Satan and the heavenly world was broken. DA 761.2

Thus Jesus' words that when He is lifted up the prince of this world is cast out—cast out of the sympathies of heavenly beings and out of the hearts of all who trust Jesus here on earth.

But why haven't all humans come to have Satan and his methods cast out of there hearts? Why haven't all Christians been freed from fear and selfishness and become true representatives of Christ?

Because Satan infected Christianity with a lie that God's law works like human law and essentially all Christianity of all denominations teach that it wasn't Satan that murdered Jesus, but it was God who killed Jesus at the cross for justice sake, to pay our legal debt.

Here are some references from various Christian denominations which document this infection of thought:

> Roman Catholic:
> What did Christ's suffering and death actually accomplish that allowed the Father to provide the human race with salvation? … Scripture teaches only that Christ became a 'propitiation,' a 'sin offering,' or a 'sacrifice' for sins…Essentially, this means that Christ, because he was guiltless, sin-free and in favor with God, could offer himself up as a means of persuading God to relent of his angry wrath against the sins of mankind… Anger against sin shows the personal side of God, for sin is a personal offense against him God is personally offended by sin and thus he needs to be personally appeased in order to offer a personal forgiveness. In keeping with his divine principles, his personal nature, and the magnitude of the sins of man, the only thing that God would allow to appease him was the suffering and death of the sinless representative of mankind, namely, Christ. Robert Sungenis, Founder and President of Catholic Apologetics International Publishing: Not By Faith Alone (Santa Barbara: Queenship, 1997), pp. 107-108.

Evangelical

We affirm that the atonement of Christ by which, in his obedience, he offered a perfect sacrifice, propitiating the Father by paying for our sins and satisfying divine justice on our behalf according to God's eternal plan, is an essential element of the Gospel. "A Call to Evangelical Unity," Christianity Today, June 14, 1999.

SDA—Since the 1888 GC and the rejection of the Righteousness by Faith Message—meaning since the rejection of design law and the embracing of imposed law:

Christ's self-sacrifice is pleasing to God because this sacrificial offering took away the barrier between God and sinful man in that Christ fully bore God's wrath on man's sin. Through Christ, God's wrath is not turned into love but is turned away from man and borne by Himself. Seventh-day Adventist Believe 27, p. 111.

What is the barrier between God and man according to this reference?

What happened to "The lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world?" (John 1:29)

Also from Seventh-day Adventist Believe 27, p. 111.

For a loving God to maintain His justice and righteousness, the atoning death of Jesus Christ became 'a moral and legal necessity.' God's 'justice requires that sin be carried to judgment. God must therefore execute judgment on sin and thus on the sinner. In this execution the Son of God took our place, the sinner's place, according to God's will. ibid.

Do you see the deep infection of Satan's lie about God's law being imposed, and then the lie about God's character being the source of death and the one from whom we need to be protected?

But Ellen White, one of the founders of the SDA church saw it differently:

To break down the barrier that Satan had erected between God and man, Christ made a full and complete sacrifice, revealing unexampled self-denial. He revealed to the world the amazing spectacle of God living in human flesh, and sacrificing Himself to save fallen men. What wonderful love! Signs of the Times, September 24, 1902, Review & Herald Publishing.

It is no wonder so many Christians don't trust God and have struggled to have Satan and his methods of fear and selfishness cast out of their hearts. The lie that God's law functions like human law with its poisonous fruit of penal substitution theology has kept Satan enthroned in the Spirit temple as a false god that is the source of pain, suffering and death inflicted upon sinners and who needs a blood payment to appease or assuage his wrath. Such ideas keep people afraid and worshipping a false god.

SUNDAY

Read the first paragraph, "The phrase…" What do you understand the image of God in humanity to be?

- character of love?
- intelligence?
- individuality?
- capacity for procreation?
- capacity for dominion and ruling the planet?
- other?

What does it mean that education is to restore the image of God in man?

Would that suggest that the image of God language refers to something beyond the physical appearance?

What does the Bible describe as God's core identifiers?

- God is Creator
- AND
- God is love

These are the two characteristics that are prime that set the true God apart from false gods.

Humankind was created in God's image to be pro-creators and to be the repository of God's design law of love. This law is a living law a law upon which life operate and cannot be understood written on stone. God's law is only truly seen in a living being. Adam and Eve were designed and built to operate in other centered love, to give of themselves, to create little beings in their image, to govern the planet upon the protocols of love.

While we still have procreative abilities—do we, as a species, operate upon the principles of love or has selfishness infected humanity?

If selfishness is operating as the motivator to our actions, then whose image to we bear? This is the battle between Christ and Satan—God wants to write His law in our hearts and minds—His design methods of love, truth and freedom. Satan wants to destroy God's law of love from our hearts and fill us with fear and selfishness.

Consider this quote from Acts of the Apostles:

> "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new." 2 Corinthians 5:17. Through the power of Christ, men and women have broken the chains of sinful habit. They have renounced selfishness. [Is this a legal process or a healing process?] The profane have become reverent, the drunken sober, the profligate [the > shameless immoral] pure. Souls that have borne the likeness of Satan have become transformed into the image of God. This change is in itself the miracle of miracles. A change wrought by the Word, it is one of the deepest mysteries of the Word. We cannot understand it; we can only believe, as declared by the Scriptures, it is "Christ in you, the hope of glory." AA 476.1

What is it to bear the likeness of Satan? To be selfish, to exploit others for self, to be profane, to debase oneself, to be immoral.

What does it mean to bear the image of Christ? To be purified in heart, mind and character to love God and others, to no longer be selfish, to be honest, kind, generous.

After Adam and Eve sinned, Satan has sought to destroy the image of God in humanity—what are some of Satan's methods to accomplish this?

Consider this quote:

> It was Satan's studied effort [in the antediluvian age] to pervert the marriage institution, to weaken its obligations and lessen its sacredness; for in no surer way could he deface the image of God in man and open the door to misery and vice. AH 326.1

How has the marriage institution been corrupted throughout human history?

- Male abuse, control, domination of their wives and daughters, treating them like property and subordinating them to their husbands and fathers as if they had no individuality of their own,
- Wives who abuse and mistreat their husbands
- Adultery—betrayal of any kind
- Polygamy which makes women into objects of passion and pleasure to be used for the benefit of the man
- Prostitution which corrupts the sexual union into a transaction for selfish indulgence and exploitation
- Pornography
- Fertility cults which elevate sexuality to the object of worship and typically worship the feminine
- Living together without marriage, without commitment, without self-sacrifice only as long as it is convenient
- Hardness of heart that leads to lack of love in a marriage that results in divorce
- Progressivism in which there are no genders, no male no female and no purpose or need for marriage

Why is marriage, as God designed, related to our sanctity? Why is perverting marriage so destructive to us and so damaging to the image of God in people?

- Where did God design love to operate at its fullest and purest?
- Where did God design two people to experience unity as "one" in its fullest sense?
- What happens in the heart and mind of people who do experience this?
- If we experience marriage as God designed it to operate, do we become more selfish or more selfless? Do we become more exploitive or more caring, compassionate, concerned for others? In other words, does our ability to love others grow in marriages where God's design functions?
- What happens to our abilities if we exercise them?
- What happens to people if they allow fear to rule them in their marriage? Fear of rejection, fear of not being good enough, fear of being abandoned, fear of loss, fear of exploitation?
- Does fear allow people to experience genuine love?
- Does fear lead to greater development of noble traits of character?
- If fear rules the heart then what actions follow? What character develops if fear rules?
- What happens to fear where love is experienced? Is marriage as God designed a place where one's fears can be washed away in love?
- What happens to the character of people in whom sex becomes merely selfish gratification—pornography, prostitution, serial relationships, frequent one-night stands, polygamy, or using the spouse merely as a sexual object?
- Do we see how marriage as God designed is for the development of God-like character, the joy of God-like love, the expansion of God-like abilities and thus Satan attacks marriage to deface the image of God in people?

Consider this historic quote, do you agree?

> Satan worked upon such principles as would conform those who sympathized with him to his own corrupt standard, and would assimilate them with his own Satanic nature. It was his determined purpose to efface from man the image of God, and stamp upon the souls of his subjects his own image and superscription. He employed in his work the most deceptive methods, and was successful in leading men to cooperate with him in rebellion against God. Christ gives to him the title of "the father of lies," "the accuser of the brethren," "a murderer from the beginning." By his bewitching power he instilled into man the same spirit of opposition and hatred of God as he himself had, and set up his throne as the rallying point for the confederacy of wickedness. ST June 13, 1895, par. 1

What are the principles of Satan?

- lies
- fear
- selfishness
- coercion
- corrupt standards—which means what? false standards, this would include the false standards on marriage, but also false laws i.e. imposed laws or rules that contradict or are not in harmony with design laws

The lesson points out that one of the main purposes of education is to restore the image of God in us.

Where are children to receive a godly education? At home, at church, and at school?

How are we doing in society today?

Do our children receive a consistent godly education in our homes, churches and schools?

Can we look at history and see how the education of children changes a society?

- Does it make a difference if children are educated to believe they are created in the image of God versus there is no God and they merely evolved from lower life forms?
- Does it make a difference if children are taught that some groups of people are less human than others?
- Does it make a difference if children are taught that the only thing that matters is winning—all is fair in love and war?
- Does it make a difference if children are taught God's law is like human law imposed rules and that God must punish rule breakers?

And what is happening in the world today? What kind of education are the children receiving in our public schools around the world? Are they being taught about God and God's design for human beings or are they being taught a godless philosophy of humanism?

Does the godless education, the progressive worldly education, have an impact on developing minds and characters? Is the image of God being restored into people or is it being effaced by this worldly education?

How can so many Christians support the worldly education? Because they are deceived—they are tricked into believing school is merely about reading, writing and arithmetic. Millions have failed to understand that education is about restoring the image of God in people!

What would happen if that was the primary issue when parents consider schools? Is it, when parents are considering schools is their primary concern—what impact will this school have on restoring the image of God in my child?

And thus, millions of Christians support education that undermines the image of God in their children.

Should we support government run religion in schools? Why or why not?

What would be a solution? What about vouchers in which parents could decide where their children go to school and regardless of income parents could still choose to send their children to private Christian schools?

MONDAY

The lesson states regarding Jesus, "Somehow His work of Redemption is akin to the work of teaching."

If Jesus is teaching, then we are learning and what does learning require of the student?

- Does Jesus want simple memorization—here is the list of fundamental beliefs you must accept—memorize them?
- Does Jesus want us to believe because the Teacher said so? Jesus said it, I believe it, that settles it?

What does Jesus want from us?

> "Come now, let us reason together," says the LORD. "Though your sins are like scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they are red as crimson, they shall be like wool. (Isaiah 1:18 NIV84)

What does this text mean? Why is reasoning with God connected with cleansing from sin?

What about:

> Then you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free. (John 8:32 NIV84)

What does this text mean? What does truth set us free from?

- lies believed break the circle of love and trust
- broken love and trust result in fear and selfishness
- fear and selfishness result in acts of sin
- acts of sin damage our minds, body, relationships a terminal condition

What is the cure, the solution?

- Truth believed destroys lies and wins to trust
- In trust we open our hearts and the Spirit fills us with the love of God (no longer I that live but Christ lives in me) fear and selfishness is cast out
- In love and trust we carry out acts of love, service, giving
- In living God's methods and principles we grow in godliness and healed condition

BUT IT ALL STARTS WITH THE TRUTH ABOUT GOD!

And the truth about God is not merely facts it is coming to know God personally which requires we reason and think and be fully persuaded in our own minds!

WEDNESDAY

Read the second paragraph, "King Solomon is singled…" Do you consider Solomon wise? Yet somehow he became very foolish, how did that happen?

Consider this historic quote:

> The mind of a man or woman does not come down in a moment from purity and holiness to depravity, corruption, and crime. It takes time to transform the human to the divine, or to degrade those formed in the image of God to the brutal or the satanic. By beholding we become changed. [Why? The law of worship—this is a design law upon how we are created. It is unavoidable. We are constantly being changed either into the image of God by worshipping Him, by fixing our eyes upon Jesus, or into the Satanic by embracing some false standard, some false god even though we claim to be Christian] Though formed in the image of his Maker, man can so educate his mind that sin which he once loathed will become pleasant to him. [Does education mean only scholastics? Does public education work to restore the image of God in people? Does Christian education which misrepresents God restore the image of God in people? Or religious education that indoctrinates and does not teach people how to reason and think?] As he ceases to watch and pray, he ceases to guard the citadel, the heart, and engages in sin and crime. The mind is debased, and it is impossible to elevate it from corruption while it is being educated to enslave the moral and intellectual powers and bring them in subjection to grosser passions. Constant war against the carnal mind must be maintained; and we must be aided by the refining influence of the grace of God, which will attract the mind upward and habituate it to meditate upon pure and holy things.12 AH 330.2

It is impossible to elevate our minds and characters while they are being educated to enslave the moral and intellectual powers to the grosser passions—i.e. to selfishness. Why? Design law, how reality works. It is like saying, it is impossible to restore health while one continues to violate the laws of health.

And this is the problem with the penal/legal fraud within Christianity—it teaches that sin is a legal problem and the solution is a legal one by claiming a blood payment to the god that will kill you if you don't, but if you do then all your sins, past, present and future, are legally paid for and you are under grace and no matter what future sins you commit they are covered by the blood and you are saved. So, in this model:

- The wrong god is being worshipped and by beholding we are changed
- The wrong understanding of law is being taught and by practice of punishment and coercion of either ourselves or others we are being changed
- The wrong understanding of sin and its solution results in continued practice of sin and via the law of exertion we are being changed

This is the wine of Babylon; this is the corruption of the Dark Ages false Christianity; this is what we are to call people out of!

What did Solomon do that brought down his character to the point that he sacrificed one of his own children to a pagan god?

He practices polygamy—God's design for marriage was corrupted and this resulted in what? In taking foreign wives, and this resulted in what? In Solomon allowing them religious freedom and they brought in their pagan worship practices and began teaching and seducing Solomon into their falsehoods.

And what happened to Solomon?

Is there a lesson for us?

- Violating God's design is always damaging no matter the motive
- Allowing feelings, compassion, or desire to overrule one's judgment is always damaging
- Failure to set healthy boundaries results in injury
- Surrendering judgment to others, allowing oneself to be influenced by those who are not loyal to God is dangerous and destructive
- True wisdom is found only in harmony with God and His designs and methods

Was Solomon wrong for granting religious liberty to his wives? Why or why not?

Was Solomon wrong for keeping them as wives or should he have divorced all who insisted on worshipping false gods? Why or why not?

- Once in a marriage relationship each spouse has responsibilities to the other that necessarily restricts the liberty that one had as a single person. Such as, not free within the bounds of marriage, to date other people. Not free, within the bounds of marriage, to take actions that knowingly betray the other or injure the spouse? Love binds us with loyalty and devotion to consider the welfare of our spouse, the impact that our actions will have on the other in a way we did not have to consider with a non-spouse.
- Marriage is a commitment to love the other more than the self and thus one as a duty to fulfill that responsibility.
- When marriage is practiced in godly love the individual grows in godliness. This is by design—we grow to ever increasing heights of love and joy in a godly marriage. But this means that certain freedoms are relinquished for the good of the other—but it is done by the self because we freely choose to give up those privileges for the other.

So, what if a spouse continues to act for self and not put their partners welfare as a priority? What if a spouse does continue to betray their loyalty by undermining the integrity, reputation, or health of their partner? Is it injuring only the one who is being betrayed, or is it injuring the betrayer? What does love do from both sides of this situation?

The lesson points out that we learn wisdom from others, from our parents or teachers. But, can we teach something we don't ourselves know? So, would a parent or teacher need to have wisdom in order to teach wisdom?

Can one have wisdom if they don't know God?

Can one have wisdom if they know God, but know Him as a child knows their parent level 1-4 moral development? Can one have wisdom if they know God but still don't know God's law is design law, they think it is imposed rules?

Consider Paul's admonition to the Corinthians:

> For the message of the cross is foolishness to those who are perishing, but to us who are being saved it is the power of God. For it is written:
>
> > "I will destroy the wisdom of the wise;
> > the intelligence of the intelligent I will frustrate."
> Where is the wise man? Where is the scholar? Where is the philosopher of this age? Has not God made foolish the wisdom of the world? For since in the wisdom of God the world through its wisdom did not know him, God was pleased through the foolishness of what was preached to save those who believe. Jews demand miraculous signs and Greeks look for wisdom, but we preach Christ crucified: a stumbling block to Jews and foolishness to Gentiles, 24 but to those whom God has called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God. For the foolishness of God is wiser than man's wisdom, and the weakness of God is stronger than man's strength. Brothers, think of what you were when you were called. Not many of you were wise by human standards; not many were influential; not many were of noble birth. But God chose the foolish things of the world to shame the wise; God chose the weak things of the world to shame the strong. 1Corinthians 1:18-27 NIV84).

What does this mean?

This is from The Remedy:

> For the truth about God–his character of absolute love, as revealed by Christ at the cross–makes no sense whatsoever to those who are dying through practicing the world's method of survival-of-the-fittest; but to those of us who are being healed and restored, it is the true power of God, the secret of eternal life. For the Scriptures reveal that God's method of self-sacrificing love will destroy the world's wisdom of promoting self first, but the apparent logic of working for self-exaltation, fame, personal advancement or financial wealth–rather than bringing healing and restoration, will be shown to actually accelerate the damage to one's mind and character. So then, what value is there in the wisdom of the selfish person? Or the agnostic professor? Or the atheistic scientist? Or the psychologist of the New Age? God has shown that all "wisdom" based on the principles of this world is in reality foolishness, silliness, nonsense! For after those who value the methods of the world rejected God and denied his existence, God joyfully revealed his wisdom by actually healing > and transforming all those who trust him on the basis of the simple message of God's selfless love revealed by Jesus. The Jews, and many like them, demand supernatural signs and wonders, which (they fail to realize) can be counterfeited; and the Greeks look only for intellectual explanations, but we preach God's self-sacrificing character of love revealed by Christ crucified. It's a roadblock to the egocentric Jews, and utter nonsense to the self-seeking Gentiles, but to all those who respond to God's call — whether Jew or Gentile — Christ is the embodiment of the character, wisdom and power of God! For the simple love of God is wiser than all humankind's self-centered scheming: God's love literally heals and restores. And this love of God, which appears weak to the world, is stronger than all the strength of selfish humanity.

> Brothers and sisters, remember where you were, and what you were like before you responded to God's call. From the world's perspective, not many of you were successful or wise, or powerful, or high on the social scale. But God has purposely chosen what appears to be the worst cases–the ignorant and foolish–to reveal the tremendous transforming power of his Remedy and thus expose the futility of the world's wisdom. God has purposely chosen what the selfish world considers weak to reveal how impotent the world's power really is.

Do you see God's kingdom does not operate like this selfish world does? Everything this world promotes, wars against the kingdom of love and truth.

THURSDAY

The second paragraph states, "While the Holy Spirit is not identified as an educator, the work of the Spirit certainly is educational, particularly as it pertains to seeking and finding truth."

So true—the Spirit is the Spirit of truth and leads us into all truth and without truth there is no education into the things of God.

Let's be clear though, education is the process of teaching and learning and people can be educated into all kinds of lies and falsehoods such as:

- godless evolutionism
- penal substitution theology
- eternal torment in hell and many more false ideas that indoctrinate and enslave minds.

The work of the Holy Spirit is to free people's minds from lies and restore them to godliness.

Consider this quote from The Desire of Ages:

> The Comforter is called "the Spirit of truth." His work is to define and maintain the truth. He first dwells in the heart as the Spirit of truth, and thus He becomes the Comforter. There is > comfort and peace in the truth, but no real peace or comfort can be found in falsehood. It is through false theories and traditions that Satan gains his power over the mind. By directing men to false standards, he misshapes the character. Through the Scriptures the Holy Spirit speaks to the mind, and impresses truth upon the heart. Thus He exposes error, and expels it from the soul. It is by the Spirit of truth, working through the word of God, that Christ subdues His chosen people to Himself. DA 671.1

What does it mean to have the mind of Christ?

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 9
The Church and Education

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

The Church and Education—what does this title bring to mind?

Does it bring to mind being taught the right facts, learning the appropriate creed, memorizing a catechism, learning the 28 fundamental beliefs? Does the idea of church education make you think of being taught how to think or being taught what to think?

Is there a difference between indoctrination and education?

What is more important—being taught the right truths, or being taught how to think, to critically reason so one can differentiate the difference between truth and error?

I love this quote from the book education, has this been what you have experienced at church or church school?

> Every human being, created in the image of God, is endowed with a power akin to that of the Creator—individuality, power to think and to do. The men in whom this power is developed are the men who bear responsibilities, who are leaders in enterprise, and who influence character. [What does it mean—individuality, the power to think and to do? And what does it mean to have this power developed? If we have this power inherently, given by God, then do we have to develop it? What happens if we don't?] It is the work of true education to develop this power, to train the youth to be thinkers, and not mere reflectors of other men's thought. [So education is not merely to teach facts, or right doctrines or truths. If this is all we do we fail to educate. True eduation is to teach how to think—this is what Come and Reason Ministries is designed to do, to teach people who to critically reason and think for themselves. Thus, when we present ideas or truths we also present the reasons why so people can see for themselves and we base this upon the integration of Scripture, science/nature and experience—how reality works, not mere quotations. What is the difference in being a thinker versus a reflector of other people's thoughts? We are to be lights in the world, is there a difference between a light and a reflector? What does a reflector do and what does a light do? So what does a thinker do that a reflector of others thoughts does not do? What kind of education leads people to develop this power to think and do?] Instead of confining their study to that which men have said or written, let students be directed to the sources of truth, to the vast fields opened for research in nature and revelation. [What happens if we restrict our study to Scripture divorced from nature and life experience? Is this one of the problems in Christian education, in the church the idea of Scripture alone not harmonized with nature and experience? Yes—this is what leads to all kinds of irrational and superstitious teachings that don't make sense, that require one to stop thinking in order to continue to believe the church dogma.] Let them contemplate the great facts of duty and destiny, and the mind will expand and strengthen. Instead of educated weaklings, institutions of learning may send forth men strong to think and to act, men who are masters and not slaves of circumstances, men who possess breadth of mind, clearness of thought, and the courage of their convictions. Ed 17.2 [Educated weaklings—wow—how many do we have like this today in society? Millions with college degrees who can't discern the most simple facts of reality because they have been educated not to think, not to critically reason, indoctrinated into false systems of reality whether those false systems are godless evolution or religiosity of a dictator god whose laws work like human laws.]

Such an education provides more than mental discipline; it provides more than physical training. It strengthens the character, so that truth and uprightness are not sacrificed to selfish desire or worldly ambition. [Wow—how much of education today is focused on getting ahead in this world, on getting the best paying job, or the most power? But true education is about developing Christlike character, which comes when we develop the ability to discern the true from the false and embrace the true.] It fortifies the mind against evil. Instead of some master passion becoming a power to destroy, every motive and desire are brought into conformity to the great principles of right. As the perfection of His character is dwelt upon, the mind is renewed, and the soul is re-created in the image of God. Ed 18.1

What education can be higher than this? What can equal it in value? Ed 18.2 [What law is this? It is the law of worship, by beholding we are changed. And what impact will it have on character if we educate our children in public schools in which they are taught godless evolution and they are taught it is foolish to believe in God? What will happen to society as millions of children grow up to believe there is no God? What is the law that gets written on their hearts? The law of sin and death, which is survival of the fittest—which is the law that the strong survive, the strong dominate the weak, and anything is fair as long as they win. And this is what we are seeing in society today the complete erosion of any sense of integrity and morality and its root is in the corruption of the education of our children. And Christians, are you supporting organizations or parties that are antagonistic to God, that promote godlessness as a way of life? Why? What is more important to you than bringing people to the knowledge of God, than educating our children with a knowledge of God?]

The lesson points out that the church is a place where serious discussion should take place but that some people are afraid to ask questions. Why? What would cause people to fear asking questions?

- Fear of looking foolish
- Fear of being laughed at
- Fear of being accused of being a hypocrite or reprobate
- Fear of being rejected
- Fear of argument or conflict
- Fear of not having faith—the lie often told that if one has faith then they just believe and don't ask questions

- That the pastor or teacher or elder is God's representative and they are to be believed and it is irreverent to question them

But as the lesson points out with true education there are no dumb questions.

Any question, if asked with a true desire to learn and not with irreverence, not with a desire to mock, or cause confusion, is worthy of asking. So the issue is never about asking questions it is always about why one is asking questions.

In your upbringing what was your experience at church—did you find that it was a safe place to ask questions, that you were invited to ask questions and even if you didn't get all the answers you wanted, did your church teach you to be a question asker? Or, was your experience that questions were not always appreciated, that asking questions was irreverent and one shouldn't question, that the pastor or teacher or the Bible and one should just believe?

We at Come and Reason want to inspire you to ask questions—we may not have all the answers, but we want to instill in you the freedom to humbly ask any question and then to pursue the answer. Some answers might come very quickly, others may take years, others may not be obtained until Jesus comes. But keep asking. So, we like to say, Blessed are the Whys!

In my life there have been questions I have asked that took me years to come to answers that made sense. Thousands and thousands of hours of prayer, study, research, contemplation, working through the possibilities. And that is part of the journey of development.

The greatest growth comes when we discover the answers through study and application, not merely being told the answers. Someone can show us how they derived the answer, but we must then work it out for ourselves. Consider mathematics—a teach can show us how to work problems, but if we want to be able to do math, to understand why the answer is correct, we must work the problem for ourselves.

Thus every person is to develop their power to think and do, to reason for themselves and problem solve for themselves, not merely memorize the right answers.

We never want to lose our curiosity, never want to stop asking questions.

SUNDAY

Read fifth paragraph, "As Seventh-day Adventists, we have…"

- And what is the purpose of having correct doctrine? If we have a human law construct, then security is found in knowing the right doctrines. We must have the right definitions because it is all about being legally right and therefore we must have the right rules, the right rituals and the doctrines become part of that because it is all legal and to legal people it is all about the right legal language or definition of things.

- You see this in every form of doctrinal and sectarian discrimination—where people are looked down upon for not having the right doctrine—say calling a county a dark county if there are no SDAs in that region. This is Pharisaism, how the Pharisees had the right doctrines and looked down upon the Samaritans, the Publicans and anyone who wasn't Jewish. It didn't matter what their character was like, it didn't matter whether they loved God and others, what mattered was the rules, the doctrines, and the keeping of those rules, which required believing the right things.
- This is the falsehood that comes from understanding doctrine through the false legal lens.
- But what is the purpose of right doctrine through the design law lens? To inform us about reality, about God, about God's designs, methods and purposes so we can grow to know God better and choose to agree with Him, grow like Him, and intelligently choose to cooperate with Him and live in harmony with Him and His designs—because it makes sense and we freely want to, not because a rule by someone in charge says we have to!
- Doctrines that are disconnected from God's character and God's design law are not helpful—they become rules and litmus tests of fellowship that actually cause division and we end up fracturing into various sects and denominations based on differences in doctrine.

- What doctrines are not listed in the lesson that are essential to understand these correctly?
- The truth about God's law being design law and thus the truth about God's character.I guess the great controversy could be an umbrella statement that covers everything—but what does the great controversy mean to those who accept the lie that God's law functions like human law?

Read bottom pink section, "What prejudices does your culture and society teach, either subtly or openly, that as a Christian, you must rise above?"

Do you believe it is righteous or unrighteous to seek to destroy another people's culture?

And let's define what I mean by culture—I am not talking about a culture of microorganisms in a lab, nor am I talking about manners or politeness, I am talking about: a particular form or stage of civilization, as that of a certain nation or period—the African culture, the American Indian culture, the Greek culture etc.

So, with that in mind, is it righteous or unrighteous to seek to destroy another people's culture?

In our society today would progressivism, leftism, want to destroy other cultures, or would progressivism want to validate all cultures and not eradicate other cultures?

When Jesus said to His followers,

> All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you Matthew 28:18-20 NIV84 was He instructing them to go out and eradicate paganism and all cultures based on false views about Him, to eradicate cultures based on the principles of this world, to establish a culture based on love for God and love for others, on truth, love and liberty?

So if we follow Jesus' command will we seek to convert people to Christ? And will converting people to Christ simultaneously be destroying the following cultures?

- voodoo culture
- witchcraft culture—which is nature and earth worship culture
- Native American animistic spirit worship culture
- Hindu culture
- Islamic culture
- Buddhist culture
- godless culture—communism, evolutionism, humanism

So, can Christianity, if it fulfills the gospel commission to make people disciples of Jesus really support the idea of protecting other culture?

Do you see why progressivism, leftism, which believes all cultures are equal and should be protected, works to obstruct via laws, via social pressure etc. the sharing of the gospel. It becomes illegal to try to convert people to Christ. Books like the Great Controversy which exposes the abuses of the Roman church through history are labelled as hate speech.

The principles of God are truth presented love and leave others free. If you have truth on your side you have nothing to fear by open speech, ideas being investigated, evidence being presented. But, if you have lies then once your lies have been accepted you don't want people investigating, you want to silence any voices that bring truth because the truth will expose the lies.

So, do we agree that presenting the truth about Jesus, will destroy the cultures based on Satan's lies (2Cor 10:3-5)?

And we agree that doing so by converting people is a good thing?

What about destroying other cultures through military might, by killing those who won't join us—is this a good or bad thing for the world?

As Christians, we cannot advocate the methods of might and killing to advance our cause, but does that set us up to draw false conclusions about the results of those who do or have done so in the past?

For instance, there is an idea being propagated in our society today that America is evil because it was founded by war against the Native Americans and essentially wiped them out and destroyed their culture and this is bad. What do you think?

Would the world be better off if Cortez and the Spanish did not go to war with the Aztecs and destroy the Aztec culture? Would the world be better off if the Aztec culture continued in Mexico and we have ongoing human sacrifice and cannibalism practiced south of the US border?

Or are the people who have lived since the Aztec culture was destroyed better off without human sacrifice and cannibalism?

So, is the idea being pushed today that all culture is equally valuable, healthy, good and all culture should be respected and protected true? No, it is a lie and Christians should have the ability to discern the truth from lies and not buy into the leftism and collude with those who want to stop the gospel from going forward.

So, back to the question in the lesson what prejudices does our culture or society teach that we must rise above?

Would it be movements that oppose Christianity—any movements that promote godlessness, would that include evolutionism? Humanism? Secularism? Leftism?

MONDAY

Read first two paragraphs, "Everywhere we look…" What does darkness mean in this context?

What does it mean to be a light in the world?

Is darkness only the lies or falsehoods told, or would darkness include practices that interfere with the truth being brought out that would expose the lie?

So would darkness include ideas or practices like:

- We have faith we don't need evidence?
- So and so teaches heresy don't listen to what they have to say?
- Believing allegations, claims or proclamations without evidence?
- Taking someone's words and editing them to make it appear they are saying something they are not?
- Censoring information?
- Obstructing free speech?
- We as a people have believed this doctrine for hundreds of years and this new idea is heresy?

Consider this quote from one of the founders of the SDA church:

> There is no excuse for anyone in taking the position that there is no more truth to be revealed, and that all our expositions of Scripture are without an error. The fact that certain doctrines have been held as truth for many years by our people, is not a proof that our ideas are infallible. Age will not make error into truth, and truth can afford to be fair. No true doctrine will lose anything by close investigation. CW 35.2
> We are living in perilous times, and it does not become us to accept everything claimed to be truth without examining it thoroughly; neither can we afford to reject anything that bears the fruits of the Spirit of God; but we should be teachable, meek and lowly of heart. There are those who oppose everything that is not in accordance with their own ideas, and by so doing they endanger their eternal interest as verily as did the Jewish nation in their rejection of Christ. Counsels to Writers and Editors 35.3

So whether in church or in society when we see practices that suggest we don't need to examine evidence, that we should just believe because someone in a position of authority makes a claim, we should recognize that action as an obstruction of truth.

If it were alleged that a computer was found with emails and documents revealing corruption, the innocent person would demand that the computer be brought out and that its contents be examined so that the evidence would reveal it to be a lie. But the guilty would rely on claims and proclamations that the computer is a fake, no need to look, it is a conspiracy.

What is the difference between Christians advancing the gospel—the truth which will destroy ungodly culture—and politics?

Christianity is about people—about healing hearts and minds, about freeing people from sin, from guilt, shame, and practices that violate God's design laws and cause only pain, suffering and eventually death. Christianity is about freedom—freedom from sin, guilt, shame and the burden of sin. If the Son sets you free you are free indeed! So Christianity is about writing God's law upon the heart and mind of people so they are transformed from fear and selfishness to love for God and others. Christianity leads to society becoming more peaceful as the people become more trustworthy and engage in more activities to help their neighbors.

Politics is about power—pure and simple! Politics is always about getting power over people. It may be framed in the rhetoric of advancing the human condition, of eliminating inequalities, of promoting the welfare of others, but make no mistake politics does not transforms hearts to become more like Jesus, politics always divides, always incites hostility, and is intended to stir up strong feelings and create factions that will ultimately give power to those who lead those factions. And this is true whether it is church politics or national politics.

The lesson points out that Jesus lived under Roman occupation and that Roman society was militarized, and there was much social injustice in the Roman society:

- slavery
- wars for the purpose of enriching and advancing Rome not defending Rome
- gladiators—fighting to the death for sport
- crucifixions
- discrimination, prejudice, bias

How did Jesus confront the social injustices of the Roman and Jewish governments?

- What politicians did Jesus support?
- What legislation did Jesus seek to get passed?
- What political parties did Jesus join?

What about the Apostles did they engage in politics?

Why didn't Paul tell all Christian slaves to run away?

- In that society if the slaves would have run away what kind of life would they have had?
- Would they have less stress or more?
- Would they be able to have a home of their own, get a good job, establish a family and live in peace and security or would they live in fear of getting caught and crucified for the rest of their lives, always looking over their shoulder, always on the run?
- What does this kind of never-ending fear do to a person? Does it enhance love or destroy it? What happens in their character?

Why didn't Paul tell all Christians who owned slaves to set them free?

- If the Christian slave owners set the slave free would that mean the newly freed slave had Roman citizenship?
- Then what could happen to them? Could they become a slave again to someone else?
- But what if the Christian slave owner began practicing the principles of Christ and what Paul recommended they do and they treated their slaves like family? Would the slaves within that home, while technically still being slaves, also have more freedom, more security, and be protected in the Roman society from others who would exploit them because they were under the protection of the Christian who was their owner?

Does the fact that Paul didn't condemn slavery mean that slavery is good or that Christianity supports slavery? Absolutely not!

The situation in the United States during the 19th century is quite different from Rome during Paul's time. In the US there was a strong abolitionist movement with many states and leaders opposing slavery. In Rome there was no support from any society leaders to end slavery. In the US runaway slaves could find safety in the northern state, protected by those state governments and leaders so they could get a job, establish a family and live in relative security without the fear of being sent back into slavery or being executed for running away. In Rome there was nowhere for a runaway slave to go and be protected by government.

Have you ever wondered why the New Testament didn't come out against slavery? Does this help? We could add to it the additional corruption to the church if the church focused on politics rather than healing hearts and minds, Christianity would have been destroyed in its infancy.

TUESDAY

The lesson points out that our lives must keep Jesus at the center of all we do. How do we do this?

How does keeping Jesus at the center of our lives impact our interactions with those around us?

Do we restrict with whom we associate if Jesus is at the center?

The Pharisees in Christ's day were very restrictive, but Jesus socialized with prostitutes, tax collectors, Publicans, Samaritans…where do we draw the line on who we socialize with and who we don't?

Jesus told His disciples: "If people do not welcome you, shake the dust off your feet when you leave their town, as a testimony against them." Luke 9:5 NIV84

Would the attitude of people toward us and toward the message of truth we bring be a factor in determining with whom we associate?

So what if a person welcomes us as long as we participate in their activities—we are not invited, as Jesus was, to be the guest of honor and share the gospel, but we are invited to party with them, what about that?

One way to tell if you should socialize or not would be to ask yourself the question: If I were to share the gospel of Jesus with them, would they be open to listen or would they condemn, ridicule, throw me out?"

Of course, the setting matters, the above question would be for a personal visit. That question would not be applicable if you were attending someone else's public lecture—say a medical education lecture, or someone's wedding or funeral and it wasn't a Christian event etc.

The second to the last paragraph reads, "And, as disciples of Jesus, we not only have respect for all people, but will work to provide the kind of place where all people can grow and develop."

I think this is a great idea, a powerful truth—question for you—what kind of actions, practices, principles will create a place where people can grow and develop and what kind of actions obstruct growth and development?

- Can people grow and develop without applying themselves—without exerting their abilities? The law of exertion if you want something to get stronger you must exercise. So growth and development require application and exercise of one's abilities.
    - What kind of practices obstruct this?

- Give a man a fish feed him for a day, teach a man to fish feed him for a lifetime. Does this old proverb have any insight into the development of abilities? What about social programs that give people things but don't give opportunity to achieve for oneself?
- Why would people purposely take actions that interfere with other people's growth?
- Consider Helen Keller—before Annie Sullivan came along what kind of development of ability was happening for Helen? None, she was nearly a wild animal. Why? Did her mother not love her? Or, did her mother love her very much? Why did her mother not do what Annie did? A combination of factors—over-empathy and ignorance. Helen's mother saw her terrible disability and had huge compassion, deep sadness, great empathy for Helen, and didn't want to add any more burdens to this poor child who had already suffered so much. Her empathy fueled her ignorance that disciplining Helen, pushing her to learn in a way that caused the child to suffer, to be uncomfortable, to cry and protest distressed the mother who felt this would be harmful to do to a child with so many disadvantages. The mother's love and over empathy along with ignorance of how reality works interfered with doing what was best for Helen. Annie however, wanted Helen to grow and develop to the greatest level possible for her. So she removed her from her mother's presence and began to teach with firm boundaries. And when Helen slapped Annie, Annie slapped her back. What would happen in society today if we had a cell phone video of a social worker slapping a deaf, dumb, and blind child? What if that child was black and the social worker was white? But was Annie abusing Helen? What was the outcome of Annie's actions with Helen? Helen learned sign language, brail and eventually became college educated. Who practiced greater love in action for Helen, her mother or Annie?
- One of the great lies in society today is the over-empathizing lie combined with ignorance of how reality works that sees people who come from real-life situations of disadvantage and concludes it would be wrong to stress them, to burden them, to require them to exercise their abilities, that it is more compassionate and loving to give them sustenance because they already have such burdens upon them.

The Christian approach is to understand truth, understand reality, understand God's design law for life, and love our neighbors, our fellow human beings with actions that create opportunity for all people to develop their abilities to the highest extent possible for the restoration of the image of God in each one of us.

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Albert Einstein…" I love this and agree completely. God is infinite and we are finite and those who love the truth will never stop growing and advancing in our knowledge of the truth. And as we grow in truth we come closer and closer to God the source of all truth and this is an eternal journey for we never become God.

Consider this historic quote, what do you think of it?

> We should consider that it was not merely to accomplish the redemption of man that Christ came to earth; [What? Do we appreciate the cosmic nature of the war between Christ and Satan, of the forces behind the scenes, of the angels and other intelligences throughout the universe that are involved?] it was not merely that the inhabitants of this little world might regard the law of God as it should be regarded; [How should it be regarded? As design law, immutable, the protocols of love upon which life is built and not as imposed rules like we make up that require infliction of punishment] but it was to demonstrate to all the worlds that God's law is unchangeable, and that the wages of sin is death. [Why is God's law unchangeable? Because it emanates from His character and is the protocol upon which life exists. To change it would be to destroy the universe as we know it and God would not be the God Jesus revealed Him to be. And this explains why the wages of sin is death—because sin transgresses the law, the law is what life exists upon, so to transgress it means to take one out of harmony with life, which results in death. Example, the law of respiration—if one transgresses it ties a plastic bag over their head, the wages of that is death.] RH March 9, 1886, par. 23
> There is a great deal more to this subject than we can take in at a glance. Oh that all might see the importance of carefully studying the Scriptures! Many seem to have the idea that this world and the heavenly mansions constitute the universe of God. Not so. The redeemed throng will range from world to world, and much of their time will be employed in searching out the mysteries of redemption. And throughout the whole stretch of eternity, this subject will be continually opening to their minds. The privileges of those who overcome by the blood of the Lamb and the word of their testimony are beyond comprehension. RH March 9, 1886, par. 24

The lesson points out that we are able to think and states, "as human beings, we are able to think about what has been called 'the big questions' about life and our existence in general. And, of course, here is where Scripture plays the central role. Who are we? Why are we here? How should we live? What happens when we die? Why is there evil and suffering?"

- Who are we?
- Why are we here?
- How should we live?
- What happens when we die?
- Why is there evil and suffering?

THURSDAY

The lesson points out the importance of sharing our lives with others of community. Why is connection with others so important?

What do we learn from the metaphor in Scripture of the body—many different parts but one body?

Is there something beyond the fact we have different abilities? Does the metaphor of the body say something about harmony, cooperation, unity?

Does it go beyond this world to the kingdom of God?

When the blood cells circulate in the body and the arteries divide do the blood cells argue with each other about which ones go to the brain and which ones go to the intestines? Is there a lesson in this for us?

Jesus prayed:

> I pray also for those who will believe in me through their message, that all of them may be one, Father, just as you are in me and I am in you. May they also be in us so that the world may believe that you have sent me. John 17:20-21 NIV84

Is this more than metaphor? Is something actual being described? Is there something more than coming into agreement of ideas or beliefs? Is there something physical involved?

Paul wrote to the Ephesians:

> Be completely humble and gentle; be patient, bearing with one another in love. Make every effort to keep the unity of the Spirit through the bond of peace. There is one body and one Spirit— just as you were called to one hope when you were called—one Lord, one faith, one baptism; one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all. (4:2-6 NIV84)

Is this more than metaphor, more than attitude of the heart? Is something physical in God's universe being described? In this unity of love, of faith, there is one God who is over all and through all and in all—is this describing some aspect of reality that goes beyond just what we believe?

Is there a connection of all things in God's universe, a harmony, a chord of energy that, when we are in harmony with God we have connection with Him and others in God's kingdom? And does sin sever this connection, cutting us off from God and from life? Is Jesus not merely a revealer of the truth about God, but the one who literally reconnects humanity back to God and His life giving energy?

Consider these historic quote:

> In his sinless state, man held joyful communion with Him "in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge." Colossians 2:3. But after his sin, he could no longer find joy in holiness, and he sought to hide from the presence of God. Such is still the condition of the unrenewed heart. It is not in harmony with God, and finds no joy in communion with Him. The sinner could not be happy in God's presence; he would shrink from the companionship of holy beings. Could he be permitted to enter heaven, it would have no joy for > him. The spirit of unselfish love that reigns there—every heart responding to the heart of Infinite Love—would touch no answering chord in his soul. His thoughts, his interests, his motives, would be alien to those that actuate the sinless dwellers there. He would be a discordant note in the melody of heaven. Heaven would be to him a place of torture; he would long to be hidden from Him who is its light, and the center of its joy. It is no arbitrary decree on the part of God that excludes the wicked from heaven; they are shut out by their own unfitness for its companionship. The glory of God would be to them a consuming fire. They would welcome destruction, that they might be hidden from the face of Him who died to redeem them. SC 17.2

Is this more than a metaphorical way to describe the dissonance that exists in the hearts and minds of those who reject God and His methods of love? Is there some aspect of this that is literal, physical?

In your own experience do you experience physical differences when you are in a moment of love and when you are in a moment of selfishness and fear?

Do our choices to embrace lies, fear and selfishness actually change us? Do they cause not just changes in our characters, but in our very physiology? The answer is yes! Our brains fire differently when we love than when we choose selfishness, our neural paths change, our electrical signaling is different, our electron configuration in the dendrites alter, we get different harmonics and different resonance patterns—we are literally changed.

Consider this quotation:

> Christ is represented by the Holy Spirit; and when this Spirit is appreciated, when those controlled by the Spirit communicate to others the energy with which they are imbued, an invisible chord is touched which electrifies the whole. Would that we could all understand how boundless are the divine resources. FLB 57.7

Is this more than just concepts and ideas that are shared—is there actually energy that flows from Jesus via the Holy Spirit into the believers and through the believers to others who also choose to trust God and value His methods?

Have you ever experienced the joy, the harmony that comes from being with people who love God and embrace His methods? Have you experienced the "energy" of their presence? Can you tell a difference from that energy and the energy of being in the presence of those who embrace and practice selfishness?

Consider this historic quote:

> It is God's plan that every part of his government shall depend on every other part, the whole as a wheel within a wheel, working with entire harmony. He moves upon human forces, causing his Spirit to touch invisible chords, and the vibration rings to the extremity of the universe. Evangelism 93

Is this just metaphor, or is there some reality being described? That God is the source of all life. He is the Creator and as Creator all creation exists because He not only made it but He continually sustains it. Do we understand that trusting God and opening our hearts to Christ results in the Spirit literally changing us, not just the ideas we believe, but the very fabric of our being. We are brought back into unity with Him! Sin causes division, separates us from God and causes division and disharmony. Truth and love brings us back into harmony with God and heaven!

> For by him all things were created: things in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or powers or rulers or authorities; all things were created by him and for him. He is before all things, and in him all things hold together. Colossians 1:16-17 NIV84

Read first paragraph, "Christ disappointed…" What is false education? How much to we see in the world today? Should Christians join groups or parties that promote false education? What about political parties that promote godless evolution?

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 10
Education in Arts and Science

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read first paragraph, "Education includes…" What does it mean to teach arts and sciences from a biblical perspective?

I would ask, as a psychiatrist, what does it mean to practice psychiatry from a biblical perspective?

What I have found from many Christian mental health providers is that it means the practitioner doesn't oppose the patient's Christian beliefs, or the Christian mental health provider uses Bible verses or Christian books to support certain concepts. When I have asked various Christian practitioners how they integrate their Christianity into their practice of psychiatry or psychology, most haven't. They are just supportive of their patients who want to believe in Christ, but their practice of psychiatry is the humanistic practices they learned in their school.

The lesson points out that it is insufficient to teach various subjects disconnected from the reality of God as Creator and how all life and reality has its origins and its sustenance in God. So, we must learn how to integrate our understanding of various subjects, including science and the arts, into our understanding of God's reality.

For me it all starts with diagnosis—if the diagnosis is wrong, then the treatment is wrong. And diagnosis of what is wrong requires we know what healthy looks like. Thus, the Bible informs us of God's original design for humankind. We must know God's design laws for life—the law of love, liberty, worship, truth, exertion, and the physical laws of gravity and physics etc. As we know these then we can see where sin severs God's design laws and causes damage. Then we can work to bring healing by intervening to restore people back into harmony with God's design.

So the best approach for me is the integrative evidence based approach in which we harmonize Scripture, science/nature and life experiences coming to conclusions that are supported by all three threads, when we have evidence from all three threads.

During my residency for every hour I spent studying the psychiatric theorists, Freud, Jung, Adler and others, I spent 2 hours studying the Bible and other Christian sources to discover the truths that were supported by Scripture and developed my own understanding of the faculties of the mind that is still the most comprehensive of any model out there. Eventually, I wrote the book Could It Be This Simple? A Biblical Model for Healing the Mind which is a model for our minds—which is analogous to a computer's software.

I have continued developing this integrated approach and later wrote The God-Shaped Brain: How Changing Your View of God Transforms Your Life in which I document how our minds choose our beliefs but our beliefs, including the God we worship, changes our brains which change our health. And only a God of love, and the methods of truth, love, freedom are healing to us.

Sin is always in some way breaking God's designs for life, which is always damaging to us and others and will result in death unless remedied by our Creator.

What about the arts—what are included in the arts?

According to Wikipedia the arts include:

- visual arts (including architecture, ceramics, drawing, filmmaking, painting, photography, and sculpting)
- literary arts (including fiction, drama, poetry, and prose)
- performing arts (including dance, music, and theatre)
- culinary arts (including cooking, chocolate making and winemaking)

And none of those falls into my area of expertise—so class, what would it mean to teach these from a Biblical perspective?

In the second paragraph the lesson states, "we need God's Word to inform the teaching of every discipline, from humanities to molecular biology."
I agree that without God's Word studying any subject will ultimately lead to false conclusions—but what happens if we study God's Word without the balance of the other domains—science/nature and life experiences? Then we can misread the Scripture and draw all kinds of conclusions that are erroneous, like the earth being the center of the universe, or the earth being flat, etc.

What happens if we read the Scripture through the human imposed law lens? Then we can make all kinds of superstitious conclusions that are not in harmony with reality, like the food one eats can make one morally clean or unclean, or the way one washes their hands can make one morally clean or unclean.

SUNDAY

The first paragraph states, "There is evidence of the living God in all of His creation."

What evidence of the living God from creation have you found to be most conclusive?

- the complexity of life itself?
- the circle of love in all living systems and organism?
- the coded information in the DNA/RNA of all living organism?
- the failure of science to provide any testable and reproducible evidence that life comes from non-living matter, but we have life coming from living matter every day all around us?

Read the second paragraph, "Take the human gestation period…" Do you find this compelling evidence? Would sharing this paragraph with someone who doesn't believe in God be strong evidence to persuade them? Or might they laugh at it—why might they laugh at this paragraph? Because this is almost superstitious in making associations and meanings that are not objective, but subjective.

- Is nine months of gestation strong evidence for God versus 7 months or 10 months?
- Is human fertilization from one egg versus elephant or whale fertilization from one egg strong evidence for God? Is fertilization from one egg better evidence for God than a cat or dog that has fertilization from more than one egg? Wouldn't fertilization from more than one egg show more love for more children and greater diversity of offspring and wouldn't that be more evidence of God?
- Does the fact that the uterus grows under the heart indicate God's love? Is the pump in the chest the organ of our being that loves? No, we love with our minds as we interpret and choose to love and our brains respond by firing appropriate circuits, which activate various pathways including the vagal nerve that innervates our internal organs we feel that love throughout our bodies. But the love doesn't originate or even get experienced the chest, it originates in the mind and is processed in the brain, which transmits it to our bodies. We use the terminology with "all my heart" but in the Bible the heart refers to the mind where we think. "Jesus knew what they were thinking and asked, 'Why are you thinking these things in your hearts?'" Luke 5:22 NIV84
- What about the idea that the abdomen extends outward so the mother can see and be aware of the growing fetus, is this strong evidence of God's awareness of us? If the human mother is obese and doesn't see her abdomen grow does that mean she will be less aware of her pregnancy? If an obese woman did get pregnant and was unaware of it until she went into labor, should she conclude from this that God must not be aware of her?

I find this entire paragraph extremely poor evidence, that is poorly thought out, with weak associations that project in meaning that is nearly superstitious in nature. It creates associations and attaches meaning not inherent in the objects themselves.

For instance, a critic could say:

- sometimes a fertilized egg ends in miscarriage and death, therefore God is the author of death
- sometimes a fertilized egg results in a molar pregnancy which is a mass of hair, teeth, bone all mashed together without any person so God is the author of chaos
- some women are impregnated by rape so God is the author of rape

No, the much better evidence for me is in understanding God's design, that it does take two individuals, who when operating as God designed, join themselves together in love and literally give of themselves to pro-create a new being in their image. This is much more objective evidence that confirms Scripture in many ways:

- It does take two individuals—male and female to procreate
- It requires them to actually give something of themselves for this new individual to be created

- As God designed, it is an act of love and is filled with pleasure and joy which bonds the two in closer union
- The Bible account of Eve being created from Adam but then all other humans being born of women who is impregnated by a man is biologically accurate. Adam, with an X and Y chromosome possessed the genetic material for a woman to be created. A women does not need two X chromosomes, only one; every cell of a woman's body actually turns off one of the X chromosomes. So, Adam's body could be used to create Eve. But Eve could not be used to create Adam. This is quite profound that an ancient writer, without any molecular science, would write the Bible to have a woman coming from a man. All observable human history has every man being born of a woman and in fact, almost all fertility cults make woman the mother of creation, worship the feminine and we even call nature "mother" nature. But, in reality, a woman could never procreate, or be the mother of anything without a man and Eve did not have the genetic information to create a man. So, again the Bible is quite accurate and this is compelling evidence for confidence in the Bible record. Ask the critic to explain it—they can't and are quite taken aback when it is presented to them in this way.
- The coded information in our genetic material and the epigenetic changes we experience through life choices and how these changes are passed along to our children affirm what the Bible says that we create beings in our image and our sins do pass down 3-4 generations through epigenetic alterations that we inflict upon ourselves. No naturalistic explanation exists for how the DNA coded information came about, it requires an intelligence to code information. Further, Darwin's theory of mutations over millions of years has been proven false and the Bible's view of our actions changing us and passing down the generations has been proven true.
- The love and bonding a mother experiences with her child after the child is born and how a loving father will sacrifice for the protection and welfare of his wife and child, which perfectly reveals the Triune love of the Godhead each member selflessly lifting up the others.

So, if we are going to use examples from nature, we need to make them objective and not mystical and superstitious that read in associations that are almost magical in their presentation.

The lessons asks us to read Romans 1:18-20:

> The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness, since what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them. For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse.

And then the lesson states, "Paul…says that those who reject God will be 'without excuse' on Judgment Day because enough about Him can be learned from what He has made. In other words, they won't be able to plead ignorance!"

If we keep reading in Romans Paul goes onto to say that they gave up the knowledge of God and preferred images made with their own hands, and that their minds became darkened, depraved, and futile. What is being described? What law? Why do their minds become darkened like this? Because of the law of worship—by beholding we are changed! We do change, characterologically and biologically based on what we admire and worship. It is how reality works and is testable and reproducible. Only a God of love as Jesus revealed is healing to us, all other god-concepts are damaging.

Understanding this reality, then what is the "judgment"? Is it a legal judgment or is it the accurate diagnosis of what happens when we violate God's design laws?

But the question of judgment is confusing because in the Bible there are at least four judgments:

The First Judgment:

- "Let God be true but every man a liar. As it is written: 'That You may be justified in Your words, And may overcome when You are judged.'" Romans 3:4 NKJV
- Satan lied about God.
- Jesus reveals the truth about God.
- We must judge: Is God like Satan says—or is God like Jesus revealed? (Elijah Carmel)
- This judgment of ours determines whether we choose to trust God and open our hearts or not.
- "I saw another angel flying in midair, and he had the eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live on the earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people. He said in a loud voice, 'Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come. Worship him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the springs of water.'" Revelation 14:6, 7

The Second Judgment:

- "'Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come,' says the Lord Almighty. But who can endure the day of his coming? Who can stand when he appears? For he will be like a refiner's fire or a launderer's soap. He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the Levites and refine them like gold and silver. Then the Lord will have men who will bring offerings in righteousness, and the offerings of Judah and Jerusalem will be acceptable to the Lord, as in days gone by, as in former years. 'So I will come near to you for judgment.'" Malachi 3:1–5

- This is the Judgment of the Great Physician, diagnosing what is wrong and determining the best therapeutic intervention.
    - God bringing "judgments" upon rebellious people throughout history to alert, to convict, to redeem, to protect, to redirect, and to keep open the avenue for Messiah (Flood, Sodom, captivity).
- Jesus' work in the heavenly sanctuary to determine (judge):
    1. Who has trusted Him and given Him access to their hearts and
    2. What residual elements of sin remain to be removed in order to perfect them for the resurrection and second coming

Third Judgment:

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

- "I saw thrones on which were seated those who had been given authority to judge. And I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded because of their testimony for Jesus and because of the word of God. They had not worshiped the beast or his image and had not received his mark on their foreheads or their hands. They came to life and reigned with Christ a thousand years." Revelation 20:4–6
- "Do you not know that we will judge angels?" 1 Corinthians 6:3
- During the 1,000 years, the saints review the history of what transpired and the lives of the lost and of angels, and judge God's actions in saving who is saved and not saving who is not saved, which confirms that every lost person is lost because they actually don't want to be in heaven, so that no doubt is left in any mind as to why the unrepentant are not in heaven.

Fourth Judgment

- "I saw a great white throne and him who was seated on it. … And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Another book was opened, which is the book of life. The dead were judged according to what they had done as recorded in the books." Revelation 20:11, 12
- And what is recorded in the books of heaven?
- The names are written there, and in the Bible what does name represent? Character! And what determines our character? Who we have chosen to trust—either opening our heart to Jesus and allowing Him in or clinging to fear and selfishness.
- "Make a tree good and its fruit will be good, or make a tree bad and its fruit will be bad, for a tree is recognized by its fruit. You brood of vipers, how can you who are evil say anything good? For out of the overflow of the heart the mouth speaks. The good man brings good things out of the good stored up in him, and the evil man brings evil things out of the evil stored up in him. But I tell you that men will have to give account on the day of judgment for every careless word they have spoken. For by your words you will be acquitted, and by your words you will be condemned." Matthew 12:33–37 NIV84
- What is being described? Character—the actual condition of each heart, a diagnosis of what actually is.
- The end of the 1,000 years:
    - New Jerusalem is on earth and the gates are open and no one comes in.
    - The wicked acknowledge they were wrong and God was right—but they attack the city anyway.
    - They then experience the fire of unveiled truth and love and cry for the mountains to fall upon them, reaping what they have sown: eternal non-existence.
    - And all the saved judge that God could have done nothing more to save them.
    - There is no human law court determining guilt or innocence and imposing punishments—that is Satan's lie.

So what judgment was the lesson referring to? The fourth or final judgment.

And what is the wrath of God? It is what Paul describes in verses 24,26,28, "therefore God gave them up" and what happens when the Life Giver gives them up? What happens when God stops intervening to hold at bay the results of rebellion?

What happens if a parent is holding a rebellious child by the hand who has jumped off the edge of a tall building, and the child is screaming and fighting and kicking and every time the parent pulls the child to the roof the child jumps again and again and again, what happens if the parent finally lets the child go?

Why will the child die in that circumstance—is the parent using power to inflict death on the child, or is death the unavoidable result of violating the design for life—for jumping off a building?

The following is from the book Hard Saying of the Bible, by Intervarsity Press, which is a well-done Bible commentary. We are reading their comments on this passage of Romans:

> In some sense, God's wrath is built into the very structure of created reality. In rejecting God's structure and establishing our own, in violating God's intention for the creation and substituting our own intentions, we cause or own disintegration. P 542
> The human condition, which Paul describes in Romans 1:18-32, is not something caused by God. The phrase "revealed from heaven" (where "heaven" is a typical Jewish substitute word for "God") does not depict some kind of divine intervention, but rather the inevitability of human debasement which results when God's will, built into the created order, is violated. Since the created order has its origin in God, Paul can say that the wrath of God is now (constantly) being revealed "from heaven." It is revealed in the fact that the rejection of God's truth (Rom 1:18-20), that is, the truth about God's nature and will, leads to futile thinking (Rom 1:21-22), idolatry (Rom 1:23), perversion of God-intended sexuality (Rom 1:24-27) and relational-moral brokenness (Rom 1:28-32). P 543
> The expression "God gave them over" (or "handed them over"), which appears three times in this passage (Rom 1:24,26,28), supports the idea that the sinful perversion of human existence, though resulting from human decisions, is to be understood ultimately as God's punishment which we, in freedom, bring upon ourselves. P 543
> In light of these reflections, the common notion that God punishes or blesses in direct proportion to our sinful or good deeds cannot be maintained… God loves us with an everlasting love. But the rejection of that love separates us from its life-giving power. The result is disintegration and death. P 543
> Kaiser, W., et al., Hard Saying of the Bible, Intervarsity Press, 1996

Read the last paragraph, "Especially in the day and age in which…" I did not like the use of the phrase "from the assumption that God is the Creator…" because I do not believe it is an assumption. I believe the evidence is overwhelming, testable, reproducible, compelling and that we do not assume that God exists and created all things, we can know it to be true because the evidence reveals it.

The evidence includes the examples we have already given above, but every testable element in life is consistent with the biblical worldview and every testable element disproves the godless worldview:

- complexity coming from chaos without intelligent input; or complexity coming from chaos with intelligent input, which does science prove to be true?
- life coming from non-living matter or life coming from other living organisms, which does science prove to be true?
- things adapt and change from over millions of years through mutation to the DNA code or things adapt and change from generation to generation via epigenetics and there are no mutations to the DNA that advance the species? Again science confirms the Biblical model.

Further problems with the godless view of origins are well described in Nancy Pearcy's book Finding Truth (I want to thank Marilyn Holm an online listener for gifting me this book) writes:

> The origin of the universe has given rise to a puzzle known as the fine-tuning problem. The fundamental physical constants of the universe are exquisitely balanced, as though on a knife's edge, to sustain life. Things like the force of gravity, the strong nuclear force, the weak nuclear force, the electromagnetic force, the ratio of the mass of the proton and the electron, and many other factors have just the right value needed to make life possible. If any of these critical numbers were changed even slightly, the universe could not sustain any form of life. For example, if the strength of gravity were smaller or larger than its current value by only one part in 10^{60} (1 followed by 60 zeroes), the universe would be uninhabitable. (page 25)

Thus, as people who believes in God and creation we stand on solid evidence. We must reject the lies that to believe in God is blind faith, assumption, non-scientific, unreasonable and start speaking the truth that those who reject God and cling to a godless theory of origins are the ones who deny reality, reject evidence, and hold to beliefs based on faith without evidence.

MONDAY

The Beauty of Holiness—what is that? What is holiness?

I want to suggest holiness is perfect harmony with God, ultimately in every domain of existence—thus holiness is healthiness. Anything that violates God's design laws for life is unholy and damages and destroys. God, through His agencies, is working to restore us to holiness, which restores us to harmony with God and results in eternal life.

Here are some historic quotes, what do you think?

> Holiness is not rapture: it is an entire surrender of the will to God; it is living by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God; it is doing the will of our heavenly Father; it is trusting God in trial, in darkness as well as in the light; it is walking by faith and not by sight; it is relying on God with unquestioning confidence, and resting in His love. AA 51.2

Would this description be living in harmony with God and His design laws for life? Would it be the new covenant of having the law written on the heart and mind?

Consider this quote:

> At this time the church is to put on her beautiful garments,—"Christ our righteousness." [What is this describing? The same author states elsewhere that "When we submit ourselves to Christ, the heart is united with His heart, the will is merged in His will, the mind becomes one with His mind, the thoughts are brought into captivity to Him; we live His life. This is what it means to be clothed with the garment of His righteousness." COL311] There are clear, decided distinctions to be restored and exemplified to the world in holding aloft the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus. The beauty of holiness is to appear in its native luster in contrast with the deformity and darkness of the disloyal, those who have revolted from the law of God. Thus we acknowledge God, and recognize His law, the foundation of His government in heaven and throughout His earthly dominions. [What does this mean? What is this law? What kind of law? Is related to the final message of mercy, to worshipping Him who made the heavens, earth, sea? Is it connected to holiness? Is it beautiful to be restored to God's perfect design for life? Can one be perfect, sinless, flawless, without any defect or deformity while violating God's law? Is any defect, deformity or flaw beautiful? So, what is the beauty of holiness? Restoration to God's design, harmony with God's law, healing!] His authority should be kept distinct and plain before the world; and no laws are to be acknowledged that come in collision with the laws of Jehovah. [What does this mean? Does it mean a specific commandment change or does it mean the entire concept of law, that we are not to embrace and teach God's law as functioning like human law, imposed rules requiring imposed punishments? Do you think it is beautiful to imagine a god that would use power to torture and kill his creatures? But isn't this what all of Christianity teaches that a holy God must do to unrepentant sinners? Why because they have accepted the lie about God's law. When we return to worshipping the Creator and present the 3 Angel's message as we were called to do, then we will glorify God and call people out of that fallen system of confusion.].... CET 207.2

What about laws of man that restrict religious liberty, that restrict church attendance where we share the gospel of Jesus Christ—would they be in conflict with the laws of God, the law of love and bringing people to a saving relationship with Jesus Christ so they can experience eternal life?

What if those laws of man that restrict religious liberty, that restrict church attendance are done to prevent the spread of COVID-19 and protect human life—are they in harmony with God's law or breaking it?

What is more important to the Christian, more temporal life, or eternal life? What if we exchange eternal life for more temporal life? What if we value our temporal life more than the eternal life of our neighbor? What if we prioritize earthly health over sharing the gospel and allow the government to close our churches to protect earthly life, but we fail to share the gospel with people who never come to a saving relationship with Jesus and thus are lost eternally?

Back to the question of holiness, consider this historic quote:

> True holiness is wholeness in the service of God. This is the condition of true Christian living. Christ asks for an unreserved consecration, for undivided service. He demands the heart, the mind, the soul, the strength. Self is not to be cherished. He who lives to himself is not a Christian.—Christ's Object Lessons, 48, 49. ChS 235.3

Would this include being so afraid of contracting a disease we isolate ourselves away and stop our ministry for God? Would it include shunning lepers or isolating and closing our churches during COVID-19?

What is holiness? Restoration of the law of love into the heart and mind of the individual such that we love like God loves, Jesus said:

> "You have heard that it was said, 'Love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' But I tell you: Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, that you may be sons of your Father in heaven. He causes his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous. [Notice in the context of love Jesus uses the example of design law in nature] If you love those who love you, what reward will you get? Are not even the tax collectors doing that? And if you greet only your brothers, what are you doing more than others? Do not even pagans do that? Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect (Matthew 5:43-6:1 NIV84).

What does it mean to love your enemies?

As events unfold and we approach the end of time we will face temptations like Jesus face, persecution, ridicule, imprisonment, perhaps even death—did you hear about more beheadings of Christians by Islamic extremists in the last couple of weeks?

And when we face such outrageous injustice, what is the issue? We are being tempted to fight back, to hate, to be selfish—but it is in the face of these very unjust actions that tempt us, that we who surrender our lives to Jesus, who trust our souls to our Savior will be cleansed from sin and restored to perfect righteousness through the indwelling Spirit—it is then we love like Jesus loves and are children of our Father in heaven.

Read from GSB Chapter 15, p. 205:

> October 2, 2006 started out like so many other days in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania: up early, complete morning chores, a hearty breakfast, and then off to school. Thirteen-year-old Marian Fisher and her eleven-year-old sister, Barbie, had no idea what would transpire that day. So off they went, to their one-room school house in Nickel Mines Village, Pennsylvania.

> At 10:25 a.m., Charles Carl Roberts IV, a 32-year-old milk truck driver, entered the school carrying a 9mm pistol. He then ordered the boys he found to carry lumber, a shotgun, a stun-gun, wires, chains, nails, tools and other items into the school. Next, he sent out fifteen boys, a pregnant woman, and two women with infants, then nailed two-by-fours and two-by-sixes across the entrance.
> He used strips of plastic and lengths of wire to tie the ankles and wrists of the ten remaining elementary-school students, all girls. It is unclear what his true intentions were, but when the police arrived, he became angry, desperate and increasingly agitated. At 11:07 a.m., when it became obvious he was intent on killing the girls, love stepped in.
> Thirteen-year-old Marian Fisher stood up and asked to be shot first. Offering her life in the hope her sister and friends would be set free, she was heard by the survivors to say, "Shoot me and leave the other ones loose." The gunman shot and killed Marian. No sooner had her lifeless body crumpled to the floor than her eleven-year-old sister, Barbie, stood up and said, "Shoot me next," hoping to save the other girls. The gunman then shot Barbie. She was wounded in the hand, leg, and shoulder but survived.

Do you see the beauty of holiness contrasted with the ugliness of sinfulness in this story? Do you see love for our enemies in this story? Do you see the righteousness of God in this story?

What about in the world today? What is being promoted as the way to advance, the way to succeed, the way to get ahead?

Read the bottom paragraph, "As with everything…" What is considered beautiful by the world's standard?

The lesson asks, "What are some 'beautiful' things that are not necessarily holy and good?"

TUESDAY

The lesson asks us to read 1Timothy 6:9,10 and asks what pursuits does Paul warn us to avoid?

> People who want to get rich fall into temptation and a trap and into many foolish and harmful desires that plunge men into ruin and destruction. For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil. Some people, eager for money, have wandered from the faith and pierced themselves with many griefs. NIV84

What do you hear in this text?

What is the problem with love for money?

If we love money what do we not love?

What kinds of griefs do people experience who love money?

Read second paragraph, "Notice in 1 Timothy…" What kinds of errors are people experts in today?

- godless evolutionism—think of all the experts in the world who teach this lie with such assurance—and then all the lies that stem from this…
- mental health programs and treatments and theories that are from a godless perspective
- human sexuality from a godless perspective—marriage, commitment, fidelity, binary sexuality is just a religious construct and offers no benefit
- pagan views of God, the god that imposes law and must use power to inflict punishment upon sinners and requires legal payment not to—there are many experts in this error
- others?

WEDNESDAY

Read first paragraph, "The Bible draws…" What is the basis of all wisdom? God and the knowledge of God, which means His character, His design laws, His methods, purposes, protocols—how reality works and why.

What are some examples of the wisdom of God is seen as foolishness to the world and how the world is truly foolish?

> The more you give the more you receive—understanding God's design law and how love works this is wise. The more love you give the more love you receive. The more breath you give away the more air you take in. But the world it doesn't make sense, the more you hoard, take, pile up the more you receive, the more you give away the less you have. Thus, the world promotes selfishness, which ultimately isolates and cuts people off from others, and the source of life resulting in death.

Now that the election is over I can point out some foolishness that I saw from many Christians who were claiming to be wise without people accusing me of being political because this information can no longer be used for voting as the election is over. But this information can be used to learn to discern, to become wise and not be taken in by the foolishness of this world's ways even when it is couched in Christian dogma.

One of the principles of God's kingdom is that man looks on the outward appearance but God looks on the heart. This means we cannot truly judge another person's character or heart, only God can. But more than this, we cannot know a person through the media, we cannot know someone by reports of others, we cannot know someone without actually knowing someone.

In the recent election there were many Christians conducting lectures and writing articles about the character of the various candidates, but as far as I know, not one Christian doing this personally knew the candidates. This means they were making their conclusions based on a public persona filtered through various media outlets with imperfect and partial information often distorted by the biases of the reporters.

We cannot know a person's character from the media—even when we see that person speak themselves, it is still a public persona, acted and presented for effect. We still don't know the heart.

- Consider the way some take God's actions in the Old Testament and God's own thunderings and threatenings to create a false picture of God—why? Because they don't actually know God. When we know God we see all those same stories in a different light that confirm God's character of love.
- Consider Bill Cosby before his conviction—what would most people have thought of his character? But all of that was a public persona that the evidence presented at his trial exposed as false.

Taking facts of confirmed sin from history as evidence of character—i.e. confirmed visits with a prostitute as evidence of character.

Hmmm…is this wisdom applied or foolishness of the world to think we can use that to know someone's character today based on their sins of the past?

So, if we had confirmed historical facts that someone was a murderer, then we can take that as evidence of bad character and we should not follow them as a leader? Moses, for instance, when he came to lead the people out of Israel—if we were wise we would oppose Moses as having bad character because he was a known murderer? Or David, after Bathsheba and Uriah? When was David's character the most godly, the most mature, before or after Bathsheba and Uriah incident? It was after! That incident brought him to the point of true repentance and he became a man after God's own heart.

So, the Christian that looks to past mistakes, without asking the question of whether there is evidence of Christian repentance and maturing in character is being foolish.

Drawing conclusion based on interpersonal style to determine character—in other words someone who is blunt, direct, doesn't seem to have a lot of empathy, says things that are often hurtful, comes across as rude, must mean that the person has bad character right? Not necessarily—if you don't know them personally, you don't know. What if the person has Asperger's syndrome? I have many patients with this disorder and they all are good-hearted people who really have high morals, want to do the best job they can, but have brains that don't see interpersonal cues, don't empathize like others do, they are direct, and so are experienced by others as blunt, rude, uncaring, mean, when they are not being so—and the higher their intelligence the worse their interpersonal style—even when they are seeking to help people because they care about people.

Did you ever see the program Bones, Temperance Brennan was the anthropologist who was very compassionate and caring but was depicted as someone with Asperger's and even though she had a tender heart she came across as rude and offensive all the time because of how she said things so inappropriately.

So, again, to judge someone's character without actually knowing someone personally is foolish—yet many Christians get caught up in doing this all the time and thus are manipulated by the media and others.

A better approach is to assess the person's ability for the position one is being considered for based on the evidence of effectiveness of their actions for that role. For instance, I have a patient with Asperger's who is a pharmacist and is extremely efficient at their job—accurate, rarely if ever makes an error, has caught multiple errors from other pharmacists and technicians, preventing injury and even death, is able to process prescriptions quickly, more quickly than most other pharmacists—but despite this skill has lost multiple jobs because comes across as rude and uncaring when answering questions because is direct and blunt. Whereas, other pharmacists without Asperger's and with great interpersonal skills, but without as good attention to details have made errors that have injured people yet keep their jobs and people prefer the one that injures them because that pharmacist makes them feel better.

What is exposed in this story? The foolishness of valuing feelings over facts, and how we can be led astray by our feelings into ignoring facts and making false conclusions—thus the Bible teaches that we are tempted by our feelings, but truth sets us free.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "Many teach that matters possesses…" I agree with this completely, God is the source of all life and He is the sustainer of all life. God is not bound by the laws of nature as they emanate from Him and are sustained by Him. To the degree it works to advance His kingdom God manages the outworking of His laws, but that management is via means and mechanisms of God that interface and connect throughout all reality in ways we cannot fully comprehend and thus are never breaking of His laws or even changing of them, but managing them.

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 11
The Christian and Work

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

The first paragraph points out that God gave Adam and Eve work to do in Eden before sin—why?

Human beings are created in God's image, and God is the Creator. In the likeness of God, we have a built-in desire to be industrious, to engage in meaningful activity, and to use our energy, creativity, and ingenuity to build, construct, devise, make, or otherwise produce something of value, consequence, or purpose.

Such creativity is built into our being, and when we do engage in meaningful activity, whether it be work for the sake of making money to provide for one's family, or gardening, because one loves flower, or drawing, painting, writing, playing music, caring for animals, being a homemaker, or any of a myriad of other industrious activities, we experience growth and a greater sense of wellbeing, meaning, and purpose as human beings. Our sense of wellbeing, of usefulness, of confidence, and even joy all increase.

Is work, doing, active engagement in meaningful activity a means of education?

Did God want Adam and Eve to learn through their tending of Eden?

Consider this description from the book Patriarchs and Prophets:

> The holy pair [Adam and Eve] were not only children under the fatherly care of God but students receiving instruction from the all-wise Creator. They were visited by angels, and were granted communion with their Maker, with no obscuring veil between. They were full of the vigor imparted by the tree of life, and their intellectual power was but little less than that of the angels. The mysteries of the visible universe—"the wondrous works of Him which is perfect in knowledge" (Job 37:16)—afforded them an exhaustless source of instruction and delight. The laws and operations of nature, which have engaged men's study for six thousand years, were opened to their minds by the infinite Framer and Upholder of all. They held converse with leaf and flower and tree, gathering from each the secrets of its life. With every living creature, from the mighty leviathan that plays among the waters to the insect mote that floats in the sunbeam, Adam was familiar. He had given to each its name, and he was acquainted with the nature and habits of all. God's glory in the heavens, the innumerable worlds in their orderly revolutions, "the balancings of the clouds," the mysteries of light and sound, of day and night—all were open to the study of our first parents. On every leaf of the forest or stone of the mountains, in every shining star, in earth and air and sky, God's name was written. The order and harmony of creation spoke to them of infinite wisdom and power. They were > ever discovering some attraction that filled their hearts with deeper love and called forth fresh expressions of gratitude. PP 50.3

> So long as they remained loyal to the divine law, their capacity to know, to enjoy, and to love would continually increase. They would be constantly gaining new treasures of knowledge, discovering fresh springs of happiness, and obtaining clearer and yet clearer conceptions of the immeasurable, unfailing love of God. PP 51.1

Was tending the garden a means of education? Would their tending of the garden require them to learn about all the various forms of life and discover more things as that life grew and interacted with other life around it?

Did you hear something we have to look forward to in an earth made new? Never ending discovery and learning!

Read second paragraph, "In this 'in-between time'…" In this world of sin, does work have additional benefits that were not needed or seen in Eden?

Regular work has multiple benefits:

- Improved self-esteem, from actual accomplishment and achievement
- Better physical health, from increased physical activity and the reduced firing stress pathways as we experience satisfaction with completing tasks, or fulfilling our life goals, aspirations, and dreams. Additionally, physical activity produces factors in the brain that causes the neurons to stay healthy, improves the ability of neurons to make new connections, thus improving learning and reducing the risk of dementia as we age.
- Development of our brain circuits that control physical movement, which in turn improves our thinking and reasoning. When we engage in physical activity, the striatal pathways in our brain, that initiate motor movement, develop, but these pathways not only initiate physical movement, they also initiate thinking, so as we develop and use these pathways, we improve our ability to initiate thoughts. The cerebellum, which is involved in making our physical movements smooth and coordinated, also helps smooth and coordinate our thoughts. Thus, when we stay physically active, we ultimately improve our thinking processes.
- Blesses and benefits those around us. As we engage in useful activity, it results in blessings in our environment, whether we are creating works of art or music to brighten the heart, or are mopping, vacuuming, and picking up trash to create clean environments, or growing food, all useful activity blesses those around us.
- Reduces burdens on others. By staying active, we reduce the likelihood of our own disability and the need for others to care for us.
- Harmonizes with the law of love, which is the principle of giving. The more we give, the more we receive. In every living system, the various parts are active in giving support to the other parts. The lungs actively work to give oxygen to the blood, which the heart sends through the body, but the heart benefits from the oxygen provided by the lungs. The digestive organs fill the blood with nutrients, but receive oxygen from the lungs and circulation sent by the heart. In a community, active people are constantly blessing those around them, while simultaneously being blessed from others. We receive benefits of electricity, clean air, water, emergency services, road crews that keep the roads clear, and so much more from people we will most likely never meet.

- Reduces the opportunity for temptation. This is perhaps one of the greatest benefits of useful work. Any time spent in usefulness not only produces all the blessings above, but is time unavailable for engagement in destructive and harmful activities. When we are not engaged in useful activities, we are more vulnerable to temptations that result in harm to ourselves and others.

When we are active, industrious, and engaged in meaningful employment (not necessarily for pay), we are healthier, happier, and experience greater peace.

Conversely, idleness, a failure to engage one's abilities in development or meaningful application, is damaging to one's wellbeing. It undermines a person's dignity, while increasing feelings of inadequacy, guilt, shame, and worthlessness, which leads to pleasure-seeking and other acting-out behaviors in an attempt to alleviate the sense of inadequacy. As the old saying goes*, idle hands are the devil's workshop*.

Doing nothing, refusing to engage in constructive activity, and not investing one's energies and abilities into meaningful employment (when one is capable), degrades the human being. Understanding this, what action could people take if they wanted to demoralize others — to destroy other people's dignity and undermine their God-given individuality? Take away something God designed for their health and development:

- Take away their freedom—which stifles development and creates shadow people
- Take away nutritious food—which undermines physical health, impairs development and reduces autonomy
- Take away social connections—which undermines both mental and physical health and reduces development and growth
- Take away usefulness, meaningful employment and create programs or systems that free the capable from useful labor. They could promote public policies designed to give money, food, clothing, housing, cell phones, cars, and a variety of other resources to otherwise capable people who choose not to work—which undermines mental, physical and spiritual health and development.

I want to be clear: I am not concerned about politics; I am concerned about people — about their health, wellbeing, and integrity.

Throughout time, many others have recognized what I'm saying here:

- "If a man will not work, he shall not eat." — The apostle Paul in 2 Thessalonians 3:10

- "Working moms, and increasingly working dads, don't want a government handout, but they do need a hand up." — Madeleine Kunin, Democrat, Governor of Vermont and U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland

- "If we take the route of the permanent handout, the American character will itself be impoverished." — Richard Nixon, Republican, 37th President of the USA

- "The desperately poor may accept handouts, because they feel they have to. For those who consider themselves at least middle class, however, anything that smacks of a handout is not desired. Instead, they want their economic power back." — Robert Shiller, Nobel Laureate in Economics and Sterling Professor of Economics at Yale

- "At Year Up, our students — low income 18- to 24-year-olds — come to us having already faced substantial obstacles in life. They are not in search of a handout; what they want most of all is the ability to take ownership of their own futures." — Gerald Chertavian, founder and CEO of Year Up; has worked with urban youth for more than 25 years.

I have seen the destruction of wellbeing, the demoralization that occurs when people are given things that they could otherwise earn — whether it be from well-meaning parents, family, friends, church members, or society.

When we receive handouts that we don't believe we merit, we experience guilt, loss of esteem, a falling sense of worth, and often feel guilt and inadequacy. This leads to an unconscious need to alleviate the guilt with justification for the handout, contributing to either a sense of entitlement and identifying oneself as being downtrodden, mistreated, or wronged in the past and, thus, the handout is simply compensation and is deserved, or by experiencing physical or mental symptoms of illness that justifies the handout.

Let me be clear here as well: I am not saying that there are no people suffering from real physical and mental illness; there are, and they need our compassion and help. What I am saying is that when handouts are received by those who could otherwise provide for themselves, it causes in them a need to justify the handout, and this can take a variety of forms — either by seeing oneself as deserving, because of some perceived social injustice, or by experiencing some physical or mental problem.

When we divert our energy, our mind, and abilities away from useful work—activities that may or may not generate income, but are beneficial (housework, lawn care, gardening, sewing, painting, sculpting, building, writing, playing musical instruments, drawing, developing systems or programs of education, parenting, coaching, and so many more)—and instead use the majority of our energies on entertainments, diversions, and indulgences (video games, TV, amusement parks, playing games), we undermine our physical and mental well-being. We become internally restless, lose our sense of peace, and often look for actions to change our feeling state, too frequently in alcohol or other substances, or more entertainment and avoidance of real-life responsibilities.

So I think the Jews understood this and that to fail to teach our children a useful trade, to fail to educate them properly is to raise a criminal and this is what we have seen with failing school systems in America.

This also gives insight into what happened to the Antediluvians that so quickly degraded themselves into thugs and violent selfish exploiters of others, so hardened against God and love that there were only 8 people willing to get on the ark. And it gives insight into why God changed the climate so dramatically at the time of the flood—to make living on earth harder, meaning to survive it required more useful work to provide shelter, food, clothing, which reduced time for self-indulgence and thus reduced the corruption of human character.

Useful work is a huge blessing to us and, as we engage in it, we are not only healthier and happier, but we also grow and expand our abilities, while coming closer to the image of our Creator God!

The real trick is to find useful work that you enjoy, that fulfills your passions, desires, dreams, and aspirations—again, whether it results in monetary income or not. The happiest people are those who are productive people, so find your work and live life to its fullest!

Do you see again how a design law view of things brings reality into focus and makes things understandable and demonstrates God's ways are always reasonable and healthy?

SUNDAY

The Many Sides of Work: What is work?

According to the dictionary this word, work can be a noun, adjective or verb and has multiple meanings:

Noun:

- exertion or effort directed to produce or accomplish something; labor; toil.
- employment, as in some form of industry, especially as a means of earning one's livelihood: to look for work.
- one's place of employment: Don't phone him at work.
- something on which exertion or labor is expended; a task or undertaking: The students finished their work in class.
- materials, things, etc., on which one is working or is to work.
- a product of exertion, labor, or activity: musical works.
- works,
  (used with a singular or plural verb) a place or establishment for manufacturing (often used in combination): ironworks.
  the working parts of a machine: the works of a watch.
  Theology: righteous deeds.

- Physics. force times the distance through which it acts; specifically, the transference of energy equal to the product of the component of a force that acts in the direction of the motion of the point of application of the force and the distance through which the point of application moves.

Adjective:

- of, for, or concerning work: work clothes.
- working (def. 18).

Verb:

- to do work; labor.
- to be employed, especially as a means of earning one's livelihood: He hasn't worked for six weeks.
- to act or operate effectively: We all agree that this plan works.
- to attain a specified condition, as by repeated movement: The nails worked loose.

What is work to you?

Studies have found that there are three types of workers and only one type of worker is happy—the other two are not.

The three types of workers are:

- Work is a job—these people work for the paycheck, working for the weekend, looking for the days off and do only what they have to do because they need the employment. And these type of workers are not happy. To them work is a drudgery and toil
- Work is a career—these people are working for the advancement, their ego is caught up in the work and they feel good when they get a raise, a bonus, a company car, vacation package, corner office, promotion to vice-president or front parking slot. These persons are generally not happy because no matter the advancement there is always another that they immediately set their sights on.
- Work is a calling—for these individuals work is what they were called to do and they feel they are fulfilling their purpose in life and these are the happiest workers

And studies have found that there are these three types of workers in every job: professionals like doctors, nurses, lawyers, engineers that are just working a job or on a career path and are unhappy, while there are janitors that feel called to their profession and are content and happy.

But what if your calling isn't able to actually meet the objective needs of your life and family? Say, you are called to do art or write music, but you can't make enough money to support yourself or your family doing this? What then?

Then, I recommend several strategies:

- Careers with approximations or associations with the calling, such as an artist being a graphic designer, or interior designer, or fashion designer, or advertising designer etc. A musician, if can't directly get employment as a musician then pursue music therapy, or music education, or sound engineering or work in the music industry in some other fashion.
- If strategies like this don't suffice, then another strategy would be to find a job that serves to fuel (provide time and resources to pursue your calling) such as a job where you work 2-3 days a week for income and have the other days off to pursue your calling. Jobs such as nursing, paramedic, or other jobs in which you have organized your living situation to be able to do so. Then the income producing job isn't drudgery it is valued because it gives you the ability to pursue your calling.

MONDAY

The lesson asks us to read Proverbs 21:25-26:

> The sluggard's craving will be the death of him, because his hands refuse to work. All day long he craves for more, but the righteous give without sparing. NIV84

What do you hear in this passage?

What death is being described—is it primarily the first death or is the second death being described—or both?

Is there any wisdom here? Is it based on God's law? What law?

Should this wisdom be built into our public policies—i.e. work and achievement, receiving advancement, award, success based on one's application and investment of their energies in accomplishment?

Do you realize this is a conservative principle and a principle which is ridiculed and attacked by those on the left with policies and attitudes that suggest we should give every child a participation award because we don't want anyone getting their feelings hurt, or we shouldn't praise the A student's paper or the excellent musical performance in front of the other students because it might make those who are struggle feel bad? Or we pass to the next grade or graduate students who are not able to pass the classes because we don't want them to feel bad.

Such practices are corrosive and corrupting to everyone involved as they create lies. While all of us are equal in moral worth, we are not all equal in ability and therefore cannot all achieve the same levels of performance or succeed in the same line of activity. To suggest we can by giving everyone the same award, grade, or passing to the next level creates false expectations, undermines the drive to excellence and corrupts society.

This is not about politics—it is about godly principles and godly principles do not change by popular vote, nor by desire, nor by legislation. They are constants that don't' change based on politics, they just are.

This is also part of a culture war we talked about a couple of weeks ago—how the Christian, who believes in the Bible and follows the gospel commission seeks to bring God's truth to bear which will destroy all lies and therefore cultures built upon lies by changing the hearts of people back into harmony with God's designs and methods.

I have written several blogs recently describing God's principles and how when they are applied to the lives of people or nations those people or nations experience greater health and success, but when God's principles are violated injury and damage always occurs. That is how design law works.

One of the founders of the SDA church wrote about the USA:

> And he had two horns like a lamb." The lamblike horns indicate youth, innocence, and gentleness, fitly representing the character of the United States when presented to the prophet as "coming up" in 1798. Among the Christian exiles who first fled to America and sought an asylum from royal oppression and priestly intolerance were many who determined to establish a government upon the broad foundation of civil and religious liberty. Their views found place in the Declaration of Independence, which sets forth the great truth that "all men are created equal" and endowed with the inalienable right to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." [this is describing equality of moral worth as human beings, not equality in ability, or equality in achievement or success in any endeavor.] And the Constitution guarantees to the people the right of self-government, providing that representatives elected by the popular vote shall enact and administer the laws. Freedom of religious faith was also granted, every man being permitted to worship God according to the dictates of his conscience. Republicanism and Protestantism became the fundamental principles of the nation. These principles are the secret of its power and prosperity. The oppressed and downtrodden throughout Christendom have turned to this land with interest and hope. Millions have sought its shores, and the United States has risen to a place among the most powerful nations of the earth (The Great Controversy, p. 441).

This author goes on to describe how these principles will be undermined from the political right when legislators will conform to pressure from a realignment between Protestants and Papal powers to restrict liberty. But, is that the only way for civil and religious liberty to be taken away? Do we get locked into one means of undermining liberty and fail to see other means of doing the same thing, or do we value the principles and methods of God such that we recognize violations of God's law from any direction?

Are these principles of Republicanism and Protestantism, which are conservative principles of civil and religious liberty, being attacked in America today?

And are the principles of hard work and individual application and achievement being attacked today?

A chart published this year at the Smithsonian Institute entitled:

"Aspects & Assumption of Whiteness and White Culture in the United States" criticized several aspects of American culture as being racist and therefore something to be opposed. Here are bullets from that chart, that the chart labelled as whitism and racist and thus needs to be opposed in our society:

> "Protestant Work Ethic
> - Hard work is the key to success
> - Work before play
> - 'If you didn't meet your goals you didn't work hard enough.'"
> The list is credited to a diversity consultant named Judith H. Katz, who has written about race for many years. In the late 1970s, she wrote White Awareness: Handbook for Anti-Racism Training. She later wrote Inclusion Breakthrough: Unleashing the Real Power of Diversity. (In the 1990s, the Boston Herald called her a "diversity doyenne.") Today, the company where she is a top executive, Kaleel Jamison Consulting, counts among its clients FedEx, Merck, Toyota, and several others." https://www.washingtonexaminer.com/opinion/byron-yorks-daily-memo-whiteness-and-the-national-museum-of-african-american-history-and-culture

The principle of work is a Protestant principle—no doubt about that—but the question is: Is the principle of work a racist philosophy, is it white supremacy?

No—it is the design law of God built into reality. So, what is going on today that some people are labeling work as racist and therefore undermining the principle of hard work? A culture war in which Christianity and God's principles for health are being attacked and undermined in order for Satan to gain greater control of people's minds through his multiple lies and falsehoods.

What is the consequence to people when they are taught that hard work is racist? Will it uplift people to believe that lie?

Do you see how the God's kingdom, His methods and principles for life and health are being attacked and undermined by the systems of this world, which run on Satan's methods?

If we present the gospel will we present God's design laws for life? And will that be popular message or will forces align that try and silence the voices that bring forth truth, including by ridicule and false allegations of being racist, or that the gospel of Jesus is hate speech, or that Christianity is intolerant, or that believing in God is for the ignorant and uneducated etc.?

But we cannot stop advancing the kingdom of God, which is built upon design laws, which means we will continually expose the fallacy of everything that violates God's design and methods, whether in the church or in society.

Read second paragraph, "God has given…" This is well said, and the reason? Because it is the law of exertion, if you want something to get stronger you must exercise it. Because if you don't use it you lose it.

TUESDAY

Read second paragraph, "The attention to detail…" What do you think about the last sentence, "With God, sloppy work is not accepted!"?

What is meant by "sloppy" work? What determines whether the work done is sloppy or not?

Is the primary measure the product itself?

Do we balance this idea of sloppy work with:

> The LORD does not look at the things man looks at. Man looks at the outward appearance, but the LORD looks at the heart. 1Samuel 16:7 NIV84

When we consider sloppy work, would the motive of the heart matter, or is it only about the quality of the work product?

I have many patients who grew up in Christian homes and there was a real emphasis on the work product, on performance, behavior, and perfection and these individuals really struggle with feeling inadequate, with feeling they not good enough. They struggle with recognizing a truth that no matter how good they perform a task that there is always room to do it better, and thus they always fall short and feel like a failure.

What would you say to such individuals and how do we bring address this idea that God doesn't accept sloppiness?

Is God's focus primarily about the work product or the motive of the heart—doing one's best with one's:

- abilities
- skill level
- education
- level of maturity
- level of experience
- time
- energy

Do we factor in what is actually desired or needed in the circumstance or do we lose the focus on the true goal for the perfection of the task? For instance, if we need to mail a letter to pay a bill, do we delay putting the letter in the mail because we are not satisfied with the quality of our handwriting addressing the envelope? We realize some of the letters are bigger than others, the lines run at a slant instead of being perfectly horizontal etc.? Do we take hours to readdress the letter over and over again in order to be sure that it is not sloppy or do we take the attitude that as long as it is readable and will be delivered properly it is good enough?

This is a metaphor for many tasks in life—do we recognize when it is good enough and move on or ruminate over improving the task itself?

What about making mistakes? Is it okay to make mistakes or are mistakes evil and therefore are to be avoided?

This is one of the lies that Satan slips into people's minds, the lie that mistakes are evil. No, mistakes are an inevitable part of finite beings learning, growth, development and education. But many people who have grown up in religious systems that are legal in nature have this lie in their mind. Afterall, in a legal view, if you are going 50 in a 30 zone it doesn't matter whether you meant to or not, whether you saw the speed limit sign or not, whether it was purposeful or not, it is still a crime and if caught you will be punished. This false legal view of God's government has led millions into a terrible behavioral-focused approach to life where they are burdened under all kinds of works and feelings of insecurity, guilt and a sense of imperfection and constantly try to be perfect but knowing they can't be.

But the truth is that mistakes are not sin, mistakes are not evil. Is there a difference between making a math error in your check registry and accidently over-drafting a check and purposely writing fraudulent checks?

Everyone make mistakes, the question isn't about the mistake it is about learning and growth.

If you take decide to learn to play any instrument, say the piano and take lessons, will you hit some wrong notes? Is that evil? No! And with practice will you hit fewer wrong notes? Yes! This is life, whether piano, learning math, or learning anything.

Life is about learning, and we will make mistakes as we advance into anything new. But people who have come to believe that mistakes are evil then in addition to living under chronic false guilt and inadequacy end up:

- restricting new activities for fear of making mistakes, fear of failure, fear of not being good enough
- surrendering their thinking to others, someone in charge, some leader to tell them the answer, to get permission or direction from, so if it turns out to be wrong it won't be their fault as they were doing what the authority said was okay
- by rejecting authority and standards and becoming completely profligate and lawless, do what feels good it doesn't matter anyway

What is the solution? The truth, which is understood from the design law view, that we are finite and life is about growth, learning, developing, advancing in the truth, and God doesn't look primarily at the task performance, but at the attitude of the heart while carrying out the task. Is the heart motivated by love, a desire to honor God, to be a blessing to others, or is it motivated by a desire to advance self?

Consider a father who is out gardening and weeding in a tomato patch, and his two-year-old son comes up behind him and with a big smile, pulls up a tomato plant saying, "help daddy!" Compare that to the 14-year-old son sent out to weed the tomato patch and only pulls weeds but the entire time curses the father for not being able to play his computer game. Which child is the father most happy with? Is God primarily concerned with task performance?

WEDNESDAY

The lesson focuses our attention on being Spirit led in all aspects of life including in our work. What does this mean to you? How do you apply this?

Would being Spirit led mean:

- We don't choose to act (get a job) until the Spirit comes with some sign or miracle to tell us which job to apply for?
- That we don't work for companies that participate in activities that we view as being against the kingdom of God?
    - What about working for a company that makes alcohol?
    - What about working for a company that sells alcohol—supermarkets, restaurants?
    - What about working for a company that distributes or delivers alcohol—trucking companies, UPS, FedEx?
    - What about companies that supply electricity or water to companies that make alcohol?
    - What about vineyards that grow grapes they sell to wineries?
    - What about fertilizer companies that sell fertilizer to companies that grow grapes they sell to wineries?
    - What about investment companies that buy stocks in companies that produce, sell, distribute alcohol?
- That we conduct ourselves in harmony with God's principles of honesty, integrity, kindness, fulfilling our responsibilities, but we don't take responsibility for what the company does if we are not setting company policy?
- What if a company's primary agenda is evil—say a casino? Is working for them in keeping with being Spirit led? What if you worked as a janitor improving sanitation and reducing disease? What if you worked as a nurse in their onsite clinic?

What is the point? We can't know where the Spirit will lead another person to work and we are not responsible for their calling. We are responsible for following where the Spirit is calling us!

What does it mean to you to be Spirit filled in the work place?

> There are men who are careless in regard to the spirit which they carry with them in their business. They hide their light under a bushel. They say, Religion is religion, business is business. But all our work in this world, even in a business line, is God's work, and should be done with a heart full of his love, and of heavenly enlightenment. But if we need the heavenly enlightenment in business employments in the world, how much more do we need his grace and help in the business especially connected with his precious cause. There must be no coldness, no formality, no deadness in his work. The hardness of heart that is manifest in business lines among us as a people, is an offense to God. RH January 24, 1893, par. 8

What do you hear? Does being Spirit led in business, in our employment, mean that we are to evangelize people in the workplace?

Where is the line between living for God and proselytizing?

What should mental health counselors do: treat their patients with respect and respect the patient's attitude about spiritual things and work within that framework, or use the professional office setting to evangelize and preach?

Is there a difference between "letting your light shine" in practicing godly principles in governance of self, in loving others, in being positive, cheerful, honest, concerned, and preaching?

What of a Christian baker who has a gay couple come in and ask for a wedding cake for their gay wedding what should he do if he wants to let his Christian light shine?

Should the Christian baker's primary concern be with:

- himself and his salvation?
- witnessing to this couple and ensuring they know they are living in sin?
- running his business and selling to people an honest cake for an honest wage?
- determining how his baking products are used once they are sold and only selling products to customers who will use them in ways he approves?
- honoring God and revealing God's character of love?
- What honors God in that situation? Is it the specific action or the motive in the heart? Would the maturity of the baker determine what he concludes God would have him do? Would the baker's understanding of God's law have anything to do with his response? Would the baker's love for the couple impact his decision? What if the baker thought that baking the cake and showing real interest in the couple could build a relationship with them, and over time he could introduce them to Jesus and they would one day give their hearts to Jesus and Jesus would lead them to wherever Jesus would have them be—so he bakes the cake for them?

THURSDAY

Read second paragraph, "When asked to comment…" And the lesson lists other resources such as money, time, energy, talent and others, which could include land, water and waterways, food, other materials.

So, what does it mean to be a good steward?

What about a steward of the earth in general? Is there a difference between being a good steward of the earth and being an Earth worshipper?

The best stewards are those who have Jesus in their hearts and understand God's design for life and health and His purposes and realize we are here to care for those with less ability than we have, including the animals.

But if we have to decide, which is valued more, human beings or animals?

What is the problem to humans if we fail to value and protect animals?

> "A righteous man regardeth the life of his beast: but the tender mercies of the wicked are cruel." Proverbs 12:10. Few realize as they should the sinfulness of abusing animals or leaving them to suffer from neglect. The animals were created to serve man, but he has no right to cause them pain by harsh treatment. From Eternity Past 313.2
> He who will abuse animals because he has them in his power is both a coward and a tyrant. Many do not realize that their cruelty will ever be known, because the poor dumb animals cannot reveal it. But could the eyes of these men be opened, they would see an angel of God standing as a witness to testify against them in the courts above. A day is coming when judgment will be pronounced against those who abuse God's creatures. EP 313.3

And what is that judgment referenced above? What happens in the hearts, minds, characters of those who abuse animals? And thus the judgment is the diagnosis that they are without love and out of harmony with heaven.

But is there a difference between cruelty to animals and eating animals?

Was Jesus being cruel and abusing animals when He participated in Passover while here on earth or when He fixed fish for His disciples after His resurrection, or when He ate fish in the upper room?

What about using animals in medical research to develop cures for human disease?

What is the balance between being good stewards and using the resources of earth for the welfare of humanity?

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 12
Sabbath: Experiencing and Living the Character of God

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

What do you think of the title?

What does the Sabbath tell you about the character of God?

Does the law lens one has as one considers the Sabbath have any impact on how one understands God's character?

Did the Pharisees in Christ's day have the wrong day of the week as the Sabbath? Did they recognize Jesus as God? Why not if they had the Sabbath?

What are the lessons we must learn from their history?

- Having the right Sabbath doesn't mean one has the right God
- If one has the right Sabbath but the wrong understanding of law one has the wrong god
- God's laws are design laws and via the law of worship—by beholding we are changed—if one has the human imposed law construct, believes God's laws function as imposed rules and justice is God keeping records of sins, and punishing sinners, then one will become like that God and will ultimately reject the Lord of the Sabbath

So, back to the question—what does the Sabbath tell us about God's character and how does it help us grow to be more like God in our character?

It first starts with design law understanding, which is always rooted in God's character of love—the three big principles or laws are: love, truth and freedom.

So, what does the Sabbath have to say or reveal about God's love?

- The Sabbath is a gift to humankind given for our blessing—and gifts are evidence of love.
  - But what kind of a gift is it?
  - Is it a law we have to keep, a rule we have to obey, a restriction of freedom one day in seven? Can love be commanded? Then if the Sabbath reveals God's love is it some rule we are required to obey? What kind of gift would that be? Do you see that if we try and present the Sabbath through the lens of imposed law we immediately misrepresent the character of God!
  - So, how is it a gift to us? It is some aspect of reality that God built into time, into our very existence, that is intended to benefit us—how?

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

- A memorial of Creation—which is an evidence of God's design laws and the design laws all evidence love—the law of love itself, which is the law of giving that life is built upon and all the others.
- A memorial to Christ's sacrifice on the cross: Jesus after giving the most supreme evidence of God's character of love rested in the tomb over Sabbath. Thus the Sabbath reminds us of the truth about God's character of love, not just the law of love, but God Himself sacrifices Himself for His creatures—just the opposite of Satan.
- It is a tool, an aide, a resource, a TIME, for us to exercise our power of choice to participate with God in trust, based on all the evidence the Sabbath represents, for the healing of our characters.

What does the Sabbath have to do with truth or what truth does the Sabbath reveal?

- It is a memorial to creation thus reminds us of the truth God is the Creator and His laws are design laws
- Given at the end of creation week its existence is evidence of God's methods of rulership—truth was presented in love while leaving His intelligent beings free to think. If God were the kind of being Satan alleges the Sabbath wouldn't exist—its existence is proof Satan lied.
- A memorial of God's deliverance of Israel from slavery in Egypt—which reminds us of the truth that God is the one who delivers us from slavery to sin.
- A memorial of Christ's sacrifice to provide the remedy to sin and give us eternal life
- An evidence of the freedom we have in God's kingdom operating under God's design laws

What does the Sabbath have to do with liberty or freedom?

- The Sabbath was created at the end of creation week of this planet and Satan's war against God was already under way in heaven. And what did God do on that first Sabbath? He stopped using power! All week long God, as Creator, had been using immense power to create a new planet, life of all kinds, then Adam and Eve. But on the Sabbath God rested—not ceased the expenditure of any energy that sustains the life and operations of the entire universe, but God rested from creating and made the Sabbath. Why? In the face of Satan's allegations that God abuses His power, that God runs His universe on imposed rules and forces people into line with threats and punishment, God created Earth and then said, "Universe, you have heard the allegations, you have seen the evidence given, now take 24 hours aside and think for yourself, no pressure, come to your own conclusion. I rest my case!" What does it say about God that instead of using power to force every knee to bend to Him, He instead created a day for freedom to think?
- When we experience restoration to holiness as God designs, we are set free from sin, free from fear, free from condemnation and guilt and shame. And the Sabbath is a gift, a sign, an evidence and a weekly promise and opportunity from God that when we trust Him He will set us free from all of the damage of sin and restore us to eternal life.

Do you see why Satan hates the weekly Sabbath? And thus he attacks it in various ways:

- He alleges there is no God, therefore there is no Sabbath

PO Box 28266, Chattanooga, TN 37424
topics@comeandreason.com

- He makes the Sabbath the biggest party day of the week so even if people do believe in God they forget the Sabbath and all the truth it reveals, and therefore don't accept this gift from God nor use it for their healing as God designed
- He teaches that the Sabbath was changed to a different day, thus again the purpose of the Sabbath, what it reveals about God is lost and the lie about God's law infects Christianity.
- He gets people to accept the imposed law lie and thus even if they believe the truth about which day of the week is the Bible Sabbath, they still teach it through the false law lens as an arbitrary test of obedience from an arbitrary and punishing god. Thus rather than being a gift that we experience in our sanctification, the Sabbath is perverted and is used to harden hearts against God, just like the Pharisees in Christ's day.
- Through the imposed law lie the penal/legal theologians argue over which day of the week is the Bible Sabbath and lose site of the fact it is NOT about the day of the day of the week but about the Lord of the Sabbath. Thus, Satan wins by having both sides of the "day" argument worshipping an imperial dictator who will punish you in fire for not keeping the "right day."
- Through the imposed law lie the Sabbath is taught in ways that perverts God's character and rather than teaching love, truth, and liberty it now teaches that:
    - God is no longer love, but a schizophrenic god who is "not only loving but just" and will use his power to torture and kill those who don't obey the right day
    - God is the source of death rather than life as God must kill the Sabbath breakers
    - We don't really have freedom as God uses power to force and coerce by inflicting death on those who won't obey
    - God's law is arbitrary just a test of obedience and thus God is arbitrary

So, if one has the right day of the week but teaches the Sabbath through the imposed law lie, then one will pervert everything about the Sabbath and the Sabbath becomes a tool for Satan to harden hearts and corrupt character.

What is the point? That the Sabbath is only a blessing and only teaches the truth about God when we first recover the truth about God's design law and understand His character of love. Then the Sabbath is a blessing to us. Otherwise, it becomes a day of enslavement and rule-keeping just like the Jews in Christ's day.

Read the story in Sabbath's lesson starting in first paragraph, "Jodie was the only Seventh-day Adventist…"

Thoughts? Did you like this story? Did it have the ring of truth to it, or did some part of you go, "Wait a minute, something isn't quite right here?"

Did it feel like they took puzzle pieces and forced them together in ways that don't quite fit? In other words, the pieces by themselves are fine, but the connections they are making don't quite fit. Does it seem like they are trying to make a point that isn't quite true?

Consider this, if Jodie had been off every Wednesday night and had been asked by her coworker, whose husband was out of town for six weeks, to come over on Wednesday evening and they had dinner together, studied the Bible, shared their Christian experience, and grew closer as friends, what might have happened on the fifth week when Gayle was out shopping on Wednesday afternoon and looked down at her watch and realized it was almost time for Jodie to come over? Might she have said to herself, "Oh, good, Jodie will be coming over soon!"

Why did Gayle have such a positive experience with those four Friday evenings? Was it something magical about those hours, minutes, seconds, or was it the love and friendship and truth she experienced with Jodie as they studied God's Word together?

Let's be clear, I am not undermining the weekly Sabbath, its sacredness, its purpose as a gift from God. What I have a problem with is making connection that are not inherent. We see this all through the lesson and almost every time people present the Sabbath and such arguments actually undermine our case to people who realize we are forcing connections that are not inherent. Our goal is to present the Sabbath in its true light and promote the principles and facts that set it apart from other days.

SUNDAY

Sunday's lesson is entitled "Time to Be Astonished" and it certainly is true that the Sabbath, as the authors say, "was a God-created time for them to focus on their Creator and the created." I agree this is true—but are humans restricted from focusing on God and creation the other six days of the week? Are we only astonished by God as our Creator or by creation on the Sabbath day?

Are the truths we experience about God as our Creator or some aspect of creation limited to the Sabbath?

Another example—God spent the first Sabbath with them and spends time with us on Sabbath and this is a reason that make the Sabbath special. It is, if course true that God did spend time with them that first Sabbath and does spend time with us on Sabbath via His Holy Spirit. But does that mean God did not spend time with Adam and Eve in the cool of every day, and that He does not spend time with us on any other day? So is it a good argument for Sabbath holiness to say it is holy because God will spend time with us on this day?

Do you see how truths can create a false narrative, or a false idea? And these types of arguments in favor of the Sabbath—the ones that are not unique to the Sabbath end up undermining the value, significance, importance of the Sabbath and will reduce its sense of holiness in people's minds because they will come to think that we view it as magical or superstitious attributing to it value it wasn't intended to possess.

How we might view someone who believes a certain objects are holy, crucifixes, pictures, images, or a set of bricks or stones and only certain people can approach them and then only if they take off their shoes or bow or cover their head?

So if you were to talk with someone who doesn't appreciate the gift of the Sabbath, what might you tell them that would differentiate the Sabbath from any other day of the week? What makes it unique, special, a blessing?

> The Sabbath was created as a gift for humanity, to be a blessing for human beings. Human beings were not created as a gift for the Sabbath. Understand this clearly, the Son of Man doesn't serve the Sabbath, it serves him." Mark 2:27,28, from The Remedy

What does it mean the Sabbath was made for man? How is the Sabbath a gift for man?

The Commandment says to remember the Sabbath to keep it holy. Genesis and Exodus tell us the Sabbath is holy – which day of the week has more "worldly" activity, partying, etc.? Could it be the Sabbath—Friday night and Saturday? Does all the wickedness done by humans make the Sabbath less holy?

Can anything we do make the Sabbath less holy? Can we do anything to make the Sabbath more holy? Then what does it mean to keep the Sabbath holy? Are we keeping the Sabbath holy, or are we keeping ourselves holy?

And, can you keep yourself holy only one day a week, or, to be holy one must be holy every day of the week?

Read first paragraph Friday's lesson:

> No other institution which was committed to the Jews tended so fully to distinguish them from surrounding nations as did the Sabbath. God designed that its observance should designate them as His worshipers. It was to be a token of their separation from idolatry, and their connection with the true God. But in order to keep the Sabbath holy, men must themselves be holy. Through faith they must become partakers of the righteousness of Christ. DA 283

Can those who have a legal religion, who claim the blood of Jesus as a legal payment to pay for their sins, the robe of Christ's righteousness to cover over their corrupt character so the Father can't see it, and yet they haven't been renewed in heart, but they keep the Sabbath, have many rules and are very fastidious about it—are they actually keeping the Sabbath holy?

In other words, is the Sabbath about the Sabbath or about the Lord of the Sabbath and His relationship with His people to restore in them His righteousness?

So, then what is the purpose of the Sabbath and what does it mean to "keep it holy"?

What does it mean to be holy and we talked about this a few weeks ago?

Here are a couple of historic quotes:

> It is not enough for us to know and respect the words of the Scriptures. We must enter into the understanding of them, studying them earnestly. . . . Christians will reveal the degree to which they do this by the healthiness of their spiritual character. We must know the practical application of the Word to our own individual character-building. We are to be holy temples, in which God can live and walk and work. {LHU 105.5}
>
> Holiness is not rapture: it is an entire surrender of the will to God; it is living by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God; it is doing the will of our heavenly Father; it is trusting God in trial, in darkness as well as in the light; it is walking by faith and not by sight; it is relying on God with unquestioning confidence, and resting in His love. {AA 51.2}
> True holiness is wholeness in the service of God. This is the condition of true Christian living. Christ asks for an unreserved consecration, for undivided service. He demands the heart, the mind, the soul, the strength. [Why does Christ demand this? Because it is His right? Because He has paid the price? Because He is Creator? Because He is Sovereign? No, He demands this because He is the source of life, health, happiness, and only in a surrendered relationship with Him can we have life and health and happiness. It is for our good, not His need. Anything else and we cut ourselves off from life.] Self is not to be cherished. He who lives to himself is not a Christian. {COL 48.4}
> Love must be the principle of action. Love is the underlying principle of God's government in heaven and earth, and it must be the foundation of the Christian's character. This alone can make and keep him steadfast. This alone can enable him to withstand trial and temptation… {COL 49.1}
> This is the religion of Christ. Anything short of it is a deception. No mere theory of truth or profession of discipleship will save any soul. [no mere legal accounting or worshipping on the right day of the week to be sure one is legally compliant will work.] We do not belong to Christ unless we are His wholly. It is by halfheartedness in the Christian life that men become feeble in purpose and changeable in desire. The effort to serve both self and Christ makes one a stony-ground hearer, and he will not endure when the test comes upon him. {COL 50.1}

Here is another historic quote:

> In presenting the binding claims of the law, many have failed to portray the infinite love of Christ. [Why would this be? Because they present the law through imposed law lens as rules the rule-giver must enforce with punishments and not as design law. When the law is presented as design law one cannot help but present the infinite love of Christ, it is inherent and we understand how the law has binding claims—like the law of respiration.]

Those who have so great truths, so weighty reforms to present to the people, have not had a realization of the value of the atoning Sacrifice as an expression of God's great love to man. Love for Jesus, and Jesus' love for sinners, have been dropped out of the religious experience of those who have been commissioned to preach the gospel, and self has been exalted instead of the Redeemer of mankind. The law is to be presented to its transgressors, not as something apart from God, but rather as an exponent of His mind and character. As the sunlight cannot be separated from the sun, so God's law cannot be rightly presented to man apart from the divine Author. [Which is closer to the sun/sunlight analogy, Imposed law – God making up rules, or Design law, God creating reality to operate in harmony with Him and He is the constant source of life energy that sustains it all? So when we present imposed law constructs we separate the law from God's character of love.] The messenger should be able to say, "In the law is God's will; come, see for yourselves that the law is what Paul declared it to be--'holy, and just, and good.' "It reproves sin, it condemns the sinner, but it shows him his need of Christ, with whom is plenteous mercy and goodness and truth. Though the law cannot remit the penalty for sin, but charges the sinner with all his debt, Christ has promised abundant pardon to all who repent, and believe in His mercy. [Why can the law not remit the penalty of sin? Why can the law of health not remit the penalty of drinking poison? What can remit the penalty of drinking poison? What does "charge the sinner with all his debt" mean? It means diagnosis him accurately with all his defectiveness and deviations from God's design—a terminal condition. And the abundant pardon, what does it mean? It is to those who repent, they receive transformation and renewal to be restored to God's design, thus the cancer of sin remits, the character remits back to God's original intent.] The love of God is extended in abundance to the repenting, believing soul. The brand of sin upon the soul can be effaced only through the blood of the atoning Sacrifice. [What does this mean? What is a brand? It is a scar, a mark, a searing—sin is fear and selfishness and our hearts, minds, characters, souls have been seared with fear and selfishness and choices to act selfishly. The blood is a metaphor for what? What does the Bible say is in the blood? The life, and in this case the blood represents whose life? Jesus' and thus it is the life of Jesus that effaces the brand of sin upon the soul. Sin marred or branded our characters to look like Satan, selfish and fearful. Jesus, as a human being, was tempted in every way just like we are but without sin, and in His humanity He destroyed the infection of fear and selfishness and perfectly restored God's character into the human species, thus only through Christ's life, of which we are privileged to partake by trust, do we experience rebirth, with new heart motives of love and trust—the brand of sin is effaced or erased or replaced with the character of Christ!] No less an offering was required than the sacrifice of Him who was equal with the Father. [And to whom is this offering given? To whom did Jesus given His life? "For God so loved the world that" what? He gave His only begotten Son to Himself? No, He gave His only begotten Son to us and to the onlooking universe! Jesus was given to humanity as our Savior, to be the stairway, the connecting link, the way back, the cure, the remedy to fix and heal the sin condition give us eternal life! And this evidence, the truth about God and how God saves us is what angels long to look into. Why was an offer of one equal with the Father necessary? Why couldn't an angel's life suffice? Because the lies of Satan was not about angels, the lies were about God Himself. Our trust > is not to be placed in angels, our trust is to be placed in God. Our Creator is not an angel, our Creator is God Himself. Thus, only One equal with God could be our Savior, reveal the truth to dispel the lies and eradicate the infection of sin from humanity.] The work of Christ--His life, humiliation, death, and intercession for lost man--magnifies the law, and makes it honorable. [How? By showing that the law of love is the law of life, once it was restored perfectly into His humanity what was the result? Life—He rose again as the inevitable result of His perfect life. This is how Jesus could tell His disciples repeatedly that He would die and rise again, yet EGW could write that He could not see through the portals of the tomb. Jesus didn't tell His disciples that He would rise again because He was given a vision of the future or saw the future in prophetic dream. No, He was able to tell them this because He understood God's law and what He was sent here to accomplish and that was to destroy death and bring life and immortality to light!] {1SM 371.1}

What binds us to God? Love, and the law rightly understood is an expression of God's love, and is the protocol upon which all life is built

MONDAY

The title is "Time for Rediscovery" again, this is true, we can rediscover God, truths that God has revealed during the Sabbath hours—but are we restricted to discovering truth during the Sabbath? Will people who attend prayer meeting on Wednesday nights be unable to rediscover truth? If they do rediscover truth on Wednesday should they then conclude, "I rediscovered truth on Wednesday, Wednesday is holy!"

So—what makes the Sabbath holy? Is it an arbitrary decree or inherent?

How did Sabbath come into existence? It was created as a day of rest! After God revealed truth in love, creating a world operating upon the law of love, ecosystems in which everything is like a wheel within a wheel all interdependent giving for the benefit of another, God rested! God didn't use power to force His way.

Thus the Sabbath was created as a day invested with God's character—truth, presented in love, leaving others free. It was built, created, made, formed, designed as a day to rest, reflect, examine truth, grow closer to God. It is holy inherently. Thus, the Sabbath was created as a Time-Flag, a Signal, a Sign, a Pennant, which God in His infinite wisdom built into the weekly cycle like a recurring flare or a shooting star that we can experience every seven days.

Every seven days since this world was created the Sabbath has occurred and every living being passes through these hours. They are given opportunity after opportunity to see the Time-Flag to consider its importance, to appreciate the Creator God who is love and never coerces and participate in the freedoms our God of love provides.

Sunday as a day of rest and worship, however, – was legislated, declared to be holy by an act of arbitrary power of human beings – thus Sunday represents how created beings rule, by imposed law. It becomes a mark or evidence of imperialism and coercion and is exactly how the Dark Ages Church operated.

So, understand, the final battle is not about two days of worship, but two systems of governing—design law—truth, love freedom, versus imposed law—lies, selfishness, coercion.

The final conflict is between our Creator, who is a Ruler who sacrificed Himself to give and build up His creatures, and Satan, who uses power to rise up and rule over all others exploiting for his own advancement.

And notice the contrast of the two kingdoms of which the two days are signs:

- In God's kingdom the powerful use their power to uplift the weak, the first are those who go last, the greatest are those who are the servants of the least.
- In Satan's kingdom the powerful form governments in which the elite dominate the weak, the first ensure they stay first and keep the last, last; and the greatest are those who have the most power to enrich themselves by exploiting and taking from others.

Understanding all this, the Sabbath itself exists as a weekly evidence of God's kingdom of love but the Sabbath is not the kingdom of love. These days, Sabbath and Sunday are merely markers, signs, pennants—they are like flags. The US flag signifies the US government, but it is not the US government and neither is a day of the week the government of God.

A person can wear, wave, fly a US flag and be an enemy of the US government and so too can a person worship on the weekly Sabbath and crucify the Lord of the Sabbath.

Sabbath is a gift to humankind a day of liberty, a sign of freedom and an evidence of God's kingdom of love. Sunday is a day of legislation, a day which represents coercion, which takes away liberty and an evidence of the power systems of this world—Satan's kingdom.

We must mature beyond the day to the love and worship the Lord of the day and live in harmony with His methods such that we are holy beings as He is holy and only then we will keep the Sabbath holy all week long. Because all week long we will Remember the Sabbath and what it signifies and practice the methods of God in our character all week long!

TUESDAY

The title: Time for Learning Priorities

Again, learning priorities is not restricted to the Sabbath, however the Sabbath is an evidence that stands unique and rightly understood there are lessons that the Sabbath teaches, not just cognitively, but experientially, that are not fully learned until the Sabbath truth and practice is embraced.

Given what we have said today, what are some of those truths that help one prioritize?

Trusting God with one's heart, values, riches, success, the outcome of one's life, resting from work, such as working to get ahead, and trusting God to provide the way forward. In other words, God and His kingdom is a priority over our own success, over our earthly life.

Would this include prioritizing advancing God's kingdom over human government restrictions? Even COVID restrictions?

WEDNESDAY

Read the first paragraph, "Jesus respected and upheld the law of God…" Have you ever struggled with where to draw the line on law keeping? On Sabbath activities?

Where is the balance between adding rules and regulations and God's law?

For instance:

- animal sacrifices—original law of God or added?
- circumcision—original law of God or added?
- sanctuary services and their regulations—original law of God or added?
- 10 Commandments—original law of God or added?

Consider this quote from Patriarchs and Prophets:

> If man had kept the law of God, as given to Adam after his fall, preserved by Noah, and observed by Abraham, there would have been no necessity for the ordinance of circumcision. And if the descendants of Abraham had kept the covenant, of which circumcision was a sign, they would never have been seduced into idolatry, nor would it have been necessary for them to suffer a life of bondage in Egypt; they would have kept God's law in mind, and there would have been no necessity for it to be proclaimed from Sinai or engraved upon the tables of stone. And had the people practiced the principles of the Ten Commandments, there would have been no need of the additional directions given to Moses. PP 364.2

Paul writing to the Galatians said that the law was added, what law, ceremonial or moral law of 10 Commandments or both?

One of the founders of the SDA church was asked this question and she wrote:

> I am asked concerning the law in Galatians. What law is the schoolmaster to bring us to Christ? I answer: Both the ceremonial and the moral code of ten commandments. 1SM 233.1

Why were the 10 Commandments added? Because of sin, because of our sickness, and for what purpose? As a diagnostic instrument and protective hedge, just like parents add all kinds of rules for their children until the children grow up.

Even the lesson points out in the third paragraph, that the Sabbath "was 'made' (created) as a unique opportunity for people to learn of the character of God who made the Sabbath, and to learn experientially by valuing His creation." If the Sabbath was made or created for man, then it wasn't always in existence, which is true. Then the 10 Commandments, which contain the Sabbath Commandment didn't exist in eternity past either. This is obvious as sin didn't exist in eternity past and the Commandments describe how sin pass down from one generation to another.

But what did exist in eternity past is God's design laws upon which life was created to operate, the core being truth, love and freedom.

So what is the balance between God's design laws and the added rules and regulations?

Was the rule or regulation that the showbread was only to be eaten by the priests in the Holy Place in the presence of the High Priest on Sabbath part of God's original law in heaven, or in Eden, or was it added sometime later? It was added.

Why wasn't David punished for breaking this law? Because the law he broke was part of the theater, the learning lesson and he broke it in a way that was in harmony with the truths the theater was designed to teach.

Symbolically, the showbread represents Jesus, the Bread of Life, of which the priesthood of believers, as sinners on earth, are to partake. It is in partaking of Jesus that sinners are healed (saved) from sin and death and receive righteousness and life. And the priests are to take the bread of life to others and bring them into the church. So David represents people finding Jesus and partaking of Him and this brings life.

THURSDAY

A Time for Community—again, while the Sabbath can be a great time for community, do we have community only on the Sabbath? Can we have community on other days of the week?

Does our concept of community and how we interact and socialize change based upon the way we understand the Sabbath—either through design or imposed law? How?

2020 4Q Education: Lesson 13
Heaven, Education, and Eternal Learning

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Don't you love the title?

Read memory text: "Eye has not seen, nor ear heard, nor have entered into the heart of man the things which God has prepared for those who love Him." NKJV

What does this text mean to you?

The lesson points out in the second paragraph that, "education—regardless of the field of study—should be preparing us for the 'hereafter.'"

How do we prepare for the hereafter?

What is the most important thing to learn to prepare for the hereafter?

The third paragraph states, "After all, any school can pass on a lot of good information, a lot of good practical and helpful knowledge. But what good does it do if a person were to gain all that knowledge and yet lose eternal life?"

What is the most important thing to learn to prepare for the hereafter?

> Now this is eternal life: that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent. John 17:3 NIV84

What is the most important knowledge to have? The knowledge of God—but what kind of knowledge is this?

Some think the devil's know God—I would counter that they recognize God when He or Jesus are around, but they don't know Him. They have corrupted their minds; they have corrupted their knowledge of God with their own distortions, their own selfishness, their own fears, and thus what they think they know about God is not true.

> You believe that there is one God. You do well. Even the demons believe—and tremble! James 2:19 NKJV

Why do they tremble? Is God against them? Many Christians think of course God is against Satan and his demons, they might even read this Bible account:

> When Jesus got out of the boat, a man with an evil spirit came from the tombs to meet him. This man lived in the tombs, and no one could bind him any more, not even with a chain. For he had often been chained hand and foot, but he tore the chains apart and broke the irons on his feet. No one was strong enough to subdue him. Night and day among the tombs and in the hills he would cry out and cut himself with stones. When he saw Jesus from a distance, he ran and fell on his knees in front of him. He shouted at the top of his voice, "What do you want with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? Swear to God that you won't torture me!" Mark 5:1-7 NIV84

Did this demon need to fear Jesus? Is Jesus the source of pain, suffering and death? Is Jesus the kind of person who will torture His enemies, or did Jesus say to love our enemies and pray for those who would spitefully use us?

Then why is this demon afraid of Jesus? He recognizes who Jesus is, but does this demon know Jesus?

No, this demon, like all those who reject truth, damage their own minds, they lose the ability to know reality and in this case they no longer know God. They see God through their own false ideas. The demons are the ones who teach that God is a punisher, God is an inflictor of pain and torment, that God makes up laws that are like human laws and then punishes rule breakers.

They deny and distort the true cause of their suffering, which is sin in them and project it out blaming it on God. We see this in all sinners who are not responding to the Holy Spirit—the Spirit of truth. When one is responding to the Spirit of truth, one is convicted of sin, and one humbles themselves and acknowledges their sin and asks God for healing. But when one rejects the Spirit of truth, one denies they were wrong and blames others.

I see this all the time in addicts who have been arrested, not just for using their drugs, but for the crimes to pay for their drugs like check fraud, shoplifting, auto theft, breaking and entering etc. And they will complain about how they were mistreated. They will focus on some point of contention—it isn't fair, I couldn't afford a lawyer and they state appointed one and they weren't very good. And when I asked if they did it or not, because I am not interested in their historic legal difficulties, I am interested in healing their minds/hearts and that cannot happen if they won't be truthful with themselves, so when I ask if they did it or not they acknowledge the crime, yes, but blame the system for the negative outcome. Their going to jail wasn't because they committed some crime, it was because the system is rigged.

As people commit more sin and refuse to repent they damage the faculties of the mind that respond to the Holy Spirit—they sear the conscience as the Bible says. Healing cannot occur outside the laws of health, outside the truth, so people get worse and worse and in order to avoid the guilt that comes from the truth, what will such people attempt to do to others? Convince others that they are the victims, that the system is unfair, that it isn't their fault.

The demons are even more damaged in mind and filled with more hatred and take less responsibility and thus distort and blame things on God. They know about God, recognize it is Him, but they don't know Him. And if we don't know God, we are afraid of God.

Let's read God's encounter with the people at Sinai from Exodus 20:18-20:

> When the people saw the thunder and lightning and heard the trumpet and saw the mountain in smoke, they trembled with fear. They stayed at a distance and said to Moses, "Speak to us yourself and we will listen. But do not have God speak to us or we will die." Moses said to the people, "Do not be afraid. God has come to test you, so that the fear of God will be with you to keep you from sinning."

Why was Moses not afraid but the people were? Moses knew God, personally, intimately, as a friend. Moses knew God's character, God's heart, God's methods and knew God was not their enemy. Moses knew God's love and that God wanted to heal and protect the people from the damage they would do to themselves if they chose to violate His design laws for life.

But the people didn't know God, they knew about God. They knew God was real. They knew God was powerful. But they didn't know God's heart, God's character, God's love thus they had all kinds of misconceptions about God, including their misunderstanding of God's law.

Satan is the originator of the lies about God, which are centered in God's law. Satan is the one who made up the lie that God's law functions like human law and God, therefore, in order to be just, must punish sin.

This is from the book, The Desire of Ages:

> In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. DA 761.4

Satan's view is the common view taught around the world in essentially every system of government and religion, including Christianity—and IT IS A LIE!

God, at this time in human history, is calling for His friends, those who know Him, to give Him glory by revealing the truth about His character. We are called to enlighten the world with the glorious truth of God's character of love, that there is no need to be afraid of God—He is our Creator and Savior and source of life. We need to fear sin which damages us, distorts our thinking, obstructs our ability to know God, and severs our connection with God.

It is time in human history to make a right judgment about God and trust Him, and ask Him to examine us and diagnose us and heal our hearts and minds.

But until we reject the penal/legal lies we will never truly know God—we may believe in God, but our knowledge of Him is warped, our intimacy is obstructed, our effectiveness for Him is undermined.

Understand that the knowledge we want is experiential knowledge, not mere fact knowledge. The facts of history that God has revealed through Christ are sufficient to dispel the lies about God so that we can reach out in trust and open our hearts to Him. When we do His Spirit indwells our hearts and minds and we begin an intimate personal experience with Him. We know Him personally; we spend time with Him, sharing, talking, rejoicing, admiring, consulting, with Him and by beholding the beauty of His character as revealed in Jesus, in Scripture, in nature we become more and more like Him as we choose to align ourselves with Him saying yes to Him and His methods and no to the lies and the methods of this world.

Understanding the difference between recognizing the person of God and knowing Him, we can understand how Jesus said to Nicodemus ""I tell you the truth, no one can see the kingdom of God unless he is born again" (John 3:3 NIV84) and how Jesus also said to those who crucified Him, "'you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of the Power,' and 'coming with the clouds of heaven.'" (Mark 14:61-62 NRSV) And the Bible teaches, "Look, he is coming with the clouds, and every eye will see him, even those who pierced him…" (Revelation 1:7 NIV84)

These people see with their eyes the power, the person of Jesus coming in glory, but they do not see the kingdom of God, because the kingdom of God is not a kingdom of power that causes fear and intimidates others to cower or causes people to be coerced. The kingdom of God is the kingdom of love where the king left all power behind to sacrifice Himself to lift up and save His creatures.

The kingdom of heaven is NOT the kingdoms of this world which operate upon Satan's methods of power over others, with a few ruling elites dominating and exploiting the masses.

The most important knowledge to have to prepare for heaven is the knowledge of God, His character and methods of love, which requires we reject the imposed law lie, with its false penal substitution theology that makes God out to be the dispenser of pain, the inflictor of punishment, the source of death.

SUNDAY

The lesson points us to the question about the fate of the dead—what would you say to someone who asks what happens when people die?

"Now may the God of peace himself make you completely holy and may your spirit and soul and body be kept entirely blameless at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." 1 Thessalonians 5:23

Humans are tripartite: body, soul, and spirit—just like a computer.

- Body > Soma > Hardware
- Soul > Psyche > Software/Mind/Individuality
- Spirit > Pneuma > Energy/Breath of Life

To be operational requires all three components.

When Our Computers Run Out of Power, Into What State Do They Go?

They "sleep." And How does the Bible describe those who "die"?

They "sleep," but as Jesus said, those who believe in Him will never die.

Martin Luther wrote:

> "It is enough for us to know that souls do not leave their bodies to be threatened by the torments and punishments of hell, but enter a prepared bedchamber in which they sleep in peace." (Weimarer Ausgabe, 43, 360, 21–23 (to Genesis 25:7–10); also Exegetica opera latina, Vol 5, 6 1833 p. 120 and the English translation: Luther's Works, American Edition, 55 vols. (St. Louis: CPH), 4:313.)

When a computer runs out of power into what state does it go?

- When your computer "sleeps," it is not destroyed.
- What happens if your computer is backed up on the "cloud" and then someone destroys your machine?
- Don't be afraid of those who can kill the body (hardware) but cannot kill the soul (Psyche/Software). Matthew 10:28

So what happens when we die?

- The Body (soma)—hardware—disintegrates to dust.
  Genesis 3:19; Psalm 44:25; Ecclesiastes 3:20
- The Spirit (pneuma)—life energy—returns to God.
  Ecclesiastes 12:7
- The Soul (psyche)—software/individuality—is safe with Christ in heaven, stored in the Lamb's book of life; the heavenly "servers." 2 Corinthians 5:6–8; Revelation 3:5, 21:7
- The person "sleeps," waiting to be "downloaded" into new hardware, a new body.

This is so much better than the Eastern Philosophies which have merged life energy and individuality, (energy and software) and teach that because energy is neither created nor destroyed but conserved, reused, that when a person dies, the energy returns in some other form, so the person who used that energy returns and they teach reincarnation.

However, the Bible is much more accurate to reality, because it was inspired by the God who built reality. And the Bible teaches that life energy (spirit—breath of life) and individuality (soul—software) are separate and distinct. Thus, when a person dies the energy may be reused, but the individuality, the software, is stored on the heavenly servers, the Lamb's book of life.

Note Paul's description of the resurrection:

> Brothers, we do not want you to be ignorant about those who fall asleep, or to grieve like the rest of men, who have no hope. We believe that Jesus died and rose again and so we believe that God will bring with Jesus those who have fallen asleep in him. The Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever. 1 Thessalonians 4:13–18

What is the difference between first death and second death?

The Bible uses the actual term "second death" only in the book of Revelation in 2:11, 20:6, 20:14 and 21:8. The first two times the term is used the Bible tells us that the second death has no power over the righteous, the victorious in Christ, those who arise in the first resurrection. It is in the last two uses that the Bible gives us some definition of what the second death actually is:

Rev 20:14 "The lake of fire is the second death"

Rev 21:8 "their place will be in the fiery lake of burning sulfur. This is the second death."

According to Revelation the second death occurs in the lake of fire or dying in the lake of fire is the second death

Many commentators note that another difference between the first and second death is the first death is the death from which a resurrection occurs but the second death is the death from which there is no resurrection. There is sound Biblical evidence for this conclusion (1Cor 15:12-21, 42-49, 1Thes 4:16, Rev 2:11, 20:5,6,14, 21:8).

Christ makes a distinction between two types of death in Matthew 10:28 where He notes that the first death can destroy the body, but not the soul. It is the death that destroys the soul that is the one the righteous avoid.

And, as we have seen, the Greek word translated "soul" is "psyche" which means "mind, identity, individuality."

So, the second death is the death where a person's individuality is destroyed, not just the body, it is a death from which there is no resurrection.

Has anyone yet died this second, eternal death, in which their individuality was destroyed and from which there is no resurrection?

Jesus Christ "destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light" 2 Timothy 1:9,10. Jesus was not destroyed by death; His death was the means of actually destroying death!

So, what is the fate of the dead?

Every person, righteous or wicked, that has died throughout history thus far, died the first death—the death of sleep and all will rise again, either to the resurrection of life or the resurrection of damnation.

But why raise the wicked? If they are lost, why not just leave them dead?

- Because God is love and every person is given true freedom to determine their own eternal destiny.
- They are raised to finish their lives.
- And in so doing, they reveal that God's actions in putting people in sleep mode in no way determined their destiny.

At the beginning of the 1000 years Jesus returns as described by Paul in 1Thes above and the righteous dead are raised, the righteous living are transformed and join Jesus in the air. The wicked dead stay asleep and the wicked living are put into sleep-mode.

At the end of the 1000 years

- Jesus, the saints, the New Jerusalem, and the holy angels come to earth.
- The unrepentant are raised to life (souls downloaded from heavenly servers into imperfect bodies) with the same characters and train of thoughts as when they were put into sleep mode—just as a computer is turned on after years in sleep mode. Revelation 20:5

- An unspecified period of time goes by while the unrepentant prepare for war and march on the New Jerusalem. Revelation 20:7–9
- The New Jerusalem is on earth, with Christ and the saints inside, and the city gates are open the entire time! Revelation 21:25

- Yet no one comes in! Why? And what does it reveal?
- All the unrepentant stay out because they are so settled into Satan's lies about God that they don't want to go in.
- They all stay out by their own choices. Thus, it is shown that God's action to power-down people into sleep mode in no way determined their destinies.
- Even with the evidence of the New Jerusalem on earth, they won't be convinced.
- Each person finishes their own life by their own choice—consistent with the laws of love and liberty; i.e., no coercion ever!

One of the founders of the SDA church described the events at the end of the 1000 years this way:

> "At last the order to advance is given, and the countless host moves on,—an army such as was never summoned by earthly conquerors, such as the combined forces of all ages since war > began on earth could never equal. Satan, the mightiest of warriors, leads the van, and his angels unite their forces for this final struggle. Kings and warriors are in his train, and the multitudes follow in vast companies, each under its appointed leader. With military precision, the serried ranks advance over the earth's broken and uneven surface to the city of God. By command of Jesus, the gates of the New Jerusalem are closed, and the armies of Satan surround the city, and make ready for the onset. Now Christ again appears to the view of his enemies. Far above the city, upon a foundation of burnished gold, is a throne, high and lifted up. Upon this throne sits the Son of God, and around him are the subjects of his kingdom. The power and majesty of Christ no language can describe, no pen portray. The glory of the Eternal Father is enshrouding his Son. The brightness of his presence fills the city of God, and flows out beyond the gates, flooding the whole earth with its radiance." GC 664

What is being described? What is the brightness of his presence? Heb 12:29, our God is a consuming fire. Daniel 7 tells us that rivers of fire come out from the throne of God and billions stand it this fire. This is the fire of infinite love and infinite truth coming out of an infinite God. And what happens in the hearts and minds of people who have hardened themselves in fear and selfishness when they are exposed to infinite love and truth?

Consider this quote from the book The Great Controversy:

> Could those whose lives have been spent in rebellion against God be suddenly transported to Heaven, and witness the high, the holy state of perfection that ever exists there,—every soul filled with love; every countenance beaming with joy; enrapturing music in melodious strains rising in honor of God and the Lamb; and ceaseless streams of light flowing upon the redeemed from the face of Him who sitteth upon the throne,—could those whose hearts are filled with hatred of God, of truth and holiness, mingle with the heavenly throng and join their songs of praise? Could they endure the glory of God and the Lamb?—No, no; years of probation were granted them, that they might form characters for Heaven; but they have never trained the mind to love purity; they have never learned the language of Heaven, and now it is too late. A life of rebellion against God has unfitted them for Heaven. Its purity, holiness, and peace would be torture to them; the glory of God would be a consuming fire. They would long to flee from that holy place. They would welcome destruction, that they might be hidden from the face of Him who died to redeem them. The destiny of the wicked is fixed by their own choice. Their exclusion from Heaven is voluntary with themselves, and just and merciful on the part of God. GC88 542.3

Do you see how this is all reality, design law, God granting each person complete freedom to choose their own destiny. No one is kept out of heaven by God, they are kept out by themselves. God doesn't determine the fate of the wicked, they determine their own fate.

Assume that you are saved and in heaven and you have a loved one that is lost. Does it make a difference to you, your ability to love and trust God, the joy and peace you will experience if your loved ones are lost because God keeps them out because they didn't claim the proper legal payment to pay for their sins and therefore God then uses His power to torture and kill them, OR God wants them in but they hate everything about God and God's kingdom of love and choose to die eternally rather than be with God and the saved?

Would it make a difference to see this with your own eyes rather than have God say, "Trust me, they just didn't want to be here"?

After all see with their own eyes, that every lost person chose to die rather than to be with God and the saved, will there be any doubt as to why they are lost? Will this close the door to any intelligent being doubting God again? But what if God didn't raise them, and instead just told us the truth and asked us to trust Him, will that erase all doubt as effectively?

The lesson states in the fourth paragraph, "A million years, even a billion years, might not possess enough good moments to make up for the bad. Eternity alone can balance all things out, and then some."

What do you think about this? Something about it just doesn't sound right to me. The part I like is that no matter what we suffer here it will fade into insignificance when we are finally in heaven.

EGW wrote:

> When sinful man can discern the inexpressible love of God in giving His Son to die upon the cross, we shall better understand that it is infinite gain to overcome as Christ overcame. And we shall understand that it is eternal loss if we gain the whole world, with all its pleasure and glory, and yet lose the soul. Heaven is cheap enough at any cost. Confrontation 78

Do you agree? Well it is truly hard for us to fully know this reality until we are there, but can we have faith that this will be our attitude, no matter what we have suffered, in heaven we will rejoice and say that heaven and life as God designed it, is worth it?

But, what of this idea of balancing things out, making up for the bad?

Is there "making up" for the bad?

Does this imply that God needs to make it up to us? Does it imply that some wrong has been done to us and that it will take God all of eternity to make it up to us?

This is the kind of thinking one gets with imposed law. A child who gets molested didn't do anything wrong to deserve such horrible treatment—they are innocent, it isn't their fault, so God will make it up to them…hmmm…

Or, Christ's followers, go about doing good, blessing others, helping the needy and get imprisoned, persecuted, tortured, martyred—they didn't do anything to deserve what happened, and God will spend eternity making it up to them…

What do you think about this? Does this sound right or wrong to you?

What is a more accurate understanding of all this in light of reality, in light of God's design laws?

Does God have any debt He owes us that He needs to clear, any balance sheet He needs to settle with any human being? Why not?

But what about the innocent child who is exploited and abused—it isn't their fault, why doesn't God have a debt to settle with that child?

Let me ask the question this way: Are you and I individually worse off because Adam sinned, than WE would have been had Adam and Eve never sinned?

Let us be clear—Adam and Eve's sin was sin, it was wrong, there is no justification for it. Humanity the species would be infinitely better off had Adam and Eve not sinned—all suffer and death on earth would have been avoided had they stayed loyal. Yet, would you and I be better off had they never sinned?

We must not allow the fact that Adam and Eve's sin was evil to cause us to accept a new lie—that we, as their descendants, are worse off because of their sin than WE would have been. Why not? Because WE would not exist had Adam and Eve not sinned—other sinless humans would have been born, but we can say that not one of us would have been born, because we were all born in sin conceived in iniquity. While Adam and Eve's sin is inexcusable, we are here today because our individual family trees formed as a result of all kinds of sins and conflicts.

Consider the following: Was King David, better off or worse off because of the slaughter of Jericho and the rescue of Rahab? If Jericho had not been conquered, which included killing men, women, and children, Rahab would not have joined with Israel and would not have become the wife of Salmon, the mother of Boaz and the great-great-grandmother of King David. In other words, if these events hadn't happened David would not have been born. Was David better or worse off because of what happened to Jericho?

So, how does this apply to the question of God clearing some balance sheet to people who have suffered on this Earth?

Once Adam and Eve sinned what would have happened to them had God NOT intervened? They would have died—and what would then have been the result for the human race? No human would exist.

Once they changed themselves from loyal beings to sinners, what is the only kind of beings that they could produce from themselves? Sinners, thus every human is born in sin, conceived in iniquity—but this is not a legal status, it is a condition of being out of harmony with God. We are born with a terminal condition that God has been working through Jesus to cure.

What is the only way God can cure the hearts and minds of people? By winning them to love and trust. God cannot use power to save sinners by force because to do so would be to make them robots; it would destroy their individuality and thus God works via the power of truth, love, freedom to bring us to choose to align ourselves with Him.

So, the entire history of sin on Earth is occurring because of God's grace, because of Jesus the Lamb who committed Himself to be slain from the foundation of the world. God doesn't owe us anything or have any balance sheets to settle, we owe Him everything!

MONDAY

The lesson quotes Revelation 21:3,4: "God himself will be with them and be their God. He will wipe every tear from their eyes. There will be no more death or mourning or crying or pain, for the old order of things has passed away."

What does this text mean to you?

What does this text say about the idea that the sins get erased from the records and the memories of people so that we won't know what sins have been committed?

Will we know? And will we have wounds that need healing?

Will we have losses that need grieving? But once we have healed, once we have grieved, then there will never again be any sorrow, injury, pain, because all the old sinful things are eternally gone from the universe.

What of the idea there will be no more death—is that just human death or also animal death? Animals also, so will there be slaughterhouses? Will we eat animals in an Earth made new?

What about plants will they die?

Here is one Bible commentary sharing insights into Adam and Eve's perspective after sin, is this just metaphor, analogy, rhetoric to communicate the pain of loss or is there literal things being described?

> As they witnessed in drooping flower and falling leaf the first signs of decay, Adam and his companion mourned more deeply than men now mourn over their dead. When the goodly trees cast off their leaves, the scene brought to mind the stern fact that death is the portion of every living thing. From Eternity Past 30

Does this imply that prior to sin plants didn't die?

Consider this description of what a new earth may be like, from one of the founders of the SDA church, is this to be taken literally, or verbal imagery to inspire us to consider things beyond our imagination?

> And I saw another field full of all kinds of flowers, and as I plucked them, I cried out, well they will never fade. Next I saw a field of tall grass, most glorious to behold; it was living green, and had a reflection of silver and gold, as it waved proudly to the glory of King Jesus. Then we entered a field full of all kinds of beasts—the lion, the lamb, the leopard and the wolf, altogether in perfect union; [Isaiah 11:6-9.] we passed through the midst of them, and they followed on peaceably after. Then we entered a wood, not like the dark woods we have here, no, no; but light, and all over glorious; the branches of the trees waved to and fro, and we all cried out, "we will dwell safely in the wilderness and sleep in this woods." [Ezekiel 34:25.] We passed through the woods, for we were on our way to Mount Zion. As we were travelling along, we met a company who were also gazing at the glories of the place. I noticed red as a border on their garments; their crowns were brilliant; their robes were pure white. As we greeted them, I asked Jesus who they were? He said they were martyrs that had been slain for him. With them was an innumerable company of little ones; they had a hem of red on their garments also. [Jeremiah 31:15-17. Matthew 2:18.] Mount Zion was just before us, and on the Mount sat a glorious temple, and about it were seven other mountains, on which grew roses and lilies, [2 Esdras 2:19.] and I saw the little ones climb, or if they chose, use their little wings and fly to the top of the mountains, and pluck the never fading flowers. There were all kinds of trees around the temple to beautify the place; the box, the pine, the fir. the oil, the myrtle, the pomegranate, and the fig tree bowed down with the weight of its timely figs, that made the place look all over glorious… [Isaiah 60:13. Isaiah 41:19.] A Word to the Little Flock 17.

Is this literal or just beautiful word image to inspire us to imagine the wonders of an Earth made new?

Read first paragraph, "A Christian was talking…" What would you say to someone who had this attitude about eternal life?

On the one hand, it is exactly the mindset of the lost—they actually don't want to continue living, that is why they are lost. They voluntarily give up their lives to God because they would rather not exist than live in a universe as God designed and built it, a universe of love and truth.

TUESDAY

"Now we see but a poor reflection as in a mirror; then we shall see face to face. Now I know in part; then I shall know fully, even as I am fully known." (1Corinthians 13:12 NIV84)

What does this text mean to you?

Why do you think so much is hidden to us?

When we get to heaven what are the first three things you want to discover the answers to?

What do you think of this description?

> All the treasures of the universe will be open to the study of God's redeemed. Unfettered by mortality, they wing their tireless flight to worlds afar,—worlds that thrilled with sorrow at the spectacle of human woe, and rang with songs of gladness at the tidings of a ransomed soul. With unutterable delight the children of earth enter into the joy and the wisdom of unfallen beings. They share the treasures of knowledge and understanding gained through ages upon ages in contemplation of God's handiwork. With undimmed vision they gaze upon the glory of creation,—suns and stars and systems, all in their appointed order circling the throne of Deity. Upon all things, from the least to the greatest, the Creator's name is written, and in all are the riches of his power displayed. GC88 677.3

WEDNESDAY

In the hereafter, will we learn? Will our learning include making mistakes? Or do we have the idea that no mistakes will ever be made in the hereafter?

What brings you more joy—the joy of discovering something for yourself, of study, research, hypothesis, and the epiphany, of someone telling you all the answers?

If Albert Einstein is in heaven do you think he might continue studying astrophysics and how God built the universe to operate? Might he work complex math equations to describe these operations? Will he know all the answers instantly, or might he struggle to advance in his understanding? And could we see him asking Jesus about his latest equation and Jesus comes over and makes one little adjustment in the math and says, “Try it now.”

Do we allow for this type of mistake making or do we have some idea that mistake making is sin?

THURSDAY

Jesus the Great Teacher—what kind of teacher to you understand Jesus to be?

What teaching methods does He use?

- Parables
- Object lessons
- Examples from nature
- Evidence
- Reason

- Logic
- Intrigue—drawing in the student to be curious
- Making complex things simple, but still with depths of complexity

In heaven, what are the first three questions you want to ask Jesus?

2021 1Q Isaiah: Lesson 1
Crisis of Identity

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

INTRODUCTION

- 930 BC Israel split into northern and southern kingdoms
- 722 BC the northern kingdom of Israel fell to Assyria
- 598-582 BC Judah fell captive to Babylon

Isaiah was son of Amoz and related to the royal family. He started his ministry toward the close of the reign of Uzziah (Azariah, 790–739 B.C.), during the coregency of Jotham (PK 305) sometime around 745 to 739 B.C. His term of ministry continued for at least 60 years (PK 310), spanning the reigns of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah.

Read the second to the last paragraph of the Introduction, "Isaiah counseled kings…" This highlights the central theme of the entire Old Testament—the coming Messiah! After the fall of Adam, all humans would be eternally lost if not for Jesus, and the Savior was promised right there in Eden. The entire OT is the story of the battle between the forces of Satan working to stop God's plan of salvation by stopping the arrival of Jesus and God working to keep open the avenue for the Messiah.

Initially, when the world had only one language, when people lived centuries, and the specific family tree had not been identified Satan worked to corrupt and harden every human being and almost succeeded, but God intervened in mercy with a flood to keep open the avenue for the Messiah. Shortly thereafter, God promised Abraham, Isaac and Jacob that it would be through their descendants the promised Messiah would come. From that point onward Satan's primary focus was on destroying the descendants of Jacob as they were the ones through whom the Messiah would come. That is why the Bible focuses on their family and not the rest of the world.

This gives great insight into everything occurring in the OT, why God sometimes acted to put people to sleep in the grave—He was NOT punishing sin as the punishment for sin is eternal death and also comes after the judgment not before. No, God was working to keep open the avenue for Messiah.

The story of the Assyrians attacking, Isaiah's prophecy, Hezekiah's faith gives us another lesson—that is trusting God with outcomes, not just our personal issues but trusting God with movements of nations, that when it appears things are going against God's people, God has a plan and is working toward that plan. In Isaiah's day it was keeping open the avenue for the Messiah—what is God working toward today and how is Satan working to counter God's plan?

God, in Isaiah's day, was working toward the first advent of Jesus, and is now working toward the second advent.

What would activities from God that would be preparing the world to meet Jesus look like?

- Sharing the true gospel of God's kingdom of love, which reveals God's character of love, and His design law methods and the free gift of salvation offered through Jesus
- The principles of God being lived out in His people—truth, love, freedom—thus we give God glory by revealing His character in our lives
- Greater love among God's people for God and others, including our enemies, those who would mistreat us, misrepresent us, and persecute us
- All of this exposes, draws a contrast, between the truth about our Creator God of love and the false Christianity of the Dark Ages with its imposed law lie and dictator punishing god. Thus we call people out of Babylon the confused system of legal ritualistic religions into God's reality—His kingdom of love, truth and freedom.

What would activities from Satan that obstruct people getting ready to meet Jesus look like?

- False religion—lies about God, denial of God, evolutionism, secularism, there is no God
- Any process that instills fear—the roar of the lion—because fear incites more selfishness, undermines love and divides society—do we see this today?

Like Hezekiah we will face overwhelming threats from sources we do not have the power to defeat—we must use the weapons of God—the shield of trust and the sword of truth.

SABBATH

What do you think of the title? A Crisis of Identity

The lesson points out that cows know the way home and a lost child recognizes its own mother, but the Judeans had forgotten that they belonged to God. What about Christians today? Do we know our identity, or have we also forgotten our Creator God and have instead identified with the Roman imperial dictator god who must punish sin?

How do we show that we know who we are and are children of the true God, the Creator God of heaven?

- By calling ourselves Christians? If that is so, then does that mean everyone who calls themselves Christian are children of God? Does it mean that there are no children of God who call themselves something else? So, does calling ourselves Christian differentiate the children of God from those who are not?
- Keeping the Sabbath? It is to be a sign that we are God's people right? So if we keep the Sabbath does that show that we are God's children? Does that mean that everyone who keeps the Sabbath are children of God and not His enemy? What about those who crucified Christ, they were Sabbath-keepers and Jesus said they were sons of their father the devil? So, does Sabbath keeping differentiate the children of God from the children of the enemy?

So how do we show that we know who we are and that we are children of the true God?

Jesus said, ""A new command I give you: Love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another. By this all men will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another." (John 13:34-35 NIV84)

What does this love look like? Genuine love is more than compassionate and sympathetic feelings, genuine love is an intelligent love, it is a truth-based love, it is a love that works in harmony with God and God's principles for life. Thus, God's love motivates to action, to living lives that harmonize with God and will reveal truth that bring God's methods to bear that are redemptive and healing. The truth of God that heals is like a sword, or scalpel, that cuts away lies, falsehood, and practices that are out of harmony with God's design for life. Just like a surgeon cuts away gangrenous flesh.

Thus, sometimes, love severs relationships because some of the people in our lives are toxic, destructive, hardened against God and working to destroy us. But for those who are working with God there is a continual advancement in the methods of God and we constantly grow closer to those who are also following God in their lives.

Consider this quote from the book Acts of the Apostles:

> The church is God's appointed agency for the salvation of men. It was organized for service, and its mission is to carry the gospel to the world. [What is the purpose of the church? Service, which means to love others, and the mission is what? Carry the gospel to the world, which is what? The good news about God and His kingdom of love—which requires people come to worship the Creator, which requires they understand God's laws are design laws. As long as we teach God's laws are rules like humans make we take the false Roman god to the world.] From the beginning it has been God's plan that through His church shall be reflected to the world His fullness and His sufficiency. The members of the church, those whom He has called out of darkness into His marvelous light, are to show forth His glory. [What darkness? The darkness about Him and His kingdom of love. What light? The light that Jesus revealed—He is the light that lightens all people, about what? "If you have seen me you have seen the Father." Jesus' primary revelation was the truth about God that has been misrepresented by Satan's lies about God's law. And we are to show Him glory how? By having His law of love written in our hearts such that we practice His methods in how we treat others. We must also become lovers of the truth, people who love to grow in truth as it is revealed.] The church is the repository of the riches of the grace of Christ; and through the church will eventually be made manifest, even to "the principalities and powers in heavenly places," the final and full display of the love of God. Ephesians 3:10. AA 9.1 [What is the final and full display of the love of God? When did Jesus give the greatest display of the love of God? At the cross—how is this the greatest display? When do we give the greatest display? Is it when things are going well, or when things are difficult? Is the greatest display of love when we love those who love us, or when we love our enemies? Do we have opportunity today to show God's love?]

Consider this quote by one of the founders of the SDA church, again focusing on our identity, how the true children of God are differentiated from those who are not:

> Satan is always seeking to cause dissension, for well he knows that by this means he can most effectually counteract the work of God. [Satan is a divider, his methods, actions, movements stir up conflict, hostility, hatred, division. Satan uses deceit to stir up two big emotions, fear and a sense of being wronged—"it's not fair." These two emotions, then cause people to view others as threats to them and groups divide. Have we seen movements in the world recently that have caused greater division? Have we seen messaging bombarding society that increases fear and a sense of unfairness? But notice that what counters these movements of Satan effectively is love—when we actually love others we are not divided. When your grandchild doesn't wear a mask and comes running up to you to give you a hug, you are not angry, you don't yell, you don't want them punished. But if the child is not yours and you see them running around a store do you have the same smile, the same compassion, or does fear take over and you feel incensed, irritated, do you want to find a manager and have their parent educated? Fear makes us concerned with self and protecting self. When we love we value others more than self.] We should not give place to his devices. Christ's prayer for His disciples was, "That they all may be one; as You, Father, art in Me, and I in You, that they also may be one in us; that the world may believe that You have sent Me." John 17:21. All true laborers for God will work in harmony with this prayer. In their efforts to advance the work, all will manifest that oneness of sentiment and practice which reveals that they are God's witnesses, that they love one another. To a world that is broken up by discord and strife, their love and unity will testify to their connection with heaven. It is the convincing evidence of the divine character of their mission.—Testimonies for the Church 7:156, 157 (1902).

I would like to suggest that the evidence that we are true members of God's kingdom is that we love one another as God loves us. That we are not controlled by fear and envy but by love and truth, and that we live out God's methods trusting God with outcomes that we cannot control.

SUNDAY

Let's read Isaiah 1:2-20 and consider what might happen if at your church someone gave this message—not merely reading Isaiah as a historic Scripture given to people over 2500 years ago, but consider it as if this message was spoken to your church today as an original message—I have edited it to be applicable to the church today:

2 Hear, O heavens! Listen, O earth!
For the LORD has spoken:
"I reared children and brought them up,
but they have rebelled against me.
3 The ox knows his master,
the donkey his owner's manger,

but [Christians do] not know, my people do not understand."

4 Ah, sinful [church],
a people loaded with guilt,
a brood of evildoers, children given to corruption!
[You] have forsaken the LORD;
[You] have spurned the Holy One of Israel and turned [your] backs on him.

5 Why should you be beaten anymore?
Why do you persist in rebellion?
Your whole head is injured,
your whole heart afflicted.
6 From the [bottom] of your foot to the top of your head [nothing is healthy]— only wounds and welts and open sores
[that are not cleaned and] bandaged or soothed with [ointment].

7 Your countries are [decaying], your cities [are burned with fire and looted];
[your business are being ruined] right before you,
laid waste as when overthrown by strangers.
8 The [Bride of Christ] is left like a [open store in a riot], like a [unlocked car during a crime spree],
like a city under siege.
9 Unless the LORD Almighty had left us some survivors, we would have become like Sodom,
we would have been like Gomorrah.

10 Hear the word of the LORD,
you [church-leaders] of Sodom;
listen to the law of our God,
you people of Gomorrah!
11 "The multitude of your [rituals]— what are they to me?" says the LORD.
"I have more than enough [baptisms],
[ordinations] and [foot washing services];
I have no pleasure

in [your praise bands or communion services].
12 When you come to appear before me, who has asked this of you,
this trampling of my courts?
13 Stop [preaching] meaningless [sermons]!
Your [prayers] are detestable to me.
[Sundays], Sabbaths and [camp-meetings]—
I cannot bear your evil assemblies.
14 Your [Christian concerts] and your [worship services]
my soul hates.
They have become a burden to me;
I am weary of bearing them.
15 When you spread out your hands in prayer,
I will hide my eyes from you;
even if you offer many prayers,
I will not listen.
Your hands are full of blood;
16 wash and make yourselves clean.
Take your evil deeds out of my sight!
Stop doing wrong,
17 learn to do right!
Seek justice,
encourage the oppressed.
Defend the cause of the fatherless, plead the case of the widow.

18 "Come now, let us reason together," says the LORD.
"Though your sins are like scarlet,
they shall be as white as snow;
though they are red as crimson,
they shall be like wool.
19 If you are willing and obedient,
you will eat the best from the land;
20 but if you resist and rebel,
you will be devoured by the sword."
For the mouth of the LORD has spoken. (NIV84)

If this were spoken to you and your church, what would be the likely response?

Is this message appropriate for the church today, or does it only apply to ancient Judah?

Why did the religious services of Israel become a burden to God? Why did He get tired of them? Because they were meaningless, done by rote. Because the people no longer understood that all the various rituals were teaching tools, so they were no longer learning, instead all the rituals became an end unto themselves and thus darkened rather than enlightened the mind.

The issue in salvation is the actual condition of the heart and mind. God is working to free our minds from lies and the infection of selfishness. This requires that we engage, we think, we reason and when we reason with God we grow in the truth and we are transformed in the process. But when we don't reason, when we instead accept either lies, or merely accept rituals as having some benefit toward salvation, then we close ourselves off from God and become more corrupt.

This is what was happening in Israel, and sadly what happened to the church of the Dark Ages, the Reformation brought light, got people thinking, examining evidence, resulting in rejection of many errors, falsehoods and gradual growth in the church—however, today the church is again, to a great degree, in darkness, deceived by lies about God's law as they have rejected the advancing light.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "The same hands…" What does the lesson mean by, "By mistreating other members of the covenant community, they were showing contempt for the Protector of all Israelites"?

Why didn't they say by mistreating other people? Was it okay to mistreat people who were not Israelites?

Didn't God call Israel to be a priesthood to all people and nations?

Is it less damaging to a person to cheat, murder, or steal from a non-Israelite than an Israelite?

Would the Israelites become more godly if they banded together to rape, murder and pillage the non-Israelites—acting like the raiding Viking hordes?

Why is sinning against people sinning against the Lord? Why did Jesus say,

> "They also will answer, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or a stranger or needing clothes or sick or in prison, and did not help you?' "He will reply, 'I tell you the truth, whatever you did not do for one of the least of these, you did not do for me.' (Matthew 25:44-45 NIV84).

Is this just metaphorical—or is it actual, literal in some way we don't fully comprehend?

Consider these texts in regard to doing to others is doing to God, do they shed any light?

- Now you are the body of Christ, and each one of you is a part of it. (1 Co 12:27 NIV84).

- speaking the truth in love, we will in all things grow up into him who is the Head, that is, Christ. From him the whole body, joined and held together by every supporting ligament, grows and builds itself up in love, as each part does its work. (Eph 4:15–16).

What is the reality that this metaphor of a body is trying to teach us? Remember, metaphor is only metaphor if it is connected to some reality—if there is no reality, then it is fantasy. So, this idea of a body and many parts all connected as one, is pointing us to some larger reality—what is it?

Are we actually connected to God in some way beyond our current comprehension?

Remember this quotation from EGW:

> It is God's plan that every part of His government shall depend on every other part, the whole as a wheel within a wheel, working with entire harmony. He moves upon human forces, causing His Spirit to touch invisible chords, and the vibration rings to the extremity of the universe.—Manuscript 22, 1897. Ev 93.1

Does the fact that the chords are invisible mean that they are not real? Are radio not real because they are invisible?

Is there some aspect of God's universe, that we cannot fully comprehend, that connects God to everything, including us?

If we consider the metaphor of the body—is every cell of your body part of you? Yes, but is every cell you? We are part of God, but we are not God.

If someone were to take a knife and cut off your big toe, would you be hurt, injured, feel pain and loss? Does God feel pain and loss when His children are cut off from Him by sin and He loses them eternally?

Is there an aspect of how sin not only injures us, but also actually hurts God? If we consider this to be real, then do we see why Satan seeks to destroy every child of God because he hates God and in this way he can hurt God and cause Him pain?

Read second paragraph, "Of course, God Himself…" What was the purpose of the rituals? To educate and teach! Was there ever any salvation benefit in the rituals themselves?

Again the lesson emphasizes repenting from unjust actions toward other members of the covenant community—did they not need to repent from unjust actions toward people who were not part of Israel?

When are rituals beneficial and when are the obstacles?

Can you think of any examples that are beneficial today or are obstacles today?

I have an entire chapter in my book The God-Shaped Heart in which I explore ritual and metaphor, but here is a small section from that chapter:

> When symbolism is clung to in minds that remain infected with imposed-law constructs, not only is healing impaired but also division and fragmentation are incited. Imagine that during the Dark Ages, when the Black Death was ravaging millions, we had a cure (e.g., penicillin, an antibiotic that cures bacterial infections) and wanted to teach people how to identify symptoms of the disease so they could take the medicine if the symptoms appeared. But because the masses could not read, the use of books, magazines, or flyers would do no good. Therefore, we devise a play, a little drama to act out what to do in case the sickness arises.
> We have actors come on stage with red circles drawn on their skin; they act feverous and weak. Another actor playing the role of healer, perhaps in a white robe, sees the symptoms and pulls out a red jelly bean (symbolic of the penicillin in its red capsule) and gives it to the sick ones. Then the red marks are washed off, and those who were formerly sick jump up and dance with joy. A simple play to illustrate a simple lesson: if you get these symptoms, take the remedy and you will get well.
> As the years go by and the play is enacted from town to town, one group runs out of red jellybeans, so instead they use blue ones. But this is met with stern opposition from members of the original acting troupe who have always used red jelly beans. They insist that only red jelly beans are to be used because the penicillin capsules are red and red more closely represents the reality. Soon the two groups split forming separate acting companies, each claiming that only their play rightly teaches how to be saved from the plague. Does it really matter if the jellybean is red or blue so long as the people take the actual antibiotic when the disease occurs? Or worse, what if people forgot reality and believed that there was some potency or power in the ritual, so they religiously—prayerfully—ingest jelly beans but fail to ever take the antibiotic? They would have a form of godliness but no power. This is exactly the state of Christianity today—stuck in forms of religion but devoid of the actual healing power of God! pages 164-165.

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "God has provided…" What is the core problem with this paragraph, the lie that is imbedding in the wording?

That God's law functions like human law and therefore sin is a legal problem and people are criminals deserving of execution and are on death row.

This lie is Satan's lie from the beginning and corrupts the gospel and our understanding of reality.

Human beings are not criminals on death row waiting execution by the heavenly government.

We are children of God infected with a terminal condition that without remedy will result in our death. Thus, as the Bible says, we are born in sin and conceived in iniquity. We are born terminal, not guilty.

Until we reject the imposed law lie and embrace the truth about God's law as design law, we will continue to misrepresent God and fail to take the final message of mercy to the world.

Read second paragraph, "The Lord says to them…" I like the focus on God offering to change them, but then the lesson becomes less clear, even confusing by using the language of forgiveness without explaining what it means, right after the criminal language in the paragraph before.

What do you think of this idea that God is offering to forgive His people? Is God offering to forgive OR has God forgiven His people and is offering to heal/save them from sin if they will trust Him and let Him?

The penal/legal lie, based on the lie about God's law, sees sin as a legal problem and salvation as legal adjustment. Thus the penal/legal fraud sees the core issue in salvation as securing God's legal pardon or forgiveness. This is another lie. God's forgiveness has never been lacking or at issue. God forgave instantly when Adam sinned, but what was lacking was our trust in God and a remedy that would cure the sin condition.

Thus, God so loved the world that He not only forgave us from His heart of love, but sent His Son to dispel the lies, reveal the truth, win us to trust, and procure the remedy that we could receive by faith that cures us—giving us a new heart and right spirit restoring us to unity with God.

So, yes we are forgiven by God and in our guilt, in our shame, in our misunderstanding of God we are filled with fear and falsely believe God is angry at us, is against us, is seeking to punish us, so it is important to hear the words like the woman caught in adultery, "neither do I condemn you." We need to hear that God does forgive us—but as we grow in our relationship and knowledge with God, we will learn just as a small child learns about their loving parent, that the God was never against us. God is for us and if God is for us who can be against us!

We must reject these lies that make the sin problem out to be a legal problem with God and salvation a legal adjustment that secures divine forgiveness.

Why does God connect reasoning with Him and cleansing from sin?

Why do so many religious teachers undermine the importance of reasoning?

WEDNESDAY

Read the first paragraph, "Notice the logical…" Is this promise to every human being, that if you do good you will get health and wealth, but if you disobey God you will get sick and poor, OR, is this a promise specifically to Judah at a place in time in regard to fulfilling a specific purpose?

I think it is a promise to Judah regarding fulfilling their mission to be the avenue for the Messiah. If you stay loyal and follow me, I will protect you and keep you here, healthy as a nation, for the arrival of my Son, but if you don't, then you will go into captivity so I can keep a remnant for the arrival of my Son.

Why should we not think this applies to all people of all time?

Consider the book of Job, was his suffering because he failed God?

Consider the man born blind that the disciples asked Jesus about, or the poor woman with her two mites compared to the rich man who gave a big offering. Does health and wealth, in this world, reliably indicate who is right with God?

Read last paragraph, "Scholars…" Is the covenant with God a legal transaction? When we enter a covenant with God do we bind Him to some legal requirements in some way?

Consider a marriage covenant, while in our society today marriage does contain societal legal elements, next of kin rights, not testify in court etc. these are all added in our society. In God's original design was the marriage covenant a legal transaction?

What about the New Covenant—it says that God writes His laws on our hearts and minds—is that a legal transaction?

What is the problem if we construe of the New Covenant as a binding legal transaction?

What would happen in your marriage if at the ceremony it focused on the legal requirements—instead of a pastor, the event was led by a lawyer who had a contract like we have at a mortgage closing. The lawyer, rather than speaking about love, trust, devotion, instead reads all the legal requirements of both parties:

> "This contract of marriage is between Mr. Jones, henceforth known as party A, and Ms. Smith, henceforth known party B, is made effective today, December 19, 2020. As of the effective date of this contract all properties of party A and party B will be merged into a new corporate entity, henceforth known as corporate C. Both party A and party B will have equal rights and ownership of all assets contained within corporate C and neither party A nor party B may remove assets from corporate C without prior written consent from the other party."

What would a marriage covenant be like, if it was a legal contract?

Is our covenant with God a legal contract?

Why did God use the format or language of a legal transaction if it is actually not a legal transaction? It was merely grace, love, mercy using language and format to help alleviate the fear and doubt that sin instills in the heart of sinners. It was to help us understand how committed God is to us and that we never need to fear God betraying us! In other words, we doubt God would do what He says simply because He says it, so we want a legal constraint placed upon God that requires Him to do what He said.

THURSDAY

Read first paragraph, "God explains…" Is God's love for the Hebrews only or for the entire world, for every descendant of Adam and Eve?

What was the role of Jacob's descendants? To be God's helpers in taking the truth about God to the world, the truth about the condition of humankind because of Adam's fall, the promise of the Messiah to save humankind, be the avenue for the Messiah, and prepare the world for the first Advent—but the plan of salvation is for all humankind, not just Jews.

What determines whether we stay in favor with God and thus experience His blessings in our lives, or whether we are out of favor and experience cursings?

What are the cursings? From where does pain and suffering of sin originate?

Is there a difference in a thief using a knife and cutting a person while attempting to rob them, and a surgeon using a scalpel to cut someone attempting to heal them?

In both instances a person uses a sharp instrument to cut on someone else—but are these actions the same?

Do we ever find God using power to take action that can be experienced as painful? But does that mean God is the source of inflicted harm, suffering, death?

Read last paragraph, "If we persistently…" What causes this to occur?

Who hardened Pharaoh's heart?

- "The Lord said to Moses, "When you return to Egypt, see that you perform before Pharaoh all the wonders I have given you the power to do. But I will harden his heart so that he will not let the people go." Exodus 4:21

- "Yet Pharaoh's heart became hard and he would not listen to them, just as the Lord had said." Ex 7:13

- "But when Pharaoh saw that there was relief, he hardened his heart and would not listen to Moses and Aaron, just as the Lord had said." Exodus 8:15

So, who hardened Pharaoh's heart? What is God's role, what is Pharaoh's role? Was Pharaoh a puppet, was he free?

What causes a heart to harden?

When the Bible describes Jesus standing at the door to the heart knocking, what is that representing? With what does Jesus knock upon the door to our hearts? Truth and love—what happens to a heart when truth and love are rejected?

If a person never rejects truth or love do they harden as much?

So what happened to Pharaoh? God provided evidence after evidence, truth after truth that the gods of Egypt were false and He was the true Creator, and Pharaoh was convicted, but later rejected the truth. And what is the result to any heart that rejects truth—it hardens.

God's role in Egypt was to present the truth to which Pharaoh had to decide how he would respond. If no truth had been presented to Pharaoh his heart would not have hardened against God as it was, but when truth is presented, and we reject it, the rejection of truth results in hardening of the heart.

So why did God present truth to Pharaoh when He, in His foreknowledge, knew Pharaoh would reject it and experience a hardened heart?

Even though Pharaoh was going to reject the truth, God knew it is only by the presentation of truth that sinners can be set free (John 8:32). God would not deny Pharaoh the opportunity to be freed from sin. God would not deny Pharaoh the opportunity to be saved. Therefore God presented truth to Pharaoh in order to reach his heart and save him.

God did not force Pharaoh's will. Pharaoh freely chose to reject the truth and when Pharaoh hardened his heart, God used Pharaoh as a powerful demonstration of the futility of worshipping false gods. The lessons of Egypt were publicized throughout the ancient world and awareness of the true God spread.

Therefore, God presents truth, which sets free all those who accept it, but God does not force the will of individuals to either accept or reject the truth. When we reject the truth our hearts harden in proportion to the truth rebuffed. The Bible record of all three descriptions of this event is accurate. God hardened Pharaoh's heart by presenting truth in such a way that Pharaoh was forced to make a decision upon it. But it was Pharaoh who hardened his own heart by rejecting the truth and refusing to repent.

2021 1Q Isaiah: Lesson 2
Crisis of Leadership

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read fifth paragraph, "People do, indeed, want strong trustworthy leadership." What does strong trustworthy leadership look like to you?

When I was in the military strong leadership was emphasized—a good commander did certain things:

- Never asked his soldiers to do what he was unwilling to do if in that position
- Share the soldier's experience—i.e. do PT with your soldiers, go into the field and do field exercises with your soldiers, maintain the same fitness for duty—physically, but weapons qualification or any other certification for your unit.
- Always ensure the troops eat and rest before you do, at chow time, eat last.
- Inspect the troops and require they maintain their gear, personal fitness, cleanliness, order
- Ensure your troops have the resources they need to fulfill their mission
- Ensure they are taking care of themselves, adequate hydration, food, rest, inspect their feet on road marches etc.
- Discipline those troops who need it

These are just some of the actions a good leader in the military takes. What was the purpose of the commander taking such actions? To let the troops know:

- He cared about their welfare
- He understood them, their struggles, what they had to do and was willing to share their burdens
- He wanted them to be the best they could be

A good commander wants his troops to trust him and following his orders.

Do you see Jesus doing many of these things? He:

- Became one of us
- Took our burden of sin and has been tempted in every way just like we are
- We know He knows our struggles
- He doesn't ask us to do anything He wouldn't do
- He puts us first, ultimately sacrificing Himself for us
- He disciplines us to develop us to our max
- He provides us with all we need to fulfill our mission for Him
- He inspects us to see what we need, where we need pruning and strengthening

Has Jesus earned our trust and are we willing to following Him?

As you think about leadership, what are the qualities that you want in a leader?

I did a lot of reading preparing for this lesson, explored articles on what makes great leaders. Let's explore this idea of what makes a good leader and then ask which do you value in a leader?

- Honesty
- Integrity (own mistakes, puts safety/quality over profits/does what's right/moral/ethical)
- Sincerity/enthusiasm
- Ability to listen to others and hear what is said
- Decisive—can assimilate information, integrate it, and make decisions
- Visionary—has a vision to where they want to go or goal to achieve
- Confident—but humble
- Great Communicator
- Competent
- Loyal to subordinates and/or the organization
- Delegates and empowers others and rejoices in their successes
- Problem solver
- Self-disciplined/motivated/self-starter
- Empathic/emotional intelligence
- High energy and resilient
- High intelligence
- Loves—other-centered, puts others or mission first
- Just and fair
- Kind
- Sensible or reasonable
- Discerning
- Lover of truth—lifelong learner
- Follower of God's will
- Can forgive—doesn't hold grudges

Was there anything on this list you didn't agree with?

But let's go back though and ask—is there anything missing? Is there something vital that we don't have on the list that even if we seek to use this list we may still end up with bad leaders?

For instance:

- Honesty
    - If honesty is what most people want in leaders, why do so many politicians have histories of dishonesty and why do they get re-elected?
    - Can a person be honest yet misguided, confused, or simply wrong?
- Integrity (own mistakes, puts safety/quality over profits/does what's right/moral/ethical)
    - If integrity is what most people want in leaders, why do so many politicians have histories of a lack of integrity and why do they keep getting re-elected?

    - Can a person have integrity but not understand the situation or what to do?
- Sincerity/enthusiasm—someone who can inspire others
    - Does it matter what the person is sincere about? If we have a charismatic, sincere, enthusiastic leader who inspires people does that mean they know where they are going? If someone is sincerely wrong are we wise to follow them?

What about qualities like:

- Loves, is other-centered, puts others or the mission first
    - Would this make someone safe to follow?
    - Can a person love others and put the mission first, but have no idea what they are doing, where they are going, how to fulfill the mission?
    - Can a person be completely self-centered, but present themselves as interested in others, compassionate, and concerned? In other words, can we know the heart motives or only the public demeanor of someone we don't have intimate knowledge of?
- Just and fair
    - How can you determine if someone is just and fair?
    - By the reports of people?
    - If you don't know all the variables, all the secret details of the various cases or issues, can you truly know whether the person is just or fair?
        - Psychiatrists have strict confidentiality responsibilities—not even disclosing if a person is their patient. If a disgruntled patient goes online and writes a scathing review or goes throughout their church and speaks cruelly about the psychiatrist, the psychiatrist cannot respond, must remain silent. The psychiatrist cannot disclose the person was selling controlled prescriptions, or overusing them and refused to get into rehab, but must allow the false reports to circulate without comment. Can you tell if the psychiatrist is just and fair by the gossip or online reviews?
- Kind
    - What determines what is kind and what is cruel?
    - Can you always tell by the action itself? Do the circumstances matter?
    - Can people tell whether another person is kind or cruel based on how it feels—it felt unkind?
        - Is it kind to relieve someone's pain? How about it means doing their physical therapy for them? Or preventing them from feeling pain when they touch a hot stove, or removing their guilt and shame for sin before they repent?
- Sensible or reasonable
    - What determines whether something is sensible or reasonable? Would a person's intelligence, understanding, wisdom, perspective impact our understanding?
        - When Jesus refused to go to Passover and publicly declare Himself as His brothers encouraged Him to do, did His brothers think Jesus was being sensible?
        - When Jesus went to Jerusalem crucifixion weekend, did His loyal disciples think He was being sensible or reasonable?
        - How many turned away from Jesus after He said they must eat His flesh and drink His blood? Why? Did they think Jesus was being unreasonable?

    - Do our own biases, prejudices, beliefs impact our ability to understand? Do we accept as reasonable things that are unreasonable because we are immature? What determines whether something is reasonable or not? Would harmony with God's design for life, what is actually healthy, in harmony with reality be a factor? Does rule-enforcement or rule-keeping sometimes work contrary to reality and end up being unreasonable?
- Discerning
    - How can we tell whether a leader has discernment or not?
    - Would we need to have discernment ourselves?
- Follower of God's will
    - Is this the litmus test—the one that can tell us who we can trust as our leader?
    - Certainly we don't want leaders who refuse to follow God's will, but how can we tell if someone is following God's will?
    - When false Messiahs come, as Jesus said they would, who will they claim they are following?
    - Can someone actually be following God's will, yet we are still not to follow them?
        - For instance, can someone be called by God to an action, yet God has called us to a different action?
    - So even if someone is a follower of God, does that always mean we are to follow them?
- What if someone has genuine gifts of the Spirit, such as the gift of prophecy, surely we could follow anyone who has confirmed genuine gifts of the Spirt, right?
    - If that is so, then we would follow the Apostle Peter when he refused to associate with certain people? Or would we have some way to realize this leader of God's church should not be followed but corrected, as Paul did (Galatians 2:11-13)?

What are we missing? Is there any element you can think of that would be required to help us differentiate a leader from God from an imposter?

What about leaders who:

- Understand Design Law and God's methods and principles—meaning they actually speak and promote integrated truth applying the integrative evidence-based approach that harmonizes Scripture, Science and Experience. They demonstrate a knowledge of how reality works and their explanations make sense and are testable, reproducible and reasonable. They practice the principles of truth, love and liberty, meaning they don't coerce people who won't agree or follow, but leave them free and show respect for them as people.
- Understand the Great Controversy over God's character and methods
- Demonstrate the ability to make evidence-based, not feelings-based, decisions—a leader who can be aware of feelings, but isn't governed or swayed by feelings—in other words they follow the truth
- Have maturity, they possess the ability to discern at a minimum of level 6 of moral development, but even better would be level 7
- Have a record of outcomes people can review to evaluate whether their rhetoric comports with reality

If someone doesn't actually know God, God's methods, God's design laws upon which reality is built, the issues in the Great Controversy then they may be:

- Honest yet lead by wrong methods, wrong principles and false ideas
- Sincere/enthusiastic but lead in wrong directions
- Decisive but their decisions may frequently be harmful
- Visionary but their vision will likely be warped
- Confident but their confidence will be misplaced
- Seek to be just and fair but their justice may be punitive, worldly, warped, like the justice of the Pharisees who wanted to stone Jesus, and who did stone Stephen etc.
- Claim to reasonable but may actually be unreasonable as they apply the world's methods of rule enforcement instead of God's principles for life and health

The principles of good leadership are very difficult to determine in people with whom we don't have a personal relationship. So, the best approach is for each of us to develop our ability to reason and discern, meaning:

- we have our own personal relationship with God
- we understand God's character, design laws, principles, and purposes
- we have a working knowledge of Scripture, meaning we use the integrative evidence-based approach to knowing truth
- and then we examine the evidence of a person's achievement—the outcomes along with the stated mission, purpose, platform, goals of a proposed leader and decide if they are someone who we could support for the role they are pursuing because we share their goals, support their vision or mission, and have evidence of their achievements.

We are in the last days of human history, now more than ever the people of God need discernment, need to be able to tell who are on God's team and who are not, where God leading and where the enemy of God is leading.

Consider this quotation from the book The Great Controversy, in which this author describes the final deception coming upon the world:

> Fearful sights of a supernatural character will soon be revealed in the heavens, in token of the power of miracle-working demons. The spirits of devils will go forth to the kings of the earth and to the whole world, to fasten them in deception, and urge them on to unite with Satan in his last struggle against the government of heaven. By these agencies, rulers and subjects will be alike deceived.
> I want to pause here and consider this. When you hear spirits of devils what do you hear? Does this mean simply attitudes of devils? Does it mean fallen angels in the room bringing evil emotions, ideas, influences? Does it mean ghosts or apparitions appearing? Any or all of this? Could it mean humans with Satan's worldview, Satan's values, Satan's methods going to world leaders to influence them? Could it mean fallen angels presenting themselves in the form of human beings? We have accounts of God's angels in the Bible presenting themselves as human beings, can Satan's angels present themselves as humans to humans to deceive? Could it mean that devils will go forth to the kings of the earth as human counselors to deceive?

Consider these quotes from the same author who wrote The Great Controversy:

> Satan will use every opportunity to seduce men from their allegiance to God. He and the angels who fell with him will appear on the earth as men, seeking to deceive. God's angels also will appear as men, and will use every means in their power to defeat the purposes of the enemy.—Manuscript Releases 8:399 (1903). LDE 160.2

Who will they seek to deceive? Just the kings of the earth? Consider this quote:

> Evil angels in the form of men will talk with those who know the truth. They will misinterpret and misconstrue the statements of the messengers of God.....—Selected Messages 3:411 (1903). LDE 160.3

> Notice that the devils go to the leaders of the world seeking to deceive, but the devils go to those who know the truth and talk with and then go out and misrepresent them…interesting. I don't know whether it was devils doing this, but I have had several people over the years speak to me and then turn around immediately misrepresent and misconstrue what I have said, as have others who support our ministry.

> So, devils will go to the leaders of the world to deceive them and enlist them to unite with Satan in the final struggle against heaven. What methods will the devil use and will that final struggle be over?

> Earlier in The Great Controversy:

> Satan's policy in this final conflict with God's people is the same that he employed in the opening of the great controversy in Heaven. He professed to be seeking to promote the stability of the divine government, while secretly bending every effort to secure its overthrow. [In the final deception Satan will move upon world leaders to seek to save the planet, save the earth, to make things better, but will implement policies and practices that actually destroy it. This is so obvious to those who understand God's design law. I see this happening right now, today, here in America, and around the world, I write about it, speak about it. Yet people write me defending the deception, failing to see the lie, believing the practices or policies or movements are good because they claim to be for good.] And the very work which he was thus endeavoring to accomplish, he charged upon the loyal angels. [If you haven't seen this practiced in the last four years then I don't know what to say. Leaders doing various forms of corruption, while immediately blaming the corruption on the other side.] The same policy of deception has marked the history of the Romish Church. It has professed to act as the vicegerent of Heaven, while seeking to exalt itself above God, and to change his law. [What is the core principle of Rome? Imperialism, imposed law that can be changed, not design law. And with imposed law comes authoritarianism, hierarchical > government, top down control, a few ruling elites dominate and exploit the masses. This was ancient Rome, it is Papal Rome and it is the form of every earthly government, that is why they are beastly. It is the kingdom of Satan. They make up their rules, contrary to God's design laws and then enforce them under penalty of the state. Those who don't comply are accused of being law breakers and fined, have their businesses closed, imprisoned, all under the guise of saving lives, of creating a better and safer government or nation. They always end up with a few ruling elites dominating the masses. God's government is the opposite the greater resources one has the more they give to help others, God the greatest is constantly giving of Himself for the welfare of His creation.] Under the rule of Rome, those who suffered death for their fidelity to the gospel were denounced as evil-doers; they were declared to be in league with Satan; and every possible means was employed to cover them with reproach, to cause them to appear, in the eyes of the people, and even to themselves, as the vilest of criminals. So it will be now. While Satan seeks to destroy those who honor God's law he will cause them to be accused as law-breakers, as men who are dishonoring God, and bringing judgments upon the world. GC88 591.2

What are Satan's methods? How does he deceive the leaders of the world to do his bidding? By getting them to believe that imposed laws, imperialism, rules enforced by threat is righteous and that by more laws, more control over the people the world can be saved, a better world can be our future. Yet, this method violates God's design, destroys love, incites division and rebellion, and results in God's Spirit being withdrawn as hearts and minds harden. Satan gains more control over nature, more natural disasters, pestilences and violence occurs. These are alleged to be due to those who won't comply with the new world order and their laws, and billions are deceived because they want to be safe and they turn on those who seek to honor God.

Going back to our original quote about devils going to kings to deceive them and get them to join his ranks…

> Persons will arise pretending to be Christ Himself, and claiming the title and worship which belong to the world's Redeemer. They will perform wonderful miracles of healing and will profess to have revelations from heaven contradicting the testimony of the Scriptures. GC 624.1 [Again will all of these persons be human, or may some be fallen angels in the form of humans? Imagine the power of such a deception of this occurred today and people dying of COVID in the ICU were miraculously healed by the thousands? How many would be deceived? What testimony of Scripture do you think they will contradict? Won't it be the truth about God's character and government—design law? Won't it be that they claim that disobedience to God's law is causing the problem and that people must return to faithfulness to God and obey His law, but His law will be presented as imposed and they will say that if people don't obey, then justice will require punishment. How many will go along? How many are going along now with the COVID rules that almost all are done without due process of law and in many cases actually violate the law?]
> As the crowning act in the great drama of deception, Satan himself will personate Christ. [After other false Christ's performing miracles have come, so the Bible can be fulfilled that false Christ's come first, then Satan impersonating Christ appears. How many will embrace him as their leader?] The church has long professed to look to the Saviour's advent as the consummation of her hopes. Now the great deceiver will make it appear that Christ has come. In different parts of the earth, Satan will manifest himself among men as a majestic being of dazzling brightness, resembling the description of the Son of God given by John in the Revelation. Revelation 1:13-15. The glory that surrounds him is unsurpassed by anything that mortal eyes have yet beheld. [What method is the devil using here? Signs, wonders, miracles, charisma, charm, which plays on the emotions, thrills the heart, but does not bring enlightenment, it shuts down inquiry, blunts reason.] The shout of triumph rings out upon the air: "Christ has come! Christ has come!" The people prostrate themselves in adoration before him, while he lifts up his hands and pronounces a blessing upon them, as Christ blessed His disciples when He was upon the earth. His voice is soft and subdued, yet full of melody. In gentle, compassionate tones he presents some of the same gracious, heavenly truths which the Saviour uttered; [What leadership qualities will Satan present? He will appear honest, sincere, humble, kind, gentle, compassionate, gracious, presenting the SAME truths Jesus spoke as recorded in the Bible., should we follow him? How will we know not to? He does more,] he heals the diseases of the people, [He heals, this is love, this is service, another leadership quality we value. Why not follow him, how will we know? Next the author describes one action that would expose him what is it?] and then, in his assumed character of Christ, he claims to have changed the Sabbath to Sunday, and commands all to hallow the day which he has blessed… [What is the action here described? The specific is action described by this author is changing the day from Sabbath to Sunday, but what is the true issue at stake? Claiming that God's law is arbitrary, imposed, functions like human law and is subject to amending or changing and therefore, since it is not design law, requires external enforcement through imposed punishment. This is the real deception, hidden behind the change in the day. This means, that the evil one could potentially do the same thing with another specific, as long as God's law is viewed as imposed, and God as the punisher of law breakers.] Acts 8:10. GC 624.2

Do we have a crisis in leadership in the world today? Are we prepared to discern leadership that is from God, from leadership that is from God's enemy? Can anyone do this for you? Then what is required of you?

SUNDAY

Read number 1 & 2, "Although Uzziah's reign…" Why did God strike Uzziah with leprosy? Was it because Uzziah broke a rule and tried to do what only priests could do?

If so, why didn't David get struck with leprosy when he ate the showbread and gave it to his men, which only the priest were authorized to do?

Is there anything of saving value in the rituals of the sanctuary? Were any of the rituals required to be performed in order for someone to be saved? If so, how was anyone saved during the 70 captivity when no temple services were being performed?

No, nothing of that system was required for salvation, people were saved without it. Then what was it for? It was object lesson, it was a teaching tool—it was theater.

The Temple was a grand stage, with great props and costumes and a very intricate script—we call Scripture. But the service was to teach the larger reality, the service was not the reality.

- In service the priests in their white robes represented what? The priesthood of believers who possess the righteousness of Christ, have Christlike character pure and holy.
- The showbread represents what? Jesus, there were 12 loaves which represent Jesus being sufficient to feed the 12 tribes, and the 12 tribes symbolically represents all the peoples of the world. Jesus is the bread of heaven, the Word made flesh, and we are to ingest Him into our hearts and minds.
- It was every Sabbath, that the priests would join with the High Priest in the Holy Place and eat the showbread. What does this represent or teach?
    - The High Priest represents Jesus.
    - The Holy Place represents the church with the lamp that represents the Word of God both living and written, and the believers united with Christ who are light unto the world.
    - So, every Sabbath the believers of God are to come together in worship, joined by Jesus they partake the Word of God, ingesting into our hearts and minds the truth, love, and character of Christ.
    - This is what David symbolically did when he took the bread, he nurtured himself and his men and partaking of Christ which heals and brings life. So David and his men were fine.

Why then did Uzziah get leprosy for seeking to light incense?

- What does the golden altar represent? The converted heart of the believer filled with the fire of the Holy Spirit.
- What does the incense represent? The prayers of the righteous, sweet and perfumed because they come from hearts renewed by the life of Christ.
- What did Uzziah's action represent?
    - A person renewed in godly love humbly seeking to lift up prayers to God OR a prideful arrogant unconverted person seeking to displace God's holy ones (as represented by the priests in their white robes) with his own selfish self?
    - And what is the Bible symbol for selfishness or sin? Leprosy, so since Uzziah insisted on going into the theater and stepping on stage, and taking a role that wasn't his, God respected his choice to act a part that wasn't his and gave him leprosy to appropriately teach the truth—sinfulness, selfishness numbs the heart, deadens the conscience and is a deadly disease.

So, when Uzziah went into the temple was he actually seeking holiness? No, he was seeking power and self-exaltation, thus the leprosy.

MONDAY

Read first two paragraphs, "Notice what was happening…" A change in leadership triggered fear….questions of who is in control? Do we ever face situations like this today where a change in leadership instills fear and questions of who is in control?

Well, who is in control? In order to answer one must ask—of what?

God controls what God controls and we control what we control—the question is what does God control?

And the key question to answering this is—how do we understand God's law?

If one views God's law functioning like the laws that humans make up — imposed rules requiring the ruling authority to impose punishments — then what do people think God controls? Imposed law views have imperial gods that make everything happen. This leads to bad theology like tragedies or suffering are God's will or come from God, or natural disasters are God punishing evil.

The truth is realized when we accept that God is Creator and His laws are the protocols upon which reality is built to operate, such as the laws of physics, law of love, truth, worship, liberty, exertion, laws of health, the moral laws, and so many more. It is how reality works.

Thus, God is in control of what God controls — and God controls Himself and all His laws. He sustains reality; He keeps the universe running upon the protocols and laws He established. And one of those laws is the law of liberty, which grants real freedom to sentient beings. Why? Because love only exists in an atmosphere of freedom.

Does God control people or angels?

Does God control nations?

So what does it mean to be controlled by the Spirit of God? Do we become puppets? When we surrender to the Holy Spirit, the Spirit heals us and gives us the fruits of the Spirit. What is the last fruit listed? Self-control! When we are "controlled" by the Holy Spirit we are restored to beings operating upon God's design laws and are set free to exercise authority over ourselves.

Consider this quote from the book The Desire of Ages:

> In the work of redemption there is no compulsion. No external force is employed. Under the influence of the Spirit of God, man is left free to choose whom he will serve. In the change > that takes place when the soul surrenders to Christ, there is the highest sense of freedom. DA 466.4

Read last paragraph, "The transcendent holiness…" What do you think of this idea that God demands holiness from His people?

What does it mean?

What is holiness?

Consider these quote—what is holiness and why does God demand it?

> Holiness is not rapture: it is an entire surrender of the will to God; it is living by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God; it is doing the will of our heavenly Father; it is trusting God in trial, in darkness as well as in the light; it is walking by faith and not by sight; it is relying on God with unquestioning confidence, and resting in His love. {AA 51.2}

> True holiness is wholeness in the service of God. This is the condition of true Christian living. Christ asks for an unreserved consecration, for undivided service. He demands the heart, the mind, the soul, the strength. [Why does Christ demand this? Because it is His right? Because He has paid the price? Because He is Creator? Because He is Sovereign? No, He demands this because He is the source of life, health, happiness, and only in a surrendered relationship with Him can we have life and health and happiness. It is for our good, not His need. Anything else and we cut ourselves off from life.] Self is not to be cherished. He who lives to himself is not a Christian. {COL 48.4}

> Love must be the principle of action. Love is the underlying principle of God's government in heaven and earth, and it must be the foundation of the Christian's character. This alone can make and keep him steadfast. This alone can enable him to withstand trial and temptation… {COL 49.1}

What is holiness? Restoration to God's perfect design for life, having God's law restored in us so that we live in perfect accord with it because it is the protocol life is built upon. Holiness then is perfect harmony with God.

TUESDAY

The lesson is about Isaiah having an angel take a coal from the golden altar and touch his lips. What does this represent?

The coals represent the fire that purifies, which is the same fire that fell at Pentecost, it is the fire of God, the fire of the Holy Spirit, the fire of truth and love that purges lies, fear, selfishness, and enlightens and ennobles. It is the fire that is to live in the hearts of all the believers.

Why touch it to Isaiah's lips?

From the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks, Jesus said. The mouth represents the expression of the heart, Isaiah is being empowered to express, communicate, speak the truth about God, His kingdom of love, character of love, and the fulfillment of the promise given to Adam of the coming Messiah.

WEDNESDAY

Why did this happen to Isaiah?

Then I heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send? And who will go for us?" And I said, "Here am I. Send me!" Isaiah 6:8 NIV84

Why was Isaiah equipped for God's service? Because Isaiah was willing!

What about us?

God equips and empowers all who surrender to Him to fulfill roles and engage in service for God's kingdom in various avenues that God knows that person will be most useful in.

However, will God empower people to take a false gospel to the world? So God's equipping isn't just skills like ability to speak in public, God's equipping is enlightening with truth—Isaiah was enlightened to see reality of the condition of Israel, of God's methods, of the contrast between legalism and healing hearts and minds, of bringing God's principles to bear. Isaiah also saw the larger Great Controversy reality and the coming Messiah to cure the sin condition, not use the methods of power and might.

So, equipping by God will always be equipping into God's design laws and methods.

THURSDAY

Read second paragraph, "God does not…" This has some really good insights, the more we resist truth, the harder we become.

Read last paragraph, "Clearly Pharaoh…" This also has good insights in the process…how do we understand the process of hearts being hardened?

- The Lord said to Moses, “When you return to Egypt, see that you perform before Pharaoh all the wonders I have given you the power to do. But I will harden his heart so that he will not let the people go." Exodus 4:21

- "Yet Pharaoh’s heart became hard and he would not listen to them, just as the Lord had said." Ex 7:13

- "But when Pharaoh saw that there was relief, he hardened his heart and would not listen to Moses and Aaron, just as the Lord had said." Exodus 8:15

So, who hardened Pharaoh’s heart? What is God’s role, what is Pharaoh’s role? Was Pharaoh a puppet, was he free?

What causes a heart to harden?

When the Bible describes Jesus standing at the door to the heart knocking, what is that representing? With what does Jesus knock upon the door to our hearts? Truth and love—what happens to a heart when truth and love are rejected?

If a person never rejects truth or love do they harden as much?

So what happened to Pharaoh? God provided evidence after evidence, truth after truth that the gods of Egypt were false and He was the true Creator, and Pharaoh was convicted, but later rejected the truth. And what is the result to any heart that rejects truth—it hardens.

God’s role in Egypt was to present the truth to which Pharaoh had to decide how he would respond. If no truth had been presented to Pharaoh his heart would not have hardened against God as it was, but when truth is presented, and we reject it, the rejection of truth results in hardening of the heart.

So why did God present truth to Pharaoh when He, in His foreknowledge, knew Pharaoh would reject it and experience a hardened heart?

Even though Pharaoh was going to reject the truth, God knew it is only by the presentation of truth that sinners can be set free (John 8:32). God would not deny Pharaoh the opportunity to be freed from sin. God would not deny Pharaoh the opportunity to be saved. Therefore God presented truth to Pharaoh in order to reach his heart and save him.

God did not force Pharaoh’s will. Pharaoh freely chose to reject the truth and when Pharaoh hardened his heart, God used Pharaoh as a powerful demonstration of the futility of worshipping false gods. The lessons of Egypt were publicized throughout the ancient world and awareness of the true God spread.

Therefore, God presents truth, which sets free all those who accept it, but God does not force the will of individuals to either accept or reject the truth. When we reject the truth our hearts harden in proportion to the truth rebuffed. The Bible record of all three descriptions of this event is accurate.

God hardened Pharaoh's heart by presenting truth in such a way that Pharaoh was forced to make a decision upon it. But it was Pharaoh who hardened his own heart by rejecting the truth and refusing to repent.

2021 1Q Isaiah: Lesson 3
When Your World Is Falling Apart

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

What do you think of the title? In what ways can someone's world fall apart?

Could it be the loss of various resources and supports that a person depends upon to provide for their safety, sustenance and nurturance?

Could the description of one's world falling apart be used by those:

- Whose community is destroyed by natural disaster?
- Who have lost people of importance?
- Who have lost their financial support and are homeless?
- Who have had the infrastructure of their country destabilized?
- Who are living in a war zone?
- Who have been kidnapped?
- Who have been falsely imprisoned?
- Who lose their health or abilities?

While most of us have faced loss of loved ones, and some of us have experienced loss of resources such as a home destroyed by fire, or job loss or bankruptcy, most of us have still had other supports (people who care) to assist us in times of stress or difficulty and very few have experienced multiple such events at the same time.

Consider Job, I can't imagine what it would be like to simultaneously lose one's financial support (not just excess wealth, but all the resources to live on), have all 10 children die, have multiple employees/servants that he knew for years killed, and lose his health and suffer in terrible pain. Then to have those who would be supportive verbally turn on him and accuse him of being a sinner and bringing this on himself and his wife telling him to just give up and die for God had forsaken him. Do you think Job's world fell apart?

Why do you think Job didn't lose it? What enabled Job to hold himself together and not become suicidal, or despondent, or hopeless in the face of his world falling apart?

Because he had one support, one connection, one lifeline that remained and that was his connection, knowledge, trust and love for God.

- Did Job know why the tragedies were happening to him?
    - But did he know God?
- Did Job deserve what was happening to him?

Suffering and pain in this world sometimes happens because of:

- Our sinful choices—i.e. gambling and having financial problems, or doing drugs and having health problems
- Our misunderstanding or ignorance—eating unhealthy foods and having health problems
- Accidents, like motor vehicle accidents
- God disciplining us because we need it

Were any of these the reason Job was suffering? No!

In Job's case it was because of evil forces, both human and demonic—this is why Job suffered.

But why would God allow this to happen? If God is all powerful, if Job is obedient to God, living in harmony with God's plan, purposes, design laws, why would God not protect him?

- First, how does love function? Can love exist without freedom? Would you protect your children from their own selves by injecting them with nanochips and programming them to do as you want? Why not? All of humans the righteous and wicked are God's children. And God loves all of them. He won't make them robots.
- What would it say about God if He were to use such methods? Would the mistrust of God be eliminated in the minds of the onlooking universe if God did use methods that violated freedom?
- But, is there another reason—a reason beyond just the innocent sufferer like Job, and beyond the onlooking universe?
    - Are we in a war zone? And what type of war? A war for hearts and minds over love and trust versus fear and selfishness. How does love and trust win?
    - Can love and trust win by threats, by intimidation, by force, by violence?
    - Does God love every person on earth? Does God want to reach all people?
    - Will He need people to reveal His character of love to those who don't know His character? Is that revelation only didactic? Or, is that revelation to be lived out?
    - Do we see a lesson in the story of Saul of Tarsus and Stephen? Was Stephen's stoning because Stephen deserved it? Did God reach Saul through the witness of Stephen?
    - Are there stories of others being reached for God's kingdom through the witness of martyrs?

Is there a lesson here for us?

I want to suggest that God is waiting for a people, the sealed of God, who are so settled into the truth about Him that they cannot be moved. He is waiting for a people who will love their enemies, pray for those who spitefully use them, who will turn the other cheek, who will defeat the methods of Satan with the methods of God, who will defeat:

- lies with truth
- selfishness with love
- injustice with forgiveness

- violence with gentleness and peace
- cruelty with kindness people who will:

- turn to God and not the state for deliverance
- trust God and not themselves
- align with the kingdom of God and not the kingdoms of this world
- use the methods of God and not the methods of this world

We are in the final days of this world's history. Events are going to progress more rapidly and things are going to get worse. As people become more frightened, they become more controlling because they want to feel safe. As they get more controlling liberties are undermined—as liberty is taken away love is damaged, individuality is eroded, fear increases, survival drives become stronger, and others, particularly those who don't agree with us, are seen as threats to be avoided or eliminated, love grows cold, society fragments. Someone or some group needs to be blamed and those who trust God and follow Him will be blamed. Even our constitutionally protected freedoms will be taken away.

This past week in Arizona two churches were fined $10,000 for holding a Christmas Eve service. The governor called such services selfish.

Think about this:

- The US Constitution protects freedom of religion, freedom of assembly, freedom of speech. There is nothing in the law that gives the states the right to restrict religious practice in this way. Yet it is happening.
- The Christmas Eve services were not mandatory, no one was pressured or forced to attend. The churches left their members completely free to stay at home if they felt that was best for them, yet the state issued fines and restricts the liberty of those who want to attend.
- Then, the governor calls a service celebrating the birth of Jesus an act of selfishness. Hmmm….who calls God selfish?

Some of you may think that this is about COVID—it is not, it is about the great controversy between God and Satan. It is about the erosion of liberty. It is about the forming of the beastly system of Revelation—globalism, a global coalition of forces (governments, religions, corporations) that organize together to advance Satan's kingdom of force and coercion.

If we were to go back in time to the fall of 2019 and I asked you all, what do you think Satan could do to get Americans, including Christians, many SDAs to support governmental shutdown of churches—would you have said, "Christians and certainly, SDA's won't support governmental restriction on religious liberty"? Yet many are supportive of the restrictions imposed by government and fail to see the beastly methods involved.

How do we war against this? By truth, love and freedom. We are to witnesses in word, but also in deed.

- We will not use methods of violence
- We will not use deceit
- We will not use coercion
- We will not be marked in our minds with the beastly methods because we won't accept them and
- We won't be marked in our hands with the beastly methods because we won't practice them.
- We will be sealed of God with truth, love and freedom.

Let's talk about resilience. The ability to face crisis, trauma, major stressors, losses and overcome, bounce back, make it through is known as resilience. Much research has been done on resilience and what enables some people to have much more resilience than others. What are those factors?

Some people start out life with more resilience than others, they have advantage because of what they inherited from their parents, biologically. This includes:

- The genes one inherits
    - A variety of genes have been identified that have single gene polymorphisms. This means one letter is difference in the gene coding alters the outgoing product. Consider the word "love" if we substitute and "i" for and "o" we have "live" which is still a readable word, but it has different meaning than the original. In our genes single letters can be changed like this altering the various gene products. These genetic differences can confer greater sensitivity to the environment. So if someone experiences childhood adversity—trauma, severe poverty, neglect—the genes one has will make one either more sensitive or more resilient to the abuse.
    - However, if one has a nurturing environment then the genes that enhance sensitivity causes positive brain changes and results in greater resilience to stressors down the road than the genes that protected from early childhood traumas.
- The epigenetic markers that one inherits
    - We pass along not only the gene sequences but the markers that tell the genes how to express themselves. People who have experienced trauma, or who have abused illegal drugs etc. will alter their gene expression and pass on epigenetic markers that reduce resilience in their offspring.
- The biological changes that happen in utero
    - Multiple studies show that the fetal brain and resilience is impacted by what happens during gestation.
    - If the mother is highly stressed her stress hormones will cross the placenta and alter gene expression through epigenetic modification causing a more sensitive fear circuitry and the child will be born more anxious, irritable and socially impaired
    - Foods choices will also alter the developing brain either positively or negatively depending on whether the choices are healthy or not
    - Alcohol and drugs are damaging to the developing brain

So resilience is either enhanced or undermined before we are even born.

EGW, one of the founders of the SDA church, wrote the following over 100 years ago, before DNA was even discovered:

> What the parents are, that to a great extent the children will be.
> The physical conditions of the parents, their dispositions and appetites, their mental and moral tendencies, are to a greater or less degree reproduced in their children.--MH 371 (1905). {1MCP 138.5}
> The nobler the aims, the higher the mental and spiritual endowments, and the better developed the physical powers of the parents, the better will be the life equipment they give their children. In cultivating that which is best in themselves, parents are exerting an influence to mold society and to uplift future generations....
> Through the indulgence of appetite and passion their energies are wasted, and millions are ruined for this world and for the world to come. Parents should remember that their children must encounter these temptations. Even before the birth of the child, the preparation should begin that will enable it to fight successfully the battle against evil.
> Especially does responsibility rest upon the mother. She, by whose lifeblood the child is nourished and its physical frame built up, imparts to it also mental and spiritual influences that tend to the shaping of mind and character.--MH 371, 372 (1905). {1MCP 139}

But, this is a starting point at our birth, and after birth, early childhood experiences further alter gene expression and brain development conferring either benefit or greater harm, enhancing resilience or undermining it.

- Loving, emotionally responsive, consistent and reliable childhood experiences foster resilience—
    - because they positively impact brain development, alter gene expression in ways that are adaptive, grow brain circuits capable of calming fear circuits. It fosters learning, adaptation, expectation of hope and the development of skills and abilities to problem solve, calm oneself, self-sooth, form new and secure attachments, sustain and maintain friendships, form a realistic sense of self and self mastery and self-confidence, and ability to overcome life's challenges
    - But when childhood caregiving is stressful, neglectful, abusive, chaotic, overdevelopment of fear circuitry in the brain occurs, underdevelopment of prefrontal circuits occurs, problem solving is impaired, ability to connect with others is undermined, gene expression is altered in ways that increase inflammation, diminish neuroplasticity and undermine learning, all reducing resilience and increasing likelihood of collapse under stress.
    - Do you see why Jesus said "if anyone causes one of these little ones who believe in me to sin, it would be better for him to have a large millstone hung around his neck and to be drowned in the depths of the sea." (Matthew 18:6 NIV84)

- Research shows that social rejection, isolation, and loneliness activate the brain's stress pathways that increase inflammatory responses, decrease immune responses, makes people more vulnerable to viral infections, cancer and also less resilient to life stressors.
    - In contrast positive social supports and connection calms amygdala, reduces inflammatory cascades, alters gene expression improving immune system reducing viral infections and cancers and increases resilience.
    - Positive social support and connectivity increases oxytocin, which enhances social cognition, including facial recognition, understanding of social cues, perception of trustworthiness and ability to bond. Further, social connectedness with increased oxytocin reduces anxiety, fear and stress. All of this has a protective effect when dealing with life stressors.
    - Conversely, social isolation increases both physical and mental health problems and undermines resilience, increases all causes of death in a similar to obesity or smoking.
- Other factors that can increase individual resilience include all variables that improve physical health, such as healthy diet, physical exercise, education, cognitive training, adequate sleep, spiritual development, reframing of events or perception and perspective. (Southwick, S., et al., Why are some individuals more resilient than others: the role of social support World Psychiatry. 2016 Feb; 15(1): 77–79.)

How healthy spirituality confers resilience:

- Develops the prefrontal cortex which calms the fear circuits reducing inflammatory cascades improving health
- Better self-care, e.g., take care of spirit temple so less substances of abuse, better diet, more likely to get adequate sleep and exercise all of which confer resilience
- More likely to forgive and not hold grudges, which calms fear circuits and reduces inflammatory cascades
- More likely to engage in altruism, which calms fear circuits
- Greater perspective on reality, higher purpose, meaning for life and often have a meaning or purpose for the trials
- Connection with God to trust Him with outcomes rather than all on self
- Hope of deliverance

In crisis, under stress, people seek relief from the stress—there are adaptive and maladaptive ways to deal with stress.

Adaptive ways include:

- Being truthful, dealing with reality, confronting, problems solving, seeking help from others when needed
- Prayer and seeking God's wisdom and guidance and trusting God without outcomes
- Maintaining healthy routines, diet, exercise, sleep, meditation and rest
- Music, humor, reframing
- Finding meaning or purpose

Maladaptive ways of coping include:

- Fleeing or escaping or avoiding through
  - denial, distortion, externalization
  - substances—alcohol drugs prescription medications
  - excessive sleep
  - entertainment
  - physically running away
- Attacking or accusing or blaming others
- Seeking to control others or make others feel your pain or suffering
- Becoming helpless, disengagement, surrender, giving up
- Yelling, screaming, self-harm

As we consider the methods and principles of God versus the methods and principles of Satan, how would you describe the difference and what impact do they make on our ability to cope or on how we cope?

Does our understanding of reality make a difference?

Does our understanding of God's law make a difference? For instance, if we have an imposed law view, when we get stressed, struggle with trials, what might we do? Might we examine our lives to find something we did wrong, some rule we broke and be tempted to believe we are being punished?

If it is larger than just us, say something happening to the entire region or nation, might we conclude that the hurricane came because of sin in the city and God was punishing the city? Might we want to protect the nation by stopping the evil that we think is the cause of the punishment?

Read first two paragraphs in Sabbath's lesson, "One Sabbath Connie…" Did the duck have a wrong understanding? How many people are like this duck…seeing though they do not see?

I saw a Gunsmoke episode in which an old man was choking to death and the doctor tried to do a tracheotomy (whether that was actually known medical science back then or not I don't know, but the TV show had him doing it) and several family members came in and saw him cutting on the man's throat and the man died anyway. They arrested the doctor for murder because he cut the man's throat.

How many people misconstrue and misunderstand what they see because of their immaturity, ignorance, indoctrination, lack of insight, too narrow a view?

This happens all the time and is so sad, people, rather than trying to understand what others are actually saying or what they actually mean, all too often assume they know and end up drawing false conclusions and get upset, make accusations and attack, verbally or sometimes physically.

In our world today those who want to manipulate others for their own power and agenda utilize this weakness of jumping to conclusions all the time. This is how propaganda works, people hear allegations, accusations, reports, pieces of data and are led to certain conclusions without investigation, without evidence and are rallied to causes they might never support if the full facts were known.

For instance, in the aftermath of this most recent presidential election there have been allegations of fraud. Texas filed a lawsuit with the Supreme Court regarding the changes to the way the election was conducted in Pennsylvania, alleging it was unconstitutional because those changes did not go through the PA legislature, which the constitution requires. The Supreme Court rejected the lawsuit based on lack of standing to bring it, saying that TX had no say in how another state conducted its internal business.

But when some in the news media reported this their headlines were written to suggest a certain meaning that wasn't the case: "Supreme Court rejects Texas fraud claim" and many people falsely believed that the Supreme Court found there was no fraud. That is not what happened. Whether there was fraud or not was never evaluated, no court that I know of has yet had an evidentiary hearing, all the rulings that I know about have been procedural rulings, whether a person or group has a right to bring a case, or filed before a deadline etc., not whether there was actual fraud or not.

The methods of God are the methods of truth, love, freedom—truth doesn't fear inquiry, truth doesn't fear investigation, truth doesn't obstruct pursuit of facts. I haven't seen the evidence, but I don't fear it one way or the other. I don't care who won the election, but I do care about honesty, integrity and the ability of people to discern, to see what is actually happening and recognize when they are being misled.

But worse than the propaganda is forming an opinion and then being unwilling to hear facts or evidences that would refute the perspective being held. In other words, not loving truth!

When your world is falling apart, will you maximize the likelihood of having a good outcome by denying facts, truths, evidences?

No, one of God's principles is truth, those who will be saved in the end are those who love truth, those who are lost are those who do not love truth, they love their ideas, beliefs, religions, politics or power, but not truth.

MONDAY

Read first paragraph, "While Ahaz was weighing…" What do you think of this idea that God had allowed the trouble to come on him to discipline him and bring him to his senses?

Will God do this and for what purpose?

What does God want for each of us? Isn't it victory over sin? Isn't that we receive new hearts and right spirits, that we are restored to righteousness?

Can God do this in us without our participation? No, why not? Because it would destroy our individuality for God to use power to force a change in our hearts and minds. This means we must choose the right and reject the wrong. While we don't have the power to free ourselves, we must choose to be free and then we receive the power to follow through.

Therefore, God will bring a person over the same ground again and again until they either gain the victory or have destroyed within themselves the very faculties that respond to truth and love and are beyond healing.

Consider this quote:

> There are those here upon whom great light in warnings and reproofs has shone. Whenever reproofs are given, the enemy seeks to create in those reproved a desire for human sympathy. Therefore I would warn you to beware lest in appealing to the sympathy of others, and going back over your past trials, you again err on the same points in seeking to build yourselves up. The Lord brings his erring children over the same ground again and again; but if they continually fail to heed the admonitions of his Spirit, if they fail to reform on every point where they have erred, he will finally leave them to their own weakness. HS 137.4
> God's work of refining and purifying must go on until His servants are so humbled, so dead to self, that, when called into active service, their eye will be single to His glory… God brings men over the ground again and again, increasing the pressure until perfect humility and a transformation of character bring them into harmony with Christ and the spirit of heaven, and they are victors over themselves. 4T 86.2

Read second paragraph, "Ahaz would be startled…" What method does God use with Ahaz? Why doesn't God use force?

Why do so many people think it is right and just to use force to coerce others to comply?

TUESDAY

Read Isaiah 7:11-17:

> Again the LORD spoke to Ahaz, 11 "Ask the LORD your God for a sign, whether in the deepest depths or in the highest heights."
> 12 But Ahaz said, "I will not ask; I will not put the LORD to the test."
> 13 Then Isaiah said, "Hear now, you house of David! Is it not enough to try the patience of men? Will you try the patience of my God also? 14 Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign: The virgin will be with child and will give birth to a son, and will call him Immanuel. 15 He will eat curds and honey when he knows enough to reject the wrong and choose the right.

> 16 But before the boy knows enough to reject the wrong and choose the right, the land of the two kings you dread will be laid waste. 17 The LORD will bring on you and on your people and on the house of your father a time unlike any since Ephraim broke away from Judah—he will bring the king of Assyria." NIV84

First part, dealt with in TUESDAY's lesson is about the invitation to ask the Lord for a sign.

Read second paragraph, "At first glance…" Why didn't Ahaz take the Lord up on His invitation and ask for a sign, such as having 7 cows float over the palace for 20 minutes or something?

Why do you think Ahaz didn't do it? Was it because:

- he didn't believe in God—was an evolutionist and it would be foolish or silly?
- he thought God would answer and He didn't want the answer from God?
- he didn't trust God and was afraid of what God would do when He made the request?

What about the idea that his view of God was the view of any unconverted person who believes that God exists or who is religious but unconverted—they believe in a distorted god, a being who is like them, power over others, selfish, coercive, severe, unforgiving and Ahaz didn't want to get near such a terrifying untrustworthy dangerous god.

So, Ahaz doesn't trust God, has a deeply flawed view of God and based on many distortions and lies he sees God functioning like Satan alleges, and won't even engage with God to give God the opportunity to refute the lies and win him to trust.

How many people are just like this? See how the Pharisees in Christ's day were just like this. I see people like this all the time, unwilling to engage and discuss because their own false views will be exposed.

Read last paragraph, "Isaiah pointed out that…" Ahaz chose the god of fear, of intimidation, of coercion and rejected the God of truth, love and freedom and thus cut himself off from God's blessing. God merely acknowledge the choice.

The lesson asks "In the end, even if God had given Ahaz any sign that he had wanted, do you think Ahaz would have believed?"

Is there evidence that signs won't change minds? What about Pharaoh, what about when Jesus restored Malchus' ear?

Why did God offer to give a sign to Ahaz if God knows the future and that Ahaz would not accept the offer and act as he did?

What is the only chance Ahaz had for salvation? To engage with God, to reason with God, to connect with God, and while God knows what Ahaz will do, God still provides Ahaz every opportunity to be saved, to connect with Him. God always does what is right, the loss is by Ahaz's choice, not God failing to give him opportunity.

WEDNESDAY

Wednesday's lesson asks who is the woman and the child in the prophecy of Isaiah 7 and gives several possibilities.

Read numbers 1 though 4, "Because…" So, what is your understanding of the young woman in Isaiah 7 and the child?

If this is referring only to Jesus how would that be helpful to Ahaz as a sign that the two armies threatening him would leave?

If it referring only to Isaiah's son how would that child fulfill the meaning of Immanuel?

So, what is the solution?

This prophecy refers to two children, that is why the Hebrew for young woman can be a virgin or not, because the first child was specifically for Ahaz's benefit. This is the child who will still be too young to tell right from wrong when the armies leave. But there will be a second woman and a second child who will be God with us. This second woman will be a virgin as confirmed by the New Testament writers, and this second child will be Immanuel and will be further described in Isaiah 9.

THURSDAY

Read first two paragraphs, "Like the name…" What is the connotation of "God is with us"?

- God is with us in heart
- God is with us in substance, human, like us
- God is with us in struggle, pain, suffering
- God is with us in overcoming
- God is with us to comfort and encourage

Who is "us"? Is it Israel? Is it all humanity? Is it only those who believe?

What is the difference between God is with us and God is for us?

What do you say to those who suffer and call out to God, when they ask, "where is God? I thought He would be with us."

Many Jews after the Holocaust stopped believing in God because of this idea, because He didn't deliver them. What would you say to them?

Read the last paragraph, "Even when the Lord…" What are they trying to say? He wasn't going to take that sitting down?

Standing up indicates one is taking action—is that what Stephen saw, Jesus taking action, is that what the author means? What action? It is a sign of respect, was Jesus paying Stephen respect? Was it shock, Jesus was stunned and stood up on shock? What is the implication?

FRIDAY

Read question 3, "Russian author …" I read a book that had this philosophy in it for the heroes, "Journey before destination; life before death." This meant, in the book, that the way one travels, how one gets to where one is going matters, that the way one lives is more important than whether one dies for all eventually die, all eventually end up at the same destination—the grave, but the journey, how one lives, the life one has had, that is what makes the difference.

SUNDAY

The lesson examines the decisions of King Ahaz, who when threated with invasion from Ephraim and Aram, rather than going to God for deliverance, went to Assyria and asked for help.

Is there a lesson for us?

When we see problems coming do we go to God or to the world? Do we use the methods of God or do we use the methods of the world? What is the difference?

When is it appropriate to seek help from others? What is the difference between seeking help from others and seeking help from the world? It is about motive and methods. God's kingdom is the kingdom of love and love serves, it is relational. So it is absolutely righteous for us to help each other. It is false that the righteous only pray and seek to handle life's problems by themselves, alone, with only God. No, we pray, seek wisdom, but often will obtain the help in from or through others that God is using to minister and serve.

But we will not pursue relief of our problems by the methods and principles of the world any examples?

- If in debt we won't embezzle, steal, or commit fraud to deal with our debt. We won't borrow intending to not pay back.
- If we are attacked we don't attack back. We speak truth, when appropriate, but we don't enter into conflict, battles, wars.

- If we have health problems we ask for God's healing, but we also diagnose the problem, identify the cause, remove contributing factors, brings remedies or therapies to bear, seek medical professionals to help, and trust God with the outcome, but we don't merely pray and fail to practice what we know is health. We don't hurt others to advance ourselves, such buying a kidney on the black market.

What caused King Ahaz to seek help from Assyria? A threat, which caused what emotion? Fear, and why didn't Ahaz go to God for help?

What about today? Is there messaging bombarding us that incites fear? And what are we being told we need to do? Where are people going for help? Are most people turning to God and seeking to follow His will, methods and principles, or are they turning to man, to the government and using the methods of this world?

And when the methods of this world are used do we experience greater unity, harmony, and peace, or greater conflict, division and erosion of love? Do the methods of the world actually work?

Every system of the world that seeks to impose its way always causes some level of harm, even when it's goal is to help. The methods of the world while helping one group will harm another. This is Satan's domain. He is the divider.

Consider:

- Is there any injustice in the legal justice systems of this world? Is there any legal justice system in this world that gets every case right, that applies the laws fairly to all people all the time? Is there any human system in which innocents never get convicted or the guilty never get away with it?
- Social reforms—if we seek to help one group, say make rules that give easier admission to university to some, do we make it harder for others? If we want to help people who are struggling in poverty can we harm others if we take their resources and give it to those in need? What about if use the government to make all kinds of rules to prevent the spread of a virus, could this benefit some by protecting them from getting the virus, but injure others whose business fail and they end up homeless, or because of the increased stress they become depressed and commit suicide?

The point I am making is not arguing for the righteousness of any of these good goals, but demonstrating human governments are Satan's domain and their methods are beastly, so even when they seek to do good they simultaneously cause harm, injure and divide. That is the fallacy of the imposed law methodology, that someone we can get righteousness by more imposed laws, rules and rule-enforcement. It is a lie!

2021 1Q Isaiah: Lesson 4
The Hard Way

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read memory Text: "And I will wait on the LORD, who hides His face from the house of Jacob; and I will hope in Him." (Is 8:17 NKJV).

What does it mean the Lord is hiding his face?

Story of a blind girl who needed to jump from a building but wouldn't until she heard her father's voice and then she listened.

How can we know the voice of God?

Why Did God speak to Enoch, Moses, Abraham, but not others?

I love this quote from The Desire of Ages:

> "As Christ lived the law in humanity, so we may do if we will take hold of the Strong for strength. But we are not to place the responsibility of our duty upon others, and wait for them to tell us what to do. We cannot depend for counsel upon humanity. The Lord will teach us our duty just as willingly as He will teach somebody else. If we come to Him in faith, He will speak His mysteries to us personally. Our hearts will often burn within us as One draws nigh to commune with us as He did with Enoch. Those who decide to do nothing in any line that will displease God, will know, after presenting their case before Him, just what course to pursue. And they will receive not only wisdom, but strength. Power for obedience, for service, will be imparted to them, as Christ has promised. Whatever was given to Christ--the "all things" to supply the need of fallen men--was given to Him as the head and representative of humanity. And "whatsoever we ask, we receive of Him, because we keep His commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in His sight." 1 John 3:22. {DA 668.4}

Read last paragraph, "In the same way, God…" Do we have examples in Scripture of God's preferred method of communicating? If you had to lay out the progression of God dealing with us what would it be?

- Approach us gently
  - Adam in Eden
  - The Bible for us to read
  - The Holy Spirit moves upon our hearts and minds
- Speak louder and even threaten

Why does God let anyone go if He loves them?

What would the experience of a person who hates God, who hates love, who is hardened in selfishness, who gets pleasure out of torturing others be if they were to find themselves in God's presence?

If God does love them at least as much as you love your own child, would God use power to miraculously keep them alive in order for them to suffer? What is the reason for their suffering and torture? What is the only act of love God can do for those who insist on rebellion from Him?

If God does let them go, sever all connection from Him with them, and God is the source of life, what happens?

SUNDAY

Read first paragraph, "In Isaiah 7:14-16…" Let's go back to last week's lesson and read Wednesday starting with the third paragraph and read the end of the lesson, "Nowhere does the Old Testament…"

So, what is your understanding of the young woman in Isaiah 7 and the child?

If this is referring only to Jesus how would that be helpful to Ahaz as a sign that the two armies threatening him would leave?

If it referring only to Isaiah's son how would that child fulfill the meaning of Immanuel?

So, what is the solution?

This prophecy refers to two children, that is why the Hebrew for young woman can be a virgin or not, because the first child was specifically for Ahaz's benefit. This is the child who will still be too young to tell right from wrong when the armies leave. But there will be a second woman and a second child who will be God with us. This second woman will be a virgin as confirmed by the New Testament writers, and this second child will be Immanuel and will be further described in Isaiah 9.

What is curds? It is something made from milk—it could be cottage cheese, butter, yogurt, buttermilk and various translations render it differently, but it is a milk-based product.

What is the significance of mentioning this?

When the Hebrews left Egypt and were going into Canaan how was the land described? A land flowing with "milk and honey" Exodus 3:17, which is a way of saying a land of plenty, a land with abundance, with rich resources. So, in the face of the desolation caused by the invasion in which food was scarce, the promise of God is that before this promised child is old enough to know right from wrong, left from right, there will be enough food for all who trust God.

Is there a lesson for us today?

Israel was facing invasion and God sends a message that those who are faithful will be provided for—is this relevant for the people at the end of time?

Read the bottom green section, "Think, if you were living…" Four years ago in the USA many people experienced a crisis when President Trump was elected, currently there are many on the other side experiencing a crisis as Biden and the democrats are declared to be the winners.

What does all of this mean for the Christian?

Have people on the political left voiced concerns about injustice happening over the last four years?

Have people on the political right voiced concerns about injustice happening in this election?

When you believe you have been treated unfairly, when you are convinced an injustice has occurred—wrongly convicted of a crime, punished for something you did not do, defrauded of your property and no court will give you a hearing…when injustice happens what does it do to you?

Does it stir up more, "love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control" Galatians 5:22-23

The kingdoms of this world are whose? Satan's—all of them.

And upon what type of law do they operate? Imposed, arbitrary rules, open to manipulation and abuse.

If we place our faith in human governments, human courts, human legal/justice what will be the outcome—always, in every government in the entire world through all history? Injustice, abuse, exploitation, unfairness.

The human systems given the illusion of justice—but they are unjust—all of them. To the degree that the legislators, judges, administrators, and staffers are more godly, more kind, loving, compassionate, truthful, honest, then their actions will also be more just and the injustice of arbitrary laws and Satan's system will be mitigated by the righteous motives of the godly people holding the various levers of government. But injustice will still happen because the system itself is arbitrary, not everyone is righteous, human biases abound, ignorance, limited knowledge, and outright selfishness that manipulates the system still occurs.

But human governments become even more unjust as the people become more godless. And when your faith is in the law, in the government, in the system being fair, and you find that it isn't, what is the reaction? Outrage, hurt, anger, disillusionment, disappointment, discouragement, violence. We see a wrong and we must make it right. This is depicted in movies all the time with the many vigilante justice stories—when the system is corrupt we all long for a hero to come in and do whatever it takes to make it right. But such actions are not in keeping with God's kingdom of love and they are not godly justice.

As hearts turn away from God and harden against Him and the Holy Spirit is withdrawn will we see more love or less? Will human governments give us more justice or more injustice?

And what contributes to hearts turning away from God? Would teaching godless evolutionism, secularism, humanism, communism have any impact on whether people were searching for God or turning away from Him?

Do we see the war—the spiritual war—the war over the knowledge of God raging? We like Ahaz have to make a decision, when we see our world being attacked by those who are against God, the evolutionist, the secularist, the humanist, the communist—will we, like Ahaz, turn to another human agency to deliver us, or will we turn to God?

The Bible tells us that people, including many who claim to be Christian, will turn to human systems, forming a beastly coalition to promote what they believe to be right. They will work to try and save themselves, their countries, the earth itself but what method will they use? Imposed laws with coercion.

God is permitting events to transpire as they are to help us realize there is no justice in human governments. God's kingdom is not of this world. We must break away from loyalty to these human systems. We must give our hearts and our affections to God and be loyal to Him, and then we will see every human being as His child, our brothers and sisters, whether they are democrat or republican, white or black, rich or poor, Christian or agnostic, we see people either in harmony with God and getting healthier, or out of harmony and getting sicker. And when we see someone getting spiritually sicker, more selfish, more exploitive, more spiteful, more violent and we love them we grieve, but we don't embrace the methods of the world and try and force them to comply with what we think is right.

MONDAY

Read 2Kings 16:10-18:

> Then King Ahaz went to Damascus to meet Tiglath-Pileser king of Assyria. He saw an altar in Damascus and sent to Uriah the priest a sketch of the altar, with detailed plans for its construction. 11 So Uriah the priest built an altar in accordance with all the plans that King Ahaz had sent from Damascus and finished it before King Ahaz returned. 12 When the king came back from Damascus and saw the altar, he approached it and presented offerings on it. 13 He offered up his burnt offering and grain offering, poured out his drink offering, and sprinkled the blood of his fellowship offerings on the altar. 14 The bronze altar that stood before the LORD he brought from the front of the temple—from between the new altar and the temple of the LORD—and put it on the north side of the new altar. 15 King Ahaz then gave these orders to Uriah the priest: "On the large new altar, offer the morning burnt offering and the evening grain offering, the king's burnt offering and his grain offering, and the burnt offering of all the people of the land, and their grain offering and their drink offering. Sprinkle on the altar all the blood of the burnt offerings and sacrifices. But I will use the bronze altar for seeking guidance." 16 And Uriah the priest did just as King Ahaz had ordered. 17 King Ahaz took away the side panels and removed the basins from the movable stands. He removed the Sea from the bronze bulls that supported it and set it on a stone base. 18 He took away the Sabbath canopy that had been built at the temple and removed the royal entryway outside the temple of the LORD, in deference to the king of Assyria. (NIV84)

What are the lessons in this for us today?

Here is what is happening:

- Ahaz was king of Judah
- Judah is being threatened with invasion
- Ahaz doesn't turn to the Lord but goes to Tiglath-Pileser king of Assyria
- The Assyrian king requires that Judah submit to his authority
- Ahaz erects an altar to the Assyrian god and instructs that the sacrifices to Yahweh be made now to the god of Assyria on this new altar
- The priests build the altar and sacrifice on it and Ahaz also officiates as a priest sacrificing at this new altar

What is the lesson for us today?

When we are threatened do we turn to the God of heaven or to the gods of this world? Do our church leaders resist the call to align with the gods of this world, or do they willingly go along with what the world wants?

Ahaz didn't tear down the temple; he introduced into the temple system a foreign element, a foreign altar to a foreign god and moved the brazen altar from its place and introduced practices that were not in keeping with God's instructions.

Do we find in Christianity that unchristian ideas have entered? Has God's law be replaced with imposed human law? Has God's justice of healing hearts and minds and purging sin from characters been replaced with legal recording of sins and infliction of torture for the unrepentant? Has the priesthood of believers, rather than promoting the truth that God is like Jesus in character, instead advanced a false god of imposed rules who tortures people in hell?

Do we see movements happening in the world today that are motivating people to embrace more of the methods of the world in their religious beliefs and in their community and governmental practices?

TUESDAY

Read first paragraph, "Can you imagine…" The message is that turning away from God to get security, wealth, protection, spoils, will only result in one being plundered, ruined, overrun, exploited, destroyed.

Satan is the deceiver. He cannot directly destroy someone's soul. He must get them to choose to destroy their own soul, so he tricks people by getting them to use his methods in their pursuit of justice or righteousness.

It is just and right to seek to avoid getting raped, murdered, exploited, cheated, dominated, beaten—it is wrong for such violence to occur. Seeking to prevent war is just and right, but what method do we use to stop evil—this is the question.

Satan's grand strategy, which he uses over and over again, is to do injustice of various kinds, incite outrage in those who are wronged or who observe the wrong and then get them to embrace his methods to seek to right the wrong, which only wrongs and hurts others and the cycle of violence, exploitation, injury, hurt continues on and on.

What is Jesus' method for dealing with those who wrong us?

> You have heard that it was said, 'Eye for eye, and tooth for tooth.' 39 But I tell you, Do not resist an evil person. If someone strikes you on the right cheek, turn to him the other also. 40 And if someone wants to sue you and take your tunic, let him have your cloak as well. 41 If someone forces you to go one mile, go with him two miles. 42 Give to the one who asks you, and do not turn away from the one who wants to borrow from you. 43 "You have heard that it was said, 'Love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' 44 But I tell you: Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, 45 that you may be sons of your Father in heaven. He causes his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous. 46 If you love those who love you, what reward will you get? Are not even the tax collectors doing that? 47 And if you greet only your brothers, what are you doing more than others? Do not even pagans do that? 48 Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect. (Matthew 5:38-48 NIV84)

This is the final culmination of events we are heading into—the beastly systems of this world are gaining more and more power. The four angels of Revelation are loosening their hold and Satan's agencies are gaining more power, which means more injustice, more coercion, more exploitation, more fear and more fear leads to more control and less liberty, which means less love—except in the hearts of those who have severed their hearts from the world and have been sealed into the kingdom of God.

We will see injustice, fraud, deceit, exploitation—what will we do? Seek to punish, to dominate, to force or to love, forgive, and trust God with our very lives?
In preparing for the lesson this week, I came across this quote from one of the founders of the SDA church in the book Early Writings it describes the strategy of Satan in deceiving Adam and Eve. Consider, do you see this same strategy being employed today?

> When Satan became fully conscious that there was no possibility of his being brought again into favor with God, his malice and hatred began to be manifest. He consulted with his angels, and a plan was laid to still work against God's government. When Adam and Eve were placed in the beautiful garden, Satan was laying plans to destroy them. In no way could this happy couple be deprived of their happiness if they obeyed God. [Satan cannot corrupt any human soul. He can tempt and in this world of sin he can cause suffering, but he cannot corrupt any soul. We must choose to corrupt our own souls by believing his lies, preferring, embracing and > practicing his methods which always violate God's design and damage us.] Satan could not exercise his power upon them unless they should first disobey God and forfeit His favor. Some plan must therefore be devised to lead them to disobedience that they might incur God's frown and be brought under the more direct influence of Satan and his angels. It was decided that Satan should assume another form and manifest an interest for man. [Is this strategy used today? Are there evil agencies masquerading as agents of good, representatives of powers to improve one's life, one's circumstance, to lift up out of suffering, but are in reality leading people to violate God's design and damage their own souls?] He must insinuate against God's truthfulness and create doubt whether God did mean just what He said; [Do we see millions deceived about God's law, His design protocols for life, who have accepted arbitrary rules and believe justice can be achieved by power over, by force, by more legislation?] next, he must excite their curiosity, and lead them to pry into the unsearchable plans of God-- the very sin of which Satan had been guilty--and reason as to the cause of His restrictions in regard to the tree of knowledge." {EW 146.2}

What do you understand the judgments of God to be?

- Do you see judgments through the human law lens as legal rulings and handing down of punishment?
- Do you see judgments through design law to be accurate diagnosis and the judgment as to the most righteous action to take in any given circumstance?

Consider this historic quote, what do you think?

> "How great is the long – suffering of God toward the wicked! The idolatrous Philistines and backsliding Israel had alike enjoyed the gifts of His providence. Ten thousand unnoticed mercies were silently falling in the pathway of ungrateful, rebellious men. Every blessing spoke to them of the Giver, but they were indifferent to His love. The forbearance of God was very great toward the children of men; but when they stubbornly persisted in their impenitence, He removed from them His protecting hand. [Why would God remove His protective hand? What would be the result if He didn't? What would they come to believe about their sinfulness if God continued to protect them? What would happen to their hearts and minds? And in OT times what would have happened to the avenue for the Messiah?] They refused to listen to the voice of God in His created works, and in the warnings, counsels, and reproofs of His word, and thus He was forced to speak to them through judgments." [What were His judgments? Removing His protecting hand and allowing them to reap what occurs when one is out of harmony with God. And what is the blessing to people in experiencing this?] - PP 587.4

What about today as people become more godless, what will God do? What are we seeing in the world today? What will happen as time unfolds? Revelation speaks of pouring out vials of wrath or judgments, what do we think causes this? Is it God inflicting or is it God letting go, the four angels no longer holding back the winds of strife?

Here is another historic quote:

"I was shown that the judgments of God would not come directly out from the Lord upon them, but in this way; They place themselves beyond His protection. He warns, corrects, reproves, and points out the only path of safety; then if those who have been the objects of His special care will follow their own course, independent of the Spirit of God, after repeated warnings, if they choose their own way, then He does not commission His angels to prevent Satan's decided attacks upon them.

It is Satan's power that is at work at sea and on land, bringing calamity and distress, and sweeping off multitudes to make sure of his prey, and storm and tempest both by sea and land will be, for Satan has come down in great wrath. He is at work. He knows his time is short and, he is not restrained; we shall see more terrible manifestations of his great power than we have ever dreamed of." Manuscript Release vol. 14, p. 3

I want to tell you another thing. The vials of God's wrath and the sprinkling of them, are already coming. What is the matter that we do not discern it? It is because the light of truth does not affect the heart. The Spirit of God is being withdrawn from the world.

You hear of calamities by land and by sea, and they are constantly increasing. What is the matter? The Spirit of God is taken away from those who have the lives of men in their hands, and Satan is coming in to control them, because they give themselves to his control. Those who profess to be the children of God do not place themselves under the guardianship of the heavenly angels, and as Satan is a destroyer, he works through those men and they make mistakes, and they will get drunk, and because of intemperance, many times bring these terrible calamities upon us.

And see the storms and tempests! Satan is working in the atmosphere; he is poisoning the atmosphere, and here we are dependent upon God for our lives—our present and eternal life. And being in the position that we are, we need to be wide-awake, wholly devoted, wholly converted, wholly consecrated to God. But we seem to sit as though we were paralyzed. God of heaven, wake us up! Sermons and Talks Volume 2, p. 69.3; Manuscript 1, 1890; SM book 2, p. 52

Do we see today, just as in Ahaz's day, that when the people turn away from God, harden their hearts, go after the gods of this world, the gods of imperialism, power over, force, coercion, that God sets them free to reap what they choose. And as millions harden against God His Spirit is withdrawn and satanic agencies gain more power over the earth and the people not sealed by the Holy Spirit and evil continues to rise. Are we awake to see it?

WEDNESDAY

Nothing to Fear When We Fear God Himself—what do you think of this title?

Does it sound contradictory? Are they making a word play, purposely trying to contrast the word fear to mean two different things, are they intending fear to mean the same thing both times it is used?

Read second paragraph, "God warned Isaiah…" What does it mean to fear God and give glory to Him?

The lesson asks a great question, What does it mean to fear God in light of the command for us to love Him?

Read third paragraph, "True fear of God as holy…" Does this sound like fear of a different nature or the same type, the fear of terror, anxiety, distress—watch out God is most powerful and God can get you no matter what!

In the last paragraph the lesson tries to mitigate this ugly view, let's read the last paragraph, "There are different kinds of fear…" thoughts?

From where does fear originate? Does fear come from God, godliness, God's law, God's design, holiness, righteousness, love or any fruits of the Spirit? There is no fear in love the Bible says—so where does fear originate?

As soon as Adam and Eve sinned they ran and hid because they were afraid. Fear originates in sin, it is the natural result of being out of harmony with God's law, God's design for life.

What is the experience of people when an angel from God appears to them or they are in the presence of someone from heaven, like the apostles at the Mount of Transfiguration? Isn't it fear? And what do the angels say to God's prophets every time—almost always the first words? "Fear not" or "Don't be afraid."

Why do we initially experience fear when God when we come into His presence or when one of God's angels or representatives appear to us? Because the holiness, truth, love of heaven exposes the corruption, sin-sickness in us and sin causes fear.

But as we trust God, as we spend time in His presence, as we embrace His truth, experience His love, practice His methods the lies are expelled, our characters are transformed and the fear is eradicated. We become friends of God who know there is no need to fear God for God is for us.

The bottom green section asks, "are there things the world fears that we as Christians shouldn't fear? If so, what are they, and why shouldn't we fear them? At the same time, what things does the world not fear that we Christians should?"

What things are we not to fear that the world does?

- Financial ruin?
- Public humiliation or embarrassment?
- Being labeled a racist, sexist, bigot—(not actually being one, just being labeled one)?

- Rejection—be blocked on social media?
- Global warming and climate change?
- COVID-19?
- Death?
    - "Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil—and free those who all their lives were held in slavery by their fear of death." (Heb 2:14-15 NIV84)
- What about truth? Does the world fear truth?

What things are we to fear that the world doesn't fear?

- Sin itself, deviating from God's design laws? The world doesn't fear rebellion against God, denying His existence, deviating from His design laws, embracing deceit, selfishness, coercion.
- How many Christians have been deceived to be more afraid of God who is working to save them than the sin in their lives which is destroying them?

THURSDAY

The lesson points out that Ahaz was deeply involved in paganism sacrificing to false gods and Isaiah had a message for him about this:

Read Isaiah 8:19-20:

> And when they say to you, "Seek those who are mediums and wizards, who whisper and mutter," should not a people seek their God? Should they seek the dead on behalf of the living? To the law and to the testimony! If they do not speak according to this word, it is because there is no light in them. (NKJV)

What does this mean?

- The law refers to the Torah or Old Testament Scripture, God's revelation of truth to us. If it isn't in harmony with God's revealed truth then we shouldn't believe it.
- The testimony is the testimony about God given by God's spokespersons through time, the truth of God's character, design law, methods, the issues in the great controversy. If a message contracts all of this then we are not to believe it.
- Light refers to the light of truth and those who consult the dead are going to the source of lies and falsehood and there is no truth there, there is no light, only darkness.

What is spiritualism? It is the pursuit of knowledge without the investigation of evidence or the use of reason—

FRIDAY

In the quotation from the book The Great Controversy it states, "But the 'familiar spirits,' as these visitants from other worlds were called are declared by the Bible to be 'the spirits of devils.'"

Could spiritualism take on the form of communication or visitation from aliens from other planets?

What would happen in the world today if we started receiving communications from listening stations purported to come from some other star system or galaxy?

2021 1Q Isaiah: Lesson 5
Noble Prince of Peace

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

Read memory text but let's read Isaiah 9:6 and verse 7:

> For unto us a Child is born,
> Unto us a Son is given;
> And the government will be upon His shoulder.
> And His name will be called > Wonderful, Counselor, Mighty God,
> Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace.
> 7 Of the increase of His government and peace
> There will be no end,
> Upon the throne of David and over His kingdom,
> To order it and establish it with judgment and justice
> From that time forward, even forever.
> The zeal of the LORD of hosts will perform this. (NKJV)

What does this verse mean to you?

What does this verse say about the divinity of Jesus?

- Who is the Counselor? The Holy Spirit
- Who is the Everlasting Father?
- Who is the Prince of Peace?
- How can all three be said of Jesus?

Does this mean there is only one individuality and Jesus is that one individuality, or rather that the three individualities are so united in perfection of Their character of love that when you see Jesus you see the Father and the Spirit?

What does the idea of "Prince of Peace" and "His government and peace" mean to you?

In this world today do we need more peace? Do we need the kingdom of the Prince of Peace?

How does one achieve peace? Can we achieve peace through war? Yet the Bible says "And there was war in heaven. Michael and his angels fought against the dragon, and the dragon and his angels fought back." (Rev 12:7 NIV84)

How do we understand this? How is that we cannot achieve peace by prosecuting war, yet Michael and His angels warred against the devil and Jesus is the Prince of Peace?

What law lens are we understanding this through?

If we understand law and government to be like human governments then law is imposed, injustice must be punished, and war is won through conquest, through force and might, through power over, through killing one's enemies and forcing submission.

But if we understand design law then we understand that peace is achieved by destroying the elements that cause division and hostility. We destroy lies, fear, selfishness out the hearts of intelligent beings. Thus the Bible says:

> For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. 4 The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. 5 We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. (2 Co 10:3–5 NIV84).

What kind of weapons do we use? Those that demolish lies about God and win hearts to love and trust—can you win hearts by force and violence?

This all fits perfectly as the word in Revelation 12 translated "war" "there was war in heaven…" is:

> πόλεμος [polemos /pol·em·os/] n m. From pelomai (to bustle); TDNT 6:502; TDNTA 904; GK 4483; 18 occurrences; AV translates as "war" 12 times, "battle" five times, and "fight" once. 1 a war. 2 a fight, a battle. 3 a dispute, strife, quarrel.[1]

In English we get the word polemic which means:

> "a controversial argument, as one against some opinion, doctrine, etc."

God fights the war with the weapons of truth, love, freedom, evidence, revelation—Satan fights with lies, deception, flattery, coercion, manipulation, propaganda, and violence.

We can never get peace using Satan's methods—never!

Do any other Bible texts come to mind when we consider the Prince of Peace forming a government that built on peace and never end?

Does Psalms 119:165 have any bearing? If so what?

> Great peace have they who love your law,
> and nothing can make them stumble. (NIV84)

Why do those who love God's law have great peace?

Do we create greater peace through more legislation? By greater authoritarianism—rules over and enforcement of rules? By getting the right judges or politicians in office?

Does this text in Isaiah about the government being on Jesus' shoulders mean that He takes over a human government and reigns over earthly kingdoms?

Far too many Christians read this text through the lens of human law and think that Jesus will come and set up a kingdom that runs just like earthly kingdoms, with power over and infliction of punishment for disobedience? Who is going to come and give them such a kingdom?

This is Satan's grand strategy, infect minds with the lie that God's law works like human law, rules over that require legal action and external enforcement. That idea corrupts everything:

- The cross is corrupted into God legally executing His Son and Jesus dying to pay a legal penalty to a god who is the inflictor and source of death
- The wicked are tortured and killed by God and God is feared rather than loved
- Theologies are taught that are designed to hide us or protect us from God (covered by robe of righteousness, intercessor pleads to the punishing god not to punish etc.) because we don't trust Him—we don't have faith in God we have faith in the legal payment of Jesus!
- Holiness is perverted to rule-keeping, performance, obedience to law
- Churches fracture as they fight over the right definition, of terms or understanding of texts, or the right mechanics for worship or the right rituals
- Justice is distorted into accurate record keeping and "just" infliction of punishments
- People are deceived into believing justice can be achieved through human governments if only we get the right laws passed or officials in office
- The beastly system of Revelation will not arise seeking injustice. It will not arise by claiming to promote evil. It will arise pursuing justice—the specific justice doesn't matter—it might be racial justice, economic justice, gender justice, environmental justice, justice for the unborn—but whatever justice is pursued it will be advanced by using human governments to pass laws that will be enforced by fines, sanctions, revocation of business licenses, restrictions of freedom such as travel, assembly, speech, canceling of memberships, imprisonment and eventual death penalty. All of this in the pursuit of justice, of doing what is right to save the planet, to save lives, to protect the innocent, the down trodden, the oppressed. But all through > Satan's kingdoms, methods and principles. This is all Satan's deception to infect hearts and minds with his methods and it deceives if it were possible the very elect.

We can never achieve God's goals through Satan's methods. We can never have justice via Satan's kingdom and every kingdom, government of this world is Satan's.

Remember, Jesus said His kingdom was not of this world, the kingdom of God is within you. God's kingdom is the kingdom of truth, love and freedom. Think about these three elements and the use of force and power—the methods of the world:

- Can you get people to believe and accept the truth by force—by threatening them with punishment if they don't believe? "A person convinced against their will is of the same opinion still." This is why the Bible says "every person must be fully persuaded in their own mind." (Romans 14:5). Truth cannot win hearts by threatening to kill those who won't accept the truth. We cannot advance truth with Satan's methods.
- Can you get people to love you or others by threatening them with punishment if they don't love you or others?
- Can you get more freedom by imprisoning people and punishing people who don't value freedom?

Understand the great trap of Satan than millions of Christians have fallen into—that God's law functions like human law and justice can be achieved by right human laws, justices, politicians or legislation—it is a lie.

Consider this historic quote from one of the founders of the SDA church:

> In these days it is Satan's determined purpose to intensify sin by making it legal in the children of disobedience. He is to reveal to the world and to heaven what is the order and result of a government carried on according to his ideas of administration and law. He is working with secret yet with intense zeal in both Church and State, to cause men to throw off all the restraints of God's law, and take a decided stand with him in the ranks of rebellion; but when his work is accomplished, the Lord will interpose, and vindicate his honor as the supreme Ruler of the universe. ST April 28, 1890, par. 8

Do you see the trap? We only have a government of peace from the Prince of Peace by restoring God's law into hearts and minds of people so that they love others more than self and every citizen in God's kingdom is completely trustworthy!

But some object: are you saying we should not care about social injustice or doing social justice? Should we just ignore abuse to our fellow human beings, should Christians have just ignored slavery?

And slavery is a great example of the difference in God's methods of advancing justice—and the world's method.

Those who see the world through the lens of human imposed law look at the New Testament and don't find a statement condemning slavery. They don't find instructions from Jesus or the Apostles directing for slaves to run away, in fact what is found are directions for slaves to return to their owners and to stay with their masters. We don't find in the New Testament any calls for new laws to do away with slavery, or any advocacy for abolitionist senators or governors in Rome—and thus those who read the Bible through human law find the Bible unjust, they falsely think the Bible was not attacking slavery. But it did and continues to attack all injustice—how? Through God's law, through God's methods, through the only means that actually ends human suffering, including slavery, and brings genuine peace—through changing hearts and minds by writing God's law upon the hearts and minds of people.

What happens to slavery and every other human abuse, if EVERY person loves you and others as much as they love their own spouse or children or self? Slavery is eradicated! God was absolutely working to eliminate slavery, but not through human governments because all human governments are part of Satan's kingdom and operate on Satan's methods and when we embrace those methods and use those avenues our hearts get corrupted—we open a door to our hearts for Satan's laws and methods to be written into our characters. And no matter how righteous our intentions, when we write laws and enforce them injustice to some people will occur.

Understand there is a difference in being a Protestant—a person who stands up to the injustices in the world and speaks the truth in love and those who get seduced into pursuing righteousness through legislation. Protestants in the truest sense advance God's kingdom by promoting the truth in love while leaving others free. Their primary focus is changing hearts and minds away from the methods of Satan to the principles and methods of God. As the people change the community and society changes. So we have a responsibility, which is what we are doing in Come and Reason Ministries to Protest all human injustice, but via the methods of God, truth, love and freedom, focused on healing hearts and minds.

So, what do we understand the government of Peace to be and how is it that those who love God's law have great peace?

SUNDAY

Read Isaiah 8:19-22:

> When men tell you to consult mediums and spiritists, who whisper and mutter, should not a people inquire of their God? Why consult the dead on behalf of the living? 20 To the law and to the testimony! If they do not speak according to this word, they have no light of dawn. 21 Distressed and hungry, they will roam through the land; when they are famished, they will become enraged and, looking upward, will curse their king and their God. 22 Then they will look toward the earth and see only distress and darkness and fearful gloom, and they will be thrust into utter darkness. NIV84

What is happening in this text? What is spiritualism? It is the pursuit of knowledge without the investigation of evidence or the use of reason—

- Saul talking to the witch of Endor—wanted knowledge of the future
- Tarot cards
- Palm reading
- Astrology
- Tea leaves or chicken bones
- Seances
- Ouija boards
- Automatic writing

What is wrong with pursuing the occult or using these methods?
What happens to people who utilize these practices?

Why do people who turn to the occult end up in darkness? Because there is no light there, it is simply how reality works. It doesn't matter their intention—if a person with good intention seeks to get healthy by drinking poison, thinking, hoping, praying that the poison will cure them, will they get healthier? If a person puts on a blindfold attempting to see more clearly will they?

Rejecting truth and embracing lies NEVER enlightens, it only darkens. The occult is the domain of the father of lies and his minions and will only darken, confuse, pervert, damage and destroy.

As I was thinking about this moral darkness that covers the minds of the people, I was reminded of an article in the Signs of the Times January 20, 1890 entitled God Made Manifest in Christ by E.G. White.

Before we read some of this—what kind of war are we in? What are the weapons do we use? They are to demolish what? As we approach the second advent, consider this description of the situation at the first advent of Christ:

> At the first advent of Christ, darkness, covered the earth, and gross darkness the people. [Darkness about what? Did darkness cover only the non-Jewish people, or were the Jews in darkness? Does this have any parallels for us today?] Light and truth seemed to have departed from among men, and Satan appeared to reign in undisputed power. [How was Satan reigning? Was he on a physical throne or was he reigning in the hearts and minds of people through his lies, his methods and principles—which are imposed rules which increases injustice after injustice though legal means. Remember slavery was legal. All the abuses of the Pharisees were legal. They hated Jesus because He broke their laws.] Rival sects existed, and among those who professed to be the servants of God were displayed love of preeminence and strife for power and position. [Do we see rival sects in society today, or could we say rival political parties? Do we see those rival sects claiming to be promoting the "good of the people" but in reality they love preeminence and fight for power and position over others?] Souls who were desirous of light were filled with perplexity and sorrow. [Are many people today desperate for light, searching for what is right?] Many were sighing, "What is truth?" [How many today are saying "What is truth, there is no truth, your truth is your truth my truth is my truth"?] Ignorance prevailed, but many were looking for something better, looking for light that would illuminate the moral darkness of the world. [Does ignorance about God and God's design law for life prevail today? And many are looking for something better, for light that will illuminate the moral darkness of this world! But where will they find it when the churches are infected with the imposed law lie and collude with governments practicing imperial methods of coercion—just like the Pharisees 2000 years ago.] They were thirsting for a knowledge of the living God, for some assurance of a life beyond the tomb… [What was the darkness over? What was the light the people were desperate for? What about today? This same author describes the darkness enshrouding the world today in COL 415:

> "It is the darkness of misapprehension of God that is enshrouding the world. Men are losing their knowledge of His character. It has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. At this time a message from God is to be proclaimed, a message illuminating in its influence and saving in its power. His character is to be made known. Into the darkness of the world is to be shed the light of His glory, the light of His goodness, mercy and truth…The last rays of merciful light, the last message of mercy to be given to the world, is the revelation of His character of love."

Just as at the time of the first advent so now at the time of the second advent. People are hungering for the knowledge of the living God and God is calling for a people to tell this end-time message, which is the truth of His character of love, rejecting imposed law and returning to worshipping the Creator whose laws are design laws!] {ST, January 20, 1890 par. 1}

Christ came just as prophecy had foretold. He was the "way, the truth, and the life," and the beams of the Sun of Righteousness dispelled the moral darkness so that the honest in heart might see the truth… [And Christ will come a second time just as prophecy has foretold:

> "Surely the day is coming; it will burn like a furnace. All the arrogant and every evildoer will be stubble, and that day that is coming will set them on fire," says the LORD Almighty. "Not a root or a branch will be left to them. But for you who revere my name, the sun of righteousness will rise with healing in its wings" (Mal 4:1-2 NIV84).

And consider if you were in a dark cave and were brought out at noon on a sunny day, versus you came out before dawn and watched the sun rise. The Sun of Righteousness rises with healing in His rays or beams or wings, those who love truth, love light, and are embracing the truth and assimilating it into their hearts are being healed, transformed, renewed, so that when He appears in all His glory we live in His fiery life-giving glory. But those who have rejected the ever-increasing truth and light, remain in darkness and when He appears in glory the beg for the mountains to fall them and hide them from Him. But for those of us who love the truth, embrace the light, we become the lights of God in the world of darkness. We are the ones who are God's final witnesses—the ones who reveal God's love and truth are contrary to the methods of this world!] {ST, January 20, 1890 par. 3}

The Saviour of the world proposed that no attraction of an earthly character should call men to his side. The light and beauty of celestial truth alone should be the drawing power. [And so today God cannot win hearts and minds to love and trust by might, power, intimidation, great signs and wonders or miracles. Only by truth presented in love and leaving people free can He win this war, why? Because His goal is to heal hearts and minds and that requires our participation. We must think, reason, weigh out the evidences and decide. If God were to use might over us, it would intimidate us and we would lose our individuality. Thus, God uses the power of love and truth to win His case!] The outward glory, the worldly honor, which attracts the attention of men, he would not assume. He made himself accessible to all, teaching the pure, exalted principle of truth as that which was only worthy of their notice…[But the methods of Satan, the ways of this world are not truth, they are lies, deception, pomp, wealth, intimidation, power over, coercion. Do we find this is still true today?] {ST, January 20, 1890 par. 4}

Christ came to represent the Father. We behold in him the image of the invisible God. He clothed his divinity with humanity, and came to the world that the erroneous ideas Satan had been the means of creating in the minds of men, in regard to the character of God, might be removed. [What is the central issue in this war? The truth about God's character of love! This is why an angel could not come as our Savior because the lies of Satan were not about angels, they are about God. And only God can fully reveal the truth about God.] We could not behold the glory of God unveiled in Christ and live; [Why? Is this a rule or is it a function of reality? And if those who Christ came to save couldn't behold God's unveiled glory and live, what happens to the wicked in the end when His glory is unveiled? Is this an infliction by God or a result of unremedied sin in their hearts and minds—of how reality works? What kind of law is this?] but as he came in the garb of humanity, we may draw nigh to our Redeemer. We are called upon to behold the Lord our Father in the person of his Son…{ST, January 20, 1890 par. 5}

Christ came to save fallen man, and Satan with fiercest wrath met him on the field of conflict; [And how did Satan attack Christ? 1st, by deception and lies pretending to be an angel from heaven; 2nd, by false theology misusing Scripture—himself and then his human agents doing this multiple times as recorded in the Gospels. 3rd, by bribes and inducements offering the rewards of this world; 4th, by coercion, threat, abuse, and ultimately torture and death through the application of human laws that were easily manipulated to bring about the execution of Jesus. Notice the methods of Satan—these are the methods of earthly governments—they lie and deceive, they financially incentivize and bribe with tax incentives, with power, position, privilege, they ultimately coerce with imprisonment and even execution and the laws are easily manipulated by those in power to destroy the righteous.] for the enemy knew that when divine strength was added to human weakness, man was armed with power and intelligence, and could break away from the captivity in which he had bound him. [What divine strength and power? What are the divine weapons? Break away from the captivity that binds us—what does this mean? What keeps us captive? Lies bind us—so truth destroys lies and sets us free. And fear/selfishness, the carnal nature with its me-first survival drives, enslave us, so love destroys fear and selfishness and sets us free. As we embrace the truth about God's character, design laws, methods, as revealed and fulfilled in Jesus we are won to trust, then, in trust, we open the heart and the Spirit brings God's love and pours it into our hearts which casts out fear. We are set free to love our enemies and pray for those who abuse us. Jesus came to give us His power of truth and love so we could break free. But notice what the author writes next in Satan's warfare] Satan sought to intercept every ray of light from the throne of God. He sought to cast his shadow across the earth, that men might lose the true views of God's character, and that the knowledge of God might become extinct in the earth. [Is this also the situation today? Has God been forgotten? Is it considered reasonable by the world to still believe in God or do only the uneducated, the foolish still believe in God? And what about those who do believe in God, are the churches presenting God's true character or are they presenting Satan's view of an imperial dictator—a legal religion that is the shadow of Satan's kingdom and character, just like the Jews did 2000 years ago? Do you see why God needs an end-time people to call people back to Creator worship and reveal the truth of His character and design law methods!] He had caused truth of vital importance to be so mingled with error that it had lost its significance. [What might that truth be? What is the error that is mixed in? Hear what comes next!] The law of Jehovah was burdened with needless exactions and traditions, [What was the error? The design law of God was burdened with needless exactions and traditions—how? By accepting the lie that God's law is imposed rules. Design law has no needless exactions or tradition, it is human law, made up rules that multiply and multiply and become ever more burdensome. Just look at all our societies and governments and the myriad of laws and regulations we have and how legislators continue to pass more and more all the time and what is the result? Continuing the quote:] and God was represented as severe, exacting, revengeful, and arbitrary. [Why? Because when God's law is pictured as rules made up, then He necessarily must be the one who enforce those rules, which are arbitrary, and therefore God is viewed as the arbitrary, revengeful, severe—the punisher of rule-breakers.] He was pictured as one who could take pleasure in the sufferings of his creatures. The very attributes that belonged to the character of Satan, the evil one represented as belonging to the character of God. [How did Satan achieve this? By getting people to believe the lie that God's law is imposed law. Once we accept that lie then we present God as functioning like Satan. When we embrace the lie that we can get justice in society through human governments and pursue this we open our hearts to be stamped with Satan's stamp, Satan's character and we become like the evil one. We become marked either in our forehead or hand.] Jesus came to teach men of the Father, to correctly represent him before the fallen children of earth. Angels could not fully portray the character of God, but Christ, who was a living impersonation of God, could not fail to accomplish the work. The only way in which he could set and keep men right was to make himself visible and familiar to their eyes. [What is another way to say setting and keeping right? Justification and sanctification The only way to do this was to reveal the truth about God which wins us to trust. Notice, this author didn't say one of the ways, or, in addition to the necessary legal payment to pay for your sins to set men right... No! The ONLY way to set and keep men right is through revealing the truth about God, why? Because of reality—what is being set right? Not records, not legal accounts, but hearts and minds of people. And that is the reality of justification—a heart that is at enmity or distrusting God can only be set right with God by truth and love! There is nothing legal about it.] That men might have salvation he came directly to man, and became a partaker of his nature… [In order to reveal the truth and procure the remedy!] {ST, January 20, 1890 par. 6}

The Father was revealed in Christ as altogether a different being from that which Satan had represented him to be… [How does Satan represent God to be? A rule-maker and legal enforcer whose law and government operate like this sinful world. Jesus revealed something completely different. What is happening in the world today? Is the Christian world presenting God as Jesus revealed, or is the Christian world presenting the false god of imposed rules who is the inflictor of pain and suffering and thus the Christian world seeks to achieve its goals through human governments?] The men of his own nation, the leaders of the people, were so ensnared by the deceptions of Satan that the plan of redemption for a fallen race seemed to their minds indistinct and unexplainable… [What about today? Is the plan of salvation indistinct and unexplainable to the leaders of the world? What about the leaders of the church? When they explain it as Jesus paying a penalty to the Father so the Father won't be legally required to kill us, are they demonstrating a knowledge of the truth or showing that they are confused and don't understand?] {ST, January 20, 1890 par. 7}

Christ exalted the character of God, attributing to him the praise, and giving to him the credit, of the whole purpose of his own mission on earth,--to set men right through the revelation of God. [Set us right, justify us, through a revelation of God, not through a legal payment, why? Because the problem is not legal, the problem is not a problem with God's law or God's attitude, or God's forgiveness, or God's government, but the problem is a problem with our hearts and minds—We believe lies about God and don't trust Him and are infected with fear and selfishness. Thus, the way we are set right with God is to dispel the lies, the darkness with the light of truth that wins us to trust and then when we trust He infuses us with His presence and His love overcomes our fear and we are renewed to be like Him in character.] In Christ was arrayed before men the paternal grace and the matchless perfections of the Father. In his prayer just before his crucifixion, he declared, "I have manifested thy name." "I have glorified thee on the earth; I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do." When the object of his mission was attained,--the revelation of God to the world,--the Son of God announced that his work was accomplished, and that the character of the Father was made manifest to men.

Do we see the very same issues going on in the war today as when Christ first came? Do we see that our Prince of Peace restores peace in us as we love His law, which is design law, which is an expression of His character, which destroys the lies of the enemy and restores us to trust, which takes away our fear and brings us peace?

MONDAY

In the fifth paragraph it states, "He [Jesus] received all authority in heaven and on earth, and He is with us always (Matt. 28:18-20). While retaining His divinity He also has become human for all time, ever able to sympathize with our weaknesses (Heb 4:15)…"

He is with us always—for how long has Jesus become human? Realize this sacrifice of Jesus to become incarnate, to become human is an infinite sacrifice something we will never fully appreciate. Jesus, prior to His incarnation, lived as an infinite being—a being of infinity. He could enter and leave infinity. He could manifest in physical form, but He wasn't restricted to physical form. He was still an infinite being who lived in all points of time and all places simultaneously. But when He became incarnate, He surrendered His infinite powers and became one with us—for all eternity future. This wasn't just for 33 years, but for all time He remains human—He no longer is in all places at all times simultaneously—that is why the Holy Spirit is His representative now. This is why Jesus told His disciples He would send the Comforter. This is why Jesus said the Comforter would not speak on His own but only what He hears. The Comforter communicates to each of us the pleas of Jesus calling us to come home, to let Him heal us, to let Him take away our fear, our pain, our heartaches, to let Him come in and sup with us!

But what about this idea of Jesus sympathizing with us? Could an infinite God not sympathize with us without becoming human?

> For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but we have one who has been tempted in every way, just as we are—yet was without sin. (Heb 4:15 NIV84)

My view is this is about our infinite God demonstrating to us His infinite love by becoming one with us, by surrendering infinite power, by becoming human, by becoming a helpless infant, by becoming powerless and being abused and tortured and killed—to reveal to us the truth that was always true about His character—that He truly does know all of our weaknesses, struggles, infirmities, temptations and is able to provide everything we need for victory. It isn't so much He learned in the sense of being enlightened, but that He achieved as a human what none of us could achieve and simultaneously revealed to us the truth about God.

And we are tempted from both outside ourselves and by our own humanity, fear and selfishness. Jesus was tempted outside Himself, but the humanity He assumed also tempted Him with fatigue, pain, and then with fear of death and the desire to save self and not die—as seen in Gethsemane, but He overcame all temptation by perfect love and perfect trust in His Father.

TUESDAY

What do you think of the title for today's lesson: The Rod of God's Anger?

Is this the same rod that David wrote about in Psalms 23, that "your rod and staff they comfort me" or is this a different rod?

Does God get angry? At what and about what? What is the focus of His anger?

What is the difference between righteous anger and sinful anger?

What law lens do we understand this through?

- Design law understands that righteous anger is always motivated by love for people and focuses on destroying the disease of sin in order to heal and save people. Like a doctor's anger at disease which destroys but not at the sick patient who is dying. So the doctor's anger is taken out on the virus, the cancer, the sickness, not on the patient.
- Imposed law promotes sinful anger which is motivated by selfishness and the desire to retaliate and focuses on punishing, hurting, or destroying people, while perpetuating sin and selfishness. It is the anger of not getting our way, or being hurt, injured, treated unfairly and instead of seeking to destroy the sin through truth and love, we want to destroy the sinner through inflicted punishment.

Thus the rod of God's anger through imposed law is the rod of punishment, of God inflicting, God making people suffer or God killing to punish sin which is Satan's lie.

Under design law the rod of God's anger is God's agencies, work, power interfering with sin in order to eradicate sin and save people. Thus for the righteous the rod and staff comfort because they destroy the disease of sin and restore us to godly spiritual health.

But for the unrighteous, who remain in a false worldview and believe lies about reality, they misconstrue the rod as an instrument of punishment that God wields to inflict pain. They fail to realize that their suffering actually comes from their refusal to let God do surgery on their hearts and cut out the fear, selfishness and evil habits.

WEDNESDAY

The description of Jesus as the shoot or sprout that comes out of the stump of Jesse. What does this mean?

The line of David was to be a great tree of righteousness, but it became corrupted and that tree was cut down but a remnant remained from which Jesus was born, a small sprout to shoot. And Jesus grew and became the King of kings and Lord of lords.

How is Jesus both the Root and the Branch of David? Because Jesus is the Father/Creator of Adam, and Adam is the father of all humans, so the father of David, yet Jesus became incarnate and took His genetic humanity from the family line of David. So Jesus is both the Root and Branch of David.

The lesson asks in what way will Jesus, the new Davidic Ruler reverse all the evil effects of sin and apostasy?

The lesson answers with this: "He thinks and acts in harmony with the Lord, judges fairly, punishes the wicked, and brings peace."

Do you agree or disagree? Why is this incorrect? Because this is Satan's lie about justice—that justice is based on the right laws, the right judges and the right punishments being inflicted. This idea corrupts all who embrace it and it undermines God's ability to heal hearts and minds because it incites distrust of God and keeps people from trusting Him. Further, it causes people to embrace, under the umbrella of godliness, the methods and practices of Satan so that people pursue justice through legal means, either by rule-keeping, legal pardon, lists of sins being confessed, claiming legal payments of a substitute, or through law keeping, legal behavior, right beliefs and doctrines, or through human governments to bring about the right laws to bring about social reforms. But all of this legal activity corrupts the hearts of people who seek righteousness through them.

Read bottom green question, "What did Jesus accomplish at the First Coming that gives us such assurance about the Second Coming?"

THURSDAY

Read third paragraph, "Not only does the Lord…" What do you think of these elements?

- Bestow salvation but is our salvation? What do you understand this distinction to be? The human species was saved in the person of Jesus Christ. He singly and alone overcame the infection of sin, confronted and defeated the temptations of Satan, lived out and produced a perfect sinless human character, revealed the truth about God, exposed Satan as a liar, and restored God's design law for life into the humanity He assumed. As a human, using only human abilities Jesus did all of this. Thus in Jesus the species is perfected, but Jesus also procured the remedy, truth and a new character that He offers to give to all who trust Him. Truth restores trust and a new heart and right spirit to all who accept them.
- God is with us—how?
    - God is with us in heart
    - God is with us in substance, human, like us
    - God is with us in struggle, pain, suffering
    - God is with us in overcoming
    - God is with us to comfort and encourage
    - Who is "us"? Is it Israel? Is it all humanity? Is it only those who believe?
    - What is the difference between God is with us and God is for us?
- What is the distinction between bearing our sins and become sin for us?

The bottom green section says that "Only the works that Christ did, which He credits to us by faith, can bring redemption."

What does this mean?

Through what law lens to you hear these words?

If you have the human law model then this becomes legal accounting in ledgers—God whiting out the sins and writing in Jesus' historic victory to your legal account.

It is a fraud—based on the lie that God's law works like human law, it is also contrary to the Greek, as that is not what the Greek means for accounted or accounting in Romans.

The word actually deals with reality—you cannot account something that isn't first so. You don't account that you have $50 in your bank unless you actually have $50, the account only records what is.

So, Jesus' setting us right or justifying is by faith happens in us by removing distrusting and restoring us to trust, removing selfishness and writing in us His law of love and the records of heaven merely register that reality, or not.

2021 1Q Isaiah: Lesson 6
Playing God

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

We don't often get humor in our lessons, but today we do, let's read the first three paragraphs, "After a minister…"

SUNDAY

The lesson will focus our attention on Babylon—why? What does Babylon represent?

Babylon in Scripture represents Satan's kingdom—it wars against Jerusalem—which represents God's plan of salvation.

Remember the focus of Scripture—after Adam sins, in Genesis 3, God promises the Messiah, our Savior. The rest of the OT is focused on this battle between God's agencies working to bring the Messiah and Satan's agencies working to stop it.

This is why Babylon, and the other kingdoms we see in Scripture are highlighted, because they are used by Satan to try and destroy the people through whom God will bring Jesus.

And how is Babylon described in Bible prophecy?

MYSTERY
BABYLON THE GREAT
THE MOTHER OF PROSTITUTES
AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH. (Rev 17:5 NIV84)

Fallen! Fallen is Babylon the Great!
She has become a home for demons and a haunt for every evil spirit, a haunt for every unclean and detestable bird.
3 For all the nations have drunk
the maddening wine of her adulteries.
The kings of the earth committed adultery with her, and the merchants of the earth grew rich from her excessive luxuries."

4 Then I heard another voice from heaven say:

> "Come out of her, my people, > so that you will not share in her sins, > so that you will not receive any of her plagues; (Rev 18:2-4 NIV84)

Why is Babylon a symbol of this detestable system? We see in history other nations that warred against Israel:

- Hittites
- Philistines
- Assyrians

Why are none of these the nation the Bible uses to depict as the mother of harlots, the representative of Satan's kingdom—why Babylon?

There is another nation which comes up in Bible symbolism as representing Satan's power also and that is Egypt (Rev 11:8). What does Egypt represent? How is Egypt different from Babylon and why was Babylon chosen over Egypt to represent the mother of harlots?

What is a harlot in Bible symbolism? An unfaithful person who defiles themselves or corrupts themselves spiritually with other lovers. Think of what is represented by what the harlot does (I am not trying to be too graphic, but consider the metaphor and what it represents). The harlot is intimate with people not her spouse, she lets others, not her husband enter her and deposit their seed. The harlot represents those people who are intimate with gods other than Jesus—they let the other gods into their heart and plant their weed-seeds, their lies, their falsehoods, into their hearts.

Understanding the symbolism of the harlot, why isn't Egypt the mother of harlots—why Babylon?

What is the wine of Babylon that all the nations drink and get intoxicated upon? What does wine do? It confuses the thinking, impairs the judgment, while making people feel good. So Babylon has something that people ingest that confuses their thinking, impairs their judgment, and makes them feel good. Something different comes from Egypt, which makes Babylon the mother of harlots and the distributor of an intoxicating brew of lies.

If we focus on the nation of Israel as the agency through which Messiah and salvation come—what is the difference between Egypt and Babylon?

Didn't both nations hold God's people as slaves? So what is the difference?

Egypt was led by Pharaoh who denied God's existence—"who is God that I should know Him."

Babylon was led by Nebuchadnezzar who initially denied God but later accepted Him.

Now consider the sin of adultery—can you commit adultery against someone you have never known? For instance, can you cheat on your wife if you have never married? So, Egypt doesn't represent a harlot because Egypt represents those who never knew God, those who deny God. Egypt represents evolutionism, secularism, communism.

But Babylon represents those who accept God—but they betray Him. How?

- What else is unique about Babylon compared to other nations of the world who attacked Israel?
- What would make Babylon the mother of all the harlots and what is the wine that intoxicates the world getting the nations to commit adultery with her?
- And how are the people of God are caught up in this so much that God gives a special call for them to come out of Babylon?

Of the various nations that war against Israel, Babylon is the first to create a legal code, the Code of Hammurabi. In other words, Babylon is the first of these abusing nations to most accurately represent Satan's law and Satan's government and Satan's methods and to create the imposed law system as a form of righteousness or justice that every nation of the world drinks. This imposed law worldview as a means of justice is the wine that intoxicates the world. And the code of Hammurabi was law enacted at the behest or with the authority of their god—in other words the idea that this is how God operates and it is by God's will and through His power it is enforced. In God we trust! And when Nebuchadnezzar was converted he immediately passed imposed laws in regard to worshipping the God of Daniel.

So Babylon represents those who claim to worship God, but betray the Creator God and instead give their love, affection and hearts to an imperial dictator who makes up rules like humans do, and must use power to inflict punishment for sin, requiring legal payments to pay for sin. This false view will ultimately lead to the formation of the beast of Revelation that will seek social justice through human governments.

Recently, I received in the mail the book The Subversion of Christianity by Jacques Ellul. It was sent without any note so I don't know who sent it. I want to thank whomever sent it. I am finding it quite insightful. If any of you want a very deep and insightful book, this is a great book. But be warned, it is written for the academic, it is not an easy read.

He describes the process of how Christianity became subverted and points out several keys to the subversion. As immorality began to rise in society and the Christian populace, the church responded with more rules and law.

Ellul writes:

> "The popes use laws to fight the corruption of the clergy. The church uses organization in its fight for unity…the church's reaction to the encounter with immorality, its immense attempt to enforce law and morality, and its reply to loose conduct in the ethical fields is closely connected with the error of confusing the church and society… The perversion, then, was that of making the gospel into law…the mistake was dealing with these on the moral and legal plane instead of following the example of Paul, who always works through the moral question to the spiritual question, gets back to the essence of the revelation in Christ, and from this derives some models of conduct that are consistent with faith and love. The church did not do this. It thus set itself on the same level as the world and treated moral matters on the moral plane." p. 88-89.

"Catholic Christianity becomes the state religion and an exchange takes place: the church is invested with political power, and it invests the emperor with religious power...We have to say very forcefully that we see here the perversion of revelation by participation in politics, by the seeking of power. The church lets itself be seduced, invaded, dominated by the ease with which it can now spread the gospel by force (another force than that of God) and use its influence to make the state, too, Christian. It is great acquiescence to the temptation Jesus himself resisted, for when Satan offers to give him all the kingdoms of earth, Jesus refuses, but the church accepts, not realizing from whom it is receiving the kingdoms…Christianity became the state religion…It is frightening to see how easily the church accepts all this. Hardly had it emerged from persecution before it itself began to persecute…The church is a political power but it is always at the service of the political power that is either in place or in the course of being installed…

"It will be republican under a republic as it is monarchist under a monarchy. Irrefutable theological arguments are always found. A monarchical regime reflects the monarchical unity of God. A republic reflects the people that God elects for himself on earth. Democracy shows that God associates himself with the will of the peoples. The tradition was already well established when in the sixth century the idea was formulated that the acts of God in history were performed through the Franks. The church could then become National Socialists (the German Christians) when Hitler came to power. IT could become communist (with notorious figures like Berecski and Hromadka) in communist countries. Each time it develops a theological argument to show that the power that has been set up is good…Once the church is read to associate with instituted power it is obliged to associate with all and sundry forms of the state…When the church becomes socialist in the support of a socialist regime, it may stress the theological themes of poverty and justice…

"The church's fault is to be found in the process of justify political power and action." p.124-126 we read:

Do you see the historical progression away from design law, the truth, love, freedom of God restored in the heart through trust in God, to a system of imposed law with rules and morality codes enforced externally? This is Satan's world, Satan's system of imposed law and the church embraces it, and all the world now embraces this method and commits adultery with her.

Egypt represents the other system—the system of godlessness. So in Bible symbolism Babylon represents religious imperialism, the false god-construct of imposed law, and Egypt represents godlessness, evolutionism, secularism, communism etc. Both are Satan's kingdom.

In Isaiah 14 and Ezekiel 28 the Bible describes Lucifer's rebellion in heaven and his desire to rise above and take the throne of God.

Consider that—how is it that God is above humans and angels? It is by reality—by His nature that being God, Creator, an infinite being—He is in reality above all others.

How did Satan seek to rise above—is it by his nature or is it by fiat, declaration, proclamation, imposition, legislation?

Notice not only the reality differences of their nature, but also the difference in their methods. Satan, who is not in nature above others, seeks to elevate himself above others, but reading from Philippians 2:

Christ Jesus:
6 Who, being in very nature God,
did not consider equality with God something to be grasped,
7 but made himself nothing,
taking the very nature of a servant,
being made in human likeness.
8 And being found in appearance as a man,
he humbled himself
and became obedient to death—
even death on a cross!
9 Therefore God exalted him to the highest place and gave him the name that is above every name…(Philippians 2:6-9 NIV84)

God, whose nature is infinite, runs His universe by giving of Himself, sacrificing Himself to uplift those beneath Him—this is the kingdom of love. Satan, who is not by nature above others, seeks to elevate himself above others.

All kingdoms of this sinful world are built on Satan's system, a few ruling elites elevate themselves above others and take from the masses to elevate themselves. Whereas God gives of Himself to elevate the masses.

Look at the history of the world:

- Pharaoh's of Egypt
- Emperor's of China and Japan
- Kings of Babylon, Persia, Greece, Rome
- Kings and Queens of the nations of Europe

Every kingdom of the world has elites ruling over the masses, not by nature, not because they are inherently higher or greater but by rules, imposed laws, they take from the masses, the pass laws to tax, to restrict land or business ownership, or privilege, even one's freedom as a human being enslaving some throughout history—all through imposed laws.

This power over others system is Satan's world and Satan's kingdom and Babylon is the mother of all these harlots who prostitute themselves with the merchants of the world, selling their virtue for riches—those who believe in God but embrace Satan's methods. Egypt is also Satan's kingdom and represents all those nations who deny God, like China, North Korea—but who also set up a few ruling elites to exploit the masses. And Satan pits these two systems against each other and wars them back and forth with God's people in the middle—but who primarily get caught up in Babylon because Babylon professes a belief in God.

God's people are called to come out of Babylon to leave the systems of imposed laws and imposed penalties, to stop seeking to achieve social justice through more laws, more rules and more punishments. To seek justice by loving every person as God loves us, to give glory to God because the hour in human history has come for people to see God for who He really is, the Creator who made the heavens and earth and sea and whose laws are design laws, not imposed Babylonian rules.

Sunday's lesson asks us to read Isaiah 13, I hope you have done this as we don't have time to read it today. This chapter describes threatenings, wrath, and consequence such as war, Babylon and the Medes conquering and the killing and suffering that happens.

In the bottom green section the lesson asks a series of questions, let's examine them:

- "Why does a loving God do these things, or allow these things to happen? Certainly some innocent people will suffer, as well, wouldn't they? How do we understand this action by God?"
    - What law lens are we thinking through? If imposed law lens what does innocent mean? Not having personally done any wrong, so infants are innocent. If thinking through design law lens what does innocent mean—not infected with sin—no carnal nature, no fear and selfishness. In other words, not dying from a terminal sin condition. Which is more accurate infants are innocent of sin, or infants are born in sin, conceived in iniquity and have a terminal sin condition—albeit not by their choosing?
    - And if infants have this terminal sin condition and God doesn't do anything what happens to them and every other human being in history? They die—what death the sleep death and are resurrected to eternal life, or eternal death? So, if we have design law lens do we understand there is something more going on here than just temporal life and death?
    - Why then does a loving God threaten? Why do loving parents threaten their children who play in the street? In a child's mind what is wrong with playing in the street? Mommy will spank! The loving parent steps between the child and the real problem, violations of the laws of health/physics when the child's body is hit by a car, and allows the child to think the problem is the inflicted punishment from the parent—until the child grows up and understands the problem was never the parent. This is the OT, God steps between His immature children and reality and allows Himself to be viewed as the inflictor of punishment to protect them from the real consequences of violating His design laws for life. So God threatens in love to protect until we grow up and know like Moses, there is no need to be afraid of God.

  - Why does God allow the wars and injustice to occur? Because of His design law. He is love and love only exists in freedom.
- "What should these texts, and all the texts in the Bible that talk about God's anger and wrath against sin and evil, tell us about the egregious nature of sin and evil?"
  - I like how they said "and all the texts in the Bible" and if we include the Bible as a whole what does it teach about God's wrath toward sin? God actively works to eradicate sin. He hates sin because sin damages and destroys that which He loves. And what action did God actively do to combat sin, to unleash His wrath to destroy sin? God sent His Son to become sin so that through Jesus He might take away the sin of the world and make us the righteousness of God.
  - If God's wrath toward sin is Jesus actively working to destroy sin, truth eradicating lies, love overcoming fear and selfishness, then what is God's wrath toward unrepentant sinners?
    - If one accepts Babylon's view of imposed law then one teaches God's wrath is God inflicting torment, pain, suffering and death to punish sinners.
    - But we are called out of Babylon, we have a message to return to worship the Creator whose laws are design laws. And in that view, God wrath is exactly what the Bible teaches and described so effectively by Paul in Romans 1:18-30—it is letting them go to reap what they have chosen—because that is how design law works. Only imposed law, Satan's kingdom, requires the infliction of punishment. Even at the Cross when Jesus experienced God's wrath, what did the Father do to the Son? Let Him go, gave Him up. So the evidence is clear. Any ideas of God's wrath being God using power to inflict pain and suffering is a lie of Satan.
  - Is there a difference between sin and evil?
    - Sin is a condition of being out of harmony with God and God's design law for life. We are born in sin and conceived in iniquity, but we are not born evil.
    - Evil is the embracing and choosing of the methods of sin, of the methods of fear and selfishness and the pursuit of those methods in the treatment of others. In other words, evil is putting sin into practice and exploiting, hurting, and harming others.
    - Does God hate sin and evil? Absolutely, does He hate sinful and evil people? No—He loves them.
- "Isn't the mere fact that a God of love would respond this way enough evidence to show us just how bad sin is?"
  - No—the evidence of how bad sin is, is in what sin does
  - God's response is evidence of God's love, but the destruction and harm that sin causes reveals how bad sin is.
- "We have to remember that this is Jesus speaking these warnings through Isaiah, the same Jesus who forgave, healed, pleaded with, and admonished sinners to repent. In your own mind, how have you come to understand this aspect of a loving God's character? Ask yourself this question, as well: Could not this wrath actually stem from His love? If so, how so? Or, look at it from another perspective, that of the Cross, where Jesus Himself, bearing the sins of the world, suffered worse than anyone else ever has suffered, even those 'innocents' who suffered because of the sins of the nations. How does the suffering of Christ on the cross help answer these difficult questions?"

- Does God's wrath stem from His love? Absolutely, what is the only act that love can take and still be love if some insists on leaving you? Let them go! Even if it results in their death. This is God's wrath, letting go those whom He loves because they insist on severing their connection with Him. And when the life-giver lets go, what happens?
- What does it mean that Christ bore "the sins of the world"? What law model do you view it through? When we accept Satan's lie of imposed law, then sins are bad deeds and Jesus "bearing" them means every act of sin was placed on Christ and had to be punished. So Jesus gets punished by God for all our sins.
    - Remember this quote from *The Desire of Ages: "*In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice." DA 761.4
- It is Satan's view that our sins were punished in Jesus, because once you accept the view God's law functions like human law then justice requires infliction of punishment. So false theologies come forward in which people teach that ever sin of every person through all time were placed on Jesus and God punished Him for every sin using power to make the Son suffer and then legally executing Him in our place.
- This is all a lie and a perversion, which makes God out to be cruel, unjust as He is willing to punish an innocent and let the guilty off, and makes God out to be the source of pain and death. All of which leads to distrust of God and obstructs the true plan of salvation which requires we trust God and open the heart to Him.
- Through design law lens we realize that Christ took upon Himself the sinfulness of the world, the sin-infected condition that Adam brought upon the world. Jesus came as the second Adam to remedy or fix the damage which Adam did to the species. Thus He was tempted in all ways like us but chose with His human abilities to reject all temptation, live sinlessly and develop a perfect character. He became sin though He knew no sin so that we might become the righteousness of God. At the cross He experienced the pain and suffering that sin brings, but not that God inflicts. In fact, it was God working cooperatively with Jesus for them to fulfill their joint purpose in eradicating sin and saving humanity.
- We believe that Jesus did suffer more than any other person in history, but how? Certainly not physically, there are many examples of people being tortured much longer and more severely than Jesus. How did Jesus suffer more than any other?
    - What was the cause of the greatest suffering, the physical or the mental/emotional? The mental emotional—and what caused that suffering to be the greatest? The loss of the connection with His Father. Think about it this way—if you were told you could never see or speak to Vladimir Putin again how distressing would that be for you? If you were told that you would never be able to see or speak with your spouse or child again how painful would that be for you? What is the point? The greater the love connection the greater the pain when it is severed. God and Jesus had a connection of love and intimacy that was infinite—beyond our ability to understand and process and on the Cross Jesus had that connection severed in order to save us? Why? Under the false imposed legal model we are told because God had to punish Him. But in reality, under design law model, it was not for punishment sake it was for healing, redeeming, for fixing the sin problem, for eradicating the cause of death and restoring life into the species human. Jesus could not complete His mission to save humanity without eradicating the infection of fear and selfishness. This means He had to face death, the temptation to save self, and had to choose to surrender His life voluntarily and not choose to act to save self. In so doing the law of love was restored fully into the humanity He assumed and the infection of fear and selfishness was purged. Thus He destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light. This was only possible if the Father who is the source of life, let Him go. Thus the Father was in the Son reconciling the world to Himself. It was their joint purpose, carried out through the Son and they acted cooperatively to achieve it.

- So Christ's sufferings on the Cross reveal God's infinite sacrifice to eradicate sin and bring remedy so all can be saved, even those who suffer in this world from no fault of their own

WEDNESDAY

The lesson asks why does Babylon later refer to Rome? Imperialism, Babylon the first system that that interacted with Israel, professed a belief in God and had an imperial legal code, including for worship. Rome is the other major system that arose which interacted with Israel, then accepted a belief in Christ but infected Christianity with Babylon's wine of imperial law, that God's law works like human law and that justice is punishing sin.

Read second paragraph, "Like literal Babylon…" The lesson also reminds us of Jacob's dream where he sees Jesus standing at the top of the ladder at Bethel which means the house of God and the house of God is the gate of heaven—and the real house or temple of God is???? Jesus who said, "destroy this temple and in three days I will raise it up again."

The temple at Jerusalem was an object lesson for Jesus and then for us who are built together into a house for God. Thus, the two systems, Babylon which is built on imposed law and seeks to lift up self over others, and Jesus who humbles self to lift us up and we become like Him in character and also seek to serve others not lord over them.

THURSDAY

read last paragraph, "Look at Isaiah…" Is this a pointless argument or the central point in the entire argument?

Does it make a difference to God's character if sin kills or if God kills?

Would it make a difference in your ability to trust your parent or your doctor if you believed that if you disobeyed your mother or doctor's instruction not to smoke that they would kill you rather than you would die of cancer?

Does it make a difference?

Why does it come when it comes? This argues that God decides when and how and whom, is that right?

Who decides whether someone is saved or lost, God or that person?

Does God's judgment of that person determine their salvation or merely diagnoses accurately the condition of their heart—healed or hardened? What determines whether a heart is healed or hardened? Who decides that?

And what determines when the final events take place? Why does God wait? God has the power to come today, why doesn't He? Because He want all to be saved and who decides? What determines the condition of hearts? Their choices, not God's…so is the delay evidence of God forcing His way or God operating in harmony with the principles of freedom?

What about the manner of their death? What causes the suffering? An infliction by God or the natural result of unremedied sin when God grants them their choice?

Remember this quote from

> Those who have chosen Satan as their leader and have been controlled by his power are not prepared to enter the presence of God. Pride, deception, licentiousness, cruelty, have become fixed in their characters. Can they enter heaven to dwell forever with those whom they despised and hated on earth? Truth will never be agreeable to a liar; meekness will not satisfy self-esteem and pride; purity is not acceptable to the corrupt; disinterested love does not appear attractive to the selfish. What source of enjoyment could heaven offer to those who are wholly absorbed in earthly and selfish interests? GC 542.1
> Could those whose lives have been spent in rebellion against God be suddenly transported to heaven and witness the high, the holy state of perfection that ever exists there,—every soul filled with love, every countenance beaming with joy, enrapturing music in melodious strains rising in honor of God and the Lamb, and ceaseless streams of light flowing upon the redeemed from the face of Him who sitteth upon the throne,—could those whose hearts are filled with hatred of God, of truth and holiness, mingle with the heavenly throng and join their songs of praise? Could they endure the glory of God and the Lamb? No, no; years of probation were granted them, that they might form characters for heaven; but > they have never trained the mind to love purity; they have never learned the language of heaven, and now it is too late. A life of rebellion against God has unfitted them for heaven. Its purity, holiness, and peace would be torture to them; the glory of God would be a consuming fire. They would long to flee from that holy place. They would welcome destruction, that they might be hidden from the face of Him who died to redeem them. The destiny of the wicked is fixed by their own choice. Their exclusion from heaven is voluntary with themselves, and just and merciful on the part of God. GC 542.2

> Like the waters of the Flood the fires of the great day declare God's verdict that the wicked are incurable. GC 543.1

Why are the wicked tortured? Is it because God inflicts it, or God merely sets them free to reap what they have sown, that God stops shielding them from reality and they have full exposure to sin in their beings?

Why are they out of heaven? Voluntarily! Who determines their unfitness for heaven? Why do they suffer in unveiled truth and love?

2021 1Q Isaiah: Lesson 7
Defeat of the Assyrians

by Tim Jennings (announcements last page)

SABBATH

This week we are examining the story of the defeat of the Assyrians when they attacked Judah at the time of Hezekiah.

If you lived in Judah at that time, with an army of 185,000 pressing down upon the city, an army that has just defeated every other major power in the region, what would you think and feel?

Why are these events recorded in Scripture?

> "Now these things occurred as examples to keep us from setting our hearts on evil things as they did." (1Corinthians 10:6 NIV84)

What is the example for us today?

Do we live in times when enemies surround us? Are all of our enemies military powers or enemies that use physical force? Could we be surrounded by spiritual enemies?

In fact, in the OT we not only have the record of real historical events, but the events themselves serve as object lessons for the larger spiritual realities. Jerusalem represents God's kingdom; the Assyrians represents the powers of the world or of Satan's kingdom.

The Assyrians will use a variety of tactics to try and conquer Judah. Did Judah win this battle by fighting with their own power? Is there a spiritual lesson for us when we are being attacked by spiritual forces?

What are the weapons the devil uses to attack?

He is the Father of lies—deception, falsehood originated with Satan, and lies believed breaks the circle of love and trust and results in fear and selfishness—the me-first survival drives.

As soon as Adam and Eve sinned they ran and hid because they were afraid.

This fear driven me-first survival instinct is the playground of the enemy and his various weapons or powers are used to increase fear and inflame selfishness which gives him greater control over people ultimately destroying love and the fruits of the Spirit out of the hearts of people who embrace the fear.

The Bible identifies at least six powers that Satan uses:

- First power is the power of lies—so deception—and the title of MONDAY's lesson is PROPAGANDA

What is propaganda?

- information, ideas, or rumors deliberately spread widely to help or harm a person, group, movement, institution, nation, etc.
- the deliberate spreading of such information, rumors, etc.

Propaganda is information with a specific agenda—to influence people or groups in specific ways. In other words, propaganda is information designed to get people to join sides, causes, take action or refuse to take action.

Is propaganda honest and truthful information? No—because propaganda is shaped information; it is spin; it is crafted, it will purposely highlight some facts and ignore other facts to present the information in such a way as to lead to the conclusions those who make the propaganda intend. Further, propaganda agents will not present the whole truth or full truth and will purposely obstruct or exclude or silence voices that would present evidence which undermines the propaganda.

In Hezekiah's day we see this in chapter 36 when the Assyrian king sent a representative to propagandize Judah notice what he says, in verses 4-7:

> On what are you basing this confidence of yours? 5 You say you have strategy and military strength—but you speak only empty words. On whom are you depending, that you rebel against me? 6 Look now, you are depending on Egypt, that splintered reed of a staff, which pierces a man's hand and wounds him if he leans on it! Such is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all who depend on him. 7 And if you say to me, "We are depending on the LORD our God"—isn't he the one whose high places and altars Hezekiah removed, saying to Judah and Jerusalem, "You must worship before this altar"? (NIV84)

What is the propaganda?

- We have a strong army and Egypt is weak, you can't rely on them to protect you
- You can't depend on your God, why? Because Hezekiah has removed the altars—do you see the propaganda? Hezekiah did go about removing the altars in the high places—all the altars except at the Temple in Jerusalem. They take this fact and spin it to say Hezekiah was offending God, Hezekiah was resisting God, Hezekiah was being unfaithful to God. Therefore God won't protect you—so be afraid of us, don't resist, surrender.

Consider this description by Ellen White of what someone did with her writings:

> I have been made very sad in reading the pamphlet that has been issued by Brother Stanton and by those associated with him in the work he has been doing. Without my consent, they have made selections from the Testimonies, and have inserted them in the pamphlet they have > published, to make it appear that my writings sustain and approve the position they advocate. In doing this they have done that which is not justice or righteousness. Through taking unwarrantable liberties they have presented to the people a theory that is of a character to deceive and destroy. In times past many others have done this same thing, and have made it appear that the Testimonies sustained positions that were untenable and false. RH August 22, 1893, par. 1

What is it they were doing? Propagandizing—taking quotes and misapplying them to make it appear that Mrs. White said or supported a position she didn't actually support.

Do we see any examples of propaganda being used today? Do you see how the media has made an artform out of lies, falsehoods, distortions, manipulation of information all designed to get people afraid and get them to draw conclusions that the propagandizer wants? If you haven't read my blog this week about a listener concerned that I have been foolish, I would encourage you to do so. It examines the concerns, but while I don't use the word propaganda in my blog, you will see that the listener has accepted a lot of propaganda. In fact, most of the critical emails I receive are from people who have not separated facts from spin, from interpretations of the media that craft the stories in such a way to create a certain picture.

Here is an example, the propaganda around hydroxychloroquine and whether it is a safe medication or a dangerous one?

First the facts:

- hydroxychloroquine has been around on used for more than 65 years and was approved by the FDA for use in the US in 1955
- It is on the WHO's list of essential medicines
- billions of doses have been given
- it is so safe it is given to babies, the elderly, pregnant women and is routinely done so around the world
- it is an over the counter medicine in many countries of the world including France
- In many countries the citizens take a dose once a week to prevent malaria

Now the propaganda:

- In 2020 the US propaganda machine decided it needed to make people believe this is a dangerous medication, unsafe, deadly, and that taking it could kill you.
- Two articles were published in two of the world's most respected medical journals The Lancet and NEJM in 2020 both claiming that hydroxychloroquine is dangerous. The Lancet study claimed to have over 90,000 people from multiple countries. These articles were used by the media to blanket the country with story after story of how dangerous this medicine is and allege that the president is foolish for suggesting it could be used. Yet, when conscientious doctors began to investigate the veracity of these two articles it was discovered that they were fabricated, made up, false, a fraud and the both the Lancet and NEJM retracted the articles. Yet, the media did not report this, there was no media storm calling out the fraud and the danger to the health of millions of Americans caused by these false articles. Instead, the media suppressed the retraction so the fear of this medication would remain. That is propaganda. Influencing the population to be terrified of a medicine with a long track record of safety—why? Just look at outcomes, impacts, consequences, what has happened in the past year with the propaganda machine in American promoting its fear messaging—are we seeing more unity or more division? Are we seeing more freedom or erosion of freedoms? Are we seeing more or less governmental power and control and coercion? Whose system is this?

Understand, there are facts and then there are interpretations of facts. Propaganda machines will take facts, like Hezekiah destroyed the altars in the high places, and then spin them or interpret them to say something false, like Hezekiah is disloyal to God or has offended God.

I could give you a long list of facts that have been propagandized in this country this past year, but I won't because inevitably some will accuse me of being political, when I am merely trying to free your minds from spin and get you to differentiate facts from interpretation of facts. I will leave it with you. In fact, I would give you this suggestion—make a list of five stories in the headlines and then separate the facts from the spin, the interpretation, and propaganda. This will be a very helpful exercise to train your mind to think for yourself.

- So Satan's first weapon is lies
- The Bible refers Mammon or money as one of Satan's powers, but it is not merely money or currency, but human economics that is part of Satan's kingdom. The kingdoms of the world are Satan's and they operate upon imposed law, which is made up rules, and they also operate upon economic practices that are made up and exactly opposite of God's kingdom.
    - What is the core reality, belief, foundational fact that all human economies operate upon?
    - The law of buying and selling and owning—nothing is free in this life we must pay for it; we must own it, we must purchase it with money, or labor, or trade, but there is nothing free. And the more we own the safer, more secure we are.
    - Is this how God's economy works? Or does God's economy work on free giving, everything that lives gives, gives freely without expectation of payment?
    - Mammon—the system of human economics is the system built where nothing is free, everything is bought and sold, and we are owners, we earn our way. The prices are also all arbitrary—money is an arbitrary construct. Property ownership is arbitrary—who can own, do you have mineral rights, can you drill or frack etc. all made up rules. This is opposite or unlike God's system where the CO2 we give to the plants is exactly what we produce based on the metabolism of our bodies. It is determined by design laws of physiology that govern those processes. But human economics are not natural, are not free giving, they are artificial and arbitrary just like human laws.
        - And this has corrupted the gospel of grace. We teach that Jesus came to pay our penalty that grace is not free it must be purchased. Protestants argue that we have nothing with which to pay for our salvation so Jesus paid with His sinless blood. Catholics argue it is a combination of Jesus' sacrifice and our good works that pay or buy our salvation. As always Satan sets up two false systems and gets people to pick one and neither is true.

    - Interestingly Marxism identifies this evil of ownership of property as evil, and proposes a solution—that no one can own anything except the state. In that system, which is supposed to solve the problem of worldly selfishness and ownership, the property is all owned by the state and the state is supreme over everything including the individual and the individual is only useful as long as they serve the state. People become the property of the state instead of people owning property. It is even a grosser perversion of God's economy than typical human economics. But again Satan sets up two false systems and plays them off each other.
- God's economy is the kingdom of love and giving and grace and it is all free and no one pays for it. The metaphors of payment are not economic, they are objective achievement. If you donate a kidney to save your child you "pay a high price" but it isn't an economic price it is the giving of love, of self-sacrifice that reality requires to save and heal. God and Jesus did pay a price, but it wasn't economic, it was what love does to save, what the reality of our condition required be done in order to heal our hearts and minds and restore us to eternal life.
- It is fear and selfishness that causes people to want more money or more stuff to make them feel secure. It is fear that causes people to want to own or possess property because in so doing it makes them feel secure. It is fear that causes jealousy when we see others with more stuff than we have. It is fear that drives selfishness and the actions to get more for self.
- And the Assyrians used economics to try and tempt Judah:
    - "This is what the king of Assyria says: Make peace with me and come out to me. Then every one of you will eat from his own vine and fig tree and drink water from his own cistern…" (Is 36:16 NIV84)
- Satan exploits us with the fear of poverty—and this fear leads us to embrace his kingdom and methods to either avoid poverty or to remedy poverty in our society—his methods of taking through imposed laws rather than giving out of love, or by jealousy of not having as much as others, which leads to Marxism where people actually surrender themselves up to the control of the state so that they can take the possessions and liberties of others.

Consider this Bible text:

> Give freely and become more wealthy;
> be stingy and lose everything.
> The generous will prosper;
> those who refresh others will themselves be refreshed. (Pr 11:24-25 NLT)

Do you see a law in this? What type of law?

Consider this historic quote from Counsels on Stewardship:

He who gives to the needy blesses others, and is blessed himself in a still greater degree… CS 13.4 [Why is it magic? Is it God divinely acting to miraculously give a blessing? Or is it how reality works? If you exercise you get stronger, if you act in love you experience greater love in your own character and more peace and joy?]

That man might not lose the blessed results of benevolence, our Redeemer formed the plan of enlisting him as His coworker… By a chain of circumstances which would call forth his charities, He bestows upon man the best means of cultivating benevolence, and keeps him habitually giving to help the poor and to advance His cause. By its necessities a ruined world is drawing forth from us talents of means and of influence, to present to men and women the truth, of which they are in perishing need. And as we heed these calls, by labor and by acts of benevolence, we are assimilated to the image of Him who for our sakes became poor. In bestowing, we bless others, and thus accumulate true riches. CS 13.5 [What did you hear in this paragraph? Did you hear any design laws at work? The law of love, the law of exertion, the law of sowing and reaping. What is God's goal for human beings? Restoration to His perfect design for life, a life of truth, love and liberty. What is Satan's goal for human beings? Destruction, to incite fear and selfishness and destroy the image of God in us, to cause division, hostility, and ultimately prevent our healing and salvation.

If God enlists human beings to be His agents to minister to others, to give, to share what we have whether it is food, clothing, money, or truth or healthy living practices, so that we not only bless others, but we ourselves are being transformed back into God's ideal as God's methods are assimilated into our hearts by practice, then what would Satan want to do? He would want to interfere with this economy, with this arrangement, with how God's design laws work. How?

What about taking the goal of helping the poor and instead of pursuing that goal through God's design laws where we practice love in benevolent giving, we instead pursue the goal through Satan's kingdom of human governments and human laws—we pass laws to tax people and take from people what they do not want to give and then we send checks out in the mail or deposit into accounts of the poor from the government.

What is the consequence? Temporal needs may be met, but do those who are taxed experience the growth in godliness of character, of practicing love and benevolence by being taxed? Do those who receive the government check experience the love of God being ministered to them by people of God who love them and care enough to help them? Are relationships formed between those in need and the people of God in Satan's system? Consider all the people Jesus healed or fed during His ministry on earth. If instead of people meeting Jesus personally, touching His robe, being touched by Him, if instead all these people received a government insurance card and went to a clinic and received a prescription would they have had the same life experience? Notice the contrast in the two economic systems—one gives freely, the other takes and seeks to control and the results on people are different.

We cannot achieve God's goals through Satan's kingdom or practicing Satan's methods. Social justice through human governments is a trap of Satan. Does that mean governments should not be benevolent, or should not have social programs—not at all. It is a false argument to suggest such a thing. We need to recognize the difference between the church and state, between grace and law, between giving and taxing. We are to live God's law in our lives and come out of Babylon.]

It is the glory of the gospel that it is founded upon the principle of restoring in the fallen race the divine image by a constant manifestation of benevolence. This work began in the heavenly courts. There God gave to human beings an unmistakable evidence of the love with which He regarded them. He "so loved the world, that He gave His only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3:16. The gift of Christ reveals the Father's heart. It testifies that, having undertaken our redemption, He will spare nothing, however dear, which is necessary to the completion of His work. CS 14.1

The spirit of liberality is the spirit of heaven. Christ's self-sacrificing love is revealed upon the cross. That man might be saved, He gave all that He had, and then gave Himself. The cross of Christ appeals to the benevolence of every follower of the blessed Saviour. [But not if we misrepresent the law of God as imposed and that Jesus died to pay a penalty to a punishing God to buy our legal freedom. Then the gospel is perverted] The principle there illustrated is to give, give. This, carried out in actual benevolence and good works, is the true fruit of the Christian life. The principle of worldlings is to get, get, and thus they expect to secure happiness; but, carried out in all its bearings, the fruit is misery and death. CS 14.2 [Do we see this in the world? Do we see that we cannot get life, health, happiness through seeking to get more? The wisdom of God is foolishness to the world. The world's systems do not understand this. Socialism is a perversion of God's system taking the goals of sharing, of beneficence and running it through Satan's imposed law system, which in every case results in exploitation, abuse and never resolves poverty or brings economic equality. It is a grand fraud that appeals to the heart of compassionate people, but believing the lie that God's law works like human law and that justice is found in the right legislation, Satan carries millions off as his captives as they supposedly seek to improve society.]

The light of the gospel shining from the cross of Christ rebukes selfishness, and encourages liberality and benevolence. It should not be a lamented fact that there are increasing calls to give. God in His providence is calling His people out from their limited sphere of action, to enter upon greater enterprises. Unlimited effort is demanded at this time when moral darkness is covering the world. Many of God's people are in danger of being ensnared by worldliness and covetousness. They should understand that it is His mercy that multiplies the demands for their means. Objects that call benevolence into action must be placed before them, or they cannot pattern after the character of the great Exemplar. CS 14.3

- Satan is the father of lies and the world's economy of buying, selling and owning.
- Satan is also the prince of this world—so worldly powers which is law, coercion and might

  - Assyria used this power against Judah marching their army to Jerusalem intending to destroy it.
  - And this is the beast of Revelation, Babylon and all the little harlots who claim to believe in God but rather than promoting God's kingdom of love which is built on design law, accept Satan's kingdom of imposed law and advance justice through law and power over others.
  - It is also the theologies of imposed law and imposed penalties such as penal substitution theology—this is part of the wine of Babylon and the system the remnant are to leave.
  - It is fear that drives people to make up rules and use power to force others to comply with their rules—whether they are through actual governments or just the rules of the hood, it is the same dynamic, fear driving people to make rules to have power over others in order to make one feel powerful and safe.
  - Satan exploits us with the fear of pain, torture, punishment, imprisonment, legal trouble and the righteous are tricked into embracing the methods of Satan and seeking justice through more law and more inflicted punishment and control
- Satan is also the accuser, so he uses accusation, allegation both internal (in our own minds) and external
  - Assyria used this power against Judah accusing Hezekiah of being unfaithful to God, accusing God of being powerless to help them
  - Satan uses accusation against us and gets us to embrace his method when we make accusations against ourselves and others
  - It is fear and insecurity in regard to our own weakness and sinfulness that causes us to project it out of ourselves and find fault with others.
  - Fear causes us to see others as threats to see the sin in others and ridicule it and attack others whether verbally or physically
  - Satan exploits us through fear of humiliation, shame, fear of ruined reputation, fear of not being loved
- He is also the devil, the tempter, the one who leads us to sin, to break God's law of love, which always injures others and results in division. So he is the author of division and hostility
  - Hezekiah was fighting against various divisions in his society, religious divisions that worshipped false gods.
  - Fear divides us economically with some getting richer by exploiting and taking from those not in power
  - Fear divides us into social classes, into political classes, into religious groups
  - Fear exploits cultural and racial differences as points of disdain where love sees cultural and racial differences as elements that enrich us and are to be celebrated
  - Satan exploits us with fear of rejection, broken relationships, abandonment, isolation, loneliness
- Satan also attacks us with the power of death—and thus Satan is the destroyer
  - Assyria threatened Judah and Hezekiah with death
  - Ultimately Satan exploits us with the fear of death both temporal and eternal—so fear of loss of health, fear of death of loved ones, fear of our own temporal death and fear of eternal condemnation, fear of hell

Do you see the object lesson of Assyria and Judah, how it is real history but it also exposes a larger reality? Do you see how today Satan surrounds us, the people of God, and attacks us on all sides with:

- lies about God, God's law and the idea we can pursue social justice through imposed law and human governmental enforcement
- worldly economics, that we can get more security, more safety by taking, hoarding, owning, buying and selling or we can make the state supreme and the owner of all—but it is still all arbitrary and imposed driven by fear
- worldly power—we can be secure with the right laws, judges, politicians or by might, coercion, force, the pressure of the state to fine, restricted liberty, imprisonment or sanction those that don't do it our way
- Accusations of all kinds but specifically accusations that God's people, those who don't embrace the propaganda, who don't embrace and promote the economics of the world, who reject the pursuit of justice through human governments will be accused of being rebels, insurrectionists, the cause of our troubles, and in order to "save lives" or "save the planet" those troublemakers must be eliminated
- Division—do we struggle with divisions in society and in the church?
- Fear of death—whether magnifying this fear through the threat from a virus, or lying about a medicine that could save lives, or falsehoods about hell and sin and the plan of salvation, it's all about inciting greater fear of death

Do you see how Satan surrounds God's people today and is attacking on all sides with his powers, just like he did with Assyria against Judah?

Was Judah able to fight Assyria with its own strength? Can we fight this battle on our own?

So, what lessons do we learn from Hezekiah?

SUNDAY

Read the last paragraph, "Just as important as military…" What is the lesson from Hezekiah for us today in battling Satan?

What are Satan's powers?

- Lies which result in fear and selfishness
- Human economics—love of money and need to own "it's mine"
- Worldly powers—human law and coercive control of others
- Accusations
- Temptation and Division
- Death and destruction

The Bible says about Jesus:

- And having disarmed the powers and authorities, he made a public spectacle of them, triumphing over them by the cross. (Col 2:15 NIV84).

- No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us. For I am convinced that neither death nor life, neither angels nor demons, neither the present nor the future, nor any powers, neither height nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord. (Romans 8:37-39 NIV84)

First point, most critical point, the central point—what is it that all of Satan's powers exploit or magnify? Fear, and what is it that casts our all fear? Love! It is God's love in our hearts that is the key, being loved and loving others. Satan wants to separate us from God's love and truth—but if we remain in God's love we are more than conquerors. But without love, real love, we will be destroyed by fear and all of Satan's methods to try and cope with fear.

How does Jesus give us victory over each of these?

- Lies which result in fear and selfishness
  - truth destroys lies wins us to trust and in trust we open the heart and receive God's love, His indwelling presence and love casts out fear, then we begin to practice that love in how we treat others
  - The ultimate truth is about God and God's law being design law
- Human economics—love of money and need to own "it's mine"
  - We reject from our hearts the value system of the world and we seek to give to others without seeking to get
  - We surrender our sense of ownership to God and anything that the world recognizes as our property we recognize as God's property and we are His stewards managing it for Him
- Worldly powers—human law and coercive control of others
  - We reject worldly powers as godly, we recognize they are all part of Satan's kingdom, using Satan's imposed law and Satan's methods of force and coercion and thus we do not seek social justice through human governments or law
  - We also reject the worldly system in our theology and reject the false penal legal theories of salvation and instead worship the Creator whose laws are design laws and intelligently cooperate with Him to practice His methods in how we deal with others
- Accusations
  - We do not accuse others but recognize accusations are what the enemy uses to incite conflict, discourage and divide.
  - We see other people, including those we think are evil, as children of God, as sin-sick, but sinners whom Jesus loves and died for, "while we were yet sinners Christ died for us."

  - So we don't accuse, but we also don't deny truth, we diagnose accurately, we understand with whom we are dealing and if we are dealing with God's enemy we don't accuse, but we also don't trust them.
- Temptation and Division
  - "No temptation has seized you except what is common to man. And God is faithful; he will not let you be tempted beyond what you can bear. But when you are tempted, he will also provide a way out so that you can stand up under it." (1Cor 10:13 NIV84)
  - Rejecting the lies, rejecting fear, rejecting selfishness and instead applying God's principles of truth, love, freedom we are peacemakers, we have unity with all those who also love God's methods—but we will not have unity with the selfish world
  - We reject the divisions of the world, racial, economic, social, cultural and we see every human being as a descendant of Adam, part of the human family, with worth and value invested by God as a child of God and all dying of the same terminal condition and in need of the same free Remedy offered in Jesus
  - So we seek to separate ourselves from the false value system of the world and have fear and selfishness cut out of our hearts
- Death and destruction
  - We trust God with our lives, health, and future—both temporal and eternal.
  - "Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil—and free those who all their lives were held in slavery by their fear of death." (Heb 2:14–15 NIV84).

In this warfare we are fighting today, as we enter into the final days of earth's history, as Satan's end-time forces advance their cause increasing the pressure, working to incite fear—what lessons can we learn from Hezekiah, and what is the balance between what we actively do and when we trust God?

Consider this historic quote

> Our faith requires us to elevate the standard of reform, and take advance steps. The condition of our acceptance with God is a practical separation from the world. The Lord calls upon us as a people, "Come out from among them, and be ye separate," "and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you." The world may despise you because you do not meet their standard, engage in their dissipating amusements, and follow their pernicious ways; but the God of heaven promises to receive you, and to be a Father unto you. "Ye shall be My sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty." 2 Corinthians 6:17, 18. {Counsels on Health 51.1}

What does it mean to come out from the world and be separate? In Revelation we are called out of Babylon—is that a call out of a geographic region or something else?

It is severing our minds and hearts from the systems, methods, practices, beliefs, views and actions of the world. We come out of the world by coming out of the pursuit of justice through human governments, by rejecting penal substitution theology, by rejecting the views of God as imperial dictator and source of inflicted pain and death, by having God's law of love written into our hearts and minds so that we live God's economy, we live to give and bless others, we speak truth in love and leave others free.

The beastly system is going to advance its agenda through some claim of justice but it will do it through human governments, laws, and coercion. We are to separate from all such actions in pursuing justice.

TUESDAY

If you read all of Isaiah 36 you will hear how the representative of Assyria not only spoke of the power of Assyria and the futility of trusting Egypt and God, but turned to the people and undermined Hezekiah's leadership. He said to the people:

> Do not let Hezekiah deceive you. He cannot deliver you! 15 Do not let Hezekiah persuade you to trust in the LORD when he says, 'The LORD will surely deliver us; this city will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria.'
> 16 "Do not listen to Hezekiah. This is what the king of Assyria says: Make peace with me and come out to me. Then every one of you will eat from his own vine and fig tree and drink water from his own cistern, 17 until I come and take you to a land like your own—a land of grain and new wine, a land of bread and vineyards.
> 18 "Do not let Hezekiah mislead you when he says, 'The LORD will deliver us.' Has the god of any nation ever delivered his land from the hand of the king of Assyria? (Isaiah 36:14-18 NIV84)

If you were Hezekiah, how would you have responded?

What did Hezekiah do?

Hezekiah tore his clothes, put on sackcloth, went to the temple and sent his agents to the prophet Isaiah asking him to implore the Lord in their behalf.

Is there a lesson for us when we see the forces of evil marching to destroy us?

We are to humble ourselves before God and ask for His cleansing of our hearts and minds, the cleansing of the Spirit temple.

God sent a message to Hezekiah:

> "Isaiah said to them, "Tell your master, 'This is what the LORD says: Do not be afraid of what you have heard—those words with which the underlings of the king of Assyria have blasphemed me. Listen! I am going to put a spirit in him so that when he hears a certain report, he will return to his own country, and there I will have him cut down with the sword.' " (37:6-7 NIV84)

What does it mean to blaspheme the name of God?

What would that look like today?

- Where is God?
- There is no God?
- God is a God of supreme justice and will punish lawbreakers?
- Justice requires we pass the right laws, get the right officials and advance God's cause through human governments?

Is there a lesson for the end time people of God in this?

Consider this description of the beast of Revelation 13:5-10:

> And he was given a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies, and he was given authority to continue for forty-two months. 6 Then he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God, to blaspheme His name, His tabernacle, and those who dwell in heaven. [What is God's name? His character—which is love. What is blasphemy? To lie about, mispresent, and how does this occur? By taking the name of God and misrepresenting God to function in character like Satan. How? By infecting the minds of people with the lie that God's law functions like human law, imposed rules. Thus God is construed to be an imperial dictator, inflictor of pain and suffering, and death, someone whom we need to pay in order not to kill us.] 7 It was granted to him to make war with the saints and to overcome them. [What kind of war? 2Cor 10:3-5. And according to Daniel this power is winning the war until the Ancient of Days does something—gives judgment or discernment to the saints. In other words, the war is the war of ideas, Satan the father of lies infects the minds of people with lies about God and is winning until the saints recover the truth about God and His design laws and begin to worship Him as Creator and they are equipped with judgment to judge the lies about God for what they are. They are able to give Him glory by revealing the truth about Him because the hour of His judgment has come.] And authority was given him over every tribe, tongue, and nation. [Authority in other versions is translated as "power," power was given the beast over all the people of the world, how? By accepting imperial law as the means to pursue justice. All the world believes this to be true. All the world will unite together in passing laws and enforcing those laws for the betterment of the planet and the world, but those laws are arbitrary rules and will require coercive enforcement. There will be erosion of liberty, there will be propaganda against those who stand up for truth, there will be economic sanctions, and the righteous who won't comply with the world's laws will be labelled as troublemakers, super spreaders, and neighbor will snitch on neighbor and people will be punished] 8 All who dwell on the earth will worship him, whose names have not been written in the Book of Life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world. [They worship by adoring, believing, embracing, and practicing the methods of the beast, the methods of imperialism and coercion] 9 If anyone has an ear, let him hear. 10 He who leads into captivity shall go into captivity; he who kills with the sword must be killed with the sword. (Revelation 13:5-10 NKJV) [Those who insist on holding others captive, using coercion will remain captive to sin and fear and selfishness, those who are willing to use the sword, the power of the state to force their way will die from unremedied sin when the sword of truth is fully wielded and their own guilt and shame destroys them]

THURSDAY

Read third paragraph, "By rejecting signs offered by God…" So Judah is surrounded by enemies and doesn't have power in itself to defeat its enemies and God provides a sign.

What is the purpose of this sign? The sign is to provide Hezekiah with evidence of God's existence, God's ability, God's faithfulness, God's promise, God's active participation in resolving the crisis—in other words the sign is to help strengthen Hezekiah's faith in the face of threat—yes or no?
